Debate On MacArthur Near Climax

Truman Caught In Squeeze Between Supporters And Critics Of General

Washington, April 9—(AP)—President Truman was caught today in a squeeze between home front supporters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, mostly Republicans, and U.S. allies who want him to discipline the outspoken General for his latest policy statement.

Capitol Hill friends thought that after a week-end of studying the situation, Mr. Truman might act quickly to make known his views on recent MacArthur statements which have run counter to military and State Department policies.

It was certain that any move to shear MacArthur of any authority as Supreme Commander in Korea would touch off a storm in Congress.

Most lawmakers carefully avoided predicting the course of Mr. Truman's action, although some speculated privately that a presidential reprimand to the five-star General would be forthcoming.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.), a persistent critic of administration foreign policy in the Pacific, forecast even more drastic action.

It now appears that the hatchet men of the administration have been turned loose to undermine the position of General MacArthur and to force a reprimand or recall, he said.

Knowland said it would be wiser to keep MacArthur and get rid of Secretary of State Acheson. Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) advocated the dispatch of a 12-man congressional committee—six Democrats and six Republicans—to consult with MacArthur and learn his views on the Korean war and Far Eastern policy generally.

MacArthur stirred the world's capitals when he said last week the critical fight against communism is in Asia. He called also for use of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops on Formosa to open a second front against the Chinese Reds.

He added more fuel to the fire by ascribing to "basic political decisions beyond my control" the release of 120,000 South Koreans reservists for farm and other work.

There were reports that Great Britain may move directly for steps to curb the United Nations commander. Informed sources in London said strong British objections to the proposal to put Chinese Nationalist troops into the fight will be forcefully but informally presented in Washington.

Among the principals who will participate in the 279th district Rotary meeting in Greenville this week are District Governor Howard McGinnis of Greenville, Steering Committee Chairman J. B. Kittrell Sr. of Greenville, Robert Lee Humber of Greenville and H. V. Churchill, first vice president of Rotary International from New Kensington, Pa.

More than 500 Rotarians from 39 cities and towns of eastern North Carolina are expected to attend the district meeting which will be held here April 12 and 13.

Governor McGinnis of the district will preside over the meeting and arrangements for the district meeting will be under the direction of J. B. Kittrell Sr. who is chairman of the steering committee. Both will take major roles in the series of sessions which will be held during the two-day meeting.

Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, leader of the World Federalist movement in the United States, will be one of the principal speakers at the meeting of the Rotarians Thursday afternoon in the Rotary building. Humber is scheduled to address the Rotarians at 3:40 on "The Challenge to World-Minded Rotarians."

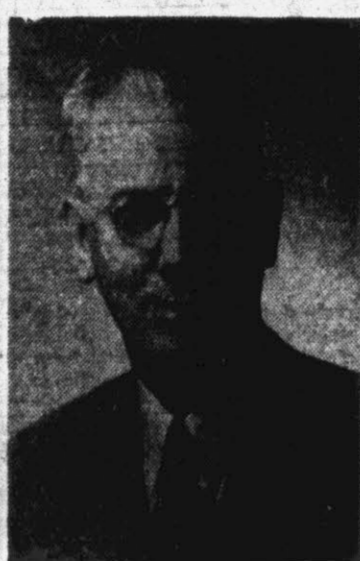

Vice President H. V. Churchill of New Kensington, Pa. will address the Rotarians at a business meeting Friday afternoon, and again at the Governor's banquet Friday night which will be held in the Wright auditorium on the East Carolina campus. Churchill has been associated with the Aluminum Company of America since 1919, and is now chief of the analytical division of the Aluminum Research Laboratories. He was a charter member of the New Kensington, Pa. Rotary club when it was organized in 1939, and was elected first vice president of Rotary International for 1950-51 and is chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors and chairman of the Rotary Foundation Fellowship committee.

Dr. McGinnis was elected governor of the 279th Rotary district last spring. Until his retirement in June 1950, McGinnis was director of field service of East Carolina College where he also served as acting president and registrar. Dr. McGinnis is a native of Greenville, West Virginia, and has been a Rotarian since 1924 when he joined the Wheeling, W. Va. club. He is now a member and past president of the Greenville club.

Cautions Public Against Letdown

Sec. Marshall Says World Tensions Notably Worsening

Washington, April 9—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall spoke today against what he called a letdown in public support of the defense program in the face of a worsening world situation.

"Every indication we have from abroad is of increasing buildup," Marshall said. "It has been noticeable particularly in the satellite countries. The situation not only hasn't changed in the matter of being less tense, it is really more tense than before."

The best this country can hope for, Marshall said, is a period of tension rather than an all-out world war, and he added: "What we are thinking about is possibly a ten-year tension—but the tension has relaxed here in six weeks."

Marshall expressed these views in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, during which he reiterated again his call for enactment of a Universal Military Training (UMT) program. Indications are that the House, voting later this week, will do no more than set up a commission to recommend machinery for such a program.

Marshall said he could see no hope for an early letup in the rearmament program, because even if the West and Russia came to terms "we would be perfect fools to relax our military strength until we had evidence of good faith."

France Lines Up Against Chiang

Paris, April 9—(AP)—France lined up with Great Britain today in opposing Gen. MacArthur's proposal for use of Chiang Kai-shek's troops by the United Nations in an effort to win the war in Korea.

This was reported by the semi-official French news agency and later confirmed by a foreign ministry spokesman.

Price Regulation Talks In Greenville Tomorrow

Eastern OPS Director And Staff Member To Appear Before Local Merchants At City Hall Tuesday Evening

John G. Clark, eastern area director for the Office of Price Stabilization in North Carolina, and at least one other member of the OPS staff in Raleigh will be in Greenville tomorrow night to explain the OPS price regulations to businessmen of this area.

The meeting which is slated for the Greenville city hall at 8 o'clock is one of four such meetings which have been scheduled for the eastern part of the state. Similar meetings will be held in Rocky Mount, Elizabeth City and Fayetteville.

Officials of the local Merchants Association who arranged for the OPS spokesmen to come to Greenville, urged all the businessmen of Greenville and surrounding cities and towns to attend the meeting tomorrow night.

Here with Clark tomorrow night will be Mrs. Nina Shaw of the OPS staff, and perhaps one or more other members of the Raleigh office. Mrs. Shaw was with the state OPA office during World War II and following the war.

The federal OPS office late last week added 108 categories to the already long list of consumer goods which came under regulation seven of the OPS order. The new amendments to regulation seven places practically every retail business under the price regulations. According to the regulations, each business which deals with items covered by the price controls has to file a pricing chart with the state office by April 30.

Included in the list of 108 new items which have been put under the OPS regulations are kitchen cutlery, food preparation devices, galvanized ware, general notions, sporting goods, silverware, china, glassware, costume jewelry, watches, clocks and radios.

Mrs. Cora Powell, executive secretary of the Merchants Association, stated this morning, "As it now stands almost every concern is under regulation seven by virtue of this new amendment to the regulation. We urge all the businessmen of this area to attend the meeting with the OPS officials and get the answers to their questions about the regulations."

Thinks Defense Housing Bill To Have Senate OK

Washington, April 9—(AP)—Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona expressed confidence today that the Senate would pass a $1,500,000 defense housing program, half the size the Administration asked.

"I think we will have no great difficulty on this one," McFarland told a reporter. "There may be some amendments but I look for no trouble."

Assembly Begins Final Drive For Closing Session

Legislative Leaders Set Sights For Possible Adjournment Saturday

Raleigh, N. C., April 9—(AP)—The 1951 General Assembly today began what weary legislators hope will be its final week.

While a mass of state and local bills remains to be disposed of, legislative leaders have set their sights for possible adjournment Saturday.

A big portion of the unfinished work is in the House where a log jam has developed on state-wide bills. A nine-member House calendar committee already has taken over most of the work of the other House committees and will act on new legislation during the closing days. The Senate is fairly well up with its work. No Senate calendar committee is planned.

Observers agree that some night sessions will have to be held, especially in the House to clear away the work by Saturday.

Both the House and Senate met today at noon to hold full sessions. A joint session is scheduled tonight at 8:30 at which time a portrait of Governor Charles B. Aycock will be unveiled in the hall of the House. The portrait will replace that of Henry Clay. Governor Scott is scheduled to accept the portrait of behalf of the state from Dr. Frank P. Graham who will make the presentation address in behalf of the Aycock family.

Today's session marks the 83rd legislative of the current session. This compares with a total of 94 in 1949, 76 in 1947 and 67 in 1945.

Meanwhile, some 300 war veterans from 14 counties mapped plans yesterday at a mass meeting in Graham for a second veterans bonus march on the state capitol tomorrow. The march will be similar to one held last Monday. At that time, some 500 veterans, traveling in 65 cars, descended on the capitol and demanded a hearing on a bonus bill introduced by Rep. George Long of Alamance. The hearing was held Wednesday before the House Finance committee which voted the next day to disapprove the measure. Another bonus bill then was introduced in the Senate.

Scrap Drive Not Up To High Hopes

Between 6,000 and 10,000 pounds of scrap paper was collected in Greenville yesterday afternoon by the Jaycees in their first scrap paper drive in more than two years.

President Dan Saied of the Junior Chamber of Commerce termed the scrap paper collections "successful" although he said the club did not collect as much scrap paper yesterday as the members had anticipated. Saied said the lack of magazines found in the collections in the residential sections of Greenville was partially responsible for the lack of weight of the collections.

Cloudy skies and sprinkling rains yesterday afternoon likewise put a damper on the paper collections. Approximately 25 members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce participated in the drive.

President Saied announced this morning that the Jaycees already are formulating plans for another scrap paper drive in the city during July. "We are asking the people of Greenville to begin now saving their old newspapers and magazines for us so that we can have a good scrap paper collection in July," he stated.

WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET

Five File For City Offices In Late Rush On Saturday

Three More Candidates For Mayor's Office, Another Running For Municipal Court Judge And One Aldermanic Candidate Enter Political Lists; Five Now Running For Mayor

By JOHN SPINKS, JR.

The political atmosphere fairly sized between noon and 5:30 Saturday when three more candidates filed for the mayor's office, another for the office of Municipal Court judge, and one aldermanic candidate filed—all subject to the May 7 elections.

Another candidate filed conditionally for the mayor's office but withdrew his filing fee later in the afternoon.

Joining the mayoral election field are Sam B. Underwood, Jr., attorney, Marshall F. Clark, Greenville Funeral Home director, and former Chief of Police Lester D. Page. Former Mayor J. H. Boyd put down his fee as a candidate but withdrew it after the other three had filed.

Filing for judge of Municipal Court was Reverend W. T. C. Briggs, 1104 Forbes Street, who has held pastorate in the state and also in New York, Connecticut, South Carolina and Texas. He enters the field for the judgeship against incumbent

W. H. Roberts and Charles H. Whedbee.

The final filing for the aldermanic races was L. E. (Dick) Everett who will be a candidate from the first ward, running against incumbent Fleber Tripp and James Brewer, the latter who announced for the office Saturday morning.

All three candidates for mayor were surprise starters and bring the total in the field to five. Earlier Saturday H. H. Duncan, assistant tax collector, joined Clarence H. Bryant in the race for the office after Mayor W. S. Stafford stated he would not run for a second term.

Underwood, formerly county attorney, is the only seasoned campaigner in the group, although he has not run for any political office since 1940 when he lost the race for the job.

Clark, however, has been in one campaign prior to this one, that of the coroner's job which he ran for last spring and was defeated by co-runner Griffin Rouse.

Although the present race marks the first time Page has ever run for elective office, he held the appointive office of police chief from 1948 until last July when the board of aldermen appointed Herbert Wooten. Page subsequently went into the filling station business.

All three candidates for mayor today issued formal statements concerning their campaign. Underwood stated he sought no political honor or preference for himself in announcing his candidacy for mayor.

"Those persons who urged me to offer my services insisted, however, that I should make available to the citizens and voters of Greenville my training and experience," he said. "No friend who urged me to announce my candidacy has even mentioned any particular project of the city government and I assure all interested persons that I am not the candidate of any special group nor is there any special interest which I seek to serve. My single interest, if chosen by the voters of the City, will be to do my best to achieve an honest and efficient and progressive administration of the city government."

Clark's statement reads: "I truly believe in a progressive Greenville built around a sound economical structure. The governing body should see that there are 100 pennies in each dollar and should see that a dollar's worth of merchandise or service is received for each dollar spent by the city; and that the governing body should have no axe to grind with any individual or group and should not be under any special obligation to political or special groups."

Page stated he is a small businessman and believes in fairness to all citizens and groups coming under the jurisdiction of the governing body.

"I believe in fair play and fair and efficient government," he said. "If I'm elected I'll do my best to carry on the city government in an efficient way and see that all departments carry on their activities efficiently and that all persons, whether they are rich or poor, will be considered on any complaint or any

Open Floodgates Of Reservoir Dam; Water Rushes Down On Allied-Held Ground But Believed Largely Ineffective

By OLEN CLEMENTS

Tokyo, April 9—(AP)—Chinese communists opened the floodgates of the massive Hwachon Reservoir dam in central Korea today and sent thousands of tons of water rushing down on allied-held ground.

The dam is 1,000 feet high. The Reds opened 10 of its 18 floodgates. Six gates were reported inoperative.

The Reds may have had two purposes in losing their "man-made flood":

First, to cut the Chunchon-Hwachon highway, a main allied supply artery.

Second, to pave the way for a counter-offensive down the Chunchon-Wonju highway.

Although fighting near the reservoir has been severe, AP correspondent Leif Erickson at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said there was no indication the Reds had started a mass drive.

An estimated communist regiment was sighted Sunday afternoon between the river and advancing allied soldiers. Aerial photographs clearly showed the floodgates closed then.

The Chinese apparently opened the floodgates and pulled out sometime after dark.

U. N. troops of four nations are deployed around Chunchon. Some forward elements might be temporarily cut off by the rising water. The high water may extend as far down the Pukhan River as Seoul, some 55 air miles southwest.

Draft Board Has Small Group To Undergo Testing

Friday of this week the county draft board will send the smallest number of men to Raleigh for the Army's pre-induction examinations that it has ever sent.

Making up the contingent will be 25 of the county's 19-year-old men. All in the teen-age draft group became 19 last month and make up the first pre-induction group that has been wholly teen-agers.

Abandoned Plane Crashes Into Home; Kills Three

Washington, April 9—(AP)—A twin-engine bomber, crippled and abandoned by its crew, crashed into a suburban cottage yesterday and killed two little girls and their uncle.

The children's father, mother and aunt were injured.

The B-25 bomber's three crewmen had parachuted to safety after a four-hour struggle with the crippled plane. They said they headed it toward the Chesapeake Bay before leaping out.

Air Force officers said any landing would have resulted in a violent crash, possibly fatal to the crew. The plane's landing gear had locked with only one wheel down.

Room For Chiseling

An Instance Where The NPA And OPS Apparently Didn't Get Together On Their Control Orders; As Usual, This Means An Unscrupulous Person Can Profit

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 9—(AP)—This is a sweet one.

Room For Chiseling

You drop in on a dealer to buy a new car. There's a ceiling on the price he can charge you. OPS—Office of Price Stabilization—has put a ceiling on the price of new cars.

Pretty good, you say. With that ceiling, he can't hike the price just because cars are harder to get now.

But he'll get around that, if he's a chiseler, by loading the new car down with a lot of unwanted accessories. You pay for the car with all that or you don't get it at all.

So you see a car you like, without any accessories, and you say: "What's the price on this?" It's, say, $1,800. That's the ceiling price. "I'll take it," says you.

"Good," says the dealer. "And by the way, I suppose you know there are only four tires with this car. No spare."

"What's that again?" says you. "Sorry," says the dealer. "Government order." He's right, too. NPA—National Production Authority—ordered carmakers, effective

April 1, to ship their cars to dealers with no more than four tires. No spares on new cars.

Why? Because NPA, which controls materials to be sure the armed forces get all they need, wants to save rubber. The rubber which manufacturers save by omitting a spare tire on passenger cars will go into tires for trucks.

Well, since it's for the good of the country, it's all right. But it does put you into a kind of stew. Personally, true, a car with four tires is better than a car with only three.

But a car with only four isn't so good when you have a flat with any one of them. So you say to the dealer: "My goodness, what am I going to do without a spare?"

"Oh, I can sell you a spare," said the dealer. "I have a few new tires on hand."

(Some of them may chisel on this fifth tire business. For example, Jones got a new car from the manufacturer, complete with five tires, before NPA told car-

Incompatible Ideology

British Spokesman Takes View That International Cooperation Can Flourish Despite Political Differences; Modification In The Case Of Communism

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Britain's new Foreign Secretary, Herbert Morrison, during a speech in London supported the thesis that "international cooperation can flourish despite differences of political systems."

As a generality that undoubtedly is true, but the question immediately arises whether it can be stretched to cover the outsider of the ideologies—communism. Is there any possibility of cooperation between Communism and Democracy?

The answer is, I think, that there may be cooperation on some lines between Communist states and non-Communist states. There can be no real cooperation between communism and any other ideology within the borders of one nation.

As to partial cooperation between communist and non-communist states, we had an excellent example in the alliance during the last world war. However, that was a matter of life and death—and danger makes strange bed fellows. No such partnership is likely among Red and non-Red elements within one nation.

Why? Because if a communist party gets a foothold in a largely Democratic county, the Reds give their allegiance, not to their national government but to Moscow.

Every non-Russian communist is a subject first of Moscow, and after that is a citizen of his own country.

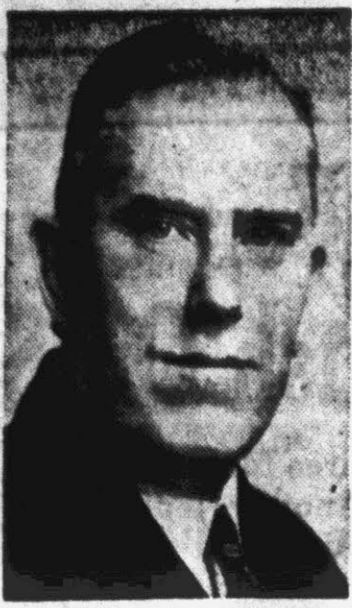

One only has to look at Europe to see numerous examples of this truth. Take countries like large communist parties. The Reds are in constant conflict with the non-communist governments. The communist leaders are indoctrinated in Moscow. They take their orders from Moscow.

We had an unforgettable (and perhaps unforgetable) example of trying to force nationalism to mix with communism in China during the late world war. The scheme was a dismal failure and the outcome, as was to be expected, was that the communists finally took over. In such fashion did Moscow become the overlord of a nation of 600 millions.

The moral would seem to be that (Continued on page eight)

The Golden Text is from Matthew (7:19): "Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire."

Passages from the Bible include: "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night. For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the ungodly shall perish" (Ps. 1: 1, 2, 6)

And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Since God is All, there is no room for His unlikeliness. God, Spirit, alone created all, and called it good. Therefore evil, being contrary to good, is unreal, and cannot be the product of God." (p. 339)

Women In The Church

National leaders in non-religious service agencies are beginning to realize that a child's personality development may be handicapped by the lack of spiritual values, just as much as by lack of adequate food or of suitable housing, says Mrs. Mabel Garrett Wagner, home missionary executive of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Methodist Church. "Too much hate, too many criminals flavor our society," says Mrs. Wagner. "Children need love and a sense of love as they grow up. But if there is demeaning poverty, racial or ethnic discrimination with no regard for the feelings of children, their personalities become warped, arousing feelings of inferiority, envy, and resentment. Delinquency may result."

Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, ambassador from India to the U.S.A., speaking at a dinner given Dr. Frank C. Laubach, missionary educator, said: "I should like to take this opportunity to express the gratitude of many sections of my people for the splendid contributions that foreign missions have made to India in promoting the welfare of its people. In the secular State of India, we hope to welcome many friends of foreign missions in the task of reconstruction."

The Christian church has always been a minority movement, says Miss Sarah Chakko, president of Isabella Thoburn College, India, and probably her nation's leading woman educator. "There have been periods in the history of Europe and America when people thought it was not so and that they were secure in their numbers," says Miss Chako. "But I believe that in all times of history the real believers have always been a minority. To the Christian from the areas of the younger churches where he knows he is in a minority it comes as a shock that it is so in America. The neo-paganism which has come into existence because the church has lost the purity of her faith, and because we have let ourselves be captured by the all powerful state, or by money, or by social status and respectability. The fact of the minority church all over the world gives a new meaning to that term that came alive a few years ago! Partnership in obedience." This is our new relationship.

A New Institution In Name Only

East Carolina Teachers College is no longer in existence. The institution disappeared from the educational scene of North Carolina through a legislative act of the General Assembly last week. But the institution of ECTC disappeared in name only.

East Carolina College is the same institution with the same fine tradition . . . only the new name of the educational institution more properly fits the school. Ten years ago East Carolina ceased to be altogether a teachers college. It began offering degrees in fields other than teaching. During the past ten years, the diversification of the courses of study offered at East Carolina has continued.

Today the college offers young people of this section of the state a well rounded liberal arts course of study as well as one of the best teacher training courses anywhere in the country.

The diversification of the curriculum of East Carolina does not mean that the task of educating young teachers is being de-emphasized at the school. It simply means that the institution is offering a broader course to young people. And perhaps in years, to come, if the institution continues to grow as it has in the past decade, the legislature will find it advisable to call the institution a university rather than a college.

News Behind The News
 By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Apr. 9.—A simple, inexpensive, one-man Marshall Plan for making friends for the United States among the peoples living inside and outside the Iron Curtain countries, thus undermining the Kremlin, has been sponsored by a group of enterprising Californians with seemingly startling potentialities.

Although this column never indulges in propaganda of any kind, the program appears to be so constructive and so helpful toward international understanding in the "cold war" that it deserves the fullest publicity.

If it can become a nationwide movement, properly organized, it could do far more good for our side than all the diplomatic and propaganda efforts of Secretary Dean Acheson's costly establishment at Washington and overseas.

MAGAZINES—Briefly, it proposes that the American people send to key individuals and institutions overseas their good magazine, after they have finished with them. They should be shipped to legislators, Mayors, politicians, business men and industrialists, newspaper and magazine editors, public and college libraries, teachers and preachers, leaders of labor, agriculture and finance.

The idea originated with Professor Albert Croissant of Occidental College, Los Angeles 41. It has been taken up by the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce and Civic Association, 164 North Euclid, Pasadena, Cal.

The movement itself is known as Magazines for Friendship. This organization can furnish full information on the plan, including strategic addresses to which the publications should be sent.

DRAMATIC—Eventually, it is planned to enlist Rotary-Kiwanis-Lion clubs, women's clubs, churches, schools, 4-H organizations etc., American corporations with branch offices and distributing systems abroad will also be included in the program to explain how and why more than 60,000,000 American workers and 15,000,000 farmers live more abundantly than the so-called upper classes do abroad.

"It can do more good than all the cookie-pauners and bureaucrats combined," writes Professor Croissant. The dramatic story of how letters from American-born Italians and immigrants kept that country from going Communist several years ago, suggests that he does not exaggerate, if the American people will get behind the project in a big way.

EXCERPTS—Since it is impossible to improve upon the explanatory leaflet prepared by the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce and Civic Association, here are a few bread-and-butter excerpts showing how the plan operates, as well as its underlying purpose:

"An illustrated magazine is even better than the famous Sears, Roebuck & Co. catalog. It shows how we live and how we think, and it depicts the freedom and prosperity of democracy, as opposed to the tyranny and poverty of communism.

"It costs only twelve cents a pound to send magazines anywhere in the world, save behind the Iron Curtain; and you may be sure that many magazines sent to such places as Berlin, Vienna and border towns will keep through the Iron Curtain to help undermine the Kremlin."

State Department records bear out this last statement.

RESPECT—"Official propaganda," the leaflet continues, "is always discounted. Therefore, it is vitally important for us all to cooperate in supplying key individuals and institutions with our better magazines.

"Many foreigners still look upon Americans as either millionaires and gangsters (especially since the Kefauver-Pulbright hearings—Ed. Note), as brash adolescents from the intellectual and spiritual point of view; and now, at this moment when we need world opinion solidly aligned on our side in the struggle with Russia and its threat of world tyranny, it is vitally important that we make the world like, respect and understand us."

INDIVIDUAL—The leaflet warns against sending "cheap pulp magazines, or those which present a gaudy, sensational and distorted picture of American life and character, as many of our picture magazines and movies frequently do."

The unique objective of this movement, it is pointed out, is "to encourage international friendships at the individual citizen level, avoiding impersonal organization or government propaganda methods, which are usually costly and ineffective."

Despite the vast help which the Marshall Plan and other aid programs have accomplished, the individual Britisher, Frenchman or Italian rarely realizes the source of his improved lot, largely because of their "impersonal" nature.

EYEOPEENER—The barrier of language, oddly, offers no great difficulty. For one thing, Europeans are far more multi-lingual than Americans, and a few readers can pass around the information, or even convey the news in translation.

Moreover, pictures and figures are understandable even to those who cannot make out the words. Photographs of thousands of workers' cars outside a factory, for instance, and of white-collar employees' clothes, should be an eyep opener abroad. So should wage statistics!

Eric A. Johnston, now Economic Stabilizer on leave from his position as head of the Motion Picture Association of America, tells an amusing story on the effect of pictures. Hoping to depict our police as "capitalist brutes," the Kremlin showed movies of strike riots in Detroit.

Soviet audiences, very much impressed by the politeness of clubs, being used to it. They "shed and oohed" when they saw the solid shoes and unpatched clothes of the workmen. Similarly, "Grapes of Wrath" did not convince them that our people were also poverty-stricken. They envied the "Okies" their possession of worn and battered flivvers.

Don't Look Now—

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

ALPHA OMEGA—The only functioning committee during the first few days of the general assembly, and one of the most important throughout the session, is the committee on rules. The only really important committee during the final days of the session is the calendar committee. By reason of his appointment as chairman of both these committees, Rep. S. O. Worthington of Pitt has had larger voice than any other member in getting the legislature underway and in getting its business finished. For that reason some of his friends suggest that his name should be changed from Samuel Otis to "Alpha Omega"—the first and the last. The senior member from Pitt, now serving his seventh consecutive term, in addition to starting and stopping the legislative machinery, has had large hand in keeping it running smoothly throughout the session. An incisive legal mind enabled him to detect bad legislation, intended or otherwise, and have it amended or killed as he required.

INDIANS—Speaking of names reminds of the pending bill to legally constitute the Indians of Robeson county as a new tribe to be known as the "Lumbee Indians." These people of uncertain lineage, claiming but unable to conclusively prove descent from the Croatanians with whom the Lost Colony is supposed to have mingled, have made several previous attempts to gain recognition as a unit. Effort has been made by legislative action to designate them as Croatanians, as Cherokees and as Indians of Robeson County. At almost exactly one-third of the people in Robeson are in this group, but some of them living in Bladen, Columbus and other neighboring counties do not like the Robeson label. None of them like to be called Croatanians, and the Western Cherokees do not admit kinship to them. Senator Wesley Watts is making one more attempt at stabilization of a name and would identify them with the Lumbee River, old name for the beautiful stream now commonly known as the Lumber, along which most of the tribe lives.

FERRY—The bill authorizing a ferry across the Cape Fear river between Carolina Beach and Southport passed the house Friday with a slight amendment to the senate version. Upon request of Rep. Addison Hewlett of New Hanover that it be sent to the senate for concurrence in the amendment, Rep. Carl Venters of Onslow moved that it be sent by "special ferry." It was so ordered.—And Rep. Hewlett with Senator Al Lennon constituted themselves a "special ferryboat" to convey the paper across the hall. "Five minutes later it was the law."

AMENDMENTS—Several constitutional amendments were on the calendar Saturday for consideration as to whether they would be submitted to vote of the people. Submission requires a three-fifths vote of the entire membership of each body. There were just 30 senators and 80 representatives on hand Saturday. Since it would have required 30 senators and 72 representatives voting for the proposals to submit the amendments, sponsors decided not to take a chance and the matters were continued until Monday or Tuesday.

FISHING WORMS—The "fishing worm bill" occupied more than half an hour in the house Saturday day, and brought about the clearest delineation of east-west voting seen this year. The bill would impose an annual license fee of 50c for fishing with pole and line and worms anywhere, even on the fisherman's own property. If enacted the bill would make available several thousand additional dollars from the federal government for stocking streams with fish.

That set up a ready-made situation for sectional division and for tear-pulling pleas about oppression of the poor. Most of the branch-bank worm-bait fishing is in the east; most of the streams which would be restocked are in the west. The question was ideal for plea to get more federal money for North Carolina, and for appeals against levying a new tax on the ragged-britches fishermen and the housewife who sought a meal out of the nearby creek. The measure got by the house on second reading, is not accorded much hope in the senate.

REO—Veteran politicians warned that the "fishing worm bill" has more political dynamite than mechanical inspection. They predicted that when constables and "fine high school boys, housewives and farmers for fishing in their own streams, there would be a howl heard all over the state—echoes of which would be heard in the next campaign and evidenced by absence of many present members from the next legislature. Rep. Elton Edwards protested that this assembly had gone until near the end holding the line against new taxes—and now seeks to impose an entirely new tax on the people least able to pay and least liable on reasonable basis for the levy.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

The Fiscal Picture
 (Greensboro Daily News)

Tax collections on both the state and federal level in North Carolina, with special emphasis on the March avalanche of income tax returns, testify to the continuing business and industrial activity in the Old North State and the fiscal soundness which obtains here.

Insofar as the federal government is concerned, the increased tax take is nationwide and has so altered the treasury's position that a substantial surplus is assured for the present fiscal year and tax requirements for the fiscal year ahead have immediately been slashed by $6,500,000,000. That does not mean that the current treasury surplus is not temporary or that additional tax funds will not have to be sought as the defense program moves into high gear and deferred spending eais away at whatever accumulation of funds the treasury has. It must likewise be remembered that the surplus is accounted for in large part by inflation which means that the dollars which Secretary Snyder has in his till are cheaper and that in purchasing power, say, for planes, tanks, guns, battleships, et cetera, the loss grows daily.

It is the State's fiscal situation, however, which more directly concerns us. A statement issued by Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw reveals that the general fund took in $55,289,066 in March, for a gain of $12,449,218, or 29.06 per cent, over the same month of last year. For the first nine months, ending with March of the present fiscal year, the gain is $21,484,250, or 20.06 per cent. Projecting revenue figures as he now envisions them, Commissioner Shaw sees collections of $25,890,807, or 10 per cent gain, for the remaining quarter of the fiscal year. Certainly there is nothing in income and sales tax collections, which account for practically all of this gain, to show any economic decline in Tarheelia, and the sensitivity and accuracy of these two levies as business barometers cannot be questioned. As in the case of the federal treasury's surplus, inflation is largely responsible for these State revenue gains and allowance must be made accordingly.

Nevertheless there is genuine reason for optimism and for increasing belief that the new budget may do what is claimed for it. That does not mean that budget provisions are adequate or that funds are distributed as equitably as they might be. It does lessen apprehension that the Joint Appropriations Committee may have overestimated revenue and that a crisis, affecting both finances and public services, might occur in the biennium ahead. No one even likes to contemplate what might happen if revenue declined and the State simply found itself without funds, say, along in late 1952 or early 1953.

The question remains, in all of its implications, double-barreled: Where the State is to get its dollars and what, after they do come in, is to get with or for them? Somewhere in the picture, despite the lush appearance now, is the sobering conjecture of what might reasonably happen if the present textile strike continues long or spreads and its economic impact on corporation earnings and employees' purchasing power, is truly felt.

County Consolidations
 (Washington Daily News)

A bill has been introduced in the North Carolina legislature which if enacted would consolidate some of the counties.

There is some merit to the bill. In the first place the administrative costs of operating a county are heavy, and in the cases of smaller counties, this cost could be reduced materially by consolidations.

The Daily News would like to know what counties are to lose their identity should the bill be taken seriously. It is almost safe to predict that such a bill will face a stiff fight from political groups, especially those in the counties to be consolidated with other counties.

The Daily News thinks that such a fight will be similar to the one which so many school districts have experienced in the school consolidations. A county which has struggled along through the depression, through all the years, and which has become noted for this or that will not stand by without a fight and see its identity lost to another county.

So in the final analysis the fight will be one of survival for the counties so affected. It will likely be tradition and identity versus costs. And in the end the Daily News expects that tradition will win out.

Suppose efforts were made to consolidate Chowan and Perquimans counties. If Chowan would agree to become a part of Perquimans or if Perquimans would agree to become a part of Chowan, then it would be fine. But it just won't work that way. Chowan wants to remain Chowan, and Perquimans wants to remain Perquimans.

One county will not mind taking another in as an integral part, but the county being taken in will yell just that—we're being "taken in." That is a practical deduction, it seems to us.

Yet, one will have to admit that a lot of money could be saved by some consolidations here and there. It could be saved in law enforcement, schools, welfare, and other functions. Tradition is too strong.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
 While the American dollar may be worth only 56 cents, it still looks pretty good to foreign business men. They are stepping up efforts to gain a larger share of the gold oil beat-up bucks.

When foreign manufacturers have the goods, they will be quick to move in when shortages develop here. However, almost all foreign countries have shortage troubles too.

A British government report calls for an increase in exports of textiles to America. It points out that shortages and the need to re-arm make it difficult to increase exports of metal goods, hence every effort must be made to increase exports of textiles, clothing and other consumer articles.

The British Industries Fair this summer is intended to increase exports to the United States. An intense campaign is being waged here to induce importers, chain and department store buyers and distributors to visit and buy.

Two most widely advertised names in Britain are Bovril and Boots, as any GI who was there can tell you. Bovril is a beef extract and Boots a chain of drug stores so large that it has almost become synonymous with "chemist's." American Bovril and Boots companies have been set up to increase sales of the extract and to introduce cough drops and other medicinal products here.

French interests are opening new offices in New York in an attempt to increase exports here by $100,000,000 this year. Italy, Belgium, Holland, West Germany and the Scandinavian countries are all trying to sell more goods here and Spain is taking a new look at the U.S. market now that diplomatic relations have been improved.

Japanese seeking more dollars are getting help from the State of Washington and Seattle business men, who are staging an International Japanese Trade Fair from June 17 to July 3. The sponsors believe there will be a boom in Japanese-American trade and it might just as well pass through Seattle as any other port.

Many foreign manufacturers are counting on U.S. tariff concessions now being negotiated at Torquay, England, to enable them to sell at lower prices here. The concessions will be announced by the State Department on May 9. As a consequence of all these moves, American merchants are going to be offered a lot more imported goods and shoppers will see an increasing number of exotic products on shelves and in ads.

CUSTOMERS MAKE NEW CUSTOMERS
 The National Radio and Appliance Dealers Association, which passes good ideas on to members, reports that a Racine dealer is getting results by sending salesmen to visit customers a day after appliances are installed. The salesmen make sure customers are satisfied and leave five postcards with each. Whenever a customer learns a friend is interested in an appliance, she puts that information on a card and mails it to the dealer. The customer gets a commission on each sale. The fifth postcard is red, and when that comes in, the dealer sends the customer five more.

NEW BOOKS: ONE FRIMES CONSUMERS
 Many retailers scream at the publication of books telling consumers how to get more for their money. They say they make customers harder to deal with and often put dealers in an unfavorable light.

Nevertheless, it is a good idea for dealers to read these books if for no other reason than to be prepared for questions customer-readers will ask.

Newest such publication is Consumer's Guide to Better Buying, by Sidney Margolius. (Signet & Mentor, New York, 25c). It professes to show the working man how to gain another 20 cents of value for every $1 spent.

Other new books of special interest to business men:

"The Story of Lace and Embroidery," by David E. Schwab. (Fairchild Publications, New York, $3.25). An illustrated history of the industry.

"The Market Guide for Latin America," by American Foreign Credit Underwriters, New York ($75 with supplements). Capital and credit data for exporters, etc.

Hal Boyle's Column

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 There's a big campaign on to make women smart about money and the handling of same. But if they ever hope to make petticoat financiers of women, the first thing they've got to do is make the subject fascinating, simple and dramatic.

Personally, I would be happy to pay somebody as much as three 5-cent dollars if the circumstances surrounding inflation and the high cost of living could be translated into terms as easy to understand and fun to read about as, for example, new treatments, remedies, and surgical operations for ills that plague mankind.

Today, although almost any literate woman can recite from memory phases of the new sensational treatment of rare tropical diseases—as explored by her favorite women's magazine—she's quiet as a gas refrigerator when male conversation swirls around to the condemnation or defense of such esoteric matters as price supports and parity.

She knows that the basic operation of the patron of a stock market is to buy when prices are low and to sell when they are high. The terms "bull" and "bear" are interesting—and might form a nice jumping off place for children's stories about playing the market, but their functions in finance are confused in her mind.

In fact, most matters concerning finance—including the high cost of living—are confused in the mind of woman, in spite of her concern that hamburger now costs approximately as much per pound as caviar used to—although I've always liked hamburger much better than caviar, even when it was cheap. The more I listen, the more people I hear explaining the facts of life, the more perplexing is the puzzle.

For instance, just the other day I heard—or thought I heard—a fellow who is very high up in government explaining about inflation in slow, simple words. First this guy said—unnecessarily—that prices were going up fast, and this was a threat because people ultimately wouldn't have enough money to buy the necessities of life. Then our "standard of living" would drop, people couldn't buy things and—boom—depression.

Then this same fellow went on to say that this horrible situation could all be corrected by increasing the amount of taxes we pay, as this pouring of money into the federal treasury would siphon off the excess money we are all making, so that we could not possibly spend it for non-essentials. This plan, he said, will fix everything.

Right now I haven't got any excess money to spend for non-essentials even before their siphoning off more tax money from my bank account. As for the rest of it, this economist might just as well have explained the situation in an obscure Chinese dialect, for all the sense it makes to me.

I have, however, a couple of ideas which might make economics as popular a pastime as Canada. For one, the educators might try making "economic terms" colorful and glamorous, like the names of perfumes or colors of nail enamel, and then treating the whole operation of money the way the whole operation of modern advances in surgery. After all, if we women can discuss together the miracle of pre-frontal lobotomies and clinical observations of tic douloureux, there's no reason why we can't absorb a prettied-up package concerning stabilizing producers' profits.

The other suggestion is to hold a series of day-time Kefauver-type hearings on the state of the nation's coffers. The witnesses would be the country's top em-pire-state counterfeiter, stock swindlers and con men, and they would explain their operations in detail. After all, American women almost overnight turned into living-room jurists and authorities on crime. There's no reason on earth why the same dramatic device couldn't be turned toward informing us on the significance of unpepping prices of bonds.

Washington Letter

Washington—Don't doll up the garden scare-crow with the family's cast-off clothing or give it to the rag man. There are many things you can do to garments so they can be used again. That summer-weight jacket of Daddy's which won't be used for a while because he's joined the Army can be made into a suit for four-year-old Johnny. The good parts of Mother's house dresses can be converted into little dresses for Mary Jane, or playuits, pajamas, aprons.

Lounging socks may be made from the feet and ankles of cotton or woolen stockings. Soft knitted garments can be recut into babies' shirts, bound with soft tape and tied. Fur collars, cuffs and muffs can be made from old coats.

Clothing specialists list hun-make ready to renovate old that is not completely worn out. They suggest you search your attics, trunks and closets for things too good to throw away. But the experts say, before you make ready to renovate old clothes you should make sure of three things: (1) that you can't use the old garment as is; (2) that the cloth in the old coat, suit or dress is worth the time and effort to remake it; (3) that you have had enough sewing experience. Making a wool garment is not usually a beginner's job.

If a few slight changes will make any garment wearable, then get out your needle and thread. First clean, air, brush and press each garment. Most garments can be made by using a good mild soap, plenty of water and several rinses.

See how you can use each garment to get the best results and the most wear. Think of the clothing needs of each member of the family. Jennie may need a petticoat more than Junior a sun suit. Faded or streaked material can be revived. First remove the old color, then re-dye with a good dye, following directions on the package carefully.

When you plan to remodel garments take them apart before cleaning. Pull the threads or carefully rip with a razor blade. Brush the old seams to remove lint. Press wool or silk fabrics on the wrong side with a pressing cloth. Press frequently during the remodeling process too.

When you find weak or worn spots and stains, plan to cut around or to hide them. Select styles suitable for the particular material to be made over. This is very important. Misuse of material will label a garment as a make-over, "a make-over," the experts say, "is NOT a success unless it looks as good and has as much style as one made of new goods."

Married Life Has Gained Popularity In Last Decade

New York, N. Y.—Married life has become more popular in the United States over the past decade, report the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's statisticians. The proportion of persons in the population who are living with a husband or wife has gained steadily since 1940.

While the primary factor has been the upsurge in marriages and remarriages, the reduction in widowhood has also played a part.

Separated persons likewise declined in relative frequency, cutting drastically into the backlog of such persons which had been built up during the depression.

In 1950 there were some 13,200,000 widowed, divorced, or separated persons in our population. If the relative frequency of such persons had continued at the 1940 rate, the figure would have been 1,800,000 higher.

Among those for whom married life has been disrupted, only the divorced group showed an increase, reflecting the record total of more than 4,000,000 marriages legally dissolved during the 10-year period.

The increase in the proportion divorced, however, has been very small. This is explained by the high remarriage rate for the divorced, especially for those who had married hastily during the war.

"These facts prove that the American people have a deep and abiding faith in family life," the statisticians observe. "Whatever the disruptive forces of contemporary society, they are outweighed by the strong desire for home and children."

Nippon Treasure Is Too Expensive

TOKYO—(AP)—A move by the Japanese government to purchase national treasures and so relieve their private owners of the burden of maintaining them has fallen through. The treasures are too expensive. Culture-loving Japan has a system of preserving places, objects and the like for posterity by declaring them "national treasures." The owners are made responsible for them and cannot sell, pawn or alter them.

But some owners protested against the economic burden that accompanied the honor of owning such a treasure. So the government created a culture property safeguarding committee and appropriated $80,000 for purchases. Immediately, 120 owners of treasures applied. Their evaluations totaled $325,000. National treasures vary from immense tracts of land to a tiny teacup.

The committee has announced it will accept no further offers. It noted it was not questioning the worth of articles submitted—but that they were just too expensive.

Villages Fenced In To Keep Red Terrorists Out

Johore Bahru, Malaya—(AP)—The Red's a fence being built all around the new resettlement village near Jementah. It's designed more to keep Communist terrorists out.

Two hundred families have moved into houses newly built. Other houses are under construction to accommodate a total of 400 families. This is part of the resettlement program carried out by British authorities as a corollary to the war against Communist terrorists. They're clearing areas of terrorists as fast as possible. Then new resettlements are formed—to be peopled by law-abiding, loyal citizens.

Some of these are encircled by a moat 14 feet wide. That's also designed to make it difficult for Communist terrorists to get back into the area once they have been driven out.

Miss Elenora Cash Thanks S.S.S. for Good Health

"I have taken 3 large S.S.S. and one small, and this is the first winter I missed having the flu... I thank S.S.S. for my good health since September, after taking S.S.S. I feel fine. If I feel bad again, back to S.S.S. I can never say enough for it. All my friends ask what I have been doing. I look so well. You can see by the picture I don't look sick."
—Miss Elenora E. Cash, 126 Highland Ave., Mobile, Ala.

"Take it from me, that S.S.S. is really the ideal tonic. Just one month ago, when I'd come home from work, usually I was so tired out important chores around home just had to go undone. My wife suggested I try S.S.S. S.S.S. has given me new vim, vigor and vitality. S.S.S. is the Number One Tonic!"
—Mr. D. R. Parrry, 9 Rosetter Street, Gt. Barrington, Mass.

The S.S.S. Tonic Company wanted to prove just how good this medicine is. So doctors were asked in college, laboratory and hospital to try the tonic on people who needed help with their blood, stomach digestion or appetite. After trying out S.S.S. Tonic, the doctors agreed that S.S.S. was a valuable and useful medicine. This is what they said: "... Laboratory studies show that for increasing red blood cells and for making the cells rich in coloring matter, S.S.S. Tonic was definitely greater than liver and iron..." After the continuous administration of S.S.S. Tonic, improvement was manifested in many ways: Improved appetite, stimulation of stomach activities, improved digestion, restoration of the blood to a normal state, a notable increase in strength, vitality, energy, and a sense of well-being. Further tests showed stomach gastric discomfort relieved, and food better digested—thereby giving steady relief from acid indigestion.

Bantam Ben Adds Masters Crown To Long List Of Major Golfing Titles

Comeback Trail Capped By Victory On Tenth Attempt At Augusta; Would Be Satisfied If He 'Never Won Another Tournament'

Augusta, Ga., April 9—(AP)—Nine times Ben Hogan came out of Ft. Worth, Texas, to shoot for a Masters crown and like no other major professional golf title, the pesky thing kept avoiding him.

The little Texan who thinks golf is a game to play, not something to talk about, finally came through in his tenth attempt. Ben spotted par eight strokes on four trips around the par 36-36-72 Augusta National Course to win his first prestige-loaded Masters with 280.

If Ben wanted to retire right now from golf—something he has no intention of doing—he could check through his collection of titles and find not one of major importance missing.

Hogan and Robert (Skeg) Riegel, who finished second with a fine 282, were all alone at the head of the class. Hogan with a final round 68 whipped third place finishers Lloyd Mangrum and Lew Worsham by six strokes and Riegel, their junior in experience and publicity, spanked them by four.

Mangrum and Worsham, both former National Open champions, had 286 to complete the list of golfers good enough to beat par. Dave Douglas shot an even par 288.

Twenty five months ago the sports world wondered about the future of Ben Hogan. But Ben lived through the injuries and broken bones which his body suffered in West Texas in 1949 when his automobile and a bus collided.

He began his comeback by tying Sam Snead in the Los Angeles Open of 1950. Sam won the playoff. Last summer Ben put his comeback in the past tense when he won the National Open title. His victory in the 15th Masters at 39 years of age merely confirmed the fact when Hogan is in a major tournament field the best thing to do is pick him to win.

After his victory on the vicious 6,900-yard National, Ben quietly and humbly said, "I would be satisfied if I never won another tournament. I've certainly had more than my share."

Hogan played the final round on the soaked but sunny National "safe."

"I played it safe," Ben said, "not the way I like to play. The only way to win was to play it safe." His strategy was almost flawless. He didn't go over par on a hole and won birdies four times.

Pinehurst Play Set This Month

Pinehurst, N. C., April 9—(AP)—The North and South amateur golf tournaments for men and women will be held here this month.

The 51st men's event will be played April 16-21, with Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., the defending champion.

The 49th Women's tournament will be the following week. Pat O'Sullivan of nearby Mid-Pines is defending women's champion.

Tigers Tamed By Memphis Chicks

Memphis, April 9—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers are learning to their dismay that minor league hurling stills their bats almost as readily as does the major league variety.

Twice in a three-game series, the Memphis Chicks of the Southern Association have sent in pitchers that made the Tigers look like kittens. In both games, Detroit pitching also was far below standard. The Chicks took both contests easily, by scores of 10-2 Saturday and 5-4 yesterday, giving Detroit a dismal exhibition record.

Kennel Club Schedules All-Breed Show In May

The Greenville Kennel Club will sponsor its first All-Breed AKC Licensed Championship Point dog show in Greenville on May 5th as part of a series of Championship shows to be held over a three state area in a two day period.

The local Kennel club became eligible to hold the show, which is expected to draw some of the best known breeds in the state, after holding two qualifying matches previously.

Site for the judging of the dogs will be the Farmers Warehouse on the Bethel Highway, just across the river.

A world famous judge Mr. Forest N. Hill of Dallas, Texas, who judged the Belfast Kennel Club contest of Ireland last spring will be one of the principal judges, with Mr. Louis J. Murr of New York.

Every citizen of Pitt County who owns a purebred dog is urged to show their dog in the local classes, since the six sterling silver Local Class trophies will be open to Pitt county dogs only.

Dead line for entries into the Greenville all-breed show is at noon on April 23 and a spokesman for the organization stated that positively no dog may be entered later than the prescribed date.

Many entries already have poured into the city with inquiries coming from dog owners about hotel and housing accommodations for the duration of the show. Many of the owners have expressed a desire to find accommodations where they can care for their dogs along with their own accommodations. Anyone having any accommodations which might be used for the event should get in touch with Mrs. Frank Copeland. The rooms will be needed for May 4th and 5th.

The Greenville Kennel Club urges everyone who owns a fine dog or who would like to become a member of the Greenville Kennel Club to get in touch with Mrs. Copeland at telephone 2319 or Mrs. Lindsay Savage at 3966 for further information.

Entry blanks are available and some 3,500 premium lists have been mailed out with four hundred catalogs to be given out on the day of the show listing every dog and the owner with detailed information about the Greenville show and similar shows.

Greenville is a member of a circuit of Kennel Clubs, which includes Greenville, South Carolina, Asheville, Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Greensboro and Burlington. Next in the line-up comes, Greenville, then Wilson. The circuit then goes south to Columbus, Atlanta and Athens, Georgia ending up in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Carolina Relays Entered Three New Record Marks

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 9—(AP)—Three new records—by Duke, Yale and Princeton—are in the Carolina relays book.

Duke's team ran the 440-yard relay in 42.4 seconds in the sixth running of the track and field games at the University of North Carolina here Saturday. That broke the previous record, held by Maryland, by 8 seconds.

Princeton won the distance medley relay in 10:26.9. That was 9 seconds better than the old mark set by Princeton in 1949 and tied by Pennsylvania last year.

George Appel of Yale pole vaulted 13 feet, 5 1-4 inches, an inch and a half better than the old record set by Martin Korik of Tennessee last year.

No team scores were kept. North Carolina and Duke won two relay races each, and Yale, Princeton and Maryland took one apiece.

To give you some indication of quality of competition, Pettis of Princeton won the two-mile run in 9:32.5. Willis of North Carolina won the 100-yard dash in 10.1, and Ehinger of Dartmouth and Hipple of Yale tied for first in the high jump at 6 feet 3 inches.

Bonus March Is Set For Tuesday

Graham, April 9—(AP)—Veterans of World War I and II are scheduled to march on the Capital against tomorrow to press for a state bonus. This time they've been asked to take along pup tents.

About 300 veterans met at the court house here yesterday and laid plans for the march.

Andrew Del Vescovo, president of Alamance County Veterans Association, outlined a march similar to one held last Monday. In the march last week, about 65 cars went from here to Raleigh in support of a bonus bill. That bill was killed by the House Finance committee Wednesday.

A new bonus bill was introduced Friday by Sen. Thomas Sawyer of Durham. It would give a bonus up to $750 to World War II vets if the voters approved in a special referendum.

Sawyer, who spoke at yesterday's meeting, said he would offer an amendment to the bill taking care of World War I veterans as well.

The funeral of Carrie Byrd, 86, who died at the home of Mrs. Martha Brown Saturday at 10:20, will be conducted at Holy Trinity church Wednesday at 2 p. m. by Rev. B. B. Dunn. She had been in declining health for the past seven years and critically ill since Sunday.

Mrs. Georgie Williams was hostess to a number of friends Monday, March 25, at her home in honor of her daughter's birthday. Mrs. Mamie Dixon. The home was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. Games were played and a delicious salad course was served with coffee and fruit cake. Punch was poured by Mrs. Lula Jones.

Week's Play To Clear Up Status In North State

By the Associated Press

There's hardly been enough action to raise dust in the North State baseball conference so far this season.

None of the nine member teams has taken the field for more than three family tilts. And so the balance of power is in dim outline, if seen at all.

This week's schedule should do much to remedy that condition. Twelve conference games are on tap. Lenoir Rhyne, Appalachian and Western Carolina will be making their first conference starts of the season.

Currently leading the loop on the basis of pretty meager returns is Elon, the defending champion, with a 2-0 record. Catawba and Atlantic Christian trail with 1-0 marks.

Elon went to the top of the heap via the shutout pitching of Jim Hamrick last Thursday. He turned in a masterful mound job, blanking High Point 6-0. Catawba hopped on High Point Saturday for a 12-1 win. Atlantic Christian joined the leaders by edging Guilford 3-2 Saturday.

The week's schedule: Monday—East Carolina at Western Carolina (2). Tuesday—Elon at Guilford, High Point at Lenoir Rhyne. Wednesday—East Carolina at Lenoir Rhyne, Guilford at Catawba. Thursday—Appalachian at High Point.

Friday—Atlantic Christian at Elon, Appalachian at Western Carolina (2). Saturday—Atlantic Christian at High Point, Lenoir Rhyne at Catawba.

Loop To Sit Out Baseball Season

Wytheville, Va., April 9—(AP)—The Class D Blue Ridge League is sitting out the 1951 baseball season.

That was decided Saturday when Narrows, Va., found it would be unable to field a team because of financial obligations.

Still, loop president Virgil Q. Wacks had hopes for next year. He called a special meeting of the league directors yesterday to lay plans for possible operation in 1952.

Cincinnati's Ready Now For Nat'l League Play To Start

By JOE FALLS

Associated Press sportswriter

The Cincinnati Reds would like to start the National League season right now. They're red hot and raring to go.

After losing 12 of their first 17 exhibition games, the Reds have bounced back to take 10 of their last 11 and are the hottest team in Grapefruit play.

But unfortunately Cincinnati must wait until next Monday before it starts to count. The Reds entertain Pittsburgh Monday, April 16, in the official National League opener.

The big thing for the Reds is to get off to a good start. Last season they got away poorly and languished in or near the cellar until July. After that they played some of the best ball in the league and finished in sixth place, 24.5 games off the pace.

The Reds smothered Washington, 6-1, yesterday behind the one-hit but wobbly pitching of Willie (The Knuck) Ramsdell.

Although permitting only one safety—Gil Coan's first-inning single—Ramsdell was in continual trouble. He walked eight and hit two.

It was a busy Sunday with games played from Baltimore to Beaumont. The Boston Red Sox even played a doubleheader, whipping their Birmingham farm club, 20-6 and 13-6.

There was some good news for Red Sox followers. Walt Drows, the ailing first sacker, made his first appearance at bat in a week and lashed out a pinch-hit double in the second game.

The Chicago White Sox edged their cross-town rivals, the Cubs, and there's still a week to go, three-game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers in Yankee Stadium and Ebbets Field.

Three teams—Detroit, Brooklyn and the St. Louis Cardinals—were smacked down by minor league opposition. Memphis edged Detroit, 5-4; Atlanta scored seven runs in the seventh to nip Brooklyn 8-6 and Beaumont pushed across three runs in the ninth to shade the Cardinals, 6-5.

Financial Boom In Exhibitions

Dallas, April 9—(AP)—The New York Yankees are having a financially successful exhibition tour of the west and southwest. In fact, in 30 games they've drawn almost as many people as the St. Louis Browns did all last season.

The Browns pulled in a meager 247, 131 fans in 1950. So far, 231,452 have paid to see Yankee exhibition games this spring—and there's still a week to go, three-game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers in Yankee Stadium and Ebbets Field.

Watch the little lady park the beautiful, big car... a single finger on the steering wheel can do it now, with Hydraguide!

Now Hydraguide Steering does four-fifths of the work for you!

THINK of the easiest steering car you ever drove... then imagine one five times easier to steer! Chrysler's new Hydraguide power steering... regular on Crown Imperials and optional at extra cost on all New Yorker and Imperial models... gives you exactly that. Here is by far the greatest single change in handling ease—and safety—you ever found in any car. At your touch on the steering wheel, the car mechanically provides four-fifths of the energy to turn the tires on the road. Like so much in these new Chryslers... TIME TRAP

By ROG PHILLIPS

Chapter 56
Back in the hotel Ray found Joe and Val in the lobby dosing in two chairs by the windows. He woke them up and told them with an air of suppressed excitement that it had happened. Val came to his feet instantly.

"Good," he said. "Let's go up to your room where we can talk."

"Did you ask her if she had a girl friend for me?" Joe asked the moment they reached the room and the door was closed.

"I was too excited to think of it," Ray said.

"What did she say?" Val Nelson asked impatiently. "How is she? Well?"

Ray looked at Val blankly. He had forgotten that Val, according to the story that had been discussed to him, was supposed to be in the hands of the Vargians.

"She didn't say how she was or where she was," he said. "She just told me how we could get together."

Jaycee Board To Meet Wednesday

Officers and members of the board of directors of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet Wednesday morning for breakfast and a brief business session with state president Bucky Snyder of High Point and future state president Harry Stewart of Raleigh.

President Dan Saieed of the Jaycees said Snyder and Stewart had requested the meeting with the officers and directors of the local club Wednesday morning. The ceremonies will be televised by RCA-Victor. A five-man crew from the National Broadcasting Company will film the rites. The film, complete with sound, will be shown on the NBC-TV network.

Arrest Pair On Liquor Charges

Pitt County ABC officers arrested two Negro men Saturday night on charges of possession of illegal whiskey for purpose of sale.

Herman Taft, age 29, of Wade Street, Greenville, was arrested when officers raided his house and found illegal "spirits."

ABC officers stated that Taft at the present time has a case pending in Superior Court for whiskey violation.

He was placed in city jail in default of $500 bond for appearance in city court.

Also arrested Saturday night was Robert B. Vick, 54, of near Bethel. He was picked up near the Stokes highway around 9:30 Saturday night when one and one-half gallons of whiskey was found in his car, which was also held by the officers.

Officers taking part in the raid were J. M. Ward, Claude Manning and J. L. Taylor.

There are nine major Chinese dialects.

Hoey Opens Inquiry Into Patronage In Mississippi

Jackson, Miss., April 9 (AP)—A Senate investigating committee opens public hearings today into charges that Mississippi pro-Truman Democrats peddled federal jobs for $300 each.

Sen. Clyde Hoey (D-N.C.), chairman of the Senate Expenditures sub-committee, said that so far as he knew, this is the first congressional inquiry into statewide distribution of patronage. He said the hearings would be conducted "without regard to persons or political parties."

"The purpose of the investigation is to get at the truth and not smear anybody or vindicate anybody," Hoey said. "We will make the investigation and if we believe that there may be violations, then we will give the transcript of the hearing to the Justice Department."

Hoey expected about 40 witnesses to be summoned, including the state's pro-Truman leaders. Last Feb. 21 Mississippi's Democratic senators, John Stennis and James Eastland, told the Senate about reports that federal jobs were being sold in their state and demanded an investigation.

The charges were first aired in an editorial of the McComb (Miss.) Enterprise-Journal. It was written by Publisher-Editor J. Oliver Emmerich, a wheelhorse in the States' Rights movement. Emmerich wrote that a businessman he did not identify "replied in the affirmative when asked if he had been requested to submit a check for $300 as a prerequisite to the job."

He also charged that positions as "county director" of the Office of Price Stabilization were being peddled in Mississippi at $300 each, payable to the "Mississippi Democratic Committee."

Funeral-Bound Plane Hits Mountain; Nineteen Killed

Charleston, W. Va., April 9 (AP)—The funeral mission of an Air Force plane ended in a fiery crash on a mountaintop. Nineteen of its 21 occupants, headed for the funeral of a fellow airman, perished.

The twin engine C-47 was just eight miles north of Charleston, its destination, when it struck a tall locust tree and plunged to earth in a burst of flame.

Abroad were nine enlisted men and 12 officers, an honor guard from the Goddard Air Force Base in Kentucky to the funeral of Maj. Woodford W. Sutherland. The 34-year-old major from nearby St. Albans, W. Va., lost his life Thursday in a ground collision of two planes at Eglin Field, Fla.

Like Sutherland, most of the 19 victims of yesterday's crash were members of the 167th Fighter Squadron. Before being called into federal service recently, the squadron was a West Virginia Air National Guard unit.

In a Charleston hospital, doctors gave a 50-50 chance of recovery to the only crash survivors—Maj. Isaac E. Bonifas of Portland, Ind., and Capt. Harry K. Blackhurst of Charleston.

They were found dazed and wandering near the burning wreckage by Mrs. Goldie Seabolt, a farm wife living nearby, and another resident, Jack Copen.

"The first thing they said was 'Where's the airport?' Copen recalled. "They said they were blind and couldn't see."

Weekend Sees 3 Highway Accidents On Pitt Roads

Three minor highway accidents were investigated by the State Highway Patrol over the weekend with considerable property damage reported but no injuries in the Pitt area.

A pig running into the path of an oncoming car was the cause listed for an accident which occurred Saturday on the county home road near Worthington's Crossroads.

A car operated by Marvin Roosevelt Joyner, 19, of Route 2, Ayden, struck a pig on the highway, killing it instantly and causing an estimated $100 damage to the car. Patrolman Paul Whitley investigated the accident.

Yesterday afternoon two accidents were reported, the first being on Highway 102, two miles west of Ayden, around 1:30. A car driven by Sybil B. Gibson, 29, of Ayden, was traveling east, following another car which was beginning to stop; as the Gibson car's brakes were applied, it went into a skid and out of control, going off the shoulder back onto the highway and then striking the car which was nearly stopped.

The second car was driven by Arthur Strong, 21, Negro, of Route 1, Ayden. Neither of the drivers was injured. Damage to the two cars was placed at around $300.

No charges were lodged against the driver by investigating officer R. C. Holt of Ayden.

A carload of marines turned over on the New Bern highway around three o'clock yesterday afternoon when the driver, Richard S. Brickell, stationed at Cherry Point, lost control. The car turned over twice, doing an estimated $300 damage to the car. None of the occupants of the car was injured, Patrolman Dick Chadwick reported.

Everett, running for alderman from the first ward, is a native of Greenville, having lived here 39 years. He graduated from Greenville high school and has been in the garage business during his working life. This is the first time he has run for elective office.

Reverend Mr. Briggs has been employed by the city school system doing carpentering work in the remodeling of several schools in town prior to that he held pastorates in the Baptist Church in North Carolina before coming to Greenville. He was born on a farm in the western part of the state and during the war worked as a machinist in a war plant in addition to carrying out his religious duties.

"Law has long been an interesting subject to me," he stated. "I was greatly drawn toward the study thereof as a young man, but my studies in that direction were interrupted. I have an intense concern in civic righteousness and just law enforcement. At the same time I resent an injustice being perpetrated upon even a criminal, for 'We have all sinned and come short of the glory of God.'"

Incompatible . . .

However, this doesn't preclude the cultivation of cooperation between communist and democratic nations which adapt themselves to such treatment.

Room For . . .

(Jones, with this pre-April 1 car, takes off the fifth tire and now pretends he got the car after April 1, with only four tires, so he can make a little extra dough by selling you the fifth one from his alleged supply.)

Anyway, when the dealer says he can sell you a spare, you sign with relief, do a little arithmetic in your head, and ask the dealer:

"The OPS ceiling price on this car is $1,800 but when OPS set the ceiling, cars still had five tires. Now they have only four. How much will you knock off the price, since I get only four tires now?"

"Oh," says the dealer, "in this case I can knock off $10. So the car will only sell for $1,790. The new tire from my supply will cost you $25. So the full price to you will be $1,815." Ooops, says you. That's $15 over the OPS ceiling price, although OPS set the ceiling at $1,800 in the first place to control inflation. Yet, the dealer isn't violating any order by this deal. Or he doesn't seem to be. I called up the NPA people. "How come?" I was told this was strictly an OPS worry, since NPA's job is merely to save rubber. OPS must worry about prices. I called OPS. The man I spoke to seemed unhappy. I didn't get much light, though. But I did get the impression NPA and OPS did not get together on this one before NPA ordered the ban on the fifth tire. Still, the OPS said sort of mournfully: "A dealer shouldn't attempt to tell a customer how much he'll knock off the ceiling price because a car lacks a fifth tire until we issue an order on that."
