State Dept. Funds Cut In House

Appropriations Body Hacks Out $52 Millions In General Reduction

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Appropriations Committee today slapped Secretary of State Dean Acheson with a $52,254,000 cut in funds for his department but took no action to force his ouster.

The committee voted the State Department $231,432,000 for the 1952 fiscal year which began 10 days ago. The department had requested $283,686,476.

Republicans talked of trying to put a provision into the measure which would have the effect of cutting off Acheson's salary. They decided against trying to get the committee to agree, but said they would try again on the House floor.

The State Department's 1952 money was included in an omnibus bill which also carried $181,667,000 for the Justice Department, and $612,696,000 for the Commerce Department, and $25,918,115 for the federal judiciary.

The Justice Department, including the FBI, fared far better than the State or Commerce departments. Its request was cut only $2,689,000, or about 1.5 per cent, compared with a reduction of $151,689,000 or 20 per cent, for Commerce, and the 18 per cent for State.

The judiciary system was cut $571,625 or a little over two per cent.

The committee's report said it "recognizes the fact that a strong Department of State is presently absolutely essential not only to the best interests and defense of this nation but also to the maintenance and expansion of freedom throughout the world."

"The committee feels strongly that to restrict the essential activities of this department at a time when this nation is being unduly subjected to ever increasing pressures from the Kremlin would be a disservice to ourselves, our allies, and freedom loving peoples everywhere," it said.

The group cut the $115,000,000 requested for the Voice of America by $30,000,000.

The committee said one State program called for luncheon for 375 "leaders and specialists" visiting this country in 1952 at an average cost of $8.73 per person. The department, the committee said, "can and must dispense with such luxuries."

The Justice Department funds carry $90,000,000 for the FBI, an increase of $20,728,000 over the amount provided by the FBI in the last fiscal year. The committee said that "conditions at home and abroad dictate that security matters be afforded top priority."

Security Work Of FBI Reveals Startling Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—A startling increase in FBI internal security investigations was reported today by the house appropriations committee.

On Feb. 15 of this year, the committee said, there were 28,441 "security matters" pending for investigation, while in July of last year there were only 12,882.

There has been a 360 per cent increase in such investigations since the end of World War II, the committee said.

It quoted as its authority J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, and said he gave the figures during hearings on the FBI budget for the fiscal year started July 1.

Goals In Cease-Fire

Three Things The Communists Hope To Get Out Of Negotiations In Korea; Evidence Adds Up That They've Taken A Severe Beating

By HARRY FERGUSON

The Communists hope to get three things out of the cease-fire negotiations in Korea:

1. They want to stop the slaughter of Korean soldiers. It is true that Red China has almost unlimited manpower, but she doesn't have an unlimited number of trained soldiers.

2. They want to conserve weapons. Most of those are coming from Russia, and Stalin apparently has come to the conclusion that there are better places in the world to use them than in Korea.

3. They want the Western world to disarm. Their hope is that by ending the Korean crisis they can convince the United Nations coalition that the immediate danger is over. Russia, particularly, would like to stop the rearmament of Western Europe and leave Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower a general without an army.

All those things seem to add up to the fact that the Communists realize they have taken a licking in Korea. That no doubt is true, but getting them to admit it publicly is something else again. Their story is that the U.N. Army begged

Gold Leaf Warehouse Purchased For $151,000

High Bidder For Property At Auction Today Is N. G. Raynor; Bid Will Remain Open For 10 Days Pending Higher Offer

ABC Chairman

Gold Leaf Warehouse, located at the intersection of 14th and Charles streets, was sold a public auction this afternoon for $151,000.

High bidder for the property was N. G. Raynor, co-owner with B. B. Sugg and Guy V. Smith, local warehousemen.

The property was offered at auction for division among the owners who were N. G. Raynor and wife, B. B. Sugg and wife, Guy V. Smith and wife, and P. H. Sugg and wife. The sale included all real property and warehouse equipment.

Raynor's bid will remain open for ten days pending an excess bid.

Auction was opened by Smith who bid $125,000. The bidding rose from that figure to $130,000, $132,000, $133,000, $135,000, $136,000, $137,000, $140,000, $141,000, $142,000, $145,000, $147,000, $150,000 and finally to $151,000.

Chief bidders were Raynor, Smith and Woodrow Worthington, another local warehouseman.

Auctioning was done by the law firm of Harding and Lee and James Evans. Evans, who started the sale, announced that a mortgage on the property would be paid out on the proceeds of the sale. Raynor, unless he is out-bid in the meantime, obtains a clear title to the property with the exception of payment of 1951 taxes.

The warehouse was built after the last war on four acres of land located between 14th Street and the mill run. It comprises 76,000 square feet.

Saw 'Atrocities' On Korean Tour

TORONTO, Ont.—(UP)—A housewife who toured North Korea under auspices of the Communist Congress of Canadian Women said today that United Nations troops committed "revolting atrocities" against North Korean civilians.

Mrs. Roscoe Rodd, Windsor, Ont., said it was "mainly Americans" who committed the alleged atrocities.

Solons Fearful Cease-Fire Talk Masks Red Aims

Senators Caution Against Any Let-down In U. S. Defense Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—Some senators were gravely concerned today lest the Kaesong truce talks mask a giant Russian "softening up" process designed to discourage American rearmament.

President Truman, Defense Secretary George C. Marshall and other officials have warned for weeks against a let-down in preparedness preparations. But not until the start of actual cease-fire negotiations has this concern been reflected in Congress.

Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.), one of his party's leading foreign and defense policy spokesmen, told a reporter that the United States faces a "fatal mistake" if it eases off military preparations in the event of a Korean truce.

"If a cease-fire is obtained in Korea," Duff said, "there will be a natural tendency to let down in this country. To allow this to happen would be so grave a mistake that it would be impossible to overestimate the consequences."

"The danger we face today is due primarily to the fact that after World War II, we allowed all our military might to deteriorate at the very time Russia used this opportunity to build up hers to a new maximum."

His warning coincided with one from Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) of the Senate's preparedness subcommittee. He held that the cease-fire negotiations cedes a crushing body blow which could be "just the feint that precedes a full-scale attack by the Soviets in a half dozen places."

Johnson moved forward with plans for a new, over-all investigation of defense targets and how fast the nation is meeting them. He disclosed that the nation's top military leaders probably will be called to review America's precise ability to meet its global foreign military commitments.

Sens. Tom Connally (D-Tex.) and Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), chairmen respectively of the foreign relations and armed services committees, were among those warning against a let down.

Connally said he favored fulfilling rearmament goals and "building up our defenses regardless of what happens in Korea."

Russell said that he was "always skeptical" where the Russians are concerned, and he held out the possibility that the Communists may demand a voice in writing the Japanese peace treaty in return for a Korean armistice.

Hunt Man With Worrisome Bark

LONG BEACH, Cal.—(UP)—A scholarly looking, middle-aged man, whose bite may be worse than his bark, was sought by police today.

Dolores Fulton complained to Long Beach police that nearly every night the bespectacled man annoyed her and her dog by barking at the porch.

"He just went, 'Arf, Arf,' at the dog and then walked on," she said, "I'm afraid of his intentions."

TOKYO (UP)—More than 500 Japanese will sail Friday for a year's study in American universities as guests of the U. S. government, it was announced today.

British Soft-Pedal Early Talk Of Iran Withdrawal

TEHRAN (AP)—A sharp switch in British tactics in the Iranian oil dispute became increasingly clear today. There's a surprising move to soft-pedal previous threats to withdraw all British technicians from Iran and "let the Persians stew in their own oil."

A new policy of trying to hang on as long as possible—in the face of nationalization of holdings of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company—is replacing the tough talk of only a week ago that the big refinery at Abadan and the surrounding south Iranian oil fields would be shut down.

One Iranian official, commenting on the new developments, declared, "We've always said the British were bluffing when they threatened to pull out. It looks as though Premier (Mohammed) Mossadegh's no compromise stand is working."

There was no indication that Mossadegh would change that "no compromise" determination to seize control of the billion-dollar company's Iranian installations. But a government spokesman said the premier is giving careful consideration to President Truman's offer yesterday to send his personal representative, W. Averell Harriman, to Iran to help find a settlement.

Mossadegh told U.S. Ambassador Henry P. Grady that Truman's latest mediation attempt came "a little late."

Official circles indicated they believed Mossadegh would accept the President's offer to send Harriman to avoid offending American public opinion—even though he may not back down on his oil nationalization aims.

Reds Bluntly Warned Only Guarantees Can Stop War

Eighth Army Gain Limited To Yards

Patrols Clash But Contact With Enemy Generally Light; Superfort Gunner Shoots Down Red Jet In Raid

8TH ARMY HQ., Korea—(UP)—patrols in the old "iron triangle," and scout planes reported many small groups of Red troops; filtering into that area on the west-central front.

A B-29 Superfort gunner, Sgt. Gus V. Opler, Opportunity, Wash., destroyed the enemy B-15 when a flight of enemy jets struck vainly against bombers blasting the Sinanju airport.

Sharp local battles flared along the east-central and the eastern fronts, Chinese Communist and North Korean troops launched several probing attacks and poured heavy mortar and artillery fire into United Nations positions. All attacks were repulsed.

South of Kumsong, stubborn enemy troops reeled back from one assault, regrouped and came back again. But they were thrown into retreat again.

Marine pilots ripped up ground troops hugging a ridge near Kumsong. Flights led by Capt. Byron M. Burbage, Havelock, N. C., and Capt. Warren F. Franklin, Peekskill, N. Y., were credited with killing 35 Communists.

Hold Up Hearing On Air Service

Local Commission Given More Time To Ready Exhibits

Final hearing by the Civil Aeronautics Board concerning air service into Pitt-Greenville Airport has been postponed a week, thus giving the local airport commission more time to prepare its exhibits.

Chamber of Commerce manager W. T. Kyzer, who has been preparing the groundwork for the requested service, reported today the hearing will be held August 20 instead of the 19th. In addition, exhibits and also rebuttals have been moved up to July 30 and August 13, respectively.

Kyzer stated the postponement will give him more time to prepare the commission's request. A general deal, he said, depends on the public's response to questionnaires sent to individuals in the county asking them how many air trips they plan to make next year. To date, many persons have answered the questions. However, many more are needed to show a public demand for air service, Kyzer said.

"I think when all the questions have been returned, we'll have a pretty good indication of the demand for air service here," he said.

The commission's initial exhibits will comprise not only the demand for passenger service here but also air mail and air express service. During May the post office conducted a check of letter and parcel post sent via air mail. Although mailings were smaller than in previous months, it was found that many persons depended on air service for their mailings.

Rebuttals will be for the purpose of answering the exhibits presented CAB by air lines in this area. All exhibits given CAB will be forwarded to the parties involved in the hearings, thus giving each side an opportunity of answering.

United Nations Officers Return From Four-Hour Cease-Fire Talk; Indicate Progress; Meetings To Be Resumed; Purely Military Armistice Agreement Announced Goal For Allies

IMJIN RIVER, Korea, Wednesday—(UP)—United Nations officers Tuesday night returned from a four-hour cease-fire talk with Communist generals during which they warned the Reds bluntly that only a guaranteed peace can stop the Korean war.

The U.N. delegation, headed by Vice Adm. C. Turney Joy, indicated progress had been made toward a cease-fire.

After presenting their ideas for a program of negotiations at two meetings, morning and afternoon, the Allied and Red teams adjourned their meeting at Kaesong until Wednesday morning (Tuesday night EST), when business talks will begin.

The U.N. program, it was announced, is that the Allies want a purely military agreement for an armistice in Korea and will not discuss other matters, military, political or economic.

Communist broadcasts indicated that the Reds will try to broaden the program and that they may demand the evacuation of Korea by the U.N. armies.

Check Charge Of Red Infiltration

Investigators Told Of Influence In U. S. Radio 'Voice'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators reportedly clobbered an eye at a State Department office in New York today in checking charges that Red sympathizers have infiltrated the "Voice of America."

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) said these charges about the government's radio program were made yesterday at a closed hearing conducted by two senate groups he heads. He declined to name the witnesses who made them, but said in his opinion there was "no doubt" their testimony was correct.

Officials of the State Department were not available for immediate comment.

But two other senators, who asked that their names not be used, described the testimony as "hearsay" which they said would have to be checked further before any conclusions could be reached.

One of these lawmakers said the charge dealt mostly with the State Department's New York "Voice of America" office. "The testimony warrants a good look at what's going on in that office," he said.

Two Nat'l Guard Divisions Tapped For Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army today alerted two National Guard divisions for movement to Europe this fall.

They are the 28th Division, originally from Pennsylvania, and the 43rd, drawn from Rhode Island, Connecticut and Vermont.

Two Regular Army divisions, the 4th Infantry and the 2nd Armored, started for Europe earlier this year. The final units of the 2nd Armored Division are expected to reach Europe this month.

The 28th Division has been training at Camp Atterbury, Ind., and the 43rd at Camp Pickett, Va. Both National Guard divisions were called into federal service last fall.

Problems Of 'Peace'

It Will Not Be A Peace Treaty, But Merely An End To The State Of War With Germany That Allies Plan; Why No Peace Treaty Permissible For Now

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—These are the extraordinary Humpty-Dumpty days when we have war without fighting and fighting without war.

For more than a year we've been fighting in Korea without calling it a war, officially.

Yesterday, President Truman asked congress, which declared war on Germany Dec. 11, 1941, now to declare it over.

The main reason is psychological: to boost German morale and link that country closer to us.

Other nations with us in the same. Britain, New Zealand, and Australia ended their wars with Germany yesterday. Canada will do so shortly. The cabinet of France has approved the action, but its effectiveness is uncertain because the cabinet is due to resign soon.

Since Germany is one of the main keys to the future of Europe, this country wants to keep the Germans on our side and out of the hands of the hungry Russians.

We have helped them economically, in rehabilitation, in getting trade going, and so on. Gradually, we've helped them move closer to more participation in the affairs of the rest of the world.

Toward this end, we've allowed them to set up their own government, although this country, Britain and France still retain a strong veto over what that German government can do.

But so long as war officially exists, Germans are in an awkward position trying to find their place alongside the rest of the world. For example:

Any time they sit down with the allies, whether it's the United Nations activities or elsewhere, they are officially enemies of the men across the table from them.

Another example: so long as war officially exists, a German coming to this country is an enemy alien. Because of that, he can't sue in an American court.

But, although war usually ends formally when the nations involved sign a treaty of peace, that won't happen in this case. There are several reasons why it won't.

Varied Program Offered At Playground Centers

Elaborate plans have been made for this week's playground schedule. A varied program will be offered to the participants. Included in the program will be active and quiet games, arts and crafts, story-telling, and inter-playground ball games.

Thursday will be observed, as "Circus Day on the Playground." Children from the various playgrounds will take part in the circus. This week is also to be observed as "Safety Week" by the playgrounds and centers. Rules which the children will have to follow will be posted and the respective supervisors will instruct the children about the ways to play safely and still have fun.

Tennis classes for the young ladies of Greenville started yesterday. Jo Hunter, Woman's Recreation director, will hold the classes each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the municipal tennis courts.

Attendance at the parks was low last week, with Riverside's 265 and South Greenville's 397 being the only ones to report more than 250 children. The break-down according to the parks show that 14th Street had 114; West Greenville 197; Cotanche Street had 212; 3rd Street had 164, and Epps reported 810.

Mrs. Padgett Entertains At Informal Party

Mrs. W. E. Padgett of Chapel Hill was hostess to about 50 friends on Friday afternoon between the hours of 5:00-6:30 when she entertained informally at the Greenville Country Club.

The party was given to honor Miss Edna Davenport, who will be married in late summer to Eugene Pearce of Franklinton.

Guests were greeted at the door by the hostess and Miss Davenport. The club room was decorated with mixed summer flowers and greenery, and the long refreshment table at one end was laid with a white embroidered cloth and centered with a charming arrangement of flowers in which gladioli predominated.

Attractive trays of assorted sandwiches, pastries, hors d'oeuvres, cheese tidbits and potato chips accompanied an iced punch which was served from a crystal bowl placed at one end of the table.

Guests were friends and former high school class mates of the hostess and honoree and was one in a series of parties in which former residents of Greenville who have been back for visits with friends and relatives have been entertained.

Cites Trouble Spots In Addressing Lions

"Korea is just one little spot where we can hit by the Russians," said Col. George C. Martin Jr., speaking before the Greenville Lions Club last night.

"There is no end to the places where the Russians can attack, not directly but through people of other countries to stir up the world."

All of Korea together would make up an area as large as North and South Carolina combined, but with a total population of 32 million, Martin said.

Speaking on Iran, and the other smaller countries in the general region, Martin pointed out the low standards of living and the poor education of the people in these countries make them easy to stir up and cause trouble.

One example of this is the current Iranian oil dispute, which is believed to be encouraged by the Russians, whose borders are only a short distance from the rich oil fields.

"In the first place," Martin stated, "British money was used to discover the oil in Iran, then England's money was used to expand the fields into the rich plants which they are now. Now the country of Iran wants to kick out the English and take over the fields and plants for their own use."

"In most of these countries, there are large populations but they would be a fairly easy target for the Russians to overrun," it was pointed out.

"One weak point in our present policy towards these countries is that we are always teaching our way of government, a thing which most of the people cannot understand. Another is that their standards are so low as far as living conditions go, that they know nothing else."

"The American people are probably the most misunderstood people in the world today because of their high living standards, above the rest of the world," the speaker stated in closing.

President Jimmy Harris read to the club a letter from the North Carolina League for Crippled Children, thanking the club for their support of the League in helping to purchase training equipment to be used by the organization in holding various clinics.

Three members of the Lions Little League ball club were guests of the club for the supper meeting. They were: Charles Staton, Billy Staton and Nelson Dudley.

Berliners . . .

Any settlement must allow Red China to save face. She will never formally admit, for instance, that communism was the aggressor in Korea. She will never admit her armies were defeated. She will accept no penalties for the aggression that was committed; she will pay no indemnities to South Korea. She will not enter into any agreement not to commit aggression again, or if she does, she will do so with tongue in cheek. She will attempt to get something in writing that puts the war guilt on the U.N.

There will be lots of talk about other issues, but in the end those two points will be decisive.

Rotarians Plan Year's Programs

The Rotarians used their meeting last night to lay plans for programs for the year with Program Chairman J. B. Kittrell making the presentation. One feature was the program chairman emphasized was the matter of getting better acquainted with each other by the membership.

As a sample Rotary President Charles White gave a thumbnail sketch of his life up to now as well as all other Rotarians in the coming year.

Guests of the club last night were Thomas Cox and Dr. Charles Payne. Visiting Rotarians were Warren Twiddy of the Durham Club, Leburn Spence of the Melbourne, Florida, Club, and Manly Liles and Irvin Morgan of the Farmville Club. Charles White, Club President, presided. It was announced that the new District Governor of the 279th District would pay his official visit next Monday night. Following the meeting there will be a club assembly of all committee chairmen.

ALMOST PERMANENT WAUSAU, Wis. —(UP)—

Leo J. Klade paid a $15 fine for stretching the meaning of "temporary" for about 20 years. When Klade, now 36, was 16 he got a temporary driver's license, good for three months. He explained to the judge that he never did get around to switching the temporary license for a permanent one.

Failing Goal

RALEIGH—(AP)—The 1951 Tar Heel cotton crop is now estimated at 775,000 acres—some 200,000 less than the goal set by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said yesterday the estimate is based on conditions as of July 1. Last year's acreage for the state was 596,000.

The reporting service said conditions at planting time were unfavorable for early development of cotton plants. The crop was retarded by dry soil conditions, poor germination and cool nights. Considerable replanting had to be done in many areas.

Grifton News

Problems Of . . .

For instance: how make a peace treaty with all of the original Germany so long as the east part, occupied by the Russians, is linked with the Soviets while the western part occupied by the troops of this country, Britain and France—is linked with us?

We might try some kind of treaty with that western part which we occupy but then do we pull our troops out, as we'd almost certainly have to?

If we did and left western Germany unarmed and its new government unprotected, would the Communists try to overthrow it internally; or would Germany become a new Korea, with the Communist-trained Germans of the east invading the western part?

If we arm Germany before removing our troops, will it revert to Nazism again and be a threat to its neighbors?

Anyway, it may be some time before congress gets around to undeciding the war. But if it does this strange paradox of our time will continue: we won't be at war with Germany but our troops will occupy it.

Minor Damage In Monday Fire

An oil stove flared up in the home of Kelly Clark, 111 North Pitt Street, last night, causing minor damage, Greenville firemen reported today.

The alarm came in around 8:25 a.m. The fire burned some of the wall board in the kitchen, but was checked before gaining much headway.

It was the sixth alarm to be answered by the local department since the first of the month.

Hostess To Bridge Club

Mrs. Dewey Wall was a gracious hostess on Thursday night when she had as guests members of the bridge club for supper and cards. Lovely bouquets of gladioli and other summer flowers made a pretty setting for the party.

On arrival a delectable supper plate with iced tea was served by the hostess and her daughter, Miss Rebekah Wall. During the games which followed supper Mrs. Robert Mewborn and Mrs. Alton Chapman compiled the highest scores and were remembered with gifts as was Mrs. E. Coffman who was a visit-

Reds Bluntly . . .

Joy said that "hostilities will continue in all areas except in those neutral zones agreed upon, until such time as there is an agreement on the terms governing the armistice and until such time as an approved armistice commission is prepared to function."

He said that cessation of hostilities must be arranged "under conditions which will assure against their resumption."

"This delegation is here for that sole purpose," Joy told the Red five-man-team—including two officers of the Chinese Communist Army.

"It will discuss military matters in Korea relating to that subject. This delegation will not discuss military matters unrelated to Korea."

The talks were being held in the northern suburb of Kaesong, in the center of a 10-mile wide neutral zone. A 15 by 18 foot room in a once-palatial mansion is being used for the conference.

The communique, the first on the armistice talks, implied that the U.N. did not consider either Formosa or the recognition of Red China as a seat in the United Nations as topics for discussion.

U.N. hopes for the just armistice Joy demanded were pinned on a staff of 63 persons, including the five negotiators, seven aides and a full complement of translators, secretaries and advisors.

Retain Fund For Power Surveys

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The Senate has refused to delete from an Interior Department appropriation bill $342,000 for starting construction of two transmission lines in North and South Carolina.

Sen. Clyde R. Hoey (D-NC) sought to have the funds eliminated on grounds private power companies had promised to carry government power a reasonable rate.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) argued that no contracts had been signed for the power transmission. The lines will run from Buggs Island, Va., to Kinston, N.C., and from Clark Hill to Greenwood in South Carolina.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

THE SUPREME MOMENT

We are always talking about teaching young people how to live. Might it not be well if we taught them how to die? There are a lot of superficial people today who want to keep the idea of death away from young people. When a relative dies, the matter is glossed over in some way. A child or a young person is not allowed to attend a funeral. The idea of death is supposed to be unwholesome for a child to get into his mind.

Of course the idea of death can become very unwholesome, but for that matter, so can almost any other idea. Think about it for a moment—we are all here in this world preparing ourselves to die. The matter of transcendent importance is just where we will stand with reference to great universal values on that day when the Lord God taps us on the shoulder and tells us that our day of grace is over. "Stop it," you say, "that gives me the shivers to think about it." What should give you the shivers is your unwillingness to think about it and to have your children think about it. Death for the average person is a distant event, and one is wise not to dwell too much upon it. But it is the hour of death that is the supreme moment when calculation is made as to our value in the world, to God, and to ourselves—this no one can deny. It constitutes the supreme moment of every career.

That Little Bug Is Here Again

How much of Pitt County's cotton crop the boll weevil will harvest this year is going to depend on the action the farmers take during the next week or two.

Cotton, while it is not the principal crop of Pitt County, will provide a lot of cash for farmers hereabouts if they get a good yield. The potential income from the 14,000 acres the county has planted in cotton this season surely should not be forfeited through neglect to the aggressive little insect.

Last year Pitt County had under cultivation approximately 7,000 acres of cotton, but only 30 per cent of the acreage which was treated produced an average of 380 pounds per acre while the 70 per cent which was not treated produced 50 pounds an acre. In dollars and cents, the boll weevil last year cost Pitt cotton growers about $397,000 net income.

This year with the increased acreage, the prospects for increased cotton prices and a greater domestic and world demand for cotton, the crop is more important in dollars and cents to the farmers, and it is more important to the nation's defense.

Even without treatments to control boll weevil infestation, Pitt farmers this year may expect to have a yield of at least 200 pounds per acre on their cotton. But with proper control treatments, the farmers may expect a yield of 500 pounds per acre on their cotton. The control treatments will cost the farmers about $15 to $18 per acre, but the extra 300 pound yield per acre will mean $100 to $150 when the cotton is sold.

The potential for a good cotton crop is in the fields of Pitt County. The farmers will be making a good investment to take the necessary precautions to make sure the potential materializes.

A Good Time To Try The New System

If Greenville is going to find out how well its proposed one-way traffic system for the downtown area is going to work, it would be a good idea to give it a trial before the heavy fall traffic descends upon the city.

It was almost a month ago that the report on the preliminary major street plan for the city was presented to the city planning board. Since then the plan has been under consideration by the planning board, but no definite action has been taken about putting any part of the street plan recommendations into effect.

The problem in the downtown section of the city is the most urgent traffic problem Greenville faces right now. And the recommendation given in the report for alleviating the problem is one which the city can put to use with a minimum of trouble and only a few dollars expense.

The one-way system could be instituted for a two-months trial period now while the traffic in the downtown section is not at a peak. If the city waits and tries to institute the system this fall when the traffic is at its heaviest, it will add greatly to the confusion, and it will impair the system's chances of meeting with success.

If the one-way traffic system is put on a two-month trial basis in the downtown section during July and August, the planning board, police and other city officials should have a fairly good idea of how the system is going to work before the fall traffic reaches its peak.

In the opinion of The Reflector, the sooner the system is put into practice, the sooner the city will have the answer to the question, "Will it Work?" The trial period will be much less hectic this summer than it will be this fall.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Despite the American people's shock over Kefauver-Pulbright revelations of a low level of political morality at Washington and several state capitals, the current attempt to frame a modern version of the ten commandments on Capitol Hill for improving ethical behavior commands no support from members of Congress or the White House. Like so many similar crusades, it seems doomed to failure.

Even the conscientious Senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, who heads the committee now examining the problem, appears discouraged. He is becoming as unpopular in congressional and presidential circles as the twin scourges from Tennessee and Arkansas, whose investigations into organized crime and organized R.P.C. financing first suggested the need for an official code of ethics.

INSULT—Mr. Truman looks upon the move as a direct insult, and with reason. He has no wish to be listed in history as the first President whose personal and political appointees and associates were so neglectful of the deencies and proprieties that Congress thought it necessary to hand down a new set of Mosaic tablets for the first time in the 175 years of the nation's life.

Members of House and Senate, as well as key figures in the executive departments, have broad-based reasons for opposition. Seeing so many of their "lame duck" colleagues and former co-workers in the higher bracket groups as a result of their legal politicking and lobbying for "interests" they once denounced, they don't want to kill the goose that may some day lay golden eggs for them.

DIFFICULTY—It is estimated that there are at least fifty former M.C.'s and White House aides who are earning from $25,000 to $250,000 by capitalizing on the contacts, knowledge and influence they amassed while serving the government for a mere $10,000 or $15,000 a year.

It is asking too much of human nature, especially politicians, to expect them to outlaw this "honest graft," or to condemn the system by signing Senator Douglas' declaration of public ethics.

Even if they sympathized with his basic purpose, they maintain that it is impossible to legislate in this question. He himself recognizes the difficulty of drawing a line between moral dishonesty and normal political interaction with officialdom. He confesses that he has sinned in a small way.

EXAMPLE—A graphic example of Congressional antipathy, if not downright hostility, toward the Douglas cleanup was given recently, when two erstwhile champions of Mr. Truman's "fair deal" appeared before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee in opposition to renewal of price and credit controls. They were ex-Senator for Lucas of Illinois, former Truman leader in the Senate, and ex-Senator Myers of Pennsylvania, who had served as a Lucas assistant.

Before their 1950 defeat, they led the fight for enactment of the 1950 Defense Production Act now undergoing revision. If any two men should have known the purposes of this legislation, they should have, for that was their assignment. Anyway, they orated on the floor and in public speeches to the effect that strict curbs of all kinds were vital to Mr. Truman's anti-inflationary and rearmament program.

ODD—They had changed sides, however, when they appeared before the Senate Committee. For Mr. Lucas now represents numerous automobile financing firms, while Mr. Myers draws a fat fee as counsel for several retail credit organizations. Both deplored Federal Reserve restrictions on automobile and retail credit, and demanded their abolition to avoid disastrous economic results.

Although their former colleagues did not ask any embarrassing questions, others did ask whether Messrs. Lucas and Myers are to be believed when they speak as politicians—or as lobbyists. For it did seem odd to hear them denouncing the very legislation they insisted was essential only a year ago.

FOOTSTEPS—They walked in illustrious footsteps, however. They followed such Roosevelt-Truman apostles and exhorters as Thomas Corcoran, Clark Clifford, Leon Henderson, Thurman Arnold, Paul Porter, Max Truitt and many others now cleaning up on the basis of previous service and acquaintance. Many are earning big money from the "economic royalists," "the reactionary interests" and the "members of well-stocked clubs" they excoriated as Roosevelt-Truman ghost-writers.

Ironically, only one of this group appeared before the Douglas Committee to propose ethical reforms—Benjamin V. Cohen, now a U. S. delegate to the United Nations. Although the brainiest of the lot, modest, honest "Ben" of the famous team of "Cohen and Corcoran" practices the principles he preaches.

SERIOUS—Senator Douglas' difficulties are far more serious than he realizes. He has only a year to study the operations of a Congressional statute barring executive officials from practicing before the department they once served until two years after their resignation. That was supposed to prevent political favoritism.

For one thing, men like Mr. Corcoran and Mr. Clifford were not assigned to any specific executive agency, for they were White House advisers and men-at-work. Thus this prohibition does not affect them.

Nor does it operate against ex-officials of any specific department. They use their knowledge to do the office research work on a case involving that agency. Then a law partner appears as the actual counsel in negotiations with departmental officials. But they know that he is associated with an old and influential fellow-worker, and the favors are forthcoming by proxy, as it were.

While the Illinois statesman's zeal and conscientiousness command general admiration, even among his enemies, they look upon him as a sort of Don Quixote.

Selected Shorts

MANSFIELD, OHIO, NEWS-JOURNAL: "The case for the farmer is well presented in the June issue of Country Gentleman by Herschel D. Newsome, master of the National Grange. He says that the average of farm prices still is almost 15 per cent below 1947, while corporate profits and hourly wages of factory workers both are 18 per cent above the levels of four years ago. An interesting admission is that agriculture has been at fault in allowing 'narrow self-interest to delay correction of flaws' in parts of the government farm programs, pointing particularly to 'absurdity of the potato-sugar program.'"

PALM BEACH, FLA., POST-TIMES: "The virulent poison in the bloodstream of Human Freedom, is the polyglot pinheads who . . . spread the gory gospel that man can live without labor, feed upon his neighbor, be supported by government rather than supporting government."

WALDOBORO, MAINE, PRESS: "The old saying 'it is an ill wind that blows no one any good' must be true. Within the last week we were listening to the radio and heard the announcement of the ten per cent increase on the cost of newsprint. We immediately reached for the aspirin, which, of course, helped the aspirin business. It seems as though everything is bound to help some one."

Wonderful Washington Wizards' "Safeguards"

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, Jr

Just as I was groping for a column idea, Wife Rachel walked in and said, "Want a dish of ice cream?" My answer was yes, and at the same time I remembered that I have information in the file on ice cream. So many people eat the stuff, I reasoned, maybe they should know more about it.

In 1949 Americans ate two and a quarter billion quarts of ice cream, and paid half a billion dollars for it. It comes in more flavors than any food ever invented by Nature or man—more than 200 of them, including anise, root beer, sweet potato, avocado, pomegranate, carrot, water cream, and even menthol.

According to a survey of the International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers, 45 per cent of the amount sold is vanilla, 17 per cent chocolate, 9 per cent strawberry and 29 per cent all other flavors.

As early as 62 A.D. the Roman emperor Nero sent fast runners to the mountains to bring back snow which was then flavored with honey, juices, and fruit, something like fruit ice today.

About 1200 years later Marco Polo turned up in Italy with a recipe that turned out to be something like the sherberts we have today. In Europe milk was eventually added to the sherbert, resulting in ice cream.

The father of our country himself, George Washington, ran up a bill of $200 at the ice cream shop of a Mr. Cove on Chatham Street in New York City between the months of June and August, 1790. Dolly Madison probably did much to make ice cream famous by serving it at state gatherings at the White House. Up to that time, ice cream was made in pot freezers, which meant it was beaten by hand and shaken up and down in a pan of salt and ice. In 1846 Nancy Johnson invented the hand-cranked freezer, which is still in use today.

The industry really got in gear when a man by the name of Jacob Fussell made the logical conclusion that people would eat more ice cream if they didn't have to turn a crank. In 1851, he set up a plant in Baltimore and shortly thereafter in Washington, D. C. To this day the District of Columbia tops the nation in ice cream consumption with a total of more than 29 quarts per person.

If you want to start an argument with an ice cream manufacturer, try telling him that ice cream is fattening. He will tell you, among other things, that one baked apple has 54 more calories than one-sixth of a quart of ice cream.

On the other hand, every dish of ice cream contains plenty of calcium, phosphorus, riboflavin, thiamine, vitamin A, and niacin. The U. S. Department of Agriculture classes ice cream along with milk and cheese as a basic food. And it's good, too. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C.

By LYNN NISBET

Daily Reflector Bureau

TESTIMONIAL—The state board of agriculture will break into a formal meeting at Willard farm on July 26 for a testimonial dinner in honor of Dr. Charles Dearing, retiring superintendent of the farm after more than thirty years. The occasion will also serve to get board members and other departmental personnel acquainted with the new farm manager, Jesse Sumner. At the same time recognition will be given Dr. Robert S. Curtis, retiring from the livestock promotional and marketing division after more than forty years work with the department and State College.

DUTCH—The luncheon will be a "Dutch" affair, every guest paying for his own ticket. The program will be right much the same way. No formal speeches are scheduled, but sundry of Dr. Dearing's former associates will have something to say about the contribution he had made to North Carolina agriculture. Most of the testimonials will be incorporated in a letter book to be presented to the retiring leader.

CHARLOTTE—The current issue of Life magazine fills the front cover with a picture of a group of debutantes who made their bow to society at the second summer debutante ball in Charlotte last month. Two weeks ago the Saturday Evening Post featured Charlotte in its Cities of America series. It is quite an honor for one city the size of Charlotte to make top billing in two of the country's outstanding magazines. "The entire state joins the Queen City in pride of achievement. Furthermore, several chambers of commerce, terpsichorean and german clubs and other agencies would like to know how Charlotte manages to get the preferential treatment accorded by both Life and Post magazines. Text and pictures in both stories were complimentary if not flattering to the Queen City. That cannot be said for treatment accorded the City of Raleigh, the June German at Rocky Mount and the Debutante Ball in the capital city.

DIVIDENDS—When the state advertising program was originated in 1937 the N. C. Press Association, at instance of J. L. Horne, publisher of the Rocky Mount Telegram and for many years a member of the board of conservation and development, adopted resolutions which have been reiterated many times, endorsing the idea and pledging use of any of the funds for space buying in newspapers or magazines published in the state. The program has fully justified itself. No one can accurately determine exactly how much credit should go to the paid advertising campaigns and how much to other factors, but fact is that last year more than one hundred million dollars of outside capital was invested in North Carolina industrial development, and the federal reserve bank estimates North Carolina's travel business last year to be worth three hundred million dollars. Even casual observation indicates it will be substantially larger this year.

CONTINUING—That is big business in anybody's language and it means that state development is a continuing program. Some of the harvest of dollars being reaped in 1951 are from seeds planted fifteen years ago. Seeds being planted now will yield increased harvests many years later. Personalities chair: in the governor's office, on state advisory boards, and as heads of departments and divisions. Each new person has something to offer by way of embellishing and expanding ideas, adapting them to current needs, speeding evolution in order to avoid revolution. Whether Charles Aycock or Kerr Scott is governor, Charles Dearing or Jesse Sumner is head of a gest farm, Bill Sharpe or Charlie Parker is director of advertising, James Joyner or Clyde Erwin superintendent of public instruction, the progressive course of North Carolina has been fairly constant.

DISPARAGING—Rocky Mount folks were delighted a few years ago when Life decided to do a picture story on the famed June German. They were disgusted a few weeks later when pictures published emphasized the relaxation of dancers at L'ermisson, the debris on the warehouse floor next morning, and similar off-stage material. Instead of the beautifully decorated warehouse before and during the ball, the lovely figures on the dance floor, the numerous delightful parties at Rocky Mount homes and other features which have made the German famous for many years. Then Life decided to do a story on the annual debutante ball staged by the Raleigh Terpsichorean Club—and featured scenes in hotel hallways after the dance. The Charlotte story was treated much better, although the photo editor of Life used one not flattering picture of a couple returning from a morning swim.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

UNITED IN WAR (Wilson Daily Times) America isn't France. We may wrangle over whether it was right to fire MacArthur but we don't as a consequence, go through the crisis stage. Thus, it wouldn't be wise for Russia to try to do what Germany did in French crises. Russia would find that our quarrels would end overnight. We'd move and move fast to counteract similar moves on the part of the Russians. If anything were ever made clear, that was the other day when the members of the Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees of the Senate put out a statement to that effect. Our wrangles are for political purposes. One party would like to stay on top, the other would like to dispossess it. We over here see through it all. But the Russians may put a different interpretation on what's taking place. They may see in such wrangling an indecisive administration getting some bad breaks from the public. It looks as if it's being challenged because of its foreign policies. But both parties take a "get tough" attitude. The difference lies in where to get tough. One prefers the Atlantic to the Pacific.

We made the same mistake in the last war. With a two-ocean conflict on our hands, Secretary of the Navy Knox made a statement to the effect that our early strength would go against Germany. It created a furore on the Pacific coast, just as the MacArthur firing did. But for a year or so we didn't have what was necessary to fight a two-ocean war. As that war progressed, however, American enterprise and American ingenuity soon closed the gap. We started back in the Pacific even before we invaded France. We'll do that again if the Russians make it necessary. And we'll be united when we do.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

The National City Bank of New York has taken a look at the 100 largest non-financial corporations and found that taxes took $12,203,000,000, almost twice as much as their $6,260,000,000 net profits.

The Big Hundred's total receipts from sales and other operations were $76,739,000,000. Out of each of these dollars, federal and other taxes got 15.9 cents, stockholders got 4.1 cents and another 4.1 cents was reinvested in business. Of the remainder, 47.4 cents went for materials and services, 24.7 cents went for wages and salaries and 3.8 cents went into reserves for depreciation and depletion. Taxes were almost four times as much as dividends, and total labor costs, six times as much.

The total receipts were taxed at 1950 rates. Both federal and other rates are higher now and they may go even higher under the new tax bill. And there's talk about further tax rises next year. Quarterly reports of 84 of the 100 corporations are now in. National City says, and these show that reserves for federal taxes have been increased from 6.3 cents per dollar of sales to 9.5 cents. If non-federal taxes are not increased—an unlikely assumption—it would bring the tax total to 18.1 cents of every dollar.

The National City points out that in the final analysis the taxes are borne by the consumer; hence these high rates of corporation taxes tend to keep prices rising.

Tax collections vary considerably from industry to industry, the survey shows. Of the receipts of the first hundred companies in the first hundred, 67.4 per cent went for taxes and of the three tobacco companies, 52.4 per cent. The burden was smallest on the buyers of food products; only 1.7 per cent of the receipts of the three "great food companies" went for taxes.

National City's list includes 51 manufacturing companies, 4 retail trade companies, 24 utility companies and American Tel. & Tel. Companies were rated by their total assets at the end of 1950.

The largest corporation is the A. T. & T. with $8,750,000,000 in assets. Standard Oil of New Jersey is next with $4,488,000,000, and General Motors third with $3,444,000. U. S. Steel is fourth, Pennsylvania Railroad fifth and the Southern Pacific sixth.

CANADA GYPPEL IN DEFENSE DEAL
Canada is getting a bad deal, American Aviation magazine says. It's July issue says Canada agreed to standardize aircraft and armaments with the United States in interest of defense. Now Canada has placed $900,000,000 worth of war orders in the United States while the U. S. has placed only a fifteenth as much in orders in Canada. As a consequence, the United States is draining dollars out of Canada so fast there's a shortage, the magazine says.

FUR LABELING ACT PASSAGE ASSURED
A federal law requiring the labeling of furs will be passed soon, the National Retail Dry Goods Association predicts.

A mandatory fur labeling bill was passed by the House. The bill was amended to ease requirements by the Senate. The only question now appears to be whether the House will accept the Senate amendments or ask for a conference to compromise the differences between the two bills.

13 STATES TAX TRUCKS ON MILEAGE BASIS
Thirteen states have levied touage and mileage taxes on motor trucks, a check by Commerce Clearing House shows. They are Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Michigan, New Mexico, New York, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, West Virginia and Wyoming. Missouri and Pennsylvania legislatures are considering truck-mileage taxes, the clearing house adds.

CHAIN AND MAIL GAIN TOP STORES
Chain and mail-order sales in May are 10 per cent above a year ago, the Department of Commerce reports. That's better than department stores sales, which were up only 3 per cent in May, according to Federal Reserve Board figures.

NEW AND HOT KIT: What looks like a child's gun and holster is really a school kit. One side of the holster is a 5-inch ruler, the gun butt conceals a pencil sharpener and a pencil fits into the holster. The kit can be worn on a belt. It's by Sterling Plastics Co., 1140 Commerce Ave., Union, N. J.

CLEANER: Any 1,500-pound front-lift truck can be converted into a power sweeper with a new attachment by Little Giant Products, 1530-60 N. Adams St., Peoria, Ill. It is claimed to sweep 80,000 square feet an hour.

CUSHION: For those who like comfort, there's a vinyl air cushion which can be inflated by mouth and, deflated, carried in a pocket. It is by Collier Mfg. Corp., 430 W. Grant Pl., Chicago 14.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK—(AP)—A friend came to me and said: "What interests me most about the proposed cease-fire in Korea isn't what the military leaders or world diplomats think about it."

"What about the individual American soldier? How does he feel about it? If he sees a cease-fire, will he think the war in Korea was worthwhile? Or will he think he fought for nothing?" It's a good point. No settlement will basically satisfy American troops if it belittles the blood they shed or the sacrifices they made in a bitter accord-dian war in Korea. They weren't defeated on the hills, and certainly they wouldn't be happy to find they had been negotiated into defeat in the valleys.

The main thing a soldier hates, short of defeat itself, is to halt short of his goal. And all successful warfare is based on the assumption that troops will take their objectives.

What were the objectives of the American troops in Korea? Their primary goal was to halt communist aggression by counter force. Later, a secondary goal was added by the United Nations—the creation of a free, independent, united Korea.

The first soldiers who landed on the peninsula thought that stopping the little Red enemy would be easy. Some thought that all they had to do was stand on a hill and show the American uniform, and the North Koreans would immediately turn tail and retreat back across the 38th parallel.

Instead, the American Army got its greatest shock since Pearl Harbor. The communists attacked with ferocity and skill. The dazed, outnumbered, overconfident U. S. troops were almost pushed back into the sea.

They recoiled, landed behind the enemy and destroyed the major part of the North Korean army. Then Chinese business communist troops came into the fray by the hundreds of thousands. As late as six months ago they again looked like the United Nations, forces might face an Oriental Dunkerque.

But the wall of moving firepower they threw up time and again has thrown back the Chinese-Korean hordes and shattered them.

Who first cried "uncle?" The Russians—for their dismayed Koreans and Red Chinese buddies? The American soldier has regained his old self-confidence, and now it is based on a solid pride in his performance.

He feels he has done the job he was sent to do—hurt the aggressors back where they came from. As to the creation of an independent Korea, he probably would just as soon let the diplomats figure that one out.

Many an American soldier a year ago questioned the wisdom of the Korean struggle. The entrance of the Chinese Reds did more than anything else to make him realize there was a real need for democratic nations to draw a line beyond which aggression could not go.

Soldiers who fight long and well must come to believe that what they are fighting in is worthwhile. Most Americans in Korea came to feel that by their efforts there they were helping create a greater war for America.

And today I think most of them will accept a fair and firm "cease-fire" as a victory, and regret only the lost friends who cannot hear their country's verdict: "Well Done."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Buster a year round than Santa at yuletide is Charles F. King, who runs the shop that turns out thousands of signs annually for the government.

Big signs like "DANGER" and "NO TRESPASSING," little signs like the neatly embossed cards by office door and name plates on the boss' desk, spectacular signs in luminous paint like you see on the U. S. Information Building right in the middle of the capital, signs like "Wet Paint," "Keep Off The Grass" and "Exit," painted on wood and metal.

Mr. King, Washington-born, organized the Public Building Services sign shop 15 years ago. He says his little staff of experts can make anything—"if you can describe it."

Once they made a plaster cow for a Department of Agriculture exhibit. They did things for the Freedom Train and made bronze picture frames for a Federal Archives exhibit. They've painted flagpoles and have just finished a steeple-jack job on a big exhaust pipe extending from a Diesel engine in the basement of the Pentagon to the building's roof.

"Our big job right now is making air raid shelter signs—white letters on a black ground," Mr. King told me. "They're being made up in 14 different varieties for buildings in this area. Later we expect to make them up for the field services. They say things like 'Shelter area begins here,' 'Shelter area this way,' 'fire alarm' and so on."

Mr. King and his staff, which includes two women embossographers, is always looking for newer, better, quicker ways to turn out their work. The silk screen process, for instance, was introduced into government by Mr. King. From one original Mr. King says you can make up to 10,000 reproductions.

"This type of work is my life," Mr. King told me. "Farming is next." When retirement time comes he expects to settle down in Texas, where he already has some 60 head of cattle, every one of which he has named.

Mr. and Mrs. King like to travel. They've been all over the United States a half dozen times, he says, but they enjoy the quiet home life best. In his free time Mr. King does a little oil painting, portraits and landscapes, just for his own pleasure. Does Mr. King like them? I asked. "She likes to criticize," he said.

Class Reunion Luncheon Given By Joint Hostesses

Another in the delightful and informal affairs that were given last week for the entertainment and enjoyment of the graduates of the class of 1924 of Greenville High School was a luncheon on Friday.

Mrs. Georgia Smith Franklin and Miss Jane Hadley were hostesses to the alumnae of the class at the home of Mrs. Franklin on East Ninth Street on Friday at 1:00 p.m.

As an added touch of "realism" to the class reunion, there were present three teachers who were connected with the high school at the time the group were students. They were June H. Rose, Mrs. Maude Beatty Bowen and Miss Estelle Greene.

The hostesses carried out a color scheme in which the school colors of green and white were emphasized in flower and table arrangements. The central table in the dining room bore a row of daisies, fern and white verbenas. The guests drew tallies for place cards, which bore the motto of the class of '24.

A delicious three course luncheon was served to twenty guests. The dessert further carried out the spirit of the occasion, being lime ice and white frosted cakes which had the GHS emblem on them.

As a delightful conclusion to the luncheon, the guests were shown high school annuals which were printed during their years in school.

Members of the class who were present in addition to the hostesses, were Mrs. W. E. Padgett (Mrs. Maie Moyer) of Chapel Hill, Mrs. Gullford Smith (Dovie Burnett) of Charleston, West Virginia, Edna Davenport, Mrs. Leslie Bowling (Mary Moyer) of Nashville, Tennessee, Mrs. R. D. Post (Mary Lee Pittman) of Birmingham, Alabama, Mrs. Jack Spain (Marie Hardee) of Washington, D. C., Mary Forbes, and Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell. The other guests were not members of the class.

American Stars Favored Over Nats Despite Failings

DETROIT—(AP)—The mystery of the 1951 all-star game—why is the American League the favorite when the Nationals boast the greater power and the better pitching? The National League squad has walloped 189 homers to 137 for the American and the pitchers have hurled 13 shutouts to only seven for their rivals, yet the Americans ruled a solid 7-5 choice today at game time, slated for 1:30 p. m. (EST).

Ford Frick, president of the National League, who has suffered through 12 defeats in 17 previous midsummer clashes, blames it on habit and past performances, but he vows this is a new year.

At least the weatherman promises Frick a fair and warm day, if not a "fair" result, with gentle winds and a slightly cloudy sky.

The Nationals are paced by first baseman Gil Hodges of Brooklyn who leads his circuit with 28 four-baggers. On the other hand, Gus Zernial, slugging Philadelphia Athletics outfielder, who leads the American League with 21 homers, wasn't even placed on the squad.

At least three members of the American League all-stars are "ailing" but manager Casey Stengel said nobody would be excused. He denied the request of manager Al Lopes of the Indians to excuse tribe outfielder Larry Doby from action. Lopes pleaded Doby was handicapped by a pulled leg muscle.

Stengel pointed out he intended using Yogi Berra, his own catcher, behind the plate for the entire game although Yogi is bothered by a bad back.

Joe DiMaggio, another Yankee, and third baseman Vern Stephens of the Boston Red Sox are bothered by leg injuries, and Chico Carrasquel, White Sox shortstop, is

All Tied Up

The Exchange and Elks are now tied for first place in the first half standings of the Little League.

The Exchange defeated the Elks Saturday in a make-up game which threw the league lead into a tie. A play-off game will be held in the near future to decide the champion.

It was reported in last Friday's paper that the game would not have any effect on the standings, but statistics reveal that make-up games by the Exchange Club had pulled it into a position to tie the Elks.

Combine To Pitch One-Hit Victory In Junior League

Gene Hudson, Guy Smith and Billy Dunn combined to pitch the Sedans to a one-hit win over the Coupees in the Junior League last night.

Four runs in the first inning started the winners off to a lead which they never lost. Howard Bullock began the inning by walking. After Bobby Conway was safe on an all-hands-safe fielder's choice, Bob Howell gained life on an error. Bobby Nunn then singled to score Bullock and Conway. Howell scored on Billy Brady's fielder's choice and Nunn crossed the plate with the fourth run when Smith's grounder was errored.

The Sedans pushed two runs across in the second, four in the fourth, and exploded for seven in the fifth. They finished their scoring with a singleton in the seventh.

Nunn led the 11 hit attack of the Sedans with three singles. Howell collected a double and a single and Hudson collected two singles.

Lions Shut Out By 8-0 Playing Exchange Club

Francis Nunn and Ralph Johnson combined to hurl a four hit shut-out against the Lions yesterday, as the Exchange club won, 8-0.

Two runs in the second inning proved to be all that were needed for the two righthanded moundsmen. Bobby Whitehurst led off by reaching Charles Staton for a walk and was followed by Dick Evans, who singled. Angus Duff followed with another single which plated Whitehurst. Charles Smith then doubled to send Evans scampering home with the second run.

All-Stars Win In Double-Bill With Wilson All-Stars

The Greenville All-Stars took both ends of a double-header from the Wilson All-Stars Sunday by the identical scores of 6-5.

Three runs came across in the first inning of the first game to put the local team ahead. John Farley doubled with one away to start the inning. Dan Gordon and Joe Dudley singled in succession to plate one run. The other two runs followed when John Lautares and Don Carson walked in succession.

The visitors scored two runs in each the first and second innings to take a 4-3 lead, but Greenville exploded for three more runs in the third to take the win. Farley singled to begin the rally and was followed by a double by Dudley. John Lautares then brought three runs across with a home run.

Tommy Barnes homered for the losers in the third with none on. Greenville took an early lead in the second game and then lost it as the Wilson team scored a single run in the fifth inning to go ahead 5-4. On Tommy Barries' second four-bagger of the afternoon.

The winners pushed across the tying and winning runs in the seventh inning. A single by Farley, a walk to Otto Alford and two Wilson errors produced the runs.

Farmville Takes Two Games From Fremont

FARMVILLE — Farmville took both ends of a divided twin-bill from Fremont over the week-end, by scores of 4-1 in the first game and 11-1 in Sunday's contest.

The wins were number 11 and 12 out of the last 14 starts for the rejuvenated Red Sox. They were last defeated on June 27 by Greenville in an exhibition tilt.

Carl Shirley was the star of Saturday's game. He went the distance on the mound for the Red Sox and gave up but three scattered hits to record his third win of the year.

Roger Thrift and Norman Clark led the winners a' oat with three-day and Saturday nights. The safeties in five attempts. Clark had a two-bagger included in his trio of hits.

Harvey Lee Webb held Fremont to only five hits in the second contest. He had a shutout until the ninth inning when he was reached for three consecutive hits and one run.

Millard Webb, All-Stater from Gastonia High, slammed out a pair of triples, a two-bagger, and a singleton to lead the winners at bat. Manager Clark again collected three hits in five times up.

The Red Sox will be at home for single games against Pinetops Friday and Saturday nights. The

Dependable Dom

It has been Dom DiMaggio's misfortune to be completely overshadowed throughout most of his baseball career. First, by being the brother of the spectacular Joe DiMaggio, and later by one of his own teammates, Ted Williams. By plugging away, Dom has developed into one of the most dependable outfielders in the game and has made a place for himself in the baseball sun. He may not be spectacular but his solid play in the field, on the bases and at the plate has made him very valuable to his team.

Only once in his career has Dom been helped by being a DiMaggio. That was when he was trying to get a start. A slim youngster of 18, wearing glasses and standing on the rim of the crowd of

Ormondsville-Marine Nines Play In Farmville

ORMONDSVILLE — Ormondsville will take on the strong Camp Lejeune Marines tonight in an exhibition contest to be played in Farmville.

The Leathernecks have one of the strongest teams in the South having won 50 of 60 starts this season. They will bring a team to Farmville that is studied with former national athletic stars.

Lejeune is managed by Lt. Bill Shea, a former member of the Yankee farm system. Shea is also a reserve catcher and is ready to show his players how to perform at any time. He has had professional experience at Newark, Augusta, Sunbury, Binghampton and Norfolk.

The only man in the infield who has not had pro experience will be Harry Agganis, former football star for Boston University. Agganis had been one of the leaders at bat this season, with an average of .458.

The infield will probably have Agganis at first, and Walter "Moose" Haisail, former Yankee farm hand, at second. Johnny Dempsey and Francis Seastrand will hold down third base and the shortstop position.

Bob Penner, Mert Plumem and Jack Ingalls lead the strong mound corps.

Ormondsville, who is currently leading the fast semi-pro Bright Belt Loop, will be led by outfielders Sam Stell and Stuart Tripp, catcher James Ray McLawhorn, and a Lejeune Marine who is playing third for the Green County congregation, Ed Couche.

The contest is slated to get underway tonight at 8 p. m. in Farmville. Ormondsville will travel to Camp Lejeune Friday night for a return engagement.

Fain In Top Spot In Batting Race

CHICAGO —(AP)—The Philadelphia A's Ferris Fain begins the last half of the American League betting race on top of the pack among the league's hitters.

Orestes "Minnie" Minoso, the Chicago White Sox star rookie, dropped to third place from his usual ding-dong battle with Fain for the top spot. Ted Williams of Boston climbed to second place and also led in two specialty departments—runs batted in and runs.

Fain has 96 hits and 35 runs in 277 at bats for his top percentage of .347. Williams was six points behind him and Minoso ten.

Musial Steadily Clouting .369

NEW YORK —(AP)—The National League pennant race is past the half way mark, and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals is showing no signs of faltering as the loop's leading batter.

Musial, winner of the batting crown last year, booted his average three points during the week to .369, a 13-point advantage over Jackie Robinson in second place.

Johnny Wyrostek of Cincinnati showed the biggest increase of the week to nail down fourth position with .329.

It's Good for You!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

These are days to try the mettle of a man. There's his world to worry about—his country—his business—his family. And there are his own hopes and aspirations.

And, yet, a man must go on. Everything he plans for demands a tilt to his head and a lilt to his spirits.

And that's where his Cadillac comes into the picture—for here, beyond all question, is one of the world's great therapeutics for a world-weary man.

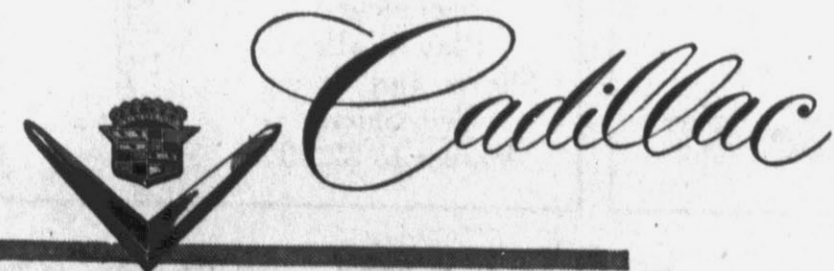

Just to look at it, in the driveway, is an inspiration—proud, beautiful, eager and substantial.

And, oh, how you rest when it takes to the highway!

There's the deep-throated lullaby of its powerful engine; there's the soothing, restful, relaxing ride; and there's the soft swish of the wind as it flows past the streamlined body. Men look forward to it throughout the day.

We have it on the word of a great statesman, and a great surgeon, and a great general—and simply thousands of others who are weary with the heavy burden of things as they are—that the hour at the wheel of a Cadillac is the relaxing one of the twenty-four.

So there you have the prescription. Better come in and see us today—and arrange to have it filled.

Bevan Leads Attack On West's Defense Plans

LONDON (AP)—Former Health Minister Aneurin Bevan and left wing supporters launched a bid for power in the Labor Party today with a manifesto urging a slash in the Atlantic Pact rearmament program.

In the opening phase of a campaign to change the labor government's home and foreign policies, Bevan and 24 followers issued a pamphlet laying down a set of principles they think Britain should follow.

Bevan and his group indicated they will battle for their program at the Labor Party's annual conference in October. Their aims hinge on the premise that Britain and her allies should switch much

'Sunnyside Up' Boosts Morale

TOKYO (AP)—A company of U. S. Fifth Cavalry soldiers recently got fresh fried eggs while in the foxhole "up a 1,200 hill. "Nothing has helped morale more short of rotation," said Pfc. Willis J. Marcantell, Lake Charles, La. He's a cook. The credit went to Lt. John Higgs, command officer of the group.

He consulted a mess steward, arranger for a field stove, the eggs and two cooks. Usually such food is prepared in the unit kitchen at a battalion rear position, then brought up.

Hold-Up Attempt Ended In Death

CHICAGO (AP)—Two ex-convicts were slain in a gun fight with a young Brink's Inc. guard yesterday as he thwarted their attempt to hold up his armored money truck.

Julius Blanchard, Jr., 26, a guard for only three months, suffered a possible skull fracture in the bloody gun battle. One of the two gunmen he killed had slugged him on the head with a shoe after the weapon jammed. Blanchard, a former mail man, was lauded by police.

Two other bandits escaped. Their slain companions were identified by police as well-known hoodlums and suspected members of a currency exchange robbery gang. They were Rocco Belcastro, 36, and Frank Piazza, 42.

The shooting took place in the second floor garage of the Bowman Dairy Company distributing station at 836 Evergreen Avenue, on the city's near north side.

Blondes Buy Well Claims Salesman

BILOXI, Miss. (UP)—Blondes make purchases quicker than brunettes and it's easier to sell to a fat person when he is sitting down.

Those are two of the conclusions drawn by George D. Warner, 61, of Cleveland, Miss., based on his 30 years experience in selling.

Warner moved up the business scale from a $2-per-day salesman to his present position of vice president of a million-dollar hardware concern.

"My observation over 30 years of studying homespun philosophy is that blondes are not only much quicker to buy than brunettes but are much quicker to become dissatisfied with their purchases," Warner said.

"I have reason to believe that in any department store, more merchandise is returned by blondes than by brunettes, and less by redheads than either of the other two classifications."

Regarding fat people he said, "Fat people's feet usually give them trouble and they naturally are more comfortable sitting down. The more comfortable they are, the easier it is to sell them."

"A fat person is an easier mark for a salesman in the afternoon than early in the morning," Warner said, "because as the day progresses, so does the ache in his feet. His resistance is low in the afternoon."

Enforce Ban On Shipping Devices

WASHINGTON (AP)—An intensive enforcement campaign for the new law banning shipment of slot machines over state lines was disclosed today by the FBI.

Bureau Director J. Edgar Hoover said in a statement that 208 such machines have been seized and 15 persons arrested on charges of taking them across state lines.

He added that 40 other cases of alleged illegal transportation "are now under active investigation."

Hoover called on local law enforcement authorities throughout the country and "all public spirited citizens" to report violations.

The FBI director said the principal seizure to date involved 199 slot machines alleged to have been shipped from Texas to be Quincy, La.

Congress outlawed interstate transportation of the machines early this year as a part of a drive on organized gambling, exempting only those instances where the devices are going into a state authorizing their receipt.

Special Aids For Blind Children

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A seventh grade student, Eugene Hosteller, stood in a school room here recently and described the 50th American country of Chile—just how it looks and where it fits on the map.

Eugene is blind. The school where he talked is the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind. Eugene used a large relief map that comes up. He plucked Chile from the map and kept running his sensitive fingers over its mountain ranges and jagged coastline.

Eugene was one of a parade of blind children who demonstrated how they learn despite their handicap. The occasion was the school's first institute for parents.

The Academie Francaise in Paris was founded in 1630.

Prefers Pennies In Paying Debts

OBLONG, Ill. (AP)—A retired mailman who likes to play a practical joke found another victim for his specialty.

W. R. Wall paid an insulation salesman off in pennies—110,000 of 'em. Salesman Earl Cassell from Vincennes, Ind., took the trick good naturedly. He also took the 550 pounds of money in a truck.

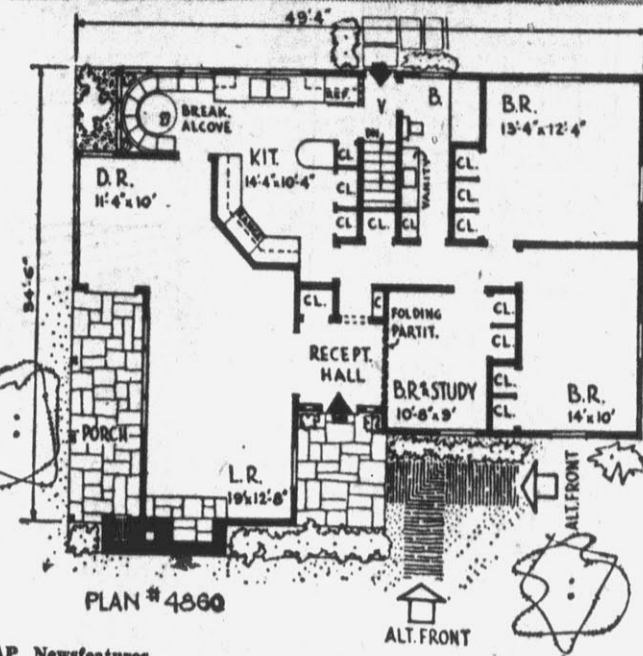

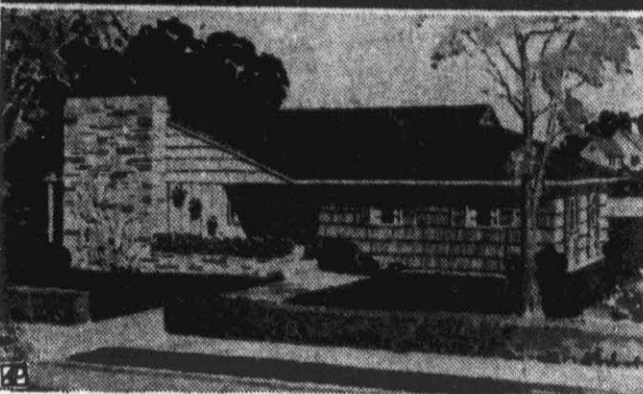

Some time ago the Oblong man bought a truck with 79,046 pennies. His pennies also have bought a refrigerator, a living room suite and war bonds.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

This is plan 4860 by Rudolph A. Matern, architect, 90-04 161st St., St. Jamaica 2, N. Y. The 14 closets and broad windows on the garden sides distinguish the design.

N. C. Peach Crop Is 'One Of Best'

RALEIGH (AP)—The current North Carolina peach crop is one of the best in history, according to Hugh B. Martin, marketing specialist with the State Department of Agriculture.

Martin reported yesterday that the general quality of the crop is higher than for any previous year. Just back from a tour of the Sandhills peach orchards, Martin said harvest of the main peach crop is just beginning. These varieties include Hiley Belles, Georgia Belles and Elbertas.

Picking of Hiley Belles, he added, is under way and is expected to continue through next Saturday. Movement of Georgia Belles will begin around July 20 and continue until August 1. Elbertas should be ready for picking around July 15 and should continue for about three weeks.

Martin said these three main varieties are expected to produce approximately 550,000 bushels.

Wild Bill Hickock Hewn From Block Of Granite

DEADWOOD, S. C. —The fabulous character of James Butler (Wild Bill) Hickok was made famous by pulp magazine writers after the turn of the century.

Now he's a subject of art. A twice life-sized bust of the famed frontier marshal has been hewn from a two-ton block of rugged Black Hills granite. It is the work of Korczak Ziolkowski, determined a sculptor of out-sized Crazy Horse Indian Memorial near Custer, S. D.

The stone for Wild Bill's bust came from Crazy Horse Mountain. It was 75 years ago next August that Wild Bill "cashed in his chips" in Saloon No. 10 at Deadwood. He was shot in the back of the head by a glory-seeking nonentity named Jack McCall.

Since then souvenir seekers have continued taking chips from Wild Bill. Three sandstone statues of Hickok have been erected. All have been literally chipped away from a block of granite by tourists.

Ziolkowski isn't worried about vandals can do to his work. "I'm willing to leave a hammer beside the carving," he said. He wore out 648 bits carving a half ton of granite off the block to shape Wild Bill's face. He used a photograph of the noted gunfighter, wearing a fur headgear, as a model. The picture was obtained from the Smithsonian Institution.

Famed Loch Ness Monster 'Seen'

LOCH NESS, Scotland (UP)—Two men on a fishing trip claimed today to have seen the Loch Ness "monster"—an allegedly huge sea serpent which has been sighted here from time to time since 1933.

J. Harper Smith, Lincoln, Eng., and his army officer son claimed they watched the "monster" for 15 minutes one evening recently.

"The light was good, and we had clear visibility," Smith said. "My son at first thought he saw a porpoise, but as it drew closer, it appeared to have a large black head with a considerable length of neck. There was a great wash behind it, and it seemed to move at a speed of about 14 knots."

Smith said he had packed binoculars and a movie camera when he left on his fishing trip "in case I saw the monster."

Unfortunately the evening he and his son claim to have seen it, he had left them in his hotel room.

"It was similar to some prehistoric monster in Arthur Conan Doyle's 'Lost World,'" he added.

Draft Needed In Spite Of Truce

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (UP)—The armed forces will still need a "continuing supply" of young men even if a cease-fire ends the Korean war, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey says.

The U. S. director of Selective Service said a cease-fire would "not materially change the manpower problem."

"This nation still faces survival in a way that we have never known before," he said in a speech before the 36th annual convention of the American Alumni Association last night.

'Insulted' Army Mules Are AWOL

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA (UP)—Six insulted Army mules have gone over the hill.

American tankmen borrowed them from South Korean troops for a polo contest. They behaved like bucking broncos during the match.

"Later that evening, they became glum and sad," said Lt. Sgt. Ernest Kaiser, San Antonio, Tex.

"The following morning they were gone."

Corpse on the Town

By JOHN ROEBURT

Jigger looked squarely into Red's face. "Let's face it, Red. The Downtown Adult School was a hub from which we operated. When we came to the school, we were well on our way to solving a murder. And face this, because the conclusion is as inevitable as tomorrow's rising sun: When returned to Professor Scott fairly inside the case, but at a loss for continuity, I found that continuity in those writings he showed me—I found confirmation of Arents as a principal in the murdered girl's life, and I found a quite descriptive likeness of Leighton."

Red said quietly, "Okay, we face it." He added, "It's a bit of a job, the direction we're taking."

"But it's the only direction, Red. Some one person wanted a murder discovered that might otherwise never have come to light. And this one person pumped life and meaning into a case that might otherwise have been written off the police casebook as insolvable."

Red said softly, "I've worried about it too—Been worrying about it all night."

Jigger stared in surprise. "All night?"

Red nodded.

Jigger said incredulously, "Seriously now—You're saying that you suspected Scott before?"

Red nodded again.

"Just like that—Sudden divination?"

"No, not just like that. I go an accidental peek into that riddle of personality you mentioned a while ago." Red drew a folded magazine from his coat pocket. "I came across this one a subway newsstand." He dropped it close to Jigger's reach on the bed. "Scott got front cover billing—That's how it came to catch my eye. I remembered his pseudonym that day in his studio."

Jigger picked up the magazine and looked at the cover. A bottom line in live red letters against an off-white background read: Complete Nozelette THE DYING FLAME by E. T. Musac

Jigger looked up. "Is the story as hot as the title?"

"Even more. And pretty telltale in the reading." Now there was a faintly ironic note. "Scott used the sense memory as even Susan Hunter never dared."

"What's the story about?"

"An old man's attempt to recapture a youth he never fully realized. The central male character's life-background had been sedentary, utterly mental, repressed and monastic. His lust for youth is fired by a sudden class accord with a young girl who comes to depend on him, and whom he hopes will ultimately accept him in the role of lover. The setting's in pre-war Naples; the girl's a voice student, and the old man is a teacher of operatic singing. The torrid emotional pitch of the yarn—Whew! It's on a level with Marie Corelli at her most steam-heated. Full of lines like 'the liberation of the senses from a life-long imprisonment.' The story reaches no conclusion—it just sets up the character in self-conflict, knits the problem into a situation with this girl, and leaves off with the man being haunted into death or madness by the opposing pressures of the wish and the reality."

Jigger said reflectively, "A portrait of himself."

Red nodded. "I'd say so—It's the kind of outpouring that isn't easily invented."

Jigger said, "It's a first real glimmering of tangible motive." He worked one foot out from under

"Scout around for some clothes for me, Red."

"Jigger, you're crazy—You can't get up now!"

"I am up." But the floor was moving under him; he was on a surf-board riding the waves. "Step on it, Red—I can't go visiting in a nightgown."

Red warned, "The minute those hypnos they've been shooting into you wear off..."

The seas were a little calmer now—He steadied himself with a palm flat against the wall. "Red, hurry—Get me out of here. Get me to Scott before Prescott slaughters Leighton. Leighton's no good, but he's innocent of murder."

"So what?"

"Red, the guy was on his knees to me last night."

"On his knees plotting to knock you off—Okay, phone Prescott's, then, if you've got to be humane to rats."

Jigger shook his head. "It won't do. I couldn't sell Scott to Prescott, not without more tangible proof. We've got to sell Scott his own story first—Get him to put his signature on it."

"What if Leighton does take a shellacking, mean-while—The rat deserves it."

"You don't know Leighton. He's lived in a blue funk for a week, going out of his mind. He's at the end of his rope, Red, there's a limit to human endurance."

Red said slowly, "You think he'll look for a last way out?"

Jigger nodded. "The only way out—What else? Let the truth ride, make me hibernate here in bed, and we're underwriting a suicide."

Red went to the door and opened it. "Now where the hell will I find you clothes?"

"Anywhere, anybody's—Steal them if you have to. Only, damnit—Hurry!"

WASHINGTON (UP)—Administration supporters, victorious in two opening skirmishes, hoped to gain ground in the House today in their fight for stronger economic controls legislation.

And they took heart from Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson's tough new statement last night that he "can't work effectively with the handcuffs the pressure groups are forging for me now."
Rep. Abraham J. Mulier (D-N.Y.), a member of the group leading the Administration's floor fight, said initial voting yesterday indicated "we will get a fairly strong bill through the House."
But Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott of Michigan, a senior Republican spokesman on controls legislation, said he was "reasonably satisfied" with what happened yesterday. The house rejected—by close votes—two amendments aimed at curbing control powers the administration already has.

The defense mobilizer, in a nationwide radio and TV speech, suggested that if Congress passes disabling controls legislation housewives should "pad and pencil and mark down the prices they pay for food and other articles and put the list away for one year."
One year from now, he said, the housewives should compare those prices with the prices they will be paying then and prepare for an "unpleasant shock."

Wilson called on the American people to demand strong controls legislation to prevent Russia from winning a tremendous victory without firing a shot.
He said pending controls bills would "cripple" economic stabilization.
"I am shocked," he said, "to find that even before a truce has been arranged in the Korean war there is a movement . . . to wreck the country's defense program."
"We cannot place our faith and safety in the hope of diplomatic victories alone. If inflation gains on us during this period, Stalin will have won a tremendous victory—as he has planned—without firing a shot. . . . The only way the Russians can beat us is to encourage us to beat ourselves."

The House may not wind up action until next week. The Defense Production Act, which contains the controls, is operating temporarily through July—a period in which there can be no price rollbacks. The Senate has passed a bill which would weaken controls and extend them through next February.

The House yesterday rejected a Wolcott amendment to prohibit use of wage-price controls until "indirect" inflation controls already available are used, such as action by the Federal Reserve Board to boost interest rates.

Also rejected, was an amendment to protect American manufacturers by barring imports of any goods manufactured from materials on which priorities and allocations have been imposed in this country. Democrats said the "drastic" move would have boomeranged by diverting to communist countries some of the foreign shipments of scarce products needed in this country.

Police Investigating Wave Minor Thefts Reported Recently

Police are continuing their investigation of a series of minor robberies committed during the past several nights.
A nocturnal prowler was reported to have stolen about $8 or $10 from the office of the PCK Store, 924 Dickinson Avenue. The investigating officers stated that there was no evidence of a forced entrance to the building.
Dr. F. E. Lamsche, dentist, reported that a robber stole an automobile tire from the boot of his car while it was parked at Pitt County Memorial Hospital last week. Police have no clue in this case.

Police arrested John Carney, Negro, on the charge of larceny of $7 from the person of Louis Short, Negro. Carney will be tried in Police Court Friday.
Authorities are spending much time in efforts to solve numerous break-ins and robberies at small stores by juveniles—white and Negro. Officers report that two boys used cotton gloves, such as worn by pallbearers at funerals to avoid fingerprint identification.

Wilson called on the American people to demand strong controls legislation to prevent Russia from winning a tremendous victory without firing a shot. . . . The only way the Russians can beat us is to encourage us to beat ourselves."

Noted American Composer Dies

CHICAGO (AP)—Egbert Anson Van Alstyne, famous as a composer of some of the nation's best known songs, including "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," died in his home yesterday.
The 73-year-old composer of more than 500 songs since the turn of the century, had been in failing health several years. He suffered a stroke last April in Miami Beach, Fla., and was returned to his home by ambulance.

More Questions For Red 'Angel'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) said today the senate internal security committee has ordered Frederick Vandenberg to come before it and bring along his bank accounts.
McCarran said Field will be questioned, among other things, about the bail raised by the civil rights congress for the four missing Communist leaders convicted in New York of conspiracy to advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

Press Is Barred From Truck Talk

AT PEACE CAMP, Korea—(UP)—The United Nations high command reversed an earlier decision late Tuesday and barred Allied press representatives from the second day's sessions of the Kaesong truce conference.
Brig. Gen. Frank Allen, headquarters information chief, issued the order only eight hours after assuring protesting newsmen that a limited number of correspondents would be permitted to go to the conference site Wednesday.
Speaking for Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.N. supreme commander, Allen said the press ban was reimposed because truce negotiations are not yet "on the track safely."
"We will do nothing to jeopardize the cease-fire negotiations until everything is on the track safely and will stay on the track," he said.
He said reports brought back from Kaesong by the U.N. truce team today indicated that there were no communist press representatives present at the Tuesday session, but he could give no guarantee that the communist press was not there.

The press here, led by United Press vice president Frank Bartholomew, has pointed out that the situation was a potential stage-setting for communist propaganda. With unarmed U.N. negotiators going into Kaesong along streets lined by armed Communists, the Red press could claim that the United Nations came "hat in hand" to sue for peace, correspondents asserted.
Allen said he was "deeply concerned" about the barring of the Western press from Wednesday's meeting. "The general (Ridgway) recognizes the seriousness of that absence," he added.
But he offered no guarantee that representatives of the free world press would be allowed to write the story of the historic conference until negotiations were virtually completed.
U.N. correspondents receive information on the conference only through military communique and controlled statements issued by the chief negotiator.

Water Shortage Faces Henderson

HENDERSON (AP)—Mayor Henry Powell called on local citizens today to avoid waste of water and said that unless generous rains come in about ten days the water supply situation will become critical.
He said water consumption was about 25 percent above normal and that storage lakes have fallen rapidly within the past two weeks, during which there has been no substantial rain.

Second Term Of Summer Session Begins Tomorrow

Exact Carolina College will begin the second term of the 1951 summer session Wednesday, July 11. Registration of students for the term's work will start at 8:30 a.m., according to an announcement by Registrar J. K. Long, and will continue during Wednesday morning and afternoon.
Those who wish to enroll in courses for the second summer session must do so by 4:30 Monday afternoon, July 16. Dr. Long states. Enrollment is expected to compare favorably with that for the same term in 1950, when 907 men and women were registered for college work.

Courses will be offered during the second term this summer in thirteen departments of instruction. The Air Force ROTC unit, in which 73 students were enrolled for basic training during the first term, will continue work with these students during the second half of the summer session.
Special attention has been given at the college this summer to work for those entering college for the first time. They are included in the schedule for the second term.
Classes during the second summer term will meet on Monday through Friday of each week and also on the following Saturdays: July 21 and August 4. Final examinations for the term's work are scheduled for August 17.

Installing Three Transformers On Fifth Street

Greenville Utilities Commission construction workers are installing a bank of three big transformers on two poles on Fifth Street, near Five Points.
The transformers will improve the quality of the service in that area, a utilities official stated. Increased consumption of electric current in the downtown area required additional current there. Power lines in the vicinity are not over-loaded, but they are carrying an unusual load due to installations of air conditioning systems, the Utilities Commission official stated. The transformer bank will provide higher voltage for consumers, he added.

the same woods within ten days. Both stills were located in the Farmville area just this side of the Greene County line. First one was seized ten days ago and the second one was seized yesterday. Both were 50-gallon drum type stills with oil burners.
Pitt ABC officers and a Greene County deputy sheriff destroyed the equipment and dumped out 21 50-gallon barrels of mash. The still and burners were found some distance from the mash.
Pitt Officer J. M. Ward reported it looked as though the operators were afraid of being arrested and had begun moving out.
The equipment was not in operation at the time Ward said. No arrests were made.
