Willing To Hear MacArthur Viewpoint Before Congress, But Want Question-And-Answer Session; Also Would Question General On His Record In Korea

Washington, April 13—(AP)—Administration leaders were reported today to go along with a limited invitation for Gen. Douglas MacArthur to give Congress his version of the Far Eastern controversy.

They apparently were planning, to insist, however, that the deposed Pacific commander submit to questioning before committees not only on his policy views but on his record in the Korea fighting.

Meantime, MacArthur-For-President sentiment was reportedly being renewed and the President of Remington-Rand, Inc., confirmed reports that the ousted General will become an executive with his firm.

Senator McFarland of Arizona, the Democratic leader, said no final decision on giving MacArthur a congressional hearing has been made. He said he had talked to House Speaker Rayburn of Texas about the matter and would confer with him again.

Others predicted the Administration would bow to the inevitable but would like to keep MacArthur's appearance on an unofficial plane similar to that on which Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower recently reported to lawmakers at a meeting in the Library of Congress.

Although Eisenhower addressed an official joint session at the close of World War II, it was pointed out that MacArthur is coming home in the role of a commander fired by the President because he persisted in expressing views contrary to Presidential policies.

MacArthur and his family plan to leave Tokyo Monday by plane for San Francisco. They will stop overnight in Hawaii. A top aide of the Senate said MacArthur is willing to appear before Congress.

Senate Republicans apparently were lined up almost solidly behind a resolution by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, for a joint meeting.

The resolution had the public support of Democratic Senators Eastland of Mississippi and McCarran of Nevada. It also had the backing of some other Democrats who didn't want to be quoted by name.

One of these told a reporter he thinks the split over Far Eastern policies dramatized by the President's firing of MacArthur has cut so deep that there can be no hope of unity until President Truman replaces Secretary of State Acheson.

The Senator added that he does not expect the President to take any such action.

Wherry said last night that MacArthur "needs no defense" but "is entitled to his day in court" because the American people "are waiting for his words of wisdom."

The Senate minority leader spoke over the Mutual Broadcasting network in answer to President Truman's address Wednesday night.

Wherry said the "zig-zag, inept foreign policy" of the President and Secretary of State—and not MacArthur—has brought the nation "to the brink of another world war."

In New York, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he believed Gen. MacArthur spoke up on foreign policy because of a "justified fear" the United States would end the Korea War by appeasement.

Man himself said he acted because he feared MacArthur's ideas, if unchecked, might end in World War III.

So perhaps the future will lie on the side of MacArthur. Perhaps it won't. This sturdy soldier, with one of the most brilliant careers in history, comes home without the crowning glory of a hero: unbroken adulation.

While many have rushed to defend him for his differences with the President, he has critics now that he never had before. Also he comes home stripped of his command and with a great defeat on his record near the very end of his career.

This was the rout of his United Nations troops by the Chinese communists in North Korea at the Yalu River. True, his troops had reformed and were pushing the invaders back when Mr. Truman yanked the rug from under him.

The General has been credited with a large ego. The memory of the Yalu River, would have been wiped out if he had been able

Student Dies As Result Of Wreck On Motorcycle

LAVENE W. MIDGETT JR.

Lavenne W. Midgett Jr. Killed In Accident; Companion Badly Injured

An East Carolina student was killed last night as a result of a motorcycle accident on E. 5th Street and another student who was riding with him was seriously injured.

Lavenne W. Midgett, Jr., a native of Rodanthe on the Outer Banks, died at two o'clock this morning after suffering a brain concussion when he was thrown off his motorcycle on the curve in front of Greenwood Cemetery last night about seven o'clock.

William Harris, Goldston, who was riding with Midgett, suffered a compound fracture of the lower right leg. Both students were taken immediately to Pitt Memorial Hospital. Today authorities at the hospital described Harris' condition as fair.

An eye-witness account of the accident, which marked the second fatality in Greenville this year, stated Midgett's vehicle struck a depression in the shoulder of the road, throwing both him and Harris into the air and the motorcycle coming to a halt near the end of the cemetery wall.

Jack Gray also a college student from Buxton near Midgett's hometown, said he was driving east on 5th Street when the motorcycle passed his car. It ran off the road just at the cemetery, he said, struck a small hole in the shoulder and threw both boys off. Midgett landed in a hole beyond the cemetery wall and Harris landed about 40 feet beyond.

Midgett was a sophomore at East Carolina and was a veteran of the Coast Guard. His father, who for 35 years has been officer in charge of the Rodanthe lifeboat station, came to Greenville late last night to take his son's body home. Young Midgett was the family's only son. He is survived by two sisters.

Lieutenants M. E. Corbett and Herbert Wooten of the police department, who investigated the accident shortly after being notified, stated the motorcycle traveled about 100 feet along the cemetery wall before coming to a halt. They stated the vehicle struck the wall several times before stopping.

While in college Midgett was studying for a teacher's degree in member of the Veterans club and of the Wesley Foundation and took an active interest in the Methodist

Raleigh-Bound

The Friday 13th jinx prevailed today for 23 Pitt county men as they were hustled onto a bus and carted off to Raleigh to undergo physical and mental examinations prior to their induction into the Army.

Actually 28 men were sent by the local board but only 23 were natives of the county. Five were transferred here from other counties and the Pitt board took credit for sending them. Of the 23 men in the Pitt contingent, all of whom were 19-year-olds, 15 were colored and eight were white.

Board Clerk Selma Evans stated all future calls for pre-induction will take only those men who have reached their 19th birthday in the meantime. There are no more men above 19 who are eligible for pre-induction, she said.

Dorothy Gilbert Speaks As Feature Of Arts Festival

In connection with the Community Arts Festival, Dorothy Gilbert, assistant professor of English at Guilford College, briefly reviewed some 42 books by North Carolina writers, which were in competition for the Mayflower Cup, at the Woman's Club yesterday.

Marguerite Austin of East Carolina College introduced the speaker and assured the audience of "a special treat." Miss Gilbert is also vice-president of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association and served as one of the five judges who chose the novel "Debby" by Max Steele as the winner of the Mayflower Cup of 1950.

Miss Gilbert did not endeavor to describe each book in detail, but commented on the outstanding books and "called the roll" on the authors according to their library classification and proceeded "down the North Carolina shelf for 1950."

Beginning with religion, Miss Gilbert commented on four books, "A Firm Faith for Today" by Harold Bosley, "Preaching in the Great Tradition" by Ray C. Petry, "Parables of Crisis" by Edwin Potat, and "Rise Up and Walk" by Percy C. Lindley. These books had their origins in lectures, addresses, sermons, or inspirational talks and the reader feels the presence of the speaker," she commented.

Next came the social studies, "Main Currents in Modern Political Thought" by Dr. John H. Hollwell of Duke, "Area and Administration" by Fesler, and Harnett Herling's "Passing of the Mill Village," which is important in relation to southern life and industry.

"Out of books of poetry, Helen Brewington's '19 Million Elephants' has a wider range than any of the others," Miss Gilbert noted, "with fine ironies, clever and unexpected literary allusions to delight the reader's heart, wrapped in the teacher's hide, expert poetry of nature, of childhood, of travel by air—all done in the modern idiom."

Miss Gilbert commented on seven histories—"some written by practicing historians, some not." Anglophobia in France and "Roosevelt's Good Neighbor Policy" by Edward O. Guernat were commented on. Miss Gilbert said that D. L. Corbett's book, "Formation of North Caro-

Assembly Voices Disapproval Of Scott Nominees

Unanimously Balk At Naming Two Women To Board Of Education

Raleigh, N. C., April 13—(AP)—The legislature today voiced unanimous disapproval of a proposal by Governor Scott to replace two veteran members of the State Board of Education with women.

The legislature did this by failing to take any action when the Governor sent to it for approval the appointment of Dr. Roma Sawyer Cheek of Durham and Margery Henry Alexander of Charlotte to the State Board of Education.

The Governor named them to replace A. S. Brower of Durham, business manager of Duke University and J. Harold Lineberger, Belmont Industrialist.

Failure of the legislature to take any action on the appointments left the status of the two board memberships in doubt. Attorney General Harry McMillan expressed the tentative opinion that since the legislature had failed to approve the appointees, Brower and Lineberger would remain on the board for the next two years. Others said that since the legislature did not reject the appointees that Dr. Cheek and Miss Alexander would serve for the next two years.

Earlier the joint session had unanimously approved the election of 27 persons as trustees of the Greater University of North Carolina. The new trustees were nominated by the Joint Committee on University Trustees at a meeting Tuesday night.

The action or lack of action of the joint session on the Board of Education memberships came with bewildering speed.

After the joint session had voted on the trustees, the House reading clerk read a message from Governor Scott making the appointments.

At this juncture, Rep. E. T. East, of Cabarrus, chairman of the House Finance committee, got the floor and moved to adjourn. There was no discussion as the adjournment motion carried unanimously.

This, technically, left the appointments still before the legislature. It could meet in joint session later and formally approve—highly unlikely—or disapprove the appointments.

The terms of Brower and Lineberger have expired. Under the constitution, the Governor's appointments to the board are subject to approval by the legislature.

Governor Scott, when informed of the legislative action, said he took the action to mean that Brower and Lineberger would remain on the board until the next legislature meets. Then a new governor will be in office.

Scott explained his appointments by pointing out that there are women on the board now and "they are entitled to that recognition."

He said that both Dr. Cheek and Miss Alexander had been recommended highly to him by "School people and others."

SHOT IN BIG THEFT

Newburyport, Mass., April 13—(AP)—Five gunmen shot and wounded a policeman today in a holdup in which they grabbed a reported $50,000 at H. A. Towle Manufacturing Company.

Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) says prevention of a third world conflict "cannot now be accomplished without an aggressive war against Communist China."

Taft spoke last night at a meeting of the Yale Engineering Association. "It seems utterly ridiculous to me," he said, "that when there are 500,000 (Nationalist Chinese) soldiers on Formosa, some of them well-trained and ready to go, and thousands of guerrillas in South China with whom they can cooperate, we should not permit raids and invasion to make as much trouble for the Chinese Communists as possible x x x."

"I cannot see why such a policy would in any way incite Russia to war unless they're determined to go to war anyway."

"From a moral standpoint," the Ohio Republican added, "we would be wholly justified in a complete invasion of China to punish an unprovoked aggressor. Practical considerations, of course, make it impossible, and no one has proposed it."

"General MacArthur and everyone else knows it would take many American divisions, and that those divisions are not available and will not be for two years. Also I agree that such a general invasion of China might unduly incite Soviet Russia to war."

"If the original sending of American troops to Korea was to prevent World War III—as the President said last (Wednesday) night—then that purpose has been long completely lost from sight."

Rotary Speaker Looks Forward To 'New Plateau' Of Attitudes

Sylvester Green Reminds Listeners That Basic Concepts Of Life Are Yet Unbroken

"Confusion is the pattern of our day," declared Sylvester Green last night as he addressed approximately 300 Rotarians and their guests at the Fellowship dinner of the district conference of the 279th Rotary district.

Green, executive vice president of the North Carolina Medical Foundation and former college president and newspaper editor, spoke to the group in the north dining hall on the East Carolina College campus.

Past District Governor Jean P. Booth of Kingston presided at the meeting, and the speaker was introduced by District Governor Howard J. McGinnis of Greenville.

"Every future will look order only after it is done," Green stated. "Every future will look order only when it is past. On certain basic principles we have built our lives. Upon these basic principles and patterns we have built a brave new world. We have rendered heretofore untold service. There always has been a period of confusion, disorder, distortion and tragedy."

The confusion in the world today, he said, is a confusion of persons, ideas and of things. "Our concepts of life are twisted and bent, but thank God they are not broken," Green asserted. "We have lost the keys to a particular situation. We are less rational than we have a right to be. Values of personalities and problems of personal living are not what they should be. We have turned our deeds and actions more toward symbols than toward realities."

Turning to the federal government today, Green said the public officials "are not esteemed as they should be." He asserted the confusion in the government, both in domestic and foreign affairs is great, but he added, "Some of these days we'll come to stand on a new plateau, I hope and so do you."

"The present is possible only because those who have gone before us...have appraised the confusion in the time in which each lived, and they pushed on."

As for MacArthur, Green said, "He virtually said he was going to carry out his own policies come hell or high water; and he got both." Green said he had high respect for MacArthur both as a military man and as an individual, but he added, "There was but one alternative which his superiors had and that was to do what he would have done had some nasty shave tail defied his authority. They fired him."

"Confusion is normal. The only thing that worries me is that I want my reaction to the confusion to be normal. When comes tomorrow we can smile over our misgivings of the moment and can turn our face to the problems of the problems of this day."

Musical entertainment at the dinner was furnished by soloist Miss Gladys Reichard and the college singers under the direction of Dan Vorn Holt.

Attendance prizes at the dinner were awarded by Conference Chairman J. B. Kittrell of Greenville.

Washington, April 13—(AP)—Mayor Dan Edwards of Durham, N. C. has been appointed by President Truman as assistant secretary of defense. Edwards succeeds Marx Leva, resigned.

Edwards, 37-year-old lawyer, was a lieutenant colonel in the last war and served on the general staff. He is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Duke University and studied at Harvard. He is married and the father of four children.

A former member of the legislature, Edwards was commander of the Durham post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in 1947. He is author of "Amphibious Operations" and "The Use of Government Centralization in North Carolina."

Stratemeyer Says Growing Communist Air May Soon Start Ground Attacks; Eighty Red Jets Attack U.S. Bombers And Escorting Fighters

Tokyo, Saturday, April 14—(AP)—Red Chinese withdrawals in North Korea Friday coincided with a warning that they might be preparing the way for heavy air strikes at the advancing allied ground forces.

In the wake of history's greatest jet air battle, Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, Commander of the U. S. Far East Air Forces, said the growing communist air arm might soon start ground attacks.

In nine and one-half months of war, such Red raids have been limited to minor nuisance bombings by one or two planes.

Allied airmen are forbidden to strike at the Manchurian bases of the Red Air Force, General Stratemeyer noted in an interview. "Our only recourse is to blunt the attack once it is launched," he said.

Stratemeyer's warning came in the wake of the jet battle. In that fight 80 Russian-type MIG-15 jets attacked 115 U. S. jets and 32 American B-29 Superforts. The allied warplanes destroyed eight of the speedy Red Planes, probably destroyed seven, and damaged 18 others.

Accounts of American loss differed. The Far East Air Force said no planes were lost but two Superforts were damaged and had to land in Korea.

The Air Force in Washington announced Friday, however, that two U. S. B-29s were shot down by Red jets in the big battle near the Yalu River. It said several other U. S. bombers were damaged but were able to land at allied bases. An Air Force spokesman said none of the U. S. jets in the fight was damaged or destroyed.

Stratemeyer said there was "unmistakable evidence" that the Reds were planning to step up their air operations over Korea. He said six or more new air strips were being scraped out of rice paddies in North Korea. Existing airfields between the Yalu River boundary and the allied front lines were being repaired, he added.

On the ground, allied troops, supported by heavy artillery fire, gained a key ridge south of the Kwachon Reservoir on the central front.

Remnants of a North Korean division still were entrenched on the reverse side of the ridge, but the main body of the Red division had withdrawn northward, leaving their well-entrenched positions.

Hard-hitting artillery paid dividends all along the east-central front, and the Reds began to pull back slowly before all allied units in this area.

Other allied troops operating south and southeast of the reservoir pushed forward Friday against light resistance.

U. N. forces lunged up one slope so rapidly they overran a completely equipped communist aid station.

The withdrawing Reds were setting up a main defense line anchored to the reservoir, a major source of pre-war power for Seoul and South Korea.

The Red withdrawal appeared to be in progress all across the central front.

On the west-central front, allied forces were engaged with 300 Reds. A tank-infantry patrol entered Yonchon, seven miles inland North Korea, but found no Reds and withdrew.

Isified the Canadian minister on this point. It is of course easy to adopt the attitude that the boundary between Canada and the United States has been wiped out. In a broad sense this is true so far as relates to friendship and way of life. However, it's a mistake to take that situation too literally, for we do remain distinct entities and, as Mr. Pearson indicates, our policies aren't always the same.

To take a case in hand, we must remember that Canada, while a free and independent state, still is a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. The ties of the Commonwealth are strong, and it is very obvious that there are Commonwealth policies to be considered.

That is well illustrated by the Asiatic crisis, where Britain as a great colonial power has interests to safeguard. On that basis, if on no other, Britain and her Commonwealth associates don't want to see another world war started in the (Continued on page three)

What Is The Outcome?

Can MacArthur And The President Both Come Out Of Their Debate On Foreign Policy Untarnished? The General Has Lost Much; Political Aids Involved

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 13—(AP)—Already it's time to ask a question, even before General MacArthur returns home to speak his piece: can anyone come out of this Truman-MacArthur feud looking good?

The most the General can do, no matter what he says now, is justify himself in the eyes of his countrymen and in the history books. He is finished soldiering while Mr. Truman is President.

He may by what he says damage the President and the Democratic party, perhaps being a major factor in the 1952 elections which MacArthur's Republican supporters are so anxious to win, although it's unlikely the 71-year-old General will be a candidate himself.

And perhaps future events will show that the General, and not the President, was correct in his view of what should be done to stop communism: All-out attack on China.

Mr. Truman's supporters, of course, can always insist that a General's far-sightedness never gave him the right to defy the President and that Mr. Truman was right in firing him. Mr. Tru-

Coroner's Jury Clears Drivers In Road Death

A coroner's jury last night investigating the highway accident which resulted in the death of B. B. Wynne, 48, of Route 1, Robersonville on January 25th, ruled that neither of the two drivers involved in the death be held for criminal action.

Wynne was killed on the new Stokes highway about two miles from Pactolus when the car in which he was riding struck a truck which was parked on the shoulder of the highway.

The jury ruled that the man died of injuries suffered in the accident which was unavoidable.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse presided over the inquest.

British Display Concern In Iran

Tehran, Iran, April 13—(AP)—Britain asked the Iranian government today what measures it is taking to safeguard British lives and property as new strike violence threatened in Abadan, center of British-controlled oil operations, where 12 persons were killed yesterday.

Britain Again Bids For Command In Pact Navy

London, April 13—(AP)—Britain is making another try to put one of her naval officers in a top-ranking post with the North Atlantic Pact.

Already blocking appointment of A. S. Admiral as commander of pact forces in the Atlantic, the Britons last night were reported also to have refused an American proposal that U. S. Admiral Robert B. Carney be named Atlantic commander in Mediterranean waters.

Instead, official sources said, Britain want the job for their own Admiral Sir John Edelman, Royal Navy Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean station.

Britain's previous protest on the top Atlantic Navy commander has

Reject Proposal

Washington, April 13—(AP)—The United States today turned down a proposal by Britain to bring Chinese Communists into the preparations for a Japanese peace treaty.

At the same time the State Department said that the U. S. position on Formosa remains unchanged. This is to keep the island neutralized during the Korean fighting and leave its final status for future determination.

Britain proposed 10 days ago that Red China be brought into the treaty negotiations. In a memorandum the British proposed also that the treaty provide for the return of Formosa to China.

This was interpreted by officials here as meaning the Peiping communist regime which Britain recognizes and the U. S. does not.

Neighbor And Ally

Friendly Warning By Canada's Foreign Minister That His Country Will Not Be A 'Yes Man' To U. S. Policies, Points Up Courtesy Of Full Consultations

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

America's leadership among the free nations in the present grave international crisis has brought a blunt reminder from Canada that our northern neighbor wants to be consulted in the crises and refuses to be a "yes man" for all United States policies.

In short, Canada declines to be committed to policies automatically without discussion between the two countries. This point was registered by Canadian Foreign Minister L. B. Pearson in a friendly but very outspoken address at Toronto.

While the Foreign Minister did not refer to specific cases, one assumes that his speech was inspired by the current, dangerous Asiatic situation. His address would seem to be in the nature of a follow-up to a development in the United Nations last January.

When the United States proposed its resolution to label the Chinese communists aggressors in Korea, Mr. Pearson asked for categorical assurance that General MacArthur wouldn't have permission to bomb China or to use Chinese Nationalist troops. U. S. delegate Austin at-

Informal Open House Held For Visiting Rotary Anns

On yesterday afternoon between the hours of 4:00-5:00 p.m., the Greenville Rotary Anns were hosted to the visiting Rotary Anns at an informal open house held at the home of Mrs. J. D. Messick.

The affair was given to honor Mrs. H. V. Churchill, wife of the first vice president of Rotary International, and Mrs. Howard J. McGinnis, wife of the local District Governor.

Mrs. S. T. White greeted the guests at the door and invited them into the spacious reception hall, which was lovely with low bowls of pansies on end tables flanking the hall davenport and sprays of dogwood boughs arranged in a pottery vase.

Mrs. J. B. Kitzler introduced the callers to the receiving line composed of Mrs. Churchill, Mrs. McGinnis, Mrs. Messick and Mrs. Fred Williams of Wilmington, daughter of Mrs. Messick. They were corsages of pink peony tulips, while others wearing throughout the house were white peony tulip shoulderettes.

The drawing room was decorated with a handsome mantel arrangement of dogwood, pink azaleas and purple iris. A low bowl on the piano held an assortment of peony tulips, iris and daffodils encircled with a border of pansies.

In the sunroom, where guests were asked to register by Mrs. J. Knott Proctor and Mrs. H. L. Ormond, a basket of Banksia roses graced the mantel, while on a side table a still pitcher containing bronze and yellow giant chrysanthemums formed a setting against one of the windows.

Punch, cakes and nuts were served from a beautifully appointed table in the dining room by Mrs. Ercell Webb and Mrs. Robert Thompson. The table was covered with a white cut work cloth edged with lace. Punch was served from matching crystal punch bowls placed at either end, while the cakes and nuts were placed on silver trays. The centerpiece was arranged in an antique silver vase and was composed of iris, tulips and daffodils in shades of pink, yellow and lavender, with touches of white narcissi. The mantel was banked with sprays of Banksia roses and azaleas. Mrs. M. L. Wright and Mrs. J. H. Blount assisted in the dining room.

Receiving throughout the house in other places were Mrs. Herbert Hadley, Mrs. W. W. Smiley, Mrs. Hugh Winslow, Mrs. Ty Wagner and Mrs. J. L. Horton.

Mrs. Walter Elks Is Club Hostess

Vanceboro—Mrs. Walter Elks entertained the Bridge Club at her home Tuesday evening. Coca Colas and salted nuts were served during the progressions, and a fruit and nut salad plate afterwards.

On Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at her home on Dickinson Avenue, Miss Mattie Moyer King entertained in honor of Miss Lillian Burch, bride-elect. On arriving the guests were received by the hostess, attired in white marquisette over taffeta, and the guest of honor in black marquisette over yellow brocade. They were then invited to the punch bowl where Misses Amine King and Annie Leonard Tyson, each wearing white lingerie dresses, gracefully presided. The game for the afternoon was progressive initials. Miss Ward Moore making the highest score, was awarded a bouquet of Easter lilies. At the conclusion of the game individual cakes, ornamented with miniature bride slippers and ice cream with white doves, bearing the flame of love, and candied nuts were served. Just before the guests departed, little Miss Virginia King entered with a silver slipper filled with tiny gold and silver horse shoes which she showered upon the bride-to-be. The marriage of Miss Burch to Mr. James Ellison of Washington will take place in Memorial Baptist Church next Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock.

Degree of Pocahontas Holds Meeting
With Council No. 42 held their regular meeting April 10 in the Red Men Hall over Godfrey Oakley's insurance office. Geneva Webb presided as Pocahontas. Officers were seated by Virginia Purser and Ruth Profit Guards.

Meeting came to order with 43 members present. Marshall Clark gave the devotional, selecting the 14th chapter of St. John, and led in prayer.

Sister Lucy McGowan and Lillie Randolph were reported as being unable to follow the hunt. Flowers were sent to each of them, and all members were asked to remember them with get well cards and visits.

Callie Rue Williams gave a very interesting report on the district meeting held jointly with the Red Men in Rocky Mount April 5. This meeting was attended by over 300 Red Men and Pocahontas.

Lou Ellen Wilson and Suley S. Wilson were welcomed as new members to the organization.

Essie Barrow, chairman of the Public Relations Committee, announced the Degree of Pocahontas and the Red Men are planning to have a program at an early date for the public and will be announced in the paper and over the radio.

BPW Club Has Dinner Meeting At Legion Home

Last night's Business and Professional Women's Club program was an interestingly presented explanation of the organization and activities of the Pitt County Board of Health. The speaker was Miss Julia Fisher, Supervisor of Nurses of the Board of Health, one of the club's own members.

She explained that the Health officers include a doctor, nurses, sanitarian and others. Among the clinics held by the Board she enumerated the Pre-School Clinic, the orthopedic clinic, the pre-natal and infants' clinic, immunization clinic, and X-Ray clinic. Members of the club were interested in learning that all 100 counties in North Carolina have health boards and that all of them are affiliated with the State Board of Public Health.

Among the problems the board faces in Pitt are the high death rate from tuberculosis and the lack of health education.

Prior to Miss Fisher's talk, President Tyson announced that Miss Louise Galphin and Mrs. Sarah Proctor, both certified First Aid instructors, had consented to teach a class for B.P.W.'s. Mrs. Louise Rush, manager of American Legion dining room, was recognized and thanked for the excellent accommodations made for the meeting.

A recommendation made by the Executive Board to the club to the effect that the club purchase 36 folding steel chairs for the Youth Center was discussed and passed unanimously. A committee was appointed to study further the possibilities of the club sponsoring a blood bank for the Pitt Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Kate Reynolds, Miss Julia Fisher and Miss Grace Outland will serve on this committee.

Mrs. Alton Baker, project chairman, announced plans for a BPW Recreation Fund Tag Day, Saturday, 28th of April. This interest in the city recreation program is not a new one, but it is shared enthusiastically by all members of the BPW Club.

The report of the nominating committee, headed by Miss Ruth White, was accepted by the club and included the following officers for the coming year:

Mrs. Ruth Garner, president; Miss Alya Ray Taylor, vice-president; Miss Annie Turner, recording secretary; Miss Elizabeth Deal, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Laura Crawford, treasurer, and Mrs. Sarah Proctor, parliamentarian.

The May meeting will be an Installation Service for these incoming officers.

Mrs. J. B. Spilman Speaks Before Semi-Centi Club

The Semi-Centi Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Gray Ellbro Tuesday evening. Following a short business meeting a most interesting program was given by Mrs. J. B. Spilman of Greenville and Washington, D. C. The theme of the program was "Women in Government." A most instructive and complete resume of the political and personal lives of American women in government was revealed.

The club learned and realized that several very loyal, patriotic and conscientious women have been extremely instrumental in establishing sound legislation which has helped meet the needs of many people throughout the nation. The women mentioned included Margaret Chase Smith, Claire Luce, Helen Ganagan Douglas, Mrs. Woodhouse, Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Bolton and Mrs. Clark, U.S. treasurer. The legislation these women have introduced included bills concerning the Cadet Nurse Corps, the 1944 GI Bill of Rights, Indian affairs, migrant workers, and labor relations.

The most significant point stressed throughout the talk was that women have a grave responsibility to carry out their civic and moral obligations in their local, state and national government. The members of the book club felt that this program was a real inspiration to face issues at stake the world over.

Siam Will Limit Foreign Groups

Bangkok—(AP)—Parliament is being asked to limit the number of foreign residents to 1,000 in each of certain provinces to be designated by the interior ministry. Foreigners living in any province now in excess of the 1,000 limit would not be ousted but any new foreigners attempting to enter as residents would be subject to fine of imprisonment.

Christian Church Announcements

The Eighth Street Christian Church still rejoices in the most excellent preaching mission of last week when Dr. John H. Booth of Indianapolis was the guest minister. He left a most decided impression upon all who heard him and did us a lasting good.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the pastor will speak on the theme, "Just How Can You Tell a Christian?" and the mixed quartet, composed of Mrs. J. D. Wilson Jr., Miss Agnes Fullilove, James Ray Pittman and Robert S. Moyer, will sing at 8 o'clock.

a special number. The Christian Woman's Fellowship of the Church will meet on Monday afternoon at 3:30 at the church. Mrs. W. H. Woolard's circle will be in charge of the program and Mrs. Bill Sermons, president, will preside.

The Cho-Rho Intermediate Fellowship will meet at the church on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 and the Christian Youth Fellowship will meet at 6:30 at the church.

The pastor, Dr. H. G. Haney, will preach each evening of this week in the Christian Church at Arthur

Mrs. Long Gives Luncheon To Honor Mrs. James

Mrs. M. L. Long was a gracious luncheon hostess on Wednesday at 1:00 p.m. at her home on East Fifth street when she entertained as a compliment to Mrs. Larry James, Jr. Spring flowers were used in attractive arrangements throughout the home to add to the loveliness of the occasion. In the dining room the table was centered with a bowl of assorted tulips, iris and daffodils.

Mrs. J. T. Thorne of Farmville served a salad from a tray placed at one end of the table, while from the other end, Mrs. Larry James, Sr. served barbecue. The accompanying dishes were on the table, from which the guests served themselves. At the individual tables where the guests were seated small containers holding pansies and candy tuft were used as centerpieces.

At the conclusion of the luncheon, the honoree was surprised with a shower of kitchen gifts from the guests. Little Miss Cynthia Howard, niece of the hostess, pulled in a small red wagon filled with the shower presents. She was dressed in a charming culotte outfit and presented the wagon load of gifts to Mrs. James with an appropriate speech.

In addition to Mrs. Thorne, Mrs. William Murray of Farmville and Mrs. Coleman of Norfolk, guest of Mrs. Murray, were special guests.

Mamie Chandler Attending Deaconess Meeting In Missouri

Miss Mamie Chandler, director of the Methodist Student Center, is in Kansas City, Mo. this week attending the Convocation of Methodist Deaconesses, which is being held in that city April 11-13.

Miss Chandler left on Monday in order to attend a meeting of Workshop Leaders and all Resource persons on Tuesday, April 10, at National College. Miss Chandler is a Resource Person for one of the workshop groups and will be entertained with these leaders at National College, a Methodist institution for training Christian workers. The Convocation will open on Wednesday afternoon, April 11, with a tea at 2:00 p.m. at Central Methodist Church. More than 400 Methodist Deaconesses from all parts of the United States will attend this convocation and Home Missionaries of the church have also been invited.

The theme of the Convocation is "The Deaconess Herself—Her Personality, Her Purpose, Her Power, Her Potentialities." Bishop Phillips, Bishop Wicke, Harold Case, Carl Scherzer, Henry Hitt Crane and Mrs. Frank G. Brooks, president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, are among the speakers. The Convocation will close Friday night, April 13. Miss Chandler expects to return to Greenville on Sunday afternoon.

Falkland P.T.A. Holds Open House

The Falkland P.T.A. met Tuesday night at the school building with 175 in attendance. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Bert Little. The meeting was opened with the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers." Mrs. W. F. Phillips had charge of the devotion. Principal Chadwick announced that a new room is to be built soon onto the school building, which will be used for a library. He also announced that the Pre-School Clinic will be held on April 20. A Music Festival will be held at the Belvoir-Falkland school on April 27 for several schools which are participating. It was announced that school will close May 21.

The new president for the next term, who is Mrs. Clifton Phillips, adjourned the meeting, after which everyone was invited to open house for inspection of each room. Very attractive and educational arrangements of what the students have been working on during the school year were on display.

After the open house everyone was invited to the lunch room where delightful refreshments of lime ice punch and cakes were served.

agree, since they have a majority in both houses.

The Democrats probably will agree. If they didn't, they could be accused of fearing to let MacArthur have such an important public forum. Besides, such a privilege would be a fitting reward for the illustrious General.

If MacArthur, who has grown political-minded himself in his later years, merely makes a speech in his usual purple prose, speaking in generalities and without heat or accusations, the feud might end quietly there.

If he uses such an occasion to attack the President and the Democratic party—in an effort to justify MacArthur—neither the President nor his Democrats can be expected to sit idly by and let the General damage them.

The General's stature in his country's service is too great to be demolished by attacks on him, but he could come out of such an engagement badly tarnished.

Neighbor And . . .

Far East. And that, I take it, was back of Canada's insistence last January in the U. N. on assurances that MacArthur's powers would be restricted.

I personally haven't noted any instances where Canada has been committed to American policies without consultation. It's true that in these fast changing times of crisis it could happen that a nation would be caught in a stream unwillingly. However, we know that the last thing America wants is to put her neighbor in the position of being a "yes man."

That's the way the American public feels about Canada, and the United States government represents that same American public. We have a deep respect for our northern neighbor, and we have a real affection for her. We don't want to trespass on her rights or commit her to our policies without consultation.

But since Canada feels that we have been forgetful, it will be well if we check to make sure we don't forget again.

Near Exodus Of Indians In Burma

New Delhi—(AP)—During the past two years, nearly 100,000 Indians left Burma for India for unknown reasons. Deputy Foreign Minister B. V. Keskar told Parliament.

It might be because of the troubled conditions in Burma or the policy of the government of releasing non-Burmese personnel from public service, Keskar added, replying to questions. The Government of India, at its own expense, repatriated 13,411 Indians from Burma during the same period, he said.

WHEELS AND WHISTLES
What are you doing with your steam—blowing a whistle or turning a wheel?
Can't you see that person who goes through life with his whistle on full blast? He is garrulous, vain, self-centered. Wherever he is, everyone is conscious of his presence but everyone is not pleased. He attempts to lead everybody down. He has a cure for all the world's ills. It would all be simple and easy to work out if people would just give heed to him. He's the whistle type.
Whistles are necessary, and all through the lives of everyone of us there are whistle stops, and they are necessary too. But the dream of the great inventor, 100 years ago, was not to use steam to blow whistles but to use steam to turn wheels.
In your hurry being wanted in boasting, in idle talk, in argument, in shrill controversy? If so, cut it out. There are times when we have to pull the whistle rope, and when this is indicated, let us not hesitate. But the engineer who would keep his whistle going continually is as annoying as the person who sounds his automobile horn continually as he drives down the main street.
The primary use of steam is to turn wheels, and a lot of them need to be turned if our lives are going to be successful. Whistles have their place but wheels have a bigger place.

The Well Isn't Going To Run Dry

The full import of the effect the Du Pont Dacron plant will have on this section of North Carolina, and the entire state for that matter, is just beginning to dawn on the people of this area.
And as a high Du Pont official said in a meeting in Grifton Wednesday night, the effect of the plant on this community will be beyond our wildest dreams. But while the people of Pitt and Lenoir counties dream of the bonanza which the plant will prove to be to our communities, we must avoid letting ourselves be wooed into a gold-rush state of economy.

The employment of as many as 2,000 construction workers at the peak of the construction work surely will have the tendency to add the boom aspect to the economy of Grifton, Ayden, Greenville, Kinston and the other cities and towns in this area. And the permanent employment of a minimum of 1,400 people in the Dacron plant once it is put into production will give the economy in this area a shot in the arm like it never before has experienced.

But the Dacron plant in itself, we believe, will be only a part of the industrial and business development this area will derive as a result of the plant's locating here. There will be numerous other business enterprises which will be brought into the area because of the $335,000 per month payroll at the Du Pont plant. The Du Pont officials estimate the payroll in their plant will draw some 400 new enterprises to this area.

In the face of this staggering dream bursting forth into reality, the people of this area must not lose their equilibrium in respect to relative values. High rents and exorbitant prices, indeed are things which must constantly be guarded against.

It is easy to see there will be enough business and industrial development for all the towns and cities in this area. That does not mean that each community should not compete for as much of the harvest as it can get. But the community which sees to it that its housing facilities are expanded and its rental prices and cost of living prices are kept at reasonable levels is the community which will prosper most in the long run.

Look at the situation from a long range point of view. The American family, no matter where it lives, spends something like 25 per cent of its earnings for housing. The average family saves ten per cent or less of its earnings. The rest of the earnings, which in the case of the Du Pont payroll alone would be $2,613,000 annually, go into other living expenses and luxuries. And for the most part, that money is spent in the neighborhood in which the family lives. It is spent with the neighborhood grocer, the local department store, and all the other kinds of businesses.

So actually the community which can attract the most permanent residents through reasonably priced housing, good accommodations, reasonable living prices, good schools, good recreational facilities, and a wholesome, friendly atmosphere will be the community which benefits most while the entire area enjoys a new era of prosperity.

In the face of this new era of prosperity, it is imperative that each individual in this area make an earnest effort to keep prices at a reasonable level. In the long run, the whole area will be much better off.

The Waste Must Be Stopped

The waste of money and manpower in the federal government is vividly thrust into the open when a conscientious citizen gives up his federal job in disgust because he does not feel he is earning the money which he is being paid from the federal treasury.

Former Governor M. E. Thompson of Georgia threw up his hands this week and declared he could no longer be a part of the loose motion in the wheels of government in Washington. He gave up the defense post to which he had been appointed recently. His reason? He and another man had the same job at large salaries, and there was a repetition of jobs . . . there were too many people in the government bureaucracy drawing large salaries and not doing anything.

The thing about it is that men like Thompson who have proved their executive and administrative ability both in private life and in governmental positions are no longer able to stomach the squandering of funds by federal agencies. Yet those bureaucrats in Washington who have grown fat out of what they could get from government jobs have gained control of the federal agencies and are gouging themselves with everything they can get their hands on.

Through the practiced policy of "politics above all" which has been put into effect by members of Congress and of the administration, there seems to be no one left in Washington who is interested in cleaning the dead wood out of the federal government. Few, if any, of the congressmen are genuinely interested in cutting down the forces of over-expanded, overlapping and over staffed bureaus in the federal government. Every new job means new patronage and potentially new votes for some office holder. None of the members of Congress or the administration are willing to save government money if it may mean losing a vote.

If the government of the United States is not to be spent into bankruptcy by the mealy-mouthed wizards of Washington, the American people must wage an all-out campaign to bring the size of the federal government back down to the place it should be. And the best way to begin is for the people to let their representatives from the home district know how they feel about the matter . . . and that they mean business about sweeping out the cobwebs in Washington.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Apr. 13—The new Treasury-Federal Reserve agreement on a more careful and cautious control of bank credit may turn out to be an extremely costly political deal for the Truman and successor administrations. It should prevent liberal and inflationary dishing out of money in which the White House and Treasury have frequently indulged around election time.

The prolonged controversy over this question between Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder and former Federal Reserve Chairman Thomas B. McCabe has sharpened Congressional and public interest in the whole problem of federal finances.

As it took a Kefauver committee to arouse concern over the alliance of criminals, police, and politicians, so this debate has brought the complicated subject of government bond manipulation into the limelight.

"PROSPERITY"—It is not generally realized, but an Administration can—and has—created an artificial stimulation of business, industrial, and agricultural activity by planned management of the bond market.

Through heavy purchases of federal issues, which increase the banking system's amount of cash available for lending, Uncle Sam can put money in the people's pockets and set off a spending spree.

Capitol Hill surveys of movements in the federal bond market disclose that the Administration resorted to this strategy in the presidential election year of 1948. Although there was no unusual need for money during this period, the Federal Reserve, then under the domination of Secretary Snyder, bought more than $3,000,000,000 worth of securities from the banks between June and November of that year.

It helped to produce the "prosperity" which President Truman boasted of in his campaign speeches through September and October, for it boosted banks' lending resources by $18,000,000,000.

OBSCURE—Subsequent operations substantiate this theory so thoroughly that such a good Administration supporter as Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, chairman of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, has named a special subcommittee to survey and study this phase of federal finances.

Somebody Told Me
By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JP

Before last night's column on money matters gets cold, I have another story that involves green backs. Last week an ex-millionaire by the name of Alexander Ector Orr Munsell inherited $650,000 from his mother. You might expect a man who inherits that much money to dance a jig, but that would end the story in one paragraph. Instead, Munsell recalled the time 18 years ago when he had a million dollars, gave it all away, and swore he never wanted anything to do with money again.

Munsell made some of the money on Wall Street and in a Baltimore firm that produced color charts. But the majority of his million came from his relatives. Grandfather Orr was president of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Up until the time he was 37, Munsell didn't seem to mind having a million. He attended Harvard, served in World War I, and entered into business. But in 1933 he decided to try "the reality of being poor." For a good beginning, he gave his wife half of his million dollars. To show her appreciation, she divorced him, saying, "I tried to establish a happy home, but he was more interested in helping out the entire human race."

The divorce proceedings didn't phase Munsell. He gave the other half of his million dollars to strikers, charities and unemployed; he also had himself examined by psychiatrists to prove the fact that he was not "irresponsible."

After proof to himself and the psychiatrists, he started wearing seersucker suits and tennis shoes summer and winter. He took up deep breathing exercises and yoga. He went south for a while, but soon returned to live in a "white collar flophouse" on West 54th Street, and he was going to get a job. If not, would he take money from relatives? "Certainly not," he said. "I'll go on relief." This was in 1943 and soon after that, Munsell dropped out of the news. But last week when he inherited the $650,000 newspapermen were looking for him again. They found that he had not become a laborer after all. At 55, he was renting the top two floors of an apartment house, and living on the main floor, enjoying all the comforts of a home. His friends said the money to buy the house came from his mother and other relatives. His friends added that he had changed his attitude slightly after a few years of poverty. Having been poor, he now values a dollar just like any other poor man.

Would he accept the $650,000? He wouldn't say. He just stayed in his house and wrestled mightily with temptation.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square
Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

SHORT—With hope abandoned for adjournment this week, but goal set for next Wednesday, the house of representatives drove ahead Thursday and Friday with attendance frequently dropping below a formal quorum. Eighty members answered the first roll call Thursday morning, and largest record for the day was 88. That is out of a total membership of 119, exclusive of the speaker who was present but did not vote.

There were some important measures and some very serious discussions, but there was also an atmosphere of informality. Members were allowed to smoke in their seats, and no point of order was made when a representative addressed the chair from a seat other than his own. The record of bills introduced and ratified indicates the heavy amount of work left to be done by this assembly. Through Thursday there had been 1843 bills introduced and 891 ratified. No figures were available without a lot of checking records on number of bills killed, but it is obvious that several hundred remain on the calendar for disposition.

UP & DOWN—The assembly is now in the stage of marching up hill one day and down the next, in that bills are being recalled from committees, votes by which they were passed or defeated are being reconsidered, one branch declining to concur in amendments inserted by the other, etc. All of this takes time, but it seems to be the only way legislatures can operate except when they are completely under domination and control of one or two men. This general assembly is not so controlled. Most serious delay occurs when late bills are carelessly or hastily drawn, thus failing to accomplish the desired purpose. In some instances it is necessary to kill bills with good features, because other features of the same bills might prove detrimental to public interest. Outstanding example of such a situation occurred with respect to one of the bills proposed by the commission for improving enforcement of liquor laws.

EXAMPLE—That was the bill which made it unlawful for any person, firm, corporation or agency to obtain, procure or possess a federal license for the sale of alcoholic beverages in North Carolina. The purpose was to prevent bootleggers obtaining federal liquor licenses, thus keeping in the clear so far as federal ATU officers are concerned, but still violating state law. The purpose was good. But the "little bill" just failed to make any exceptions at all. Under its provisions no county or municipal store could operate in this state, no person or firm could sell wine or beer, however, carefully he observed other provisions of state law. The original idea was sponsored by Chairman R. W. Winstead of the State ABC board with full approval of Governor Scott, and got through the senate. Nobody had any thought of outlawing ABC stores and legal beer or wine outlets. As soon as the unintended far-reaching effects of the bill were discovered, the ABC people themselves had the measure held up for amendments in the house. At time this is written it seems certain the amended bill will have time to be enacted into law. If not, the ABC officers will still be embarrassed by having to contend with federal licenses for bootleggers, but ABC stores and legal beer-wine outlets will not be closed as they would have been under the senate version of the bill.

SUPPORT—The house once again Thursday manifested purpose to support its members in their desires with respect to local legislation, without regard to party affiliation. Effort failed to bring from the unfavorable calendar bills which had passed the senate and which would have denied Republican J. E. Tew the right to represent Sampson county. The matters were purely local and wholly partisan. Introduced by the Democratic senator from the district comprising Sampson, they were opposed by the Republican representative of the county. The house backed up its own member last week in giving them unfavorable report and again Thursday by overwhelming vote in refusing to bring them back to the floor.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

Peanuts' Double-Barreled Victory (Hartford County Herald)
There was almost simultaneous timing of peanut legislative acts in Washington and Raleigh last week—laws for which the growers of this area have been working and fighting quite some time. Increasing 1951 acreage of our type peanuts by Congress and appropriation of money for a state peanut test farm in the area make the peanut victory complete, legislatively speaking.

Of the two accomplishments, test farm stands to be much the greater in its potential benefits to peanut growers. With cotton restrictions off and appeals being made for greater production of that crop, plus the two increases in tobacco acreage and increased emphasis upon production of livestock in our section of the country, we seriously doubt that the extra acres made available for peanuts by federal legislation will mean much for this year. Actually, we perhaps would be better off if we held the acreage down and diversified our cropping system more.

How to make more peanuts per acre, how to recapture the soil elements that long-time production of peanuts has removed from the land, and what we can do to improve both yield and quality of the peanuts we do grow are things we need and need badly. The experimental farm is supposed to help accomplish those ends.

Right here, however, we would like to emphasize again that laws passed in Washington and Raleigh aren't substitutes for good farming brains. Utilization of facts that we already have about peanut yields and parasites that attack the crop is the first lesson to learn and to practice. For instance, we have been knowing all that peanuts needed a 2 to 3-year rotation system, preferably 3 years, but many of us

"Get on the ball!" is one of the government answers to complaints that small business is not getting a sufficient share of defense work. As reported here yesterday, the government has taken some positive steps to get more work to small firms, but smaller enterprises are far from satisfied.

The American Management Association this week published a transcript of its Production Conference in Chicago. In a panel session, Commander Philip F. Ashler, U.S.M., chief of the small business office of the Munitions Board, was asked how a small plant could get defense orders.

"There is nothing in dealing with your government that makes it any easier than dealing with private industry," said Mr. Ashler. "You have to exercise just as much initiative, enterprise and salesmanship as you would be willing to exercise if you wanted to do business with General Motors or Ford."

"Nothing will serve as a substitute for getting on the ball. First, determine what you can make that the government is interested in. Nobody is in a better position to determine what your plant, your facilities and your technical skill can produce than you. Don't come to us and tell us you can make anything, because we don't buy anything."

"Once having made up your mind what you want to furnish, find out which one of our 58 major, military procurement officers is interested in buying that type of product. You can do this in any one of several ways: Start with your chamber of commerce or go to the nearest office of the U. S. Department of Commerce. And finally, there is an office in the Pentagon, the Central Military Procurement Information Office, whose only reason for existence is to direct business men to those military agencies which are buying."

"Assume you find four or five of our officers who are buying the material you want to sell. You must contact each of these men. There is no short cut, no one place you can write to and say, 'Put me on your list to be considered in the next procurement from the Army, Navy and Air Force for this particular product.'"

"When you write or visit each of these offices, give them an intelligent, factual presentation of what you can furnish. If you give them a presentation of your capabilities, you will find them not only sympathetic and understanding but able to offer genuinely good counsel and guidance."

Mr. Ashler's advice applies to prime contractors. For subcontractors, firms should contact prime contractors, lists of which are available at Commerce field offices, chambers of commerce and other places.

TAX-PAID PRIZES CAN BE COSTLY
Tax-paid prizes are being offered in a contest to promote a dessert mix by Thomas J. Lip-ton, Inc., Hoboken, N.J. The highest of 1,100 prizes is $10,000 and with some of them goes enough in addition to pay income taxes.

Business men should calculate the possible costs before adapting this device to their own contests, and should use extreme care in stating the terms. If a person in the top income bracket should win a $10,000 prize, it might be necessary to pay him more than $30,000 to give him $10,000 tax free, unless the contest conditions put a ceiling on the payment.

WASTE PAPER DIPS; SPRING, DRIVES BLAMED
Spring cleaning and the intensive drives to salvage waste paper have weakened the market. Waste paper prices have dropped 15 per cent in New York and about the same in some other markets. A few mills say they have more waste paper on hand than their machines can convert.

94 PCT. OF CONTRACTS ASSURE UNIONS FUNDS
Only 6 per cent of union contracts signed since Korea do not assure a flow of funds to labor unions, according to an analysis by the National Industrial Conference Board. On the contracts, 44.5 per cent provide for both union security and a check-off; 20.5 per cent have union-security clauses only, and 34.7 per cent provide for a check-off only. A.F. of L. contracts do not often provide for a check-off, as leaders say this weakens the relationship between union and members. The Cio, however, usually insists on a check-off.

HOME PRICES UP 10 PCT. IN 9 MONTHS
Prices of homes under $20,000 have increased about 10 per cent since mid-1950 and prices of homes above that figure have increased from 5 to 10 per cent, Edward V. Walsh, senior member of the Society of Residential Appraisers reports in the Society's publication, "The Review." Prices are now back to the 1949 peak, he states.

New York—(AP)—Behind the national sadness and angry controversy over the dismissal of Douglas MacArthur there is a great question mark. Did this great General of the Army deliberately sound taps on his own splendid military career?

Was he only taking a "calculated risk" in repeatedly defying Washington, or was he trying to provoke his dismissal to dramatize to the American people his own strongly held views on the world's political and military danger?

This question today is in the minds of many who know the General and know his past. But the secret is locked behind his own sturdy cornob pipe.

Why did "Mac" do it? Why at the age of 71 did this lifelong soldier violate the first principle of the soldier's trade—unquestioning obedience to his superior officers?

Only MacArthur himself knows the answer. But the record clearly shows that the General twice disobeyed an order by President Truman to clear all statements on military policy with the Department of State before releasing them to the public.

He knew the soldier's code. He twice broke it—and for that the President relieved him. MacArthur knew the price and he has paid it.

Many are conjecturing as to his reasons. Their viewpoint depends upon what they think of him. And few military figures of American history have been more highly venerated or more deeply disliked.

Those who resent his flamboyant self-confidence say: "He has been a great General, but he has developed a God complex. He thinks he knows all the answers. President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, General Marshall, General Bradley and General Eisenhower all thought it was more important to send troops to Europe. But MacArthur thought it was more important to attack Red China now, even at the risk of starting a third world war. He tried to force the government into doing what he wanted, figuring the Administration would not dare fire him. He just stayed in the orient too long."

But those who feel he is a political as well as a military genius say: "MacArthur had to fight a delaying war in the Pacific the last time because the European war zone had a priority in both men and weapons. Now he sees the same thing happening again. And he thinks if we don't join up with Chiang Kai-Shek now and beat Red China we will lose all Asia—and Europe, too. He stuck out his own neck to get the government to do the only thing he thinks can save America."

Why did "Mac" do it? The old hero is coming back to his own homeland soon after 14 years away. He is going to

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
Washington—Sleepy Georgetown, exclusive residential section of the nation's capital, kicks up its heels this month with a three-day fair, to mark its 200th birthday.

The annual tour of historic old homes for which the area is famous will be a feature of the celebration, stemming from 1751. In addition, big-name residents, including Secretary of State and Mrs. Dean Acheson, Senator Robert Taft, former U. S. Minister to Norway David Harriman and scores of others will participate in art exhibits, boat fairs, parades, concerts, a formal dinner and a ball.

Distinguished residents have contributed chapters and illustrations for a bicentennial booklet, and the entire community is bending every effort to make the occasion a gala one.

It is doubtful, however, whether merchants and citizens who are sponsoring the fair will adhere strictly to the act of the Maryland Assembly establishing the first Georgetown fair in 1751. (What is now the District of Columbia was then part of Maryland.)

This act provided that during the fair "all persons within the bounds of the said town shall be privileged and free from arrests, except for felony, or breach of the peace, and all persons coming to such fair or fairs, or returning therefrom, shall have the like privilege of one day before the fair and one day on their return therefrom."

But one member of the committee planning the fair says it is "proceeding so carefully with the details that the good old Scottish commissioners who first selected the land for the town site of Georgetown would no doubt heartily approve of the style in which the celebration is being put on."

The Town of "George," at the head of the Potomac River, tide-water was an important shipping center before Washington, D. C. was ever thought of. In Georgetown was an official tobacco inspection station for the Maryland Colony. In that day tobacco was the big crop for overseas shipment.

In 1751 the Maryland Assembly passed an Act laying out a town and appointing six commissioners. A survey was made in 1758, and the land selected was drawn from the estates of George Gordon and George Beall. The purchase price was to be 280 pounds for the 60 acres selected. The owners thought the price too low, but they had to accept or have their land confiscated.

Elks' Officers Are Installed Last Night

J. Alvin Bunting, acting as grand exalted ruler, installed Erskine Duff as exalted ruler and other officers of Greenville Lodge No. 1645, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at an impressive ceremony last night. Duff succeeded Jesse R. Moye.

J. B. Spilman is esteemed leading knight; R. W. Shiplett, esteemed loyal knight; Roger Collins, esteemed lecturing knight; P. W. Ficklesimer, secretary; David Proctor, treasurer.

Appointive officers are: Arthur Smith, tiler; Stuart Page, inner guard; Dr. J. M. Barrett, esquire; Charles T. Marston, chaplain; C.A. Bowen, organist.

Jesse R. Moye, Jr., is delegate to the Grand Lodge; Erskine Duff is alternate. Harry M. Brown is presiding justice of the subordinate forum.

Committee chairmen for the year are: House, Erskine Duff; Social and Community Welfare, Roger Collins; Relief, J. B. Spilman; Building, Judge Abbot Dunn; Entertainment, J. B. Spilman; Auditing, John Proctor; Lapsation, Luther B. Moore; Visiting, R. W. Shiplett; Investigating, David Proctor; Publicity, Chester Walsh; Membership, Charles E. Blair.

The lodge was organized here in 1940. Curtis Perkins was its first exalted ruler. The club has nearly 200 members. Herman Norris is house manager.

The Greenville Elks Lodge, international fraternal organization, is active in numerous community activities and does extensive charity work.

The Elks are sponsoring one of the six teams in the Little Baseball League. The lodge recently observed National Youth Day and participated in the recent Court of Honor for Boy Scouts held in Greenville. Judge J. W. H. Roberts and Erskine Duff represented the Elks Lodge.

The new administration is working on plans for improving facilities at the Elks Home here and providing regular programs for the members in addition to the present recreational facilities.

Stokes PTA Officers Elected Tuesday Night

Stokes—The monthly meeting of the P. T. A. was called to order Tuesday night, by the president, Mrs. Bernard Jenkins. Officers were elected for the oncoming year. Those elected were president, Mrs. Hazel Bullock; vice-president, Mrs. J. B. Congleton Jr.; secretary, Mrs. Barbara Finch; treasurer, Mrs. D. S. James. The P. T. A. presented the school with a check for $163.51 which will be used to buy school supplies for the high school and elementary grades.

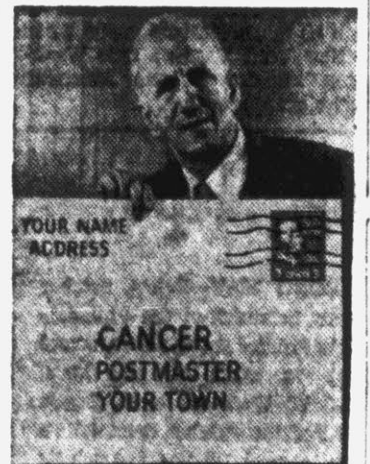

The twelfth grade class won the dollar for the most attendance percentage.

After business discussions, entertainment was provided by the school students. The first and third year Home Ec. girls presented a fashion show. The girls modeled the garments which they made in the Home Economics class. The eighth grade made cotton pajamas, gowns, and blouses. The tenth and eleventh grade made dresses, suits, lunch coats and toppers from more complicated materials. There were five judges in the audience who selected two winners from each grade. Mavis Bullock won first prize in the eighth grade, followed by Mary Lou Whitehurst with second prize. Helen Copeland was honored with first prize in the tenth grade. Edna Bland was runner-up with second prize. Both first prizes were draw string handbags. The second prizes were boxes of handkerchiefs.

Two song presentations were sung by Carolyn Everett and Ann Nelson. Mrs. June Tripp accompanied them on the piano.

The sixth grade gave two folk dances. They were "Skip to My Lou, My Darling" and "Jimmy Crack Corn". The dancers portrayed Lil Abner and Daisy Mae. When the entertainment was over, Mrs. Jenkins adjourned the meeting and open house was observed. Refreshments consisting of punch and cookies were served by Mrs. Charlie James Jr., Mrs. Heber Fleming, and Mrs. Tyree Stokes.

Testifies Votes Had Prices Of $15

Marshall, N. C., April 13 (AP)—The asking price for votes in last November's general election was $15 each, a Madison Superior Court jury was told yesterday.

Andy Gosnell of Walnut Creek testified at a hearing to determine who is sheriff of this western county that he had offered $7.50 each to two women for their votes, but that they each wanted $15.

Gosnell was heard as the quo warranto — by what right — hearing entered its ninth day, with many of the 1,000 summoned witnesses yet to be heard.

Republican Hubert Davis claims he was elected Sheriff last November 7 but that the returns were changed to give the victory to Democrat E. Y. Ponder, now acting as sheriff under a court order.

A State Bureau of Investigation agent testified yesterday that changes were made in vote abstracts in at least two precincts. He said the changes were in favor of both men.

Girl Scout Summer Camp Will Open At Camp Hardee June 17

R. CHESTER WALSH

The Greenville Girl Scouts summer camp at Camp Hardee, on a high bluff overlooking Pamlico river, below Chocowinity, will open the season Sunday, June 17.

The first two weeks' camping period starts on this date and ends June 30. The second period is from July 1 through July 14, and the third and final camping period of the summer is from July 15 through July 28.

Mrs. E. L. Henderson, Girl Scout executive secretary, is camp director, and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor is assistant director. Miss Iola Carowan is dietitian. Kent Lee is assistant waterfront supervisor.

Mrs. J. K. Long is commissioner of the Greenville Girl Scouts' Council.

Health and sanitation facilities at Camp Hardee meet all of the state and national requirements. Drinking water is tested at regular intervals. All water activities are supervised by a certified American Red Cross life saving instructor, and the swimming area at the camp is free of all hazards. A physician and registered nurse are available. Well balanced and appetizing meals are served under the supervision of an experienced dietitian. All girls at Camp Hardee are under constant supervision of a staff of mature young women, chosen for their various skills, abilities, and their desire to work with young girls.

Books from Sheppard Memorial Library will be available for campers who wish to read. A trading post at the camp will sell post cards, stamps, stationery, etc., art supplies and a limited amount of gum and candy will be sold. Interdenominational services will be held each Sunday. Special arrangements will be made for Catholics to attend Sunday services at nearby Washington.

The Girl Scout Camp truck will meet campers who arrive by train or bus by request. The camp is on the south side of Pamlico River, in Beaufort county. It is 12 miles from Washington and 26 miles from Greenville. A buffet luncheon will be awaiting the camper and the person accompanying her to camp.

Features of Camp Hardee are swimming, boating, arts and crafts, archery, outdoor cooking, handball and other games are played. Campfire group meetings feature the end of each day in camp. Camp Hardee belongs to the Greenville Girl Scout Council. Interested citizens of Greenville purchased the land for the camp site. The late H. M. Hardee, prominent Norfolk businessman and a native of Pitt county, gave the money to erect the buildings in memory of his mother and father. A bronze tablet bearing appropriate inscription has been placed in the lodge.

Applications from campers will be accepted in the order in which they are received. Camp registration blanks should be mailed with the fee to Greenville Girl Scout Council, Box 233, Greenville, N. C.

Carolinas' War Dead Returning

Washington, April 12—(AP)—The bodies of four Carolinians who died in the Korean war are being returned to this country aboard the U.S.S. Alfred Victory, the Defense Department announced yesterday.

The ship was expected to arrive at San Francisco today. The bodies will be sent with an escort to the place designated by each next of kin, who have been notified.

The casualties, all Army Privates, unless otherwise designated, and their next of kin include:

North Carolina—Boyden M. Dean, Earl A. Dean, Box 83, Drexel, Sgt. Walter L. Gray, Army, Mrs. Irene M. Gray, Black Mountain; Corp. John R. Smith, Army, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, 1068 Powell St., Fayetteville.

South Carolina—1st Lt. Donald C. Engh, Army, Mrs. Mary O. Engh, c/o Mrs. R. E. Stokes, Lane.

Files Suit Over Reward Payment

Asheville, N. C., April 13 (AP)—David Robinson of Asheville says he found a wrecked airplane on Gibbs Mountain in Yancey County on April 16, 1950. He also said there was a $1,000 reward offered to the person finding the craft.

In a suit filed in Buncombe Superior Court yesterday, Robinson says he never got the reward—and wants it.

The action was started against former Sheriff George E. Rudisell of Lincoln County. Robinson says Rudisell had been authorized to pay out the reward by the plane's owner. Robinson also says Rudisell, who is no longer sheriff, still has the money.

The plane and its two passengers, Robert W. Heavner and John Helton, had been missing from Lincoln since Sept. 1, 1946.

The United Nations has estimated total world population in 1949 was 2,351,000,000—and growing rapidly.

Green Phants And Kinston Compete

Improved GHS Nine Meets Visiting Kinston Team Here Today; Farley Expects Better Showing After Week Of Practice

By ROY HARDEE
Coach Boley Farley's Green Phantoms, suffering from an opening loss handed them by Tarboro High School last week, swing back into action this afternoon when they come up against the strong Lenoir team from Kinston High School.

However, prospects for the team making a better showing than the 6-6 loss they suffered last week were foreseen as the locals have had the benefit of a full week of practice, something which the Phantom baseballers have not had since the opening of the spring training season.

In commenting on the team this morning, Coach Farley expressed the feeling that his charges were showing up better and would put up a creditable showing this afternoon.

The game, originally scheduled to be played at Guy Smith Stadium at 3:30, has been moved to the old Third Street diamond, because a work which is being carried on at the stadium.

"Some of the kinks have been ironed out during the past week of practice," Farley said today. "Probably starter on the mound today for the Phantoms will be Joe Clark, who appeared in the season's opener but was relieved in the sixth inning with Hudson replacing him."

Some changes have been made in the starting lineup for today's game with Bobby Conway, listed as possible starter at second in place of Jerry Phillips, and Mills in right field instead of Hilton Quinn.

Handling the catching chores will be Joe Rowland, backed up by Bobby Nunn, while Sidney Briley will appear in his usual role at first base, shortstop held down by Glenn Scott and Billy Brady at the third and in the outfield, Bobby Perry will start in left field with Jody Taylor in center with Mills in the right field slot.

Ike Williams Has Weight Problem

Chicago, April 12—(AP)—The Williams today began a rigid training grind to shed 10.5 pounds before risking his lightweight crown against James Carter in New York May 11.

He probably will find much more trouble reducing to the 135 lightweight limit than he did last night in taking a unanimous 10-round decision from welterweight Freddie Pruden.

Williams' manager, Blinky Aperlho, said Ike is ready to go for the welter title and will meet the winner of the Johnny Bratton-Kid Gavilan bout in Chicago after fighting Carter.

Ike weighed 145.5 last night, the game same as Pruden, the durable Canadian. Only 2,897 spectators turned out for the Chicago stadium show and the gross gate was $9,649.

The 23-year-old Pruden bled profusely from a cut over his right eye from the third round on. And Ike, too, became a reddish mess from a cut left eye and a slit

Another Pitcher Is All They Want To Open Season

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's an old tune, but as long as there's baseball, major league managers will sing it. It's a short one and goes like this:

"Give me another pitcher." With the official opening of the majors only three days away, most managers were making eleventh hour efforts today to bolster their mound staffs with the possible exception of the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants. Both Steve O'Neill, Sox skipper and Leo Durocher of the Giants, can sit back and watch the scramble.

The Sox and the Giants are two of the favorites to take the American and National League flags. But now about their main rivals?

In the American, the defending champion New York Yankees are worried, indeed, what with Allie Reynolds on the sidelines. He's due back soon, but that doesn't keep the Yank brass from worrying.

The Cleveland Indians? A good tipoff on what the Tribe thinks of its hurling depth can be found in yesterday's box score. Johnny Vanderhook, 12 years ago? Vanderhook hooked on with the Indians on a trial basis last week.

He got into one inning against the New York Giants at Winston-Salem, N. C., yesterday and was pounded for seven hits and five runs while the Giants were running up a 13-6 triumph.

In the National League, if anyone is going to beat out the Giants, says the experts, it will be the Brooklyn Dodgers. Brook president Walter O'Malley said yesterday that "Cincinnati, Boston and St. Louis have pitchers we could use."

Howie Pollet of the Redbirds is the boy O'Malley would like to see in a Brooklyn uniform, and it is not entirely out of the question that Pollet might be had. Fred Saigh, Card chief, naturally has a heavy price on Howie, but the Dodgers have some expendable talent that Saigh might like.

And so it goes right down to the potential second division clubs... give them another pitcher and they might be a threat.

They might, at that.

Pruden, the sixth ranking welterweight, proved able take all of Ike's power punches without backing up and continued his record of never being knocked off his feet in four fights. However, he failed to land any telling blows. It was his first defeat after winning six in a row.

Play Norfolk

East Carolina plays host to the Naval Receiving Station team from Norfolk this afternoon at 2:45 in College stadium. Coach Jack Boone's diamond nine will be gunning for their sixth victory this year in hopes of breaking their present five-all mark.

On Wednesday of next week the East Carolina boys travel to Wilson to meet a strong and improved Atlantic Christian College team.

Grifton Nine Has Four Of Last Year's Team On Tap

Grifton, April 13. The hopes of Grifton High School in the baseball world this season depends largely on four returning lettermen around whom this year's team is built, along with any new hopefuls who might show up.

Returning from last year's team are J. R. Wooten at shortstop, John Lewis at the third base sack, outfielder Vance Abbott and Rex Lewis on the mound.

Other candidates who have been showing up well for Coach Adrian Brown's squad include C. J. Wiley, Bobby Barfield in the pitching line up, with Donald Koon, Melvin Coward, Bill Burroughs and Kenneth Branch, showing up good in catchers role. All of the boys are freshmen and from the lot, replacement for the vacancy left by the graduation of last year's starting catcher will more than likely be obtained.

John Lewis and Rex Lewis, who batted over the 400 mark last year are expected to carry the offensive punch for the Grifton nine while new comers in the form of Bernard McLawhorn, Clyde Adams and C. J. Wiley are expected to increase the batting power for Brown's team.

First base is filled by Clyde Adams and Billie Harris, with Worth Craft and Jessie Stancil battling for the second base berth. Donald Rhodes will handle third base while the outfield will be filled by Bruce McLawhorn, Bernard McLawhorn and Alvis Harris.

Regular shortstop will probably be Rufus Craft.

Palmern And Bolt Split Top Prize

Greenwood, S. C., April 13—(AP)—Two North Carolinians, Johnny Palmer of Badin and Tommy Bolt of Durham, split the $450 first money in the $1,500 Greenwood Open Golf Tournament yesterday.

The tournament circuit performers finished the two-day play with 36-hole scores of 139, Palmer catching Bolt, the first day leader, with a sparkling two-under par 70 finish. The pros also picked up extra cash in a concurrent pro-amateur competition.

Batting Practice Under Way For Greenville Robins

The Greenville Robins held their first full-scale batting practice yesterday afternoon, which saw six-foot-three Sam Stell belt three long drives over the right field fence to highlight the day's work out.

Stell reported for workouts yesterday for the first time. Last year, baseball fans will remember that he played semi-pro ball with the Farmville entry in the Bright Leaf loop, and the year before he saw action with Maysville of the Kitty League, and held a year's average of .300.

Business Manager John Pringle stated this morning that other than Stell, no new faces have appeared at the local training camp but other players are expected any time.

The Robins are still working out both in the morning and afternoon in preparation for the opening tilt here on Monday night when they tangle with the Elizabeth City club in Guy Smith Stadium at 7:45. After two days rest they will play host to a strong Boston Braves farm club from Hartford on Thursday night, April 19.

Pringle also said this morning that grading and final preparation of the infield at the Stadium will be carried out this afternoon as final steps are taken for the opening game.

Since the infield will be torn up this afternoon no infield practice will be held; however workouts will continue at the same pace as Manager John Stenza seeks to round his prospects into form for the opener.

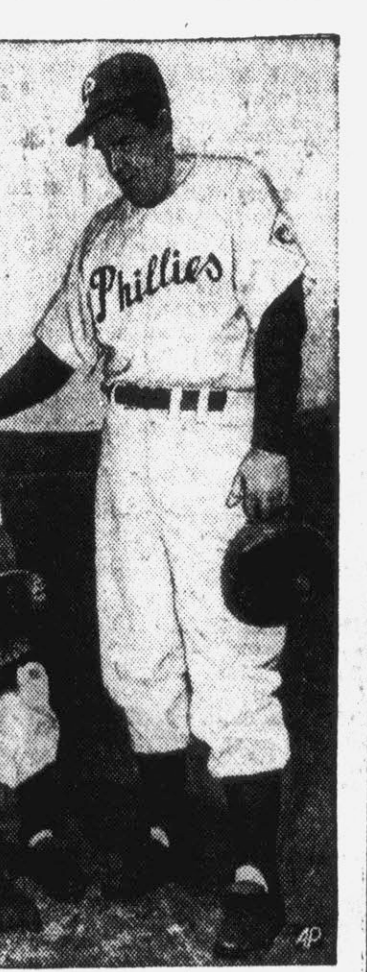

In Shibe Park Without Connie

Philadelphia, April 13—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics—without Connie Mack at the helm—play at Shibe Park today for the first time.

The A's, starting the season under their second manager in more than 50 years, Jimmy Dykes, meet the National League champion Philadelphia Phillies in the first of a three-game city series.

Ace right-hander Robin Roberts, a 20 game winner in 1950, will start for Phils manager Eddie Sawyer. Dykes is expected to counter with Bobby Santz in the 1951 home town debut for both sides.

Perkins Gives Catching Tips

reach down, up, out or forward can prevent a lot of stolen bases from the crouch. It's impossible to do all these things when you're down on one knee.

"There were and are many catchers who caught on one knee," says Perkins, "but I don't want to name them. Paul Richards, now White Sox manager, started the style but that was only because he had a bad leg."

"Ninety per cent of the catching is done from the knees down because of that low pitch. And in order to be a successful catcher you have got to catch the ball in front of you."

"Andy Seminick has the best position of any catcher in the National League," says Perkins. "I didn't realize that there was that much difference," says Seminick "until I came to Philadelphia. Cy and Bennie Bengough asked me to catch on one knee and I found it almost impossible to move."

Preliminaries Dealing With Little League Are Taking Up

Approval of a suitable site for the 11-year-old bracket. A League consists of four teams and there is no limit to the number of leagues in a city or community.

To be eligible to have a Little League, application must be made to the National League Headquarters at Williamsport, Pa., after which approval or rejection is made by the unit officials.

The idea of a Little League originated in 1939 when a baseball fan, Carl E. Stotz, noticed that a boy under 13 years of age had little if any change to play baseball in a regular game because he was usually crowded out by the older boys. Primarily the kids were not qualified physically to play with the older boys and when they did get up what was known as a "Scrub" team, they attempted to use the regulation playing equipment which endangered their undeveloped physiques.

The idea behind the formation of a Little League in Greenville is to promote good health, good sportsmanship and citizenship in the smaller boys who are not yet ready for competing with older boys.

Any boy who will not attain the age of 13 years before August 1, of the year in question will be eligible to active membership in the League.

A letter read at the monthly meeting from City School Superintendent J. H. Rose, stated that the city schools were behind the proposed Little League 100 per cent, and would do all possible to support and make it a success.

A call meeting of the Recreation Commission will be held Monday night at eight o'clock at which time a report on the progress of the ball field will be made. A committee made up of John Adams, Bruce Koone, Snodie Parks and Lester Turnage were appointed to handle the publicity for the group.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 12-17.

God told Abram to move from Haran to Canaan. Lot, Abram's nephew, went with him, but their possessions were so great that the land would not support both, so Abram gave Lot his choice, and Lot chose the plain of Jordan.

After twelve years, the people of the city of Sodom rebelled against five conquering kings. In the ensuing battle Lot was made prisoner. Abram organized his servants, engaged the kings in conflict and rescued Lot and his goods.

Famine drove Abram and his family to Egypt. Fearing that his wife's beauty would cause his own death, Abram told her to say she was his sister. The deception was discovered, and Abram was severely rebuked by the Pharaoh.

Abram and Sara had no children, but Abram had a son by Hagar, a handmaid. Sara sent the woman and child away, and they would have died if an angel had not aided them.

MEMORY VERSE—Genesis 15:1

Period of the Patriarchs

ABRAHAM WAS THE FIRST OF THE LINE

Scripture—Genesis 12-17.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
TODAY'S LESSON is the story of a man who "walked with God," had trust in Him and was rewarded. He did not always do right—like the rest of us—but he obeyed his Lord, and found his strength in Him.

Abram was a son of Terah, and a native of Ur, of the Chaldees. He and his father and nephew, Lot, moved to Haran, 600 miles distant, in northwest Mesopotamia.

Here it was that the Lord said to Abram, "Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will show thee." The Lord promised that He would make a great nation of Abram's people and would bless them.

So Abram departed with his wife, Sara, and the nephew, Lot, and they came to Canaan, and on a mountain on the east of Bethel, they pitched their tent and builded an altar to the Lord.

Going south there was a famine in the land, and so Abram and his wife went into Egypt where there was plenty. Now Sara was a beautiful woman and Abram made war on the kings of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, Zeboim and Bela, and conquered them. This was the first war mentioned in the Bible. For 12 years the people of the region were captives, then they rebelled.

It did them no good, however, for they were defeated, and Sodom and Gomorrah were sacked. Lot was captured with all his goods.

Abram, hearing of this disaster, organized his household servants, and pursued the enemy, attacking them at night, overthrowing them and releasing Lot and all his goods and people.

There is an interesting little episode told here on which we haven't space to enlarge. It concerned the king of Sodom going to meet Abram, after the latter's victory, and of Abram's encounter with the king of Salem, who was "a priest of the most high God," and who blessed Abram.

Abram's faith in His Lord was greatly strengthened when God came to him in a vision to tell him to "Fear not: I am thy shield and thy exceeding great reward."

Now Abram and Sara had no children and it was a great grief

MEMORY VERSE

"I am thy shield, and thy exceeding great reward."—Genesis 15:1.

was afraid that if it was known that she was his wife, the Egyptians would kill him so that they might possess her. He told her to say she was his sister.

Sara was taken to the Pharaoh's court, but the deception was discovered, and the Pharaoh had Abram brought before him and rebuked him severely, and sent him away with his wife and all that he possessed. Abram did not trust God in this matter and was greatly at fault.

In the next episode we see another and better side of Abram, however. Journeying to the south again they found that the land would not support the vast flocks and herds the two men owned between them. So Abram told Lot to choose which portion of the land he liked best and to go there, and he—Abram—would go the opposite way.

Lot looked about him, saw all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered—"like unto the Garden of Eden"—and he chose that. Abram here showed his generous nature, and also Lot disclosed his more selfish character by snapping up his uncle's offer. So the two separated and Lot dwelt in the land of Sodom.

There were four kings who to them. In despair, Sara suggested to Abram that he take a second wife, an Egyptian maid servant named Hagar.

He agreed and Hagar had a boy child who was later named Ishmael. Hagar then despised Sara, feeling superior to her, we may suppose, and became so unbearable that Sara turned her out with her child.

Hagar wandered into the desert and would have died of hunger and thirst if the Lord had not sent an angel to comfort and advise her. The angel told her to go back to Abram and Sara, to submit herself to Sara, and she would be rewarded.

God promised that Sara should bear a child and make Abram "the father of many nations."

And God made a covenant with Abram, and said that thereafter his name should not be Abram, but Abraham, and his wife Sara would thenceforth be known as Sarah.

After many years the covenant God made with Abraham has come true. The descendants of Abraham are now repossessing the land of Palestine, using the very words of God to Abraham in advancing their claims.

Flashback

Chicago, April 13—(AP)—Some sections of the Midwest had a flashback of near wintry weather today.

A mixture of snow and rain was reported in parts of southern Iowa and Missouri. It was part of a widespread storm centered over the upper Great Lakes region.

The middle and upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys had occasional rain, and general rainfall was reported over all of New England except Maine. Elsewhere skies generally were clear.

Temperatures were described as cool over most of the eastern and central states except along the Gulf. Early reports included a near freezing 35 degrees at Goodland, Kas., and Chicago, Kansas City had 37, and Dickinson, N.D., 22.

American Heads Ethiopian Bank

Addis Ababa—(AP)—For the second time since Ethiopia established her new currency in 1945, an American's name is appearing on all paper notes circulating in the country.

The name is that of Jack Bennett, (Washington, D. C.), former U. S. Treasury official and later financial adviser on the staff of General Lucius D. Clay in the American Zone of Germany.

Crisp new paper bills just put into circulation now bear his signature. Bennett is Governor of the State Bank of Ethiopia. This is the bank of issue of all Ethiopian legal tender. The first American's paper money was that of George Blowers, former head of the Bank of Monrovia (Liberia) and governor of the State Bank of Ethiopia until 1948.

All of Ethiopia's paper money is printed by the Security Bank Note Company of Philadelphia. The metal coins also are minted in the United States.

Power Firms Raise Objection

Washington, April 13—(AP)—Nine private power companies have objected to a request by the Southeastern Power Association (SEPA) for money to build transmission lines.

This was disclosed in testimony made public today by a House Interior Appropriations subcommittee.

Southeastern wants Congress to appropriate $4,000,000 to plan and build transmission lines in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The power companies say the lines would duplicate their lines and the Southeastern request is unjustified.

The companies offering testimony included Georgia Power Company, Virginia Electric and Light Co., Carolina Power and Light Co., Duke Power Co., Alabama Power Co., Gulf Power Co., Mississippi Power Co., Florida Power Corp. and the South Carolina Electric and Gas Co.

Other opposition to Southeastern's plan came from representatives of various labor unions.

Louis V. Sutton, president of Carolina Power and Light Co., said the congressional appropriations sought would put SEPA into competition with his company.

TWO CARS COLLIDE

Cars driven by Bobby Wadford, 1117 Third street, and Julian C. Lindsey, 106 S. Church street, collided at Fourth and Washington streets yesterday afternoon. Police who investigated the case said both vehicles were slightly damaged and that neither driver was hurt. There was no arrest.

Believe Sunken Ironclad Located On Ocean Floor

Charleston, S. C., April 13—(AP)—"The Yankee Cheese Box"—one of the world's first iron clad warships—apparently has been located in 120 feet of water 20 miles south east of Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Spokesmen for the Sixth Naval District here said, however, that the Navy has no plans for raising the wreckage of the U. S. S. Monitor. A routine anti-submarine patrol made the discovery in 1947, the Navy disclosed.

The Monitor was the federal warship which fought the Merrimack of the Confederate Navy, also an iron-clad vessel, on March 9, 1862, off the Virginia Coast. Confederates described the Monitor as a "Yankee Cheese Box on a Raft" because of its cylindrical turret nine feet high and 30 feet across.

The battle was indecisive but it launched the era of metal-clad war vessels. Similarly it was the death knell for wooden men of war.

The Monitor's commander was wounded and the vessel withdrew from the battle. The Confederates scuttled the Merrimack in the evacuation of Norfolk.

The Monitor sank in a gale off the North Carolina coast December 30 or 31, 1862. At the time she was in two of the U. S. S. Rhode Island and was being taken to assist the federal blockade of Charleston.

The Navy said that a retired naval salvage expert, Commodore William A. Sullivan, considered it possible to raise the bulk. He recommended that it be used as a training problem for divers.

The Navy spokesmen said published dimensions of the wreckage tally with the 172-foot length and 41.5 foot width of the Monitor. It has not made an on-the-spot check on the bulk. It says it's willing to believe it is the Monitor.

Kennelly Cuts Vacation Short

Asheville, N. C., April 13—(AP)—Chicago's mayor Martin Kennelly today cut short a western North Carolina vacation to return to the Windy City.

On his arrival here Monday, Kennelly said he expected to remain ten days. Last night, however, he announced this would be his last day. He plans to leave by train at 5 p. m. (EST).

He said the pressure of municipal affairs and the necessity of preparing for his inauguration next Thursday prompted him to change his mind.

EASIEST PLANTING YOU'VE EVER DONE

REAR-ENGINE MODEL G 2-ROW DRILL PLANTER

Twenty-five acres is a comfortable day's work with the Model G and 2-row drill planter. You never need to look back. The planter is mounted right in front of you, and the tractor's open-arch frame gives you clear vision of the runners and row.

Short, straight boots drop seed directly into the soil. You can plant corn, beans, peas and sorghums accurately with this type of boot — often at speeds up to 5 mph. The Model G fertilizer attachment can be used with planter for simultaneous planting and fertilizing.

Put the Model G to work on your farm — planting, cultivating, mowing, hauling. The more you use it, the better you'll like it.

TIME TRAP

By ROG PHILLIPS

AP Wirephotos

Chapter 24
"We've met her picture," Joe said grimly. "Personally I hope we never meet her in person. She looks like she could smile at you and cut your throat at the same time."

"She's like that," Neiva said. "It was she who conceived the scheme of using the control of your race. It was fool-proof, except that it is, in the progress of my education, stumbled onto something about time travel that hadn't been known before."

"This skipping back and living two parts of your life at once?" Ray asked.

"That's part of it," Neiva admitted. "The main part of it is that I can create what you call a time trap and wait I call an eddy circuit in the time stream, and then up in it, freezing the human race in this wave forever from the other."

"So that's what they fear," Ray said. "I had an idea it was something like that." He frowned at the table surface for a few seconds. "But what part do I play in it? What I mean is, I've gathered the impression that in some way I'm vital to the whole thing. I find now that my knowledge is elementary compared to yours on the subject of time travel. I can add to your knowledge. I'm certainly not indispensable physically."

"I can't tell you the part you play—yet," Neiva said. "You'll know when it's all over—and that will be soon, I promise."

"And then you go back to your wave of reality and I don't see you any more?" Ray asked, watching her closely.

"That depends," she said, but there was a look in her eyes that seemed to say, "on you."

There was a lapse in the conversation. A bright sun sent its cheery rays into the kitchen, making everything more vivid. The silence was broken by Joe snoring.

"I just thought of something," he said. "If we go back and sit in that booth in the roadhouse at the time we were sitting there, we will in effect have lived almost a week in the twinkling of an eye. Incidentally, we disappeared from there without paying our bill."

"How did we get back?" Ray asked. "You wrapped your fingers around my arm, Neiva, and then we came back in time."

"That's something the Varg Thrott would like to learn," Neiva answered. "My grasping your arm had nothing to do with it. I did that merely to steady you. The mechanism—it's something special that I've been working on a long time. It's as much of an improvement over your time travel machine that you came to 1999 in as—as the modern radio is over the first one ever built." She was getting up from the table as she said, "We could sit here all day and talk. There's too much to do. I can explain things as we go along much better. Today we must go into the city and follow you around in your time-line as it starts from having breakfast with Val Nelson."

"What!" Ray and Joe exclaimed in unison.

"This is going to seem strange, spooky, to you," Neiva said as they climbed out of her car, parked across the street from the cafeteria. "Remember what I told you. When you press hard on the control hidden in your pocket it will bring you into quarter phase with the time front that is real to you as you were. With your finger of the control button you're practically out of phase—and therefore relatively non-existent to it."

It was definitely spooky, Ray and Joe studied the shadowy world about them with wide-eyed wonder. A car was headed directly toward them. They jumped out of its path instinctively—and turned to see the car pass right through Neiva and Nancy without seeming to affect them in any way. The girls smiled at their alarmed expressions.

"It's just like it was all three dimensional images of light instead of solid substance," Joe marveled. "That's what it actually is to us as we are now," Neiva said. "Solidity is relative. We can walk through a solid object just as if it were the beam of a flashlight."

"Then why don't we sink into the ground?" Ray asked.

"You do, a little," Neiva smiled. Ray and Joe looked down. Sure enough, the shadowy surface of the pavement cut into their feet half an inch above the soles. Neiva explained, "We're just a wee shade in phase with ordinary reality, and that amount of juxtaposition is enough to give us traction and maintain our position. There you are," she added, pointing toward the plate glass front of the cafeteria.

Joe and Ray had already seen what she was pointing to. They were inside, with Val Nelson. Ray was in the act of placing one of the three capsules in his mouth. Joe was looking at him, laughing.

"That gives me an uncanny feeling," Joe murmured. "I can remember that it's like feeling a movie of something it was in."

They moved through the door, feeling its slight drag as it passed through them. Some people came through the door behind them and pushed through them without being aware of it.

"Is this the explanation of the spirit world?" Ray asked, watching the backs of those who had just gone through them.

"I don't know," Neiva said. "This is what might be called i-time, using the conventions of mathematics. A time stream separated from the regular one by a little 'distance' in what could be considered the fifth dimension. It's something the Vargian rulers don't know about. If they did they could find me."

They stood and watched the progress of the breakfast. When it was over they followed themselves and Val Nelson as they left the cafeteria.

Ray remembered that they had made a tour of the city. He turned to Neiva.

"What's the reason for our following ourselves around like this?" he asked. "There must be a reason."

"There is," Neiva said. "Remember—as you lived this other period—that at night you couldn't sleep, and you took a walk during which you arrived at certain conclusions about Val and Neal and the other Custodians?"

"Yes," Ray said doubtfully. "Well," Neiva said. "This may sound strange to you, but you came to those conclusions largely because of this trip we are taking with you. Wait and see if it isn't true."

Airman Stranded Atop 14,408-Foot Mountain

McChord Air Force Base, Wash., April 13—(AP)—An Air Force flier landed atop 14,408-foot Mount Rainier yesterday—and he's still there.

He wasn't able to take off again. The stranded flier is Lieut. John Hodgkins, 31, of Selma, Calif. He huddled in his souped-up Piper Cub plane throughout the night in 20 below zero temperature while the Air Force and Park Service tried to figure ways and means of getting him down.

Friends say Hodgkins has a desire to be known as the flier who has landed and taken off from a higher point than anyone else in the world. He claimed he had done so with a 10,600-foot mountain—where it is informants couldn't say—and decided on capping Mount Rainier after hearing somebody in South America had landed on and taken off a peak higher than his 10,600-foot "airport."

So yesterday Hodgkins spread straw over the runway at a tiny airport at Spanaway, a dozen miles from Tacoma and about 60 miles from Mount Rainier, then took off in his ski-equipped plane.

Sgt. Charles Bunch, 36, Tacoma, flying in another plane, accompanied Hodgkins as far as the mountain top in clear weather.

"I saw Hodgkins land the plane in a stretch of snow in the crater on top of the mountain," Bunch said. "Then I saw him get out of the plane and try to start it again by swinging on the propeller."

"He had stripped down the plane of all excess weight before leaving, and one of the things he left be-

Civic Clubs To Hold Joint Session May 4

A joint dinner meeting will be held May 4 by the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and Exchange clubs of Greenville to honor the three district governors and a state controller, all of whom are members of respective clubs.

The meeting, to be held in the north dining hall of the East Carolina cafeteria, will feature Eli Bloom, Kiwanis; O. E. Dowd, Lions; Howard C. McGinnis, Rotary; and Sam O. Worthington, Exchange. The first three are governors of their respective club districts of the state and Worthington is a member of the Exchange's state board of control.

The meeting will mark the first time a joint meeting of the clubs has been held here. Its purpose is to recognize the civic honor that has come to Greenville in having four such men living here. So far as is known in no other city or town in the country have governors of the four national civic clubs lived in the same place.

Arrangements for the Governors Night fete are being made by committeemen from each of the clubs. They are John O. Reynolds, chairman, Kiwanis; Allan T. Powell, Exchange; Henry Swayne, Lions; and Charles White, Rotary. No program has been announced as yet. However, the committee is planning this first joint meeting as a forerunner of similar meetings to be held each year.

Dr. John D. Messick will be toastmaster for the event.

A B-17 made two drops of emergency equipment into the crater last night. The drops landed several hundred feet away from Hodgkins in the crater, which is about a mile and a half across and full of snowdrifts, mounds and caverns.

On the ground, two Park Service Rangers and three members of the McChord Air Rescue Service headed for the area last night.

Mountaineers say it is possible to reach the peak in one day earlier in the spring, but softening snows may make climbing a rugged business at this time.

Farmville Senior Class Guests Of Banquet Tonight

Farmville—The junior class of Farmville High School will entertain about 40 seniors tonight at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet and Dance.

The banquet is scheduled to begin at 7 o'clock in the high school cafeteria. Sam Bundy, principal of the Farmville High School, will be the speaker along with the junior and senior class presidents, R. B. Owen and James Thorne. The theme for the banquet is centered around a Hawaiian setting.

Furnishing the music for the dance which is to begin after the banquet, is Dick Levin and his State College orchestra. Mrs. Bell Hin-nant and her dancing class will have a part on the program, entertaining the guests with Hawaiian dances.

Invite Mission Worker To Address Federation

The Roanoke Federation of Baptist Business Women's Circles will meet in Greenville Tuesday evening, April 17th, at the Woman's Club. The hostess circle for this spring meeting of twenty-one organizations from thirteen towns in the Roanoke Association, is the Mary Hester Powell circle of Immanuel Baptist Church of which Mrs. H. A. White is Chairman.

Miss Irene Chambers, field worker for the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board since 1944, will be speaker for this large gathering of business women, according to Mrs. Ester F. Umans, Federation Chairman from Rocky Mount. Miss Chambers, a graduate of Arkansas Teachers College and W.M.U. Training School, Louisville, has visited Indian mission fields in Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico, as well as work among the Chinese and Spanish-speaking people of the Southwest.

Federation officers who will give reports at this meeting are: Miss Emily Williams, Rocky Mount, vice chairman; Mrs. W. E. Andrews, Bethel, Second Vice Chairman; Miss Jessie Daniel, Rocky Mount, Secretary; Mrs. M. T.

100 Birthdays, And All Wrong

Hamburg, Germany—(AP)—Mrs. Marie Schuett of nearby Oberdorf recently became 101 years old and learned that for the last hundred years she has been celebrating her birthday on the wrong date.

She had always celebrated on March 22, but records of the registry office showed she was born March 20, 1850, so she switched her celebration.

Rotarians Hold Election For District Governor

For the first time in many years, Fremont were nominated for the Rotarians of eastern North Carolina find themselves confronted by a race for the office of governor of the 27th Rotary district.

During the business session of the two-day conference held yesterday afternoon both David M. Britt of Fairmont and James A. Baston of Fremont were nominated for the position.

Balloting for the district governor continued through 3 o'clock this afternoon and the winner of the election will be announced tonight at the Governor's banquet in the Wright auditorium on the East Carolina campus. The Governor's

Pricing Charts Being Prepared

All pricing charts, for the original ceiling price Regulation number seven which was issued on February 27, must be on file in the OPS in Raleigh by April 30, 1951. This also holds true for amendment number two of the regulation which came into effect on April 5.

Mrs. Nina Shaw, business analyst for the OPS, stated in a general meeting in Greenville on Tuesday that the government would not furnish the necessary charts on which to file the report and it is up to the individual merchant or business firm to obtain the charts.

Mrs. Cora Powell, secretary to the Greenville Merchant's Association, said she is having the charts mimeographed in the form required by the government and is charging only the cost of the actual supplies used for these charts. She said if anyone wanted a chart, to call the Merchant's Association and place their order for the amount wanted.

Copies of Regulation number seven and the amendment and Public Form number three can be obtained from the Merchant's Association.

Audience Pleased By Glee Club's Program

The 45-voice men's glee club of Duke University presented a concert to a delighted audience last night in the Wright auditorium on the East Carolina campus.

For the Duke men's glee club it was the fourteenth in a series of eighteen appearances this season. Three Greenville boys were members of the glee club which sang here last night. They are Sam Northrop, Paul Conway and Rufus Stark, all Greenville high school graduates who are now students at Duke University.

The concert opened with the glee club's presentation of "Dear Old Duke," followed by the first group of songs composed of "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones," "Ave Verum" and "Worship of God in Nature."

Base-baritone Soloist Robert Chalmers sang "Der Erlkonig," Baritone Soloist William H. Beck sang the Vision Fugitive from "Herold," and a piano solo "Andalucia" was presented by Walter Ball.

In another of the series of presentations in the concert, the glee club sang "Pilgrims' Chorus" from "Tannhauser," "Dedication" and "The Omnipotence" which featured soprano soloist Miss Dorothy Jenkins.

Six Teachers Attend NCEA Asheville Meet

Six teachers from the Greenville city schools are attending the annual North Carolina Education Association meeting in Asheville which began today and will continue through tomorrow.

Those attending the meeting from Greenville are: J. H. Rose, Betty Jean Hansinger, Mrs. Mary Goodman, Mrs. Robert Fennell, Mrs. R. L. Wolfe, Mrs. Burke Stancil, and Mrs. Linwood Rouse.

Acquit Seven In Bootleg Trial

Raleigh, April 13.—(AP)—Seven men accused by the government of liquor law violations were acquitted by a federal court jury today.

The jury returned its verdict after considering the case about two hours.

Those acquitted were: J. C. Halthcock of Garner, a former ATU agent; J. Percy Flowers and his brother, James T. Flowers, Lonnie D. Allen, Roy L. Dyson, Wayne Wall and Abner Buie, a Negro, all of Johnston County.

The walnut and cherry are two trees exploited both for their produce and their wood.

Virginia Museum Items On Display

Now on display in the department of art at East Carolina College are two exhibitions, "Houses USA, 1600-1946" and a collection of woodcuts by Antonio Frasconi, according to an announcement by Dora Ciriol, director of the department of art.

"Houses USA" is a record in a series of photographs of American homes. The pictures record changes in American architecture, beginning with the Spanish, French, English, Dutch and Swedish influence and coming down Frank Lloyd Wright's "Falling Water House" at Bear Run, Pa.

Sixteen woodcuts by Antonio Frasconi are included among the works now on display at the college. Born and educated in Uruguay, the artist came to the United States in 1945 to study at the Art Students League. The woodcuts show the artist's unusual approach to everyday subject matter and illustrate his rugged, vigorous style and the heavy printing and inking of his striking designs.

intendent of the schools in Greenville. It was presented to the department today for the superintendents' consideration.

Both Conley and Rose collaborated on the report which sought to verify the reasons why so many Pitt County white and colored students had flunked their pre-induction examinations prior to entry into the Army. It was subsequently presented to Col. T. H. Upton, head of the State Selective Service System.

Debate Teams Of Williamston And Scotland Neck Win District Event

Ernest Taylor and Corrine Bryant of Williamston, affirmative debating team, and Betty Ball and Jack Watson of Scotland Neck, negative, emerged as winners in the Eastern District Contest of the North Carolina High School Debate Union held at East Carolina College yesterday afternoon and evening. Teams from Washington were runners-up in the last round of the forensic event.

The four debaters are scheduled to go to Chapel Hill to enter the final contests among high school teams of the state May 26 and 27. They will compete for the Aycock Memorial Cup, the trophy provided by the intercollegiate debaters of the University of North Carolina.

Sixteen high school debate teams competed here in the district contest yesterday. They represented Chiood, Elizabeth City, Eureka, Morehead City, Scotland Neck, Sel-

Five Dogs Killed For Killing Of Chickens

Wilton Ford, colored, who lives at 105 Ford Street, reported to police early today that dogs had broken into his chicken yard and were killing his chickens.

Humane Officer Enoch Elisha Jones said there were seven dogs in the man's yard eating chickens when he arrived. He killed five of them and two escaped, a police report states.

lina Counties 1663-1943," straightens out the formation of North Carolina counties once and for all; Mary Allen Moore's "North Carolina Sketches" is a part handbook, guide book containing a list of places of historical interest, Mason Crum's "The Story of Lake Junaluska" contains official papers as well as information on history, traditions and usefulness of that section, and John Parrie's "The Cherokee Story" presents a rapidly moving account of the Cherokees. She also commented on "Giant in Gray" by Wade Williams, and "Thomas Wolfe: Carolina Student" by Agatha Boyd Adams, which gave an account of the life of Wolfe during his university days, his family background, teaching experience and his career to its conclusion.

Three autobiographies were included in the review: "The Southern Part of Heaven" by William Mead Prince, "The Disadvantages of Being a Preacher's Son" by E. P. Holmes, and "Nightfall" by Laura Jimison Hampton.

One volume of collected biographies, "Tarteen Women" by Lou Rogers, was reviewed by Miss Gilbert.

Miss Gilbert reviewed five books of fiction, including one for children, "Pawnee," by Thelma Bell, and illustrated by Garyden Bell, is the story of an eight-inch Indian doll which assumes life and speech. "Dog On the Sun," Paul Green's collection of short stories, takes its place among the best of his works. The language as always is beautifully accurate, no matter whether it is the character who speaks or the poet who is writing the stories."

Miss Gilbert noted that Max Steele's prize-winning novel, "Debbey," is written simply and "there never was a heroine as Debbey. Her instinctive goodness, her devotion, her reaction to troubled children, her one and only perception that love and tranquility make the basis for human relationship."

Two fiction novels by James Street and Peter Taylor were also reviewed by Miss Gilbert.
