Pitt Hospital To Open February 8

Patients To Be Accepted In New Plant Thursday Afternoon; Nearly All Equipment Received; Move Patients From Pitt General In Morning

Pitt County Memorial Hospital will officially open its doors for patients Thursday afternoon.

The announcement was made this morning by C. D. Ward, administrator of the new $1,400,000 hospital. Ward said the decision to open the hospital on Thursday was made yesterday even though all the hospital equipment has not yet arrived in Greenville.

"We can give the service all right," the administrator declared. "We want to assure the public we can offer them at the new hospital now the same services that are being offered at Pitt General."

Ward explained that the beds for the new hospital arrived about two weeks ago, the delivery tables arrived last week and the patient room lamps arrived yesterday. "We are expecting the operating tables to arrive momentarily, but until they do arrive, we can use the tables which we will bring from Pitt General Hospital." Equipment for the new hospital has been arriving almost daily for the past several weeks.

Although the hospital will be open for business Thursday morning, Ward said new patients will not be admitted to the hospital until after noon. He explained that the hospital attendants would be busy Thursday morning moving the patients from Pitt General hospital to Pitt County Memorial hospital.

Thus when the first patient enters the hospital Thursday, it will be exactly one year, ten months and 17 days after the ground was broken for the 120 bed hospital on March 22, 1949. The hospital dedication ceremonies were held January 18, but the actual opening of the hospital for patients was postponed because of the delay in the arrival of equipment.

Auto Death Rate Is Three-A-Day For N. Carolina

Raleigh, N.C., Feb. 6—(AP)—Slaughter on Tar Heel highways and streets during the first 36 days of 1951 was at the rate of nearly three a day.

The Motor Vehicles Department reported today that so far this year 100 persons have died in automobile accidents—an increase of 20 per cent over the same period of 1950 when there were 83 fatalities.

To make the record even worse, the Motor Vehicles Department figured that for all of last year road deaths were up 17 per cent over the year before. It reported there were 988 deaths on the highways during 1950 as compared with 843 in 1949.

Prison Term For Bank Bandits

Durham, N.C., Feb. 6—(AP)—Three Maryland men who admitted holding up a Candor, N.C. bank Dec. 20 were given 15-year federal prison sentences here yesterday.

Albert E. Carter, 20, and Laurence Vernon Whitaker, 26, of Silver Spring, and Joseph Franklin Reed, 22, of Rockville, were arrested by an FBI agent just an hour after they robbed the bank of $1,024.

Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes sentenced the three after they pleaded guilty to bank robbery charges.

The Balance Of Power

Eisenhower Undercores The Point That While Democracies Hold Balance Of Power There Will Be Peace; Necessity Of Keeping W. Europe From Soviet Hands

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

General Eisenhower made the point during his session with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that, while he didn't deny the danger of war, "the task today is one of building for peace."

That statement invited analysis. Just what is the requisite for the maintenance of peace in a world which is bitterly divided against itself?

We must start, I think, from the premise that any bloc of nations which contemplates conquests by aggression must possess the balance of economic and military power. And by the same token, the maintenance of peace depends on possession of the balance of military and economic power by the peace-makers.

The corollary to this is that if the Soviet bloc holds the balance of power, it can overrun the continent; likewise if the Democracies hold the balance of power they can maintain peace, because nobody is going to invite certain disaster by attacking.

MacArthur Said Urging Use Of Chiang's Troops

General's Recommendation Believed Sent To Washington Chiefs

Tokyo, Feb. 6—(AP)—General MacArthur is believed to have recommended to Washington that Chinese Nationalist troops be used against the Red Chinese forces in Korea and elsewhere.

He consistently has believed that Chiang Kai-Shek's army should be used in broadened warfare against the Chinese communists, informed sources said today.

The informant indicated MacArthur believes the Nationalists should be supported in a thrust against the Chinese mainland as well as being used in Korea if desirable.

This strategy would be consistent with two fundamentals MacArthur has followed in his major military campaigns:

- 1. The full employment of all available power in a battle. 2. The old slogan of the Pacific War—"hit where they ain't."

It is believed here that Chiang Kai-Shek's original offer to send Nationalist troops into a battle against the North Koreans was declined in order to avoid giving the Chinese communists an excuse to enter the campaign. That reason, military men say, is no longer valid.

High officers here point out that Peiping originally was able to move its Third and Fourth Field Armies from South China to Manchuria because there was no fear of a Nationalist attack on the mainland. This was because the assignment of the U. S. Seventh Fleet to patrol the Formosan Straits was accompanied by President Truman's injunction of June 27 preventing any Nationalist thrusts against the mainland.

Now the assessment of communist strength in South China ranges from a contention that the Nationalists could walk ashore to a belief that the Reds are rebuilding their southern forces.

In any case MacArthur is understood to feel that even the threat of a Nationalist attack against the mainland would draw off sizable communist forces from the northeast. This in turn would proportionately reduce the pressure on allied forces fighting in Korea.

Sees No Danger To Road Program

Raleigh, N.C., Feb. 6—(AP)—Under present conditions, Governor Scott said today he doesn't think the nation's steel shortage will severely affect North Carolina's road building program.

Scott was asked at his news conference to comment on reports that New York's Governor Dewey has been informed by Washington that road building would probably have to cease soon.

Scott commented the full impact of the steel shortage "won't hit for about a year."

He observed that "1951 will be a terrific home building year" and "we have an enormous road building program here."

Even now, declared the governor, some roads are being built without bridges. For instance, a road is built to a place where a bridge is needed. But a shortage of materials makes it impossible to build the bridge. So the road is just continued on the other side. The bridge will be built later.

At this juncture the Democracies hold the balance of power. And since military power is dependent on economic power, it follows that economic power is the keystone of the structure.

New western Europe contains a big slice of the world's economic strength. It is, all told, so great that if Russia could gain possession of the balance of power would be tremendously altered. It might be so changed in Moscow's favor that she could succeed in her ambition to carry out world revolution for the establishment of communism.

This picture is complicated by the fact that western Germany has within her borders the fabulously rich coal and steel resources of the Ruhr. There lies what was one of the most highly developed industrial areas of the world before allied bombs laid waste to many of its main works, such as the huge Krupp armament factory.

Florida's Unprecedented Cold Kills Cattle

These dead and dying cattle at Okeechobee, Fla., were victims of the cold wave that struck the semi-tropical area during the week-end. Many died of exposure and others were trampled to death in huddling to keep warm. Cattlemen fear their losses may be more than $100,000. (AP Wirephoto)

Concede Defeat

Yokohama, Japan, Feb. 6—(AP)—Forty-two Japanese returned to their homeland last weekend from Brazil to see for themselves whether Japan actually had lost the Pacific war.

They stared at the many American soldiers walking around this big port city. One acknowledged: "They have beaten us."

The 42 lived in Brazil during the war and stubbornly refused to believe Japan had lost.

'Adequate' Meat Supply Assured

DiSalle Says Black-marketeers To Find Work Difficult

Toledo, O., Feb. 6—(AP)—The government assured housewives today they will be able to buy adequate supplies of meat in the future at legitimate prices.

Black marketers in the meat business, said Price Chief Michael V. DiSalle, will find profiteering difficult. He called them "first class fifth columnists" and said he would "hate to be the first one to get caught."

Within a few days, DiSalle told about 250 Toledoans in a speech last night, his Office of Price Stabilization will issue two orders designed to keep these meat price chisellers out of business.

One order will regulate the slaughter of livestock. The other may require meat wholesalers and retailers to make regular reports on operations, his aides said.

The first order, officials of the agency said, will distribute animals to established slaughterers, preventing black marketers from setting up fly-by-night slaughterhouses.

The second, DiSalle continued, will "keep meat supplies moving through legitimate channels of distribution and enable the housewife to buy adequate meat supplies from her regular butcher or market at legal ceiling prices."

DiSalle himself, who chose his home town Toledo to make his first major speech since he was named OPS chief, did not say exactly what this second order would require.

However, if, as his aides say, it makes meat dealers tell the government their transactions, it would provide a check on those selling at above ceiling prices.

Catawba College Confirms Report Of Fiscal Mixup

Salisbury, N.C., Feb. 6—(AP)—Officials of Catawba College today confirmed wide reports of fiscal irregularities at the college. Settlement is in progress, they added, and no criminal action has been brought.

A settlement issued by Dr. A. R. Kettel, president, and Dr. Banks J. Peeler, chairman of the trustees, said:

"Unfortunately it is true that some fiscal irregularities were discovered immediately upon their development. The situation is, however, far from being an alarming one. In fact, settlement is already in progress and it can be confidently asserted that the institution will not suffer any loss whatsoever."

State Employees To Reveal Goal For Pay Increase

Raleigh, N.C., Feb. 6—(AP)—How much of a pay increase state employees will ask of the 1951 legislature will be decided tomorrow night.

At that time, the Board of Governors of the State Employees Association will meet here and receive the report and recommendations of a special committee which has been studying the rise in the cost of living.

Alden P. Honeycutt, association president, already has announced that the association will ask for a cost of living pay boost for the state workers.

First Fat Stock Show For Pitt Set April 19

Between 30 And 35 Beef Cattle Expected To Be Ready For Show And Sale; Parade Will Lead Off Event

Pitt county's first fat stock show and sale have officially been set for April 19 the committee announced today.

The show and sale are being sponsored by the Pitt county vocational agriculture teachers, the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, the Pitt County Farm Bureau, and individual business firms throughout the county.

J. H. Mobley, one of the leaders in the movement for the fat stock show and sale in the county, said between 30 and 35 beef cattle are expected to be ready for the show and sale. The event is to begin at 10 o'clock in the morning with a parade which is expected to include several bands from the schools in the county. The cattle show will begin at 11 o'clock, and the sale is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Nine committees have been appointed to work out the detail arrangements for the show and sale.

The parade committee will be headed by E. P. Bass of Farmville, the public address committee will be headed by P. W. Taylor of Belvoir, the Steer Arrangement committee will be composed of Marion Nobles of Stokes, and Paul Bradley of Grifton. The sales arrangement committee will be composed of Eugene James of Chicod and Paul Bradley of Grifton. S. F. Peterson of Ayden will head the catalog committee.

The publicity committee for the show and sale will be composed of J. H. Mobley, Winterville; Emmitt Patterson of Ayden, Jim Hockaday of Farmville, David Whitchard and Hartwell Campbell of Greenville. The steer management committee will be composed of S. W. Dewar of Bethel, Conner Eagles and Frank M. Page of Greenville.

Members of the banquet committee are W. E. Little of Grimesland and T. B. Elliott of Woodland. The buyers committee will be composed of J. H. Mobley of Winterville, Floyd Hendrix of Greenville and Brantley Speight of Winterville.

Las Vegas Windows Are Broken By Atomic Blast

Las Vegas, Nev., Feb. 6—(AP)—Windows shattered in this southern Nevada city today as two separate shocks from the fifth atomic test in 11 days rocked the city.

Police reported big show windows in two automobile agencies splintered by sound waves.

There were no reports of injuries, residents having been forewarned of the possibility of glass-breaking shocks.

The white light was seen in Oakland, on the edge of San Francisco Bay, where one witness described it as terrifying. Oakland is some 40 air miles from Las Vegas.

An irregular sort of white cloud appeared over the horizon to the northwest, above the Frenchman Flat area where the atomic tests are being conducted. It was different in appearance from any seen in the previous four tests seen and heard here.

Two distinct shocks were felt, following about five and one half minutes after the now-familiar blinding white flash in the predawn sky.

The Atomic Energy Commission, in an unprecedented pre-test announcement had warned residents to stay away from windows. Highways were lined by hundreds who left their homes for a clearer view and to escape possible danger.

Again Try Brand U. S. Aggressor

Russian Move In United Nations Doomed To Failure

Lake Success, Feb. 6—(AP)—Russia will try to have the United Nations tag the United States an aggressor against Red China today.

The move is doomed to failure—it is highly doubtful if any but her four satellites will vote with the Soviet Union—and western diplomats have labelled it "transparent propaganda."

The charges before the 40-nation Political Committee (meets at 3 p.m. EST) are that President Truman's order to the Seventh Fleet to seal off Formosa and bombing in Manchuria by American planes constitute aggression.

They were thrown out by the Security Council last November following a bitter anti-American tirade by Communist Chinese Envoy Wu Hsiu-chuan.

The committee today first must decide whether to listen to a speech Wu left behind when he went home in December.

Communist Premier Chou En-lai demanded in a cable yesterday that the group hear the speech. Officials said the question would have to be decided by a vote.

The speech, distributed to newsmen six weeks ago, is a reiteration of Wu's earlier statement in the Security Council.

Plan No Appeal By Curtis Shedd

Raleigh, N.C., Feb. 6—(AP)—No appeal will be made to the State Supreme Court for Curtis Shedd convicted of double murder.

This was announced yesterday by R. S. Jones of Franklin, an attorney for Shedd.

Shedd, 26, of Waltham, S. C., was convicted last December in Macon Superior Court of slaying Johnnie May Boyter, 14, and Jo Ann Boyter, 8. He was sentenced to death.

One Of World's Richest Women Dies In New York

New York, Feb. 6—(AP)—Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, 60, daughter of the fabulously wealthy Hetty Green and, in her own right, one of the world's richest women, died last night in New York Hospital.

A tall, austere woman, Mrs. Wilks shunned publicity like her famous mother who at her death in 1916 had amassed a fortune estimated at $100,000,000. Mrs. Wilks' own fortune was estimated at $125,000,000.

She was the widow of Matthew Wilks, great-grandson of the first John Jacob Astor. Before their marriage, Mrs. Green made her fortune in the real estate business.

Then, suspicious of fortune hunters, Mrs. Green moved her family to a cheap flat in Hoboken, N. J., where the daughter cooked and sewed to save money for her mother.

17 years of marriage to Wilks which ended in widowhood in 1926, she became a virtual recluse.

She ignored fashion changes, usually wore black clothes and if she had any large charities they were kept secret.

Mrs. Wilks was raised in near-Spartan surroundings. Part of her youth she spent in a drab home at Bellows Falls, Vt., where she nursed her invalid father. The house was barred, shuttered and dark for no lights, it was said, burned in the Green home after 7:30 p.m.

Hard Sledding For Pitt Re-Valuation

Stafford Proposal Strongly Opposed By Citizens Attending County Commissioners' Meeting Monday

By JOHN SPINKS, JR.

Mayor W. S. Stafford, in company with eight of the Board of Aldermen, plus a proposal for a county-wide re-valuation of property, had his proposal to the County Commissioners sat upon by a handful of interested citizens who described it as a "dangerous thing."

The proposal, which was sanctioned by the Aldermen at their Thursday night meeting, was to move Greenville's tax valuation up to $25,000,000 from the present $17,500,000 in order to increase the city's borrowing power. Stafford presented the proposal and stated the entire county would probably have to be re-valued in order to hike Greenville's valuation.

The recommendation received several "vetoes" from persons at the meeting, who were present to talk against it at the same time the Commissioners were taking it under consideration.

Sam White, Greenville business man and former Commissioner for six years, described the proposal as a "dangerous thing at the present time" because, as he stated, the federal government is "going to tax us 'til it hurts."

White, J. E. Winslow, Greenville business man and farmer; J. H. Boyd, former mayor of Greenville; and J. N. Williams, former commissioner, were the four who talked against the proposal.

Consensus of their argument was that re-valuation of county real property had been tried in the past and many inequities had resulted.

What should be done, rather, they said, is straighten out present inequities that exist in Greenville and the county rather than re-valuating every piece of property in the county.

Stafford based his proposal for raising the city valuation on the fact that the city's borrowing power now is $414,762, based on the last valuation of property in 1937. He said that is not enough to sell bonds in order to continue the city's expanding services to the people, namely a million-dollar high school, a Negro swimming pool and paving projects.

He gave comparative figures with the present valuation which would allow the city to lower the existing tax rate from $1.50 to $1.07 or $1.00 and retain the present operating budget but with a higher valuation.

To have an operating budget of the approximate figure for 1950 ($266,133.86), the tax could be dropped to $1.07 on a $25,000,000 valuation. On a $28,000,000 valuation, he said, the tax could be cut to one-dollar and still maintain the present operating budget.

"I have no desire to raise the city taxes," he said. "I would like to see them lowered." But to get a higher borrowing power, the re-valuation of property should be done, he stated.

Former Mayor Boyd stated a bad crop year would make "half the taxpayers unable to pay their taxes" if the re-valuation goes into effect. White was of the opinion that a raise in taxes was better than changing the present tax valuation.

"When you raise the valuation, taxes are never reduced," he stated. "It's nice to talk about re-valuating but it's hell to pay."

Winslow stated that at the present time a re-valuation in Greenville would be dangerous if it got

Rail Settlement Is Hinted By Senator

Sen. Humphrey Reports 'Good Reason' For Optimism; White House Parley On Railroad Crises Is Cancelled

Washington, Feb. 6—(AP)—

Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today he had good reason "to be optimistic a settlement of the rail strike may be imminent."

His statement to reporters was made almost simultaneously with cancellation of an appointment five members of the Senate Labor Committee had to talk over the rail situation with President Truman.

Humphrey said his optimism was based "on information from outside the White House" but he would not elaborate.

Humphrey declined to say who suggested that the White House conference be called off. He told newsmen:

"All I can say is that the committee members felt they might be able to contribute something toward ironing out the trouble. Now we find that the situation may be ironing itself out."

Railroad switchmen were returning to work in many important centers, but there was no sign of a general back to work movement.

Because of the delays in rail transportation, the Defense Transportation Administration ordered motor freight carriers to give the armed forces, the Atomic Energy Commission and the mails first claim on their services.

It said truckers could continue to haul prime commercial shipments if they had space left.

Railroad union leaders would make no comment on the appeal from the top defense mobilizer for a resumption of military shipments.

Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson, in a nationwide broadcast made last night under auspices of the White House, said the defense effort was being badly handicapped by a "creeping paralysis" of the rail transportation system.

"No matter how serious your grievances may seem to you, they cannot justify the harm you are now doing to your country," Wilson told the idle men.

Second Of Allen Quadruplets Is Dead In Boston

Boston, Feb. 6—(AP)—The second of Boston's famous Allen quadruplets died early this morning, at Children's Medical Center.

Timothy, who weighed two pounds and three ounces at birth last Friday, died of respiratory trouble doctors said.

Karen, who weighed slightly over a pound, died Sunday night.

Hospital officials released the information of Timothy's death after they notified the quads' father, Patrolman Robert Allen, 41.

They withheld the sad news from their mother, however, because, the doctors said, "she was still broken up over Karen's death."

Psychiatrist To Examine Ewing

Raleigh, N.C., Feb. 6—(AP)—Wall C. Ewing, former Cumberland County political leader serving 18-20 years for manslaughter in the death of his wife, will be examined to determine whether he is undergoing a mental breakdown.

This was reported yesterday by state prison officials, who said Ewing was being moved from the Perquimans camp to the Central Prison hospital to await examination by a psychiatrist.

Three Airmen In Crash Survived

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 6—(AP)—Three Navy airmen were recovering today from injuries received last night when their TBM (torpedo bomber) crashed off Knotts Island, N. C., during a training flight.

The Navy reported that the plane suddenly left two other planes with its lights off and crashed. Those aboard the aircraft paddled to shore in a life raft and later were picked up by a civilian in a boat.

Chinese Observe New Year's Day With First Show Of Red Tanks In Current Phase Of Campaign; Day-Long Battle; Eighth Army Scores Small Gains

By OLEN CLEMENTS

Tokyo, Feb. 6—(AP)—Powerful allied tank-infantry columns piled into the main Chinese defense line south of Seoul today and fought a day-long pitched battle.

The Chinese celebrated their New Year's Day with the first show of Red tanks in this phase of the Korean war.

The fighting raged almost to the outskirts of Seoul.

The Chinese tanks duelled with the allied columns. Artillery thundered and United Nations planes roared down on the Red forces.

Chinese anti-aircraft fire knocked down one Marine Corsair over the front lines.

The Chinese were bringing reinforcements across the frozen Han River and mounting what appeared to be a big effort to halt allied jobs. In 13 days the allied thrusts have killed or wounded 57,000 Red troops.

The Chinese possibly even may be fighting against the allied south of Seoul. If so, they were striking on the opening day of the Year of the Rabbit.

"There no longer is any doubt about the whereabouts of the enemy," said an allied intelligence officer. "They are right here where we are."

Widepread Fighting

The fighting flared five miles northwest and two miles northeast of the deserted village of Antang. The village is barely nine air miles south of Seoul.

Hills overlooking the valley running north from Anyang were alive with Red troops. Korean communists were noted with the Chinese.

A P. correspondent Jim Becker said Red resistance was so bitter that only the western column of two allied task forces made any progress Tuesday. This column drove five miles northwest of Anyang, for a gain of three miles over its Monday thrust when it ran into a Red tank trap.

Chinese tanks skulked in the paths of both allied columns. The allied eastern column was trying to drive up the main road north of Anyang toward Seoul.

Gains Reduced

On the central front, allied forces pushed ahead another two miles early Tuesday, bringing their total gain since Monday to six miles. They captured the villages of Hak-tam and Chwon, north of the jump-off point at Hoengsong.

The allied troops in the west were forced to back track over

Gas Shortage In Wilson Nearing Serious Stage

Wilson, Feb. 6—(AP)—Officials said here today that a railroad freight tie-up brought on by a switchman's strike had created an alarming shortage in household gas supplies.

Operators of the Wilson gas system said the supply here would last only until about Saturday.

Propane, a liquefied petroleum, is imported here in tanks by rail, then is mixed with air and distributed through gas mains. It supplies the sole means of cooking in many homes.

City manager F. Talmadge Green said his efforts in recent days to obtain supplies from nearby cities had run into the same story everywhere—all supplies are running low.

Miss Venetia Cox Speaks On Chinese Education To Members Of Woman's Club

Miss Venetia Cox of Winterville, former missionary to China who is home on furlough, was guest speaker when the Woman's Club met in general session at the club house on Friday afternoon.

Miss Cox spoke of her experiences with the students over a long period of time. When she left China she was a member of the music department of the Central China University located in Wuchang, a city in the interior. She first went to China in 1917, and through her long years of experience and work among the students she has found them to be very patriotic and active and aggressively interested in all new reforms and movements which have, from 1911 up to the present, swept over China in waves of confusion and constant change.

Miss Cox emphasized that missionaries were the first to open schools of modern education. In 1927 when the Nationalist government swept into power, they undertook the administration of the educational standards and facilities. In the warring years that have occurred constantly since 1927, the beginning of the Sino-Japanese war, there have been many shifts in control, many promises made and broken, and much disillusionment among the students.

They have been taught to expect a New Era and were greatly disappointed when the Nationalist government failed to fulfill its promises, explained the speaker.

When the Communists surged over the country after World War II they were gladly welcomed by most of the students because they held out a promise of better governing conditions and more progress for their country. Because the Communists were native Chinese, the students have supported and upheld them in this new ideology and have resented any interference by the U.S. because to them any foreign influence was evil. They do not recognize the Chinese Communists as being dominated by Russia, stated Miss Cox in her analysis of the situation.

The army of propagandists which follows the Communist military army, explained Miss Cox, "started immediately to teach intensively the new Communist ideology. Students were forced to listen and learn, textbooks were changed, and rigid police controls set up. Yet the students were inflamed with a new fervor and became staunch supporters of the new government."

In conclusion she said, "Those who know us and our way of life are unhappy and want us to return to set up order out of chaos. Most students, however, are supporting the Communist government and though they regard Americans they consider it old-fashioned and reactionary."

During the business meeting which preceded Miss Cox's talk, Mrs. Vance Perkins, acting vice-president, presided. Mrs. W. H. Wolard made a plea for books and magazines to send to libraries abroad. Mrs. Bill Sermons announced that during Broth-

City's January Building Report Shows New Gains
Both commercial and dwelling construction in the city of Greenville continued good during the month of January according to the monthly building report released this morning by building inspector George Gardner.

A total of 17 dwellings valued at $134,500 had permits issued and one commercial permit with a valuation of $10,000 was issued in the month making a total of $144,500 worth of new construction for the first month of the new year.

In addition repair permits for $10,300 were also issued by the building inspector.

Probe Theft At Local Junk Yard
Investigation is still under way of Greenville Police officers into the robbery of 37 batteries from the Moore Junk Yard on Grande Avenue.

The batteries were reported stolen on Saturday night, stated Captain S. B. Dorsey today.

All of the batteries were second hand and as yet no leads have turned up as to the robber or robbers who carried the batteries away.

Dorsey warned other junk yards in Greenville and surrounding towns to be on the lookout for the batteries, and particularly any person wanting to sell a large number of batteries.

Minister Feels Good Again
HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron Which His System Lacked

Here is something worth remembering. When you are not feeling well, you are unable to accomplish very much, your working power is limited, your ambition is deadened and you feel like you want to quit doing anything, F. M. Garrett, Route 1, Box 28-A, Starke, Fla., is a minister and when he began feeling bad, he did something about it.

Rev. Garrett began taking HADACOL and he says he now feels good. HADACOL supplied Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in which his system was deficient.

Here is what Rev. Garrett says about HADACOL:

"I am a minister, 76 years old, and can truthfully say that HADACOL was a God-send to me as I had been sick, could not sleep, and could not eat anything without suffering much pain. I was not able to work and I felt bad all the time. One of my brothers-in-law said: 'Why don't you get some HADACOL and take it?' I did, and now I feel like a different man and can work all day. That has been 5 months ago. Before I took half the bottle, I could tell a wonderful change had taken place for the better. I can gladly recommend it to anyone."

WCTU Notes
The WCTU will meet in the home of Mrs. J. C. Galloway, 408 Student St., at 3:30 p. m., Wednesday, February 7th. It is to be hoped a large percentage of the members will be present to hear Mrs. B. B. Slaughter, who is state Spiritual Life Director, speak. There will be an open forum after Mrs. Slaughter's address. The public is invited.

40 Years Ago Today

The Daily Reflector February 6, 1911

If the advocates of good roads had sent a bill to the legislature which provided by enactment the issuance of $50,000 in bonds for roads without submitting the measure to a vote of the people, there might be good grounds to circulate petitions asking our representatives to hold up the passage of the bill. But since it is provided that the people shall vote on the proposition before it becomes effective, it looks like those who are opposing it are placing themselves in the position that the advocates of the bill would have been in had they asked for its passage without submitting it to the voters of the township. In other words the opponents of the bill are trying to stifle it in the legislature without giving the people an opportunity to express themselves at the ballot box.

Trip To Vatican City Reported To Athenium Club
In a cheerful setting of early spring flowers and glowing fires, Mrs. S. M. Crisp graciously entertained the Athenium Book Club on Tuesday, Jan. 30th, at her home on Fifth Street.

A most delicious two course luncheon was served to the members and Miss Sally Lane of Washington, D. C., house guest of Miss Mary Rose Crisp and Mrs. J. D. Messick.

A brief business meeting followed and was presided over by Mrs. T. I. Wagner, president.

At this time plans for book club day were discussed and a letter from patients and staff of the hospital at Camp Lejeune thanking the club for their part in providing cheer at Christmas was read.

Highlight of the program given by Miss Crisp, who was introduced by her mother.

Rather than speak of her European travels in general, Miss Crisp chose as her subject "The Vatican," which is located in Rome but which is an entirely separate city and state, and is the home of Pope Pius XII.

She spoke briefly of the famous art and sculpture museums, libraries and mosaic factories.

In Saint Peter's she saw the Great Altar under which Saint Peter is supposedly buried although no bones have ever been found. In this cathedral also are beautiful paintings, all of which are of mosaic. There she also saw the statue of the Holy Mother which is carved from old yellowed marble. An interesting feature of this old cathedral is the fact that some time during the day the sun shines directly on each relic or statue.

At the Sistine Chapel she saw Michelangelo's famous paintings, which are on the very high ceiling. She remarked how large they appeared even at such a height.

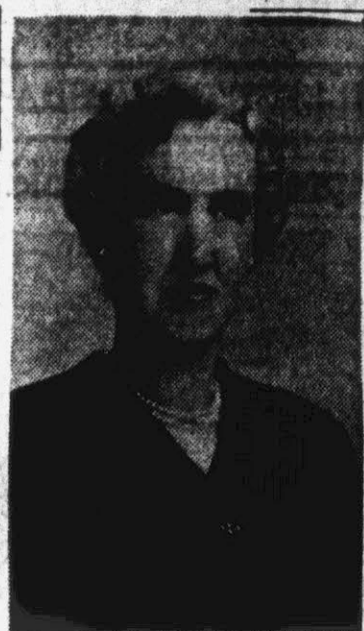

In speaking of Pope Pius himself she told of his aesthetically beautiful face and of how he wore his glasses down on his nose giving him a very intellectual appearance.

She spoke of how very particular the Pope is concerning the food that he eats which is prepared by seven German nuns and of how he is guarded by Swiss guards.

Miss Crisp said that she reached the height of her visit to the Vatican City when she attended the Papal audience where pilgrims of all nations prayed in their native tongues.

After books were distributed the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. J. K. Long Presides At Council As New Commissioner

MRS. J. K. LONG

Mrs. J. K. Long, newly-elected Commissioner for the Greenville Girl Scouts, presided over the first Council meeting for the new scout year, which was held at the Rotary Club last night at 7:45. Approximately 20 members make up the Greenville Girl Scout Council.

Mrs. Long, who replaces Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, will serve for a term of two years.

She is a native of North Carolina, but prior to moving to Greenville approximately 3 1/2 years ago, she had lived out of the state for 15 years. During that time she had resided in South Carolina, Kentucky, New York and Tennessee.

She has had years of experience in serving on executive boards of character-building organizations. For six years she was a member of the Board of Directors of the Louisville, Ky. YWCA, during which time she served as chairman of program planning for different groups of young women who participated in "Y" activities. She was also a member of the executive board of the Louisville A.A.U.W. for 4 years.

Mrs. Long is an ardent supporter of the promotion of fine arts. She still retains her membership in the Louisville Art Club, to which she was elected as a senior patron of the arts. She was chairman for three years of the Children's Theater in Louisville, and since coming to Greenville has served as chairman of the Community Arts Festival for two years. She is a member of the executive board of the local Art Gallery and also a member of the Greenville Music Club.

She is a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and also of the Greenville's Woman's Club. She has been a member of the local Girl Scout Council for three years.

In a statement made at the time of her election to the office of Commissioner, Mrs. Long said, "I realize that this job carries with it a great deal of responsibility, but at the same time it offers a challenging opportunity to serve our young people. I find that one gains much happiness and satisfaction from serving in one's community."

At the Council meeting last night, the first one over which the new Commissioner presided, reports from all scout chairmen were given. A discussion concerning plans for promotion and improvements at Camp Hardie, the Girl Scout camp on the Pamlico River, followed, and Mrs. E. L. Henderson was named publicity chairman. Plans for the annual Girl Scout Birthday Party to be held on March 9 were also made.

Scouts And Dads Banquet Tonight

Approximately 200 Boy Scouts and their fathers are expected to attend the annual Father-Son banquet of the Pitt Boy Scout district tonight.

The banquet will be held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. District Chairman J. B. Kirtrell will preside at the meeting.

The principal speaker at the banquet will be Reynolds May of Greenville. W. C. Chadwick of New Bern, chairman of the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scout organization, will also have a part on the program.

One of the highlights of the banquet will be a court of honor at which individual scouts of the district will be recognized for their advancements.

Arrangements for the banquet have been made by Sherman Parks, member of the Pitt district committee.

UNACUSTOMED AS HE IS
Lethbridge, Alta.—(AP)—An alderman here coined a word recently when he suggested that Mayor L. S. Turcotte is being called on too frequently to speak at civic and public functions. "It seems the city is suffering from Mayoritis," the alderman said.

Republicans Pick Foreign Policy For Chief Issue

Washington, Feb. 6—(AP)—Republicans chose foreign policy for their chief issue as they started a search today for the dollars to finance the 1952 campaign.

In a howling political field day at a Lincoln Day box supper here last night Republican leaders accused the Truman Administration of pushing the country to the brink of all-out war.

Members of the Senate and House charged that the Democrats had bungled the campaign in Korea, had stymied military preparedness and had encouraged inflation at home by unwise policies.

To translate these charges into tangible campaign assets, Senator Dirksen (R-Ill.), called GOP Senate Campaign Committee into session this afternoon to see what can be done about raising some $200,000. That is the amount party leaders think is necessary to re-elect 20 Republican senators and to make inroads into the 12 Democratic seats that will be at stake in 1952.

The box supper rally last night in a local arena brought an overflow crowd estimated at more than 10,000 persons.

With movie actor George Murphy, at the microphone and Fred Waring's orchestra playing, the Republicans put on a pep rally featured by throw-away sheets proclaiming "Taft for President."

Rep. Bender (R-Ohio), a long time supporter of Senator Taft of Ohio, was disclosed as the editor of the throwaway.

Taft led off the big guns at the rally.

He said the GOP "aims at peace in the world and the limitation of our armed forces to the absolute necessity of the dangerous world situation to which the Truman policies have brought this country."

On the other hand, Rep. Arends of Illinois, the assistant House minority leader, said the Republican 80th congress had tried to build up a 70-group Air Force and had voted to build a super-aircraft carrier.

"But the Administration was too smart to let them get away with a thing like that," Arends said sarcastically.

"Now it seems we need planes desperately. Now we need the ships and wish we had them. Maybe the Republican 80th congress was not so dumb."

Smuggler Stands To Get Gold He Took To Colony

Singapore—(AP)—A 30-year-old Chinese bumboat man commissioned to smuggle $61,000 worth of gold bars into Singapore stands to get the fortune for himself if the owner does not claim it.

A British court ordered the gold given to Lim Chye Seng when the prosecution case collapsed and Lim was acquitted on a charge of importing the bullion with a permit.

The court ruled he was a public carrier who had picked up the shipment in the harbor in good faith. He had not broken the law and remained in possession of the gold when no one called for it.

Iran's Value In Military Terms Told To Rotarians

"Iran is an asset far more valuable than Korea. If the Russians were to march tomorrow they could take over the country with little trouble from a military standpoint," declared F. Badger Johnson, who spoke on Iran last night before the members of the Greenville Rotary club.

Johnson, who spent 32 months in Iran during World War II, described the country as "a land bridge down through the middle east."

The country contains the largest oil deposits known to scientists, Johnson said, and added, "The Iranian oil fields would amply supply Russia for a long war." He pointed out that the Iranian oil fields have been developed principally by the British and American companies, but the oil is being shipped principally to Europe. By shipping Iranian oil to Europe, the speaker explained, the United States is decreasing the drain on its own oil deposits.

"If we intend to develop the oil, do we intend to defend it?" Johnson asked. "Are we going to let the Russians take it, or will we sabotage it so it will never be productive to anyone?" Although the Iranians have been friendly to the Americans since World War II, Johnson said they now "seem to be drifting into the arms of the Russians." The most recent arms shipment from the United States to Iran was received coolly by the people, he said, and the Voice of America program has recently been discontinued from the Iranian capital's radio station.

"At one time we stood high in their estimation. During the war Iran was a supply line for lend-lease to the Russians. The Americans had a working force rather than a combat force in Iran, and the relationships with the natives were good. They have never liked the British or the Russians."

The problem of securing Iran from a Russian attack is now a major one, Johnson said, because the majority of the British forces have been pulled out of the near east, and there are few American bases in the area.

Charles A. White, vice president of the club presided at the meeting. Dr. Beecher Flanagan had charge of the program. Floyd Hendrix, Jr. was introduced as Junior Rotarian for February.

Woman Charged With Passing Of Bad Checks

A 22-year-old white woman who gave her address as Bethel was arrested by Greenville Police officers Saturday afternoon for passing worthless checks.

The woman, listed on the police records as R. Leigh Anderson, alias Ruby Lee Sullivan, was taken into custody after she had passed four checks described as "bad" and was charged with trying to pass the fifth one in a bank.

The checks amounted from $35 to $45 each and over $100 worth had allegedly been passed by the woman before she was apprehended.

She will be tried at the Friday morning session of City Police Court.

Teen-Agers Take To Tiaras

FROM DOWAGER TO DEBUTANTE . . . Four youthful belles of New York junior society wear diamond tiaras for a formal ball. They are (l. to r.): Miss Joan Lalor, Miss Barbara Cavanaugh, Mrs. Albert Tilt, III, and Miss Margo Kelly. Their coiffures were especially designed for jeweled accents by Charles of the Ritz.

By DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Fashion Editor New York—The diamond tiara, once the exclusive province of queens and dowagers, has become the latest debutante fad.

At the recent Tiara Ball in New York, half a million dollars' worth of diamonds literally went to the heads of the teen-age socialites in attendance.

The vogue was launched in Paris last fall, when Jean Dessus and Christian Dior showed tiaras with their fall collection. A popular U. S. teen-age magazine followed with a cover featuring a high school senior dressed for a dance in white tulle and a tiara.

Girls who never had worn more than a couple of bobby pins to hold their locks in place decided tiaras were just the thing for Glamour with a capital G.

Many of the girls fashion the tiaras out of family jewelry at hand, wiring up bracelets, clips or brooches to form a headress.

Those who haven't any genuine diamonds handy use costume jewelry.

At the Tiara Ball 14 post-debuts wore the most fabulous headresses imaginable, provided by diamond merchant Harry Winston. Rank and file tiaras of the rest of the youthful guests ranged from sweet peas to Christmas tree tinsel. Said one mother: "At least this is going to help Susie hold her head up straight!"

Army Frowns On Big Waistlines

Frankfurt, Germany—(AP)—The fat is coming off Uncle Sam's troops in Germany. GI's and generals alike have been ordered to shake off those extra pounds.

The new order is part of the "get-ready-for-anything" program of the new commanding general in Europe, Lieutenant General Manton S. Eddy. All officers and men, regardless of assignment or age, are required to take part in a physical conditioning program, which includes marches, running, sprinting, pull-ups, pushups and squat jumps.

School Bus In Minor Mishap

A school bus was involved in a minor accident in Greenville Friday morning about 9:30 when it was struck by an automobile at the intersection of East Fourth St. and Biltmore St.

Police said the school bus, driver by Curtis L. Simpson, 30-year-old Negro of 1201 Battle St., Greenville, was struck by an automobile driven by Dell Eugene Ricks, 18, of Washington RFD three.

Police charged Ricks with failure to stop at a stop sign.

Hitler's Gift Is Found On Arab

Beirut, Lebanon—(AP)—A revolver with "from Adolf Hitler to General Rommel in recognition of his bravery" engraved on it was found here recently by police making a routine search for prohibited arms.

They found the gun, which holds 30 cartridges, when they searched a local Arab named Ahmed Eljardi. Ahmed didn't say where he got the gun, but he offered almost $1,000 to get it back. Police confiscated the revolver.

New Industries For Karachi Announced

Karachi—(AP)—The Industries Ministry here has announced that seven new textile mills will shortly be established in Karachi. Permission to open plants was given only to those firms which had already placed orders for machinery and opened letters of credit. Most of the machinery will come from Japan.

Britt, Army box 452 Fairmont; and Marvin E. Buck Air Force, Route 3, Greenville.

All of the enlistments were accepted at the local recruiting office prior to the freezing of Air Force enlistment quotas, Fare stated. The Air Force is supposed to take off the enlistments "freeze" this month, Fare reported.

The freeze was first ordered because of the rapid number of enlistees applying for entrance into the Air Force, as many young men attempted to join the branch of service of their choice in preference to being drafted.

Fire Dept. Busy During January

January was a big month for Greenville firemen as they answered nine box alarms and two false alarms in the month, Fire Chief George Gardner reported today.

Also two false alarms were turned in and three out of town calls answered, with 11 telephone alarms.

The local department devoted much time last month to burning off or supervising the burning of 35 lots in the city.

Rescue calls for the month numbered two, the Chief's report shows. Losses for the month had not been adjusted at the time the report was released the Chief stated.

The two largest fires for the month was that which razed the home of R. W. Shiplett on Harding Street and a fire which gutted a two-apartment negro structure on Clark Street.

Limiting Of White House Tenure Gains

New York, Feb. 6—(AP)—A constitutional amendment to limit future presidents to 10 years in the White House has gained ground in recent weeks and may become the law of the land this year.

Twenty-seven states already have ratified it, leaving nine to go for the necessary three fourths majority of 36.

Latest to approve the change in the constitution were Indiana on Jan. 19, Montana, on Jan. 25 and Idaho on Jan. 30.

The proposed 22nd Amendment has been kicking around state capitols since the opening of 1947, when it cleared congress with the stipulation that it must be ratified by 36 states in seven years (by March 1954), to become effective.

It is on legislative calendars this year. Legislative leaders in Arizona and Wyoming say they expect their states to ratify it soon. In Arkansas, the resolution passed the House overwhelmingly and no opposition has developed in the Senate.

Indications are that at least six states will not ratify. They are Alabama, Tennessee, Rhode Island, North Carolina, Nevada, and Maryland.

In the doubtful column are Massachusetts, West Virginia, Texas, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Minnesota, Utah, New Mexico, Georgia and Washington.

The Kentucky legislature does not meet this year.

Fire Warden Of Pitt Urges Care

Pitt county's fire warden, N. S. (Kid) Tyson, again today cautioned farmers of the county about burning brush and fields without the securing of a burning permit.

The warden pointed out that the sap is beginning to rise in the trees and now much damage can be done to the forests from fire.

Before burning land, the warden suggested, the following precautions be taken to prevent the fire getting out of control. The area to be burned should be plowed around and all nearby persons should be notified to be on the lookout for any possible spread of the fire.

By taking the few precautions a lot of timber and forest land can be saved which would otherwise be lost to carelessness, the warden said.

Brush burning permits may be obtained in Greenville, Forest fire Tower, Ballard's Cross Roads, Ayden, Stokesport, Grimesland, and Farmville, Stokes, Falkland, Pactiville, Belvoir.

Gold Bullion Is Awaiting Claim

Singapore—(AP)—More than 200 bars of gold valued at $40,000 are waiting to be claimed at police headquarters here.

Police said claimants must establish their claims within six months or the gold would be sold and the proceeds passed on to the Crown.

The gold, believed to have been confiscated during smuggling attempts, was handed to police by a court order.

Jordan Plans Census For Next September

Amman, Jordan—(AP)—Jordan plans its first census which will take place next September. The country, governed by colorful King Abdullah, recently enlarged its borders by annexing the western part of Palestine, including Jerusalem and Bethlehem. The population is believed to be more than 1,000,000.

Seeking Common Congo Language In Long Studies

Brussels, Belgium—(AP)—After trekking for 18 months through jungle, bush and steppe in the Belgian Congo, Belgian Jesuit Father Van Bulck, and a British colleague, Dr. J. Hackett, of London, have completed a monumental linguistic inquiry.

The two men were trying to discover what native languages should be encouraged as a common tongue out of the more than 500 languages now spoken in the colony. Authorities are seeking a language that will be suitable for higher education and scientific terms, as well as for everyday expressions.

Father Van Bulck considers such a language could be found in the Bantu dialects, since 12,000,000 of the 14,000,000 inhabitants of the Congo speak them.

Maternal Death Rate Is Reduced

New York, N. Y.—"Mother and child doing well" was reported in a higher percentage of maternity cases last year than ever before in the nation's history. Estimates for 1950 by Metropolitan Life Insurance statisticians place maternal mortality at somewhat less than one per 1,000 live births, and infant mortality at about 29 per 1,000.

As recently as 1938 the maternal mortality at somewhat less than one per 1,000 live births, and infant mortality at about 29 per 1,000.

"The fact that the declines occurred during a period of rising birth rates has added substantially to the number of lives saved among the mothers and babies," the statisticians note.

In answer to the question as to how much safer maternity and infancy can become, it is pointed out that in 1948 Oregon had a maternal mortality rate of only 0.4 per 1,000 births, and Washington, Utah, and Connecticut had rates that were only slightly higher.

"It now remains for the other states to do as well—and the goal is already within the reach of many," the statisticians comment. "The opportunities for life conservation are far greater among infants than among mothers; while peripartur causes take the lives of fewer than 4,000 women a year, close to 110,000 babies die before they reach their first birthday."

HABIT FORMATION
 Many years ago the great American psychologist William James wrote a chapter on habit. We wonder sometimes what has become of that chapter. Many varieties of fancy theories are advanced today by psychologists, and William James, who seemed sound to many of us a few decades ago, is now little more than a name on a book list.

James took the position that life is a bundle of habits. Every action in life deepens some habit. Rip Van Winkle, who when he looks another drink said, "We won't count this one," did not realize that, although, as James said, a merciful heaven would not count it, it was being counted in the cells of his nervous system. Likewise, with every thought, every impulse, and every act, habit is being formed. First we make our habits, and then our habits make us. Nothing is harder than for a person in middle age or beyond to break a lifelong habit. But the nervous system of youth is still plastic. Certainly until one reaches 25 or 35 years of age, habits can be made or unmade with comparative ease. And every young person should realize that what he or she is going to be at middle life depends on the seriousness with which good habits are formed in youth.

Better take time to make a good habit now than to try to break a bad habit twenty years from now.

Revaluation And Equalization For Property

The Pitt county commissioners are now pondering the controversial issue of calling for a revaluation of all the property in the county.

Without a doubt the easiest thing for the commissioners to do would be to let the issue die without taking action on it one way or the other. In that manner, they would avoid having on their necks the individuals who oppose a revaluation of any sort. But if the commissioners were to follow such a line of inaction, they would not be serving the best interest of the county.

There are a number of arguments against the proposed revaluation, but in our opinion the principal reasons for having a revaluation far outweigh the reasons to the contrary.

In the first place, there are gross inequalities in the property values listed with the county officials for tax purposes. In some instances property values are on the tax books for 50 to 60 per cent of the actual values. In other instances, there is property on the tax books which is listed for as little as 10 to 15 per cent of its actual value.

The generality of this one condition is readily indicated by the county tax books; and this condition in itself would be reason enough to call for a revaluation.

But to go a step further, the county has not had a revaluation of property since 1937. At the time the revaluation was made, actual values were much lower than they are today; and even then, the values which were placed on the books for tax purposes were only a fraction of what the actual values were at the time.

With the rising cost of operating local governments, the tax rates of the county and municipalities have had to be increased steadily to meet necessary expenses. The condition has resulted in a higher tax rate, and likewise it has limited the borrowing power of the local governments because the increase in valuations has not moved forward with the upward trend in the cost of permanent improvements.

Were the tax valuations equalized at a reasonable level, the county and the municipalities within the county, could lower the tax rates and still have plenty of money on which to operate. At the same time the borrowing power of the governments would be increased because of the higher total valuation which each would have.

A low, rather than a reasonable tax valuation, is advantageous for a county so far as state and federal aid projects are concerned. But for the most part, Pitt county should be more interested in what it can do for itself, than in what the state or federal government can do for it. Therefore the reasonable valuation is most practical.

Pitt county needs, and has needed for some time, a revaluation and equalization of the tax values on the property in the county. The work should be done by impartial experts who are interested only in having equal valuations on all the property in the county.

Prevention This Time Rather Than Cure

Senator Hoey's check into the activities of the five percenters in Washington has come at a good time. The first contracts of the present mobilization program are being let just now, and there is little doubt that there are those in government positions who will seek to do a little profiteering on their own.

In 1949 the five percenter hearings brought to light a lot of instances in which influence in getting contracts had been traded for cash or valuable merchandise. But in 1949, it was a little late to go back and do much about the situation.

Now, Senator Hoey has begun a program of prevention rather than cure. If the Senate Expenditures sub-committee cracks down on those who may have used their influence to secure contracts this early in the mobilization program, it may discourage other officials from making the same maneuvers in the future.

While the federal government is seeking so diligently to take the profiteering out of the mobilization program, it could well set up some penalty for government officials who are found guilty of participating in the profiteering at the government's expense.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The bipartisan revolt which clipped the authority of Clarence Cannon of Missouri as Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee really represents another legislative attack on President Truman's domestic Fair Deal program and the terrific costs it would impose at a time when so many billions are needed for national defense.

Although the Chief Executive's close friend and fellow-Missourian professes to be an apostle of economy, he has actually been an extremely liberal spender.

During the period of his chairmanship, he sponsored the greatest outlay of federal funds in peacetime history. Therefore, he always manipulated the committee in favor of presidential requests for swollen budgets.

RIGGING—His power was as vast as that once possessed by "Uncle Joe" Cannon in the legislative realm. The de-throned chairman selected the members of all sub-committees, rigging them so that they would do his bidding. He insisted on sitting as an ex-officio member of all sub-groups, where he could neutralize the economy votes of the Republicans and thrifty Democrats.

The one-package appropriation bill system, which he advocated on the ground that it saved money, actually strengthened his charismatic control. It was easier for him to supervise a single measure than ten or eleven different ones.

Moreover, a single appropriation program forces a President to approve it, even though it carries wasteful funds, whereas he can veto money bills when they come to him separately.

RUTHLESS—Even Democrats charge that the $71,000,000,000 budget is so swollen that it will permit authorization of many Fair Deal reforms under cover of the rearmament emergency.

Speaker Sam Rayburn has publicly warned against such a strategy. But Mr. Cannon's opposition feared that he would use his power to achieve this objective, unless they stripped him.

It did not help him, of course, that he has been a ruthless, belligerent and cranky 72-year-old boss. In fact, the author of a biography of him in a major magazine, after spending many days at Washington and in Mr. Cannon's home district, described him as "the man without a friend."

ASSISTANCE—Chairman Cannon is correct when he says that the rebellion could not have succeeded without the undercover assistance of Speaker Rayburn and John McCormack of Massachusetts, the Majority Leader. The twelve Democrats who lined up against the Missouri man owe allegiance to the Texas and the Bay Stater.

After observing Mr. Cannon's intra-committee operations, the two leaders concluded that he was getting "too big for his britches," to use one of Sam's favorite expressions.

Although the Speaker can usually control legislative committees through his influence or personality, he could never make any headway with Mr. Cannon. As an authority on parliamentary law, the latter could outmaneuver even the Speaker and Majority leader in a floor battle.

Thus, the Cannon control over appropriations offset the Rayburn domination of legislative committee's action and House procedure. There was no way to cut the Appropriations Chairman down to size except by depriving him of his self-assumed authority over the federal money bags.

BREAK—This seemingly technical infighting will have extremely practical consequences. It means a break for the heavy-laden taxpayers. It nails down the assurance that extravagant grants for vote-getting purposes will be stopped or at least reduced by many billions.

It will prevent the White House from shaking off legislative defeats through its pipeline to the Appropriations Committee via Clarence Cannon.

Together with the stripping of the Rules Committee of its former tyrannical control of legislation and the strength of the anti-Truman coalition, it means that the House will be a more democratic and representative body than it has been since the advent of the Roosevelt-Truman regime.

LABOR—Organized labor has begun to behave as if it were ready to call it a political working day with President Truman and the Democratic Party. The sharpest attacks on his recent policies and appointments have stemmed from union leaders and organizations.

They resent the fact that he has appointed as mobilization aides so many corporation executives whom they regard as conservative, Republican and, in some instances, anti-labor. The railway switchmen accuse John R. Steelman, Mr. Truman's labor adviser, of siding with the companies in their present controversy.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

This is a story of drama in everyday life that started with a Saturday night game of Bonanza. Wife Rachel and I were playing with Martha and Bob Ross, and Faye and Amos Legett. We didn't notice the time when the fire alarm sounded, but we did count it.

Twenty-eight. Fourteenth and Evans. "Well, I declare," Faye said jokingly, "that's Carolina Sales." Faye hoped it was a joke; she's been working at Carolina Sales for the past three years. And Bob Ross has been working for Refrigeration Discount Corporation for a few months, and Redisco's office was joined with Carolina Sales.

We kept on playing Bonanza for an hour. When Faye and Bob walked out of the door and saw the sky lit up they knew that it was Carolina Sales. By that time it was certain that the fire would result in a total loss. Faye and Bob, plus the 59 others who work for Carolina Sales and Redisco, can tell you that it's quite a blow to have the place you work completely demolished.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

GOVERNORS—Two men have been informally but publicly and positively nominated by their friends as candidates for governor in 1952. They are William B. Umstead of Durham and Sam J. Ervin, Jr., of Morganton. A dozen or more others have been casually mentioned as prospects but they lack the evidence of concerted support indicated for the Durham and Morganton statesmen.

SEND-OFF—Numerous times during the election campaign last fall Umstead was presented as a man eminently qualified to be governor and on several occasions other speakers expressed the hope they would have a chance to vote for him. Ervin got a handsome send-off by his homefolks last week. A mass meeting which filled the Burke county courthouse launched a real campaign for his nomination, with plans for organizing "Ervin for Governor Clubs" in that county and throughout the state. It is known that both Umstead and Ervin have been embarrassed to some degree by the zeal of their friends, although each admits sincere appreciation for the expressions of confidence and support. The two men are approximately the same age and comparison of records in public life disclose similarity in experience and qualifications. Both are regarded as reasonable conservatives, without falling into the class of reactionaries.

UMSTEAD—William Umstead was born in Durham county May 13, 1895, attended public schools, graduated from the University of North Carolina and got a law degree from Duke. Has served as solicitor, representative in Congress and United States senator. Managed Gregg Cherry's successful campaign for governor and served for three years as state Democratic chairman. Served with American Expeditionary Forces in World War I. Presently is practicing law in Durham. It is known that he was just about ready to announce his candidacy for governor four years ago when he was offered appointment to the United States senate by Governor Cherry upon the death of Senator Bailey.

Was with American Expeditionary Forces in World War I, was twice wounded in battle and was decorated by the French government.

OTHERS—Students of politics agree that there will almost certainly be at least one other candidate in the field whose appeal would be to the less conservative section of the Democratic party. Very probably there will be several other candidates. Umstead and Ervin would draw their principal support from the same element and a contest between them would hinge largely on the question of geography.

GEOGRAPHY—There are still a good many people who think the east-west rotation plan for governors and east-west allocation of senators should be maintained. They cite the relatively poor showing made by Bob Reynolds for the eastern senate berth as evidence that the voters respect the east-west lines. There is fast growing sentiment, however, for ignoring physical geography and drawing lines on economic and social problems. Proponents of this idea also cite the 1950 senatorial primary vote to support their position. They claim it was not place of residence but the fact that as among the ultra-isolationism of Reynolds, the ultra-internationalism of Graham, and the middle-course of Smith, the voters picked Willis Smith for the position. Admittedly there are twilight zones in economics and social services, in nationalism and internationalism ideologies; but the lines here seem a bit easier to fix than the mythical division between physical east and physical west North Carolina.

What other papers are thinking reports that concrete was being poured in freezing weather, which is not sound building practice. Was that done as part of a scheme to head off adverse legislative action? For our part, we have not been able to see any justification for erecting such a structure at a cost well in excess of one million dollars, now or at any other time. Certainly, at the present level of costs it is an unwise move, and one which was not so urgent that anything would seriously suffer by delay. Present costs of building and the national emergency are abundant grounds for postponement. But there were a lot of influential people who favored the project and between them they saw to it that the air people could jump the gun on the legislature. The legislature, to be sure, appropriated nearly one and a quarter million dollars in 1949 for the coliseum project. But for some reason those responsible for the undertaking waited until after Korea and after rocketing prices set in before getting around to letting the contract. Result was that costs are now so high that the job cannot be done within the range of funds already provided, and probably a couple hundred thousand dollars more at least will have to be made available. Plans had to be drawn, to be sure, after the 1949 appropriation, but that should not have required the better part of two years. The legislature thus has decided to go along. It could hardly do otherwise if irrevocable commitments of around $200,000 had been made, and since the integrity of the State was involved, the State should not have been maneuvered into such a predicament. Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
 Mergers are taking place all over business. There's been an unusual number among banks, advertising agencies, steel companies, real estate companies and retailers.

The draft, manpower shortages, controls on materials, the freeze and higher taxes are contributing to this sharp, new trend in business. A surprising number of mergers in advertising agencies have been announced. The large number of bank mergers in New York have caused state officials to express concern. Several big steel mergers are understood to be under negotiation. Almost every issue of Women's Wear reports negotiations for mergers of retailing institutions. Mergers are increasingly frequent among architectural firms and other professional enterprises.

The draft's impact is this: when young executives or key professional men are called from the reserve, they are often difficult to replace, especially on an indeterminate basis. Affected firms may have to merge to survive.

Manpower shortages are having a similar effect. When two companies each have difficulty in keeping a dozen salesmen on the road, a merger may be the logical solution. "Pooling staffs as well as resources may give the combined company better representation than either had before.

Controls work in other ways. Cutbacks in materials and limits on prices convince many firms that, unless they can get war contracts, normal methods of expanding sales and profits are closed to them. Growth through merger is their only hope.

The certainty of higher taxes is also a stimulus. Companies cannot compensate for the bigger tax bite by increasing prices or reducing wages. Savings can only be made in rent, administrative and executive costs, and then only through the medium of a merger.

The mass of regulations and bureaucracy has another impact. Small companies feel that they cannot keep men in Washington and elsewhere to battle for contracts, to till price lids and deal with government officials. They feel like Laocoon, except they are struggling with red tape instead of serpents. But a merger may give them resources to deal with both bureaucrats and Washington hotel rates.

And some mergers grow out of very practical steps to aid the national defense. A company may have plenty of tools and plant facilities, but not the know-how for production of war materiel. Another company may have the know-how but have scant facilities. A merger can benefit both stockholders and the government.

Hal Boyle's Column

By JIM BECKER (For Hal Boyle)

Suwon, Korea—(AP)—Four hilltops snarled. For each hill a battle raged. Four United Nations units were in action. There was a hill for each to take and shove the allied offensive another notch to the north.

From the fifth of these razor-back hills 10 miles northeast of the destroyed walled city of Suwon this panorama of battle unfolded:

To the left were twin peaks thrusting about 1,300 feet high in front was a taller hill. On the right the most forbidding of the four, a moody sharp-pointed mass that sloped abruptly to the valley floor.

U. S. tanks raked back and pumped their lethal loads into the Chinese crouched in well prepared holes on the four hills. Each time the tanks fired they were enveloped for an instant in a sheet of flame.

There was the high-pitched whine of the mortars. And the whistle of the artillery shells higher up. Pock marks appeared on the hills and then the sound of the blasts carried across the valley. The light bombers droned in. They left swarms of death along the ridges as their bombs exploded one after another in new rows.

The awe-inspiring display of tremendous allied firepower was the first phase of the attack. It was laid on to kill as many Reds as possible in their elaborately camouflaged holes and trenches. Then it was the infantry's turn—the American Doughboys, the Turks, the South Koreans. Their job was to climb the steep hills and pry out of their holes the Chinese who were left.

Strangely the attack reached its height when the pounding, the blasting had almost died down. Col. Carlton Rogers, chief of the Food Service Division, showed me the following Revolutionary War issue established by Congress Nov. 4, 1775:

"Per man—beef 16 ounces, flour 16 ounces, peas seven ounces, milk 16 ounces, rice a little more than an ounce, one quart of spruce beer, a small bit of candle, a piece of soap.

The basic ration for the War of 1812 consisted of the following, with a bit of rum replacing the spruce beer of the Revolutionary War:

Beef 20 ounces, flour 18 ounces, vinegar one gill, a smidgen of salt, a smidgen of soap, an even smaller portion of candle. Since there were no leavening ingredients, a man couldn't make bread or biscuit. He didn't eat vegetables either unless he picked them up on his way.

During the Civil War the basic ration consisted of: beef 20 ounces, flour 18 ounces, a fraction of an ounce of yeast powder, a little more than two ounces of dry beans, a little more than one ounce of yeast powder, a little more than two ounces of dry beans, a little more than one ounce of green coffee, 2.4 ounces of sugar, a spot of vinegar, a pinch of salt and black pepper, soap and candle.

Collins Says Improved U.S. Weapons To Overcome Deficiency In Manpower

Washington, Feb. 6—(AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins declares it is not necessary to match Russia "division for division" because with new weapons and techniques the U. S. Army could "deal with" hordes of men and masses of tanks coming across Europe.

One of the new weapons, which the Army Chief of Staff cited as being "not many years" away, is a guided missile with an atomic warhead.

In a copyrighted interview with the magazine "U. S. News and World Report" published here, Collins summarized some of the new weapons and lessons learned in Korea. His appraisal of effectiveness of the new weapons was highly optimistic.

In effect, Collins outlined a new battle pattern based strongly on new weapons and techniques, but still far from being a blueprint for so-called "pushbutton" warfare.

Its theme as he outlined it is that the new army can outfight far larger force not similarly equipped.

In backing his contentions, Collins disclosed that the army is "working with the Air Force on the business of having enough transports of the proper types, so that we can move one division (approximately 18,000 to 20,000 men) by air in one lift."

In preparation for possible use of such a huge air movement, the Chief of Staff said, "we're training our infantry divisions in what we call 'air transportability.'"

With this training, he explained, regular foot troops with everything except "heaviest equipment" could be moved quickly and easily to an airfield seized by advance paratroopers. Then, he added, other transports with fighter cover could bring in the heavy equipment and "you're there."

He said the U. S. now has, in addition to the 3.5 inch bazooka some military men credit with stopping the early tank-led drive in "knocking out the best tank that we know of in the world."

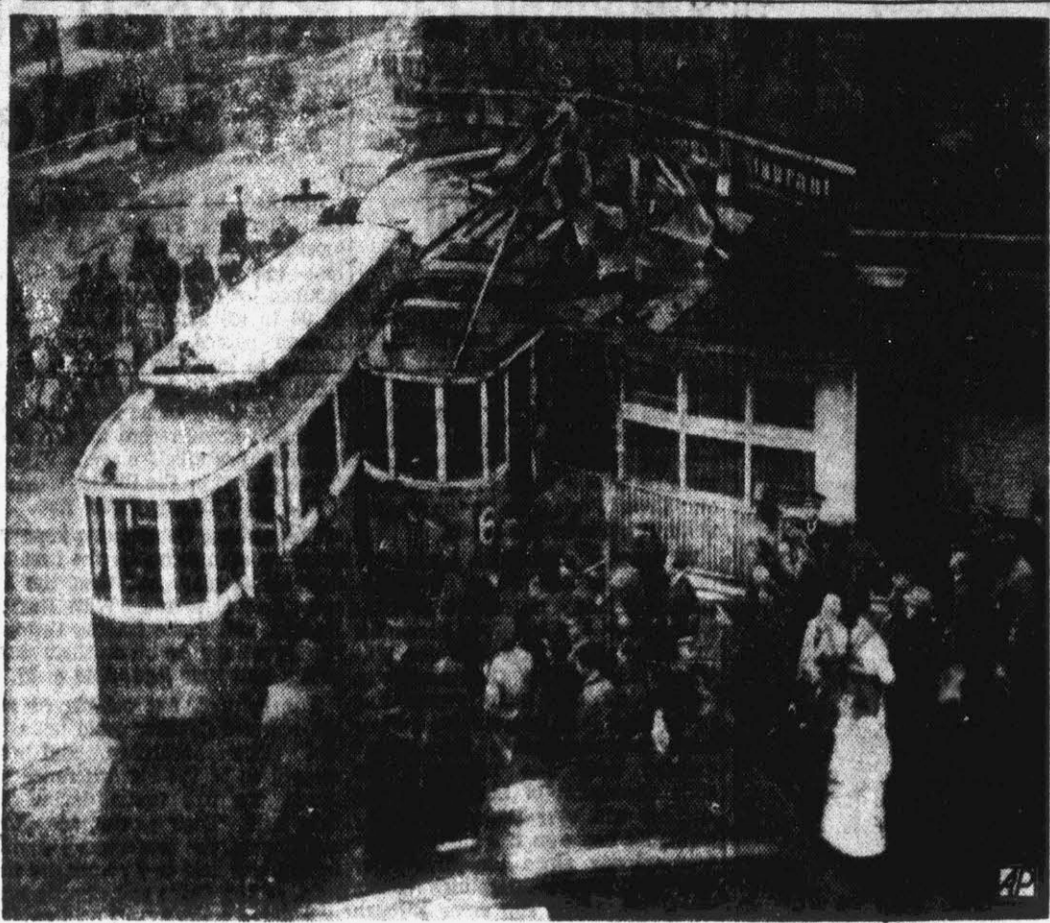

He described a tank grenade fired from a launcher attached to a rifle, with an effective range up to 2,000 yards, and a new anti-tank ammunition fired from normal field artillery at a range up to 12,000 yards "or more."

Collins said the Army would have "within 18 months" some guided missiles which can seek out their target at a night or in bad weather. And he added:

"The guided missile also will eventually carry an atomic warhead, which will be a great asset that I think ultimately can be used perhaps for the defense of Europe, because the guided missile can be brought in with considerable accuracy under certain conditions, relatively close to your troops."

Asked how long he felt it would be before such a weapon is available, Collins replied: "Not many years."

He added that he thought America was "ahead of the rest of the world" in the development of atomic weapons, and "I think we can and will stay ahead."

LUNCH HOUR HALT — This trolley car and its trailer made an unscheduled stop in restaurant of Copenhagen, Denmark, hotel after it derailed descending a long hill.

Of American tanks, Collins said: "So far as I know, not a single new American medium tank has been knocked out by a Russian T-34 tank" in Korea, whereas "those that they have put against us have been knocked out on every occasion."

Lawmakers Take Hand In Dispute Over Controls

Washington, Feb. 5—(AP)—A Senate-House committee today stepped into a top-level government dispute over who is to enforce price controls.

Senator Maybank (D-SC) announced the group will try to settle the argument by having Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle and Attorney General Howard McGrath come before it Wednesday morning to talk over their differences.

Maybank heads the Senate-House "watchdog" committee on economic stabilization.

DiSalle has taken the position that enforcement of price ceilings should be handled by his Office of Price Stabilization (OPS). McGrath contends it is the Justice Department's job.

The question is one of jurisdiction when there is to be formal prosecution of price regulation violators.

Primitive Music Is Tune Hunter's Goal

By GARVEN HUGHINS AP Newsfeatures Writer New York—New songs of freedom are drowning out the temple bells in Southeast Asia, says Laura Boulton, just back from a 14-month tour of the area.

The tour was the 15th expedition made by the red-haired explorer to collect primitive music on tape recordings. She thinks the militant music of Asia today is "an indication of a new tidal wave sweeping over that part of the world."

"Ancient, exotic music can still be found in the Far East," Mrs. Boulton states, "but songs of nationalism and independence are everywhere in the air."

She heard the children of rubber tappers on Borneo singing the "Cry of Freedom" of the Indonesian Republic. Other children in Indo-China stood at attention and sang soldiers' marching songs.

Young men and women sang songs complaining of poverty in Nepal. Everywhere in the Orient, today's singing seems to reflect current conditions, Mrs. Boulton asserts.

On her latest trip, Mrs. Boulton rode a pony along the fringes of Tibet, travelled in boats up the rivers of Sarawak, recording the songs of Dyak headhunters, listened to primitive music in India, and rounded out the tour by donning a G.I. helmet and recording marching songs of South Korean soldiers near Seoul. There she also recorded interviews with President Syngman Rhee and with U. S. fighting men.

Mrs. Boulton, a native of Ohio, was launched on her unique career 20 years ago. She was studying music in New York with the concert stage in mind when she received an offer to bring along her tape recorder on an African expedition sponsored by the American Museum of Natural History.

Concert stage ambitions were thereupon thrown aside, a move Mrs. Boulton says she has never regretted.

"It was the golden opportunity," Mrs. Boulton recalls. "I had always wanted to record little-known primitive music at its source, and here was my chance."

Finding primitive music in Africa was no trouble. The people there, Mrs. Boulton declares, will sing at the drop of a hat. They sing when they're working, when they're playing, and, most particularly, when they are observing religious events.

African natives went for the lady's recording equipment in a big way. They had seen white men fly machines, but to talk into a small mouthpiece, then hear words played back, was certain evidence that the whites had an inside track with tribal gods.

When she got home from the African journey, Mrs. Boulton hurried out to the University of Chicago and settled down to a study of anthropology to gain ethnological background for future expeditions.

She was soon off on other trips to Africa, then to the Arctic, where she recorded native music of the eskimos, to the Caribbean, where she transcribed the savage rhythm of Haiti's native music, and to the western U. S. on a project sponsored by the Interior Department.

Other sponsors of Mrs. Boulton's expeditions include the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago, the University of California, where she was an instructor at one time, the University of Chicago, and the Canadian Government, which backed a study trip to the Canadian Northwest.

Police Report Sunday Collision Greenville police reported one traffic accident Sunday night when a truck driven by Roy Sutton, 42, of 1100 Chestnut street, collided with the rear of an automobile driven by Mrs. Bessie Jones James of 1301 Glenn Arthur Ave.

The collision occurred at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Grande Ave.

The police report said the car and the truck were traveling in the same direction and had the green light, when another automobile came across the intersection. Mrs. James stopped suddenly to avoid hitting the other automobile, and the truck crashed into the rear of her car. No arrests were made in connection with the accident.

Navy Recruiter Lists Pitt Men Recently Signed

Navy Recruiter Chief A. E. Cahoon, today released the names of 12 Pitt county men who have been accepted for enlistment in the Navy and sent to the U. S. Naval Training Center at San Diego, California.

The men will receive about nine weeks of recruit training prior to being assigned to a trade school or to a duty station.

Chief Cahoon also reminded young men of the county that there is still room in the Navy for young men, although some delay might be encountered in entering due to the large number of enlistees which the Navy induction centers are now receiving.

It is hoped that in the next few weeks the backlog will be cleared and speedy enlistment again made possible.

The names of the Pitt County Navy recruits are as follows:

Joseph J. Allgood, son of Mr. C. J. Allgood of 116 Woodlawn Ave., Greenville, N. C.

James P. Cox, Son of Mr. D. L. Cox of Route 2, Greenville, N. C.

Carl B. Denton, Son of Mr. A. T. Denton, of 207 Pitt St., Greenville, N. C.

James H. Ward, Jr. Son of Mr. J. H. Ward of 208 E. 10th St., Greenville, N. C.

Edward M. Bowling, Son of Mr. R. H. Bowling of Route 1, Farmville, N. C.

Samuel E. Haddock, Son of Mr. F. E. Haddock of Winterville, N. C.

Hubert V. Stocks, Son of Mrs. Rena Stocks of Winterville, N. C.

Rolmus H. Mason, Jr. Son of Mr. R. H. Mason of 316 Blvd. Ave., Ayden, N. C.

Lloyd (Doug) Allen, Son of Mr. Lloyd Allen of 2717 Dickerson Ave., Greenville, N. C.

Organize To Aid Young Cripples

Milwaukee, Wis.—(AP)—A national organization to aid crippled children after their release from hospitals has been established here by members of the Masonic Order.

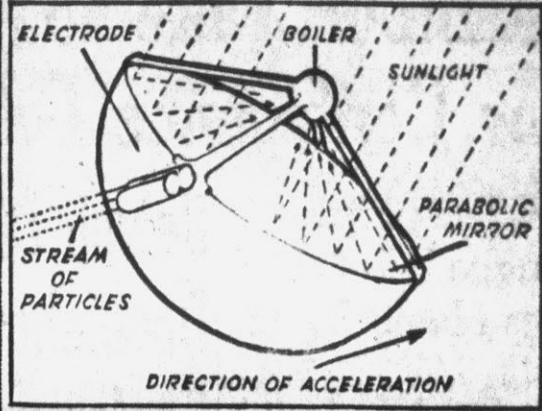

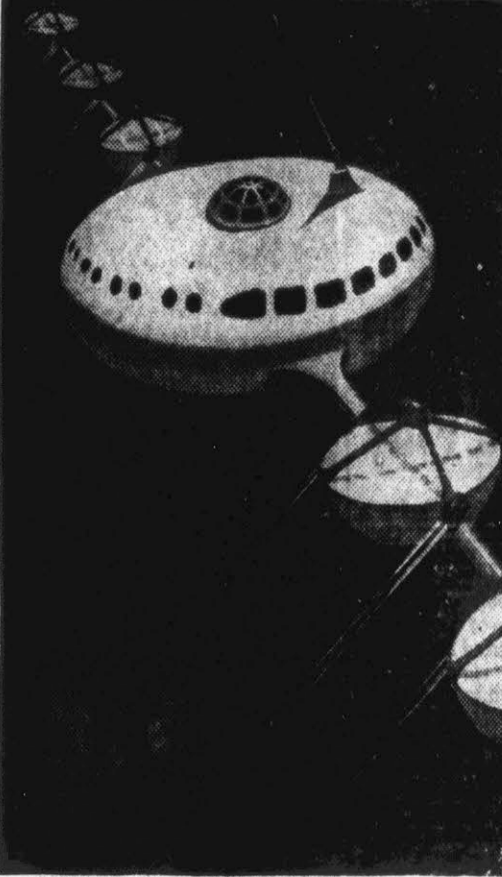

The organization proposes to supervise the rehabilitation and education of crippled children throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico regardless of race, color or creed. Funds to carry out the program will be obtained through voluntary gifts, bequests and contributions.

Other sponsors of Mrs. Boulton's expeditions include the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago, the University of California, where she was an instructor at one time, the University of Chicago, and the Canadian Government, which backed a study trip to the Canadian Northwest.

Defense Job For Welfare Units Raleigh, Feb. 5—(AP)—State welfare agencies will handle many important duties in the event of an air attack on North Carolina.

This was reported yesterday by Dr. Ellen Winston, State Commissioner of Public Welfare. She said State Welfare superintendents have been alerted to the need for planning their department's role in the nation's civil defense program.

'Eternal Flight' Envisioned For Space Ships Of Future

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE AP Science Editor New York—Electric winds to drive interplanetary space ships are proposed by Prof. Hermann Oberth, the foremost living authority on rocket ships.

Electric winds are the invisible particles which fly off from an electrode, while electric current is on. An electrode is a piece of metal, frequently copper or silver, capable of carrying a lot of current.

The particles are atomic in size, which means that they fly off from the electrodes for years, without an apparent diminution in the size of the piece of metal.

That fact is well known. But Oberth proposes its use in a new and startling way. He is in Germany, where he is honorary president of the German Space Travel Society. His engineering plans are told in the magazine Radio-Electronics.

Candle Demonstrates Winds You can, Oberth says, set the sharp point of an electrode close to a lighted candle. When the current is turned on, a wind from the candle-point will blow off the flame.

The wind is ordinary air pushed by the stream of invisible atomic particles from the electrode point. This sort of wind, Prof. Oberth says, is of no use for driving a ship in the earth's atmosphere, because the wind is too weak.

But out in space, with no atmosphere to retard them, these particles will take off much faster. Each tiny takeoff will give a "kick" in the opposite direction, to the electrode from which the particle comes.

Would Use Rocket Power Now comes the daring new thought. The faster the take-off of a particle, the greater is its thrust or kick. And if you get the particles moving fast enough Oberth says they will drive a ship despite their scarcity.

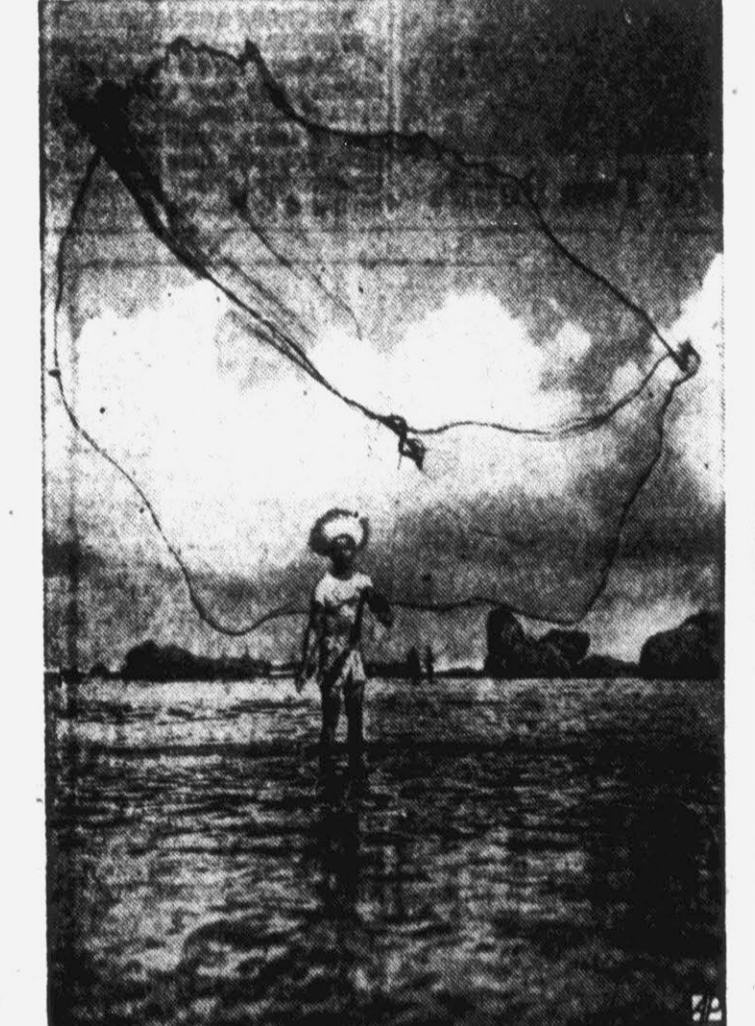

The electrodes must have an endless supply of electric current. Oberth's design shows this can be done by using the sun's heat on bowl-shaped mirrors to generate electricity. In interplanetary space there is no gravitation, a fact which Oberth uses cleverly to build a ship of light weight, and able to keep flying, in any direction it chooses, for years at a time.

Could Never Land This design is probably the first nearly practical space ship. It cannot take off from earth. It cannot land on any planet. But Oberth says it will be able to carry space boats, which are smaller ships for landing and take-off.

How to get this ship out into space in the first place? It will have to be built out there, by men on man-made satellites, which will be small moons shot off the earth by space-rockets. This step-rocket and satellite engineering has been under way for 20 years, and the first one was the "Wac Corporal" shot off the nose of a German V-2, at White Sands, New Mexico. The "Wac Corporal" rose to about 250 miles.

Rocket engineers believe that the first satellite (the nose of some such rocket) is not many years away.

Phantoms Take To Road For Conference Game

Will Seek Fifth League Win On Foes Home Court

Greenville's Phantoms will travel to Elizabeth City tonight to take on the strong Yellow Jacket five in a Northeast Conference encounter.

Coach Bo Farley's up and coming cagers will be trying to get back into the win column on this road trip, after losing to the Washington Pam Pack last Friday night. The local cagers won one and lost one in last week's conference play. They took a conference win over New Bern Bears on the home court 43 to 24.

Coach Farley will probably start his usual starting line-up which will find Dillingham and Higgs with Aman and Scott at the guard posts.

A victory tonight would give the local cagers their fifth conference win and would strengthen their hold on fourth place in the conference standings.

Reserve Strength Will Help Phillies In 1951

By EDDIE SAWYER, Phils' Manager Philadelphia, Feb. 6—(AP)—Will the Philadelphia Phils repeat in 1951?

That's a question nobody can answer as no one can predict anything with any certainty. That is, not while the military situation remains the way it is.

Total mobilization would affect us to a great extent. We have a young, vulnerable ball club, with a large percentage of our players under 25 years of age.

I would say that pitching remains our greatest strength for the coming season. We still have Robin Roberts, our 20-game winner last year; Jim Konstanty, the greatest relief pitcher in baseball today; Bob Miller and Bubba Church; and left-hander Kenny Heintzelman, a good experienced hand.

I am also hoping to get some pitching help from such youngsters like Buck Brittin, Paul Stuffer and Steve Riddick. All these boys are up from Toronto. Despite so-so records with a seventh place club, they impressed our scouts.

It is no secret that our team's basic weakness last year was lack of reserve strength. You may remember Dick Sisler playing with his wrist taped during the final tough two weeks, and Andy Seminick limping badly right through the series, with what proved to be

Belvoir Divides Doubleheader In Conference Play

Belvoir and Grimesland split a doubleheader in Pitt County Conference play, as the Grimesland boys won 43 to 38, over the Belvoir cagers, and the Belvoir girls beat the Grimesland girls 44 to 28.

Claudia Pollard scored 18 points to lead her team to victory, with Nadin Morris following close behind with 15 points. Mazingo was high scorer for the losing Grimesland sextet with 13 markers, followed by Daniels, who hit for six.

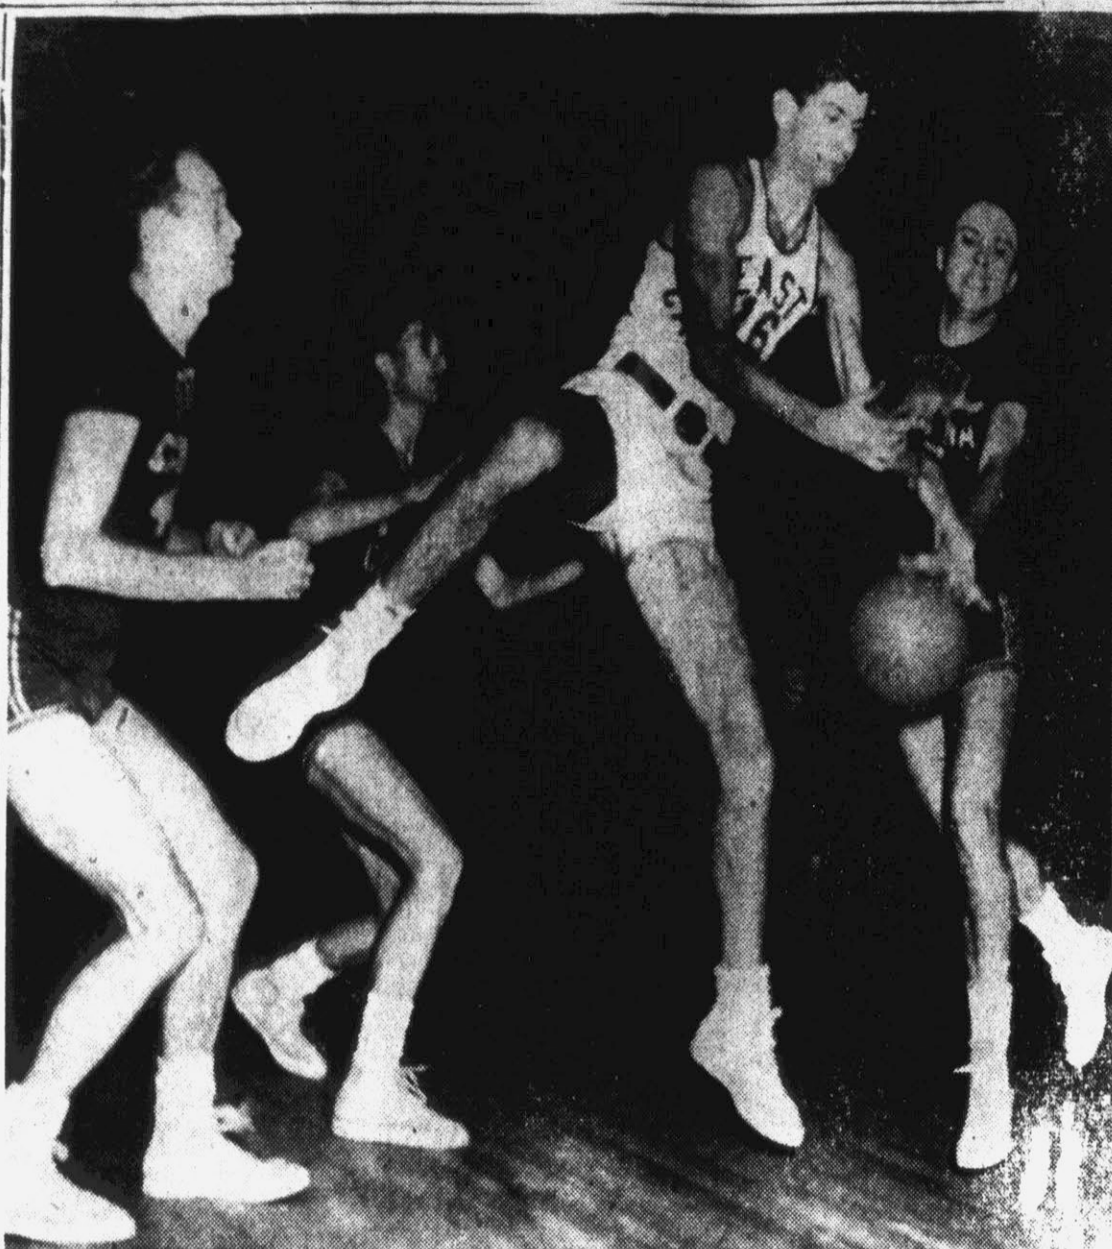

In the boys game, Garris was the games high scorer as he got 11 points in a losing cause for the Belvoir boys. E. Reed was high scorer for the winners with nine points, followed by Paul Manning, who got seven.

Kentucky Holds To Top-Pack 10th

New York, Feb. 6—(AP)—Kentucky gained new support today as the country's No. 1 college basketball team and lost a serious challenger when Long Island University dropped completely out of the top ten.

These were the principal developments in the Associated Press eighth weekly poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Of the 168 who cast ballots, 78 named the Wildcats the best in the nation. The No. 2 team, Oklahoma A. and M. received only 15 first place votes.

Last week the Wildcats polled 42 first place votes and the Aggies 31. Kentucky received 1239 points in the latest poll, which is figured on the basis of ten for a No. 1 vote, nine for second, etc. The Aggies, who drew heavy support in the second and third brackets, collected 1100 points.

The main shakeup saw the LIU Blackbirds, who lost four of five games on their recent western trip tumbled from fourth to 12th.

Villanova, winner of 16 out of 17 games, moved into the first ten, taking over the No. 9 position. The Philadelphians were 11th a week ago. This created the first break in the top ten in three weeks.

Here's the new roll-up of basketball might: Kentucky, Oklahoma A and M, Indiana, Kansas State, E. Ivey, Columbia, St. Johns of Brooklyn, St. Louis, Villanova and North Carolina State.

Four Pirates Are Among First 25 In NS Scoring

A run down of the scoring in the North State Conference shows four East Carolina players among the top scorers in the conference.

Sonny Russell is high man from the Buc team. He is currently resting in tenth place in a field of twenty five. He has scored a total of 228 points in 16 games, for an average of 14.1 per contest. Charlie Huffman is in 11th place with a total of 221 points in 16 games for an average of 13.8. Next is Bobby Hodges, who has a total of 176 points for 13 games and an average of 13.6. Today Fennell is also rating in the first twenty five. He has gathered a total of 150 points in 16 games for an average of 9.4 per game.

Here is a list of the top 25 scorers in the North state conference including games played to date:

Deac Baseballers To Argentine

Wake Forest, N. C. Feb. 6—(AP)—The crack Wake Forest College baseball team will represent the United States in the first Pan-American games at Buenos Aires, Argentina, Feb. 25-March 8.

College officials announced yesterday that the Demon Deacons had accepted an invitation to participate in the tournament. The trip probably will be the longest ever undertaken by a Southern Conference baseball team.

Williamson, East Carolina Boxer Fights Tonight

Crowell Williamson, the solidly built East Carolina welterweight champion, will fight tonight in the Golden Gloves tournament being held in Charlotte.

In his last fight, last Friday night at Wilmington, he won his 55th amateur fight of his boxing career when he won a three round decision over Crow Peele, one of the leading welterweights in the south.

Williamson started his boxing career while in high school in Whiteville, and has hung up an enviable record over the last four years. His coach in high school was Joe Williams, former East Carolina boxer.

Some of the more outstanding fights that the 19-year-old sophomore has won was a three round decision over Jim Briggman, the state champion of South Carolina, and his win over Peele last Friday night. He has won five golden gloves tournaments since his first entry into the annual Carolina boxing marathon. If he can come through with another championship in this year's event, he will go to New York as a member of an eight man boxing team to represent the two Carolinas in the national finals.

Williamson's coach, Johnny Leng, who was boxing coach at the college until the sport was dropped, says that his prize pupil is in the best shape of his life, and has been training hard for this event. He feels confident that Williamson will come through in fine style at Charlotte tonight. Although he will not be representing the college, he has the support of the entire student body behind him and everyone is hoping that he will bring the golden gloves championship back to the local campus.

Russell Scores 35 To Set New Record

Sparked by Sonny Russell, the East Carolina Pirates went on a scoring rampage last night to defeat the Western Carolina Catamounts by the overwhelming score of 98 to 69, before the home fans. Russell poured in an amazing 35 points, to lead the Pirates to their sixth North State Conference victory. In doing so he set a new individual scoring record for any East Carolina basketball player. The 98 points scored by the Pirates was also a new high for any Pirate five.

The visiting Catamounts kept the game on even terms for the first ten minutes of play, and then the Pirates started to roll. With Russell, Hodges, and Collie leading the way the Bucs began to hit on their shots, and a half time lead of 48 to 37.

The spirited, but out-played and out-manned Cat five could not control either backboard, and this seemed to be the big difference between the two teams during the first half. Their scoring ace, Ronald Rogers, the conference's scoring leader, was held to 7 points the first half, as Lou Collie and Charlie Fennell did a great job of holding him down to his lowest scoring level of the season.

Bobby Hodges, playing one of his best games of the year, was outstanding under the backboards, recovering most of the rebounds from both ends of the court. He also representing the college, he has the support of the entire student body behind him and everyone is hoping that he will bring the golden gloves championship back to the local campus.

scored 17 points to come in second in the Pirate scoring. He made good on eight straight free throws before missing, and hit a total of 9 out of 11 for the night. Charlie Huffman also played an outstanding floor game and dropped in 13 points to help the Pirate cause. Lou Collie, with 13, and Fennell with 10 were the other scoring leaders for the Pirates.

Ned Straehla was the big gun for the Catamounts, collecting a big 25 points to lead the scoring for the visitors. Rogers hit for 16 points, and Martin tossed in eight in a losing cause for the Catamounts.

The two teams will meet again tonight in the second of the two game set.

Former Baseball Figure Is Dead

Joplin, Mo., Feb. 6—(AP)—Charles Gabby Street, former major and minor league baseball player and manager, died today. He was 68. Street, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals in the early 1930s, had been in a weakened condition since an operation last summer. Mrs. Street was at his bedside in a hospital when he died at 6:55 a.m. (EST).

Groat Leading In Scoring Race

Richmond, Va., Feb. 6—(AP)—Dick (The Great) Groat, perhaps the greatest basketball player in Duke University history, today sidestepped a couple of other aces to take over the Southern Conference individual scoring lead.

The six-foot Swissave, Pa. junior, has an average of 26.8-points per game for 11 conference contests. Groat has collected 96 field goals and 103 free tosses.

A week ago, Groat was third—behind South Carolina's Jimmy Slaughter and North Carolina State's Sammy Ranzino. He had a spectacular week, pouring 98 points through the hoops in three conference outings.

Slaughter is in second place with an average of even 26. Ranzino lags in third with 24.6.

Chapter 31

Molly calmed down a little, relieved that Patricia had spared her the crowning humiliation. She even managed to laugh when she said in a determined attempt to be facetious:

"It's never too late to reform." Peter did not laugh with her; his face had become serious, his dark eyes thoughtful. "I came here to thank you for the wonderful help you've been giving us. I didn't come here to tell you I love you..."

Molly, taken aback by this seemingly irrelevant announcement, broke in to say, "Of course not. Why should you?"

Peter picked up where he had left off. "...But I am telling you I love you. I don't know why I was so long finding it out. It's so right - and the Patricia fiasco was so completely wrong. I shouldn't be hectoring in like this, knowing you're Bert's girl. And knowing you've never liked me so much..."

"But I'm not Bert's girl. That's over. I knew all the time it was wrong. I - well, I guess I just wasn't cut out to be a playgirl." Peter, still unsure of his ground, was slow on the uptake, so Molly added impulsively:

"I must have known all the time it was you I loved. Otherwise I wouldn't have hated you so much." A miracle had happened and it was not in her nature to question it or to be coy.

"Hated me?" Peter's jaw dropped. "I didn't know it was that bad. And I still don't know what you mean. You love me because if you act quick, February 9 is the deadline. See or call J. B. Smith, Jr., Phone 2401 day, 3486 night. 1-6

Jewish Board To Seek Chaplains

New York, Feb. 5. (AP)—The National Jewish Welfare Board has worked out a program for a "voluntary draft" of rabbis into the armed forces as chaplains.

Rabbi Aryeh Lev, director of the board's religious activities, said yesterday eight rabbis will enter the armed services this month.

Rabbi Lev said the draft would hit younger men who were in theological seminaries during the war. He added that only those 33 years of age and single, or married but childless, were being considered.

Items Have Sale, Delivery Halted

Washington, Feb. 5. (AP)—The government today froze until March 15 all sales and deliveries of cattle hides, calfskins and kips. The step was taken pending establishment of government controls to assure military supplies.

The National Production Authority, which issued the order, said it applies to priority orders for the armed forces as well as other purchases.

Lawmakers Study Snyder Outline Of Tax Approach To Meet Income Needs

Washington, Feb. 6—(AP)—Congress today studies a rough Treasury outline of what may be involved in a $6,500,000,000 "second bite" follow up to an initial $10,150,000,000 in new taxes the Administration wants this year.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, in advocating a two-phase approach toward raising the $16,500,000,000 in new revenues President Truman has asked to balance the budget, gave details only on the first phase.

He suggested heavy increases in individual and corporate income taxes, along with sharply boosted excise and capital gains taxes. As the way to raise the first $10,150,000,000.

What Congress would do about even the first bill remained uncertain. While it had been known how much revenue the administration would seek, there was something of a shock in seeing the details spelled out in black and white.

The proposals Snyder outlined call for about one-fifth more income taxes from the little fellow, along with stiff hikes in the excise taxes on such things as new automobiles, liquor, beer, cigarettes, radios, refrigerators and many other consumer items.

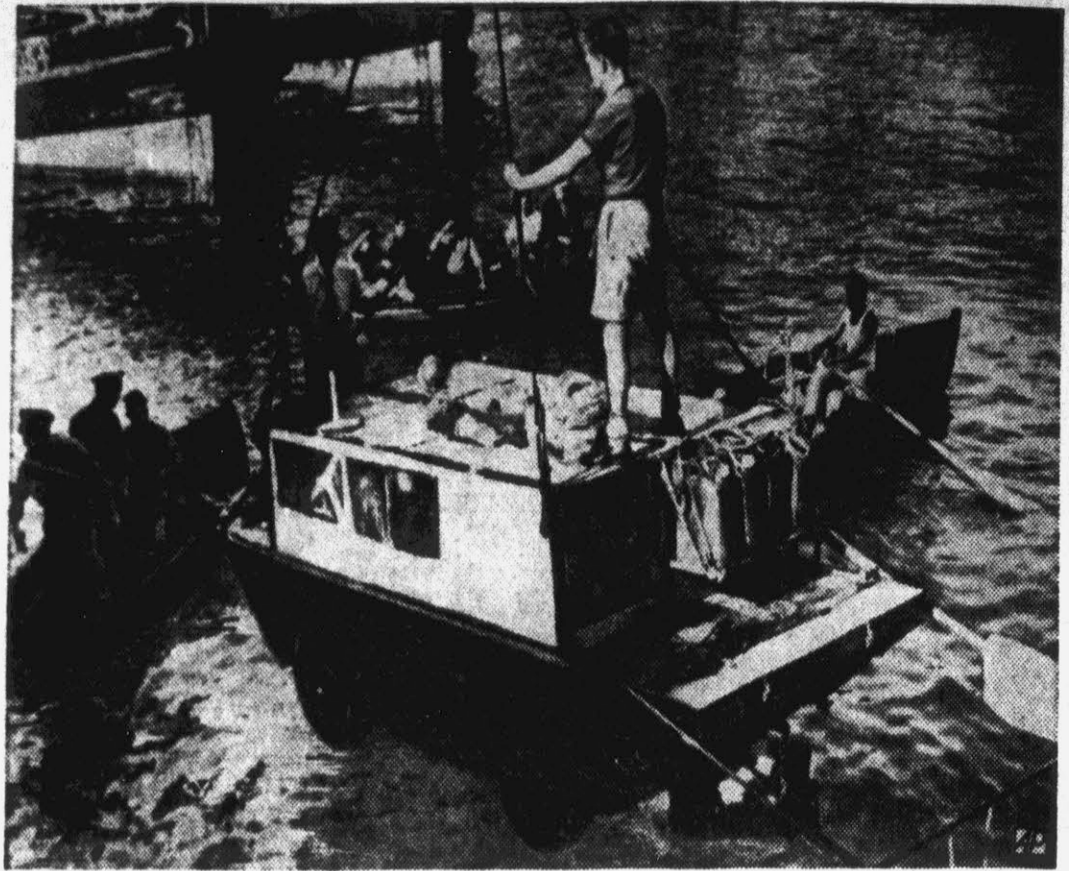

Most lawmakers were inclined to agree with Snyder's appraisal of the program: "rather rugged." Snyder was unwilling to give the House Ways and Means committee much detail yesterday on how the Treasury proposes to raise the additional $6,500,000,000.

Many legislators have advocated that the new revenue be raised in one bill, rather than two. Others have urged that Congress take no action until it has at least a pretty good idea of how much money it will vote to run the government before it acts on new taxes.

Snyder indicated he thinks that would be a mistake. He said it would result in undue delay. He asked that the tax boosts be made retroactive to Jan. 1. Congress in the past has been reluctant to make taxes retroactive, especially those on individual incomes.

Pressed for some proposals on a second bill, Snyder noted he had advocated that Congress close certain "loopholes" in present tax laws. That, he said, could produce $1,500,000,000 toward the $6,500,000,000 second tax bill goal.

Then, he added, "we might go further into excise taxes, we might review excess profits taxes, and a number of adjustments might have to be made in the individual income tax area."

Americanism Week Activities Readied By Jaycee Committee

Plans for conducting activities during Americanism Week, which begins next Monday, were drawn up last night by the Junior Chamber of Commerce committee on Americanism.

During the week, public interest programs will be conducted by the youth of the city in conjunction with older residents, both groups joining to commemorate seven specially-designated days of the week. They are Freedom Day, Monday; Citizenship, Tuesday; Ownership, Wednesday; Freedom of the Press, Thursday; Community or Civic Responsibility, Friday; Youth, Saturday; and Go To Church Day, Sunday.

The Jaycee program for the week is being planned by committee chairman William H. Watson and Claude Taylor, Louis Gaylord Jr., and Warren Aldridge. Meeting with the committee last night were Gordon Stumm, representing the Greenville theaters; G. H. Frye, high school; John Spinks, newspaper; Henry L. Brown, Red Cross; O. E. Dowd, Lions Club; Dan Salsed, Jaycees; and A. Hartwell Campbell, radio.

No definite plans were laid out during the meeting. However, it was recommended that high school groups participate in a radio program carrying out some thought about Americanism. Too, it was suggested the press, radio and theaters carry certain facets of Americanism in their regular outlets during the week. For Sunday, the final day of the week, it was suggested the pastors of the city deliver sermons on the theme.

The original idea came from a small town in Texas which demonstrated what life under state control was like when all the public functions were taken over by the "Reds."

Cleveland County Folks Gather Operation Fund

Shelby, Feb. 6—(AP)—Cleveland county people—mostly plain working folks—today had built a stream of small donations into $2,500 to provide an operation for an afflicted child.

The money was sent in in small amounts by black and white people to pay for an operation upon a four-year-old Billy Lowery, son of a Shelby cop. A serious heart ailment has crippled the child. His fingers and toes are clubbed. He can hardly walk across the room before collapsing.

The brown-eyed, red-haired youngster was born with a malformed heart. For three years the parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lowery, had saved what money they could. They hoped to pay for an operation on Billy, their only child.

Several weeks ago Billy was stricken with spinal meningitis. That illness cut the Lowerys' savings from $850 to about $40. Billy was paralyzed and blinded for several days by that attack, but he recovered from both.

The Shelby Daily Star last Thursday printed a story about the plight of Billy and his parents. The news story made no appeal for contributions. But the money started rolling in, anyway. It flooded in in small denominations.

Today the fund passed $2,500.

Woman Dies Of Bullet Wound

Farmville, Feb. 6—Mrs. May Dale Watson, 32, of near Farmville, died yesterday afternoon of a self-inflicted bullet wound. Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse reported this morning.

Rouse stated that the woman died around 4:30 from a 32 calibre pistol wound in the heart.

The woman is survived by her husband and one son.

Another Cold Blast Is Aimed At Midwest

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
Another blast of snow and cold and strong winds whipped across the northern plains into Minnesota today and headed for other parts of the winter-weary Midwest.

Blizzard conditions prevailed in the eastern Dakotas and northern Minnesota. Temperatures were below zero. Freshly fallen snow was blown by winds up to 35 miles an hour. The cold also hit parts of the eastern Rocky Mountain region. It was -14 at Dickinson, N.D., and -10 in Bismarck, N.D.

Heavy snow was in prospect from northeastern Iowa to Lake Superior. Rain and snow was forecast from the southern Great Lakes to the middle Mississippi Valley. Colder weather was forecast for the entire north central region.

Much of the eastern half of the nation had comparatively mild weather early today as temperatures moderated after last week's blustery cold weather. Rain fell in many parts of the middle Mississippi Valley and southeastward into Texas but skies were clear over much of the eastern third of the country. The severe cold and ice storms caused millions of dollars in damage to livestock, crops and property in the southern states last week.

More rain fell in northwest California and in western Oregon. About 10,000 acres of bottomlands in northern California was flooded by the Eel River.

Flood waters from the Tombigbee River menaced Columbus, Miss.

Find Liquor On Person, In House In Surprise Raid

A surprise raid early last night by local law enforcement officers resulted in the arrest of a 50-year-old Negro woman on charges of possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for purpose of sale.

Arrested was Maggie Strickland, of 603 Pamlico Avenue. ABC Officers J. M. Ward, Claude Manning, J. R. Taylor, and Det. Lt. M. E. Corbett reported that they found a quantity of liquor in her house, in fact on her person.

One pint of bootleg liquor was discovered on the woman as she was being taken to jail for booking, when it fell out onto the floor.

The woman was booked under a $300 bond by the officers. Officer Ward reported that the woman was arrested in 1941 when a raiding party found about five gallons of the illegal spirits in her house.

out of proportion. He stated if new homes, built by small-salaried persons, were re-valued the whole program would get out of proportion.

The commissioners took no action on the proposal. F. F. Hendrix, commissioner from Greenville, stated the board will probably consider the issue at its next regular meeting in March. In the meantime, however, the board will have to meet to act on certain legislative matters.

Alderman R. E. Rogers stated the only impartial way to re-value the county would be to hire a board from outside the county to do the job. It is being done in Wayne County, he said. Stafford stated a re-valuation is being undertaken in Pamlico County at the present time, done by a board appointed by the county commissioners there.

much of the ground they ranged Monday in the biggest tank assault of the Korean war.

The powerful United Nations armored columns — one of which prowled within five miles of Seoul — had withdrawn Monday night south of Anyang. During the night, Chinese Reds firing small arms and mortars infiltrated the allied lines. But the allied tank-infantry task forces regrouped at dawn in deserted Anyang and probed north and northwest out of the village.

Deep In Red Lines
In Monday's action, five tank columns jabbed deep into Red-held territory, shot up communist strong-points and killed hundreds of Red troops before pulling back.

An Eighth Army officer said allied ground forces killed or wounded 7,365 Reds in Monday's flaming action. This brought to nearly 97,000 the number of enemy casualties claimed since the allies launched their limited offensive Jan. 5.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Eighth Army commander, said allied forces have inflicted casualties at a rate as high as 100 to 1 since late January.

1040 Short Form, gets an automatic deduction of about 10 per cent of his income for expenses allowed by law, like hospital bills or charitable contributions.

He doesn't have to claim it. If he uses the table in the 1040 Short Form to find his tax, the deduction already is allowed for in the table.

If he uses Form 1040-A, letting the collector figure the tax for him, the deduction already is allowed for in the table which the collector uses to figure the tax. But suppose your deductible expenses actually ran to more than 10 per cent although your income was under $5,000.

In that case you'd lose money by using Form 1040-A or the 1040 Short Form where the most you get is around 10 per cent. Instead, use the 1040 Long Form.

There, although you have to go to the trouble of figuring your tax, you can claim in full all the deductions you think you're entitled to.

The under-$5,000 people using the 1040 long form to claim unusually large deductions will have to itemize them but that's the only way they can claim them.

stories and mines. The importance of the Ruhr may perhaps be best summed up by saying that it was largely responsible for Germany being able to launch two world wars: only a generation apart—and come close to winning them. Small wonder that Germany's future is a matter of vital importance to both the western allies and to Russia; equally small wonder that Germany's future is one of the greatest bones of contention between the Soviet bloc and the Democracies.

Before the war the Ruhr was producing three-fourths of Germany's total coal output and it is said to contain half the reserves of continental Europe. And in 1938, just before the war, its rolled steel output was almost the combined total of the rest of Europe outside England and Russia.

For example: Your income was $4,025. Of that, $4,000 was in wages from which full tax was withheld. The other $25 was in fees. You could not use Form 1040-A. You could use the 1040 Short Form.

The 1040 Short Form. If your income was under $5,000 but of such a kind that you can't use Form 1040-A, then you can use the 1040 Short Form. It's used mostly by those under-$5,000 people who didn't have the full tax or any tax withheld from their 1950 income.

But why should anyone, whose income was under $5,000 want to bother using the more difficult 1040 Long Form where he has to figure his own tax?

Anyone with under $5,000 in come, using Form 1040-A or the
