Legislators Urge Truman Invoke Wage-Price Control

Forthcoming Mobilization Plans Discussed With Strong Plea For Wage-Price Curbs In Anticipated National Emergency Proclamation

Washington, Dec. 14—(AP)—President Truman discussed home front mobilization with a second congressional group today and urged by several of the legislators to go ahead with wage-price controls.

There was no word as to whether Mr. Truman had made up his mind about that, but Senator Maybank (D-Sc) said he was "hopeful" the president will declare a national emergency and put into effect swiftly "whatever wage-price controls can be administratively handled."

Senator Tobey (R-NH) told reporters he had advised "all-out" controls.

"This is one of the darkest hours in the history of this nation and the world," Tobey said.

Maybank is chairman of the Senate Banking Committee which handles controls legislation. Tobey is the top Republican on the committee.

Attending today's White House conference were the leaders of the Senate and House banking committees, the Senate-House Economic Committee, and the Atomic Committee. Key administration officials concerned with economic matters also were present.

It was the second such meeting that Mr. Truman has held preliminary to reporting to the American people in a radio address at 10:30 p.m. (EST) tomorrow on what steps the government will take to meet the world crisis and the increasing threat of World War Three.

Democratic and Republican congressional leaders met with him yesterday.

After that meeting the White House said there appeared to be unanimous agreement among the conferees that "our military strength should be built up with the utmost speed."

The Republicans present backed up that statement, but Senator Ruff (R-Ohio) said on their behalf some members of the GOP group had doubts about the need for proclaiming a national emergency.

Mr. Truman is considering such a step and may announce his decision in a nation-wide radio broadcast at 10:30 p.m. E.T. tomorrow night. The speech also will be carried by some television stations and it will be beamed abroad by the state department's "voice of America."

At the first White House session leaders of both parties endorsed plans for a rapid White House session leaders of both parties endorsed plans for a rapid build-up of U. S. military might.

Senator Maybank (D-Sc), one of those invited today, declared that no such build-up can be achieved without wage-price controls, at least on defense materials and equipment. "I intend to tell the President in no uncertain terms that we must have wage-price controls on a selective basis right away," said Maybank.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said he would urge Mr. Truman to put general wage-price controls into effect immediately.

"It's too late for selective controls," O'Mahoney told a reporter. "We've got to have them across the board. Military mobilization can't succeed unless we do something right away to curb the inflation that is deteriorating the value of our defense dollars."

Stabilization officials have said they don't expect to be in a position to impose general wage-price controls for at least 60 days. Selective controls are likely much sooner.

One senator who attended yesterday's White House meeting quoted Mr. Truman as saying wage-price curbs on at least a limited scale would be a logical follow-up proclaiming a national emergency. The senator asked not to be named.

Railroad Strike Spreading Fast

Chicago, Dec. 14—(AP)—A sudden, crippling railroad strike spread from Chicago to Washington today despite a federal court order to end the walkout.

The yardworkers' work stoppage curtailed passenger service on eight rail lines serving the nation's capital. A similar walkout has tied up considerable freight and hit some passenger traffic in Chicago, rail crossroads of the nation.

There had been a hint from chiefs of the railroad brotherhoods that the strike might spread. The first walkout in Chicago, took 10,000 men out of the yards yesterday. Union leaders said it was unauthorized.

A federal judge last night ordered the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to end the one-day strike. The government, which seized the nation's carriers last August after a strike threat stemming from a wage, hour dispute, said the stoppage was "seriously interfering with the war effort."

The walkout virtually halted freight movement. It caused some passenger train cancellations and disrupted other industries. Continuation of the stoppage threatened a major delay in the Christmas mails in Chicago, a major transfer point for transcontinental mails.

Trucks Collide At Second and Greene; One Badly Damaged

Two trucks collided at Second and Greene streets yesterday morning when one of them had to stop suddenly to avoid striking a vehicle in front of him. A small truck driven by Paul M. Bozeman of Wilson collided with the rear of a truck driven by Thurman N. Nelson of Greenville, the police report stated.

Damage to the Nelson truck was estimated by police to be about $500. Damage to Bozeman's truck, about $25.

Recent Red Jet Activities May Open Aerial War

Air Force Spokesman Sees Increasing Tempo Of Red Fighters In Korea

Washington, Dec. 14—(AP)—An air force spokesman said today there are indications that the Communist Air Force is starting to wage all-out air war in Korea.

He said that increased enemy jet fighter activities during the last few days suggests that "the enemy may now intend to exploit fully his air potential concomitantly with his ground successes."

"The pattern now unfolding," he added, "may reveal a steady increasing tempo of air activity as additional aircraft become available from Communist China or the Soviet Union."

A dispatch from Korea today said 24 Russian-made MIG-15 jet fighters and four American jet shooting Stars exchanged fire near Sinuiju in northwest Korea. None of the American planes was reported damaged. The U. S. pilots said one Communist plane was hit.

The United Nations forces in Korea might be particularly vulnerable to air attack in their present positions—concentrated in relatively small areas, especially in the northeast where they have only a small beachhead around the port of Hungnam.

The Air Force spokesman's suggestion that the Communists are planning all-out air war was made at the Pentagon's regular briefing for reporters.

He noted that from the beginning of the Korean fighting, until about Nov. 1, enemy air strength did little.

On November 1, a marked change occurred, "with the first appearance of the Russian-made MIG-15 jet fighters in aerial combat, he went on.

Then on Dec. 6, enemy jets for the first time began pressing attacks on United States' B-29 formations.

Until the step-up in Red air force action, there was almost no comparison between United Nations and Communist air activity. The spokesman said that from June 25 through Dec. 8 only 506 sorties were known to have been flown by the Communists.

Rap On Knuckles Of Contractors

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 14—(AP)—Tar Hill road building contractors have drawn a sharp rap on the knuckles from Governor Scott.

The Governor yesterday released a copy of a letter in which he told the contractors to stick to road building and stop trying "to run the State Highway Commission."

The letter was to Robert Patten of Charlotte, managing director of the Carolinas Associated General Contractors of America. Patten had demanded proof from Scott that a contractor monopoly exists in the state.

The Governor was quoted in news stories recently as referring to a "contractor monopoly" in the state.

"If you feel that your group has been unjustly accused," Scott's letter stated, "I shall be glad to have you come to Raleigh in order that we might sit down and talk it over."

The letter added that "the practices of road contractors are widely known; and in the last two weeks they have teamed up in an effort to have specifications on primary highways changed to their own liking despite the fact that present specifications are approved by road building agencies." This was a reference to a request for a change in grading specifications of bituminous surface courses—a request which the highway commission under study.

CONSIDER MAIL EMBARGO Washington, Dec. 14—(AP)—The Post Office Department today considered a partial embargo on parcel post mailings in view of the spreading strike among railroad yard employees.

Washington, Dec. 14—(AP)—A $38,000,000 brought relief program for Communist Yugoslavia—a "must" in President Truman's post-election legislative book—appeared headed for quick enactment today.

Battered but still substantially intact, it passed the House late yesterday, 225 to 142, after two days of stormy debate.

Industrial Body Plans Discussed

Steering Committee Meets, Plan Authorized To Issue Capital Stock Of $250,000

Members of the steering committee for the formation of an industrial foundation in Greenville discussed at a meeting this morning the certificate of incorporation for the organization.

The group decided the new industrial development corporation will be known as Greenville Industries Incorporated, and will have an authorized capital stock of $250,000. The stock will consist of 10,000 shares with a par value of $25 each.

Although the final certificate of incorporation was not submitted to the group for approval this morning, the seven men who attended the meeting decided the corporation should have eleven directors elected by the stockholders for one year terms. The officers of the corporation will consist of a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. The officers will be elected by the board of directors of the corporation.

The committee composed of Chairman Van C. Fleming, Jr., R. M. Garrett, Sr., J. B. Kittrell, Tom W. Rivers, T. I. Wagner, Manager W. T. Kyzer of the Chamber of Commerce and Attorney Bill Watson this morning decided the certificate of incorporation should be so written that the corporation will be authorized to begin business when 25 shares of stock have been sold.

After the meeting Chairman Fleming said the certificate of incorporation is expected to be adopted by the steering committee at a meeting which is scheduled during the week between Christmas and January 1.

The steering committee which is working out the organization of the industrial foundation for Greenville was appointed November 30 at a meeting of Greenville citizens interested in the formation of an industrial development corporation. The meeting was called by industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce and industry committees from the civic organizations of the city which were appointed to seek the formation of an industrial foundation in Greenville.

Members of the steering committee appointed at the November meeting are Van C. Fleming, Jr., R. M. Garrett, Sr., J. B. Kittrell, Sr., T. I. Wagner, J. S. Ficklen, Sr., M. K. Blount, and Tom W. Rivers.

STRONG EARTHQUAKE Mexico City, Dec. 14—(AP)—A strong earthquake shook Mexico City shortly after 9 a.m. (EST) today but caused only minor damage. There were no reports of personal injuries in the city itself.

College Program Times Changed

Changes in the hours of the annual Christmas concert sponsored by the department of music at East Carolina Teachers College and of the East Carolina-Catawba basketball game have been announced. The two events, originally announced for the same hour on Thursday evening of this week, have been re-scheduled so that those who are interested may attend both.

The Christmas concert will take place Thursday evening in the Austin auditorium at 7:00 o'clock. The basketball game, a North State Conference contest, will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the Wright building.

Yugoslav Relief Program Is Given House Approval

Washington, Dec. 14—(AP)—A $38,000,000 brought relief program for Communist Yugoslavia—a "must" in President Truman's post-election legislative book—appeared headed for quick enactment today.

Battered but still substantially intact, it passed the House late yesterday, 225 to 142, after two days of stormy debate.

In the showdown, 182 Democrats were joined by 43 Republicans to put the measure across. Voting "no" were 100 Republicans, 41 Democrats and Rep. Marcantonio, American Labor Party.

Before the bill goes to Mr. Truman for his signature, a compromise between conflicting Senate and House versions must be worked out. With no basic difficulties in prospect, this was expected to be done quickly.

Many House members were openly dubious of wooing Communist Dictator Tito, but the majority went along with the argument that the United States must bolster the anti-Soviet Belgrade regime to save it from Stalin.

The attitude of perhaps a majority was summed up by Rep. Ribicoff (D-Conn.), who urged help for Tito as a "realistic" move in the struggle to contain Soviet imperialism.

"Nothing has come before this house in a long time which has aroused so little enthusiasm as this bill," he told the House.

Christmas Cheer Cash Gift Comes By The Pound

Twelve and a quarter pounds of bills and coins were involved in the transaction when Charles Self of Greensboro, president of the Veterans Club of East Carolina Teachers College, yesterday presented Ola Ross, case worker for the Pitt County Welfare Department, with a sum of $65, to be used to bring Christmas cheer to the needy. Looking on as Miss Ross accepts the gift is Robert W. Wechter of Stumpy Point, vice president of the club. As Christmas approached this year, members of the newly organized Veterans club first thought of having a party for themselves; then they decided to use their time and money to make others happy. Collections in the men's dormitories and at basketball games made up the sum turned over to the Welfare Department. (East Carolina News Bureau Photo).

New Daniels' Hearing Is Set In Tarboro Court Monday

Law Enforcers Subpoenaed To Appear; Attorneys To Seek Possible Discrimination In Drawing Of Jury

Members of the Sheriff's office, and Greenville Police Department have been subpoenaed to appear in U. S. District Court in Tarboro Monday for a hearing requested by attorneys for Bennie and Lloyd Ray Daniels, Pitt Negroes convicted of the murder of William Benjamin O'Neal in 1948.

It was learned also that the attorneys for the brothers, who were sentenced to death in Pitt Superior Court last year, will appear here tomorrow to investigate possible discrimination in drawing of a jury for the original trial. A New York Negro attorney, who has been employed by the Daniels in an advisory capacity, phoned the Register of Deeds today, asking if he may have access to the 1947 jury scroll and also the 1946 tax scroll from which the jury list was drawn. The lawyer stated he will come to Greenville tomorrow to investigate the names on the scrolls.

Those receiving subpoenas are Sheriff Ruel Tyson, deputy Sheriff Lloyd Manning, ABC officer Claude Manning; former Chief of Police Lester Page, S. B. Dorsey, M. E. Corbett and Oscar Arnold, all of the Police Department; SBI agent S. G. Gibbs; and Register of Deeds Charles P. Gaskins.

They have been ordered to appear before Judge Don Gilliam at 10:30 Monday morning for the hearing.

Allot Big Fund For Missions

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., Dec. 14—(AP)—The board of missions and church extension of the Methodist Church has approved a missionary appropriation of $14,134,566 for 1951-52—the largest in the history of the denomination.

Before concluding its annual meeting yesterday, the board split the sum up three ways—$5,964,910 for overseas work in 40 countries; $2,429,449 for work in U.S. missions and $5,740,207 for the women's division of Christian service at home and abroad.

Ships Battered In Heavy Storm

Brest, France, Dec. 14—(AP)—At least three ships—Dutch, English and Greek—are in difficulty in a tempest off the coast of northwest France, the French Naval Station said today.

The 3,658-ton Greek ship, Agios Spyridon, is in the worst shape, and can probably be considered lost, the station said, adding that it has reports that rescue ships have approached the vessel and taken off at least two men and a woman.

Disaster Pends In Anxious Town Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 14—(AP)—Part of downtown Lynchburg is sitting anxiously on top of a "gas chamber" that could explode at almost any time and result in tragedy.

Gasoline is pouring into a sewer at the rate of 75 gallons per day, but neither public works officials nor the fire prevention bureau have succeeded so far in locating the cause.

Cease-Fire Appeal For Korea Nears UN Vote

New York, Dec. 14—(AP)—A last hope move to get Red China to agree to a cease-fire truce in Korea was promised overwhelming U.N. assembly approval late today. Russian opposition made the plan's chances of success doubtful.

The 60-nation U.N. political committee adopted the measure yesterday 51 to 5, after a flood of gloomy predictions that World War III threatens unless the Chinese Communists heed the world organization.

Estimated 100,000 Chinese Grouping For Assault; Light Attacks Repulsed; Advancing Red Forces Hammered By Carrier-Based Planes

Tokyo, Dec. 14—(AP)—Allied forces pulled deeper into their northeast Korea beachhead today before the menace of an estimated 100,000 Chinese Reds massed on an arc around them.

Across the peninsula in the northwest near Manchuria the biggest jet-against-jet air battles ever fought were waged during the day. The jet dogfights rendered no clear-cut decisions.

On the northeast beachhead the U. S. Third Division abandoned the town of Oro, six miles north of Hungnam, and withdrew into the slender perimeter strip extending another six miles to the east coast port of Hungnam.

It is the United Nations' last foothold in the northeast. Dynamic Spans Puerto Rican troops attached to the Third Division dynamited three spans of a 500-foot concrete bridge over the Songchon River after Oro was abandoned. A railroad bridge and two other spans on the outer defense perimeter also were blasted.

These were the first reported large demolitions on the outskirts of the beachhead. Oro was in flames from pre-dawn fighting. This was believed to be the scene of a light Chinese probing attack reported earlier but not pinpointed. Enemy reconnaissance planes scouted the beachhead Wednesday night.

Beachhead Quiet The tense beachhead was quiet Thursday. Rifleman and machine-guns, testing their weapons in the dock area, caused one flurry of excitement.

A Red convoy of 100 trucks was reported moving south from the Manchurian border toward the Changjin Reservoir, where thousands of allied troops now at the beachhead recently smashed through Red traps.

A briefing officer said the convoy was believed to be carrying supplies for the Reds massed around Hungnam and Hungnam. In the far northwest, another threat appeared in the growing strength of Red jet fighter planes streaking into action from Manchuria.

Light Attacks AP correspondent Stan Swinton reported two light ground attacks on the perimeter, which embraces Hungnam and its Hungnam port on the sea of Japan coast.

Both attacks were repulsed. Chinese in company strength were captured American uniforms in the first probing attack.

The perimeter is manned by elements of the American and two South Korean divisions plus British and Puerto Rico units. They are from among the 60,000 or more allied troops drawn to the beachhead from all northeast Korea.

Chinese menacing the perimeter were hammered by carrier-based Marine and naval fighter-bombers. Also protecting the beachhead were the long-range guns of American warships.

Hard Fight Coming Field officers expected a sharp fight within the near future.

Correspondent Swinton reported Chinese forces were seeing down from the north on foot. The heaviest force was moving through the Suchong valley north of Hungnam.

West of the Hungnam-Koto road other Chinese elements moved to

State Of Emergency

Technically We're Still At War And A State Of National Emergency Has Been In Existence Since 1939; Explanation As To Why A New Declaration Necessary

Washington, Dec. 14—(AP)—This country has been in a continuous state of national emergency since 1939. But this week President Truman is expected to declare a state of national emergency.

This may sound confusing but isn't. The declaration won't affect the general public in such a wide sense as price and wage controls and rationing.

Under a law passed by congress this fall the President can order price and wage controls and rationing any time he thinks they're necessary. He doesn't have to declare an emergency to use them.

Why then declare a national emergency at all since we're already living under an emergency declaration and have been since 1939? It may, of course, sharpen the public's realization of national danger.

But—it is only by declaring an emergency that the President can put into motion certain laws which he may think are necessary for this country's arms preparations but can't be used without the formal declaration of emergency.

Control Of Far East

Whether China Seeks An Asiatic 'Monroe Doctrine' Or Leadership And Control Of Far East, Events Point To Violence Ahead Should Reds Pursue Goal

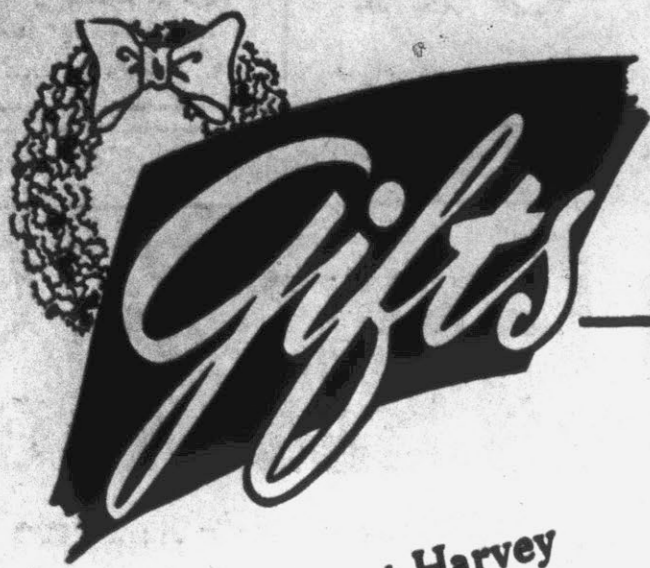

The Korean upheaval is, of course, another clash between communism and democracy. As such it is part of the ideological struggle which rapidly is enveloping Asia.

The Soviet Union—part European and largely Asiatic—is the commander-in-chief of the Red forces. Its lieutenant for eastern Asia is Red China, mighty in territory and resources and boasting close to a fifth of the world's population.

Under these circumstances it isn't strange to see communist China apparently aiming at the dominant position in the Far East. And a good deal more than a "Monroe Doctrine" is involved.

China's intervention in Korea, and her operations against Tibet, Nepal and Indochina make it evident that "control" is what Peiping is after.

Whether Mao Tse-Tung, Red Chinese leader, is personally ambitious or is being pushed into this expansive program by Moscow isn't clear, although he obviously has some sort of pact with Russia. In any event, whether he likes it or not, he has no choice. He sits right under Russia's big guns.

Mamie E. Jenkins Returns To Talk Before English Club Here Tuesday

MAMIE E. JENKINS

Mamie E. Jenkins of Raleigh, retired member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, returned to the campus here Tuesday to speak before the college English Club and to celebrate with members of the staff of the "Techo Echo," college newspaper, the anniversary of its founding twenty-five years ago. Miss Jenkins discussed with club members, students of journalism at the college, and guests some of her experiences with college publications during her thirty-six years of service at East Carolina.

Joyce Proctor of Walstonburg, English Club president, acted as chairman of the meeting. Emma

L. Hooper of the faculty introduced Miss Jenkins as a charter member of the college faculty, the founder of the "Techo Echo," and a writer and editor who played a leading part in the development of a number of student and official college publications.

Miss Jenkins discussed with her student audience the founding of the "Training School Quarterly," begun at East Carolina in 1914, and some of the accomplishments of the publication as an influence in education in North Carolina. Out of this magazine, she said, grew such later student publications as the college annual and the "Techo Echo." She illustrated her remarks with a display of early copies of the quarterly and the newspaper. In informal manner, she told some of her experiences as faculty sponsor of student publications and as a teacher of courses in journalism.

District Masonic Meeting Is Held

Farmville, Dec. 14—The annual meeting of the Fifth Masonic District was held in Farmville on Wednesday with approximately eighty masons in attendance. This district comprises all masonic lodges in Pitt County and also Robersonville.

Charles R. Gray, District Deputy Grand Master of the District, presided over a session of officers in the afternoon devoted to a discussion of the masonic code, regulations, laws, etc. At 7:00 p. m. the meeting adjourned to the high school cafeteria where a barbecue supper was served. At 8:00 p. m. the meeting was re-assembled in the lodge hall where Sam D. Bundy, master of the Farmville Lodge, presided and welcomed the visiting masons.

Past Grand Master W. J. Bundy spoke briefly on masonry in general and District Deputy Grand Master Charles R. Gray gave a summary of the activities of the district. Each lodge represented gave a brief account of the activities of that lodge for the past year. The highlight of the evening was an address by Rev. R. H. Lucas of Plymouth who spoke on "Wisdom, Strength, and Beauty."

whelming hordes of the Chinese communists, but he said, the Koreans feel "the Americans are deserting them in a time of great need. They will find it hard to ever trust the American promises of democracy again."

If the doctor is correct in the estimation of his people, the United States and the United Nations are losing the thing which they sought most—the desire of the people to have freedom under the auspices of the United Nations and democracy.

To lose to the enemy the territory of Korea which we have sought to free from the heel of oppression is a blow in itself; but to lose with it the faith and friendship of the people we have sought to aid is a greater setback than we have previously suffered.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—Several high courts' castigation of illegal federal police methods, such as wiretapping, arrests without warrants and searches of homes without writs, will lead to a general study of these agencies' practices at the next session of Congress. The present code governing these activities admittedly needs clarification, broadening or tightening.

Although FBI officials maintain that extraordinary circumstances require extra-legal means of detection, judges on two benches ranking just below the Supreme Court have declared that the government cannot break one law while trying to enforce another. They have insisted that the Bill of Rights, which guarantees every citizen certain elementary liberties, still means what it says, until amended.

Although the New York Circuit Court of Appeals held that Judge Coplon was clearly guilty of espionage and conspiracy, it reversed her conviction because the FBI arrested her without a warrant and tapped her telephone conversations, including talks with her lawyer. It is possible that the District of Columbia may reverse her conviction here for theft of official documents.

EXPENSE—"Are you trying to tell us," asked Judge E. Barrett Prettyman indignantly, "that any defendant can have a fair trial if his talks with his counsel are intercepted?"

Besides reflecting judicial reaction to official violation of law, the Coplon reversal may entail great expense to taxpayers, if the D of J decides to try her again. Should the Washington decision also be upset, the additional bill will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

But it is the threat to the "four freedoms," for which our boys are fighting in Korea, that obviously worries the jurists charged with safeguarding the individual's personal freedoms.

METHODS—J. Edgar Hoover, FBI Director, justifies police methods condemned by the courts on the say-so of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. He cites the late President's statement that wiretapping can be resorted to when national security is threatened.

But the courts take the position that the White House cannot rewrite or repeal the Constitution and the laws enacted thereunder. They make wiretapping punishable by two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Government lawyers denied that they had wiretapped in the Washington trial, which was presided over by the late Judge Albert Reeves of Kansas City. A Harding appointee and hard-balled jurist famous for admitting evidence obtained on "Moe and Izale" raids during prohibition days, he was brought here especially for the Coplon trial.

Judge Reeves refused to permit the defense to submit any evidence of wiretapping. Government lawyers solemnly informed him that there had been no wiretapping, that mention of it was "nonsense," and that defense efforts to introduce the question were a "fishing expedition." These are quotes from the records, as are all facts set forth here.

"WANTON"—FBI agents who had done the actual wiretapping, and who subsequently helped to destroy wiretap records, sat in the courtroom and listened to these official denials. Neither Attorney General McGrath nor Director Hoover volunteered to enlighten Judge Reeves on the truth.

But the facts which led to the Coplon reversal tumbled out at a New York hearing on a second trial before Judge Sylvester J. Ryan. Unlike Judge Reeves, he declared that "wiretapping is a poisonous source of evidence," and dug into it. He said he would have to reverse, if wiretapping were proved to have bolstered the government's case.

It was because of the Ryan revelations that the New York Circuit Court, which consists of such eminent jurists as Learned Hand, Thomas Swan and Jerome Frank, threw out the Coplon conviction reluctantly. Judge Hand described the FBI's destruction of wiretap records before conclusion of all appeals as "wanton."

Besides admitting that they had wiretapped, agents explained that the records had to be destroyed within sixty days "under a general FBI order."

PRODUCED—In fairness to the defense, Judge Ryan then demanded that the data obtained from wiretapping be produced. In the absence of any records, and at great expense to the taxpayers, FBI agents were brought to New York from Puerto Rico, El Paso, Phoenix, San Francisco and Milwaukee.

Since they could merely recall what they had heard on wiretapped talks ten months previous, Judge Ryan noted that their "recollections" of what they heard need not be accepted as gospel.

Government lawyers tried to argue that "no information of value" had been obtained by illegal methods. But Judge Ryan developed that the first knowledge of Miss Coplon's trip to New York to meet V. M. Gubitchev, her Russian friend, came from a wiretap. It also became evident that data on her New York trip and its purpose could have been obtained by the simple and legal system of shadowing her movements.

The FBI's sensitiveness on the wiretapping issue was revealed by Agent Bernard T. Fusco. He told Judge Ryan that, although agents must make a "daily activity report" on everything they do while on the least important case, they are not required to make any report when assigned to wiretapping posts.

LIBERTIES—Congressmen concerned over invasion of personal liberties do not argue that the federal police force—the FBI, Post Office Inspector, Treasury agents, White House Secret Service, Central Intelligence—should not be empowered to wiretap or arrest without a warrant in a grave national emergency, if circumstances necessitate.

But they do believe that every American citizen's liberties should be safeguarded by law. They do not think they should become a secondary consideration because of the decision of a federal detective, an Attorney General or even a President of the United States.

Somebody Told Me

By I. S. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

One of the most colorful newspapers in the south is the Chapel Hill Weekly, edited by Louis Graves. In a town full of color, Louis puts that color into his newspaper. Louis is amused by the fact that the thin-blooded northerners are blaming the cold weather on the South. He says: "It is made clear by the highest meteorological authority that the responsibility for the storm that ravaged the Northern seaboard states last Saturday rests upon the South. On the front page of the New York Herald Tribune Sunday, under the headline, 'What Caused the Storm,' was a statement from the U.S. Weather Bureau declaring that the storm grew out of a 'low pressure area in western North Carolina.' The statement continued: 'This low center moved northward through Virginia late Friday night, intensifying rapidly as it moved northward.' Governor Dewey of New York said, 'Here in New York we have only the kindest feelings for the South and the Southern people, but of course we cannot take unprompted attacks like this lying down. I do not favor any hasty punitive action, but rather conciliation and the educational approach. Perhaps, as we have sought to do often in the past, we can exert a civilizing influence on the South and persuade it not to let loose on us any more of these brutal storms.' 'You know, we have a rain-making department in our New York State Government. It has been conducting studies aimed at a control of weather disturbances, and if the South will not respond to our appeals maybe we will have to send our meteorological experts to the storm hatcheries in Virginia and North Carolina and see what they can do in the way of pacification.' After that statement by Dewey, I feel like saying, 'Whew! What a vocabulary!' Mayor Impelleri of New York City was asked what he thought of the South's causing the storm that wrought such great havoc in the city. He looked puzzled. 'What do you mean, South? Do you mean South Ferry, or South Amboy, New Jersey?' When told that there is a more distant region called the South, he decided that he had heard of it. 'Well,' he said, 'I hardly know what to say about those people's dispatching a storm against us. It certainly is not what you would call a friendly act. I'll have to appoint a committee to look into it.' Senator Humphrey of Minnesota let out the classical statement: 'This proves that we have got to put through the law creating a Fair Employment Practices Commission. If there had been fair employment in Virginia and North Carolina the people there would have been better occupied than in brewing all this hell-broth of a hurricane.' And I thank Dr. and Mrs. Glen Haney for the story.

Around Capitol Square

Daily Reflector Bureau By LYNN HIBBET Raleigh, N. C.

WAYNICK — Grapevine telegraph brings intelligence from scouts along the Potomac that Capen Waynick of North Carolina may be the next national Democratic chairman. Chairman William Boyle is expected to resign in the near future, and it is known that party leaders looking around for a successor are giving some attention to the North Carolina editor, politician and diplomat. Not much is being said about it, and there is at present no great popular demand for his services. QUALIFICATIONS—Those who are sending up trial balloons for Waynick point out several excellent qualifications for the post. He has worked as newspaper reporter and editor; served in the state legislature; made a fine record as director of purchase and contract and as chairman of the highway commission in North Carolina; organized the venerable disease educational foundation which attained international repute; gained practical political experience as manager of Governor Scott's successful campaign and as state Democratic chairman. Currently he is ambassador to Nicaragua by presidential appointment, and is believed to be desirous of returning to that post from which he was called by President Truman a few months ago to head up the Point Four section of the international rehabilitation program. ACCEPTABLE — It is further pointed out he should be acceptable to all factions in the Democratic party. Rated a moderate liberal, his support of the Truman policies has been enthusiastic. Hailing from the south he should be acceptable to southern leaders, who give promise of recapturing some of the dominant influence in Democratic party councils lost during the New Deal and early Fair Deal regimes. His diplomatic training would help him to bring together and keep together divergent factions in the party. The movement for Waynick as national chairman may not get beyond the talking stage, but it is conceded his backers have some good talking points.

SPECULATION — North Carolinians have a way of getting favorite sons into almost every list of proposed top appointments. It is recalled that for many years every vacancy on the United States supreme court brought in to discussion the name of Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of the N.C. high court. Former Senator Frank Graham has been promoted for almost every top bracket job at disposal of the president, from national labor relations board, Red Cross presidency, United Nations delegate, to a cabinet position. Republican demands for resignation of Secretary of State Dean Acheson have brought into the picture two North Carolinians for that post—Gordon Gray, president of the University and former secretary of the army, and James Webb, under secretary of state now. Every governor since McLean has been suggested as potential presidential or vice-presidential timber, and Governor Broughton's backers made a considerable campaign for him in 1944. 'Fact is,' remarked one well informed North Carolinian, 'there was in every instance something more than idle speculation. The men would have made as good national officials as those chosen instead at the time.'

NO TALK — It is generally conceded that prominent men and high ranking officials talk too much. There isn't any doubt that President Truman has been writing too much. One southern statesman is taking no chances of over-talking. Governor-elect James F. Byrnes of South Carolina has fixed a rule, which all the pressure applied has not induced him to break, that he will make no speeches, issue no formal statements and grant no newspaper interviews until after his inauguration on Jan. 16. That decision apparently was made necessary by the requests for interviews and speeches from all over the United States. Anything said by a man who has been representative and senator in congress, justice of the United States supreme court, assistant president and secretary of state of the United States, who seeks to crown a distinguished career of public service as governor of his state, would be big news.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

LOSING FACE (Williamstien Enterprise) We have thought little about those who claimed it was a national tragedy to lose face. Now, after reverses in Korea, we have a fuller appreciation of what it means to lose face. But what's even more tragic is the loss of American lives, and if we can lose face and save lives, we might try that course for a while. Possibly in our humbled position we can better understand the problem and see the overall picture in a better light. To lose lives just to save face without reaching a desired and lasting goal is down-right folly. Mostly a Matter of Keeping Books (Hertford Herald) A great deal of the talking and writing now being done about alleged failure of farmers to pay their proportionate share of the state income tax is wide of the mark. Too much of it is based on the premise that the average farmer is deliberately withholding information about how much he makes so that he may escape taxation, an idea that is untenable and mostly fictitious. What altogether too many farmers, are doing is neglecting to make income tax returns. There is quite flagrant abuse in that department and the farmer should, for his own good and to protect himself against unfair charges of tax-dodging, fill out the tax blanks—or call on field agents of the tax division to help—and send the completed forms right back to headquarters to be checked and doublechecked. Farmers were to file returns as the law requires and as they should do, we have no idea the state would receive any great sum of money above what it has been getting from them. The fact is at least, we believe it so—farmers as a group aren't dodging their taxes to any greater extent percentage-wise than are the business men, the wage earners, the lawyers, the doctors, the dentists, or any other group. If anything, our guess would be that the latter-named are making more tax-free dollars than are the farmers. For his own good in improved public relations, the farmer should get the income tax blank habit; fill it out and mail it, despite the fact he knows he doesn't owe a cent of tax. It would be a good thing for him if it did nothing more than make him a better record keeper, and you can take it from us he would have to be a good bookkeeper to do a passable job of filing his income blank properly. Besides improved public relations and a lesson in bookkeeping, income tax filing is required by law to be done by the farmer, just like it is for other groups.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER COURT DECISION AIDS PRICE-CUTTERS The Third U.S. District Court of Appeals has ruled that the Pennsylvania Fair Trade Law, under which manufacturers of trade-market products may fix retail prices, does not apply to interstate sales. The ruling came in the case of a manufacturer against a small firm that was selling by mail below the fair-trade price. The court held that the state could act to protect a price in Pennsylvania, but could not control the price paid for goods sold by mail to people in other states. In the past, mail-order firms in the District of Columbia and the three states without fair-trade laws—Missouri, Texas and Vermont—have been under-selling retailers in the other states. If the court's ruling is upheld, such firms can operate in any state as long as they confine their cut-price sales to interstate commerce. PARLAYS $750 INTO $1.7 MILLION SALES The huge demand for toys this season is putting back into the million-dollar sales class a 33-year-old enterpriser who started on a borrowed $750 in 1942. He is Lewis H. Glaser, a Los Angeles toy manufacturer. When the war threatened his small radio shop, he decided to find another business, hit on plastics and opened a two-man factory on $750 of borrowed capital. He worked on government contracts and made hand mirrors and picture frames for the consumer market. His sales rose from $30,000 the first year to $1,300,000 in 1945. In 1946, with war orders over and his other sales slumping, Glaser figured he didn't have the right lines. So, noting the rising birth rate, he switched to toys. He was selective in his toys and those he brought out he promoted imaginatively. His first was a Pluto flashlight. Right now he's featuring a bucking Maxwell toy auto—he's made more of them than Maxwell made real cars—and he's got an early Ford and Stanley Steamer coming up. Sales in 1947 were $358,000. They got up to $650,000 in 1948 and $723,000 last year. He expects to reach $1,750,000 this year.

Some businesses have been aware of this danger. The New York State Bankers Association recently warned its members to establish "formalized salary programs" in order to meet the possible effects of a wage freeze. The association urged banks to set up job classifications and wage ranges, including minimum and maximum salary grades for each classification of officers as well as employees. Where this has been done, it should minimize difficulties in granting increases that are within the spirit of "freeze" regulations. Even without such formalized approaches, it will probably be possible to increase salaries but, as World War II experience showed, it involved both a considerable amount of work and even more care to avoid coming into conflict with the government.

with people trying to find transportation south. A few miles west of Kaesong the first group of refugees was sighted. There were about a hundred. You could see toddlers in the group working its way over a trail running across a railroad track. The plane flashed up the canyon. The trail was filled with people. It reminded you of a column of ants working its way up the side of a kitchen sink. Turning southeast our plane headed homeward. Looking more closely at the people who had made it across the parallel, we could see their heading south over open land. They were mostly young men. They looked like soldiers. Entirely out of keeping with this desolate picture were some Korean youngsters playing on the rice paddy ice ponds. They ran out and waved vigorously as our low flying plane approached.

Hal Boyle's Column

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH (For HAL BOYLE U. S. Fifth Air Force Headquarters, Korea—(AP)—You're flying low over the wind-swept, snow-capped ridges of northwest Korea. Below is a winding mountain trail jammed with human beings.

In a way it looks from above like a football crowd that might be wending its way up Strawberry Canyon to the University of California Memorial Stadium. It isn't. It is a column of cold men, women and children driven by fear—crossing back and forth between warring armies like driftwood on waves lapping at the seashore.

This particular column 200 feet below has been officially estimated to contain between 300,000 and 500,000 people stretched along 25 miles of muddy road and mountain trail between Haeju and Chaeryong to the north. Haeju is about 75 miles northwest of Seoul, the Korean Republic capital.

These are only a portion of the people trying to flee before the advancing Chinese armies. Frightened, bewildered families are swarming southward over trails, roads and open country in small and large groups. This huge mass of people had been flowing relentlessly toward United Nations lines which had been falling back before the Chinese. However some have been turned back by airdropped pamphlets and warning bullets. The mass migrations are to United Nations forces a deadly fifth column. Skimming over the plodding, unhappy people from the safety of a plane you can't feel anything but pity for their misery as they move slowly over the icy, windwhipped hills.

Infantry men on the ground have that same impulse. What if this were America and it were your mother, wife of young brother or sister fleeing helplessly with a few pitiful belongings? But the infantryman also sees the migration through the eyes of fear. The vicious enemy mixes among these people to slip behind allied lines and kill at night. One combat officer told how he stopped 40 refugees on the Chongchon River line where United Nations forces began their present retreat. "We found three grenades, one American poncho, three American raincoats and 16 clips of enemy ammunition. Some of the ammo was found on women carrying babies. They all told us the same old story—they had been 'forced to do it.' That ammunition was intended for one thing: to kill Americans. Lots of it, god-though."

A short distance outside of Seoul a train chugged southward toward the South Korean capital. There were locomotives at each end. The open train cars were literally blanketed with men, women and children. On both sides of the railroad track were ice-coated rice paddies. At each train stop bodies were removed from the cars—the people had frozen to death. U. N. convoys were rumbling southward along a road parallel to the railroad. Four Mustangs passed above us on their way back from Red territory. Except for those on the trains there weren't many refugees along the road south of Kaesong. This large city is just a few miles from the 38th parallel. It seemed partly deserted of civilians. The reason was apparent. The rail station was crowded

Washington Letter

by JANE EADS

Washington—American GIs the world over will sit down to a traditional Christmas dinner with a pound of turkey per man and all the trimmings. The menu will be much the same as that they had on Thanksgiving Day and will vary only slightly in different areas. Army cooks will prepare the dinner from the master menu set up by the Quartermaster Corps. Here's what they'll be eating Christmas day in "Z"—that is, one of the Interior, or the United States proper: Breakfast: Chilled grapefruit, oatmeal, fresh milk, fried eggs, toast, doughnuts, butter, coffee. Diner (mid-day): Ripe olives, celery sticks, sweet pickles, spiced tomato juice cocktail, roast turkey, sage dressing, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, whipped potatoes, glazed sweets, French-style green beans, lettuce wedges with Thousand-Island dressing, Parker House rolls, jam, butter, hot mince pie, coffee, apples, tangerines, grapes, salted nuts, hard candy. Supper: Turkey rice soup, crackers, cold sliced turkey sandwiches, lettuce, salad dressing, potatoes, vegetables, relish tray, bread, butter, ice cream. In the Eastern Command, including Japan and Korea, they'll get about the same, except they'll have fried ham and jelly for breakfast and no doughnuts. The dinner, also at mid-day, will feature shrimp cocktail, fresh buttered corn, ice cream and fruit cake in addition to the mince pie, and a fruit punch. There is no mention of turkey soup or cold turkey sandwiches on the buffet supper menu.

About the only differences in the European Command's menu for the day are in vegetables. The boys and girls in Germany, for instance, will have buttered scotch and cauliflower with parsley butter for dinner. Their mince meat pie will be in mode. Unlike most of the folks back home, the GIs get turkey not only on Thanksgiving and Christmas, but also on five other days in the year, including New Year's Day. The Quartermaster Corps bought the turkey last summer, 15,000,000 pounds of it. New York-dressed. The Christmas turkeys have already been sent out to all posts and commands.

TURN ON AND LISTEN

The air round about us is full of voices, music, phrases.

No, we are not speaking about states of hallucination. Great broadcasting stations are sending out messages and music all the time and the television stations are sending out pictures. They are in the air round about you as you read these words. You do not hear or see them unless you have a receiving set. But the minute you plug in a receiving set and turn it on, these words, melodies, or perhaps pictures are presented before you in all their variety.

There are people who scoff at the idea of an unseen world. They claim that the very term is contradictory. Yet a hundred years ago men would have scoffed at the idea that song, message, or picture could be sent through the atmosphere at any time.

For thousands of years great teachers, prophets, and religious leaders have been telling us about the unseen world. Jesus told us more than anyone else. He and his mighty company of colleagues have urged us to plug in and turn on our receiving sets—that is, to trust, to pray, to meditate, and then to go forth into the world strengthened by what we hear and see and feel.

Another Letter From The President

In a manner of speaking, President Truman is becoming a man of letters. As The Reflector has said before, with each letter Truman's ears grow a little longer—and his list of admirers a little shorter.

This time the president chose as the subject of his letter his reply to a proposal from Representative Herbert (D-La.) that a day of prayer for guidance for the nation be proclaimed between now and Christmas.

Truman tossed aside the proposal for the day of prayer for guidance with the statement that his Thanksgiving proclamation "effectively answers your suggestion." If there were ever a man who needed guidance, it is Truman. He not only needed it on Thanksgiving day, but he needs it today and every day if he is to continue at the head of this great nation. If there ever were a nation which needed guidance through prayer, it is the United States today.

The president, however, chose to broach another subject to tell the congressman: "I am extremely sorry that the sentiments expressed in your letter were not thought of before November seventh when the campaign in your state, Utah, North Carolina, Illinois and Indiana was carried on in a manner that was as low as I've ever seen, and I've been in this game since 1906."

The Reflector would be overlooking its obligation should it not remind the president of his connections with one of the most infamous political organizations this nation has ever known; and of his political associations since he gave up haberdashery years ago.

We at least are in accord with the president that it is unfortunate the sentiments for guidance were not thought of earlier.

But unlike Truman, The Reflector is of the opinion the sentiments should have been thought of by all the people of the United States rather than the voters of the five states the president mentioned.

We further are of the opinion the nation would have been better off had the sentiments for guidance been expressed before the November election day in 1948—not the November election day in 1950.

A Loss We Haven't Suffered Before

How much are we losing in Korea? Not necessarily our losses in men and war material, but how much international prestige is the United States losing by the reversals in Korea?

Most people here have resigned themselves to our loss of men and equipment, but the indications of how the Korean disaster will affect our international position of leadership are just beginning to come to light.

In the Hungnam area from which the United Nations troops are effecting their evacuation, an American-educated doctor has told army officials the Koreans are "disappointed in the Americans." He added that the Korean people know the United Nations forces were defeated by the Family Night At Training School Honors Grade Teachers

The Training School PTA observed Family Night in the new auditorium on Wednesday night at 7:00 p.m. One of the largest crowds ever to attend was present to view the new addition to the school and to share with the pupils and teachers in their preparations for Christmas.

The new auditorium, beautiful in tones of rosy gray and equipped with the latest in fixtures, was well-filled with an estimated crowd of 600 patrons. Festive little Christmas trees and holly were used on the stage in holiday decorations.

A warm welcome was extended to all by the president, Mrs. Dink James. Two carols were sung under the leadership of Miss Beatrice Chauncey.

Mr. D. H. Conley, Pitt County superintendent of schools, gave a timely devotional, using the Christmas story as told by Luke. He concluded his remarks by stating, "We in America have been recipients of the great blessings of Christianity and we should stop to ponder at this Christmastide whether we have been good stewards of the gospel."

Mrs. L. E. Tyler, chairman of the hospitality committee, presented the teachers of the Training School

The teachers were as follows: Principal, Miss Frances Wahl; first grade, Ruth Faison, Ann Redwine and Mrs. Gladys Womble; second, Christine Johnson and Mrs. Sally Klingenschmitt; third, Mrs. Lindsey Savage and Eunice McGee; fourth, Joyce Corbette and Louise Golphin; fifth, Mrs. Elsie Egan and Lillian Purvis; sixth, Mrs. D. M. Clark and Mrs. Evelyn Hines; seventh, Mrs. Ellen Carroll and Jane Massey; eighth, Elisabeth Hyman.

Also recognized were Mrs. Enid Bryan, librarian, Mrs. Hubert Haynes, pianist for the rhythm classes, Miss Beatrice Chauncey, music teacher, Mr. James Walker, art teacher, Mr. James Rogers, band director, Miss Dora Coates, supervisor of the primary student teachers, Mr. J. H. Rose, city superintendent, and Dr. J. D. Messick, president of ECTC.

A rising vote of thanks was accorded this fine group of leaders who are connected with the Training School.

Mrs. D. H. Conley, from the program committee, presented Miss Joyce Corbette, fourth grade teacher, who charmed the audience with her reading of "The Littlest Angel," with musical accompaniments by Miss Annette Hughes, student in the music department of the college. Miss Wahl made a request for

Annual Christmas Pageant At Presbyterian Church Attracts Wide Attention

The annual Christmas pageant presented at the First Presbyterian Church of this city, will have its final showing tonight.

This is one of the outstanding presentations by local groups during the holiday season and is always greatly enjoyed and well-attended. The Christmas story is told in song, Scripture readings, and tableaux scenes in a very unusual manner, and the overall effect is quite impressive.

The tableaux are presented in three scenes, which take place both on the balcony and on the steps in front of the church. The church is realistically decorated with greenery and floodlights are used to light each scene.

The pastor, the Rev. Leonard Topping, opens the Christmas tableaux with an invocation as the lights fade out. During each scene, he reads appropriate passages of Scripture and Christmas music played on the organ is broadcast over the loudspeaker.

In the first scene, characters portray the Angel's announcement to the Shepherds who are shown on the hillside with their flocks. The shepherds are grouped around a fire warming themselves when the Angels appear on the balcony.

In the second scene Mary and Joseph are depicted at the manger, with the worshipping shepherds kneeling in adoration. A guardian angel stands watch over the babe, while other members of the heavenly host are on the balcony.

The third scene shows the visit of the Wise Men, who have come with their offerings of gold, frankincense and myrrh. Again the angels are seen, watching and guarding the Holy Child.

Each scene lasts 15 minutes during which time carols are softly played. The first scene begins at 7:30 p.m. and the pageant, which is given in its entirety for two performances, concludes at 9:00 p.m. with a benediction by the pastor.

DEATH OF INFANT

Matt Edward Wiggins, Jr., five-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Wiggins of Streets Ferry, near Vanceboro, died at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday night at Tayloe Hospital in Washington. Funeral services will be conducted at the home Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the Rev. Sam Wetherington, Holiness minister of Vanceboro, and burial will be in the Joyner family cemetery near Vanceboro.

Surviving are his parents, a brother, Ronnie Lee Wiggins and his paternal grandfather, James W. Wiggins of Vanceboro.

JAYCEES MEET TONIGHT

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet at the Olde Towne Inn tonight at 6:30. Bancroft Moseley, president, will preside over the supper meeting. The Committee on Christmas Toys is expected to make a report tonight.

ELKS LODGE MEETS TONIGHT

Greenville Lodge, No. 1645, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will meet at the Elks Home, 569 Evans street, tonight at 8 o'clock. Exalted Ruler Jesse R. Moye II will preside. The Christmas committee is expected to make a report on its Yuletide activities for the benefit of deserving people.

Novel Program To Be Presented On Family Night

The Woman's club will hold its annual family night program on Tuesday, December 19, at 7:30 at the club house for the members and their families.

The theme of the program will be "The Arts as Used by Families at Christmas From the Early Ages to the Present Time," with Mrs. Howard Mims acting as narrator.

The story of Christmas from the Gospel according to St. Luke will be read by Mr. John C. Clifford. Mr. James Walker of the art department of East Carolina Teachers College will relate the Christmas Story through paintings.

Miss Carolyn Clapp will give a reading, "Where Love Is," to illustrate the place of literature in Christmas.

Miss Janice Roberson, a student of the modern dance department of ECTC will demonstrate the part of dancing in Christmas.

The Christmas Story will be told in carols by the Glee club of Third Street school under the direction of Miss Beatrice Chauncey and accompanied by Miss Allison Hearne.

Children of various club members will assist in different ways during the evening.

The hostesses will be under the direction of Mrs. J. K. Long.

Members Of Ada Cherry S S-Class Meet For Party

The Ellington Bible class room of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church was the scene of the annual Christmas party of the Ada Cherry Sunday School class.

The party this year was engineered by committees appointed by the president, Mrs. George Smith. It was a homecoming affair and inactive or past members were especially invited. Husbands of class members were special guests, as were Mr. and Mrs. Luther Moore, Ann Moore and Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Tyson.

As the guests gathered, they were welcomed at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Parkinson and Mr. and Mrs. George Smith. Punch was served in the Carson class room by Mrs. Floyd McGowan, Mrs. Roy Tripp and Mrs. Belton Newman. The punch table was festive with an overzealous red candle nestled in a bed of holly leaves and berries. The punch was a red fruit punch which was ladled from a crystal bowl.

Mrs. R. P. Rogers invited guests into the Ellington room, which was attractively arranged with red and white paper loops outlining windows and doors, red pasteboard candles and bells pinned against a green backdrop curtain, and red candles in each window.

Mrs. Smith extended greetings from the class and led the group in prayer and carol singing. Mrs. Ed Ricks, recreation chairman, presented Mrs. Leslie Jones, who delighted the members with the reading of a Christmas story, entitled, "The Christmas Turkey."

Contests and games were enjoyed by all. The occasion of much merriment was the modeling by two members, Mrs. Belton Newman and Mrs. Robert Thompson, as Mrs. Santa Claus. Mr. Norris Merritt and Mr. Jimmy Smith were the artful designers who created the costumes from newspapers.

Songs and action games were enjoyed, led by Mrs. Tyson.

Mrs. Brantley Spight, chairman of the refreshment committee, invited the members to the serving table set up at one end of the room. Red candles and Christmas greens artfully decorated the table from which the committee served coffee, assorted sandwiches, mints, nuts, pickles and cakes.

Mrs. J. H. Rose, class teacher, was remembered with a gift of silver, presented to her by Mrs. W. W. Howell on behalf of the class.

Rocky Mount Subdues Phantoms, 56 To 35

Haymes And Scott Lead G-Men With Eight Points

Bartholomew and Futrell Scoring Leaders For Blackbirds; Heated Scrap Develops; Play Wilson Cyclones Tomorrow

By BILL LLOYD
Reflector Sports Editor

An aggressive and taller Rocky Mount quint, led by Center Bob Bartholomew, subdued Greenville's Phantoms, 56-35, in a fired up scrap here last night, that saw two players ejected from the game in the final minutes.

Bartholomew, standing two inches over six feet, pitched in seven field goals with an overhead two-hand shot, and added three free tosses for a total of 17 points, to lead his teammates to their margin of victory.

Rangy Ben Futrell followed Bartholomew in the Blackbirds' scoring with 14 points.

Steady Virginia Haymes at forward and hustling little Glen Scott at guard furnished the spark for the Phantoms, as they swished the basket eight times apiece.

Center Sydney Briley and scrappy Johnny Aman followed up in the Phantoms' scoring with six counters each.

The Blackbirds jumped into an early first quarter lead, 8-3, with Bartholomew and McCarter hitting on two field goals apiece, and from that point, they maintained a four to eight point lead until the final minutes when sharp-shooting Bartholomew and Herring pulled them away by a wide margin.

Greenville's real threat came in the third period as they held the Blackbirds to a single field goal at

Classic Leaders Suffer Twin Losses

Classic Bowling League

Hodges Hardware	25	20	555
Wagner-Waldrop	25	20	555
Carolina Dairy	21	24	466
Bilbro Wholesale	19	26	422

Tuesday night was "giant-killing" night in the Classic Bowling league. As Carolina Dairy, the league's No. 3 team, knocked off co-leader Wagner-Waldrop, two games to one, and Bilbro Wholesale, last-place squad, also downed Hodges Hardware, leader with Wagner-Waldrop, two games to one.

Dan Gordon of Carolina Dairy, came out with the league's highest individual score, bowling a single game high of 189 pins, and posting a three-game total of 505, leading the Dairy over Wagner-Waldrop.

W. Bilbro and T. Bilbro led the Wholesalers over Hodges Hardware, with W. Bilbro gaining a 283 three-game high, and T. Bilbro rolling a 415 in the three-game series.

By virtue of Tuesday night's results, Hodges Hardware and Wagner-Waldrop remained deadlocked for the league leadership, while Bilbro Wholesale and Carolina Dairy gained two full games in the league standings.

Robersonville Wins Twin Bill From Williamston Cagers

Robersonville, Dec. 14—Coach Bob Lee's hardwood teams scored a twin bill victory over Farm Life of Williamston here Tuesday night, with the boys victorious, 36-29, and the girls winning, 36-21.

Betty Jean Davenport led the Robersonville six with eight points during the night, with Peggy Robinson and Mary Allen Warren runner-ups with six apiece.

P. Lilley was high for Farm Life with seven points.

On defense, Thelma Stocks spearheaded the Robersonville lasties, as they held Farm Life to a 22-6 halftime score, and coasted to victory through the second half.

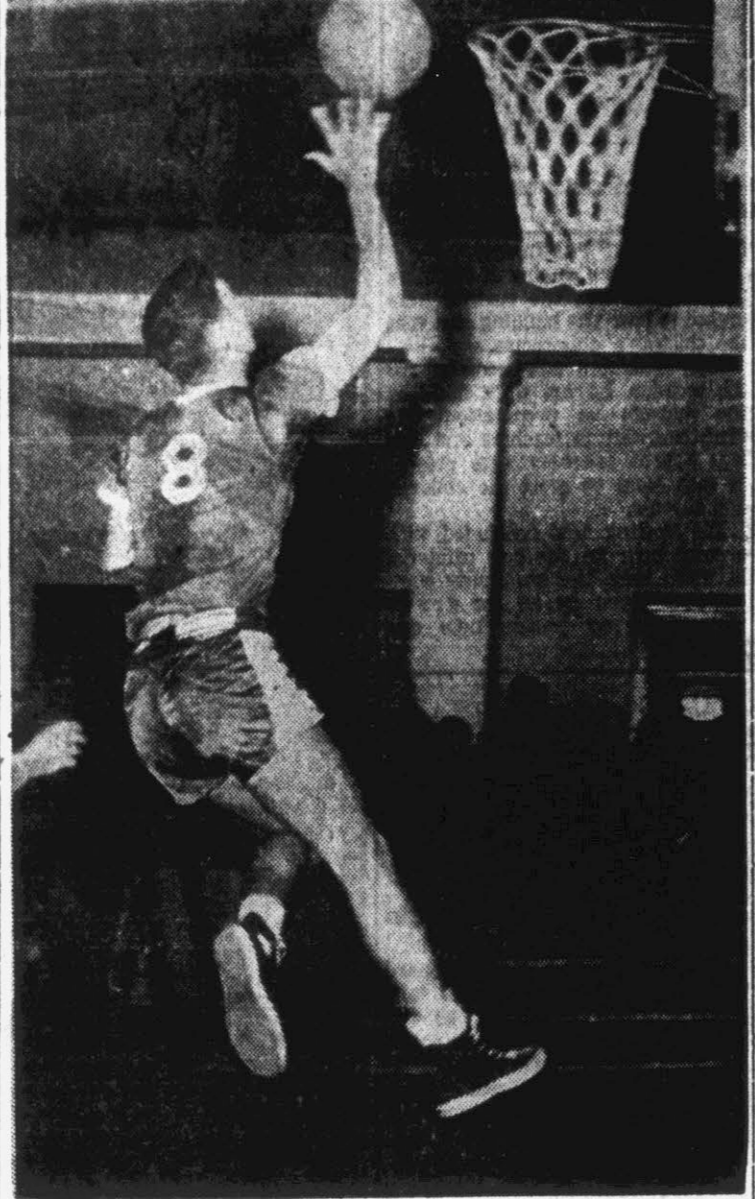

In the boys' clash, Billy Green, star forward for the Martin county quint, bucketed 15 points, to lead his team to their second victory without a loss.

J. Hardison and W. Williams combined to lead the scoring for the losers with eight points each.

Billy Warren and Bobby Bullock stood out on defense for Robersonville, while W. Williams was Farm Life's defensive stalwart.

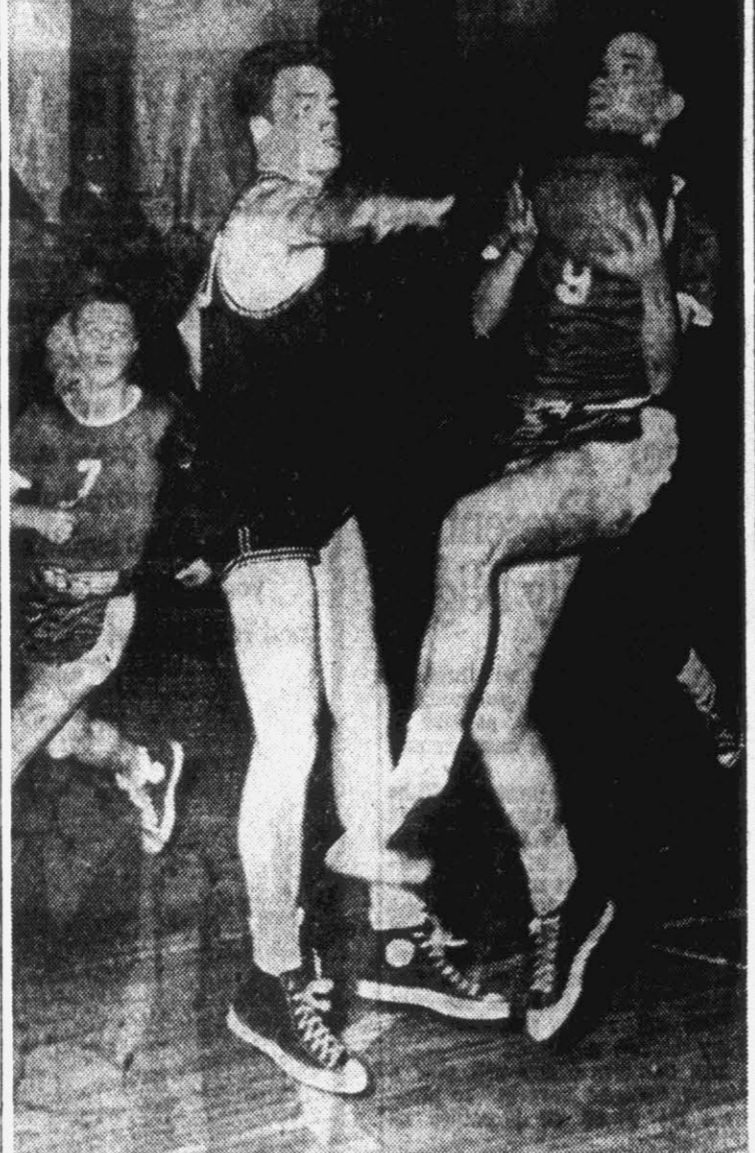

Indians-Pirates Clash Here

Aman Goes Up And At 'Em

Guard Johnny Aman (8) of the Phantoms leaps high towards the basket for a lay-up against Rocky Mount last night, which saw the Blackbirds emerge victorious in a heated scrap, 56-35. Aman bucketed six points in last night's encounter, and played a scrappy floor game. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Dillingham Attempts Push Shot

Jimmy Dillingham, outstanding forward for the Phantoms, attempts a one-handed push shot here, with Eddie Farley (7), and Aman (8) of the Phantoms looking on. McCarter (33) and Bartholomew (42) are the Rocky Mount players following the play. Bartholomew sank 17 points last night to help hand the locals a 56-35 defeat. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Farmville Lads Win, 50-24; Girls Suffer Loss, 34-25

Vanceboro, Dec. 14—Vanceboro and Farmville divided a double-header in the Coastal conference here Tuesday night, with Farmville's boys winning, 50-24, and Vanceboro's six scoring a 34-25 triumph.

Albert Cannon led the Red Devils to their first Coastal conference victory with 17 points, while Randolph Allen contributed 12, and Joe Smith sank eight.

Vesley Gladson was high scorer for Vanceboro with 16 points.

Pascal Barrett and Charlie Fitzgerald stood out on defense for the Red Devils.

In the ordinary girls' game, Vanceboro's sextet continued their winning ways, with forward Forrest sinking 15 points, and Wilson following up with 13 for the victors.

Middle Rouse and Da Wooten were high for the losers with 12 points apiece.

Joyce Morgan and Celia Walston, two scrappy guards were tops on defense for Farmville, while Wetherington and Sprull were stalwarts for Vanceboro.

Confidence Vote For Frank Leahy

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 14—(AP)—Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy, whose 1950 football team was voted the flop of the season, got a different kind of vote last night.

A "vote of confidence" from his superiors, accompanied by a "substantial" salary raise.

Leahy was informed of both at the Irish football team's testimonial dinner. In reply, he said "I'll do better from now on."

Bucs Play Catawba In Conference Game

East Carolina's Russell and Catawba's Graham Expected To Hook Up In Scoring Battle; Frosh Play

Catawba's Indians, led by their All-Conference and All-State forward, Larry Graham, invade East Carolina's court tonight, in the second conference game for the Pirates.

Tip-off was slated for 8:00 in the Wright gymnasium, but has been changed to 8:30 due to the Christmas Cantata being held at the college.

All-conference Sonny Russell is expected to match his scoring punch with Catawba's heralded Graham in tonight's clash, with frosh star Charlie Huffman sharing in the scoring parade.

Russell has scored 91 points in the six games played this season for an average of better than 15 points per game, while Huffman has bucketed 76 markers, to share in the bucketing of the Pirates.

Little Toddy Fennell, 5'9" center from Wilmington, will start at center for the Bucs, while big Bobby Hodg-

Three Ex-Pirate Boxers Get Top Billing Tonight

Two members of last year's outstanding East Carolina boxing team and one newcomer will get top billing tonight on the fight card at the Portsmouth Armory at Portsmouth, Virginia.

With the disbandment of inter-collegiate boxing at the college, and the limiting of other opponents, Coach Johnny Long, former leading contender for Sugar Ray Robinson's welterweight crown, has matched last season's punching stars, Crowell Williamson, 150 lbs.; Bill Torrains, 170 lbs., and newcomer Pete Meadows, 165 lbs., with three top stars on the Virginia Athletic Club team.

Williamson, as a freshman at East Carolina last year, won the great approval of pug fans hereabouts with his outstanding performance in the ring against such teams as the VAC, South Carolina, The Citadel, and finally the Southern conference invitational tournament.

Bill Torrains, big mauler for the Bucs for the past two years, also participated in all the matches last season, and only lost one decision.

Family Tourney Draws Interest From Six States

Wilson, Dec. 14—Six states are already represented in the National Family Basketball tournament, to be reeled off here December 28, 29, and 30, but by far the most unique family entered thus far is a clan composed of three sets of twins and its own traveling cheering section.

The Woodard family of Bayboro, the ninth team to be accepted to this nationally known family tournament, is composed of one set of 36 year old twins, one set of 30 year olders, and a younger set of 17 year olders.

The teen-age pair of twins includes one pert and pretty 17 year old girl, F. J. Woodard, who makes the seventh member of the team, is the odd member of the family.

When this clan invades Wilson for the opening game of the family tussle, sponsored by the Wilson Jaycees, a five man cheering team, made up of cousins, will be thumping the drum for that Tar Heel household.

Eight brothers from Rocky Mount will be making their debut in the tournament, seventh of its kind to be held here since 1938.

The Capps, all brothers, range in age from nine to 24. One is at present in the Air Force; two attend the University of North Carolina.

The Griffin family of Elm City is the only Tar Heel family back which has competed in the National Family tourney previously.

Committee Searches For Top Man

Chandler Still Fails To Resign

By JOE REICHLER
St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 14—(AP)—Major league club owners appointed a four-man committee today to search for a new commissioner to replace A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who again vowed that he would not resign.

The committee, composed of two men from the National and two from the American League, was instructed to begin screening candidates immediately and endeavor to bring back a report to the owners at their meeting next February.

The committee also has been empowered to offer a $75,000 a year salary to Chandler's successor. That amounts to a $10,000 increase over the salary paid to the present commissioner.

A club president who asked his name not be used, said the majority of the club owners voiced their preference for a man having no connection with baseball. That man also must be a "universally respected person possessing a judicial mind," he added.

"This would tend to eliminate such heretofore outstanding candidates as Ford Frick, president of the National League; George Trautman, head of the minors, and Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds.

Although neither league has made public its committee, it is believed that Del Webb, vice president of the New York Yankees, and Billy Evans, general manager of the Detroit Tigers, are the American League pair while Lou Perini, Boston Braves president, and Giles represent the National.

"The owners do not want a baseball man for commissioner," the informant said. "They fear that a man inside the baseball family might be more friendly to some than others and therefore might tend to be prejudiced. They want a man with a judicial mind who is not directly connected with politics."

In the meantime, Chandler steadfastly sticks to his vow to keep his job "until the final second of my tenure."

It was learned Chandler was offered a cash payment of $100,000 at Tuesday's joint session if he would resign. That represents $15,000 more than the amount he would make at his $85,000 a year salary if he stayed on the remaining 16 1/2 months. His contract expires May 1, 1952.

Chandler refused. He insisted he had done a creditable job for baseball and its owners and deserved a new term. The owners, who Monday night voted not to renew his contract, disagreed.

Major League Stars Say Chandler Okay

New York, Dec. 14—(AP)—Most of the major league baseball players, it seems, were surprised and disappointed that major league owners failed to renew the contract of Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Some of the leading stars were asked yesterday what they thought about the recent startling developments in St. Petersburg.

To the man, they said they thought Chandler had done a good job as commissioner. Most of them expressed surprise. Several said they were sorry the commissioner was being fired.

Typical comment came from Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh's home run king, and Stan Musial, outfield star of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Kiner declared: "All I can say is that I was surprised, really surprised. Personally, I thought Chandler was a wonderful guy. He was always fair to me."

Musial, an employe of Fred Saig, one of the anti-Chandler faction, asserted Chandler "was doing a very good job and we in baseball will miss him."

Wolfpack Opens Crucial Series

Richmond, Va., Dec. 14—(AP)—North Carolina State's great basketball team, having just finished academic examinations, begins taking exams of a different sort tonight at Raleigh.

The hurrying Wolfpack hits the court against Eastern Kentucky in the first of four pre-Christmas outtings which will vitally affect its national cage prestige.

After Eastern Kentucky, and before the holidays, State meets Temple, the University of Michigan, and Villanova, all perennial basketball powers. The Wolfpack will have the advantage of playing all except the clash with Temple on its home court at Reynolds Coliseum.

Eastern Kentucky, tonight's foe, may prove the toughest of the lot. The towering Maroons, one of the tallest teams State will face all year, bring to Raleigh a 3-1 record. Only Brigham Young has been able to shade the Maroons who have defeated Indiana Central, Virginia Tech and West Texas State.

Denver's Cooper Nation's Top Pass Receiver For 1950

New York, Dec. 14—(AP)—Gordon Cooper of Denver is major college football's top pass receiver for 1950 after a race so close it wasn't decided until just before the last gun sounded.

Cooper, a junior end, wound up the campaign with 46 catches, one more than was grabbed by Drake's Tom Blenmann.

Jim Doran of Iowa State and Don Stonesifer of Northwestern followed with 42 each but Doran had more yardage, 652 to 560. Then came Ceep Youmans of Duke, with 40, according to final figures released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Whizzer White Top Ball Carrier

New York, Dec. 14—(AP)—Willford (Whizzer) White, crack all-around athlete at Arizona State College at Tempe, was the No. 1 ball carrier in college football during the last season.

The hard-working halfback piled up a total of 1,502 yards in his team's ten games, giving him a 160-yard overall edge over Bobby Reynolds, Nebraska's spectacular sophomore climax runner who carried the ball for 1,342 yards.

Heisman Trophy Is Awarded To Vic Janowicz

New York, Dec. 14—(AP)—The Heisman Memorial Trophy, symbolizing the "outstanding college football player in the U.S.," was awarded to Vic Janowicz, All-America halfback from Ohio State, last night.

Janowicz was picked in a nationwide poll of sports writers and broadcasters conducted by the downtown athletic club. He received 633 votes to win over an outstanding list of eligibles.

Kyle Rote, Southern Methodist back, was second with 280 votes followed by Red Bagnell of Penn., 231; Babe Parilli of Kentucky, 214; and Bobby Reynolds of Nebraska, 174.

Janowicz is a junior from Elyria, Ohio. He is a five-foot-nine 185-pounder who led the Big Ten in scoring with 48 points and in total offense with 703 yards.

SWEEP FOR WOFFORD
Cullowhee, N.C., Dec. 14—(AP)—Wofford defeated Western Carolina 77-65 here last night for a clean sweep of its two-game basketball series with the Cats. Bill Moody did most of the damage for the Terriers with 20 points.

Two Versions Of Violent Pearson-McCarthy Clash

Washington, Dec. 14—(AP)—Physical violence erupted between Senator Joe McCarthy and columnist Drew Pearson the other night. The two had different versions of the only acknowledged witness wasn't talking.

McCarthy, the Republican senator from Wisconsin, promised to tell his colleagues something about Pearson today. But he said he wouldn't talk about their encounter.

The two are not buddies. McCarthy has been conducting a months-long campaign against what he calls communist influences in the state department and elsewhere. Pearson has written and broadcast critically of the senator.

The incident occurred—the accounts jibed in this, at least—at the swank Sulgrave Club on Tuesday night. Another columnist and radio commentator, Fulton Lewis, Jr., broadcast the first public account of it last night.

The pertinent post-fight quotes: McCarthy: "I smacked him with my open hand and knocked him down on his hips. I didn't punch him."

Pearson: "The senator kicked me twice in the groin. As usual he hit below the belt. But his pugilistic powers are about as ineffective as his senate speeches. I was not hurt."

Pearson said the encounter ended when Senator Richard M. Nixon, California Republican, intervened. McCarthy said Nixon saw the fracas but didn't separate them.

Said Nixon: "I have no comment except that this incident occurred at a private party. I do not believe such foolishness should be bandied about in times like this."

Firemen Hold Ladies' Night Program

Members of the Greenville Fire Department held their annual ladies' night program last night at Respos with more than 60 persons in attendance. Chief George Gardner presided, and the Rev. J. A. Nelson spoke on the "Meaning of Christmas." (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

Truman Wonders At Reluctance Over Statehood

Honolulu, Dec. 14—(AP)—President Truman has written a letter saying "I can't for the life of me see why the Southerners would take the attitude they do" in opposing the Hawaii and Alaska statehood bills.

The letter was written Nov. 30 to Edward Burke, legal counsel for the Hawaii statehood commission and former Nebraska senator.

It was released by the statehood commission.

The President's letter, in reply to one from Burke, said in part: "I am glad you like the message on statehood for Hawaii and Alaska. I can't for the life of me see why the Southerners would take the attitude they do when these two territories are of such vital importance to the national defense. Alaska is properly developed. It will support seven or eight million people in luxury."

Stokes Students Visit Raleigh

Thirty-nine students of Stokes School were taken to Raleigh and Chapel Hill, Monday, December 11, by bus. The boys and girls who went on the trip were from grades 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12. Also three girls from the third grade and two from the sixth grade went. Mr. and Mrs. Redman David, Mrs. Curtis Taylor, and Mrs. Elmer Warren were chaperones.

Many places of interest were seen and toured by the group. These included the State Prison, Dix Hill, William Neal Reynolds Coliseum, Governor's Mansion, Capitol, News and Observer Building, Carolina Trailway Bus Co., and the terminal. The students were allowed several minutes to shop.

After sightseeing in Raleigh, the bus took them to Chapel Hill where they visited the Planetarium. While waiting for the main program to start, which was called the "Star of Bethlehem, the students saw astrology and art exhibitions. When the program was over the group left Chapel Hill for home.

200 Autographs Are Assured Christmas Gift For President

Washington, Dec. 14—(AP)—President Truman, a famous father of a famous daughter, knows what he's going to get for Christmas. He's going to get the autographs of more than 200 daughters of members of the National Press Club.

Mr. Truman asked for them himself.

He and Margaret were guests at the club's annual father-daughter dinner last night. All through the meal the girls kept up a steady parade to Mr. Truman's table, getting his autograph.

The traffic was so heavy that at one point the press club president, Radford Mobley, asked would the kids stop coming, please, so that the President could eat.

At the end of the program, Mr. Truman got up and said: "As usual, it's been a wonderful evening." He then ran through the entertainers, who included everyone from the comedian, Jimmy Savo, to a bunch of kids. "Juvenile Jury," he said, "and I haven't had many here lately."

It was the first public appearance of the President and Margaret together since the publication of a letter he wrote to Paul Hume, music critic of the Washington Post. That's the letter in which Mr. T. said unkind things about Hume for the unkind things Hume had said about Margaret's singing.

No one referred to the incident. Maybe that's the reason Mr. Truman thought it was a wonderful evening.

There had been rumors Mr. Truman might play the piano while Margaret sang, but they didn't.

Bare-Handed

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 14—(AP)—Larry Robinson will have a real fish story to tell his grandchildren.

Lifeguards in a rowboat yesterday stalked a sailfish close to shore, but gave up when the fish out-manuevered them.

Then Robinson gave chase in his speedboat, and after several twists and turns reached out with his bare hands and grabbed the fish by its bill.

He hauled the seven-foot-two 55-pound fish into his boat while spectators ashore cheered.

Washington Hi Glee Clubs, 130 Voices, In Program On Monday

Washington, N.C.—The Washington (N.C.) High School Glee Clubs will present a program of choral music Monday evening, 8:15 o'clock, in the John Small School auditorium.

The program will include music of the Christmas season as well as music of a secular vein. Christmas music heard will range from the familiar "Jingle Bells" to the solemn "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming."

Choruses heard will be the Girl's Glee Club, the Boys' Glee Club, and the Mixed Chorus. Also the Boy's Quartet will sing a group of carols.

This marks the first major public appearance for the year by the choral director of the Washington High School.

The choral director of the high school is Charles Stevens.

There are 130 singers in the combined groups.

Big Wilmington Building Burns

Wilmington, N.C., Dec. 14—(AP)—Fire gutted a three-story printing company building here last night. The workman on duty when the fire broke out suffered minor burns.

Firemen fought the blaze for almost two hours before bringing it under control. C. W. Harrellson, the injured worker, said the fire started when a bottle of cleaning fluid exploded.

No estimate of the damage was made.

MILK RIVER RANGE

by LEE FLOREN

Chapter 13
Shuffle Watson rode out of Beaverton that noon, a heavy arrogance squaring his shoulders. Leo Parker was dead, and he had killed him, and Peanuts had skipped the country.

"The town liked Parker," said Sheriff Jones.

"The heck with the town," said Watson.

He came into the Slashed Box yard at a long lope, his pinto kicking dust, his thin body full in the saddle.

"What's news?" asked Cavanaugh.

"I killed Leo Parker this morning."

"Well, things played right into our hands, huh?"

"What's next, boss?"

"We should get McKee and the Mex," answered Cavanaugh. "We could claim they jumped ball and left Montana—afraid there necks would get pulled for the Sim Hannegan lynching."

"McKee's a gun-slinger."

"You're one, too."

Watson nodded. "I'll take a heap of gold to make me pull against Buck McKee. Or that Mex, either."

"How much?"

"Five thousand, each."

Cavanaugh laughed.

Watson shrugged. "That's my price, Len. Killin's my business. Some day one of these slugs'll kill me. And it may be one McKee or that Mex are packin'."

"The odds are too even—I'll take the big purse."

"I'll think it over."

"You may be too late."

Cavanaugh turned. "No, we'll play it tight, and small, for a spell. Raise Cain with the farmers on the sly, and watch that beef herd Buck McKee aims to build out there in the slants."

With Leo Parker gone, we might be able to hold McKee and Tortilla Joe under ball for a long time."

"And if that ball expires? If they're cleared of that ribbed-up lynching that we managed to palm off on 'em?"

"You'll earn the ten thousand," said Cavanaugh. "It's worth it to me. With that ball forfeited, Jim Tuttle will be broke."

"We wait, then?"

"On that score, yes." Now grab a little chow, Shuffle, then sling your hull on a fresh mount. We've got some riding to do this evening. Saddle a fast horse—a dark one."

An hour later, high on a butte, they sat in a thick clump of bullberry bushes, and watched the men toiling in the out below.

"It'll be a few weeks before they get the dam built, Len. Then farmers an' Jim Tuttle sure have a mess of men workin' for them on that fill. Reckon most of them stay here overnight, too, seein' all them tents and that row of shacks against yonder hill."

"They'll have a guard out all the time. What do you say, Shuffle?"

Cavanaugh straightened and said, "Let's get out of here."

Shuffle Watson put his horse close, and silence held them for miles.

"Finally Cavanaugh said, 'That Tuttle. You know, if Tuttle was dam would be worth money to me. I could use it, as well as Jim to get killed, or something happened to him, I'd own that dam—just take it over. Have you thought of that?'"

Watson grinned. "Sure, and you'd want me to notch off old Jim. No, Cavanaugh, not that. The man that kills Jim Tuttle puts the lynch in the farmers' hands."

"Maybe so."

Lamp had sprung into light across the basin, marking the locations of various homes and farms. Cavanaugh outlined his plan.

Heard tell, today, that Ken Wheeler has gone to Great Falls, trying to get loan for some more land. He's a bachelor, and I've got a hunch there's nobody at his place."

"We'll soon find out," said Watson.

They left their horses in the brush, hidden there by darkness and foliage. They went ahead, Cavanaugh in the lead and Shuffle limping behind.

Cavanaugh pulled some dry hay in close to the building; he cupped a match in his hands and let the flame grow. Then he put it against the hay. The flame was instant, leaping out and licking against the siding. Cavanaugh turned and faded out beyond the rim of the light, for already Shuffle Watson had hurried to his horse.

Cavanaugh stepped up and said, "You got out fast, Shuffle."

"You got two legs, an' I got one an' a half. The darkness hides a lot of things, an' a man can get cut off from his bronc, you know."

"You're touchy."

"I've walked into too many traps," said Shuffle.

What he had just done, Len Cavanaugh reflected, would accomplish little, yet the step had been taken. Many of the farmers, already apprehensive since the burning of Bornelli's spread, and Bornelli's strange death, were on edge. This unseemly menace, striking out of the darkness, might unnerve them so that they would decide to leave. Time, of course, would tell this. Len Cavanaugh, adding "all up got the same answer: the time was not ripe, but the pendulum would swing again."

Behind them, the barn burned furiously.

Cavanaugh said, "Somebody'll see the fire and come to fight it, but it won't be any use. The wind'll take it over and throw it against the house. The whole place is doomed."

Shuffle nodded.

Savanaugh twisted and looked again at the fire. He untied a saddlebag cover and took out a pint of whiskey. Uncorking the bottle, he drank deeply, the liquor tumbling down his throat. He knew he had lost prestige in Shuffle Watson's eyes. He knew, too, that it was not loyalty, but the power of his money, that held this crippled gunman in his hire.

"Give me a drink," said Watson.

Cavanaugh handed him the bottle. "Jones'll come out," he said, "but if he does find our tracks, he'll lose them in the creek. He'll go around in a circle. That fire'll scare some of them, Shuffle."

"Small stuff," said Watson. (To be continued)

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler (right) talks with sports writers in St. Petersburg, Fla., after club owners voted against renewing his contract. The decision exploded like a bombshell and left the sports world agog. Chandler was taken by surprise. He resigned immediately, then changed his mind and decided to finish out his current five-year term which ends May 1, 1952. The anti-Chandler group of club owners is willing to buy up his contract if he will resign. (AP Wirephoto)

RIOTS OVER CHILD BRIDE—Maria Bertha Hertogh (right), 13-year-old Dutch bride of a Moslem school teacher, weeps in court at Singapore during court battle for custody of her. The court has just invalidated her marriage and ordered her turned over to Sister Maria (left) of the Catholic convent for return to her Dutch Catholic mother. Stunned to frenzy by the court ruling, fanatical mobs battled British troops in the streets of Singapore. Maria was turned over to a Malayan nurse by her mother for safekeeping when the Hertoghs were taken to a Jap prison camp in 1942. The nurse reared Maria as a Moslem. Mrs. Hertogh's attorneys claim the child's marriage to a Moslem was intended to circumvent the mother's efforts to get her back. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Singapore to London).

Warn Of Delay In City Planning

Charlotte, N.C., Dec. 13—(AP)—The General Counsel for the North Carolina League of Municipalities warned yesterday that present world conditions may defer the start of any broad scale urban development in the state.

George C. Franklin told a Charlotte planning board that even if the Legislature adopts a bill enabling cities with populations of more than 5,000 to participate in federal aid programs, present conditions may slow redevelopment.

Marine Recruit Formerly With Army And Navy

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C.—(AP)—Marine Private Lillian Benson, 31, going through "boot camp" here, has now seen service in the Army Navy and Marines. With the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps in World War II, Pvt. Benson was one of the first 200 women to volunteer for overseas duty in 1942. She landed in North Africa only seven days after the initial invasion. From there she went to the European Theater of Operations with General Dwight Eisenhower's command. Malaria forced her to return to the States. She was discharged soon afterwards.

In 1946, she enlisted as a hospital

Active Duty For Naval Reservists

The Navy has placed in effect a plan that will enable male enlisted Naval Reservists of pay grades E1 and E2 (Seamen Recruits and Seaman Apprentices), who have heretofore been excluded from rec II to active duty, to volunteer for a period of 24 months active duty. This plan, according to Chief Gunnery Mate, B. F. Parrish, Local Naval Recruiting Representative, was made possible by the expansion of recruit training facilities. The program will be suspended by the Navy Department whenever necessary to insure sufficient training capacity for USN recruits, he said.

Chief Parrish stated that active duty under this program is open only to men who were members of the Naval Reserve prior to 1 September 1950, and that no new reserve enlistments will be contracted for this program. Applicants will be examined and must meet the same mental, physical and other standards as currently apply to regular USN recruit. Chief Parrish pointed out that almost all Naval Reserves being offered active duty under this program were draft eligibles, and that Naval Reservists who are being processed for induction under Selective Service may be placed on active duty at any time prior to actual induction date.

We at Rector Kitchens want you to get that superfine Wilson Certified Turkey on to your holiday table with all its A-1 perfections preserved in every mouthful, —juicy, tender and luscious!

"HOWS AND WHYS" OF TURKEY ROASTING

Why do you start roasting 1/2 hour before time-schedule demands?
The roasted bird carves better and more easily when it has stood 20 to 30 minutes before slicing.

Why truss the bird?
Trussing makes the bird stand solid.

Why the legs down tight to tail piece, then cut loose 1 1/2 hours later?
This method controls leg positions nicely, so they stay put after roasting.

Why roast breast down most of the time?
Because most of the fat on turkey is along the back. It melts and trickles down thru breast meat.

Why cover loosely with a thin, fat-dipped cloth?
The fat in the cloth keeps turkey basted and moist. Any dryness of cloth will indicate the need for basting. You use a thin cloth (like a double layer of cheesecloth) because it lets heat through. You cover it loosely because this lets the heat in under.

What do you do if you have no V-rack?
First put one side of breast then other down on a flat rack. See sketch 4.

Why use a shallow open roasting pan?
Skin is crisp, luscious and brown if pan is shallow ENOUGH to let oven heat work all around the roasting turkey.

How can you tell when bird is done?
Pinch the thick part of turkey leg. When soft, rest of turkey is tender.

Will LOW temperature roasting provide good gravy?
With low temperature roasting the juices stay in the meat rather than cook out into drip pan. Your gravy can be just as brown if you'll brown the flour and drippings well in skillet. It will be as rich if you'll use the stock from giblets, neck and wing tips in gravy.

See how easy it is!
Get a Wilson's Certified Turkey or Chicken for superfine quality beyond a doubt.

Truss as pictured:

Avoid the roasting pitfalls with easy LOW temperature roasting.
Roast a 10 to 14 lb. stuffed turkey at 325° F. for 3 1/2 to 4 hours.
Roast a 14 to 18 lb. stuffed turkey at 300° F. for 4 to 4 1/2 hours.

Mis-Statements Of Facts In Column Says Author Of Study

Dr. Roma S. Check author of the recently printed Preliminary Study of Government Management in North Carolina has released for publication the following statement:

"A reporter's column carried by a number of evening dailies contained many untrue statements regarding my study. The major misstatements of fact could not go uncorrected."

"The statement that my study is a virtual reprint of the Brookings Study of 20 years ago is absolutely untrue and no one who has read either of the studies could truthfully make such a statement. There is not even any similarity in the factual material presented or in the final chapter recommendations. The Brookings report has a detailed study of the individual operations of state agencies in existence 20 years ago. My study is concerned with over-all state government management and deals entirely with current materials, current statistics and current problems. There is also the allegation that the National Hoover Commission Studies have been rephrased for North Carolina. This is a ridiculous assertion and anyone who has read even parts of the Hoover reports or my study knows this."

"There is the further statement in the Column that 'Duke University and private contributions put several thousand dollars into the study'. Not one penny of private contributions have been received and the Duke University Research Council allotted only $500.00 for some secretarial help and supplies. As an employee in North Carolina State government for eleven years I accumulated many basic facts about North Carolina State government structure and for the three years prior to the completion of the study I devoted my summers, holidays, and other spare time to the making of this study. It is the absolutely free work of a private citizen interested in more efficient government. It would have cost the state several thousand dollars to make it. Its purpose is entirely informational in the hopes of bringing forth discussion, further study and planning in the interests of more efficient state government. The study points out the dangers of the present disorganized and confused over-all administrative framework which vested interests now find to their distinct advantage and of course oppose even any thought or discussion of change."

"Another false assertion is that my study 'creates the impression that all state officials and workers are either incompetent or crooked or both'. This is an absolute misstatement of fact. My study points out repeatedly and emphasizes the fact that it is the structure of the Administrative branch of government which is out of date and grossly inadequate and that on the whole state employees are hard working, efficient men and women, working in a governmental mechanism which of itself greatly lessens the results of their labor and prevents their maximum efficiency. A number of recommendations are made for the protection of state employees. Even the system of prerequisites is certainly no fault of the employee—it is an example of an out-of-date governmental device which has been handed down through generations of government from earlier times when it was necessary and useful to out modern era when better methods should replace it. The study references to crime in the only section contained in the section dealing with North Carolina's seriously increasing crime rate which is out of proportion to other states, and shows the real dangers involved in the present governmental structure of our prison and parole systems and the need for a habitual criminal law."

"The column also states that my study recommends 'almost dictatorial powers for our governors'. This far from the truth. The study does not recommend that the officials now elected by the people be appointed by the governor. What the study does recommend is that the many agencies now responsible neither to the people, nor the Legislature, nor the Governor but to special-interest groups be made responsible to a governmental authority. The study clearly shows that the preservation of democracy in North Carolina depends to a very great extent upon continuous governmental accountability to the people and upon having a governmental structure which can be comprehended by the average person. A study of state government in the American states shows that dictatorial and arbitrary executives have arisen in those states having a very poor governmental framework like North Carolina's."

The present 139 different agencies, units and adjuncts of state government (not including those on a temporary or non-statutory basis) now have directing bodies ranging from one to over one-hundred persons and they are selected in thirty-two different ways. The total cost of state government has increased over 400 per cent in the last fifteen years and the personnel costs have increased over 1600 per cent. In spite of this phenomenal growth, there has been no systematic effort to improve the organization and administration of state government or to provide even fairly modern tools of effective government management. The study indicates much overlapping and duplication, for example although North Carolina has a State Board of Health, twenty-two other independent units have their legal basis in the administration because they concern the public health; in the field of Conservation and field of Education there are fourteen independent boards or agencies. In spite of these facts the study shows through a survey of the forty-eight states that during the last eleven years only eight states including North Carolina have failed to take any official action towards state administration reform and greater economy and efficiency in the State Government. However, four of these states affected administrative reorganization in an earlier period, leaving only New Mexico, North Carolina, West Virginia and Wyoming in the inactive or uninterested class."

"The author realized when the study was completed that it would not receive the unanimous approval of any group. The author has no objection to criticism but does feel that she has a right to object to inaccuracies and misstatements which give an entirely wrong impression of the purpose, content, and recommendations of the study."

Final Program Of Silent Siren

The final program in the Silent Siren radio series will be broadcast over WGTC Saturday morning. Titled "Grandchild of Necessity", it illustrates new ways of making life easier and means for survival.

The program outlines the progress in education made in North Carolina since the State took on the responsibility for the public schools. It points out tenets of the State's educational system, such as equal salaries for both white and colored teachers, free textbooks to all elementary children, a 12-grade school system, 1,400 schools providing school lunches, bus transportation for most children needing it, and the funds invested in the present physical system and the money appropriated for further expansion.

"Grandchild of Necessity" points out in contrast that the State needs more films, radios, field trips and laboratories for experiment to supplement the texts, a more effective administration of the attendance law, higher pay for teachers, more classrooms and school cafeterias, 25 percent more buses and larger high schools to meet the needs of children and an expanding State.

Florida's Crops Hit In Cold Wave

Low temperatures during late November killed practically all tender vegetables in central and north Florida producing areas and resulted in heavy damage to cabbage, broccoli, and cauliflower in these areas, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported on December 7.

As reported earlier, the snap bean crop in the important Everglades section was severely damaged. The major portion of the late fall crop was due for harvesting during December, but frosts and low temperatures practically wiped out the crop. In the Pompano section, low temperatures and cold winds damaged beans in the blooming and pin bean stage. Reports indicate a possible loss in production of 25 to 40 percent on the acreage for December harvest, BAE said.

CHILDREN NEED REST

Iran Menaced By Locust Swarms

Tehran, Iran—(AP)—Huge swarms of crop-destroying desert locusts are invading Southern Iran from Baluchistan, Pakistan and the Arabian peninsula. Flying in groups so thick that they sometimes blot out the sun for hours, the locusts are part of the great winter migration that is threatening many middle eastern countries.

The Iranian ministry of agriculture has dispatched experts to the infested areas in the south to lead the fight against the insect onslaught. Little can be done to combat the locusts while they are migrating. So far little damage has been done to crops because most of the grain has been harvested.

Iranian officials say most of the damage will come next spring when the red and yellow locusts hatch from millions of eggs and attack young, budding crops. In some years damage has been so great that local famines have developed.

Airman Captures Korea Guerrillas

With The First Marine Air Wing In Korea—(AP)—Marine Captain David G. Swinford of Santa Ana, Calif., is thought to be the first Marine flier to be instrumental in capturing a band of North Korean guerrillas. He dived upon a house and loosed a burst of 20mm cannon fire.

Fifty North Koreans, a few in uniform and the others in the civilian garb affected by the guerrillas in the area, came tumbling from the doors and windows. Waving white clothes and bowing, they started down the road in the direction of the Marine lines. Swinford made several passes over them, flying at low altitude, "just to keep them in line."

As they neared the lines of the ground Marines, Swinford radioed to tell of the surrendering North Koreans. The ground units sent out a patrol to meet them.

War Is Hurting Shawl Industry

SRINAGAR, Kashmir—(AP)—Turmoil in central Asia is playing havoc with Kashmir's famed shawl industry. The fine, soft underwood of Tibetan goats which goes into the manufacture of shawls comes only from Sinkiang province of China, western Tibet, and Ladakh province of Kashmir. The mountain route linking Sinkiang with Kashmir has been closed since the Chinese Communists took control in the north and Tibetan supplies have been scarce since the Chinese invasion began. Shawl-makers must depend on small supplies from Ladakh.

Truck Driver Is Hurt In Accident

The driver of an asphalt dump truck was seriously injured Tuesday afternoon when the truck which he was operating failed to make a curve on the Bell Arthur Highway about seven miles from Greenville.

Injured when the truck left the highway and turned over was Henry Thomas Fosky, age 24 of Greenville. Patrolman Ernest Guthrie stated that Fosky was taken to Pitt General hospital for treatment where examination revealed he suffered a broken collar bone and other minor injuries.

Patrolman Guthrie said that the front part of the dump truck was completely demolished in the crash. The truck went a total of 270 feet after it left the highway. The driver was headed in the direction of Greenville and apparently lost control of the truck causing it to turn over, Guthrie reported.

The accident occurred about 3:30. The truck was not loaded with asphalt at the time of the accident.

Christmas Spirit In Stokes HD Meeting

By CHESTER WALSH

The Stokes Home Demonstration Club, organized more than a quarter of a century ago, with seven or eight enterprising members, and with a record of excellent community service, continues to be one of the outstandingly active home demonstration clubs in Pitt county. Mrs. Tyree Stokes is president of the club.

At a recent meeting at the home of Mrs. J. B. Congleton at Stokes, there were 19 members and two visitors present. Mrs. Sackey Gurgans, the only charter member still active, said, "I don't know of anything I've ever done that I have enjoyed more than this home demonstration work."

Miss Helen Hicks, assistant home demonstration agent for Pitt county, in opening the meeting, presented Miss Sue Brickhouse, new home demonstration agent, who assumed her duties here recently. Miss Brickhouse made a good impression, members said.

The Christmas spirit featured this meeting of the Stokes Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. D. S. James was accompanist for the singing of Christmas carols. Mrs. James' collection of ordinary weeds, such as grow on the roadsides and ditchbanks, covered with silver paint, was an excellent demonstration of what can be done for improving the home.

Mrs. Congleton, at whose home the meeting was held, decorated the house with easily accessible greenery in the fall of the year. The decorations included magnolia leaves, poinsettias, red berries and Christmas fruits.

In the customary exchange of gifts those who received aprons modeled them. They were organza and feed bag material aprons. The members remembered Miss Brickhouse with gift handkerchiefs.

During the meeting it was pointed out that the Stokes Home Demonstration Club, during its 26 years, has been a potent influence for progress and home improvement. The club was reported to have made about $300 on a con-session at the Pitt County Fair in Greenville. It raised funds for purchase of a stage curtain for the school. In 1927 the Home Demonstration Club raised $1,800 for the school. It always is active in the campaigns for the March of Dimes, Community Chest, Cancer Drive and other public agencies. The club assists underprivileged families and it was instrumental in placing a family afflicted with tuberculosis in the state sanatorium.

Miss Hicks, interviewed by a Daily Reflector staff writer, said, "These home demonstration clubs in Pitt county are doing a wonderful work. The spirit of the groups is improvement and progress," she stated, and followed with the comment, "The women who belong to the home demonstration clubs are those who are doing much in their respective communities for improvement of the homes and higher standards of living."

There are 22 home demonstration clubs in Pitt county. Miss Sue Brickhouse, new Pitt county home demonstration agent, and Miss Helen Hicks and Ann Parder, are carrying on the work.

Teaching By Television Is Given Step Forward

Baltimore, Dec. 14—(AP)—Teaching by television—long a cherished dream of educators and TV executives—has moved closer to becoming a workable reality through use of the "split screen" technique.

This two-way television permits teacher and pupils, miles apart, to see, hear and talk to each other. It retains the personal contact element in teaching—something that most television-education programs now lack.

The method was demonstrated here yesterday by a sixth-grade geography teacher and class for persons attending a TV-Education clinic sponsored by station WBAL-TV.

There was a camera and receiver in front of both the instructor, Mrs. Barbara Long, at the studio and her students at the school. In that way, Mrs. Long could ask and answer questions and observe her pupils' reactions.

On the TV receiver, the split screen—technically known as a "horizontal wipe" showed both Mrs. Long and the students. Since the program was carried on the station's regular channel, that permitted anyone sitting at home to check up on TV-Education at work.

After class, the pupils were eager to express their enthusiasm for learning by television. Some spoke of how it would help "stuck" boys and girls who can't go to school, but are able to read and write and study.

One boy remarked: "If this keeps up, they'll have one teacher teaching ten classes."

Adults at the clinic also foresaw useful applications for the technique.

Charter Hespel, chief of the Atomic Energy Commission's radio and television branch, felt it would be a valuable means of instruction in fields relating to atomic energy now that much material on the subject has been declassified.

Interest in the method also was shown by representatives of the armed services and the U. S. Department of Education and delegates from several eastern cities who attended the clinic.

However, some TV producers saw hitch. They said "intellectual actors" and "TV school-marks" would be needed to add showmanship to the teaching.

Plans were made to set up a middle Atlantic states television council, made up of representatives from the Philadelphia-Baltimore-Washington area, to develop and improve educational programs.

Representatives of television stations appeared enthusiastic even though such programs are on a non-profit basis. Stations normally provide the air time and schools the program with any additional costs shared among them.

gress declared the emergency was over—in so far as it applied to use of some of the emergency laws—while letting the emergency continue in so far as it applied to some other emergency laws.

This meant that the President no longer could use those emergency laws—for which congress said the emergency was over—unless he again declared a national emergency.

So, if he declares a national emergency this week, the President will be doing what he thinks is necessary in order to use some laws which would have to lie dormant on the books without such a declaration.

There's a question in the minds of some congress members—because the emergency declaration would give the government much wider powers than it has now—whether the emergency declaration is necessary at this time.

Referendum For Peanut Quotas Conducted Today

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 14—(AP)—Peanut farmers in 42 Tar Heel counties cast ballots today to decide whether to continue peanut marketing quotas for three more years.

Counties taking part in the special referendum are principally located in the eastern part of the state. The polls opened at 9:00 a.m. and close at 6:00 p.m.

Farmers also voted state-wide to select county committeemen who will help administer the 1951 Production and Marketing Administration quotas. This voting took place in 1,409 farm communities.

G. T. Scott, chairman of the state PMA committee forecast a large vote on the quota referendum. If quotas are approved, Scott explained, government price supports will be available to cooperating farmers at between 80 and 90 per cent of parity.

If quotas are voted down, he added, the support level will be set at 50 per cent of parity.

A two-third majority is required from North Carolina and 15 other peanut-producing states to put the marketing quotas into effect for 1951-52-53 crops.

Overseas Youth Caravan Forming

Lumberton, N.C., December 14. The second Overseas Youth Caravan sponsored by the Board of Missions of the North Carolina Methodist conference is now being set up for work with Methodist churches in Europe next summer.

Rev. Forrest D. Hedden, pastor of Chestnut Street Methodist church in Lumberton, has been named counselor for the 1951 caravan. He was one of two leaders of the first N.C. caravan, which included eight young people who worked in Germany last summer.

The 1951 caravan will consist of a maximum of eleven young people, in addition to the counselor, and the group will work with established Methodist churches and missions in Germany or area, which includes parts of Europe and North Africa. They will do physical work if there is need for rebuilding of property, and work with youth organizations to brotherhood relationships.

Application for membership in the caravan may be made by college students or graduates and high school seniors, with January 15 as deadline. Miss Susan Waller, director of Christian education at Queen Street Methodist church in Kinston, is secretary of the caravan committee and supply application blanks.

Each individual will be expected to meet his own expenses, approximately $800 plus spending money, which in the average case would make the total cost at around $1000.00.

MEETING POSTPONED There will be no meeting of the Pitt County Historical Society tomorrow night as originally scheduled. Instead, it will be postponed to Tuesday night, December 26.

Committeemen

Delegates from each community to the county convention tomorrow were also voted on today. The 23 that are elected will convene in the county Agriculture Building tomorrow at two o'clock to elect a three-man county committee to administer the Production and Marketing Administration program for the next 12 months.

ward the beachhead. A third force swung down from the northeastern coastal road, still well to the north of the right flank of the defense perimeter.

Intelligence reports indicated the huge Chinese force menacing the Hamhung beachhead came from three or four army groups from Manchuria.

Previous estimates had placed the Red force at around eight divisions. Chinese divisions number between 8,000 and 10,000 men.

Air strikes and artillery fire stopped one Red column edging toward the perimeter Thursday morning.

ted him to bring into action laws which already were on the books but couldn't be used except in emergency.

So this country still remains in a condition of unlimited national emergency because neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Mr. Truman has ever ended it. And we're still technically at war, too, since the war has never formally been ended.

But in 1947, two years after the shooting stopped, congress decided that:

1. Many of the temporary, wartime laws it passed after Pearl Harbor were no longer necessary. So it repealed a number of them although the war itself was not declared over.
2. Many of the emergency laws were no longer needed. So con-

Plastic Gullet Saves Life Of Slowly Starving Man

A man who five weeks ago was slowly starving because of a diseased gullet is now eating normally—thanks to a piece of plastic.

Surgeons at Sinai Hospital cut out the tube-like organ connecting the mouth and the stomach and replaced it with a flexible plastic. The hospital, in a formal announcement released last night through the Associated Jewish Charities, said it was the first successful operation of its type on a human.

The operation was performed by Dr. Edgar F. Berman on a patient suffering from cancer of the gullet (esophagus). It was the result of three years of research by Dr. Berman and his associates at the hospital's Hoffberg Laboratory. The hospital stressed that more operations of its kind must be done before its usefulness may be evaluated properly.

The surgery takes about 90 minutes to complete. It compares, the announcement said, to the as much as four hours required for the conventional operation in which the esophagus is cut out and the stomach is brought into the chest so that food passes into it directly from the mouth.

Dr. Berman believes the prime use of the plastic gullet at present would be in patients suffering from cancer.

The announcement made it clear that doctors offer no hope of a cancer cure through the new plastic tube, "only a possible palliative or relieving effect."

It said other surgeons have commented that if the plastic gullet should work successfully, it would be especially beneficial to children who swallow lye or acids and suffer irreparable damage to the esophagus.

three story building through the ragged hole. Then, when the job was done, it was discovered that there wasn't a ladder in the area tall enough to reach their perch. They were targets for enemy snipers.

Lt. Col. J. Frank Cleo, squadron commander, ordered a Marine helicopter to "air lift" the pair from the patched roof.

Tuesday's Cases In County Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Pitt County Recorder's Court Tuesday, Judge Dink James found Leo Stephenson, colored, guilty of non-support and ordered the defendant to pay the sum of $80 into the court for doctor's bill, funerals, expenses, etc. Testimony was that his illegitimate child involved died shortly after birth. The mother was a juvenile, court records show.

Willie McNeil, colored, assault with a deadly weapon and threat four months on the roads, suspended on payment of $25 and costs.

James Henry King, colored, hit-and-run driving and no driver's license, two years on the roads.

Non-support: Theodore Anderson ordered to pay his wife $10 a week; Glasco Faison, colored, failed to comply with the court's order; James R. Wilkes, colored, six months, suspended on payment of $10 a week for support of children; Luther Jr. Evans, colored, six months suspended on payment of $5 a week for support of family.

Frank Peaden, worthless check, 60 days on the roads, suspended on payment of check and court costs.

William Cannon Jr., case not pressed with leave.

Florence Clark and Kathleen Brown, colored, ordered to pay costs for possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for purpose of sale; Leslie Ippock, 12 months on the roads, suspended on payment of $500 fine and he was placed on probation.

Abandonment and non-support: William D. Stephenson, colored, not guilty; Elbert Gardner ordered to pay $10 a week beginning Wednesday of this week.

Non-support of illegitimate child: George Dixon, colored, six months on the roads, or pay $5 a week for support of child and pay hospital bill of $46; Henry Lee Cox, six months on the roads, suspended on payment of $5 a week for child, beginning December 19; Alton Tyson, continued; Wilbur Harris, continued.

Miss Marilyn Baker, 402 East Bycamore St., Evansville, Indiana, says HADACOL isn't good—it is absolutely wonderful. She says if she praised HADACOL every minute of the day, it would not be enough. Miss Baker's system was deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Nicotin, all of which HADACOL contains.

Here is Miss Baker's statement: "I had been sickly for some time. I even at one time had to quit school because I was so weak and skinny. My nerves were bad and shaky. Then my mother started me taking HADACOL. It seemed like my appetite improved with the first dose and now since I have taken HADACOL for over 5 months I have gained 15 lbs. Now my nerves are just fine. I feel wonderful, thanks to HADACOL. I recommend HADACOL to all my friends."

HADACOL Is So Effective because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ of your body. Thousands whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Nicotin are benefiting from HADACOL.

Refuse Substitutes There is only one HADACOL. Don't let anyone tell you something else is "just as good." Insist on Genuine HADACOL. You risk nothing because HADACOL is sold only on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel better with the first few bottles you take or your money back. Trial Size only $1.25. Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. (C) 1950, The LeBlanc Corporation

Just Look What Santa Started

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Newsfeatures Writer
Well, I think I've got all the presents wrapped now. Did I tell you, dear, that I'm sending your Aunt Nell that funny little traveling sewing kit that Aunt Martha sent to us last year? After all, I never used it—when do I get a chance to travel?—and I'm sure Aunt Nell can sew.

No, not much left to do except some odds and ends. By the way, what are we doing about "remembering" people this year. Let's see, there's the mailman, the garbage man, the milk man. Do you suppose there's some law about remembering the policeman, I hope so. And the delivery-boy from the grocer—he was so nice during that snow-storm, remember? And the little Davis boy that delivers papers. I think we'll have to give $5 this year. I was so embarrassed last Christmas when I found out all the families on the block had done more than we had. Honestly, it seems to me I could get a deep freeze with the money we give around at Christmas. But I suppose it's the spirit of the thing. And it does seem to me that everything I buy for gifts is something I never figure I can afford for myself.

The most awful thing happened yesterday. I got four Christmas cards from people I haven't sent them to. I suppose I should rush out this minute and mail cards to them so they won't know I forgot them. No, I always think New Year's cards are a dead give-away that you over looked them.

Do we know anyone named Fred in Florida? Here's this box of glazed fruit. Obviously it's a Christmas present, but it doesn't say anything except season's greetings from Fred. I used to know a Fred in high school.....

You won't be home until late tonight. Office party again? But you promised to come home early and trim the tree. That's what you said last year, but you certainly couldn't trim a tree when you got home. Try to act your age this year—and don't come home all smeared with lipstick.

And before you catch your bus, I'd like to talk to you a minute about the holidays. We've seven cocktail invitations—and one from the Smathers. I'm embarrassed to go there again until we do something in return. Do you realize that we've been to at least four parties at their house and it's been two years since we've had anyone but your mother come here?

I think the least we can do this year is to have some sort of a party. We owe everyone in town, particularly on this block. What would you say to our inviting a few friends over for egg-nogs around noon on Christmas? That's such a dull time for everyone...oh, I think maybe 15

Actress Jean Wallace stops to chat with her two sons, Thomas, 5, and Paschal, 7, and her former husband, Actor Franchot Tone, in court house at Santa Monica, Calif. Tone has brought court action, seeking to prevent Miss Wallace from obtaining custody of the boys. He testified that in the latter part of 1949 Miss Wallace was intoxicated two or three times a week. He said "I made it clear that I never intended to let her have the children unless she rehabilitated herself." (AP Wirephoto).

couple. And certainly we'll ask the Jones—we're going to their house New Year's Eve. Of course you knew we were going to the Jones. I know you don't like Charlie Jones, but when I told you about it you didn't say anything—remember, you were watching that prize-fight on TV—so I went ahead and accepted. I hope this year you won't start any fights like you did last year. Poor Charlie had a black eye for a month. I never was so embarrassed. Well, you wouldn't want us to just sit home New Year's Eve, would you?

And one more thing, I haven't a thing to wear. I thought I'd get some little inexpensive thing if we're having some people in Christmas day. I can't wear that old rag of a taffeta I've had for years. And you promised me last year I could have a new evening gown. I've picked out just the very thing—it's simple, black, straight lines and I could wear it for years, so I'll pick them up today. Oh, stop fussing, we've charge accounts....

I can't figure out why you say you hate the Holidays. Everyone I know loves them. Ane I think your first New Year's resolution had better be to treat your wife nicer. I'd like to see how far you'd get without me.

Blind River, Ont. — (AP) Hugh Horner, farmer near Bruce Mines, figures it must have been a near-sighted hunter who shot at the cow. He found a bullet had silenced the bell around the neck of one of his Ayrshire cows but the animal was not harmed.

Disappointed In Reforestration

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Dec. 13—Response of 4-H club boys in North Carolina to the offer of free tree seedlings has been disappointing to joint sponsors of the program. Reports from the extension service at State College indicate that less than ten percent of the million and a quarter seedlings offered free to 4-H club boys have been ordered. Figures quoted show that 86,000 seedlings have been planted out of 1,175,000 available.

The seedlings were offered through a cooperative arrangement among the federal extension service at State College, the forestry division of the state department of conservation and development, and pulpwood users—of which Champion, International and Carolina pulp and paper firms are major participants.

The arrangement is that the state forestry division nurseries grow the seedlings, the pulp companies buy them, and the extension service distributes them. Areas of the state have been laid out in which particular species of trees will flourish. Any 4-H club boy or girl interested in growing trees should contact the county farm agent to determine the type suitable for that area and make application for seedlings.

Available and subject to order through appropriate channels are 559,400 loblolly pines; 36,000 short-leaf pines, and 93,000 white pines. College and state forestry folks point out that orders should be placed promptly as replanting time is growing short.

College Faculty, Suests Entertained At Dinner

Faculty members of East Carolina Teachers College and guests of the college were entertained Tuesday night at a dinner in the North Dining Hall. The entertainment was sponsored by the social committee of the faculty, headed by Neil Stallings of the health and physical education department.

The dining hall was decorated with a gaily ornamented and lighted Christmas tree presented to the college by Dr. Paul Jones of Farmville. Guests were seated at tables centered with arrangements of evergreens and red candles; and place cards, designed by Francis Lee Neel of the college art department, and souvenir gifts in Christmas wrappings marked each place setting.

James L. Fleming, director of the department of foreign languages, acted as master of ceremonies. President John D. Messick of the college welcomed those present and, in behalf of the faculty, expressed appreciation to members of the social committee, who planned the dinner. Dr. K. E. V. Gilbert of the department of

Indians Prepare Gandhi Shrine

NEW DELHI—(AP)—Indian leaders are studying models of the Lincoln and Washington monuments in Washington and Moscow's Red Square tribute to Lenin in their search for a suitable shrine for Mahatma Gandhi.

Preliminary plans call for a shrine of 100 acres covering the area of the Rajhat—burning pyre—where nearly 100,000 Indians watched their idol's body turned to ashes.

music led the group in the singing of carols.

Among special guests introduced by President Messick were Dr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Worthington of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kilpatrick of Ayden, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Garrett of Greenville. After the dinner, faculty members, following a custom at the college, went caroling through the campus and sang Christmas songs near the student dormitories.

U.S. Force Escapes Red Trap

A huge rescue fleet stands off the Hhamhung-Hungnam area (A) as the last of 25,000 U. S. Marines and doughboys stream into the Hhamhung plain from the Changjin trap in North Korea. The sawtooth line indicates the probable defense positions if area is not evacuated in the face of advancing Reds from the northeast and northwest (open arrows). Chinese Reds are building up strength in the area between the Yalu river and Pyongyang (B) on the northwest front. Little activity was reported near the new United Nations defense positions (C). Blast symbols show where communication lines and Red troops were bombed by U. N. bombers. (AP Wirephoto Map).

Extra Charge To Confirm Wires

Raleigh, Dec. 13—(AP)—The Western Union will begin charging 10 cents for confirmation of messages called in by telephone.

The State Utilities Commission yesterday authorized the company to charge the 10-cent fee which will cover the cost of making copies of the messages and mailing or delivering them to Western Union patrons.

IGNORANCE IS BLISS

ST. JOHN'S, N.H.—(AP)—Maybe the woman customer hadn't heard about the new sales tax. After paying for three rolls of wallpaper, she was leaving when the clerk said, "How about the tax, please." She replied: "That's all right; I'm going to paste it up."

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City was founded in 1870.

All top rail to be one and five-eighths inches OD and shall be galvanized. If top rail not used a number 6 gauge coil steel wire will be used in lieu of same. All wires to be used approximately 1100 lineal feet. Bids will be received for both new and used fence materials.

All bidders will be required to deposit with their bid cash or certified check in an amount equivalent to 5% of their bid pending the execution of contract with the successful bidder within ten days.

The Mayor and Board of Aldermen reserve the right to accept or reject any and all bids filed.

This the 12th day of December, 1950.

Have you ever said "I'll just never go back there again?"

That's the way a lot of people react when something goes wrong in the store in which they shop.

They don't complain. They just make up their minds to shop somewhere else.

But we don't want that ever to happen at A&P.

If for any reason you should ever be dissatisfied with the food or service in your A&P, please do us and our employees the favor of letting us know. Please write:

Cosmetics Scarce In India; Ladies Protest

New Delhi (AP)—During the five months ending in September this year, India imported only $60,000 worth of toiletries, excluding soaps and brushes.

Recently a deputation of Indian women called on the commerce minister to complain of the lack of cosmetics in Delhi and of the dangers of imitation articles flooding local markets.

Project Hurt By Police Shortage

Singapore (AP)—The police in Singapore are opposed to increasing the capacity of the biggest indoor sports stadium here because of a shortage of policemen. An application to increase the Happy World Stadium from its present capacity of 7,128 to 12,000 people was sent to the Singapore Municipality. City officials specified a limit of 9,200 people if certain alterations were done, and sent it to the police.

The police turned it down saying they may not be able to supply enough policemen to handle crowd and because of the possibility of a great number of casualties in the event of a panic or fire.
