Consumer Prices Hit New Record

Top Trio Of ESA Call Final Parleys On Forthcoming Price And Wage Freeze; Gov't Index Of Living Costs Up To Record Peak

Washington, Jan. 25—(AP)—The government's cost of living index was reported at a new peak and the Economic Stabilization Agency's top trio called final parleys on the imminent price and wage freeze.

The twin orders may come late today but more probably on Friday—depending on the outcome of today's conferences between ESA Administrator Eric Johnston and his price and wage chiefs.

Well-placed officials predicted prices would be pegged at Jan. 2 levels and paychecks at current wage rates—but with leeway for some workers to do considerably more bargaining.

Peak on Dec. 15 The Bureau of Labor statistics reported that its cost of living index hit a peak on Dec. 15, when it stood at 178.4 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

A climb of 6.5 percent in consumers' prices occurred during 1950 up to mid-December, all but 1.6 per cent of it after the beginning of the Korean conflict.

Even before imposition of the projected price-wage controls, Senator Flinders (R-Vt.) said the wage plans, as outlined yesterday by chairman Cyrus S. Ching of ESA's Wage Stabilization Board, are not strict enough "by any means."

Flinders called for "just as much rigidity in controlling wages as is being planned with respect to control of prices."

The price said he will seek the views of Marriner Eccles, Federal Reserve Board member and former chairman, at today's session of the Senate-Economic committee.

Flexible Ching told the committee yesterday the policy now being drafted would permit "quite a bit of flexibility or collective bargaining."

Ching did not amplify. But there were hints in other quarters that workers who had not received a 10 per cent boost in the last year—roughly the wage settlement in the steel industry—might be permitted to bargain for up to that amount.

One More Round There reportedly also was some sentiment on Ching's nine-member wage board to permit at least one more round of "escalator" increases based on the rise of living costs, for workers whose unions have won such contract clauses.

No Turning Back For MacArthur

Pledges His Remaining Years To Fight Communism On Eve Of 71st Birthday

By RUSSELL BRINES Tokyo, Jan. 25—(AP)—General MacArthur, brisly confident on the eve of his 71st birthday, said today "there can be no turning back" from war against communism in Asia.

"Once American arms have been committed to battle in defense of moral principles," he said, "the Rubicon has been crossed. The die has been cast—and there can be no turning back."

"However long and difficult the road, we must fight on with all the power we can mount until victory is achieved."

The general made it plain he was speaking of the broad fight against communism in Asia, rather than the specific campaign in Korea.

Nevertheless, he reiterated that the Chinese "will never drive me into the sea" from Korea.

MacArthur's remarks were made to me during a lengthy conversation in advance of his birthday tomorrow. In excellent health and spirits, he spoke with animation of a generation's problems in turbulent Asia.

Most of what he said was not for publication—as customary. But the substance of his remarks emphasized that he has not changed his implacable opposition to communism nor altered his estimate that it must be fought wherever it arises throughout the world.

"I will fight against it for the rest of my life if necessary," he said.

Neither has the general changed his familiar position that only force will stop communist imperialism in Asia and western powers cannot afford to undervalue this part of the world.

MacArthur still is vigorously opposed to retreat. Seated in his familiar worn leather chair at one end of his plain headquarters office, he puffed on a favorite pipe and paused only to light it.

Despite the tremendous strain of the past seven months and his own heavy work schedule, the general looks 20 years younger. He has the vigor and resolve of middle age and the handclasp of an athlete.

He will spend his birthday as usual at headquarters—his 366th consecutive working day.

Winterville, Jan. 25—Arrangements are being completed for the open house which will be held at the new community building in Winterville Saturday from 9 in the afternoon till 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Village Stricken By Alps Avalanche

This is how the little hamlet of Vals in the Swiss Alps looks from the air after the worst hit place in the series of avalanches which have brought death and destruction in mountains of Austria and Switzerland. Avalanche swept down on village from left and buried buildings in its path. The bodies of seven more persons were dug out in Vals bringing the death toll to 16 so far. New avalanches occurred in Austria—danger lessened in Switzerland. (AP Wirephoto via radio from London).

Fountain School Conditions Get Grand Jury's Attention

Report Proposes Relief For Overcrowded Condition In Negro School; Plans Are Drawn

Pitt County's grand jury, in its report of Superior Court this week recommended the "first monies for building purposes be used for the alleviation" of the conditions found in the Fountain Negro school.

The recommendation was made by the Grand Jury as a part of its report on the condition of the schools of the county system; but the recommendation came just as the school board is completing the details of a building program which is designed to alleviate the condition.

County School Superintendent D. H. Conley, when questioned about the Grand Jury recommendation concerning the Fountain school, said plans for a new Negro school building for the Fountain district are in the final stages. Bids on a new four classroom building are expected to be called for about March 1.

The Grand Jury in its report said it had inspected the "majority" of the county schools and found all in good condition with the exception of the Fountain Negro school which is overcrowded. The report stated the school has six teachers, and 280 students who meet in two buildings and a church.

Conley said the school board has been aware of the overcrowded conditions in the Fountain Negro school for some time, but scarcity of building materials and the constantly increasing building costs have prevented contracts for a new school building for the Fountain Negroes from being let. Bids on a proposed building were called for during the past summer, but the low bids totaled more than $85,000, and the

New Presbyterian Church In Farmville Near Finished

By ROY HARDEE Farmville, Jan. 25—The result of more than five years work, planning and dreaming, is nearing more of a reality in Farmville as progress on the new Farmville Presbyterian Church enters the final stages.

All outside construction of the imposing two-story, cinder-block and brick structure has been completed and the great majority of the interior work underway.

It was more than five years ago that the small Farmville Presbyterian Church was founded to be adequate to meet the needs of the growing church and Sunday School. From that time on, plans were formulated for a building which would amply take care of the needs of the church but yet not impose a financial burden on its members.

Throughout the years, money was raised for construction of the building and on September 15, 1950, the first actual work was begun, after more than $40,000 had been raised. When completed, the building will cost an estimated $80,000 with furnishings and all other equipment. The actual building is being directed by the Church's building committee, chaired by Dr. John M. Mewborn. The church is buying the materials, hiring the labor and a general foreman to supervise the work.

Initial plans for the building itself were originated by Dr. Mewborn and very few changes were required in the final drafting of the building later.

In contrast to the one small unit now occupied by the church, the new building will have a church auditorium, with a seating capacity of 175 persons, with a large choir and pulpit in the center. Off to the side of the main auditorium will be a pastor's study and choir rooms. A small foyer is located as one enters the front of the building prior to going into the main auditorium.

Make It Tougher For Fugitives

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 25—(AP)—The State Prison Department plans to make life tougher for escaped convicts.

Prisons Director John Gold announced yesterday that orders have been placed for $5,429 worth of walkie-talkie radio equipment for use by officers in tracking down fugitives.

The walkie-talkies, Gold said, would be used by field officers in communicating with radio-equipped police and patrol cars.

SBI To Assist Columbus Inquiry

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 25—(AP)—The State Bureau of Investigation has been called in to help Columbus County officers investigate activities of nightriders.

A spokesman for SBI Director Walter F. Anderson said yesterday that SBI agents have been sent to Columbus County to assist Sheriff Hugh Nance.

Eccles Suggests Long Work Week

Washington, Jan. 25—(AP)—Marriner S. Eccles today urged a 44-hour work week "without overtime pay," a general wage freeze and limited price controls as anti-inflation measures.

Eccles, a member of the Federal Reserve Board and chairman until recently by President Truman three years ago, gave his ideas to the Senate-Economic Committee at a Capitol hearing.

Eisenhower Flies To Visit Iceland

Paris, Jan. 25—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower left by plane today for Iceland's sub-capital of Reykjavik, continuing his survey tour of Atlantic Pact nations and their plans to defend western Europe against Russian communism.

The general grinned frequently and shook hands with French and American officers at the airport but made no statement.

As Eisenhower flew homeward after his hurried two-week tour of west European Atlantic Pact signers, France marked the end of his visit by naming a top military man to head all of her armed forces—a move the new Supreme Atlantic Pact Commander reportedly had urged.

Gen. Alphonse Juin was appointed to the post of Inspector-General of French Armed Forces. He also keeps the post to which he was appointed in 1947—French Resident-General in Morocco.

The 62-year-old Juin worked with Eisenhower in the Italian campaign of World War II and was chief of the French National Defense General Staff from 1944 to 1946.

Gen. Eisenhower had another reason here to feel he was making progress in alerting western Europe to communist danger. Red plans for demonstrations against him flopped completely in Paris and other French cities.

Lower Standard

Washington, Jan. 25—(AP)—Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg disclosed today the Defense Department is going to lower its physical and mental qualifications for military service "as far as security will permit."

She made the disclosure to the House Armed Services Committee, which is currently hearing warm arguments for and against the proposal to draft 18-year-olds.

Later, Mrs. Rosenberg told reporters that the 799,000 men who have been rejected by the draft for mental and physical reasons will be re-appraised.

Rooms Offered For Servicemen

Local citizens this morning had offered places to sleep approximately 27 visiting servicemen in Greenville during the coming week-end. The offers were in response to a Junior Chamber of Commerce plea to the people of Greenville to offer places for servicemen to stay during their week-end visits to Greenville.

The number of servicemen visiting Greenville on the week-ends has increased steadily since the first of the year, and large numbers of the servicemen have been unable to find lodging after coming to Greenville.

Mrs. Allen Patton of the local Chamber of Commerce office, said visits offering places for the servicemen to stay came into the Chamber of Commerce office off and on all morning.

On Saturday members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be on duty at the Chamber of Commerce office to assign rooms to the visiting servicemen who request them. The project of obtaining rooms for visiting servicemen was undertaken by the Jaycees this week.

Suspect Trapped In ABC Robbery

Law Men From Five Counties Converge On Pinetops After Early-Morning Robbery; Virginian Netted By Road Block

Pinetops, Jan. 25—Law enforcement officers from five eastern counties, the State Bureau of Investigation and the State Highway Patrol converged on Pinetops between 4 a.m. and dawn today in an effort to apprehend a pair of robbers who entered the Pinetops ABC store about 3 o'clock this morning.

A Suffolk, Va. man, identified by Edgecombe County officers as William E. Goodrich, 32, was taken into custody about 6 o'clock this morning as he walked into a road block set up by the highway patrol and sheriff's officers at Cobb's Crossroads between Pinetops and Greenville.

The man was arrested by Highway Patrolman Fred Mueller and Deputy Sheriff Charlie Prigden, and was taken to Tarboro for questioning. Officers reported Goodrich denied any knowledge of the whiskey store robbery.

The general alarm was set off shortly after 3 a.m. after Police Chief Walter Fulford of Pinetops fired on a car which two men drove away from the front of the Pinetops ABC store. Fulford said he saw the car stop in front of the ABC store, and he went to get his shotgun.

When he returned a few minutes later, two men were putting a case of whiskey into the automobile. The thieves saw the policeman, he said, and jumped into the car and fled. He fired twice at the fleeing automobile which turned a corner and ran into a dead-end alley.

Fulford said the men immediately abandoned the automobile, a 1939 Ford which carried 1950 Virginia license plates, and fled on foot. There was one case of whiskey in the automobile. Officers said the back seat of the car had been removed, apparently to make room for a large load of stolen liquor.

Edgecombe County officers notified Pitt ABC Officers J. M. Ward and Claude Manning who secured blood hounds from the Pitt prison camp and joined the search about 4 a.m. Pitt Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson and Deputy Boyd Manning joined the hunt a short while later.

Ward said the bloodhounds trailed the fugitives for about a mile along the old Tarboro-Pinetops highway, but then lost the trail.

Edgecombe County officers said the Suffolk, Va. man, who was taken into custody this morning, asserted that he was hitch-hiking back to Virginia when picked up at the road block. Although he denied knowledge of the liquor store robbery, officers said his clothes were wet and his shoes were filled with

Battery Advance Detail Departs

Enroute To Camp; Will Prepare For Unit's Arrival

An advanced detail of five men from the Greenville National Guard Battery C unit departed this morning for Camp Campbell, Kentucky, where they will draw rations, arrange for quarters, and drawing of fighting equipment for the local Guard unit, which has been ordered to leave next Monday.

Lt. Elmer Cox was in charge of the advanced detail, with Sgt. Joe Clark, Cpl. Charles F. Bacon, and Pfc's Frank Moore and Alton Mills making up the group. Greenville's Battery C continued to live its new adapted Army life at the Armory, with the business of taking out GI insurance, brushing up on the Articles of War, and making out allotments, taking up most of the time.

Some 20 to 25 men are kept on duty at the Armory at all times, and the Battery's cooks began serving breakfast to the men present Tuesday morning.

This afternoon, according to Capt. J. B. Tyndall, commanding officer of Battery C, the unit will begin loading its two 155 mm. howitzers, three weapons carriers, two two-and-a-half ton trucks, two tractors, and a jeep onto flat cars at the Greenville freight depot.

Close order drills have been conducted daily on the main floor of the Armory, as both the new and old men alike brushed up on the finer points of drill instruction before their departure for Camp Campbell, Ky. Monday.

Scattered enemy guerrilla forces were reported by agents and patrols throughout the area south of Chechon, Tanyang and Yongwol. The infiltrators apparently are trying to disrupt allied supply lines there.

In the air both B-26s and F86 Shooting Stars hammered at Chunchon. U. S. Fifth Air Force Maj. Gen. Earle E. Partridge said the central Korean town was fire bombed and riddled with 50 calibre machinegun bullets.

Clear weather brought out allied aircraft of all types. But there were no reports of any air encounters between the swift American and Russian-made jets such as occurred in the past two days.

Clearing Up A Mess

Defense Department Announcement That College Students Can Enlist In Service Of Their Choice Before Being Drafted Has Brought Fresh Headaches

Washington, Jan. 25—(AP)—The Defense Department has made a grand mess of telling college students how they can enlist in the service of their choice before being drafted into the Army.

That mess now is in the process of being cleaned up and soon perhaps the Defense Department will have worked out a way to get itself off the hook and ease the minds of students and parents.

This is an explanation of what's happened: The first news a young man gets from his draft board is a questionnaire. When he fills that out, the board puts him in a certain classification, at least temporarily.

Say Jones is single, no dependents, and not a veteran. He's placed in I-A. Sometime later he's ordered to report for a physical examination. This is called the "pre-induction physical."

Nehru Dividing U. N.

Yesterday's Speech Widens Breach Between Champions Of Red China And Those Who Would Condemn Her For Korean Invasion; India Likely Satellite Prospect

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Indian Prime Minister Nehru's assault yesterday on America's Asiatic policy, especially Washington's stand which wants to play ball with the communists, is viewed by many observers as rendering a disservice to Democracy's fight against communism.

The immediate reaction in United Nations headquarters at Lake Success was that the speech would widen the breach between the champions of Red China and those who, like the U. S. A., want to condemn her for aggression in Korea.

Such a division obviously weakens the prestige and usefulness of the peace organization.

Then there is another interesting and important aspect of Nehru's attack. That is whether his stand in this highly controversial situation has done anything to advance his own potential leadership of Asia. He may rather have played directly into the hands of General Mao Tse-Tung, Red China's generalissimo, who most decidedly aims at Asiatic leadership himself.

Dulles Arrives In Japan On Peace Treaty Study

Tokyo, Jan. 25—(AP)—John Foster Dulles arrived by plane tonight on a "mission of peace" requested by President Truman.

Dulles, presidential adviser on foreign affairs, will discuss a Japanese peace treaty with General MacArthur and top Japanese leaders.

He said many United Nations leaders are in "general agreement that there should be a prompt peace settlement."

He was met by MacArthur, Mrs. MacArthur and members of the General's staff.

Dulles said in a statement: "Our purpose is to find the way to restore to Japan the full exercise of sovereignty and to open

In honor of the eighth anniversary of their pastorate in Greenville, the Christian Women's Fellowship entertained at Open House for Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Haney.

The reception was held on Sunday afternoon between the hours of 3:30-8:00 p.m. at the home of the Haney's.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Smith, for the first hour, and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cummings for the second hour welcomed callers at the door and introduced them to the receiving line, composed of Rev. and Mrs. Haney and Mrs. Bill Sermons, president of the Christian Women's Fellowship.

At the library door presiding over the register were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bowden between 3:30-4:00 p.m. and Mr. and Mrs. David Evans from 4:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m.

Directing guests to the dining room door were Col. and Mrs. Owen Harshbarn for the first hour and during the second hour of the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Conley. Inviting guests into the dining room for refreshments were Mr. and Mrs. James Keel, who were replaced at 4:00 by Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Harris.

Seated at either end of a beautifully appointed table centered with an arrangement of variegated spring flowers and flanked by green tapers were Mrs. W. H. Woolard and Mrs. E. O. Flanagan Sr. who poured tea and coffee for the first hour. They were replaced by Mrs. L. S. Garrison.

and Mrs. C. Washington, who served between the hours of 4:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m. Assisting in the dining room were Mesdames T. I. Wagner, W. L. Whadsee, J. K. Proctor, J. M. Bassett, Clifton Edwards Sr., and John Adams, who served assorted sandwiches, ham biscuits, cheese biscuits, salted nuts, mints and beautifully decorated cakes.

In the kitchen were Miss Novella Krum, Mrs. Louella Stancill, Mrs. W. L. Allen and Mrs. B. T. Batson, who assisted those serving in the dining room.

Approximately 200 guests called during the afternoon, among which were several friends from neighboring towns and local friends of the Christian Church.

Mrs. Riggs Honored At Birthday Party On Wednesday Night

Mrs. A. F. Riggs was honored last evening at a surprise party in celebration of her 70th birthday.

The party was held at the home of her son, Mr. J. B. Hill, and more than 30 relatives and friends were present.

The home was decorated with candles and cut flowers, and centering the table in the dining room was a large white birthday cake decorated with yellow roses.

Guests were served a salad course with ice cream and cake.

Mrs. Riggs was the recipient of many lovely gifts from the guests. Among those present were seven sons and their wives, 16 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Nevada Newton of Vandemere.

Farmville VFW Honors Members Of Nat'l Guard

Farmville—Saturday night, January 20th, the Farmville V. F. W. Post honored national guardsmen with a delicious turkey dinner.

Commander Jack Tyson welcomed the guests and their escorts.

Second District Commander Hayes of Kinston introduced the guest speaker, Otis N. Brown, executive director of V. F. W. of North Carolina.

He delivered a wonderful message and after the speech America was sung.

Each National Guard member was remembered with a small gift. Games and stunts were directed by Mrs. Marie Hardy and Miss Joyce Corbett.

Later dancing was enjoyed.

The dinner was served to 65 guests by the V. F. W. Auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Taft Honored At Linen Shower In Garner

Last night at their apartment in Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Zack Taft, recent bridal couple, were surprised with a linen shower when 20 young friends and relatives from Greenville visited them.

The couple were home upon the arrival of the guests from Greenville, and they were invited out to dinner by some of their friends. Upon their return the shower packages had been brought in and they were greeted with felicitations and best wishes from all who were present.

Much merriment and pleasure were enjoyed as the young couple opened their gifts. A delightful social hour followed.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR January 25, 1911

In the Senate Wednesday Senator Graham thought it unwise to single out any officer and raise the salary, but rather that a general salary increase be considered. He said he had introduced a bill seeking to provide for the present deficit in the state treasury and that he would oppose the increase of the governor's salary to $6,000, and would offer an amendment making the governor's salary $5,000. He said in his boyhood days he lived in the governor's mansion, when the governor received a salary of $2,000. He felt that a salary of $5,000 would be sufficient.

Senator Smith Praises Dr. Messick

Newly-elected U. S. Senator from North Carolina Willis Smith spoke to the District of Columbia Chapter of the East Carolina Teachers College Alumni Association in Washington at their January meeting and praised the many attributes of the president of their alma mater, John D. Messick.

In his talk, Smith pointed out the many advantages of education not only to the alumni but to their children in the meeting of world problems as encountered in modern day living. He brought out the advantages a capable and efficient head brings to a college such as East Carolina and how much Dr. Messick has brought improvements to the college during his tenure.

Henry Oglesby, Griffith, secretary to Congressman Herbert Bonner, was appointed chairman of the scholarship committee. Serving with him are James Worsley and Mary Whichard, Greenville.

The chapter's next meeting will be a dance in February. Membership now numbers 49, one of the largest in the association.

Broadway Plays Subject Of Talk By Mrs. Vornholt

The Literature Department met at the home of Mrs. F. P. Brooks on Tuesday, January 23. Mrs. Paul Ricks and Mrs. Lloyd Mills were assisting hostesses.

Guests for the afternoon were invited into the dining room for refreshments. The table was lovely with a center piece of pink carnations, orchid iris, and fern. Seated at the table were Mrs. Paul Ricks and Mrs. R. L. Humber. Mrs. Ricks served delicious chess pies topped with whipped cream, and Mrs. Humber poured coffee.

Mrs. Humber presided at a short business meeting. An announcement concerning the coming art festival was made.

For her program Mrs. Dan Vornholt gave a report of current plays on Broadway. The trend of the current plays, even though elaborate and entertaining, portrays a feeling of unrest and insecurity. By request Mrs. Vornholt reviewed the play "Death of a Salesman" by Arthur Miller. It is a story of a man unable to face competition and the evils of capitalism and living in a world of unreality, sought his own tragic solution.

The program was ably presented and enjoyed by all present.

Winterville Club Plans Silver Tea

In the new Winterville community building Monday evening, January 22, the Literary club held its regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Mc-

Goy Tripp presided and plans were made for the silver tea which will be held Saturday evening from five until nine o'clock.

This will be an opportunity for everyone to visit the community center, view its many attractive features, and at the same time meet and converse with friends and acquaintances. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Work, plans and persistence with the financial help of friends and patrons, have at last made the Winterville community building a reality.

The board of directors for this building are Mrs. Graham Olive, chairman, E. C. Davenport, Mrs. Roy T. Cox, Mrs. J. D. McArthur, Mrs. L. H. Ellis, Mrs. Elizabeth Gorman, R. E. Boyd and Burney Tucker.

The new officers of the Literary club assumed their duties at this meeting and they are Mrs. George Jackson, president, Mrs. Roy Cox, vice president, and Mrs. Druid Hobgood, secretary and treasurer.

At the close of the meeting, the hostesses, Mrs. Mamie Liverman and Mrs. Rachel Hobgood, served a delicious sweet course.

The Baltic Sea covers an area of 163,000 square miles. Its greatest depth is 1,808 feet.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
GROWING PAINS

It is a truism to say that we live in an age of transition. Only now and again, however, do we realize that human institutions have changed more in the past half-century—and certainly in the past 75 years—than at any time in the history of the world. This has brought profound moral and social dislocation. We are conscious of the distress caused by these dislocations but very seldom do we analyze their causes.

Most of our modern troubles are just plain growing pains. The world is growing taller, like an adolescent boy, but whether humanity is healthier than it used to be is something that only time will tell.

The tremendous world chaos is caused by the fact that peoples of the world whose life has been dormant for centuries are suddenly aroused to new hopes and activities. Great sections of humanity have lain dormant for centuries. Now with new weapons in their hands they have started out to shoot up the towns. Worst of all, they are encouraged by a goddess and materialistic philosophy.

We must defend ourselves by any means possible, but the best defense against a mistaken ideology is a better ideology.

A Good Start For A Worthy Project

The Junior Chamber of Commerce project to find rooms for visiting service men in Greenville on the week-ends is the beginning of an effort which should be carried farther than merely finding beds for the service men.

The Jaycee undertaking to find rooms for the service men who are flocking to Greenville on the week-ends is fine in itself. The project, however, will require the cooperation of the people of Greenville who are able to furnish rooms in which these service men may stay.

The Reflector urges the cooperation of the people of Greenville with the Junior Chamber of Commerce project. But we would suggest, as we have before, that the civic clubs of the city look into the matter of having a service men's center in Greenville as we had during World War II.

Each week-end brings an increasing number of Marines and other service personnel to Greenville; and their difficulty in finding a place to go, or something to do, is evidenced by their presence on the downtown streets far into the night.

The service men's center which was operated here during the last war was wholly a success. It meant a great deal to thousands of service men; and Greenville itself was much better off by having a nice place the visitors could go.

The Jaycees have taken the first step in reorganizing a program which will benefit Greenville and Greenville's visiting service men.

The Reflector hopes the people of the city will support the Jaycee program, and that the citizens of the city will see to it that the program is expanded.

By Way Of Comparison . . .

Governor Scott in some ways reminds us of the Mississippi demagogue Theodore G. Bilbo. Only Scott shouts to the house-tops, "farmer-hater" at everyone who takes issue with him . . . Bilbo shouted "nigger-lover."

Scott appeals to a prejudice which doesn't exist except where he has been able to cultivate it to be used to feather his own nest. Since the early days of his administration he has sought to pit the farmers of North Carolina against everyone else in the state. Thank God he hasn't succeeded.

The latest of Scott's demagogic orgies is his reprimand of Representative Pou of Wake county for starting an investigation of the contracts for the controversial coliseum for the state fair grounds. The governor charges that the lawyers are ganging up against the farmers. In our opinion the investigation of the coliseum contracts is quite in order, and by pressing the investigation the law-makers are carrying out the wishes of the vast majority of the tax payers . . . farmers included.

As The Reflector has said previously, with conditions as they are today, it seems unwise for the state to put $1,300,000 in an ultra-modern building which will be used one week out of the year.

The governor is not willing to let the proposition stand on its face value. He is seeking to resolve it into a knock-down, drag-out battle between the folks who live in towns and the folks who live outside town limits. Actually, however, that has nothing to do with the matter of building or not building the proposed coliseum.

Although Governor Scott continues his shouts of "farmer-hater" to everyone who opposes him, we sincerely hope the people of the state will accept the shouts for exactly what they are . . . an effort to create a feeling of prejudice between the people of our own state.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—The rapidly rising cost of all kinds of clothing has directed a senatorial spotlight on the government's heavy sales of cotton stocks to China and other Russian satellites since the outbreak of fighting in Korea.

Despite severe scarcities in this commodity and such allied products as wool, an estimated $600,000,000 worth of this critical material has been shipped abroad.

While Secretary Acheson has been blaming Britain, France and Holland for supplying the Chinese Reds with essential goods within the last six months, the Commodity Credit Corporation has pursued the same policy.

It has sold cotton, which can be used for everything from uniforms to ammunition, to Mao Tse-tung's regime, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Manchuria, Hungary and Yugoslavia.

APPROVAL—Obviously, these exports could not have been made without the full knowledge and approval of high Administration officials. Besides the role which CCC has played, export licenses must be issued by the Department of Commerce.

It was in this office that William Remington, tried for perjury because of his Grand Jury denial that he had ever been a Communist, used to serve. Incidentally, his superior in that same office recently resigned under mysterious circumstances.

In other respects Agriculture Secretary Brannan does not seem to realize that the United States is already engaged in a large-scale war, and that the Korean affair may flare into a global conflict, as President Truman repeatedly warns.

SALE—Despite the skyrocketing of general food costs, he has offered for overseas sale millions of tons of commodities purchased under the price support program.

These include milk solids, all varieties of beans, wheat, barley, corn, dried and shell eggs, starches and potatoes. Even more astonishing items are such essential things as linseed oil, flaxseed and gum rosin.

The offer specifies that these bargains are not available under any circumstances to domestic buyers or consumers. Nor can they go to countries receiving Marshall Plan money. Therefore, the only markets are Communist or satellite nations.

AGENT—The $600,000,000 export of cotton throws a searing light on the mental and political processes of the men directing the remobilization effort at Washington, from President Truman down. Secretary Brannan is only an agent.

Mr. Brannan revealed his awareness of the importance of cotton last fall, when he issued an order reducing the amount that could be sold abroad through March. It was a conservation move.

But southern members of Congress protested vehemently against the proposed reduction, and carried their complaints to the White House.

MISJUDGMENT—Mr. Truman forced Secretary Brannan to reverse his order in a move to appease the anti-White House bloc on Capitol Hill, and the result is that cotton will be in short supply for both civilian and military needs.

Naturally, this scarcity forces up the price of all finished textiles, whether made of cotton or substitutes. Wool, of course, had been extremely scarce for many months.

Behind this policy of foreign selling, however, lies the same misjudgment and misunderstanding which has characterized our diplomatic and military thinking almost since the end of World War II.

RESPONSIBILITY—Mr. Brannan placed complete faith in presidential descriptions of the Korean struggle as a mere "police action." He was lulled by Mr. Truman's early 1950 declarations that there was every prospect of permanent world peace. So, he did not mobilize agricultural resources and supplies any more than Louis A. Johnson built up the armed services.

Mr. B's sole aim was to get rid of "surpluses" and make a good financial showing to Congress on CCC operations.

His post-Korea sales of cotton to Communist countries, as well as his December offers of food for sale to these same areas, were made before the Truman-Acheson-Marshall conclusion, reached only after the early December repulse of United Nations forces by Chinese Communists' reinforcements from Manchuria, that the United States must prepare for a possible battlefield showdown with the Soviet Union.

Major fault does not lie with good-natured, hard-working "Baldy" Brannan. The responsibility rests on the White House, the State Department and the Pentagon Building.

WEAKNESS OR STRENGTH?
"It is evident that a large and stubborn clique in this government is still fighting for all the costly proposals which would transform the country into a paternal state based on the British socialist model. The vast expense of this, of course, would simply be piled on top of a military budget which may run to $70,000,000,000 or more. It is even argued that the strains of rearmament will in themselves make extensive 'social measures' necessary."

"Well, theory is one thing and fact is often quite another. And the evident fact is that the only way we can hope to pay for full-scale defense without destroying the value of our money is to cut out every domestic tax expenditure that can be avoided. And we must do this no matter how it hurts, or what it does to the feelings of those who pine for the socialist Utopia."

"We cannot draw a fast line between domestic policy, foreign policy, and military policy. Ever-increasing inflation and steady decline in the purchasing power of the dollar, could in itself undermine the military program to a disastrous degree. The politicians talk about sacrifices. Let them start by sacrificing political programs which would sorely weaken us when we must be strong. The only ones who are really sacrificing anything are those in the armed forces."—(The Industrial News Review)

THINGS ONE REMEMBERS

By R. M. HOFER

In these days when American history seems to be stressed less than foreign political doctrines in many quarters of our land it is a good time to take stock of men who helped make this nation great and who put principle above politics.

For a moment, think about Benjamin Franklin who was born January 17, 1706.

A brief summary of as versatile an individual is impossible. He was a fearless printer and publisher. His services to America in England and France rank him as one of the heroes of the American War for Independence and as the greatest of American diplomats. Almost the only American scientist of his day, he displayed remarkably deep as well as varied abilities in science and deserved the honors enthusiastically given him by the savants of Europe. His experiment with the kite, proving lightning an electrical phenomenon, was performed in 1752. But little could Franklin realize how electricity would be developed to become the greatest force on earth.

It is high time we rededicate ourselves to recognizing great Americans and the blessings our own country offers in free speech, free press, free religion, free opportunity and the right to own property.

"One frequently hears that if private capital will not flow abroad then the Federal government must make loans and investments in underdeveloped countries. Why has the government a right to take risks which are rejected as excessive by experienced persons who invest their own funds? No great genius is required to lose money. If foreign loans and investments are not profitable the recipient countries fail to benefit, at the same time that the wealth of the United States is wasted."—W. W. Cumberland

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last night Wife Rachel and I came in from the Wednesday night bridge club at 11:15, half asleep and with no column idea. By 11:35 I had found H. Allen Smith's story in Colliers on the ailment I have long feared of suffering from: insomnia. W.R. tells me that I could sleep through a Times Square traffic jam in the back seat of a taxi cab. If you ask me, one of the greatest assets a man can have is the ability to completely relax. So I'm proud of this virtue. Besides, before Nancy came W. R. slept as soundly as I do, so she can't talk about me.

Anyhow, we agreed that there wasn't a column in our ability to sleep, so I'd better take excerpts out of H. Allen Smith's story about people who can't sleep. H. Allen says that there was a day when sex was the most written-about topic in the world until, that is, until sleeplessness took over in 1950. It seems that whether you can sleep or not, you enjoy reading about methods to overcome insomnia.

A man named Fanning, who is supposed to be an expert on sleep, has a series of suggestions for the conquest of sleeplessness. If you can't go to sleep, he says, get out of bed and eat a head of lettuce. If that doesn't work, put on your clothes and go outdoors and run two miles. If this doesn't work, return home and stare at some goldfish swimming around in a bowl. Then there's the McEvoy system. Lie in bed and start relaxing, piece by piece. Start with your scalp. Think about the scalp, concentrate on it, dominate it, and compel it to relax. Then the head part underneath the scalp. Relax that. (I suppose Mr. McEvoy means the skull. I find it difficult to relax my own skull; however, other people may be different.)

Next comes the forehead, and the ears, and the sideburns, and the eyes, nose, cheeks, mouth, chin, neck. You keep moving southward, taking up each part of the body as you reach it, and concentrating on getting that part relaxed before you start on the next one. H. Allen tried the McEvoy system one night and it nearly drove him crazy. He concentrated so hard on his nose that his relaxed scalp forgot itself and started twitching. Then he had to go back to his scalp and leave his nose half relaxed. By the time his scalp was settled down again, his ears started to whirl. This is a great system for keeping yourself awake.

Another expert, this one named Elder, says that the best method is trying to think of names of famous people starting with a particular letter of the alphabet. The catch here is that after 26 nights (that is, even if you use "X") you have to start all over again.

H. Allen's story goes on and on, telling you foolish methods that won't put you to sleep. But I'll have to stop here. His story is entertaining, but even at that it has put me to sleep.

And I thank H. Allen.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

MUNIFICENCE—Donation of approximately four hundred thousand dollars for the promotion of research and instruction in agriculture at State College constitutes one of the outstanding philanthropies of recent years. Announcement has just been made of the contribution by W. N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem of ten thousand shares of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company stock as nucleus for the William Neal Reynolds Agricultural Fund. The stock pays quarterly dividends of 60¢ per share. That means the college will have an income of some $20,000 a year for agricultural teaching.

TERMS—It is understood that there are not many restrictions upon use of the fund, except that it is intended to secure for State College the top men in their fields of agricultural education. Beneficiaries of the fund will be carefully screened to make sure that the money is not used simply to supplement salaries of mediocre instructors. The purpose is to hold and secure the best men to be found anywhere. If they aren't, then let's find them. The standards of excellence set up by the college and administrators of the fund, they will not be eligible to participate in the supplements provided by it.

OVERLAPPING—There is bound to be conflict in committee sessions for many members. They aren't enough time in the day to arrange all committee meetings so they will not run into others. The exception is in the judiciary group where no duplication of membership can apply. Beginning next week the house judiciary committees will meet on the same days—Tuesday and Thursday at 10 a.m. That will give the lawyers a chance to attend other meetings without missing their own particular group.

LYE—Senator Wesley Watts of Robeson confesses a little surprise at lack of opposition to his bill restricting the sale of concentrated lye. He finds that most country merchants are heartily in favor of the bill, although it may in a few instances deprive them of some small business. Only expression other than full accord which has come to the senator's knowledge is suggestion that an amendment be offered to provide for purchase of lye or caustic soda by laboratories, schools and colleges for scientific purposes, but not for re-sale. The senator will go along with that idea.

RELUCTANT—The senate committee on counties, cities and towns somewhat reluctantly gave favorable report to a local Moore county bill designed to protect taxicab drivers from passengers disposed to skip without paying the taxi fare. The hesitation was induced by a statement of Senator Hawley Poole of Moore, introducer of the bill, that it very probably was unconstitutional, but was designed as a sort of "scare bill" and that most likely anybody cheap enough to beat a taxi cab would not carry the matter to the supreme court. There was no lack of desire to protect taxi drivers in collection of reasonable charges, but the committee obviously did not like to approve legislation admitted at variance with the constitution. One member observed that they were enough such mistakes when they thought they were right.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

Looks As If Something Is Needed (Williamston Enterprise)
While we do not question anyone's right to oppose motor vehicle inspections, we are positive that something needs to be done to check the operation of vehicles with improper equipment.

During the first two weeks of the current year there were seven motor vehicle accidents on streets and highways in this county. More than one-fourth of the accidents were attributable to improper brakes. One driver crashed into a tree and four others crashed into moving objects.

Possibly inspection would have solved the problem, but it is apparent that something should be done to check potential killers.

If inspection will help save one life, then let's have inspection. Things are moving mighty fast in this age, but there's still time to slow down in the name of human life and limb. And when those who oppose inspection realize that the plan is to help save human life and not necessarily to force dangerous equipment off the highways or to inconvenience anyone, then we'll be getting along in the direction of safety on our highways and streets.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

One of the worst evils of inflation is that it acts as a tax. It takes the things that money will buy away from those who live on pensions, annuities, savings and creditors generally and gives them, not to the government, but to those who hold real property and other tangibles.

But another evil is its deceptiveness. The Department of Commerce suggested that this week when it announced that the $280,000,000 in goods and services produced in the nation last year was worth only $153,000,000 in 1939 dollars.

This would make the present dollar worth only about 54 cents. The deceptiveness is readily apparent. A man making $75 a week might readily conclude that he was making more than his father did at the same age. But in Commerce's cold terms, he is making only $40.50 a week.

How this deception can be costly may be shown by the case of a man who paid $10,000 for a six-room house in 1939. He was offered $20,000 for it a few weeks ago. Overwhelmed by this seemingly easily-gained pot of money, he accepted the offer on the spot. Now he's looking for a place to house the family. To get a six-room house of similar standards, he'll have to go out miles further into the country, pay $30,000 and still deal with Uncle Sam over a capital gains tax on $10,000.

The Department of Commerce recognition of the fact that a dollar isn't worth a buck any more represents no new awakening in Washington. The Department has long listed monthly figures on the purchasing power of the dollar. The latest figures at hand show that the dollar was worth only 47 1/2 cents in wholesale buying in September, 57 1/2 cents in consumer buying, and only 49 cents in food buying.

Because of rises in food prices since then, the dollar is probably worth only about 47 cents in buying food today. At the same rate of decline, the food dollar will be worth about 22 cents in 1962 and 10 1/3 cents in 1973.

That isn't preposterous, as has been shown by the experience of other countries in the grip of inflation. The German mark dwindled from 24 cents in 1915 to absolute zero after World War I. The French franc dropped in value from a quarter of a dollar then to a quarter of a cent now. But in terms of 1939 dollars, it's worth only an eighth of a cent.

Hal Boyle's Column

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD (For HAL BOYLE)

In Korea—(AP)—There are patched bullet holes in every one of the 15 little artillery liaison planes parked on the short and very rough Korean airstrip.

A lieutenant, one of the men who files these planes to call the shots for the artillery, said: "You have an extremely naked feeling when you're low over enemy territory in one of these jobs."

He is Lt. Moses Lewis of Emporia, Kas., a longtime resident of Kansas City. Lewis is typical of the artillery liaison pilots at this airstrip. All are veterans of the second world war. All have a tremendous number of missions over enemy lines—from 200 to 300.

The liaison pilots help seek out targets for artillery and then hover over the targets and direct the fire.

"Our little planes are unarmed but they can call in more firepower than a battleship," said Capt. Troy B. Hammons of Tacoma, Wash.

"You can hear it when the enemy is cracking away at you with rifles," Hammons added.

Maj. Robert L. Hoffman of Portsmouth, Ohio, said: "Our men fly on days when Air Force planes are grounded—even when it's snowing and the visibility is terrible. I've seen them come in for landings with their heads sticking out the side window."

"Our fields are always unlighted," said Capt. Robert W. Kolb of Fayetteville, N. C.

"The thing we sweat out most is getting all our planes in before dark. That and the terrain," said Lt. Robert J. Teitelbaum of Lima, Ohio.

"We don't wear a parachute and I know of no other country that suffers like this one from a lack of forced landing spots. This country we fly over is really rugged."

Come along with Teitelbaum on a mission into enemy territory. The plane is splashed with mud and it obviously has been hard used. The temperature is five degrees below zero as you take off and there is no comfort in the small unheated cabin. Once aloft, the cabin door keeps coming open in spite of the fact that an old strip of inner tube is wound around the handle to hold it shut.

For an hour you skim the frosted ridges and glide down canyons, hunting for signs of enemy. Then the lieutenant begins a job of directing artillery fire on a village.

He chatters directions into his microphone for listening artillerymen.

Then, through your earphones, you hear an artilleryman say, "It's on the way."

"Roger," Teitelbaum says.

Twelve seconds later the shell reaches the village. You have been flying above and a geyser of snow and smoke shoots up from a rice paddy.

The pilot gives the artilleryman a correction of the range and the next shell crashes nearer a dwelling. The third shell is a direct hit on one of the thatched roof huts, demolishing it. For 30 minutes the firing continues and the shells are really on the mark.

Back at the airstrip you meet other men who, like Teitelbaum, double in artillery liaison work and act as couriers for an Army division.

Then there are the men who maintain the little planes, such as Sgt. William Burns of Dade City, Fla., and Sgt. Clarence R. Flowers of Newton, N. C., and Tacoma, Wash.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington—WAC Corporal Mary Laffer, sitting before the control board in the Army's radio station KAUSA in the Pentagon, was just following orders to demonstrate her ability as a "ham" operator.

"Set your beam control," came the voice of Master Sgt. Paul Allyn, veteran radio man in control of the station. Mary fiddled with some gadget to turn the antenna on the roof of the Pentagon. "Now try to get someone to come in," Sgt. Allyn said.

"Calling CQ, CQ, CQ . . . come in, please. . . CQ, King Four Uncle Sugar Able . . . CQ, CQ—come in . . . anyone please. . . CQ, CQ, CQ . . . King Four Uncle Sugar Able." Mary called repeatedly into the microphone.

Someone explained "King Four Uncle Sugar Able" is phonetic Army talk for KAUSA. Not one, but several voices called in. Finally, Mary carried on a conversation with another "ham" at Bigsville, Ill.

Mary is the only WAC "ham," or amateur woman radio operator, in the Army. Her principal job is receptionist at the Army's Military Amateur Radio System's (MARS) main network at the Pentagon. But M. Laffer is being trained for every kind of job. She now knows how to operate the station's master control so she can take over any position in case of emergency.

Purpose of the MARS is to provide an additional source of trained radio operators in the event of a local, or national emergency. It provides a complete radio network throughout the country, readily available to military commanders. Red Cross personnel, or others charged with emergency responsibilities in any area.

The MARS is also set up to create interest and further training in military amateur radio communications and to coordinate practices and procedures of amateur radio operations with those of military radio communications.

MARS memberships are available to any individual in the military service of the U. S., or to one of its civilian components such as the ROTC, or to certain civilian amateurs, all of whom must possess a valid amateur radio operator's license issued by the Federal Communications Commission. MARS Army members now total 2,568. Since November when civilian members were accepted, 381 have joined and are coming in at the rate of about 75 a week.

Based on past records of radio amateurs as citizen-soldiers, experimenter-technicians and disaster service comm: cators for MARS, plans include a program of affiliation to coordinate military methods and procedures with those of amateur radio.

New Tobacco Varieties Talked At Township Meet Last Night

New varieties of tobacco came to the attention of tobacco farmers of Greenville Township and indications are that more resistant varieties will be planted this year than ever before.

With S. J. Weeks, county tobacco specialist presiding, a small group of farmers met to view a group of colored slides outlining the entire production of tobacco from the fumigation of the soil in the late fall to the curing barn in the late summer. The meeting was the last of the recent series scheduled before the majority of farmers get their seed sown in the beds.

Weeks' discussion, accompanied with the slides, centered around the latest recommended practices of bedding, fertilizing, dusting and spraying, and curing. We stated that the end product—the cured leaf—was only as good as the seed in the bed early in January and the beds should be treated for any disease early in the year.

Concerning treatment he stated the use of toxaphene for exterminating the hornworm is not being recommended this year due to tests which showed a resulting bad odor and taste in the cured leaf. Other treatments for the various blights and diseases are still in effect and are recommended.

During the discussion the farmers were given reports of variety tests made in the county from last year's crop. The tests showed varieties resistant to black shank and Granville wilt proved excellent producers of good leaf and were hardy during the growing season. The "old line" varieties showed good results also, he said, but none are resistant to black shank and the wilt.

Weeks recommended the use of soil fumigants for getting rid of root knot nematodes. The soil should be treated in the fall, he said, and the treatment costs about $40 per acre. Although the cost is high, he said, the farmer stands to realize about three times that amount in the harvest.

Two From Pitt Earn Degrees At State College
Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 25.—North Carolina State College authorities announced today that 86 students completed the academic requirements for bachelor's degrees at the end of the last school term. The list of graduating students includes 68 North Carolinians and 18 from outside the State. They will receive their diplomas during next June's commencement exercises.

Among the new graduates and the fields of study in which they specialized, are two from Pitt county. They are:
Joe J. Allen, Greenville, Textiles;
John A. Worthington, of Winterville, agricultural education.

Pvt. Harold Garris Finishes Basic Course
Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, Pvt. Harold R. Garris, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Garris of Route 2, Greenville, N. C., has completed his basic airman indoctrination course at Lackland Air Force Base, the "Gateway to the Air Force."

His basic training has prepared him for entrance into Air Force technical training and for assignment in specialized work.

200 to 300 lbs. of Chilean Nitrate produced 150 to 200 pounds more lint cotton per acre. Dollar return: about 10 to 1. You can't afford not to invest in natural soda this year!

CORN
300 lbs. of Chilean Nitrate increased yields of corn about 20 bushels per acre. Dollar return: almost 4 to 1. Chilean Nitrate means maximum yields for maximum profits!

HERE'S WHY: Nitrogen content—all nitrate nitrogen... fast-acting... completely available... the only natural nitrate in the world.
Sodium content—contains 26% sodium (equivalent to 35% sodium oxide)... sodium is essential to maximum yields... substitutes for potassium, where lacking, and makes soil phosphate more available... helps "sweeten" the soil.
Other plant foods—natural traces of iodine, manganese, potassium, magnesium, boron, calcium, iron, sulphur, copper and zinc.
Watch Natchel says "Look for the bulging on the bag. It means natchel soda in free-flowin' pellet form. Used now for over one hundred years."

Czech Dumpling Treat Under Fire From Press

AP Newsfeatures

Prague—The knedlik, or Czech dumpling, is under fire.

A couple of crusading newspapers have been telling people not to eat so many—something like urging the French to give up wine or Southerners to lay off fried chicken.

The papers didn't just say that a dumpling diet hurts the five-year production plan. But they did hold that it makes people sick, sluggish and indifferent to progress.

Dumplings also, as they did not point out, take flour and bread, and there's a campaign on in Communist-led Czechoslovakia now to save both.

The knedlik—the "k" is pronounced—is the starchy backbone of many meals in Bohemia and Moravia, a culinary fixture of the hearty old Bohemian life.

It is an oval slice of wheat dough, heavy, spongy and tough, about half an inch thick and three inches long. Give a man a slab of roast pork or stewed beef with three to five knedliks—that is the Czech plural—and he has a meal.

Well, within two days of each other, "Svobodne Slovo" and "Lidova Demokracie" have proclaimed boldly that he would be better off eating potatoes instead.

"Svobodne Slovo," Prague Socialist newspaper, said knedlik caused bad teeth and indigestion. It quoted medical authorities.

"Besides," Slovo added, "there is a kind of 'knedlik' despair." Because Czechs eat knedlik, he said, "in their hearts the Slovaks always look down on us a little."

The ordinary Czech, however, likes knedlik. Outsiders who want to know which school is right can make their own handy. Here is a recipe for two:

Sift a half pound of good flour into a bowl. Dump in the yolks of three eggs. Sprinkle in about six ounces of cubes made from crisp white crescent rolls toasted in the oven. Sift in some soda from a siphon. Stir with a wooden spoon. Knead into a long loaf about three inches thick. Boil the loaf a half hour. With a string, cut it into half-inch slices, and you have knedlik.

To the novice, eating knedlik has roughly the same numbing effect as getting hit in the head with a sledgehammer.

Clock Turned Back By Simple 'Beauty Tonic'

By BETTY CLARKE

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor.

Glamour has a hundred lives. Mom and even Grandma can rediscover the magic potion of charm. If they will just take a good look to see how it can be done.

A mother or grandmother who can't be induced to go to a beauty salon for all the fixin's can be prompted to experiment at home.

Sometimes all it takes to turn back the calendar is a haircut, permanent wave and hair setting.

You can get Mom in the mood by showing her how simple it is to achieve that salon coiffed look at home. It usually is lots easier to cut the hair of the older woman who has less of it to worry about than her younger sisters.

When cutting Mom's hair, first trim it to shoulder length. Then taper and shape the hair a little at a time until you have at a becoming length, allowing for the permanent wave, or course. If you can get Mom to a hairdresser for her hair cut, so much the better of course. But if she is stubborn try the second best thing—your own hand at the shears.

Use a cream shampoo, wait until the hair has dried to even dampness before sectioning it according to directions on your permanent wave kit.

If mother's hair is of fine texture, it probably will take the minimum time to curl—which you can learn from a test curl. Don't make a mistake or you will prove to her that she was right—that the whole thing is a big nuisance.

Roll the hair on spin curlers, use the instant neutralizer according to directions, blotting each curl with a towel to remove excess liquid.

Most older women look better with a loose natural looking wave, so put her ends up in pin curls to accomplish best results.

Here are some other tricks older women can employ to beat Father Time:

1. They should wear little crisp white touches at neckline and cuffs, occasionally.

2. Mauve, gray and violet look lovely on older women. Black and white prints are favorites, also. It isn't necessary to stick to black suits and dresses.

3. Good foundation garments are important as mother grows older. She needs more support around hips, derriere and abdomen to give her a sleek, youthful line.

4. Even though her shoes are sensible they don't have to look her age. There are smart attractive patterns available which can give excellent support to Mom's feet.

5. It isn't necessary to shy away from makeup completely. Powder, rouge and lipstick can do much to pep up a wan skin. Just don't overdo it.

Debate Over Fair Coliseum Provides Significant Angles

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Jan. 26—The coliseum, or cattle judging pavilion, at the state fairgrounds has been much in the headlines, and may remain that position for sometime—even after the specific issue itself has been settled.—It has become a sort of pivot upon which hinges some developments more far-reaching than the million and a half dollar building itself.

It provided the occasion for the first evidence of warfare between the governor and the legislature. That particular phase may recede or swell, depending upon many factors, including the temper of leaders on both sides. The record up to now indicates more show of temper on part of the governor than on part of any members of the general assembly.

It very probably will establish a sort of yardstick by which other public buildings will be judged in relation to national defense and priorities on materials. That phase of that problem was sufficiently important to take Governor Scott and other state officials to Washington Tuesday for a conference with federal agencies. There are some what conflicting reports about what they learned on that trip.

A Washington date line story appearing Wednesday morning indicated the National Production Authority would not allot materials for the building. Governor Scott reported upon his return that top national defense authorities said the state's building program, including the fairgrounds projects, would not be disturbed. Whether there is actual conflict among top brass in Washington, or the emphasis placed by the Carolinians gave impression of conflict, only future developments will determine.

The differences between those in North Carolina who advocate going ahead as fast as possible with the building and those who insist building should be deferred, are not as deep as some news stories would lead the public to believe.

There is apparent unanimous belief the building will be a great asset to North Carolina's agricultural development, particularly in the field of livestock—which is a major item in the state's development program. Nor one has questioned the soundness of the position taken by James H. Hilton, dean of agriculture at State College. The dean says, in effect, that "building to perform the functions for which this building was intended is one of the greatest needs of the state's agricultural program." On the controversial issue of whether it is important enough to justify replacing some other state building, Dean Hilton had no comment.

It is true that at the public hearing before a legislative committee Tuesday afternoon, every person who spoke favored immediate construction of the building as planned. Everyone of them insisted he would not interfere with the national war effort, through stimulation of food production. Even an inexperienced observer could see that the proponents of the building had been urged to attend the hearing. One member of the committee quipped that he could have had as many on hand opposing the project if he had had some money to spend or free telephone service. That was evidently a jibe at the number of state employees and agricultural organization personnel present.

The situation as of Thursday morning seems to be that the state has gone too far with the matter to back out, having a confirmed contract and work already having been started and much of the material bought. There is little chance the general assembly will abrogate that contract—North Carolina just doesn't do that kind of thing—unless forced to do so by imposition of federal restrictions on this type of building. If these limitations are imposed they will cover a lot more than the fairgrounds.

"TERRIBLY EMBARRASSED by HOT FLUSHES

But I Get Wonderful Relief Now With Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound"

"I hated the very thought of change of life. So many women I know from 38 to 52 years suffer from nervous, irritable, weak, tired feelings due to this functional middle-age period peculiar to women—the time when fertility ebbs away. I was terribly embarrassed by hot flushes, but I find that now I can get amazing relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Lydia Pinkham's Compound also relieves miserable high-strung, cranky feelings when due to this cause.

"I find that by taking Lydia Pinkham's Compound faithfully, it helps build up resistance against such middle-age distress. I can well understand why it's called 'the woman's friend.' Me for Lydia Pinkham's Compound every day."

P. S. Pinkham's Compound is very tasty in a little fruit juice. Or you may prefer Lydia Pinkham's TABLETS with added iron. Handy to carry in your purse.

Junior's Winter Health Needs Parental Guidance

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Education Editor

Parents must exercise good, hard common sense if they want their junior to maintain good health at this season of the year.

According to Dr. Thomas N. Bockner, pediatrician and general practitioner on the staff of the St. Elizabeth's Hospital in New York City, there are four cardinal rules to be followed: Proper food; adequate clothing; proper play; a proper environment. Says he:

"Of course, these are not exactly earth-shaking. But many parents have to be told again and again before it is too late—a child's health is maintained by something more than merely paying lip service to these rules.

A balanced diet for this season is necessary to combat cold. This means less starch and more of the green and yellow vegetable classes; more of the so-called vitamin group and iron group for children, says the doctor.

This does not mean just trying to stuff junior full of these proper foods, he says. It means parents must carefully decide on the foods required and then let junior decide which in each class he likes the best. A child who eats willingly will be the healthier for it, he says.

One fallacy parents seem to share in general, he says, is that junior is to be kept indoors when the weather is cold outside. Nothing can be farther from the truth. If junior's feet are dry and his throat covered, he can go out and play in the coldest weather without any after effects but the best. And don't be afraid to let him play with other chil-

Interviewing Air Force Candidates

Young men from the ages of 19 and one-half to 26 and one-half, who are interested in pilot and navigator flying training in the United States Air Force have an opportunity to be interviewed and processed by Air Force officers now on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College, Sgt. Don Fare, local recruiter, reported today.

An Air Force staff under the supervision of Major Leslie McLaurin, veteran B-29 combat pilot from the 14th Air Force, has been examining prospective Air Force enlistees since Monday.

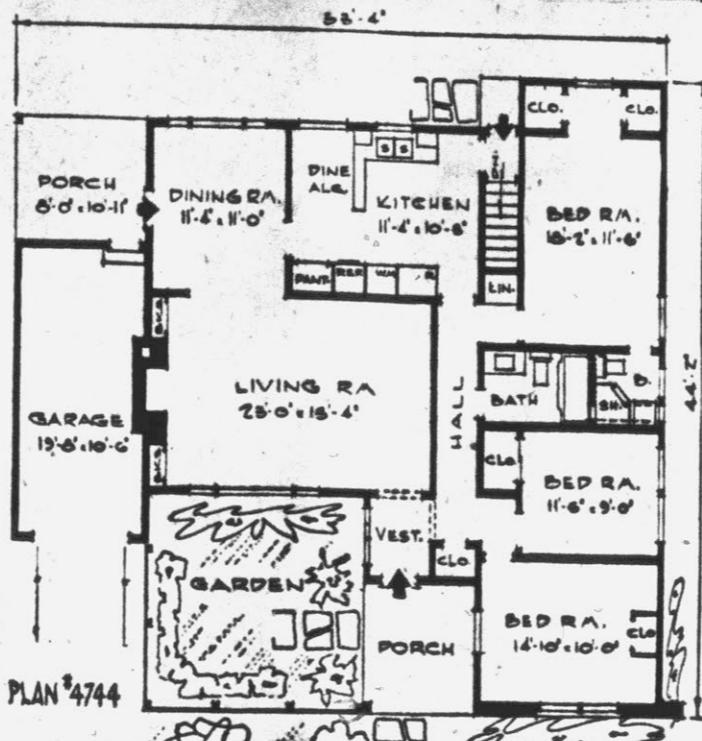

The staff gives the applicant an on-the-spot examination. An applicant may select a flying class a year in advance, thus being able to finish a full college year.

Major McLaurin disclosed that any cadets selected will be given, while in training, $105 monthly pay, plus all expenses and the flying lieutenant receives more than $4700 a year if single.

Pilot and navigator trainees must have the educational requirement which includes two years of college to be eligible. After one year's training the cadet is commissioned a 2nd lieutenant and pilot. Outstanding graduates receive regular commissions while others are placed on the Reserve active duty commissions, and have opportunity to compete for regular commissions while on three years of active duty with the Air Force.

Major McLaurin explained that anyone who is either disqualified or resigns, does not have to remain in the service but can revert to a civilian status.

N.C. March Of Dimes In Second Week Of Drive

Chapel Hill, Jan. 24...With the 1951 March of Dimes in its second week, W. Frank Phillips of Charlotte, North Carolina Chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, urged citizens throughout the State to continue to contribute generously to the drive for funds.

"Although polio is on the increase throughout the country (the 747 cases in this State last year being the third highest on record), North Carolina's goal this year is no more than last year — one million dollars," he said.

Chairman Phillips pointed out that this may seem small in view of the fact that the national goal is 50 million as compared to 30 million last year, that the National Foundation has sent to this state during the last three years twice as much as has been sent to national headquarters, and that last year's epidemic broke practically all the chapters in the country and left the National Foundation with a patient care deficit of five million.

"North Carolina chapters are operating with a deficit of around a million and a quarter dollars with unpaid patient care bills at this time running at $60,000 to $70,000," he said. "We are grateful to our hospitals for bearing with us until after the March of Dimes drive is over at which time these bills will be paid."

Chairman Phillips said that North Carolina should exceed its goal this year by a substantial margin, as it did in 1949, following the state's worst epidemic when there were more than 2,900 cases.

Farmville Six Wins, 46-42; Two Ayden Teams Advance

Coastal Gold Medal Tourney At Farmville Enters Semi-Finals Tonight With Four Games Scheduled

By BILL LLOYD
Reflector Sports Editor

Farmville's third annual Coastal Gold Medal tournament goes into the semi-finals tonight, with four top-flight games slated, first game beginning at 6:30 between the top-seeded Snow Hill girls and a dark-horse Vanceboro team.

Farmville, Ayden, and Snow Hill each have a boys and girls team in the semi-finals, while Stantonburg boys and Vanceboro girls round out the semi-finalist teams.

Tonight's Semi-Finals Schedule
6:30 Snow Hill vs. Vanceboro (Girls)
7:30 Stantonburg vs. Snow Hill (Boys)
8:30 Farmville vs. Ayden (Girls)
9:30 Ayden vs. Farmville (Boys)

Four thrilling games were seen last night by the capacity crowd that filled the Farmville High School gymnasium, as Farmville's defending girls' champions staved off a Bell Arthur rally to win, 46-42; Snow Hill's quint topped an unsung Walstonsburg five in a three-minute overtime, 42-40; Ayden's girls froze the ball in the last few minutes to win over South Edgecombe, 46-42; and Ayden's top-seeded quintet experienced plenty of difficulty in downing a nifty Nahunta five, 23-17.

In the first game, Farmville's defending girls' champs made a successful comeback over a scrappy Bell Arthur six, by a 46-42 score.

Middle Rouse, with 21 points, and Ila Wooten and Rave Hathaway, with 15 and 10 points respectively, paved the Farmville girls over a one-girl scoring show by Bell Arthur's Betty Jones, who hit for 33 points.

Jones put the Bell Arthur sextet into a brief 6-5 lead in the opening minutes of the first quarter, but successive baskets by Rouse scored the score to 10-6 in favor of the Red Devil six, and they were never headed throughout the rest of the contest.

The second game between Snow Hill and Walstonsburg's quintets really got the ball rolling, with the regulation game ending in a 40-40 tie by virtue of free throw by Walstonsburg's Tommy Norville, after Center Billy McCoy had put the Snow Hill into the lead 40-39 with less than 11 seconds remaining.

In this most thrilling scrap of the night, which had the jam-packed fans shrieking, Walstonsburg led throughout the second half, before losing the lead in the final seconds by McCoy's layup.

In the overtime period, Ed Lane hooked in the winning points with 1:15 remaining in the three-minute period, giving the jubilant Snow Hill cagers a 42-40 verdict over a heart-breaking Walstonsburg quint.

Ayden's heightened experienced trouble with an aggressive South Edgecombe outfit, before winning 46-42.

Ayden, paced by Katherine Wooten with 26 points, and Alice Jean Cox with 12, led throughout the first half, but two consecutive layups by Webb brought the score to read, 44-42 in favor of the Tornado lassies with less than two minutes to go. Stokes' final layup gave the Ayden six their margin.

Nifty ball-handling by a surprising Nahunta five threw Ayden's top-seeded quint into low-scoring affair in the final game of the night.

Both teams were off considerably in their shooting, but the nifty floor work of Nahunta's Gid Holloman and Junior Daughtry thrilled the tournament crowd.

In the first quarter the score was tied twice, before Dennis' push shot the Tornadoes ahead 7-5 at the end of the first quarter.

After this Ayden was never headed, but were not able to run up a score on the Nahunta five because of Edgerton's and Holloman's continuous ball-hawking.

Mac Whitehurst, with eight points, was the leader for Ayden.

Bantam Ben Among Phoenix Favorites

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 25—(AP)—The Gopher of the Year for 1950 makes his first 1951 competitive appearance here today in an event he or his fellow Texans have won five of the past six years.

It's the $10,000 Phoenix Open, and U.S. Open Champion Ben Hogan ranks with the favorites as he already has a pair of titles to his credit here. He won in 1946 and 1947.

To do it again he'll have to turn back a determined bid of Texas product Jimmy Demaret who seeks his third straight Phoenix Open title. It was in 1949 that Jimmy beat Ben in a playoff for the top award of $2,000.

On his way to Fort Worth after that tourney, Hogan had his near fatal accident. His return to the links and his 1950 U.S. Open victory easily won his distinction as the Best Gopher of the Year and also the comeback champion.

Last year was the repeat for Demaret who edged Sam Snead on the final day.

Another Texan, Byron Nelson, started this Lone Star state supremacy in the Phoenix Open. The only man to break it in the past six years was South African Bobby Locke, who sailed through to a record 268 for the 72 holes in 1948. That mark still stands.

Nelson, who came out of retirement to win the Bing Crosby invitational affair, won't be here, but Hogan and Demaret are fully capable of upholding the honor of Texas.

Most of the top hands in golf are on hand to dispute the statement. Former title holders in addition to Demaret and Hogan are Ed (Porky) Oliver who won in 1940 and 1941 and Harold (Jug) McSpaden who beat Nelson in a 1944 playoff.

Luckshots Romp Over Washington Becaps, 56-24

Coach Frank Toothman's Greenville High School Luckshots defeated the Washington Becaps in their first home game of the season last night by the score of 56-24. The game was played in the Greenville High School gymnasium.

From the very first minute of the game it was all Luckshots as Tommy Evans, Billy Brady, and Larry Fife mercilessly ripped the cords for a combined total of 32 points. Evans led the team in scoring with 12 points, closely followed by Fife and Brady, each with a total of 10 points.

The Washington lads just were not able to find the basket during the first half as they were held to only three field goals, these by Swindell, Bryan, and Hoyt. The Luckshots led at intermission by a 25-6 score.

The third quarter saw a rejuvenated Washington squad make a serious bid for victory as they cut the Luckshot lead down to 27-18. From this point the Luckshots united their forces and put on a hard pressing game that held the visitors to only two field goals and two foul shots for the remaining 10 minutes of the game. The Luckshots quickly built up a substantial lead on four baskets by Evans, three by Sideris and three by Brady.

The Becaps were handicapped by L. loss of their play-maker, Bobby Tolar, who re-injured a leg injury in the early minutes of the game and was forced to leave the game.

Phants Play Host To Kinston Arch-Rivals Tomorrow Night

Greenville's traveling Phantoms return home here tomorrow night to engage their bitter arch-rivals, the Kinston Red Devils, in the headlining Northeastern Conference clash.

The Phantoms, paced by the recent scoring of Jimmy Dillingham, Johnny Aman, and Sydney Briley, have been successful on their two recent road trips, defeating Roanoke Rapids and Edenton.

Greenville's Northeastern Conference record now stands at a 3-2 count.

Tomorrow night's game between the Red Devils and Phantoms has been transferred to the Wright gymnasium at East Carolina, in anticipation of the large crowd which is expected to be on hand for the traditional rivalry game.

After romping over Edenton Tuesday night, 66-38, Coach Bo Farley's quint settled themselves down to serious workouts in preparation for tomorrow night's clash.

Missing from the starting lineup tomorrow night will be Virginius Haymes, who has been called up by the local National Guard unit. Haymes played his last game against the Roanoke Rapids five last Friday night.

The starting five for tomorrow night's up and coming Phantoms will probably see Dillingham and Higgs at forwards, Briley at center, and Johnny Aman and Glen Scott at guard.

Hodges Hardware Continues To Win; Dairy Moves Up

Classie Bowling League

Hodges Hardware ..... 36 21 631
Wagner-Waldrop ..... 29 28 508
Carolina Dairy ..... 28 29 491
Bilbro Wholesale ..... 21 36 368

Hodges Hardware bowlers continued their dominance in the Classic Bowling League Tuesday night, taking three straight games from second-place Wagner-Waldrop.

In the other three-game series Carolina Dairy moved within one game of the second-place Wagner-Waldrop with two victories against one loss with Bilbro Wholesale.

All the Hodges Hardware bowlers were "hot" in Tuesday night's league play, as every member of the team played in the 400's of the three-game totals. R. Flanagan's 495 pins was tops for the three-game totals, while he also posted the top single score with a total of 185 pins in his first game.

FELLER ENTERS 200 CIRCLE
Cleveland—(AP)—The 1950 American League season marked a milestone in the pitching career of Robert Feller of the Cleveland Indians. Bob entered the record book as the 54th hurler in major league history to win 200 or more games.

Ranzino, Horvath, Bubas Ineligible For NCAA Play

Raleigh, N.C., Jan. 25—(AP)—A couple of seemingly harmless paragraphs in the N.C.A.A. eligibility laws has North Carolina State College's mighty basketball team going double-takes today.

The paragraphs read, in effect, that a player may have only three varsity seasons under his belt and still be eligible for competition in an N.C.A.A. event. A little farther down is a special notation which says any freshman who played on a varsity team before Sept. 1, 1947, must be charged with a year of varsity competition.

Sammy Ranzino, State's captain and most valuable player, Center Paul Horvath and veteran Guard Vic Bubas, are ineligible for N.C.A.A. play under those rules.

Although State isn't assured of a berth in the tourney at this stage of the season, it's better than even bet it will be, if the Wolfpack wants to play.

This year, the Southern Conference championship is paralleled with automatic qualification for the N.C.A.A. playoffs and State looks like a sure thing for the title. The Wolfpack has won the last four championships and is leading the race this season.

The N.C.A.A. quarter-finals will be played in State's 12,500-seat Coliseum beginning March 20. But even with the conference title clinched, about the only thing the Wolfpack minus Ranzino, Horvath and Bubas, would be a candidate for would be a block of seats.

HOUSTON HAS GOOD OUTLOOK
Houston, Tex.—(AP)—The University of Houston's basketball team has come a long way in a short while. Entering intercollegiate competition on the court in the fall of 1945, the Oougars swept to the Lone Star conference crown the first year of play. They repeated in 1947. This season the team, under the tutelage of Alden Pasche, has been admitted to the rugged Missouri Valley Conference which includes such standouts as Bradley, St. Louis, Oklahoma A. & M., Detroit, Tulsa, Drake, and Wichita.

Former Ohio State Coach Takes Over At Minnesota

Minneapolis, Jan. 25—(AP)—Wes Fesler, who only six weeks ago said he was finished with big time football, today is football coach at Minnesota.

The man who quit as coach at Ohio State last month summed it all up with one sentence: "You can't take 19 years of experience and whatnot and throw them out the window."

Fesler's unexpected appointment as Gopher coach rocked Big Ten followers with surprise. He was offered and accepted a three-year contract at the annual salary of $14,000, $1,500 more than received by Bernie Bierman, the man he succeeded.

Fesler resigned as head coach at Ohio State Dec. 9. He said his health couldn't stand the strain of trying to win every game.

BRECHEN HAS 113 WINS
ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Harry (The Cat) Brechen is the only pitcher on the Cardinal staff to win over 100 major league games. He had a rather poor season in 1950, winning eight and losing 11, but boosted his total number of victories to 113 against 70 defeats.

LONG TIME BETWEEN WINS
East Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Michigan State's first win in Western Conference basketball competition, a 67-62 victory over Northwestern, was the first time in a nine game series dating back to 1916 that the Spartans defeated the Wildcats.

VOYAGE TO EDEN

By Bennie C. Hall

Chapter 21

Molly went to the closet and brought out her robe and sleeping pajamas, a hint that she'd heard enough and wanted her visitor to go. Elsie simply settled herself into a more comfortable position in her chair and launched forth on a wordy commentary on the situation down below, describing it as showing signs of getting out of hand.

"I wouldn't say the hospital facilities are not up to par," she granted. "I wouldn't know about that, never being sick myself. And I won't say there aren't enough nurses for normal occasions. Only this is not normal. Between the sick ones down below, who can't help themselves, and the malingerers up here, who think only of themselves, they've got the nurses running around in circles. Working in twenty-four hour shifts, if you know what I mean. And Doc-gee, that poor guy's run ragged."

Molly looked at Elsie and smiled. "If you really think I could help out, I'll speak to Captain Rosario tomorrow morning."

Elsie didn't like the idea of asking the captain's permission, and said so. "He'd only say it wasn't proper, and that would be all the loophole you needed. As for intruding, I wasn't wanted either, till I pitched in and made myself useful. And as for keeping the well ones occupied, I can do that myself. So far, I've had no serious complaints."

"Then what could I do? I wouldn't want to go down there—well, like a curiosity seeker or something."

"Don't worry about that, chickadee," Elsie beamed, her good humor restored for the moment. "You'll have your hands full helping out with the sick. The other nurses are expecting you. I gave you a beautiful build-up, and I'm telling you right now you'd better be good."

"Oh, Elsie, you didn't?" Molly complained, then laughed in spite of herself. "You and your beautiful build-up! Well, this time you're getting stuck with your story, and it serves you just right. They'll know right away I'm only a novice."

Elsie dismissed that with a shrug and a forthright, "that's neither here nor there. In the fix they're in down there now, he's not likely to let personal prejudices interfere. They need help—and bad."

She went over, picked up Molly's pajamas and robe from the berth and hung them back in the closet. "You won't be needing these tonight," she said. "All you've got to do is get washed up and put on something practical."

Molly, knowing Elsie's flair for the melodramatic, sat watching her, half amused, half resentful. She wanted to help out, had agreed to do so, and was a little ashamed that she'd waited until Elsie forced the issue. But tomorrow, she felt, would be soon enough.

"You don't need to be so melodramatic about it," she said. "I'll go down in the morning, early. Not as a full-fledged nurse, of course, but to do whatever I can."

"You're going tonight," Elsie said in a voice that brooked no refusal. "Now's when they need help. You're not the only person that's tired around here. I told the girls you'd be down and lend them a hand."

Molly laughed and got up. "Well, you don't have to browbeat me into going. And you don't have to act as though I'd committed a crime. I haven't offered to help because—well, I just didn't think about it. Captain Rosario said everything was under control."

"Oh, him," Elsie muttered. "He's the worst snob of all."

Molly went over to the closet and took out a fresh white linen shorts dress that she thought would serve for a uniform. "If you think I should go down with you now, then I will. I'd love to help out."

There was a knock on the stateroom door and a moment later a steward was handing Molly a note. She read it quickly, then turned to Elsie.

"It's from Bert." She laughed a little nervously and her eyes begged for understanding. "He's had a disagreeable session with the captain and feels in the mood to do something reckless..."

"Can't say I'm surprised to hear that," Elsie commented. "It seems to run in the family. What does he want to do? Put a bomb under the bridge, or throw a tantrum like his sister and get the whole place in an uproar?"

Molly flushed. "Of course not. Don't be silly. That's just an expression of his. He's making up a midnight swimming party. He wants me to get dressed and join them at the pool."

"The captain won't like that. The midnight swimming party, I mean. He's funny that way."

"Yes, I know he is. Bert shouldn't be doing it. But I wasn't thinking about that." Molly tossed the white linen dress on the back of a chair and looked at Elsie appealingly. "It's just that I hate to let Bert down, now that we're engaged." She waited for some comment from Elsie, but none was forthcoming.

"And I'd hate to let you down too, Elsie," she acknowledged. "Now I don't know what to do. After all, I can't very well be in both places at the same time."

For once, Elsie made no attempt to take over the situation. Instead, she made a gesture as of washing her hands of the whole thing. "It's up to yourself," she announced coldly. "I've said all I'm going to say. You'll have to make up your mind as to who you're going to let down. Just watch out that it isn't yourself."

"Oh, nonsense," Molly said. "It isn't that serious at all. I'll just run up on deck and talk to Bert for a while. I'm sure he'll understand why I can't stay. I'll join you down below a little later. I don't need any help getting under a rope. Then I won't be letting anybody down. All right?"

Elsie seemed satisfied. In any case she nodded, said, "All right; I'll be seeing you," and left Molly to figure out her own plan of procedure.

Bangkok Firms Plan Evacuation

Bangkok—(AP)—Four American firms here have been ordered by their head offices to evacuate wives and children of American personnel immediately.

A spokesman of one of the firms said the action was a "commonsense move." He pointed out many of those affected had been interned in various parts of the Far East by the Japanese during the last war. The move will not affect operation of the firms involved, the spokesman added.

Chinese Detour Hong-Kong Port

Singapore—(AP)—Chinese from Malaya are visiting Communist China through Portuguese Macao to avoid difficulties in landing at Hong Kong, where the British ve tightened visa laws.

The chancellor-in-charge of the Portuguese consulate here, Jorge Magalhao, said some 150 Chinese applications to land at Macao have been approved. Magalhao said the travellers had to provide evidence that they can obtain food and lodging in Macao, where they are allowed to remain only 48 hours.

WOMEN ABSENT
New Haven—(AP)—For the first time in 10 years, there are no women members in the Connecticut State Senate. Another oddity of the current session is that not one of the 7 Republican members of the chamber is a lawyer, although there are several of that profession among the 19 Democrats.

The motto of Virginia is Sic Semper Tyrannis.

Washington Officials Think Korean Lull Is Prelude To Another Assault

Washington, Jan. 25—(AP)—The current lull in the Korean fighting is viewed by American officials here as probably a calm before the storm of a new Chinese communist onslaught likely to break at any time.

Whether the easing pressure was a political or military maneuver by Peiping has been a puzzling question in the capital for days. In Tokyo, there was speculation that the Chinese have pulled back to await political developments.

But informed officials here are convinced they have the answer from military and political reports received from Korea and Tokyo. They contend that the Chinese and their North Korean allies are building up steadily for another offensive as part of the communist's ultimate aim of winning control of all Korea.

Top authorities have discarded any ideas that Peiping is holding back because of the efforts in the U. N. General Assembly to work out a compromise settlement.

The reports from air observation and other sources indicates a continuing re-enforcement of communist forces particularly in the Seoul area. They include evidence that artillery and other heavy weapons are being moved into Korea from the Manchurian border.

Military men noted that a lull preceded the start of the ill-fated "home before Christmas" drive of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's 8th Army and 10th Corps. It may be longer this time because of extended Chinese supply and communications lines and their vulnerability to U. N. air power.

But when the blow comes, the U. N. forces are prepared to inflict heavier losses than the attackers have suffered thus far, officials say. The policy of putting a "high price tag on aggression" is expected to be followed through indefinitely.

Part of this policy of fighting it out is that to hold the Chinese at bay in Korea is one means of buying any plans the communists may have to move against British Hong Kong and Indochina.

Find No Trace Of Prison Fugitive

No trace has been found of the Pitt County prisoner who escaped from a prison camp truck in the heart of Greenville Monday afternoon, Superintendent Paul Crawford reported this morning.

The fugitive, Jack Wilson, who lived in or around Suffolk, Va., leaped from the prison truck as it came to the intersection of Green and Dickinson avenue when prisoners were being taken to camp for the night.

The man was traced in and around Greenville, finally to the Vandye furniture store where a pick-up truck was presumed stolen by the fugitive. The truck was later found abandoned in Washington.

The forests of the United States include more than 800 different kinds of trees.

Dramateers Present Melodrama

Bringing back memories of the old fashioned "mellodrama," the Dramateers of Greenville High School are giving "Bessie, the Bandit's Beautiful Baby" tonight in the school auditorium at 8 o'clock.

The play is woven around the sorrows of the beautiful heroine, Bessie, who accepts none of the love from her many suitors because of her unforgettable past. Poor Bessie is the child of the notorious gangster, "Baby Faced James," and thus has to go through life with this background haunting her. Frances Sigmon takes the name role and directing this production is Miss Lillian Wooten, who is doing her practice teaching in the dramatics class.

The villain, Melborne Basehart, carries all the characteristics of a bad man of the old theatre: a long black mustache, side remarks to the audience, and an evil laugh. Mac Crawford portrays Mr. Basehart and playing as his fiancée is Carolyn Clapp. Because of her fiancée's attentions to the irresistible Bessie, Carolyn hopes to send Bessie out into the cold, cruel world.

But, as all melodramas must, this play has a hero. Doug Mitchell acts as this prince charming who protects Bessie against all unwanted attentions. Depicting Mr. and Mrs. Romaine, the couple for whom Bessie works, are Billy Woolfolk and Suggie Sugg.

Mrs. James, the loving mother of Bessie, is played by Patsy Smith and the old Irish cook, complete with an accent, is done by Mollie Hester. Joel Bunch takes the role of the butler in the home. He also is attracted by Bessie's fatal beauty, much to the dislike of his girl friend, the cook.

Mary Ann Waldrop is the stage manager for the undertaking. Janet Waters the costume manager. Rachel Pollard and Dixie Lewis are in charge of selling tickets and Catharine Clark is publicity chairman.

An organizational meeting was held in the High School on Friday of last week by Chief Langston. The purpose of the club the Chief outlined was to offer both boys and girls a chance to join a rifle and pistol team aimed at competing with other rifle teams in Eastern North Carolina schools.

Another meeting of prospective members of the team, which numbered about 75 in all, will be held at a later date, pending arrangements being made for a practice site.

Anyone knowing of a possible site or other location should contact the Greenville police department at telephones 3141 or 3142.

Chief Langston Asks Suitable Site For Use Of High School Rifle Team

Police Chief Guy C. Langston today issued a plea for some land owner in or around Greenville to donate a plot of land for use of the Greenville High School rifle team which is now being organized.

Plans are already formulated for having the rifle team at the high school under the supervision of the Police Department, Langston said.

The team so far does not have any place which it can use for practice Langston stated. "It was first thought that they would use the old pistol and rifle practice field on the airport which has been used from time to time by Greenville officers, but the site as it is now is not adequate to take care of the rifle team."

A site near Greenville which would offer no serious handicap to the youngsters in reaching it would be desired; however at the present time the team is only concerned with a site on which to practice.

Clearing Up . . .

As a result, a number of students have been faced with the problem of dropping out of college—when they believed they were going to get a "pre-induction physical" notice—to enlist in the branch of the service they preferred before their draft-free college year was up.

They've been doing so, knowing that if they waited for the pre-induction physical they would—if they passed the exam—be inducted into the Army at the end of their school year.

There's been a lot of pressure on the Defense Department from around the country to do something about this—to make it unnecessary for students to drop out of school before their draft-free year was over to enlist in some preferred branch of the armed forces.

On Jan. 19, the Defense Department came up with what it seemed to think was a solution. It abandoned the old policy of barring enlistment by a man who's received his pre-induction physical notice.

The Defense Department issued a statement on its new policy, saying: "The new policy provides that students enrolled in college or universities and thus automatically entitled to deferment from the school year in which they receive their induction notices shall be allowed, to the extent of available openings in each service, to enlist in the service of their choice at any time in the two-months immediately preceding the final month of their school year."

Note that this statement didn't say anything about pre-induction physical notice. It said "...the school year in which they receive their induction notice."

But—the law positively says no one can enlist in any branch of the service after receiving his induction notice. In short, this new statement from the Defense Department seemed to be—but it was vague and weasel-worded—in direct conflict with the law.

Thousands of inquiries have poured into Washington, asking for clarification on this. This writer has been told the Defense Department is trying to find some way of doing that.

It could be clarified, possibly, in three ways:

1. The Defense Department could admit it made a mistake.
2. The Defense Department could ask congress to change the law.
3. Or the President might be able, under his special powers, to straighten out the conflict between the statement and the law.

Meanwhile, no draft board in this country has yet been told to pay any attention to this statement from the Pentagon. And almost certainly none will be told until the confusion is straightened out.

Nehru Dividing . . .

(Continued From Page One) dia and Nehru's prospects of donning the mantle of Asiatic leadership? The answer is that India is logged in the Red book as a future satellite of Moscow, with Mao quite likely playing the part of Asiatic overseer for Russia.

Of course there can be nothing but praise for Nehru's desire for peace. All right-minded folk stand with him in that. Some of his tactics, however, are open to debate—among them being his insistence on admission of communist China to the United Nations.

The objection of the western democracies to admission now is that this would in effect whitewash China's intervention in Korea. The United States and her supporters are bent on denouncing Red China an aggressor.

It isn't clear just how Nehru figures Chinese communist membership in the U. N. would foster peace. Peiping's admission would merely add another powerful voice to the Red bloc in the peace organization, thus making the division between communism and Democracy wider.

New Presbyterian . . .

(Continued from Page 1) torium becomes overcrowded. There will be no lack of classroom space for the nine Sunday School classes, as ten large rooms have been provided in the new Church. In addition, two other rooms will be left unfinished in the attic section, to be completed when the need arises.

On the main floor will be the kitchen, and ladies' parlor, which will double as a ladies' class room.

A large fellowship hall, which will be partitioned to be used as three Sunday School classrooms is on the second floor for youth activities which are expected to play an important role in the new Church.

In planning for our new building, we have tried to provide the maximum room, with as little fancy work as possible. Dr. Mewborn said, "Our main aim was to meet the needs of the Church the best way possible."

The heating plant of the unit will be located in a semi-basement at the rear of the building, with heat for the Sunday School department and Church furnished by a forced-air heating system.

The building is built along the early American or English style of architecture, of rusty red brick with a rough texture, with the building to be trimmed in a dark brown.

A copper steeple, having on its peak a cross, rises above the front of the church entrance.

Window glass in the main auditorium will be of a plain amber tint, rough service, with all other win-downs being plain. A stained glass window, the only one included in the church at the present time, will be located above the choir and pulpit section.

Date of completing the new church is set for June and at the rate the construction is moving along, the date should be met, church officials report.

A large storage area will be provided in the attic section over the auditorium.

The main church auditorium will have a floor of asphalt tile and the fellowship rooms will be finished in cypress flooring. All rooms will have plain plaster walls.

Lighting fixtures for the downstairs of the church will be of the latest design in keeping with the church.

The members of the Church's building committee are: Dr. John Mewborn, chairman; Paul Ewell, Frank Dupree, Burnice Turnage, and the pastor, Rev. Edward S. Coats. The finance committee was headed by John B. Lewis.

The automobile, officers said, belongs to Enoch Johnson of Portsmouth, Va., but a preliminary investigation showed Johnson is on active duty with the navy and had left his automobile with friends whose names have not been released by the officers. Edgecombe County officers were dispatched to Virginia early this morning to continue the investigation.

Both ABC officers and sheriff's officers expressed belief that the robbery this morning at Pinetops is directly linked with the six other ABC store robberies which have occurred in the eastern part of the state since December 1st.

In slightly more than a month the ABC store at Tillery has been robbed twice, the ABC store at Battleboro twice, the Grimesland store once, and the Pinetops store twice.

(Continued from page one) The Grand Jury report said several Justices of the Peace have failed to make their reports, and it recommended the county attorney inform the magistrates of their duties.

"We direct the clerk to inform those who have not filed reports to do so at once or action will be taken at the next term of court," the report stated.

The Grand Jury reported the county home was found to be in good condition, but it recommended that one inmate at the county home be transferred to the state hospital for the insane.

The report said the county jail prison camp, and all county officers were found to be in good condition. Highway Patrolman Dick Chadwick told the Grand Jury all the county school buses were in good condition.

The report said all bills presented to the Grand Jury had been passed on.

Reconvene Court Term Tomorrow

The criminal term of Pitt County Superior Court was recessed yesterday afternoon by Presiding Judge John J. Burney, and will reconvene tomorrow morning.

In cases heard in yesterday's session of the court, David Lucas Jones was acquitted on charges of driving drunk and careless and reckless driving, but was found guilty on a charge of speeding and fined $25 and costs.

Henry Lee Cox, non-support, pleaded guilty, prayer for judgment continued for six months on payment of costs.
