OPS Rules Discussion Is Set Here

Office Representative To Address Merchants At Public Meeting

A representative of the Office of Price Stabilization will be in Greenville for a meeting with local merchants sometime during the next ten days, it was announced last night at the meeting of the directors of the Greenville Merchants Association.

President Ernell Webb said the Office of Price Stabilization was contacted by the Merchants Association and requested to send a representative here to explain the OPS regulations at a public meeting.

Chairman Wesley Harvey of the membership committee of the organization reported to the directors two new members have joined the association and another member has been reinstated. He outlined to the directors the plans of the membership committee for securing new members for the association.

Dr. Ed Carter and the Association for Childhood Education of East Carolina Teachers College expressed their appreciation to the Merchants Association members for sponsoring the Duck Derby Day which was held recently. The money secured from the Duck Derby Day has been placed in a loan fund which has been set up to help students who are planning to teach in elementary schools.

J. H. Blount, director of the North Carolina Merchants Association, told the Greenville directors last night that legislative matters in the state are going along well, and that the state association is adhering to the "no new taxes" policy.

The association went on record last night as extending an invitation to the Shriners to meet in Greenville for the November District Ceremonial. The local Shriners will issue an invitation to the Shriners of the district to hold the meeting here.

H. L. Ormsby reported that the district Rotary convention will be held in Greenville on April 12 and 13, and the board authorized the secretary to have "welcome" window streamers available for business firms.

President Webb reminded the directors of the North Carolina Merchants Association convention to be held in Asheville on May 27, 28 and 29, and urged all the members to make plans to attend the meeting.

Complete Action On Rent Control

Washington, March 20—(AP)—Congress has sent to President Truman a bill extending federal rent control in some 1,300 communities for 90 days past March 31.

Action on the administration-backed measure was completed yesterday by a voice vote in the House. It is designed to serve as a stop-gap until Congress acts up on a new rent control law expected to be included in a revised economic mobilization measure.

Clouds Hang Over Iran

Troubles Of That Oil Rich Land Could Give Russia Fuel For World War III; No Way Now Of Calculating Import Of Recent Unrest, But Something Is Brewing

The next place to watch on the map is Iran. The troubles there could end in placing the Soviets many steps closer to World War III.

Russia needs oil. Iran has it. Russia has been both pressuring Iran, and holding out the olive branch of good trade.

For us the big questions is who gets Iran's oil. The scales weighing out Iran's precious golden fluid will be tipped either toward Russia or toward the West depending on how well the new premier, Hussein Ahsan, is able to prevent chaos in his country. But he is up against trouble from both the right and the left.

Here is why an upset in Iran right now is so important; Russia is turning out only an estimated 24,000,000 barrels of oil a year. The United States, alone, is turning out 2,311,000,000 barrels a year, and the western hemisphere, 3,075,000,000.

Modern armies eat oil for tanks, planes, tractors, for example, a tank eats a gallon of gas every two miles. On a trip to Europe a 3-35 takes a full tank-car of gas-

Utilities' REA Loan Terms Given Okay By Aldermen

By JOHN SPINKS, JR. The first of two steps toward getting Greenville Utilities' requested loan through REA channels was consummated this morning when the board of aldermen signed resolutions okaying the Commission's request.

The resolutions, which are the written contract between REA and the Commission, were sent from Washington yesterday. At a meeting last week the list of the resolutions was explained to the members of the Commission by an REA attorney. Today's meeting was called by Mayor Stafford.

From the Aldermen's okay the resolutions will be presented to the Commission at a special meeting this week. Joint meetings of both groups for the individual approvals are being held in order to save time in returning the resolution to REA in Washington.

In making the motion that the Aldermen approve the resolutions, J. Ed Waldrop described the stipulations attached to the requested loan as nothing that isn't "absolutely sound" from a business point of view.

"It has cost us a lot of money to wait this long," he said. "I think we ought to hurry up and approve them so it won't cost us any more."

Waldrop referred to the frequent rise in construction costs during the 15 months that the loan has been in the fire.

He listed two reasons why the Aldermen should approve the resolutions. The first is the city can continue to receive money from the utilities "and we hope more money," he said. The second is that the money will provide additional current to the persons in this area.

"We've got more than a moral obligation" to those persons who will be added to the utilities customers, he stated. "We've gone out and surrounded them with our power lines" so that no other power company can give them electricity.

Waldrop took the lead in asking the other aldermen to approve the resolutions since he has met with the Utilities Commission at its regular meetings for the past several months. This morning he and city attorney R. B. Lee described the content of the multi-page resolution.

"We're not spending a nickel this morning," the alderman said. "We're just setting up the machinery to allow the Commission to spend any amount it wants to."

Today's resolutions superceded resolutions that were signed by the Aldermen last August. At that time the REA stipulation concerning payment of the bonds called for payment through revenues from the rural lines only.

Those signed today call for not only rural line revenues but also revenues on the entire electric system, provided the former monies cannot pay the bonded indebtedness. That possibility, however, has been ruled out by the Commission since rural line revenues will pay off present bonded indebtedness plus the indebtedness of bonds to be issued under the loan.

Lee informed the board that since last August REA's thinking concerning the utilities' request had changed after secretary W. E. Easterling of the Local Government Commission had thrown a "monkey wrench" into the proceedings.

He explained that Easterling had told REA in Washington no first mortgage could be obtained on Greenville's rural line revenues due to the indebtedness of outstanding tax anticipation bonds. Because of that legal question, which attorney general Harry McMullan had written a dissenting opinion on, REA decided to require the second mortgage on the entire urban and rural line revenues as a safeguard, Lee said.

Later this week, it was learned, the Commission members will meet to approve their part of the resolutions. A suggested joint meeting of the Aldermen and the Commission will not be held in an effort to save time in getting the local approval of REA's contract. Members of the Commission last week discussed a joint meeting to see the reaction of the members of both bodies.

New Anti-Inflation Kit Called For By Johnston

Recommendations On Price And Black Market Control Sent To Charles Wilson; May Be Disclosed In Truman Talk

Washington, March 20—(AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston wants a sizeable kit of new anti-inflation powers including several changes in pricing provisions of the Defense Production Act, informed officials said today.

Although Johnston believes the basic remedy is to reduce buying demand through higher taxes and stiffer credit control, he has sent a sheaf of recommendations on price and black market control to Charles E. Wilson, Mobilization director.

Some are expected to show up in a presidential message to Congress next month on extension of the Mobilization law due to expire June 30.

Because the final decision belongs to President Truman, Johnston has not made his views public. But informed officials said it is "safe to assume" he has requested these changes:

Revision of the parity provisions which restrict food price control; some federal subsidies to absorb cost increases; broader power to license industries as meat slaughterers are now licensed; and a year's extension of rent control, written into the Mobilization act.

Johnston was in Key West today, conferring with Mr. Truman on other business — the wage control dispute which, because of labor's walkout from federal mobilization agencies, has paralyzed the Wage Stabilization Board.

That Mr. Truman considers the labor situation serious was evident in his sudden call for Johnston to fly to Florida yesterday. The ESA chief paid a hasty visit to Wilson, then caught a plane.

This strengthened reports that Mr. Truman soon may set up a new 18-member wage board even though labor and management have not agreed on the central issue—whether the board should have power to settle all disputes, as labor desires; or stick to wage and other money questions only.

Jaycees Wind Up Dogwood Project Total Of 210 Trees Set Out; Some Orders Not Filled

A total of 210 dogwood trees were planted during the past few weeks by members of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce, according to the final report on the project released today by Co-Chairman Lester Turnage and Jimmy Wells.

All of the 210 dogwoods were planted within the corporate limits of the city, the co-chairman stated. Part of the trees were planted on private property, and part of them were planted on public property.

In a similar project last year, the local Jaycees planted approximately 300 dogwoods in the city.

Spokesmen for the committee advised the people who have had dogwoods planted in recent weeks to prune the trees. They said all the limbs should be cut off the trees so that the foliage will not draw the new roots too much. The committee spokesmen also said it is likely to take the newly planted dogwoods one year to two years before they will bloom.

Turnage said the committee which planted the trees was unable to fill a number of orders which the Jaycees had for dogwoods because the planters could not find the people at home when the trees were being planted.

Pitt Legislation Introduced Into State Assembly

The recent request for levying of capital outlay taxes in the Pitt school districts made by the County Commissioners was introduced into the house and senate of the legislature yesterday by Senator Paul Jones and Representative Sam Worthington.

Both bills were referred to the finance committees of the house and senate.

If approved the bill would allow the individual school districts to levy upon themselves extra taxes up to and including 10 cents on the $100. The additional levy would be for the purpose of making small constructions in the districts or for outlays on other small-cost projects.

The original request was presented to the Commissioners at the February meeting by the Board of Education. The Commissioners approved it at their first March meeting.

Agency Endorses Health Insurance

Washington, March 20—(AP)—The Social Security Administration says the government should close what the agency described as a large gap in security for American workers by adding health insurance to the social security program.

The agency made the recommendation yesterday in its annual report to Congress.

The Federal-States Crop Reporting Service announced yesterday that the estimate was based on reports as of March 1.

Threat Of Smaller Meat, Dairy And Poultry Supply

Washington, March 20—(AP)—The threat of a smaller supply of meat, dairy and poultry products hung over the nation today.

An Agriculture Department report late yesterday showed that farmers plan to plant considerably less land to livestock feed crops than is needed to maintain current butchershop supplies of livestock food products.

Unless these plans are changed, feeders will have to cut down on production of beef cattle, dairy men on milk production, livestock men on hogs fattened and poultry men on the number of eggs and chickens produced.

Shah Of Iran Proclaims Martial Law In Tehran

Tehran, Iran, March 20—(AP)—The Shah proclaimed martial law in Tehran today to guard against any uprising in this strategic Middle Eastern country, an unwilling arena in the East-West political battle of giants.

A new military Governor-General clamped on a curfew, banning the public from the streets from midnight to 5 a.m. Rumors flew throughout the city of new assassinations. A string of army tanks clattered into the streets. The Shah's proclamation declared: (unofficial text) "As the public is already aware, gangster elements have been trying to up-

Waist-Deep Snow Getting Deeper

Sidewalks in Minneapolis, Minn., are piled waist-deep with snow—and it's getting deeper. This winter's snowfall in the city totals 80 inches, just five inches short of the all-time record, and it is still snowing. This home is just about half-buried in the snow. Amiel Gross and his wife try in vain to clear the sidewalk in front of their house. (AP Wirephoto).

Montgomery To Be Deputy Chief

Eisenhower Names British Hero To Atlantic Army Staff

Paris, March 20—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today named British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as his deputy commander in the Atlantic Pact Army.

Gen. Eisenhower also appointed eight other high ranking officers to his staff.

He chose Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Saunders of the British Royal Air Force as his Air Deputy.

A senior naval officer may be named later "if the need becomes apparent," a headquarters spokesman said.

The French cabinet announced, meanwhile, that Gen. Alphonse Juin, commander of France's armed forces, has been made available to Gen. Eisenhower to serve as ground troops commander in the Atlantic Pact Army. Juin, 62, is Inspector-General of French Armed Forces, a post created after Eisenhower's survey tour of pact nations. Juin also is Resident-General of Morocco.

The French cabinet also announced that Vice Adm. Robert Jaujard was named to the Eisenhower staff.

Atomic Tests At Eniwetok Said To Be Going On

Washington, March 20—(AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission indicated today it is now conducting new atomic blasts at Eniwetok.

The commission said in a statement that a major project "is being carried out" at the super-secret Pacific Island test grounds.

"In order to assure the safety of vessels and aircraft operating in the central Pacific, only units of the (testing) task force are permitted within the danger area around Eniwetok atoll," the statement added.

Thirty-Day 'Reprieve' For N.C. Merchants; Original March 29 Deadline Extended To April 30

Pitt county merchants, along with the other merchants of North Carolina, have been granted a 30-day extension to file pricing charts under regulation seven of the Office of Price Stabilization regulations.

The original order for regulation seven set March 29 as the deadline for filing price charts with the state office, but the new ruling which was announced yesterday extends the deadline until April 30.

According to information available here today, however, the extension of the deadline on regulation seven does not affect the deadline of March 22 which was placed on the general price chart which the merchants are to have in their own places of business.

Under the general price freeze which was ordered by the Office of Price Stabilization in January, merchants were to place their price ceilings at the highest level between December 19 and January 25. Under the general regulation the merchants were required to prepare and keep in their places of business by March 22 a chart giving the ceiling prices of the "model" type, style and kind of commodities and of the services delivered or offered for delivery.

Under regulation seven which was issued after the original order, merchants handling specific commodities such as clothing and clothing accessories, shoes and rubber footwear, household textile commodities, yard goods, furniture, rugs and lamps were required to submit to the state OPS office a chart of prices using February 24 as the base period.

The chart submitted under regulation seven is to contain the net unit cost, selling price, per cent of mark-up, and information of the supporting invoice of every commodity which comes under the regulation.

Mrs. Cora Powell, secretary of the Greenville Merchants Association, said this morning copies of the OPS regulations are available to local merchants at the association office.

Asks Reopening Of Death Probe

Raleigh, N. C., March 20—(AP)—Governor Scott has asked for reopening of the investigation into the death of a Chinese student at N. C. State College last Dec. 31 because the youth's father suspects foul play was involved.

The governor asked the State Bureau of Investigation to continue investigation of the case after receiving a request from the Chinese Nationalist Ambassador at Washington.

The father of the dead youth looked into the case and "found himself unconvinced that his son had committed suicide," V. K. Wellington Koo wrote the governor and "he suspected that his son's death might have been brought about by foul play."

The body of the youth, James T. Tung, was found in a shallow stream on the college campus. His body bore 10 stab wounds in the head, throat and left wrist.

Wake County Coroner Irving M. Cheek at first thought foul play may have been involved but later decided it was a suicide. He found two notes left by Tung, a State College student, in his room.

JAYCEE MEETING SET Asheville, N. C., March 20—(AP) The annual convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of North Carolina will be held here May 18-19. Approximately 400 delegates and guests are expected to attend the gathering.

Red Resistance Continues Light

O'Dwyer Asserts Bookies Required Police Support

Big Operators Couldn't Exist Without Police Protection Says Ex-Mayor

New York, March 20—(AP)—Former Mayor William O'Dwyer told Senate crime investigators today that he did not believe big-scale bookmaking could exist without police protection.

O'Dwyer, now U.S. ambassador to Mexico, took the stand for his second round of questioning, after a session yesterday that brought sharp flashes of temper and heated accusations.

He appeared fresh and rested in contrast to his weary, touchy mood at the close of yesterday's turbulent public hearing, during which he angrily denied links to gangland.

Called as the first witness today, he was asked if he thought large-scale bookmaking could exist without police protection. He replied flatly, "No."

He added that he believed such large-scale bookmaking does exist in Brooklyn.

Frank Costello, the gambler who admits he wielded political power, also was slated for a return appearance today.

Reporters asked him to identify a "Mr. Rosenblatt" whom he mentioned yesterday in a heated exchange with Sen. Charles W. Tobey (R-N.H.), a committee member. O'Dwyer refused, saying, "I will not discuss the proceedings."

O'Dwyer had accused Tobey of obtaining campaign funds in New York, and, to back up his story, asked if Rosenblatt was present. He was not.

Sen. Herbert O'Connor (D-Md.) opened today's hearing. Committee members seated with him were Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), committee chairman; Sen. Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo.), and Sen. Tobey.

Superior Court Rulings Monday

Four judgements were handed down yesterday afternoon by Judge Lee Carr of Burlington in the civil term of Pitt Superior court which opened here yesterday.

Under regulation seven which was issued after the original order, merchants handling specific commodities such as clothing and clothing accessories, shoes and rubber footwear, household textile commodities, yard goods, furniture, rugs and lamps were required to submit to the state OPS office a chart of prices using February 24 as the base period.

The chart submitted under regulation seven is to contain the net unit cost, selling price, per cent of mark-up, and information of the supporting invoice of every commodity which comes under the regulation.

Allied Troops Not Engaged In Heavy Fighting; Patrols Range Deep; Delaying Action By Chinese; Communists Hint At Plans To Return

Tokyo, March 20—(AP)—Allied troops today ranged ahead of a strong line stretching across Korea less than 17 miles from the Parallel 38 border.

Their exact locations were cloaked in censorship.

The U. S. Eighth Army reported only that "holding elements" were in the line at ten scattered points across the peninsula. It denied published reports that U. S. troops were within ten miles of the parallel and that South Korean troops were on the invisible boundary itself.

There were no reports of heavy fighting.

Field dispatches indicated the allies were advancing against retreating communists all along the front.

Censorship was lifted on the capture of the Chungbyong Reservoir and power station 15 miles northeast of Seoul. They were captured intact three days ago. United Nations troops, the Eighth Army said, have advanced beyond that point.

Moderate rear-guard action was reported during the day. Chong and North Korean communists were reported at three widely-separated points: east of Uijongbu, which is 12 miles north of Seoul, northwest of Hangeyo on the central front, and north of allied-held Kangnung on the east coast.

The Reds have thrown up road blocks in some places to delay the U. N. advance.

From the central front AF correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported evidence the Chinese were only trying to slow down the U. N. advance until they can complete their withdrawal north of 38.

He said the main resistance was met Monday on a road running northeast of Hongkong.

Although withdrawal behind the old boundary between North and South Korea, the communists hinted they plan to return sooner day.

The Red Korean radio at Pyongyang called on Korean youth to rise against the United Nations during a "world youth week" to start Wednesday.

The radio called on Korean youth of both sexes to "rise against the enemy" and "start people's riots everywhere."

"Take away the gun from the American enemy and (Korean President) Syngman Rhee's group and shoot them in the breast," the radio said.

South Korean soldiers were urged to turn on U. N. soldiers "a righteous uprising and come to the People's (communist) army."

Stokes' Station Arguments To Be Heard By Court

Raleigh, N. C., March 20—(AP)—The State Supreme Court was slated to hear arguments today on the legality of an order requiring the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad to keep its station open at Stokes.

The contested order was signed by Superior Court Judge Chester Morris last September at Greenville. It upheld an earlier order by the State Utilities Commission.

The commission ruled that the station, only ACL agency between Washington and Parrelle, was too important to that area to be closed.

Confusion In Language

Lawmakers In A Predicament; After Weeks Of Writing A Vital Resolution, Now They Don't Know What They Said When They Said It; Troops To Europe Issue

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 20—(AP)—Fly-paper is as slick as a skating rink compared with what the English language can do to the Senate—sometimes. This is one of the times.

For sheer confusion, nothing can beat the present predicament of the lawmakers. Twenty-four of them took weeks to decide what they wanted to say on the Troops-for-Europe issue.

And when they finally said it they got so tangled in the language that no one, including them, can say for sure what they had in mind. Before looking at the jam they're in, here's a short background.

There were cries of protest, particularly from Republicans, and most particularly from Senators Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska, when President Truman made it known that:

He wanted to send four divisions to Europe to help build up our allies' army there, under the terms of the North Atlantic Pact, which we approved, and in which Article 3 pledged the partners to "mutual aid."

Veteran Relieves Aches and Pains

HADACOL Relieves Aches and Pains When Due to a Lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Nicotin and Iron. It would seem like being in two wars would almost be all one person would have to go through. But Emerson Farnell Brown, 412 South Harrison Street, Fort Wayne, Indiana, found more trouble staring him in the face just recently. As so many thousands, he put his faith in HADACOL, when he heard how it was helping folks with aches and pains due to a deficiency of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Nicotin. Here are the wonderful results that he is more than glad to tell us about:

"I am a veteran of World Wars I and II. After I reached the age of 50, I had aches and pains. I also had gas on my stomach and was very nervous. After I took the first small bottle of HADACOL, I knew I had the right family formula. Then, I got large size and I have just finished taking it. I work for the plumbing and heating company. I just started another bottle of HADACOL, and it is doing me so much good."

This may be your answer, too, if you are suffering from such deficiencies. For HADACOL supplies more than the minimum daily requirements of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Nicotin and Iron, plus helpful quantities of Phosphorus and Calcium. And HADACOL builds up hemoglobin (when iron is needed) to rush these vital elements to every part of your body. Many doctors recommend HADACOL—why not stop at your drugstore today?

Lila Ruth Worthington Wed To Blanie Allen Moye Sunday

On Sunday afternoon, March 18, at four o'clock in the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church in Winterville, Miss Lila Ruth Worthington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Blaine Worthington, became the bride of Mr. Blanie Allen Moye, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Blanie Moye of Greenville, RFD.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. David W. Hansley, pastor of the bride. Wedding music for the ceremony was presented by Mrs. Howard Bodkin, organist, and Miss Ruth Little, soloist, who sang "Because" by de Harlow, "Oh Promise Me" by de Koven and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church was decorated with palms and wedding greenery, large standards of white gladioli, three, seven and nine branch candelabra holding cathedral candles with single candles at the kneeling bench.

Mrs. James Henry Coale, of Green Cove Springs, Florida, was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a bouffant skirted formal of pink taffeta and net with molded bodice, wide off the shoulder neckline and very full skirt. Her headdress was of matching pink net and natural flowers. She carried an arm bouquet of mixed spring flowers of tulips, hyacinths and Dutch iris tied with satin ribbon to match her dress.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Leroy Talton Cherry and Miss Thelma Sawyer, both of Greenville. Their dresses of blue taffeta and net were identical to that of the matron of honor. They carried arm bouquets tied with ribbon to match their dresses and their headdresses were of matching blue net styled like that of the matron of honor.

John Frederick Moye was best man for his brother and the ushers were William George Griffin of Havelock, Willard Moye of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, Ralph Worthington of Ayden and Tull Hester Worthington of Winterville, brothers of the bride.

The bride entered the church with her father by whom she was given in marriage. Her gown was of bouffant satin and nylon tulle with a sheer nylon yoke accented by a shimmering bertha caught at intervals by roses made of satin, long light fitting sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her very full skirt fell into a long train. Her satin cap was edged with nylon ruching and her fingertip veil was of bridal illusion. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white satin prayer book

Immediately after the wedding the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at their home in Winterville.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Worthington directed the guests to the dining room where Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hall served punch from a crystal punch bowl which was at the end of the table. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Worthington Jr. assisted in serving bridal cakes. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Whitehurst presided over the bride's book, where guests were asked to register. Mr. and Mrs. William Fryer said the good-byes.

Greenville Garden Club Awards Prizes In Contest

Twenty-one attractive birdhouses were on display at the Woman's Club House on Friday afternoon when the Greenville Garden Club awarded first prizes to Ricky Campbell and Bill Moore of West Greenville School. These two earned equal rating for their wren houses in the contest sponsored in the school by the club. Bill Franklin of the Training School won second prize with his house for a woodpecker.

In the Primary division, Marcia Perkins of the Training School won first place and Barbara Newman received second prize.

Others entering birdhouses for judging were Wesley Brown, Melvin Fussell, Carson Heath, George White, Arthur Andrews, Stephen Haas, Billy Whitchard, Tommy Braxton, Janet Whitchard, Donald Speight, Jimmy Newman, Ruby Mills, James Alden Braxton, Frances Seamer, Joe Smith, and Billy Neal. James and Billy Forrest displayed houses which were not entered for competition.

The entries were judged by Dr. Harold C. Jones of the Science Department of East Carolina College. The good and bad points were carefully tabulated and a card bearing this information was attached to each house.

After the short session presided over by Mrs. W. J. Stell, president, Mrs. Lindsay Savage introduced Dr. Jones, who discussed the points on which the entries were judged and pointed out the most important things to remember in building a house to be used by certain types of birds. He also reviewed the activities of the Wood-Lawn Bird Club of which he is president.

Mrs. Savage then introduced Mr.

Robert Wolff. Mr. Wolff spoke to the group on his observation of things accomplished in the field of conservation since last spring, when he made four definite recommendations to the club. Three of these have been achieved. The fourth is still being worked on. He, also, spoke of the value of the Bird Club, pointing out that two birds have been found in Greenville which have not been recorded here before in the season in which they were seen. These are the dovekie and the Baltimore oriole.

Mrs. H. L. Rivers, chairman of the committee on horticulture, brought to the gardeners some much needed information on camellia scale, sunburned camellia leaves and split bark of azalea. Examples of these were placed on a table where they might be studied by those interested. She called attention to a bowl of jonquils and narcissi in which twenty varieties from her collection were represented. These aroused much interest.

The slate of new officers was presented. These are: Mrs. W. J. Stell, president; Mrs. W. E. Dole, vice-president; Mrs. J. Hicks Corey, treasurer; Mrs. J. E. Phelps, recording secretary; Mrs. W. J. Tetterton, corresponding secretary.

Many out-of-town friends and members of the Wood-Lawn Bird Club were guests of the Garden Club for the afternoon.

At the close of the program everyone gathered about the tea table. The lace cloth was centered by an antique silver centerpiece filled with green-tinted chrysanthemums and stelia, relieved by white narcissus. Flanking this were two five-branched candelabra holding green candles and white candytuft tied with green satin ribbon. Sprays of fern carried the green to a silver tray of Saint Patrick's Day sandwiches at one end and to the tea service at the other where Mrs. K. W. Cobb, chairman of hostesses, was seated, wearing a green dress and pouring tea. Other hostesses were Mrs. Lindsay Savage, Mrs. Vance Perkins, Mrs. D. S. Spain, Mrs. J. E. Spilman, Mrs. Clara M. Shackell, Mrs. Helen Snyder, Mrs. J. D. Wilson, Mrs. J. Paul Davenport, Mrs. J. W. Tetterton, Mrs. P. E. Wells, Mrs. Sam White, Mrs. W. H. Woolard, and Mrs. W. E. Hooker.

where he will graduate in the summer.

On Saturday evening at 9 o'clock, Miss Thelma Sawyer entertained at her home on Washington Street following the rehearsal of the Moye-Worthington wedding.

The home was decorated throughout with white carnations, fern and ivy. As guests arrived they were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Langston, the hostess and the bridegroom.

In the dining room, which was decorated to look like an improvised altar, were seven branch candelabra with baskets of carnations, gladioli and fern. The table was covered with a linen cut work cloth and the centerpiece was also carnations, snapdragons and fern.

After the bridal couple cut the first slice of cake, Mrs. A. J. Whitehurst, aunt of the bride-elect, served the other guests. Mrs. Alton Worthington served punch and Misses Patricia Evans and Jeanette Moye, nieces of the bridegroom-elect, served bridal cakes, mints and nuts.

Around 60 guests were present.

Mt. Pleasant H. D. Club Meeting

For the meeting of the Mount Pleasant Home Demonstration club on March 9, Mrs. G. W. Stell, assisted by Mrs. C. H. Hagan, gave a demonstration on how to make corsages from carnations, gladioli, camellias and jonquils. Afterward, the corsages were auctioned off to the 13 members present. The sale proved to be successful, the flowers bringing in $2.20 which paid the expenses of the demonstration.

Two new members, Mrs. Russell C. Spain and Mrs. F. L. Waters, were welcomed into the club. This steady climb in membership is showing that the club is becoming larger and stronger.

Mrs. C. H. Hagen gave a report on sanitation and Mrs. Stell gave a few points on the upkeep of yards. The report led the members to adopt as a community project — beautification of yards.

Just before the meeting came to a close Mrs. Stell served delicious refreshments.

building defects can and does halt further and more extensive damage. Ask any home-owner; a leak or trace of dry rot is given prompt attention to safeguard the property and cut down on maintenance expenses.
And that $12,000 worth of damage at the county jail didn't just happen overnight. It's been building up, in extent and costliness, for a long time.
It could have been nipped in the bud. Maybe fifty dollars would have cut the current outlay in half, if that fifty dollars had been expended when, say the plumbing difficulties, were first apparent.

We must assume the defects have been apparent for quite a while. And during that period, the jailer and various grand juries have had opportunity to report the conditions. We are told that recommendations for repairs were made many months ago. But repairs weren't made.

Why?
Who's to blame for raising the cost of what should have been nominal repairs to what now amounts to a major undertaking?

The renovation job is now termed an emergency proposition, but it wasn't when the defects first became apparent.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20—Organized labor's revolt against Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson, which threatens to become a major battle with the entire Truman Administration, has brought the squabbling unions and individual leaders closer together than at any time since they split apart after Franklin D. Roosevelt's reelection in 1936. From rebellion may come reunion.

Labor bosses who have not spoken a kind word to one another for more than a decade have forgotten their differences in their common hatred of the General Electric executive who heads the rearmament program. They have resumed the old custom of lunching together, and calling each other "Bill" and "Phil," and "Al" and "George." Instead of Mr. Green, Mr. Murray, Mr. Hayes and Mr. Harrison.

UNANIMITY—Moreover, for the first time, the "big shots" in the movement have the complete support of their rank-and-file membership. The touchy subject of wage increases and price controls has produced an unprecedented and remarkable unanimity among the men in the councils and in the shops.

A tremendous volume of mail piling up at the various headquarters here tends to aggravate the laborers' recalcitrancy toward Mr. Wilson and President Truman. Indeed, letters from workmen and their wives suggest that they are more bitter against the man in the White House than they are against the Defense Mobilizer himself.

STRATEGY—The mail also packs an ominous note, from the political standpoint, especially as it confirms some of the labor leader's own thoughts. It suggests that labor make a complete break, not only with the Truman Administration, but with all political parties.

Perhaps taking a leaf from the book of the President's enemies in Capitol Hill, the union members advise that future political activity be devoted to electing pro-labor members of the House and Senate.

In this voluminous correspondence there is no suggestion that labor try to punish President Truman or the Democratic Party by shifting to the Republican side of the fence in 1932. The main theme is that labor should return to Sam Gompers' strategy of working both sides of the political avenue.

PARTY—Labor's bitterness and its possible retaliation at the polls is reflected most graphically in a recent remark by Louis Hollander, the C.I.O. leader of New York State, where the organization has approximately a million members. Mr. Hollander also heads the C.I.O.'s Political Action Committee for the Empire area.

"It is possible," he said, "that we may have to develop an independent political party. I don't mean a third party. It would be a first party of the American people."

The C.I.O.'s vice presidents convened here a few days ago, and the air was sulphurous, with President Truman occupying the role once reserved for Senator "Bob" Taft at these get-togethers.

In fact, there was hardly a mention of the man from Ohio, or of the Taft-Hartley Act. The "hate" against Mr. Wilson and his rearmament cabinet seems to have erased the T-H bogey from their minds.

END—As a result of this conference, organized labor's future policy, especially in 1932, may be a "hands off" attitude. The political committees associated with the AFL and the CIO will not ring doorbells, set up their own ballot-box organizations, canvass the factories and propagandize for the Democratic presidential nominee, as they have done since F.D.R. first appeared on the national horizon.

No matter where labor decides to go in future elections, the end of its honeymoon—or rather, marriage—with the Roosevelt-Truman regime will be a break for the Republicans.

OFFICIAL—Largely because of his poor luck in recent months, including the break with labor, the Kefauver and Fulbright revelations and growing dissatisfaction with his foreign policies, as evidenced in recent polls, President Truman has told close friends that he will not stand for reelection.

With all respect for a man's right to change his mind, even a stubborn man like the Missourian, that seems to be official.

The recent St. Louis upset, where a Republican candidate for Congress won by 6,000 only 18 weeks after a Democrat had been elected there by 26,062, has doused Mr. Truman's reported plan of running for the Senate after his retirement from the White House.

Barring an almost miraculous shift of political attitude and atmosphere, he could not be elected to his old seat in the rear of the upper chamber.

INCOME—Mr. Truman's present desire is to become, like Herbert Hoover, for whom he has a secret admiration, an elderly statesman. In view of his increased salary and allowances, he will have an income of $15,000, assuming that investments bring him only five per cent.

Margaret will be no financial care, for she will make more from concert and television performances, unless her father's departure from the public stage cramps her style. That is not expected, for critics say that she definitely has a theatrical flair, despite Paul Hume's critique of her voice.

Mr. Truman's choices for the nomination are (1) Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, and (2) General "Ike" Eisenhower.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last week I was in the process of picking up the mail at the post office, as I do every morning about eight o'clock. All of a sudden I heard an outburst of laughter from the parcel post window. Never have I heard such cackling, particularly so early in the morning. Yesterday I heard the same voices and laughing, so I investigated.

The characters involved were Red Flanagan, Jake Dixon of the Post Office, and Mr. J. W. Brown of the City Plumbing Company. Every day when Mr. Brown takes his mail to the post office Jake and Red have a new rib for him, and as fast as Jake and Red can dish it out, Mr. Brown can take it and shoot it back.

The other day Red said, "Mr. Brown, I saw you and Jake riding around last night." Mr. Brown hadn't been anywhere the night before; besides he knew it was just one of Red's jokes.

"Is that so?" Mr. Brown asked. "Where were we?"

"You were going down Dickinson Avenue. Jake was in the front seat driving and you were in the back with a good-looking girl."

Mr. Brown was ready for that one, and said, "Well, you can tell that I know a good thing when I see it."

The second of April Mr. Brown will reach his 21st birthday, but he says, "I'm still a young man." He believes that you're just as young as you feel. As spry as he is, it wouldn't surprise me to see him in the situation Red described.

Another day when Mr. Brown came in, Red asked him, "Where were you last night? I saw Jake riding around and you weren't with him."

"Yep," Mr. Brown explained, "I was at home last night." "Doing what?" "Trying to figure out a way to keep you in line."

And no doubt Red tries to figure out a rib that Mr. Brown can't snap back at him. It seems that it's a full time job to pull one over on him; Red will have to get up early in the morning if he plans to do it.

Whenever I start to feel old I can remember that Mr. Brown retired from 31 years of Post Office work in 1935, the year I reached the fifth grade. He served in the capacity of rural mail carrier, post office clerk, and railroad mail clerk. Four of the staff of the Greenville Post Office worked with Mr. Brown: Jesse Kidd, Will Craft, Luther Whitehurst, and C. E. Dupree. In 1901 Mr. Brown started a rural route, which was one of the first started here.

In addition to his hobby, ribbing Jake and Red, Mr. Brown works with his son, Frank "gets another one" Brown. And I thank you.

NEWSPAPERS — Newspapers published in North Carolina now have aggregate circulation of well above one and a quarter million, according to latest available authoritative information. This total circulation is fairly evenly divided among three major groups—morning dailies, afternoon dailies and weekly or semi-weeklies.

The fact that daily newspapers published in North Carolina have almost a million subscribers, in a state with approximately four million people of all ages and classifications, is believed to be a record for newspaper coverage.

BREAKDOWN — According to the "red book" issued each year by Editor & Publisher there are seven morning papers in North Carolina with aggregate circulation of 456,159. There are thirty-six afternoon dailies listed with aggregate circulation of 446,068. The red book listing omitted the Tryon Bulletin, (which lays claim to being the smallest daily newspaper in the world). Counting in the Bulletin there are thirty-seven afternoon dailies with approximately 448,000 circulation. Exact figures on papers of less than daily issue are more difficult to obtain. Most reliable information at hand lists around 160 with aggregate circulation of nearly 400,000.

DISTRIBUTION — Distribution of the total newspaper circulation and extent to which each copy is read cannot be determined accurately. Authorities agree that local weekly newspapers have more readers per copy than any other class of publication, with afternoon dailies next and morning dailies somewhat less. It is also conceded that larger percentage of total circulation of hometown weeklies is in the immediate area of publication, with morning dailies having most widely diffused distribution and afternoon dailies coming in the middle. Further analysis discloses that weekly circulation is preponderantly rural, afternoon circulation preponderantly urban, and morning circulation more equally divided as between town and country readers.

OUT-OF-STATE — Daily newspaper circulation figures indicate that North Carolinians read more afternoon newspapers than any other class of publication. Substantial portion of the circulation of Charlotte papers, both morning and afternoon, is in South Carolina—but the percentage of Observer distribution across the line is larger than the percentage of News distribution outside the state. Except for borderline subscribers within the trading area there is more out-of-state demand for newspapers published in the capital city. For that reason the Raleigh News and Observer has a considerable out-of-state list—as do the Richmond Times-Dispatch, the Columbia State and other capital city papers. Combined circulation of Norfolk papers in the extreme north-eastern corner of North Carolina, and Atlanta and Knoxville papers in the extreme west, probably balance the South Carolina circulation of the Charlotte papers. So, it would seem a safe bet that the total number of daily newspapers published in North Carolina just about reflects the total number of daily newspapers read by North Carolinians.

SUNDAYS — A different approach must be made in calculating distribution of Sunday papers. New York, Philadelphia, Wash-

Auto service and repair men look upon the coming cut in car production as the promise of a bonanza. The cutback is estimated at 25 to 40 per cent, and with that many fewer new car owners are going to have to make their cars last longer. One statistician figures that, on an average, every owner is going to have to get an additional year's service out of his car.

The useful life of the average car has doubled since 1925, the National Automobile Dealers Association reports. In the old days, the average car rolled its last mile to the auto graveyard in five or six years. The average life of a car is now estimated at 11 1/2 years.

This average declined last year as the availability of flashy new cars slowed down the market for the older heaps, sending them to the scrap pile. But the auto industry expects it to turn up again this year.

This life extension will mean added business for repair work, for parts as much as they are available, for paint, polishes, seat covers, under-coating and other treatment. One wax manufacturer expects its highest year's sales as a consequence and has geared facilities to increase production.

Recapping tires is expected to return to its World War II volume, as tires become harder to get. There's already a black market in white walls, and lack of new tires has slowed down the delivery of heavy trailers.

However, there is almost no doubt that existing cars and those made this year can be kept running. Expansion of synthetic rubber production should provide an adequate number of tires and no serious cutback in production of spare parts is contemplated.

The economy during World War II when almost half of our industrial production was for war materials; it certainly should be able to do as well this year when less than 20 per cent of production is for defense.

There is no danger that conditions will become like those in the Canary Islands where, the N.A. D.A. Magazine reports, "A used car is respected, no matter what its age may be. Used cars of all descriptions have found their way there. A new car is a rarity and the natives do all they can to keep up the appearances of their jalopies. The saying goes, 'If it runs, it's a car; if it runs well, it's a new car; and if it runs without breaking down every day, it's a miracle.'"

EXPOSURE OF CRIME COSTLY TO BUSINESS
The end of the Kefauver investigation in New York today is being greeted with silent cheers by many business men. During the parade of upper- and under-world big shots, employees have been wandering off from jobs and shoppers have stayed home to catch broadcasts and telecasts of the show. Loss to business in sales and employees' time has run into the millions; one executive says it has been almost as costly as a world series.

TRUCK CARGO THEFTS RISING
Truck cargo thefts and hijacking of scarce goods has been rising this year, the Cargo Protection Bureau reports. Since the shortage of steel, this metal has become one of the ten items most frequently stolen.

Food has become the most stolen commodity, followed by textiles. Appliances, liquor, tobacco, furs and clothing rank high in thefts. Recent hijackings included a load of conodont pipes and $100,000 worth of rayon and nylon goods en route to the Air Force.

16 PCT. FAVOR DRAFT OF WORKERS TO PLANTS
Forty-five per cent of the purchasing agents responding to a questionnaire by Purchasing magazine report that their companies face manpower problems now. Of these, 63 per cent said they were unable to obtain sufficient skilled employees to handle increased production due to defense orders. However, only 16 per cent think the situation serious enough to call for compulsory draft of manpower.

BANK PLAN HANDLES MAIDS' TAX DETAILS
A banking service designed by a Connecticut bank has proved so popular that it copyrighted the plan and is licensing it to other banks. The plan involves the bank taking over details of the social security tax on household employees for housewives. The housewife pays servants with special checks on which the servants' social security numbers are imprinted. Every three months the bank calculates the tax due the government, pays it and charges the housewife's account. The plan makes friends the bank says, and gains publicity.

Hal Boyle's Column

By ARTHUR EDSON (For HAL BOYLE)

Washington, March 20—(AP)—If you want to win friends, and be influenced by people, get yourself an allergy.

You won't be alone, for there are more than 15,000,000 of us allergy sufferers in this country. It may be hay fever or asthma or a food or skin allergy.

Whatever it is, it's possible that it will be serious and it's certain that it will be annoying.

For the allergy victim often is condemned to a lifetime of wheezing, snorting or scratching. I'm a scratcher myself.

The little blisters showed up on the index finger of my left hand at the Philadelphia political conventions two years ago.

For a time I thought I might be allergic to Philadelphia, but when I came home the blisters came right with me.

They haven't been a complete liability, for they have helped me to strike up conversations with complete strangers.

I was buying some women's hose, a Valentine for my wife, and the saleslady confessed: "I have an allergy, too. I've had it ever since I switched to hosiery from underwear."

A congressional committee clerk told me a well known senator had a breaking out on his hands for years.

The girl whom I bank pointed to some spots on her hand and asked sympathetically, "are you allergic to money, too?" "I'll never know," I said sulkily.

Others have chimed in with all sorts of helpful hints, from taking vitamin pills to coating my hands with vegetable shortening.

Naturally I have followed every piece of advice given me, both amateur and professional, and the results have been gratifying.

The blisters have spread only to four fingers of my left hand and to the little finger of my right. Without this kind help, I'm sure I have been a goner.

Certain conclusions have been reached from these interviews, and I pass them on as my small contribution to medical science.

1. The person who has an allergy never suggests a cure.

2. The person who hasn't an allergy always knows exactly what will cure you.

The best cure, of course, is to find the thing, or things, that is irritating, and stay away from it.

My doctor says finding this villain can be extremely difficult and complex.

"I had a woman not long ago who was allergic to her fur coat," he said. "But she insisted she wanted to wear furs, and had me test her for her reaction to each kind of fur."

"She was overjoyed when I finally found the only fur she could wear was mink."

Many prominent people have been hypersensitive, but my favorite is Marcel-Frout, the famed French author.

In an introduction to Proust's

"Remembrance Of Things Past," Lewis Galignani says of this sufferer from chronic asthma:

"Indoors and out, he would wrap himself up like an anemic voyager and wear a coat whole evenings. . . . He would sit in the most brilliant drawing rooms of Paris."

"In bed he wore over a long night-gown, sweaters and mufflers, and with these, stockings, gloves, and a nightcap."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington — Government economists have figured out a few ways to ease the strain on the family pocketbook in these times of high living costs. Planning, budgeting, careful buying are some of the ways suggested. Growing some of your own vegetables and fruits, home canning and freezing are others. Avoiding waste is another.

How to go about doing these things is outlined in government-published pamphlets compiled by experts. In this and the rest of the articles of this series I'll give you the highspots of their ideas.

One way to fight rising costs is to buy wisely. Plan meals, make lists, then go shopping. But have these plans adaptable enough so you can change your mind at the store if you do not find the food you planned for.

Buy grades best suited to the use you expect to make of them. For instance, sometimes cheaper grades of canned products, used in combination dishes, are just as nutritious and tasty as the higher grades. They are satisfactory for many purposes, the economists say.

Don't over-buy. Waste and refrigerator table result from buying more than you need. This all adds to your food costs. Economists suggest that in saving on your budget you use forms of milk less expensive than whole milk—no-fat dry milk, skim milk and butter milk—especially for cooking. Evaporated milk is cheaper too. Read the paper, listen to the radio, ask your grocer about best food buys. Buy things that are plentiful.

In buying eggs, save money by buying the lowest-priced eggs that will serve the purpose. The experts suggest grade A for poaching, frying and cooking in shells; grade B for scrambling, omelets, cooking and baking; grade C for cooking and baking too. Consider the size as well as grade in relation to price.

As for meats, use lower grades, cheaper cuts. When comparing costs of different cuts however, figure costs per serving. Pieces with much bone or fat may prove more expensive than more meaty cuts at higher prices. Beef and pork liver and some other "variety" meats such as heart or tongue are highly nutritious, often cheaper, and there's not much waste.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

Deserving Of Quick Death (Greensboro Daily News)
Of all the bills deserving quick death to come before the present General Assembly that tossed into the legislative hopper last week by Alamance's Representative George A. Long rates close to it not at the top.

The bill would clear the way, through a state-wide referendum, for a bond to be paid on the installment plan to North Carolina veterans of both world wars, the beneficiaries thus running well into the hundreds of thousands of persons. The money would come from a sockdolager tax on liquor, wine and beer. The motive, influence or purpose bill we do not know; but any way you look at it, it does not make sense.

In the first place the proposal entails a huge handout for which nobody is asking and for which there is no visible or projected need.

In the second place North Carolina does have pressing needs, any number of them, involving schools, mental hospitals, medical care program, libraries, the indigent aged, dependent mothers and children, et cetera, which ought to be met before millions of dollars are dished out in gratuities or sops in the name of veterans' bonuses. If North Carolina can or should raise taxes from any source to the tune of $200,000,000 for such an unjustified purpose, what should it be able to do for genuine needs and those purposes which are admittedly justified by all observers?

In the third place any such tax as is proposed upon potable alcohol would be playing directly and handsomely into the bootleggers' hands. With levies from such sources increased by one-third, the illegal operators would have just that much price difference to operate behind and to peddle their wares on the artificially created market. And bootleggers, we earnestly submit, already enjoy more than enough incentive and operating advantages.

Charter Is Given Rotary For Explorer Scout Ship

By WYATT BROWN
The Rotary Club was presented a charter last night for Explorer Scout Ship sponsored by the Rotarians. J. B. Kittrell, Chairman of the Pitt District Boy Scouts of America, made the presentation. The Ship Senior Crew Leader and five Crew Leaders and their Skipper, J. B. Newman, were guests of honor for the occasion. Mr. Kittrell told how busy men were found ready and willing to do their share in Scouting. "This reflects the interest of these men in boys. They are ready to give their time. Get a busy man if you want a job well done," he said. Serving as the Rotary Club Explorer Ship Committee Mr. Kittrell listed J. H. Rose, chairman, F. D. Duncan, F. Badger Johnson, and Harold Thomas, institutional representative for the Rotary Club on the District Committee. The Scouts present were Senior Crew Leader J. B. Newman and the following Crew Leaders: Jimmie Phelps, Odedith Oakley, Bill Tait, Ronald Duffin, and Dickie Newell. Opportunity for other Rotarians to help with Scouting will be given from time to time. Mr. Kittrell said and he urged them to be ready when called upon. Then he listed Rotarians now serving Scouting in the Pitt District: J. B. Kittrell, District Chairman, Erceell Webb, District Vice-chairman, Sherman Parks, Activities, Badger Johnson, Leadership Training, Harold Thomas, Institutional Representative, John G. Fleming, Finance Chairman, Wyatt Brown, Advancement, Herbert Hadley, Health and Safety, David Whitford, III, Scoutmaster. The other members of the District Committee than Rotarians are Erskine Duff, Organization and Extension, whom the District Chairman took time to commend for his fine work throughout the County with both old and new troops. Gene West, Camping, Reynolds May, Inter-acial, and Jack F. Dowdy, Commissioner.

The Rotarians had as their guest Judge Leo Carr of Burlington. Visiting Rotarians were all from Farmville Paul Ewell, Edwin S. Coates, and Bob Rouse, Jr. Leon Roebuck, Jr., announced that the Inter-city Rotary Meet had been postponed. The Rotarians voted to have no ladies night this year in view of the emphasis being placed upon having the Rotary Annes participate in the District Conference. Ty Wagner, chairman of the District Conference Housing Committee requested Rotarians to speak to their wives about the possibility of providing homes for District Conference delegates who exceeded the capacity of the Local Hotel. Floyd Hendrix, Club President, presided over last night's meeting. Election of officers and discussion of the coming District Conference will exclude any further program next Monday night.

which make me so nervous several days before! Read why Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is 'the woman's friend'

"Almost every month I suffered from cramps, headache, or backache—due to female functional ailments. What bothered me most was that I'd start feeling so nervous, tense and strangely restless several days before my period. "My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve this distress. He told me to take it regularly throughout the month to help build up resistance against such female misery. (It tastes swell in a little fruit juice.) I must say Lydia Pinkham's Compound is simply wonderful and gives me amazing relief—not only from monthly pain but pre-period nervous tension and tired, dragged-out feelings of this nature. I urge every girl and woman troubled this way to try Pinkham's Compound." P.S. Many women prefer Lydia Pinkham's TABLETS with added iron. Handy to carry in purse.

Golf And Tennis Matches Lined Up For East Carolina Spring Athletics

Squads Working Out For Conference And Non-Conference Opposition On Slate; Lettermen Bolster Prospects

East Carolina's spring athletic program will include four golf and six tennis matches between now and the first week in May and during the warm days of the past few weeks both squads have been practicing in preparation for the conference and non-conference opposition on the slate.

Returning for duty in both sports under the coaching of Howard Porter are three lettermen from last year's golf squad and four veterans of the 1950 tennis team.

Leading the returning golfers for duty this year is Bill Stalls, last year's frontrunner in conference and non-conference competition for the Pirates. Stalls won the North State title last season and was the outstanding golfer in collegiate circles in the state.

In second seeding for Porter's links squad is Walter Wells followed by Joe Ekum, both of whom were lettermen last season. Non veterans on the team this year are David Martin, freshman, Lonnie Nelms, sophomore, John Morgan, Knott Procter, Jr., and Homer Thomas.

First outing for the team is Friday of this week when the eight journey to Chapel Hill to take on Cuck Erickson's strong University team on the new course there. The rest of the schedule includes three conference matches and the North State tournament. The rest of the schedule is:

April 12-Catawba there; April 30-Elon here; May 1-Elon Here; May 4-5-Conference tournament. Porter's tennis team lists the return of four lettermen from last year's squad in addition to eight newcomers. Leading the players in top seeding is Bob Williams, 1950 letterman, accompanied by Dick Palmer, Art Holland and Dave Jones, also lettermen. Others on the team this season are Joe Hallo, a freshman, Paul Cameron, freshman, Tom Mulligan, Jr., Dick Tyson, Ted Williams, Larry Kincaid, Tom Murdoch and Albert Pogolia. The latter four are doubles team players.

The tennis schedule: March 30-State College here; April 2-3-Gulford there; April 13-Carolina there; April 19-20-High Point there; April 30-Elon College here; May 1-Elon College here.

SIGNS WITH BROWNS

Opens Tonight

New York, March 20—(AP)—College basketball's No. One 1951 tournament—the NCAA—opens tonight with Kentucky, rated the top five in the country, and Columbia, the nation's only unbeaten team, in the spotlight.

Kentucky, champion of the Southeastern Conference, meets Louisville at Raleigh, N.C. Columbia, the Ivy League titleholder, is paired against Illinois, the Big Ten champion, at Madison Square Garden.

In other games North Carolina State is paired against Villanova at Raleigh and St. John's of Brooklyn meets Connecticut at the Garden.

Varsity Sports Open To Frosh

Chicago, March 20—(AP)—Freshmen will be eligible for varsity sports competition in the Western Conference beginning Sept. 1.

Faculty representatives and athletic directors voted at their closing two-day session yesterday to lift the ban which had been in effect since 1946.

Freshmen were declared eligible in 1943 to help make up the manpower shortage due to the war. The Big Ten's action to restore first-year men to varsity sports follows the same pattern.

The suspension of the freshmen rule was lifted for the 1950-51 period but can be extended if the situation warrants. Officials said male attendance at Big Ten schools may decline as much as 30 per cent next fall because of the draft of young men into military service.

The Pacific Coast Conference and other major collegiate groups have made freshmen eligible—and now the Big Ten is getting into line.

State Pays Off $10 Million Loan

Raleigh, March 20—(AP)—The state today paid off a $10,000,000 loan it borrowed last December.

The state treasurer's office repaid four banks the amount borrowed plus interest totaling $19,680,56.

The money was borrowed last December to keep the general fund in the black until the March income tax collections were received.

Noiseless Tire Is Not Wanted

Akron, ?—(AP)—Does the hum or rumble of your tires on the road bother you? For many motorists, such noises in moderation provide a feeling of safety says William F. Billingsley, designer for one of the big tire manufacturers (B.F. Goodrich).

A noiseless tire could be made, Billingsley says, but it would have little skid resistance—probably not enough for good starting, stopping and steering.

Employees Given Paternity Leave

New York—(AP)—Maternity leave for employees is a routine benefit these days. But recently a large New York concern gave an employe a week's paternity leave.

The man applied formally for leave, explaining that he and his wife were adopting a baby girl. He wanted to travel to the mid-west and bring the new baby home, he said, while his wife remained behind preparing their other child for the new arrival.

Players Demand Voice In Naming Of Commissioner

Lakeland, Fla., March 20—(AP)—The rank and file of the major leagues—the players—will demand that club owners give them a voice in picking a new baseball commissioner.

The unprecedented proposal comes publicly from pitcher Fredgers, official player-representative of the American League.

Sharply critical of owner policy, Hutchinson said yesterday that the owners will be petitioned in July to give the players a part in selecting a successor to A.B. (Happy) Chandler.

And if the club owners don't agree to this, Hutchinson said the players may hire their own commissioner to represent them on the official baseball council.

The players now have two representatives, one from each league, serving on the council. Their status is merely advisory.

"The first name suggested by players for their own commissioner was Happy Chandler," said Hutchinson.

The Detroit pitcher said most players favored retention of Chandler. The "average player" believed Chandler was fired by the owners because he did things for baseball players that were never done before, Hutch said.

"Players feel we could pay a commissioner $40,000 a year to represent us. That would be an assessment of only $100 a player for the 400 major leaguers," he said, adding:

"It would be deductible from income taxes and actually wouldn't cost us anything."

Graziano Aiming For Title Bout

Miami, Fla., March 20—(AP)—Rocky Graziano, former middleweight boxing champion, said today he would keep fighting until he gets a shot at Sugar Ray Robinson, the present titleholder.

Graziano, using a damaging left hook, knocked out Reuben Jones of Norfolk, Va. in 1:18 of the third round in a scheduled ten-rounder at Miami Stadium last night. He said he wished it had been Robinson instead of Jones.

Coastal Golfers Tee Off In 6 Weeks Of Play Tomorrow

Steady Ferrier Collects $2,000

Jacksonville, Fla., March 20—(AP)—Big Jim Ferrier's steady do-it game keeps paying him dividends of $2,000 a week.

The Australian-born professional had a comfortable margin of 11 strokes when he won the $10,000 Jacksonville Open yesterday with 272. He shot 68 each of the four days. He won a week earlier at Miami Beach and two weeks ago at St. Petersburg.

Ferrier's 16 under par 272 was a competitive record for the rolling 6,508-yard Hyde Park links.

Lloyd Mangrum shared second place with Jack Shields of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Each collected $1,200 for their 283 score. And Mangrum's cash brought his total for 1951 to $8,326. Ferrier's third straight $2,000 lifted him to $8,262.

Pointing to his many second place finishes of 1950, when he was second money winner, Ferrier said the difference between winning and coming close can't be credited to any change in stance or swing or such things.

"Just make a putt at the right time," he said. "It lifts you mentally to a position you feel you are going to win."

Feller Calm In Loss To Pirates

Los Angeles, March 20—(AP)—Bob Feller had another exhibition defeat on his record today, but the Cleveland Indians' ace hurler didn't take it too seriously.

Bob gave up three hits for two runs in his first two innings yesterday as the Pittsburgh Pirates won, 4-2. But he finished by blanking all comers in the third, fourth and fifth.

Philadelphia, March 20—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies today announced the signing of Bob Warhol, former John Bartram, (Philadelphia) High and American Legion outfielder.

Some Thirty Greenville Linksmen To Meet New Bern In Opening Of Association Play

Amateur golfers of the eastern North Carolina clubs in the Coastal Golf Association officially swing into action tomorrow as they meet in the first matches of the six-weeks tournament of the association.

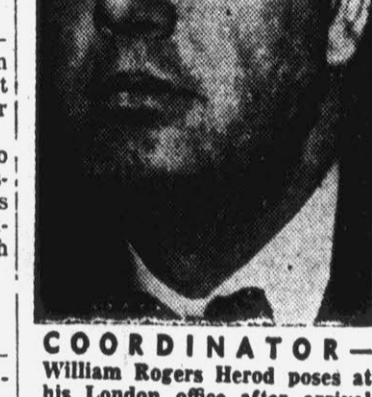

Some 30 golfers of the Greenville Golf and Country club are expected to be on the links tomorrow afternoon as the Greenville team meets the New Bern aggregation, defending champions of the 1950 Coastal Golf Association.

The Greenville club won the association championship during the 1948 and 1949 seasons, but last year Greenville was noted out by the New Bern club for top honors. The clubs in the association have been placed in two divisions for the tournament play. Each division will play the regular six-weeks tournament, and then the winner of each division will meet for the association championship.

Pro Harold Thomas of the local club urged all Greenville golfers to be on hand at the club tomorrow afternoon for the match.

The schedule of match play for the Coastal Golf Association is as follows: March 21: New Bern at Greenville; Tarboro at Washington. March 28: New Bern at Washington; Greenville at Tarboro. April 4: Greenville at New Bern; Washington at Tarboro. April 11: Washington at New Bern; Tarboro at Greenville. April 18: New Bern at Tarboro; Greenville at Washington. April 25: Tarboro at New Bern; Washington at Greenville.

Plan Inspection Of N. C. Airport

Washington, March 20—(AP)—Defense Department officials will go to the Laurinburg-Maxton, N. C., airport Friday to see if the $9,000,000 installation should be re-activated.

The primary mission for the officials will be to see if adequate housing is available in the surrounding areas for military personnel which would be attached to the base.

The Defense Department announced it was sending the officials to the air base after a North Carolina delegation argued that little towns near the base could provide the needed housing.

The Defense Department announced last week that it had abandoned plans to reactivate the base because it could not find adequate housing facilities in the area.

The North Carolina delegation was headed by Rep. Carlyle (D-NC) Rep. Deane (D-NC), Jack Spain, secretary to Senator Hoey (D-NC), and Robert Long, secretary to Senator Smith (D-NC).

They said housing for air base personnel could be furnished by Laurinburg, Maxton, Lumberton, Rockingham, Red Springs, Southern Pines, and Aberdeen in North Carolina and Bennettsville, S. C.

Flue-Cured Leaf Planting To Have 13 Percent Jump

Washington, March 19—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture forecast yesterday that 1,075,000 acres of flue-cured tobacco would be planted this year. That would be a 13 per cent increase over last year.

The department is barred by law from making cotton planting and production forecasts before July 1. But it did make forecasts on a long list of other crops.

Estimated burley tobacco plantings were 443,400 acres, an increase of nine per cent.

Flue-cured and burley allotments have been increased. If the yields equal the five-year average, the department estimated that flue-cured production should hit 1,243,000,000 pounds and burley 548,000,000 pounds.

The estimate for North Carolina-Virginia old belt flue-cured type 11 is 388,000 acres compared with 344,000 last year; eastern North Carolina type 12, 344,000 acres and 307,000 last year; South Carolina belt (S.C. and N.C.) type 13, 217,000 and 193,000; and Georgia-Florida type 14, 126,100 and 110,500.

Indicated burley acreage includes North Carolina 10,800 compared with 10,000 last year, and Kentucky 305,000 and 277,000.

Prospective Carolinas plantings of other important crops included:

- Corn—North Carolina 2,203,000 acres this year compared with 2,246,000 last year; South Carolina 1,394,000 and 1,452,000.
- Peanuts—North Carolina 234,000 and 246,000.

TIME TRAP

By ROG PHILLIPS

AP Newsfeature

Chapter 3

The newspaper carried the date—May 19, 1950. The newspaper itself was different than those of earlier years. It was put together like a magazine, pocket size, with slick paper that seemed to be some sort of plastic rather than a wood fiber pulp paper.

There was something peculiar about arriving at that date. The time machine had stopped three different times at that date. Each time Ray had gone back a ways in time and tried again to land in May third. Finally Joe had gotten an idea and silently worked it out.

"Look, Ray," he had said, "Six weeks ago in our lives you were talking to someone in May third, 1950. We seem to be able to land only in May thirteenth or several years before 1950. Maybe there are only certain moving points in time that you can insert us into with your time machine."

"That must be it," Ray agreed sourly. "That would tie in with Nelva's insistence that we hurry."

Joe chuckled suddenly. "I just thought of something," he explained. "We're looking through the paper to see what the local news is like—and we've never left town—still inside the city limits!"

"That's right!" Ray agreed, surprised. He grimaced at Joe.

"Rub it in," Joe said. "But—what do we do now? Too bad you don't know Nelva's address."

"Now that we're here," Ray said, looking at the street and buildings around him, "I find it hard to believe that this Varg Thrott business is real. Everything looks too—"

"Too prosaic," Joe said.

Ray kicked at the sidewalk that seemed to be made of something like concrete and plastic mixed together.

"Did you notice?" he asked. "All the buildings in this neighborhood—the buildings that were here in 1950, or torn down and new ones in their place—except the one where the time machine is? I wonder why?"

"Is it important?" Joe asked.

"I don't think so," Ray said slowly. "Just the same, I've got an idea. Let's decide to stay here a couple of weeks or so. Then let's send the time machine back to our own time with the controls set so it will return in two weeks. It'll only take eight minutes to get back," Ray commented as he locked the hatch cover on the outside. "Let's stand over near the door and watch what happens when it starts. Maybe we'll find the answer to why this building has been left alone."

Suddenly the time machine seemed to blur. Then it was gone. Ray now they could see why the building had been left alone. The opposite wall loomed close, as though seen through an invisible magnifying glass. And the entire building had tilted. That opposite wall, instead of being across the expanse of a level floor, seemed at the foot of a steep incline.

Ray turned his head and saw that the wall and the door at his back seemed to lean precariously over them. Joe looked too.

"Let's get out of here," he said hurriedly.

Outside, the building seemed normal. They studied it in wonder, then stepped back inside. Instantly the wall was leaning over them again.

"You go out and I'll stay here," Ray suggested.

Joe stepped outside. Instantly to Ray's eyes, he seemed to become a foot taller. He saw the expression on Joe's face.

"Hey! You look shorter!" Joe exclaimed.

"That explains a lot of things," Ray said, stepping through the doorway onto the sidewalk beside Joe. "Imagine anyone even trying to tear the building down with all the space distortion in there. No wonder it was left alone."

"But how can the wall lean inside and not outside?" Joe asked.

"It doesn't," Ray said. "We lean backwards when we're inside, and don't realize it. That's what makes the floor seem to tip downward, too. There's a force that draws us toward the place where the time machine was, and we lean back to compensate for it. Since we think we're standing up straight, we judge everything by that."

"Our time machine is out of reach," Ray said. "Let's find a drug store. They'll have a phone book. We can hunt up the address of that phone number. After that we can go look the place over. We'll have to start from there—unless I hear from Nelva via telepathy."

"Yeah," Joe murmured elaborately. "Wonder why she hasn't called you?"

They began walking, lapsing into silence as their eyes explored the changes in things around them. The streets were paved with something that looked and felt like the blacktop, so widely used in 1950; but it was as springy as foam rubber, and there were closely spaced small holes in it that gave it a waffle-like appearance.

So far they had seen no one; but now a man turned the corner ahead of them and came toward them. They studied him with concealed eagerness. He would be the first human being they had seen since leaving the year 1950!

He was disappointingly ordinary. His suit, showing signs of wear, but neatly pressed, was almost the same cut as their own. He passed them without looking directly at them, and went on without looking back at them.

"It looks like we'll at least blend into things," Ray said with relief.

At the corner they decided to go the way the man had come. Two blocks away could be seen the lights of neon signs. It was a business corner.

They passed more people, all ordinary in appearance, and all of whom passed them without more than casual glances. There were show windows lining the sidewalk now. The things displayed were recognizable and might have been "next years model" of many things existing in 1950. There was only one major difference in shop windows.

Where, in 1950, there were statuesque mannequins, unmovable signs, and neatly lettered prices, here in 1951 the clothes dummies went through repeated motions such as one, a lifelike golfer, going through the motions of striking a ball—and actually hitting one that was instantly replaced by another as the tee dropped beneath the floor and rose reloaded. The individual letters in all signs also went through continual gyrations, compelling the attention of passersby.

Webb Views U. S. Success Abroad

Durham, N. C., March 20—(AP)—The No. 2 man in the State Department, James E. Webb, a North Carolina, says the United States is meeting with success in bolstering communist-threatened areas of the world. But the Undersecretary of State added here Saturday night that the very success "creates the present period of great danger."

The natives of Oxford said in a speech to District 4 of the North Carolina Bankers Association:

"If we keep up our efforts, in time, the free world will be so strong that the situation will no longer be overbalanced by the power of the Soviet Union. The danger of war then will decrease." He reviewed accomplishments of the Marshall Plan, the Western European Defense Force, and U. S. action in Korea, and said: "The very success of these policies creates the present period of great danger. To carry them forward with courage, determination and a sense of national unity will take us through to a better day."

Food Surplus In Pakistan; India Has A Shortage

Karachi—(AP)—While its Indian neighbor pleads for food, Pakistan still has a surplus of both rice and wheat, official sources here report. An economic deadlock over the question of exchange rates—Pakistan refused to devalue its currency when India joined other soft currency countries in a downward revision in 1949—has halted trade between the two neighbors.

Official sources said about 200,000 tons of rice in the Pakistan province of Sind will be surplus in the crop year 1950-51. Most of this will be consumed in east Pakistan and in Ceylon. Of a similar quantity declared surplus in 1949-50 about 50,000 tons are still in Karachi awaiting disposal.

Approximately 175,000 tons of surplus wheat has been reported from Punjab, most of it from harvests which under normal conditions would be sold to India.

Old Coal Chute Now Reduced To Pile Of Rubble

Asheville, N. C., March 20—(AP)—A troublesome coalchute in the Asheville yards of the Southern Railway is just a pile of rubble today.

For more than a week the railroad had been attempting to raze the huge concrete and steel structure as part of a modernization program repeated dynamite blasts and batterings by a two and a half ton steel ball failed.

Yesterday, dynamite and the battering ram were used again. And this time there was success.

What once was a four-story structure is now a 25-foot high heap of twisted steel and stone.

The Egyptian chariot was highly perfected by 1500 B. C.

Doubt Value Of Antihistamines

Asheville, N. C., March 20—(AP)—Antihistamines, which a year ago were being hailed as miracle drugs, do not cure but only hide the symptoms of allergic disorders.

The Buncombe County Medical Society was told this last night by Dr. John L. Shirey, an allergy specialist, who added:

"(These drugs) do not cure. They are ineffectual in controlling asthma. Medical science is accumulating an increasing number of reports describing severe toxic reactions to these compounds."

AAUW Chapter Elects Delegates To Convention

Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, president of the North Carolina American Association of University Women, and Mrs. W. S. Krausnick, acting president of the Greenville branch of the association, were elected last night to represent the Greenville Chapter of the AAUW at the national convention of the organization.

The convention will be held in Atlantic City, N. J. from April 9 through April 13.

The list of speakers for the convention will be headed by Professor Frances E. Moran of Trinity College, Dublin, the president of the International Federation of University Women. The organization is made up of the national associations of university women in 33 countries. Dr. Moran, a barrister for many years at Kings Inns, Dublin, was the first woman in the British Isles to "take silk" — the

Three Injured In Auto Accidents Monday Evening

Three persons were injured in two Pitt County highway accidents last night.

Monday night around 6:20, a car operated by Herman Powers of near Greenville got out of control when it struck loose dirt on the New Bern highway and skidded off the highway, then across the road and nosed over in a ditch.

Powers was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital with serious injuries of the mouth and face while the other occupants of the car were treated and released.

The car was owned by F. G. Laughinghouse, who received facial injuries.

The car was demolished but did not burn over. Highway Patrolmen Cpl. H. M. Morrow and Paul C. Whitley reported.

Two cars were in collision two miles south of Ayden around 11 last night when a car headed south was struck by a car it was meeting when the latter crossed the center line.

A car driven by Allen Haywood Butts of near Ayden was traveling north when it met a car operated by Wesley Worthington of Route 2, Winterville, traveling south, which had just pulled onto the highway and was reported traveling at a speed of between 10-15 miles an hour.

Investigating Officer Patrolman R. C. Holt of Ayden stated that Butts' car crossed the center line of the highway and struck the other car head-on, causing an estimated $350 damage to each car.

Injured was Johnnie Griffin, who was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for lacerations about the face. Other occupants in the two cars were shaken up but did not require hospital treatment. Butts was arrested on a charge of careless and reckless driving.

great lot of oil through a new agreement with the British government which owns 52 per cent of Anglo-Iranian, the biggest company in the country. The British had offered to split profits 50-50 even though the British had made all the initial investments for prospecting, machinery, pipe lines and staff.

Razmara was fighting for big money and quick, which he would have gotten through the British offer, because most Iranians—90 per cent of them—are poorly fed and illiterate. Russian propaganda is trying to swing them to communism. So Razmara needed quick money to raise the common Iranian's standard of living. He is dead.

He has been followed in office by another friend of the West, Hussein Ala. Ala was Iran's delegate to the United Nations in 1946 when world public opinion forced Moscow to take her troops out of Iran. Ala led the fight with the help of the then U. S. Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, and won.

The second top Iranian attacked was Dr. Abdul Hamid Zanganeh, former Minister of Education, who was shot yesterday by a student who had been discovered cheating on exams. It could be just a local brawl.

But listen to the brother of the dead Premier, Reza Razmara, who is working this year with a Boston engineering concern. When he

Open Hearing On Pari-Mutuel Bill

Raleigh, N. C., March 20—(AP)—Legislation to outlaw pari-mutuel betting at North Carolina race tracks was scheduled for hearing today before a House committee.

Supporters of the bills before the legislature were slated to present their arguments before the House Committee on Propositions and Grievances at 2:30 p.m.

Committee Chairman John B. Reagan of Robeson said opponents of the two measures will have a chance to air their views at a hearing possibly Thursday afternoon.

The bills would ban pari-mutuel betting and any other betting system adaptable for use at race tracks. The pari-mutuel betting system now is used at two dog tracks in the state—at Morehead City and Moyock.

Meanwhile, a flock of bills—39 in all—was introduced last night as the legislature began its 12th week.

Monkey Tried As Court Defendant

Columbus, ?—(AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court will try to unravel a case about a monkey who grabbed a $10 bill from a lady customer in a pet shop.

When Miss Katherine Busch tried to retrieve the money, the monkey bit her. She sued the Cleveland pet shop operators, and a lower court awarded her a $1,700 verdict.

The judgement directed that either party be allowed to visit the children at any time. The defendant was ordered to pay the cost of the proceedings.

In the case of the "Church of God in Christ Jesus, New Deal, Inc. of Farmville, N.C." vs. John H. Johnson, et al., the judgement ruled that the religious group known in 1944 as the "Church of God in Christ, New Deal, Inc. of Farmville, N.C." is the same religious group known in 1951 as "Bible Way Church," and that Edward Rhodes, Ed Smith and Wyatt Harper as trustees of "Bible Way Church" are lawful possessors of the premises in the case.

In the case of Laura Ealman vs. Asa Locus, the court ordered the defendant cancel the mortgage held against a particular piece of property, and that the defendant likewise pay the cost of the proceeding.

Describes Work Of Easter Seals

Col. Charles H. Warren, state president of the North Carolina League for Crippled Children spoke last night at the weekly meeting of the Greenville Lions club, where he described the work being carried on in aiding the handicapped persons of the state.

Warren pointed out to the club members that the funds raised through the sale of Easter Seals, was one of the main supports of the organization.

The group tries to give the services needed by a crippled person which will enable him or her to be able to perform a normal community service.

"A handicapped person is not as prone to accidents as an average person is, in the fact that he has one handicap and is on his guard to prevent any more if possible," he said. Furthermore, a crippled person is not likely to waste as much time as a person who does not have any defects. Actually a handicapped worker in many cases makes a much better worker, over-all than does the so called "normal person."

The job of the league which Warren is president is to help the person adjust himself to carry on his regular job or to find one which can be performed by him with as good results.

Warren praised the work carried on by the Lions Club over the nation with the blind.

Warren was introduced by John Greer who was in charge of the program.

Second Vice-President Henry Swain presided over the weekly meeting.

Cadillac

Its Great Name is Free!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

If there were some way to strip a Cadillac of every identifying emblem it possesses, and judge it solely by the way it rides and handles and performs—it would be quickly recognizable as the "Standard of the World."

But think what a Cadillac brings you in addition to the solid value of its engineering and performance and comfort and handling ease—the wonderful Cadillac name!

Perhaps in all the world, there is no inanimate object which speaks so eloquently as the Cadillac shield. It talks of background, of progress, and of faultless workmanship.

It proclaims a promise of years and years of the utmost motoring satisfaction. It speaks of its owner, and identifies him as a man of accomplishment and discrimination.

In fact, there is nothing good and wonderful a motor car can bring that isn't promised or implied by the beautiful Cadillac shield. And it speaks a universal language, which is understood and appreciated the wide world over.

And remember, you pay no extra penalty for the pride and pleasure of having this great and distinguished name. They come as a "special dividend" with every Cadillac car.

We deeply regret that we are unable to deliver new Cadillac cars without some delay. But the demand for the car is unprecedented—and much of the company's energies and materials are now being devoted to the needs of national security. Once the car is delivered into your hands, however, we know you'll agree that—patience never brought a richer reward.
