New Food Price Control System Is Prepared For Early Issuance

About 60 Per Cent Of Grocery Basket Items To Be Affected By Orders

Washington, March 28—(AP)—The government was ready today to order a new system of price controls on about 60 per cent of the food in your grocery store.

The changeover will give the American public some price relief and some price increases within the next few weeks—and Price Director Michael V. Disalle has predicted that the dollar will outperform its increases.

The nation's approximately 500,000 grocery stores will be ordered not to exceed certain "mark-up" percentages on about 40 categories of foods.

They are not expected to cover bread, milk, eggs, fresh meat, fresh fruits, or fresh vegetables.

At present, the retail and wholesale prices of most foods are frozen at the highest levels charged by each seller between Dec. 19 and Jan. 25—except that in the case of most foods, when farm prices rise, the food-seller may raise his price his price to allow for this rise.

The new food order: will allow food sellers to pass on any increases in the cost of food items, and will require them to lower their prices whenever their own costs go down.

A food seller will use the tables of percentages in whatever regulation applies to him, to determine his ceiling prices. For example, a retail grocer receiving a can of beans can determine his ceiling price by adding the government "marked" mark up percentage to beans.

OPS officials say that later—in a few months—when the changeover has been completed and food prices have become fairly stable, will be fixed, with the ceiling price of each article in a store clearly marked for the housewife to see.

Record N. C. Budget Before Joint Appropriations Body

Subcommittee's Measure Calls For State Spending Of $506 Millions During Next Two Fiscal Years; Pari-Mutuels Upheld

Raleigh, N. C., March 28—(AP)—The joint Appropriations committee had under study today a revised budget bill which calls for a record state spending of approximately $506,000,000 during the next two fiscal years.

A special 18-member subcommittee, following three weeks of work, yesterday presented the bill to the full committee. The subcommittee recommended that general fund spending be increased $42,778,018 above that proposed by the Advisory Budget Commission.

The subcommittee's recommended increases would:

1. Provide a $2,200-$3,100 pay scale for public school teachers, increase operating budgets for the schools, and maintain the present school teacher load.

2. Provide a $15-a-month cost-of-living salary hike for all state employees and maintain merit pay boosts for them.

3. Provide a 13 per cent increase in operating funds for state institutions to meet rising costs.

4. Restore $1,400,000 to the state employees retirement fund to make it "actuarially sound" and set aside an additional contribution to the fund of $1,225,000 each year of the biennium.

Teel Sentenced To Prison For Murder

Greenville Man Given 22-25 Years In Prison For Pocketknife Slaying Of Randolph Parker On March 3

Roy Teel, 45-year old Greenville Negro, was yesterday sentenced to serve 22-25 years in prison for the murder of Randolph Parker March 3.

Teel was tried yesterday afternoon in Superior Court, one day after the grand jury had indicted him for the pocket-knife slaying of the 50-year-old Negro at a river camp near Grimsland. The jury returned a verdict of second-degree murder in less than a half-hour.

Solicitor W. J. Bundy stated he would not press for a first-degree murder charge. Instead, the jury was instructed to return a verdict of either murder of the second degree, manslaughter, or not guilty.

Testimony in the case required only a short time as the Negroes present at the camp when the stabbing occurred, took the stand and stated what had happened. Teel offered no defense.

They stated Teel and Parker, who had come to the camp to repair an automobile, were in Parker's car and were arguing as to when they were coming back to Greenville. Testimony was that Parker struck Teel in the chest and thereupon Teel pulled out a pocket knife and stabbed the other Negro once in the neck. The blade severed Parker's jugular vein and he bled to death before the Negroes on the place could summon a doctor.

On the jury were three Negroes, one of whom read the verdict to judge Leo Carr. One of the white jurors stated after the verdict was handed in that the three Negroes were in accord in voting for a verdict of second-degree murder instead of manslaughter. Sam Grimes, a Negro bricklayer from Grifton, read the verdict.

DuPont Retains Greenville Houses For Plant Employees

Notify Local Business Group That Terms Acceptable; Assures Formation Of Housing Corporation To Further Work

The first assurance that employees of the DuPont fiber V will make their homes in Greenville came shortly after 12:30 today when a spokesman for the DuPont officials notified a group of Greenville businessmen that the corporation will guarantee the rent on a group of houses in Greenville until the employees of the plant can get to Greenville to occupy the dwellings.

C. S. Anderson, project manager for the construction of the $30,000,000 plant in Lenoir County, notified A. B. Stallworth of Greenville about 12:30 today that the DuPont corporation would retain 17 houses now under construction in Tucker Circle in South Greenville until the employees of the plant could get here to take the houses individually.

The notification brought to a climax a week of intense negotiation between the DuPont representatives and a group of Greenville businessmen. The confirmation of the rent for the houses assured the formation of a housing corporation composed of Greenville businessmen which already had closed the deal for the purchase of ten of the Tucker Circle houses from Contractor Roy G. Smith of Greenville who has the houses under construction. The other seven of the 17 houses in the Tucker Circle project are to be purchased by a group of individual Greenville businessmen and made available to the DuPont personnel.

A. B. Stallworth, who spearheaded the movement for the formation of the housing corporation, stated this morning, "A concession was made in the price of the houses by the owners, and local financing arranged to make it possible for the housing corporation to rent the houses, if purchased, at a reasonable rate to the DuPont personnel. The corporation hopes the rents in Greenville will be kept at a reasonable level. The success of this project and others to follow to make Greenville grow as it should can be accomplished only through the cooperation of everybody in making our housing facilities available at reasonable prices."

The terms for the purchase of the houses were agreed upon yesterday morning in a meeting of representatives of the directors of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company. It was the second of such meetings which was held. The first of a series of three meetings was held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the offices of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce under the auspices of Greenville Industries Inc. and the leadership of W. H. Woolard and James S. Ficklen.

At the Saturday meeting, it was decided to form a separate housing corporation if necessary rather than secure the houses through Greenville Industries Inc.

A complete list of the names of the local businessmen who will form the housing corporation was not (Continued on Page Ten)

Nurses Start Moving Into Completed Home

Medical Care Commission Approves Structure At Pitt Memorial Hospital; Only 12 Rooms To Be Used At Present

The nurses home at Pitt Memorial Hospital has finally been completed, bring to an end the construction for the medical plant just outside Greenville.

Yesterday the nurses—all single women—began moving into the new home from the nurses quarters at Pitt General. And by tonight all will have moved into the new brick building located just behind the hospital.

At present only 12 rooms will be occupied when additions are made leaving the rest to be occupied to the staff. Yesterday the Medical Care Commission approved the building and last week the hospital architect approved it subject to specifications required by the Commission.

The building contains 29 rooms, each to house two nurses, and a two-room suite. In addition to the living quarters, the building has a small kitchen, a lounge and a "date" room for entertaining. An open house to the public's inspection is planned some time during the next ten days. Miss Phyllis Michalik, supervisor of nurses, stated today.

The building was constructed at a cost of close to $125,000 and was tentatively planned for opening March 1. However, building material shortages and late arrival of such materials caused the delay.

The home is styled similar to the construction of the hospital and is equipped with plastic and leather furniture in the lounges with other decorative interior furnishing.

Whistles blew, airplanes roared overhead and champagne flowed in Auriol's honor as the liner Ile De France nosed through New York harbor.

The smiling president also was greeted with a 21-gun salute from an Army gun at Governor's Island. In a dramatic scene, Auriol doffed his gray hat and held it at arm's length over his head in a salute to the Statue of Liberty—France's gift to the United States as a symbol of freedom.

Big Guns Pour Central Front Where 90,000 Communists Are Dug In; South Korean Patrols Cross Border; Rain And Mud Slows General Advance

Tokyo, March 28—(AP)—American artillery firing from mud-mired positions today pounded communist forces massed along the 38th parallel in central Korea.

Field dispatches said the Reds were digging in south of the border on both the western and central fronts.

Along the east coast, South Korean troops moved more than six miles north of 38. They occupied four North Korea towns and a border village.

But the focus of battle was on the central front, where 90,000 communists were reported in defensive positions south and north of the border.

Allied infantry patrols advanced through pelted rain seeking targets. When they met communist fire they retreated to let the artillery lay down a roaring barrage. Allied warplanes dove out of the overcast and hammered the Reds with jelled gasoline, bombs and machine gun fire.

The allies were pushing a scorched earth policy in reverse: mercilessly pounding the ground they hope to take if the Reds withdraw. They also hoped to thwart any communist plans for a counter-offensive. If the Reds are building up for a new drive they probably will start it during this rainy season.

The rains were a serious handicap for the United Nations forces. They slowed the air attack and bogged down the ponderous armored forces.

Northeast of Seoul, a Chinese regiment stubbornly stood off an allied attack with a wall of mortar and small arms fire. Air observers reported Red forces ranging up to battalion size all along the 38th parallel. They seemed determined to hold it against the U. S. authorities demanded an immediate audience with the Russians for an explanation.

The communist police fired 12 pistol shots at four buses carrying American Army and civilian personnel on the regular Wednesday tour of Berlin sponsored by the Army's Special Services.

Marshall Thinks World Outlook More Serious

Washington, March 28—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall, obviously worried about changes Congress may make in the pending draft and Universal Military Training bills, says he thinks the world situation now is more serious than being thrown back in Korea.

The Defense Chief made that statement yesterday at a news conference. At the same conference he compared the size of the Korean operation with the Soviet communist push he said covers the whole world.

Morehead City Mayor W. L. Derickson asserted: "from my observation the local people do not consider the race tracks as a place for betting, but more as recreation and amusement."

A standing vote of 23-4 was recorded on the bill introduced by Rep. Robert Dalrymple of Lee. The other bill was introduced by Rep. Noah Burfoot of Pasquotank.

Wrangling Of Big Four Deputy Meet To Go On

Paris, March 28—(AP)—The Big Four deputy Foreign Ministers resume their talks today with nothing but a continuation of their propaganda battle in sight.

The deputies are supposed to be trying to decide on an agenda for a proposed meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia.

Actually, they have devoted most of the previous 18 meetings to wrangling on issues between the East and West, despite a pre-conference agreement they would discuss only what topics should go on the agenda.

Yesterday's meeting produced some of the sharpest words of the conference.

Artificial Rice Made Of Tapioca

New Delhi—(AP)—A demonstration plant for the experimental production of "artificial rice" is in operation under Government auspices, Natural Resources and Scientific Research Minister Sri Prakasa stated in response to a question in parliament.

Prakasa said the plant processes 300 pounds of the synthetic food-factory equipped to produce five to seven tons daily is "under consideration." Prakasa added. The artificial rice contains an estimated 3 times more starch than milled rice. Tapioca is the principal ingredient.

One-Time Vice Consul Admits Taking Bribes

Washington, March 28—(AP)—A young former vice consul at Hong Kong, John Wayne Williams, faced a possible criminal prosecution today after reportedly confessing he accepted $10,000 in bribes to speed up visas for Chinese.

The State Department said the Justice Department is actively following up the case. The State Department said its own investigation also turned up confessions of homosexuality by Williams and three other consulate employees.

Meanwhile, the State Department and immigration authorities are trying to track down any Chinese in this country who may be here on visas obtained by bribery.

First Atomic Espionage Trial Goes To Jury Today

New York, March 28—(AP)—With conviction meaning possible death sentences for the three defendants, the nation's first atomic espionage trial goes to a federal court jury today.

The three are charged with conspiracy to transmit American atomic secrets—including that of the Nagasaki A-bomb—to Russia during wartime.

Point-by-point denials of the charges have been entered by two of the defendants, electrical engineer Julius Rosenberg, 34, and his wife, Ethel, 35.

Racial Issue For Private Colleges

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, March 28—Up to now educational institutions owned and maintained by various church denominations or privately owned or endowed have manifested only academic interest in the question of racial segregation which has been a serious problem for tax-supported institutions.

Their academic interest may soon be converted into an issue of vital import, according to several men who can be classified as "legal authorities."

United States supreme court decisions have repeatedly set out that public utilities, such as railroads and bus lines, cannot practice segregation or any type of discrimination because of race or creed. The principle involved there is that these utilities are quasi-public because of operation under government franchise and with some delegated governmental powers.

So far as your reporter can ascertain, there has not been a court decision prohibiting segregation practices by entirely privately owned and operated business establishments whose only connection with government is to pay taxes.

Point is now made that religious, educational and charitable institutions accorded tax exemption under federal and state laws are to that limited extent "tax supported," and therefore may be within purview of the anti-segregation and anti-discrimination rulings of the courts, both with respect to racial and sexual classifications. That would seem to be the logical and inevitable extension of the non-segregation philosophy.

At any rate it is an interesting conjecture.

How Much Secrecy?

An Instructor At A Top Army School Suggests Security Classification Of Much Information Is Too Rigid; Value Of Public Awareness; Suggested Changes

Washington, March 28—(AP)—An instructor at the Army's Command and General Staff College says too much information is withheld from the public on the pretext that releasing it would be against the national interest.

The opinion was stated by Lieut. Col. Richard W. Whitney in the current issue of "Military Review," printed at the school, at Fort Leavenworth, Kas. The editor noted that Whitney's views were not necessarily those of the Army or the College.

Whitney wrote there "is a natural tendency in high places to place security classification on much information and intelligence which would better serve our national interests if it were also made available to the public."

"Plainly speaking," he continued, "there are persons whose thought processes run in this fashion. 'Someone might think this document should be classified so I'll just protect myself and stamp it Secret now.' Or 'it was marked Confidential when it arrived from Paris, so why should I go to the trouble of getting it downgraded?'"

Whitney defined information as "mere facts" and intelligence as "the significance of those facts and the conclusions drawn therefrom."

Public opinion was slow to approve President Truman's plans for military aid to Greece and Turkey, Whitney recalled. The public never was told the reasons why the aid should be given quickly, he indicated, because most of the reasons "bore a security classification."

New A-Bomb Test May Be Slated In Far North

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, March 28—(AP)—The United States may be preparing its fifth atomic weapons proving ground, this one in a sub-Arctic wasteland.

A lonely spot on the Aleutian Island chain, which stretches out 800 miles from the Alaskan mainland westward toward Russia's Siberian empire, appears a probable choice.

Party Elect Tuesday

As the guests arrived, they were greeted at the door by Mrs. Van Nortwick and the hostess. They were introduced to the honoree and to Mrs. Larry James, Jr., a recent bride, and gathered in the spacious living room which was enhanced by arrangements of mixed spring flowers.

They were invited into the dining room where from a beautifully appointed table arranged by Mrs. J. L. Brown of Bethel refreshments were served. The table was centered with a flower wedding ring composed of tiny pastel blossoms and fern. Sandwiches, hors d'oeuvres arranged on a large platter holding a honeydew melon, nuts and canapes were on the center table, while from a side table, the guests were served dainty party sweets by Mrs. Wade Ward. Local drinks were served from a crystal punch bowl by Mrs. J. T. Nelson of New York City. Assisting the hostess at the center table was Mrs. D. E. McKay, also from New York City.

Corsages of bridal pink camellias were presented to Miss Larkins and Mrs. James upon their arrival. The honoree was also presented with gifts of silver dishes.

More than sixty young friends from Bethel and Greenville were present for this delightful occasion.

Youthful Workers Club Elects New Officers

The March meeting of the Youthful Workers Club was held at the attractive home of Mrs. Frances Cassick, Monday Night, March 26, 1951 at 8:00 P.M.

The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Charles Allen. Devotion was directed by Frances Cassick, opened by singing together "The Old Rugged Cross". The scripture was taken from the 21st chapter of John, 1-13 verses and prayer was by Lawrence Tyson. All then joined together in singing "At The Cross".

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved; roll was called with 22 members and 3 visitors present. Old business was then discussed. The date for the play "Wild Ginger" was set for April 18, 1951 at 8:00 P.M. to be given at the Red Oak Club Building.

The nominating committee presented the following slate of officers for the new year which was unanimously accepted by the club as follows: President—Hazel Garrie; Vice-President—Douglas Allen; Secretary—Naomi Edwards; Treasurer—Frances Cassick; Adult Advisors—Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Tyson. Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Tyson, Lawrence Tyson discussed the purpose of the club and the duties of each officer. Each officer responded by standing and pledging to do her or his best for the upbuilding of the club.

Musical games and contests were led by Mrs. Frances Cassick and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Cooked, chicken by pre-Coca Cola, Chicken Salad Sandwiches, cookies and candies were served.

After singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds", the club adjourned to meet on the Monday Night after 4th Sunday in April at the Community Club House for a weiner roast. Naomi Edwards, Frances Cassick, Charles Allen and Louis Holloway were appointed as a committee to make preparation for this meeting.

Fountain Children Enjoy Egg Hunt

Fountain—The Fountain Presbyterian Church Primary and Nursery Sunday School Classes were given an Easter egg hunt on the church lawn Monday afternoon at three o'clock by their teachers.

Ivey Smith, Judy Owen and Eddie Evans were awarded the prizes for finding the most eggs.

After the egg hunt the hostesses served ice cream and cakes to all present.

Last Rites Thursday For J. T. Singleton

Mr. James T. Singleton, 73, died at his home in the Clark's Neck community near Washington, N.C., at 5:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon following several months of failing health. ### Mrs. C. E. Blair Hostess To Chatham Club

The Chatham Book Club held a delightful meeting on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. C. E. Blair as hostess. Colorful spring flowers added to the attractiveness of the home.

Mrs. J. K. Long read an announcement of the forthcoming Art Festival and an invitation to club members to attend the luncheon meeting April 10th.

The following officers were elected for the new year: Mrs. Leonard Topping, president; Mrs. F. A. Bendall, vice-president; Mrs. Bryan Brown, secretary; and Mrs. W. D. Tucker, treasurer.

An excellent study of "Russian Literature" was most ably given by Mrs. A. C. Ruffin. She discussed the lives and plays of Gogol and Chekhov, novels of Turgenev and Karamazov, and the verse of Pushkin. All literature is censored and the writer's life in peril unless he complies with the Russian standard. Mrs. Ruffin concluded with a most amusing reading from Chekhov's "Work of Art," and the club is much indebted to her for a splendid program.

Mrs. Blair served a delicious salad course accompanied with nuts and coffee.

Mrs. Hortense Moye Hostess To Wesley Philathea Class

The Wesley Philathea Class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church met Monday night at the home of Mrs. Hortense Moye.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Milton White, Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, Mrs. Hill Horne and Mrs. S. T. White.

Mrs. J. B. Smith, class president, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Milton White gave a very inspiring devotional, after which the secretary called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting.

Following the business session an enjoyable social hour followed. Mrs. Milton White gave a reading entitled "Our Gardens," which was enjoyed by all. Tempting refreshments were served before the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. C. F. Irons Hostess To Inter Se Club

"Leonardo da Vinci" was the subject of the program presented by Mrs. L. M. Buchanan at the meeting of the Inter Se Book Club on Tuesday afternoon, March 27, at which Mrs. C. F. Irons was hostess at the home of Mrs. S. B. Underwood Jr.

In her discussion of this man who is believed by many to be the most awe inspiring figure of the Renaissance, Mrs. Buchanan told of his achievements in the field of science as well as in the field of art. This talk was illustrated with copies of the artist's masterpieces and drawings of his inventions.

The president, Mrs. Reynolds May, presided over a short business session. Committees for next year were appointed and club officers for the year 1951-1952 were elected.

A delightful social hour followed during which time Mrs. Underwood, assisted by Mrs. F. D. Duncan, served delicious refreshments.

Round Table Meets With Mrs. Chas. Horne

Mrs. Charles O'H. Horne was a hostess to the Round Table Book Club on Tuesday, March 27.

Music Training For County HD Leaders Scheduled Thursday

On Thursday afternoon at three o'clock Mrs. J. Paul Davenport, county music chairman, will conduct a music training school in the Wright building at East Carolina Teachers College.

Two leaders from each home demonstration club in the county will be trained in group singing, conducting, selection of records, and music appreciation.

Mrs. Davenport attended the district training school in February, which was made up of music chairmen from 32 counties and under the direction of Dr. Rudolph Willmann of ECTC. Each member was asked to go back and instruct in her own county.

According to the 1950 census, 25 per cent of all renters of non-farm dwellings were paying $50 or more per month in rent, while in 1940 only 7 per cent were paying that much.

Library Session For HD Group

The education leaders, which consists of one representative from each home demonstration club in the county, met this afternoon at 2:30 at the Sheppard Memorial library for a training school.

Mrs. Beas Scott, librarian, conducted the training school and showed the members of the class the entire library, taught them how a book review should be given, and gave them an up to date list on approved books for home demonstration club members in order that they may read these books and get reading certificates at the end of the year.

Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Brantly Speight, co-leader, also discussed bookmobile stops in the county.

Cub Pack Meeting
Cub Pack No. 19, sponsored by the Men's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church, will meet in the basement of the church this Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

Each den will have part on the program. Awards will be given to those who have passed their tests. Parents are urged to attend with their Cubs.

Men of Albemarle Presbytery
The spring meeting of the men of Albemarle Presbytery will be held in the new First Presbyterian church of Wilson Thursday, March 29, at 7 p. m. The speaker will be Clarence Johnson, elder in the Westminster Presbyterian church of St. Louis, Mo., new director of the Presbyterian program of progress, Atlanta. A splendid program of music, presented by the choir of the First Presbyterian church of Wilson, will be heard in the new sanctuary.

The young lady who lets misplaced vanity keep her from wearing the glasses she needs, does not escape the penalty.
There is no surer way of creating "crow's feet", wrinkles and other signs of age, than the constant squinting of the person who needs glasses but doesn't wear them.
So foolish to pay this penalty, when today's colorful glasses can actually add to your appearance. Let us show you how!

Tomorrow's Gardens By The Greenville Garden Club

Now is the time to get into the ground the seeds of zinnias, marigolds, nasturtiums and other annuals. Some of us have already planted part of ours, hoping for a few extra early flowers. We must watch though for late frosts. Usually we are given sufficient warning in time to cover any tender growth but we must be careful.

This year much emphasis is being put on the growing of food crops. Even a very small garden may have a few short rows of lettuce, beans and a few tomato plants, and if planted early we can enjoy our own fresh vegetables while it is still hard to buy them.

Many gardeners advise against combining vegetables and flowers. It is our privilege to disagree. A small plot given over to vegetables may be bordered with flowers or if the vegetable garden is fairly large it may be divided into sections for easier care and flowers planted along the dividing paths.

We have seen such a small garden worked out—not just a vague plan in someone's mind. On one side were short rows of parsley, carrots, beets and lettuce to be followed later by a few plants of tomatoes and bell peppers. Between the two plots was a path bordered on each side with jonquils, daisies and zinnias. Separating the garden plot from the lawn was a border of day lilies and irises.

Another gardener reversed the process and growing in front of sweetpeas were marvellous heads of lettuce. Still another used Floribunda and Polyantha roses to separate the vegetable garden from the lawn.

A landscape architect may suggest a planting of choice evergreens to screen off the vegetable garden and at the other extreme we may have a beautified and effective border for one season by planting a package of marigold seeds. The choice is infinite.

Planting a vegetable garden calls for plenty of common sense. It is a waste of time and space to grow vegetables which can be purchased at any market unless we are growing enough to increase food production. For the home owner who gardens on a very small scale the real advantage lies in having fresh vegetables that you like available at the time you need them.

Bride Elect Of April Honored At Shower Party

On Tuesday evening at 8:00, Miss Katie Lou Vincent, bride-elect of April, was honored at a canastalin shower by the Mesdames Earl Kittrell, Billy Weston and Bennie Brickhouse at the home of Mrs. Kittrell.

Upon her arrival, the honoree was presented with a lovely corsage of white chrysanthemums. Two adjoining living rooms were used for play and were decorated with colorful arrangements of flowers, bringing a note of spring into the room. The guests were seated at the five tables which were covered with white linen cloths. A dessert course was served consisting of lime ice in ginger ale, bridal cakes, nuts, and mints. Following the refreshments, two progressions of canasta were played. Miss Lois Edwards was the winner of the high score prize, and Miss Katie Lou Vincent won the low prize.

At the close of the games, Miss Vincent was presented a basket of gifts from her friends present. She received many useful gifts of linen, which included a yellow damask table cloth from the hostesses.

Fountain Church Women Have Study Class

Fountain.—On Tuesday at six o'clock, March 20, the Women of the Fountain Presbyterian Church met in the home of Mrs. Hardy Johnson.

Upon the arrival of the members, Mrs. Johnson, assisted by Mrs. G. E. Trevathan, Miss Ernestine Mosley and Miss Martha Hardy Johnson, served a salad plate and coffee followed by a dessert course.

After supper, the meeting opened with the singing of "Trust and Obey," followed by prayer.

The group was privileged to have Mrs. Terrell Parker of Pinetops, who taught "The Epistle to the Hebrews" in a very interesting manner.

The meeting closed with the reading of a poem by Mrs. Johnson. There were 21 present for the Bible Study.

Good-Grooming Box Is Office Girl Accessory

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor By BETTY CLARKE

Pastidious girls keep a good-grooming box in their office desk or locker.

This comes in handy not only on special occasions or when the boss expects visitors, but is put to daily use. Anything that contributes to beauty and femininity during the day should be put in your little catch-all beauty box. Here is a list of some items which are useful from time to time:

1. Cleansing cream, cleansing tissues, witch hazel.

2. A compact or box of powder, puff, and foundation cream.

3. Lipstick and hair grooming aid.

4. Eyebrow pencil, mascara, eye-shadow (for that last minute after-five invitation).

5. Toothbrush, nail brush, nail file, clothes brush, shoe brush, shoe polish.

6. Nail polish, hair pins, cologne.

7. Needles, thread pins.

Some girls will wail, "But how in the world can you afford all that?" It won't squeeze your purse strings if you accumulate it over a period of months. Start out with the essentials—cleansing cream, tissues and witch hazel and work down from there.

It always is a good idea to keep an extra pair of hose in your desk, but it is hard to convince girls that this is a good investment. Some girls feel they just can't afford to put out money for a pair of stockings which is "idle" all of the time. Sometimes, however, it is cheaper in the long run. You will agree if you've ever had to buy a pair of stockings in an emergency. Usually you can't match them to the hose you are wearing, thereby probably wasting one stocking. If you buy several pairs at once and keep to the same shade, you will save money by being able to match up the odd stocking each time.

A simple date dress kept in the locker also will serve you well.

Look in your vanity drawer at home and you will find any number of items which you have in duplicate and could be use in your office beauty chest. Halfused lipsticks and odds and ends of other cosmetics will help start your box of beauty aids.

A feather-pressed powder in cake form is handy for touch-up sessions. You can apply it at the desk without a fleck of powder falling loose. One new one shortly due to reach cosmetics counters offers handy powder refills for the budget purse.

POWDER POINTER... Feather-pressed powder in cake form, does not spill over the desk. Available soon at cosmetics counters.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WHICH WAY?

In the thirteenth chapter of Acts is the account of how Paul preached to the citizens of Antioch of Pisidia on his first missionary journey. As the Gentiles listened to his preaching "they were glad and glorified the Word of God; and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed."

Many have pointed to this as a proof of predestination. This indicates, they have insisted, that certain people are ordained—in fact, foreordained—to be saved, and it carries with it the implication that other people are ordained not to be saved.

The Bible, of course, teaches nothing of the sort. The Greek word translated "ordained" really means "set in array." So a literal translation of this statement is "as many as were set in array for eternal life believed."

God gives us what we are ready to receive. Everybody is saved who is ready to be saved, whose life is so set in array that divine gifts can be gratefully accepted. If we are consciously living lives which are below what we know to be best, we are not in a position to receive anything better from the hand of God. We are "saved" when our lives are "set in array for eternal life." God gives eternal life to those who are ready to receive it. He withholds it from no one, but many people withhold it from themselves.

Are you set in array to receive God's gifts or are you set not to receive them? This is an important question.

Fair Prices Will Mean Good Returns

In several localities in North Carolina where the influx of people has made the housing situation acute, there have been reports of tremendous jumps in rental prices.

The Reflector sincerely hopes the anticipation of new comers to Greenville through the location of the new DuPont site 22 miles from the city limits does not persuade local landlords to hike rents.

It is quite true that Greenville stands a good chance of having some of the DuPont employes living here . . . provided the people of Greenville demonstrate to the DuPont officials and employes that we would like to have new citizens in our community. Surely jumping dwelling rents five to ten dollars or more a month just because we may get new citizens can not be construed as a friendly gesture toward prospective residents.

Naturally Greenville expects to receive many direct and indirect benefits by the location of the new DuPont plant just a few miles from the Pitt county line. But the city's chances of receiving the maximum benefits can be reduced to practically nothing if the local citizens try to gouge the DuPont employes for every nickel we can get out of them. If we want the employes of the new plant to come to Greenville and make their homes here, we must treat them fairly, and charge fair prices for whatever we have that they can use. They don't want concessions . . . they just want to be treated like other people.

If we exhibit a friendly attitude which is indicative of the good community we have, we can be reasonably sure some of the DuPont people will want to make their homes in Greenville.

If on the other hand, the people of Greenville look upon the new comers as a group of individuals who are here for the sole purpose of stuffing our own pockets with additional dollar bills, we may be sure Greenville's part in the development of the DuPont plant will be small.

Reports from other places indicate some landlords already are showing their rents to unreasonable levels. And from the reports, the DuPont people are by-passing those landlords who have set their prices too high.

If the people of Greenville keep the prices at reasonable levels the DuPont people will be attracted to Greenville. If we let our prices sky-rocket, we will surely keep the new comers away.

The Mold Must Meet The Needs

North Carolina's General Assembly has under consideration at the present time legislation which would streamline the state's public school program to better meet the needs of the students for today's living and tomorrow's living.

With national and international affairs as they now stand—and as it appears they will remain for many years—most people have resigned themselves to the fact that the young men of the nation for a long time to come are going to have to give two years of their lives to military training and service.

In view of that condition, there must be adjustments made somewhere along the line of growing up to help the youths of this state compensate for the years they will invest in the nation's security. The answer seems to lie in reducing the age at which a youngster will complete his high school education. By changing from October 1 to December 1 the date by which a child must reach his sixth birthday to enter the state's public schools, many children will be able to begin school a full year earlier than they can under the present regulations.

Likewise the educational leaders of the state, led by J. H. Rose of Greenville, are proposing that school curricula be altered to allow a student who is capable of doing so to finish his grammar school and high school work in eleven years rather than twelve years without missing any of the essential phases of school work.

Permission to make these necessary alterations must be granted by the General Assembly, and the Reflector sincerely hopes the General Assembly will not adjourn without adopting this legislation needed by the schools.

After all, the purpose of the public school system of North Carolina is to equip the youth of the state with an educational and emotional background which will best suit him or her for meeting the type of living which will be encountered after school days are finished.

Just as business, transportation and other things must be altered to meet the changing times, so must the educational system be altered to keep the students properly equipped for the times in which they will live.

North Carolina's system of 12 grades was established in the jobless '30's to take youngsters out of the labor market and keep them in the classrooms as long as possible. Surely the same system is not the best plan during these days when the demand for labor and leadership, particularly among the younger age groups, is growing so rapidly.

A static educational system will surely result in the molding of a group of citizens who will be unable to adequately cope with their surroundings in future years.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28—The startling successes on and off television of the Kefauver and Fulbright investigations have led several members of House and Senate to propose a sweeping inquiry into the operations of a federal agency which has so far escaped the annoyance or curiosity of Capitol Hill—namely, the Securities & Exchange Commission, which is supposed to regulate the bulls and bears of Wall Street.

The demand for a look-see is based on a growing suspicion that the SEC has become too friendly with and sympathetic toward the interests it is charged with watchdogging.

In enforcing the Holding Company Act, which requires parent firms to get rid of their operating companies, it has been reported that the SEC is permitting huge profits to the original owners and promoters at the expense of the public, especially in the utility field.

SALE—In a recent deal involving the proposed sale of the Washington Power Company of Washington State to public utility districts, it refused to intervene or to supervise the transaction.

It was asked to interfere because of reports that the excessive price to be paid for the property would mean a loss of taxes to the communities involved, and higher utility rates to the customers.

BAR—The SEC split two-to-two on the question. The anti-intervention members contended that the Holding Company Act barred them from taking jurisdiction when sale of private utilities to public bodies, local, state or national, was involved. But two members, after consulting counsel, decided that the federal act was no bar to SEC intervention.

Members of Congress, who know all the details, feel that the SEC should have taken control of this questionable transaction, thus forcing a court challenge of their action and a judicial interpretation of the basic law.

In failing to do so, the charge is made that the SEC "sold out to the boys in Wall Street." And some of the accusers are Wall Street "big shots" themselves.

TRUTH—The SEC was one of Franklin D. Roosevelt's flaming reforms and one which gave him great personal pleasure, for he had never been a shining success in downtown Manhattan. In explaining its purpose at a press conference, he exulted in the fact that he was proclaiming a new doctrine in the "temple of the money-changers."

"It is to be," he grinned, "one of 'let the seller beware' instead of 'let the buyer beware.'" (He, of course, quoted the Latin versions of both warnings). When Wall Street sells stocks and bonds from now on, it must tell the truth about the value of its wares."

ZEALOTS—The original SEC members were crusaders, with Joseph P. Kennedy, a multimillionaire trader himself, as the first chairman. But "Joe" was then a great "New Deal idealist" and Roosevelt enthusiast. Moreover, he leaned backward to prove himself impartial, if not nondemocratic, toward fellow bulls and bears on the Street.

Came after him such zealots as Jerome Frank, now a federal judge, and William O. Douglas, now a member of the Supreme Court. They kept Wall Street in a turmoil with their strict enforcement of the letter and spirit of the regulatory laws.

CONNECTIONS—During the late war years, and especially under the Truman Administration, few top men would accept appointments to this agency. Minor officials and executives in Wall Street firms, however, were glad to accept the assignment. They were smarter than they knew, or perhaps they knew how smart they were.

For service on SEC has now become an apprenticeship to a high-salaried position with their old firms or with the exchanges in New York. Three former commissioners left in recent years to assume partnerships in Wall Street firms they once regulated. Their experience at Washington is invaluable to them in New York. So are the connections they formed while here.

How To Cure Commies

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

This is the fourth in a series of occasional "Memos to Prospective Parents." This one is based on six months of parenthood. Everybody says, "When a baby comes, it changes your entire life." Here are a few verifications of that fact:

Perhaps your household is one that doesn't have a boss. Instead, you and your wife or husband are in agreement on most things. Your baby will change this entirely. The baby will become the boss, and you and your wife or husband will begin to disagree on what's best for the baby. If you're lucky, this disagreement will be a temporary stage and will be eliminated in a few weeks. But the baby remains the boss. If he's hungry, nobody else eats until he's fed. The exception to this rule would be the parent who can stand to hear the baby cry, and those parents are either non-existent or few and far between.

Another change is the parents' introduction to the professional baby sitter. The price of a movie doubles. The increase, of course, goes to the professional baby sitter. If you're lucky enough to have your parents in the same town, your baby sitter fees are cut to less than half.

About two weeks ago a feminine voice on the phone said, "Write a column about baby sitters. There are five of us that would like to inherit the paper about our profession." In this case I held out for the names of the five sitters, insisting to the caller that story wouldn't be any good without the names. The girl said, "Well, I'll check with the other five and see what they say." Stop holding out, girls.

When your new baby learns how to pick things up, you can take this for granted: As far as the baby is concerned, everything is to eat. That includes shoes, socks, newspapers, sheets and pillowcases, or anything else that might be within reach. Since the baby makes a continuous effort to eat these items, occasionally he succeeds. However, all of the baby's eating utensils are boiled to kill all germs. This boiling goes on until the baby is crawling around and eating everything he finds on the floor.

Unquestionably, one of the biggest changes in the life of a new father is the thrill he gets when he walks in the house for dinner and the baby is so glad to see him that he nearly jumps out of his skin. The poor mother waits on the baby hand and foot for 15 hours a day and is taken for granted.

One of the greatest blessings of parenthood is the assurance that your new baby will be the best looking, most intelligent, and have the best personality of any baby in town. This is certain because you'll think those things, no matter what.

And I thank you.

Rep. Clyde Shreve and Lamar Gudgeon gave notice of a minority report. Under house rules such minority report must be signed by five members of the committee who were present and voting, and can be adopted and the bill put on the favorable calendar by a simple majority vote of the house. Oldtimers could not recall another instance in legislative history when every type of motion appropriately made about a bill in committee was voted down.

TIGHT—The other notice of a minority report came when the committee voted down the bill authorizing chiropractors to sign death certificates of their patients. This bill like several others offered during the present session to extend authority of "doctors" other than regular M.D.s was opposed by the state board of health and the N.C. Medical Society. All members of the committee being licensed attorneys with a pretty light organization of their own have shown considerable sympathy for supporting the position taken by the medical doctors who have one of the "closest" organizations known. The medical society is the only private professional group in the state privileged to name members of a state board which has the power to enact ordinances for violation of which a citizen can be fined or jailed. The N. C. Medical Society names four of the nine members of the State Board of Health.

CAFETERIA—Favorable report given the committee substitute for House Bill No. 323 means there probably will be no cafeteria in the basement of the new highway building until after another session of the general assembly. The bill is a rather lengthy document, going into some detail with respect to exemptions and exceptions to the general prohibition against selling merchandise by the state or in state buildings under lease to private operators. The substitute bill, which is rated better than three to one odds for passing the house, and ten to one for senate passage, protects existing practices of operating drug stores and sundry counters in isolated institutions, and makes clear that it does affect operation of Carolina Inns and other services by the University at Chapel Hill. It retains prohibition against state operation or lease of a cafeteria in the new highway building now under construction in Raleigh. That was the purpose for which it was introduced.

SNARL—Two minority reports are headed for the house, one as result of a unique parliamentary snarl which developed in House Judiciary I committee Tuesday. The bill involved provided for establishment of an examining and licensing board for real estate agents. After half an hour discussion, a motion was made to report the bill unfavorably. The vote was tied 8-8, and Chairman Lee Whitmore broke the tie against an unfavorable report. Then motion was made for a report without prejudice. That also failed of passage. Then there was a motion for a favorable report—and that also failed to pass. In other words the committee voted against an unfavorable report, against a report without prejudice, and against a favorable report. After some discussion about "where are we at," Chairman Whitmore ruled that failure of the favorable motion automatically required an unfavorable report.

ILLEGITIMATES—Children who had the misfortune to be born out of wedlock have given this general assembly a lot of trouble. One of the harshest floor fights in the senate came over proposal to require a recognized father to support his illegitimate offspring until the age of 18. House Judiciary I committee devoted an hour Tuesday to consideration of bill amending the vital statistics law respecting registration of illegitimate births.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

ADMISSION OF NEGROES (Washington Daily News)
 The executive committee of the trustees of the Greater University of North Carolina has recommended admissions of qualified negroes to the University's professional or graduate schools.

With four legal suits facing the trustees, and with members of the colored race applying for admissions, the trustees faced the issue squarely. While the recommendations must now go before the full trustees committee, the chances are that this body will accept the recommendations of the executive group.

The Daily News believes in looking at this matter from a practical standpoint. There is no good to be derived from beating around the bush. There is no need to say that the education of colored boys and girls is not an important phase of progress in North Carolina.

The Daily News has contended for a long time that the key to our racial problems lies in education. Education can and does make better citizens out of the vast majority of people. Ignorance and crime run hand in hand, and poverty and ignorance are first cousins of crime.

Then there is no need for undue alarm over the ruling or the recommendation. Most people who have familiarized themselves with the racial problems of our great state have expected the university to admit members of the colored race in time. Then the recommendation should not come as any great shock.

There'll be a lot of talk about the ruling, and there'll be some people who will fight such admissions to the bitter end. But it will not help the situation at all to take that attitude. It could only serve to be a disservice to both races.

If and when colored people do enter the university, the Daily

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
 In a few days we will be entering what may be the most crucial quarter of the year.

With the beginning of this quarter the cutback in steel becomes effective. Manufacturers of autos and appliances must reduce their use of steel to 30 per cent below their first half of 1930 rate.

The effect on civilian production will be considerable. However, some observers think that rearmament industries may not need all the steel saved and that there actually may be more available for small users.

During the quarter, the defense program will emerge further from the contract-letting stage into the production stage. Defense expenditures, which were at an annual rate of 20 billion dollars at the end of 1930 and 23 billion midway in the first quarter, are expected to get up to the 30 billion dollar rate.

This will bring about the real test of the defense program on employment. Last year, it was expected that employment would drop in the first quarter as plants laid off men to retool for armaments. While there have been lay-offs in some heavy industry plants, in consumer divisions of electronic manufacture, in the shoe industry and a few others, new employment has pretty well kept up with lay-offs. The expected decline in employment in February turned out to be a rise. But most economists believe that we haven't passed over the real test, merely postponing it to the second quarter when conversion will be at a higher rate.

There will be a test in housing, too. So far credit restrictions and shortages have had little effect. Housing starts in the first two months were higher than a year ago, although they showed some signs of slowing up in February. However, starts so far represent a considerable carry-over in intentions. People bought sites, builders accumulated materials and plans were drawn before the restrictions and shortages, and these plans were carried out. There was also some rush to get under the wire before further restrictions were applied. Now that this impetus has been spent, we'll get a clearer picture of the fate of home construction.

If the economy can be kept in balance through the April-May-June period, it will be in better shape for the heavier burdens that will come in the last half of the year. If it shows signs of wobbling, government planners will be called upon for a lot of shoring up.

Hal Boyle's Column

New York. —(AP)— Being 40 years old hasn't turned out to be bad at all.

I have been 40 for a whole month now, and I am getting pretty experienced at it. In time I even hope to get used to it.

Looking back now I can't see why I was ever so afraid of reaching this nice ripe age.

The first few days I was pretty nervous. I had the idea I might fall apart suddenly like the one hoss shay. I was almost afraid to look in the mirror each morning for fear that overnight my teeth had fallen out or my hair turned white.

"Don't take it so hard," said Frances. "Millions of people have survived being 40."

That was easy for her to say—since she knew she would never have the problem herself. She has pledged herself to remain an eternal herself 39.

But I began to relax somewhat after I discovered that at 40 you don't just disintegrate before your own eyes. I was kind of surprised to find I didn't feel different at all. If there had been any erosion, it didn't show on the surface.

That was fine. But would I act any different? I had always thought of 40-year-old men as leering elderly rascals who had an overwhelming urge to pinch every pretty girl in sight. So I put myself to the test. I deliberately walked by a pretty red-haired girl in the office and gave her a quick look. Did I have an overwhelming urge to pinch her? Nope. No more than usual. Safe again.

I had another moment of panic when a Boy Scout stepped up to me on a street corner. I felt sure he could see I was 40 and was going to offer to escort me safely across the street, and I made up my mind right then that if he did I would squish him in the pavement, merit badges and all.

"What time is it, mister?" he asked, and I broke out and laughed in wild relief.

There was one thing more that bothered me. Somewhere I had read that Dorothy Dix said that men of 40 were irresistibly attractive to women. That troubled me. I didn't want to leave a trail of broken female hearts wherever I went. So far, however, I must say the women I have met have kept their heads pretty well. Maybe it's because they don't realize I am really 40 now. Even Dorothy Dix herself has behaved sensibly. She hasn't even written me a mash note yet.

So far I haven't found a single disadvantage to being 40. And there have been some real advantages.

One is in the matter of respect. For years the copy boys, knowing I used to be a copy boy myself, have been calling me "Hey, you!" Now, realizing my antiquity, one will break down every once in a while and say "Sir."

Of course I didn't like it the day one came over, bent his head in a listening attitude and then said, "Aw, it ain't true." I asked, "What that other guy said about you?" "What did he say about me?" I asked. "He said you could hear your

ENOUGH CARRIAGES
 FOR BABIES EXPECTED
 Supplies of baby carriages will be adequate, although they will lose some of their chrome trim, dealers were told by Irving Bluestein, treasurer of the National Baby Carriage Association. Manufacturers will not be forced to return to wood carriages because manufacturers are getting reasonable amounts of steel.

"The government recognizes that baby carriages are essential products," he said.

U. S. LEADS WORLD
 IN CHICKENS, EGGS
 The world's chicken and egg production this year will probably continue at the high rate reached in 1930. The Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations predicts. Almost all countries have increased production above prewar levels, and total production of eggs is now about 40 per cent above the 1925-30 average.

The United States leads the world in both chickens and eggs. It produced 60 billion eggs last year and 480 million chickens. No other country produced a fifth as much.

WANTED HAMBURGER.
 GOT A CADILLAC
 The Office of Price Stabilization has made no secret of the fact that it has been looking for a price ceiling violation for a dramatic crack-down.

It has a two-fold purpose: to convince business men that controls would be enforced and to convince housewives that the government was looking after their interests.

This second purpose was the reason that the price-controller was pretty glum when the first pinch was made turned out to be a Los Angeles dealer accused of selling a used Cadillac above ceiling price.

arteries hardening three feet away." The biggest advantage, however, is the new attitude of my wife.

One Sunday I started to go to the door to pick up the newspapers. "No, you just sit down there in your easy chair, dear," she said. "I'll get the papers for you. After 40 you have to start taking things easy."

I thought to myself as I settled back in the chair that I would be happy to stay 40 for the rest of my life. And I think I will.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington—Secretary of State Dean Acheson apologized to visitors waiting in his office for keeping them five minutes. He had had a very important conference, he explained.

The conference, he went on, was non-official. It had to do with detailed instructions from a State Department colleague on how to put together a difficult joint in a Pennsylvania Dutch china cabinet he has been making weekends at Sandy Spring, the Acheson farm in nearby Maryland.

Pressed for facts by his listeners, he said the cabinet was made of white Idaho pine and had three open shelves above. The second shelf is a plate rail and an inch below it he is making a spoon rack. In a rough sketch, he also showed how he plans four drawers and three cabinets below.

Later Mrs. Acheson told me "He has been making pieces of furniture the past two years and he gets a lot of pleasure out of the hobby. Everything he makes we use, too. I expect we'll put some of the American and English pewter, some French provincial and early American plates we've collected in the cupboard."

Mrs. Acheson said the spoon rack would hold some old pewter and silver pieces they had collected. The secretary, she said, had completed a two-piece corner cupboard, a tilt-top and other tables, a toy chest for his grandchild, wall shelves and several other items. Weekends at their old clapboard farmhouse have been "lifelines" to her husband, Mrs. Acheson says. The wood-working, chopping down trees and flower garden tending, she says, are ways in which he "beats up" his work.

"Out there we find quiet and do not see or have to talk to many people," she said. "My husband stores up health and sanity for the work-filled hours ahead." Mrs. Acheson, tall, handsome and as distinguished in appearance as her husband, is an artist of some reputation and has exhibited her paintings many times in Washington and at art galleries in New York.

In town the Acheson live in an old house in historic Georgetown that glows with soft, warm color highlighted with rosy-pink lustrous ware, old silver, antiques and oil paintings.

Time Spent In Digging Sets Garden Dividends

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
Associated Press
Newsfeatures Writer

A gardener can to some extent make his gardening chores light or heavy as he chooses.

If he likes gardening he can attend his plot with painstaking care. This pays dividends. But if he is gardening only because he believes it his patriotic duty to do so in time of emergency, or to save food bills, he can spend a minimum of time and still get good results. In many parts of the country as little as an average of 15 minutes a day may keep a garden in fine shape.

Here are some tips from experienced gardeners on how to take short cuts:

1. The best and easiest way to prepare the soil is to have it plowed. This eliminates the most back-tiring part of gardening, hand spading.

2. After the soil is plowed it should be harrowed and the soil made fine as possible.

3. Construct the garden—if possible—so the rows have a very slight slope. This will allow you to irrigate by running water down the rows from a hose without washing away the soil.

4. Use a mulching material, such as straw or leaves, between the rows on top of the soil. This slows down the rate at which the soil dries, after storms, and keeps it cool. It helps eliminate the need for cultivating after storms to keep soil moist and soft.

5. Use plenty of fertilizer. Department of Agriculture experts recommend the chemical fertilizers if manure is not available. If leaves and other humus-producing materials are worked into the soil in the spring rather than in the fall, or if leaves and sawdust are used as a mulch, the experts recommend adding nitrogen fertilizer.

That is because fresh leaves and sawdust rob the soil of nitrogen temporarily.

6. Watch for the first signs of bugs. If holes appear in the radish leaves, or later on in the leaves of other plants, it's usually a sign the bugs have arrived and it's time to run for the dust gun or the sprayer. If you let the bugs get a head start on you it may cost you a crop.

Some city gardeners must use the hand spade, instead of having the ground plowed, because of the size or location of their gardens. If you have to spade, do it this way:

1. Sink the spade seven to twelve inches deep. In light soils don't go deeper than seven or eight inches.

2. Don't spade deep and turn the topsoil under, leaving the underside, if the under-soil is poor.

3. Rake the soil immediately after spading and before the clods have time to dry. If you wait until they dry it is almost impossible to work the soil into the fine condition necessary to get good results in small gardens.

Large quantities of manure and of compost materials such as rotted leaves, should be plowed or spaded into the soil in the fall—but not too deeply; plants make best use of such humus material near the surface. In addition manure and well rotted compost may be applied as a top dressing after the garden is planted.

About the only garden crops that may be hurt by too much manure are beans, tomatoes and potatoes. However you may want to add sand along with manure if the soil is clay-like and packs so hard after rains it is hard to spade and cultivate.

Roger Babson Stresses Business-College Tie-In

Babson Park, Fla., March 23. Closer cooperation between business and education may save our private institutions of higher learning and, at the same time, bring about increased profits for business education and business working hand in hand, can also make themselves of greater value to the country in this national emergency.

Business Needs The College
One of the soundest ways to preserve private enterprise is to give financial aid to young and needy potential business executive studying in colleges which are especially appreciative of American business and sympathetic to its problems. Most professional colleges of business have this point of view. Young men therein educated are of especial value to business. They not only learn specialized techniques; but they also acquire a sound philosophy of American business. Business needs such young men.

Business also needs the brains and research facilities of the colleges. Many small and middle-sized companies cannot hope, by themselves, to keep pace with the research of big business; but by pooling their efforts with the colleges, their usefulness and profits can be increased. Business provides the funds; the colleges provide the research laboratories.

The College Needs Business
In these times of partial mobilization and declining enrollments, the college needs the help of business. Education is the bulwark of democracy. If America is to win the battle of ideologies, it will be by brains, — not by brawn. The survival of private enterprise is, therefore, closely tied to the survival of our educational institutions. To survive, our colleges greatly need the financial support of business, which should feel obligated to help keep our system of higher education strong.

Colleges today are in a precarious position. They are victims of a war-time economy. With decreased income from tuitions and inflated costs of operation, plus being buildings-and-land poor, with income from endowments inadequate, colleges are having rough going. Some are already operating in the red. Many more will lose money next year. A cooperative venture between business and education is, therefore, an intelligent solution to many of the problems of both groups.

Ways Of Cooperation
Many colleges are already doing a vast amount of technical research for Government and Business: Boston University in optics; Georgia Tech in Aeronautical Engineering; University of California in goods; University of Wisconsin in Naval Research; Stanford in radio; Michigan State in fuel; Massachusetts Institute of Technology in manufacturing; Babson Institute in marketing. —to mention a very few.

Other possible areas of cooperation are workshop seminars for top management. These are custom-built courses of short duration to meet specific industry and company problems in consumer research, marketing, advertising, product development, taxes, etc. Refresher group conferences for foremen, sales managers, bankers, and accountants can do much to keep both business and education on their toes.

Financial Engineering
Yale University has pointed the way in research in labor relations with its Labor-Management Center. Whole new areas are practically unexplored, —such as atomic warfare, business decentralization and traffic problems. Other areas are job evaluation, job satisfaction, corporation conduct, public relations, organizational communication, corporate finance and statistics.

The subject of taxes alone offers rich possibilities for business-collegiate cooperation. Taxes have become far greater than a legal question. We have in the U. S. A. one of the strongest potential working teams any country has ever known: the research facilities of education and the wealth facilities of business. In harness together they can become invaluable helpmates. Now is the time to build our team and keep our country strong.

Nature Does Her Share In Making An Acre Of Corn

College Station, Tex. —(AP)—RMr. Farmer and Mr. Mule may be all worn out from plowing that acre of corn. But they're losers compared with Mother Nature. Her's is a backbreaking job. Here's what she must take from the soil and air to produce 100 bushels of corn per acre:

4,300,000 to 5,500,000 pounds of water; 6,800 pounds of oxygen; 5,200 pounds of carbon or 19,000 pounds of carbon dioxide—equal to the carbon in four tons of coal; 180 pounds of nitrogen; 40 pounds of phosphorus; 125 pounds of potassium; 75 pounds of yellow sulphur; 50 pounds of magnesium; 50 pounds of calcium; 2 pounds of iron; small amounts of manganese, boron, chlorine, iodine, zinc and copper.

The figures were obtained by Texas A. — M. college extension service researchers. The elements will produce 16,200 pounds of corn, stalks and roots.

Norfolk, Va., March 28.—(Special to The Reflector)—Navy's Air Station baseball team took their second game over the East Carolina Teachers College nine yesterday afternoon, winning 9-6 on the seventh hit pitching of a quartet of professional hurlers.

The game was sparked by four home runs, three by the Navy and one by the Pirates. Starter Bob Stanley for East Carolina gave up two homeruns in his three-inning stint on the mound, one in the first and one in the second. The four-baggers accounted for five of the Navy's nine runs.

East Carolina's homer was hit by George Graybill, rightfielder for the visitors, in the ninth inning with none on.

Dick Hobbs, making his second appearance on the mound in as many days, relieved Stanley in the fourth and was the losing pitcher. Jim Byrd relieved Hobbs in the fifth inning and pitched excellent relief ball for the remainder of the game, giving up only one hit. However, he was nicked for two runs due to errors.

Batting Record Is Good Omen

Tampa, Fla., March 28.—(AP)—If spring training counts, 1 ybe manager Luke Sewell's boast that there is a possible batting crown in store for one of his Cincinnati Reds isn't far-fetched after all.

The apple of his eye is a strong-armed first baseman named Ted Kluszewski, alias Big Klu and Terrible Teddy.

He's been knocking the ball at about a 500 clip or better during the Florida exhibitions. That augurs well for the 26-year-old left-hander's performance come regular play.

Shotton's Heart Is Still With Brooklyn

By FRANK ECK

AP Newfeatures Sports Editor Bartow, Fla., March —(AP)—Burt Shotton is out of a baseball job for the first time in his life but his heart still belongs to Brooklyn.

"I'll be pulling for Brooklyn. Charley is very fortunate to get a club like that. I was fortunate too and more fortunate to work for a man like Rickey.

"I lived with the boys four years and I'm still pulling for them.

"I'll certainly be listening to the radio and watching the papers. I get games short wave direct from Ebbets Field."

In answer to Dressen's recent statement that "there will be no doghouse in Brooklyn this year," Shotton says:

"I never had a doghouse. Joe Hatten came to me and asked for bull pen work. In Cincinnati I put him in against Danny Litwhiler. The first pitch was a home run with three on. I like Joe and he'd do anything. I tried to pitch pitchers who would win. He couldn't win and he admitted it. I like the boy for that. Hatten is a sweet fellow and I'd like to see him have a great year.

"Rex Barney, too, was a disappointment. He may never make it. It's in his mind.

"Ralph Branca was a big disappointment. He won 21 games for me in 1947. He had a bad arm early last year. But I know Ralph had trouble breathing. I hope his nose operation helps his pitching.

"Newcombe can win just as many games as he thinks he can win. He's that good! There's no limit to what Snider and Newcombe can do when they have the right disposition.

"Bobby Morgan gave up. He lost confidence. I thought he'd be great. Maybe he will this year. Eddie Miksis is another fellow who wants to play. But he had many chances."

Shotton points out that there's quite a difference between the majors and minors.

"It's not so much in the play," he says, "but in a boy's mind and in himself. A boy has got to have confidence. Without it you can't play in the big leagues."

Tarboro To See Philadelphia A's

Tarboro, March 28.—The Philadelphia Athletics will play an exhibition game in Tarboro April 10, according to an announcement by Lew Heilbroner, business manager of the Tarboro Athletics.

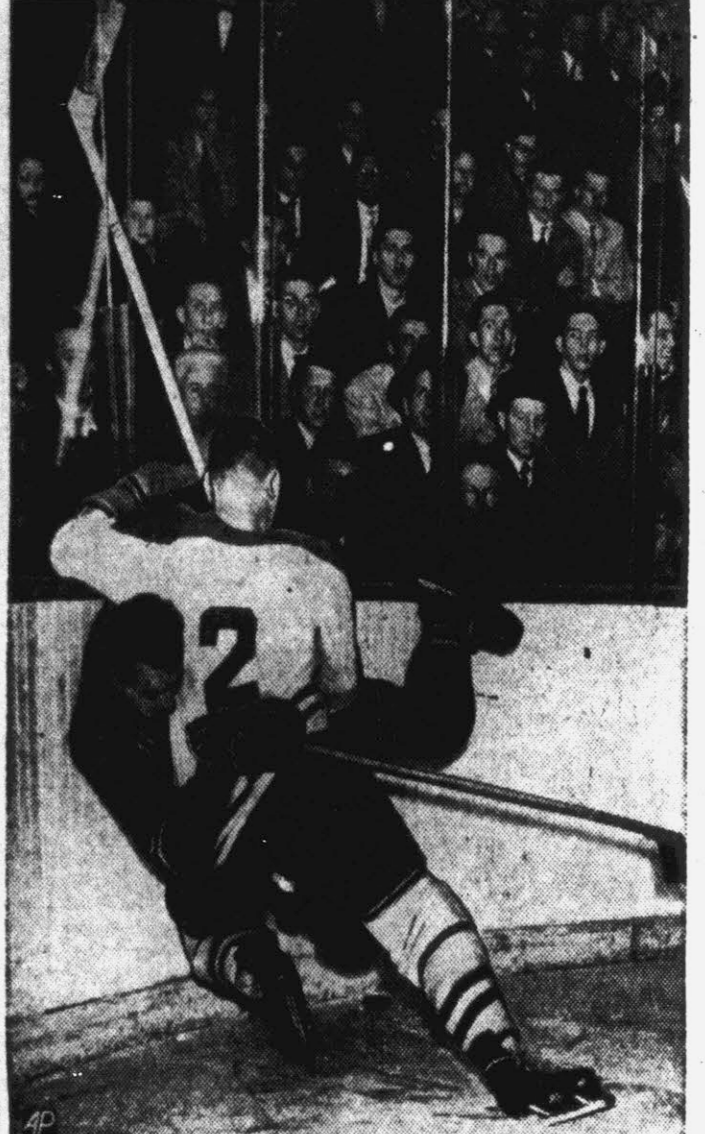

Piloted by their new skipper, Jimmy Dykes, the Philadelphia club also will be accompanied by baseball's Grand Old Man, Connie Mack. The Philadelphia team will play against an all-star team made up from the rosters of the Cordele, Georgia and Tarboro clubs, who will be training in Tarboro for the 1951 season. The contest will be an afternoon event beginning at 2 p.m.

The fans of eastern Carolina will be given a chance to see the American League perform at Coastal Plain League prices, as admission charges will be the same as those in the Coastal Plain League regular season. The Athletics will bring their first string line-up with them, including such stars as Ferris Fain, Elmer Valo, Lou Brissie, Joe Tip-ton, Eddie Joost, Hank Wynn, Alex Kellner and Bet Chapman.

'Little League' Organizational Meet On Monday

Baseball's Little League, the national pastime played by boys 12 years old and under, will make its entry into Greenville next Monday night when an organizational meeting is held under the sponsorship of the Recreation Commission.

For the meeting, which is to be held at the Armory at 8:30, the state Little League director will be present to inform the boys of the fundamentals of playing Little League baseball and also the advantages they can derive from it. He will show movies of last year's championship game in the national playoffs of the league.

The original idea for the league was begun in Williamsport, Pa., several years ago. The idea began after it became apparent that smaller boys couldn't play baseball with boys who were older and larger. The idea grew throughout the city, and then spread throughout the state until now it is a national organization with the backing of many civic clubs.

Little League baseball is for boys 12 years old and under, providing equal opportunity for every boy residing in the area covered by the League's operation. Each team consists of 12 uniformed players and no team shall have less than three players aged 10 or under, nor more than five players aged 12.

The teams in the League will be sponsored locally. On the national level, the Little League is a non-profit organization, designed to promote good health, good sportsmanship and good citizenship among the youth of the country.

Kentucky Wraps Up NCAA Title With Last Half Rally

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

Minneapolis, March 28.—(AP)—Ever start your car up a long hill only to have it stop half way to the top because it ran out of gas? That's also a description of Lew Hitch, Kansas State center, last night in the NCAA title-deciding game which Kentucky won, 68 to 58, with a rousing last half rally.

For the first half Hitch, a mere six foot seven inch center, made seven foot Bill Spivey, his Kentucky rival, look almost inexperienced.

Then came the second half. Spivey kept right on going. Hitch all but stopped. And when Spivey took command of the rebounding, Kentucky wiped out a two-point half-time deficit to saunter to its third NCAA title in four years.

Hitch snagged nine rebounds during the entire game but only one of 12 coming after the intermission, which found Kansas State ahead 29 to 27.

The big fellow's efforts brought a successful close to the second year of coach Adolph Rupp's current three-year plan. He started almost from scratch some 17 months ago with a band of sophomores and incidental upper classmen. His aim was to win the 1952 NCAA crown and a possible trip to the 1952 Olympics.

But he has the big title a year early. Nine of the ten men on the squad return next season. Only exception is Roger Layne, third string center.

After the title conquest, Rupp gave most of the praise to Spivey's amazing second half effort but he also singled out Cliff Hagan for bouquets. Hagan, who missed the final practices because of flu, entered the game when it was almost 15 minutes old and with Kansas State ahead. Within minutes the score was tied only to have Kansas State edge ahead again and remain two points ahead at the recess.

After the intermission, Shelby Linville potted a free throw and then Spivey tipped in a two pointer to put Kentucky ahead. The Blue Grass Wildcats never again trailed.

CCNY's Fall Complete As Players Admit Fix

New York, March 28.—(AP)—The fall from glory of the CCNY basketball team is complete.

Exactly one year ago City College was acclaimed as the first "grand slam" champion in history. But today all its first string players have been engulfed by the series of betting scandals.

Irwin Dambrot, Norm Mager and Herb Cohen were the latest arrested by District Attorney Frank Hogan. After more than eight hours of questioning, Hogan announced last night that the trio had admitted shaving the point spread or trying to shave the point spread in three games in Madison Square Garden last season.

Hogan said the games were against Southern Methodist on Dec. 8, 1949; UCLA on Dec. 27, 1949 and Niagara on Feb. 16, 1950.

Last month Ed Roman, Ed Warner, Al Roth and Floyd Layne, all CCNY regulars this season, admitted they had helped fix other games.

Dambrot, last year's CCNY captain, and Mager were particularly outstanding in last season's NCAA title game against Bradley. It was Dambrot's pass to Mager, who scored in the last 30 seconds, that gave CCNY a 71-68 victory.

Dambrot was picked as the most valuable player of the game and later, in a pre-season forecast for 1951 by CCNY coach Nat Holman, received further praise.

The arrest of Dambrot, Mager and Cohen, each released in $1,000 bail, brought to 17 the number of players from CCNY, Long Island, Manhattan and NYU involved in the spreading scandal. A total of 20 Garden games now are listed as having been fixed either by "dumping" or shaving the point spread for the benefit of gamblers in the know.

TIME TRAP

By ROG PHILLIPS

AP Newfeatures

Chapter 10
There seemed practically no changes in the city. The general street layout was still the same. There was a generous sprinkle of red blocks on the map.

Those red places," Arthur Granger volunteered, "are the Varg Throt offices and residential sections. It's against the law for us to trespass where the red squares are."

Ray Bradley nodded his head, his eyes scanning the map. Suddenly he grunted in satisfaction. Then his eyes moved to another part of the map and studied it minutely.

Joe divided his attention between the map and Ray. He guessed what was on Ray's mind, but said nothing, leaving it up to Ray to decide what to say.

Finally Ray stood up and folded the map together. When he spoke his voice was quite casual. "I think," he said absently, "that the first thing is for us to get acquainted with things as they are now—get around a bit, and learn to pass as ordinary citizens." He smiled briefly. "Joe and I gawked so much at all the sights that we stood out like a couple of hillbillies on their first visit to New York."

"Do you think—"

Arthur Granger's expression was one of pleading and suffering. Ray Bradley's eyes softened.

"All I can say," he answered the unvoiced question, "is that—I want to find Nelva as much as you do. Is that enough?"

Ray and Joe were back in their hotel room. Val Nelson had led them back through the concrete tubes under the streets. The door had just closed behind him. They were finally alone.

"So you think Nelva is in that red spot where our office used to be," Joe said softly.

"I thought you read my mind on that," Ray said calmly. "It stands to reason. I began to realize it while we were building the time travel machine. The coil setup in that was designed to be powerful enough to pull itself and the whole machine through time. The coil group in that first setup was small, designed merely to pull L-significant electric currents out of their time co-ordinate. I asked myself the question how could Nelva reach across half a century of time into the past and unerringly contact my mind along?"

"I didn't think of that until I saw you looking at that red square on the map in the spot where we had our office," Joe said. "It came to me then. Your gadget must have been instrumental in bridging the gap."

"That's right," Ray said. "Its effects were greater than I realized. She must have been standing so that her brain was actually in the field. In some way made her aware of what was going on. She must have special abilities along the lines of telepathy anyway, and once the coil bridge across time established contact between her mind and mine it was possible for her to reach me the second time."

"Do you think she will contact you now that we're here?" Joe asked.

"I don't know," Ray said thoughtfully. "You know, a lot of things are beginning to perk in my mind. Why did the Vargians come? What is their object in staying? Power? They don't seem to especially relish the job of occupying the United States. We didn't ask, but I seemed to gather that they weren't exploiting us in any way. Colonizers usually start stripping the country they conquer of its wealth and ship it back home."

"But if not power or wealth, what? Knowledge? That might have been, but we can discount that, because their only curiosity about our science and history seems to have been for the purpose of understanding us well enough to manage us successfully. I doubt if the motive for their occupation is to steal our knowledge. A lightning raid on a bookstore by a small band of them would have given them that without the necessity of occupying the whole country."

"What then? Does that kidnapping of Nelva and a few others mean anything? Or did they just pick up random specimens, or perhaps pets that struck the fancy of female of their species?"

"I wonder if they have the secret of time travel?" Joe asked.

"I've thought about that, too," Ray said. "I think they must have. Consider the explosion. A time travel bomb of some sort could have been the cause of that explosion that wrecked our office and lab. Certainly no energy those coils could carry would have blown it up. But that brings up another question. Why did they want to kill us?"

ADDING TO THEIR LAURELS—Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Rasmussen, of Copenhagen, Denmark, European amateur dance champions, win another contest in Hannover, Germany.

"Obviously," Ray agreed. "It's we have the knowledge of time travel, and they don't want us to give that knowledge to the human race."

"Obviously," Ray agreed. "It's also obvious that we didn't give it out up to now, or it would be common knowledge to these people. As it is, they had never heard of it."

"That gives us the motive for them trying to kill us," Joe said. "But what's in back of that?"

"Consider this," Ray said. "Suppose that instead of coming from another space, or instead of their changing the frequency of their matter, they actually come from another time? What if they are our descendants—a million years from now?"

One Post Office Is Never Closed

Somewhere in Korea, March 27 —(AP)—The windows never go down in the busiest little post office in Korea.

You can buy a stamp or send a money order at 2 a. m. at this detachment of the First Base Post Office, situated near the front lines. It does the tremendous job of handling incoming and outgoing mail for four U. S. divisions, one Army Corps and 30 miscellaneous units—about 80,000 soldiers in all.

"We operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week," said Capt. O. A. Hopper, in charge. "Every man in the unit realizes that mail is the number one morale factor—more important even than showers baths and clean clothes."

By plane and train the mail comes in and goes out and is handled smoothly by the 20 officers and men of the unit. One train will unload over 2,000 sacks—around 50,000 pounds—at a time. Freighter planes discharge air mail sacks by the hundreds.

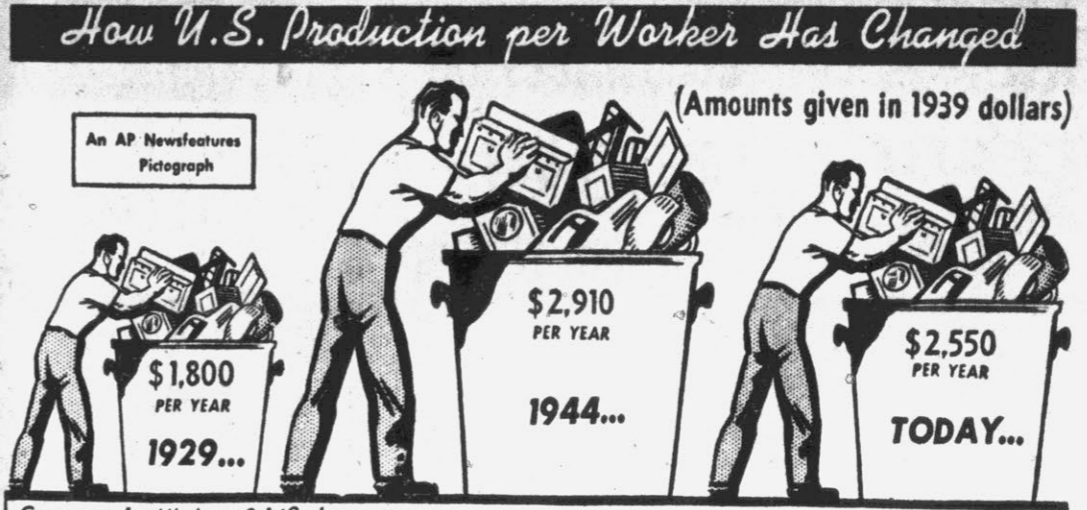

All day and into the night, soldiers line up to buy or cash money orders and send packages. The post office also offers the GI a fast message service back to the States. For only 60 cents he can select the text of a personal message from about 300 standard messages. The message is rushed to Tokyo by registered air mail and cabled to America. An ordinary cable would be vastly more expensive.

Hoopskirts Back As The 'Rage Of Paris'

By FLORENCE MILLS
 'AP Newsfeatures
 Paris—Criminoline is swamping the fashion scene in Paris.
 These vast hooped structures have "caught on" with foreign buyers, who are responsible for guiding the fashion tastes of women all over the world. They are guaranteed, say the buyers, to make any woman look as regal as Marie Antoinette. All French designers are showing them.
 The celebrated Dior shows a dreamy looking affair in palest rose pink net on which he places a large, white satin apron, edged, and vertically striped, with narrow pink lace liberally sprinkled with tiny silver sequins.
 Lovers knots, embroidered in quarter-inch-wide silver ribbon all over a white organza crinoline, are another of Dior's contributions.
 Just to show a crinoline can be made as practical for traveling and as space-saving as a bathing suit, designer Robert Piguet builds one in white nylon. It has tiny frills, starting narrow at the waist and widening towards the hem, and a collapsible "frame" made of whalebone that enables the dress to be packed into a box measuring only twelve by eight inches.
 Crinolines this season aren't reserved only for evening wear. You can create a sensation any afternoon of the week by venturing out in one specially designed for day. Piguet shows them in shantung and taffeta, Balmain even in fine wool. But whereas Piguet goes whole hog, giving them regular whalebone (again collapsible) hoops, Balmain introduces what he calls his Jubilee crinoline—a half-pint size hoop that only operates from the thighs.

 Crinolines with peeping petticoats stacked by the dozen beneath them are prime favorites. One in black taffeta, designed by Bill Underwood, the young American now designing for Marcel Rochas, has a bib-thickness of rainbow colored net petticoats made fully visible by a graduated hemline, short in the front but dipping to trail the ground at the back.
 The biggest crinolines are shown by Jacques Fath.
 One, in golden yellow satin, has three enormous frills, pleated and tiered down the back of the skirt. Its strapless bodice is terminated in a wide balcony filled to overflowing with mixed flowers.
 The same style, repeated in white tulle, has scores of diamond speckled ivy leaves applied all over it.
 One of the prettiest crinolines seen in Paris this spring is shown by "Tony" Castillo, who left Elizabeth Arden's salon last year to take over designing for the old established house of Lanvin.
 The skirt is made up of folded strips of white satin slotted into a basket weave pattern. The waist has blood red satin swathed around it and the bodice is supported by padded sleeves, flattened to stand out like two plates from the shoulders.

UN Commanders Try To Make Reds See Peace Is Less Costly

By RUSSELL B. LILES
 Tokyo, March 28.—(AP)—United Nations commanders are trying to convince the communists a negotiated peace is the cheapest way of wiping out their unprofitable gamble in Korea.
 But informed sources here said there had been no Red overtures for a truce, and there is no indication whether they are ready to begin talking terms.
 The allies began their campaign of conviction in January with an offensive frankly labelled as mainly an effort to pile up Red losses. The attack, still underway, has cost the enemy more than 180,000 dead and wounded.
 Two top commanders made statements over the week-end that evidently were designed to stress the point directly to communist leaders themselves.
 One was General MacArthur's controversial Saturday statement. He told the Reds they had lost four different ways and offered to meet the enemy commander-in-chief to discuss military prelude to peace.

 But he stirred his government more, apparently, than Peiping by warning Red China it would face the risk of "imminent military collapse" if the United Nations decided to attack its coastal areas and interior bases.
 The next day, Vice Admiral Arthur B. Struble, retiring commander of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, said his force was strong enough to blockade the China coastline.
 It could also protect Formosa against a Red invasion, he added.
 Together the two statements formed a composite warning that the allied command was confident of holding Korea and simultaneously capable of chopping down any Chinese thrust elsewhere. They also implied the possibility of widened action against Red China.
 MacArthur's statement was broadcast and air dropped to communist forces. Qualified sources said its main purpose was to logically recount Red weaknesses to the enemy commander and to get them more widely known among Red troops.

 The informants said the communist commander might be more easily persuaded than his political commissars that continued high losses made the gamble unprofitable.
 So the statement actually was intended for him.
 MacArthur has made one previous bid for peace. This was a demand for unconditional surrender when the then-triumphant U. N. forces first swept northward across the 38th parallel. It was addressed to Kim Il Sung, the North Korean Premier, and went unanswered.
 Nobody here professes to know whether the current peace strategy will succeed. So far Peiping has given no recognition to the two statements.

Army Postpones Big War Games

Fort Bragg, N. C., March 28.—(AP)—The Army has postponed for two months the big war games which had been scheduled to start June 20 in the Fort Bragg area.
 Gen. Mark W. Clark, Chief of the Army Forces, announced yesterday that exercise "Southern Pine" would be held in August, on dates to be announced later.
 The announcement said that the postponement will enable more reservists and newly drafted men to take part.
 The air-ground maneuvers will involve major units of the Third Army and the Air Force's Tactical Air Command. Smaller units of the Navy also will participate.
 The Third Army Commander, Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, will direct the maneuvers.

Execute 121 Reds In Malaya Crisis

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya.—(AP)—British authorities have hanged 121 Communist terrorists in Malaya in the past two years and 17 more are awaiting execution.
 A government statement said captured terrorists whose crimes made them liable to the death penalty numbered 687 of which 608 had thus far been charged in court.
 The figures were given for the period from June 1, 1948, the date a state of emergency was proclaimed in Malaya, up to Feb. 1, 1951.

World Health Body Fighting Arabia's Malaria

Alexandria, Egypt.—(AP)—The World Health Organization (WHO) has opened a battle against malaria in Saudi Arabia. Malaria is the most serious health problem in Saudi Arabia, especially in the area around Mecca, Medina and Jiddah—visited annually by thousands of Moslem pilgrims.
 Dr. M. A. Farid, an Egyptian scientist, is now surveying the incidence and spread of malaria. Control operations, including DDT spraying, drainage and other measures, are expected to begin next year.
 Initial reports to WHO regional headquarters here indicate gambiae mosquitoes are present in the area of the holy cities. This type caused the '42-'43 epidemic in Egypt which killed an estimated 80,000.

Claims Big Issue Sunk To Politics

High Point, N. C., March 28.—(AP)—Rep. Carl Durham of Chapel Hill says the troops to Europe issue has become a political catspaw "at the expense of national security and the cause of free men throughout the world."
 In an address at a legislative forum here last night, Durham declared "Big politics, politics for 1952 are being played on this troops to Europe question."
 He said he "deeply regretted that so basic an issue could become the catspaw of straight party consideration in such times." He added "the grand strategy is not a military strategy, it is a political one, skillfully conducted and planned and carefully kept alive for a partisan reward."
 Durham called "the great emphasis placed on the need for consulting congress" for committing more troops to Europe an academic question, and said Congress already has power in controlling the number of troops through its control of the nation's purse strings.

Since ancient times the tiger has been the symbol of might throughout Asia.

Wilmington Unit Of Guard Called

Wilmington, N. C., March 28.—(AP)—A Wilmington National Guard unit, the 150th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Gun Battalion, has been ordered to active duty.
 This was announced yesterday by Lt. Col. L. C. Ellis, Jr., who said the battalion and its batteries will be mobilized sometime around May 1.
 The unit is comprised of National Guardsmen in Wilmington, Beaufort, Williamston and Wallace.

Australian Car Registration Up

Sydney.—(AP)—Motor car registrations in Australia in 1960 totaled 148,531. Australia has a population of just over 8,000,000 people.
 The 1960 new registration figure was a record high. It exceeded the 1949 record by 62,414, and the previous record figure (1929) by 93,247.
 Despite the high figures for 1960, the accumulation of orders increased and the waiting time for new vehicles lengthened by months.

TRUSS EXPERTS COMING TO Greenville

The Rice Rupture Service Experts, personal representatives of William S. Rice, Inc., Adams, N. Y., will be at the Proctor Hotel, Greenville, N. Car., Friday, March 30. Every ruptured person should take advantage of this great opportunity.

The Rice Method for Reducible Rupture Control is known the world over. You can now see this Method demonstrated and have a Rice Appliance fitted to you. Absolutely no charge unless you are satisfied to keep the Outfit after having the Appliance adjusted and you see how perfectly and comfortably it holds. No harsh, depressing springs; nothing to gouge the flesh and make you sore.

Wear this Appliance for a full thirty day trial and if you are not perfectly satisfied at the end of that time, return it.

Thousands have reported entire satisfaction through using the Rice Appliance. Why suffer the burden of reducible rupture worry if there is a chance to be free from it? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity for help it offers. Just ask at hotel desk for the Rice Representatives and they will do the rest. Hours are 10 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m. or 7 to 9 evening.

Don't miss this great opportunity to see these Experts.

Advice of Her Mother-In-Law Proves Helpful

Mrs. W. O. Jones
 There are a lot of jokes about mothers-in-law; in fact, comedians just can't seem to perform without making some reference to them. But there are many, many wonderful mothers-in-law in this old world who have the best interest of their sons-in-law and daughters-in-law at heart. Mrs. W. O. Jones, 7244 N. Bell St., Chicago, Ill., can certainly agree to that for when Mrs. Jones wasn't feeling well, her mother-in-law recommended HADACOL. And HADACOL seemed to be just what Mrs. Jones needed, and HADACOL may bring you the relief you are seeking if you are weak and run-down due to lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.
 Here is what Mrs. Jones says: "I am a housewife and mother of three children. I had been feeling very run-down, would tire so easily, and just felt listless. My mother-in-law suggested I take HADACOL, as she had heard of it through friends of hers. I just took it for a few days, when I noticed I was feeling stronger and seemed to have more energy. I continued taking HADACOL and it has certainly built up my strength. I am no longer run-down, don't tire nearly as much. I am now on my sixth large bottle of HADACOL, and intend to continue taking it."
 HADACOL can help you if you suffer such deficiencies. Ask your druggist for HADACOL today. Only HADACOL gives you that "Wonderful HADACOL feeling."

Take a look at the only trucks with Fluid Drive!

NEW DODGE "Job-Rated" TRUCKS

The trucks that do the most for you!

Makes driving extra easy! New safety on slippery roads! Better load protection!

You get smooth-as-silk performance with gyrol Fluid Drive—a Dodge exclusive available on 3/4-, 3/4-, and 1-ton models. This proved fluid coupling between engine and clutch eliminates jerky starts, helps prevent stalling. Loaf along in high, slow down in traffic, speed up again—all without touching the gearshift or clutch!

With Fluid Drive, there's less wheel-spinning, less tendency to skid on wet or icy pavements. You can start in higher gear, apply power gradually and get away smoothly and safely. Traction is applied more efficiently. With less wheel-spinning, tires last longer, too—another money-saving advantage of Fluid Drive!

Fluid Drive assures extra-smooth starts... protects your load. There's less chance for cargo to shift—less chance of breakage or other damage.

WHAT "JOB-RATED" MEANS TO YOU
 A Dodge "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to fit a particular job... save you money... last longer.
 Every unit from engine to rear axle is "Job-Rated"—factory-engineered to haul a specific load over the roads you travel and at the speeds you require.
 Every unit that SUPPORTS the load—frame, axles, springs, wheels, tires and body—is engineered right to provide the strength and capacity needed.
 Every unit that MOVES the load—engine, clutch, transmission, propeller shaft and rear axle—is engineered right to meet a particular operating condition.

More convenience on hills! Lengthens truck life!

Fluid Drive lets you stop on an upgrade and hold your Dodge "Job-Rated" truck in gear, simply by slightly speeding up the engine. And on a downgrade, Fluid Drive gives you effective engine braking. Under all driving conditions, Fluid Drive is easier on both driver and truck.

The "cushioned" power of Fluid Drive saves wear and tear on over 80 vital parts—including clutch, transmission, rear axle. This insures longer truck life—lowers your upkeep costs. And trade-in value stays high! Ask us for interesting booklet on gyrol Fluid Drive.

COME IN AND BE CONVINCED! TRY A NEW DODGE "Job-Rated" TRUCK WITH FLUID DRIVE!

NOTICE OF ELECTION
The Private Laws of the General Assembly of North Carolina, Session
1937, as amended by the Session
1937, requires that a non-partisan election for the selection of a Mayor and five members of the Board of Aldermen, one member from Wards
1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 in the City of Greenville, to be voted on at large, shall be held on the first Monday,
the 7th day of May, 1951; and pursuant to an Election held on the 28th day of March 1938 that an election for the selection of a Judge of Recorder's Court and Solicitor of Recorder's Court of the City of Greenville shall also be held on the first Monday, the 7th day of May, 1951; that the books for registration for voters who are not already registered for Municipal Elections or who have transferred from one ward to another since last election, shall be kept open for 10 days, exclusive of Sundays, preceding the first Monday in May and that all candidates for Mayor, members of the Board of Aldermen, and Rec-order and Solicitor of the Municipal Recorder's Court shall register their candidacy with the City Clerk at least 30 days prior to the first Monday in May, 1951; that all candidates for Mayor shall deposit with the City Clerk a registration fee of $10.00 therefor, and all candidates for the office of aldermen or any other elective office, shall deposit with the said Clerk a registration fee of $1.00 therefor. There shall be two voting places, to-wit: The County Courthouse and the new City Hall; that all qualified voters residing in Wards No 1 and No. 2 shall vote at the County Courthouse and that all qualified voters residing in Wards No. 3, 4, and 5 shall vote at the new City Hall;
that all persons registering to vote shall be registered according to Wards in which they reside and that the names of all candidates for office shall be placed on one ballot, but there shall be maintained at each voting place in the City a poll book for each ward voting at such voting place upon which shall be plainly marked the number and designation of the ward, and all ballots cast from any ward shall be deposited in the poll box bearing the number of such ward; that no person shall be allowed to register and vote in an election held hereunder unless such person be a qualified voter under the laws of the State of North Carolina and a bona fide resident of two months' duration of the ward in which he offers to vote, and that all such qualified voters shall be entitled to vote for the candidates for Mayor, members of the Board of Aldermen, and Rec-order and Solicitor of the Municipal Recorder's Court of the City of Greenville at large at this election to be held on the 7th day of May 1951.

Seven Churches To Hold Evangelistic Services

Seven Greenville churches next week will conduct a series of evangelistic services and preaching missions in the first week-long series of services to be held simultaneously by the group of churches.

Each of the seven churches will have a guest preacher here for the week, and each church will have separate services each evening throughout the week. The series of services will begin April 1 and continue through April 8. The evening worship services will begin at 8 o'clock.

The seven guest ministers who will conduct the series of services in the churches of the city during the week are: the Rev. John H. Booth of Indianapolis, Ind., who will conduct the services at Eighth Street Christian church; the Rev. Walter H. Goodman of Beaufort, N. C., who will conduct the services at the Meadowbrook Presbyterian church; the Rev. C. N. Royal of Durham, who will conduct the services at Immanuel Baptist church; the Rev. Harry C. Smith who will conduct services at Jarvis Memorial Methodist church; the Rev. Robert L. Holt of Greenville who will conduct services at Memorial Baptist church; the Rev. Robert Gurganus who will conduct the services at the Pentecostal Holiness church; and the Rev. J. Blanton Belk of Richmond, Va., who will conduct services at to Washington, D. C. or Macon, Ga., for examination and interview prior to acceptance for enlistment, it was announced here today by Chief A. E. Cahoon, local Navy facilities have been made available in Raleigh and successful applicants will be transferred direct to the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill. Cahoon stated that this new policy and the convening of new recruit training classes almost every week have eliminated the previous long period of waiting from time of making application to that of actually being accepted.

The chief added that in its attempt to fill many important assignments that are essential to maintaining its fleets at sea, the Navy has stepped-up its WAVE enlistment program, and is now accepting more enlistments in that program than at any time since World War II.

Cahoon emphasized that even though this program has been stepped-up, the same high enlistment requirements would be maintained and only those mentally, morally and physically qualified would be accepted for enlistment.

Prof. W. H. Davenport Addresses Civic League

Principal W. H. Davenport of the C. M. Eppes high school was the principal speaker last night at the monthly meeting of the Colored Civic League of Greenville.

Davenport spoke on "Social and Racial Problems Which Confront the World Today."

The speaker asserted that true leadership is a solution to the confusion in which the world finds itself today; and that education and religion form the basis for solving the world's most confused problems. The home, the church and the school, he said, are the three institutions which must work together if the people of the world expect to change the evil forces with which they are confronted today.

Davenport declared that the adults of a community should not only be concerned about the youths in the homes, but likewise should be concerned about the type of attitude the youths exemplify in the type of community which they help build. As leaders in the community, Davenport said, the adults have the opportunity to give the youths guidance for the spiritual security they need.

Speaking of the city's recreation program, the principal of the C. M. Eppes school said the program which will be put into effect shortly will, in his opinion, keep the youngsters out of some of the mischief in which they are becoming involved.

D. D. Garrett, president of the Colored Civic League presided at the meeting of the organization. A report on the finances of the organization was made by Treasurer C. C. McGlone, and Membership Chairman Mrs. J. H. Donaldson announced that July 1 has been set as the date at which the membership drive of the Civic League will close.

from which the marauders came. The British would send word to the head of the tribe that the village would be destroyed by bombing at a certain time. The inhabitants were warned to take their belongings and clear out, for their own safety.

After the tribesmen had evacuated their village, a British warplane dropped a bomb which wiped the place out. This treatment acted as a partial deterrent, though probably nothing of that sort would have cured the tribesmen of raiding British territory. They were like the beagle puppy in my home; we can "deter" her from being a bad gal, but we haven't cured her of the inclination.

As regards the present Malayan situation, one suspects that the burning of a village will act only as a temporary deterrent. The British like a lot of others are up against the toughest proposition the world ever has known—the Bolshevik crusade to communize the globe.

to an enemy (or potential enemy) by providing him with knowledge concerning our activities, or the results of his own hostile acts?

"3. Will it divulge the extent of our knowledge concerning the enemy (or potential enemy) and his activities?"

"Even if the answer to any one or all of these questions is in the affirmative," Whitney concluded, "the final decision as to whether or not the information should be released must take into account the possible value to be derived from clearing the report for public consumption."

Miss Mamie Garrett Named Member Of Honorary Society

Miss Mamie Garrett of Greenville, a member of the science faculty of Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., has accepted membership in Beta Kappa Chi, an honorary society for college graduates who have made noteworthy achievement in some branch of pure or applied science.

Miss Garrett graduated from C. M. Eppes high school in 1945 where she was an honor student. She received her B. S. degree from North Carolina College in 1949 and her Masters degree from Columbia University in 1950.

She has been a member of the faculty of Southern University since the beginning of the school year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Garrett of 1300 Ward St.

Church Group Told Outlay Is Secondary

By WYATT BROWN

What the dollars will buy in filling a need and living up to an obligation to the community is where the emphasis is to be laid in finishing up the campaign to raise the money to pay for the new Educational building at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church was the ringing challenge sounded by Alton Johnston, chairman of the church building promotion committee, last night at a special meeting of the Board of Stewards and a picked group of men of the church. He declared that the amount of the money is secondary. There is a balance of $32,000 to be raised on the $165,000 program.

In bringing the building program of the Methodists up to date Mr. Johnston said he found each step had been wonderfully planned and executed up to date. He referred to the "Report of the Survey Committee" that preceded the determination to build and to the brochure presenting the need in words and the proposed building in drawings and specifications provided each church member prior to undertaking the building program.

He compared the 700 members of 1922 when the church last built an education building with the 1800 members now. But during the 29 years there had been no building or additional equipment for growth, he pointed out.

Continuing with figures he contrasted the figures on Sunday school enrollment. With a church membership of 700 in 1922 there were 813 enrolled in Sunday school; with a 1951 church membership of 1800 the Sunday school membership has increased to only 1100. Mr. Johnston characterized that as "retrogression." Explanation of the lack of growth, he said, must be connected with the lack of room in the educational building.

To indicate the inadequacy of space he recalled how in his own time as a Sunday school scholar his classroom was usually some ill adapted space such as the old pastor's study, a room separated from the next one by a wood partition and sometimes a cloth screen, and at one time his class met on a stair landing.

"Additional Sunday school space is badly needed today. It is vital to the welfare of the church and to the part the church plays in the community that space be provided now. We have a responsibility to press forward with a progressive program for the church. The church is the most important institution in society today," he went on further stressing the role of the church in democracy. "We need to get behind this program and get behind it hard."

With vehemence he urged everyone interested to take a look at the structure being built behind the church. He vouchsafed the guess that not one in ten has made an examination of the new educational building now progressed to the stage of having the roof put on.

After examining the list of those who have contributed so far Mr. Johnston said he found just about everyone had given something once but now that each must give more. "Think about what the money you give and help raise is buying. Feel good about what the church is achieving in this effort," he urged in conclusion.

At this point Mr. Johnston gave those present an opportunity to do their part resulting in the raising of about $100 per person present—$4,800.00 from 50 men in cash and pledges. Next the assignments for each solicitor were made which are to be completed by five p.m. Sunday, April 1st. All solicitors are to report between 3 p.m. and the 5 p.m. deadline.

Suggestion Has Donaldson Okay

Washington, March 28—(AP)—An eight-year-old down in Mobile, Ala., has brought about a money-saving change in the stamping of air mail.

He is Gregg Buckalaw, P. O. Box 1378, Mobile.

He recently wrote to Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson suggesting that the "via" be dropped from the phrase "via Air Mail" which post offices everywhere rubber-stamp on items for plane delivery. "Via" is latin for "by way of."

Donaldson has advised Gregg that his suggestion is good and is being promptly adopted.

Receive Two Calls To Burning Automobiles

Greenville firemen answered two calls to automobile fires over the past 24 hours, it was reported this morning.

The first call was received around 7:50 last night when a car owned by R. J. Smith caught fire on the 10th Street Extension.

This morning at 10:17, firemen were called to Third and Pitt Street to a car on fire owned by O. C. Nobles. Shortage in the wiring was given as the cause for the fire, with no damage being reported.

available this afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon a group of businessmen met with C. S. Anderson and Payroll Supervisor MacInnis of the DuPont corporation to talk over the housing situation with respect to the plant and Greenville. The businessmen were told by Anderson in the meeting that they would be notified officially today whether the DuPont company would guarantee the rent on the houses until their employees could get here.

Last Wednesday Anderson, MacInnis and Division Superintendent Weaver from Wilmington, Del. were in Greenville and conferred with W. H. Woolard and A. B. Stallworth.

Yesterday the two DuPont officials were taken on a tour of the city and ECTC following their meeting with the businessmen.

Of the 17 houses which are in the Tucker Circle project, five are to be ready for occupancy next week, five others are to be ready for occupancy the following week, and the remaining seven of the houses are expected to be ready for occupancy within the next three weeks.

Commenting on the notification by the DuPont officials this afternoon, W. T. Kizer, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, said, "I want to congratulate this group of men who have made this possible. They are showing a spirit of cooperation with a big corporation which is settling in our midst. We're glad to have DuPont people with us. I am confident the Greenville people will display their friendly spirit which will attract a lot more DuPont people to Greenville as rapidly as facilities are available."
