Back To Jail For Communists As Thirteen Unable To Produce Bail

Fourteenth Defendant Offers Bail; Acceptability Now Being Considered

NEW YORK (AP)—Thirteen indicted communist leaders were ordered to jail today for the third time when they failed to produce court-approved bail.

The order came from Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff.

Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan yesterday disqualified the Civil Rights Congress bail fund from posting bond and gave 14 defendants until today to obtain the bond from other sources.

Thirteen made no bail application when they appeared before Holtzoff.

An application to put up $10,000 bail for the 14th defendant, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, was made by Miss Grace Hutchins, not further identified.

While the 13 were led from the courtroom, the court turned to the question of whether the bail offered for Miss Flynn complied with requirements.

Holtzoff found the bond offered by Miss Hutchins acceptable and admitted Miss Flynn to bail.

Judge Ryan had rejected bail from the Civil Rights Congress bail fund on the ground that its trustees declined to identify contributors to the fund and had not submitted proof of title to the bonds.

The fund had posted $260,000 bail for the 11 convicted communist leaders and forfeited $80,000 of it when four of them failed to surrender two weeks ago to start serving their prison terms.

When the trustees declined to disclose the source of the fund's securities, Ryan revoked the fund's $165,000 bail in the case of a second group of communist leaders now facing trial on a charge of conspiring to advocate and to teach violent overthrow of the government.

Flood Waters Reach Out To St. Louis; Crest Awaited

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(UP)—River waters reached out for another Midwest metropolis today as President Truman made ready to inspect by air the nation's most costly flood.

Railroad switching yards and river front buildings were inundated at St. Louis as the flood this morning rolled down the Missouri River.

The stockyards were closed and a crest of 40 feet, the third highest in history, was expected at St. Louis Friday.

Mr. Truman was scheduled to leave Washington at 11:30 a. m. (EST) to fly over the $750,000,000 flood-ravaged Kansas City area with Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of Army Engineers.

He will make an aerial survey of the flood as far west as Manhattan, Kan., but was not expected to stop at Kansas City, the hardest-hit sector. Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret will accompany the president from Washington but will get off at Independence before he begins inspection of flood devastation.

A 60-mile stretch of river front was endangered in the St. Louis area and Army engineers called for troops to help strengthen the levees.

Already 10 families on the city's south side had been driven from their homes. Another 50 families on the north side were isolated and were forced to commute to their homes in boats.

Some industries, along the river front closed down and several plants were sandbagging their property in anticipation of the expected high water.

Maj. E. B. Campbell said the critical danger area on the Mississippi lay between Alton, Ill., and Cape Girardeau, Mo. Campbell, acting district engineer of the St. Louis District Corps of Engineers, said disaster crews were on double shifts trying to bolster the levees in that area.

Miami, Okla., was flooded by the Neosho River, which drove 3,000 persons out of their homes and caused $5,000,000 damage. Gov. Johnston Murray declared a state of emergency in Ottawa County, Okla.

The Missouri River had declined more than six feet at Kansas City and the Kansas River more than 11 feet from Saturday's crest stages. As the rivers fall, the water poured out of buildings that it had covered to a height of 25 feet.

Gasoline and oil poured out of ruptured tanks and refineries of the Phillips Petroleum Co., the Sinclair Oil Co., and the Great Lakes Pipe Lines Co., in Kansas City, Kan., creating a "highly dangerous" situation.

"The situation is serious enough that I might order the intercity viaduct (the only road link between the two Kansas Cities) closed," Civil Defense Director Eli Dahlin of Kansas City, Kan., said.

"I don't want a Texas City here. It's so bad we're afraid to see power boats in the area. A spark might touch it off."

But a fire that had burned millions of gallons of oil and at least 24 buildings in an eight-block area partly in Missouri and partly in Kansas was dying out in its fifth day. That fire is about two miles from the broken oil tanks in Kansas City, Kan.

"We believe we have it licked," a spokesman for the Kansas City, Mo., fire department said. "We are still pouring water on it, but the oil slick that has been spreading the fire has been contained between dikes."

The fire, which started last Friday, contributed millions of dollars to the more than $750,000,000 that Pick estimated the flood had damaged the Kansas City area and 100 other towns and cities in Kansas.

In Washington the House approved $25,000,000 in emergency funds for flood relief yesterday. The Senate was set to follow through with prompt approval today. Mr. Truman will sign the bill as soon as he gets it.

Senators Balk

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee voted today against increasing an emergency fund for flood relief in the Middle West from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000.

Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass.), a member of the committee, told reporters the action was "absolutely unanimous."

Saltonstall stressed, however, that the action did not mean that additional funds could not be voted later.

Saltonstall said the committee felt it would be more sensible to wait for complete data on needs and then take whatever action might be necessary.

The House yesterday increased President Truman's request for $15,000,000 to $25,000,000, and it had been expected that the Senate would go along.

Points To Flood As Costly Reply

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) pointed today to the disastrous Kansas-Missouri flood as an expensive answer to critics who call flood control projects "pork barrel" legislation.

"If Congress a few years ago had appropriated $300,000,000 for flood control reservoirs in Kansas," he told a reporter, "we would have least twice that flood loss of it."

Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Chief of Army Engineers, has estimated that the damage will be at least $750,000,000 and may be much higher.

McClellan made the comment in advance of almost certain Senate approval today of a $25,000,000 fund to help finance the relief work which the federal government is carrying on in the flood area.

President Truman asked for $15,000,000. Before it passed the emergency bill without a dissent, yesterday, the House upped the figure by $10,000,000. The Senate Appropriations Committee approved the lower figure before the House acted, but it appeared likely the Senate would also increase it.

McClellan said similar potential flood danger exists in at least 100 other places over the country, and he added: "A flood like the Kansas City flood could happen at any of these places—as at Kansas City, it could be prevented."

Baudouin Takes Belgian Throne

BRUSSELS (UP)—Shy, intellectual King, Baudouin I took the throne today at the happy ending of a bitter, 11-year controversy over his father's role in World War II.

The 20-year-old son of Leopold III stood before a velvet-covered throne in Parliament with right hand upraised and took the oath of loyalty to the Belgian constitution.

Bonus Checks For County Educators Ready July 20

Bonus checks for 364 Pitt school administrators and teachers will be ready for distribution by July 20, D. H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools, announced today.

The checks, or contingency salaries, are based on funds made available out of state revenues through June, 1951. A fund of $8,100,000 was made through the State Board of Education for adjusting salaries of public school teachers, principals, superintendents, and supervisors in the public schools of this state for the fiscal year 1950-51.

Many Encounter Black Shank For First Time

Without Use Of Resistant Varieties And Crop Rotation Even Further Reduction Of Farm Income Would Result

By S. J. WEEKS
Asst. County Agent

Many farmers throughout Pitt County are getting their first experience with Black Shank this year. This deadly tobacco disease is costing Pitt farmers thousands of dollars annually. Without the use of resistant varieties and crop rotation even further reduction of farm income would result.

Black Shank was first observed in Pitt County on the farm of S. O. Worthington, Sr., near Winterville, in 1936. By 1940 the disease had spread to approximately 20 farms in that community. Since 1940 the disease has gradually spread to practically all sections of Pitt County.

At the present time we are observing more new outbreaks than any year since 1946.

The worst infestations are being found where farmers have planted a susceptible variety of tobacco in a field which was infested with Black Shank last year. Some farmers have reported the presence of the disease in fields where Black Shank resistant varieties are being grown this year. However, in the majority of these fields the tobacco is not being grown in rotation with crops that are not host plants to the casual organisms.

Some farmers are finding that their level of infestation is so great

Hillbilly Singer To Headline Fete

Hank Snow, Grand Ole Opry Star, Here For August 15

Hank Snow, a deep sea fisherman turned hillbilly singer, will head the bill of entertainment during the third annual Farmers Day here August 15.

Snow is currently being featured on the weekly Grand Ole Opry program in Nashville, Tenn., where he and his Rainbow Rangers join their musical talents with other hillbillies made famous by the Saturday night jamboree.

The Rangers will play for two shows, one in the afternoon and the finale at night, both in the warehouse which will be named at a later date.

Farmers Day entertainment chairman John Lautner, Jr., stated that in signing Snow and his band for the event, "We have spared no expense to bring to Greenville the best entertainment possible for this year's Farmers Day. We cordially invite all the people of this area to join us in the celebration."

Snow's origin as a hillbilly singer is dubious, having crashed the profession after spending a few years with a fishing fleet off the Grand Banks of Nova Scotia. However, he bought his first guitar at the age of 14 and, having turned fisherman, entertained his fellow shipmates

Senator McClellan Scores 'Pork Barrel' Cries In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) pointed today to the disastrous Kansas-Missouri flood as an expensive answer to critics who call flood control projects "pork barrel" legislation.

"If Congress a few years ago had appropriated $300,000,000 for flood control reservoirs in Kansas," he told a reporter, "we would have least twice that flood loss of it."

Change Of Attitude

All Of A Sudden Russians Like Us; Or At Least They Say They Do; Western Observers Astounded By Switch; How Long Is This Going To Last?

By HARRY FERGUSON

All of a sudden the Russians like us. Evidence accumulates every day that when Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, made his historic broadcast about a cease-fire in Korea he was starting a "peace offensive."

Stalin apparently has come to the conclusion that it is in his interest to ease the tensions temporarily between East and West. That does not mean he has abandoned his idea of world conquest; it means he thinks Russia needs more time to get ready for the showdown.

Henry Shapiro, United Press correspondent in Moscow, cabled a significant dispatch yesterday.

He reported the appearance of a new magazine in Moscow called The News. It is printed every two weeks in English and it seeks subscribers abroad at rates of $1 every six months or 10 cents a single copy. The News is dedicated to the promotion of closer understanding between Russia and the Anglo-Saxon nations. It's first issue contained an article by Alexander Troyanovsky, former Russian ambassador to the United States.

"Western observers almost gasped with astonishment," Shapiro cabled, "upon reading Troyanovsky's affirmation of faith in Soviet-American friendship. For the last few years they haven't been exactly accustomed to reading testimonials to 'American efficiency, creative energy and democratic spirit!'"

Shapiro's dispatch passed through the Russian censors rapidly and unscathed. Frequent stories here evidence of having been slashed by the censors' shears; entire paragraphs sometimes are missing and occasionally the last part of the dispatch arrives in New York while the first part is stopped.

New magazines aren't started in Moscow because some editor has a bright idea. They are started because the government wants it that way. There is no such thing as freedom of the press in Moscow because newspapers and magazines are considered to be an arm of the government's policy. They exist only so long as they serve that purpose.

Investigation Costs

Congress Spent Almost $8 Millions Since 1947 In Committee Investigations; Important Work Has Become Top-Heavy; Recommendations By Experts

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The detective business in congress is running into big money; almost $8,000,000 spent on special investigations since 1947.

This came out last week in a report by a staff of experts on congress, working for the Senate's Expenditures Committee. They do not complain about the number of investigations. But they think they are needlessly expensive.

Congress forever calling the executive branch of the government for more efficiency and economy, acts like an amoeba itself; it multiplies its activities by dividing and re-dividing itself.

It does so by setting up committees to handle this, that and the other thing. Everybody gets into the act. Congress started out with, and will always have, a number of standing committees.

They handle the regular legislative problems of government, like finances, commerce, foreign and military affairs, and so on. But these committees divide up into subcommittees. In addition, special committees are created.

All three kinds of committees makes investigations, since that's one of congress' most important functions; investigations help in lawmaking, checking on the executive branch, and keeping the public informed.

Still, when you pile the subcommittees and special committees—plus all the people hired to work for them—on top of the standing committees and their staffs, you get quite a bundle.

For example, in 1946 the House alone had 110 special or select committees, subcommittees, and standing committees. The Senate had 75.

In 1946 congress, grown top-heavy, reorganized itself. The Senate's standing committees, which had multiplied through the years to 33, were reduced to 15. The House's 48 standing committees were cut to 19.

Now account for this maze of committees which had grown up? In their report the experts explain:

1. Part of it was due to the overlapping and indefinite jurisdiction of committees.

2. Part of it was due to the fact that many committees have no definite jurisdiction.

3. Part of it was due to the fact that many committees have no definite jurisdiction.

Gov't May Act In Cicero Racial Riots

Gov't May Act In Cicero Racial Riots
 CICERO, Ill. (AP)—The government may step into the Cicero riot case, Justice Department criminal attorneys said yesterday.

Federal intervention was discussed as Governor Stevenson ordered home three of the five Illinois National Guard units sent to maintain order around a rock-battered apartment house owned by Negroes.

In Washington yesterday, Justice Department attorneys told the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, that "the Cicero situation is receiving active and careful consideration."

"From the facts developed thus far, there appears to be probable federal jurisdiction. The study of the matter is being carried forward as rapidly as possible."

While three Guard units were relieved of duty, one Chicago Guard company was sent to the scene to supplement the other guards and police. During the height of rioting last week, bayonet-wielding Guardsmen clashed with the rock-throwing, jeering mob. There were 23 injured and before order was firmly established, 117 arrested.

Those arrested appeared in Cicero police court yesterday on charges of unlawful assembly, police magistrate E. Marvin Capouch, continued the cases to August 6.

Handbills advocating white supremacy were distributed inside and out of the courtroom by the White Circle League, an organization whose state charter was revoked recently because of alleged fascist leanings. The handbills paid tribute to "the brave youths of Cicero."

Capouch said the continuances were granted to allow state's attorney officials more time to investigate and prepare cases individually.

Better Breeding Stock Available

Local farmers using the artificial breeding service for dairy cattle will now have available the service of a four-star Jersey bull with 21 credits from the American Jersey Cattle Club.

The bull is Design Signal Forward and was bred in Kentucky and is now serving artificial insemination services throughout the country.

According to Burney W. Baker, local inseminator for the Pitt Artificial Breeding Cooperative, stated "Forward's" daughters have exceeded their dam in production of milk, eight of them testing higher and seven that exceed in butter fat.

Baker went on to say that although "Forward" would be kept at the Indiana Artificial Breeding Association's stud, his semen will be furnished to farmers in Pitt through the Asheville Breeding Association. Both of these studs are American Breeders Service organizations, furnishing high-index proved sire service in 12 of the 23 states served by that organization.

Eisenhower And Top Aides Meet

PARIS (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower met today with his central command chiefs in an important conference to plan the defense of this key western European area.

The meeting brought together top figures in British, French and American military life, including Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery and the British and American commanders in Germany.

Gen. Alphonse Juin, Resident General of French Morocco, who is boss of the big allied army forces assigned to the command, flew from North Africa to Paris for the meeting.

The conference was expected to result in an early announcement that Juin would soon relinquish his African duties to take over the full time job under Eisenhower. This would dispel recurrent reports here that Juin was unwilling to give up his Moroccan post for the Supreme Headquarters command.

Eisenhower announced the make-up of the command in March. But since then Gen. Augustin Guillaume, Commander of French Forces in Germany, has deputized for Juin.

Junin has had his hands full in French Morocco where unrest flared into some violence last winter.

Opinion in allied military circles here has been increasingly in favor of his relinquishing the job and taking over the Eisenhower appointment as soon as possible. The view is held that Juin cannot continue to ride two horses—both of them requiring his full attention—at once.

Youth Sentenced To Reformatory

Leland Evans, 16-year-old white youth of near Winterville, faced four charges when he appeared before Judge Charles H. Whedbee in Police Court Monday.

On charge of breaking, entering and larceny, he pleaded guilty to forcible trespass. He was allowed to plead guilty to temporary larceny of an automobile, and two charges of driving without an operator's license were consolidated. The court ordered Evans committed to East Carolina Training School, near Rocky Mount.

Leo Edward Stocks was charged with non-support, driving without an operator's license, speeding and drinking whiskey in a public place.

Judge Whedbee sentenced him to 60 days in jail for non-support. He suspended judgement on payment of $15 a week for support of his children and is not to violate any law for two years. The court gave him 30 days in jail or pay $25 and costs for driving without an operator's license and not proscribed a similar case. He is not to drive until he obtains a license. For speeding, Stocks was given 30 days or pay $15, and for drinking in a public place, paid $5.

Clyde Ellison, Negro, possession of non-tax paid whiskey, 30 days in jail, suspended for two years on payment of $15 and she is not to violate any law for two years.

Walter Edmondson, assault, 60 days in jail, suspended for two years on payment of $10 and he is not to molest or assault his wife and not to violate any law.

Henry Cummings, Negro, was found not guilty of larceny.

BROWNSVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Miss Minnie Powell was proudly displaying a cut of her great-grandfather, a general in the Confederate Army, when someone noticed he had on a blue uniform.

Strength for the Day

By HARRIET DOUGLAS

THE WAY OF FAITH
What is salvation?
One of the simplest definitions is found in I Thessalonians 5:16. Paul says that God has not appointed us unto wrath, but unto the obtaining of salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ who died for us, that whether we "wake or sleep we should live together with him."
In other words, salvation is oneness with God. It involves belief, but it is more than belief. It is fellowship. Men are saved when their lives are no longer lived according to their own will, but according to the will of God. When every power is yielded to the use of the Most High, when every thought is brought into subjection to His providence, when every desire is mastered and disciplined by the higher desire to do the will of God—then and only then does a man experience the rewards of salvation.
We are to live together with Him. Which means that into the drab and prosaic circumstances of everyday living we are to bring the purposes of the eternal, and into the conflicting motives of life we are to bring the unifying power of divine motives.

One More "Get Tough" Measure

The United States retaliation policy against the Russian satellite nations which evict American government representatives is one which should be followed to the letter.

Last week the Hungarian government announced that two members of the United States diplomatic corps were no longer welcome in that country. Uncle Sam ordered them home, but in turn announced that two Hungarian officials were no longer welcome in this country and sent them packing back to Uncle Joe and his puppets.

The incident is another phase of the get tough policy of American diplomacy. It is one which should be continued and should be made even more forceful. The government should leave no doubt in the minds of the communists that they can not order our diplomats out of their territories without expecting similar treatment of their officials by the United States.

When one considers the number of people the Iron Curtain countries have in the United States solely for the purpose of gaining information about the American government, military preparations and research, it is apparent that the United States should go one step further.

It would not be a bad idea for the United States to take the initiative in this perennial series of diplomatic recalls and request the Iron Curtain nations to take home those individuals who are flagrantly violating their diplomatic immunity for the sole purpose of spying.

With Tongue In Cheek And Pen In Hand

All good things will come to the proletariat, or words to that effect, has been the oft-repeated promise of Conrade Stalin. And from all accounts he made good last July 3, when Josef gave his daughter in marriage and received in turn a bill for $900,000.

Unquestionably it was a great day for Communism everywhere. We poor, frustrated capitalists have been outspent in the very important function of marrying off daughters.

Picture, if you can, the tears of pride and joy in the honest brown eyes of a labor camp inmate on hearing how "uncle Josef" has added new glory to the working class; or the squaring of shoulders in the ranks of the underground in America... they no longer need be ashamed.

Of course, there's always a chance that word of the momentous event will not reach every corner of Russia; or for that matter, every corner of the various nations resting safely behind the Iron Curtain.

For one thing, there's a lot of corners. Another troublesome aspect is the very sticky way a commissar for Truth, Education, Enlightenment and Culture can censor a news story.

News reports indicate only 160 guests attended the magnificent display of proletarian wealth. That figures out to an average expenditure of $6,000 per head in staging the extravaganza. What happened to Svetlana's first husband is anybody's guess. He does not appear to have attended this second wedding of Josef's little darlin'. Perhaps he was miffed. Perhaps he had no head!

We do think that Comrade Josef might have invited more proletarians, a few capitalists and a few established residents of his slave labor camps. After all, they were the ones who ante'd up the coin and deserved representation.

Maybe this is just "sour grapes" because we didn't get an invitation.

But if Josef wants some new wrinkles in how to spend money for Svetlana's third wedding, we've got some wonderful propositions to lay before him... conditionally, that is. He's got to include this "capitalist" in his list of invitations.

Nature Remains The Most Powerful

Man with all his ingenuity, technical skills and construction ability has found that he can not cope with the sheer power of nature when the elements go on a rampage.

The most destructive flood in the nation's history is sweeping down a 400 mile stretch of the Kansas and Missouri river valley driving thousands of people from their homes, crippling business and industry and causing damage well over half a billion dollars.

The United States Congress has approved a vast emergency appropriation to aid in combatting the flood waters and cleaning up the wreckage after the waters subside. The army engineers have been rushed to the scene to help prevent further destruction, and volunteer workers by the thousands are striving to save their homes, their businesses and their towns.

But for all men can do, the waters rage on in utter defiance of man-made obstacles.

In his plight man turns to his fellow men for aid, and then to the Almighty who alone can send the rains and quiet the rushing waters.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The basic purpose—or plot—behind Southern Democrats' anti-Truman strategy for 1952 is to regain for their section the same balance of power in their party which they enjoyed before Roosevelt-Fairley's abrogation of the two-thirds nominating requirement, and which they now exercise in Congress in alliance with the Republicans.

To accomplish that, in their opinion, requires refusal of a renomination to President Truman, or his defeat at the polls if he becomes the Democratic nominee, as now seems likely. Since they do not believe they can thwart a White House-controlled convention of federal office-holders, they are planning and organizing to deprive him of a majority in the electoral college, or to throw the contest into the House.

The best chance for their success, they admit, is for the Republicans to nominate General "Ike" Eisenhower. In fact, some Southern leaders believe he could defeat Mr. Truman in a clear-cut contest, despite the prejudice against voting a Republican ticket behind the Mason and Dixon Line. But the General, they feel, would run so strong in the North, Middle West and West that their surprise reinforcement of eight or ten states' electoral votes would land him in the White House.

While they do not know the military man's views on domestic questions in detail, their attitude is reflected in their general expression that "anybody would be an improvement on Truman!"

FORMIDABLE—The 1952 revolt, they emphasize, is an entirely different and more formidable kind of animal than the Dixiecrat movement of 1948. That anti-Truman thrust was headed by two relatively unknown Governors, and it was based largely on the racial problem. More fundamental differences lie behind the current rebellion.

The more illustrious sons of the South disowned the Thurmond-Wright slate, although they did not campaign for Mr. Truman. Even so, it carried such historically Democratic states as Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and South Carolina. Unless their plans fall, the present organizers expect to add at least Florida, Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia to that list of insurgent commonwealths. Had that number deserted the Misaurian in 1948, he would have been defeated.

Moreover, with General Eisenhower as a Republican candidate, the anti-Truman conspirators do not expect that he will, like Governor Thomas E. Dewey, lose the electoral ballots of such states as Illinois, Ohio and California.

METHOD—The simplest way for this Southern faction to reassert its influence by trouncing Mr. Truman, if he should be the nominee, would be for them to hold a separate convention, and swing behind General Eisenhower en masse. This assumes, of course, that the West European commander wins the GOP honor. "Ike" could be labelled as an "Independent" on the third ticket.

But a less cumbersome and more practical method would be the nomination of numerous "favorite son" candidates on the presidential ballot, as state election laws permit. It could, and probably would, include such names as Senator Byrd in Virginia, Senator Hoey in North Carolina, Governor Byrnes in South Carolina, Senator Russell in Georgia, Senator Smathers in Florida, and so on. They would run definitely and openly as anti-Truman.

In view of the popular temper, it is believed these individuals could carry their respective states, no matter what other names appeared on the ballot. Then, if the Democratic nominee and platform are unsatisfactory, the electors from these states would cast their ballots for Eisenhower when that famous college assemblies at Washington early in 1953.

POPULAR—The South's discontent toward President Truman has been reflected in so many ways that the rebellious leaders in Congress and the State Capitals have no fear for their future. It has been shown in newspaper polls and in public demonstrations. Even Mr. Truman's Capitol Hill friends express concern over their samplings of home sentiment.

The popular and political status of many key figures in the 1948 revolt seems to furnish final proof on this point. When certain prominent Southern Democrats bolted Al Smith in 1928, they were driven from public life almost immediately. The reprisal doomed not only such men as Senator Hefflin of Alabama and Senator Simmons of North Carolina. It extended down to local politicians like justices of the peace. This happened even in the states that voted for President Hoover.

Bet That Scares Him

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Even if you don't have a box at the Post Office, it's worth a trip to drop by there every day. There are so many colorful characters in Greenville, and a large percentage of them are Post Office customers.

Yesterday I ran into Tige Gardner, 802 East Third Street, famous in Greenville for his performances in the Annual Kiwanis Minstrel in the role of Sweeps among the end-men. Tige now sells advertising novelties for a living, out in years gone by was in vaudeville. If you ever see a man in Greenville with a friendly smile, a physique that spells 260 pounds, and a mustache, you'll know it's Tige.

Yesterday in the P. O. Tige said, "Jack, do you ever run low on material for your column?" "I take it," I shot back, "that you don't read the column. Because if you did you'd know that I get low quite often." "Well," Tige said, "just in case you ever run low, you can tell your readers about that catfish that's loose in the Tar River."

"Never heard of it," I said, "tell me the story." Tige obliged. Of all the people who fish in the Tar River, all have heard of this tremendous catfish. He has taken the bait away from all of them. But there is one fisherman, and I'm sorry to say that Tige couldn't tell his name, that was determined to get this fish.

His first step was to get the right-sized hook. First, this fisherman went to the railroad and bought a rail spike. He took this spike to the blacksmith shop and had it molded into a hook.

Then he ordered some steel cable, the kind that is used on a drag line, or to hold elevators. When this came in, he faced the problem of finding a pole big enough to catch this fish.

Finally, he devised the idea of latching his cable to a big sturdy tree, bending the tree down far enough for the hook to sink in the Tar River, and fastening the tree in position to await a bite. For a cork, he used a gallon can, properly sealed. The bait was a three-pound trout.

The fisherman hadn't had the hook sunk over thirty minutes when the big fish bit. He pulled the tree up, and carried the tree, steel cable and all, down the river. The fisherman jumped into his fast, motor-driven boat and chased the fish.

At a bend in the river the fish hung up and was stalled. After struggling for an hour, the fisherman still didn't have the catfish, but he had pulled in 40 pounds of lip.

All fishermen note: There still is a one-lip catfish loose in the Tar River. And I thank Tige.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

PORTRAITS — Attorney General Harry McMillan is rapidly filling the blank places on the walls of his office dedicated to pictures of all his predecessors as attorney general of North Carolina. Latest acquisition is a picture of Christopher Gale, who filled the position about two hundred and fifty years ago. Exact dates of the Gale tenure as attorney general are being sought before the picture is mounted. Mr. McMillan has ascertained that Gale served as chief justice of the supreme court from 1712 to 1717, from 1722 to 1724, and from 1728 to 1731, but exact dates of service as attorney general are presently not known. Incidentally, Mr. McMillan has presented copies of the Christopher Gale portrait to the law schools at Carolina, Duke and Wake forest.

BOOSTER — One of North Carolina's recently acquired new industries has become an ardent booster for the state. The Robotyper Corporation, which moved from Detroit to Hendersonville a few months ago, has issued a neatly printed folder entitled "Your Invitation to Hendersonville." It is that and more. In addition to the invitation for friends to visit the new plant in the North Carolina mountains, the folder pays tribute to climate and other advantages in its adopted home.

PLEASED — Under the caption "We Needed Growing Room," the corporation officials have it to say: "Robotyper's business has increased so much we were compelled to move. We decided that, since we must move, the wisest course would be to find the most suitable location from every standpoint and also provide for future expansion. After careful study we chose Hendersonville, North Carolina. It is centrally located. It has excellent transportation by air, rail, truck and bus. Shipping facilities radiate in all directions. The native labor is highly skilled, loyal and steady. The climate is healthful and pleasant. Living conditions are excellent. Every facility for modern manufacturing is at hand."

CENTRAL — Refuting the idea some manufacturers have had that Carolina locations were off-sets from the main business centers, the Robotyper folks boast that they are now nearly equidistant from New York, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and Jacksonville, "in the heart of the new industrial south." The advantageous geographic location of North Carolina is one of the hardest things for Tarheels to comprehend. De-vite reiterated statements of the fact, the average North Carolina still insists upon being shown by a map of the world that the ports of Wilmington and Morehead city are closer to the big port cities on the east coast of South America than New Orleans or Miami. It also takes a "map to convince most people that Hendersonville is about half way, and on a straight line between New York and New Orleans, not far from halfway and almost on a line between Baltimore and Memphis.

UNDERSTANDING — Special invitation has been issued to all county commissioners to attend Farm and Home Week program at State College, particularly a dinner in their honor on Tuesday, July 31. Object, according to Chancellor John Harrelson, who issued the invitation in behalf of the college, is to get commissioners and extension service folks better acquainted with each other and with their mutual problems. For 40 years, said Harrelson, the college and the counties have co-operated in employment and supervision of farm and home agents. This relationship has been a happy one and has proven profitable. Purpose is to strengthen the ties which are now nearly severed. It is recalled that a few weeks ago Judge Allen Gwyn hailed the commissioners of Burke county into his court to let them see some of the problems confronted there. Joint sessions of boards of commissioners, education, health and other governmental agencies are becoming more common throughout the state. All of which contributes to mutual understanding and better administration of public affairs.

DESPERATE — Report from his mountain snap bean area indicated great dissatisfaction with marketing processes there, and many farmers are barely getting out of harvesting out of their crop.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SPEED UP AIR POWER (Greensboro Daily News)
Air power is our first line of defense; it is also our last one. If we do not maintain a sizable margin of superiority over Russia in the air, we will probably lose our allies and in the long run be destroyed.

This is what makes recent reports of Soviet air strength and intimations of American air weakness so disturbing.

The Soviet Union is said to be producing at present six times as many military planes as we are. That is bad. The quality of their jet fighter planes in Korea is said to be as good as ours. That is worse. It appears to be true that we have been getting the better of the air fighting in Korea, but the explanation given is that our pilots are better than the enemy's. But it is by no means certain that Russia has thrown in her best pilots or her best planes.

Another disturbing factor is the news which leaked out of a supersecret congressional committee that we have only 87 modernized B-36 bombers, which are the planes we depend on to deliver the A-bomb anywhere. Woe ever put this news out may have been worth a battalion of spies to Stalin. But it should spur the country to greater and faster effort.

We need more planes and we need more bases. If we don't get the planes fast enough we are liable to lose what bases we have to Soviet pressure. It is later than we think.

SUPPOSE THIS HAPPENED (New Bern Sun-Journal)
It is commonly believed that the whole responsibility for getting rid of unnecessary government expenditures falls upon Congress and the Administration.

But a third power must bear its full share of the responsibility, too. And that power is the American people who, incidentally, pay all the bills.

Suppose for instance that Chambers of Commerce, civic groups, business associations, labor unions and other such institutions in every part of the country came out for real economy and said, frankly and flatly, that they wanted their states and their communities to willingly accept their parts of the cuts that would follow.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

The textile industries are in trouble. Dozens of cotton and rayon mills that shut down two weeks ago for summer vacations did not open yesterday. Other mills have cut back their work week from six to five, four and even three days. More than 15,000 wool workers have been laid off in Lawrence, Mass., and thousands more are drawing unemployment checks in weaving towns. It's lack of demand.

Government orders aren't as high as they were expected to be and they may be even less if peace in Korea reduces the rate at which uniforms, canvas and parachutes are expended. Civilian orders, through converters, garment makers, wholesalers and retailers to the consuming public are off—way off.

This is what happened: When the Korean war broke out, everybody expected large orders by both government and civilian users. Wool and cotton prices were bid way up, and the higher they went the surer everybody in the industry was that there would be endless high demand. Mills worked two and three shifts six and seven days a week. Manufacturers and dealers bought everything they could. The fact that the public was spending most of its available money on autos, appliances, sugar and coffee didn't stop them. They figured that supplies of these goods would run out and then the public would turn to soft goods. Production in the year since Korea was about 50 per cent higher than a year earlier.

There was some increase in buying of textile products, but price controls and some exhaustion of savings brought the buying panic to an end. Now all down the line from mills to consumer, everybody is fairly well stocked up. On top of that, it developed that wool demand may have been overestimated, and wool reserves underestimated, and now a bumper cotton crop is on the way. Even those dealers who aren't overstocked are holding off in expectation that prices will go lower.

The wool part of the industry was further troubled by a statement by Eric Johnston, director of Price Stabilization, that synthetics could adequately substitute for wool. This closely followed a Quartermaster Corp announcement of a specification for a wool and nylon mixture which, it said, would be as satisfactory as wool.

The wool industry is screaming BANKERS SEE WORK FROM NEW TAX BILL

More than any one else, bankers are watching the progress of the new federal tax bill. Proposed provisions of the bill may vastly increase the work of banks, adding to their payrolls as well as to their taxes. If interest is deducted at the source, it means more work on every interest-paying account. If dividends are similarly levied upon, banks will have added bookkeeping on both their own stock and on bonds, debentures and securities for which banks are paying agent.

and sending telegrams to almost everybody in Washington. Nothing, it says, will ever replace wool; Johnston is doing to the sheep raisers what OPS Chief DiSalle is trying to do to cattlemen. But there's no denying the fact that synthetics are taking a consistently larger part of the textile market.

And there's no denying that many mills are slowed or shut, and that includes mills weaving synthetics as well as wool and cotton.

THUS, PRICE OF FREE MATCHES DECONTROLLED

The Office of Price Stabilization order on match books clearly distinguishes between advertising and—Well, advertising. It exempts from controls those match books with advertising that are given away by hotels, restaurants, etc., as remembrance advertising.

It keeps under price control those matches that are resold, even though they bear advertising.

Thus John A. Doakes orders matches with his name on to give away, they are not under control. But if he orders them to sell or use himself, they are controlled.

WHAT TO DO TO SELL E. P. S.

The General Services Administration is calling attention to the fact that its Emergency Procurement Service is doing the GSA buying for the Economic Cooperation Administration, instead of the Federal Supply Service. Dealers seeking to sell supplies should write to the Emergency Procurement Service, GSA, Room 1618, 7th and D Sts., S. W., Washington, D. C., for a standard bid kit form and details on how to get on mailing lists. Firms on old FPS mailing lists will not get FPS mailings unless they make applications as directed.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—It is just as easy to talk as it ever was.

But have you noticed how much harder it is to get anyone to listen to you?

Try this test: walk up to anyone you know and start talking about any subject under the sun. Just look him in the eye, and keep talking.

What happens? Within 30 seconds a restless look comes over his face. He begins to fidget. Then his eyes gaze, and go out of focus. In a few seconds more he takes off like a sleepwalker, leaving you in the middle of an unfinished sentence.

Why? He doesn't mean to be discourteous. It isn't that what you say is uninteresting to him. He is just a victim of video.

Television has given man a new conditioned reflex. It has tied his eyes and ears together. He can't see anything unless he also hears something at the same time, and he can't hear anything unless he is also looking at something moving.

If there is no action on the television screen, the addict falls asleep. Unless his eyes and ears are bombarded simultaneously, he falls into a coma. The same thing is true when he is away from his TV set, because it has hypnotized him into a new way of life. If you want to hold his attention, you have to grab him both by the eyes as well as by the ears.

Once you know this simple psychological fact, however, it is easy to become an interesting conversationalist.

All you have to do is to put on a simple little eye-catching show, and then the TV fan's ears are open to any message you want to pour into them. For if you've got his eyes, his ears can't get away. He's helpless.

What kind of a show? Well, it doesn't have to be a four-star production. You can hold your man by a few easy card tricks. You can pull out a yo-yo and play with it, and he'll watch, fascinated, while you tell him the story of your life and how your aunt is getting better after her last gall bladder attack.

There is another infallible way. Carry a small live puppy in your hand, while you talk—and the floor's yours for as long as you want. But if the puppy falls asleep, your audience will, too.

The formula is the main thing. You have to register action in his eyeballs. If the worst comes to the worst, simply do a few deep knee bends or hum on a pocket comb. That'll transfix him until you can put over your final point.

One poker-faced insurance salesman I know said his business was dying on the vine until he learned why his sales talks weren't getting across. Then he took up tap dancing. Now, when he sees a prospect, he does a fast back-and-ward, thrums a guitar and sings: "If you want to keep your wife, buy a policy on your life."

He says his success now is phenomenal.

Anybody today can be a real conversationalist if he learns this secret of having both eye-and-ear appeal. The only problem in the future is the development of color television.

unless you are holding a puppy in your hands and wearing a Christmas necktie and a hair.

Washington Letter

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifty years ago in the Village of Arba, Italy, Charles Di Giulian, son of a poor stonemason, had a consuming ambition to explore the house and grounds of the richest man in town.

"It was a mansion on a five-acre estate, surrounded by a seven-foot stone wall," Di Giulian remembers. "The poor kids used to jump over it. He worked the one he got into—and sometimes we'd get our fingers smashed for doing it."

Three years ago Di Giulian flew to Italy and bought the estate. He gave it to the local Catholic church, to be used as an orphanage and school for poor children.

Di Giulian himself lives in a suburban Chevy Chase in a much finer mansion than the one he so admired in Arba. He is still giving away, in the form of church charities, the fortune he toiled a lifetime to acquire.

Di Giulian, born at Arba, Nov. 2, 1894, arrived in the United States July 3, 1910, "worse off than a penniless immigrant—I owed $100." He worked here for an uncle in the tile business. During World War I he served in the 11th Division. In 1922 he founded the Standard Art Marble and Tile Co.

Over the years Di Giulian's company has handled major marble contracts here and abroad. Washington buildings displaying his handiwork include those of the Pan-American Union, American Red Cross, Internal Revenue Bureau, and Justice and Agriculture Departments. He provided the marble for the tomb of the unknown soldier. Currently he has a $300,000 contract for marble work in House.

In 1946 Di Giulian flew to Arba for the first time. He became disturbed over village trends.

"After I had been there a month it became clear to me that the Communists were deliberately stirring up discontent," he says. "I decided that I could help fight Communism and other community troubles by buying the town estate and making it available to war orphans and others in need."

Almost immediately the local Communists began stirring up talk about the strings that probably would be attached to the offer.

The Reds told the townspeople they surely would have to pay dearly in the end for anything I gave them," says Di Giulian. "They also said I was afraid to meet them face to face. Speaking to the public square, I dared them to meet me there at a certain hour. I said I had no gun and no knife, nothing but my good American fists. When no one accepted my challenge, the people of the town began to see what towards the Reds were, and no longer listened to them."

Thousands Of Youths Await Famed Training As Marines

By BELMAN MORIN
CAMP LEJEUNE — (AP)— Within the next two months, thousands of young Americans who never so much as toyed with the idea of joining the U. S. Marines, are going to find themselves wearing that familiar jungle-green.

They will have been drafted and then assigned to the Marine Corps.

The average Leatherneck is a volunteer. As his top sergeants so frequently remind him, he asked for it. But enlistments have not kept pace with the release of reservists, so the Marines are about to begin drawing on the Selective Service pool to get up to strength.

This is by way of being an open letter to those draftees, a slight glimpse of the future.

Well, sir, as you know, the Marines are very tough people, indeed. In the beginning, that's all they will ask of you. The fact that you came into the Corps, via the draft, instead of enlisting will make no difference to them, so long as you can take it without complaining. They have had draftees before, during the last war.

They will give you what they call a haircut. The sand flies in the Carolinas will then follow you around with dog-like affection, nibbling at your scalp. Don't slap at them. The Sergeant will probably growl at you. "Leave 'em alone. They like to eat just the same as you do."

If you drop your rifle once, you will have it for a companion in bed that night. If you drop it three times, you will sleep with the rifles of all the men in your squad—which means that they get the cot.

You will go out on marches of 11, 15 or even 20 miles carrying a full pack. There's at least one 24-hour march in the deal. A few men always have to fall out, but they go until they drop. Brig-Gen.

Lewis B. Fuller, whom we knew in Korea as "Chesty," used to claim that his regiment could march 20 miles, running the last five, and still be in shape to start fighting at the end of it.

The Marines have some unusual ideas about hours. You will be routed out of bed in the dead of night, any time after midnight, for night operations. Training in darkness has been stepped up as a result of the experiences in Korea. But some of it is simply to emphasize the point that soldiering is not a 9-to-5 career.

In these and other ways, the Leathernecks will put you into a level of physical condition that you would never suspect possible.

Having finished boot camp, you may be assigned to Camp Lejeune to finish training. This will be a happy shock.

Lejeune looks like a country club. Yep, some of the toughest fighting men in the world continue training in an environment that resembles nothing so much as a hangout for millionaires. There is not a wooden building in the whole 174-odd square miles. They are all brick, Georgian Colonial separated by great reaches of green lawn and neatly trimmed with flowers.

There are swimming pools, tennis courts, a golf course, and a boat-harbor where they will teach you to sail. The pine forests are teeming with game. The enlisted men's clubhouse has 11,000 square feet of dance floor. The field house gymnasium cost $717,000 to build—and the Marines did it with their own money, not public funds.

So it goes at Lejeune. Everything there is paint-bright in looks and top-drawer in usefulness.

The training is, too. The Marines, as you know, usually are short war boys. Their mission is the amphibious landing, an intricate, dangerous and frequently bloody piece of business. They concentrate an enormous amount of fire power on a small area, churn through the surf with tanks, guns and men, and bull forward, head down, regardless of enemy strength or their own casualties.

This means, in effect, that they are a self-contained army, with their own planes, tanks, artillery, anti-tank weapons, communications and so on. Depending on your own qualifications you may be assigned to any of these branches. You will learn something about all of them.

Having finished, you will belong to a very select body of men. The Marines like to quote an Army man, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, to the effect that they are "the only professional soldiers in the United States."

That's what you will be, a real pro.

Ancient Stones For U. S. Church

MEMPHIS, Tenn. —(UP)— Stones from five ancient centers of Christianity will become part of the altar at St. John's Episcopal Church here.

The stones will come from a 11th century chapel in Canterbury Cathedral, from Jerusalem, from Ephesus, Alexandria, Egypt and from Rome.

The Rev. Alfred Loaring-Clark, rector of St. John's, said the five stones will become part of the mensa, top slab of the altar. In Episcopal churches, there are five crosses in the mensa, symbolizing the five wounds of Christ.

Builds Home On What He Learned

MONTGOMERY, W. Va. —(UP)— William F. Craig, an industrial arts major at West Virginia Tech. knows how to put into practice what he is taught.

In 18 months he built a five-room Cape Cod house in nearby Glasgow, W. Va.

The house cost Craig about $2,900 in material. He did most of the labor himself and figures that saved him $4,000.

Craig drew the plans for his home in drawing class. He built furniture in woodwork class. In plastics class, he currently is working on bathroom fixtures.

500 Guests Go With Honeymoon

Miss Pratt and Elton, were married aboard the SS North American, bound for MacKinac Island at the north end of Lake Michigan.

Go West, Girls, If You Seek A Husband

COLUMBUS, O. —(UP)— Girls looking for a husband would do well to go west where the strong men went a long time ago and still are, a marriage counselor here advises.

This is particularly good advice for the unmarried woman who is no longer young, Dr. Merton D. Oyler, professor of sociology and marriage counselor at Ohio State University, said.

He explained that in the states west of the Mississippi to which the men migrated for the he-man jobs, the larger ratio of men to women that began in pioneer days still exists.

The eastern states, and particularly Washington, D. C., are over-crowded with women in clerical and office jobs, meaning more women than men and reducing a girl's chances of catching a husband, Dr. Oyler said.

Need Men Around
The major reason for many unmarried women being unmarried is that they aren't where the men are available, he explained.

Another counselor believes some spinsters are still looking for husbands because "her expectations are too high, especially in view of what she has to offer."

That is the belief of Dr. H. H. Moore, head of the department of psychology at Arkansas A. and M. College in Monticello, Ark.

He said a study of 176 married and 176 unmarried women showed some interesting facts. He explained:

"The spinster, more often than the married woman, doesn't know what she can get in the way of a mate. Her expectations are too high.

Don't Smile Enough
"And that isn't always good. Impartial judges agreed, in the course of study, that unmarried women over 30 are likely to have extremely homely faces to be masculine in appearance and manner and or to have a severe physical handicap.

"What's more, they seldom smile."

Role Of Americans In Japan Is Now, Changing

By EARNEST HOBRECHT
United Press General Mgr. for Asia
TOKYO —(UP)— The role of Americans in Japan is changing from that of "occupation bosses" to "friendly allies."

The final stage of this transition will come with the signing of the Japanese peace treaty, expected some time this autumn.

The new role will not be easy for some of the old "occupation-ers" to play. There already is ample evidence that the problem is being given top-level consideration in Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters.

After the peace treaty is signed, United States troops will remain in Japan to protect this island nation against aggressors. That is being worked out with the Japanese. They have no military establishment of their own and fear that unarmed Japan might look tempting to some aggressor.

Troops to Remain
Many of the troops now here as part of the occupation forces undoubtedly will still be here as Japan's first allies.

The official change will come overnight but the actual change already is in progress.

As occupation forces, the United States troops had to run the show. That was the way it had to be. The Allies had to have full power over the Japanese.

Conditions will be vastly different once the peace treaty is signed and Japan is again a sovereign nation.

In many ways, the signing of the treaty is going to mean a turning of the tables. The Japanese will be running their own country and the Americans and other foreign-ers here will have to abide by the Japanese rules or get out.

The people who now are big occupation officials will be able no longer to give orders to the Japanese. American officials here will not have the backing of thousands of troops to enforce their wishes.

For Protection Only
The United States troops here will be in Japan as friends of the Japanese, to protect the Japanese, not to make them obey.

Officials said there probably will be a special indoctrination course for all United States troops maintained here in Japan. The purpose will be to impress upon them the new role they are to play.

Occupation officials generally feel that everything will work out smoothly. The Americans have been very good to the Japanese throughout the occupation.

Millions of dollars have been spent by the Americans since the end of World War II to feed and clothe the Japanese people.

Looking forward to its changed role of Americans in Japan, one officer put it this way:
"I will welcome it. We Americans would much rather be friends than conquerors."

NEWBURGHPORT, Mass. —(UP)— For a while nobody was quite sure just where Mrs. Anastasia Surette had lived.

A county hospital sent the City of Haverhill a $9.50 bill for treatment of Mrs. Surette. Haverhill paid but some officials thought the woman was a resident of Salisbury and that town was sued for the bill.

No-Hit Hurlers To Start In Openers

Crucial Series To Pit Red Sox With Indians And Yankees Against Chicago; Feller And Reynolds To Start Series Off

By STAN OPOTOWSKY
United Press Sports Writer

A pair of no-hit pitchers can begin unscrambling the American League race tonight—or mix it up more than ever.

Two crucial series begin. The first-place Red Sox meet fourth-place Cleveland in three games. The second-place Yankees meet third-placed Chicago in three. Cleveland and the White Sox one game.

The Indians are the hottest team of the moment and throw no-hit Bobby Feller against Mel Farrrell to start the fireworks display at Cleveland. Another no-hitter, Alie Reynolds, goes for the Yanks against Sol Rogovin, who pitched 17 grueling innings against Boston his last time out.

The Indians have come with the fastest rush this month. In their last 20 games, they've won 16—and one of the losses was Reynolds' no-hitter. The Red Sox have won 14 of 20, the Yankees 10 of 20 and the White Sox nine of their last 20.

The 'age was set for the showdown series yesterday when the leading Red Sox lost and the contending White Sox, Yanks and Indians won.

A seven-run spurge kayped the Sox for the Browns 9 to 5; a 15-hit assault gave the Sox a 9 to 5 win over the A's; the Yanks were out-hit by 15 to 8 but still beat the Tiger 8 to 6; and Steve Gromek's seven-hitter won for the Indians over the Senators 5 to 2.

The Red Sox took a 2 to 0 lead on Ted Williams' 14th homer in the first inning, but a single and two doubles tied it in the fourth. In the fifth Boston led again when singles by Johnny Pesky and Williams, Ken Wood's error, Vern Stephens' double and Bobby Doerr's single made it 5 to 2. In the fifth, however, 12 Browns went to bat for seven runs and Al Widmar's first win since May 25.

Dut Lenzhardt got a homer, a double and a single and Orestes Minoza hit a homer for the White Sox. Lou Klein and Al Clark homered for the A's.

The Yanks got six of their runs in the first two innings, but didn't win until they got another in the seventh on Hank Bauer's walk. Yogi Berra's single and Johnny Mize's fly. Joe Collins homered in the ninth. Gromek threw only 80 pitches as Luke Easter homered twice for five runs and Al Rosen twice for two more runs in the 11th.

Earl Erskine's two-hitter—it was a no-hitter for seven full innings—ended the Dodgers' four-game losing streak and the Reds' seven-game winning streak 11 to 2; Wes Westrum's second homer of the day gave the Giants a 7 to 6 win over the Pirates; Tommy Brown's bases-loaded triple topped a five-run eighth inning rally to give the Phils a 5 to 2 triumph over St. Louis; and homers by Sam Johnston, Earl Torgerson and Sid Gordon beat the Cubs for the Braves 9 to 4.

Jim McGee Leads Little League In Batting At .464

Jim McGee, pitcher-shortstop for the Moose, leads the Little League in batting in games through July 12th.

The husky Moose has piled up a sensational .464 average in 28 times at bat. He has collected 13 hits and crossed the plate 11 times.

Billy Sermons of the Moose is second in the individual batting with a .424 average, with 14 hits in 33 attempts. Ike Riddick is third with a .408 percentage, followed by Garrett Folger at .371. The Elks' Joe Moye rounds out the top five with a .368 average.

The remainder of the top ten contains Donald McArthur of the Exchange with .357; Merrill Bynum of the Elks at .342; Angus Duff of the Exchange with .324 and Bobby Whitehurst of the Exchange at .324; and Hudson Miller of the Jaycees with a .324 batting average.

John Ed Arnold of the Jaycees and Frank Nunn of the Exchange are tied for the pitching lead with identical 3-0 records. Charles Rumley is next with a 7-1 record, the most victories chalked up by any one hurler.

The Elks lead the league in both team fielding and team batting. They have recorded a .924 fielding average and a .256 team batting average.

The remainder of the teams batting is: Moose, .254; Exchange, .248; Kiwanis, .226; Jaycees, .188; and the Lions with .158.

The Jaycees are second in the team fielding with a .919 percentage, followed by the Exchange, .910; Kiwanis, .869; Lions, .864; and the Moose with a .788 percentage.

The party shown above caught a total of 30 Dolphin and eight large Amberjack in the Gulf Stream Sunday. They were fishing from the cruiser "Dolphin II," under Captain Jack Lewis. The group was composed of: Hubert Crawford, Carl Crawford, R. R. Nobles, Charlie Bynum, Elbert Bynum, J. E. McLin, Beverly Rice, and Clarence Roberts, all of Greenville; Harold Wingate of Bath and Earl Dunn of Morehead City.

Ezzard's Prestige Hinges On Bout

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles was under double pressure as he broke camp and came into Pittsburgh today for his title fight with 37-year-old Jersey Joe Walcott tomorrow.

Dusky, mustachioed Ezzard must not only keep his title in the scheduled 15-rounder, but he must give wily Joe a thorough beating in order to increase the slight prestige he earned in eight previous defenses.

Charles knows that the public has not yet accepted him wholeheartedly as successor to the once-great Joe Louis. And he knows he did little to encourage that acceptance in two previous title bouts with ancient Walcott. He had to be content with close decisions.

Because of the pressure, Ezzard was in a savage mood during his final three rounds of sparring yesterday at Ligonier, 55 miles up in the Laurel Mountains. He punched viciously against Dale Hall, Buster Gordon and Lloyd Gibson. Gordon was staggered twice.

Charles was unimpressive in beating Walcott at Chicago in 1949 and at Detroit last March, because he was too careful against the old timer. He was careful because Walcott had floored Joe Louis three times in two title fights. Despite his age, the bull-shouldered Negro from Camden, N. J., still is a dangerous righthand puncher.

But Ezzard, in his final pre-battle statement today, declared he was ready for a "shoot-the-works" fight this time. He said Walcott in his fifth and probably final try for the title would try for a quick knockout.

The sleek, statuesque champion said he would use tomorrow night the same savage attack that battered light-heavyweight champion Joe Maxim into submission at Chicago Memorial Day. Ezzard won a top-sided decision over Maxim after the most impressive performance of his career.

Because of his speed and skill, Charles was favored at 3 to 1 over Jersey Joe.

Ormondville Splits Two With Fremont

ORMONDSVILLE—Ormondville and Fremont divided a split doubleheader over the week-end, with the league leaders taking the first game, 14-0, and Fremont winning Sunday, 9-1.

Darrell Worthington hand-cuffed the visiting Fremont nine with only one hit over the nine inning route in Saturday's game, played at Fremont. The young right handed pitching star was not in serious trouble at any time during the game.

Three runs in the first inning gave Worthington all the lead that he needed to work behind. Ormondville turned the game into a pitched for six runs.

Marvin Hughes led the winners at bat with four singles in five attempts. Ed Couche collected two doubles and a single in five times at bat.

Bob Grimsley reached Worthington for Fremont's only single.

Wayne Hooks led Fremont to a 9-1 victory in the second game with a home run and a single. Hooks' homer came with one man on the base to give the winners a 2-1 lead in the fourth.

Sam Stell and Stuart Tripp headed the losers eight hit attack with two safeties in five attempts. Stell rapped out a double.

Jimmy Byrd was the starting and losing pitcher. He was relieved by Doug Bruton in the eighth inning when Fremont scored three runs.

Cliff Barnes chalked up the win. The former Wilson Tob hurler was not in serious danger after the first inning when Ormondville

Rookie's Yankee Debut Is A Flop

DETROIT (UP)—Rookie Art Shallock's debut with the New York Yankees was a flop.

The Pacific Coast League left-hander who was purchased from Hollywood in an attempt to bolster the sagging champs displaced Mickey Mantle on the roster and got his first chance against the Tigers yesterday.

He started the game, but left in the third inning after he gave up seven hits and four runs. Shallock was not charged with a defeat, however. The Yanks came from behind to win 8 to 6.

Rehm Takes Over Reins Of Wilson; Antolic Released

WILSON—Al Rehm took over the managerial reins of the Wilson Tobs last night.

Rehm, veteran shortstop of the Tobs, succeeds Catcher Joe Antolic, who started the season as a playing manager. Announcement of Antolic's release and of Rehm's temporary appointment came yesterday from Tob owner L. C. Boykin.

Wilson is currently in fifth place in the Coastal Plain League after a slump which saw the team drop 18 out of 21 contests. They currently have a record of 39 wins and 38 defeats.

Boykin also stated that outfielder Russ Morrow had been signed to play. Morrow, who managed the Tobs in 1949, was released by Mooresville of the North State League last Friday.

Chapter 4

Betsy awoke that morning and lay still for a long time, as consciousness began to sweep through her. And then, as she came fully awake, the realization crashed upon her.

Pete was coming home today! His train was due at ten o'clock. She got under the shower, toweling herself vigorously.

She had yearned for the moment when she could stand before Pete, and see the look of delighted surprise in his eyes. His letters had told her that he still thought of her as a long-legged, scowling brat with braces on her teeth and carrot-colored hair. He wouldn't know that her skin was darkened until now she wore pink and it was vastly becoming. He wouldn't know that her skin was clear and fresh, faintly tinged with a very becoming tan. Pete would not know anything about her. And suddenly it seemed to her an unbearable thing that to him she would always be just an awkward, freckle-faced child.

Her mother's voice called up to her:

"Betsy, aren't you ever coming down for breakfast? Esther's made waffles and they're grand."

"Be right with you," she called back, trying hard to sound gay and casual.

She got into a blue and white print dress left over from last summer. It had faded a bit in the wash, and was one of the cotton dresses she kept for work in the garden, or when she was "playing around" with the gang on the weasels that did not require formal dressing. She brushed her hair back carelessly, thrust a comb into it made a face at herself in the mirror, and went down the stairs.

George standing with Edith at the door, was leaving for the office. He grimaced at Betsy.

"Hi, chum," he greeted her. "You look about ten years old."

She tried to smile at him, muttered something, and went into the dining room. Edith and George exchanged anxious glances.

"Oh, how I've dreaded this day!" Edith confessed.

George nodded. "I know. Thank the Lord it's only twelve hours long. His train gets in at ten?"

"Yes, Mrs. Marshall said he'd rather not be met with a recep-

Town Will Keep Its Way Of Life

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UP)—This rugged border city has slammed the door in the face of certain types of business and opened it wide for others in what the Board of City Development termed its way of pre-venting "a vanishing way of life."

A spokesman for the board, which is municipally sponsored, said:

"Brownsville is about the last place in the world where a man can live the way he wants to. We aim to keep it that way."

The city is near the mouth of the Rio Grande, at the tip of Texas and adjacent to Matamoros, Mexico. The board said a survey revealed more than 100 "good opportunities" for professional, light industries and businesses.

But, a spokesman said, specifically the town had "no room" for promoters, smog producing factories and enterprises contributing "to the entertainment and social order that has been typical of other southern areas."

"Yes," the spokesman said, "we mean we don't want the gambling and racketeering of California and racketeers of California and Florida."

"We welcome visitors like any friendly place but we're not about to build a tourist trap."

Driver Unhurt In Accident When Car Turns Over

A Negro man escaped injury yesterday morning when his car tumbled over on the Old Tar Road just out from Greenville.

Patrolman Delton E. Perry, who investigated the accident, listed the driver as William Myler Taft, 203 East First Street, Greenville as the driver.

Perry stated that the driver told him that he was headed towards Greenville from Winterville, and swung his car in order to avoid a mud hole in the road, and that the car turned over.

Damage to the car was estimated at around $300. No charges were filed against the driver, Perry said.

Watching her, Betsy suddenly felt trowsy, in her last summer's cotton dress, her mahogany colored curls gullible of a hat, socks and scuffed saddle-shoes on her feet. She flushed as she went to meet Mrs. Marshall who greeted her affectionately and carefully veiled her look of disapproval.

"Well, Betsy, our long wait is over. Our boy is coming home. Won't it be grand to see him again?"

"It would be even grander if he could see us," muttered Betsy, and caught her lower lip hard between her teeth.

"Betsy, you must pull yourself together," Mrs. Marshall said it quietly, but there was a note of sternness in her voice. "We've got to treat Peter exactly as though nothing has happened. We must not break down. He needs our comfort and our cheer—not our tears!"

Betsy tossed her head and said huskily, "If course—" But her words were cut off by the sound of a train whistle.

Mrs. Marshall gave her a glance that was almost hostile, and then turned as the train sild to a halt.

Mrs. Marshall walked a few steps away from Betsy, who stood as though rooted to the spot. The conductor swung down and a young man appeared at the top of the steps—a tall young man much thinner than Betsy had been prepared to see. He was still in uniform, with the bars of a lieutenant on his shoulder, and his thin face seemed paler because of the dark glasses that shielded his eyes.

"Hello, there, son!" Mrs. Marshall called out.

Python Objects To Mirror View

MILWAUKEE (UP)—The 22-foot python at Milwaukee's Washington Park Zoo went on strike against a mirror installed over his pool to give visitors a better view of the big snake.

The python sulked and refused to go near the pool. Zoo authorities said he apparently was afraid of his reflection in the mirror.

After two weeks, the python succumbed to the tempting water and slithered back into the pool. However, he kept his head out on land where he couldn't see the mirror.

A training school and workshop was conducted yesterday for 4-H Club members in long-time record keeping.

The workshop was conducted in the Home Agent's Laboratory by Helen Hicks, assistant home demonstration agent, to instruct 4-H Club members in keeping accurate records on achievement and 4-H work throughout 4-H participation.

Girls attending were shown how to write their achievement in short story form, how to keep an accurate record on financial gain made in preparing meals and making clothes, and how to mount ribbons and certificates.

Convicts In Cells After Big Riot

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP)—Five subdued convicts stirred restlessly in barren, solitary cells today while officials proved their bloody attempt to free 10 dangerous criminals from the Colorado State Prison.

Two guards were wounded, neither seriously, in the fighting that broke out yesterday when the five convicts, brandishing knives and a revolver, tried to spring 10 prisoners from isolation cells.

The 10 included incorrigibles placed in solitary for bad behavior.

Heavily-armed guards trapped the five convicts in a cellhouse and quelled them with a torrent of tear gas.

The prisoners held five guards as hostages for a short time. During the 45 minute uprising, Warden Roy Best said the escape plot was planned by Harold Hathaway, Pueblo, Colo. robber with a long record of prison rebellion. He is among the 10 in the isolation cells.

Chet Yeo, a captain of the guards, was shot in the back after breaking loose from the convicts. He was wounded twice before in previous raids at the prison. Guard Amon Murley suffered arm and leg wounds from a ricocheting bullet later while the trapped convicts exchanged gunfire with guards.

Peace Gestures Still Mask Vulture Of Criminal Communistic 'Purges'

By JOHN FISHER

The peace gestures should not blind us to other aspects of Communism.

Two of the most terrible and dangerous characteristics of the Red system are its aggression and its oppression—each used whenever possible. The first peril may be lessened for a time, at least in northern Asia.

But, simultaneously with waving a cubious olive branch in Korea, Stalin has ordered his European slave-masters to re-apply the last to non-Communists in Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Bulgaria and Rumania. Through a series of mock trials and mass deportations, unnumbered thousands of innocent people are being crushed.

"This fresh display of wickedness reveals the utter hypocrisy of the Krem! crew. Had they been sincere in their recently expressed desire for the free world's goodwill, they would have called off their curs in Prague and, in reproof, would have released William N. Oatis, the doomed American correspondent.

But the martyred newspaperman was flung into a dungeon at the very moment that home-sailing

Malik gave a farewell plug for friendship between Americans and Russian Communists.

Was Stalin in earnest about easing tension, he would set free Archbishop Groez. Instead, his Hungarian tools are engaged in one of the most cruel deportations in history, tearing "non-productive" elderly men and women from their city homes and dumping them on the countryside without means of support.

Korean Armistice Does Not Ease Menace

Wise statements were against the assumption that a Korean armistice will greatly mitigate the Communist menace. Until Communism is defeated or the hearts of its leaders are changed, they predict, the Reds will continue to terrorize any individual or nation in their claws.

The Budapest forced migration could happen here, if the Reds had their way, for it happened in the Baltic and is spreading into Poland, Bulgaria for the army. The infant outrages morally. But the callous Reds don't care a fig for the conscience of the world.

Their purpose is three fold: 1. Oust the "unproductive" from munition plant cities so war workers can occupy the vacated dwellings. 2. Eject "unreliables" from metropolitan areas lest in war they become centers of revolt. 3. Work the evicted to exhaustion on farms to food reserves for the army.

The irony is that the Communists, who pretend detestation for fascists, are using in Hungary decrees passed in 1939 and employed by the Gestapo in driving Jews from their homes.

The victims of the current secret police are described as "remnants of rotten liberalism with roots in the past"—retired government employees, including policemen and army officers, persons on old age pensions, returned exiles, Social Democrats, Titoists and bourgeoisie.

Dirty Work After Dark

The kick-off purge was on the night of May 21 (th MVD always does its dirtiest work after dark). Just before dawn Budapest germans roused from sleep more than 7,000 old folk without previous notice and ordered them to be ready for evacuation trains within 24 hours and to take a three-day food supply.

The first batch was shipped to the eastern provinces of Hajdu and Somok. Some of the arrivals are billeted on peasants that are without money, the feeble aged must do heavy farm work to earn enough to keep from starving.

Fear of further deportations has precipitated a wave of suicides, the desperate preferring the grave to fresh persecution. But poison is hard to obtain. The death toll of elderly people in prison colonies is high.

A companion forced transportation is in Poland. Members of the non-Communist middle class in Warsaw, Cracow and Poznan and other big centers are removed and sent to fend for themselves in rural areas. "These criminal elements," explained the Red press, "had to be transferred from our large cities in which creative work is being done."

Uprooted From Homes

Hundreds of families are seized and sent to villages that cannot house the food. The migrants are forbidden ever to return to their former homes. As they are untrained, they are untrained and often unfit for farm labor.

Polish peasants are reluctant to hire the newcomers. Farmers already are in trouble with the government over their resistance to collectivization. City bureaucrats not only tried to enforce collective farming but also shipped poor seed which growers refused to plant. Angry peasants have destroyed crops, wrecked state-owned machinery and secretly slaughtered their livestock.

Hence they have scant food or jobs for deportees and, in some cases, they are afraid that a display of friendship for the outcasts will be reckoned as another crime and charged against them.

So pitiful is the lot of the castaways that Cardinal Szepeles, a sick man, dispatched a special message urging village priests to arrange aid for the hungry, homeless wretches. For this act of mercy he was denounced and threatened by the Communists.

Genocide Rules Supreme

A third massive expulsion is in Rumania. "Unreliable" inhabitants are evacuated from a wide belt near the borders of Yugoslavia to prevent them from spying on the frontier maneuvers of the truculent Rumanian army. Lesser evictions are in Prague and Bratislava in Czechoslovakia and in Sofia, Varna and the Kulu district in Bulgaria.

The Bulgarian population shift is double-edged. City suspects are moved to the country. Property-owning peasants, who resist collectivization, are over-taxed, if they cannot pay the levy, their land is confiscated. Then, to save themselves from being forced into slave labor gangs, the refugees flee into Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia.

These various new phases of genocide are repetitions of the horrible mass deportations that in three successive waves — 1941, 1945-46 and 1949—depopulated the Baltic states. Hundreds of thousands of Lithuanians, Estonians and Latvians—men, women and children of all social classes, even deposed Communists—today either are slaying in Arctic concentration camps or have died from over-work, hunger, cold or torture.

Such is the Red vulture now posing as a dove of peace.

Market Basket Costs Doubled

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics says a market basket that cost $10 in 1939 costs a housewife $22.75 today.

A BLS study of Arnyessa Joy Wickens, deputy commissioner of the bureau, lists these food items which a housewife could buy for $10 in 1939:

- Ten pounds flour
- Five pounds sugar
- Fifteen pounds potatoes
- Two loaves bread
- Seven quarts milk
- Six pounds rib roast
- Two pounds bacon
- Two pounds butter
- One package rolled oats
- Two dozen oranges
- One pound coffee
- Five pounds cabbage
- Three pounds green beans
- Two pounds veal cutlets and pork chops

One can salmon
Three pounds onions
Three pounds cheese
Two dozen eggs
Three pounds apples
Two cans tomatoes
Two bunches carrots
One can peaches
Two cans peas
One head lettuce
One box dried prunes

At today's prices, $10 goes only this far:

- Ten pounds flour
- Five pounds sugar
- Fifteen pounds potatoes
- Two loaves bread
- Seven quarts milk
- Six pounds rib roast
- One pound bacon

You have 23 cents left over after buying this market basket, Mrs. Wickens said, but that won't get you even a pound of green beans today.

Attlee Gov't Defeated In Vote

LONDON—(UP)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor government was defeated by three votes in the House of Commons last night—the fourth such setback this year.

Opposition members cheered and called for the government to resign, but majority leader Clutter Ede indicated the government did not regard the vote as one of confidence.

The defeat came on a Tory amendment to a forestry bill which was carried against the government 223 to 229.

Strenuous Role Awaiting Betty

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Vivacious film star Betty Hutton rehearsed for the most strenuous singing role of her career today after recovering from a throat operation doctors feared might ruin her voice.

Miss Hutton underwent surgery to remove a corn from her vocal cords early in June and was forced to remain silent for two weeks.

She reported to Paramount studio yesterday to begin work on a picture in which she will perform 40 musical numbers.

Brothers United After 63 Years

AULT, Colo. (UP)—The six Jerenlassen brothers held a reunion here for the first time in 63 years.

They hadn't been together since 1888 in Aarhus, Denmark, when the eldest, Jens, now 88, left home to come to America. The youngest, Neils, now 66, was only three then.

All six, Neils, Jens, Ross, 80; Sam, 78; John, 73; and Jacob, 68, were together at the reunion, along with 28 children and grandchildren.

Only a sister, Mrs. Marea Foss, of Denmark was missing.

Establish Mark In Tax Action

CHICAGO—(UP)—State legislators this year have set a new record in passing tax legislation, the Commerce Clearing House reported.

It said the 44 legislatures in session approved more than 800 bills relating to taxation.

The information service reported, moreover, that there are strong possibilities that special sessions will be called later this year to consider additional tax legislation.

Not all the bills increased taxes, but a spokesman for the CCH said a large percentage did. Others, he said, tightened enforcement of existing laws and eliminated loop holes.

RIGHT AT HOME

REICHMOND, Va. (UP)—The man who broke into the home of E. E. Baldwin loved comfort. Baldwin told police the man drank all the beer in his icebox and took a nap in his bed.

Beat Three Raps But Lost Fourth

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—You just can't win.

Police arrested Edward L. Noes and charged him with drunken driving. Noes, however, was sitting in the driver's seat of his car and was being towed home when the officers came along.

The judge ruled that he could not be charged with drunken driving if he was sitting in a car that was being towed. The judge also ruled out police charges of driving without an operator's permit and of having no tail light.

There was one catch. Noes was fined $75 for being drunk.

Compare Work In Training Blind

A review of the work carried out by blind training schools, in North Carolina and in New York, was featured on the program of the local Lions Club last night.

The program was given by Mrs. Sula Carr, a resident of Greenville, and now instructor in the New York Institute for the Blind.

Mrs. Carr compared the training given in New York to that found here in North Carolina, which is about equal, the teacher stated.

"Many people think that it is hard to teach blind children but that is not the case? With text books especially prepared for them they can follow along as rapidly as any normal student," Mrs. Carr stated.

"Nearly every form of sports, including ball games are carried out at the school with a high degree of success the teacher said. These types of games aid the children to gain confidence in themselves and train them to depend on themselves."

Mrs. Carr was introduced by Bob Pearce who was in charge of the program.

Guest of the local club last night was Jim Taylor, manager of Rose's store.

Following the regular club meeting, a monthly board of directors meeting was held.

Rotary Of 83 Nations Said United In Work

Rotary clubs in 83 countries throughout the world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace, asserted David M. Britt of Fairmont, governor of district

David M. Britt

Since the program was begun in 1947, 284 fellowships have been awarded to students in 42 countries, with grants totaling more than $700,000. "Devoted to service, Rotary provides a common ground for 350,000 business and professional executives throughout the world, regardless of nationality or political or religious belief," the district governor declared. Britt was presented to the club by President Charles A. White who presided at the meeting. Guests of the club at the meeting were Joe Knight of Charlotte and Phil Moore of Greenville. Curtis Flanagan of Farmville was a visiting Rotarian.

Charge Woman Assaulted Child

A warrant was issued by police today against Luisa Mae White, Negro, charging her with assaulting Millard Taylor Jr., seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Taylor, 1009 Fairfax Street. The youngster's back from shoulders down was badly bruised and showed evidence of a hard instrument being used, police said. They quoted the boy's father as saying the woman whipped the two other children, Willie Ervin, five, and Carolyn, four. Millard Jr. said the woman threatened him and warned him not to tell his mother or father. The child's parents are employed at Greenville Mills, Incorporated. The father said they hired the woman to work at their home five days a week, to cook and look after the children. Taylor said when he went home yesterday he took the hired woman home, but did not know about his boy being whipped until he returned home. The case against Luisa Mae White will be tried in Police Court tomorrow morning.

Graduates From Farm Bureau Training School

Mrs. Thelma Hardee of Rt. 4 has returned from Louisville, Ky., where she graduated from the Farm Bureau Training School for the southern region. Mrs. Hardee attended the school during July 8-11 and graduated with 16 other North Carolinians.

Denies Interest Padlocked Place

B. B. Hardy, a resident of the Pacotus community, has denied having any ownership in the Pacotus Honky Tonky which was ordered padlocked by Solicitor W. J. Bundy recently. In an answer to the padlocking proceedings against Hardy and Andrew Ward, alleged operators of the place, Hardy stated he has no interest in the night club except insofar as his membership in the Oddfellows Lodge is concerned. The lodge rented the building to Ward, Hardy stated in his answer, and as far as he knows there has been no disorderly conduct on the premises as alleged in the original order by the solicitor. He stated that he had been on the property several times but has never seen any of the acts complained of in Bundy's order. The Oddfellows Lodge, he said, erected a sign on a wall of the building which warns patrons not to be disorderly. The sign states: "No cursing. No profane language. Do we will see Mr. Jenkins (a Justice of the Peace) and see what he says about it. If you do you'll see it again and pull time and pay a fine. Take your choice. Pull time or in jail or pay a fine or pull time." Speaking for the lodge, Hardy stated that since the place was padlocked, the members cannot meet. He is asking that a judgment be entered in superior court saying that he has no interest in the property and is in no wise connected with its operation.

Edwin L. Clark New Chairman Of First Aid Work

Edwin L. Clark was named first-aid chairman recently by the Pitt County Red Cross chapter. Clark is arranging first aid classes in the county and securing instructors for the classes. He is also chairman of the Red Cross water safety program. At present, Clark is acting as assistant instructor in the first aid class being taught at the West Greenville School. He has urged that all persons who are qualified to instruct classes to contact the Red Cross if they are willing to teach a class in first aid.

Vagrant Held In Brutal Slaying Of Watchman

CHARLOTTE — (UP)— Earl Francis Kraai, 41-year-old vagrant, was held without bond today after a police court ordered him bound over for grand jury action on a murder charge in the death of a night watchman. Kraai was accused in a warrant signed by Police Chief Frank Littlejohn of beating and shooting Claude D. Brady to death last Wednesday. Officers found Brady's watch and good luck charm in Kraai's pockets. One of Kraai's fingerprints was on a flashlight used to bludgeon the night watchman, they said. Kraai, his head shaven, appeared calm at the hearing. He was not wearing handcuffs. The swarthy itinerant laborer refused an opportunity to question officers who recounted evidence against him.

Seeks To Extend Anti-Communist Gov't In Italy

ROME — (AP) — President Luigi Einaudi began political talks today to try to broaden Italy's anti-Communist government. Premier Alcide De Gasperi, who quit with his cabinet last night to make the maneuver possible, probably will be named to head a reshuffled regime. The resignations were decided during a cabinet meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Palazzo Chigi, headquarters of the premier. The president held talks with De Gasperi and other former premiers, speakers of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies and parliamentary leaders. Press comments forecast a long crisis, even though De Gasperi is almost certain to be called to form the new government.

Many Encounter . . .

(Continued From Page One) that a 2-year rotation with the use of moderately resistant varieties is not sufficient to prevent Black Shank from creeping in. These farmers will have to resort to either a longer rotation or to a variety of tobacco with higher resistance. There are two varieties of tobacco which have moderate resistance to Black Shank. These varieties are Dixie Bright 101 and Oxford 1. Both of these varieties would produce a good yield. Dixie Bright 102 has higher resistance to Black Shank than Dixie Bright 101 and Oxford 1, but does not produce as high a yield. Both Dixie Bright 101 and 102 also have good resistance to Granville Wilt. It is recommended that a rotation be followed when using resistant varieties, especially Dixie Bright 101 or Oxford 1 is used. Farmers throughout the county should not forget that without the use of Black Shank resistant varieties there would be quite a few acres of Pitt's profitable tobacco land that would be classified as sub-marginal land.

Hillbilly Singer . . .

(Continued From Page One) with songs he learned earlier in life in addition to songs of the Nova Scotia coast. After being shipwrecked twice and lost when other shipmates were lost, Hank decided to quit the sea and try his luck at singing career. Following that decision he beat the bushes of the Canadian radio networks in an effort to crash the "bigtime" of the hillbilly shows in the United States. After several years of making the circuit of small radio stations, during which time he made several recordings, he finally went to Dallas, Texas, three years ago where he clicked with the devotees of hillbilly music. Since that time he has been in contact with Jimmie Rodgers and Ernest Tubb, both of whom have contributed their talents toward making the Grand Ole Opry a "must" on hillbilly entertainment list. In addition to Snow and his Rangers, other entertainment during the day-long program will include more music by bands from this area which will furnish music between shows, Tex Street and his horse, Smokey, which will perform for the benefit of the warehouse crowd, and possibly professional gowns who were formally by circuses. The individual bands which will play during the day will include The Pollard's group. Snow's show will be the main event of both afternoon and evening programs, the first show beginning at three o'clock. Another well-known band will supply the music for the grand-scale square dance to be held after the evening performance which will begin at nine o'clock.

Change Of . . .

(Continued From Page One) How long this "peace offensive" will last is anybody's guess. Many persons who follow events in Russia closely are convinced that Moscow will not do anything to start a world war until 1954 at the earliest. The theory is that it will take her that long to achieve somewhere near equality with America's atomic bomb stockpile. The thing that could halt the "peace offensive" abruptly is some event that cannot now be foreseen by the Kremlin such as a revolution inside one of its European satellites. Stalin might have to start a war to hold what he already has won in Europe.

All the events of the last month fall into the pattern of the peace offensive. Malik's broadcast was ordered up by the Kremlin after Russia and Red China decided they wanted no more of the Korean war. When Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway got tough and threatened to halt cease-fire negotiations, the Communists caved. Now Moscow offers us friendship at 10 cents a copy and, obligingly, has it written in our own language. But the thing to keep in mind is the statement that has become a slogan in the foreign offices of the Western world: "Russia is never so dangerous as when she acts like your friend."

Investigation . . .

(Continued From Page One) tion of the standing committees. For example: is food shipped abroad a problem for the Foreign Relations or Agriculture Committee? 2. The standing committees were not equipped with professional staffs competent to help in conducting investigations. So when it reorganized itself in 1946 congress tried to define the jurisdictions of the various standing committees a little more closely. And each of them was voted money to hire permanent, professional staffs. And what's been the result? The report of the experts has something to say on that. The standing committees handle the routine problems which come before them, with the help of the staff people they've hired. For these routine chores the committees don't need extra help. But when it comes to investigations, the subcommittees and special committees get into the act, they go out and hire more help, a temporary staff of professional men and clerical workers. Almost all of the $8,000,000 spent on investigations since 1947 went to pay these extra people. That $8,000,000 was in addition to the salaries of the permanent staff people working for the standing committees, plus $10,000 a year which each standing committee has for expenses. Is there any solution for this? The experts in their report seem
