ROKs And Chinese Clash In Fierce Prelude To Battle

Tokyo, Dec. 26—(AP)—South Korea and Chinese Communist troops tonight tangled in a fierce battle just south of the 38th parallel and 28 air miles northeast of Seoul, the endangered South Korean capital. Seoul itself was being rapidly emptied by citizens fleeing the gathering storm of combat.

While allied defenders regrouped for battle, new threats came from Red China's high command for all foreign troops to get out of the country entirely. The allied force after abandoning its last stronghold in North Korea had a new commander on the job.

Teeth Corps Joins Up With U. S. Eighth Army

Tokyo, Dec. 26—(AP)—General MacArthur said today withdrawal of the allied U. S. 10th Corps from the Hungnam beachhead completed a reshuffling of his forces as required by Red China's entry into the Korean war.

The reshuffling placed the 106,000 men of the regrouped 10th Corps under a single unified command of the U. S. Eighth Army.

MacArthur Says Beachhead Withdrawal Completes Reshuffling Of Forces Required By Chinese Entry Into War

MacArthur said the 10th Corps had made a junction with the Eighth, but did not elaborate. The U. S. Eighth Army now has three corps—the First, Ninth and 10th.

Half Of Families Are Out Of Debt

Washington, Dec. 26—(AP)—About one half of the nation's 50,000,000 "Consumer Spending Units" owed no debts at all early this year, a Federal Reserve Board survey shows.

Consumer Spending Units are families living together and pooling incomes—and some individuals living alone. The Board made its survey public yesterday. It is packed with statistics which show, among other things, that:

There was no substantial information of Chinese intent, he said. He noted that the Chinese had been given assurances that their border would not be violated by U. N. forces.

Woolard-Heath Vows Exchanged In Formal Ceremony Tuesday

MRS. GILBERT GARLAND WOOLARD

Kinston. — Miss Betty Ethel Heath, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Vogler Heath, and Mr. Gilbert Garland Woolard Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Woolard of Williamston, exchanged vows in a wedding service at Queen Street Methodist Church Tuesday afternoon, December 19, at 4 o'clock. Rev. E. W. Downum, Methodist minister of Grifton, officiated. Palms and fern formed a background for baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums and lighted candles in candelabra entwined with ivy.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Raymond Vogler, of Hampton Roads, Va. The bride wore a high-collared dress of heavy ivory satin, embroidered with rhinestone over lace. The full skirt was worn over hoops and crinoline and ended in formal court train. Her finger tip veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid showered with lilies of the valley and tuberoses.

Miss Irene McGowan of Greenville college classmate of the bride, as maid of honor, wore rose satin off-the-shoulder dress, made with full, floor-length skirt. The matron of honor, Mrs. Jack Branch, sister of the bride, wore moss green satin dress with draped shoulders. Bridesmaids, Misses Mary Scarborough, Peggy Taylor and Betty Loa Humphrey of Kinston and Emma Dean Calire of Belhaven, cousin of the groom, wore low-cut, v-shaped and tiny puffed sleeves. All wore headdress of matching net and mits of matching satin. They carried bouquets to harmonize with the dress.

Mr. Rogers, cousin of the bride, of Roxboro, flower girl, wore orchid net dress styled with sweetheart neckline, cap sleeves and pointed waistline. The full skirt designed with bustle. She had a bandeau of matching net trimmed in forget-me-nots and carried a basket caught with net and orchid ribbons. Ring-bearer Judy Van Dyke, cousin of the groom, had a dress of ice blue satin fashioned with rounded yoke and ruffle and tiny puffed sleeves, gathered skirt and bustle in the back. She also had a matching net bandeau with forget-me-nots and carried a white satin pillow on which rested the ring.

Mr. Johnny Woolard of Williamston brother of the groom, was best man. Messrs. Jack Branch, brother-in-law of the bride, and John Watts, Hugh Horton, Charles Sicheloff Jr. of Williamston, who attend the University of North Carolina, ushered.

The bride's mother wore floor length dress of blue chiffon made with lace and rhinestone insertion, elbow length lace gloves to match, and corsage of red roses. The mother of the groom wore a floor length ice blue chiffon gown with draped shoulders and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Woolard, native of Kinston, was graduated from Contentnea High School and is a sophomore at ECTC where she was sponsor for the annual military R.O.T.C. ball, sponsor for the alumni homecoming dance and served as college marshal in 1950. She was elected an attendant in the May Court in May 1949. The groom attended Williamston High School and Oak Ridge Military Academy, being graduated from the high school department of Brevard College. He attended the University of North Carolina and was graduated from ECTC. He is now working on a master's degree with a view to teaching in the science department there.

Following a wedding trip to northern points, the couple will be at home at 404 Biltmore Street, Greenville, where both will continue their studies. For her honeymoon, the bride changed to royal blue gabardine suits, winter white hat, trimmed in rhinestones and matching accessories. She used her white orchid from her bouquet.

The bride's mother entertained at a reception in the church parlor immediately following the wedding.

There was considerable shooting of fire works as soon as dark came and this continued until midnight, when all became quiet. Upon the whole, Greenville had a good Christmas and not a noisy one. There was no disorder to speak of.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

One of the two "community ambassadors" sent abroad this year by the Young Adult Civic League of Glens Falls, N. Y., was Miss Barbara Foster, minister of education in Christ Church Methodist of that city. She visited in Jerusalem and Israel, and her reports were published in Glens Falls newspapers. As a byproduct of the trip, she has arranged a "reverse experiment" under the Experiment in International Living of Putney, Vt., which will bring a number of young Israelis to America next year as "community ambassadors."

Dedication ceremonies were held recently at the new Malay Girls' Hostel in Malacca, Malaya, by Bishop Raymond L. Archer, Methodist Church leader in Singapore. A gift of the Woman's Division of Christian Service in the United States, the dormitory provides a home for 50 students in primary and elementary grades of the Methodist Girls' School. The hostel is the result of work of Mrs. Marjorie Dodsworth, wife of the former mission superintendent, Mrs. R. A. Bladell, missionary to Malaya; and Mrs. Carleton D. Foss, superintendent of the hostel, Mrs. Loh Hung Loon, J. P., is principal of the Methodist Girls' School.

At the 1950 convention of the National Association of Colored Women—composed mostly of church-related Negro women—there was established "an eleven-point program" directed chiefly against discrimination. To put their resolutions effectively into force the group decided to maintain a lobbyist in Washington. The program included: recommendation that local, state and national governments appoint more Negro women to policy-making positions; the appointment of a lobbyist in Washington, D. C. to look after interests of women and to work for passage of civil rights legislation; recommendation to the Government that before increasing the number of displaced persons coming into the nation, first consider "fully the security of American colored people in jobs and housing and education;" recommendation of peace through more use of the UN; recommendation that the Federal Government in the future give no financial support to any housing projects whether public or private, or to education without safeguards against discrimination.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bostic of Benson spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Berry Bostic.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Turnage, Jr. of Atlanta are visiting Mrs. W. S. Galloway.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver of Wilmington spent Christmas here with Mrs. Phil Coleman and Mrs. J. S. Barr.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Kee of Fort Bragg spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Alton Barrett.

Miss Lillian Rivers Forbes is home from Baltimore to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. A. A. Forbes, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Downs spent Christmas in Norfolk.

Mr. Jessie Chambers of Salisbury is spending a few days with his daughter, Mrs. J. Ed Nelson of this city.

Mary French Hawes Honored By Mrs. White At Christmas

On Friday evening at 6:30, Miss Mary French Hawes was honored when her grandmother, Mrs. Samuel T. White, entertained for her at a Christmas buffet dinner at her home on Seventh Street.

Guests were welcomed at the door by Mary French Hawes and Dickie Haar. As they entered the reception hall, they were delighted by the huge, beautifully decorated Christmas tree which was placed at the back of the hall. When all the young guests had arrived, they were invited into the rear hall to the punch table.

The table was covered with a lace cloth over red satin and was centered with a Santa Claus punch bowl with matching Santa Claus mugs. Red candles, Christmas bells and greens were used as holiday decorations. As accompaniments to the fruit punch, the young people were served shrimp and attractive mors d'oeuvres.

The dining room was particularly attractive with Christmas arrangements on dining table and buffet. The centerpiece for the table was composed of a silver epergne filled with frosted greens and bells, flanked on either side by three-branched candelabra holding red candles and epergnettes spilling red and silver balls. A lace cloth placed over red satin covered the table.

Entrancing Santa Claus figures and Christmas arrangements decorated the room. The children found their dinner partners by matching Christmas cards which had been cut in half. After they were served they went into the back living room where individual tables, centered with red candles in Christmas holders, were placed.

For the dessert course, the young guests went back into the dining room where a three-tiered Christmas cake was cut by Mary French. As the cake and cream were served, floating candles in antique holders were brought in and placed on each table. These were particularly attractive to the children and caused a lot of merriment when they burned down to the water level.

After dinner the children went upstairs, where the large central hall had been cleared for dancing. Music was provided by a combination Victrola and radio and dancing was enjoyed by all. Game rooms were opened on the second floor and ornaments and snow scenes were used on buffet and side tables throughout the house. Mantels were banked with magnolia leaves and candles and throughout the rooms where the children gathered to play, festive decorations transformed the house into a Christmas fairy land. The dinner was served buffet style. Mrs. Helen Hawes served the turkey and her daughter, Helen White Hawes, assisted by Ronnie Martin, served the ham and accompanying dishes.

deeper into the civilian manpower pool of the county and the National Guard and Selective Service calls combined will leave many vacant positions in the businesses of the county.

With the first month of the new year the businesses of the county will begin to feel the pinch on its manpower by the mobilization. As the year progresses and more men are called through the Selective Service and more reserves are summoned to active duty, Pitt county is going to have to readjust its business to another cycle without young men.

We have heard the national leaders talk about the belt tightening the people of the country will have to do to hold down the use of consumer goods which contain vital materials.

The people of Pitt county should realize that here in our own community it is going to be necessary for businesses and consumers alike to do some belt tightening to cope with the situation which is in the making with the loss of our manpower.

National Whirligig News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The McFarland-O'Mahoney scrap for the post of Senate Majority Leader climaxes a serious but partially suppressed cleavage between two factions of Democrats roughly known as the "city fellows" from the North and Midwest and the so-called "plantation politicians" from the cotton-lobacco areas of the South and Southwest.

Democratic victory in future elections, including the 1952 presidential contest, may be affected by the outcome, even though a McFarland triumph seems assured at the moment.

PRICES—It is no vague, sentimental or ideological issue that is involved in the struggle. As representatives of the producing areas, the McFarland backers are chiefly concerned in obtaining high prices for their constituents' products, which include numerous everyday commodities in addition to the three mentioned above.

INDUSTRIAL—More than one hundred million dollars invested in entirely new industrial plants in North Carolina during the past year, with annual prospective payroll of twenty-five million dollars, is a record worthy of pride.

SOUND—While happy to have a new industry of any kind, the state promoters are especially pleased at the variety of products represented in 1950 acquisitions.

VEGETABLE—The vegetarians scored in the latest purchases of foodstuffs for various state agencies by the board of awards. At a short session last Thursday the board placed orders, among others, for pure hog lard, cheese and powdered milk amounting to $15,600.

HONORED—Designation of David S. Weaver as "Man of the Year in Service to North Carolina Agriculture" will meet general approval, according to caption square comment.

LOCAL—Considerably more than 80 percent of the travelers dollar is spent in the community where he stops, according to breakdown by the U.S. Travel Bureau.

MOVIE MANAGERS EAGER FOR PROMOTIONS The slump that has hit movie attendance in some areas is finding operators both willing and eager to cooperate with merchants' promotions.

CONCENTRATE: Next frozen concentrate may be apple juice. It is being tested in California by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

BLEACHER: A compound which removes stains from plastic table ware without injury to the plastic or its colors is being introduced by Turco Products, Inc., 21 West St., New York.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The McFarland-O'Mahoney group, on the other hand, represents millions of metropolitan consumers, whose main concern is keeping the prices of these articles as low as possible.

It is not without politico-economic significance that the Wyoming Senator, who was born in Chelsea, Mass., and went West because of a youthful ailment, has been the most persistent foe of monopolistic practices on Capitol Hill.

Although he sometimes wavers on this question when western interests are involved, the "fighting Irishman" has made a name on this subject.

GAS—The Arizona candidate, Mr. McFarland, was a leading member of the bloc that supported the Kerr measure, eliminating natural gas from regulatory jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission.

The bill was vetoed by President Truman after he had received protests from a score of angry Mayors of northern cities. He accepted their arguments that the Kerr-McFarland legislation would have raised fuel and heating costs for industrial and home consumers.

To furnish a further touch of drama, Senator Brian McMahon, an O'Mahoney manager, is now before the Federal Power Commission to grant licenses for construction of new natural gas lines into New England. Naturally, Mr. McMahon wants Yankee gas bills kept to the minimum.

"KIN"—Another reason for Senator McFarland's disfavor in the northern factories' eyes—he is extremely popular, personally—is that he usually lines up with southern conservatives on questions which appeal to urban voters. While not a "Dixiecrat," he is "kissing kin" to them.

He has voted against or opposed such Truman proposals as the Federal Employment Practices Commission, the two-price Brannan farm plan, National Health Insurance and, of course, against federal regulations of oil and gas and their various derivatives.

To make matters worse for the urban bloc, there is a possibility that Senator Lyndon R. Johnson of Texas may be chosen as Senate Whip. He is supposed to be the McFarland group's favorite. In general, he thinks and votes along with his colleague from Arizona.

ANXIETY—The northerners' anxiety is understandable because of the woeful falling off in the Democrats' city vote on November 7. In fact, the need for choosing new Senate leaders stems from the fact that Majority Boss Scott W. Lucas of Illinois and Assistant Frank J. Myers of Pennsylvania were defeated. This left because of Republican gains in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Chicago, to mention only a few deflation centers.

Naturally, the elements which fell away—the colored people, consumers liked at even last month's high prices and A.D.A. "liberals"—will not be won back to the party steadily by the prospective shift of political control and influence in the Senate of the United States.

"SAVE OUR HIGHWAYS" (Industrial News Review) Some time ago, a "Save Our Highways" movement was started in Knoxville, Tennessee, as an organized protest against the destruction of roads by heavy trucks.

1. To protect the taxpayer's tremendous investment in the highway system.

2. To reduce the hazards of accident, death and injury to all highway users.

3. To require the payment of adequate user charges by commercial inter-city carriers.

4. To prevent the destruction of highways and bridges by overloaded, box-car-size vehicles.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

HAMS AND HAMS (Greensboro Daily News) The great interstate ham battle is now well under way, with Virginia, Missouri and Kentucky taking cuts at one another.

These hams, like a Stradivarius or a Vermeer, are where you find them. They are not mass-produced and they are not on the open market.

It makes little difference what the hog eats, whether peanuts, acorns or just plain slops, the proof of the ham is in the curing and attests the presence of an artist in eating such as Escoffier, Antoine, Brillat-Savarin or Aunt Eliza Tannahill.

Not everything goes with such a ham, but turkey breast, beaten biscuits and old-timy buckwheat cakes do.

Such hams can be discovered through perseverance and good fortune in North Carolina, and perhaps other states, but whenever found they should be carved with prayer and masticated with meditation.

FAVOR 'GOOD TOWNS' (Wilmington Star-News) When the DuPont people started seeking a site for a large new factory, 150 towns and cities in 28 states extended invitations for the multi-million dollar plant.

The number of bidders was soon reduced to 50. Then the competition for this facility and the hundreds of jobs it will provide really became hot.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER There are so many faults with the Economic Stabilization Agency's "voluntary price freeze" order that it has created suspicion in some circles that it was designed to fail and thereby pave the way for rigid price controls.

It is, basically, not a freeze at all. In fact, almost all of the text is concerned with conditions, restrictive though they may be, under which prices may be increased.

It begins by saying that prices cannot be increased by any manufacturer whose dollar profits before taxes are equal to or in excess of its average profits before taxes in 1946-1949, except under certain circumstances. That seems to skip lightly over the basic fact that volume is as essential as price in creating profits.

It also involves a lot of accountancy and calculation. The average net in those four years is easy enough to determine. But determining exact profits now, or in the weeks or months ahead for which prices must be set, can be only a guess without knowing volume.

Later the order says that price raises can be made only on the basis of experience. Presumably a manufacturer would have to lose money—the order doesn't say for how long—before he could change prices.

It also provides that if a material or service is not being produced at a profit, that price may be increased but not more than (A) the amount necessary to make it profitable or (B) the amount of the increase since June 28, 1950, in the cost of direct wages and materials going into this product, whichever is lower.

This seems to say that if A is greater than B, a company that discovers a product is not making money must continue to sell it at a loss if the B formula fails to bring it within the area of profit.

These flaws, puzzling though they are, are minor compared to the fact that the order attempts to freeze prices without freezing the largest ingredient, wages. In fact, the order itself appears to be an invitation to labor to demand higher wages before a wage freeze is made.

Immediately after the order was made public, the stock market shot up, which indicates that Wall Street believes that the controls would not freeze profits, and if it isn't going to do that, it isn't going to freeze prices.

Strength for the Day

THE MEEK GET IT Some years ago when immigrants were coming into this country in large numbers, there was a bloody fight one day on Ellis Island in which a number of immigrants participated.

What was the trouble? The whole thing started over a dispute about the contents of a sugar bowl. Somebody seemed to be getting more sugar than was coming to him, and this called forth first angry words, then a torrent of abuse, and the whole thing ended in a riot.

Fighting over sugar! What fools we mortals be. We grow bitter as we think of those who get more of the sweets of life than we do. We can see a thousand things to criticize in those who get hold of the sugar bowl first and perhaps help themselves a bit too generously.

Of course fighting over sugar is not a great deal different from fighting over oil, iron ore, trade routes, colonies, place in the sun. The world today is armed to the teeth because some one thinks that somebody else has had the sugar, bowl too long.

"The meek shall inherit the earth." This was Jesus' observation, and all history has attested His judgment. Fools fight over sugar and other things, but they who refrain from fighting get the sugar and everything else in the end.

Prepare To Avoid A Future Emergency

Greenville managed to get by its pre-Christmas gas shortage without having to do without heating and cooking gas entirely. We got by, but it was a little too close for comfort.

Had the people of the city not done an outstanding job of conserving the use of the fuel; had the utilities not been able to secure an emergency shipment of 2,000 gallons of gas from a nearby point; and had not the railroads taken special efforts to get two carloads of gas to Greenville—it would have been a cold Christmas for the people hereabouts who heat and cook with gas.

Then too, the fact that a lot of business places which heat with gas were closed for two or three days helped stretch the short gas supply.

Greenville got by the holidays and still has gas in its storage tanks, but the supply is not yet abundant. There is still need for conservative use of the fuel for heating and cooking if we are not to face the no-gas threat again in the near future.

The Reflector would suggest to the utilities that steps be taken to have on hand a backlog of gas which would tide the city users over in case another emergency, such as the one just over, arises again in the future.

The utilities officials maintain that the emergency would not have arisen had not the gas been tied up in the recent rail strike. Nevertheless, the fact that the gas service in Greenville is a utility makes the utilities officials responsible for gas service to the people of the city. If the consumers of Greenville find themselves without gas, no matter what the cause, the responsibility must rest upon the shoulders of the utilities officials.

Most Of All The Cut In Available Manpower

The effect of the mobilization program in Greenville's manpower will be felt acutely during the coming month.

So far Pitt county has had a relatively few men inducted into the armed forces through selective service. To some extent the number has dipped into the active manpower pool of the county, but for the most part the induction of these men has come at a time when labor has been plentiful; and except for a few instances, employment replacements for those men who held jobs have been readily available.

During January, however, the picture is going to change drastically.

The Greenville National Guard unit has received its orders to report for active duty in January 23. That in itself will mean approximately 75 men from the Greenville community alone will don the army khaki for the duration, and will vacate the positions they hold in the business of the community. In addition to the National Guard unit, the county draft board has received orders for 100 men to report for induction during the month of January. That will dig

Hal Boyle's Column

By WILLIAM BARNARD (For HAL BOYLE) Seoul.—(AP)—How many can finish the journey?

That's the question an American asks as he watches the thousands of refugees streaming southward from the apprehensive Korean capital.

The question does not apply to the lucky ones, those who cling in swarms to railroad flatcars or huddle in silent mounds of humanity on the backs of jolting trucks.

But what of the great majority—pitiful families on foot, pulling their little cars or toting their belongings on their backs over icy mountain roads in zero weather?

In their faces you find nothing... nothing... neither hope nor despair. In their eyes there is no pain. There are no complaints.

In flight from the forces of communism, these people trudge steadily across frozen snowy fields, avoiding the heavily traveled roads whenever possible.

You never see a child cry or smile or laugh. You never hear any chatter or conversation among families. You wonder if perhaps things were different far back up the road. You wonder if this bitter trek has finally squeezed from these stricken people every last bit of feeling except a blind determination to keep going.

There is no rest by day, not even for food. No, nor do you see a family taking time out for a breather. Weary children are allowed occasional rides high with bundles already piled high with the backs of their mothers. But for the adults from dawn to dusk there is no rest at all.

By night the refugees vanish. The frozen fields and snow-capped peaks are vague in moonlight but of these people there is no sign. Most, you are told, sleep in deserted huts in the rapidly emptying villages of this area.

But by night the roads pound with the marching feet of thousands of South Korean volunteers, mostly boys in their teens. In the stretch of a single mile of road south of Seoul, a newspaperman passed an estimated 10,000 such recruits.

The refugees are ill-clothed for bitter temperature. They wear many layers of tattered cotton garments and some have canvas shoes. Some have no shoes at all.

An amazing thing is the stamina of the elderly men and women among these fleeing people. Even they carry heavy loads or pull carts. But in a shallow cave at a roadside was one very old man. He sat in the save, his bundle of possessions beside him, and stared out at those who passed by. For him, was this the end of the journey?

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS Washington.—Jenny, the Siamese-born baby elephant which up until now has been the darling of the Washington Zoo, will have to move over. The housing shortage being what it is—even in zoos—makes it imperative for Jenny to divvy up her quarters with the two elephants Prime Minister Nehru of India is sending to the children of America.

A partition is being rigged up in Jenny's quarters so that the Bombay babes, Shanti, the girl, and Ashok, the boy elephant, may have privacy until they get adjusted to life here. "Later, when they get acquainted, we may take down the partition and let the three live together in happy union," Dr. William Mann, director of the National Zoological Garden, told me.

Jumbina, 40 years old, brought over from Egypt in 1913, is the only other pachyderm in the zoo family. She has a suite all to herself as befits her dignity. Aside from Jenny and Jumbina, there have been only four other elephant residents at the zoo since Dr. Mann took over in 1925. "Dunk", a famous female presented the Zoo by a circus in 1890, was still there when she arrived but died about eight years later.

"Hitam" and "Kachil", a pair from Sumatra bought with $5,000 raised by the late Mrs. Charles Wolcott, wife of the late secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, and her friends, passed away some years ago. Hitam, the first to die, suffered from a bad liver. Dr. Mann says "Babe", a circus elephant so old she couldn't amble from train to tent, also died in the elephant house at the zoo.

Second Annual Dixie Classic Opens Thursday In Coliseum

Deacons Meet Rhode Island State; State Plays Tulane; Navy And Tar Heels Tangle; Duke Scraps Colgate In First Round

Raleigh, Dec. 26—First round play in the second annual Dixie Basketball Classic opens Thursday afternoon at the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum with Wake Forest meeting Rhode Island State at 2 p. m. and North Carolina State's Wolfpack tangle with Tulane's Green Wave at 3:30 p. m.

A night doubleheader will complete the first round activity with Carolina's White Phantoms engaging Navy's unbeaten Middies at 7:30 p. m. and Duke University's Blue Devils meeting highly-rated Colgate in the finale at 9 p. m.

Advance ticket sales for the big early season case tournament indicate the good crowds will be on hand for all sessions of the three-day affair. Plenty of tickets are still available for all sessions, including season books for the 12-game stand. Season books are priced in two ranges of $4.50 and $7.50. For individual sessions, tickets are $1.50 for afternoon play and $2.00 at night.

Top-flight contests appear certain in all games. Wake Forest and Rhode Island State played one of the most thrilling games run off in last year's Classic with the Wolfpack winning by 61-59 in an overtime win the consolation bracket title.

A lot of interest is focused on the State-Tulane scrap, which will see two of the best clubs in the tournament matching wits. Tulane comes in to the three-day go with a 5-1 mark, having lost only a 60-70 count to Rice State in a brilliant record with seven consecutive triumphs and is currently ranked as the nation's No. 3 club.

Two top-flight battles will highlight the night session. North Carolina's White Phantoms will tangle with Navy's undefeated Middies in the opener at 7:30 p. m. and Duke's red-hot Blue Devils run into an equally potent Colgate University squad in the wind-up at 9 p. m.

Each of the eight teams entered will play three games between Thursday afternoon's opening and Saturday night's finale for the Classic championship. Team trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place finishers and the consolation bracket champions. Each of the 96 eligible participants in this year's tournament will receive individual trophies.

Miss Sara French, beautiful Tulane University co-ed from Dallas, Texas will reign as Dixie Classic Queen and will present trophies to all teams and participants.

The four inter-sectional teams entered in the second annual Dixie basketball classic were scheduled to arrive here today for the first round of play Thursday afternoon.

Oklahoma Battles USA—Kentucky

New Orleans, Dec. 26—(AP)—I won't be Oklahoma against Kentucky in the Sugar Bowl—it'll be Oklahoma battling the United States.

Kentucky, you see, has been forced to search beyond its own state boundary lines to procure quality football talent capable of sending the Wildcats to two straight major bowl games.

Oklahoma is almost in direct contrast. Of the 45 men coming to the New Year's Day classic here for the Sugar Bowl are natives of Oklahoma. Twenty-three are listed on the Kentucky roster, but only 14 are natives of the Bluegrass country.

And that's one of the reasons Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant has had difficulty in building Kentucky into a major power. Less than 100 high schools played football in the Bluegrass state when Bryant arrived there early in 1946.

Bryant, who was hired away from the University of Maryland when Kentucky decided to stress football, was forced to look elsewhere to quality talent.

Christmas Present?

Williamsburg, Va.—William and Mary's basketball team gets its major test early this season. Barney Wilson's cagers face four powerful in-laws on a Midwest trip during the Christmas holidays. Beginning December 19, they play Marshall, Cincinnati, Louisville and Morris-Harvey in succession before going home for Christmas. Wilson figures an even break would make an attractive Christmas gift for the Tribe will be underdogs in the first three games.

Last Minute Touchdown Gives South, 14-9 Win

Miami, Fla., Dec. 26—(AP)—Van derbilt's Dean Davidson plunged over in the final 45 seconds last night to give the South All-Stars a 14 to 9 upset victory over the North in the Shrine's third annual charity football game in the Orange Bowl.

The dying-minute touchdown climaxed the finest display of clean, hard, precision football witnessed by Miami fans in a decade. Few of the 39,132 fans left the stadium until the final gun was sounded.

The South, coached by Andy Gustafson of the University of Miami and Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, was forced to come from behind to turn back the Northern Yankers coached by Yale University's Herman Hickman.

Paced by John Ford's amazing passing and Davidson's spectacular running, the Rebels scored before the first quarter was five minutes old. Mississippi's John Dettley plunged through center for the final yard.

Jim Stator of Wake Forest tackled the North's Dick Gabriel of Le-High behind his own goal line in the second period and the Rebels held an 8-0 margin at half-time.

But the game entered the Army star who has been assigned fullback duties in the game Saturday, was notified that his wife had given birth to a seven pound, four ounce boy in Dallas.

No Charge For A Christmas Baby

Pottsville, Pa., Dec. 26—(AP)—A long time ago Dr. J. Harry Close—whose birthday is Dec. 25—promised that if he ever were called upon to deliver a Christmas baby, he'd accept no fee for his services.

Now, after 15 years' practice, the doctor has had his chance to keep that promise. His long-delayed present was an eight-pound girl born to Mrs. William Savage, of nearby Minersville, in Good Samaritan Hospital here.

Long Holiday In State Offices

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 26—(AP)—State department offices remained closed today as employees continued their Christmas holiday.

The holiday period for them will end tomorrow morning. Meanwhile, the state's No. 1 employee, Governor Scott, was scheduled to go to Chatham County today with Assistant Budget Director D. S. Coltrane to hunt rabbits.

Champagne is a mixture of wines from around Champagne province, France, its quality depending largely on the skill of those who do the mixing.

New Industries

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 26—(AP)—During 1950, North Carolina was chosen by 31 manufacturing companies as sites for new industrial plants with investments totaling $104,000,000.

This was announced in a survey released yesterday by Paul Kelly, head of the Division of Commerce and Industry of the State Department of Conservation and Development.

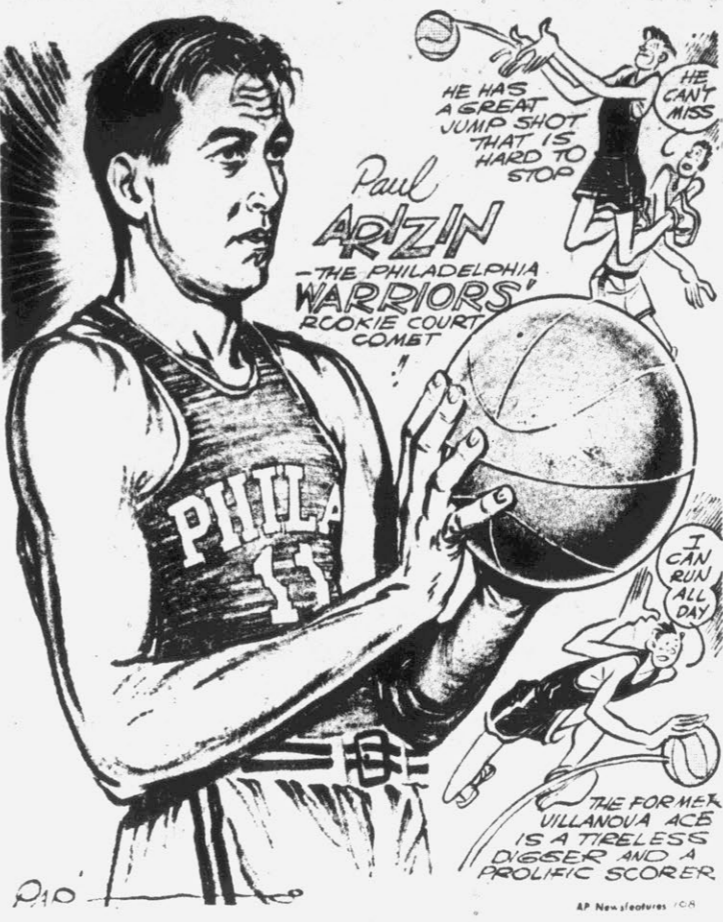

The new industries will employ approximately 9,215 workers and have estimated annual payrolls totaling $24,739,000, Kelly said.

Largest of the proposed new industries is a $24,000,000 plant at Kinston by E. I. DuPont de Nemours Co. Second largest is a $20,000,000 cellophane plant at Pisgah Forest by Olin Industries, Inc.

Buddy Lex With FBI

Williamsburg, Va.—Buddy Lex, star halfback at William and Mary for four years and last year one of the nation's leading offensive players, has joined the Federal Bureau of Investigation and will start training in the near future. Criminals can take cover if Lex is as deadly as a detective as he was as a passer. In 1949 he completed 21 touchdown passes, and always got his man.

Sports Slants By Pap

Paul Arizin, the brilliant rookie of the Philadelphia Warriors, developed his potent scoring weapon—a jump shot—by necessity while a youngster just learning the game in grammar school. Paul started playing when he was in the eighth grade at St. Monica Parochial School in South Philadelphia. The school gym floor was slick and Paul just couldn't find the basket because he always slipped and lost his balance when attempting a hook shot. So he tried standing still, then taking a leap into the air before getting off his shot. He found this maneuver more satisfactory and he continued experimenting until he became quite accurate.

Case Meets Wells In Old Coaching Rivalry

Raleigh, Dec. 26—When North Carolina State and Tulane University square off at 3:30 p. m. Thursday afternoon in the opening round of the Dixie Basketball Classic one of the oldest personal coaching rivalries in the nation will be renewed.

Although neither Cliff Wells of Tulane or Everett Case of State will admit to anything more than 50 years of age, these two Indiana gentlemen have been battling each other across the hardwood courts for more than 20 years.

It all started back in 1920 when Case was guiding the destinies of high school teams at Frankfort, Ind. and Wells took up the coaching reins at Logansport, Ind. From the beginning it was a hot rivalry with the series always close.

There were many memorable meetings between the two mentors, but one which stands out in the mind of N.C. State's Everett Case is the 1927 game which ended in a 10-7 victory for Case's Frankfort club.

Logansport had to travel the 65 miles between the two Indiana towns, but a big snow storm prevented their arrival until nearly 11 p. m. Finally the game got underway with a packed house of 2,500 spectators on hand.

Logansport was the favorite and had been averaging 50 points per game. Case had worked his squad all week long on holding the ball since his inexperienced squad had little scoring punch.

Frankfort got two field goals and hung on leading 4-0. At the half it was 4-3 with Frankfort leading, still freezing the ball all over the court. Not until about five minutes

Ezzard Charles Picked As 'Fighter Of Year'

Haymes Called

Coach Bo Farley's Greenville High School Phantoms may be without the services of Virginia Haymes, high-scoring forward for the local cagers come January 23.

Haymes, a member of Battery C, 690th Field Artillery Battalion of the National Guard, will get his call to mobilization with his unit Tuesday, January 23, according to local National Guard officers, who have already been alerted because of the Korean war crisis, and will go on active duty that date.

Haymes has been a consistent scoring leader for the Phantoms in their six pre-holiday tilts, with 43 points, an average of over seven points per game.

It's A Rough Game

burg of the Detroit Lions isn't sure that football is so much more rugged a sport than basketball. The Lion wingman completed his first year in pro football without a single injury. Then, after the season, he tried his hand at the cage game. Only seconds after the opening jump, Niemburg was elbowed across the eye by a fellow elbow and had to retire. It was the worst injury he received all year.

New Scoring Mark

Cleveland, Dec. 26—(AP)—Hy Buller of the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League has established a new career record for scoring for defensemen in the circuit. With two-thirds of the season to go, Buller had 244 points on 68 goals and 176 assists for his career. The old record of 237 points was also held by a Cleveland player, Danny Sprout, now playing coach of Seattle in the Pacific Coast League.

Bet On Groza's Toe

Cleveland, Dec. 26—(AP)—Maybe early bettors have Louis R. (The Toe) Groza in mind when they rate Cleveland a three-point edge over the Los Angeles Rams for Sunday's pro football title game here.

When you talk in terms of three-point football margins, Cleveland Browns' fans think in terms of Groza. The 235-pound tackle has booted 15 three-pointers in 21 tries this season and set a new National Football League record for field goals.

KIWANIS CLUB WILL MEET FOR SPECIAL PROGRAM

The Greenville Kiwanis Club will have a special program at next Friday night's regular supper meeting. James Ray Pittman, chairman of the Attendance Committee, will have charge of the program. Good attendance emblems will be awarded those members who have not missed any meetings.

Chess and checkers are now two separate games, but chess was once called checkers.

Francis C. Hood, 4419 Wabash, Kansas City, Mo., says that HADACOL has done so much for him to help give him the vitality he now has since he found out his system was deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, that he wants to fill his pick-up truck full of HADACOL and give it to folks suffering from the same deficiencies—so they, too, can be put on the road to feeling better.

This is Mr. Hood's statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I was very nervous and sleepy all the time. Seems like no matter how much sleep I tried to get, it didn't work—I would just toss and turn all night. Then in the daytime I would be groggy and sleepy—I just felt miserable all the time. It really got me down—I was beside myself in knowing just what to do. Then one day I heard how HADACOL had helped many other folks.

"Now after taking 6 bottles of HADACOL I get a wonderful night's sleep and never wake up once during the night. I'm not a bit nervous any more either. In fact, right now I feel better than I have ever felt in my life, thanks to HADACOL."

Yes, HADACOL Does Help thousands of fine folks who were suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. HADACOL is wonderful in the way it builds up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body. Today, even hundreds of doctors are recommending HADACOL to their patients.

You Owe It To Yourself... to give HADACOL a chance. Refuse substitutes, don't let anyone tell you something else is "just as good." Insist on genuine HADACOL. You risk nothing because HADACOL is sold only on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel better with the first few bottles you take or your money back. Trial size only $1.25. Large Family or Hospital size, $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

MILK RIVER RANGE

by LEE FLOREN

Chapter 23
They rode into Beaverton late that afternoon. Jesse Smith had remained silent on the long ride. Buck stopped off at the doctor's office while Tortilla Joe and the rancher went down the street to the jail.

The doctor dressed Buck's wound. The bullet, he said, had scraped the ribs, and then gone out into space. He put some iodine into the wound. Buck sat on the high table, naked to the waist, and gritted his teeth as the medicant cut into his raw flesh.

"That was worse than getting shot, Doc," he said.

Buck pulled his shirt gingerly over his bound ribs. The pain had left now; there was only a sharp ache. He went to the jail. Sheriff Ike Jones had already thrown Jesse Smith into a cell, and was sitting with Tortilla Joe in the office. When Buck came in the lawman smiled briefly and said: "Well, we got the break we looked for, McKee. With what Smith knows, I can get a warrant from Judge Herdon for the arrest of Cavanaugh."

"Thought the judge was out of town?"
"He came in yesterday, sort of unexpected. Right off he held that inquest on the Hannegan case. The jury exonerated you two men."

"That means that we're not on bail any longer?"
"That's it."
Buck looked at Tortilla Joe. "Did you get Smith to talk again?"
"The Mexican spread his stubby fingers. 'He close up like a clam, B. K. Up een the heels, when I work hem over, he talk an' talk mucho. But now he does not open the mouth.'"

Buck smiled. "Did Tortilla Joe tell you what Smith told him, Jones?"
Jones was checking his 45. He broke the cylinder and looked at the loads. "Yeah, he told me. Buck So Len Cavanaugh and Shuffie Watson killed Hank Tuttle, huh? Hung him, and then threw him in with that stallion to make it look as if the horse tropped him to death."

"They kept Joe too," said the Mexican. "Smith tol' me so."
"Rolled a big boulder down on him," said Buck angrily. "Kynamited the ridge and sent the rock flying! Hank an' Joe were darned nice boys, too. I knew them from down south. I reckon we'll have to ride out to Cavanaugh's Jones."

"No you don't, McKee," Jones said quietly.
"Why not?"
"I'm the law here, and don't forget that. I'm getting a warrant from Judge Herdon. Then I'm riding out to the Slashed Box 8 to serve it."

"We'll go with you," offered Buck.
Jones shook his head. "Never had a deputy ride with me to arrest a man for murder. Buck. If I can't take Len Cavanaugh in, I'll hand in my star. Or," he smiled bleakly, "they'll tote me up the hill feet first in a pine box."

"All right. But if you go down—" "I won't," Jones got his spurs from his desk, tightened the straps. "We'll have Smith on the stand. He'll talk to save his own neck. His words'll hang Len Cavanaugh." They went outside, with Jones carrying his rifle. "You boys better get out to the herd and help Jim Tuttle. He drove outlast way about two hours ago."

Buck and Tortilla Joe went to the hotel to see Mart. Sheriff Ike Jones went to the livery barn, threw his saddle on an iron-gray gelding, pulled the straps tight. He stuck his rifle in saddle-boot and went out the back way. Riding down an alley, he dismounted behind a house, tying the gelding to the white picket fence.

A few minutes later, armed with the warrant, he rode out of town, heading west. He rode at a running-walk, heavy and deep in the saddle. The day was turning cool, for the sun was getting low.

Already the sheriff's thoughts were running ahead and building his plan of action. Len Cavanaugh, he figured, would not know that his plan had backfired—that Shuffie Watson was dead, and that Jesse Smith had talked. There.

fore, the rancher should not be on guard. Ike Jones tried to remember if he had seen a Slashed Box 8 rider in town when Buck and Tortilla Joe had brought in the dead man and their prisoner. But he could not recall seeing a Cavanaugh rider in Beaverton any time that day.

He shifted in saddle, let his weight rest on the other stirrup. There was no hurry, no unrest; he let the iron-gray hit a running-walk; the horse could cover ground. The fact that night was coming on did not disturb Jones. The night, he knew, would help him. Under its cover, he could come up to the Slashed Box 8 ranch house without fear of being seen.

Time had worked out the solution, as time solves all things, the sheriff reflected. Now the weight had left him, and with it had gone the uncertainty, the unrest, caused by waiting. In its place was a calmness, a feeling of security about the future and the peace that was to follow.

He came to the point where Milk river angled across the basin, moving east into the hills for its meeting with the Missouri, some sixty miles away.

Ike Jones came to the edge of the muddy river. His horse lowered its head and drank in a calm pool between rocks near the bank. Then the beast, its thirst quenched, took to the water. The river had gone down that afternoon, but was still above its usual run.

The roar of the water, leaping into the rapids below, made a steady pounding against the sheriff's ears. The hoofs of his horse kicked spray around him.

He knew the crossing well. When the big rocks, there in the middle of the stream, showed any part above water, then the horse would not need to swim.
He rode forward.

Ring Veteran Lost Round To Four-Month-Old Baby

New York, Dec. 26—(AP)—Robert Allen Barker, four-months old, better known as "the kid", scored an easy technical knockout of Frankie Neve, veteran of 200 ring fights, in a Christmas Eve babysitting bout in Brooklyn. Barker weighed in at 16 pounds, his 45-year old opponent at 126 pounds. The match was fought in Neve's four-room flat.

The encounter occurred after Neve agreed to watch the child "until midnight" for the friend of a friend. Following momma's advice, Neve trained for the fight with road work to the store for a supply of diapers and evaporated milk.

But the preparation did Neve little good. "In my time I fight over 200 fights, said Neve yesterday. "I fight guys like Peley Herman and Tony Canzoneri and I do pretty good. But I can't figure out this kid's style.

"I try to rock him and he gives me the clinch. I try to out-fox him but he's way ahead of me. Even when I get him flat on his back what happens? He gets up. That's discouraging.

"This kid is no sucker for that evaporated milk. When I try to feed him, he coughs and gets me worried. Next thing he runs out a sheet to make more diapers for him, and he runs out of them, too."

When mother did not show up at midnight, Neve said he stayed right in there punching. But he finally threw in the towel at 8 a. m. yesterday, conceding defeat.

He took Robert off to the nearest police station, from where the infant was sent to the New York Foundling Hospital.

Then police sought to find the child's mother, but only located the grandmother, Mrs. Harold Flynn, of Brooklyn. They said if Mrs. Barker does not show up today for Robert they may file abandonment charges against her.

Five Defendants Freed On Bonds

At the last session of Police Court, Friday, Judge J. W. H. Roberts found probable cause against five defendants charged with breaking into the Gold Leaf Warehouse, 14th and Charles streets, about two weeks ago, and the larceny of about 200 bags of seed soybeans, valued at $1,500.

The defendants are listed on the docket as Bennie Lee Eubanks, (three charges); Jimmy Rogers Skinner and Garland Skinner, (brothers); Obie Lee Anderson and Jesse Bryant Williams. The quintet provided $500 bail and were released.

Four white defendants pleaded guilty to gambling and possession of non-tax paid whiskey. They are Edward Harrell, Carey J. Tripp, George A. Newby and Elbert Lee Pollard. Each paid $15.

Assault on a female: Elijah Ebron, colored, called and failed. A capias was issued for him; Dick Baker, colored, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15 and he was ordered to be of good behavior for six months.

Drunk: George Dunn, Jr., called and failed and a capias was issued for him; Noah H. Stokes, 30 days, suspended and he was placed on probation for a year. He was ordered to work regularly and not drink liquor; William T. Davenport, drunk on highway, $15.

Clifton J. Griffin, forgery of a $10 check, probable cause and he was bound over to Superior Court under bond.

R. C. Smith was not guilty of vagrancy.

Ernest F. Harrison, reckless driving, called and failed. A capias was issued for him.

The next session of Police Court will be the traffic court Wednesday morning.

Wonderful Weather

Colder weather prevailed in the Greenville area this Christmas than last year. The highest temperature here yesterday—Christmas Day—was 54 degrees. Lowest last night was 30 and at 8 a. m. today the mercury stood at 32 degrees. Clear weather and sunshine prevailed. The highest temperature here yesterday one year ago was 52 degrees. The lowest that night was 48, and at 8 a. m. the next day the temperature stood at 51 degrees. Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau, reported today.

Call For Day Of Prayer Spreads

New York, Dec. 26—(AP)—A call for mass prayer on the eve of a new half century spread today across a troubled United States.

With the nation caught in the tightening coils of world conflict, hundreds of thousands of Americans planned to begin the new year with an invocation rather than revelry. To them, Dec. 31, 1950, will be a day of prayer.

The National Council of Churches of Christ of America, representing more than 31,000,000 members in 29 Orthodox and Protestant denominations, said yesterday that its call for the special prayer day has brought nationwide response.

"At the same time," said the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, council president, "spontaneous movements for daily prayer are developing in all parts of the country and reflect a recognition of the need of mankind for God's guidance."

Third Brother In Family Is Killed

Gastonia, N. C., Dec. 26—(AP)—Charles Lewis, 16, died of gunshot wounds Christmas Day, the third brother in a family of eight children to die accidentally within recent years.

Coroner W. G. McLean said that Charles died of wounds accidentally inflicted by a companion while they were in a boat in the South Fork River near here. Several months ago Charles' brother also was accidentally shot to death, and a few years ago another brother drowned in the river.

No Fire Alarms Over Christmas

The Greenville Fire Department today reported a very quiet holiday period with no fire alarms being turned in over the Christmas holidays.

Firemen stated that the city has been very lucky in the past few years in the fact that no serious fires have broken out during the yule season.

Reservists' Unit Not Yet Frozen

In spite of rumors, the local unit of the Organized Reserve Corps is still accepting men for enlistment. Sgt. G. T. Johnson reported this morning that as yet, the office has not received any information of a "freeze" or not being allowed to accept more personnel. As far as the sergeant knew, he had not heard of any other unit receiving such orders, either.

Colored News

Mrs. Christine Maultsby Fleming died suddenly at her daughter's home in New York City. The remains will arrive in Greenville Thursday morning. Funeral service will be at the home, corner of Reid and First streets, with Rev. P. H. Mumford officiating. Burial will follow in Brown Hill cemetery.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures FOR A LOW COST modern development house, this plan LV-712 was developed by Fisher and Frichtel, St. Louis, Mo., builders, for a $6,950 home on a 50 by 100 ft. lot. It was selected by Living for Young Homemakers' magazine, 122 E. 42nd St., New York 17, as a sound basic plan with three variations. One enlargement with breezeway and garage was produced for $7,950. Another with three bedrooms and garage for $8,850. The basic house covers only about 600 square feet and is planned for basementless construction.

Scout Troop For Falkland Planned

By CHESTER WALSH Members of the Falkland Ruritan Club and parents of boys of Boy Scout age will hold an important meeting at the Falkland School next Monday night (New Year's) at 7:30, Jack Hogarth, Boy Scout field executive, announced today.

He said the purpose of the meeting is to make plans for getting the Boy Scout troops there under way again. A Boy Scout promotional film will be shown and the value of Boy Scouting in Falkland will be discussed.

Members of the Boy Scout District Committee, including J. B. Kittrell, Erskine Duff and Wyatt Brown and others, will attend. They desire to meet the parents of boys of Boy Scout age in Falkland and vicinity. They want to talk with them about the fine things of Boy Scouting and point out to the parents what a world of good comes to a boy who becomes a Boy Scout and faithfully lives up to its principles.

A prominent businessman and a leader in Boy Scout activities here for many years said today, "An enterprising community like Falkland should support a Boy Scout troop that could hold its own in efficiency with any troop."

Delay Debate On Arming France

Paris, Dec. 26—(AP)—Communists teamed with Conservatives today in the National Assembly and won a delay in the debate on France's rearmament.

The cabinet of Premier Rene Pleven agreed reluctantly to delay the debate until tomorrow, although Pleven told the assembly it already had been delayed too long.

CASUALTY LIST

Washington, Dec. 26—(AP)—A Defense Department casualty list (No. 185) issued today carried 288 names. Of the total, 77 are dead, 126 wounded, 62 missing and 23 injured in war zone accidents.

heavily on German reluctance to be the battleground for a new war. It will capitalize on French fears of a rearmaged Germany. It will prey upon the dread in Italy that, having staggered to her feet following the last explosion she may be struck down again.

Such a campaign would develop fairly slowly and as subtly as the communists could manage it. It would not be signalled by any loud fanfare which would put western Socialists on the alert. It would be maneuvered in such a way that the Socialists would believe it was their own idea to close ranks against rearmament, or whatever.

Such a campaign also would strengthen the communists in France and Italy, where they already are strong. Joining a common front with the Socialists would enable them to gain an aura of respectability among the liberal elements, such as they had in the prewar Popular Front days.

WITH THE PASSING of each year, a great mass of facts are added to man's increasing store of knowledge. Not over seventy-five years ago a man of superior intelligence could possess a working knowledge of all of science. Now, however, the realm of the known is so vast that it is necessary for men to specialize in order to master one small but deep corner of scientific knowledge.

Thus we have the physician, who diagnoses disease and prescribes medication and treatment. The pharmacist compounds and dispenses. Both the physician and the pharmacist benefit greatly from the researches of the biologist, the chemist, the physiologist, and the physicist, to name but a few. Through the teamwork of the allied sciences, increasingly better medical service for all is assured.
