U. S. Intent In Korea Unchanged

No 'Voluntary Withdrawal' Is Official Attitude Despite News Report

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—The official U. S. attitude toward the military action in Korea remains unchanged: There will be no "voluntary withdrawal," and American forces will fight on as long as possible.

Informed officials reiterated this basic policy yesterday after the Defense Department denied a Chicago Daily News report from Tokyo that Gen. Douglas MacArthur was understood to have recommended to Washington a prompt withdrawal.

Keyes Beech, veteran correspondent for the Chicago paper, said today he would "stand on the story" despite denials. His statement followed a declaration in Tokyo by Col. M. P. Echols, MacArthur's public information officer, that Beech's story was "a figment of the writer's imagination." Beech said he had it from "authoritative sources."

The restatement of the policy laid down by President Truman early last month apparently means that the military is planning to hold on to a beachhead around the southern port city of Pusan as long as possible.

It is understood that some military men have argued in policy councils that a voluntary withdrawal might minimize losses to U. S. and United Nations forces and permit concentration of forces elsewhere in the Communist-plagued Far East.

On the other hand, although the U. N. troops are falling back before vastly greater numbers of Chinese and Korean Reds, it is believed here they have a lot of fighting power left.

And as yet there has been no decisive battle.

In view of that fact, Washington officials believe the U. N. army will shortly make a stand. With its supply and communications lines shortened, it would be in a generally stronger defensive posture than at any time since the Chinese Communist assault began.

At the same time, Communist supply lines strung back to Manchuria would provide a vulnerable target to air strikes. It is not impossible that such a situation if fully exploited might result in a great weakening of the Chinese war potential in this and any other theater of action.

Suggests 'Glow' As Safety Plan

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—An Iowa psychologist said today that highway collisions might be reduced by making vehicles "glow" in the dark.

Dr. Donald Hoppe suggested in a report on experiments conducted at Iowa State College that "reflective sheeting" applied to the rear ends of all vehicles would make them visible from greater distances. This sheeting, consisting of hundreds of tiny glass beads adhering to a plastic backing, is designed to reflect the glow of oncoming headlights. It is now used to some extent by trucks.

Indochina Said 'Next'

Chinese Communists Reportedly Preparing To Invade French Indochina; Objectives Are Many; Part of Overall Asiatic Program; Area Has Vast Natural Wealth

Chinese Nationalist headquarters on Formosa report that the Peiping communist regime shows strong signs of preparing to invade French Indochina.

Such a military move would represent a highly significant development in the Bolshevik upheaval which is shaking the whole vast Asiatic theatre. One of its most important aspects is that it indicates the Bolshevik determination to seize and maintain the initiative in the Far Eastern conflict.

The immediate objective of such an invasion of Indochina would be to evict the French, who have controlled that rich area for the greater part of half a century, and establish the communist insurgents with whom the French now are fighting. This would be a considerable step in the Red program of driving all "capitalist" nations from Asia—France, Britain, Holland and America.

As the signs read, other countries have been slated for similar "liberation." Among those potentialities are Burma, Siam, Malaya,

Bald Eagle From The South, Suh, In Far East

(Maj.) William E. Bethea from Latta, S. C., executive officer of a U. S. Air Force squadron in southern Japan, isn't the least bit sensitive about his bald head. Commonwealth Heads Talk Up Meeting Of China, U. S.

Proposed Conference Would Be Under U. N. Auspices; Seek To Avoid Fresh Setbacks

London, Jan. 11—(AP)—Informed sources reported today the British Commonwealth nations have proposed a high level meeting between the United States and Red China to discuss a Korean settlement.

The proposed get-together would be under United Nations auspices, the informants said.

Neither the United States nor Red China has so far reacted to the suggestion.

The new move apparently has the support of the leaders of all nine British Commonwealth nations who have been discussing the tense situation in the Orient and in the rest of the world in a conference which began here last Thursday.

Few details of the proposal were available, but its immediate objectives were clear.

It would seek to avoid formulation in the United Nations of a new cease-fire resolution which might prove unacceptable to either the U. S. or Red China. It would seek to defer offering of a projected U. S. resolution to have the U. S. brand communist China an aggressor.

Britain, the Commonwealth and many western nations would find it difficult to support such a resolution. Some have recognized the Peiping government. All want to keep out of a limited or open war against Red China. They fear labeling communist China an aggressor eventually would lead to imposition of economic sanctions against China, which could be a step to war.

The Commonwealth Prime Ministers have been studying a set of principles which Britain and India are said to feel would help end the Korean war.

The Hague, The Netherlands, Jan. 11—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower went by plane to Denmark today after talks with Dutch leaders on Holland's contributions to his Atlantic alliance army.

In a statement to the press before taking off from Schiphol Airport, Eisenhower urged free nations to organize for the preservation of peace so that "in an atmosphere of security" living standards can be raised and "social and political gains be attained."

Referring to the 12-nation Atlantic alliance he said "anyone making a survey of the spiritual and material resources cannot doubt of success."

Two American destroyers, J. R. Pierce and Moale, arrived in Copenhagen this morning from Portland, Eng. They will take Eisenhower on to Oslo, Norway, should weather conditions prevent his departure by plane.

New Delay In UN Quest For Korean Settlement

Lake Success, Jan. 11—(AP)—The U. N. today faced a new delay in its quest for a Korean peace settlement.

The General Assembly's 60-nation political committee was scheduled to meet at 3 p. m. (EST), but informed quarters said it probably would adjourn until next week because no one had any formal proposals ready yet.

The situation was this: The Assembly's three-member cease-fire committee has a 6-point truce plan, but wasn't ready to submit it, because India's Sir Benegal Rau wanted to get an okay first from his chief, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Israel had a similar 7-point plan, but did not want to formalize it in a resolution unless it received substantial support.

The United States had a plan, calling for condemnation of communist China as an aggressor, but wanted to give the U. N. another chance to seek a cease-fire.

The picture was complicated further by the fact that the whole Far Eastern problem was under consideration by the conference of British Commonwealth premiers in London. Many delegates felt they should at least wait until the Commonwealth diplomats had received word of any decisions which might affect their attitude.

and even the Philippines. All this represents a part of the general expansion projected by the Moscow-Peiping partnership.

General Mao Tse-Tung, the Chinese communist leader, presumably is thinking partly in terms of establishing a protective cordon of satellite nations about Red China. And there are many observers who also believe he may quietly be reaching for the leadership of all Asia.

One of the material advantages which communism would gain by evicting the French from Indochina would be the acquisition of one of the world's "rice bowls." And this would come at a time when there is a great scarcity of rice, which is the staple food of many Asiatic countries.

However, important as is this food aspect, it undoubtedly is secondary to the general program of expanding the Red Empire. Such a move is calculated, for one thing, to keep the non-communist nations

City Now Selling Its Waste Paper

New Revenue Source Also Helps In Nat'l Emergency

The city of Greenville has begun selling its scrap paper... to help with the national emergency and to produce new revenue for the city.

Negotiations were completed this week by Mayor W. E. Stafford and Street Superintendent C. K. Beatty whereby the city's scrap paper will be sold to a Kinston concern dealing in the scrap paper business.

Approximately 3,500 pounds of scrap paper was sold by the city Tuesday and about the same amount yesterday.

Beatty said the street department began Monday night collecting scrap paper to be sold by the city. He explained that so far the only scrap paper which is being collected by the street department is that which is found in the trash boxes of the stores in the business section of the city.

"We're getting about 3.00" pounds to 3,500 pounds of paper from the business district every night," Beatty commented "but we haven't been getting any scrap paper from the homes except in garbage, and we can't stop to pick that out to sell."

Mayor Stafford and Street Superintendent Beatty urged the residents of the city to save their old newspapers and magazines for collection and sale by the city.

Beatty said the old magazines and newspapers should be tied together and placed where they can be collected by members of the street department.

He said the scrap paper will be collected daily on the regular garbage collection schedule. "If the paper is bundled," Beatty explained, "the men can keep the paper and the garbage separate so the scrap paper can be sold. It will take more work for the men in the street department, but we're willing to do it if it will help the city any."

At the present time the city is selling its scrap paper for $4 a ton piled up at the city dump. Beatty said if the city could collect enough scrap to justify its being delivered to Kinston, Greenville could get $16 a ton for it.

And if the scrap paper were delivered to the dealer already baled, the city would receive $24 a ton for it.

The woman Assistant Secretary of Defense said the presidential directive would ask industry, agriculture, military and civilian groups to conserve available manpower.

Mrs. Rosenberg, who was brought to the Defense Department as a manpower expert, mentioned the prospective new order at a Senate hearing in response to a question from Senator Stennis (D-Miss.) as to plans for draft deferment of young men engaged in farm work.

Stennis wanted to know whether sufficient young farm workers would be deferred to produce the increased food and farm crops that will be needed for the expanding mobilization program.

Mrs. Rosenberg did not elaborate to the senators on her statement and would give no details to reporters, who questioned her later.

Record Bids At Auction Of Wool

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 11—(AP)—The world record price for greasy Merino wool was broken five times today in an astonishing bidding sequence at the Sydney wool auction.

A new record high of 302 Australian pence ($2.87) per pound was reached twice in the first half hour of the sale. Earlier in the session, prices ranged up to 297 pence ($2.82).

The previous record high was 290 pence ($2.75) set in Geelong on Nov. 16.

Solon Proposes Six-To-One Ratio In Defense Plan

Senator Suggests Ten U. S. Divisions For Sixty From Western Europe

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) proposed today a six-to-one ratio for arming Western Europe against Communist aggression with the United States ultimately furnishing 10 divisions and the other North Atlantic nations 60.

Knowland said it was vital that Western Europe not be allowed to fall into Communist hands, but he held that the bulk of the defensive land forces should be furnished by the Europeans themselves.

"If war comes," he said, "we must then do with our air, sea and land forces what the strategic necessities require in support of our commitments. We will not let our allies down nor must they let us down."

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery Knowland pleaded for unity within this country and between the free nations of the world, saying history has taught us "we must hang together or be hanged separately."

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee also expected to deliver a foreign policy speech during the day.

Senate Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona likewise planned a speech on foreign affairs. He told reporters yesterday it would be primarily a plea for harmony and unity.

Knowland, a vigorous critic of Administration Far Eastern policy, strongly urged a reconciliation of differences between Congress members and the Administration on all foreign issues.

He said no effective foreign or national defense policy could be formulated or executed without cooperation.

The California lawmaker took a stand with New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and John Foster Dulles, adviser to Secretary of State Acheson, in opposition to a foreign policy pronouncement by former President Herbert Hoover. All three are Republicans.

First Shower Of Bills In Assembly

Organization Nearly Complete, Legislative Work Begins

Raleigh, N.C., Jan. 11—(AP)—With its organization virtually completed by the appointment of House committees, the Legislature was deluged yesterday with its first shower of bills.

Among legislative proposals sent forward was a Senate bill to permit voting by 18-year-olds. Two young senators, H. Fountain of Edgecombe and Wills Hancock of Granville, introduced the measure.

If approved by the Legislature the question of lowering the voting age from 21 years would be submitted to the voters of the state in the next general election.

Although Governor Scott and Secretary of State Thad Eure have declared themselves for voting by 18-year-olds, the proposal is expected to meet stiff opposition in the General Assembly.

In all, 11 bills and three resolutions hit the House hopper yesterday. Activity was almost as brisk in the Senate where nine bills and two resolutions were introduced.

An indication of things to come came in the announcement by Attorney General Harry McMillan that his office force is aiding legislators in the preparation of about 25 bills a day.

Order Registration Of Medical Men Under 50

Doctors, Dentists, Veterinarians To Register With Draft Board Monday; Will Be Subject To Induction If Needed

Registration with the local draft board has been ordered for all doctors, dentists and veterinarians under 50 years of age in Pitt County.

Medical men in those three categories will register Monday morning and afternoon for possible service with the Armed Forces. The order was received yesterday by local board No. 75 from draft director General Lewis B. Hershey.

According to records of the county medical society, of which veterinarians are not members, the number of men required to register Monday is about 30. The registrants are in six classifications: bachelors of medicine, doctors of medicine, doctors of dental surgery and medicine, and doctors of veterinary surgery and medicine.

The order also requires all persons getting their degrees in the six classifications after Monday to register the day they are graduated or within five days thereafter. The order does not require men to register who previously registered under "first priority" during October of last year.

Following the registration, the board will notify the State Selective Service Board in Raleigh of the number of registrants. Thereafter, they will be subject to induction in the Armed Forces should such a call come from Washington.

The previous registration took four men from Pitt and 300 from North Carolina. State draft headquarters stated yesterday by the time the new registration is completed the previous draft will have been exhausted.

The local board is located on the third floor of the City Hall. Registration will be held between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Meanwhile, the board released the names of delinquents from the pre-induction contingent of 215 men who were processed in Raleigh Tuesday. Their names, with listed addresses, follow:

New Hospital Drive To Be Finished By Jan. 18

An extra driveway on the west side of Pitt Memorial Hospital Hospital grounds will be constructed by paving contractors for the hospital with completion expected in time for dedication ceremonies next Thursday.

It was announced by C. Stuart Carr, Jr., past board of trustees chairman, that the extra paving will be done by Barrus and White Construction companies of Kinston. The new drive will connect the west end of the front parking lot with the Falkland highway, giving the parking lot a separate entrance and exit drive.

Carr stated the two construction companies are doing the work free of charge. Both had contacted him, he said, and stated they would donate the extra work. Carr said both companies had assured him the drive will be usable by the time the dedication is held.

When it is completed, the drive will empty out of the large parking lot on the front of the building.

Prize Bugle

Western Korea, Jan. 11—(AP)—An American infantry company captured a Chinese bugler complete with bugle.

The company had sent it to a battalion. The battalion had given it to the regimental commander. He had presented it to the division commander, who had turned it over to the corps commander. The latter gave it to the commanding general of the Turkish brigade.

The commander of the Turkish brigade said he had rushed the bugle back to Turkey for presentation to the Turkish chief of staff.

Emerges Scarred, But Victorious After Seesaw Battle South Of Wonju; Western Sector Still Poses Menace As Chinese Continue Build-Up

Tokyo, Jan. 11—(AP)—Allied forces hacked out a holding line on the critical central Korean front today after a seesaw battle south of Wonju.

The battle front was uneasily quiet late in the day. The snow-caped valley and hills were spotted with the blood of 2,100 killed and wounded Korean Reds.

American, French and Dutch troops dealt out death to the enemy in a seven-hour fight that developed after a tank-led U. S. Second Division patrol pushed into the abandoned road-rail hub of Wonju and then voluntarily withdrew. At one stage, the Americans fixed bayonets and charged.

Patrol "Jumped" More than 7,000 North Koreans jumped the company-size entry patrol south of Wonju on the road to Chongju. The patrol was reinforced by the other allied forces and the Reds broke off the battle Wednesday night.

But the greatest menace to allied arms was the western Korean red forces, 35,000 were in an apparent bid to cut off the main forces of the U. S. Eighth Army on the road south of abandoned Seoul.

In that area roads fan out through the hills, affording many avenues of approach to the allied forces.

Chinese Strategy AP correspondent John Randolph said the Chinese evidently hope to force the Eighth Army to accept battle in the mountain country suitable for the use of night-fighting Red infantrymen.

Six Chinese armies were in the general western area, south of north and west of Wonju. This force included wiry Mongolian cavalrymen. Intelligence officers said 500 Chinese planes and 300 tanks are available to back the push.

Another hint that the Reds may be about to challenge allied mastery of the Korean skies came in far north Korea. Fifteen Russian-made MIG-15 jet fighters attacked a B-29 Superfortress as it lagged behind a formation because of engine trouble.

Few Air Sorties The B-29 took cover in a cloud bank but its gunners reported the possible kill of one jet. The bombers had dumped more than 100 tons of explosives on the airfield at Pyongyang, Korea Red capital, and other cities in North Korea.

Except for the bombing raids and few attacks sorties, allied warplanes had been grounded for two days because of snow and rain. But fighters returned to the fray Thursday and caught hundreds of Reds in the open.

Ten Navy planes dived through a hole in the clouds and plastered Red troops on the Wonju front. U. S. Fifth Air Force fighters fanned out against enemy troops and supplies in the Seoul area.

Heartening Victory The blistering local defeat handed the Reds three to four miles south of Wonju was heartening, although the overall picture was grim. Eighth Army headquarters called the action a "successful operation." A foot of overnight snowfall added to the GI miseries.

General MacArthur's headquarters said it was a counterattack aimed at throwing the enemy off balance.

After the Reds broke off the engagement, the allied line was stabilized two miles south of Wonju.

pay the landlord some, if not all, the rent.

A lease on a house or apartment or business place— You can break the lease by notifying the landlord you're going in to uniform but, unless the landlord is willing, the lease can't be ended until 30 days after the next rent payment is due.

In some cases a landlord might think breaking the lease so soon would work a hardship on him. For example: If he spent a lot in decorating the place.

In such a case he might go to court. If the judge thinks the landlord would suffer a hardship by such a fast lease-break, he can order the lease to stay in effect longer than "30 days after the next payment is due."

Some More Questions And Answers On Debt Problems Of Men Called Into The Military Service; Rents Mortgages, Leases And Buying By Installments

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—Here are some questions and answers about the debt problems of men called into military service.

The answers here come from government experts in this field: Rent— Suppose you're called into service and find, because your military pay is less than you made as a civilian, that you can't keep on paying the same rent for your family. Is the family thrown out?

Not unless you're protected under the law, but only if the civilian landlord was less than $80 a month. If it was over $80, you get no protection. So this deal is only with under-$80 rent people.

A landlord can't throw your family out unless he goes to court and then unless the judge says he can throw your family out.

The judge can do a number of things: Let your family stay on indefinitely, let the family stay on three months or longer before letting the landlord put them out, or tell the armed forces to set aside some of your pay every month to

Dr. Howard Clay Discusses Child Citizen At Third Street School PTA Meeting

Dr. Howard Clay, of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, was the speaker for the afternoon of the Third Street School PTA meeting in the school auditorium on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, president, opened the meeting with a message from the State President, Mr. Russell Grumman, of Chapel Hill, in which he stressed the importance of the legislation that is to be presented at the present session of the N.C. General Assembly and asked that PTAs support the bills that affect the school administrations and the pupils. In his message, Mr. Grumman emphasized the fact that parents and teachers should never lower the bars in the fight for democracy and freedom.

Mrs. Burke Stancill's third grade gave the devotional for the afternoon. The theme was the love for parents and was presented in song and union reading.

Mrs. Sam Northrup introduced Dr. Clay, who spoke about training children for citizenship in a democracy. He traced the fight that people of past generations made to secure democratic freedoms and pointed out that the struggle has never been, and is not now, an easy thing. The sacrifices which were made to assure individual liberties, justice from tyranny and the freedoms outlined in the Bill of Rights make possible the life that is enjoyed by democratic countries today.

But, Dr. Clay continued, one must continue to fight and train future generations how to obtain and hold such privileges and the accompanying duties and responsibilities.

The speaker spoke of the misconceived interpretations of John Dewey's principles of progressive education and expressed his opinion that no reliable, responsible citizenry can be developed without early teaching children restraint and conformance to laws governing society.

The responsibilities for training children as decent, helpful citizens rests primarily on home training, where they need to be taught discipline, conformity to laws governing living together harmoniously, and the privileges and duties required of one as a member of a group. The schools also must train the pupils along these lines, and the churches are the third agency which have the most influence on character training for the citizen child.

Mr. Gaylor, an ECTC student, made an announcement about the production soon to be presented by the Teachers Playhouse. The play, "Our Town," will be given on Friday and Saturday nights, January 19 and 20, and on Tuesday, January 23.

Following this announcement a business session was held. Routine reports were given and the president announced plans for a study course sponsored by the PTA City Council. The course will deal with the primary, pre-adolescent and the adolescent child. It will be taught in three sessions, with the first one taking place on Tuesday, February 20, at the Third Street School, Thursday, February 22, at the Training School, and Friday, February 23, at the West Greenville School. At the concluding session on Friday, the PTA of St. Raphael's School will serve refreshments.

Mrs. Vance Perkins announced the meeting of the United Forces for Education to be held in Raleigh on Saturday, January 13, and urged all who could to attend.

Before the meeting was adjourned, an attendance count was made and the prize awarded to Mrs. Burke Stancill's third grade.

Mrs. W. R. Williams of Nashville spent Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Eagles.

Mrs. Johanne Gardner and Elaine spent Monday with Mrs. Joe Gay of Farmville.

A guinea chicken belonging to Mrs. W. R. Smith got out Monday afternoon, and when pursued took refuge on top of a telephone pole in front of the court house square. A crowd of curious people gathered on the corner to view the fowl which looked down upon them from its high perch with apparent contentment. Showing no inclination to come down, Mr. W. S. Moye got a small rifle and brought the fowl down with the first shot.

Georgia Neese Clark Chosen As Subject For Discussion At Meeting Of Inter Se

As her contribution to the club's study of outstanding women of today, Mrs. Neese Clark, first woman treasurer of the United States, when the Inter Se Book club met on Tuesday, January 2, at the home of Mrs. Webb.

Mrs. Clark, daughter of a one-time hired farm hand who rose to great prominence in Richland, Kansas, after the turn of the century, was appointed in a surprise move by President Truman in June, 1949, to the important post of U. S. treasurer following the death of Treasurer W. A. Julian in a car accident. She had practical experience in banking and finance when she took over the presidency of the local Richland bank at the death of her father, who had founded it. She also managed the town's general store, a grain elevator and a large farm. Thus she is well qualified as a successful and enterprising business woman.

Her appointment indirectly came through the influence of Mrs. India Edwards, director of the Woman's Division of the Democratic National committee. Mrs. Edwards had long stressed the importance of women in the political life of the country and has been regarded as responsible for stressing the capability of women for public office. It was she who first informed Mrs. Clark that the President was going to nominate her for the post of treasurer.

"The office of the treasurer of the U. S. is essentially a banking facility for the government," explained Mrs. Webb in her talk. "Responsibilities of the treasurer include the receipts of all public moneys; the custody, issuance and redemption of U. S. currency and coins; the payment of government checks; the custody of securities deposited in the treasury as collateral or for safe keeping; and the payment of principal and interest on the public debt. The office of the treasurer of the United States prepares the daily statement of the U. S. treasury, which recapitulates government finance and issues monthly statements of the public debt and of currency outstanding."

In concluding her informative talk about Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Webb stated, "Georgia Neese Clark typifies American womanhood, conscientiously serving her government."

A brief business session, conducted by Mrs. Reynolds May, president, followed the presentation of the paper. The club members were then invited into the dining room by the hostess for refreshments.

Mrs. Tyson Bilbro poured coffee and guests served themselves to chicken salad in patty shells, cheese straws, and nut cake with whipped cream.

Training School PTA Hears Panel Program Conducted By Welfare Dept. Workers

The PTA of the Training School met in regular monthly session in the new auditorium on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. A large crowd was in attendance to hear the panel discussion on the "Citizen Child."

The meeting was opened with group singing of "America." A devotional, the theme of which was the "Goodness of God," was given by Mrs. W. H. Taft. During the business session conducted by Mrs. Dink James, president, the treasurer reported a balance of $648.98 in the treasury. Mrs. J. O. Howard, publications chairman, reported that 26 members were regular subscribers to the PTA magazine, while Mrs. J. B. Jackson, membership chairman, reported that 260 families were represented in the organization, which has an enrollment of 375 members. Mrs. I. B. Boone made an announcement about the United Forces for Education meeting to be held in Raleigh on Saturday for the purpose of formulating plans for endorsing bills to be presented at the current session of the General Assembly that affect the schools and laws governing the rights and protections of minors.

Mrs. James made public the plans for the annual study course that is sponsored by the City PTA Council. These classes will be held during the week of February 19-23 and will deal with problems concerning the school child up through adolescence. The council is working to secure authoritative speakers for each session and it is hoped that the members of the city's PTA will enroll for the courses. Definite plans will be published at a later date.

The program topic for the afternoon was "The Citizen Child" and Mrs. J. F. Arthur, program chairman, presented Miss Georgia Hughes and Mrs. Evelyn Glenn, of the Welfare Department, who conducted a question-and-answer forum concerning the laws made for the benefit and protection of children. In the panel discussion laws that are in effect were explained and made clear. Questions from the floor were answered concerning the employment of minors and other matters relative to the protection of children guaranteed by the laws.

Miss Hughes, in concluding, stressed some of the urgent needs that are not now provided in our community. Among the ones she mentioned were a school nurse to work with the parents in the home, boarding homes for children who are not adequately cared for, a juvenile court for handling delinquent children and a larger, more far-reaching recreation program.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Miss Wahl, Training School principal, made the announcement that, barring some other unforeseen difficulty, the school cafeteria will open on Monday.

The meeting was then adjourned by the president.

Southern Senators Lead Drive To Kill One Aspect Of Poll Tax

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—Senator Holland (D-Fla.) planned to introduce legislation today aimed at abolition of the requirement in seven states that poll taxes be paid as a prerequisite for voting in federal elections.

Holland told a reporter that 11 other southern Democratic senators are co-sponsors of the measure. They are Senators Smathers of Florida, George of Georgia, O'Connor of Maryland, Byrd and Robertson of Virginia, McClellan and Fulbright of Arkansas, Ellender and Long of Louisiana, Hoey and Smith of North Carolina.

Holland said abolition of the requirement in South Carolina is "imminent."

"He made it clear that the amendment he proposes would apply only to federal elections.

"There is no thought," he said, "of interfering with the handling of local problems."

Holland said that South Carolina had a constitutional provision requiring payment of poll taxes in order to vote but that the voters approved an amendment repealing it.

"I am advised," he said, "that the South Carolina legislature, which is now in session, must approve the action of the electorate in the November election, and that such approval appears to be imminent."

Holland said he had been assured by other southern Democrats that they would support the proposal.

The same legislation—a joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment—was introduced by Holland last year but died in committee. At that time it had the support of nine other southern Democrats.

At the present time the states requiring payment of poll taxes as a prerequisite for voting are Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and

No Life-Or-Death Choice For Parents Says Clinic

Rochester, Minn., Jan. 11—(AP)—Four year old Carolyn Purcell isn't going to lose her eyes, and cancer, believed threatening her life, doesn't even exist in her case.

That was the joyous report given by Mayo Clinic specialists yesterday to Carolyn's mother, Mrs. Frank Purcell of Alpharetta, Ga., after eight hours of examination at the medical center.

The happy mother and daughter were to leave Rochester by airplane today for Chicago where they will board another plane for Atlanta, arriving there tonight.

Mrs. Purcell brought Carolyn here by plane late Tuesday with a grim choice tormenting her mind. She had been told by doctors in Atlanta that Carolyn must either undergo surgery to have her eyes removed or die of cancer.

The 33 year old mother and her husband, an unemployed stonemason, refused to consent to the operation.

Days of anguish followed. Examination at the Mayo Clinic was suggested, but the Purcells had little money.

The Shriners in Atlanta stepped in and supplied money for a plane trip.

Early Wednesday morning Carolyn and her mother reported at the clinic. Mrs. Purcell followed the little girl step by step through eight hours of examination. When it was all over, clinic doctors said there was no evidence of cancer.

They said there was an inflammatory reaction within the child's eyes which has impaired Carolyn's sight. They indicated it can be corrected by treatment.

The weary mother said little aloud when given the favorable report. She whispered, "Thank God," and then moved her lips, obviously in prayer. Mrs. Purcell took her daughter immediately to their hotel room for their first night's sleep in weeks.

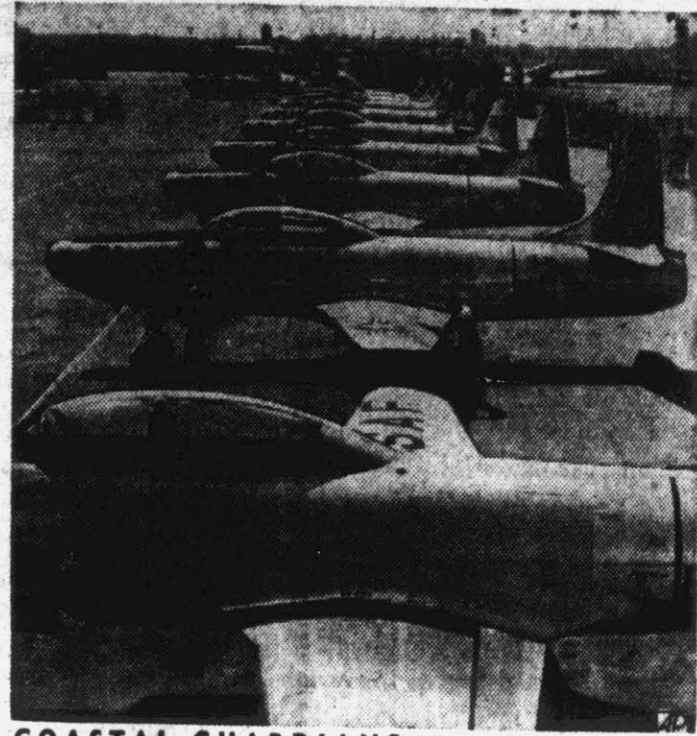

Shipyard Plans

Wilmington, Jan. 11—(AP)—A $6,000,000 renovation of the World War II shipyard here will begin immediately, according to Rep. F. Ertel Carlyle, (D-NC).

Carlyle said yesterday that the Maritime Administration would reactivate the shipyard for the construction of fast type cargo ships.

Carlyle said that every other shipyard in the yard would be removed to make room for the new type ships, which are larger than the Liberty and Victory ships built here during World War II.

The $20,000,000 yard at present has nine shipways. At peak production during the last war, 30,000 persons were employed at the yard.

Appear In Behalf Of Polio Drive

Programs in behalf of the Pitt March of Dimes campaign were presented Tuesday night to the Falkland and Grifton PTA organizations by members of the East Carolina student body.

At the meeting of the Falkland PTA, presided over by the president Mrs. Bert Little, County Chairman Dr. E. R. Browning talked to the members of the organization about the March of Dimes and pointed out the plight of the Pitt county chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis foundation. He pointed out that the county has had an unusually high number of hospitalized polio cases during the past year and the county polio funds are practically exhausted.

A music program by Marietta Hooper of Elizabeth City, Allison Hearne of Greenville and George Stalling of Roxboro, all ECTC students, was presented as a part of the meeting.

At the meeting of the Grifton PTA on Tuesday night, Ray Sears, a member of the ECTC Forensic club spoke to the group on the March of Dimes campaign which will begin in Pitt county on Monday.

Officers Fear 2 More Slain By 'Mad Killer'

El Centro, Calif., Jan. 11—(AP)—Desperado William E. (Bill) Cook may have added two more victims to the list of killings attributed to him, Sheriff Robert W. Ware said today.

Formally charged with murder and kidnaping in Oklahoma, Cook is still being hunted California's Imperial Valley and across the border in Mexico.

Sheriff Ware's theory is that the 22-year-old Joplin, Mo., ex-convict may have done away with two missing El Centro prospectors and seized their automobile for his flight.

The prospectors, Forrest Damon, 32, and James Burke, 33, left home last Saturday, expecting to return next day.

The sheriff said he had information that they were seen at San Felipe, Mex., a fishing village on the Gulf of Lower California Saturday night. Other information indicates Cook was also seen at San Felipe Saturday night.

The automobile of one of Cook's victims, Robert H. Dewey, Seattle, Wash., salesman, was found 30 miles north of San Felipe. Dewey's body was found north of the border near Ogilby, Calif. It was in the automobile of a Blythe, Calif., deputy sheriff who attempted to arrest Cook but was himself tied up and abducted.

Sheriff Ware thus theorizes that Cook fled from California through Mexicali, Mex., to near San Felipe in Dewey's car, abandoned it and commandeered the car of Damon and Burke, or that he may have been picked up by them.

Ware broadcast a request to law officers to watch for the Damon-Burke car, a 1950 maroon Studebaker sedan. A land and air search for Damon and Burke continued, meantime, in Imperial County's Chocolate Mountain country.

"HOW I RELIEVE DISTRESS OF MONTHLY FEMALE AILMENTS which make me so nervous several days before!"

Read why Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is 'the woman's friend'

"Almost every month I suffered from cramps, headache, or backache—due to female functional ailments. What bothered me most was that I'd start feeling so nervous, tense and strangely restless several days before my period.

"My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve this distress. He told me to take it regularly throughout the month to help build up resistance against such female misery. It tastes swell in a little fruit juice. I must say Lydia Pinkham's Compound is simply wonderful and gives me amazing relief—not only from monthly pain but pre-period nervous tension and tired, dragged-out feelings of this nature. I urge every girl and woman troubled this way to try Pinkham's Compound."

P. S. Many women prefer Lydia Pinkham's TABLETS with added iron. Handy to carry in purse.

Assigns Streets As Skating Areas

Beginning January 15, six sections of Greenville's streets in various parts of the city will be roped off for use by children as skating areas, Chief of Police Guy C. Langston announced today.

The six skating areas will be located in different parts of the city, and the hours will be from 3:15 until six o'clock on week days, and from nine a.m. until six o'clock on Saturdays.

The move is being made in order to provide a safe place for the many children skating in the city.

The areas will be at the following streets: (1) Johnston Street, from Rotary to the Rotary Club Line; (2) Lawrence Street between 9th and 10th streets; (3) Myrtle Avenue, between Manhattan and Watauga Avenue; (4) Broad Street, between Cross and Center; (5) Tyson Street, from Third to Colonial Avenue; (6) and Latham Street, between Third and Fourth streets.

Chief Langston said that he hoped the children in the various parts of the city would take advantage of the safe skating areas being provided for them and make them a success so that they can be maintained.

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 11—(AP)—May Kay Jones, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Jones, was fatally burned at her home here yesterday when a bed on which she was playing caught fire.

Fire chief Ludie Croom said the child apparently set the bed on fire playing with matches. Two younger children were in the home at the time. The mother had gone out to make a telephone call.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 11—(AP)—The State Highway Commission's fleet of trucks will be given needed replacements.

The division of purchase and contract yesterday placed orders for 120 pickup trucks and 700 two-ton truck chassis. The pickups will cost a total of $137,691, or around $1,150 each. The two-ton dump truck chassis with cab bodies will cost $1,251,965.25, or about $1,800 each.

B. W. Davis, the Highway Commission's chief equipment engineer, said the trucks were essential to replace worn out rolling stock.

A nol pros was taken in the case of Randall M. Hardee, charged with operating a car to the left of the center line. In the case of Willie E. Simmons, Negro, careless and reckless driving, a nol pros with leave was ordered by the judge.

Walter King, Jr., Negro, improper equipment (insufficient brakes) paid $15.

Johnnie Wooten, Negro, charged with operating to the left of the center line, was ordered to pay $15 costs and $60 to use of Leonard E. Lane.

hurts."

It seems to us, and we've said all this before, that under ordinary conditions the process should be just the other way around: That the expense of government should be modified to meet the revenues. Can you imagine any business concern doing otherwise . . . and stay in business?

Of course, we know that little dream of ours is shot now . . . and we all look forward to years of costly spending for defense. There's still a lot of "fat" in government that should be trimmed. Every congressional investigation ever made into the subject always points to over-staffing and a host of needless expenses in the administrative branch.

We like to think that some day there will be an old-fashioned housecleaning. Some features of it might even be hard for us to swallow; but it would be good medicine in the end.

Boom Days Again In The Coastal Plain

The six to eight million dollar face lifting job for the Wilmington shipyard announced yesterday by the Maritime Administration assures eastern North Carolina of at least a portion of the construction work which will be done in connection with the mobilization program.

But unless we miss our guess, eastern North Carolina for the second time in ten years is going to begin to feel the acute manpower situation and the plentiful money situation which accompanied the vast construction of military installations in this section of the state during World War II.

The effects of reopening the Wilmington shipyard will be felt not only in the New Hanover area, but throughout the eastern section of the state if construction there reaches the peak the Maritime Administration has indicated.

In addition to Wilmington's war work, we may reasonably expect a great deal of new construction work to be scheduled for Army camps and Marine bases which sprang up in this section of the state during World War II.

Eastern North Carolina was full of boom towns during the days of the last war. From the current trends we may reasonably expect the same thing to happen again.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—President Truman's ballot-box advisers fear that he has made a serious political blunder in proposing an amendment to the Defense Production Act that will authorize him to fix ceilings on food prices at less than parity. The present law permits many everyday agricultural commodities to go up from twenty to fifty per cent before they can be put under controls because they are now below parity.

Consumers' representatives at Washington, including the city bloc on Capitol Hill that lost out to the farm faction in the organization of the 82nd House and Senate, rejoice at his decision and admire his show of courage. But they admit candidly that he has boosted the Republicans' chances of capturing the farm states in the 1952 election.

PARITY—The term "parity" has become such a political issue that it has become lost in a cloud of linguistic confusion.

But, so that my city readers may understand the farmers' viewpoint and their hostile reaction to Mr. Truman's stand, it should be explained that parity prices are designed to give the producer sufficient revenue so that he has the same purchasing power with respect to manufactured and other products that he did in the 1909-1914 period. Those five years before World War I were supposed to have been a fairly stable half-decade.

The base period for fixing the relationship between agricultural and industrial prices was eventually modified so as to represent the 1909-1914 period, or the average for the last ten years. The altered economic system, with the development of automobiles, radios, television and the revolutionary growth of industry through two world conflicts, necessitated this revision.

BASE—Now, in response to industrial developments of the postwar years, and even looking ahead to possible atomic advances, the base period for fixing the parity equation has become the average relationship of farm and industrial prices over each last ten years.

So, it becomes obvious that the question of parity is no phantom or fantastic or shadowy issue to the men and women who "make" our food, which will be as essential as bullets in event of a World War III.

HIGH—With the country and the world, especially if 1951 should suffer the outbreak of global conflict, desperately needing adequate agricultural production, sufficient output of food may not be forthcoming unless the farmers are assured what they regard as "fair" or "parity" prices.

It may be and has been argued that parity prices on many foodstuffs today are too high, thus showing up the retail levels, but to the growers they represent the money they must have to remain in the business of production.

Moreover, the farm organizations maintain that consumers suffer chiefly because the processors, shippers and retailers demand too much profit for their role in the farm-to-market assembly line.

DOCTRINE—Maurice J. Tobin, the politically ambitious Secretary of Labor from Boston, has bolstered the farmers' argument, albeit in reverse. In opposing any change in the Federal Fair Standards Act or in union contracts to permit a longer work-week without overtime, he recently declared that bonus pay is necessary to "generate an incentive for industrial production."

In a hurriedly called luncheon for Washington newspaper correspondents on the very day after Mr. Truman's remarks on the need for amending the agricultural provisions of the Defense Production Act, Allan Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who might have become Secretary of Agriculture if Governor Thomas E. Dewey had been elected in 1948, reiterated the Tobin doctrine on behalf of the farmers.

So, the lines have been drawn for a sharp, politico-economic conflict in the current session. It is a bipartisan issue.

CONCEPT—Mr. Truman's political strategists have told him that he has upset the Democrats' agricultural apartheid so violently that it may not be righted in his time or, in the event he does not seek reelection next year, in his party's try for a sixth successive presidential victory.

Parity happens to be a Democratic concept. It enabled Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman to win normally Republican states in five elections. Although it is not generally realized, their inroads in the agricultural areas of the Midwest and Northwest equaled the Republicans' achievement of breaking the Solid South in the Hoover-Smith campaign of 1932.

Now That We've Stirred Them Up

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Somehow I have always thought of chess as a rich man's checker game, and therefore I have stuck to checkers. My belief is confirmed by a report which says scientists are working on a machine that will play chess. There would be a market for these machines among rich men, because so many lose all their friends in the process of getting rich that nobody is left to play chess with them. In their retirement, they could always play chess with the machine.

However, the machine that the scientists are developing has so much sense that it might even have the ability to like and dislike. If that were the case, the machine might learn to dislike his partner and refuse to play with him.

So far no machine has been invented that will play a full game without human help, but the scientists have just begun to fight the battle. The leading authority on the subject is Dr. Claude E. Shannon of the Bell Telephone Laboratories. He says that a machine can be developed to play a perfect game of chess.

However, the game might take 100 years for completion. Even the machine of their dreams would have to make 10 to the 120th power (or 10 followed by 119 zeros) calculations in order to figure out 40 moves. The machine that could play the "perfect" game would have to "think" for years and years before making the first move.

It would be easier to make a machine play a fair game of chess, seeing three moves ahead and avoiding obvious bad strategy. Such a machine would play fast and would have no mental lapses. It would never get lazy or nervous. On the other hand, it would not have imagination and the human ability to learn through experience. It would never beat a good player.

Another scientist named Bronowski disagrees with Dr. Shannon. A chess-playing computer, he says, could be made to learn by experience just as a human being does. It would be given a memory of unlimited capacity. It would remember each move in all the games it has played. By classifying moves, it could determine which were most successful in each chess situation. It could even classify its opponents by the character of their moves. Eventually, says Bronowski, when the computer's memory finally is about to run over the memory of chess games it had played, it would become a master player with a personal style all of its own.

What would happen if two machines played each other? The more experienced machine would always win. "In human life," says Bronowski, "maturity is always offset by the loss of other powers. The machine, on the other hand, will become more and more experienced but will never lose any other powers. That is the real difference between the human being and the machine in these circumstances. The machine can mature without growing old. The most mature machine will always win, provided there is no mechanical failure. All good machines are likely to have nervous breakdowns."

And I thank you.

AMENDMENTS—The fact that two proposals to amend the state constitution were made in one session of the senate during its first week indicates recognition of need for re-writing that document. At the same session Wednesday proposal made in both senate and house for a commission to study governmental organization in North Carolina, at both state and local levels. Other bills along the same line are expected. Proposed constitutional changes were to permit 18 year olds to vote and providing for speedier filling of vacancies occurring in membership of the general assembly, during or immediately before the assembly convenes.

DEPARTURE—Both proposals represent definite departure from tradition in North Carolina, but the suggested method of filling legislative vacancies goes farther afield than the lower voting age. Introduced by Senator Marvin Leatherman of Lincoln, the amendment would place responsibility for filling vacancies by appointment of the executive committee of the party with which the former member was affiliated and in the county or district of his residence. At present the only method of filling legislative vacancies is by special election.

RECOGNITION—Objection was immediately voiced by other legislators to the Leatherman proposal, for that it gives constitutional standing to political parties. Statutes have long recognized party organizations, but the basic constitution has not. Question was raised whether the reference to party executive committees in the language of the Leatherman proposal would require further changes in the constitution authorizing such committees. There were pointed out several more places where confusion might result from such recognition of political party committees.

DUAL OFFICE—One such question concerns probable status of members of every county and senatorial district executive committee as constitutional officers, and therefore banned from holding any other office. It would certainly be unpopular in many communities to say that no public official could serve on the county executive committee of his party.

PROBLEM—The filling of vacancies in public office is always a problem. Popular election is the most democratic but it is also the most cumbersome. Presently there is no way to fill vacancies in the national house of representatives and the state legislature at any time except by election of the people. There are discrepancies in statutory and constitutional provisions for filling vacancies on the supreme court under some circumstances. Executive appointment is the usual way for most offices, but there is understandable fear on part of the people that if executive appointive authority is too much extended there might be developed a sort of dictatorship. Numerous other suggestions have been made, none of which seems much better than the present elective method.

VOTERS—As to lowering the voting age from 21 years to 18 years there is wide difference of opinion, based on social and political considerations. Governor Scott and Secretary of State Thad Eure have long championed the lower voting age on the theory that a man or boy old enough to be drafted for the army is old enough to vote; that any person to be trusted with a rifle or an airplane in battle can be trusted with a ballot in times of peace or war. But there is another social angle. A salesman in an ABC store commented the other day that if 18-year-olds are allowed to vote there will never be any chance for voting out legal sale of liquor, or raising the age at which boys and girls can complete marriage contracts.

DISCRIMINATION—When Freshman Joe King of Forsyth made his impassioned plea against discrimination in the house Wednesday, supporting his resolution upsetting the long-time seating arrangement of members, he perhaps did not know that five sessions ago Republican W. C. Pittman of Avery got one of the best seats in the house by complying with the law about making request for the seat desired. This year only one Republican made request for a seat and he got it. McDuffie of Wilkes filed request in time under the rules for seat No. 102—and he is seated there for this session.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

FIRST THINGS FIRST

(Williamston Enterprise)

When conditions are so uncertain as they are now and when the need is so great for other services, it is down-right foolish to sink more than a million dollars in a show house on North Carolina's State fairgrounds.

Year after year, the cries of the mentally ill and the physically sick have been heard but not fully answered. Until there are ample facilities for the State's mentally ill and physically sick we are opposed to any project on the fairgrounds that will cost $400,000 more than the amount estimated. And to put across by juggling plans and shifting funds will not be acceptable when the needs of the less fortunate are more urgent.

Building Ships As Ships Rot

(Henderson Daily Dispatch)

The bureaucrats will have an answer for it, of course, however shallow, but to the average layman it doesn't make sense for Congress to appropriate $350 millions to build new cargo ships when some thousands of freighters constructed during the last war are in storage basins gathering barnacles and otherwise deteriorating while these additional hundreds of millions of dollars are being spent.

Argument for the new program is that these vessels will be much faster than the old Liberty type and others which came into being at the same time. In these days speed is, of course, of the essence in fighting a war. But surely there must be some purpose to which storage basins all over the country can be made to give up their roosts in the interest of freedom—and economy.

Investment of this cash at a time when it is so urgently needed for so many other vital purposes appears to be questionable when applied in this manner. Citizens who learn of this program should arrange same time to give some explanation of the reason for building more freighters when the still waters of rivers and coves are already choked with mothball fleets which are rotting at anchor.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
These are boom days for the junk-men. They will get boomier as time goes on.

Prices have risen for waste paper, old rags, scrap metal, thrown-out rubber, reusable bottles and other commodities of the "waste" business. A year ago many a dealer worried over his investment in a pile of scrap in his yard or warehouse. By now that old pile has been converted into a fat bank account.

The junk business is big business. Its sales were $2,711,418,000 in 1944, according to the business Census of that year. Now, according to Department of Commerce spokesmen, it is probably running over three billion dollars a year. In 1944, there were 7,643 firms in the waste business, with $9,000 employees. Of these firms, 3,021 specialized in iron and steel, and 4,622 in general junk and scrap, waste paper, rags, rubber, non-ferrous metals and other waste.

The men who scrounge old iron from vacant lots and collect discarded cartons are only on the fringes. They are only a little more important to the junk business than the men who peddle balloons are to the gas industry. The big operators are those who contract to buy waste from mills, plants and big office buildings. They know to the third decimal place the value of a pound of old lead, and just where it can be turned over at the best price. They can tell within a few tons how much waste paper a large office building will produce.

It's a chancy business, too. Best operation consists in term contracts to buy wastes of various kinds, yet the price of materials ordinarily fluctuates considerably. Some cities sell to the highest bidder the right to search their trash collections. If the prices of waste materials rise, a contractor may make a fortune. If prices fall, he may lose his bankroll. Prices rise and fall in pattern with new materials. Thus, when U.S. Steel increases its prices, it automatically increases the resale value of scrap iron and produces windfalls for many dealers.

It's an important business, too. The American economy needs scrap metal, reusable rubber, waste paper, rags, etc. Old lawn-mowers, old tires and old wires stretch our supplies of iron, rubber and copper. In recent months, with prices rising and waste scarce, some dealers are importing old rags and fabric wastes from abroad.

Hal Boyle's Column

By OLEN CLEMENTS

(For HAL BOYLE)

Fifth Air Force Headquarters, Korea. (AP)—The Air Force claims its estimates of enemy troops killed by planes are more nearly correct than many people think.

(The question was raised most pointedly last week by H. J. Tendon Daily Mirror in a front-page scolding at Fifth Air Force claims. It said pilots flying fast planes could not glean such information on how many enemy personnel they killed.)

Here's the way the Air Force arrives at its conclusions:

An interrogation officer—a sort of professional Doubting Thomas—questions a pilot after every mission. There are usually four planes in each fighter flight—and fighters are doing most of the work now. So the interrogator has four stories to check on each flight.

He evaluates each pilot's report, trying to strike a reasonable medium. Then, in most cases, he subtracts up to a third of the total claimed killed by the pilots and balances that with what aerial observers and ground intelligence have reported on the enemy disposition.

Plane cameras record the action in each strike, the movies are reviewed daily.

Pilots are not allowed to claim having killed any troops they do not actually see themselves. In the cold Korean climate troops try to stay indoors as much as possible. Buildings strafed and bombed are not permitted to be added to Air Force calculation of personnel casualties.

The U. S. Eighth Army says the Air Force underestimates casualties inflicted on the Reds.

Here is an actual case in point:

On Nov. 28 the Air Force announced it had killed 280 enemy troops by strafing. The Eighth Army took the enemy positions the next day and found 1,025 enemy bodies—all killed by 50 caliber machine-gun bullets. U. S. fighter planes are armed with .50 caliber machine-guns.

On the same day the Air Force claimed to have knocked out 20 tanks. The ground force confirmed 12 of them. Some of the others may have been so far behind enemy lines it was impossible for ground troops to find them.

Here is another example of comparisons in air and ground force evaluation: on Oct. 15 the Air Force said it strafed several tanks but claimed to have destroyed only two. On the same day ground troops found four tanks knocked out by air power. These figures are from Eighth Army records.

The Air Force used 60,000 rounds of .50 caliber ammunition on Jan. 1 when the Chinese Reds started their drive of parallel 38. On that same day the Air Force claimed to have killed 2,600 Red troops. The Eighth Army says the troops must have killed twice that many.

The next day the Air Force expended 497,000 rounds of .50 caliber ammunition and claimed to have killed 750 enemy; on Jan. 3 it fired 83,000 rounds and claimed to have killed 2,100 enemy; Jan. 4, 502,000 rounds were fired and only 1,000 enemy were claimed to have been killed.

Air Force interrogators listen to pilots' stories and then report them to Fifth Air Force headquarters. There they are again balanced against ground force reports and the eyewitness accounts of aerial and ground observers in the area for that specific purpose.

After the Air Force headquarters makes its report the Eighth Army then makes its own evaluation and most often finds that the airmen have been too modest in their claims.

Washington Letter

Washington—If you want to enlist in Uncle Sam's Navy and be a WAVE, drop in the nearest Navy recruiting station and sign up. If you meet the basic requirements—age 20 to 26, high school graduate, U. S. citizen, unmarried, no dependents—and pass physical and mental tests you'll be sent to Great Lakes, Ill., for 10 weeks' recruit training and wind up after the course as a full-fledged "seaman."

If you are one of the best 60 per cent of the graduating class you go on to specialist classes offering training in a wide variety of jobs known as "ratings." There are about 60 different ratings in the Navy, of which all except the sea-going are open to women.

If you are one of the remaining 40 per cent, you go to duty stations, also as a seaman, and learn on-the-job. Duty Station jobs are the less-skilled jobs, but meanwhile you can start working toward a rating.

The 60 per cent courses vary from a few weeks to several months. Then they come out of school as "strikers"—striking for a rating, the Navy calls it. They go to duty stations until an opening for their rating opens up.

Women who seek commissions apply as officer candidates at recruiting stations. If they meet requirements, including college degree, and are between 21 and 36, they're indoctrinated at the General Line School, Newport, R. I. Here they take courses in naval history and communications, learn about ships and planes and Navy customs and courtesy and military law and do a little marching. Then they are assigned to duty as junior officers, like male graduates from Annapolis.

In addition to the regulars, the Navy has several thousand women in its Naval Reserve, either World War II WAVES or those who just joined. A great many of these have volunteered for active duty. Some have been involuntarily recalled.

A seaman housing $75 a month and medical and dental care are free. The pay scale goes from $75 up to more than $200 for chief petty officer. This naturally is gradual, and few rise to chief.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

January is a good month to do your housework, says an old farmer's adage, and in cold climates the householder does considerable housework in the winter.

It's a good time to make a careful check-up and to plan what improvements you'll make in the spring and summer when the heat is off.

While your basement is warm and dry, you can examine what ravages last summer's condensation may have wrought. No matter what type of heating plant you have, it's a good idea to have it stand on rust-proof, fire-proof blocks to keep it away from the concrete floor.

Thorough insulation will increase efficiency of any heating system and cut your fuel bills down accordingly.

Winter is the best time to insulate hot water and steam pipes and warm air ducts. You will find all of them dry, easy to clean and they will take insulation better while they are warm.

Some people forego this insulation because they want a warm basement. But that is expensive and inefficient. A separate heating outlet for the basement is more sensible. Or in the case of warm air systems, leaving return ducts uncovered, often supplies enough warmth for the basement.

Insulating covers for pipes are usually made of corrugated or cellular asbestos, mineral wool and other fire-resistant materials. They are pre-shaped as hollow cylinders, encased in canvas, and fastened with metal bands. You can get these in sections three feet long. They are split lengthwise on one side to permit slipping them over a pipe. They can be obtained from your heating contractor or local hardware store for various pipe sizes.

Be sure that all pipes to be covered are cleaned and in good condition. Elbows and T joints are packed with asbestos cement. This should be mixed with only enough water to make it workable. The first coat, about an inch thick, is applied with your hands or a plasterer's trowel. Scratch the surface to leave it as rough as possible in order to provide a bond for the finishing coat. When the first coat is dry, the second coat about half-an-inch thick, is applied and smoothed off. Canvas similar to that on pipe coverings can be wrapped over this plaster to give a neat appearance.

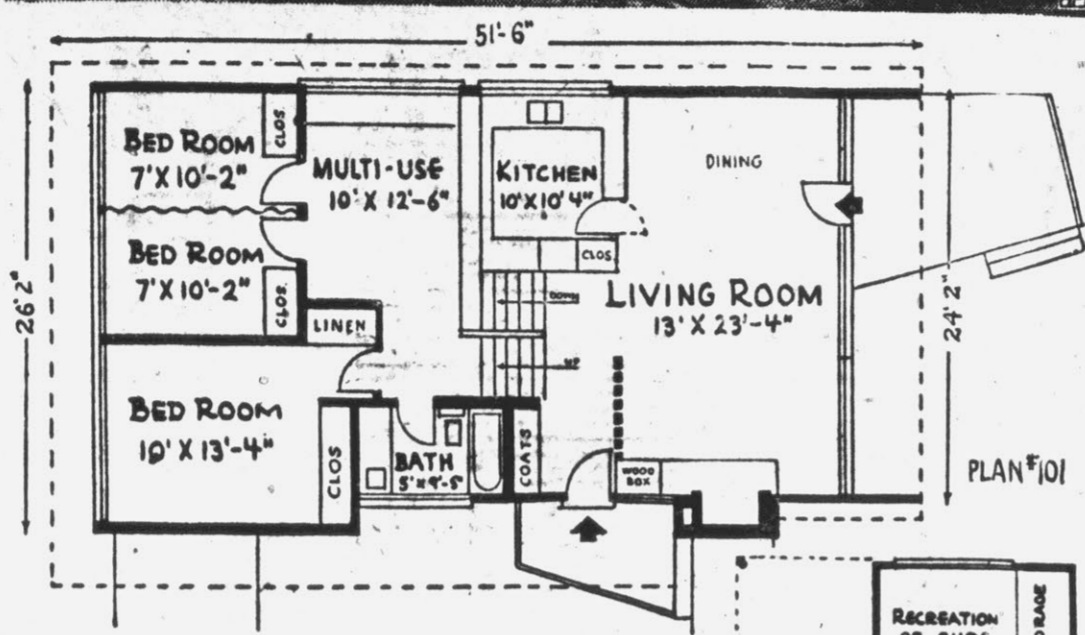

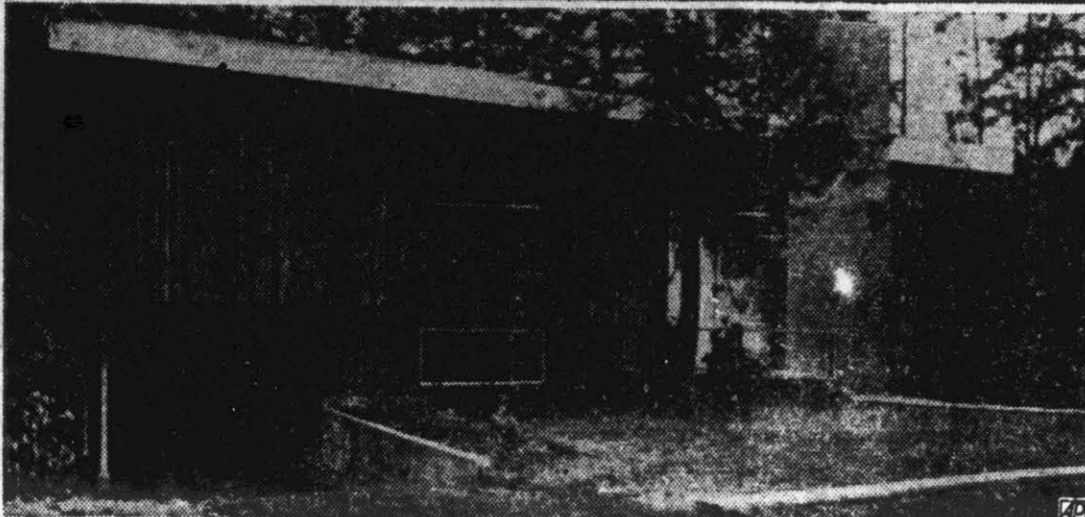

Asbestos cement also is used to cover steam boilers. A 100-pound bag will cover 20 to 25 feet, one-inch thick. Ten-pound bags are available for small jobs.

In covering a boiler, allow the first coat to become almost dry, then stretch wire mesh over it and apply the second coat. The stretching of the mesh may cause some cracks in the undercoat, but the mesh will reinforce both coats.

Corrugated asbestos paper or similar insulators are used for warm air ducts. These coverings are applied in three layers. Measure around the duct and allow about an inch and a half more for overlap. After tying this layer around the duct, measure over it for the second layer and its overlap. Then measure over the second layer for the third. The ends of each layer should be staggered and wire binding or metal bands should be spaced every 18 inches or so to secure the job.

is a good idea. If excessive soot has accumulated it may mean inefficient combustion or wrong type of fuel.

Directions supplied by manufacturers should be carefully followed for all automatic heating plants, such as oil-burners, mechanical stokers and gas heaters. Such instructions are based on experience and field tests.

Fuel dealers often provide service for heating plants at nominal charges in connection with a year's fuel contract. Arrangements of this type with reputable dealers can be very advantageous.

Thorough spring cleaning of heating plants is very important. If soot is allowed to remain and become damp with summer condensation, chemical reaction can do much damage to metal work.

Deny Report Of Recommending UN Withdrawal

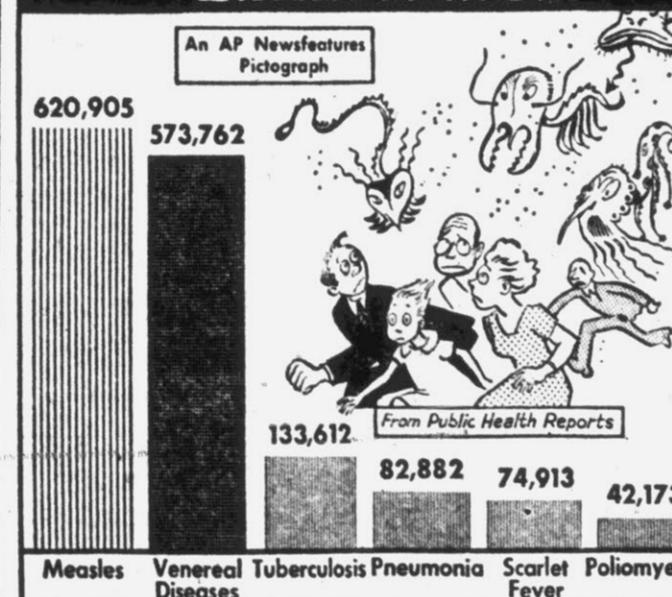

Tokyo, Jan. 10—(AP)—General MacArthur's official spokesman today denied there were any facts to a story printed in the United States that the General had recommended withdrawal of all United Nations forces from Korea.

He referred to a copyrighted story by Keyes Beech, Chicago Daily News correspondent covering MacArthur's headquarters, which said MacArthur was "understood to have recommended to Washington withdrawal of all United Nations forces from Korea." Beech said he obtained his information from "authoritative sources."

Asked to comment on the story, Col. Marion P. Echols, MacArthur's official spokesman said: "There has been nothing official or unofficial said regarding the evacuation of Korea. That story is purely a figment of the writer's imagination."

Tiny Swiss Army Girds For Powerful Defense

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH AP Newsfeatures

Geneva — If a future aggressor ever launches an attack against Switzerland, he will face what is probably Europe's most powerful military force outside the Iron Curtain.

Switzerland, though determined to remain aloof from any western military alliance, is carefully building up her defenses at an unprecedented rate.

Most Swiss firmly believe that it was only the strength and efficiency of their army which discouraged Hitler from an invasion of Switzerland during World War II. On the theory that the Russians or any other future aggressive power may hesitate to attack Switzerland for the same reason, the Swiss Government has launched a five-year-plan to make the nation's defenses stronger than ever before.

The plan calls for expenditures of about $420,000,000 during the five-year period, in addition to the regular annual expenditure of $106,000,000 for the maintenance of the armed forces.

With this money, the army is to be equipped with the most modern weapons and planes, the fortifications system is to be extended, and armaments and other war supplies are to be stored in sufficient quantities to resist an aggressor for years, if necessary. Any increase in the number of men in the army is impossible, because every able-bodied male Swiss citizen is already trained as a soldier and ready to take up arms at one hour's notice.

The principal aim of the military authorities is to increase the fire-power of the individual soldier to a point an attacking army with extended communications lines would find difficult to equal.

The new weapons to be drawn from home production and imports include armored long-range anti-tank guns on caterpillar tracks, armor-piercing bazookas, rapid-firing machine guns and rocket-firing jet planes. The Swiss Air Force already has about 75 Vampire jets purchased from Britain, and their production in Switzerland will be under British license. Only the engines will still be supplied by Britain. The British recently tacitly recognized Switzerland's possible future part in the west's resistance to aggression by permitting the continued export of these jet engines to the Swiss, despite the latter's non-adherence to the Atlantic Pact.

To underline their neutral attitude, the Swiss like to stress that they also import arms from the Soviet sphere, such as anti-tank guns from Czechoslovakia. But these supplies have been diminishing for months and recently stopped altogether.

The five-year-plan also calls for some reorganization of the armed forces to meet the requirements of modern warfare. Thus, special units are being set up to combat a possible attack with toxic and bacteriological weapons or atomic bombs. Under a tactical reorganization, every infantry unit is to be assigned a tank group under infantry command and the infantry itself is to be motorized wherever possible.

Together with the streamlining of its military preparations, the Swiss Government is carefully developing plans for the protection of the civilian population. Civil defense workers are being trained and food supplies to last many years are being laid in. Ration cards have been printed and are ready to issue to every man, woman and child at a moment's notice. A bill is being rushed through Parliament to make the construction of cellar bomb shelters in all new and reconstructed buildings in Swiss urban areas compulsory.

At the same time, the government is preparing to go into action against any potential fifth column. Militant Communists are already being weeded out of government agencies and many less prominent party members in federal service have been told that they are liable to immediate dismissal in case of emergency.

Water glass which is commonly used to preserve eggs is used as a base for "silica gardens". When crystals of sulfates of metals are dropped into a dilute solution, they react with the water glass and form compounds which grow upwards, much like plants.

Eisenhower's Biggest Job: Building European Morale

Populace Lacking In 'Will To Fight'

(Editors note: Much of the current Great Debate deals with complex problems of re-arming western Europe and the extent to which United States collaboration will help find solutions for meeting the challenge of Soviet Russia. A first-hand view of these problems is given by J. Wes Gallagher of the Associated Press executive staff, who has just returned from foreign service assignments spanning the last 10 years of European history.)

By WES GALLAGHER
New York, Jan. 11—(AP)—Re-arming Europe today is fundamentally a question of morale, not guns and planes.

A large part of Europe hasn't the will to defend itself. On a grand scale General Dwight D. Eisenhower is in the position of a football coach trying to instill the "will to win" in his team. Eisenhower must instill the "will to fight." Without it the United States can pour arms into Europe from now until doomsday without the slightest result.

This colors the way Europeans look on the East-West conflict and the way Americans look at it.

Dislike Kremlin
Europeans are no less conscious of Soviet aggression. The vast majority of French, Germans, British, Italians and other Europeans have no more liking than Americans for communism.

They dislike the Kremlin rulers, poke jibes at Stalin privately and wish Russia never existed.

But they don't see that they can do much about the situation except commit suicide. And this is more than a figure of speech; I know Germans who keep poisons on hand and swear they will take them if overrun by the Soviet army again.

From the Baltic to Spain Europe has been ravaged and bled white by recent wars. The torrents of bloodshed touching every family have drained away that intangible called morale.

They know that any Soviet attack must be met in the heart of Europe. Whether the attack is held or not they know their homes will be devastated by battle and bombings. They and their sons and daughters will die by the thousands.

They Can't "Win"
By experience they know that there are no winners in war. Even

Wilson's Weekly Bulletin

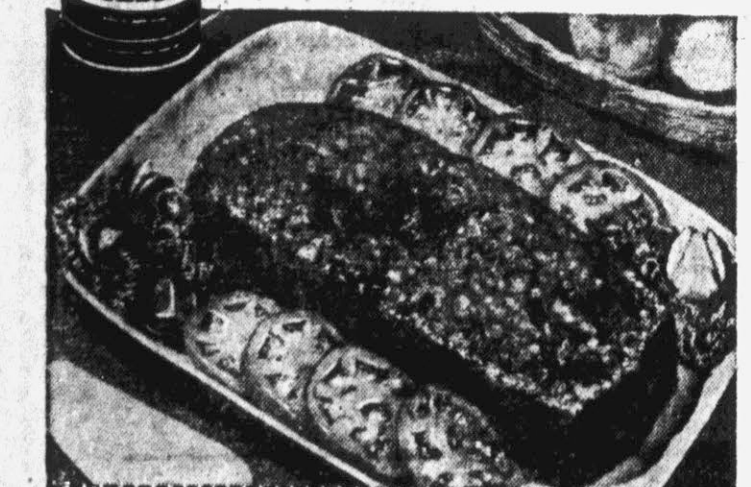

All of us have our own favorite ways with foods. There are the 5-minute cooks who, for example, just slice Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash, pan fry and serve the tempting hash circles "as is."

Others will stack the hash circles, with pineapples, Bermuda onion slices, tomato slices or cheese, and broil temptingly!

Some like to add a liquid, such as milk, sweet or sour cream, broth, beef- or pineapple-juice and bake "Hash on Casserole."

But our Blanche is the kind of cook who likes to do unusual things with canned meats, and Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash is the kind of meaty hash she can really do things with. Her "unusual" tasty recipe is offered below. Whether you make half the recipe to serve 4 or all of it for 8, you'll "love" the results. Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash is d-e-l-i-c-i-o-u-s gourmet food no matter how you serve it.

Blanche bakes the hash in a loaf. You may casserole it, if you prefer, and easily spoon it out. But, however you do it, Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash is "meaty and mighty good!" So keep Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash and this recipe handy.

BLANCHE'S CORNED BEEF HASH
(LOAF OR CASSEROLE)
Mix well and either shape into a loaf on an oven proof platter or in a shallow baking pan; or place in an oiled casserole—

To serve 8	To serve 4
2 cans..... Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash..... 1 can	1 can
2..... eggs..... 1 egg	1 egg
2 slices..... bread..... 1 slice	1 slice
1/2 cup..... tomato catsup..... 1/4 cup	1/4 cup
1/4 to 1/2..... teaspoon salt..... 1/4 to 1/2	1/4 to 1/2
1/4 to 1/2..... teaspoon black pepper..... 1/4 to 1/2	1/4 to 1/2
2 tbs..... chopped onion..... 1 tbs	1 tbs
1/2 cup..... chopped green pepper..... 1/4 cup	1/4 cup

Sprinkle top with fine, buttered bread crumbs (1/4 cup crumbs to 1 tbs melted Wilson's Certified Margarine or Clearbrook Butter). Bake in hot oven 400° F. about 40 minutes to heat through and brown if the two-can recipe is used, or at 350° F. about 30 minutes for the smaller one-can recipe.

Just how large an infiltration the communists have in the French armed forces remains to be seen. For the moment there are not many armed forces to count.

The French have three divisions in their Army of Occupation but only a fraction of these are ready to fight. Their present reserves in France proper are negligible and poorly equipped. The professional heart of the army is fighting in Indochina and cannot be counted on for European defense.

France has plans to raise an army of nearly a million in the next two or three years. Even if the West has this long, the question remains: Will these forces have the will to fight?

Italy Dubious
Italy is in a similar position. During the last war the morale of the Italian soldier was notoriously bad under Fascism. No one knows whether it would be any better under Democracy. There is no doubt the Italian people are war weary and politically cynical. Although the government is stable there is a large and vigorous Italian communist party which has proven its ability to torture the country with disabling strikes when opportunity offers.

As an ex-enemy nation, Italy also has been largely disarmed and it will take time and money to rebuild her armed forces.

Western Germany with its 8 million people and large reservoir of trained soldiers is eyed enviously by military men.

Germany's Position
I have been asked frequently "is it true the Germans really do not want to fight or are they just trying to get some concessions?" After fighting the Germans in two World Wars and having a terrible time in beating them, western nations find it difficult to believe the Germans really don't want to go back into uniform again.

But the fact is the people as such do not. Those particularly between the ages of 20 and 40 have had a stomach full of war. There is scarcely a family that has not lost at least two close relatives in the last war. Virtually all have lost their homes, their money and their security.

On top of this they are an occupied country, treated as second class citizens, and largely through French fears they are being asked to rearm as second class soldiers—pawns of nations that defeated them.

Military Realists
The Germans are also military realists. They know the sad state of western defenses in Europe, compared to the six Soviet armies that rattle their tanks in the middle of Germany along the occupation border. They know that there is no such thing as a "little" rearming such as the Atlantic Pact has thus far proposed for them.

A "little" rearming would provide no defense and only leave them at the mercy of the Russians as an "enemy," should the Soviets attack. They also know any attack would begin in the middle of Germany and devastate a country just now getting back on its feet.

There is no doubt a vote now for rearming would be overwhelmingly defeated if the West Germans were polled.

West German politicians are riding this anti-rearming tide to gain concessions from the west. Even if they got all the concessions they are asking it is doubtful if they could pull the voters over on their side and convince them they must arm.

Hate Russians
This does not mean the Germans would favor the Russians. With millions of dead and hundreds of thousands of brothers, sons and daughters having disappeared into Russia as prisoners, the Germans

Germans say if the West really wants some one to fight the Soviets they should recruit Eastern Germans who live under Soviet rule. It is true that West Berlin, which is completely surrounded by the Soviet army, is the most belligerent and outspoken against them.

The Germans, like the rest of the Europeans are to the Russians, the more they dislike them.

It is axiomatic that the closer the Europeans are to the Russians, the more they dislike them.

The continent, must be convinced that what they have is worth fighting for and if they prepare to fight they have a chance of winning without being wiped out in the process.

Cotton Parley Slated In Lahore
Karachi—(AP)—The Government of Pakistan has invited Spain and Jordan to send observers to the tenth plenary meeting of the International Cotton Advisory Committee at Lahore. Invitations have been sent to 67 countries and eight international organizations.

The committee will review the world cotton situation, placing emphasis on production and consumption, competition with rayon and other artificial fibres, cotton stocks in different countries, additional uses of cotton with a view to increasing consumption, prices, and international trade in cotton and balance of payment difficulties.

Ben Hogan's Comeback Is Rated Greatest During 1950

Ez Charles Remains 6 To 1 Favorite Over Lee Oma

New York, Jan. 11—(AP)—Calm, confident Ezard Charles remained a solid 1 to 6 favorite today to retain his heavyweight championship against the challenge of unorthodox Lee Oma at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The sharp-punching Cincinnati champ also was listed as a 1 to 2 choice to stop the Buffalo fighter before the 15 rounds are over.

There was very little betting here on either the outcome or a knockout. But interest in the fight has picked up and there is a good possibility the International Boxing Club's predictions of a 12,000 crowd and a $65,000 gross will be fulfilled.

Charles' sixth title defense will be telecast and broadcast.

The 29-year-old champion wound up his boxing preparations yesterday with a flashy four-round workout. He looked fast and fit when he completed his fourth and last round.

Asked if he planned to go for a knockout, Ezzard said "I'm going out to win. If I can knock him out, I'll do it. I'll see what happens in there."

Charles has made no special effort in training to cope with Oma's puzzling style. The Buffalo scrappier fights with his hands down and walks away from opponents in a style somewhat similar to that of Jersey Joe Walcott, who was beaten by Charles.

Oma, who finished boxing Tuesday, just limbered up yesterday. "I'm in good shape," said the 34-year-old Oma. "I've never trained like this before. I'm ready."

He wasn't kidding about the training.

At the tailend of a checkered career, he's getting a world title shot and he's making a real try. He indicated that he planned to discard some of his previous ring tricks.

"I've slowed up a bit and I'll have to do more fighting and less of the shuffling," said Oma. "I'm more flatfooted and I'll try to use more power."

Oma has never gone 15 rounds before but the distance doesn't faze him.

"My legs are good. We'll see what happens."

Eddie Waitkus Ranked Second; Navy Upset Third

New York, Jan. 11—(AP)—Bantam Ben Hogan's phenomenal, movie-script rally from a near-fatal accident to regain his old golfing heights was rated today the greatest comeback in sports for 1950.

Sports writers and broadcasters, participating in the year-end Associated Press poll, had little trouble making up their minds in this category, giving an overwhelming vote to the plucky little shotmaker from Texas.

On Feb. 2, 1949 Hogan was critically injured in an automobile accident while returning home from a tournament in Phoenix, Ariz. For weeks his condition remained serious.

There was doubt that the sinewy veteran who the year before had scored professional golf's U.S. slam—the PGA, Open and Western—would ever walk, much less play, again.

But by mid-summer of 1949 Hogan was hobbling around on crutches and in December he played his first round of friendly golf.

There was a flurry of excitement when it was announced Hogan would attempt his comeback to competitive golf in the rich Los Angeles Open Jan. 6. Could Hogan do it? He replied quickly.

Walking stiffly on legs held together by baling wire, Hogan amazed the golf world by finishing in a tie with Sam Snead for first place, shooting a remarkable 280. It was immaterial that Ben later lost to his old rival in a playoff.

Hogan won the Greenbrier Open in May with a record-tying 21-under-par 259 and then climaxed his spectacular comeback by winning the National Open at Philadelphia in June.

He staged a strong rally to tie Lloyd Mangrum and George Fazio at the end of the regulation 72 holes and then defeated this pair of old pros in the playoff with four strokes to spare.

Hogan received 112 first place votes from the 214 who cast ballots and piled up 293 points on the basis of three for a first place vote, two for second, etc.

Second place went to another whose career was almost cut short by tragedy—Eddie Waitkus, first baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Waitkus was shot and seriously wounded in Chicago June 15, 1949 by a 19-year-old girl who explained she just had an "urge to kill somebody."

He came back last year to play 154 games for the Phillies, help to the National League pennant and play in the World Series. He batted .284.

For this comeback Waitkus received 29 first place votes and a total of 160 points.

The Navy football team that rose up to shock Army, 14-2, in the final game of the season won third place, followed by Johnny Mize, the veteran first baseman whose bat helped lead the New York Yankees to the world championship.

Then in order came the New York Giants baseball club; Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankees outfielder; the Princeton football team, unbeaten surprise of the Ivy League; Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati pitcher; the Michigan football team and the New York Yankees baseball team.

Ivy League Tilt Paces Cage Games

New York, Jan. 11—(AP)—Someone's unbeaten record had to go but you couldn't tell whose until the buzzer sounded.

Princeton's basketball five went into its game at Columbia last night with a record of 18 straight victories over a two-season span. Columbia had 17 straight.

Columbia won the Ivy League test, 53-52, coming from behind on substitute Bob Sullivan's field goal with 49 seconds left. He stole the ball and dribbled in for a layup. Before then, underdog Princeton had stayed ahead most of the way. The visitors led, 52-45, with less than four minutes left.

Then John Azary, the Columbia ace, bagged two goals to spark the winning drive. He scored 16, same as Princeton's Chuck Devoe. Foster Cooper, 6-7 Princeton center, kept his team in the game with fine rebounding.

Columbia (9-0) ranks eighth nationally in this week's Associated Press poll, Princeton (8-1) 20th.

Penn State and Bucknell gave a good demonstration of what's been an interesting topic of conversation this week among basketball coaches Hank Iba of Oklahoma A&M, Nat Holman of CUNY and Jack Gray of Texas.

Penn State froze out Bucknell, 25-15. The winners led at halftime, 5-3, using a zone defense and zone offense—Center Joe Piorowski stood out in midcourt holding the ball.

Neither team scored in the first 16 minutes. Then courageous Bill Strella broke away for a goal, the only one Bucknell scored in the first half.

Penn State Coach Elmer Gross took the handcuffs off his Lions in the second half. They scored 20 points to win going away.

Last season Penn State used the same style to outscore Pittsburgh, 15-11.

"The game was a disgrace to basketball," asserted Bucknell Coach Jack Guy. "It was winning the game at any cost."

The pleased Gross said Penn State "might continue to use the same strategy for the remainder of the season."

Two other unbeaten, Hamline and Washington & Jefferson, also lost.

Hamline (11-1) moved out of its class in taking on Phillips 66, the national AAU champion. The Pipers, Waynesburg W.O., 73-55, to stop hand, 51-47, faded in the last two minutes to the Washington & Jefferson streak. Bradley (18-0), the No. 1 team lose, 64-61, to the heavily-manned at eight straight this season. in the country, takes on St. John's all-star independent squad. Navy staved off charging Mary- (10-2) in tonight's top game.

Ayden Boys Gain Ninth Straight Win

Grifton, Jan. 11.—Tornadoes in the form of Ayden's High School eagles hit Grifton last night, as the Ayden girls edged Grifton's sextet, 55-47, and Coach Stuart Tripp's quint posted their ninth straight win of the young season by a decisive 64-29 score.

Katherine Wooten helped deflect the Grifton lassies almost single-handedly as she sank 26 points, to take individual scoring honors.

The two girls' teams played on even terms during the first quarter with the scoreboard reading, 9-9, however, with Wooten and Stocks hitting with deadly accuracy, the Ayden six pulled away steadily at the end of the half and maintained their lead throughout.

Colleen Braxton was high for the losers with 20 points.

In the boys' one-sided affair, Mac Whitehurst wished the ropes for 20 points to lead the Ayden five to their ninth straight triumph without a loss.

Score by quarters:

Girls' Game	1	2	3	4	Total
Ayden	9	20	15	7	51
Grifton	9	15	10	11	45

High scorers: Ayden—Katherine Wooten 26, Wilma Stocks 14

Elizabeth City Friday Opponent For Phantoms

Coach Bo Farley worked his Green Phantoms out Wednesday and today in preparation for tomorrow night's game here with Elizabeth City's Yellow Jackets.

Game time is set for 8:00 p.m. in the high school gymnasium, with a preliminary junior varsity game at 6:30 p.m.

The locals suffered a heart-breaking 47-46 Northwestern Conference loss to Washington here Tuesday night, and will be out to redeem their 1-1 record in the conference in tomorrow night's clash.

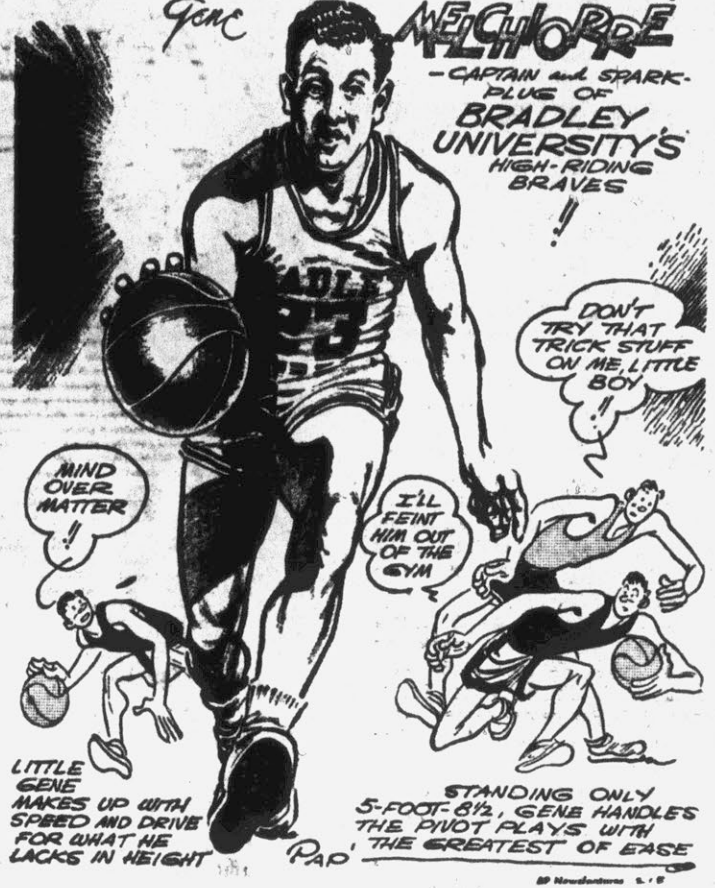

Jimmy Dillingham, who sank 23 points in Tuesday night's scrap, is expected to lead the net-swishing for the Phantoms, with Virginius Haymes at the other forward and Sydney Briley at center.

Glenn Scott and Jake Higgs will round out the starting lineup at the two guard spots.

Held in reserve will be Eddie Farley and Leon Moore, forwards, Wallace Conway at center, and Fletcher Murray and Billy Tucker at guards.

Bradley's Best by Pap

Gene Melchorre is doing an excellent job of proving that a fast, smart little man still has a place in basketball. The hustling little playmaker of Bradley University stands only eight inches over the five-foot mark, yet he is rated one of the finest basketball players in the collegiate ranks.

Melchorre has been called the "midget Mikko" because of his uncanny work in the pivot. He is a hustling, driving type of player who keeps moving in on the basket. An amazing rebounder for his size, he digs hard all the way. He sets up plays and passes deftly. He hooks with either hand from the post and outwits men many inches taller with feints and fakes.

Because of Melchorre's superior basketball talents, Bradley is still rated one of the top teams of the country despite the fact that All-America Paul Uhrh was lost through graduation. It is up to Gene to take up the slack in the scoring department. Melchorre accounted for 440 points last season to bring his three-year total production up to 1,144. He was voted the most valuable player on the squad last season and is living up to that reputation this year.

Bucs Seek Third Circuit Win In Tomorrow's Tilt

Suffering a hair-raising 59-58 setback at the hands of High Point Panthers, East Carolina comes back on the rebound here tomorrow night, playing host to an aggressive Lenoir-Rhyne Bears quint.

Tip-off is set for 8:00 p.m. in the Wright gymnasium at East Carolina. Charlie Huffman, who dipped in 17 points against the high-flying High Pointers Tuesday night, is expected to lead the scoring threats of the Pirates, with the star freshman coupling with All-Conference Sonny Russell at the two forward positions.

Scrappy Toddy Fennell is set at the center position, while big Bobby Hodges, 6'5" lad from Kinston, who leads the rebound work, and John Postas, will hold down the starting guard spots.

East Carolina currently has a 2-1 record in the North State Conference, while Lenoir-Rhyne has suffered only two losses in conference play this year.

The Bears are known for their pressing game all over the court, and are under the new coaching of Jim Hamilton, former Carolina Tar Heel court star.

NCAA Predicts Easing Of Code

Dallas, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Confidence arose among the liberals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association today that an amendment softening the sanity code governing financial aid to athletes will be passed.

Some of the liberal leaders, notably T. P. Heard, athletic director of Louisiana State, flatly predicted that the NCAA constitution would be amended to place enforcement of the code in the hands of the individual schools and conferences. This will require a two-thirds majority on the floor of the convention whose showdown meeting comes tomorrow.

Passage of such an amendment also probably would mean that seven schools not now in compliance with the code as it stands would escape going on trial before the association.

There were ten schools on the black list until yesterday when the compliance committee reported to the council and executive committee of the NCAA that three of them had been found to have attained compliance.

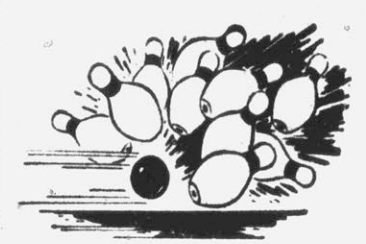

Names of the schools were not announced but Dr. Hugh Willett of Southern California, president of the NCAA, said the schools thus cleared might announce it themselves.

Dr. Willett said if the seven schools were brought up for suspension he would rule that only a majority vote of the convention would be needed to put them out. An insight as to how the liberals stand in getting votes for their side is due to come today when the small college group of the NCAA meets to talk over the code.

It is from the small colleges that the balance of power apparently must come. The Southern, South-eastern and Southwest Conferences are allied in getting the code changed while the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conferences want to strengthen the present powers of the NCAA.

Heard said enough strength had been picked up from the nonconformists to muster the two-thirds majority needed to change the code.

Matthews also gained single game honors with 203 pins.

Hodges Hardware still remains one full game ahead of second-place Wagner-Waldrop in the league standings.

Wagner-Waldrop posted the team's high scoring mark for the night, with a combination of 2204 pins in the three-game total, and teammate Ted Williams tied 806 pins in the single game high.

Bones McKinney Joins Boston Club

Boston, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Horace (Bones) McKinney, former University of North Carolina basketball great and manager of the defunct Washington Capitals, has signed to play with the Boston Celtics.

Walter Brown, president of the Celtics, made the announcement yesterday.

The six-foot, six-inch McKinney also played at North Carolina State before transferring to North Carolina after World War II. He had been in the National Basketball Association since its inception five years ago.

STEERS CLEAR PENALTY BOX

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Jackie Gordon of Cincinnati in the American Hockey League has a remarkable ability to stay out of the penalty box in spite of his constant hustle and aggressive play. In over 200 regular season games as a professional, Gordon has been sentenced for only three minor penalties, never more than one a season, for a total of only six minutes.

College Has Record Number Seniors In Student Teaching

East Carolina Teachers College has at present the largest number of seniors doing student teaching in its history, according to information from the office of Dr. J. L. O'Connell, director of student teaching and placement at the college. Ninety-six men and women are now gaining practical experience as teachers in various public schools of eastern North Carolina, says a recent report in which Dr. O'Connell gives facts and figures relating to the work being done during the present winter quarter in the training of students for careers in education.

Of the 96 students engaged in teaching, the report reveals, 90 are North Carolinians. Women outnumber men 54 to 42. During the winter quarter last year 62 seniors, including 35 men and 27 women, were included in the student teaching program at East Carolina.

Fifteen schools are participating in the program at present. The Greenville High School, with 29 student teachers, leads in numbers; and the Training School on the college campus follows closely with a total of 23 teachers. Five of those having assignments in the local high school are music majors and are also teaching music in the elementary grades of either the Training School or the West Greenville School.

Work is being done by student teachers this quarter in all grades from the first through the tenth, and in various departments of instruction in the secondary schools. All teaching is supervised by college faculty members and super-

'Long Night' In Korean Foxhole

With The First Marine Division in Korea—(AP)—Hard-pressed Marines in Korea can still take time out to note a coincidence.

Corporal Malcolm R. Long, a Marine M. P. attached to the Seventh Marines, notes that he and a buddy, Arthur R. Long, were setting down for the night in a foxhole near the Chosin Reservoir when a third Marine suddenly jumped into the hole. "Who are you," the two Longs asked the newcomer.

"The name is Ernest Long," was the reply.

Indians Still Use Sign Language

Moose Factory, Ont.—(AP)—A system of writing the Cree language, developed 100 years ago by a Methodist missionary, is used by practically everyone who speaks Cree along the more than 3,000 miles of barren shoreline of Hudson Bay. Its use also has spread to some of the Indians of the western plains and British Columbia.

It consists of 14 phonetic signs, with four variations for each sign, one for each vowel. There are signs to accommodate unusual vowel sounds.

The script is picturesque, with reversible triangles, squares and half squares. Anyone who knows Cree can learn to write it in half an hour.

Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc, the Man Responsible for Today's Great HADACOL

A. M. Hurst, R.R. 22, Box 265, Perry, Florida: "I was born September 22, 1912. I heard of your HADACOL having the vitamins B₁ and B₂ in liquid form and that sounded good to me. I bought and have taken two small, one large and part of a second large bottle. Now I do not feel any more aches and pains. I intend to keep right on taking HADACOL."

Senator LeBlanc has been in public life since he was quite a young man and he has always advocated the cause of the oppressed and the downtrodden. It was he who introduced the law in Louisiana that gives every deserving man and woman in Louisiana a pension of $30.00; it was he who introduced the law creating the office of Services Commissioner, the duties of which office is to see that every deserving ex-soldier and veteran receives his just reward from the Federal and State Government; it was he who has consistently fought the battle of the school teachers in the halls of the legislature; he worked untiringly for the farmers and the laboring man.

In view of the fact that this man has worked so untiringly for your cause and in your behalf, don't you believe that it was reasonable to assume that in his untiring efforts he would someday find something to assist you besides rendering governmental assistance.

The word "HADACOL" has become a by-word throughout this Nation. Read the testimonials on this page. Ask your friends who have taken HADACOL the benefits they have received from it. Don't hesitate. Place your confidence in Before substitutes. There's only one true HADACOL.

HADACOL
 Only Hadacol Gives You That WONDERFUL HADACOL FEELING!

VOYAGE TO EDEN

By Bennie C. Hall

Chapter 9
Elsie Merritt did not actually move in on Molly, though she did keep her promise to look after her. During the two days that she was confined to her state-room, on orders of the ship's doctor, Molly had every reason to be grateful to the garrulous blonde. She was forced to revise her opinion of Elsie.

Whereas Elsie, with time on her hands and nothing to do but gossip, had become a nuisance, Elsie, with something to occupy her mind and her hands, was coming through as a real person. Her heart was as big as her body, and even Doctor O'Malley remarked on her competence in the sick-room.

"Not that you're really sick, of course," he told Molly in a gently patronizing voice that she found rather irritating. "It's only a strained ligament. Painful but not serious. That is, if you'll do as I say and not as I do," he added, laughing a little. "No more dancing and playing around for a while. I know it'll be hard for you, but you must stay right here in your berth for a couple of days. You did run a slight temperature."

"I'll see that she stays here, Doc," Elsie said, "even if I have to move in completely and sit on her. These poor little rich girls haven't got a brain in their head."

"Don't be silly," Molly flung back. "You know very well I'm not rich."

"That's what they all say, isn't it, Doc?" Elsie waved a hand to indicate the comfortably large state-room and its tasteful appointments. "You don't get quarters like this for peanuts. Right, Doc?"

Doctor O'Malley, in the process of bandaging Molly's foot and ankle, frowned. Obviously he resented the appellation "Doc" as he would be being a mob, Molly thought. Nevertheless, he nodded absently and said:

"I wouldn't want her pulling a fast one and going dancing before I say the word. I'm counting on you, Miss Merritt, to see that our lovely patient does nothing foolish."

The inference was that Molly, being a scatterbrain, could not possibly be expected to use her own head. Or so Molly felt, and she believed she had managed it. noticed the unhappy expression on Molly's face, she grinned and added:
"Oh, I wouldn't worry about it. If you take my advice, you'll just keep mum about the whole thing and live up to these elegant surroundings. The less they know about your private affairs, the less they can hurt you."

AAUW Chapter Urged To Note International Crisis

Greenville's chapter of the American Association of University Women, under its president, Mrs. Robert L. Humber, have been called upon to give attention to the gravity of the international situation. It was released today.

The message, sent through state and branch presidents to AAUW's 115,000 members, pledging the Association to the use of its resources for the tasks of mobilization, received by Mrs. Humber read: "The gravity of the present situation underscores as never before the responsibilities facing the United States and its citizens. The United States and those nations which stand with this country are irrevocably committed to the struggle now being waged against political and economic domination. This is more than a struggle between two political systems. It is a struggle between two philosophies of life, in only one of which is the dignity and worth of the individual respected and protected.

"We of this Association have not always agreed as to the wisdom of the details of government policy, but we have never deviated from our support of the principle that government is for the benefit of the governed and by their consent. We are aware that the preservation of such a principle will not be lightly won. It will mean sacrifices in all aspects of our living, and for many, even the sacrifice of life. But we are convinced for ourselves that we are not willing to live under a government actuated by any other principle. We will support with all our power the maintenance of free government for free people, ready to make the sacrifices which that may entail.

"The AAUW program stands the stress of crisis. By continuing to carry on our practical work in education in the American Association of University Women can add to the total resources of free people engaged in this struggle. To this end we must approach our program with renewed concentration.

"This means that we must work as never before for the kind of education in all fields which will produce and maintain citizens who are sensitive to human values and who will strive to protect them. We can win the struggle for the survival of a free people only by setting ourselves to the tasks of mobilization with all our intelligence and strength."

TUESDAY PITT

'Stop Looking'

Santa Monica, Calif., Jan. 11—(AP)—If you're searching for peace of mind in this war-torn world, you won't find it. Stop looking for it and you're likely to acquire it.

This is the advice of one of the nation's foremost psychiatrists, Dr. Karl Menninger of Topeka, Kans.

"People search so assiduously for peace of mind that they don't have any," he told a Town Hall audience here last night. "The only way to control the increased tension is to lose yourself in love, thinking of others, play, talk and work."

Legislators Get Rotary Plaques

Members of the North Carolina General Assembly Monday night were presented 4-Way Test Desk Plaques on behalf of the Rotary clubs of North Carolina.

The presentation of the plaques to the members of the senate was made by Dr. Sylvester Green, past district governor of Rotary, and executive director of the Medical Foundation of North Carolina. The presentation of the plaques to the members of the house was made by Ike Greer of Chapel Hill, past district governor of Rotary.

Following the presentation of the plaques to the members of the General Assembly, similar plaques were presented to Governor Scott and members of the council of state.

Taking part in the presentation ceremonies were District Governors Howard McGinnis of Greenville, H. P. Spruel of Windsor, Walter T. Nau of Hickory, Curtis Smithfield of High Point, and members of the presentation committee.

Printed on the plaques is the Rotary 4-way test for judging a matter: 1. Is it the truth? 2. Is it fair to all concerned? 3. Will it build good-will and better friendships? 4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

Lanier Defense Seeks Access To Statements

Defense counsel for J. Con Lanier, Greenville attorney indicted for manslaughter, have filed a motion with the judge of Superior Court of the Sixth District to have access to certain testimony made by persons who last saw Willie Henry Tripp, Griffon, alive.

Local defense attorney Albion Dunn stated today he and Jesse Jones, Kinston attorney for Lanier, have a motion before Judge Henry Stevens in Kenansville to allow them to read the testimony of two men who were with Tripp before he was killed on the Kingston-Griffon highway November 26. The testimony was obtained by the State from Thebert Edwards and Eugene Williams Griffon community.

Tripp's companions the night he was allegedly killed by Lanier. The sworn statements were denied Jones when he asked to see them yesterday.

Highway Patrolman Walter Taylor, who investigated the accident, stated he could not let Jones have them after being cautioned by Solicitor Walter Britt of Clinton. The denial was prompted by private counsel's request of Britt not to let the defense see them.

The motion is expected to be acted upon this week by Stevens who is holding court in Kenansville. The trial is slated for Wednesday, January 14, in Lenior Superior Court. Dunn today reiterated the fact that he and Jones will push for trial at that time.

Two Accidents Reported In Pitt

Two highway accidents were reported to the State Highway Patrol office in Greenville over the past twenty-four hours, it was learned today.

A car driven by Henry Eugene Kennedy, age 64, of Greenville, turned over yesterday afternoon when the driver went to sleep at the wheel, Patrolman Delton E. Perry said.

Damage to the car was placed at between $400-$500. The driver told Perry that he was traveling about 50 miles per hour at the time of the accident, which occurred eight miles east of Greenville on the Grimesland highway about 2:30. Perry said that Kennedy told him he had been to sleep a couple of times and had stopped by the road to rest and then continued on towards Greenville. The driver was not injured and there were no charges placed.

Last night, shortly before midnight, a car operated by James Ray Jackson, of near Greenville, went out of control as the driver attempted to avoid striking a stray dog on the highway.

Jackson's car skidded on loose sand on the highway causing his car to slide into an embankment doing moderate damage. Patrolman Paul Whitley investigated the accident and there were no charges lodged against the driver.

The accident occurred just off the New Bern highway at Bell's Fork.

Report Soviet Is 'Eyeing' Alaska

Taipei, Formosa, Jan. 11—(AP)—The Chinese Nationalist Defense Ministry said today Russia has moved an additional 300,000 troops to Siberia in readiness for an attack on Alaska.

It said Marshal Malinovsky, the Soviet Union's Far Eastern commander, had more than 15 seasoned divisions under him before the reinforcements.

The ministry said further: The Moscow-Peking axis was converting China's northwestern provinces into a vast military base. Tihwa and Hami, the main cities of the far northwestern Chinese province of Sinkiang, were being converted under Soviet technicians into two of the strongest bases in the Far East.

Moscow has ordered Mao Tse-tung's Red Chinese regime to put China on a total war footing as soon as possible.

Unofficial reports from the Chinese mainland said 2,000 Russian technicians were directing the conversion of the Shantung seaport to Tsingtao into a naval base.

help. The judge can:

1. Order the mortgagor to return to you all the payments you've already made and then foreclose on the property. This might happen in the case of a man who hasn't paid much on the mortgage.

2. Postpone the whole case so long as he, the judge, wishes.

3. Try to work out an agreement satisfactory to both sides.

4. Declare that the serviceman doesn't have to make any more payments until he gets out of service.

5. Order the mortgage foreclosed "without prejudice" to the serviceman. Which means: When the serviceman is discharged, he can renegotiate to get the house back. In other words: The mortgagor who foreclosed could rent the house but not sell it till the serviceman returned.

Suppose you bought a radio on time. No you've been notified to report for military duty. You say you can't keep up the payments on your military pay.

Before going into service, you might try to work out a deal with the department store which sold you the radio to make smaller payments over a longer period of time.

(The federal regulations limiting the length of time for civilians to pay off in full on installment purchase can be ignored in the case of servicemen.)

But suppose you're already in service and the department store wants to collect on the radio or take it back. What then?

The store can't do anything without first suing you in court and then can do nothing without approval of the judge. The judge can do a number of things:

He can check with the military to see whether you can afford to keep up the payments. If he finds you can, he may order you to do so. If you don't, he can let the store take back the radio.

If he finds you can't pay then the judge can:

1. Say you don't have to make any payments for an indefinite period—months, maybe—or that you don't have to pay a dime more until you're out of service.

College Band To Present Concert

The East Carolina concert band will make its first public appearance of the year when it plays a preliminary to dedication ceremonies at Pitt Memorial Hospital next Thursday.

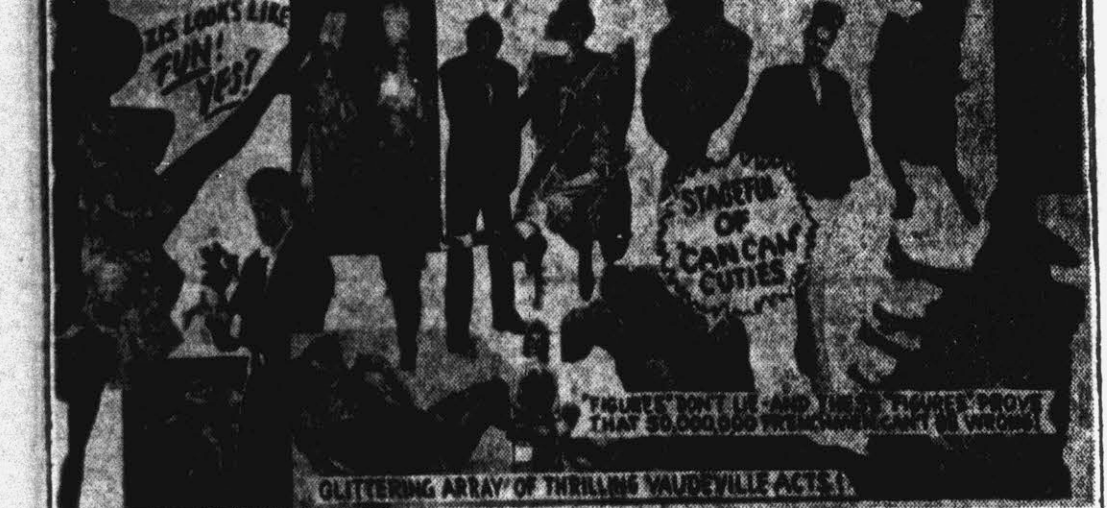

Under the direction of Herbert Carter, who has directed the music group for the past four years, the 60-piece band will begin a half-hour concert at 10:30 in the morning. They will be located in front of the administration wing of the building and will play several band selections while the seats on the lawn are filling up.

C. Stuart Carr, Jr., master of ceremonies for the dedication, stated today the event will be absolutely free to the public. He said some persons he had contacted had the mistaken notion the ceremonies will be held for a select few, with admission by invitation only. That is not so, he said. All persons in the county and surrounding counties are cordially invited to attend the short dedication and inspect the hospital and its facilities during the afternoon.

countered many setbacks and the war continues apace. Obviously the intervention of Chinese "volunteers" would create a grave situation for France.

Indochina was controlled by France from 1893 until towards the close of World War II. Then the Vichy regime assigned some areas to the Japanese. The French re-occupied the area after the war but encountered resistance by so-called Viet Minh forces which were communist led. That fight has been going on ever since, with the French finally concentrating on holding the chief ports and cities and the best agricultural sections.

In addition to her great rice crops, Indochina before the war produced rubber, coal, iron, zinc, tin, tungsten and manganese. Thus, whatever way you look at it, she occupies a vital spot in the Asiatic theatre.

Indochina's occupation by China would be a tough blow not only for France but for her allies.
