Chinese Continue In Stiff Resistance To Allied Drive

Artillery Sprays Rain Of Death Over Red Positions; UN Troops Straighten Lines; Beat Back Chinese Attack With Gun Butts And Fists

Tokyo, April 21—(AP)—Allied troops slammed against heavy resistance today in their drive on the Red Korean bastion of Chorwon. A U. S. Eighth Army communique Saturday night said Chinese forces were stubbornly defending hill positions south and southwest of the transport hub, Chorwon, 13 miles north of the border in west central Korea.

Allied artillery overshoot the front and spread explosive death among several large groups of Reds moving south to reinforce or replace north of the Hwachon Reservoir. The big guns killed an estimated 275 Reds in day-long shrapneling with ponderous missiles.

Several other Red troop concentrations were spotted fleeing north in panic. Allied warplanes pounded other Red units north of the reservoir. They met some communist anti-aircraft fire.

Allied troops drove north through the town of Hwachon, at the western end of the reservoir, without meeting a single enemy soldier. The allies straightened their line from Hwachon due west. They made substantial gains against almost no opposition.

Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, U.S. Fifth Air Force commander, said his tactical air unit had killed or wounded more than 100,000 Reds since the start of the war June 25. The casualties represent the equivalent of 10 to 14 communist divisions.

Counterattacking Reds broke through allied lines south of Chorwon Friday night but U. S. troops beat them off with fists and rifle bullets.

Pitt's Allotment For Peanuts Set At 10,000 Acres

Highest Acreage County Has Had In Past Two Years; 1,500-Acre Hike

The recent Department of Agriculture directive that peanut allotments be raised all over the nation will give Pitt the highest acreage it has had in the past two years.

This year's allotment, which is subject to final approval by the State Production and Marketing Administration, is figured at just a few acres over 10,000—an increase of about 1,500 acres over the preliminary allotment given out several weeks ago.

Due to the peanut war which was waged in the House Agriculture Committee of Congress between proponents of edible versus oil peanuts, the present county allotment was raised in accordance with the national hike granted by the House agriculture committee.

As previously allotted Pitt would have had only 7,975 acres. But after the hue and cry put up by which state grows peanuts primarily for eating purposes, the nationwide allotment was raised. And Pitt's rose accordingly.

The present 10,000-odd acres of both edible and oil stock which Pitt farmers can grow are lower by 3,000 acres than the 1948 allotment—the first year in which quotas were placed on the crop after they had been removed a few years before. Then in 1949 the allotment was decreased to 8,672 acres and then took a hike to 9,630 acres last year.

Due to the wrangling in Congress over the oil versus edible issue, farmers in the county have become confused, say PMA spokesmen, concerning how many acres of peanuts they will be allowed to plant this year. The reported confusion resulted from the way in which this year's allotment was arrived at. It is done this way:

Crowded Out

Dahlonega, Ga., April 21—(AP)—Editor Jack Parks was pressed for space in this week's issue of the Dahlonega Nugget so he ran this item on the front page: "We had planned to write a thunderous editorial this week on the firing of Gen. MacArthur, but we regret to report that news from Yahoola and Frogtown, plus other disturbances in and around Dahlonega, have crowded the General off the front page of the Nugget. If anyone is interested in our views on the MacArthur issue, they may secure same by calling on us at our office in the Nuggett Tower."

Dahlonega is a north Georgia mountain town of about 1,300 population. Yahoola and Frogtown are nearby hamlets.

Reflector Adding To News Service

First Eastern N. C. Paper With Both AP and UP News

Beginning Monday, April 30, The Daily Reflector will become the first eastern North Carolina newspaper to make available to its readers the full leased wire news services of both the Associated Press and the United Press.

The announcement was made today by D. J. Whitchard Jr., publisher of The Reflector. In addition to its Associated Press membership, The Reflector has joined the United Press and will begin the use of the UP service when the United Press opens its first teletypewriter wire circuit on the thirtieth of this month.

The use of the combined services of both the United Press and the Associated Press will give The Reflector readers the cream of the news as gathered by these two top news gathering organizations," Whitchard stated.

The United Press teletypes were installed yesterday in The Reflector newsroom and automatic teletypewriter units to complete the operation are now enroute from Chicago to Greenville by air express and are expected to be installed Monday.

MacArthur Still Has Tributes To Accept From U.S.

Rests After Huge N. Y. Ovation; Many Cities Invite General To Come

By ARTHUR EVERETT New York, April 21—(AP)—The tumult of history's greatest ovation at an end, Gen. Douglas MacArthur rested today, leaning through a stack of invitations from all over America.

There are other cities for the five-star General to conquer if he wishes—Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, to name the larger ones. But none pay him greater tribute than he got here yesterday when 7,500,000 persons sent thunderous cheers echoing to the masonry peaks of this skyscraper wonderland.

MacArthur's immediate plans were not made public. He, his wife and 13-year-old son were sequestered on the 37th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

However, he tentatively plans to visit Chicago next week. If he goes there, he has been asked to stop at suburban Naywood, Ill., where a memorial immortalizes 100 tankmen who died in the World War II defense of Bataan.

MacArthur also is committed to visiting his wife's home at Murfreesboro, Tenn. But no date for that trip has been announced. MacArthur is expected back in Washington late in the month to testify before a congressional inquiry into Far Eastern military and foreign policy.

"We shall never forget it," MacArthur said yesterday of the historic welcome paid him by New York's millions. The General emerged from the Waldorf-Astoria shortly after 11 a.m. (EST), buttoned to the neck in his familiar trenchcoat and with his famed gold-braided hat on his head.

Lifts First Dirt From Site Of DuPont Plant

Ground Breaking Officially Marks Start Of New Plant

No Ceremonies, But Small Group Attends Event Significant To All Eastern Carolina

Grifton, April 21—A spadeful of dirt was turned under three miles from here yesterday afternoon to mark officially the beginning of construction work of DuPont's new $33,000,000 Dacron plant which will be built in Lenoir county.

The honor of lifting the first dirt from the building site was delegated to Charles L. McCullers, manager of the Kinston Chamber of Commerce. There were no speeches, no ceremonies at the informal ground-breaking which began the greatest industrial construction project ever undertaken in eastern North Carolina.

While the DuPont people yesterday were busy taking care of the final preliminary details before beginning actual construction work on the new Dacron plant, crews of the Atlantic Coast line railroad were busy on the construction of two spur tracks into the construction site. "The Atlantic Coast Line is laying the tracks to make temporary rail service available to the plant until we can build our own railroad on the site," Anderson stated. "When we lay our own tracks we'll do it with our own construction crews."

The location of the Dacron plant will be on a high bluff overlooking the Grifton-Kinston highway about three and one-half miles from Grifton on a 635-acre tract of land which DuPont purchased from Henry Canady.

Anderson said construction on the Du Pont project near Grifton will begin during the coming week. (Reflector Staff Photo).

The Emotional Aspect

MacArthur's Speech To Congress, In Print, Might Have Seemed 'Corny' to Some; But Coming From The General, It Wasn't; Style Of Oratory Calls For Skill

By DEWITT MACKENZIE The global surge of favorable and adverse criticism directed at General MacArthur's speech before the joint houses of Congress has much to say about the emotional aspects of his oratory.

The address was, of course, highly emotional in places as was fully demonstrated by the reaction on his hearers. For instance, there were tears and even open sobbing in the chamber when MacArthur concluded with his "old soldiers never die; they just fade away" x x x good bye."

And there were tears among listeners on the radio as this farewell of the famous veteran came over the air. That was the effect of the spoken word as handled by a master orator.

However, some who didn't hear the speech, but have had their own opinion on the printed word, have been wondering whether these very intimate phrases were too emotional and somewhat out of the "corny" side. Well, it perhaps is true that coming from a novice such expressions might have seemed "corny"; but not when delivered by a MacArthur.

Authorities on public speaking, assaying this address, have placed MacArthur in the class of great speakers who have employed the oratorical style of the 19th century. Britain's Winston Churchill is cited as being in this classification, which is reminiscent of the days of famous speakers like William Jennings Bryan and his "cross of gold" speech.

This style of oratory depends heavily on the emotional appeal, and it calls for consummate skill if it is to be kept from becoming theatrical. Churchill is a past master of emotional speaking, as witness such famous utterances as his call to arms against Hitler in May of 1940. That was when as prime minister he told the House of Commons in impassioned tones:

"I say to this house as I said to the ministers who have joined this government, I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

That was emotionalism at its peak. Yet as handled by a master like Churchill it had the effect of an electric shock on his people. They

The Cycle Theory

Analyst Firm In Convictions The World Will Have Plenty Of 'Scares' Of All Kinds, In A Revolving Cycle; Effect On Business, Employment And Labor

By ROGER BABSON Babson Park, Mass., April 21— I continue to believe in the Cycle Theory. This means that we will have Peace Scares, War Scares and Labor Scares. But none of us may live to see another 1929-32.

The Armament Industry Heretofore the preparation for war has been a haphazard affair. We have frantically prepared for war when we saw it coming. After the war was over, we demobilized and our war preparations were stopped. Hence, each generation saw a sudden radical change from producing peace goods to producing military supplies. Then they later saw an abrupt change back again to peace goods. It may be that this "on-again off-again" process is over. The war industries business may become stable and constant like most other businesses. Let me illustrate:

We could have a constant flow of new tanks, jeeps, airplanes, bombs etc. each year, whether or not war is expected. Tanks, for instance, have a five year "life," due to obsolescence. Then each year all the tanks over five years old would be ground up for scrap.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 21—(AP)—The meek gathered with the mighty here today for the funeral of world-renowned Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Last rites for the famed bi-partisan foreign policy advocate of the Republican party brought together the man in top hat and muscled factory worker.

Trains and planes brought official delegations from the capitol at Washington.

Vandenberg's neighbors and fellow citizens—the oldest of whom knew him as the harness maker's son—joined in a huge and solemn tribute.

Funeral services were set for 3 p.m. (EST) at the P.A.K. Congregational Church.

or else sold to foreign countries in exchange for much needed raw materials. This would always give us a supply of the latest modern tanks, the same as we now have improved automobiles, washing machines and radios each year.

Effect Upon Business And Employment This program could be a great stabilizer for business, employment and investments. It would provide an incentive to colleges to train personnel to run war industries. It would assure permanent jobs for those now in such war industries. The entire present picture would change. Instead of the war industry being wastefully prosperous at one time, and then dead at other times, it would always be normally prosperous. Each year we would use new blue prints and old war materials to make a new stock of tanks, guns, jeeps, planes, jeeps, planes, bombs, etc. Then, at the end of five years, we would break these up for scrap; after which new ones would be built according to new models. After five

TRACKS ON THE RIVER

There was a day when the railroad ended at the river. Cars were unloaded, freight was transferred to the river boats. Then across stream, cars were reloaded and the railroad continued its trek to the next river.

But man discovered how to lay tracks on the river. With the coming of the train barge, freight stayed on the rails and was guided across the river.

In everyday life there are countless obstacles which seem to defy human ingenuity. A man is tempted to abandon the "tracks" he has followed, believing he cannot go on.

But usually the solution to these problems is just as simple as "laying tracks on the river." Stay on the rails and be guided across.

The Church will help you live by Christian principles. And in the face of a crisis, be true to those principles and depend on the guidance of God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Senior Scouts Visit Magnolia Gardens

Friday, April 13 was a very lucky day for the Senior Girl Scouts of Troop 12, for on that day their dream of two years came true—a trip to Charleston, especially to visit the famous Magnolia, Middleton, and Cypress Gardens.

On their way home they stopped at Brookgreen Garden where they saw many interesting statues.

The Senior Scouts had a wonderful time on this trip. They strongly advise other troops to plan similar tours. Their only regret was that their stay was too short.

On Saturday morning they visited the Magnolia and Middleton Gardens. The entrance to the Magnolia Garden was lined with magnolia trees and all kinds of beautiful flowers.

On Saturday afternoon they visited the Charleston Museum, which is the oldest museum in the U.S. Here they found many interesting things, such as an Egyptian mummy and life sized camels and buffaloes.

Before leaving Sunday morning, the group entered many old churches, including Saint Phillips and Saint Michaels. The bells of Saint Michaels have crossed the Atlantic Ocean five times. They saw many more places of historic interest and also visited The Citadel, a military school.

ous, the matter of settling on a constructive foreign policy may become lost from view. Such a development would be catastrophic for the United States.

In this period of our history, the government of the United States needs from both the Democratic and Republican parties good, sound, unified leadership from men who can put their politics in the background and set their minds sincerely to the task of mapping for the nation a positive foreign policy which is in keeping with our concepts of government and our way of life.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international politics and personalities. Questions should be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 21.—There are certain actions and attitudes of General Eisenhower which A. J. Ghent, Minn., "which, in my opinion, may make him unavailable as a Republican candidate for President. . . . In selecting a candidate for our party next year, we should steer clear of any more 'me, too' men, and of advocates of a world W.P.A. or of anybody who had any connection with the Roosevelt-Truman policies. What do you think?"

ATTITUDE—Answer: As I recently noted in my column, I think that one of the most important political results of the Truman-MacArthur clash is that it definitely removes General Eisenhower as a Republican presidential possibility for next year. By accepting his present assignment, which it would have been difficult for him to decline, he has identified himself with an anti-MacArthur program which the G.O.P. has virtually repudiated. This is not a personal conclusion on my part. I have discussed the MacArthur-Eisenhower-Truman question with most of the leading Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Their attitude now is that, if Truman wants him, he can have him, because we don't. They are quite confident that they can defeat a Democratic ticket headed by General Eisenhower, with a slate topped by a man like Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

COUNTERATTACK—In quizzing these Republican leaders, I also asked them about President Truman's obvious strategy of trying to portray the G.O.P. as a "war party."

This is based, as I also wrote a few days ago, on the theory that General MacArthur's program might provoke World War III, while the Truman-Eisenhower policies are designed to stave it off.

The Republicans' counterattack, for whatever it may be worth politically, is that the Democrats were in power when both world wars and the "police action" in Korea began.

DESIGNED—"If we could raise the Iron Curtain that surrounds Russia and its satellite countries," asks M.P. of Atlantic City, N.J., "wouldn't Stalin soon lose his grip on the Russian people? Wouldn't the living conditions in even the poorest countries on the outside make the Russians realize how hard their condition is under a Communist form of government?"

Answer: The very existence of the Iron Curtain is the answer to M.P.'s question. While it is designed to prevent us from knowing what goes on behind the drop, its primary purpose is to keep the Muscovites from knowing how the other half of the world lives. Although rebellion in a police state, with tanks and planes and machine guns in command of the government, is almost impossible, Stalin's subjects would be extremely dissatisfied if they had any conception of our way of life.

PRISONER—Living conditions in Russia are unbelievably bad, from merely the physical standpoint. There is such a housing shortage that families have no comforts or privacy, even in such a city as Moscow. Food is scarce and dear. A Russian cannot travel more than a few miles from his home, save on state-sponsored excursions, without a police permit.

He must work where and when and how the government dictates. He cannot change his job, and strikes are out of the question. He may be imprisoned, executed or killed for his thoughts alone, should he talk in his sleep. He is, as the Communies' international hymn has it, a "prisoner of starvation."

He may suspect the poverty of his state, both physical and spiritual. But so long as Stalin can interpose the Iron Curtain between his people and the outside world, meanwhile insisting that we are being ground into serfdom by "capitalistic masters," the 200,000,000 Russians do not realize the nature of their fools' paradise.

SPY—W.S. of St. Louis chides me gently because, in a recent column, I set forth in general terms the Anglo-American program for building up an anti-Russian defense organization, and the somewhat battered plan of ringing the Communist Empire with military strong points extending around the world.

"What I cannot understand," he says, "is the purpose of telling all these things, when all Russia has to do is to make a copy of your column and play her hand accordingly. Aren't the press, the columnists and commentators generally relieving Russia of the necessity of having a spy system over here?"

TALK—Answer: I did not reveal any deep, inside stuff. I simply brought together in a single package the program which President Truman, Secretary Acheson and General Marshall have, in their separate speeches and statements, outlined for the world to know.

It is a fact, however, that we Americans talk—and write—too much for our own good in this topsy-turvy universe. But that happens to be one of the penalties—and blessings—of our democratic system.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JP

Just about everybody would like to invent a new gadget, sell it to a manufacturer, and live happily ever after on the royalties. There are at least three inventors in Greenville who stand a chance of doing just that. Jim Craft of Allen Implement Company has patents on two farm implements, a stalk cutter and a tobacco transplanter; Jimmy Rouse of the Rouse Radiator Shop has patented a radiator repair tool; and Shorty of Wagner-Waldrop Motors has a new type of automotive oil filter.

The process of obtaining a patent is easier than you might think. The first step is to go to Washington, D.C. and hire a patent attorney. This lawyer will search the records in the patent office to see if there is any previous patent on your invention. If you know the way around the patent office, you can reduce the attorney's fee by searching the records yourself. If your search reveals that there is no previous patent on your invention, the cost is clear for a patent. A blueprint then has to be made of the invention, and papers have to be drawn up. The cost of a patent? That depends on how complicated the invention is and how much drawing is required. Probably $200 would be a minimum cost, and $300 to $400 would probably be average. After you have your ducks in a row, the simple thing is to sell your invention to a manufacturer for a nice sum, with the agreement that you will be paid a royalty of a certain amount of the cost of every one manufactured. Jim Craft is dickering with manufacturers, but while the dickering is in progress the farmers who have seen his inventions are clamoring to get him to manufacture it in time for them to use the item on the current tobacco crop.

The field is wide open for new items, and the amazing thing is that almost every new invention is something very simple. Yesterday George Twining, a representative of a manufacturer of welding equipment, told me about a man who lives near Portsmouth, Va., who has invented an automatic weiner skinner. Weiners are actually skinned. They are manufactured by "shooting" meat into a paper container the size that the weiner will be. Then the paper is twisted at the intervals to divide the continuous line of weiners. The job of removing this paper after the weiners have been cured had to be done by hand. A great part of the cost of a weiner was the labor in getting that paper off. However, now a man has invented an automatic weiner skinner that peels the paper off without hurting the weiner. If this invention goes into immediate production, the price of weiners should go down.

And I thank you.

CANDIDATES—There was less talk about candidates for major candidates for state office during final hours of the 1951 general assembly than had been in similar situations for many years before. For two decades at least one or more candidates for governor had emerged out of the legislative personnel. This time not a cheep was heard. There was obvious development with respect to speakership of the next house of representatives, although that was less overt than in previous sessions.

SPEAKERSHIP—Eugene T. Bost, Jr., of Cabarrus looms as the leading candidate for speaker of the next house. Having served in eight regular and two special sessions, Bost is one of the veteran members of the legislature. He has been chairman of important committees in every session since his first, winding up this time as head of the powerful house finance committee. Several times before he could have been a serious contender for speaker but he has opted for other more ambitious members. Classed as a conservative, but not a reactionary, he is now rated best prospect for speaker. If he should decide not to make the race, second choice among the conservative element is Robert Lassiter, Jr., of Mecklenburg, a second-termer this time who has demonstrated qualities of leadership. Most likely candidate of the so-called "liberal" forces is Roy Taylor of Buncombe. Taylor's chances for election are hampered by reason of the fact he is undecided about whether to seek re-election to the legislature or make a try for nomination as congressman from the twelfth district to fill the position which Monroe Redden says he will not seek again. The speakership situation is that if neither Bost nor Lassiter desires the post the conservatives have several alternates; if Taylor does not run the liberals will be hard pressed for an acceptable candidate. Thomas Turner of Guilford might be a compromise. Betting odds are around the sidelines now favor Bost to win.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR—Roy Rowe of Pender and J. C. Pittman of Lee, both former legislators, spent a good deal of time around the capitol and hotel lobbies actively campaigning for lieutenant governor, although neither has formally announced intention to run. Others suggested for the post include Senator John D. Larkins of Jones, Rep. Larry I. Moore of Wilson and J. Vivian Whitfield of Pender. All of these except Whitfield are definitely classed as conservatives. Predominance of conservative sentiment among suggested candidates for presiding offices in the next senate and house shows the strong tendency toward the right among legislators and capitol visitors.

GOVERNOR—For the first time in many years a mid-term legislature failed to produce a single candidate for governor. In fact, there wasn't much talk about the highest office except in very general terms. It has not been a meeting at the Sir Walter Hotel last month. State Treasurer Brandon P. Hodges of Asheville also gained tentative support.

and in 1927 it was accepted as positive that Gardner would have no opposition in 1928, having conducted himself since his 1920 defeat. T. Fountain was a sure bet as a 1932 candidate. It was equally certain in 1935 that Lt. Gov. Sandy Graham would seek the top place the next year. Again in 1939 Lt. Gov. Wilkins P. Horton was an avowed candidate for the 1940 race. The 1943 session produced evidence that Senator Gregg Cherry, who had previously been speaker of the house, would be 1944 contender and Lt. Gov. E. L. Harris was a definite prospect. During the 1947 session there wasn't much doubt that State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson had the 1948 nomination clinched. Political historians know the score in each of these races. Legislative nominations were not ratified by the people except in 1928, and to partial extent in 1944. Maybe that is why potential candidates asked friends to soft-pedal comment about them during the recent legislature.

TALKED—That doesn't mean legislators and visitors did not talk a good deal about prospective candidates for governor. Most often mentioned was William B. Umstead of Durham, former congressman, U. S. Senator and state Democratic chairman. Umstead was a rare visitor having been seen around the capitol only two or three times during the entire session. He did receive an ovation at the fifth district dinner meeting at the Sir Walter Hotel last month. State Treasurer Brandon P. Hodges of Asheville also gained tentative support.

How About Some Affirmative Emotion?
 (Hertford County Herald)

If there is such a thing in the psychological lexicon as "affirmative emotion," we are suggesting that it is time for a great many of us to use some of it. All these outbursts of talking and wild flag waving which follow in the wake of the firing of General Douglas MacArthur leave us a little cold, especially when we consider the plight of the men who are doing the Korean fighting and the responsibility that rests upon the man who has succeeded MacArthur.

Couldn't we reserve some of our emotions for the fighting men and their Supreme Commander, Matthew B. Ridgway? After all, they are the ones to whom we are beholden now for the carrying out of the intentions and the plans of our regularly constituted government. In our orgy of emotionalism we seem to have lost sight of the thing for which we are striving—the containment of communism, within the area it operated before South Korea was invaded. The battlefront men and boys, and their Supreme Commander, Ridgway, are trying to do that job for us, while we abuse and cuss, and sometimes make monkeys out of ourselves waving our little emotional flags. Let there be debate over our foreign policy, sure. Also, let there be a succession of hero's welcomes for General MacArthur for the things he has done to help contain communism in its place. Let us use our right of free speech, free press, free radio, free television, and all our other constitutional freedoms when we get ready and as freely as we care to. But, for goodness sake, let's not spend all our energies doing these things. Let's save some of it for the bigger job of standing squarely back of those who are still over there on the firing line.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
 Some of the basic theories of the Office of Price Stabilization will be challenged before Congress by retailers. They will center their fire on what they call "cost absorption" philosophies of the DSA's organization.

The entire matter of wage and price controls is being reopened. The Defense Production Act, which grants the Administration power to impose controls, expires on June 30. Washington observers expect that the act will be extended. But retailers—no less than labor, farmers and other groups—will present a vigorous case for severe amendments.

Dry-goods and furniture retailers feel they have been discriminated against. The food industry has been granted specific mark-ups. Other retailers say that controls governing their trades tend to shrink their margins progressively. One regulation, CFR 7, rule 4, provides that when a new item is stocked it must be priced at the mark-up of the next lowest item in the same category, or the category average, whichever is lower. This will tend to reduce average margins. The National Retail Furniture Association calculates this rule will cut profits of the home furnishing industry by 45 per cent.

Another, the floor covering order, provides that manufacturers may increase prices 15 per cent and that retailers may pass along only the dollars and cents amount of the increase. This will reduce retail percentage mark-ups by 3.3 per cent.

This is especially worrisome to all retailers because they believe this type of order will become common in all except food fields. If it does, it will tend to reduce percentage margins constantly. It will be particularly painful when retailers pay salesmen on commission basis. Salesmen will get increased commissions on passed-through increases and, since mark-ups won't rise, the added commission will have to come out of the retailers' profits. This type of control may actually be illegal. Section 402 (g) of the DPA forbids the use of pricing power in such a way as to "compel changes in the business practices, cost practices, or methods, or means, or aids to distribution established in any industry, except where necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of control." Arbitrary reduction in a percentage margin appears to be a pretty definite change in business practices.

THERE'S A MACARTHUR BOOM IN BUSINESS
 "Are you on MacArthur's side?" demanded the Old Promoter as he walked into this office. He was not wearing a Truman button.

"This," he said firmly, "is the business, not political, department."

"Well," said the O.P., "look what MacArthur is doing for business. Pipe stores tell me they can't stock enough MacArthur corn-cobs. There's a MacArthur toby jug on the market. Manufacturers have been rushing supplying MacArthur buttons and banners. On top of that, he's helped sell thousands of television sets. And in his civilian job, he'll probably help sell thousands of business machines. He's creating millions of dollars in unexpected sales."

"I tell you, son, MacArthur has been one of the greatest things for business since Mother's Day was invented."

"Hm," we said, "but business will have to give Harry S. an assist on that, won't it?"

The Old Promoter did not deign to reply. He helped himself to a cigar and marched out of the office.

Hal Boyle's Column

New York, April 21.—(AP)—The firing of General Douglas MacArthur has had one unusual impact on the American economy. It has made it harder for a man to make a living impersonating Harry S. Truman.

This is on the word of Irving Fisher, 66, probably the President's most successful stage doer. For more than five years Fisher, a veteran actor, has kept the wolf from his door by portraying Truman in Broadway shows and at club and convention entertainments.

But the MacArthur episode—a big political headache to the President—is a bigger pain in the pocketbook to his double.

"This whole fuss is murdering me," complained Fisher. His chief beef: since the dismissal of General MacArthur no organization any longer seems to want to pay money to see him give his funny imitations of Truman.

Fisher currently portrays the President in a brief walk-on finale in "Call Me Madam," a musical starring Ethel Merman as a lady diplomat. Ordinarily he also averages about eight outside clubs a month in the same role.

"But every outside job I had has disappeared," Fisher lamented. "Every booking I had clear up to next June has been cancelled in the last few days. What has happened to the country's sense of humor anyway?"

The fact he himself is a life-long Republican makes the situation only more ironic to him. If a Republican no longer can earn a living by imitating a Democrat, how confused can the times get? What can a man count on?

"My family have been Republicans for generations," he noted. "Why, my grandfather Fisher used to live near Woodstock, in Illinois."

"I guess it just goes to show that there really is no business quite like show business."

And another thing. The audience used to break out in surprised applause when he strode out on the stage, smiling and gesturing like President Truman.

"Now," said Fisher, "the ladies hiss me. You know, ladies—sissssssssss. And the men? don't hiss—they hiss. Like this A lot of them boo me."

When he walked along Broadway, many strangers—startled at his strong facial resemblance to the President—used to smile and give him a friendly, "Hi, Harry!" no so much today.

"They shout, 'Why did you fire Mac?' And they demand, 'What are you guys trying to do down in Washington anyway?'"

"I can't understand it," said Fisher. "The things they say—why, you'd think I really was Harry."

The actor has impersonated the President so long he always calls him by his first name. He first casually imitated Truman in a circus Saints and Sinners Show more than five years ago.

"Nobody ever even had mentioned before that I look like him," he recalled. "But that's all I've been doing in the theater ever since."

Incidentally, impersonating Harry S. Truman has grown into a small but steady industry.

"I know at least three or four other men who look more like him," Fisher said modestly. "But I have the ability to make myself look like him."

jaunty walk," said Fisher. "He has got something of a bigger stomach than I have. So I just stuck out my stomach and walk semi-stiff-legged. That's Harry."

Fisher sighed again and said wistfully:

"That's a good way to be. But right now Harry has knocked the props out from under me."

He feels everything will be all right again when the MacArthur controversy dies down. But he wishes his fellow Republicans would quit talking about impeaching Harry Truman.

"What are they trying to do—ruin my business entirely?" he said. "You can't make a career out of impersonating an unemployed president."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADN

Washington—Four presidents distinguish the family tree of Republican Congressman William Henry Harrison and his wife, who came here from their "Circle H" Ranch near Sheridan, Wyo., in November.

The cattle-raising congressman is the grandson of the nation's 23rd president and great-great-grandson of its ninth. Mrs. Harrison, the former Mary E. Newton of Omaha, Neb., is a descendant of John Adams, the second president, and of John Quincy Adams, the sixth.

Rep. Harrison came to the capital with his own brand of ties—"branded" ties, that is. Daughter Maribeth, now Mrs. Walter Brewer, Jr., who lives on the Banner Ranch, adjoining her dad's, "branded" the ties with a hand block process. The ties themselves are hand woven by Indians in the area.

The artistic Maribeth also makes ties for her father's friends. Mrs. Harrison tells me they bear the five different cattle brands registered in his name. The "Circle H" is an "E" with the lower horizontal part extended and crossed like a "T". The 61 Bar is an underlined 61. The Diamond "M" is extended into a small diamond at the top.

Mr. Harrison was a practicing attorney in Sheridan and served three terms in the Wyoming state legislature. He moved to the west in the early 30's from Indianapolis, where he also had law practice. At first they owned and operated the "IXL" dude ranch at Dayton—"originally owned by a captain in the British Ninth Lancers, who came by it through Mr. Harrison's grandfather's Homestead Act," Mrs. Harrison explained.

Mrs. Harrison was attending the University of Nebraska when he met Mrs. Harrison, also a student. They were married in 1920. In addition to Maribeth, they have a son, William Henry Harrison, Jr., who is married and lives in Sheridan. He is in the frozen food business. There are seven grandchildren, but there's no housing problem with a couple of ranches to play around in.

The Harrisons are enjoying life in the capital—even the cocktail parties.

"It's a change from the ranch anyway, and it keeps me busy," Mrs. Harrison said. "Back home I did a lot of riding and getting out in the open. Here I go to congressional hearings on the Hill, sightseeing—and of course the parties."

The preponderance of the Americans over the Spaniards both here and at Manila was not due to the lack of courage of the Spaniards, but to the fact that most of their equipment both in ships and arms was antiquated while the Americans were much larger and better trained. The gunnery of the Spaniards was notoriously bad.
In July a truce was arranged by which 23,000 men surrendered and the Americans agreed to convey the whole body of Spanish troops back to Spain. The treaty ceded Porto Rico, Guam, the Ladrone Islands, and the Philippines to the United States upon the payment of $20,000,000. Cuba was also to come under the supervision of the United States till it could form a government of its own.

Jimmy Byrd Pitches East Carolina To Win Over Elon

Bucs Blank Powerful Elon, 8-0

Freshman Pitcher Jimmy Byrd hurled the East Carolina Pirates to an 8-0 shutout victory over the visiting Elon powerhouse yesterday afternoon in the College Stadium, marking the first time in three years that East Carolina has won over the Elon nine.

Byrd, a former Kinston High School star performer, in turning in his neat three-hitter, did not allow a single man to reach second base, with only five of the Christians ever reaching first base. Reid, Desimone and Riley collected singles in the first, fifth and ninth innings, respectively. Only two Elon batsmen were walked in the entire game.

East Carolina scored three runs in the first frame when Soles reached first on the shortstop's error and then stole second, scoring on an error by Reid of Elon who dropped Co-Captain Jack Wallace's long fly ball.

Richard Hoskins, with a double and two singles, and George McSwain, with two singles, paced the Pirates to victory at the plate with their hitting attack.

The loss yesterday handed the Elon squad, who were currently resting in undisputed position of first place in the North State Conference, was the first suffered by the team in seven starts. The loss dropped them into second place, behind Catawba, which is unbeaten in four conference tilts so far this season.

The win yesterday brings the Pirates record for the season to 4-3 in conference play.

Boston Puzzled By Another Poor Show By Favored Sox

By RALPH RODEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Who stole the Fenway Park left field wall or what's the matter with the Boston Red Sox?

That's the puzzle for the good citizens of Boston.

The Sox, perennial pre-season favorites to walk to the American League pennant, are in a deep freeze.

Steve O'Neill's men entered the season with 11 straight exhibition victories and their long suffering followers licked chops, anticipating a terrific start. But alas, the Sox still are wallowing in the dust, looking for victory No. 1.

They began by dropping two games to the world champion Yankees in New York, scoring only once in the process.

Yesterday they opened their home season and it appeared that their spiked guns would smoke and belch as of old. Victory seemed a lead pipe cinch.

The factors that pointed to a sure-fire Red Sox victory were:

1. The Sox were back on their home lot with that chummy left field wall, a haven for their awesome right handed hitters.

2. They were to meet the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's, dead last in 1950, had lost 22 straight games at Fenway Park, not winning in Boston since Sept. 12, 1948.

3. Alex Kellner, a 20-game loser in 1950 and a lefthander to boot, was to pitch for the A's. A lefthander goes the route and beats the Sox in Boston only once in a blue moon. Hal Newhouser of Detroit and Gene Bearden of Washington were the only ones to perform that feat last year.

4. Mel Parnell was to pitch for Boston. Marvellous Mel had racked up the A's 10 straight times. But Kellner stunned a crowd of 11,461 fans by turning back the star-studded Sox, 6-3, permitting only four hits along the way.

Kermit Wahl broke up the game in the eighth inning. Wahl belted a two-out two-run double and scored the clincher when the usually reliable Dom DiMaggio dropped Joe Tipton's liner.

The Yanks ran into a snag in Washington, dropping a day-night doubleheader to the Washington Senators, 5-3, and 8-4.

Sandoia Consuegra yielded four hits in the day game in outlasting five Yankee pitchers who granted only two hits. Thirteen bases on balls ruined the Yanks. A crowd of 27,331 fans including President Truman turned out as Washington belatedly opened its season.

Lefly Al Sima scattered 10 hits in the night game which attracted 15,553 customers. Mickey Vernon batted in four runs on a triple, double and two singles to spoil the debut of rookie Tom Morgan, the Yanks' spring training flash.

More Than 150 Golfing Entries Expected For Southern Seniors

First Rounds Of Play Open On Local Links; Two-Day Session To Be Climaxed On Sunday Afternoon

More than 150 golfers from all over North Carolina begin filing into the Greenville County Golf grounds today as the first rounds of play in the Southern Seniors Golf Association opened at the local links.

This marks the second time in two years that the event has been held on the local green.

The senior golf match is open only to those golfers who have reached their 40th birthday.

The two-day session will be the first time that a two-day tournament has been run off on a nine-hole course.

Climax of the event will come on Sunday afternoon when prizes and awards in the various classes will be presented at the completion of the matches.

Prizes valued at over $500 will be presented to the winners in the different groups.

The Southern Senior's Golf Association consists of 17 states with a membership of over 500.

Last year the local club was host to the association and it is hoped that the event will be held here annually.

Ayden Wraps Up 7 To 3 Win Over S. Edgecomb

Gavilan Wins His 'Warm Up' Bout

New York, April 21—(AP)—Cuban Kid Gavilan is ready to begin training for his May 18 welter title bout with Johnny Bratton after a warmup win over cage Aldo Minelli.

Maybe "warmup" isn't the word the Gavilan's 10-rounder with the 31-year-old Italian last night at St. Nicholas Arena. The crowd of 2,582 that paid $5.825 hooted the unanimous decision for the 3.5 to 1 favorite.

Minelli bothered the Slek Keed with his unorthodox style. Bounding at long range and then swarming inside to clutch after looping a long counter right was the Minelli system. Gavilan didn't exactly sparkle.

The Cuban is favored to whip Bratton, the NBA-recognized successor to Sugar Ray Robinson. New York will crown the winner, provided he agrees to meet Billy Graham.

The winners, coached by Stuart Tripp, won the contest in the first inning. Randall Harrington led off the bottom of the stanza with a single. Successive walks to Ted Kittrell and Willis Harrington loaded the bases. Another gratis pass to David Manning forced the initial run in for the Tornados. A single by Darrell Worthington plated Kittrell. The third marker came across with W. Manning, scoring on a passed ball.

Two walks, a single, a fielder's choice and three errors produced a trio of runs in the fifth. The final score came on a home run by third baseman Harrington in the sixth.

It was the first Ayden homer of the season.

Teedy Bullock and Darrell Worthington combined to pitch the win. Bullock started, but had to be relieved in the second when he developed arm trouble. Worthington came in to gain credit for his second conference win.

In pitching the victory, Worthington struck out five men. He issued a like number of free passes. Only three of the losers obtained hits off the slants of the ace mound star. He aided his winning cause by reaching base safely three times on base hits.

Bullock struck out one and walked two in his brief tenure of the hill. He was reached for two singles.

South Edgecombe rallied in the final period when they reached Worthington for two singles and two walks for a pair of runs. An error by Harrington and a wild pitch aided them also.

The South Edgecombe pitcher, Doug Eason, struck out four and walked six. Ayden connected for only seven safeties on his offerings.

Ayden will play in Vanceboro Tuesday in another conference tilt. The Farm Life boys, who have not won a conference game, were defeated in their previous contest, 14-6.

Manley, Patton Meet In Finale Of North-South

Pinehurst, N. C., April 21—(AP)—Two young lumber men who can really put the wood to a golf ball—Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., and Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C.—met today for the first North and South Amateur championship.

Their 36-hole duel over the 6,900-yard par 72 No. 2 championship course of the Pinehurst Country Club was set up by semi-final contests yesterday in which they ganged up on the last remaining Walker Cup team representatives.

Manley, 24-year-old long knocker who is in the lumber business with his father, put out Cup team regular Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, 3 and 1, in 36-holes.

Dependable Dodger

Going along with Cox means that the Dodgers will not be improved in the hot corner as they had hoped to be.

Morgan came up from Montreal with a reputation as a hitter. He started out well last spring but failed to hold up. This year he has been a great disappointment. His failure to hit brought to light many batting faults which he had picked up since his Montreal days.

The Dodgers would like to go along with Morgan in hopes that he might regain his punch at the plate. For the present, it looks as though Billy Cox would be doing business at the hot corner as usual.

Robinson indicates some umpires out to get him

Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's star second baseman, thinks certain National League umpires are "out to get me."

Robinson, involved in a squabble with umpires Babe Pinelli and Dusty Boggess at Ebbets Field Wednesday, spoke his piece last night.

"I'm not blind to the fact that certain umpires are out to get me," he said. "Anything I do, they'll give me the worst of the breaks." I know what I'm up against.

Jackie did not mention names. "I'm doing my best to stay out of trouble," said Robinson. "I promised Chuck Dressen (Brooklyn Manager) and my wife. But you know how much I want to win."

"Dressen talked to me several times, asking me to stay out of arguments. I know it doesn't do me any good to get mixed up in them. And I'm doing my best to stay out."

Robinson's difficulty in Brooklyn followed a called third strike by Boggess. Jackie threw his bat down angrily and ran to his position. He admits he yelled something at Boggess after he reached his post.

Then he says Pinelli took up the argument and jawed him for yelling at Boggess.

"I didn't think Boggess even heard me," he said. "I didn't have any wrangle with him at the plate. But I wouldn't blame him if he came out after I hollered. But it was Pinelli who took it up."

Chilled Handful Of Fans See Errors Aplenty In Pre-Season Exhibition; Two Big Frames Provide Kinston With One-Sided Score

By ROY HARDEE

The Kinston Eagles exploded in two big innings last night to set back the Greenville Robins 16-5 in the second exhibition game of the season for the local club, played before a chilled handful of fans.

Twelve Kinston batters came to the plate in the top of the third inning when the Eagles scored seven runs on four hits, two errors and a passed ball. Hepler opened the scoring parade by lining a single over the second base position, advancing on an error committed by the shortstop, scoring when Sawyer singled. Two errors, walks and some well-placed hits accounted for the other six runs.

The Robins tried vainly to get back into the ball game in the bottom of the third when Kinston's Sam McLawhorn loaded the bases as he walked the first three men in the inning. An error on the catcher allowed Hayes to score, but there the scoring attack bogged down and the side was retired with only one run coming across the plate.

The Eagles sent one run across in the fourth and then reached the offerings of starting pitcher Bobby Harrison for five extra runs in the fifth on five walks and two errors. Throughout the ball game, errors on the part of the Robins kept the team constantly in hot water.

In the sixth the Robins were able to collect three runs to round out their scoring on three walks, one hit and two errors. Mauney, the second man to come to bat in the inning, singled, with Guidice gaining a free pass to first, and Manager John Stresa, getting on by an error, with Mauney, Guidice and Stresa scoring later on two walks as the Greenville batters went all the way around.

Harrison was relieved in the sixth inning by Rossman who finished the game.

Upside Down Win In Texas Relays

Austin, Texas—(AP)—It happened in the Texas relays. Notre Dame won first and second in a relay race—but not for long. An upside down number was responsible.

An Oklahoma runner had the number 191 but put it on upside down so that it read 161—which was the number of a Notre Dame man.

The Oklahoma runner came in first but the judges thought he was from Notre Dame. The Fighting Irish had actually taken second place.

No team can win first and second place with only one team in the race. And so, after much confusion, the situation was corrected.

Wanted, And Got Chariot Racing

New York—(AP)—The famous football classic, The Rose Bowl, was established at Pasadena, Jan. 1, 1916. Omnibook magazine in a recent issue, however, reveals that the first Tournament of Roses football game was actually played in 1902. The promoters of that festival scheduled football in place of chariot races which had been standard entertainment at the New Year's Day show. But the sports fans at that time, didn't want football. They demanded—and got—chariot racing back on the agenda for the following year.

Manley, Patton Meet In Finale Of North-South

Pinehurst, N. C., April 21—(AP)—Two young lumber men who can really put the wood to a golf ball—Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., and Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C.—met today for the first North and South Amateur championship.

Their 36-hole duel over the 6,900-yard par 72 No. 2 championship course of the Pinehurst Country Club was set up by semi-final contests yesterday in which they ganged up on the last remaining Walker Cup team representatives.

Manley, 24-year-old long knocker who is in the lumber business with his father, put out Cup team regular Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, 3 and 1, in 36-holes.

Patton, a 29-year-old lumber dealer, ousted colorful Bill (Dynamite) Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga., 3 and 2, also in 36 holes. Goodloe is an alternate on the cup squad.

Manley has never played here before. Patton is making his second appearance after going to the third round a year ago.

Manley had the sharpest game yesterday, shooting two over par golf for 35 holes to Chapman's five over. They were all even at lunch time after Manley won Nos. 16 and 17.

Patton was seven over for 34 holes, Goodloe 11 over. Patton, never behind, was two up after 18 holes.

Chapman, never a winner here in many years of trying, looked like he might make the grade early in the match with Manley. The 40-year-old former National Champion had 13 fours on the first 14 holes. He halved seven of the first holes No. 8 with a birdie and lost No. 3 to a birdie, to turn all square.

Chapman won 10 and 11 with fours and halved the next four to be two up with three to go just before lunch time. Then came Manley's big break. Chapman, who had been putting beautifully, missed a 30-incher on 16 to lose it to Manley's birdie four and then he was trapped on 17 to lose it and square the match. They halved the 18th.

Manley was quick to jump into the lead in the afternoon. After the opening hole of the round was halved, he won three straight, two with birdies, and never lost the lead, although Chapman won the next two to cut it to one up. Manley quickly went back to three by taking two himself. Chapman won No. 27 to turn two down. He made his last bid by adding the 28th and trailed by only one hole.

Manley applied the crusher by grabbing the next three. Chapman stayed alive by winning two of the next three and halving the other, but the same short 17th that proved his undoing in the morning again hurt him. Both were trapped, but Manley came out nicely and Chapman left himself a long putt which he couldn't sink.

Patton scrambled like a demon against Goodloe. He was all over the golf course, in the woods, in traps and in the rough, but, in his credit, in the hole sooner than the cigar-smoking round man.

This assertion was made yesterday by Col. W. F. Powers before the annual meeting of the Roanoke River Flood Control Committee.

Col. Powers said power from the dam will be available in June, 1953. The dam itself will be completed next September, and the Canadian flue-cured tobacco production was down in 1950 because of a decrease in yield per acre. Reservoir will begin to fill in March, 1952, he added.

Grifton Mayor Addresses Club

Roger Johnson, mayor of Grifton and commissioner of Pitt County's Federal Housing Authority, spoke briefly to members of the Exchange Club last night concerning recent developments of the DuPont fabric plant which is under construction now near Grifton.

Johnson stated the ground was broken yesterday for beginning construction on the multi-million dollar plant which will manufacture the fabric trade-marked as Dacron. One well has already been dug on the land and work has been started on the administration building, he said.

He described Dacron as a synthetic fabric which has many of the qualities of wool and can be washed without pressing. The plant will employ four shifts of workers and will be in continuous production.

The club held a short business meeting prior to Johnson's talk. President Sweeney Moye presided.

Entrance to the store was gained by using an iron bar and screwdriver to prize off the lock on the door.

Conley Speaks To Ayden Lions

D. H. Conley, Superintendent of the Pitt County Schools, spoke to the Ayden Lion's Club last night on the educational program in the county and the ways and means of solving the problems.

Conley stated one of the greatest problems was the inability of a large number of students to read well, but he said improvement was noticeable after working on this problem during the past five years. He explained why reading was so important to every citizen.

Then the speaker discussed the child's welfare program, explaining how insurance coverage, lunch rooms, and medical facilities were solving another problem.

Conley praised the Ayden Lion's club for the support they were giving the school system in their community. "With wisdom and collective ingenuity of our people we can solve our problems and continue our progress in the educational facilities for our children," he commented further.

Guests of the club were George Wilkerson, club chairman; and Larry Averette, president of the Greenville club. President Mark Dixon presided.

arged to the defense of their country. And this sensational appeal also swept through allied nations and spurred them to greater efforts. I have seen Churchill in action many times, especially in the House of Commons, going back as far as 1916 when he was more or less a "lone wolf" politically in Parliament. There never has been a time when opponents haven't been afraid of Churchill's uncanny skill with words and his ability to arouse emotions.

MacArthur has the knack of emotional appeal. He used it in his address before Congress.

There are some who maintain that such emotionalism has no place in public life. They insist that we should be guided by cold logic.

At first blush that sounds like an irrefutable argument. Still, while broadly speaking it is true, I think emotionalism has its place. Many of the finest acts of mankind are due to the emotional appeal.

And so, unless we are to be ruled solely by our heads and never by our hearts, I think we must concede MacArthur the right to resort to some emotional appeal in making his historic defense of his stewardship in the Far East.

more years these new models would become obsolete and be reconverted into raw materials, and so on indefinitely.

This prohibitive program is something for every investor to consider. Inside of the steel industry, this program could make it fairly stable. It could stabilize railroad stocks, which otherwise will have a big slump when peace comes again. Under this Cycle Theory a railroad, operating between Detroit and Pittsburgh, would have constant loads—hauling the steel to Detroit, then hauling the scrap

Law of Action and Reaction

Such a long era of prosperity would not upset Sir Isaac Newton's Law of Action and Reaction, upon which the famous Babson chart is based. This great Law simply means that for an area of abnormal prosperity, there must be a corresponding area of abnormal depression. If all obsolete machinery when fully depreciated is "ground up" for reconversion, there need be neither abnormal booms nor abnormal panics—except from accident or speculation. This is one reason why I advise careers in Accounting.
