Draft Study Offered N.C. Board By Pitt Educators

Conley and Rose Submit Findings; Recommend Induction Prior To Tests; Critical Of Present Mental Examination; Find Some Deliberately Failed

By JOHN SPINKS JR. Two Pitt County educators yesterday submitted a fact-finding report to the State Selective Service system that may have far-reaching effects in altering the present Army classification examinations in order to get more men into the Armed Forces.

A report from D. H. Conley and June H. Rose, superintendents of the county and Greenville school systems, respectively, was submitted to Col. T. H. Upton, head of the draft system in the state.

The two men's findings and recommendations, after investigating the school records of 148 rejected men, are:

- 1. Men should first be taken into the Armed Forces before being given the examinations.
2. There should be one source of supply of men for all the Armed Forces and men should be directed to that branch of the service that needs their particular abilities.
3. The present Army mental test is not based on an inductee's mental ability but is based on his ability to read.
4. There are some men who purposely flunk the mental exam.

Both Rose and Conley were appointed to a Board of Inquiry by members of the Pitt Selective Service board. Their job was to investigate possible reasons why more than the expected number of Pitt County men flunked their Army tests.

Upton stated today from Raleigh that the report from the Board of Inquiry was the first undertaken anywhere in North Carolina and he paid tribute to Rose and Conley because they are "the first men to be sufficiently interested to come to Raleigh and make recommendations" about the present draft program.

He stated he and Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, head of the State Board of Public Instruction who also received the report, will confer and will probably present it to the annual school superintendents' meeting in April. He said a more extensive survey will probably evolve from the report, as it concerns other counties' investigations.

The report from both men was based on school records of 148 men in both the Greenville and county schools or who formerly attended schools in both systems. Records of 31 men in the city schools were studied and the rest were records of present or former county students. The bulk of the records studied were of Negroes, numbering 110 in both systems.

Principals of the schools which rejects attended were subsequently dispatched to the rejectees' homes for a personal interview with the man in order to approach "the investigation from a man-to-man point of view. However, records of the 148 were not complete, there being few records on the county school records. And although complete city school records were at hand for city students, the report shows a large number of rejectees now living in Greenville never attended the Greenville schools but matriculated elsewhere.

Both men attributed absenteeism in the school years to the inductees' lack of enough education to pass the test. They listed nine men who attended schools anywhere from five to ten years and found the average number of absent days of the nine was 386 days during their schooling.

Price Roll Back

Washington, Feb. 3—(AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) today rolled back the price of steel and iron scrap. The OPS estimated the roll-back at $10.00 a gross ton on standard grades, with larger roll-backs up to $50.00 on special grades. Scrap makes up about half of the total weight of raw materials going into steel. So far as could be learned here, the action is not expected to effect any cut in the price of steel, but it should make it easier to prevent later rises in steel prices.

Wants Tear Gas Controls Drawn

Chief Langton Says Quantity Shipped Into Greenville

Chief of Police Guy Langton stated today a quantity of tear gas has been shipped into Greenville to private citizens and he recommended to the Board of Aldermen at a recent meeting that they in turn recommend to the legislature a statewide bill prohibiting possession of the gas by anyone except authorized personnel.

Langton would not state who has received the tear gas. However, he stated he had been informed that the gas has been shipped via parcel post and railway express in small cartridge containers. The cartridges can be fitted into a fountain pen, he said. He did not say how much if the gas has been received in Greenville nor what it might be used for.

The Aldermen ordered city attorney K. B. Lee to draw up a bill for presentation to the legislature. The intended bill would prohibit any one's possession of the stuff anywhere in North Carolina, except for authorized personnel such as law enforcement agencies and commercial distributors of it.

In the discussion of the proposed bill, the Board expressed the opinion that a local ordinance could be inserted into the City Code concerning possession of the gas provided the legislature takes no action on the bill.

Langton stated he did not know of any other city or town in the state that has had the gas shipped.

Eight Victims In Farmhouse Fire

Dillard, Ga., Feb. 3—(AP)—Eight persons were burned to death in a fire at a farmhouse in the North Georgia mountains today. Six children escaped.

Killed were Edgar Teague and four of his children, and three children of John Talley. Details of the fire were sketchy. The farmhouse was at the foot of Rabun Bald mountain, in a tiny community eight miles from a telephone.

Czechs Sentence Six Clergymen

Prague, Feb. 3—(AP)—Six Roman Catholic priests were reported today to have been sent to prison for treason and espionage in the fifth group trial of clergymen to be held in Czechoslovakia within 10 months.

The official news agency said they drew terms ranging from four to 13 years after a hearing conducted in Prague state court in the last few days.

Chicod Soldier Killed In Korea

GILBERT H. BROWN

Mr. and Mrs. Thad Brown of the Chicod community have been notified their son, Gilbert H. Brown, has been killed in the Korean fighting.

The notification from the Defense Secretary stated he was killed in action January 19. Brown was 21 years old and was a private first class in the infantry. He had been in Korea since the summer months when the fighting began. Brown, known as "G. H.", became the third person from Pitt who has been killed in the Korean war. The other two were Sergeant Earl Walston, Greenville, and Private Barnabas Joyner, Farmville. Both were killed during the summer.

Brown was born in Chicod Township and his parents now live between Cox's Mill and Calico Crossroads. He was educated in the Chicod school and enlisted in the army in February, 1948. He was a member of Company I, First Infantry Regiment of the Eighth Regimental Combat Team. The notification did not state where the boy was when he was killed or any circumstances surrounding his death.

Concert Tonight Ends Band Clinic

Young Musicians Of 29 East N.C. Schools To Take Part

The Eastern Division of the All-State Band Clinic, which has been in session since yesterday morning at East Carolina Teachers College, will come to a close tonight, when a concert band of 100 high school musicians is presented in the Wright auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

Allan H. Bone of Duke University will direct the band. Soon after the arrival of the young musicians, who represent 29 public schools of eastern North Carolina, the concert band was organized. The students have followed a heavy schedule of rehearsals, both in groups for the various instruments and together.

Tonight's program will include a number of stirring marches by Italian, Spanish and American composers. Among other selections on the program will be the "Royal Fireworks Suite" by Handel, "Christmas Scene" from Humperdinck's "Miracle Suite," and a trio by trumpeters.

Last night in the new College Theatre the East Carolina Band, directed by Herbert L. Carter, gave a concert in honor of the visiting musicians. The program, which was well received by those attending the Clinic and others from the college and the city of

Court Move And Truman Plea Fail To Stir Strikers

No Break Appears In Crippling Rail Walkout; Mediation Work Tried

By The Associated Press Federal court action and urging from the White House brought no indication today of an early back-to-work move by "sick" striking railroad switchmen.

Although no break appeared in the crippling walkout efforts to reach a settlement in the lengthy dispute were taken by the National Mediation Board in Washington.

Meanwhile, the five-day walkout had nearly paralyzed most of the nation's transportation and struck damaging blows at other key industries. It threatened to strangle many war-civilian operations. More rail workers joined in the work stoppage. The number of workers made idle in other industries soared past 150,000, with indications of thousands more being laid off if the strike continued. The situation in the steel industry was reported "growing rapidly worse."

The government moved for a speedy decision in federal court on a contempt action stemming from a similar walkout in mid-December. A hearing in Chicago yesterday had been continued for a week but arrangements were made late last night to resume today.

U. S. Attorney Otto Kerner, Jr., said the government planned to file the contempt action "to an early conclusion." The case stalled yesterday after leaders of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the union involved in both the walkouts, appeared before Judge Michael L. Igoe.

The government planned to summon yardmasters. Kerner said hearings would be continued on consecutive days next week, carrying Monday, until the case is completed.

Judge Igoe ordered the BRT to produce the names of switchmen who reported "sick" in the December walkout. The government is seeking to show that the work stoppage was a concerted action fined to brotherhood members.

The current walkout is similar to the December stoppage, with rail workers reporting "sick." But a union attorney, Walter N. Murr, y, told the court it was not the union's fault the men were absent. He said they were merely "disheartened" over the delay in settlement of their contract demands. BRT president W. P. Kennedy did not testify.

Mercury Ranges In Middle 20's

Pitt County continued to shiver today as the mercury hovered in the middle 20s and snow flurries driven by strong winds covered most of the area.

Weather Observer Mrs. C. E. Malden reported a low temperature of 23 degrees recorded in Greenville shortly before dawn today. By 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer had risen to 25 degrees and at noon still stood at 25 degrees.

The proverbial groundhog had a few brief opportunities to see his shadow hereabouts yesterday, but his day was nearly as pleasant as February 2, a year ago. Yesterday the high temperature reading recorded in Greenville was 36 degrees. A year ago yesterday the high reading here was 76 degrees. . . and the weather continued warm through most of the month of February.

Although there were snow flurries throughout the morning, less than a half inch of snow had been recorded by the local weather station at noon today.

Cites Reason For Pitt Revaluation

Greenville Mayor Says New Survey Would Provide More Operating Funds At Lower Tax Rate, Draw Industries

"To keep pace with progress, we must keep our values in line to keep up the credit of our local governments," asserted Mayor W. S. Stafford of Greenville in a statement yesterday.

The mayor made the comment in elaborating on his statement Thursday night to the board of aldermen in which he said he will request the Pitt county commissioners to call for a revaluation of all the property in Pitt county.

"I'd like to see the board of commissioners appoint a board to visit every piece of property in Pitt county and make a complete survey and a complete report of values," Stafford said. "If we can get those values up it will put us in line for a more progressive program. It will give us more operating funds at a lower tax rate. It will invite more business and industry to Greenville and to the county."

The last property revaluation in Pitt county became effective in 1937. There has not been a general revaluation of the county's property since that time. The property on the county's tax books at the present time is valued at approximately $50,000,000. The tax valuation of the property in Greenville is approximately $17,500,000.

"We should set up our taxes on a basis according to the times. I don't think we can set a figure and operate under it for 15 or 20 years," Stafford said. It is not a movement to increase taxes. I have analyzed the situation as it applies to Greenville and as I think it applies to the county as a whole.

"I believe we can pick up the valuation in Greenville to $28 or $30 million, and we can cut our tax rate way down. It won't hurt anyone from a tax standpoint, and it will put us in a position to do the things we need."

Stafford and members of the finance committee of the Greenville board of aldermen, and perhaps other members of the board, county commissioners with their request when the county board are expected to appear before the county commissioners with their request when the county board meets Monday.

Each Home To Have Defense Instruction

Zone And Block Wardens Of City's Civil Defense Organization Meet; Will Distribute Instruction Cards

While instructed the wardens to distribute the cards to each house in the areas, and to see that an instruction card is tacked up somewhere in the house so it will not be thrown out.

"If this isn't done properly to begin with," White told the wardens, "it will never work. We are concentrating on the things we feel we may need in this particular territory."

"We ask and urge that the public, as a whole in Greenville cooperate to the fullest extent with the members of the civil defense organization," White declared, "because without your cooperation the whole effort will be useless. If the public can only be made to realize that every effort that is being put forth is for their safety, they will be more inclined to give their cooperation we sorely need."

Under the present civil defense organization, the wardens have no police authority as they had during World War II. The warden is to alert the people in his block or area immediately after the preliminary alarm, and then is to return immediately following the raid, if there is one, and render what assistance he can to the people of his area.

"For the benefit of those who even today doubt Russia has the atom bomb, they would do well to read the history of Klaus Fuch, one of the main scientists in our Los Alamos plant during the last war," White said. Fuch recently admitted he turned over to the Russians all the American atomic secrets to which he had access during the war. He is now serving a sentence in England after being convicted of being a Russian spy.

White discussed briefly the information which has been released concerning the hydrogen bomb, and the possible use of bacteriological warfare should an all-out conflict develop.

Lone Airman Is Successful In Eluding Attack

Fifth Air Force headquarters, Korea, Feb. 3—(AP)—Capt. John D. Monaghan, of Sumter, S.C., successfully eluded between 15 and 20 Russian-made MIG-15s today in his unarmed photographic plane near the Manchurian border.

Monaghan was flying an F-80 jet alone when he saw three MIGs sweep past him out of firing range. He was along the Yalu River at 10,000 feet.

He snapped his last picture and headed home.

He reported all of the MIGs made firing passes at him, but he turned inside of his attackers on every pass and worked his way southward until he was over Pyongyang, the Red Korean capital. There the MIGs gave up the chase and turned back toward Manchuria.

Assistant Secretary Of Army Discloses Visit To Forward Troops; Doughboys Continue Bloody Advance Against Bitter Communist Resistance

Tokyo, Feb. 3—(AP)—Allied forces today were reported less than seven miles from bomb-wracked, fire-blackened Seoul.

Earl D. Johnson, U. S. Assistant Secretary of the Army, said he visited troops within that distance southwest of the former South Korean capital. His trip indicated that U. N. elements actually were even closer than seven miles.

Battles raged along the western sector late Saturday. Johnson, making a personnel inspection tour on the tenth day of the allied limited offensive, said he saw "Chinese bodies all over the place."

Broken Battle Line

Aside from the sector visited by Johnson, the picture of the western battle line in relation to Seoul was not clear.

AP correspondent Stan Swinton said one UN task force stabbed through to Sangju, seven miles south of the Han River and 10 miles south of Seoul, in a shooting foray behind enemy lines.

Other allied troops drove to within a mile and one-half south of Anyang—a gain of more than a mile against bitter communist resistance.

A.P. correspondent Jim Becker said the Reds immediately launched counterattacks at three points in this western area, but at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, U. N. forces were holding firm against an enemy which was "giving us the works," a spokesman said.

Counter Blows

A reinforced enemy battalion hit hard at fierce Turkish troops northwest of Sinjon at dusk Saturday in an effort to drive the U. N. force from hard-won high ground. The Turks were under small arms, machine gun, mortar and artillery fire. The battle still raged Saturday night.

Another Red counterblow was struck against doughboys nine miles northwest of Suwon, and a third enemy attack in company strength was still raging at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, 11 miles northwest of Suwon.

Tanks Lead Drive

In the daring Sangju raid, Sherman tanks led Puerto Rican infantrymen to a point six miles beyond front lines. A captured Chinese soldier guided the task force. The tanks broke through three road blocks and survived three suicide attacks by individual Chinese who tried to blow up the big armored vehicles with dynamite.

One tank was abandoned, but scores of terrified Chinese were killed. The task force, led by Capt. A. W. Myers, reported that a thick belt of Chinese dugouts and foxholes still lay before the advancing U. N. forces.

Another allied element, fighting in bitter 25-below-zero cold, pushed two and one-half miles further north of Ichon, east of the area from which myers started his raid.

Red Buildup

On the central front, Associated Press correspondent William J. Waugh said reports Saturday indicated a buildup of Red Chinese forces four miles northwest of Sinchon. This is the sector where French and American troops badly mauled two Chinese regiments Tuesday. Tentative Corps briefing officer emphasized that the buildup reports were unconfirmed.

Little ground activity took place Saturday on the central front. Nor were there reports of ground contact on the Hoensong-Wonju sector farther east. However, indications of increased enemy movements were noted along roads around Wonju, and one report said 1,500 Reds were concentrated three miles north of Hoensong.

Tax Hike Is Certain

All You Can Be Sure Of At The Present Time Is That You Are Going To Pay More Taxes On Your Income And Luxury Items; It Will Take Time To Write Bill

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Feb. 3—(AP)—Don't stay awake trying to figure how much your tax is going to be increased. All you can be sure of at this time is that the tax is going up.

President Truman's message to Congress yesterday, asking for a boost of $4,000,000,000 in personal income taxes was just the opening gun.

Before the increases become a fact, there's a lot of work to do and it starts Monday.

That's when Secretary of the Treasury Snyder goes before the House Ways and Means committee to back up the President and explain how the tax should be raised.

That's the committee—it has a staff of experts working for it—which writes the tax bill for the House. Generally, the full House approves the bill put together by its members on the committee.

But such a bill isn't whipped together in a minute and the hearings aren't over in a day. They may go on for weeks and weeks, with a lot more people besides Snyder giving his views to the committee.

And the personal income taxes to worry about, since Mr. Truman also asked for $3,000,000,000 in corporation taxes, and an equal increase in excise taxes.

There are government excise taxes now on things like furs, jewelry, cosmetics. So the committee will feel its way along gingerly before it slaps excise taxes on new items, perhaps automobiles.

All in all, this is going to take time, probably months. And pretty much the same thing will have to be done by a committee over on the Senate side of the Capitol.

But when it's all through, and Congress approves the increases, the boss will take a deeper bite out of your salary in the size of the tax he withholds for the government.

Yes, They Will Fight

Gen. Eisenhower Confirms What Those Familiar With Europe Already Knew; Those Peoples Will Defend Themselves To The Best Of Their Ability In War

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

The constant pressure from Europe for American aid, especially for military defense, naturally gives rise to the query of just how much these anxious nations are prepared to do for themselves in self-defense.

Constantly I run into doubters who feel that our Uncle Sam is being taken for a ride. They raise the not too complimentary inquiry of whether the suppliants as a whole will fight for themselves on a showdown.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower, just back home from a tour of Europe to study the military situation, gave a categorical answer to this question in his speech to members of congress Thursday. He declared there is no question of western Europe's desire to resist aggression, and added:

"There is a spirit to resist. There is a determination to do their part—to take the risk."

That's testimony from high authority, but we really shouldn't have to call on General Ike to answer this important query. We should be able to answer it ourselves, with a little thought. Personally, having spent nearly a score of years in Europe, and having had a close-up view of the two world wars, I feel confident western Europe again will give a good account of itself if worst comes to worst.

Many of these people not only have experienced the death and destruction of bombing, but their countries which were battlefields across which great mechanized armies have surged. Millions have undergone occupation by enemy forces.

These terrible experiences have left behind a heritage of anxiety. Living in western Europe today is like life on the slopes of an active volcano. Constantly there are the fearsome rumblings which warn of hidden dangers, and the worst feature of this is that there's no telling when the disaster may

Wage Freeze Is Slightly Thawed By WSB Order

'Merit' And 'Length Of Service' Pay Increases Are Now Permitted

Washington, Feb. 3—(AP)—The government's wage-salary freeze thawed out enough today to permit "merit" and "length-of-service" pay increases for millions of workers.

Relaxation of the rigid ceilings imposed Jan. 25 on all wages and salaries was announced last night by the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB).

Officials emphasized, however, that the action was not a go-ahead for across-the-board wage or salary hikes. A member of the nine-man board said it was designed entirely to permit what he called "normal day-to-day pay adjustments."

In addition to sanctioning "merit" and "length-of-service" increases, the thaw also gave overall approval for employers to boost wages of workers promoted from one job to another.

It also approved so-called "differential" or "premium" payments to employees who are transferred from one position to another where, for instance, night work or specialized tasks call for higher pay.

The Wage Board acted after it became evident that the general wage freeze had thrown a serious crimp into the labor and production policies of many industries including those in vital defense work.

There were also these other developments in the field of economic controls:

1. The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) lifted retail coal ceilings to allow sellers to pass on to consumers the cost of an earlier price increase allowed producers.

2. The National Production Authority (NPA) put finishing touches on a new order to restrict use of aluminum in some 300 items including ash trays, ornamental dishes and tumblers, novelties and perhaps window frames and venetian blinds.

Clark Kerr, a WSB member, said the board received "stacks" of inquiries and complaints during the eight days since the general wage-price freeze was first ordered.

He described the new wage policy as an "interim" one, hinting that it may be changed when the board devises an overall formula.

Chapel Honoring Four Chaplains Dedicated Today

Philadelphia, Feb. 3—(AP)—President Truman today dedicates the Chapel of the Four Chaplains, an inter-faith memorial enshrining the heroic deeds of four Army chaplains who died in the sinking of a troopship.

The $300,000 chapel, built with the donations of more than 10,000 persons of all faiths, was the dream of the Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Foling, father of one of the chaplains who went down with the transport Dorchester after giving their life belts to soldiers.

The four chaplains—a Jew, a Catholic and two Protestants—gave away their life belts and perished, hands and voices joined in prayer, as the Dorchester sank off Greenland on Feb. 3, 1943.

Today, the eighth anniversary of the sinking, Mr. Truman will dedicate the 200-seat chapel that houses altars of the Jewish, Catholic and Protestant religions.

Greenville firemen were called to the home of Charlie Stafford, 615 Dickinson avenue, this morning about 11:15 when wallpaper around a chimney caught fire.

Firemen reported that there was no serious damage.

The call was the first which the local department has had in several days.

With the approaching of colder weather, firemen again warned citizens of Greenville to be extra careful in the operation of all types of heating units, as the danger of fire increases in cold weather.

Wants Acheson To Detail Needs

Washington, Feb. 3—(AP)—Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) said today he wants Secretary of State Acheson to spell out the "modest" U. S. air and ground strength Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would commit to Europe's defense.

Wherry, who opposes sending additional foot soldiers to Europe, said he will demand that Acheson tell Senate committees next week whether such commitments already have been made.

Washington, D. C., February 2. During the last war many young men gave up their jobs, or closed out their businesses, before it was necessary. I said at the time they were making a big mistake.

AVOID HASTY ACTION Filing stations, for which a good trade had been built up, were sold in the early 1940's for one-half their value or less. In fact, I then often said in this column that "closed filing stations are the best real estate investment which a person could make". Well, the fact is that these gas stations now are selling at three- or four times what those panic-stricken G. I. men sold them for ten years ago. The same applied to other businesses which could well have been carried on by some relative or friend. So don't do something foolish now!

But then there was a real war on; but no World War III exists today. . . may be many years before such a war comes; and much could happen in the meantime. Congress has not even passed the Compulsory Military Training Bill. Because President Conant of Harvard has written a scary article on Military Training for ALL 16-20 years old in a national magazine

Washington, D. C., February 2. is no reason why a young man should suddenly change his life plans by giving up college or a good job. Besides, even if he is inducted for two years, these years will go very quickly. If you doubt this, just look back two years.

Business Very Different Today Conditions are very different now than in 1940. There are now 10,000,000 more people in the United States. This means not only 10,000,000 potential customers but your chance of being drafted is proportionately less. The national income is now almost double what it was at the beginning of World War II. People now have better health, better education and better wages. Don't look back to what happened before World War II. Forget those days and recognize you are living in an entirely different age.

Although manufacturing is passing into bigger units, this is not true of merchandising and service businesses. There are more successful independent merchants today than ever; while attempts to make chains of dry cleaning, beauty, and specialty shops have failed. Therefore, don't get panicky

If you have ever had the idea that prayer was like Aladdin's magic lamp, then the chances are you have stopped praying. When we confuse faith with fortune we are soon disillusioned.

Real prayer always leads to reflection. When we lay our honest needs before God humbly, we cannot help but see our lives in a different light. Often we will comprehend truths which had eluded us, will become aware of a strength we didn't know we had. Gradually a way opens, a plan forms, a new confidence is born.

That isn't the whole story of prayer. But, it's the way God answers many a prayer.

If you really have stopped praying, and yet you believe such a spiritual resource is worth cultivating, try prayer again! And try the Church again! For the Church helps men both to pray and to reflect.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his sake of his children's sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dr. David Chalabi Explains Mohammedism To Joint Gathering Of Church Women

By MARTHA S. FORBES

Declaring that Mohammedism is a religion of force, Dr. David S. Chalabi, native of Persia and now a resident of the city of Charlotte, talked to the women of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Christian churches Friday morning when they observed a joint mission study class on Islam.

Dr. Chalabi was born in Syria of a family that has belonged to the Nestorian Christian Church for several generations. Though neither he nor his family practiced Mohammedism, being a native of Persia where 90 percent of the population are professed followers of Mohammed, he is well qualified to discuss that religion and its effects upon the lives of the Persians.

Dr. Chalabi emigrated to the United States in 1921, and is a dealer in Oriental rugs in Charlotte. He is a member and leading layman in the Myers Park Presbyterian Church. He was brought to Greenville under the auspices of the women of the First Presbyterian Church of this city.

"Much of the theology of Mohammedism is close to Christianity in its definition and belief in God as the creator and ruler of the universe," stated the speaker. He explained that the Mohammedans do not accept Jesus as the Son of God and believe that Mohammed, a man of lowly origins who lived in the 7th Century A.D. and who claimed to have been called by God in a vision to speak for Him, was the last living prophet.

Mohammed was expelled from his home town of Mecca because the townfolk objected to his preaching. He fled to Medina where he soon attracted large crowds of rabid followers who began to impose their will on others through force. In less than 100 years, Islam had spread throughout the Near East, over Northern Africa and into Spain and Portugal via the Straits of Gibraltar.

"Mohammedism is a religion of force that looks good on paper but is a curse on the practical life of the people," emphasized Dr. Chalabi. "It keeps people suppressed and retards the progress of the country. Until 1925 the Islamic religion completely dominated the lives of the people. At that time there was a change in the Persian government and a few differences have been noticed in the lives of the people."

As an example he stated that women were now allowed to go about on the streets unveiled. A little larger percent of the people are allowed educational facilities, and modern developments industrially and economically are being encouraged.

When Dr. Chalabi left Persia in 1921 and arrived in the United States, he learned that his country

Ione Bradsher Honored At Luncheon On Saturday

Miss Ione Bradsher, whose wedding to Grover Maxwell of Augusta will take place in March, was complimented at a luncheon when Mrs. Graham Flanagan entertained for her on Wednesday at 1:00 p.m.

The luncheon was held at the lovely suburban home on the Falkland highway. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Flanagan, Miss Bradsher and Mrs. Owen Marshburn, mother of the honoree.

Spring flowers in pink, white and yellow were used in graceful arrangements in the entrance hall and living room. At the rear of the entrance hall guests were served tomato juice and hot cheese wafers upon their arrival.

The dining room table was covered with a sheer white cloth of organdy and linen applied with tiny satin flowers. An epergne filled with pink carnations and fern interspersed with pink petals formed the center arrangement. This was topped with a miniature bride and groom nestled in the fern.

From one end of the table Mrs. Marshburn served a congealed turkey salad, and Mrs. J.H.B. Moore, seated at the opposite end, served aspic. Accompanying dishes were served from the table.

Each auxiliary table in the living room was centered with a miniature bridesmaid, while the honoree's table was marked with a miniature bride.

A dessert course with coffee was served. At the conclusion of the luncheon, the hostess asked Mrs. Hoyt Minges to read an analysis of Miss Marshburn's handwriting. This was an occasion for much merriment and the reading was enjoyed by all.

Miss Marshburn was presented with a corsage upon her arrival and was given a silver vegetable dish as a gift from the hostess.

Mrs. Marvin Snyder of Salisbury and Mrs. Sudie Wood Mann of Richmond were out-of-town guests present for the luncheon.

Pre-Registration Of College Students For Spring Quarter Set

Pre-registration of students at East Carolina Teachers College for courses to be taken during the spring quarter will take place during the week beginning Monday, February 12, according to an announcement from the office of Dean Leo W. Jenkins. The winter quarter will close Saturday, February 24, when examinations on work for the period will be completed. The spring quarter will begin Tuesday, February 27.

During the week of February 12, students at the college will meet with their faculty advisors and will arrange their work for the spring quarter. Tuesday, February 27, the opening day of the spring quarter, has been designated as a day set aside for completion of schedules arranged during the pre-registration period. Students who need to register late may do so through March 9.

Sen. Hoey Urges Court Action To Halt Rail Strike

Washington, Feb. 3—(AP)—Sen. Hoey (D-NC) says we must have court action to stop the railroad strike. He adds we need a law to stop such strikes as the "reporting sick" rail walkout, and wildcat strikes.

Hoey told a reporter last night that Congress must pass additional labor legislation to:

1. Prohibit union leaders from acting as bargaining agents for their members when those members break contracts for which the leaders had bargained.
2. And allow such contracts to be broken when labor leaders say they have no control over members to prevent strikes.

Club Will Invite Two Servicemen To Its Meetings

Members of Greenville's Exchange Club last night voted to invite two visiting servicemen to the club's weekly meetings. The servicemen will be picked up at the hotel each Friday night and invited to the meeting by a delegation of the members.

During the program S. O. Worthington, Ed Parkinson and Bill Riggins gave reports concerning the State Board of Control meeting in Fayetteville January 20 and 21. Riggins was a member of the publicity and club activity panel and Parkinson was on the membership panel. Worthington attended the meeting in his capacity of state controller.

Langston Wants To Fill Vacancies

Police Chief Guy C. Langston is looking for applicants from men who are interested in positions now open on the Greenville police department.

The department now has vacancies for three patrolmen. Langston said applicants for the jobs must be between the ages of

Kiwanis Told Of Education Needs

A program dealing with the educational needs of the schools in North Carolina was presented to the Greenville Kiwanis Club at its regular weekly meeting held last night at the Rotary Club building.

The meeting was in charge of the Vocational Guidance committee and presented by Don H. Conley.

The program consisted of a film strip with narrations by Mrs. L. E. Tyler, assisted by Miss Frances Wahl and Mrs. R. H. Evans.

The film brought out the legislative program for education in North Carolina. The need for better control of truancy, for more buildings, and for better health facilities and lesser teacher loads, was shown to the members through the film.

It was also emphasized that it was necessary to make conditions better for the students in order to make the situation better for the teachers.

Special attention was given to the need for teachers' sick leave, extended employment for teachers both before and after the regular school term, higher salaries and improvements in the retirement system, and modification of school laws.

The attendance prize was won by "Flip" West, and Bruce Sugg paid the customary fine for having a birthday.

President H. G. Haney presided.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
WHEN THE CHURCH AND WITHOUT
One night at a meeting in Agricultural Hall, London, Dwight L. Moody arose and said, "I see too many Christian people here. I know you are converted already. Now, I want you to get up and go out and leave room for hundreds of those sinners who are waiting outside for a chance to come in and hear the Gospel."

What a strange announcement! Can you imagine any minister making such an announcement today? And yet it holds true now as it always did that there are too few people inside the Church who particularly need its message.

We should never minimize the importance of ministering to people who are already sincere Christians, but the fact still remains that many of the people who need the Gospel message most are never at Church on Sunday to receive it. We expect them to be taken care of by the Salvation Army or the Rescue Mission. The reason why some of the sects today are growing by leaps and bounds is because they are spiritually taking care of certain people who are being neglected by the organized Church.

Another Evidence Of Educational Leadership

Greenville this week-end welcomed approximately 250 visiting high school students who are representing more than 40 schools.

Some 140 of the students were here for participation in the band clinic held at East Carolina Teachers College, and the remainder of the students were here to take part in the annual Forsensic club speech tournament. Both the events have become annual affairs which bring large numbers of visiting students to the city.

It is another evidence of the educational leadership of Greenville, its city schools and East Carolina Teachers College among the school systems in this part of the state.

We welcome the students who have come to Greenville to take part in the music and speech activities, and we congratulate those people who have helped stage the events. They not only mean a great deal to the students, but to the city also.

A Double Purpose For The Atomic Explosions

These atomic explosions on the testing range near Las Vegas are causing quite a bit of concern all over the United States; and we would venture the reports of the blasts are causing no little concern in the communist circles in Russia and China.

During the past week we've heard the comment, "If they're going to explode them, why not do it on the communists where it will do some good?" The answer to the question is quite obvious. The bombs are probably doing more to preserve peace by being exploded on the testing range.

There can be little doubt that the explosions are having a great psychological effect upon the communist leaders. It would have an even greater effect on the rank and file communists in Russia and China should they hear of the explosions.

On the part of the United States government, it may have been coincidental, or it may have been planned; but these latest atom bomb tests are being held at quite an opportune time. It may well be that the explosions are serving their purpose in this highly specialized psychological warfare, as well as furnishing additional information for the atomic scientists.

No Foolishness - It's Grim Business

Cooperation with the civil defense wardens is vital to the life of every man, woman and child in Greenville.

Today the civil defense wardens of the city began their task of distributing to every home in Greenville a list of instructions which should be followed in case this area is subjected to an atomic attack.

To some folks in Greenville, we know that seems just plain foolishness. But it isn't. It is a vital step in protecting ourselves from a possibility which we hope never materializes; yet it is a possibility which may become a reality before another dawn breaks over our city.

We know Russia has atomic weapons. We are reasonably sure the leaders of the Kremlin will not hesitate to use them on the United States when the opportune moment presents itself.

The civil defense workers of this emergency aren't running around playing with blackouts and air raid drills as we did several years ago. This time they are going about their jobs systematically and thoroughly, depending upon the cooperation of the people for the effectiveness of the program. The single purpose of the program is to protect the lives of the civilian population should we be a victim of an atomic attack. The safety of an individual in the event of an atomic bomb attack will depend largely upon the cooperation he has given the civil defense program.

Every family in Greenville will be asked to tack up somewhere in its house the card of instructions telling what to do in case of an atomic bomb attack. It will take very little effort to put the card where it may be referred to occasionally. But that little card may mean the difference between the life and death of every family, should such an attack come.

Your neighbor who is acting as the warden for the block in which you live will come to your house and ask to tack up somewhere in the house a list of instructions. Cooperate with him and do what he requests with the card. He is asking you to follow the instructions for your own protection.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—"Many prominent Americans—Hoover, Taft, George, Kennedy, Byrnes—have been criticized for their sharp warnings to Europe on rearming," notes Mrs. L.F. of Sandusky, O. "The argument is that they have strained and weakened the anti-Moscow alliance. What has been the result of their plain speaking in a practical way?"

Answer: I believe that it has been wholly constructive, and that it brought the Western European nations to their senses. In fact, albeit more politely and diplomatically, General Eisenhower conveyed the same warning on his recent tour.

He made clear that the American people and Congress, as recent speeches and resolutions on Capitol Hill reveal, had become impatient with continental fear-dragging.

DETERMINATION—The proof of the constructive nature of these jeremiads, it seems to me, lies in the immediate reaction abroad. It was not until after these speeches, which were reinforced by Eisenhower in private conversations overseas, that our allies showed any determination in the matter.

When "Ike" told the Dutch that they were not doing enough, the government immediately replaced an over-cautious Cabinet member, and framed a stronger preparedness program. It caused a Cabinet crisis which has not yet been resolved.

French Prime Minister Plevin's trip to Washington was another heartening result. When he told "Ike" that France had plenty of manpower for twenty or more divisions, but had to have arms and money from us, Eisenhower explained that he would have to discuss that problem with President Truman. Paris has also called up more soldiers and plans to increase indirect taxes for a larger war budget.

AUSTERITY—British Prime Minister Attlee responded with another austerity program that has split the ranks of the Labor Party. Besides boosting military expenditures by 30 per cent on a people far more heavily taxed than we are, he is expanding the air, army and naval forces, and calling 250,000 World War II veterans to camp for two weeks of summer training.

The critical outbursts, as well as the almost unanimous resolution by Congress on condemnation of Red China as an "aggressor," have shaken the United Nations out of its stupor, although full credit must be given to Delegate Warren R. Austin's smart, inside work at New York.

Referring to Mrs. L. F.'s original question, I don't think I have seen such a needed and constructive concert of action as these blunt, forceful talks, in my 27 years at Washington. They helped to graft bone on the official spines here and abroad.

HELP—"Does not much of our trouble with Russia," queries A.H.N. of Pasadena, Cal., "spring from the fact that the Soviet was given help in their war with Hitler? Without this help, where would they be today? Whose idea was it to give them this help?"

Answer: Military experts believe that Hitler would have conquered Russia, at least temporarily, without our eleven billions of lend-lease aid, which included tanks, planes, ammunition, machine guns, food, trucks, even whole factories, and almost 200 naval and merchant vessels. Incidentally, Moscow still refuses to make any settlement on these advances.

But, to be fair and realistic, we needed Russia's help then as much as she needed ours. Had Der Fuehrer driven Russia out of the war, and been able to transfer millions of men, planes, artillery etc. to the western front, Britain and France might have been overwhelmed before the United States could mobilize and become the decisive factor for victory.

DISTRUST—It was during and after the war that, under the inspiration of certain leaders at Washington, we became so-headed about Russia. In retrospect, the Roosevelt-Truman faith in Stalin's good intentions is incomprehensible.

Even when his armies were staggering under German blows at Stalingrad, Stalin refused to cooperate with us, or even to give us any information on his strategy. Toward the close of the conflict, he demonstrated again and again his suspicion, dislike and hatred of us.

AWARENESS—Roosevelt and Churchill, who pledged all-out aid to the Soviet as soon as Hitler attacked his pre-war ally in June of 1941, had no alternative. Had Mr. Churchill remained in office for long, I think he might have influenced his country and the United States to guard against the "iron curtain" regime, as he was the first to coin that sinister description. I understand that F.D.R. had belatedly begun to share Churchill's awareness of the Russian menace. "Jimmie" Byrnes had.

Unfortunately, the task of dealing with the Kremlin fell to Clement Attlee and Harry Truman. We are paying for their mismanagement now in Korea and elsewhere, and in unprecedented peacetime taxes.

A-BOMBS—"Cannot Russian civilians or agents bring in some A-bombs and set them off in our great cities or industrial centers?" asks Mrs. Y.S. of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Answer: It is conceivable, but we are trying to make it unlikely. That possibility lies behind stringent orders to the Coast Guard to keep a sharp eye on strange vessels entering our ports. It is also responsible for the McCarran Anti-Subversive Act, barring entry of suspected aliens. In short, we seek to close our gates to international bums and bandits.

Pentagon wits tell this story. A Russian asked an atomic expert if it were not possible to put an A-bomb in several suitcases and leave them in a New York hotel for explosion by a time-fuse. Although admitting that Russia had atomic bombs, the expert replied that the idea was not practicable.

"We can make the bombs," he explained. "But can we make the suitcases?"

The Shadow

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

What's happening to the Greenville boys who become GI Joes? Five that I know of are in Camp Breckinridge, Kentucky, training with the 101st Airborne Division. They are Jim Sutton, Moulton Massey, Joe Allen, Herbert Corey, and Jack Winchard.

A letter from the boys dated January 27th says, "Tonight (Saturday) comes to all of us here as quite a relief from all the training. We are just taking things easy and catching up on a few odds and ends. Washing clothes, cleaning rifles and shining boots and shoes to mention a few. We have to shine our boots every day and by now most of us take only a moment to fix both pair. We alternate the ones we wear every other day so that both pair will be well broken in. We have one pair laced in a bar-lace and the other with a cross-lace. Therefore, they can check up on us to be sure we are changing every day.

"We had a company inspection at noon today and it seemed that nothing would suit the inspectors. As a result we had to stay in the barracks today until four o'clock and fix everything they said was wrong.

"Our present training schedule goes like this:
5:00—get up, dress, and clean barracks
5:45—fall out for reveille
6:00—breakfast
7:00—police company area (outside)
7:20—begin class which lasts four hours
11:20—return to barracks
11:45—lunch
12:20—bussel to classes until 4:20
4:45—supper
6:00—mail call
"Until 9:30 is free time if there are no special details or extra classes. Then we have to clean rifles and shine shoes. As yet, we have had only one free night during the week. They find plenty to keep us busy. Lights out comes at 9:30.

"There is one thing certain about this training, and that is that we are getting it in big doses and in a hurry. Today we finished our second week of basic training and we have covered as much in courses as other companies have had in four or five weeks. For instance, the regular training schedule puts you on the firing range with ammunition during the fifth week, but we are going to the range on Tuesday. What all this speed-up training will lead to, we don't know. It might mean that we'll go somewhere for special training after six weeks or it might mean that we'll get less than the prescribed 14 weeks of training."

(Ed. note: During WW II I got four weeks of basic training.)

A later note from the boys says, "Tomorrow morning at six o'clock we start to the firing range for the first day, and the weather report says possibly as cold as five to 10 below zero. It was five above today. We are dressed for this kind of weather, so it isn't too bad. To give you an idea, here is the uniform for tomorrow: Long underwear, sweater, suit of fatigues, wool socks with extra sole, combat boots, arctic boots, field trousers, field jackets, field cap with ear flaps, helmet liner, helmet, waterproof hood (which fastens to coat) and overcoat. Along with this we carry a mess kit, canteen, shelter-half, poncho, cartridge belt and rifle. To say the least, we should keep warm, if we are able to walk." And I thank the boys.

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

CAMEL'S NOSE—The ancient story about the camel getting his nose under the flap and later overturning the tent is familiar to Tarheel legislators. They are reluctant to enact legislation, however worthy in itself, that opens the way for abuse or extension of authority in other fields. Three incidents of this nature brought forth discussion Friday. One deal with proposal for the state to pay fees to clerks of court for certain reports; another with giving to county commissioners ordinance making powers, and a third with extending authority to arrest without warrant.

FEES—The house roads committee had a bill providing payment of 50c to clerks of court for making reports to the motor vehicle department in cases of conviction for drunken driving. The fee would be retained by the clerk, even though he is on salary basis. Objection was vigorous to the idea of disturbing the salary-basis in those counties having that system, and it was argued that this would be an opening wedge and would be followed by demands for special payment for other functions required of the clerk by statute. The objectors didn't mind the 50c camel's nose; they feared the hump that might follow.

ORDINANCE—On the house calendar was a bill empowering governing boards in municipalities and county commissioners for territory outside corporate limits to enact speed zone ordinances on streets and highways around school houses. Everybody agreed that such speed regulation is highly desirable. A substantial group led by Rep. Sam Worthington of Pitt contended that the bill went too far in empowering county commissioners to enact ordinances violation of which would constitute a misdemeanor. Municipal boards had that authority now. So do several state agencies such as the highway and public work commission, the board of agriculture, the board of health, the board of conservation and development, the wildlife resources commission and others. Many members of the assembly think that's enough law-making authority in addition to the general assembly itself.

ARRESTS—On the senate calendar was a bill giving to agents of the paroles commissioner the right to arrest parolees without a warrant in some instances of violation of terms of parole. The measure was not debated, but was carried over until a later day for further study. Opponents of the provisions admit that it might work for public benefit in some cases, but they fear extension of existing powers of arrest without warrant.

AUTOCRATIC—It is natural for people in authority to think if they had a little more authority they could do a better job. Governor Scott has suggested that if the governor had a little more control over state affairs the executive office could more effectively serve the people. There is pending now a bill giving to the state auditor somewhat larger control over departmental accounting. An act was passed a few days ago permitting the state board of hospital control to do certain construction work in manner contrary to general provisions of the statute requiring competitive bids on contracts. Bills are pending which would increase powers of the state department of public welfare. Nobody has questioned accuracy of claims that all these proposals will enhance "efficiency" of the agencies affected. What the objectors do not like is the increasing trend toward autocratic powers which might well become burdensome to many law-abiding citizens in order to restrain a few recalcitrants. Numerous special cases need attention, but enactment of a general statute to cure a particular ill can easily get out of hand.

CHICKEN—The story about the camel's nose is classed as a fable. It is historic fact that a sick chicken in a Brooklyn poultry plant started a lawsuit that resulted in the supreme court of the United States invalidating the whole NRA "Blue Eagle" control program set up by the federal government. Some of the members of the North Carolina legislature are looking for camel noses and sick chickens in bills introduced for special purposes.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

Better Spelling Desired For some reason, which educators themselves seem unable to explain, a good speller among present day graduates of our schools, even colleges, is the exception rather than the rule.

The trend nationally seems to be general, because in the current issue of Editor Publisher, trade publication of the national newspaper field, a full page was devoted to the department under journalism education to the subject, "Bad Spellers Present Schools With Problems."

To illustrate the need for spelling, one leading college has reported that 70 per cent of entering freshmen fail the sub-freshman English examination. This same school says its experience is not unusual.

The whole fact is, fewer and fewer students are learning to spell.

Editor and Publisher expressed it in this manner: "Students who can spell are becoming increasingly scarce. Whole battalions of poor spellers are coming up into colleges and universities from the high schools. Stanley Walker has pointed out that a bad speller at the age of 12, it seems, is a bad speller at 60."

The Waynesville Mountaineer has had, it seems, similar experiences to The News-Herald's, in dealing with poor spellers, citing the following as an example: a school graduate, in all sincerity, spelled trousers "pance." Even a blue circle around the gross error failed to cause him to sense his error. He was incensed in believing he was correct, and when told the right way, merely replied: "Maybe so, but 'pance' sounds easier than 'pants'."

The Mountaineer's observation, in which we agree, is that it all boils down to this—education has been going through a period when the teaching of spelling and grammar has not been considered fashionable.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Legislation now idling in Congress may get special attention when Uncle Sam calls Rosie the Riveter back to her riveting gun. Passage of this legislation may become necessary to induce women to work again in the military plants of the nation.

One of the barricades against the return of housewives to defense work is the way current tax legislation works.

If a housewife returns to the way she may have to hire a housekeeper or baby-sitter, furnish her with one or two meals a day, pay the housekeeper's and her own transportation, meet the other added expenses of going to work, such as extra clothes, and pay a social security tax on the housekeeper's wages.

The only expense deductible in reporting federal income taxes is the social security tax on the housekeeper's salary, which might mean a saving of about $2 a year.

While a man who hires a secretary to enable himself to earn more money can deduct the secretary's salary in calculating his income, a housewife who hires a maid for the same purpose can't make such a deduction.

Two bills now pending in Congress would permit such a deduction. One would apply only to widows forced to support their broods.

Even this tax benefit might not be effective in luring needed womanpower from homes. The cost of a housekeeper, transportation, extra clothing, extra meals and other expenses could reduce good wages to a pittance.

During the latter days of World War II, some industrial companies set up nurseries for the children of women workers and ran canteens and shopping centers to save their time. Some communities encouraged the organization of groups of women workers in which each took turns caring for the others' young fry.

Because the reserves of manpower are so low, if we do move into full war, measures like these may have to be introduced early.

LARGE INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION INDICATED
Enormous industrial expansion is indicated in a survey of 1,000 executives of manufacturing companies by Mill & Factory. Forty-three per cent of the respondents said their companies were planning to expand industrial production capacities this year. Expansion plans ran to more than 30 per cent. While 57 per cent said they planned to take advantage of the government's accelerated depreciation policy, only 9 per cent are counting on government loans to finance expansion.

BOOKLET, FILM TELL IMPACT OF PAPER STRIKE
The strike that tied up Pittsburgh newspapers from last Oct. 3 to Nov. 17 provided a dramatic illustration of what happens to business and the public when there are no newspapers and the Bureau of Advertising, A.N.P.A., is making the most of it.

This week the Bureau issued a 24-page booklet on "What Happens When Newspapers Don't Hit a Town?" and a documentary sound strip-film with the same title. Booklet and film enlarge upon full-page advertisements in December which asked and answered the same question. Both large and small businesses suffered losses in trade; a real estate dealer reported sales off 50 per cent.

To the Editor:
Effective as of the 31st day of January, 1951, I was asked by Police Chief Guy C. Langston to resign as a member of the police force as of above date. My resignation was to have been effective as of the 15th of February.

His reason for asking for my badge before the 15th of February was that I was not friendly toward the members of the police department.

You the public be the judge! Ask my fellow officers as to whether or not I was friendly. Ask my fellow officers as to whether or not I cooperated with them. Ask my fellow officers anything you want to know about me. Don't ask one, but ask them all.

I thank you.

JAMES H. LITTLE

Hal Boyle's Column
By RUSSELL BRINES (FOR HAL BOYLE)
Tokyo, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Battle developments in the next few days will determine whether United Nations forces can punch to the 38th parallel.

The Chinese reaction to the 10-day old allied offensive will indicate how far north the allies can plan on going. And it is likely to dictate much of the immediate strategy for continuing what still is a holding war on the part of the allies.

Meanwhile renewed discussion of the 38th parallel as both a political boundary and a potential objective has caused American officers here to wonder why the subject arises again.

Eighth Army authorities understandably said they would not telegraph their punches by commenting in any way on reports they had been ordered to push to the parallel.

But no high ranking officer has given any public or private indication at the moment that an advance as far as this boundary is included in present offensive plans.

The 38th parallel has been breached twice by the communists and once by the allies during the Korean campaign. Military men consequently find it difficult to believe how there could be any political symbolism left in the invisible border.

There is some feeling here that the discussion of the parallel results from a misunderstanding of the scope of the present allied attack.

It is essentially, at this stage, a defensive assault designed to keep the Chinese off balance, to search out their plans and to help pile up their casualties. It could be successful enough to extend U. N. defensive lines many miles northward but this would be the result, not necessarily the goal.

The allies are taking a calculated risk in pushing northward. Front reports for days have indicated an expectation that the Reds might be able and willing to hit back with a counter attack similar in intensity to their assault last November.

But high ranking American staff officers are confident their linked lines can beat off such an attack or at least fall back to avoid it without incurring the casualties of three months ago.

The advance has been careful and cautious. Speed has been sacrificed for relative safety. Instead of advancing so fast that enemy pockets are bypassed, the allies now are cleaning out all known enemy forces along the way.

The usually roadbound western troops have taken to the hills, to capture all of the dominating ridges that flank the main roads on which they depend. When advanced forces accomplish these missions, the whole allied line stretching across the peninsula moves forward to retain solid contact among the U.N. units. This minimizes the risk of exposing relatively small outposts to the dangers of encirclement, although this has happened since the drive started.

A staff officer said the advance would continue on this methodical pattern so long as the continuity of the line could be maintained.

What happens next may depend largely on the Chinese. If they attack they will run into better positioned and far stronger U.N. forces than they cracked in November. At that time the allies were split between the Eighth Army on the west and the Tenth Corps on the east coast.

The Chinese are believed to have considerable power around the Seoul area. They have had ample time to build up supplies and manpower for an offensive.

But they also have been taking a heavy beating—the extent of which still can only be guessed. Airpower and artillery have raked Red concentrations. First biers has forced many foot soldiers out of ranks. Now disease, including typhus, is beginning to appear.

Whether these factors will cut down manpower and willingness to fight enough to influence the outcome of the next battle remains to be seen.

If the Chinese attack and are crushed, the U.N. forces probably will advance as fast as prudence dictates. But it is not yet clear whether it would be militarily advisable, under present conditions, to go as far as the 38th.

Washington—Most GIs just don't like "Hopping John," a rice and black-eyed pea dish. They don't like liver and dumplings, chicken or turkey tamales, or roast cheese and beans.

They're not going to have to eat things they don't like. The 1,000 recipes in the new Army book are based first on nutritional values but have all been tested by the Army and Air Force boys themselves. Recipes for things they didn't go for have been eliminated.

"As a result," Col. Carmon Rogers, chief of the Quartermaster Corps' food service division, says, "some 22 recipes have been omitted in the 1951 version, about 43 new ones added and 423 changed."

Col. Rogers says new recipes include glazed ham and shrimp creole with rice, and an improvement on all fish recipes which in the old edition "were very limited." There are also four new recipes for cakes and cookies and seven new ones for desserts.

GIs like sliced fresh tomatoes about as well as anything, says Col. Rogers. "They're fond of spaghetti and meat balls, chilled cantaloupe, potatoes, corn, string beans and lima beans, too."

Grilled steak is also popular, and Col. Rogers says the master menu worked out by the GMC calls for eight-ounce servings of this, with French-fried potatoes, about three times a month during 1951. They'll get roast beef three times a month and beef favorites, like pot roast and Swiss steak, twice monthly.

Milk is a favorite beverage with the younger soldiers and airmen. Coffee suits the older ones best. GI like all kinds of sweets and desserts but most seem to dislike cauliflower, broccoli, Brussel sprouts and appa-

Sixth Wedding For Oak City Citizen

At 86 and on his sixth honeymoon is W. G. Keel shown with his recent bride, Laura Carr of Green County. The couple now make their home on a small farm near Oak City and Bethel. The couple were wed in a secret marriage service performed recently. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

Bethel, Feb. 2—Honeymooning at the age of 86, topped off by being the sixth time, may not be a record but as far as the folks around Oak City and Bethel know, it beats anything that they have ever heard before.

There must be a lot to the saying that "Life begins at the age of 40." or at least that is the opinion of an 86-year old man and his new bride.

Yes Sir, Honeymooning at 86 years of age is Mr. W. G. Keel, a former Pitt County resident, now residing in Martin County, and his Green County bride, Laura Carr. After about a week's honeymooning the couple say that they will just settle down and live peacefully on their small farm near Oak City.

Reason for his sixth trip to the altar, says Mr. Keel, is that "when a man or woman gets along in years, they begin to realize more and more the need for a companion, in fact everyone needs a companion," stated the silver haired bridegroom, taking another puff from his favorite pipe as he reclined in his easy chair.

The "young" couple first met while attending a church meeting at Oak City before Christmas, following which a courtship resulted and was climaxed by a proposal of marriage around Christmas, and the wedding taking place sometime thereafter.

While some of the folks seemed to have known what was in the wind, the couple slipped away one morning and were secretly married in Rocky Mount by the same pastor which had married Mr. Keel twice previously.

Still active at the age of 86, Mr. Keel just takes life easy and likes to drive his car and roam over the countryside looking over the farm land thereabout. His only objection to driving is that he doesn't care much for it at night. At night he wants to be at home.

Mr. Keel, born at the end of the Civil War, recalled in talking of the days when he as a boy used to work for 75 cents a day as a logger. He worked in Pitt and Martin county in the lumber fields for 14 years in and around Staton's Mill and House Station, with the late father of his first wife when he married at the age of 21.

After leaving the logging industry, he recalled he started farming which he has been doing for the

Bill Of Sale Made Out In 1927 Shows Prices Far Below Standards Of 1951

Folks herabouts are making a lot of comments about the higher prices, but for a real picture of the state of inflation in which we find ourselves, take a look at these prices from a Pitt county bill of sale dated September 7, 1827.

The bill of sale, more than 123 years old, was found recently by Miss Annie Carroll of Greenville R.F.D. route two, who lives on the New Bern highway near Cox's Mill. Miss Carroll found the bill of sale, when she was going through some papers left by her father, the late Frank Carroll, a farmer of the Chicod community. The bill of sale, dated September 7, 1827, is a handwritten statement of the sale of C. personal property of "Adam Correl", the great-grandfather of Miss Carroll.

The bill is signed by John C. Moye, who apparently was constable of the township at the time the bill of sale was made. The bill is written in a fairly legible script on paper which has turned brown and is cracked with age.

Music Educator To Work In Pitt

MARION S. EGBERT

Marion S. Egbert, music educator for many of the public schools of the nation, will work among students and teachers in the Pitt school system next week, teaching phases of music that are important to the learning of music by school children.

Egbert is sponsored by the American Music Conference in Chicago and comes to Pitt through the efforts of Miss Annie Lee Jones, elementary school supervisor. He has taught public school music and organized bands, orchestras and choral groups in the states of Washington, Oregon and California.

Monday afternoon he will lecture to the Winterville, Grifton and Ayden school students and teachers in the Ayden high school, Tuesday at Bethel for students of Bethel and Stokes; Wednesday at Farmville for students from Farmville and Bell Arthur; Thursday at Falkland for students of Falkland, Fountain and Belvoir; and Friday at Grimesland for students of Chicod, Pactolus and Grimesland.

Wednesday night in the Belvoir auditorium Egbert will speak to the elementary and public school music teachers in the county schools at the monthly meeting of the N.C.E.A. Meeting time is 7:30.

Thursday night he will meet with the Negro teachers in the courthouse at 7:30. Friday night he will speak to the Ayden Rotary Club.

Police Dept. Preparing For Pistol Range, Target Work

Here, three members of the Greenville police force are shown hard at work, manufacturing bullets which will be used to train the Greenville Police officers on the firing ranges soon to be set up near the airport. Reloading equipment which enables the local department to make its own bullets, at a reported saving of four and one-fourth cents each is being operated by Chief Guy Langston (left) with hand on lever; Sgt. C. H. Christopher placing shells on receiver, and Patrolman N. H. Byrd, extreme right, resizing shells. The production of the unit is rated at about 1,000 shells per hour. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

The formation of the Greenville Police Department's Pistol team, and the setting up of a permanent firing range to train local law enforcement officers with an eye to increasing the efficiency of all units, is nearing more of a reality with each day that passes, Police Chief Guy C. Langston revealed today.

In addition, the local Police Department has purchased reloading equipment which now enables it to manufacture its own ammo for use in practice firing, resulting in a great saving to the taxpayers of the city.

The driving purpose behind the forming of the Pistol team is two fold, Langston pointed out. First, pistol instruction, which will be conducted by the local Police Department for training of all of its men, in order to bring officers to a state of preparedness in use of the weapons with which they are armed.

Second, to pick a pistol team from the qualified members of the force to enter in the North Carolina Police Matches held in the year.

As soon as favorable weather prevails work will be started on reconstruction of the firing range located near the airport which has been abandoned for some time. The range was used by local officers last summer when they received F. B. I. instruction in handling of arms, but since that time has been neglected.

Langston pointed out that when the range is finally put in shape, it will be maintained and regular weekly drills held by officers. We weather for the past few days has postponed the clearing of the area.

Two training courses, one silhouette targets, will give the men training in firing from different yardage points, varying from 60, 50, 25, and seven yards.

All firing from the marks, other than single target, with firing from the seven-yard marks being directed towards five targets.

The other training period will be using the standard National Rifle Association pistol targets with circular bullseye from varying ranges, and timed target shooting.

These training courses will aid the men and familiarize them with the basic firearm principals, and the regular training will better train them as they go along.

Each of the three police shifts will be required to practice on the range once each month, firing at least 60 rounds under all conditions.

Reloading Equipment Several months ago the board of aldermen authorized the purchase of reloading equipment which was needed to have a pistol team, as it would cut down greatly the cost of operating such a venture.

In fact, under the proposed set up of operating the reloading equipment in a year's time, the money saved by manufacturing the bullets by the department would pay for the original cost of purchasing the equipment. Original cost of the reloading equipment and purchase of five target pistols cost an estimated $500.

"The way we figure," Chief Langston stated, "one round of ammunition if purchased outright would cost five cents, whereas it has been figured at three-quarters of a cent each. The department plans to fire about 16,000 rounds each year which would mean that in the course of one year, the original cost of the equipment would be paid for and a saving of nearly $300 additionally saved on the 16,000 round of ammunition.

Capacity of the reloading machine is rated at about 1,000 rounds per hour in its final output. The reloader, a star model, requires two men to operate it, using the following process: First the shell is placed in the receiver, de-primed, and the cartridge resized; second, black powder inserted, capped and a bullet placed and the shell crimped.

Prior to the final operation, re-sizing is carried on and the shell greased in order to be placed in the reloading process.

Sgt. Claude H. Christopher is in charge of the manufacturing of the shells, and under his direction more than 3,000 rounds have been made and more being made each month. The proposed plan is to make 1,000 or more rounds of ammunition in order to keep a regular surplus of bullets on hand.

Familiar Names Listed On N.C. Assembly Rolls

By J. L. JACKSON A study of the list of men from 17 counties who helped in making laws of the state will show some of the illustrious names of the state. If the popularity of the man was indicated by the number of times he was elected, some of them were very much liked by their fellow citizens. Some of them went back more than 100 years ago, and the place was their individual property.

You will note that the House of Representatives was in existence about seventeen years before the Senate came into existence. Since the start of the Senate, Pitt has always had one Senator, and has always had two members of the lower house.

The number of the senatorial district in which Pitt is listed has changed several times: 18th, 11th, 8th, 6th and since 1911 it is in the fifth district. Since the state is divided into 80 senatorial districts and Pitt has always constituted one of them it seems that our county has been holding its own among the other parts of the state. And its two members of the 120 members of the lower house, indicate its standing also.

Pitt County was formed from part of Beaufort County in 1760. From 1760 to 1777 there was no Senate. The names given here were members of the lower house as the General Assembly is now constituted. They are:

1762—John Hardy and William Spiers
1764—John Simpson and George Moye
1765—George Moye
1766—John Spier, John Simpson
1769—Richard Evans, Alex Stewart
1771—John Simpson, John Spier
1773—John Simpson, George Evans
1773—John Simpson, Edward Salter

The Senate was created in 1777. When they first met they formulated some Rules of Decorum which were adopted April 11, 1777. There were 21 of these rules. Two of them were as follows:

"1. When the Speaker is in the Chair, every member may sit in his place with his head covered.
"2. Every member shall come into the House uncovered and shall continue so at all times, but when he sits 'his place'."

The first name listed from here on is that of the senator.
1777—Robert Salter; William Robertson, John Williams; 1778—Robert Salter; William Robertson and John Simpson. Robertson and Simpson accepted other offices and their places were taken by John Williams and James Gorham; 1779—Edward Salter; James Gorham, John Williams;
1779—Edward Salter; James Gorham, John Williams; 1780—John Simpson, George Moye, John Williams.

Scout Troop Holds Flag Ceremony

Girl Scout Troop No. 4, a first year troop under the leadership of Mrs. M. P. Hoot, had a patriotic ceremony at their regular meeting on Thursday afternoon at the Rotary Club. During the month of October, Girl Scout cookies were sold by the 18 white and Negro Girl Scout troops of the city. Troop No. 4 sold the most cookies and with the 10 per cent of the sales which each troop was allowed to keep, this group voted to buy an American and a

Three To Attend Regional Meet Of IRC Groups

Three student members of the International Relations Club at East Carolina Teachers College will attend a meeting of the South Atlantic Regional Conference of the organization, to be held March 2-3 at Harrogate, Tenn. The East Carolina group of delegates includes local, state, and regional officers of the IRC.

Those from the college here who will attend are Carl Smith of Washington, president of the East Carolina IRC; Evelyn Littleton of Jacksonville, vice president of the regional group; and Bette J. Dougherty of Fayetteville, secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina organization of the IRC.

They were chosen to represent the local club at a business and program meeting Tuesday evening of this week in the Flanagan Building. The appointment of Miss Dougherty to the state office of secretary-treasurer was announced at this time to club members at East Carolina.

Ex-Teacher In China To Address Church Group

A Pitt county native who has spent the better part of her life teaching music in China will address the Young Adults of the First Presbyterian Church at their meeting next Tuesday night.

She is Miss Venetia Cox who has returned to the United States and her native county after spending 33 years in teaching music in the Central China University. Miss Cox is a native of Winterville a 400,000 population city on the Yangtze River completely changed over from their Nationalist government beliefs and have adhered to the Red doctrine.

Miss Cox does not know when she can return to China. She stated when she made plans to return home they were plans for nothing but a furlough. In the meantime, she said, the restrictions on missionaries returning are great and she doesn't know when she will be able to go back.

First Religious Retreat Planned At Wilson College

Wilson, Feb. 2—Atlantic Christian college will sponsor its first annual Christian ministers' retreat to be held on the college campus February 13-15.

Featured speakers for the three day meeting will be Dr. Fred West of the Atlantic Christian college faculty and Dr. Robert M. Bell, president of Johnston Bible college, Kimberlin Heights, Tennessee. Dr. West will give a series of Bible lectures. The principal evening addresses will be given by Dr. Bell in Howard Chapel. Evening sessions will be open to the public.

The program has been planned by the executive committee of the North Carolina ministers' association. Members of the committee are: the Rev. B. Eugene Taylor, Durham, chairman; Rev. Z. B. T. Cox, Farmville; and the Rev. Cecil J. Brown, Dudley.

X-Ray Unit Will Stop At College

A state X-ray unit will be on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College for five days, from February 6 through February 10, to make tests for tuberculosis. All students attending the college will take advantage of the services offered by the unit. Faculty and staff members will also have the opportunity of having X-ray tests made.

Phantoms Lose To Washington

Briley Scores 10 In Losing Cause

The Greenville Phantoms were unsuccessful in their try for their fifth conference win of the season last night, as they dropped a 41 to 29 loss to the strong Washington Pam Pack.

The Phantoms fell behind in the second quarter of play, and were never able to muster enough scoring punch to catch the offensive minded Washington five. Hackler, Washington guard, was the big gun in the pack attack hitting on set shots from all angles of the court as he collected 13 points to lead the Pam Pack scoring.

The Phantoms were off on their shooting game last night, missing on some easy shots that could have kept the game much closer than the final score indicated.

Center Sidney Briley collected 10 points to lead the Greenville scoring. He also played his usual good floor game, and was the best rebound man on the floor. Sonny Scott played a good defensive game for the Phantoms, and was second in the scoring with six points.

The Phantoms will travel to Elizabeth City Tuesday night for another conference encounter with the strong Yellow Jacket five.

Pirate Gridders Working Out In Winter Drills

The East Carolina Pirates have just concluded three weeks of winter football drills, and according to head coach Bill Dole there is still more practice and work to come. A squad of about thirty-five have reported for the winter practice sessions, and much progress is being made toward building a powerful Pirate eleven for next year.

Under the watchful eye of coach Dole, the candidates for next year's team have been working and drilling on the fundamentals of the game, along with a few light scrimmage sessions. Many days of unfavorable weather have hindered the squad from getting into the best of shape, and no heavy scrimmages have been held so far.

Looking good in the practice sessions has been Sandy Siler, who has been doing most of the passing from the T formation. He is a 195 pound quarterback from Siler City, and will probably be the first string quarterback next year. If so, he will be filling the spot vacated by all-conference Roger Thrift, the passing ace of last year's Pirate eleven. Also looking good is Dwight Shoe, first string end last year, and one of the leading scorers in the North State Conference.

Among the newcomers who have reported for practice, and have shown that they can play a lot of football are three transfer students, one from Edward Military Academy, and two from High Point College. Pete Meadows, a center who played at EMI, has shown good promise of developing into a rugged picotman. Ted Grissom, a quarterback, and John Yarborgh, a halfback, two transfers from High Point, have been looking good during the winter drills. Other members of the squad that have looked impressive are: tackle Bill McDonald of Urtismouth, Virginia; Doc Smith, 210 pound guard from Chocowinity; and newcomer Haynes Stratford, a guard, who hails from Greensboro.

Pirates Host To WCTC For Two Games Here

After a week's rest from North State conference competition, the East Carolina Pirates take to the home court of a two-day stand when they tangle with the Catamounts of West Carolina Monday and Tuesday nights of next week. Tip-off time will be 8 o'clock.

The Catamounts of West Carolina have won only one loop battle this year while losing six. However, they are capable of registering an upset and are not to be considered a weak opponent. The mountain team boasts the league's leading scorer in the person of Ronald Rogers who has scored 296 points for a 19.8 average in 15 contests. Outside the North State the Catamounts have fared no better. In eight tilts they have managed to win only two games while dropping six. Nevertheless, the Mountaineers have a high scoring ball club to be reckoned with. In 15 contests they have scored 956 points while the opposition has tallied 1165.

The local Pirates will be on the rebound attempting to better their won-lost record after dropping two close contests this week to Lenoir-Rhyne and Appalachian. The Pirates have a current conference record of five wins and six losses, and will be attempting to climb above the 500 mark in conference standings.

A double victory over the visitors would virtually assure Coach Howard Porter's cagers of fifth place in the loop with a 7-6 won-lost record and an overall mark of eight wins and nine losses.

Coach Porter will probably start his usual starting lineup which finds Charlie Huffman and Sonny Russell at forward, Captain Toddy Fennell at center, and Bobby Hodges and Lou Collie at guards. Porter will likely make full use of his reserve strength in the West Carolina games. Freshman Paul Jones and Richard Blake, who tallied 12 points in his last outing against Appalachian, and John Postas, the 6' 5" guard, are certain to see some action along with Jim Blake and Clarence Butler.

Sport Slants By Pap

Ace Of Amateurs

Fred Wilt, the galloping FBI man from the New York Athletic Club whose consistently fine performances over the last two years helped to stimulate distance running in this country, has been elected to receive the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy for 1950. This award is presented annually by the A.A.U. to the "amateur athlete who, by performance, example and good influence, did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

National outdoor 5,000-meter champion and an internationally respected competitor at distances from one mile through 10,000 meters, Wilt was first choice on 166 of the 479 ballots cast in a nation-wide poll of sports authorities. A full-fledged member of the FBI, Wilt is a close student of the foot-cage sport. He has developed new training techniques which he is ever ready to impart to other athletes. In 1946, Wilt purchased a life membership in the A.A.U. At that time he had retired from active competition. The desire to represent his country in the 1948 Olympic games in London brought him out of retirement and he has continued to campaign successfully ever since.

Catawba Five Has Plenty Of Incentive For Tonight

By The Associated Press... The Catawba Indians have a double incentive in their North State conference basketball game against the High Point Panthers tonight.

The game starts a campaign to get money for a new Catawba gymnasium. Net proceeds will go to the building fund. Originally the contest was scheduled for Catawba's little Linn-Corriher Gym, but it has been shifted to the Statesville High School gym, which seats 2,500.

The game also can bring about a realignment at the top of the league standings. Right now High Point is tied with Lenoir Rhyne for first place and Catawba is second.

Eight of the nine league teams play tonight, with only East Carolina Teachers idle. Appalachian is at Lenoir Rhyne, Guilford at Elon and Western Carolina Teachers at Atlantic Christian for the second time in two days. Last night Atlantic Christian won its first game in 15 tries this season, 78-73. Western Carolina led 47-41 at the half, and ran its margin to 10 points soon after intermission. But ACC, led by forwards Bobby Tart with 23 points and Jay Clark with 19, came back strong for the victory. Forward Paul Rogers had 22 points for WCTC.

Whitehurst (8) Recovers Rebound For Farmville

Successor-To-Chandler List Narrowed Down To 10 Men

New York, Feb. 3—(AP)—The major league's special committee named to recommend a successor to Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, if and when, have trimmed down their list of candidates to 10 names, the Associated Press learned today.

Of these ten, several already have informed the four-man committee they cannot accept the post even if chosen. Others have indicated they will be happy to serve, if elected.

Chandler, the incumbent, is on the list. The only other baseball man presently under consideration is George Trautman, head of the National Association of Minor Leagues. The eight others—all nationally known figures—are William Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board and former Secretary of the Air Force; U. S. Judge Harold Medina; Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois; Chief Justice Frederick M. Vinson; ex-Postmaster General Jim Farley; Earl Warren, Governor of California; Scott Lucas, former Senator from Illinois; and Milton Eisenhower, President of Pennsylvania State College and brother of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

No move will be made to elect a new commissioner at the winter meeting today. As a matter of fact, no joint meeting of the 16 clubowners is even scheduled. The National League was slated to hold its meeting at 11 a. m. (EST). The American League was to meet at 2 p. m. (EST). Chandler did not plan to attend either session unless called in.

Ayden-Farmville Split Two Games

Ayden split a doubleheader with the Farmville Red Devils last night in the Pitt County Conference play. The Ayden boys, led by Ray Harrington, who scored 15 points, beat the Farmville boys by a score of 54 to 34.

The Farmville sextet scored a 46 to 33 victory over the Ayden girls. High scorer for the winners was K. Wooten with 20 points. She was followed closely by J. Cox, who poured 17 through the hoop.

Eastern Squad Gets LIU Coach

New York, Feb. 3—(AP)—Clair Bee, coach of Long Island University, has been named to pilot the Eastern squad in the sixth annual fresh air fund East-West college all-star basketball game in Madison Square Garden, March 31, it was announced today.

In the next few weeks, Bee will select ten seniors from the eastern and southern sections of the country to make up the team which will meet a similar western aggregation.

Russell Gets 18; As Pirates Fall At Camp Lejeune

The Camp Lejeune marines took their second win of the season over the East Carolina Pirates last night, on the leathernecks' home court, downing the Buc by a ten point margin, 74 to 64.

It was a bitter defeat for the Pirates, as they had hoped to square things for a defeat handed them by Marine five earlier in the season.

The game was close all the way, and was especially exciting in the closing minutes of the first half, when the leads changed hands three times just before the intermission.

All-conference Sonny Russell was hot again last night as he led the scoring for both teams, with 18 points. He hit on seven field goals from the floor and made good four out of six tries from the free throw line. Bobby Hodges collected a total of 14 points to come in second in the Pirate scoring. Smith, a fancy shooting guard for the Lejeune five, was the man that the Pirate defense failed to stop. He led the scoring for the Leathernecks, hitting the hoops for 17 points.

Lou Collie played a great game on defense and contributed nine points to the Pirate cause. Billy King, playing his first game for the Pirates was outstanding on defense, and scored six points which wasn't bad for his time out.

VOYAGE TO EDEN

By Bennie C. Hall

Chapter 29
Peter O'Malley, having finished his morning rounds among the patients, breathed a deep sigh of relief as he entered the cubicle that served as his private office and living quarters on the lower deck. Things were beginning to shape up at last. The patients were all on the mend and, with the exception of two new cases of measles, everything seemed to be fairly well under control.

His personal affairs too were beginning to adjust themselves, and for the first time since the early days of the cruise he was at peace with his conscience.

For a little while, bemused by his false infatuation for Patricia Hasbrook, he had lost sight of his original objective, but now he had found himself.

He wanted no part of Patricia, and he made that quite clear last night. This time he felt reasonably sure it had "unk in."

"It's been a farce all the way through," he had pointed out. "An endurance test, as far as I'm concerned. I have no intention of giving up medicine—now or ever. It's my life."

"Oh, you and your old-fashioned homes and home sites!"

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING CHAPTER 23, ARTICLE II, OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, 1948, BY ADDING A NEW SECTION THERETO RELATING TO THE OPERATION OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

The Board of Aldermen of the City of Greenville do ordain:

Section 1. Every person, while operating any motor vehicle on any street or other public way within the City of Greenville shall, at all times between the hours of thirty minutes after sunset and thirty minutes before sunrise, and at any other time when there is not sufficient light to render clearly discernible any person on the streets or other public ways at a distance of two hundred feet ahead, keep the headlights of any such motor vehicle so operated dimmed so as to prevent the headlights from projecting a glaring or dazzling light.

Section 2. That this ordinance shall be and is hereby made a part of Article II, of Chapter 23, of the Code of the City of Greenville, 1948, and shall be in full force and effect from and after its adoption and publication.

When he sought Molly out late - it was only with the most praiseworthy intentions. In an unexpectedly calm session with Patricia, he had told Patricia the full truth and she had not seemed at all surprised.

But he would not embarrass Molly by declaring his love, he decided; he would respect her status as Bert Hasbrook's fiancée. He would simply see her and thank her for the splendid help she had given throughout the emergency. He had been so hard pressed, so engrossed in his own work, that he had been sadly remiss on that score. Even Elsie had hinted that he'd taken Molly's voluntary services for granted.

"It was with this thought in mind, and with no idea of revealing his inner emotions, that he set out shortly after the dinner hour to find her."

Right-Of-Way On Highway Delayed

Difficulty in securing right-of-way authorization from two Pitt county property owners has delayed for the time being the signing of contracts for widening and resurfacing highway 43 from Greenville to Bruce.

Division Engineer R. Markham said this morning the project has been approved and bids accepted, but the contracts for the work have not been awarded pending the authorization for right-of-way by two people who own property adjacent to the present highway. He expressed the belief that the problem would be worked out and necessary arrangements made within the next ten days.

One of the questions which has temporarily delayed the signing of the contracts for the highway construction work is what is to become of the lines of cedar trees which flank the present highway just east of Bruce.

The project calls for widening the highway from the present 16-foot width to 22 feet, and for resurfacing the highway and putting in new structures. The project covers 6.94 miles of highway.

Raises Crickets For Fish Bait

Simpsonville, S.C. —(AP)— A cricket on the hearth symbolizes good luck to some people, but to Ted Green the crickets in his breeding box are just like money in the bank. Green raises the yellow, wingless variety to retail for $1.50 per hundred as fish bait.

Principal expense in cricket culture is heating the box to 80 or 90 degrees all the time. This is accomplished by a continuously-burning electric light. If the temperature drops, the crickets start looking for a place to hibernate. As long as they're warm, they keep turning out offspring in two-week cycles.

New Insecticide Shown Effective

Washington —(AP)— Industrial chemists, aided by Government scientists, have produced a new insecticide called allethrin which has proved highly effective against houseflies and mosquitoes. The insecticide was commercially produced within one year after its discovery by a team of scientists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Discovery of allethrin as a synthetic chemical followed long studies of the active insect poison in pyrethrum by chemists in the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine. The new insecticide can be used effectively against flies and mosquitoes which have built up a resistance to DDT.

China Says U. S. Blocking Peace

Tokyo, Feb. 3—(AP)—Red China's Premier today declared the United States "had blocked the road to peace in Korea with their United Nations resolution branding the Peiping regime as aggressor."

Chou En-Lai, no. 2 man in communist China, told the world in a broadcast statement that Peiping considered the U.N. resolution "illegal, slanderous, null and void."

He warned that Peiping "will absolutely pay no attention" to the U. N. "Good Offices" committee set up to try to find a basis for peace.

This was the first official Chinese communist reaction to the U.N.'s aggressor resolution adopted Jan. 1 as success Thursday by an Assembly vote of 44 to 7. The statement was broadcast by Peiping and monitored here.

Chou asserted the resolution "in a most naked way proves to the peace-loving people of the world that the United States and its accomplices want not peace but war and they have blocked the path to a peaceful settlement."

Chou, who also is Red China's Foreign Minister, maintained the resolution was approved under United States "domination and coercion."

Ocean Canyon Is Studied By Film

La Jolla, Calif. —(AP)—New photographic evidence for the cause of submarine canyons, some of which are as large as Grand Canyon, has been shown by Dr. Francis P. Shepard professor of submarine geology at the University of California.

The films, taken on the sea floor, reveal that submarine canyons are similar in many details to dry land canyons, with vertical and overhanging rock walls, minor tributaries entering the main canyon, and hanging cliffs, where waterfalls might have existed before the canyons were submerged.

Low Pressure Salesmanship

Manhasset, N.Y. —(AP)— New York's big and busy department stores know how to fall in step with the more leisurely tempo of small town life.

A housewife, reading about some bargains in big advertisements in her morning paper, telephoned a suburban branch of one of Fifth Avenue's famous stores. She was informed by a sweet voice:

"I'm sorry, but the girl who takes that kind of an order is out for lunch. Could you call back this afternoon?"

British Adjust To Scotch Dish

London—(AP)—The meat shortage here has brought the British up against a Scottish delicacy called haggis. Britons are buying more of it now that the weekly fresh meat ration has been cut to 11.6 cents.

There is some question as to whether haggis is animal or vegetable. Some Britons call it upholstery stuffing. Actually, it's the insides of a sheep: lungs, heart, intestines, and such, cooked up with a liberal dose of oatmeal to give it authentic Scotch flavor.

Cloudy Blanket Covers Carolinas

Charlotte, N.C., Feb. 3—(AP)—Nature tucked the Carolinas in a blanket of clouds last night as winter rapped sharply on every doorstep.

Temperatures plunged far below the freezing point in every locality, though the clouds did keep the air a little warmer than had been expected. But Asheville, hardest hit by the cold wave, saw the mercury drop to 1 degree below zero.

On the coast snow filtered down on Wilmington, Cape Hatteras and Cherry Point. It was also snowing in New Bern and the Weather Bureau said snow might fall as far west as Raleigh.

In no section of the Carolinas was the temperature above freezing, though Charleston got by with a warm 31. Far to the north Rocky Mount had a 25. Cape Hatteras had an even 32 and Cherry Point a 25. It was 26 at Myrtle Beach.

Cold and more cold is the Weather Bureau's forecast for today and tomorrow. Continued cloudy weather with light snow is predicted for eastern Carolina today, with skies remaining fair in the west.

Tax Hike . . .

(Continued From Page One) While all this is going on there'll be protests among a lot of congressmen about rapping carefully on tax increases until the cost of running the government at home has been cut down.

This is the cry every year, anyway: let's cut the cost of government spending. And the air is filled with extremely positive statements by senators and congressmen on how government spending can be cut.

Somehow, though, it always seems that when Congress is through its work for the year, government expenses haven't been cut much, if at all.

One thing is certain: before 1951 is over you'll be able to buy less than you did in 1950, and for couple of reasons:

1. You'll have less money to spend because more of it will go into taxes.
2. There'll be less stuff to buy, since so many materials that went into civilian goods are going into defense goods.

Babson . . .

(Continued From Page 1) and sell out your business just because of war threats, labor troubles or competition. Remember that for every one who gets scared and sells out, there is so much more opportunity for those who stick. Only don't borrow money to do so. Keep out of debt.

Yes, They Will . . .

The strain is particularly severe in nations like Italy and France where communism has obtained a strong foothold. The Red parties in both these countries are capable of carrying out destructive sabotage in event of war with Russia, and have made it perfectly clear that they intend to do so.

These are circumstances which are bound to fray the nerves of any people. However, those of us who have seen two world wars launched across western Europe shouldn't have such short memories as to permit of doubts as to whether her peoples will fight in self defense.

By and large they will fight with or without help, but it can't be overlooked that the ravages of two world wars—the last one not long past—have weakened them economically. So when they call for help in rearming, there probably is sound reason for the petition.
