MacArthur Set For New Assault In Texas Speech

General To Address Legislature, Obviously Aroused By Senate Hearing

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur files here today for a fighting speech in the "great debate" on Far Eastern policy.

The five-star general invades the Lone Star state in a fighting mood, obviously aroused by testimony in the Senate inquiry into his dismissal as United States and United Nations commander in the Far East.

MacArthur took off in the chartered Constellation "The Champion" at 8:37 a.m.

The Eastern Airlines plane, which the airline said holds the transcontinental speed record for commercial planes, was scheduled to reach here in five hours and 50 minutes.

MacArthur, accompanied by his wife and son and three aides boarded the plane immediately after his arrival at LaGuardia airport.

His address late today before a joint session of the Texas Legislature on the statehouse front steps was to be a major one. MacArthur was expected to refer to the Truman administration and on critics of his military and diplomatic conduct.

An indication of the general's feeling about recent points made by his critics in the controversy raging about him came Saturday in his blistering telegram to Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Cal.). He called the 1946 Marshall mission to China "one of the greatest blunders in American diplomatic history for which the free world is now paying in blood and disaster."

The Austin speech will touch off a whirlwind MacArthur tour in Texas. He will visit six cities for five speeches in four days. All the speeches—in Austin, Houston, San Antonio, Dallas and Fort Worth—are scheduled out of doors. MacArthur added Galveston to his itinerary yesterday but did not schedule a speech there.

A siege of Texas wet weather may mar the outdoor appearances. Rainfall for June has been far above normal. The forecast for this week is for scattered thunderstorms. Yesterday afternoon Austin had two inches of rain in 30 minutes.

The Legislature will convene in special session on steps of the capitol for the MacArthur speech. It adjourned last week with the proviso that it would return to hear the general.

In case of rain, MacArthur and the Legislators will move into the House chamber. The crowd still will be able to hear the speech on loud speakers.

Two old soldiers who served with MacArthur will be here to greet him. They are Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, the hero of Bataan and Gen. Walter Krueger, top Army commander under MacArthur in World War II.

After the speech, which will be broadcast and televised, MacArthur will go directly to the airport and fly to Houston for a parade. Tomorrow night he is to speak in the 76,000-seat Rice Institute stadium in Houston.

Wedemeyer Credits Solons With Constructive Ideas For Dealing With China And Accuses Diplo-Mats Of Trying To Block Them; Hits 'Uncertainty'

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer credited Congress today with producing all the "constructive" ideas for dealing with China since the war and accused the State Department of trying to block those ideas.

Wedemeyer made that declaration before the Senate committee investigating Far Eastern policy and the removal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Ia.) asked Wedemeyer, wartime commander of U.S. forces in China, if the United States had followed a policy of giving "blanketing support" to the Chinese Nationalist government while the Communists were getting increasing help from Russia.

Wedemeyer said he thought Hickenlooper had made a "fair statement." He said there had been "uncertainty" at the American China policy in the postwar period when the Communists were displacing the Nationalists from the mainland.

Wedemeyer also disclosed that he recommended in early 1945 that Russia be brought into the war against Japan to shorten the hostilities. That recommendation was, he said, "a mistake, an error in judgment, a strategic judgment there."

Wedemeyer said however that he was "not at all involved" in the decision to "pull out the rug" from Russia's entry into the war in the Far East.

"It seemed to me that any constructive purposes or ideas with reference to that area really had their genesis in Congress," Wedemeyer said, "and the opposition to those constructive ideas usually occurred in the State Department."

Wedemeyer said that U.S. recognition of the Red Chinese government would be "tantamount to a refutation" of American friendship for the Chinese people, an abrogation of our "traditional 'open door' policy," and "a victory for the communist movement in China, in the Far East, and in the world."

Wedemeyer said he was convinced to end the war during his tour of duty in China which started in 1944. But he said he is unable to support that conviction with "factual evidence."

After Japan's collapse, he said, the Russians in Manchuria flouted MacArthur's "General Order No. 1" requiring all subordinate commanders to turn over Japanese arms and equipment to the Chinese Nationalists.

The Russians, he said, handed the Japanese arms to the Chinese Communists. Earlier, one senator said the general's demand that the United Nations pull out of Korea would mean "the end" of the international organization.

"It would absolutely sacrifice the United Nations," Sen. Theodore F. Green (D-R.I.) told a reporter. "In fact, it would sacrifice all the gains we have made. Imagine the kind of prestige we would have in Asia or anywhere in the world. It would be terrible."

Wedemeyer elaborated last night on his "go it alone" theory and also uncorked a shocker for Republicans on the Senate investigating committee inquiring into Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal.

Two Die In Highway Crash Of Car Into Truck, Trailer

Bethel Man And Korean War Veteran Killed Near Robersonville; Investigating Officer Blames Drunken Driving

By ROY HARDEE

ROBERSONVILLE—A 24-year-old Bethel man and a Korean War veteran, home on leave, died yesterday afternoon when their car crashed into a truck and trailer on the Williamson Highway one mile east of here.

Investigating Officer B. W. Parker of Robersonville, listed the dead as James Garland Manning, 24, of Bethel, and Paul Helwer, 31, Navy veteran, home on leave. Helwer was the brother-in-law of Manning.

Time of the accident was placed by Patrolman Parker at around 8:15 p. m.

Parker stated that Manning, driver of the death car, died five minutes following the crash which completely demolished the automobile. Paul Helwer was killed instantly.

Both men were thrown from the car by the force of the impact, with Manning's body landing behind the car and Helwer's to the front of the wreckage on the road surface.

Manning's car was headed in the direction of Williamson at the time of the accident, meeting an unloaded tractor and trailer driven by Ervin L. Everette, of Battleboro.

Everette received a gash over his eye which required three stitches to close, but was not believed to be otherwise injured.

A woman, eyewitness to the accident, told Patrolman that the 1941 Chevrolet came down the highway "flying," going from one side of the road to the other at a very high rate of speed.

Parker quoted the woman as saying that the sailor (Helwer) had his head hung out the window at the time of the crash. When the car and truck struck, the truck went high up in the air and then settled down, the woman said.

Patrolman Parker termed the accident "Definitely a driving drunk case," and driving on the wrong side of the highway.

Grimesland Suit To Go To High Tribunal

Judge Burgwyn Allows Case To Go To N. C. Supreme Court For Hearing; Appeal Hinges On Three Motions

WASHINGTON—Events in the Grimesland-Washington power suit took an abrupt turn in Grimesland's favor yesterday afternoon when Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn allowed the case to go to the supreme court for hearing.

Attorneys for both towns held a conference during the latter part of the afternoon and agreed on stipulations which they would present to the high court in the latter part of August. As a result, there will be no jury trial in Beaufort superior court at the present time.

Taking the case to the supreme court hinged on three rulings by Burgwyn on motions from Grimesland attorneys. The three were: 1. Certificate of convenience and necessity—The judge ruled that no certificate was needed from the municipal corporation for trial of the suit.

2. Right of way of Washington

3. Right of way of Washington lines—Burgwyn ruled that Washington has the right to cross Grimesland lines wherever they exist.

Grimesland attorneys took exceptions in all three instances and Burgwyn allowed the case to be appealed to the higher court.

The restraining order that prohibits Washington from extending its lines south of Pamlico River will remain effect until the supreme court's ruling.

There is a possibility that the suit will come back to superior court here. If the court reverses Burgwyn, the suit will begin again here for a jury trial.

Attlee Survives Marathon Meet Of Parliament

LONDON—(UP)—Winston Churchill's determination to topple the Labor Government forced the House of Commons into its longest session in 15 years, but Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee still was in the driver's seat today.

The marathon session of 31 hours and 47 minutes broke up at 10:17 o'clock last night. Government forces gave a surprising demonstration of durability in face of a Churchill-led Conservative challenge to nearly every clause of a lengthy finance bill.

In each of more than 20 votes, the government won by margins ranging from seven to 20 or more.

A defeat on any major clause would have brought down the government.

What caused the split was that Stalin sent hundreds of army officers and industrial supervisors to Yugoslavia to help run the country.

They got higher wages and better food than did their opposite numbers in the Yugoslavian army and industry. Tito demanded that Yugoslavia and Russia be equal partners in the communist family of nations.

That ran counter to Stalin's fundamental conception of Russia as headquarters and the satellite nations as branch offices. One word was calling Tito a "bourgeois diversionist" and a "Fascist beast." Tito is an old hand at name-calling and he sent back some of the same. Then he kicked all the Russians out.

Tito has an army of about 350,000 men, but that is not his principal asset so far as the Western world is concerned. His army lacks modern equipment, and, in any event, he is chiefly valuable as a political symbol. He has proved that the

Ask Bids Soon

The utilities commission was informed last night that advertising for bids on the 300-mile REA project can begin very shortly.

It was stated that the specifications for the project are now being drawn up in Washington and as soon as they are approved, advertisement can begin.

The advertisement must run in state papers for six weeks prior to the awarding, it was learned. The awarding will be done in the utilities' office here. The project calls for about $350,000 in power lines into Beaufort and Craven counties as well as into other parts of Pitt.

The commission discussed routine matters and adjourned.

Beef Shipments Nearing Normal

CHICAGO—(UP)—Cattle shipments neared normal today, supporting the belief that farmers have decided to accept the price rollback.

After almost two weeks of dwindling livestock sales, shipments today were near normal for the second day in a row.

Cattle received at the nation's 12 principal livestock centers this morning totaled 33,200 head, compared with only 22,000 a week ago and 34,000 a year ago.

At Chicago, the world's largest stockyards received 10,000 head of cattle, compared with 9,952 a week ago and 7,584 a year ago. Shipments to the 12 big markets so far this week totaled 108,300 head, compared with 92,310 last week at this time and 137,757 for the same period a year ago.

Reds Apparently Giving Up Pyongyang To Allies

Five Saw Way Out Of Cellblock Largest N. C. Prison Break From Craven County Camp

NEW BERN—(UP)—Five Negro prisoners saved their way out of a Craven county road camp cellblock and slipped over the fence early today in North Carolina's largest mass prison break this year, officers reported.

Two of the convicts were lifeterms, highway patrolmen and Craven county officers, alerted by a farmer who became suspicious when he saw one of the men on the road about 3 a. m., threw search parties with bloodhounds out over this coastal countryside early today.

Prison department officials in Raleigh identified the fugitives as Horace York, 29, of Hamlet; James "Dick" Boone, 21, of Rich Square; Billy Graham, 19, of Asheville; J. C. LeViner, 37, of Lumberton; and Charles Chavis, 19, of Wadesboro.

York was sentenced to life imprisonment two years ago on a rape conviction. Prison records showed he escaped one other time and was recaptured last year. Boone was serving life for first degree burglary and had a record of three previous convictions. The other three were serving lesser sentences.

The break was the largest in any

Reported Abandoning Last Anchor Of 'Iron Triangle' In General Withdrawal Into North Korea

TOKYO, Thursday—(UP)—Red armies apparently are abandoning Pyongyang, last anchor of their shattered iron triangle, as part of a general withdrawal across the entire Korean front.

Two powerful Allied tank-infantry forces, supported by planes, were driving on Pyongyang, 29 miles north of the 38th parallel, from Chorwon and Kumhwa, southern anchors of the triangle which already have fallen.

Front dispatches said they were meeting no significant resistance. It was believed possible here that a United Nations patrol might already have entered the ruined city of Pyongyang.

On almost every part of a 70-mile front United Nations infantrymen were advancing against slight resistance.

Allied planes swept ahead of them in force, raking columns of retreating Chinese Communists with machine gun, rocket and gasoline-jelly bomb fire. Hundreds of Red troops, traveling in heavily camouflaged retreat columns, were killed by the plane attacks.

The official picture of the front was given by an 8th Army communique which said:

1. Light to moderate enemy contact was met by patrols on the western front southwest of Chorwon, former southwestern anchor point of the shattered "iron triangle, against little or no resistance.

2. Light to moderate resistance was met by patrolling and attacking forces on the remainder of the front.

Pyongyang, northern tip of the former assembly and stockpile triangle, was a virtual no-man's-land within easy range of Allied guns and under ceaseless pounding from the air.

Capture of Pyongyang would put the hard-driving 8th Army astride the main highway to the east coast port of Wonsan, 50 miles farther north and probable hinge of the next Communist defense line.

It also would deprive the enemy of an airstrip restored by the Reds in secret for use of their own air force but now in shambles from new Allied air raids.

Shooting Star jet fighters caught an enemy column moving north in daylight along a trail amid 1,500-foot mountains near Sudong, 14 miles north of the Hwachon Reservoir.

The Reds had camouflaged the column carefully with green boughs in a futile attempt to screen it from the air. The planes killed or wounded at least 140 enemy troops and 30 pack animals, and destroyed 25 wagons loaded with supplies.

WHITEVILLE—(UP)—Mrs. J. C. Poole, a lakeside vacationer, was credited today with saving the life of Mrs. Paul J. Williams of Roper whose two daughters drowned in Lake Waccamaw.

The victims were six-year-old Paula Jean and eight-year-old Nancy.

Witnesses said the youngest child was chasing a beach ball when she stepped into a water hole. Mrs. Williams and Nancy fell into the hole in attempting to reach Paula Jean.

Mrs. Poole heard cries for help and ran to their aid. She extended a pole within reach of Mrs. Williams and pulled her to safety.

Bodies of the children were recovered within 15 minutes.

Allan Powell Elected As Farmer's Day Chairman

Allan T. Powell, Jr., was yesterday elected general chairman of the Farmers Day celebration to be held in August by a committee from nine civic clubs and organizations in the county.

Powell succeeds last year's chairman Badger Johnson who acted as temporary chairman of the election meeting. As general chairman of activities he also will serve as president of the corporation. His election was unanimous.

Other officers elected for the third annual farm-city get-together were B. B. Suggs, Jr., vice president, and James Moye, secretary-treasurer.

Powell is county auditor and tax supervisor. He is a native of Colerain and came to Pitt County shortly after World War II. His civic activities include membership in the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Exchange Club.

No date has been set for the event, although it will be held in Greenville shortly before the opening of the tobacco market. Powell

Bradley Sees Wishful Thinking In Peace Hope

PITTSBURGH—(UP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley told college graduates today that it is wishful thinking to believe that "peace is just around the corner."

In an address at the University of Pittsburgh commencement exercises, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff warned the graduates they face a year of international tension.

But Bradley expressed confidence that the nation's youth would meet the challenge of the quest for peace. He said that the time had passed when "Americans could look around the world and compute the time for preparedness in months, and even years."

Bradley said the nation must adopt an adequate program of military training to be prepared for war emergencies.

"This will call for the proper training of all of our young men," Bradley said. "It demands a proper direction of our research, and a mobilization of our industrial capacity."

Congress has approved legislation authorizing a start on a universal military training program. President Truman is expected soon to sign the bill into law.

"Understanding, and sympathetic combination with other nations and other ways," he said, "is the basis of peace for all of us."

"We have all learned by now that we can't wait to round the corner for prosperity, nor can we wait to round the corner for peace. The time factor is always important. Somewhere ahead of us there is always a day marked 'too late'."

'What About Tito?'

Someone Usually Asks Why We Fight Communists in Asia and Support Them in Yugoslavia; Question Raised by Wedemeyer in Testimony Yesterday

By HARRY FERGUSON

United Press Foreign News Editor When the arguments begin to wax warm in Washington about our Far Eastern policy, somebody usually asks: "What about Tito?" What they mean is why do we fight the Communists in Asia and support them in Yugoslavia?

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer raised the question yesterday in his testimony on the Truman-MacArthur controversy. He said there is more reason for helping Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist government than there is for sending food and weapons to Marshal Tito.

By now the Western world has discovered that Tito and Stalin really are mad at each other. There were serious doubts about it when the two dictators first quarreled and many persons put it down as a trap into which the democracies had better not blunder.

Tito hasn't ceased to be a communist; in fact, he argues that he is a better communist than Stalin. But enough hard words have been traded now to make it certain that Russia and Yugoslavia will not become friends again until Stalin and

What caused the split was that Stalin sent hundreds of army officers and industrial supervisors to Yugoslavia to help run the country. They got higher wages and better food than did their opposite numbers in the Yugoslavian army and industry. Beef In The Headlines

Beef Will Stay in the Headlines as Congressman Maybank of South Carolina Begins an Investigation On Beef; Wants to Know Reason for Meat Famine

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Beef, which has shouldered its way into the headlines, should stay there a while.

Starting tonight a congressional committee headed by Senator Maybank, South Carolina Democrat—will begin an investigation of beef.

There's no shortage of cattle on the farms. But last week fewer cattle were sent to the slaughter houses than any time in three years.

Maybank says there's a meat famine and he wants to find out if it's caused by a strike by the meat industry because it's sore about price controls.

The story goes back to last Jan. 26 when OPS—the Office of Price Stabilization—froze prices generally. But this freeze applied, in the meat industry, only to wholesalers and retailers. Meaning: The price at which the wholesaler could sell to the retailer, your neighborhood butcher, was frozen; so was the price the retailer could charge you.

But the farmer or cattle-raiser was untouched; he still was free to charge any price he could get when he sold to the slaughterer.

Gradually, OPS says, the wholesaler and retailer, with their prices frozen, were caught in a squeeze as the price of the beef they bought went up.

Although cattle people argue the expense of raising cattle has increased, OPS' boss, Michael V. Disalle says the price of beef has shot up faster—50 percent in 18 months.

So his OPS decided the farmer's price could be cut and he'd still be ahead of the game with plenty of profit left. On April 28 OPS acted.

It announced a plan which by Oct. 1, OPS said should cut the farmer's price about 5 cents a pound but cut the price for you, the consumer, when you bought it at a butcher shop by about ten percent a pound—somewhere around ten cents on most beef.

This was the plan: by May 20 slaughterers would have to reduce the average price they paid cattle

Mrs. Cherry, Mrs. Forrest Entertain For Miss Tucker

Miss Frances Tucker, who will be married on Saturday, was entertained at an informal tea on last Saturday afternoon when Mrs. L. W. Cherry and Mrs. Martha Forrest entertained in her honor.

The tea was held at the lovely country home of Mrs. Cherry. Profusions of white gladioli, feverfew and shasta daisies were attractively used to decorate the living room.

The callers were greeted at the door by Mrs. Fred Langford, who introduced them to the receiving line composed of the hostesses—Mrs. Cherry and Mrs. Forrest—Miss Tucker, Mrs. Simon Tucker, mother of the honoree, and Miss Ann Parker, another bride-elect who will be married in July.

The two bride-elects were wearing corsages of white carnations, while the others who were receiving throughout the house were given dainty little nosegays for adornment.

Mrs. James L. Evans was at the door between the living room and dining room to invite the guests into the dining room for refreshments. Here the table was covered with a white cut work cloth with an attractive corner arrangement of flowers and candles. A beautiful bowl of white larkspur, feverfew, zinnias and daisies was set against a background of bridal tapers. A miniature bridal scene was arranged to one side of the flowers. Other white flower arrangements were on the buffet and serving table. On the opposite corner of the table was the punch bowl, from which sherbet was served by Mrs. Bert Greene, assisted by Mrs. J. ### Baptist Church Scene Of Corey-Roberson Wedding

ROBERSONVILLE — The First Baptist Church of Robersonville was the scene of a wedding Sunday evening at 4 o'clock when Miss Helen Shirley Roberson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Roberson, became the bride of Mr. Allen Gray Corey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lloyd Corey, Sr., of Stokes.

The Rev. Ralph E. Ferguson, pastor of the church, officiated performing the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Selma Meadows, organist, and Miss Doris Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Scott, soloist.

The altar of the church was banked with greenery and ferns with groupings of wrought iron candelabra holding white burning cathedral candles. Tall floor vases of white flowers and roses were on each side of the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of bridal white mousseline de soire fashioned with a nylon yoke, wide crushed bertha adorned with valley lilies, long sleeves extending into points over the hands, and a fitted bodice with miniature buttons down the back. The bouffant skirt edged with a ruffle falling from a tuck, flowed into a circular train. Her two-tiered full length veil of illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible, topped with a white purple-throated orchid and showered with white satin streamers.

Piney Grove News

The Junior Auxiliary of Piney Grove has been asked to give a repeat performance of their Tom Thumb Wedding Friday night, June 15 at 8 p. m. in the Winterville School. No admission will be charged but a collection will be taken and the collection will go on the pews that we have ordered.

All those in the "wedding" are asked to be at the school Thursday night at 8 to practice.

The Adult Class of Mount Pleasant Sunday School will sponsor the Tom Thumb Wedding Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, June 17, at Mount Pleasant Church.

Make plans to attend one of these performances. It is well worth seeing. Your presence will be greatly appreciated as these young people are trying to see just how much they can raise on the pews for the church.

We were delighted to have Mr. Joe and Miss Eliza Pollard back in Sunday School and Church Sunday after being absent for such a long time due to illness. We hope that they can continue to come regularly.

The Junior Auxiliary met with Mrs. Frances Cassick Monday night, June 11. They had a very nice meeting and were served delicious pie a la mode by Mrs. Cassick.

The Senior Auxiliary will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday, June 15, at the home of Mrs. Juanita Worthington, at 3 p. m. All members and visitors are cordially invited to attend.

A message is sent to all the sick of the church and neighborhood hoping that they will soon be up and out again.

Mrs. Starr Busbee of Springfield, South Carolina, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of powder blue nylon net. The strapless bodice was ruffled at the top and had a stole of matching net. The double net skirt, worn over hoops, was caught at the side with a large flowing bow. In her hair she wore a cluster of matching net and flowers. She carried a colonial nosegay of pink asters and roses tied with deep pink satin ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Edward Ashley Roberson, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Sylvia Corey of Raleigh, sister of the groom. Their gowns and head-dresses were of powder blue nylon net and fashioned similar to that of the honor attendant. They carried nosegays of pink asters tied with pink ribbons.

Miss Libby Starr Busbee of Springfield, S. C., niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She wore a dress of white net over blue taffeta and carried a bouquet of four pink asters tied with ribbons of the same color.

Olin Dantzier Busbee, Jr., of Springfield, S. C., nephew of the bride, carried the rings on a heart-shaped white satin pillow.

The honorary bridesmaids were Misses Barbara Cozart of Greenville, Miss Betty Jean Davenport, Miss Peggy Joyce Roberson, Miss Sarah Lee Smith, Miss Delphia Rawls and Miss Mary Ann Anderson. They wore full length dresses in pastel colors and wore shasta daisies in their hair.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, John Lloyd Corey, Jr., as best man. Serving as ushers were Edward, Edgar and Harry Clayton Roberson, brothers of the bride. Loyall Corey, brother of the groom, Alton Johnson, brother-in-law of the groom and Starr Busbee of Springfield, S. C., brother-in-law of the bride. Carlton and Lewis Roberson served as junior groomsmen. Mrs. Roberson, the bride's mother, wore a dress of blue sheer over taffeta with a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Corey, the groom's mother wore a dress of orchid and a pink rose corsage.

Immediately after the wedding the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at their home.

After the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to Florida. For traveling the bride wore a navy silk shantung suit with blue and white accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid lifted from her Prayer Book.

Matron's Club Meeting
The Matron's Social Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Elnora Brewington on Pitt Street tonight at 8:00. All members are asked to be present.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS THAT EMERGING HALO

Many years ago an artist painted a picture of Christ and the two thieves on their crosses. One little detail in this picture has called forth the comment of thousands of art critics. The Saviour was pictured, of course, with a halo about his head. The artist, however, went one step further. He produced the faintest suggestion of a halo about the head of the penitent thief. The man who had confessed his sin and found his security in Christ had begun to "grow" a halo.

Who Will Make The Third Mistake?

If the Korean war was brought to a close tomorrow, how long would it be before the American people began clamoring for a reduction in the Federal spending for rearmament?

If the people react in the future as they have in the past, it would be only a few weeks or a few months at the most until the bellow for arms reduction reached a mighty pitch. But in reality, the international situation would have changed only slightly. The spreading fire of aggression would have been stamped out in only one more place.

Could we afford to abandon our newly formed fire department when there remained tinder boxes in every corner of the globe which awaited only a spark to roar into an inferno of horror and death?

Much as the American people are basically opposed to keeping a large military force as a standing thing, they must be aware of the seriousness of the international situation even if Korea is discounted.

The Korean war is costing the United States thousands of lives and millions of dollars. It is a war of which most of the people have wearied rapidly. Now they want it to cease so they can return to a peaceful economy and peaceful living. But it will not be that simple even when the Korean conflict is settled and the United Nations forces hold the upper hand.

The Communists stand ready at every vital spot in the world to instigate trouble, incite revolt, or seize weaker nations by outright aggression. The only deterrent the Communists understand is military might which can oppose and shatter their own weapon of aggression. That deterrent the free world must keep in its hands until the Communist threat has been bottled up at every point.

But in the past, when the shooting stopped, the free world hastily tore down its barriers of defense, and scrapped its offensive military machine. In the past three decades, the same grave mistake has been made twice.

The same mistake must not be made a third time when the shooting stops in Korea.

A Fearful People In Uneasy Times

In retrospect, it's almost obvious that Iran would promise "moderation" in the nationalizing of her vast oil properties. It was either that, or allow Iran to become a bone of contention and lose more than they ever hoped to gain.

There were grounds for anxiety. Plenty of them. For one thing, extremists might have ignited a spark of violence against Europeans. Mob hysteria was to be feared; for that unreasoning spirit often results in actions that in calmer moments would have been scorned.

Published reports of Russian troops maneuvering along the borders provided more fuel for tension in an already nervous world. Many things could have happened, which didn't; but was the bad case of "jitters" wholly unwarranted?

Living as we do in an age of suspicion, arrest, and even war, it would take a relatively small incident to cause an eruption of vast proportions... something no one of us wants, but many feel is inevitable should the tensions persist.

Our natural fears have been magnified beyond all reasonable proportions. That feeling of security as absent, and a fearful people will start at shadows.

On occasion we strongly suspect that our fears have been played upon to gain certain ends, and that... whether right or wrong... is further condemnation of our times.

Confidence in America's might, and not sacrifice... but a sharing of the burden of that might, is one answer to the pitiful spirit that pervades the very atmosphere.

There can be no feeling of security until the spirit of trust and sharing is returned to the world. As a starter, we desperately need more of this attitude among Americans before we can look for it elsewhere.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—A revolutionary extension and strengthening of Congressional authority in the conduct of foreign affairs is slowly taking place at Washington as a result of past and pending investigations into the MacArthur dismissal. Far Eastern policy and America's future role in an atomic age.

The management of far-reaching, international problems which can plunge the nation into warfare without prior Congressional action, will no longer remain the secret and exclusive prerogative of the White House, the State Department, the Pentagon and the United Nations. The men on Capitol Hill have been shocked at some of the results of the historical hush-hush diplomacy.

FINAL—It would, of course, require a constitutional amendment to alter the basic relationship between Congress and the President in this field. For the Constitution vests the actual handling of foreign affairs in the Chief Executive, with the Secretary of State as his agent. Unlike other Cabinet members, he does not make an annual report of the legislative branch. He talks only to the man in the White House.

But Congress can show a firmer hand in the international realm than it has in the past, and it is doing so. It enjoys final say over the amount of money that may be spent overseas, and the use to which it may be put.

It can, as it has done within the last few weeks, force a right-about-face in major policy by publicizing the details and consequences of past actions in the Far East, the Middle East and Europe.

FORUM—Using the Senate and House floors, as well as committee hearings, as a forum for expressing American opinion, emotions and beliefs, it has forced foreign powers like Britain and France to modify their policies so that they will accord more nearly with that of the nation which pays the bills for their economic and military recovery.

In short, the Congress believes that, if the United States is to lead the anti-Communist world, thereby assuming new and dangerous responsibilities, it should have more voice in major decision. That has not always been the attitude at the White House or the State Department.

FACTORS—The legislators have not staged this intervention—"intrusion" may be a more precise word—solely out of hostility toward President Truman and Secretary Acheson, or out of doubt of their brand of statesmanship. More compelling factors have been the freprow and mobility of aggressive arms, resulting from development of atomic weapons and jet planes. Another is the presence of a brute animal—Russia—along international highways.

When wars were preceded by prolonged and gentlemanly discussions, and formal declarations of hostilities, the Congress could keep aware of the issues involved, and the Administration's plans. That was true as recently as during the prelude to World War II. Moreover, the U. S. did not have so many and such extended commitments that almost any aggression anywhere could drag us into a war.

Now, as the Korean affair demonstrates, this country can become a party to possible global war overnight, and on the say-so of the handful of individuals who met at Blair House last June 25. And, under these same circumstances, it can get muddled up in a conflict with hardly any worth-while allies on its side in the field or at the council table.

FORCED—For these and other good reasons, Congress has forced the Administration's diplomatic hand in several major instances, although it is not generally realized. It has forced fairly clearcut statements from State that the U. S. will not surrender Formosa, or agree to Red China's admission to the U. N. It has forced President Truman to accept a rider, which provides that no American aid shall go to nations shipping war materials to Mao Tse-tung. It has forced Washington, through General Omar Bradley and other spokesmen, to criticize Europe's lagging in the rearmament program.

It has stiffened Pentagon experts so that they dare to oppose the Truman-Acheson refusal to accept Spain as a member of the North Atlantic military alliance. It has kept the British from sending troops into Iran in the oil dispute, an act which might have precipitated another "policy action" or world-wide war. It has produced open criticism of European nations which oppose demand for furnishing more arms to Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia.

POKER—This Congressional determination to keep closer vigil and control over the handling of grave foreign questions is not a partisan movement. It is doubtful if any investigating group ever indulged in less political wrangling than the Russell Committee now X-raying the White House, State Department and Pentagon.

Among the principal cross-examiners have been Senators George of Georgia and Byrd of Virginia. Although no great admirers of President Truman, they have generally supported his foreign program. Another inquisitor has been Senator H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, a Republican but a leading member of the erstwhile Vandenberg, bipartisan group with respect to foreign policy.

In fact, the members of all committees having jurisdiction in this field are agreed that a new and more open deal is required in the game of international poker, with Congress sitting in before the diplomatic cards, in their opinion, have been dealt from the bottom of the deck in a contest where the stakes are national security.

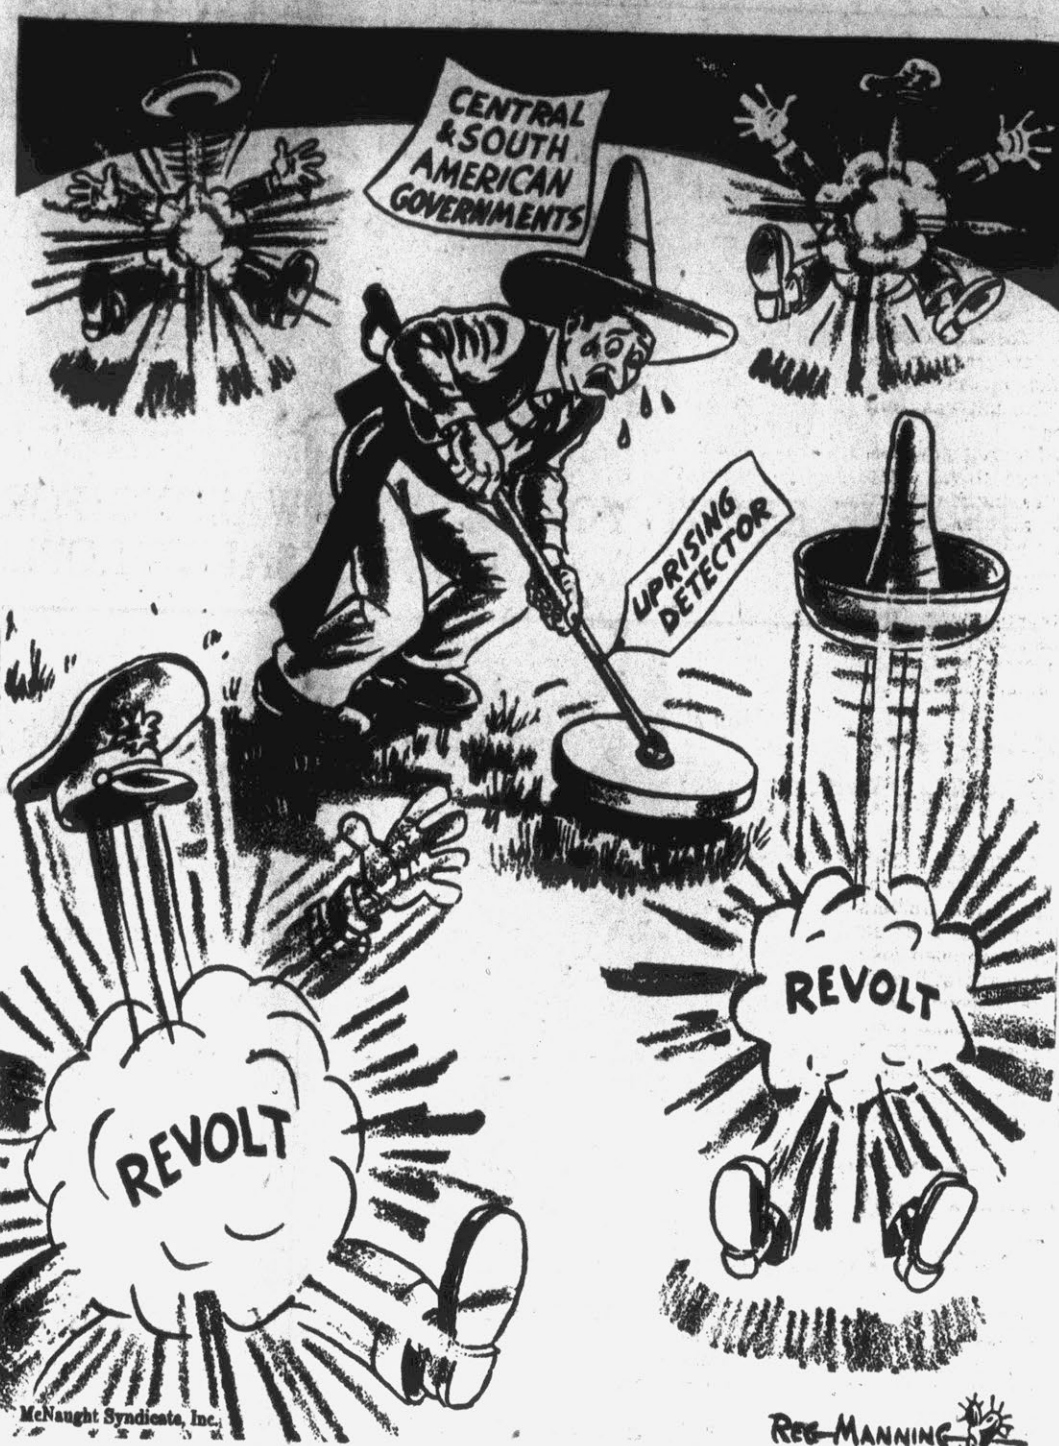

Selected Shorts

"Some Americans, stricken with fear, are willing to barter freedom for some small measure of safety and survival." David Lawrence, Mayor of Pittsburgh.

"One of the most potentially destructive illusions harbored by millions of Americans nowadays is that their national economy renews itself automatically. They've forgotten that private investments is what makes the system tick. You find this state of mind even to fight a full-gauged war, if necessary. What does that lack of private investment can be made up from the public Treasury."—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

OAKLAND, CALIF. VOICE: "There are billions of dollars that can be cut from the non-military budget. And they should be. Why should the American taxpayer tighten his belt when the Government continues its merry spending spree?"

Real "Grass Roots" Politics

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, Jr

The average American cannot resist reading advertising signs, no matter how corny they might be. As a medium of advertising, signs probably rate low on the list, but the fact remains that they are well read. The other day I saw a list of signs from various business houses that carry out the message they attempt to convey:

Sign in a picture framing shop: We accomplish miracles in framing. We can even make photograph of your mother-in-law look attractive.

In a grocery store: We recommend the No. 10 can. The bigger the size of the container, the less you pay for the tin.

In a men's clothing store: If you like to buy clothing, you'll get twice as much pleasure if you buy two suits instead of one. If you hate to buy clothing, why not get it over with and buy two suits instead of one?

In a general store: Special on scales. Why guess at your weight? The sooner you know the truth the sooner you can do something about it.

In a sign shop: Everyone reads our signs, including you.

In a flower shop: Never feel sorry for cut flowers. They were born to die so that sentiment might live.

In a skating rink: Don't laugh. It could happen to you!

In a cutoary shop: How can you expect a man to carve a reputation as a host without the right tools?

In a bakery shop: We knew you were coming. (Greenville's People's Bakery is one jump ahead of this list of expert signs. Several months ago they displayed a sign reading, "We knew you were coming, so we baked a cake.")

In a stationery store: Our new line of greeting cards will amaze you with your cleverness.

In a bus: Don't hesitate to move back in the bus. We're taking it along with us on this trip.

In a delicatessen: We dare you to browse among our shelf and counter displays.

In a hardware store: The skillful home handyman prefers well-designed tools. The clumsy one needs them.

In a Greenville, N. C. auto parts store: "Ring the bell before we greet you and win a free drink on the house." In this local store, there is a big bell in plain view, and the management produces the drink if you can pull the bell rope and produce a ring before one of the clerks gives you a cheerful "hello." So far, over a crate of drinks have been lost, but losses are on a decline.

AUTOMOBILES—Every once in awhile there arises a flurry of publicity about improper use of state-owned automobiles by state employees. It has been going on ever since motor vehicles first came into general use some forty years ago. State Administrations from the time of Governor Locke Craig have sought fair solution of the problem without much success. Equally bothersome to the casual observer, is the related matter of mileage payments for use of privately owned car when used on state business.

ONE-SIDED—Perhaps one reason solution has been so hard to find is because the question had been approached from one sided viewpoint. Much ado is made about state employees using state cars for transportation between home and place of work, with occasional stops enroute at the grocery store or laundry. Very little if any thought has been given to the matter of adequately compensating these same state employees for many hours of overtime work devoted to professional and business trips.

Current schedule sets working hours from 8:30 to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, with no work on Saturday. Counting time out for lunch, that represents a working week of forty hours. Most private industry pays overtime rates of one-and-a-half for excess hours. The state doesn't pay anything, yet hundreds of employees in the classifications entitling them to use of a car work many hours overtime.

GLARING—Admittedly there are glaring instances of state employees getting to work a few minutes late, and streets surrounding capitol square are cluttered by 5:30 with state workers leaving the jobs before quitting time. This condition is obvious to the casual observer and it means thousands of man hours lost during the year. Careful study of the situation raises the question of whether the aggregate man hours lost is more than the number gained by several hundred employees putting in from one to four hours overtime of traveling to and from special jobs away from the home office base.

EXAMPLE—Consider, for instance, a public utilities hearing set at Charlotte for ten o'clock in the morning and continuing until four that afternoon, which it is necessary for two or three members of the Raleigh staff to attend. They can leave here about two o'clock the day before, arrive in Charlotte by quitting time at 5:30, check in at a hotel, get on the job next morning at 8:30 and check over the agenda, spend another night in the hotel, leave next morning at 8:30 and report at the home office at noon. That means two full days lost from the office, two nights hotel bill for the state to pay. They don't do it that way. They leave Raleigh at six o'clock in the morning and arrive back by early bedtime. That means one day away from the office, no hotel bills, no expense account, and has saved the state from six to ten dollars in cash, plus a day's work. It also means the state employees have put in five to six hours overtime, which at industrial time-and-half rates would mean an extra day's pay. But they don't get the extra pay. Instead, they get cussed out for using state-owned cars for personal use, because the use comes outside regular working time.

ACTUAL—The foregoing is a hypothetical illustration, but your reporter's intimate knowledge of how state officials and employees work justifies the positive statement it can be substantiated by actual incidents, multiplied many times over for practically every department and institution supported by tax money collected from North Carolinians. A recent survey has been published as showing that State College folks are worst offenders in off-hour personal use of state owned cars. Again it is matter of personal knowledge to your reporter that agricultural extension and experiment station special is often show up on farms 200 miles from the college at nine o'clock in the morning and do not start home until well after normal quitting time. It seems hardly fair to call them "petty grafters," rather than to commend them for diligence in their work.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

DEATH TAKES A HOLIDAY (Henderson Daily Dispatch)

Seven convicted war criminals of Hitler's Nazi Germany went to their deaths on the gallows at Landsberg early Thursday. They had been condemned for the mass murder of more than two hundred thousand persons in Germany and East Europe during the war era. Their deaths brought to 282 the number hanged since World War II ended.

So far as the United States is concerned with German criminal acts, death now takes a holiday. For these were held the Nazi long list of those held responsible in varying degree for the Nazi scourge during the 1940's. They supervised the killing of scores of thousands of innocent civilians who had fallen into their clutches. Only fiends of the worst type of mental and moral depravity could have been guilty of the crimes they committed.

Execution of leaders of a vanquished nation is nothing new in the world. In ancient times the victors in war often tortured the captured enemy to death. But the practice had largely been abandoned in modern times until World War II came along.

As for the dastardly German leaders, they unquestionably deserved no better fate than that which they inflicted upon their own victims. If, however, his policy is to be revived or one of the aftermaths of war, it leads to the speculation as to what will happen after Korea, or if it would be applied after World War III, should there be such. What has happened in Germany in the past five or six years may have been intended as a warning to aggressors everywhere in the future. But warnings that are the sequence to major conflict do not always drive home as hoped and intended. There is no probability that executions in Hitler's Reich will be a deterrent against any one else.

Men who steel themselves for cruelties of the type carried out by the Nazis certainly need not be surprised if their vicious transgressions one day overtake them. In a very real sense, they made themselves liable and asked for it. Seven lives in expiation for two hundred thousand is an extreme unbalance of the scales. Always there is pity and sympathy toward those who pay with their lives under any circumstances, but in this particular instance compassion without stint or measure is required to start a tide of tears in the wake of a series of hangings. Death for these seven Nazis was in the form of an act of mercy by comparison with that which they inflicted upon the thousands of their own helpless and innocent victims.

When the nation ultimately becomes conscious of the importance of civil defense, there may be actively approaching a boom in many industries.

So far, the civil defense program has been something short of a ringing success. States and municipalities have made extensive plans, usually dependent upon Congress appropriating a large share of the cash to make them successful, and Congress has not acted. It hasn't even acted on government proposals to disperse essential government offices around Washington. In some localities, highly efficient civil defense corps have been organized, but in many places the attitude has been to let somebody else do it. Governor Thomas E. Dewey recently hinted that it may be necessary to remove some city officials who do not comply with the New York state law to prepare for civil defense.

There are many reasons for public apathy: the emotional desire for peace is stronger than the reasoned conclusion that civil defense is imperative; America went through World War II with very little use of the elaborate civil defense set-up, and many people are unwilling to take on added burdens of time and expense.

But unless there is a radically and completely unexpected change in international affairs, a day will come when the importance of civil defense is recognized.

When that day comes, a number of markets will become very active. Drugs, for instance. Civil defense authorities have been encouraging drug manufacturers to prepare home kits; eventually every family will be expected to have a minimum amount of medical supplies. Food, for another instance. Reserve supplies of canned and other protected foods are being recommended as a protection against an atomic breakdown of normal trade. Other instances include petrol supplies, hospital supplies, shelters, deterrents for removing radioactive dust, reserve lighting systems, stimulants, opiates and battery radios.

Many products in these categories are now being offered. In some sections, concrete family shelters are being manufactured. A Baltimore company is canning water for the Army and civil defense. A leading battery company is advertising a defense flashlight. A California firm has tooled up to produce 10,000 atomic aid kits a day. Pharmaceutical houses are offering kits; hospital supply houses are offering lines of emergency equipment.

But until the public becomes excited about the need for civil defense, sales of these specialties will continue moderate.

USE 23 CENTS DOLLARS. ECONOMISTS ADVISE

Dangers in cutting advertising and selling efforts during recessions are pointed up by J. K. Lesser and William J. Casey in a study for Business Reports, Inc.

"The best way to protect a company against a sharp decline in earnings may be to risk cheap dollars today to buy customer approval," the study states. By cheap dollars, the authors mean those earnings subject to the 77 per cent excess profits tax.

TRYING TO PARLEY FORTUNE ON "SPEC"

For the first time in history the country is about to learn whether it is possible to build a multi-million dollar business on a purely contingency basis.

Daniel Pinnow, a New York promoter, is finding out. His capital consists of a very few dollars and a challenge. His challenge is simple. Lend him help and the rewards will be great. If he doesn't make out, all you've lost is time and money.

So far, he's got a lawyer to agree to invest $25,000 in time and labor; a printer to risk some printing; a town, Metropolis, Ill., to stake him to a site, for a plastics factory; an architect to gamble time and skill to design a plant, and a publicity man to risk his skills.

He has advertised for office space on a contingency basis; he'll pay rent only if the project succeeds. He has 28 offers so far. Turned them all down. Not enough class.

Once he gets an office, he and his lawyers plan to float a stock offering, again on a contingency basis. Unless $1,500,000 is subscribed, the investors get their money back. Meanwhile, Pinnow keeps going working two days a week as a musician.

If he fails, a thousand people will say, "I told you so." If he succeeds, he'll have proved the impossible is possible. Curiously enough, government officials and Wall Streeters are encouraging Pinnow, without hope of personal gain, unless seeing the impossible done is personal.

Vacation time, the great annual open season on the eligible male, is upon us.

As most of the nation's married couples are battling to a decision between mother's choice of a resort hotel and father's pitch for a cabin near a trout stream, the nation's spinsters are preparing for the big hunt.

Husband-hunting, of course, is a year-round avocation. But that precious two-or three-weeks with pay gives a girl a short period in which to really concentrate on the project.

Much has been written and spoken on the arts and techniques to be used in hooking, playing and landing the Big Catch. The problem, as I see it, is not so much how to fish as where.

After all, the best equipment in the world isn't going to be of much use if there aren't any lions in the forest or tuna in the deep.

Once upon a time someone maybe it was someone connected with the travel business—successfully promulgated the story that eager husband-hunters would be practically certain to find some fair game aboard cruise ships. The longer the cruise, the better the odds. Maybe it was true once, but the shipping lanes, apparently, have been over-fished. An "unsophisticated," unmarried young man of my acquaintance recently invested some savings in a three weeks cruise with the sole idea of getting some much-needed rest and a change. He returned home a haggard wreck, occasioned, he confessed, by the cruise-ship passengers.

They were 99 per cent unattached females, he said, with horror in his eyes at the memory, and he spent almost all of his shipboard time hiding from them.

"They hunted in packs," he said. "The only time I felt safe was behind the locked door of my state room."

I know several young women who, independently, decided to invest in fancy wardrobes and expensive hotel accommodations at fashionable resorts in the mountains or at the seashore in the hope of setting some effective marital traps. To a woman they have returned to their jobs, nut-brown, extremely well rested and completely disconsolate.

"A complete waste of time and money," one of them told me. "There wasn't a single attractive, eligible man around except the life-guard and they were sitting on high chairs. Girls flocked around the chairs as though it were a bargain counter and the guys were afraid to come down even to save someone from drowning."

It used to be that a winter vacation at a skiing resort frequently brought romantic results. I know one lass who spent considerable funds buying attractive ski and—particularly—after-ski costumes and set off for the ski-town country.

"Horrible," she reported. "There were men, all right, gorgeous ones. But they spent the daylight hours skiing, then they ate their dinners in a tight little group and retired to gather strength to try to break their necks the following day. I'll never try that again. All I got out of it was a sprained ankle."

The question arises. Where do eligible bachelors go on their vacations? Are secret male sanctuaries set up to which they fly to safety from women? It may well be one of the great natural mysteries of our time, like the nesting grounds of the whooping crane.

I can but give one piece of advice to the Dianas of the husband chase: Pick your vacation ground somewhere close to a military installation. We know that a number of eligible young men are concentrated in these areas. I understand, however, the space is scarce in these places and the quarry is pretty busy at mandatory chores. It's a real chancy business.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Swimming and water safety should be a part of every child's basic physical education, Carrell L. Bryant, national director of the American Red Cross' Water Safety program, says.

Mr. Bryant says the finest centers for training in swimming and water safety are those set up by Red Cross chapters over the country. About 90 per cent of the instructors, representing 10,000,000 youngsters who go to organized camps are trained at these centers, he says.

In order to provide trained aquatic leaders for schools, camps, recreation and park departments and youth organizations, the Red Cross this summer will conduct 85 aquatic and small craft schools at key points throughout the country. Mr. Bryant says instructors in water safety and first aid will be trained at the schools.

Men and women over 18 are eligible for enrollment. They must be good swimmers, in sound physical condition and agree to instruct others after they complete the course. About 3,800 are expected to enroll through their local Red Cross chapters.

"One of these will be my own daughter, Betsy, just turned 18," Mr. Bryant confided. "My wife was an instructor. Betsy's been wanting to go to aquatic school since she was six, but the rules have to be obeyed."

In the Red Cross schools students will receive intensive 10-day instruction training in life-saving, swimming, diving, small craft operation and first aid. In turn these instructors will conduct classes in camps, schools, resorts, and their own communities.

In four of the schools, training will be devoted exclusively to the handling of canoes, rowboats and small sailing vessels. During the past year 22,000 Red Cross water safety instructors were authorized and more than 728,000 certificates were issued to persons completing swimming and life-saving courses.

When the Red Cross aquatic program was first started, it was devoted primarily to the teaching of life-saving techniques. Now most instruction is given to the teaching of swimming and personal safety. Mr. Bryant says 100,000,000 Americans seek recreation in and on the water, more than those who engage in all other outdoor sports activities put together.

Army Reports Unit Accused Of Cowardice Fought To The Death

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The Army revealed today that the 31st regiment of the Seventh Division, accused of cowardice by a Navy chaplain, lost more than 90 per cent of its officers in a three-day battle in Korea last November.

The disclosure was made after a letter written by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, was made public in which the Far Eastern commander charged that Lt. Omdr. Otto E. Sporrer "slandered the reputation of many brave and honorable soldiers."

Ridgway, in a letter to Army Secretary Frank Pace Jr. said that action by the Defense Department "is imperatively in order." However, Ridgway also praised Sporrer's personal conduct, attention to duty and bravery.

A summary of an investigation of Sporrer's charges accompanied Ridgway's letter. It listed 18 allegations by the chaplain and sharply denounced all of them.

Referring to a Chinese Communist attack on the 31st in the Chosin Reservoir area on Nov. 28, Sporrer said that "in the face of the attack which was not overwhelming by any means, this unit was completely routed."

The Army said the facts showed that the 31st regimental combat team had about 2,800 men, and beat off repeated thrusts by more than 20,000 Reds between Nov. 28 and Dec. 1, before being overwhelmed by sheer force of numbers.

"Only 10 officers out of over 100 were available for duty by Dec. 1," the report said. "The remainder had been killed in action or were missing in action."

It said that only 385 of the approximately 1,600 survivors of the three-day engagement were able to take part in the United Nations withdrawal toward the south. The Reds got so close to the Americans that the Reds burned some of the wounded in trucks, the report said.

"The allegation that officers fled to the rear in jeeps is fantastic and impossible," the Army said. "The unit was completely surrounded."

Sporrer, now assigned to the San Diego Naval Hospital, said he is "leaving it up to my many friends in all branches of military service to justify any claims I have advanced."

"For the sake of peace and any repercussions from either the Roman Catholic church or the Navy," Sporrer said, "I have promised to remain quiet."

Same Language, With Variations

ADDIS ABABA — (AP) — English is Ethiopia's second language and is being taught in all the country's schools, but foreign teachers of English here are not uniform in their use of the English language. Besides, some schools use English textbooks from England and others textbooks from America.

There are school teachers from England, the United States, Canada and India. Britishers are inclined to teach and use the King's English. Americans, of course, teach and use American speech and usage. The Canadians, while the speech is closer to American than British, tend to use British spelling and usage. The Indians, with rare exceptions, have an unmistakable foreign accent. Their spelling and usage are wholly British.

One of the largest schools here was for many years staffed by Swedes, and many of the students speak English with a Swedish accent.

LAS VEGAS, N. M. — (AP) — Pilot Bill Cutter of Santa Fe, N.M. had the orders from his passenger: "Take me to Las Vegas." About halfway here, Cutter got a hunch and asked: "Which Las Vegas?"

"Las Vegas, Nevada," was the answer.

Making a quick turn from east to west, Cutter completed the trip. There actually are three, not just two, places named Las Vegas. Besides Las Vegas, Nev. — famed for its wide-open gambling, there's the city of Las Vegas, N. M., and the town of Las Vegas, N. M., facing one another across the Galiinas river. Both the town and city have complete sets of city officers.

Detroit To Push Trees In City

DETROIT — (UP) — Detroit will have more shade trees than any other city in the nation if the Parks and Recreation Department can clear away some of the municipal red tape.

Department superintendent J. J. Considine says any citizen can get a free permit for planting trees, plus some practical information on how to care for them if he desires.

Previously, it had been difficult for homeowners to plant trees or shrubs in their yards because of the city's requirement that they obtain a "tree license."

Roe Wins Ninth Game For Dodgers

Ex-Cotton Chopper From Arkansas Mows Down Batters As Unconcerned As When He Was Hoing Cotton In Ashflat

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Staff Writer

It was nine in a row for Preacher Roe today as the Brooklyn Dodgers hood a merry peonant row behind the left-handed ex-cotton chopper from Ashflat, Ark.

Folks have almost forgotten that Branch Rickey once had to hide behind elevated graders and would not dare go sun-bathing at Coney Island because he feared the wrath of Brooklyn fans for bringing Roe to Flatbush in the first place.

That was when Rickey, then boss of the Dodgers, traded Dixie Walker, "the people's cherce", and pitchers Hal Gregg and Vic Lombardi to Pittsburgh for Roe and Billy Cox. Rickey is in Pittsburgh now, but Walker, Gregg, and Lombardi still aren't, while Roe as of now is the best pitcher in the majors and Cox is perhaps the best third baseman.

Roe, just as unconcerned while mowing down batters for Flatbush as when he was hoing cotton in Ashflat, beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 2.

Roe gave up 11 hits but the pressure was off in a hurry when Jackie Robinson hit a two-run first-inning homer and Gil Hodges made it 3 to 0 in the fourth with his 19th homer of the year. Hodges now is two blasts behind Babe Ruth's 60-homer pace of 1927.

The White Sox, who have yet to lose a game in the East this year, were 3-1-3 games ahead of the Yankees in the American League by defeating the Senators for the eighth straight time, 3 to 0, as the seventh place Browns upset New York, 3 to 1. Cleveland beat Philadelphia 8 to 5, while Detroit topped Boston, 7 to 3. In other National League games, the Giants took over second place, six games behind Brooklyn, by winning, 6 to 3, from Cincinnati in 10 innings. Boston battered Pittsburgh, 13 to 3, and the Phillies edged the Cubs, 6 to 5.

Monte Irvin's three-run 10th-inning homer made Allen Guttel's five innings of scoreless seven-strikeout relief work pay off at Cincinnati. Bob Scheffing accounted for all of Cincy's runs with an earlier three-run homer.

The Braves kept on getting even with Cliff Chambers for pitching a no-hitter against them, pounding out 15 hits as they beat him for the second time since that humiliation on May 6. Sid Gordon and pitcher John Sain, who won his fourth game, hit Boston homers.

The Phillies rebounded from a 4-0 deficit to top the Cubs as Jim Konstanty also rebounded from recent travail to pitch one-hit scoreless relief ball for five innings and save a victory for Milo Candini. The Cubs kayoed starter Russ Meyer with four runs including a homer by Dee Fondy, but the Phils, making the most of six hits, three errors by Chicago, two costly walks and a wild pitch by Dutch Hiller, came out on top. Dick Sisler's two-run single was a key blow.

L. U. Kretlow pitched his second four-hitter in a week against Washington, shutting them out this time. Washington is the only major league club he has beaten since 1949.

Duane Pilletts, an ex-Yankee, pitched one of his best games since leaving them, giving up only four hits and two walks as the Browns cashed in on 10 walks and just five hits off lesser-light New York hurlers.

Bob Feller, given a 5 to 0 lead, coasted to his ninth victory against one loss at Philadelphia. Al Rosen hit a three-run homer for most of Feller's cushion, but he coasted too long and had to have relief from Lou Brissie and Mike Garcia.

Detroit touched off a five-run first inning rally for little Ted Gray when Dom DiMaggio made a rare throwing error to start it off. Gray went on to win his second game against six defeats, striking out eight for the best showing of his career in Fenway Park.

Kinston Eagles Continue At Top In Coastal Loop

Kinston's Eagles continued upon their merry way atop the Coastal Plain League last night by edging their closest competitor, New Bern's Bears, by the score of 5-4, to take the fifth win in row for Manager Wes Livengood.

The Eagles scored a single run in ninth with out the aid of a base hit. After two men were retired, New Bern Pitcher Larry Dempsey walked Roedel and hit Johnny Kovalchick, former Greenville player, with a pitched ball. New Bern High School star Bunky Stewart relieved Dempsey and promptly loaded the bases by walking Steve Backo. Roedel raced across the plate with the winning tally when Stewart uncorked a wild pitch.

Bob Slaybaugh retained the third spot for his Goldsboro team-mates by throwing a four hitter at the Rocky Mount Leafs, who are now resting deep in the cellar position, to win 7-0. Slaybaugh recorded eight strike-outs and three walks while chalking up his seventh win and his fourth shut-out of the season. He has lost three.

In the other game of last night's three game slate, Roanoke Rapid's Jays turned back the Wilson Tobs, 7-6. The Jays took a 4-1 lead early in the game, but saw it vanish as Wilson scored three runs in the top of the ninth to tie the score at 6-6.

John Garrison doubled with one out to start the winning rally. Bob Thomas was walked intentionally by Manager Joe Antolic, and Howard Hobgood fled to center. Franklin then came through with the game winning single in to left field.

Dodgers' Duke . . . . .

Duke Snider had been on the sidelines for several days because of a strained muscle but the Dodger centerfielder insisted that he was ready to play when the Brooklyn club entertained the Boston Braves on a recent Saturday afternoon. The reason—General and Mrs. MacArthur had brought along their young son, Arthur, to Ebbets Field to see the ball game. And the Duke put on quite a show. He belted a pair of booming home runs to boost his total for the season to eleven.

Negro Wins Four Year Scholarship

For all his penchant for striking out, Snider is a great favorite with the Flatbush faithful. To their way of thinking, it is only a matter of time before their Duke takes over the batting title from Stan Musial and the home run championship from Ralph Kiner. The amount of time this will take, depends entirely on just how long it will be before Snider realizes his own potentialities.

Snider has been quite some time growing up with the Dodgers. One of those ball players who has everything—speed, hitting ability, and a fine arm—the Duke came along slowly because he was a moody athlete. Unless Snider was slamming the ball over the fence he would become dejected. And when he struck out, he was really down on himself. Slowly but surely, Snider has been picking up the confidence that he has needed and is coming into his own. This could be his year.

The Jaycees won their fourth consecutive victory yesterday as they downed the luckless Moose, 9-5. The winners garnered but two hits off losing pitcher Roy Martin and his reliever, B. Allen.

Nine runs came across in the first inning with the aid of eight base-on-balls and one base hit. A total of 15 men paraded to bat for the J. C.'s.

In their losing cause, the Moose collected ten hits off J. E. Arnold and J. W. Hudson. Allen reached them for three singles in four times at bat. Sermons had two safeties. Morton collected the only extra base hit of the contest, a double, in the fourth.

The loss was the fifth against one victory for the Moose.

Rivals Of Penn Cancel Schedules

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Pennsylvania, long a power in eastern football circles, today faces the possibility of a curtailed 1951 gridiron schedule.

Four of its traditional rivals—Cornell, Princeton, Columbia and Dartmouth—informed Pennsylvania's athletic officials yesterday they would cancel their scheduled games at Franklin Field if Penn insists on defying the National Collegiate Athletic Association's television directive.

Penn started off all the furore last week by announcing it would televise its eight home games. The action was in violation of an NCAA plan to restrict televising of college football games in an experiment to determine what effect TV has on attendance.

The Philadelphia school, taking the stand the NCAA program was in violation of anti-trust laws, suggested the matter be tossed into the lap of the Department of Justice for final decision.

But Dr. Hugh C. Willett, President of the NCAA, said "no" in a 150-word telegram sent to the University of Pennsylvania yesterday.

Dr. Willett, also athletic director at the University of Southern California, pointed out counsel for the NCAA had been in touch with the Attorney General's office as to the legality of the program.

Sandlot Sports Feel Inflation

CHICAGO (UP)—Inflation is hitting hard at sandlot sports, according to experts.

Manufacturers who attended the National Sporting Goods Association's annual meeting and show said that the soaring costs of labor and raw materials eventually might reach the point where the average youngster can't afford a baseball or catcher's mitt.

Fred J. Bowman, president of Wilson Sporting Goods Co., said even high school athletes are feeling the pinch since many are required to furnish their own equipment.

Tennis Old-Timer Along With Champ

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bill Tilden, playing tennis younger than his 58 years, today was at the quarterfinals in the International Professional Tennis Tourney along with the champ, Pancho Segura; Vini Rurac, the Romanian title holder, and Elwood Cooke of New York.

The one-time net king won his second straight victory last night, dumping Wayne Sabn of Washington, D. C., 7-5, 6-3.

Segura trimmed George Rickey of Houston, 6-3, 6-3, and Cooke eliminated George Littleton-Roger of Ireland, 6-1, 6-1.

Postmen Blank Blackwood's As Jaycees Swamped

Post Office retained the lead in Greenville softball play yesterday with an 8-0 win over Blackwood's. Otto Alford went route of the six inning game and allowed but two hits.

Two runs in the first were the determining factor of the contest. Clark walked and was sent to third on a single by Bullock. Alford walked to fill the sacks. A fly-out by Heath, walk by Dudley, and a fielder's choice on Hobgood pushed the two scores across.

Heath and Heldenreich led the Post Office hitting with two singles in four times at bat.

Chattens and Smith collected the Blackwood's singles.

Home Builders Supply took the hapless Jaycees by a lopsided margin of 30-5. The winners scored six in the first, 15 in the second, and six in the third. They finished their scoring with three in the fourth.

PLENTY DEGREES COOLER INSIDE

THESE folks are enjoying something that's being pioneered by Buick. It's freedom from the blinding glare of bright summer sunlight. It's freedom from hot laps—caused by the sun's rays beating down through the broad expanse of windshield. These freedoms trace to a new feature you may have noticed in '51 Buicks—a new kind of glass† with a cool, soft, blue-green tint, in every glass area of the car, front, side and back. Buick engineers tell us that this "Buick first" reduces glare 18% over conventional glass—cuts sun heat as much as 45%—and Buick engineers are very conservative fellows.

This glare-and-heat-reducing Easy-eye glass is factory-installed at moderate extra charge. It gives you a built-in transparent "sun visor" right in the windshield—and it also dulls the dazzle of oncoming headlights at night. As we've said, this is something Buick owners were the first to enjoy. It takes its place with such exclusives as the valve-in-head Fireball Engine—coil springs on all four wheels—the firm power linkage of torque-tube drive—and the magic of Dynaflo.* As we've also said—rather modestly—"Smart buy's Buick."

Commission Appoints Negro Recreation Head

Edward Todd, a 26-year-old Negro has been employed by the Recreation Commission to supervise recreation among the Negro youth of the city and will begin his duties June 25.

Announcement of Todd's appointment was made by Warren Carroll, director of the department, at a meeting of the Colored Civic League last night.

Todd is a native Pennsylvanian and is a graduate of Shaw University in Raleigh. Since leaving college a year ago he has worked for the Recreation Department in Goldsboro as a volunteer while teaching in a county school. He did his practice recreation work under the auspices of the Raleigh Recreation Department while working toward his college degree.

In addition to his recreation training, he has been active in Boy Scout work in Goldsboro. He will begin his work at a salary of $2,200 a year.

Carroll and Commission Chairman

Heber Tripp spoke to the league last night pertaining to the general recreation program in Greenville for both races. Carroll outlined a five-point program which includes: recreation for both adults and the youth, the establishment of a year-round play ground, leisure time recreation especially for teen agers, coordinated efforts for a flexible program, and the appointment of Todd.

Tripp told the group that no definite date has been set for the swimming pool opening but every effort is being made to add facilities for Negro swimming.

A committee was appointed to appear before the board of aldermen for the purpose of clarifying the board's attitude toward a Negro pool. Previously the league had written a letter to the commission relative to a pool.

A Pan-Hellenic council was organized for the purpose of getting a group of representatives from the city and to serve as an auxiliary to the league.

Pres. Truman Pleads For Greater Safety On Roads

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman pleaded today for great safety on the nation's highways, warning that an "accident does just as much damage as a deliberate act of sabotage by hostile agents."

Mr. Truman, speaking at the opening session of the 1951 highway safety conference, said that "highway accidents strike directly at our national strength."

He deplored the "sheer economic waste" and "continuing slaughter" caused by the thousands of accidents every year.

Mr. Truman encouraged long-range planning against the day when defense needs will not interfere with nationwide highway improvement.

The president cited statistics to show that sometime this year the number of U.S. traffic deaths since 1900 will pass the 1,000,000 mark. "Nearly as many Americans have been killed in automobile accidents as have been killed in all the wars of our history," he said.

The conference was told that the nation appeared to be losing its battle of safety on the highways.

The trend started in 1950, when each succeeding month showed a marked rise in deaths over the corresponding period of 1949. The trend has continued during the first six months of this year, highway officials reported.

The committee on engineering noted that America's 3,000,000 miles of streets and highways are jammed with a 50 per cent increase in the number of cars and trucks over 10 years ago, and reported that "annual travel has shot up to an estimated 456,000,000 miles."

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP)—Ruhr industrialists claim the Allies are forcing them to export so much coal they have to buy back their own fuel—at almost three times the original price—to run their plants.

The Ruhr chiefs complain this is wasting millions of dollars a year and much of it comes out of the pockets of the American taxpayer. American officials privately admit the Germans have a point.

Here's how the Germans describe their plight:

Every three months 6,200,000 tons of Ruhr coal must be shipped to other European countries at a fixed price of 48 marks ($10.38) a ton.

This is compulsory. The six-nation Ruhr authority, of which the United States is a member, tells the Germans how much coal they must export, where it shall go and how much they can charge for it. Manshebe don't have enough left, so they buy foreign coal at 120 marks ($28.57) a ton. The Ruhr chiefs claim that some of this "foreign coal" is actually German coal resold.

Recently the Ruhr had to import some 700,000 tons of coal from the United States. The Germans put up dollars earned by their exports to pay for this at $20 a ton.

The United States is footing much of the bill for West Germany's economic recovery. Gift dollars help cover Germany's trade deficit, since the Germans are not earning enough by their exports to pay for all their essential imports.

Opera Ticket On Installment Plan

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Now it's opera tickets on the installment plan. Arturo di Filippi, director of the Miami Opera Guild, has come up with what he calls the "accumulative membership plan of the Opera Guild of Greater Miami."

Under the plan, those who've found it difficult to pay out $12.50 for two pairs of opera tickets in mid-season may pay $2 monthly.

"The main reason opera is not so popular as it should be in this country is because of the cost," di Filippi says. "With my plan, everyone can go to the opera."

Ways And Means Committee Drive Toward Tax Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee drove toward its final decisions today on a bill to increase taxes by $7,500,000,000 a year.

Proposed increases in the excise taxes on gasoline, automobiles and some household appliances remained to be ratified, along with a proposal to broaden the base for the excess profits tax on corporations. All have been approved in previous tentative votes.

Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) told reporters he is hopeful the committee can complete its work today. The bill still must pass the House and Senate.

A proposed new ten per cent tax on gambling and several hundred million dollars in additional excise taxes were clinched into the committee bill yesterday.

Road Terms And Fine For Pair In Fish Dynamiting

In Pitt County Recorder's Court yesterday, Judge Dink James found two Lenoir county men guilty of dynamiting fish in Contentines Creek, a mile and a half this side of Grifton.

He fined Richard Garris and Howard Wiley of the Edwards River community of Lenoir county $100 and costs each and sentenced each to 30 days on the roads.

The state law governing conservation of game and fish makes the fine of $100 and 30 days on the roads mandatory as a minimum punishment for dynamiting fish in state waters.

Lenoir County Game Warden D. B. (Shorty) Bell and Pitt County Game Warden J. O. Tell testified against the defendants. They said investigation revealed that the men had dynamited fish in the creek on Sunday, June 2, and that next day dead fish were still floating on the water.

Criminal proceedings were instituted against Garris and Wiley in a magistrate's court, but the cases were transferred to Pitt County Recorder's Court.

Other cases disposed of included Johnnie Wooten, Negro, non-support, six months on the roads, sentence suspended on condition that he pay $5 a week for support of his child and that he pay $18 to Dr. Joseph Smith's Clinic before September 1.

The case of Zeno M. Stocks, abandonment and non-support, was continued. Leroy Whitehurst, Negro, same charge, paid up to date.

L. B. Crandell, Negro of the Pacolus community, threatening his family, was given six months on the roads, sentence suspended on condition that his shotgun be confiscated and sold and that he not own any weapon. This case was disposed of at the last session of court.

The case against John Hazell, charged with forcible trespass and assault, judgment was continued on payment of court costs.

Harman Langley, drunk and disorderly, 60 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of court costs and that Langley not appear in public for a year under the influence of whiskey.

Moses Jones, Negro, possession of whiskey for purpose of sale, three months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted.

Marvin Farmer, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey, four months on the roads.

Dairy Sanitation Report Released By Pitt Offices

The sanitation office of the Pitt county Health Department released a final report yesterday on the grades given to milk producers and distributing plants.

Distributing plants which received a Grade A rating were Carolina Dairies in Greenville, Gardner's Dairies and Southern Dairies in Wilson.

Dairies owned by the following persons received a Grade A rating: B. W. Baker, A. R. Barnhill, J. T. Clark, H. F. Congleton, Norman Coward, Dal Cox, T. H. Fleming, C. A. Forbes, W. H. Gurganus, H. B. Randolph, and J. W. Rawlin.

Other dairies classed as Grade A were: Greenhill Dairy, Harvey's Dairy, Little's Dairy, Pecan Grove, Rodman's Dairy, Spain and Coggins Dairy, Stedman's Dairy, and Tyson's Dairy.

W. M. Pate, senior sanitation officer said Pitt county is extremely fortunate in having an adequate supply of Grade A pasteurized milk available and no retail raw milk is sold in the county under the milk code.

The dairies were graded by sanitation officers in compliance with the U. S. Public Health Code. The grades given by health officers appear on the cap of each bottle or carton or on placards posted in all places where milk is sold.

Memphis Limits 'Needless Noise'

NEW YORK (UP)—Memphis, Tenn., has earned a reputation as the nation's quietest city.

The reason was given in a report to the National Noise Abatement Council by Claude A. Armour, commissioner of fire and police.

In Memphis, police arrest noise makers.

"Each complaint is investigated promptly and arrests are made where warranted," Armour reported. "A car driver who blows his horn unnecessarily is fined $3.

"The people of Memphis, who have learned to appreciate the benefits of noise abatement and are accustomed to quiet, give full support by prompt complaint to the police department of any unnecessary horn blowing, loud radios, loud juke boxes and similar nuisances."

The man who uses his horn instead of the doorbell when picking up passengers is out of luck.

"In such cases, officers are detailed to be on the lookout for this particular offender and an arrest for violation of the anti-noise ordinance usually results," Armour said. "In most cases, one arrest is sufficient.

"Where radios are being played too loudly, or where music from other sources becomes disturbing to the neighborhood, investigations are made and the instruments are ordered removed, or the owners severely warned to comply with the ordinance against unnecessary noise.

"All other sources of needless noise are investigated by the police and each case handled according to its merits."

Finding Fault In East German Leather Output

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany is complaining sharply about the cracks in its leather industry.

The Soviet zone is especially strapped for good shoes. The Communist form of "self criticism" has given the East Germans the courage to flood the controlled press with daily beefs about the quality of leather, once Germany's pride. (West German leather is first class.)

The official Red Army newspaper "Taegliche Rundschau" acknowledged the mounting complaints by saying editorially: "The quality has not been improved but on the contrary has deteriorated."

This is a pretty serious charge to level at the "Five-Year Plan."

Alleged Forger Will Be Tried Here June 22

Wayne Canady, 16-year-old Fayetteville youth, who was recently convicted in a Fayetteville court of forgery and issuing worthless checks and sent to prison, will be tried in Police Court in Greenville, June 22.

Canady, who is over six feet tall and weighs more than 190 pounds, is wanted here on eight charges of forgery and issuing worthless checks. Police said he signed the name of his father, G.G. Canady of Fayetteville, a deaf mute, to checks he passed in Greenville.

He was arrested here several weeks ago on the charge of forgery and passing a worthless check at Globe Hardware Store. Van C. Fleming, Jr., one of the owners, said Canady bought several dollars' worth of merchandise and proffered a $20 check on the First Citizens Bank and Trust Company of Fayetteville. He was given $14 in change and said he would call for his purchases later. The store manager became suspicious and phoned the bank at Fayetteville. The check was no good, he learned. Fleming notified police and they arrested him a few minutes later in a poolroom near Five Points. David L. Morrill of Greenville signed Canady's bond for $300 and he was released.

Kinston, Morehead City and New Bern authorities have warrants charging the Fayetteville youth with flashing bad checks in those towns.

Shattered Remains Of Car In Yesterday's Accident

The ripped remains of the 1941 Chevrolet (above gives mute testimony to the force of the impact which claimed the lives of two Bethel men on the Robersonville-Williamston highway yesterday afternoon. Highway Patrolman B. W. Parker quoted an eye-witness to the wreck as saying the automobile was traveling at a very high rate of speed when it collided with a trailer truck. The driver of the truck was injured slightly.—(Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee.)

More Govm't Money Spent For Farm Practices In Pitt Than Ever Before

A statistical report compiled by the county committee of the Production and Marketing Administration shows that more Federal money was spent on farmers of the county in 1950 than in any year previous. ### Baby Airlift To Berlin Talked To Meet Threat

BERLIN—(UP)—Allied authorities may start a "baby" airlift to Berlin to smash a new Russian economic blockade, informal sources said today. Communist authorities started the blockade by restricting shipment of Berlin-made goods to Western Germany. The United States, Great Britain and France charged in a note to the Russians yesterday that the restrictions violated the agreement by which the historic starvation blockade of Berlin was ended two years ago. It was said today that the Allies were considering a "baby" airlift to defeat the new blockade and retaliatory action to make the Russians sorry they started it.

Negotiations For Britain And Iran In Sight Today

Tehran and Iran may begin negotiations today on the seething oil nationalization issue, which many fear could boil over into an East-West shooting war. Meanwhile, however, directors named by Iran to run the giant British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company had ordered AIOC employees to continue their work as before. The Iranian board put an show of issuing orders to the company—but the AIOC, in which the British Government owns more than half the stock, apparently remained in actual command of operations. AIOC Manager A. E. C. Drake made that clear in a statement yesterday, saying the company "cannot accept that there be any interference in management of the company's affairs in Iran."

Blackouts Cramp Singapore Style

SINGAPORE—(AP)—Just about every night in Singapore, there are electric power blackouts—but nobody gets any advance warning. The municipal electrical engineer announced he couldn't tell people what areas were going to be affected "for security reasons." In other words, Communist terrorists might step up their activities if they knew in advance what sections of Singapore were going to be without lighting at any specified time.

DP's Find Home In North Carolina

RALEIGH—(UP)—Some 813 displaced persons have found homes in North Carolina, Gov. Kerr Scott's office announced today. A report submitted to the Governor by Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine, chairman of the North Carolina Displaced Persons Commission, said most of the former D.P.'s were making satisfactory adjustments and "will prove an asset to North Carolina."

Single License Plate Next Year

RALEIGH—(UP)—Tar Heel motorists will get only one license plate in 1952, the State Motor Vehicles Department said today. Miss Foy Ingram, director of registration, said the state was dropping its front plate issue as a conservation measure because of steel shortages. Work has begun on the 1952 plates at Central Prison. They will have white letters on a red background, reverse of this year's coloring.

Publisher Named To ECA Position

ELIZABETH CITY—(UP)—Edwin Moss Williams, publisher of the Elizabeth City Daily Advance, left yesterday for Washington to become a consultant to the Economic Cooperation Administration's information office. Williams' appointment was announced earlier this week. The former United Press vice president will help manage ECA's widespread information activities in 24 countries in Europe and southeast Asia.

A weak, run-down condition can make life a mighty drab for folks who feel that way. Imagine not having a good appetite. Loss of weight and energy oftentimes accompany this condition. When Mrs. Ardena Longaker, a minister's wife, who lives at Rt. 5, Meadowbrook Rd., North Kansas City, Mo., began feeling that way she began taking HADACOL for she had heard how it was helping people with weak, run-down conditions and poor appetite, when due to a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. Now, Mrs. Longaker says she feels good and is recommending HADACOL to her friends.

Mrs. Longaker

Here is what she says: "I am a minister's wife and am 39 years old. I was run-down, lost weight, was listless, and had no appetite at all. I'm on my fifth bottle now and am amazed at the results. # Corpse on the Town

By JOHN ROEBURT

Chapter 12
They hurried along sidewalks as their coats. There was no wind, and clouds of steam hung in the atmosphere. The sense of desolation was oppressive in this region where houses were spaced acres apart.

The low buzz of an automobile behind them grew louder. Jigger looked over his shoulder hopefully, his thumb up in a hitchhiker signal.

The car slowed its speed about fifty yards behind them, swung in to flank the footpath, then geared its speed to the walker's gait, stalking them. It was a town car with a high square tonneau. It had the look of a bear.

The license plate was a simple M. H.

Red swore, "Now what!" Jigger quickened his stride. "Keep walking," he ordered. They moved ahead in a rush, bumping each other. The town car held its distance.

"No good," Red gasped. "Stitch in my side."

Jigger stopped to let Red recover. The vehicle stopped too, waiting.

Jigger eyed the town car. What could be its result?

In the next minute, Jigger knew. A convertible raced toward them from the direction of town. Its open, and a man squeezed free of the car.

Rumely—Police Chief Ben Rumely.

Hunter alighted, and Jigger scrutinized him, seeking a key to the sudden onset of climax. But Hunter's face was composed and unrevealing.

Rumely and Hunter went to each other, as if directed by a secret set of signals. They leaned closely and there was a mumble of undertones. Soon, Hunter came up to Jigger.

"You entered my house under sentry your motives; told me a pack of untruths."

"Did I?" Jigger said calmly.

Junior said, "Turnly, identify this man."

Light riding a murdered woman around New York in a trunk. His name is Jigger Moran."

Jigger looked at Rumely significantly. "You—didn't hurry back to Lewiston that day?"

Just the look of an amused cat; Rumely said nothing.

Hunter repeated, "Jigger Moran," with his stare at him, his own thoughts pushing. He had the sensation of being joined in Hunter's absorption.

Hunter said distantly, "I've heard the name somewhere."

Jigger started electrically. Something had clicked inside him, like a light switch snapped on in a desk corner of his brain.

"The name's been in the papers, Mr. Hunter," Rumely said. "You could have seen it there."

Hunter's face relaxed. "Escort these men to the depot and see that they leave town, Rumely."

Rumely moved in closer; one hand just a single movement away from the bulge of a shoulder holster. "Okay, fellows," he said languidly, "hop in for a free ride."

Red started for the convertible. Jigger grinned disarmingly under Rumely's steady gaze. He said, "Nice break for us, in this heat."

Rumely said nothing. Jigger moved to Rumely's side carelessly, heading for the convertible. Rumely twisted in a sudden caution, but too late.

The blow crashed into the doughy mass of cheek; Rumely's hands were pawing blindly when the knee landed. His face was a sick, deathly green as Jigger bent over him from the direction of the town.

A starter sounded. Jigger moved abreast of the town car, pointing the gun. Red reached in and shut off the motor. He was pale, like a bystander compromised by events.

Jigger ordered, "Get out, Hunter."

Hunter obeyed. The composure was gone again; his face was wild. "That was an unprovoked and brutal assault!"

"And life insurance, Hunter!" Rumely was only to escort you to the depot."

"With a lynching party planned to live up the ride." The thought sent shivers up Jigger's back. He lashed out savagely, and the concussion of metal on bone dropped Hunter.

Red looked terror-stricken. "Jigger, you're crazy. These guys are admission tickets to the State Pen!"

Jigger called the gun over a stone wall. "I don't think so, Red."

"You don't think so!"

"No. I think Hunter will think twice about formal reprisal when he comes to and reads a note I'm going to stick in his hand."

Red said blankly, "A note?"

Jigger said, "Drag our unconscious friends to one side, of the walk. Also immobilize the Hunter car. Take the motor out." He smiled faintly. "We're met before, Hunter and I. We met outside Lindy's restaurant, one rainy night and rode down to 96 Charlton Street. Five minutes later, I was riding a corpse in a trunk into a police trap."

"Relax," Jigger smiled.

"When we roll into Penn Station, not before." Red added anxiously, "Can't we get Hunter out of circulation, under lock and key?"

"On what grounds, Red?"

"Are you kidding! Fraud, conspiracy, murder."

Jigger shook his head. "Even if we convinced ourselves, we've got a story we can't sell. There isn't a lick of supporting evidence."

"What about the statements from Aunt Penny, and from Willie?"

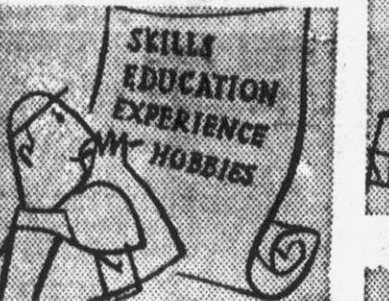

"Wouldn't stand up." Jigger grinned. "They'd both end up in padded cells."

"How about you placing Hunter at 96 Charlton Street, the night Anne Brown's body was loaded on your cab?"

"Who'd believe me? And how do I put Hunter inside the Anne Brown apartment?" Jigger shook his head. "Our belief that the just-killed Anne

Jack Edwards Talks 'Shop' With Rotary

By WYATT BROWN
The projects, trials and amusing incidents resulting from his articles were shared with the Rotarians Monday night by Jack Edwards, Jr., the creator of the Daily Reflector column "Somebody Told Me" which appears on the editorial page. He said he believed people preferred local subjects even if it had to be of the columnist himself.

Two years ago Edwards got going in his role of columnist for the Daily Reflector soon after graduating from college. His purpose is to write about something light whenever possible and something local whenever possible, he explained. He recommended tasting his daily stint for a paragraph or two to find if it pleased, and if it did not, to wait the next one.

The columnist told of his Alcoholics Anonymous promotion activities. His interest was stirred by hearing the novelist James Street talk about the AA at the University in class. Soon after launching the column he did a series on AA resulting in immediate reader response. This led to contact with the New Bern AA group and the eventual establishment in Greenville of an independent group with club rooms upstairs at the corner of Washington and Fifth Streets.

Jet Crashes Are Blamed On Icing

Washington —(UP)— Air Force investigators said today that icing on engine intakes due to peculiar local weather was the chief cause of the crash of eight F-84 jet fighters near Richmond, Ind., last Friday.

The investigators said that so far they have found no indication of sabotage.

Three pilots were killed and two were injured when the eight jet planes plummeted to the ground within a 25-mile radius of Richmond.

British Make Day Landing In Korea

TOKYO —(UP)— British commandos made an audacious daylight landing on Korea's west coast 30 miles from the North Korean Capital of Pyongyang last month, it was announced today.

The marine unit from the British cruiser Ceylon landed under the protective cover of offshore United Nations guns and spent several hours in the heart of enemy territory.

"The raid was another proof that the UN forces with their overwhelming command of the sea can land behind the enemy when and where they choose," Far East Naval Headquarters said.

The landing party was unopposed, but a U. S. spotting aircraft was hit by gunfire.

Air Lines Set Safety Record

CHICAGO —(UP)— The country's air lines recorded the best safety record in history last year, the national safety council said today.

The passenger death rate was only 1.1 deaths per 100,000,000 passenger-miles in domestic operations, the council said.

The council cited 42 air lines for completing their 1950 scheduled passenger-carrying operations without a passenger or crew fatality.

Two Missing Thunderjets Are Believed Down In Czechoslovakia

WIESSBADEN, Germany—(UP)—Two missing F-84 Thunderjets were reported today to have crashed in Communist Czechoslovakia. The U.S. Embassy in Prague said it has asked the Czech government for information about the planes and their pilots.

The jets disappeared Friday on a routine training mission over Germany. Reports from Czechoslovakia said they wandered off their course and crashed behind the Iron Curtain.

In Oslo, Norway, Col. Odd Bull, Chief of the Norwegian Air Force, said the Thunderjets had crashed-landed in Czechoslovakia. The pilots were an American officer and a Norwegian officer training with the U.S. Air Force.

Oslo said it had received a report from its Prague legation that both planes had landed safely.

The two planes took off from an air base, 50 miles from the Russian zone border in Germany. They were last heard from at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Prague said by telephone that the request for information was made to the Czech Foreign Office Monday. The Foreign Office said it was "checking" the reports, the spokesman said.

He identified the pilots as Lt. G. Roland, of the U.S. Air Force in Germany, and Lt. Ejoern Johansen of the Norwegian Air Force. According to reports received by the embassy, the two pilots survived emergency landings, but no further information has been made available, he said.

It was considered possible the Czechs may announce that the two fliers have sought political asylum behind the Iron Curtain. A similar announcement was made about four British soldiers in Eastern Germany. Two of the Tommies said after their return that they were held against their will and questioned by Russian intelligence agents for weeks.

School Test For Georgia In Court

ATLANTA—(AP)—A young Negro, Horace Ward, was in line today to test Georgia's threat to close its University before admitting him to the law school.

Under present Georgia law, Ward's fight conceivably could lead to a complete shutdown of the State's entire university system embracing 16 colleges and 20,059 students.

This is the final day for an answer to Ward's eight months old application. It is the last registration day for the summer term at the university in Athens.

There was little doubt that the regents' decision would be negative.

There was also little doubt that a "no" answer, or no answer at all, would result in a Federal court suit by Ward.

Georgia's constitution makes racial segregation mandatory in state supported schools.

The appropriations act by the 1951 legislature provides that if a Negro is admitted to a white school, even at the highest of state funds, then all state funds for that school automatically cease.

Further, if the courts find such a provision of the budget act illegal, then the entire appropriation for all schools in the university system is void.

Federal courts to date have consistently held that Negroes must be admitted to graduate schools in white universities where separate but equal facilities do not exist.

As a result state after state has admitted, or agreed to admit, graduate Negro students—Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Tennessee

Policeman Quits Greenville Force

Paul L. Jewett, traffic sergeant on the Greenville police force, has resigned, effective July 1, Chief Guy C. Langston announced today. He had been a member of the police force since shortly after World War II.

Numerous applications are on file at police headquarters for positions on the force.

Atrocities Laid To Army In Korea

LONDON—(UP)—A veteran woman member of the Labor Party, dismissed from her government job after she accused American troops of committing atrocities in Korea, said defiantly today that "nothing will silence me."

Mrs. Monica Felton was one of 20 women who visited Korea—from the communist side—under sponsorship of the "Women's International Democratic Federation."

Her sensational charges, on her return, that American troops tortured North Koreans while their planes bombed hospitals, were banner-line news in the communist newspaper Daily Worker.

Yesterday Mrs. Felton was dismissed from her $4,200 a year job as chairman of the Stevenage Corporation, a government housing project executive.

"The truth about Korea is so appalling that nothing will silence me," Mrs. Felton said when informed of her dismissal.

"I have been dismissed because I have found out the truth," Mrs. Felton had charged that American troops tortured North Koreans, beat them with baseball bats and soaked them in gasoline to burn them alive.

Asks Truman For Larger Pants

PHILADELPHIA—(UP)—President Truman has been asked by a Philadelphia mother to see that her airman-son gets a new pair of pants because those issued him in January are too tight in June.

Mrs. Madeline Hunsperger wrote that the pants worn by Russell Hunsperger, stationed at Presque Isle, Me., were so tight "you couldn't even let them out."

"You know yourself how it is if your pants don't fit," she told the president. "You wouldn't like it either. Now please do something about his pants."

Building Program List Is Prepared

RALEIGH—(UP)—Building committees for the University of North Carolina, Woman's College, and State College were scheduled today to submit recommendations to the Budget Bureau on Monday.

Budget Director D. S. Coltrane said the trustee-appointed groups were assigned to study building needs at the institutions and select projects which they feel should be funded.

The 1951 General Assembly turned down most pleas for new permanent improvement appropriations, but authorized shifting of unspent funds from one project to another at the same institution.

Estimate Social Security Growth

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The government estimates that Federal social security benefit payments doubled during fiscal 1951 and may nearly double again within another four years.

Payments totaled $727,303,000 during fiscal 1950, officials said, and probably will hit $1,600,000,000 during fiscal 1951 which ends on June 30.

Five Saw Way ...

state prison camp since last fall, when five men broke out of the Yadkin county camp.

Spokesmen at sheriff C. B. Perry's office said the convicts apparently managed to steal a saw from the road gang workshop and hide it in the cellblock last night. They waited until after the last cell check for the night was completed, then cut their way out of a barred window and stole through the yard outside and over the fence.

Airman Injured In Jet Collision

CUMBERLAND, R.I.—(UP)—A much-decorated Korean War veteran and another Air Force fighter pilot were injured critically today when their parachutes failed during a routine training flight from Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod.

First Lt. Leo R. Kirby Jr., 24, and 2nd Lt. Michael A. Corba, 23, were hospitalized with injuries suffered when their parachutes failed during a routine training flight from Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod.

The public information office at the base said Kirby recently returned from 10 months' service in Korea with the distinguished flying cross with an oak leaf cluster, the air medal and six oak leaf clusters, a presidential unit citation and three Korean battle stars.

Two Die ...

Biggs said no charges will be brought against the driver of the truck since investigation by the officers cleared him of any blame.

From investigation made by Parker, Patrolmen R. P. Narrown of Oak City, and M. F. Powers of Williamston, the officers found that all of the impact seemed to have occurred on the truck's side of the road and that the auto actually struck the truck on the right side while it was on the right shoulder.

Force of the impact ripped out the front part of the death car, including the motor, sending it some 25 feet from the point of impact; at the same time tearing the wheels from under the body of the transfer truck, badly damaging the truck. The truck, owned by the A&EET line of Battleboro, was unloaded at the time of the accident.

Martin County officers stated that the accident which marked the third fatality for the county this year, was the worst which they had been called to. The car was completely demolished, officers stated.

Manning was born and spent his early life in the Chocowinity community. He moved with his family to Farmville in 1937 and had been living in Bethel for the past six months. He served in the United States Navy and Coast Guard during World War II. He had been employed by the State Highway Commission for several years and at this time was employed at Long Supply Co. in Tarboro. He was a member of Woodmen of the World Camp at Bethel.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Coward Manning; parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. (Fan) Manning of Bethel, a brother, J. F. Manning, Jr., of Stokes; three sisters: Mrs. Paul Helwer of the home, Mrs. Nancy Edwards of Newport News, Va., and Mrs. Curtis Whitehurst of near Stokes; two half brothers, Joe Eddie Manning of Tarboro, and Ernest T. Manning of Los Angeles, Calif., and a half sister, Mrs. Richard Hill of Chocowinity.

Helwer, a native of Kansas City, Missouri, was reared in California. He had served in the U. S. Army and the U. S. Navy for the past 10-12 years. He had recently been in the Korean area on the U. S. S. Saipan, which returned to Norfolk last Friday.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Irene

'What About ...'

leader of a small nation can defy the Moscow lightning and still keep his job and his life. He is an inspiration to whatever underground movements there are in Russia and her European satellites—men who are eager to revolt and need constant inspiration and support.

As soon as the Western world realized the potentialities it began to soften toward Tito. We sent food to Yugoslavia which had been ravaged by drought. We are talking about rearming him. Tito, an old revolutionary, made some concessions himself. He began to act faintly like Yugoslavia was a democracy.

The other day Aleksandar Rankovic, chief of the Yugoslav police, said in a speech that lots of people in Yugoslavia had been arrested illegally and indicated things were going to be different from now on.

Nothing but time can prove or disprove the validity of the assertion that Chiang would be a more valuable ally than Tito. About all that can be said now is that Tito is a thorn deeply imbedded in Stalin's flesh. It hurts, too.

Beef In The ...

tie-raisers for the live beef by ten per cent; another 4 1/2 percent by Aug. 1; and still another 4 1/2 percent by Oct. 1.

And by the time Aug. 1 came around retail prices would be cut four or five cents a pound and the same amount again on Oct. 1.

That, briefly, is the OPS plan. Disable said beef, which makes up such a large part of the American diet, had to be controlled or the whole price control program would become a joke.

Almost from the moment that April 26 plan was made public, cattlemen poured into Washington, demanding of their congressmen that these controls be abandoned. They even went to see the President about it.

And congressmen or some of them, went to bat for the cattlemen, calling upon OPS to drop its price control plans on beef, threatening to pass a law forbidding such controls unless OPS took heed.

A lot of pressure was applied. And last week Mr. Truman himself seemed not to firm when asked at a news conference whether the OPS would weaken on its plan. He said Disalle had it under study. But in a few days the picture changed.

By the end of the week government figures showed what was happening, although some cattlemen pool-pooched the strike idea: The volume of cattle being sent to the slaughterhouses was the lowest in three years.

Yesterday Charles E. Wilson, boss of the whole government Defense Program, backed Disalle 100 per cent. He said the OPS plan for cutting beef prices would stick. And a few hours later Senator Maybank disclosed that his committee would start investigating to scare the government into abandoning price control on beef.

Lauds Congress ...

(D-ala) who Congress should follow in event of disagreement between the Joint Chiefs of Staff and MacArthur, Wedemeyer replied:

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff without question, sir.

"They are your senior military advisers and I have explicit confidence in their integrity and in their loyalty to country and to principles. I do not always agree with their judgment as an individual, but I would never question it if I were a member of Congress. I would rely upon their advice."

MacArthur's and Wedemeyer's proposals for unshackling the U.S. Air Force and permitting it to bomb Manchuria generally has had the support of Republicans, against the proposals, fearing general war for which the United States is not prepared.

Wedemeyer's demands that the U.S. pull its ground forces out of Korea fighting or remove "institutions" in conducting the war were both attacked and defended.

Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry agreed with Wedemeyer, but preferred the latter course in belief it would lead to "early victory." Wherry also warned against cutting short the MacArthur investigation. He insisted that MacArthur be called back for rebuttal testimony on "all the points" raised by administration witnesses.

But Democratic leaders said senate work was being hog-tied since 26 members are on the committee. A vote shaped up on a proposal to limit questioning and speed proceedings.

Before using the committee and Congress to heed the views of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Wedemeyer warned against a war of "interminable delay" in Korea, one which he said would be costly in terms of American manpower resources.
