City Voters Off To Early Start In Today's Elections

Near-Record Vote Cast Before Noon; More Interest In Outcome Than In Recent Years

With sunny skies shining down on Greenville today, accompanied by the more than sunny countenances of the election candidates, the voting public got an early start at the court house and city hall this morning and cast a near-record vote before noon today for mayor, judge and solicitor of records court and aldermen of the five wards.

In the first city-wide aldermanic balloting, granted by the recent enabling act of the legislature, the voters cast 1,121 ballots at both polling places by 12 o'clock. That figure is a bit over 200 votes less than were cast two years ago during the first half of the day. But by one p. m. on May 1, 1949, 1,325 ballots had been cast, which left one hour for today's voters to surpass the record number cast in half a day two years ago.

Indications this morning at both polling places were that a record vote would be established. At both the courthouse (wards 1 and 2) and at the city hall (wards 3, 4, 5) the lines were queued up from the time the polls opened at 6:30 a. m. through the lunch hour. And by noon the courthouse voting led that at the city hall by only one vote—561 to 560. At both buildings the candidates presented a strong front in front of the doors without a pocketful of campaign literature.

All candidates today had to shift their last-minute campaign tactics from one building to the other, remaining at the courthouse for a few minutes to greet each voter and hand him some literature, then shifting back to the city hall for a reiteration of the short handshake and greeting, but to a different set of voters.

In years past only the aldermen could remain at their respective wards voting place to greet the voters. Today, however, they had to shift their polling positions from downtown to uptown and back again to make sure they talked to every possible constituent.

Hopes for a record turnout ran high among the candidates and most expressed the belief that by 6:30 p. m., when the counting begins, the city will see its highest vote on record. Although no accurate count of the eligible voters could be obtained today, it is estimated that there are about 4,800 names on the books. That number includes more than 600 new voters who have registered during the past ten days.

All candidates, when contacted this morning, stated the vote would run high due to the large number of candidates in most of the races. With five candidates in the race for mayor, which differs from two years ago when there were only two, the interest has heightened a great deal this year. And in addition to the plural-candidate mayor's race, there are four running for judge of city court, and four running for alderman in ward 4.

Only three incumbent candidates for their offices are unopposed. They are Yank Howell, alderman from ward 3; R. E. Rogers, alderman from ward 2; and Ed Bloom, solicitor of the court.

Renew Pleas For Postal Reforms

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report today renewed pleas for postal reforms to prevent corruption in the postal service.

Robert L. Johnson, committee chairman, said that sale of postmaster positions and mail carriers' jobs in Mississippi would never have occurred if congress had taken the advice of the Hoover Commission two years ago.

They Want To Fight

A Member Of The South Korean National Assembly Asks Arms And Training For Three Million Men Who Are Waiting For A Chance To Fight Communists

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

My good friend D. S. Kim, distinguished member of the South Korean National Assembly and director of the big Korean Pacific Press Service, tells me his country has plenty of manpower if it is trained and equipped by Americans.

"While Americans are being killed in the war," said Mr. Kim, "three million young Korean men are waiting for the chance to fight. If America will give us the arms and the training we will do the job. Our men are particularly well equipped because they know the country and its mountainous terrain."

"Korean military experts say that 500,000 Koreans, trained in American military tactics, and having modern equipment, could defeat any number of Chinese. Koreans had experience with the Chinese during the Japanese war."

Mr. Kim and Dr. Helen Kim (no relation), president of the Girl's College in Seoul, capital of South Korea, are in America on a goodwill mission. On behalf of the Korean people they have presented to the United Nations "Green-ings to the free nations of the world and the heartfelt thanks of a proud and agonized people who pray for the days when the promises made by all the nations of the world, that Korea may become a free, unified and independent nation, may be answered."

"We are going to see it through," Mr. Kim told me. "We don't know whether we are going to survive as Koreans, but we won't give up. South Korea must be armed and trained for future use. The war may be long. We have plenty of manpower."

"Koreans on the spot have to die anyway, so they might as well be soldiers. It takes time to train soldiers, so need American teachers now, to prepare for the future." I asked Mr. Kim what he thought about the view held in some U. N. quarters that a compromise peace might be acceptable, leaving North and South Korea separate states. He shook his head, and said: "You can't compromise with the Communists. That idea won't work."

'Slicked Up' For Court's Opening

Judge Susie Sharpe Makes First Appearance In Pitt

Superior Court's opening this morning was a unique scene. The reason for the larger-than-usual number of attorneys, their briefs tucked neatly under their arms, their hair slicked down to a fine spit and polish, was not caused by their anxiety over any certain case. Nor was it a disposition to put their best foot forward for their clients.

The occasion was the presence of Judge Susie Sharpe, making her first appearance in the Pitt County court as judge, North Carolina's first female jurist opened court promptly at ten o'clock and the court officials, the lawyers, the jurors and the spectators seemed to be trying to stifle their slight smiles of embarrassment as more than one person felt a tingle in ease in the presence of the judge.

However, Judge Sharpe put everybody at ease only seconds later as she got down to the business of calling the cases on the civil calendar. She excused a man from jury duty when they stated they were needed on the farm to set out tobacco but she examined each one to make sure their excuse was legitimate.

During the morning three divorce cases were heard, the only cases on the calendar that required the presence of a jury. Other cases were continued due to previous settlement out of court or the absence of either plaintiff or defendant.

Those divorces granted, all on grounds of two-year separation, were: Katie Payton Leggett from Nathan Leggett, Dunc. Smith from Pauline Smith, and James G. Manning from Ann Manning.

New Rifle Bullet Can Pierce Tank

CAMP ATTERBURY, Ind. — Donald G. Rozelle said today he had developed a rifle shell capable of piercing two and a half inches of armor plate at 150 yards.

Rozelle said the shell was designed as an anti-tank weapon for paratroopers. He said its velocity was greater than 9,000 feet a second while the army's standard rifle has a velocity of 2,300 feet a second.

Rozelle is assistant post engineer at Camp Atterbury.

No Winner From Their 'Bookie'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — (UP) — Telephone callers learned today why "Harry" displayed such vast ignorance Saturday in a matter dear to the heart of any bookmaker—the winner of the Kentucky Derby.

The voice they presumed to be Harry's was that of Officer George E. White, manning the telephone during a vice squad raid. Police arrested Harry J. Ellman.

Exchange Of Power Proposed

Utilities Body Considering VEPCO Deal; Take Up Topic Friday

A contract for an exchange of electric power has been negotiated between the Greenville utilities commission and the Virginia Electric Power Company, and is now under consideration by the local commission.

The announcement of the proposed interconnection of the lines of the local plant with the generating facilities of the private power company was announced today by Utilities Superintendent Martin Swartz.

The utilities commissioners already are familiar with the terms of the contract for the exchange of electric power, Swartz said, and are scheduled to consider the matter officially in a meeting Friday night. If the proposal for the tie-in of power lines receives the approval of the utilities commission Friday night, a joint meeting of the commission and the board of aldermen is expected to be called for May 18 at which the two boards will discuss the matter.

"This interconnection between the Greenville utilities' power lines and Virginia Electric Power Company as far as Greenville is concerned is equivalent to the installation of a 7,500 KW turbine and boiler at the local plant which today would cost in excess of $1,500,000," Swartz said. He explained the interconnection would increase the capacity of the local plant by 7,500 KW, and he added, "We would rather pay the facilities charge for the service ($20,000 annually) than install a new turbine and boiler. It will be cheaper in the long run."

The payments on a capital outlay for the Greenville plant to increase its capacity by 7,500 KW would amount to approximately $97,000 annually for the next 25 years, Swartz said.

"This interconnection will eliminate further bonds for the electric plant so far as we are concerned," Swartz declared.

If the interconnection is approved, the Virginia Electric Power Company will build a 110,000 volt line into the vicinity of Greenville, probably just north of the river, and install the necessary equipment to transform the voltage to 33,000 volts so it can be handled by the local plant. The local utilities would build its own lines from the plant to the point of interconnection with the 110,000 volt line.

Under the power exchange agreement which is set forth in the contract the local utilities and the Virginia Electric Power Company would pay each other a flat charge of three mills per KW plus the average cost of producing the power for the power exchanged. In effect, the exchange agreement probably would mean Greenville would get more for the power it sold VEPCO than it would pay per KW for the power it purchased because of the difference in the cost of producing the power. Also included in the contract is a provision by which the local utilities may purchase firm power from the private company when the capacity of the local plant is not sufficient to meet the local needs for firm power, and the company will provide as much firm power as the city wishes to purchase from it. In effect, this provision would eliminate the necessity for increasing the production capacity of the local plant in the future.

American Troops Arrive In Iceland To Aid Defense

REYKJAVIC, Iceland — (AP) — A contingent of American troops arrived by air today at Keflavik Airport, 30 miles from this capital, for the announced purpose of aiding Iceland's defense under the North Atlantic Alliance. The number was about 200. They were commanded by Brig. Gen. Edward John McGaw of Philadelphia.

The arrival of the troops apparently was no surprise to the people of this old island republic, since it was generally known that negotiations had been under way for some time. Nevertheless, the announcement of the arrival was published in extra editions of Reykjavik's newspapers.

The government statement threw little light on the mission of the Americans. It said only: "When Iceland joined the Atlantic Pact, it agreed that if war broke out the allies would have a similar position in Iceland to that they had during the last war. But it was entirely up to Icelanders to say when such a position would be granted."

During World War II Iceland was major assembly point for convoys to Russia. Members of Parliament's democratic parties were consulted, the government said, and it was agreed that now was the time to ask for defense forces. This island, with an area of 39,758 square miles and a population of only 140,000, has no Army, Navy, Coast Guard or Air Force of its own.

Sergeant Claims Men 'Disgusted'

Medal Of Honor Winner Outspoken On War Attitude

TOKYO — (UP) — An outspoken sergeant headed for Washington today to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Truman.

M-Sgt. Ernest R. Kouma, the "one-man tank corps" of last summer, is the only surviving army recipient of 11 men to win the nation's highest award in the Korean War. The only other survivor is a navy pilot.

Kouma, 31, spoke bluntly at a press conference before his departure. He said the soldiers in the battle line are "disgusted" with the Korean War "because there doesn't seem to be any end to it."

But the ex-farmer from Dwight, Neb., added that their disgust doesn't "interfere with their fighting any."

The medal citation said Kouma alone killed about half of 500 communists besieging his tank on the Nakdong, and thus covered the withdrawal of hard-pressed infantry units.

When the Reds surrounded the tank, he hopped out of the turret and manned the 50-caliber machineguns on the tank deck. Bleeding from two wounds, he kept firing. When the machine guns were out of ammunition, he used his pistol and hand grenades until the enemy withdrew.

Quiet On Front

TOKYO — (AP) — South Korean infantrymen pushed the ends of the battle line northward today. Other U.N. forces took up the slack in between while armored patrols probed for withdrawing Reds.

South Koreans pressed across the 38th parallel toward Red-held land in the east. Other Republican troops moved the western anchor of the Korea fighting line farther northwest of Seoul.

A tank-infantry column rumbled through Chunchon on the east-central front Monday, and a mile beyond, without meeting opposition.

Other armored groups fanned out all along the center. They found no Reds.

Caldwell Assails Defense Apathy

Civil Defense Head Says Many Lives Needlessly Risked

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell said today a defense against atomic bombing—"not perfect but a good one"—lies in a strong military organization backed by universal civil defense.

With organized civil defense, Caldwell said, hundreds of thousands of lives may be saved that otherwise might be lost in an atomic attack.

With good planning and training, he said, order and production could be restored and mean the difference between winning or losing a war.

Caldwell spoke before 1,200 delegates from 250 civic, labor and fraternal organizations at the opening of a meeting to establish non-Red-trained civil defense system. President Truman will address the meeting tonight in a speech to be broadcast at 9:30 p. m.

Caldwell called upon the delegates to "launch a nation-wide crusade against apathy" about civil defense needs. The vast majority of Americans are either apathetic or beset by fear and helplessness, he said.

"Our problem is to get those people to understand that an atomic attack does not spell doom—to understand that by taking certain simple precautions most people can continue to live and to work," Caldwell said. "We must persuade them to stop defying the first law of nature—that of survival."

Caldwell said that an atomic bombing could not be stopped if the enemy decided to make the attack.

"Despite our best military efforts at least 70 out of 100 bombers will get through," he warned, but with an effective civil defense, the nation will be able to protect "the two prime targets of an all-out enemy atomic attack—the will to win and our ability to produce."

Clem J. Randau, executive director of the Civil Defense Administration, said the availability of skilled technical services may make or break a community's effort to avoid a knockout blow.

Cancer Drive In City Still Short

Campaign Is $200 Short Of $2500 Goal Set For Greenville

To date, Greenville is $200 short of the $2500 goal set for Greenville in the 1951 Cancer Campaign and other towns in the county have reached their goal and even gone over it.

The city women's canvassers, under the direction of Mrs. J. R. Jackson and Mrs. Bill Sermons, have exceeded their goal which is included in the $2300 already collected toward the city goal. Reports from the colored VFW and the college canvassers are incomplete.

Fountain has reported they have gone over their goal of $150 by collecting $155.81. Winterville passed the $145 set for them by collecting $155.50. Griffon went over its goal of $135 with $170.40. Bell Arthur has reached its goal of $50 and Falkland has fallen $10 short of its goal of $80.

Bethel, Farmville, Ayden, Stokes, Grimesland, Chicod, Pactolus, and Belvoir have reported to the cancer headquarters in Greenville that they have completed more than half of their quotas and hope to complete them this week.

James Jenkins, chairman of the cancer campaign in Greenville, said there is a good possibility that the county goal of $4500 will be reached this week. He also said it is hoped all counties will exceed their goals because of the added financial responsibility of a home for cancer incurables and other operations which are expected to fall on county and district funds.

Industry Price Curbs

An Explanation Of An Order By Eric Johnston Which Is Intended To Limit Profits By An Industry; The General Freeze As Compared With New Ruling

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — This is an explanation of an order issued by the economic stabilizer, when industries can boost their prices and when they can't.

The order can be understood best, perhaps, by going back a bit and working up to it. The whole price control story started Jan. 26 when OPS, the Office of Price Stabilization, ordered all prices frozen.

This drastic decision was put into effect suddenly to halt rising prices because OPS didn't have the time then to figure out a method of price control that would be fair to everyone.

The nationwide freeze of Jan. 26 was, and was intended to be, only temporary until OPS could get around to the job of figuring out price ceilings for the various industries and business and individual items.

Because this job of working out fair ceilings is complex, OPS has not been able to do it all at once. It's been moving along, a step at a time, is still doing so, and has quite a lot more to do.

Testifies U.S. Policy Is To Keep Formosa Free And Refuse U. N. Seat To Red China; Says General Fired For Basic Differences Of Judgment

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of Defense Marshall contended to senators today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war proposals would risk "an all-out war with the Soviet Union."

Replying to MacArthur's attacks on the Administration's Far Eastern policies, Marshall also said:

1. The Truman Administration's unwavering policy is to deny Nationalist-held Formosa to the Chinese Communists and to oppose seating of the Reds in the United Nations.

2. A Jan. 12 memorandum of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which MacArthur contended supported his proposals for fighting the Korean war by direct action against Communist China, was drafted for use if American troops had to withdraw from Korea.

3. The memorandum was discarded when it became apparent that American troops had turned the tide of battle.

4. The memorandum contained 15 courses of recommended action, only four of which were quoted by MacArthur in his testimony last week to senators inquiring into his dismissal as Far Eastern commander and policy dispute involved in it.

5. MacArthur was fired because of "basic differences of judgment," not only with the President, but the Chiefs of Staff and Marshall himself.

Testifying at a closed session with his "combed" testimony made public later, Marshall said MacArthur's plan would risk an all-out world conflict "even at the expense of losing our allies and wrecking the position of free people throughout the world."

Marshall said the economic blockade against Red China, blockade of its coasts, air operations over Manchuria and use of Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa.

Marshall said MacArthur "would have us, on our own initiative, carry the conflict beyond Korea against the mainland of Communist China, both from the sea and from the air."

"He would have us accept the risk of involvement not only in an extension of the war with Red China, but in an all-out war with the Soviet Union," the Defense Secretary said, adding:

"He (MacArthur) would have us do this even though the effect of such action might expose western Europe to attack by the millions of Soviet troops poised in middle and eastern Europe."

MacArthur had argued that his proposals ought to be acceptable to other members of the United Nations. But he said that if they were not, the United States should "go it alone."

MacArthur contended, too, that the moves he advocated would not involve any greater risk of Russian entry into war than had the first American troops intervention in Korea.

He said Russia was hamstrung from a supply standpoint in Asia and could not launch a major offensive there.

Marshall, at the outset of his testimony, said he deplored what he called the necessity for testifying in contradiction to "a brother Army officer."

Then, in later discussion of MacArthur, he said it is "completely understandable and, in fact, at times commendable that a theater commander should become so whole-

The bride is a graduate of Belvoir-

Falkland High School and Hoyle's Business College. She was a member of the Alpha eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and until her marriage was employed by the Durham Life Insurance Company. College Couple Feted At Bridge

Miss Marguerite Austin and George Perry were complimented at a bridge party on Friday night when Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Browning entertained for them at their home in Brookgreen on Friday night. The home was graced with many attractive arrangements of spring flowers.

As the guests arrived, they were invited to find their places at tables set for a dessert course. The place of the honoree was marked with a bridal corsage. The tables were covered with white cloths and centered with tiny bowls of pansies. A refreshment plate of ice cream and cake was served by the hostess before card playing was started.

At the conclusion of several progressions of play, Miss Audrey Dempsey was awarded the high score prize for the ladies and Wendell W. Smiley was high winner for men.

Miss Austin was presented a gift of china in her selected pattern as a remembrance from Mr. and Mrs. Browning.

RALEIGH—In a formal ceremony solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4:30 in the First Baptist Church, Miss Frances Leigh Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee Morris of Greenville became the bride of Mr. Silas Judson Little, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Little of Charlotte.

The candle lighted interior of the church was decorated with a basket of lilies, snapdragons and carnations flanked on either side by a setting of palms and ferns with seven-branched candelabras and burning cathedral tapers. The kneeling bench was placed in front of an improvised altar.

Dr. Broadus E. Jones, pastor of the church, officiated using the double ring ceremony. Dr. Harry E. Cooper, organist, and Mr. Ed Hill, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father was wearing her sister's wedding gown of traditional candlelight satin fashioned with a portrait neckline of sheer illusion yoke. A shoulder-framing ruffle caught in quaint shirrings gave the off-shoulder effect. The full skirt was caught with shirrings and soft drapes about the hemline. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a tiara of seeded pearls. Is MacArthur Re-Kindling A Forgotten Flame?

Roger Babson's recent discussion as to the whys and wherefores of the great hold on America's imagination and the popularity of General Douglas MacArthur provides a lot of food for thought. In brief, Babson explains it as a natural phenomenon which followed a long period of drifting and doubt in the minds of the multitude.

In latter months there appears to be building a moral and spiritual rejuvenation among the ordinary peoples of America. A simple but rational creed of "for God and for country" is budding in the minds of those troubled by fears and doubts.

WASHINGTON—Uncle Sam will soon inaugurate one of the greatest, multi-billion dollar, giveaway programs in American history. The wealth of these federal gifts will eventually rank second only to the present-day worth of the billions of rich acres of homestead land that constitutes the vast cattle-oil-farm-industrial empire extending from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Ocean.

As with radio, millionaires may be turned out in an assembly-line process as a result of future decisions by the examiners and members of the FCC.

RESPONSIBILITY—Successful applicants must convince commission examiners and members that they possess the necessary financial and moral qualifications. They must have the $250,000 required to construct the average television station.

OVERNIGHT—Although between sixty-five and seventy ultra-high frequency channels will be available for television broadcasting, the FCC will turn over only fifty-two which will be in addition to the twelve now in operation.

High Noon Ceremony Unites Couple In Saturday Rites

On Saturday at high noon, Miss Jean Huffstetter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Reese Huffstetter of this city, became the bride of Pfc. George Alvin Penny Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Alvin Penny of Lynchburg, Va. in an informal ceremony held at the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville.

The Rev. Leonard Topping, pastor of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with four seven-branched wrought iron candelabra holding cathedral tapers. Matching baskets of white snapdragons, white gladioli and Garzia pom poms graced with Oregon fern were used on either side of the prayer bench before which the couple stood to speak their vows. Pews were tied with satin bows interspersed with fern.

Mrs. Guy Smith, organist, presented a program of nuptial music prior to the entrance of the wedding party. The traditional wedding marches from "Tannhauser" and "Midsummer Night's Dream" were used as the processional and recessional.

Miss Peggy Simpson of New Bern, soprano soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Mallote.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length dress of white embossed organdy with a V-neckline and a rolled standing up collar. The gown was fashioned with a crushed cummerbund and a bouffant skirt. She wore an open crown bonnet of tulle, from which fell a waist length veil, and matching embossed organdy gauntlets. She carried a prayer book topped by a white orchid and showed with satin streamers tied with valley lilies.

Miss Shirley Penny, sister of the groom, was the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a pink embroidered organdy gown and carried an old fashioned nosegay of roses, carnations and lilies of the valley, tied with orchid net and ribbon streamers.

Mr. George A. Penny acted as best man for his son.

Mrs. Huffstetter, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of navy blue with orchid accessories and a Giamelia corsage. Mrs. Penny, mother of the groom, wore a navy costume with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip to points in Virginia, to return on Sunday by way of New Bern, Drive and Asheville. For traveling, the bride wore a navy faille suit with white accessories and the orchid from her prayer book.

Mrs. Penny is a graduate of Greenville High School and attended East Carolina College. Prior to her marriage, she was employed by the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company stationed in Jacksonville. The groom graduated from the E. C. Glass high school in Lynchburg, Va. and prior to his entrance into the Marine Corps was employed as an inspector for the Lynchburg Foundry.

Present for the wedding were the following out-of-town guests: Mrs. W. O. Johnson of Lynchburg, Mrs. G. A. Huffstetter Jr. of New Bern, Mr. C. E. Huffstetter and Miss Cora Huffstetter of Gastonia, and Staff Sgt. W. T. Bergland, Sgt. P. R. Mathews, Corp. W. T. O'Leary Jr. and Pfc. A. J. Cincotti of Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Over 145 Entries Judged In AKC Show Here Last Week

Top Honors Go To Rock Falls Colonel, Entry From Virginia; Special Division Of Local Dogs Praised

Dog owners from all over the south flocked to Greenville Saturday for the first annual all-breed dog show to be sponsored by the Greenville Kennel Club at the Farmers Warehouse.

Total entries in the six divisions, which were judged during the course of the day's events beginning at 8:30, with a junior showmanship contest and ending with the presentation of the championship awards to the winners in each of the classes that night, numbered 147.

Members of the Greenville Kennel Club were in high praise of the fine showing made by Pitt County dogs entered in the local divisions as well as in the other regular classes. While the crowds were not as large as had been expected, bad weather could possibly have accounted for the sparse gathering.

Judging of the entries got under way at 11 o'clock, carried out by Mr. Forest N. Hall of Dallas, Texas, who recently toured Europe judging dog shows there and climaxing his trip serving as head judge for the Belfast Dog Show in Ireland, and Mr. Louis J. Murr, of Spring Valley, New York, both of whom are nationally known judges.

Top honors for the day's show went to an English setter owned by W. T. Falls of Richmond, Va., which was chosen best in the show. The animal currently has been taking first place honors in the showman class and top honors for best dog in shows held both in the North and South. The setter, Rock Falls Colonel, also walked away with first place prize and the blue ribbon in the sporting class.

A special contest was held for the local dogs entered in the show, five events which were won by Greenville dogs and one by an entry from Farmville. The local divisions were broken down into the same divisions as the regular show with the exception that only the dogs entered could come from Pitt County.

The show held here by the Greenville Kennel Club was part of a two day affair which was concluded in Wilson yesterday afternoon where a local show was held under the sponsorship of the American Kennel Club.

One entry, a toy poodle, was flown in from Hawaii, especially for the show, taking the first place award in the toy poodle division.

The show Saturday gave local dog fans a chance to see some of the best breeds of dogs to be found in the South, gathered together in one spot where they could be admired and observed.

For the winners in each of the many groups went both cash prizes and trophies in addition to other prizes presented by various individuals.

Winners in the local divisions which were broken down into the following classes are as follows:

Best local (sporting), Joe's Bobbie Boy (setter), owned by Mrs. J. L. Savage of Greenville.

Working Group, Valiant Kit of Hunters Green, (Newfoundland), owned by Lane Roberts of Farmville.

Non-sporting: Melton's Little Man (Boston Terrier), owned by Mrs. Don Melton of Greenville.

Best in Terrier Class: Meikin Rippe (Scottie), owned by Mrs. Frank Copeland of Greenville.

Best local dog in show: Joe's Bobbie Boy, (Cocker), owned by Mrs. J. L. Savage of Greenville.

Other winners:

Best dog in show: Rock Falls Colonel, owned by W. T. Holt of Richmond, Va. (English Setter).

Regular sporting: Rock Falls, (English Setter), owned by W. T. Holt.

Regular Hound: Picasdia Spring Snow Flake, owned by Miss Julia

Best Local Dog In Show

The winner in the best local dog class of the Kennel show held here Saturday by the Greenville Kennel Club, was Joe's Bobbie Boy, shown with its owner, Mrs. J. L. Savage. In addition to winning the first place blue ribbon the dog brought its owner a cash prize. (Reflector Staff Photos by Roy Hardee.)

Adds Another 'Best' Title

The English setter, shown above, was declared the best entry in the Greenville Kennel Club Show held here Saturday with 145 dogs entered. The dog, owned by W. T. Holt, of Richmond, Virginia, has been winning dog shows for the past several months.

Just 'Wild' Enough And 'Sharp' Enough

BOSTON — (UP) — Cockey Cliff Chambers of Pittsburgh was "just wild enough" to keep Boston's brave batters from crowding the plate and just sharp enough to become the 131st pitcher in major league history ever to hurl a no-hit game.

Bent on going to the mound despite a slight case of the gripe, the 29-year-old Portland, Ore., southpaw yielded no hits yesterday as he humbled the Braves, 3 to 0, in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

Chambers walked eight men — but there was a method of his wildness.

"I was really fast," he said, glowing in the clubhouse after the contest, "and just wild enough to keep the hitters from crowding the plate."

"I was fresh and eager to go because I hadn't pitched a ball since beating the Dodgers last Tuesday."

Mobbed by his team-mates, the blond six foot, three inch Chambers fought to catch his breath.

"The first I knew about a no-hitter," he said in reply to the traditional question, "was in the fifth inning when the scoreboard showed Boston didn't have a hit yet. I didn't give it any more thought until the ninth . . . then I really bore down."

Pointing out that Walker Cooper and Bob Elliott were the two Boston batters he feared the most, the 210-pound Chambers explained:

"Whenever I pitch against him, Cooper generally hits one ball they can never find. I tried to pitch extra carefully to him when he came up in the ninth. He was the next to the last hitter and I got him to fly out on a fast ball. Then I got (Luis) Olmo for the last out on a curve."

Big Cliff shouldered his way through a mob of well-wishers to shake the hand of Outfielder Gus Bell, who preserved the no-hitter with a glittering, running catch of Elliott's long line drive in the sixth inning.

Chambers owns a world of confidence and figures Warren Spahn of the Braves and Howie Pollet of the Cardinals are the only better left-handers than him in the league. He helped his own cause with an eighth-inning single that scored Pittsburgh's final run.

Robins Undergo Bad Weekend In Twin Setbacks

By BERT MOYE
Manager Joe Antolich's Wilson's Tobs swept a twin bill with the Greenville Robins over the weekend with an 8-4 win over in Wilson Saturday night and a 13-3 win at Guy Smith Stadium here on Sunday afternoon.

Rookie Marshall Long and Cliff Barnes combined to limit the Robins to four hits Saturday with Long getting credit for the win. The two Wilson hurlers gave up a total of 12 runs made by the Robins.

Bobby Harrison, who pitched three full innings on the night before against Tarboro in a contest that halted by rain, went the route for the Robins and gave up a total of 10 hits, including two two-baggers.

Sunday's Game

Wilson capped its third straight victory by trouncing the Greenville Robins 13-3, before approximately 1,000 fans here yesterday afternoon. The game was halted after seven innings of play on account of the Sunday curfew. The game was halted by rain for 55 minutes after three innings of play.

The Tobs banged 14 hits off three Robin hurlers. The barrage included two homers and four doubles.

Rookie Ernesto Mayorguin, pitching his first pro game, limited the Robins to six hits, with Joe Guidice collecting a homer and two singles in four trips to lead the attack.

Bobby Dinger with a homer, double and single in five trips to the plate led the 14-hit attack off the three Robin hurlers. Tom Benton hit over the right field wall to start of the third frame.

Final Stretch For North State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North State Conference baseball teams head down the home stretch this week—with Elon College's defending champions still the top choice to clinch the flag.

The Christians stepped another notch toward their goal by dropping Lenoir-Rhyne, 6-5, in the headliner Saturday. The win placed them a half-game ahead of the Bears with a 10-2 mark. Catawba continued in second place with a 7-3 record.

Elon, incidentally, went undefeated during the week, topping Catawba, 14-11, and High Point, 8-7 in 11 innings, in addition to their important win over Lenoir-Rhyne.

If they can fare as well this week as they did last week they'll be in with their third straight championship. They meet Appalachian today, then take on Lenoir-Rhyne at home Thursday and Catawba Saturday.

Here's this week's schedule:

- Monday: Elon at Appalachian; Elon at State (tennis).
- Tuesday: Catawba at Appalachian; Atlantic Christian at Guilford, North Georgia at Western Carolina.
- Wednesday: High Point at East Carolina.
- Thursday: Lenoir-Rhyne at Elon; High Point at Atlantic Christian.
- Friday: Catawba at Elon; Lenoir-Rhyne at East Carolina.
- Saturday: Lenoir-Rhyne at Atlantic Christian; High Point at Guilford.

If the earth's axis were perpendicular to the plane of the earth's orbit around the sun there would be no change in seasons.

Extra Twist To 'Hidden Ball' In Giants' Defeat

NEW YORK — (UP) — Oh, the humiliation of it all—getting "talked" into the hidden-ball trick.

That's what happened to Whitey Lockman of the New York Giants yesterday under the smooth tongue of second-baseman Connie Ryan of the Cincinnati Reds.

Lockman was a baserunner on first when the batter sacrificed. The Reds' first baseman fielded the bunt and tossed to Ryan, who covered first, as Lockman scampered to second. Then Ryan concealed the ball and jogged over to second.

"Say, Whitey," he chirped, "will you move off that base a second so I can straighten it out?"

The obliging Lockman stepped off the bag—and Ryan promptly tagged him while the crowd howled.

Not only that, but Ketchum insists he has the new champion.

"Carter is the next lightweight champion," says Ketchum much in the manner of a man stirring his sugar in a cup of coffee.

Carter has been boxing professionally since 1946. In 64 fights he has lost 11 times, once by a technical knockout at the hands of Charley Cabey Lewis in 1947. Four months later he outpointed Lewis.

Carter will be making his first Garden main event showing against Williams, a terrific fighter when the chips are down. Carter will be the underdog.

"That's nothing," says Ketchum. "Carter was the underdog when he beat Percy Bassett at the St. Nicholas Arena here on Feb. 7."

Carter and Bassett, the boy who fought Sonny Boy West the night West failed to regain consciousness last December, met again three weeks later in Philadelphia. This time Bassett won the verdict.

"It was one of those Philadelphia decisions," says Ketchum. Carter had only three fights in 1950. What happened?

"Nobody wanted to fight him," says Ketchum.

Carter is the third fighter Ketchum has steered to a 135-pound title fight. He managed champion Lew Jenkins and Albie Stolz. Stolz was stopped by Bob Montgomery June 28, 1946 in the last lightweight title bout held in the Garden.

NEW YORK—Willie Ketchum is (a) either a good fight manager or (b) just a wishful thinker.

He handles James J. Carter, a 27-year-old Negro boxer, who will get his chance at the world's lightweight championship when he battles at the hard-to-battle Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., over the 15-round route in Madison Square Garden, Friday, May 25.

Ketchum refuses to say how he got Williams to meet his man. However, he succeeded where some half dozen other managers failed — to get Williams to defend his 135-pound crown. Williams has not put his crown on the line in 15 months.

Not only that, but Ketchum insists he has the new champion.

The new Chrysler Hemispherical Combustion Chamber, heart of the finest car engine built today. In this dome-topped area, you see the only ideal combustion chamber . . . the only way to develop full combustion, full compression, full work and value from every drop of fuel!

With so many engines claiming newness . . . how can we call FirePower the only new type engine today? The answer's very simple, and one you ought to know before you invest in a car. The fact is that engine "improvements" happen every year . . . but a basically new motor car engine is a very rare thing. And FirePower is the most basic new development since Chrysler introduced high-compression in 1924!

To get to the heart of the matter, just go to the heart of the engine . . . the combustion chamber where the spark fires gas into power. Here Chrysler brings you something no car has had till now . . . a Hemispherical combustion chamber . . . the only perfect and ideal combustion chamber in any passenger car. Here the same amount of gasoline delivers you far more energy than it could in any other car. What this means to the man at FirePower's wheel is impossible to tell you till you take that wheel yourself. FirePower's 180 horsepower can outperform any other engine on the road, even on regular grade gas.

Remember, too, that Chrysler now offers the wondrous road-ease of new Oriflow shock absorbers with twice the shock-absorbing power of any others . . . and the exclusive safety and delight of Hydraguide power steering* which takes four-fifths of the work out of steering! The SIREN of SILVER VALLEY

By PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 13

In the shadows where the trail from the 88 curved towards the Double D ranch house squatted Walt Kirk. From the Lazy K gallery he had watched the 88 through a pair of binoculars and shortly before sundown had seen Ben ride along the trail which led to the Double D. Walt was saddled up and struck across the range to the hills behind the Double D, and had reached this point to await Ben's return. The question as to who was to have Diana Denton must be settled.

At last he heard the thud of hoofs and saw the vague shape of horse and rider as they swung around the corner of the house and headed up the trail towards him. He got up, took a deep breath and hitched his gumbelt into position. He'd give Ben a break; he'd speak first and let Ben know what to expect. The horse came along at a walk. When it was a dozen feet away Walt said, "That you, Ben?"

He was watching Ben's right arm against the starlight and he saw the stab which it made for the gun, caught the glint of steel as the weapon cleared the holster. Walt fired and as he did so the horse reared and the bullet struck it in the throat. It gave a convulsive leap and collapsed.

Ben landed on his feet, and his Colt roared as he hit the ground. He has only the orange lance of side. It was during the meal that he heard of the shooting at the Double D. Tombstone had stopped at the Purple Palace for a quick one and the news had spread through the town.

He rode out to the Double D slowly so as not to start his head thumping and Diana came running to meet him. "I was so worried," she told him as she took his arm and walked up on the gallery with him. "Jeff, you're quite sure you're all right?"

"Perfectly, except for an occasional headache." Her concern touched him and he put his hand over the small one that rested on his arm. She sat in the hammock and drew him down beside her and when they were seated she still clung to his hand.

"That nasty Buddy Starr!" she said indignantly. "To think that he'd try to kill you after you spared his life!"

"He was drunk and I'd hurt his vanity by calling him a boy. Is he usually so touchy about his age?"

The cornflower-blue eyes were wide. "I really couldn't tell you; I hardly knew him. I've seen him in town occasionally and that's all."

Well, Ruth had merely guessed that Buddy had a crush on Diana; she had said nothing about a meeting between them. Perhaps Buddy had done his worshipping from afar.

He sighed and leaned back in the hammock. "Well, the boys should begin tricking back tomorrow or the next day. I've got a plan worked out but I must know how many men we can count on. Starr must have thirty or more. One thing is certain: he won't have either Walt Kirk or Ben Dowd."

A buggy came bouncing up the trail from the direction of Silverstone and Diana gently disengaged her arm and got up. "It's the doctor," she said. "It doesn't seem just the right thing for the boss to be sitting in a hammock with her hired help, does it?"

"Not with the hired help's arm about her," he grinned.

The doctor tied his horse and came briskly up on the gallery. "Good morning, Mrs. Denton. How are you, young man? Thought you'd be laid up for another day or two, but when I called they said you'd left. Ate your way right through the kitchen. How are the patients, Mrs. Denton?"

"I don't know, Doctor. Maria is watching them and I thought it best if I didn't disturb them."

"Quite right. Well, I'll have a look."

When he came out he said, "Doing as well as can be expected. They're both as tough as whang leather but naturally they're still suffering from shock. I've left medicine and written instructions; you can check on Maria and see that she has everything straight in her head. Take care of yourself, Payne."

Jeff went down to the bunkhouse. His men greeted him eagerly and while they asked no questions he knew they were anxious for details. He told them briefly of his encounter with Buddy and they in turn gave him a better picture of the fight between Walt and Ben.

"Walt musta crossed the range and circled around to wait on the trail," said Tombstone. They blazed away at each other in the dark. Ben reined in so hard that his horse reared and took it in the neck. We heard three shots and that musta been the first. The other two come when Ben hit the ground. Danged close shootin' when you figger they was firin' at flashes.

"Funny thing; they both fell forward and their right hands touched. Walt had twisted his fingers around Ben's and it looked like they was shakin' hands."

"It's a wonder one or both of them didn't get killed."

"Yeah, it is that. We plugged Walt back and front and bound up Ben as best we could, then I fugged it for the medico. Slug missed bone when it went through Walt or it would have flattened out and made a hole in him big enough to drive a mule team through. They was both lucky, I reckon."

"Yes, they were. Well, I think we'd better ride to the upper end of the valley and camp at that line shack."

Garden Key; Getting The Most Of Your Soil

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Succession cropping is a way for a city gardener to make a postage size garden do the work of a big patch.

He may do this in a way the Japanese have made famous; intense cultivation and planting a second crop in the same ground after the first has been harvested.

With proper care and attention a garden 25 by 30 feet may be made to grow almost as much as one 30 by 50 feet, if the latter is less efficiently planned and handled.

The first essential in such a plan is to have a sufficiently long growing season—but this takes in most of the U. S.

First an "early" crop is planted. This may be peas or radishes, or any crop that is hardy in cool weather and matures reasonably fast. After this crop is harvested another is planted in the same ground.

This second crop is one that thrives in warm weather but will mature in time to avoid the early frost. Such a crop might be Chantenay carrots or All Seasons cabbage.

Beware of Soil Exhaustion

Succession cropping should be planned carefully to avoid damaging the soil, experts say. In general they recommend that a root crop. Crops that take a long time to mature don't fit into this plan. Among these are tomatoes, lima beans and chard.

Department of Agriculture experts have worked out a suggested succession plan for the city gardener.

They suggest a couple of rows of Topcrop bush beans planted in the spring, at the "frost free" date. This is the date at which local weather records show most of the danger of frost is past. After the beans are harvested several rows of purple top globe turnips may be planted for fall harvest in the vacated space. Turnip rows can be closer together than the bean rows. Turnips are excellent for winter storage.

Plant Your Lettuce Early

The lettuce will have been hard and it should be planted early and a little at a time so the plantings will mature one after the other, keeping a fresh supply coming along as long as possible. All the lettuce will have been harvested by around mid-July. Then some Chantenay carrots can be planted. These, too, are good for winter storage.

Another suggested combination is collards followed by Crosby Egyptian or Early Wonder beets; or by Chantenay carrots and Shogoin turnips.

Scarlet Globe radishes may be planted early in the spring along with some Long Standing Bloomsdale spinach. Both like cool weather. They may be followed by U. S. No. 5 Refugee beans, hot weather special.

In growing succession crops the gardener must take special care of the soil. If rotted manure is available it should be applied generously, not only at planting time but also in the fall after the crop is harvested. This will bring the soil back into condition for the next year's crop.

Club Attained Goal Set For Its Recreation Fund

Approximately $250 was cleared by the Business and Professional Women's Club Tag Day sale for its recreational fund on April 28 which completes the $1000 goal set up by the club.

The money collected goes into a fund set up by the club to give assistance to the Recreation Commission and civic club's youth projects. So far this year, the club has donated $236 worth of chairs to the teen-age center.

Mrs. Ruel Tyson, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, termed the Tag Day sale as "very successful for their first try for a tag sale" and said all the members of the club were deeply interested in the youth of the city.

Members of the Tag Day sale committee were: Mrs. Alton Baker, chairman; Mrs. Ruth Peterson, Mrs. Lottie Barnhill, Mrs. Milton Evans and Mrs. Mary M. Burt. "Teen-agers in Greenville offered their services in their tag sale and were of assistance to the club," said Mrs. Tyson.

Mortality Rate Sharply Affected By Korean War

NEW YORK—Korea was deaths caused a sharp rise in mortality among American males of military age during the first three months of 1951, according to Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians. Among the company's male industrial policyholders at ages 20-24 the mortality rate was about 50 percent higher than it was for the first quarter of 1950.

As a result of the Korean war losses and a widespread outbreak of respiratory disease at home, the death rate for males at all ages was five percent higher than that for the same period last year. In contrast, for females the rate was lower by a fraction of a percent.

Concerning the respiratory outbreak, which brought higher death rates from both pneumonia and influenza, the statisticians report, "There were fears at the beginning of the year that the epidemic, which affected large areas of the world, might prove to be catastrophic in character. These fears are now allayed by the subsidence of the outbreak."

Mortality from the diseases of the heart and blood vessels, and from cancer and diabetes, was higher than last year for the three-month period. Part of the increase, it was noted, probably resulted from the high prevalence of the respiratory diseases.

the heart of the drug store

ROOTED deep in the recesses of time is the modern drug store. Through 4,000 years of recorded history the dispenser of drugs has stood high in the esteem of the community. As the sciences of medicine and merchandising have advanced, the outward form of the ancient apothecary shop has changed. But service to the sick is still the very heart of our business. Our complete stock of pharmaceuticals is the best that the markets of the world afford. When illness strikes and your doctor prescribes, we will consider it a privilege to serve you.

S.S.S. Tonic gets at real cause of ailments due to blood and digestion DEFICIENCIES

YOUR TIRED, all-in feeling, your nagging, run-down condition, your sickly stomach and lack of appetite may all be coming from the same things—deficiencies. The human body is such a complicated thing that deficiencies in tiny blood cells can throw it out of order. So can deficiencies in stomach digestive juices. When this happens you are troubled with gassy and bloated stomach and general all-around weaknesses. You not only suffer from lack of appetite, but your stomach can't digest what you do eat. Your blood loses its strength—and so do you.

S.S.S. Tonic is made to help these very things. You can feel its warming comfort with the first spoonful. The vital digestive juices in your stomach get new power. Regular use of S.S.S. Tonic makes your blood rich and strong, helping your system make the millions of red blood cells you need for health. Doctors' tests prove that S.S.S. is actually better than liver and iron for improving blood strength.

Only S.S.S. gives this special help to stomach, blood and appetite—all at the same time. Only S.S.S. can give you a guarantee of complete satisfaction—or your money back! Give it a fair trial. If you feel bad now, start S.S.S. now. Ask for S.S.S. in the big red box at your drugstore today!

If I feel bad again, back to S.S.S. I can never say enough for it. All my friends ask what had I been doing. I look so well. You can see by the picture I don't look sick."
Miss Elizabeth E. Cass, 126 Highland Ave., Mobile, Ala.

"Take it from me, that S.S.S. is really the ideal tonic. Just one month ago, when I'd come home from work, usually I was so tired out important chores around home just had to go undone. My wife suggested I try S.S.S. S.S.S. has given me new vim, vigor and vitality. S.S.S. is the Number One tonic."

GI Lost For Ten Days Behind Red-Held Lines

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea—(UP)—A G.I. artist today described his 10-day wanderings in no-man's-land with nothing to eat but dried corn and dog meat.

T-Sgt. Corliss C. Miller, an artist for the army newspaper "Stars and Stripes" reached Allied lines last night with the help of a young Korean farmer.

The 30-year-old sergeant estimated he walked about 40 miles and climbed 15 large mountains to evade the enemy.

"I would sit on mountain tops during the day," he said. "I'd memorize the terrain and try to find my way south at night. I had no compass."

Miller ran into trouble April 26 when he left a French-led patrol south of the Hwachon Reservoir and tried to join a Dutch patrol in the area.

"I couldn't find the Dutch and when I returned to join the French, they were gone too," he said. "I was all alone."

For the first four days, Miller said, he survived on his C-rations and crackers. When they ran out, he chewed six ears of dry corn he found in an abandoned farmhouse.

On the seventh day, he met the Korean.

"I was so weak I couldn't climb," Miller said. "He couldn't speak English but he indicated he would show me the way back to American lines. I owe my life to that man."

"He brought me a Korean dog to eat. It was pretty good." Miller said he saw more dead than alive Chinese troops on his perilous trip south. He found 30 Chinese burnt to death by napalm in one spot.

Couple Honored At Buffet Supper

On Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Garrett Jr. were guests of honor at an informal buffet supper given by Dave Whichard III at his home on Elm Street.

The gracious home was informally decorated with various arrangements of multi-colored spring flowers, which graced the dining room and living room where the guests gathered.

The dining table was covered with a peach damask cloth and was centered with a peach bowl filled with lilies, roses, narcissus and greenery. Miss Muriel Shotwell and Mrs. R. M. Garrett Sr. assisted in serving the buffet supper. Guests found their places at card tables placed in the living room, which were covered with white linen cloths and centered with small containers holding pansies and rosebuds.

Following the supper a delightful conversational hour was enjoyed by the five couples who were present.

Mrs. Sugg Entertains Book Club

GRIFTON—Mrs. George Sugg was hostess at the May meeting of the Book Club on Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. H. P. Quinley. After a very brief business session and exchange of current events in response to roll call Mrs. Sugg presented Mrs. Albert Tyson who gave a talk on Russia. This was informative and interesting. She made a number of comparisons in the country, its industries, farming, military strength and government.

At the refreshment hour the hostess served an assortment of cold finger foods with Iberia Sauce and iced tea.

Electrocuted In Repairing Aerial

AYDEN—Billy Lee Stocks, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stocks, of near Ayden, was electrocuted Saturday afternoon while repairing a radio aerial that was crossed by an electric wire.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said the boy went outside of the store while it was raining to find out what was wrong with the radio. A 110-volt electric wire was touching the aerial. When the boy touched it there was a flash and he fell dead. He was burned about the neck by the charged wire after he fell on the wet ground.

There will be no inquest.

Survivors, in addition to his parents, are one sister, Mrs. Edna Earl McLawhorn; three brothers, Douglas McLawhorn, who recently left for Korea, and D. W. McLawhorn and Carlton McLawhorn of the home.

Sixty-Year-Old Is Arrested In Bootleg Search

Pitt County ABC officers Saturday afternoon arrested George W. Wollard, age 60, of Greenville township, who lives on the Old Creek road about four miles from Greenville, on charges of possession of 14 1-2 gallons of non-tax paid liquor.

Officer J. M. Ward stated the liquor was discovered when the Wollard house was being searched. Portion of the "bootleg" was found in nearby tobacco beds while the other was found in hay in a barn.

Wollard was released under three hundred dollars bond for appearance in the next term of County Court.

Officers making the raid were J. M. Ward, Claude Manning and J. L. Taylor.

Probe Cause Of Blast And Fire In Rubber Plant

SARNIA, Ont.—(UP)—Investigators today sought the cause of a shattering explosion and fire in Canada's only government-owned synthetic rubber plant.

Three workers were injured at the sprawling Polymer Corp. plant last night, but were reported in good condition.

E. R. Rowze, vice president and general manager, said no estimate of damage could be given immediately. The blast was felt 70 miles away.

Police said at least 50 residents reported that windows in their homes were blown out and dishes knocked from shelves.

About 1,200 men were working on the night shift when an 80-foot phenol gas tank exploded into a ball of flame.

Thousands of residents ran into the streets clad in their nightclothes. Many believed the city had been bombed.

Deputy 'Ignored' Shooting Scene

ANON, VA.—(UP)—Deputy Sheriff Conley Fields said he didn't give it a second thought when he saw a man shooting at his wife yesterday.

Fields said the weapon looked like a cap pistol. The woman appeared to be only playfully hiding behind a tree. And the three shots didn't sound loud enough for a real gun.

The officer drove on past the home of Irvin Johnson, 26, without stopping. But a short distance away, a neighbor flagged him down and told him there had been a shooting.

Mohammed's Tomb Near Collapse; Repairs Needed

MOHAMMED'S TOMB—Inset shows its vaulted ceiling.

AP Newsfeatures

CAIRO—The holy tomb of the great Islamic prophet, Mohammed, in Medina, needs immediate repairs to avoid complete collapse.

News of the shabby condition of the centuries-old tomb—one of sacred shrines of millions of Moslems—was first reported by the Arabic newspaper, Al Misri, in Cairo, throughout the Moslem world—a wide belt stretching from the Atlantic coast of Africa to the Philippines.

Campaigns have been instituted in many countries to collect funds to pay for the repairs. King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia has ordered that technicians be brought in to begin repair work immediately.

Medina is inland from the Red Sea, in the western part of the great Arabian peninsula ruled by Ibn Saud.

Mohammed, who was born at Mecca, 200 miles south of Medina, died at Medina in 632 A. D. He inspired a desert-born religion that within a few years after his death swept in conquering waves from the Persian Gulf to Gibraltar. Today there are 275,000,000 Moslems in the world.

Mohammed's tomb needs replacement of some pillars, and strengthening of other columns, joints and sections of the roof. The Saudi-Arabian newspaper Al-Bilad reports that some of the pillars are cracked and "in danger of collapse."

Wilson Asks Big Municipal Loans Get Gov't Okay

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson issued an "unprecedented" request last night to governors and mayors to clear big municipal loans with the government.

In a move to reduce inflationary pressure, Wilson also asked state and city officials to postpone for the duration borrowing for soldiers' bonuses, war memorials, and municipal projects.

Wilson requested every state and city official to submit for approval borrowing plans for more than $1,000,000, to the voluntary credit restraint committee set up by the Federal Reserve Board.

The request is "unprecedented" but "patriotic cooperation will be a major contribution to the future welfare of our country," he said.

Exchange Of . . .

the utilities commission has a firm power capacity of 10,000 KW and a standby power of an additional 5,000 KW which gives a total capacity of 15,000 KW. The interconnection would increase the firm power capacity of the local plant to 15,000 KW because the power available from the private company on an exchange basis would make standby equipment unnecessary at the local plant.

When the city needs to purchase firm power from the company, it will cost the city less than one cent per KW delivered at the switchboard of the local plant, which compares very favorably with the cost of producing power at the local plant now.

"The contract is on the table now, and we want the people of Greenville to know about and understand it," Swartz said. "We'll be glad to answer any questions the people have about the interconnection."

By this fall the power load on the Greenville plant is expected to be 13,000 KW, which will mean the plant will be 3,000 KW short on standby power unless it interconnects with a power company or installs new production facilities at the plant.

"North Koreans and South Koreans are the same. They think the same and act the same—excepting for ten percent of the North Koreans who follow the Moscow directives.

"The 38th parallel (boundary between North and South Korea) is imaginary. The two peoples are homogeneous. There is no such thing as a North and a South Korea."

Speaking of the strength of communism in Korea, Mr. Kim said that even in North Korea only 10 percent are followers of Stalin's creed. Some 2,000,000 people fled from North to South Korea, leaving about 8,000,000 in the North. There are 22,000,000 in South Korea.

"When the Reds invaded South Korea," said Mr. Kim, "they expected that many people would flock to them, but they got no converts. Three months occupation of Seoul by the Reds taught the people what communism was."
