Price 'Stability' Seen By Summer

DiSalle Expects General Price Level To Continue Rise Until Mid-Summer; OPS To Supplant Initial Price Freeze With New Orders

Washington, Feb. 12—(AP)—Michael V. DiSalle, the government's Price Director, said today he expects the general price level to go up another "five or six per cent, or even worse" before some degree of stability is achieved, probably about mid-summer.

"I am in complete disagreement with some of the economists who say that maybe in five months we'll have a three-point rise," DiSalle said. "I think it's going to be higher than that. X X X."

"I'd be tickled to death if by June or July we would begin to see some results of stability. I'm no optimist about what is going to happen."

As DiSalle expressed this view in a copyrighted interview with the magazine "U. S. News and World Report," growing dissatisfaction with progress of the economic stabilization program on the part of big segments of organized labor piled up new headaches for him and wage controls officials.

DiSalle indicated that his Office of Price Stabilization (OPS), will move as rapidly as it can to supplant the initial price freeze, at peak levels in the Dec. 19-Jan. 25 period, with specific regulations for each industry.

At present, he said, there is "a very real freeze, but the longer we keep it that way the more some people are going to be hurt by it." He added, however, that the time when most fields can be covered by specific orders is five or six months away.

He said, as he has before, that he believes the most effective type of price control fair to both business and consumers is one which fixes profit margins. He said he is thinking of allowing each industry to pick its own profit margin, based on some period before the outbreak of the Korean war, and allow it to add that to its costs.

At the same time, he said, he anticipates "some pretty good roll-backs" of prices in particular fields, especially in basic materials. DiSalle said his office has not yet been given authority to ration goods or have rationing books printed, and he added:

"Right at the moment supplies seem to be ample in all fields and we don't anticipate the need for that at the moment. Meat might be the first item we would have some trouble with."

He said subsidies to producers may be advisable to keep down prices of a few commodities like copper, but that subsidies on food costs "might involve some opposition on the (Capitol) Hill."

Trucks Wanted

The Junior Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of Americanism Week is sending out an urgent call today for owners of trucks to volunteer their vehicles for use in Friday's Community Day parade.

The trucks will be used to carry floats for the parade Friday morning. At the present time only a few vehicles have been volunteered. H. L. Lewis, in charge of arrangements, stated this morning.

The parade promises to be a gala affair, one of the largest ever held in Greenville. Eight or ten bands have been promised for the occasion, including the Cherry Point Marine Corps band. Other school bands, both white and colored, will join the parade at McGowan's Warehouse on Dickinson Avenue and march to the courthouse for a short ceremony there.

The Colombo Project

Development Of Poverty-Ridden Countries Of South And Southeast Asia Is Goal Of Meeting In Ceylon Today; Natural Difficulties Facing Plan

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

This is the day set for an organizational meeting in Colombo, Ceylon, of the ambitious "Colombo Plan," inaugurated by British Commonwealth countries for development of poverty-ridden countries of south and southeast Asia.

America has agreed to participate in this project, which aims at bettering the conditions of some 570,000,000 people—a quarter of all humanity—who live in this important area. Untold millions of these folk never have known anything but hunger and other deprivations.

The plan was devised by British Commonwealth countries of south and southeast Asia in cooperation with Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the United Kingdom. Already in the plan are Ceylon, India, Pakistan, Malaya, Singapore, North Borneo, Brunei and Sarawak. Also invited are Burma, Indo-China, Indonesia and Thailand.

All these countries lie in that vast Asiatic theater which has become a vital battle ground between Communism and the Democracies.

Granite Quarry Bank Robbed By Trio Of Gunmen

Between $35,000 And $40,000 Taken; Get-away Car Found Abandoned

Salisbury, N. C., Feb. 12—(AP)—Three armed white men robbed the Farmers and Merchants bank at Granite Quarry today. Charles W. Brown of the Charlotte FBI office said the trio got away with between $35,000 and $40,000.

The trio, armed with pistols, escaped in an automobile. The State Highway Patrol's radio station here alerted officers over a broad area.

The get-away car was found abandoned at Boston's Crossroads on the old Concord Highway about an hour and one half after the robbery. The license plate on the car was registered in the name of a Kannapolis man.

The three men entered the bank shortly after 9 o'clock. They forced employees in the rear of the bank to come to the front and sit down. While they were seated in front, two men went into the back and obtained the money. The third, meanwhile, kept the bank employees covered with a pistol.

No customers were in the bank at the time of the robbery. Cashier J. E. Fisher, one of five employees in the bank, said that although he did not recognize the unmasked men, one addressed him by his nickname—"Jake."

He said the trio appeared to be between 22 and 25 years of age. Each had a handkerchief wrapped around one hand, Fisher said, apparently to guard against leaving fingerprints.

J. B. McCombs is president of the bank and Dr. C. E. Brown is vice president. Its latest audit showed deposits listed at $1,646,000. Granite Quarry is about five miles south of Salisbury.

Canned Water Is Safety Measure In A-Bomb Raid

Boston, Feb. 12—(AP)—Your only safe drink will be canned water if your city has been A-bombed.

That's the view of Dr. Myer Selby, Boston chemist who says he has invented a way to put up water in cans of convenient size which will keep it sterile for years.

"So far as water supply is concerned, this seems the best solution in atomic warfare," Dr. Selby said.

He explained that in an A-bomb blast the water supply of an area may pick up deadly materials, bits of plutonium or other poisons. Canned water should be kept in buried stockpiles, he says.

Comic Book Is Linked To Death

Granville Ferry, Nova Scotia, Feb. 12—(AP)—A comic book's picturing of a girl held captive was believed responsible today for the self-strangling of 11-year-old Evelyn Halliday.

The child was found dead in her bedroom Saturday. Apparently she had tied herself to the bedpost in imitation of the captive portrayed in a comic book at her feet. A coroner's jury, including a newsstand vendor of such publications, recommended in its verdict of accidental death that such "type of comic book be banned."

It is fertile soil for any developments which promise even a little easement of the suffering populations.

Despite the humanitarian aspects of the project, it calls for skillful handling. It likely will evoke a Communist cry of "western imperialism," and one of the main tasks of the plan's sponsors will be to assure the countries concerned that it isn't in any way calculated to interfere with "Asia for the Asiaties."

Did They, Or Didn't They Cross Parallel?

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Tuesday, Feb. 12—(AP)—Official reports conflicted today on whether South Korean troops did or did not penetrate North Korea.

Latest accounts said they had not in their current push. Reports to Eighth Army headquarters Monday and Monday night said a patrol of the South Korean Capital Division speared five miles north of the 38th parallel—the old demarcation line—took the east coast town of Yangyang and then was forced back four miles by Red counter-attacks.

This would have left the South Koreans still one mile north of the old boundary.

However, early today, American advisers with the South Korean forces informed Eighth Army headquarters that the South Korean patrol ran into an enemy company almost on the parallel.

The American report said the South Koreans were forced to withdraw after a fight that ranged a little less than a mile south of the parallel.

C-Of-C Banquet Speaker Chosen

Industrialist And Former Kentucky Governor To Talk Here

Keen Johnson, vice president of Reynolds Metals company and former governor of Kentucky, will be the principal speaker at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet held here February 26.

The annual meeting and dinner of the local business organization will be held this year at 7 p. m. in the north dining hall on the East Carolina Teachers College campus.

Harold Stalon, chairman of the banquet committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said approximately 300 people are expected to attend the banquet. "We're hoping and urging all the Chamber of Commerce members to attend the banquet," he stated. "The tickets will be sold on a first come first served basis."

Reservations for the banquet will be taken from now until February 17, and may be made by notifying the Chamber of Commerce office.

Johnson was governor of the state of Kentucky from August 1939 until the expiration of his term in 1943. He was elected lieutenant governor of the state when "Happy" Chandler, the governor, resigned his office in 1939 to become a United States senator. Reynolds was elected governor of the state for the term 1940-43.

From 1919 to 1925 Johnson was editor of the Elizabethtown newspaper and other Kentucky newspapers. In 1925 he became editor and president of the publishing company of the Richmond Daily Register (Richmond, Ky.) and has been president of the company since that time.

He became associated with Reynolds Metal company in 1944 as special assistant to the president of the company. A little more than a year later he was named vice president of the company, and became a member of the board of directors in April, 1949.

During the summer of 1946, Johnson was granted a leave of absence from the Reynolds company, and for a year served as United States Under-secretary of Labor in Washington.

He is a native of Lyon county, Kentucky, completed his high school work at Elkton and received his bachelor of arts degree at the University of Kentucky.

Shah Of Iran Is Married Today

Tehran, Iran, Feb. 12—(AP)—The thunder of a 21-gun salute boomed out the news of the Shah's wedding today to lovely Soraya Esfandiari, 19-year-old granddaughter of a once rebellious Persian tribal chief.

Seated before two Chief Mullahs, Iran's highest religious leaders, the once divorced Shah and his European bride were wed in a simple Moslem ceremony at Marmar Palace. By order of the Shah, the traditional splendor of Persian court fetes was lacking in the celebration of the wedding.

275 Pitt Men Take Draft Test

Record Number Departed For Pre-Induction Tests In Raleigh Today

Two-hundred-and-seventy-five Pitt County men were sent to Raleigh this morning to take pre-induction examinations for entry into the nation's Armed Forces—the highest contingent sent from the county during this or any other war.

The men were loaded onto seven buses at eight o'clock and taken to the pre-induction center to undergo the usual mental and physical tests. Draft board registrar Selma Evans stated neither of the two boards in operation during World War II had ever sent that many men in one shipment. Also, she stated, today's contingent will be the last of that high a number to be sent unless 18-year olds become eligible.

At the present time there are just about 100 men in the county who have not received a call to report for pre-induction. Those men are in the 19-25-year age bracket. The next call from the State Selective Service office will net only about 125 men, the clerk stated. That number includes men who will have become 19 years old by that time.

Today's shipment, which, incidentally cost $940 for bus tickets, included 123 white men and 148 colored. Four were transfers from other boards who the local board does not get "credit" for. The contingent also included four volunteers, the first group which has enlisted through the draft board.

Meanwhile, an induction call has been received for February 28. At that time 50 men will be sent to the service.

Roadblocks Stop City's Highways

Totalitarian Practice Illustrated In Americanism Week

Americanism Week got underway early this afternoon by the setting up of roadblocks on all the highways leading into Greenville.

On all six highways motorists entering town were stopped by members of the police department and the State Highway patrol and given cards by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce telling them such roadblocks are common occurrences in Russian-controlled countries.

The cards read: "This is the way of Communism! Don't let it happen here! You can travel—where you please! when you please! as you please! America is free! Let's keep it that way! Don't let your freedom be roadblocked by submissive active citizens! Freedom! Democracy your business!"

The blockades were in effect for two hours, beginning at one o'clock. The Highway patrolmen handled all traffic on three of the highways and the Police department patrol units were set up on the other three. Members of the Jaycees gave each motorist one of the cards and allowed him to drive on.

In continuing the theme of Freedom Day, a roundtable discussion will be conducted over station WGTG tonight at 8:30. Faculty members of East Carolina will conduct the discussion on the topic "As Others See Us." Members of

Blazing Home Is One Of Seven Weekend Fires In City

The blazing structure shown above is one of the two houses which burned in Greenville over the weekend. Greenville firemen answered a total of seven calls to various sections of the city on Saturday and Sunday. The house shown above, located on Center street, caught fire while all occupants of the house were away and the origin of the fire, which had completely engulfed the building when the first alarm was turned in is still not known. Four-Day Test Of Air Defenses Is 'Satisfactory'

Newburgh, N. Y., Feb. 12—(AP)—A four-day test of the air defenses of northeastern United States ended yesterday with the Air Force grading results as "very satisfactory."

The exercises over a 21-state area east of the Mississippi River and north of North Carolina involved some 3,000 aircraft sorties.

An estimated 150,000 Civil Defense ground observers, radar and Army anti-aircraft artillery provided the ground aspect of the maneuvers.

Security reasons blacked out further results, including the performance of radar. Headquarters of the maneuvers was at Stewart Air Force Base here.

AGAIN SUSPENDED New York, Feb. 12—(AP)—The New York Cotton Exchange said today that futures trading will be suspended again tomorrow. Futures trading on the Exchange has been suspended since the price-freezing order was issued January 26, pending clarification of the pricing order.

British Question Crossing Of 38th Parallel In Korea

London, Feb. 12—(AP)—Informal sources said today Britain considered the crossing of the Korean 38th parallel by South Korean troops "very unwise."

The South Korean Capital Division was reported to have crossed the former dividing line between South and North Korea yesterday.

These sources said Britain was in consultation with the United States on the question.

About two weeks ago, a foreign Office spokesman declared that Britain believed there should be consultation among the nations with troops in Korea before any decision was made on whether to punch north of the 38th parallel again. When the United Nations forces first crossed the parallel, Britain agreed, but reluctantly.

British officials later blamed the decision to cross the 38th parallel and the drive toward the Manchurian border as the causes of Communist China's intervention.

Two Houses Burn As Seven Calls For Help, One A False Alarm, Answered By Greenville Fire Department

Fires of unknown origin over the past weekend raged two Negro tenement houses in Greenville, as fire went on a rampage with a total of seven calls being answered by local firemen.

The fire alarm was turned in late Saturday night from Center Street when fire was discovered coming out of a house occupied by Robert Woodard.

When Greenville fire equipment arrived, flames were covering the entire house from end to end, with the flames leaping towards other nearby houses.

Action on the part of Greenville firemen prevented the spread of the fire to the other houses, although the interior of the house was gutted by flames.

Nearby residents stated that when the fire was first observed smoke and flames were licking out from under the roof. Some furniture from the house was saved by neighbors but the fire forced other would-be helpers away.

The building, owned by Linwood Woodard, was insured, it was learned. A house on the same site burned some time ago.

Firemen battled the blaze for over an hour before the area was declared safe.

A faulty heating unit at the home of George Crawford, on West Fifth Street, Greenville, Saturday, resulted in no damage, firemen reported. The call came in at 11:30 Saturday night.

Early Sunday morning, about 4 a. m., the home of Ed Fleming, Negro, of Pitt Street, caught fire, giving firemen a two-hour battle.

Again flames had the upper hand on the firemen as fire was covering the structure from one end to the other by the time the fire alarm was turned in from First and Green Street. Flames from the burning house were visible in all sections of

McFarland Sees Europe As Ready

Demo Speaker Says America's Allies Will Resist Attack

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 12—(AP)—Senate Majority Leader E. W. McFarland (D-Ariz.) says that if the test against Communist aggression comes it will be in Europe.

McFarland told North Carolina's annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner gathering here Saturday night that "our friends in Europe" will fight, they will resist the tide of Communist aggression.

"Their spirit," he asserted, "has been revived by our example; by our own determination to rearm and checkmate the Kremlin at every turn. In fact, they are now not nearly so concerned about our troops as they are about arms—the munitions of war."

The Democratic party fund-raising dinner was a sellout of 600 tickets at $50-a-plate, out bad weather conditions cut the attendance slightly. Some 550 attended, including representatives from each of the state's 100 counties.

The speech was McFarland's first since he was elected Senate majority leader. He was introduced by Senator Clyde R. Hoey, a long-time friend.

The Arizona senator assailed the "defeatists," "cautious critics," and "fearful men" who urge America to abandon its leadership in the free world. These men, he said, do not represent America.

Here's some help for married couples in choosing the right form for their 1950 income tax return; Joint And Separate Returns; What Form For Best Deduction

By JAMES MARLOW

Here's some help for married couples in choosing the right form for their 1950 income tax return. They have two big problems: A joint or separate return? And what form to get the best deductions?

Some of the following points have been mentioned in previous stories but are rounded up here.

There are three forms: Form 1040-A (The collector figures your tax for you); the 1940 Short Form (you find your own tax in the table on page 3); and the 1040 Long Form (figure your own tax on page 3).

Savage Attack Along 30-Mile Front Could Endanger Large Forward Elements Of United Nations' Army; South Korean Sector Caves In Before Advance

Tokyo, Feb. 11—(AP)—Chinese and Korean Reds rained a dangerously deep wedge today into allied lines on the mountainous central Korean war front.

They launched a savage counter-offensive shortly before Sunday midnight with 60,000 troops and hit throughout Monday in mounting fury along a 30 mile front.

By late Monday night, the Reds had smashed a wedge seven miles deep in the allied line southwest of Hoengsong. They also had caved in South Korean forces at a number of other points and cut off some allied units.

American officers were striving desperately to rally the South Koreans.

Confused Fighting The Reds were fighting hand-to-hand with allied defenders in the key road center of Hoengsong. One and a half miles south of Hoengsong, the communists had set up a road block. A Red column was sweeping toward that area to cut the Hoengsong-Wonju road.

Field dispatches said the situation was confused and serious. The communist counter-offensive—a typical maneuver launched at night with massive forces at the weak point—threatened to wipe out the big allied gains of the past 18 days in the central sector.

Allies Roll On On the western front, the allies had swept Saturday into Seoul's industrial suburb of Yangdampo. One of its big airports at Kimpo and its seaport of Incheon.

The South Korean Capital Division on the east coast rolled north across the old parallel 38 border Sunday and captured the coastal town of Yangyang five miles deep in Red Korea.

But the four or more allied divisions massed around Seoul in the west and the South Koreans inside north Korea on the east coast could be forced to pull back for their lives unless the communist smash in central Korea is stopped.

On the central front, the Reds were attacking Hoengsong from three directions. Hoengsong is 10 miles north of Wonju, the road center where the U. S. Second Division with French support smashed an earlier Red drive that permitted the allies to launch their own offensive Jan. 25.

From Hoengsong, five allied columns had thrust from six to nearly 12 miles in a fan-shaped drive west, north and northeast of the town.

The Red offensive wiped out most of these gains and threatened to crumple the whole center of the 150 mile allied line across Korea.

Hoengsong, 50 air miles east of Seoul, is in rugged hill country where the terrain favors the enemy. Roads are narrow and two mountain passes south of Hoengsong normally permit only one-way traffic.

The communists move along these icy, precipitous roads like mountain goats but transport is dangerous for the mechanized allied forces.

Three Red regiments drove the main wedge seven miles deep to a point five miles southwest of Hoengsong.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said elements of three Chinese Communist Army Corps and two North Korean Corps were attacking in the Hoengsong area. Frontline intelligence officers estimated the Red strength as including six divisions—some 60,000 men. The Reds had been building up strength here for some time.

The attack began in zero weather late Sunday night north, northeast and northwest of Hoengsong. South Korean positions were overrun.

Some Help For Married Couples In Choosing The Right Form For Their 1950 Income Tax Return; Joint And Separate Returns; What Form For Best Deduction

By JAMES MARLOW

Here's some help for married couples in choosing the right form for their 1950 income tax return. They have two big problems: A joint or separate return? And what form to get the best deductions?

Some of the following points have been mentioned in previous stories but are rounded up here.

There are three forms: Form 1040-A (The collector figures your tax for you); the 1940 Short Form (you find your own tax in the table on page 3); and the 1040 Long Form (figure your own tax on page 3).

Only people with under $5,000 income can use form 1040-A or the 1940 Short Form. Those who can't use Form 1040-A can use the 1040 Short Form.

The under-$5,000 people can also use the 1040 Long Form if their deductions are unusually large. But the people with $5,000 or more income have no choice. They must use the 1040 Long Form.

You can use Form 1040-A only if your total income was under $5,000 and all of it—except for no more than $100 in untaxed wages, interest and dividends—was in wages or salary from which full tax was withheld.

If any of your untaxed income was from any other source except those three mentioned—for instance, if it was from rents—you couldn't use Form 1040-A. You could use the 1040 Short Form.

Example: Jones had $3,500 income, his wife $1,000. Total, $4,500. All of it, except for $100 in interest, had tax withheld from it. They can file a joint return on the 1040 Short Form. To get the split-income benefit, but they can't file jointly on Form 1040-A.

Say that full tax had been withheld from Smith's income. He could file separately on Form 1040-A but she'd have to file separately on the 1040 Short Form. When they file separately like that they lose the benefit of splitting their income.

As for the 1040 Short-Form—any married couple who had combined

Christian Science Service
"Spirit" was the topic of the Lesson Sermon given in all Christian Science churches Sunday. The Golden Text was from Ezekiel (39:29): "I have poured out my spirit upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God."

From the Bible: "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." (John 4:24).

And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Christian science, Spirit, as a proper noun, is the name of the Supreme Being. It means quantity and quality, and applies exclusively to God. Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God. There are neither spirits many nor gods many. There is no evil in Spirit, because God is Spirit."

State Director Is Speaker At W.C.T.U.

Mrs. B. B. Slaughter of New Bern, State Director of Spiritual Life for the Women's Christian Temperance Union, spoke at the WCTU meeting in the home of Mrs. J. C. Galloway on Wednesday afternoon.

She spoke very forcefully about "The Churches' Worst Enemy." She said this is a great day to be alive, but people need to remember that any nation that has tried to drink its way to strength became weak. She said the evils caused by drinking to the church and to the nation are dependent upon the moral well-being and spiritual strength of the home.

She then reviewed "America's Liquid Curtain," a convincing article found in a recent issue of the Christian Advocate. This was written by the Rev. Boyd C. Winn. She quoted the author as saying the liquid curtain of drink in the U. S. is doing more in the way of damaging morals, dimming consciences, destroying homes and damning souls than all the wars and rumors of war.

She said, "We may find hope and courage for this condition in Isaiah 58:19. We are in a dilemma and our nation is responsible because it has legalized alcohol."

In closing she quoted Romans 13:11-12 requesting that the people wake out of sleep and cast off the works of darkness and put on the armor of light.

The meeting was opened by the singing of "Lead On, O King Eternal" followed by prayer led by Mrs. Lee H. Moore. The minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given. The publicity chairman reported that the liquor people have produced a picture costing $65,000. This picture is called "The Truth Shall Make You Free."

The hostess served delicious refreshments. The meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. V. P. Scoville in March.

Grifton Bridge Club Meets With Mrs. L. L. Mewborn

Grifton.—Mrs. L. L. Mewborn was a gracious hostess on Friday night when she had as guests members of the Thursday Contract Club and invited players to make four tables for bridge.

Red gladioli and carnations with lighted red candles in three branched crystal candelabra made a pretty setting for the party. Guests were invited for 7:15 and a delicious turkey supper was served buffet style.

During the bridge games Mrs. J. L. Tucker scored high and Mrs. Thurman Williams second high. The visitor's prize went to Mrs. Cecil Cobb.

Other players were Miss Marie Chapman, Miss Hazel Patrick, Miss Louise Mewborn, Mrs. Clifton Jackson, Mrs. L. D. McCotter, Mrs. W. I. Bisette, Mrs. Robert Mewborn, Mrs. Eleanor Gower, Mrs. Richard A. Nelson, Mrs. H. P. Quinley, Mrs. A. D. Wall, Mrs. J. S. Chapman and Mrs. Paul Bradley.

Mrs. J. C. Wooten Gives UDC Program

One of the most delightful meetings of the George B. Singletary Chapter of the U.D.C. was held at the home of Mrs. W. Ed Moore, Thursday afternoon, February 8. Mrs. R. D. Whichard was associate hostess.

Mrs. E. W. Harvey, president, presided over a short business session. She welcomed Mrs. Irons as a visitor and presented membership certificates to Mrs. W. R. Smith, Mrs. V. C. Fleming, Sr. and Mrs. J. T. Gaylord of Winterville.

Mrs. Moore, the secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. J. G. Lautes gave the treasurer's report. The historian, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth, gave her report, and Mrs. V. C. Fleming, patriotic chairman, gave her report. Mrs. J. B. Spilman, publicity chairman, was asked to write an article on the Robert E. Lee Memorial in the Washington Cathedral for the Reflector.

Plans were made for a canasta and bridge tournament after Easter. Mrs. J. C. Wooten presented the program for the afternoon, title of which was "Confederate Currency and Stamps." This was a most interesting program, giving the rise and fall of Confederate currency. The hostesses served delicious home made spice cake and coffee.

Mrs. Robert Mewborn Hostess To Grifton Book Club Tuesday

The Grifton Book Club met with Mrs. Robert Mewborn on Tuesday afternoon in an enjoyable session. Mrs. H. P. Quinley presided at the brief business meeting which was followed by an interesting discussion of current events which were given in response to roll call.

Mrs. Mewborn presented the paper of the afternoon. Her subject was "England." She gave in a most interesting manner a sketch of the history of the country, dwelling on the numerous holdings of the British Empire, how in the trying times they had been able to keep their possessions. She also told something of the government of the people and then gave a short report on the royal family now on the throne.

At the tea hour sandwiches, cookies and hot tea were served.

Smith-McGlohon Vows Spoken In Home Ceremony Saturday

Mrs. Nannie Wethington McGlohon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beaves Wethington of Grifton, and Luther Woodrow Smith, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Luther M. Smith of Kinston, were united in marriage in a private ceremony on Saturday afternoon, February 10, at the home of the Rev. Rufus B. Hurt, pastor of the First Christian Church in Kinston, who officiated, using the double ring ceremony.

The couple were unattended and spoke their vows in the living room, which was decorated with winter greenery and white candles.

The bride chose for her marriage an ice blue Miron gabardine dress maker suit complimented with a profile straw hat of blue with navy velvet trim. Her other accessories were of navy and she wore a white orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to Miami, Fla. Mrs. Smith added a navy topper for traveling.

The bride is a graduate of the Grifton school and attended Atlantic Christian College and East Carolina Teachers College. At present she is manager of the Sears Mail Order Store in Kinston.

The groom attended the Kinston city schools, is a veteran of World War II, and is owner of the firm of L. M. Smith and Son in Grifton, where the couple will reside following their wedding trip.

this advice to girls: "Women are just plain silly if they don't dress to please their menfolk."

Offer you know you will buy a hat or a suit or a dress just because your girl friend likes it. Actually, that is the wrong way to shop. Men have definite ideas about clothes, and since usually you are selecting a hat or a gown to please a man, why not buy it with his tastes in mind?

Men like frilly hats when they look feminine. On the other hand they do not like dizzy or silly hats. They like hats which have a tailored look, and which, strangely enough, resemble mannish styling. But they do not like any outrageous which resembles a tailored style and is decorated with bows or lace or veiling.

They like dresses which give a smart line to the figure, but they do not like exaggerated V-dip necklines or off-the-shoulder gowns which expose the bosom. They like feminine looking gowns which are in good taste as well as they admire chic, well-tailored mannish suits. If you attempt a tailored suit, however, choose clean smooth lines.

If you dress to suit your type, that is half the battle. Ruffles might look lovely on the girl who is unsophisticated, but if you are the sophisticated type, stick to the line which best becomes you.

A man's pet hate, from all we can gather at this point, is the so-called babushka—that square piece of silk or cotton or other fabric which resembles a tablecloth which is quickly thrust over the head in an emergency.

There is nothing attractive about that kind of headgear. There could be something attractive about a similar type of headgear which would offer protection in stormy weather, without making the wearer look like a peasant girl. But these either are not available, or girls have not accepted them.

The same holds true—as it has for generations—there is nothing like a hat to make you look like a lady. Select it wisely and that is an achievement in itself.

Carolina Sales' Offices Set Up

"Interim quarters" of Carolina Sales Corporation, which was destroyed by fire Saturday a week ago, have been established at three different locations in Greenville. The concern has moved all its office equipment and personnel from the Hotel Proctor, temporary quarters for the past week, and began operation of full business in the new quarters this morning.

General offices for accounting, administrative, order and sales departments have been moved to 122 East Fourth Street; the parts and service department has moved to 1320 Evans Street, and the Refrigeration Discount Corporation has moved to 823 Dickinson Avenue.

In a letter to 600 dealers throughout the country, president James T. Little stated the concern's plans contemplate the building of permanent physical facilities as soon as possible. He informed them the greatest loss in the fire was the complete destruction of sales records, correspondence and dealer and factory orders in addition to radios, table appliances and parts.

Officers probe picnic death of three children

Amarillo, Tex., Feb. 12—(AP)—Officers are trying to find out why three children became ill and died while on a family picnic in the rugged Palo Duro Canyon, south-east of here.

Robert Henry Patton, 34, father of two of the victims, said the illness struck Saturday night after most of the picnic group ate scrambled eggs and calf brains.

Patton tried to rush the children to a doctor but his car bogged down in a sandy stream bed. He told officers he sat helplessly—ill himself—while the three died. Help did not come until yesterday morning.

Railroad Traffic In High Gear As Ultimatum Met

By The Associated Press—The nation's rail traffic is back in high gear, clearing up the huge backlog of freight cars that were stalled by the "sick call" walkout of about 12,000 switchmen.

Faced with a government threat of get-back-to-work-or-be-fired, the last hold-out switchmen were on their jobs Saturday before the 4 p.m. (EST) deadline allowed them.

Along with the ultimatum, however, the Army, in technical control of the nation's carriers, granted the workers a pay boost. Switchmen and yardmasters were given a 12 and one-half cents an hour hike in pay, and trainmen in road service five cents an hour.

But the wage increase left the men far short of what they had asked and only about half the amount they had rejected when they walked off their jobs Jan. 30 and 31. The union is asking a 40-hour work week at their old pay for 48 hours.

An Army spokesman in Chicago estimated the railroads will need about two weeks of warm weather to catch up in deliveries of shipments that were left stranded in terminal yards throughout the nation.

The striking union, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, faces a contempt of court hearing Wednesday in Federal District Court at Chicago for the walkout. The union was fined $25,000 in the same court last week for violating a strike-aid injunction in connection with a similar work stoppage during the Christmas mail rush in December.

Rubber Tapper Tread By Tiger

Kuala Lumpur—(AP)—A rubber tapper, on his early morning round of trees here, was chased up a tree by a tiger that kept him there for four hours.

The tapper called for friends who came and beat on drums and cans to frighten the beast away. But the tiger reclined at the foot of the tree and kept his eyes fastened on his quarry. Police finally arrived and shot the animal. It weighed 200 pounds.

TB Controls In India Advocated

New Delhi—(AP)—One in every 190 persons in this metropolis suffers from tuberculosis but there are only 142 beds available for the 10,000 afflicted, a spokesman for the local TB hospital told newsmen.

A mass survey of the city with mobile x-ray units, an intensive inoculation program, dispersal of refugees and isolation of those stricken with the disease have been urged by directors of the hospital. Tuberculosis is next to malaria, the major cause of death in India, causing about 500,000 deaths annually.

TEEN TALK

(Dear Judge)

AP Newsfeatures Kids ought to get back to the soil. Farming can offer fine opportunities to boys and girls who like the outdoors and are willing to learn and work the soil. So says handsome Dick Sprawls, a champion sweet potato grower from South Carolina.

It can pay off, too, says 15-year-old Dick, who raised 328 bushels of No. 1 yams on his acre plot in the annual 4-H contest conducted by Clemson College. Along with ten other young prize winners he recently enjoyed a trip to New York as a reward for his labors as the guest of a chain of food stores. Besides, his sweet potatoes sold at a $2.75 a bushel, putting a nice little piece of change for college in his piggy bank.

Dick wouldn't necessarily suggest you raise sweet potatoes as your first crop, if you do decide to experiment. As a matter of fact, you'd eat your sweet potatoes, by gosh, if you knew all the work a fellow puts in growing them. Says Dick:

"Sweet potatoes like to be planted in a high bed, quite some distance apart. When harvested they must be handled like eggs because they bruise easily. Then they must be put in a heated building at about 85 degrees until the cure begins. They are left two weeks, then put at 50 degrees in another building."

Lots of young moderns who have been baby sitting would be well trained for nursing sweet potatoes along, but it is best to start your farming with a simple vegetable garden, suggests Dick.

Right now Dick, who lives on 450 acres in Barnwell County, expects a hydrogen plant to move in and it is possible he and his family will be looking for another farm. But he'll continue to grow sweet potatoes no matter what.

Dick's main objective is to be a veterinarian. He loves dogs and horses, in particular and thinks he could make a real career out of being a veterinarian in his own section of the county. That is another career young people might give a thought to, suggests Dick.

A Word Of Thanks Can Go A Long Way

Your law enforcement officers perform a great number of routine duties seldom brought to the public's attention. When performed, we can imagine those officers would be pleasantly surprised by a "thank you" that was more than perfunctory.

Whoever heard of any tribute or thanks (that sounded sincere) given a highway patrolman for calling a motorist's attention to faulty lights? What policeman, walking his cold and lonely beat at night has been given any recognition or appreciation for his checking business firms' doors to make sure they were locked? How many parents are aware that their children's safety is immeasurably greater when leaving school under the eyes of a policeman who is guiding traffic?

And then there are the simpler courtesies which these men are expected to give. Some of them more than merely answering questions or giving directions, but require some personal effort.

Apprehension of law-breakers is their job, but in recent years the prevention of crime and accidents has been added to their chores.

Sometimes this preventive work has been unappreciated by the individual who is cautioned, and his attitude does not make the lawman's lot any happier.

It isn't an easy life to begin with; but the lack of understanding which a conscientious officer frequently encounters makes it even more difficult.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—President Truman's assumption of illegal and dictatorial power over the Federal Reserve Board has transformed that normally placid group of financial experts into a body of angry, squabbling and ineffective men.

He has also humiliated them so that several resignations may be forthcoming soon, which will enable him to appoint completely subservient successors.

Truman-Snyder policies on money rates and supply, which they fixed in defiance of the board's statutory control over these problems, had already reduced the Reserve officials to a state of virtual helplessness. But several members, especially Mariner S. Eccles, wanted to continue the battle for freeing this agency from executive domination.

SECRET—Now, however, Mr. Truman has divided his enemies. Aroused over Chairman Thomas B. McCabe's failure to take a more independent stand, Mr. Eccles went to the extreme of giving out for publication the supposedly secret minutes of the board members' conference with President Truman and Secretary Snyder over the question of financing the rearmament program.

Mr. Eccles challenged the President's public statement to the effect that the board had agreed to stand behind the White House-Treasury policy of low interest rates and "easy money." As the minutes he released make clear, there was no such agreement. He virtually accuses Mr. Truman of misunderstanding or misrepresentation.

FRICTION—The Eccles escapade immediately created more friction within the Federal Reserve group. In view of Chairman McCabe's failure to speak up more boldly at the White House conference, J. E. Vardaman says Mr. Truman had every right to conclude that the board members had approved his financing scheme.

Like Mr. Eccles, he seems to criticize the chairman for not daring to tell the facts of finance to the man in the White House.

The Vardaman somersault is both amusing and significant. Although an old Truman crony and former military attaché at the White House, he and the President have hardly been on speaking terms for months. He has opposed many Administration proposals. But now he seems to be back in the Truman corner.

HISTORY—Although it may not be appreciated outside banking circles, Mr. Truman made—or violated—all history when he invited members of the Federal Reserve Board and its Open Market Committee to confer with him at the White House. The very invitation, which was a command, shook the foundations on which the Reserve system was created by Congress.

It was planned as an entirely independent agency, no more subservient to the executive branch than Congress or the Supreme Court of the United States. It was supposed to be above and beyond political considerations and influence.

PATTERN—The late Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who is regarded as the father of the Federal Reserve System, tells how conscientious Woodrow Wilson was in this respect, and all Presidents since have followed this pattern. Mr. Glass, as he related in his book, "An Adventure in Constructive Finance," once asked Mr. Wilson why he did not establish closer relations with the board he had created.

"The very moment that I should attempt to establish close relations with the board," replied Mr. Wilson, "that very moment I would be accused of trying to bring political pressure to bear."

POCKETBOOK—Not even such a headstrong man as Franklin D. Roosevelt broke this precedent. It remained for Mr. Truman and Secretary Snyder, neither of whom are regarded highly in banking circles for their knowledge of complex financial problems, to do so.

It is no academic banking problem that lies behind the controversy between the White House and the Federal Reserve. It will touch every ordinary pocketbook in a bread-and-butter way.

The Truman-Snyder faction insist on low interest rates on government security issues so as to keep the cost of carrying the public debt and financing rearmament at a minimum. Naturally, low interest rates on these issues mean low interest rates in the private market, and heavy borrowing. That makes for inflation, of course.

WORRYING—Moreover, Secretary Snyder is thinking of those fifty billions of federal securities which he must refund or refinance when they fall due within the next five years. If interest rates rise in the meantime, he will have to pay more for any new replacement issues.

The cost of carrying the national mortgage might go up by a billion or more dollars, if interest rates go up. Naturally, he wants to keep this charge as low as possible and make a good showing on his books. So, he and Mr. Truman demand that the Federal Reserve use its resources to maintain this low interest rate—roughly, 2½ per cent.

But more expert bankers and financiers point out that this program means inflation in the form of higher prices, taxes, wages etc. In their opinion, John Q. Citizen will lose many billions more from price inflation than he will from a relatively small increase in the cost of carrying the public debt.

In their opinion, the White House is operating on a theory of "Après moi, le déluge." Or, let the next President do the real worrying over federal finances.

DISCORD—Relations among the three branches of state government—legislative, executive and judicial—are not as cordial as they were in early days of the current legislative session. And as the general assembly moves from the preliminary stages into the field of final action on important bills there is increasing evidence of friction between the senate and the house of representatives. There is virtually an open break between a majority of the senate and the house leadership on one hand and Governor Scott on the other. Numerous incidents growing out of the widely publicized "Hamilton case" indicate lack of cordiality between the judiciary and the executive. And to cap the stack Governor Scott is plainly accusing officials of the League of Municipalities of bad faith and running out on a positive agreement.

PROLONGED—Attitude of the governor and the judiciary will not have much effect upon prolonging the legislative session as will the cross-purposes of the senate and house. Many observers have moved predicted date of adjournment from early April to mid-May as result of developments last week. Some of the issues which had been expected to precipitate vigorous controversy, such as a liquor referendum and more money for public schools, are being relegated to places of less importance than state aid to municipal streets and some proposed additional taxes, particularly in the sales tax and privilege license fields. Oldtimers see similarity between conditions prevailing now and those prevailing at comparable stages in 1931 and 1933, the sessions which went well over into May. Two years ago the 1949 assembly adjourned on April 23rd. In each instance it was proposed new taxes rather than appropriations or machinery of government that caused the session to be long drawn out.

INCONSISTENCIES—The trouble stems largely from the fact that nearly everybody involved has shown inconsistencies in attitudes from day to day as well as when compared with positions maintained two years ago. In 1949 the senate majority, composed of many of the same senators who now make up the majority, waged determined and successful fight to have the one cent additional gasoline tax coupled with the rural road bond issue. This year the senate proposes that state highway commission take over municipal streets without extra tax

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

One of the many reasons why the price freeze won't prevent the cost of living from going higher is the fact that there is nothing in the regulations which specifically requires manufacturers to keep on producing low-end goods.

There is nothing to prevent General Motors from decreasing the production of Chevies and diverting available materials to Cadillac and there is nothing to prevent a house-dress manufacturer from discontinuing his $2.95 and $3.95 lines and concentrating on $4.95 models. There is no suspicion that GM has any such plans but there is more than suspicion that some dress manufacturers not only have such plans but are already putting them to use.

Trade papers have been polka-dotted with announcements that manufacturers are dropping low-priced lines and a lot more manufacturers have dropped them without announcement, or have merely reduced production. In many instances there is some justification for such action. If a manufacturer is reduced to a smaller amount of copper, for instance, he might be considered odd if he used it in making $24.95 radios instead of $249.95 television sets.

This trend can have a violent impact on the cost of living. Many families—in fact, most of us—buy clothing, canned goods, appliances, furniture and other things in the middle and low price brackets. But when only top-crust goods are available, our cost of living goes up.

This will be reflected in Bureau of Labor Statistics indexes, which serve as a basis for many labor contracts and for many more labor arguments. Soon labor will have a highly valid case for tilting ceilings on wages and off we'll go again on another ride on the inflation merry-go-round.

There is one check to the discontinuance of cheaper lines of merchandise. Defense Mobilization Order No. 4, which was issued at the same time as the wage-price freeze, gives all government agencies the authority to work with the Office of Price Stabilization to prevent the diversion of production to higher priced lines.

Under these powers, a manufacturer needing priorities or allocations may be told that he can't have them unless he maintains

WEALTH OF CHILDHOOD

When Michael Paraday was a small boy, he worked and lived under conditions of poverty. When he grew to young manhood, he went to work for a book-seller, and being brought in contact for the first time with an encyclopedia he read many of the articles. Those on electricity particularly fascinated him, and he made notes and later performed interesting experiments with crude apparatus which he set up in his home.

It happened about that time that the great physicist Sir Humphrey Davy gave a lecture in London. Young Paraday attended this lecture and at the close of the lecture talked with Davy and showed him the notes he had made. Davy immediately recognized the fact that he had found a genius. In later years the venerable physicist declared that the greatest discovery he ever made was Michael Paraday.

The world is full of genius and sometimes it resides in quarters where we never think to look for it. No one would have believed that out of a poverty stricken home on the second floor of a livery stable would have come the distinguished Paraday, any more than anyone could have believed 125 years ago that out of a humble frontier home would come the great leader which Lincoln later proved to be.

The wealth of a nation abides in the hearts of its people, and no wealth is so great as is the wealth of its childhood.

Our Freedom Is A Rare Privilege

This is Freedom Day in a week devoted to reminding our citizens of their American heritage. And it is well that from time to time we be reminded of that heritage which we take so much for granted.

Americans glibly recite "freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want and freedom from fear" as the Four Freedoms listed by President Roosevelt in a stirring address to Congress. Sometimes they grope through the Bill of Rights, the ten original amendments to the Constitution; but these top are so habitually accepted that few concern themselves with these fundamental doctrines of America after their high school studies of history.

Webster defines freedom as the state of being free; liberty; independence; particular PRIVILEGE. Not that word, privilege. It's a forgotten word insofar as it connotes Freedom.

Freedom (or Privilege) is earned; it is never ungrudgingly bestowed by our world. In America, freedom must be earned by each generation . . . not once, not twice, but many times. It is won countless times in the ballot boxes, frequently by force of arms and great sacrifice; and on occasion by simply good citizenship . . . a devotion to the common good.

As a people, Americans should treasure their freedom more than the people of most other nations because we enjoy it to a greater degree than does the overwhelming majority of the world's population. There are few restraints; public "discipline" is so light as to be almost non-existent. The individual is free to work toward any degree of success his heart aspires. His only impediments are his own failings in ambition, application and adaptability. The fruits of honest endeavor are protected by law . . . the only basis for our laws lies in the protection of the individual.

This aura of freedom under which we live has been the one great incentive for advancing of spiritual growth, self-expression and the living standards of a nation. So great is the dream which is our inspiration, that we must drastically limit the numbers of peoples from other lands who would live here . . . free from the tyranny of governments which place the welfare of the "state" above the rights and life of Man.

To abuse our privilege of freedom is to invite destruction of Americanism as we know it today. Is any mere thoughtless whim or shallow philosophy worth such a price? For how long would the world wait for new Jeffersons, Paines, Washingtons, Adams, Franklins and Bolivars to re-light the flames of liberty? Would that struggle upward be again lighted by the flames of such wars as we have known from Bunker Hill to Seoul?

Liberty's torch of Freedom is not borne for us alone. That beacon is still the hope of miserable peoples throughout the world.

New York (AP)—The Korean war appears to be heading for a scoreless tie.

It has been fought like a football game, with each side taking turns ranging deep into the other's territory before running into an unbreakable defense.

In the thirty-fourth week of the campaign the scrimmage line again is in midfield. It is only from the old 38th parallel, the artificial boundary from which the North Korean Reds first attacked last June 25th.

If Chinese communist defense continue to crumble, will the allies again smash across that frontier as they did last fall? The military odds are against it—at the moment.

When the Americans first approached the 38th parallel, Chou En-Lai, the Chinese Premier, said his government wouldn't stand idly by if the allies crossed that line.

The United Nations army either chose to regard this warning as a bluff or decided to take the consequences of its advance of North Korea and drove to the Manchurian border at three a points before waves of fresh Chinese troops entered the war and forced it to withdraw into South Korea.

At the time the allies did cross the 38th parallel, a high Army officer told me:

"We are making a mistake. I believe Chou En-Lai means what he says. We should stop here, where the peninsula is only about 150 miles wide.

"If we go all the way to the northern frontier of Korea, we will have to defend a border 700 miles long that adjoins both China and Russia. How can we expect to set up a new state of Korea the will last with 700 miles of border touching two great world powers? We could have to put in a tremendous army of our own to protect it, and we might have to garrison that line beyond our own lifetime."

Many army officers shared his view at the time. They felt it unwise militarily to approach the Manchurian boundary with the force they then had available.

But the attack was made, and the allies pursued the shattered North Korea Red army deep into its own territory. The entrance of the Chinese communist armies changed the picture. In three tremendous all-night counterattacks last November they broke up the United Nations offensive and inflicted thousands of casualties. The allies began a stubborn withdrawal that lasted two full months.

Then the United Nations opened "limited offensive." Now again they stand at Seoul. The 38th parallel—less than two score miles away—beckons anew.

Before leaving Korea I asked whether he still regarded that first crossing of the parallel as a mistake.

"No," he said. "I believe now it was worth it.

"What would have happened if we had halted at the 38th? I think we would have pulled out our own troops in a few weeks and left a lot of our military equipment behind for the South Korean army.

Then the North Korean army, safe behind the boundary, would have been reorganized and freshly supplied with arms by China and Russia. In time it would have attacked again, and probably have won, for it is doubtful that we would have come

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington—Some wives who accompany their husbands on government assignments to colorful capitals of the world are content to sit back and indulge themselves in the new social life surrounding them. Not Mrs. Rosamond C. Gaydash, petite and attractive wife of Lt. Col. George C. Gaydash, who is now serving on the munitions board in the office of the Secretary of Defense.

Waves of praise are still getting back to the Capital concerning the cultural and friendly relationships the Colonel's wife established in Panama, where the Gaydashes were stationed for more than three years.

Mrs. Gaydash, professional artist, packed along some of her paintings when they went to Panama and shortly began to add to the collection with oils and water colors of the scenic wonders she found in her new setting.

In little more than a year she not only finished some 40 paintings of her own, but taught more than 80 other women in Panama's service and social circles to paint. Many of them learned to paint so well that they sold their works at good profits.

Active in the League of American Pen Women in Washington, where she studied art Mrs. Gaydash soon organized a Canal Zone Branch of the League, thereby establishing a further cultural link between the two countries. Membership is open to both Panamanian and American women living on the Isthmus.

The crowning award for her achievements was an invitation to exhibit her works last year at the University of Panama. Some 3,000 viewed her collection to which critics paid elaborate tribute. A local journalist wrote: "Of all the thousands of American women who have accompanied their husbands or who have been assigned to U.S. government service in the Canal Zone, Rosamond Gaydash, professional artist, would seem to have left a greater mark and to have derived more from her stay on the Isthmus than any other of her countrywomen."

But Mrs. Gaydash's proudest moment came on her recent return to Washington when she was invited to give an exhibition of the Panama paintings in the beautiful Hall of the Americas at the Pan American Union here. Sponsoring the exhibition which was accompanied by champagne and soft music and admired by many distinguished Washington, was the Panamanian Ambassador.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

COMMON SENSE APPROACH

(Washington Daily News)

The draft question in Pitt county threatens to become a national issue before long.

Many people in past months have discussed the failure of so many men to pass the mental tests which are a part of the routine. The army mental test is the main reason for some many rejections, it is said, and then it is pointed out that the number has been unusually high.

So many rejections don't make sense to the Daily News either. It looks to us that the board of inquiry in Pitt county has come up with a very common sense view of the matter. The board says that the so called tests aren't measures of mentality, but are merely achievement tests based on the person's ability to read.

All of us know that many people who have difficulty in reading were still capable men.

During the last war one of the best soldiers we saw couldn't read and write his name. Someone else had to write letters for him and someone had to read all his letters from home.

But tell that soldier something about a machine gun, a rifle or a mortar, or anything with a mechanical touch and he was almost a genius. That soldier had something about him that few college graduates had. He had the ability to remember what was told him and to apply it to the situation at hand. In other words he had to use his head at all times instead of referring to his notes as many college graduates did.

There are so many qualified men in the country today who are good citizens, make good livings, have responsible positions in their communities, and who could not possibly pass the army mental test.

Are we doing right in rejecting this type man for military service just because he is a slow reader? There are many trained persons in various capacities today in North Carolina and in other states who would make excellent soldiers if given the opportunity. The army needs cooks, for instance. But in many cases the draftees, a good cook, cannot pass the mental test. Then he is rejected, and a man who can read well is inducted, trained to be a cook, and then serves his country in a position where the slow reader could have done better in the first place.

The Daily News believes that a rigid mental test such as it now being offered is pure nonsense. If a man is physically fit for service, and there are no dependency reasons why he shouldn't be drafted, then we think he should be inducted because the army has so many jobs to be filled. The army should try to find out what a man can do and then put him doing it.

There have been too many cases where the army says it tries to find out a man's suitability and then put him where he can best serve. But in the final analysis the army apparently has put the men where it needs them without too much regard for the person's qualifications.

It doesn't take an educated man to fight. It doesn't take an educated man to squeeze the trigger on M-1 rifle. It doesn't take an educated man to be able to dig a foxhole. It doesn't take an educated man to know how to unload trucks. We allow uneducated people to drive cars in civilian life. So much of the army life belongs in the "laboring" category that it seems pure common sense to us that the educational factor is overdue.

The Pitt county investigation could well open many doors to us. It could change the picture considerably.

Local Tie-in With Pitt County Survey

(Hertford County Herald)

The highly interesting survey conducted in Pitt County into the causes of a high number of draft rejections for the county is very opportunely with the national studies of ways of obtaining more manpower for the armed forces.

In brief the Pitt County study calls the mental test a misnomer—that the test is one of amount of education rather than amount of sense. It is the rejection of men who are able to work capably in trades such as mechanics and baking in civilian life but who can't pass the mental tests because of a lack of education.

This survey, we are told, may be used basically on a national level in an attempt to place more adequate standards for entrance into military service. If this or any other similar line of standards are established the effect will be felt here in Hertford County where our rejection rate (as with most North Carolina counties) has been far too high. It can easily mean that the fellow rejected to date may find himself serving before the end of the year under a new set of mental standards.

In another way this study may affect our way of life, and that is in the compulsory school attendance law. The survey shows that there is a great need of filling the loopholes in present antiquated laws. We need to get our children in school and just as important, we need to keep them in there.

Our neighbors in Pitt County may have started something with their separate survey into the draft's manpower operations. We sincerely hope so.

PLANTING DOGWOOD

(New Bern Sun-Journal)

Through the cooperation of the Garden Clubs of North Carolina and the State Division of Forestry some 75,000 dogwood trees were planted in North Carolina during the past few weeks. The six annual Dogwood Week was being observed throughout the state, and those who are sponsoring the beautification program have expressed the hope that observance of the week in the years to come will result in the planting of many thousands more of the tree which produces North Carolina's official flower.

While the special week was concluded on February 3, it is being pointed out that planting may continue through February and into March depending, of course, on how early a spring North Carolina has. So there is still time, even in the section, for those who failed to get the planting done and desire to do so.

It is pointed out Forestine Pearce, state chairman of the Garden Club's dogwood project, an investment for the future, with guaranteed quarterly dividends of beauty and color, even with a wintertime bonus of providing natural bird-feeding stations. Some eighty species of birds feed on the berries of the dogwood, and the state chairman adds that the beautiful winter-wood tree is a "must" for all gardeners who know that birds are the soul of the garden.

Some garden clubs are making it a point to transplant dogwoods when land is being cleared to prevent their being ruthlessly destroyed. A Greensboro club has reclaimed an acre of waste municipal land and has saved all the dogwood trees as a conservation project. Greensboro seeks the title of the "Dogwood City" of the Carolinas.

Ervin Silent On Political Intent

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 12—(AP)—Associate Justice Sam J. Ervin, Jr., hasn't said yes or no to the question of whether he will seek the governorship in 1952, but his Burke County supporters are pushing a campaign for him vigorously.

A temporary "Ervin-for-Governor" headquarters was set up at the Sir Walter Hotel here over the weekend during the Democratic Party's Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner.

On hand to greet the visitors were Justice and Mrs. Ervin and members of the Burke delegation. Ervin's name and that of former Senator William B. Umstead of Durham were mentioned by the delegates attending the dinner as the two most likely candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor.

When the various county delegations were introduced during the dinner session, the Burke group arose and one of the members exclaimed: "Burke is the home of the next Governor of North Carolina, Sam Ervin, Jr."

Navy Calls, 18 Rose Boone, N. C., Feb. 12—(AP)—

E. C. Duggins, head football coach at Appalachian State College, has been called to active duty with the Navy.

Duggins, who coached Appalachian to two North State Conference titles, in four years, has been given a leave of absence by the college to return to the Navy, as a lieutenant.

College officials announced last night that Duggins' successor would be named shortly.

Switch Flags To Pierce Blockade

Singapore—(AP)—Ships carrying Malayan rubber to the Chinese Communist ports of Tientsin and Tsingtao are switching to the Panamanian flag to avoid interception by Chinese Nationalist Patrols.

Some of the blockade-runners are former Nationalist vessels according to local shipping sources. The sources named the La Carmela, La Colerada, La Campana, and La Chorrera chartered by the Jehwah Company of Bangkok and the Tai Tong Steamship Company of Hong Kong. All of them are regular on the North China run.

Door locks in the 18th Century frequently were large and elaborately designed. Some were more than a foot long and required keys half that length.

'Romeo And Juliet' Won Applause In Chapel Hill

ANNE MARTIN as Juliet, and JOSEPHINE SHARKEY, as the nurse.

Opening night critics and audiences in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, hailed the Carolina Playmakers exciting production of ROMEO AND JULIET, being brought to The New College Theater in Greenville on Tuesday Night as an outstanding accomplishment in theatrical production. So great, in fact, was the popular response that the play was held over for an unscheduled sixth performance. Presentation of drama in Greenville is sponsored by the Greenville Music Club. Tickets are now on sale at Bissett's Drug Store.

Roy Parker, editorializing in THE DAILY TAR HEEL, independent University paper, observed, "We at Carolina are fortunate to be blessed with such an active and well-trained dramatic art department, and ROMEO AND JULIET is one of their better productions, and being as it is one of the world's best pieces of drama, it should not be passed up." Said Walter Carroll, critic for the Durham Morning Herald, "Samuel Seldon has produced a play that is

Even Astrology Under Red Rule

Berlin—(AP)—The astrologer's lot is a precarious one in Communist East Germany, where all but official soothsayers are frowned on. Helmut Juengling, until recently a resident of the Soviet sector of Berlin, now an inmate in an East German prison, is an example.

The Soviet Army's newspaper in Germany, "Taegliche Rundschau," reports that Juengling was imprisoned after his horoscopes were found to contain propaganda against the Soviet administration in East Germany. The paper gloated, "This false prophet will discover, in his two and one-quarter years in jail, that he couldn't even foretell his own fate."

Socialist Paper Closed By Egypt

Cairo—(AP)—The government has suppressed the weekly newspaper "Misr El Fatah" (Young Egypt), organ of the Socialist party.

Interior Minister Fouad Serag El Din Pasha said the paper was attempting to overthrow Egypt's social system by open advocacy of revolution.

Bucs Bounce Back To Defeat McCrary In Thriller 79-78

Huffman Drops Winning Goal In Last 8 Seconds

The East Carolina Pirates put on a last quarter scoring spree at Ashboro Saturday night to come from behind and take a thrilling 79 to 78 win over the highly regarded McCrary Eagles. The underdog Bucs overcame a 15 point lead in the second half that was climaxed by Charlie Huffman's free throw with eight seconds to go to take their close margin of victory.

Huffman, who was the game's high scorer with 23 points, stepped up to the free throw line and calmly sank his shot to put the Pirates out front and give them the game. The Pirates went into the game as underdogs by virtue of a loss to the strong McCrary team earlier in the season, and had to fight an uphill battle all the way to post the win. They were trailing 40 to 31 at half time, and hopes of avenging the previous loss faded quickly as the Eagles hit for six quick points to widen the gap between the two teams. Huffman and Sonny Russell kept the Pirates within striking range with their deadly shooting from all angles of the court. However, it was a team effort for the Pirates as the double figures to help the Bucs gain their wanted victory.

Sonny Russell was second high scorer in the game, hitting on seven shots from the floor and five free throws for a total of 19 points. He was followed closely by Toddy Fennell who dropped in 18 points for the night. Bobby Hodges had 14 and Richard Blake three to round out the Pirate scoring. Williams got 15 for the Eagles to lead their scoring.

Dolphins Again Take Loop Title

Lexington, Va., Feb. 12—(AP)—North Carolina has won its ninth straight Southern Conference swimming championship.

The Tar Heels clinched the title when they defeated Virginia Military Institute 46-19 here Saturday. It was the first league loss this season for VMI, and the 49th victory in a row for the Tar Heels.

North Carolina set a new conference record of 3 minutes, 57.2 seconds in the 300-yard medley relay. The record breaking team was captain Jimmy Thomas, Barry Wall and Bob Tinkham.

Bears Still Hug Top In NS Circuit

By the Associated Press
Lenoir-Rhyne's Bears are still hulking at the top of the North State Conference basketball standings, and judging by last week's performances that's where they'll be right up to the wire.

Gulford and Catawba helped the Bears up their conference mark to 11 wins against two losses in games last week. The always potent Catawba Indians fell 77-66 before a sellout crowd Saturday and Gulford stumbled 60-43 earlier in the week.

Still, some rough going this week could pale the victory flush of Jim (Pappy) Hamilton's crew. The Bears face three conference foes this week, including the sometimes powerful High Point Panthers.

The Panthers displayed some of that power last week in a record-breaking 119-88 victory over hapless Atlantic Christian. The team's total score set a new mark. Jesse Joyce set a new individual scoring record of 44 points for the conference and a new record for free throws, and several other team marks went by the boards.

But the biggest mark to fall last week was the individual season record which Western Carolina's Ronald Rogers claimed Saturday night. Rogers dumped in 28 points to run his season total to 471 points, beating the old mark of 457 by Ronny Cates of Elon in 1946-47.

This week's schedule:
Monday—Western Carolina at Wofford, Atlantic Christian at Catawba.
Tuesday—Atlantic Christian at Lenoir-Rhyne, Hanes at Gulford.
Wednesday—No games scheduled.
Thursday—East Carolina at High Point, Lenoir-Rhyne at Elon, Western Carolina at Appalachian, Gulford at Catawba.

Friday—No games scheduled.
Saturday—Lenoir-Rhyne at High Point, Catawba at Appalachian, Elon at Gulford, East Carolina at Atlantic Christian.

Darrell Royal Is Signed By Tulsa

Tulsa, Okla., Feb. 12 (AP)—Darrell Royal, assistant football coach at North Carolina State and a former star University of Oklahoma quarterback, has signed a contract as assistant at Tulsa University, head coach Buddy Brothers announced last night.

Brothers said Royal will replace Jack Mitchell, who is going to Texas Tech as an assistant to DeWitt Weaver.

East Carolina Fighter Wins In Golden Gloves

Charlotte, N.C., Feb. 12—(AP)—Two Charlotte brothers, bantamweight Billy Short and lightweight Ronald Short, are eligible to represent the Carolinas in the Eastern Golden Gloves Amateur Boxing Tournament in New York.

They, along with others who won open and service class titles in the 19th annual Carolinas Golden Gloves Tournament here Saturday night are eligible for the New York test Feb. 26-28.

The Charlotte YMCA won four titles to take team honors in the open class here with 24 points. The Greenville, S.C. YMCA was second with 14 points.

Dukes Dick Groat Goes Out Front In Scoring Race

34—DUKE'S DICK
Richmond, Va., Feb. 12—(AP)—Duke University's Dick Groat appeared today to be out to make a runaway of the Southern Conference basketball scoring race.

The Duke dandy was leading every other player in the 17-team circuit with his fancy 26.6-point average. In 14 conference games, Groat has tallied 372 points, 130 of them from the free throw line.

Groat's nearest opponent is big Jimmy Slaughter, South Carolina center, who has a 25.1-point average. Mark Workman, West Virginia center, is in third with 24.6.

Both Groat and Slaughter will see action tonight. Duke, scrapping to gain a berth in the Southern Conference tournament at Raleigh, N. C., March 1, 2 and 3, goes to Davidson. South Carolina journeys to Maryland.

Duke's present loop record is 8-5. The Blue Devils could bolster their chances of gaining a tournament invitation by whipping Davidson. South Carolina, with its 10-4 mark, already has sewed up a bid. So have three other clubs, including North Carolina State (11-1), West Virginia (8-3), and William and Mary (10-5).

Wake Forest and North Carolina both scored Saturday night victories which increased the possibility of their receiving invitations. Wake Forest edged Clemson, 73-72, in an overtime battle. North Carolina spanked The Citadel, 71-53. In other family feuds, the University of Richmond squeezed by Washington and Lee, 68-67; William and Mary routed Virginia Military, 87-67, and State trimmed Duke, 75-65.

Non-conference action saw LaSalle thrash George Washington, 85-63; Virginia Tech smother Virginia, 83-62; the College of Charleston nlp Furman, 62-60, and Penn State down West Virginia, 76-60.

Tourney Tickets Are Going Fast
Raleigh, Feb. 12—(AP)—All $9.00 season tickets for the annual Southern Conference basketball tournament here March 1-3 have been sold.

Tournament Manager Willis Casey announced yesterday that enough orders have been received to sell all the choice seats available in N. C. State College's Coliseum.

Casey said tickets are still available in the 7 and 45 brackets.

The Southeastern Conference Tigers won only three games while Brown won three, losing 22 and tying four. They lost every game last season for the worst football year in Auburn history.

The 35-year-old former Notre Dame star end was brought to Auburn from Canisius College in 1948. He replaced Carl Voyles who took over the Tigers in 1944 and stepped down after four poor years.

Pressure against Brown built up during the past year as Tiger football fortunes hit a new low.

Gov. Gordon Persons attempted to have him replaced almost as soon as Persons took office last month, but was overruled at a conference.

Skip Alexander To Issue Prizes

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 12—(AP)—Skip Alexander, pro golf star who is recovering from injuries received in a plane crash last year, has been named honorary chairman of the 14th annual Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

He says he will try to be here to hand out the $2,000 first prize check. The tournament will be at the Starmount Country Club March 23-26.

Willing Whitey

Manager Leo Durocher dropped a small bombshell into the laps of the baseball writers at his first press conference of the year. He announced that he thought he had a solution for the first base problem that plagued the Giants last season. "I hope to take care of the first base situation as soon as we get to St. Petersburg," said Durocher, "and strengthen two positions at the same time. I intend offering the first base job to Whitey Lockman. I've seen him work out around first base in practice sessions and I think he will be able to handle it. If he can, I'll shift Monte Irwin to the outfield.

Brown Ousted As Auburn Mentor

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 12—(AP)—Earl M. Brown today was ousted as Auburn's head football coach. The faculty athletic committee and President Ralph B. Draughon yesterday terminated his contract effective today. The committee voted to pay him in full for the remainder of the agreement period, which ends Jan. 31, 1952.

Lockman

Lockman is another ball player like Tommy Henrich," he continued. "He can play any position. His lone defensive weakness in the outfield has been a none-too-strong arm. That arm will be adequate for infield work. Irwin, on the other hand, is a strong thrower. Both are fine hitters so I will be getting the most out of the talent they have. Naturally, I'll have to wait until I see how Lockman takes to the suggested change. It's entirely up to him."

Tournament Time Taking Spotlight In Sports World

New York, Feb. 12—(AP)—All the talk has been about the power-packed NCAA basketball tournament. But the National Invitation Tournament, actually one year older than the NCAA meet, also will present an impressive field for its 12-team extravaganza.

Of course, the NCAA gets most of the nation's outstanding teams since winners of the 10 major conferences automatically qualify for that tournament.

Nevertheless, the NIT, originated in 1938, will have a representative field. Most of these teams will come from the independent ranks.

High on the list for NIT berths are St. John's, Cincinnati, Duquesne, Villanova, LIU, Toledo, Seton Hall, Bowling Green, CUNY, LaSalle, and Manhattan.

Then, of course, there are the runners-up in the conference races. These, too, should add lustre to the Madison Square Garden event scheduled for March 12-13-15-17. Some of these teams that may get

Ford-Harrison In Texas Open Finals

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 12—(AP)—Young Doug Ford goes after his first major championship in golf today against veteran campaigner E. J. (Dutch) Harrison when the two meet to decide first money in the $10,000 Texas Open.

Ford and Harrison each finished the 72-hole grind with 265 yesterday as Ford, the 27-year-old Briarcliff, N.Y. par-blaster, rammed down a 10-foot putt on the eighteenth green—last shot of the regular tournament—and got the birdie that gave him a three-under-par 68 and another chance at the $2,000 first prize.

The play-off will be 18 holes. The loser will get $1,400. The two also will split 50 per cent of the gate receipts.

It will be the seventh play-off for Harrison, the St. Andrews, Ill. old-timer to tournament golf. He has won only one of the six previous ones—the first, against Henry Poe at Pinehurst, N.C. in 1936.

While Ford and Harrison fight it out, most of the other touring golfers will be rolling into Harlingen for the Rio Grande Valley Open. Seven flew to Mexico City last night to play in the Mexican National Open, these being headed by Jimmie Demaret, Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., another top-notch, is on the way home where his father is seriously ill and Chick Harbert of St. Petersburg, Fla. is going home on business.

birds are Bradley, West Virginia, St. Louis, Wyoming, Utah and Texas. The conference winners also are eligible and two or three may shoot for the "grand-slam" achieved by CCNY last year.

LaMotta Conserving Energy For Robinson Bout Feb. 14

Chicago, Feb. 12—(AP)—Jake LaMotta, so haunted by a weight-making problem he all but roots on his scales, has finally shaken off the ghost.

He has pared down to the 160 pound limit for defense of his middleweight crown against Sugar Ray Robinson Wednesday.

He thinks he can hold the line with a careful diet and vitamin pills until weighing in officially at 160 a. m. on fight day.

The Bronx Bull now says his only worry is "conserving my strength."

As early as last Saturday—five days before he tangles with the welterweight champion in Chicago Stadium—thick shouldered Jake has upped how to stockpile his energy. He would simply rest.

He called off his Saturday sparring session and went on a shopping tour for loud neckties in the Loop. Yesterday he also cancelled a scheduled workout, exercising only his vocal chords at a press conference. It will be just light drills today and not even that tomorrow.

Old-time ringbirds say a five-day vacation before a title fight is unprecedented.

"I don't care what they say," belovéd Jake. "The lower in weight I get the more strength I lose. Ain't that right, Doc?"

Dr. Philip Brunori, LaMotta's one-man entourage, is no man to mince words.

"Right!" he snapped. "I gotta scale in my room," added Jake. "and I'm living by it. Sometimes I'm over 160 and sometimes I'm under it. I plan to weigh 154½ Wednesday morning."

As unorthodox as it may seem, LaMotta has formed a habit of vacationing before ring time. He did not box for three days before ridding his middleweight title against Laurent Dauthuille at Detroit last September. And he recalled he rested four days before winning the crown from Marcel Cerdan in 1946.

The mulish, body-sledding LaMotta has never been accused of lacking stamina. In his last and only defense of his crown, against Dauthuille, he was losing for 14 rounds then exploded a kayo punch in the final minute of the 15th.

Chapter 4
Phelan and Jenkins uncovered nothing in their search, and soon we were all together again in the living room.

"There's one more thing Professor," Phelan said gruffly. "I'd like for you to look at the body of this Lawrence Straw."

"Certainly, Lieutenant. I'll be glad to oblige you."

Phelan went out the door after him and called down the stairs: "Davide! Professor Thomson is on his way down. Show him the body."

"Well, we'll start upstairs and work down," Phelan decided, glancing at Jenkins.

"Let's see," Jenkins consulted his notebook. "Mrs. Ross, the invalid, is in 4-A, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas are in 4-B."

"Okay," Mrs. Ross first. "With Phelan in the lead, they started toward the fourth floor. I walked back into Thomson's apartment only to find Caldwell's eyes leveled at me.

"Aw, Prof," I said, anticipating his instructions, "do I have to tag along after the coppers?"

"Merely go along and observe, Bendy," Caldwell said quietly between puffs on his pipe.

I went upstairs with dragging feet but got there in time to follow Jenkins into the Ross apartment. It was sort of funny the way Phelan was pushing the fat old nurse back, step by step.

"Yeah, yeah, yeah," Phelan kept assuring her. "We aren't going to disturb Mrs. Ross. I know she's sick. We're looking for a murderer and he may be in here."

Jenkins meanwhile strode rapidly through the apartment turning on lights, entering rooms, extinguishing lights off, and going on to the next room. At last we got to Mrs. Ross' bedroom. Jenkins snapped at the invalid's wizened, sleeping face, gave the room a quick glance, and snapped the light off. We went back to the living room where Phelan was still arguing with the nurse.

"Have you and Mrs. Ross been alone all day?"

"I keep telling you that over and over!" The nurse was fairly quivering with rage. "No one's been here! We've been alone! We didn't hear anything!"

"All right. Do you know Lawrence Straw?"

"He works for Mrs. Ross. What about him?"

"What kind of work?" Phelan demanded.

"Lawrence is her auditor. Why?"

"Was he here this afternoon?"

The nurse groaned painfully and rolled her eyes. "No one was here this afternoon!" she shouted, slapping the arm of a chair for emphasis. "NO ONE! Do you want me to spell it?"

"I know he was in the building," Phelan said, his eyes intent on her face, "because he's still here. He was murdered right outside this door."

The old nurse's mouth gaped foolishly and her eyes opened so wide I thought they'd split. "I don't believe it!" she gasped.

"Not Mr. Straw!"

Phelan shrugged. "Take her downstairs and show him to her. Jenkins," he said in a tight, hard voice. He watched Jenkins and the nurse start down, then he muttered: "Let's move on. We'll leave Mrs. Ross until morning."

He pressed the buzzer of the door across the hall and we heard it squawk r-r-r-r like a wood pecker on a tin roof. No one answered.

But Phelan muttered. I followed him down to the third floor and watched him buzz the apartment across from Thomson's. The door opened almost before the buzzer stopped.

"Hello!" A slip of a girl greeted "Mr. Faraday?"

"No, it isn't Mr. Faraday," Phelan said gruffly, stepping forward. "It's Lieutenant Phelan of the Detective Bureau. Mind if we come in?" He pushed forward into the apartment without waiting for an answer.

A large square sofa interested me immediately, for a small blonde sat in the center of it, her blue eyes wide and expectant.

I smiled at the blonde and walked over and sat down beside her. "Hello," she said pleasantly

Wrong Turn In Right Direction

Butte, Mont.—(AP)—A local resident was freed in police court on a charge of drunkenness, but got mixed up on the doors and walked into the cell block instead of through the exit to the streets.

County officials then phoned to have him held on a charge of failing to provide for minor children. Police reported he had been released. While a constable searched for him, the city jailer, making routine rounds in the cell block, found the man still wandering around looking for the way out.

Phelan and Jenkins walked down the hall and began turning on lights and opening doors. I decided to stay with the girls.

June Hanson gave me an accusing glance. I shook my head and said: "Don't shoot, I'm not a copper."

She kept glancing nervously toward the hallway.

"All right, girls," Phelan grunted. "That's all for now. As soon as you've both looked at the body—"

"Anything to get you guys out of here!" June Hanson exclaimed, jumping to her feet. "Come on, Elaine, let's get it over with!"

The girls peered into the cage together. Color drained from Elaine's face, and June Hanson pressed her fist hard against her mouth to stifle a scream as she saw Lawrence Straw's face.

"Oh, my God," she whispered hoarsely. "It's John Faraday!"

Sousquehanna River Ice Jam Is Causing Town Water-Shortage

Columbia, Pa., Feb. 12—(AP)—A vast ice jam has created a water famine in this Susquehanna River town of 12,000, forcing authorities to proclaim a state of "dire" emergency.

In order to eke out the mere trickle coming in, through improvised channels, officials have imposed a rigorous rationing system. Each person is held to one quart of drinking water a day. Water for boiling coffee is all but a forbidden luxury. Bathing and shaving are discouraged. By order of Burgess Walter Royce, all places of business using water for dunking purposes have been closed.

Whatever water can be obtained,

Royce ordered, must be boiled. "We can't take any chances," he said. "The drinking of unpurified water could cause disease and epidemic."

"Let's face it, we are like a beleaguered city," commented other officials. "The entire life of the community is thrown out of joint, and hazards exist which were not thought of a few days ago."

Royce and his colleagues said they were troubled most lest fire break out.

"We'd be wiped out by a fire," they asserted.

And today it was thought likely these conditions might last indefinitely. A slight thaw yesterday had no effect on the ice jam.

The river remained frozen fast for eight miles, shore to shore, from Marietta to Washington Boro. Columbia stands midway between those river points.

The ice jam caused a freak flood which last Friday sent the river 17 feet above normal level, drove 50 families from their homes, disrupted railroad service and engulfed some highways. The Columbia Water Works was put out of commission, and several industries closed down.

Main help now is coming in a shuttle truck service from Lancaster, 12 miles east. Water is hauled in tank trucks, commonly used to carry some 35,000 gallons of milk. Residents take jugs or bottles to collect their dose of water from milk cans at various distributing points.

Even so, there has not been enough water to go around. Many persons went into the country yesterday, seeking water from springs and wells.

Liquor Appeal To Superior Court

Rosa Lee Warren, Negro woman of Mack Street, Greenville, was arrested Saturday night when ABC enforcement officers searched her home and found a trap in a closet with 11 pints of bootleg whiskey.

In City Police Court this morning the woman pleaded guilty to the charge of possession of the whiskey. The judge fined her $500 or go to jail for a period of 18 months, after which the woman stated that she wanted to appeal the case to Superior Court.

Officers stated that in October of last year the woman was arrested on a similar charge when a raid on her home revealed a trap housing several pints of whiskey.

At that time she was fined $150. A bond of $500 was placed by Judge Roberts this morning pending the next term of Superior Court.

Officers making the raid were J. M. Ward, Claude Manning, J. L. Taylor, ABC men; and Bowen Dorsey, Loyd Manning and Duke Andrews, members of the sheriff's office.

Robert Holt To Lead Week's Study Course

Robert Holt, director of religious activities at East Carolina Teachers College, will lead a study course during this week at the Baptist Student Center in Greenville. Meetings will be held every evening from 8:45 to 7:15. "Understanding the Christian Faith," a book by Georgia Harkness, professor of theology at Garrett Biblical Institute, will be the basis of study and discussion.

Roadblocks . . .

(Continued From Page One) The discussion group are Dr. A. D. Frantz, Dr. Paul A. Toll and Dr. H. A. Coleman, members of the social science department at the college. Dr. M. N. Posey, English professor, will be moderator.

Fire Goes On . . .

(Continued From Page One) All of the sleeping persons in the house were awakened by the smoke and flames and were able to make their way out of the house safely. Oddly enough, one of the residents of the house was a member of the Negro Volunteer Fire Department.

Very little furnishings of the house were saved.

While firemen were battling the fire at its height, a second alarm was turned in from Center and Mills streets across town, and several firemen were dispatched from the first fire to go to the second alarm.

On arrival, firemen found nothing and stated that it was just another false alarm. In the past several months a number of false alarms have been turned in from the box 323.

A burning mattress at the home of Nina Davis on Washington street, around 1:00 yesterday afternoon again brought firemen out for the fifth time. No damage was reported.

Other calls answered by the department were at Batchelor Brothers store on Evans street when a steam pipe broke, sending steam out from under the building and later when smoke was observed coming from the Mumford Building on Five Points. There was no fire, firemen reported, as a chimney located near the edge of the building can not be seen from the street giving the impression that the building is on fire, officials stated.

The Colombo . . .

Naturally, the question of birth control has cropped in the discussions, but that is a subject which most of the experts promptly sidestep. There are many religious objections to such control, and some Asiatic peoples don't take kindly to the idea, quite apart from religious reasons.

However the possibility of over-population in the future isn't stopping the Colombo Plan. This vast project contemplates a great transformation of the area in question in six years. Among other things it is planned to get 13 million more acres of land under cultivation and produce six million more tons of food grains.

The Colombo Plan provides that a large part of the cost of the project will fall on the governments of the countries to be helped. The British say their own contribution is likely to be well over $840,000,000. America's participation will include so far as possible the co-ordination of her own programs in that area with the British Commonwealth and the United Nations projects.

Married Couples . . .

Any couple filing on Form 1040-A or the 1040 Short Form get a standard deduction of about 10 per cent of their income for personal expenses. They don't have to itemize it or even claim it. They're given it. It's already allowed for in the tax table used in figuring the tax on people using those two forms.

But suppose husband and wife had combined income under $5,000. And say one of them had deductible expenses that ran above 10 per cent, while the other didn't. How do they file?

If one partner in a marriage, where combined income was under $5,000, wants to claim more than the standard 10 per cent deduction, he or she must do so on the Long Form.

In such a case, can the other partner in the marriage use Form 1040-A or the 1040 Short Form? No. When one uses the 1040 Long Form and itemizes, the other must use the 1040 Long Form and itemize, too.

If you're in a spot like this, it may be worth your while to figure your tax both ways—on Long and Short Form—to see whether you come out ahead in using the Long Form.

Jars Of Bootleg Whiskey Found By ABC Raiders

Grifton, Feb. 12—Pitt County ABC officers J. M. Ward, J. L. Taylor, Claude Manning, and Chief Herbert Adams, of Grifton, arrested Jack Strong, Negro, of near Grifton Saturday afternoon on charges of illegal possession of non-tax paid whiskey for purpose of sale.

The liquor was uncovered when the officers searched his premises and found one gallon. Officers stated that the man had broken some other whiskey-laden jars before they could gain entrance into the house.

Strong reportedly told the officers that the whiskey "got hot" when he saw the officers and he had to do something about it.

The man was released under a $200 bond pending the next term of County Court.
