Ten-Day Period Of Grace Given Pitt Countians For Tax-Listing

Extension Granted Through Feb. 10; After That, Penalty To Be Charged

A ten-day period of grace has been granted to those persons in the county who have not already listed their property for taxing for the year.

Auditor Allan T. Powell stated yesterday an extension has been granted to late listers through February 10. After that date a 10 percent penalty on the taxes will be charged to all persons listing.

To date, Powell reported after making a survey of the 13 township lists in the county, just about 90 percent of the 20,000-odd persons who each year list their taxes have done so for this year. Of that percentage figure, Belvoir, Carolina and Winterville townships are the most nearly complete with about 95 percent of the taxable residents having listed so far.

Slowest township through yesterday's survey by Powell is Fountain, reporting only 75 percent complete. Greenville, the largest in the county with close to 6,000 persons on the books, shows 85 percent or 5,100 tax abstracts completed.

The main reason for the incomplete listing to date, a condition similar to the end of January in past years, is the public's nature of doing things at the last moment. That is the report from most of the tax listers. However, during most of January fair weather prevailed which tended to keep farmers close to their new crops rather than traveling to the listing place. As for business men, they had to list their inventories which caused many of them to list during the last few days of the month.

Today, the first of the 10-day extension, found the listers doing a leisurely business. The long lines in Greenville's courthouse, which were prevalent through yesterday afternoon, were gone this morning. Only a scattering of persons was present wanting to list.

The farm census, which must also be taken by the lister, is about 95 percent complete, Powell stated. It is more nearly complete than the tax listing, he said. However, neither the census nor the tax listing has anything to do with each other. The lister is required by law to take the census at the same time he is listing the person's property, he added.

Here are the listing places and the listers in the townships:

Ayden — L. B. Kinlaw's office.
Beaver Dam — R. E. Willoughby, Bell Arthur.
Belvoir — Elmo Dupree at Dupree Brothers store.
Bethel — R. N. Simmons, City Hall.
Caroline — Gordon Clark's store.
Chicod — Luther Stanley, Cox's Mill.
Falkland — J. D. Mercer.
Farmville — L. P. Thomas, City Hall.
Fountain — Carl Gay, City Hall.
Greenville — Hugh Ragsdale, Harding Sugg, Courthouse.
Pactolus — C. J. Satterthwaite's store.
Swift Creek — Reid Smith's store.
Winterville — Wayland Hunsucker, City Hall.

Stray Bullet In Gun Duel Fatal

Hamlet, N.C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A stray bullet during a gun duel yesterday in East Hamlet killed Sherman Simmons, 20-year-old Negro of Marlboro County, S.C.

Sheriff Raymond Goodman said the duel, which started from an argument was staged between Buddy Medlin and June Johnson. Medlin was held in connection with the death.

Weathering A Crisis

United Nations' Branding China An Aggressor Won't Stop Kremlin's Efforts, But Hand Of Free Nations Is Strengthened; Small Wonder India Worried

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

The United Nations has weathered its first life-or-death crisis by adopting the American sponsored resolution condemning communist China as an aggressor for its armed intervention in Korea.

This action, of course, won't halt the Kremlin's efforts to communize the world. The revolution, of which Red China's invasion of Korea is merely a phase, will continue increasingly by armed conflict.

However, the stand by the United Nations is calculated to strengthen the hand of the seekers after a free world. It undoubtedly will give the United Nations troops in Korea fresh courage to carry out their stern assignment.

There is widespread belief among close observers that had the peace organization failed to take action it would in all likelihood have meant its death.

Ever on of the issue, in the opinion of many, not only would have placed the brand of impotence on the U. N., but would in effect

Eisenhower Warns Lawmakers Their Decision On Europe To Affect Our Civilization's Future

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told congress members today their decisions on defense cooperation with western Europe will determine the course of civilization and whether free governments will continue to exist.

The allied commander for Europe addressed an informal meeting of the Senate and House in the Library of Congress auditorium. At the outset, he told them he has "no end to serve except the good of the United States," and appealed "for belief in the 'sincerity of my convictions.' The Congress members applauded.

Eisenhower went on to say we have to operate on the assumption that we are deeply concerned with the defense "of our way of life." He said that embraces freedom of the individual and an economy of free enterprise.

The five star General, just back from a tour of western Europe, then declared the goal must be "the common good of the free nations."

In earnest tones, he told the legislators they soon may be forced to make decisions which will determine the course of civilization. He added that those decisions involve whether free governments will continue to exist.

His tour of Europe was made to determine both the possibilities of defending Europe against the threat of Russian aggression and the readiness and ability of Europe to defend itself.

Eisenhower said it was a fallacy to believe the strengthening of western Europe's defenses would invite attack by the communists.

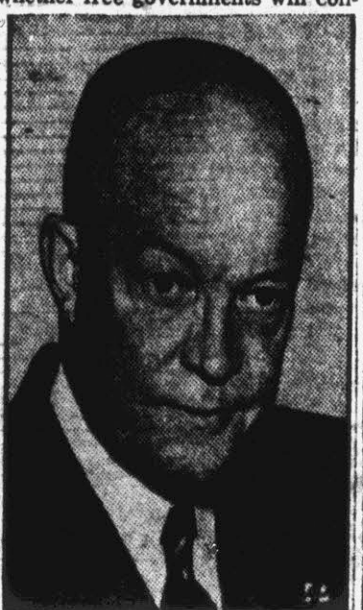

This was a contention Senator Taft (R-Ohio) has made in opposing the sending of a large U. S. land army to Europe.

Eisenhower said his survey of Europe gave him only a "meager base" on which to recommend American help in manning western Europe's defenses.

But he stoutly contended that what the western nations are trying to do "cannot honestly be considered by any other nation as a threat to its existence."

He said the western European defense force is not being mobilized for any belligerent or aggressive purpose.

"We are going to build for ourselves a secure wall of peace,"

DWIGHT EISENHOWER

Meyers Paroled

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Bennett E. Meyers, former major general in the Air Force, was paroled from prison today.

Since 1948, he has been serving time in the federal reformatory at Lorton, Va., after being convicted of inducing a civilian associate to lie about his sideline business activities during World War II.

He was immediately picked up by U.S. marshals to answer a federal income tax evasion indictment pending against him at Baltimore.

Pitt Democrats Cling To Dollars

Slow To Part With Money For Annual Rally In Raleigh

A report from John G. Clark, chairman of the County Democratic Executive Committee, states the Democratic club is hard to get when it concerns raising the county's quota for the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner in Raleigh.

To date, Clark has received requests for only four out of the ten tickets allotted the county. Two have come from Grifton and two from Farmville, he said. That means only $200 of the requested $600 has been raised so far for the February 10 political rally.

Clark intimated the slow progress in selling the dinner tickets is evidenced by people's interest in affairs other than political interests at the present time. Worries about world conditions and the belief that $50 will be needed later in the year when, tentatively, taxes will rise, are two of the reasons people don't care about attending the event, he indicated.

However, Clark was of the opinion the quota will be raised by the day of the dinner at which Senator Ernest McFarland of Arizona will be the principal speaker.

"Pitt" ways has raised its quota," he said. "I certainly don't want to break down this year."

Plan Top-Level Body On Policy

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A top-level committee on manpower mobilization and controls was being planned today, possibly under the chairmanship of Arthur S. Fleming, president of Ohio Wesleyan University.

There has been an invitation to aggressor nations to carry on without fear.

Such an appraisal of the situation is based on sound evidence. It was on this very point of failing to deal adequately with aggression that the League of Nations committed suicide.

Of course the United Nations did condemn Red North Korea as an aggressor last June for that country's invasion of its sister state of South Korea. The Chinese invasion, however, represents the first major aggression with which the peace organization has been faced.

The resolution of condemnation was fought tooth and nail in the Political Committee of the General Assembly by the Soviet countries and the 13-nation Asian-Arab bloc which was headed by Foreign Minister Sir Benegal N. Rau of India.

Rail Service Slowed By Fast-Spreading Strike

Wildcat Walkout Growing More Critical; Now Spans Nation; Government And Union Officials Plan Action

By the Associated Press
An unauthorized strike of railroad switchmen high-balled across the nation today, putting a brake on the country's rail transportation.

The wildcat walkout, moving into the third day, appeared growing more critical by the hour. It spanned the nation, hitting directly against 33 railroads in 18 major cities.

Scores of other carriers felt the impact of the fast-spreading work stoppage. So did other industries. Thousands of non-railroad workers were made idle by the strike.

The government moved to end the strike. So did officials of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. But, as they acted, new stoppages were reported.

The strike appeared following the pattern of the crippling strike of six weeks ago which in three days nearly paralyzed movement of passengers, freight and mail in many parts of the country. That walkout ended only after intervention of President Truman and court action.

Governor Edward F. Arn of Kansas suggested that President Truman "if he so desired could stop it (the strike) within a few hours."

There was no indication that Mr. Truman personally planned to intervene.

Arn, a Republican, termed the walkout a "national crisis."

As the strike grew, the government took court action to end it. The government also, through the Defense Transportation Administration (DTA), ordered the railroads to embargo freight which cannot be moved through yards tied up by the walkout.

"Pitt" ways has raised its quota," he said. "I certainly don't want to break down this year."

Greenville Police Force Is Now Three Men Short

Greenville's police force was three officers short this morning when the resignation of two more officers became effective.

The resignation of Policeman Lonnie Hathaway which was submitted on January 13 became effective today as did the resignation of Policeman J. H. Little which was submitted about two weeks ago.

Hathaway has returned to work for a mercantile company in Richmond, Chief Guy C. Langston said.

Langston said the third vacancy on the police force at the present time was caused by the death of Policeman W. L. Brewer several weeks ago. The Chief said he has contacted several policemen and former policemen throughout the state, and expects to fill the vacancies on the force within the next few weeks.

Pay Hike In Coal Pits Is Effected

Will Be Reflected In New Ceiling Prices For Coal

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A pay raise in the coal pits went into effect today without interference from the government, and eventually the money will show up on consumers' coal bills.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalvo announced that new ceiling prices on coal would be set today or tomorrow and would "probably reflect increased costs to the operators as a result of the wage increase."

Thus the government cracked open its Jan. 25 temporary wage-price freeze for the first time. Other cracks are certain.

And thus a long period without coal strikes seemed to be assured, and the big shadow of John L. Lewis faded from the wall in the conference room of the Wage Stabilization Board.

This board, headed by Cyrus S. Ching, took several steps yesterday, exempted state, county, and municipal employees from the wage freeze, turning them over to their governing bodies, which, the board said, are expected to conform to general federal wage policies.

In another regulation, the board gave a blanket O. K. to all wage and salary increases due to take effect before midnight Feb. 9, provided they were "formally determined and communicated to the employees" before the Jan. 25 freeze date.

This permitted an undetermined number of increases to groups or individuals in that class.

"Pitt" ways has raised its quota," he said. "I certainly don't want to break down this year."

'Man Of The Year' Award To Be Made February 8

Greenville's "Man of the Year" award will be presented next Thursday night by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to the young man who contributed most to community activities during 1950.

The distinguished service award, given each year by the Junior Chamber, will be presented to the man at a special meeting of the Jaycees. As is the custom, his name remains secret until the presentation.

This year Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina, will present the award. He was chosen by the Jaycees awards committee to make the presentation and succeeds Reverend H. G. Hancy, pastor of the Christian Church, who made the presentation last February, to Van C. Fleming, Jr.

The "Man of the Year" has been chosen by a four-man committee, each member representing the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and Exchange clubs in Greenville. Each of the four was appointed by the president of his club to represent the club on the selection committee.

The committee in turn made the selection of the man from written recommendations given them by members at large of the four civic clubs.

Following the presentation of the local award, the man's name will be sent to state headquarters of the Junior Chamber for naming of a young "Man of the Year" of North Carolina.

The special meeting of the Junior Chamber was called by President Dan Saleed at a meeting of the board of directors this week. The meeting is being held especially for the presentation of the civic award.

Sales Tax Bill

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The legislature may get a bill to reduce the state sales tax from three to two per cent and eliminate most sales tax exemptions.

Rep. Sam Worthington of Pitt said yesterday he was considering introducing such a proposal. Worthington is a member of the tax-writing joint finance committee.

By eliminating most of the exemptions under the sales tax, Worthington said, merchants would find it easier to collect the tax.

Revenue commissioner Eugene Shaw has said such legislation would simplify administration of the sales tax. He also estimated it would bring in approximately $2,000,000 in additional revenue.

Four Indicted In ABC Robberies

Tyson Serves Warrants On Virginians; March Trial Set

Four Virginia men have been indicted in connection with the robbery of the Grimesland ABC store on the morning of January 13.

Pitt County Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson served warrants Wednesday on four men who are being held in the Edgecombe county jail in Tarboro. William E. Goodrich, Charley Coley and James "Slim" Coley were charged with breaking and entering and larceny in the Grimesland robbery. Paul Bullock, formerly a resident of Pitt county and now a resident of Portsmouth, Va., was charged with conspiracy and receiving stolen goods.

The arrest of Goodrich near Pinepots Thursday morning in connection with an attempted robbery of the Pinepots ABC a few hours earlier, eventually led to the arrest of the other three men and the charges of the robbery of the Pitt county ABC store at Grimesland.

At the time of the Pinepots incident, officers from five eastern North Carolina counties converged on the Edgecombe county town to help apprehend the liquor thieves.

Officers expressed the belief that the Pinepots robbery was done by the same group which six times during the past two months had stolen whiskey from ABC stores in eastern North Carolina.

Tyson said bonds had been set for the four men who are being held in Tarboro, but at the last report none of the arrested men had posted bond.

The cases are scheduled for trial at the March term of Superior court.

UN Forces Drive Forward Against Enemy Positions

American-French Advance Unit Trapped, Under Heavy Attack; Signs Multiply That Allied Army In Contact With Main Communist Defense Line

Tokyo, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Allied forces in bitter hand-to-hand fighting crunched ahead as much as three miles today in western Korea, but a French-American combat team was trapped by superior Chinese forces in another sector of the warfront.

There were increasing signs that the eight-day-old United Nations limited offensive had slammed into the main Red defense line south of the Han River. The Han flows along the southeastern outskirts of Seoul.

A Tenth Corps spokesman said the encircled regiment had been fighting off two enemy regiments for hours, in close combat. He would not predict its chances of breaking out of the trap.

Bayonet-wielding Turkish troops made Thursday's biggest advance, through rugged and muddy hills country against an enemy "firmly dug in," a briefing officer said.

Forward elements of this force drove to a point less than 4,000 yards south of Yangpyong, on the road to Seoul. Yangpyong is about nine miles northwest of Suwon and 11 miles south of the former South Korean capital. A few miles eastward, an American tank-led task force jabbed two and one-half miles into Wonchon, but then withdrew. Wonchon is three miles east of Suwon.

Seoul Is Near
The battlefield now extends roughly along an east-west line five miles north of Suwon. At one point it is within nine miles of Seoul.

Near the junction of the western and central fronts French and American elements were reported earlier Thursday to have rammed into blazing Red counterattacks near Chipyong, 13 miles north of Yoji.

It was not clear whether this action was the same as the unlocated encirclement fight by a French-American regiment reported by the 10th Corps spokesman Thursday night. The counterattacks around Chipyong, which had been described as 3,000 shouting North Koreans, who poured out of hideouts to strike the allied forces on three sides.

The spokesman said it was two regiments of Chinese Reds who had encircled the French-American

Original Quiz Contest Program At Lector Club

The Lector Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Louis Gaylord Jr. on Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 p.m.

The attractive home was lovely with arrangements of flowers and shrubs. The hostess welcomed club members and the following guests: Mrs. Studie Wood Mann of Richmond, Va., Mrs. Howard Hodges Jr., Mrs. V. C. Fleming Jr. and Mrs. Jack Horton.

After a brief business meeting conducted by Mrs. Holly VanDyke, president, the program was presented by the hostess.

Mrs. Gaylord had arranged an unusual and original quiz program, during which time members wrote answers to questions concerning etiquette, grammar, spelling and general knowledge. Reversing the usual procedure in awarding prizes to the highest scorer, the hostess presented awards to those who answered the least number of questions correctly. This was the occasion of much fun and gaiety and the program was enjoyed by all.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the hostess served homemade cake with coffee and nuts to club members and guests.

Pupils in the Eighth Grade of the Training School at East Carolina Teachers College gave the regular weekly chapel program at the college on Tuesday of this week at noon in the Austin auditorium.

The theme of "Work" was carried out in a series of songs and readings presented by the young people. Miss Elizabeth Hyman is teacher of the grade.

Mary Will Long was program chairman at the chapel service. Joanna Hardy read the Scripture lesson, and Mitchell Johnson read a prayer. All members of the class joined in the choric reading of three poems on the subject of "Work."

New Recreation, 28 RB5

Members of the student Social Committee of East Carolina Teachers College have announced that a new recreation room will soon be opened in the Wright building on the campus. The large room located in the basement of Wright and formerly used as a cafeteria by the campus Training School will serve as a center of leisure-time activities among students. The room is now being redecorated and equipped with tables, chairs, and other furnishings and with a collection of games of various types.

Otis Bain of Wilmington heads the student social committee, which planned the recreation center; and Celia Segerman, assistant dean of women, is faculty advisor of the group. Alexander E. Livesey of Rocky Mount, president of the student government association of the college, and other association members have given assistance to committee members in arranging the opening of the room.

Conversion of the basement of Wright building into a recreation center for students is a project which will extend into next year, according to Livesey.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS IDOL WORSHIP

The story is told of a certain Mahmoud, the Mohammedan conqueror of India, who was known as the "Idol-Breaker." He came one day to a huge idol, fifteen feet high, at Sonnat, and was about to destroy it when the priests of the idol's temple cast themselves down before him and offered him a huge ransom if he would spare the idol. Being a devout follower of Mohammed, however, the Idol-Breaker spurned the offer and told his soldiers to start demolishing the idol with hammers. When they broke it open, a treasure of diamonds and other precious stones spilled out, much to the surprise of the proffered ransom.

The application of this story to modern life is very apparent. Life is just as full of idols for us today as it ever was for the ancients. Our idols are not sticks and stones but ideas, temptations, persons, situations. They confront us day by day and demand worship, offering us in return many fancy varieties of happiness.

But when we spurn idolatry we find plenty of reward—and reward that we never expected to find. The peace of a quiet conscience, the approbation of friends and loved ones, the increase in our own inner power—all these recompense a person who will neither worship an idol nor allow it to continue to exist and to tempt him.

Turn The Problem Around This Time

The members of the General Assembly seemed determined that North Carolina shall not have a motor vehicle mechanical inspection law.

Reports from Raleigh say the legislators have indicated any form of the inspection law will receive a negative committee vote Friday.

It may be true that the recommendations made by the governor's advisory committee on highway safety are too detailed to be carried out effectively. Nevertheless, North Carolina needs some sort of statute to regulate the mechanical condition of the automobiles which are allowed on the highways.

The job of framing legislation which the state needs is the job of the legislators. Apparently the members of the legislature have been willing to let other people do the framing of proposed motor vehicle inspection legislation. Then when the proposals get in the form of bills, the legislature members turn thumbs down on the matter and bury it for another two years at least.

We repeat, North Carolina could profit greatly from an adequate, feasible motor vehicle inspection law. The two bills which are now before the General Assembly may not be practical from the standpoint of administration, but nevertheless, the whole idea of a motor vehicle inspection law should not be tossed out the window so readily.

More Time For Voters To Consider Candidates

Pending before the General Assembly is a bill which, if passed will require all candidates for City of Greenville offices to file their candidacies 30 days prior to election day.

It will mean the names of all candidates for city offices will be on file at the city hall for a month before the actual election day.

Under the present city charter, candidates for aldermen may file as late as five days before the election, and candidates for the office of mayor may file as late as ten days before the election day.

While these regulations have worked satisfactorily for a number of years, the new requirements for an early registration of candidates will be a great help to the people of the city in selecting the men who will head the city government.

In the past, a large number of the candidates for city offices have clung to the practice of waiting until the latest possible minute of the filing period before officially announcing their candidacy for office. As a result, the people of Greenville had only a few days between the final filing date and election day in which to decide for which candidates they would cast their ballots.

Under the new regulation, if it is enacted into law by the General Assembly, there will be ample time between the closing of the filing period and the election day in which the voters of the city can give careful consideration to all the candidates who are seeking office.

It is fitting, we think, that the proposed change in the candidate registrations should be made at the same time the city is requesting the General Assembly to allow all the voters of the city to vote for all the aldermen rather than just the alderman or two aldermen from a particular ward of the city.

If the system of electing aldermen is changed by the General Assembly, the individual voters of the city will select four or five aldermen (depending on the year) and a mayor. In the past the individual voter has had to consider only the candidates for alderman from his particular ward and the candidates for mayor.

There has been every indication that the requested bills will be passed by the General Assembly. We hope Pitt county's representatives in the legislature see that the bills are passed in time to become a part of the city charter for use in the city elections slated for May.

More Study For Better Highway Safety

President Truman has come forth with his proposal for tax increases which have been estimated to hike individual income taxes 20 per cent. The proposed tax boost would up the tax levy by over $16 billion dollars.

The most practical solution to the nation's financial problem was suggested by some of the members of the House Ways and Means committee. They suggested to the president that large amounts be lopped off the president's $71,600,000,000 budget.

To people who have studied the budget, or even to those who have read summaries of the budget proposals, it is evident that the proposed spending is loaded with unnecessary measures which have been placed under the heading of "defense measures." That is the category under which the president has thrown the major portion of his "fair deal" program which congress has refused to pass in the last few sessions.

Some tax increases may be necessary; but if the budget were trimmed of its extra padding, the tax increase would be negligible compared with the president's current proposal.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson candidly admitted in a recent speech before the New York Bar Association that for many years the Department of Justice has picked the victims of anti-trust prosecution on a "political basis."

"After all," the former Attorney General and Solicitor General in the Roosevelt Administration remarked, "they had to be picked on some basis. We might as well be candid about it."

Justice Jackson's sensational statement, which is elaborated below on the basis of his authorized spokesman's explanations, is having repercussions in financial and industrial circles.

It is awakening bitter memories of the Roosevelt-Truman regime's persistent bombardment of such "economic royalists" as General Motors, the du Ponts, U.S. Steel and its allies, the banking houses, the Mellons, Alcos, and many other vast corporations, whose executives and chief stockholders are identified as Republicans.

Puzzled—Some legal listeners, who have represented their corporate clients in the law courts, were puzzled by that phrase, "political basis." With the government embarking on a multi-billion-dollar rearmament program, they asked whether this was an indirect warning to future recipient of federal contracts.

In short, they thought, just how are the anti-trust victims selected? Did the D of J hound certain corporations simply because their owners and executives gave heavily to G.O.P. campaign chests? Did the D of J seek to persuade them by prosecution—or persecution—that they should make out their 1952 checks to Democratic National Chairman William Boyle Jr.? Were certain interests exempt because they could call Harry S. Truman, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath and "Bill" Boyle by their first names?

More importantly, does the D of J use its enormous power and facilities to advance New Deal-Fair Deal reforms instead of serving as the nation's impartial law enforcement agency? Or does it believe in the motto carved on the portico of the Supreme Court: "Equal justice for all?"

OVER-SIMPLIFICATION—Justice Jackson's spokesman concedes that he may have used awkward phraseology which permits popular misinterpretation of his remarks. Most of his hearers, as expert corporate lawyers, the Justice believes, understood him and were not shocked by his seeming exposure of hitherto secret Roosevelt-Truman "political strategy." He insists that the phrase, "political basis" is a "crude over-simplification" of his statement that political considerations determine who shall be prosecuted and who shall remain untouched. Indeed, save during the lethargic eras of Harding and Coolidge, he says that the D of J has always operated in the manner described by the New Yorker.

ECONOMIC—According to this thesis, what Mr. Jackson meant was that the D of J selects for anti-trust prosecution those cases which are of major political and economic importance, especially as the anti-trust division rarely receives enough appropriations from Congress to prosecute all alleged violations brought to its attention.

Thus, instead of acting against a small firm whose allegedly illegal pricing, marketing and other operations affect only a few thousand people, it proceeds from necessity against violators whose practices, if illegal, mean hardship to millions of dealers and consumers. It acts on the principle of the greatest good for the greatest number.

Finally, his spokesman pointed out that the jurist was using the word "politics" or "political" in its actual literal and classical sense. "Political" stems from the Greek word "politikos," which refers to a large body of citizens rather than a few—that is, to a city or a state.

IMPORTANCE—Reviewing several anti-trust cases started by the D of J when Justice Jackson was either Solicitor or Attorney General, his friends explain his meaning in terms of actual action by him or his successors:

The United States against the major automobile companies' financing corporations. Excessive interest charges bear down heavily on thousands of dealers and millions of consumers of such an essential vehicle as a motor car. So, Mr. Jackson saw "political" importance here.

The United States against the motion picture industry. The hookup between producers at Hollywood and theater exhibitors, according to the government, meant monopolistic prices and the showing of second-rate pictures. With approximately 90,000,000 movie fans, this was obviously a case of "political" importance in Mr. Jackson's meaning of that word.

Which Is Charming Which?

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Despite the fact that the success or failure of my business depends on the tobacco market, I stopped smoking four years ago. Three and a half years ago, on the day that Wife Rachel and I were married, she stopped too.

Last night W.R. and I were playing gin rummy, steadily viewing a pack of cigarettes lying on the table. Night before last Charlie Howard had left them at our apartment.

"Want a cigarette?" I asked W.

"Let's try one," she answered. If I had any inclination that either one of us would have enjoyed the things, I would have shot back with an emphatic "no!" minus a "thank you." After smoking my way through 39 months' military service, quitting was the hardest thing I have ever done. Since I quit, I have never tried to talk others into doing same. During the time I smoked it was so enjoyable that I hate to encourage others to give it up. However, in case you've been trying without success, here's one man's opinion on how to quit:

First, it's necessary to have motivation. In my case, I had tried every method known to man (except getting adequate sleep, which I still can't find time for) to gain weight. Every time a new vitamin pill hit the market, I'd take a few hundred of them before giving up. For a few weeks I even went on a diet. Many times I have wondered what Hadacl could have done for me had it been on the market.

Every other method failed, so I decided to make the supreme sacrifice: give up the weed. And you know that's easier said than done.

The best way to fall in an effort to quit is to taper off. This attempt goes like this: You say to yourself, "Well, I'll just smoke one after each meal for a week. Then I'll smoke one after every other meal next week." This method is a flop because you live from one meal to the next, or should I say from one weed to the next. That sort of schedule is much harder on you than smoking.

The method I used, after ten unsuccessful attempts at the taper-off method, was the lemon-drop method, which is nothing new. You simply reach for a lemon drop every time you have that impulse to let a puff. Sooner than you think, lemon drops become very unappetizing, and you drop them.

Yep, W.R. and I smoked that cigarette last night. But it bit our tongues, and we were ready to snuff it out at the three-quarter mark. After so long, you don't miss the habit at all; in fact, you'd have to learn how all over again. And I thank you.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

That Two-Term Amendment

Some newspapers in the state take the position that for the state to adopt the amendment to the Constitution limiting future Presidents to two terms would be a slap at Roosevelt. The Times for one holds a different view. What man is indispensable? And if no one is, what is gained by giving a man more than two terms? That was Jefferson's attitude many years ago. Democracy, he contended, could best be served by rotation. If Presidents can run as many times as they please, how can we attain rotation?

There's more reason for the amendment today than there ever was before. For presidents enjoy vast powers by comparison. With great quantities of federal money to spend, they can, by diverting that money to the proper states, almost reelect themselves. We observed that in 1936 and 1940 when that money was poured out. We may observe it again in 1952 when Truman runs for what to him will be a second term. For the men who have a voice in the spending of that money are definitely politically minded; they'll use what is needed to carry a state.

Many in the Democratic party, it's true, are opposed to the amendment. They look on it as a slap at themselves. But Jefferson, let us remember, was the first true Democrat. Not only did he step down after eight years, but he prevailed on James Monroe not to run in 1824. For Jefferson believed what he preached. He thoroughly opposed the building of political machines.

In his day, however, the presidency enjoyed nothing like the powers it does today. If, in his opinion, it was good for his day, why wouldn't it be even better in this modern age?

The FARMER'S SHARE

(New Bern Sun-Journal)

Prices for farm products have gone up more in the past seven months than have the margins charged by food processors and distributors, say Agriculture Department officials in Washington. As a result, the farmer is getting about 61 cents out of every dollar consumers spend for food. This compares with 46 cents before the war started in Korea and with a peak of 55 cents in 1945. Back in the depression period of the thirties, the farm share dropped as low as 32 cents.

The Agriculture Department describes a typical quantity of food as the "family market basket," and it finds that retail prices of that unit of measure have gone up 6.3 per cent since the Korea hostilities began. The "family market basket" contains quantities of farm food products equal to the annual average purchases of a family of three consumers in the 1935-39 period.

That quantity of food was priced at about $683 before the Korean war. Early in January it had jumped to $694. Incidentally, the farmer's share of the food dollar varies greatly by commodities. It is lowest for grain products and vegetables which are produced by this section, and largest for meats and livestock products which eastern Carolina secures largely from other sections.

In the case of meats, the farmer is receiving 63 cents out of every dollar spent by the consumer, according to the Agriculture Department officials. For dairy products he gets 65 cents out of the dollar; for poultry and eggs, 65 cents; for bakery and other cereal products, 77 cents; for fresh fruits and vegetables, 40 cents.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Yes, said the man, the government is out to ruin business. Wrong. If diamonds are a girl's best friend, business is the government's best friend. And for about the same reason.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1950, the government took in $41,311,000,000. Of this, 17,153 million was in personal income taxes, 10,971 million in corporate taxes, 706 million in estate and gift taxes, 7,599 million in excise and miscellaneous internal levies, such as on slot machines, 424 million in customs, and 2,892 million in social security taxes. The remaining 1,566 million came from miscellaneous sources.

Of this, the corporation taxes, customs and half the social security taxes came out of business, largely out of potential profits. Total, 12,841 billion dollars. Some of the rest also came directly out of business. How much of the excise taxes came out of business no one knows, but the average business man will assure you that if it weren't for the excises, he would have sold that much more in goods.

The largest item, personal income taxes, was paid by individuals. A negligible portion was paid on government salaries. Most of the rest of it was derived from business. In some instances, such as when workers have demanded increased wage to meet higher taxes, the derivation was explicit.

Now, the government is needing 70 billion dollars a year to operate. The increase will largely come from business. The Excess Profits Tax is a step in that direction. The rise in personal income taxes will come out of individuals but, as before, it will be largely from money paid in dividends by corporations as wages and dividends.

The government can lower the temperature of the wage and price freezes. It can slap controls on top of controls and it can take trade and industry from one place and put it in another.

But the one thing it can't do is to "ruin" business. The government must keep business healthy so it can share in the profits; it must keep people working at pay that will have a margin for taxes.

HOW SOCIAL SECURITY AIDS SELF-EMPLOYED

Artists, writers and photographers in business for themselves are eligible for old-age and survivors insurance. Arthur J. Altmeyer points out in a business information bulletin on "What the amended social security act means to the self-employed." The bulletin is available free at field offices of the Department of Commerce. Ask for Small Business Aid No. 518.

Natural rubber has made the greatest percentage gain in price over depression lows, according to comparisons compiled by McGill Commodity Service for the National Association of Purchasing Agents. By rising from 2 1-2 to 7 1-2 cents, it increased in price 276 per cent. Next largest percentage gain was made by sheep, rising 1214 per cent from $1.35 to $17.75 a hundred weight.

WOULD FARM OUT WORK TO DEALERS

A plan to give television dealers war work to do when they no longer have sets to sell has been devised by a Chicago manufacturer. Under the plan, subcontract work on simple assemblies would be distributed to dealers. Government approval of the idea is being sought.

NEW AND HOT

THREAD BOX: A transparent plastic thread box has spindles for 14 spools and 14 slots through which thread may be pulled. For each slot there is a razor cutting edge. It is by Flambeau Plastics Corp., 501 7th St., Baraboo, Wis.

FINISH: A special finish has been devised by Barash Coated Goods, Inc., 122 Fifth Ave., New York 11, to give Neolite the appearance of leather, making it useful in belts and luggage as well as shoe soles.

HOSE: A wire-reinforced fabric rotary hose said to be effective in pressure oil well drilling operations regardless of pump pressure or gas encountered has been developed by U. S. Rubber Co., Rockefeller Center, New York.

BOAT: The first English-made pleasure boat designed for American sportsmen was displayed at the National Motor Boat Show by Lane and Curran, 44 Whitehall St., New York 4. The "Everyman" has a refrigerator, American-style decks and meets Coast Guard specifications.

SAFETY: Elasticity of nylon and Neoprene have been combined in safety belts for window washers and construction workers by Rose Mfg. Co., 1731 Arapahoe St., Denver, Colo. In case of falls, workers are stopped without a jolt.

FLAVOR: Adding water and sugar to a 5-cent package of powder produces a pint of flavorless syrup. The powder, Makasyrup, is by Jel Sert Co., 6601 S. Sayre, Chicago.

PLANTER: A new tire for corn planters has a concave surface that picks up less soil and doesn't uncover seeds. It is by F. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, Ohio.

DRESSING: Cellophane packets containing bases for salad dressings are being introduced by Four Seasons Co., 324 S. Alvarado St., Los Angeles. Packets contain salt, sugar, herbs, spices and monosodium glutamate; with the packets come bottles marked with lines to show how much oil, vinegar and water to add to make the dressing. Bases for four dressings are available.

Hal Boyle's Column

By GEORGE CORNELL

For Hal Boyle

New York, Feb. 1—(AP)—With a Bible under one arm and a stack of pronouncements under the other, a new reinvigorated figure has stepped into the U.S. public arena.

He represents American churches.

Usually on the sidelines in the past, you'll find him today in the chambers of government, in the halls of labor and industry and sitting with the council of nations. In a strengthened voice, he states what he stands for.

He is a symbol of a new milestone in U. S. religious annals that has focused the basic creed of the churches on the conduct of the country.

Never before have churches moved on such a broad, allied front in seeking to inject the ethics of their faith into practical, working problems of society.

"Too often in the past the churches have not given expression to the Christian conscience of the nation and community," said Episcopal Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill, president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.

"Events of the world have made it essential for the church to speak out."

The concept itself is not a new one but it is only in recent times that it has gained its present stature, and won the support of most denominations.

It has been a bit-by-bit thing, slowly gathering strength and now emerging with new force as the earth resounds with ideological strife, and threats of new, scientific catastrophe. It has blended the once-sporadic, disconnected voice of American churches into a rising, more articulate chorus.

And what do the churches say? "They proclaim," said Dr. O. Frederick Nolde, church expert on international affairs, "that moral law must become controlling, not only in the lives of men as individuals, but also in their corporate lives as nations."

While churches regard the individual as the bedrock of good and evil, most of them now also view the wider social order as a sphere where spiritual values must be reinforced.

Most religious bodies at present declare their interest in such fields as: economic practices, labor-management relations, foreign policies, racial problems, marriage and domestic matters, the United Nations and international justice, immigration measures, education and overseas relief.

Some denominations have shunned any part in considering such issues, feeling that to do so would bring their religion down to the level of secular controversy and politics.

But the majority of U. S. Protestant churches, as well as Jewish and Catholic leaders, now see not only man's, but man's communal affairs, as their mission.

"Church people have come to realize," said the Rev. Charles E. Warren of the American Baptist Convention, "that man isn't saved just to sit around and wait to accept heaven. But that man has a responsibility here on earth to fulfill the Lord's Prayer that 'Thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven.'"

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington—Boys and girls of America are being encouraged to take an active part in building freedom by helping to improve the communities in which they live. The General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC) and a nationally known food chain have launched a program which offers prizes totaling $25,000 to the women's clubs which set up the best community betterment projects with the actual help of the young folks.

The contest which ends in March 1952 is known as "Build Freedom With You." Thirty-five per cent of the scoring will be determined by the part young people have taken. Mrs. Hiram C. Houghton, president of the GFWC, in announcing the program greater understanding of the democratic way of life.

"The events of the past months have made it increasingly evident that, in order to make our democracy secure, we must develop citizens with the ability to plan, to think independently, yet work with others toward a goal of the common good," she said. "We must look now to the training of the youth of our country in the responsibilities of citizenship and in the ideals of freedom."

All 15,000 federated women's clubs throughout the country are eligible to enter the contest, competing for national recognition as well as prizes. Three national cash prizes of $10,000, $3,000 and $2,000 will be awarded. In addition, a $200 prize will go to the club judged best in each state. The prize money is to be used for projects which will serve the youth of the community.

Mrs. Houghton in the new contest is an outgrowth of the recent Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth. It follows up a recommendation that "progressive opportunities should be provided youth to participate vitally in community activities and planning in order that they may have the preparation and experience for leadership and community service."

Bill Murray Named New Head Football Coach At Duke

Kentucky Rolls; State, LIU Fall On Road Trips

New York, Feb. 1—(AP)—Mighty Kentucky keeps on rolling but Long Island University and North Carolina State, two other basketball top-notchers, are learning how tough it is away from home.

The Kentuckians (16-1) are winning them all now, at home and on the road, the latest an 81-59 trouncing of Louisiana State last night.

Seven-foot Bill Spivey sparked the Southeastern Conference leaders with 24 points. Kentucky ranks No. 1 nationally in this week's Associated Press poll.

Powerful Kansas State (14-2) of the Big Seven drubbed LIU, 65-65, before 13,400 in the Wildcat's new field house.

LIU, unbeaten before starting out on a western trip last week, now has lost three of its four road games. The Blackbirds (16-3) also are underdogs in their clash at St. Louis (14-4) Saturday night.

Clair Bee, LIU coach, called K-State the "best team I have seen all season."

LIU ranks fourth and Kansas State seventh in this week's AP poll.

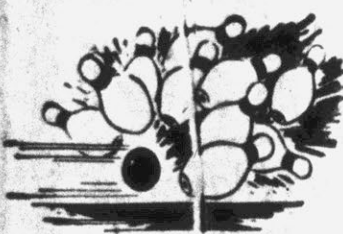

Louisville (16-2) caught fire in the first half then went on to wallop visiting North Carolina State, 66-70.

The Cardinals scored 17 straight points in the first period without giving up one. That seemed to take the starch out of the Southern Conference leaders and they never threatened again. N.C. State (19-3) ranks eighth nationally.

CCNY, another touring New York City five, handed John Carroll its ninth straight loss, 79-67.

Tenth-ranking St. Louis came from behind to win, 47-45, over Tulsa.

Phantoms Scrap Pam Pack At Washington Tomorrow

Revenge Is Sought From 47-46 Edging

Packing a 4-3 Northeastern Conference record in their traveling trunks, Greenville's Phantoms take to the road for nearby Washington tomorrow night for an all-important scrap with the Pam Pack.

This will be the second meeting of the two rivals this season. In the first game between the two teams, Washington defeated the Phantoms by a close score, 47-46, in a last second thriller.

Expected to lead the Farley men's hopes in tomorrow night's tilt will be Center Sydney Briley, a rugged rebounder, who tapped in 12 points against New Bern here Tuesday night.

Along with Briley will be floor man Johnny Aman and little Glenn Scott, two potent guards, who have played consistent ball for the locals all season.

Rounding out the starting five at forwards will be Jimmy Dillingham and Jake Higgs.

Starting five for the Washington quint will probably be Cherry and Woodard at forwards, Hoyt at center, and Fowle and Hacker at guards.

A preliminary junior varsity game is slated for 6:30 p.m., preceding the varsity game.

Former Duke Star Succeeds Wade At Grid Helm

Durham, Feb. 1—(AP)—William D. (Bill) Murray, athletic director and football coach at Delaware, has been named football coach at Duke.

The former Duke star succeeds Wallace Wade, who resigned to become the first commissioner of the Southern Conference.

Murray's appointment was announced yesterday by Duke president Hollis Edens.

Murray was named unanimously by the Duke athletic council. Charles E. Jordan, chairman of the council, said Murray's name had been in first or second place on the committee's list throughout its search for a new coach.

That search began with Wade's resignation and ended after conferences with almost a score of coaches and screening of more than 50 applications.

Athletic Director Eddie Cameron, who turned down the coaching job, said Murray signed a three-year contract at an undisclosed salary. Murray wasn't one of the applicants for the job, Cameron added.

Murray told reporters: "I leave a wonderful job and a wonderful place. Duke is the only place I would have come from where I'm leaving."

Murray indicated he will use the single wing and variations of the T-formation as he did at Delaware. Basically, that was the pattern of the Duke attack last season.

Murray, now 42, was one of Duke's first All-Southern selections in 1930. His Delaware teams of 1941, 1942 and 1946 were undefeated. The 1941-42 seasons contributed to a record of 32 games without defeat.

VOYAGE TO EDEN

By Bennie C. Hall

Chapter 27
Peter O'Malley's stock suddenly went up in Molly's eyes. She started to say, "Good for him," then thought better of it. It would only irritate Patricia, maybe bring on a tantrum.
"Of course that's absurd," Patricia continued. "But even with a really nice office and a wealthy clientele, I suppose I'd still be in second place, getting the dirty end of the stick."
"It depends on how you look at it," Molly said. "If you mean he'll be too busy to play around much - well, most doctors are. Father had all he could say grace over in a small office, in a small town. I don't imagine city practice is any different - except for the money, of course."
"That's just it," Patricia said. "He doesn't need the money. That is," she qualified, "he won't when we get married."
"Then he ought to be able to do a wonderful lot of good. You know, helping people who can't afford to pay a lot. Doing research, too. Being a doctor - and he is a good one; even I can tell that."
"You don't have to be a doctor to help people," Patricia announced smugly. Sometimes you can do even more than a doctor can. Bert and I are already planning to buy artificial legs for that little boy down below. I'm sure that means more to the child than anything Peter could do."
Molly felt her heart warm toward this girl who was so generous in some ways and so childishly unreasonable in others. "Oh, that's wonderful of you and Bert!" she exclaimed. "It's the nicest thing anyone could do. I'll mean everything to little Jon. He's so grateful for even the smallest things. You should have seen him this morning steering his wheel chair around without any help, as proud as Punch."
"And saying, 'Okay, thank you,' to everyone," suppose," Patricia said, smiling.
Molly nodded. "Yes, he's learning English - all the wrong words, Elsie says. But he's learning the right ones too. I can just imagine how thrilled he'll be. You couldn't have done anything finer, Pat."
"It was nothing," Patricia shrugged her shoulders in dismissal of her generous gesture and pulled the conversation back to her personal grievance.
"I used to think," she said, "it would be thrilling to be married to a professional man and having all the other girls green with envy. But if it means sitting at home all the time - well I might as well settle for Clay Howell and go to Saudi Arabia. It would be practically the same."
Molly, unable to believe that Patricia was serious, had to laugh. "Oh, Pat," she said, "be your age. You just want to eat your cake and have it too. And you can't. You'll have to decide whether you want a playmate or a man who has a sense of responsibility to himself and other people. You're not likely to find both in one."
Patricia nodded her head soberly. "Exactly. I have decided. Peter's giving up medicine - if I have anything to do with it. Dad will find a nice cushy spot for him in the steel business, where he won't have to work so hard and worry so much. He could be a vice-president, or something. There are plenty of men to be doctors, men who haven't got Peter's chance." Then, noticing the shocked expression on Molly's face:
"Oh, I know what you're thinking. You think he can do more good as a doctor. You're hipped on the subject, as naturally you would be in a position to do a heck of a lot more - in a financial way."
"I don't think anybody in the world can do as much for other people as a really good doctor," Molly announced emphatically. "I know money helps, but it isn't everything."
Patricia's lips curled petulantly. "I didn't expect you to agree with me," she said. "Just because you know a little about nursing, you like to feel it's all-important. You're just like Peter, thinking only of the sick and their immediate needs, and sold on your own importance. You don't see my side at all."
"No, I don't. Of course, I know you can't possibly be serious, but..."
"I never was more serious," Patricia announced firmly. "Either Peter gives up medicine, or I give him up."
"Well!" Molly thought. "Now I've seen everything, heard everything." Aloud, she said:
"I still can't believe you're serious, Pat. At least, I don't think you realize what you'd be asking of Peter. He's spent years preparing himself for a medical career. It's his life. I didn't think..."
"What about me and my life?" Patricia cut in.
Molly ignored that, continuing where she had left off. "...I didn't think he took it seriously at first, but I was wrong. I've seen him at work. Just as Elsie said, he loves his work and his patients - no matter who they are."

and urge every woman 38 to 52 years old who suffers this distress to try Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I had heard so many stories about the functional middle-age period peculiar to women - I hoped I'd escape such symptoms. But I didn't. I found myself terribly embarrassed by hot flushes - I suffered such restless nights, and I could sense myself getting irritable and cranky - due to this cause.
"My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. I can understand now why he called it 'the woman's friend.' Pinkham's Compound gives me amazing relief. I find if I take it regularly - don't miss a day - it helps build up resistance against such middle-age distress.
"P.S. Pinkham's Compound is very tasty in a little fruit juice. Or you may prefer Lydia Pinkham's TABLETS with added iron. Handy to carry in your purse."

Cat-And-Dog Chace Of Non-Farm And Farm Prices To Have Indefinite Run

Washington, Feb. 1—(AP)—The public got another view today of a cat-and-dog chase up a ladder being put on by farm and non-farm prices.

The way the rules read now, the chase cannot end until the cat—non-farm prices—is stopped to allow the dog—farm prices—to catch up.

The government has authority to use price ceilings on farm products only after they catch up with non-farm prices. When the war in Korea started last June, prices of most farm products—as measured by the legal rules—were several ladder rungs below prices farmers pay for goods and services they use.

Now, seven months later, after a chase up the price ladder, there still is a wide gap that keeps the government from doing anything about farm prices. The distance between the two classes of prices is not quite as great as it was last June, but it nevertheless exists. These facts were shown by an Agriculture Department report on farm prices.

Under the law, ceilings may not be placed on most farm products while they are below their respective parity prices. Parity prices are standards for measuring farm prices. They are declared by law to be fair to both the farmer and those who buy his products.

In determining parity prices for individual farm commodities, the government takes into account prices farmers pay go up, so do the parity prices. Or if prices paid by farmers go down, so do their parity prices. These changes in parity prices are based upon the proposition that if the farmer has to pay more for industrial goods and for services, he should receive compensating increases in prices of things he sells, and vice versa.

When the war in Korea began last June, only seven of about

HD Clubs Of County Meet Wednesday

During a meeting of officers of the 23 Home Demonstration clubs in the county yesterday afternoon, a portion of the group is shown above enjoying a short refreshment period following the meeting. Present for the countywide meeting, in addition to the officers of the clubs, were the club reporters who were told what publicity about their club's activities to send into the state office and to the newspapers. The meeting was held at the Woman's Club. (Staff Photo.)

three dozen major farm products were bringing farmers as much as their respective parity prices. They were wool, soybeans, beef cattle, lambs, veal calves, sheep and hogs. The others were selling for less, many considerably below parity.

An Agriculture Department report shows that on Jan. 15 only nine products were bringing parity—wool, cotton, rice, cottonseed, soybeans, beef cattle, veal calves, sheep, lambs and mohair. All the others were selling for less than parity, and hence below legal ceiling levels.

Nevertheless, all the commodities have increased in price since last June, with the exception of potatoes, sweet potatoes, citrus fruits, apples, and eggs.

Farm prices as a whole have increased about 21 per cent since the Korean war started. This increase takes into account the fact that a few products—mainly the livestock and livestock products—are selling far above their respective parity prices.

This increase finds farm prices as a whole only two per cent below the record set in January, 1948.

In this same period, the level of prices paid by farmers increased nearly seven per cent to set a new record.

Under the law as it stands now, the only way to bring the price chase to an end is to halt the increase in prices paid by farmers. This in turn would bring about a stop in the upward movement of parity prices. Then once each farm commodity reached its stabilized parity price, the upward movement in prices of that commodity could be stopped by price ceilings.

Recorders Court Has Nine Cases

Nine cases were tried in City Recorder's Traffic Court yesterday morning, with Judge J.W.H. Roberts presiding.

In the case charging Arthur Daniels, Negro, with temporary larceny of an automobile, the judge meted out a six-months suspended sentence on payment of $15 costs and $42 to the use of Robert Lee Sharpe; and ordered not to drive any motor vehicle prior to September 1, 1951, or visit in Greenville except actually engaged in business before August 1, 1951.

A nol pros was ordered in the cases against Hubert J. Moye and James A. Perkins, Negro, on charges of driving in a careless and reckless manner.

No operator's license: Arthur Daniels, Negro, $20 and costs.

Crashing red light: Normah Moore, Negro, $15.

Reckless driving: Theodore R. Knight, Negro, $15.

Carlos H. Livingston, drunk and indecent exposure, 30 days suspended sentence on payment of $20.

Drunk: J. L. Griffin, $15.

The probation of Jessie Bryant Williams, charged with non-support, was ordered revoked and a 90-day road sentence imposed by Judge Roberts when Bryant was brought into court on a second charge of non-support. The probation in the case which was revoked was put into effect on December 1, 1950.

President's Ball Termed Success

The 1951 President's Ball, sponsored by the Greenville Lions Club for the benefit of the Pitt County March of Dimes, held last night, was termed "a big success."

Lion President Larry Averette reported today that the exact number of tickets which were sold in the county is not known as yet, as all reports have not been received from the various organizations handling the ticket sale. However, it was believed that the sale would go way above last year's final total, Averette stated.

A crowd estimated at around 400 persons danced to the music of Bob Lee's band last night from nine until one o'clock.

The money derived from the March of Dimes dance will be turned into the fight against polio being carried on in the county, state and the nation.

The dance climaxed the 1951 polio drive for the county.

The stores, which is somewhat different from previous year, it was stated.

Missing from today's sales were some of the many items which local stores have offered in the past on Dollar Day, even though a variety of specials were advertised and found on the counters.

Reasons given for the lack of the "Drawing Cards" was the war. As one store owner put it, "Merchants just can't put out merchandise for sale at special prices, which they can't replace at much higher prices than the merchandise offered for sale."

The shoppers in general, most of them with a rain coat tucked under one arm and an armful of packages in the other, voiced approval of the 1951 edition of Greenville's Dollar Day as they milled through the stores.

Main Red Line

Substantiating evidence that the U. N. advance had bumped into principal enemy defenses, a division staff officer told Associated Press correspondent Jim Becker: "When you find mines, artillery and an enemy as solidly entrenched as these are, the chances are good that you have hit his main lines."

For the third straight day Chinese artillery hit U. N. lines in what was described as a moderate barrage. Mortar shells burst in allied positions.

Associated Press correspondent Stan Swinson said some Chinese abandoned their empty guns and fled before the American tank task force which swept into Wonchon. U. S. Infantrymen captured 44 important hills Thursday, with Red resistance apparently waning in that region.

Using Red Foxholes

Allied troops were using deep foxholes dug and abandoned by the Reds. American pilots reported many communists withdrawing across the Han River ahead of the allied drive. However, it appeared later that at least some of these were not retreating but were hastening to the area of the counter-attack around Chipyong.

While the battle raged, Korean President Syngman Rhee declared: "I hope to be back in Seoul soon."

The 75-year-old President also predicted, "The war is already coming to an end," presumably because the Chinese communist soldier "is fighting without spirit. He has no purpose for which to sacrifice his life."

Early Fumigation Of Tobacco Field Advised Farmers

Tobacco farmers of the county are being advised to fumigate their tobacco fields prior to setting out the plants in order to rid the soil of nematodes that cause root knot or "bir root."

It has been determined by tests conducted by the county farm agents that approximately every acre in the county devoted to growing tobacco is infested to a larger or lesser degree with nematodes. And last year root knot caused more loss of tobacco than any other plant disease either in the bedding or growing season.

Root knot can be effectively controlled by fumigating the infested soil with either DD mixture or ethylene dibromide. Excellent results were secured where demonstrations were conducted in the county last year when either of the fumigants was used. Results from the demonstrations, conducted by the agents and manufacturers' specialists, showed treated fields averaged an increase of 292 more pounds per acre with a value of $239 per acre on the average.

Farmers who are planning to fumigate their tobacco fields this year should see that their soil is in good condition when the fumigant is being applied.

Merit Pay . . .

In the past few months, while living costs were rising, a number of unions have won good increases for their members in various industries.

But there are many other workers who haven't had, as a group, a raise in a long while.

Yet, last Friday's freeze stopped them cold from getting a raise that would let them catch up with living costs.

They can protest they've been treated unfairly unless WSB softens the freeze in some way to make allowance for their problem.

So, for such people, and there are millions of them, WSB is trying to work out a general policy or formula which will go like this:

Workers who haven't received (say) a 10 per cent increase since such and such a time can have it and to that extent the freeze is lifted for them. This formula will be one of WSB's most important decisions.

WSB is feeling its way along, step by step. If it lives long, it will have to make a lot of decisions.

Once the wide decisions have all been made, then very special problems will have to be handled and unions and employers will be appealing to WSB or the regional boards it will set up. They don't exist yet.

negotiate with the communists, called for a seven country conference to discuss peace.

This anxiety for a conference would seem to be inspired by fears rather than by real hopes that negotiations would produce good results. And the attitude of the Asian-Arab nations outside the Red orbit is quite understandable, for they are sitting right under the big guns of Russo-Chinese communism.

Already the octopus-like arms of Red China are reaching out toward neighboring countries. Small wonder that even India, despite her great size, should be gravely concerned for the future.

As a matter of fact, the voting of aggression against Red China doesn't close the door to negotiations. On the contrary the U. N., not only is willing to join in negotiations but actually is making provisions for such a possibility.

BAILEY WARNER

Eighty-Five Register For Speech Event Here

A total of 85 contestants have been registered for the sixth annual speech tourney, sponsored jointly by the Greenville Lions Club and the high school Forensic League which opens here on Saturday, it was announced today by R. B. Starling.

Ayden High School leads the towns entering so far with 13 contestants registered for the three speech divisions which will be run off during the course of the day. This year the tourney will be held for one day only, and when the final number of persons taking part is tabulated it is hoped to run over the one hundred mark.

The tourney will be broken up into three divisions, and all speaking events will be held in the high school auditorium and in special classrooms of the high school.

Speaking events will be original oratory (can be taken from any topic), while another division deals solely with a character from American history, and declamation.

Contestants registered so far with the local chapter are as follows: Ayden—Allen Johnson, Juanita Garis, Joanne Padley, Hannah Jackson, Elliott Dixon, Phyllis Stocks, Wilbur Jackson, Billy Tripp, Steve Farish, Faye Stocks, Gwen McLawhorn and Barbara Bradshaw.

Scouts Will Sit With Aldermen

Ten Greenville boy scouts, the ranking members of the city's six scout troops, will sit with the board of aldermen tonight when the city fathers hold their monthly meeting.

District Scout Commissioner Jack Dowdy said today Mayor W. S. Stafford has invited the scouts to meet with the board of aldermen as a part of the local program for the celebration of National Boy Scout week which begins Sunday.

A similar invitation was issued by Stafford to the scouts of the city last year.

Billy Simmons, life scout of troop 30, has been designated as "scout mayor" for the meeting and Ronald Duffin, life scout of troop 30, has been designated as "scout mayor protem" for the meeting.

Other "scout aldermen" who have been appointed by the Greenville scouters for tonight's meeting are: Johnny Russell, star scout, troop 30; Fred Haar, star scout, troop 30; Dickie Newell, first class scout, troop 30; Preston Jarvis, first class scout, troop 36; Larry Jorgensen, second class scout, troop 185; Curtis Patterson, second class scout, troop 225; Jack Stokes, second class scout, troop 201; and Bobby Harrison, ten-foot scout, troop 33.

The scouts will meet with the aldermen when the group convenes for its meeting at 7:30 tonight.
