Korean Peace Proposal Is Laid Before United Nations; China Would Get Voice In Asia Issues

Lake Success, Dec. 12 — (AP) — India's Sir Benegal Rau laid before the United Nations today a plan designed to halt the fighting in Korea and resolve other Far Eastern problems. In presenting the plan for a group of Asian and Middle East countries, Rau said he was convinced from his talks with Chinese Communist envoy Wu Hsiu-Chuan that the Peiping government wants peace. He warned, however, that the Chinese people seem to be moving toward a sort of Monroe (hands off) doctrine for the Far East. Rau proposed that the Chinese Reds be given a direct voice in settling outstanding Asian problems after the basis for a cease-fire in Korea is worked out.

The Middle East-Asian plan was embodied in two resolutions worked out in a series of closed-door conferences just before the Political Committee met this morning. Rau asked for top priority consideration of the proposals. The committee overrode Soviet opposition and decided to begin debate at once on the new proposals. The vote was 48 to 5 (Soviet bloc) with four abstentions. Ecuador, Turkey, Thailand and Nationalist China abstained. The resolutions were transmitted to the State Department immediately by the U.S. delegation. A spokesman said the delegation would not comment until it had received high-level reaction from Washington. One of the proposals would create a three-man commission, headed by assembly president Nashallah Entezam of Iran, to "determine the basis on which a satisfactory cease-fire in Korea can be arranged." The other two members would be named by Entezam. Informed quarters said this formula was adopted to meet U.S. objections to an outright cease-fire, which might leave the way open for a continued build-up of Chinese Communist forces in Korea. The three-man body would get the interested countries to agree to fixed conditions for halting the conflict.

C-of-C Okays Stand On N.C. Tax Increases

Local Directors Approve Recommendation; Similarly Oppose State Responsibility For City Streets, Gasoline Taxes

Directors of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce last night voted approval of a report recommending the business organization oppose any increase of state taxes during the coming biennium. The report was made by J. M. Taft of the legislative and national affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Likewise approved by the directors was the recommendation that the organization oppose the proposal that the state highway commission take over the maintenance of the city streets of North Carolina and any increase in the gasoline tax of the state. The directors endorsed the action of the state department of conservation and the Federal Power Commission to approve the petition of the Virginia Electric Power Company for permission to construct a dam and power plant at Roanoke Rapids.

Attlee Hopeful For Korea Stand

Commons Cheers Optimistic Report Of Talks With Truman

London, Dec. 12—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons today "I have good hopes that the forces of the United Nations will maintain themselves in Korea."

Parliament members cheered the announcement, made as a report on the prime minister's world crisis talks with President Truman in Washington and Canadian leaders in Ottawa. The prime minister returned by plane from his North American trip today, immediately reported to King George and held a conference with his cabinet. Outlining to the House the results of the trip, Attlee said: "On Korea and the Far East we have agreed on the immediate course which our representatives at the United Nations should follow. We were agreed that aggression must be halted and we were equally certain that every effort should be made to prevent an extension of the conflict."

Farmers of Pitt County — landowners, tenants and sharecroppers alike—will confer Thursday afternoon on problems similar to both: who is going to work for whom next year. The conference is the first of the kind to be held in the county. Called Farm Employment Day, it is sponsored by the local branch of the North Carolina Employment Division for the purpose of finding employment for those persons, either single or in families, during the planting and growing season. The informal conference will be held at the Employment office on E. 5th Street Thursday afternoon from one to five p.m. The employment session is being held to put the employe and the employer on a person-to-person basis, one on which the landowner can hire a man or family whom he has talked to personally. To date several calls have been received by the office for placement on farms next year. The conference is to eliminate many of those "in the dark" placements.

Pitt Farmers To Confer On Labor Problem Of 1951

Chairman J. E. Waldrop of the industrial committee reported on the organizational meeting for a local industrial development foundation which was held November 30. President Van C. Fleming Jr., who was appointed a member of the steering committee at the meeting, reported the organization will be known as Greenville Industries, Incorporated, and will have an authorized capital stock of $250,000. A charter for the organization has been drawn and is to be submitted to the steering committee for approval at a meeting scheduled for Wednesday morning. Hugh C. Winslow, chairman of the agricultural committee, said a meeting was held with the vocational agricultural teachers of the county at which time the representatives of the Chamber of Commerce proposed that a county-wide fat stock show tentatively planned for April be a joint project of the organization. Mobilizing Our Youth

Whether War Comes Or Not, It's Fairly Certain This Country Will Have A Large Armed Force; Whom To Call Into Service; Opinions Of Educators On Problem

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Dec. 12—(AP)—Whether or not war comes soon, it seems certain this country will have to have a fairly large armed force for some years to come. Plans are being made now for larger forces.

The backbone of these forces, of course, will be young men. But the question upon which educators themselves disagree is this: What young men shall be forced to serve? All young men? Or should the brainiest youths be allowed to defer compulsory military services and go to college so that the country will be assured of a flow of educated men for the future?

Only last week in Look Magazine James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, stated his views on this. He suggested that every youth in America—without exception—be called into military service for two years. And by every youth, he meant just that, with the physically able compelled to serve in the armed forces, and the physically unfit to serve in other jobs for the government at the pay the armed forces get. What about college students? Should they be exempt? Conant says no. What about college education for those who want it? Conant says they can go to college after serving in the army, navy or air force. Conant suggests that every youth, upon reaching 18 or upon graduation from high school, be enrolled in military service. But what of deferring military service for a youth who wants to go to, or finish, college? Conant says: "To defer military service until a young man's education is complete may mean deferring it four to eight years." Opposing that, he thinks they'd be better off, and so would the country, if they put in their military service first and then went to college. Shortly after president Conant's views appeared, the Association of American Universities adopted a resolution saying more or less what Conant had said. This association of educators is made up of 37 major colleges and universities out of the 1,800 in this country. Briefly, the AAU plan goes like this: Military service of 27 months for all males, starting at 18, not

Into The Sea?

Moscow, Dec. 12—(AP)—The Moscow press today said North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung has ordered his forces and Chinese fighting with them to push American armies in Korea into the sea. In a statement to the Korean people, reported fully by Soviet newspapers, Kim Il Sung called for "vengeance and death to American armed interventionists and death to the treasonous gang of (South Korean President) Syngman Rhee."

The premier told his forces not to give the Americans time to regroup and form a new defense line, but to push forward, pressing the advantage gained in their recent victories in North Korea. A government spokesman said the Big Four meeting, rather than being "imminent," would come "soon." He added the Western powers' reply to the Russian invitation, drafted here last weekend by representatives of the government, had not yet been seen. Russia already has said she would not tolerate rearmament of West Germany. Though there was no official comment on the reports of admiral German government opposition to present plans for German rearmament, government sources privately made little effort to conceal their irritation. Adenauer reportedly will not accept the Western plans unless they give Germany equality in the defense force with other nations. The plan at present calls for German units of less than 5,000 men each, without a general staff and without heavy weapons. Schuman himself told the Assembly France was "irrevocably attached" to the present plan for the use of the German forces. He termed it "the only solution possible and acceptable for all the world."

House Damaged In Monday Fire

Top Floor Gutted By Flames; Hydrant Fails Fire Fighters

A flash fire, believed to have originated from a faulty cooking stove, late yesterday afternoon completely gutted the top floor of a house at 110 Reade Street after giving firemen more than a two hour battle. When the first truck from the Greenville Fire Department arrived at the house, flames and smoke were pouring out one side of the building near the roof and from back windows on the top floor and a first floor bathroom. A one and one-half inch hose line was pulled off from the lead truck in addition to booster lines in an effort to attempt to halt the spread of flames or slow them until larger hose lines which were being laid could be brought into play. However, after firemen had connected large hose lines to the hydrant they found that they could not get any water from the hydrant located at the corner of Second and Reade Streets. The firemen were forced to move their truck and lines to a hydrant a block up the street, resulting in a considerable delay in bringing water to bear on the fire. During this time, other firemen using lines from the small truck which has a 500 gallon water capacity, were battling the flames and had water knocked the fire out when the water geyser out. Despite the delay, firemen were able to hold the blaze in check until the large hoses lined up additional water. It was nearly eight-thirty before firemen could take up their hose and return to the station. One reason for the rapid spread of the fire and the difficulty encountered in putting it out was that the tin-covered roof had been placed over a covering of shingles, which added fuel to the fire as it raced along the top part of the roof. Firemen used axes and poles to pull off the tin on the roof in order to completely put out the fire. The entire top part of the building, which housed a bedroom and kitchen, was a complete loss and heavy damage was suffered by the bottom floor of the structure. The house was occupied by Zano Little. It was not known if there was any insurance on the building or the exact amount of the loss suffered. The fire was first discovered about five-thirty. Greenville Utility workers were checking the faulty hydrant this morning to determine the reason for the hydrant's failure yesterday.

Plan Extension Of Holy Year

Vatican City, Dec. 12—(AP)—The Holy Year jubilee which ends here on Christmas eve will be extended through all of 1951 to the entire world. Vatican sources said today that extension of the Holy Year—which will apply to the whole world except Rome—will be the same as for the Holy Year now ending the 25th in the nearly 2,000 years of the church. A Papal Bull proclaiming the extension officially was done at the end of the 1925 Holy year, is expected to be published on Christmas day.

Berlin Battalion Ready To Aid Allied Soldiers

Berlin, Dec. 12—(AP)—U. S. forces in Berlin disclosed today new corps of armed and uniformed Germans has snapped into shape so quickly that it can be trusted with guarding the army's lifeline—ammunition and fuel. American authorities broke a long official silence about the German cadre in announcing that the first units of a 1,000-man battalion here have completed their basic training. Formally called a labor service unit, the battalion is designed to relieve American soldiers of guard duty and other routine details so that available troops can concentrate on military functions. The Americans and the British organized more than 60,000 Germans into similar battalions in west Germany for the same role last summer. Berlin was drawn into the plan in September. The force is slightly larger than the communist "alert units" in the Russian zone. About 50,000 eastern "police" are organized in these units with full scale military training. The western labor service battalions are so drilled that they amount to a force of rookies just out of basic training. Observers say they could form a solid nucleus for a west German army.

Schuman Reveals Big Four Talks Being Scheduled

Discussion Of Rearmament Western Germany Is Declared 'Imminent'

Paris, Dec. 12—(AP)—Foreign Minister Robert Schuman told the French National Assembly today that a meeting of the Big Four—Russia, the U. S., Britain and France—to discuss the German rearmament problem is "imminent."

His statement came as French official quarters privately expressed great disturbance over reports that West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer would reject a French-approved plan for the use of German units in a West-European army. Russia invited the western nations to meet the Soviets, but only if the topics of discussion include the Far East and other world problems as well as Germany. A government spokesman said the Big Four meeting, rather than being "imminent," would come "soon." He added the Western powers' reply to the Russian invitation, drafted here last weekend by representatives of the government, had not yet been seen. Russia already has said she would not tolerate rearmament of West Germany. Though there was no official comment on the reports of admiral German government opposition to present plans for German rearmament, government sources privately made little effort to conceal their irritation. Adenauer reportedly will not accept the Western plans unless they give Germany equality in the defense force with other nations. The plan at present calls for German units of less than 5,000 men each, without a general staff and without heavy weapons. Schuman himself told the Assembly France was "irrevocably attached" to the present plan for the use of the German forces. He termed it "the only solution possible and acceptable for all the world."

Some French sources described the German position as "blackmail." They predicted Adenauer's government would hold out until sufficient British and American divisions were in West Germany to stop any Russian advance and until West Germany was given political concessions. Meantime a Belgian foreign office spokesman announced that the foreign ministers of the 12 Atlantic Pact nations will meet in Brussels next Monday to thresh out the problem of rearming Germany.

Viking Rocket Test Fails To Attain Record

White Sands Proving Ground, N. M., Dec. 12—(AP)—The sixth navy Viking rocket fizzled out today in an assault on the world altitude record of 114 miles for a one stage rocket. The Viking cut itself off after 65 seconds of flight—just 10 seconds short of a new altitude mark of 115 miles. The 114 mile record was set Dec. 17, 1946, by a German V-2. The biggest of all American rockets reached a peak of 68 or 69 miles—well below the 106.4-mile height attained last May 11 by a Viking fired from a warship in mid-Pacific. Another 10 seconds at its estimated speed of 2,750 miles an hour would have set a new record.

New Congress To Receive Demand For Aid To Chiang

Washington, Dec. 12—(AP)—A demand for military aid to Nationalist China was turned over to the 82nd Congress today with the public backing of 34 Senate Republicans and four Democrats. Senator Knowland (R-Calif.), who failed to get the senate to earmark $38,000,000 in such aid yesterday, told a reporter he will try again when the new congress convenes next month. At that time the Republicans will have 47 senators on their side of the aisle, instead of the 43 who now sit there. Taking this into account, Knowland said: "If the administration hasn't completely lost touch with realities, it will realize that the new congress taking over in three weeks is likely to reverse the close vote of yesterday. I hope that before then something concrete will be done to encourage the Chinese Nationalists."

Solvent Enough To Undertake Arms Program

London, Dec. 12—(AP)—Britain feels she is solvent enough now to undertake a $10,000,000,000 three-year rearmament program without American help, informed sources said last night. The program—set forth last August—hinged on the United States chipping in $1,500,000,000 worth of aid, but the U.S. made it plain it would be hard to sell Congress on the idea. The informants said Britain feels her own finances have improved enough for her to undertake the whole program. They added the decision, which may be announced to Parliament by Prime Minister Attlee this week, was in part influenced by two factors which they said came out of the Truman-Attlee Washington talks.

Local Telephone Rates Rise; Appeal Approved

From now on owners of telephones in Pitt County will pay between fifty cents and $1.25 more for their Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company service. The State Utilities Commission yesterday approved an increase in rates for the company amounting to three-quarters of a million dollars each year. The increase was approved after the Commission had defined a "fair and reasonable" return in telephone company profits as 6.5 percent. The company had originally requested a rate hike amounting to $1,273,359. As stated by the Commission, the hikes are needed to "meet rising operating costs, finance improvements and permit the company a rate of return capable of attracting new capital. Commissioner Joshua James dissented from the approval. The increases will be on all telephones used in the Carolina-served area which numbers 104 exchanges and over 88,000 subscribers. Exchanges affected in Pitt will be Greenville, Farmville, Ayden, Bethel, Grifton and Fountain. All telephones in the area will be affected, whether they be one-party or multi-party lines. Carolina Telephone Company's Greenville manager Frank Harrington was out of town this morning and could not be contacted for a statement. However, a spokesman for the Greenville office stated the rate change. Greenville's rates will be raised higher than any of the other towns, on the basis of old rates in existence before the increase was approved. Business phones will be raised to $7.25, $6, $5.25 and $4.75 (one-party, two-, three-, four- and multi-party rates). Home phones will be raised to $4.50, $4, $3.50. The exist-

An End To Colonialism

China's Successes In Korea Cast A Shadow Of Fear Over The Colonial Peoples Of Southeast Asia; They Are Next; Colonialism Used As Communist Weapon

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

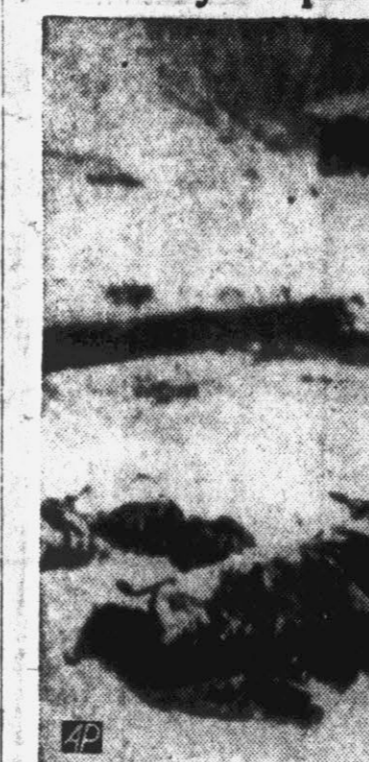

The Chinese Communist advance in Korea "has cast a shadow of fear over southeast Asia."

That is the central note of a dispatch from Seymour Topping, AP correspondent reporting from Hanoi, French Indochina. Simultaneously another AP staffman, Kenneth Likes, cables in similar tone from Saigon, Indochina. The consensus of military and diplomatic observers in Hanoi is that if China secures Korea she will then turn southward to countries rich in resources she needs. These observers feel that the French and British Armies in southeast Asia aren't ready to cope with a massed attack by China. Certainly the situation is grave enough to warrant gloom on the part of the colonial powers in some instances. However it strikes me that one of their greatest weaknesses is that they ARE colonial powers. The terms "colonialism" and "imperialism" are anathema to the peoples throughout Asia. In many instances the "mother countries" are facing a fierce resentment against colonialism by peoples who want their independence. A case in hand is that of French Indochina where the authorities are battling a rebellion. Now it is true that heavy communist influences are fostering the revolts, and that manpower and material help are being sent over the border into Indochina by the Chinese. However, the point is that the Reds are taking advantage of the anti-imperialist feeling among the natives by promising independence. The natives are ready to grab at any straw which they think may give them sovereignty. Colonialism has existed so many centuries that it's difficult to accept the fact that it is fast on its way out. The days when a "mother" country could impose her will on the peoples of another race are gone forever. Britain recognized that when, for example, she gave up India-brightest gem in the imperial crown, Holland recognized it in agreeing to independence for rich Indonesia. America established Philippine sovereignty. The other day the independence of the prewar Italian colony of Libya was proclaimed. And so the story goes. Yes, I know that at this point you are asking how about the Red "empire" which Russia is col-

Eighth Army Falls Back To Old Boundary, Parallel 38

Hasty Requiem For The Dead In Korean Retreat

An unidentified chaplain, his wounded head bandaged, reads funeral services over the bodies of U. S. Marines killed in the fighting retreat from the Changjin reservoir in North Korea. Jack MacBeth, Associated Press correspondent with the retreating Marines, said he saw 200 bodies nosed into a single grave by a bulldozer because there was no time for more elaborate funeral arrangements. This photo was made by Marine Corporal William T. Wolfe of Paducah, Ky. (AP Wirephoto from Tokyo via radio).

Only Isolated Tenth Corps And 'Lost' Units Above Former Boundary; North Korean Civilians In Near-Panic; Whole Villages Moving South

Tokyo, Dec. 12—(AP)—Almost all North Korea was abandoned by United Nations troops today to the massive communist forces of China and Red Korea's remnant army. In the West, the bulk of the allied Eighth Army had withdrawn to parallel 38, the old boundary between North and South Korea. In the northeast, most of the U. S. 10th Corps was huddled on the Hamhung coastal plain. This force was 130 air miles deep in Red Korea, but it was surrounded by communist forces and the road south was blocked. At the nearby port of Hungnam, a U. N. fleet was standing by in readiness to evacuate the encircled 10th Corps. An American Army regiment, the Seventh Division's 17th that once stood on the Manchurian border, was somewhere in the frozen wasteland and presumably withdrawing toward Hungnam. Its movements were shrouded for security reasons. So, too, were the positions of two South Korean divisions, the Third and Capital. At full strength they would total about 20,000 men. They had struck along the northeast coast within 40 miles of Soviet Siberia when masses of Red Chinese turned the tide and the order was given to withdraw. The climactic point of collapse in the campaign sponsored by 53 non-communist nations to smash Red Korean aggression and unify the divided country was accompanied by near-panic among Korean civilians. Hordes of non-military Koreans—and probably some fifth columnists—were swarming southward across the frozen countryside. They crowded into every available vehicle or trudged through the snow and ice on foot. Whole villages were on the move in queues of desperation—or opportunity in the case of disguised Reds. North of parallel 38, two AP correspondents reported one south-bound column of refugees alone had in it between 300,000 and 500,000 men, women and children. The refugees were moving about 20 miles every 24 hours, wading icy streams and picking up whole village populations as they moved along. Anxiety was apparent in South Korea's capital of Seoul. Lines of refugees streamed southward from the city as the crowds entered from the north with their feeling of insecurity unabated. Korean president Syngman Rhee planned an appeal to halt the migration. There was virtually no fighting contact between the communists and allied ground forces. General MacArthur's headquarters said the Chinese Reds were advancing slowly. Their troop mass appeared to be turning toward the center of the peninsula where there is no allied line. The Chinese, largely an army that travels on its feet, moved slower in the west than the retreating U. S. Eighth Army did. The Chinese apparently are taking advantage of the period of no contact to reinforce any supply. MacArthur's headquarters said two Mongolian cavalry divisions—with winter-hardened Mongol ponies and camel trains—had been spotted in Korea. They were described as "lightly armed... extremely mobile and capable of traversing the roughest terrain."

Committeemen And Peanut Quotas To Be Voted Dec. 14

Farmers participating in the agriculture program of the Production and Marketing Administration will go to the polls Thursday to elect community committeemen and also to decide by ballot if marketing quotas will remain on peanuts for another year. The committeemen to be voted upon were nominated last week in community conventions. Sixty-six are to be elected in the balloting, three from each of the communities in the 13 townships of the county. The farmers will also elect delegates to the county convention the following day for the purpose of electing a three-man county committee to administer the PMA program. Voting on marketing quotas will determine if the farmers want support prices for next year's peanut crop. At present the farmer receives 90 percent of parity for the crop and if the quotas are voted out, he will receive only about 50 percent. PMA committee secretary James V. Meredith stated today he thinks the farmers will vote in favor of the controls. He said the farmers he has talked to in the past several days seemed to think if they vote out controls on peanuts, the tobacco program might be affected thereby in the future. And in Dallas, Tex., where the National Farm Bureau Convention is in progress, passage of the peanut referendum was urged by the president of the North Carolina delegation, Alonza Edwards, Hookerton, urged North Carolina farmers, in their county elections, to back the referendum. "I feel more strongly than ever that our peanut producers should support the referendum," Edwards stated. "Such support would be in keeping with North Carolina Farm Bureau policies and afford us a better opportunity to work out a sound program for our peanut producers." He pointed out resolutions passed by the Bureau convinced him that a part of the program by the peanut growers is vital to the future of peanuts as a profitable cash crop. The North Carolina delegation is pledged to price supports and acreage adjustments, he said, in developing a "sound long-range farm program to be administered by farmers."

There was a birthday party held at Grimesland school on Friday night which consisted of many and various amusements. After the program the crowd was invited to the dining room which was artistically decorated with holly, mistletoe and Christmas bells. Ambrosia, ice cream and cake formed the menu. After supper the fish pond proved very entertaining to the children while the grown people enjoyed pinning the "Donkey's tail" on Mrs. Scott Galloway, winning the prize. The evening closed with raffling off a cake for the prettiest girl, Miss Blanche Ferebee being the winner. The sum of $40 was realized.

For we all still love you and are looking for that day when we all can be together again. For we believe Jesus is soch coming back to get his loved ones to take them home. So may God bless our little boy, who would have been eight years old December 12, 1950.

Operetta To Be Given By Grades At Grimesland

On Friday night, December 15, at 7:30 p. m., the children of the elementary grades of the Grimesland school will present a Christmas operetta, entitled "Christmas at the Circus and Winter Wonderland."

The operetta, under the direction of Mrs. J. T. Madry, head of the music department of the Grimesland school, will be given for the benefit of the piano fund. Teachers of the elementary grades are assisting Mrs. Madry in the presentation.

The operetta will be presented in three parts. The first part deals with the nativity, and in this scene a choir of fifty voices and a pantomime reader will be used.

The second part, entitled "Christmas at the Circus," shows how circuses celebrate the holidays. There are three main characters in this scene, a ringmaster played by Patsy Madry; Tony the barker played by S. W. Heath; and Toto the head clown played by Clarence Elks. The action in this scene will consist of circus bands, a pony chorus, monkeys, tigers, bears, elephants, a jack-in-the-box, trapeze girls, popcorn balls, candles, clowns and a yo-yo chorus.

In the third part of the operetta, entitled "Winter Wonderland," the beauties of nature will be depicted by snowflakes, snowmen, jingle bells and a gypsy chorus.

The grand finale will consist of a circus parade in rehearsal for Santa Claus.

The patrons of the school and the general public are cordially invited to attend.

When Are They Going To Tackle The Price Problem?

Hikes of automobile prices by General Motors and Ford point to another general round of price increases in the general manufacturing field. The new contract negotiated between Chrysler and the CIO makes a hike in Chrysler automobiles almost assured.

These price increases in major consumer items, coupled with the cut of natural rubber available for domestic consumption, add to the fire which is sending the price gauge higher every week. Government officials have talked of price controls, but so far have proposed only "voluntary" controls which in effect have amounted to absolutely nothing.

Under normal circumstances there are few if any people in the country who would want a return to price controls. In this period of renewed inflation, however, some checks are necessary to slow down the skyrocketing of prices. The tightening of credit restrictions to some extent helped to check the inflationary trend, but the check was temporary in a sense. The restriction in vital metals and other materials which go into the production of the most sought-after consumer goods already is cutting the number of units which are available to the public. The general public probably has more ready cash per item produced now, than it did before the credit restrictions and the production restrictions began to take effect.

Some solution is needed to slow down the price spiral. The government economists have ten years of experience from which to draw in mapping an effective program for coping with the inflationary problem. The longer the spiral is allowed to continue unchecked, the more difficult it is going to be to bring it under control.

I Intend To Start Swimming—

Somebody Told Me

Dear Santa Claus,
 My friend, you have quite a job on the evening of December 24th, but I might as well make it a little harder for you by adding my list to the millions you have already received.
 Mainly, Santa, I want a privilege instead of a material item. That privilege is to wear civilian clothes the rest of my life, instead of a uniform that will mean all-out war. While I reserve the right to kick Greenville, I like it here, and have no desire to go back to war. Unfortunately, it seems that the elimination of some of the inefficiency in Washington will be our first step toward peace. Unless we get on the ball in Washington, all of us will be behind the proverbial eight ball.
 On his Sunday afternoon program, Santa, Arthur Godfrey, the radio star, expressed my sentiments: If it has to be, why doesn't Harry declare a state of emergency, and press all-out mobilization to the point that our rate of preparation is stepped up enough to give the boys in Korea adequate backing? It's this state of in-between that drives us crazy, and life is too short to spend worrying. At this point, America is ready for action.
 All of us want peace for Christmas, Santa, but there are few other things, too. Some we don't have to mention. Men will get a dozen neckties without even expressing any desire for them, a dozen socks and underwear, a billfold, cuff links and shirts. Women will get hose, slips, candy, handkerchiefs, and perfume. Santa, I'm loaded with these items, and would appreciate your leaving them off.
 Anybody who reads this column knows that I'd like to have two brothers and one sister for my daughter, Nancy. You can fill that order gradually.
 At three months, Nancy is a trifle too small to write you, so I'll pass on her request. This one will require a new manufacture, for it's a biggest milk bottle that Nancy wants. At this stage she's really wild about feeding time, and the temptation is to nickname her "Pig."
 If you've read the half-dozen columns I've written on television, Santa, you know that I'd like to have one TV set good from Norfolk to Greenville only a part of the time, but as long as you're passing out TV sets, you can leave one at my house.

Strength for the Day

Chinese pirates sometimes hide in the hold of a ship, and then when the vessel is far out from land, they come up on deck and take possession.
 Psychologists tell us that beneath our conscious mind is the unconscious. In it abide all those primitive impulses which have come down to us from time immemorial. In addition to this unconscious mind, there are all those weaknesses and temptations down in the bottom of our hearts which, when we are tempted or discouraged, or held in the passion of anger, emerge and devastate. They are like the Chinese pirates who secrete themselves in the hold of a ship and then rise up to spoil its fair voyage.
 A wise captain of a ship makes sure that there are no stowaways in the hold, and a wise Christian appreciates the fact that his soul has dark lurking places in which sin hides, and he sees to it that these miserable tendencies are dragged out into the open.
 One of the solemn words of the gospel is "watch," and in the spiritual life as in the life of a nation, the price of security is eternal vigilance. A little weakness can rise up and in one fatal moment, spoil all we hold dear. We need to beware of the pirates who secrete themselves in the dark places of our hearts.

Share The Christmas Joy With Someone Else

The hustle and bustle of the Christmas season has come upon us hardly before we realized it. From now until December 25 most of the folks around Pitt county will be turning in circles trying to get things in readiness for Santa's annual ride.

This Christmas season when you are so busy getting shopping done for your family and close friends, take a few minutes or a few hours of your time to make it a happier Christmas for some individual or family who is less fortunate than you.

There are a large number of people in Pitt county this year whose Christmas will be drab indeed unless someone takes time to brighten their Christmas day.

The spirit of Christmas is the spirit of giving in honor of the greatest gift which was ever given. This year your Christmas will be fuller and happier if you share the happiness of the season with someone who is less fortunate than you.

New Balance Of Powers In The United Nations

A new balance of power between the free nations of the west and the communist-controlled governments of the east is beginning to assert itself in the halls of the United Nations.

The group of 13 Asian and Middle East nations indeed are becoming a power within themselves. Today they are attempting to bring about a compromise between the proposals for peace in Korea which have been made on the one hand by the United States and on the other hand by Soviet Russia.

The group, under the leadership of India's Sir Benegal Rau, is composed of 13 small nations which are seeking a means of bringing the large military powers of the world to a peaceful settlement of their immediate problems in Korea.

The group's proposal for a cease fire order in Korea lies as the point of compromise between the U. S. proposal that the Chinese Communist government be ordered to withdraw its forces from Korean soil, and the Russian proposal that "all foreign" troops be withdrawn from Korea.

Although India has been accused, though not openly by any of the Western nations, of taking an appeasing attitude toward the Chinese Communist government, the Chinese advances into Tibet and Korea have brought India to a program of national preparedness. India, along with the other less powerful nations of the world, is taking the role of mediator between the forces which are on the brink of pitching the world into a global conflict.

The smaller nations are assuming the leadership in the advances for a diplomatic rather than a military solution to the problem in Korea and the Far East. Upon the success of the compromise proposal of the 13-nation bloc may rest the answer to peace or war in the Far East at the present time.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—In a sharp and amazing reversal of the Truman policy favoring the growth of "small business," the Federal Trade Commission now seeks to promulgate an order that will drive hundreds of "little fellows" to the wall and promote the expansion of many of the nation's greatest corporations. If issued, the directive will also disrupt and weaken industry in the defense effort.

Although the litigation has attracted scant notice outside legal and industrial circles, it rivals in importance the famous basing-point controversy. In ruling against that historic system of selling and distributing goods, the FTC aimed at the breakup of industrial concentrations on the ground that they had conspired to foster monopolies. Now, it would destroy the same smaller companies it professes to protect.

In view of the apparent inconsistency of the FTC's clashing decrees, and the fact that no member of this agency has any real business or industrial background or experience, veteran lawyers suggest that it should be renamed the "Federal Anti-Trade Commission."

FUNCTIONAL—FTC's latest crusade is directed against what is known as "functional pricing." Although this may seem like a complicated trade question, it is an extremely simple matter, so simple that it lies at the foundation of our laboriously built industrial structure.

"Functional pricing" is the granting of special prices when the article in question is used as a component in another manufactured article. It is related to "quantity discounts" and is sometimes confused with it, but it is quite distinct. The manufacturer of radio tubes, for instance, may offer a discount to buyers who take case lots; that is a "quantity discount." It may offer another discount to manufacturers who use the tubes in their sets; that's "functional pricing."

The FTC has already challenged some quantity discounts and now it is challenging functional pricing.

PLUGS—The current litigation happens to involve three spark plug companies which make essential parts for autos, trucks, tanks, jeeps etc. But it also applies to hundreds of firms which make such auxiliary articles as laces and rubber heels for shoes, buttons and bows for suits, and automobile tools, food, lumber and mechanical products.

There are hundreds of firms in these fields, and they manufacture and sell many billion dollars' worth of goods annually. It is the industrial system frequently described as "bits and pieces," and under which several hundred small plants make the articles that are finally assembled into an automobile at a central plant.

TARGETS—The immediate targets of the FTC are the AC, Auto-lite and Champion spark plug companies. AC is a wholly-owned General Motors subsidiary, the second makes a variety of products, and Champion's big customer is Ford. It makes only spark plugs, nothing else.

Incidentally, the FTC makes no charge of price-fixing or conspiracy against these firms. It simply maintains that they cannot sell cheaper to manufacturers than they do to scores of wholesalers and retailers scattered around the country. If FTC makes its order stick, hundreds of firms in other lines will be governed by the same restriction.

MARKETS—Now, what will happen if these relatively small supply companies cannot continue to give a price advantage to big buyers? The answer is obvious.

Instead of buying from these small suppliers, the big companies will obtain the same economies by building their own plants for manufacture of these parts. Ford will make spark plugs.

Shoe firms will fabricate their own laces and rubber heels. Garment makers will turn out their own buttons and bows. Hundreds of great corporations will expand vertically and hundreds of small suppliers will fold up for lack of markets.

DELAY—The most serious and immediate damage would be dealt to the attempt to mobilize industry and speed up rearmament, based on fears of Russian aggression on two fronts. If FTC's scheme should be permitted by the courts to go into effect.

In the first place, the resulting demoralization and disruption would delay output of planes, tanks, trucks, jeeps, heavy artillery and even small arms. Few of the end producers make their own parts. Secondly, the cost of every weapon, piece of equipment, uniform and ration would soar above present dizzy levels.

Churchill attributes England's survival during the aerial blitz to the so-called "bits and pieces" system. He set men to work in cellars, garages, out-houses, dilapidated buildings etc. to make vital parts, when plants were bombed out.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

REVENUE FROM TRAVEL (New Bern Sun-Journal)

As a leading dollar-earner in Europe, tourism produces revenue equivalent to approximately one-third of the total merchandise exports of western European countries to the United States, says the chairman of the European Travel Commission. Quoting leading authorities in the travel industry, Birger Nordholm estimated that 400,000 United States citizens will have visited Europe by the end of this year. He also predicts that the time is not far off when as many as one million tourists from this country will visit Europe every year.

Travel to Europe is said to have increased more than 20 per cent during the first six months of this year over a corresponding period in last year. The European Travel Commission, which represents 18 countries which are member nations, is sponsoring a nationwide advertising and publicity campaign to acquaint prospective travelers with Europe's attractions during the September-through-April season. That season is being called the "third season" when there is more to see and when accommodations are available at lower rates.

Here in eastern Carolina and on most other sections of the nation one can't fail to realize that travel is also a major business at home. A number of organizations, including the Coastal Highway Association, have been trying for a number of years to tell the public just how big a business it is. Federal statistics stress the importance.

Yet there are many who fail to realize just how important the tourist trade is at home. Individuals and sections fail to make efforts to attract it and to satisfy the traveling public. This is the time of the year when north-south travel through New Bern is near its peak.

NOW IS THE TIME (Greensboro Daily News)

While various dispatches from Raleigh have dealt with the composition of the next General Assembly, how many old members will be back, how many members will be getting their first legislative experience, et cetera, it has remained for Lynn Nisbet, capital correspondent for out Greensboro Record, to report that the lobbyists, most of them veterans, will be back for the 1951 session in full and, we shall see how effective force.

Mr. Nisbet lists some of the better known members of the band and leaves little doubt that the pressure groups and the special interests will be well taken care of, come what may at the 1951 session.
 Don't get us wrong. Lobbying has its place as the right of petition, of discussion and of presentation of views is inherent in the democratic and

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
 Timing will be one of the most important factors in business trends in the months ahead. On whether certain things happened before or after the interval will be sharply reflected on profit and loss sheets of many businesses.

Most important is the question of whether the peak of lay-offs will be reached before the peak of hirings for war plants. The conversion of a plant from civilian to military production usually involves a lay-off. Certain numbers of production workers have to be furloughed while plants are retooled.

Lay-offs have already taken place in many plants; in still other plants military production is causing an increasing in hirings. One mitigating factor is that some plants are minimizing the number of furloughs to keep their teams intact. The latest labor statistics indicate that lay-offs have been ahead of hirings, but that hirings are increasing. But if layoffs should rise sharply above hirings, considerable unemployment would result, producing a decline in retail sales.

Another timing problem is whether the cut-backs in the manufacture of consumer goods, caused by shortage of materials or their diversion to military needs, will be ahead of or behind cut-backs in buying power, caused by higher taxes, tighter credit controls and unemployment.

If the cutback in civilian production is earlier, or sharper, than the cutback in buying power, there will be shortages and spiraling prices of scarce goods. On the other hand, if buying power is affected first, there will be a pile-up of goods. This has already happened in the case of Kaiser-Frazer and, depending on the timing, it can happen in many other fields or none at all.

Involved in both these puzzles are the timing of price and wage controls. While there is a strong body of opinion in favor of simultaneous price and wage freezes, there is also strong feeling for a price control first. These elements convert the unemployment-demand problems from simple equations to quadratics.

The average retailer will probably find most of these factors, in varying degrees working on his sales volume at the same time, with a lot of see-sawing from week to week. The national pattern may be even more irregular, with demand down in some localities and up in others as employment, shortages, controls and taxes—and fears of freezes and bombs—exert different pressures.

FURNITURE SALES PINCHED BY CONTROL
 The teeth of Regulation W are being felt in furniture sales. Federal Reserve reports show October sales were below both August and September sales.

There's no doubt that credit controls are responsible. Cash sales in October were 8 per cent ahead of sales in September, but credit sales were down 17 per cent, pulling the total down 10 per cent. Even with this setback, October sales were 8 per cent above October 1949.

National figures for November have not yet been compiled; but if the New York retail market is significant, there will be another drop. The Associated Furniture Dealers of New York report sales in November were 25.3 per cent under November, 1949.

DEMANDS TV SERVICE FEES PUT IN RECBOW
 The television business has been plagued by the service situation in many localities. Some servicing companies have collected annual fees in advance and have then gone broke, making it impossible to give the service collected for. Some Better Business Bureaus have received hundreds of complaints in a single day.

To prevent this from recurring, one manufacturer (Du Mont) is insisting that authorized service companies deposit fees in escrow accounts in banks, collecting it only as service is rendered during the period of contracts.

CHANCE FOR SERVICE IN BUILDING RESERVES
 The New York State Cannery Association is urging housewives to store a "modest" supply of canned goods as a reserve in event of an atomic attack. It points out that canned goods are not affected by atomic rays (although radio-active material could cling to the outside of cans).

Where local civil defense authorities recommend this plan, grocers have an opportunity to offer balanced reserve stocks. Where grocers refrain from working off "slow movers" in such package deals, they may be doing a real service, since the average housewife is not likely to plan a reserve carefully and may end up with an unbalanced assortment.

With U. S. Eighth Army, Korea.—(A P)—The "buddy system" has been a failure in the opinion of most front-line commanders in Korea.
 This attempt to integrate South Korean soldiers with American front line outfits was begun in August. It was an emergency military measure.
 In those desperate days of defense along the Naktong river line American soldiers were not arriving in enough numbers to replace the men lost or wounded in battle. So it was decided to fill the gaps in the line with selected South Koreans.
 This emergency program to put Koreans shoulder to shoulder in the battle line with American troops became known as the buddy system.
 To get the needed volunteers some enterprising commanders sent officers into Korea cities and invited picked young native policemen to come out and spend a day with their outfit.

After a big meal of hot American chow and the gift of a few candy bars and packages of cigarettes, many of the special guests quickly decided they preferred this lush life with the U. S. Army to lonely police duty or chasing guerrillas.

The program started off in an atmosphere of one big happy military family. Each recruit was assigned to an American buddy, whose job was to act as his friend and teacher in learning how to be a soldier.

It was a thoroughly good-hearted program, launched with the best of intentions. It was sternly ordered that the Korean volunteers be treated in every way as the complete equals of the American soldiers. They were to be given no more than their fair share of such unwelcome fatigue duties as digging latrines or unloading supplies.

Everything was palsy-walsy—as long as the outfit was refitting in rest areas.
 Some units that enthusiastically adopted the buddy system soon were 15 per cent or more Korean in strength.

A few regimental commanders however violently boycotted the whole program by failing to do anything to recruit native volunteers.

When the mixed Korean and American outfit went into combat the buddy system began to fall apart. Under the stress of battle the differences of language and loyalty between the two nationalities became more vitally important than their desire to understand and work with one another.

The Koreans haven't had time to learn our army technique. An American doughboy hated to have his life dependent on whether his oriental buddy knew enough to give him covering at the right moment.

There were numerous cases of outstanding stubborn and heroic fighting by these Korean volunteers. There were other cases where they broke and ran—and these created bitterness. "They largely have just taken up space," said one veteran commander who had been among the first to welcome the buddy system.

"We have tried to get these Koreans to fight with American equipment and most of them just don't have enough mechanical sense yet. To try to integrate them with an American army is a waste of time. They understand

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
 Washington—"Doyl, Doyl" sang Devar Surya Sena.
 His attractive little wife, Neelun Devi, plucked a plaintive harp accompaniment before a small, enchanted group at the Embassy of Ceylon. It was an ancient folk lullaby of their native land—"Doyl, Doyl" meaning "sleep, sleep."

The delicate harp, with its fine, clear tone, that Neelun Devi played is the only one of its kind in existence. Designed by Mr. Sena to bring his songs alive, it was inspired by an instrument he had seen in a Persian painting of the Middle Ages.

Mr. Sena sang again... a more spirited song he had learned from a Sinhalese boatman. As he sang he gracefully swayed his arms and body as if he were punting a boat down the river. Now he picked up a Sinhalese rabana, a sort of drum, and again was accompanied by his wife playing talam-totas, tiny brass cymbals no bigger than silver dollars.

The artists were dressed in native Ceylon costumes. Mr. Sena wore a loam-brown hand-woven wool three-quarter coat with a rind collar over western trousers. Pretty Mrs. Sena was draped in six yards of scarf, a native sari, beautifully patterned in bright colors. She wore necklace and earrings flashing with stones of many colors intermingled with crystal.

Mr. Sena, educated at Cambridge in the legal profession, gave up a promising career as a lawyer to collect the folk songs of Ceylon and other countries and to travel about the world giving concerts. He told me he believes music is the "real uniting force" between peoples of the world.

The pair first came to this country in 1938 and again in 1939 to give professional concerts. The Senas, like many other nationals of Ceylon, have adapted their ancestral names. Mr. Sena's father, Sir James Peiris, was one of the leaders in the reform movement in Ceylon and for five years presided over the Ceylon legislative assembly.

"I went to the time of the plowing, to the time of the reaping, to the villages and cities, to the river-sides and plains and mountains to study the ancient lore of native musicians," Mr. Sena said. "I studied from old men who remembered songs and music of the past. I studied in colleges, schools, museums. I faithfully try to record the purest native music."

Bride Elect Of Selma Feted At Dinner Party

Grimesland—Miss Peggy Edwards entertained on a recent evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. T. R. Rouse, with a bridge-shower as a compliment to Miss Becky Holcomb, of Grifton, whose marriage to Craven Hughes of Greenville, will take place at five o'clock Sunday afternoon, December 17, at the Grifton Methodist church, Misses Edwards and Holcomb are former room-mates at East Carolina Teachers College.

The home was en suite for the occasion, the living room being decorated with artistic arrangements of greenery and red berries. In the dining room the bridal colors of green and white were used. On the table was a crystal epergne holding white and green tinted carnations flanked on each side with three branched crystal candelabra holding green tapers tied with white tulle. On the buffet was a silver bowl holding a beautiful arrangement of white and lavender chrysanthemums.

Bridge was played at three tables. When scores were tallied, Mrs. C. H. Spiggle was high scorer, and Miss Peggy Hart second high. Consolation trophy went to Mrs. Jake Worthington. During games iced drinks and nuts were passed. Later refreshments carrying out the nuptial colors were served consisting of green and white brick ice cream, individual iced bridal cakes with miniature silver cups tied with white tulle and tiny wedding bells holding green and white mints.

Miss Holcomb was presented a corsage of white carnations and a gift of silver in her chosen pattern by her hostess. A shower of silver, china and crystal gifts was presented by the guests who are classmates of the honoree at East Carolina Teachers College, and the honoree's mother, Mrs. Jake Worthington, of Grifton, Miss Peggy Jane Hart of Ayden and Mrs. C. H. Spiggle, Mrs. Gladys Galloway and Mrs. T. R. Rouse of Grimesland.

Religious Play Presented Sunday

Above is a scene from the religious play presented at Immanuel Baptist church, entitled, "Christmas Love In Any Language." The play, written by Beverly Nelson, of Greenville, was presented by the Youth Fellowship group of the church at Sunday night services. The play stressed the importance of missions the year around to bring the story of Christ to all nations of the earth. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

Women In The Church

.....By MARY FOWLER.....

In the newly-organized National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., the United Council of Church Women becomes, on January 1, the "General Department of United Church Women."

For the first time in American church history there will be a nationwide and denominational counterpart to the U. C. W.—the "General Department of United Church Men." The National Council itself represents the cooperative and service interests of twenty-nine Protestant and Orthodox communions; of their total 31,000,000 members, more than half that number are women. The new General Department of United Church Women will conserve and advance the three annual events in the church year which have grown up through the years under U. C. W. auspices: the World Day of Prayer on the first Friday in Lent; World Communion Day, in November, when missions and relief overseas has been the major emphasis; and May Fellowship Day, the observance of which highlights the unity of all Christendom across the world. While the Department will work through women's groups in all evangelical churches, its chief channel will continue to be 1600 state and local councils of women, and 12,000 World Day of Prayer groups.

Dr. Utterback Gives Dickens Reading At Baptist Center

Last night approximately fifty young people heard the dramatic reading of "A Christmas Carol" by Dr. Elizabeth Utterback, of the East Carolina Teachers College faculty. She maintained Charles Dickens' style as she told this heart-warming story to the students gathered at the Baptist Student Center on Eighth Street.

Preceding he reading the group sang carols and listened to the Biblical Christmas story read by Elsie Howard. "Away in a Manger" was sung by Soleta Tucker. The tree at the Center was further decorated when quite a number of students tied on their gifts to the Little Moon Offering for Foreign Missions.

After the presentation Elsie Howard presented Miss Utterback with a gift from the Baptist Student Union as a token of appreciation. Elizabeth Glasgow, Social Vice-President of the BSU, had charge of a period of informal fellowship during which those present were invited into the dining room for delightful refreshments.

Wesleyan Guild Has Its Annual Christmas Party

On Thursday evening, December 7, the Wesleyan Service Guild of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church met in the American Legion Dining Room for its annual Christmas dinner. The dining room was beautifully decorated for this special occasion, making each member feel the Christmas atmosphere.

Rev. Leon Russell gave a very inspiring talk on "The Star of Bethlehem Is Still Shining." He said there are some who have lost the vision of stars; they trust in man-made devices—man's own makings; they have forgotten God's leadership; they fail to see the light that shines for Him. He concluded his talk with "The star is still shining; it reminds us that goodness still lives in human hearts in spite of greed. Believe in the stars, and they will grow brighter and brighter and brighter for you. They are signs of hope in a day of despair."

Among the several guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Russell, "Mother" Russell, Mrs. Ed Batchelor, Mrs. J. H. Rose, Miss Mamie Chandler, and Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell, Mrs. Dora Howell and Mrs. Sally Klingenschnitt were new members.

Mrs. Shackell was on hand to receive Christmas gifts brought by members of the Guild to be distributed to the needy by the Kings' Daughters. On behalf of the Kings' Daughters she brought greetings to the Guild for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Directs Cantata

Dr. Karl V. Gilbert of the department of music at East Carolina Teachers College (shown above) will direct the cantata "The Mystery of Bethlehem" by the Canadian composer Healey Willan, which will be a major attraction of the Christmas program presented by the department Thursday evening of this week.

Allison Hearne of Greenville and Robert Mays of Greenville and Hopewell, Va. will be soloists with the College Choir, which will appear in the cantata. Other groups which will take part will be the College Singers and the Women's Chorus, directed by Dan E. Vornholt; a trio of women's voices, directed by Gladys Reichard; a brass quartet conducted by Herbert L. Carter; and solo performances by student singers and organists. "The Jugler and the Lady," a dance drama of religious significance, will be presented by pupils of Mrs. W. E. Dole of the health and physical education department. The public is invited to attend the program, which will take place at 8:00 o'clock in the Austin auditorium.

The meeting opened by the group singing "Holy Night" followed by a devotional by Mrs. E. M. Tyson, Sr.

At the business session it was announced that the club received $43.00 at a recent supper they served. Plans were also made for a Christmas party to be given at the Moyer Community building on Thursday evening, Dec. 21, at 7 o'clock, to which the people of the community are invited.

The demonstration for the afternoon was on Christmas decorations and a very helpful and interesting one was given by Miss Helen Hicks, assistant home agent.

Dramatic Play At Memorial Church Given

The church was filled with people Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock when the production of "They That Sit in Darkness" began at Memorial Baptist Church. A gratifying number came early although they had to brave a cold rain.

This Dorothy Clarke Wilson play, which was directed by Miss Gwen Miles, Educational Director of the church, gave the story of Miriam, the outcast of Bethlehem. The audience was moved as her life of darkness and sin was changed into a life of light because of the coming of the Christ child. The cast did a good job and the effectiveness of the play was increased by the excellent costumes.

The cast was as follows: Miriam, played by Sarah Peedin; Ruth, Nan Bundy; Joash, Bobby Lee; Esther, Evelyn Smith; Rachel, Jean Phelps; Mary, Patsy Stroud; Joseph, Jack Painter; Amon, Clyde White; Sarah, Donna Yancey; Ramah, Dot Ragland; Rebecca, Janie Parker; Nathan, Gene Hart; Jonathan, Joe Stroud; kings, Poe Mooring, Larry Averette and Houston Williams; the Voice, Robert L. Holt.

During the social hour the hostesses Mrs. Dalton Williams assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Allen served sandwiches, minis, nuts and Coca Colas as refreshments.

MILK RIVER RANGE

by LEE FLOREN

The farmers met that morning at the Lazy N-S. They grouped in the big parlor and called the meeting to order.

Buck and Tortilla, squatting at the back of the room, rolled cigarettes and smoked silently.

Buck read the feeling rightly. Some were scared, yes, but others—the vast majority—were ready to fight.

One man said, "What do you say, Jim?"

Jim Tuttle walked to the front of the room where he stood for some time without speaking. Then he said, "I got you men into this country. When the dam is finished we'll have plenty of water—water for all. And water will give us crops and independence."

"We'd better guard that dam," said one farmer.

"I don't think Cavanaugh'll hit the dam," Jesse Smith broke in. "The Jones is a lawman, and a good one."

"We'd better stake a guard out," someone suggested.

They took a vote on it. The decision was overwhelmingly in favor of posting guards twenty-four hours a day at the dam. Buck saw the conflict mirrored in Jesse Smith's face; then the man's features settled back into their old mold.

Other points were brought up. Tuttle called for Buck McKee to come up. Tuttle introduced him. "You've been through a few range wars, McKee," shouted a man. "What do you say we should do?"

"Ride with one eye on your back-trail, a gun on your hip, and a rifle in your saddle-boot. Never get too far away from a gun. Leave your dogs out at night. Keep somebody on guard, if you can."

"You pullin' a wagon out for roundup?" someone asked.

Buck nodded. "And I need some riders."

"Count me in," said Jesse Smith.

Two other men hired out, too. The meeting broke up with people going to their rigs. Buck hurried back to the blacksmith shop.

Tortilla Joe went to work on the mess wagon. With the help of the old mozo, Mack Bodkins, the Mexican strung the canvas across the diamond willow hoops and lashed it down to the wagon box. The he and Mack Bodkins carried out the cases of food and put them in the wagon.

They pulled the wagon out at noon. Mack Bodkin, chew in one cheek, toiled the ribbons on the mess wagon team, his whip snapping in unison with his jaws. They were not taking out a bed wagon; they were using one wagon both for mess and to carry the bed rolls.

Buck rode close to Jesse Smith. "You know this country north of here?" he asked.

"Been through it once," answered Smith.

"Ride pilot," said Buck. "I'm swinging wide and looking over the lay of the land."

Mart Tuttle rode up. He sat a strawberry roan gelding that pulled at the bit. "I'll head out with you, Buck," he said. "Red here needs a stiff run."

Buck and Mart rode back to where Jim Tuttle held in his horse. "I'll be turning back now, boys," said Jim. "Mart, don't get any high-faluting ideas in that dome of yours. McKee's bossing this roundup, and what he says goes."

They split up and rode the high country. There were cattle in these brakes, just as Jim Tuttle had said. True to Jim's prophecy, they were wild cattle—and plenty wild, Buck decided.

Next morning, they rode out, still heading north. Just before they started, Wishbone Hank rode into camp on a hammer-headed sorrel. The old jailer pulled in and looked them over. "Need any extra hand?" he asked Buck.

"You didn't come out here looking for a job, Wishbone. What's on your mind, fella?"

"Shuffle Watson killed Leo Parker last night," the old jailer said.

China and India with about 40 per cent of the world's population have about two per cent of the world's manufacturing.

Other riders, lower on the hills than the outside circle men, would haze them along, adding to their speed. With this added push, the stock would converge where coulees and gullies came together, down on the creek bottom below.

Once they got in a herd, they would be easier to hold by herd riders. Also, by the time they had run twenty miles or so, they'd be so tired that the wild edge would be somewhat dulled.

Many thoughts, some disturbing, tugged at the tall cow-puncher. A great unrest, moving inside him, demanded action. The thing was clear, the lines had been spoken. There was war on this range and there was only one way to end that war, and that was by gunfire.

He realized that old Jim Tuttle knew this too. Jim had been around. But time had taken the edge from him. Now he was hoping against hope that violent gun-war would not flare.

"But we'll play it Jim's way," he told Mart.

Mart scowled. "I guess so, Buck. But Cavanaugh and Watson burned down Bornell. If Ike Jones had the proof, he'd move against them. But he hasn't."

"Jim's way is wrong," said Buck.

Buck leaned back in saddle. The sunset was in the sky. He looked at it for some time. "War can only be settled by guns, Mart," he said presently. "You've got to kill off men or they'll kill you. The whole thing is piling up, building up. When it touches me directly, I move—and to heck with Ike Jones!"

Curfew Imposed For Rioting In Singapore

Singapore, Dec. 12 (AP)—Police clamped a dusk-to-dawn curfew on riot torn Singapore tonight. The toll from two days of fighting over the fate of a Moslem-reared Dutch girl rose to 10 dead and more than 140 injured.

The British colony's supreme court, meanwhile, ruled today that the girl's Roman Catholic Dutch mother could take 13-year-old Maria Bertha Hertogh back to Holland with her.

Thousands of fanatic Moslems in two days of bitter rioting have tried to kidnap the child and return her to the Malay woman who for eight years reared her, and to the Moslem schoolteacher Maria Bertha married last summer.

The dead included four Britons, two Eurasians and one Indian. Three other bodies were unidentified. Among the injured were two

Teach Junior The Joy Of Giving Says Writer

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE AP Education Writer

Children are so often the recipients of gifts that we forget they should also learn how to give graciously. Parents can help junior develop this attribute at Christmas. Not only should we teach junior that to give is as blessed as to receive, but we should never discourage a child from doing a kindly act, advises the National Kindergarten Association.

Kindness is one of the qualities that we admire most in our friends. It must, however, be cultivated in childhood if it is to flourish in adult life. By repeatedly performing little acts of kindness, the good habit is established and becomes a part of character, just as undesirable behavior—lying or stealing—by repetition becomes a habit, says the association.

The association cites the example of the little boy who returned from kindergarten his face alight with enthusiasm, as he made a special request of his mother.

"May I pick some flowers and take them to Mrs. Evans? She's not well, and I am sure they will make her feel better," he asked.

The lad's mother hesitated, thinking of the beautiful array of hothouse flowers this lady's many friends must have sent her. To soften the disappointment, she said, "I'm glad you thought of taking her some flowers; but ours are not very pretty."

"Mother, you just think that because you see them every day. I think they are beautiful, and I am sure she will love them," he urged.

"Very well," the mother replied. "I'm going to pick all the happy looking ones," he said.

Junior's selection brought together a curious assortment of flowers, but as he went through the garden, choosing some of the gaudiest flowers, he remarked, "These are so bright and cheerful that I am sure, even though she must stay in her room."

In a very short time he had gathered and arranged his offering to his liking and had left for his friend's house, happy and proud of his gift.

Grooming Gifts For That Man

By BETTY CLARKE AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Just because Dad plays Santa Claus at Christmas young members of the family shouldn't overlook him when planning their gifts. Mother and older members of the family should see to it that small fry do right by the man of the family.

Even bottom-of-the-bank pennies can produce unusual little stocking stuffers. Soap in the shape and color of a pigskin football or shaving soap in a little metal bucket are fun presents for Dad. After-shave lotions, comb and brush sets, fingernail or toenail clippers, razors and razor blades are just a few of the items to be found on bargain shelves.

Older members of the family who can afford to splurge will find available such interesting items as good grooming kits containing essential to let articles, military brush sets and electric razors.

Slow To Return Abducted Women

KARACHI (AP)—Some 30,000 Muslim women abducted during the communal riots of 1947 have not yet been recovered from different parts of India, refugee minister I.H. Qureshi said.

Pakistan had recovered 47.7 per cent of 7,000 Hindu and Sikh women abducted while India had recovered only 31 per cent of abducted Muslim women.

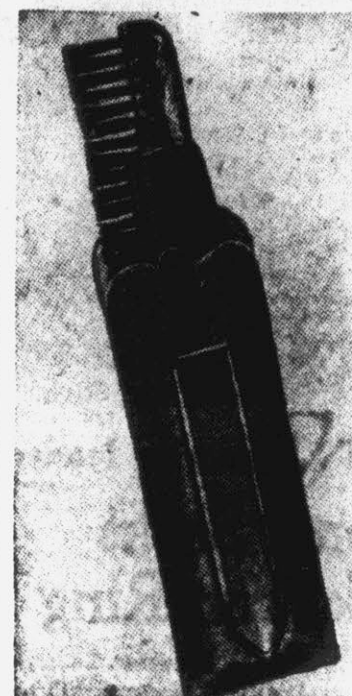

Officials in New Delhi said between 3,000 and 4,000 abducted women had been returned by Pakistan while India had recovered and returned about 8,000. They said thousands remained to be recovered in Pakistan. India's rate of recovery, the officials asserted, was much faster than that of Pakistan.

Parliament Acts On Student Move

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—Disorderly conduct in a native secondary school resulted in dismissal of 119 students, a debate before the Sudan legislative assembly and a suggestion to bring back the whip as a legal method of punishment.

The students staged a strike, reportedly over bad meals served them, and were said to have damaged school buildings and equipment during the strike.

The term "collective bargaining" was first used by Beatrice Webb in 1891.

Traces Sparrows On Migrations

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Barbara Blanchard Oakeson, of the University of California, has spent a lot of time following Gambel white-crowned sparrows around. She has traced them through all the western states. Last summer she went to a little village near the mouth of the Yukon River to check their migrations.

Her studies in the United States showed how they put on fat and how the gonad volume in the males increased 130 times in preparation for migration. In Alaska she found how they arrived just as the last snows were melting. Then they had to hurry to raise a brood before the short summer was over.

Small Rodents Quick To Starve

DAVIS, Calif. (AP)—Small rodents, such as mice, can starve to death quickly in cold weather, says Walter E. Howard of the University of California. When it is cold the little animals must eat several times as much food as when it is warm.

They do not seem to be able to break down stored fat in their bodies fast enough to prevent starvation when it is cold. However, through use of warm nests and huddling they can keep warm enough to prevent the quick starvation, Howard says.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild, safe, effective remedy used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often subside, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Caps Score Thirteen Points In Third Quarter For Margin; J.V.'s Lose, 44-34; Play Blackbirds At College Wed. Nite

Raleigh's Class AAA Caps handed Greenville's Phantoms a 43-30 loss last night in the Capital City. The Phantoms, paced by Forward Jimmy Dillingham and Center Sydney Briley, played the Caps almost on equal terms during the first two quarters, but fell behind during the third quarter, and could never catch up.

Dillingham, with three field goals and two free throws, led the individual scoring for the night with eight points, while Briley followed up with seven.

Forward Sonny Thornton paced the victors last night with seven points, and the remaining scoring for Raleigh was distributed almost evenly among Bob Williamson, Bobby Colvin, Peebles, and Ussery.

Raleigh scored 13 points during the third quarter while holding the Phantoms to eight, which provided the Caps with their wide margin of victory.

In the preliminary game, the Raleigh junior varsity defeated the Raleigh Phantoms, 44-34.

Greenville will play hosts to Rocky Mount's Blackbirds here tomorrow night in the second meeting of the two clubs. The game will be played in the Wright gymnasium at East Carolina Teachers College, with the tip-off slated for eight o'clock.

Duke's Billy Cox Among Top Men In Passing Records

New York, Dec. 12—(AP)—All America Don Heinrich, Washington's junior quarterback, won major college passing honors for 1950 in the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau's final football compilation.

The Huskies' signal caller set all-time national records for both the number and percentage of completed passes. During Washington's 10-game schedule, Heinrich connected 134 times in 221 attempts for a percentage of 60.2.

Previously the best mark based on 150 or more tosses a season was 57.6 by Adrian Burk of Baylor last year.

Billy Cox of Duke ranked eighth in the number of completions. Of 204 attempts that he made, 108 were successful. His percentage was 52.4 and the yardage gained was 1,428. Eight of his heaves accounted for touchdowns. He had 15 passes intercepted.

Free throws missed: Dillingham 3, Flye, Briley 2, Scott 2, Thornton, Hayes, Colvin, Peebles 2, Ussery 5, Kelly 3, Williamson 2, Cell. Technical foul: Williamson.

Pug Commissioner Seeks To Bar Joe Louis From Ring

Philadelphia, Dec. 12—(AP)—John O'X Da Grossa, Pennsylvania Athletic Commissioner, is seeking to bar Joe Louis from any more fights. "In the best interests of boxing" and of the ex-champion himself.

Da Grossa has disclosed that he has started a move to keep Louis out of the ring in Pennsylvania and will ask the National Boxing Association to do likewise.

He asserted the aging Louis's scheduled fight with Freddie Beshore in Detroit Jan. 3 should be cancelled for the "health, welfare and future" of the one-time Brown Bomber.

Moreover, he said, permanent retirement of Louis would also be "in the best interests of boxing."

Da Grossa said that Pennsylvania, a member of the NBA, has barred two other boxers—former lightweight champions Lew Jenkins and Bob Montgomery—from fighting in this state "for the same reasons."

He said the three-man Pennsylvania Athletic Commission will review the matter and probably send a petition to NBA commissioner Abe Greene.

From his New Jersey home Greene commented: "I would not want to be a party to barring Joe Louis from boxing. He has meant too much to the sport and has made a magnificent contribution both in and out of the ring. The furthest I would want to go would be perhaps to call on Joe personally to keep his brilliant record and reputation as a great fighter unblemished."

No word came from Louis. At Stony Point, Ont., where he is training for the fight with Behore, handlers said Louis would not be available for comment.

Buccaneer Gridders Honored By Stadium Fund Committee

East Carolina's gridders of the 1950 season were honored last night at a dinner, sponsored by the officers, directors, and friends of the Stadium Fund committee in Greenville.

The dinner was held in the north dining hall at the college.

Ed Rawl, chairman of the Stadium Fund committee, acted as master of ceremonies for the event, and President John D. Messick pronounced the invocation.

After the dinner, various members of the stadium committee present were introduced, which included Dave Whichard, Jr., Sam White, Reynolds May, Herbert Waldrop, Ercel Webb, Lee Folger.

Dr. J. B. Cummings, newly elected president of the North State conference and chairman of the college athletic council, was also recognized, along with Dr. C. F. Irons, team physician.

President Messick remarked briefly to the some forty-eight football players and managers feted on the growing of the college, and the part athletics played in its growth.

Coach Bill Dole, head of East Carolina's football forces, spoke briefly on the success of the football team this year, and praised the team spirit the squad had shown during the entire season.

Roger Thrift, this year's North State most outstanding grid star, and Johnny Smith, terrorizing full-back for the Pirates, were named honorary football captains for the 1950 season by the squad members. Both boys concluded their football careers this season, and will graduate in June.

Dennis "Doc" Smith, sophomore tackle for the Pirates this year, was presented the Joe Williams plaque for his outstanding performance as a tackler and blocker this season. The plaque was presented by Coach Joe Williams of Whiteville, a graduate of East Carolina, who will make the presentation annually to the Pirates "most outstanding blocker and tackler."

Parker, Barbour Gain Prep School Honors For 1950

Raleigh, N.C., Dec. 12—(AP)—Backfield star Larry Parker of Charlotte and Durham Coach Elmer Barbour today were named the outstanding North high school player and coach, respectively, for 1950.

The selections were announced by the N.C. Scholastic Association along with its annual all-state team.

Parker, brilliant Charlotte Central senior, was a near-unanimous choice on the all-state team. However, he barely noted out Durham Fullback Worth Lutz for individual honors.

Barbour received competition from Winston-Salem Reynolds Coach John Tandy. The Durham coach's team retained the AAA state title and ran its unbeaten string to 27 games.

Fighting Irish Tabbed Grid 'Flop' For 1950 Season

New York, Dec. 12—(AP)—Notre Dame's broken-elevator dive from the national championship to bottom drawer mediocrity provided college football's big "flop" of 1950.

Sports writers and broadcasters, participating in the post-season Associated Press poll, voted overwhelmingly for the Fighting Irish as the team that was supposed to succeed—but didn't.

Notre Dame began the campaign with modern football's longest unbeaten streak—38 games—and heavily favored to repeat as no. 1 team in the nation.

The Irish squeaked past North Carolina for their 39th straight without a setback, 14-7, and then—Boom! Purdue shattered the Notre Dame dynasty, 28-14.

Frank Leahy's South Bend Stalwarts never recovered and went on to record one of the most dismal seasons in their history, winning only four games, losing four and tying one.

Chandler Is Surprised; Sports Agog

By JOE REICHLER
St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 12—(AP) Failure to renew Albert B. Chandler's contract as baseball commissioner exploded a bombshell last night that left the entire sports world agog.

Flabbergasted by the major league club owners decision, the baseball people attending the winter meetings were wondering what the next move would be. About the calmest persons here with the club owners themselves.

The most surprised man was Chandler. So stunned was the commissioner upon hearing the adverse news that he immediately resigned. He changed his mind and decided to finish out his current five-year term which expires May 1, 1952.

The anti-Chandler group is willing to buy up his contract if he will resign. Chandler's pay was officially announced last December to be $65,000 a year. It was then that the owners voted to grant him a $15,000 raise.

One anti-Chandler leader, who declined the use of his name, said owners were prepared to fire Chandler on the spot but cited a baseball rule that forbids the releasing of the commissioner before the expiration of his contract.

"We are prepared to pay him for the remaining 17 months tomorrow," the owner said, "if he were to resign. That would be the best thing for the commissioner to do. It would save a lot of embarrassment and pave the way for the search for a new commissioner."

Fred M. Saigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, one of the owners most opposed to Chandler, said he thought a new commissioner should be named as soon as possible. "I would like to see a man with a judicial temper selected for the highest job in baseball," he said. "Let a committee be appointed to name a successor. I think this should be decided by a meeting of the minds who would consider many men. Let the job seek the best man possible. For these are trying times."

Despite the decision to oust the commissioner, there was some indication that the pro-Chandler group was prepared to make a renewed effort to save his job.

The owner said there was a possibility another vote would be taken today when the National and American League meet to continue their business. All owners agreed that more discussions concerning the commissioner would undoubtedly take place. Chandler is slated to preside at a joint meeting of the two circuits tomorrow.

There was switching of votes in the closed meeting last night. A ballot resulted in a 9-7 count in favor of Chandler. The next vote was 8-8. After Chandler asked the owners to re-consider, a new ballot restored the 9-7 edge. He needed 12 votes for reelection.

Scarborough Is Happy Over Deal

Mt. Olive, N. C., Dec. 12—(AP) Ray Scarborough is happy over the news that he has been traded by the Chicago White Sox to the Boston Red Sox.

A deal was climaxed Sunday which sends Scarborough and pitcher Bill Wight to Boston in exchange for outfielder Al Zarilla and pitchers Joe Dobson and Dick Littlefield.

"It's like jumping from the second division to the first division," Scarborough declared. "It's a big break for me."

Scarborough, contacted at his home here, said "I hope I can prove valuable to the Red Sox."

"I'm really looking forward now to the opening of the 1951 season," he added. "It's hard not to be over-optimistic about a thing of this sort because you don't know how it'll turn out. But right now it sounds good. I'm very much pleased with the news."

In recent years, annual flood losses in the United States have averaged more than $110 million.

Bowlers Win

Greenville's bowlers, both the men and women's teams, were triumphant over the kegler team from Washington Sunday afternoon.

The women's team, playing host at the Greenville Bowling Center, redeemed themselves of a previous defeat, by sweeping the three-game series.

Margaret Fordham took individual bowling honors as she rolled to a single-game high of 207 pins, and also added three-game high laurels with a 454. Margaret Savage was runner-up for the one-game honors with a 171, while Dot Rawls posted a 413 for second top honors in the three-game series.

In the men's match at Washington, Greenville took the series, two games to one, in the first inter-city meet of the two teams.

Single game honors went to Gene Wells, of the City League, as he bowled a 131, which was tops for the afternoon. Three-game high scorer also went to Wells with 349 pins, for the Greenville team, while Allgood of Washington bested Wells' record during the afternoon for individual high for three games with a 398.

These two teams will meet again next Sunday afternoon at the Greenville Bowling Center.

GHS Luckshots Defeat Grifton By 39-32 Score

Greenville Luckshots pulled a major upset last night in Grifton by handing Grifton High School its first loss in five starts by the score of 39-32.

The Luckshots were paced by Center Tommy Evans, who bagged 14 points on seven field goals, and sharp shooting Guard Billy Brady, who came through with 11 points on four field goals and three free throws.

Rex Lewis and Rhodes were the big guns for Grifton with eight and 10 points, respectively.

The game was a see-saw contest all the way through the first quarter but saw the surprising Luckshots pull away to a 22-12 halftime lead.

From the beginning of the third quarter it was all Grifton. The terrific pressing defense of the Luckshots slackened and Grifton narrowed the margin to a mere 23-18.

From this point the Luckshots united their forces and matched mighty Grifton point for point and in the fourth quarter had the fans screaming at the top of their lungs.

The game was nip and tuck all the way down the wire. Leading 35-32 with a minute and eight seconds remaining, the Luckshots put the game on ice with two quick baskets by Tommy Evans and left the floor with a hard earned victory. Terrific passing by Joe Rowland was the deciding factor and gave the Luckshots most of their lay-up shots.

The Luckshots were without the services of their regular center, Joe Clark, but Tommy Evans, a regular forward, was converted to that position and controlled the backboards.

as well as leading his team in scoring. The victory was the second for the locals, the previous victory being a close squeeze by Belvoir, 32-24.

Any teams interested in playing the Luckshots may contact Coach Frank Toothman, care of Greenville High School.

More N.C. Bonds Go On Market At Noon Today

Raleigh, N.C., Dec. 12—(AP)—Another batch of North Carolina bonds—this time $5,984,000 worth—was scheduled to be placed on the market at noon today.

At that time State Treasurer Brandon Hodges was due to open bids for sale of the bonds. They are part of about $23,000,000 worth of bonds which the state's sinking fund acquired over a period of years.

Hodges said the state should realize a profit of some $3,000,000 by selling the bonds at a low interest rate and re-investing the proceeds at higher interest yield.

So far approximately $8,000,000 worth of the bonds have been sold.

Christmas Story Tableau Is Presented By Church

Christmas, 2c 2r 4 reg RBS

"The Christmas Story" will be presented for the public tomorrow and Thursday nights by the First Presbyterian Church, depicting the birth of Christ and scenes incident to his in travail.

The tableaux, as in past years, will be staged on the steps and portico of the church and will include live characters with choral and organ music in the background. The first scene will be held at 7:30 with two others following at 15-minute intervals. At 8:15 the scenes will be presented again.

The first tableau will be the Annunciation of the Shepherds Keeping Watch, followed by the Adoration of Christ in the Manger and Wise Men Bringing Gifts. Throughout the three scenes Reverend Leonard Topping will read appropriate scripture passages and Christmas music will be presented by the Presbyterian choir.

Doctor Proposes 'Skin Banks' For Atomic Warfare

Auckland, New Zealand—(AP)—Dr. H. P. Pickerrill, a plastic surgeon of Wellington, thinks "skin banks" should be established in readiness for atomic warfare. He said, in a speech at Auckland, that there would be thousands of burn cases in future wars, yet nothing was being done about it.

Dr. Pickerrill said American medical houses should be persuaded to take up the idea of producing skin. With their big laboratories, he said, they were the only people who could tackle the problem. Dr. Pickerrill expressed the opinion that human skin of a universal donor type might be cultured and grown like penicillin in laboratories.

Cub Scout Film Is Shown Lions

A movie film dealing with Cub Scouting was presented by Jack Hogarth, Field Director of the Boy Scouts of America, last night at the regular weekly supper meeting of the Lions Club held in the Woman's Club.

The film gave a detailed description of the work carried on by the Cub Scouts, prior to becoming regular Scouts. Hogarth stated that Greenville has 140 boys enrolled in the Cub Scout program with three dens functioning. The three dens are at the Eighth Street Christian Church, Presbyterian Church and the Immanuel Baptist Church.

All members were requested to turn in any names of needy blind children to President Larry Averette in order that the club can make some arrangements to aid them at Christmas time.

Also, the blind committee reported that baskets will be ready to be sent out next week to blind families in the city. More than $100 is being spent for food going to the blind persons. President Averette stated that there is an ample supply of food going to all the needy blind people.

Final plans have been made for the holding of the Christmas party on December 18th at seven o'clock. The party will replace the regular meeting set for December 25.

Against Law To Have Fireworks Or Explode Them

For the information of some who have sought advice about fireworks at Christmas time, Chief of Police Guy C. Langston today reminded that a state law passed by a recent session of the North Carolina General Assembly "outlawed" the exploding of fireworks in the state, except by special license at fairs and other events where adequate fire protection is provided.

Information is available that some young people and others have ordered fireworks from out-of-town dealers. The North Carolina law makes it a misdemeanor for a person to be caught with any kind of fireworks in his possession and there is a similar law against exploding fireworks.

Farmville Masons Honor Masters

Farmville, Dec. 12.—The Farmville Masonic Lodge recently celebrated its annual Ladies Night along with recognition of all Past Masters of the Lodge and the presentation of certificates to Masons who have been Masons for 25 continuous years.

Sam D. Bundy, master of the lodge, presided over the meeting. After the singing of one verse of "America," the invocation was given by Charles F. Baucom, chaplain of the lodge.

A turkey dinner with all the trimmings was enjoyed by the 117 who attended. Billy Howard presented a program of magic acts and N. C. Maehout presented a 10-minute musical program.

Charles R. Gray of Robersonville gave a few brief remarks on masonry.

W. J. Bundy of Greenville, past grand master of the Grand Lodge of North Carolina, presented 25-year certificates to the following: J. I. Stancill, W. E. Joyner, John Hill Paylor, E. B. Beasley, J. M. Horton, J. L. Peele, L. P. Yelverton, R. J. Wainwright, R. S. Joyner, Charles F. Baucom, and J. R. Avery. A certificate was also presented to Mrs. Carl Tyson in memory of her husband.

J. T. Bundy was recognized as the oldest Mason from the standpoint of continuous service, 49 years, since 1901.

Past Masters of the lodge were recognized. Past Masters of the lodge still in active membership are: Herman Baker, John King, Luther

Church bells ring on Swiss Independence Day (August 1st) throughout every one of the 23 cantons. It is estimated that about 19 per cent of U. S. pupils still attend one-room schools.

25 Years of Growth with an Expanding South

25 years ago, Courts & Co. was founded, starting modestly in a small Atlanta office. Its objectives were ultimately to provide investors of the Southeast with complete financial services and to advance the flow of Southern capital into industries of the region. The firm's growth in those 25 years reflects and emphasizes the vigorous expansion of the South—fast-growing area of opportunity for investor and business man alike.

In 1925—Courts & Co. consisted of three men and a secretary, performing a limited local investment and business financing service in Atlanta. The new firm's net worth was $40,000.

In 1950—the staff has grown to about 230, including specialists in the various phases of finance. In addition to its Atlanta home office, the firm has branches in New York and 19 Southeastern cities, with service points in 16 others—all interconnected by some 3,000 miles of private wires. Memberships in leading securities and commodities exchanges and associations of the nation help Courts & Co. render complete ryice in all phases of financial activity. Its current net worth exceeds $1,500,000.

These are but some of the physical highlights of Courts & Co.'s growth to one of the largest firms in its field, approaching one billion dollars in value of security and commodity executions in a single year.

The facts of our growth are cited to indicate the wide scope of services and facilities Courts & Co. today makes available to investors, businesses and municipalities of the South. These include buying and selling listed and unlisted securities, municipal bonds, mutual fund shares and commodities... underwriting the financing of industries and municipalities... consolidating, reorganizing and selling industrial properties.

Our many friends who have felt need for such services have made our growth possible, and it is to them we owe our sincere thanks as we observe this 25th anniversary.

We cheerfully offer you our best counsel concerning any of these varied financial services, whether you wish to buy or sell an industrial enterprise in the millions or a modest amount of personal holdings involving only a few dollars.

Strategic War Materials Are Going From Germany To Soviet

Frankfurt, Dec. 12—(AP)—Highly strategic war materials are flowing behind the Soviet iron curtain from West Germany and the western allies are powerless to stop them.

Such crucial articles as machine tools, ball bearings, optical supplies, steel tubing and raw steel are being moved secretly into the Soviet satellite bloc.

Allied officials believe that much or most of this material finds its way directly to Russia. It is authoritatively believed also that quantities of rolling stock purchased from U. S. Army surplus has been deviously shipped to Soviet satellites for relay to Russia.

The western allies find themselves helpless. They have export licensing power only over certain specific strategic materials. The rest are licensed by the West German government. It does not have the power or means to police the ultimate destination of purchased products.

Allied sources said they have no way of determining the exact amount of contraband that has gone to the Soviets. But "we feel it was and is of sufficient quantity to make a substantial contribution to the communist bloc's war potential," one source added.

Allied sources who declined to be identified explained how the East—at a time when the United Nations are sorely beset in Korea—acquires vital materials from the West.

A Ruhr firm, for example, exports steel to West Berlin buyers who ostensibly are legitimate dealers. But after the steel reaches Berlin, it disappears. The allies believe it is quietly taken to East Berlin and from there shipped either directly to Russia, or to one of her satellites.

Officials said perhaps as much as $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 worth of steel has been illegally shipped to the East this far in 1950.

Another source said a shipment of American lead which arrived in the Netherlands went down the Rhine to Switzerland. The lead then went on to Stettin, Poland. American officials were aware of the transaction but were unable to interfere. Switzerland until yesterday had no export controls and had become a favored spot for international speculators. The little nation's decision yesterday to impose export and import controls may close that avenue.

Initial receivers of contraband slipping under the Iron Curtain have been Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, allied officials said. But they make no bones that they are convinced Russia ultimately gets the lion's share.

File 3 Charges In Auto Accident

A 26 year old Negro man was charged with three warrants last night by State Highway Patrolmen as the result of a highway accident which occurred on the Pitt-Beaufort county line last night about 7 o'clock. Patrolmen stated that a car driven by James Henry King, of Route 3, Greenville sideswiped a station wagon operated by Charles Roney, Cherry Point Marine.

Roney was taken to Tayloe hospital in Washington by ambulance and later transferred to the Marine hospital.

Patrolman Paul C. Whitley stated that the station wagon was struck in the side, causing the driver to lose control of the vehicle, turning over. The station wagon traveled a total of 66 yards after being hit. The car went 27 yards and came to rest on an embankment. King left the scene of the accident. After the patrolmen cleared up the investigation of the accident a search was launched for the driver.

About two hours later, King walked into the Grimesland police station to report that his car had been stolen. Patrolmen stepped in from there and soon after King admitted being the driver of the car which had struck the Marine.

Officers charged him with hit and run driving, careless and reckless driving and driving without a license. He will be tried in county court this morning.

Both the car and station wagon were listed as being total losses. Officers making the investigation were Patrolmen Whitley and Perry and Cpl. Morrow.

Red Diplomats Learn A Lesson

New York, Dec. 12—(AP)—Just like ordinary visitors, Communist China's delegates to the United Nations had to stand in line, then pay for their tickets to Radio City Music Hall.

But they tried to veto the idea. Gen. Wu Hsiu-Chuan, delegation head, and six of his staff members tried to "buck" the long waiting line Saturday night at the big theater which customarily admits diplomats without charge.

When told all seats were occupied and they'd have to wait their turn, the delegates called loudly for the manager, Russell Downing.

Wu said they would even pay for the tickets provided they didn't have to stand in line. But Downing wouldn't budge. He reminded the Chinese Reds that the persons inside had paid, too. Then, irritated, he told Wu that his party not only would wait in line—but would have to pay admission.

The diplomats capitulated. They waited until seats were available and they paid their way in.

director of selective service. Hershey was faced with this problem: since the country needs draftees but at the same time will need a continuous flow of college-trained men, should college men be deferred, or what, and how?

Hershey asked six committees of scholars, scientists and educators for recommendations. They've been studying the problem since 1948. They have recommended:

That the brainiest youths, with their intelligence determined by tests, should be deferred from military service so long as they went to college and achieved a certain amount of prescribed scholastic standing.

These recommendations of the

Hershey committees have not been completed but are expected to be very soon and they are not expected to differ much from their preliminary recommendations already explained above.

But the American Council on Education, while following pretty much the recommendations of the Hershey committees, would lower a bit the standards of the intelligence tests that picked these brainiest youths.

According to the council's view, these deferred college men would have to serve in the armed forces after finishing school, unless the President himself picked out individuals for other kind of work or service.

Driver Is Unhurt As Car Strikes Mule On Road

Another mule and an automobile collided on a highway near Greenville Sunday night. The mule was killed and the car was badly damaged. The driver was shaken up by the collision of equine flesh and the metal of the car. The mule was taken to a garage for about $150 of repairs.

State Highway Patrolman Paul C. Whitley, who investigated the accident, said Mrs. Mildred Tripp, route 4, Greenville, was driving the car. He quoted her as saying the mule came onto the highway and she could not avoid striking the animal. The collision occurred on the Bethel highway about 4 1-2 miles from Greenville. The name of the owner of the mule was not ascertained, the officer stated.

The cavalry divisions, smaller than the normal Chinese infantry division, were placed at between 4,000 and 7,000 men each. A normal Chinese division with supporting units totals 10,000 men.

MacArthur's headquarters said 27 Chinese divisions—about 270,000 men—now have crossed the Manchurian border. This was the vanguard of more than 1,000,000 troops MacArthur said the Chinese had committed to their Korean expeditionary force.

Allied warplanes roared out again Tuesday against communist supply and troop convoys. Pilots reported by midday they had killed or wounded 550 Red troops in central Korea.

The retreat of the Eighth Army from its reformed line south of Pyongyang to the 38th parallel still was covered by security which prevented locating its precise positions.

the agricultural teachers for discussion and recommendations to the local Chamber of Commerce.

Plans for the annual membership banquet tentatively set for February 26 were discussed briefly by the directors. A meeting of the committee which will arrange for the meeting is to be held Wednesday afternoon.

A nominations committee was appointed to select a slate of 16 nominees from which the membership of the Chamber of Commerce will elect eight directors for three year terms beginning February 1. An elections committee composed of Bancroft Moseley, A. Hartwell Campbell and Dr. M. P. Hoot was appointed to supervise the election and canvass the ballots.

After some discussion the directors of the organization instructed Manager Kyzer to look into the recent action of the Pitt County commissioners requesting approval of the county as a federal housing area, and report to the directors his findings and what such approval for the county will mean.

The physically fit would have to serve in the armed forces. Those not physically fit, but still not extremely disabled, would have to work where the defense department told them.

But still another group of educators have other ideas. These were scholars, scientists and schoolmen who were asked for help in 1948 by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey,
