U.S. Plans Four Additional Army Divisions For Europe

Marshall Discloses Defense Measures At Senate Hearing; Would Raise U. S. Ground Strength In Europe To Six Divisions; Power Compared

Washington, Feb. 15—(AP)—The United States plans to send four additional Army Divisions to Europe.

Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall disclosed this today in a statement prepared for joint hearings by the Senate's Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees on the "troops-to-Europe" issue.

Marshall said: "Because of the great amount of discussion which has been centered on the subject of ground forces, I have obtained the express permission of the President to discuss with you the specific strength of the ground forces which the United States has planned to maintain in Europe in the present emergency."

Reluctant Step "I take this step reluctantly because of the security considerations involved—but I have reached the conclusion that there is a greater peril to our security through weakening the morale of our allies by a debate based upon uncertainties, than there can possibly be through the public disclosure of our planned strength figures."

"To be specific, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have recommended to me, and I have so recommended to the President—and the President has approved—a policy with respect to our forces in Europe which looks to the maintenance of us, in Europe, of approximately six divisions of ground forces."

"We already have three, on occupation duty, about two divisions of ground forces. Our plans, based on the recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, therefore contemplate sending four additional divisions to Europe."

First Witness Marshall was the first administration witness in the hearings phase of "The Great Debate" on how the United States should build up western Europe's defenses against the threat of communist aggression.

As background for the hearings, the committees released what they termed "certain basic facts" about Russian and western world military strengths. Their report said Russia and her European satellites have about 5,000,000 men under arms, the North Atlantic Treaty Nations about 4,500,000.

Others To Come During continuation of the hearings over the next week or so, the committees expect to hear also from Secretary of State Acheson, Gen. Omar Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Chief of Staff, and Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations.

The Issues By and large, the Great Debate revolves about this main point: Should the United States dispatch ground troops to stand with western European forces opposite the Soviet armies and, if so, how many.

There are many shades of opinion. Some congress members are opposed to sending any additional troops, contending the United States

Trees To Go So That Road Might Be Improved

OLD LANDMARK TO GO... These cedar trees on the Falkland highway will be chopped down to make way for a widened Greenville-Bruce highway. War Criminals' Hanging Delayed

Habeas Corpus Action Stays Execution Of 7 Germans

Landsberg, Germany, Feb. 15—(AP)—A last-ditch fight for life in a Federal District Court in Washington today staved off the scheduled hanging of seven German war criminals at a U. S. prison here.

Col. W. R. Graham, Prison Commandant, said that as long as the U. S. Court considers a habeas corpus action filed by an attorney for the seven condemned men, the executions will be stayed.

The seven—former SS officers and concentration camp officials accused of the murder of thousands of civilians during World War II—originally were to have gone to the gallows Tuesday night. The hanging was put off until last night, then postponed again because of the men's legal struggle.

The U. S. court denied a habeas corpus writ on Tuesday. Yesterday Attorney Warren Magree filed an appeal in Washington appealing this decision.

The court had held that habeas corpus did not apply to enemy aliens. The seven prisoners claim they lost their German citizenship through their American conviction at Nuremberg.

Prison authorities expressed belief that notification of the final court decision might not arrive before next week at the earliest. Previously some American officials had anticipated a quicker termination of the court fight.

Stalled Highway Work Will Begin

Rights-Of-Way By Property Owners On Eight-Mile Stretch Of N. C. 43 Are Granted; Stately Trees To Go

The proposed widening and resurfacing of the highway between Greenville and Bruce (N.C. 43) will get underway this month now that rights-of-way by property owners on the eight-mile stretch have been granted.

Contracts for the job were awarded yesterday by the State Highway Commission and construction will begin in the near future. White Construction Company of Kinston was given the roadway contract and Michael-Embree Company of Durham was awarded the contract for structures.

Biggest furore over the proposed road came when it became obvious that the 30-odd cedar trees that border the present highway about five miles from Greenville would have to come down. They are located on what used to be the Southwood farm, owned by R. G. Cotton.

At present they are on the property of K. R. Wooten, farmer and general merchandise store owner in Falkland, who bought the land in the 1930's.

The trees have for sometime been an established landmark for that section of the county and have caused many motorists, strangers to this section, to slow down while passing through the canopy. However, after working from every angle possible to save the trees, Highway Division engineer R. Markham stated they will have to come down if the road is to be widened.

Wooten stated today he had asked the highway office if only the trees on one side of the road could be cut to make room for the six additional feet of road. The office, according to Markham, informed after which they will leave their homes and inspect the area for any possible damage, and if any is discovered, the proper emergency authorities will be summoned.

The cards now being given out are entitled "How to Survive an Atomic Bomb Raid." That is one topic which is foremost in the minds of most Americans in days such as these.

The answer, in part, to the question has been prepared by the Pitt County Air Raid Warden branch of the Civilian Defense organization. Chief Air Raid Warden Charles White stated this morning that the information was compiled from the latest information given out by the

Nine Named To Help In OPS Work

Mayor Appoints Committee; County Members Planned To Be Chosen

The standby committee to work in conjunction with the Office of Price Stabilization in Greenville has been appointed by Mayor W. S. Stafford and the nine appointees will stand by until further orders are received from the district director.

Ercel C. Webb, president of the Merchant's Association, has been named committee chairman by Stafford. The other members are H. L. Hodges, Jr., E. T. Stafford, Howard Moyer, Hartwell Campbell, Dave Whitchard III, Tyson Bilbro, W. L. Alford and W. E. Marshall.

Although Stafford was asked by OPS director Michael DiSalle to form a committee to work in the city of Greenville, the Mayor today stated the committee will take it upon itself to name other members from sections in the county. Stafford stated the committee will have the power to name any and everybody who can aid it in its job.

Until orders from the district director arrive, the committee will have no function. As stated by DiSalle, the committee's work will be to assist the district director in helping to stabilize prices in this locality in the interests of a sound national economy.

'Community Day Parade' Friday

At Least 4 Bands, Marine Corps Unit And Floats In Event

Tomorrow's Community Day parade, part of the Americanism Week activities in Greenville, promises to be a gala affair with bands, floats, and many marchers participating.

At least four bands have stated they will participate in the event and eight organizations will have floats in the parade. The Cherry Point Marine Corps band, 55-pieces, will march with the organizations in the parade and a unit of the air station's anti-aircraft defenses will be on hand to display pieces of equipment.

Other bands participating will be the high school band, the Eppes high band, and the drum and bugle corps from East Carolina. Also the complete Air ROTC unit at the college will march as will representatives of all the women's and men's civic clubs in town, each carrying his or her club's colors. Boy and Girl Scouts and Cub Scouts will march also.

Floats in the parade will be entered by The King's Daughters, West Greenville School Parent Teachers Association, the Negro Boy Scouts and Brownies of Fleming Street School, the Baptist Student Center, the Exchange Club, West Greenville P. T. A., Third Street School and the Red Cross.

The parade will begin at 11:30 from Dixie Warehouse on Dickenson Avenue and will march into Five Points and up Evans Street to the courthouse where all groups will disband for a short ceremony on the courthouse grounds, there the leading Boy Scout in Greenville

Enemy Horde Fails To Crack Allies' Defense

Two Additional Building Controls Effective Today

Commercial Construction Requires Licensing And Big Down Payment

Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—Two building controls aimed at combating inflation and saving materials for defense became effective today.

One requires federal licensing for new commercial construction. The other requires a 50 per cent cash down payment on a vast range of non-residential construction.

The licensing system replaces a general ban that has been in effect in most such building since Jan. 13.

The credit-tightening order applies to stores, offices, hotels, banks, warehouses, garages, service stations, restaurants, theaters, clubs and "other new structures used for non-residential purposes."

The order was issued yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board. Meanwhile, Economic Stabilization Director Eric Johnston told the House Ways and Means Committee that legislation will be submitted to Congress to "equalize and stabilize" farm prices and industrial wages. Johnston did not give details of the proposals, but said they will be "equitable and fair."

Under the construction licensing program, new projects will be authorized only if the National Production Authority (NPA) finds they (a) further the defense effort, (b) are essential to public health, welfare or safety or (c) will alleviate or prevent a hardship to a particular community.

Eighteen Commerce Department field offices are authorized to accept applications for building licenses. Officials expect the system to hold new commercial construction far below the $1,500,000,000-level of last year.

Applications for building permits must contain plans, specifications and material lists. Types of construction affected also include: Motels and tourist camps, barber and beauty shops, laundry and dry cleaning establishments, shoe repair and tailor shops, undertakers and cemetery buildings, community and neighborhood buildings, retail stores and shopping centers, and storage warehouses for personal effects.

Construction costing less than $5,000 in 12 months is exempted from licensing controls but not from the new credit curb. This specifies that not more than 50 per cent of a new non-residential construction job may be financed by borrowing.

Inquest Monday In Traffic Death

An inquest into the traffic death of B. B. Wynne, who was killed in January as the result of a highway collision on the Stokes highway near Falcotus, will be held on Monday night at 7:30 in the Pitt County Court House, Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse announced today.

Postponement of the inquest until now was made because several of the injured persons needed for the inquest were still patients in the hospital.

Wynne was one of seven persons in a truck and car which collided as the car in which Wynne was an occupant, reportedly left the highway and struck the truck on the truck's side of the highway.

Most Registered In Mecklenburg

Raleigh, N.C., Feb. 15—(AP)—Mecklenburg County led the state in registration of motor vehicles last year with a total of 66,823.

A report released today by the Department of Motor Vehicles showed a total of 1,171,238 vehicles registered during 1950.

Guilford County ran a close second with 64,898 and Wake third with 56,426. Clay County reported the lowest registration with 888.

Cut-Off French And American Units At Chipyong Reinforced; Communist Casualties Soar In Slaughter; Four Red Divisions Knocked Out; Tenth Corps Bore Brunt, Gen. Almond Promoted

By OLEN CLEMENTS

Tokyo, Feb. 15—(AP)—An allied relief column smashed through a Chinese Red ring today to reinforce American and French forces folding the Chipyong anchor on the central Korean war front.

The relief force battled eight hours before breaking through to the Chipyong perimeter at 5:30 a.m. (3:3 a.m. EST). The action began five miles south-west of the town.

The hard-fought Chinese finally broke and ran. Chipyong, 35 air miles east-south-east of Seoul, is the left flank anchor of a 20-mile allied defense line stretching over snow-mantled hills and valleys to Wonsu, key to the central mountain passes.

The American-French garrison stoutly withstood two days of massed Red infantry assaults to help break the back of the drive aimed at cracking the central front. The communist push was stopped Wednesday.

Red Casualties Red casualties were counted at 10,593 on all fronts Wednesday. They brought to nearly 100,000 those killed, wounded or captured since the allied limited push by hunter-killer columns began Jan. 25.

AP correspondent Robin Randolph reported the Chipyong garrison "fleeing in all directions" after the relief column rammed through from the south.

However, AP correspondent William J. Waugh reported more than 1,000 Reds were dug in on high ground north of the town.

On the western front, American doughboys and artillery wiped out the Han River Wednesday night near Seoul.

It was the second consecutive and disastrous Red attempt to cross the Han River.

British Gov't Moves Into Steel Socialist Regime Takes Over Another Industry Today

London, Feb. 15—(AP)—The British Labor Government went whole hog into the steel business today.

Twenty per cent of the nation's economy now is socialized.

Private ownership of the steel industry, which is the third largest in the world, ended at midnight. The private companies were taken over by the British Iron and Steel Corporation, a government holding company that will set policies on prices, expansion schemes and general administration.

A prompt boost in steel prices was forecast.

The changeover came at a time when the nation is forging new arms for defense against communism.

The Conservative opposition in the House of Commons had waged an unsuccessful fight for years against steel nationalization.

With the acquisition of steel, the government now controls all basic industries including coal, railways, long distance trucking, gas, electricity, airways, world communications, the Bank of England.

While the fighting continued on the central and western fronts at reduced tempo, South Korean marines secured two small islands commanding Wonsan harbor far up on the Sea of Japan coast.

The east coast landings were made Wednesday on Cho and Rei Islands—some 90 air miles north of parallel 38 and about 130 miles north of the main battline.

It had been reported at first that the South Koreans landed on the mainland, but U. S. naval officials said Thursday the operation was confined to the two islands. The Navy said the landings were of secondary importance.

the icy stream near the burned-out former capital. More than 1,100 Korean Reds were killed there in a foray early Wednesday.

The Chinese, creeping across on a railroad bridge, entrenched themselves on a hill southeast of Seoul. At daybreak, big guns of the U. S. Third Infantry Division pounded the hill and infantrymen opened up at closer range.

Lt. Remer Y. Brinson, Savannah, Ga., a frontline platoon leader, said 200 Chinese survivors broke and fled for the Han in panic. Not one reached the river alive, he added.

Allies Counter-Attack Elsewhere on the frigid front allied forces were making limited counter-attacks. AP correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported American troops, attacking with hand grenades, took high ground northeast of Kyongnan, 17 miles southeast of Seoul.

The Reds tried twice to retake the hill—No. 578, named for its ridge in sectors. It had not succeeded. A Redway, Eighth Army Command, told allied forces "shall strike back and destroy the bulk of the enemy's forces which we do not capture."

Corps Victory The Tenth Corps bore the brunt of the four-day massed communist drive down central Korea's rocky spine. Four Red divisions were knocked out.

Ridway pinned the three stars of a Lieutenant General on Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, the Tenth Corps commander.

The mounting toll of Chinese and Korean Reds rose even higher from unceasing allied air attacks.

The Force bombers and fighters flew a record 63 sorties in clear weather Thursday. Most flights were in close support of ground units which had successfully repelled with the Red punch between Wonsu and Chipyong towns.

Death Valley French, Dutch, South Korean and American forces checked the Red drive along a 20-mile front of ridges and a wide valley between those two towns. A field dispatch described the scene as "Death Valley."

Hundreds more Chinese and North Korean Reds met a violent end in today's fighting on the central front. The breakdown on Red casualties on that front alone Wednesday was 3,075 killed, 2,306 wounded by ground action alone.

Islands Taken While the fighting continued on the central and western fronts at reduced tempo, South Korean marines secured two small islands commanding Wonsan harbor far up on the Sea of Japan coast.

The east coast landings were made Wednesday on Cho and Rei Islands—some 90 air miles north of parallel 38 and about 130 miles north of the main battline.

It had been reported at first that the South Koreans landed on the mainland, but U. S. naval officials said Thursday the operation was confined to the two islands. The Navy said the landings were of secondary importance.

Future Of Humanity

Russo-Chinese Alliance Undoubtedly To Play A Major Role In Shaping Future Of World; Asia A Fertile Field For Red Promises; Much Hinges On Europe

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

The Moscow press, marking the first anniversary of the Russo-Chinese alliance, makes much of the claim that the joint actions of the two nations will have a powerful influence on the future of humanity.

Whether this is a correct forecast depends heavily on whether Bolshevism grows in strength or—as many Democratic observers believe—blows up because of mankind's refusal to be regimented. However, it strikes me that the Moscow prediction isn't to be tossed aside lightly without consideration.

Certainly as things now stand the vast Asiatic theater, which contains more than half the world's population, presents a grave problem for the Democrats. It could be the decisive battlefield of the ideological struggle.

Many of these peoples still are living in primitive conditions, literally generations behind the western world. Poverty and hunger are the general rule.

see the time when they are not hungry—a fact which I know from personal observation during various trips to the Far East.

Naturally such conditions provide a fertile field for any sort of ideology which holds out big promises of betterment.

So the combination of the Soviet Union and huge Red China comprises a formidable alliance, especially since much of their territories actually lie within eastern Asia. China, to be sure, suffers from the common ailment of poverty and hunger. But she does have a vast reservoir of manpower which is backed by Russian resources—military and otherwise.

This enables the Russo-Chinese combination to use force (as in Korea and French Indochina) or threats of force, with which to drive home the ideological spike. Revolutionary activities are being inspired and backed by the Russo-Chinese alliance, and this program

The 1040 Short Form

For Whom This Simple Method Of Reporting Income Is For; Filing A Joint Return; Occasions When A Long Form Is Preferred; Not Much Instruction Is Needed

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Feb. 15—(AP)—Any one with under $5,000 income can make his 1950 income tax return on the 1040 Short Form.

It's for the under-$5,000 people who can't use the simpler form 1040-A because they didn't have any tax or enough tax withheld in 1950.

With the Short Form there's no tax figuring. You answer questions and find your tax in the table on page 4.

The under-$5,000 people using Form 1040 as a Short Form get a standard deduction of about 10 per cent of their income for personal expenses.

You don't have to claim that deduction or itemize it. You just get it. If you deductions were more than 10 per cent don't use the Short Form. You'll lose money.

Instead, use Form 1040 as a Long Form. Which means: You must figure your own tax on page 3 and itemize all your deductions, but then you can claim them in full.

Be sure you attach to the Short Form—before turning it into the tax collector—any Form W-2, the withholding receipt, given you by a boss for taxes he withheld from you in 1950.

When husbands and wives file a joint return on the Short Form, both must sign it. Otherwise, the collector will consider it a single return.

Couples puzzled as to whether to file jointly should remember this: If one of them had income but the other didn't, they can't lose by filing jointly on the 1040 Short Form, providing that their total income was under $5,000.

When a couple's total income is under $5,000, but each had some, in most cases—but not all—they'll save money filing jointly on the 1040 Short Form.

Since there are exceptions, when both partners in a marriage had income—total under $5,000—they should check the tax table carefully.

Joint Hostesses Entertain To Compliment Miss Bradsher

Honoring Miss Ione Bradsher, Miss Jesse Moye and Mrs. Moye had entertained informally at their home on Fifth Street on Saturday afternoon at four-thirty o'clock.

For the occasion the home was decorated with flowers in pastel shades. In the reception hall brass bowls held Burford and English hollies accented by tall Colonial brass candlesticks holding burning green tapers. In the drawing room were arrangements of pink gladioli and Dutch Iris in black porcelain vases banded in gold and brass candlesticks holding pale pink tapers. In the library pink Japanese quince were arranged in Chinese porcelain bowls and pale yellow tapers burned in brass candelabra.

Valentine Motif Used At Bridge Club

Ayden—On Friday afternoon Mrs. M. C. Phillips was hostess to her bridge club. She was assisted in serving by her little granddaughter, Miss Janis Phillips of Washington, D. C.

The Valentine motif was used, emphasizing a color scheme of red.

At the conclusion of play Mrs. Allan Johnson won high score which was a box of candy. Mrs. Grady Dixon, second high, an imported handkerchief; Mrs. W. W. Saulsbury, low, a salt and pepper set.

During the game Coca-Colas were served. At the conclusion of play the hostess served a sweet course with coffee to Mesdames Johnson, Dixon, Saulsbury, Dalton Gardner, Guy Taylor, Sam Pierce, J. D. Cannon and Ralph Hardee.

Wesleyan Service Guild Meets On Monday Night

Circle No. 1 of the Wesleyan Service Guild of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church met Monday night at the home of Mrs. John Askew with Mesdames F. W. Oakes, Dorothy W. Johnson and Kip West as assisting hostesses.

Miss Thelma Ecum gave a very thought provoking devotional. She used as her subject "Choosing the Most Important Things."

The chairman, Mrs. V. P. Scoville, presided over the business session.

Mrs. B. F. Rogers, program chairman presented Miss Frances Wahl, president of the Guild, who in a most impressive way spoke on "The Health of the American Indians." Miss Wahl stated, "Since 1848 when Indian affairs came under civil control, government facilities have increased, yet the health conditions of the Indians, although better among some tribes, are still appalling.

Tuberculosis, now the leading cause of illness and death among the Indian people, is about five times as prevalent as it was among the whole population of the United States."

In closing Miss Wahl asked, "What can we do to help the American Indians?"

The members responded by voting to send a donation to Navajo Methodist mission school through the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Following this splendid program, delicious refreshments were served in the dining room from a beautifully appointed tea table, with the Valentine motif carried out.

Mrs. Frye Is Hostess To Semi-Centi Club

Mrs. Mackie Frye was hostess to the Semi-Centi Club on Tuesday evening at her home on Dickinson Avenue.

Mrs. Frank Strawn was appointed to serve as treasurer in the place of Mrs. Ashley Hudson, who is moving away from Greenville. Mrs. Hudson will be greatly missed in the club. After the business had been dispensed with, the president turned the meeting over to Mrs. Frye.

Mrs. Frye explained that the speaker whom she had invited to present the program was unable to be there. It being so near Valentine's Day, and on short notice, she had arranged a delightful series of games. These were enjoyed and provided much amusement for the entire group.

After the books were exchanged, a dessert course was served by the hostess, and the meeting adjourned. The next meeting will be held on February 27 at the home of Mrs. Bob Russ at 700 Willow Street.

B. P. W. Notice

Please call Mrs. Ruel Tyson at 2831 between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. or at 2304 after 5 p. m. within the next two days and suggest a name suitable and complimentary to the B. and P. women for the duck which the club is sponsoring in the duck derby.

The race will be held at Wright auditorium, E. T. C. on March 1 at 7:30 p. m. The driver will be furnished by the Association of Childhood Education. The A. C. E. will sponsor the derby for funds for the Elementary Education Loan Scholarship fund at E. T. C.

In addition to the derby there will be a Spring Style show. Admission is free. Mrs. Tyson urges that all B. P. W. members be on hand for the race and other events. Please call her and suggest a name right away.

Information wanted

A request has come to this paper from Mr. Melvin Bryan, 820 Binford Ave., Ogden, Utah, asking for information concerning the lineage of his family with names and dates.

Mr. Bryan's father left Bethel years ago. His name was William Wyatt Bryan. His grandfather was John Bryan, known as Jackie Bryan, and his great grand father's name was Gifford Bryan or Bryant.

His main problem is whether the family name is Bryan or Bryant.

Anyone having information concerning this family is requested to contact Melvin Bryan at the above address.

Garden Club Notice

The Greenville Garden club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Woman's Club on Friday at 3:30 p. m.

A very interesting program has been planned and all members are urged to attend. Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, a club member, will present the program, and she has chosen for her topic, "Early American Garden Traditions."

Winter arrangements will be a feature of the meeting and all members are asked to bring an arrangement.

At the January meeting it was suggested that the club have a plant and shrubbery exchange in February. If any member has a small shrub or plant they would like to exchange, please bring them to the meeting and make the exchange at the close of the meeting.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If you suffer from any of these conditions, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Unusual Book Reviewed At Chatham Club

Mrs. E. R. Conway was hostess to the Chatham Book Club on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30.

She welcomed guests into the living room, where arrangements of African violets were used as attractive spots of color and beauty. She served a dessert course upon the arrival of club members and two guests for the afternoon, Mrs. C. D. Ward and Mrs. Lindsay Savage.

A routine business session was held prior to the program, which was presented by Mrs. Lindsay Savage.

Mrs. Savage, in her capable and engrossing manner, reviewed the book, "Worlds In Collision," by Emanuel Velikovsky. This book has occasioned quite a bit of controversy, the reviewer stated, but to her it was a fascinating, though unusual, account of natural phenomena and events which have occurred in the solar system and are occurring now.

The author, said Mrs. Savage, has spent years of study in natural science, history, law, biology and psychoanalysis. As a young scholar he founded and edited "Scripta Universitates," a collective work out of which grew Jerusalem University. In 1939 Mr. Velikovsky came to America and has spent the past ten years doing extensive research in archeotechnics of the world and its history. The book, "Worlds In Collision," is the first published volume of the results of this research.

"The book," declared Mrs. Savage, "is daring in viewpoint, startling in context, and original in thought. It is simply written and easily read and explains past, present and probable phenomena in the realm of nature."

The meeting adjourned following the exchange of books.

Founder's Day Observed By Grimesland P. T. A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Grimesland P. T. A. was held Tuesday night in the school auditorium with the president, Mrs. David L. Smith, presiding.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "America." Mrs. J. T. Madrey accompanied the singing at the piano.

Mrs. Dorothy Hyder gave a very thoughtful and appropriate devotional, using as her Scripture reading the story of the Good Samaritan.

Mr. L. V. Godwin, principal of Grimesland school, introduced the speaker, Mr. John Noe, Supervisor of Safety Education with the State Board of Education. Mr. Noe spoke on "Safety Education and the Problems of Safety Education in the State."

The minutes, read by Miss Oma Bliss Lewis, for Mrs. Julia Laster, were approved.

Mrs. Bruce Cozart gave the treasurer's report.

Miss Lewis, publicity chairman, gave an interesting report.

Mr. Godwin expressed appreciation for the work the Home Economics Department did in making the costumes for the cheerleaders. The Queen of Hearts contest to

Dr. George Pasti Guest Speaker At Club Meeting

The Literature Department of the Woman's Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Hicks Corey. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Norman Garrison, Mrs. L. W. Cherry and Mrs. Guy Evans. The gay colors of Valentine's Day were carried out in the tall red and white gladioli about the rooms, a lovely centerpiece of delicate red and white gladioli blooms and candles on the dining table, in the red hearts on the napkins, etc. Those red hearts turned out to be especially appropriate too. After refreshments of cherry tart and coffee, Mrs. W. C. Harris arose and on behalf of the Literature Department graciously presented a lovely silver dish to a bride-to-be, Miss Marguerite Austin.

A short business meeting followed. Then Miss Austin, program chairman, introduced Mrs. George Pasti as a guest and Dr. George Pasti as guest speaker on "The Hundred Best Books." Dr. Paul made the reading of good books seem so possible and fascinating that considerable interest was aroused to start a Great Books study group in Greenville.

The next meeting of the Literature Department will be held on February 27 at the home of Mrs. J. W. Tetterton. Mrs. Robert Lee Humber will be program hostess.

Two other committees were appointed at this time. Mrs. Loyd Whichard and Mrs. John Lewis were selected to be on the door committee for Stunt Night. The nominating committee was named as follows: Mrs. Bruce McLawhorn, Mrs. Floyd Hendrix and Mrs. Elijah Heath.

Mrs. Stalls, Mrs. Sumnerell and Miss Lewis won the attendance prizes.

Mr. Godwin presented a film strip, "The United Forces for Education's Legislative Program for 1951."

Mrs. Guylla Dall Clark had charge of the Founder's Day program. The following president and past presidents were present to the P. T. A.: Mrs. David L. Smith, Mr. Ben Oakes and Mrs. T. P. Fleming.

After the meeting was adjourned delicious refreshments were served by the Home Economics Department.

Mrs. Hart Entertains Members Of Club

Ayden—On Monday night at her home near Ayden Mrs. Chester Hart entertained the members of her bridge club.

The Valentine motif was used throughout the party.

Coca-Colas were served during the game.

At the end of play Valentine candy was given Mrs. Raymond Cox, high, and Mrs. Marvin McCormick, runnerup. Low, glasses were given to Mrs. Clarence Hart.

A sweet course with coffee was served to Mesdames Cox, McCormick, C. Hart, Joe Tripp, Leslie Stocks, Tucker Tripp, "Mac" Edwards and Wilbur Dunn.

Woman's Club To Sponsor Series Of Radio Talks

The Woman's Club is sponsoring a series of radio programs in observance of Brotherhood Week, February 18-24.

All churches and civic agencies are cooperating in fostering the spirit of brotherhood and good-will between races with particular emphasis during this special week, which is observed throughout the nation.

The radio broadcasts originating at WGTC under the auspices of the Woman's Club will be heard Monday, Wednesday and Friday of next week between the hours of 10:15 a. m.-10:25 a. m.

On Monday Miss Mamie Chandler will speak; on Tuesday the Rev. J. A. Neilson will be the speaker, while the broadcast series will conclude on Friday with a talk by Billy Tucker, a student at ETC.

The public is cordially invited to tune in to hear these fine speakers who will bring messages to encourage understanding and brotherhood among all men everywhere.

Three Are Guests Of School At Henderson

Three faculty members at East Carolina Teachers College are guests at Career Day at the Henderson, N. C., High School today. While there, they are participating in a program designed to acquaint pupils with careers into which they may enter and to point out the training for those careers offered by colleges.

Those from East Carolina who are attending Career Day are Herbert L. Carter of the department of music; Robert Holt, director of religious activities on the campus; and Dr. Beasie McNeil, chairman of the department of home economics.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WHICH WAY?
Man is the most unique and baffling of all creatures. He is created more than an animal, yet when he does not live up to his destiny he becomes worse than an animal; but when he tries to live up to his destiny, he presses up to a state that is very close to the life and nature of God Himself.

We all have seen people who have sunk lower than the animals. The sprawling drunkard, the betwager who has played fast and loose with the whole of life, the cruel persecutor who delights in the suffering of others, the person of malicious tongue who commits a crime worse than murder by destroying the reputation and happiness of his fellows—these are examples of the creature man, sunk lower than the animal.

Scorates in antiquity and Gandhi in modern times were men who walked in the full stature of their created beings. Moses, the prophets, the apostles, and the leader of them all, Jesus Christ—these are men in whose lives one sees ample demonstration of the Biblical declaration that man is made in the image and after the likeness of God.

Our brief sojourn on earth appears to be an opportunity for us to decide which way we will direct our lives—down to a destiny below anything we were intended to have, or up to a heavenly destiny to which we were appointed in our original creation.

To Many Children?

"There was an old woman who lived in a shoe who had so many children she didn't know what to do..."

Civilian employment in the various levels of government in the United States has become quite out of proportion to the population of the nation.

The figures released recently by the joint congressional committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures show clearly that the situation already is out of hand, and that it is snowballing with each passing day.

The report stated: "By the end of the first quarter of fiscal year 1951, 90 days after the outbreak in Korea, civilian employment in the executive branch had climbed to more than 2 million and was rising at the rate of more than 1,000 a day; the payroll had risen to an annual rate of $7.5 billion, with prospects that by the end of the fiscal year 1951—with pay raises since 1945—the annual rate would exceed the World War II peak of $8.2 billion. x x x If it should reach the World War II peak, executive departments and agencies would be absorbing 3,750,000 of the nation's manpower supply..."

That would mean one out of every 38 people in the United States would be a civilian employe of the federal government. That would not include the thousands of state government employes and local government employes throughout the country.

In North Carolina, for example, there are 22,295 people who are employes of the federal government, according to the committee report.

But even closer to home, let's look for a minute at Pitt county. According to the report of the joint congressional committee there are 101 federal government employes in Pitt county. Eight of them are under the agricultural department, 85 under the post office department, one under the treasury department, five under the Veterans Administration, and two under other federal agencies.

Add to the 101 federal employes in the county the approximately 70 employes of the Pitt county government, the 21 employes of the county ABC board and the 83 employes of the government of the City of Greenville and you have a total of 275 people in this one county alone who are full time government employes. The figures do not include the employes of the municipalities in the county other than Greenville, and that item in itself probably would add another 25 to 50 to the government payrolls. Neither does it include the state employes located in the county, nor the approximately 97 people who are employed by the City of Greenville through its utilities commission.

Government is big business from the top to the bottom. It takes a lot of people to handle the business of the government; but The Reflector believes the recommendation of the congressional committee could well be applied to the agencies of the local governments as well as to the agencies of the federal government: "No proposal for... increase in civilian employment by an executive department or agency be allowed until... it is working in maximum coordination, operating with maximum utilization of personnel..."

A Voice That Must Not Be Silenced

American eyes have been watching closely attempts from the other parts of the world to steal from the people of the United States their freedoms. But now under the very noses of the people of the country, a scheme designed by Governor Herman Talmadge of Georgia is aimed at doing away with the freedom of the press in his domain.

Talmadge would have the newspapers of his state put in the category of a public utility and regulated by a state agency. In effect it would amount to having the newspapers of Georgia controlled by a dictator just as the papers in many foreign countries are controlled. It would take from the newspapers their independence, and by doing so, it would take from the people of the state of Georgia their only means of knowing the truth about the happenings in their government and in their state.

The measures proposed by the Georgia administration and forced into the legislature of the state are unquestionably in violation of the rights and freedoms guaranteed under the constitution of the United States. It is shocking, however, to realize that in this land of democracy the administrative head of a state would attempt so openly to take from the people of his state their rights to the truth. It is almost inconceivable that a man would seek to silence the very voice of freedom which has resounded through the state of Georgia since the dawn of independence.

Obviously, the step is being taken by Talmadge to silence the deserved criticism of his administration and his tactics in the politics of the state. Obviously the step is pointed toward creating for Talmadge a propaganda machine which will assure that the people of the state will hear only what their political boss wants them to hear.

At this very moment the people of Georgia are on the verge of losing through legislative action a portion of the priceless freedom for which thousands of Georgians have bled and died during the past century and a half.

There are deadly outside powers which are seeking to take from the American people their freedoms. But none are more deadly than the power which today is seeking to deprive the people of Georgia of the truthful voice of a free press.

National Whirligig

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—General Omar N. Bradley's lugubrious warnings of a rearming program lasting twenty years and costing untold billions of dollars to America are discounted heavily by many prominent economists, diplomats and military colleagues who have a tendency off-the-record briefings at the Pentagon within the last few weeks.

They think that the chairman of the Chief of Staff organization is indulging in a bit of psychological warfare with the Congress and the people, and possibly Moscow, as his targets.

They also believe that General Bradley, although fairly well-rounded and balanced for a military careerist, looks out on the United States from his Pentagon window with a rather narrow West Point squint.

OPINION—In the opinion of his esteemed critics, barring the outbreak of actual war with Russia, the rebuilding of our armed forces and industrial potential will make the U.S. and its allies so powerful on land, in the air, on the water, and in the factories and scientific laboratories, that the period of tension and preparation should last only five years.

By that time, and the more optimistic school supplies statistics support their belief, no nation or combination of them will dare to challenge us on the battlefield.

As a consequence, they believe that nations now fearful of or friendly to Moscow—India, for instance, and possibly China—will find it advisable to shift to our side, as Tito has done. The Poles and Czechs would like to join our camp now.

This kind of thinking, which has not yet swept through the White House, the State Department or the Pentagon, represents a courageous and constructive attitude wanting at Washington. It helps to explain why certain realistic men on Capitol Hill, both Democrats and Republicans, refuse to be stampeded. As Herbert Hoover suggests, they want to "stop, look and listen."

FORCE—Here is a summary of the reasoning of the anti-Bradley experts:

Assuming that Congress enacts a draft or universal military training that becomes effective next April—the details of the statute are immaterial with respect to the military manpower to be provided—the United States will have an Army in being and training of between three and four million men at the end of the year, with an Air Force and Navy proportionately strong.

Within two years, or after twenty-four months of training, approximately a million youngsters ranging from 20 to 28 years old will go into an organized reserve or National Guard, where they will undergo periodical refresher courses.

Thus by 1956, five years hence, we shall have an active military force of three to four million men and three million hardy reservists who understand army routine and battle. And each year there will be a million more joining their ranks. These will be in addition to many thousands who have returned to civilian life after the expiration of their enlistments.

IMPREGNABLE—Meanwhile, the fleet which the Truman Administration virtually scrapped will be unmothballed and reinforced with new vessels, especially atom-firing submarines and fast, small aircraft carriers.

The Air Force, which Mr. Truman reduced to only 48 units in defiance of Congress, will have been increased to 100 groups. Guided atomic missiles and a radar fence around both Canada and the United States will make the western continent almost impregnable.

Again barring a Russian march in the interim, Britain, Western Europe and our Pacific allies, including Japan and China, Kai-shek or his successor, will have been built into forward bastions. They will become both defensive and offensive outposts.

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last night at 10 o'clock I was rocking my five-months-old daughter, Nancy, and it occurred to me that it's been months since I wrote a Wife Rachel column. Before Nancy came I used to write about W.R.'s trials and tribulations every now and then.

But it seems that those columns are gone forever. Nancy keeps W.R. so busy that she doesn't have time for trials and tribulations. And last night W.R. turned Nancy over to me so she could complete the job of cleaning out a closet. Nancy kept me so busy that it's a wonder this column was written. As these lines roll out, she's carefully watching every peck of the typewriter from my lap.

At such a close range, Nancy is an inspiration for my topic, which wouldn't have been long enough to fill today's column if I hadn't beat around the bush for two paragraphs before getting to the point: pointers for new parents.

My advice to new parents is to equip themselves with faucets when the baby is born. One faucet would be attached to the heart, so that the love for the baby can be turned off after supper. The husband needs this one more than the wife. After supper the baby should be left alone and taught that night-time is sleep time. This sort of treatment would mean that the daddy who has been working all day would have almost no opportunity to play with the baby. That's a fate worse than death for a daddy without a faucet to turn off after supper.

If the baby is loved after supper instead of put to bed, naturally it expects to be loved every night, even when you've invited the couple next door over for bridge. They don't say so, but they wonder why the baby hasn't been taught to sleep after supper. After reading this, they should realize it's because I don't have a faucet.

New parents also need a faucet on their ears, to shut off the baby's fussing. A baby fusses because it's sleepy and wants to be held to sleep, or because it wants to be loved. It cries when more serious things are wrong. If you ignore the fussing, the baby will fuss himself to sleep or eventually forget about the desire to be loved. If you pick the baby up when it fusses, it becomes another habit that came about because of the faucet shortage.

All prospective parents should be warned about making rash statements before the baby is born, like "I'm not going to spoil my baby," or "There'll be no baby talk in my house," or "No rocking." It's much worse when you've said you wouldn't.

If you want further advice, consult me personally; it's free. But all of my advice comes under the category of "How To Spoil Your Children," not "How Not To." And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

DEFINED — Legislative sentiment and probable courses of action is rapidly crystallizing. Lines are being more clearly defined as important issues come to vote in committees and on the floor of the senate and house. Until the appropriations committee takes a few record votes on the large increases requested by state departments and institutions it will not be possible to make the lines more distinct. And it may require a few public hearings before the finance committee followed by test votes to determine accurately the temper majority of the legislature.

DIFFERENCE — Procedure in appropriations and finance committees are considerably different. The appropriations group hears presentations of anticipated needs before taking a vote. The finance committee must wait for appropriations action before serious consideration of new tax measures. Then after the taxing bills have been offered business enterprises affected are entitled to a hearing. Traditional policy in North Carolina has been that no state agency is denied appropriation until its case, and no new tax is levied without giving the business or industry affected opportunity to be heard. Rare instances in the past when this policy has been violated serve to prove the general rule.

UNATTAINABLE — It is obvious to every member of the general assembly and every newspaper reader in the state that there will not be enough money to meet all requests—no matter how deep the finance committee seeks to dig into the collective Tarheel pocket. Some of the bigger spending groups have not yet been heard from, the requests for appropriations now exceed budget recommendations by more than fifty million dollars a year for operations, plus almost a third as much for permanent improvements. Some additions will be made but the aggregate total requested amount can be disposed of in one word: "Unattainable."

CROSSED WIRES — As the atmosphere clarifies in many respects it becomes more cloudy in others. There were two test votes in the senate Wednesday with closely similar results, but with all sort of crossed wires among the senators voting. The municipal street aid bill as amended was passed by a vote of 29 to 17. The judges' retirement bill, commonly known as the "Hamilton Bill," passed by a record test vote of 29 to 15 on the vital amendment. But there was no semblance of a line-up for both bills. The street bill vote might be termed a show of Governor Scott's strength—or lack of it—in the senate. Many of those who voted for the judges' retirement bill are recognized political opponents of the governor, but in speeches advocating passage of the measure pleaded with the senate not to let the chief executive or the judiciary down. They both demonstrated that the group which organized the senate at beginning of the session still has complete control over it.

LABOR — Action taken by the house committee on manufacturing and labor also demonstrated retention of control by the group which took over leadership of the house the first day of the session. Gossip around the capitol is the house leadership has less chance of holding the line than does the senate. The bill seeking to repeal the anti-closed shop or "right to work" act of 1947 was speedily killed by the committee. There was no real discussion and even the sponsors of the bill tempered their kind words with confession they thought maybe amendments rather than outright appeal would take care of the situation. The wage-hour bill fared only a little bit better at hands of the committee. Barely getting by the lethal axe it was referred to a subcommittee.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

Too Soft and Without Opportunities (Williamston Enterprise)

General Mark Clark, speaking to University of North Carolina students recently, said that American youth is too soft. He also said that many youths of today have been spoiled by their parents and have been accustomed to live with luxuries.

So, all this wild scramble for a higher standard of living is, according to the general, going to knock the props right from under us.

The line offered by General Clark is in close keeping with the father who was asked how his son was getting along.

Admitting that his son was not doing too well, the father went on to explain that the lad never had the opportunities enjoyed by the old man. He pointed out that the boy was surrounded by luxury, that he knew no work schedule, seldom saw a fresh sunrise, enjoyed the use of a private car during his college years, and divided his time on the side of pleasure. The old man re-alled the days when he worked from sun to sun, was thankful for enough of the basic foods, how he found it necessary to quit grade school to help provide for his widowed mother and younger members of the family. "You see the boy never had the opportunities I had," the father explained.

BUSINESS EXPANSION

shares in the state's industrial progress to a limited extent, and an indirect way in the majority of instances, it is interesting to note that furniture manufacturing broke all records in the Fifth Federal Reserve District during the past year. The hosiery industry turned out more products than in any previous year set an all-time mark. And the cotton textile industry operated at the highest level since 1943.

The cigarette industry produced as much in the previous year, but the proportion of the national total produced in the Federal Reserve District dropped from 81.5 per cent of 1949 to 79.6 per cent of 1950. The nationwide output rose 2 per cent, due largely to an increase in factory facilities in Kentucky.

The Fifth Federal Reserve District comprises the states of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina and the District of Columbia.

The figures are especially interesting in North Carolina for the reason that his state, already established in manufacturing to the extent that it probably leads the other states of the district, has been making great strides in gaining new industries.

And, during the past year or two, an increasing number of manufacturing plants are coming to eastern Carolina and there is every prospect that such a trend will continue. Certainly eastern Carolina is doing all in its power to encourage the movement to this section.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

While the rearmament program is admittedly tough on many small businesses, one phase many small businesses, one phase of it is opening opportunities for many small enterprises.

Each new or reactivated defense plant creates a need for satellite services and retail establishments, as well as for subcontractors and other suppliers. Among the services and businesses often needed are taxi and bus lines, newsstands, laundries, in-plant restaurants, coffee lines, shopping services and numerous retail facilities outside the gates.

The necessity of providing food and refreshments for increasing numbers of workers is developing many opportunities and will develop more if the experience of World War II is repeated. Early in the war, many expanding plants opened their own cafeterias. But as time went on, many managements discovered that while their abilities to construct plants and tanks were unquestioned, the management of an eating service was a completely different kind of operation that required special skills of its own. Many plants then leased their restaurants to outside operators. Even more recently, the United Nations—which is expert on almost everything else—turned its in-plant feeding over to a skilled contractor.

Most plants are having enough trouble with normal personnel problems without adding such questions as the contents of the hash to grievances. They'd much prefer to let someone else wrestle with those difficulties.

Most plants, of course, prefer to contract with experienced caterers and operators of restaurant chains for their in-plant eating facilities. However, the offer of an outside company to devote all its time to a plant cafeteria, instead of dividing its attention among a number of establishments, also has its selling points.

Coffee concessions have already spelled opportunity for smaller operators. Personnel departments generally recognize the need for coffee or soft drinks in mid-morning and mid-afternoon, but trips to canteens often cut into production. Hence, drawing again on World War II experience, they have approved the operation of "coffeemoles," from which concessionaires sell coffee and pop to men at the benches.

As more women enter plants, there will be need of other kinds of services. During the last war many plants leased shopping service concessions, providing space for enterprisers who accepted shopping orders in the morning and delivered them in the evening. Some of these concessions grew into tiny department stores. Plant managers much preferred to give women workers this service rather than have them take time off for nylon searches and meat queues.

The expansion of rearmament will offer many different kinds of opportunities for imaginative and aggressive operators. Persons eager to start a new business these days may profitably make a study of possibilities at nearby defense plants.

10 PCT. MARK-UP PLAN STUDIED BY OTHERS

Grocery merchandisers are closely watching a Springfield, Mass., food center which ticks almost all packaged goods with the wholesale price and a 10 per cent mark-up. Because many prices come out in tenths of a cent, the market obtained a cash register that records and adds mills as well as dollars and cents. "Fair traded" articles, on which manufacturers fix retail prices, are not included in the plan and carry a special sticker. Sales tripped after the first six weeks, the market reports.

INSURANCE COMPANIES WOULD WIDEN MARKET

New York's large insurance companies have asked the legislature for permission to invest some of their surpluses in common stocks and loans to small businesses. The legislators, however, have so no enthusiasm to change the law which restricts insurance investments to gilt-edge investments.

New York.—(AP)—The Chinese have probably done more to improve the American army than anything since the invention of the Garand Rifle.

This odd contribution came as a result of their entrance into the Korean war last fall.

"That served as a kind of land version of Pearl Harbor in waking our country up," said one staff officer. "And it has provided us with a proving ground in ways and means of fighting a modern Oriental foot army."

The big lesson the Chinese taught immediately was this: big guns alone won't defeat masses of people already disciplined by their leaders to accept death.

The American infantryman has learned he cannot wait in a fox-hole and expect his own artillery to pulverize the foe before him. Artillery can't do it alone anymore than strafing airplanes can. So the doughboy has become more resourceful in attack. He is developing again the kind of initiative for which his ancestor—the American frontiersman—was famous. He has taken his bayonet out of the sheath strapped to his leg and put it back on his rifle where it belongs. And he is using his bayonet more.

Everyone knows that the enemy strongly outnumbered the United Nations forces in Korea. The term "hordes" is widely used.

What most civilians fail to realize, however, is that even when one American division is matched against one Chinese division the American division is outnumbered in a vital respect—riflemen.

The rifleman is still the focal man on the battlefield. But a division of 10,000 Chinese actually can muster twice as many riflemen as an American division of 18,000 men. This margin of superior small arms firepower on the combat line has been a tremendous advantage to the Chinese.

How can they do it? Because of the difference in organization and culture between their foot armies and the American mechanized army.

The American soldier expects a great deal from his army. He expects to ride instead of walk whenever possible. He expects—and gets—the best food and the best clothing available. He expects small comforts such as shaving cream, candy, comic books and tobacco. He expects to be hospitalized when he is wounded or ill. He expects to have his body recovered, identified and properly buried if he is killed in action. These things are part of his tradition. No army provides more of these services than the American army. But they take a lot of manpower in each division—truck drivers, dentists, messes, chaplains, special service staffs, clerks and cooks.

The Chinese soldier goes into battle expecting little—and getting nothing except what he carries on his own back. He is just a human animal under orders. And that tradition enables a Chinese division to use most of its troops as riflemen.

Couldn't an American division do the same thing? "It could if we made our men forage off the countryside, gave them nothing but weapons and ammunition, and let the badly wounded and the dead lie where they fell," said one officer. "But that is against our entire tradition as a people. And if we did do it we wouldn't have an American division in the field—it would be, in effect, a Chinese division."

What is the solution then? Some officers feel the answer is for the American army never to engage in a full size land war in Asia. They feel the Oriental powers have too great a superiority in manpower, and any war against them should be waged with seapower and airpower.

But others think that as a result of the lessons learned in Korea—ever closer collaboration between our tanks, artillery, infantry, tactical aircraft and naval vessels—the American armed services can defeat mass Oriental armies by aggressive teamwork.

The American infantry has developed new techniques of night fighting and methods of keeping the enemy off balance by hit and run raids. The doughboy today is a more resourceful soldier in every way than he was a year ago. He's more willing to come to close quarters with the foe.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington—Maria Hacker, a pretty young German movie actress, actually parachuted into the life of Lauritz Melchior and for 26 years has been the wife of the famed Wagnerian tenor and former Metropolitan opera star.

She was making a comedy movie that called for stunt work. She came to earth near Munich in the midst of a startled crowd that included the Danish singer, then on concert tour.

"He was no midget—six feet, three and one-half inches tall—also very handsome; I couldn't overlook him," Mrs. Melchior, who accompanied her husband to the capital for a concert appearance, told me.

The Melchiors first came to the United States in 1926. Mr. Melchior made his debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company in "Tannhauser" Feb. 17. He was with the opera company until last year, when he quit. He is now making concert appearances over the country, appearing on numerous radio and television shows, making recordings and soon a movie. His fifth in as many years. Together, this devoted couple has traveled more than 300,000 miles in all parts of the world.

"There is nobody who equals him for work," she said. "He says I'm boss. I say he's boss. Of course, we all spoil him."

Mrs. Melchior loves to travel with her husband, who, she says, is a kind, understanding and jovial character. She'll go anywhere with him willingly—except into the jungle. He likes to hunt. She says there's not an animal in the wild world he hasn't shot—except an Indian tiger.

"The last time I went shooting with him was in Uruguay—puma hunting, it was. I was so bored. I just can't bear it. All the time you have to look down for snakes, frog mosquitoes, look up in the trees for pumas ready to lunge at you," she said.

The Bavarian-born Mrs. Melchior says the trophy room in their ultra-modern, almost completely glass-walled house in Beverly Hills, Calif., is filled with hides and skins and stuffed animals and butterflies. There are bears and buffalo skins, elephant tusks and elk horns. She keeps tripping over a bear skin under the piano.

Mrs. Melchior says her family forced her to take piano lessons for years, but that she had "no heart for it."

When I played for the first time for my husband, he just looked at me and begged me never to play again in my life. That suited me fine."

Offer Baritone Recital Monday By Robt. Mays

Robert A. Mays, baritone, of Greenville and Hopewell, Va., will be presented in his senior recital next Monday evening, February 19, by the department of music at East Carolina Teachers College. The program will take place at 8:00 o'clock in the Austin auditorium. The department of music extends the public an invitation to attend.

Maxine Maddrey of Severn will assist Mr. Mays and will give two groups of selections for piano. Miss Maddrey, a junior at the college, is specializing in music and is a pupil of George E. Perry of the music faculty. This year she is accompanist for the Women's Chorus of the college.

Mr. Mays has been a student at East Carolina for the past four years, and has studied voice under Prof. Dan E. Vornholt during this time. He has appeared in many programs at the college and at present is baritone soloist with the College Choir and the College Singers, music organizations on the campus. Last spring he had the leading baritone role in the folk opera "Down in the Valley" by Kurt Weill, which was presented by the college department of music. He has sung before many Greenville audiences and is well-known in the city.

After serving for three years in the Marine Corps, Mr. Mays entered East Carolina as a student. He will be graduated at the end of the present quarter with a bachelor's degree in music education. He will reenter the Marine Corps after his graduation.

On the campus, Mr. Mays has taken an active part in student organizations and at present is serving as president of the Circle K Club, the College Choir, and the Phi Sigma Pi fraternity. His wife is the former Miss Lina Worthington of Greenville.

Highest Soarer In Glider Plane

IVANS with oxygen mask and model glider.

AP Newsfeatures San Diego, Calif.—The man who has floated higher than anyone (official recognition pending) is William S. Ivans, Jr., of suburban La Mesa.

The instruments on his glider plane showed that he attained an altitude of 42,000 feet Dec. 31, 1950, in a flight over California's Owens Valley. The record of 33,500 feet is held by John Robinson of Los Angeles.

Ivans, an aeronautical engineer, said he managed to glide into an updraft after releasing his glider from a tow plane at 15,000 feet. The soaring flight, which lasted three hours and ten minutes, was the achievement of an ambition of several years by the young engineer.

His mark has been submitted for official approval as a new record to the Soaring Society of America, the National Aeronautical Association and the Federation Aeronautique Internationale in Paris.

Jesus the Christ

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 7:31-37

Jesus entered a house to escape from the multitudes that followed Him everywhere, but a woman entered the house after Him, and kneeling before Him begged that He would cast out an evil spirit that possessed her little daughter.

As Jesus returned to the coast of Galilee, a man was brought to Him who was deaf and dumb. The Lord put His fingers in the man's ears, touched his tongue with spittle, and he was made to both see and hear.

Pharisees came to question Jesus, and they asked Him for a sign, for they thought to tempt Him. Jesus, sighing, asked why that generation sought a sign, and He left them and entered a ship to sail to the other side of the sea.

Jesus asked who people were saying He was, and was told that some said John the Baptist, come again, and some Elias. "Who say ye that I am?" He asked, and Peter answered, "Thou art the Christ." MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 16:16.

JESUS THE CHRIST

DISCIPLES CONVINCED HE IS THE MESSIAH

Scripture—Mark 7:31-37

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL IN READING over today's Bible references, we are struck with the fact that after each miracle Jesus worked, He asked those whom He had healed and the onlookers to tell no one. None obeyed Him. So overcome with amazement were those who received His help or witnessed the deed, they told everyone they met. In every household in the vicinity of the miracle, it must have been the chief topic of conversation. Neighbors told neighbors; families sent word to relatives and friends, and those who had been cured were objects of wonder and awe. Why did not Jesus want these works of His blazoned abroad? The time had not come to disclose His real nature. Also, the rulers of the synagogues were jealous of their position and authority, and they would do their best (and did) to trap this audacious Person and discredit and silence Him, even if they had to kill Him. What do you do if you are asked not to tell about something that has happened? Do you immediately tell the next person you meet? Or do you do as you are asked, and keep it secret? Gratitude for favors received may make it seem right to acquaint others with the deed, but loyalty to your benefactor should keep you silent. In today's story, Jesus had gone to the borders of Tyre and Sidon, where He went into a house, hoping no one would know He was there. A woman, a Gentile and a Phoenician of Syria, had evidently been waiting for Him, and she followed Him into the house and threw herself at His feet. Her little daughter was possessed by an unclean spirit, she said, and she begged the Master to cast it out. After a suggestion by Jesus and a quick-witted answer by the mother, she was told to go her way; "The devil is gone out of thy daughter." And so the mother found it to be, when she arrived home. In Decapolis there was brought to Christ a deaf and dumb man. Jesus took the man aside, put His fingers in his ears, then spat, and taking a little spittle on His finger, He touched it to the tongue of the man—who immediately could hear and speak. The third miracle of which we are told by St. Mark, was similar to the one we had in a recent lesson. ### Junior Drives Like Dad, Ruritans Told Pactolus, Feb. 15—Police Chief Guy C. Langston of Greenville told the Pactolus Ruritans Monday night, "Junior will drive just like dad did. We are horse and buggy drivers in a motor vehicle age." The Greenville police chief discussed for the Ruritans the highway safety problem facing the people of North Carolina, and emphasized the importance of keeping down the number of accidents and deaths on the highways of the state. Langston asserted that parents today are unable to instruct their children in proper operation of motor vehicles. The chief said a type of instruction is needed in the schools of the state to teach the youngsters both the mechanics of driving, and to acquaint them with the laws of the state which govern the operation of motor vehicles. "Parents set bad examples for their children," Langston said, by speeding, driving while drinking, crashing red lights, being discourteous, and failing to recognize the rights of pedestrians and bicycles on highways and on the city streets. Jack Tripp, delegate from the Pactolus club to the national convention of Ruritans held last month in Roanoke, Va., reported to the club on the activities of the convention. Noel Lee, Jr., member of the Pactolus club was elected treasurer of the national organization for the second consecutive term. During the business session of the meeting, members of the club decided on the type of Bible which the club will purchase to present as a gift to each member of the graduating class of Pactolus high school this spring. President H. C. Sumrell presided at the meeting which was attended by 96 per cent of the club members. Members of the home demonstration club served a roast chicken dinner topped off with cherry pie.

Robinson Takes LaMotta's Crown In 13th Round TKO

Jake Given Terrific Beating In Latter Rounds, But Fails To Go Down Under Sugar Ray's Punishing Blows

Chicago, Feb. 15—(AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson today became the first man in ring history to win one championship and lose another all in the same battle.

The rhythmic New York Negro, defeated only once in 124 contests, last night won the world's middleweight championship by hammering durable Jake LaMotta, 160-pound title holder, to defeat on a 13 round technical knockout before 14,802 frenzied spectators in the Chicago Stadium.

As his right-gloved fist was raised in victory, Robinson automatically relinquished his welterweight crown. He was forced to surrender it under a ruling of the National Boxing Association and also by decision of Eddie Egan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, which operates independently of the N.B.A.

Under the terms of last night's match Robinson is required to give LaMotta a return bout, probably in New York, next June. However, Truman Gibson, secretary of the sponsoring International Boxing Club, wondered if LaMotta wanted to face the prospect of absorbing another beating from his conqueror.

LaMotta remained in an unfavorable condition for two hours after he walked from the ring under his own power. He was immediately administered oxygen when he reached his dressing room. He was completely exhausted and suffered chills.

Dr. J. M. Houston of the Illinois Athletic Commission and Dr. Phillip Burdick, New York, remained in constant attendance until he was able to leave for his downtown hotel quarters with his wife, Vicki.

The attendance gate was $180,619 and the net was $138,939. The attendance exceeded expectation despite television and its estimated 30,000,000 viewers. LaMotta's share of the gate was $62,520 and Robinson received $20,840. Each fighter also had a TV cut of $1,500.

LaMotta held the middleweight championship two days short of 20 months. He won it from the late Marcel Cerdan of France at Detroit June 16, 1949. He successfully defended it twice. Robinson had ruled the welterweights since Dec. 20, 1946.

The rugged LaMotta, never knocked off his feet in 95 contests, retained this dubious honor in losing to Robinson. The bout was stopped at 2:04 of the 13th round.

The "Bronx Bull" was battered into a state of helplessness which prompted Referee Frank Sikora to step between the men and order Robinson to his corner.

East Carolina Plays High Point Tonight

The East Carolina Pirates will travel to High Point for a North State encounter with the strong High Point Panthers tonight. Sporting a 7-6 conference record, the Pirates will be out to improve this record against a team that beat them in their first meeting by the narrow margin of 59-58.

The Pirates will be up against two of the conference's top scorers tonight, and if they can hold these two boys down they are a good bet to upset the third place Panthers.

Jesse Joyce, the third high scorer in the conference, and Ed. Sueta, fourth ranking scorer in the conference will be in the line-up against the Bucs.

Expected to lead the Pirates' offensive attack will be All-conference Sonny Russell, who is currently leading the Pirate scoring. Charlie Huffman, who got 23 points against the McCrary Eagles Saturday night, will probably be a big factor in the fate of the locals.

Virginia Tech Sure Bet For Tournament

Richmond, Va., Feb. 15—(AP)—Virginia Tech's Gobblers today joined the list of teams which seemingly can't miss receiving invitations to the Southern Conference basketball tournament March 1, 2 and 3 at Raleigh, N.C.

The list already includes North Carolina State, West Virginia, William and Mary and South Carolina. If these five clubs make the grade, three tournament bids remain to be filled.

Tech scored its eighth triumph last night, whipping the University of Richmond Spiders 83-61. Sumner (Tex.) Tilson and Dick Sayre, Tech stars, paced the basket-making with 21 points each.

West Virginia Mountaineers closed out their circuit campaigning by handing Maryland's Old Liners a 70-64 licking. Maryland's Lee Brawley poured in 24 points in the battle.

Duke's Blue Devils last night trounced Washington and Lee, 94-68. Dick Groat collected 28 points for Duke.

Although Duke has the same loop mark as South Carolina (10-6) the Blue Devils still have three major tests. South Carolina, likewise, has three games left, but one is with The Citadel, 79-45 victim of the Gamecocks in January.

One game is scheduled tonight: Wake Forest's Deacons at Clemson. Wake Forest edged Clemson last Saturday night in an overtime thriller, 73-72.

Sammy Ranzino has a touch that is the envy of all collegiate basketball players. The agile captain of North Carolina State whose specialty is setting scoring records with his famous one-hand push shots is most appreciated by the boys who play the court game and the coaches.

In the game to guard. He is a very tricky dribbler and can feint a guard movement in order to drive past a scoring lay-up. More amazing than any other part of his court play is Ranzino's remarkable accuracy from the floor. Last season, Sammy made 51 percent of the shots he attempted, and his free throw percentage was even greater—71 percent. Second only to his scoring talents is his ability to snare rebounds. Sammy is 6-foot-1 and yet he manages to get the ball through perfect timing. Fact is, there isn't much Ranzino can't do with a basketball—and do well.

Oslo Making Preparation For 1952 Olympic Games

Bislett Stadium in Oslo, scene of the 1952 Olympic Games

By HENRY HENRIKSEN
AP Newfeatures
Oslo — For the first time in history the Winter Olympics will be held in a large city. Not only that but the 1952 games, from Feb. 14 to 25, will be held right in the heart of Oslo, capital of Norway.

Patron of the games is His Majesty King Haakon VII. Thirty countries are expected to compete. All forms of winter sports will be seen. The bob sled races will cover four days. About 15 teams are expected to take part in the ice hockey. All types of skiing will be seen, including ski jumping. Ice skating includes figure and speed competition.

Main arena for the games will be Bislett Stadium in the center of Oslo. The games will open and close in this stadium and the speed skating and figure skating will be held there.

In the event of mild weather, which is unlikely at that time of year, two excellent reserve stadiums are handy. One is up the hills above Holmenkollen and Frognerstern, some seven miles from the city.

A first class ice hockey rink is now underway at Jordal Stadium in the eastern part of Oslo.

Downhill and giant slalom skiing has been transferred to Norefjell, some 66 miles from Oslo. The ski jump competition will take place at Rodkleiva, seven miles from Oslo. It has ideal facilities for thousands of spectators.

Cross-country ski races will take place in the hills around Holmenkollen. Holmenkollen Hill will take care of the ski jumpers. Beneath the take-off there is a three-story building which will house a ski museum on the ground floor and first floor and a restaurant on the second floor where spectators may sit and drink while watching the jumpers make a flight of 71 meters.

A permanent housing shortage represents a bottleneck in the preparations. However, the question of accommodations for some 1,000 competitors and an equal number of officials, plus the press, radio and photographers, is nearing a solution.

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 15—(AP)—Things are humming here today as various Cleveland Indian officials began to assemble to lay the foundation for the forthcoming spring training season.

Al Lopez, new manager of the Tribe as the successor to Lou Boudreau, already is on the scene and enthused over his new job. He is not predicting a pennant for the 1948 world champions, but he is not exactly pessimistic.

The new Indian skipper, at this early stage of the campaign, said he was principally worried over locating a reliable relief pitcher. He is well satisfied with his starters.

A camp school for rookies opened here today with Red Ruffing and Jake Flowers assisting Lopez on the faculty.

Leading Quintets Being Displaced

New York, Feb. 15—(AP)—Cincinnati and Oklahoma A&M, longtime leaders in major college basketball team offense and defense, have given way to newcomers.

The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau reported today that North Carolina State has displaced Cincinnati in offense, while Texas A&M has moved ahead of the Oklahoma Aggies in defense.

In games through Feb. 10, Cincinnati's point-making average skidded from 78.9 to 77.4, while N. C. State climbed last week a third of a point to 78.0 per game. Cincinnati has held the lead since the first of the season.

Oklahoma A&M, which has been the national leader in defense for the last five years and for 12 of the last 15 years, is only a fraction below Texas A&M. The Texans have given up 44.8 per game, while the Oklahoma Aggies have allowed 44.9.

Texas A&M, a contender for the Southwest Conference title, has given up only 29, 33, 30 and 36 points in its last four games.

Grifton Takes Twin Bill From Maury Cagers

Grifton's boys and girls kept up their winning ways last night, as they took both ends of a double-header from Maury. The girls barely edged out a scrappy Maury sextet in the final seconds 47-46. In an exciting game that went right down to the wire, Nell Mumford was almost a one man show as she scored 30 points to lead her team to victory.

Edna Braxton, who scored the winning goal for Grifton in the last second, was next high scorer with 11 points. Dall got 25 for the losers, followed by Garris who had 17.

In the boys' game Grifton had to come from behind in the last quarter to take a 39-33 win over the Maury cagers. Rex Lewis led the Grifton team with 16 points, followed by B. McLawhorn who scored eight. M. Hawkins hit for 13 to lead the losing Maury five.

Four Loop Games For North State On Tap Tonight

By the Associated Press
Plenty of action will be offered in the North State basketball conference tonight with four loop games on tap. All hands were idled last night by a blank schedule.

Two important contests will feature Lenoir Rhyne at Elon and East Carolina at High Point. Lenoir Rhyne's Bears are currently sitting on the conference leadership and High Point's Panthers are clawing in earnest for the top. A loss for either of the leaders would put a crimp in their title hopes.

Catawba's proud Indians entertain Guilford in another contest that could bring fireworks, and Western Carolina will be at Appalachian, rounding out the card.

Rio Grande Valley Open Has Many Favorites; Starts Today

Coastal Tourney Will Be Held In Kinston This Year

Washington, Va., Feb. 15—(AP)—The $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open began today with more favorites than you could shake a stick at.

The Men's Coastal Golf Association met in Kinston on Tuesday night for the purpose of setting dates for the annual Men's Coastal Golf Tournament. Mr. Harold Thomas attended the meeting as representative for the Greenville Golf Club.

Officers were elected for the coming year, and plans were laid for the annual tournament. The new officers are Dr. Paul Munzell, president, and Jim Parrott secretary and treasurer. Two new members were accepted by the organization, bringing to eight the number of cities now in the association; the new members are Washington and Clinton.

As a result of two new members being added, this year's tournament will be divided into two divisions of four members each, with each division playing six matches. Members in the first division are: Tarboro, Washington, New Bern and Greenville. The second division will be made up of Kinston, Clinton, Smithfield and Farmville. Play will start for the two divisions on March 21. The winners in each division will play each other for the team championship, and at the end of season play representatives from each team will play matches to decide the individual coastal champion. These matches will be held in Kinston on a date to be announced later.

The $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open began today with more favorites than you could shake a stick at. The Spartan municipal course with its par 71 is quite short—only 6,086 yards—and the man with the hottest putter probably will be the fellow taking home the $2,000 first money. But the field of 137—139 professionals and 18 amateurs—bulges with fellows who are death on the greens.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, leading money winner of the year and the only golfer taking two tournaments on the winter tour—is mentioned most prominently as the man to beat. But young Jack Burke Jr. of Houston, the defending champion, E. J. Harrison of St. Andrews, Ill., and Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N.Y., who led for first in the Texas Open and 10 or 20 others are named by the touring pros as likely to succeed.

Harrison, winner over Ford in the playoff for the Texas Open, was considered a very strong bet. The old Arkansas Traveler's putting is quite deadly these days.

Prominent among the missing is Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., who won the title in 1949, but Middlecoff isn't one of the 10 pros who went to Mexico City to play in the Mexican National Open, eight of them in defiance of the PGA Tournament Committee's orders. Middlecoff returned to Memphis after the Texas Open because of the serious illness of his father.

East Carolina To Open Baseball Drills Monday

East Carolina's head baseball coach, Jack Boone, called all pitchers and catchers out for initial drills of the 1951 season Tuesday afternoon and announced that all others, including newcomers, to report at the Wright building Monday afternoon, February 19 at 3 o'clock.

Boone comments that the first two weeks of drills will be spent in conditioning exercises and then he will settle down in earnest for the remainder of the season.

Minus the services of many of last year's familiar faces, Boone has a big rebuilding task before him as he will be attempting to develop a strong pitching and catching staff. Gone from the pitching staff is All-conference Vernon Jones, a righthander and Bob McCotter, a southpaw who signed with the professional New Bern Bears at the close of last season's campaign and Hal Whitehurst. Also missing will be two promising freshmen hurlers from last year's prosperous outfit.

George McCullen and J. C. Fields both drew starting assignments last year and were expected to strengthen the mound staff considerably. Both of these boys were drafted by the armed forces while Jones and McCotter were lost via graduation.

Returning veterans on the pitching staff include Dick Hobbs, a junior from Thomasville. Hobbs is

Valentine Girl Doesn't Know Her Days Of Life Are Limited

Atlanta, Feb. 15—(AP)—The frail little girl with cancer who became a nation's Valentine sighed today over stacks of mail—216,000 pieces—“I wish I could thank everybody.”

Twelve-year-old Jacquelyn Marre is just about the happiest child this side of heaven.

But being a smart youngster, she is beginning to wonder why people from all over the United States, Canada and England are being so extra special nice.

In a quiet moment, she asked her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marre, “Won't I ever get well?”

So they told her, “Honey, you've had a mighty sick child. You've had a tumor and it is going to take a long time for you to get well, and everybody just wanted to say, ‘thank you’ for being such a brave little girl.”

The truth is, said Marre, the doctors have declared the cancer is incurable and Jacquelyn may die at any moment.

If fact, he continued, after her second brain operation in February, 1950, the doctors gave her but three months to live.

Since the story of Jacquelyn's halting, whispered wish to be somebody's Valentine first appeared in the newspapers, Marre went on, “people from all over the country have called.”

“Many told me that since I would not accept any money they were going to give it to the American Cancer Society. I certainly appreciate that.”

Marre, athletic instructor at the Progressive Club, wrinkled his forehead, then said, “You know, it's kinda funny turning down all that money. The only vacation the kid ever had was in Florida and I've been saving every dime I could get my hands on to take her back, but so far I haven't been able to make it.”

It was last week that a forlorn Jacquelyn, who just didn't have a Valentine Day in 1950, first told her mother she would like to be a Valentine.

Jacquelyn, you see, was unconscious last February and, in fact, most of the year.

Anyhow, kind hearted folks made sure this year she would remember Valentine's Day so long as she lived.

Reservations Slowly Rise For C-of-C Annual Event

Reservations have been made for approximately 10 per cent of the people the Greenville Chamber of Commerce expect to attend the annual banquet of the organization on February 26.

Manager W. T. Kyzer said this morning reservations have been slowly coming into the Chamber of Commerce office, although he expects the number of reservations to increase rapidly today and tomorrow.

“The college has to buy the food for the banquet in advance,” Kyzer explained, “and they are asking us to let them know by day after tomorrow just how many people we will have at the banquet.” On letters recently sent to the Chamber of Commerce members, Kyzer requested reservations for the banquet be made by tomorrow.

F. Badger Johnson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, urged all the members of the organization to attend the banquet at which Keen Johnson, vice president of Reynolds Metal Corporation and former governor of Kentucky, will be the principal speaker. “We are fortunate in being able to secure such an outstanding speaker for the banquet,” Johnson stated. “The metals industry is one which is playing a vital part in our nation's mobilization program, and Mr. Johnson is very well informed on the steps industry is taking in conjunction with the nation's preparedness program. And besides the speaker, those who attend the banquet will have a fine steak dinner to look forward to.”

At its meeting earlier this week, the Greenville Rotary Club voted to dispense, with its regular meeting on Monday night, February 26, and

Student Evaluation Of Instructors This Week

Students at East Carolina Teachers College are evaluating their instructors this week for the first time, and faculty members are seeing how their classes rate them.

A rating sheet, prepared by a faculty-student committee, is being filled out by students in all classes in the college. The student is given an opportunity to evaluate the work of the instructor in each of his classes by answering 36 questions dealing with mastery of subject matter, class procedure, grading and testing, relationships with students, and personality.

The purpose of the rating plan is to evaluate instruction and to aid practices through cooperative effort. The plan is considered democratic and is expected to create a better understanding in class work between students and faculty members. Evaluation sheets are assigned by the students and are submitted to the instructor concerned. After the testing period ends Saturday of this week, the instructor will prepare anonymously a tally sheet for the rating committee. From these, a general

Full House Sees Kiwanis Show On Opening Night

The tenth annual Kiwanis Dixieland Minstrel, sponsored by the Greenville Kiwanis Club, opened last night before a packed audience with tickets to the event sold out long before the opening of the show at 8:15.

The show, running about two hours in length, had a variety of sparkling musical numbers and customary acts, which were well received by the audience.

Scenery and costumes this year are the equal, if not better, than previous shows have offered.

This year, more of the show's numbers feature children in special dancing and singing acts, in addition to the performance of the older girls and men.

An added attraction this year is the ballet, composed of Kiwanis men, the first time the Minstrel has used the act.

A special bus, chartered by the Wilson Kiwanis Club, brought a delegation of Wilson Kiwanis Club members for the opening night's performance.

On Tuesday night, the club put on the show for the benefit of the college students and played before a standing-room audience.

The show will be given at the Cherry Point Marine Air Base on Sunday of this week.

When the Minstrel was first organized, the popularity of the show spread over eastern North Carolina and the show went on tour for some time.

Tonight's performance of the Dixieland show will get underway at 8:15.

Factors Of Military Strength Discussed At Reservist Meet

A discussion on “How to measure a nation's strength in way of war preparedness” was conducted by George Shoe at the weekly meeting of the Naval Reservists of Greenville Tuesday night.

Things to be taken into consideration in determining the strength of a nation depends on its size, its location and the amount of agriculture and industry in actual operation, he said.

In addition, one of the more important factors is that the nation must be united, have a fighting spirit, and be commanded by a leader of ability and influence.

History, Shoe stated, has shown that most of the powerful leaders in world affairs in the past have been nations of large size, containing the necessary items for warfare, although some smaller nations have waged successful battles before being taken over.

Winterville FHA Banquet Tonight

Winterville, Feb. 15—More than 15 persons are expected to attend the annual F.H.A. Mother and Daughter banquet to be held by the Winterville Future Homemakers Club tonight at the high school.

The supper will get underway at seven o'clock and will be followed by a talk by Dr. E. J. Carter, acting head of the Education Department of East Carolina Teachers College.

In addition to club members and their mothers who are expected to attend the annual event, presidents and teachers of the other Pitt County F.H.A. clubs will be honored guests as will be school board members.

A special program has been prepared for the night's event, a spokesman for the class stated today.

The Winterville F.H.A. club has a membership of around 70 persons.

Stolen Corn Is Recovered; Two Men Arrested

Eight bushels of stolen corn and two thieves to go with them were found last night when members of the sheriff's department and Chief Constable Elmer Haddock arrested two Negroes in the Black Jack community.

Joe Copeland, 24, and James Williams, 18, both of Black Jack were placed in jail last night after they were arrested for stealing the bagged corn from Elmer Dixon, farmer in the community. Both admitted stealing the corn Monday night and hiding it behind an old farm building on Dixon's land. Last night they moved the corn into the woods just before being arrested.

Copeland is an employee of Dixon's, working as a day laborer. Both he and Williams will go on trial in County Court February 27 for larceny.

Community Day . . .

(Continued From Page One) will lead the crowd in the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag after the flag has been raised.

The ceremonies being planned are of a formal nature, and there will be no speeches. The benediction of the program will be delivered by Reverend Leonard Topping, pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

Part of the Marine Corps' display will be pictures which were taken from a plane over the courthouse and will be shown to the crowd. The plane flew over this morning to get random shots of the grounds and surrounding buildings.

During the ceremony from the courthouse grounds prizes will be awarded to the three best floats in the parade. One hundred dollars will be given for first prize, $75 for second and $25 for third. The prizes are given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring organization for Americanism week.

Future Of . . .

It is, of course, too early to arrive at any final conclusion regarding the Asiatic situation. A long, hard conflict may lie ahead.

Much will depend on the trend of the struggle in western Europe. Should war develop there, and should Russia overrun the continent, the picture in Asia would be greatly altered.

Such a European outcome would provide Moscow additional resources with which to press the Far Eastern conflict. And the Democracies naturally would be correspondingly weakened.

In short, Russia would be pretty well queen of the globe—a circumstance which this column doesn't expect to develop.

The Asiatic struggle may take on a different complexion as com-

U.S. Plans . . .

There are others who are agreeable to sending some ground forces but want to limit the number.

President Truman takes the position he has authority to send troops without consulting Congress, but has said he would confer with the legislators to be polite.

Stalled Highway . . .

(Continued from page one) Wooten all the trees will have to come down since they are on about a mile of straight location. The right-of-way was granted by Wooten shortly thereafter, he said.

Widening the present road, which was constructed in 1923, from 16 feet to 22 will bring it up to highway standards. In the past the narrow road has been a traffic hazard, resulting in several deaths, three of them in the past year and several in years previous to 1950.

The cedar trees, Wooten stated, were not planted there by anyone and did not even border on some rich plantation owner's driveway into his home, a speculative belief shared by many persons. They grew from cedar seedlings that sprang up between two fence rows on the Southwood farm many years ago.

A-Bomb . . .

Reading in part from the pamphlet:

Survival in the event of an atomic raid is based on knowing two things. (1) the bomb's true danger and (2) the steps one can take to escape them. The atomic bomb has definite limitations as a weapon of destruction, as powerful as it is. Injury by radioactivity will not necessarily mean one will be doomed to die or be crippled. More of the radioactive contamination from an air burst will be within one-half mile in each direction around the area over which the bomb is exploded. If an air explosion occurs it is usually safe to enter the region in about a minute, while a ground or underwater blast will leave a region covered, making it unsafe for hours later or longer. In the event of a raid, instructions to leave one's home should come from Civilian Defense headquarters.

If a raid occurs and you are caught out in the open, the primary thing to remember is to reach cover if possible and protect any exposed portion of the body, as flash burns are one of the leading causes for injury in an atomic raid. The eyes should especially be protected, as flash and heat will damage them badly.

Persons in buildings or at home at the time of an alert, should close all windows and seek cover. All gas and oil lines should be shut off to lessen the danger of a fire. In addition, all ventilating and air conditioners should be shut off.

Water in the pipes of your home at the attack would be usable for drinking, though all water should be boiled before drinking; and in a bombed area eat nothing but food in tight containers and cans. Radioactivity will not interfere with the operation of motor vehicles.

Air raid warnings to be used: “The Red Alert.” Three minute duration of continuous fluctuating

N. C. Politicians Looking To Campaigns For Next Year

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, Feb. 15—Repercussions and echoes of the east-Jefferson dinner staged by the Democrats, the Lincoln dinners staged by Republicans, and certain developments in the general assembly serve to focus political interest in 1952.

The Republican Lincoln dinners can be disposed of with fewer words than can the Democratic affairs. Significant trend in the nation and in the state is toward wider diffusion of Republican activities. Recurring dinners in states and counties which have for many years been regarded as Republican strongholds have influenced leaders in that party to look to new fields for conquest. So national Republican leaders are according more attention to the South and state leaders are moving the center of operations from the mountain counties toward the east. Astute observers doubt there will be much concrete gains in these few months or on time to materially affect the 1952 elections. Party strategists are looking farther ahead, and Democrats who do not realize the fact may wake up some fine morning to find they failed to heed the alarm clock.

There was less evidence of trends, less ovation for personalities, and generally less basis for confident prediction of the probable course of state political operations than had been looked for at the Jefferson-Jackson dinner here last week. The occasion was similar to several others in recent state political history in that there were a lot more questions asked than answered. Seemingly fewer than usual local party leaders were willing to commit themselves a year in advance of the primary campaign on support of candidates for high elective office. So many of these same local leaders and their immediate predecessors got burnt in premature commitments for governor four years ago are profiting by remembering the old maxim "burnt child fears the fire."

This cautious attitude on part of the politicians encourages your reporter to offer a few speculative observations.

First of all is that the people of North Carolina are not ready to abandon the traditional east-west rotation of governors, with the lieutenant governor coming from the opposite end of the state from the home of the governor, and with the popular middle section apt to be penalized by reason of geography. For many months there had been cumulative evidence that people seemed more concerned about economic than about physical geography when it came to selecting top rank officials. Economic and political philosophy is regarded as very important, but attendants at the party dinner generally gave the impression they are still intent upon geographic rotation—maybe to greater degree than in the past few elections.

Take the case of prospective candidates for lieutenant governor. It would be stretching matters to say that any person gained substantial boost, but it is a fact that there seemed much more sentiment for Roy Row of Pender or John Larkins of Jones, positively east, than for Rex Harris of Person, Carlton Pittman or Ralph Mong of Lee, or Roland McClamroch of Orange—all near the center line. Apparently there was nothing personal in this manifested attitude; it was just a feeling that the lieutenant governor ought to be unmistakably identified as an easterner.

Much the same sort of thing occurred with respect to potential candidates for governor. The Burke county contingent which set up "Ervin for Governor" headquarters, promoting Associate Justice Sam J. Ervin, Jr., of the supreme court for the top office, didn't accomplish a great deal other than to more firmly consolidate feeling of the western folks that they are entitled to the next governor. (Some of the high mountain Democrats went so far as to question whether Morganton is actually in the west, for purposes of geographic rotation.) William Umstead of Durham seemed to be the favored candidate of more individual dinner attendants, but he is faced with that geographic handicap. Other potential candidates from the east, including Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. (Stag) Ballentine of Wake and Secretary of State Thad Eure of Hertford had considerable support among the dinner attendants, but almost every time they were mentioned there was reference to the state map. Capus Wynn of High Point, who was not present for the occasion, had a good many boosters on the job, several of whom argued that he lost the senatorial appointment at hands of Governor Spott two years ago because of geography and therefore is entitled to consideration now.

Effect of this combination of circumstances and cumulation of geographic sensitiveness is to put State Treasurer Brandon Hodges of Buncombe back into the gubernatorial race. The term "back into the race" is used advisedly, because it has seemed for some time that he was not particularly interested, but it is now apparent that the west will demand the next governor and that he must come from the WEST—not from along the mythical border line or the piedmont—if he expects to get the votes of some thirty-odd western counties.

Nearly all of the speculative comment here is based on conditions prevailing at this time—a year ahead of the beginning of a primary campaign—and conclusions are subject to revision with changing conditions. As of now the far east and the far west show little inclination to abandon the custom of rotation, which as usual will put a heavy burden upon men or women from the populous middle part of the state who aspire to fill the highest elective positions.

To Air Madison Dispute In May

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 15—(AP)—The Madison county election row will be aired before the State Supreme court the first week of May. This was decided yesterday after the court ruled on motions and two petitions in the elections dispute.

The court was asked to review two separate appeals. One is by the State Board of Elections and the other by Republican Hubert Davis, who was adjudged the loser in the Madison sheriff's race in the general election Nov. 7.

In both appeals, Democrat E. Y. Ponder, who opposed Davis and is now serving as sheriff, is listed as the plaintiff. At a hearing, Superior Court Judge J. C. Rudisill reinstated the State Board of Elections from holding a hearing in Madison into alleged election irregularities, and ordered Davis to cease serving as sheriff.

The appeal filed for the elections board was prepared by the Attorney General's office. It asserted that Judge Rudisill's order prevented the elections board from carrying out its lawful duties.

Egg And Milk Production Up

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 15—(AP)—Tar Heel egg and milk production showed big increases last month. The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said yesterday that milk production totaled 129,000,000 pounds—an all-time record for January. The output was an increase of 3,000,000 pounds over December.

Egg production for January totaled 61.4 million, an increase of 25 per cent over December.

On Top Of The World-- For A Couple Of Hours

Hayward, Calif., Feb. 15—(AP)—H. D. Rife, Navy veteran of World War II, was on top of the world yesterday—for a few hours. He was notified a woman he had befriended 11 years ago had willed him $437,500.

But the bubble burst quickly. No one could locate the attorneys who notified him... or the woman, or her will.

Rife, 29, and a paint sprayer in Dodge automobile plant, related: A New York law firm wrote him that Mrs. Emma Rivers died last July at Ogdensburg, N. Y., and left him a fourth of her estate. He didn't recognize the name. But he remembered a "little old lady" he met in Long Beach, Calif., while on liberty from the U.S.S. Lexington in 1940. Sitting on benches overlooking the sea, he often talked with her of ships and adventure. The law firm said Mrs. Rivers never forgot those talks and had traced him through his service serial number. So the world looked very bright to Rife. He planned to buy a home, and a $50,000 trust fund for his four-year-old son, Carey. But— In New York, the law firm couldn't be located. The bar association did not list it. At Ogdensburg, records did not list Mrs. Rivers, or her death, or her will, or the probate judge named in the letter to Rife.

Boy Scouts Labeled 'Fascists' In Hungary

Budapest—(AP)—A reader complained in a letter published in a newspaper here that "enemies of the people's democracy" are wearing badges of "ill-famed foreign fascist organizations" to demonstrate against "our People's Republic." The letter singled out youths who have been wearing "reactionary" boy scout badges in Hungary.

Bank President To Speak At Co-Op Meeting Friday

Julian H. Scarborough, President of The Federal Land Bank of Columbia will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Washington National Farm Loan Association, a credit coop affiliated with The Federal Land Bank, at its annual meeting in Washington, Friday, February 16. The invitation to speak at the meeting and to attend the open house being held by the Washington Production Credit Association on the same date was extended by J. B. Patrick, president of these associations. The meeting is being held in the Agricultural Building beginning at 10:30 A.M. Mr. Scarborough has been president of the land bank since 1934 and has played a prominent part in the development of the land bank system during his 17-year career with the bank. "A large attendance is expected to attend the meeting and hear Mr. Scarborough", W. G. Stancill, secretary-treasurer of the association said. Another feature of the program will be the popular quiz contest conducted by T. E. Haigler, regional manager for the bank in North Carolina. Prizes will be awarded to winners in this contest and all those present are eligible to participate. Members have been requested to bring their wives and other guests and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the meeting.

Acheson Asserts Peace Strained If Tito Attacked

Washington, Feb. 14—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today any communist attack on Yugoslavia would dangerously strain the fabric of world peace.

He told a news conference that is as specific as he can be now on United States policy as to the possibility of a Soviet satellite assault this spring on Yugoslavia.

In general, Acheson said, American policy stands now as it was summed up in President Truman's message to Congress last July 19, after the outbreak of the Korean fighting.

At that time, Mr. Truman warned those who have the power to unleash or withhold acts of aggression that any new aggressive moves would strain the fabric of world peace dangerously.

Finds No Jazz Addicts In Israel

Tel Aviv—(AP)—"What surprises me most in this country is that nobody seems to care for jazz," Larry Adler, famed harmonica player, said here.

At the end of each concert here, which ranges from Bach to Stravinsky, Adler usually asks his audience what else they would like to hear. Jazz music, he says, is generally a favorite. But not in Israel.

People here, he said, ask for Mozart, Brahms, Schubert, Tschalkowsky and for "Bab el Wad", a soldier's song from the Arab-Jewish War.

Lincoln Letter Found In Iowa

Fairfield, Ia., Feb. 13—(AP)—A letter written by Abraham Lincoln, still in remarkably good condition, was announced yesterday by Parsons College here.

The college said the letter, dated March 9, 1865, ordered the promotion of Col. Lewis B. Parsons Jr., son of the founder of Parsons College, to the rank of Brigadier General.

The letter, addressed to the then Secretary of War Henry Stanton, was discovered in a padlocked tin box containing personal papers of General Parsons. The box was opened a few days ago.

Picket Schools In Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Feb. 13—(AP)—Picketing of Minneapolis public schools was started today by striking teachers who spurned a plea by Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl to open the city's 94 school buildings bound by strike since Jan. 23.

The Governor called for reopening the schools early today after janitors and other employees had accepted a wage proposal. The janitors walked out Jan. 23 and the teachers later announced joining the strike.

A FIEND IN NEED

By MILTON K. OZAKI

Chapter 7
We tramped back upstairs and Flecker entered his apartment. Jenkins tapped his head significantly and muttered: "Facts." Phelan granted and crossed the hall to the door of apartment 2-B. He pressed the buzzer, waited a moment, then pressed it again. The door finally opened.

"Mrs. McGregor?" Phelan asked.

"Yes?" The girl's eyes were questioning. "I'm Mrs. McGregor."

"I'm Lieutenant Phelan of the detective bureau. May we come in for a moment?"

"Why, of course." She stood aside and waited to close the door after us. We walked on into the living room and sat down. As I approached the davenport, what I took to be an orange pillow jumped straight into the air and disappeared over the side. I jerked nervously and Mrs. McGregor laughed at the expression on my face. "That was Fraidy," she explained. "Fraidy cat, you know, because he's so afraid of strange people. He's a prize Angora."

"Oh," I said.

"Mrs. McGregor," Phelan began hurriedly, "a man was murdered in this building. I'm investigating the activity of the tenants, and it'd save a great deal of time if you'd detail your movements between, say five o'clock and now."

"I'm sorry," she said, as though with genuine regret. "I'm afraid I can't account for my afternoon."

"Why not, Mrs. McGregor?" Phelan demanded.

"A John Faraday?"

"No," she shook her head.

"Oh," Phelan stared glumly at Maud McGregor as though questioning her had been a waste of time. "Well, I guess that's all, Mrs. McGregor," he said. "We'll just glance through your apartment and then we'll stop pestering you."

serious. "Have you ever looked into a man's eyes and felt that you loved him?"

She nodded.

"Have you ever felt yourself carried away by passion, as though you were being swept beyond physical sensation into a realm of ethereal beings?"

"Oh, yes!" she gasped, her breathing becoming deep and fast.

"Then you've been hypnotized." I told her shortly, "because that's all there is to it. You've probably been exposed to it a thousand times."

She came to with a jerk and drew away from me. "You aren't serious. You're making fun of me!" she accused.

"Not at all," I assured her. "It's exactly like I told you."

Phelan and Jenkins came back into the room at that moment and saved me from making any further comments, so I patted her hand as I got up and said: "Maybe we can talk about it some other time."

She was disappointed, but she nodded.

TOM & JERRY

Hi, Kitty - How do you like my new coat? It's made of genuine leopard skin!

Oh, it is?

Genuine leopard skin - my eye! It's not even a good imitation!

I hate to disappoint you, Kitty, but it is a real leopard skin.

See!

RUSTY RILEY

Jeeps Rusty, it's over two hours, an Hamlet ain't back yet!

Looks like he just took off with our money, instead of paying Doc Orphy!

Hamlet, me boy... keep your fist on this money... no pool rooms... no slot machines! Rusty and skinny are counting on you!

Cops... well, well! It isn't light-fingers Hamlet, with a fistful of pickings... so nice to run into you!

Mister, I don't know you from a hole in the ground! Leggo!

THE PHANTOM

Gee, what a party-looking dish!

Hop in, money, anywhere you're goin' is the way I'm goin'.

Gorry to break up this romance! Mind if I join you?

You promised not to hurt him!

Say, what is this? A stickup?

THIMBLE THEATER - Starring Popeye

Stan! Aside! Look! I know who my momma walked along here just ahead of me!

You mean! She bakes the best yapple pies on earth!

Let's you and him fight!

Stan! Aside! I no! I won't!

Why don't you go back to your ship?

I am becoming ashamed of us!

She wants me momma!

Do we like her yapple pies?

BLONDIE - By Chic Young

I bought this new dress just for you, dear.

For me?

The minute I saw it, I knew you'd love it - I always think of you when I buy my clothes.

How much was it?

$49.50

Couldn't you have been just as thoughtful of me - for about $19.50?

OZARK IKE

That's right, pal... this thousand-dollar bill is yours if you make sure that the Ylames win by more than 12 points tonight!

Uh... keep it, Aistun...

...us 'not snots' don't know no way 't play 'cept 't win!

Yeah? Well, to show you I'm a sport, I'll split this grand with you any way...

...just step through here with me so I can get this bill changed!

Uh... don't see no lights.

You will, long boy!

Burma Looks For Internal Peace

Rangoon—(AP)—Burmese Prime Minister Thakin Nu has urged Karens and Burmese to come to terms in the interests of national security. The Karens, Burma's largest minority group have been fighting the Burmese government since January 1948. Hostilities began over the issue of a separate state for the Karens.

Survival Rifle Designed To Save Stranded U. S. Airmen

By ODELL HANSON

Omaha—A light weight "survival rifle" is the latest aid for aviators who find themselves forced down away from civilization.

The weapon, so small when disassembled that it'll fit into the pocket of a flying suit, is being mass-produced for use in survival kits issued to bomber crews of the Strategic Air Command.

Bombers of SAC, the advance striking arm of the U. S. Air Force, range day and night over much of the world on long distance training flights. Survival kits are issued to help keep the fliers alive should they crash land or parachute in wild areas and have to fend for themselves while awaiting rescue.

A 22 With Bolt Action The survival rifle, .22 caliber with a bolt action, can kill small and medium game. This could be the only food supply available.

Ordnance experts and sportsmen-hunters of the Strategic Air Command pooled their skills to develop the rifle under the watchful eye of the SAC commander, Lt. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, an experienced hunter himself.

The rifle weighs only 3 and one-half pounds and makes up into a flat package 14 inches long and two inches thick when disassembled. The over-all length with stock extended is 33 inches. The rifle holds five cartridges, four in the clip and one in the chamber.

It's Not for Bears The rifle is not ideal for hunting because of its small caliber but, properly used, can kill small deer, gazelle and antelope, besides small game and fish which are most often encountered. It is fairly accurate up to 150 yards.

A pamphlet packed with the rifle gives tips on aiming and advises against shooting bear and other large animals which become enraged when wounded.

Tuesday's Cases In County Court

Three cases of abandonment and non-support, and two whiskey cases, made up the docket of County Records Court, held Tuesday morning in the Court house with Judge Dink James presiding.

Possession of non-tax paid whiskey for purpose of sale: Jack Strong, Negro, pleaded guilty and was given a 90-day suspended sentence on payment of $50 and court costs deducted. Strong was arrested by Pitt County ABC officers in a raid on his home in Grifton over the past weekend in which bootleg whiskey was discovered on his premises.

Possession of tax-paid whiskey for purpose of sale: Robert and Pete Jones, Ayden. The defendants, operators of an Ayden Service Station, the Sky Light Inn located on the city limits of Ayden, were charged with selling tax-paid whiskey and beer, the latter after the legal selling hour.

It was stated by solicitor Charles Wheebie that the resulting warrants were taken out by customers in the building who stated that they were charged $3.50 for whiskey which they had previously purchased for $3.00. The warrants were obtained by several men whom the operators of the Inn had charged with disorderly conduct previously, with the case being tried in Ayden City Court.

The two men pleaded not guilty and the judge ruled in their favor.

Abandonment and non-support: Jonathan House, Negro, ordered to pay cost of capias and catch up with back payments which he had been ordered to pay to the Pitt County Welfare Office for support of family.

Joe Davis, Jr., Negro, pleaded not guilty, and was found not guilty.

Sleeps Like a Log!

BY CORRECTING LACK OF VITAMINS B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>6</sub>, IRON AND NIACIN

Insomnia from upset stomach, aches and pains, due to a deficiency of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>6</sub>, Iron and Niacin, is no fun. It drags you down, wears you out, leaves you peevish and out of energy. But Henry Duke, Route 1, Diamond, Missouri, as so many thousands suffering from such deficiencies, has found the answer in today's great HADACOL.

He writes: "Will recommend your HADACOL. I have used it for some time. Guess I have taken 12 bottles or more and it's great. I couldn't eat or sleep. So, now, I eat plenty and sleep like a log. I really think it's wonderful. I buy a bottle every week. But, I won't be without it. It has helped me all over, and I do praise it. I work at the marble and rock quarry and since I have been taking HADACOL I feel more like working. My age is 56. I would like for everyone to know what HADACOL is and how it helps people who take it."

Trial size only $1.25; large family or hospital size, $3.50.

REPORT SPURNED—Arkansas' Democratic Senator William Fulbright talks to newsmen in Washington about his recommendations which President Truman disregarded in naming Reconstruction Finance Corporation directors. As head of a senate banking sub-committee which reported three of five RFC directors yielded to outside influence in granting loans, Fulbright opposed the re-nomination of C. Edward Rowe, William E. Willett and Walter Lee Dunham. President Truman re-nominated all five directors for new terms. (APP Wirephoto).

Islam May Send Vatican Envoy

Cairo—(AP)—Cairo newspapers report that Al Azhar University, the 1,000 year-old center of Islamic teaching, may send an official "religious-cultural" delegate to the Vatican. University leaders have already approved such a plan, according to newspaper reports, and have asked for the approval of the Egyptian Foreign Ministry and Cabinet.
