Build Entrance To Camp Site

Gateways as well as tents and nature exhibits were a big part of the show at the Boy Scout camporee this week-end. Above, members of the Buffalo Patrol of troop 36 of Greenville work on a small bridge which marked the entrance to their camp site. The bridge was flanked by two 20-foot flagpoles. Greenville Scouts Set Up Camp

Activity hummed yesterday afternoon and evening as some 2,000 Boy Scouts from Eastern North Carolina set up camp at Wilson for their annual camporee. WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Defense Production Administration (DPA) has reapproved a $7,800,000 loan which congressional investigators said would make multi-millionaires of three men who originally put only $600 into a proposed steel plant, it was learned today.

An 8th Army communique said tonight that UN forces on the Western Front "continued to adjust their positions" — a phrase frequently used to describe a withdrawal — throughout the day.

DPA reviewed the loan for the Hazleton, Pa., Steel and Tubing Co. after a house executive expenditures subcommittee revealed that the Reconstruction Finance Corp. and DPA experts had turned thumbs down on the request.

Heavy UN guns set up in the rubble streets of Seoul already were pouring a steady hail of steel and explosives into the communist hordes converging on the city. Heavy rain cut down allied air support.

DPA has okayed the loan again, the subcommittee was informed, but now has required that the three owners sell stock to raise an additional $1,000,000 in private capital for the venture.

The 500,000-man communist offensive forced new Allied withdrawals all along the front except on the East Coast. The Reds seemed oblivious to the loss of more than 40,000 in dead and wounded in the first week of the assault.

Subcommittee Chairman Porter Hardy, Jr., (D-Va) said during hearings on the Hazleton case that the loan would make multi-millionaires of Benjamin S. Dowd, Martin C. Charles and James H. Hopkins, who had put up only $600 for the proposed steel tubing plant.

The offensive in seven days has carried across 35 miles of terrain that it took the Allies three months to liberate. Enemy spearheads have driven 20 miles south of the 38th Parallel.

Raising the extra $1,000,000 would be a cinch, Hardy said, with the $7,800,000 in government funds assured.

On the central front, scene of the first communist breakthrough, the Allies abandoned Kaepyeong, 12 miles south of the Parallel, and section of the strategic Seoul-Chuncheon highway.

At that point Attorney Gaylord entered a plea of not guilty because, he said, the children went with Mrs. Creamer of their own free will and were not taken from their father fraudulently.

TOKYO — (AP) — Communist troops today captured Uijongbu on the historic invasion route only 11 miles north of Seoul.

With these conditions agreed on the Hungarian secret police turned Vogeler over to the U.S. Consul General for Austria, Arthur F. Tower. The transfer was made at Nickelsdorf on the border.

The U.S. Eighth Army announced the vital road hub was in enemy hands but gave no details.

Tower's son did not perhaps live up to the American tradition under pressure, his voice broke and he paused. A reporter asked him: "But you are innocent, aren't you, Mr. Vogeler?"

Allied artillery in Seoul fired throughout Saturday at the onrushing Reds.

Robert Jenkins, drunk driving; $50 and costs, license revoked for 12 months.

United Nations forces continued pulling back on central and eastern fronts but reported no contact with the Reds.

Willie J. Knight, selling ABC whiskey; altered judgment — road sentence stricken out, sentenced to two years, suspended on three-year probationary period, $300 and costs.

The Red Korean Pyongyang radio said Saturday night that Communist reserves had reached the battlefront. The official Communist station usually reports developments at least three days after they take place.

Ernest Moore, assault on a female; altered judgment — suspended sentence of four months on roads changed to six months, suspended on payment of $25 now, $34.95 by June 1 and remaining $30 by July 1.

The broadcast heard in Tokyo said "Korean and Chinese people's volunteers are now inflicting heavy damage on the enemy throughout the front. We have this time poured a new reserve force on the battlefield on one of those fronts and it is taking a heavy toll of American lives."

State Police Break Up Gun Battle At Wake Forest Mill

By LARRY DALE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WAKE FOREST — (UP) — State police broke up early today a six-hour gun battle between strikers and cotton workers at an embattled textile mill after three persons were wounded.

but many cotton-rayon mills have resumed at least partial operation. Reporter Jim Rankin of the Raleigh News and Observer was hit by shotgun pellets in the chest and splinter when he started into the plant area to investigate an explosion, the second in as many nights. Rankin was able to report back to his office and write the story.

The mill told the United Press by telephone later it was "just like Korea." "It's been going on for an hour and a half," one worker reported. "They dynamited the mill and all hell broke loose outside. The only thing we could do was duck."

One of the .22 rifle bullets fired from a darkened section of the mill struck 16-year-old Ruby Mae Woodlief, a striker, as she sat in a shack used by pickets. Purvis Perry, 26, another striker, received a flesh wound.

After this preliminary skirmish, about 100 strikers went home after weapons and laid siege to the plant. One of the 35 or 40 workers inside the evening when a trailer-truck tried to drive through the gate with supplies. About 200 strikers bunched in front of it, and several were knocked down by the moving vehicle. Then the pickets slashed the tires of the truck, in which Deputy Sheriff C. F. Moore and City Police Chief Floyd Whitman were riding. The officers and the driver fled. Shortly afterwards, the explosion

It was the worst violence yet reported in the 28-day-old southern textile strike and capped a feverish day which also saw trouble develop at Danville, Va., and Erwin. The strike has spread to eight states

Vogeler Freed; Price For Release Revealed

Vogeler Regrets Trial Confession

'Sorry' He Did Not Live Up To Standard Under Pressure

By DONALD DOANE
VIENNA — (AP) — Robert A. Vogeler said today about his trial before a Hungarian court: "I am sorry I did not perhaps live up to the American tradition under pressure."

He presumably was referring to the confession he made before the communist court sentenced him to 15 years imprisonment.

The International Telephone and Telegraph Company executive made his comment when he walked into the garden of his home to pose for photographers with his family.

In a slow, halting voice, Vogeler told newsmen: "During 17 months in prison I have been thinking about this reunion. Though I had no news during my imprisonment, I knew that I had many good friends and could count on the Americans."

Vogeler had obvious difficulty controlling his speech. His mouth twitched as if he were under a terrific nervous strain. Then he went on: "I am sorry I did not perhaps live up to the American tradition under pressure, his voice broke and he paused. A reporter asked him: "But you are innocent, aren't you, Mr. Vogeler?"

"Oh no, I'm guilty, according to the Hungarians I am a combination of Dick Tracy and..." He paused again, and one of his sons suggested: "J. Edgar Hoover."

"Yes, that's right," Vogeler said. "I would rather not say anything more now," Vogeler went on. "I am not concerned for my own safety, but I am anxious about..."

Again his voice faltered, but he presumably was referring to Edgar Sanders, British accountant sentenced to 13 years in jail at the same trial as Vogeler.

Court Dissolves Kidnap Charges

Motion For Non-Suit Allowed In Superior Court Friday

A kidnaping indictment against a former Pitt County woman was dissolved in superior court yesterday when it was learned that custody of the children, who the woman was alleged to have kidnaped, had not been determined by the court.

A motion for non-suit was allowed by Judge Leo Carr and was presented by Mrs. Albert Creamer, defendant, formerly of the Sheldahl community, through her attorney, Louis G. Jones Sr.

S. D. Whitford, prosecuting witness and brother-in-law of Mrs. Creamer, charged that she took his two children, aged 16 and 12, to Washington last January 20 to visit their mother, who is separated from him, and didn't bring them back the next morning as agreed upon.

Instead, he stated, his wife took them to Baltimore, Md. At that point Attorney Gaylord entered a plea of not guilty because, he said, the children went with Mrs. Creamer of their own free will and were not taken from their father fraudulently.

Other cases heard and judgments rendered: Robert Jenkins, drunk driving; $50 and costs, license revoked for 12 months.

Willie J. Knight, selling ABC whiskey; altered judgment — road sentence stricken out, sentenced to two years, suspended on three-year probationary period, $300 and costs.

Ernest Moore, assault on a female; altered judgment — suspended sentence of four months on roads changed to six months, suspended on payment of $25 now, $34.95 by June 1 and remaining $30 by July 1.

General MacArthur Is Again Cheered In N.Y.

Leads 500,000 Marchers In Annual Loyalty Day Parade Up Fifth Avenue; Looks Forward To Murfreesboro

NEW YORK — (UP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur and 500,000 marchers parade up Fifth Avenue today before 4,000,000 spectators in a big anti-communist "Loyalty Day" demonstration.

Back from a triumphant two-day visit to Chicago and Milwaukee where more than 6,300,000 persons saw him, MacArthur said he "felt fine" as he prepared to lead the six-hour procession.

The parade, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars to counter annual communist "May Day" celebrations, will include 40 bands and 33 nationality groups wearing native costumes, including those of Russia and other Iron Curtain countries.

Plans for Roman Catholic Francis Cardinal Spellman to ride in the general's lead car in the parade were changed at the last minute after protests from various Protestant groups.

Joseph Smith, commander of the VPW's New York County Council, said the cardinal had notified him that he preferred to march in the parade, rather than ride.

New plans called for Spellman to walk behind the MacArthur car with the Right Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, Dr. Julius Mark, senior rabbi of Temple Emanuel, and Archbishop Michael of the Greek Orthodox Church.

The parade was scheduled to start at 1 p.m. MacArthur arrived in New York last night from Milwaukee where he reaffirmed that he had no ambitions for further public life.

A reporter at the New York airport asked him if he still believed "old soldiers fade away."

"I've already faded away," MacArthur said, smiling. He said he looked forward to taking his wife back to her hometown of Murfreesboro, Tenn., Monday to visit on their 14th wedding anniversary. They will return to New York Monday night.

"For 14 years she's put up with me and it's about time I listened and took her home," the general said.

The Big Four deputy Foreign Ministers (American, Britain, France and Russia) who have been engaged in a dog-fight in Paris ever since March 5, remain deadlocked in their efforts to arrange an agenda for a Big Four Foreign Ministers meeting.

Soviet deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko from the outset adopted the role of tough guy. He has blocked work of the conference by raucous variations of the charge that the western powers, mainly America, are to blame for the Korean war.

Moscow wants the United Nations to withdraw from Korea. This would leave the South Koreans alone to face the Russia equipped Red divisions from the north.

Of course this farcical proceeding in the deputies' conference is not surprising. It is merely obstructionism in the fixed strategy of the Russians for all conferences involving the Democracies.

Australian Labor Party Stronger

But Coalition Gov't Apparently Returned In Election

SYDNEY — (AP) — The coalition government of Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies appeared tonight to have been returned to power despite gains made by the Labor opposition in today's parliamentary elections.

At the close of counting tonight, still incomplete returns showed that a slight trend toward the Labor party, led by former Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley, would cost the 16-month-old liberal-country coalition government about five seats.

Loss of five seats would leave Menzies with a 69-52 majority in the House of Representatives, the lower house of Parliament. In the last house, Menzies controlled 74 seats to Labor's 47.

The government's Department of Information in a broadcast said the Menzies Administration had been returned in today's elections. It estimated the coalition government would win 68 of the 121 seats in the lower house. The Labor Party, ousted by Menzies in November, 1949, was expected to have 53 seats, the Canberra Herald said.

There was little indication of the outcome of the fight for Senate seats, control over which had largely brought on the election.

Labor dominated the last Senate, holding 34 seats to the government's 26. Menzies called the election after the Labor-controlled Senate blocked a government banking bill. Menzies contended he needed control of both houses to push through needed legislation and asked for a "fair go" from the electorate.

At the same time, Stassen sent a telegram to MacArthur saying "I feel very deeply that for the good of America a reconciliation should be brought about between you and the President."

The Farce In Paris

Big Four Deputy Foreign Ministers Are Still Deadlocked, But Meetings Go On; Jessup Expected Little To Result, But Obstructionism Label Is Avoided

Conciliation?

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Harold E. Stassen appealed to President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur today to get together and reconcile their differences "for the good of America."

The former Minnesota governor delivered to the White House a letter for Mr. Truman asking "with humility" that the President "consider extending an invitation to General MacArthur to meet and confer with you."

The White House acknowledged receipt of the letter but it had "no comment."

Daylight Saving Time To Begin

By UNITED PRESS
Millions of Americans will set their clocks an hour ahead when they turn in for bed tonight. Daylight saving time — the annual device to get more sunshine out of Summer — will go into effect in part or all of 34 states.

It brought grumbles from farmers and Western Union Telegraph Co. employees. Farmers complained the change would upset their work schedule.

The telegraph company employees faced the staggering task of setting about 75,000 clocks ahead.

Businessmen To Discuss Freight Rates Into City

Greenville businessmen will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock to discuss rates on freight which is coming into Greenville.

The meeting has been called by the transportation committee of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce. The local merchants and other receivers of freight will discuss rates with a representative of a freight rate adjustment bureau of Raleigh.

Manager W. T. Kizer of the Chamber of Commerce said the businessmen at the meeting will talk over a proposal "to help recapture over charges for freight rates if there have been any."

Officials of Murray's United Steelworkers Union said their 64-year-old chieftain took liquids for the first time yesterday, and was making strong progress on the road to recovery.

Probe Blast For Sabotage Clues

GIBRALTAR — (UP) — British military intelligence and naval armaments experts flew here from England today to determine whether saboteurs blew up the navy ammunition ship Bedenham yesterday.

A terrific explosion sank the Bedenham while it was unloading 500 tons of ammunition in Gibraltar harbor.

Official sources put the death toll at six, but unofficial reports said 10 persons were killed and more than 1,000 injured.

The blast recalled explosions aboard eight barges loading munitions in Portsmouth, England, last July. Investigators found saboteurs used thermite time-bombs to set fire to the barges.

Analyst Reviews Importance Of Draft, Education And The Welfare Of The Country; Faults Of Colleges And Businessmen; Government Aid Said Justified

By ROGEE BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass.—I have a conviction that the draft, education and the welfare of our country are inseparable. I wonder if the draft planners in Washington realize how important education is to our survival.

Country Club Colleges
Does not necessarily mean getting an education. In many cases it means four more years of loafing.

No wonder the only institutions which are holding their own in enrollment are Negro colleges—the colored people appreciate education—while theological schools show an increase of 15.2 percent for 1950 over 1949.

There were indications at the White House, however, that Dawson, President Truman's patronage adviser, was preparing a reply.

CRASH REPORTED
LONDON—(AP)—A U. S. Third Air Division spokesman said tonight he is investigating a report that a B-29 had crashed in the Azores with 16 airmen aboard.

Inasmuch as spiritual development embraces the enduring qualities of our existence, the Church can truly be called the symbol of civilization.

History proves that the most highly civilized nations are those which encouraged and promoted the life of the mind and spirit. Buildings have crumbled, cities have disappeared, and great states have become as legend, but the revelations of God remain eternal.

That is why the appearance of a church is a sign of progress, whether it be in a vast metropolis or in a country village. For the Church represents man's quest for immortal Truth.

When you support the Church you will be contributing to the progress of civilization. You will enrich and enjoy your only imperishable possession—your soul.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

REGISTER Books Open To May 5th AND VOTE MAY 7th

To my friends and voters I wish to state that an account of my business and service for you I will not be able to see each of you personally but if elected will continue my activities for a better and more progressive city.

To those who are not informed as to my record of accomplishments since I have been your alderman I will say, that I have worked with our mayor and board of aldermen on all constructive matters and welcome an inquiry into them, either the city clerk or that you see the City records in reference to my work. A few months ago I took the lead in getting an important street opened across Long Acres to make a connection with Dickinson Avenue and more recently Bancroft Boulevard from West 5th Street connecting Line Avenue into Farmville Boulevard and Dickinson Avenue. As chairman of Parks and Recreation Commission with limited budget to work from I am spending much of my time keeping your playground recreation in repair and at the Armory our new Recreation Center aiding every Friday and Saturday nights. The job of being an alderman calls for a willingness to do lots of unselfish service, considerably beyond any financial remuneration that the office provides. I feel that it was a step forward by getting an act passed to vote for aldermen at large which will do away with the idea of an alderman by his ward to selfishly serve it instead of the City at large which I have tried to do, however, keeping in mind the needs of my ward and naturally showing a personal interest in same.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
YOUR CREED IMPORTANT
Someone made a statement in my hearing recently which greatly impressed me, not because there was anything new in what the man said but because he set forth an old truth which needs continually to be pondered.

What this man said was this: "Deeds must be noted in creeds." Sometimes we hear that the other way about, namely, that creeds must be rooted in deeds. And all this is true. But it is also true that if our conduct is going to be substantial and continuous, if it is going to please God and make us helpful to our fellows, it must rest upon the sure foundation of religious faith.

There are some good people who are not religious, but we can be pretty sure that these people got their goodness by coming under the influence of people who had religious faith. The churches of this land keep our moral life wholesome, and every other factor in national life combined could never take the place of the church in doing this.

The church sets forth creeds, and on the basis of these creeds, preaches and tries to promote morality.

Your creed is very important, even though you do not think it is. And you have a creed, even though your creed may be agnosticism and denial.

A Foolish Proposition

Representative Graham Barden of North Carolina hit the nail on the head when he said in Congress this week the proposal of the Southeastern Power Administration to construct $3,400,000 of transmission lines through eastern North Carolina "is a foolish proposition."

It is foolish, in The Reflector's opinion, for the federal government to force its way into a territory and duplicate the lines of private power companies which are serving the needs of the people of the area. The proponents of federal power are seeking to sew up the Southeastern states with a federal power project which is patterned after the Tennessee Valley Authority.

"What," Barden asked, "is the sense in the federal government taking scarce copper, scarce money and scarce manpower" to duplicate transmission lines through Goldsboro where a private power company is just completing a $15,000,000 power plant?

The proponents of federal power have asked that transmission lines be constructed from Buggs Island to Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro and Kinston where private companies and local municipal power plants are giving satisfactory service.

The Reflector agrees with Barden that the proposal "is a foolish proposition," and we hope the House sticks by its decision to cut the requested funds from the budget of the Department of Interior.

The Inflation Fight Is Just Beginning

Guardians of the nation's economic safety are in seeming agreement that the upward trend of inflation has been braked, but they also warn "the worst is yet to come."

Their warning is based upon the knowledge that billions upon billions of dollars, devoted to the defense effort, will soon be poured into the economic stream. They fear this might well flood said stream unless the dikes, dams and floodgates are built strong enough to cope with the added burden.

The price barometer has very obviously shown the effects of inflationary pressures since the period of international emergency made itself a matter of immediate concern. Steps were taken to alleviate the strain . . . but more important, the economic stabilizers were mapping a master plan for that vast flood of dollars which will soon be expended.

Perhaps for that reason, early control measures were allowed a flexibility so they might be more easily adapted to the stronger controls that were in the offing.

Stabilization chiefs appear less concerned by the prospect of possible goods shortages than they are at the vast sums of money to be thrown into a free economy. Matter-of-fact, Charles Wilson anticipates plant expansion capable of meeting both defense production goals and civilian consumption needs in a relatively short time.

So the process of siphoning off, damming and avoiding the multitude of damgers present in the full flood of a national spending spree is now the great headache of economic stabilization.

Advocacy of higher taxes before the dollar-flood strikes requires a high brand of courage and farsightedness. So too, do many of the other stringent anti-inflation measures put to Congress last Thursday. They'll hurt, at first; or, at least some people will say they do. But in the long run there is little choice in the matter. We either prepare now for the economic strain ahead, or we do nothing and watch our economy literally burst at the seams.

Nor should the inflation controls require a crew of "enforcers," equal in size to the number of people to be "enforced." Public conscience, should, in all instances be the guiding light of national preservation.

There will be a few who deliberately violate the letter and spirit of inflation controls, and these should be punished promptly and severely for they will be guilty of crimes which are nothing less than treason. But unless the vast bulk of Americans share in the inconveniences and restraints of inflationary influences, there will be no limit to the troubles that lie ahead.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions should be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—Many readers, due partially to the Truman-MacArthur spectacle, I surmise, ask "why are the English so violently opposed to a second front in Asia as a means of protecting them and Western Europe from immediate attack by the Communist group of nations?"

To point up this inquiry, J.E.E. of Houston, Tex., adds:

"England welcomed the second front which resulted from Hitler's attack on Russia in June of 1941. Russia welcomed the second front provided by the western powers through the D-Day invasion of Normandy in 1944. Why the changed attitude?"

FEARS—Answer: As General MacArthur hints, 10 Downing Street, Paris, New Delhi, Canada, Australia and New Zealand protested against his policy for fear that it would precipitate World War III in the Far East and elsewhere. President Truman shares these foreign fears. If indeed, he was not inspired and moved by them.

These protesting countries, especially Britain and France, shudder at the thought of another global conflict, and will avoid any action that would bring it on. They contend that they have not recovered from the last one. At the moment London has only 13,000 troops in Korea, and France only 5,000.

These fears are understandable. Despite all our riches and resources, we are not now ready to engage in a war that might extend from the Gobi Desert to the plains of Normandy, perhaps to Britain herself.

Contrary to many military and industrial experts, the Allies and Aurlor governments believe Russia would attack on a large scale if goaded by our mounting of a second front on the mainland of China.

TREASURES—Britain has even more bread-and-butter reasons for preferring to try to negotiate with Mao Tse-tung instead of fighting his vast masses of ground troops.

The British have immensely valuable concessions and properties extending from Hongkong deep into Southeast Asia. She does a vast shipping and commercial business in that area. Naturally, poverty-stricken now, she does not want to lose these treasures to invading Chinese Communies, as she did to the Japanese ten years ago.

Last, as a colonially-minded power still, the British realize that a successful stand by Mao against the western powers would provoke the spirit of revolt in India, Iran, Iraq, Egypt etc. Moreover, they might orient themselves toward Russia, if her help contributed to an Asiatic victory over us.

FRANKFURTER—Will you run a little biographical sketch of Justice Felix Frankfurter? asks L.T.L. of Houston, Tex. "What was his background before he went on the bench? Who are his friends and proteges at Washington?"

Answer: Justice Frankfurter was born in Vienna in 1882, coming here at 12 years of age. He was educated at City College of New York and Harvard. He was an Assistant U.S. District Attorney in New York from 1906-1911, and held several advisory posts in the War Department in World War I. He became a Harvard Law Professor in 1914, resigning to accept FDR's nomination to the court.

He was known as a "liberal" on political, economic, labor and social questions at Harvard. Two close friends were the late Justices Holmes and Brandeis, those magnificent dissenters. They usually chose their secretaries on Mr. Frankfurter's recommendation, which helped to give him great influence around Washington. He served for years as adviser and ghost writer for President Roosevelt.

INFLUENCE—At Harvard Justice Frankfurter delighted in assembling extracurricular groups of students at his home or in their rooms. Thus his influence on them was personal as well as professional. He became known as the "Frankfurter hot dogs" during Franklin D. Roosevelt's regime.

Among his proteges were Secretary Dean Acheson, former Congressional Librarian Archibald McLeish, Max Lowenthal, James M. Landis, and, of course, Alger Hiss, for whom he testified as a character witness at the first New York trial. He is a brilliant and ambitious man. Oddly, he has shown himself to be somewhat conservative, at least moderate, on the court.

UNLIKELY—Does Washington take seriously, being a cynical place, General MacArthur's declaration that he has no "political ambitions?" inquires W.R. of Concord, N.H.

Answer: Yes, of course. In fact, we regard him as so unlikely a candidate that we were surprised at him for mentioning it. He probably would not have given it a thought if somebody had not asked the question at San Francisco.

In view of his age—71—and the advanced attitude he takes on establishment of a strong Asian front, he is hardly presidential material for either party.

MINDEN, LA., HERALD: "There is no hope for this city, nor this nation, if the citizenry does not do the right kind of thinking in regard to the fighting of Socialism so apparent in America today. Bitter denunciation of the principles of Socialism and Communism in speech amounts to nothing if, while blasting Socialist policies verbally, citizens fail to fight it in practice."

MEYERSDAL, PA., REPUBLICAN: "The real cause of our epidemic of price spiraling is government economic meddling (which passes for planning, regimentation (which passes for stabilization), and exorbitant taxation (which passes for welfare contribution). Government interference with private business and excessive taxation must go before we can hope to see the cost of living level off."

DAVIS, CALIF., ENTERPRISE: "Following hard on the heels of the peanut fiasco in Africa the British Labor Government confessed that its scheme to raise poultry on the Dark Continent has also been a colossal flop. One can well understand the effort to alleviate the shortage of 'hen fruit' in England where each person is allowed but one a week."

JEFFERSONTOWN, KY., JEFFERSONIAN: "Pity the poor retailers as they tackle the tape that ties together the big bundle of price control regulations. O, simplicity, thou art a jewel."

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Yesterday I was talking to Steve Walters, who runs a furniture upholstery shop at 209 Columbia Avenue. Steve was working on one of the best looking chairs I've ever seen, so I rendered a profound statement: "Whoever owns that chair, I said, 'must have a mint of money. Steve, if I were in your type of business I would probably charge the owner of this chair twice as much as I would the owner of a cheap chair."

Steve was quick to explain that such a thing is unfair and impossible. Almost everybody who has a lot of money accumulated it by being thrifty, or if it was inherited, they have kept it by being close. Therefore, they are even more careful about every penny than the average person.

Steve had a good reason for having standard prices on his work, but I continued, "Well, if I were a doctor, I'm sure I'd charge in accordance with how much money the patient has. Whether they do it or not, doctors have the reputation of doing that."

It so happened that Steve knew a doctor once that had different rates for different people, and advertised it. When he was in the Navy in California, Steve went to a doctor there who had a sign over his office door reading, "The price will be what the traffic will bear."

Steve was examined thoroughly and given a shot, a service which he expected to be at least $5.00. Even then, California prices were considerably higher than North Carolina prices.

When Steve asked "How much?" the doctor shot back, "How much do you make?" Since Steve had seen the sign, he understood the question. Besides, his salary was a matter of public record, so he didn't hesitate to answer, "$78 a month."

The doctor said sputteringly, "How do you think $2 would be?" Without a second's hesitation, Steve shelled out and thanked the doctor. Later, Steve learned that the doctor drove a Cadillac and owned the building his office was in, so his philosophy was paying off.

The story Steve told inspired me to call a Greenville doctor and ask the question point-blank: "To what extent do Greenville doctors charge in accordance with the patient's ability to pay?" In short, the doctor's answer was, "To a great extent." In long:

To a doctor, every case is different and should be judged as such. There are many calls that doctors make for which no ticket is even made. The doctor knows in advance that the patient cannot pay, so he saves bookkeeping by not billing them in the first place.

There is consideration even for the man who can afford to pay. For example, if a doctor gives six blood transfusions, for which the charge each is $25, he will probably give half of them free, for there is a point of saturation, even for the man who can afford to pay. The rates of Greenville doctors are reasonable compared to other towns of equal size. After talking to the doctor, it seems that every doctor's office could bear the sign, "The price will be what the traffic will bear."

And I thank you.

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NIBBET Daily Reflector Bureau

RESPONSE—The governor's office has had heavy mail for the past two or three days, a large portion of it dealing with the Washington date line story quoting Governor Scott as saying he thought President Truman would run again and pledging support of the Tarheel executive. Correspondence on this subject had been expected. What the office staff was not prepared for was the large number of letters from out of the state. A great many have come from Virginia, several from other Southern states, but New England postmarks show a surprisingly large number of the envelopes. The comment runs about 90 percent unfavorable, some of the envelopes clipping with a vulgar word or two on the margin.

STAND PAT—This doesn't disturb Governor Scott. He plainly stated at his press conference Thursday, what he had implied in Washington, that he is basing his prediction on long range reaction rather than an immediate emotional situation evolving from the MacArthur incident. He stood pat on his forecast, and went so far as to say he would place a little money on a wager that Truman will carry North Carolina in a big way if he is on the ticket again.

REASONING—Governor Scott's reasoning is not difficult to follow. He sees a lot of similarity in his own situation and that of the president. Both are in bad graces with what is generally termed "big business." Popularity of both is at very low stage among active politicians, most of the radio commentators and a large portion of the press. The governor is certain, however, that vast majority of the smaller farmers, the men and women who work in mills and shops, just average folks in North Carolina, are strongly backing both him and the president. He thinks the forces which elected them to their respective offices in 1948 have not changed much, and the same forces can be counted on to repeat the performance in the next election campaign.

QUESTION—Impartial observers are inclined to question the complete accuracy of the governor's appraisal, although conceding its general soundness. President Truman is certainly not as popular in North Carolina as he was two years or one year ago. Not many people think he can regain all the position he has lost, although there is a lot of support for the governor's prediction that the president will come out of the MacArthur incident stronger than when he got into it. Furthermore, it requires only casual contact among people of all groups and economic levels throughout North Carolina to disclose that Governor Scott is not as popular as he was two years or one year ago. The same contacts also disclose the fact that one who depends upon business men, civic club leaders and local politicians for information gets a very distorted picture of state sentiment as a whole.

Scott is still strong with the "branch-head boys," a large segment of rural people, and factory workers. "The governor's stock is down, but it is not time to sell him short," was the way a small town merchant sized up the situation.

CAUSES—There are many contributing causes for the decline in Scott prestige. The explanation offered by his staunchest champions, that a governor always loses prestige and influence after his second legislature, does not by any means cover the case. Other factors over which the governor has no control include growing shortages of materials and consequent slow-down in construction of roads, bridges and buildings. Just as the Scott administration cannot be appropriately credited with the phenomenal post-war building boom during 1949 and 1950, it should not be charged with the slow-down now. Availability of materials for the first time in nearly ten years occasioned the boom, and restriction on materials for the first time in four years occasions the present slow-down. Other governors have had these same basic conditions to meet without comparable loss in stature.

posed government line wouldn't do the job for Langley Field, anyway.

House members voted almost two to one to cut out any further money for the line to Langley Field. This killed the project. This action should cause the Interior Department to resist from trying to push through the line to Rocky Mount and other points.

Just to give you an insight into the fanaticism of Chapman, we suggest you read the National Whirligig column appearing on this same page today. The author, Ray Tucker, has put his finger on the type of man Chapman is. This column is being printed across the nation today, and should give this country something to think about.

Do you want the government to take over the power business? If you don't, let your congressman know about it NOW.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
One of the biggest uncertainties ahead is just how much housing will be built in the rest of the year.

Tending to retard home building are Regulation X, the Federal Reserve Board's restrictions on housing credit, and shortages of materials.

Tending to increase it are a high demand, backed by a high rate of income, and an Administration proposal for government-financed defense housing.

When the March figures on new dwelling unit starts were made public by the Bureau of Labor Statistics the other day, they were variously interpreted as indicating (1) that housing starts would be close to the high mark of last year and (2) that housing starts would be far under the 1950 number.

In 1950, a total of 1,396,000 non-farm dwelling units were started. The Administration's goal is to limit starts to 800,000 this year. Regulation X was intended to reduce starts to this number. The purpose: to divert manpower and materials to production for defense.

Here are the figures for the first three months of 1950 and 1951:

Month	1950	1951
January	78,700	87,000
February	82,900	80,000
March	117,300	93,000
1st Quarter	278,900	260,000

This table shows that housing starts are only slightly fewer than a year ago, despite "X," which went into effect October 12, 1950. It shows, equally clear, that the season rise is slower than last year. It has resulted in predictions that new housing units begun this year would total anywhere from 750,000 to 1,200,000.

While "X" seems to be taking hold, the supply of materials will probably exercise firmer control on the total. The National Association of Home Builders and Builders' Council has surveyed the situation and finds that steel is the most critical item in the last half of the year, after manufacturers' inventories are exhausted. Gas water heater production has been cut back 50 per cent by the shortage, and pressure pipe, soil pipe, boilers, radiators and other cast iron products are becoming scarcer. Electric motors and electric heaters are likely to be short. Roofing, siding, cement, resilient tiling in dark colors, paint and hardware are expected to be adequate.

SHEEP INCREASE; NO WOOL CUT SEEN
The world sheep population is larger, the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations says. However, it is doubtful if the increase is enough to bring any foreseeable reduction in wool prices.

The sheep population at the beginning of the year is estimated at 762,000,000, a gain of 4 per cent over a year ago. Of these, the United States has only 31,500,000, a slight gain over 1950, and still only 60 per cent of the prewar number.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The only thing in America today more boring than going on a diet is to have to listen to someone else who is on a diet.

The only difference between having a friend to go on an excursion or a diet is that you do not have to watch him show colored home movies of his diet. You miss the film, but you get the dialogue.

But I suppose it will be only a matter of time until people do start showing you before-and-after movies of their diets—and what happened along the way.

A diagram will flash on the screen and your friend's voice will sound complacently through the darkness:

"Now watch closely. I am going to eat a piece of radioactive sugar—and I want you to see what it does to me."

Well, he takes the cube of sugar. It gallops down his esophagus and churns around his stomach. And then—zing!—it races over and puts a three-inch deep pad of radioactive blubber around his waistline.

"See?" chortles your triumphant host. "Now will you start drinking your coffee black like I do?"

No, I won't. I never will. I like sugar and cream in my coffee. And I don't want to look at the innards of my friends on 16 millimeter film. When I eat a cube of sugar anyway it does not turn into blubber. It just tastes good.

For 25,000 years it took all the courage, skill and energy of mankind to get most people all the food they wanted to eat. But in the United States for the last 25 years more and more people have found it takes all their courage to keep from eating all they want. They should move to China or India—and get back to the first problem.

The worst assumption of professional dieters is that you naturally ought to do what they do—and that what is wrong with them is also wrong with you. Take a man with gallstones or a lady with appendicitis. They have a certain pride in their ailment because they have it and you probably don't. It sets them apart. But they don't insist that you have an operation just because they must. In fact, they'd rather you wouldn't.

But dieters are a different race entirely. If they are overweight and you are pleasingly plump—well, if they decide to start counting their calories they'll hardly rest until you do, too.

Why? Certainly I'd do something about it if I had a gallstone. But I don't mind being pleasingly plump—pleasing to me, that is. I have been rib-thin. I've been overweight. I feel better and I like more people better when I have the extra weight. Lots of normal men who don't beat their wives or bite their children are like that.

Medical statistics show that lean people live longer on the average than do fat people. But I've known cheerful fat people who lived to a fine old age, and I've known grumpy thin people who died young.

You don't measure life by an undertaker's calendar. You measure it by what the years bring—not how many years you endure.

The important thing isn't whether you weigh more than some doctor or charm school expert thinks you should. It's why you weigh more. If the fat feels good, keep it. If it bothers you, ask why.

All people don't get barrel-shaped for the same reason. Many who go on diets today do not overeat because they're hungry. They stuff themselves because the fat physically lassy, someone doesn't love them, or they don't love anyone themselves. But they shouldn't blame the blubber on food, and they won't cure their real troubles by cutting down on food. They need to change themselves inside—not just what they put inside them.

Motto for dieters: "If you shirk life, you can't improve it just by shirking the table."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Bewildered and fearful for her family's future, Katsuyo Takeshita entered the Heart Mountain, Wyo., Nisei relocation camp with her husband Thomas and their teenage daughters Lynn and Joy. The Takeshitas lived in Los Angeles. Thomas had a good business. The girls were happy in school. But like other Americans born of Japanese parents, the family was uprooted abruptly and sent away to camp when World War II broke out. For one year and three months they lived in one room at the barracks.

"I thought we were to be sent to the mountains, or the desert where we'd pitch our tents; at first I thought maybe this would be good for the girls, they'd learn self-reliance," pretty little Mrs. Takeshita told me in a voice gentle as the whisper of a fan. "Then I began worrying. If we were never going to be released I knew children would have no incentive ever for developing themselves. My mind was like a see-saw."

But mostly Mrs. Takeshita was concerned because she felt their constitutional rights had been violated. She worried about the breaking down of family ties that might result from living in a barracks. She worried about the girls' schooling.

But the name Katsuyo means "victory—"victory over self!" Mrs. Takeshita explained. She lived up to her name "Katsuyo." She and her husband, with other respected Japanese at the camp, began classes in English, art, wood-carving, sewing and educational and recreational programs.

Thomas Takeshita helped get out a camp paper, "The Heart Mountain Sentinel." Evenings he interested himself with "abigin"—a sort of Japanese poetry recitation—like vocal training. Katsuyo Takeshita taught English and civics and took up calligraphy, the art of brush writing in which the Japanese take pride in excelling.

With the war's end the Takeshitas came to Washington. Mr. Takeshita is working at the Army Medical Library. Mrs. Takeshita is a librarian in the Japanese section of the Library of Congress' Orientalia Division.

Organized in 1909, with a collection of Japanese books given to the Library by Dr. Asakawa of Yale the section has grown from 9,000 to some 300,000 volumes, mostly acquired since World War II.

The Takeshitas are happy in Washington. They've just bought a new home and plan to build a Japanese rock garden with bamboo, pine and plum trees and eat picnic lunches off a rock slab table. Lynn and Joy are married, and Lynn's little son is his grand-parents' shining light.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court Friday, Judge J.W.H. Roberts found Elvin R. Brewer guilty of possessing and exploding fireworks in the city and fined him $15. The state law provides that it is unlawful for a person to have fireworks in his possession, the judge stated.

Samuel T. Atkinson, colored, Rte. 4, Greenville, was found guilty of careless and reckless driving. The court gave him three months on the roads, suspended on payment of $15 fine, costs deducted, and Atkinson was ordered to pay $55 for the use of Joseph A. Lee and to pay $15 for the use of Roy Briley. Atkinson was involved in a three-car collision at First and Greene Streets last Saturday.

Joe Willie Tyson, colored, assault on a female, 90 days, suspended on condition that he pay $15 court costs and be placed on probation for a year. The judge ordered that Tyson not drink any intoxicating beverage and that he support his family and not be seen in the company of Thelma Carr, Jr.

William Jeanette, colored, drunk, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15 and $7.50 to William McDonald.

Daniel Brown, colored, was not guilty of disorderly conduct and property damage at the Paradise Cafe on Albemarle Avenue.

Ernest Brown, colored, was found guilty of disorderly conduct and property damage at the Paradise Cafe. The court gave him six months on the roads, suspended on payment of $20 fine, costs deducted, and $27 to Sylvester Wilson, owner of the cafe, for property damage. The judge also ordered that Ernest Brown not visit Greenville until August 15. Brown gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

Two charges against Ernest Brown for not having a driver's license were not pressed.

Local Merchants Hear Speaker On Price Regulation

Arnold C. Aspden, price specialist of the Office of Price Stabilization, spoke in Greenville on Wednesday to the local merchants concerning O.P.S. regulations.

Aspden conducted clinics for all types of merchants and from 11 o'clock until 12 o'clock he answered various questions concerning the regulations. He said all firms are under the general ceiling price regulation which is the freeze of the highest prices charged from December 19 to January 25 inclusive unless a specific regulation has been issued for a particular business.

At the time Aspden was in Greenville, an announcement came through Washington that there would be an extension on CRP 7 and amendment 2 until May 30 but did not cover other regulations.

Tanker Captain Plans Appeal In Loss Of License

MOBILE, ALA. — (UP) — A veteran tanker captain who has "never done anything but go to sea" planned today to appeal the conviction which cost him his license as a result of a collision in which 39 seamen died.

"Oh, my God, I've lost my livelihood," Capt. Edwin C. Geick sobbed after learning that his license had been permanently revoked for negligence.

He indicated he would appeal the verdict to the Coast Guard commandant in Washington. He was convicted with Third Mate Jesse A. McLean of negligence in the collision of the tankers Esso Suez and Esso Greensboro in the Gulf of Mexico last week.

'Mighty Mo' Is Back From Wars; Rests In Norfolk

NORFOLK — (UP) — The Battleship Missouri brought her crew home from the Korean War without a casualty yesterday and received a tremendous reception as she sailed past the mudbank where she was stuck for three humiliating weeks 15 months ago.

Five thousand wives, relatives and friends of the crew were on the docks to welcome the "Mighty Mo," which had been in action eight months in Korean waters.

Capt. George C. Wright said the Missouri's bombardment of shore installations with her 16-inch batteries showed that "an enemy army cannot operate within range of a battleship's guns."

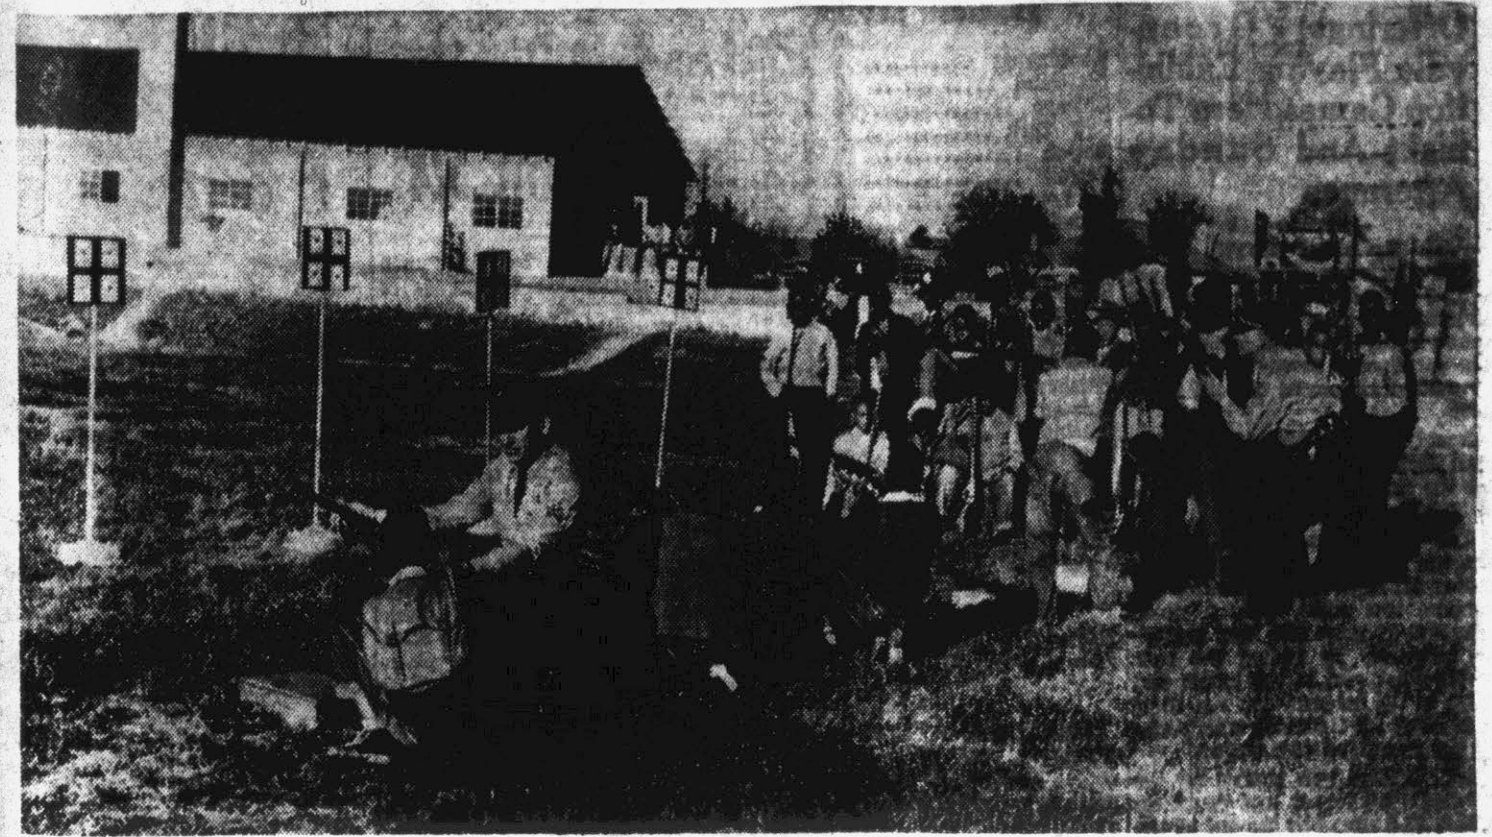

Disagree Over O'Dwyer Report

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Senate Crime Committee, expected to report soon on its sensational investigations, is in disagreement over how hard to criticize former New York Mayor William O'Dwyer, committee spokesman said today.

The committee worked past midnight last night on its report. The spokesman said the section on O'Dwyer and the committee's New York hearings was incomplete but will be "critical" of O'Dwyer.

It was reported that earlier drafts drew objections from some members on the ground that they were too hostile against O'Dwyer.

City Police Sponsor Air Rifle Teams For Youngsters In Long-Range Plans

Through the efforts of the Greenville Police Department and its officers, the youngsters of Greenville are being trained in the proper way to handle their air rifles, which have been constantly the source of many damage reports in the city over the past years.

The one big reason that such a large number of complaints have been received dealing with air rifles was the fact that until now the possessors of air rifles have been given no attention, so as helping them to use them correctly.

That is where the local police department stepped in. Organization of air rifle teams was started in all of the white and colored schools of the city. Special days were set aside for each of the groups, at which time all of the clubs would come together at assigned areas for meetings and practices.

This week marked the formal opening of the air rifle instruction classes. Targets designed for shooting and practice were built and brought to each of the school areas. All of the schools in town have fielded a rifle team.

First a period of instruction in range manners, correct positions in shooting and rules of safety were given to the youngsters. Then after they had passed all the instruction classes they were given practice drill firing. The classes will continue on a weekly basis.

Besides teaching the youngsters the correct methods of shooting it helps to build up their skill which may prove useful to them in later years. Both a sense of sportsmanship and competition are being instilled in the kids taking part and they have turned out in record numbers for the training classes. Later on, plans are being worked out for the holding of rifle matches between other towns which have similar teams now functioning.

Damage to private and city property such as the shooting out of window lights, as shown in the above picture, runs heavy when youngsters roam the streets with unregulated air rifles. It is hoped that by giving the youngsters a place in which to shoot and instructions on the correct method in handling them that such damage may be curtailed.

Sgt. Paul Jewett points out the accuracy of Jerry Drum's marksmanship as he scores the targets after a session of firing. The targets help the youngsters to improve their shooting and keep them from shooting in areas which might endanger nearby persons, since the shooting is carried on at ranges selected to protect both the persons shooting and others. Food Price Drop Not Yet Sighted

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Housewives were warned today not to expect lower food prices, despite a slight drop in the cost of food at farm levels during the month ending April 15.

Agriculture Department price experts said the one per cent drop in farm prices resulted mainly from a seasonal decline in prices of truck and dairy products. There is little chance, they said, that consumers will get a break on lower food prices.

The Labor Department, meantime, issued an apparently contradictory report that rising farm and food prices shoved wholesale prices up three-tenths of one per cent during the week ending last Monday.

Prices of other products which make up the average family meal—with the exception of pork—showed moderate price gains during the month. These included milk, beef, veal, wheat, chickens, corn and potatoes.

DiSalle Planning Rollback Order On Beef Prices

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle—with President Truman's blessing—will order a rollback of beef prices this weekend, authoritative sources said today.

The sources said a group of orders, already signed, will be announced today or tomorrow. The orders will cut cattle prices three or four cents a pound throughout the industry—from the range to the local butcher's front window.

DiSalle, it was learned, had to fight all the way to the White House to get approval for the action. A Cabinet meeting yesterday overruled Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan's strenuous objections to the rollback.

Japanese Ship Is Aground Off California Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The 3,848-ton Japanese ship S.S. Kenko Maru, with 54 persons aboard, radioed this morning that it had run aground somewhere in the vicinity of the Golden Gate in rain and heavy fog.

The captain reported that the hull under the engine room was broken, and requested a salvage tug. He gave the position of the Farallon Islands, 21 miles west of here.

The vessel later reported that its position was doubtful, and that it may be off Bodega Head, 40 miles to the north. The vessel was maintaining continual radio contact, and apparently was in no immediate danger of sinking.

Mountain Flier Is Sentenced For Dubious Feat

LONGMIRE, Wash. — (UP) — Lt. John W. Hodgkin has a receipt for a $350 fine and a six-months suspended sentence to prove he is the only man ever to land a plane on top of 14,408-foot Mount Rainier.

Hodgkin, who landed his Piper Cub on the summit of the mountain April 12, was found guilty of violating a regulation which prohibits landing of a plane on "land or water" in a National Park.

He said he did not try to get permission to land because "I knew it would be hopeless." The lieutenant vowed "as an officer and a gentleman" never to land in a national park again.

Robins' Bats Silenced By Goldsboro; Lose By 13-2

Locals Collect Only 3 Hits Off Cardinal Offerings; Greenville Playing Exhibition Games Here Tonight And Sunday Afternoon

The Goldsboro Cardinals scored a 13-2 exhibition victory over the Greenville Robins here last night before a small crowd of chilled fans. The game was a seven-inning affair by mutual agreement of both managers.

Rookie Frenchie Magotte and Veteran Jack Bennette did the hurting for the Robins and gave up a total of 16 hits—3 being doubles.

The Cards jumped on starter Magotte for seven runs in the first inning off eight hits, including two doubles, two walks, balk, a stolen base and an error and then coasted to victory by adding two runs in the third, one in the fourth and three in the seventh—the last three runs being off Bennette, who pitched the remaining two frames.

Bob Umfleet, who pitched for the Cardinals last season and wound up with a 12-8 record at the end of the season, completely pulverized the hitting power of the Robins—they had collected 22 hits in a game previously with the House of David—as he held them to three hits, none of which figured in their scoring. He struck out a total of 10 men and walked four.

The Robins scored a singleton in the first frame when Jack Dunlavey was walked and advanced to third when Piestrak attempted to pick him off base and threw wild. He scored on Pete Piestrak's infield out. The other run came in the third frame when Eddie Celerado hit a line drive to Second Baseman Billy Bevil and he muffed the ball, then threw wild to first with Celerado advancing to third on the double miscue. He scored on Magotte's infield out.

Every man on the Cards' roster collected a hit during the contest with seven of the members collecting two each. The Robins' three hits were made by Piestrak with a double in the fourth inning, a double by Dunlavey in the fifth inning and a singleton by Joe Guidice in the sixth inning.

The Robins play the Elizabeth City club of the Virginia Class D League here tonight at 7:45 o'clock and wind up their home exhibition series here on Sunday afternoon when they meet the Jamestown, N. Y. Club of the Class D Pony League at 3:00 o'clock.

Roommates Play In Tourney Final

PINEHURST — (UP) — Pat O'Sullivan and Mae Murray, a couple of New England girls who room together at a nearby resort hotel, meet today in the 36-hole finale of the 49th North and South Women's Amateur Golf Tournament.

Miss O'Sullivan, the defending champion, defeated Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., 4 and 3, while Miss Murray of Rutland, Vt., eliminated Charlotte DeCozen of Parsippany, N.J., 6 and 5, in yesterday's semi-final round.

Miss O'Sullivan, an Orange, Conn., girl who also won the Augusta Women's Titleholders' tournament this month, was one under women's par when she clinched her match on the 15th hole.

Miss DeCozen won the admiration of the gallery by her courageous stand although she was forced to take a shot of novocaine in her left arm before each round to quell the pain of arthritis.

She had eliminated Dot Kiely and Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page to enter the semi-finals.

Farley Pleased By Links Squad Despite Defeat
Greenville High School's golf team suffered their third straight setback Thursday afternoon as they lost to Rocky Mount's link team on the local course.

Previously the local golfers had been handed defeats by the strong Elizabeth City golf team.

However, Coach Boley Farley said that he was well pleased with the showing of his boys, mainly because of the fact that his team, with the exception of one player, are all in Junior High School. Most of the teams which they have played had veteran teams composed of boys in senior high school who have had several years of previous experience with their teams.

The golf team this year is the first to be fielded by Greenville in many years.

"Even in losing they played a good game and I was well pleased with their showing," Farley stated.

Track Titles On The Line In Penn Relays Today
PHILADELPHIA — (UP) — Seven major titles were on the line today as the Penn Relays entered their second day with a glittering mile field which puts English Ace Roger Banister on the same track with Don Gehrman and Fred Wilt.

G-Man Wilt is defending champion in the featured mile run. Neither Banister nor Gehrman, who has taken Wilt's measure on several occasions this year, competed in last year's race.

Morgan State, New York University, Manhattan and Duke survived heats in both the 40 and 880 yard runs scheduled for today.

The only major championship decided yesterday found Georgetown outwitting the college medley distance. The Hoyas won by 60 yards in good time.

Jack Wallace Is Leading Pirates In Hits With .524

Batting averages for the fourth place East Carolina Pirates, as of Friday, were released this morning by Al Wadford, sports publicity director for the college.

Leading the hitting parade for the Pirates at the plate is Co-Captain Jack Wallace, with a hefty average of .524. Wallace, who has been used as an infielder has now been shifted from that position to an outfielder's slot because of his power-punch with a bat.

Following close on the heels of Wallace, who winds up his college baseball season with Coach Jack Boone's nine this year, is Fred Soles with 11 hits in 34 trips to the plate. Wallace has racked up a total of 22 hits in 42 appearances this year to gain the .524 batting rank.

In the pitching department, freshman star Jim Piner, with a record of three wins against one loss leads the Pirate pitching staff.

CHARLOTTE — (AP) — North Carolina's farm income increased 22 per cent in January and February over the corresponding period last year.

This was reported yesterday by the Department of Commerce, which placed farm income for the two months at $44,628,000. The figure for the first two months of 1950 was $36,623,000.

Other states in the South reported similar increases.

Sport Slants In The Money

Star's Pride was voted the top three-year-old trotter of 1950 on the basis of his record of 12 victories, 12 seconds in 26 starts last year. Star's Pride didn't win the Hambletonian Stake but he did finish 1-1 in a two-heat test over Lusty Song shortly after the latter's triumph in the classic at Gosport, N. Y.

In the way of purses, Star's Pride had a great year in 1950. He won $74,195 to bring his two-year total to $85,669. On a mile track, Star's Pride posted a mark of 2:02, and his best effort on a half-mile was 2:04 2-5. His trainer-driver, Harry Pownall, is pointing the colt for the $25,000 Gotham Trot at the Yonkers Raceway.

The king of the 1950 three-year-old trotters numbered Dam Flashy, the speedy colt which established a three-year-old track mark at Yonkers Raceway, among his victims last year. He twice finished second to Pronto Don, the aged star. His owners, E. Roland Harman and Lawrence B. Shepard, owner of the famed Hanover Shoe Farms, rate him one of the finest trotters they have raced.

Winterville Roms Over Pactolus And Grimesland

WINTERVILLE — Winterville's baseballers romped to two easy victories during the past week as they turned back Grimesland 6-2 and Pactolus by the lopsided score of 25-2.

The Pactolus affair was called by mutual agreement at the end of five innings with Winterville leading by a 25-2 score.

Winning pitcher Charlie Roberson struck out eight batters and walked eight men, while Langley of Pactolus fanned four men and walked four.

Highlight of the ball game was a homerun hit with the bases loaded by Leroy Faulkner in the second inning. In that inning the Winterville team broke loose to send across 15 runs of its 25-run total.

Buck led Winterville at the plate with three hits in four trips to the plate, while the remainder of the team split up the other 13 hits among themselves.

Score by innings:
Winterville 6153 10—25 16 0
Pactolus 0 20 00—2 2 3

Both teams played errorless ball all the way. Winterville was led at the plate by Faulkner who hit a triple in the third inning.

Paymore, Watson, Averette and Little each got one hit for the winners.

AYDEN — Ayden High School retained the top berth in the Coastal Conference standings yesterday afternoon by beating Robersonville, defending champion, 3-0.

Ayden won the game on an early run in the first inning as they loaded the bases on walks to Mac Allen and Tod Kittrell, followed by a single by Randall Harrington. David Manning was struck by a pitched ball and pushed Allen across the plate with the first Tornado run.

With the sacks still filled, Robersonville's pitcher Bob Fleming forced Dal Worthington to hit into a double play, while Teedy Bullock flied to short stop to end the uprising.

Manning powered the other Ayden runs in the third inning with his first home run of the year, scoring Harrington before him who had gained bases on a single into right field for his second hit of the day.

The game was marked by the excellent pitching of both moundsmen, Dal Worthington for Ayden and Bobby Fleming of Robersonville.

Worthington allowed only three hits while walking one man and whiffing 12 batters. This brought his seasonal strikeout total to 58 in 35 innings.

Fleming was not quite as fortunate as Ayden reached him for four safeties and he fanned but five batters while walking four.

At no time in the game did the Robersonville team ever seriously threaten. The losers never occupied third base at any time in the game.

Ayden will play Farmville in a Coastal Conference contest on May 1 in Farmville while Robersonville draws an open date.

Score by innings:

Chicod collected three hits for its two runs off the offerings of starting hurler Billy Smith who went the distance for the losers. Walter Smith led the winners at the plate while Whitford accounted for the hitting of Vanceboro.

Chicod plays West Edgecombe in a District 1 conference contest in West Edgecombe on Tuesday. Earlier in the season Chicod lost a 7-0 decision to the team.

The SIREN of SILVER VALLEY

By PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 5
Jeff left him and rode down the street, keeping to its middle and watching the entrances to passageways. If Shag was in town he wouldn't hesitate to put a slug into the man who had replaced him and had humiliated him in the bargain.

He tied his horse at the hitching rail in front of the store, noticing the light wagon with the team of Star horses which stood there. The wagon held quite a load of staples and he supposed the Star cook had come in for supplies. He went into the store and bought some tobacco, sat down by the cold stove and had a smoke, then went out again.

He hesitated on the top step. Ruth Starr was seated in the wagon and a young fellow whom he guessed was her brother was untying. Her hazel eyes were on him, so he went on down to his horse and, touching his hat brim, murmured a good morning.

Ruth said, "Thanks for the help, Mr. Payne."
He looked up at her. "What I thought you were hired by the Double D but it seems you're working for the Star. I understand that seven of your best men are going to join us."
"The best men don't quit; only the worthless, the riff-raff."
"These seven helped Dan Denton build up the Double D. They were good enough for him, we'll be glad to get them."
"You're welcome to 'em," said Jeff cheerfully. "We consider them good riddance."
Buddy Starr came along the far side of the wagon, rounded it and advanced beligerently towards Jeff. "You startin' an argument with my sister?"
Jeff observed him calmly. "No, son. She's trying hard to start one with me, but I never argue."

safe enough. Starr can't run 'em across this creek up here, that's a cinch."
"No, but he can run 'em up into the hills on this side and cross beyond the gap where it's shallow."
Jeff studied the slopes to his right and agreed. "I guess you're right at that, Shorty. What's your bunch?"
Shorty nodded towards a holding corral which stood by a line shack at the base of the hills. "I'd say haze as many of 'em as we can into that 'c'ral and have the boys drive 'em down to the other end of the range."
"Good idea. We'll start now, you and me. Take too long to round up the other boys."
They started butting out the younger stock and hazing it into the corral. It was slow, hot work and at the end of two hours Jeff called a halt.
"By the time we get back to headquarters it'll be suppertime. We can't drive them today; I'll have the boys do it first thing in the morning."

Planes Collide; 14 Airmen Are Killed

GUTHRIE, Okla. — (UP) — A F-51 fighter plane plowed into a giant B-36 bomber, killing 14 men, in a mock aerial battle four miles above central Oklahoma yesterday.

The dead included the fighter pilot and a civilian observer aboard the B-36, the world's largest land military plane.

Four of the bomber's crew parachuted and escaped with non-serious injuries.

Four F-51 fighter planes were simulating attacks on the 10-engine bomber to give its gunnery crews target practice.

One fighter, driving in, hit the bomber broadside, splitting the craft wide open.

Wreckage of the two planes was scattered over three square miles and it took identification teams at Tinker Air Base in Oklahoma City four hours to identify the bodies.

One witness, Jack Floyd, of Perkins, Okla., said the bomber leveled off and appeared to be gliding in for a landing before it dropped.

"I didn't see the little plane at all," he said. "The bomber made a good try at leveling off, even though it was on fire, before it hit."

The body of the fighter pilot, identified as Lt. Fred W. Black, Boise, Okla., was found 50 yards from the bomber's nose section in a field. He still was strapped in his metal pilot's seat.

The survivors were identified as Lt. Elroy A. Melberg, 32, flight engineer, Blair, Wis.; Sgt. William Blair, 30, Fort Worth, Tex.; T-Sgt. Ellis E. Maxon, 31, Pownal, Vt.; and S-Sgt. Dick Thrasher, 29, Fort Worth.

Several crewmen were found dead after descending in parachutes, indicating they died of injuries on the way to earth. The highway patrol found an opened parachute, part of a uniform still in its harness, 40 miles northeast of the wreckage.

Dormitory Burns In Gas Explosion

MARYVILLE, Mo. — (UP) — A gas storage tank exploded early today and touched off a college dormitory fire that injured 50 students.

The blast shook the town, threw residents from their beds and broke half the store windows in the downtown district eight blocks away.

Flames engulfed a three-story girls' dormitory, 300 feet away, on the campus of the Northwest Missouri State College.

Half of the 100 girls asleep in the dormitory were burned or cut as they fled in their nightclothes, walking barefooted over slivers of glass from shattered windows.

All were accounted for. Two were in critical condition.

Thirty minutes after the explosion, half of the building collapsed.

Many of the girls were saved by men students who rushed to the blazing dormitory to lead its stunned residents to safety.

Mrs. Claude Stults, wife of the Maryville fire chief, said the blast "sounded like an unbelievably big clap of thunder" at her home 10 blocks away.

Amie Meadows, a cook at the dormitory, was plucked by falling debris in her apartment in the basement. Students pulled her from the wreckage and she was not hurt seriously.

"The girls were in a state of near panic when I arrived a few minutes after the explosion," said Police Officer Fred Auferfer.

One girl, asked how she escaped, could repeat only "it was a mess, a horrible mess."

Kluxer Praises Gen. MacArthur

DORCHESTER, S.C. — (UP) — Grand Dragon Thomas L. Hamilton of the Carolina Ku Klux Klan praised Gen. Douglas MacArthur last night as "the greatest soldier who ever fought on any field."

At the same time, he criticized the administration of President Harry "Solomon" Truman and blasted the anti-lynch bill recently passed by the South Carolina legislature.

Fewer than 100 persons showed up for the widely-advertised Klan rally to hear the Grand Dragon's 45-minute address. Only 10 men wore robes.

Charge Negro With Assaulting Wife With Deadly Weapon

Police arrested Arthur James Morris, 29-year-old Negro, last night at his home, 507 West 15th Street, on a charge of assaulting his wife, Mrs. Geneva Morris, with a deadly weapon. Police quoted the woman as saying her husband attacked her with a knife.

Morris will be tried in Police Court Monday morning.

The Farce . . .

(Continued From Page One) Those who advocate caution point out that the main purpose of the United Nations is to keep the peace, and that the organization would become impotent if one major party were absent. That is an argument hard to answer.

In the case of the current Paris conference, this was advocated by Moscow and the western powers had to accept or be charged with obstruction. Such an acceptance keeps the door open for the time when the Reds may really be ready to do business.

As a matter of fact, many observers hold that the Russians aren't prepared to break with the western powers. These observers figure that the Soviet Union isn't ready for war yet, and that if she pulled out of the U. N., the rest of the world would think this meant war and would rush to arms.

Moreover, Russia's continuation in the U. N., gives her a chance to charge America with aggression being largely for home consumption and the benefit of the satellites. The satellites have had this thrust on them so long that they would be shocked if Russia withdrew from the U. N. The same would be true of some Asiatic countries. Moscow wants to make peace. tries which seem to believe that

A nightwatchman estimated that 200 rounds were fired across 75 yards of "no man's land" between the plant and the high wire fence which surrounds it. Most windows in the front of the mill were shattered, either by bullets or by the explosion. About 62 windows had been broken by a dynamite blast the previous night.

Whitman said he expected to make several arrests, but refused to say how many would be picked up or what the charges would be. The Royal Mills have been operating during the strike with one shift, Education Must Not Be Neglected — General Eisenhower has said, "A nation depending on guns alone for its defense will soon be a corpse in armor." Character and education are our bulwarks against the totalitarian state. Hitler failed because he lacked these fundamentals. Stalin will fail for the same reason. Hitler spent, and Stalin is spending, huge sums for training — not character and educational training — but in teaching men to destroy instead of to construct. This is where the enemy is weak. This is where we can be strong with our good State Universities.

Surely Mr. Malik has taught us that the cultural and ideological struggle is every bit as important as military battles in conquering Communism. Mr. Vishinsky has said, "We shall conquer the world, not with atom bombs, but with something the American cannot produce — namely, propaganda." It ought to be crystal clear, therefore, that we must keep our educational system in the best possible working order if it is to meet this new kind of attack successfully.

Government Aid Justified Schools and colleges cannot discharge this grave responsibility if they are financially handicapped. Government should, therefore, seek practical solutions at once which will give us, not only the military strength to survive, but also the guarantee of maintaining our educational system intact. This is the vehicle which is so important to us in this battle of ideas, brains, and doctrines. But the Government should make sure that the students so helped are taking some form of accelerated education so as to learn to work fifty weeks a year and forty hours a week.

At Erwin, yesterday, "home-made" dynamite bombs were thrown into the front yards of mill workers James Casper, Dick Royals and Herman West. "Nobod" was hurt.

At Danville, Va., where strike violence first cropped up at the big Dan River Mills and where five dynamite blasts were reported this week, police seized a cache of explosives and arrested four persons.

Later, nearly 2,000 angry strikers staged a parade to protest a two-cent per hour wage increase offered by the company.

The CIO Textile Workers Union is demanding a 13-cent increase throughout the south to make wage scale equal with that in the north.

At Greensboro yesterday, Con Mills Corp. filed an unfair labor practices complaint with the National Labor Relations Board, charging the union with intimidating non-strikers at five of its plants.

Chinese . . .

They have killed or wounded more than 41,500 Reds in their fighting withdrawal.

The Reds mounted their biggest offensive on the western front. Some 300,000 troops were driving on Seoul. Tens of thousands of civilians fled the South Korean capital.

A South Korean flag flew over the big gray city hall in Seoul Saturday, but the building was empty.

A British regimental sergeant major directed the removal of the British Royal Crest from over the door of the British embassy.

Thirty American cargo planes landed Friday at Kimp'o, big airport northwest of the old capital, with war supplies. The planes carried away allied military personnel.

Some of the planes returned to their bases in Japan punctured by bullets. There were no reports of casualties.
