

Doughboys Slow On Contact With Enemy

Allied Spearheads Believed Now In Contact With Main Defense Line South Of Seoul; Reds Well Dug In; Allies Still Gain Ground; Heavy Naval Shelling Hits East Coast Town

Tokyo, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Doughboys spearheading the allies limited offensive were slowed to a crawl by die-hard Red resistance today. An officer said they apparently hit the main enemy force arrayed along the frozen western Korean waterfront.

On the east coast, U.N. naval power hurled hot steel and bombs onto a North Korean town from carrier-based planes and big guns of warships.

Hundreds of enemy supply vehicles were seen in North Korea moving southward toward the western sector advanced laboriously only a few hundred yards on the sixth day of their northward limited offensive.

A regular main line told Associated Press correspondent Jim Becker: "I think we've hit their main defense line."

On the flank, however, gains up to six miles were recorded. An enemy division may be manning the Red defense line on the western half of the 40-mile front.

"They're well dug in and determined to stay," Lt. Col. Bernard Peters of Park Falls, Wis., executive officer of a spearhead regiment, told Becker.

Advance allied units, he added, were suffering their heaviest casualties of the offensive, but these were far below the "terrific losses being inflicted on the enemy."

Red "illery Active"
For the second straight day Chinese artillery pounded away at U. N. positions nine miles northwest of Suwon. About 100 rounds were fired Tuesday. Seven miles northwest of Suwon American units were fired on by Reds in well-hidden caves, and made only a small advance.

Air and artillery is pouring in there," said Peters. "But the doughboys still have to go in there and dig them out one by one."

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, U. S. Tenth Corps commander on the central front, told a news conference the North Korean Fifth Corps is poised for an attack on allied forces.

He added: "We are ready for it." He said his troops had wiped out the Korean Red's Second Corps. One 45-man allied patrol, entirely surrounded by a Chinese communist battalion "on day 18 miles northwest of Wonju, was rescued Tuesday by another U. N. patrol after 15 hours of arduous fighting.

Three Greenville Residents Hurt In Bus Accident
Three Greenville residents were among the ten passengers aboard a Carolina Trailways bus which overturned on an icy highway five miles east of Wilson this morning. The Associated Press said none of the Greenville people were injured.

The report from Wilson listed J. E. Winslow, prominent Pitt County farmer, Miss Marie Byrd of Coates, RFD, an East Carolina Teachers College student, and George Grater among the ten passengers on the bus. The report said the three required only first aid treatment, and were only shaken up when the bus overturned.

The bus was enroute from Wilson to Washington. The report said the bus driver, Arnold M. Batts of Raleigh, and a woman passenger who was not identified were the only ones aboard the bus who required hospitalization. Their injuries were not believed to be serious.

For A Free Asia

General MacArthur's View Of The Stakes For Which Allied Arms Are Fighting In Korea; How Long Red Aggression Will Continue In Asia Is Indefinite

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

The text for our sermon today is taken from the statement by General MacArthur after his weekend visit to the blazing Korean battlefield.

"The stake we fight for now," said he, "is more than Korea. It's a free Asia."

And how shall we interpret that? Well, to me it emphasizes that the conflict is outgrowing Korea, and that Asia already is aflame with the "hot war" which peace-loving peoples so long have dreaded.

Beyond that we have no right to speculate with MacArthur's words. However, from our own observations we are entitled to add that this Asiatic upheaval might (though not necessarily) develop into World War III.

When we of the western world speak of another global war, probably most of us instinctively have in mind a conflict starting in western Europe. That's natural, because it's where the last two were touched off—and because Europe is closer to us than eastern Asia.

with carrier-based planes to plaster the Korean east coast town of Kamsong, 25 miles north of parallel 38.

The Navy's east coast bombardment was called the heaviest of recent months. A spokesman said rail and highway bridges were the principal targets.

A naval release late Tuesday said the battleship Missouri alone poured more than 1,000 rounds of 16-inch and five-inch ammunition into the Kamsong area in the first hour of the neutralization bombardment.

The light cruiser Manchester and nine destroyers, firing over the masts of minesweepers clearing the area, added to the tremendous volume of naval gunfire.

Task Force 77 carrier-based planes hit previously assigned targets in the same area.

The coastal town behind the Chinese lines took a terrific beating.

A Navy dispatch said the task force approached Kamsong under cover of darkness. Opened up with its big guns at 7 a.m. (5 p.m., EST Monday).

By sunup, 16 minutes later, all naval batteries were firing and at 7:45 a.m., the first strike of Navy Skyraiders streaked overhead on the way to their targets.

Smoke rose from the Sea of Japan port city as the big shells tore into the town.

Republicans Talk Of 1952 Victory

Confidence Rides High In Washington GOP Meet

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Confident Republicans last night predicted victory in 1952 and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) picked foreign policy as the major issue in the presidential race.

Taft, regarded as a leading candidate for the GOP nomination, told a crowd of more than 2,000 party members here that the people's concern over international affairs "may well be the determining factor" in next year's elections.

Taft spoke at a rally at which new Republican members of congress joined with others in predicting the party will win control of congress and the White House in 1952.

Urging a fighting campaign against the Democrats, Senator Duff (R-Pa.) summed up the views of most of the speakers when he shouted: "Give 'em hell and we'll have the whole works in 1952."

Taft laid down his own foreign program as one "founded on peace, a strong America and cooperation with those nations—and only those nations—which will join us in destroying the greatest threat from without to our security which we have known since the civil war."

Pleven And Truman Hold Final Meetings Today

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—President Truman and French Premier Rene Pleven turned today to the problem of thrashing out top secret plans for defending France and western Europe from any surprise attack by Soviet Russia.

Officials said the French leader will assure the President that France will fight if necessary to curb possible communist aggression in the North Atlantic area.

Pleven was also reported ready to pledge France's solid support to arrangements for creating an all-European Army which would include German units.

Pleven was expected to reaffirm France's pro-Western policy in an address today before a lunch gathering of the National Press Club. He was also said to be primed to answer critics who claim France is dragging her feet because she is afraid to help rearm Germany.

This was the final day of a two-day conference between the President and Premier. They were reported discussing a wide track of top order subjects, ranging from France's battle against communist insurgents in the jungles of Indochina to dangers arising from France's own large communist party.

'Freeze' Is Off On Church Fees
Boston, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The New England office of price stabilization received its first query shortly after it opened its doors for the first time yesterday.

A minister wanted to know whether he could increase fees for marriages, funerals and christenings. He was told he could.

SUSPENSION EXTENDED
New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The New York and New Orleans Cotton Exchanges will suspend trading again today while awaiting clarification of the federal price freeze order.

Pitt Red Cross Drive Chairman

CHARLES P. GASKINS

Henry L. Brown, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross, announced this morning that Charles P. Gaskins has been appointed Pitt campaign chairman for the forthcoming Red Cross fund-raising drive which will open March 1.

The drive will last through the entire month. A tentative goal of $14,000 has been set by the chairman for the county.

Gaskins stated today that appointment of other community chairmen to head the various drives over the county will be made at a future date, as soon as final arrangements for the drive have been formulated.

The goal for this year is about the same as the county was assigned last year.

Gaskins is a former register of deeds of the county and is now manager of the Quality Eastern Oil Company of Greenville.

Band Clinic Here Friday, Saturday

Members Of 29 Bands Attend Event

Final plans for the Eastern Division of the All-State Band Clinic to be held at East Carolina Teachers College Friday and Saturday of this week, February 2-3, have been announced by Herbert L. Carter of the college faculty. Clinic chairman. Members of high school bands in 29 North Carolina public schools of this section of North Carolina are scheduled to attend. The clinic is sponsored by the North Carolina Bandmasters Association, of which Mr. Carter is president.

A 100-piece concert band will be organized on the campus during the clinic, and this group of talented high school musicians will be presented in a concert Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Wright auditorium at the college. The East Carolina Concert Band, directed by Mr. Carter, will play in honor of visiting students Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, also in the Wright building. The public is invited to attend both programs.

Allan H. Bone, assistant professor of music at Duke University, will be music director during the two-day meeting at East Carolina. He will conduct the Concert Band of the Clinic on Saturday evening.

A series of sectional rehearsals have been planned for Friday and Saturday. Eleven groups, each made up of performers on one or more of the band instruments, will be directed by instructors from visiting schools and from the college faculty.

Hearings Begin Today On Record Budget For N.C.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The joint appropriations committee was slated to begin hearings today on the proposed record-breaking state budget of $459,000,000 for the 1951-53 fiscal years.

The heads of 13 departments and agencies are due to appear before the committee and outline their budget needs for the next biennium. Leading off the list was the Governor's office. The hearings will be held three days a week for the next four weeks. Many of the departments and agencies are expected to ask for more funds than were recommended in the state budget proposed by the Advisory Budget Commission.

Gaffney, S. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Seven-year old Joyce Smith has had a safety pin in her lung for the last few months, and doctors soon will make a third attempt to remove it without operating.

Yesterday a Charlotte doctor told her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Smith, that x-rays in connection with the second attempt disclosed that part of the pin had deteriorated. The upper, or snap part of the pin, crumbled when it was disturbed as the doctor tried to remove it. The specialist said he could not determine whether the remaining portion would follow a similar course.

Local Temperature Has 36-Degree Plunge In Past Twenty-Four Hours

The temperature in Greenville has taken a plunge of more than 36 degrees during the past 24 hours, and Mrs. C. E. Malden, local weather observer, said the mercury is expected to continue to fall during today and tonight.

The cold wave which has gripped the mid-west during the past few days this morning moved into the eastern section of North Carolina and brought with it freezing rain and some snow.

The temperature in Greenville went to a high of 71 degrees yesterday, but at 12:30 this afternoon the thermometer stood at 35 degrees

Red China's Condemnation By UN Is Expected Today

Hospital Trustees Informed Opening Date Still In Doubt

Opening of Pitt Memorial Hospital for patients is contingent primarily on the arrival of operating tables which are expected sometime in the next few days it was announced yesterday.

The board of trustees, meeting yesterday afternoon, were informed by Chairman Thurman J. Williams the tables have been on order for over a month and have been enroute here for the past ten days. However, they have not arrived as yet and the building is useless without them. He indicated that although it is hoped the February 1 deadline for opening can be met, it is doubtful that patients can be moved into the building by that time.

However, whether the hospital has patients or not the records from Pitt

General will be transferred and Pitt Memorial will begin operation effective Thursday "on paper." Administrator C. D. Ward stated beginning the hospital's operation "on paper" February 1 will facilitate the keeping of records, whether or not patients are in Pitt General or Pitt Memorial.

The trustees opened bids on several categories of miscellaneous equipment and awarded contracts amounting to $6,998.73. The money allocated for purchasing the equipment is the last funds on hand from the state and federal government.

The equipment in the contracts awarded will be used in the office, dietary department, operating rooms and janitorial department. Funds on hand for purchasing the items amount to $6,727.28. The $271 shortage will be taken from money paid in on the purchase of old hospital equipment sold when Pitt General is liquidated.

The trustees also moved to name the extreme fourth-floor wing the T. M. Watson wing for treatment of pediatric cases. The present Watson plaque in Pitt General will be removed to Pitt Memorial and thereby the floor will assume the name of the late doctor. The west end of the floor is shut off by doors and includes four rooms.

It was decided to hold a trustees meeting each third Tuesday in every month, regardless of whether or not there is any business to come before the board.

Bean By Bean

Western Front, Korea, Jan. 30 (AP)—Someone forgot to include eating utensils in a shipment of U.S. Army combat rations.

"An army lives on its stomach. But it eats with its fingers," said Cpl. Edward Sheeham of Rockland, Mass., as he ate a can of pork and beans—bean by bean.

Each daily "C" ration is supposed to contain a plastic spoon. But there are no spoons in a late shipment from the Chicago quartermaster depot.

Quartermaster officers say it is all a mistake.

Wise GIs now make sure they have a spoon in their pocket as well as a gun by their side.

Forty From Pitt Will Be Inducted

Forty more draft inductees from Greenville and Pitt County will leave for Raleigh early tomorrow morning where they will be sworn into their new Army life, and dispersed to various centers for basic training.

The group was previously designated to number 45 men, but according to Selma Evans, Pitt County draft board clerk, five men have been deferred because of educational reasons.

Tomorrow morning's call will be the second induction group leaving Greenville during January. A previous inductee group of 58 men were sworn in January 4.

A pre-induction examination call for 250 men from the county has been received for February 12.

This request came from the Selective Service Board in Raleigh Jan. 18 and marks the highest quota of men asked of Pitt County since the Army inductions began last summer.

Rayburn Now Is Longest On Job

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Sam Rayburn today surpasses the record for tenure as Speaker of the House of Representatives established by Henry Clay more than a century ago.

The crack of the stocky, bald Texan's gavel, calling the House to session at noon (EST), was due to exceed Clay's record of eight years, four months and 11 days as presiding officer of the House.

In neither case was the long tenure continuous.

New Attempt To Get Safety Pin

Gaffney, S. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Seven-year old Joyce Smith has had a safety pin in her lung for the last few months, and doctors soon will make a third attempt to remove it without operating.

Yesterday a Charlotte doctor told her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Smith, that x-rays in connection with the second attempt disclosed that part of the pin had deteriorated. The upper, or snap part of the pin, crumbled when it was disturbed as the doctor tried to remove it. The specialist said he could not determine whether the remaining portion would follow a similar course.

Demo Legislator Dies In Hospital

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Rep. John B. Sullivan, Democrat from St. Louis, died last night at the nearby Bethesda, Md. Navy Hospital. He was 53.

Sullivan, an attorney in private life, was stricken at home and rushed to the hospital, where he died shortly after. Dr. George W. Calver, Capitol physician, attributed death to a brain hemorrhage.

Expanded Draft Scope Seen In Next Two Years

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A former Defense official said today he thinks it probably will be necessary soon to draft both 18 year olds and young married men.

Tracy S. Voorhees, former Undersecretary of the Army, gave this opinion to the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee. Members of this committee have been debating whether it would be best (1) to draft married men under 26 who have no children, or (2) extend the draft to 18 year olds as recommended by the Defense Department.

Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass.) asked Voorhees which move he thought would be wiser.

Voorhees replied that he favored taking 18 year olds first but added: "It won't make very much difference except in timings, in my personal opinion. We are going to have to take them both over the next 18 months or two years."

Both the Senate group and the House Armed Services committee are holding hearings on legislation to extend the draft to 18 year olds as a move toward eventual Universal Military Service and Training (UMST) for all physically fit men, beginning at that age.

Voorhees and two World War II scientific leaders, Dr. Vannevar Bush and Dr. William C. Menninger, joined in urging an immediate start on UMST.

Dr. Bush, who aided in many of the top scientific weapon developments in World War II, urged military training for every young man, including some not now regarded as physically fit.

F. Badger Johnson Voted New President Of C-of-C

F. Badger Johnson, general manager of the John Flanagan Bugle company, last night was elected president of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds Van C. Fleming, Jr., whose term of office expires Thursday.

Charles E. Blair and Floyd F. Hendrix were elected vice presidents of the Chamber of Commerce and John Overton was re-elected treasurer of the organization. Manager W. T. Kyzer was re-elected for another year by the board of directors.

Elected to serve on the executive committee of the organization along with the four officers were Van C. Fleming, Jr., Hugh C. Winslow and David Whitehead.

Retiring President Fleming also was elected by the directors as national councilor for the coming year.

Eight directors elected by the membership of the Chamber of Commerce for three-year terms beginning February 1 are Fleming, Overton, Charles P. Gaskins, Roscoe Shiplett, Ercell Webb, Guy C. Evans, W. S. Bost, and H. L. Hodges, Jr.

Retiring directors are John Webb, E. W. Harvey, E. H. Williford, L. S. Picklen, J. M. Taft and John C. Proctor.

During the meeting last night the board of directors completed the business for the fiscal year which is ending, and the new board of directors elected its officers for the new year.

The board passed a resolution urging that the Piedmont Natural Gas company which was recently granted a federal franchise to furnish natural gas for the piedmont section of the state be required to furnish natural gas service for the entire state of North Carolina or the franchise be revoked and offered to a company which will furnish natural gas for the entire state.

The matter of having the Greenville Chamber of Commerce represented at a meeting on the na-

Progress Report Is Due Tomorrow On H-Bomb

Washington, Jan. 30.—(AP)—One year ago tomorrow President Truman gave a momentous order to the Atomic Energy Commission: get to work on the Hydrogen Bomb.

Today, with armed conflict raging in Korea and with a third world war a grim possibility, there is abundant evidence that the atomic scientists went to work with vigor and promptness.

But what progress they have made—how near they are to exploding the super weapon that could level cities and wipe out armies—is a secret locked in the minds of a very few men.

It's so closely guarded a secret that the best-informed people on the outside don't even agree on whether the H-Bomb ever can be developed.

Will L. Lawrence of the New York Times, the only reporter allowed to see any of the wartime development of the atomic fission bomb, said in a recently published book, "H-Blast may occur this spring or summer."

Yet David E. Lilienthal, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said only last week there is "only a remote possibility" the H-Bomb can be built at all.

The commission itself has a chance to give some official word in its ninth semi-annual report, due tomorrow. But the odds are heavily against anything beyond the oft-repeated statement that the H-Bomb is somewhere between the realm of the possible and the probable.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
WE WAIT TOO LONG

Jesus said to His disciples on one occasion, "Say not ye, there are yet four months and then cometh the harvest? Behold, I say unto you. Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, that they are white already unto harvest."

"Yet four months!" The disciples wanted to put off doing something that needed to be done immediately. They were reflecting that disposition so persistent in the heart of man to wait too long to be helpful. Yet four months, they said, and we will go out and gather souls into the granary of God. Jesus insisted that the harvest was ready to be taken right then.

Your falling and mine is that we want to put off until tomorrow certain spiritual tasks and duties which we ought to do today. We will help some good cause at a later day but not now; we will right some wrong we have done when the time is more opportune than just now; we will give more generously to the church four months from now, or four years from now, when money gets a little more plentiful; we will control some evil and promote some good in our heart after we have satisfied ourselves with a little more indulgence; we will say the word of apology and ask to be forgiven after our tempers have cooled down.

Don't put off until you have to face in eternity the decisions which ought to be made at this very instant.

Work-The Secret To Progress

The people of the Winterville community are proudly pointing to the town's new community building. And they have every right to do so.

The people of the community keenly felt the need for a building where local functions could be held, and they set about to collect among themselves enough money to pay for the building.

The new $8,500 community center will be a great asset to the people of the Winterville community—the old and young alike. It is another example of the progressiveness of the people of the community. They sensed the need for progress, and they put themselves to work to acquire the facility they needed.

It was a relatively few months ago that the people of Winterville were aware that their town needed many of its streets paved, and they took the money from their pockets and had the paving done. It greatly improved the town, and it created among the people of Winterville a new pride in their town.

When the people of a community react to progress the way the people of Winterville have, there is no doubt that the community will prosper and grow. The people of Winterville did not wait for some outsider to come in and pave their streets. They did it themselves. The people of Winterville did not wait for some outsider to come in and offer to give them a community building. They gave the money and built it themselves.

All of which indicates that progress comes to the community which actively seeks it. . . . Not to the community which sits by and waits for progress to come as a gift from some outside source.

The 22nd Amendment Is Needed Now

During the current session of the North Carolina General Assembly, the members of the state legislature should give consideration to the proposed constitutional amendment which will limit a United States president to two terms in office.

Nearly four years ago the Senate and the House of Representatives of the federal government adopted a constitutional amendment which would limit a president to two terms in the White House. Since that time the amendment has been ratified by 25 states, and it is on the legislative calendars of several other states.

Since Roosevelt accepted the nomination for the third term in 1940, the political strategists have adopted the method of having a president run for re-election just as long as he lives. The man in the White House already is in the national spotlight, he has a great deal of prestige, and his name is of great value to his party at election time.

Actually, under the present conditions, when a president takes office he truly anticipates it to be a life-time job. As a result the development of leadership in our national government has been seriously affected. It has been evident since the second term of Roosevelt that little leadership in the Democratic party has been allowed to develop.

A similar condition has been evident in the Republican party. Dewey received the Republican presidential nomination in 1944 when he was 42 years old. He had been a strong contender for the nomination four years before. Had he been elected in 1944, he could reasonably have expected to keep the job for 20 or 30 years, promising whatever necessary to continue to be re-elected.

The American people and the American government have found their great strength and their great progress in the process of changing the national administration from time to time before one group becomes too entrenched in the Washington fortress of power.

When one group, either the Republicans or Democrats, is able to hold control of the national administration for a long period of time, the officials begin to have the attitude their jobs are theirs for life—whether or not they do the best job they can. The same feeling carries down through the various levels of the vast bureaucratic system of our government. Surely since that condition has become evident under the administration of one party, it will be even more evident under the administration of one president for a long period of time.

The election of any man to the presidency of the United States should be limited to two consecutive terms for the benefit of the country. There is ample leadership which will develop if given an opportunity. But under present conditions when a man is expected to lead the party for a lifetime once he is elected to the presidency, the young leadership is not needed, and therefore the party and the country are apt to find themselves without leadership when they need it.

The Reflector urges the members of the General Assembly of North Carolina to ratify the proposed constitutional amendment to limit the presidential terms.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—A major Cabinet shake-up involving the displacement of Dean Acheson and George C. Marshall as Secretaries of State and Defense, respectively, will soon be made by President Truman in response to demands from at home and abroad.

The most likely successors are Stuart Symington, now chairman of the National Security Resources Board, for the Pentagon post, and Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson for Mr. Acheson's place.

They are President Truman's top choices at the present moment, unless he surrenders unwillingly to the growing suggestion that he form a coalition Cabinet through the inclusion of one or two prominent Republicans.

EISENHOWER—It is also possible that General "Ike" Eisenhower, on fulfillment of his military mission to Europe and Congressional action on his re-arming report, may figure in a general reorganization at Washington.

Mr. Truman has been impressed by the fact that Congress looks to Eisenhower rather than to the White House for final word on whether the United States should commit a large number of troops to the continent for defense against Russian attack.

Both such contrasting personalities as Senator Tom Connally of Texas, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Senate Minority Leader Wherry of Nebraska seem to have more faith in Eisenhower than in Truman.

Much as the President may dislike to avail himself of a man so generally respected by party opponents and the regular opposition in Capitol Hill, he discerns the advantage to be gained by making such an individual one of his principal advisers.

RESPONSIBILITY—The venerable General Marshall and the relatively young Secretary Acheson will step out for two different reasons. Although they have agreed generally on foreign policy, especially in the Far Eastern sphere, the General has few active or influential enemies. He does have honest critics of his views on a go-slow rearmament program and on the draft of eighteen-year-olds.

His job is just too tough and demanding for the 70-year-old soldier, with 41 years of fairly active service in the military and diplomatic fields behind him. In fact, he took his present assignment against the advice of his physicians, who had recommended a long rest. He accepted the responsibility only on condition that he serve until a successor could be found.

Within a few weeks or months, depending on Congressional reaction, he believes that he will have laid the basis for an enduring and powerful American defense system, based on a trained citizen army. When that has been accomplished, he will be content to retire to his flowers and fishponds at Leesburg, Va.

DRIVING—Mr. Symington will be welcomed by military experts in the Senate and House, as well as by foreign commanders. With Thomas K. Finletter, Secretary of the Air Force, they believe him to be the most far-seeing, aggressive and driving figure on the Washington scene. In fact, sometimes he plugs ahead too strenuously for his own good.

He led the fight, against presidential opposition, for building up the air force to 90 groups, when Mr. Truman adopted the Johnson program of only 48. He pioneered in the shift to the B-36 bombers, which have just completed a non-stop flight to England and can fly 10,000 miles with a load of atom bombs.

Although presidential decrees force him to suppress his thoughts, it is understood that he sides with Major General Emmett (Rosy) O'Donnell in his demand for an all-out air offensive against the Chinese Communist forces in Korea.

Lastly, he favors a speedier rearmament program than General Marshall does. He is not inhibited by the professional military expert's concern for perfection and details.

TARGET—Mr. Acheson will be asked to retire, not because of any want of technical ability, but because he has apparently lost touch with the American people. His failures have been as brilliant as his successes. But he does not possess the homely talent for explaining either failures or successes in the language of the man on the street, or in the dictation of the men in Congress.

Now, however, he has become the target of the top diplomats in London, Paris, the Hague and Berlin. They make many points against him. The three governments argue behind the scenes of the United Nations and elsewhere that he is largely responsible for Communist overrunning of China and probably Asia. Although Franklin D. Roosevelt was really blamable for the present situation, in their minds, they take it out on Acheson because he has executed the Roosevelt-Truman policies.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Occasionally somebody calls me up to give me column information. Usually, they say, "I want to tell you a story, but I'm not going to tell you my name, because I don't want any publicity."

My reply is standard, "Well, I can't promise that I won't use your name, because it's names that make the news." Most of the time, with a little persuasion, I can get the person to tell me his name.

However, I was called Saturday by a lady who's determined that she doesn't want her name in the paper. All I can tell you about her is that she lives on Harding Street, she took her screen door off during Christmas to decorate her door, and she has a very pleasant telephone voice.

Obviously this lady reads Time magazine, because she wanted to nominate a Man of the Year. It's a big occasion when Time names its man of the year; in fact, readers make nominations all during the year. You probably realize that this year GI Joe was chosen.

This lady wanted to nominate a 16-year-old boy by the name of Wade Carr. During the past year Wade has brought her morning newspaper, and he's only missed once. That record within itself warrants his nomination as Man of the Year, but the lady has other reasons.

The main reason is that Wade enjoys life, and because of his cheerfulness, other people feel better. This lady and her husband arise at six in the morning, and are usually eating breakfast at the time Wade brings the paper about 6:45.

As Wade takes his papers he whistles a tune. Through experience, he knows that the Harding Street subscribers are awake when he comes by, so he increases the volume of his tune when he hears their house. Everytime Wade sees his customers he speaks, always with a word of good cheer. If the weather is bad, he dismounts from his bicycle and puts the newspaper behind the screen door. He rises at 4:30, and enjoys his route.

Some newspaper carriers leave a printed note with their customers about Christmas time that reads something like this: "Your newspaper carrier has remembered you all year. This envelope is to be used in case you want to remember him." But Wade left no such envelope. The Harding Street subscribers had to call him in to receive his Christmas present.

If anybody knows who this lady is that gave me that story, give me a ring. The story illustrated the value of a person that's always cheerful, and should inspire more of us to be sparing with pleasant words. All of us should agree that Wade Carr is one of Greenville's Young Men of the Year. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C.

By LYNN NISBET

Daily Reflector Bureau

C. & D.—Meeting of the state board of conservation and development in Raleigh this week serves to call attention to the diversified and comprehensive functions of this department of state government. It is the only major agency other than the governor's office which embraces all elements of state progress and activity. All other departments are more or less specialized, although many of the functions overlap. The constitutional departments of agriculture, education, insurance, justice and labor; the departments of the auditor, and secretary of state and the treasurer, have peculiar responsibilities, although they in some ways touch every citizen of the state. The other big statutory departments such as health, highways, revenue, utilities, wildlife resources, and what have you, also have specialized functions while ramifying into overlapping duties affecting almost everybody. The department of conservation and development takes in to some degree all the functions of these other departments with some added of good measure.

CO-OPERATION—It was gratifying to have Director George Ross in his brief report to the board Monday morning tell of the close co-operation which has been maintained among all these state departments during the past few months. He said other agencies had readily made available data they had developed in their special areas, and in turn his own department had passed along information gathered by C. & D. folks. He made the point that the department of conservation and development was not primarily an educational or a research agency. He conceived its function to be made of co-ordinating and applying for overall state development the factual data developed by other agencies, and administering laws designed to conserve the natural, human and economic resources of North Carolina. For that reason it may be interesting to analyze the membership of the board with respect to their chief occupational interests and geographic location.

COMPOSITION — The board has fifteen members appointed by the governor for six staggered terms, and the statutes require that appointees should represent various phases of interests. As presently constituted the board lacks representation of some major interests, but this lack is largely compensated by the universality of interest on part of a majority of the members. There is one woman member, Mrs. Roland McClamrock of Chapel Hill, who besides being a housewife is interested in all human-social matters. There is one minister, Dr. Sylvester Green of Chapel Hill, who can also be credited to educational institutions, medical health and newspaper interests. There is one country doctor, Dr. Locke Robinson of Mars Hill. There is one lawyer who also doubles as a farmer, the newly appointed W. B. Austin of Jefferson. There is one undertaker who doesn't like to bury folks and is interested in many phases of state development. Oscar P. Breese of Fayetteville. There are two manufacturers, Walter Damtoft of Asheville and Mils Smith of Salisbury, both of whom have other interests. There are two insurance men, Charles Allen of Durham and Aubrey Cavanaugh of Warsaw, whose interests are not limited to insurance. There are two farmers who live on the farm and devote most of their attention to agriculture, Fred Latham of Belhaven and J. C. Mudock of Troutmans. There are three newspapermen, one daily—Staley Cook of Burlington, and two weekly—Ferd Davis of Zebulon and Eric Rodgers of Scotland Neck. And there is right now one vacancy, occasioned by the death last week of Roy Hampton of Plymouth, commercial fisherman and merchant.

GEOGRAPHIC — Geographic ally this gives the east nine members and the west five, with one vacancy to be filled. Geographic balance is maintained by election of Miles Smith of Salisbury as chairman and Walter Damtoft of Asheville as vice chairman. Further geographic balance is assured by membership of the legislative committees on conservation and development. The senate committee of fifteen has eight easterners and seven westerners, while the house committee of thirty-six has eighteen from each major section.

WHALE — A whale of a job faces the state museum folks in getting ready for construction of the agricultural building annex on the same site. That isn't making a pun, because the main problem is what to do with the skeletons of two big whales now in display in the museum. The biggest one is slightly more than fifty feet long, the other not much less. That means some fifty to sixty tons of bone which must be handled very carefully in order to preserve the skeleton structure.

PROBLEM — There are minor problems involved in handling the live rattlesnakes, but museum attendants say they can be moved with impunity to the snakes and immunity to the handlers. Thousands of other exhibits—mounted specimens of small wildlife, samples of wood and stone, cases of native gems and ores, will require delicate handling to move.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE BURDENS OF LABOR

(New Bern Sun-Journal)

Is a six-day work week such a strain on British men that a portion of it must be shifted to women who work seven?

That is a question being asked by Virginia-born Lady Astor, and she voiced it at a recent meeting of the Chelsea branch of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Men working five days a week are reluctant to add another day despite the need of a speed-up in industry in that country.

"The government says it will have more women in industry," says Lady Astor. "If we are in a mess why don't the men work six days a week and give shorter hours to women. Don't let us put anything more on our women. It's terrifying to see the strained faces of our women in some areas of the country."

It should be even more terrifying, even in a socialistic country, to find its manhood unwilling to work six days a week when industry and national security demand it. That's one of the things America needs to guard against.

It's all very well to take some pride in a social system which provides some time for recreation. The strength of that government, however, and of all other governments, depends upon the willingness of its citizens to meet an emergency and to accept any obligation imposed by a national need. Women of America haven't failed to fulfill any need for additional labor when men are fully employed, but a five-day work week still permits some expansion of the output of male work hours.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
There's a new look coming to autos, refrigerators, breakfast furniture, appliances, kitchen wares and hundreds of other kinds of manufactured goods. The new restrictions on nickel, plus limitations on chrome, copper, aluminum, tin, lead, zinc and other metals prescribe that.

But the new look may not be so bad. The austerity models of 1951 may be a lot more pleasing to the eye than those of World War II.

Great advances have been made in the adaptation of plastic, glass, paints and other coating materials in the last ten years. Large gains in productive capacity have also been made.

In addition, some of the most highly pressured research now going on is in substitute materials. The large manufacturers of all kinds of consumer goods are trying frantically to develop things obtainable that can be substituted for those materials that are being diverted to rearmament. Efforts are being made to develop finishes that will look even better than the shine of the chromium age, and be equally protective.

Already magnetic latches have been dropped from refrigerator doors. Plastics are replacing handles on vacuum cleaners and are replacing aluminum trays in refrigerators. Plastics are replacing metals for decorative trim and name plates on dozens of things.

Metal parts in washing machines are being replaced with plastics, and even wood. A plastic door-seal to replace rubber on refrigerator doors has been developed. Jewelers, short of tin, are substituting—of all things!—silver.

Black enamel steel is replacing chrome-finished shelves in ranges and refrigerators. And in other products, synthetic coatings are replacing enamel, which needs cobalt as an adhering agent.

Ceramics may replace metals in many things. After all, they have worked well for centuries in Scandinavian and Middle European stoves—and a lot of people find the appearance of those stoves more pleasing than the factory-slick finish of the modern range. And if ceramics will do for stoves, why not for toasters, house numbers, grills, barbecues, as parts for oil burners and other places where resistance to high temperatures is necessary?

Industry's first job, of course, is to find satisfactory and available substitutes. But of almost equal importance is the necessity of devising uses that will have as much or more eye appeal.

40 PERCENT OF FAMILIES
WORTH OVER $5,000
Forty per cent of the American spending units—families who pool their incomes to meet major expenses—have a new worth of more than $5,000, according to calculations of the National Industrial Conference Board. The net worth is the excess of assets over debts.

Out of every hundred family units, 8 are worth more than $25,000; 32 $5,000 to $25,000; 23, $1,000 to $5,000; 27, under $1,000 and 8 have more debts than assets. The status of the remaining 2 families is unascertainable.

MUST BE CATCHING ON
The success of tea bags has prompted several coffee roasters to experiment with offers of coffee bags. While results of tests have not been announced, they must be all right. Almost every major coffee company is working on plans for their own coffee bags.

AT ANTI-TRUST LAWS
"A limited class of small competitors" and not the public generally is the chief beneficiary of anti-trust laws, according to the fifth of a seven-volume study of trade relations in the United States by Col. H. A. Toulmin, Jr., Ohio attorney. "Our anti-trust laws are the most dangerous to our democracy that any nation has ever enacted in all history," he declared. His "Treatise on the Anti-Trust Laws of the United States" is being published by W. A. Anderson Co., Cincinnati, at $125.

WORLD'S CITRUS

World production of citrus fruits, for the crop that started to bloom last year, is 11 per cent higher than a year ago, the Department of Agriculture reports. The United States crop is the best since 1947 and well above war and prewar averages.

The jeep moved swiftly through the refugee crowded streets of Taegu. Some of the refugees wore white bandages around their faces to hide the spreading rot of gangrene. They had frozen their faces marching south from Seoul, and in a few days many would be dead. They were only corpses afoot.

In the plane I boarded were a number of happy soldiers getting a five day leave back in Japan. We took off. The plane circled over a bare field dotted with white crosses. It was the largest United Nations cemetery in Korea.

In six months I had made some friends and lost some friends, and some of them were there under the crosses below.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
Washington—When Mrs. James C. Davis came to the Capital in 1947 with her husband, the Democratic congressman from Georgia, she promptly enrolled in a public speaking course.

"When I can say missus instead of miz," she told me, "I know I'm learning something."

The public speaking course was one of the activities of the Congressional Club, which is made up of wives of members of Congress. Mrs. Davis not only now says "missus"—she's the club's new president.

While their husbands spend long hours on Capitol Hill, their women maintain a full schedule of activities that would stymie the most active clubwoman back home. Besides public speaking, the club gives monthly receptions, conducts classes in such things as bridge, bowling, Spanish, dress-design, millinery, and flower arrangements.

Last March it gleaned some $15,000 out of an "All States Fair" held at its smart club house, the friendly meeting place for all congressional wives, every day in the week when Congress is in session.

Club presidents are elected every two years, alternating between Republican and Democrat. Out-going president is Mrs. Ralph Church, widow of the Republican congressman from Illinois, who is her husband's successor in the 81st Congress.

First vice-president is Mrs. Carroll D. Kearns, wife of the Republican representative from Pennsylvania, who is also president of the local League of Republican Women. Mrs. Clarence Cannon, wife of the Democratic congressman from Missouri, is second vice-president. Wives of Senators Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) and John C. Stennis (D-Miss.) are respectively third and fourth vice-presidents, while Mrs. Harold C. Hagen is fifth. Mrs. Wesley A. D'Ewart, wife of the Montana, is secretary; Mrs. George Grant, wife of the Democratic congressman from Alabama, is corresponding secretary; and treasurer is Mrs. Omel Burleson, wife of the Democratic congressman from Texas.

Nina Abernethy Becomes Bride Of J. Rodney Roberts

Miss Nina Abernethy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Abernethy of Rocky Mount, and J. Rodney Roberts of Greenville, were united in marriage in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Saturday, January 27, at four o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The church was decorated with large floor baskets of white gladioli, two floor baskets of fern, and three seven-branch candelabra, holding lighted tapers.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Paul Toll of Greenville played nuptial music on the organ. Miss Willa Rae Harper of Farmville, a pupil of Miss Abernethy, sang "With This Ring."

"The Wedding Prayer" was sung by Miss Harper at the conclusion of the double ring ceremony and just before the pastor pronounced the blessing upon the young couple. The traditional wedding music was used for the processional and recessional from the sanctuary.

Edward Reynolds, a friend of the bride and groom and a student at East Carolina Teachers College, and L. P. Roberts, an uncle of the groom, were ushers. They entered first and took their places in front of the church. Mrs. L. P. Roberts was matron-of-honor. She wore a forest green dress of taffeta, fashioned after the bride's dress, and carried a matching mull with a corsage of golden chrysanthemums. Her hair ornament was of golden chrysanthemums. Judge J. W. H. Roberts, father of the groom, served as best man.

The bride entered the sanctuary with her father, Mr. F. A. Abernethy, who gave her in marriage. Her dress was of silk green taffeta, with roll collar, sweetheart neckline and circular pleated skirt. She wore a shoulder-length veil of illusion, held in place with a bandeau matching her dress and trimmed with lilies-of-the-valley. She carried the groom's prayer-book, which was covered with white satin and a bouquet of two purple orchids shown.

For the ceremony the mother of the bride wore a wine suit with black accessories. The groom's mother wore a royal blue suit with matching accessories. Both wore identical corsages of yellow roses.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

January 30, 1911

There are men in Pitt county who a little less than four years ago took sides against issuing bonds to establish East Carolina Teachers' Training School, with the expectation of landing in office before now on the popularity such opposition won for them. Those same men today could not get votes enough to be township constable if they tried. In less than four years from now the same thing can be said of some of the opponents to bonds for good roads.

For A Free . . .

And why should communism choose Asia as the theater for the first outbreak of "hot war?" Because that is the theater in which the Bolsheviks can whittle down American and the other western allies militarily and economically without actually precipitating a world war at the outset.

Moreover, Russia doesn't have to get involved directly herself, but can work through China. And such operation in Europe would have to be carried out by Russia herself. This would immediately launch a world war and bring retaliation on the Soviet Union.

How long this whittling down process will continue in Asia is anybody's guess. It could spread considerably and run on for a long time without actually developing into a global affair. We may be sure Russia will keep on with her efforts to weaken America as long as it is profitable.

In the end, if there is to be another world war, it could start either in Asia or in Europe. One would rather expect it to be the latter, since that is the theater in which the great powers are massing their main strength.

Defrosting . . .

It will say all workers are permitted to get a wage increase, perhaps of 10 per cent or so, since such and such a date.

Such a step would be a pattern. But then there'd be all kinds of special problems within that pattern. For example:

What should WSB permit in raises for people who get promoted in jobs, or whose job classifications are changed, or whose employers want to give them merit increases.

What about negotiations going on between employers and employees at the time the freeze was applied? Since the negotiations started before the freeze, should WSB put a limit on what such workers can get?

And there's the problem of escalator clauses. Some employers long ago agreed in contracts to give their employees an automatic raise every time living costs move up a notch.

Ada Cherry Class Views Film Strip On Cancer

Mrs. J. Brantley Speight was hostess to the Ada Cherry Sunday School Class on Monday night at her lovely rural home near Winterville.

Mrs. Ed Credle, who presented the devotional, gave an inspirational message to open the meeting. Mrs. George Smith, class president, conducted a business meeting following the devotional.

During the business session a report was given on the two families that were provided for during Christmas by the Ada Cherry class. Social work that had been done in January was also reported. This consisted of contributions to a needy family of food and clothing and donations of magazines to the Negro schools.

Plans for furnishing the classroom in the new educational building were discussed. Nothing definite was decided upon at this time, but tentative plans were carried over to the next meeting.

Mrs. W. W. Howell, who had charge of the program, introduced Mrs. Nobles of Winterville, who ran a film strip on cancer. This informative and educational film was thoroughly enjoyed by all and at the conclusion of the film, Mrs. Nobles distributed pamphlets which contained pertinent facts about cancer.

A social hour followed during which time guests gathered around the piano and sang American folk songs. The hostesses, Mrs. Speight, Mrs. R. P. Rogers, Mrs. Jimmy Brewer, Mrs. Leslie Jones and Mrs. Royce Pierce, served a salad course with coffee and blueberry muffins.

The private branch telephone exchange in the Pentagon is the largest of its kind in the world and contains approximately 75,000 miles of trunk lines.

Mid-West Hard Hit By Winter's Severest Cold

By The Associated Press
Mid-winter's most severe weather lashed most of the nation today and there wasn't much relief in sight.

A bitter cold wave gripped the central part of the country. It was warmer near the Arctic Circle in Canada than in many parts of the mid-continent.

For the second straight day temperatures dropped far below zero in the Midwest. One reading early today was 45 degrees below.

And it was cold and icy and wet over widespread areas of the East. Colder weather was on the way, said U. S. forecasters, for much of the East and parts of the South.

Snow fell in Houston, Tex., and the mercury dropped to 25 above. Temperatures were below freezing all the way to the Rio Grande valley. The cold threatened citrus and vegetables in the rich agricultural region.

There was a mounting death toll attributed to the cold and icy weather. Hundreds suffered injuries in falls on icy streets. Schools closed in many areas—in the East and Texas by ice storms, in the Midwest and West by cold weather. Travel on highways was slowed. Many air flights were cancelled. Communications were disrupted in some areas because of ice-coated power lines.

The cold air missed only two parts of the country—the extreme Southeast and the Far West—forecasters said. The rest of the nation, they said, was feeling the sting of the cold Canadian air.

Two Women Sit On Grand Jury

Lexington, N. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—For the first time in Davidson County history, two women sat today as members of the grand jury. The grand jury was organized yesterday.

The women members are Miss Maggie T. Pickett, a bookkeeper for the Southern Railway's freight office, and Mrs. T. B. Tysinger, a housewife of Silver Hill township. They and the other 16 members were sworn in for the six-month term. Women previously have served on trial juries here, but never on a grand jury.

Cat Chases Dog

FILLMORE, Calif. — (AP) — The dogs around here will think a long time before they pick on Squeaky again. Squeaky is a young mountain lion captured in the woods by Agent James Hise of the U.S. Wildlife Service. The cat soon became the target of hawks and snags from all the dogs in the neighborhood. At first Squeaky cowered and bleated in terror. As she grew, the bleats turned into growls. One day Squeaky, big as a dog herself, lost patience. She lunged and the chain snapped. A policeman finally caught her, but she had gotten in her skin. The dogs snarled and whined, but she came around much wiser.

Radios Belong To Government

All he has to pay for it is 80 cents a month. If the loudspeaker goes on the blink, the defective set is replaced free of charge. Regular set owners have to pay 25 cents a month for their radios, and

Taxes Not Always Paid Where They Are 'Collected' By State

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, January 30—Many of the tables and graphs presented to members of the general assembly for study in connection with tax legislation are confusing if not misleading. The same observation applies to numerous factual (?) taxes published in newspapers for public information.

There is no deliberate intent to confuse or misinform, but much of the factual data presented results in confusion unless accompanied by detailed explanation, because relatively few tax-dollars are collected at the same place where the tax obligation is incurred.

Direct taxes on tangible property, realty or personally, are incurred, levied and collected at site of the property. Almost all of these taxes go into local county or municipal treasuries. Almost all indirect taxes, including such items as income, privilege license, franchise, excise and sales, inheritance and gifts, whether state or federal, are collected without regard to where the tax liability originated or where the taxes are actually paid.

Most federal taxes on automobiles are collected in Michigan and most cigarette taxes are collected in North Carolina, whether the tax was actually paid in Oregon or Maine. Income taxes are collected where the recipient lives, without regard to where the income was earned, in some other state or a foreign country.

Numerous illustrations could be given to show the fallacy of crediting to any county or city all the taxes collected there, but data distributed to members of the joint finance committee of the general assembly last week on the state franchise tax (Schedule C) serves to make the point.

The State of North Carolina last year collected $12,225,763 under the franchise schedule, all of which was paid by citizens of this state although more than four and a half million dollars was collected from out-of-state corporations. Of the amount collected in North Carolina $3,391,031 is credited to Mecklenburg county and $1,375,052 to Wake. Next biggest credits go to New Hanover with $898,062 and Edgecombe with $348,126.

Everybody knows that Mecklenburg folks did not "pay" almost one third of the state total franchise tax, and that Edgecombe did not pay twice as much as Forsyth or New Hanover more than five times as much as Guilford. Taxes were collected in Charlotte on Duke Power service all over the state; in Raleigh on Carolina Power service; in Wilmington on Tidewater Power and in Tarboro on Carolina Telephone service, wherever rendered. Major part of the "foreign" collections were from Bell Telephone in Atlanta and Virginia Electric in Norfolk.

All these taxes were actually "paid" by folks in Currituck and Yadkin, in Brunswick and Wayne and Polk, and in all the other counties when they paid their monthly telephone and light bills. Every motorist pays the gasoline tax at his filling station, although most of it is collected by the state in Charlotte and Wilmington. The sales tax is collected from merchants, but it is paid by customers who buy shirts and overalls and bedsteads, who in many instances do not live in the communities where they trade.

All of this shows the fallacy of the contention that because state taxes are collected from certain centers those centers actually pay the taxes. Everybody pays and the points of collection are established for administrative convenience, not to show actual source of state revenue.

Rest Is Important, Says Housewife

It has been said that there are lots and lots of ways for people to try to get some sleep at night. Some folks paint their windows black, others use ear plugs to shut out noise, while others count sheep. All of these are good and they do help some folks get their rest, but Mrs. Frank Jones, 1220 Bell, Montgomery, Alabama, has the best way to get a fine night's rest.

Mrs. Jones, who didn't rest well at night before she took HADACOL, is able to say, after taking HADACOL, "I rest wonderfully now!" Mrs. Jones found that HADACOL supplied Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in which her system was deficient.

Here is Mrs. Jones' own statement: "For a long time I had been bothered with indigestion and sour stomach. Food didn't seem to agree with me. I always had that uneasy fullness after I ate. I got to where I didn't want to eat. I had no energy. Felt like I couldn't make it during the day. I also was very nervous. I didn't rest well at night. A friend of mine told me about HADACOL. After the fourth bottle I felt wonderful. My food agreed with me—no more indigestion or sour stomach. My appetite is terrific. I now have lots of energy and my nervousness has gone. I rest wonderfully now. In fact, I feel good all the way round. I recommend HADACOL to everybody—it's wonderful." (c) 1950, The LeBlanc Corporation.

First Marines' Fighting Padre Is Korea-Bound

Cherry Point, N. C.—The First Marine Division's own "Fighting Padre", Lieutenant Commander Francis W. Kelly, left the Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, North Carolina, January 26.

Father Kelly will join, for the third time, the First Division-called the "Old Breed Leathernecks". He will report February 3, on the West Coast for assignment to Korea.

After donning the Navy uniform in 1942 the Padre became, what is believed to be, the first Navy Chaplain to serve a full cruise with Marine units.

On that tour of Mrine duty Father Kelly hit the beaches of Guadalcanal with the First Division. His part in this first Allied offensive of World War II was portrayed by actor Preston Foster, in the film "Guadalcanal Diary".

During the battles of Tarawa and Okinawa, the Padre was again in the front lines with Marines. It was at Okinawa that he again joined the First Division. His role in the battle for Tarawa was portrayed in another movie, "The Marines Take Tarawa," a documentary Marine Corps release.

His courage, spiritual guidance, and closeness to his men, have won Father Kelly the admiration and respect of fighting men everywhere—especially the respect of the fighting Leathernecks.

Chaplain Kelly left the regulars, a veteran of some 36 months overseas duty, in August of 1946, returning to his home of Upper Darby, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He remained in the organized reserves with the Sixth Infantry Battalion, Marine Corps Reserve.

The Padre reported for active duty at Cherry Point, home of the Second Marine Air Wing, July 30, 1950. He relieved Lieutenant Commander W. L. McBlain, who was detached to sea duty, as senior Catholic Chaplain.

Father Kelly will be replaced by Lieutenant Commander Gordian V. Ehrlicher, who will report to the Marine Corps Air Station from the U. S. Navy Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Virginia, around February 2.

Phantoms Face New Bern In Northeastern Tilt Here

Bucs Fall To Sixth; HP, Bears In Tie

By the Associated Press

High Point has tied Lenoir-Rhyne for the lead in the North State Conference basketball race.

The High Point Panthers won their seventh league game against two defeats (both overtime) by whipping Guilford, 70-59, last night. The Panthers made good on 24 of 30 free throws, and that was the difference.

Lenoir-Rhyne was idle, but takes on Guilford (3-5) tonight. Also carded tonight are Elon (5-5) and Western Carolina Teachers (1-7) who play their second game in as many days.

Yesterday's superior height and sharper shooting paid off for Elon, 75-54, despite Ronald Rogers' 31 points for WCTC. The victory advanced Elon a notch to sixth place.

Cherokee, previously tied for second with High Point at 6-2, and now in third place, lost a non-league game to the race horse play of the Kansas Hosiery team, 62-65.

Appalachian is in fourth place and well within striking distance following its 66-57 victory over East Carolina in gaining their seventh consecutive victory against three defeats. The Mountaineers grabbed the lead with three minutes of the game left and won going away. The defeat dropped East Carolina to sixth place at 5-4.

Improved Bear Quint Squares Off With Locals

Greenville's Phantoms will face a much-improved team from New Bern here tonight in the seventh Northeastern conference tilt for the Phantoms.

Game time is 8:00 p.m., with a preliminary junior varsity game starting at 6:30 p.m., in the Greenville High School gymnasium.

Coach Bo Farley's cagers, after suffering a thrilling 45-41 loss to second-place Kinston last Friday will be seeking their fourth conference win in tonight's clash.

The Bears, while losing several games this season, have improved greatly over the season, and have been losing most of their games by close scores recently.

In the first meeting between these two clubs, Greenville trounced the Bears with a second half surge, 50-30.

Expected to provide tonight's scoring punch for the Phantoms will be Forward Jimmy Dillingham, who has hit on 118 points this season for the locals to lead the individual scoring, along with Center Sydney Briley, who has dipped in 103 points to his credit.

Rounding out tonight's starting five will be Jake Higgs at one forward position, and Johnny Aman and Glenn Scott at the guard spots.

New Bern's tilt is lead by their two top scoring forwards Jim Dillie and Bunk Stewart, while Center Williams is the play-makers.

Kentucky Is Still Nation's No. 1 Team

Appalachian Wins 66-57, As Bucs Fall

Hodges, R. Blake Bucs' Top Scorers

Boone, Jan. 30.—(Special to The Record)—Appalachian's Mountaineers had that "home" feeling on their own court during the first half last night, and then outlasted East Carolina in the final six minutes, to take an all-important victory from the Pirates, 66-57.

The Mountaineers, with Perk Collins' 24 points and Joe Hunt's 18 points leading the way, took a wide 36-24 advantage at halftime.

But in the second half, things proved differently, as East Carolina rallied back, with Bobby Hodges, Richard Fennell and reserve guard Richard Blake leading the way, as Fennell's basket knotted the count, 49-49, with nine minutes left on the scoreboard.

Richard Blake's lay up put the Bucs into the lead 51-49, but the Apps' Collins tied it again on field goal. Collins' free throw in the same minute made it 52-51 in favor of the Apps.

In the last six minutes, the lead changed hands as many as six times, but East Carolina failed to score in the last three minutes, as the Apps pushed over their win.

Bobby Hodges was scoring leader for the Bucs, with five field goals and four free throws for 14 points, while Richard Blake, reserve guard, turned in a fine performance with 13 points.

Last night's loss dropped East Carolina to sixth place in the North State standings.

Wolfpack Ranks Eighth; LIU Falls To Fourth

By JOHN CHANDLER

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—With another full month before the first of the basketball tournaments begin, the Kentucky Wildcats and Oklahoma A&M appear due for a battle right down to the wire for the No. 1 collegiate ranking.

For the second week in a row, Kentucky topped the weekly AP poll today, but the margin was by a slim 19 votes over the Aggies of Oklahoma.

Of course, something could pop up to blow down the rankings of one or the other—or both—before the end of the poll. For instance, take the case of Long Island University, the No. 2 team last week, but dropped this week to No. 4 because of its loss to California Saturday, 60-57. Arizona bumped LIU last night at Tucson, 62-61, but this was after the votes were counted for this week's rating.

The results all were in last night, however, before Kentucky took the court to thump Tulane, 104-58, at New Orleans. It was a new Southeastern Conference scoring record, and possibly Kentucky felt it needed some positive proof it should show who is boss in the court business.

From here on, the schedule favors Kentucky to add to its 15-1 mark. The Wildcats have nine games left in regular season play, most with impotent Southeastern Conference clubs.

On the other hand, Oklahoma A&M has a tougher row to hoe, especially with some Big Seven and Missouri Valley foes waiting to ambush Coach Hank Iba's lads.

The same 10 teams in the top 10 remained there, but seven of them changed positions in a skimpy week of basketball play due to mid-year examinations.

Here are the leading teams with points based on ten for first place vote, nine for second, etc. (First place votes and season records including last night's games in parentheses):

1. Kentucky (42) (15-1) 988

2. Oklahoma A&M (31) (15-1) 969

3. Indiana (7) (13-1) 836

4. Long Island U. (3) (16-2) 568

5. Bradley (1) (18-3) 551

6. Columbia (4) (12-0) 435

7. Kansas State (4) (13-2) 376

8. N.C. State (7) (19-2) 341

9. St. John's (2) (13-2) 341

Mites Win Streak Snapped By Caps

Greenville Midgets' winning streak was snapped after 18 consecutive victories here Saturday night, as Raleigh's Mites handed the locals a 45 to 36 loss.

Led by Pat Sawyer, with 14 points, the local Tiny Tims soared ahead during the first quarter over a taller Raleigh quint, 13-6, but suffered a great scoring let-down during the third period with only three points while Raleigh, led by Center John Taylor with 13 points, and Semi Mintz and Billy Hitchcock with 12 points each, tallied 11 markers.

It was Raleigh's 11th win in the last 12 starts.

These two teams meet in State College's Coliseum February 24 as a preliminary tilt before the State-Georgetown game.

Hogan Honored As Most Courageous Athlete Of 1950

Philadelphia, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Ben Hogan, who said his return to golf after recovering from a near fatal automobile accident was to "repay faith with faith," was honored last night as the most courageous athlete of 1950.

Bantam Ben was unable to appear to accept the annual award from the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association, but he spoke to the sellout crowd of more than 1,200 by means of a recording.

The little Texan with the big heart said during his convalescence many people wrote to him encouragingly and prayed for his recovery. "They had faith in me," he said. "I had to come back and prove to those people that I had faith in myself."

Gene Sarazen, winner of six national championships in 30 years of tournament golf, accepted the trophy for Ben.

Hogan was injured Feb. 2, 1949.

Savitt Triumphs In Australian Net Championship

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Curley-haired Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J. today became the third American in history to win the Australian tennis championship. He defeated Aussie Davis Cup player Ken McGregor, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1 in the final.

Savitt, former Cornell University captain, takes his place alongside

F. B. Alexander and Don Budge as the only Americans to take the coveted title back across the Pacific. Alexander triumphed in 1908 and Budge won it in 1939 in the days when the big redhead was virtually invincible.

Not only were the experts surprised that Savitt reached the final, but they were well night astounded by the dispatch with which he disposed of McGregor, who is regarded as one of the brightest young prospects developed down under in many years.

Few Tree Removals Are Worth Salvaging Wood

Kent, Ohio, Jan. 25.—Economyminded householders find it difficult to understand why few trees removed from their properties have salvageable wood. In three out of every four removals, trees are hauled away to a dump for destruction by burning.

Owners imagine any saw mill would be delighted to get the trees. All too often, however, such trees are diseased, hollow or decayed and contain little usable wood.

points out M. W. Staples, field-supervisor of The Davey Tree Expert Co. Even healthy trees from city or roadside are not acceptable to mills. Expensive saws or be ruined by nails, hooks, cables or cement fillings frequently found in such trees.

More often, the home owner want fireplace wood. Even when this wood is sawed to size and piled in the back yard, there is still the problem of carting away branches. A heavy percentage of removals are of elms, which are only fair as fire wood. When freshly cut, elm has a large amount of water and refuses to burn unless skillfully blended with fast burning varieties. In the Dutch elm disease zone the cut logs may breed beetles to spread further contamination unless treated. Fire wood salvage is worth while only when there is a substantial tree of desirable kind, such as oak, sugar maple or hickory.

Tree removal is ticklish business at best and the home owner will be wise to contract with a responsible outfit. Among the more important things the owner can do is require evidence of proper insurance coverage. Otherwise he may be liable for injury to the crew or to passersby, as well as for damage to his own and neighboring properties. He should also make certain the contract includes hauling and disposal of the trees.

Mexico covers an area of about 763,944 square miles.

Belvoir Youth Places Third In Speaking Event

Alfred Moore, senior 4-H Club member from Belvoir, has won third place in the 100 Bushel Corn Club speaking contest which was held in Raleigh Saturday.

Moore was one of two entrants from Pitt and was awarded $15 for third place. The topic of the contest, which is sponsored by the Plant Food Institute of North Carolina and Virginia, was "How I Produced My 100 Bushel Corn Crop." Twenty entrants from 18 North Carolina counties participated.

Howell Bone, a member of the Pactus club, also entered the contest and won an honorable mention. He was awarded $7.50 for his speech. Pitt was the only county with two entrants. Moore grew more than 100 bushels last year for the first time and thereby became a member of the county honorary corn club. Bone is a repeater from the crop of 1949.

Meanwhile, it was announced by C. J. Goodman, 4-H Club worker in Pitt and assistant farm agent, the county has received a plaque from General Motors Company denoting it the most outstanding county in the state from the point of view of farm safety. Pitt also won a similar plaque for its safety program in 1949.

It was also announced that Wesley Manning, member of the Belvoir senior 4-H Club, has received a citation from the National Safety Council for his outstanding work in reducing accidents among farm residents. Manning was invited to attend the National 4-H Congress in Chicago last summer but could not attend and the citation is in lieu of the award which would have been made at the Congress.

VOYAGE TO EDEN

By Bonnie C. Hall

Chapter 25
Elsie grinned her approval. Then they went away and she turned the conversation into other channels. "I guess you heard about Patricia Hasbrook pulling a fast one last night," she said. Molly shook her head. "No. I haven't seen Pat for a couple of days. I saw her the other night when I went up to dance for a little while, and she seemed all right. In fact, I've never seen her any gayer."

If you ask me he's sored on her completely, and she's only wasting her time calling him back. You can't blame him either. No man's going to put up with that cat-and-mouse nonsense forever. Doc's not the mouse type..." Elsie's comments were brought to an abrupt end by the arrival of Miss Meacham, the head nurse. She spoke a pleasant good morning to Elsie and motioned Molly aside. "I have a little errand for you, my dear," she said in her brisk, efficient voice. "I'd like for you to go up and check on Miss Hasbrook. Take her temperature, see if she's comfortable, and report back to me. It's just a formality. She's sent for Doctor O'Malley, but he's tied up in the isolation ward and I don't want to disturb him." It was the last thing in the world Molly wanted to do, but to refuse Miss Meacham was unthinkable. No nurse worth her salt—or who valued her future—ever refused to take orders from a head nurse. Nevertheless, she made a feeble protest. "Must I? I didn't know she was sick. She looked the picture of health when I saw her last." Miss Meacham looked at her sharply. Then she said a strange thing for a woman who was normally the soul of discretion. Her words, in fact, were reminiscent of the ones Elsie had used only a few days ago. "She's not sick," Miss Meacham said. "There's not a thing wrong with that girl that a good old-fashioned larruping wouldn't cure. I'm just in a mood to give it to her, too. That's why I'm sending you instead of going myself." With that, she thrust a thermometer case into Molly's hand and hurried away. Elsie, who had made it her business to overhear the conversation, winked and stepped over near Molly. "See? It's just like I told you," she reminded the girl. "I don't envy you, chickadee. I'd sooner deal with a whole shipload of D.P.'s than one cantankerous Hasbrook, male or female. I'm surprised at Meacham for passing the buck. Gee, I wish I had her chance to light into La Hasbrook. I wouldn't leave so much as a greasy spot. The brat will probably light into you with both feet, on account of you're down here working with Doc."

"I'm not worried about that," Molly said. "All I have to do is take her temperature and see if she's comfortable. It's just a formality and it's going to be darn brief." She made her way up to Patricia's stateroom, feeling somewhat resentful and put upon. It didn't seem fair that Miss Meacham should be sending her instead of one of the regular nurses—or even going herself. She supposed that she, being Bert's fiancée and Patricia's prospective sister-in-law, would be expected to take sid with the girl, to commiserate, and she could think of nothing she wanted to do less. She was beginning to feel sorry for Peter O'Malley, and to respect him too. However mercenary his plans for the future might be, he was doing a wonderful job with the unfortunate D.P.'s. He was allowing nothing even Patricia's shenanigans—to interfere with his work. Evidently Peter O'Malley, the doctor, was an entirely different person from Peter O'Malley, the man. Molly knocked on Patricia's door several times before there was a muffled invitation to enter. Patricia was lying in her berth, moaning softly, and completely covered except for her face and shining red hair. She opened her eyes, saw Molly, stopped moaning and set up straight. Molly was surprised to see that her face was carefully made up and that she was fully dressed. She looked petulant, a little angry, but definitely not sick. "Oh, so it's you, Molly," she said crossly. "It was Peter I sent for."

Dissem In Burma On Peace Claim

Rangoon—(AP)—A North Burma newspaper "Myanma Lanzin (Burmese Way)" has editorially commented that the Burmese situation has been unsatisfactory since independence was achieved on Jan. 4, 1948.

It observed that the government claim to have restored 95 per cent peace may be true of towns garrisoned by government troops, but was not applicable to outlying villages. The paper said that there is every likelihood of general elections being postponed again.

Woman Jailed On Court Contempt

A Negro woman is residing in county jail for the next 30 days for being in contempt of Greenville Recorder's Court yesterday.

Judge J.W.H. Roberts sentenced Ethel Mae Jones, 404B Tyson Street, to jail on the grounds she was "frivolous and malicious" in her testimony concerning a warrant for William Earl Jones, her brother-in-law, charging him with attempted rape of her five-year-old daughter.

The Jones woman indicted the 17-year-old youth after she said she found him on a bed with the girl in a compromising position. She stated in court, however, the boy was on the bed but was looking for his shoes under the bed.

The 30-day sentence is the maximum allowable for contempt.

Three men requested a jury trial on charges of possession of ABC whiskey for purpose of sale and their cases were transferred to Superior Court. The men are John Swamster, four indictments; Ruffin Carr, three indictments; and William R. Sweet, two indictments.

Other cases heard were: Sylvester Tyson, Negro, fornication and adultery; not pros. Mabel Evans, Negro, fornication and adultery; not pros. Clayton Earl Roberson, driving drunk; transferred to Superior Court.

Horace Duffy, Negro, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for purpose of sale; six months suspended on payment of $100 and costs. James A. Cox, drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest; paid $20. Jesse A. Cox, assault (two indictments); paid $20 on both and $5 damages.

James H. Carter, Negro, driving drunk; six months suspended on payment of $100 and costs and pay

Women Confined After Outbreak

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 30—(AP)—Some 14 women prisoners were in isolation cells today as the aftermath of a near riot staged at Women's Prison yesterday.

Miss Ronie Sheffield, superintendent at the prison, said the demonstration was touched off by 45 to 50 striking inmates who refused to go to work.

The trouble, she explained, resulted from the use for the first time Sunday of a "visiting screen," which prevents prisoners and visitors from exchanging unauthorized letters and packages.

During the disturbance which lasted approximately 20 minutes, the participating inmates hurled rocks and broke a number of windows in the prison laundry. One woman suffered slight burns when a non-striking prisoner threw hot water out the laundry window.

Eighteen Meet Banquet Quotas

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 30—(AP)—Eighteen counties have met their quotas and sent in checks for the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner here Feb. 10.

State headquarters reported yesterday that the following counties have completed their quotas for the $50-a-plate dinner: Alamance, Avery, Brunswick, Burke, Cabarrus, Caldwell, Cherokee, Gaston, Macon, Mecklenburg, Pamlico, Rutherford, Stokes, Swain, Surry, Tyrrell, Wilkes, and Yadkin.

'Big Mo' Model Shows Surrender

New York—(AP)—Gibbs and Cox, naval architects, have announced the completion of a detailed model of the 45,000-ton U.S.S. Missouri which shows tiny tables, documents, pens and pen-holders representing those used in the Japanese surrender on board the dreadnought in 1945.

The model measures a little more than 18 feet, seven inches in length and weighs 1,500 pounds. It was built for the Navy and will be exhibited in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. More than a year was required to construct the sleek reproduction of the famous warship.

Ask Controls On Textile Import

Rangoon—(AP)—Burmese weavers want the importation of textiles to be controlled, charging unrestricted importation is a threat to the handloom weaving industry. The Burmese government decontrolled textile imports last August to stockpile cloth, fearing a cloth famine in the event of war. A weavers' union now complains Burmese products have become unmarketable since they cannot compete with foreign textiles.
