President Truman And Attlee Begin Wind-Up Sessions With General Review Before Cabinet

Washington, Dec. 8—(AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee began the wind-up sessions of their conferences on the world crisis today, and asked Vice President Barkley and members of Mr. Truman's Cabinet to meet with them.

This was taken to mean the meeting was chiefly for a review of what has been accomplished rather than being aimed at reaching further decisions.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, was called in to give a report on his flying visit to Korea.

The President and Prime Minister were reported to have reached wide agreement on European defense measures but to have had less success in welding a common front on Far Eastern policy.

The twp are understood to have decided that the precise next steps to be taken on Korea and Communist China, aside from pending moves in the U. N., must await evidence (a) as to whether United Nations forces can hold on there and (b) whether there is any chance of negotiation an acceptable settlement with the Chinese Communists.

Informed officials said the agreements cover such matters as these:

1. Europe is the primary strategic area in the conflict with Soviet communism. Its defenses must be built up with all possible speed. A supreme commander will be named promptly.

2. Each of the countries must rapidly develop its maxium defense capacity, adhering to the principle of sharing of sacrifices.

3. Creation of a system for controlling allocation of raw materials now urgently required for defense production must be speeded up.

4. There will be no voluntary withdrawal of American or British forces from Korea—meaning that if they do withdraw it will be under irresistible Communist military pressure. This assures there will be no negotiated agreement.

5. There will be no appeasement of Communist aggression in Korea, but there has been no official explanation of what is meant by "appeasement."

6. The U. S. and Britain will back the move pending in the United Nations calling on Chinese communists to end their intervention in Korea.

Claims Rebuffed

Lake Success, Dec. 8—(AP)—The seven-member United Nations Korean Commission sent the General Assembly a special report today formally challenging Soviet claims that the Chinese Communist troops in Korea are volunteers.

The report said the commission had made an on-the-spot inquiry and found that all prisoners taken by Gen. Douglas MasArthur's forces were members of regular army units and "were not volunteers in any possible meaning of the term."

Selim Sarper of Turkey read the report to the assembly's 60-nation political committee at the opening of this morning's session. The commission estimated at least 400,000 Chinese Reds are now in Korea. It said that none of the prisoners taken had the slightest idea they were fighting U.N. forces. Instead, they thought they were fighting South Koreans.

Troops Battle Desperately Toward East Korean Coast

Estimated 20,000 Men Fighting Through Chinese Death Traps For Possible Evacuation By Sea; Thousands Of Others Try To Reach Escape Port

Tokyo, Dec. 8—(AP)—Thousands of American and allied troops battled desperately to break through fiery Red Chinese traps today in efforts to reach the Korean east coast for probable mass removal by sea.

Chinese forces were reported close behind one retreating force of 20,000 at the Koto airstrip, on both sides of a canyon trail leading down to the sea, and ahead of them near their expected place of embarkation on the Sea of Japan at Hungnam.

Thousands of other allied soldiers scattered in the northeast were trying to reach the escape port.

Top American naval and marines officers conferred secretly on a ship off the stormy east coast. A U. S. Eighth Army source said some allied South Korean troops, in the far northeast, already had escaped by sea.

The big question was how many others in the northeast could reach the coast.

At the most critical spot the 20,000—U. S. Marines and doughboys and a few British — were in the midst of a tank-led drive to break out of a four-sided Chinese trap south of Changjin Reservoir.

Reds entrenched on dominating ridges and shielded by a snowstorm from allied air attack raked the column with heavy fire.

The leathernecks and infantrymen moved slowly down a steep, ice-glazed and snowy mountain trail from Koto, eight miles south of the Reservoir. Forward elements had covered five of the 45 long miles from Koto to the east coast escape port of Hungnam by Friday noontime.

Driving north to meet them was a relief column of the U. S. Third Division, trying to clear the roads into the mountains from Hungnam.

But even if the 20,000 should link up and escape that fiery defile, thousands of additional Chinese massing north of Hungnam and the nearby industrial city of Hamhung threaten to cut them off again.

A Chinese attack on the Koto airstrip behind them made the critical situation even worse. The bumpy strip is the only outside link for the trapped troops south of the Changjin.

More than 1,700 critically wounded Marines and doughboys have been flown from Koto. There were no details of the Red attack on the field.

Far north of the Reservoir, the 17th Regiment of the U. S. Seventh Division was moving through mountains swarming with Chinese but its whereabouts was not announced. The 17th withdrew from a 10-mile stretch of the Yalu River boundary of Red Manchuria. It had been the only American outfit to reach the Yalu.

Calls For Popular Demand For Prompt Economic Curbs

Sen. O'Mahoney Favors Step In 'Self Defense'; Wage-Price Controls Conceded As Inevitable By Administration

Washington, Dec. 8—(AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) today urged the American people to demand "in self defense" that the Administration invoke at once the wage and price controls which top officials conceded are inevitable.

Key officials who are in daily contact with President Truman said last night that the date when controls are imposed depends primarily on the time required to set up the necessary administrative forces.

Some word on the timing may come today from the anti-inflation top command—Alan Valentine, economic stabilization administrator, and his two chief lieutenants, Michael V. DiSalle for prices and Cyrus S. Ching for wages.

Valentine's ESA last night took its first action to restrain climbing prices, with no assurance it would succeed. It asked General Motors and Ford to suspend their announced price hikes on 1951 auto models, and eight other manufacturers to hold up any contemplated price rise. GM and Ford had no immediate comment. They said they had not seen Valentine's request.

O'Mahoney, chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, said quick action is imperative because this nation's free enterprise system is locked in a struggle with totalitarianism and Stalin expects this country to defeat itself by failure to lick the inflation problem.

He said all economic groups will suffer if there is further delay in invoking controls.

The White House late yesterday quashed reports that a declaration of national emergency and presidential orders for all-out mobilization were imminent. Acting Press Secretary Stephen T. Early said there have been general discussions of all-out mobilization. But he said there have been no decisions.

Townships List Nominations For Committeemen

To Be Voted Upon Dec. 14 By Farmers Participating In PMA Program

Nominations for the office of community committeemen were made in the 13 townships of Pitt this week under the auspices of the Production and Marketing Administration.

Those men nominated in each township will be voted upon next Thursday by fellow farmers participating in the PMA program. Three are to be elected to serve on each community committee for a 12-month period.

During the individual nominating meetings delegates to the county convention next Friday were also nominated. They will be voted on next Thursday, the highest man becoming a delegate and the second highest an alternate. The delegates will then convene at the County Agriculture Building the following day to elect a three-man county committee.

Those persons nominated for community committeemen are:

Ayden A—R. J. Collins, H. Daniel Jackson, W. O. Jolly, R. H. McLawhorn, L. B. Jackson, Heber Cannon, Jessie Lang. Delegates—Thad Hart, Sr., Eugene Smith, W. L. Stocks.

Assure Extension Of Rent Controls

House And Senate Approve Legislation; At Least Two Months More Life, Probably More, In Store For Curbs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The federal rent control program, due to expire in some areas Dec. 31, was assured today of at least another two months of life—and probably more.

Bills temporarily extending the rent law whipped through the Senate and House yesterday, and today went to conference to compromise differences.

As Senate-House conferees arranged to meet, all advance indications pointed to a 75-day extension of the present control law with inclusion of a provision simplifying decontrol procedure.

The Senate version, passed by a vote of 55 to 28, provides for a two-month extension. The House voted 221 to 152 for a three-month extension.

In effecting a compromise, Senate-House conferees were expected to split the difference and accept a Senate amendment allowing a city council to decontrol local rents by a simple council resolution rather than a formal ordinance. The House rejected a similar decontrol amendment.

As the law now stands, the main control feature of the rent law dies New Year's Eve. Thereafter, there would be no compulsory controls except in those cities and local communities now under controls which elect to retain them until June 30.

Extension of the compulsory control feature was requested by President Truman to allow the incoming congress time to review the whole rent question for some more permanent solution.

Eastern States Get Cold, Snow

Midwest Blanketed; South Gets Relief From Cold Snap

By the Associated Press ...

A surge of cold air and snow moved into the eastern states today after damaging winds and rain whipped across the storm-harrassed area.

At the same time, the midwest shoveled out of the season's heaviest snowfall and the South got some relief from a severe cold snap.

Winds of gale force which battered Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland yesterday, swept into the New England coastal region today. Shipping was hampered. Power lines were knocked out. The strong winds uprooted trees and blew off rooftops of houses in many parts of the storm belt.

The snowstorm over the midcontinent left a carpet of white measuring as much as 44 inches in northern Michigan. There was much drifting but forecasters said the winds would diminish during the day.

Rising temperatures also were in prospect, with no sub-zero predicted tonight. Snow, however, continued today over most of the north central region.

Rain pelted wide areas of the Middle Atlantic and eastern seaboard states. Gale winds of 50 to 60 miles were forecast for the New England coastal areas. Abnormally high tides were in prospect along the coast in Connecticut, Rhode Island and the Massachusetts Cape Cod area.

A few families were evacuated from shore front homes in two Connecticut towns as the wind and rain storm struck last night.

Hershey Lifts Draft Blackout On Data, Quotas

Washington, Dec. 8—(AP)—The government acted today to clear up widespread confusion over its policy concerning the release of draft news.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service boss, said virtually all information and figures will continue to be made public

His statement came after most local draft officials interpreted a directive—sent out by Hershey's office last week—to mean that henceforth little or no draft data would be released.

Contrary to this, Hershey made it clear, there is no ban on the making public—at national, state or local levels—of draft quota figures or inductees' names.

The original cramp-down directive followed a request by President Truman that government agencies tighten up publication of national security information.

Visitor Tells Of Arctic Frontier

Lecturer - Explorer Describes Hardships, Life In Far North

James V. Stowell, colorphotographer and arctic explorer, last night addressed the members of the Pitt County Executives club and their guests with his illustrated lecture "Ice Off the Starboard."

Before showing any of the pictures he took while a member of the McMillan arctic expedition during 1944, the speaker discussed the importance of the polar region in current world developments, and asserted that the polar route would be the shortest attack route between Asia and the North American continent should open hostilities break out between Russia and the United States.

In his lecture, Stowell presented a picture story of the McMillan expedition, describing the area in Canada from which the expedition began, and the events which followed during the adventure.

He described the Eskimos as "the dirtiest people in the world," pointing out that they rarely or never bathed because of the extreme climate in the region. Stowell related the experience of the members of the expedition in the polar area, and showed color pictures of the route followed by the expedition. The pictures were of the sea, icebergs, Eskimos and the life in the frozen land, and of a cod fishing trip with Newfoundland fishermen who made their way along the Labrador coast.

The speaker described the hardships which were encountered by the expedition, and related the experiences of the men who suffered through the blasts of an arctic storm.

Approximately 135 people attended the meeting which was held at the Woman's club and presided over by President John D. Messick. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Boyd were host and hostess for the meeting, and the speaker was introduced by W. J. Bundy.

Eppes School Is Now Accredited

Association Acts In Richmond Meeting; Educators Pleased

C. M. Eppes high school this week became the 29th Negro high school in North Carolina to be accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools.

The action of the association concerning the Negro high school of Greenville was taken at the annual three-day meeting in Richmond which adjourned yesterday. Only two Negro schools were accredited for the first time at the annual meeting this year. The two new acredited schools brings to 30 the total number of accredited Negro high schools in the state.

Greenville high school received at the meeting its annual renewal of the accredited rating which it has held since 1917. O. E. Dowd, principal of Greenville high school, and W. H. Davenport, principal of the C. M. Eppes school represented the Greenville school system at the meeting.

Superintendent J. H. Rose of the Greenville schools commented this morning, "The accrediting of C. M. Eppes school by the S. A. C. S. S. accomplished something we have been working for three or four years. The school now meets all the requirements of an accredited school, and ranks with the other accredited schools of the state."

Rose said approximately two and one-half years of study went into revising the curriculum, teaching staff, library and science department of the school to bring it to the necessary standards for accrediting.

"When the new South Greenville school was opened it gave us the necessary physical facilities at the C. M. Eppes school. The lack of space there held us back for a number of years. I am very proud of this accrediting which puts C. M. Eppes school on the same rating with Greenville high school," Rose declared.

Principal W. H. Davenport of the C. M. Eppes school also expressed his delight in the school's being accredited by the association. "I'm very happy myself," he commented.

In pointing out the steps which had to be taken to bring the C. M. Eppes school to the standards which were required before the school could be accredited, Davenport said the teacher load had to be reduced, the physical facilities of the school improved, new equipment acquired for some of the departments of the school and a few changes in the curriculum.

Aldermen Approve Plan For Election Revision

Proposal Calls For City-Wide Vote On Board Members; Will Require Assembly Action; Take Up Other Business

By JOHN SPINKS, JR.

A resolution passed by the Board of Aldermen last night may relieve a unique election system in North Carolina that is presently practiced in Greenville.

The resolution calls for election of all nine Aldermen in a city-wide vote, contrary to the present system in which the Aldermen are elected only by the voters in the wards they represent. The system has been in effect many years and is considered the only such voting system in the state.

The resolution must be presented to the 1951 General Assembly for approval and, if passed, will go into effect with the city elections of 1952.

Mayor Stafford stated as he read the resolution to the Board he was "not calling for a change in the number of Aldermen" but just wants to get the Aldermen on the same basis of election as are the County Commissioners.

The Board also let a contract for a new street sweeper for the Street Department after advertising of bids was approved at last month's meeting. The sweeper will cost the city $9,925 and will be supplied by the North Carolina Equipment Company. The bid was the highest of the four presented but was recommended by Department head C. K. Beatty since the city already owns a smaller model of the same make. Funds for the machine will come out of the 1951-52 budget and payment will be made, interest free, in July of next year.

Approval for curbing and gutters for 14th Street between Evans and Charles streets was approved after a petition by the property owners had been presented. The residents of the three blocks to be improved will finance the undertaking and the work will be done by the State Highway Commission. The improvement will widen 14th Street to 34feet. Curbing and gutters were also approved on 14th Street between Evans and the railroad.

On a request of the street committee, the proposed road from Hillsdale to Hooker Road was approved. The road will be used to relieve traffic conditions in that area, and particularly will give the area better school bus service.

Other requests for improvements in city streets were approved. They were presented by Hicks Corey to open up Vance Street between Fifth and Cherry streets; Floyd McGowan and Guaranty Bank and Trust Company to pave Watauga Avenue behind McGowan's Warehouse and the branch bank. A request from B. B. Drum was approved granting a subdivision of property in North Greenville adjacent to Van Dyke Street north to Mumford road.

Approval was granted to amend the budget to include cost of extending Line Avenue through to West Fifth Street. Property owners in that vicinity have stated they will give the land for the extension and the Board authorized an expenditure of not more than $475 for drawing up the deeds to the land.

A delegation representing the Pitt Bar Association appeared to request salary raises for judge and solicitor of City Recorder's Court. Hoover Taft, chairman of the delegation, and W. W. Speight spoke for the delegation, stating the present officers of the court are paid much less than other judges and solicitors in similar courts in surrounding cities. The Board took the matter under advisement, pending next

Lanier Hearing Scheduled Today In Kinston Court

A hearing in Kinston Recorder's Court this afternoon will determine if J. Con Lanier, Greenville attorney, goes on trial for charges against him in connection with the highway death of a Grifton man November 25.

Lanier was indicted two weeks ago by the State Highway Patrol for the hit-run death of Willie Henry Tripp, Grifton, on the Kinston-Grifton road at Grainger Station. A hearing was scheduled before Judge Albert Cowper of Kinston the following Friday. However, the State requested a postponement pending funeral arrangements for the dead man.

Lanier was charged with manslaughter, reckless and hit-run driving. He will be represented at the hearing by Albion Dunn, Greenville, and Jesse Jones and Fred I. Sutton, Kinston attorneys. The hearing is scheduled for 2:30.

Christmas Fund Goes For Taxes

Greenville, S. C., Dec. 8—(AP)—The year-long savings of one Greenville resident for Christmas spending went instead for 1950 city taxes yesterday.

City Clerk and Treasurer B. F. Dillard received payment of the resident's taxes in the form of a Christmas club check.

Cotton Estimate Again Lowered

Washington, Dec. 8—(AP)—Cotton production this year totaled 9,884,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, the Agriculture Department reported today.

This estimate is 61,000 bales less than forecast a month ago. It compares with last years crop of 16,128,000 bales and with the 1939-48 average of 11,599,000 bales.

Rent Control Action

Congressional Move To Extend Rent Controls Now Is Stop-Gap Action; Next Congress Will Decide Future Plans; Explanation Of Steps To Change, Ease Curbs

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Dec. 8—(AP)—There's nothing drastic in what the House and Senate did yesterday in voting to extend federal rent controls.

They simply voted to keep controls a little longer on those places which still have them and want them.

They took no action about placing controls on places which already have been de-controlled. This is a background explanation of what's been done.

This country has had federal rent controls since early in World War II. In 1946 there were 16,000,000 housing units under control, the peak number.

Now there are only about 7,500,000 units still under federal law. Congress has been steadily changing or easing the controls.

Last June it decided to try to get rid of the controls altogether within a year. It passed a law which went into effect July 1 and said:

1. All government rent controls would end Dec. 31, 1950 unless—

2. The people of a city or town, by referendum or vote of their governing body, like a city council, voted to keep the general controls until June 30, 1951. The all federal controls would vanish entirely.

Of the 7,500,000 units still under controls, local communities covering about 3,500,000 have voted to keep controls until next June 30.

That means the remaining 4,000,000, because their communities have taken no action, would go out from under federal control Dec. 31.

But since congress passed this law in June the Korean fighting started. So did the big defense program.

And since then this country has suffered a disaster in Korea, intensifying the defense program, with all that means:

Because of defense orders, some towns will boom, workers will be drawn in, housing will be needed just as those towns were beginning to breathe more easily.

Further, if the government has to slap on price and wage controls, as it may do, then this would be the situation:

Price and wage controls for the whole country but no rent controls since they would have ended Dec. 31 except for those 3,500,000 units in communities which voted to

U.S. Shipments Of Vital Goods To Reds Halted

Washington, Dec. 8—(AP)—The Commerce Department today banned American ships and planes from carrying strategic materials "anywhere in the world" destined for Communist China or Soviet Europe.

The ban is effective immediately. It applies to movement of weapons, fissionable materials or strategic industrial goods consigned between any two points outside the United States, even intermediary points if the goods are to go to those areas.

The ban likewise was made applicable to shipments destined for Hong Kong or Macao, the British and Portugese ports off China, to insure that goods will not be forwarded from those ports into Communist China itself.

Collins Says Troops Can Take Care Of Themselves

Washington, Dec. 8—(AP)—The Army Chief of Staff said on his return from Korea today that "our forces there will be able to tak care of themselves without further serious losses."

Gen. J. Lawton Collins told reporters he based his belief upon a personal inspection of the war front and conferences with Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his principal field commanders.

At the airport where he completed the trip today, he repeated what he said in Seoul several days ago that the "situation that has developed in Korea was caused by the intervention of strong Chinese communist forces."

Collins said he could not disclose publicly the details of his findings or his conversations in Korea, but that he would report fully and immediately to the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

He commented he had gone to the battle area to find out how the Army could best back up and support the U. N. forces.

Desperado Captured In Gun Battle With Cops

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 8—(AP)—A police captain was slain and two fellow officers were wounded critically in a roaring gun battle in downtown Saginaw early today.

It was the bloody outcome of a police ambuscade for a man and woman who only the night before had escaped from a similar desperado-style gun fight with officers.

This time the pair failed to escape. Police seized them just outside the city. The man was badly wounded.

But in the veritable blood bath behind them were left a dead officer and two others who barely escaped death.

Police Capt. Daniel P. Waters, 39, decorated World War II veteran of the Pacific, was killed.

Wounded were Police Detective Clarence Dietzel, 53, shot in the abdomen, and State Parole Officer Eldon Johnson, 44, shot in the chest and right hand.

Seized were Lawrence Nelson, alias Larry Edwards, 33, of Port Huron, Mich., identified as a prison parolee, and his woman companion, Mrs. Sylvia Van Conant, 35, also of Port Huron.

Police said they were the pair who shot it out with a group of officers the night before at an East Side night spot.

Appeasement Is Out

Attlee And Truman Ready To Consider Any Reasonable Peace Settlement, But The Memory Of Munich Has Killed The Talk Of Peace At Any Price; Failures

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

British Prime Minister Attlee, who is in Washington conferring with President Truman over the world crisis, has declared there will be no appeasement of Communist China.

The two heads of government are said by John Hightower, AP diplomatic expert in Washington, to appear "ready to consider any reasonable proposal for a Korean settlement if it does not call for 'appeasement' of the Chinese communists." Hightower adds:

"The postion may be roughly summarized as one favoring peace but not at any price."

Just how far the western allies would be willing to go remains to be seen. That depends on what attitude the Reds adopt.

But "appeasement" is out the window. Why is it that this term causes such revulsion? The dictionary tells us that to appease is to pacify, and that would seem to be a laudable undertaking.

Well, that's what it meant up to 1938 when British Prime Minister Chamberlain tried to appease Hitler. Since then appeasement has come to connote abject submission—a term of bitter reproach.

I feel strongly on this subject because it was my fortune to follow Chamberlain on his ill fated appeals to the Fuehrer. Those amazing meetings, in which the arrogant Hitler at times all but spat in the Prime Minister's face, were of course the forerunners of World War II.

I saw the tragedy unfold gradually in the parleys at Berchtesgaden, Godesberg and finally at Munich. I followed the Fuehrer on his triumphal entry into Czechoslovakia and heard him proclaim with raucous arrogance that not in a thousand years would the Reich withdraw from that land. Then, after a long swing through the uneasy Balkans, I headed back for England.

It's almost 12 years to the day that I arrived in London, and I was troubled, for I had encountered something which I couldn't explain with certainty. So I took my problem to one of Britain's great sentiment and policy towards Germet before, by the way. After introducing myself I put my case bluntly:

"I seem to have sensed the beginnings of a change in British sentiment and plicy towards Germany. I shall be grateful if you

December Bride Elect Feted At Luncheon On Wednesday

Miss Betsy Hellen, whose marriage to Raymond Suggs of Princeton will be solemnized on December 23, was complimented at a luncheon on Wednesday at 1:00 p.m. when Mrs. E. J. Garrett entertained at her home on Elizabeth Street.

Mrs. Garrett used gladioli and frosted holly as decorative touches in the living room. In the dining room, where places were laid for eight luncheon guests, the traditional color note of green and white was used.

The table, which was covered with a green damask cloth, was centered with a ship of matrimony. The ship, placed in a silver bowl, was made of tulle and silver wire and was filled with tiny white chrysanthemums. On the buffet was a cluster of satin wedding bells, in front of which were standing a miniature bride and groom. Tall white candles were used as an added touch.

Places were marked with bridal cards, and at Miss Hellen's place was a corsage of white rosebuds.

A two-course chicken salad luncheon was served, accompanied by after-dinner coffee, nuts and mints.

Christian Church Announcements

The proposed budget for the year 1951 will be presented to the congregation Sunday morning by the chairman of the finance committee, B. B. Sugg. Milo H. Smith, chairman of the board of officers, will preside at that part of the business session.

The choir will sing a Christmas anthem, "The Praise Carol," by Marryott and the pastor will speak on "The Bible Book of the Month—Matthew."

At 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon the choir of twenty voices will present the annual Christmas music program. The program will consist of solos, quartets, choruses. Miss Gladys Reichard of the college will augment the voices of the church choir and will sing a number or two.

The Disciples Christian Student Fellowship and the Christian Youth Fellowship will have a joint meeting on Sunday evening at 6:30.

Great Success Registered At Church Affair

The Christmas Bazaar at St. Paul's Episcopal Church was quite a success, according to information received from Mrs. J. T. Little, bazaar chairman.

More than 400 people were served at the luncheon and dinner hours, and very few of the hundreds of articles were left unsold.

The exquisite doll clothes, the hostess aprons, the handsome table linens and the delicious home-made sweets proved exceptionally popular. The holiday decorations for the Christmas tables and mantels were among the first things to be completely sold out.

There was such a crowd there when the doors opened at 10:00 a.m. that policemen had to direct the traffic. Visitors came from as far as Sanford, Wilson, Washington, Tarboro and Kinston. The citizens of Greenville gave wholehearted support to the enterprise, and it was one of the most successful events of its kind ever to be held here.

Mrs. Little said, "One of the most gratifying things about an affair of this sort is the fine spirit of fellowship, camaraderie and voluntary work shared among the ladies of the Auxiliary. The cooperation and interest which was shown on the part of all the business firms, citizens, radio station and newspaper are greatly appreciated. We feel that we have created a custom which is eagerly looked forward to from year to year by the people of Eastern Carolina."

Meadowbrook Church Holds Family Supper

Annual family night supper was held at Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church last night with approximately 130 members and guests participating in the fellowship.

Entertainment on the program included a color film titled "Meet North Carolina," a panorama of civic, social and industrial activities in the state.

Guests of the church were several members from First Church.

The Westminster Fellowship will meet for Vespers Sunday evening, 5 o'clock, at the Presbyterian Manse. Jerry Sanford will report on the Constituting Convention of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States which was formulated December 1 in Cleveland, Ohio.

The Young People will meet Sunday evening at 6:30 for vespers.

The Elders and Deacons will hold a joint meeting Sunday evening, 7:30 o'clock, in the Assembly Room of the Church.

Circle No. 1 with Mrs. Roy Coburn, Monday afternoon, at 3:30 p.m.

Circle No. 2 with Mrs. Shelley Beard, Monday afternoon, at 3:30 p.m.

Circle No. 3 with Mrs. Hinton Best, Monday afternoon, at 3:30.

Circle No. 4 with Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Jr., Tuesday evening, at 8:00.

Circle No. 5 with Mrs. W. C. Clark, Sr., Monday evening, at 8:00 p.m.

Circle No. 6 with Mrs. Earl Stokes, Tuesday evening, at 8:00 p.m.

The Christmas Tableaux will be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights, December 13 and 14. The tableaux will be presented twice each evening, presenting the three scenes in a forty-five minute period each time. The first presentation of the tableaux is at 7:30 and the second presentation is at 8:15. The public is cordially invited to attend and to use the Fifth Street parking lot.

At the West Greenville Sunday School:

December 17 at 5 o'clock a Christmas service of carols and the telling of the Christmas Story by scripture and picture.

December 22 — The Christmas Party

At First Presbyterian Church:

December 17 at 7:30 o'clock the annual Candlelight and White Gift Service. The service this year will be marked by the bringing of gifts by families in the Church for the needy in our Church and community. Each family is asked to wrap its gift of food or clothing or toys or money in white paper.

December 20 at 8 o'clock — The Young People's Christmas Party.

December 21 at 7:30 o'clock—The Children's annual Christmas Tree Party.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
December 8, 1910

Miss Olive Morrill of Snow Hill is visiting relatives here.

N. W. Outlaw went to Ayden today.

The day laborers employed by this town on strect and like work have struck for higher wages. They were paid a dollar a day. Now they insist upon a quarter more. Some of them do not do more than a quarter's worth of work in a day. Thus far the authorities have not seen the raise."—Tarboro Southerner.

Yuletide Note In Clubs' Programs

Home demonstration programs for the month of December will concern Christmas decorations and gift wrapping and are being presented in the 22 demonstration clubs throughout the county.

These demonstrations are in the form of exhibits and include such ideas as shoe-box Santa Clauses, lamp-shade snow men, wreaths from gilded magnolia leaves, and making Christmas candles. The packages are wrapped as jewel encrusted boxes, candles, firecrackers and snow men.

Club women will be told the simplified method of gilding and how to make unbreakable tree ornaments. Christmas candles can be made in milk cartons with old candles welded together by pouring hot tallow into the carton in which a wick has been placed.

These ideas and others will be presented to show how Christmas decorations and gift wrapping can be done easier with more of a novel effect.

Draft Blackout To Stand Until Change Ordered

Raleigh, N.C., Dec. 8—(AP)—A blackout on draft information in North Carolina will stand until orders to the contrary are received from Washington.

This was reported today by Col. T. H. Upton, state selective service director.

Upton revealed yesterday that the blackout had been imposed as the result of a directive issued by President Truman on Nov. 17 to all governmental agencies placing a "limitation on the publication and dissemination of statistical information by agencies of the government in the interest of national security." The order was relayed to Upton through Gen. Lewis Hershey, national selective service director.

Asheville Mayor Urges Prayers

Asheville, N.C., Dec. 8—(AP)—Mayor Clarence E. Morgan today called on the people of Asheville to pray for peace.

In a proclamation, he requested all of our people go to their accustomed places of worship this weekend and devoutly and earnestly pray that God in His mercy and goodness will direct the hearts and consciences of the leaders and peoples of the world toward peace."

The mayor said he issued the appeal at the request of clergy and laity of all faiths and races."

Miss Hellen Honoree At Card Party Thursday

Miss Betsy Hellen, December bride-elect, was honored last night at a bridge party given by Mrs. W. L. Hall and Miss Jane Hall at their home on West Fourth Street.

The Christmas motif was used in decorations in the hall and living room and carried out in the freshments. Bridge was played at three tables, and Mrs. I. J. Edwards, Jr. won high score prize. The floating prize went to Miss Elizabeth Kittrell. The hostesses gave the honor guest silver in her pattern.

Block ice cream, party cakes, nuts and mints were served to: the honoree, the Misses Jane Massey, Betsy Nobles, Joyce Corbette, Elizabeth Kittrell, and Pat Waldrop, and Mesdames Earl Kittrell, Charles Braswell, Henry Andrews, Jr., I. J. Edwards, Jr., Ben Harrison, and J. B. Kittrell, Jr. Mrs. E. W. Hellen, mother of the bride-elect, joined the group for refreshments.

City's Dog Problem Draws Court Wrath

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court today, reports of dogs running at large on the city's streets, attacking children, killing neighbor's chickens in yards, attacking letter carriers and newspaper delivery boys, aroused the wrath of Judge J. W. H. Roberts in Police Court.

Reports were that many of the dogs are not registered with the police and do not have license tags on their collars.

"I am going to strictly enforce the law on the violators of the dog ordinances," His Honor declared.

Judge Roberts sentenced David Harris, colored, to 30 days in jail or pay $20 for allowing his dog to roam the streets.

A neighbor on Fleming street testified that Harris' dog had gone into her yard and killed two chickens and maimed a rooster. Harris denied ownership of the dog, but an officer testified that after the first complaint he had temporarily locked up the dog in a privy on his premises.

Humane officer Enoch Elisha Jones, in charge of the city dog pound, testified that he had complaints from other persons that this dog had killed many chickens. The dog has been killed.

Percy Daniels, colored, 909 Cherry street, was fined $20 for allowing his dog to run at large and not registering the dog. Daniels was arrested on complaint of Postmaster J. Knott Proctor that this dog frequently attacked a mail carrier. Daniels must pay $20 or go to jail.

While court was still in session, the dog catcher was called to the High School to look after a dog that had been run over and badly injured.

Another report came from Charles street near the Westbrook Apartments, that a dog was in the neighborhood with a steel trap attached to one of its feet.

Another report was from a resident of Lewis street who complained that dog owners let their dogs out at night to prowl around and that dogs were a nuisance in her yard.

The humane officer reported later that the injured dog near the High School was a black male cocker spaniel with white feet and weighs about 20 pounds. A passing car had broken one of its legs. The officer took the dog to Dr. Joseph C. Bateman, veterinary surgeon, near the courthouse.

The dog catcher said the dog reported to be on Charles street near 14th street, with a big steel trap on one of its legs had disappeared. It went toward woods back of the Growers Warehouse.

Townspeople Aid In Coin Shortage

Lima, O., Dec. 8—(AP)—A Lima bank reversed normal procedure yesterday and appealed to the public for small change.

Lima's National Bank exhausted its supply of pennies and asked for help through the Lima News.

Residents responded — breaking open piggy banks, rummaging through dresser drawers, and unscrewing lids of fruit jars to get at their penny savings.

Before the day was out several hundred dollars in paper money was exchanged for pennies.

Normay produces 46,000,000 matches daily, about 75 per cent used for domestic consumption.

Young Prisoner Sees Ill Mother

Goldsboro, N. C. Dec. 8—(AP)—Sam Thompson told his sick mother he would be a good boy yesterday as he left her hospital room, handcuffed to one of the two state prison guards who brought him to see her.

The 24-year-old convict was with his mother 30 minutes, on emergency parole from Central Prison, after his mother's doctor had told the family she did not have long to live.

The mother, 70 years old, and now reported recovering from a kidney ailment that threatened to take her life until the middle of this week, delivered a low-voiced, broken lecture on how the son should live when he gets out of prison.

Wayne officers had previously refused to accept responsibility for bringing the prisoner to Goldsboro, contending he was dangerous. Thompson is serving a 30-year sentence for manslaughter.

'Meanest Man' Swindles Blind

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 8—(AP)—Twice yesterday the same man bought cigarets at the courthouse stand operated by Roland Anderson and Marie Ward.

Each time he asked and received change for a $5 bill.

The day's checkup showed he'd tendered $1 each time.

Both operators are blind.

Engagement Announced

Mary Leah Thorne, daughter of Mrs. John T. Thorne, and the late Mr. Thorne, of Farmville, N. C., whose engagement to Mr. Larry Moore James, Jr., of Greenville, N. C., is announced by her mother. The wedding will take place on January 27.

Appeasement . . .

can tell me for my guidance whether I am right, and if I am, what it means."

"You are right," he replied without hesitation (and I am quoting from memory). "We have come to the conclusion that the policy of appeasement is a failure, and that there is no longer any use to pursue it.

"We reluctantly have concluded that Hitler is not susceptible to any moral influence. He is a man with a dangerous obsession. We have decided that he must be smashed. If necessary we shall use force."

Well, it was necessary. On September 1 the next year Hitler declared war on Poland, after signing the non-aggression pact with Moscow—the pact which made the war possible.

It is held by some historians that had Britain told Hitler where to get off in '38 there might have been no global upheaval.

So the declaration of no appeasement by the Washington conference inspires confidence among the western nations and, one would think, might inspire some restraint in the Red camp.

Rent Control . . .

keep them until next June 30.

So on Nov. 27 President Truman wrote congress, urging that the rent control law be extended beyond Dec. 31.

Congress faced this problem. The present, 81st congress ends just before noon, Jan. 3, 1951. After noon on that day the new, 82nd congress takes over.

To make any sharp changes in the law would really require a good deal of study by congress, with time for tenants, landlords and others to come here and say how they felt about it.

There isn't that much time left for the present congress which goes out of business Jan. 3. So all it felt it had time to do was extend the present law a bit.

That will give the new congress, in the light of economic conditions a couple of months from now, time to decide whether to extend the law still further, wipe it out altogether, or perhaps bring back full-scale rent control for the whole country.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

A MISERABLE SERVITUDE

"Don't put any reliance upon him, the fellow can't tell the truth."

When this is said of a man, he might as well be dead. To make this accusation falsely against a man is equivalent to murdering him. Nobody wants to employ a liar. Nobody wants him as a friend.

Black lies begin with white lies. There are more ways of lying about a person than merely by starting an evil story about him. If we remain silent when he is being unjustly accused, if we raise the eyebrows or shrug the shoulders and intimate that he is sort of hopeless after all, we can sometimes injure a person more seriously than if we came out and accused him of wrongdoing. Slander should be classified as homicide, for it kills a man in the sight of all right-thinking people.

Some people—but not many—lie because they are malicious; most people lie to surmount an embarrassing situation or because they hope to gain advantage or money by distorting facts.

The liar is the enemy of God and man, and above everything he is his own worst enemy. But he is never hopeless unless he comes to believe his own lies or arrives at that condition of moral servitude wherein he justifies his evil ways.

"Mail Early" Is Taking A New Meaning

Christmas may seem a long way off to some folks, but actually in less than three weeks old Santa will have come and gone.

The Christmas rush is beginning to worry some people, but the lack of a Christmas rush is beginning to be of concern to the personnel of the Greenville post office.

The "mail early" plea of the post office this year isn't just a routine appeal which has become as much a part of the Christmas season as street decorations. This year it is necessary that the Christmas mailing be done early if the letters, cards and packages are to reach their destination by December 25.

The overtime money appropriated for the Greenville post office for this Christmas season has been cut in half. That means there will be half as much overtime work in the post office this year as there was last year. And from all indications, there is going to be more Christmas mail through the Greenville post office this year than there was during her record-breaking 1949 rush.

Early mailing this Christmas season will not only aid the post office with its problem, but it will insure your cards and packages getting to your friends by Christmas.

Wait A Minute, Let's Analyze This Thing

The issue of fees for the county attorney which has come to light in the Pitt county commissioners' meeting indicates there is a lot of confusion in the minds of the commissioners over the situation.

At the outset, The Reflector would make these two observations:

(1) The county probably was overcharged by the county attorney, S. B. Underwood, Jr., for some of the "special services" he performed for the county.

(2) The county commissioners, at least one of whom has openly asserted that the county attorney was "getting a little too much money," let the matter run on for four years before doing anything about it.

And now in order to remedy the situation through which, they assert, the attorney was getting a "little too much money," the commissioners have changed their policy. Whether they realize it or not, the new $150-a-month retainer's fee which the new county attorney will receive is actually going to cost the county more per year than the average annual amount paid Underwood at a $40-per-month retainer's fee plus special fees for "special services" during the past four years.

The whole situation reflects negligence on the part of the county commissioners. The new stand they have taken in the salary of the county attorney contradicts the charge of "a little too much money."

If the commissioners felt the charges by the county attorney were more than they should have been, they should have brought the matter to the fore and thrashed it out long ago. But the records of the meetings indicate there was no question about the fees which are paid the county attorney. It took the commissioners about 2 years to decide the county attorney was "getting a little too much money." And now that they have made that momentous decision, the commissioners are going to pay the new attorney more than they paid the old one.

To The Reflector, that kind of reasoning and action just doesn't make any sense at all. Either the commissioners were not sincere in the opinion that the former attorney was getting too much money, or they were careless with their arithmetic when they were figuring on the new county attorney's salary.

During the past four years, Underwood received from the county in retainers fees and "special fees" a total of $6,433.13, according to the county commissioners' records. That's an average of $1,608 per year. Now the commissioners have placed the attorney retainer's fee at $150 per month with the stipulation that no special fees are to be paid except for court appearances of the county attorney. The annual retainer's fee under the new set-up is going to cost the county $1,800 per year—exactly $192 more per year than the average paid the attorney during the past four years.

Mr. Commissioners, how about an explanation of this new policy? Your line of reasoning is difficult to follow. The people of the county are entitled to an explanation of the matter.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—Stalin's massive Red army will stage the same sort of brutal, aggressive attack against Western Germany that his Chinese stooges delivered against General MacArthur's men, when and if the western powers actually begin to rearm and reindustrialize the American, French and British zones of the former Reich.

Every military expert here and abroad admits that he can sweep to the Rhine River on a week-end jaunt, and to the channel ports whenever he chooses. In accord with his general pattern of piecemeal absorption, it is expected that he would be satisfied temporarily by adding the valuable iron mines and steel plants of the Ruhr to his expanding empire.

BRIEFINGS—The Moscow dictator is reported to have forwarded this warning to top-level Germans in Berlin. It is also understood that he has authorized diplomatic representatives in several countries to pass this word to their western colleagues.

This appalling prospect has been laid before key members of Congress in their secret briefings at Blair House, the State Department and the Pentagon.

Capitol Hill's fright and frustration over a two-front enemy's presence explains why the spirit of partisanship has disappeared, and why every cent in new taxes and military appropriations will be voted without delay or question.

ALTERNATIVE—This specter of an overnight blitzkrieg by from 50 to 100 armored and infantry divisions, supported by an armada of bombers, has figured in all conversations about the world situation between President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee, and in the latter's earlier London meeting with Premier Pleven of France.

It underlies their insistence that we must not become bogged down in China, even if the alternative is a "negotiated surrender."

The Europeans know, but have refused to admit even to themselves, that Russia will not pass up this opportunity for which she has schemed and intrigued since Hitler's defeat.

MOTIVE—It did not take General Omar C. Bradley's recent talk to tell Stalin that the United States, Britain and France, so heavily committed in Korea and Southeastern Asia, were powerless to stop him, save for whatever strength of resistance the atom bomb gives us.

He presumably figures that we will not dare to use that weapon over Germany lest it turn the people against us and toward Stalin in desperate self-defense appeasement.

Moscow also has another motive behind this threat, and it seems to have succeeded with respect to our Far Eastern position. He means to frighten our Marshall Plan and North Atlantic Pact allies to such an extent that they will force us into a conference with Stalin for settlement of all disagreements between the two hostile factions. He believes that he can win most of his demands at such a powwow.

MENACE—The Kremlin, as always, will cite post-war treaties, especially the Potsdam and subsequent agreements, in justification. Molotov and Vishinsky will argue that these pacts provide for eventual unification of Germans, and that our proposed remilitarization violates their terms.

As in Korea, they will insist that they are defending the Germans against "American imperialism."

Tragic as our Far Eastern position may be, this is the awful menace that confronts the White House, 10 Downing Street and the Quai d'Orsay. The statesmen there have had sufficient experience with Stalin to know that he will not halt with the conquest of Western Germany.

CANDIDATE—Marriner S. Eccles of Utah plans to resign as a Federal Reserve Board Governor at the very moment when the talents of this admitted expert on central banking and government financing are most needed at Washington. Although his term still has eight years to run, he expects to quit in February, and possibly enter Utah politics as a Republican candidate for the Senate in 1952.

Mr. Eccles is resigning in no huff, although President Truman displaced him as chairman with a union League Republican, Thomas McCabe of Chester, Pa., and although Mr. Eccles has disagreed with the Truman-Snyder "easy money" policies. More than a year ago, he first foresaw the need for federal economy and other safeguards against the current inflation. Only now is the Administration beginning to accept his advice.

ASSET—An Eccles in the Senate would be an asset to the Republicans, for they have no man on Capitol Hill who knows money as the brilliant Utah man does, in view of his seventeen years' service here and his vast experience in private banking. Should he be elected, Utah would have the most influential man on Capitol Hill since the days of the late Reed Smoot, an apostle of high tariffs and a foe of such books as "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

Incidentally, Mr. Eccles is a personal, golfing friend of Senator Robert A. Taft, although he looks kindly on Governor Earl Warren of California. And his politico-banking connections in that territory would be an enormous help to any Republican presidential candidate he decided to support.

The Hair Deal

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

If you saw Bill Turcotte walking down the street with his wife and two sons, Bill Jr., five, and Jimmy, two and a half, you would probably classify him as a happy family man and businessman. You would recognize his wife as the former Janet Gowen of Greenville, whose father is Ben Gowen, chief bookkeeper at Swift & Company.

Bill is a businessman all right, but his business is flying. He's Captain E. W. Turcotte of the United States Marine Corps, currently stationed at Cherry Point.

The minute Somebody Told Me that Turk has flown jet propelled airplanes I knew he was column material. This business of jet propulsion is something that the man on the street has heard plenty about, but only from newspaper reports. My mission was to get first-hand information.

When Turk started telling me about jets, I had to slow him down. "You flatter me," I said, "to think that I can understand what you're saying. Up to now everything is over my head." Obligingly, Turk held himself down to one-syllable words. He said that a jet plane is propelled in the same manner as a toy balloon, which is blown up, and the neck is released, letting the balloon fly.

The top speed of a jet plane is 560 miles an hour. At this rate, it would take about four hours to go from Greenville to Hollywood, or slightly over two minutes to get from Greenville to little Washington. A jet plane cruises at about 400 miles an hour, which would make a trip to Washington very long—about five and a half minutes.

Generally speaking, a jet burns 300 gallons of kerosene an hour. On the ground it burns about 14 gallons a minute, and at 40,000 feet it burns 40 gallons a minute.

Turk admits that a jet pilot can get the sensation of going fast when he's travelling at 560 mph 500 feet off the ground. But at 40,000 Turk says that the speed isn't too noticeable. In daytime flying, a pilot has to use an oxygen mask at 10,000 feet, and at night he must use it at 5,000. That should convince you that 40,000 is up. The jet pilot is sitting in a pressure cockpit, equipped with an ejection seat in case of emergency. On his leg he wears a bail-out bottle, which is a bottle of oxygen he can use in case he has to bail out. At 40,000 feet, the air would be too thin, and he would have to use the oxygen mask on the way down.

In order to counteract the extreme pressure at high speeds, which would normally cause the pilot to black out, the Marine Corps supplies a "G" suit, which applies pressure on the body in the abdomen and legs, in order to prevent blackout.

Turk says there's nothing like a jet for flying. The visibility and maneuverability is unsurpassed.

And I thank Turk.

Daily Reflector Bureau — By LYNN NISBET — Raleigh, N. C.

INCOME — Recent publicity given to efforts of the state department of revenue to obtain income tax returns from farmers eligible to file reports has precipitated a lot of discussion about the financial status of North Carolina farmers. Trouble with farm statistics is they can be so easily juggled, without dishonest intent, so that equally reliable sources appear to be handing out contradictory figures. And all of the figures get mixed up in varying interpretations, so that even the best informed sometimes are at a loss to know what the truth is.

RANK—In answer to some of the newspaper criticism of farm tax delinquency, M. G. Mann of the cooperatives says the farmers do not make returns because they don't make enough money to justify paying tax. He lists the average income of the North Carolina farm at about $2400, and says allowable deductions cut the amount below the $2000 tax limit for a married person. The law however requires a return to be made if total income is above the $2000. Mr. Mann further quotes a state university agency as putting North Carolina 40th in rank among the states in farm income. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the U. S. department of agriculture ranks the 14th in cash farm income. It is rated fourth in cash value of field crops, 29th in livestock and livestock products, for an aggregate rating of 14th place among the states.

VALUES—The BAE report fixes Tarheel cash farm income for 1949 at $705,646,000. Of that amount $559,661,000 was from sale of crops and $145,985,000 from sale of livestock products. These figures do not include government payments received by North Carolina farmers for compliance with soil conservation and crop control programs, although in some instances amounts received from government support prices may be included. The farm accountant has numerous factors to consider. Gross income, net income, cash income and value of farm-grown produce used on the farm must all be considered.

COMPLEX — There are intricate and complex calculations to be made in order to determine actual income of a farmer as compared with income of professional or salaried worker or the person who lives off of proceeds from capital investments. It is very easy for the farmer, without being intentionally dishonest, to count the operation of his home, the produce of his garden and the electricity and water used for home living as "farm expense." It is impossible for the city resident to get these items deducted from taxable income. Most bothersome item in farm income tax policy is the borderline case. Because tax laws have always favored the farmer, there has grown up common practice of professional men and industrial wage-earners buying a piece of land and calling it a farm. He can build a fish pond or a riding path, using money made in town, and get it off his income tax as farm expense. He can run the cost of maintaining riding horses into the bracket of farm expenses for feeding work animals.

INDICTMENT — Criticism of tax delinquency on account of the way the laws are written is not confined to bona fide farmers. At the same time it is hard for the wage-earner and small business man in town to understand how a situation can develop in which three quarters of a billion dollars is received for farm produce by North Carolina farmers and only a few thousand dollars income tax paid by a very small percentage of the total number of farmers.

CHANGE—The situation may be considerably changed during the next few years. With domestic and farm workers coming under the social security program as of January 1, 1951, thousands of North Carolinians who have not heretofore kept any sort of financial records will have to begin bookkeeping. It is quite likely that some domestic workers in homes and on farms will be interested enough in the benefits derivable under expanded social security coverage to force their employers to make reports. That may or may not increase amounts paid for income taxes, but it will almost certainly multiply many times over the number of returns made with necessity for showing allowable deductions.

VISITOR — Mrs. Alma Corbett went visiting one day this week. She walked over from the state capitol building to the justice building across Morgan street to confer with her new "bosses." For many years Mrs. Corbett has handled the records in the governor's office of the assignment of judges and the calling of special terms of superior court in the several counties. As of this Saturday December 9, 1950, the constitutional amendment will become effective transferring those functions to the chief justice of the state supreme court.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

ACHESON'S FUTURE
(Washington Daily News)

The Republican party is sniping at Dean Acheson, our secretary of state. Concerted efforts are being made to get him out of the Truman cabinet.

Mr. Acheson may have made many mistakes. Anyone in his poition would be in the same boat.

The recent elections have inspired many Republicans to snipe at him with more furor than ever. In plain English, they want to get him out.

The Daily News fails to see just what could be accomplished in the way of improvement by getting him out. Mr. Acheson is a smart man, and while he may have played partisan politics too much, is there any reason to believe that in an election year that any other person would not have done the same thing?

Truthfully, it looks to us like the Republicans will be successful in their efforts to oust Mr. Acheson. They are hitting at his record with all the venom at their command. And they make the situation so unbearable that the secretary will fell that he should resign. That is exactly what we think will occur in the not too distant future.

There may be more capable men in the country for the job than Mr. Acheson. We think he has stood about all he can stand, and we believe now that he is on his way out.

It is a sad commentary on our political faith to feel that a man is being scrapped for political reasons. Yet, we fear that very thing is happening to Mr. Acheson right now. If he had fallen down on the job because of inability, health, or other good reasons, then we would be able to see more clearly a reason for deposing him. But we can only see just now that the scalpers are after him for political reasons and no other.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

In one fell swoop this week, the Supreme Court handed down a decision which:

1. Threw a fine case of jitters into a large number of inventors, manufacturers and specialty sales organizations.

2. Cast a cloud on millions of dollars in assets carried on company books.

It happened in the case of Supermarket Equipment Co. vs. Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. S.E. charged that the A. & P. had infringed its patent on a sliding tray used at the check-out counters. "Nuts!" in effect, said the high court, tricky trays are gadgets and gadgets aren't patentable because Article One, Section 8 of the Constitution, which authorizes government protection of inventions, specified that patents must be "to promote the progress of science and the useful arts." The Court says this never "sanctioned the patenting of gadgets." It also kicked the Patent Office in the pants, verbally, when Justice William O. Douglas wrote, "The fact that a patent as flimsy and as spurious as this one has to be brought all the way to this court to be declared invalid dramatically illustrates how far our patent system frequently departs from the constitutional standards which are supposed to govern."

The net results of this decision are:

1. The Patent Office will undoubtedly revise its procedures which will make it tougher to obtain protection for anything that seems to be a "gadget."

2. The thousands of inventors or designers have doubts whether their brain children get the social security that patenting provides.

3. Hundreds of corporations owning patents, whose book values soar into the millions, don't know whether they are worth the filing fees they paid.

There are a couple of corollary puzzles: What is an "art?" and what is a "gadget?" Dictionaries list more than a dozen definition of the word "art," including "magical skill." None of these definitions resolve anything. They leave in doubt whether any invention of a toy, a household utensil or any commercial endeavor fosters the arts. A check-out tray may advance the art of making money, but is that really an art?

A "gadget," says one dictionary, is a slang word "for a contrivance, object, or device for doing something." Another dictionary lists it as a slang word for something for which the explicit name is not immediately remembered. The atomic bomb might fall within this definition, but the Court, in its decision, cited the atomic bomb as something that WAS within the protection of patents.

Justice Douglas, saying that "inventive genius' was the test, said that a patentable invention would have to "serve the ends of science—to push back the frontiers of chemistry, physics and the like; to make a distinctive contribution to scientific knowledge . . . it is not enough that an article is new and useful."

Precious few of the American patents can meet that test. In fact, most of them would appear to be of doubtful value.

INVENTORS FEEL THEY'RE HARASSED

Even before the Supreme Court decision, American inventors have frequently expressed the idea that they have been denied the protection given inventors in the golden age of Edison and Fulton.

Chief complaints have been directed against the federal anti-monopoly laws, under which court decisions have directed patent owners to license their patents to competitors. Inventors have said that the chief incentive to invention has been wiped out when they were not granted exclusive use of their own inventions. Many corporations have bowed before this line of judicial reasoning and are providing for general licensing of the inventions they have spent millions in developing.

Hal Boyle's Column

Editor's note: Associated Press War Correspondent Jack MacBeth flew into Koto aboard an evacuation plane to report the action of American troops trapped there by encircling Red Chinese forces. Evacuation planes leaving Koto's tiny airstrip carry out only the wounded. Koto for the moment is an island of relative safety for U. S. Marines and 7th Division soldiers who fought their way through Chinese forces down from Changjin Reservoir to Koto. These and other ground forces must fight their way through more Chinese if they are to escape by road. MacBeth is getting his reports out through Tenth Corps headquarters in Korea to Tokyo.

By JACK MACBETH

Koto, Korea, Dec. 7—(AP)—Someone poked his head into the tent from the icy darkness and announced "they're coming in."

Those inside the tent who were awake roused the others. Down the road a piece voices and the noise of vehicles moving in out of the darkness made it plain that the first elements of the Marine column had arrived.

Cut off and chopped up by hordes of Chinese for ten days, the Marines had fought through all the way from Yudam on the northwest of Changjin reservoir to Koto, a distance of 22 road miles.

At Hagaru they linked up with other Marine elements as well as some soldiers from the U. S. Seventh Division who were hard hit on the other side of the lake.

At daybreak Wednesday the forces began to assume battle formation and shortly afterwards started to file out of Hagaru. They immediately ran into their first heavily defended enemy position.

For the next 12 hours it was a question of smashing one enemy stumbling block after another. All of the fighting was carried on in zero weather and much of it during a snow storm.

By mid-morning most of the front part of the column had reached Koto. Officers said the other sections of the column were meeting stiff resistance.

Col. Homer L. Litzenberg of Washington, D. C., Commanding officer of the Seventh Regiment of the First Marine Division, said, "We had a rough night of it, I can tell you that."

He described his casualties as moderate.

As dawn broke today an uneven column of men and vehicles could be seen coming along a road into the Koto defense perimeter. It was a pitiful sight.

The men's faces were long, haggard and stubbled. Their eyes were red and their faces dirty from battle. They walked slowly and heavily. Their breath came in white wisps of frozen mist.

Many were frostbitten. The wounded, and there were many, came in on tanks, trucks and jeeps. When they reached the safety of Koto they ran into the arms of their comrades.

There was no fanfare and no wild rejoicing. These men were cold, tired and battle weary. They were fighting mad. They were bitter. They knew the fight was just starting. They knew they still had to fight their way from here to the safety of the Hamhung-Hungnam sector.

They are a crippled outfit. But they're still game.

And they are determined.

The leathernecks were heartened to see the little vacuation plans landing at Koto's short strip and taking off without delay with the wounded.

They were delighted when the Navy's big torpedo planes began landing and taking off with the wounded.

The men who were able rode in the cockpit with the pilots and in the gun turrets and radioman's compartment.

The Marines in effect are still surrounded but they are sure they will be able to punch their way out.

The tail end of the ragged oncoming column of Marines and soldiers was still fighting tonight through swarms of heavily armed Chinese. The Reds fired down from hills overlooking the road—now a nightmare alley.

The battered troops had to leave some wounded and dead behind in the snow. Many trucks and other vehicles were in smoking ruins.

But, all in all, the breakout was successful.

Washington Letter

BY JANE EADS

Washington—There is no evidence that the capital's so-called oldsters just sit around in their days of retirement with nothing but time on their hands. Examples of their varied interests and activities were recently on public display in the lobby of the U. S. Department of Commerce building in what was booked as a "Golden Age Hobby Show."

Sponsored by the District of Columbia Recreation Board and the United Community Services, the show was open to anyone boasting 60 years or more. Miss Adelaide Johnson, one of the original suffragettes, a sculptor of note and a talented musician boasted having just celebrated her 104th birthday. She sang a group of Stephen Foster's songs.

The exhibits, testifying to the skills and active intellects of some 400 entrants, were so numerous they not only filled the lobby but spilled over into adjoing rooms and corridors. They included everything from stamp collections to mechanical gadgets, some of which have won patents.

Vincent H. Todd, 71, showed a group of miniature tools, and R. Bentley Thomas, 77, miniature copies of famed paintings in the National Art Gallery, executed on wooden picnic spoons.

Mrs. Kate C. Hargrave, 83, shyly exhibited her collection of dolls dressed in period costumes, exquisitely sewn. The dolls had antique German china heads. "I started when I was 62, when I ran across the heads," she told me. "I had a pattern for the doll body, and then I wro'e all over the U. S. to get arms and legs. I made the costumes from scrap bags. I only have 11 left. I gave the rest away."

Mrs. Charles C. Morgan, 77 exhibited some intricate shell work—tiny modish hats on stands, birds, ash trays, flower pictures on a velvet ground, earrings, place-cards, tallies. Lorin A. Brown, 80, showed some wonderful metal work, and H. M. Gaston, 90, showed a tray and a picture frame made entirely from match box wood veneered on a plywood base. Sidney F. Taliaferro showed a collection of metal tags from chewing tobacco he began in 1895.

While I was talking with a couple of elderly gentlemen about their exhibits three young government workers edged up and began to finger an adjoining exhibit. "Young folks can't read the signs 'please do not touch.' Can you beat it?" One of the men sighed.

MILK RIVER RANGE

Chapter 7

Tortilla Joe rolled his length on his bunk and took a siesta. But there was no rest for Buck. A strange mental conflict surged through the tall cowpuncher. There was trouble on this range—plenty of trouble—and he and Tortilla were in the midst of it. . . .

"What'll be Cavanaugh's next move?" he asked Jim Tuttle.

It was late in the afternoon, and they were sitting on a homemade bench in the cottonwoods. Overhead a woodpecker drummed his bill against a dead limb, his red head bobbing. The rap-rap of his pecking made a sharp noise in the stillness. Somewhere over a distant ridge, a range cow bawled to her spring calf, and the little whiteface answered. The scene was one of tranquility, but under it Buck detected a sinister thread of danger.

Jim Tuttle rubbed his stubbled jaw. "Me, I've been thinking of the same, Buck. One thing is certain—you and Tortilla have got to ride light in your stirrups."

"You mean because of the bail on us?"

Jim nodded. "When we have a coroner's inquest, you'll be exonerated, of course. Leo Parker'll see to that. But that may not be for a day or two. And if a bullet knocked one of you—or both, for that matter—out of saddle and you got buried back in the hills—well, you understand, huh?"

"You'd have to forfeit bail," said Buc, "and that would break you. And we'd be plumb dead."

"That's the way she sets saddle, Buck. Len Cavanaugh'll make a move soon, but I don't know in which direction it'll be."

"Has he hit against the farmers?"

"Nothing more than threats."

Buck mulled over that. "Reckon he hopes to scare them out, huh? Has it had any effect among the farmers?"

"A couple got cold feet and pulled out. The rest ride light, with rifles always in reach. Bornelli's got the key point. He settled on Cavanaugh's big water hole. The loss of that hit Cavanaugh hard."

The afternoon had passed quickly. Although it was spring, the days had not yet lengthened out, and darkness came early. And, with the darkness, came the chill of the high altitude.

"I'm pretty near broke," Jim Tuttle confessed.

"Is that why you want those cattle gathered?" asked Buck.

The old man nodded. "I've spent a lot of money on this irrigation set-up. More than I'd care to tell Ma. I'll get it back, but it'll take time. Then I've grub-staked more farmers than I care to admit. The bank account is danged low. But if you and Tortilla Joe get them wild dogies out and on the market, that'll tide me over until fall beef round-up."

"We'll get them out," promised Buck.

They ate a little snack in the kitchen. Cynthia served coffee and doughnuts. She was not a pretty girl, Buck decided, but she was a dependable girl. Wholesome and clean, with a quick smile and a sense of humor, and he liked her.

Jennie asked, "Where is Senor Tortilla Joe?"

"Probably in his bunk," said Buck. "When he hits the hay, it sometimes turns out to be a long affair."

"But he never had any supper."

"He sure don't need any," said Jim, noisily sucking his coffee out of a saucer. "He put away near a ton of victuals at dinner."

Jim said good night and climbed the stairs. Jennie too went to her bed. Cynthia and Buck sat for a while beside the big cook-stove, basking in its dry heat. The homeliness of the scene touched a responsive chord in the young cowpuncher's heart. But the hour was getting late, and he turned into the night toward the bunkhouse.

Strange premonitions stirred him. He halted in front of the door, his eyes to the south. There, a tinge of red against the sky, he saw a distant fire. He turned suddenly, hands falling to his guns, as a man came out of the shadows.

"Just me," said the man.

Buck drew his hands as he recognized the aged mozo. The old man's shrewd eyes ran over him, and Buck felt the keenness of their scrutiny. The oldster carried a Winchester under one arm, and two heavy .45's strapped to his thin waist.

"That's a bad habit," murmured Buck, "coming in on a man that way. . . ."

"Maybe I did it on purpose." The old man's eyes held admiration now. "You went for them guns fast, McKee. You've handled them before—plenty."

"I've ridden a few trails, viejo. And some of them got kind of smoky toward the end."

"This will end that way," predicted the mozo. "My name is Mack Bodkin," he added by way of introduction.

"On guard?"

"You could call it that. Me an' the dogs. What I would miss, the dogs would pick up." His eyes rested on the scarlet splotch of fire against the southern sky. "Looks like the Bornelli outfit is burnin' some weeds or somethin'. He was tellin' me he had raked up a bunch. Them things sure grow fast. But I'd say it was too wet to burn them now."

Buck remembered that Bornelli had said he was going over to Ma Halverson's. He shrugged and said, "Maybe the afternoon sun dried them out."

Mack Bodkin squatted down beside the bunkhouse. Buck settled beside him and together they watched the distant flames die. The hour was late when Buck turned in. And sleep was slow in coming.

Christmas Program At Baptist Student Union Center Dec. 11

Members of the Baptist Student Union of East Carolina Teachers College will have an opportunity to hear a reading of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" by Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of the college English department next Monday evening. The event will take place at the Baptist Student Center on East Eighth Street, Greenville, at 7:30 o'clock.

A program of carol singing and a Christmas tree will be included in the entertainment for the evening. Elsie Howard of St. Pauls will lead guests in group singing, and Seleta Tucker of Farmville will be soloist. Those present will participate in decorating the tree at the Center with their gifts to the Lottie Moon offering for missions, an annual project for foreign missions made by Baptist churches.

A social hour will follow Dr. Utterback's reading of the Dickens classic.

PRISONERS' HOLIDAY

Raleigh, N.C., Dec 8—(AP)—Tar Heel prisoners will get a four-day reprieve from work during the Christmas holidays. In addition, they'll get 3,000 pounds of turkey. The holiday period will be from Dec. 23 through Dec. 26, the same given state employes.

Gasoline Bombs Smash Windows In Store Strike

Pittsburgh, Dec. 7—(AP)—Crudely-made gasoline bombs shattered windows in Gimbel's downtown department store and a Gimbel warehouse today as continuing violence marked the 18-day old strike of truck drivers against three big stores.

A third unused bomb—made of a beer bottle filled with gasoline—was found on the steps of a church across the street from Gimbel's.

The small fire started in the display window was quickly extinguished by firemen.

Police details were double at all three stores and warehouses involved in the dispute between the AFL General Teamsters and Gimbel's, Horne's and Kaufmann's.

Shirley Temple Eligible Again

Los Angeles, Dec. 8—(AP)—Eyes of blue and 22, Shirley Temple is eligible for matrimony again.

Her divorce from John Agar became final yesterday and the Hollywood speculation continued to link her name with Charles Black, 31, a television executive and member of a wealthy San Francisco family.

"We have no plans," is all the actress has said so far. But Black has been her No. 1 escort since they met last winter in Honolulu after she obtained the interlocutory decree from Agar Dec. 5, 1949.

Eleven Cases In Traffic Court Held Wednesday

Eleven motor vehicle law violation cases were disposed of at the midweek traffic session of Police Court Wednesday.

Judge J.W.H. Roberts was confronted with seven careless and reckless driving cases. He found two of the defendants guilty and fined them. In the other five cases the judge continued prayer for judgment in one case, nol prossed another case, and found three of the defendants not guilty for lack of evidence.

Careless and reckless driving: Willie J. Short, colored, prayer for judgment continued; Mathew Gardner, colored, paid $15 court costs and $33 to prosecuting witness for damage to personal property; Herman Taft, colored, $25 fine. The case against Elizabeth T. Simmons was nol prossed. The cases against Harold I. Cook, Heber R. Allen were dismissed. Frank L. Brown, colored, was not guilty.

Robert L. Whitfield paid $15 for not having a light on his trailer.

Earl Frizzelle paid $25 and costs for driving without a driver's license and $15 for crashing a red traffic light.

Herman J. Clark, colored, improper left turn, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $20 fine.

Uncle Sam Checks Planned Hog Production For Govm't Action

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

Uncle Sam is making a nationwide survey to determine how many hogs farmers plan to produce next year.

The answer may show how well we will eat in the year ahead and whether there is need for early government action on price and rationing controls. The results of the survey, being made through help of rural mail carriers, will be made public Dec. 21.

Government spending under the defense program is putting a lot of extra dollars into pockets of consumers. Many of those dollars are being spent at butcher shops. As a result meat prices are being pushed upward.

Government farm experts say that Americans may want—and probably will have the money—to buy 10 to 15 pounds more meat each next year than this. Consumption this year is expected to average 145 pounds. This compares with a prewar average of 128 pounds.

But there is a question as to whether meat production will increase enough to put that much more meat on dinner tables. More and more of the production will be required by the armed services. Men in uniform eat more meat than civilians.

Prices of meat animals—particularly beef cattle—are relatively high now. But whether they are high enough, in the case of hogs, to spur farmers to increase production sharply is doubted by some experts.

Tending to offset the high prices farmers receive for meat animals is the high cost of production. Livestock feed prices have gone up. They are likely to go much higher. Farm wage rates are increasing too.

The average corn belt farmer figures that he must get enough money from 100 pounds of live hog to pay for 12 bushels of corn. At present 100 pounds of hog is equal in value to about 12.9 bushels of corn.

A year ago, hogs were much more valuable in relation to feed. A hundred pounds of hog would buy 15.7 bushels of corn.

Experts figure that the present price ratio should encourage some increase over present levels, but perhaps not enough.

When farmers make much of an increase, it usually requires the employment of additional labor, purchase of additional equipment and the like. Experience during the past war showed that farmers found it advisable to go to the extra expense of hiring more help and buying new equipment only when the price of 100 pounds of hog was equal in value to at least 15 bushels of corn.

This being the case, some farm leaders have urged that the government set up price guarantees on hogs to encourage farmers to expand production rather sharply. Such incentives were used in the last war.

Dance Drama Is Set For Dec. 14

Students of the modern dance at East Carolina Teachers College will present a dance drama "The Juggler and the Lady" at the annual Christmas program sponsored by the department of music at the college. The event will take place Thursday evening, December 14, at 8:00 o'clock in the Austin auditorium.

The dance drama, based on a famous story by Anatole France, will be enacted by a group of eighteen men and women. Mrs. W.E. Dole of the health and physical education department at East Carolina is the director.

Clarkson White of Belvidere will be narrator for "The Juggler and the Lady." Janice Roberson of Bethel as the Juggler, Irene Steele of Bear Poplar as the Madonna, and Carl Willis of Wilmington as a monk will have leading roles. Madeline Hodges of Washington, accompanist, will provide the musical setting for the dance drama.

Those taking part are Mary Rose Sutton, Mt. Olive; Linda Brown, Newport News, Va.; Ophelia Kirven, Sumter, S.C.; Hilda Lee, Pink Wallace, Elizabethtown; Imogene Faircloth, Roseboro; Edith Roger-Yadkinville; Sue Hayes, Louisbu-Faircloth, Fayetteville; and Jennie Cannon, Wilmington.

Policemen's Ball Set December 12

The annual police ball, sponsored by the Greenville police department, will be held at the Wright building at East Carolina Teachers College next Tuesday night, December 12.

Bob Lee's 14-piece college orchestra will provide the music. Dancing from 9 until 1 o'clock.

The police ball is given for the benefit of the police Christmas and emergency fund. Similar benefit dances are given for police funds in other cities.

Tickets for the ball are on sale by members of the police force and elsewhere. Capt. Johnnie Mobley is chairman of the Ball Committee.

Bucs Host To Wilson Teachers Tonight

Bauer Out; Postas Set As Starter

By BILL LLOYD
Reflector Sports Editor

Len Bauer, steady workhorse guard for East Carolina's cagers for the past three seasons, was ruled ineligible because of scholastic difficulties today, and will miss tonight's home opener for the Bucs against Wilson Teachers of Washington, D. C.

With the dropping of Bauer from the roster, Coach Howard Porter will most likely call on sophomore John Postas, up from last year's freshman team, for duty at the vacant guard spot.

Postas, a 6'5" lad, has seen considerable action in the four games played thus far, and participated in last year's North State tournament.

Sonny Russell, All-Conference forward for the Pirates, is expected to team with frosh star Charlie Huffman, 6' 4" import from Thomasville, in leading the Pirates' scoring attack tonight.

Russell, 6'3" star here in his first year, is currently leading the Buccaneer scorers with 49 points, while Huffman has tipped in 44.

Toddy Fennell, little play-maker from Wilmington, will get the starting nod at center, with big Bobby Hodges, 6'5" Kinston High School All-Stater, last season, gaining the starting nod at the other guard position.

Backing these starters are such reserves as Lou Collie, crack set-shot artist, Jim Blake and Richard Blake, another outstanding star from last year's frosh quint.

East Carolina defeated Wilson Teachers last year in two games, but a more aggressive five is expected to take the court tonight for the Capital City lads. They defeated Naval Apprentice last night in a scoring spree, 100 to 61.

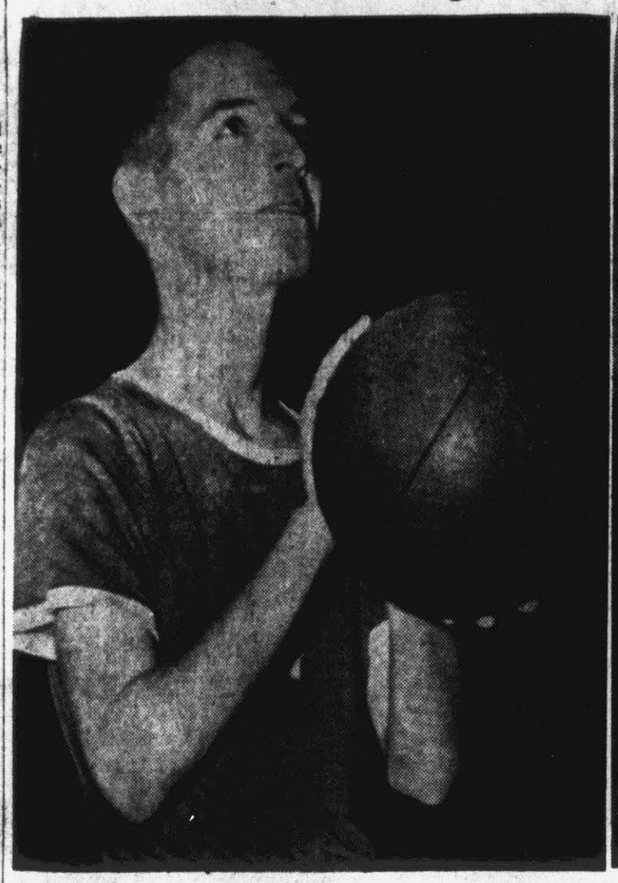
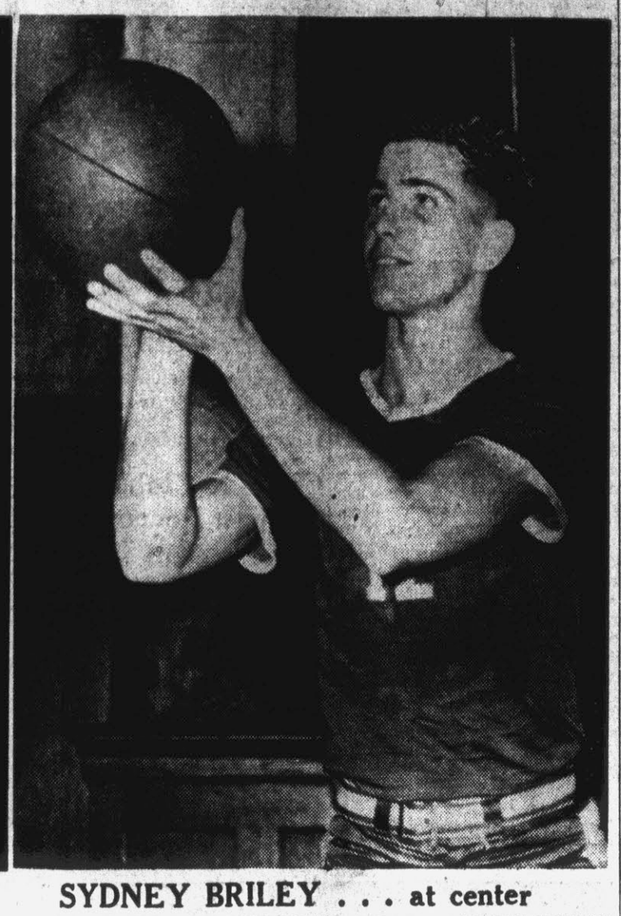
Phants In Home Debut With Cycs

Phantom Scoring Leaders In Tonight's Home Scrap



VIRGINIUS HAYMES . . . at forward



SYDNEY BRILEY . . . at center

Locals Set For Wilson Court Team

Greenville's High School Phantoms unveil their 1950-51 basketball hopes before the home folks tonight, playing hosts to Wilson's Class AAA Cyclones, in a non-conference battle here.

Tip-off is slated for 8:00 o'clock in the local high school gymnasium.

Coach Bo Farley has drilled his well-balanced squad on fundamentals and other phases of the game all week, and the Phantom cagers have sharpened their eye for the basket during the week.

Forward Virginius Haymes and Center Sydney Briley are expected to carry the scoring hopes for the Phants.

Both Briley and Haymes are lettermen holdovers from last year's starting five, and were the top scorers for the locals against Rocky Mount last week.

Johnny Aman, veteran floorman, who figures in the play-making of the Phantoms is set at one guard position, while Jimmy Dillingham will add a scoring punch at the opposite forward slot from Haymes.

Glen Scott, up from last year's J.V. club, and Larry Flye, reserve letterman last season, are battling it out for a starting berth at the remaining guard spot. Scott turned in a commendable performance against the Blackbirds last week, and is known for his scrappy play.

Backing tonight's starting quint will be such players as Wallace Conway, big 6'2" center, Leon Moore, scoring star for the JV's last year, Billy, Wooten, Jake Higgs, Billy Woolfolk, and Donald Tucker.

Princeton Mentor 'Coach Of Year'

Caldwell came out on top today in a poll of 384 college coaches taken by the newspaper chain. He was the choice of 111 voters, giving him a wide margin over Lynn Waldorf of California and Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma. Wilkinson won the award last year. Waldorf won the honor in 1935 when he coached at Northwestern.

Waldorf received 50 and Wilkinson 42 first-place nominations.

Yesterday Caldwell accepted another award, the Lambert Trophy, given annually to the team considered the best in the East.

The Princeton coach will be honored at the "Coach of the Year" dinner scheduled for Dallas Jan. 11 during the conventions of the NCAA and American Football Coaches Association.

Behind the top three come Bob Neyland, Tennessee, 34 votes; Blair Cherry, Texas, 22; Ivy Williamson, Wisconsin, and Clarence Munn, Michigan State, 13; Frank Howard, Clemson, 11; and Andy Gustafson, Miami, and Bill Leckonby, Lehigh, 9.

Snead And Ferrier Ousted From Tourney

Miami, Fla., Dec. 8 —(AP)— A pair of professional golfers named Furgol—Ed and Marty—ranked as the surprise favorites today in the $10,000 Miami International four-ball golf tournament.

The Furgol boys, who have identical last names and deadly putters but otherwise are not related, downed the top seeded duo of Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, 2 and 1 yesterday in the major upset of the tournament.

They are matched for today's third round with Tony Penna, Cincinnati, Ohio and Bob Toski, Northampton, Mass. The Penna-Toski combination eliminated Al Besselink, Royal Oak, Mich., and Earl Christiansen, Miami, 7 and 5 for the most lopsided victory of the second round.

The Cooper-Harmon team was seven under par going into the ninth hole and went on to trounce Al Brosch, Garden City, N.Y., and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., 3 and 2. Their front side best ball of 29 on the 6,347-yard Miami Country Club layout equalled the course record for match play.

Kunes and Warga beat Nick Lazor and Joe Thacker, both of Akron, Ohio, 3 and 2.

Tommy Bolt, Durham, N.C., and Skee Riegel, Tulsa, Okla., who scored a 4 and 2 victory over Herman Barron, White Plains, N.Y., and Vic Ghezzi, Inwood, N.Y., are matched with defending champion Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla., and Ed Oliver, Seattle, Wash.

Middlecoff, teamed with Ferrier in 1948, was winner of the last Miami four-ball. It wasn't played last year. The young dentist turned golf pro and his chunky partner breezed to a 3 and 2 win over Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N.Y., and Glenn Teal, Jacksonville, Fla.

Grimesland Boys, Arthur Sextet Win In Doubleheader, 30-16, 51-27

Grimesland, Dec. 8—Grimesland's boys and Bell Arthur's girls won last night, and these two teams split a doubleheader here.

Betty Lou Jones, a consistent high scorer for Arthur, sank 31 points last night, to personally lead her team to victory over the Grimesland sextet, 51-27.

M. Crawford and J. Nichols were runnerups in the scoring for Arthur with 10 and 7 points.

Peggy Daniels was high for the losers with ten points.

In the boys' tilt, Grimesland scored a 30 to 16 triumph over the Arthur quint with Weyland Elks and Earl Wright pacing the scoring. Elks dipped in eight while Wright had seven. Roger Mills and Billy Boyd stood out on defense for the Grimesland lads.

The lineups:

Girls Game

Holdash Is Chosen

San Francisco, Dec. 8—(AP)—Irving Holdash, University of North Carolina All-America lineman, has been chosen to play for the East in the East-West football game here Dec. 30.

He replaces the injured Jake Rowden of Maryland.

Dole Speaker

Coach William E. (Bill) Dole, head of East Carolina's football forces, who just brought the Pirates through their most successful gridiron season since before the war, spoke to the annual luncheon honoring Kinston's High School football squad today.

The Kinston Kiwanis Club was sponsor of the annual event at which time a sportsmanship award was presented to Kinston's most outstanding grid star during the 1950 season.

Dole will speak to the Rocky Mount Touchdown Club Tuesday, December 12, honoring the Blackbirds gridiron squad, and will be spokesman at the annual banquet honoring the LaGrange High School eleven on Dec. 19.

Coach Jack Boone, assistant football coach and head baseball coach at East Carolina, will be the chief speaker at a dinner to be held at Churchland, Va. tonight honoring Coach Slade Phillips' football team there.

Phillips is a graduate of East Carolina and played football here in 1946 and 1947.

Belvoir-Falkland Plays Bear Grass

Belvoir, Dec 8.—Belvoir-Falkland's 1950-51 basketballers, under the new coaching eye of Truman Cherry, take the court tonight against Bear Grass in search of another victory.

Belvoir has already played two games on its 20-game schedule, winning one and losing one.

Eighteen games are played inside the Pitt County Conference, while Maury and Bear Grass make up the outside opponents.

The 1950-51 schedule is as follows.

Dec. 8, Bear Grass, here; Dec. 14, Maury, here; Dec. 19, Ayden, here; Jan. 2, Bethel, there; Jan. 3, Ayden, there; Jan. 5, Stokes, here; Jan. 9, Chicod, here; Jan. 11, Maury, there; Jan. 16, Grifton, here; Jan. 23, Farmville, there; Jan. 25, Chicod, there.

Eppes Opens Play

Eppes' Bulldogs will open their 1950-51 basketball season tonight against Conetoe's boys and girls teams in the local high school gymnasium.

Tip off is slated for 8 o'clock.

Such lettermen holdovers as William Myers, Bill Lee Johnson, Hubert Walter, Simon Hemby, James Daniel, and Mitchell Hines are expected to lead the Eppes hardwood quint in tonight's opener.

For the Eppes sextet, Jean King, Jackie Davis, Jackie Norris, and Joyce Hopkins will be among the leaders.

Chicod Rebounds With Tilt Tonight

Chicod, Dec. 8.—Chicod's High School cagers, after losing a twin bill to Ayden Tuesday night, rebound on their 18-game scnedule tonight, playing Winterville's teams at Winterville.

Chicod's 1950-51 schedule is as follows:

Dec. 8, Winterville, there; Dec. 14, Arthur, there; Dec. 19, Grimesland, there; Jan. 3, Bridgeton, there; Jan. 5, Ayden, here; Jan. 9, Belvoir, there; Jan. 10, Vanceboro, here; Jan. 12, Grifton, there; Jan. 16, Stokes, here; Jan. 17, Vanceboro, there; Jan. 19, Arthur, here; Jan. 25, Belvoir, here; Jan. 30, Grifton, here; Feb. 2, Stokes, there; Feb. 6, Farmville, there; Feb. 8, Grimesland, here; Feb. 13, Winterville, here.

Carolina Cleaners Tie College View

Women's City Bowling League

WGTC	25	14	.641
Carolina Cleaners	20	19	.513
College View	20	19	.513
Double N Restaurant	13	26	.330

It was "cleaners" night in the Women's City Bowling League Wednesday, with the Carolina Cleaners victorious over College View two games to one.

With their two wins, the Carolina Cleaners moved into a second place deadlock with the College View bowlers, each having won 20, losing 19.

Edith Nisbett led the Carolina Cleaners, posting the series high three-game score with 419 pins. Barbara Weir, College View took the runnerup honors with a 415, and rolled to the individual single-game high for the night with a 173.

Hot Rock Freshman Losers Not Weepers

Williamsburg, Va.—William and Mary basketball coaches consider freshman Chuck Cornell one of the most promising prospects ever to enter the institution. The 6'5" center from New Rochelle, N.Y. is only 18 years old, and could probably break into the varsity starting lineup. He leads what is probably the best W&M freshman basketball team ever assembled.

Booklet Set For Jamboree Scouts

The 165 Scouts and leaders from the East Carolina Council who camped at Valley Forge, Pa., last July at the National Jamboree will receive a 48-page book about their encampment as the gift of Walter H. Annenberg, Editor and Publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, it was announced by Ralph Mozo, Scout Excutive, today.

Mr. Mozo said the distribution of the books, titled "Jamboree '50" will be through the 14 Local Boy Scout Districts of the Council and each Jamboree camper will have "a printed record of the program activities and highlights of an occasion that will live on in our memories."

In acknowledging the extraordinary day-by-day coverage the Philadelphia Inquirer gave the National Jamboree, Dr. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America said:

"It is an example of what a great news-gathering institution, operating in a free enterprise system, can accomplish in acquainting the public with the important work a free youth Movement like the Boy Scouts of America can and does accomplish for our country. The Inquirer and nearly every other newspaper in the country helped to interpret the purpose and objective of the Jamboree."

Rescued, Fined

Sinclairville, N.Y., Dec. 8 — (AP) — Sperry Morway, 20, of Glastonbury, Conn., called firemen when his automobile stuck in a snowbank here.

Chief Maurice Westley and 20 volunteers pulled the car out. Then Morway was taken before a police justice on a charge of turning in an unnecessary fire alarm.

It cost Morway $5.

Judge Suspends Sentence When 'Proxy' Offered

Winston-Salem, N. C., Dec. 8—(AP)—Judge Dan K. Moore said it was a sporting proposition he was willing to meet half way.

The proposition made by CIO organizer Ferdinand Sylvia: He would go to jail for 30 days in place of Gilmer Childress, the father of five children.

But neither will have to serve. The superior court Judge said yesterday "I believe that labor organizer was sincere, and so I decided I wouldn't send either to jail."

Childress had been sentenced last month to 30 days on conviction of an assault charge growing out of a strike at the Arista Mills where he worked. The court yesterday suspended the sentence.

Fifty-Three Students Wind Up Work In Fall Quarter

Fifty-three students at East Carolina Teachers College completed their work at the end of the fall quarter and are now eligible for degrees, according to an announcement from the office of Dr. J.K. Long, registrar. The students will be graduated at commencement exercises held at the close of the school term on May 21. All of the fall candidates for degrees are North Carolinians except one who is from Virginia.

Forty-two of the total number are candidates for the degree of bachelor of science, which at East Carolina is a professional degree for teachers. Seven will receive the liberal arts degree.

Four of the candidates completed work for the master of arts degree, which at East Carolina is also conferred upon those preparing themselves for careers in teaching. These students, all majors in school administration, are William E. Sutton, New Bern; Joseph A. Windley, Pantego; Wade M. Woodall, Wilson; and John K. Wooten, Kinston.

Candidates for degrees from Pitt County are: B.S. Degree — Eloise R. Carmichael, Greenville; Robert A. Daugherty, Grifton; Peggy I. Edwards, Grimesland; William H. Fort, Greenville; Betty Eldridge Giles, Greenville; Stanley J. Torrill, Greenville; and C. Eloise Tucker, Greenville.

Building Costs Outrun Estimate

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 8—(AP)—The high cost of building has out-State College's latest project.

Low bids opened yesterday for changes to the college's civil engineering and electrical engineering buildings ran $218.915 more than available funds.

The state had appropriated $550,000 for the work, but low bids plus architects fees totaled $768,915. This does not include thecost vfoen lttanioand refrigeration. Bids were requested on this work but none were submitted.

Work under the bids calls for the addition of two new floors to the civil engineering building. Also, the central wing of the electrical engineering building would be replaced with a four-floor section.

The bids were taken under advisement by college officials and the state's budget bureau.

Three Weeks To Repair Bridge

Raleigh, N.C., Dec. 8—(AP)—The bridge between North and South Carolina on NC49 southwest of Charlotte will be open for traffic in about three weeks.

C. B. Taylor, State Highway Commission bridge maintenance engineer, declared that length of time will be needed to make the span safe.

Last weekend a lumber truck rammed into one of the bridge's main girders making vehicular traffice vore the span unsafe.

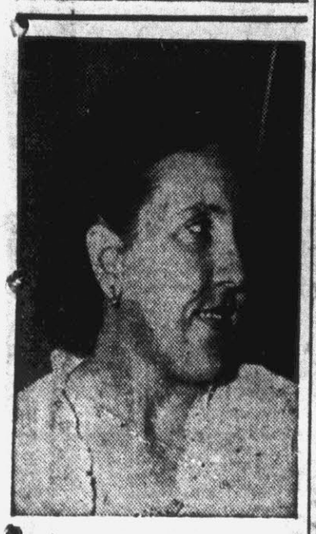
Television Sets In Prison Camps

Raleigh, N.C., Dec. 8—(AP)—Do you know the newest form of recreation for North Carolina's prison inmates? It begins with a "T."

That's right, television. Prisons Director John Gold said yesterday 15 prison camps in the Piedmont area now have sets.

They were bought with profits from the sale of soft drinks, cigarettes and other concession articles at the camps.

Gold said prisoners are permitted to watch the programs from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. He added more camps soon will have more sets.



Mrs. Anna Lavergne, Church Point, Louisiana, says she has a word of advice for those folks who seem always blue, mad at the world, or think cloudy skies are always hanging over their heads. Mrs. Lavergne says most folks when they act that way must not be feeling well . . . 'cause a poor disposition is a sure sign of trouble. Mrs. Lavergne says, just taking herself as an example . . . now that she is taking HADACOL there isn't a person in the world who can make her mad. Mrs. Lavergne found that by taking HADACOL her system was no longer deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mrs. Lavergne's own statement: "You don't know how wonderful it feels to be in such good condition—after two years of feeling run-down. I had a very poor appetite—in fact, food didn't agree with me at all. I had a hard time sleeping nights . . . sometimes I would stay awake until 1 or 2 in the morning and then the next day I would feel tired and groggy all day long. You have no idea how terrible I felt. Now all this is gone . . . yes, now that I have been taking HADACOL, I feel wonderful. I get lots of good, sound sleep, have a fine appetite and just lots of energy. I can eat any kind of food now and it doesn't bother me a bit. I just can't begin to thank HADACOL."

Don't Put Off Taking HADACOL . . . do as thousands of others do whose systems lacked Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron are doing. The HADACOL formula is very effective for stomach disorders, insomnia due to upset stomach, vague aches and pains, and a general run-down condition if they are due to such deficiencies. Make up your mind to give HADACOL a chance to help you as it has helped others whose systems lacked Vitamins B1 B2, Niacin and Iron. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size, $1.25, or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL does not help you, your money will be refunded. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from the LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

Public Welfare Story Revealed

The services rendered by the State Board of Public Welfare will be outlined in a radio program tomorrow over WGTC titled "Thousands of People," 12th in the Silent Siren series which is designed to present to the listening radio audience the services rendered by the several State agencies. Listening time is 10:15 a.m.

Thousands of North Carolinians every month are receiving aid from the State's welfare system—financial aid as well as social aid, all designed to increase the well-being of Tarheelia's greatest resource—its people.

It's the story of the State and County boartis of public welfare and the various services they perform. Old Age Assistance and Aid to Dependent Children, laws for protection and support of children born out of wedlock, boarding homes for the aged and infirm, foster homes for children—all are included in the program and only scratch the surface of what is being done for the people of the State.

The over-all series is presented by the North Carolina Resource-Use Commission. "Thousands of People" is the second program sponsored by the State Board of Public Welfare.

Orders Probe Of Durham Police

Durham, N. C., Dec 8—(AP)—Mayor Dan K. Edwards yesterday ordered an investigation of the Durham police department.

He said confidence of citizens in the department has been "seriously shaken" by the suspension of seven officers.

Two of the officers, patrolmen J. B. Lawson and F. B. Smith, were reinstated yesterday after being suspended for failure to report immediately that they shot a negro suspected of bootlegging.

Other policemen were suspended recently for the alleged jail beating of a Duke University student who took part in an uproarious rally on the eve of a football game.

Mayor Edwards ordered the safety committee of the City Council to begin the investigation immediately.

Methodists Plan Aid For Colleges

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 8—(AP)—The Western North Carolina Methodist Conference plans to raise $1,500,000 to help four state colleges it supports.

The total goal is $2,500 during the next three year. The remaining $1,000,000 is expected to be pledged at next year's meeting of the North Carolina Methodist Conference, which includes the eastern part the state.

The western project was announced yesterday by Bishop Costen J. Harrell, who met here with his cabinet and the conference commission on world service and finance.

The statewide campaign is expected to begin early next year under the direction of the Methodist College Foundation of North Carolina.

These are the minimum goals: $600,000 for Greensboro College for buildings; $800,000 for High Point College, including $500,000 for buildings and $300,000 for endowment; $700,000 for Brevard College for buildings; and $400,000 for Louisburg College, including $250,000 for buildings and $150,000 for endowment.

Report On Government Management Criticized By High State Officials

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Dec. 8—As was to be expected and as was indicated by previous reports that the council of state very reluctantly authorized its publication, the "Preliminary Study of Government Management in North Carolina," distributed this week from the office of Governor Kerr Scott has been severely criticised by several high ranking state officials.

It has been dubbed as a "Little Hoover Commission Report," and as a vital reprint of the study of North Carolina government made by the Brookings Institution twenty years ago. These classifications are partially justified by text of the booklet. At the same time, some of the criticisms are justified because many of the inefficiencies in state government pointed out by Brookings investigators twenty years ago have not been corrected, and inefficiencies attributed to federal government by the Hoover study undoubtedly prevail in North Carolina now.

The Hoover commission study of federal government was authorized by congressional resolution, and to that extent becomes a public document. The Cheek study of North Carolina government was individually conceived and financed from non-government sources. Whatever status it may claim as a public document or an "official" study comes from the fact the State of North Carolina, through council of state allocation of contingency and emergency funds, paid for its printing. Duke University and private contributions put several thousand dollars intothe study.Taxpayers of North Carolina paid $900 for printing the booklet. Fly-leaf notation says it was "Printed through the office of the Governor of North Carolina upon authority from the council of state." That certainly gives it some official recognition. And it is that official cognizance that peeves most of the state officials who have voiced resentment at its publication and distribution.

When boiled down to essentials the Brooking Institute report two decades ago and the Cheek study now call for almost dictatorial powers for our governors. Mrs. Cheek writes that one of the things most North Carolinians do not understand is that when they elect a governor to run the state, he doesn't have authority to do the job. North Carolinians don't want one man to have authority to "run the state." In many states secretaries of state, auditors, treasurers, and various commissioners of agriculture, labor, insurance and so forth, are appointed by the governor. In North Carolina we elect these officials, and we are not ready to give over that prerogative.

The governor does not "run the state" and very few people who vote for a governor expect or want him to have that authority.

There are many things pointed out in the Cheek study, as were pointed out in the Brookings reports, which might improve governmental operations in North Carolina. Consensus among capitol square commentators is that the Cheek study and its accompanying recommendations does grave injustice to hundreds of loyal state officials and employees by evidently seeking to create the impression that all state officials and workers are either incompetent or crooked, or both.

The members of the missionary union who attended the meeting Sunday, Dec. 3, at Vines Chapel, Falkland, can truly say that prayer is still "The key in the hand of Faith, to unlock heaven's store house." Where there are treasured the boundless resources of omnipotence.

When the president announced that there would be no bus going to Falkland the union members gathered as usual at York Memorial, but their faces had an interrogative look, with the question unspoken, how will we go? When the members pulled off at 2:45 p.m. there was plenty room and more room for others who did not go. The prayers down through the ages have caused the haulting missionaries to go on.

A splendid crowd awaited the union's coming. The meeting was opened by singing "Jesus Keep Me Nearer The Cross" after a touching prayer, the scripture lesson was taken from the 33rd Psalm. The topic for discussion was "Why I Am Thankful." The pastor, Rev. Mrs. Corey, made the visiting union feel quite at home and a pleasant surprise was the dinner served after the meeting.

The president is asking all union members to fast until noon Saturday and spend from 11:50 to 12 o'clock in prayer for peace. Think of holding the key of Heaven in your hand. Let us use it often. The missionary union will hold its regular monthly meeting Sunday, December 10 at English Chapel. The bus will leave York Memorial at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, carrying all union members to English Chapel. Our topic will be "The Coming Messiah." Bring from your neighborhood the names of all sick members.

Villagers Flee As Etna Thunders New Threats

Catania, Sicily, Dec. 8—(AP)—A deafening whistle shrilled from the depths of seething Mount Etna early today as a column of trucks bore the last frightened residents from tiny Milo Village, menaced by the onco··ing lava tide.

Volcano experts said the piercing whistle apparently came from a lava-blocked crater, as pent-up gases forced their way into the open.

An aerial survey disclosed that molten lava was pouring out of some two score small craters scattered over a wide sector 6,500 feet above sea level.

This discovery ruled out the possibility of dropping bombs from planes to divert the flowing lava from the inhabited area.

Removal of the population and their belongings from Milo continued throughout the night under the glare of searchlights.

More than 2,000 persons already have fled from Milo and neighboring Renazzo.

The villagers took everything they could move from their homes including windows, doors and even roof tiles.

The main lava stream has split into five rivulets, spreading like the fingers of a giant hand. Three of the streams have virtually stopped, but the two nearest Milo and Renazzo continued to advance, covering houses, farms and vineyards in their paths.

The streams were moving at about 60 to 75 feet an hour.

The 10,741-foot volcano—Europe's largest—began its latest outburst 13 days ago.

New Drug For Pain Of Stomach Ulcers

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Cleveland, Dec. 8—(AP)—A drug that blocks nerve messages is showing good results in relieving pain from stomach ulcers, and in avoiding or deferring operations for ulcers, a surgeon has reported.

The drug is Banthine. It blocks tranmission of nerve impulses that cause spasms in the stomach and upper intestines.

Dr. Keith S. Grimson of Duke University told the American Medical Association yeaterday of a study started 21 months ago on 100 patients. Dr. C. K. Lyons and Dr. Benjamin H. Flowe are associated with him.

Sixty-two of the people had signs, such as pain, bleeding and vomiting, indicating need for surgery, he said. Ten of these later had to have operations, after getting the drug four to six times daily for five to 45 weeks.

But of the other 52 in this group, 20 continued to get complete relief from pain, 23 had satisfactory relief, and nine had brief recurrences.

There were 38 patients who did not seem to need operations. Twenty-four are getting complete relief from pain, 12 satisfactory relief, and two have had brief recurrences of pain.

The patients will be observed at least five years before conclusions about the drug may be more definite, Dr. Grimson said. It can cause unwanted effects — dryness of the mouth, bladder relaxation, and dilated pupils.

People who have repeated hemorrhages from ulcers probably should have operations, even though results with Banthine look encouraging, he said.

Plastic pipe is finding wide use in irrigation and sewage systems on the farm.

Electric Plant Workers Strike For More Pay

Burlington, N.C., Dec. 8—(AP)—An estimated 600 or 700 workers at the Western Electric Company's plant here walked off the job today in support of demands for a wage increase. The estimate was made by worker spokesmen.

Second shift workers quit at 4:45 a.m. Many first shift workers, due on the job at 7 a.m., remained out. Office personnel and some workers entered the plant this morning.

Spokesmen for the workers demanded a 15-cent an hour wage increase. Present wage rates were not disclosed.

There was no picketing at the plant.

Election Survey By Republicans

Washington, Dec. 8 — (AP) — Republican national and state leaders gathered here today to survey factors working for and against the party in the recent elections.

The executive committee of the party's national committee planned to use this information in strengthening organization work for the 1952 campaign.

Ryukyus Under MacArthur Rule

Tokyo, Dec. 8—(AP)—General MacArthur today became governor of Okinawa and the other Ryukyu islands under a broad program apparently designed to tighten control over the strategic chain.

The Army Public Information Office said the action was ordered by the U.S. Joint Chief of Staff.

Firemen Get 2 Calls Yesterday Evening

Greenville firemen received two calls at the same time last night around 9:30. One was to "The Bootery" on Evans street, where several reports indicated belief the building was afire; another was received from the State Theater where an overheated motor on the roof was smoking. No trace of fire at "The Bootery" was found.

Late yesterday afternoon, Mrs. J. L. Jenkins of Ayden was injured in a fall on Dickinson avenue. She was taken to Pitt General Hospital by the fire department's rescue truck where it was later reported she suffered an injured shoulder.

NEW CROWN PRINCE — Carl-Gustaf, son of Princess Sibylla and late Prince Gustaf Adolf, who is new Crown Prince of Sweden, claps his hands while at play in Stockholm.

Heavy Fine For Drunken Driving

In Police Court today Judge J. W. H. Roberts found David L. Griffin guilty of driving a motor vehicle while drunk. He imposed a fine of $125 and court costs on the defendant and ordered that his driver's license be revoked for a year.

A police officer and other witnesses testified that the car Griffin was driving collided with the rail of the bridge over Tar River on the Bethel highway on a recent night. The railing was damaged. The court provided in the fine that the $25 would go toward paying the State for the damage to the bridge. Griffin's driver's license was ordered revoked for a year.

The Aldermen authorized the insertion in the city code of the former ordinance pertaining to safety precautions practiced by gasoline delivery trucks. The ordinance was taken out of the code when it was drawn up and gas truck traffic on the city streets subsequently has created a hazard. The ordinance states such precautions as having the operator standing by when transfer of gasoline is made, storage tanks must be vented, connections must be tightly sealed after transfer, etc.

The finance committee was authorized to invest $25,000 of the cemetery savings account and $5,000 of workmen's compensation account in bonds.

The Mayor and City Clerk were authorized to purchase a mimeograph machine for use in the various offices of the City.

The street committee was advised to investigate the feasibility of installing street lights on First Street between Cotanche and Reid, on the corner of Hooker Road and Truman Street, and on James Street between 8th and 9th streets.

The Chief of Police was ordered to investigate the advisability of restoring the traffic light at 14th and Charles streets. In his report, Chief Langston stated he had granted seven permits for driving taxis. They were given to Alfred Smith Brock, Robert Dewey Harris, Thomas Edward Tripp, Warren C. Jackson, Bobby Willie Nash, James Carlton Harper, white; and Daniel Russell Early, Jr., Negro. The Chief was also granted permission to stage the Police Ball next Tuesday at East Carolina's Wright Auditorium. It will be tax-free.

The fire department committee was ordered to investigate overhauling the engine of the small truck and to have such repairs made that are needed. The Fire Chief was authorized to purchase as much Pyrene fire foam he thinks the department will need. Cost will be $1 a gallon.

The cemetery committee was authorized to investigate the possibility of repairing the fence around Cherry Hill Cemetery.

A letter of thanks was read from the board of trustees of Pitt Memorial hospital concerning the city's granting the hospital garbage disposal service.

Miss Hester of Sheppard Memorial Library thanked the Board for its cooperation while she was librarian and the Board gave a rising vote of thanks for Miss Hester's services in that capacity.

FATHER, WOULDN'T YOU LIKE ROAST GOOSE FOR DINNER?

POMONA! LADY LANA'S FATHER WAS A BRAVE KNIGHT WHO NEVER RETURNED FROM A CRUSADE!

OAKY, TAKE THE GOOSE TO MURDOCK, THE ROYAL WIZARD, AND HAVE HIM CHANGE IT BACK TO LADY LANA!
YES, YOUR MAJESTY!
FATHER! CAN'T YOU LEAVE WELL ENOUGH ALONE?!

OAKY! WAIT FOR ME!

AND A MINUTE LATER...
DO YOU THINK YOU CAN DO IT, MISTER MURDOCK?
SHUCKS, OAKY, IT'S ELEMENTARY!

HOCUS! POCUS!

IMAGINE DUMPING KEROSENE IN THE TANK OF YOUR CAR AND TAKING OFF LIKE A JACK-RABBIT—IT WON'T WORK WITH YOUR PRESENT CAR BUT WITH THE FUTURE HIGH-COMPRESSION ENGINE NOW BEING DEVELOPED YOU CAN ALSO USE ALCOHOL, BENZINE, MOTOR OIL, TRACTOR FUEL AND MANY OTHER FUELS AND GET 30 PERCENT MORE MILES PER GALLON.

OUT OF FUEL? OH, NO!—WE'RE MILES FROM THE NEAREST FILLING STATION!

BE CALM, MY PET—THE FLUID FROM MY CIGARETTE LIGHTER WILL GET US GOING—BUT FAST!

WHASSAMATTER?

SPUT

I'M OUT OF FUEL--BUT I SEE YOU'RE NOT!

HEY! GET OUTA THERE!

GEE, THANKS!

MY GOODNESS, DONNIE, YOU LOOK PRETTY WORRIED

I AM, MR. PETERS...

I'M WORRIED ABOUT MY POP... HE JUST DOESN'T SEEM TO MAKE SENSE!

AND WHAT'S YOUR POP BEEN UP TO, DONNIE?

I ASKED SANTA CLAUS FOR A NEW BICYCLE.

YES?

WELL, POP CAME SNEAKIN' HOME WITH ONE LAST NIGHT! I SAW HIM!

YOU DID?

YES... AND THAT'S BEING PRETTY SILLY—

GOING OUT BUYING ONE WHEN SANTA'S GOING TO BRING ME ONE IN A COUPLE OF WEEKS!

MM, WHAT A STRANGE LOOKING COW OVER THERE, BUT WHY HASN'T IT GOT ANY HORNS?

WELL, YUH SEE, SOME COWS WE DE-HORN, AND SOME COWS IS BORN WITHOUT HORNS AND NEVER HAS 'EM, AND SOME COWS SHED 'EM...

THERE'S LOTS OF REASONS WHY SOME COWS AIN'T GOT HORNS, BUT THE REASON THAT COW AIN'T GOT HORNS IS —

SHE AIN'T A COW.....SHE'S A MULE.
