Report Greenville Food Prices High

N. C. Labor Dept. Survey Shows City's Food Costs Second Highest Among Seven Test Cities; 'Leads' Others in 14 Items On Grocery List

If the Greenville housewife is feeling a pinch in her pocket book and consequently gets less in her marketing bag when she shops the North Carolina Department of Labor will verify her grounds for complaint.

A report just released by the department shows Greenville's cost of eating is second highest among seven test cities in the state concerning food prices.

The report is based on average food prices of December 15 and although food prices have risen during the intervening two months, the chances are that prices in the six other test cities have risen proportionally.

The six other cities used as price guinea pigs were Salisbury, Charlotte, Greensboro, Raleigh, Asheville and Wilmington. The department's report is based on questionnaire sent to the food distributors in those cities late last year.

In compiling the report, the department indexed 53 major food commodities. When the average prices were added, city by city, the food bag costs:

Table with 2 columns: City, Price. Rows include Salisbury ($20.334), Greenville (20.317), Charlotte (20.285), Greensboro (20.183), Raleigh (20.060), Asheville (19.985), Wilmington (19.755).

The chart shows Wilmington is the cheapest in which to buy food and Salisbury the highest priced. The average price of the seven cities is a bag of food is $20.131.

Troop Rotation Plan In Korea Is Still In Future

'Several Months Off' Says Clark; Program Depends On Replacements

Western Front, Korea, Feb. 21—(AP)—Rotation of American troops in Korea is "several months off at least," Gen. Mark W. Clark said today.

Clark, commander of U. S. Field Forces, denied making a statement attributed to him that mass replacement of battle-weary forces in Korea by fresh troops from the U. S. would begin immediately.

Boarding a plane for Tokyo after a four-day tour of the Korean battlefield, Clark said: "A rotation plan is desirable and we would not want the burden of this war carried by the people already here. But before rotation on a large scale can begin we must build up our forces in the Far East Command."

"It's going to take some time—several months, at least. Implementation of any rotation program will depend upon the number of replacements we are able to train and bring to Korea."

The great output of trainees now are coming out to Mac (General MacArthur). Clark hinted the flow of replacements was increasing.

He and Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the 8th Army, discussed plans for a limited exchange of officers.

With U. S. Marines, Korea, Feb. 21—(AP)—The First Marine Division has begun rotating veterans of its bloody Korean battles back to duty in the United States.

Pitt Memorial Holding Its Own In Patient Care

Trustees Told Private Beds In Big Demand; Current Rates Discussed

A report to the Pitt Memorial Hospital trustees by administrator C. D. Ward states the medical infant just outside town is holding its own so far as day-to-day number of patients is concerned.

Ward told the trustees last night during their first regularly-scheduled meeting the number of overnight patients has averaged 70 each day since the plant opened. That average is 13 patients higher than the average for Pitt General for the year 1949, the last year in which a report is available.

On two successive nights, Ward stated, the hospital has reached a peak at 77 patients. During most of the days the number of persons being treated number 80, including incoming and outgoing patients.

The report for 1949 on Pitt General's average came from the Duke Endowment which each year receives reports from hospitals in the state. The patient report accompanies a hospital audit. The one for last year has not been released yet for Pitt General, Ward said.

The trustees were told that the 26 private beds are in great demand at the present time. "People are begging for private beds," the administrator said. "They don't want a private bath—just a bed."

He stated the hospital actually needs 40 to 45 private beds and beds that belong on the present demands by patients.

Concerning the current hospital rates, Ward stated they will be in effect until a deficit in operating costs is shown.

"People who are in the know about hospital rates tell us we can't possibly operate on the present system," he said. "But we're going to try."

OPS Posts Suggested For 2 Greenville Men

John Clark And J.W.H. Roberts Recommended For High Positions In N. C. Price Stabilization Organization

Two Greenville men have been recommended by the head of the Democratic party in North Carolina for high positions in the Office of Price Stabilization organization for the state.

State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Everett Jordan told The Reflector in a telephone interview this morning that he has recommended John G. Clark of Greenville for the position of director of Price Stabilization for the eastern region of the state, and that he also has recommended Judge J. W. H. Roberts of Greenville for "any one of a half dozen" positions in the legal division of the state Price Stabilization organization.

Jordan said appointments to the Price Stabilization positions for North Carolina "probably will be announced tomorrow" from Washington.

Talking from a telephone in Saxapahaw, Jordan told The Reflector, "I have recommended both these gentlemen. I hope they both get into this Price Stabilization board, because they are both fine, capable gentlemen."

Clark, who has been chairman of the Pitt County Democratic organization for a number of years, could not be contacted this morning for a comment on Jordan's statement.

Roberts, when asked directly if he would accept the appointment were it confirmed from Washington, stated, "If I have been recommended for a position in the legal division of the state's Price Stabilization organization, I am greatly honored. I have no statement to make until something official is announced from Washington."

Kilpatrick Offers Fire Security Bill

Proposed Law Would Provide Rural Peoples Means Of Instituting Own Fire Protection On District Basis

Representative Frank M. Kilpatrick of Pitt County yesterday introduced the General Assembly a bill which would allow rural people to institute their own program of fire protection.

Signing the Kilpatrick bill before it was introduced in the house were Representatives Alonzo Edwards of Greene County and Fred Royster of Vance County. The bill was sent to the committee on conservation and development.

In a telephone interview with The Reflector this morning, Kilpatrick said the bill was introduced as a result of the study of rural fire protection needs which has been made in recent months by a nine-man committee of which he was a member. The committee was appointed several months ago by Gov. Scott.

If the bill becomes law during the current session of the legislature, residents of a rural district could petition their county commissioners to call a tax election for a fire protection program. The election would be called if the majority of the qualified voters of the district joined in the petition. The actual vote on the matter would come in the form of the question of authorizing the county commissioners to levy on the property of the district a special tax of up to 10 cents per $100 valuation for the purpose of fire protection.

If a district passed the tax measure in an election, the county would provide fire protection there by: (1) contracting with a city or town to furnish the district with fire protection; (2) furnishing fire protection itself if the county maintains an organized fire department, or (3) establishing a fire department within the district.

Should a special fire department be set up in the district, the county commissioners would name three voters of the district to a fire protection district commission. That commission would operate the department.

Under the provisions of the bill no city or town could incur liability because its fire equipment might be outside the city or a rural mission.

Two Attempts To Cross Han River Blocked; Heavy Rains Add To GIs Misery; Red Stragglers In Swift Retreat Are Mopped Up; Naval Forces Active

Tokyo, Feb. 21—(AP)—Allied forces flattened out the Reds' Wonju bulge in central Korea today but in the west the Communists blocked two new allied attempts to cross the Han River.

A driving, relentless rain turned the whole Korean battlefield into a mud puddle.

Field dispatches said the rain soaked GIs, bogged down tanks, filled foxholes and deepened the miseries of the front.

A few troops took advantage of the rain for their first showers in a month; those who could took turns ducking into Korean shelters.

But for most, the rain meant a constant soaking.

Strong Resistance Red mortar fire—"the heaviest and most accurate I've ever seen," said one commander—drove back an armored patrol to the south bank of the Han seven miles east of Seoul.

Five miles downstream from Seoul, heavy resistance checked a South Korean patrol trying to cross the Han.

American and British troops mopped up Red stragglers south of the river.

Big Four Meet Plans Progress

U. S. Officials Work On Details Of Meeting Though Soviet Veto Anticipated; West 'Sugarcoats' Tough Note

Washington, Feb. 21—(AP)—The United States is making detailed plans for a Big Four deputies meeting in Paris next month even though officials believe Russia may veto the whole project.

The Office of Price Stabilization for North Carolina is divided into two regions—one in the eastern area of the state and the other in the western area of the state. The headquarters office for the eastern region will be in Raleigh, and the office for the western region will be in Charlotte.

According to a news story in the News and Observer today, John N. Hackney of Wilson has been designated by a source in the nation's capital as "manager" of the Raleigh office. Jordan, this morning in answer to a question about Hackney's appointment, said Hackney's pressing duties in the banking business in Wilson probably will make his appointment "temporary."

Jordan said the positions for which he has recommended both Clark and Roberts are full time jobs with headquarters in the Raleigh office.

Mayor To Attend League Meeting

Mayor W. S. Stafford will attend a meeting of the North Carolina League of Municipalities tomorrow in Raleigh for the discussion of state financial aid to cities and towns for paving of urban streets.

All-Day Session Of 'Third Man'

Tokyo, Feb. 21—(AP)—"The Third Man" theme song was with the Douglas MacArthur all day today. Young Arthur MacArthur was responsible.

Arthur, son of the United Nations commander, celebrated his 13th birthday. Among gifts he received was a sither from his parents.

He immediately picked out "The Third Man."

"Arthur never before had seen a sither," a friend said, "but you know he can play the piano. He mastered the sither and 'The Third Man' and I wouldn't be surprised if he were still playing that tune tonight."

Gen. Eisenhower Arrives In Paris

Paris, Feb. 21—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower arrived in Paris today to assume command of his Atlantic Pacific Army.

He and his party flew here from Cherbourg where they landed earlier from the liner Queen Elizabeth.

The general walked down the Orly Airfield platform, his arm linked with his wife. They were met by members of his staff and left immediately by car for Eisenhower's hotel residence at Versailles.

Behind the address "Uncle Sam At Home and Abroad" which Robert Kazmayer will deliver here before the Executives Club Saturday night lie 50,000 miles of travel, plus interviews with leaders, statesmen, generals and countless common people all over the world.

Firmer Stand By Western Allies Intended To Force Russia To Put Her Plans Into The Open; Notes Calling Attention To Armed Might Have That Purpose

The firm stand of the western allies, in demanding a clarification regarding all the Red bloc European armaments, is an encouraging development from the popular viewpoint in the Democracies.

It is taken as a positive move which confirms the determination of the western powers not to allow themselves to be pushed about. It measures up to the general belief that two-fisted firmness towards Bolshevism is the only attitude which pays.

Some Gov't Officials Think Russia Won't Be Ready Until Then; Nice, If True; Early Shocks Fading Away; Prolonged Determination Necessary For Americans

Washington, Feb. 21—(AP)—Some top government officials are saying privately they don't think the Russians will be ready to start a war for another two years or so. Nice, if true. It will give this country another year to get ready for the worst, if it comes. Meanwhile this country, after suffering bewilderment and a couple of shocks, seems to be entering a period of grim determination.

Gov't Forbids Inflation-Priced Sales Of Autos

Washington, Feb. 21—(AP)—The government today banned the sale of new cars at inflated prices in the used car market and set dollar-and-cents ceiling prices on all used cars.

Mrs. White And Mrs. Hawes Entertain At Card Party To Honor Ione May Bradsher

Mrs. S. T. White and Mrs. H. W. Hawes were joint hostesses on Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 at the home of the former on Seventh Street as a card party to compliment Miss Ione May Bradsher, whose wedding will be celebrated on March 17.

Five tables for bridge and one table for canasta were arranged for play as the guests arrived and were welcomed by the hostesses and the honoree.

A color theme of pink and white was emphasized in the use of glass, silver and other spring shrubs, which were placed in charming arrangements throughout the rooms on the spacious lower floor.

Players found their places at the card tables marked with bride's valises. Miss Bradsher's place was distinguished by a corsage of Betsey Time roses, a gift from the hostesses.

At the conclusion of the games, a frozen fruit salad course was served, followed by demi-sasse and after-dinner mints and nuts.

The tables were covered with linon bridge cloths and centered with individual pink candles tied with white interspersed with dainty pink flowers for the refreshment hour. Assisting the hostesses in serving were Miss Helen White Hawes and Miss Mary French Hawes.

As a delightful surprise to Miss Bradsher, young Miss Anna Louise White appeared after the refreshments were served, bearing an umbrella completely covered with lovely handkerchiefs as shower gifts for her.

Informal Party Honors Senior Voice Student

Mr. and Mrs. Sam O. Worthington entertained at an informal reception in honor of Robert Mays, who was presented in his senior voice recital in Austin auditorium on Monday night immediately following the concert.

Guests were members of the music department, music students, intimate friends and out-of-town relatives of Mr. Mays.

The home was decorated throughout with cut shrubs and graceful arrangements of early spring flowers. The table in the dining room was centered with a bowl of pastel blossoms. Mrs. J. H. Rose served punch, which was accompanied by cookies, nuts and mints.

Among those from out-of-town who were present were Mrs. R. A. Mays of Hopewell, Va., mother of Mr. Mays, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Maddrey, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Maddrey, Jr., Miss Pearl Lane Maddrey, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Long, Miss Jean Long, Mrs. J. H. Vinson and Mrs. K. E. Stokes, all of Sebern, and Mrs. Trevathan of Fountain.

Radio Talk By Miss Chandler

Last Saturday Miss Mamej Chandler spoke over WGTC in the interest of the Pitt County Allied Church League.

Her speech was taken from a paper entitled "The Great Delusion," written by a modern student of Salem, Oregon. The paper stated that the use of alcohol deluded people into thinking that they were enjoying themselves while under its influence and pointed out the dangers which evolved from its use.

The Pitt County Allied Church League sponsors this series of weekly radio talks by members of the organization.

Mrs. Winstead And Mrs. Fleming Hostesses At Coffee Hour To Compliment Miss Bradsher

Mrs. J. L. Fleming and Mrs. J. L. Winstead were joint hostesses on Tuesday morning when they entertained at an 11 o'clock coffee hour as a compliment to Miss Ione Bradsher.

Receiving at the front entrance was Mrs. Fleming, who graciously welcomed the guests into the house, where they were greeted by Mrs. Winstead and Miss Bradsher and her mother, Mrs. Owen Marshburn. Miss Bradsher was wearing a corsage of yellow roses, a gift from the hostesses, and Mrs. Marshburn was also presented a shoulderette of a yellow giamella.

Lovely arrangements of magnolia leaves and white gladioli were used in the hall and drawing room, where the guests assembled upon their arrival. They were invited into the dining room for coffee. Here a color note of yellow was effectively emphasized in table and buffet appointments.

The dining room table, covered with a cream satin damask cloth, was centered with an original colonial bride's bouquet made with all yellow flowers—gladioli, roses, acacia and carnations—with yellow satin streamers knotted and entwined with tiny blossoms. Magnolia leaves and yellow gladioli were placed in a lovely container on a serving table, while the buffet held an unusual arrangement of large green leaves encircling yellow blossoms, in which a pair of love birds nested.

Good Sense To Want To Feel Your Very Best

It's just plain common sense to want to feel your best at all times. Nobody wants to feel weak and run-down, suffer stomach distress or be plagued with annoying aches and pains. Thousands of folks have found that HADACOL has relieved the real cause of their troubles when they are due to lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Nicotin and Iron, elements contained in HADACOL.

Mr. Schmidt, Thomas G. Schmidt, Chairman of the Waller County Parole Board, Waller, Texas, is just one of the many folks who simply can't praise HADACOL enough for helping them overcome these deficiencies and feel good again.

Here is what Mr. Schmidt says: "I want to tell you of the wonderful help I have received from taking only three small bottles of HADACOL. To make the story short... I think your HADACOL is the most wonderful and helpful relief from run-down nervous disorders. My work is now a pleasure and I feel fine and sleep better than I have in a long time. I can't praise HADACOL enough; I can surely recommend it to everyone young or old."

HADACOL can help you, too, if you suffer such deficiencies. Ask your druggist for HADACOL today. Only HADACOL gives you "Wonderful HADACOL feeling."

Luncheon On Saturday For Miss Bradsher Suggestive Of Wedding Day Date

Honoring Miss Ione Bradsher, who will be married on March 17, St. Patrick's Day, Mrs. Walter Harrington entertained at a coffee hour on last Saturday morning between the hours of 11:00-12:00.

Using as a decorative motif the shamrock and Irish green that is suggestive of St. Patrick, Mrs. Harrington presented the honoree with a corsage of green carnations tied with tiny shamrocks.

The hostess and Miss Bradsher welcomed guests upon their arrival and Mrs. J. H. Thomas invited them into the dining room.

The refreshment table was covered with a green cloth and held a centerpiece of green carnations arranged in a crystal bowl and artfully showered with green satin streamers.

Mrs. Marshburn, mother of the honoree, poured coffee, and assisting her in serving were Mrs. John Miller and Miss Mary Harrington, who passed sandwiches, cheese pastries, individual cakes frosted in white and decorated with shamrocks and green party mints.

Miss Bradsher was given a green crystal salad set as a gift from the hostess. Mrs. Harrington also remembered Mrs. Larry James Jr., a recent bride, with a gift of china in her selected pattern and Mrs. Zack Taft, another recent bride, with a gift of crystal.

Girl Scout News

The leaders of the Greenville Girl Scouts held their monthly meeting Monday night at the home of Mrs. J. O. Howard. The meeting was presided over by the recently elected president, Mrs. B. B. Sugg, Jr. After dispensing with routine business, the main item for consideration by the members was to make plans for the Scout's celebration of the 39th birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States.

The Scout membership in Greenville has increased until the Rotary Club will not accommodate the Scouts in one meeting, so the use of the Armory has been secured for the birthday party on March 9 at 8:30. It will be very comfortable even should it be very cold on that date.

The program for the birthday party will be furnished by the Scouts. Each troop will be responsible for presenting a short snappy skit. Honors will go to the troop which has the most original way to present its pennies for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund.

Mrs. S. M. Crisp, Juliette Low chairman, will have charge of the refreshments and decorations. She always puts a great deal of time and thought on the table arrangements to have them in keeping with the spirit of the international theme. The refreshments are such that will delight any Brownie and Scout.

We are including a list of the troops with their leaders which will be interesting and informative to the parents of Scout and Brownie age children and the public in general.

Greenville is very fortunate to have so many leaders who are willing to give their time and energy to meet a Scout troop one day each week. After all the leader is the one person that determines the success or failure of the Scout program. She must possess an abundance of patience, a sympathetic understanding of girls and enjoy working with them. She is the one who guides them in their miniature democracy, to troop meetings, and helps them to develop into useful citizens with desirable attitudes and appreciations.

Miss Mary Rose Crisp, a former Girl Scout who earned her "curved bar," the highest honor in Girl Scouting, is the leader of troop 1 which meets weekly at the Rotary Club.

Mrs. Sherman Parks and Mrs. J. B. Bass are the leaders for troop 2. They meet every Friday afternoon at West Greenville school. Their troop has grown until they are really like "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe."

Miss Doris Brinson, a counselor at Camp Hardee last year and a student at East Carolina Teachers College, has been leader for troop 3 all year. She will graduate this week and Miss Pat Bundy will take over her troop.

Troop 4, the troop with the new flags of which they are justly proud, has Mrs. M. P. Hoot as their leader. She is assisted by Miss Marion Brown and Miss Janice Ormond. Janice is one of our Senior Scouts who has earned the privilege of wearing a "curved bar."

Troop 5, a much too big Brownie troop, has Mrs. G. M. Friend for their leader. Mrs. Friend was a Brownie leader last year and has had some splendid experience. Mrs. R. W. Spicer will assist Mrs. Friend the rest of the year. Incidentally, Troop 6 is a Brownie troop that meets at the Third Street school. Miss Muriel Shotwell is the leader for this group and was assisted by Miss Ione Bradsher, until Ione decided to take up Boy Scouting. Such decisions play havoc with the Girl Scout program, but Miss Dot Stauffer came to Muriel's rescue to assist the rest of the year. Incidentally, Dot is another one of Greenville's Scouts.

Mrs. J. O. Howard, who has had many years of Scouting experience, is the leader of the very active troop 4.

Mrs. Ben Harrison, another Scout who received all the honors conferred in Scouting, is leader of troop 9. She is assisted by Mrs. Robert Mays. In the language of the Scout family Mrs. Mays is Lina Worthington, another Greenville Scout.

Mrs. C. E. West, III, another former Scout who is teaching at West Greenville school, is leader of troop 10. She has the biggest enrollment that this troop has ever had.

Troop 12, the Senior group, has the same leader that they have had the past five years.

Troop 19 meets at the Third Street school with Mrs. B. B. Sugg, Jr. as their leader. She has been working with this troop for nearly three years now and has made splendid progress in Scout rank. A number of her girls have joined the Senior group since reaching the Senior age.

Red Oak News

Our goal is set for at least one hundred people present at Sunday school at Red Oak next Sunday. Come, bring every member of your family and invite at least two people who are not attending Sunday school to come.

Ten couples and three "little ones" were present at the second meeting of the "Martha Jolly Young Couples" class of Red Oak last Friday night at the attractive home of James and Margie Allen. Hymns and prayer were part of the devotionals after which matters of business were discussed. A committee was appointed to plan a program to be given at the club building in the near future the proceeds to be used for some worthwhile cause to be decided later.

Rounds, stunts and a very humorous reading by Mrs. Amos Evans was thoroughly enjoyed.

"Dagwood Sandwiches," nuts, cream cheese and olive crackers and drinks were served by the hosts.

Those present were Jean and Spooky Morgan, Charles and Voncell Allen, Willie and Grace Pate and little daughter, Dot and Jaybird Edwards, Leon and Leota Tyson, Fenner Leslie and Thelma Allen and son, Leroy and Wilma James, J. T. and Rena Manning, Odell and Amos Evans and James and Margie Allen and Jimmie.

We are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fenner Allen near Winterville.

Only seven members of Circle No 1 of Red Oak failed to answer the roll call at a most enjoyable meeting last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William May in Winterville.

Mrs. Thurman Page presided and Mrs. James Allen gave a treasurer's report. Mr. H. H. May, treasurer of the "pew" fund reported a total of $285 turned in from a recent dinner and supper. We are planning to serve another dinner soon.

Eighty-two visits to sick people were reported. We were sorry to learn that the following members of the church are ill: Mrs. George Entwistle, Mrs. George Haddock, Mr. Hugh Sutton, Mrs. Rosa Clark, Mrs. Lula Valnright, Mrs. Cornelia Garris, Mr. Clyde Bright, Mr. Joe Pollard and Mr. Bernice Crawford. A card or better still, a visit will do a lot of good for these people.

Mrs. Clarissa Edwards May rendered a solo, and during a social period that followed we sang "Jacob's Ladder," "Tell Me Why," and "God Answers Prayers."

Hot coffee, nuts and George Washington pies were served.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. May will be hosts to the March meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Evans were hosts to Rev. Harold Tyer, Mrs. James Allen and John Kirby Allen at dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tyson attended the Falkland H. D. meeting Monday night.

Master Joey Tyson celebrated his second birthday at a little party at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tyson last Sunday.

Games and accordion music was enjoyed by the little ones.

The Valentine idea was carried out in the cakes and ice cream.

Little Joe received many pretty gifts. Seven of his little friends were present.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
NEXT TO HIS HEART

When the great mystic, Pascal, died, his friends found scrawled up in his "doubt" a crumpled piece of paper on which were written these words: "God of Abraham, God of Isaac, God of Jacob—not of philosophers and scholars; God of Jesus Christ, my God and thy God. Thy God shall be my God."

In other words, his most precious spiritual possession was the conviction he carried in his heart—as he carried this crumpled piece of paper in his doubt—that God is a personal God, interested in all the affairs which make up his children's life. He found himself bound to his brethren by the tie of a common faith in God. He found himself linked to Christ by the realization that both he and the Saviour loved before the same Heavenly Father. Pascal believed that the universe in which he lived was dominated by personal forces.

Many people today hold that they are religious because they believe in what they call a power above their own. But such a belief is not a proper basis for religious faith. We have to believe that that power is a Person, before we can rejoice and trust. We have to be able to say with Pascal, "My God and thy God. Thy God shall be my God."

Common Sense Is Also Needed

The number of draft-eligible men in the Pitt county manpower pool is rapidly ebbing, and yet the army continues to reject a large percentage of draftees from each call on the grounds of insufficient mental qualifications.

And while the army is turning down literally hundreds of men at the examination centers throughout the state, it is yelling at the top of its lungs for additional youngsters to shoulder arms in defense of the nation.

Matters moving through army channels have a habit of traveling very slowly, but this matter of doing away with the mental examination as a prerequisite to army induction through the selective service should be attended to immediately by the army.

It was more than three weeks ago that the results of the survey by the Pitt county draft board and city and county school officials was turned over to the state selective service office. We assume the information was passed on to the army officials. Other reports from areas throughout the state, and likewise throughout the nation indicate the mental exam is keeping out of service literally thousands of men who are qualified otherwise for duty in the armed services.

The Pitt county report is receiving the attention of the press throughout the country. Yet there has been no indication that the army is seeking to remedy the acute situation.

Of the 275 Pitt countians who took the selective service examinations last week, there were 67 who passed the physical, but failed the mental exam and thus were declared unfit for military service. There were only 26 men who failed the physical examination. Does that sound like the army is putting the most important things first?

Naturally there are a lot of army jobs which require a certain amount of formal education. But on the other hand there are a lot of army jobs which can be well performed by men who have had little formal schooling. And as the Pitt survey of the mental rejectees pointed out, the exam the army gives to draftees is more of a test of one's reading ability than it is of one's intelligence.

The army needs a certain amount of intelligence among its fighting men. But we might point out that even more important is the exhibition of a goodly quantity of common sense among the army officials who set the standards by which men are taken into service.

The Action Counts; Not The Word

Brotherhood is a word which would bind the world and the individual community into a common peace for the good of all mankind. But "brotherhood" the word, and "brotherhood" the deeds of man are poles apart.

"Though I speak with the tongue of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal."

And many of those who voice the message of brotherhood in this great nation today have their message turned into the sound of a tinkling cymbal by their actions.

The real test of brotherhood for any person is the simple question, how am I living it? What is my reaction to brotherhood in my daily activities?

In these United States the climate is ever present for the practice of brotherhood between races, creeds and religions. Unfortunately the practice of brotherhood often falls short of what it could be.

Brotherhood means the observance of the Golden Rule; it means the same regard for the rights of the other fellow that you expect for your own rights. It means the respect for the individual's integrity, dignity and feelings according to his individual traits rather than according to the general prejudice toward the religious or racial group to which he belongs.

This week the national council of Christians and Jews are celebrating National Brotherhood week. The practice of brotherhood should be exerted by the individual each week in the year if we are to have a stronger, more secure nation.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—President Truman's progressive reversal of certain major foreign policies is interpreted in high Administration and Capitol Hill circles as his gentle and subtle way of hinting to Secretary Dean Acheson that he ought to resign with the grace and polish which characterize the Maryland squire.

Mr. Truman has intimated to favored confidants that he would not ask his foreign minister to step down and out, but that he would appreciate receipt of a voluntary resignation. Party politicians insist on it for fear of his too long retention's effect on next year's presidential election.

Beginning to believe that the Missourian will not run again, they think he ought to promote Chief Justice Vinson as a substitute by shifting him to State.

Mr. Truman's political advisers are adamant against selection of a Republican like John Foster Dulles, Governor Thomas E. Dewey or Warren R. Austin for this important spot. They want no "coalition government," regarding it as a confession of weakness.

CHIANG—Although the anti-Acheson shift of foreign policy has been so gradual that it is hardly discernible, and has been forced by uncontrollable events rather than deliberate decisions at Washington, hardly an original Achesonian idea now underlies or bulwarks our handling of world problems. It is, perhaps, the most unwritten story at Washington.

Our Far Eastern policy bears no resemblance to Mr. A's program, as outlined in public speeches and in the record talks to admiring newspaper correspondents and Congressmen.

Long ago, he wiped out both Korea and Formosa as areas which the United States should defend or include within our Far Pacific frontier. He aided with the Lattimore-Jessup school in contending that we should have no truck with Chiang Kai-shek.

Fifty thousand American casualties in Korea give the answer to his stand on that question. The Seventh Fleet's patrolling of Formosan waters, as well as General MacArthur's constant liaison with Chiang's headquarters, offer rebuttal to his contempt for Formosa and the Generalissimo. Soon our military aid to Chinese guerrillas will wipe out the last vestige of the Acheson theories.

GERMANY—As the views of General MacArthur and the Joint Chiefs of Staff now prevail in the Far Eastern theater, so the more realistic military viewpoint of General Eisenhower and his Pentagon associates have supplanted the Achesonian attitude toward the vital European and Mediterranean sectors.

The Secretary of State, for instance, tried to force immediate learning of Western Germany "down the throat" of Paris and London. Besides creating a serious rift among the allied powers, he gave the Adenauer regime a chance to bargain between Russia and ourselves. He aroused all the ancient fears of Teutonic aggression among the small nations of Europe. It was regarded as a major blunder.

General Eisenhower's plain speaking forced a revision of that policy. He reported that he wanted no "Hesians" or "unwilling soldiers." He declared that Western Europe could rear without the Germans. Instead of wooing them like Mr. Acheson, he frightened them by intimating that the French Rhine rather than the German Elbe might become our anti-Russian frontier. Now, there is more chance that the Western Germans will line up with us without further delay.

SPAIN—Secretary Acheson has fought against further powwows with Russia for settlement of world disputes, figuring they would be fruitless, and perhaps he is right. But Bevin-Plevin protests forced Mr. Truman to agree to a get-together, if only to counteract Moscow's charge that the United States wants war rather than peace.

Mr. A's greatest setback has been in Spain and Yugoslavia. For while Mr. Truman refused to deal with General Franco on the ambassador to Madrid for a "long, long time," and that he would not advance the funds appropriated by Congress for Spanish relief, an American ambassador and the funds are now on the way to Madrid.

Mr. Acheson opposed any deals with Tito, whom he linked with Chiang Kai-shek and Franco as despotic reactionaries. Perhaps they are. But the military experts insist we need them in today's crisis. Belatedly, Mr. Truman agrees.

"SENSITIVE"—Mr. Acheson's friends, including a few newspaper correspondents and columnists whom he entertains with private, philosophic observations on world affairs, report that he is an extremely "sensitive soul." They report that attacks on him from Capitol Hill, from the American countryside and from foreign chancelleries wound him deeply.

But his retention of office in view of these presidential slights and rebukes cast considerable doubt on these analyses by his dwindling crowd of admirers. In the general opinion of Washington, any Cabinet member so repudiated by his President would owe it to his personal pride to resign.

As an erstwhile student of Shakespeare, Mr. Acheson should understand the comment of some of his disappointed friends that he is "the Hamlet of American politics."

Selected Shorts

LAWNDALE, CALIF., TRIBUNE: "Washington experts tell us that the only way to get the necessary military production is to out production of civilian goods to the bare necessities. Before such a drastic step is taken, it might be well to review the situation and see what other things can be done. The first thing we can do is to end the appalling waste of manpower in the swollen bureaus of our government."

SOMERSET, PA., DAILY AMERICAN: "The President tells us that there is great need for the expansion of electric power. That has been the story for fifty years. The expansion of electric power plants by private industry has been slowed down by governmental hobbles. Removal of the hobbles would probably result in provision of abundant power."

"A government, like an individual, often over-extends and then discovers bankruptcy; there is no RFC to bail out the bankrupt government on the plea that it will make work. If the people object to more and higher taxes, they must oppose the welfare state. If they like the welfare state, they must agree to more and higher taxes every year until they work largely to pay taxes. It is as easy as that."—George Z. Sokolsky.

Who Else?

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

All of this time I've been working for a living, and I could have retired years ago by purchasing the services of one Frank A. Andersen of Brookline, Mass. The ace with the crystal ball, Frank forecasts major trends in the stock market as much as 26 months in advance with amazing accuracy. He also predicts the best time to go fishing, giving hour-to-hour forecasts months ahead for use all over the U.S. and Canada.

Recently a commercial trawler fleet tested Andersen's predictions on fishing in a series of runs off New England. They found him to be 93 per cent accurate.

With this sort of record, Andersen has plenty of customers buying his predictions. The stock market forecasts cost as much as $3,000 for a two-year period. The high-paying customers also get an extra package: "Mass Psychology Time Tables," which are hour-to-hour predictions, months in advance, of the times when most people will be psychologically positive or negative. According to evidence which Andersen can easily produce, the tables have been used for determining the best moment for sending out a direct-mail letter, signing a contract, and making other important decisions. Andersen says they would be just as useful for a salesman who would like to know when, tomorrow, would be the best hour for closing a sale.

Although he has been issuing financial forecasts since 1931, Andersen first became famous in July, 1945, when he predicted in a letter to 400 business firms, newspapers, and radio newscasters that "August 11, 12, 13 and 14 will be vital days. The stock market will decline." Exactly why, Andersen didn't claim to know; but he announced it could be that the drop would be caused by Russia's entry into the war or Japan's surrender. (Russia declared war on the 8th, and on the 14th Japan surrendered.)

Andersen calls his method "a science of effects, not of causes," by which he means that his charts project in the future what has actually happened in the past. To produce a year's Mass Psychology Time Tables, for example, requires 525,000 calculations. And the tables contain no ifs ands or buts. The tables include hunting and fishing forecasts, along with predictions about the stock market, plotted on a curve.

Andersen is now 56. He was wiped out by the last stock market crash, so he decided that something had to be done to help people foresee such disasters. Frank decided he was the man to make such predictions.

He must be good, for some clients pay him as much as $1,500 a year. Frankly, I enjoyed reading the story of his "profession" and hope you have, but I have no plans for sending him $1,500 for a bunch of charts. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NIBBET Daily Reflector Bureau

CAUTIOUS—Those people who are prone to complain that the general assembly enacts too many foolish laws without adequate consideration might be enlightened if they would spend a day with a news reporter attempting to cover the committee. And some others who complain about slow progress of the legislature might change their ideas to wonderment that any bill ever got by the close scrutiny of the committee charged with responsibility for recommending final action to the full body. Incidentally, one of the finest examples of faith and trust in one's fellowman is the way members of the general assembly accept recommendations of committees on bills which the average legislator cannot possibly take time to study in detail for himself. For that reason committees move cautiously. Here are just a few instances picked at random from a notebook filled with almost uncountable pencil markings:

WILLS—There was a little bill before house Judiciary II to correct errors in recording wills some years ago in one county. It was simple and it looked innocent. Just before it was voted a favorable report some member raised a question about what effect it might have on the rights of children at time of the testator's death who later reached the age they could start legal proceedings. Two or three lawyers were quick to call a halt until that matter could be straightened out.

PHOTOSTATS—Then there was a "big bill" requiring that photostats of official records to be destroyed must be made on film approved by the state department of archives and history. That looked good on its face, because it was pointed out that unless such films were standardized the job of filing and indexing would be all messed up. But some fellow wondered what effect that would have on counties which have bought photostatic equipment which might not meet specifications of the state agency. So that bill also went over for further study as to its ramifying effects—which perhaps the introducer inadvertently overlooked.

LIENS—Representatives of the motor vehicles department explained how good it would be if titles issued for motor vehicles were made to speak fuller truth by requiring that all liens and mortgages must be noted on the title. Everybody present admitted that was a good provision. But—what about delayed mail service getting in notice of lien or mortgage later, and would the state record take precedence over registration in the county courthouse? The answers didn't satisfy the committee-men, so the bill got an unfavorable report.

CEMETERIES—There was an innocent looking bill authorizing trustees of cemeteries in some instances to sell property for other than burial purposes. Lots of questions were batted around. Did the bill affect perpetual care contracts? How about church yards? Particularly, what's this business about previous sale of some cemetery property being validated? Answers to all these questions were satisfactory, so the bill was reported favorably.

PAROLEES—Then came along a "big bill"—one having to do with giving authority to parole supervisors to arrest parolees without warrant. It had been worked over twice in the senate and sponsors thought all the bugs had been taken out. They hadn't.

There still remained questions about too much or too little authority in the commissioner of paroles and his assistants. Also the distinction between a paroled prisoner, who is "just serving his prison sentence on the outside and is not really a free man," and citizens who have not been convicted. The discussion brought out some other things that needed working over. So the bill went to a sub-committee for further study.

INSURANCE—Then a hurried call by Judiciary I just in time to get the end of the debate over the bill purporting to strengthen the financial responsibility act for automobile drivers. The bill has passed the senate, but the house committee doesn't like it. It barely missed an unfavorable report, but final action was postponed.

INFORMALITY—There are rules governing committee sessions and usually they are observed closely. At the same time, there is an air of informality that does not prevail in formal sessions of the house or senate. On the financial responsibility bill, for instance, Dick Sanders of Durham admitted he hoped it would ground some drivers who ought to be grounded. "Cockpit trouble (driver trouble) is our main trouble in automobile accidents," he said. The Durham man also referred to the support highway safety proposals have had from the state press. Sam Worthington of Pitt came back with the statement that this is "just an insurance man's bill," and then he added a bit of advice from a seven term to a freshman member: "If my friend Sanders hopes to please the press, he had just as well go back to Durham right now."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

(Wilson Daily Times)

THE OTHER SIDE

Up steps Talmage Green, Wilson's city manager, with some other angles to the state-build-city-streets controversy. It possesses some cogent arguments. For example, 33 per cent of all the gasoline that's burned in automobiles is used up on city streets. Yet the tax that those motorists pay goes to build and maintain only state highways. Of that tax, the cities get back only four per cent. What's more, on the gas which the city uses in its cars and trucks it pays $7,000 in taxes. All of that except the four per cent which comes back goes to maintain state highways.

Now let's take another of Mr. Green's arguments. The state has taken over all of the county roads and, eventually, plans to pave them. If the city limits were pulled in, many who live in the city on unpaved streets would be in the country. They would get their paving for nothing. Under the present laws, however, the abutting property holder must pay on a foot-front basis. If the state can get the rural man out of the mud, can't it do the same for the city man? Isn't the argument as sound, he asks, as the one Governor Scott used to get rural roads? For, in the last analysis, aren't city streets roads?

Under the present program all owners of motor vehicles aren't treated alike. The man who lives outside the city gets a paved road free, though he pays no more state tax. The man who lives in the city and who has as a consequence to pay a city tax as well gets nothing from the dollars he puts out in gasoline tax. If he can get other property owners to go along and if he's willing to pay his pro-rata share, he may get his street paved. But, according to Mr. Green, he's paying twice. Though, like a taxi owner, he may do the bulk of his driving in the city, he must put up with bad streets while the man outside of town has paved ones.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Cutbacks in the use of scarce materials for civilian goods are beginning to pinch small manufacturers. Their squeals are growing shriller and they will probably be heard and echoed by their friends in Congress.

Some smaller plants can turn to subcontracting defense orders. This will enable the more aggressive and more fortunate ones to survive. But there are limits to subcontracting. In one year during the last war, only 34 per cent of the dollar value of war contracts were subcontracted and only 26 per cent of this—8 1-2 per cent of the whole—went to plants employing less than 500 persons. So far, there are no indications that small business will get a better break this year.

Toy manufacturers are hard hit. The last war brought many wooden substitutes and the availability of metals and rubber after the war brought a sweeping swing of the pendulum toward toys of those materials. Now those materials are heavily restricted—and plastics, too, are growing shorter. The big factories, of course, can switch to government work if they can get contracts. The outlook for the little ones is less hopeful. The sole industry in one small town in Ohio is the manufacture of toy balloons; in another, the manufacture of cap pistols. Both of these industries seem doomed, and the industries are too small to handle large defense orders.

Manufacturers of sporting goods are also hit. These require best grades of rubber and many metal parts. So are makers of andirons and other brass fireplace equipment. Many are closing down.

The long list of products in NPA Order M-7 in which the use of aluminum is restricted is a list of industries in which business is being sharply cut back, sometimes to naught. The list begins with airfoil tubing for windmills, runs through soap dispensers and door chimes and ends with whistles.

A special victim is the Venetian blind industry, which has been shifting, in large part from wood to metal grids. Just what an assembler of aluminum blinds could convert to remains a puzzle; meanwhile many are contemplating closing their doors.

Defense of this country is, of course, far more important than the existence of a few tens of thousands of manufacturers. But each of them employs people and uses many commercial services. The change may not only be painful to manufacturers but to the rest of us as well.

DENTIFRICE BUSINESS

HOPES FOR NEW BOOM

Dentifrice manufacturers are closely watching the Food and Drug Administration, hoping for an order permitting non-prescription sales of dentifrices containing penicillin. For far they are available only on prescription.

Several are reported to have products all ready for distribution and to have hopes of duplicating the high sales the addition of amonlates rang up in 1940.

SYNTHETIC LABELING

ACT ASKED BY FTC
Legislation giving the government power to regulate labeling of apparel and other goods made from synthetic fibers or blends has been asked of Congress by James Mead, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. The FTC would like to require rayon, nylon and the large numbers of textiles labeled as specifically as wool must be.

AD CLUB PROMOTES UNITED NATIONS

Members of the Phoenix, Ariz., Advertising Club have a group of clients who pay no fees. The clients are member nations of the United Nations.

Seeking to advance international good will, individual members have sought appointments as unofficial representatives of various countries. Each member studies his "client" country and arranges to show films, give talks and distribute literature about it. The club is suggesting that other ad clubs adopt the idea with the goal of dissolving misunderstanding between Americans and the rest of the world.

SPONSOR'S NAME

OFF DISPLAY PIECE

An ingenious sales aid consists of a cut-out of a smiling, happy girl holding a card reading, "Party Time." It is being distributed to grocers and others to use with their snack displays.

The gimmick does not mention Canada Dry. That's the unusual thing about it, because it is distributed by the ginger-ale company.

NEW AND HOT

DEODORIZER: A new roos deodorizer is simply plugged into any electric outlet. The current heats an element which vaporizes an odor-killing material. Refills are available. (It is by Electric Deodorizer Corp., 9993 Broadway, Detroit 4.)

New York (A-P)—Come back from Korea to America today is a disturbing adventure.

It is a voyage from an uneasy war to an uneasy peace. The soldier there is less tense in many ways than is the civilian here.

That is a startling first impression to one returning to the United States after more than half a year in the Far East war theater. When you are in a battle area, home becomes a shining paradise you long to get back to. You forget it has fly specks.

But I suppose the extraordinary tension here, so surprising at first glance, is only normal, considering the troubled times.

Nothing causes tension more than uncertainty. The soldier in Korea is more relaxed in some ways than the civilian here because he basically knows better what to expect. On the next hill, or the hill beyond the next hill, are enemy Chinese or North Korean Reds, and he must fight them. But the American civilian is beset by nameless fears about his clouded future. He doesn't know for sure what is coming across his horizon next, and the shadows he sees are black indeed.

Everywhere there are signs of a tremendous prosperity, enriching more people than any other period of good times in history. More people have more money to spend than ever before. And as yet there is more to buy than it ever before.

But it is a tasteless prosperity, a banquet of plenty under that new Sword of Damocles—the atom bomb. There is a widening fear that the bomb will fall and the roof cave in, destroying the banquet and the diners.

The greatest shock of my return home came when I entered the elevator to ride up to my apartment. The first thing I saw was a poster telling what to do in event of an air raid. That jolted me. A year ago it would have been thought silly to put up air raid warnings in Manhattan.

Another thing that struck me was this: A profound disillusionment with the United Nations and a tendency to make it the scapegoat of our own uncertainty. Few soldiers in Korea spend much time debating the shortcomings of the United Nations. And I don't recall any blaming it for the present plight of the world.

As more and more parents invest their sons beneath their flag, the homesickness for real peace grows. But of the major countries today American seems most determined to stand up for what it believes in—and most willing to undertake the burdens of war, if it comes.

There has been a deep hardening of purpose here in the last six months. It stands out amid all the half-serious joking about food shortages and black markets. "I've got plenty to eat up away in my freezer," said one father. "But I've got two boys of draft age, and I can't hide them in my cellar. And if the country needs them I wouldn't want to stand in the way."

They are already beginning

Washington Letter

By FRANK CAREY

(For HANE EADS)

Washington—The Navy is aiding in research on what may turn out to be a "brain food." The scientist heading the Navy's project says there is some hope that the substance may aid not only in combating certain forms of mental deficiency but may also help increase the mental efficiency of normal people.

The material is glutamic acid, a substance that occurs naturally in all body tissues but in highest concentrations in the brain. It is also present in all protein food that we eat.

Investigators already had reported that when mentally-deficient children were treated with glutamic acid their intelligence quotients showed significant improvement. Other investigators, however, were unable to confirm this.

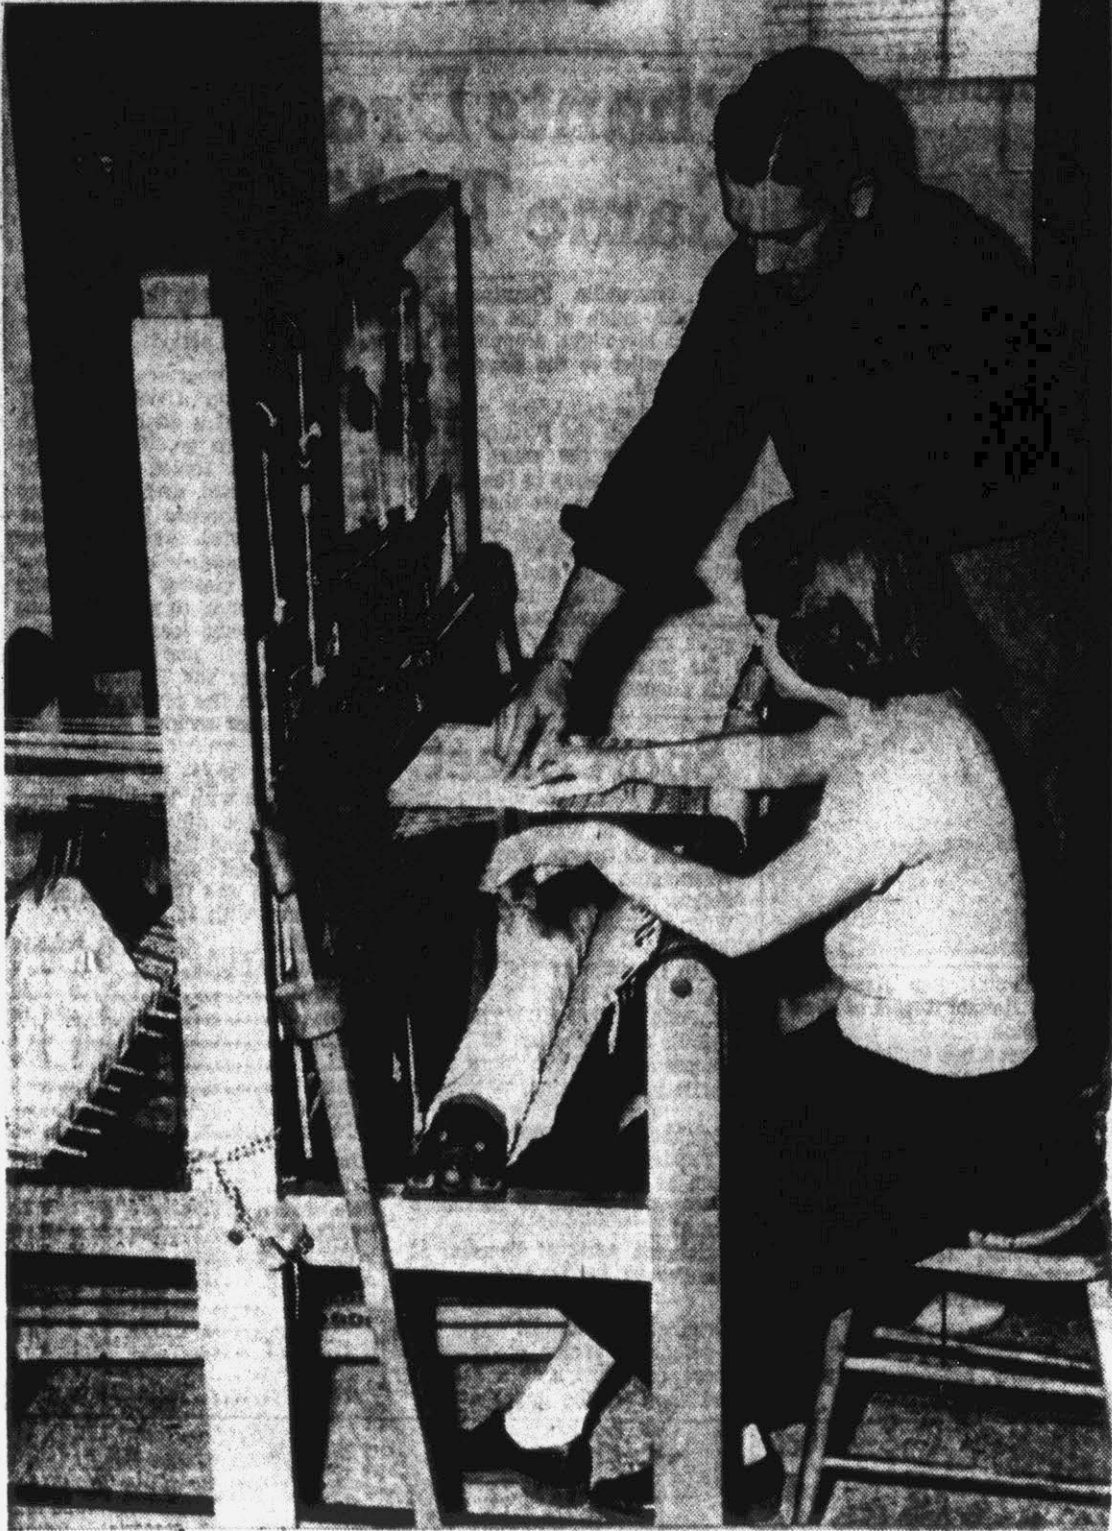

Now Dr. Samuel P. Bessman of Washington is engaged in new research, aided by grants from the Office of Naval Research (ONR) and from the International Minerals and Chemical Corp. He and his associates are trying to appraise the value of giving the acid as treatment to children after first studying them for a year or more. They are trying to reach judgments based upon the "continuing performance" of individual children rather than taking an average for the group. Their objective is to find types of cases which might be expected to benefit.

They have been studying and treating some 150 children for more than two years. Some of the children are of low mentality. Others are of normal intelligence. So far evidence suggests glutamic acid does improve mental function, at least in some cases.

One of the low-mentality cases was a teen-aged girl who had behaved like a six or eight-year-old. Soon after treatment began, her intelligence quotient approached normal she showed an "amazing improvement" in her school studies and her general behavior was that of an adolescent rather than a child.

Bessman said that one of the difficulties in research of this type is the "crudeness of the methods of testing intelligence." He added: "We have attempted to compensate for the lack of definition of any single test by employing, as have others, a number of standard tests."

Varied Training Offered In Home Economics Course At College

Dr. Bessie McNeil, director of the department of home economics at East Carolina, and Kathryn Richards of Washington, N. C., a freshman at the college, talk over informally the problems of a new student in the department. A bulletin describing the work offered by the college in home economics and entitled "Home Economics in Pictures" has just been issued and is now being distributed.

Shown above are home economics students at East Carolina Teachers College as they learn fabric structure and design by working at a loom. This year a number of men students at the college were enrolled in courses in textiles. Shown above are Thomas Vicars of Waynesboro, Va., and Mildred Powell of Wananish, N. C. Various phases of work in the department of home economics are shown in a series of photographs included in a recent college bulletin "Home Economics in Pictures."

What home economics students learn at East Carolina Teachers College, their activities on the campus, and the fields of public service into which they may enter after graduation are presented in pictures in a bulletin now being distributed by the college. The brochure "Home Economics in Pictures" was prepared under the direction of Dr. Bessie McNeil, chairman of the department of home economics at East Carolina. The booklet includes 24 pages of photographs and comments, and is printed on "slick" paper. The materials used cover the daily life of home economics majors in their work and leisure-time pursuits in the department. Training offered by the college to prospective public school teachers, both vocational and non-vocational, is stressed. Opportunities for public service and the training which fits students to become nursery school teachers, school lunch supervisors, extension workers, dietitians, laboratory technicians, home economists in business, family life coordinators, or homemakers is presented pictorially. Photographs indicate the varied training offered in the East Carolina home economics department. Students are pictured in such different activities as directing the play of children in the Nursery School maintained by the department and marketing in downtown stores for their foods classes. They are shown also studying textiles, learning to sew, getting practical experiences in home nursing, demonstrating appliances to make work in the home efficient, working with local chapters of the Future Homemakers of America, and doing student teaching in the public schools.

Wets, Drys Await Referendum Action

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 21—(AP)—The state's Wet and Dry forces today awaited committee action on a proposed liquor referendum after airing their views at a public hearing on the issue. Arguments for and against three bills calling for a statewide vote on liquor were made at a two and one-half hour session yesterday before the Assembly's Propositions and Grievances committees. The committees adjourned without giving any indication as to when they would vote on the liquor issue. The hearing was not as heated as that conducted before the 1949 legislature when mass groups of Wets and Drys attended a hearing on the question of a liquor vote. Dry forces, in urging the committee to allow a referendum, asserted that the public has a right to vote on liquor on a state-wide basis.

In appealing for the committees to kill three bills, spokesmen for the West contended that the present ABC store system is the soundest approach to the issue.

Francis O. Clarkson of Charlotte, former president of the Allied Church League, stated that an "intolerable situation" exists in the state. "The legislature," he added, "has put liquor into the state in piece-meal fashion."

O. M. Mull of Shelby, House Speaker in 1947, was among those advocating a vote on liquor.

Northeast Tournament Gets Underway Tomorrow Night

Phants Open Play Against Eliz. City

The first shot will be fired tomorrow night at 6:30 in the annual Northeastern Athletic Conference basketball tournament being held in the East Carolina gym.

The annual conference classic will get underway with top-seeded Elizabeth City playing fifth-seeded Greenville in the first game. The Yellow Jackets, who won the conference crown, will be favored over the local Phantoms who finished the season in fourth place. The Phantoms could easily be the dark horse of the tournament, and an upset could be in the making in the first round of play. They lost close games to the Yellow Jackets during regular season play, and could give them trouble.

The second game will see Roanoke Rapids take on underdog Edenton team that failed to win a single game this season. The Edenton club has not given any team in the conference any trouble this year and Roanoke Rapids should advance to the semi-finals without too much trouble. Game time for this tussle is 8:00.

season. They played the Red Devils right down to the wire both times in regular season play.

Friday's night's semi-finals will see the winner of the Elizabeth City-Greenville game playing Washington, who drew a bye in the first round, and the winner of the Kinston-New Bern game playing the winner of the Edenton-Roanoke Rapids tilt.

This is the fifth year that the Northeastern tournament has been held in Greenville, and officers of the conference expect it to be the best yet. The conference officers that were recently elected at the last meeting of the conference held in Kinston are: President, Jack Horne, Kinston principal, vice-president, Penton L. Larson, Edenton principal, secretary-treasurer, Fred Eason, Elizabeth City principal.

Jamesville Wins Two Tilts From Bethel Teams

Bethel, Feb. 21.—Jamesville handed Bethel a double defeat here last night, the girls losing by a big margin, 58-31, and the boys dropping a close 42-40 decision in an overtime period.

Jackie Mizell led the Jamesville girls to victory as she scored 25 points to lead the scoring for both teams. Shirley Gain added 18 for the winners. Joyce Beverly had 11 for Bethel.

The boys' game was close all the way, and Jamesville had to go into an overtime period to take their close victory over the Bethel five. The game was tied at 40-40 at the end of the game and Jamesville scored two points in the overtime period to take the win. Hardison and Stine led the scoring for the winners with 12 and 11 points respectively. Bob Manning got 18 for the losers.

Sonny Russell Is Selected On All Conference Team

Greensboro, N.C., Feb. 21 (AP)—Lenoir Rhyne, regular season champion of the North State Conference, Catawba and High Point each placed two men on this year's All-Conference basketball team.

The three-man team was selected by coaches in the conference for the Greensboro Daily News.

Appalachian, East Carolina, Elon and Western Carolina placed one man each to round out the squad.

Larry Graham of Catawba and Bill Wells of Lenoir Rhyne made conference history by making the squad four years running. Warren Russell of East Carolina, Tony Sellari of Lenoir Rhyne and Ed Sueta of High Point are repeaters from last year's All-Conference team.

The rest of the squad includes Bill Hunsucker, of Catawba, Joe Hunt of Appalachian, Jesse Joyce of High Point, Ben Kendall of Elon and Ronald Rogers of Western Carolina.

Rogers set a new individual scoring record for the conference this season with 504 points. He still has at least one more game to play in the annual conference tournament which opens at Statesville Thursday.

Phants Drop Close Game To Kinston

The Greenville Phantoms lost their fifth game of the season by one point last night, dropping a last second thriller to the Kinston Red Devils, 46-45.

The old one point jinx seemed to stay right with the Phants as they led throughout the game, only to have it snuffed away in the last five seconds on a long set shot.

The Farley men played one of their best games of the season against the strong Red Devils, and at the half it looked as if they might upset the favored home team. The Phants took a quick second quarter lead and led at the intermission 28 to 20. The locals seemed to lose some of their shooting accuracy in the third quarter, and the Red Devils closed the gap during this period.

In the last quarter the Phant played the Red Devils on even terms, and held a slight lead with four minutes to go. Three of the Phant starters fouled out in the last four minutes, and this seemed to be the difference in the game last four minutes, and this seemed the score changed hands several times in the closing minutes, and with five seconds to go the Phants held a one point lead, then Wickham, Red Devil guard, recovered and rebounded under the Phants' basket dribbled down the court and hit on a long set shot to give Kinston the victory.

Briley and Higgs led the scoring for the locals with 10 points apiece. Dillingham got nine in the losing cause. Aman and Scott hit for seven each to round out the Phantom scoring. Cole was the leading scorer for Kinston with 13 points.

Ayden Takes Two From Farmville

Ayden took both games of a doubleheader from the Farmville teams last night to move up in the Pitt County Conference standings. The Ayden girls had to come from behind in the third quarter to post a 47 to 40 win, while the boys never were behind to take a 59-42 victory over the Farmville five.

Jean Cox scored 22 points to lead the Ayden girls to victory, followed closely by C. Wooten who got 21. Ila Wooten got 18 for the losers, followed by Ray Hathaway who had 13.

What's its Power?

FIREBALL!

(Only Buick can make this statement)

BEND an ear to the deep baritone song of this marvel motor, and you'll know we aren't fooling when we call it Fireball.

Mister, that's Power, with a capital P. What happens beneath that brawny Buick bonnet happens in no other car in the world. Years ahead of the rush to high-compression valve-in-head engines, Buick was in there pitching for more power from every drop of fuel.

The result was—and is—a spectacular engineering phenomenon that makes itself felt the instant you touch toe to gas treadle. You command a rapid-fire sequence of tiny tornados, letting loose their pent-up power every five inches that a Buick travels.

If you could look inside that Fireball engine, you'd see the reason. Instead of the flat-topped pistons used in other cars, Buick uses a turbo-top piston, contoured like this:

So the inrushing fuel whirlwinds into a compressed ball that adds a super-urge to the downstroke of the piston. And you get the thrill—and thrift—of this Buick "first" in every mile you drive.

More than that, you get an engine tried-and-true—an engine that's been polished and perfected in every detail up through the years.

Again and again, compression ratios have been stepped up to keep pace with advances in fuels. Self-setting valve lifters contribute to silence.

Micropoise balance and Hi-Poised engine mountings add two more Buick exclusives.

And the silken might of this Fireball's power has been made more beautifully obedient by still another "first"—Dynaflo Drive.*

So we list as a prime reason why "smart buy's Buick" this Fireball power plant—and a host of happy owners will say "Amen."

Better see your dealer soon, to find out what you've been missing.

YOUR KEY TO GREATER VALUE

School Helps Social Behavior Of Children

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Education Editor

Does a child's social behavior change when he enters the first grade in school?

Celia Burns Stender and Norman Young of the Bureau of Research and Service, College of Education, University of Illinois, questioned hundreds of mothers, trying to find out.

"Yes," replied most of the mothers, "and for the better, too." Each year more than 2,000,000 six-year-olds enter first grade in our public schools. This is a unique experience for them. It may represent the first time they have been brought in contact with other children and strange people outside the home for any length of time, or it may be their first large group contact. Even for those who have had kindergarten experiences, it undoubtedly brings pressures and demands hitherto not felt. And Junior benefits from these new experiences, they say.

In general, say the authors, mothers report their children look forward to beginning the first grade with a high degree of "favorable anticipation."

The way in which adults discuss school entrance with Junior is reported in the book, "So you're going to FIRST GRADE in the Fall".

"Even from his new haircut and new clothes for the event, the young child gets a feeling of participation in a great and important adventure in which older children whom he recognizes as having age-status, are already participating.

"Furthermore, it is an adventure in which all six-year-olds share; our culture says at six one leaves home and goes to formal school. To the young child, entrance to first grade may seem a major step in the process of growing up. It is a step away from babyhood and home into the world of peers and older children. It may bring with it feelings of increased self-importance, self-esteem and of ego-identity."

Most mothers gladly reported that when Junior entered first grade he developed a sense of independence. They reported more independence in dressing self, beginning work, entertaining friends, going on errands, shopping for groceries, bathing and helping around the house.

Mothers whose directions formerly were resented by Junior, now found that he seemed to follow what he was being told to do and that instead of "blowing up," he was now more cooperative, easier to talk to, more reasonable in seeing another's viewpoint.

Not all reports, say the authors, were honey and cream. Some children "blew up" more than ever, and others showed no change in behavior. One mother's way of expressing her feelings in this respect was:

"It's having to be quiet so long in school."

Tentative Date With Evangelist

Los Angeles, Feb. 21—(AP)—Gambler Mickey Cohen says he and evangelist Billy Graham have a tentative date to spend a vacation at a Tucson, Ariz., dude ranch.

Cohen said yesterday that Graham would telephone him, after the revivalist's forthcoming Fort Worth, Tex., appearance and they and their wives would meet at the ranch.

Cohen did not name the ranch. Graham left here yesterday by plane. His headquarters said they were not sure of his immediate destination. Lloyd Doctor, his public relations man, said the evangelist was "much disturbed" over the publicity given Graham's meetings here with the man often described as the local gambling kingpin.

They dined together Sunday at a night club. Monday night Cohen attended a private meeting at which Graham spoke. Several film folk, including actress Jane Russell, were there.

India Plans No A-Bomb In Study

New Delhi—(AP)—India is seeking out the raw materials of atomic energy and building plants to process them, but it plans to make no atomic bombs. This country's Atomic Energy Commission emphasizes that the uranium, thorium and beryllium being mined in India will be used for peaceful purposes only.

Veins of uranium—some quite large—have been found in various parts of India. Beryl is common, and there are large deposits of monazite sands.

New Harvester Has Advantages

RALEIGH, N. C.—(AP)—A new type harvester winnows grain and allows it to dry before threshing. After drying, the winnowed grain is picked up with a regular storage harvester, chopped and blown into self-unloading wagons which carry the straw to the threshing.

Agricultural engineers at North Carolina State College here say the main advantage of the new method is that it results in better quality grain because the moisture content is lower.

Antifreeze Kills 50 In Evacuation

San Francisco, Feb. 21—(AP)—Officers of a Navy-chartered freighter today said antifreeze smuggled from Korea's Hungnam beachhead killed perhaps 50 U.S. soldiers and crewmen aboard evacuation ships.

Capt. J. A. Roy of Mobile, Ala., said two evacuated GI and three crewmen of his ship, the Tainaron, died after drinking the poison solution in the December evacuation. The soldiers were from the U.S. Seventh Division.

Other Tainaron officers said an Army investigator told them: "Antifreeze for the troops' vehicles was smuggled aboard several evacuation ships, about 50 soldiers and crewmen died after drinking it... scores of others were made violently ill."

The story came out when a life insurance examiner questioned Tainaron officers about deaths of the civilian crewmen.

Alvin W. McGee of Houston, Texas, the freighter's chief officer, said eight GIs and one crewman were so critically ill they were transferred to the Navy hospital ship Consolation.

McGee said a search of the ship, after several men became ill, disclosed a big barrel of smuggled antifreeze.

Killed In Testing His New Tractor

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 20—(AP)—Paul B. Reeves, 57, was trying out a new tractor on his farm near Leicester yesterday.

He attempted to make a turn on a slope when the tractor overturned and crushed him.

The funeral will be held tomorrow.

Eventful Drive For Proud Papa

Indianapolis, Ind.—(AP)—Machinist Cyril Kuchler had his hands full when the stork suddenly arrived. He was driving his wife, Frances, to the hospital when his car was tied up in traffic. Then things began to happen.

Mrs. Kuchler gave birth to the baby, a nine and one half pound daughter and the couple's sixth child, in the front seat of the car. Kuchler didn't stop. He helped his wife as much as he could, clutching the baby in one hand, and kept going—the final three blocks. He said:

"I was so busy holding the baby in my right arm, driving with my left, and honking the horn with my elbow I didn't have a chance to get excited until it was all over."

Baptist Mission Leaders Gather

Atlanta, Feb. 21—(AP)—Mission leaders and pastors from 16 states and 43 cities concentrated today on ways and means of converting 2,000,000 persons to the Baptist faith in the South in the next five years.

The establishment of 5,000 new churches and 10,000 mission stations also was included in five year goals outlined yesterday by Dr. Courts Redford, assistant secretary of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board.

A NAME FOR IT

RIBSTONE, Alta.—(AP)—Residents of this Central Alberta town are fortunate the early white settlers translated the name of the place from Cree to English. Otherwise mail would have to be addressed to "As-in-kos-pike-gan-it, Alta."

Cotton-Rayon Textile Workers Pose Threat

Boston, Feb. 21—(AP)—Some 200,000 CIO cotton-rayon mill workers have been told to prepare for a strike March 15 unless pay raise demands are met, even while the strike of 70,000 CIO wool and worsted workers went into its sixth day today.

The strike instructions were issued by Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), who said they were adopted by the union's cotton-rayon policy committee.

The instructions told union locals not to extend agreements with managements beyond March 15.

The letter said: "This is the deadline. Prepare to strike on that date."

The union represents cotton-rayon workers in more than 470 mills. About 110,000 of the workers are in the north, the remainder in the south.

Rieve said a few northern mills are under long-term agreements signed last Fall. They already provide cost-of-living adjustments and annual improvement raises. However, Rieve said, those contracts are open for pension negotiations March 15, and the union is free to strike if no agreement is reached.

BUILD UP RED BLOOD GET MORE STRENGTH

If you have SIMPLE ANEMIA

You girls and women who suffer from simple anemia that you're pale, weak, "dragged out"—this may be due to lack of blood-iron. So do try Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS.

Pinkham's Tablets are one of the easiest and best home ways to help build up red blood to get more strength and energy—in such cases. They are a pleasant stomachic tonic, too.

Pinkham's Tablets also relieve painful distress, nervous, weak, irritable feelings of "certain days" of the month—when due to female functional periodic disturbances. Just see if you, too, don't remarkably benefit!

Wage-Earners' Families Cut Disease Death Rate

New York, N. Y.—American wage-earners and their families established new low death rates in 1950 for pneumonia and influenza, tuberculosis, the common communicable diseases of childhood, the disorders of childbearing, typhoid fever, diarrhea and enteritis, appendicitis, and homicide.

This is based upon the experience among the industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, a large cross-section of the wage-earner population.

The overall death rate among these policyholders which dropped in 1950 to the lowest yet recorded for the 40-year period over which mortality data have been maintained, stood at 6.37 per 1,000 policyholders, a decline of about 1 percent from the 1949 rate, and only about one half the rate of 12.53 per 1,000 recorded in 1911.

If the 1911 rate had continued to prevail, there would have been 181,000 more deaths in 1950 among those insured than actually did occur, the Metropolitan's statisticians point out.

The death rate among the insured from diseases of the heart and circulatory system was down 1.8 percent from 1949, while the cancer rate showed a slight increase. The mortality from acute poliomyelitis was 1 per 100,000, as compared with 1.7 in the year before.

The accident-death rate increased slightly over that for 1949, with fatal motor vehicle accidents 13 percent higher, fatal occupational injuries nearly 3 percent higher, while home accidents decreased 14 percent. The homicide and suicide rates were lower, with the former recording a new minimal rate.

Poor Location

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 20.—Police arrested 59-year-old Eddie Ware of Chicago yesterday and charged him with burglary. Detective Eberia Tribble said Ware was trying to batter open a safe in a tavern.

Tribble said Ware told him the job was "cashed" for him by a friend. And where is the friend? police asked Ware.

He's serving time in the Indiana State Prison for attempted burglary of the same tavern, Ware said.

Borrowed Money For Pig Project

Des Moines, Iowa—(AP)—The Graettinger High School Future Farmers of America chapter has set up a pig-raising project. The chapter borrowed $2,500 from a Graettinger bank with a dozen local citizens signing the note. Dale L. Schmirring, faculty advisor for the chapter, says it is hoped to pay off the note in two years. The chapter has 49 members. Each boy cooperating in the project will be given a gift this spring by the chapter. In order to pay back the loan, the FFA will be given first and third choice of the first litter produced. The boy receives all remaining pigs and full ownership of the sow. With some exceptions, all pigs of the first litter are to be sold at a cooperative boar and gilt sale.

Youth Of Prague Given Warning

Prague—(AP)—Official policy in the Czechoslovak Union of Youth is that "the old undignified bourgeois attitude toward girls must be ruthlessly suppressed."

"Youth union groups," a Union edict also declared, "must also combat eccentric American dances such as the samba, which express the general degeneration of the culture and morals of the capitalist states."

The samba is still popular in Czechoslovakia despite the efforts of the union and other cultural reformers.

A FIEND IN NEED

By MILTON K. OZAKI

Chapter 18
I went back to the building on Goethe Street without any definite plan. I rapped briskly on Mrs. Ross' door - ignoring the buzzer button - and, after a while, that fat old nurse opened the door. She gave me a quick up and down, then started to close it again.

"Hey!" I cried. "It's me."
"I know it," she said grimly. "Good day!"
"Just listen for a minute," I pleaded, polishing up my best smile. "I'm not a copper - really, I'm not! I'm Dr. Caldwell's secretary, and he's a friend of Professor Thompson who lives below you and on whom the cops are trying to pin the murder."

"I talked as fast as I could, trying to get it all in before the door closed. 'If I can talk to Mrs. Ross for only a minute, I may be able to figure out who really killed Straw, and -'"
"Mrs. Ross don't know nothing about it," the nurse stated flatly. "I know that," I assured her earnestly. "All I want to find out is whether she knew Lawrence Straw was stealing money from her."

"The door opened a little and she peered at me. 'What'd you say?'" she asked.
"You heard me. Straw was stealing money from her. I want to ask her if she knew about it."
"You wait right there!" the nurse commanded, shutting the door. I waited. The door opened abruptly. "Come on in," she directed shortly. "Mrs. Ross is a-bed. Come this way."

Mrs. Ross was wizened and old. Her head was in the center of a large pillow, looking like a wrinkled old pear, and her voice, when she spoke, was as thin as nickel beer.

"Come here," she whispered, raising a bony arm and motioning me nearer. "I want to see you," she moved her eyes - alert, piercing eyes - over my face, my clothes, my hands. "What's this about Lawrence?" she asked weakly.

I felt self-conscious, the way a strong, healthy person always feels on meeting an invalid. "I'm sorry if it's bad news, Mrs. Ross," I said. "You know, of course, that Lawrence Straw was murdered last night." She nodded almost imperceptibly. "I've just come from his apartment where I examined some of his papers and I'm afraid he's been embezzling large sums of money from his accounts. I don't know what your business interests are but your nurse mentioned last night that he was your auditor, and I thought you might want to check on him."

Her bright, piercing eyes watched me emotionlessly. "Why?" she asked, almost inaudibly.
"Because as soon as the cops find out about this, they'll be around like a pack of hornets and they'll turn your affairs upside down. You know how cops are. I don't think you can get your money back, but if you'll tell me a few things about Straw, I may be able to find the murderer and save you a lot of unnecessary worry and turmoil."

Mrs. Ross' lips twitched several times before words came. "I didn't like Lawrence Straw," she managed finally.
"Why not?"
"He was neurotic. Fidgety. He irritated me."
"Then why did you hire him?"
A withered arm rolled helplessly. "He took care of things for my husband. My husband died. I kept him, but I didn't like him. 'Your husband was in the coal business, wasn't he?'"

Not Even A Jail Cell Is Open To Cripple Man

Charleston, S.C., Feb. 21—(AP)—City police are having their troubles with Logan Davis, a little man, past middle age, homeless and crippled. Davis gets into trouble with the law periodically.

And there isn't anything the law can do with Davis.

Because he is crippled, the jail won't take him. Because he is otherwise healthy, the hospital won't take him.

So Davis, who has no place to sleep, shows up at police headquarters on cold nights and asks for lodging. Or he catches a nap in a parked car or in the bus station.

Today, Davis was in trouble again. Henry W. Miller, of Augusta, Ga., found Davis going through the pockets of his coat where it hung in the lavatory of a hotel.

Mr. Miller called police and "held" Davis by simply taking his crutches away from him.

This morning in police court, where Davis appeared on a charge of disorderly conduct, Judge E. Lloyd Wilcox shook his head and sighed. "We can't put him in jail and the hospital won't take him."

So Logan Davis, who wants to go to jail where he can get a bed and a meal, is "free" again.

Compromise Attained In Civil Court Damage Suit

In Superior Court yesterday for the hearing of civil cases a compromise action resulted in the awarding of $2,000 to Mrs. Sallie Cannon Boyd as the result of injuries sustained in a truck accident last July 30.

Mrs. Boyd, who instituted the suit as Mrs. Sallie Cannon, originally sued J. N. Williams, trading as Greenville Packing Company, for $65,000 for personal injuries, loss of time from her job, mental anguish, pain and suffering.

The accident occurred at Cash Corner in Pamlico County while the plaintiff was a passenger in the Williams Company's truck driven by Robert McKinney who was also named a party to the action.

The compromise was made on a motion by plaintiff's counsel when it was learned that McKinney was not driving the truck on company time and was not in the vicinity of where he had previously stated he was taking the truck. It was learned from Williams yesterday he had granted McKinney use of the truck to attend a camp meeting in Bertie County Sunday, July 30, and was to have taken the truck that morning.

However, he took the truck Saturday afternoon instead and at the time of the accident was indicted for drunk driving. He was subsequently tried and convicted in recorder's court in Pamlico but appealed for jury trial.

Mrs. Boyd, represented by attorneys J. B. James, W. W. Speight, and J. W. H. Roberts, requested $50,000 for personal injuries and loss of working time, and $15,000 for mental anguish, pain and suffering.

Talk of quitting Korea snowballed. Now the tide has turned a bit. The Chinese are beginning to look bad. There's a more confident spirit in this country.

And it's just possible that the Chinese communist leaders will get enough of setting their own Chinese up as cannon fodder while the Russians, without risking a man, stand to gain by any United Nations defeat.

And the Russians are having a little internal trouble in Europe where some communists in other countries are breaking away from the Russian philosophy of "all good communists will die for Moscow."

And General Eisenhower seemed to spread confidence that our western allies would work to defend themselves, without depending entirely on this country.

Meanwhile, the defense program has started rolling a bit, but nothing like the flood it should reach a year from now. True, there were weeks of shrill excitement, wondering when price and wage controls would come.

They finally came, almost a month ago, although the government still is fouled up in working out the controls. Since this was expected, it hasn't caused gloom.

And although President Truman has asked for much higher taxes, Congress is taking its time on that.

Mr. Garner, son of Irvin and Maude Elliott Garner, of Newport, was born at Newport, N.C., and spent his early life there. He worked on the tobacco market in Kinston for several years, and came to Greenville 13 years ago. For the past 12 years, he has operated Clem Garner's Service Station on East Fifth Street. He was a veteran of World War II and served three years in the European Theater. He was a member of Newport Methodist Church, a member of the VFW post in Greenville, a member of the Order of Moose, and a member of the Elks Club. He was married to Ruth Blanchard of Greenville in 1938, and she survives.

Also surviving are his parents; his sisters, Mrs. Letha Henderson, Mrs. R. V. Rhue, Mrs. A. L. Edwards, Mrs. Kenneth Miller, and Mrs. Wayne West, all of Newport, and 15 nieces and nephews.

Auto Production To Keep Pace In Months To Come

Washington, Feb. 21—(AP)—A high government official says production of passenger cars and other consumer goods will continue at "very high levels" despite a one-fifth cut in steel for such products during the second quarter of the year.

The cut in steel use was announced yesterday afternoon by Manly Fleischmann, National Production Administrator.

It applies to passenger cars, refrigerators, washing machines, radio and television sets, furniture and fixtures, utensils and cutlery, household appliances, bicycles and speed boats, jewelry, games, novelties and slot machines.

Wall C. Ewing 'Mentally Sound'

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 21—(AP)—Wall C. Ewing, ex-Cumberland county political leader now serving a prison term for manslaughter, has been termed mentally sound by a state psychiatrist.

Paroles Commissioner T. C. Johnson yesterday reported the results of an examination which was made at the suggestion of prison officers who feared Ewing was "cracking up".

DEFEAT CENSURE

London, Feb. 21—(AP)—Another Conservative attempt to unseat the British Labor Government — the fifth this month—was defeated in the House of Commons last night by a vote of 302 to 295. The dispute was over the government's much ridiculed peanut-growing venture in Africa.

The earliest form of bread was made from acorns and beech nuts.

Last Rites Today For M. C. Jefferson

Fountain.—M. C. (Lum) Jefferson, 71, died at his home near Fountain early Tuesday morning following a heart attack. Mr. Jefferson was born and spent his entire life in the Fountain community.
