Allied Air Armada Blasts Communist Field, Planes

Crushing Blow Aimed To Smash Build-Up Of Red Air Power; Over 300 Planes Take Part In Raid; At Least Half Of Enemy Planes On Field Destroyed

By FRANK TREMAINE United Press Staff Correspondent TOKYO (UP)—The greatest U.S. air armada of the Korean War blasted a secret communist air base just south of the Manchurian border into a flaming inferno today, probably destroying at least half of the 100 enemy jets hidden here.

The 5th Air Force threw 312 planes—every available fighter and fighter-bomber in Japan and Korea—against a camouflaged, coolie-built airfield at Sinuju in the northwest corner of Korea.

The 30-minute attack left the whole airfield covered with fires. Red-tinged smoke billowed up three miles or more into the sunny sky.

It was the biggest single air strike of the war, and was designed to smash the most dangerous enemy challenge yet to American air supremacy over Korea.

Hundreds of communist troops must have died under the deluge of bombs, rockets, bullets and flaming jelled gasoline.

"It's a massacre up there," one returning airman said.

The Air Force struck at northwest Korea while communist troops fell back to or across the 38th parallel all along the 100-mile fighting front. The Reds gave up hard-won gains of two weeks ago without a fight.

The 8th Army thrust ahead to points 18 to 20 miles north of Seoul and within 10 miles of the parallel at the western end of the line. It already had lifted the siege of Seoul.

Advances of up to three miles northwest of the former capital were made during the day. A band of Red rear guards broke contact and retreated north after a brief skirmish.

All the way from communist-abandoned Chunchon on the central front to the east coast, other Allied forces operated on or across the parallel dividing North and South Korea.

Allied reconnaissance planes discovered the secretly-built air base several days ago. They found that the communists had brought across the Yalu River frontier from Manchuria the largest single concentration of communist jet planes ever spotted in Korea.

Lt. Gen. Earle Partridge, commander of the 5th Air Force, decided that the base was "ripe" for the attack today. He sent 206 Air Force and Marine fighters and fighter-bombers in to attack, while 106 Sabrejets, Thunderjets and Pantherjets flew cover.

About 50 communist MIG-15 jet fighters sought to intercept the raiders, but were driven off in a series of swirling dogfights.

One MIG was reported damaged, and one Thunderjet limped back to base.

A mass flight of F-80 Shooting Star jets opened the attack with a strike at anti-aircraft positions flanking the field. They raked the enemy guns with five-inch rockets and 30-caliber machine-gun bullets.

Then came waves of Mustangs filled with gasoline, bombs and rockets. They blasted away at fuel dumps, supply areas, barracks and other installations.

Still another wave of F-80s pounded the airport with 500 and 1,000-pound demolition bombs. An even larger stream of Marine Corsairs followed through with more bombs, rockets and bullets.

Mayors Reelected By County Towns

Ayden, Grifton, Winterville And Grimesland Return Mayors To Office In One Of Lighter Voting Turnouts

Mayors of Ayden, Grifton, Winterville and Grimesland were re-elected to their offices in Monday's general elections. Most of the elections had low balloting since none of the men were opposed.

In Ayden Mayor Corey Stokes received 213 votes out of 261 cast in the election. The balloting marked one of the lower voting years on record. The only political race was for the office of commissioner from the first ward. Norman Dail defeated R. H. Worthington for the office by a vote of 184 to 107. L. G. Baldree received 200 votes for commissioner from the third ward and Harry Mumford polled 191 as commissioner from the fifth.

Judge C. V. Cannon was re-elected without opposition for the recorder's court post on a vote of 214, highest of any candidate in the election.

All candidates will assume their posts July 1.

The Grifton electorate had the easiest day of the four towns as none of the town officials was opposed in the election.

Mayor Roger Johnson moved into his second term of office on a vote of 54. All commissioners received

City's Property Listings Reveal Valuation Gain

Tax Books Show $2 Million Advance Over Listings Of City For 1950

Property listed on the Greenville tax books for 1951 showed a gain in valuation of $2,117,070 over the tax listings of the city for 1950.

The total valuation of real and personal property in the city for 1951, according to the report of the tax lister, is $19,061,432, compared with the 1950 real and personal property listing of $16,944,362.

The figures on this year's tax listings were turned over to the city officials yesterday by F. Harding Sugg who took the 1951 tax listings for the city.

Figured at the current tax rate of $1.50 per $100 valuation, the 1951 tax listings will mean the city will receive approximately $283,000 from property taxes during the coming fiscal year. The amount is a gain of approximately $32,000 over the property taxes the city received during the current fiscal year.

While the listing of real property showed a gain of $602,724 between the 1950 and the 1951 listings, personal property listed in the city of Greenville jumped from $7,219,549 to $9,733,896—an increase of $1,514,346 in the personal property listed on the tax books.

The real property listed on the tax books for 1951 has a tax valuation of $10,327,537 compared with the real property listing of $9,724,813 for 1950.

Under the subheads of personal property, the largest single gain was made in the category of motor vehicles. For 1951, Greenville listed 3,773 motor vehicles which are valued at $2,618,167, compared with the 2,806 motor vehicles listed during 1950 and valued at $2,616,167, compared with the 2,806 motor vehicles listed during 1950 and valued at $1,763,376. The value of motor vehicles in the city showed a gain of $853,791.

The merchandise and fixtures listed on the city tax books showed an increase of $699,291 over the 1950 listings, and brought the total to $3,310,740. The household property listed over the $300 exemption set by the county amounted to $504,585 for 1951, and showed a gain of $44,035 over the listing for the previous year. The category termed "all other personal property" was the only group under the personal property division which did not show a gain this year over last year's listings. Listed in the category this year was property valued at $504,585, which is $81,871 less than the amount listed in the category last year.

The number of $1 poll taxes levied in the city this year was 92 less than last year. For 1951 there were 2,440 poll taxes listed for the city.

With the increase of property valuation on the city tax books for 1951 also came what the tax listers say is the highest single tax abstract ever listed in the city. The abstract from the J. P. Taylor tobacco company listed $1,320,300 of personal property (tobacco) in Greenville. The second highest abstract in the city this year was from the R. J. Reynolds tobacco company which listed $948,865 in real and personal property on the city tax books.

The tax valuation figures which were turned over to the city yesterday include only the real and personal property listed on the city books. The figures do not include

Marshall Says MacArthur Quarrel 'Worried' Allies

Marshall Testifies In Far Eastern Inquiry

Defense Secretary George Marshall (center) arrives to testify at Washington Monday in the Senate's investigation of Far Eastern policies. He is greeted by Georgia's Senator Richard B. Russell (left), chairman of the inquiry, and Senator Tom Connally (right), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. Russell is also chairman of the Senate Armed Services committee. The investigation is inquiring particularly into President Truman's firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander in the Far East. (AP Wirephoto).

Claims Issue Threatened To Leave U. S. Going It Alone In Korea, But Denies Ever Having Heard Allies Suggest That General Be Relieved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary Marshall said today General Douglas MacArthur's quarrel with Korean war policy created "uneasiness" among U.S. allies and threatened to leave this country "going it alone" there.

But Marshall denied under questioning from senators that the allies brought about MacArthur's removal. He said: "They gave no expression of that kind even remotely that I can recall pertaining to his relief."

MacArthur's removal was necessary, Marshall declared, because his statements raised the issue of "what voice spoke from this country in the matter of foreign policy."

The Defense Secretary testified for the third day to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees. They are inquiring into the whole issue of Far Eastern policy and MacArthur's removal.

Under questioning, Marshall said: 1. MacArthur's proposals for hitting directly at the Chinese Communists might lead to "very much larger" U.S. and allied casualties rather than saving lives as the deposed Far Eastern commander contends.

2. The restrictions placed on the fighting—that is the effort to limit it to Korea—have only "very slightly" affected—maybe not at all—the casualties in the war.

3. MacArthur was denied authority to bomb Manchurian bases, block-ade the China coast and use Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa for two chief reasons:

"Partly because of the feeling of our allies and partly because of our own feelings that to act otherwise in those limitations under the general conditions would possibly result in a very much larger casualty list."

4. No Japanese have been allowed to serve with United Nations troops in Korea largely because a Chinese-Russian defense pact is aimed at Japan. His implication here was that there was concern the Russians might come into the war if Japanese were used, even as "volunteers."

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) brought up the question of the Japanese. For months past, some lawmakers have been contending that Japanese volunteers ought to be permitted to serve with the U.N. forces.

There have been reports many Japanese were willing, some of them highly trained pilots and other military specialists.

Noting that the Sino-Russian pact is directed at any resumption of Japanese aggression, Marshall testified:

"The fact that the pact directly referred to the Japanese—possible intervention on the mainland of Asia—I know controlled the action of this government in not using any Japanese whatsoever in Korea. Beyond that, Senator, I think I will have to pass it up to the State Department."

Secretary of State Dean Acheson is to be a witness later and Marshall meant the senators should ask Acheson about that.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) asked Marshall if, during his mission to China in 1945-46, he ever consulted General MacArthur about the "formation of what was to be or what resulted in our China policy."

Marshall went to China at that time as a special representative of President Truman. His mission was to bring an end to the civil strife in China between Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government and the Chinese Communists.

Second City Primary Looms As Smith Files A Challenge

A second primary is in the offing for the Greenville electorate May 21 after R. L. Smith challenged W. M. Pollard to his seat on the board of aldermen from ward four yesterday.

In Monday's election, Smith polled 713 votes to Pollard's 896 which entitles him to call a runoff. Smith filed his challenge in the city clerk's office yesterday afternoon, the first of the three eligible candidates to file for a second primary.

Both Sam B. Underwood, Jr., mayor candidate, and James Brewer, candidate for the alderman post from the first ward, were quiet today concerning whether or not they will be in the race May 21. Underwood stated he had not made up his mind as yet but would soon be for-warding a statement.

Brewer, who was runnerup to incumbent Heber Tripp, could not be contacted.

Both men have until Saturday to challenge their opponents. In the election Underwood trailed former chief of police Lester D. Page by 182 votes in a field of five. Brewer trailed Tripp by the narrow margin of 67 votes.

Meanwhile, yesterday at noon in a called meeting the board of aldermen canvassed the ballots of the day before and presented to them by the poll clerks and registrars. The board found the results correct as reported to them by the poll officials and declared Charles Wendebee the incoming judge of recorder's court, El Bloom, solicitor of the court, and R. E. Rogers, Yank Howell and James S. Jenkins the victors in the aldermanic races in wards two, three and five respectively.

Mass Executions

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—The Nationalist Chinese Defense Ministry today said Chinese Reds had executed 50,000 persons in the South China province of Kwangsi in a single month.

The executions were described as part of a massive effort to stamp out non-communist residents in that strategic province, which borders Indo-China.

The ministry said the communists were using 400,000 men in an attempt to drive Nationalist guerrilla forces in Kwangsi.

Shooting Erupts In Panama Riot

Mobs Attack Radio Station Supporting Pres. Arias

Panama, Panama (AP)—Shooting and mob attacks broke out in this capital today during a general strike against the president which paralyzed the whole tense city.

The radio station which has been supporting President Arnulfo Arias was attacked by a mob. Eyewitnesses said equipment was destroyed.

The attack, the witnesses said, was made under fire from the radio station in which some persons were wounded. Police went into action to round up persons carrying firearms, and at the same time truckloads of supporters of Arias began arriving in the city from outlying areas. They rode government trucks.

The general strike followed the president's switching of constitutions in a move to give himself broad powers against what he called the

Envoy Critical Of Franco Rule

BARCELONA (UP)—U.S. Ambassador Stanton Griffis openly criticized many features of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime in a major address last night.

He spoke to the American Chamber of Commerce and made the following points:

1. U.S. technical and financial aid must be reciprocated by greater Spanish cooperation on American requests.

2. The U.S. hopes current restrictions on American business operations here can be "ameliorated or removed."

3. Spain's is the only European nation outside the iron curtain requiring visas for U.S. tourists.

4. The Franco government would be wise to emphasize agricultural rather than industrial development.

5. As a nation believing in a private enterprise, the U.S. frowns on Spain's nationally-controlled industrialization program.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Round Mike Di Salle is still around. Which is quite a distinction.

This chubby former Mayor of Toledo is the only one of the original defense agency heads who still has his job.

How long he'll last, of course, is another matter since his job is the kind that's custom-built to make enemies.

He's boss of OPS, the Office of Price Stabilization, which right now is trying to apply price controls that will work.

But he's a pretty calm character who doesn't back up easily. He doesn't seem to have any illusions about himself. He certainly has none about his job.

And if the time comes when he has to step out if that time comes he'll probably step out himself because he's fed up—he isn't likely to shed tears of pain.

If you have any doubts that his particular job doesn't make for longevity in Washington's official life, just remember all the changes in the World War II agencies, especially in OPS.

That agency, always embattled,

No 'Yes Man' Taking Over Key House Chairmanship

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. James P. Richards (D-SC) who doesn't always see eye to eye with the administration on foreign policy, took over today as chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The 56-year-old, tobacco-chewing congressman succeeds Rep. John Kee (D-WVa.) who collapsed and died yesterday during a session of the committee.

Kee, chairman since March of 1949, seldom deviated from the administration on foreign policy and foreign aid.

But Richards said that he's not for "taking orders from the State Department."

A firm believer that European nations should demonstrate clearly that they are willing to pitch in for the fight against communism, Richards said he will insist that further foreign aid be screened with "a hard, critical" eye.

The administration's multi-billion dollar omnibus aid bill, wrapping all arms and economic measures into a single bill, is expected to go to the committee in a few weeks.

In 1949 Richards successfully talked the omnibus into cutting in half a $1,160,990,000 arms-for-Europe bill, and while the Senate restored the cut, a provision was added requiring the president to stop the aid if European countries failed to pull their weight.

City Program Arranged For Armed Forces Day

Armed Forces Day will be observed in Greenville Saturday May 19 with a program planned around a military parade and a show of air power.

It was learned today from program Bob Ross, chairman for the Junior Chamber of Commerce committee, that two groups of Marines and infantrymen will form the vanguard of the parade with bands from Greenville providing the music.

The bands from Greenville and Eppes High schools will march in the parade, accompanied by 350 Marines from Camp Lejeune and infantrymen from Fort Bragg. The parade will begin at two o'clock near McGowan's warehouse on Dickinson Avenue and will disband at the courthouse.

Ross stated the Chamber of Commerce has been asked to contact the merchants of the city in an effort to have flags displayed on Evans Street during the day.

Some merchants' windows will contain Armed Forces Day displays, he said.

Another feature of the parade will be a display of military aircraft which will fly overhead during the afternoon.

Soviet Ruse Rejected

Kremlin's Plan For Writing Jap Peace Treaty Would Insure Communist Control Of Japan's Future; The American Plan; Reds Did Little Against Nippon

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Washington has wasted no time in rejecting Russia's proposal that the drafting of a Japanese peace treaty—already well on its way to completion—be turned over to four Pacific powers, including Red China.

Such an idea would come only from the capital of Bolshevism. The maneuver is, of course, an undisguised effort to seize control of the treaty negotiations with the idea of establishing Bolshevik domination over Nippon.

Success along that line would make Moscow pretty well ruler of Far East.

The Soviet proposal is that the treaty-making be turned over to America, Britain, Russia and Red China. That would eliminate Nationalist China, which was our ally during the world war, and would substitute the Red Chinese government which America hasn't recognized.

This arrangement would give the communists two votes out of four, with which to hamstring proceedings according to their well worn custom. It would mean disruption of the fine progress already made towards a treaty which is expected to be ready for signing in the near future.

The Russians charge that the U. S. draft treaty represents an attempt to impose an American peace on Japan to the exclusion of Russia, China and other countries. John Foster Dulles, President Truman's special representative, has made it clear that he has tried to bring Russians in. Some time ago it was announced that he had consulted with Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations. But Malik, strangely enough, denied it.

Anyway, while Moscow has kept insisting that the treaty should be worked out by the Big Four, like the European Pact, America has taken the position that the Philippines, and all the other Asiatic countries in the war against Japan, should be consulted.

As far as concerns America's effort to obtain what seems to her a just and workable peace treaty, she certainly has a right to a big say in the matter. It was the United States which fought her way where. Business took a holiday while the people of the Farmville welcomed the several thousand visitors and provided entertainment for them.

All of the indoor entertainments are being held in Monk's Warehouse. Special acts featured the parade.

More Guardsmen May Be Called To Active Duty

WASHINGTON (UP)—More National Guard divisions "may" be called to active duty after July, according to Maj. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming, the guard chief.

Fleming, interviewed on the "Time for Defense" radio program last night, said "any further call on the National Guard depends on the world situation and plans formulated by the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

Six guard divisions have been called up since the Korean war. Fleming said 21 divisions and 17 regiments of combat teams still are under state jurisdiction.

Dramatics Group Heard At Woman's Club Meeting

A most interesting and entertaining program was enjoyed by the Greenville Woman's Club at their monthly meeting on Friday, May 3, when the American Home Department presented Mr. Claude (Kip) West, Jr., director of speech and dramatics at the High School, and a group of his students as guests for the afternoon.

When introduced by Mrs. E. E. Oakley, Mr. West told of the work being done by his students and presented Mary Ann Waldron, who read a very interesting short story, a poem, in negro dialect, was recited by Betty Jane Bunch. Elizabeth Ann Williams gave an original monologue, with pantomime, that had been worked out by the class. A short poem entitled, "Saint Peter at the Gate" was read by Betty Lou Small. Everyone present was most generous in their praise of the talent, poise, and expression displayed by these students, and are looking forward to having them as guests again.

Mrs. J. Vance Perkins, acting president, presided over the business meeting and expressed her thanks to the members and the chairman of the committees for their excellent work in making the Art Festival a success.

The highlight of the meeting was when Mrs. Perkins presented the Wm. Boney Cup to the club. This cup was given by the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs in 1942 to be presented to the club reporting the best program or exhibition of creative art, in music, literature, art or the three combined. The members of the club and the people of Greenville should be very proud of the award, as this is the third time the Greenville Woman's Club has held this cup as an award for the Art Festival. The cup was first given to Greenville in 1948, then in 1949 and again this year.

Reports were given by the chairman of the various departments of the club.

Mrs. C. C. Hilton and Mrs. W. O. Hollowell, delegates to the 49th Annual Convention of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. J. B. Congleton, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a strapless gown of lavender net with lace bodice and matching lace cape. She wore a net bandeau caught with flowers and carried an arm bouquet of yellow dutch iris, and lavender, purple and yellow garza chrysanthemums tied with purple ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Marvel Stokes and Mrs. Harold Watson, cousins of the bride, Mrs. Wayne Lundy of Toledo, Ohio, and Mrs. Henry Andrews of Greenville. Their gowns of Nile green were styled like the matron-of-honor and they carried bouquets tied with yellow ribbon.

Junior bridesmaids were Misses Kay Congleton of Rocky Mount and Billie Sue Stokes, cousins of the bride. Their gowns of light yellow were styled like the other attendants' and their bouquets were tied with lavender ribbon. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Charles Slaughter of Toledo, Ohio as best man.

Ushers were Gordon Clark, William Frances Tyson, Harold Watson and Wallace Roberson of Stokes, Wayne Lundy and Harlan Gitman of Toledo.

The bride's mother wore a navy crepe dress with matching cape, mauve pink hat, and an orchid. The mother of the groom was dressed in navy with white accessories. She wore an orchid.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents held a reception in their home. The home was decorated throughout with magnolia and spring flowers. Burning white tapers, flower-filled vases and the wedding cake graced the reception table.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Stokes and introduced to the receiving line which was composed of the parents of the bride and groom and the bride's parents.

Others assisting in serving were Mrs. Ethel Clark, Misses Jean and Cordelia Perkins, Corinne Pitt and Marie Roberson, Mrs. J. A. Tyson and Mrs. Archie Reed Tyson greeted the guests in the gift room and invited them to the den where Miss Nancy Buchmiller presided at the punch bowl and Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Caldwell at the register. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clark.

Later in the afternoon the couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points. For traveling the bride wore a white wine miltieen suit, cocoa brown shoes and bag, hat of white wire straw, mink fur and an orchid.

The bride attended Stokes High School and is a graduate of Western's College of the University of North Carolina. Since graduation she has been employed as dietitian by the Grace E. Smith Restaurant Co. in Toledo.

The groom is a graduate of Union City High School and Purdue University. He served as Lieutenant in the Army during World War II and is now employed by the Sun Oil Co. in Toledo.

After May 6 Mr. and Mrs. Romeiser will be at home at 3341 Cherry St., Toledo, Ohio.

Service League Welcomes New Members; Hears Reports

The Greenville Service League met at Sheppard Memorial Library on Monday, May 7 at 10:30 a.m. The president, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, opened the meeting with prayer and then introduced each of the new members present for the first time.

New members of the Service League are:

Mrs. A. W. Bryan, Mrs. Don Caloway, Mrs. Boyd Cox, Mrs. Jack Edwards, Jr., Mrs. E. S. Flanagan, Mrs. George Garrett, Mrs. Gammon Friend, Mrs. George Lautares, Mrs. James E. Phelps, Mrs. Charles Reynolds, Mrs. Jimmy Smith, Mrs. Allen Stokes, Mrs. E. J. Wallace, Jr., Mrs. Francis Worsley, and Mrs. Elizabeth Pott Young.

Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr. extended a most cordial welcome to the new members in behalf of the League. She gave an explanation of the various projects and services of the League and also an explanation of the Service League Seal. Her sincere message proved to be a challenge and inspiration to old as well as new members. Mrs. Charles Reynolds responded in behalf of the new members.

The secretary, Mrs. David Hardee, called the roll, and the minutes of the April meeting and of the call meeting were read and approved. Then reports were heard from the treasurer, Mrs. Charles G. Gains, and from the various committee chairmen.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Tom Wilson, read a letter of recognition from Mrs. Hoyt Minges and also a letter of appreciation from Mr. Ward for the Easter decorations and other services rendered by the Service League at Pitt

Memorial Hospital. The chairman of the Finance Committee, Mrs. M. P. Hook, reported that the March Committee earned $90.23 for the Hospital Bed Fund and the April Committee earned $90.25. Since December $52.50 has been received from the sale of Cook Books, and there are only eighteen cook books left. These may be purchased at Ellington's Book Store.

The chairman of the May Finance Committee, Mrs. V. E. Wells, Jr., announced that there will be a Bake Sale at the Frank Wilson Store Friday morning, May 11, at ten o'clock. All members were asked to contribute something for sale, and a list was passed for those to sign who would do so.

Mrs. Bob Greene, Layette chairman, reported that two complete Layettes and two parts of Layettes were furnished to needy cases during April. A sufficient number of garments have been made by members to last during the summer months.

The Thrift Shop chairman, Mrs. R. H. Evans, reported that the Thrift Shop will close for the summer on May 22. There is very little clothing on hand, and Mrs. Evans will be glad to collect used garments at any time during the summer if members will call her.

Mrs. James Little, chairman of Hospital Service, announced that a high school student, Patsy James, has been employed to work regularly at the Coffee Shop during the summer months but League members can continue to secure hourly credit for working during the summer if they care to do so. They should call one of the regular workers the night before to advise them regarding hours. Members are urged to patronize the Coffee Shop for their own needs, such as magazines, cigarettes and drug items, as much as possible in order to help the Shop. Mrs. Little urged the workers to take time with the tea cart in order to visit and learn of any special need of a patient or service that might be rendered.

Mrs. L. T. Shotwell, chairman of Hospital Activity, reported decorating at the hospital on an occasion Saturday, May 12, is National Hospital Day and punch will be served in the lobby of the hospital from 11:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. Members were given an opportunity to volunteer for this service.

The Hospital Bed chairman, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr., reported one bill of $30.00 paid during April. Two gifts to the Fund were received, and considering the good work of the monthly finance committees during the spring months, it is felt that there will be a sufficient amount in the Hospital Bed Fund to carry on the work during the summer months.

Mrs. W. S. Bost, chairman of the Emergency Charity Fund, stated that she received eight calls during the month of April. She read a note of thanks from one person who had received aid.

The president brought up the subject of the Girl Scout Campership which the Service League provides each summer for an outstanding Scout. A motion was made and carried that the Campership be given again this year. It was pointed out that there will be a small amount left in the fund after the Girl Scout Campership is given. A motion was made and carried that this money be used to send two Boy Scouts to camp this year for one week each.

Mrs. Bryan Brown, chairman of the Committee for the Annual Luncheon, announced that the luncheon will be held at the Episcopal Church on May 23. The meeting of the League will be at 11:30 a.m. and the luncheon at 1:00 p.m. Plates will be $1.50, and new members will be guests of the League.

The chairman of the Nominating Committee read the list of the offices to be filled for the coming year and the names of those nominated for these offices. A motion was made and carried that the slate be accepted as read. The following officers were elected:

1st. vice president, Mrs. J. Bryan Brown; 2nd vice president, Mrs. F. Badger Johnson Jr.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Thomas Wilson; treasurer, Mrs. Ercell Webb.

The president reminded the members that each year it has been a custom to make a small gift to the library. A motion was made and carried that $5.00 be given again this year.

The president announced that the annual reports of officers are due on May 10. New members are invited to the home of the president on Wednesday, May 9, at 10:30 a.m. for a period of instruction. There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.

Rev. W. B. Nobles Is Honored At Dinner On His 85th Birthday

REV. W. B. NOBLES

A surprise birthday dinner was given in honor of Rev. W. B. Nobles, Free Will Baptist minister of Winterville, on Sunday, May 6th, at the home of Mrs. E. C. Hines Sr. of near Winterville. Rev. Nobles celebrated his 85th birthday on May 3rd. The dinner was given by three of his four children, Miss Beattie Nobles, Mrs. E. C. Hines Sr., Mr. Herman Nobles and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Claude Whitehurst, wife of the late Clifton Nobles.

Dinner was served on the grounds or approximately 60 people. Guests who were not relatives were Rev. and Mrs. N. D. Beaman and daughters of Snow Hill and Mrs. Sophia Hardee of Greenville. Mrs. Herman Nobles had a large two tiered cake baked for the occasion.

"Uncle Walter," as he is known everywhere, is the son of the late J. L. W. Nobles, who was a licensed minister, and grandson of the late Rev. Willy Nobles. He and his sister, Mrs. Mary Wingate of Wilson, are the only two living children out of the eleven. Mrs. Wingate celebrated her 92nd birthday in January.

Rev. Nobles says he has worked 59 summers and is still going strong. He began working in the fields when he was only six years old. By the time he was 18 he began to hold prayer services and was very active in all church work. At 27 he became a licensed minister and was ordained at 47.

During these 58 years Rev. Nobles has married nearly a thousand couples and has held nearly a thousand funerals. He has helped to dig 250 graves. He has held 35 revivals and reorganized Cedar Grove church, Martin County, after it had been dead for 12 years. At present he is pastoring Saint's Delight church in Greene County and Rose Hill church in Pitt County. In July he will have pastored Rose Hill church 17 years.

"Uncle Walter" is the grandfather of 22 children and great-grandfather of 24. His wife, Mrs. Lela Tripp Nobles, died in 1944. Rev. Nobles has lived in or near Winterville all his life and has surely been a credit to the Winterville community.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
THE ONLY DEADLY SIN
Henry L. Stimson who died recently at a ripe old age, had served in the cabinets of four presidents. He was a statesman about whom historians in the future will have much to say, and practically all they will say of him will be in terms of praise.
Just before his death Stimson wrote these words: "The man who tries to work for the good believing in its eventual victory, while he may suffer setback and even disaster, he will never know defeat. The only deadly sin I know is cynicism."
It certainly looks sometimes as if the world was going to hell in a handbasket. Here in America we have enjoyed the benefits of free government for more than 150 years; yet a majority of the world's population does not believe in democracy. We are a Christian nation, but only a small percentage of our people measure up to the moral and spiritual standards set up in the Bible. New ways have come in, new customs, a new love of freedom, exciting pleasures and indulgences which threaten to eat the life out of the character of our people. A few years ago we organized the United Nations, and now the communists boot this international organization about and the representatives of more than half of the world's population endorse this treatment with trembling.
What are we coming to? Plenty of trouble, probably, but in the end, triumph. Let us never give up hope. The only deadly sin is cynicism.

Pitt's Unhealthy Health Condition

Pitt County has a fairly good health department, but as was pointed out in a series of articles carried in last week's copies of The Reflector there are many things which need to be done to bring the work of the department up to the standards at which they should be.

The direction of the work of the department lies in the hands of the county health officer, but the ultimate decisions which provide the means for securing for the department the facilities and personnel it needs lie with the county board of health and the county board of commissioners. These men must shoulder the responsibility for the good or poor public health program which the county has.

For 26 months Pitt county has had a temporary health officer. The coordination of the activities of the various divisions of the health department has become increasingly lax. Each division of the department, and in some cases almost each individual in the division, has been working practically without direction. There is no indication of a general plan which is being followed or a common goal which is being pointed to except the generality "better health."

Any department of the county government, and particularly one the size of the health department (which this year is operating on a $53,195 budget) should have a carefully planned program of work directed to an effective, efficient completion.

The health department should be afforded the necessary facilities in which to carry on its work, and not be crowded into several congested rooms. It is true that the department has been assigned space in the new county office building which formerly was Pitt General hospital, but no one seems to be sure whether the space will be adequate to fill the needs of the department.

It is up to the county commissioners to appropriate the funds needed to hire a first rate health officer who is thoroughly familiar with public health problems and has the ability to plan and carry out an effective program for improving the health conditions of the county.

The matter of providing adequate office space and facilities for the health department is likewise up to the county commissioners.

Now that the commissioners are considering the budget for county operations during the coming fiscal year, it is an opportune time to look into the immediate needs of the health department and begin what is needed in a long range program of improvement.

A Needless Expenditure

It can be pretty safely assumed that Judge Susie Sharp left these environs Monday afternoon with fond memories for the Pitt Bar Association after she had opened and closed her first superior court term in the county in the short space of three hours. The bar members not only turned out en masse to greet the state's first woman jurist as she tripped lightly up the stairs, a bulging briefcase in one hand, an out-sized pillow in the other, but they presented only three jury cases before her for trial to make her stay here as enjoyable as possible.

Not only did the lawyers have a field day, but so did the court officials and the jurors. The court stenographer had it easier than the rest—she didn't open her book.

That three-hour "term" was a mighty expensive item for the county to bear, particularly when next to nothing was accomplished. The jurors were paid $135 for their services at the rate of $5 per person and enough more in traveling expenses to push the jury cost past $150—in addition to $105 expended for the court stenographer.

The point is this: Why schedule a term of court when the Bar Association has nothing on the calendar with which to consume the jury's time. The three divorces granted Monday could have been put off until the May 21 term. And the few judgments written by the judge could have been accomplished without a jury.

It has long been a procedure by lawyers to schedule a civil case in court, thereby hastening a settlement out of court by one side or the other. Such was the case this past week.

Too, it has long been a practice among lawyers to "get together" before a case is tried to see if the other side is ready for trial. If not, the case is not put on the calendar. Such, again, was the case Monday when the judge granted several continuations.

The Reflector is of the opinion that the Bar Association should "get together" among its membership, prior to a court term, and determine if actually the upcoming term is necessary. The calendaring group, which met ten days ago to schedule cases for hearing during this week, could have saved the county money by agreeing to continue the cases on the docket until the next term in May.

The Reflector points out the fact that the Pitt Superior court has never operated within its budget and is definitely not doing so this year either.

If, indeed, there are important cases to be tried at any court term, and they are tried, well and good. But there is no percentage in calling to task jurors from the tobacco fields when with a little foresight the lawyers can see that nothing will be accomplished that could not be accomplished two weeks hence.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—A calm reappraisal of the Congressional reaction to the Truman-MacArthur row suggests that it may turn out to be a good break for the President, insofar as his relations with Capitol Hill Democrats and organization leaders throughout the country are concerned. It is one of the ironies of politics that the ill wind from Korea may blow good to the White House.

Until the dispute over the General's dismissal arose, a small but influential faction of Democrats were on the verge of breaking completely with the Administration. Although a numerical minority, they are the young, aggressive and influential men who have many years ahead of them in Congress and in political life.

They bear a remarkable resemblance, even though the parallel can be carried too far, to the Borah-Johnson-Norris-La Follette Progressives, whose rambling feud with Harding, Coolidge and Hoover contributed to the G.O.'s downfall in 1932.

They represent an entirely different generation and outlook from such weary and cynical oldsters as President Truman, Vice President Barkley and Speaker Sam Rayburn.

DISGUSTED—These Democrats, who number at least a dozen in the Senate and possibly forty in the House, were elected without any assistance from the Truman-Boyle organization, and are not politically beholden to the party's bigwigs. In several instances the Democratic National Committee gave secret help to their primary opponents.

While approving Truman-Roosevelt "liberal" ideas in the social and economic fields, they recognize that realignment has blown tops on domestic reforms, at least temporarily. Meanwhile, they were becoming disgusted with the low ethical standards of many White House aides and hangers-on—the O'Dwyers, Dawsons, Vaughans, Youngs, Gramams, Maragos, etc.

Several had even proposed creation of special commissions to serve, in effect, as moral trustees and guardians over the man in the White House. From Mr. Truman's standpoint, it is a suggestion so insulting that it approximates impeachment.

Some of these men might not enjoy public listing of their names. But those known to fall into this category are Sen. or Kefauver, Fulbright, Monroney, Douglas, Hunt, O'Connor, Gillette. They may be characterized as the "Young Guard."

ANTAGONISTIC—Numerous veteran Democrats were also becoming antagonistic toward President Truman, although for entirely different reasons. Two who symbolize these dissenters are such distinguished Capitol Hill figures as Tom Connally of Texas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and the redoubtable Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee and acknowledged authority on military problems at the eastern end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Mr. Connally had quietly resented the prominence which President Truman and Secretary Acheson accorded the late Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan in the handling of foreign questions since the end of World War II. "Old Tom" is a trigger-quick, sensitive individual, and extremely proud of his honors.

Radio-Active War?

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, Jr

Thousands of people continually ask the personnel of Radio Station WPTF in Raleigh about the possibility of their opening a television station, so to help answer that question WPTF has issued a public statement, giving all the information they have.

Before discussing that statement, a more important factor for us here in Greenville to consider is how much a station in Raleigh would help our TV reception. To answer our question, WPTF has published a map of the state of North Carolina, with a solid circle to indicate the area in which excellent reception could be expected, and a broken circle to indicate the area in which good reception could be expected. The eastern corner of Pitt County is struck by the solid circle, and the western corner by the broken circle. Of course that means that Greenville could expect good TV reception from WPTF according to the TV engineers.

The General Manager of WPTF,

Richard H. Mason, says that in the near future the Federal Communications Commission will commence hearings on the TV allocation plan. If the plan is adopted, Channels 5, 22 and 28 would be allocated to Raleigh, with Channel 22 reserved for a non-commercial educational station. Channel 5 is the facility for which WPTF applied in June 1948.

When the allocations are finally adopted the FCC will announce a period in which applicants who have not already filed for TV may make applications. If no one files for the Channel WPTF did, a construction permit could be granted to WPTF and if equipment manufacturers are then able to deliver equipment for which they have orders, WPTF-TV should be on the air well within a year after receiving the permit.

In anticipation of television, WPTF has built a 525-foot tower which now supports WPTF's FM antenna, but is also designed to support a TV antenna, and is the maximum height permitted by the Civil Aeronautics Authority at the transmitter site in Cary, N.C. WPTF has also made plans for remodeling the largest studio in the Insurance Building exclusively for television. They have also placed orders with equipment manufacturers for a television transmitter of the maximum power permitted by the FCC, so that when the authority comes, the equipment can be shipped.

In addition to the statement made by the General Manager, WPTF has prepared a folder containing additional information on its TV plans. If you want a copy of this folder, simply write:

Many Greenville set owners are receiving good reception from Norfolk at times, but it isn't 100 per cent reliable. With a station in Raleigh Greenville will become a TV town.

TRAVEL — Charles Parker, state director of advertising, brings back some good news from the National Association of Travel Organizations which he attended last week in Washington. Opinion of attendants from all over the country is that 1951 will be one of the best travel years in history, with more people having more time and money to spend on vacations. There will, however, probably be fewer planned vacations covering distant travel and prolonged stays. The trend is toward "flash trips" decided upon spontaneously and taken within a day's travel distance of home. That is where North Carolina has distinct advantage, with its variety of attractions located within less than two days from more than sixty million people.

DOLLARS — Travel services are not alone in preparing for unprecedented business this summer. Retail merchants are alert to the prospect of sales of vacation goods. The retail division of the bureau of advertising, National Newspaper Publishers Association, estimates that some seventy million people will buy from seven to twelve million dollars worth of merchandise for vacations. Major part of this goes for transportation and lodging, but the advertising bureau folks estimate approximately 25 percent of the total is spent for such non-travel items as clothing, luggage, sporting goods, cameras, souvenirs and gifts, roadside knick-knack foods and beverages. In other words, there are items which retail stores have on hand and sell all the time, but which are required in larger quantities for vacation trips. This break-down further emphasizes that the travel dollar is not confined to resort areas. The resorts, mainly mountain and beach facilities, get a larger share of the money spent for lodging and main meals. But the home town merchants get major share of the dollars spent for clothing, luggage, and such items. Their part of the two and a half or three billion dollars spent on vacations is a sizeable item, worth paying some attention to get and keep.

MAP — There is a new map on the wall of the office of the N.C. Association of Afternoon Dailies, from which these daily reports emanate. It portrays in different colored lines the twelve congressional districts into which the state is divided, and it shows at a glance some of the "funny business" with respect to laying out these districts. For instance, only one district—the sixth—is bounded entirely by North Carolina territory. One district—the twelfth—touches three other states. Here is how the districts lie with respect to surrounding areas.

FIRST—The first district represented by Congressman Herbert Bonner, is bordered by Virginia, the Atlantic ocean, and the second and third congressional districts.

SECOND—The second district John H. Kerr, is bounded by Virginia, the first, third and fourth North Carolina districts.

THIRD—The third district represented by Congressman Graham A. Barden, is bounded by the Atlantic ocean, the first, second, fourth and seventh congressional districts.

FOURTH—The fourth district represented by Congressman Harold D. Cooley is bounded by Virginia, the second, third, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth districts.

Business Today

Retailer sentiment is strongly shifting to the belief that, if there has to be a national sales tax, it ought to be at the retail level. A survey conducted recently by Representative Richard M. Simpson (R., Pa.) and the Committee of Americans showed that business men, at the rate of 5 to 1, preferred a retail tax to a manufacturers' tax.

Since that time, the preference for a retail tax has become much more preponderant. The reason for this is the development of the Office of Price Stabilization's policy on cost increases. The OPS has ruled that most increases in costs must be passed along only in dollars and cents, with no percentage mark-up. It seems certain that it would use this technique if applied.

If a manufacturer today sells an article for $100 and the retailer's mark-up is 40 per cent, he sells it for $140. But if a 4 per cent manufacturers' tax was applied, his selling price would be $105. But under the OPS policy, the retailer would be allowed to add only the original 40 mark-up on the tax, as they do today on alcoholic beverages.

But it would be no break for the retailer. He would have to finance the tax. His inventory financing and insurance costs would be up 8 per cent, with no return on the increase. If the article was never sold, he would be out $105 instead of $100. And if he paid commissions on the selling price, he would actually make less than before.

On the other hand, if the tax were applied at the time of the retailer's sale, he wouldn't have to advance the amount of the tax during the interim. And if the tax was listed separately on the sales slip, he wouldn't have to pay a commission on the tax.

There's another advantage. A manufacturer's tax—as with whisky—is hidden. Few people ever realize how much it is. But a tax at retail would be very apparent. It would be a constant reminder to the consumer to demand its repeal the day it was no longer essential to defense; it would be a constant spur to the public to insist that Congress keep down non-defense spending.

Some Treasury experts favor the manufacturers' tax. It would be easier to collect, since there are fewer manufacturers than retailers, and a retailers' tax collected at the same time as various city and state sales taxes would be confusing to everybody.

NEW YORK TV STOCKS

UP 446 PERCENT IN YEAR

High inventories of television receivers have frequently been commented upon. A suggestion of just how high they are is contained in a report by a Federal Reserve report that TV set inventories in department stores of the Second (New York) District on March 31 were 446 per cent larger than a year ago.

The national retail inventory may not be so large, since distributors and dealers in other sections of the country are reported to be shipping distress merchandise to New York to avoid glutting local markets.

Besides, it sharply reduces inclination to keep the camera.

NEW YORK—Among other distinctions, Merrill Moore is one of our few poets, if not our only poet, whose work is reviewed in medical journals.

His latest little volume, "Illegitimate Sonnets" (Twayne Publishers), was favorably received by the New England Journal of Medicine, along with some non-lyrical works titled "Primer of Venous Pressure," "Pathology in General Surgery" and "The Abnormal Pneumocephalogram."

The medical interest in Moore's non-medical, uninhibited, realistic poems is easily explained. For, besides being the world's most prolific producer of sonnets, a long distance swimmer (who at 48 still crawls two miles just for exercise) and an industrious sea shell collector, Merrill Moore also is a prominent Boston psychiatrist.

He believes he is the first poet to have his work reviewed in the New England Journal of Medicine since Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Dr. Moore also has been reviewed by lay critics. Those who like his poetry said of him: "Kinsey in Verse," "Acute Insight," "Dr. Moore's therapy for the repressed traditional sonnet has released its inhibitions and shown it how to go out and have a good time..."

Dr. Moore, a tall, ruddy man with greying brown hair and an easy outgoing manner, estimates that in the past 30 years he has written more than 100,000 sonnets. They are all filed chronologically in a 20 by 30 building built just for that purpose behind his Boston home.

He has published about 2,000 sonnets. "Only about one out of 20," he says, "is worth printing. But I'd rather write 10 lousy sonnets and not lose one good one than wait and wait and not write any at all."

The poet-psychiatrist's father was John Trovwood Moore, a writer of highly romantic, orthodox novels. Dr. Moore's poetry is far from orthodox.

"Psychoanalytically, I suppose, I was competing with my father," he explains. "But I find it easier to write sonnets than not to write them. They provide an escape from my work, a chance at self-study, and an opportunity to set my fantasies down."

One-third of his poetic characters, he estimates, are drawn from his patients and friends, one-third from his imagination and one-third "are just me."

Only one patient, out of many hundreds, recognized herself in a Dr. Moore sonnet. "She was so happy," the poet reports, "she wanted me to use her real name."

Dr. Moore grabs at any free moment to create his poetry. He composes between patients, dictates to a portable recorder in his car (someone else does the driving) and writes late at night at home.

His wife, the doctor reports, likes his poetry. The rest of the family only "tolerates" it. His four children are more interested in jalousies, boats, jam sessions and Roy Rogers.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Blair Moody, Michigan's handsome new senator is one of the capital's best ballroom performers—from samba to square dance. His wife Ruth, is his most enthusiastic partner.

But there's been little time for dancing for the former correspondent of the Detroit News, who was appointed after the death of Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R. Mich.).

"He's had the reputation of being the hardest-working man in the Washington press corps," his wife says. "Now it looks like he's going to be one of the hardest-working senators. But his best fun so far, Blair always puts so much enthusiasm and energy into his work."

Petite, Auburn-haired Mrs. Moody, the former Ruth Anderson Lang, born in New York and educated at Boston University, met her husband while she was working for the late Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, then Attorney General.

They were married in 1940 and spent part of their honeymoon on Wendell Willkie's hectic presidential campaign trip, part of it at their summer camp at Little Lake Sebago, Me.

Proudest witnesses at the Senator's recent swearing-in ceremonies on Capitol Hill were the Moody's young sons Christopher, 8, and Robin, 4. The Senator has another son by a former marriage, Blair, Jr., 23, a second-year law student at Ann Arbor.

While the Moodys like to go out dancing and thoroughly enjoy the cocktail round (though the Senator is a tea-totaller) they enjoy their evenings at home with the boys.

Being married to a newspaperman, Mrs. Moody naturally has kept a lively interest in the issues of the day, and has been doing all the paper work for Mr. Moody's radio program in which he moderates a weekly panel of four congressmen. She's more than ever involved now answering the hundreds of congratulatory letters her husband received after his appointment.

"I expect to help him with his campaign for election to the Senate in 1952. We will spend as much time as possible in Michigan and I shall appear with him as often as he needs me," she explained.

Would she like to see her husband run for the presidency one day? I asked.

"Over my dead body," she replied.

Scout Troop 10 Enjoys Overnight Camping Trip

Girl Scout Troop No. 10 of West Greenville School, under the leadership of Mrs. Betsy West, went on an overnight camping trip during the past weekend.

Twenty-seven scouts, with their leader, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Evans, who live on the Hooker road behind the Ayden highway, on Friday afternoon equipped with their tents, cooking utensils and enough food to feed a small regiment. They set up camp in a field about half a mile from the house before dark and prepared the campfire for their supper.

The floor of the tents were covered with large pieces of canvas, and for beds, the girls spread blankets on this and rolled up in them for the night.

Shortly after they had fed on a bountiful supper of chili con carne and had built a huge campfire, a terrific thunder- and rainstorm came up. But the spirit of the scouts was not daunted, and to prove the worth of their training, the girls all gathered together in two of the nine tents that had been erected and "rode out" the storm. Not one of them suffered from exposure and all slept like the proverbial log after they finally quieted down for the night.

Early in the morning they were up to cook their breakfast over the charcoal fire. They prepared bacon, eggs, grits and "camp" toast, after which they made preparations for breaking camp. They returned to the city the middle of the morning, and according to last reports, none had suffered from anything but too much fun and not enough sleep during their overnight experience.

Ayden Baseballers To Meet S. Edgecomb For Loop Title

Three-Game Series To Start May 10; Ayden Pitching Staff One Of Strongest In Conference While Batting Dept. Boasts Power

By MELVIN LANG
AYDEN—Ayden High School's baseball team which passed the regular season in first place in the Coastal conference will play South Edgecomb in a three-game series to determine the championship of the conference, it was announced this morning.

The series will begin May 10th, when the Pinetops team comes to Ayden. The second game will be run off on May 14th in Pinetops. If a third contest is needed, the date will be decided later.

These dates are all subject to be changed at any time, due to the fact that final exams are being given in the schools, and the games will have to be set in accordance with the exam dates.

The two schools have played twice in regular season. In the first game of the season for them, Coach Stuart Tripp's nine was defeated by the Pinetoppers 5-3. With more experience under their belt, Coach Tripp's youngsters gained revenge by taking a 7-3 count over the South Edgecomb crew some two weeks ago.

Ayden has one of the strongest pitching staffs in the league. The Ayden boys are led on the mound by righthander Dal Worthington, who has won five games and was charged with Ayden's lone defeat at the opening of the season. He has pitched 42 innings so far this season, and in this time he has allowed only 21 hits and struck out a total of 73 batters who have faced him. Only 19 batters have reached first base on walks given up by the Ayden mound star. He has been charged with only eight earned runs, with three shutouts being recorded to his credit.

Teedy Bullock is ready to take over the mound duties at any time Worthington might tire. Bullock has appeared in the fireman's role several times, having pitched eleven innings, giving up only six hits. He has struck out, on the fast overhand ball pitches for which he is widely known, a total of 14 men.

In the innings which he has pitched he has issued only six bases on balls and allowed only four earned runs to cross the plate.

David Manning, the centerfielder for Ayden, is currently leading the Tripp boys at the plate with a hefty .448 batting average. He has a double, triple, and a home run included in the average and he is also tied with Randall Harrington for the lead in the runs batted in department with nine each. Harrington is second in the individual batting race with a .353 average.

Ayden has a comfortable margin in the important runs scoring department which may help to decide the champion in the forthcoming contest. Tripp's boys have a record of 47 runs to their credit while allowing only 18 runs for their opponents. Manning is also leading the Ayden boys in this section. He has scored 12 runs so far this season.

Ayden and South Edgecomb finished in second and third place last year in the Coastal division, in that order. Robersonville won the conference championship in 1950.

During the overall season, the Ayden boys have won seven games while losing only one contest.

Winterville Defeats Bethel Nine By 7-4

WINTERVILLE—Winterville high school scored its sixth victory on the baseball diamond yesterday afternoon when they trimmed a visiting Bethel ball team, 7-4.

Winterville scored its seven runs on seven hits and four errors committed by the Bethel players.

Scoring for Winterville came in three big innings as they shoved across two runs in the second, three in the fourth and two in the fifth. Bethel scored once in the first and second and twice in the seventh as they started a rally which was short-lived.

The winning runs for Winterville came in the fourth frame when Hobgood led off with a single and scored on a long triple banded out by Averette. Then a mighty round-tripper by LeRoy Faulkner moved two more runs in to give the locals a margin of victory.

Winterville will play Grimesland in Grimesland on Thursday of this week.

Leading batter for Bethel was Whitehurst with two for two and Faulkner for Winterville with two for four, one a home run.

Two 6-Run Innings Give Victory To Grimesland

GRIMESLAND—Two big innings in which the Grimesland baseballers sent six runs across the plate each time, enabled the locals to take a 12-8 decision over a visiting Chocowinity nine in Grimesland yesterday.

Six of the runs, scored in the third inning, were set up with two men on and a home run by Jim Burgess scored them. The next two batters walked and scored on a single by Randolph Tripp. Wilbur Ward scored Tripp with a single to end the scoring.

Belting Baker

Bob Baker, young Pittsburgh heavyweight, is being compared with Joe Louis at the same stage of development. He is one of the few real combination punchers in the up-and-coming crop of heavyweight prospects a fighter who can box and punch. Confident to the point of being a bit cocky, Baker declares that he is ready to fight anyone in the heavyweight division to prove his right to a championship bout later on—anyone immediately except Champion Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott.

"I'm only a baby as far as fighting goes," says Baker, "but I'll fight Rex Layne, Rocky Marchiaio or Poland La Starza. In a year, I figure I'll be ready for Walcott or Charles. I'm still growing and my hands are no longer a worry."

Cubs Struck Gold In Comeback Of Lefty Bob Schultz; Control Is Back

BROOKLYN — (AP) — Bob Schultz cost the Chicago Cubs organization only $2,500 but they wouldn't take 20 times that for him today.

The 27-year-old lefthander, unwanted a year ago, has staged one of the most amazing comebacks in organized baseball.

Schultz won one game and lost five for Memphis of the Southern Association in 1949. The following year he went to the Cubs' Nashville farm in the same league for the $2,500 waiver price. With Nashville he did an about face and blossomed into a star to earn promotion to the parent Cubs.

The lanky lefthander won 25 games and lost six for Nashville. Schultz explained his surprising 1950 season before yesterday's game against the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets Field. "I just got my control back," he said.

Schultz then stepped out to the mound and pitched the Cubs to a 2-1 nine-hit victory over the Dodgers. Schultz' chief weapon is a fast ball but he also can throw a curve.

Bill Stalls Leads

GREENSBORO — (AP) — Defending champion Bill Stalls of East Carolina College held a solid two-stroke lead as the annual North State Conference Golf Tournament entered its final round today.

Stalls fired a three over par 75 in the first round over the Starbmont Forest Country Club course yesterday.

Back in a three-way tie for second place with 77s were Dave Mandy of Elon, Fred Bowers of Catawba, and Bill Hyler of Elon.

Two Who Had Their Great Moments Are On Way Out

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE (Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.) BY OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — (UP) — You can't get by on a reputation in the big leagues, so it looked today as if two who had their great moments were bound for the oblivion which eventually claims all the old stars.

Johnny Vander Meer and Joe Page. There was a time not too long ago when each was a name to conjure with.

Both of them were headliners. Vander Meer you remembered as the only man in baseball history to toss two consecutive no-hit, no run games. Page was the relief pitcher par excellence, the man whose rubber arm hurled the New York Yankees to American League pennants in 1947 and 1948.

Now, the word is, they have reached the end of the trail. Vander Meer, the stolid Dutchman with the poker face, has seen it coming a long while. There are some who will say he never was great.

But there were two times—consecutive games for him in 1938—when no man was ever greater standing out there on the mound and defying the hitters. You can't do much better than a no-hit, no run game. Johnny did it twice in a row.

The startling speed had fled from the stolid man's strong left arm as early as 1949, when the Cincinnati Reds let him go. Last year he worked in the obscurity of a mediocre relief pitcher for the Chicago Cubs. And this year he gave it a fling with the Cleveland Indians.

It wasn't a long one. He went in against Washington the other night and they battered him for eight hits and six runs in three innings.

"I guess I just don't have it anymore," Johnny said with that old stoicism.

Flu Bug Cripples St. Louis Lineup

NEW YORK — (UP) — The team doctor will make up the St. Louis Cardinals' lineup today—if he isn't sick himself.

The "flu bug" had the Cards in such sad shape that 12 players were on the ailing list, six of them bad enough to miss the night game the Cards lost to the New York Giants, 6 to 2. Also sick were Coach Mike Ryba and Trainer H. J. Weaver.

Out last night were—pitchers Harry Brecheen, Howie Pollet, and George Munger, first baseman Glenn Nelson, second baseman Al Schoendienst, and catcher Bill Sarni.

Feeling sicker all the time were—outfielder Stan Musial, shortstop Solly Hemus, pitchers Ted Wilks, Tom Poholsky, and Al Brazle, and catcher Del Rice.

The gloomy comment of healthy catcher Joe Garagiola: "We haven't even got enough guys for a good fight."

So, at 36, an age when a lot of other pitchers still are going strong, Johnny admitted that he was virtually washed up as a major leaguer. Washington, he knew, just didn't have that kind of hitters—and Vander Meer no longer had that old kind of pitching.

As for Page, this was the year for an "every other year pitcher." That's what his one-time boss, Larry MacPhail, tagged him.

Page, a blithe Pennsylvanian who never was one to worry about tomorrow, never could hook up two successful seasons in a row.

He was terrific in 1947 and his record of 14 wins against eight losses didn't tell the story. Joe was the fireman of the Yankee pitching brigade, the guy who swung out there jauntily in the late innings and choked off many an enemy rally as the off-injured Yanks hobbled to the pennant.

The next season he was a bum. He couldn't get in out of the rain of baseruns. His record was seven hits against eight losses, and that was charity. But in 1949 he bounced back again, with that unerring rubber arm, and had a 13-8 mark as he again led the Yanks home.

Goldsboro Cards Blank Greenville

By BERT MOYE
The Greenville Robins were the recipients of their first white washing job of the season over in Goldsboro last night as the Cards blanked them 5-0. The win for the Cards gave them a split in the two-game series.

The Robins will be at home tonight when they meet the New Bern Bears in their first meeting of the season. Bobby Harrison (0-1) will start for Manager John Streza on the mound.

The Cards put across two runs in the first frame which proved enough to cop the game on singles by Shamrock Denning and Clyde Whitener aided by a couple of errors on the part of Pete Piestrak and Manager John Streza.

A singleton was added in the fourth when Catcher Will Desjardin clouted one out of the park and ended their scoring for the night by adding two more runs in the eighth frame.

Pete Braun went the route for the Robins and was charged with his first loss of the season. He now has a record of one win as against one loss. He gave up a total of 10 hits with Denning, Cards' centerfielder, getting three singles and one double for a perfect night at the bat.

Bob Umphlett, who had previously defeated the Robins in an exhibition game, went the route for the Cards and gave up nine hits with Pete Piestrak, Robins' third sacker, collecting two doubles and a single in four trips.

Score by innings:
Greenville ... 000 000 0-0 9 2
Goldsboro ... 200 100 02-5 10 0
Braun and Celardo; Umphlett and Desjardin.

Last season it was "off again" as he racked up a pitiful three-seven mark.

But he didn't come back this season. Battered with arm trouble, he hasn't pitched since March 17. And the Yankee front office hints that Joe, at 34, is on his way out.

For him and for Vander Meer, the memories of the past hardly balance with the thoughts of the future.

The difference goes more than Skin-Deep

NOBODY wonders what you're driving when you roll by in this one.

In the 1951 line-up, its brand-new front-end styling stands out with a beauty all its own.

You're the proud owner of a Buick—and the whole world knows it.

But you—at the wheel—enjoy a long list of differences that go far deeper than looks.

The ride is different—level and true. You sit the road with special assurance—because Buick's torque-tube drive keeps rear wheels firmly aligned—soft coil springs on all four wheels soak up the bumps and bobbles—honest weight keeps you on a steady keel.

The power is different—eager and sure. Buick's high-compression Fireball engine does wonders with fuel—and no matter what you demand in emergency, there's horsepower to spare.

Handling is different—this car seems to steer itself on straightaway or curve—and swings lightly into parking spots inches shorter than you'd think you need.

Capping it all, there's the silken versatility of Dynaflex Drive,* that takes all the tenseness out of driving—responds to your slightest wish with a surging swoop of power.

No doubt about it, what you get in a Buick is far more than just a new car—it's a whole new experience in getting pleasurably from here to there.

So why not explore this difference? Come, take a Buick over and find out how very much satisfaction smart money can buy.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

The SIREN of SILVER VALLEY

By PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Jeff lost no time in getting his plan under way. As soon as they arrived at the ranch he sent Tomstones with several men to ride patrol and watch the movements of the Star and ordered the rest of the crew to the hills to cut fence posts. This they were to continue to do through Sunday, all thought of holidays shelved until the final blow had been struck and the Starrs were driven from the valley.

Jeff himself was filled with a cold anger. To him, as to the men, it appeared that the Star had deliberately ambushed them as they rode along the street and the incident cemented his determination to get right at the job and speed it to a successful and ruthless conclusion.

He reported to Diana and found her quite as hard as was he. Even now he wondered a bit at this; with all her soft beauty and gentle ways she could be as implacable as a glacier. To him she was a paradox.

Now she said, "This is the last straw. I want you to ride up there and drive them out of the valley. Today. Before they have time to prepare."

"That would be foolish, Diana. They have as many men as we and we'd be doing the attacking. No, that isn't the way. I have a better plan. Will you leave it to me as you said you would?"

She put her hand on his arm in that familiar gesture of hers and said, "Of course, dear. There I go again!"

The same unreasoning emotion which had seized him in the hotel parlor the very first day he had met her gripped him now. They were in the alcove near her desk and they were alone. He reached out and took her into his arms, crushing her to him, kissing her hair, her forehead and finally her lips. And she clung to him for a short space before she pushed him gently away. "Jeff, why did you do that?" "Because I couldn't help it, darling." He still held her, reluctant to let her go. "Diana, you know I'm crazy about you. Nothing else seems to matter. I made up my mind I'd wait until I could come to you and lay this damned valley at your feet, but something stronger than my will drives me. Diana, tell me that you love me! Tell me that and I'll be satisfied. Tell me that and I can go out and scatter the Starrs and their cattle so far in the hills that they'll never find their way out!"

She pressed her face against his chest. "Oh, Jeff, can you doubt it?"

He stood transfixed for a moment, joy welling up within him. He tried to talk calmly, rationally. "Then you'll marry me when I ask?"

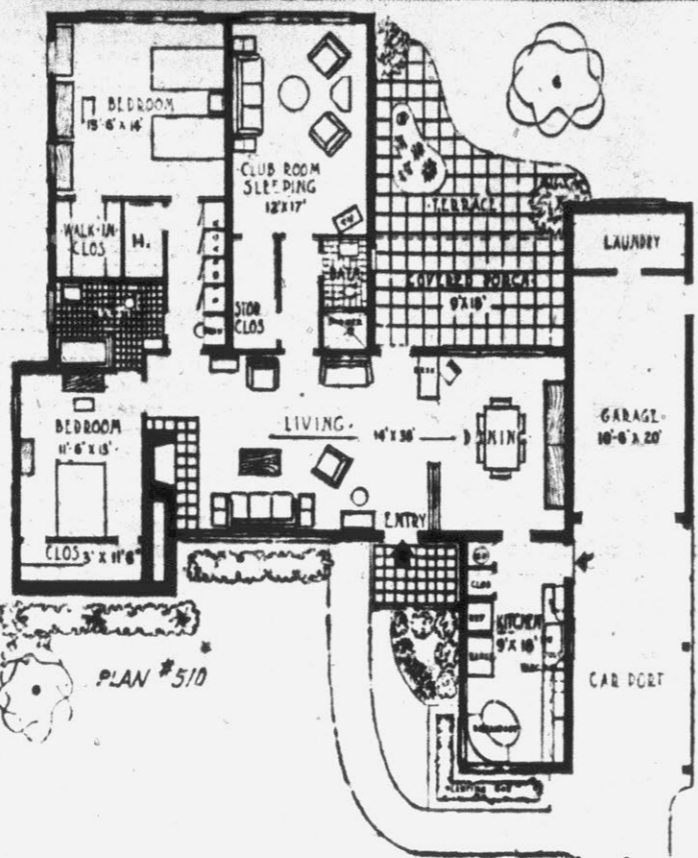

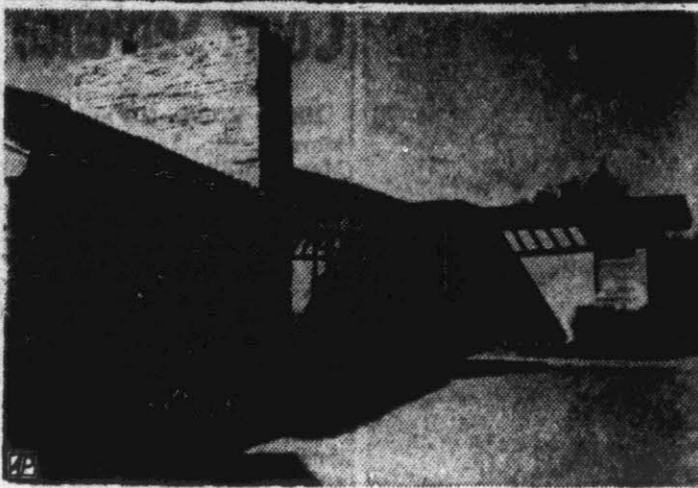

He bent forward eagerly. "Yes! I give you my word, darling!" "Then this is it." She raised her lips and when he kissed her his kiss was returned.

She sighed at last and pushed him away. "There, I've done it. But you must never mention it again until—" "I know, darling." He felt very humble. He took her hand and raised it and kissed the soft pink palm. "You've made me just about the happiest man alive, dear. There are so many things I'd like to give you and so very few that I can." She smiled and the blue eyes were very soft. "I want only one thing, darling. Silver Valley."

"Is that all? Lady, consider it yours." Jeff returned to the ranch just as Sam Cooper and Diana drove up in a bright buggy that the supervisor Sam had rented at the Silverstone livery corral. He ran down the steps to help Diana alight.

She explained briefly. "Sam drove over to see about some business and we decided to ride while we discussed it." She smiled at him. "Not being a horsewoman I've been pretty well cooped up."

"I should have thought of a ride long before this."

"But you've been so busy."

"I have, for a fact." He turned to Cooper. "While you're here, I'd like to explain what I have in mind."

"Good idea," approved Cooper, and they went up on the gallery and sat down and he told them what he planned to do.

Up at the Star ranch, Ruth moved quietly about in the kitchen preparing supper for herself and her injured father. The doctor had been out and had set the broken arm and leg and had patched up the wounds of the others who had been hurt. In the yard the men gathered around the bunkhouse to await the cook's triangle call to supper.

Ed Kever came into the kitchen and asked, "How's he feelin'?"

"The pain is gone but he's terribly worried. It galls him to know that the Double D may attack at any moment and find him unable to help. And he's worried about Buddy, too. Ed, have you heard from him?"

"He's all right. Joined up with Shag and they cut off the bracelets and doctored his arm. Shag's got several invalids in his camp; seems that somebody came to Jeff Payne's aid when they had him bottled up in Four-mile Canyon and Jeff winged two of 'em and got away clean."

Ruth turned to the stove so that he would not see the guilt on her face. "It seemed to me at the time that trapping Jeff Payne like that was a cowardly thing to do. Now I'm not so sure. His men charged us there in Silverstone while we were bunched on the ground. It's about the same thing."

"Where'd you hear about 'Four-mile Canyon'?" asked Ed sharply. "Buddy told me." She added without turning. "That is, he told me Shag was planning to do it."

"Huh! And somebody—" he broke off abruptly and changed the subject. "Talkin' about Silverstone. I was there and I ain't so sure the Double D was chargin' us. Me and John got the same hunch right off. They was cowboys ridin' to town on a Saturday afternoon. Mebbe they was spollin' for a fight, but not until they'd lickered up a mile first. One of our boys gets rattled and cuts loose—and bingo—the war's on."

She said nothing and after a short pause he went on. "Another thing that makes me believe they wasn't chargin' us is that Jeff wasn't with 'em when the shootin' started."

She turned swiftly. "Ed, are you sure?"

"Sure as I'm standin' here. I just don't believe they was chargin' us."

Ridgway Paints Darker Picture

NEW YORK (UP)—Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Commander of United Nations forces in the Far East, says he can see no end to fighting in Korea which "will continue to grow harder."

The successor to Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in an article published in Look Magazine that the battle against domination by Russia and its satellites is a fight against "utter hopelessness and despair in an enslaved and Godless world."

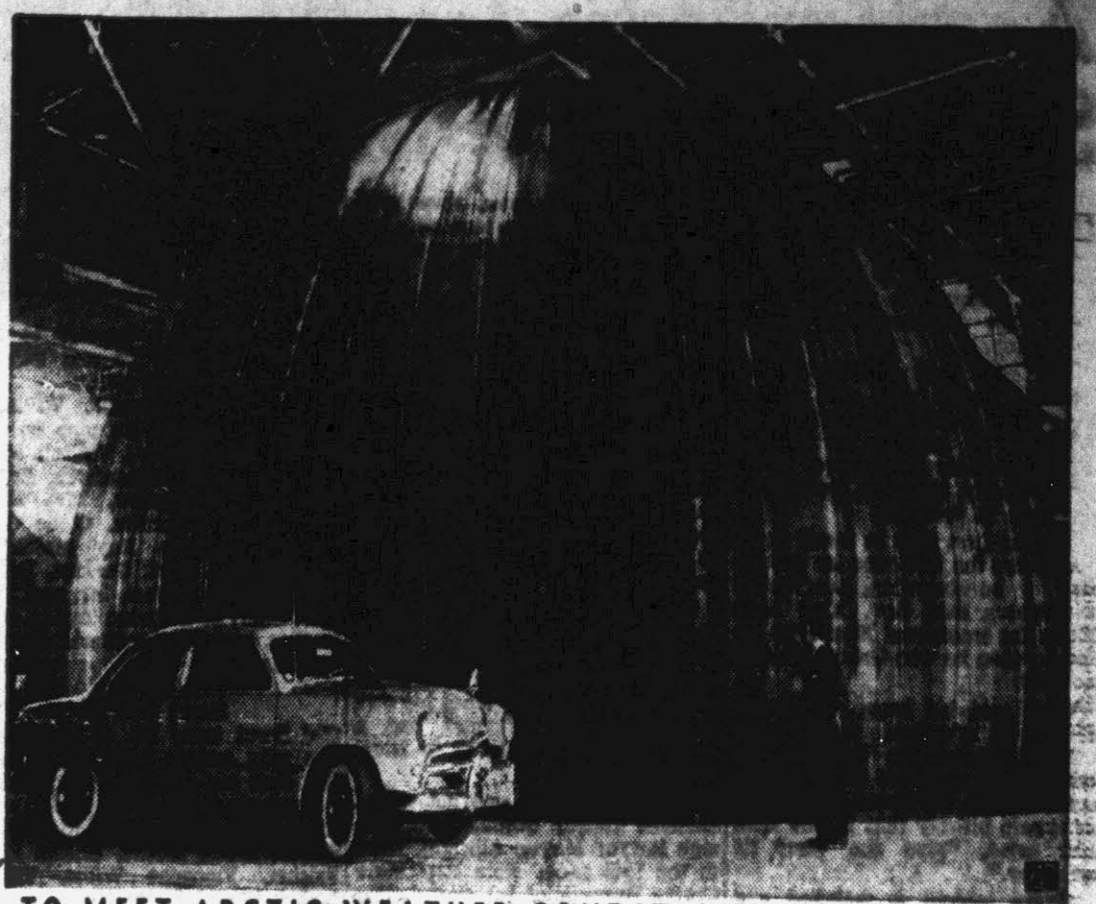

"We cannot see its end," he said. He predicted a crisis in Korea would be met and surmounted by seasoned fighters of the Eighth Army, "not lightly nor easily."

"It will take stoutness of heart, physical stamina, fighting skill and, above all, that unconquerable spirit which, trusting in God, will never be downed," Ridgway wrote.

Dozen Candidates Are Stirring Political Pot

By REESE DANIEL
United Press Staff Correspondent
RALEIGH — (UP) — North Carolina's political pot is beginning to boil and already a dozen "candidates" for governor have floated to the top.

The race that counts—the Democratic primary—is still a year away, but political observers are beginning to add up the chances of the possible candidates. It depends mostly, they say, on whether tradition is followed.

For the first time in many years it appears the 1932 race for governor may be statewide. Disgruntled Easterners said Gov. Kerr Scott broke the traditional East-West rotation when he won the nomination in 1928.

Scott said his home, Alamance county in mid-state, was neutral ground. Westerners said it was East, which deserved the next governor under the rotation system. East said bitterly that it was West and cried, "give the East its governor."

If the system is followed and the next governor comes from the West, Sam J. Ervin Jr. of Morganton, associate state supreme court justice, appears one of the strongest of the likely contenders.

Ervin won a special election to Congress in the 10th district in 1934 against five other candidates by a vote of 2,303 to 17. He has been

Manual Jobs Get White Collars Dirty For Cause

MEADVILLE, Pa. — (AP) — Have you ever implicitly dreamed of seeing your banker, doctor or other professional man getting his hands dirty at some manual job? If so, you should have been at the William Gates Service Station in this small town recently. Nearly 50 professional men took over the duties of attendants for a full day.

On that eventful day you could have watched a prominent dentist filling gas tanks instead of cavities. Or you could have overheard a former patient say to his doctor:

"Better check the oil, Doc. And, oh yes, would you wipe the windshield, please? It's a little dirty."

The project is a campaign designed to raise funds for youth activities of the Meadville Exchange Club. All profits from the sale of gasoline was turned over to the club.

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA — (UP) — The inventive G. I. is a successful munitions-maker at the cut-rate price of $30 a bomb.

After fiddling for days with a new contraption, a group of U.S. combat troops conducted a test explosion that lifted men clean off the ground. Flames and smoke shot skyward. Their recipe:

Forty-five gallons of gasoline, 10 gallons of motor oil, 50 feet of telephone wire, 5 pounds of dynamite, one hand grenade, a radio battery and 20 yards of detonating cable.

Mix well and touch 'er off.

Screen Actress Sued For Debt

LOS ANGELES — (UP) — Peggy Ann Garner, 19-year-old screen actress, and her mother face a suit for $4,088 by a furniture owner who charged they owed half the payment on furniture purchased four years ago.

Furniture man Carl B. Bickel complained that the Garners purchased $8,000 worth of furniture in 1946 and 1947 and made only half the payments.

Peggy Ann filed an answer stating she was not a party to the transaction and received no benefit from it.

SAFEST TRUCKS ON THE ROAD

NEW DODGE "Job-Rated" Trucks

The trucks that do the most for you

Why a Job-Rated truck is your safest investment

A "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to fit a specific job... save you money... last longer. Every unit from engine to rear axle is "Job-Rated"—engineered to haul a specific load over the roads you travel and at the speeds you require.

Every unit that SUPPORTS the load—frame, axles, springs, wheels, tires and others—is engineered right to provide the strength and capacity needed.

Every unit that MOVES the load—engine, clutch, transmission, propeller shaft, rear axle and others—is engineered right to meet a particular operating condition.

Safer stops with "Job-Rated" brakes
Step on the brakes of your Dodge "Job-Rated" truck and you're sure of smooth stopping action far in excess of normal requirements. You get long-lasting Cyclebond "no-rivet" brake lining—with lining area increased as G.V.W. rating goes up! Now, on models 1½-ton and up, except air brake models, you get another Dodge "first"—new Tapered, Molded Cyclebond brake lining. It's longer-lasting, extra quiet—free from "squeal." Independent hand brake also adds to safety.

Safer steering and easier handling
Now, you can maneuver your Dodge "Job-Rated" truck with less effort! Steering is more accurate. New easy-acting worm-and-roller steering gears on many models. To make driving still safer, Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks have new, shorter turning diameters. You also get the easy-handling advantages of cross-steering, short wheelbase, wide front tread. All these features add up to the easiest handling truck on the market!

Safer visibility with "Pilot-House" cabs
When you drive a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck you look through the biggest windshield of any popular truck! You have a clear close-up of the road, made possible by new, lower hood line. For even greater visibility you can get De Luxe and Custom cabs with rear quarter windows. All-steel "Pilot-House" cabs provide extra safety, too. Top, floor and sides are welded together—not bolted! No wonder owners agree that Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks are the safest on the road!

FLUID DRIVE now available
Only Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks offer this great "exclusive"—available on all ½, ¾, and 1-ton models and Route-Vans. Helps assure less wheel-spinning on slippery surfaces... less tendency to spin in mud, sand, snow or wherever the going is tough. What's more, gyro Fluid Drive makes driving easier, helps protect loads, lowers upkeep costs, and lengthens truck life.

Undermanned Staff Of OPS Intensifies Work

RALEIGH — The still-undermanned staff of the Eastern North Carolina OPS is this week redoubling its effort to take the price stabilization program direct to the stores and shops of the area. J.G. Clark, district OPS director, said today.

"We realize," Mr. Clark declared, "that hundreds and hundreds of people still have not had adequate information about the price stabilization program. Many have not had access to the regulation which affects their individual business. Hence, compliance has been slow in most instances."

"We now plan to put as many of our staff as possible in the field, going from store to store, firm to firm, with regulations and forms in an effort to see that every business is informed about this all-important program to stabilize our economy. Meanwhile, we urge business folk to contact OPS at 700 Tucker Street here," Mr. Clark added.

The Eastern Carolina OPS, originally chartered for a staff of 85 persons, is now operating with 31, several of whom have been on the job less than 10 days. The office does not yet have a price executive, a job which Mr. Clark described as "vital to smooth operation." The Eastern Carolina OPS has been in operation just 60 days. The OPS differs from the OPA of War II in that OPA had offices in most cities and towns. The OPS will attempt the price stabilization job from one area office here to cover 54 eastern counties.

Tobacco Field Day Scheduled

A tobacco plant-bed field day will be held at the McCullers Tobacco Experiment Station Friday of this week beginning at 10 a.m. Farmers of the county who wish to attend are asked by the farm agents to meet at the agriculture building here prior to leaving so that a minimum of automobiles can be used for the trip.

The McCullers station is located on highway 15-A ten miles south of Raleigh. During the field day the farmers will have an opportunity to observe the results of blue mold treatments, and weed control (including use of uramon and cyanide and other weed killers.)

The art of diamond cutting was discovered in the 18th century.

Belvoir-Falkland Class See Capital

Seniors from the Belvoir-Falkland High School visited Washington for a 3-day spring sightseeing trip this week-end. The students were on Capitol Hill at the same time the recently dismissed military hero was testifying before a Senate committee, but like thousands of others they had to read about him rather than look at him. The seniors, under the leadership of Principal O. H. Forrest settled for a glimpse of their Congressman Herbert C. Bonner. At Bonner's office they were welcomed with open arms by the Congressman's secretary, Henry C. Oglesby, who was formerly with the Pitt County school system. Parents Should Also Be Friend To Child

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE AP Newsfeatures Writer Most parents are sensible, reasonably well-adjusted people without serious personality problems of their own. They want to love and be loved by their children. They want their youngsters to become their friends. Yet, how many parents know how to go about the very serious business of making friends of their children?

Agnes E. Benedict and Adele Franklin, both experts in this business of guiding people to the enjoyment of parenthood, have just published a book which should be of great help. It's called "Your Best Friends Are Your Children" (Appleton-Century-Crofts, N. Y., $3).

In it they emphasize the point that parents have first to understand themselves and then to consider their children as individuals requiring individual attention. The problems of discipline and freedom, and when and where each is required for the individual child are approached sensibly and with examples for handling in specific instances. Also, ways to safeguard the emotional security of the child in the event of financial worries, sickness and death, incompatibility and divorce are sympathetically presented.

Your child can be your best friend if you understand the word "friend," the authors say. Friendship in its essential meaning, say the authors, "is a relationship with continuity; it is close and affectionate; it implies genuine concern in each friend for the good and happiness of the other. It presupposes a wish to share both joy and grief."

What can children give to parents? "Like any friends, they give affection. But your child can give you love like no other, a love tinged with adoration, a faith like your own faith in the stars following their courses. From your child you can accept such adoration and faith. It is right for both of you. The child, weak and insecure in the world, needs you as his strength and protection. Consciously and unconsciously, you are his teacher and guide; he learns your way of living in the world while he is discovering his own."

As a parent, this act of giving support to another is a deeply satisfying experience. It is an unusual adult who does not respond to the faith of a child, who is not inspired to his best efforts by a child's belief in his powers and reliance on his superior strength, point out the authors.

Brick Fortress As Security For Burmese Cabinet

RANGOON — (AP) — Fortress-like walls will shortly replace the 10-foot high barbed wire stockade surrounding "Whipsnade", Rangoon's private name for its ministerial colony in swank Windermere Park. Members of the Burmese cabinet have lived here since the 1947 ministerial murders, guarded day and night by troops armed with automatic weapons.

According to a report in the Burmese press, the annual cost of repairing and maintaining the barbed wire stockade is telling heavily on the government's purse. This is why, said the report, it will be replaced by walls of brick, five-feet high and crowned with five-foot-long spikes. Gun-sights will break the brickwork at regular intervals "just in case."

Hunting License Printed In Gold

HELENA, Mont. — (AP) — The game warden who stops Governor John W. Bonner to check his big game hunting license next fall had better wear dark glasses. The governor's license will be printed in gold.

The state's fish-game commission followed its annual custom of buying the governor's big game license. Only this time the board decided to have it lettered in gold.

No Rocking Chair For Veteran Writer Of 60

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Newsfeatures Writer Mary Heaton Vorse, a veteran and able writer who can keep pace without heavy breathing with her juniors, has a few salient and heartfelt remarks to make about attitudes of younger people toward men and women on the afternoon side of 60.

What Mrs. Vorse has to say makes sense as it usually does. It should be pointed out that many years ago the lady tossed off what has become a classic prescription on becoming a writer: "by applying the seat of the pants to the seat of the chair" in front of a desk — and writing.

Mrs. Vorse's thesis is based on the familiar line about being as young as you feel. But, she says with considerable justification, no matter how colt-like one feels, no matter how active one is, younger people frequently and thoughtlessly keep reminding about the onslaught of years.

She is writing, in the current Woman's Home Companion, specifically about persons who are past 65 — as, I presume, she herself is. I agree with her and I propose to mend my ways immediately about assisting older people on the stairs and marveling at the activities of some spirited octogenarians. Mrs. Vorse goes far enough in her counseling.

It is my impression that all women past the age of 30 are constantly subjected to the spectre of age. It's no wonder most women are skittish about confessing to their years when, by popular consent among editors, romance writers and advertising copy writers, there seems to be a ban on anything very exciting happening once past that deadline of years. According to one school of thought allied closely to cosmetics manufacture, once a woman has crossed the threshold of the thirties, her complexion is doomed unless she slathers all manner of gop upon it night and morning. She must ever be on the alert for those tiny networks of wrinkles around the eyes which are symptoms of age — never brought on by squinting down the fairways or from frequent laughter. And her throat — well, it's bound to get into the crepe stage which is one step removed from the velvet ribbon-and-pearls department.

By some sort of cabal, heroines in romantic magazine fiction can never have passed their 30th birthday — except, of course, are widows, with one or two young children. The illustrators of those pieces of fiction signify a widow's advanced age by painting in a white streak of hair. I have known lots of women, including widows, who reached 40 without any gray hair. Then there is all that scary stuff about women past their 30s watching their diets like mad and avoiding the lurking spread around the middle. There is the nice-nelly language of the advertisements describing girdles, foundation garments and dresses for the "mature" figure, illustrated invariably by skinny bean-poles who show they are "mature" by doing their hair in a bun at the back and wearing a bored air.

Mrs. Vorse complains that being congratulated on keeping out of a rocking chair and having people marvel that she can travel under her own steam makes her aware of her years, even if she doesn't feel them. All this concentration of impending collapse of figure, ruination of complexion, lack of romance and sober dressing makes the younger women feel that after 30 life is presumed to pass them by.

As a matter of fact, whether a woman is 30 or 65, she's a lot younger for her years than she used to be, and much more full of pep.

Will Launch Big Ship On June 23

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. — (UP) — The 800-foot S. S. United States, largest and fastest passenger ship ever built in this country, will be launched here June 23.

J. B. Woodward, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., said the vessel would be used in service between New York and Europe. The ship has accommodations for 2,000 passengers and 1,000 crew members, but can be readily converted to carry 14,000 troops, he said.

The mammoth $70,000,000 ship will be sold to the United States for $23,000,000. The government will pay the remaining $47,000,000 with the understanding that the ship be converted into troop service on demand.

The United Nations flag was adopted by the General Assembly on Oct. 20, 1947.

An American Travesty In Custom Of 'Tipping'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A legislator of one of the mid-western states recently introduced a bill to outlaw tipping throughout his state. No one would be foolish enough to prophesy success for the bill but it may serve to focus so much attention on an out-of-date and thoroughly unsatisfactory practice.

At best it's a borrowed institution, completely outside the American tradition. Its implication is a lordly gratuity to one's servants. I believe the word itself came from the words "to insure prompt service" on coin boxes in English pubs many, many generations ago.

As practiced in the United States today, tipping is an infuriating custom. In the first place, it has long since ceased to function as a bonus for good service. It is merely a mandatory and customer-figured addition to restaurant bills, taxi fares and the price of a hair-cut or manicure. No matter how poor the service, custom and usage requires that a tip be presented. Particularly good service is estimated over and above the minimum tip.

Impatient, sour-faced waiters seeking to hurry you through a poorly served meal are guaranteed their 15 percent graft. It takes a strong, strong man or woman to omit this "voluntary gesture."

The most frightening taxi ride I've ever had in my life was the result of a previous passenger who had failed to tip the driver. He was furious, and spent his ire by hurting around corners, grinding his clutch and muttering dire imprecations on "ungrateful idiots." It probably wasn't the passenger's fault, because in many cities taxi-tipping isn't done. Tippers, however, rarely take local customs into consideration.

Mandatory tipping has made service worse, instead of better. There is no reason why an extra 15 percent can't be added automatically onto a restaurant bill. This would eliminate, for one thing, the anguish which poor mathematicians go through daily trying to figure out the size of a proper tip. Better still would be figuring the cost of the water's full salary into the price of the food, the way the cook's is and scullery boy's.

Certainly the custom of greasing the palm of restaurant and nightclub captains should be discontinued. It's an outrageously immoral way to obtain a better table. It is simple, uncomplicated bribery, which in almost any other situation would not be tolerated by Americans.

It is the custom in my area to tip barbers, hair-dressers, doormen, bell-hops and porters. In the case of the barber and beauty salon contingent, it doesn't make sense. These are skilled operators who are presumed to be specialists. Why they should be recipients of tips for doing an acceptable job passeth understanding. It makes as much sense as an employer giving his secretary 50 cents each time she presents him with a good letter for signature. (Or maybe would this be a good idea?)

I particularly resent the ubiquitous doorman with outstretched palm who is always on hand for unnecessary chores, like opening cab doors and whisking down cruising cabs when they are plentiful. But let it blow up a sudden shower and you need a scarce cab, or let you arrive in a cab with a double armful of packages, the doorman is inside the building, sneaking a forbidden cigarette. Anyway, if building operators think a uniformed doorman is necessary to their real estate's dignity, let them pay the man enough money.

So I'm for the legal abolition of tipping, with big signs saying so. It would be good for public treasuries, too, because certain tip receivers would pay a lot more taxes than they do now.

In a final analysis, I suppose, it's the fault of the tipper that the custom has continued. Apparently lots of people—men particularly—enjoy being known as "big tipper" which is nothing but showing off.

Chub Scorns Bait On Hook, Winds Up In Angler's Creel

The water in a creek at Indian Island, on the lower Pamlico River, was so clear the fishermen could see the chub and other finny creatures hovering near the bottom. A big chub would drift up to a hook with live bait, apparently smell it, then back away, and move lazily about the bottom of the creek.

The fish were not biting that day for Guy Forrest, local tobacconist, and "Red" Corbett and Roy Hathaway, who were drifting along the creek, propelling the skiff by pulling on the long grass that grew right down to the creek's edge.

The fishermen had caught robins aplenty, but no chub until a big chub weighing nearly three pounds, hemmed in shallow water, between the skiff and the creek bank, made a flopping movement, ascended into the air and dropped in the grass. Forrest, after a scuffle, retrieved the fish. Others in the party, Chief Guy C. Langston, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson, Lt. M. E. Corbett and Jimmie Brewer, testified that Forrest won the "rassling."

Farmers Advised To Use Pastures

ture supplies dairy feed at about half the cost of hay and silage and one-fourth the cost of grain, according to agricultural specialists at Ohio State University. For these reasons, farmers are being advised to provide pasture all season.
Not only are pastures costly, low the experts said, but cows generally produce more when they get good grazing. Young pasture plants, they say, such as alfalfa-ladino-grass meadow; are high in protein calcium and carotene content.

Textile Walkout Is Rapidly Being Ended

GREENSBORO —(UP)— A back-to-work movement to the Fieldcrest Mills at Leaksville-Spray began today and CIO officials said all 4,000 would be back by Monday.

James W. Bamford, southern director for the CIO Textile Workers Union, said agreement was reached yesterday on a two-year contract which leaves the dispute over wages and fringe benefits open for consideration by the federal mediation panel.

"More than half the workers who struck now either are back or have definitely arranged to go back throughout the South," Bamford said.

The Fieldcrest settlement left some 9,000 workers still on strike in North Carolina, with another 10,000 back on their jobs.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 employees still were striking in the large Erwin Mills chain, where local unions refused to turn over the wage increase issue to the mediation panel. Other workers remained out at the Alico and Peebles mills in Rockingham and the Julliard unit at Brookfield near Hickory. Contract issues other than wages still were in dispute at those mills.

Bamford said the new agreement with Fieldcrest was the first major contract revision there in about 10 years. It allows reopening of wage negotiations six months from the settlement of the present wage dispute and each six months thereafter.

Historic Ladies Dividing Town

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. —(UP)— A feud over the right of Cleopatra and other such "bad women" to places in history split the female population of Nottingham today.

The argument threatened to disrupt a town pageant portraying "Women Through the Ages."

The red-hot question was whether history's ladies of dubious morals should be portrayed with such figures as Florence Nightingale and Nurse Edith Cavell.

Nellie Smith, author and producer of the pageant, declared "both sides must be shown or I resign."

Emily Roseblade, head of the most powerful women's organization in town, retorted icily: "Cleopatra has no place beside the good women."

If outvoted by the pageant committee, Miss Roseblade said the following notice must be inserted in the program:

"Warning to women—be careful of any inference for bad."

Russians Forced To Leave Loot On Going Home

NEW YORK —(UP)— Fifteen Russian diplomats who went on a last-minute capitalistic shopping spree sailed homeward today leaving on the pier 17 crates of U.S.-made television sets, washing machines, and refrigerators.

Stubborn AFL longshoremen refused to load the purchases when the Russians, all minor officials of the Soviet Embassy, boarded yesterday.

The Russians lugged their own suitcases aboard the America but looked back longingly at the heavy crates that were too bulky to handle.

A Russian consular official was notified of the "embargo" imposed by the longshoremen and hurried to the dock, but he failed to impress the grinning dock wallpers.

Fourth Star For Gen. Ridgway

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman today raised Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's successor in the Far East, to the rank of full General.

The President sent to the Senate, for its confirmation, the promotion which will give Ridgway a fourth star. MacArthur is a five star General of the Army.

Nobody Pesters Heroic Soldier

DWIGHT, Neb. —(UP)— Nobody pestered Ernest Kouma today.

Kouma, an army master sergeant, won the Congressional Medal of Honor for killing 250 communists, almost as many as there are residents in this settlement, his home.

But he doesn't want to talk about it. His friends are respecting his wishes.

"We're letting him get a good rest," said Jacob Hames, "when he gets back from Washington we'll have a real blow-out for him."

Kouma leaves for Washington tomorrow to receive the medal from President Truman, but he wants to go back to Korea.

"I've got a lot of friends over there," he explained.

The purpose of the meeting, Kyrer said, is to have Swarts explain the proposal for the interconnection in detail and to answer any questions about the problem which may be asked by those present at the meeting.

The executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce is slated to present the matter in detail at the regular meeting of the board of directors of the organization Monday night.

Shooting Erupts . . .

President Arias and the police army which put him in power appeared on the verge of an open break, although both factions expressed hope of averting bloodshed.

Mike Is . . .

ESA—Alan Valentine, president of the University of Rochester, ESA on Oct. 17. He quit on Jan. 19 in a dispute over when wage and price controls should start.

His successor—Eric Johnston, former movie czar—still bosses ESA. He took control on Jan. 26, seven days after Valentine left. Like Valentine he's top boss over wages and prices.

WSB—Cyrus Ching was made chairman of this wage board, to control wages. Ching, one-time business man who had been working for the government's mediation service to head WSB on Nov. 28. He got along all right until mid-February when the labor members of the board blew up over a day cision by the rest of the board to limit wage increases to no more than 10 per cent over what they were in January, 1950.

The board collapsed. But Ching didn't really quit. Ching and his 12-man board didn't really die. It just faded away.

Now the President has set up a new and larger board and named as chairman of it George W. Taylor, professor at the University of Pennsylvania. Ching is back at his old job as head of the mediation service.

OPS—Di Salle was named head of this on Nov. 30, two days after Ching was appointed to the wage board, and is still going with no signs of collapse or departure.

Right here someone may say: "But what about Charles Willson who was made head of the whole defense program? He still has his job."

True. He was appointed late in December, and shows no signs of weakening. But the agencies which preceded his were the original ones. His was created later to be boss over all of them.
