Fast Retreat Of Reds Continues

United Nations Troops Lose Almost All Contact With Enemy; Patrols Range Deep Into Abandoned Territory; Security Blackout Imposed

Tokyo, March 14—(AP)—Allied patrols ranged northward along a 70-mile stretch of Korea today across ground left suddenly empty by retreating communist forces.

The Reds had fled so fast that United Nations troops at latest reports had lost almost all contact with them. A security blackout cloaked the exact location of U.N. forces.

BULLETIN
Tokyo, March 14—(AP)—Five South Korean patrols entered Seoul tonight and raised the republican flag over the old capital building.

The Eighth Army said they met no opposition.

But U. N. patrols in central Korea ranged Wednesday throughout the hills around strategic Hongchon. They even may have entered that road hub.

Field reports Tuesday placed allied units within four miles of Hongchon. There has been almost no contact with the enemy reported since.

The Reds have quit the front lines so fast that even swift tanks could not catch them. There were unconfirmed reports also that the communists were pulling out of Seoul on the western front.

Forty thousand Reds were reported in Honchon just last week. The city is a one-time Red supply base on the winding east-west Hongchon river 22 miles south of parallel 38.

United Nations commanders expect the Reds to brace at the river line. They may plan to start an offensive of their own from there.

Two communist corps have been in the area for more than a week. They have been seen digging entrenchments in the Hongchon valley and along ridges that command strategic mountain passes.

Allied air observers say the Reds may have 120,000 or more men north and west of Hongchon.

Hongchon is about 15 air miles southeast of Chunchon, Chinese headquarters in South Korea.

The U. N. Air Force was out in strength Wednesday. By noon more than 350 sorties had been mounted. Primary targets were Red transport north of Seoul on the road to Pyongyang, North Korea capital.

Costello Admits To Vague Sum In Home Strongbox

Perjury Threat Brings Answer; Charges Law Violation By Probers

New York, March 14—(AP)—Threatened with perjury if he did not answer, gambler Frank Costello today told Senate crime probers he has about $40,000 to $50,000 in his strongbox at home.

Sen. Herbert R. O'Connor (D-Md.), who issued the ultimatum, told the reported underworld leader to "be extremely careful" in answering the question.

"We've played ducks and drakes long enough with this," Tobey snapped.

Earlier Costello accused the probers of breaking federal law in using transcripts of his telephone conversations.

Facing the Senate committee for the second day in a row, the reputed rackets overlord said through his attorney that the Senators overstepped legal bounds in presenting the recordings.

O'Connor presiding at the session, promptly overruled the objections.

Committee counsel Rudolph Halley said the wiretapped conversations were made in 1943, with court authorization, by investigators for Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan.

The clash came when Halley sought to introduce a lengthy transcription of a long-distance talk Costello purportedly had with "Dandy" Phil Kastel, in New Orleans.

Costello has named Kastel as the boss of a southern slot machine enterprise, the Louisiana Mint Company, which Costello said he set up in 1935 with an okay from the late Huey Long.

George Wolf, attorney for Costello, maintained that "telephone conversations cannot be divulged" under federal law. He argued that New York state law may permit use of wiretaps, but they aren't permitted in federal proceedings.

Vandenberg Said Weakening Fast
Grand Rapids, Mich., March 14—(AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg was reported weakening rapidly today in his battle for life.

The senator's physician said his condition "continues to become more serious."

The 66-year-old Republican foreign policy leader has failed to rally from a serious relapse he suffered Feb. 26.

Truman Plan For Revamping Of RFC Runs Into House Coalition And Liquidation Demands Rise

Washington, March 14—(AP)—A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats mustered forces in the House today to try to belittle President Truman's proposal to revamp the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC).

By defeating another administration reorganization measure yesterday, the coalition demonstrated convincingly it can control the House, at least on many domestic issues.

Administration leaders conceded to newsmen that big trouble loomed for Mr. Truman's plan to abolish the 5-man board of directors which runs the controversially-ridden RFC and replace it with a single administrator.

Defeat for this reorganization plan would pave the way for a Republican move to abolish the multi-billion dollar government lending agency entirely. The House GOP Policy Committee went on record as urging that action yesterday.

Increasing demand for its liquidation came from members of both parties in both the Senate and House.

At the same time, bitter words were exchanged over a charge by Rep. Wayne L. Hayes (D-Ohio) that Republican National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson had done some "influence peddling" in connection with RFC loans.

Hayes also said he would name on a broadcast last night two senators as having put pressure on RFC to make loans for a firm Gabrielson was formerly connected with. When the time came, however, he did not name them. He said two senators contacted him about his statement.

"Senator Bricker of Ohio called me on the telephone and implied that if I stated he had had anything to do with the Gabrielson loans he would sue me for libel," Hayes said on the Mutual Network Broadcast.

"Senator Capehart of Indiana contacted me on the floor of the House and talked to me personally, and exactly what he was driving at was not clear to me, except that he told me he was not connected with the Capehart Music Company."

Hayes noted that Bricker and Capehart are Republican members of the Senate Banking subcommittee which has been inquiring into RFC operations, and he added: "I hope they will be leaders in making public the names of those who exerted their influence to get this loan for Gabrielson."

Capehart told a reporter he doesn't know what Hayes was talking about. He added he would insist that Hayes appear before the subcommittee and give it any information he has.

Bricker commented: "This is just a snide way to bring my name into the matter. This man (Hayes) named me to three newspaper reporters as one of those concerned. I called Mr. Hayes to tell him I had better not use my name—that he would be held responsible if he did."

Bricker said the loans Hayes referred to were made while he was still governor of Ohio, not a senator.

Without increasing highway fund revenues, which the Governor insisted was necessary, the bill would allocate $5,000,000 a year to the cities for their streets and make the Highway Commission responsible for upkeep of all streets which connect the highway system.

As action on the measure neared completion, another important bill was taking a long stride toward legislative approval. By a top-heavy 98 to 14 vote the House passed and sent to the Senate legislation aimed at curbing stream pollution.

Only Formality Awaits Enacting Of Powell 'Law'

Senate Accepts Amendments; House OKs Stream Pollution Bill

Raleigh, N. C., March 14—(AP)—Only the formality of ratification is necessary for the Powell Bill to boost state aid for city streets to become law.

The measure—fought all the way by Governor Scott and the Highway Commission—ended its stormy legislative journey yesterday when the Senate agreed unanimously to House amendments.

Without increasing highway fund revenues, which the Governor insisted was necessary, the bill would allocate $5,000,000 a year to the cities for their streets and make the Highway Commission responsible for upkeep of all streets which connect the highway system.

As action on the measure neared completion, another important bill was taking a long stride toward legislative approval. By a top-heavy 98 to 14 vote the House passed and sent to the Senate legislation aimed at curbing stream pollution.

The bill, which would create state Stream Sanitation Commission, sets out in detail the procedure under which the commission would tackle stream pollution.

Meanwhile, a legislative fight has developed on proposals to lower the age for children to start school.

The controversy developed yesterday as the Joint Appropriations committee began studying a bill to allow children who become six years of age before December 1 to enter school that year.

The present deadline is October 1. Opposition bobbed up to an amendment proposed by Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Under the amendment the State Board of Education would be authorized to use its discretion in allowing children who would become six years old between October 1 and December 1 to enter school that year.

Serve Warrants On Students In Double Slaying
Rutherfordton, N. C., March 14—(AP)—Murder warrants have been served on two boarding school students who admitted they shot their superintendent and a school teacher.

Sheriff Vance Wildins said he still planned to talk with a girl with whom one of the boys had been friendly. He stressed, however, that he merely wanted to get information from her and that no charges would be lodged against her.

Hugh Justice, 19, president of the Alexander School Student body, and Billy Ray Powell, 16, are in jail. Justice confessed ambushing superintendent W. E. Sweat, 50, and slaying him with a borrowed .22 rifle. Powell said he shot his roommate, Wade Johnson, 15.

ICC Authorizes Quick Increase In Freight Rates
Washington, March 14—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the railroads to make a quick increase in freight rates ranging from two to four per cent.

Acting on the rail carriers' plea that they require immediate higher charges on account of advancing operating costs, the commission issued a permit for a four per cent hike in eastern territory, and two per cent in southern and western territories.

The order stipulates that freight moving between these territories will take a two per cent rate advance. The emergency action permits the increases to be made effective in 15 days.

REA Loan Terms Outlined For Utilities Commission

Plan For Paying Off Bonds To Be Issued Under Requested $910,000 Loan Presented To Local Board; Three Stipulations To Be Put Before Commission For Members' Approval At Early Date

By JOHN SPINKS, JR.
The Utilities Commission was last night shown a clear way to extend electric facilities to 2,500 rural families living in Pitt, Craven and Beaufort counties.

Meeting with REA officials from Washington and Raleigh a plan for paying off the bonds to be issued under the requested $910,000 loan was presented and, if approved by the members at an early date, will culminate more than 15 months of red tape in getting the loan from the federal government.

In order to get the loan for the lines the Commission must:

- (1) Grant REA a first mortgage on revenues from the rural lines,
- (2) Grant REA a mortgage on revenues from the entire electric system (rural and urban) provided the mortgage on rural lines is not valid, and
- (3) Must not issue any more bonds for any purpose unless the total net revenue from the electric department is one and a third times the bonded indebtedness for the particular year the bonds are issued.

Resolutions to that effect will be sent to the Commission this week for the members' approval. If they consent to the stipulations in the resolutions, as was indicated last night, they will then have to be approved by the Board of Aldermen. On obtaining that approval the project will get underway immediately.

REA attorney Arnold Winokur, who presented a verbal list of the stipulations last night, stated the three stipulations constitute the only way deemed advisable for REA to lend the money. However, he said he could see no way in which the stipulations could interfere with the future projects of the Commission.

As it concerns the mortgage on the electric system, the attorney pointed out the lien on the system will be taken only in the event tax anticipation bonds outstanding at the present time absorb the revenues of the rural lines. However, that is not probable, he said, since the financial system of the utilities is sound and can pay off any outstanding already issued in addition to paying off the present loan through rural line revenues.

Provision No. 3 is as lenient as REA can be, the attorney said, since most borrowers are required to net 1.5 times the bonded indebtedness in order to issue further bonds.

State REA administrator Gwyn Price, who was invited for the conference, urged the Commission to accept the proposals. He stated he could see no way in which the proposal would hinder the utilities' future operation and that the Greenville system is the only such plant in this area which can serve those families wanting electricity. He described this section of the state as the largest populated area of comparable size in North Carolina not served by power.

L. M. Keever, electrical engineer for the State Utilities Commission, informed the members the Commission is behind them in their project. He said the families already requesting power from Greenville are "in your area and must be served by the existing lines."

Last night's meeting was the end product of many propositions made by REA to the Commission since the loan request was begun in December of 1949. With one exception, proposals presented were the same as others presented by REA earlier at a conference in Washington.

That concerned proposal No. 3. As previously stated by the legal department of REA, the only way the loan could be granted was for the Commission to agree never to issue any further bonds for any purpose without the approval of REA.

The third proposal presented last night, Winokur said, was the result of a decision by REA attorneys and administrators Claude Wickard which grants the 1.5 constant to be used in making the bonds.

Aldermen R. E. Rogers and Ed Waldrop, meeting with the Commission, seemed to favor accepting the proposals. Waldrop stated the city of Greenville will need the revenue from the utilities from year to year on which to operate and has indicated additional revenues from the rural lines would be of great help. Rogers described the construction of lines as a "moral obligation" to the people in the area who are now without electricity.

New Wage Board Said Agreeable To Laborites

Opens Way To Mending Breach In Mobilization Program; President Said Ready To Offer New Basic Mobilization Bill

Washington, March 14—(AP)—Labor's top council has reportedly agreed upon the makeup and powers of a new Wage Stabilization Board, opening the way—if industry agrees—to mending a breach that seriously threatened the defense mobilization effort.

Meanwhile, officials said President Truman will send Congress by April 1 a new basic mobilization bill expected to contain revised proposals for increasing production, bringing prices and wages under control, and a stiff rent control program.

The present mobilization law expires June 30. It does not cover rents.

Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods told newsmen mobilization's top command has agreed to a rent control program broader and stronger in some respects than in World War II.

Simultaneously with these developments yesterday, Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle said in a Philadelphia speech that "we have flagged the inflation price express and slowed its speed from 75 to 15 miles an hour." This, DiSalle said, means there is every reason to believe "we will achieve stability of prices a great deal sooner than we originally expected."

The vitally important compromise aimed at wooing labor leaders back to administrative collaboration in the mobilization effort was described by an informed source as:

A proposal to create a new Wage Stabilization Board with 18, instead of the present nine, members; giving the board authority to decide labor disputes arising from its own policy decisions, disputes certified "national emergency" by the President, and disagreements outside the wage field when all parties approve calling on the Wage Board for a decision.

The source who reported the compromise said the United Labor Policy Committee (ULPC) voted acceptance. The agreement was reached after weeks of intensive efforts by Stabilization Director Eric Johnson set off when the ULPC pulled its three men out of the Wage Board and ordered all its labor representatives out of mobilization posts.

Violent Tremor Behind Curtain
London, March 14—(AP)—A violent earth tremor, possibly originating somewhere east of the Iron Curtain, startled a large section of western Europe today.

In West Germany a scientist said the possibility that the tremor was caused by a tremendous explosion such as an atomic blast had not been ruled out entirely. But an East German scientist said it was definitely an earthquake, not caused by an explosion.

The shock was felt as far west as France and Belgium.

Opens Probe Into Five-Percenter

Hoey Inquiry Group To Probe Defense Contract Field

Washington, March 14—(AP)—A new Senate inquiry into "five percenter" activities opens today with federal officials summoned for questioning about "influence peddlers and other shady operators" in the defense contract field.

Senator Hoey (D-NC) used that language in declaring a Senate investigating committee he heads is determined to "nip in the bud" any trading on influence in the mobilization program. The committee arranged a public hearing.

Hoey's committee two years ago conducted a spectacular inquiry into the operations of five per center-men who charge a fee, often five per cent, for help in getting government contracts for others.

That inquiry resulted in the perjury conviction of John F. Maragon, Washington man-about-town who once had a White House pass.

The committee at that time also dealt sharp reprimand to Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's Army aide, for accepting seven home freezers as gifts, and for other reasons.

Vaughan gave one of the freezers to Mrs. Truman. Some of the other units went to other prominent Washingtonians.

Another result of the 1949 investigation was the retirement of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, then Chief of the Army Chemical Corps.

In a statement prepared for the opening of the new inquiry, Hoey said his committee—a part of the Senate Expenditures committee—"is now investigating complaints of the operations of influence peddlers and other shady operators" in the letting of defense contracts.

Manpower Controls

Background On Current Dispute By Labor Leaders Over Charles Wilson's Authority; Voluntary And Involuntary Systems Are Issue; Who Is The Real Boss?

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 14—(AP)—Labor leaders are in a running fight with Charles E. Wilson, big boss of the defense program, over several things. One of them is the handling of manpower.

There's no shortage of workers for defense plants now, but there may be in another five months when defense production really is rolling. It will mean getting workers for jobs, training them, maybe even shifting them around.

If the problem gets serious the government will face this choice: Trying to work it out through the voluntary cooperation of labor and management or slipping on government controls, telling workers and employers what to do.

Liquor Sales Up In February

Raleigh, March 14—(AP)—State ABC liquor store sales during February showed an increase of $115,180.80 over the same month of 1950.

This was shown yesterday in figures released by State ABC Chairman Robert W. Winston. Total state sales were $3,908,982.80 in February.

Mecklenburg topped other counties and towns by a wide margin with total sales of $750,670.65.

Confident Commander

Eisenhower's Viewpoint On Soviet Weaknesses Supports This Analyst's Repeated Claim That Russia Is Far From Ready For A Major War In European Area

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

It certainly bolsters confidence to hear from a Commander-in-Chief who has led his conquering armies across western Europe that America could defeat Russia if war came.

The way General Eisenhower put it to the Senate Foreign Relations committee during his recent examination was that "our enlightened 150,000,000 people can still whip 150,000,000 backward people" in Russia if war comes. He also declared that with sufficient air and sea support, 12 American divisions could hold the Breton peninsula of north France against the Russians.

General Ike apparently bases these estimates not only on western strength but on potential Russian weakness. One of the most impressive parts of his testimony was his prediction that if there is war the Red satellites will turn against Moscow.

He declared that "dissent elements all the way from the Balkans right up to the Baltic will rise."

That is a likelihood which this column has been hammering on a long time as one of the most important aspects of the continuing crisis. There can be no doubt that the disaffection now apparent among the satellites weighs heavily with Russia's plans.

These satellites not only have been Russia's bulwark across eastern and central Europe, but Moscow originally looked to them as sources of supplies and manpower. Those expectations now have gone glimmering. And worse yet, from the Soviet viewpoint, the satellites have become potential active foes of Bolshevist rule.

The complexion of the military situation in Europe has changed greatly in recent months. This has been due in part to growing western strength and in part to growing Russian weakness which springs from assiduous satellites.

Any idea which Moscow may have had of overrunning western Europe has had to be revised. The position now is that we can say with considerable confidence that the Muscovites don't want war in Europe.

Winter Throws Belated Haymaker At Carolinas
By The Associated Press
Winter threw a late haymaker at the Carolinas today.

Frost was promised tonight, placing the multi-million dollar peach crop in jeopardy.

Six inches of snow was reported at Blowing Rock this morning, with clearing skies. Roads were passable but some ice made driving dangerous.

Piedmont North Carolina had snow flurries but most of the fall melted quickly. Temperatures were around 32.

The weather was cloudy and roads wet in the Elizabeth City area. That also was true in the Wilmington area, which had a few snow flakes.

It was set and damp at Charlotte with the sun trying to break through.

Below normal temperatures accompanied by light snow flurries prevailed in the Greenville area last night, with a forecast from the weather bureau that more of the same can be expected today and tonight.

Snow flurries were observed here between 6-6:30 this morning, while near by Wilson reported heavy snow flurries at the same time.

The highest reading recorded yesterday reached the 56 degree mark with a low last night and this morning going to 35.

Weather records show that the temperatures and rainfall for the month so far are below normal as compared with a year ago.

Tonight the temperatures are expected to drop with colder weather this afternoon, clearing skies Thursday and rising temperatures. Less than one half of an inch of rain fell in this region yesterday the weather report showed.

Loaded Produce Truck Wrecked; Loot Picked Up
Winston-Salem, N. C., March 14—(AP)—A produce truck rammed two trees near here last night—and for a while, bananas and carrots fell like rain drops.

Kids and housewives were there with sacks, aprons, dish pans—anything that would hold the scattered loot.

The accident happened about 7 p.m. on highway 421, about four miles east of Winston-Salem.

State Highway Patrolmen C. F. Hendrix and L. B. Hauser, who investigated the wreck, identified the driver as William W. Huskey, 50, of Reidsville. He was charged with driving drunk, they said.

Hunting Is Fun Again

Construction business is hard work, says Maurice H. Runnels, of Mabelvale, Arkansas, but he likes it. He also likes hunting with his hounds, but for a while he didn't feel like doing much of anything. He had that run-down feeling, aches and pains, and just didn't seem to have any appetite. Being an active man, he didn't like not feeling well, and decided to do something about it. He heard about how HADACOL had helped many folks with troubles like his due to a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin and decided to give it a trial. He made a good decision, for HADACOL did help him. Soon, his aches and pains were relieved, he had a good appetite, really enjoyed his food, and he rested well.

Mr. Runnels says: "I am in the construction business, which everyone knows is mighty heavy work. I was working so hard, and just didn't seem to have any appetite at all. I started having aches and pains at about the same time. Then, about that time I decided to give HADACOL a trial. Right away, my aching was greatly relieved and my appetite picked up. I started eating regular meals, sleeping well and my general condition was greatly improved. I have since continued taking HADACOL regularly, and feel that it is a wonderful product. I freely recommend HADACOL as a good product."

Mr. And Mrs. John R. Askew Celebrate Golden Wedding

Shown above are Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Askew, who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary with an informal reception last night at their home on Meade street.

In observance of their Golden Wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Askew held open house at their home on Meade Street last night between the hours of 8:00-10:00 p.m.

The home was beautifully decorated throughout with graceful arrangements of daffodils, forsythia, golden gladioli, and yellow and white carnations and chrysanthemums. Yellow candles also added a decorative touch in the rooms where callers were received and entertained.

Welcoming guests at the door was Mrs. B. M. Reagan, who introduced to a receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Askew, four of their five children—Mrs. W. G. Rush, Robert A. Askew, John L. Askew and Anne Laurie Askew, all of Greenville—and Mr. and Mrs. Windfield Conifer of Pennsylvania. The hostess was wearing a shoulder-dette of golden-pom poms tied with gold satin ribbon, while the host had a complementing boutonniere.

The dining room table was covered with a white Madelena cloth, and held a frozen punch bowl incised with jonquils and encircled with fresh yellow flowers. The centerpiece was composed of yellow and white carnations. Double crystal candelabra held yellow tapers which were collared with frills of tulle. A three-tiered anniversary cake was decorated with yellow jonquill flowerettes. Mrs. Penrose Perkins poured the punch, while Mrs. W. C. Clark served the cake. Accompanying the cake and punch were nuts and yellow rosebud mints, served by Mrs. Warren Aldridge, Mrs. Andy Garcia, Miss Lilly Marie Fyfe and Miss Carolyn Barnhill. The buffet in the dining room was graced with a low brass bowl holding an attractive spray of yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums, flanked by triple candelabra bearing burning tapers.

Presiding at the register was Mrs. John L. Askew, and goodbyes were spoken to Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Kennerly of Washington, D. C. More than 200 guests were invited for the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Askew were married in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Walston in Scotland Neck on March 13, 1901. The Rev. W. Ryder, Methodist minister, performed the ceremony in the presence of the families and a few friends. The only attendant at the wedding who is still living is Mrs. Lula Robertson of Scotland Neck.

Mrs. Askew was the former Ada Lee Bell and was born in Tarboro. Mr. Askew is a native of Scotland Neck, from where he moved to Greenville in 1915. He operated a grocery store and has also been in the lumber and mercantile business in Greenville before his retirement a few years ago from active business.

They have five children—Jerry D. Askew of Durham and Mrs. Ruth Robert, John and Anne Laurie, all of Greenville—six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mrs. Askew also has two sisters, Mrs. Will Fyfe of Kinston and Mrs. J. L. Cobb of Conetoe; and two brothers, Mr. J. B. Bell of Elkin and Mr. J. W. Bell of Norfolk. Mr. Askew has one brother, C. C. Askew of Whiteakers.

Dr. Utterback Is Guest Speaker

The Literature Department met Tuesday, March 13, at the Woman's Club. Hostesses were Mrs. H. G. Harty, Mrs. Claude Tunstall, and Mrs. W. W. Howell. Dainty refreshments were served at the long table centered with a large bowl of fragrant paper white narcissus and magnolia leaves.

Then Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, chairman, presided at a short business meeting. Mrs. N. C. Brooks, Mrs. J. W. Tetterton, and Mrs. W. H. Woolard were chosen as the nominating committee to report on March 27.

Dr. Elizabeth Utterbach, of the College English Department, gave the program. She spoke entertainingly of the life and poems of Edna St. Vincent Millay and then read dramatically and well her stirring poem, "The Murder of Lidice." It was a warning not to forget the cruelty of unbridled dictatorships, lest we lose our own democratic heritage.

Mrs. Warfield Sypret, Miss Utterbach's mother, was welcomed as a guest. The next meeting of the Literature Department will be at the home of Mrs. D. L. Moore.

Dress Blues In Korea Fighting

With The First Marine Division in Korea—(AP)—Marines resting beside a dusty Korean road recently were slack-jawed with amazement as an automatic rifleman strolled through their position in dress blues.

Marine Private First Class Norman L. Hoeker, 22, of St. Joseph, Mo., explained:

"While in California I asked my mother to send me my dress blues. But before they arrived, I was on my way to Korea. The Marine Corps postal section dutifully sent the package after me. Thinking it was a Christmas package delayed because of the rush, I opened it to share the contents with my squad. They dared me to wear them and I did. I just hope the colonel didn't see me."

Give Blood To Korea Wounded

Tokyo—(AP)—Soldiers and civilians on occupation duty in Japan are donating whole blood to be flown to injured fighting men on the Korean front. Many persons have donated as much as three pints of blood since the blood bank of the 406th Medical General Laboratory opened in Tokyo last July 5.

Mobile blood bank teams travel to cities outside Tokyo.

Outside of Britain and Ireland, the only left-side driving is listed for Europe as in Sweden, Iceland, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man. The latter pair are under British control. But on Gibraltar and the islands of Malta and Gozo, both under British control, right-side driving is the law.

THE GREAT SEAL

We are all familiar with the great seal of the United States. It consists of a spread eagle holding in its mouth a ribbon on which are the Latin words, "E Pluribus Unum."

Most people do not know that there is a reverse side to this seal. The design is an unfinished pyramid over which is an eye, symbolizing God's providential care. And the motto is, "Annuit Caeptis." "He favors what has been begun." And beneath is the motto, "Novus Ordo Seclurum." "A New Order of the Ages." This reverse side was designed but never cut to serve as a seal, although it appears on dollar bills.

The present seal, symbolizing our unity as a nation, deals purely with the governmental side of our life. The reverse side of the seal, which was designed but never cut, symbolizes the spiritual aspiration of our nation.

May it not be that much of the present-day confusion, bewilderment and moral chaos in our country arises from the fact that we have emphasized government and the material side of life but have not used our spiritual potential? The neglect of these symbols setting forth the nation is most significant.

The design of the seal sets forth both political and spiritual truth. The fact that only that side has been used as a seal which sets forth political truth reflects an attitude on our part which may lead to disaster.

long will it be before North Carolina finds itself over-run by gamblers just as Florida and New York are today? Can we tolerate even a small portion of gambling in the state and expect to escape the penalties which other states are now paying for having allowed the gambling to exist within their boundaries?

The organized gambling in the United States has established a beachhead in North Carolina. The dog tracks at Mójock and Morehead City form the foe-hold from which gambling in all forms may spread throughout North Carolina whether legalized by the legislature or not.

Those who support the legalized parimutual betting contend it is bringing great prosperity into the communities which have the dog tracks. They don't mention the thousands of greatly-needed dollars which the people of the community are losing at the tracks each season. Ask the grocer on the corner in Morehead City how much prosperity the dog track has brought to his business? Ask the individual merchant whether he has noticed that gambling in his community is taking from the pockets of his customers money which should be spent for improving the standard of living of the customer's families?

We think the answers to those questions will give a picture very different from the one which has been painted by the advocates of legalized gambling in the state.

The seriousness of the gambling threat to North Carolina is far reaching indeed. The longer we have legalized gambling in any form, the more difficult a task it will be to rid ourselves of this parasite when we realize it is sapping the people of their money and the local governments of their honest men.

The General Assembly during this term would indeed be making a wise move to pass legislation which prohibits gambling in any form within the boundaries of the state.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14—Many prominent members of Congress, as well as civic leaders and editorial writers throughout the nation, share Senator J. William Fulbright's belief that "the level of public and political ethics" at Washington has fallen to its lowest state since the maddening days of the Harding Administration. The Missouri crowd and the "Ohio gang" seems to have much in common.

It is especially interesting that so many of the individuals associated with these questionable activities, even though not guilty of actual law-breaking, hail from Missouri. The Fulbright revelations disclose that the manipulators of $45,600,000 worth of bad R.F.C. loans came from that state or nearby Arkansas, a Snyder-Stelman ballwick.

FRAUDS—The Pendergast faction now controlling Missouri politics, especially in Kansas City and St. Louis, stormed to power through ballot-box frauds in which the ring-leaders were never caught or punished. Indeed, evidence of their violations was cynamitted at a court-house only a few blocks from the hotel where President Truman was sleeping.

Kefauver disclosures, and so the committee formally charged, show that big-time gamblers contributed heavily to the election of the present state Administration in the expectation that they would have a free hand to plunder the public.

An agent for the Chicago Capone mob, Charles Binaggio, was murdered in a Democratic clubhouse in Kansas City, presumably because he could not deliver the stolen goods, when the politicians got scared.

BOSS—Morris Shenker, who represents important criminal elements when the law catches up with them, is now the Democratic boss of St. Louis. He works closely with "Jim" Pendergast, nephew of "old Tom," the President's pal and presidential spokesman in this region.

White House Military Aide, Major General Harry Vaughan, hobnobbed with "five per centers," according to the records. He acted as distributing agent for valuable freezers, the gifts of firms he had tried to aid in getting government contracts.

ALLIANCE—Democratic politicians, police officials, state sheriffs and their gambling pals have been indicted and convicted in such places as New York, Miami, Chicago and California. But no expression of criticism or indignation has ever come from the rule of the party.

On the contrary, for politically strategic reasons, he yanked ex-Mayor William F. O'Dwyer out of New York City Hall on the eve of last fall's election, making him Ambassador to Mexico.

Hardly had the former postmaster finished his diplomatic prepping at Washington before a Brooklyn Grand Jury exposed a long-time and lucrative alliance between O'Dwyer's police and the nation's biggest crime syndicates.

POWER—Mr. Truman will not even permit Donald S. Dawson, central figure in the R.F.C. scandals, to try to clear himself before the Fulbright Committee. He retains a White House secretary whose husband, E. Merle Young, gave her a $9,500 mink coat on money borrowed from an R.F.C. applicant whom he and Mr. Dawson were trying to help. Dawson hangs on as personnel chief at the White House, a position of vast power.

Mr. Truman takes the viewpoint that, although a bit of "honest graft" may have been involved, these activities are not "illegal" in the sense that they are indictable. In threatening to counterattack the Fulbrighters by publishing Congressional letters on behalf of R.F.C. loans, he took the old-fashioned clubhouse attitude that "everybody is doing it."

MORALITY—Since a party's sense of ethics is usually fixed by its leaders, it is not surprising that this kind of morality prevails so widely. Senator James E. Murray of Montana, known humorously as the "millionaire scab" because of his espousal of so many New Deal and Fair Deal measures for the "underdog," had a hand in the R.F.C. poker game.

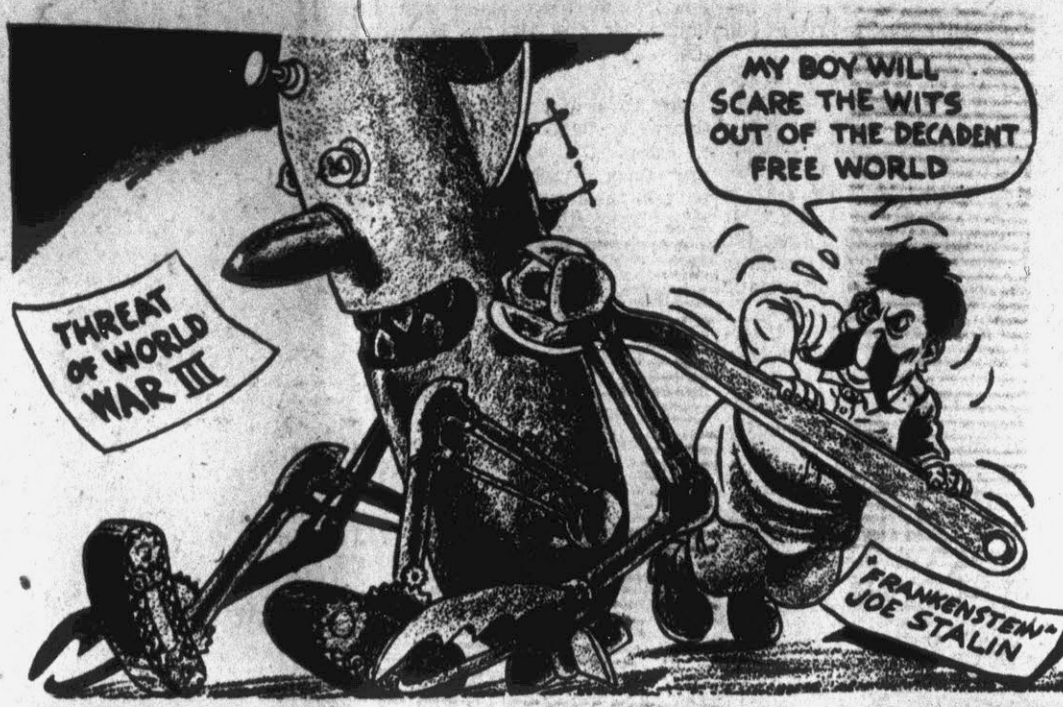

He intervened on behalf of a loan for a swanky Miami hotel that paid his son a fee of $21,000 in the case. Mr. Murray contends this was quite all right. He does not add that the borrower was not a Montana man, and would normally seek aid from the Florida Senators or House delegation.

BANAWAGON—Apparently, there is no hope or plan or chance to remedy these conditions. Whereas Calvin Coolidge cleaned house after the Teapot Dome and Harry Daugherty investigations in the middle 'twenties, President Truman intends to try to ride out the furore, such as it is. Both the Kefauver and Fulbright committees' lives expire soon.

As far as the White House is concerned, the President's everyday associates, advisers and poker friends may accept mink coats, freezers, free loading at $50-a-day hotels in return for public favors without incurring his displeasure. And this in the face of the fact that only two R.F.C. loans they helped to negotiate—there are many others not yet investigated—cost the taxpayers $45,600,000.

It is not surprising that every man listed in these shadowy transactions is now engaged in harnessing and promoting the political banawagon which they expect will carry their benefactor into office next year for another term.

The Moscow Monster

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

They say you have to build one house to find out what you want in a home, and then build the second one to incorporate all your desires. Wife Rachel and I are on our first one (corner of Maple Street and Shady Lane) and unless we strike oil it'll be our last.

One tip any home builder will give you is to pick a plan that falls under your projected expense, because before it's all over you'll add more than enough to go over your pocketbook. In spite of this advice that everybody gives, I have yet to hear of anyone who has listened to it.

Last night I was scanning the American magazine and saw an idea that we have to incorporate in our house, no matter how "overboard" it puts us. This particular idea came from a cartoon. On each side of and over the front door of this house there are bookshelves. The husband in the cartoon is showing a friend the bookshelves and saying, "These books I've read between the time my wife says, 'I'm ready'—and we go."

This situation fits W.R. so well that I asked her to read the cartoon. "That's rich," she said, "but why did you point it out to me?"

"Are you kidding?" I shot back. "It takes you 15 minutes to leave the house after you claim to be ready. We'll need some bookshelves around the door, too, to hold the books I can read while I'm waiting."

W. R. honestly didn't realize what I meant until I started mentioning a few reasons for delay, like going back to get a scarf, pocketbook, lipstick, or checking to be sure the oven is off, replacing a run hose, or changing a hat. Rachel wasn't going to take this lying down. "Well," she said, "if you need those bookshelves, I need a trap door in the bed to drop you in the morning. Maybe that would wake you up on time."

This sort of foolishness went on for a while, but we know that the house is the best one in town, just like it is, simply because it'll be ours 20 years from now, with luck.

This business of having a mortgage over your head is a serious matter, but they tell me that after you've been in debt for a while the weight on your shoulders gets lighter and lighter, until it eventually doesn't bother you. In fact, some people get so accustomed to being in debt that they seem to like it. It gets to be a hobby, and soon they decide not to pay any debts. There's no doubt that the best credit risk is the man who worries.

And I thank you.

POWELL BILL—Only the formality of affixing signatures by presiding officers of the senate and house stands between the Powell bill and the Powell law. Having passed the house by a roll call vote of 66 to 45 Monday night, the amendments were given swift concurrence by unanimous vote in the senate Tuesday morning and the highly controversial street-aid bill to all practical purposes became the law of the state. Briefly summarized the act provides that the state highway commission shall maintain all portions of state highways within corporate limits of towns and cities, and in addition shall pay to municipalities for other road work the proceeds of one half cent a gallon gasoline tax, estimated to be from four and a half to five million dollars a year, distributed on a formula of population and street mileage; to effectuate use of the money municipalities may do the work by force account, under contract with the State Highway and Public Works Commission or with a private contractor. This act supersedes existing provisions for expenditure of two and a half million dollars a year on streets forming links in the state primary highway system.

FINIS—Thus ends, so far as this general assembly is concerned, one of the bitterest legislative battles in many years. Governor Scott threw the whole force of his administration, particularly the highway commission into the battle against the bill. To that extent its final passage can be construed as a defeat of the administration. But the passage of a bill over administration protest can hardly be regarded as serious a slap at the governor as would have been defeat of a bill which he sponsored. While several other proposals were made for street aid accompanied by additional tax levies, the administration at no time manifested positive interest in any measure to relieve the distress of municipalities.

CONTINUING—End of the debate for this session does not mean the state has heard the last of the Powell bill. Governor Scott clearly indicated at his press conference, a few minutes before final senate action, that he expects the issue to occasion political controversy for a long time.

PUNITIVE—Questions at the press conference elicited statements from Governor Scott that assembly action on the Powell bill, as well as general disinclination to levy new taxes, seemed to be mainly "an effort not to let this administration do anything more." He intimated that expressed opinions of finance and appropriations committee leaders that increased revenue under existing tax schedules would meet state needs were not quite sincere, and that failure to levy additional taxes might well necessitate a cut across the board in appropriations or a special session of the general assembly. In either event he said "they" would try to put the responsibility on him, and it looked like a political move to embarrass him. A radio man who has been classed by the governor as unfriendly to his administration asked if general assembly attitude was not more justly unwelcome to levy new taxes than personal animosity to the governor. The governor was saved from answering by intervention of a News & Observer reporter, accepted as friendly to the administration, who injected the comment "the man who said that is one who distributed the S.O.S. cards." Reference was to circulation a couple weeks ago of membership cards in the S.O.S. (Sick of Scott) club. The cards occasioned a good many laughs, and Governor Scott took cognizance of the idea in a humorous reference at a previous press conference.

OVER-EMPHASIZED—Many close observers of activities around the capitol think the conflict between the executive and legislative branches has been over-emphasized. The governor has constitutional obligation to make recommendations to the general assembly. The assembly has constitutional obligation to listen, but must decide on its own responsibility whether or not to follow the suggestions of the governor. During the present session each branch of government has apparently tried with full sincerity to discharge its own responsibility. There would seem to be no reason for recriminations or resentment on the part of either.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

KEEPING COMPETITION (New Bern Sun-Journal)

The scare buying which was so much in the headlines some months ago has vanished almost completely. And the fact is, that it made no sense in the first place. This country has not encountered shortages of anything essential. Consumer goods output, despite the demands so far made by the defense program, is running well ahead of last year. Even at the peak which is now planned for the armament effort military needs will take less than 20 per cent of our total production.

This is a tribute to the strength and stature of American enterprise in every line of endeavor. Our production potential is now greater than it ever was. Our factories can spin forth goods of all kinds in an almost limitless stream.

And production does not tell the whole story. The consumer does not go to a factory or a farm to buy what he needs, save in rare cases. Someone must provide a bridge between the producer and the user. That bridge is retailing. It has grown just as productive enterprise has grown. It has improved, just as productive industry has improved. It serves us better than ever.

There is one fact we must not forget. It is simply this: the high efficiency of our factories and our stores is the result of competition. If one producer charges more for a similar product than another producer he immediately risks loss of orders. If one retailer arbitrarily charges more for an item than the retailer down the street, he will lose customers. There is a grave danger that we will have so much government control that this competitive factor will be undermined. That would be economic tragedy for America.

The mentality of the young draft-age men of Herford County

Business Today

Among the groups most unhappy about present price controls are furniture retailers. They aren't opposed to price controls or margin freezes in general; but if you want to see a furniture retailer foam at the mouth, mention Rule 4 to him.

This is rule 4 of Section 35 of Celling Price Regulation 7. It provides that if the retailer's cost of an item is different from any shown on the pricing list that must be filed with the Office of Price Stabilization, the retailer must use the mark-up on the next lowest cost price or the average mark-up for the line, whichever is lower.

This rule sounds fair enough on the surface, but it is especially painful to furniture dealers. For one thing, the goods they buy are constantly changing to meet altered tastes and styles, hence they expect a large number of items which won't be on present pricing lists. For another, margins vary greatly in the furniture trade.

At best, members of the industry say, the rule will tend to make all margins identical with average margins, and this will tend to wipe out profits on slow-moving and high-priced items. At worst, it will tend to reduce margins to the lowest margin in each line.

Take the case of a dealer who has been selling a low-priced end table at a very low mark-up to attract customers into his store. When he adds new end tables—and styles and patterns are constantly changing—he must apply the average mark-up or the mark-up of the next lower-cost end table. His traffic-building table will have lowered his average, and if that table should be the next lowest in cost, his new item will have to carry the same percentage mark-up.

The National Retail Furniture Association, the American Retail Federation, and other groups are bombarding Price Administrator Michael V. Disalle with protests. Leo J. Heer, vice president of the first organization, has protested that Rule 4 alone will depress margins in most stores as much as the typical store's annual net profit.

FUR SALES LEAD

APPAREL GAINS

Retail fur sales, which have had their ups and downs, had a wonderful up in January, according to Commerce Department figures. Independent fur stores' sales were 69 per cent higher than a year earlier, the largest gain in the apparel group. Shoe stores registered a 32 per cent gain; custom tailors, 29 per cent; family clothing stores, 27 per cent; men's and boys' clothing and furnishing stores, 26 per cent; women's ready-to-wear stores, 24 per cent; and women's accessory stores, 17 per cent.

GETS 'EXTRAS' FIRST

ON NEW CHARACTER

This is a success story with a reverse twist. A lot of people are busy creating characters for television, hoping to get a little cream in their coffee later by licensing commercial rights to their characters.

Charles Abdo, an operatic tenor and former navy signalman, did it the other way around. He devised a character called "Poor Charlie" with television in mind. He hasn't got Charlie on TV yet, although he has a deal cooking, but his company, Poor Charlie, Inc., 166 W. 75th St., New York, has sold mask, puppet, marionette, lamp and doll rights and has offers for more licenses.

Poor Charlie is modeled after Mr. Abdo, which gives him a peculiar feeling of disembodiment, whenever he sees a Poor Charlie puppet.

HELPING G'S ADDS

TO SALES INTEREST

Two new promotions have a GI angle. A television manufacturer, Crosley, is offering to send a table radio to any wounded veteran, his family or hospital designated by the purchaser of a new TV set. A food company, S. S. Pierce, offers to send a basket of delicacies to any soldier overseas designated by salesmen making a specified number of sales.

Hal Boyle's Column

By ARTHUR EDSON

(For HAL BOYLE)

Washington, March 14—(AP)—The Senator sits there, peering over the glasses resting on the tip of his nose. His black string tie is slightly askew, his hand fondles a gavel.

Senator Tom Connally (R-Tex.), the man with the sharpest tongue on Capitol Hill, is holding court.

As chairman of the Senate Connally has the big job of getting the Senate to go along with the Administration's foreign policies.

He presided over the joint hearing held by his committee and the Senate Armed Services committee to listen to testimony on what course this country should follow in sending troops abroad.

This was the great hearing which followed and accompanied The Great Debate.

From it the Senate got plenty of big league advice, from both the Pro and the Con leagues.

It heard the nation's only living ex-President, Herbert Hoover.

It heard from the man who twice tried to win the presidency, Thomas E. Dewey.

It heard military big shots, like Generals Dwight Eisenhower and Omar Bradley.

And it heard Senator Taft (R-Ohio), college president Harold Stassen and assorted political leaders.

If the 73-year-old Connally was impressed at this array of talent, he certainly didn't show it.

The news stories on these hearings dealt mostly with the testimony of the eminent witnesses, but the tall Texan with the querulous voice managed to leave his mark every time.

One thing about Tom Connally: his barbed tongue is impartial. For instance, he was hard on photographers, a group difficult to be hard with.

When Dewey was testifying, Connally snapped: "Get through with your photography. I don't want you sticking your machines in the face of the Governor. Get your pictures and get out."

Sometimes it was difficult to tell at whom he was hitting.

When Hoover finished his testimony, spectators applauded.

After the cheering died, Connally asked, "anybody else want to cheer?"

More applause.

So Connally said: "Since this is a meeting devoted to noise, I thought it was just as well to let you blow off if you wanted to."

But mostly Connally is hard on fellow senators.

He commented to Gen. J. Lawton Collins, "I suppose you have nuts in the Army just as we do in the Senate."

"Would you care to specify?" Senator Lodge (R-Mass) asked. Connally didn't. But he said he'd withdraw the naughty word if anyone was offended. Put that way, only a self-admitted nut could come forward. None did.

Connally once called General Bradley "Dewey Bradley." He covered this error by remarking he wished Bradley was a senator.

"I'd be glad to place him in the place of some of those we have here," he said. But this was "only a pleasantry," he said. "I'm fond of all the senators—some of them when they are present and some when they are absent."

Wherry complained that Connally was trying to intimidate him and cut him off.

"I'm not trying to suppress anything," Connally snorted, "but bombast and gasconade."

"Gasconade," says the dictionary, "is a boast or boasting."

My favorite Connally crack was made some years ago. He tossed it at Senator Bridges (R-NH), but I like it because it occasionally can be used on any senator, or on any one of us.

Connally said to Bridges: "If the Senator from New Hampshire would approach these matters with an open mind instead of an open mouth..."

Senator's laughter drowned the rest of the sentence. The record doesn't show whether Senator Bridges joined in.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington—Mme. Henri Connet, wife of the French Ambassador, has a torchy red satin evening gown which I covet and will never forget.

But the Greek-born diplomat's wife, one of the dressed women in town, says the best way to be chic at budget prices is to be conservative and wear black.

Sleek, dark-haired, tiny-waisted Mme. Bonnet herself really seldom wears anything but black for daytime. She also dresses conservatively—in the simplest but elegant and perfectly fashioned French imports, mostly the creations of the famed designer Dior.

This is not to imply Mme. Bonnet doesn't know about budgets. She learned the hard way. She really had to scrimp during World War II, when she and her husband had to flee from Nazi-occupied France. For a while she got along designing and selling hats in New York.

Speaking of hats, in addressing a home economics sorority at George Washington University here, Mme. Bonnet said they should be simple. "You will get tired of crazy little numbers," she told her admiring young listeners. "Buy one silly one and stick it out of your system, then get to conservative ones."

Mme. Bonnet herself was wearing a conservative number. It was black and closefitting with a swish of fine black velvet just touching her eyebrows. Her tailored black dress snugly fitted her shoulders. The sleeves were long and straight. The rolled V-neck was high, and her narrow belt was of black calf. She wore a corsage of three trimly-arranged white carnations and a single strand of pearls.

When she got around to telling the girls what to do about shoes, she slipped off her own black leather pump and said: "See, that I have worn four years. Always buy plain, not fancy shoes. And they should be expensive. It is worth it."

Bright colors, she said, one gets tired of, and people will say, "Here comes that green dress again. They'll never say, 'Here comes that black dress again.'"

Here are other tips she gave: Take good care of your wardrobe. Keep things neat and spotless. Buy only what you need and resist "shopping for shopping's sake." Use imagination when selecting your accessories. Keep slim even if you have to sacrifice to do so. Never overdress. Never buy clothes that don't fit or "you'll always be tugging and pulling at yourself." Don't follow fashion blindly but wear what suits you best.

Colored Civic League Has Meeting; Reports Given

The approval of a budget for the new fiscal year and reports from the membership and recreation committees last night highlighted the meeting of the Colored Civic League.

The meeting was presided over by President D. D. Garrett.

After the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, Chairman C. C. McGlone made the report of the finance committee and requested the budget proposed by the committee be adopted. The proposed budget was adopted.

Recreation for children and adults was discussed by George Garrett, chairman of the League recreation committee, and J. H. Donaldson, member of the city recreation commission. Garrett pointed out that a recreation program is needed for both the youngsters and adults of the city, but the need for a program for children is more acute than the need of an adult program.

Donaldson reviewed the work which has been done by the recreation commission since it was reformed early this year, and outlined the program which the commission tentatively has planned for the city.

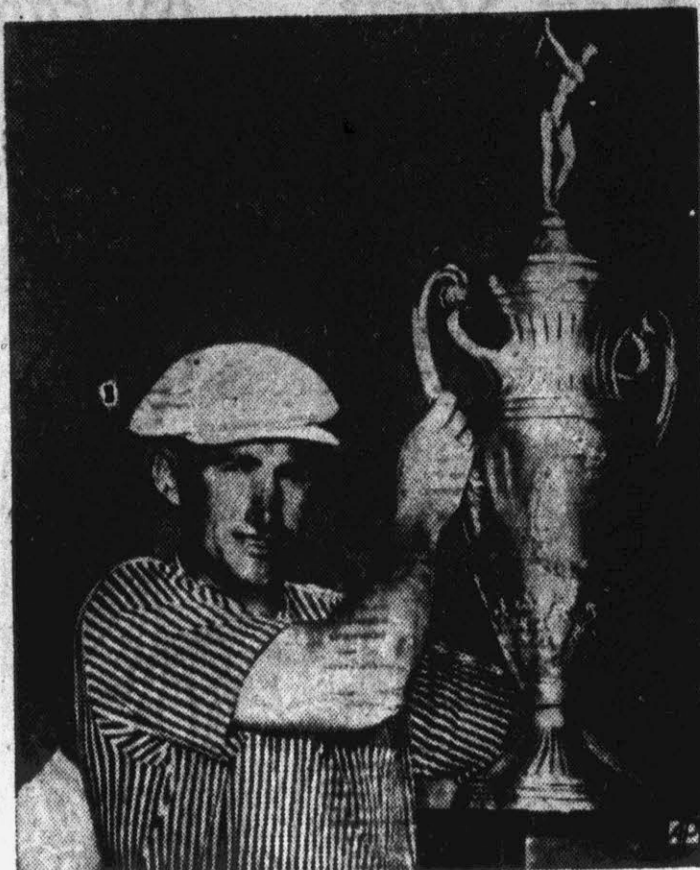

Chairman of the membership committee, Mrs. J. H. Donaldson, reported a number of new members have been taken into the League, and the membership drive of the organization is continuing. The goal for this year is 500 members. The chairman said a deadline of memberships is expected to be set, and she urged those people who desire membership in the league and have not yet joined for 1951 to do so immediately. Robert Bellamy was added to the membership committee.

President Garrett acknowledged the fact that Dr. C. R. Stovall and C. A. Simmons will be away from Greenville for an indefinite length of time, and stated that appointments will be made to fill their vacancies on the public welfare and economic committee. The committee at the present time is seeking clothes for needy families, and people who have clothes to donate to the cause were requested to contact Mrs. Annie Streeter at 205 W. 14th St., or at telephone 4384.

The program committee announced the speaker for the next meeting of the League will be Principal W. H. Davenport of the C. M. Eppes school.

India Pledges Clamp On Reds

New Delhi—(AP)—India's Government has announced there will be no change in its "get tough" policy against Communists who preach a seizure of power through violence.

With the death of Vice-Premier and Home Minister Sardar Patel, who fought the Communists tooth and nail, fears developed that without his leadership the Indian government might relax his program.

But his successor, aging C. Rajagopalachari, appealed before parliament for "fresh defensive tactics" against the Communists and said that "those who work in secrecy and indulge in violence have no place in our political organization."

Chute Is Defying 'Law Of Gravity'

Asheville, N. C., March 14—(AP)—When they started it, they thought it would be a quick, easy job—but today Southern Railway workers are beginning to wonder.

Still defying the law of gravity is the railroad's long-abandoned, four-story concrete coal chute in the Asheville yards.

As part of a modernization program, the railroad decided to raze the big structure. On Monday, explosives were placed under it and set off. But instead of acting according to plan and toppling over, the chute just lifted itself up into the air a few feet—and settled back to earth, still upright.

Yesterday, workmen swung a two and a half ton weight attached to a crane against the building. Their efforts were noted for only one thing—a lack of success.

Today, the workmen have set a new goal: destruction of the chute by any means possible, by week's end.

Less Happiness In Today's World

Humboldt, Tenn.—(AP)—Mrs. Nancy Catherine Shumate, who has seen a lot of people in her 105 years, says folks are not as happy now as they used to be.

"People have changed so much they're mighty near like butterflies now," she says. "People are so proud they can't go to church unless they're in silk. And pride has taken the religion out of them."

The slim, little lady of 90 pounds has reared nine children and has outlived all but three of them. Right now she lives with the "baby" of her flock, 52-year-old Mrs. L. E. Moseley. It's a long day Mrs. Shumate puts in. Up at anywhere from 6 to 9 a.m., she spends the entire day doing something—cooking, feeding the chickens, marketing, and once in a while a shopping trip to Jackson, Tenn. Her favorite evening pastime is watching television and the part she likes most is when the big bruisers get in the wrestling ring down at Memphis.

Raleigh, N. C., March 14—(AP)—A 24-year-old prisoner who lived at the home of a former deputy sheriff during several months as a fugitive, was back behind bars today after surrendering to parole officials.

Watson, who had married since his escape from a Chatham County prison camp more than a year ago, said his wife had talked him into surrendering.

The prisoner told Johnson that for nine months he lived at the home of former Brunswick County Deputy Sheriff Martin Herring.

Seton Hall Upsets Wolfpack, 71-59, And Dayton Trims Arizona By 74-68

'Off Night' For Horvath; Ranzino Shows Only Glimpses Of All-America Quality; Dark Horses Threaten Tourney

New York, March 14—(AP)—Two unseeded but undaunted dark horses—Dayton and Seton Hall—ranked today as definite threats to gallop into the final round of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

In a pair of smashing quarter-final upsets, Dayton trimmed fourth-seeded Arizona, 74-68, last night and Seton Hall blasted second-seeded North Carolina State, 71-59, before 9,630 surprised fans at Madison Square Garden.

Tomorrow night Dayton and Seton Hall will go against the other seeded teams—St. John's, No. 1, and Brigham Young, No. 3.

A six-foot-seven bundle of scoring and rebounding dynamite—Don Meineke—was the big difference for the Dayton Flyers.

Meineke was a near-perfect player last night. He poured in 37 points and had magnetic hands under both backboards. The wiry junior flipped in 11 field goals and 15 fouls, the latter an NIT record.

Dayton sped to a 39-29 halftime lead even though Meineke went seven and a half minutes before connecting with a field goal. Twice during the second half Arizona cut the margin to five points, but Dayton refused to crack.

Robert Johnson, with 19 points sparked Arizona's attack. But he, Jerry Dillon and Leo Johnson fouled out, crushing any hopes Arizona had of coming back.

In the second game, Seton Hall completely smothered the nation's major top-scoring team.

After a slow start, Seton Hall came on like a spreading brush fire. Walt Dukes, a six-foot-two speedster was the big gun behind Seton Hall's attack.

The lanky Negro star, checked with one field goal in the first half, got hot in the second half and wound up with 19 points.

Roy Belliveau, a sub, helped Dukes off the backboard besides handling the playmaking chores. He got 11 points.

N. C. State's Sam Ranzino had a tough night although at times he flashed the brilliance that made him an All-America this year. The Gary, Ind., export scored 11 points in the first half but trailed off to five in the second half.

The first half was strictly racehorse, with the teams bounding up and down the court. At intermission, it was 37-37.

That was the last time N. C. State was in the game. Seton Hall rang up seven straight points in the first 90 seconds of the second half, and State, the Southern Conference champion, never came close.

Like Arizona, North Carolina State was hurt by fouls. The Wolfpack lost center Paul Horvath with a little more than 10 minutes left. This was the signal for Dukes to unleash his hook shots, of which three swished through.

After the game, Everett Case, N. C. State coach, said "Horvath played the worst game of his career. That Dukes, though, he was terrific. Now I've got to go home and get a brand new team ready for the NCAA."

State's three big stars—Ranzino, Horvath and Vic Bubas—are ineligible because of the NCAA three-year varsity rule. They played on the varsity as freshmen.

Belvoir Loses

Vanceboro, March 14—Beaufort's girls wallpiped Belvoir last night in the semifinal round of the invitational girls tournament played here and will meet Vanceboro tonight in the finals. Score was Beaufort 66, Belvoir 46.

In the nightcap Vanceboro beat Pink Hill 56-54 and earned the right to play in the finals. Pink Hill will play the consolation game against Belvoir.

Leading the Pitt County team was Claudia Pollard with 18 points and Nadine Morris with 12. Fumelle Tripp and Margie Pollard led the defensive guards.

Bethel's Indians Split Twin Bill With Jamesville

Williamston, March 14—Bethel's boys and girls teams split a double-header with Jamesville here last night, the boys taking their second win over the Jamesville five by a score of 39-35, and the girls bowing 28-22.

The games were the last to be played in the Williamston gym this season.

Bobby Manning led the visitors, who were fresh from last Friday night's championship in Pitt County play, collecting 19 points while Keel and White followed with nine apiece. For Jamesville Modlin contributed 11 points for high scorers while Styons tallied eight.

Defensive stars for the victors were Johnson and White and for Jamesville were Beard and Waters. Jamesville girls led throughout the contest to finish with the six-point edge. Moezel with 13 points led Jamesville's scoring while Gardner scored 12. Leading the Bethel girls was Carrie Ayres with 11. Defensively for both teams, the standouts were B. Gardner and Daley for Jamesville and Geraldine White and Angelin Hammon for Bethel.

Score by quarters:
Bethel (Boys) 10 7 11 11—39
Jamesville 6 5 9 15—35
Bethel (Girls) 12 7 4 5—28
Bethel 6 2 6 8—22

Mangrum Grabs 3-Stroke Lead In Seminole Event

Palm Beach, Fla., March 14—(AP)—A tough golf course, tricky winds and occasional showers were all in a day's work for Lloyd Mangrum as he grabbed a three-stroke lead yesterday in the Seminole Golf Tournament.

"It all depends on whether you hit the ball well," said the slender, confident Chicagoan after his second-round 67 which gave him a total of 136. "If you hit the ball well, the wind helps you."

Mangrum's performance put him two strokes up on Ben Hogan, the bantam belter who has returned to the tournament trail after a six-week layoff, and Pete Cooper of Ponte Vedra, Fla. Appearing for the first time since the Phoenix Open, Hogan shot 68 to go with the 70 he registered during the wind and rain of the tournament's opening day.

League leading Evereadys dropped two games to the third place Cats and the Penlites lost two to the Lives.

Although Bill Wells posted the night's highest three game score and led the other four Evereadys, the Cats' score of 1,898 was 158 pins better than the Cats'. Leading the winners was B. Hester with 429 on games of 101, 203 and 125. The 203 score was high for the night. Two other Cats broke the 400 mark—Ken Whiteley with 402, and Fred Brooks with 415.

High scorer for the Lives was Bill Bryan with 442 for the set on games of 165, 113 and 164. Two players for the Penlites were absent, which may have accounted for the loss. Their average of last week was brought forward. Score of the games was 1,895 to 1,720.

Chicago Loses Homesick Luis

Burbank, Calif., March 14—(AP)—Lonesome Lu has gone home, depriving the Chicago White Sox of a fine infield prospect.

Luis Garcia succumbed to homesickness yesterday and left by plane for Caracas, Venezuela. The 21-year-old rookie, who had been assigned to the Sox farm at Colorado Springs, Colo., had made a good impression on manager Paul Richards.

Garcia promised to return the $10,000 bonus he received for signing.

High School's Athletic Program To Branch Out

Farley Plans To Add Tennis And Golf Teams And Give Track Team Bigger Boost Than It Has Recently Had

This spring the high school athletic program will branch out to include two new sports and more emphasis will be given a third.

Athletic Director Bo Farley stated yesterday he plans to add tennis and golf teams to the program of events as well as giving the track team a bigger boost than it has had in the past few years.

All three sports will get underway this week or next, provided the weather makes a turn for the better, Farley said. The addition of golf and tennis marks the first time such teams have worn the Greenville colors since before the war. Neither was resumed after the war because of lack of interest and also lack of adequate facilities to practice.

Track, which has been on the curriculum since the war, will get a stronger push this season, now that Farley has a little more time to devote to it. Since the Northeastern Conference officials voted out competitive baseball among the seven teams for this season, the athletic director will not have to devote all his time toward rooming his boys for games. However, baseball will be played.

Tennis and golf will re-enter the program on a necessarily small scale. Farley states he will depend on outside help to assist him in coaching the teams and he thinks he can schedule matches in both sports with other high schools in the surrounding area. As yet, though, he doesn't know what prospects will greet him when he calls the first practice in the sports.

The main stumbling block in getting the three sports rolling is lack of conference competition or competition outside the conference. As it concerns track there is no other school in the Northeastern that carries the sport on its spring program, leaving the Duke invitational meet and the State high school meet at Chapel Hill the only two meets in which the team can compete.

Formerly Goldsboro, Rocky Mount and Greenville formed a track triumvirate in eastern North Carolina and walked off with many honors before the war in meets with statewide competition. But the other two towns dropped the sport because of no competition in this vicinity of the state.

The processing could take quite some time. Only by a stroke of luck in these days of aging title aspirants are Fusari and Bratton young enough to remain unwithered by the time lapse. Fusari is 25 and Bratton 23.

Black Cats And Nine Lives Win In Carbon League

On the theory that it is better to join 'em if you can't beat 'em, the Boston Red Sox never gave up trying to buy pitcher Ray Scarborough. He beat the Boston American League entry in many key games. You may recall the torrid battle which the Red Sox and the Yankees waged in bidding to purchase Scarborough from Washington last spring. Owner Clark Griffith stubbornly refused to sell Ray to either of these teams which were strong pennant contenders. Eventually, in May, the Senators sent him to the Chicago White Sox.

The Red Sox couldn't forget that it was Scarborough who whipped them in the final week of the 1948 and 1949 seasons to knock them out of pennant contention. Boston went high to get Scarborough from Chicago. They had to because the Yankees were bidding, too. The Chicago-Boston deal involved some $500,000 in player talent.

Scarborough is thirty-two. He pitched 33 games last season and wound up with a 13-18 record. With the big Boston guns booming behind him, Scarborough could very well mean another and long sought pennant for the Red Sox. Certainly, it will force the Yankees, Tigers and Indians to strengthen their forces if they hope to head off the Boston team this time.

Panther Quint Eliminated In Opening Round

Kansas City, March 14—(AP)—The High Point Panthers are out from under pressure in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament. The North Carolina team was dumped by East Texas Baptist, 67-64, in a first round game last night.

The Panthers rallied after trailing 40-34 at halftime and with less than three minutes to play took a 62-61 lead. But the Baptists came back with two quick field goals and added another in the final minute for the clincher. Ed Sueta and Bob Draper led High Point with 15 and 13 points. High Point won a berth in the tournament after winning the district tournament for small colleges in the Carolinas.

Gussie To Miss Remaining Games

Birmingham, March 14—(AP)—Bobby Riggs says his touring tennis troupe will complete its cross-country tour without highly publicized Gertrude (Gorgeous Gussie) Moran.

Riggs said last night she won't rejoin the troupe for its final five or six scheduled dates. She returned to the west coast because of illness.

Jack Kramer extended his margin to 61-28 over Pancho Segura in last night's feature singles match here. He won, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Look what the Smart Money's buying

Now that the 1951 offerings of the motorcar industry have had a chance to strut their stuff, we ask you—can there be any doubt which is the really smart buy? If you want a "new look"—Buick has it. That sturdy push-bar forefront says "1951" to all who see it—and provides unsurpassed front-end protection to boot. If you want power that you can live with through many moons to come—Buick has that too. Years of expert engineering have made Buick's thrill-packed Fireball engine just about as dependable as a power plant can be. If you want features that combine present pleasure with long-time durability, consider this: Buick's level-going ride stems from coil springs on all four wheels which are virtually break-proof and never need servicing. Buick's Dynaflo Drive* takes the strain out of every mile of driving—and pays off by eliminating any need for friction clutch repairs and replacements, by reducing engine and transmission upkeep, and lengthening life of tires. If you want room and comfort and handling that make any trip a breeze—there's no simpler way to find them than to take over a '51 Buick SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—relax and enjoy yourself. And if you want all this at a minimum outlay of dollars—one look at Buick prices will settle this point. So the smartest thing you can do is get in touch with your Buick dealer. How about doing that right now? *Standard on ROADMASTER, optional on extra cost on other Series.

NO OTHER CAR PROVIDES ALL THIS:
DYNAFLOW DRIVE—saves strain on driver and car
FIREBALL POWER—high-compression, valve-in-head engine gets more good from every drop of fuel
PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT—combines smart style and unsurpassed protection
WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS—greater clarity at night
TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE—steadies ride, improves driving control
4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING—cushions ride, saves servicing costs
DUAL VENTILATION—outside air fed separately to right or left of front compartment
SELF-ENERGIZING BRAKES—hydraulic—multiply pedal-pressure five times at brake drum
DREAMLINE STYLING—tapered, car-length fenders, gleaming sweepers on most models
Plus: Self-locking luggage lid, StepOn parking brake, two-way ignition lock, Safety-Ride rims, Hi-Poised engine mounting, Body by Fisher
When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them.

A FIEND IN NEED

By MILTON K. OZAKI

Chapter 30
Elaine Ruhl gasped. Caldwell nodded.

"Yes, it was as simple as that. We must remember that Faraday was not one who believed in the fundamental good of society and the right of law and order. He was an embittered man, one who had been frustrated in the main desire of his life, who had had to fight a particularly unsympathetic and unintelligent society for the right to live and read and dream. After all, hadn't his creative and scholastic desires been vanquished, and hadn't he been forced into his way of life? He thought so. Knowing the way he reasoned, his decision to fight, to kill the man who threatened his success and comfort, becomes understandable." Caldwell paused. "So Faraday killed Lawrence Straw."

"He was in Michigan when Straw was killed!" Phelan muttered.

"Then as a further protective measure against society," Caldwell went on ignoring Phelan's comment, "he also killed John Niles Thomson, who was a bookloving, scholarly man, of peaceful and temperate disposition. I doubt that Thomson was even well-acquainted with Faraday, although he had been associated with the Anchor Book Store in an honorary manner. Why Kill Professor Thomson, then?"

Caldwell shook his head. "Frankly, I don't know," he admitted. "I try to tell myself that the great friendship which existed between Professor Thomson and myself was not a factor in his death, but I suspect that Faraday feared that Thomson might mention, during the course of one of our informal talks, a bit of information which he accidentally had discovered. Rather than gamble on Thomson's silence, he killed him."

Caldwell's emotion was felt in every word he spoke, and he had to stop and press his lips tightly together for a moment before continuing.

"It is neither my right nor my purpose to judge a fellow man, for, as a trained psychologist, my task is one of interpretation. But, much as I'm revolted by the unscrupulous and coldly reasoned murders committed by this man, I can't help thinking that, had he been given the right opportunities by a more understanding society, he might have become a useful and brilliant part of the literary world."

"How could he kill Straw when he was in Michigan?" Phelan asked in a louder voice.

"Ah, yes," Caldwell looked at Phelan and nodded. "His alibi was that he boarded a lake steamship in the morning and crossed to St. Joe, Michigan, not returning until too late to have murdered Straw."

"That's right," Phelan averred. "I checked—and he was on that boat. He positively went to St. Joe, and he couldn't have come back except by the same boat, which didn't return until eleven o'clock that night. He couldn't have made it in time by train—and he didn't come by plane. Nobody resembling Faraday was on a return flight to Chicago that day."

"I invited Mr. Trask purser of that ship, to join us this evening. Suppose we hear what he has to say," Caldwell suggested. "Mr. Trask, do you remember John Faraday?"

"Yes, I do," Trask answered.

"Would you mind describing him to us?"

"Nossir," The purser coughed. "I mean, I don't mind, sir. This Faraday came on board about nine o'clock and I remember him as clearly as I do my own father. Sort of reminded me of the old man, he did. Old, you know, and bent over as though he wasn't very strong. I wasn't busy when he came aboard, and I personally checked him on and helped him with his hat and parcel. He was carrying his hat in his hand, and he had a package—a box under his arm."

"Do you usually notice so many details about your passengers?" Caldwell asked.

"Nossir. But this Faraday was unusual, and, not being busy, I had plenty of time to notice him."

"I see. I suppose it was his age which particularly impressed you?"

"At first, yes," Mr. Trask admitted with a show of confidence, "but there were some little reasons, too. I noticed his carrying the hat see because his head was as bald as a bronze binnacle. You'd think a guy without any hair would keep his head covered, but this guy Faraday was carrying his hat in his hand, like it was summer and he was too warm."

"Yes?"

"Another thing, he had a cabin ticket, which most old people do not buy for a trip across the lake. It ain't a long trip and there's plenty of places for them to sit and rest without wasting money on a cabin, you know. It's the young couples who usually want privacy." He hesitated and his ears reddened still more. "I ain't saying what the young ones have in mind, 'cause that ain't any of my business, but I am saying that old fellows like this John Faraday do not usually buy that kind of ticket—and that's how I happened to notice him particularly."

"Excellent," Caldwell said. "There's no doubt in your mind then that he boarded your ship on the morning of Thursday, October 12th?"

"Nossir."

"Your post is at the gateway where people must come aboard?"

"Yessir."

"How long did you remain there?"

"Until we cast off."

"And he didn't leave the ship before it sailed?"

"Positively not, sir. Like I told the police, he couldn't have gotten off without me noticing."

"Then, if for any reason he wished to return to shore before sailing time, he'd have had to pass you and go down the gangway?"

"That's right." Trask nodded vigorously.

"Do people ever return to shore after once boarding the ship?"

"Certainly, sir. Dozens of them do, every trip. They like to get their bags and luggage aboard early, then stand on dock with their friends until just before the ship leaves. We take their tickets when they come on board with their luggage; then, if they want to go ashore again we give them a special ticket which they have to give me when they get back on." He shook his head with certainty. "This Faraday didn't leave after he got on, no matter how you figure."

"I think he did," Caldwell contradicted. "I think he left the ship before it sailed, and never made that particular trip to Michigan."

Caldwell held up his hand. "Let me explain. Faraday didn't leave the ship, but he didn't make the trip to St. Joe either." With a movement so unexpected and swift that I didn't realize what was happening, Caldwell leaned over his desk, sank his fingers into Richard Starr Flecker's mane of white hair, and jerked the entire head of hair from his head.

Flecker, too surprised to prevent Caldwell's action, shouted, and grabbed—but too late. Caldwell held up the white wig triumphantly, and pointed to the shining bald plate which it had covered.

"Ladies, and gentlemen," he said gravely, "may I present Mr. John Faraday, alias Mr. Richard Starr Flecker?"

Hospital Charity Patients Require Longer Hospitalization, They Find

By BLOYS BRITT
Raleigh, N. C., March 14—(AP)—Maybe it should be the other way around, but patients who don't pay for their bills stay in hospitals longer than those who can.

It isn't that the fellow who can pay simply wants to save his dough. Nor is it that the charity patient is taking advantage of a free ride.

It simply takes longer to treat the average charity patient, says the North Carolina Hospital Association.

Certified hospitals in the state treated 20,062 relief patients for a total of 241,663 hospital days during the 1948-50 fiscal year. Their average stay was 12 days.

By comparison, these same hospitals recorded 2,905,000 hospital days for paying patients during 1949, including maternity cases, and the average stay per patient was 6.6 days.

The Association gives this simple explanation for the difference: "The charity patient usually is an aggravated case. In most instances the patient hasn't had proper supervisory care during the development of his illness and hospitalization is a last resort.

Furthermore, there is little difference in the cost of medical service provided for the charity patient and a large percentage of the paying patients. Where there is a difference it usually means higher charges for such things as private rooms, special nurses, and luxuries—things the paying patient can dig down and pay for if he wants them.

As an example, the cost per day for charity patients was $14.94 at Grace Hospital, Morganton, in 1949. It was about the same at Alamance General in Burlington, Chowan at Edenton, Aston Park at Asheville and others large and small. It was $13.09 at Duke Hospital, Durham.

The lowest per diem per patient was at Susie Chatham Memorial, Oxford, a Negro hospital, which reported $4.25.

The over-all cost of providing last year's 241,663 hospital days for charity patients was $2,339,973.52. Of this about half was defrayed by the state through the State Medical Care Commission, the Duke Endowment and by counties and cities. The remainder had to be absorbed by hospitals.

This means, the Association says, that the paying patient is now not only paying his own bill but is helping to pay that of the charity patient.

In an effort to bridge this financial gap, the Association has asked the state to increase its aid to the hospitals by assuming 50 per cent of the total cost of handling charity patients.

Backing up its appeal, the Association says hospitals will be asked to give over 300,000 hospital days for each of the next two years for the treatment of charity patients. The average cost per day will be about $13, compared with $12.12 last year.

Of this cost, the Duke Endowment will pay $1 per day, the cities and towns another $6, leaving an estimated deficit for the hospitals of about $6.00 per day per patient, exclusive of the current $1 per day state aid.

This would mean the state would have to increase its overall contribution for charity patient care to about $1,800,000 a year, or about one-half the total cost.

Without this increased state aid, the Association says, many of the new hospitals built during the last three years are going to find themselves more deeply in the red than they now are.

And what about the doctor who treats the hospital charity patients? He gets no pay.

N. C. Merchants Ask Extension In Price Law Date

Raleigh, N. C., March 14—(AP)—The N. C. Merchants Association has appealed to the Office of Price Stabilization in Washington to extend 30 days beyond March 29 the deadline for retail merchants to file mandatory pricing charts.

Thompson Greenwood, executive secretary of the association, said yesterday that "at least 50 per cent" of the North Carolina stores affected by the price chart regulation will have to halt sales temporarily after March 29 unless an extension of time is obtained.

Under the ceiling price regulation, no affected store may sell any article covered by the regulation after March 29 unless the store has filed pricing charts with the OPS.

"Thousands of merchants in North Carolina covered by the regulation," Greenwood said, "have not even had an opportunity to read it and consequently have little, if any, knowledge of its provisions."

Greenwood said the combined staffs of the Raleigh and Charlotte OPS offices are "unable to cope with the demands made upon them by stores affected by the regulation."

Goes On Trial In Death Of Five In Auto Accident

Raleigh, N. C., March 14—(AP)—Trial of an 18-year-old Wake County youth on five charges of manslaughter was scheduled to go to a jury today.

Frank Denton is accused of the highway deaths of five companions who were killed when the car in which they were riding plunged from a highway embankment near here last Easter Sunday. Denton, sole survivor, allegedly was driving the car.

Killed were Eddie Gibson, 18, Joseph Harrell Franks, 18, Benjamin Franklin Lawrence, 20, Elbert Ed-William Lawrence, 16, and William Cooper Jr., 22, all of Wake County.

Food Shipments To N. C. Schools

Raleigh, N. C., March 14—(AP)—More than 7,300 cases of honey and 11 carloads of cheese have been donated to public school lunchrooms in the state by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This was announced yesterday by Jay P. Davis, State Marketing Specialist. The shipments are due to arrive in the state the last of this month.

Davis said honey is from government price support stocks, and the cheese is part of a special purchase made for schools operating under the national school lunch program.

Motorcycle Aids Preacher's Work

Pacific Beach, Calif.—(AP)—Rev. Frank Crane, 27, reminds members of his church of the old time county parsons who rode horseback to visit their far-flung parishioners. The difference is that Crane, a fifth-generation Methodist minister, uses a motorcycle.

He makes daily calls on his modern contraption and says the idea has made him especially popular with the younger set.

"At first I had a tough time getting one youth group to attend Sunday meetings," he says, "but when I started giving rides on the motorcycle to all who came, the attendance boomed."

Lost Faith In Their Watchdogs

Richmond, Ind.—(AP)—The faith of two Richmond families in their watchdogs has been shattered by burglars. Sam Graf told police he and his family returned home to find the house entered, $182 taken, and their "vicious" dog locked in the kitchen.

And Ed Bratton came home the same night to find his house ransacked and his watch dog which he had left inside—sitting outside, shivering on the front porch.

Willing To Sign Any Petitions

Grand Island, Nebr.—(AP)—Just to prove that some people will sign anything, the Grand Island Daily Independent circulated a petition in Grand Island ostensibly asking the city council for better recreational facilities. But buried in the text of the petition was a request "that I be hanged by the neck until dead."

Thirty-five persons signed the petition.

Visiting Germans Give U.S. Press Evaluation

AP Newsfeatures
Lubbock, Tex.—"American newspapers? I like the comic strips best, but I can't always get their point," Miss Christine Sauermann, one of nine German girls attending Texas Tech here, said in evaluating U. S. papers.

"Oh, that is no reflection against you," chimed in classmate Ise Mergier. "The Americans do not always get the point either," she said, relating how she asked a Texan to explain a funny page story to her.

"Point? Why, I didn't know they had any," she said the Texan answered.

The girls are majoring in home economics at Tech under the re-orientation program of the U. S. State Department. They have been here nearly a year.

In rating the American paper contents to their interest preference, the girls listed comics, advertisements, society and local news, in that order.

"Here in America you can sit right in your home and know what the stores have to offer, whereas at home we have to walk all over town to find what we might be hunting," said Annelie Sheffler.

"German newspapers do not go in for an abundance of advertising," American society write-ups fascinated Elsie Schneidawind.

"I had heard so many stories about the functional middle-age period peculiar to women—I hoped I'd escape such symptoms. But I didn't. I found myself terribly embarrassed by hot flushes—I suffered such restless nights, and I could sense myself getting irritable and cranky—due to this cause.

"My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. I can understand now why he called it 'the woman's friend.' Pinkham's Compound gives me amazing relief. I find if I take it regularly—don't miss a day—it helps build up resistance against such middle-age distress."

Woman Leads In Burning Buses
Kuala Lumpur, Malaya-(AP)-A big, fat Chinese woman who uses copious quantities of lipstick and makeup is credited here with being the leader of one of the Communist terrorist bands operating in Selangor state.

Bus drivers say her gang carries a small black book to check the numbers of identity cards taken from passengers when a bus is held up. The woman and her aides sometimes lecture bus passengers on Communist aims before they are ordered out and the bus is burned.

Twenty-seven buses have been held up and burnt by terrorists in Selangor state since last September.

The election officials for the above election as appointed on March 1, 1951, are as follows:

Precinct 1, County Courthouse: Mrs. M. T. Simpson, Registrar

Mr. J. L. Ross, Judge

Mr. J. R. Barker, Judge

Precinct 2, New City Hall: Mrs. Rosa Brown, Registrar

Mr. E. R. Conway Jr., Judge

Mr. Larry James, Judge

Five Defendants Go On Trial For Beating Pair

Conway, S. C., March 14—(AP)—The state tried today that five defendants were in the vicinity where a partly crippled farmer and his nephew were beaten last Jan. 17.

Trial of a sixth defendant was postponed upon his lawyer's motion. The lawyer said D. C. Guyton's defense would be weakened if he went to trial with the others. Guyton was called as state's witness. He testified he and J. C. Gore, 25, the nephew, were called by Jack Causey to work on Causey's car. While they were working on the car "some other men" drove off toward a school where the beatings took place. Causey, a mechanic, also is a defendant.

Bill Hardy, J. C. Gore's landlord, said he saw an auto in which four or five hooded men were seated the night of Jan. 17. He added that Harvey Johnson, another defendant, had previously been to Hardy's garage in the same car or one similar to it.

Lt. J. L. Dollard of the State Law Enforcement Division said Sam Gore, the 49-year old farmer, had been beaten "almost bloody, just like a raw piece of beef."

J. O. Denny, an agent of the division, said J. C. Gore was badly bruised from the waist down. The all-white jury was seated in about 25 minutes. The courtroom overflowed with approximately 500 persons. Judge J. M. Bralifford allowed no displays.

The Gores previously told officers the nightriders said they were beating them because the Gores allegedly had been neglecting their families.

Other defendants are Clyde Creel, identified by Sheriff C. E. Sasser as secretary of the county Klan; Dr. A. J. Gore, a dentist, and Almond Chestnut, a farmer.

A SIGHT FOR FISH EYES—Diver Frank McCallum drives a Jeep in 16 feet of water in oceanarium at Marineland, Fla., during successful test before Army observers. Willys-Overland engineers say Jeeps for armed forces operate under water due to complete waterproofing of engine and electrical system plus extensions which put air intake and exhaust above water.

Only Three Cases In County Court

Only three cases were listed on the County Court's docket yesterday, making it one of the lightest dockets to come before the court in many weeks.

Five men were fined $10 each for gambling, and prayer for judgment was continued in the case. The men were: Lester Whitaker, W. Z. Worsley, B. F. Rollins, J. O. Garris and Donald Morris Jr., of Bethel.

Ulric Jordan, Negro, plead guilty to charges of careless and reckless driving and hit-and-run, and was given a four-month sentence and fined $25 by County Judge Dink James.

Non-support: charged against Herbert Lawrence Little, was not tried since the defendant had not been found. He was believed to be living in Lenoir County and a capias had been issued for him but not served, it was stated.

Draft Findings Indicate Doctors 'Aging' Earlier

Pittsburgh—(AP)—A Pittsburgh physician declares selective service examinations for doctors have revealed that they age early. Many physicians, says Dr. George E. Spencer, appear older than the selective service age limit of 50 for medics.

Dr. Spencer advises the physicians to take frequent vacations. Even an "overnight" vacation from calls will be helpful, he suggests, although he recommends three-day vacations as most helpful.

The reason physicians age fast, Dr. Spencer says, is that they work too hard—right from the beginning when they enter college. Irregular hours after practice is started is another reason for early aging of doctors, Dr. Spencer adds.

Coastal Survey Work Described

CANINE ASSISTANT—Harvey E. Day, of Minneapolis, has a dual problem in shaving as his year-old English cocker spaniel, Frigger, indulges its liking for lather during shave.

Coastal Survey Work Described

The Naval Reserve Unit of this area met last night for their regular weekly meeting at East Carolina Teachers College.

Lt. Commander Jack Foley was in charge of the evening's program and gave the story of the Coast Survey of the United States which was first begun in 1807 when Thomas Jefferson made the first survey which had just been authorized by the Congress.

This resulted in what is now the Coast and Geodetic Survey and named such officially in 1816. The men making up the survey group are rated similar to those in the U. S. Navy, there being 2,500 staff members, 171 of which are officers.

The purpose of the Survey is to survey and chart the United States coastline, its possessions and territories for trading ships operating in the waters must have the greatest navigational safety.

"Included in the work of this department," Foley commented, "is the observation and charting of the tides, air waves, earthquakes and many other important items to safety of the seafaring men."

Some 900 different charts are in existence today solely through the efforts of the Survey department, Foley pointed out. The number of charts printed rose from one million in 1939 to 21 million in 1945 in way of showing the growth of the use of the materials.

During the last war, many war areas were surveyed by the organization even in enemy waters.

One of the many developments that has come out of this continuing research is the development of a special camera which at 14,000 feet takes a picture covering 125 square miles.

The world's greatest harbor, New York City, is surveyed four times yearly while more than one million miles of coastline are being surveyed regularly.

Friday Night Dance To Open New Youth Center

Plans are being completed for the opening of the new Greenville youth center at the armory here Friday night.

Mrs. C. B. West, Jr., the recreation commission member who is in charge of the activities of the youth center, said this morning the students of the high school are busy with their preparations for the dance which will mark the official opening of the center.

Mrs. West emphasized that the youth center which is opening this week-end will be exclusively for the use of the young people of Greenville and Pitt county. The dance Friday night will be for the children of the city, and the dance which is being planned for Saturday night will be for the children of both Greenville and the other parts of Pitt county.

The activities of the youth center will be well chaperoned, Mrs. West stated, and will be entirely under the auspices of the city recreation commission. "The students are making plans for quite a program for Friday night," Mrs. West said. The dance is slated to begin at 8 o'clock. Complete plans for the program are expected to be announced tomorrow.

Mrs. West stated that parents of all the children of Greenville are invited to be special guests of the youth center at the opening of the new center Friday night.

Manpower

Goodwin, knowing the manpower problems everywhere, would decide what steps he thought should be taken to solve these problems. He'd recommend what he thought should be done to the Tobin labor-management committee.

But the people in Wilson's office say Tobin could set policy only in so far as the work of his own Labor Department's activities in manpower were concerned but lacked any authority to determine manpower policies for the whole government and all the country. Why?

You'll have to go back for a moment. On Dec. 16 President Truman appointed Wilson as supreme boss of the whole defense program. This was a little more than three months after he had told Tobin to handle manpower.

In his Dec. 16 order, setting up Wilson's job, Mr. Truman told the latter he would control the whole defense effort, including manpower problems. This clearly

Sharp Diet In Sword Swallowing

Santa Ana, Calif.—(AP)—Bored? In search of a hobby? Try sword swallowing. Marine corporal Joseph Baumer recommends it.

Baumer, 22, stationed at the El Toro Marine Air Station, took up sword swallowing as a hobby while working as a roustabout in a New Jersey amusement park. Now he uses a dozen blades in his amateur act. They range from a 24-inch sword to a 12-inch saw which he makes disappear with the aid of a mallet.

His favorite stunt is swallowing two swords with a lighted cigarette between them.

Confident

The Asiatic strategy makes Red China the military goat of communism, while Russia still is able to remain in the background and protect her strength for possible eventualities in Europe.

See Increase In Smuggled Rubber

Singapore—(AP)—Rubber smugglers aren't doing so well. Singapore police seized about 400 piculs of rubber and arrested 25 men in a recent 10-day period. That's a $100,000 loss for the smugglers.

Efforts to get rubber out of Singapore illegally have increased with the sensational rise in rubber

Engineers 'Cool' Dam In Montana

Hungry Horse, Mont.—(AP)—Nature isn't doing the job, so engineers are running cold water through 900 miles of pipe to cool off the Hungry Horse Dam.

Actually, the weather doesn't have much to do with it. Engineers put the pipes in the concrete as it was being poured, knowing that it would take nature about 25 years to cool off the 3,000,000 cubic yards of concrete going into the dam.

The dam is about one-third complete. Engineers will fill cracks expected to appear next month. Concrete shrinks slightly after it's cooled.
