New Round Of Wage Hikes Fought By WSB Members

Industry Members Of Nine-Man Board Say They Hope To Catch Up Inequities At Future Date; Wage Dilemma Splits Group Three Ways

Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—Industry members of the Wage Stabilization Board, determined to fight off a new round of postwar wage increases, proposed today that the government limit future pay raises to eight per cent above Jan. 15, 1949, levels.

The three management representatives on the nine-man board said they hoped to allow only "catch-up inequities" of that size in future contracts. But they would agree to another review of the wage picture next June. Since V-J Day in August 1945, there have been four or five, general pay-boost movements, depending on the point of view.

The Wage Stabilization Board, headed by Cyrus S. Ching, is striving to devise a formula by which the Jan. 25 freeze on wages can be relaxed for the long mobilization pull.

Here's how the board's three-way membership splits on methods of dealing with the wage dilemma: Labor Members—they want at least 12 per cent above the wage levels prevailing just before the Korean war started on June 25, 1950. On top of that, they would allow cost-of-living adjustments by contact or by board approval to cover such cases as the auto industry's agreement, which netted the CIO-Auto Workers 10 cents more an hour in 1950 and probably will yield another nickel an hour before June 1.

Public Members—they'll go for an eight per cent wage hike, but think it should exclude pensions and other so-called "fringe benefits" before and after the freeze deadline of January 25. Ching is working hard to bring his three votes into line either with the Labor or Industry units so that a formula may be written to release the vast backlog of contracts now expiring or being negotiated. The public members hold the balance of power, but have to garner at least two more votes from the industry or labor members to get a majority of the nine-man panel.

Industry Members—they concede that some contracts—like those of John L. Lewis' miners and Philip Murray's steelworkers—have provided pay increases of 10 per cent for workers, but say that in the last three months of 1950 there was a general pattern of pay hikes of six to seven per cent. On top of that, they say pension and other fringe issues could account for additional pay advantages to workers, so that after Jan. 25, they'd approve only all-embracing eight per cent. The industry representatives are Ward Keener, Henry Arthur, and Reuben Robertson, Jr.

Accept Orders For Planting Dogwood Trees

Orders for dogwood trees are still being taken by members of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce during the next few weeks. Jimmy Wells and Lester Turner, co-chairmen of the Jaycee dogwood project, said orders will be taken for the trees during the next few days, and planting will begin when the orders justify. The trees will sell for $1 each.

Last spring the Jaycees of Greenville planted approximately 300 dogwood trees on privately owned property and on city property within the city limits. It is a part of the organization's continuing program of city beautification.

Seek Speed-Up In Civil Court Cases

Pitt Bar Association Sets Up Committee To Study Calendaring Methods With Swifter Procedure As Goal

By action of the County Bar Association a committee has been set up to investigate how the calendaring of civil cases for Superior Court can be speeded up. The committee will report its investigation at the next meeting and submit it to the members for their discussion or criticism.

The committee's work grew out of a report by attorney Kenneth Hite last night concerning how other counties calendar cases for the court. Hite reported most counties have a calendaring committee, composed of members of the bar, which sets the cases for hearing before each term. In Pitt the cases are set by a general meeting of attorneys who have cases waiting for trial.

The committee's ultimate goal is the speeding up of the calendaring procedure with an eye toward clearing away current cases on the docket. One method of helping speed up the procedure, Hite stated, and used in other counties, is a loss of priority of a case for trial when opposing lawyers agree to have a case continued for one reason or another. However, that is applicable in large population counties such as Guilford, Mecklenburg and Buncombe, he said.

Members of the investigating committee are J. W. H. Roberts, Jr., chairman, Hite, J. Henry Harrell and James Evans. Hite's report came from work done by a committee composed of himself, Roberts, chairman, and James Worsley.

The members resolved to write a memorial to the late Arthur Corey into the record. Corey who died last year, was a member of the Bar Association. President W. W. Speight appointed six committees to work under him during the year. The executive committee, of which he is an ex-officio member, is composed of D. K. James, Albion Dunn, James Evans and M. K. Blount. Other committee appointments are: Professional ethics: J. Henry Harrell, chairman, Robert Rouse, Frank Wooten.

Entertainment: Col. Owen Marshall, chairman, Horton Rountree, Jack Edwards. Memorials: Robert Booth, chairman, Clifton Everett, Charles H. Whedbee.

Program and publicity: Kenneth Hite, chairman, Dan Jones, Louis W. Gaylord, Jr. Grievances and complaints: J. W. H. Roberts, chairman, W. J. Bundy, E. H. Taft, Jr. Legislation: R. B. Lee, chairman, John R. Barker, Sam B. Underwood, Jr.

Press Control Test In Georgia Assembly

Two Talmadge Bills Scrape Through Georgia Senate; Third Drastic Measure Slapped Down By Lower House

Atlanta, Feb. 14—(AP)—Two of Gov. Herman Talmadge's bills to restrict newspapers barely squeaked through the Georgia Senate yesterday while his third and most severe measure was slapped down in the House.

The House bill would have required all newspapers, magazines and other periodicals "clothed with a public interest and subject to regulation by the state." Rallied by pleas to preserve the freedom of the press, the representatives throttled it 95 to 56. Opponents of all three bills attacked them as clearly unconstitutional. They also branded the bills as punitive against papers that have criticized the Talmadge Administration and its acts.

Sen. Smith Joins 'Great Debate' Sides With Taft

Would Not Send American Troops To Europe Without Congress Approval

Asheville, Feb. 14—(AP)—Senator Willis Smith today added his voice to the Great Debate on U. S. foreign policy and said America should not send troops to Europe without congressional approval.

The declaration by North Carolina's freshman Democratic Senator is the first public statement he has made on the troop controversy now raging in Washington. In an address before the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation convention here, the former Raleigh corporation attorney said: "I do not subscribe to the theory that the Executive and not Congress has the power to send American armies anywhere on earth."

By opposing President Truman on the troops-to-Europe issue, Smith lined himself up with Senator Robert Taft (R-O), leading critic of the administration's proposal to strengthen our European allies. Smith quoted Section One of Article Eight of the U. S. Constitution dealing with the power of Congress to declare war, and added: "We are at war—and make no mistake about that. We are in a serious war and not merely a police action."

"We are in this war not by the usual and constitutional congressional declaration as has been one of the cardinal provisions of our Constitution since the foundation of our Republic. Rather we are at war because we assumed certain obligations under the charter of the United Nations—whether wisely or unwisely we can not for certain know."

He said that because of the obligation of the UN charter and "delegation of the Executive branch of government," thousands of "American boys have lost their lives x x x thousands of other boys have lost their arms, their legs, their eyes x x x in Korea."

"Whether by wise design or colossal blundering," the U. S. is in "this war," he said. "There are millions of Americans who do not believe we should ever have gone into Korea. There are other millions who believe we should retire from the field," he said.

Johnston Urges Steep Tax Boost

Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston urged today that Congress adopt a "tough and steep" tax increase to help control inflation and keep the nation's finances on an even keel.

He also told the House Ways and Means committee he believes the present controls on wages, prices and production can be lifted in two or three years, "barring a full scale attack." This is the program Johnston laid before the committee, which is considering President Truman's request for an immediate $10,000,000,000 tax increase.

"1. We must use controls to bring an equitable balance between prices and wages to help level off the cost of living. "2. We must have a drastic boost in taxes so we can pay for defense as we go and siphon off excess purchasing power. "3. We must adopt more comprehensive limitations on credit to prevent easy-going money chasing pell-mell after a shrinking supply of goods. "4. Most important of all, we must vastly multiply our production and our productive facilities to fill our vital defense needs."

Allies Take Murderous Of Chinese; Wonsan Raid

Red Blows Endanger U. N. Drive

Black arrows locate the areas where Chinese and Korean Reds have struck back at U. N. forces. On the central front (A), the Reds have rammed a dangerously deep wedge into Allied lines. One Communist column southwest of Hoengsong threatens the Wonsan road. In the west, Red defenses in Seoul (B) forced U. N. patrols to withdraw from the outer edges of the city. On the east coast, a South Korean column drove into Yangyang, north of the 38th parallel. The broken line represents the approximate front prior to Red attacks. (AP Wire-photo Map).

Little Hope MacArthur To Get Desired Troops

U. S. Officials See Many Factors Working Against Dispatch Of Sufficient Forces To Decisively Whip Chinese

Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—Officials here see little chance that Gen. Douglas MacArthur will get the power and authority he considers necessary to achieve complete victory over the Chinese communists in Korea. The expedited dispatch of American troops to western Europe, a widespread desire in high places here for a reasonable Korean settlement if possible, the determination to avoid spreading the war—all these factors seem certain to work against fulfillment of the conditions described by MacArthur as essential to success.

On the issue of bombing by U. N. planes in Manchuria, Washington sees difficulty on two counts. In the first place this country's allies, notably Britain, are anxious to keep the Korean war in strict limits. They have objected to possible crossing of the 38th parallel as it appeared last weekend U. N. forces soon might do. In the second place military authorities here have ruled out bombing in Manchuria because it might bring a communist Far Eastern air force into the fight.

N. C. Lawmakers Kill Repeal Of Closed Shop Ban

N. C. Lawmakers, 18 Rose Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 14—(AP)—While the Senate debated increased aid to cities for their streets a house committee today killed a bill to repeal the law banning the closed shop in North Carolina.

Assembly To Get Pay-Increase Bill

Raleigh, Feb. 14—(AP)—Legislation to increase pay of state workers by 10 per cent probably will be introduced in the General Assembly next week.

Two Communist Divisions Shattered In Welter Of Blood, Bombs And Shellfire; South Korean Marines Make Amphibious Landing Far Above Parallel 38; Superforts Encounter Russian-Made Jets

Tokyo, Feb. 14—(AP)—South Korean marines landed today at the big North Korean east coast port of Wonsan in a surprise raid under cover of a strong allied naval bombardment.

Wonsan is 90 miles inside Red territory above parallel 38 on the Sea of Japan. On the flaming central Korean front American, French and Dutch forces inflicted a staggering toll on Chinese and Red Korean divisions striving for a breakthrough along a 20-mile wide sector. A field dispatch said the allied defenders shattered two communist divisions "in a welter of blood, bombs and shellfire." It added: "The Chinese dead lay by the thousands on all sides of surrounded Chipyong. Other thousands were heaped up also in the river valley eight miles west-northwest of Wonsan where they stumbled into a murderous air and artillery ambush."

On the western front, American doughboys moved down 1,152 Red Korean sneak troops who had crossed the Han River and slipped inside allied lines. They captured nearly 250 more communist soldiers. American machine-guns cut down fleeing remnants of the Red Korean force as they tried to splash back across the Han. Allied losses were reported small.

Patrols Wiped out U. S. 25th Division troops wiped out two Red patrols who were stalking boldly across Sand Island, a sandbar in the Han between Seoul and its industrial suburb, Yongsungpo. The 60 Reds in the patrol used Korean civilians as a shield. At a signal, the civilians dropped to the ground and the Reds fired at allied forces on the south bank. The GI's fired back. "It was like shooting sitting ducks," one American soldier said. A second Red patrol was wiped out as it raced across the Seoul city airport which is located on the sand flat.

Afternoon Landing The landing at Wonsan, on the Sea of Japan, was made early Wednesday afternoon. A big allied task force including the battleship Missouri bombarded Red installations. Then the South Korean marines swarmed ashore north of the harbor. Eighth Army headquarters said the ROKs fought to the city's outskirts and seized two islands off the port. Resistance was reported light. But a large force of Reds was spotted moving south on the port of Hamhung, about 50 miles to the north.

Red Jets Active Across the peninsula, at least seven Russian-built MIG-15 jets attacked American B-29s. The Superforts were making a bomb run over Red barracks at Tokchon. All returned safely to their Japanese base, landing in a snowstorm.

Reds Fused Up An allied unit which had been surrounded seven miles southeast of Chipyong broke out of the communist ring Wednesday morning after a two hour fight. Later it counter-attacked and pursued the Reds into the hills four miles northeast of Yoju.

United Nations artillery was pounding with deadly effect into the Red ranks. One Red division walked into an American artillery ambush Wednesday noon about six miles northwest of Wonsan. Another earlier barrage caught a Chinese force which included jack animals loaded with ammunition.

American and French forces battled to hold Chipyong, 20 miles northwest of Wonsan, and western anchor of the central front line. Dutch troops held a key sector farther east. A Dutch battalion had covered the allied rear guard as it pulled back from Hoengsong, 10 miles north of Wonsan.

ASK FOR ROAD BIDS Raleigh, Feb. 14—(AP)—The State Highway Commission yesterday asked for bids on 39 road projects in 34 counties. The bids will be opened here Feb. 27 and reviewed by the Highway Commission March 2.

Who Uses Form 1040-A?

It's The Simplest Form For Filing Income Tax Returns; Big Convenience For Those Whose Tax Is Deducted From Pay Envelopes; A Few Reminders Given

Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—Although Form 1040-A is the simplest to use in making your 1950 income tax return, not everyone can use it. You can use it—Your income was under $5,000 and full tax was withheld from all of it except for no more than $100 in untaxed wages, interest or dividends. (You can see from this that Form 1040-A was meant mostly for people who had full tax withheld from them in 1950 although some leeway was made for those with a little extra untaxed income—of a certain kind.) If you had income of more than $100 in untaxed wages or interest or dividends or any other source, like rents or fees or farming, you can't use Form 1040-A. If your income was under $5,000 and for some reason you don't fit the rule for using Form 1040-A, you can use the 1950 Short Form. Just remember though: the un-

Moslem Solidarity

Mohammedan Nations Pledge Common Front Against Any Aggressors; Kashmir Also Regarded As Moslem Territory; Action Said Not Aimed At Hindu India

From the World Moslem Conference, in Karachi, Pakistan, which closed last night, came the warning that the Mohammedan nations will stand together in event of aggression against any one of them. This resolution of solidarity is framed to keep within the tenets of Islam and the United Nations charter. It is in effect a reaffirmation of that verse from the Koran: "Verily all Moslems are brethren." However, when all softening phrases are shown away, it means that the global Moslem bloc—316,000,000 strong—is determined to defend itself. That is a momentous development, which has to be fitted into the jigsaw puzzle of our divided world. Naturally one of our first questions is whether this declaration has any special relation to the dangerous controversy raging between India and Pakistan over control of the princely state of Kashmir. This

Loans To Franco Granted By U. S.

Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—The United States has granted Franco Spain loans of $12,200,000—the first grant made from a congressional authorization of $62,500,000 for Spain. The $12,200,000 was divided into four separate 2.5-year loans: $5,000,000 for cotton, $3,500,000 for fertilizers, $3,000,000 for tractors and spare parts and $700,000 for equipment to complete a fertilizer plant in Spain. The loans are aimed at relieving poor agricultural conditions in Spain, for which lack of nitrogen fertilizers has been blamed in large part.

40 Years Ago Today

February 14, 1911

Mrs. Bennett W. Moseley entertained most charmingly at a Valentine reception Tuesday afternoon in honor of her sister, Mrs. Hunter Marshall, of Lynchburg and Mrs. George B. W. Hadley. The reception was to welcome to her home town, Mrs. Hadley who for several years has lived in La Grange.

Mrs. W. H. Dall and Mrs. T. E. Hooker received the guests at the library door, directing them to the tea table. Mrs. Charles Forbes and Mrs. J. L. Hassell then invited the callers to the dining room where they were served a dainty ice course.

Little Miss Frances Moseley, the daughter of the house, assisted by her little friend, Miss Alice Lee Hooker, received the cards of the many guests, about a hundred having called to do honor to Mrs. Moseley and her guests. Greenville society is delighted to welcome to its ranks Mrs. Hadley, who as Miss Bruce Forbes was one of our most charming and popular girls.

Valentine Dance Given At Club By Teen-Agers

Miss Dolly Best and Miss Louise Snaw were hostesses to members of the young teenage set on Saturday night when they entertained at a Valentine dance at the Woman's club.

Attractive use of appropriate Valentine decorations made the club room festive for the occasion. A punch table placed to one side was centered with red carnations and fern with pairs of red tapers at each end. Lime sherbet, sandwiches, canapes, Valentine mints and cup cakes were served throughout the evening.

Dancing was enjoyed by 75 members of the younger set.

Mrs. C.A. Bowen Guest Speaker At Clio Club

Mrs. Clara Mays Shackell was gracious hostess to the Clio Book club on Tuesday afternoon, February 13, at her home on Evans street. Lovely arrangements of white gladioli and fern were used throughout the rooms where the guests assembled.

Mrs. Jack Gates presided in the absence of the president, and welcomed the following guests: Mesdames Lizzie Winstead, Carrie French, Luther Moore, J. L. Winstead, J. J. Perkins, Hortense Mays, C. A. Bowen, Misses Sonora Moore and Bess Scott, new librarian at Sheppard Memorial library.

Mrs. W. S. Best told something of the plans for Book Club Day, although so far detailed plans are incomplete.

Mrs. Gates read a letter from Dr. O. L. Phillips of E. C. T. C. calling attention to the courses being offered at the college in adult education.

Mrs. Shackell introduced Mrs. C. A. Bowen who read a paper on Education in Russia. Mrs. Bowen stated that children are taught early to revere Stalin and to know Communism as the only way of life. She passed pictures illustrating many phases of Russian education. This paper made clear how much free people have to be thankful for in America.

A delicious salad course with coffee and decorated cakes, carrying out the Valentine motif, were served by the hostess.

American Cottons Turn To Oriental Stylings

HAREM SKIRT . . . It's done in deep amethyst polished cotton and worn with a sleeveless sweater in Chinese turquoise crocheted wool, for Oriental effect.

WASHABLE COTTON LAME . . . This glittering new cotton looks like gold cloth, is used for a cocktail skirt combined with black fish-net top. All by Greta Platry.

FAR EASTERN NOTE . . . Fringed rabbit-hair jersey sari in pink jade tone to match linen camicole dress.

By DOROTHY ROE, Associated Press Fashion Editor. American designers seem to be fascinated this season by the romance of the Far East, despite the harrowing nature of the news from that sector.

Perhaps it's a nostalgic throw-back to the days when all was peaceful on the Road to Mandalay.

Mother And Child Praise Hadacol

HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron Which Their Systems Lacked

Mrs. Charles Reynolds, Route 2, Fayetteville, Ark., and her little daughter see to it each day that neither of them forgets to take their HADACOL. It's no wonder that they are so loud in their praise of HADACOL for HADACOL supplied Vitamin B1, B2, Niacin and Iron which their systems lacked, and helped them to overcome those deficiency-caused ailments that had troubled them so. Mrs. Reynolds sees to it that they continue taking their HADACOL to help prevent those deficiency-caused ailments from coming back.

Here is what Mrs. Reynolds says: "I am 29 years old and I had been weak and run-down for some time. I took one bottle of your HADACOL and I feel so much better. I have a better appetite and sleep much better. I also gave HADACOL to my little 8-year-old daughter. She had no appetite and was draggy and cranky. After taking a bottle of HADACOL, she eats better and plays so much better. We are continuing to take HADACOL." Many doctors recommend HADACOL. Ask for it today and get that "Wonderful HADACOL Feeling." (C) 1951, The LeBanc Corporation

Pink jade is a color she favors for a linen outfit with matching wool jersey sari with white fringe.

Washable cotton lame which looks like gold cloth suggests Oriental splendor to Miss Platry, who uses it in a dressy outfit with a black fish-net top bound in gold-and-turquoise braid.

Be that as it may, you'll be seeing Oriental trends all over the place, come summer, ranging all

One of the Mandalay-minded designers is Greta Platry, who has won fame in the past for piquant sweaters and engaging sports outfits of fake fur.

Her current resort-into-summer group of styles plays heavily on the Oriental theme, which she interprets in the newest versions of American-made cottons.

HE CAME TO KOREA—Jesse Newton, Jr. (left), 26, came all the way from New York to Korea at his own expense to join the army so he could "shoot the Communists." He is being questioned at 8th Army headquarters by Col. Raymond Ramsey of Miami, deputy provost marshal. Arriving in Korea in civilian clothes, the youngster from Temple City, Calif., hitch-hiked to the battle front and tried to enlist in the famous U. S. Wolfhound 27th Infantry Regiment. Army officials took him to the rear for questioning. They indicated he may get his wish if he passes the physical examination. (AP Wire-photo via radio from Tokyo).

Fountain Club Views Film Strip On Cancer

Fountain.—The February meeting of the Fountain Senior Women's Club was held in the home of Mrs. J. L. Peele Tuesday afternoon, February 6. There were 14 members and three guests present.

With Mrs. Jack Speight presiding, the meeting opened with the reading of the Collect.

After the business session, a short movie entitled "Cancer of the Breast" was shown.

Mrs. L. P. Yelverton, program chairman for the afternoon, presented Mrs. Russel Williams of Nashville. Mrs. Williams gave a very instructive and entertaining paper on "The Life of Will Rogers."

Of a special interest to members of the club was a picture of Mrs. Williams' brother, Dr. Dick Eagles of Louisville, taken with Will Rogers when he was in Raleigh 25 years ago. During the refreshment hour Mrs. Peele served a delicious salad plate and coffee.

According to Navajo legend, a large sandstone formation in northwestern New Mexico called "Shiprock" was once really a ship in which ancestors of the Indians arrived in that country.

Tea In Fountain Saturday Fetes Recent Bride

Fountain.—Mrs. J. Leland Flanagan was entertained at a formal tea Saturday afternoon by her mother, Mrs. J. M. Horton, in Fountain.

Mrs. Hardy Johnson greeted the guests at the front door. Mrs. R. F. Speight introduced the guests to the receiving line: Mrs. Horton, Mrs. Leland Flanagan, Mrs. S. M. Flanagan and Mrs. Graham Jefferson, sister-in-law of the bride.

Guests were invited to the dining room where they were served lime punch, bridal cakes, decorated sandwiches, ham biscuits, cheese straws, nuts and minis. Mrs. John Flanagan poured punch and Mrs. R. L. West served the cakes. The table was centered with pink carnations and snapdragons, flanked by tall silver candelabra holding pink candles. The bridal motif was also carried out in the living room where bowls of pink snapdragons and carnations were used with tall white candles. Red American Beauty roses were used in the hall.

Mrs. R. A. Fountain Jr. presided at the register. Miss Carolyn Roebuck of Farmville rendered piano selections during the afternoon. Those receiving in the home were: Mrs. L. P. Yelverton, Mrs. R. A. Fountain Jr., Mrs. E. B. Beasley Jr., Mrs. G. E. Trevathan, Mrs. Albert Mercer, Mrs. E. W. Hunt, Mrs. M. D. Yelverton, Mrs. Dennis Mercer, Mrs. Phil Cory and Mrs. Bill Walker.

Grifton WSCS Holds Regular Meeting

Grifton.—An interesting meeting of the W.S.C.S. of the Methodist Church was had on Monday night when they met in regular session in the church. Mrs. J. L. Quinerly presided. Mrs. Sam Nelson, spiritual life leader, led in a short devotional, using as the opening song "Break Thou The Bread of Life." This was followed by an appropriate scripture and prayer.

A business hour was had and then a program was presented. Mrs. Sam McLawhorn had charge of this. A poem was read by Mrs. John Oglesby; "Thanksgiving" was the topic. In a playlet, "The Health of the American Indian," Mrs. Quinerly, Mrs. Roy Jackson and Mrs. Cecil Cobb took part. The program was concluded with a poem, "Praises to Jehovah For His Revelation," by Mrs. McLawhorn.

During the social hour the hostesses for the evening, Mesdames Sam Nelson, Richard Nelson and Roger Johnson invited the group to the recreation rooms of the church where punch and cookies were served. The table was covered with a white cloth and centered with a vase of red roses and lighted red candles in crystal holders. The Valentine motif was suggested in the appointments and refreshments.

Investment and ownership too, may be seen in the public buildings, schools, court houses, city halls, fire stations, parks, playgrounds, hospitals and other publicly owned properties. The structures are purchased or built from funds paid through taxes by all the people, and a portion of the money which the people have paid the government in taxes.

The new $1,400,000 Pitt Memorial hospital represents a tremendous investment in the future better health of the people of this area. It is owned by all the people of Pitt county, and to some extent, all the tax payers of this county, this state and this nation helped pay for the hospital. East Carolina Teachers College, the city schools, the county schools, utilities and other properties are similar examples of public ownership.

In Greenville and Pitt county alone, the publicly owned properties represent literally millions of dollars. But for the most part these facilities are passed without notice in the every-day routine of the community. The folks of this county should stop for a few minutes and take stock of the numerous public facilities which are owned by the people as a whole.

The American public is fabulously wealthy both as individuals and as a group. The wealth has been accumulated through the American system of free enterprise... one of the priceless freedoms which has been handed down to Americans from generation to generation.

It is another of the components of this great thing we call Americanism.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—The Remington and His convictions for lying about their pro-Communist affiliations and services confirm the belief of the new McCarran Committee on un-American Activities that it should undertake an entirely new investigation of high Administration officials' tenderness toward the Stalin and Mao Tse-tung regimes since the end of World War II.

Although the inquiry may seem like reenactment of an old drama, fresh evidence not elicited in the Tydings or even Grand Jury examinations has been discovered.

The Senate investigators are also concerned over the fact that many of the individuals whom they blame for the Reds' conquest of almost all China, their prospective assault on India and the Korean warfare still hold positions of great responsibility in the conduct of foreign relations.

Indeed, several members of the new and critical group believe that, save for his more extravagant charges, Senator "Joe" McCarthy will be proved right on many basic points of his general indictment.

OBJECTIVES—Indirectly, the investigation will have two main objectives: The first will be to pave the way for the disappearance of Dean Acheson as Secretary of State. The second will be to force the Administration to make Chiang Kai-shek a full partner in our struggle with the Chinese Communists in Korea.

The new evidence will also reveal the extent of the differences between two military-diplomatic factions over American policy in China. It is expected to show that the recommendations of such Far Eastern experts as General Douglas A. MacArthur, Lieutenant General Albert C. Wedemeyer and former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew were disregarded by the White House and State Department.

This trio have consistently urged full support of Chiang and have forwarded to Washington blueprints of reinforcement. But they were pigeonholed, while Mr. Truman and Mr. Acheson accepted the advice of men notoriously antagonistic to and prejudiced against the Generalissimo.

PATTERN—In weaving together the threads of a reddish pattern not disclosed by the Tydings Committee or the Administration-dominated House Committee on un-American Activities, the follow-up Senate investigators will reveal that the same men responsible for our present plight in the Far East still formulate policy in that vast and vital area, to wit: Secretary Acheson. It is hardly necessary to label his role. But he early advanced the theory that Chinese Communists were "mere agrarian reformers."

With John Carter Vincent, Mr. Acheson wrote the instructions for General Marshall's Chinese mission. They led Marshall to propose disarming of Chiang's force, a truce and a coalition with the Communists.

Mr. A. was a friend and sponsor of Alger Hiss, and defended him even after his conviction. He has defended and promoted several other men under criticism for their part in our Chinese imbroglio.

ADVISER—Philip S. Jessup: He is virtually No. 3 man in State, and still an adviser on Far Eastern affairs. He appeared as a character witness for Hiss. He was principal author of State's "White Paper" that exonerated the Administration for its desertion of Chiang.

The latter's resistance movement collapsed immediately after the issuance of this document, which has been characterized as "worth fifty divisions to the Chinese Reds."

John Stewart Service: As an adviser to the late General Joseph W. Stilwell, he helped to foment Stilwell's feud with Chiang by urging that American military aid be diverted to the Communist forces. He was arrested in the famous Amerasia case, but cleared of having given secret papers to the editors of that pro-Communist magazine.

PROMOTED—Oddly enough, Mr. Service now occupies a high diplomatic post at New Delhi, where Prime Minister Nehru's government sides with the Russian and Chinese Reds in our present Korean difficulties. Mr. Vincent has also been promoted. He is Minister to such a key country as Switzerland.

John J. Muccio: Our Ambassador to Korea, he has been quoted as saying that the Russians had "every right to arm the Koreans" because he explained, "we armed Chiang Kai-shek and that bunch of crooks."

PRaise—Owen Lattimore: This erstwhile adviser to the State Department, who was identified by Louis F. Budenz as a Communist, heads the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations at Baltimore, which trains young men for the diplomatic list, and stands high on State's list of accredited institutions.

In a 1949 memo to Secretary Acheson, Mr. Lattimore advocated the very demands now made before the United Nations by Mao Tse-tung: (1) American recognition of Red China; (2) Admission of Communist China to the U.N.; (3) United States withdrawal of troops and civilian officials from Korea.

Ironically, an authoritative Russian magazine, "Novy Mir," has just given high praise to Mr. Lattimore's latest book, "The Situation in Asia." The review thanks him for his high esteem of the Soviet, and says he understands that the 1917 Russian revolution was really responsible for kindling the fires of revolt in Asia.

"The utterances of this bourgeois American observer," Novy Mir says, "are an indictment of the ruling circles of the United States, and of the entire postwar policy of the imperialist camp."

These post-Tydings developments, as well as Mr. Acheson's retention of the "old China" advisers, explain why the McCarran group believes it has a clear field for a new investigation.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

CAN'T BE REFUTED
Charles Studd, a great English cricketer, became a missionary of note. On his way to the mission field, he had many arguments with the captain of the vessel in which he sailed. This captain either was or pretended to be an unbeliever. He knew the Bible very well and could with ease overwhelm every argument that young Studd produced in behalf of the soundness of Christianity.

One day Studd said to the captain, "Captain, I can't answer your arguments but I know the value of a Christian life because I live it." The captain's reply was, "I can refute everything you say but that. There is no refuting a sincere Christian experience."

This is true today and undoubtedly will be true until the end of time. It was true 2000 years ago. The ancient Romans marveled at the pure lives of the Christians. Jaded and weary-eyed from their excesses, the pagan Romans jeered the Christian and persecuted him, yet down in their hearts they admired him, and in the end Christianity became the official religion of the Roman Empire.

Some people believe they can refute arguments advanced in support of Christianity, but nobody has ever been able to refute the Christian life. Get right on that and you have all the theology the Bible contains, as well as a shield and helmet against the onslaught of temptation.

The Problem Is Not Getting Teachers

The Reflector is in accord with an editorial note on teachers salaries expressed recently by the Washington Daily News. The Beaufort county paper said, "The big problem as we see it is not GETTING teachers in the profession, but rather it is KEEPING them in once we get them."

In view of the fact that approximately 55 per cent of those who enter the teaching profession in North Carolina remain in the field less than five years, that sounds like pretty good reasoning.

For the past couple of years teachers salaries in North Carolina have been a big issue. A few years ago they were far too low, but they have been raised to a fairly even level during the past few years. We would go so far as to say the proposed raises in the salaries for new teachers will throw the beginning scale out of line with the salaries experienced teachers are getting.

Also at a beginning salary of approximately $267 per month, which is what a beginning teacher would receive at a salary of $2,400 for nine months, the teacher would be making a higher salary than a beginner of comparable status who goes to work for private business.

But on the other hand, the teacher who has been at the job for 12 years and will receive a maximum salary of $3,600 is lagging behind the comparable person who has been in private business for a dozen years. It is true that in private business the factors of merit and ability, as well as experience, play a large part in advances in salary. But unfortunately in the case of public school teachers, the salary for the most part is based on tenure of service rather than actual merit and ability.

North Carolina needs good teachers in the schools of the state, but it doesn't need to give the world with a ribbon around it to the youngsters who are just entering the profession. We are of the opinion the state school system would be much better off in the long run if it sought to keep its capable people in the teaching profession for a number of years, rather than try to attract a flock of young, inexperienced teachers each year with high salaries... only to have them drop out later because the pay scale doesn't keep pace with the scale which business or other professions offer for experience.

The Reflector, too, believes North Carolina's principal problem is not that of attracting youngsters into the teaching profession, but keeping the sound, experienced teachers after they are no longer youngsters.

Lock Around At Your Investments

Investment and ownership for the most part carry the connotation of the spending of private capital in order to create a business which will pay a reasonable return on the capital. The American business structure is built upon a system of ownership by millions of individual citizens who have in-

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Today's column should be of interest to anyone building a home, or contemplating building one. When the shortages from defense production came about, one of the first questions to arise was whether or not building of private homes would be frozen. Apparently it won't happen for some time to come, but unless the builders get smart, they might shortage themselves right out of business.

This thought comes from an article in The Magazine of Building, which states that in the United States there is a waste in building that would save a builder 20 to 40 per cent if it could be eliminated. Catch this statement: By eliminating waste, it should still be possible to build a better house with 50 per cent less cast iron pipe, 50 per cent less cement, far less lumber, far less gypsum, and far less steel.

The report of this magazine came from a round table discussion by the nation's big wheels in the building industry. The report has already received unanimous endorsement from the heads of every important U.S. building association, including architects, home builders, mortgage bankers, savings and loan leagues, producers and retail lumber dealers. The round table said, "Without the pressure of some national emergency, the home-buying public might well have to go on year after year paying billions of dollars extra as the price of these wastes. Now we hope obvious reforms which might otherwise be delayed a half century can be put into immediate effect."

The round table cited the following specific examples of wastes in building our homes:

Most cities' plumbing codes require twice as much pipe as the new national code, and most cities' electrical codes are equally wasteful.

More than a billion dollars a year could be saved by standardizing the industry's crazy quilt of odd sizes of materials.

Foundations required for one-story houses are far in excess of any real need.

Practically every small house is structurally overdesigned; that is, lumber is wasted in their construction.

Standard prefabricated plumbing assemblies could save millions of pounds of pipe and millions of man-hours now wasted piecing together special assemblies.

Ceiling heights and sill heights could be further standardized so that lumber and wallboard producers could supply materials pre-cut to fit.

Millions of pounds of copper wiring, steel pipe and cement are wasted by excessive street widths imposed on most low-cost developments.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C.

By LYNN NISBET

Daily Reflector Bureau

NUMBER TWO — Appearance of a dozen or more prospective candidates for lieutenant governor around the capitol building and Raleigh hotels over the past week-end started some of the fellows looking on to talking about that office, significance of which is often not appreciated.

FUNCTIONS — Major function of the lieutenant governor is to preside over the state senate during sessions of the general assembly. Until a few years ago that was almost the only duty imposed upon the office, and it carried no compensation other than per diem for legislative service.

In 1944 the constitution was amended to provide some pay for the lieutenant governor and the amount was fixed by the 1945 general assembly at $2100 a year, where it has remained since because of the increasing obligations for the No. 2 man to represent the state or the governor at official and quasi-official functions.

CHANCE — There is ever present prospect the lieutenant governor might be required to assume the office of chief executive, either in temporary emergency when the governor is out of the state or permanently if the governor should die, resign or otherwise become incapacitated. For that reason the lieutenant governor must have the same constitutional qualifications, and should have all others, as the governor.

RARE — Only three times since adoption of the present state constitution has a lieutenant governor succeeded to the number one office. Latest instance was sixty years ago when Governor Daniel G. Fowle of Wake county died and Thomas M. Holt of Alamance took over the top office on April 8, 1891. Other instances were when C. H. Brodgen of Wayne moved up on July 11, 1874, upon death of Governor Tod R. Caldwell of Burke, and when Thomas J. Jarvis of Pitt succeeded Governor Zebulon B. Vance when he resigned to go to the United States senate February 5, 1879.

UNSUCCESSFUL — Since the turn of the century Max Gardner is the only man who has served both as lieutenant governor and governor, and there was an eight-year lapse between his terms. Five times the second man has sought to move up by popular vote, always unsuccessfully. E. L. Daugherty of Edgecombe tried it in 1916 and was defeated in the primary. Max Gardner ran in 1920 and failed to make the grade, but came back in 1928 to get the Democratic nomination without a contest—only time since the popular primary was legalized that a candidate for governor was unopposed. R. T. (Dick) Fountain ran in 1932; A. H. (Sandy) Graham in 1936, and Wilkins P. Horton in 1940. In each case the lieutenant governor seeking promotion made fine showings, but not enough to win.

ROSTER — The hotel conversation mentioned ran into a sort of memory contest and participants sought to list as many lieutenant governors as they could remember, either from personal recollection or history books. Individual scores were not impressive, but the composite memory added up the following list since 1900: W. D. Turner of Iredell was elected in 1900 with Governor Charles B. Aycock of Wayne; Francis D. Winston of Bertie was elected in 1904 with Governor R. B. Glenn of Forsyth; W. C. Newlands of Caldwell was elected in 1908 with Governor W. W. Kitchen of Person; E. L. Daugherty of Edgecombe in 1912 with Governor Locke Craig of Buncombe; Max Gardner of Cleveland in 1916 with Governor T. W. Bickett of Franklin; William B. Cooper of New Hanover in 1920 with Governor Cameron Morrison of Mecklenburg; J. Elmer Long of Durham in 1924 with Governor A. W. McLean of Robeson; R. T. (Dick) Fountain of Edgecombe in 1928 with Governor Max Gardner of Cleveland; A. H. (Sandy) Graham of Orange in 1932 with Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus of Pasquotank; Wilkins P. Horton of Chatham in 1936 with Governor Clyde R. Hoey of Cleveland; R. L. Harris of Person in 1940 with Governor J. M. Broughton of Wake; L. V. Balentine of Wake in 1944 with Governor Gregg Cherry of Gaston; and H. P. Taylor of Anson in 1948 with Governor Kerr Scott of Alamance.

CANDIDATES — Successors to Governor Scott and Lt. Governor Taylor must be nominated and elected next year, because the constitution prohibits them succeeding themselves in office. Custom decrees that the governor will come from the west, the lieutenant governor from the east. Check of the roster in the preceding paragraph shows this practice has been pretty generally followed for fifty years, exceptions being Governor Kitchin as an easterner in 1908 and Lieutenant Governor Harris as a westerner in 1940 coming from Person county. Harris is currently a prospective candidate for lieutenant governor from the east along with a dozen or more others scattered from Sanford to the coast. The list includes J. C. Pittman, several times senator, and Ralph Monger, a veteran house reading clerk, both from Lee county; Roy Rowe and Vivian Whitfield, both from Pender county and both many times members of the general assembly; John D. Larkin, Jr., of Jones, long time senator; and others.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

Yet those men who hold elective offices were elected by us. Do we promptly repudiate them once they make a public mistake? Or is our setup such that we must have officeholders and we more or less take them for granted? The Times doesn't have the answer. The Times merely reports the sentiment. If we're governed by what we have on the street, no one seems to have much use for any man in public office. That's outstandingly true of the big officeholders.

If we carried the question a little farther, "who could do a better job than is being done at present?" Again the Times doesn't have an answer. We like to think that the men who hold down big business jobs could. But when we give them work to do, they act like the rest. Perhaps it's the atmosphere of Washington. Perhaps we've lost our sense of balance. But one thing we must remember: we're not alone on the world. We must somehow live with multitudes of other people. If they won't subscribe to our principles, must we, to avoid a war, subscribe to theirs?

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

There is a lot of talk in business circles these days about 53-cent and 23-cent dollars. This talk refers, not to the purchasing power of the dollar, which is now about 56 cents in terms of pre-war consumer prices, but of profit dollars.

This is the theory: The current tax on corporation profits, above certain amounts is 47 per cent. The current tax on excess profits is 77 per cent. So spending a dollar that might be a corporate profit represents an outlay of 53 cents, and spending a dollar that might be an excess profit amounts to an outlay of only 23 cents.

G. Warfield Hobbs, an astute vice president of the City Bank Farmers Trust Co., New York, told the American Bankers Association that "Enterprises without pension plans will suddenly wake up to the fact that somebody else's tax can pay for their pension plan." He said under the old 38 per cent corporation tax, a pension plan costing $100,000 a year could be set up with a net outlay of $62,000, but with current corporation taxes, it would mean an outlay of only $53,000. And if the money came out of excess profits, the outlay would be only $23,000.

The same line of reasoning has been used to promote contributions, surveys, in-plant feeding, personnel hand-holding projects and even advertising. The argument is especially curious with regard to advertising since the advertising, if any good, increases profits. At best, excess profits tax money can lessen the risk of speculative advertising but with today's advertising techniques and testing methods, there is little speculation to it.

In respect to pension plans, etc., there is quite another way of looking at it.

This is that the profits and excess profits dollars are not the cheapest, but the most expensive dollars a company gets!

If a company pays 53 per cent in taxes, then it must earn $2.06 to keep $1. And if it is paying 77 per cent in excess profits tax, it must earn $4.35 for every $1 it may trundle away as added profit.

Veep Hobbs' $100,000 pension plan might cost a company a net outlay of only $62,000, but the company would have to earn $188,679 more to restore $100,000 to the stockholders' cut; if in the excess profits bracket, the company would have to earn $434,747 to restore $100,000.

These may be good figures to keep in mind when a relative HEAT: Both heat and light are produced from a combination unit which can be adapted for use in most 48-inch fluorescent fixtures. It is by Salton Mfg. Co., 74 Roadside St., New York 7.

ADHESIVE: An adhesive billed as a substitute for scarce polyvinyl acetate is being introduced by American Resinous Chemicals Corp., Peabody, Mass. It can be bonded to almost any surface.

Hal Boyle's Column

By CYNTHIA LOWRY (For HAL BOYLE)

If a man wants to be a howling success in the world of business and dollars, his greatest assets are a nagging shrewish wife and a home he'd prefer to stay out of.

This shocking theory about success was tossed from a radio one day recently when I was already feeling bad from a touch of gripe.

This radio expert went on to say that every person carries his family to and from his job, and that a guy who is worried about his beloved's head cold or his heir's mumps isn't likely to do such a good job of riveting on a production line or pistol-whipping statistics in a ledger.

The men who make the best traveling salesmen, he says flatly, are the gents who look forward to long periods of freedom; hotel life and expense accounts away from the harassment of their better halves. On the other hand, the fellow who reluctantly abandons his comfortable nest and longs for his smiling, loving helpmeet is likely to return to the home office with a blank sales book.

It's the same with the business types who are chained to a desk or shop, continued the air-wake analyst. The man who will do anything—including hanging around the office working at night—rather than go home to a disagreeable, nagging spouse is likely to wind up president of the company in practically no time at all. But the same logic, the happily-married man at an adjoining desk who cuts for home when the clock strikes 5 P.M., is doomed to sit out his life until pension time at that same desk, doing the same task.

This approach to the why and wherefore of business success struck me as pretty cynical and certainly not in line with the American legend. By his yardstick, the sympathetic wife who works overtime to maintain a comfortable home and establish a pleasant, good-natured family relationship actually is working overtime to deprive herself of a mink coat and a fish-tailed automobile. Bu this measure, the nation's Horatio Alger boys and a frustrated, uneasy character with ulcer futures who are trying to substitute a holding company for personal happiness.

But the Radio Solomon wasn't finished. Many wives, said he, in a level tone, actually don't want their husbands to get ahead and become lord of all the business they survey. Frequently wives become jealous of their husbands' success, said he, and go out of their way to puncture their spouses' male egos just to inflate their own. Furthermore, many wives become unhappy when their husbands start climbing into higher income brackets, feel unhappy in other strata of the social structure and would rather maintain the status quo, their old friends and the familiar house, furniture and budget.

Because we Americans are suckers for the success story, the possibility that every man has a chance to be president, and because we are pretty apt to judge a man's worth by the size of his income, this theory has given me, at least, something to chew over.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington—You too can eat Mrs. Truman's ice-box pudding and Secretary of State Dean Acheson's succotash. Recipes for these and favorite dishes of about 200 other capital big-wigs are in a new cook book on sale here.

Known as the "Jango Mess Kit," the cook book sells for $2. It is the first to be published by the United Army-Navy Guild Organization. Proceeds from the cook book's sale go to the Crusade for Freedom.

All recipes are holographed (written in the handwriting of the contributors) and signed by them. Some are hard to decipher, due to hand-writing peculiarities. Some cause a bit of eyebrow-raising due to misspelled words—"Mrs. George C. Marshall's 'vinigar' and Gen. Omar Bradley's 'hamberger' are examples.

Mrs. Alben Barkley submits a recipe for Bing cherry salad. Mrs. Marshall's recipe is for jellyed tomato salad, and former President Calvin Coolidge's widow, Grace, contributes a filling for cookies.

It's the men's recipes that are the more interesting, it seems to me. Army Secretary Frank Pace, Jr., has a recipe for good old New England clam chowder; Assistant Air Secretary Eugene Zuckert for baked beans and frankfurters; John Koehler, assistant secretary of the Navy, a recipe for steamed eggs.

"Spaghetti supreme" is the title of a recipe from Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff, U. S. Army, while the Marine commandant, Gen. Clifton B. Cates tells you how to make his pegan Pie. Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, outlines rarebit; Admiral Louis D'Espit, former chief of naval operations, the making of a tomato-cheese chocolate caramel candy; Vice Admiral Merlin O'Neill, commandant U. S. Coast Guard, scrambled eggs, and Quartermaster General Herman Feldman, a frozen fruit salad to be served with baked ham.

Long-Range Weapons Program By Military Research Experts

Washington, Feb. 14 (AP)—The head of the government's military research program says "too many of the public think there are going to be rabbits pulled out of the hat, new atom bombs and other things."

Instead, said William Webster, Chairman of the Research and Development Board, the scientists of the board are working on "all sort of things" including improvement of weapons now being used in Korea.

He told reporters at a Pentagon briefing that what is being done now is work on weapons "to fight a very complicated war and get ready to fight a much more complicated one."

Reporters wanted to know what he considered as new weapons. Are they guided missiles?

"No, that's been talked about. We have the V-1 and V-2 of World War II."

Atomic artillery shells? "No, that's been talked about. Everybody knows that there will be an atomic artillery shell some day."

The board has to work on getting the board has to work on getting weapons in the "just around the corner" stage ready for production and at the same time must press development of weapons that may be ready two or three years hence. This means, Webster said, there is a shortage of scientific manpower.

This, he said, is the reason there must be long range programs for training more technicians. He mentioned pending legislation to allow a "substantial proportion of science students to remain in school and out of military service until they can finish their graduate courses."

'Bitter Medicine' For Agriculture Seen Ahead

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter
Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—If the government is to attain price and wage stability, it may be forced to prescribe some bitter medicine for agriculture.

This view appeared today to be growing in official and unofficial quarters witnessing the sparring of stabilization officials with wages and food prices.

Much of the difficulty in bringing the price level and wage levels under control is attributed to farm and food prices. Under the law, relatively few farm products can be frozen yet. They have not risen to the level of price protection granted by law.

Organized labor rebels against having its pay frozen as long as there is room for its cost of living—and particularly food—to go higher.

Just such a situation developed early in World War II. The battle wound up with agriculture accepting something its leaders bitterly resisted—subsidies.

Again agriculture may be asked to choose between subsidies and possible removal of its present price ceiling protection.

Under present law, ceilings may not be placed on farm products at less than the higher of (1) parity prices or (2) peak prices prevailing between May 24 and June 24, the month before the fighting started in Korea. For most products, the parity price is the minimum legal ceiling.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices. It is declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those who buy their products. First put into law back in 1933, the parity idea has become as dear to organized agriculture as the right to strike is to organized labor.

But the legal bar against ceilings below parity has run into a lot of criticism. Critics contend this bar stands in the way of price and wage control.

There was a variety of weather, some of it pleasant, some on the miserable side, across the nation today.

Freezing rain, sleet and snow pelled a wide front from New York state southwestward through the Ohio Valley into Texas and New Mexico. Highway travel slowed to a crawl in many areas.

Winter showed no letup in pouring arctic air over the Midwest. It was sub-zero again today in the north central region. Some of the cold air pushed south to the Texas coast and northern Arkansas.

The east was enjoying a mild spell but there were indications the springlike temperatures were headed for a fall. New high marks for the date were set in many cities yesterday.

Sub-zero blasts continued in Minnesota, Wisconsin and upper Michigan. It was -22 at Houghton, Mich.; -20 at St. Cloud, Minn., and -19 in Lone Rock, Wis., early today.

At the same time it was 55 in New York City, but a sharp drop was expected during the day. The mercury climbed to 62.1 yesterday, a record for the date. It was warmer in Philadelphia with a 64 reading and Washington's top mark was 72. Danville, Va., had summer weather with temperatures of 75.5 and it was 70 in Baltimore. North in Portland, Me., the high was 53.

Mild weather also was reported in the South and in most of the far Southwest.

The 4,600 persons made homeless by floods last weekend in western Washington returned to their homes today. Damages from the floods were estimated at from $4,000,000 to $50,000,000.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 13—(AP)—The Ku Klux Klan wants to be unmasked in Jacksonville.

Bill Hendrix of Tallahassee, Grand Dragon of the Southern Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, proposed an anti-mask ordinance to the city council last night.

He said the Klan wants the ordinance "to keep our enemies from committing acts of violence and laying it on the Klan."

The proposal was referred to a committee for study.

Those Dogs Again On The Loose And Police Issue Appeal
Numerous reports have been received by the Greenville Police Department about the large number of stray dogs roaming the Hilledale section and in the Ayden highway neighborhood.

Police reports indicate the animals are causing much damage to yards and flowers, and even killing fowl and other livestock. The dogs are running in packs and singles.

The Police department today sued an appeal to dog owners to look after their dogs and see they are penned. It was stated that by doing this the owners will protect both themselves and the property of others.

Phantoms Drop Thrilling Game To Roanoke Rapids 51-49

Locals Lose In Final Seconds: Briley Gets 15

The Greenville Phantoms lost a thrilling heartbreaker to the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets last night in the final seconds of the game by the close score of 51-49.

It was a fast and furious battle from the word go, and was anybody's ball game from start to finish. No more than four points separated the two teams at any time in the game, and the score was tied at ten different times. The Phantoms just couldn't seem to pull away from the big rugged Yellow Jackets despite the fact that they played one of their best games of the season.

The Phantoms seemed to be a little off on their passing game in the last half, and that was the difference between the two evenly matched Northeast Conference teams. The Yellow Jackets took advantage of this one weakness, recovering many of the bad passes in the Phantoms' back court, and converting them into baskets to keep the score close at 48 times.

The first half saw the lead change hands six times, with the Phantoms finally going out front in the closing seconds. With the score tied at 25-25, Conway and Higgs hit on two quick field goals to give the Phantoms a 29-25 lead at intermission.

The second half was nip and tuck all the way, but it looked like the locals might rack up their fifth conference win, as Briley and Dillingham, the Phantoms' high scorers for the night, started to hit consistently from the floor, but the visitors displayed a potent scoring attack of their own to carry the game right down to the wire.

The Jackets clinched the game in the last ten seconds, when Topping recovered a bad pass and dropped it in to break a 49-49 tie and give the game to the scrappy Yellow Jacket five.

Sydney Briley was the game's outstanding player, scoring 15 points for the losing locals besides playing an outstanding defensive game. Dillingham poured 11 points through the hoops to help the Phantoms' cause. Topping was top man for the visitors with 12 points.

In a preliminary game the Greenville junior varsity defeated the Roanoke Rapids JV's 45 to 30. Worthington scored 14 for the junior Phantoms to lead them to their ninth win of the season. Blowe had seven for the losers.

JIM FUCHS

AP Newsfeatures
New York—All 12 National AAU indoor track champions will defend their championships in the annual meeting to be held in Madison Square Garden on Saturday, Feb. 17.

John Joe Barry of Ireland will defend his mile crown, one of the annual features of the Nationals. Rev. Bob Richards, who recently became the second athlete in American track history to pole vault better than 15 feet, will also put his title on the line as will Harrison Dillard of Cleveland and Jim Fuchs, the ex-Yale shot put star. Dillard first won his AAU 60-yard high hurdles crown in 1946.

Other champions defending titles are: Andy Stanfield (60-yard dash) Hugo Malocco (600-yard run), Roscoe Brown (1,000 yards), Curtis Stone (three miles), Henry Laskau (mile walk), Gil Borgeson (weight throw), John Vislocky (high jump), and Doug Fowikes (broad jump).

Belvoir Beats Grimesland In Pitt County Play

Grimesland, Feb. 12—Belvoir captured both ends of a Pitt county doubleheader here Monday night, both games by big margins. The Belvoir boys took a first quarter lead and went on to beat the Grimesland Bulldogs, by the score of 41 to 28. H. Bullock was the big gun for the winners, dropping in 12 points for the night. He was followed by Cobb, who got 10. Wayland Elks scored 8 to lead the losing Grimesland club. Billy Boyd and F. Mills tied for second high scoring honors with 7 each.

The Belvoir girls scored an impressive 44 to 23 victory over the Grimesland sextet to rack up their 10th conference win of the season. C. Pollard was the games high scorer with 17 for the winners. Peggy Daniels scored 12 in a losing cause for the Grimesland team.

Alonzo Stagg Is Still Opposed To All-American's

Stockton, Calif., Feb. 14—(AP)—More than sixty years after he himself was named to the first All-America football team, Amos Alonzo Stagg still is opposed to the idea of such all star selections.

The dean of coaches, who will be 89 on his next birthday, is adamant in his stand. He has never picked an All-America team and, he says, never will. This was his reply to an invitation by the Associated Press to join other famous football men in making such selections. The project is in cooperation with football's planned Hall of Fame.

"I have always been opposed to All-America teams and selections and my position on this point has not changed one bit since I was first invited to pick a team for Walter Camp when I was at the University of Chicago more than fifty years ago," Stagg said.

"I do not want to single out certain players because I do not think it can be justly done. However, as long as we do have All-American teams, I hope we have a lot of them. The more people who pick all star teams, the more justice will be done because more players will be named."

"It is better to name a hundred players than only 11 or 22. And it would be even better to name a thousand because who is there to say that they are not all deserving?"

The late Walter Camp, incidentally, named Stagg on his initial All-America team, in 1889. He was a Yale end. A teammate was Walter "Pudge" Hefflinger. Also on Camp's first all star eleven were two Princeton backfield immortals, E. A. Poe and Snake Ames.

Robinson Favored Tonight In Title Bout With Lamotta

Players Start Annual Trek To Training Spots

Miami, Fla., Feb. 14—(AP)—Baseball players—from high-salaried stars to unknown youngsters who would like to break into the big time—have started their annual parade to Florida spring training grounds.

They've been drifting in, one by one, since January. By the first of March, an estimated 2,000 athletes will be working off winter rustiness under the warm sun.

Ten major league teams and squads representing nearly all the high-ranking minor leagues will pitch training camps in the state.

For the first time in a quarter of a century, the New York Yankees will be missing. The world champions will train in Phoenix, Ariz. this year and go on an exhibition tour of California and Texas.

The New York Giants, after spending the first part of the spring season at their Sanford, Fla. base, will move into the old Yankee training quarters at St. Petersburg.

As usual, the Cincinnati Reds will train in Tampa and the Boston Red Sox in Sarasota. The Washington Senators will return to Orlando and the St. Louis Cardinals to St. Petersburg.

Other regulars include the Detroit Tigers at Lakeland, the Boston Braves at Bradenton, the Philadelphia Phillies in Clearwater and the Philadelphia Athletics at West Palm Beach.

The Brooklyn Dodgers will be based at Vero Beach from Feb. 18 to March 9, then move into Miami for 19 exhibition games in the Miami Stadium.

Chicago, Feb. 14—(AP)—Weltering Sugar Ray Robinson, a symphony of power and skill in the ring, tonight shoots for the middleweight crown of Jake LaMotta, a barbaric roughouser by comparison.

It's a finely-tuned machine colliding with a fireplug—a contrast of fighting styles that promises to be one of the best scraps of the post-war era.

Robinson, who decided body-sledging Jake four out of five times when the Bronx Bull was a middleweight contender instead of the champion, rules a 3-1 to 4-1 favorite for the Chicago Stadium showdown, starting at 9 p.m. Central Standard Time. Such odds are unprecedented for a challenger of the middleweight bauble.

The International Boxing Club card is expected to draw some 12,500 fans and gross $175,000. Millions of others will see it on television or hear it broadcast.

Robinson's only loss in 123 fights (78 of which he won by knockouts) was to LaMotta in the second meeting of their five-fight series. Jake won 79 out of 95 bouts, 28 by kayoes.

A 10-round kayo over the late Marcel Cerdan in 1949 gave LaMotta the middleweight belt. Last year he defended it successfully twice, taking a 15-round decision from Tiberio Mitri and rallying to chill Laurent Dauthuille in the final seconds of the 15th round at Detroit on Sept. 13, his last ring appearance. Robinson, who recently returned from a European tour, has had eight fights in the last 65 days.

Battle-scarred 29-year-old LaMotta has picked up a number of backers lately. Eyebrows were raised when he shunned all-workouts for five days in an energy conservation plan. It now develops that he shed enough weight to make the 160-pound limit last week and then spent the final days stocking up fresh strength by adding a few pounds.

Thus he was not forced barely to make the grade and can enter the ring with vim.

The trim Robinson, also 29, and regarded as one of history's greatest fighters, has had no weight bugaboo to cope with.

Ayden Wins One, Loses One With Tarboro Cagers

Ayden, Feb. 13—The Ayden boys went down to defeat in the closing seconds last night, before a scrappy Tarboro five by the close score of 46-45.

Ayden trailed until the last three minutes, and tied the game up with three minutes to go on Bullock's field at 40 all. Butler, Tarboro forward, put his team out front with a set shot from way out. The score was tied again at 45-45 with 30 seconds to go, and Butler sank a free throw to give the game to Tarboro.

In the girls' game, Catherine Wooten scored 39 points to lead the Ayden girls to 61-30 victory over the Tarboro sextet. Jean Cox was second high scorer for Ayden with 11. Phillis Flowers scored 12, and Barbara Clark had 10 for the losers.

Three-Year-Olds In Derby Trial At Santa Anita

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 14—(AP)—A rousing scramble between 10 three-year olds is in prospect at Santa Anita today and out of the melee may come the strongest contender for the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby on Feb. 24.

Today's race, at a mile and one-sixteenth, is the $10,000 Derby Trial. It offered the youngsters their last good chance to tighten up for the mile and one-eighth Derby.

Mrs. Nat Goldstone's Gold Capitol shaped up as the favorite today. It was also up to the handsome chestnut colt to redeem himself for the dead-last race he ran month.

To do it, Gold Capitol was confronted by the one-two-three finishers in the San Felipe, Phil D., Gold Note and Rough 'n Tumble.

Choppy Seas For Racing Yachts In Bahamas Event

Miami, Fla., Feb. 14—(AP)—Seventeen sleek ocean-going yachts bucked choppy waters in the 184-mile race from Miami to Nassau today, with the majestic 72-foot ketch, the Ticonderoga, last reported holding the lead.

Thirty-five miles from the starting point, a Coast Guard plane reported that the Mighty Ti, owned by Allen Carlisle of Miami and under charter to Charles Granville of Wilton, Conn., was out in front.

Carlton Mitchell's speedy 57-foot yawl, Caribbee, of Annapolis, Md., had dropped back into second place after leading through the early hours of the race. Revonoc, a 45-foot yawl skippered by Harvey Conover of Larchmont, N.Y., was five miles back of Caribbee.

Revonoc won the race in 1947.

Playing Is Learning For A Growing Child

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKETHrough it is learning to handle this emotion and to drain it off safely."

Play also adds to social experience, says Mrs. Owen. Watch three or four boys building a complicated roundhouse with blocks, listen to their joint planning, their sharing ideas. Or watch children in their development of a play or a party together, or building a tree-house or a dam, where imagination, skills, and experience must be shared—all are a natural way of gaining experience. And the more a child is able to cope with relationships with others the more inner security he gains.

In a good play program, says Mrs. Owen, children need the kinds of experiences and outlets which are possible in the family setting as well. And these are not too difficult to provide. They need time to do something they really want to do, a place to do it in, the raw materials with which to do it and the leadership of an understanding and imaginative adult.

The raw materials of play, she says, can be blocks, paints and paper, clay, wood and tools, a doll or housekeeping corner with all the things that help to make a home; pots and pans and materials for simple cooking, books, puppets, records, sewing materials for doing simple science experiments. And for out of doors the raw materials through which meaningful play can be developed include packing boxes, barrels, kegs and boards which can turn into boats, houses, forts or corrals at a moment's notice.

One of the problems in play is intelligent adult leadership. Many of us are afraid to try such a play program. We think we must be "experts," and that we must "know-how," and that we must "teach" play. Parents and teachers alike should remember, says Mrs. Owen, that expert or highly developed skills are usually needed only in specialized fields, such as ceramics or block printing.

By and large, children do their own planning, inventing and developing their own way of playing, and that in itself is one of its values. Through these experiences, intelligent leadership can help them to "grow in the creativity that brings new life, new relationships, new values, and new things of beauty and usefulness and cherishes them for their worth."

Fears Of War Booms Hoarding Of Malayan Gold

Singapore—(AP)—A Chinese goldsmith in Johore Bahru feared the worst when 10 Chinese women, dressed in black, entered his shop and ordered him to shut the front door. He was sure they were women bandits and that he was going to be robbed when one of them asked him to go into the back room.

The woman ordered him to bring out his gold ornaments from a showcase, then produced $1,000 in $10 bills and said, "Give me gold bangles to that amount." The awestricken goldsmith complied. Then each of the other nine produced $1,000 and asked for gold.

When the $10,000 deal was closed the women said: "We had to do this in secret. If anybody saw us buying all this gold we might have got robbed on the way back to our homes." With fear of another war, gold has become preferred as a security to cash among labouring classes in Malaya.

American Lives As Buddhist Nun

Singapore—(AP)—An American Buddhist nun, Reverend Sister Dhammadina, who was born in St. Louis, is now living alone and in silence in a Chinese temple in a small village here.

Her head is shaved, and she appears to be in her seventies. She was introduced to Buddhism in Shanghai, and became a nun in Ceylon 20 years ago. During World War II she taught Buddhism in California.

Czechs Speed Up Industrial Study

Prague—(AP)—Czechoslovakia is speeding up apprentice training to help overcome a manpower shortage. Apprentices have been serving as much as three years before becoming full-fledged workers. This term is to be cut to two years in some big industries, to one year in some big industries, to one year in other fields and even to six months in still others. Women also are being encouraged to go to work.

Proposed Time Change Causes Stormy Comment

St. John's Nfld.—(AP)—Announcement that this province might abandon her unique time system and join the Atlantic Time Zone has brought a storm of critical comment from Newfoundland organizations and individuals.

Latest to join the fight have been the Associated Newfoundland Industries and more than 100 employees of a department store here who sent statements to the government. The move would reduce Canada's time zones from seven to six.

The present zones in Canada from east to west are Newfoundland, Atlantic, Eastern, Central, Mountain, Pacific and Yukon. There is a half-hour difference between Newfoundland and Atlantic time.

New in Style — New in Structure — New in Power — New in Thrift — Potent in Price Appeal — It's the 1951 BUICK SPECIAL!

HERE is good news for folks with a shrewd eye for what their dollars will buy.

Here is a tidy traveler that defies the upward trend of costs—proudly wears a 1951 price tag like that which zoomed last year's SPECIAL into popularity so great that it put a crimp in "the low-priced three."

Take our word for it, this is every inch and ounce a Buick—Buick-featured, Buick-designed, Buick-built from the ground up—but literally the newest thing on wheels.

The sturdy and ample body is new. The high-strength frame is new. The power is new to the SPECIAL, which now has the thrifty F-263 engine that first made its name in the SUPER, and here delivers 120 horsepower with standard transmission — 128 with Dynaflo Drive.*

It's a Buick with less weight and more power—and that spells a pair of new thrills for you. There's a performance thrill such as you've never enjoyed in the SPECIAL—plus a handsome gas-saving into the bargain.

We'll make a prediction now as to what title folks will give it, once they get it out on the road. That title, in three words, will be: "Thriftiest Buick Yet!"

Better hurry around to your Buick dealer's and look this marvel over.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Buicks.

We'll give you another prediction—which is: Once this one's discovered, the demand will be terrific.

Government Housing Gets Start In Italy

FANFANI APARTMENTS. — A low-rent building in Milan.

AP Newfeatures
MILAN—Italy's government housing program completed 1,439 apartments and has 8,681 more ready for allocation to show for its first year of life.
 The program, known as the Fanfani Plan from the name of its author, deputy and former minister Amintore Fanfani, calls for housing valued at $200,000,000.
 During World War II hundreds of thousands of homes were destroyed;

Comic Books Are Given Approval By Professor
Los Angeles, Feb. 14—(AP)—Instead of causing delinquency, comic strips are a definite aid to parents who want to understand the mental processes of their children.
 That's the opinion of David Cole, Occidental College psychologist who has just completed a study of children's preferences in comic strips as related to their personalities. The professor's findings:
 Children who have the greatest liking for adventure comics are likely to be the ones most "tied down" at home.
 Youngsters maladjusted in their home relations were found to prefer escapist fables—interplanetary war, rocket men and other fantasies.

Slickers Get A 'Rosy Glow' By Sampling Drinks
Belgrade—(AP)—Some city slickers here manage to get a rosy, alcoholic glow every day, free of charge—or rather, at the expense of their country cousins.
 It's the tradition here that a customer in public markets is entitled to a sample before he buys liquor. And who's to object if the prospective customer shakes his head after the sampling and rejects the quality?
 A reporter on a Belgrade newspaper recently trailed such a sampler and found that after eight samplings, his quarry still hadn't made a purchase. This sampler is very likely at the end of his free ride, however. His picture was published in the paper, showing him in the act, and a complete expose of his racket was included.

Shark Repellent Helps Fishermen
San Pedro, Calif.—(AP)—A chemical shark repellent developed to save fliers downed at sea is proving a boon to fishermen here. The repellent, which comes in small cages, has proven effective in chasing the killer fish which destroy thousands of dollars worth of fishing nets by pursuing smaller fish into them.
 One skipper of a tuna trawler reports that he lowered a net equipped with the repellent in waters infested with sharks. He said he caught 100 tons of fish without being bothered by a single shark. The repellent affects the shark's taste organs and robs the huge fish of the desire to bite.
 Butterflies, houseflies and water beetles have taste buds on their legs.

Most Of Holdup Loot Is Missing

Salisbury, N. C., Feb. 14—(AP)—The men charged with doing the job are reported safe and sound behind bars, but the major part of the $44,000 loot taken from the Farmers and Merchants Bank at Brantle Quarry Monday was still in parts unknown today.
 The latest FBI reports listed some $15,670 accounted for. Officers recovered $15,000 which they said was Kenneth Eugene Jackson's share. Another $170 was found buried in the woods at a point where one of the get-away cars was abandoned.
 And another $500 was reported found in a cab driven by Jason Dockery Cole of Charlotte. Officers said Cole accepted the money to drive James Josey from Charlotte.
 Another alleged principal in the bank robbery was arrested yesterday. FBI agents identified him as William Odell Black, 22, of Kannapolis. He denied any connection with the robbery.
 Black, Josey and Jackson are accused of walking into the bank Monday morning, holding the employees at gunpoint, and making off with $44,000.
 Josey's brother, John, also has been implicated in the crime as the alleged owner of one of the getaway cars.

Big Maneuvers Set In Carolina

Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—Plans for exercise "Southern Pines," giant Army-Air Force operations to be held near Fort Bragg, N. C., in June and July, were announced by the Defense Department yesterday.
 Troops from the 82nd Airborne Division, the 28th and 43rd Infantry Divisions, the 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment and the 278th Regimental Combat Team will make up the ground force.
 The ground force will be supported by eight fighter-bomber squadrons, six squadrons of troop carrier planes, two light bomber squadrons and reconnaissance planes supplied by the Tactical Air Command.
 Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge will direct the operation which continues from June 20 to July 10.
 The Defense Department said the reason for the exercise is to develop close cooperation between ground and air forces, tactical air support and the air movement and dropping of combat troops.

Face Court Test Of Parking Laws

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 14—(AP)—Raleigh's parking laws today faced a possible test in the State Supreme Court.
 D. M. Ransdell of Varina yesterday was found guilty of overtime parking by allowing his car to stay too long in a one-hour meter zone. Fined $1 and the costs, Ransdell gave notice of appeal to the state's high tribunal.
 Some 22 other persons are facing similar charges of overtime parking. Judge W.H.S. Burgwyn declared: "We might as well make a test case out of it. I'll just continue the rest of these cases until the Supreme Court makes a decision."

The Men Were Once Poetic.. But The Girls Haven't Changed

By ED CREAGH
Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—Let's face it: men aren't what they used to be.
 But women haven't changed a bit.
 On this St. Valentine's Day, try to imagine a 1931 male with the un-poetic spirit to tell his gal:
 "I bear in sign of love
 "A sparrow in my glove,
 "And in my breast a dove—
 "This shall be thine."
 Well, they did it in granddaddy's time.

The Library of Congress proved it today, unearthing—by request—some choice specimens of yesterday's valentines.
 Compare them with today's slick, gag-in-every-line jobs and you get a sad, sad comparison—from the viewpoint of any young woman who hoped for three cents' worth of old-fashioned sentiment in this morning's mail.
 Today a girl is lucky if she gets a dime-store card with some such heart-stirring message as:
 "Your eyes are crossed, your knees are knocked.
 "I kind of like you when I'm crooked."
 Ah, but in granddaddy's time... men wrote their own then, or at least copied them from the cupid-little-helper books that had a terrific sale. Here's a ripe sample from the Library of Congress' practically lavender-scented files:
 "Your lips are bright twin corals.
 "Your teeth the fairest pearls.
 "Your eyes are sister sapphires,
 "And golden rings your curls."
 And the women? What were they doing while their menfolk spun such gossamer rhymes?
 Oh, they were up to the age-old sport of sticking hatpins into the male ego.

Here's one girl's tender reply (A. D. 1867) to a poor guy who proposed to her by valentine:
 "You're very kind and thoughtful.
 "And, believe me, so am I—
 "For if I should ever marry you
 "I surely hope you'd die."
 Even when the lady was willing she usually managed to cross up the guy somehow.
 There's one tantalizing fragment supposedly written by a very early 20th Century girl on Valentine's Day:
 "Ma, she says it's awful.
 "Pa, he thinks it's sin.
 "But gee! When I think of your sweet lips—"
 The last line is missing.

INFANT DEATHS DECLINE

Popular Author Dies Last Night

Los Angeles, Feb. 14—(AP)—Lloyd C. Douglas, 73, author of some of the most controversial and widely read religious novels of the century, died last night of heart disease.
 Douglas's greatest books were "The Magnificent Obsession," his first, published in 1929, and "The Robe," printed in 1942. In the period between them were numerous best sellers, including "Green Light," "White Banners," and "Disputed Passage," which were filmed.
 His last work was "The Big Fisherman," presumably because of the treatment "The Robe" received in Hollywood. Handling of the book for the films was debated for years. Finally, after $750,000 was poured into the enterprise, the picture was dropped.
 Douglas served in Lutheran pastorates at North Manchester, Ind., Lancaster, O., Washington, D.C., and Akron, O. One time minister of the First Congregational Church at North Arbor, Mich., he also was pastor of the First Congregational Church of Los Angeles, where he served from 1926 to 1929.

LUXURY ACCOMMODATIONS VANCOUVER—(AP)—Charles Weir found the thieves who took the blooms off 168 large chrysanthemums in his flower shop. Pack rats under a nearby storage room had lined their quarters with the petals. "That's too expensive a lining," he said as he called the exterminator.

Jack's Still 39

Hollywood, Feb. 14—(AP)—Jack Benny is 39 again today. The comic, a Valentine's Day gift to Washegan, is probably the only 39-year-old who admits he was born in 1894.
 He'll celebrate quietly, he says, at home with his wife of 24 years, Mary Livingstone.
 His age of 39 has been a running gag for years, but this actually is the one-time boy violinist's 39th year in show business.

Continue Search For 2 Escapees

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 14—(AP)—The State Prisons Department continued a search today for two Negro long-term prisoners who fled an Alexander County road gang.
 The fugitives were identified as Jim Locklear, convicted in Sampson in October 1948 of manslaughter and sentenced to 20 years; and Ben F. Staples, 27, convicted in Stokes last October of armed robbery and sentenced to 25-30 years.

An organized abolitionist movement in the United States got under way in 1831, when William Lloyd Garrison established the "Liberator" in Boston to advocate emancipation of slaves.

Aluminum Plant Set For Borneo

Singapore—(AP)—The British Aluminum Co., of London, is planning a $33,000,000 project for the construction of a giant aluminum plant in British North Borneo.
 The proposed plant, which will be the largest in the Far East will process bauxite mined in the Rhio Archipelago, a few miles off Singapore. A river in Borneo will be dammed to provide power for the plant.

Flushed Reds In Testing His Gun

With the First Marine Division in Korea—(AP)—A Marine sergeant stopped one cold day recently on a road here and decided to fire his rifle. "Just to test it out" to see if the bolt had frozen.
 He aimed at what he thought was a deserted farmhouse. Chinese Reds poured from the building and took up positions nearby. The Leathernecks finally won out by throwing grenades from a ridge overlooking the enemy positions.

BRITONS HEAD FOR HOME
Singapore—(AP)—Passenger accommodations aboard ships traveling from Singapore to Britain are fully booked from February through July, travel agents Thomas Cook and Son, report here. Indications were that all available shipping space to Britain in particular and to Europe in general would be fully taken.

A FIEND IN NEED

By MILTON K. OZAKI

Chapter 6
The three of us stood looking, just looking, for a minute. Richard Starr Flecker followed us in and, with a gracious gesture toward the cushions, crossed his knees in an odd way and sank affably to a sitting position on the floor. I noticed that he wore nothing on his feet except plain black socks - no shoes.

Flecker passed a hand carressingly over his hair again, then, passed a jade tray of cigarettes to us and waited for us to light them. That done he evidently felt he had discharged his duties as host, for he raised his brows interrogatively.

"A crime was committed in this building, Mr. Flecker," Phelan began. "I have to ask you a few questions."

"Yes?" Flecker intoned politely.

"Yes," Phelan measured Flecker with his eyes and his voice be- came crisp and official. "What time did you get home this after- noon?"

"I was at home the entire after- noon."

"Did you have any visitors this afternoon?"

"Why yes, I did," Flecker in- clined his head affirmatively.

"Who?"

"Miss Sarah Goodrich called here shortly after one o'clock." He moved one shoulder negligently. "She represents the Women's Literary Society of Evan- ston, and we discussed a lecture which I am to give to her group next week."

"What time did Miss Goodrich leave?"

"Between two and two-thirty."

"Anyone else call on you?" Phelan asked.

"Merely a friend."

"What time did she arrive?"

"About five-thirty."

"When did she leave?"

Flecker studied the tip of his cigarette before answering. "About fifteen minutes ago," he said finally, shrugging as though he had cast a die and realized it was too late to recall it.

"Where did she go?"

Flecker knocked the ash from his cigarette into a cloisonne bowl and gazed dreamily toward the ceiling. "You are a detective, are you not, Lieutenant?"

"Yeah," Phelan's lips tightened into a thin, angry line. "She couldn't go downstairs without David seeing her. She didn't come upstairs. Therefore - he watched Flecker's face narrowly - she could only have gone across the hall. Jenkins, who lives across the hall?"

Jenkins consulted his notebook. "Mr. and Mrs. McGregor," he re- ported.

"Yeah, Maud McGregor," Phelan nodded positively.

Mrs. McGregor was here from five- thirty until about eight-twenty!"

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Air Force Chief Warns Raid Defenses Meager

Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, United States Air Force Chief, says there is no way to prevent Soviet Russia from getting at least 70 out of 100 bombers past U. S. defenses and over their targets.

Vandenberg made the assertion in an article in the current issue of Saturday Evening Post magazine.

The Air Force Chief of Staff incidentally indicated that U. S. military intelligence rates Russia as less than 100 atomic bombs at present.

"Even if the enemy had 100 (atomic) bombs—which she hasn't now—she could not afford to throw all into one raid," Vandenberg wrote. He said this in connection with a statement that a large scale raid would probably include only a few planes carrying atom bombs.

Vandenberg said Russia has "at least 450 planes that can strike our major population and industrial centers from bases in the U. S. S. R." These, he said, are copies of the American B-29, but, he added, Russia is working hard to match the B-36 and "she unquestionably will build a B-40."

"Should war come," Vandenberg said, "we can be expected to destroy no more than 30 per cent of the planes making an attack... before bombing missions are completed." Present defenses, he said, "are not beefed up to achieve even that figure."

He said the B-36 outmatches in speed, armament, range and bomb load any plane Moscow can get into mass production "in the next few years."

Russian raiders, he indicated might be refueled over the Arctic wastes but even so would probably have to be on suicide missions as they have combat radius of 2,000 miles. That indicates a one-way range of about 5,000 miles.

Pitt's Negro Farmers Buy Quality Milk Cows

In spite of the fact that good family cows are hard to get in this section of North Carolina, William A. Cherry, teacher of Agriculture, and Veterans instructors S. E. Selby, A. L. Mills, and B. F. Hall, Jr. of Pitt County Training School, Grimesland, took the responsibility of combing the state in search for high grade milk cows and bred helpers.

The search carried them as far as Moore's farm, breeder of high grade cattle in Alamance County. A few of these cows were purchased locally at dairies that were going out of business due to wartime conditions.

There were 34 milk cows, 31 bred helpers, and one registered bull purchased. Among these 66 cows purchased, there were one registered Jersey bull, one Ayrshire, two Red Polled, thirty-seven Guernseys and twenty-five Jerseys.

All of these were purchased by 66 farmers and veterans for the sum of $8,474. Prices of these animals ranged from $125 to $200.

It has long been preached and taught that farmers should strive to make a living and not to buy it. These cows are already proving to these farmers that they are responsible for reducing the cost of their grocery bills. Many of these farmers now have cows producing enough surplus milk to take care of the cost of commercial feed consumed by them.

There are approximately fifteen veterans and farm families who now have their orders placed for cows. Steps are being taken to secure a cow for each.

It is felt that over a short period of time that almost two-thirds of the Negro farm families in and around Grimesland area will own a high grade milk cow.

Japanese Visitor To Bethel Rotary

Bethel, Feb. 14—Masami Koisumi, a native of Osaka, Japan, spoke to the Bethel Rotary Club last night during his current tour of Rotary clubs in this area which are helping to send him to the University of North Carolina.

Koisumi, who was working in Hiroshima when the first atomic bomb was dropped, described the present economic condition in his homeland. He stated the United States' occupation has improved the present situation to the extent that almost everyone has employment.

The general election that was held recently, he said, got out over 90 percent of the eligible voters in the country and in some districts 100 percent of the voters cast a ballot.

That came about after the occupation forces of the United States had educated the Japanese to the advantages of democracy and made them want it instituted in their government.

The student was introduced by Dr. C. G. Garranton, president of the club. Guests of the club were B. B. Slaughter, district superintendent of the Methodist Church from New Bern, and Howard J. McGinnis, district governor of Rotary.

The War of 1812 between the United States and Great Britain was ended by the Treaty of Ghent, signed Dec. 24, 1814.

Large Crowd Sees Shakespearean Show

Approximately 550 people last night attended the performance of Romeo and Juliet presented on the ECTC campus by the Carolina Playmakers.

The presentation of the outstanding production in Greenville was sponsored by the Greenville Music Club.

Moslem . . .

(Continued From Page One) wanted to avoid anything which might cause ill feeling. The Russian Moslems at last reports hadn't replied to their invitation to attend, but that isn't strange since Moscow could scarcely be expected to sanction any such delegation.

This was the first session of the World Moslem Conference ever held, although the ground work of the meeting was laid two years ago. Karachi is the headquarters of the organization, which made it a logical place for the first meeting.

Since the announced purpose of the conference was to promote cultural development, the declaration of intention to fight in self-defense could hardly be anticipated by on-looking nations.

One would expect the result to be a careful maneuvering of both the Democracies and the Red countries to win the adherence of this huge Moslem bloc.

On the basis of religion, it's difficult to see what possible affiliation there could be between the Moslems and a communism which is militantly atheistic. The Moslem is a staunch follower of his religion, as has been repeatedly demonstrated through the centuries by his willingness to fight for it. There is no ideology which can win him from Islam.

Who Uses . . .

Just answer the questions on the Form and send it to the Internal Revenue Collector for your district.

You don't have to figure your tax. You supply the necessary information and he'll figure your tax for you. Don't send any cash or check.

If he finds you owe any tax—in addition to whatever tax was withheld from you pay—he'll send you a bill. Then you have 30 days to pay up after he notifies you.

If he finds you have a refund due because you were taxed too much in 1950, he'll send you a refund.

Since in order to use Form 1040-A you must have had all, or almost all, the tax withheld from you in 1950, you should have receipts from your boss showing what he withheld and turned over to the govern-
