FBI Hunts 4 In U.S. 'Politburo'

Suspect Indicted Men Of Going Underground To Build Fifth Column

NEW YORK (UP)—FBI agents hunted today for four missing blow-ups in the American Communist Party's alternate "politburo" who may have gone underground to build a fifth column.

Justice Department sources said cases of 12,000 other Communists are under study in the crackdown on the party's plot to overthrow the U. S. government.

Four leaders could not be found yesterday when squads of G-men raided a series of quiet dawn raids and arrested 17 out of 21 high-ranking Reds on charges of conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Absent at the arraignment in Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman's court were James E. Jackson, 36, Negro, the party's Southern regional director; William N. Marron, 9, executive secretary of the New York state party; Sidney Steinberg, 36, assistant national labor secretary and Fred Fine, 37, secretary of the party's public affairs commission.

An alternate politburo was selected by the Communists several weeks ago to take over the operation of the party when the first string of 11, sentenced to prison by Judge Harold Medina in 1949, eventually go to jail.

Two members of the second-platoon, Claudia Jones, 36, Negro, who faces deportation to her native Trinidad, and Pettis Ferry, 54, Alabama-born Negro, were arrested yesterday and the four missing members were indicted.

That for the 11 indicted yesterday totaled $181,000. Three were held in $30,000 bail each, one in $15,000, 11 in $10,000, and one in $5,000 and one in $1,000. Sixteen were jailed and one was paroled because of illness.

Jackson, a native of Richmond, Va., but a legal resident of Brooklyn, was promoted to Southern regional director of the party for his work as an organizer in Louisiana and as vice-president of the Southern Negro Youth Congress.

Telephone Talks Will Cost More
RALEIGH (UP)—Durham and Creedmoor citizens will soon find that talk isn't so cheap after all.

The State Utilities Commission has authorized the Durham Telephone Co. to raise its rates to 24.92¢ subscribers in the two communities to bring in an additional $154,700 per year. The firm had asked a $220,181 increase.

Infected Cattle Ordered Removed
RALEIGH (UP)—The State Board of Agriculture announced today that all animals infected with brucellosis or Bang's disease must be removed from grade A dairy herds by July 1, 1952.

Defends Pais

BIRMINGHAM (UP)—The commanding officer of the Birmingham Ordnance District today defended the "integrity and ability" of two civilian employees accused of passing on a huge contract award to a firm organized by ex-convicts.

Col. C. Wingate Reed said he had "every confidence" in Frank Legar and J. F. Mitchell whom a congressional subcommittee recommended be fired.

The committee report said Legar and Mitchell okayed a multi-million-dollar government contract for the manufacture of armed forces supplies by the Elvair Corp. of Jackson, Miss.

"I believe both men are making every effort in their power to obtain for the government the best deal they can with fairness to the contractor, in every contract we've negotiated or in every recommendation we have made," Reed said.

Reed said Mitchell's investigation showed the Mississippi company had leased a building adequate for production of canvas tarpaulins and that machinery to produce them already was in the building.

Asks House For Large Tax Raise

Doughton Sees $7 Billion Increase As Limit To Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Doughton (D-NC) asked the House today to approve a $7,300,000,000 tax increase, and said he didn't see how the rates could be boosted any higher.

The 87-year-old North Carolinian heads the Ways and Means Committee which drew up the bill, due to come to a final vote in the House late tomorrow.

He endorsed the huge proposed increase, largest in American history, urgently needed to finance the nation's defense program. But he told his colleagues solemnly:

"I consider it unlikely that we shall be able to increase substantially the yield of the federal tax system beyond what is included in the present bill.

"I say this in all frankness and sincerity, for I consider it essential that we face up to the fact that individuals or corporations or excises would be exceedingly burdensome and difficult to impose."

Doughton said that under the current fiscal situation, congress has three choices: increase taxes even higher than proposed in the pending bill; re-examine and reduce federal spending, both the ordinary operations of government and the military and foreign aid budget; or embark upon a renewed program of borrowing and deficit financing.

Sees Long Rule For Peron Party

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—President Juan D. Peron believes his Peronista Party will rule Argentina for many years.

Peron expressed the belief in an address to Peronista census takers Tuesday night. The speech was released last night.

He accused his opposition of wanting a revolution because it does not have a chance in the 1952 presidential elections.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(AP)—Dr. James Howard Means, internationally known Harvard and Massachusetts General Hospital medical authority, long odds with the American Medical Association on the question of public health insurance, has resigned from the society in protest.

Mortar Deaths Said Caused By Defective Shell

Gun Crew Certain Bad Ammunition Caused Eight Training Deaths

CAMP LEJEUNE (UP)—Bitter, saddened marines who saw their buddies cut down by mortar fire said today they felt sure the tragedy was caused by bad ammunition.

Investigators were still questioning expert weapons crews to find out why two mortar shells fell short of their target, killing eight marines and wounding 23 others. But in the eyes of the men on the problem, it was clearly an accident.

The men had been gathered around a battalion command post when the two shells ploughed in, showering destruction over the area. Members of the company who escaped told reporters they were in a heavily wooded area, near the New River.

The shells struck simultaneously, one private said. "At first I didn't know what happened," he added. "I heard the whistle of shells and they seemed to be coming too close. When the shells struck, I was knocked to the ground by the blast. When I got up, men were screaming all around me. It was horrible."

A sergeant in another unit, about 25 yards away, said he thought the first shell hit a tree and was deflected into the CP before it exploded.

"We were operating about 3,000 yards forward of the battalion command post in an area that housed another old CP. When the shells struck, the men were out in the open," he said.

"We don't believe the tragedy was the fault of the mortarman," another noncommissioned officer said. "We are all positive that those shells were defective. Naturally we're bitter... it isn't easy to see your barracks-mates killed or wounded, so far from actual battle."

All but one of the men killed and wounded were low-rank enlisted men. Twenty-two of them were taken to the Camp Lejeune naval hospital, and another was kept at the division dispensary.

Officers ordered the mortars which fired the rounds impounded last yesterday, and dropped a curtain of secrecy around their investigation. However, members of the mortar crew said they knew themselves the shells were defective the instant they left the guns.

"You can see the shells for a moment after they leave the gun," one of them explained. "You can tell by the sound whether a shell is short."

The mortarman grabbed their field telephones the instant the round was fired to warn the forward post, but the shells landed before the messages went through.

Draft Board Is After Him, And He's Only 82

PALMETTO, Fla.—(UP)—Samuel T. Sample tried to get into the fighting in the Spanish-American War and World War I but was rejected.

He decided not to try World War II. By that time he was wearing glasses and a hearing aid.

The month the Korean war started the 82-year-old man received his first draft notice. Sample went to Tampa and thought he had his draft status straightened out. He learned that someone had forged his name, even using his middle name of Twyman.

Six weeks ago he received an order to report for a pre-induction physical examination. Once more he hurried to Tampa.

Grifton Housing Project Well Under Way

Many of the 41 houses in the new housing project at Grifton are well under way as construction crews finish their third week of work on the project. The new housing development, known as Grifton Heights, is being built by the Wachovia Building Company of Raleigh.

Most of the homes in the project are expected to be occupied by new Grifton residents connected with Du Pont's new Dacron plant near Grifton. (Reflector Staff photo).

Moves Friday
The county welfare department, located in the Skinner Building, will move its offices to the third floor of the old Pitt General Hospital building next Friday.

The office will be closed during the day but will re-open in the hospital the following day. The new location will provide a great deal more space than the Skinner Building provides now, including private offices for case workers. The office will also have access to elevator service.

Reds Fall Back Toward Line Based On Wonsan

UN Troops Enter Kaesong; Last Major Communist-Held City South Of 38th Parallel; Patrols Meet Little Opposition

TOKYO (UP)—United Nations troops drove back into Kaesong, last major Communist-held city south of the 38th parallel, on the Korean western front today.

Kaesong, three miles south of the parallel, was the first city to fall to the Communists in their invasion of South Korea June 25.

UN patrols pushed into Kaesong before dawn and again this afternoon against little or no enemy opposition.

Red forces still hold high ground overlooking Kaesong from the northwest, however, and the Allies apparently made no immediate attempt to occupy the city.

The 38th parallel passes through the enemy-held heights and few Red troops on the southern slopes are the last Communist soldiers remaining below the parallel.

N. C. Farmers To Vote Nov. 3 On Special Levies
RALEIGH (UP)—North Carolina farmers will vote Nov. 3 on a proposal to tax fertilizers and feeds to support agricultural research.

The referendum date was set yesterday at a meeting of the State Board of Agriculture.

The proposal calls for an assessment of five cents per ton on commercial feeds and fertilizers. The funds, amounting to $125,000 to $140,000 per year, would be turned over to the North Carolina Agricultural Foundation for use in research and reporting the results to farmers.

Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. backed by the State Grange and the Farm Bureau Federation.

House Veteran's Benefit Bill Is Sent To Senators

WASHINGTON (UP)—Legislation for hundreds of millions of dollars in veterans benefits was dumped into the Senate's lap today.

Chairman John E. Rankin (D-Miss.) of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, yesterday rushed through the House 11 bills which could cost more than $2,000,000 in the next five years.

The usually economy-minded House took less than three hours to approve the measures without a single record vote.

Iran Parliament Supports Action

Hurley Declares Work Disparaged By State Dept.

Yalta Agreement Again Chief Topic Of Senate Policy Probing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Patrick J. Hurley accused the State Department today of making "a deliberate attempt to disparage me" in its 1949 "White Paper" on China.

Hurley, World War Two Ambassador to China, was testifying for the second day at the Senate inquiry into Far Eastern Policy generally and the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Patrick J. Hurley told senators today that President Roosevelt, shortly before his death in 1945, gave him a mission of trying to soften the terms of the Yalta agreement.

Much of the questioning, as on the first day, turned toward the Yalta Agreement.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis) brought out that one of those who attended the Yalta Conference was Alger Hiss, a State Department official since jailed for perjury. Hiss was convicted of lying when he swore he did not give U. S. secrets to a pre-war Communist spy ring.

With reference to an earlier question by Wiley about who were the prime actors at Yalta, Hurley said he had noticed that former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes stated yesterday that he had no knowledge of the secret agreement or any secret commitments until months after Yalta.

"I think possibly that proves a complete alibi," Hurley said.

He continued: "Then you would have left Secretary Stettinius who unfortunately is deceased, a very fine man, but you would have Ambassador Averell Harriman who was there."

"You have quite a number of men who were present at Yalta, but I think, Senator, to ask me to testify to the minute details that happened at Yalta would be putting me in a position where I would get off on (to) hearsay."

Wiley noted that Hurley, in his testimony yesterday, had bitterly denounced the 1945 Yalta Agreement as an "immoral and cowardly" pact which he said amounted to appeasement of Communism.

Wiley then questioned Hurley as to who were the "prime actors in that great drama" at Yalta "which so changed the world."

Hurley replied he was not at Yalta, but "there are a number of witnesses who were x x x x."

"Well," said Wiley, "Hiss was at Yalta, wasn't he?"

Hurley: "Yes, sir, Hiss was at Yalta."

Wiley: "Do you suggest that we subpoena Hiss?"

Premier Wins Confidence Vote As Mob Triumphantly Rips Down Oil Company Signs And Unfurl Iranian Flags; British Force Said On Red Sea

TEHRAN (UP)—The Iranian Parliament unanimously approved seizure of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. today while crowds stormed the firm's main offices to raise the national flag.

Police did not try to stop the crowds who shouted anti-British slogans and ripped down signs inside and outside the building. The Iranian government began taking over the company's installations in the oil fields yesterday.

Premier Mohamed Mossadeq won his vote of confidence by 90 to 0, with one abstention. Several thousand persons cheered and waved banners and flags outside as he said he needed the confidence vote because "the company must go."

At Abadan, in the oil fields, an Anglo-Iranian meeting broke up when the Iranians refused to talk while the British consul general was present. Their stand was that the British government is not a party to the dispute.

The Arabic press reported in Cairo that British heavy artillery and tank reinforcements have been sent through the Red Sea to an unknown destination near Israel.

In Washington, government officials said American oil companies may pool their overseas facilities to meet any world petroleum shortage resulting from the crisis, under a suspension of the anti-trust laws.

Tramcars snarled past Yalta, the police and broke into the main offices of the AIOC, ripped down signs inside and outside the building and unfurled Iranian flags.

Other mobs roamed Tehran streets tearing signs from AIOC filling stations. They were encouraged by National Frontists who toured the city in cars urging mass demonstrations against the oil company tonight.

Police guards were stationed at the doors of the main AIOC offices and filling stations with instructions to prevent employees from removing files or equipment.

First reports indicated no one was injured. Government representatives hoisted the Iranian flag over the Abadan refinery yesterday, but it was still pumping oil to AIOC tankers at last reports.

However, Hussein Makki, a member of the oil commission and secretary-general of the National Front, said he would shut down the refinery unless tanker captains sign receipts made out to the government's Persian National Oil Co.

One thousand cheering, fist-shaking Iranians pushed past steel-belted Iranian troops and followed Makki to the courtyard of the refinery to applaud the raising of the Iranian flag.

"We're fully prepared to sacrifice ourselves in an effort to break down the chain of foreign exploitation," Makki said. "Your essential duty at the moment is to maintain peace and order."

King Baker Ross, British head of the refinery, indicated later that he would turn off the flow of oil to the refinery if the Iranians ordered him to do so.

"I'm not going to argue with a man with a rifle and a bayonet," he said.

U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady refused to give up hope of a peaceful settlement. He urged Basil R. Jackson, deputy chairman of the AIOC, to remain in Tehran until the last possible moment.

Reputation At Stake

British Diplomats Noted For The Give And Take Of International Relations But Reputation Stands To Be Tarnished If Iran Problem Is Not Settled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Every year, it seems, congress gets indignant about government press agents and murrurs "let's get rid of them. Nothing happens and the years pass. This time something may happen."

Senator Byrd, Virginia Democrat, is leading the crusade for "more news and less bull." Under his urging the senate has voted to cut down the money spent on the publicity men. If the house also approves, there will be fewer of them.

The economy-minded Virginian cited some figures which he dug up from various sources: There are 4,199 publicity men in the government. Their work costs about $103,070,000 a year: $13,000,000 in pay; $50,000,000 to print the stuff they turn out; and $40,000,000 to mail it.

War Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP)—Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea have reached 73,664, including 10,823 killed in action.

Communist Leaders In Last-Ditch Legal Fight

WASHINGTON (UP)—The 11 already-convicted Communist leaders began their last ditch fight today to stay out of jail at least until fall.

Even as their attorneys rehearsed arguments scheduled before Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson (at 2 p.m. EST) 21 more party leaders in the next lower echelon, were under indictment in New York on the same charge of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

The 11 top leaders must surrender for commitment to jail on June 29 if they don't get a stay from Jackson. The Supreme Court affirmed their conviction on June 4.

Beauty Queen In Annual Pageant

WILLIAMSTON — Pretty Jean Bailey was crowned Miss Williamston of 1951 last night at the sixth annual beauty pageant held here by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Bailey will represent Williamston in the Miss J. C. Carolina beauty pageant to be held in Burlington on July 20.

Runners-up in the contest here were Jean Griffin and Jeanette Thomas who won second and third places respectively.

Miss Bailey was crowned by Mrs. Lena Price, the reigning queen of the pageant who was chosen Miss Williamston of 1950.

Graham Leaving For India Soon

RALEIGH (UP)—Former Sen. Frank P. Graham will leave for India next Tuesday to mediate the Pakistan-India dispute as representative of the United Nations.

Dr. William B. Aycock, professor of law in the university of North Carolina, will accompany Graham. Graham earlier served on a three-member panel which successfully mediated the Dutch-Indonesia dispute.

Urges Ruthless Cold War Policy

NEW YORK (UP)—Gardner Cowles, president of the Des Moines Register and Tribune Co., last night called for a tough, ruthless, all-out psychological warfare campaign to overthrow Russia's "dictatorial clique."

The present U. S. policy of racing against Russia to arm is effective as far as it goes, but is neither complete nor adequate, Cowles said. It is negative because it has little appeal to our allies.

Surplus Press Agents

Congress Indignant Over Press Agents And Wants To Get Rid Of Them; Senator Byrd Of Virginia Leading Crusade Against So-Called Publicity Men

United Press Foreign News Editor British diplomats have scored some notable victories for the empire in the course of modern history and won the reputation of being the world's best at the intricate give and take of international relations. Unless somebody pulls a rabbit out of the hat in the next 48 hours their reputation is going to be tarnished.

The British Foreign Office has been up against some tough ones in its day, but nothing like Iran. It is like a man moving through a maze testing each door in the hope he will find a way out only to discover that everything is locked and bolted. Iran ordered the seizure of the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. yesterday. It was about the worst thing that has happened to London since Hitler's bombers opened their blitz.

Here is the British dilemma: 1. They need Iranian oil desperately, both to keep their industrial machine running and build up their armed forces against the threat of Russian aggression. 2. They can take direct action by sending 3,000 paratroopers poised on the island of Cyprus into Iran to protect their interests, but if they do Russian troops may march on the capital of Tehran. Russia and Iran have a treaty which would permit that.

3. Every attempt at negotiation and compromise has been rejected by the Iranians.

The man the British are dealing with is the premier, Mohamed Mossadeq. He is not being tough with the British for fear he will be thrown out of office if he compromises. He is doing it because he is afraid he will be shot. He has good reason to think so, too, because that is what happened to his predecessor, Ali Khameneh. He was assassinated on March 7 because the Iranians don't think he was proceeding fast enough in taking the oil installations away from the British.

What brings this pressure on Mossadeq is that while Iran's various political parties and "fronts" quarrel about almost everything else in the world, they are in firm agreement on one

Farmville Church Scene Of Owens-Williford Wedding

FARMVILLE—Miss Barbara Mae Williford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Williford of Farmville and Cornelia Doney Owens of Norfolk, Virginia, daughter of Mrs. Claudius L. Owens and the late Mr. Owens of Fountains, were united in marriage on Sunday, June 17, 1951, at five o'clock in the afternoon in the Farmville Methodist Church.

The double ring ceremony was used with the bride's pastor, the Rev. H. L. Davis, officiating.

The vows were spoken before an altar banked with Oregon fern, baskets of white gladioli and seven branched candelabra holding white tapers. The pews were marked with white satin bows for special guests.

Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Haywood Smith, organist, presented a musical program accompanied by Elbert Holmes, soloist, who sang "Because of D'Harriet." "If God Made Only You" by Denmore, and "O Perfect Love" by Stairs.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a gown of bridal satin and Chantilly lace designed with an off-shoulder neckline, nylon poms and beaded bodice of scalloped Chantilly lace and it was fastened in the back with miniature self-covered buttons. The sleeves ended in calla points over the hands. The full bouffant skirt wore over hoops and crinolines was of bridal satin with an

Louise Morris To Work Indianapolis

Miss Louise Morris, graduate of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, has accepted a position as secretarial assistant to the national youth director of the United Christian Mission Society, Indianapolis, Indiana.

She came to Greenville a year and a half ago as director of youth work at Eighth Street Christian Church, under direction of Dr. H. Glenn Koney, pastor. While in Greenville she made her home with Miss Gloria Blanton at the Baptist Student Center, 404 East Fourth Street.

Shower Compliments Miss Hazel Garris

Meedames Grace Pate and Jean Morgan honored Miss Hazel Garris at a miscellaneous shower Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Pate.

Mrs. Sue Pope led the group in the playing of various games. Mrs. Lester Turnage Jr. won a prize for being the best artist in the class with the painting of the bride-to-be.

Miss Garris was presented a corsage of carnations and the guests "showered" her with many useful gifts. The hostesses remembered her with silver in her chosen pattern.

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman can have a non-Republican elephant if he can find a way to get it here from Cambodia.

Nong Kimmy, first representative of the new state of Cambodia to the United States, presented his credentials to Mr. Truman yesterday and promised him the elephant.

He said he thought a way could be found to ship the beast here, and planned to discuss the problem with the State Department.

The elephant won't be white, Kimmy said, because the king of Cambodia has the only one in his country. It was assumed that a GOP elephant would not be given to Mr. Truman.

All Like Margaret

LONDON (AP)—The mass circulation London Daily Express said today "all public men should pray for daughters like Margaret Truman."

"This pleasant, unaffected young woman endears not only herself but her father to the millions in Europe," the newspaper said.

The president's daughter is in Paris now. She made a big hit with the British during a week's stay here on her European holiday. In Paris she lunched yesterday with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at his headquarters and went sightseeing.

U. S. Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren tells senators in Washington Tuesday that there has been "an undoubted weakening of moral standards" in government and out of it. So far as government is concerned, he said, congress must shoulder part of the blame. (AP Wire-photo).

Gift Wrappings Given Exemption

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The prices of Christmas and birthday gifts may go up down this year, but the cost of wrapping them should remain the same.

The Office of Price Stabilization said today that manufacturers of gift wrappings and seals for retail sale in 1951 are exempt from new ceiling price regulations scheduled to take effect on July 2 for most manufacturers.

Manufacturers of gift wrappings thus will stick to their general freeze prices. The new ceiling prices for other manufacturers are expected to mean some rollbacks and some increases.

The OPS exempted wrapping makers because the decorated paper and Santa Claus seals and other such items for sale in the 1951 Christmas season already were packaged and priced before the general price freeze was declared last Jan. 27. Other wrappings are similarly produced well in advance.

The exemption does not apply to greeting cards for Christmas or other special occasions.

Funeral Set Friday For J. N. Sutton

J. N. Sutton, 26, was instantly killed at about 9:10 o'clock Tuesday night as a result of an automobile accident. He was driving a pick-up truck and was involved in a collision with a transportation truck about two miles north of Bridgeton, on U. S. Highway No. 17. Funeral services will be conducted at the home near Askins Friday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. Frank Crawford, Church of God minister of New Bern, and burial will be in the LaGrange cemetery at four o'clock.

J. N., son of Mrs. Dorcas Sutton of near Askins and the late Luther M. Sutton, was born, reared, and spent most of his life in the Askins community. He attended school in Ernul and Vanceboro. He entered the U. S. Navy in 1944 and was discharged in 1946. He was married to Katie Chandler of Vanceboro November 26, 1950. He was a farmer.

Surviving are his wife; his mother; three sisters, Mrs. J. D. Robertson of Ernul, Mrs. Edna Godley of New Bern, and Mrs. Ruben Roedekie of Fountain City, Wisconsin; and four brothers, Earl and Martin L. of the home, Billy of Vanceboro, and Dalmer Sutton of Bakersville, Va.

Monkey Immune To Knockout Pills

YORK BEACH, Me. — (AP) — Thanks to an apparent immunity to Mickey Flinn, "Sooty," a large brown monkey, remained at liberty today. "Sooty" escaped from an amusement park June 9. Since then "Sooty" has been fed a series of bananas, spiked with knockout pills, but the animal merely shrugs, yawns and resumes swinging through the tree tops.

Bloom Returns From Kiwanis Convention Held In St. Louis

Eli Bloom, lieutenant-governor of the Seventh Division, Carolinas Kiwanis District, returned to Greenville last night from St. Louis, where he attended the Kiwanis International Convention.

President H. Glenn Haney and John Barnhill were delegates. Secretary David C. Moore, Jr. and Bob Robertson and "Pot" Robertson, Circle K Club, East Carolina College, went by car with Barnhill. Haney and Bloom made the trip by plane from Richmond, Va. Bloom returned by plane by way of Atlanta, Ga.

He said the convention had the largest attendance in years. It was estimated that 10,000 Kiwanians and members of their families from Canada and the United States attended. President Don Murdoch of Canada presided.

The convention was scheduled to end today after election of new officers.

Expand Program In U. S. Industry

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Record-setting expansion programs have been scheduled by American industry for the final quarter of this year.

The Securities and Exchange Commission reported yesterday that a re-survey indicates signs have been raised above original scheduled spending of an unprecedented $23,900,000,000 this year on new plants and equipment.

Actual outlays for the first nine months of the year appear headed for an $18,000,000,000 total, 41 per cent higher than for the corresponding period of 1950, the reports added.

GATHERING ABOUT THE TABLE
 A prominent scholar has said that 20 per cent of the people of this country do not have regular meal hours. They eat off the stove and out of cans. The idea of the table as a place where the family comes together and where its richest relationships are developed is absolutely unknown to people of this variety.

What a way to live! All through the Bible when a great covenant is to be sealed between God and man, a meal is prepared. Women naturally do not like to wash dishes. Getting three meals a day becomes a tiresome ritual. But world history is made at the dinner tables. The presidents, the prime ministers, the industrial leaders of the next generation are sitting about the tables of our own and other countries with the bits tied about their necks and sometimes with their feet dangling from high chairs. Here the mother who is queen of humanity and the father who is king mold the lives of those precious subjects who have been committed to their care.

The can-opener is the symbol of decadence. Irregular meal hours indicate a heartless disregard of that warm fellowship which develops about the dinner table.

Watch out for the 20 per cent who live off the stove and out of cans. They may get our country and the world into the ditch before we know it.

Grocery Prices Don't Reflect Farmers' Income

Those people who are of the opinion the farmers of America are the ones who have the economy by the tail and are growing wealthy are far from correct.

In some particular localities the farmers are steadily increasing their stake to keep up with the nation's economy. But on an overall average the income for each person on the American farm has dropped from $922 in 1947 to $840 in 1950. The drop in average income came while the nation's economy was continuing its upward spiral.

By comparison, the average income of the persons not on the farm in 1947 was $1,383, and for 1950 the average income of the non-farm person had risen to $1,546.

It just goes to show you can't judge the American farmer's income by the price the corner grocer charges for the week's groceries.

Beware Of Those Who Peddle Sordid Wares

A spokesman for a group of North Carolina Negroes took a sound view of the state's school situation when he said, "the mass of Negroes just are not ready yet for all the changes the NAACP's Northern leadership is demanding . . ."

J. E. Plummer, the Warrenton Negro farmer, might have added that the mass of the whites of the state likewise are not ready for a complete lowering of the bars of segregation in the public schools of the state. A flick of the pen can not overcome in a moment the fundamental ideas and principles which have been cultivated in both the white and Negro citizens of North Carolina over a period of more than a century and half.

The Negroes of North Carolina have made great advancement during the past several decades, and the advancement is constantly accelerating. But to push the pace more rapidly than it can be absorbed by either race would be a grave mistake.

North Carolina should provide equal school facilities for its Negro citizens.

Only by raising the educational level of its citizens can the state hope to raise the economic level of its people. If the economic standards are not lifted, North Carolina will find itself still trudging along in a Hoover cart while the rest of the nation rides the crest of a new era which is demanding more skilled labor, more technical knowledge, and the fundamentals furnished by a good basic education.

Unfortunately there are in the state individuals whose racial prejudice holds them steadfast in the conviction that all Negroes should be held to the hand-to-mouth life of share-cropping or trimming front lawns.

Unfortunately, too, there are those agitators in North Carolina who hold that every Negro of the state should be given a silver spoon and fed from the horn of plenty; not on the basis of what he accomplishes for himself, but solely because he is a member of a minority race. The extremes will never reconcile themselves. Neither extreme will ever justify itself.

Fortunately, the masses of the citizens of North Carolina are somewhere between the two extremes, ready and willing to cooperate with each other for the betterment of the state as a whole. It is in such a spirit of cooperation that the problem of school facilities will be worked out.

The people's reaction should convince the Northern agitators that North Carolina has no need nor any desire to accept the sordid wares they peddle.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The Civil Service Commission has recently taken the first major step toward creation of a career corps of trained public servants within the government that will eventually rival Britain's historic system.

Although not such exciting news, this belated but constructive move tends to offset sensational but unpleasant revelations tumbling from the MacArthur, the Fulbright RFC and the Kefauver crime investigations.

As everybody who has dealings with federal agencies here and elsewhere must know, too many of the 7,408,700 (Apr. figures) federal employees are not too interested in their work.

This indifference does not apply to all of them, but the few who show the same zeal as men and women in private industry are rare. Too often the hard-working minority are not recognized until it is time for them to retire.

LACKADAISICAL—The reasons for this inertia are obvious. So long as they do a fairly good routine job, they are assured of regular employment at livable wages. Good times or bad times, they usually survive. When they quit, they are entitled to a pension. They become clock-watchers. The 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. club has many sedentary advantages, with a 5-day week, sick leaves and vacations.

But there are thousands of Uncle Sam's servants who have the same energy and ambition as their friends on the outside. They become cynical or lackadaisical, sooner or later, because of lack of incentive. They move upward in their grades to slightly higher salaries on an extremely slow ladder of promotion.

For an individual with normal ambitions the system is insufferable. Most of them take examinations in order to obtain Civil Service rating, but then they are forgotten. They are rarely given another chance—another test of their increased capabilities—to demonstrate that they are qualified for well-paid, executive positions. These fall to politicians or insiders with "political pull."

VALUABLE—The few who have risen to the top under today's take-it-easy and don't-work-too-hard setup can be counted on the fingers of two hands. They were mere clerks when the writer first came to know them more than 25 years ago, but now they are regarded as among the most valuable members of the corps of trained government experts.

"Mike" McDermott, for instance, is listed as head of the State Department's Public Information Service, but he performs the work of an Assistant Secretary of State. Year in and year out, he has kept many heads of the Department from making major blunders. When he hasn't, it is usually because they did not take his realistic advice. Yet he has not given the reward he deserved until the early years of World War II. But he joined up in 1917.

EXPERT—Harry Anslinger, Commissioner of Narcotics, is probably the only man of this group whose name is known to the general public. His recognition is due largely to the fact that he deals with headline-making problems.

For years only a minor Treasury employee, he is known here and abroad as an expert on "dope." He has fought for stiffer sentences for "professional" dealers and smugglers, a crusade now making grim headway, and for treatment of addicts as sick, rather than criminal, people.

Frank Dow, Commissioner of Customs, came up the hard, slow way. A patient, pipe-smoking man, Frank was the kind who did even the smallest tasks well, until his superiors finally gave him the post, too often a political plum, to him. Smuggling has been at a minimum during his regime.

PLUGGER—The handsome Clark McFall is the same type of plunger. For years a clerk with the House Appropriations Committee, he eventually was named Assistant Secretary of State in charge of the Department's liaison with Congress. It is not his fault that relations between Capitol Hill and Dean Acheson are about the worst in history.

M. Joseph Meehan's rise at Commerce has been slow as molasses. For years he was kept as a statistical expert, until he showed his stuff when facts and figures on production became as valuable—and as hard to get—as gold during World War II. He is now head of the Bureau of Domestic and Foreign Commerce, and the ablest man in that job for many years.

TEST—Under the inspiration of the Hoover Report and President Truman's Executive Management Committee, the Civil Service Commission recently prepared a gilt-edged register of federal employees eligible and qualified for promotion to responsible, administrative positions here and throughout the country. It was the first action of this kind in C. S. history.

It invited 7,000 men and women in Grade 12 or higher to take a 4-hour test on public affairs and administrative problems. The quiz was designed to test their judgment and reasoning rather than their ownership of a lot of unrelated and unimportant facts. Of the 4,700 who responded and took the examinations, 650 passed with highest ratings, 700 with the next highest, and the rest showed possibilities.

SIGNIFICANT—Those 1,250 constitute the "Who's Who" among government employees. Bureau heads who need able executives to obtain the names, and obtain transfers and promotions to those who meet qualifications. The list is on file at the commission's office at Washington. It is understood that heads of defense agencies have shown interest in the register. Incidentally, defense employees may be promoted on the basis of their showing, but not shifted to non-defense work.

It is interesting that one-third of those taking the test were under 40, one-third between 41 and 50 and another third over 51. Another significant fact is that, although there are 49,000 people in Grade 12 or higher, only 7,000 were considered sufficiently qualified to be allowed to take this special test.

KNOXVILLE, IOWA, EXPRESS: "Some of these days most of the . . . people of this fair country are going to get good and tired of having someone sitting in a swivel chair warming the seat of his pants in Washington, thinking up schemes to make more useless paper work for them, and will dump the whole lot of them into the nearby Potomac river and start over with a clean slate."

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, UNION BANNER: "Best news out of Washington in a long time to the little people who have to foot the bills for wild governmental extravagance is the action taken . . . by the House of Representatives in slashing 693 million dollars off the amount requested by President Truman for independent Federal bureaus."

PLATTSMOUTH, NEBR., JOURNAL: "The policy committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States recognizes the necessity to pour out money for defense, both at home and abroad, if all-out war is to be avoided. It felt, however, that non-essential government expenditures can be reduced if citizens will refrain from seeking government hand-outs. It proposes that 'business should take the lead in promoting a program of self-control.' For once, we find ourselves in agreement with a policy recommendation of the organization that speaks for a large segment of the business life of the nation."

AIKEN, S. C., STANDARD & REVIEW: "Economy in governmental spending should be effected not only on the national level but on that of every political subdivision in the nation. Inflation is an in . . . ious force that can undermine us as it has other countries and leaves us an easy prey for communists."

Life With Step Father

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR

Today's column is the third and final in a series devoted to alcoholism and inspired by a speech in Chapel Hill in the winter of 1949 by James Street, the famous author. Street is a member of Alcoholics Anonymous, the organization that is most successful in curing chronic drinking.

The Pitt County Chapter of AA is steadily growing. Recently the group has gained three women members, which should prove a great incentive for others to join.

In January, 1950, over 200 people crowded the city courtroom here in Greenville for an open meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous. The purpose of the meeting was to acquaint Greenville citizens with what AA is and how it works.

AA is truly a wonderful organization, but do not get the idea that every alcoholic who joins is cured. According to AA's statistics, 86 per cent of those who join are cured. Some join AA and continue to drink for some time afterwards, but finally go dry. And then there's the other 14 per cent.

The strongest force in AA is companionship. By the time a person may be classified by an alcoholic he usually has lost most of his friends. He dislikes normal people, and normal people dislike him. Members of AA have been in his boat and therefore understand him. Their brains have been out of gear, too, and they can deal with an alcoholic much better than any doctor can. If you don't believe that, simply ask any doctor.

AA in Greenville was organized under the sponsorship of the New Bern group. For several months Greenville members went to New Bern every Thursday night for meetings, but some months ago Greenville broke away and now holds its own meetings over Drum's Hatchery's old building on the corner of West Fourth and Washington Streets.

A kick-off meeting in the Greenville court room, Greenville members were not recognized

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

OUT—Capt. Thomas B. Sawyer, who obtained leave of absence from his duties as public relations officer for the army heretofore to serve as senator from Durham county in the 1951 state senate, is leaving army service for good. He said Tuesday the separation process would probably take about a week, after which he will be just a civilian officer. He won't be a captain anymore but he will still be state senator, at least until another general assembly convenes. Before that the Durham man may have decided to try for Carl Durham's seat in congress rather than to come back to the state legislature. He declined to commit himself on that project, but he wasn't at all displeased in having it mentioned.

KYSER—Speaking of political races, another name has been injected, or re-entered, into gubernatorial speculation. For years ago after K. Y. Kyser had made such a good job of publicizing the state medical care and hospital program, and had announced his purpose to return to North Carolina for permanent living as well as legal residence, he was often proposed as a potential candidate for governor. That idea is being revived now, and some information sources say it has much more solid backing than it did before.

CANDIDATE—Those who know something of Kay Kyser's business and administrative capacity are certain he would make an excellent governor. Anybody, and that almost means everybody, who has heard him in person or on the air directing bands and orchestras and "Kolleges of Musical Knowledge," knows he would make a dilly of a candidate. He could put on a campaign that would outshine anything thought up by "Pass the Biscuits Pappy" O'Daniel in Louisiana or Auctioneer Jim McCord in Tennessee. The other day when Kyser was proposed for governor in a group of half a dozen politically minded folks, the unanimous response was "Count me on the bandwagon right now." The ebullient entertainer and college professor would also have to beat the east-west idea. He lives at Chapel Hill.

EASY—Just to show how easy it is to start rumors about somebody running for governor, take the instance of other day of Senators Hardy Talton of Wayne and Adam Whitley of Johnston. The lawmakers were talking with half a dozen constituents when a reporter walked up and asked how they had been getting along since the legislature adjourned. Senator Talton pointed his finger at Senator Whitley and quipped: "He's too busy running for governor to do anything else." As the reporter reached for his notebook, Whitley showed some concern and demanded that nothing be written about that quip. The reporter appealed to

Business Today

An unnoticed phenomenon in the current inventory situation has been the reappearance in some areas of retailer "Gypsies."

This has been made possible by the increase in a number of vacant stores in some sections. When the rental market for stores is tight, landlords will make short-term leases, just as they rent them to Gypsy fortune tellers.

But the retailer Gypsies tell no fortunes. They try to improve their own by reducing inventories through temporary outlets.

These retailers have established stores at their regular places of business they hesitate to embark on price-cutting campaigns or put on auctions, because these moves antagonize their suppliers, irritate the customers who have recently bought at regular prices, may damage their price structure for many months to come and make it difficult to restore normal profit margins.

An easier way to get rid of unwieldy stocks is to rent a store invent an imposing name, plaster it with signs announcing a price war and stock it with unwanted goods. There is no outward connection with the regular store. In many instances brand names and serial numbers may be removed; in some, private brand names will replace them. When inventories return to normal, the stores will be closed and managers vanish like real Gypsies.

This method of disposing of unwanted stocks is not completely new. It flourished during the depression, died down and then remained dormant as long as store space was at a premium. Now it is starting up again.

These outlets can pose real dangers for small independents in the same line which they open up in their neighborhoods. Small, established retailer may lose vast amounts of sales under these conditions. His best bet is to ride out the storm, knowing the competitor will soon vanish. And while riding out, feature guarantees, latest models and articles in short supply, which the price cutters won't be selling.

PRICE WAR SPIRS
BRITAIN TO ACT
 The price war in New York and points west has had repercussions in Britain.

The British have had fixed retail prices, too. But instead of through a Tydings Act, it has been done through manufacturers' associations. While the American system has affected only 5 to 10 per cent of the merchandise, in England 30 to 35 per cent has been under "fair trade."

The Labor government has long cast a suspicious eye at the system. Last week British mouths water with long stories about the price war in New York. At the end of the week the government announced that "retail price maintenance" would be forbidden.

There won't be much price cutting, however. There's no inventory problem there.

APPLIANCE DEALERS
INCREASE SALES, NET
 The annual cost-of-doing-business survey by the National Appliance and Radio Dealers Association shows that the average member paid more for his goods in 1950, compared with 1949, used more advertising and made more profit.

The cost of goods sold rose from 87.2 per cent of total sales to 89.2; advertising was increased from 2.5 per cent to 2.8 and profits rose from 5.2 per cent to 6.0.

Dollar volume was 23 per cent higher than a year ago and inventory turnover increased from 3.8 times in 1949 to 4.3 times in 1950. Ratio of trade-in increase. In washing machines, 49 per cent of all sales involved trade-ins compared with 41 per cent a year earlier. In television sets, almost 50 per cent.

BOOK ON SELLING
BENEFITS SELLERS
 Only half of the $2 price for a new book goes to the publisher and author. The other $1 is divided between the Bureau of Salesmen's Associations and the National Council of Salesmen's Organizations.

The book is "Harry Riemer's Brief for Salesmen," by Fairchild Publications, New York. It's a compact, informal code of ethics for management and salesmen.

CHAIR'S FITCH OUSTS
UNWELCOME VISITORS
 One New York executive has two chairs for visitors. He ushers into a comfortable captain's chair those visitors he wants to talk with. He indicates a narrow chair with the bottom pitched forward to others. They seldom stay long.

NEW AND HOT
VARNISH: Other printers may find uses for a new intaglio ink varnish developed for the U. S. Bureau of Engraving by Hilton Davis Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio. It eliminates the need for slip-sheeting and reduces baking time from two weeks to one day.

Hal Boyle's Column

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Donald J. Detweiler, "average housewife" who says she never thought she'd live to see 61-cent-a-pound hot dogs, is chairman of the capital's new citizens' committee to hold the line on prices. She was appointed by the District of Columbia's three commissioners, or "mayors," to head a volunteer group like those requested by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) of mayors of all cities.

OPS wants these committees to educate as many people as possible on the dangers of inflation. It wants them to help people understand what OPS is trying to do. It wants people to go all-out in complying with its rules.

The Washington group is one of the first to get going. Mrs. Detweiler, wife of a Navy lieutenant, mother of two children and an active force in getting her neighbors to help rehabilitate the run-down old-home community in which they live, is "astounded" by the response the committee's been getting.

"It's just as if they were waiting for something to do," she told me. "Our group is rapidly forming up, with a tight cohesive executive committee, and three subcommittees, each representing a different group."

Already on the executive committee are Mrs. William Haller, wife of a Barnard College professor, now researching at the Folger library here, preparing to write a book on Milton. "A New England housewife, with a mind like a steel-trap," Mrs. Detweiler calls her.

Others include Richard Y. Giles, Washington editor of "Printers Ink," and Mrs. Henrietta Nesbitt, Roosevelt administration White House housekeeper.

Mrs. Detweiler says the committee will give the OPS maximum cooperation. It wants to know consumers' rights and insist on them. "But we all feel the committee is a natural as a pressure group," she added.

"I'm quite frank in saying a pressure group. An isolated letter to the editor or a scattered few shaking heads in grocery stores can't keep prices down. If prices are patently unfair, the merchant is making too much profit, we can say 'Okay!' Let's not buy."

This all adds up, she says, not only to the possibility of buying strikes but more wise buying, and "in the end, encouraging the stores which hold the line."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

GATE IS OPEN FOR WELFARE ABUSES
 (Hertford County Herald)

We are not at all sure but that public sentiment in this State, as in other parts of the country, wouldn't heartily support an amendment the United States Senate has now up for passage in the Congress. The amendment in question provides that states may open their public welfare rolls for inspection and examination without suffering penalty of withdrawal of Federal funds. As it is now, welfare lists are secret information except for those who administer the funds.

As one of our contemporaries has said, it isn't necessary that relief rolls be opened to inspection by every Tom, Dick and Harry, in order to assuage the growing belief that too many relief rolls are padded and that some recipients of funds are chiselers of the first order. Many honest tax-paying citizens believe the strict secrecy rule has contributed to the padding of rolls and has helped to hide abuses of a good intentioned law. The rapid growth of relief rolls during a period of great prosperity has added fuel to that belief, and naturally so.

It is about time to relax some of the rules against openness and frankness in dealing out welfare funds. There is a halfway point between absolute secrecy and wide open publicity. Enough should be done to make it hazardous and hot for the leech and chiseler. Under present rules, the gate is pretty wide open for abuses. For the sake of a good law and to play fair with the folks who are paying the bills there should be some changes in the law as it now stands.

Hungary Resorts To Mass Deportations

VIENNA (UP) Mass deportations of elderly, middle class families from Budapest to farming territory in northeastern Hungary has been underway in Communist Hungary since mid-May, travelers report.

Some estimates placed the number of families evacuated as high as 10,000.

The evacuations presumably were connected with the government's three-way complaint of a serious housing shortage in Budapest and a scarcity of industrial and farm workers.

It was believed here the government is making room for new factory workers migrating to Budapest by evacuating groups it no longer considers useful or productive, and probably will use the deportees as farm workers.

Families rounded up

The deportations reportedly were conducted by the security police in a fashion similar to the evacuation of Jews from the city in 1944.

The reports said families were informed between four and six a.m. that they had 2 or 48 hours to pack. Each family was permitted to take between 500 and 1,000 pounds of baggage to the railway station, where they were told the bags would follow by truck.

The evacuees were taken to Szolnok and Jazapati, near the Slovakian frontier, by train, and it was reported that the baggage often never arrives.

Suicides Reported

Groups being deported include pensioners, former civil servants, ex-officers, widows, former business men, ex-lawyers, titled persons and former land owners.

Near-panic was reported among the capital's middle-class elements who have been dispossessed by the Communists, and several scores are said to have committed suicide.

The deportees were said to be billeted in farm houses and tents around Szolnok and Jazapati and ordered to stay within four miles of their camp.

TRUMAN SIGNS NEW DRAFT BILL.—President Truman sits in his White House office Tuesday and signs into law a new draft bill that includes for the first time provisions for a start toward universal military training. Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense, watch the signing. The new law lowers the draft age from 19 to 18½ and requires 24 months of military service instead of 21 months. (AP Wirephoto).

Establishes An Iron-Clad Rule In Red Territory

RANGOON (AP)—A woman has established an iron-clad rule in Communist-occupied territory adjoining the border of the Pegu and Hanthawaddy districts immediately north of Rangoon.

Buxoi Ma Saw Mya, reputed lieutenant of Red Flag chief Thakin Soe, is described by refugees fleeing the area as more cruel than any male Communist they know. The refugees, now in Rangoon, said the woman maintains a jungle loveness. Petty leaders war among them lives for her favors. According to the refugees her current "husbands" are two leaders she wooed from the rival White Flag party.

Ma Saw Mya is the self-appointed president of the people's court set up in the area to try recalcitrant villages, the refugees stated. They said the penalty for all offenses, including tax evasion, was execution.

Heavy Showers Fell Yesterday

Heavy showers about 6 p.m. yesterday flooded streets in some sections of the city. Water was over the curbing on Fourth Street from Summit eastward. Dickinson avenue was temporarily flooded by the downpour.

Light showers were reported in several small areas of the city.

Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local weather Bureau observer, Ridgeway street, reported nearly five-eighths of an inch of rain. Her mother, Mrs. Leland Mifflin, 2307 East Fourth street, recorded nearly an inch of rain at her house.

Highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 89 degrees; lowest last night, 67, and at 8 a.m. today it was 76.

Highest temperature here a year ago yesterday was 96 degrees; lowest that night, 69, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 77. More than an inch of rain fell here that day.

Can Transfer Some Of Agency Building Funds

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Some state institutions and agencies have received permission from the Advisory Budget Commission to transfer some of their building funds.

The commission okayed the transfer of $405,000 in building funds at N. C. State College. The money would come from a dormitory appropriation construction of which has been postponed.

Also approved was a Department of Conservation and Development request to use $128,590 originally earmarked for a tourist inn at Mt. Mitchell State Park to put up a community building in the park instead. The commission gave contingent approval to transfer of funds for approximately $350,000 worth of projects proposed by the States Hospitals Board of Control.

It took no action on a proposal by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill to transfer $350,000 from other permanent improvement projects to erect a south wing for the Medical School building. When the university designates projects from which funds would be transferred the commission said it would act.

The Hospitals Board of Control wanted to use surplus maintenance funds for some of its proposed projects. However, the commission

Soldier's Letter Notifies Wife Of Death In Battle

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)— You are the wife of a soldier fighting in Korea.

As far as you know he's all right.

Then you get a letter that starts: "I've asked one of the boys to mail this for me in case my time should come."

It happened yesterday to Mrs. Dorothy Long, 22.

But she's still hopeful. The army has sent no official word on her husband, Pfc. Jacob Long, 22. Worn and creased as if handled over and over again, the letter was the first word she had that anything had happened to him.

"Just a few lines tonight and I hope I never have to mail this letter, but how would you know how I felt if I didn't," it said.

"You know everyone has to go sooner or later and although I do not want to go yet, the good Lord has called me and he is Boss."

It closed with endearments to his wife and month-and-a-half-old son, Alfred, he has never seen.

Long's name has not appeared on any casualty lists. There has been no notification from Washington or from his outfit, the 8th Cavalry Regiment.

Just the crinkled letter written in a familiar hand and a clean envelope addressed in a stranger's writing.

Motorists Urged To Ask Cleaning Of Windshield Wipers

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (UP)—The next time your gas station attendant wipes your windshield, ask him to clean the wiper blade, too. It may save your life.

Len Walters, director of research for the Hardware Mutuals of Stevens Point, said "windshield smear" can reduce driver vision by as much as 35 per cent on a rainy night.

Windshield smear, Walters explained, is a gummy, oily coating on the glass. It comes from the exhaust of other cars or trucks, and will coat your glass very quickly especially if you are following a diesel-powered truck. Also, it is kicked up and onto your windshield from the tires of the preceding vehicle. It gets onto your wiper blade, too.

"A good service station," Walters said, "will insist its men clean both glass and blade. No use to clean one without cleaning the other."

KILL ATHLETES FOOT "T-L best seller," says Warren Drug Co.

Here's the reason. The germ grows deeply. You must reach it to kill it. T-L, containing 90 percent alcohol, penetrates. Reaches more germs. Your 40c back from any drugstore if not pleased in one hour.

Fell From Two Wagons; Jailed

DES MOINES (UP)—Leonard Harmon, 62, fell off two wagons yesterday—one real and one figurative.

Harmon tumbled off his honest-to-goodness horsedrawn wagon at an intersection. He told police he was on his way to watch a parade featuring Western star Gene Autry.

The officers charged him with intoxication.

Dismisses Murder Charges In Death At Berryton Mill

SUMMERVILLE, Ga. (AP) A Justice of the Peace last night dismissed murder charges against seven of 12 defendants arrested after a woman's death at the strike-bound Berryton Mills.

Three of the defendants were bound over for grand jury action. Louis McGraw, also charged with murder, did not face preliminary hearing because the state was not ready in his case.

Action on Harper Byars was set for today.

Miss Nellie Tucker, 45, a non-striker, was crushed to death when strikers overturned her car Monday. Bound over for grand jury action are Roy McGraw, Frank Campbell and Roy Bryan.

India To Import Four Million Tons Of Food Grains

NEW DELHI (AP) India has contracted to import a little over 4,000,000 tons of foodgrains this year. This does not include the proposed loan for 2,000,000 tons of wheat from the United States, the Russian 400,000 tons and the Chinese grain deals yet to be negotiated.

Of the quantity contracted, the United States tops the list of wheat and milo suppliers, and Burma and Thailand of rice. From the total 2,300,000 tons of wheat, the U.S. alone will send 1,115,000 tons. Of the 1,100,000 tons of rice to be imported, Thailand and Burma send nearly 34,000 tons each, with Pakistan (218,000 tons), China (80,000 tons) and Egypt (3,500 tons) ranking next.

India annually produces nearly 40,000,000 tons of foodgrains and her normal deficit is one-tenth of her production.

Assures Rights After Unification

ASMARA, Eritrea (AP)— Emperor Haile Selassie has given assurances that Italians in Eritrea "shall be granted their rightful place" in Eritrean economy when this country is united with Ethiopia under a federation. Federation, according to a decision of the United Nations Assembly, is to be set up not later than September 1952.

The Ethiopian Emperor gave the assurance to the President of the Eritrean Chamber of Commerce, Vittorio Vercellino, in a recent Addis Ababa interview.

Vercellino, after his return to Asmara, said the Emperor also indicated he possibly that Ethiopia and Italy may soon resume diplomatic relations. These have been severed since 1935 when Mussolini's legions invaded Ethiopia.

Allocation Made For Holy City

CAIRO (AP)—The Saudi Arabian government has earmarked $1,578,400 to improve roads and water supply for Mecca, the Arab News Agency reports. This is the biggest allocation in the history of Islam's holy city. ANA added in a dispatch from Mecca.

Tens of thousands of pilgrims from all over the Moslem world every year swell Mecca's population. Water supply is one of the main problems of this city, built in the desert.

Navy Secretary Envoy To Ireland

WASHINGTON (AP)— Informed officials said today Secretary of the Navy Francis P. Matthews has decided to accept appointment as Ambassador to Ireland.

These officials, who asked that they not be named, told a reporter Matthews' name has already been submitted to Dublin for anticipated approval there, and that President Truman will announce the appointment shortly.

As envoy to Dublin, Matthews would succeed George A. Garrett, who resigned as of May 31.

Government Labor Shortage Is Said Worse Than In Last War

By RUTH GMEINER
 WASHINGTON—(UP)—The government probably will hire 1,500,000 people in the next 12 months to staff new defense jobs and to keep pace with a booming turnover among old employees.

The government is so desperate for new workers that most defense agencies, and some other departments, "have recruiting teams scouring the country."

The Civil Service Commission reports the labor shortage is worse now than at the bottom of the barrel days of World War II.

In today's competitive labor market, job-seekers can take their choice of jobs, even if they have no experience. Most are not interested in coming to work for the government. In particular, few want to come to Washington.

The stenographic shortage is most acute in Washington. The job of G-girl has lost the glamor that brought thousands into the capital during World War II.

The recruiters, drawing $5,000-a-year salaries, are lucky if they bring in one new candidate a day. Here are some of the reasons why, according to reports they are sending back to the home offices:

Girls can get a good, or better pay, in private industry and the jobs are closer home. Government work is too monotonous. There is no patriotic incentive to come to Washington. Parents (but not the girls) must be persuaded Washington is no more vulnerable to the a-bomb than anywhere else.

Washington got a bad reputation during the war and "Washington Confidential," the recent "expose" on skulduggery and licentiousness in the capital, hasn't helped matters. Most girls are not scared off by the town's much-publicized men shortage.

Despite recruitment problems, federal employment goes up and up.

The government has picked up 500,000 new workers in the year since the Korean war began and the total now stands at 2,500,000. Additional mobilization jobs may boost it to 3,000,000 by July 1, 1952, despite congressional economy efforts.

The citizens committee for the Hoover report recently said such a turnover would be a "public catastrophe." Chairman Robert L. Johnson said staffing one out of three federal jobs with untrained personnel would be a disastrous waste of time and money.

He blamed the job casualties on

"sheer frustration" over government red tape.

A Civil Service spokesman said the real explanation is the present "buyer's market." Job-shoppers are moving to better-paid positions in other government agencies or in private industry. The draft, retirement and normal attrition take their toll, too.

Federal agencies are having a tough time finding professional workers, especially engineers, industrial specialists and economists.

One top official in one of the new defense agencies said, "We need $25,000-a-year men to fill $10,000 to $14,000-a-year jobs." Young college graduates cannot be persuaded to take the $3,000 to $5,000 posts.

Forbid Bingo In Church Campaign

PORT WAYNE, Ind.—(UP)—Five members of the Spiritualist Church of Divine Science were free to raise money for their new church today—but not by playing bingo.

The five were acquitted yesterday of gambling charges following a raid on a bingo party in their church basement. Police arrested 34 persons in the raid, but only the Rev. Mrs. Bernice Brock and four other alleged operators were charged.

Mrs. Brock, the only defense witness, said the game's sole purpose was to raise money for a new church.

Driver Dubious Over Award For Safety He Won

Pratt was driving home in the wee hours yesterday when his car smashed into a telephone pole.

As he went to a telephone to call police, two men strongarmed him, stealing his medal and $10.

The cops, when they arrived, arrested him for drunken driving. Later in the day, he was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $75.

The first U. S. Army was composed of 10 companies of riflemen—six from Pennsylvania and two from Virginia and Maryland.

Israel Studying Housing Problem

HAIFA—(AP)—To combat a housing shortage which grows worse with every new shipload of immigrants, Israel is studying the possibility of building thousands of houses out of earth.

The young nation needs 100,000 dwellin units immediately to shelter the latest influx of immigrants, most of whom now live in huts or tents. If the present immigration rate of 15,000 a month continues, the country will need hundreds of thousands more homes.

Since cement and other orthodox materials are expensive in Israel, the Hebrew Institute of Technology is conducting extensive tests to find the right mixture of earth, sand, water and a minimum of cement for construction in this climate.

A one-story model house already has been erected in Nerim, in southern Israel. Only a negligible amount of timber and steel was used. The basic material was earth. Time will be required to study the effects of sun, wind and rain on this type of construction.

Medicinal substances are frequently found in herbs, shrubs and trees among them being arnica, obtained from the arnica root, strychnine nux-vomica, from nux vomica seeds, ginger from ginger rootstock, digitalis from foxglove leaves, belladonna from the deadly nightshade root.

Lower Ceiling Is Given Wood Pulp

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The government has slapped new and lower ceiling prices on domestic and imported wood pulp.

The Office of Price Stabilization said the new ceilings will mean "substantial rollbacks" in domestic prices and may result in reduced imports.

The order, effective June 30, will affect grades of wood pulp used in making paper and by rayon and other chemical-converting industries. It will not affect pulp used in making newsprint.

The National Production authority also ordered manufacturers of cardboard to set aside 10 per cent of the monthly output for defense orders. It also ordered five per cent of the monthly production of paperboard (used for food containers) set aside for defense orders.

U. S. Biggest Buyer
 The United States, long the biggest buyer of Tibetan wool, last year offered the peak price of 50-52 cents per pound for raw white wool known to the trade as "carpet wool."

Up to the time of the Communist Chinese invasion of Tibet, Kalimpong handled 40 per cent of Tibet's total wool export.

The price of Tibetan wool, 11 rupees per maund (28 pounds) in 1911, rose to 65 rupees per maund in 1938 and, at this writing, is at the record high of around 180 rupees per maund here (about $37.80).

Red China To Bar Buying To Tibetan Wool By U.S.

KALIMPONG (UP)—With the Chinese Communist take-over of the Roof of the World, Tibet, an important wool source has been lost to the United States, it is feared.

The United States market is just about closed for Tibetan wool in the future because Peiping undoubtedly will insist that the bulk be supplied to Red China.

The entire clip of the current season, however, has reached this Indo-Tibetan frontier town, clearing station for Tibetan produce, and about 80 per cent already has been sold. There is no ban on the export of the remainder but the market has hit virtual stagnancy.

SEE TV FROM IRON LUNGS
 WELLESLEY, Mass.—(UP)—With the aid of mirrors, 10 patients at the Convalescent Home for Children in Wellesley Hills are television fans. All in iron lungs, the children each have a mirror so placed on the "lung" that they can see the image on a single TV set with a 24-inch screen.

Youth Waives Preliminary Hearing In Forgery Case

Wayne Canady, 16-year-old Fayetteville youth, charged with forging and passing eight worthless checks at Greenville stores last month, has waived preliminary hearing in Police Court Friday.

E. Maurice Braswell, Fayetteville attorney, notified the clerk of Police Court that his client would waive hearing now, and be ready for trial in Superior Court the week of August 27. Canady is in State Prison, serving two to four years for forging and passing checks in the Cumberland county metropolis. He will be returned to Greenville for trial.

The Fayetteville youth also is wanted on similar charges in Kingston, New Bern, Morehead City and Wilson, police records show.

The checks Canady is alleged to have cashed in Greenville all bear the name of G. G. Canady, his father, a deaf mute. They were all drawn on the First Citizens Bank and Trust Company of Fayetteville. All were changed local bank checks and crudely written with pen and pencil.

Canady was arrested here early in May on complaint of Globe Hardware Store, Third and Washington streets. Van C. Fleming, one of the owners, told police the youth purchased articles, costing $5 or $6, and proffered a check for $20 made payable to cash. Fleming said he

Cancer Expert Warns Against 'Quack' Cures

NEW YORK—(UP)—A cancer expert warned today against "quack cancer cures." The word of caution came from Dr. Charles S. Cameron, medical and scientific director of the American Cancer Society. He said such "cure" announcements "have been responsible for an incredible amount of unnecessary heartache and travail."

Cameron's statement appeared in an editorial in a forthcoming issue of CA, a publication of the Cancer Society for Physicians.

The "truly quack" cures, he said, are harmful even though they may be local and limited in scope.

He said: "This circle spread concern to bring an end to cancer's misery is of itself praiseworthy and yet, paradoxically, this same urgency to find an effective treatment for cancer appears to have been responsible for an incredible amount of unnecessary heartache and travail, resulting from regularly recurring announcements of allegedly highly significant therapeutic advances—all of which have eventually proved to be duds."

"Undoubtedly frankly phony claims, such as the grape cure, blackstrap, and ingenious herbal brews straight from Tobacco Road do lots of harm—even to the extent of delaying, or substituting for, what might have been curative treatment. But their reputation is usually local and, more important, they do not fool the great body of normally intelligent people for whom magic is less magical than it used to be."

"But when a new treatment for cancer is brought out in the vestments of scientific orthodoxy—is headlined in every newspaper in the land, and becomes a matter of public notice—the stage is set for the stampede that inevitably follows."

Cameron listed some of the old "standby cures," and said they "conform to a fairly constant pattern."

First, he said, they are credited with causing tumors to disappear. "After some skimming with colleagues who can not reproduce this effect, an orderly retreat is made to the next line of defense," he said. "They exert some degree of growth restraint. The line gives way—and falls back into an area of the purely subjective: patients have less pain and their sense of well being is improved."

"Finally, their supply line of valid evidence collapses and they just fade away."

Find Red Tape In Pot-Mending Behind Curtain

VIENNA —(UP)— This, according to the Hungarian Communist daily, Szabad Nep, is how the Teacher's College at Ujseged had to go about getting a fifty-cent repair job on a cooling pot.

"The Teachers' College," the paper said, "asked for a certificate from the State Enterprise that the latter does not undertake small jobs and that the college is entitled to place its order in the private sector. The college requested offers from several craftsmen upon the instruction of the financial section of the local council.

"The offers of the craftsmen were referred to the financial section. The financial section waited until several requests of the same nature came to it and then gave its permission for the repair. The pot was repaired and the bill was sent to the financial section. The section approved the bill."

English Going In For Military Look

LONDON —(AP)— The Englishman is changing his shape again. Instead of lounging around in tweeds, his trousers sagging at the knees and his pockets bulging at the seams, he will soon be strutting about looking like a crack guards officer.

In short, he will be wearing the "military look." The "Tailor and Cutter," trade paper for Britain's tailoring industry, welcomed the change. The newest suits for men are based on military patterns with tighter fitting jackets with a slash up the back and narrow trousers without cuffs.

The new style, according to the magazine, is a reaction from the "sartorial hysteria" of American stylists which followed the end of the war. "Drape exaggerated itself into an early grave and the bright and exaggerated fashions made popular by Hollywood painted themselves to a standstill," it said.

Lightning Rod Recalls Tradition

MARIETTA, O. —(UP)— A lightning rod that looks like a totem pole with a Johnny Appleseed motif has been devised by John H. Fraser, art professor at Marietta College.

Fraser balked when he was told by a lightning rod salesman it would cost $400 to protect his modern, rambling home on a hill.

Instead, he cut down a tall red oak tree which had been hit by lightning, put it up in his yard and drove a lightning rod into the top.

His art students painted on figures descriptive of Johnny Appleseed, the stories of many of Ohio's apple trees.

Bright Belt League Votes Admission Of Greenies

Locals Enter Loop In Cellar Position

Replace Ejected Sandy Cross; Play Fremont In First Games Over Weekend; New Arrivals Enter The League With 12-2 Victory Under Belts

By MELVIN LANG
Greenville's Greenies were voted a full membership in the Bright Belt League last night. The action came at the conclusion of a directors meeting in Crisp.

The directors voted to drop Sandy Cross, the sixth place team, from the league and accept the proposal from the Greenville representatives. The ejection of their club from the loop caused the Sandy Cross spokesman to become angry at times with those from the other clubs who had had any thing to do with his ejection. He showed his opinion of his removal with the statement: "We were kicked out."

Greenville will enter the league with the same standings and records which Sandy Cross had compiled through the season. This means that the Greenies are to be a sixth place club when they start.

Greenville was accepted after an hour and a half discussion on their request for a Bright Belt franchise. The Greenies will play their first league game this week-end, meeting Fremont in two games.

Sandy Cross was dropped from the league because the other clubs thought that the distance which they would have to travel to reach the ousted opponent would be too far to travel in order to play. The Sandy Cross team did not have a home park to play in and had been playing their home games on neutral fields.

The Greenies, who are managed by Jack Boone, have played only one game against outside opponents. They defeated the Wilson Independents last night, 12-2.

The local semi-pro team has been in existence for only a few days. After the disbandment of the professional Greenville Robins, some of the local baseball enthusiasts conceived the idea of having a semi-pro team to represent Greenville in the last Bright Belt League.

Greenville was represented at the league meeting by B. D. Johnson, Foy Williams and Woodrow Williams.

Future Yank Ace Is Working Out In Sandlot Ball

AP Newsfeatures
JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Don Bessent is pitching no-batters on the sandlots of Jacksonville now but some day he may be doing it in a New York Yankee uniform.

A star in high school and American Legion baseball, where he tossed several no-hit games, Bessent signed with the world champions after graduation. He pitched in the Georgia-Florida League last year, winning 25 games, including one no-hitter.

This spring Bessent trained with Yankee farm at Binghamton, N. Y., of the Class A Eastern League. Just before the season started he was called to take his examination for the armed forces.

While waiting induction, Bessent has headed R. C. Motor Lines toward the city baseball championship. He won the first five games he pitched, including three shutouts and one no-hitter. In 48 innings he gave up 11 hits and six runs and struck out 72.

Tighter Race In CPL Race; Tobs And Bears Win

The Coastal Plain League race tightened up last night as both Wilson and New Bern won as Kinston's league leading Eagles went down before Roanoke Rapids, 4-2, in a 12-inning struggle. The Tobs are only three games behind the league leaders and New Bern is three and a half games back of the Eagles.

Jack McComas continued to lead the Tobs in their winning surge as he blasted Leaf pitcher Bob Yelder for two home runs and a double to bat in six runs, while Rocky Mount was going down under an 11 to 4 defeat by the rampaging Tobacconists. The slender second baseman rapped his first homer with two on in the second inning. His second round-tripper came in the seventh with two men occupying bases.

Frank Spaine and Paul Jones were responsible for all the Leaf runs as they both connected for four-basers. Spaine collected his homer in the third with two on and Jones connected in the ninth with the sacks empty.

New Bern moved into third place in the standings by edging Goldsboro, 4-2. The Bears exploded for three runs in the sixth inning to go ahead. The trio of runs came across as the result of two infield errors and a catcher's interference, which filled the sacks, and Russ Wheelers' base-clearing double.

Roanoke Rapids pushed two runs across in the top of the twelfth in the marathon at Kinston to win, 4-2. Bob Garrison lifted one over the rightfield barrier of Grainger Park to break up the game. One man was on base as a result of a single and a sacrifice.

Kinston led gone ahead in the contest in the seventh, 2-1, but the Jays forced the game into overtime stanzas with a single run in the eighth.

Yogi Berra Back As First Choice In All-Star Vote

CHICAGO —(UP)— Yogi Berra was back in the lead in the race for the starting All-Star American League catcher today after a 48-hour absence.

The New York Yankees' ace went into the lead with 168,307 votes after a brief sojourn in second place. Cleveland's Jim Hegan, who took over first place in Berra's absence, was back in the runner-up spot with 164,924.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals continued to ride along as the nation's most vote-getting ball player with 194,586 ballots. Trailing him in order, were Nelson Fox of the White Sox, Ted Williams of the Red Sox, and Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Yacht Close By Mere 24 Seconds

ANNAPOLIS, Md. —(AP)— The Bolero caught a better wind in the final minutes and sneaked ahead of the Baruna to finish first by a mere 24 seconds early today in the Biennial Newport, R. I., Annapolis Yacht Race.

However the Baruna, first in two previous Newport-Annapolis events, can still capture the Blue Water Bowl, awarded on the basis of corrected time. It has a 15-minute, 13-second handicap time advantage over the Bolero.

Several other trailing yachts several hours back enjoy tin handi-caps up to 17 hours.

The sleek, black hulled 73-foot 6-inch Bolero covered the 466-mile distance in 86 hours, one minute, 7 seconds, clipping an hour, 25 minutes off the time in the Newport-Annapolis race two years ago.

Trim Field In Western Amateur

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)— A double round of match play today trims the field of 64 to 16 by nightfall in the jammed Western Amateur Golf tournament.

What started out as a leisurely-paced affair became a dawn-to-dusk race against darkness when rain washed out the second qualifying round and shoved action up a peg so the meet could end as scheduled Sunday.

Officials set a start for 8 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time) today with defending champion Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City leading the Country Club course against Walter Clisco of Louisville, 1949 Western runnerup.

It too a 156, a dozen over the standard, to get into the swim. Heading the lower bracket was Frankie Stranahan of Toledo. He seeks his third western amateur trophy with confidence and caloused hands from using a new interlocking grip.

He carved a four-under 68 for a 139 total to win medalist honors yesterday. He shared the medal in 196, then went ahead to win the western burning. He also took the crown in 1949.

Stranahan teed off against Ed Conklin, a 22-year-old newcomer whose main bid to fame is winning the Bloomington, Ill., city title.

Head Coach At Villanova Quits Job For Farm

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— Head football coach Jim Leonard, who led the Villanova College Wildcats to one of their most successful "temporary retirement" in 1949, is going back to his asparagus and sweet potatoes again.

The former pro football star and pro coach submitted his resignation to Villanova last night with the announcement that he felt he was "unable to devote sufficient time" to coaching football because of the pressure of operating his recently enlarged farm at Mullica Hill, N. J.

He won eight games and lost only one and finished second only to Notre Dame in total national collegiate offense. The 1950 squad, which lost nearly all the 1949 regulars, won four and lost five games.

High Hopes For Wimbledon Title

LONDON —(AP) Chunky, bespectacled Jaroslav Drobny, who fled his native Czechoslovakia two years ago to roam on the tennis courts of the world, has high hopes of winning the Wimbledon title.

Despite a tough draw—he meets 42-year-old Baron Gottfried Von Cramm in the first round Monday—Drobny stands as one of the favorites.

American champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., ranked third behind Australia's Frank Sedgman and Drobny, first meets Merwin Rose, young Aussie Davis Cupper. Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., is in the same quarter.

Pierce Pitching

Billy Pierce is quick to point out that his current success as a pitcher for the high-riding White Sox is definitely tied up with the coming of Paul Richards to manage the Chicago club. Pierce enjoyed his best previous season in organized baseball in 1947 when Richards was his boss in Buffalo. That season, Billy posted a record of 14 victories and seven losses.

Confirm Sale Of Browns To Veeck

ST. LOUIS —(AP)—An arrangement for the sale of the controlling interest of the St. Louis Browns to Bill Veeck, former owner of the Cleveland Indians, was announced here today by Donald L. Barnes, former owner of the St. Louis American League club.

Barnes' announcement emphasized that the club will remain in St. Louis. Veeck, who had been reported planning to move the Browns to Milwaukee if he got the club, has been joined in the deal by Sidney Salzman, Jr., St. Louis insurance man, who is a stockholder in the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

Veeck told the Associated Press that he had offered $7 a share for the stock. He was quoted by Barnes as wanting to buy 275,000 shares outstanding.

Barnes said he entered the transaction at the request of William and Charles DeWitt, the present owners, "to negotiate an agreement which would be in the best interests of the city of St. Louis and the DeWitts." "Under an agreement reached to-

Second Half Of Softball Schedule Gets Underway

Blackwood's 8 Post Office 4 safely on a hit.

Blackwood's clammed Post Office, the first half champion, by the score of 8-4 Tuesday in the first game of the new half.

Four runs in the fourth clinched the contest for the winners. Hits by Phillips and Smith, combined with walks to Strickland and Hudson, pushed the runs across. An error on Morgan's grounder also figured in the scoring.

Doug Morgan pitched the win. Phillips, Rousch, and Smith led the winners' attack with two safeties in four attempts.

Foell collected three hits in three times at bat to lead Post Office. Dudley and Bullock each collected one hit.

Score by innings:
Blackwood's 002 400 2-8 10 9
Post Office 201 001 0-4 5 1

Varsity Shell 20 A & P 3

Bob Williams threw a six hitter at A & P to defeat them, 20-3. His teammates pounded out an 18-hit attack to aly back him.

Varsity scored four runs in the top of the first to take a lead which they never relinquished.

Each man in the Varsity lineup collected at least one hit. Frank Hogg and Bill Harris led them with 4-6 and 3-5, respectively. Jack Davis, Ellie Fearing, Franz Holscher, and Bill Harris each scored three runs.

Frank Toothman led the losers with two safeties in three attempts.

Corpse on the Town

By JOHN ROEBURT

The button eyes smoldered and there was swift irritation on the artist's face, swiftly masked. "Did you just happen along, or am I under some sort of surveillance?"

Jigger ignored the charge. "Getting back to Sally Woods. She took up with another man after leaving you."

"Did she, really?"

"Who was your successor, Arens?"

"Should I know?"

Jigger said deadpan. "Who was your successor, Arens?"

There was sudden, surprising hostility in the artist. "Are you going to continue to waylay me, and annoy me?"

Jigger looked sharply at the artist. "I thought we got past that crisis. I thought we were on a more cooperative basis."

Arens said harshly. "Suppose you tell me what your real game is, mister."

"Same as last night: The murder of Sally Woods."

The button eyes smoldered. "Keep lying to me, and I'll call a cop."

Jigger studied Arens thoughtfully. The artist seemed in angry earnest; there was toughness in him now, not just the rage of a man aggrieved at a heckler.

Arens left the threat unfinished, and walked away rapidly. Jigger stared dumbly at his retreating back.

The Flemish Arms was a fourth-rate hotel in the East Twenties. Its lobby was badly lighted, irregular, and full of recesses like hiding places. The shabby high-backed chairs were occupied by a shabby clientele.

On the eighth landing, arrows marked the criss-cross of corridors. Red said, "Bet you that we are the butts of some joke!"

Jigger said nothing. He didn't dare trust his voice, or his thinking. They reached Room 810, and Red said nervously, "We go in there and find Sally Woods, as big as life. Then what?"

Jigger said nothing. He had a lunatic thought he was trying to shunt. What was the conventional way of telling a young lady about her recent demise!

A shrill voice called out inquiringly from behind the door. Jigger pushed into the room wordlessly, with Red close behind him.

She stood between them and the door with the pupils of her eyes unnaturally round. A hand was over her heart; the scene resembled that moment in motion picture when the bat man crashed into the ingenue's bedroom.

Jigger looked at her like someone absorbed in the complex and methodical details of a blueprint. Her hair was coal black, abundant, disordered. A pallor that began at the eyes covered her whole face. She looked doped, but Jigger knew she was drunk, or close to it. They were ten feet apart, but he could smell the alcohol.

He watched her loop away, then drop into a chair. Jigger went over to her. "Are you Sally Woods?"

Her head dropped lower, and there was no reply.

A vase of withered tea roses and a small, open paper box were on the end table beside her. The box was half-full of colored pills that looked like barbiturates. Jigger's eyes circled the room. There was a whiskey bottle on a bureau before a double leather frame that held a pair of photographs.

Jigger stared across the room at the photographs for a long moment. Two women, with small close features. They were a generation apart, but bore a resemblance to each other, like mother and daughter. He knew the younger one. It was Aunt Penny.

He crossed the room, lifted the frame, and came back to the girl. He pushed the frame at her, pointing to one of the photographs.

"Who is she?"

First fear showed in the girl's face, then there was a small register of surprise.

Jigger said, "Get hold of yourself. You've got nothing to fear from me."

Her eyes burned into his face like a child seeking reassurance. Jigger smiled soothingly. After a moment he asked, "Will you answer a few questions?"

She nodded heavily, with her half-closed eyes moving from Jigger to Red in a wavering line again. "Who is she?"

The girl peered at the photograph hastily, then said, "Aunt Penny My Aunt Penny."

Jigger pointed to the second photograph. "And who is she?"

"My grandmother."

"And her name?"

"Her name was—Cynthia Hunter."

It was sensational, but Jigger was dead to sensation. He said mechanically, "You're Susan Hunter?"

She nodded drowsily, accepting the identification. Jigger said, "You're registered here as Sally Woods."

The girl nodded again.

Jigger delayed the next question; as matters stood now, it was an idiot question. Anne Brown was dead.

But the question had to be asked. Jigger said, "Anne Brown—Have you ever used the name Anne Brown?"

The girl shook her head.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BARUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

The popularity of the outdoor barbecue fireplace is growing steadily from summer to summer. As soon as the screen door season arrives, the average family seems to set an urge to dine in the open in competition with all the bugs that have been excluded from the house.

Hardware and house furnishing stores fill their windows with charcoal grills on legs and on wheels. And men who never held a trowel in their hands decide they can build rustic stone fireplaces. In fact, they do build them.

An outdoor fireplace is not an impossible project for an amateur. Don't let the word "barbecue" scare you. It no longer means that you have to roast a whole carcass at one time. You can call your fireplace a barbecue even if it accommodates nothing more than a hot dog.

Planning Needed
But it's a good idea to do a little planning before you mix a lot of concrete. There is a tendency to build outdoor fireplaces too big and without consideration of the need for suitable table and bench space. Ordinarily 2 1/2 square feet of cooking surface is adequate, with sidewalks fairly level for resting pans.

Some questions to answer are: Where will you build this fireplace? Do you want it on the porch or terrace, adjoining the house? If so, do you have an outside chimney that will take its flue satisfactorily with other flues? Will prevailing winds carry the smoke and grease away from the house and away from you and your guests? Or do you have a far corner of the backyard in mind? Is it too far from the kitchen door for easy carrying? Is it overhung with trees and shrubs that may be killed by the heat? Could you build a fireplace there that might double as an incinerator—if neighbors are far enough removed to avoid complaints?

The factor of use is basic in your planning. An open air fireplace can be built small for cooking; larger for looking. The appeal of the fireplace on cool evenings is strong. So, you might want to combine a small barbecue fireplace with a larger logburning opening for enjoyment after dark.

Wind Needs Watching
You'll get the best draft if you face the fireplace in the direction of prevailing breezes and give it some form of shelter from high winds that scatter sparks and ashes. Pick a site that is well drained and grade it to keep water away from the footings.

The amount of your budget that you want to divert into this project will determine largely the type and size of your barbecue. You can build a small campsite type with a stubby chimney, 2 or 3 feet high, for probably around $10 for materials. Scrap iron reinforcing rods, 3/4-inch in diameter, or pipes 1/2 to 3/4-inch, serve very well for a grid. These should be 6 to 10 inches longer than the width of the firebox, spaced about an inch apart, leveled to keep pans from teetering, and cemented into the masonry at the sides.

Or you can buy excellent fireplace parts, such as cast-iron grilles, Dutch ovens with castiron doors, pot cranes, spits for roasting, dampers ash dumps, etc., through hardware and building supply dealers. Elaborate barbecues often include built-in Dutch ovens lined with firebrick, woodbox compartments, iron ranges for cooking and even sinks.

Brick Easiest
Common brick is usually the lowest cost and easiest to handle material for the masonry work. If ordinary fieldstones can be gathered along a brook, or dry run, you can build a fairly good sized barbecue with 10 or 12 bushels of stones cemented at random in a concrete base and chimney form.

It's a good idea to line the firebox with firebrick and to use a flue lining in the chimney. These will prevent the heat from disintegrating your masonry work. However, ordinary stovepipe has been used successfully as a core for some concrete chimneys.

You can make a good mortar with 1 part portland cement, 1 part hydrated lime and 6 parts clean sand, mixed with enough water for easy working consistency. Firebrick, though, is best laid in fire clay. You'll run into the least trouble if you build the flue and stone veneer about 6 or 8 inches high at a time.

A concrete slab 4 to 8 inches thick is usually strong enough for average size fireplaces where drainage is good and frost conditions are not severe. This should run down 4 to 6 inches below ground level. If you plan a heavy structure with a tall chimney and have trouble to contend with, it's wise to provide footings below the frost level.

Motorists Lead Cases In Court

Thirteen of the 17 defendants who appeared before Judge J. W. H. Roberts in Police Court yesterday were charged with violations of traffic and other motor vehicle laws.

Attorney William Watson substituted for Solicitor Eli Bloom, who was out of the city.

Charles R. Ebron, Negro, was given 60 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25 and costs for not having an operator's license. He was given 30 days on the roads or pay $20, costs deducted, for speeding.

Jesse L. Brooks, Negro, was given 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25 and costs, and he paid $10 for not stopping at a "stop" sign.

Frank McK. Webb was fined $100 and costs, and his license was ordered revoked for a year. He gave notice of appeal to Superior Court for jury trial.

Hubert D. Daugherty was not guilty of speeding and failure to slow up at an intersection.

Reckless driving: Thurman Owens and Andrew H. Bone, judgment was suspended on payment of court costs.

Speeding: Wright Bridges and Moses Spicer, Jr., Negroes, each paid $20; Henry L. Floyd, Negro, prayer for judgment continued; Charles T. Buck and James H. Stokes, each paid $20; Mary Francis Davis, Negro, paid $20.

Jack Moore, Negro, paid $15 for being drunk.

Asa Griffin, non-support, 90 days on the roads, suspended on condition that he pay court costs and $20 a week to the Welfare Department for support of his family if he lives at home, and $15 a week if he does not. Judge Roberts placed him on probation for two years.

Junior Evans, Negro, non-support, 90 days on the roads. The court also ordered a probation order in a previous case invoked and he will serve 90 days in addition to yesterday's sentence.

Polk County To Have New Plant

TRYON, N. C. —(AP)— Arrangements for construction of a $2,000,000 plant in Polk County have been completed by the Kilburn Mills of New Bedford, Mass.

The mill will be located near Tryon in the Vaughan's Creek section near the South Carolina line. George B. Knowles Jr., assistant treasurer, and James Knowles, superintendent, were here yesterday completing the arrangements.

Jail To Lose Its 'Best Customer'

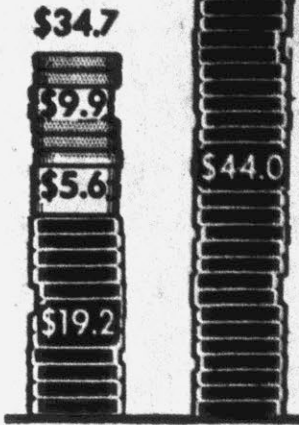

AMARILLO, Tex. —(UP)— Police are considering chipping in on a fund to help get a chronic prisoner out of town.

The culprit has been free only seven days so far this year, despite a New Year's resolution to lay off liquor.

He has an offer of treatment in San Antonio, Tex., and a relative will give him the fare. Police plan to take up a collection to provide food en route.

Teachers Do Well With The Ladies

PLEASANTDALE, N. J. —(UP)

The smoothest men with the women, in the opinion of one resort hotel owner, are school teachers. Irving Green starts canvassing nearby schools for unattached male school teachers every winter to get ready for the single girls who inevitably show up at his resort hotel in summer.

"Teachers fill the bill best," Green insisted. "They're used to dealing with problem children and sometimes a girl on a vacation frolic can be a problem. Then, the teachers are well mannered and well educated."

What's more, if any of the young girls strikes up a romance with the hotel's social director, who's a school teacher, naturally, Green pointed out, that the fellow would make an interesting letter writer for the girl through the following winter.

"We had one rather wealthy girl a few seasons back who suddenly took an interest in studying Latin," Green recalled. The life guard just happened to be a Latin teacher during the winter months.

Every now and then one of the teachers ends up marrying a girl he met at the hotel. Then Green has to go out looking for a single replacement.

Delinquent Files Expense Report

RALEIGH, N. C. —(AP)— The last delinquent lobbyist has filed his expense report with Secretary of State Thad Eure.

R. L. Smith, Jr., of Washington, D. C., made his request yesterday. The deadline was May 13.

Smith reported he spent $1,032.73 lobbying before the 1951 legislature for the Western Tax Council, Inc., which is interested in placing a ceiling on income and inheritance taxes.

The only lobbying report still due is from Smith's employer.

School Is To Be Scene Of Murders

scene of several peaceful murders June 25th and 26th when the Washington Little Theatre presents a two-night run of "Arsenic and Old Lace" as its last production for the season. Arsenic in elderberry wine, little old ladies dressed in lace, along with cops and fake doctors, a minister's daughter in love with a dramatic critic, and a merron who thinks he is Teddy Roosevelt, all blend together to make this a most enjoyable comedy. The curtain goes up promptly at 8:15, and tickets will be on sale at the door.

Don't DO that!

DON'T SPRAWL... It's annoying to brace your knees or feet against the seat of the person in front.

This is it!

Customers' Corner

What do you consider good service in a food store? Do you get it at your A&P? Of course, we expect all our employees to be friendly and courteous. But we think good service goes beyond that. We train our employees to be prompt, efficient, helpful and accurate as well.

Good service also requires that the store itself be clean, well stocked and well operated.

Anytime your A&P does not measure up to these yardsticks of good service, our loyal employees want to know about it. Please write:

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Filio-milium diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 60 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's five happy pills from these discomforts—helps the 12 million of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Filio today!

Commission Had To Force N.C. Water Company To Raise Rates

RALEIGH (UP)—A North Carolina water company had to be forced to raise its rates today, and its customers said they would be delighted to pay more.

The company is the small Powers Water Co. of Kannapolis, owned and operated by T. H. Powers. It serves 244 rural customers in Rowan and Cabarrus counties from four wells.

The enterprise started in 1939 with eight customers—and until this year Powers didn't realize he was operating a public utility. Then the State Utilities Commission learned of the project and told him he must obtain a franchise certificate.

Powers, a cooperative fellow, applied for the certificate in April, and the commission started investigating the case. Investigators were amazed.

They found that Powers does all the work on the water system in addition to holding a full time job. Last year he made a net profit of $579.34.

The commissioners told Powers his newly acquired franchise taxes plus rising power costs would completely wipe out his profit. They told him he was entitled to an increase in rates, and several of his customers appeared at a hearing to urge the increase.

But Powers said no.

He'd be happy, he said, to continue serving his customers at the old price—$2.00 per month for the 161 customers with baths and $1.50 for the 83 without.

"Such unselfish generosity is worthy of commendation," the commission said. "but the duty of the commission is just as great to see that rates are not too low as to protect the public against rates being too high. If a company is operating at an unreasonably low return, it will be impossible for the company to remain in business and provide sufficient services."

The commission ordered Powers to raise his charges to $2.50 per month with bath, $1.75 without. This should bring him an annual profit of $1,000 to $1,200.

Johnston, replying to a letter from W. F. Kennedy, president of the Ott-Heiskell Co., of Wheeling, W. Va., defended his position on controls and stabilization, even though he said he personally opposes them.

Kennedy had drawn Johnston's attention to an editorial in the NAM News of June 9 which was critical of the economic stabilizer. Kennedy said Johnston apparently had abandoned his former position favoring free enterprise because he stands for economic controls in the present emergency.

"What has become of the rugged individual you once were?" Kennedy asked.

Johnston replied that the editorial was factually inaccurate because he still operates four businesses in the northwest and said they are successful financially, give employment to a number of people and the stock holders appear to be satisfied.

But, Johnston added: "Isn't the writer saying, in effect, that the United States has citizens of the first class, in those who are engaged in business, and second class citizens in those who are not in business? Is that the kind of country we want America to be? It certainly is not my idea of America."

NAM Policy Hit By Eric Johnston

WASHINGTON (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston today accused the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) of indicating they want to make "second class citizens" of Americans who are not businessmen.

Johnston, replying to a letter from W. F. Kennedy, president of the Ott-Heiskell Co., of Wheeling, W. Va., defended his position on controls and stabilization, even though he said he personally opposes them.

Leaves Lines To Receive Medal

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A handsome, six-foot sergeant from Kansas has won the nation's highest award for leading 13 Americans through murderous fire in a successful charge against 150 enemy troops.

M-Sgt. Stanley P. Adams of Olathe, Kans., left the front lines yesterday to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Truman.

Adams was shot in the leg and knocked down four times by grenades—several struck his body before exploding—in the savage assault. At least 50 Chinese were slain by bayonet stabs and slashes from rifle butts.

"I think I know what I am fighting for," said the soft-spoken sergeant.

"I am fighting so my kid won't have to fight the Communists. You have to fight Communists some time and this is as good a time as any."

Penthouse Site For School That Has No Pupils

DALLAS (AP)—Here's a school that has no vacation for its pupils. It has no pupils. This penthouse school perched atop a building at Southern Methodist University is used by Prof. R. L. Bieseke, Jr., in research sponsored by Liberty-Owens-Ford Glass Co. to provide information to architects and educators on best methods of daylighting classrooms to assure good vision for pupils.

The daylighting program is being conducted in a 32-foot square completely equipped classroom which is oriented so its windows face the cardinal points of the compass. The ceiling is adjustable in height and movable partitions can make any one side of the room the one open to the daylight. The room is complete even to chalkboards, desks and pin-up display areas. Instruments record changes in light and brightness for all conditions of daylight for any hour of the day and for any day of the year.

More Damage In Pitt By Cotton Boll Weevil

Further damage to the Pitt cotton crop from the boll weevil was evidenced this week as farmers slowly began their treatment war against the migrating insect.

In his weekly court, farm agent S. C. Winchester reported today he got the same results from his test fields as he did last week—except more so.

treating in the next few days. Most seem to be waiting until they finish up mid-season tobacco operations before working with their cotton.

Meanwhile, presence of the weevil has spread to most eastern Carolina cotton counties. In the vicinity of Pitt weevils have been reported in large numbers in Wilson, Martin, Edgecombe, Lenoir and Greene counties.

Treatment calls for three sprays or dustings of toxaphene with seven days between each. If infestation is found to remain after the third treatment, another should be done. Also, if rain falls in 24 hours after a treatment, another should be applied immediately.

Issue—the British should get out and stay out. It has reached the point now where they are competing to see who can be the most violently anti-British. Tudeh, the Iranian Communist party, technically is outlawed but it hasn't hesitated to take the lead openly in the anti-British campaign because it knows it is on safe ground.

The British have yielded ground slowly in Iran, but finally made an offer to pay Iran $28,000,000 a year and $8,400,000 a month until some agreement can be reached on the dispute. That offer was tossed in the wastebasket along with a last-minute appeal by U.S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady for moderation.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison got up yesterday in London to try to explain his troubles to the House of Commons. A member of Morrison's own Labor party interjected this remark in an attempt to help him: "If precipitate action were taken we might find Iran was more dangerous than Korea."

The man has something there.

Eden Says Iran Slated To Fall To Communists

LONDON (UP)—Anthony Eden warned today that the Iranian government would collapse if her oil fields were closed down, and predicted that the country then would fall into the hands of the Communist Tudeh party.

Eden, the No. 2 Conservative party leader, said Britain must not evacuate the oil fields. He said that would be "abject surrender to the threat of force" and would "play into the hands of the Tudeh party which is quietly waiting to take over control of the country at the first opportunity."

Eden opened debate in Commons on the Mid-East crisis as the government waited anxiously to see if mob action in Iran would flare into violence and make it necessary to send in troops to protect British citizens.

Heavy Bond Issue Is Inflation Move

SINGAPORE (AP)—The government of this British crown colony is planning to issue $50,000,000 worth of premium bonds in an effort to halt inflation.

The acting financial secretary said the bonds would be free of income tax with repayment to be completed in 10 years. The government of the Federation of Malaya already has announced plans to issue $10,000,000 in premium bonds to stop inflation there.

Unimpressed By 'Stupid' Effort

WASHINGTON (UP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson said today that the Communist party has engaged in a "stupid campaign" to try to influence him to modify the recent Supreme Court decision upholding the conviction of 11 top Communist leaders.

Jackson waved before a Senate subcommittee a fistful of telegrams he received this morning. He said they were all worded the same way, filed from the same telegram office and sent at the same time, 2:44 a.m. today. He did not say where they were from.

"Gestures of this kind have no effect," Jackson told a Senate Labor subcommittee investigating morals in government.

School Children In Arts Contest

TORONTO (AP)—In the little red rural schoolrooms and the big modern city schoolrooms the children have been working all year on a competition for murals, paintings and handicrafts. The Canadian National Exhibition here will award cash prizes.

The exhibition will have murals from Bgandon, Man., showing development of the oil industry; from a Toronto public school picturing the construction of the new subway, and many others from all parts of the country.

Special Funeral For War Victim

BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP)—A military funeral will be held here Sunday for 19-year-old Pvt. Kenneth Shadrick, the first American infantryman to die fighting for the United Nations in Korea.

He was cut down by a burst of machine gun fire from a North Korean tank near Sojong last July 5—just 10 days after the Reds invaded South Korea.

Shadrick lived at nearby Skelton, W.Va. His body was brought here yesterday from Brooklyn. Burial will be in the Cemetery of American Legion Post No. 32 at Beckley.

that elephants don't like to work in the hot sun, need a rest in the spring, and a two weeks' vacation in October.

One thing the Senator didn't touch on is the kind of publicity men the government has. He could have received a fill-in on that from newspapermen who deal with them. Most of them probably would have said:

Government publicity men, like men in any other kind of job, fall into three groups: some are excellent and very helpful, some are good and pretty helpful, and some are terrible beyond belief.

The excellent ones are those who know at all times what's happening in their agency and can give quick and correct answers, thus saving time for a newsmen who calls up for information and a busy official who otherwise would have to answer the question.

The good ones are not as well-informed as the first group, and perhaps not as able, but do a reasonably good job of being informed and, when they don't know the answers, get them fast or arrange contact with an official who does.

The terrible one are those who bum or fake their way through a job, just as happens in private industry. Included in this group are those:

1. Who don't know the answers and ask an inquiring newsmen "did you see the statement we put out on that," ignoring the fact the newsmen probably called because he read the statement and wants more information.

2. Who are plain fakers, they promise to get the answer and call back, but never do; or they promise to arrange an interview, with an official who can give the answer, but never do.
