Truman Appeals For Teamwork In Winning Renewal Economic Curbs

President Asks 2 More Years Of Controls; Solons Appear Unaffected

WASHINGTON (UP)—A plea for teamwork support of strong economic controls by all Americans for at least two more years, coming from President Truman, had little apparent effect today on Congress' determination to write its own curbs.

There were no indications that Mr. Truman's radio and television appeal last night for "everyone to join" in the fight against inflation did much to speed action to renew the Defense Production Act expiring June 30.

Mr. Truman accused beef and business "lobbyists" of selfishly trying to scuttle wage-price controls at the risk of wrecking the mobilization program. He said their efforts if successful, could hand Russia "the easiest victory the Kremlin could ask for."

He called on the people to join him in the fight for a tough, new control law that would "bite down hard" on inflation.

After Mr. Truman's speech, both Democrats and Republicans from farming areas sharply disagreed with his attack on "beef lobbyists." Mr. Truman said he was confident that the "lobbyists" do not reflect cattle growers.

But Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D-NC) of the House Agriculture Committee said, "I don't know who he is calling a lobbyist."

Sen. John W. Bricker (R-O) observed that apparently anyone who disagreed with Mr. Truman's program is a "lobbyist" and anyone who supports him is "patriotic."

Mr. Truman also had sharp barbs for the National Association of Manufacturers. He said NAM representatives are giving the nation "the same old song and dance" they did in 1946 when they said "take off price controls and everything will be just dandy."

"The NAM has its way in 1948," he added, "and then we had the biggest wave of price increases in modern history."

NAM President William H. Ruffin, of Durham, N. C., hit back in unusually strong words, saying the president had "flatly and deliberately misrepresented" events. He accused the president of resorting to "tactics of distortion and unfair accusation in order to confuse the public." He said Mr. Truman had given the public half-truths about the relative rise of cost-of-living and wages.

A Brooklyn housewife and a retired neckwear manufacturer were willing supporters of the appeal for stronger economic controls.

Mr. Truman read their letters during his speech, saying they were typical of the "hundreds" he has received.

Protested

WASHINGTON (UP)—Former Defense Secretary Louis Johnson said today that the State Department apparently tried "to destroy" Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist Chinese government in 1949.

Johnson told investigating senators that he protested, unsuccessfully, against issuance of a White Paper on China because "I didn't think it was accurate and thought it was politically unwise."

The former secretary said some of the inaccuracies he protested were corrected and some were not. The 1949 White Paper was a bulky document which in effect stated that Red victory in China was a consequence not of U.S. policies but of deep-rooted defects in Chiang's Nationalist regime.

Draft Tests Slated At College Saturday

Second In Series Of Deferment Examinations Expected To Be Taken By One-Hundred And Twelve Youths

By MURIEL SHOTWELL
One hundred and twelve college students are scheduled to report to East Carolina College tomorrow morning to take the second in the series of draft deferment tests given to male college students to determine whether they will stay in college or report to Uncle Sam.

The men students are to report to the Graham Building in the morning at 8:30 for preliminaries to the test which will be administered at 9 o'clock.

Since the group is large, as compared with 38 students who took the last test, the 112 students will be divided into groups of 35 to 40 and assigned to different rooms. Administering the draft deferment tests will be one supervisor and one proctor assigned to each group.

Most of the 112 students are from this area or either going to school in this area. No one will be admitted to the testing rooms if he does not have a card from his draft board showing he is eligible to be admitted.

The dates for testing were previously scheduled for Saturdays, but there were religious conflicts so the days for testing have been changed. Two more tests will be given at East Carolina College on June 30 and July 12.

The three-hour deferment tests are only administered in the college and not graded there. The completed tests are sent to the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, New Jersey, and the results are sent to the local draft board of the person who took the test.

Party-Line 'Hog' Blocks Aid Plea

EVERETT, Wash.—(UP)—Firemen and telephone officials said today a woman refused to give up a party line so an alarm could be sounded for a fire in which four children died.

Firemen said the woman told them she gave up the line immediately. They refused to identify her. A woman who tried to telephone the alarm claimed she asked for the line on which the other woman was talking.

"Fire? Who are you kidding? I'm paying for my phone too," she said the woman answered. Telephone company officials confirmed that the party line was busy at the time.

They said the unidentified woman was talking to a company employee about her bill. The employee said she heard someone ask for the line and then hang up when she couldn't get it.

The fast-spreading blaze snuffed out the lives of Beth Bryant, two, Boyd Bryant, three, Paulann Sweeney, five, and Renee Sweeney, two. The children were asleep upstairs in the home of Mrs. Vivian Bryant when the fire broke out.

Swift New Sub Has Launching

GROTON, Conn.—(UP)—The U. S. S. Trigger, a 1600-ton submarine that will travel faster underwater than on the surface, was launched here yesterday.

The ship is the first of a new fleet-type snorkel submarine to be built since the end of World War II. It is named after the submarine Trigger which was lost in the Pacific in March, 1945, while on its 12th war patrol.

Elks Give Flag To Pitt Hospital

Lodge Presents Nat'l Emblem In Flag Day Ceremony

By CHESTER WALSH
At National Flag Day exercises on the campus of Pitt County Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon, the Greenville Elks Lodge presented an American flag to the hospital.

Erskine Duff, exalted ruler, delivered the national emblem to Chairman Thurman Williams of Grifton, and Woodrow Wooten of Falkland, of the hospital board of trustees. Williams made a brief speech of acceptance for the hospital.

Duff said the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, in session at Dallas, Texas, in 1908, organized Flag Day to be observed each June 14. "The Elks was the first, and as yet is the only fraternal organization to annually observe Flag Day," he said.

"It is our hope that you will fly this flag proudly over this great institution of mercy," J. Con Lanier, local attorney, said in a brief patriotic address. "We trust that it will be a symbol of liberty and freedom and mercy to all people who come to your hospital."

"Throughout all history, nations have adopted flags to signify the traditions and characteristics of their peoples. These flags were sacred and men willingly gave up their lives to protect them. In these modern times our soldiers no longer go into battle with flags on their shoulders. It is no longer visible to the men engaged in battle, but it is rather enshrined in their hearts and minds."

"Since the flame of liberty first burst forth in this new world in 1776," Lanier said, "and Thomas Jefferson wrote the immortal Declaration of Independence, Old Glory has symbolized to all the world the hopes and aspirations of mankind for justice and equality under the law."

"In the years that have passed since the Star Spangled Banner was first unfurled, countless thousands of our manhood have died to protect the principles of liberty for which it stands. The memory of these gallant men and women we cherish as something infinitely precious; something that is symbolized in the flag under which they lived and fought and loved and died."

The speaker concluded with a quotation from a famous poem, "The Ship of State."

Officials of the Elks lodge participating in the Flag Day ceremony, in addition to the exalted ruler, were J. B. Spilman, esteemed leading knight; Roscoe W. Shiplett, esteemed local knight; Charles S. Blair, a past exalted ruler, substituting for Roger Collins, esteemed lecturing knight; D. J. M. Barrett, esquire, and Guy V. Smith, William H. White and Judge Abner Dunn, trustees; Charley Marston, chaplain, and Hermon L. Norris, house manager.

Many spectators witnessed the ceremony from windows of the hospital. Claude D. Ward, hospital administrator, and others connected with the hospital were present.

Remove Big Part Of Brain; Lives

DENVER (UP)—Neurosurgeons believe they have saved the life of an elderly woman with an amazing six-hour operation that removed nearly one pound of her brain.

The operation, one of the first of its kind, took place Tuesday at Presbyterian Hospital. The unidentified patient was suffering from a brain tumor.

Swimming Pool Is Condemned; Plan To Build Two New Pools Is Approved

By JOHN SPINKS, JR.
By action of the board of aldermen and the recreation commission the swimming pool has been condemned for further use.

Meeting in joint session yesterday afternoon, the aldermen approved the first part of a resolution from the commission which called for condemning the pool. The rest of the resolution concerned the commission's recommendations for future use of the Fifth Street property.

And on a motion by Alderman James Jenkins, the board approved the plan of constructing two swimming pools in the city, one for white and one for Negro swimmers. However, such construction will be a future proposition—as stated by the motion "as soon as the city can get the money."

The commission's resolution read: "That the Greenville municipal pool be condemned as an asset to the city recreation commission, with the following recommendations: That the swimming pool property not be sold by the town of Greenville but be developed as a part of the Cotanche Street Park for the benefit of the citizens of Greenville; that part of the bath house be turned into public rest rooms for the city; that the pool area be made into a beautified garden area, with the intention of making it blend into the beauty of Fifth Street of Greenville, that the larger part of the bath area be used for the High School band room during the school year and also be used as recreation building during the summer, and, "Be it further resolved that the authorities of the city of Greenville make plans to bring into effect two new swimming pools, one for white people and one for Negroes."

What to do with the pool property was referred to the recreation commission and the city planning board. As stated by mayor pro-tem R. E. Stafford, who presided in mayor W. S. Rogers' absence, the planning board was called in to make a thorough study of the possible uses for the property before any action can be taken.

Condemnation of the site for further use as a swimming pool came on the recommendation of sanitary engineers from the State Board of Health and also the county health department.

In a letter to the commission from E. C. Hubbard, state sanitarian, he stated that the pool is no longer safe to use because of the fact that the floor was laid directly over a sanitary sewer and presents engineering problems to make it completely safe permanently.

The pool, which was constructed in 1924 under the Civil Works Administration, missed the scheduled June 6 opening because of seepage of sewage into the pool, caused by a cave-in of the underlying sewer line.

Street department workmen found that the line had broken because a steel plate placed over a hole in the sewer line had rusted through. Marshy ground under the pool floor contributed to the cave-in after the plate gave way, it was found. The break thus enabled the flow of raw sewage into the pool area.

Tobacco Outlook Is 'Satisfactory'

Sales Supervisor Whedbee Says Rain Came At Right Time

"General conditions of the tobacco crop at this time are very satisfactory," commented Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade this week.

In one of his regular reports on the condition of the tobacco crop in this section of the state, Whedbee said rains in the area during the second week of June gave the tobacco crop "just the stimulus that it needed in the crucial stage of its development."

"Stands were good, color was excellent and the crops were almost entirely free from grass," the report stated. "The only things that were needed were rain and warmer weather to speed the growth of the young plants."

"Then came the rains. Tobacco plants which had developed a splendid root system in their downward search for water during an extremely dry May, quickly absorbed the needed moisture. Leaves became way to a nice spread. Leaves became longer and broader. The crop quickly took on the appearance of normal healthy growth in the fields."

The eastern part of the state has been fortunate, Whedbee said, in that the rains came while the plants were young and tender and capable of utilizing the moisture. The rains prevented the plants from becoming "old and hard and buttoning out while small in size."

U. S. Communist Party To Remain Despite Setback

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Communist party, whose top leaders soon must go to prison, said yesterday it will not disband.

Speaking for the party was Eugene Dennis, its general secretary. He called a news conference to say the organization is in this country "to stay."

"We Communists are going to stand firm," he said. "We are going to fight for our own rights and for the rights of all the people—Negro and white."

"We are going to resist the attempt to drive us underground, but we are also going to protect our members and our organization."

Can Easily Cope With Air Threat Of Chinese Reds

TOKYO (UP)—Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter said today that the Allies could handle any major air offensive mounted by Communist China in Korea, but that entry of the Russian air force into the war would create "a very serious situation."

Finletter told a news conference that the Chinese would be making "a grave mistake" if they launched an air offensive. The major deterrent to Russian aggression in the air is the U. S. Air Force, he said.

He saw newsmen after a four-day tour of bases in Korea and Japan. He left for Washington tonight.

Gen. MacArthur Decries 'Feeling Of Fear' In U.S.

HOUSTON (AP)—A crowd of 20,000, which filled only about one-third of the seats in Rice Stadium, last night heard General Douglas MacArthur decry the feeling of fear in this land.

The five-star General stared at vast expanses of empty space at vast expanses of empty space as he carried his anti-administration stand to this city of more than half-a-million population.

Two Killed

WILLIAMSTON—Two persons were killed and two others were injured this morning at 7:45 eight miles north of here on U. S. 17 in a head-on automobile collision.

The dead were Mrs. Clyde Dawson, 38, of Windsor, and Sandra Costello, 16, of Miami, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Gus Costello, parents of the dead girl, were hospitalized in Windsor.

Highway Patrolman Thomas Davis said Mrs. Dawson's car ran onto a road shoulder and that in attempting to steer it back into the highway, she rammed into the oncoming Costello car.

Fat Stock Show Rivals All Others

Average Price Higher Than Any Of 24 Along Seaboard

Greenville's fat stock show held April 19 not only topped all other show prices in the state but was three cents higher than any of the other 24 held in the southern states.

The average of 47.69 cents per pound for the first such show held in the county, topped by more than three cents the one held in Ocala, Fla., earlier in the year. Ocala's average, made in the state that is the third largest cattle producing state in the nation, was 44.29 cents.

In commenting on the record average for the year, Willard T. Kizer, Chamber of Commerce manager, stated that the show didn't rise to its previous expectations, even though it was the most successful held in North Carolina this year. (The Greenville Chamber worked in conjunction with the vocational agriculture teachers in initiating the show.)

He said that other stock dealers in the state had informed him that Pitt's average was more or less a flash-in-the-pan figure, that in coming years the average will decrease.

However, he said, he answered them with the statement that the officials had expected more entries than were actually shown and sold.

The grand champion of the 23-calf show was raised by Lindsay Cannon of Ayden. The calf weighed 855 pounds and sold for 81 cents per pound.

Figures released by the Atlantic Coastline Railroad Company show that Pitt's average topped the next highest North Carolina show by five cents. Other shows in the state with average of calves and average price are:

Smithfield, 40 calves, 42.43 cents; Dunn, 21 calves, 41.29 cents; Rocky Mount, 52 calves, 41.36 cents; Ahoskie, 16 calves, 40.15 cents; Goldsboro, 37 calves, 39.42 cents; Kinston, 46 calves, 39.16 cents; Williamston, 14 calves, 35.35 cents.

Top prices in other states in the southeast were: Richmond, Va., 57 calves, 40.57 cents; Orangeburg, S. C., 107 calves, 38 cents; Donaldsonville, Ga., 475 calves, 41.39 cents; Ocala, Fla., 229 calves, 44.29 cents; Dothan, Ala., 91 calves, 41 cents.

Fell 15 Stories, Only Broke Leg

NEW YORK (UP)—Two-year-old Tommy Palva, who fell 15 stories and suffered only a broken leg, patterned around Bellevue Hospital today in a new pair of shoes.

Mrs. Marie Palva, 28, had left Tommy in a room of their apartment on May 1 to go into the kitchen to fix him some milk, and before she came back Tommy had fallen 15 stories to a courtyard.

Allied Patrols Roam At Will On Wide War Front

Ship's Crewmen Suspect Torpedo

Experts Study Damaged Destroyer For Explosion Clue

SASEBO, Japan.—(UP)—Naval experts examined a jagged 25-by-15 foot hole in the dry-docked destroyer Walker today to determine whether it was caused by a torpedo from an enemy submarine.

"It could have been anything," they said at first glance. An underwater explosion off the Korean east coast about 12 miles north of the 38th parallel Tuesday killed 36 crewmen and injured seven others. It was the largest toll of any naval incident in the Korean War. But the ship made port under its own power.

Surviving crewmen doubted that a mine, floating or anchored, could have delivered the blow to the 2,200-ton vessel, a veteran of the Atlantic and Pacific in World War II.

Some men aboard the ship said outright they thought it was hit by a torpedo. Naval experts discounted such reports pending proof.

There were numerous reports of unidentified submarines, presumably Soviet, in North Korean waters in the early months of the war, but none recently. The big Soviet base of Vladivostok is about 400 miles north of the parallel.

The explosive burst the three-quarter inch steel plates on the port-side near the destroyer's stern. The tremendous blast folded in some plates past mid-ship, against which a number of men were sleeping.

The Walker was put in dry-dock this morning and 13 shattered bodies were removed from its flooded compartments. Grief-stricken survivors watched workmen slice through the hull to reach the remains.

Call On Russia For Conference

LONDON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France suggested to Russia today that Big Four foreign ministers should meet to discuss easing world tensions on the basis of agreement already reached by their deputies in Paris.

Identical American, British and French notes handed to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Paris called for a Big Four parley "without further efforts by the deputies to complete agreement on the agenda."

Lesson In Psychology

The President's Talk Last Night Was a Model for Any-one Trying to Get Something They Want; How He Handled a Difficult Problem

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's talk to the nation last night was a lesson in the psychology of how you go about trying to get something you want.

What Mr. Truman wants is for congress to reinforce and continue the present law giving the government power to control price, wages and other things. That law dies 15 days from now, June 30, unless then congress votes to keep it longer.

There's already quite a bundle of hostility in congress toward Mr. Truman, particularly among the Republicans, and he apparently figures there's no sense in stirring up the lions upon whom he must depend to get the law continued.

Remote Possibility Of Red Offensive At Any Time In Near Future; Enemy Seeking To Establish New Lines

TOKYO, Saturday.—(UP)—Allied probing forces ranged almost at will over a 60-mile stretch of the Korean front Friday seeking contact with the main body of retreating Communists.

In the western sector, the main body of the Reds apparently had withdrawn many miles to the north of the United Nations forces, and were seeking to establish a new defense line.

Any possibility that the Communists might try to assume the initiative soon seemed remote.

"We believe they have momentarily given up the idea of an offensive," a briefing officer on the central front said. "The Reds are agitating in, trying to establish a defense line."

There were reports of fierce fighting but only against rear-guard Red holding forces, front dispatches indicated.

At the extreme western end of the front, allied forces advanced four miles for the second straight day without meeting sizeable enemy forces.

Small enemy counter-attacks were thrown back along the eastern stretch of the front.

Eighteen Communist jet fighter planes attacked a single, unarmed reconnaissance jet today in the first appearance of enemy MIG-15s over Korea in nine days.

The pilot of the P-80 jet said four of the enemy jets fired at him. He eluded them and returned to his base without damage.

Chinese Reds fought savagely to stave off the threat to Kumsong, their new supply base 29 miles north of the 38th parallel.

GIs pushed up the slopes of the twin peaks astride the road to Kumsong in a driving rain, while massed allied artillery laid down a fiery curtain of death and destruction ahead of them.

The Yanks had captured the peaks and held them briefly yesterday. But the Communists drove them off in a counter-attack at dusk.

The Chinese were putting up their first real fight since losing Chorwon and Kumwa at the base of their crumpled "iron triangle" early this week.

Red resistance farther east dwindled again after stiffening briefly yesterday. An 8th Army communiqué reported only light opposition north of Hwachon, Yangju, Inje and Kamsong, the latter on the east coast.

Gains of 1,000 yards to more than a mile were reported above Yangju and Inje.

those were special groups, he said, and he particularly singled out for criticism the National Association of Manufacturers.

But the people as a whole, he said, didn't bother to make their views known to their congressmen and this was what the President urged them to do.

Of course, if Mr. Truman does not get what he wants and congress lets the law die and we have even worse inflation, he can then take out after congress without mixing words, as he has done in the past.

But even that would be a little awkward for him since his own party, Democrats, have a majority in congress, although only a slim one, and therefore might appear able to put through anything they wished.

It isn't news, of course, to say that majority is mostly a paper majority since on any given issue some of the Democrats go over to the Republican side while some Republicans hop over with the Democrats.

Indignant Hobo Starts Thumbing

MANKATO, Minn.—(UP)—Sheriff E. F. Dale was inspecting the wreckage of two Chicago and North Western trains yesterday when a hobo poked his head out of a freight car.

"What's going on here?" the tramp demanded.

"There's been a train wreck," Dale answered.

"That's a helluva note. I've got to get to Omaha."

"Well these trains won't be going there," said the sheriff.

The hobo gave him an indignant look and strode to a highway where he started thumbing cars.

Homemaking Workshop At College Announced

Rapid Industrial Growth Foreseen In North Carolina

Rapid industrial growth is foreseen in North Carolina, according to Sen. Willis Smith, D. N.C., predicted rapid industrial growth for eastern North Carolina today as he took part in dedicating a giant new steam electric generating plant for the Carolina Power and Light Co.

"Industry is not now passing up North Carolina," Smith declared. "Of all new industries choosing locations in North Carolina last year, 78 per cent of them selected eastern North Carolina."

"The decision of the Carolina Power and Light Company to install its largest single unit here is an encouraging indication. It means that in the judgement of successful and competent businessmen, the business development of the area justifies the locating of a more power producing plant here."

Smith and Carolina Power and Light president Louis V. Sutton were the principal speakers at the dedicatory exercises.

The new generating plant will produce 550,000 kilowatt-hours per year of energy, Sutton said, and its production will be doubled within a year. It will have several times the production capacity of the Buggs Island Dam in Virginia, he said.

Sutton outlined his company's $1,000,000 postwar expansion program and called attention to the system's 13 generating stations. "There has never been a power shortage in our area," he said.

"It is a matter of pride to us that our average residential customer uses in excess of 50 cent more electricity than is used in the average home throughout the nation. He buys that electricity at a price which is 20 per cent less than the national average."

"The location of this plant near the eastern fringe of our service area was prompted by our belief that this section of North Carolina is entering upon an era of great growth and development."

Sen. Smith called the plant a symbol of free enterprise. "This plant—and the other industrial developments of North Carolina—represent the faith of Americans in their traditional way of making progress," he said.

"We must remember that a super-intelligent government did not discover the process of producing electricity. No bureaucrat caused the first power plant to be built. That was left to far-sighted and free Americans working within the framework of an unfettered economy."

"It is a significant argument on behalf of our way of life that through individual initiative and with private capital America produces more electric power than all the rest of the world put together. And with this electric power to run the tools which ingenuity has created, and with the willing hearts and hands of free labor, it has, is and can outproduce the industrial systems of all the nations which might conceivably march against us."

Final plans for a workshop in "Adult Education in Home-making" to be offered at East Carolina College June 25-July 6 have been announced by Dr. Bessie McNeil, director of the college department of home economics.

The workshop will deal with various aspects of family life and is expected to bring to the college teachers from many subject matter areas; parents, especially those active in Parent-Teacher, 4-H, and scouting organizations, and school officials. Dr. McNeil will act as coordinator of the workshop. A number of faculty members at East Carolina and visiting authorities on child development, recreation, health, finance religion and special education will appear as speakers on the program.

The ten-day course will be open to students with junior, senior or graduate standing and will carry three quarter hours of credit on either the graduate or the undergraduate level. Auditors may take the course without credit. Those interested in any topic to be discussed will be welcome to attend the class meeting for which it is scheduled. The workshop will be in session from 9 a. m. until noon, Monday through Friday of each week.

The first week's work will be devoted to following the development of the child from infancy, through pre-school and school years, and into adolescence. Recreation, art, music, literature, personality development, and family relationships will be among subjects to be considered.

Participants in the workshop will join with those attending a conference on special education at the college Monday, July 2, for a joint meeting. "The Handicapped Child and His Family" will be discussed. Speakers will include Dr. Felix S. Barker, director of the division of special education, State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, and Dr. Ollie L. Backus, nationally known authority on speech correction and director of the speech and hearing clinic of the University of Alabama. During the remainder of the week work will center around health, mental hygiene, legal and financial matters, and religion as they affect the home and family.

Special feature of the workshop will include two luncheon meetings. Dr. Backus will speak Monday, July 2, at noon, on the handicapped child. Dr. Clyde A. Erwin of Raleigh, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be principal speaker at a luncheon at noon Tuesday, July 3, and will have as his topic "Mental Hygiene is a Family Affair." A series of films on family life will be shown at class meetings during the workshop.

Priority System Discussion Set

Strength for the Day

By KARL L. DOUGLAS
START CLIMBING
Abraham Lincoln once declared that people are about as happy in life as they make up their minds to be.

The same thing could be said with reference to success. We attain about as much success in life as we are willing to pay for. There are a few high offices in this country held by stuffed shirts, but very few in every generation a few geniuses go unnoticed and a few worthy men are given the brush off. But by and large success depends upon industry, good habits, high ideals, and sound moral character.

If you are waiting for the elevator to take you up to the top floors of success, then we must regretfully inform you that the elevator is permanently out of order. You have to walk up the stairs or climb up the ladder to get to the pinnacles of success about which you may be day dreaming.

There is no achievement in the world without the payment of a heavy cost. As the modern expression goes, "If you are looking for something soft, look under your own hat."

Also write this out and have it framed and hung up where you can see it all the time: "The elevator which goes to the top flights of success is permanently out of order. Start climbing."

Work Must Follow The Commitment

The Greenville Aldermen's action in condemning the municipal swimming pool should be followed by concerted efforts to afford the citizens of the city the two new swimming pools the board said it favors.

The board's action yesterday was the best possible course for the city to take. To repair the pool and re-route the underlying sewer line would have cost the city about $25,000, according to preliminary estimates by the city engineer.

That was too much money to spend on a pool which at best would not have been desirable because of its poor location.

The two new swimming pools will cost the city between $100,000 and $150,000. Obviously such an expenditure will require a bond issue by the city of Greenville. The aldermen should decide before the end of the current fiscal year on June 30 whether they will pave the way for the issuance of sufficient bonds by the board or rely on a vote of the people to put a stamp of approval on the bond issue.

The Reflector is confident the issue will have the approval of the Greenville citizens in either event, but the former plan may prove more expedient than the latter.

If the city is going to spend a large sum on swimming pools for the white and Negro citizens, the project should be carefully planned and the sites for the pools carefully selected. But while the planning is being done on the facilities, corresponding planning should be done on the financial aspects of the project.

Having the project become a reality in 1951 is of course out of the question. Having two pools ready by the summer of 1952 should be practical.

The bold commitment of the board of aldermen and the recreation commission to the project of a pool for white citizens and a pool for Negro citizens will not be fulfilled with a flip of the fingers. Their commitment must be followed by equally zealous efforts to make the proposal a reality.

The Death Of A Conspiracy

The death of the Federal proposal for an excise tax on public utilities revenues is a resounding victory for the preservation of autonomous local government throughout the United States.

The action of the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday in killing the proposal upheld the principle of reciprocal tax immunity which has existed between the Federal government and the State and local governments since the beginning of this nation. The action battered down another step that would have carried the country a great deal closer to centralization.

For the people of Pitt County it means they do not have to worry at the moment about the Federal government taxing the revenue of the local government. It means the Greenville utilities will not have to pay to the Federal government the $30,000 a year which it would have had to pay if the proposal had become law. It means towns of Farmville, Winterville, Ayden, Fountain and Grimesland will not have to hand over to the Federal government a portion of the profits they make from the sale of electric power.

There is further significance to the action of the committee. It shows that the people can make their voice heard in the Federal government if they set their mind and make their wishes known to the members of Congress.

The proposal already had been approved by the committee by a vote of 18 to 7 before the general public had knowledge of the proposal being before the committee. The people from all parts of the country vigorously made known their opposition to the deviation from the principle of reciprocal tax immunity. The committee in a vote yesterday rescinded its previous action on the matter.

The people have won another struggle for the preservation of the fundamental principles upon which this nation was founded and has become great. The people have shown their desire and their ability to maintain autonomy in their local governments.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Secretary Dean Acheson has seriously damaged the Administration's defense in the MacArthur case by his abortive attempt to include the ousted General among the high diplomatic and military officials who had advocated an alliance between Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists and Chinese Communists. Even his friends are amazed at the ordinarily clever lawyer's ignorance of, or misrepresentation of, the facts.

Lieutenant General Albert C. Wedemeyer, who is almost the only American officer to match MacArthur's experience in the Far East, has demolished the Acheson contention in testimony before the Russell Committee.

Although General Wedemeyer's lack of sympathy for the Acheson-Marshall faction is well known, it is surprising that a man whose retirement plea has not yet been granted would dare to defy his superiors so bluntly.

QUESTIONABLE—But the inside story behind the various approaches to peace between the warring factions in China places Mr. Acheson's anti-MacArthur bias in a questionable light.

His resort to a legalistic device, and his failure to outline the circumstances under which the several proposals for a tieup with the Chinese Reds were made, tend to cast discredit on his 700,000 words of defense testimony.

Secretary Acheson, for instance, failed to point out that the MacArthur-Wedemeyer-Spruance recommendation for a possible Chinese coalition was made in December of 1945, only four months after Japan's surrender. On the other hand, the Marshall-Acheson proposal for a Nationalist-Communist merger was submitted in January of 1947. The international situation in 1947 was as different from that of 1945 as night from day.

FACTIONS—The 1945 report was an "operations" document prepared by commanders in the field with a military, political and economic understanding of Far Eastern problems based on actual experience, which Secretary Acheson and Secretary Marshall have never enjoyed. The trio urged that a start be made toward reconciling the two factions which had quarreled even during the war against Japan.

Moreover, it is extremely important that at this time Mao Tse-tung had only a few hundred thousand men in his command, mostly ill-clad and ill-equipped guerrillas in the far northern districts. He was then on extremely friendly terms with Russia, which had not begun to bare her postwar teeth.

There was no question of ideological differences or conflict. Nor had Moscow strengthened the Communists by turning over to them the arms they seized from the Japs after the surrender.

UNIMPORTANT—Thus even if the MacArthur-Wedemeyer-Spruance plan had been adopted, the Communists would have had only a minor voice or influence in the reorganization they advocated. Indeed, that is the principal reason why it proved unacceptable to Mao.

Mr. Acheson carefully refrained from giving this well-known background to the Russell Committee, which may recall him for further questioning on this point.

Indeed, the 1945 report was considered as so unimportant at Washington that Secretary Acheson did not mention it in the famous White Paper on China he issued in 1949. It became important only when he thought it could be used against his Far Eastern critic.

SIGNIFICANT—Secretary Marshall's controversial report was not made public until January of 1947, after he had spent almost a year in negotiations with Chiang and Mao. Although he recognized the difficulties in arranging permanent peace, he believed it possible to create a strong, unified government composed of Nationalists, Communists and middle-of-the-road liberals.

But the significant portion of his official report is that, despite the bitterness and warfare between the two factions, he declared for an immediate merger.

"It is also to be hoped that in the interim period, the door will remain open for Communists and other groups to participate. If they see fit to assume their share of responsibility for the future of China."

There is still another generally unknown chapter to the Marshall-Acheson attempt to force an impossible mixture of oil and water. He repeatedly warned Marshall that the proposed compromise would fail. He advocated in September of 1947 a five-year program of economic and military aid to Chiang.

BILL—But so sure was Mr. Acheson of Marshall's success that, through the summer of 1946, he framed a special bill authorizing President Truman to sell lease or give arms, planes and naval vessels to the Republic of China. It was introduced as House Resolution 6975 at State's request. Both State and Defense officials, including Mr. A. urged its prompt passage. Telegraphed Secretary Marshall from China:

"The assistance authorized in this bill will be carried out in accordance with the program of reorganization and integration of Nationalist Government and Chinese Armies, as agreed upon by Government and Communist representatives."

When the agreement failed to eventuate, we withdrew all aid from Chiang.

EMPHASIS ON PERSPECTIVE
Greensboro Daily News

If State employees at Raleigh or anywhere else are using State-owned cars for private purposes or otherwise abusing certain privileges which are given them, something ought to be done about the matter in the public interest and the safeguarding of public funds. But at the same time, it is well enough that we keep our perspective and not magnify what may be happening all out of proportion to the extent or the seriousness of any such practices.

It is neither fair nor judgmental to say a State employee has violated his driving privilege because he has a state-owned car parked in front of his home or may get out of such a car

Washington Wizard's Economy In Gov't

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, Jr.

Several months ago John Barnhill of the Hendrix-Barnhill Farm Equipment Company was shooting the breeze with Dr. John Reynolds, professor of Mathematics at East Carolina College. When two or more men start talking the subject may be business or sports in the beginning, but it will eventually become women. That was the case that particular day, but women involved in the conversation happened to be their wives. Otherwise, I wouldn't be printing the story.

One of the two Johns somehow happened to mention the date he was married. The other remarked, "Well how about that! Our wedding anniversaries happen to fall on the same day, June the 15th! We'll have to celebrate together."

Then John Reynolds commented, "You know, the preacher's wedding anniversary is June 14th, so we ought to ask him to join us in the celebration." The conversation dropped at that point, until last week, when the two Johns were discussing the matter at the Kiwanis Club meeting. John Barnhill said, "I'll call the preacher and we'll schedule this dinner party for Thursday night" (last night).

The Rev. Glenn Haney, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, is president of the Kiwanis Club, and John Barnhill assumed that John Reynolds was talking about Mr. Haney when he mentioned "the preacher." So Barnhill called up Mr. Haney.

"Glenn," he said, "isn't it a coincidence that John Reynolds and I were married on June the 15th, and you were married on the 14th? John and I decided some months ago that we would all go out to dinner the night of the 4th, since that would be the night before the Kiwanis Club meeting."

Dr. Haney couldn't quite follow John. He said, "I certainly appreciate the invitation to dinner. Mrs. Haney and I can make it and will be delighted. But what's this about a wedding anniversary?"

"Well," John said, "since ours was so close to yours, we just thought we would celebrate together."

"But mine is May 9th," Dr. Haney said.

Later, John Reynolds discovered that when John Barnhill said "the preacher" he was talking about the Rev. Leonard Topping of the Presbyterian Church, and not Dr. Glenn Haney. So John then called Mr. Topping. So here in Greenville last night the four couples celebrated their wedding anniversaries. Topping, Reynolds, and Barnhill all agree that there's not a better man in Greenville to celebrate your anniversary with than Dr. Haney, even if his anniversary is over a month hence. They say it's amazing that a man can have so much enthusiasm about an anniversary when it came over 30 years ago. John Barnhill says, "It was a very pleasant mistake to make."

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

Around Capitol Square Rose LEADERSHIP—Because of the currently keen interest in the racial segregation issue, one of the most significant statements made by Governor Scott at a recent press conference was missed by the newsmen present. The reporters caught and amplified the Scott pronouncement that he believed the majority of the Negro leadership in North Carolina preferred continuance of the segregation policy in educational institutions. They overlooked the statement of equal, or greater, significance as to why he thought Negro leadership felt that way. It had to do mostly with size of the institution, rather than its racial element, and emphasized the fact that smaller units tend more certainly to bring out the best qualities inherent in individual students, and thus to develop real leadership.

NON-RACIAL—The Governor digressed a bit from the racial angle and channeled his observations at size. He favors small churches, in which every member can have an integral and important part. He said he often wondered how "you fellows in big city churches with two thousand or more members can take care of your religion." (A reporter facetiously quipped that maybe we didn't bother too much about that—and the governor smiled.) He also thinks smaller educational institutions afford more advantages for students, not only in closer personal contacts and establishing enduring friendships, but in developing leadership. There can be, for example, just one president of a student body with six thousand members. That same number of students distributed into six institutions of a thousand each provides student body presidencies for six people. Entirely aside from the segregation issue, the governor said he thinks the Negroes will fare better at present institutions at Durham and in their own teacher colleges than if these units are abandoned and total enrollment integrated at Chapel Hill and Raleigh.

CONSISTENT—This attitude of Governor Scott is not new. It was not adopted as an argument against admission of Negroes to the big state institutions. It is consistent with his position ever since he came to public life. As a farm agent in Alamance county twenty-five years ago and as commissioner of agriculture for twelve years before his nomination as governor, Kerr Scott pleaded for promotion of rural churches and schools as recognized community centers in which young people could develop and demonstrate their capacity for leadership. Equally important is the development of capacity for "fellowship" and co-operation among those who perhaps cannot ever be leaders, but can have vital part in community progress if they are not overwhelmed or lost in the mass population of big centers. Further consistent with his traditional philosophy is his present belief that some self-appointed leaders of the minority race are making a serious mistake in advocacy policies that almost certainly will result in elimination of the institutions which have had in the past, and promise for the future, best facilities for their own progress.

OPENED—By authority of a judicial order issued by Judge W. T. Hatch, presiding at a term of superior court in Durham county last week, report of the Durham police department was made public. Nothing much happened as a result, because the report did not contain anything that was not already generally known and had been the subject of considerable speculation. Publication of the official report did serve to curb some wild rumors about the police department. That incident raises anew the question of merit in the statute putting SBI reports in the class of highly restricted material. Similar question arises almost every day about the degree of secrecy appropriate for federal government reports for federal government before congressional committees.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

h somewhere else say, at an eating place. After all State employees too have to eat as they go about their business.

It is well enough to investigate these cases, to check up where checking up is warranted; but to condemn an individual in advance, to jump to conclusions without proof, is unfair and indefensible. There may be many occasions when it will cost the State less for an employee to take his car home and leave it there overnight than to store it somewhere else. There are all sorts of mitigating circumstances which ought to be determined and weighed before judgment is passed or condemnation voiced. State workers have a lot to contend with, just as do private workers, and they are entitled to some considerations, concessions and offsetting compensation.

The Daily News favors economy in government and saving all that can be saved without impairment of effectiveness and efficiency of operations. But that does not mean saving at the spigot while wasting at the bung, condemnation of many for the practices of a few or prejudging anybody before the full facts and circumstances are known. The main purpose of the agitation at Raleigh may have been already accomplished; it would be a simple-minded State employee who, in the light of what has been said and done and the heat that is on, would now go riding around in a motor vehicle bearing the Great Seal of the State where he did not really have public business.

Business Today

One of the oldest, textbook principles of the American system is that the more goods are manufactured, the cheaper they will be. It has been demonstrated time and time again. Factories doubling and tripling production have been able to sell for less. There are many reasons for this. By buying in larger quantities, they get a lower price for materials. By keeping machines at full capacity, they reduce the share of machine costs that each item must bear. They also reduce each unit's share of the costs of management and overhead.

Now this principle is going to run head-on into the output of raw materials later this year. The diversion of steel for defense will cut back the output of heavy consumer durables, such as refrigerators, washing machines and ironers, about 30 per cent below a year ago. Production of automobiles will be cut ever further, around 37 per cent.

If more production reduces unit costs, the less production is likely to increase production costs.

It begins to look as if either the old textbooks will have to be rewritten or that prices will have to be allowed to go up again.

The only alternative to these choices is lower profits for manufacturers. But this is not a happy alternative for the country as a whole. Corporation earnings are needed to pay a share of the taxes that pay for defense and, when profits become reduced to the vicinity of zero, most manufacturers will lose interest in producing goods.

The situation has alarmed top brass in the Office of Price Stabilization. It's agreed that industry can't function without a reasonable profit; in fact regulations permit any industry earning less than 85 per cent of the average of its best three years between 1946 and 1949 may apply for price increases.

And if cutbacks in the production lines create situations where price rises are necessary, they will be reflected in the cost of living. And if that goes up, labor will be in a position to demand higher wages, which will in turn tend to increase the costs of production.

It's a tight little circle and it's worrying OPS planners.

NEW NYLON PLANT TO UP PRODUCTION 50 PERCENT
The construction of a new nylon producing plant at Pensacola, Fla., by Chemstrand Corp. is expected to increase production by 50 per cent.

Chemstrand, which has been licensed to make nylon by Du Pont, expects to produce 50,000,000 pounds of nylon a year. While Du Pont has not made its production public, trade sources estimate the three Du Pont plants turn out about 100,000,000 pounds a year.

It is expected that any increase and a large part of present production will be taken over by the armed forces for a period of years.

OPS TIMETABLE FOR RETAILERS
Most retailers will be pretty busy during the next few weeks wrestling with OPS requirements. Here is the OPS timetable.

Today: Service trades must post ceiling prices of retail services, according to CFR 34, Sect. 18-7.

June 18: Meat retailers must post beef ceiling prices and display beef grades in separate trays, with each tray price tagged, according to CFR 25.

June 30: Retailers of consumer goods must cease sale of items covered by CFR 7 unless the OPS has acknowledged receipt of the retailers pricing chart.

July 1: Retailers must complete marking and tagging items under CFR 7 with ceiling prices and post sign reading: "Notice—The price of merchandise in this store is no higher than the OPS ceiling prices of the articles."

BUILDERS EMPLOYING 530,000 FEWER MEN
The controls on home building appears to have forced large number of workers to find jobs in other industries.

During the third quarter of 1950, the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated 1,405,000 building trade workers were employed. In the first quarter of this year, only 875,000 were employed.

Housing unit starts in May were 97,500, only slightly more than the 95,000 in March, indicating that present employment is not much greater. Starts in May, 1950 were 149,000.

FURNITURE PROFITS UP AND THEN DOWN
Manufacturers of wooden household furniture made an average net profit after taxes of 5.5 per cent last year, compared with 3.9 per cent in 1949, according to Selman & Selman, industry accountants. Because the spring lag in sales, most manufacturers say profit ratios are currently lower.

NEW AND HOT
BUBBLING: A red California champagne is being introduced by Fromm, Sichel, 318 W. 5th St., New York 19. It is a true champagne, being fermented in the bottle, and has a tart, fruity flavor.

FOGGER: A gun-type hose nozzle which creates a dense fog under ordinary pressures has been developed by Bete Fog Nozzle, Inc., 85 Pierce St., Greenfield, Mass. The fog can be used in fires, laying dust, sprinkling clothes or watering delicate plants.

SATINY: Fine slipper satin is simulated in a new textured plastic. It's first appearance is on a boudoir chair by Rousseau Bros. Mfg. Co., Gardner, Mass. The covering can be cleaned with a damp sponge.

TAPE: A new "Scotch" tape is being introduced for home use. It has a glossy black plastic backing that is waterproof and impervious to oils, acids, sunlight and low temperatures, say the manufacturers, Minnesota Mining Mfg. Co., St. Paul 6, Minn. It can replace tire or friction tape.

NEW YORK —(AP) Oh, that ole debil rum. Yes, that ole debil rum.

Some people cry about it while they are alive. Some people buy it while they are alive.

Some have been known to drink it absent mindedly. Some use it as a hair tonic. A fair-minded few employ it for both purposes.

Liquor has done a lot of things to people through the ages. But very few people have returned the favor. Who offered to do anything for liquor?

Oh, of course, I don't mean anything so obvious as naming your daughters after it—such as Champagne Smith or Ambrosia Jones. Naturally any thoughtful family does that. Even the Bourbons, why as they are.

But did you ever hear of anybody almost leaving their money to liquor?

Never mind the juvenile ruins haunting our kindergartens. Never mind the startlingly falling cost of aspirin and the disturbingly steady price of beef. Let's get down to fundamentals. The subject:

Well, a lady named Miss Nancy Alma Livingston left many Los Angeles last December for the sunshine sanctuary of Heaven. She was a stubborn 71.

Besides the wet climate she left behind some $1,134 to 19 relatives. That is darn near $60 apiece, if it were split evenly.

Apparently foreseeing some difficulty about cutting her small pie into so many slices, Miss Livingston put in her will a stipulation that if any portion were refused it should go to "some sabboteers' society fund for the promotion of liquor drinking."

I have discussed this situation with several of my friends' favorite bartenders. They all agree the lady's will is unreal.

"Any relative who can get $60 of $1,134 today isn't likely going to contest the will," said one custodian of the mahogany.

Another said:

"If we could get a Rockefeller or a Du Pont heiress to make the same provision, I would be more willing to wrestle her survivors for the cash."

But the general consensus of the bar hoppers was that the very idea was an insult to their trade.

"If the promotion of liquor drinking depended on the rejection of inheritances," said one, "I would become a traveling salesman."

"Well, it is a long bar," said a customer. "What are you but a traveling salesman?"

"This accurate but ill-timed remark cost the client a drink on the house. The bartender had been about to pop. Instead he said:

"Obviously, a wise man is not going to turn down a bequest

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—Did you ever get stung? By a bee, I mean? Harold J. Clay, who has been working with bees for more than 30 years has been stung a good many times. Even the most practical beekeepers get stung.

"But some folks are going to doctors and beekeepers just for the purpose of getting stung," Mr. Clay, principal marketing specialist for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, told me.

"The bee venom is good for treating arthritis and rheumatism. A New York doctor who attended one of our bee meetings last year said he kept a beehive in his Fifth Avenue office solely for the purpose of treating such ailments."

Mr. Clay is always willing to talk about bees and honey, he says. Here are some facts, as relayed by bee-man Clay:

We may expect from 235,000,000 to 240,000,000 pounds of honey from bees in 1951. More than 234,000,000 pounds of honey were produced in this country in 1950. There are 500,000 bees for every county of the country.

California has the most bees. Minnesota produces the most honey. That, according to Mr. Clay, is because there's more nectar available in the sweet clover and alfalfa of the Red River Valley and the bees are able to store more surplus than they are in California.

The honey taken off by beekeepers from the hives has averaged 200,000,000 pounds per year, but Mr. Clay says this is actually less than one third of the honey developed in the hives from the nectar brought in by the bees.

"Actually, the nectar is 80 per cent water when the bees bring it home," he said. "The bees have to take the extra moisture out before the nectar is suitable for use either by them or us. If the honey is not brought down to less than 20 per cent excess water, fermentation is likely to develop."

The bees take care of absorbing the moisture by standing guard at each of two entrances to the hive. They flutter their wings and thus dry up the moisture.

Scripture—Acts 1:8; 4:28; Romans 1:1-16.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN THIS LESSON we see the Gospel of Christ spreading, in the face of persecution...

Persecution of Christians have occurred from time to time, even in this age which we like to think of as enlightened...

The first persecution we read of today came after Peter and John had healed a man who had been disabled from birth...

There were too many witnesses and the man whom all knew to be badly handicapped, was standing before them...

Peter stood up boldly before this august body, and answered readily, "Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ...

These early Christians shared and shared alike in their daily living. If one had property, he sold it and added the money received to the general fund...

Paul, having been arrested and tried, appealed to Caesar for justice. He was, therefore, being taken to Rome, when the ship was wrecked near the island of Melita...

The father of the chief man of the island, Publius, lay sick, and Paul visited him, laid his hands on him, and healed him...

When Rome was reached the prisoners were "delivered to the captain of the guard; but Paul was suffered to dwell by himself with a soldier that kept him."

After three days Paul called the chief of the Jews together to whom he explained his plight...

So it was that many came to the imprisoned Paul, and he "expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening..."

"And some believed the things which were spoken, and some believed not." At any rate, they had great "reasoning among themselves."

Then, after again being threatened, the two went to their own company and told what had happened to them. All then joined in prayer, asking that God "grant unto Thy servants, that with all boldness they may speak Thy word..."

When they had prayed the whole place was shaken and all were filled with the Holy Ghost, and spake henceforth with boldness.

Chisox Rise Up To Belt Washington

Youngsters Prove Calibre After Trouncing By Yankees In Again Starting Win Streak With Four Straight

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

You can tell a champ in any sport, they say, by the way he gets up after a loss and takes charge again—and that's just what those young and sassy Chisox, White Sox were doing today.

A lot of folks, who thought that the classy kids from the Windy City were just a "flash in the pan," figured that the belting they took in three straight games against the "old pro" New York Yankees would start the Sox on a long slide from first place, down.

But what happened?

Those pesky kids came from behind to beat the Yanks in the last game of that series, added a win over Washington Tuesday, and last night ran their streak to four games by taking both ends of a twin bill from the Senators, 8 to 7 and 14 to 5.

The splurge restored the Sox league lead to a fat 4 1-2 games over the Yankees. And it kept their record clear of defeat in games played in the East this season.

It looked like the Senators were going to stop Chicago in the first game, with a 7-6 lead going into the top of the eighth inning. But Floyd Baker pinch-hit a double that chased two Sox runs across the plate for a 8-7 lead and relief pitcher Randy Gumpert blanked Washington over the last two frames. The win went to reliever Marv Rothbart, Gumpert's predecessor, his fourth against one loss.

The second game never was in doubt, for the White Sox scored six runs in the second inning. "With this sort of a lead, Joe Dobson cruised to his fifth win although he allowed 14 hits.

In the only other American League action, Cleveland edged Philadelphia, 3 to 1, at night. Detroit at Boston and St. Louis at New York were rained out. In the National League, four day games saw Brooklyn beat St. Louis, 2 to 1; New York trounce Cincinnati, 11 to 6; Philadelphia crush the Cubs 11 to 3; and Pittsburgh down Boston, 9 to 4.

Brooklyn's victory was one of the most dramatic this season. The Bums were behind, 1-0, with one man out and two out in the ninth inning. But Gil Hodges, the major leagues' leading home run hitter, caught hold of a pitch by Joe Presko and hoisted it over 400 feet for the game-winning run.

It was Hodges' 20th homer of the year and provided the climax to a weird game which saw the Cards belt Ralph Branca and Carl Erskine for 15 hits—and only one run. In the fifth inning the first five Cards reached base safely—on three singles, one error and a walk—and none scored, thanks to two pick-off throws to second base by catcher Roy Campanella.

Larry Jansen of the Giants, given a four-run lead in the first inning, breezed to his sixth win, although he allowed homers to Reds Bobby Adams and Grady Hatton. Eddie Stanky homered for the second-place Giants, who still trail the Dodgers by six games.

The Phillies smashed 16 hits, including a homer by Bill Nicholson, in trouncing the Cubs. Russ Meyer, with an eight-hit pitching job, leveled his season record at 4-4 while Bob Rush took the loss.

Murry Dickson went all the way for Pittsburgh for his eighth win as Wally Westlake's 16th homer led his 13-hit support. Vern Bickford of the Braves, an eight-game winner, suffered his sixth loss.

The Cleveland Indians got all three of their runs in the sixth inning against the A's, on a bases-empty homer by Ray Boone and a two-run blast by Jim Hegan. Bob Lemon pitched the distance for his seventh win, allowing only six hits.

Five CPL Tilts Fail To Affect League Standings

The standings in the Coastal Plain League remained the same after the scores of five games played last night had been tabulated. There were two double-headers and one single game scheduled for last evening's play.

Kinston dropped its first game of the week to New Bern by a score of 7-4. The Bears scored seven runs in the seventh to take an easy win. Kinston pitchers were ready and willing to aid the winners as they issued six free passes and gave up three hits in the home half of the seventh. Johnny Kovalchick, making his first start as an Eagle, was charged with the defeat.

Bob Horan homered for Manager Wes Livengood's team in the top of the seventh.

Wilson's fighting Tobs took both ends of a doubleheader from Rocky Mount, 7-5 and 13-6. Bobby Harrison and Dick McClenney combined to hurl the first game for Wilson. Harrison, a former Greenville pitcher, started against a former teammate, Amby Foote, also a member of the disbanded Robins.

J. D. Thorne came in as a relief pitcher in the first inning of the second game to receive credit for the 13-6 win. His team scored three runs in the first inning without reaching base on a hit. Ervin Page, former N. C. State star, started on the mound for the losing Leafs and was promptly plagued with wildness. The first four men to face him were given walks, then the next man was struck by a pitched ball. Page immediately resumed the parade to first by passing the following six men. Paul Jones came in then to relieve him and stop the free running.

Dave Fowler, veteran catcher for the Leafs, slugged out a pair of home runs in the two games. His first came in the fifth stanza of the opener with two men on base. The second nightcap went in the 3rd inning of the nightcap with one on base.

Roanoke Rapids and Goldsboro split a twin-bill in the Cardinal city. Roanoke took the first 6-3 and then dropped the night-cap, 7-0.

The Jays scored three runs in the third of the opener to take a lead which they never lost. Bobby Horan led the stanza off with a 360 foot home run.

Basil Mitchell hurled a no hit ball for the Cards in the last game to whitewash the Jays, 7-0. The youngster allowed but four men to reach base.

Beautiful Ohio Not Impressive To Crew Coaches

MARIETTA, O.—(AP)—Twelve college coaches took a look today at "La Belle Riviere" and their verdict was "Phooney."

"La Belle Riviere" is the old Indian name for the Ohio river.

But whether it is "La Belle Riviere" or "Phooney" 12 colleges will go through with the intercollegiate regatta here Saturday.

Washington and California still are the favorites.

The river was slightly more than three miles an hour yesterday noon. The Weather Bureau at Cincinnati predicted a rise in the river's level to 22 feet by Saturday. Much driftwood is afloat.

Weather observers said, however, there was no danger of a flood like that of last year. The flood stage at Marietta is 36 feet.

Jack Boone To Manage Greenies

By MELVIN LANG

The Greenville Greens announced early yesterday afternoon that Jack Boone had been appointed manager of their semi-pro team.

Boone, who is head baseball coach at East Carolina College, will take over his managerial position with the Greens tonight when the team will hold its first practice session as a unit.

Boone has been at East Carolina for three years. His 1931 Pirates finished the regular season in the first division of the North State Conference.

He is married and is the father of one child, a boy.

The Greens also announced that they have contacted the members of the near-by Bright Belt League and "learned exclusively" that one of their becoming a member of the loop are "very favorable." Spokesmen for the team will meet with the league's president and directors in the near future to discuss the situation.

Bill Phillips, who is one of the originators of the club, stated today that the people of Greenville have cooperated 100% with us. Several firms in the city have donated money and equipment to the project.

Tennis Pros In Revolt At Bonus Deal In Tourneys

CLEVELAND—(UP)—A revolt broke out in the professional tennis ranks today over the practice of providing special entry bonuses to top-ranked players.

At a hastily called meeting last night, players competing in the international championships here voted to eliminate all such bonuses and to suspend any player who bypasses future tournaments.

Veteran Bill Tilden, who presided over the meeting, said, "It's no credit to the game when certain top players refuse to enter a tournament unless they're paid large sums of money just to make an appearance."

No names were mentioned but it was known the players were bitter over the refusal of Jack Kramer and Bobby Riggs to enter the current tournament.

Frank Kovacs and defending champion Pancho Segura gained the semi-finals last night. Kovacs routed Tilden, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, while Segura eliminated Elwood Cooke, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Little League Lions In 5-1 Win Over Kiwanians

The Lions dropped the Kiwanians by the score of 5-1 last night. Charlie Stator went the route for the winners and gave up but four hits. He fanned a total of eight men.

Three runs in the third clinched the victory. Two singles and a double, coupled with a walk and fielders choice, pushed the three runs home.

Catlette was charged with the loss for the Kiwanians. He allowed only four hits and struck out five. He walked four.

Roebuck, with a single and a double in three times, led the winners at bat. Edwards doubled in the sixth for the losers.

Corpse on the Town

By JOHN ROEBURT

Chapter 14

An ornate Florentine gate with peeling paint opened into Rainbow Alley. Pastry smells from La Petite Bake Shop hung heavily in the yard.

There were four bells; the bottom one read "Arents, Top Floor." Jigger started up the stairs. Shrieking came from somewhere overhead.

On the fourth landing, the music was a tidal roar. Jigger knocked on the door. The uproar stopped, and a voice shouted. Jigger entered.

The room was blindingly bright and overheated. The windows were closed, shades tightly drawn. Portable spotlights were hooked up in the four corners of the room, and trained on a centered easel. Except for the easel and a box phonograph on the floor, the room was unadorned.

A man with a red beard was seated on the floor beside the box slightly. Button-eyes fixed somnambulistically on Jigger; fingers shushing him. The man lifted a platter off the phonograph, set it on the floor, then fixed another in its place.

The uproar was immediate and unnerving. It was the Warsaw Concerto, keyed without regard for acoustical or tonal values.

Long after the concerto closed and the silence held.

Momentarily defensed. Jigger forced his voice into a shout. "Enjoyable music, Arents."

Arents' eyes dreamed. Jigger said, "I hate to break up a mood—" "Another time. And come earlier." Arents was being exasperatingly inquisitive about the identity of an unknown intruder.

Jigger deliberated his approach. The man was plainly formidable, complex. Eccentrics were invariably difficult to cope with. He held the postcard reproduction out in a sudden improvisation. He watched Arents react; watched the drooping underlip draw, the button eyes dart.

"Now, a few questions," Jigger said in a tone tinged with excitement.

"Who the devil are you?" "We'll skip that for the moment. First, the questions."

"What kind of questions?" "The model you posed for the oil painting 'Nude of the Inner Eye.' Who was she?"

Arents frowned darkly. "That's a funny question."

"But you're not laughing!" One score had already resulted; a corroboration of some of Aunt Penny's story. A live model had posed for the painting.

"She probably came from some agency," Arents took the postcard and stared at it, as if seeking to organize a memory that was hazy. Finally he nodded, "I remember the model. I did the painting years ago."

Jigger drew a deep breath. "You are lying."

Arents looked honestly perplexed. "Why do you think that?"

"Many reasons. And least among them, is your need to get chummy with every female who crosses your threshold."

Arents exploded wrathfully. "What kind of talk!"

Jigger smiled. "Your reputation precedes you. Now who was the girl?"

"I don't know."

"Then I'll tell you. Susan Hunter."

Arents shrugged indifferently. "I'm glad that settles that. Are we done?"

"How about Sally Woods, and Anne Brown?"

The names glanced meaninglessly off Arents' blank expression. He went to the door, and held it open. "Must I throw you out?"

Jigger moved to the open door, and delayed just inside the threshold, regarding Arents thoughtfully. "I neglected one vital detail," he began casually. "About those names if you're interested. They total up to murder."

Arents lifted his eyebrows.

"You mean mass murder, don't you?"

Jigger grinned. "One murder. Three names, one girl."

Arents contemplated him. "And are you related to the victim?"

"I'm an investigator."

"But why investigate me?"

"Because, frankly, my investigation so far implicates you."

Arents said indignantly, "Merely because some girl once posed for a painting of mine!"

Jigger nodded gravely. "And because that same girl was murdered by a person or persons still unknown to the police." He paused, aiming his next shaft. Now if he could solidify the fear in Arents!

Jigger said pointedly, "I didn't chance in here accidentally."

Arents stared at him. "How did you come here, anyhow?"

"I can't disclose that. But I'll say this much: If I found my way here, to question and harass you, so can the police." Jigger pointed to the open door. "You can throw me out, but the police will break the door down."

Arents closed the door thoughtfully. "You've not a policeman?"

"No."

"Then what's your interest?"

"I'd rather not say, not now anyhow." Jigger urged, "Cooperate with me, and you'll save yourself a million headaches."

"Cooperate, how?" There was more than a hint of willingness in Arents now.

"By openness. Your studio is so far the last chronological stage in the known life story of the victim. Now, if I can push the chronology forward; get at her life after the business of her posing here for you. And that's where you get a break too, Arents. Instead of being the last known episode in the girl's life, you become just a painter who hired a model. See what I mean?"

Arents nodded doubtfully. He said, "I'm cooperative; but let me say frankly that I suspect your motives."

"Then why cooperate?"

"Because you've succeeded in what you've been trying to do since you came in. You've scared me into cooperation. You've convinced me that if you can come here, so can the police. Presented with a choice, as you quite subtly presented me with it, I prefer you. Arents smiled weakly. "The police are too numerous, and I hate crowds. Now, ask your questions."

"Who was Sally Woods, or Anne Brown?"

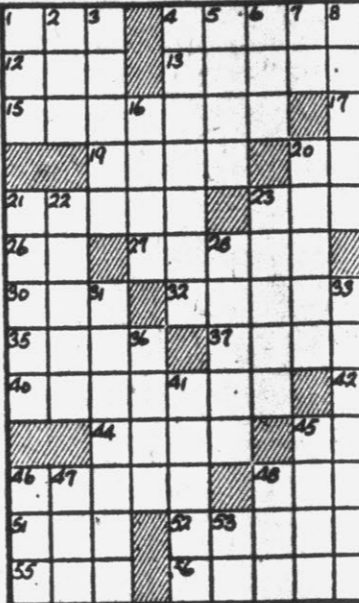

The beard pointed. "You still think I was lying?"

"Just evading," Jigger appeared grinningly. "Now, about Sally Woods, or whatever name you knew her by?"

Washington-Tokyo Axis Anticipated By British

LONDON (UP)—Officials dealing with the Japanese peace treaty are wondering if a Washington-Tokyo axis is taking shape to replace the London-Delhi axis to hold the balance of power in Asia.

They said the balance in Asia has been changed by the loss of the Indian army as a force which could be used beyond India's boundaries.

"Now that the Indian army is out of the picture, something has to replace it and that is likely to be a revived Japanese army," one official said.

"America has made the decision to re-arm Japan. The decision was taken under the compulsion of finding a strong Asian army with which to co-operate."

Problem Recognized

"Other countries concerned with the Japanese peace treaty recognize that such a decision must rest with the United States, which bore the major burden of war in the Pacific and the cost of the Japanese occupation."

The conclusion of a treaty for Japan, officials here said, "could turn an ugly situation in the Far East all to the good."

They said, however, that Japanese re-armament was "only one part of the new Western strategy in Asia."

"Japanese re-armament has been discussed not only as part of the treaty but in connection with the security of all Asia," the official said.

Russia Would React

Official sources said it was recognized that the new strategy by the West will lead to new strategy on the other side and that Japanese re-armament might bring in to play the Indo-Soviet Military agreement or at least throw Communist China and Russia into close partnership.

"The Japanese peace treaty will lead to a clearing of the decks in Asia," officials said. "The immediate aim may be to prevent a power vacuum in Japan but once the Japanese army is brought back to life, it will change the balance of power throughout Asia by completing the defense union of offshore territories from Japan to New Zealand in a Pacific pact."

Children Should Have Taste Of Country Life

By DAVID TAYLOR MASKE

Children should know what country life is like. They should know the joy of playing in healthful mud, of padding in clean waders, of hearing roosters call up the sun and birds ringing praises to God for the new day.

Of course, all children can't spend time in the country, but if at all possible, parents should see that Junior gets to know something about the land he lives in.

As Henry Turner Bailey writes for the National Kindergarten Association, children "should have the vision of pure skies enriched at dawn and sunset with unspeakable glory; of dew-drenched mornings flashing with priceless gems; of grain fields and woodlands yielding to the feet of the wind; of the vast night sky all throbbing and panting with stars."

Children should experience the thrill of going barefoot, of being out in the rain without umbrellas and rubber coats and overshoes, of sliding down pine boughs, of climbing ledges and tall trees, of diving head first into a transparent pool, he says.

Things that children can do in cities are not to be compared with such country activities. Out of the country and its experiences has come, and always will come, says Bailey, the most stimulating and beautiful art of the world. One cannot appreciate and enjoy to the full nature books, novels, histories, poems, pictures, or even musical compositions, who has not had in his youth the blessed contact with the world of nature.

It's a child's birthday, says Bailey, to know the smell of wet earth, of new-mown hay, of the blossoming wild grape and eglantine; of an apple orchard in May and of a pine forest in July; of the crushed leaves of wax myrtle, sweet fern, mint and fir; of the breath of cattle and of fog blown inland from the sea.

They should have a chance to chase butterflies, to catch fish, to ride on a load of hay, to camp out, to cook over an open fire, to tramp through new country, and to sleep under the open sky. They should have the fun of driving a horse, paddling a canoe, and sailing a boat, and of discovering that nature will honor the humblest seed they plant. Says Bailey:

"I do not forget what cities have done for us, and always must do; but one can get all the best a city has to yield by visiting it, whereas one cannot reap all the harvests of the country except by living there in childhood. And I feel somehow that such a life in the country is the birthright of every child."

If a child lives in the country, he includes, "the voice of the Lord God, walking in the garden in the cool of the day" is more likely to be heard; and, being heard, that Voice will be answered more frequently and with warmer love.

Wool Clothing Prices To Rise

WASHINGTON (UP)—Wool clothing price increases appeared "inevitable" in the fall as the government put all wearing apparel under dollars-and-cents ceiling today.

However, the order was expected to result in "some rollbacks in prices of cotton and rayon garments."

Shoes, which are covered by other regulations, were not affected. Several other items including diapers, hair nets and canes also were excluded.

The order covered all other clothing for which the public spends about $15,000,000,000 a year, from dresses, suits, underwear and children's apparel to gloves, belts, wallets, handbags, hosiery, church vestments and masquerade costumes.

But officials of the Office of Price Stabilization predicted little change in the over-all cost of clothing and accessories, although forecasting many ups and downs in ceiling prices of individual items. They said competition would be a powerful factor in holding prices down.

The order requires some 30,000 clothing manufacturers to compute new ceiling prices on the basis of pre-Korean prices plus increases in labor and materials costs since the outbreak of the war. The new ceilings may be used immediately, but must be put into effect by Aug. 15.

Old Model Auto Provides Driver Two-Fold Woes

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Motorists who think they have a parking problem should listen to this tale of woe of Johnny Tortore, who points with mixed feelings to "Old Betsy."

The car is a brassy maroon Buick off the 1911 production lines. It is hard to start and needs some cranking—and looks a bit awkward being driven from the right side.

But the big trouble is parking, the owner says. "Old Betsy" just draws too many admiring glances from the pedestrians.

What Tortore means, is that he has to hide it from souvenir hunters. At one time or another they've snatched everything from the rubber ball on the horn to the brass lantern.

The AMF Jet Curer not only uses less oil than other curers, but burns cheaper (No. 2) fuel oil, as well. It uses a new way of getting heat from the oil it burns. Because no exhaust stack is needed, all of this heat goes into the barn. All of this heat is put to work. Leading tobacco growers have proved that the Jet Curer can cut your fuel costs from 30 to 50 percent! It is fully automatic, safe and easy to operate.

This new kind of tobacco curer is now available with a new method of heat distribution. The AMF System, built of sturdy galvanized iron and sheet steel, is flexible — to give you constant, uniform heat throughout the barn, or extra-hot, instantly, to any part of the barn.

Just add up all these features — low fuel costs, automatic operation, automatic safety devices, plus clean, clear, smokeless heat — instant heat when you want it and instant heat where you want it. These are features you've always wanted. Now they are all combined into one compact unit, the AMF Jet Tobacco Curer. Pitt Cotton Growers Start Campaign On Boll Weevil

Pitt County cotton farmers this week joined in the statewide fight against the boll weevil after several fields in the county were found to be infested for the first time this year.

S. C. Winchester, farm agent for Pitt, reported that in his first weekly weevil check Wednesday he had found weevils in two fields and weevil damage in seven others. He spot-checked eight fields in six townships.

He reported weevil damage heavy in the seven fields, but no evidence of the actual weevils. Those seven, placed with the two in which weevils were found, indicated to Winchester, he said, that the bugs are pretty generally in the cotton fields throughout the county.

He recommended treatment as soon as it is convenient to the farmer.

"I'm not basing the recommendation for treatment on just the weevils found in the county this week," he said.

However, he reported that an experiment station in Florence, S.C., had reported heavy infestation earlier in the week, whereas the week before only one weevil had been found.

And "we're only a couple of days behind Florence," Winchester said. The infestation this year is a little later than it was found last year, due to the colder winter, he said. And the heavy rain Wednesday night should bring them out in large numbers, he thought.

The agent will continue to make weekly field counts through the summer months. Each check calls for counting the weevils in 100 squares in the field, thereby enabling him to get a percentage of the countywide infestation.

He urged the farmers to treat before Monday or Tuesday of next week. It is essential to the farmers, he said, if the county is to harvest the 14,000 acres requested by the government for the war production program.

He said the treatment countywide is much more effective if all farmers poison their fields. In that way, the weevils are kept from migrating to other fields.

Welfare Dept. Notes

The Superintendent of Public Welfare with Mr. Arch Flanagan, chairman of the Welfare Board; Dr. Paul Jones, Senator; Mr. Frank Kilpatrick, Representative; Mr. Allan Powell, Auditor; Mr. D. T. House, Jr. Clerk of Superior Court; Mr. W. W. Speight, County Attorney attended an administrative conference at Washington on Wednesday. The purpose of this conference which embraced 11 Eastern Carolina counties, was to explain new legislation passed by the last General Assembly. In matters affecting local government, as related to the Department of Public Welfare, approximately 125 county officials were in attendance from the 11 counties.

At the last meeting of the Board of Public Welfare eight new Old Age Assistance cases were approved, 37 cases reviewed and revised; 15 cases were terminated, eight of whom died.

Changes in Aid to Dependent Children were as follows: Four applications approved; 55 cases reviewed and revised, and 48 cases closed.

The program for assistance for the blind shows three cases terminated and three cases reviewed and revised.

One Man Injured In Collision; Autos Damaged

A highway accident yesterday morning, two miles south of Venters' Cross Roads, resulted in one person being admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital and heavy damage to two cars.

Patrolman Paul C. Whitley listed the injured person as John D. Zeh, who suffered an injured right ankle.

According to Whitley, a car being operated by John Douglas Zeh, 403 East Ninth street, Greenville, collided with a jeep driven by Leslie Harris, Route 1, Winterville. The accident occurred when Zeh attempted to pass the Harris car, just as it was making a left hand turn off the road.

Both drivers stated that they gave indication that they were passing and turning, but each failed to observe the other's signals, Whitley said.

No charges were placed against either driver by the investigating officer.

Just Like Autumn

Autumn weather was prevailing in the Greenville area during the forenoon today. The sky was overcast and the wind was from the northeast.

The highest temperature registered at the local Weather Bureau station yesterday was 85 degrees in the afternoon; lowest last night, 61, and at 8 a. m. today the mercury stood at 67.

Seven Attended Credit Meeting

Seven officers and members of the Greenville Production Credit Association have returned from the group conference of the 27 associations in the state held at Carolina Beach Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Board of Directors of the local association had 100 percent attendance at this meeting, a record which it has held since this association was organized in 1933.

Those attending were D. P. Hardison, president; Alton Gardner, vice president; Ayden; F. L. Little, Jr., secretary - treasurer; and directors Jesse L. Tripp, Ayden; E. W. Fleming, Grifton; Arch J. Flanagan, Farmville; and B. R. Rayford, assistant secretary - treasurer, Snow Hill.

The program included various committee reports on PCA matters and a special address by David S. Weaver, director of the Extension Service, who outlined a program for development of the state's agriculture. According to Weaver, proper credit is essential in making the adjustments which are necessary to the full development of the program.

City Is Removing Old Tree Stumps

Tree stumps are being taken down on Evans Street, between Ninth and Tenth Streets by the City Street Department.

The stumps were left from the trees which were taken down last Spring and people on Evans Street asked that the stumps be uprooted and hauled away.

C. K. Beatty, superintendent of the Street Department, said they had been uprooting the stumps during the week and had almost completed the work.

Blind Indian Boy Amazes Tourists

GORE BAY, Ont.—(AP)—A 20-year-old Indian youth, blind since the age of three, frequently amazes visitors to this resort town by buzzing along on a bicycle at speeds up to 15 miles an hour.

Danny Megwan has been totally blind since he had double pneumonia and measles, but in his mind he carries a phenomenally accurate map of this area on which is charted every road, path, house, fence, bridge, and almost every stick and stone.

Danny's ears stand at attention when he is cycling in case an automobile comes along. If he hears one he gets off the bike and waits at the side of the road for the car to pass. He never rides on the town streets during the summer months. There are too many tourists' cars.

Approve Request To Leave Army

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—The Army announced today that it has approved the retirement request of Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of the Sixth Army here.

A Sixth Army spokesman said Wedemeyer, 63, was notified in Washington Tuesday that his application for retirement was approved. His length of service, 36 years, made granting of the request mandatory.

Ready To Leave Volcano Island

LISBON, Portugal—(UP)—Terror-stricken natives have been driven to the edge of the sea by lava from an eruption volcano on Pego Island in the Cape Verde group, official reports said today. Two ships lay off the coast ready to take off the natives, if necessary.

Planes reported flames shot 300 feet into the air and smoke rose to 30,000 feet from two new craters yesterday. The volcano, inactive for 200 years, began erupting three days ago after a series of earthquakes on the island.

Urges Observance 'Regulation X'

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The voluntary credit restraint committee of the Federal Reserve Board today urged banks to follow Regulation X on the sale of all homes. The committee said the order should be observed even if the transaction is not governed by credit rule.

Regulation X imposes home mortgage limitations ranging from 90 per cent on houses costing $5,000 or less to 50 per cent on houses costing more than $22,500.

The committee also urged that mortgages on existing privately-financed apartment houses and commercial buildings be limited to two-thirds of the value.

Daring Rescue In Korea Told

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The Air Force has revealed a daring rescue of an American pilot who was picked up behind enemy lines in Korea by an amphibious plane.

The rescue—first of its kind in the war—was made by 1st Lt. John J. Majarian, Fresno, Cal. Majarian landed his plane on an unidentified Korean river at night under gun fire and without lights to pick up the downed flier, whose identity was not disclosed.

3. Russia continues to pour weapons into Korea. The recent advance of the U.N. army overran enemy supply dumps which were stocked with Russian-made products including tanks, rifles, vehicles, ammunition and uniforms. The Korean War probably would end within a month if Russia decided to cut off supplies.

ST. PETER RESIGNS

WASHINGTON—(UP)—St. Peter has resigned from the morgue. Joseph F. St. Peter, 36, had been a coroner's assistant, starting telephone callers with this standard greeting: "District Morgue, St. Peter speaking."

FACES PROBATION

LOS ANGELES—(UP)—Actor Robert Coogan, 26, brother of Jackie Coogan, "The Kid" of silent films, faced three years' probation today for possessing narcotics. Police said they found a can of marijuana in Coogan's pocket.

Nickel's Decline

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(UP)—A Birmingham reporter who surveyed the city's business district said today that he failed to turn up more than a dozen items which still can be bought for a lowly nickel.

Martin Waldron of the Birmingham Post-Herald said the best buys seemed to be a perculator top, an hour in a parking zone and a big hair comb.

Clerks thought it was funny that anyone would try to make a purchase for only a nickel. But Waldron said they searched the stock and came up with such items as a package of hairpins, small gelatin molds and cookie cutters.

Lesson In . . .

But the presidential plea to the people to get behind congress and give a push is a pretty clear admission that the President is a long way from having any strong party control in congress or getting what he wants there.

And he had another pretty good reason for going easy on congress last night to avoid stirring up any more antagonism than exists there now. He wants congress to pass some other important legislation:

(1) Billions for defense; (2) more billions for foreign arms and economic aid; and (3) more billions to run the government. Congress already has shown its mood is to whack big chunks out of No. 3, it hasn't taken any real action on Nos. 1 and 2.

All in all, Mr. Truman's talk last night was mostly a job of explaining to the nation in ABC style why he thinks the controls law should be continued. It was carefully done. No one could complain it was over his head.
