British Oil Workers In Iran Prepared To Leave

Ready For Mass Departure Should Violence Erupt; Asked To Remain; Initial Tension Appears

TEHRAN (UP)—All 3,000 British employees of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. packed today for a possible mass departure from Iran if violence erupts, but tension appeared to have eased.

LONDON (UP)—Great Britain appealed to the International Court of Justice at The Hague today in a desperate attempt to rescue its billion-dollar oil fields in Iran from seizure by the Iranian government.

Iranian officials asked the employees to stay and work for the newly nationalized industry, but British sources said a sizeable number already had resigned.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh disclosed that a departing British negotiating delegation had warned the government of the risk of mass resignations, which might force the big Abadan refinery to close down.

American sources here believed that the risk of an attack on the oil installations by extremists had passed and that the big danger now was the possibility the new company's administrative and technical staffs might break up.

Conservative Party leader Anthony Eden said in London last night that a shutdown would enable Communists to seize control of Iran and that British forces should be "at hand" in case of trouble.

Wives and children of all British employees were ordered to move inside the company's compound at Abadan and all Britons were placed in a "state of readiness" for departure within 36 hours if necessary.

A company spokesman in London said chartered planes were ready to start an evacuation airlift at a moment's notice but employees were still on their jobs. He said a British tanker was still loading oil today from the Abadan refinery.

Prospects Fade For Big Four Conference

Deputy Foreign Ministers Of West Inform Russia No Point In Continuing Talks; Terminate Parley

PARIS (AP)—Prospects faded today for a Big Four conference on the world's war jitters.

Sixteen weeks of attempts by deputy foreign ministers of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States to draw up an agenda collapsed last night.

The Western powers told Russia baldly there was no point in continuing their fruitless meetings. They added, however, they hoped Russia would see her way clear to attend the proposed Big Four conference despite the fact that the deputies failed to agree on what should be discussed.

The West has tentatively proposed that the conference take place in Washington July 22.

The four deputies had made some progress in compiling a list of general subjects to be discussed. They were hopelessly deadlocked, however, over whether the North Atlantic treaty and American over-

Ridgway Agreed On China Attack

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur told Washington last December that the Communists were "very vulnerable" in South China and that Chinese Nationalists on Formosa should be permitted "without delay" to invade the mainland.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, then chief field commander and now MacArthur's successor, concurred in the recommendation but from a military viewpoint alone.

The recommendation was in a dispatch from Ridgway to Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff. It was read to the Senate MacArthur investigating committee by Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Cal).

Ridgway disclosed that in a conference with MacArthur, the supreme commander discussed a recommendation he had made that Washington permit Nationalist troop operations "without delay and without limitations against the mainland of South China."

He is G. C. Elks Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Elks of the Station's Mill community. Sergeant Elks, 27, volunteered for the Army, went to Japan last July and after a short stay there went to Korea with the Second Division.

Air War In Korea Again Flares, And American Jets Chalk Up 5 Victories

U.S. Asks United Nations For Reinforcements At Battlefront

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—(UP)—The United States has asked the rest of the United Nations to send reinforcements to Korea.

"There is a real need for additional forces from member states in the light of massive Chinese Communist concentrations in the area and of their continuing aggression," the United States delegation told the U.N.

Ernest Gross, acting chief U. S. delegate, asked Secretary-General Trygve Lie especially to get troops from the nations which said they would support the U.N. action, which began last June 25 to resist North Korean invasion, but which have not sent troops so far.

Fifty-three countries promised support. Sixteen sent ground forces, nine put naval forces into action, and eight sent air forces. Three others sent medical units, and 29 countries, including some which sent troops, promised shipping, food, clothing, medical supplies and cash.

Gross, in a letter to Lie, said the U.S. and the unified command in Washington are already talking about increased forces with those countries which have already sent troops, ships and planes.

The unified command is made up of representatives in Washington of those countries with men in battle. Lie's executive assistant Andrew Cordier returned yesterday from a globe-grinding trip which included conversations with the U.N. field commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, and conferences with battlefield commanders north of the 38th parallel in Korea.

He told reporters before the U.S. request was announced that more troops were needed on the battlefront. He refused to predict how long the fighting would continue but said "we will not be satisfied with a stalemate."

Cordier said the U.N. position on a cease-fire was clear. It has been willing. There has been no indication of any response from the North Korean or Chinese Communists. Ridgway had reported only half of the Chinese available forces had been committed in their last offensive.

Plane With 39 Aboard Missing

DAKAR, French West Africa (UP)—A Pan American Airways Constellation carrying 39 persons, and bound from South Africa to New York, was missing today. It was believed to have crashed in the steaming jungles of Liberia.

The plane lost radio contact after passing over Roberts Field at Monrovia, Liberia. It ran into a violent rain storm and radioed that it was returning to Monrovia in 15 minutes to land. It failed to arrive there.

British and French search planes flew low over the river-slashed rain soaked jungle country and the rugged coasts without finding a trace of the plane.

Every available plane in the area was thrown into the search over the jungles and rough plains of Liberia. All commercial planes on the route along the big bulge of Africa's west coast were alerted.

The plane carried 30 passengers and a crew of nine. Pan American said the plane had fuel to remain airborne only four hours after the radio message was sent.

(In New York, the air line said only three or four persons on the plane were bound there. The line identified the pilot as Capt. Frank J. Crawford, 38, of Long Island, who had been with Pan American for 10 years.)

Bullet Cure

LONDON (AP)—The story of a man who cured his insanity—but not his disposition—by putting a bullet through his own head was told today in a British doctors journal.

Dr. John Slobach of Basingstoke said that instead of killing himself the would-be suicide succeeded only in performing a rough leucotomy. This is an operation to remove the frontal lobes of the brain. It has been found to be effective in some types of mania.

Taxpayers Reminded Take Advantage Discount Rate

FARMVILLE—Farmville taxpayers are not taking advantage of the discount rate for the month of June, it was reported by city clerk C. M. Paylor.

To date only $96 in next year's taxes have been paid in, whereas this time last year over $8,000 had been paid.

Ninth To Die

CAMP LEJEUNE (UP)—A ninth marine died today in the Camp Lejeune hospital while marine officers continued their inquiry to find out what caused two mortar shells to fall short of their objectives and slam into a command post during a maneuver.

Public information officers identified the ninth victim as Pfc. James M. Tarleton of Baltimore, Md. Six other men seriously injured in the explosions were still hospitalized, and 16 others were recovering from minor wounds.

Eight men were killed outright in the explosions. Tarleton, the most critically injured survivor, died early today.

Ickes Puts Blame On Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UP)—Harold L. Ickes held top Congress today to moly its own morals because Congress is largely responsible for the "hate and suspicion" which fills America.

The former secretary of interior made a wide-swinging attack on many congressmen and senators, without naming names, and blasted Gen. Douglas MacArthur also without using his name.

In obvious reference to MacArthur, Ickes asked: "How can we expect unity... if one of the highest possible ranking generals not only gives an example of active insubordination but engages in a political campaign to the confusion of his country and its allies, while we are fighting a desperate war in Korea?"

Ickes testified before a Senate labor subcommittee investigating morals in government and attempting to write a "code of ethics" for public officials.

Ickes named one name, Senator John M. Butler, (R-Md) in condemning the "highly objectionable and even illegal methods" used in electing Butler last fall. A senate subcommittee has investigated the campaign.

"If one gets into either club, by hook or by crook," Ickes said of both houses, "there is little likelihood of expulsion for any degree of moral turpitude employed in getting in."

Ickes said Congress could help improve the "massic moral climate" of the country if its members would:

Stop hiding behind Congressional immunity to make "reckless charges without a scintilla of proof"; disqualify themselves, as judges do, in voting on matters in which they have a direct interest; set higher standards for election campaigns, and be better citizens.

DuPont Plant's Construction Is Going As Planned

GRIFTON—Construction work at the site of DuPont's $33,000,000 Dacron plant is progressing "pretty much on schedule" according to a statement this morning by Service Superintendent E. V. Albrechtson.

The spokesman said work on the temporary buildings at the plant site is "coming along nicely" as is the work on the foundation for the main factory building of the Dacron plant.

The business offices of the plant were transferred from Kingston to the new buildings at the plant site about three weeks ago.

Earlier this week construction crews used two boxes of dynamite to blast a drainage ditch 50 feet long, eight feet wide and eight feet deep on the plant site. Albrechtson said the ditch was to have been blasted earlier, but extremely dry weather caused a delay in the blasting.

Appoints Conley To Commission

D. H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools, joined the State Resource-Use Education Commission today.

An announcement of Conley's appointment to serve on the commission was made last night by Governor Kerr Scott along with the appointment of nine other persons.

The group represents education, radio, extension service, forestry work, and TVA agencies. Conley said the purpose of the commission was to stress and conserve the human, physical, and social heritage of the state and put all of the resources to wise use.

Last year the commission used a series of broadcasts entitled "The Silent Siren" in stressing the use of resources to broaden and supplement the ideas of conservation through the years.

Conley is representing the division of school superintendents on the commission. He was elected president of the division at a meeting in Asheville during the late winter.

The director of the Resource-Use Education Commission is Dr. Richard L. Weaver and Conley said the commission was subject to call by Weaver for meetings and workshops.

Other appointments announced were: A. B. Gibson of Laurinburg; Ruby Williams and Rosa Tillett, Durham; R. O. Niehoff, Knoxville; Tennessee; Mary B. Thompson and Earl J. Gluck, Charlotte; Dr. Henry Highsmith and Ruth Current, Raleigh; and E. L. Demmon, Asheville.

Psychological Warfare

About The New Board Which Will Run Major Aspect Of This Country's Cold War With Russia; Vast Gains Made By Russians; How U. S. Board Is Made Up

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman has created a new psychological strategy board which will boss this country's propaganda and psychological war with Russia.

In that war this country tries to make people behind the Iron Curtain discontented with communism.

The Russians, in reverse, are trying to do the same to us. And they have made big strides, by force and propaganda, for where they can't use force they have to depend on propaganda.

At the end of World War II about the only human beings living under communism were the 200,000,000 living in Russia. Now there are 800,000,000 under, counting China and the satellite countries.

The effect of Russia's psychological war could be seen in recent weeks in Europe where, in the French elections, the Communists won 8,000,000 votes, and in the Italian elections, 6,000,000 votes, in spite of our propaganda and the help we've given both countries through the Marshall Plan.

For years this country has been waging this psychological campaign for the minds of men, boosting this country's stock or trying to undermine the Russians. Various agencies have a hand in it.

In Japan, for instance, the Army has the job of spreading American propaganda. The State Department does it in Germany and all over the world. The CIA—Central Intelligence Agency—takes part in it, since its job is getting information from behind the Iron Curtain. So does ECA, the Economic Cooperation Administration which runs the Marshall Plan.

Ground Patrols Report Enemy Massing For Expected Assault; Almond Says Reds Capable Of New Attack, But Eighth Army Is Ready For Blow

TOKYO (UP)—U. S. fighters shot down or damaged five Communist jets in two blazing air battles over northwest Korea today to run their six-day toll of enemy planes to 29.

American F-86 Sabrejets shot down two Russian-built MIG-15s, damaged three more and chased the survivors to the Manchurian border in the two engagements.

The U. S. 5th Air Force also blasted four airfields, one of them just south of the Yalu River frontier of Manchuria, to prevent their use by the Red air force in an anticipated ground offensive.

United Nations tank-infantry teams probing the enemy buildup reported the Reds massing just below Kimchon and Pyongyang, both 20 miles north of the 38 parallel on the central front.

Patrols tried to push into Pyongyang, at the apex of the old Communist "iron triangle," but found Chinese troops entrenched on the hills south of the city. The Allies withdrew and called in artillery.

An 8th Army spokesman reported the Communists becoming increasingly aggressive all along a 65-mile front from Pyongyang east to the Sea of Japan coast.

A communique disclosed that a small-scale Communist counter-attack was repulsed northwest of Yangu early today. Three more were thrown back on the east-central and eastern fronts yesterday.

A delayed dispatch from Korea reported that Lt. Gen. Edward Almond, commander of the 10th Corps, told newsmen that the Chinese Communists are capable of launching another offensive in Korea and probably will do so.

But, he said, "we are ready for them anywhere."

There was speculation that the enemy may strike on or before the first anniversary of its invasion of South Korea next Monday.

Today marked the fifth time in six days that Communist jets have challenged Allied air supremacy over northwest Korea. Rain discouraged the Reds from venturing across the border yesterday.

An estimated 94 Communist and U.S. jet fighters took part in today's two air battles.

Twenty-eight Sabrejets on a routine patrol intercepted about 30 enemy MIG's about 30 miles from the frontier town of Simju early this morning in the first action. They shot down two and damaged two.

Several hours later, 16 more Sabrejets spotted 20 MIG's while on a sweep in the same area. One was damaged before the formation could escape.

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA (UP)—Lt. Gen. Edward Almond, commander of the 10th U. S. Army Corps, said Wednesday the Chinese Communists are capable of mounting another assault in North Korea, and probably will, but "we are ready for them anywhere."

Almond said he knew nothing about peace rumors, but he thought the answer was in what Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall said on a recent visit here—the purpose of the United Nations Army in Korea is to prevent the enemy from again invading South Korea.

(This dispatch was delayed two days by censorship.)

"I don't think there is any doubt about the ability of the Chinese to mount another attempt to do that," Almond said.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
June 22, 1911
A most novel and unique entertainment was the travel party given by Mrs. L. C. Skinner Thursday afternoon in honor of her sisters, Misses Lillian and Aileen Minor of Oxford and her sister-in-law, Miss Rhel Skinner.

The guests upon arrival and ascending the stairway to the depot, first beheld a placard "to Greenville, 3000 miles." The train was already in waiting, and the passengers soon learned that on an express limited distance is annihilated. At the ticket office the agent, Mrs. E. B. Ferguson, furnished tickets for first-class passage over the "L. and A.M. and E. S. Line," the letters being the initials of the young ladies in whose honor the entertainment was given. The tickets also designated each station from which each passenger started, the destination being Greenville.

Then boarding the train in charge of the conductor, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, progressive "travel" began, the stations enroute being Reno, Boston, Paris, Cairo, London, Egypt and New York.

Two rooms represented respectively a parlor car and a chair car, while the front balcony as an observation car completed the train. The score cards were in suitcase designs and as each passenger progressed in the game a sticker with the name of the station was pasted on her suitcase.

Everything about the entertainment was suggestive of taking a journey on a train. The decorations were suitcases, umbrellas, hats and wraps about the aisles and racks, even the water cooler being in evidence. At intervals the newboys passed through crying magazines, chewing gum, peanuts, candy and fruit.

At one of the stations the porter announced a stop of 20 minutes for lunch, and iced tea and sandwiches were served. The game was resumed and when the players reached Greenville the porter again announced "last call for dinner" and ice cream and cake were served.

The stickers on the score cards were counted to ascertain who had the highest number, and it was found that Miss Leary had won the first prize. This was a suitcase filled with assorted candies. The booby, a miniature suitcase to which a time table was tied and filled with salted peanuts, went to Mrs. F. M. Wooten. The consolation was cut for and won by Miss Lissinia Moore.

This was an imitation trunk filled with confections and fruits. Each of the guests of honor also received a prize, a suitcase filled with chocolates.

The guests were welcomed at the door by the hostesses and invited into the dining room, where the bride's cake was placed on the organically-covered table. The centerpiece was a bridal arrangement of lilies and Queen Ann's lace, flanked by lighted candles in single holders. The three tiered cake was placed at one end of the table and a large punch bowl was at the other end. After the bridal couple cut the first slice of cake the attendants drew from the cake the traditional flavors which were tied with narrow satin streamers. The cake was then served by Mrs. D. L. ROBERSONVILLE — The first Baptist Church of Robersonville was the scene of a simple but impressive wedding Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock when Miss Nancy Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Johnson, became the bride of Mr. Willis Grant Vanderford, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Vanderford of Gold Point, North Carolina.

Rev. Grover Everett, acting pastor of the church, performed the double ceremony. A program of wedding music was rendered by Miss Frances Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Smith, pianist, who played "The Rosary," "To A Wild Rose," "Moonlight and Roses," and "Always." Miss Doris Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Scott, soloist, sang "Because" by Guy D. Hardelot.

The bride entered the church with her brother, Mr. Joseph Johnson of Stokes, who gave her in marriage. She wore a street length dress of pink linen trimmed with Irish lace with a nylon redingote. Her veil was shoulder length and she carried accessories of white linen. She carried a prayer book topped with a purple throated white orchid with white satin streamers.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Mary Frances Crandall, daughter of Mrs. C. A. Crandall of Stokes, wore a street length dress of yellow linen covered with a redingote of dotted Swiss and used accessories of white linen. Her shoulder-length veil was of yellow net topped with matching summer flowers.

Mr. Payton Vanderford, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride's mother wore a printed silk dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. A dress of black silk was worn by the groom's mother with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Both the bride and the groom attended Robersonville High School. The bride now holds a position in one of the business establishments here and the groom is an employee of the Vanderford and Warren Grocery and Filling Station in Gold Point.

After a honeymoon in the mountains in the western part of the state they will make their home with the bride's parents here.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
IT STARTED IN EDEN
Food experts tell us that we hunger only for calories—not for vitamins or proteins; only for calories. Of course we all know what calories do to the waistline. If we could just get hungry for vitamins and proteins we could do a little something about this problem of overweight. But when hunger arises, it is for calories.
It is probably not stretching the application of this fact to the breaking point to remind ourselves that usually the things we want most are the things we need least, or the things which would actually do us harm if we got them.
Calories have an important place in human diet. So does wealth in the general make-up of a man's life; so does love of power; so does that gay and carefree spirit which enables us to let down after protracted periods of hard work. But the trouble is that we want wealth and position and pleasure too much. These have their place in life but just as our hunger is almost exclusively for calories, so our desires for life's benefits usually lead us to want things that may very easily do us harm.
Maybe this is what the theologians have in mind when they talk about original sin—a greater hankering after things that will hurt us than after the things that will help us. Adam and Eve seem to have given a bad twist to the minds and natures of us all.

A Poor Reward For Patriotism

Congressional committees have scrapped the idea of giving at least an even break to those businessmen who held the line against higher prices from the time the Korean war broke until the general price freeze in January.
The action of the Senate Banking Committee and the House Banking Committee gives the profiteer a pat on the back to go his merry way; but it virtually slaps the stamp of "sucker" on the man who held down his prices in compliance with government pleas against higher prices.
The committees of both the Senate and the House have thrown the proposed rollbacks in prices out the window. The people who made their price jumps between June and January can hold to their higher prices. The others who did not must pay out of their own pockets for their patriotism.

What kind of reward is that for the person who tried to do his small part to keep America's economy on an even keel during the uncertain days of 1950? How anxious will that individual be to cooperate with the next government request for volunteer action in stabilizing the nation's economy?

With the rollbacks a thing of the past, the gate has been swung open for labor to begin a demand for another round of wage hikes, that will send the nation up one more step in the inflation spiral.
The action of the committees of the Senate and House has gone a long way toward undermining the whole price control program.

Conclusions From The MacArthur Hearings

General MacArthur's decision not to offer rebuttal to testimony given in the Senate investigation into his removal from the Far East command is one of the wisest decisions the general has made since his return to the States.
The inquiry has run too long as it is. The issues have become too involved, the charges and counter-charges too sweeping, and the confusion too great for any good to come from further witnessings.

Two definite conclusions can be drawn from the whole wrangle. The confusion over America's foreign policy is not confined to the average citizen, but extends to the highest echelons of the government. The foreign policy of the United States is, and apparently for several years has been, in a dreadful state of turmoil.

The MacArthur inquiry shed a great deal of light on the confusion over the foreign policy of the United States. That any of the fog was dispersed by the hearings is doubtful. Too much of the investigation was so filled with political overtones, it was difficult to follow the true melody of the findings.

In the opinion of The Reflector, the Senate investigation has done little to bring forth new evidence to help resolve the four fundamental issues which caused the fight over MacArthur's dismissal.

(1) Did Truman have the right to dismiss MacArthur from the Far East command? Sure he did. None but the staunchest pro-MacArthur and anti-Truman individuals ever disputed the President's right to act.

(2) Was Truman wise in removing MacArthur when he did? If the President had planned the action for more than a year, as he stated, he should have been able to find a more suitable time for MacArthur's removal.

(3) Should the United Nations forces have been allowed to bomb bases above the Yalu River? By all means they should have. It should have been done as soon as it was ascertained that Chinese troops were streaming down from the north to join the battle against the United Nations. Had air strikes in Manchuria begun last fall, there is little likelihood the move would have brought a showdown with Russia. Now that the United Nations have pussyfooted around so long, the calculated risk is much greater.

(4) Should Chinese Nationalist troops and American material have been put into a second front on the Chinese mainland? No. Almost without exception American troops have sooner or later followed American supplies to other nation's troops in the field. The United States does not have the manpower to wage war in China; the Chinese Nationalists have neither the ability nor the leadership.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court's record during the 1950-1951 session did not bear out the confident expectation of Roosevelt-Truman "liberals" that the reorganized tribunal would follow the "party line" and fasten their reforms on society more or less permanently through judicial action.

Although all nine members were appointed by Franklin D. Roosevelt or President Truman, they did not make good Mr. Roosevelt's not so jocular quip that the Supreme Court would defend and preserve his theories of government even against the attack of hostile Congress.

As has so often happened with their distinguished predecessors, notably the late Justices Holmes and Stone, they became more judicially minded when they swapped their political garments for their $200 black, grosgrain robes.

As they grew older and more mellow, and as their period of partisan service becomes even more dim in their memories, this process may become so marked that another Franklin D. Roosevelt or Harry S. Truman may seek to expand or "pack" the court in some future year.

In view of the fact that the eight Democrats on the high bench once were dues-paying members of that party on or off Capitol Hill, in the legislative or executive branches, their attitude is both surprising and remarkable.

DECREE—In two of its more spectacular decisions, the Vinsonians administered a rebuke to the Truman Administration. They strengthened and broadened the Taft-Hartley Act to such a degree that union leaders and publications assailed the rulings as "shocking." In handling several cases involving Communism, including affirmation of Alger Hiss's conviction, it recalled the days when Harry S. Truman described Congressional investigations of Moscow agents as a "red herring."

The Supreme Court ruled that officers of parent unions like the AFL and CIO must sign non-Communist affidavits, if their organizations want to take advantage of the protection which the T-H Act gives them. But the decree which gripped William Green and Philip Murray most was that which said picketing or building sub-contractors constitutes the kind of boycott barred by law.

Labor leaders had hoped that judicial decisions and findings by a friendly National Labor Relations Board would emasculate the hated statute. Now, after months of relative quiet, they have renewed their demand for outright repeal.

UPHELD—In view of the court's attitude, they will insist that the Democrats adopt a repeal plank in the 1952 platform, whether Mr. Truman is the candidate or not.

Their demand may embarrass the President, in view of the action of the Roosevelt-Truman jurists. It will certainly plague Chief Justice Vinson, should he be the nominee, for he agreed with the majority. Author of the three labor decisions was Justice Burton, once Senator Taft's colleague.

Besides confirming the Hiss convictions, the court upheld the anti-Communist law under which the 11 Reds were convicted in Judge Medina's protracted trial. It also upheld the dismissal of a government employee as a "security risk."

INSPIRED—Despite its strengthening of federal authority in these two fields, the court showed great concern for the rights of citizens, civic groups, cities and states. It expressed an undercurrent of fear lest obsession with the Communist threat at home and abroad lead to infringement of individual liberties.

It affirmed the authority of local communities to ban door-to-door salesmen, to enforce loyalty oaths affecting municipal employees, and to retain seemingly outmoded Sunday "blue laws." It sustained the states' efforts to run their own business in many instances.

It upheld Maryland's anti-subversive law. It approved Virginia's poll tax as a prerequisite to voting and the same state's milk-pricing statute. It confirmed Oklahoma's right to set minimum prices on oil under certain circumstances, and New Jersey's power to seize the stock and unpaid dividends of missing owners.

OPINION—But both state and municipal legislators got a crack on the knuckles when they tried to stretch their authority over the citizen so far. The court ruled in favor of the individual whenever there was evidence of obvious racial discrimination, unreasonable restraints on free speech and assembly, unnecessary interference with constitutional guarantees.

It also held that witnesses before grand juries cannot be convicted of contempt if they refuse to answer on constitutional grounds. This resulted in acquittal of numerous persons so cited for their silence before Congressional committees. But the latter question will not be decided finally until pertinent litigation reaches the high tribunal next year.

Although Chief Justice Vinson obtained considerable unity among his associates, he could not stop their chatter. There were more individual opinions, explanations and "begs to differ," even when the authors agreed with the majority ruling than in many years. Sometimes, on Monday decision days, they acted as if they were holding a "fishwives' convention."

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.
This is one of those stories entitled "It could happen here." This one happened in Wetumka, Oklahoma, the town that was swindled, and now capitalized on it.
A man by the name of J. Bam Morrison came to Wetumka, posing as an advance agent for a circus. When he arrived he had the names of stories of early residents of Wetumka in his head, and convinced the local businessmen that he was formerly well accepted there. In fact, he said, he had such a soft spot in his heart for dear old Wetumka that he hated to think that the circus might pass it by in favor of rival towns. Soon he convinced the Chamber of Commerce secretary that Wetumka had better act fast to avoid the biggest opportunity of its civic life.
At a special meeting, Morrison spoke of how the circus everywhere attracted crowds of cal business. He agreed to use his influence with the management to obtain a ten-day booking for Wetumka provided the merchants cooperated. Elsewhere, he mentioned casually, merchants bought advertising time on the circus sound truck.
The town of Wetumka, population 2715, got busy making arrangements for the circus. The local cafe owner gave Morrison free meals for three days, but landed the contract to feed the entire circus. Everybody was sorry for Morrison when he caught a cold. The local doctor treated him free, but he insisted that the doctor take four passes to the circus. Then Morrison was called "Back to the circus."
In a few days he returned with the news that the circus sound truck would tour neighboring towns for the entire ten days to drum up attendance, and the management likes Wetumka so well that he had authorized Morrison to extend the bargain rate on advertising. Wetumka's merchants handed $300 in cash in cash over to Morrison, and they haven't seen him since, nor has the circus come to town.
With faces red, the merchants started preparing for a new day in Wetumka; the Mayor proclaimed the first annual Sucker Day. The grocer donated wickers, the baker gave buns, and the bottlers donated drinks. The newspaper publisher gave 5000 all day suckers, and the Boy Scouts volunteered to serve the free food to out-of-town visitors.
On the appointed day, hundreds of amused visitors, greeted by "Welcome, Sucker" signs saw a parade, ate the free lunch, and shopped enough to double sales. Merchants were so pleased that they decided to make Sucker Day an annual event, and set August 18th for the 1951 Day.
The only "sucker" who couldn't brag about his business was a practical joker who spent the entire day offering a hundred one-dollar bills at a bargain rate of ninety cents. The people of Wetumka had reason to be wary. The joker only said six.
And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NIBBET
Daily Reflector Bureau
LOBBYING—The lobbying issue was not over when the general assembly adjourned, nor even when Secretary of State Taft Eure certified to the department of justice the names of persons and firms who had not complied with the law. In fact, some of the most powerful lobbying in recent state history is going on right now. Almost every mail brings to members of the council of state letters commending them for buying the Mansion Park Hotel property several weeks ago and urging the purchase of additional property in the vicinity of the executive mansion, the hotel property and capitol square. The lobbying is being conducted in a highly intelligent and impressive manner.
INSPIRED—It is not reasonable to assume that a real estate man in the east, a county official in the central part of the state and a well-known public-spirited woman in the west, would simultaneously get the urge to write the council of state on this matter unless inspiration came from a common source. Neither is it probable that individual property owners in the affected area would have sufficient "pull" with this widely divergent group to occasion the p.o. letter writing. It is not unusual for one state official to receive as many as four or five letters a day on the subject.
SOURCE—Inescapable conclusion is that the inspiration for the letter writing originates in some state office or department interested in expanding its facilities, or securing a safe investment for the state, or in spending all available money on hand or in prospect. Whatever the source, it is skillfully conducted "lobby" and will prove effective in the ratio of the extent to which it is overdone. One or two letters to one or two different officials might be pure coincidence. Multiple letters to several officials might be pure coincidence. Multiple letters to several officials from the same writers indicates organization similar to that used by class groups on members of the general assembly and the congress.
PIONEERING—North Carolina is pioneering in advanced phases of controlling Bang's disease among dairy cattle. This was the first state to attain national accreditation for freedom from Bang's disease. That happened several years ago and did not mean that the highly contagious disease for both humans and cattle, which bears the high sound official name of "Brucellosis," had been entirely eliminated. There were some cases remaining, and restrictions were not too rigid. Now the state board of agriculture proposes to take the next and highly significant step, by refusing Grade A rating for any dairy herd with positive reactors to the Bang's disease test.
ELIMINATION—Past and present policy has been that milk cows found to be affected were branded on the jaw, but were permitted to stay in the herd if all the milk produced were pasteurized before being put on the market. That practice leaves a great many gaps, such as possible use of unpasteurized milk by workers on the farm, contamination of streams, flowing through pastures where other herds might have access to the water, and similar loopholes. Under terms of the ordinance considered by the state board this week to become effective July 1, 1952, no Grade A rating will be accorded any herd of dairy farmers in which Bang's disease reactors are found. Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine says this is the first state to go such lengths in efforts to eliminate the dread disease.
TOBACCO—The tobacco situation in North Carolina emphasizes the oft-repeated statement that development in production has far outrun progress in marketing. The problem confronting the tobacco marketing agencies is perhaps not much different from that facing growers of perishable produce and certain storable crops like corn and peanuts. In the overall picture it is more important, because tobacco constitutes such large part of the state's agricultural economy. That is why statewide farm organizations devote so much attention to tobacco.
CRITICAL—All sides agree the situation is approaching critical stage for the auction system of selling leaf tobacco, and veiled threats have been heard of government price-fixing and regulation of selling methods. The warehousemen generally are greatly worried. The system has been threatened many times before, most serious instance having been the cooperative movement in the early twenties. Despite these successive threats there are more warehouses and more floor space than ever before.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — At long last Constantine Brumidi, the artist who spent 25 years decorating the walls and dome of the capitol building with frescoes, is being officially honored for his work.
The huge canopy under the dome, 180 feet from the floor, is a Brumidi fresco. Tourists have gaped up at it for years. A fresco that he began later, 189 years from the floor, was never finished. Brumidi died in 1890 after a fall from a scaffolding. He was 75 and impoverished.
The government did not even know where he had been buried, or little else about the man who now is being described as the "Michelangelo of the Capitol," until Myrtle Cheney Murock came here as a congresswoman's wife back in 1938.
The insatiable curiosity of the wife of Rep. John R. Murock (D-Aris.) led her to uncover many little known but highly interesting facts about "Uncle Sam's headquarters." She finally wrote a book, "Your Uncle Sam in Washington," in which she shares her findings with other Americans.
The volume contained a small chapter on Brumidi, but Mrs. Murock was not content to stop with that. She went out hunting for his grave, searching old records and other cemeteries. She finally found it—lot 79 in Glenwood cemetery, about seven years ago. A year ago Congress passed a bill to put a bronze marker on the grave. She says $500 was appropriated for it but that $100 will be used for perpetual care of the grave.
Mrs. Murock, who taught in a rural Missouri school at 15, works for her husband on Capitol Hill. She finally dug up enough facts on Brumidi from old manuscripts and newspapers and talks with relatives of the Washington girl, Lola Germon, whom he married in 1861, to write a book about the artist. It was published last December and recently Mrs. Murock was honored by the Italian government for her work in promoting cultural relations. The Italian ambassador presented her a medal, "The Order of the Star of Italian Solidarity."
Mrs. Murock's greatest triumph, however, will come late in July, when Congress has authorized a ceremony to be held in the rotunda of the Capitol in the midst of the artist's works, to mark the 145th anniversary of his birth.
NEW YORK —(AP)—If the music business ever goes to the dogs, Xavier Cugat is ready to turn the tables by making the bow-wcws go into business for him.
The Rhumba King plans to become a dog farmer when he finally hangs up his fiddle and his bow.
His specialty is the breed he has made into his personal trademark—the tiny Chihuahua. Already he owns by far the largest collection in America.
"I've got 600 on my ranch in California," he said, "and when I get 1,000 I'll really be ready to start operating."
His dogs hardly have to worry yet about supporting Cugat, however. He estimates his band has grossed $18,000,000 in the last 20 years. It is still in the peak bracket, drawing down $6,000 to play at a society wedding or $15,000 for a week at a theater.
Cugat is a Jack-of-all-trades who found the best way to hit the jackpot is to specialize. The 51-year-old Spanish-born musician toured with Caruso as a violinist, then worked as a newspaper cartoonist before starting his own band.
"I was just getting fill-in jobs until I noticed that this is a country of specialization," he said. He picked the uncrowded field of Latin-American music. Helping popularize the rhumba, the conga and the samba made him rich.
So did his hobbies. Most band leaders have sidelines and spend fortunes on them, such as Guy Lombardo, who can't say "no" to a racing motor boat.
But Cugat figures it is only fair of a man to let any hobby pay its own way. He has a dozen profitable sidelines ranging from handpainted neckties to Cugat linens, plastic canasta sets, and raising Chihuahuas.
Cugat, currently featured on the Dumont TV network's "Cavalcade of Bands" program, told about his goal of making big money out of little dogs at he lunched at the Waldorf-Astoria where his band is a summer fixture.
"It's a crazy hobby," he said. "I always wanted to own a farm and have people send me dogs they didn't want or could no longer care for."
"One day while I was making my first picture I told the director I was nervous—I couldn't act without having something in my hands. 'The scene didn't call for my violin, so they gave me a Chihuahua to hold.'"
The miniature pooch stole the scene. It drew more fan mail than the cast. A shrewd showman, Cugat immediately adopted the Chihuahua as his emblem. He bought them in droves, until soon he had enough to smother a St. Bernard dog.
He has since used a Chihuahua in all his movies. He wears Chihuahuas gold cuff links—the dogs have blue diamond eyes, ruby tail lights. Currently he takes three of the pets with him wherever he goes. They rear up out of his pockets or pop out of his violin during shows, and they get more attention than Cugat.
Two of them—Coca and Chichi—have flown across the Andes six times," he said. "I had to wear an oxygen mask, but the high altitude didn't bother them

What Other Papers Are Thinking

CUTTING FEDERAL PAYROOLS (Wilson Daily Times)
It seems a shame, but it's been going on for years. But let an economy-minded Congress put in its appearance and the executive branches of the government which must depend on that Congress for money paid their appropriations. Thus, when Congress slashes 10 per cent, they're not badly hurt. But think what happens when the Congress isn't economy-minded. We see money scattered all around Washington. Bureaucrats swell up to men of importance. The small town politico back home who's picked up a lucrative job in Washington becomes almost a policy maker.
That sort of game will go on forever until Congress comes to its senses. But when Congress establishes some sort of fact-finding body which reports to it and not to the President, it will have the necessary intelligence to cut the waste from government. We don't need, as we now have, a half a dozen agencies doing substantially the same thing. Nor do we need those agencies' representatives running around duplicating each other's work. But that's precisely what's happening now. If a fact-finding agency reported to Congress, that body would know how to deal with such duplications.
As it is it must only stab in the dark. That gives the executive branches the upper hand. All they need to do is to pad appropriation measures. That they've learned well goes without saying. Thus, when Congress says it'll take out 10 per cent, no one's hurt. But that doesn't take out all the waste. It doesn't eliminate the duplications. It merely spurs the departments on to more padding, at which they're becoming adept. Some day, though, it's our hope that the men who make up Congress will take the initiative, establishing a fact-finding agency that will supply them with facts.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
"Beat year-ago records" has long been a yardstick with which merchandising executives have measured the performance of department managers and employees.
This yardstick is about to become a warped and rubbery ruler. Sales records in the next few months will look puny compared with the same weeks and months a year ago. That's because business is approaching the anniversary of the first post-Korean buying rush. It is doubtful that many lines will reach the sales marks this July and August that they hit a year ago.
The total of retail sales in July, 1948, a good year if there ever was one, was $10,738,000,000 according to Department of Commerce figures. They were $10,210,000,000 in July 1949. But last July they went up to $12,313,000,000. They kept above the $2 billion-a-month mark until November, when they dipped slightly under it, and soared to 14 1/2 billion in December.
Trying to meet those figures this year—unless there is a new buying spree—will keep many department managers awake nights unless their employers fully realize the faulty basis of comparison.
Those who measure the state of business with Federal Reserve and Commerce figures will also get a gloomy picture if they do not allow for that mad buying. The Federal Reserve figure shows department store sales so far this year 10 per cent above the same period last year. That figure does not indicate a great boom, because the same period last year was not so hot.
The FRB department store index (1935-39 equals 100) for January through June 1950 averaged around 290. But in July it shot up to 362. As a consequence, a lot of minus signs can be expected when coming July sales are compared with those of a year ago.
Even when the coming July figures are discounted for the buying spree, they will have effects on merchandisers. They will tempt many to cut prices in efforts to bolster sales records.
Price wars do increase sales totals, whether or not they increase profit figures. For the week ending June 9, department store sales in New York, where price cutting flourished, were 15 per cent above the same week last year. But for the country as a whole they were only 3 per cent and in Minneapolis, Chicago and Boston Federal Reserve districts, where there was less price-cutting, sales were under the year-ago week.

BUYERS SEEK BARGAINS AT FURNITURE MARTS
In view of the rocky time many furniture retailers have experienced recently, interest in current Chicago and Grand Rapids furniture markets this week is unexpectedly high.
Buying is far less than at the January shows. Many buyers are frank to admit that they are still overboard then and are still struggling with heavy inventories. However, most are still looking for merchandise that can be promoted and some manufacturers, also burdened with large inventories resulting from recent cancellations of orders, are offering good buys. Furniture suitable for Christmas gifts is attracting considerable interest. Several carpet manufacturers have trimmed prices, but linoleum is higher.
MORE VACATIONS NOW: TREND TO THREE WEEKS
Labor's insistence on three week benefits has brought vacation allowances of hourly workers "just about equal" to those of salaried employees, a study by the National Industrial Conference Board indicates. In some cases the hourly workers get even more time off.
There's a trend toward three-week vacations. Of 278 companies, 44.7 per cent grant a minimum of three weeks vacation to hourly workers.
SILK, AFTER SLIDE, REBOUNDS IN PRICE
Japanese silk is one of the most volatile commodities in price. Silk reached $1 a pound in the 1920's and dropped to $1.50 during the depression. It came back after the war at above $10 and has fluctuated downward since to around $4. However, it recently went up and is now close to $5 in the New York market. Government buying for military purposes is one reason.
BILL PAYING LAGS... COLLECTORS SAY
People are a bit slower in paying their bills, delegates to the American Collectors Association convention in New York said. Delinquencies have risen about 10 per cent in a year, they said. However, even after the rise, delinquencies are still very low.
NEW AND HOT BAGS: Soot-collecting bags have been developed of Orion, the new synthetic fiber, Du Pont Co., Wilmington 98, reports. They keep soot out of the air and profit factories because soot has commercial value in the manufacture of carbon black.

Raising chihuahuas en masse, however, is inexpensive, as they eat little.
"It's a fantastic business," said head. And the dogs bring anything from $300 to $725 each.
"I've got a man something he will find fault with it later. But when you sell a dog, you never hear a cross word afterward from your buyer."
NEW YORK —(AP)—If the music business ever goes to the dogs, Xavier Cugat is ready to turn the tables by making the bow-wcws go into business for him.

The Church Under Persecution

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—II Timothy 2:1-9; I Peter 4:12-5:11; Revelation 1: 7:9-17.

Paul, confined in prison in Rome, and facing martyrdom, wrote to Timothy to give him courage to face a like fate if it should come.

Paul's letter to Timothy in Ephesus began: "Thou, therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Jesus Christ... be a good soldier."

One form of martyrdom of Christians by the Romans was to herd them into the arena of the Colosseum and turn hungry lions upon them.

On the island of Patmos, St. John had a vision of the New Jerusalem of which he wrote in The Revelation.

The Church Under Persecution

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

ONE OF the saddest phases of our present generation is the revival of the ancient persecution of the Christian church. Under the Nazis of Germany, and now under communism, leaders of the church are imprisoned, subjected to we know not what persecutions.

The Golden Text

St. Paul, in prison. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee the crown of life." —Revelation 2:10.

Scripture—II Timothy 2:1-9; I Peter 4:12-5:11; Revelation 1: 7:9-17.

Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on his behalf. "Wherefore let them that suffer according to the will of God commit the keeping of their souls to Him in well doing, as unto a faithful Creator."

Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on his behalf.

Neither as being lords over God's heritage, but being ensamples to the flock. "And when the Chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away."

Missing For 13 Days In Wilds, Young Nurse Suddenly Returns

By JULIAN GRANGER
United Press Staff Correspondent
GATLINBURG, Tenn. — (UP)—
A young student nurse missing for 13 days in the Great Smoky Mountains returned to civilization today with a "vague" story which indicated she had deliberately hidden out in the wildest part of the vast national park.

Max Ogle, son of a park warden, spotted 21-year-old Evangeline Lormore trudging down a canyon at the foot of Chilhowee Mountain about dusk last night.

Rangers said she told them she had decided it was "time to come out" because she had kept track of the days and knew she was due back at work at Cincinnati's Jewish Hospital next Monday.

They said, however, that the girl was "vague" and seemed confused. They still weren't sure whether she had really been lost.
Miss Lorimore declared she had eaten nothing during her wandering about the park area, where black bears and other wild animals abound. She said she had practiced fasting and had previously gone a week without food "for fun."

She said she slept outdoors on beds of leaves while rainstorms swept the mountains and temperatures dropped to between 40 and 45 degrees. Miss Lorimore apparently was not harmed by the exposure although she had only a pair of blue jeans and a yellow sweater to protect her from the weather.

"I was a little afraid at first but I prayed," said the nurse, who is described by friends as deeply religious.

Rangers said she apparently lost about 18 pounds during the ordeal.
But her clothing was not torn and she was not scratched in stumbling about the area where underbrush is the thickest in the park.

Miss Lorimore said she made a wrong turn after she left a campsite at Cade's Cove June 8, telling her minister-father she was going for a "short hike." She said she ended up on the Hannah Mountain Trail instead of Bunker Hill, where she had intended to visit the fire lookout station.

The nurse said she encountered no wild animals and saw no other human beings although she thought until three or four days ago that she could hear her father's voice calling to her.

CIO Boss Calls For Civil Rights

PITTSBURGH—(UP)—CIO President Philip Murray, in a major policy speech, called last night for enactment of a civil rights program and a fair employment practices law.

He said the civil rights program would avoid "moral condemnation" of the world for the United States and pointed to a fair employment act as a tremendous benefit to every American citizen.

Speaking at a testimonial banquet in his honor, Murray said he hoped "President Truman would issue a special executive order setting up an FEPC for the duration of the national emergency."

"It would be worth two or three army divisions, or a year's appro-prison for the Voice of America in our worldwide fight against communist," he said.

The civil rights program, Murray charged, has been blocked by an "unholy alliance" of reactionary
Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans.

'Scrubbed Look' Termed Big Factor For Homes

CHICAGO —(UP)— A scrubbed look is the most important thing about a nice-looking home, a committee on "good design" decided today at the 1951 international summer home furnishings market.
The committee's 150 selections were added to a permanent display of "good design" items for the home, sponsored by the New York Museum of Modern Art and the Merchandise Mart here.

Some of the more unusual items included a chair with leather slings for the seat and arm rests; straw tops for tables, chairs and decorative pieces; and glass-topped tables that rested on three curved pieces of wood held together only by a metal ring.

From the display, a housewife could get a pretty good idea of what to seek in the stores to achieve "good design" in her own home. Some of the characteristics of good design, as seen here, were:

1. "Lightness" both in weight and color. Thin, graceful table legs, glass-topped coffee tables, light-colored natural woods, low-backed chairs to leave more wall space and thus a "feeling of light and space."

2. Functional furniture that is designed to give the greatest possible contribution to the home in comfort, style and convenience, without useless curlicues.

3. Clear, well-defined, "healthy" colors.

Decoration in "good design" relies mainly on color and contrast in furniture materials and construction—contrasting woods, and wood used in combination with straw, leather and fabrics.

Contrasting shapes added a decorative touch, too, in the design exhibit. A big bowl that has dozens of uses contrasted effectively with a thin, rectangular coffee table.
And an oval or "free-form" coffee table offset a chair arrangement that is entirely angular.

There's no place for an "overstuffed" look in the design ideas here. You can get as much comfort out of streamlined upholstery, the designers have decided, as with thick, tufted sofas and chairs.
There's also more of a trend to chairs with no upholstery, made of wood or other hard materials that are shaped to conform with the shape of the body.

One of the most important things about the new furniture to the housewife is that besides good design comfort and neat attractive appearance, she'll have a home that can be kept clean with less time spent dusting and washing around odd corners and ornate decoration.

Wrong Way To Make Proposal

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Baxter Ragsdale picked the wrong way to propose to Margaret Truman.

Secret Service agents arrested the 57-year-old electrician at the White House yesterday when he insisted on seeing Miss Truman so he could propose.

Police took Ragsdale to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.
Miss Truman is touring Europe.

party organization.

Condemned Man Given Reprieve

RALEIGH —(UP)— Negro Clyde
Brown had a new lease on life today lasting at least until July 5.

Originally scheduled to die at 10 a.m. today, the 20-year-old convicted rapist was saved late yesterday by a federal court order staying his execution.

Federal Judge Don S. Gilliam signed the injunction preventing prison officials from carrying out Brown's execution after the Negro's lawyers petitioned for a habeas corpus writ.

Gilliam set a hearing on the writ for July 5. Essentially, it was the same procedure followed in the case of Raleigh Speller, another convicted rapist whose execution last year was put off almost indefinitely. Speller is still on death row.

Defense attorneys contended that Brown was denied equal protection guaranteed him under the 14th amendment, and charged that the grand jury which indicted him had "limited" Negro representation.

The petition also said Brown was illiterate and was illegally held until he made a confession, which was inadmissible at his trial.

Brown was convicted last September of raping the 17-year-old daughter of a Winston-Salem radio shop owner. His conviction was upheld by the State Supreme Court in February, and the United States Supreme Court refused to review it May 25.

Kangaroos Loom As Sheep Menace

SYDNEY —(AP)— Thousands of kangaroos are moving in great mobs in the inland part of southeastern Australia and causing hundreds of sheep to die.

They are eating the grass and driving the sheep from waterholes.
Feed is so scarce in some parts that sheep are being moved by road transport. One reporter who traveled 200 miles through grazing country along the Darling River saw hundreds of kangaroos, but few sheep. Permits to shoot kangaroos have been refused, but farmers and graziers are reported to be killing hundreds just the same.

Chapter 20

Jigger looked at her long and earnestly. Her face as guilelessly empty, half-asleep. The replies to his questions had been automatic. He motioned to Red, then joined him in a corner of the room.

Red said, "Something smells here."

Jigger said, "If this girl is the McCoy, I've reached nowhere by going 'round the world."

"You reached Matthew Hunter."

"Bets pay off on the corpse in the trunk." Jigger smiled weakly, "Back where I began."

Red scratched his head. "How did we stitch the corpse and Sally Woods into one piece in the first place?"

Jigger smiled understandingly. "The sudden appearance of the girl had thrown a haze over the whole case. He said hollowly, "The note in the letterbox began it."

Red pursed his lips, "Then came that Public Notice item." A note of doubt crept into his voice. "Not much maybe, for the conclusions we drew. We could be right back with the corpse in the trunk at that." He laughed scratchily, "With friend Matthew Hunter's conspiracy—that's something else entirely."

Jigger thought about it for a moment. "I could nod to that, then kick myself from here to China, if I hadn't taxed Matthew Hunter to Charlton Street that first night. Same house, same night."

Red scowled irritably at the girl. "The girl's a plant; that's our answer."

Jigger considered it, fighting down an eagerness to accept it at once. It was an easy return to the simplification he had reached before Arens had thrown his bombshell.

"But Arens identified her."

"Arens is playing Matthew Hunter's game. The girl's got to be a plant. Keep banging away at her, and she'll tell you so herself. But bang, feller! You've been feeding her too many cues, practically directing her masquerade."

Jigger looked over to the girl. The stupor had deepened. "She's too stinko for that kind of questioning." His gaze wandered, focusing on a handbag, the bureau, a valise. "We'll go through her effects. You tackle the valise, Red."

Red went to the valise, and Jigger began to explore a handbag initialed S. W.

There was no cry of protest. The girl was remote from the new animation in the room. Her eyes were closed, and she was breathing heavily.

Some minutes later, the proofs of identity were compelling. The handbag yielded up: a student School, a resident privilege card to the Laura Spellman House, a membership card to the Museum of Modern Art, a bankbook showing an $80 balance—and everything bearing the name of Sally Woods. The bureau yielded up: a folio of writings unmistakably of a kind with the manuscripts Jigger had examined in Professor Scott's studio. There was also a postcard identical to the one he had obtained from Aunt Penny—Arens' "Nude of the Inner Eye."

The valise yielded up: a folded copy of the Lewiston Bulletin. On the top fold of the newspaper there was an obituary notice, in which Matthew Hunter mourned the passing of his beloved daughter, Susan Hunter.

Red said beatently, "I guess that is that."

Jigger rubbed his chin thoughtfully. "I would seem so, and yet—"

Red clutched at the straw, "and yet?"

"It's all a little pat. Too pat."

"The facts are generally like that: pat."

"Yeah, I know." Jigger's hand idled through the litter of articles on a table top. "A suitcase full of facts, and a handbag, and a valise. A factual story telling us to go chase ourselves, and yet—"

"And yet, what? Get it said."

"And yet no photograph of Susan Hunter. We've gone through all of her belongings, but we haven't found a photograph of her."

The idea took hold of Red. "Yeah! Funny no photograph, not even a snapshot. For a woman, it isn't natural."

Jigger said restlessly, "It's been like that, all through the case. No photograph of Susan Hunter; not even a working description of her." He shook his head slowly. "With all the proofs I've seen, I still want more."

"Like?"

"Like Professor Scott identifying her as Sally Woods. Face to face, and identifying her."

Red pointed to the bureau top. "There's the telephone. Get Scott."

"No, I'll have to go fetch him." Scott needed to be stamped out of his comfortable chair.

Red nudged Jigger in sudden alarm. The girl was swaying on her feet, a hand on her heart and her face contorted. Sounds rolled in her throat then emptied into the room.

She was screaming at the top of her voice.

Pounding down the emergency staircase, Red gasped, "Screaming powder!"

Jigger didn't reply. There was a suspicion standing stubbornly before his mind. The screams had rolled in fluid phrasings of sound, then reached a swell without cracking, without falsetto. Like acting. And the face had been too contorted, too wild for the practiced sounds expressing it. Like over-acting.

One story above the lobby, Jigger ordered, "Haunt the hotel, Red. See that the girl stays put until I came back with Scott."

RESOLUTION PASSED BY THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE HOME BUILDING & LOAN ASSOCIATION, OF GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, JUNE 12, 1951, ON THE DEATH OF B. S. WARREN

The members of the Board of Directors of the Home Building & Loan Association, of Greenville, desire to express their sense of loss in the death of B. S. Warren, and their deep appreciation of his long and faithful service.

For twenty-five years B. S. Warren was a member of this Board and a loyal and staunch supporter of the organization. Altho' in failing health for the past several years, he never wavered in his enthusiasm and interest over any plan for civic development or improvement and always cooperated wholeheartedly in its furtherance. In his business dealings he was inflexibly straightforward and conscientious. In the drug store which he ran here for so many years his genial and helpful manner of dealing with his customers won him a host of friends, not only in his own town, but from all over the County. A life such as his cannot end without a sense of loss to those who had been associated with him. His memory will remain a choice possession for his family and for the multitude of friends who knew him and loved him. The members of this Board, who have known him and worked with him for so long, feel a personal bereavement in his passing;

Be it therefore resolved that this expression of appreciation be sent to the family of B. S. Warren, and that it be spread upon the minutes of this meeting.

Greenies Win 7-4 Decision Against Williamston In Warm-Up For Locals

Overcome Two-Run Early Lead And Clinch Victory With Three Tallies In Bottom Of Sixth

Greenville pushed three runs across in the bottom of the sixth to take a 7-4 game over the Williamston Martins. The win gives Manager Jack Boone's Greenies a record of 3-0.

Stallings led the inning off by singling and was followed by a fielder's choice by Edwards. Dewey Harris and Lou Collier followed with successive one-base hits. After Chatlin struck out, Rhodes singled with two runs coming in to home Jones and Corbin walked and one more run came across the plate.

Williamston member of the Martin County League, had taken an early lead when they scored two runs in the first. Greenville pitcher Fickesimer walked the first batter, Peaks, and gave up a single to Junior Stalls. Wobletten singled to score both runs.

Collier tied the game in the third by pushing two runs across to make the score 3-3. Dewey Harris led off by walking. Charlie Chatlin singled and both runners scored when Ben Phillips' single into left got away from the outfielder.

Greenville will play in Fremont Saturday afternoon in their first Bright Belt League contest. They will return to Greenville for a second game Sunday. Both games are scheduled to begin at 3 p.m.

Fremont Team Is No Push-Over In Greenies' Start This Weekend

By MELVIN LANG
Fremont will furnish the first Bright Belt League competition for manager Jack Boone's Greenville Greenies.

Greenville, who received their league franchise only Thursday night, will travel to Fremont Saturday night and return home for a second match Sunday afternoon.

Fremont boasts a team that ranks at the top of the league in fielders in the loop. Hooks played for the University of North Carolina this past season at third base, but was named to short who he reported to the Fremont camp.

Fremont's batting attack has been weak at times this year. Gerald Davis leads the team in individual batting with a .396 average through games played before June 18.

Durwood Davis, who played freshman ball at Wake Forest during the recent campaign, is close behind with .378 percentage. A former Wake Forest and Goldsboro Cardinal star, Howard Davis, is the chief force of extra base hits.

Kenny Peele leads the team as playing manager. Peele has had a great deal of experience as a semi-pro ball player at the catcher's position.

Fremont is currently in fifth place in the league standings, with a 4-9 record. Six of the games that they have lost have been dropped by a one-run margin. Although they are low in the standings, Fremont is the only team to defeat the league-leading Ormondsville crew this season. They have pulled the trick twice.

Veeck Confident He'll Own Club By July Fourth

ST. LOUIS—(UP)—Bustling Bill Veeck was confident today that he can buy enough of the minority stock in the St. Louis Browns to win ownership of the last-place team by July 4.

Not only that, but the showman who skipped the Cleveland Indians through four successful seasons was confident he could make the Browns a winning ball club that would draw big crowds "right here in St. Louis."

The deal for Veeck to take control is well underway, with only the purchase of a small percentage of the minority stock holding up its completion.

And vigorous Veeck made it clear he will keep the Browns in St. Louis if he becomes owner.

"I have absolutely no thought of transferring the club elsewhere," he said today. "It stays here. I think we can build up interest in the team. I want to put this as strong as possible—the best way I can put it is to say that there is as much chance of transferring the Yankees out of New York as there is of moving this club elsewhere."

Jaycees Top Exchange Nine In Close Contest

The Jaycees edged the Exchange-ites by a 3-2 score yesterday in a tightly played Little League game.

Rudson Miller and J. E. Arnold combined to pitch the win, with Miller receiving credit for the decision.

The winners scored one run in the top of the seventh and win the game. Allen led off by singling. When Andrew's hard grounder was bobbled by the third baseman, Allen and Andrews went to third and second, respectively. Allen came across with the winning run on a sacrifice bunt.

Arnold struck out 10 and walked 4. Arnold walked two and did not strike any one out in his brief tenure.

Back from a long hitch with the Marines, Hodges returned to the Dodgers as their third-string catcher. In June of 1948, Hodges took over the first base post after a couple of weeks of intensive training and he has shown daily improvement ever since. It is at the plate that Gil has developed even more amazingly. He hit 11 homers in 1948 after he got the chance to play regularly. The following season, he poled out 23 round-trippers and last season boosted his homer production up to 32. Off to a fast start this season, he is a good bet to top all Dodger home run records and make a serious bid for top honors in the National League. He's only 27, and just arriving at his peak as a player.

Two North Carolinians In Front At Inverness Event

TOLEDO—(AP)—The field was trilled-born San Franciscan, tied E. J. Duteh Harrison of St. Andrews, Ill., and Marty Purool of Leamont, Ill. Snead canned a 20-foot putt on the last hole, for his sixth birdie of the round, to erase a one-hole deficit.

Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., and Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, the pair of former National Open champions favored to fight it out with Snead-Perrier for the $4000 top prize, drew even on the final hole as Middlecoff ran down a five-foot birdie putt. Their foes were Fred Haas of New Orleans, and Chunky "Porky" Oliver of Seattle.

Propose Accident Tax For Drivers

RHINELANDER, Wis.—(AP)—A state official has come up with an idea for a tax that all good citizens would try to dodge. It's an accident tax, by which each automobile driver would be taxed for accidents in which he was involved. The amount of the tax would depend on how much the driver was to blame.

Raymond E. Jensen, vice chairman of Wisconsin's highway commission, broached the plan in a speech before the annual banquet of the summer high conference. Under the plan, offered "for your thought and comments," a state board of accident appraisers would investigate each motor vehicle accident involving $50 or more damage. The appraisers would establish the proportionate responsibility of each driver involved and issue to him a notice of assessment, with a $25 minimum.

The tax rate would multiply for succeeding mishaps until "a driver who repeated in accidents would soon reach a tax rate so high that he could no longer afford to continue to hold a driver's license."

Freshman Battlers Loom For Series

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
Even some of the die-hards who swore that "it can't happen here" were beginning to think in terms of a "Coast League" World Series today in which the freshman battlers from that loop, Paul Richards and Charley Drossen, would meet again come October.

One of these die-hards was a glum Casey Stengel, who first scoffed at the Cardinals' Braves, 10 to 5, and the Cubs and American League games, Cleveland topped Boston, 8 to 4, the Tigers downed Philadelphia, 9 to 3, and Washington beat St. Louis, 9 to 2.

Preacher Roe extended the longest winning streak in the majors to 10 games without a defeat for Brooklyn, tying a little in the fifth when Roy McMillan homered and Bobby Adams singled, but Carl Erskine came in to stop the rally. Gil Hodges with a double and single and Jackie Robinson with a homer paced the 10-hit attack.

Gerry Staley's sinker was working effectively and he fivethitted the Giants, also contributing to the winning rally with a double in the third that was followed by a Solly Hemus single, an error, and a double by Red Schoendienst which produced the game's only runs.

Robin Roberts coasted to his eighth victory, getting five-run help in the first inning when ex-Dodger Tommy Brown hit a grand slam homer, his first for the Phillies. Willie Jones and Bill Nicholson also homered for the Phillies as Roberts, never pressing, yielded 12 hits.

Biggest Track And Field Show Gets Under Way

BERKELEY, Cal.—(UP)—The biggest track and field show on earth got under way today as the 63rd annual United States championships, sponsored by the AAU, rolled into action here.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club, boasting most of the talent-studded University of Southern California NCAA championship team, is favored to win the team honors now held by the San Francisco Olympic Club. The New York Athletic Club is rated second.

Today's competition featured the national junior championships; trials in the senior division; and the finals of the 10,000-meter run. Tomorrow will be the finals in all the rest of the senior division events.

Don Johnson pitched his third straight route-going victory for the Senators, allowing the Browns only three hits. The Senators pounded three St. Louis pitchers for 43 hits, including two two-run homers.

British Officials Bar Swim Kids

LONDON—(UP)—Britain refused today to admit Miami's "swim kids," five-year-old Bubba Tony and his four-year-old sister Kathy, who had hoped to swim the English Channel.

Immigration officials detained the children and their parents at the airport for more than two hours before announcing that they had been denied permission to enter the United Kingdom.

Members of Parliament and the British Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children take a dim view of the swim plan.

The children's announced intention of trying to swim from Cap Gris Nez, France, to Dover in mid-August was the subject of debate in the House of Commons last night.

One member said the proposed swim would be "cruelty to children." Home Secretary James Chuter Ede told Commons "suitable conditions" might be laid down.

The children intend to get in a trip in England for their Channel attempt and tour South Coast children's camps.

Tongay, a retired Coast Guard swimming instructor, pool-pooched Commons. The children have been swimming since they were 10 months old, he said. Bubba swam 22 miles down the Mississippi River in less than five hours last year and Kathy did 12 miles in three hours the same day.

Chief Gives Blood

Police Chief Guy C. Langston yesterday donated blood for a transfusion for a small child suffering with anemia at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

When the radio station broadcast a call for a blood donor Langston responded. His blood was the right type. After the transfusion the child was better, and today he was continuing to improve. The child is the son of Arthur and Mrs. Tatum, 613 Dickinson avenue. Tatum is a member of the Marine Corps.

Vinson To Offer Legislation For New Air Academy

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee said today he was introducing legislation to establish a $20,000,000 Air Force Academy.

Vinson did not say where the academy would be located.

His bill would authorize the air secretary to determine the permanent location of the academy and to appoint a commission to aid him in selection of the site.

The bill, however, would authorize the secretary to establish the academy at a temporary location until construction at a permanent site could be completed.

Initially, Vinson said, the Air Force contemplates establishing the academy at some existing Air Force installation or at a civilian institution which could be leased to the Air Force at a minimum of expense.

Give Dowager Empress Funeral Worth $222,000

TOKYO—(AP)—Dollar-shy Japan today gave its Empress Dowager a $222,000 funeral.

Emperor Hirohito's mother, the Empress Dowager Sadako, was placed in the Imperial Mausoleum after a day of pomp and ceremony that had some Japanese asking if such a costly tribute was necessary.

The unofficial estimate of the costs—everything from floral wreaths to the special train that carried the body to Tamagoryo, its final resting place—totalled 80,000,000 yen.

Her body was borne by carriage to the Toshimagaoka Cemetery down streets lined with men, women and children. Police estimated the crowd at 1,000,000.

Hook 150 Pounds Of Fish On Trip

Frank M. Brown and a party of fishermen caught 150 pounds of king mackerel and other fish while fishing in the Gulf Stream Wednesday.

They were aboard Capt. Ned Brock's boat. Brown said the weather was ideal and the fish were biting as fast as hooks and lines were dropped in the water. They iced two boxes of fish and brought them home.

Others in the party were Jack Pollard, of Baltimore, Sam Pollard, Willard Pollard, T. E. Pollard, Jesse and Bobbie Pollard and Franklin M. Brown, all of Greenville.

has happened in Korea in the last month is that the Communist air force began disputing control of the skies. It is sending fairly large flights of Russian-built MIG-15s south of the Yalu River. So far the U. S. Air Force has won the dog fights with ease, but there always is the danger that the Reds may decide to throw a big force into the fight in an attempt to win a quick decision.

Psychological . . .

This committee has had various names: the Interdepartmental Committee of the National Psychological Strategy Board. And until now it ran the show. But the agencies' representatives on this committee were not top men from the agencies. They were important but several rungs removed from the top.

The new board established by Mr. Truman this week—the Psychological Strategy Board—will be smaller than the committee's board and its members will be smaller than the committee's board and its members will be at the very top of their agencies or next to it.

So while the old committee board continues at its work, it will actually be under this new board which will be made up of these three men:

Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, head of CIA; Robert A. Lovett, Under-secretary of Defense, whose only boss in the Defense Department is Secretary Marshall; and James E. Webb, Undersecretary of State, whose only boss in the State Department is Secretary Acheson.

And as director for the new board Mr. Truman has appointed
