Tobacco Shows Ravages Of Dread Disease

BLACK SHANK, which this year is ravaging Pitt's tobacco crop worse than in the past few years. In the foreground are stalks that have been infested while those in the background are healthy and are growing sturdily. Those in the front part of four rows which were set out in a field which was planted in tobacco last year. The rest of the field is planted where corn grew last year and have not been attacked. The farmer also planted Dixie No. 1, a resistant variety. (Staff photo by John Spinks, Jr.)

All Parts Of Pitt Infested By Tobacco Plant 'Scourge'

By JOHN D. SPINKS JR.

Black Shank, that wandering tobacco scourge from Stokes County, is currently performing its under-cover operations in Pitt's fields.

At the present time the extent of Black Shank infestation is the largest in the past three years, possibly since the middle of World War II.

According to reports from farmers and farm agents alike, it has spread to all parts of the county with no regard for those fields planted with resistant varieties. But, planted with resistant varieties.

However, few farmers will receive any crop insurance for their damaged fields. This is because the infestation is not centralized enough to destroy a full acre, say farm agents. It's just general enough to destroy a group of stalks here and another there.

But regardless of how much damage the killer is doing this year, it is proving one thing to the farmer. This year it is damaging resistant varieties and non-resistant varieties alike.

Heretofore, a resistant variety was thought to be pretty good insurance against Black Shank attacks—in some tobacco circles it was even believed that "resistant" meant "immune."

However, in Pitt, such is not the case this year. Tobacco specialist Sam Weeks stated it doesn't seem to make much difference what variety the farmer plants this year. It is being attacked just the same. But, he added that resistant varieties are better bets to "come through" from year to year than non-resistant varieties.

"It's like holding a pair of Kings," he said. "You plant non-resistant this year (or this hand) and you make out all right. But next year (or the next hand) it might not hold up."

The best way to escape hold-damaged fields, he said, is to rotate the crop from year to year in rotation to planting resistant varieties. If the farmer has the land available for rotation, he should do it each year because tests have proved it pays dividends.

Illustrating his point he told of a Pitt farmer who had overlapped four rows of his present crop into a field that was planted in tobacco last year—planting tobacco on tobacco—so to speak. Result: The four rows were struck by Black Shank and the rest of the particular field was growing healthily.

And, too, new tobacco fields

Co-Chairman

Charles P. Gaskins (above) has been named as co-chairman of Farmers' Day by General Chairman Allan Powell.

Gaskins is replacing John G. Fleming who held the post of chairman of the finance committee for the Farmers' Day celebration. Fleming resigned his post since he is being transferred to Rocky Mount in a few weeks by his business firm. However, he will work with the committee until he leaves here.

The new co-chairman has served the citizens of Greenville as a former Register of Deeds and heading the recent Red Cross Drive. Gaskins is now manager of the Eastern Quality Oil Company.

"We are happy to have Charles serving with us," said Allan Powell, and we extend our congratulations to Mr. Fleming in becoming manager of the Swift Company in Rocky Mount.

No 'Evil Eye' For 23 Months

NORRISTOWN, Pa. — ("P") Mrs. Philomena Volpe, 77, was under court order today to refrain from practicing black magic or inflicting the Evil Eye for 23 months.

Judge Harold G. Knight also fined her $100 and ordered her to repay $8,900 to Charles Bruno, a jeweler. Bruno said the woman promised to cure his aches and pains with a spell if he brought all his money to her house, but put the Evil Eye on him instead.

HOLLYWOOD — (UP) — Hedy Lamarr and her new husband, Ted Stauffer, wealthy Acapulco, Mex., night club owner, were enroute today to their new home in Mexico.

Miss Lamarr recently auctioned most of her personal belongings, everything from lawn furniture to sheer nightgowns, because she wanted to move "everything to Mexico."

Reds Accept Ridgway's Ultimatum 'In Principle' For Renewing Talks

Aldermen Uphold Dismissal Of Lt. Mobley From Force

Board Backs Up Chief Langston By 6-1 Vote; Hearing Attracts Considerable Number Of Mobley Supporters

By JOHN D. SPINKS JR.

The board of aldermen last night upheld Chief Guy Langston's action in dismissing Lieutenant Johnny Mobley after the chief and Mobley had presented their sides of the issue.

By vote of six to one, which was described by a spectator in courtroom hearing as "mighty weak," the board voted to uphold the old police committee's sanction of Langston's action. Alderman Heber Tripp was the lone dissenter in the vote.

During the hearing, which attracted about 100 friends and well-wishers of the dismissed officer, Sam O. Worthington, local attorney, represented Mobley and called 11 police officers and other witnesses to testify in his behalf.

The policemen were informally subpoenaed to the hearing by Langston on a request from Worthington through Mayor Lester Page.

Mobley's witnesses gave a clean bill of health so far as his duties as police officer during his 20 years on the force were concerned.

Langston stated his views concerning the firing, stating four reasons which he said necessitated his asking the Lieutenant for his resignation.

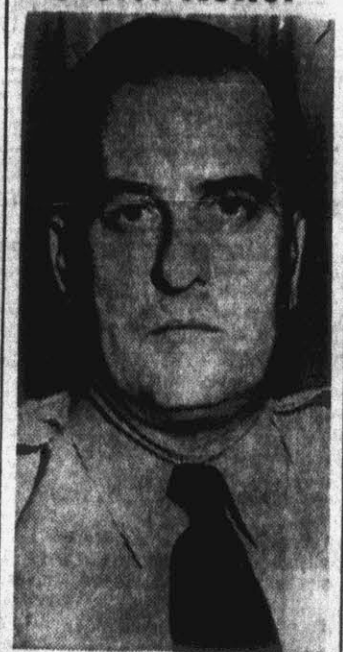

The four were (1) failure to remove school signs from the streets; (2) failure to remove ropes from streets designated for roller skating; (3) failure to remove up-town traffic signs; and (4) using his personal car during duty hours. Those incidents he said, covered a period of eight to nine months.

Worthington's rebuttal to the stated reasons by the chief brought on a plea that the board not confirm the chief's action because of those reasons.

"You've got to approve of those reasons for firing before you confirm the chief's order," he said. "We ask that you do not confirm the firing order and let Mr. Mobley remain an officer. We don't think the reasons presented here justify the action."

Langston had previously answered

Named Chairman Disaster Relief

LT. T. B. BROWN

Highway Patrol Officer Chosen For Pitt Red Cross Post

Lieutenant Thomas B. Brown of the State Highway Patrol has been named as chairman of the Disaster Relief Program of the Pitt County Red Cross.

In making the announcement of Brown's chairmanship, Hoover Taft, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the Red Cross, said the Disaster Relief Program was one of the important functions of the Red Cross and Brown was well qualified for the position.

The program is a part of the Red Cross and is organized by each community in order to be prepared to swing into action in event of a disaster. Brown is to set up an operating group to know what to do and be responsible to assume duties in case of disaster. The National Red Cross will send a representative to advise Brown and his committee.

Lieutenant Brown began his career in the Highway Patrol 17 years ago when he started out as a rookie patrolman in 1934 under Captain Leslie Jones. He has been here for the past two years and has taken part as an instructor at the State Highway Patrol School at Chapel Hill.

"We are indeed fortunate in having Lieutenant Brown as chairman of the Disaster Committee," said Taft. "His training and ability make him an excellent person to undertake this job."

Lieutenant Brown will be contacting various persons to serve with him on the Disaster Committee and he said he was sure people would cooperate with him in setting up an organization to function whenever needed.

Softening Of Stands In Oil Dispute Seen

TEHRAN — (UP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady said today both Britain and Iran are about ready to soften their adamant stands in the costly oil dispute.

Grady predicted the break may come after the scheduled arrival here tomorrow of presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman.

"The situation is getting ripe for a break," Grady said, "but a break on both sides. So far, both the Iranians and the British have said they are 100 per cent right."

Harriman told newsmen during a stopover in Paris that he was confident of the success of his mission. He said he brought no new proposals but would see what he could do on the spot.

The flow of oil from Iran's wealthy fields has been reduced to a trickle because of the impasse created by Iran's nationalization of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. The Iranian Senate met in closed session today to debate the mounting economic crisis caused by the loss of oil revenues.

Grady said there were "no limitations" on Harriman's mission. The roving ambassador has been charged by President Truman to discuss the oil crisis with Premier Mohammed Mossadegh because of the vital importance of Iranian oil to the free world's defense.

Grady called a press conference chiefly to deny reports that his departure from Iran was imminent and that he had been criticized for his efforts to mediate the oil dispute.

He said the White House statement that he had requested retirement was perfectly correct but he did not expect to leave for several months and "maybe longer."

"I certainly will not leave here in a manner which will embarrass my government," he said.

Airman Dies Of Crash Injuries

Succumbs En Route To Durham After Wreck In Pitt

Wade Moore, 21, crop duster of Wilson, died en route to Duke Hospital in Durham today from injuries received when his crop plane crashed near Clay Root Swamp in lower Pitt County.

Moore, who was dusting crops at the time of the crash, was admitted to Pitt County Memorial Hospital at 7:30. He suffered a fractured skull and two broken ankles. Shortly after entry here he was taken to Duke Hospital for immediate brain surgery.

A spokesman for Greenville Aviation Incorporated, Moore's employer, stated the single-wing duster plane spun to the ground when the pilot was coming out of a turn.

Moore was in his first season of dusting for the local concern. He left Pitt-Greenville Airport about 5 o'clock. The crash occurred half an hour later, three miles to the right of New Bern highway.

He was a Marine Corps veteran with 19 months' service.

$100 'Mistake' Earned $2,605

INGLEWOOD, Cal. — (UP) — One part-mutual clerk at Hollywood Park scoffed today at those who "stay in bed" on Friday the 13th.

The clerk, whom the track refused to identify, had his dubious moments for a while today. It looked like a dark and gloomy Friday the 13th when he punched out a $100 ticket on a horse by mistake and had to buy it himself.

But the horse, Piquancy, came bounding home in the seventh race to pay $54.10 for $2, and the clerk netted $2,605.

Labor Union To Publish Papers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A labor union's plan to increase competition in the daily newspaper field is expected to go into operation this month.

The International Typographical Union announced last night it will sponsor nine new dailies, with four tentatively set to start publishing during July.

All of the papers will be tabloid in size; each will be known as The Daily News-Digest. They will be published in Allentown, Pa.; Monroeville, La.; Texarkana, Ark.; Springfield, Mo.; Merid, Conn.; Lorain, Ohio, and Huntington, Beckley and Charleston, W.Va.

Reject Draft

MANILA — (AP) — A presidential committee last night unanimously rejected the American draft of a Japanese peace treaty as unacceptable to the Philippines.

The 15-man peace treaty committee said it would have an official reply to the United States ready by Monday.

The draft filled the Filipino people with disillusionment and dismay," said Foreign Minister Carlos P. Romulo, former president of the United Nations Assembly.

Pyongyang Radio Broadcasts Reply; U. N. Headquarters To Make No Comment Until Authenticated Message Received; Armistice Delegation Ready For Resumption Of Parley At Any Hour

SEOUL — (AP) — Pyongyang radio tonight broadcast a Red acceptance "in principle" of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's ultimatum on renewing cease-fire talks.

The broadcast, as recorded in Tokyo by Japanese monitors, said the Red top command told Ridgway:

1. "In principle we agree to neutralize Kaesong."
2. "We propose" joint negotiations for insuring safety of delegates."
3. "We agree to admit not more than 20 correspondents" to Kaesong."

But the Reds objected to Ridgway's "one-sided demand."

The Pyongyang headquarters said: "There will be no comment until we have received a properly authenticated message."

The Pyongyang broadcast was recorded by Japanese monitors of Kyodo News Service at 9 p.m. (8 a.m. EST). That was 33 hours after the U.N. commander laid down his terms for renewing armistice talks.

Thursday when Chinese guards refused to allow 20 newsmen to continue with a U.N. convoy of which they were an official part.

General Ridgway and the U. N. cease-fire delegates were at the Alameda "peace camp" in Munsan, U. S.

Army officers said their first word of the Pyongyang broadcast came from Tokyo, although Army monitors have been tuned since Friday afternoon to Pyongyang and Peking radio wave lengths awaiting a reply.

The Red broadcast was conciliatory, but avoided a direct acceptance of any of Ridgway's demands.

Observers' first reactions were hopeful that talks could be resumed soon.

The U.N. commander had sent the Red chiefs a series of flat demands. His message indicated no intent of negotiation or compromise although he may have had that in mind.

He messaged them:

"The assurance which I require are few and simple. They include as primary prerequisites the establishment of an agreed conference area of suitable extent completely free of armed personnel of either side. Each delegation must have complete reciprocity of treatment to include complete and equal freedom of movement to, from and within the agreed conference area and all times in the selection of the personnel in its delegation party to include representatives of the press."

He made three more proposals to implement this—a five-mile neutral zone, guard-free roads, a 150 limit on size of delegations. Then he said: "If you agree to these proposals the present recess can be terminated and the conference resumed without delay and with some expectation of progress."

From the Communist reply as reported by Tokyo, it will take further negotiations to bring the parties into agreement.

Most striking difference of the two viewpoints appeared to be regarding press delegations. The United Nations position was that they should be accepted without question as personnel of the U.N. commander of the "cease-fire" talks. The Communists off the highway U. N. representatives drove from their peace camp to Kaesong, that Communist Red check-point where Red guards determined who should pass.

It was at this check-point, nine miles from Kaesong, that Communists refused to let 20 newsmen go along with the convoy on Thursday, thus precipitating the crisis.

Guards were posted by the Communists along the highway and in Kaesong itself without consulting the U.N.

Full acceptance of Ridgway's demands would put both delegations on a completely even footing, and remove talk of the Reds playing "host."

At the U.N. allies had waited throughout Friday night and Saturday for the Communist reply, one Allied authority said.

"We are going to find out whether the Communists really wanted an armistice."

The five-man U.N. armistice delegation waited at the advanced peace camp throughout the day, ready to move by helicopter, jeep and truck as soon as the Reds agreed to the improved conditions.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the U.S. Eighth Army, paid a surprise visit to the delegation at lunch time. The subject of the discussions was not announced.

Light Fighting On Korean Front

Patrols Maintain Contact; Air Force Makes Strike

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea — (AP) — United Nations and Red forces sparred lightly today along the 100-mile Korean war front.

In the main ground action, U. N. troops dispersed a Red company northwest of Chonwon on the central front.

Probing patrols maintained light to moderate contact elsewhere.

During the lull in fighting, French U. N. forces observed Bastille Day. The celebration was highlighted by inspection of French ranks and award of the Croix Guerre to American and French soldiers who fought in the bitter battles of Wonli and Chipyong.

The simple military ceremony with Bastille Day imported from France was served to officers and men after the awards were made.

U. S. 5th Air Force warplanes threw 72 early-morning strikes at Red airfields and transportation facilities Saturday.

They destroyed or damaged nearly 40 vehicles.

Bad weather reduced air operations during the day and by 6 p.m. only 197 sorties had been flown.

Flying through heavy rain and ground-hugging clouds, a flight of four F-80 Shooting Stars bombed railroad tracks east of Pyongyang, the Red Korean capital. Another flight hit rail installations in the Songchon area.

Gasoline Fire Spreads In Flooded Kansas City

Levee Protecting Rich Industrial Area Fails To Halt Rising Waters; Firemen Prepare To Dynamite Buildings

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — (UP) — A gasoline fire, spread by the worst flood in city history, raged here today and the Missouri River swept over a levee protecting a rich industrial area in the sister city of Kansas City, Kan.

The fire, still raging after 18 hours of spectacular destruction, swept through a large alcohol plant in the dark hours and poked a gigantic orange plume skyward.

Fire fighters, many riding the crest in boats, poured water onto the blaze and believed its advance toward a volatile chemical company plant had been halted.

In Washington, meanwhile, President Truman asked Congress to appropriate $15,000,000 and more if necessary, for flood relief in this area.

Col. L. J. Lincoln, district army engineer, ordered abandonment of a levee which had protected the Fairfax industrial district on the Kansas side.

"Water soon will be all over the district," Lincoln said.

A 40-foot section of the dike was

Tobacco Crop Condition Hinges On Last Few Days

Present outlook on Pitt's tobacco crop points toward good quality tobacco "somewhat on the thin side."

According to a report from W. L. Whedbee, supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade, the size and weight of the crop will depend to a great extent upon weather conditions in the immediate future.

Whedbee pointed out that many of the fields have not reached full maturity and because of that it is impossible to predict the final outcome. However, the general condition of the crop is described as "good" by Whedbee.

"Since our last crop report," he said, "Eastern North Carolina has been visited by numerous thunder showers and several general rains. These have covered most of the scattered dry areas, the crops in which were not as far advanced as those that had received more moisture early in the season."

Some sections of the crop have been hard hit by black shank, Whedbee said, but the proportions are not great enough as a whole to cause alarm at the present. Black shank has been found in those fields where farmers failed to rotate their crop, he said.

Rising Tide Of Inflation Has Been Felt By U.S. Housewives

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The housewife complains that food prices are too high. Her budget is showing—in the red. No wonder! Only during the last twelve months consumer prices for moderate income families have risen approximately 8.3 percent. Food prices have climbed 11 percent, clothing 10 percent, and rents 3 percent.

Living Standards Endangered

Higher and higher prices are endangering the living standards of millions of moderate income, middle-class families. The record shows that their food prices have increased 105 percent in the last decade;— apparel, 95 percent; rents, 30 percent; house furnishings, 100 percent; and such miscellaneous items as recreation, toilet articles, dry cleaning, and doctors' bills, 60 percent. The earnings of this group just haven't kept pace with prices.

This unfortunate situation especially hurts that large segment of professional and white-collar workers. These feel the squeeze most—doctors, lawyers, teachers, clergy, civic leaders, accountants, office workers—and others with fixed incomes and pensions. In a very real sense many of these workers are the backbone of our communities and the people who create ideas, those most interested in moral and spiritual values. These men and their wives are the forgotten people of today. They need to be remembered.

Inflation And Simple Economics

Ever since the depression of the thirties we have been scared to death of Deflation. Everyone has wanted economic security. For the farmers this has meant price-support and subsidies. Labor leaders have encouraged price rises in order to give the unions good ammunition for wage rises. Business, in turn, has sanctioned wage increases and then encouraged inflation to pay the worker.

The unjust part of high prices is they suck the life from the public for the benefit of the privileged few. The manufacturer anticipates enjoying inflation because he can get more for his products. Sooner or later his employees want more and more of his profits to pay the cost of their standard of living goes down. The worker, at the other end, enjoys inflation because of his hopes of higher wages, but both employer and employee lose in the long run. They find the price of the new car they want or the supper steak has gone up.

In short, we have been kidding ourselves into thinking that we can gain more in an inflated seller's market than we can lose in a deflated buyer's market. The history of Germany, Italy, France, and Russia clearly indicates that inflation undermines private enterprise, causes industries to shut down and throws people out of work.

I may be old-fashioned, but years of experience tell me that you won't ever remove the housewife's burden by rationing or allocations or price or wage controls. These current stop-gap measures in the long run, will deprive you of your economic liberties. The way to lower prices is to balance the national budget, raise interest rates, increase legal reserve ratios, curb installment buying, and ESPECIALLY INCREASE PRODUCTION WITH LOWER COSTS.

Up To The Women

If a large enough group of determined housewives decide to bring prices down, they can't buy together and work together. Bring your group influence to bear day in and day out, not only on your congressman but also upon manufacturers and labor leaders. For one, do not want to contest the power of a woman!

Truman Greets Daughter Home

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The President of the United States, just like any other father, got to the station early last night to greet his daughter.
Mr. Truman showed up at Union Station at 8:25 p. m., 15 minutes before the train carrying daughter Margaret was due from New York. He walked almost a quarter of a mile to the end of the platform.
The White House, in an effort to avoid a crowd, had not announced that Mr. Truman would meet Margaret on her return from a European tour. Secret Service agents cleared reporters and spectators from the platform.

Spent $12 Million For Convention

NEW YORK—(UP)—The Shriners spent $12,000,000 during their convention here which ended yesterday, the Convention and Visitors Bureau said today.
Police Commissioner George Monaghan said the convention was the most orderly one he ever saw. "We hope they will soon come back to visit us again," he said.
The technical difference between scissors and shears is size: Shears generally measure six or more inches in length; scissors, less.

Could you play baseball without rules? No, in any game there are rules that must be followed.

And it's because of these rules that the game is orderly and interesting. Without them a ball game would result in complete confusion, and neither the players nor the spectators would enjoy it at all.

So it is with society. Through the ages the greatest civilizations have been those with the best rules and laws. Our own United States Constitution, a masterpiece in law, has proved that good government produces a great nation.

Life must also have rules if we are to live happily. And to guide us toward this end God has given us a set of rules, which is known the world over as the Ten Commandments.

Open your Bible and learn them today—and tomorrow and always you'll be a better, happier person.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

White Flowers Used As Motif At Morning Party

On Wednesday morning between the hours of 11:00-12 noon, Miss Joyce Corbett was entertained by joint hostesses who held an informal morning party for her.

Those entertaining were Mrs. Marie Clark, Mrs. Roy Martin and Mrs. J. M. Basart. Guests were close personal friends of the honoree, and the party was held at the home of Mrs. Clark on East Eighth Street. The rooms of the home where the guests were received were beautifully decorated with white gladioli, anemones and other summer flowers. The mantel in the living room bore an attractive bride doll arrangement amid flowers and fern.

From a table covered with a white linen cloth, tempting refreshments were served buffet style. Iced drinks, chicken salad sandwiches, open-faced party sandwiches, pickles, relishes, pastries and nuts were placed on platters and trays around the table, from which guests served themselves. Assisting the hostesses was little Miss Helen Basart, daughter of one of the hostesses.

Miss Corbett was given a corsage of white chrysanthemums upon her arrival and was remembered with gifts of crystal and china in her chosen pattern.

Approximately 50 guests were present.

The Girl Next Door

George Drummond, Betsy's father always walked home to lunch, and today, as he came near the gate set in the picket fence, he saw Betsy coming from the opposite direction. He stopped to wait for her, a warm glow about his heart, as there always was at the sight of her.

Betsy saw her father at the gate and flung up her hand in salute. But the unhappy look was still in her eyes. He dropped his arm about her shoulders and they went side by side up the walk.

"My, but you're a busy little gad-about," George teased. "Just getting home to lunch—and here your old man's put in a hard day already!"

"I went out to see Professor Hartley," Betsy told him. "He's training a pup for me."

"Training a pup? For what, if I may ask?"

Betsy's teeth touched her lower lip, but she made herself answer him steadily.

Seeing eye dogs from that place in New Jersey—well, there's a pup that he's training for me, to give Pete when he comes home."

"Oh, I see. Well, that's a pretty fine thing for Hartley to do—and you, too."

"I don't need this one, and Pete does," she said, running ahead up the steps and into the house.

When George came into the dining room, she was already at the table, and Edith was talking to her, while old Ester came in with the roast.

"Miss Edith," demanded Ester, with the frame of one who is practically a member of the family, "did you know we're going to have neighbors next door?"

"Yes, I did," Edith answered. "So the old Cunningham place has been sold," mused George, puzzled. "Funny I didn't hear anything about it."

"I don't think she's bought the place, Pops," said Betsy, unexpectedly. "She told me she had rented it for a year—and she was going to live here. Then she looked funny and said, 'If you can call it living!'"

"You know her, Betsy?" asked Edith, surprised.

"Well, I don't exactly know her. I met her this morning, that's all. Her name is Marcia Eldon and she's—well, she's pretty crazy-looking."

Edith, surprised.

An Example Of Basic Differences

The incident which caused the breaking off of negotiations in the Korean peace talks is clearly another example of the diametrically opposite positions of freedom and communism.

The communist refused to allow the United Nations correspondents to go to Kaesong where the peace talks are being held. They had said correspondents would be welcomed at a later date, but not now.

The chief of the United Nations negotiating team informed the communists that the presence of newspapermen at Kaesong is considered "an inherent right" by the members of the U. N.

A communist spokesman on the other hand said the attempt to bring in newspapermen to Kaesong illustrates "there is doubt whether the Americans have sincerity in peace talks."

Why the presence of correspondents is an indication of insincerity on the part of the United Nations is a question only the warped communist mind can answer.

Under the communist tyranny the people are allowed to have only the information the dictators want them to have, and then only after it is well treated with the toxin of propaganda.

Among the free nations the people have a right to know what is going on. They can get the information free from government coloring and government-manufactured lies.

To the communists the people have no right to know what is going on. The decisions are dictated by the government and the thoughts or wishes of the people must conform with the dictates, or else the individual must suffer the consequences.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

Every Saturday this veteran newspaper correspondent at Washington devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 808 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Is it true," inquires T. C. of Tulsa, as well as many other readers, "that the men in the White House, State Department and Pentagon will regard a cease-fire agreement in Korea as a 'victory'?" How can they be so unrealistic? And do the members of Congress agree to that victory?

Answer: The most accurate answer is that the Administration leaders will look upon such an arrangement as a "limited victory." We did resist and check the North Koreans and the Chinese Communists' invasion of our zone on the peninsula. By so doing, we may have weakened Russia's long-range plan to launch an assault against Japan. We deprived her of a strategic springboard.

STALEMATE—However, such a settlement will not achieve the American and United Nations proclaimed purpose to create a united, free and independent Korea. The result will be an admitted stalemate which leaves the questions of Formosa's fate and Red China's admission to the U. N. as unresolved as they were when the affair began.

Some officials profess to derive satisfaction from the fact that U. N. members jointly resisted aggression, and that they may have set a pattern of resistance to future Red thrusts. However, only a few U. N. nations gave us any real assistance.

We provided 45 per cent of the land force, the Koreans another 45, and the U. N. contributed 10 per cent. Our naval contribution was 75 per cent, and 95 per cent of the air units were ours. Those are official figures. Not a single Stalin soldier was killed or wounded, so far as we know now, as against 75,000 or more American casualties.

Korea, like Munich, may advantage our side and cause, however. We may have won a tenuous peace during which we will have more time to prepare for a greater crisis. And it should have put us on guard.

ORIGINATION—"What was behind the American newspaper correspondents' grievance over the military's refusal to let them attend the first cease-fire conference at Kaesong?" asks M. J. of Passaic, N. J. "Why was there so much excitement over such a minor matter?"

Answer: This is not merely a matter of newspaper shop talk, or a question of the difficulties we sometimes encounter in dealing with both military and civilian officials. While I do not know the details of the Kaesong incident, I can appreciate its public importance as a result of my own newspaper experiences.

DETIRIMENT—There have been many times here and abroad when the participating nations agreed to bar the press from preliminary conferences, beginning as far back as League of Nations days in 1919. Our government and press abide by those rules. But, almost invariably, the other nations' delegations show up with reporters, photographers, press agents etc. If not allowed in to official meetings, they are kept informed of goings-on by their delegations.

As a result, other nations always get the first and the best breaks in publicity on their aims, proposals and our own attitude. Our own press, too, must pry their information from foreign representatives or reporters. As a result, the foreign version frequently is the only one given to the American public, to their advantage and our detriment.

Strength for the Day

THE GOINGS OF LITTLE THINGS
The little things of life are the significant things of life. Now and again we hear of some parent who showed money and culture upon his children but was too busy with his affairs to give these children any of his companionship. When such children go to the wall, morally, it is usually a matter of bewilderment to the parent. "Didn't I give them all the money they could spend, and automobiles and fine schools and trips abroad?" Yes, but the little things would have counted for more.

It is well for us to recall that our Lord made much of a cup of cold water given in his name. The list of things which our Lord enumerates as prerequisites to salvation amazes one: "I was hungry, and ye gave me to eat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me to drink; I was a stranger, and ye took me in; naked, and ye clothed me; I was sick, and ye visited me; I was in prison, and ye came unto me." Nothing here about huge contributions or about anything that might call religious services. Just a lot of little things which goodhearted people did for those who were in need.

Christianity makes much of little things because life largely derives its significance from little things.

A Mistake To Be Profited By

The city of Greenville should make sure that its fire department doesn't suffer from the lack of personnel during the next ten years like it has during the past ten years.

The board of aldermen have said the city can afford to add only one paid fireman to the present force during the current fiscal year. The addition of the one man will give the city four firemen on one shift and three firemen on the other shift.

The fire insurance rating bureau has specified seven men on each shift, but the city officials have indicated the addition of one man to the force will enable the city to hold its fifth class rating during the present year.

When the rating bureau checked Greenville in 1941 it recommended the city have six paid firemen on duty at all times. The city officials said such an increase in personnel couldn't be made at once, but in the course of a few years they would build up to the specifications. During the decade which followed, Greenville maintained, but did not increase the number of paid firemen on duty at all times at the local department.

Now in 1951 the underwriters have specified one more paid fireman than they did ten years ago; and Greenville finds itself at the beginning of another cycle... only farther behind specifications than a decade ago.

There is no reason why the fire department can not be built up to the personnel requirements to give adequate fire protection for the city. Since 1941 there have been a total of four men added to the paid personnel of the fire department. But by changing to the two-shift method, the department has the same number of men on duty now that it had in 1928.

The police department during the same ten years has grown from a force of 12 men to the present number of 26. And included in the police department budget for the current fiscal year are enough funds to add two men to the department if they are needed.

The Reflector does not draw this comparison between the two departments as a suggestion that the police department personnel be held to a limited number. We draw the comparison to point out that the same consideration which has been given to the personnel needs of the police department should be given to the personnel needs of the fire department.

It must keep pace with the growth of the city.

The city officials should heed the needs of the fire department and make definite plans to meet these needs during the next few years.

World Spinning

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last week when Harry Truman made a speech on the lawn in front of the Washington Monument, many of the crowd of 50,000 seemed hardly to be listening. Fire crackers popped from the edges of the Fourth of July crowd. Bursts of laughter and applause that had nothing to do with the speech could be heard. Harry ignored the noise and spoke on, making no attempt at oratory, and rarely raising his eyes from the notebook that contained his speech.

Regardless of how the crowd accepted Harry's speech, he did have something important to say. He emphasized this one theme: This peace in Korea may look good, but don't relax; the toughest part is ahead. He said, "Men of the armed forces in Korea, you will go down in history as the first army to fight under a flag of a world organization in the defense of human freedom... Victory may be in your hands, but you are winning a greater thing than military victory, for you are vindicating the idea of freedom under international law." Then Harry got to his main point, that the U. S. must "stick to a hard, tough policy of self-denial and self-control... The greatest threat to world peace, the tremendous armed power of the Soviet Union, will still remain, even if the Korean fighting stops... We face a long period of world tension."

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

ETHICS—Despite specific laws and numerous official rulings on the subject, a large part of the attorney general's mail still has to do with questions about dual office holding. Almost every day somebody writes in to ask if a member of the general assembly can serve as mayor or alderman of a municipality, if a county commissioner can also be a poll holder for an election, if a town clerk can be a member of the county board of education, or something like that. For like reason, the mail of the secretary of the N. C. State Bar, Inc., is loaded with inquiries about whether a judge or a solicitor of a recorder's court can also engage in general practices of law in his county. The usual answer in all such inquiries is "No," although there are qualifying circumstances in many instances. With respect to dual office holding the negative answer is based on statutes in such case made and provided. With respect to law practice by court officers, it is based on code or canon of professional ethics adopted many years ago by the lawyers themselves.

PROHIBITION—The legal canon prohibits the practice of law in the county by any judge or solicitor of recorder's courts. This prohibition is set out in Section D of the code, which reads as follows: "It shall be deemed unethical for any judge or solicitor of any recorder's court to appear in any criminal proceeding, whether for the defendant or for the state, in other courts of his county having criminal jurisdiction, of the court over which he shall preside, or over which he shall be the prosecuting officer, except that this canon shall not apply to mayors of incorporated towns having like jurisdiction in criminal matters as a justice of the peace, except that such mayor shall not appear in any criminal matter arising within his jurisdiction. Provided further, that nothing in this canon is intended to preclude the solicitor of any recorder's court or county court from appearing in the superior court upon request of the district solicitor."

AUTHORITY—The statutory prohibition against dual office holding carries somewhat more authority than this canonical prohibition against court officers practicing law. It, since the general statutes confer the privilege and impose the obligation upon the lawyers to regulate their own conduct, the canon has almost the force and effect of statute.

SCOPE—Language of the regulation leaves some doubt about its full application. It mentions only criminal practice, but estimable lawyers interpret the provisions to be equally applicable to civil practice where the court has civil jurisdiction. Furthermore, there is no specific reference to judges pro tem or assistant solicitors. Again the consensus among members of the profession is that the same limitations would of necessity apply to these officials, especially since the statutes in numerous instances set out the qualifications of a pro tem judge or assistant solicitor must be the same as those required of the principals.

HARDSHIP—The provisions of the canon undoubtedly work a hardship on many lawyers who like to pick up a few hundred dollars a year for service as judge or solicitor in the small recorder's court. They conceivably work a hardship upon the public by denying availability of good legal talent to man the inferior court. It is of record that many good lawyers, who also are good men in the broad sense of the term, have declined appointment to inferior judicial positions because they could not afford to completely abandon private practice within their county. It is also of record that many good lawyers and good men serve in judicial capacities and continue private practice without detriment to their ethical prestige or damage to their own self respect, although in violation of the canon adopted by their profession. In most instances of this kind the lawyers are careful not to accept private employment in specific cases originating in or passing through the courts over which they preside as judge or prosecuting attorney. In general, the question of propriety seems largely one for the individual to answer under the guidance of his own conscience.

ATTENTION—Attention being focused on the situation by correspondence between prospective judges and authorities in Raleigh may serve to speed uniformity of practice and raise the dignity of recorder courts generally. One suggestion has been for the next general assembly to abolish all special-act courts and require reorganization under terms of the statewide law.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Because housewares cross so many lines of business, the National Houseware Show at Atlantic City this week presents a good cross-section of American retailing.

These trends are evident: Most retailers are still greatly concerned about being overstocked. Some of the buyers at the show weren't buying—just looking—except to fill in lines.

Retailers are optimistic that public buying power will continue high but they, or their bankers, won't bet on it to the extent of increasing inventories further.

Retailers are seeking promotional merchandise—goods that they can get excited about and that will build store traffic. They are looking for things that are new, that carry adequate margins, that have gee-whis advertising points, that carry advertising allowances and with which they get display material and other merchandising aids.

Retailers are looking for lower prices, but not finding many. Lower prices are notably rare among items of metals and other components growing scarce.

The crossing of retail lines is continuing. Many of the buyers at the show represent food chains and drug stores. An increasing number of drug and grocery stores are adding lines of housewares, and more appliance and variety stores are adding lines from other fields.

In general, attitudes of both manufacturers and buyers at the show were neither pessimistic nor too optimistic. The boom feeling of a year ago is lacking. However, the continuation of large amounts of housing construction despite credit controls and the confidence in the replacement market seems to indicate a high level of sales.

Considerable interest was shown in infrared broilers, electric deep fryers and other appliances that simplify cooking or make possible cooking at the table. There was also the continuing interest in plastics.

While a number of new products and even more freshened models of old products were displayed, the total appears less than during the last several years.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) "Crime is a woman's problem," says Magistrate Anna Kross. And 18 years on the bench have convinced her that only women can do anything permanent about reducing the crime rate in the United States.

"The men can't do it," she said flatly. "They have proved that."

"Today the womanpower of America should be saddled to clean up the country—physically and morally. But they can't do it by doing what men have been doing for so long—merely paying lip service to 'Modesty.'"

How can the ordinary housewife do anything about stopping crime? "Well, she can't check it by merely seeing that her own children get home on time," said Judge Kross. "She has to be willing to do something about the kids on the other side of the railroad tracks. You can't get rid of smallpox just by inoculating the people who live on the hill."

The blunt-spoken little jurist—another herself—believes the whole approach to the problem of wiping out crime has been wrong. She believes the basic cure lies in creating happy families, and feels if a family is sick the individuals in it will be sick, too.

"Courts, prisons and police—what do they do but give society a sense of security?" she said. "They are only part of a strait-jacket at best."

"There isn't a prison in our country that doesn't become a post-graduate school for criminals. What juvenile court judge in this country is really trained for his job? None. He got that job only because he knew the right person at the right time."

"There isn't one perfect juvenile court setup in America. The best of them are inadequate—equipped."

Judge Kross feels that exposure such as those made by the Kefauver Committee do little real good.

"I have seen investigation after investigation make mayors, governors or senators," she said, "but the problem remains."

"It is all very well to stir up a community, to let it know what is really going on. But knowing what is going on and doing nothing about it—that is a real crime, too."

"We have to become realistic and face the music. Politics is corrupt not because of the politicians but because of the apathy of citizens. We have better government than we deserve."

Crime thrives, she added, because everybody ducks responsibility.

"If there were a really serious desire to end crime in this country it could be done—by women. The women of any community can go to their chief of police and force him to clean it up."

Changes In Israel

The scrip is being sold through department stores in New York, Boston, Newark and Chicago and eventually will be offered in many other cities. The stores get a commission. This is not deducted from the buyers' payments, but is paid from a special fund by the organization.

DETROIT CONVENTIONS, PROMOTER ADVISES

This busy day the Old Promoter walked in, ignoring the cries of our secretary, Miss Cerebra, "that we were not in, that we were busy, that we were in a conference and besides were away on a vacation."

"Sorry," he said, settling himself comfortably in a chair, "but I have a little suggestion that can save as much as $500 each to firms with salesmen on the road."

"It's to check sales trips carefully against convention schedules. When a salesman has a city at the same time as a convention, he may have difficulty in getting a room. Sometimes confirmed reservations are worthless. He may have to cut it out of his schedule and he may find his prospects busy some way or other with the convention."

"A friend of mine recently arrived in a town and was told he would have to share a room with a delegate to a teachers' convention. He was about to flee the city when the hotel clerk explained that the teacher was a man."

"Speaking about being busy—" we said.

The O.P. took the hint, a cigar and his departure.

LIMES, FILBERTS, CHICKENS PLENTIFUL

Three more things that can be counted on for ample supplies: Limes—Florida's current crop is estimated at 300,000 boxes, almost double the average.

Filberts—The Mediterranean crop is estimated at 133,100 tons, up 50,000 over 1950.

Chickens—The number of young chickens on U. S. farms June 1 was 6 per cent above a year ago.

WAGON: Also shown at the show is a tea-wagon type table with an electrically heated radiant glass top. It can be wheeled to a dining table and plugged in. It is by Salton Mfg. Co., 74 Reade St., New York.

up." But years of seeing a human tide of misery flow in and out of her court have convinced her, Judge Kross, the final answer is this:

"We need more education for living. We are what our family background made us. Unless you take that into consideration, any other effort is meaningless."

"Wise is the child that knows how to choose his own parents. Nobody should be permitted to marry unless he can give proof he understands the responsibilities."

Washington Letter

By FRANK CAREY (For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON—A lot of cities that would like to start adding fluoride to their water to reduce the amount of tooth decay among children hesitate to because of the cost.

But a government scientist says recent experiments indicate the price can be lowered about two-thirds by putting sodium fluoride in the water instead of sodium fluoride, which is now used by most cities with fluoridation programs.

The scientist, Dr. F. J. McClure, has used the new compound only in experiments with rats. But he points out that several of the 65 cities with fluoridation programs are now using the new compound. The results in those cities will indicate the effectiveness of the chemical in the case of human beings. And he sees no reason why it wouldn't work on humans as well as on rats.

It costs about $2.15 a quart to add a million gallons of water with the compound generally used—sodium fluoride. The same amount of sodium fluoride, says Dr. McClure, would cost about 76 cents.

Dr. McClure, who does his research here at the National Institute of Dental Research, which is under the Public Health Service, reported originally only on his observations of the chemical and physiological effects of sodium fluoride on rats. That was in an article last fall in the journal "Public Health Reports."

Since then, however, he has tested its effect on tooth decay in rats, and he has found that it works as well as sodium fluoride.

Cities that have been fluoridating water for some years now report excellent results. The oldest experiment, says Dr. McClure, is that at Grand Rapids, Mich., which began the program in January, 1945.

Grand Rapids and some of the other cities that began the work more than five years ago report that tooth decay in young children, who have been drinking the fluoridated water most of their lives, has been reduced as much as 40 to 50 per cent.

W. S. Harris Store, Established In 1897, Is Oldest Of Its Kind In City

"Uncle Bill" has numerous visitors like these three children who come in the choose candies from the many candy jars which are lined up on a table near the front of the store. (Staff photo by Muriel Shotwell).

By MURIEL SHOTWELL

W. S. Harris, 75-year-old Negro man, is the oldest businessman in Greenville who still operates the same store he established in 1897. There is one business firm in Greenville older than the little grocery store run by Harris but he operates his business when he built the store in which he was 21 years old.

"Uncle Bill", as he is called by his friends, built his first store when he was 19 where the Norfolk Southern Railroad is now. He had to move from that store because it was attached to his house and could not get sufficient insurance. He tore the old store down and built the one he operates now.

Uncle Bill has always run the store by himself without help from anyone except his wife, who is now ill and cannot help him.

"Helpers would get in my way and I'd rather do the work by myself," Uncle Bill said.

He said he still has some of the same customers when he first opened the store and one of the old Negro women who used to come to buy from him is now a grandmother. "She was only a child then," Uncle Bill said, "and in those days it was really a treat to go in a store and buy something."

Most of Uncle Bill's customers are little children who patronize the large candy jars which are lined up on a table right at a child's eye level. "So they can see good," says Harris. The jars are full of all kinds of penny candy and little brown hands are constantly reaching into them.

Many of Uncle Bill's customers came into his store, especially on cold and rainy days, just to sit around the "pot-bellied" stove which is in the middle of the store and "discuss." "We discuss religion most of the time," said Uncle Bill. "We don't get mad or argue too much cause it isn't right to get mad over the Bible but we have a good time. We especially have a good argument when the preachers enter into the conversation," commented Uncle Bill. He also said the stove has served him a long time and three grates have been worn out.

Along with the old stove, the little store has the appearance of a general store. Not only does Uncle Bill stock groceries but his shelves are filled with notebooks, paper, pencils, oil lamps, and glass lamp shades. Uncle Bill now had electric lights but he said there used to be lanterns in the store and a lantern hanging outside to show someone was inside.

Uncle Bill commented on modern day prices in his store. He said he used to be able to stock his entire store for $40 and now it takes at least $150 or even more.

"I remember when I would sell a large can of salmon or peaches for ten cents and a shoulder would cost only 75 cents," said Uncle Bill.

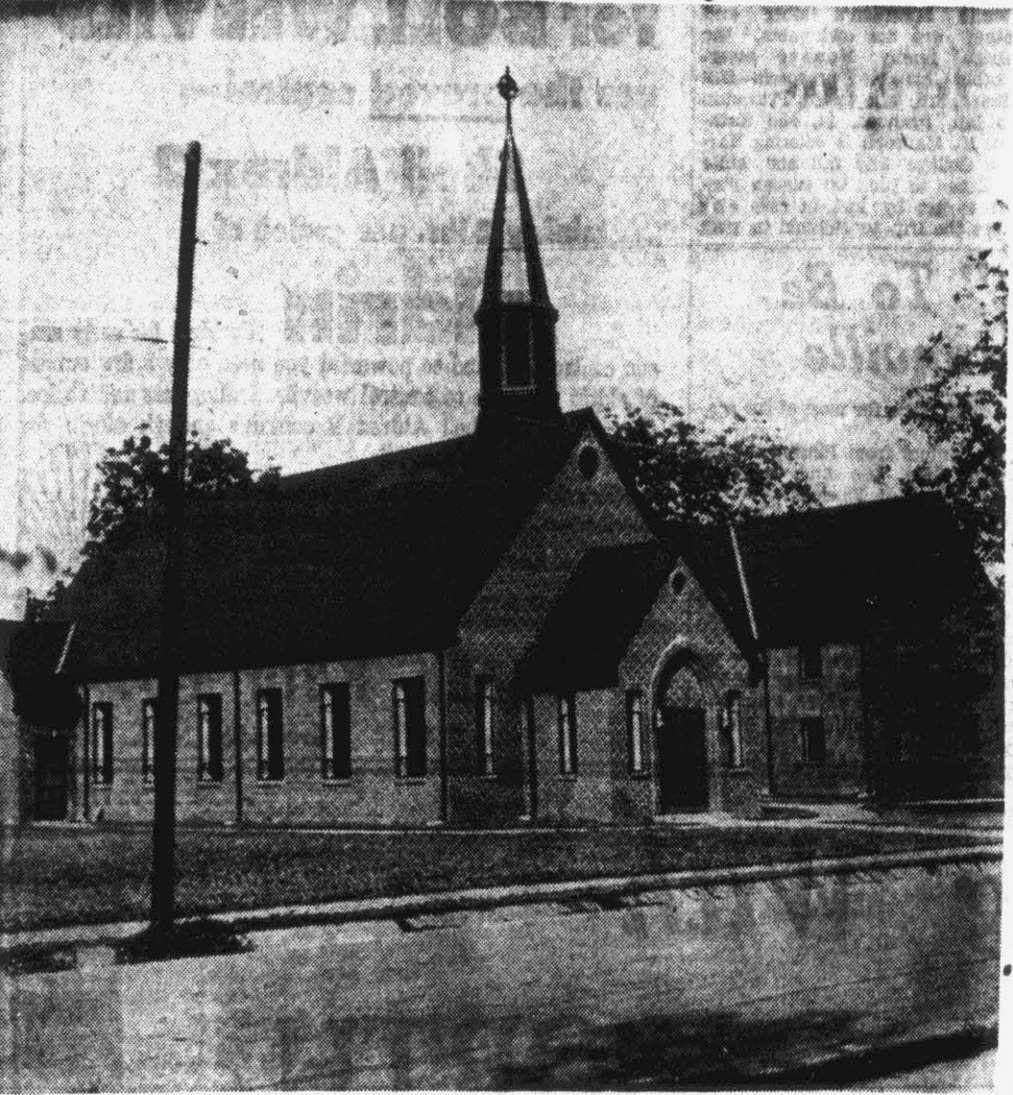

"Prices would change with every war. I lived through four wars," Uncle Bill said, "the Spanish-American War, World War I, World War II, and the one in Korea. Everytime conditions and prices change."

Uncle Bill said there were no wholesale stores when he first opened his business and he could sell vegetables for only a small profit and still have a fair business. "Can't do too much business now," Uncle Bill said, "make just enough to get by on."

Uncle Bill was born "on Henry Allen's place", as he called it, and moved to Greenville when he was a small boy. He was married in 1900, the year the sun went into eclipse, designated Uncle Bill.

He is a churchgoer and spends his spare time reading Sunday School lessons, the Bible, and books on worship. Anyone riding by

Winslow Stables Gaining Reputation Among Hores Show Enthusiasts

By MELVIN LANG

Kentucky may be known as the state of beautiful horses, but Pitt County is gaining quite a reputation for itself among the circles of show horse enthusiasts.

Show horses belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Winslow have brought home a total of 68 ribbons, representing first, second, and third place finishes, in the four years which the Winslows have been showing horses.

The Winslows and Roland Mayo constitute the show horse contingent in Greenville. This group has attended five shows this spring, showing their horses as a team.

Mr. and Mrs. Winslow have three show horses in their stables - "Snow King", "Mighty Chief", and "Captain Kai". Mayo has one horse, "Is Magic", which he shows.

Several national magazines have written articles about the horses. The latest appeared in the June issue of "The National Horseman."

The Winslow stables also have two horses used for pleasure riding only and a young colt now in training for the show ring.

A good show horse is an excellent example of a trained animal, having graceful, sure movements. Judges rate the horses on performance, conformation, and the manners which they exhibit in their act.

All of the four Greenville horses are five-gaited—that is, they are trained to walk, trot, canter, slow-gait, and to rack, or increase their speed and retain their balanced performance.

The horses are given daily workouts on a neat, well-kept track located on the Winslow farm "Sunny Acres". The oval ring is a standard sized track, 100 yards long and 40 yards wide.

Mayo has ridden "Mighty Chief", one of the Winslow horses, in the shows which they have attended this spring. His own horse has been shown by Frances Greene.

Mayo captured first place in the Five Gaited Stake Class in the Wilson Horse Show this year, on "Mighty Chief".

"Snow King" has more potential quality than any of the other horses, according to Mrs. Winslow. "The King" became lame at the end of last season's slate of shows, and has been bothered with a bad leg this spring. His performances in the last two shows are evidence of his recovery.

Winslow's stallion, "Captain Kai", has been in the "Sunny Acres" stables for only two months, but is rapidly taking over the top billing of the Winslow horses. His free motion and easy manner on the track have inspired judges to comment on his performance.

The Greenville horses are not scheduled to appear in another show until the first of August.

"Mighty Chief" (above) won the Five Gaited Stake Class in the Wilson Horse show. He is ridden by Roland Mayo, who has shown him at all the shows attended this spring.

Mrs. Hugh Winslow (above) is astride "Snow King" one of most successful show horses in the Winslow stables. The King has been a member of the "Sunny Acres" crew for two years.

"Captain Kai" (above) is considered to be the greatest potential winner in the Winslow stables. The free style and graceful movements of the black stallion have induced spectators to gaze at him with interest.

Pickel Business Keeps Two Housewives Busy

By MURIEL SHOTWELL

Monday morning usually finds the housewives getting ready for "wash day," but that doesn't hold true for two local women.

Mrs. D. E. Jones and Mrs. J. C. Waldrop have something else to keep them busy on Monday mornings and every morning in the week. The two are busy working on a thriving business that started last year on what they termed as a "shoestring" business.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Waldrop sell cucumber pickles, iceburg green tomato pickles, watermelon rind pickles, and vegetable relish. Their venture into business started when Mrs. Jones' daughter, Mrs. R. J. Roper whose husband is manager of the Chevy Chase Country Club, suggested she sell pickles to country clubs all over the United States and fill individual orders.

Letters advertising the pickles have been sent through the Chevy Chase club to other country clubs and the owners say the results have been good. Last year, the two women sold over 1,000 jars of pickles to people in Greenville and Wilson. The letterheads contain the name "Small Acres Pickles" with the name and address of the business.

"Small Acres" is the home of Mrs. Jones and is located on the Falkland Highway. Adjoining the house is a room where the two ladies prepare the pickles. The room is equipped with a double sink, a stove, and a large table. Over in one corner are boxes of quart and pint jars which reach all the way to the ceiling.

During the first year of business Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Waldrop bought the supplies to make pickles but this year they have raised their own cucumbers, tomatoes, watermelons and vegetables. Helping them in the venture was Willie Graham, a Negro youth. Graham is the "handy man" around the house when he's not planting and harvesting crops.

This year they have already received a large order for pickles from the Evansville Country Club in Evansville, Indiana and they are expecting orders from clubs in New York and other large cities. Both of them said they hope to sell even more than they did last year since they have expanded to a larger scale.

The families of the two ladies are just as enthusiastic about the new business as the women are. Mrs. Jones received a letter from her son, David, wishing them plenty of luck. Someone called J. C. Waldrop on the phone and asked him what he was doing. His answer—"Making pickles!"

Both of the ladies say it is a full time job. Other than seeing about planting and harvesting the products to make the pickles, they have to go through quite a long process in preparing the pickles for sale, ship them, keep books, and keep the orders straight.

"Small Acres Pickles" is another industry in Greenville which was begun on a shoestring and the owners are waiting for large results.

Don (Footsie) Lenhardt, a guy who loves his slumber, was the toast of the sleepy-eyed White Sox today for his game-winning, 19th inning fly ball which sent Chicago into a virtual tie for first place and everyone home to bed.

Lenhardt, who insists "I don't feel right unless I get 10 hours sleep," went "ob-for-eight" in the four-hour, 47-minute marathon last night but the long fly hit to center in the 19th scored Nelson Fox with the winning run and sent the Red Sox down to a 5 to 4 defeat.

There were several White Sox heroes in the victory that brought Chicago to within 1 1/2 percentage points of the first-place Red Sox. Pinch-hitter Ed Stewart delivered a single in the 19th to drive in the tying run and before that blow Floyd Baker, Bob Dillinger and Nelson Fox each hit singles.

Harry Doerr was the winning pitcher after coming into the game in the 14th inning, although he yielded two Boston runs in the top of the 15th and it looked like curtains for Chicago.

Hard luck guy of the night was skinny Mickey McDermott, who hurled the first 17 innings for Boston and left in favor of Harry Taylor, who was the loser. The Red Sox got their 10 runs in the 18th on Bobby Doerr's double, a walk, Clyde Volz's single and two errors.

Last night's game marked a total of 46 innings the two teams played in two days. On Thursday, they played a nine-inning twilight game and then struggled through a 17-inning marathon before Boston won.

Cleveland wiped out a 6-0 deficit to overcome the Yankees, 11 to 8.

Although out of it, 15 to 13, the Indians staged a five-run fourth inning and a four-run fifth. Jim Hegan and Al Rosen each clouted three-run homers as Frank Shea, who suffered the loss, Bob Len in the fifth, relieved Vic Raschi in the fifth, and his ninth victory although he was not around at the end.

Skinny Duane Pilette continued his fine pitching for the Browns by scattering four hits to defeat the Athletics, 5 to 0. Johnny Bero, St. Louis shortstop, aided Pilette with two homers while team-mate Fred Marsh chipped in with a double and a single.

Bob Porterfield, another ex-Yankee, gained his second victory of the season by pacing Washington to a 3 to 1 decision over Detroit. Porterfield strained his back in the seventh and was relieved by Julio Moreno who held the Bengals to one hit in the last two frames.

Brooklyn continued to dominate the National League race with an 8 to 6 triumph over Chicago, despite five Cub homers. The victory, achieved by bespectacled Clyde King who relieved Don Newcombe in the fourth, Carl Larrillo and rookie Dick Williams each homered for Brooklyn.

Grand-slam homers by Wes Westrum and rookie second baseman Dave Williams helped the Giants to a lopsided 14 to 4 victory over the Cardinals. The Giants ripped into Red Manger for eight hits and eight runs in four innings and coasted to the win.

Howie Fox of the Reds hurled his second straight shutout to humble the Boston Braves, 2 to 0, and lead Cincinnati to its fourth consecutive victory. The Reds fashioned their two runs in the third off Mat Surkont.

Homers by Tom Brown and Del Ennis coupled with Robin Roberts' two-hit pitching gave the Phillies a 3 to 2 decision over Pittsburgh. The Phils scored all their runs off Howie Pollet in the fourth inning. It marked Roberts' 11th win against seven losses.

Backstroke Beauty

The excitement of winning in international competition which Maureen O'Brien experienced in taking the 100-meter backstroke title in the Pan-American games served to whet her appetite for a bigger game. The pretty green-eyed brunette from Red Bank, N. J. is more determined than ever to represent this country in the 1952 Olympic games.

Maureen is a worthy successor to the long line of lovelies who hold the national backstroke championship. She is just as pretty as the Eleanor Holms, Kompa sisters, Gloria Callens and equally as capable in the water. She won her first competitive backstroke effort, the New Jersey state championship, four years ago when she was only 15. She won her first

"Booster Night" To Be Observed In Farmville

FARMVILLE — "Booster Night" will be observed at tonight's game between Pinetops and the Farmville Red Sox.

Free prizes and special attractions have been planned for the enjoyment of the spectators. The local Jaycees, who are sponsoring the team, and other supporters of the team have been selling advance tickets during the week.

The Red Sox will be seeking their seventh consecutive victory in the Bright Belt League. They are now resting in third place within the league, after skipping about in fifth

Greenies Test Upswing In Macesfield Series

Greenville hopes for a continuation of its recent upward surge in the Bright Belt League rest on the outcome of a weekend series with Macesfield.

The Greenies divided a pair of games with Ormondville last week and duplicated the feat against Macesfield during the week. They copped a 6-3 decision over Macesfield Wednesday night in Greenville, and then dropped a game the next night in Tarboro to the same team.

Manager Jack Edwards would draw the all-important mound assignment for the series opener in Greenville. Edwards was knocked from the hill in the sixth inning of his last start, against the league leading Ormondville.

The mound chore for the second game will be given to either lefty Leonard Sullivan or righty B. B. Ric's. Ric will probably start in the contest, as he proved himself effective as the right-handed line-up of the Macesfield nine in a relief stint Thursday night.

Ricks took over the fourth inning and went the rest of the way and pitched shutout ball. The little moundsman did not allow the opposing batters a safety over the six innings in which he worked.

Leon Jones, outfielder-catcher for the local nine, will probably lead the Greenies at bat. Jones, who is the contest with a batting average which is hovering around the .600 mark. The slugging Greenie connected for two home runs during the week, a grand-slam in Ormondville and another in Tar-

'Ruff And Ready' Wins Championship At Meet

The Ruff and Ready Negro Volunteer Firemen of Greenville won the "championship belt" and other honors at the 51st North Carolina Negro Volunteer Firemen's convention at Wake Forest this week.

The "championship belt," one of the prized trophies of the Negro firemen's association, was first awarded in 1897. Greenville firemen won it many times.

Wilson had possession of the trophy for two years, but, our firemen managed to bring it back to Greenville, said Capt. LeRoy Barnes, head of the local Negro volunteer firemen.

The Greenville company won first prize in the auto truck race, first prize in the 50-yard dash and first prize for the best decorated float in the firemen's parade at Wake Forest. Greenville teams won second prize in the 100-yard foot race and 100-yard dash.

Three companies took part in the special races—Wilson, Greenville and Wake Forest.

Long distance, 100 yards—Wilson, 19 1/2 minutes; Greenville, 18 1/2 minutes; Wake Forest was not entered.

Grab race, 50 yards—Wilson, 23 minutes; Greenville, 23 1/4 minutes; Wake Forest not entered.

Truck Race—Wilson, 25 1/2 minutes; Greenville, 18 1/2 minutes; Wake Forest, 19 1/2 minutes.

In the 100-yard foot race—Office Clerk of Wilson was first; Simon Hemby of Greenville was second.

Members of the Ruff and Ready Firemen's Company who took part in the races at Wake Forest are: Heber Green, Ernest H. Eaton, Joseph L. Joyner, William O. Hagen, James Adams, Capt. LeRoy Barnes, Alfred Barnhill, Dallas Mayo, James Holliday, Jr., James N. Barnhill, Simon Hemby, Arthur Coward, James Harris, Joseph Jones, William Ward, Clinton Anderson and Herman Jenkins.

Ruff and Ready Company has 18 members. Twelve of them are active and the others are honorary.

The Negro volunteer firemen have an excellent record in Greenville during many years. Mayor

Friday's Cases In Police Court

Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of nine cases in Police Court yesterday, an unusually light docket for a Friday.

Robert H. (Louis) Short, Negro, charged with the larceny of $7 from John Carney, Negro, asked for a jury trial and his case was transferred to Superior Court.

Lillian Ariene Harris of Roanoke Rapids, charged with driving a motor vehicle while drunk, asked for a jury trial and her case was transferred to Superior Court.

Pete Hooks, Negro, possession of non-tax paid whiskey for purpose of sale, $50 and costs and 60 days in jail, jail sentences suspended on condition that he not violate any criminal law for two years.

Bennie V. Willoughby, Negro, non-support, 60 days in jail, sentence suspended on condition that he pay $15 a week for support of his family.

George B. Worthington was fined $10 for not stopping at a "stop" sign.

Ervin Batts, Negro, paid $5 for gambling.

Drunk, Marshall Hardee, $10; Hardy Junior Little, Negro, 30 days, sentence suspended on payment of $10. Thelma Worthington, Negro, was found not guilty.

Barbed Wire Is Strung To Keep Mob At Distance

CHICAGO (UP)—Guardsmen with loaded rifles and bayonets stood behind barbed wire today, preserving the peace at a suburban Cicero apartment building where disorderly crowds prevented a Negro family from taking up residence.

A total of 107 persons faced charges today in connection with demonstrations by as many as 6,000 persons in which 23 guardsmen, police and citizens have been hurt.

The guardsmen won complete control of the situation yesterday by stringing a 300-yard perimeter of barbed wire around the building after riotous throngs threw missiles and firebrands which set two small fires in the wrecked building Thursday night.

Racial disturbances also were reported at Capitol Heights, Md., a suburb of Washington, and at Dallas, Tex.

Moscow's Press Raps Proposed Japanese Treaty

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow newspapers today denounced the proposed American draft of a Japanese peace treaty as "an aggressive step directed against the national liberation movements in south and southeast Asia."

It said the treaty will blow up stormy protests in Asia. (Philippines) Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo said yesterday the draft "filled the Philippine people with disillusionment and dismay."

Investia, the government newspaper, said the opinion of (communists) China and (North) Korea has been illustrated by their official notes to Moscow concerning this "illegally worked out project."

It said India's opposition had been explained by the second All-India Congress of Peace partisans which condemned it in advance.

Demonstrations Are Forbidden

GUATEMALA CITY (UP)—The government today banned two scheduled anti-communist demonstrations for fear they would touch off new riots.

The demonstrations were to be held tomorrow in the cities of Antigua and Zacapa.

From three to six persons were reported dead and more than 20 injured in Thursday's fighting.

The rioting began over the dismissal of Catholic instructors from a national orphanage run by an allegedly communist administration.

Kansas City's Auditorium Flood Victims Gather In corridors of Kansas City's cavernous auditorium filled today with the belongings of the poor, many born poor, and some poor only since their homes were swallowed by flood waters.

Red Cross volunteers worked in four-hour shifts through the night, assigning space, passing out receipts, and recording inventories.

A shining electric refrigerator spoke of comfort. Not far away stood an apple cart containing only a bunch of faded paper flowers, a light bulb, and a whisk broom.

The box stood alone in its area, marked off with blue chalk and with the owner's name and coupon number written beside it.

Each heap of belongings carried its name and its number, matching the listings of the Red Cross volunteers who manned a desk in front of the big doors where battered passenger cars, pick up trucks, and occasionally a large truck delivered their loads.

Beside the door, stood graying Mrs. George Hathaway. She held the leash of a whimpering dog that lay beneath a chair on a bundle of clothes.

"We didn't get out with anything much except jinks," she said. "He's more than 20 years old and mostly paralyzed, but we couldn't leave him to die."

On a table beside a rusted stove lay one shoe—the badly worn, high-topped shoe of a working man. Its mate had been left behind or lost in the dash to safety.

Three Children Found Abandoned In Family Home

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Three children, the oldest of them only four, were found living alone in a house last night and police said their parents evidently deserted them a week ago.

Bernard Orensky Jr., a four-year-old wearing cowboy boots, had been father and mother to his sisters, Linda, three, and Patricia, seven months, officers said. Asked what he and his sisters had to eat, the boy replied: "Fish."

Policemen scrubbed a week's filth off the trio, dressed them and took them to a station house, where they dined three quarts of milk.

Neighbors told police that the mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Orensky, disappeared last Saturday. They said the father, Bernard, went to look for her and never came back.

Not 'Hottest'

Greenville did not have the hottest weather in the eastern section of the state yesterday when the temperature went to 95 degrees during the afternoon.

Raleigh reported 181 degrees, Rocky Mount and New Bern 99. Highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 98. Lowest last night, 72, and at 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 76 degrees.

Rainfall in Greenville yesterday totaled little more than one-tenth of an inch, Mrs. Carl E. Menden, local weather observer, reported.

Highest temperature here yesterday a year ago was 96 degrees. Lowest that night, 73, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 79.

Go To Virginia To Bring Back Accused Man

Detective N. H. Byrd and Policeman Caesar Corbett went to Newport News, Va. yesterday to bring back James King, Negro, who is charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Police allege that King shot Esau-Jah Chapman, 1209-B Pitt Street, with a .22-caliber rifle "during a family row" last Saturday night. The bullet shattered her hip bone. She was still at Pitt Memorial Hospital today.

King will be given a preliminary hearing in Police Court Monday.

Catches Speeder In Long Chase

Motorcycle Patrolman H. B. Lilly of the Greenville police department arrested a speeding motorist for driving 75 miles an hour on Dickinson Avenue yesterday.

The officer charged Page Hatcher, 21-year-old Kinston taxicab driver, with speeding and careless and reckless driving. Lilly said he captured the man in Ayden after a wild chase southward on Highway 11.

Hatcher will be tried in Police Court Monday.

Will Ask Peron Seek Reelection

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—President Juan D. Peron will be urged to seek reelection in two giant rallies scheduled next month by the government-sponsored General Federation of Labor.

The demonstrations will be held in Buenos Aires Aug. 23 and Aug. 24. Peron so far has declined to say whether he will be a presidential candidate in the Nov. 11 election.

GRANT NAVAL BASE WASHINGTON (UP)—Japan has agreed to a treaty giving the United States special rights at the gigantic naval base at Yokosuka, diplomatic sources reported today.

Aldermen . . .

(Continued From Page One) George Crawford, former policeman; and J. R. Tripp, a postman who was a former policeman. Crawford stated that Mobley had "fussed me out" at times when they were working together but "I appreciated it."

Other persons appearing in the Lieutenant's behalf were W. C. Clark, coal dealer; W. O. Moore, oil distributor; Eli Bloom, Municipal Court solicitor; George Gardner, Fire Chief; and Loyd Williams, automobile garage owner.

The only witness called who refused to testify was Miss Ada Jones, probation officer for this area and former Municipal Court clerk She stated she was not qualified except to say that "he's courteous. He's to be judged by the men who work with him, not I," she said.

Mobley, when he was fired from the force, was eligible for retirement, having served on the force for 20 years. He is 54. Next year he would be up for automatic retirement. During his time as officer he was wounded three times, and because of one of the wounds, he has only partial use of one of his hands.

Because of his record, Worthington asked, "Isn't it logical, just and human that unless there is something brought before this group tonight, something that stands out to make him unfit to be an officer . . . something that shows he is a detriment to the force . . . Isn't he entitled to some consideration, that maybe in a hasty moment mistake has been made?"

"Gentlemen, it is not a question of deciding over one man against another, it's a human question," he said.
