Danger Of Aggression In Iran Seen

Bradley Cites Dangers Of Soviet Move In Testifying On Trouble Spots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley said today "there is danger of the Russians moving into Iran and starting another aggression."
Bradley made the statement in reply to questions by Senator Brewster (R-Me.) at the Senate's inquiry into the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"Well, of course," Bradley replied, "the longer the problem in Korea keeps up, the less we are prepared to meet any movement anywhere else. I would prefer not to say as to Iran, because I am not sure that has too much application in our case."

"There is a danger, of course, of the Russians moving into Iran and starting another aggression. Whether or not that is any more dangerous than Yugoslavia or Indo-China or some other place, I am not prepared to say; but certainly it is a point of danger and we would like to be in a better position to meet any further aggression if it occurred."

Iran currently is potentially a trouble spot because of a dispute between the Iranian government and the British over Iran's decision to nationalize its rich oil fields. They have been under long-term lease to a British company.

Bradley was before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees for the sixth day. The two groups are making a joint inquiry into MacArthur's dismissal and the differences between the deposed Far Eastern commander and the Truman administration over Korean war policy.

At the outset, Brewster asked a series of questions about U. S. military aid to the Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa.

Bradley testified the decision to send U. S. military aid to Formosa was made last August and the first deliveries were in November.

It was not brought out whether the August decision was before or after MacArthur sent a letter that month to a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars stressing the strategic importance of Formosa to the United States.

President Truman ordered MacArthur to withdraw the letter.

And last week, the White House said Mr. Truman had considered dismissing MacArthur off and on ever since that letter.

Bradley said about $10,000,000 worth of ammunition and key equipment was furnished to the Nationalists on Formosa last November. He added that an aid program totaling over $300,000,000 has been recommended to date.

Orphan Is Given Life Sentence

RUTHERFORDTON (AP)—A 19-year-old bespectacled orphan who "never had any home life," must serve a life sentence for the murder of his orphanage-school principal.

A Rutherford county jury yesterday found Charles Hugh Justice guilty of first degree murder in the shooting of W. E. Sweet, 50, superintendent of the Alexander schools, on March 12.

After deliberating 55 minutes the jury recommended mercy and Judge Frank Armstrong passed the mandatory life imprisonment sentence.

Baker Street's Ghost

The 'lodgings' Of Sherlock Holmes Are Now Open To The Public, And Writer Recalls His Acquaintance With Arthur Conan Doyle; His Observations

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The opening of Sherlock Holmes' old lodgings in Baker street, London, to public inspection as a feature of the Festival of Britain, is an odd conception, involving as it does a personality who never existed.

Still, it's a happy idea, for to us old-timers Sherlock Holmes was as real as were the members of our own families. And to Sherlock Holmes enthusiasts of half a century ago (how time does fly) his Baker Street rooms were as familiar a rendezvous as the corner groceries in our home villages.

Shriners Select One Queen From Six

The Shriners of Pitt County last night had a hard time choosing a beauty queen from among the half-dozen Pitt girls shown above. However, they came up with a winner at their meeting at Respass-James Barbecue House and she will represent the county clubs in the statewide Shrine beauty contest. The winner was Miss Janice Roberson, shown in the center of the front row. Miss Roberson is the daughter of Mrs. Clara Roberson of Bethel and is a student at East Carolina. The others shown in the photo left to right are: seated—Miss Barbara Worthington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Worthington of Winterville; Miss Roberson; and Miss Janice Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Taylor of Stokes. Back row—Miss Lela Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Moseley of Fountain; Miss Frances Oakley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Oakley of Farmville; and Mrs. Becky Hughes, daughter of Mrs. Jake Worthington of Grifton. (Staff Photo by John Spinks, Jr.)

Local Woolen Mill Official Indicates Big Plans Ahead

President Herbert F. Adair of the Art Loom Carpet company, parent company of Greenville Mills, Inc., yesterday told a group of civic leaders and city officials of Greenville, "From the standpoint of our operations here in Greenville, this is just the beginning. We have definite plans in mind."

Adair did not elaborate on the company's plans for the future in Greenville. The top men of Art Loom Carpet company and Greenville Mills, Inc. were here yesterday for a luncheon at the Greenville Golf and Country Club to which the company officials invited the city officials, presidents of the local civic clubs of the city and other businessmen.

Company officials here for the luncheon in addition to Adair were A. S. Mitchell, chairman of the board of directors of Art Loom Carpet company, J. L. Baker, vice president in charge of production, J. C. McAvoy, vice president in charge of administration, William Bainton, company attorney and secretary, S. L. Duffett, president of Greenville Mills, Inc., Alfred Thirkildsen, manager of Greenville Mills, Inc., and Stanley Anderson who supervised the installation of the equipment for the new mill.

Duffett told the group at the luncheon, "We have located here now probably the best equipment of any woolen mill in the United States. I don't know of any mill in the world that has better equipment." The president of Greenville Mills said all the equipment installed in the plant here carries a 1950 or 1951 tag. "We expect in the near future to be operating three shifts," he added.

"Our plant is designed to make carpet yarns," Duffett explained. All of our wools are foreign wools. We have to take foreign wools because domestic wools are too fine for carpets." The yarn made in the Greenville plant will be sent to Art Loom mills elsewhere to be woven into carpets.

Pointing to the size of the Art Loom company, Duffett said the company's sales for the first quarter of 1951 reached the $6,000,000 mark, and if the business holds through the next three quarters, the company's sales will reach $24,000,000 for 1951. "This is no fly-by-night organization," he asserted.

President Adair of Art Loom was high in praise for Greenville and the cooperation the representatives of the company have received from the local citizens. "From the reports I have had, we have received the most marvelous cooperation from the people here," he stated. He added that the Art Loom board of directors have expressed a desire to visit Greenville and the company's new plant here, and said it is very probable that the directors will visit Greenville some time this fall.

At the luncheon yesterday short talks of welcome to the company officials were made by Mayor W. S. Stafford, Matt R. Long who owns the building leased by Greenville Mills, Inc., Manager W. T. Kyzer of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, W. H. Woolard, president of Guaranty Bank and Trust company, Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Greenville utilities, and H. B. Cotton, representative of the State Department of Conservation and Development, and the Rev. H. G. Haney.

Following the luncheon, the local businessmen accompanied the company officials on a tour of the plant of Greenville Mills, Inc.

Former Name Of Martinboro Is Less Confusing

Maybe if they'd kept the name Martinborough instead of changing it to Greenville, California wouldn't be claiming it is holding a man wanted for murder here.

One of the news services yesterday printed the story that the U.S. Marshal in Red Bluff, Calif., is holding James C. McLaughlin for the murder of Grady Plumley immediately set police authorities here off on a thorough search of their files to find out when the murder occurred.

But no soap. No McLaughlin listed at anytime in the past, much less with a murder indictment against him.

They surmised the city had again been mistaken for Greenville, S. C. And to add further evidence of the mistake in names, a person who is a native of that section of South Carolina, informed the Reflector today that if "you throw a stone anywhere in Greenville, S. C., you'll hit a McLaughlin."

Incidentally, I also met Sir Arthur's famous brother-in-law, the late E. W. Hornung, who wrote the stories of Raffles, the amateur cracksmen. I often have wondered whether Hornung created his Raffles, the gentleman scalliwag, as the opposite of Holmes, the terror of evil doers. However, I did not have a good opportunity to ask Hornung about this, and so don't know the answer.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle was a fire-looking man, and for years was one of the lions of London drawing rooms because of his literary fame. However, in his later years he became so wrapped up in spiritualism that he had little time for anything else, and his popularity as a drawing-room lion suffered. I heard him remark once that many old-time friends had fallen away because of his views.

Red Breakthrough Corridor Shrinks; Allied Push Opens

Tension Mounts In Iran; Pledge War To Keep Oil

Air Of Crisis Grips Tehran As Moslem Mobs Adopt Resolution Of Hate

TEHRAN (AP) — Tension mounted today in crisis-torn Tehran after some 30,000 Moslems—boasting the United States and Britain—voted yesterday as was a holy war if need be to nationalize the nation's rich oil resources.

An air of crisis gripped the Iranian capital as police and troops, on a 24-hour alert, patrolled the streets in trucks and on horseback. A dozen tanks roamed the city, ready for action.

A resolution declaring "strong hatred" of the United States and Britain was cheered wildly at yesterday's mass rally, called by Moslem religious leaders and Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's national bloc.

The cheering reached fever pitch when black-bearded Chams Ghanabadi, leader of the militant Mujaheddin Islam (Fighters for Islam), declared:

"All loyal Moslems will throw the British bandits into the Persian Gulf, if they do not leave the country."

Thousands of Moslem religious banners were waved in approval when another speaker, Parliament member Hossein Makki, declared a recent statement by the U. S. State Department was "a stab in the back of the Iranian nation."

The State Department, which has urged moderation on both sides of the dispute, has been accused by Iranians of backing the British stand against nationalization.

The rally was the latest move to step up pressure against any British resistance to government seizure of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The law nationalizing the giant firm was enacted more than three weeks ago, but the government has given no practical hint of how it intends to carry it out.

Foreign Aid Bill Slated Thursday

WASHINGTON (UP) — The White House said today President Truman will send to Congress tomorrow a request for money to bolster the military forces and economies of the nation's foreign friends.

Mr. Truman is expected to ask for about $9,000,000,000 for foreign aid.

Democratic leaders who received a preview of the "single package" global foreign aid program declined to reveal the total, but said the request would include "slightly over" $2,000,000,000 for the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Unofficial estimates put the military aid at about $7,000,000,000 to beef up the military forces of American Allies or friendly nations.

War Criminals Waiting Out Last Hours Of Life

LANDSBERG, Germany (AP)—Seven red-jacketed German war criminals waited out their last hours in death row today as final appeals for clemency failed.

Earlier their wives were advised the men would hang and that Thursday will be their last chance to see their husbands.

The U. S. State Department announced it had turned down last appeals, and U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy told a news conference yesterday that as far as he is concerned the cases are closed.

This is the second time preparations have been made to hang the seven. Last February their wives were notified of "final visit day," but subsequent appeals resulted in stays of execution.

Georg Schallermaier, convicted of having personally beaten to death inmates of the Nazi concentration camp at Mauthausen, fainted when told his last appeal had been refused.

The men, convicted of atrocities and the slaughter of thousands of civilians, were convicted in 1946 and 1947 and since then have been fighting for reduction of sentences.

In addition to Schallermaier, those scheduled to hang are SS General Oswald Pohl, convicted of the destruction of the Warsaw ghetto and of being in charge of Nazi concentration camps; Paul Blobel, convicted of ordering the killing of 60,000 persons in a two-day massacre at Kiev; Werner Braune, convicted of directing a mass massacre of Jews and gypsies; Eric Naumann, commander of a unit which killed 3,539 people in three weeks; Otto Ohendorf, chief of an extermination team charged with killing 90,000 Russians; Hans Schmidt, adjutant of the notorious Buchenwald concentration camp.

First Transplanting Of Kidney Found A Failure

CHICAGO (UP)—The first attempt in medical history to transplant a kidney from one person to another has failed, Dr. Patrick McNulty said today.

But he said the patient with the transplanted kidney, a 53-year-old housewife, probably will have a normal life span.

The operation was performed almost a year ago when doctors took a kidney from the body of a man who had just died and substituted it for the useless one in Mrs. Ruth Tucker's body.

Mrs. Tucker's other kidney was diseased, but functioning. After the transplant she made a normal recovery and was soon back home.

But, McNulty told a committee of the American Urological Association yesterday, the new kidney probably had nothing to do with it.

An exploratory operation a few weeks ago showed that the transplanted kidney apparently had never functioned. It had shriveled up and separated from a duct connecting with the bladder.

McNulty attributed the failure to the "incompatibility" of one person's tissue with another's.

Disalle Fights Further Increase In Meat Prices

Doubts Packinghouse Wage Hike Should Involve Price Rise; Complains Cattle-men Are Getting Off Easy

WASHINGTON (UP)—Price Stabilizer Michael V. Disalle said today he does not know whether the new wage boost granted packinghouse workers will force an increase in retail meat prices.

But a price rise would "not necessarily" follow, he said. Meat packers might increase their operating efficiency.

Disalle made the statement before the House Agriculture Committee investigating cattlemen's protests against the beef price rollback orders aimed at cutting retail prices 8 to 10 cents a pound by Oct. 1.

Disalle said he doubted the truth of reports received by congressmen that many retailers have had their best supplies cut off, saying he had received no such complaints. But he promised to order a nationwide survey later today to determine whether any retailers are having trouble getting beef.

Disalle complained that if the cattlemen had to face "the same degree of cross examination used on government people... by some members of the committee" the true story of the rollback would come out much sooner.

Rep. W. R. Poage (D-Tex) who had been asking barbed questions at the time, asked Disalle if he thought "we are persecuting you."

Disalle replied that a majority of the committee had been "very fair" and "as far as persecution is concerned, it is an occupational hazard of the job."

Fulbright Works To Retain RFC

Political Policy Critic Schedules Hearing Wind-Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) who has accused White House aides of playing politics with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) called today for a hearing to save RFC from destruction.

Fulbright scheduled windup hearings before the Senate Banking Committee on a bill to put the big government lending agency out of business.

The Arkansas senator contends the RFC needs reform but that small business can not spare its loan facilities. He predicted victory yesterday in his efforts to get Congress to compromise on a bill to require reforms he has proposed in RFC operations, and possibly to place a "ceiling" on amounts it could lend to any single borrower.

Fulbright called on bankers to tell what they think of RFC's role in the nation's economy—whether it is unfair government competition with private lending agencies and whether it is true, as some witnesses have argued, that private banks no longer can provide all the credit needed to keep the economy healthy.

Wendell Berge, former head of the Department of Justice Antitrust Division, went farther in testimony before the committee yesterday. He declared that big lenders are involved in a "web of industrial and financial power" which blocks small business from credit.

Two Apply For Job As Solicitor Of County Court

Two applications for the job of solicitor of county court have been filed with the Register of Deeds, clerk to the Board of County Commissioners.

The applications are from John R. Barker, Greenville attorney, and Horton Rountree, attorney from Farmville. The job will be vacant July 1 when solicitor Charles Whedbee is sworn in as judge of Greenville Recorder's court.

The applications will be acted upon at a later meeting of the commissioners.

Barker has been a practicing attorney here since 1925. He has never held the prosecutor's job although he has assisted as prosecutor in county and city court. Rountree is a recent graduate of the University of North Carolina law school and has established a practice in Farmville in the past several months.

Government Acts To Curb Wool Speculators

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government has acted to curb wool speculation in a drive to hold down clothing cost increases as much as possible.

The Office of Price Stabilization yesterday ordered a nine per cent rollback effective Monday in prices for wool futures trading on the New York Cotton Exchange.

The current ceiling prices for futures trading are above, and therefore more inviting than, ceiling prices for commercial sales of wool now ready for delivery.

With this kind of price relationship, OPS said, "significant" amounts of wool in a shortage period might get tied up in the speculative market instead of going to the mills.

Fighting Second Division Paces General Counter-Attack

Which Gains Ground; Communist Gains Being Wiped Out; Entire Tenth Corps Active

TOKYO, Thursday (UP)—The fighting U. S. 2nd Division, pacing a general Allied counter-attack, gained four to six miles in central Korea Wednesday. It started sealing off the Red breakthrough on the eastern front.

The 2nd Division's troops made their four-mile gain in the first 12 hours of their attack and captured Hangye, 15 miles east of Chunchon. Others crossed the Naechon River and gained six miles. From there the American, Dutch and French infantrymen wheeled east into the flank of the shrinking Red breakthrough corridor around Soka and cut the Communists' main supply route in the jagged eastern mountains.

Swift Allied advances wiped out all gains scored by the communists in the second round of their spring offensive along a 70-mile front from Hangye west to the Seoul area.

To the left of the 2nd Division, the U. S. 1st Marine Division advanced two miles against light enemy resistance and reported the Reds still were fleeing north across the Soyang River.

The marines were one of five American divisions disclosed by the U. S. 8th Army to be engaged in the current drive. The others are the 1st Cavalry and the 34th and 25th Infantry. Their precise fronts were not revealed.

Also in action are the 1st South Korean Division, Siamese troops, British Commonwealth forces and the Turkish Brigade.

Lt. Gen. Edward M. Almond, commander of the U. S. 10th Corps, said his entire corps was on the offensive and making excellent progress.

"The enemy has taken such a beating on our front that he was unable longer to sustain his offensive and is being forced to withdraw," Almond said.

"When that became apparent yesterday I immediately ordered a counter-attack, which has made excellent progress today. The entire 10th Corps, in conjunction with other 8th Army units, is taking the offensive."

The enemy withdrawal was general all along the front. Chinese communists left only small delaying forces to slow the Allied advance. These engaged in scattered fights with advancing U. N. troops but were pushed back.

The powerful assault put the 8th Army on the march north almost all the way across Korea. Tank-infantry task forces in the west drove within five miles of the 38th parallel above Seoul.

Red armies, weakened by the loss of up to 80,000 men in the abortive second round of their spring offensive, reeled back in retreat.

Only in the eastern mountains were the communists still attacking. They poured through a gaping hole in the Allied line to the Soka area, 25 miles south of the parallel, but late reports indicated even that drive was faltering.

Allied troops cut the break through forces' main supply route with the capture of a highly strategic pass north of Soka on the Soka-Changchon highway.

The pass, winding through the 5,000-foot Kyebong ridge, was taken against light opposition. It controls the most important north-south route through the almost trackless rugged mountains.

Weather beyond the pass was believed to leave the enemy little choice but to attempt to flitter back north. Allied fighter planes killed 300 out of 700 Reds spotted just north of the pass.

Stays Contempt Case Findings

Sawyer And Other Officials Given Time To File Appeals

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government was assured today of keeping the American President Lines at least until next October without any of its high officials going to jail.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson yesterday stayed contempt findings against Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer and eight other officials until the Supreme Court can consider their appeals.

The Justice Department has 90 days in which to file the appeals and by that time the court will be in its summer recess. It re-convenes in early October.

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals had ordered Sawyer and the others taken into custody if they had not relinquished control of the property by 3 p. m. tomorrow.

The lower court found R. Stanley Dollar the rightful owner of the steamship line after adjudicating a dispute over a 1938 stock deal between him and the old Maritime Commission, now abolished. The American Line was once the Dollar Line.

Mercury In 90s

The mercury in the local U. S. Weather Bureau's thermometers soared to 90 degrees yesterday. Lowest last night, 65, and at 8 a. m. today it was 76. It was cloudy during the forenoon, with prospect of rain.

New Military Justice

Revised System Of Justice For Members Of Armed Forces Goes Into Effect On The Last Of This Month; Its Purpose And An Illustration Of How It Works

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The four branches of the armed forces Coast Guard will get a new system of military justice, starting May 31.

Its purpose: to give servicemen, accused of punishable offenses, fairer treatment and more of the kind of legal protection they would have received in civilian life.

The system, which will work the same in all four branches, is the latest step in the unification of the armed forces, approved by Congress in 1948.

A group of prominent civilian lawyers was appointed that year to work out this new and uniform system of justice for servicemen. The result of their work goes into effect next Thursday.

From now on a serviceman, accused guilty of a serious offense, can appeal his case to a super court which never existed before—called the Court of Military Appeals—where the judges will be civilians, not military men.

It will be the final court of appeals for all four services except where the death penalty is involved. The President has been,

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
May 23, 1911

In times like school commencement Greenville's lack of hotel accommodations is sorely felt.

Miss Clara Poole, of Norfolk, who has been visiting Miss Frances Bagwell, returned home this morning.

Mr. J. Y. Joyner, of Raleigh, came in yesterday morning to attend the commencement at E. C. T. S.

The recital of Misses Carrie Bowen and Agnes Spain at the college last evening delighted the large audience present. Miss Bowen who has a splendid voice, received several encores and was heartily applauded.

Miss Spain, though a junior music pupil, is a talented young lady and her numbers were also well rendered and heartily applauded. A social period followed much to the gratification of the young men of the city.—Wilson Times.

Wildlife Meeting New Bern June 7

J. O. Teel, of Greenville, district game and fish protector, today again reminded hunters and sportsmen and interested farmers about the North Carolina Wildlife Commission's meeting for District 2, in New Bern, at the Craven county courthouse, Saturday, June 7, at 10 a. m.

Teel quoted Clyde P. Patton of Raleigh, executive director of the Wildlife Resources Commission, as saying this is one of a series of statewide meetings, open to the public, to be held in various parts of the state. Teel said tentative regulations for hunting laws will be presented for consideration, and amending and adoption by the commission.

The proposed hunting regulations will be submitted for consideration. The recommendations for the proposed regulations are based on reports and records and opinions of the commission's field personnel, and on what is believed to be the general opinion of many sportsmen throughout the state. Due regard was given to the differences in distribution, abundance, economic value and breeding habits of game species throughout the three physiographic regions of the state—Coastal Plain, Piedmont, and Mountain.

Meetings will be held in the nine commission districts. The first meeting will be held at Sylva May 29. The last meeting will be held at Edenton, in the first district, on June 8, Teel said.

Women In The Church

Forty young women have been recruited to serve as missionaries in the United States for two years under the Board of Missions and Church Extension, Methodist Church. They will train at Scarritt College, Nashville, Tenn., from June 11 to July 15. In the group are twins who are members of the Episcopal Church. Although recruits are primarily Methodist, there are also Congregationalists and Presbyterians. Under the new program sponsored by the Department of Work in Home Fields of the Women's Division of Christian Service, these young women are assigned to mission posts within the states and in outpost territories, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Hawaii. At the end of two years they may become lifetime missionaries.

A message to church women, urging them to write their congressmen opposing legislation that would permit children under 16 to work on commercial farms, has been broadcast by the Christian Social Relations Committee, United Church Women. Mrs. Howard G. Cowlter is committee chairman, and Miss Miriam L. Evans is secretary. They say: "The employment of children is one of the major concerns of women who see the interrelation of everything that is hostile to the life of the family and development of young people in their growing years. Over 50 years of effort have gradually curbed the worst abuses. Today Federal regulation bars children under 16 years in manufacturing industries, and sets an 18-year minimum age for mining and other hazardous work. Just a year ago a Federal law went into effect, setting a 16-year minimum age for work on commercial farms during school hours (not on home farms). A bill to nullify this provision is before Congress. It would permit county school superintendents to exempt children and would even permit school officials from their place of residence to exempt migrant children. It is not difficult to foresee the great pressure that would be put upon local school officials to exempt children in crop-growing areas. The efforts of states which are trying to get migrant children out of the fields and into school would be circumvented because a child could bring permission to work from his home state."

Tar Heel Soldier Tackles Chinese

WITH 1ST CAVALRY, Korea—UP—MM-Sgt. Frederick Glaesner always gets his man—even if he has to use his bare hands.

During a recent battle with 100 Chinese communists on the western front, the 19-year-old platoon leader from High Point, N. C., became disgusted when he saw one of the red soldiers escaping.

"Everyone was shooting at him, but no one was bringing him down," the sergeant said. "I bit my lip and my rifle shooting at him and that made me mad."

"I chucked my equipment and took off across the ridge line after the guy. He sure was surprised when I brought him down with a flying tackle and dragged him back to our lines by the scruff of the neck."

Glaesner joined the division eight months ago as a recruit.

Packed Lunches For 27 Years

Carbondale, Ill.—(AP) Mrs. Ed Holgrave, home up the dinner pail she has packed during the last 27 years—her nine children have been attending Land Hill country grammar school.

Her youngest, graduated this spring. She estimates she has put up more than 11,000 lunches.

Twenty-nine seniors were presented diplomas Monday night by W. R. Tyson at the graduation exercises at the Falkland-Belvoir High School.

Following the processional, Mildred Sutton, class Salutatorian, made a few remarks and the Glee Club sang "Follow The Gleam" after which O. H. Forrest, principal, introduced the speaker, E. C. Hollar, social studies professor of East Carolina college, gave the commencement address and was followed by Lucille B. Harrell, valedictorian.

Principal Forrest presented awards to the following: Melvin Clark, Charlie Spain, Charles Hagan, Ralph Tyson, Russell Gurganus, Elmer Clark, and James Brown received "Meritorious Award Certificates" for driving buses; Dennis Manning received a medal of award for his service as president of the student body; Nadine Morris and Howard Bullock received awards for athletics; and Purnell Tripp and LeRoy Morris were the receivers of the Babe Ruth Foundation Awards.

The Valedictory medal was given to Lucille Harrell and Salutatorian medal was given to Mildred Sutton; Claudia Pollard received the medal for being the most outstanding basketball player; and Cornelia Randolph received the cup for 12 years perfect attendance.

The graduates left the auditorium to the Recessional. Marshalls were Mary Lou Vainwright, Chief, Robert Bright, Jean Jones, Nadine Norris, Frank Garris, Jean Tyson, and Margie Pollard. Class mascots were Sandra Forbes and Gregg Hardy.

WASHINGTON —(AP) Pheasants raised on the 40-acre farm of a Texas congressional secretary and her lawyer husband are served regularly in foreign embassies here.

The dual role of farm wife and Capitol Hill aide is played by Mrs. Elizabeth Reeves Meyers, wife of R. Baldwin Meyers, Justice Dept. attorney who hails from Fort Worth, Tex. She came to Washington in 1941 to work for former Texas Congressman Fritz G. Lanham. In that job she succeeded her present boss, Rep. Wingate Lucas of Grapevine, Tex., who was a congressional secretary for several years.

CHICAGO —(AP) L. L. Hughes, of Oklahoma City, arrived here recently in his own plane on $400 worth of gas.

He flew the country's only propane-powered airplane to attend the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Association's convention. He said he paid about eight cents a gallon for propane; a gallon of aviation gasoline costs him 31 cents.

Miss Dorothy Glenn Sugg left Tuesday for Burgaw for a short stay. From there she will go to Pinehurst to a bankers convention which will convene there the last of the week.

Mrs. W. I. Bissette left at the weekend for New York City for a stay of several days. She accompanied Mrs. Myrtle Bissette of High Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Powell and sons of Wilson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Cox during the weekend. They have as their guest now Mr. V. Hall of Cincinnati.

'Round Two' In Korean War Fit Our Pattern

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Foreign News Editor

Round No. 2 of the communist spring offensive in Korea went according to plan, as the soldiers say. But it was our plan, not the enemy's.

The fighting in Korea has fallen into a pattern that runs like this: The Communists spend anywhere from three weeks to two months building up troops and supplies for an attack.

They choose what they consider to be the weakest link in the United Nations' line and throw a punch there, usually a night attack. Most of those attacks have been made against South Korean troops.

The reds score an initial breakthrough by sheer weight of numbers, but they are unable to exploit it because the U.N. commanders concentrate artillery fire and air power to seal off the gap.

At the end of about five days the offensive has lost its momentum and the U.N. army restores its lines and begins throwing out strong patrols that in some cases amount to small-scale counter offensive.

The enemy begins retreating with a casualty list that most armies would consider crippling.

For instance, the best estimates are that the communists had somewhere between 50,000 and 60,000 casualties in Round 2 of the spring offensive. That includes killed, wounded and captured, and if the U.N. army ever suffered losses like that it would be out of business in a week.

In contrast, it was announced officially yesterday that the U.N. forces lost a total of 1,618 killed or wounded in the five-day battle. The number of prisoners captured by the enemy and the number of men listed as missing in action was not given. But even if those figures were added it still would shape up as one of the most one-sided battles in history.

Unless Russia comes to the aid of the Chinese with the things they need worst—airplanes and artillery—the red commanders have little chance to break out of the bloody pattern. They have no choice but to keep throwing punches, much in the fashion of a boxer who is losing and decides to violate all the rules by taking wild, right-hand swings at his opponent. Their hope is that some day a wild swing will land on a vital spot and they are willing to take punishment in the hope of bringing off the gamble.

There probably will be further communist attacks in Korea. The time may come when the red troops will desert in sizeable numbers rather than face the Allied firepower or their might even be futile. But there is no indication that such a time has come yet and the probability is that the red commanders even now are looking around for more cannon fodder for the next attack.

Sample its Fireball Engine!

Here's something Special in Spaciousness

A LOT of folks like the two-door idea, because they feel that tiny tots are safer in the back seat.

But that's no reason why back-seat headroom should be dimensioned for mid-gets only.

So Buick engineers have done something about it, in the Buick SPECIAL 2-door Sedan pictured here.

They've kept the compactness of overall length that's important in modern garages.

But they've arched that sturdy steel top to give you he-man headroom — headroom in back as well as headroom in front — that makes a six-footer feel at home.

And they've designed a trunk that has "room for tourists."

Don't ask us how they did it. Come see for yourself.

Slip into those spacious seats—and while you're there, find out why this compact honey is one of the hottest numbers we've seen in years.

Find out how that F-263 valve-in-head Fireball Engine pours out the power and stretches the miles per gallon.

Find out how Buick's exclusive combination of torque-tube drive and coil springs on all four wheels puts big-car steadiness and stability into this nimble performer.

Find out how Dynaflo Drive* takes the strain out of traffic driving—and brings you relaxed to the end of a long day's cross-country driving.

And above all find out how much comfort and luxury and convenience you get for the prices you see featured here. The sooner you see your Buick dealer—the better off you'll be.

Strength for the Day

By KARL L. DOUGLAS
THE IMMENSURABLE PEACE
My friend Albert Ludlow Kramer was a millionaire, but with all his wealth he was an unhappy, frustrated, unfulfilled man.
Then something happened to him which I have never known to happen to anyone else. By an assiduous reading of books and a faithful study of the Bible, and this almost entirely apart from the aid of others, Albert Kramer became a very great Christian disciple.
Later he lost most of his money, but he wrote a book entitled "From Millions to Happiness." It is a very marvelous book. Years ago I read it, and its ideas are still indelibly impressed upon my mind.
This remarkable man found that when he had Jesus Christ in his heart, he had inner peace, and when he had inner peace, he had something which millions of dollars could not buy. He knew the joy of making a great fortune, of being an outstanding businessman, and yet with all this he had heart hunger.
Our beloved nation is suffering from spiritual malnutrition. We are probably closer to soul starvation than we realize. We think that what we want is a higher standard of living; what we really want is the peace that passeth all understanding.
All earthly joys are definitely limited in scope, only spiritual peace and concord surpass our understanding.

Watch The New Squeeze Play
The American housewife who tries to keep meat on her family's dinner table is about to be caught in one of the tightest squeezes she's experienced in a long time.
On one hand there are the cattlemen who are threatening to send their stock to the black market operators if the administration sticks by its program of meat price controls. On the other side of the squeeze play are the racketeers who are furnishing horse meat and having it marked "hamburger" at price the consumers can pay and are willing to pay.
The joint efforts to prevent "horse meat hamburger" from being sold over the open market counters at reasonable prices, and real beef from being sold under the black market counters at exorbitant prices has state and federal officials and housewives alike pulling their hair.

In North Carolina the SBI is cracking down on a horse meat concern which has been operating for months. The unscrupulous individuals who are participating in the racket should be brought into the courts and prosecuted to the fullest extent. There is little question that the much sought consumer items now on the market will become harder to get as the nation's defense effort moves into higher gear. The field will become more lucrative and more attractive to the racketeers and profiteers as time goes on.

If they are not stopped at the outset of their operations, they will be difficult to stop in later months.

The cattlemen have declared that lowering meat prices 10 cents a pound between now and October as the administration proposes would ruin the cattle business. The administration officials insist the prices can be lowered without seriously affecting the business. Somewhere between the two stands there must be a workable solution.

One thing is sure; the nation can not stand the constantly increasing prices which it has experienced during the past nine months. Workable price controls must be effected at every level if the inflation trend is to be curbed. Controls can not be invoked in other phases of the economy and the cattlemen be left free to gallop through the markets with whatever prices they desire.

The Old Record Is Wearing Thin
The administration proponents testifying before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees have repeated time and time again that the object of the struggle in Korea has boiled down to the strategy of killing as many Chinese as possible, and then suing for a negotiated peace.
If the desired results develop after the current spring offensive by the Chinese Reds, where will the United Nations stand with its original purpose of freeing Korea from communist aggressors?
Does the strategy of killing off large numbers of Chinese communists and suing for peace constitute an end in itself, or is it a means to an end?

Those testifying have repeated the "killer" factor time and time again. The record is beginning to wear thin. It would be desirable to have a fuller explanation of what lies ahead if the strategy is carried out; and the reasons behind the strategy in the first place.

A Healthy Economic Trend For Pitt

New jobs are being afforded for the people of Pitt county, and the additional source of income is being reflected in the economic status of the county at this particular season of the year.

From an employment standpoint, the county has 250 less people unemployed today than it did a year ago; and the demand for labor is increasing almost daily as it does every spring, summer and fall in this agricultural section.

But in addition to the seasonal upswing of agricultural employment, the county is beginning to feel the shot in the arm it is getting from the increase in local construction projects, the construction of the new Dacron plant near Grifton, and the increased operations of the Greenville Mills, Inc.

The basis for the better economic conditions in the county this spring boils down to the fact that the county's economy is obtaining a broader footing with more weekly pay envelopes from a variety of sources. It is a healthy trend which we hope will continue.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — While Democratic National Chairman Boyle's survey of party workers' sentiment shows an almost unanimous demand for Harry S. Truman's renomination next year, the Republicans' presidential picture is so confused that it is not very satisfactory to devotees of political art in G.O.P. circles.

The Republican prospects of a 1952 triumph look bright now. But their smartest strategists admit that they can throw their chances away between now and November of next year, unless they are extremely lucky and cautious.

The party is so torn by personal rivalries and disputes over foreign policy that it will require almost a miracle for them to select a candidate who, besides uniting the several factions, will win the confidence of the voters.

As of today, however, it is generally believed that the nominee will be one of these four men—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, General Dwight D. Eisenhower of Kansas, Governor Earl Warren of California or Senator James H. Duff of Pennsylvania.

An outsider of the Willie type, who has many non-political rotters but almost no intra-party support, is Paul Hoffman of Indiana, former head of ECA and now managing the Ford Foundation.

SYMBOL—If the convention were to be held tomorrow instead of on July 7 at Chicago, it is probable that Senator Taft could win the nomination. He is the admitted policy maker for the opposition on Capitol Hill. The MacArthur outer, together with a growing bitterness toward Britain's cantankerous attitude on world questions, might stampede the delegates to him.

But almost every influential Republican figure, including several rivals for the nomination, will oppose him for personal reasons and for his general "isolationist" position.

Although Mr. Taft is not so callous or indifferent to international problems as his enemies make out, he has become the symbol of opposition to the Truman-Eisenhower program of all-out military aid to the anti-Communist world.

He has allowed himself to be labeled as a "MacArthur man." On domestic questions, he is far more conservative than most of his opponents within the party.

CONTROL—Ranged against Senator Taft on foreign policy issues, according to present-day estimates, would be the Lodge-Saltonstall forces of Massachusetts, Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Senator Duff of Pennsylvania, Governor Alfred E. Dennis of New Jersey, the Stassenites of Minnesota, Governor Warren of California and the pro-Eisenhower faction from Kansas and scattered states.

With their unknown allies, these leaders should control enough convention votes to block the Ohioan's nomination. In fact, if they can agree on one man, the total number of delegates under their command would be sufficient to give that man such support in the early balloting that it would be difficult to deny him the nomination.

DOUBTFUL—It would be hazardous to discount General Eisenhower, but he has many obstacles in his path.

He must find a way to announce definitely that he is and has always been a Republican, and he cannot wait until convention time to unveil his party colors. He must also take issue with the Roosevelt-Truman philosophy of government in a daring way.

It is extremely doubtful that the G.O.P. will nominate him if he remains unseen and unheard. But it is difficult to see how he can fulfill these basic qualifications, in view of his present assignment under Truman designation.

POPULAR—Governor Warren figures in all calculations because of his 1950 reelection with such a tremendous majority over "Jimmie" Roosevelt. Although he has kept out of the foreign affairs controversy, he held a special press conference to announce his belief in the wisdom of aiding and arming our overseas allies.

He is an extremely popular figure. But he faces strong opposition within the party. The Wherry-Brown-Halleck faction, for instance, regard him as "too liberal." Many strategists wonder how a Californian would appeal to the East and the Middle West. They also recall that he was an acquiescent partner in Mr. Dewey's disastrous "me too" campaign of 1948.

COMPROMISE—A possible compromise frequently mentioned in these discussions of convention strife and difficulties is Senator Duff of Pennsylvania. He was an excellent Governor, and he has made many friends on Capitol Hill. He helped to win the Keynote State back to Republicanism after the Guffey-Earle years. He will not be a front-runner on early ballots, but he will have enough backing to keep him in the picture.

His age is frequently argued against him, for he will be 69 next January. But Mr. Truman will be 68 next May, and Vice President Barkley will be 75 in November of 1952. Neither thinks themselves too old to run again. And, as a matter of fact, in looks and actions Senator Duff could pass for 60. He is far more spry than Messrs. Truman and Barkley.

Those, then, are the two party pictures as the leaders here see them today. Barring a hot war, which might mean the pitting of two military men against each other, although it conceivably might operate the other way, it seems to be a faithful and accurate recording of Democratic and Republican sentiment.

Wonderful Wizards Of Washington

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JP

From Pageant Magazine:
"I am twenty-five cents.
I am not on speaking terms with the butcher."

I am too small to buy a quart of ice cream.
I am not large enough to purchase a box of candy.

I am too small to buy a ticket to a movie.

I am hardly fit for a tip, but believe me, when I go to church on Sunday I am considered some money!"

To agree with Pageant, I would say that a dollar has the highest value in the opinion of the giver when it's in the church collection plate. In 1939 a dollar was worth a dollar. Now they say it's worth 44 cents, and everybody's complaining about inflation, including me.

The other day I was in the grocery store and edged up to the meat counter. It was one of those rare occasions when Wife Rachel and I had decided to go overboard on a T-bone steak. That day the steak was $1.09 a pound.

The butcher reeled off a big piece of paper to put under the steak for weighing. It's a bad enough to have to pay $1.09 a pound for meat, but when you have to pay that much for paper, that's even worse.

So I asked the butcher, "How about selling you some paper? I've got some for 80 cents a pound. You're selling it for $1.09 so your margin of profit will be good." The butcher explained that the agency that checks butcher shops allows the use of a certain type of paper under the meat. He wouldn't admit that there's more profit in the paper than in the meat.

The other day I was discussing this broad subject of finances with one of the Reflector carrier boys, who doesn't appear to be the least bit bothered by inflation.

As I remember the conversation, he has over 150 customers, which net him something over $9.00 a week. He buys clothes with part of the money, and banks the rest. His bank balance now reads $72, and in the near future he's going to wipe that balance out with the purchase of a bicycle.

Yep, everybody I've talked to about money matters is complaining about inflation except that carrier boy. He's enjoying the prosperity. Even if a dollar is worth only 44 cents, it takes only half the effort to get one that it did back in 1939, so what's the difference? The carrier boy is much better off than he would have been in 1939 because so many more people can afford to subscribe to the Reflector.

They say money is the root of all evil. But the carrier boy and I agreed that we would like to have as much as possible without bringing about the evil. And I thank you.

AUTOMOBILES—Rising prices of automobiles occasion worry for state department heads beyond the big item of finding money to pay for them out of their budgets. For several years there has been fixed policy that automobiles supplied by the state for use of employees, with very few exceptions such as the governor and chairman of the highway commission, should not exceed $1500 in cost in cost. Under that regulation it was possible to get brisk competitive bidding among manufacturers of Buicks, Chevrolets, Plymouths, Fords, Dodges and several others. On one major purchase Buick for some reason overbid Chevrolet, and a good many Buicks were bought for the highway patrol. During recent months price rises have taken some manufacturers out of the range of state contracts.

DISCRIMINATION — Then there were some officials who wanted heavier care than the run-of-payroll state workers were furnished. Several arguments were advanced in support of upping the price limit in order to provide better care for higher bracket state workers. About a month ago the council of state adopted a formal resolution permitting purchase of cars at more than the prevailing price limit for commissioned officers of the highway patrol, although no change was made in the range for the patrolmen. Almost immediately requests began coming in from other department and division heads who claimed equal dignity and prestige with commissioned officers in the patrol. Meantime, still more manufacturers were taking their cars out of the previous price range.

That tended for state business, naturally resulting in less attractive bids on the lower priced cars. Not only were department heads charging discrimination, but some automobile dealers were complaining that an unreasonable restriction was forcing them unwillingly to retire from competition for state business.

INVESTIGATION—The council of state at a meeting Monday took cognizance of these developments. The April action authorizing higher prices for a few cars was rescinded, and a committee was named to go fully into the whole matter and recommend a reasonable and fair policy with respect to purchase of automobiles by the state. That committee is composed of Thad Eure, secretary of state; Brandon Hodges, state treasurer, and Waldo Cech, commissioner of insurance, as members of the council of state; and as consultant, Col. L. C. Rosser, commissioner of motor vehicles, whose department includes the highway patrol and is the biggest user of state-owned automobiles coming within purview of ordinary passenger cars. Counting trucks and buses, the highway commission and the board of education operate more motorized equipment than all other state departments, agencies and institutions combined.

INTER-RELATED — Three recent news items, emanating from widely different sources entirely independent of each other, seem to have some relationship to a general and common problem. There was the Sunday feature story about expansion and the fine job being done by the school of education in the University at Chapel Hill in Training public school teachers. Another story told about pending purchase of some 80 acres of land to be added to the campus of East Carolina College at Greenville, which recently changed its official designation from East Carolina Teachers College. The third story dated at Raleigh was about State College plans to drop a dozen or more faculty members below the grade of professor at the end of the current term. All three of these stories deal with state institutions of higher education; and they have a common denominator in the fact that all the institutions are supported by the same taxpayers. It is possible there are other common factors.

ANSWERS—The question is easy to ask, almost impossible to answer. The State of North Carolina operates educational institutions at university level—three white, two Negro and one Indian; it operates six teacher training colleges, three white and three colored, and it operates thousands of public schools in 172 administrative units. Anything that affects one of these levels inevitably affects them all in some way.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

TAKING THE PUNISHMENT
How the tobacco industry has stood up under the punishment it has taken through the years and made the progress achieved has always been something of a marvel to us. No other commodity of such general use as the golden leaf could have done it.

All the most amazing thing of all is that tax hunters refuse to let it alone. They're unwilling to accept the hundreds of millions of revenue it is already producing for government at all levels, but want more and always more. When there is talk of additional government financing, one of the first sources thought of for new taxes is almost always tobacco. How much more that commodity will stand before the straw is laid on that breaks the camel's back only the future can answer. The House Ways and Means Committee went one-bird the way the administration requested in taxing cigarettes. The Federal government now gets seven cents per pack, and the committee has decided to add another penny. Mr. Truman wanted ten cents. Already Uncle Sam's take is more than twice as much as the grower receives, and whenever excises are imposed to that extent something is radically wrong somewhere along the line.

Growers and the industry generally can thank Chairman Doughton and a few others for the stand they made against the increase. But they were simply outvoted. There is a chance, but only an outside one, that the House will strike out that extra penny.

Long odds are against such action. And little may be expected in the Senate. The committee has written in the increase and it will likely stick all the way through until the President signs the revenue measure into law.

Tobacco people have vigorously protested, but their resistance is looked upon in the same light as objections from other industries. Nobody wants to pay more taxes. And for that matter no one is imposed upon in this manner, except liquor. If the process continues unabated, somewhere along the line there will be a reaction, both in smoking habits and in government revenue. Tax hunters and tax eaters will do well to learn their lesson as to tobacco before it is too late.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Three months ago the resort and travel industry would have predicted the booming year ever in vacation business. Right now it's not so certain. Reservations appear to be at an all-time high. So far there have been relatively few cancellations. But many in the industry are keeping their fingers crossed.

Business looked good earlier this year because of the high rate of personal income and a revival of desire to "have a vacation while we can" which increased travel so much last year. But since then there have been setbacks in many lines of business, layoffs and the threats of more. Some travel men see a tip-off in attendance at the British Industries Fair. It's good, but so far much below anticipations.

American Express reports a great increase in bookings for packaged tours. Thousands more than last year are being organized, the company reports. The fact that packaged tours are cheaper than individual tours may be significant.

The agency also says that Canadian tours are more popular than ever before and thinks the lower food prices in Canada are a cause. One tourist recently back from Quebec complained, "I was paying $1.25 for seven-course dinners at the Chateau Frontenac while other tourists were paying only 55 cents for meals in the French quarter."

Pan-American, TWA and the other international airlines report heavy summer bookings, as do the domestic lines. Here again there is a tendency to choose the least expensive accommodations. National Airlines has arranged a vacation credit plan with a New York bank whereby travelers can borrow for vacation and repay on an instalment plan. It is being advertised with the slogan, "Fun Now—Pay Later."

Whatever else happens, tourist courts and motels expect the biggest year in history. There are more autos on the road than ever before and, since auto travel costs can be trimmed to fit budgets, it would take a serious depression to cut deeply into auto travel.

If you are touring by car this summer, better plan to stop earlier, in the afternoon than ever before.

MASS MERCHANDISING FOR COSMETICS URGED
The cosmetics industry got scoldings at two recent trade meetings in New York.

Several speakers said the industry, while operating on a mass production basis, was not engaged in mass merchandising. Two many companies use limited distribution, employ demonstrators and concentrate on prestige outlets instead of getting down and slugging it out with soap and breakfast food manufacturers for the great mass market, several speakers said.

16 EQUAL DOLLARS NOW
EQUAL ONE 1914 DOLLAR

Here's a scurry bit of economic arithmetic. Critics of the excess profits tax say it results in 20-cent dollars, since the tax takes away 77 cents of every buck in the excess profits bracket; The government's consumer price index shows the dollar is worth only 42 cents in terms of 1914 purchasing power.

So an excess profits dollar is worth only 9.06 cents in 1914 buying power.

HERE'S WHY SULPHUR HAS BECOME SCARCE

Just why there is a shortage of sulphur when it has been abundant for generations has puzzled many people. Here is an explanation:

At one time, nearly all sulphur came from sulphur-bearing ores called pyrites, which abound in many parts of the world. Then the bromine deposits, almost pure sulphur, were developed along the Gulf coast. Foreign countries found that importing brimstone sulphur from the United States was cheaper than processing their own pyrites and neglected their own workings. Now that defense has increased the demand for sulphur, the government has been forced to allocate exports. Four-fifths of the American sulphur is converted into sulphuric acid which is a basic chemical in the manufacture of fertilizer, new-print, petroleum, steel, rubber, food preservatives, textiles and military material.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK —(AP)— When a man is first married, he comes home from his day's work and says:

"Well, honey, what did you have for lunch?"

"Oh, just a smidgeon of tuna fish on a lettuce leaf," replies the little lady.

"That all?" says the husband, feeling guilty because he himself had pig knuckles, sauerkraut, potatoes, bread and butter, apple and beer. "Now, honey, you just got to eat more or you'll fade away like an old soldier. I'm worried about you."

At this handsomely solicited little lady gives a fluttery imitation of a dying swan, and answers:

"Oh, don't you worry your head about me while you're at the office. I eat enough. But it's no fun cooking for one, and I'd just rather snack in the middle of the day—and wait until you get home so we can enjoy a real meal together."

A wife can get away with this air of marital sacrifice for as long as five years if she is an able actress. And I have yet to see a wife that isn't able, in moments of stress, to make Ethel Barrymore look like a gawky schoolgirl playing a walk-on role.

But sooner or later the husband, though his love runs deep as a river, is going to have his doubts. He is just going to plain disbelieve that the little lady lunches on nothing but "an itty-bitty bite of tuna fish on a lettuce leaf."

For one thing, she isn't the little lady she was when he married her. She's picked up about fifteen or twenty pounds.

"Let's see," he begins to muse. "I see what she eats at breakfast, and I see what she eats at night for dinner. She just pecks at her food. Well, then where'd she pick up all that extra weight? It must be at lunch."

Now, for a man that is pretty sound and crafty reasoning, the disillusioned husband goes on to draw this mental conclusion: "Tuna fish and lettuce—heck! She must be eating a whale and half the front lawn every day while I'm at work."

Envy probably prompts him to this thought. For by now the poor fellow has gotten ulcers trying to earn her a living, and all he himself has for lunch is two vitamin pills, three liver and old iron capsules and a glass of skim milk.

His next problem is to find out what his not-so-little-as-she-was lady really wolfs down for lunch. Here his pitiful male intelligence is of no avail; he can never hope to match her female cunning. He will never find out—for sure.

If he checks the refrigerator in the morning and at nightfall remarks that half a roast chicken is missing, she has a ready answer:

"That Mrs. Zilch dropped by for lunch. Dear My, how that woman can eat! I never saw the like."

"What'd you have?" he mumbles.

"Oh, the usual—a dab of tuna fish, a little lettuce," she says. "You know I'm never hungry at lunchtime."

And it does no good for him to sneak into the kitchen and check the throwaways in the garbage can. She'll empty it down the incinerator before he comes home—every time.

One husband told me that, struck by a sudden chill, he came home at mid-day once without bothering to phone his wife. He insists that she and a group of other wives were on their haunches in the living room around a freshly roasted ox. He said they were throwing freshly gnawed thigh bones over their shoulders and chortling to each other.

"It's a woman's world. Would not you hate to be a man, girl, and have to go to a stuffy old office every day?"

Personally, I think this husband has exaggerated somewhat—but he is the only one I know who claims he ever really found out what wives have for lunch.

I doubt if they roast fowl grown oxen very often for their noon-time snacks. But they probably do that about as often as they lunch on "just a teeny-weeny bit of cold tuna fish on half a lettuce leaf."

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—In early days it was considered unfeminine for lady sponsors of Navy ships to get into the limelight. Many of those who took part in the laughings went by unrecorded.

In 1908, however, the ladies organized. Those who had cracked champagne bottles over ships' prowls formed the Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy, which today boasts a membership of 675.

Receiving the "dee-lighted" blessing of President Theodore Roosevelt, the group was formed by two debutante sponsors, Miss Keith Frazier, daughter of a senator from Tennessee, and Miss Mary Campbell of Birmingham, Ala. Miss Campbell, now Mrs. J. L. Underwood, was the first president.

Miss Frazier, now Mrs. Keith Frazier Somerville of Cleveland, Miss, and Mrs. Julian de Witt of Alexandria, Va., national president of the ever-growing society, are at work on a third volume of a recording of the launching of combat ships. "Ships of the United States Navy and Their Sponsors, 1923 through 1950," is to be published this fall by the U. S. Naval Institute.

Volumes one and two contain a record of all combat ships launched from 1797 to 1923. They were prepared by Mrs. James Meredith Heim, White House social secretary, and the late Mrs. Ann Martin Hall, wife of the late Admiral R. T. Hall.

Mrs. Heim, three times a sponsor, recalls she christened her first ship, the cruiser "San Francisco," when very young, along with Miss Mary Scott, small daughter of the president of the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, where her own father, Rear Admiral Andrew E. K. Benham, was in command of the Navy yard. Her second christening was a destroyer named after her father. Her third, also a destroyer, was named after her late husband, Rear Admiral Heim.

Mrs. Heim was invited to sponsor two later "Benham" destroyers but turned over christening privileges in the case of the second "Benham" to her young cousin, Mrs. Albert Dorr, and of the third "Benham" to her nephew's wife, Mrs. Harry Benham.

Members of the Navy Sponsors Society include many distinguished women, including Margaret Truman, who was appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to christen the "Missouri" June 28, 1944, while her father was still in the Senate. Mrs. Roosevelt is also a member. She sponsored the "Yorktown" in 1945.

Pitt Education Board OKs Improvement Bids

The Pitt county Board of Education accepted two bids for work on four county schools at a special meeting of the board yesterday.

The board accepted a low bid of $8,948 by C. E. Wiggins Company for heating systems in the Fountain Negro School, and the Falkland and Arthur White Schools. The installation of the heating systems in the three schools will be paid for out of State funds.

W. G. Dunn Company was awarded the contract for the addition of two rooms and a hall to the Grifton School. Dunn Company was the low bidder on a general contract which was first set at $20,400 but was reduced to $19,855. Construction costs will be paid for from a local bond issue.

The board also authorized the sale of the old Galloway School which is a two-room building located on a one-acre site at Galloway's Cross Roads.

Lays Failings To Faulty Hearing

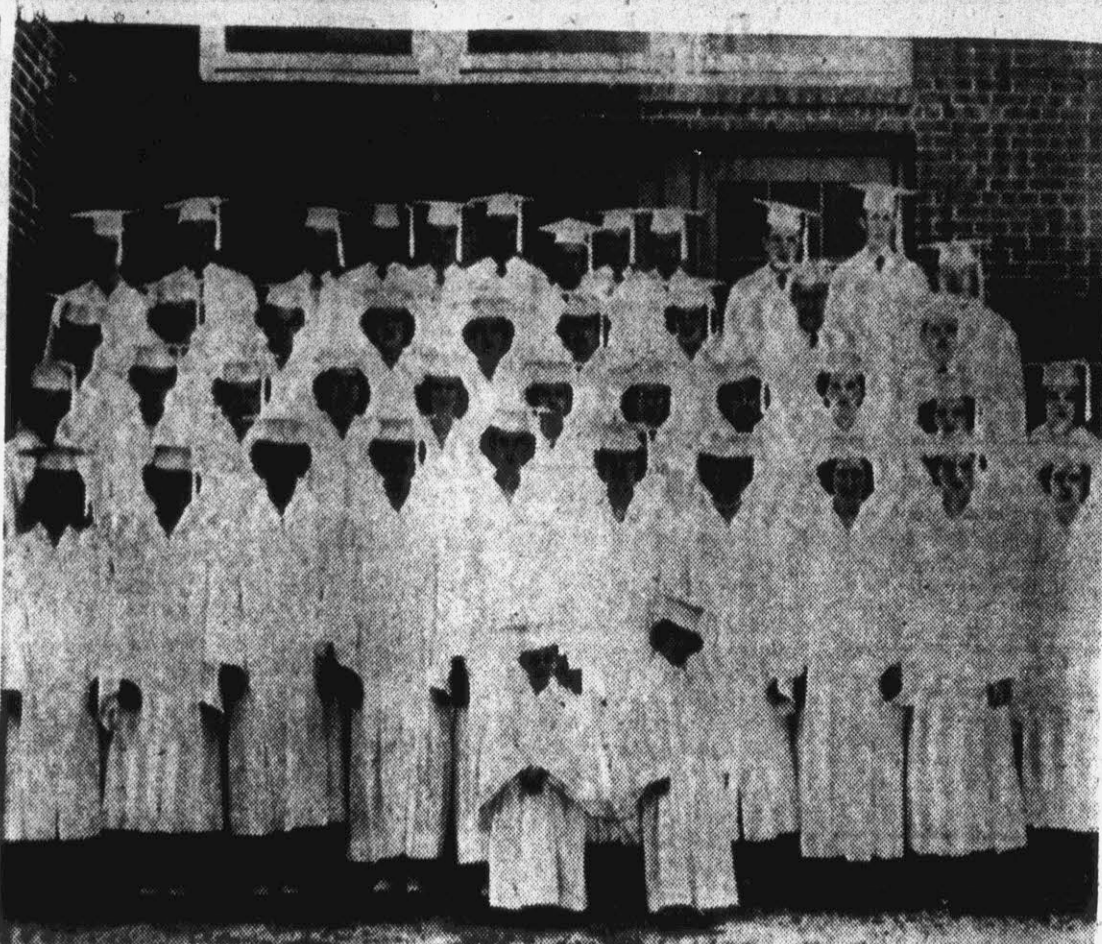

The ear and how deficient hearing hinders the progress of so-called "backward" children was presented to the Lions Club Monday night by Mrs. Dorothy W. Perkins, instructor at East Carolina.

Mrs. Perkins, who teaches courses to future teachers who may have backward students enrolled in their classes, stated deficient hearing is the cause of many young students not passing their studies. She estimated that about 70 percent of the bad hearing cases can be cured through special devices or through medical treatment.

The speaker stated many children should be taken to a doctor when bad hearing seems to be a cause of their backwardness. In that way the doctor can prescribe an operation or a device for aiding the child's hearing, she said. Most of the children who seem to be "backward", she said, are not that way at all but have bad hearing.

In president Larry Averette's absence, B. B. Sugg, Jr., presided. Averette and Withers Harvey are representing the Greenville club at the state Lions Convention held in Winston-Salem.

Guest of the club Monday was Willard T. Kyzer, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

AYDEN—From the time she entered the first grade up until she graduated from Chocod High School Monday night, Ruth Whitford has a perfect attendance record—she has not missed a day of school in 12 years.

RUTH WHITFORD

Monday night at graduation, some more honors were bestowed on her. She was named the best homemaker, received the best sportsmanship award for girls, received an award with ten other students for the best bus driver, and she was also class Salutatorian.

Ruth has been an active member of the Future Homemakers of America for four years, a member of the Monogram club for two years, a member of the Science club for four years, and she served as editor of the school paper, "The Chocodan", this year. She also won the popularity award when she was in the ninth grade.

Ruth plans to enter East Carolina college in the fall and wants to be a grammar grade teacher. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z.O. Whitford of Ayden, Route 2.

Will Accept Road Bids On May 29

Bids will be taken on May 29 by the Headquarters of the Second Division of the North Carolina State Highway and Public Works Commission for the paving of a roads in rural areas in the county.

The roads, which are to be of sand asphalt, 18 feet wide and 20.35 miles in length, will be located at points around Gardnerville, Venters, and Ayden. The plans for May also include the resurfacing of W. 16 Street and Snow Hill Street in Ayden.

During April the Highway Commission accepted bids for the paving of a sand asphalt road between State Highway 30 and Congleton. Work on the road was begun on May 8 and is still under construction. It will be 18 feet wide and a length of 10.3 miles.

The second project planned during April was the construction of sand asphalt roads, 18 feet wide and 9.8 miles long, at points around Falkland. One of the roads in the second project has been completed and the others are still under construction.

Total length of the roads planned in April are 20.1 miles and for May, 20.635 miles.

Messick Addresses Farmville Graduates

FARMVILLE—Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina college, gave the commencement address to 48 seniors at the Farmville High School graduation exercises on Monday.

Messick was introduced by Dr. Paul E. Jones, following the Salutatory address by Ann Bynum. Hazel Garris gave the Valedictory address. John Lewis presented the diplomas to the seniors, which was followed by the presentation of awards by Sam Bundy, high school principal. Bundy gave the following awards:

Kiwanis Scholarship awards went to Randolph Brock, most improvement in ninth grade; Joyce Dilda, most improvement in tenth grade; Willa Rae Harper, most improvement in eleventh grade; and Julian Boyce, most improvement in twelfth grade.

Helen Holloman won the Morgan Award for most improvement in Spanish; Randolph Brock, Monk math; Margaret Allen, Coggins Home Economics Award; Margie Lilley, Arion Award for Most Valuable Band Member; Hazel Garris, Valedictory Medal; Ann Bynum, Salutatory Medal; Roy Flora and Richard Oakley, Sportsmanship Award for boys; and Cella Walston, Sportsmanship Award for girls.

Jean Moore, McAllister Chapter of D. A. R. Citizenship Award; and Music Awards went to Lurae Worthington, most improvement in sight reading; Jane Carroll, best stage performance in elementary school; Ann Morgan, most improvement in music.

James Thorne, Rotary Award for best all round; and Mittie Rouse, Kiwanis Scholarship Award of $400.

Music on the program, other than the Processional and Recessional, included: "America," "The Lord is My Shepherd," "Pilgrim Chorus", and the "Benediction".

Acting as marshalls were JoAnn Owens, Jean Moore, Dotdee Jones, Doris Wilkerson, Eddie Bass, Teddy Allen, Claire Cannon, Guita Cannon, and Sylvia Gardner. Class mascots were Judy Bass and Robin Rouse.

Over 1000 people were present at the exercises.

Pitt Dairy Food Contests Slated

The county dairy foods eliminations contest to select two dairy teams and two individual demonstrators to go to the Northeastern District Dairy Foods Contest, will be held on May 30 and June 1 in the Home Demonstration laboratory in the Agriculture Building.

The junior 4-H club eliminations will be on May 30 and the senior club eliminations will be on June 1. None of the demonstrators will be over 20 minutes long and the participants will use one of their own demonstrations or use one from the Home Demonstration office. The standard demonstrations are: "The Milky Way to Health" (milk drinks) by Helen Hicks or "The Top of the Milk" (desserts) by Laura Ann Roach and June Smith of the Chocod club. The junior girls will show only the actual milk product and the senior girl will show the milk product in relation to some meal during the day.

County winners will give Dairy Foods demonstration at the home demonstration club meeting during May. The girls are coached by adult leaders, senior 4-H club girls, and the agents. Seventy-five girls are entering the contest which is to be judged by Sue Brickhouse, home demonstration agent, and Anne Parker, assistant agent.

Cooperation Is Solution To Old River Quarrel

FRANKFURT —(AP)— Austria and Germany — after feuding for years over water rights like pioneers in the American West—are enjoying a big payoff now from cooperation.

Three rivers—the Danube, Inn and Salzach—flow in both countries. Who controlled them was a chronic sore point. It never got near a settlement by diplomatic negotiation. But when Hitler marched into Austria in 1938, there was, for a time, nothing left to decide.

At war's end, the quarrel burst out again. Peacetime reconstruction brought a sharp need for hydro-electric power. Both West Germany and Austria wanted the lion's share of the three rivers. Finally, with Allied military government assistance, the Austrian-Bavarian Power Company was formed. Ownership was divided equally between the two countries.

Old Manuscript May Be Valuable

PACOIMA, Calif. — (AP) — A faded manuscript found in a stack of old music at the Guardian Angel Church here may be an original copy of a song by Franz Liszt.

The yellowed pages bear handwritten notations and the name of the piece, "St. Francois d'Assise." F. Liszt is written at the top in flowing script. A penciled note gives the date as "1886, Rome."

The church organist, Mrs. Art Gerard, discovered the manuscript while thumbing through old files. She plans to have it appraised by experts to determine its authenticity.

Greater Powers Approved For Singapore Police

SINGAPORE —(AP)—The powers of Singapore, already under orders to shoot at Communist terrorists who attempt to set fire to private or public property, are getting still wider powers.

Amended regulations under the state of emergency existing here make it an offense for any person to consort with another who is responsible for damage to property by means of fire or an explosive substance.

All police, too, now are empowered to effect the arrest by shooting of any person violating emergency regulations. The only thing they have to do before opening fire is to call upon the person to halt and submit to arrest.

'V-Discs' Again Back On Scene

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— To fill the needs of service hospitals and recreation centers, the Defense Department is reactivating World War II "V-Discs."

The Armed Forces Radio Service here has been designated to supervise production of the discs, which have been given a new name Armed Forces Records.

The records will feature top musical entertainers and will be shipped to military installations around the world for the enjoyment of service personnel.

Canadian Bread Rumor Quashed

OTTAWA (AP) —Unusual letters are commonplace at the Canadian Government Travel Bureau here, but one from a feminine writer in Hollywood, Calif., gets the nod as the most remarkable.

She wrote to ask if it were true that the sale of white bread brings the death penalty in Canada. She said in her letter that she had heard the practice was illegal and the penalty was death.

Travel bureau officials pondered the wisdom of mailing her a loaf of Canadian white bread, finally compromised by advising her there was no such offense and certainly no such penalty.

The SIREN of SILVER VALLEY

By PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 27

He awoke early and rode at once to Ben Dowd's 88. His men returned from the Double D and had quickly ceased their praises of Diana Denton. Ben's cold fury when he told him that Walt Kirk had also lent her his crew silencing them. Ben was walking now, stiffly, his injured side tightly bound, and Jeff found him in the mess shack with his crew. He glare at Jeff and said, "Whadda you want?"

"Some breakfast." Ranch country came first.

Jeff sat down and they all ate in silence; but when the crew would have got up and gone out Jeff said, "Wait a minute, boys; I got something to say."

They sat down again, wondering. He looked directly at Ben and said, "Ben we've both been played by suckers and misery likes company. When I told you that day that I might become a rival of yours I had already become one. Diana Denton had given me every reason to believe that she'd be Mrs. Jeff Payne when this war was over."

Ben squirmed angrily. "Why, you double-crossin' polecat!"

"Sit there and swallow it. I had to, and it hurt like hell going down, but now that I've digested it I feel cured. She played you for a sucker and everybody knew it but you. Walt was a sucker too. When she wasn't sitting in the hammock with you she was sitting there with him; and when she was not sitting with either of you she dering at the visit. Jeff asked, "Walt inside?" and when they told him he was, "Come in with us. This is going to be an experience meeting."

They found Walt propped up in bed, emptied breakfast dishes on the chair beside him. He scowled at Jeff, then said to Ben, "You got a crust comin' over here. If I had my gun—"

"I fetched him," interrupted Jeff. "I told him he was a sucker and you was a sucker and I was a sucker too, and I thought the three suckers ought to get together and compare notes. We're trying to figure which one of us is going to marry Diana Denton. She promised to marry you, didn't she?"

"You're danged tootin' she did! And as soon as I get well—"

"That makes it unanimous. You see, she promised Ben and me also."

Walt's face purpled. "That ain't so!"

Jeff made an impatient gesture. "I'm getting tired of being called a liar, but under the circumstances I'll overlook it. Haven't your men told you of the scene at the Star mess shack?"

"Yeah! And you ought to be boiled in oil for claimin' she promised to marry you!"

"Then hell Ben along with me. And jump into the pot yourself, Walt, wake up, Diana promised to marry you in return for your help and you believed her; she drove right over to Ben's and made the same promise to him, and he believed her. And all the while I was laughing at the two of you because I believed her when she said she'd marry me. And now all three of us are out of it because she's got what she wanted and will probably marry Sam Cooper."

"Sam Cooper!"

"Who else do you believe was behind this scheme to run Starr out of the valley?" He spoke angrily, savagely almost. "It wasn't a broken-hearted widow's attempt at vengeance, because she told me and probably told you she hadn't loved Dan Denton. I tell you she and Sam are in this together. They want the whole valley and now that John Starr is licked they'll turn around and drive you out too."

"Sam Cooper!" It was almost a whisper. "Damn his soul!"

"I'll second that motion. But let's put him back in his place first. You men helped me take the valley away from John Starr, a man who befriended you, and now you've got to help me get it back again. Ben is already donated the use of his crew; how about you?"

Walt sank back on the bed, misery written on his face. He closed his eyes. "She was so danged purty! And she—"

Ben cleared his throat. "Walt, I reckon like Jeff says it's about time we woke up. We been bewitched. And when I think how near I come to killin' you!"

"Yeah, Yeah, Ben. But it was not you. I laid for you by the trail."

"And I was layin' for you at the ford before that. Jeff talked me into goin' home and not shootin' you!"

"Jeff did!" Walt's eyes popped open. "Well, I'll be danged!" He spoke to the men who had crowded into the room and who no longer were under any illusions as to the charming, generous ways of Queen Diana. "Boys, I'm puttin' you under Jeff Payne's orders. You do what he says. Ben," he gulped, blinked and extended a trembling hand. "If you don't bear no ill will, I'd shore like to shake hands."

Jeff rode with the two crews, crossing the valley and using the trail which led to the gap. They took the upper end of the valley they took to the timber so as not to be seen by the men and lounged about the Star ranch yard. When they drew up before Ruth Starr's cabin, Ruth came quickly to the door.

Jeff swung from his horse, touched his hat and asked, "Is your father inside, Miss Starr?"

"Yes, he is." Her voice was cold but the hazel eyes were troubled. She stepped aside and Jeff took off his hat and entered.

Through the doorway leading to the other room he could see John Starr seated in a chair, his splinted leg supported by a hassock. Jeff went in and for a short space the two men regarded each other.

Parade Success Despite Weather

Dreary skies and occasional showers throughout the day Saturday put a damper on the Armed Forces day celebration in Greenville, but a spokesman for the Jaycees who sponsored the event regarded the parade a success in spite of the weather.

Included in the Armed Forces day parade here Saturday afternoon were 175 Marines, 125 airborne infantrymen from Fort Bragg, the Greenville high school band and the Eppes high school band. The parade started promptly at 2 o'clock, came down Dickson Avenue to Five Points, and then down Evans Street to the courthouse square. There the parade halted while the bands played the national anthem.

Although the showers did not stop the foot soldiers who took part in the celebration here, it did away with the air cover which was scheduled to be over Greenville at parade time and earlier in the day. According to the original plan, there were to be 12 planes over Greenville during the parade, and six other jets were slated to fly over the city at 10:30 Saturday morning.

Bob Ross was in charge of the arrangements for the parade, and Bill Watson, Bob Russ and Chas. Horne served as parade marshals. When the service men arrived for the parade, they were served lemonade by members of the local V.F.W. post.

DETROIT—(UP)—Chief of Detectives Jack Harvill and Assistant Prosecutor Joseph Brannigan handed the city a $1,821 expense account for a trip to Hawaii to pick up Albert Drury, wanted on charges of a $1,663 swindle.

Newcomer To Local Mound Staff Shows Well Despite Defeat In First Game; Visitors Clinched Triumph In Closing Frame

A three-hit pitching performance by righthander Larry Dempsey gave the New Bern Bears a 7-1 triumph over the Greenville Robins at Guy Smith Stadium last night, thus marking the home club's sixth straight defeat.

The loss also spoiled the first-game performance of Amby Foote, a thin and agile righthander, who joined the Robins yesterday to work his first assignment.

Foote fashioned himself an eight-hitter going into the top of the ninth frame and gave the 200 predominantly local spectators an inkling that he had obtained a better than average starting pitcher to aid the weak mound staff already on hand. However, he was behind in the score at that time—3-1—and weakened even more during the ninth when the Bears put the clincher on the victory.

In that inning they led off with the top of the batting order and wound up with four runs across on the strength of four extra-base hits, including Harry Land's two-run homer over the leftfield fence.

However, Foote wasn't taken out until Stille, who followed Land, hit a stinging double to left center. Kovalchick relieved him then with two out, threw one pitch and made Dempsey ground out third to first. That was all for the Bears and subsequently all for the Robins in their half of the ninth as they went down in 1-2-3 order.

Dempsey had everything his way throughout the game. He blanked John Strelza's club until the fifth when Dunlavy scored on a hit by DeMartino after he had moved to second on an error. But DeMartino was out at second trying to steal and although Guidice followed with a walk, he died on base when Lautato fled to right.

The Robins threatened again in the sixth when Strelza led off with a hard double to center. But McLawhorn followed by flying out to center and Strelza was caught off base when Pietrak hit to second in a fielder's choice and then was put out trying to reach second while the Bears were running down Strelza.

Stille led the hitting for the Bears when he connected for two singles and a double in five trips. McJunkin, Land and Garcia got two hits apiece to pace the rest of the batting order with McJunkin batting in four runs.

Tonight the Robins travel to Goldboro for a single game. Paul Jones will get the starting assignment. Tomorrow night the Robins go against the Cards here.

Dodgers 'Rival Thundergod' In Belting Out 17-8 Victory

By CARL LUNDQUIST
 United Press Sports Writer

Thor, the old thundergod, put on one of his shows last night in Pittsburgh with a severe electrical storm that held up the ball game almost an hour, and then the Brooklyn Dodgers went out and put him to shame.

The atomic Bums, offering their own special brand of thunder and lightning, shook Forbes Field until they may have to condemn it with an 18 hit, 17 to 8 victory over the Pirates that included four home runs and four doubles.

While Thor retreated behind a convenient cloud, Gil Hodges hit his 12th and 13th homers to c over the major league lead. His second came with the bases loaded in the ninth. Bruce Edwards and Roy Campanella also hit homers and Cal Abrams got two doubles while Jackie Robinson and Campanella got one apiece.

At the finish, the Brooks were atop the National League standings by a game and a half, but far more significant than that little line of type were these fantastic batting figures that told why they were up there:

Batting, Abrams .452, Robinson, .407, Reese .388, one two three in the majors.

Homers-Todges 13, Duke Snider 9, 3rd in the N. L.

Runs batted, Snider 31, tops in the majors, Robinson 26, 3rd.

Hits Robinson 48, Reese 47, one two in the majors.

To be sure they fattened those figures off a Pittsburgh pitching staff that now has totaled 53 hits in its last three games, but they're still pretty awesome. The Bucs did some clouting of their own, Wally Westlake hitting his 12th homer to stay one behind Hodges, while Ralph Kiner got his eighth and George Methovich his first.

In other less frightening displays, the Braves defeated the Cards, 7 to 2, while in the American League the White Sox edged Washington, 9 to 8, for their sixth straight road victory, the Yankees beat the Browns, 6 to 1, Cleveland topped Philadelphia, 6 to 2, and Boston downed Detroit, 6 to 3.

Warren Spahn pitched his fourth victory, a seven hitter, while the Braves utilized 12 walks to win at St. Louis. Boston made only one hit even though 10 men came to the plate as they put over four runs to clinch the game in the fifth. Bob Elliott later hit a Boston homer.

The White Sox, seeking to make their first all victorious eastern tour in modern times, won their third straight from Washington and now have only to beat the seventh place A's twice to complete their goal. Relief pitcher Harry Dorish had to come on and stop the Nats last night for the second straight game, pitching three hit ball in the four final innings.

Allie Reynolds turned in his second tight pitching job for the Yankees, holding the Browns to four hits and getting a two-run homer by Yogi Berra plus two triples and three doubles for offensive support. Bobby Brown got a triple and two singles to pace the Les Moss, the new Red Sox catcher, paid a dividend on his rescue from the Browns by lashing a grand slam home run in the seventh to break a 2-2 tie.

Another good omen for Boston was pitching of Mickey McDermott, who hurled seven hit ball for his second straight route-going triumph.

At Philadelphia, Early Wynn pulled the stumping Indians together with a fine five hitter in which Bob Avila delivered his first homer of the season and Ike Boone got a triple and single. Jim Hegan drove in two runs with a double and single.

The New York at Chicago and Philadelphia at Cincinnati games were rained out in the National.

Britons Try Hard Not To Show How Loss Rankles

PORTHAWL, Wales, (AP)—American dominance of the British Amateur golf championship may rankle in the hearts of all British golf enthusiasts, but they try hard not to show it.

That was demonstrated yesterday when more than 100 galleries walked around the 6,558-yard Porthcawl course in a raging gale to watch Sam Urzetta, 25-year-old ex-caddie from Rochester, N. Y., chop down a local favorite, Steve Tredinnick, 3 and 2.

True, Sam is the U. S. Amateur champion, a title that would be a drawing card anywhere. But he also has the appeal of a fighting links competitor and one who has battled his way to the top over a rocky course.

Many Britons still think all American golfers are millionaires and it comes as a surprise to them that the top ranking U. S. amateur once toted bags for pocket money. So Sam, whose golf manners rate favorably with those of any English public school graduate, has won himself a substantial following among the paying public.

Urzetta hasn't yet shown here the flashing game that flattened the current British titleholder, Frank Stranahan, in the 39-hole final of the U. S. Amateur in the states last year.

"The rain and the wind don't bother me," Urzetta said after a so-so performance yesterday. "Most of my trouble is with my short iron. They're not crisp enough. But I may get that touch back Wednesday. If I do I hope to be staying around for a while."

Top-Flight N.C. Golf Stars In Exhibition Play

WASHINGTON—Four prominent Tar Heel golfers will tee off here Sunday afternoon in an exhibition golf match held at the Washington Yacht and Country Club.

Included in the mixed match will be Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, former National Women's Amateur champion and present North Carolina Woman's champ; Marjorie Burns, a promising Greensboro amateur; Bennie Goodes, amateur from Reidsville who won the Sedgfield Tournament of Champions last year; and Bill Souter, local pro who was formerly pro at the Green Valley Country Club in Greensboro.

There will be no admission to the exhibition and the public is invited. Match time is one p.m.

Red Sox Sign Up Greensboro Ace

GREENSBORO —(AP)—The Boston Red Sox have signed Greensboro High School's star pitcher for a reported $15,000 to $20,000 bonus.

Jack Thomas, an all-state basketball and baseball player, was ordered to report to the High Point-Thomasville team of the Class D North State League. He will graduate from high school June 2 and then will enroll at Guilford College for summer school work.

Maxim Punch No Worry To Champ

CHICAGO —(AP)—Heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles says challenger Joey Maxim couldn't knock him out if "I dropped my hands and stuck my chin out as a target for his best punches."

Light heavyweight champion Maxim, who shoots for Charles' heavyweight crown in Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night, has predicted he will win by a knockout.

 DETROIT—(UP)—The Hudson Motor Car Co. today stopped production and laid off 10,000 workers for three weeks to balance inventories with demands. A spokesman said shortages of materials had sliced production last week by one third.

Soap Box Derby Set For July 1

KINSTON, May 23—The Kinston Soap Box Derby will be run this year on July 1 and all Greenville boys from 11 to 15 years old are being invited to take part.

A color film on the Derby will be shown in the White Chevrolet Co. at 7:30 p.m. tonight for all interested boys. To register for the Derby, they must be accompanied by one of their parents.

Any boy within the age limits is eligible, if he does not reach the age of 16 before August 13. Each boy must build his own racer according to certain specifications without the aid of any adult. Wheels will be given free to each contestant.

The Kinston Derby, which is run each year on Queen Street Hill is the only Derby east of Durham, although there are three other Derbies in the western portion of the state.

Last year J. P. Cauley of Fort Barnwell in Craven County won the Derby and made an expense-paid trip to Akron, O., to take part in the National Derby, along with the winners of 150 other local Derbies across the nation.

Track And Field Day For Schools

Greenville elementary schools held their first intramural track and field day yesterday afternoon with approximately 120 contestants participating in the event.

The Third Street School copped school honors for the first track and field day by amassing a total of 89 points in the 11 divisions of the meet. In second place was the Training School with 77 points and in third place was the West Greenville School with 51 points.

Bill Kittrell, who conducted the field day, commented, "It was a very successful event and all the teachers from the schools should be highly commended."

The individual events in the field day were divided into categories according to age groups of the participants. There was a nine-year-old division, a 10-year-old division, an 11- and 12-year-old division, and a 13- and 14-year-old division.

Included in the events were the 50-yard dash, running broad jump, standing broad jump, high jump, basketball throw, football throw, baseball throw, sack race, wheelbarrow race, and the 200-yard relay.

A complete list of the results of the track and field day will appear in Thursday's Reflector.

Civil Case Promises Prolonged Hearing

A civil case that promises to drag on through the rest of this week was begun yesterday afternoon in superior court in an action to set aside the will of John Henry McLawhorn who died early this year at his farm in the vicinity of the county home.

In the will, which was drawn up in 1946, McLawhorn, who was about 90 at the time of his death, devised all his real and personal property to his two daughters, Fannie and Alice McLawhorn. The real property included a farm of about 100 acres with a small tobacco allotment.

In March of this year his son Rufus filed a caveat to the will asking that the will be set aside and annulled on the grounds that his father was incompetent to make a will at the time it was drawn up. He alleged that his father was coerced into putting his mark on the will by his two daughters and a nephew, W. J. McLawhorn, through "fraud, and under an improper influence and duress."

Second witness to take the stand yesterday was W. J. McLawhorn, the nephew who helped his uncle market his tobacco crop for many years prior to his death. McLawhorn stated his uncle was competent enough at the time to make out a will. He said that he accompanied him and the two daughters to the office of R. B. Lee, Greenville attorney, to draw up the will and witnessed his uncle's mark on the document.

Today between 20 and 25 witnesses were sworn and who will take the stand later in the trial. Representing the McLawhorn daughters and the nephew are S. C. Worthington and Albion Dunn, Counsel for Rufus McLawhorn are Dink James and Kenneth Hill.

Washington Kiwanis Club To Meet With Local Club Friday

The members of the Washington Kiwanis Club will be guests of the Greenville Kiwanis Club at its weekly supper meeting next Friday night at 6:30. Bill Dole, chairman of the Inter-Club Relations Committee, arranged the meeting of the two clubs. An entertaining program is being arranged.

Roland B. Modlin, of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, Washington, is president of the Washington Club. The Greenville Kiwanis Club sponsored the Washington Club when it was organized about four years ago.

Flat Tax Boost

WASHINGTON — (AP) — In a stormy, shouting session, the House Ways and Means Committee voted today for a flat 12 1/2 per cent increase for individual income taxpayers and for a boost in the excess profits tax on corporations.

Both revisions were agreed upon by straight party line votes, and Republican members of the committee declared angrily that the changes were "railroaded through."

"I resent legislating by party caucuses," Rep. Simpson (R-Pa.) told reporters.

Rep. Reed of New York, ranking Republican member of the committee, told the newsmen there had been "a major row" in today's sessions.

The flat 12 1/2 per cent increase in everybody's income tax was substituted for the committee's original plan of a raise of three percentage points in the rate in each tax bracket.

Work For Year Report To Colored Civic League

The Colored Civic League of Greenville, at its meeting Tuesday night, had an interesting report of the club's activities during the present year. President D. D. Garrett presided.

Reading of reports of the Membership Committee and the club's activities during recent months featured the meeting. Mrs. J. H. Donaidson, chairman of the Membership Committee, suggested that a membership campaign be appointed in order to obtain the desired 500 members by July 1. All persons holding membership cards should report to her before the next meeting.

George Garrett, chairman of the Recreation Committee, was requested to meet with the City Recreation Commission in order to get a blueprint of the commission's plans for the youth of the community. This step, it was stated, will enable the league to cooperate more fully with the recreation program. The league is manifesting much interest in the proposed recreation institute scheduled to be held in Kinston in June.

About 300 boys and girls attend the Recreation Center at the Fleming Street colored school Friday evenings. Plans were made for obtaining two chaperones from each colored school Friday nights. Plans are being made for a "big day" and midget baseball teams. The league has invited Lawyer Bell of Plymouth, who recently passed the bar in Greenville, to practice law here.

The president of the league has invited the presidents of the social, civic and fraternal groups to meet with the league at its next meeting for the purpose of organizing a Pan-Hellenic Council.

Garrett's report of this year's activities includes a mass meeting in June, with a speaker to be named later; two local speakers, Prof. W. H. Davenport and Police Chief Guy C. Langston, have appeared before the league. The membership fee in the league is $1. The league has been successful in collecting discarded clothing and other articles for distribution among worthy persons.

President Garrett expressed pleasure over appointment of a Negro police officer, and he urged the members to continue their loyal support of the program for progress and prosperity.

He's arrested for robbery. He must be told what his offense is. The company commander makes a preliminary investigation. If satisfied the charge is justified, he notifies the regiment commander, a Colonel. The latter then orders a more complete investigation.

At this investigation Jones has a right to be represented by a civilian lawyer of his own choosing or an officer appointed for him. Jones can give evidence in his own behalf at this investigation and examine witnesses against him.

If the Colonel decides there's enough evidence for a trial before a General Court Martial he notifies the division commander, a General. The latter turns the case over to his legal advisor, a staff Judge Advocate, who must be an officer and a lawyer. He makes arrangements for the trial.

Presiding as judge will be an officer who is also a lawyer. (In the past he was on the jury, too, but now on will not take part in reaching a verdict.) There must be at least five other members of the court. Usually, they're officers but not necessarily lawyers. Jones can insist that one-third of them be enlisted men like himself.

The prosecuting counsel, an officer, must be a lawyer. So must the defense counsel, another officer, appointed to defend Jones, or Jones can bring in a civilian lawyer. Say the court finds Jones guilty and sentences him to jail for five years.

Then the General in command of the division—with the help of his staff judge advocate—will review the case. He can overrule the court and free Jones or reduce his sentence, or agree with the verdict.

If the General doesn't free Jones, the case must then go to the Army's Judge Advocate General who turns it over to a review board made up of three Army officers, all lawyers.

Jones can be represented before this board by his own civilian lawyer or an officer-lawyer appointed for him. The board can do anything it wishes about the sentence: turn Jones free, reduce sentence, or uphold it.

If Jones isn't freed, the soldier has 30 days in which to appeal to the new Court of Military Appeals. That court's decision then is final. (All this extensive procedure is only for men accused and convicted of major offenses. Men arrested for minor offenses get legal safeguards, but not all these mentioned here, and can't appeal to that high court.)

Baker Street's . . .

That grieved him greatly and he told me that he couldn't understand how anyone could refuse to believe in communication with those who had passed on. He was so wrapped up in the subject that he ran a bookshop under the shadow of Westminster Abbey and there he made available all sorts of publications on spiritualism and attending in southern England.

allied subjects.

Incidentally, Doyle and the late Houdini, the magician, had a running argument about spiritualism, and Sir Arthur maintained to me that Houdini performed his amazing feats through spiritualism but wouldn't admit it. Doyle said that Houdini, in making his escapes from padlocked iron chests dematerialized himself so that he could pass through a crack or keyhole and that once out he materialized himself again.

Doyle told me he had encountered spirit materialization himself, and that a materialized spirit had badly manhandled members of a spiritualist meeting which he was attending in southern England.

Caboose Retired 'Til Family Flies

MATTOON, Ill.—(AP)—An Illinois Central Railroad caboose has been retired until a family of robins grow up and fly away.

Last week switchmen making up a train discovered the robin's nest just above the rear left trucks of the caboose.

Rather than destroy the nest and eggs, the crew carried the nest and its contents to another caboose in the north end of the yards. They deposited the nest in the same position they found it on the other caboose.
