

Chinese Tightening Siege On Seoul; Ready Assault

Moving Up Massive Reinforcements; Night-Flying Planes Blast Convoys; Prisoners Say Food Shortage Hampering Attack

TOKYO, Tuesday (UP)—Chinese troops tightened a 30-mile siege ring around Seoul Monday and began moving up massive reinforcements to assault the city.

United Nations tank and infantry patrols struck out from the fortified capital, fighting brief skirmishes with the communists in the no-man's-land between the lines.

They reported the Chinese had become "less aggressive" during the last 24 hours. One patrol counted 1,000 enemy dead, killed by a roaring Sunday night artillery barrage from more than 400 Allied guns set up in Seoul.

Air reconnaissance reported, however, that 3,000 enemy troops were rolling south across the Manchurian border, bringing reinforcements for the assault on Seoul.

Night-flying planes blasted the convoys, easily found because they were rushing south with headlights on in defiance of allied air strikes.

Fliers said they destroyed 250 trucks. They said the vehicles apparently were loaded with troops, for they did not burn or explode as they would have if carrying gasoline and ammunition.

During the day, however, other Allied planes smashed trains and supply trucks, leaving large sections of communist-held territory obscured by the smoke of blasting supplies.

One patrol striking out from the Allied-held city brought back 30 prisoners and another took 35 prisoners. All were North Koreans. They were hungry and ragged. They told Allied officers a critical shortage of food was hindering the offensive.

The eight-inch batteries of the U.S. heavy cruiser Toledo off the west Korean coast near Inchon joined Allied planes and guns in blasting the communist preparations for attack.

The enemy's siege arc around Seoul stretched from the Han River northwest of the city to the Han's junction with the Pukhan River east of Seoul. At one point the Chinese were within four miles of Seoul.

The Allies withdrew 1,000 yards, east southeast of Inje.

U.N. tank-infantry teams also patrolled aggressively on the central front, where the communist offensive has come to a temporary halt 33 miles south of the 38th Parallel.

However, the patrols reported little or no enemy contact. The Chinese may have pulled back slightly to get set for a thrust south across the Han River in an attempt to flank Seoul.

B-29 superfortresses helped disrupt enemy offensive preparations.

Troopers Quell Hospital Riot

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (UP)—A riot of 10 patients at the Indiana village for epileptics was broken up only by 12 state troopers, W. C. Van Nuys, superintendent of the institution, said today.

The patients' violent clubs and baseball bats. Supervisor Chester Shedd was hit on the head and suffered a possible fractured skull.

Van Nuys said the patients "took matters into their own hands" when he discharged an attendant.

"The patients got so stirred up that they all grabbed clubs and baseball bats and started to get out of hand," Van Nuys said.

An Embargo For China

China's Ability To Build Up A New Big Offensive Against UN Forces In Korea Stirs More Embargo Talk; Why Some Western Nations Are Reluctant To Act

By DEWITT MACKENZ

The ability of the Chinese Communists to stage their massive offensive against the United Nations forces in Korea has stimulated move among U. N. members to slap a limited embargo on essential war materials for China.

Such an economic blockade, by the way, was one of General Douglas MacArthur's recommendations on which he said the Joint Chiefs of Staff agreed with him. It would, of course, be calculated to have far-reaching effects on China's ability to wage war.

Coinciding with this U. N. development, General MacArthur has been urging a "positive and realistic" Korean policy "to stop through strength this slaughter of American sons."

The United States already has clamped a sweeping embargo on Peiping, and is crusading against other western members of the U.N. to follow suit. Some of them, notably Britain and France, have been finding difficulties in taking such drastic action, owing to their great commitments in the Far East.

Hoover Advocates Eliminating RFC

Former President Testifies Before Senate Banking Body; Says Non-Emergency Loans Not In Original Planning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said today the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) should be liquidated, largely because its original purpose has become "submerged in support of risky business."

He said "favoritism and corruption" have been demonstrated in its operation.

Hoover, who recently urged that the RFC be abolished, appeared before the Senate Banking Committee to tell the reasons behind his view.

In a statement prepared for the committee, he said:

"I believe that the RFC should be liquidated. x x x

"I believe some facilities for loans in the small business field should be continued under other organizations."

Small business loans, the former President said, should be taken over by the Federal Reserve banks.

Nationalist Leader To Be Premier; Senate Meets Tonight To Complete Action On Taking Over Of Oil Lands

TEHRAN (AP)—Anti-British Nationalists today stood only a few hours away from formal action giving them control of Iran's government and authorization for immediate nationalization of the country's strategic oil industry.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi reluctantly approved appointment to the premiership of F. Mohammed Mossadegh, spring leader of the minority nationalist bloc which has headed the nationalization drive.

The Senate meanwhile prepared to meet tonight to complete action on the bill ordering the government to take over immediately the $500,000,000 British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, the country's only developed oil enterprise.

Senate approval of the legislation, unanimously voted by the lower house (Majlis) Saturday night, was a foregone conclusion.

Western observers, and many Iranian political leaders, viewed the aging premier-designate as a visionary without concrete plans for the operation of the complex oil company, backbone of the country's economy.

They feared that a sudden, unprepared-for takeover might slow oil production to a trickle and produce economic chaos which would open the way for vigorous communist interference both from within Iran and from Soviet Russia across the northern border.

But with Parliament terrorized by violence which began with the assassination last month of Premier Gen. Ali Razmizadeh, Mossadegh's Nationalists continued to sweep all before them.

Bevan Declares America Leading Way To Disaster

EBBW VALE, Wales (UP)—Aneurin Bevan, who resigned from the British cabinet a week ago, contended last night that the U.S. is leading the world toward a "modern catastrophe."

The left-wing labor member of Parliament told 2,000 cheering constituents that "our American friends" already have caused world inflation by stockpiling raw materials on a gigantic scale.

"America plans to rearm by increasing production, not by cutting civilian consumption," he said.

"There will be such a shortage of raw materials all over the world as will produce a modern catastrophe."

Then he revised his verdict downward when a guest, who had not set his watch even one hour ahead, arose at what he thought was 5 a. m. (EST, of course). In his innocence he thought no one would be around to see him buying cigarettes from a machine in the lobby.

So he slipped out of his room dressed only in pajamas. His eyes popped when he saw several guests dressed in sports clothes staring at him. They were waiting for breakfast. He went back to his room—fast.

Kefauver Stirs Speculation On Future Politics

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Estes Kefauver of the Senate Crime Committee stirred up speculation today that he may be a candidate for president next year.

The Tennessee Democrat, appearing on the NBC "American Forum of the Air" television program, was asked about continuing speculation on his "availability."

"I am not a candidate," Kefauver replied. "I have no intention of being a candidate. I think it is far-fetched. It has no backing in fact."

But when Sens. Charles W. Tobey, (R-NH) and Lester C. Hunt, (D-Wyo) protested, he said with a grin, "I may change my mind."

Aly Khan Keeps Silence On Rift

CANNES (UP)—Prince Aly Khan kept a discreet silence today on Rita Hayworth's announcement that she will seek a "legal and permanent" separation from him.

The prince's private secretary said Aly, now "somewhere in Europe," had received no confirmation of the announcement from Miss Hayworth and "therefore has nothing to say."

Two days ago, Aly's Paris lawyer told newsmen that rumors of a divorce or separation were "absolutely ridiculous."

Right To Fire Upheld By Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—By a 4 to 3 vote, the Supreme Court today upheld the government's right to fire without a trial federal workers suspected of disloyalty.

The trial's action was taken in the case of Dorothy Bailey, who was thrown out of her $8,000-a-year job in the U.S. Employment Service on a finding that "reasonable grounds exist" for a belief that she was not loyal to the United States.

The finding was made on secret FBI reports never disclosed to her.

A terse order announced the decision. It did not say how the individual justices had split. Justice Clark, attorney general at the time Miss Bailey was fired, took no part in the case.

Draft Eligibles May Volunteer

Those Who Have Passed Tests Can Go With May 21 Group

Announcement was made today from the local draft board that all persons who have passed their pre-induction examinations for the Army and who have not yet been inducted may do so by signing volunteer statements prior to May 8.

Board clerk Selma Evans stated that many men in the county had quit their jobs in expectation of being inducted and are now waiting for a notification telling them when to report. If they don't want to wait until a later induction, at which time they may or may not be called, they can volunteer and be inducted with the May 21 contingent, she said.

The May 21 group will comprise 25 men who have taken and passed the Army exams since January. There will be no pre-induction call in May.

The clerk also announced that any man in 1-A classification who wishes to have his classification changed from some reason or another must meet the draft board to have it changed. Notification of the applicant's desire to meet the board must be made within ten days after receiving notice of his classification.

The clerk stated a possible classification change concerns only those men in 1-A. If the board approves the application, she said, the person may be deferred for scholastic or farm occupation reasons.

Small Boy Hurt In Traffic Accident Fourth and Evans

Murray Scott Porter, nine-year-old Chicod boy, received a simple fracture of a leg when he ran in front of a car at Fourth and Evans Streets Saturday evening.

Police quoted Mrs. Hubert C. Simmons of Stokes, driver of the car, as saying the boy ran through traffic and that she could not prevent her car from knocking him down. With the assistance of L. L. Bishop and Mrs. Audrey Porter, Mrs. Simmons took the boy to Pitt Memorial Hospital. No arrest was made.

Immunization Clinics For School Children To Begin

Immunization clinics are to be held during the month of May by the health department nurses in schools throughout the county.

The clinics are being conducted for the purpose of completing immunizations begun at the pre-school clinics held in April. Miss Fisher, supervisor of nurses, said many of the children who attended the pre-school clinic had no immunizations at all and it was necessary for them to have two or three doses of vaccine.

The schedule for the clinics are: May 1, 9 a. m., Bell Arthur and Winterville (colored); May 2, 9 a. m., Stokes and 9:30, Fountain; May 4, 9 a. m., Fountain and Post Oak (colored); May 7, 9 a. m., Pachtols and Haddock; 10:30 Cherry Lane, 2 o'clock, Simpson (colored); May 8, 9 a. m., Belvoir; May 9, 9 a. m., Nichols (colored), Grifton (colored), Pachtols, and 1 o'clock until 4:30, Fleming Street school at health department; May 10, Bethel High School, at 9 a. m.; May 11, Bethel elementary school and pre-school, 9 a. m. and Chicod, 9 a. m.; May 14, 9 a. m., Ayden (colored); May 15, 9 a. m., Grimesland (colored); May 16, 9 a. m., pre-school and 1 o'clock until 4:30, South Greenville pre-school at health department; May 18, 9 a. m., Falkland and Bethel (colored); and May 21, 9 a. m., Falkland (colored).

Vaccination for typhoid fever will also be given at the clinics if desired. The same vaccinations can be secured at the regular clinics at the health department every week. The clinic hours are Wednesdays from 1 o'clock until 4:30 p. m. and Saturdays from 9 o'clock until 12.

Three Auto Accidents In Pitt Over Weekend

State Highway patrolmen investigated three automobile accidents over the past week end in Pitt County; the most accidents reported in recent weeks.

Property damage in the accidents was high, however no one was injured.

An automobile operated by Henry Curtis Daniels, Negro, of Route 5, Greenville turned over on the Old Creek road around 6:45 Sunday night, causing damage to the car estimated at $500.

Daniels was arrested by Cpl. H. M. Morrow, who investigated the accident on charges of driving in a careless and reckless manner, and no operator's license.

Saturday night, a three-car collision occurred just out of the Greenville city limits on the New Bern highway.

One car operated by Jesse James Hooks, Jr., Negro, of Winterville was attempting to pass a car driven by

Acheson Claims U. S. Policy Succeeding In Korean Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today claimed success for the stand this country has taken in Korea and said the best chance of real victory lies in firmly holding to that line.

He explained to the United States Chamber of Commerce that it may be possible there to convince the enemy that "his aggression cannot pay." His claims of successes were in that field.

The fighting in the Far East "may spread despite our efforts to limit it," Acheson said, but added: "If this happens the responsibility for it will rest squarely on the Kremlin and its agents in Peiping."

Acheson in his prepared address stayed away from the controversy over Gen. Douglas MacArthur's proposal to adopt new strategy in Korea. He made no mention of Taft or other critics.

He gave this summation of his views:

"If we remain firm and steady on the course we are following in Korea, if we don't flinch or get rattled, we shall have the best chance of bringing this action to a successful conclusion."

In Europe, Acheson said, sufficient confidence has been made to justify confidence that we can build up western strength sufficiently to prevent the Soviet thrust in this direction from achieving its aim.

In Asia, the secretary declared that "a great deal has already been accomplished by the steadiness" with which we have held to U. N. purposes and by the "heroic devotion of our men in Korea." He listed these as gains:

"First, this act of (Communist) aggression has not succeeded according to the Soviet plan, and what other actions were planned have been interfered with."

"Second, the defense against this aggression has served to arouse freedom all over the world, and has stimulated them to speed up their efforts to build a strong defense system."

"Third, new vitality has pulsed through the whole idea of collective security against aggression."

"And fourth, this device of satellite aggression has been thoroughly exposed and its usefulness in other situations has been reduced."

Negro Policeman Sworn In Today

Is First On Local Police Force In Half A Century

Charles Corbett, Jr., 30-year-old Negro of this city, was sworn in as a police officer at the City Hall today. He is the first Negro policeman on the Greenville force in nearly half a century, Chief Guy C. Langston stated.

The Board of Aldermen, at its April meeting authorized the appointment. A score of leading Greenville businessmen and women recommended Corbett's appointment to the force.

The new policeman is 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 202 pounds. He is a high school graduate. He finished the ninth grade at the Negro high school in Greenville and completed the high school course at the college in Columbia, S. C.

Corbett served seven years in the army. He was honorably discharged September 22, 1946. He had received a sharpshooter and rifle expert. He served two years in the military police.

Corbett was working as a civilian radio technician at the Cherry Point Marine Base, where he serviced airplane radios. He is married and has no children.

Preparatory to entering the Greenville police service, Corbett is now studying the laws of arrest, search and seizure and motor vehicles.

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The Chinese communists on the front line in Korea are not anxious to fight and don't know what they are fighting for, Secretary of the Army Frank Pace said last night.

He said the communist soldier has the alternative of "either going forward or being shot in the back."

"If it is good morale to choose one form of death against another, he has good morale," Pace said in a transcribed radio interview.

"But if it is fighting for a cause, I do not believe that the average Chinese or the average North Korean in the front line has morale in the sense that we understand."

Train Strikes Stalled Tank To Kill 3 Soldiers

BARBERTON, O. (UP)—Authorities indicated today no charges would be filed against the engineer of a passenger train that struck a stalled M-4 medium tank and killed three soldiers.

Erie Railroad officials said the train was moving 60 to 70 miles per hour.

An Army officer said the train hit the tank a glancing blow and carried one track and several wheels nearly 1,000 feet down the track. The tank's heavy chassis was battered and its turret and 76 millimeter gun were knocked off.

The impact spilled the six-car "The Lakes Special" and left its two-section diesel engine tilting at a 45-degree angle. Two passengers were injured.

Taft's View

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) today urged a half-million man cut in projected American military forces and a $20,000,000,000 reduction in the mobilization budget—but called for "a more aggressive war in Asia."

The policy of neutralizing Chiang Kai-Shek's forces in Formosa is "complete nonsense," Taft told the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The present fighting, he said, is a "stalemate war" which the American public will, in his view, not tolerate indefinitely.

Adenauer Wins Rhineland Test

FRANKFURT (UP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats today hailed their Rhineland election victory as a vote of confidence in the Schuman Plan.

Official results in the Rhineland Palatinate state election showed the Christian Democrats won 43 seats to 38 for the Socialists yesterday. It was the first ballot box test of the Schuman Plan since it was initiated early this month.

The program to pool Western Europe's steel and coal resources became the pivotal issue in the campaign.

Socialists gained four seats in the 100-member parliament but failed to get control.

Adenauer's party lost five seats, but did better than generally was expected.

In the popular vote, the Christian Democrats polled 564,393 to 468,391 for the Socialists.

The Free Democrats, campaigning for free economy and liberal foreign trade regulation, made the largest gains. It polled 240,087 votes to increase its representation was wiped out by a new West German electoral law requiring a party to poll at least 5 per cent of the total vote to be entitled to an assembly seat.

The communists polled only 62,462 votes—4.4 per cent of the total—and thus lost all eight of their seats in the old Parliament.

Accompanying Message Says Russia Pushing World To Brink Of A General War; New Contracts Authority Involves Overwhelming Share Of Huge Sum

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman today sent Congress a $60,679,414,690 defense budget and said Russia's rulers have pushed the world "to the brink of a general war."

The huge requested appropriation is for the United States' own military costs and to help arm its allies.

The message broke down in more detail the military estimates included in Mr. Truman's general budget, sent to Congress in January, for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

In a letter to House Speaker Rayburn, accompanying today's estimates, Mr. Truman said:

"If the Soviet Union chooses to unleash a general war, the free world must be in a position to stop the attack and strike back decisively and at once at the seats of Soviet power."

"We believe that the best path to peace is through building combined defenses for the free world sufficiently powerful to insure disaster for the aggressors if they launch a new world war."

The over-all figure was broken down into these sub-totals:

$1,424,835,700 to pay for various projects Congress already has authorized.

$56,179,414,690 of "new obligation authority"—meaning for direct expenditures and for letting of contracts for future payment.

$4,500,000,000 to cover needs "for a large military public works program to be recommended soon for authorization."

Mr. Truman noted that the amount of actual spending proposed for the next 13 months was not changed much from his January estimates. "Actual spending from the Treasury may be far behind appropriations because it takes several weeks to fill some military contracts."

Mr. Truman said:

"The revised estimate of expenditure for 1951 (the fiscal year ending next June 30) is 19.4 billion dollars, compared to 19 billion carried in the January budget. For fiscal year 1952, expenditures are estimated at 39.5 billion dollars compared to 40 billion carried in the January budget."

The $60,679,414,690 asked compares with the $47,590,000,884 which has been enacted or recommended for the current fiscal year.

Sketching broadly the planned use of the money, Mr. Truman said:

"For the Army, these funds will equip and maintain 18 divisions plus separate combat and supporting units. The Navy, under these recommendations, will maintain an active fleet of 1,161 ships. The Marine Corps will maintain 2 1-3 divisions and other supporting units. The Air Force will continue to build toward 56 war wings."

Of the new funds, he said, about $34,700,000,000 will be used to buy heavy equipment such as ships, planes, tanks, artillery, trucks, ammunition, guided missiles, and electronics. A total of 14.5 billion will be used to buy planes.

Breaks Ranks On MacArthur Issue

Sen. Wayne Morse Veers From Top Republicans' Stand

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Wayne Morse broke sharply with the Republican leadership today, and predicted that those who have "tied themselves" to Gen. Douglas MacArthur will be repudiated by the people.

The Oregon Republican said the general's recommendations for fighting the Korean War more aggressively mean "all out war in Asia."

He made clear he was referring to those senators and others who favor MacArthur's ideas on bombing Red supply bases in Manchuria, using Chinese Nationalist troops, and a blockade of the Chinese coast.

"In recent days," Morse said, "I have spoken in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ohio on the MacArthur issue and I am satisfied that as the American people come to reflect on the MacArthur program they will not support those leaders of the Republican party who have tied themselves to the MacArthur program."

"I think that the MacArthur dispute no longer has any relationship to personalities. It now has become a question of what the foreign and military policies of the United States should be in both Asia and Europe."

"We've got to hold in one place and fight in the other because we are not ready to conduct a global war," he said.

MacArthur told Congress 10 days ago that such a program was the counsel of "defeatism."

Although some voices were raised to halt the quarrelling over MacArthur's dismissal, it appeared that the fight would continue to grow.

The Yen To Spend

It Used To Be Accepted That With Rising Incomes, Families Spent Smaller Proportion Of That Income On Consumer Goods; Pattern Is Being Changed

tailored to that pattern.

The pattern is still good, of course, but it may require some alterations to fit the new style trend.

Everybody knows that the total dollar volume of outlays on consumer goods in general has been going up steadily and sometimes zooming in recent years. An increasing population and a swelling stream of personal incomes furnish a ready explanation.

It would also be true, in theory, that—after adjustment to take out the effect of higher prices and taxes and the increase in population—proportionately less should be spent out of that higher income.

Commerce Department economist Louis Paradise and co-workers have now come up with an analysis showing that it has been going the opposite way since the war.

They caution that "the postwar period is too brief to draw the conclusion that the consumption pattern is on a permanently higher plateau relative to income."

Mrs. Dees Hostess At Bridge For Recent Bride

On Wednesday afternoon between the hours of three to five o'clock, Mrs. James Dees, assisted by Mrs. Samuel Burwin Dees of Raleigh, entertained at her home on East Eighth Street in honor of Mrs. James Harvey Ward Jr.

The home was lovely with wedding bells, assorted spring flowers, pastel daisies, snow balls, jessamine, Stolle and Tullman roses, interspersed with plumosa.

Upon arrival the guests were welcomed and invited into the dining room, where Mrs. Leon H. Davis served punch and accompaniments. The table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a miniature bride and groom. A tiny bride and groom were surrounded by wedding bells, and over them angels were shadowed in a misty halo of white tulle. Lighted tapers were arranged to form shadow and halo.

After several progressions of bridge, Mrs. Ruland Davenport presented costume jewelry as holder of high score, while Mrs. T. G. Bassett Jr. was given stationery for the floating prize. The honoree, Mrs. Ward, was given a set of cocktail servers.

At the conclusion of play, Mrs. J. M. Bassett assisted the hostess in serving Vaseline topped with pink love birds and individual cakes topped with white bells.

Joint Hostesses Give Movie Party

ORFOTON—On Wednesday night, Mrs. Jake Worthington and Mrs. J. S. Chapman entertained informally in the recreation room of the Christian Church at a "Movie Party." Their sons, Howard "Buddy" Holcomb and John Chapman, together with All Jones' son and Mrs. A. M. Jones and L. L. Kittrell Jr. of Ayden were featured in the pictures which were made in California. The young men left together for Navy boot training in San Diego and there met with fellow trainees, Jim Reynolds and Ben Cutler of Englewood, Calif. The pictures were made with candid camera by parents of Jim Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Reynolds. They show scenes of the camp, a day of liberty and the boys on dress parade. These films were sent to Mrs. Chapman for showing and a number of friends and neighbors were invited to enjoy them. After the pictures which included a number of vacation shots of the Reynolds in the Grand Canyon and mountains of California, the hostesses served light refreshments. The table was centered with a bowl of pink and white spring blooms and lighted candles flanked this. Lime ice punch was poured by Mrs. Craven Hughes, salted nuts and cookies were served buffet style. There were around 45 guests who enjoyed the evening and among them Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Kittrell, Mrs. J. C. Andrews and Todd Kittrell of Ayden.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
April 30, 1911

The senior class of the Training school served a delicious luncheon to the faculty and Governor and Mrs. Jarvis at 5:30 Saturday afternoon in the library. The young ladies themselves, under the direction of Miss Pugh, prepared and served the following menu: chicken croquettes, peas in bread, potato souffle, bread and butter sandwiches, tomato salad, banana shortcake, coffee. The class has been taking cooking lessons only during the spring term. The luncheon was proof of the excellent work they have done and shows they are ready for either teaching or practicing the fine art of cooking. The luncheon reflected great credit on both the class and instructor.

Hollywood PYF Council Meeting
The council of the Hollywood Presbyterian Youth Fellowship met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Edwards Wednesday night, March 25, at 8 o'clock.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Margaret Evans. Devotion was directed by Miss Anne Carroll, reading from Matthew after which she led in prayer.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved; the roll was called with two officers absent. Reports were given by each officer with several good suggestions for the coming month. The works chairman, Carlton Evans, suggested that we divide our PYF into several groups and each group make a "sunshine basket," containing fruit, candle or shut-in friends in our community. The five to be visited this coming month are: Mr. Tom Tyson, Mrs. Lettie McLawhorn, Miss Ruth Evans, Mrs. Anna Laughinghouse and Mrs. Sara Haddock.

Our programs for May will be given by Margaret Evans, Betty Jo Carroll, Evelyn Carroll giving the "Galilean Story" on Mother's Day in the afternoon, and the last Sunday in the month will be devoted to the "Sunshine Baskets."

Our old business was then discussed. The play "Wild Ginger" presented by the Youthful Workers Club is to be given at Chisold School during the month of May, the date to be announced later.

This play will be sponsored by our PYF. Part of the proceeds will be used for the "Jeep for Sam" drive which is being sponsored by three Presbyteries in Eastern North Carolina.

After joining a friendship circle and singing "Blest Be the Ties That Bind," the council adjourned to meet on the fourth Thursday night in May at Janice Tripp's. Delicious and attractive refreshments of cherry and lime jello topped with whipped cream and cookies were served by our hostess and assisted by Nina Lou McGowan and Dennie Lee Hardee.

Semi-Centi Club Plans Year's Program

Mrs. James Briley was hostess to the Semi-Centi Book Club, which met on April 24th, at her beautiful new home on East Second Street.

Mrs. Frank Strawn, president, presiding, elected Mrs. G. C. Frye program chairman and Mrs. Bob Russ co-chairman; Miss Ola Ross, chairman of book committee with Miss Eloise Warren and Mrs. Joe E. Brown assisting for the next year. Mrs. Frye asked for discussion for a theme and "Foreign Countries and the United States" was voted upon as the theme of the year. The idea of this theme is to take people from various countries and compare their customs etc. with the ones settled in different sections of the United States.

After the short business period, the program for the evening was given by Mrs. Floyd Phillips. Mrs. Phillips presented an interesting program on "Interior Decorating." She discussed topics and good ideas for interior decorating from our leading magazines and passed pictures around to emphasize her points.

She expressed the need for harmony in a color scheme in a room and how to select the colors which add warmth or cooler colors according to the size of a room. This single thought is also used in selecting furnishings for one's home. There are really three types of furniture used; namely, Victorian, Early American, and Modern. Either one you prefer is all right provided the style of furniture picked is suitable to your surroundings. The information she had gathered proved informative and interesting and the vivid style she used brought your mind into instant thinking about how you could improve the interior of your own home by merely selecting and arranging room furnishings and room coloring with good taste.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Briley, assisted by her mother Mrs. Ruth Harris, served delicious refreshments consisting of tart topped with whipped cream, plums to cheese sandwiches and iced drinks.

Afterwards a tour of her home was enjoyed by all present.

ABOUT that old prescription Dr. Jones wrote for you two years ago. The bottle is on the shelf in your medicine cabinet, about one-fourth full. It would be safer for you and your family to discard it. Someone might take it by mistake, or a child might be attracted to it by the bright color and do himself harm. Many medicines deteriorate after exposure to light and air. On long standing, some compounds change their chemical structure. Yes, the safe thing to do is to throw it away. If illness again overtakes you, see your doctor. Bring his prescriptions to us for compounding.

Holly-Nisbet Vows Spoken In Private Ceremony Tuesday

MRS. RICHARD W. HOLLY

Miss Edith Nisbet, daughter of Mrs. W. L. Nisbet and the late Mr. Nisbet of Greenville, became the bride of Richard W. Holly, son of Mrs. F. M. Holly of Miami, Fla. and Mr. Holly of Charleston, S.C., Tuesday afternoon, April 24, at five o'clock. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride. The Reverend James A. Nisbet, brother of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The vows were spoken before an improvised altar. Floor baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and snap dragons flanked by palms formed a background for the candlelight ceremony. The bride and groom entered together. She wore a navy blue gabardine suit trimmed with white pique with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Nisbet chose for her daughter's wedding a black crepe dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of red roses and lilies of the valley.

Immediately following the wedding, an informal reception was held at the home of the bride. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. L. B. Kinlaw, Jr., Ahoskie, Mrs. H. J. Bowden, Mrs. J. H. Bride-Elect Honored At Crystal Shower

At a dinner meeting Thursday evening April 26, at the American Legion Dining Room, the Credit Women's Breakfast Club honored one of their members, Miss Mildred Lang, bride-elect of June 17, at a crystal shower in her chosen pattern. The president, Mrs. Lettie Bilbro, presented Miss Lang with a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Margaret Boykin gave an appropriate and beautiful reading on marriage taken from Mrs. Bilbro's mother's Bride's Book. A bridal centerpiece, flowers and table decorations in green and white made a lovely setting for the delicious barbecued chicken dinner, with ice cream in Tortoni cups, decorated with orange blossoms, bride's cakes, mints and coffee for dessert.

Following the social hour, a brief business session was held. President Bilbro welcomed a new member, Mrs. Callie Rue Williams, and a guest, Mrs. Leo Bishop. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Dorothy Copeland, who gave her club delegate report of the Dixie Council convention in Chattanooga, Tennessee on April 7-12. Mrs. Copeland's talk was interesting and informative. She gave a resume of last year's work by the Dixie Council, and the plans formulated for the coming year, as related to the Greenville club. Mrs. Copeland brought out many splendid features of the educational and entertainment program prepared for the delegates by the Chattanooga club, including the Credit Card given every registered delegate, inviting her to present the card as authorization to purchase any amount of merchandise that she desired at Chattanooga's leading business establishments, the bills for which would be mailed out to her on May 1. This, Mrs. Copeland said, tends to show with what increasing prestige and integrity a membership in the Credit Women's Breakfast clubs throughout the nation is being recognized.

Greenville, North Carolina
No announcements sent in town.

On Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock Miss Alice Foley Jones was wed to Richard O'Neil Singletary, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Singletary of Elizabethtown, in a private ceremony attended by members of the two families.

Mrs. Paul Toll, organist, played "If I Could Tell You" by Isabel Firestone and "To A Wild Rose" by Edward MacDowell as the guests assembled. While the couple were pledging their views, she softly played "O Perfect Love" by Barnby.

The couple entered the church unattended to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" by Richard Wagner. The bride was attired in a dress of tan and brown silk print with matching accessories. Her corsage was of bride's roses and valley lilies.

The Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony. The wedding march from "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn was played as the recessional.

The bride is a member of the Junior class at East Carolina College. The groom finished at East Carolina College in February and is now associated with the Liberty Mutual Life Insurance Company here.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home at 608 West Fourth Street.

Churches Of Christ, Scientist
"Probation After Death" was the topic of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches Sunday. The Golden Text is from Proverbs (21:16, 21): "The man that wandereth out of the way of understanding shall remain in the congregation of the dead... He that followeth after righteousness and mercy findeth life, righteousness, and honour."

Passages from the Bible include: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear shall live." (John 5:25)
And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth will be to us the resurrection and the life" only as it destroys all error and the belief that Mind, the only immortality of man, can be fettered by the body, and Life be controlled by death. (p. 292) ... The sin and error which possess us at the instant of death do not cease at that moment, but endure until the death of these errors." (p.290)

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

THE NATURE OF RETRIBUTION

Retribution is not something arbitrarily imposed upon individuals by fate. Rather it is something which is built into the universe and operates automatically. If we do evil, we will eventually overcome it. The only way we can stem the pursuing power of retribution is by repentance and restitution.

Recently I talked with a very old man whose mind goes back with remarkable clarity for more than 50 years. He told me about a boyhood chum of his who long ago persuaded several of his friends to go into business with him. Later he conspired with a large corporation to sell out his colleagues in exchange for a good job. And a good job it was. He came to the latter part of his life with a fortune of about two million dollars.

But he died penniless. At the very last, this man who had sold out his friends felt the cold hand of retribution laid on his shoulder, and found himself in turn sold out by a crowd of rascals. They swindled him out of the last cent he possessed. A kindly creditor permitted the broken man to live in his great mansion, which had been a show place. And here, with the doors locked and shades drawn, the man who had betrayed others came to a miserable end, forgotten by most people and despised by the few who remembered that he was living.

Life as it is lived every day is more dramatic and amazing than any work of fiction ever written.

Another Measure Of Prevention

One of the most important functions of a police department is the prevention of trouble and property damage before it occurs.

The Greenville police department has taken another major step in that direction with the initiation of air rifle teams at the various schools in the city. The air rifle teams under the supervision of police officers, not only will provide youngsters a place to practice their marksmanship, but it will afford them valuable instruction in the proper methods of handling and caring for fire arms.

At the same time, it will give the boys targets other than window panes, street lights and song birds.

The youngsters of the city have shown a great deal of enthusiasm over the formation of the rifle teams in the city schools. If the program is kept active, the number of youngsters who participate in it will continue to increase . . . and at the same time, the number of window panes and street lights which are shot out by air rifles will decrease.

A Message Which Should Be Heeded

A dramatic story is unfolding before the eyes of the American people as Businessman Robert Vogler reveals little by little the details of his life of 17 months as a prisoner of the Hungarian Communists.

With his story of the nightmare of experiences in the Communist prison, Vogler is attempting to warn the people of his native land "what happened to me can happen to them." Vogler's story, and his warning indeed should not go unheeded by the American people.

The United States paid a large price in concessions for the release of the 39-year-old Vogler. The price in itself is indicative of the Democratic emphasis of the importance of a human life in this time when so many lives all over the world are being expended for the creation of greater totalitarian powers.

But aside from the price which the United States government paid for the life of one of its citizens, the message which Vogler has for his fellow citizens is a priceless testimony which should bring home once more to the American people a realization of the ruthlessness of the foe which is attempting to destroy throughout the world the freedoms which have been purchased at so great a sacrifice through the years.

The purpose of his message Vogler has put in his own words:

"The American people must be made aware of what can happen. I feel that every individual American should realize that what happened to me can happen to them if we don't all band together to destroy these enemies of individual freedom, independence and liberty—of the right of a person to go where he wants and say what he wants to say without hindrance by authorities or police."

Vogler is an American who enjoyed his freedom, and then had it snatched away from him for 17 months. His freedom has now been restored. His warning to the American people is the warning of a man who had his freedom taken away; and though his words may sound trite, he is an individual who appreciates the full meaning of his own statement: "You never realize what freedom means until you lose it."

A New Ray Of Light Breaks Through

A new ray of light has pierced the gloomy situation which has surrounded the strike-bound Royal Cotton Mill of Wake Forest since the strike began April 7.

On the heels of the latest outburst of violence at the plant Friday night has come an announcement that President Everett Jordan of the mill will sit down at the bargaining table with the union representatives a week from today.

The strike at the mill has been surrounded by as much or more violence as any strike in the state in recent years. It has caused a great deal of concern not only among industrial management and industrial employees throughout the state, but among the rank and file citizens as a whole.

Highway patrolmen have been placed on duty at the plant around the clock to prevent further violence, but The Reflector hopes the forthcoming conference between the mill officials and the union officials will produce a peaceful settlement of the dispute.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—President Truman's most spectacular and most publicized outburst of petulance have had a personal motive or origin and have not affected adversely high affairs of state.

No great national interest, for instance, suffered seriously from his rebukes to a boyish music critic, Bernard M. Baruch, James P. Byrnes, John L. Lewis, the United States Marines, National American Legion Commander Earl Cocke Jr., and lesser figures, who woke up some morning to find themselves in Mr. Truman's literary doghouse.

Indeed, recognizing that the man from Missouri is both human and harassed, many tolerant people understood his sputtering retortations from on high, even if they thought them unbecoming in the leader of a great nation.

Many were amused and sympathetic when, in looking forward to release from White House restrictions and confinement, he vowed that he would "go around and punch the nose" of a couple of reporters and commentators who had offended him by their writings and reports.

PETULANCE—But Mr. Truman's latest example of personal and political vindictiveness threatens to jeopardize major mobilization policies on the farm front. From all indications on and off Capitol Hill, it has promoted discord and hard feelings among the major organizations responsible in large part for stimulating food production in this critical period.

It threatens prompt and effective stabilization of the national economy in this turbulent time as seriously as did his month-long break with labor leaders over the terms of wage-price regulations. That dispute has held up imposition of firm and permanent controls for more than two months.

The new wrangle over farm personalities in the defense setup has likewise been responsible for a similar failure to fix proper ceilings on foodstuffs from the farm to the corner grocery store. One effect has been the recent sharp boost in food prices, especially meat.

Seen in this light, the presidential petulance is no private joke or personal matter. It is the American people who pay the bill for Mr. Truman's whimsicalities, to use a charitable description of his outbursts.

MISSISSIPPI—Allan B. Kline, the head of the nation's largest and most influential agricultural organization—the American Farm Bureau—is the most recent object of presidential anger. In his field Mr. Kline ranks with William Green, Philip Murray and John L. Lewis in his field.

But when Mr. Truman named the seventeen-man committee to advise Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson on general economic problems, Mr. Kline's name was missing from the four-man farm group. The President selected the presidents of the three other major farm units—the National Grange, the Farmers Union and the National Council of Cooperatives.

AGRICULTURAL—Secretary Brannan had, naturally, proposed Mr. Kline for the place. But Mr. Truman crossed it out, and appointed Ray B. Wiser of the California Farm Bureau, a Kline state auxiliary, to represent the biggest organization. Mr. Wiser is not even a member of the Farm Bureau's board of directors.

When Mr. Wiser wisely refused to serve, Robert B. Taylor of Oregon, a member of that state's bureau, was substituted. Although Mr. Taylor is regarded as an able man, bureau members doubt that he understands the broad agricultural problem as well as Mr. Kline.

TEMERITY—Mr. Kline's offenses have been political rather than personal. He was an adviser to Thomas E. Dewey in the 1948 campaign. He had been mentioned as a possible Secretary of Agriculture in the event of the New York Governor's election over Mr. Truman.

Reflecting the farmer's dislike of subsidies, which tend to make them the consumers' "goat" for high cost of living difficulties, Mr. Kline has opposed the Brannan two-price plan. In the interest of reducing federal expenditures, he also had the temerity to urge a 20 per cent reduction in the Department of Agriculture's appropriations.

Thus, as General Douglas MacArthur discovered, it is perilous to disagree with Harry S. Truman.

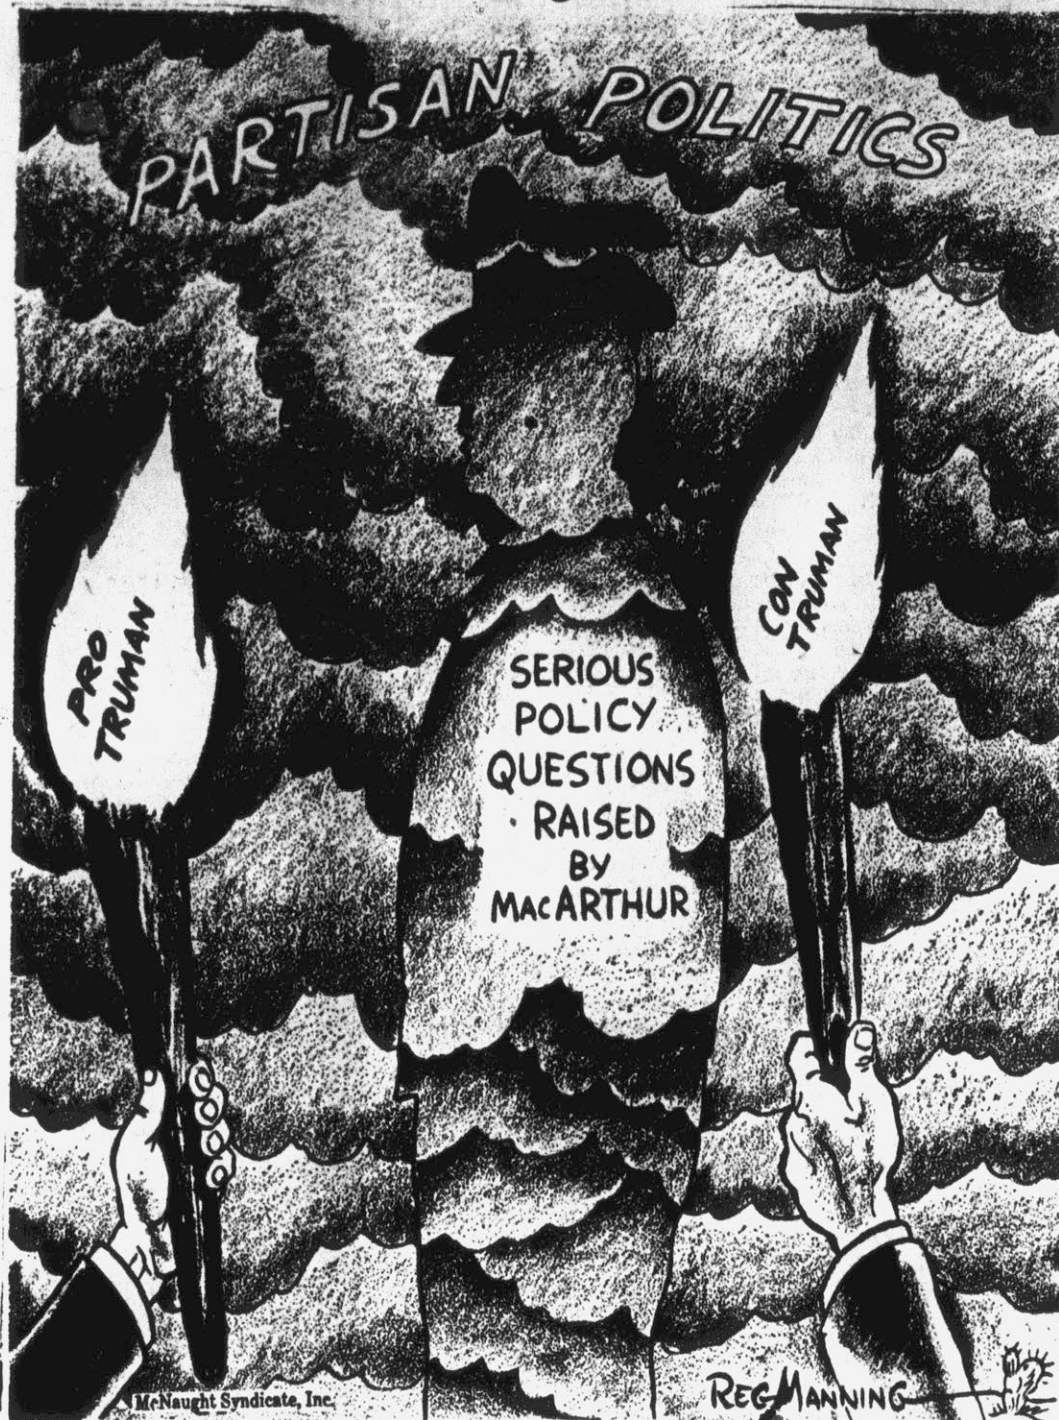

BLOCK—Defense Secretary Marshall's petroleum advisers from private industry are the principal advocates of the theory that Russia does not dare to engage in all-out war for several years. Although they may not understand military tactics and technique, they know oil. And without this product modern armies, navies and air forces cannot operate.

Russia's supply is estimated as sufficient for no more than a year's full-scale fighting. The Chinese Communists cannot mount a major and prolonged aerial offensive in Korea or elsewhere for want of this fuel. They cannot get a large supply from Moscow under present circumstances.

Even if Stalin seized the vast petroleum resources of the Middle East—Iraq, Saudi Arabia, he would do him no good. The pipe lines run toward the Mediterranean and the Arabian Gulf, not toward Russia.

Allied bombing and submarines could block any attempt to transport the oil by vessel through narrow stretches of water in this area. Railroads are totally inadequate to haul large quantities to Russia's interior, or to two-front battle lines in Asia and Europe. So, no oil—no war!

The Fading Soldier

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C.

By LYNN NISBET

Daily Reflector Bureau

IMPATIENT—The besetting sin of the American people is impatience, in opinion of one very astute man who has spent many years of his life seeking to improve educational, economic and social conditions in North Carolina. He voiced the fear that western civilization may lose its present fight with oriental ideology largely because of the patience of the Orientals. We fail to achieve complete results of culture because we seemingly can't afford to wait for orderly processes. The man said it was somewhat like the lad who planted a grain of corn—and dug it up every morning to see if it had sprouted. Something of the same kind of reasoning is applicable to North Carolina politics.

RUSH—Folks around Capitol Square are politically conscious and have historic precedent to prove the wisdom of guessing early and guessing right on who will be the next governor or other high elective official. Hundreds of Capitol square denizens are in a dither right now because they can't decide who will be the winner in next year's election. Newspaper and radio reporters who make the Capitol beat also are eager to find out and be the first to publicize intentions of this or that prospective candidate. Actually the time for decision is not as far ahead as one might think, because within ten and a half months the time for filing notice of candidacy for state office will have expired. The primary is about thirteen months off. Despite this fast narrowing margin of time, there is no more assurance now than there was a year ago—perhaps not as much—who is likely to enter the race. Capitol square doesn't like that and wants to rush decisions.

To that end rumors have gained currency that certain men will announce around the first of May—and if the announcements are not forthcoming there may be baseless charges of bad faith. As a matter of fact one prospective candidate has already been ridiculed as vacillating and unable to make up his mind because he had not made formal statement of intent a month ago.

BIG JOB—There is reason for prospective candidates holding back as long as possible on definite commitments; but there is also necessity for starting a campaign early in order to make the rounds of the state. Kerr Scott for governor in 1948 and Willis Smith for U.S. senator in 1950 waged successful campaigns over a period of about five months, or less. Each will tell you it was a nerve-racking and physically wearing business. And both will admit they left many things undone that would have been helpful if there had been a little more time. Orderly visiting of every county will take about six months. Anybody who had had experience in a state political campaign knows there is no such thing as "orderly visiting."

SHOOT—The chances in the far west one day, the far east next day, and other thousands of miles of duplicating travel even over candidates and campaign managers have done the best they can do in eliminating duplications and arranging dates in sequence.

COUNCIL—Major interest centers in the governor, but there is always some advance attention to other elective offices which constitute membership on the council of state. That is particularly true when incumbent council of state members become logical potentials for the governorship. It is generally assumed around Capitol square that Thad Eure can be secretary of state as long as he desires, but it is also known that he has ambitions to move over to the southwest corner of the Capitol sometime. Brandon Hodges probably will have no opposition for state treasury, but again he also is being diligently promoted by some of his friends as a candidate for governor. L. Y. (Stag) Ballentine is in somewhat similar position with respect to the post of commissioner of agriculture. Clyde Erwin, superintendent of public instruction has long cherished gubernatorial ambitions. So far as can be learned there is no real desire on part of Auditor

Henry Bridges, Labor Commissioner Forrest Shuford, Insurance Commissioner Waldo Cheek or Attorney General Harry McMullan to do other than keep the posts they have for a good while longer. None of these men are saying much, taking the position that the best campaigning they can do either to hold on or to move to higher office is to do the best job possible where they are. It doesn't make any of them mad to talk about governorship prospects.

CAMPAIGNING—Diligent attention to present jobs doesn't mean they are not interested in a bit of electioneering throughout the state—just in case. Eure, Hodges, Erwin and Ballentine will accept invitations to speak almost anywhere on relatively short notice, even if the trip entails a hundred miles or more of night driving. That is hardly entirely due to immediate interest in present conditions. Former U.S. Senator William Umstead, most frequently mentioned as a sure candidate for governor, has also traveled thousands of miles and made dozens of speeches which could not be interpreted as just furthering his interests as a practicing attorney in Durham. For these reasons it might be argued that the gubernatorial campaign is already under way, although no formally announced candidates are in the field.

STRATEGY—Proper timing is one of the most important features of political strategy. Just as soon as a candidate announces he becomes fair game for everybody to shoot at. Advantages inherent in early announcements may well be offset by disadvantages in becoming a common target. Then, too, the type of campaign to be waged has a lot to do with appropriate time for announcements. Some men can accomplish more by steady plugging over a long period, while others can succeed only with a whirlwind campaign designed to sweep everything before it without too much time for digesting platforms and promises.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

DOESN'T PAY

(Williamston Enterprise)

The high cost of corruption and petty acts associated with President Truman's Administration is being brought home to this nation.

When President Truman faced his supreme test, he found the going tough. He had bogged down with the Macarons, his bourbon, his poker games. It is possible that the man's faults inflated all out of their true proportion, but the stigma was there, and because it was there the President is finding himself hardly big enough to support his action retiring MacArthur even though the action was in order.

OVERTIME ABUSES (Washington Daily News)

Our attention is directed to the overtime abuses now current among some government employees.

The case of J. Izso has been cited. It was revealed that Izso's base salary is $130 per week as a foreman at an air base in New York. But one particular week he collected a salary of $543.

If we accept the normal work week as 40 hours, then we can understand that by working 10 hours per day for four days, Izso completed his regular work on Thursday evening.

But he did not stop there. He worked 2 1/2 hours on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. In the first place it seems that any man who is able to work 23 1/2 hours out of 24 for a period of three days has some strange physical ability denied to most people. He certainly could not operate on full mental capacities for that period without any sleep.

The government is doing exactly right in trying to stop such abuses. They should not be allowed at all. Any man who can perform such a back breaking job for a week is bound to be dulled. And the fact that overtime, double time, and straight time are combined to allow him to make a wage in one week of $543 is just stupendous.

Apparently, this is not an isolated case. There are thousands of others grabbing gravy from the tax payers just as this case shows. And it is you, Mr. Taxpayer, who is footing the bill. And it is our government, Uncle Sam's, which is allowing such an abuse or such abuses to take place. It is disgraceful.

Open Car-Window Season (Greensboro Daily News)

Over against the many things which we like about this time of the year, the Spring, the warmth, the sunshine, the fresh, invigorating breeze, is the circumstance that it also inaugurates the open car-window season.

Now there's nothing wrong with that, per se. Of course, after the closeness of the Winter, folks like to let all the Spring air and sunshine they possibly can in; and that goes for houses, offices, cars and what-not.

But we are confining this piece to the automobile field, and it isn't what is let into the car that we dislike; it's what's let or stretched out.

You must know what we're talking about. Haven't you gone cruising down the highway or country road yourself, enjoying the scenery, basking in the sunshine's warmth and drinking in all that your eyes, ears and lungs could hold only to come up behind another car, generally tooting along at exasperatingly slow pace, with the window down on the driver's side and an arm either resting on the window base or hanging out. You have no idea what it does. Does the driver mean he's going to stop any moment? Is he planning to pull over on the shoulder at the next wide spot? Is the idea of turning, and which way, somewhere in the back of his head? You suspect the driver ahead of you is one of those kind, but suppose you started by and just as you did the other car did stop or turn? Its driver could always say he had his hand out; and even if he didn't you wouldn't want to risk your own car or the safety of its occupants. Finally you sense the situation and go on by, but with an exchange of looks that certainly is not in keeping with the smiles, the happiness and the joy to all which Spring is supposed to bring.

Hands of automobile drivers, everybody ought to know, are made for keeping on the steering wheel and for giving signals to other drivers to come up alongside and grasp them with a vigor which isn't intended for friendly greeting but for punitive purposes.

Business Today

Merchandising the advertising

has become an important technique in business promotion. Many manufacturers have found they can multiply the effectiveness of their advertising by advertising it. They use advertising in the call dealers' attention to their advertising in newspapers and trade press and direct mail to magazines; they distribute blow-ups for dealers to display in windows and stores; they supply distributors with material for ads that will echo the manufacturers' ads, and distribute copies of ads among salesmen, other employees and stockholders.

Not all retailers, however, take full advantage of possibilities of merchandising their advertising. There are many ways of enhancing the effectiveness of an ad, often depending on the ad itself. Here are some techniques that have been used successfully by retailers:

Mailing postcards to customers, calling attention to coming ads.

Mailing reprints of ads to customers to gain a double impact. Using small attention-callers in the same edition, urging readers to see the main ad on a given page.

Using attention-callers the day before. Posting reprints of advertisements in windows, entrances and key spots in stores.

Mailing advance copies of ads to employees at home to alert them to requests for the advertised goods, and inviting employees to pass the copies on to friends and neighbors.

Posting ads next to phone switchboards, so operators can handle phone orders with ease and intelligence.

Using other media, such as radio, to call attention to newspaper ads.

Dressing store windows to reflect printed ads, by making displays resemble pictures used and by repeating the ad themes on display cards, etc.

Using "advertisized" store cards and tags.

Using contests, such as offering gifts to readers who can find a mis-spelled word, or a prize to the person who can guess closest to the dollar total of an advertised sale.

There are many other possibilities; they are limited only by the imagination and ingenuity of the advertiser.

FEW GROUPS GAINED

IN MARCH SALES

While every retail group did more business in March than in February, when their total sales are adjusted for the season and number of shopping days, only drug stores, food stores and eating and drinking places showed a gain, the Department of Commerce reports.

February sales totaled $10,876,000,000. But the "seasonally adjusted" February sales were $13,032,000,000 and March sales $13,370,000,000. All groups did better in March, 1950, on both actual and adjusted bases.

WAX, POLISH INDUSTRY RULES PROPOSED

The Federal Trade Commission is now trying to set up trade practice rules in the floor wax and polish industry. It has drawn up proposed rules for consideration. Copies may be obtained by interested persons and firms from the commission's offices in Washington, and suggestions and objections will be received up to May 11, after which hearings will be held.

The rules define such terms as "wax," "slip proof," "slip resistant," "waterproof," "water resistant," "spot proof" and "heavy duty." After the rules are accepted by the industry, violators will be guilty of unfair trade practices.

COORDINATING CREDIT ORGANIZATION URGED

A call for the creation of an over-all organization to coordinate the policies of association activities in the consumer credit field has been sounded by Consumer Credit Letter of Chicago. It says that in an era of pressure groups, the credit industry is a "weakling." The many associations and groups concerned with consumer credit often overlap activities and cause confusion.

An over-all organization, it points out, could present a united front on such things as Regulation W.

NEW YORK (AP)—Whatever happened to money? Everybody used to like it. Now everybody seems to be mad at it.

Money once held its head so high and was so respected. Remember? People used to marry for money. They had an awe in their tone when they talked about money. They liked to hold it in their hands and jingle it in their pockets.

The highest tribute one man could say about another was: "Why, he's got money to burn." Money even had a voice of its own. At least folks used to say, "money talks." And they also had a saying, "Money'll getcha anything in the world."

A person who didn't have a proper regard for money was looked down on. It was said of one who wasted it—"He must think money grows on trees."

Today money has lost its top hat. It is an ex-hero with big clay feet. Money is shabby. Money is a bum, a no-good.

People see money now and they say, "What good is it?" They try to hold it in their hand . . . and it is gone . . . and they say, "What happened to it—did it evaporate?"

The man who used to brag he had folding money now wants to know if money is folding. Shakespeare saw it all coming years ago when he wrote, "Who steals my purse steals trash."

Anybody heard money talk lately? It certainly isn't deafening anyone I know. A five-dollar bill today wouldn't dare lift its tail in a five-and-ten-cent store.

Whoever anyone says, "well, you'll have to make this money go a long way." That's just an old joke now. A ten-spot can get you past two counters in a grocery store without limping.

What happened to money anyway? It was a champ. It had the world at its beck and call. It would buy everything except happiness, and people laughed. "And what good is happiness?" Now they smile sadly and say, "What good is happiness? It won't buy money." That is the new way of low-rating money.

You used to go "buy-buy" with money. Now money just goes "bye-bye."

Children used to like to hear their baby banks clink. Now if they don't rustle instead of clinking they begin to hate their father and mother.

Whatever happened to money? Did it just get old and tired? Did people get sick of looking at it? They don't even carry it around the way they did in the old days. They just trade paper checks back and forth, and hardly ever see what once was called "The real thing."

Money . . . money . . . money. A roll big enough to choke an ox no longer will buy you a square meal. If you open your billfold and tell a fellow, "That ain't hay," he has an answer. "I can tell it ain't hay," he says, "but just what is it?" He doesn't even recognize it.

Whatever happened to money? It used to be such a fine friendly thing. I hate to see it in the state it's in. Some folks still stouly say nothing's wrong with money. They say it's just as good as it ever was. They say that what is really wrong is a thing called the high cost of living. Well, all I say is, somebody'd better do something about that darn cost of living then. Because right now money—right or wrong—is getting all the blame.

Remember when everybody said, "You gotta give money credit?" Let's start giving money credit again. Otherwise maybe we won't be able to get credit for money.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Matthew B. Ridgway, pretty, young brunette wife of the new Allied Supreme Commander in the Far East, has successfully managed to keep out of the limelight since her husband's appointment.

An Army corporal answers the phone at the Ridgways' Quarters, Number Seven, at Fort Myer in nearby Virginia. Photographers and newsmen have had little luck in getting to her.

She has appeared in public only on rare occasions. One of these was a benefit fashion show for the Army Medical Center, where she and Mrs. Frank Pace, wife of the secretary of the Army, assisted in pouring tea. She also served on the committee for a house and embassy tour held for the benefit of the Washington Home for Incubables and was co-chairman for a benefit art exhibit.

Mrs. Ridgway, who was married to the general in 1947, is an accomplished artist herself. She has exhibited her still-life studies in oil with the National League of American Penwomen, of which she is a member. She says painting is merely a hobby, or avocation, that her vocation is being a wife and mother.

Right now the writing of a daily letter to her husband in Tokyo and taking care of Matthew Jr., who is two, consumes most of her time, though she still continues to roll bandages for the Red Cross.

Friends here are looking forward to another visit from the U. S. Minister to Luxembourg, Perle Mesta, the Capital's former number one hostess. She is expected to arrive in this country in May, but her visit will be brief, and there apparently will be little time for partying. Mrs. Mesta writes friends she is coming back to fill some speaking engagements, one of them in Houston, Tex., on May 18 when she will address the annual convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Indonesia's Susan B. Anthony was Raden Adjeng Kartini. She pioneered the feminist movement in that far-away land more than 50 years ago.

Her birthday anniversary was celebrated here with a Kartini Day tea given by Mme. Ali Sasroadjodjo, wife of the Indonesian ambassador. Invitees to the colorful party were some of the country's outstanding women leaders, including women members of Congress.

Mme. Ali and ladies of the embassy staff wore their native costume. This consists of a kabaja, a loose tunic blouse, and a kain, an ankle-length skirt fashioned from a native printed fabric wrapped several times around the body.

The SIREN of SILVER VALLEY

By PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 7
Shorty was gazing across the creek towards the Star. He said, "They've been watchin' us, and leavin' a bunch of nice young stock like that all gathered and waitin' for them to pick up might prove too much of a temptation. Tell you what, I'll stick around here and watch 'em. There's bacon and beans and coffee in the shack. I'll be down right here with 'em tonight."

"Not alone," said Jeff. "I've got to go back to give the boys their orders. Soon as I eat I'll ride back and we'll spell each other during the night."

He set out at once on the two hours' ride to the ranch house. The other three men had preceded him and he found them in the mess shack. He told them what he and Shorty had done and instructed them to join him and

McCabe as soon as they could in the morning in order to drive the young stock down the valley. Diana met him at the door and he told her briefly what they had done and received her approval. They ate supper together, topping off the meal with a cake baked by Maria. When he had finished eating, Jeff cut a slab from the cake and wrapped it in a napkin. "For Shorty," he explained. "I reckon he deserves it."

As he left the house he saw Sam Cooper riding into the yard. The lawyer dismounted, greeted him and asked, "Am I too late for supper?"

"There's a little left, I reckon. Diana's inside. You'll have to excuse me; I have a night-herding job ahead of me." He told Cooper of his intention to share the night vigil with Shorty.

Cooper nodded. "Good idea. Do not imagine they'll try anything, though; probably wait for us to make the break. Luck to you!" Jeff rode away wishing that the job of keeping Diana company were his. He experienced a little pang of jealousy but thrust it aside immediately. Sam Cooper wasn't an old man by any means and he seemed on excellent terms with Diana, but he was not at all prepossessing and he did handle Diana's business.

His frown changed to a grin. "Ruth Starr told me," he muttered, "that I'd be just like Walt and Ben, and if I don't watch myself I'll be just like them."

Darkness gathered as he rode and presently the stars began popping out, seeming to hang right

Negro Home Demonstration News

Beginning on April 29 and through May 5, the Negro Home Demonstration Clubs in Pitt County are joining rural club women all over the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico in the observance of National Home Demonstration Week.

The theme for the week is "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World" and the clubs are studying means of forwarding the family health, comfort and happiness. In foods and nutrition they are working out better ways to provide the whole family with healthy meals, and by buying wisely, making new garments from old, cleaning and repairing, are some of the ways the club members are keeping the entire family modestly clad.

They are making further inroads on household drudgery by modernizing homes and are beautifying their homes by making slip covers, renovating furniture, making curtains and perceiving handicraft. To help save off the rainy day, homemakers help their husbands with financial planning by using increased income to pay off debts and setting aside a nest egg for security in old age.

Greater family unity is promoted by the Family Relationship program in planning family fun, sharing responsibility for family chores and serious study of the physical and psychological development of infants and adolescents.

In the course of the participation in the home demonstration program the interests of rural women have advanced far beyond the four walls of their homes. From better homes to better communities has been a logical step.

The brittle star, a cousin of the starfish, is so fragile it is seldom found in shallow water disturbed by waves.

McCarthy Warns Purge In Gov't Must Come Soon

FRIENDSHIP, Wis. — (UP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) says "we may not be able to wait until 1952" to purge from the government persons he accuses of being communist sympathizers.

McCarthy addressed more than 2,000 persons yesterday in honor of Mitchell Red Cloud, Wisconsin corporal posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor. McCarthy said he had been asked why he does not wait for the 1952 elections to seek ouster of the accused fellow-travelers. He said the situation is so serious there may not be time to wait.

overhead. There was no moon and he held his course by watching the sky where it showed above the dark masses of the hills. It was as silent as death itself and for some reason a premonition of impending danger gripped him.

The chack stood against the blackness of the hills and he spent nearly an hour locating it. It was the glint of starlight on a window pane which directed him to it, and he approached with the expectation of being challenged by a vigilant Shorty. There came no hail from the darkness, and he finally dismounted and found his way to the open doorway of the line cabin. He called softly, "Shorty!" and when he got no answer repeated the call in a louder tone.

There was no answer, and he stood for a moment wondering where the cowboy could be. It was then that he became aware of the silence around the shack; there was no lowing of cattle from the corral, no sound whatever but the murmur of the creek. Sudden apprehension gripping him, he dropped the rein to anchor his horse and felt his way along the shack and around its corner.

The rails of the corral showed dimly in the starlight, and he followed them to a place where the bars had been removed he went inside and circled the enclosure. It was empty. Shorty's horse was not here nor were the cattle they had gathered. Face tight and grim, he found his way back to the shack. He groped his way inside, struck a match and saw a lamp standing on a table. He lighted it, turned up the wick and looked about him. His gaze lowered slowly, came to rest on a huddled heap close to the wall. He compressed his lips and walked swiftly towards it. "Shorty!" he said again, and knelt on the floor.

All he needed was one look. Someone had shot Shorty squarely in the face. He knelt there for a long time staring down at the dead man, bitterness welling up on him. The Star had struck, and somehow he felt sure it was Shag who had led them. Shag and his six, burning with anger at the Double D, taking advantage of the very first opportunity given them to even the score.

He gently straightened the contorted limbs and crossed the gnarled hands on Shorty's chest. Then he picked up the gun which lay beside Shorty and pushed it behind his waist band. He whispered, "I'll pay them back, old timer, and I'll pay them back with your lead."

He dug slowly and carefully, making the grave deep and keeping the sides smooth and even. When at last he climbed out he heard the slow beat of hoofs and looked over the pile of earth and saw a rider approaching at a walk. The sun was up now and recognition came at once. The rider was Ruth Starr.

She reined her horse to a halt and looked down at the freshly dug grave and then at him. He said harshly, "Go ahead and crow." "I didn't come to crow." The voice was dry, husky. "I came to find out what happened last night."

He laughed scornfully. "As though you didn't know!" "But I don't know," she spoke quietly and her eyes were troubled. "We heard shooting, and this morning I saw that the cattle you'd gathered were gone. Then you came out and walked up here and I saw you were digging and I guessed that a man had been killed."

"That's right. Just a poor old cowhand, Shorty McCabe." His voice hardened. "Do you mean to tell me your father didn't send Shag Dolan with a bunch of men over here to run off those cattle?" "If it was Shag he did it on his own responsibility."

He was bitter and angry. "Don't make it worse by lying. I'm not kicking am I? This is war and the Star struck first. Well, when I start striking there'll be no let-up, no mercy until the whole bunch of you are driven from Silver Valley."

She sat on her horse looking down at him. "I don't suppose it would help to say I'm sorry. I am. Terribly sorry." He made an angry sweep of his arm. "Go on; get out of here. I don't want your false sympathy and I don't want to hear any more lies."

Her hazel eyes blazed and he saw her lips tighten. She fought down her anger but her voice was sharp. "All right, I'll go. If it's to be that kind of war it'll be of your making. But you're wrong, dead wrong. I mean you personally. That woman has you bewitched. She contaminates every man she touches. She's greedy, selfish, cruel—and beautiful. And because she's beautiful and so, so sweet, you poor men fall to see the rottenness of her heart. If you want an example, look at Walt and Ben. Gunning for each other, sworn to shoot on sight because of her. And when she's through with them she'll toss them aside like a dirty handkerchief."

Scorn came into her eyes. "Man, she sure has you bewitched!" (To be continued)

Robins Win One, Lose One

Swamp Elizabeth City By 13-3 Saturday;
Lose To Jamestown Here By 12-3 Sunday

By BERT MOYER
The Greenville Robins split their week-end games of exhibition play by defeating the Elizabeth City club of the Class D Virginia League here Saturday by a 13 to 3 score, but dropped their Sunday afternoon contest to the Jamestown N. Y. Falcons of the Class D Penn by a 12-3 score.

The Robins will wind up their exhibition play tonight when they journey over to Elizabeth City for a return game there. So far this season the Robins have a record of three wins and six losses in exhibition play.

Saturday's Game
After spotting the Elizabeth City club a singleton in each of the first three frames to give the visitors a 3 to 1 advantage at this point, the Robins came back in their half of the fourth frame to score three runs on two walks, two errors and a singleton to put across what proved their winning runs.

However, they were held scoreless for the next two frames but came back in the seventh frame to score five runs and added four more in the eighth off relief hurler Duke Mainini. A total of nine walks, two errors, four singles, a wild pitch and a passed ball enabled the Robins to do most of their scoring in the two final frames.

Pete Braun went the route for the Robins and scattered nine hits effectively, while walking only four men and striking out 10. From the third frame on he held the visitors scoreless.

Sunday's Game
A two-run homer by Falcon outfielder Emil Karlik in the top of the seventh inning yesterday afternoon put the Jamestown N. Y. club out in front to stay as they took an exhibition game from the Greenville Robins, 12-3, in their final appearance before local fans before the start of regular season play.

Johnny Kovalchick and Nick Rossman did the pitching chores for the Robins with Kovalchick being credited with the loss after giving up 10 hits and five runs, while Rossman gave up 7 hits in the last two frames which he worked. Seven of the hits were for extra bases, including five doubles and two round-trippers.

The Falcons were held scoreless until the fifth inning when they put across three runs on two singles, a double, two walks and a wild pitch.

The Robins came back in the bottom of the sixth inning to do all their scoring in the contest when they shoved across three runs, to knot the count at three-all at this stage of the game. Three singles coupled with an error and a walk gave the Robins all of their runs in this frame.

Emil Karlik, in addition to his two-run homer in the seventh, connected for two more doubles to give him three for four trips officially to the plate to lead the 17-hit attack off the two Robins hurlers.

Jack Dunlavey with a double and a single in five trips led the seventh attack off Ron Rozman, the Falcons' hurler, who went the entire route.

Bucs Lose By 9-5 To Naval Air Nine

Visitors Score Four Runs In Overtime Inning
To Gain Decision; Byrd Goes For Nine;
Hobbs Credited For Loss

Norfolk Naval Air Station snapped the East Carolina Pirates winning streak Saturday afternoon when they scored four runs in the top of the tenth inning to take a 9-5 decision in an overtime contest played in college stadium.

A triple off the bat of George Graybill in the seventh frame moved the Bucs of East Carolina into a temporary lead, but Naval Air bounced back in the top of the eighth and knotted the count at five-all.

Two hits in the top of the tenth, two wild pitches and a pair of errors on the part of Coach Boone's players enabled the visitors to take possession of the lead which East Carolina was never able to overtake.

The Pirates opened the ball game by scoring as Billy Smith got on by a base on balls with Smith advancing on two infield outs, scoring on a single drilled between short and third by co-captain Jack Wallace.

East Carolina held its slim lead until the third when the Naval Air boys moved the count to 3-2, a lead which they held until the seventh inning at which time Graybill's triple moved the Pirates ahead 5-4.

Jim Byrd received the starting mound assignment in the Saturday afternoon tilt, going for nine innings before giving way to Hobbs, who was replaced by Martin Byrd, Hobbs received credit for the loss.

Busy Bob...
Bob Kuzava moved up into the No. 1 spot on the Washington pitching staff when Sid Hudson came up with an ailing back. All through the training sessions and in the exhibition games, Kuzava was the leading prospect Manager Bucky Harris boasted for the chore of hurling on opening day. The big left-hander has worked with great determination and appears to be headed for his best season.

Kuzava had beaten Washington five out of six times before they were able to get him in a trade with the Chicago White Sox last season. Between the two clubs, Big Bob American League record when he managed to wind up with a record of nine victories and ten defeats.

The 210-pound southpaw has a world of stuff and with a little help from his teammates, should be a big winner.

Bob broke into baseball with Mansfield of the Ohio State League in 1941. The following season he moved to Charleston of the Atlantic League and then to Sam took over. Coming out of service, he earned a chance with the Cleveland Indians in the spring of 1946. He was with Baltimore in 1947 and 1948, until the White Sox got him. Southworth Has Optimistic Omen
BOSTON—(AP)—The fact that his Boston Braves have outclassed their three eastern rivals so far in the National League pennant race is regarded by percentage-minded Billy Southworth as the most encouraging omen of his highly successful managerial career.

The pre-season analysts had doomed the Braves to fourth place in the 1951 championship race but here they are with 10 wins out of 15 starts.

They have taken two out of three in Brooklyn, where they won only twice last season. The championship Philadelphia Phillies have been forced to bow four times out of six and so have the New York Giants.

The two games that the Braves dropped to the Giants were the only contests Leo Durocher's hapless performers have won in 14 tries. That is extremely irksome to the Braves, who are determined to collect usual interest in their remaining 16 clashes.

Meanwhile every rival manager drools with envy when Warren Spahn, Johnny Sain, Vern Bickford and Max Surkont, the Braves' big pitching four, are mentioned. They have accounted for eight of the club's 10 wins.

Thoroughbreds Die In Flaming Barns At Park
COLUMBUS, O.—(UP)—The stables of two veteran horsemen were virtually wiped out today as the result of a fire which roared through a barn at nearby Beulah Park yesterday and burned 25 thoroughbreds to death.

Herbert Jolley of Vermillion, S.D., said he lost 16 horses and a pony in the blaze. John Heinlein of Ft. Scott, Kans., said eight of his thoroughbreds perished.

Jolley, 42, was the leading trainer at a meeting held here last fall. A track spokesman estimated the value of the horses that perished at $50,000. He said damage to the barn and equipment would run about $11,000 more.

The two story frame building, which was made up of two apartments, was only damaged in the top section by fire, however, fire which had eaten its way through the floor, allowed considerable amounts of water to enter the bottom section of the house.
 No estimate was placed on the damage to the house last night.
 The house was owned by Lee Hannah.
 Yesterday, around 12:30, firemen were called to Speight's grocery on 14th street when an electric motor caught fire. There was only moderate damage firemen reported. It was the only alarm over the past week end.

College Choir To Sing In May Festival

Special music at the May Day festivities to be held at East Carolina College next Tuesday afternoon will be provided by the college choir (shown above), directed by Dr. Karl V. Gilbert of the faculty. By special request this popular group of men and women singers gave last week in Richmond, Va., a program of music at the Southern Division of the Music Educators National Conference. The choir is also preparing a group of numbers for the annual program presented during the spring by the department of music and for commencement exercises in May. Instrumental music for May Day will be provided by student musicians under the direction of Herbert L. Carter of the faculty.

Nursery School, Kindergarten To Enroll Children

Applications for admission to the Nursery School and Kindergarten at East Carolina College will be accepted from May 1 to May 15 and interested parents are advised to contact the Dean's office.

To be eligible to attend the Nursery school, a child must have reached its third birthday and not passed its fourth on June 15 of the year in which they plan to attend and no applications for admittance will be accepted by the college prior to May 1 of the year they plan to attend. Children admitted to the nursery school in September will be permitted to continue their work until the school closes in May. Therefore a child who becomes four during the school year will be permitted to complete the year. Enrollment is limited to sixteen children, preferably eight boys and eight girls.

Eligibility for the kindergarten requires that a child must have reached its fifth birthday and not past its sixth birthday on October 1 of the year in which they plan to attend. Applications for admission to the kindergarten will not be accepted by the college prior to May 1 of the year in which the child is eligible. Enrollment is limited to twenty children, 10 boys and 10 girls. Children admitted to kindergarten in September will be permitted to continue their work until the school closes in June.

Tuition for both the nursery school and kindergarten is $24.00 per quarter. The school year between September and June is divided into approximately three equal quarters.

LAST RITES FOR INFANT SON ARE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for the three-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Allan Stokes of Greenville were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the family plot in Greenwood cemetery. Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, officiated.

At the opposite end of the Korean front, an estimated three communist battalions—possibly 2,000 to 2,500 men—hit the U.N. bridgehead north of the 38th Parallel but at last reports were successfully holding their new positions.

Dr. R. C. Simonini To Address Lecture Club

Dr. R. C. Simonini, faculty member of the department of English at East Carolina College, will speak on "The Poetry of Dante in the Divine Comedy" before the Faculty Lecture Club of the college Monday evening, April 30, according to an announcement by Dr. Hubert Coleman, program chairman. The meeting will be held at 8:00 o'clock in the Flanagan auditorium and will be open to club members, other staff members at the college, and their guests.

The Yen To . . .

The average income per American was equivalent to $652 in 1941. It has gone up since, but not so much as the unadjusted dollar figures made it seem: to only $761-a-year in second quarter 1950, and $765-a-year in the first quarter of 1951.

Although the rises weren't so steep viewed that way, they should have resulted in a lesser proportion of consumption outlays and a greater proportion of savings to live up to the theory and match prewar experience.

In "real" terms, however, in 1941 Americans on the average saved 12 per cent of their income; just before Korea, saving was off to 7.9 per cent; this year, it dipped to 7.7 per cent.

An Embargo . . .

Britain takes the attitude that she doesn't want to embark on such a project as the embargo unless it can be made effective. She feels that the Good Offices Committee of the U. N. should try to persuade Red China to stop fighting.

Short Yam Crop Forecast For '51

By J. W. SUMNER
 Assistant County Agent

The Crop Reporting Board of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics has made its first report for the United States on the indicated acreage of sweet potatoes based on farmers' intentions about March 1. The forecast is for the smallest acreage in the last twenty years.

This is a 22 and one-half percent decrease from last year. The forecast is for 444,000 acres which is 112,000 acres less than 1949 when green potatoes were selling for over $2 per bushel.

Only one state is showing an increase and that is Virginia with 4 percent. Louisiana, which is the largest sweet potato grower with 102,000 acres last year, is indicating a 41 percent decrease. North Carolina is showing a 15 percent decrease.

What effect will the expected short crop have on the price of sweet potatoes this fall? It is only reasonable to assume that the price will be considerably higher than last year since supply and demand largely govern the price of sweet potatoes.

Seven Pines HD Club Has Meet

A regular meeting of the Seven Pines Home Demonstration club was held in the community building on April 24 with 19 members present. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. J. R. Britt, and the members sang "The Old North State" and repeated the collect. After the minutes were read, the treasurer gave her report and showed a balance of $114.64.

Mrs. May Jones made the motion, which was carried, that the club have as their float a comparison of the old and new bathroom fixtures. After this, the president turned the meeting over to Sue Rickhouse who gave a demonstration on food conservation, followed by Mrs. Alton Brock who gave a report on strawberries and Mrs. Ichabod Allen who gave a report on poultry.

Following the announcement by Miss Brickhouse concerning the music festival which is to be held on May 4, the club decided to have its May meeting at night in order

Appreciative Group Hears Piano Recital By Annette Hughes

Annette Hughes of Willard gave her graduating recital in music at East Carolina College Sunday afternoon before an appreciative audience gathered in the Austin auditorium. A senior at the college, Miss Hughes, played a varied group of compositions for the piano in a program sponsored by the department of music. She is a pupil of George E. Perry of the faculty.

The program for the afternoon began with selections by Handel and Bach, and included Mozart's "Sonata in A. K. No. 331," "Papillons" by Schumann, "Impromptu in E flat" by Schubert, and numbers by von Weber, Chopin, Debussy, and other composers. The young pianist gave excellent interpretations of the selections chosen for her program and won the approval of her audience.
