Right Back Where They Started

James Marvin McLamb, age 32, (left) and Harvey Fillingame, age 33, (right) are shown shortly after their capture last night which ended a three hour period of freedom, gained when they made a daring escape earlier in the evening. The two men, one serving 15 years for larceny and the other 20 years for manslaughter, forced a woman at house station on the Bethel Highway to give them a car in which they escaped and led officers of five counties on a wild chase for more than three hours. The two men were captured about one mile from Cherry Point by Highway Patrolmen who had put up a road block. (Reflector Staff Photo By Roy Hardee).

Truman Asserts Korean Conflict Averted Big War

Defends Korean Action In Special Report On Activities Of UN

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman told Congress today that the United Nations decision to oppose "barbarous" aggression in Korea averted a third world war. Mr. Truman stoutly defended the Korean action in a special report on America's role in the U.N.'s diplomatic and military activities during 1950. The report was written prior to the current armistice negotiations.

Finally Adopt Program For Cease-Fire Negotiations

Hail Tuesday Night Damages Tobacco Crop

Damage to the tobacco crop by hail Tuesday night resulted in many fields in the Stokes area being riddled, leaving the leaves lying on the ground. The photo shows a part of a damaged field owned by E. F. Little, Stokes, after the hail had fallen. Little reported yesterday that Tuesday's storm is the first time in 30 years of tobacco planting that he will be able to collect any insurance for his damaged crop. (Staff photo by Joan Spinks, Jr.)

United Nations And Communist Representatives Met In Kaesong Thursday And Began Talks At Once For Halting Bloodshed In Korea As Soon As Possible

PEACE CAMP, Korea, Friday—United Nations and Communist representatives formally adopted a program for Korean cease-fire negotiations Thursday and started talks at once "for halting bloodshed in Korea as soon as possible." In an historic meeting in Kaesong, after adopting an armistice talks agenda, the U.N. and Communist teams started negotiations for the fixing of a neutral zone along the 135-mile battle front. It was generally quiet along the front today where the U.N. troops have fought bitterly for 13 months. But U.N. officials emphasized that the shooting, though it may still will not stop until an armistice has been signed. But Thursday's developments were regarded as a giant stride toward possible peace. As Thursday's meeting started, the Communists abandoned their insistence that the question of withdrawing foreign troops from Korea be made a program or agenda item.

Claims Korean War Has Settled Nothing

MacArthur Says United States Must Accept 'Full Moral Consequences' For Unfinished Struggle

BOSTON, Mass. (UP)—General Douglas MacArthur says the Korean war has settled nothing and that the United States must accept the "full moral consequences of defeat" because it "dared not fight to a decision." The deposed Far Eastern commander, who makes a sentimental journey today to his father's birthplace in Chicopee, Mass., attacked the administration's foreign and domestic policies last night in a speech to the Massachusetts legislature. MacArthur said Soviet propaganda "completely dominates" American infiltration "into positions of public trust and responsibility." In his first speech since he returned to the United States, the general described the Korean war as a futile effort in which a "stand today has been gutted and we stand today just where we stood before it all started." "The threat of aggression upon the weak... has not diminished. Indeed nothing has been settled. No issue has been decided." "A great nation which enters upon the world stage, and fails to see it through to victory must accept the full moral consequences of defeat." He said that "appeasement... became the policy of the war on the battlefield" after the interven-

Light Action On Korea Warfront

Red Probing Attacks Beaten Back; Patrol Ambushed

STH ARMY (UP)—United Nations forces beat off two Communist probing attacks and ambushed a Red patrol on the central front today. Round activity continued to be on a minor scale, however, and an Sth Army spokesman said U.N. casualties in the past 24 hours were the lightest in more than a week. "The Reds launched their probing attack west of Chorwon, at the south west corner of the old Communist 'iron triangle', but failed to dent the Allied line. At the same time, U.N. units ambushed a Communist patrol in the predawn darkness west of Kumhwa, former southeast anchor of the triangle. Four of the Red soldiers were killed and the remainder fled. Another enemy group was dispersed after a two-hour fight in the same area. A U.N. task force Wednesday bulldozed through a heavy mortar barrage above Koranpo on the western front and drove defending Communists off high ground in an hour and a half fight. A reinforced Communist battalion at the same time attacked west of Kumhwa behind a heavy mortar and artillery barrage, but Allied artillery scattered the enemy.

Military Rites For Sherman To Be Held Friday

WASHINGTON (UP)—The body of Adm. Forrest P. Sherman lay "in rest" today in Bethlehem Chapel at Washington National Cathedral. A horse-drawn caisson will carry the body of the late chief of naval operations in a solemn procession down Constitution Avenue tomorrow to a hero's burial at Arlington Cemetery. Navy transport plane brought Sherman's body from Naples yesterday. Sherman died of a heart attack Sunday while preparing the groundwork for new U.S. strategy in the Mediterranean. Admission to the rites at Arlington will be by invitation only, with President Truman and all top Washington officials expected to pay homage to the "flying admiral." Sherman will be buried after brief graveside services attended by the immediate family.

Utilities' Project Bids To Be Submitted Tomorrow

Contractors interested in bidding on the Greenville Utilities' electrification project in Pitt, Craven and Beaufort counties will meet with the Commission tomorrow afternoon to submit their sealed bids. The meeting is scheduled for two o'clock at the city hall at which time the bids will be opened. Larry Brown, secretary to the Commission, said today the afternoon meeting will probably be adjourned until eight tomorrow night in order to consider the submitted bids. At that time, contracts will probably be awarded, he said. It is expected that only about half a dozen contractors will submit bids on the upwards of $300,000 project. Brown said those contractors will appear personally with their bids. Previously, the commission had advertised the proposed project via mail to over 30 REA-approved contractors in the southern area of the country. However, Brown said, due to travel distance between Greenville and the bases of operations of many of the contractors, the number of bidders will thus be small. The night meeting will be held in order to speed up the actual letting, the secretary said. It was his opinion that the Commissioners will have enough time between the afternoon and night meetings to consider those bids submitted, thus making it possible to let the contract the same day rather than waiting until a later date.

No Applications In For Farmer's Day Contest

There's evidently a shortage of beautiful girls in Pitt County and its environs, particularly those between the ages of 16 and 25. Word from the Jaycee committee in charge of the Farmer's Day beauty contest has it that if more interested contestants, that trip to Florida as grand prize is going to waste. To date not a single girl has made application for entrance in the August 14 parade of beauty which this year seeks to crown an eastern Carolina Harvest Queen. Although four girls have applied for application blanks, none of them has been returned. Ben Rouse, chairman of the contest committee, today was wondering why no one has applied. "Looks to me like any girl would jump at the chance to spend a week in Florida this summer, particularly when it's free," he said. He was referring to the week-long, expense-paid vacation at Fort Lauderdale which this year is being offered as first prize by Escape Hotel on the beach in the southern Florida resort city. The trip includes varied forms of entertainment for the queen and her escort, including sightseeing tours of Miami and Miami Beach, the Everglades and other parts of that section of the state, in addition to numerous parties in the queen's honor given by the hotel and the Fort Lauderdale Chamber of Commerce. An alternate first prize, in the event the queen can't make the Florida trip, is $200. Second prize is $150 and third is $100. Deadline for all entries is August 17 and the application blank must be accompanied by a small picture of the contestant.

Six Men Of Pitt Bound For Army

The draft board sent six men to Raleigh this morning for induction into the nation's Armed Forces. Five were all that were requested of the county by the State Selective Service System, which continues the small-number contingents that have been inducted for the past several months. Two of the six were volunteers. They were James Levon Harris, Greenville, and William Roosevelt Kirkman, Rt. 1, Grimesland, both 18-year-old Negroes. The others were Jesse Ray Faulkner, Winterville, 25; William Burney Webb, Greenville, 24, Negro; Herman Chapman, Rt. 1 Vanceboro, 24, Negro, and Cebren Phillips, Ayden, 21, Negro. James Edward Sharps, Negro, was transferred to a Philadelphia local board for induction. The next draft call for Pitt will be August 27 when five men will be inducted.

Seaway Killed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project was killed today by the House Public Works Committee. The action was taken by a 15 to 12 roll call vote of the 37-member committee on a motion by Rep. Pickett (D-Tex.) to table the bill.

Step Toward Reality

The centuries-old dream of a united Europe—a sort of United State of Europe—was another step nearer reality today. Five Western European nations have agreed on the basic principles of pooling their armies into a single force under one command and one banner. Representatives of France, Belgium, Luxembourg, West Germany, and Italy, signed an interim report in Paris Tuesday calling for a 50-year agreement on a unified Euro, pan army. This followed a number of other significant post-war steps in the direction of "going away with national borders" in Western Europe. "The first was the founding of the Council of Europe, comprising a committee of ministers and a consultative assembly. The assembly is merely a debating chamber with no real power of its own, but the committee of ministers comprises the foreign ministers of the member governments." Then came a series of customs unions in which groups of states lowered or abandoned altogether tariffs on goods moving between them. Many agreed also to permit citizens of neighboring states to visit them without either visas or passports. Next was the Schuman plan for the pooling of Western Europe's coal and steel industries under a single authority which could issue orders to member states on how much and what they could produce. That marked the first time European nations had agreed to sacrifice some of their precious sovereignty for the common good. And it was a pattern for further cooperation. Similar plans were set in motion for "pooling" of agricultural resources, transport and civil aviation. Finally, France asked why the pooling scheme could not be extended to Western Europe's armed forces. Many politicians were inclined to scoff at the idea when it first was broached, but France persisted. The United States enthusiastically endorsed the scheme. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, as supreme commander of the Atlantic Pact armed forces, got behind the plan.

2 Fugitive Trustees Of Prison Camp Captured

Duo Snared North Of Cherry Point By Highway 70 Roadblock; Took Car At Point Of Knife From Woman

By ROY HARDEE (later pointed out as McLamb) was trying to start the car but could not do so. When she approached the men, both told her that they were trustees from the prison camp and were searching for prisoners who had escaped, and wanted her to carry them back to the camp. After some time, Mrs. Forbes agreed to carry the men back, with McLamb getting into the front seat of the car and Fillingame and the dogs riding in the rear seat, Tyson stated. Mrs. Forbes said she then headed her car, a 1948 model Studebaker, in the direction of Belvoir highway, but that the men forced her to turn back towards the Bethel Highway. After traveling about 200 yards from her home, the men forced her from the car, one claspng a knife in his hand. As soon as Mrs. Forbes returned to her home, she reported the alarm which brought officers of five counties into operation. The escape was first reported around 6:30. While local law enforcement officers were beginning their patrol of the highways, the first lead to the men's location was received. At the time the car was stolen, its

Happy Over Drop In Living Costs

DiSalle Claims Drop Of One-Tenth Of One Percent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle was as happy as a housewife today with the first drop in the cost of living in almost 18 months—even if it was only one-tenth of one per cent. "We've been able to achieve economic stability at a lower level than we anticipated," DiSalle said. He warned, however, that "we can't relax one minute" in the stabilization program because inflationary pressures will be surging upward again later this year. The Labor Department's Bureau of Statistics yesterday released its cost of living index showing that the cost of living fell one-tenth of one per cent during the month ended June 15. The index, based on costs of various items bought by moderate-income families, stood at 145.2 per cent of 1935-1939 prices. At the same time, the "old" BLS cost-of-living index rose one per cent. This 1. The index to which cost-of-living wage increases for some 3,000,000 workers are tied. It will mean a one-cent hourly boost for about 15,000 workers. Even as the index was released, DiSalle issued a new ceiling price regulation for canned vegetables. It was expected to mean a "slight" over-all increase in prices which housewives have to pay. The regulation applies only to canned green peas, but the OPS said that sweet corn, lima beans, snap beans, and tomatoes would be included later.

Refuses To Fade Away

MacArthur Attacks Truman Administration; Dedicated Energies To Restore Principals And Ideals Of American Forebearers; Follows Republican Critics

WASHINGTON — (AP) — General MacArthur apparently has changed his mind about just fading away, as he told Congress he would when he addressed it last April. Last night, in a talk to the Massachusetts legislature in Boston, he said: "I shall raise my voice as loud and as often as I believe it to be in the interest of the American people. I shall dedicate all of my energies to restoring to American life those immutable principles and ideals which your forebears and mine handed down to us in sacred trust." He made a blazing attack on the Truman Administration which tripped him of his command in the Korean war. Although he told the legislators he was talking with neither partisan affiliation or political purpose, his attack could hardly fail to please the Republicans. His criticism of the Truman Administration followed the line taken by many Republican critics, accusing it of taxing and spending too much and not having a foreign policy. And in one place he employed

Future Plans For Test Farm To Be Discussed Today

RALEIGH — (AP) — The State Board of Agriculture was scheduled to meet today at the Coastal Plain Test Farm at Willard to discuss future plans for the farm. A luncheon was held in honor of Charles T. Dearing, who resigned on June 30 as superintendent of the Coastal Plain Farm. He had served for 31 years. He was succeeded by Jesse W. Summer, former assistant farm agent in Martin County. Governor Scott also was slated to attend the luncheon. The agriculture board will meet in Raleigh tomorrow to discuss the state's entire test farm program. It may also decide on the site for a new eastern North Carolina peanut test farm. The 1951 legislature appropriated $100,000 for the farm, which will be located somewhere in the eastern peanut belt.

TOBACCO HARD HIT GREENSBORO (UP) — The North Carolina Farm Bureau said today that Old Belt tobacco has been hit hard by July heat. Not one soaking rain has fallen on the 30,000 acres in 17 counties since transplanting time.

State To Divide $3 Million Of Intangible Taxes

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's county and municipal government units will slice up an intangibles tax meion totaling $3,196,297.21 for the 1950-51 fiscal year.

This was reported yesterday by J. C. Bethune, head of the intangibles tax division of the State Department of Revenue.

During the 1950-51 fiscal year which ended June 30, the state collected a record total of $3,995,444.51 in intangible taxes. Bethune said this was considerably higher than estimated. The previous record high was the $3,417,188.32 collected during the 1949-50 fiscal year.

The intangible tax is assessed on money in banks, notes, mortgages, accounts receivable and stocks and bonds.

Eighty per cent of the tax take is returned by the state to the counties, cities and towns. The checks, Bethune said, will go out early next month.

Charlotte will get the largest sum—$229,668.01. The smallest check, $9.74, will go to Sharpshurg in Edgecombe County. Mecklenburg will draw the largest check for county governmental units—$148,684.70.

Other cities which will get large checks include: Winston-Salem $139,688; Greensboro, $118,269; Durham, $71,478; Raleigh, $64,411; High Point, $63,261; and Asheville, $61,074.

Next to Mecklenburg, counties setting the biggest sum include: Suncocks, $67,394; Forsyth, $62,166; Wake, $61,478; Gaston, $52,978; and Durham, $43,902.

TEEN TALK

Dear Judge

AP Newsfeatures
Everyone enjoys hearing about new party ideas. We get tired of playing 20 questions and perhaps even spin-the-bottle, and the girl in a group who can come up with a brand new party idea might put new vigor in an old crowd.

A new book, "The Party Game Book," by Margaret E. Mulac and Marion S. Holmes (Harper & Brothers), offers hundreds of new ideas in invitations, games and general merriment which should pep up any group. Some parties are worked out in complete detail and there are suggestions for children, adults, family groups in the home or church, recreation center, private club or camp.

Let's take the "Backward Party" for example.

The invitation is hand-written backward, starting from the lower right-hand corner instead of the upper left-hand corner. The R. S. V. P., for instance, appears in the upper right-hand corner (backward, of course).

One of the main attractions of a backward party is wearing clothes backward. Dresses, sweaters, blouses, hats and even jeans can be worn backward. The hostess can put her apron on backward, to keep the thing strictly in the mood.

When the host or hostess greets the guests, it is with "goodbye" instead of "hello" and all are expected to walk backward. Names can be given backward such as Ottobello Mary or Yram Elliott depending on the versatility of the host. If she thinks she might get stuck giving the names completely backward, name cards can be prepared in advance, solving the problem, because the guests can wear them for all to view.

Dessert, of course, is served first at a party of this kind, so let's hope your guests are really in the mood to have their tomato juice or fruit cup last.

A good backward party game goes like this:
The leader gives the answer and the contestants give the question to the given answer. It is best to divide the guests into teams which get their heads together and collaborate on the answers. They jot the answer down on a pad and the first paper with the correct answer presented to the leader is kept. The team that gets the most answers wins. Here are some of the suggested answer and questions:

1. December 21st
(Q) (What is the shortest day of the year?)

(Q) (When was the War of 1812?)
A. "Fourscore and seven years ago."

(Q) (What are the opening lines of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address?)
Question, of course, will be made up to suit the group.

Other stunts suggested for this party are reverse spelling. The Farmer in the Dell done from the "cheese takes the rat" and run backward, and backward dramatic stunts. These can be fairy tales or nursery rhymes acted out in reverse. Jack Horner might be seen dumping himself on the chest in the opening scene, then taking the plum out of his mouth, then sticking it on his thumb, putting it back in the pie and sitting down in the corner.

Once you get this theme organized party-wise, you'll think of lots of variations for entertainment.

And, of course, suggests the book, you'll say "hello, it's good to see you" as your guests go out the door.

Let's hope some hot-drod driver doesn't carry the thing too far, however, and try driving his car home backward. But then there's one at every party who tries to carry things just a little too far. So if you value Mother's lamps, rugs and furniture, you might dispense with walking or dancing backward while the party is in progress.

Palestine Refugees Still Hunting Homes

Beirut, Lebanon (UP)—One million refugees from Palestine are being cared for in the Middle East. Many of them in tents, while their future is being determined. Present indications are that these persons uprooted by the conflict that gave birth to the Israeli state have little chance of returning home.

Election Of 4-H Officers Today

RALEIGH (AP)—Election of officers for the coming year highlighted today's program for delegates attending the Annual State 4-H Club Week at N. C. State College.

The officers were chosen from a field of 13 candidates nominated at yesterday's general assembly. Nominees for president were Marion Moss of Cleveland County, Dolphine Cobb of Guilford and James Warren of Nash; for vice president, Ralph Brown of Iredell, Gladie Crumpton of Person, Melvin Hendrick of Vance and Morris Woodall of Johnston.

Candidates for secretary-treasurer were John Wade Fuquay of Alamance, Gerald Bolick of Caldwell, Bobby Smith of Perquimans and Robert Mulder of Northampton. In the race for historian were Martha Kate Cashon of Mecklenburg and Ben Taylor of Beaufort.

Other events on today's program included an address by Chancellor J. W. Harrelson of State College, the annual 4-H public speaking contest, and ice skating exhibition, and the annual state dress revue. The new officers will be installed at the closing session tomorrow night in Riddick Stadium.

Events Scheduled For Truck Rodeo

GREENSBORO (AP)—Preliminary events were scheduled here today for the North Carolina Motor Carriers-sponsored 1951 truck rodeo.

Contestants, officials and last year's champions arrived for the event yesterday. The contest of driving skill for truck drivers will begin at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Edward W. Ruggles of Raleigh, contest director, said yesterday that the three operations judges will be W. K. Richards of Raleigh, Charles S. Lombard of Charlotte, and J. Howard Thomas of Statesville. Three winners of last year's contest are on hand to defend their championships. All of Charlotte, they are R. D. Wallace, straight axle trucks; A. S. Massey, single axle; and O. L. Mangum, tandem-trailer.

Sixteen To Attend Farm And Home Week Activities

Approximately 16 rural women from Pitt County will attend Farm and Home Week activities at State College.

Farm and Home Week will begin Monday, July 30 and end August 2. The featured speaker for the opening program on Monday night will be James W. Sells, executive secretary of rural church work, Methodist Church, Atlanta, Georgia. Throughout the week, classes will be offered in all phases of rural life. A special program will be held on Monday and Tuesday featuring the work of the rural church and its program. The topic will be "A New Day of Opportunity for the Rural Church."

Flares Sighted Off Wrightsville

WILMINGTON (UP)—A series of flares off the northeast end of Wrightsville Beach late last night touched off a widespread panic.

Beach Police Chief W. R. Wiggs said his "armament was swamped with calls, many of them hysterical reports of the strange lights. Officials at the Camp LeJeune and Cherry Point Marine bases said the flares may have been caused by military operations being conducted on or near Onslow Beach. Nearby Coast Guard stations said they had no reports of any ships or planes in distress in the area.

Largest island in the West Indies is Cuba, known as the "Pearl of the Antilles."

The meeting of the North Carolina Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs will be held on Thursday and Mrs. Chase Woodhouse, Consultant, Office of Price Stabilization, will be the featured speaker. She will address the federation on "The Rural Family in the Fight Against Inflation." Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, Assistant Administrator, Federal Civil Defense Administration, will speak at the evening session. At the evening session, 26 women from Pitt County, who will go for the day, will render special music.

Riding On Motor Chicken Found

BEATRICE, Neb.—(AP)—The engine in Nelson Walker's car seemed to have developed a peculiar sound more like a cluck than a knob.

So the Clanton, Neb., man pulled up in front of a Beatrice produce house, lifted the hood and discovered—to his surprise—a hot but otherwise unharmed chicken.

The hitch-hiking ride of the biddy ended right there. Walker sold the chicken to the produce station.

$30,000,000 in rehabilitation. The United States has undertaken to supply not less than $25,000,000 of the funds, Britain $8,000,000, France $2,257,000 and other countries sums ranging from $390,000 by Egypt to $2,000 by Luxembourg.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency, basing its figures only on those entitled to rations, reported that the refugees are distributed mainly as follows: Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, 466,572; Gaza, 198,691; Lebanon, 106,440; Syria, 83,881. Israel is reported to have 23,958.

Some Arab governments, especially Lebanon, have objected strongly to the settlement of refugees in their territory on the ground that there is insufficient room. Lebanon contends that Syria, Iraq and Egypt, with their large agricultural areas, should absorb the wanderers.

About 60 per cent of them live in towns and villages, the remainder in tents. Their daily ration varies from 1600 calories in summer to 1,700 in winter and their general health is reported fairly good.

Special food is provided 30,000 under-nourished children at a monthly cost of $35,600. In addition, the U. N. children's emergency fund supplies a daily cup of milk for 431,000 children under the age of 15. Nursing and pregnant mothers also receive milk.

The World Health Organization has provided clinics with 1801 hospital beds. The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization directs the education of the children.

Death Penalty Asked In Trial

GREENSBORO (AP)—The first degree murder trial of two Greensboro textile workers went into its third day in Guilford Superior Court here today.

Solicitor Charles T. Hagao is asking the death penalty for John Paul Shields, 29, and James C. Snow, 27, charged with first degree murder in the death of Cleo Elmer Owen, 46.

A parade of witnesses testified for the State yesterday, with the bulk of the testimony tending to show that Shields and Snow were in the company of their alleged victim during a drinking party the afternoon of Feb. 16. Owen's decapitated body was found Feb. 25.

In a special session last night, an FBI firearms examiner, Robert M. Summers, testified that a bullet removed from Owen's brain, and an empty shell found in Shields' back ward, came from the same gun. Summers could not positively say that the two bullets came from a .22 caliber rifle allegedly owned by Shields, since a bent barrel prevented a firing test.

Still Working On Mysterious Murder In Burlington

BURLINGTON (UP)—Police tried today to piece together the ever's which led up to the mysterious murder of "the best liked man in Burlington."

Officers still were unable to explain how Lonnie Braxton got from his home to the drainage ditch where he was found face down in the stagnant water. His body was discovered early Sunday and an autopsy revealed that he had been strangled.

Braxton's family said he left work at a men's store here shortly after noon Saturday and remained around the house. His son, Lonnie Braxton Jr., said his father was last seen alive by the family as he went to the bathroom to get a drink of water before retiring.

Police Chief D. D. Matthews said if he were killed at home and carried to the ditch his body would have to have been carried down a city street for a block in front of lighted residences or across an open field.

Matthews said an FBI agent, Lew Williams, had been assigned to help with the investigation.

Sterling Hicks To Begin Term

RALEIGH (AP)—Sterling Hicks, Charlotte radio engineer convicted of conspiring to dynamite the tower of radio station WBT, probably will have to serve one-fourth of his two-year sentence before being considered for parole.

Dr. T. C. Johnson, State Paroles commissioner, indicated this yesterday following a clemency hearing in behalf of Hicks.

Three men, two from Charlotte, urged that Hicks be pardoned or paroled before his sentence begins. They were the Rev. Lamar Hocker, pastor of the First Christian Church in Charlotte; E. R. Williamson, Durham labor editor, Henry F. Adair of Charlotte.

Hicks is scheduled to begin serving his sentence Aug. 1. He is a former union official and one-time chief engineer for station WBT. The State Supreme Court affirmed the Lower Court decision in the case on May 3.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
TRYING TO BESS A GROUCH
Many of life's troubles are real, dreadfully real. But it is also true that many of them, and probably an increasing number each year, are due not to circumstances round about us but to great conflicting motives and passions within our own hearts.
We hate others not because they do anything to us, or because they make us feel inferior; or because they arouse our jealousy; or because their pragmatic natures are a drag to our more animated dispositions; or because their up-and-coming ways exhaust those of us who like to move through life slowly. We get at last that we just cannot endure their presence. The recollections of them disturb us, and their presence makes us grit our teeth and keep a resolute hold on our desire to speak our minds.
Snap out of it, if this is your failing. What is the big idea? Do you think the world was made just for you? Are heaven and earth to bow down to the way you feel? When you have real trouble, the world will press to your door with genuine words of sympathy; but nobody has any time to console a person who is always miserable because he lacks self-control, and whose perversed disposition can twist a grouch into a crusade.

A Boon For REA Co-Op Members

The proposed tie-in between the three large power companies and the 17 REA cooperatives of this area will be a blow to the federal power advocates, and a boon to the members of the individual REA co-ops and the power companies.
If the agreement is executed, Carolina Power and Light, Virginia Electric Power, and Tide Water Power will furnish the 17 cooperatives with enough power to meet their needs at a set cost which is considered favorable to the co-ops.
The tentative agreement between the power companies and the co-ops supports the view The Reflector has taken in the past months on the federal construction of transmission lines which serve the same territory that is already served by existing lines. Their construction is not necessary, and the construction of such lines by the federal government would be just another waste of the tax payers' money.

That there is ample power available to this region from the private power companies is evidenced by the willingness of the three companies to band together to serve the thousands of customers of the 17 co-ops. That the private companies are willing and anxious to serve the rural customers is evidenced by the fact that a uniform power charge, has been agreed upon by the co-ops and the power companies.
At the present time the co-ops are paying power costs ranging from seven and a half mills to 17 and a half mills.
The concerted effort by the federal power agencies to move into this area probably had something to do with the co-ops and the power companies coming to terms over the purchase and wheeling of power; but the important fact is that the agreement between the private companies and the co-ops is in the making.
The agreement will mean tremendous savings for the members of the individual co-ops, and at the same time it will strengthen the position of the private power companies in their struggle against federal power.

With Men Who Know Tobacco Best

There must have been some red faces out at Brantley Speight's farm this week when some 45 Pitt County tobacco growers found they did poorly in identifying tobacco leaves according to variety.
It just goes to show that a lot of these resistant varieties of tobacco have much more selling appeal than some growers give them credit for.
At Speight's farm 12 varieties of cured leaf were placed side by side and 45 farmers were asked to identify the leaves by variety. One farmer guessed right on half the leaves, and the rest of the farmers correctly identified only two or three of the 12 leaves.

It would be interesting to see the results of the same test given to tobacco buyers of the companies. We have an idea the results of the buyer's test would be similar to those of the farmers.

It is not difficult for the farmers or buyers to tell good tobacco leaves from poor tobacco leaves on the warehouse floor. But when it comes to naming the variety of seed from which a particular leaf came, that's a tough assignment.

The tobacco growers should keep in mind two things: The resistant tobacco varieties planted in disease infested fields produce a better yield than do non-resistant varieties. When it comes to the sale on the warehouse floor, the price of the tobacco doesn't depend on its variety, but on the quality of the leaf as a result of a good growing season, careful cultivation and proper curing.

"A Rose By Any Other Name..."

Although optimistic reports are coming out of Kaesong about the probability of achieving the cease fire in Korea, the American people still should not pin their hopes too strongly on a settlement of the Korean war.

The communists have used to great advantage the lull which has fallen over the front while the cease fire talks have been going on. Their apparent good intentions in the talks may be only a front to gain more time for re-enforcing their military strength in Korea.

In spite of their apparent interest in the peace talks, the communists are not to be trusted in Korea, or any other place on the globe. They will knife the free nations of the world wherever the opportunity presents itself. The American people shouldn't forget it.

Practically all the Americans are hoping and praying for peace in Korea. But if it doesn't come, the nation must not be too disappointed. The communists have played shrewd tricks on the free nations in the past, and they will do it in the future if possible.

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Bureaucratic rivalries among three executive agencies and political log-rolling on Capitol Hill are responsible for the failure to build a comprehensive flood control system that might have prevented the tremendous inundations which have paralyzed and horrified so many cities in the Missouri and Mississippi Valleys.
Although President Truman may suffer politically as a result of these wholly unnecessary floods, the responsibility is not his. It rests chiefly on the jealousies and controversies existing among the Army Engineers, the Reclamation Bureau of the Department of Interior, and the soil conservationists of the Department of Agriculture. Considerable blame also attaches to overenthusiastic advocates of public power.
As a result of these disputes, which have prevented Congress from adopting a definite program in this and other valleys, the problem of prevention of floods has been handled in piecemeal, slipshod and haphazard manner.
Although almost $1,500,000,000 has been spent to control both these great streams in the last twenty-five years, the Kansas floods show that they are still uncontrolled. Other areas may suffer for the same reason.
PRESTIGE—These three agencies—the Army Engineers, the reclamationists and public power apostles in Interior and the soil-saving boys in Agriculture—have been cutting each other's throats for years in order to gain prestige. Any such has an extremely powerful lobby on Capitol Hill.
The Army Engineers favor construction of upstream dams and reservoirs to hold back and regulate river flows so that downstream communities like Kansas City, St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans will not be menaced. They resent the attempt of Interior to horn in on these projects.
Whereas the Army has no ideological concern over public versus private power, Secretary Oscar Chapman seeks to take over all flood control projects so that he will have jurisdiction over the hydroelectric by-product.
The men in Agriculture maintain that floods can be prevented by keeping rain water on the ground through proper planting, contour farming and similar methods. Do that, they say, and great dams and reservoirs won't be necessary.
POWER—His neglect of the power aspect, however, antagonized the public ownership group headed by Secretary Oscar Chapman, his predecessor, Harold I. Ickes, and Reclamation Commissioner Michael W. Stratus. Public power was their primary concern, with flood control as the by-product, contrary to every law on this subject.
Under Henry Wallace, as well as his predecessors and successors, Agriculture has maintained that both the Pick and Chapman schools were wrong. They insisted that swollen streams could be kept at normal levels through their scheme of soil conservation and coverage. This in face of the fact that, long before up-river land was denuded of forests, about 100 years ago, Kansas suffered a flood even worse than that of July, 1951.
CONTROL—With all three lobbies operating on their friends in House and Senate, funds for flood control have been blocked or dissipated among the contending groups. There has been no definite and concentrated attack on the broad problem of preventing human and property destruction.
President Truman advocates a Missouri Valley Authority like that in the Tennessee Basin. But the business interests and politicians of the Middle West, as well as urban and farm residents, hesitate to subject themselves to the kind of government control and domination that follows federal invasion, even though it is supposed to be a form of benevolent interference.
That is the inside, Washington story behind the disaster along the mighty Kaw River. It defies the politicians!
IRONIC—The Republicans expect to capitalize next year on the human misery caused by the current floods in the Middle West. Oddly, that is what Herbert Hoover, in 1921, charged against the Democrats when they insisted on larger relief appropriations for the unemployed than he favored. But, of course, there is no consistency in politics!
The catastrophe, as explained above, cannot be attributed to Truman policies, although he has done nothing to correct the situation. In fact, by backing Interior's public power program, he has tended to aggravate it. For the reasons given, his advocacy of a Missouri Valley Authority has likewise delayed any real solution.
But it would be ironic if this Missouri tragedy contributes to the repudiation of a Missouri Administration!

The Deadly Females

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.
Before the draft quotas slowed down there were many Greenville boys who left us, and their girlfriends, behind. You know what happens to somebody's girl friend when the boy leaves. Invariably, somebody else steps in. Yesterday I saw a letter from a draftee, to a "friend" back home who, had stepped in.
Dear old pal Joe:
I guess you are surprised to hear from me. I guess you thought I had been shipped out. Not yet. And I got a furious coming up. I hear you have been taking Francine out. I didn't hear any details, except you had her to the movie twice and out to the square dances three times, and kept helping across Badger Creek at the Epworth League picnic. Has Francine broken her leg? She could jump Badger Creek when she was three years old.
Army life is sure something. I have taken on about thirty-five pounds. Mostly around my shoulders and arms. Outside of weapons training, I been kind of specializing in hand-to-hand combat—you know, judo and stuff. I sprained the instructor's wrist yesterday. Of course, ordinary fellows, like fellows around home that don't keep in shape, I could break an arm off without even trying. Of course, I wouldn't. It is very interesting. When we get together, I might show you some tricks.
You ought to join the Army, Joe. A reckless guy like you I really safer in it than home. And if you are going to join, you better start getting in shape. It is no cinch for soft guys like I need to be. Get plenty of sleep. I hear you've been hanging around Francine's porch as late as eleven o'clock p.m. That is no way to stay in shape. It is not even healthy.
Well, I got to quit now and go to chow and stoke up, so I can have workout later. I have got so I can clinch my hand around a tin can the size of your neck and squash it like a paper cup, with one squeeze.
Your old friend,
(Pfc.) Elmer
Right now I can't keep a one, but there are doubtless a few members of the armed forces who would write such letters back to Greenville. There are two theories on love: "Out of sight, out of mind," and "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." Among other things, World War II just about proved that first to be correct, in 90 per cent of the cases. When the factor of distance is involved, love becomes a matter of nearness, in most cases.
And I thank Pfc. Elmer, better known as C. P. Donnel Jr.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau
By LYNN NISBET
TAXES—Governor Scott quickly adopted suggestion of reporters at his press conference Tuesday that he invite David Lawrence, publisher of the U. S. News and World Report, to come to North Carolina and investigate this state's tax structure—not only rates of tax levy, but what the state does with the money and what the people get in return for the taxes they pay.
Newman called the governor's attention to a current U. S. News & World Report article holding up North Carolina as a "horrible example" to the rest of the nation for excessive taxation. The story said that North Carolina has the highest taxes of any state which does not permit deduction of federal tax payments from state income tax returns.
PURPOSES—At first the governor was inclined to laugh off the charge of excess taxation, but when newsmen pointed out that the original story had been given nationwide circulation, some explanation and elaboration appeared to be in order. The explanation is, as every Tarheel knows, that in North Carolina the State government carries a far greater part of the total government-services load. Counties and municipalities have relatively far less responsibility for schools and roads than they have in most states.
COMPARATIVE—Any realistic comparison of tax rates must take into account comparison of services. On local level, tax rates have direct relationship to insurance and utility service rates. A city with a low ad valorem tax levy and a high insurance and water and electricity rate might provide more services than any city with high taxes and low utility charges. Analysis of the relationship of North Carolina taxes to those of other states must likewise take into account local tax rates, utility charges and services rendered. Any such analysis requires careful study of all the factors involved. Governor Scott authorized the statement that representatives of the U. S. News & World Report would be accorded every courtesy and facility in making a complete check of the situation.
CANDIDATES—The reporters asked Governor Scott if he had anything to say about who might run for governor next year. He replied with a smile that he had eight candidates on his list—but that the list did not include the name of Frank Graham, former university president and U. S. senator. He said he had "read with interest" the story originating in this column last week suggesting Graham as a candidate, but added "I had not thought anything to say about who might run for governor next year. # GOP Lacks Votes To Oust Dean Acheson

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A drive by Republicans to knock Dean Acheson off the State Department payroll faced two big obstacles today in the House—a vote shortage and a possible parliamentary snag.

With GOP ranks splitting on the issue and Democratic lines evidently firm, it is doubtful if they had anywhere near enough votes to win their campaign against the Secretary of State.

And, even if they had enough votes, they might not get a chance to use them.

In advance of an actual official ruling, there was widespread belief that a Republican amendment aimed at Acheson might, unless modified, be knocked out on the technicality that it is legislation in an appropriation bill. House rules prohibit this.

Some administration leaders argued that the amendment, to be offered to the State Department appropriation bill, would impose additional duties on the President, and thus would run afoul of the ban against legislating in a money bill.

The amendment as now drafted would prohibit use of any money carried in the bill to pay the salary of the head of any executive department who, within five years preceding his appointment, was affiliated with a foreign government, unless his nomination is "submitted or resubmitted" for Senate confirmation.

Acheson's former law firm once represented the government of Poland, so he would come within the proposed prohibition and — if the amendment becomes law—could get his pay only if President Truman resubmitted his nomination and the Senate confirmed it.

If approved in the House, the measure still must be voted on by the Senate before going to the White House for the President's okay.

The tip-off that Republicans themselves are far from agreement in the "get Acheson" campaign came yesterday at a party conference when 33 of the 104 members present opposed the amendment. Almost 100 others were absent.

Big Future Seen For Helicopters In Army Service

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Army planners are eyeing the baby of the aircraft industry, the windmill-like helicopter, as the "truck of tomorrow."

Full development of the military helicopter, they say, may revolutionize the mobility of land forces.

Officers believe this new aircraft can provide short-haul transportation which will give our combat forces greater flexibility through the air movement of front line troops, material and equipment.

Helicopters, both in their present and contemplated forms, will provide increased speed, ability to operate without roads or airfields, and a method of overcoming all water and ground obstacles in the path of a modern field force.

VALUE PROVED

Although development and production of the so-called "airborne egg-beater" still is in its infancy, the Army already is using it. The whirling-winged planes have proved their value in Korea. In fact, the only complaint received from commanders is that "we can't get enough of them."

The Army also is organizing helicopter transport companies, similar to the present truck transport companies. These units can be allocated to divisions, their equipment operating as part of the basic transportation in accordance with the commander's requirements.

Each helicopter company has 21 transport aircraft and two small copters for command and reconnaissance purposes. Such a unit is designed to transport all of the necessary personnel and equipment elements of an infantry rifle company in one lift.

Used In Combat

In addition to their use in transport companies, helicopters may become part of the equipment of various types of combat and support units, including infantry, armor, artillery and engineers.

Some other uses of the helicopter will be to transport personnel, supplies, equipment and ammunition and to evacuate wounded. As a "flying ambulance," the helicopter can replace a large portion of the present road-bound ambulances in forward combat areas, saving time, personnel and equipment by picking up the wounded at the front and transporting them directly to base hospitals.

Helicopters also can be used to facilitate the rapid movement of reserves from rear areas to the front lines. They can move complete forward tactical units from one position to another to meet emergency counter-attacks or initiate surprise offensive action.

Also they can conduct vertical envelopments either separately or in combination with flanking attacks. They are able to aid mountain, Arctic or jungle operation where the use of ground vehicles is restricted by weather or terrain.

They can be used at night as well as during the day, since lighted landing sites are not needed. In nearly all kinds of weather they fly low enough to escape the ceiling limitations which often ground conventional aircraft.

Up To 50,000 Pounds

In this new field of transport, the Army has requirements for rotary wing type aircraft capable of carrying from one person to a load of 50,000 pounds. The light copters are being obtained as rapidly as they can be produced. Larger-craft are being developed. A few now are in production and more recent designs are scheduled to go into production soon.

Helicopters will extend the present motorized march of some Army units from 150 miles a day, at an average speed of 15 miles an hour, to a helicopter "march" of 600 miles a day and an average speed of 60 miles an hour.

CHICKENS UPSET

NORMAN G. SPRAGUE, chicken farm operator, refused to pay a $198.97 bill for 4,000 pounds of broiler mash he fed his flock because he said it made psychopathic wrecks of them. All 535 became "nervous, excitable and unmarketable," he claimed.

Can you realize the waste and damage one little messy match can do to a forest of giants?

Survey Outlines 'Dream House'

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Nebraska farmers have their dream houses too, as Virginia Yapp Trotter, assistant professor of housing and management at the University of Nebraska, explained here.

The ideal house, according to the composite of a Nebraska survey taken by Miss Trotter, is a one-story structure. It has a glassed-in porch, from five to seven rooms, a sloping roof and a basement.

It has one spare bedroom, separate coat closet, separate dining room, a driveway, so located that visitors can come in the back door, and a first-floor workroom.

Old-Timers Look Into Activities

FLINT, Mich. —(UP) Once a year, the men who used to supervise the production of Buick automobiles return to the factory to check up on the men doing the job they left.

In one of the automobile industry's most unusual clubs, 132 retired supervisors and administrators come back to Flint each year for a big dinner and reunion.

They also get a confidential, off-the-record report on the company's current activities and future plans.

Child Is Steady Rescue Customer

CHICAGO —(UP) Mrs. Dorothy Jesior, 27, has reason to be grateful to the Chicago fire department.

Inhalator squads have saved the life of her seven-year old daughter, Delores, three times in recent years.

In the latest case, the little girl had convulsions and Inhalator Squad 6 sped to the home. They revived Delores in 20 minutes. "They're wonderful!" Mrs. Jesior said.

Colored News

The Smart Set Club will meet at the home of Miss Maggie Clemmons Friday night at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

There will be a bus leaving Mt. Calvary F.W.B. Church Sunday morning, July 29, at 8 a.m. for Seaview Beach, Norfolk, Va. Anyone who would like to go, see Edmond Love, 1011 Fleming St.

JOE FOR SHORT

MUNCIE, Ind. —(UP)—Circuit Judge Joseph H. Davis filed a petition asking that his name be changed to Joe Davis. The petition said Davis' bench is the busiest in the state and "it will be more convenient for the public and those who prepare and present for signature over 400 papers, documents and records weekly, if his name is shortened and changed."

District NCEA Meeting Set At College In October

The North Carolina Education Association will hold its 29th annual convention on the campus at East Carolina College Tuesday, October 2, according to an announcement by District President John L. Dupree of Windsor, superintendent of Bertie County schools.

Representatives from twenty-two counties in the northeastern section of the state are expected to be present for the event. The district includes the counties of Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Hertford, Hyde, Lenoir, Martin, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pilt, Tyrrell, Washington, and Writ.

Plans for the program to be presented at the convention are now being made. In addition to general sessions, meetings are being arranged by the divisions of Classroom Teachers, Higher Education, Principals, and Superintendents, and by sixteen departments of instruction and the district organization of the Future Teachers of America.

Officers of the Northeastern District are John L. Dupree, president; George McKorie, principal of the Everetts Elementary School, vice president; and James D. Munlap, of the Wilson City Schools, secretary.

BOSTON WAS FIRST

BOSTON —(UP)—Boston's fire alarm system, the first box and hook and central recording system in the world, will be 100 years old in 1952. More than 2,500 fire chiefs and signal experts will be invited to attend a four-day centennial celebration.

'Appendicitis' Attack Is Baby

SALEM, Ore. —(UP) When Mrs. Russell Sullivan became ill while visiting her parents at Falls City, she thought it must be appendicitis.

Her husband, Sgt. Sullivan took her to a hospital. It wasn't appendicitis. It was the third Sullivan daughter, totally unexpected. Mrs. Sullivan had been told by her doctor after the birth of Kathy, now 2 years old, that it was doubtful if she could have another child, a minor illness in the ensuing months were attributed to other causes.

The baby, born prematurely, was placed in an incubator and was reported doing well, as was her mother.

English usage refers to a long-distance telephone call as a "trunk call."

Alaskans Protest Loss Of Timber

SITKA, Alaska —(UP) Billions of board feet of southeast Alaska's valuable spruce and hemlock timber may possibly be hauled away to feed hungry saws and pulpwood grinders in Canada and Puget Sound.

They will not be if Alaskans have their way about it.

Individuals, chambers of commerce and other organizations are protesting a proposed change in U. S. forest service regulations that would permit the export of unmanufactured Alaskan timber.

Most Alaskan's feel that if the export ban is lifted, it will mean the end of their hopes for pulp mills and other timber processing plants in the territory.

West Coast timber processors are running out of raw material for their mills and they have cast a hungry eye toward the vast virgin timber tracts of Alaska. Foresters estimate there are 85,000,000,000 board feet of merchantable timber in the 16,000,000-acre Tongass National Forest, which covers much of southeast Alaska.

Learns Of Break 3 Weeks Later

COLUMBUS, Ind. —(UP) Harold Lee Ping 1, didn't know his hip had been broken for three weeks until he tried on a new pair of trousers.

When his parents noticed one trouser leg seemed shorter than the other, they investigated and found the broken hip was knitting improperly and shortening the leg. Harold was taken to a bone specialist who reset the bone.

Big Jawn Mize Leads Yanks In Series Against Cleveland

Johnny Slaps Two Run Double In Ninth To Defeat Indians; White Sox Beat Boston To Stay In Pennant Fight

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

That 36-inch hunk of heavy lumber that beefy Johnny Mize uses for a duty magic wand, but it was doing an amazing job of keeping the New York Yankees ahead in the American League race today.

Just two swings of that stick by Big Jawn were responsible for New York's one-game lead in the frantic four-way chase, for each won a game from the hard-peddling Cleveland Indians.

The first swing was in the opening game of the series Tuesday—and it sent a 3-and-2 pitch flying into the right field stands for the winning run in a 3 to 2 triumph. Yesterday, the Yanks were trailing 1 to 0 in the ninth inning when old "Tomato Face" swished again and dumped the ball into left field for a two-run double and a 2 to 1 victory.

Going into the final game of the series today with the "no-hit kids" leading, the Yanks are on top of the league by one game, the Red Sox are second by one game over Cleveland, and the Indians lead fourth-place Chicago by a game-and-a-half.

The White Sox kept themselves close up just when they were on the verge of extinction when veteran Ken Holcombe came up with a five-hit, 6 to 2 triumph over the Red Sox yesterday.

Mize, who is pretty close to the

Chicago Hitting Slump—Lenhardt

BOSTON (UP)—Clutch-hitting Don Lenhardt was convinced today the Chicago White Sox were on the march toward the top of the American League and that hitting would bring them their first pennant in 33 years.

"We're beginning to kiss that ball now," the 28-year-old leftfielder said with a smile after the pale horse notched 13 hits off three Red Sox hurlers to beat their Boston cousins yesterday 6 to 2.

"I think our hitting slump is over and that with a little pitching we'll have those Yankees out of the front seat in a very few days."

If the rest of the club can match Lenhardt's pace, he could be right. In a two-game split with Boston, the sturdy righthanded swinger has poked a pair of homers, each good for three runs. In the opening game it was the only scoring for Chicago and came while rookie Leo Klei was on the threshold of a three-hit shutout performance in his first home stand.

Though the White Sox still were in fourth place in the dog-eat-dog battle for the lead, the club was convinced to a man their hitting slump was over.

Elks Take Second Place As Kiwanians Defeat Moose

The Riddick hurled two-hit ball yesterday to defeat the Exchangeites by a 2-1 margin and to allow his Elks teammates to move into second place in the Little League standings.

The Kiwanians defeated the Moose in the opener of the Wednesday afternoon doubleheader, 4-2, with Landreth Berry emerging the victor over Marvin Blount in a mound duel.

Riddick retired the opposing side in order after the first inning. Roger Bullock and Angus Duff reached the Elks' pitching star for the Kiwanians' only hits of the afternoon to score one run in that initial inning.

The righthanded moundsman struck out 13 men in the six inning tilt, without issuing a free pass. He fanned two men in each of the first, third, fourth, and fifth innings, and whiffed the side in the second.

Riddick's teammates scored a pair of runs in the fifth frame to clinch the win. Merrill Bynum started the winning rally by reaching base safely on an error. He sacrificed to second by Bob Bilbro and then advanced to third as Charlie Rumley's grounder was error'd. Mike Riddick walked to fill the sack. The winning runs crossed the plate when catcher James Hudson singled sharply to plate two runs.

Francis Nunn and George Nickols shared the mound chores for the losers, with Nunn charged with the defeat. He relieved Nickols in the fourth inning and was the victim of the Elks' two-run outburst in the fifth.

Kiwanians Win
Landreth Berry tossed four hit ball at the Moose to enable his Kiwanians mates to win, 4-2.

The Kiwanians plated two runs in the second frame to win. Johnny Barrett and Berry started the frame

Local All-Stars To Travel Saturday

Greenville's Little League All-Stars will travel to Wilmington Saturday afternoon for another warm-up game with the South Wilmington League All-Stars.

The same clubs met in an exhibition contest in Greenville two weeks ago. Greenville won that game with a late inning spurt.

South Wilmington and the local All-Stars will meet in the opening game of the Fourth District Little League tournament next Wednesday morning in Havelock.

Coaches of the six teams in the Greenville league selected the local representatives on the basis of their seasonal play. They picked 14 boys to play as the Greenville All-Stars.

LEO TAKES 1,000TH
PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Leo Durocher, pilot of the New York Giants, has reached a mile post in his managerial career.

When the Giants beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-6 in a suspended game yesterday it marked Leo's 1,000th victory as a manager.

Attendance at the ITRA (Thoroughbred Racing Association) tracks during the first six months of 1951 showed an increase of 2.7 per cent over a similar period in 1950.

Top Pro Winners Start Over Today

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—Jim Ferrier and Lloyd Mangrum renewed their fight for top-money winning honors among professional golfers in the $15,500 St. Paul Open today.

Ferrier, defending champion of the tournament, teed off for the first 18 holes just 397 ahead of Mangrum in the 1951 money winning race. He already has pocketed $14,795 prize money this year.

But the favorite of the fans and the golfers was slamin' Sammy Sneed, the erratic putter from West Virginia who holds the PGA title. Fans and players alike figured that whoever could beat Sneed would win the $2,000 first prize.

The late Leo Dugal won the Michigan State Open championship when he was 17 years old.

Two Members Of Davis Cup Squad Meet In Southampton

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y.—(AP)—Two members of the United States Davis Cup Squad match strokes today in the no. 1 match of the Southampton Invitation Tennis Tournament at the Meadow Brook Club.

The match brings together National Champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati in the quarter-final round. Larsen is seeded no. 1, Trabert no. 8.

The three other seeded players remaining in competition meet unseeded players in the quarter-final bracket.

Of the trio, veteran Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., faces the stiffest test. He'll take on young Hamilton Richardson, national junior champion from Baton Rouge, La., who yesterday sent seventh seeded Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., to the sidelines with a 7-5, 6-4 score.

Herb Flann of Beverly Hills, Calif., seeded second a notch above Mulloy, the eighth seeded player, tangles with Conway Coston, also of Los Angeles.

Larsen moved into the round of eighth with a 6-4, 9-7 victory over Fred Fisher of Seattle while Trabert eliminated the last of the foreign threats, Lorne Main of Vancouver, B. C., 6-3, 6-2.

Teen-Agers Seek Swim Records

DETROIT (UP)—Ford Konno of Hawaii and Caroline Green of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., a couple of teen-agers, eyed world records in the 1,500-meter free style finals of the National AAU Outdoor Swimming and Diving Championships today.

The 18-year-old Hawaiian missed the world mark of 18:19 set by Japan's Hironobu Furuhashi by only 12.5 seconds yesterday in the heats. He thinks he can better it in the finals.

Miss Green, 17-year-old holder of the National AAU 400-meter crown, crushed the American mark set by Olympic champion Ann Curtis as she led eight qualifiers into the women's 1,500-meter finals.

She covered the metric mile in 21:20.4, a full 33 seconds faster than the record set by Miss Curtis in 1945. The world mark is 23:57, held by Rahmgadild Hveger of Denmark.

Defending champion Barbara Hebelman of Chevy Chase, Md., posted the third best time of 23:23.4, but didn't exert herself.

DiMag Great All-Star

NEW YORK—Joe DiMaggio holds a perfect record of nomination to American League all-star teams he entered the loop in 1936. When Casey Stengel named Joe to the 1951 squad it made the 13th time. He was in service when the 1943 and 1944 teams were picked and there was no game in 1945 due to war travel restrictions.

The Yankee Clipper was picked in 1945 but was sidelined with a knee injury.

Flamingos Thrive

MIAMI—(AP)—There are about 850 flamingos on exhibition at Hialeah race track. The rare birds were originally imported from Cuba, but more than half the present flock were hatched and raised at Hialeah, the only place flamingos have been successfully propagated outside their native habitat. The birds are fed a special diet of cooked rice, shrimp, ground dog-biscuit and cod liver oil.

Semi-Pro Softball Tournament Starts With No-Hitter

ROXBORO—(AP)—A no-hit, no-run game featured play in the North Carolina Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament here last night.

Carlton Mangum, former Goldsboro pitcher in the Coastal Plain League, came up with a no-hitter as his Bunn Lions defeated City Beverage of Winston-Salem, 5-0.

Mangum fanned 15. Only two Winston-Salem players reached first base, one on an error and the other on a walk.

In the other game of the night, Charlotte Air Engineering eliminated Greensboro Nighthawks, 3-0. Tonight's schedule has the Roxboro Blues meeting the Durham Bees and undefeated Swepsonville playing Oak Ridge.

Hill Gail Takes Win In Arlington

CHICAGO—(AP)—The rich Arlington Futurity Crown is in the possession of Hill Gail, the best Calumet Farm two year old since Citation and Bewitch.

The $75,375 six furlong dash went to the undefeated Calumet colt yesterday by a length and a half over Oh Leo, owned by J. H. Dunn. Eugene Constant Jr.'s Hierarch was third in a field of 18 juveniles. Tiger Sir was fourth.

Jorgensen Appears In Two Line-Ups

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—The name of Johnny Jorgensen appears today in box scores for two baseball games played 2700 miles apart.

The odd circumstances came about this way:

On June 17, Jorgensen appeared as a pinch hitter in a game between the New York Giants and Pittsburgh. But the contest was called in the eighth inning with the score tied and wasn't completed until yesterday.

Since then the Giants sent Jorgensen to Oakland of the Pacific Coast League, with whom he performed here last night.

Chapter 12

After that Thursday night Peter began to appear among his friends. It was as though, having braced himself and plunged into contact with other people, he found it easier to face them. It seemed, too, that the young people of Centerville had discovered Marcia and the strange charm that enveloped the old Cunningham house. Almost every evening there was a group on the old fashioned veranda, behind the fragrant curtain of honeysuckle and clematis. Usually Betsy was one of that group, and very often Peter was, too.

At first Mrs. Marshall would bring Peter in the family car, and then go on to spend an hour or two with some of her friends before returning to pick him up. After while, Peter began to walk to and from the old Cunningham place. Betsy's heart always ached as she saw him come along the weed-grown drive, the tip of his stick cautiously feeling its way ahead of him, as though it led him.

The first time she saw him come up the drive, she couldn't restrain herself from springing to her feet and running to meet him, guiding him to the steps. But the feel of his arm, rigid with protest against the hand she slipped through it, struck at her like a blow. And she knew that once again she had hurt and hindered him, when she had wanted so passionately to help. She had stood back, dismayed, as Peter walked up the steps past her to seat himself beside Marcia in the old canvas swing. After that, she made herself sit still, her hands clenched tightly in her lap. She wouldn't help him; she wouldn't spring to his aid, she told herself, not even if he stumbled and fell. She wouldn't—because he didn't want her to!

But the knowledge that Peter did not want her help, any more than he wanted her love, was a blinding pain in her heart.

She talked it all out to Professor Hartley, because he alone, of all the people she knew, understood. He listened, and his old face was touched with pity, but he knew that he could do nothing for her.

"It isn't so much that he resents your trying to guide him, Betsy," he told her one afternoon as they sat in his garden. "It's that—well, a blind man learns to walk to find his way about, by counting the steps. When Peter sets out from his place to the Cunningham house, he knows exactly how many steps it takes to reach the drive; how many steps from the street to the porch; how many steps to climb to the porch and to reach his favorite chair."

"Which, of course, is always the swing where Marcia holds court," said Betsy.

Professor Hartley turned his sightless eyes toward her, but she was too absorbed in her own unhappy thoughts to realize that he was suddenly tense.

"He goes instinctively to sit beside Mrs. Eldon?" he asked, after a moment.

"Sure. Oh, she understands him, I guess, and that makes him grateful." Betsy tried hard to make her meaning clear. "She's a pretty swell person. Of course she's not in love with him, and I don't suppose she'd care a lot if he stumbled or fell!"

Professor Hartley was silent for a while, and then he said, "Could you bring Peter to see me, Betsy? I'd like very much to see what he's like."

So Betsy took Peter to see Professor Hartley. As always, the two little words—"to see"—hurt her. As she and Peter walked across the lawn to where the old man sat beneath his favorite oak, Gus bounded ahead, overcome with delight at being back in a familiar, loved place. Tamar came to meet him, and the two dogs scampered off together.

The professor shook hands with Peter and the two men, both sightless, faced each other, as if by some miracle they could see with a clarity forbidden to physical eyes.

"It's good to see you, Peter," said the older man.

"Thank you, sir. It's good to see you," said Peter. "I've wanted to thank you for Gus."

"Don't thank me, Peter. Gus is Betsy's gift to you. She trained him herself. I hope he is justifying that training by being very helpful to you!"

Peter's jaw tightened a little.

"Oh, I manage to get about without using Gus as a guide. Thanks to the fellows at the Rehabilitation Center, I learned to get along very well. If only people would let me alone! I know exactly where I'm going and how many steps it takes to get there—if only somebody doesn't make me lose count. Then I'm really lost."

Betsy paled a little, but knew that if she kept still they would not be aware of her tension. When she was sure she could manage her voice, she said:

"May I make tea, Professor—or coffee?"

The old man turned to her, smiling. "That would be very nice, my dear," he said, sensing her need for escape. "But you must promise to put everything back exactly in its own spot when you have finished."

"I learned that a long time ago," Betsy told him, and fled.

Clay tiles used originally to decorate walls of the ancient Alhambra palace in Spain were so durable that many were later removed to the floor where they were kept in service.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BARRETT, AP Real Estate Editor

The best way to keep a house cool at this time of the year is to build it north of the Arctic Circle. If you've had to locate nearer to business, you can have a hot time with the rest of us—trying out all the artificial dodges designed for what the glamor people jokingly call climate control.

Everyone knows he might have an air cooled house if he could afford it, but that's still a costly proposition—costly to install and costly to run. And then there are other wonderful things in the offing—for instance, heat pumps that will suck the heat down to the bowels of the earth where it belongs. But what is needed most is something here and now that can be bought for less than the cost of a new ear.

The electric fan seems to be it. Big changes have been made in fans in recent years. A trip to the department store or appliance shop will convince you. There are fans that squat on the floor like hawks, fans that fit into windows and fans to install in the attic to pull evening breezes into your windows.

Since getting hot air out of the house after a blistering day is the crux of this comfort problem, we'll probably always have a need for fans. As a rule they are inexpensive to operate, simple to install and maintain and they offer years of service.

One of the newest types of window fans is a twin motor job designed with the idea of drawing warm air out of the house while pouring cooler air in. The two motors have separate controls and each is reversible. You can run one at full speed exhausting warm air, while the other at a lower speed brings in the evening's coolness. Or you can run both together in either direction.

These twin fans are encased in a gray steel housing—quite unlike a small suitcase. The complete unit weighs less than 20 pounds and fits into a 16-inch-wide casement window as well as in regular double-hung sash. Bill Welch, Jr., of Cincinnati, who pioneered in the casement type fan some years ago, designed the twin window fans and claims that it will displace 3,200 cubic feet of air per minute. That should change the air in a good sized house in less than 10 minutes.

In using any window fan it's a good idea to choose a window that will allow the fan to draw outdoor air across the entire room before exhausting it. The best location is not always the same room you want to cool the most. The window should not face prevailing winds. Wind blowing against a fan will slow it down and cut its efficiency.

Keep other windows closed on the same wall with a window fan. Other windows in the room should not be opened if you plan to cool adjoining rooms. When cooling more than one room, think of the inlet and outlet windows as valves.

People have tried all sorts of expedients for cooling houses. They have hung wet towels on radiators and blown fans against them to cool by evaporation. But with the humidity what it is on most summer days it's seldom that you want to add more moisture to the air.

Closing all windows and doors in the morning and pulling the blinds can keep a house cooler, but the air is stagnant. Operating the blower only on a circulating warm-air heating plant will cool a closed house by circulating the air through the cool ducts in a basement. But this, too, means unchanged air. So the fans seem to have it.

Attic fans have had many years of service now as breeze makers. A 44-inch blower properly installed in an attic, with an adequate ceiling grille, will draw 16,500 cubic feet of air per minute. However, the outlet louvers in the attic should be 10 per cent larger than the ceiling grille area.

Ceiling insulation is important in keeping roof heat out of a house and a ventilated attic is important for that reason. Roof surfaces on hot days often reach 150 degrees. A tightly closed attic can become superheated and overheat rooms below.

Circulation of air is cooling even if the air itself is not so cool.

East German Motorcycle Cop Corps Organized

BERLIN—(AP)—Squads of tough, hard-riding motorcycle cops are prowling the highways of East Germany.

It is a new arm of the Communist people's police assigned for the moment to traffic control. The black-booted men, equipped with fast cycles and wearing sharp, black uniforms, look as though they could quickly be converted into an army courier service, however.

The squads have been observed in action particularly on the autobahn (superhighway)—that links Berlin and West Germany, crossing 100 miles of Soviet zone. The cops are gruff-looking but courteous enough. They have taken to flagging down some allied vehicles recently, but each case appeared to be the same—warning about bad spots in the road ahead and cautioning a lower speed for safety's sake.

The first armed conflict in the American Revolution took place at Lexington, Mass., on April 19, 1775.

'American' Cakes Banned By Reds

BERLIN—(AP)—The Communists hate "Americans" so much they won't eat them.

The "Americans" in question are small, sugar-covered, blout cakes, which generations of Germans have known and eaten under the name of "Amerikaiser."

Nobody knows how they ever got that name. But now the Communist East German authorities have decided that even cake "Americans" cannot be tolerated under their jurisdiction. The state-operated chain stores are now selling them as "Am-mo cakes."

Anyhow, in the west they will continue under that name, and so will this popular anti-Red joke: Two Communists meet on the street.

"Well, comrade," says one. "What have you done today to help preserve peace?"

"Plenty," replies the other. "I ate two 'Americans.'"

New Road Guard Tested In U. S.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Danish auto fence, a new type of highway guard rail, now is in use in a dozen places in the United States.

The rail is concrete, shaped like the sloping back of a couch. It rests on massive concrete legs, which keep it from tipping backward.

The bottom of this couch-back is about seven inches above the ground. The top is just a little below the average passenger car tire top. When a car hits this rail, the wheel is turned in toward the highway. The couch form leans back far enough so that the car body is not likely even to touch the rail.

Seaboard Associates Inc., Greenville, S. C., who are the New England agents, report that on the Wiscross highway, near Wilmington, Conn., a car was driven into this rail at 45 miles per hour and at an angle of 30 degrees. The car turned back into the highway, without dents or scratches.

It is claimed that this rail will materially reduce fatal highway accidents.

The rail was invented in Denmark by S. A. Rasmussen. U. S. rights were acquired by Kennard Mogenssen, an American citizen of Danish birth.

They have been installed for test on Highway 64 in Iowa, in Kansas City, in Wisconsin, Oklahoma, North Dakota and Connecticut. They are planned for the Interborough Parkway, Queens County, New York; Denmark, Sweden, Germany, Norway and Switzerland are using them.

Beheads Children To Spare Them From Starving

RANGOON—(AP)—A Chinese father decapitated his two sons with a meat chopper while his wife searched the Mandalay market for food.

K. H. Kee, a curd maker, told police he killed his boys to save them from starvation. He said he intended later to kill his wife and himself, too.

Kee, a victim of the Burmese rebellion, went to Mandalay, after a fire at the road junction town of Shmeho, 71 miles away, destroyed his home and left him penniless. He left his family at a Chinese temple in the sacred city while he vainly hunted employment. The double murder was committed inside the temple.

Relayed Alarm Of Forest Fire

MISSOULA, Mont.—(AP)—Forest Service officials were puzzled when they received a report of a forest fire at Lolo Hot Springs. The report came from Huntley, 400 miles across Montana.

They made sure the fire was under control, then learned two Missoula radio amateurs had gone into the mountains to test portable radio equipment. They spotted the blaze but couldn't contact the Forest Service. So they broadcast their report. It was heard in Huntley by another radio ham who relayed the information to the Forest Service.

Historic Home Changes Hands

SWEDEN, Mo.—(AP)—The home Col. Samuel Nevers built here in 1797 has passed for the first time from ownership of direct descendants of the town's original settler.

It has been bought by Mr. and Mrs. George J. Strong of Montclair, N. J., as a permanent home. The last to occupy it were Ethelbert Bennet and his son Charles. Charles is the great, great grandson of Col. Nevers.

The Federal Communications Commission today has nearly 900,000 radio authorizations outstanding.

Plane-Makers Need New Priority Rates

WASHINGTON (UP)—Aircraft manufacturers will need a much bigger cut of scarce materials and liberal manpower deferments if the government goes in for large, new military expansion, an authority said today.

Adm. Dewitt C. Ramsey, president of the Aircraft Industries Association, said that there already are "slippages" in plane schedules under today's "so-called partial mobilization." This means aircraft are not being delivered to the services as rapidly as they are wanted.

A major reason, Ramsey said, was inadequacy of federal controls during the first year of rearmament. There was no government referee to see that materials were properly allocated. Priorities were lacking. Industry executives wanted a controlled materials plan last year. They didn't get it until recently. Another need, just being

Commission May Cancel Increase

RALEIGH—(AP)—A 10 per cent rate increase granted to Tar Heel truck operators last January may be cancelled by the State Utilities Commission.

The commission said yesterday a final decision will be made after a hearing Sept. 26. It ordered the trucking industry to show cause why motor carrier rates should not be reduced 10 per cent or why other reductions should not be made "in the public interest."

A Charlotte trucking firm, Griffin and Grist, had asked the commission for permission to cut rates. This request will stand unacted on for the present.

O. E. Grist, one of the owners of the Charlotte firm, testified last month at commission hearings that his firm was making a reasonable profit and that it never wanted or needed the 10 per cent rate hike. Other truck operators strongly opposed Grist's request.

Truman's Pastor Switches Faith

KEY WEST, Fla. (UP)—President Truman's vacation-time Baptist pastor has switched to Mrs. Truman's faith.

The Rev. George McNeill Ray was confirmed in the Episcopal church and said yesterday he will study theology at Yale University before being assigned to a church in the South Florida diocese.

During his working vacations at Key West, President Truman attends Key West First Baptist Church, where Ray has been pastor for three years. Mrs. Truman is a Margaret go to St. Paul's Episcopal church, a half block down the street.

Record-Breaking Pilot Plans Trip

WINONA, Minn. (UP)—Max Conrad, the father of nine children who set a new record by flying non-stop from Los Angeles to New York in a Piper Cub airplane last May, will make a similar long-distance flight: from Win. to Mexico City next month, he announced today.

Armed Teen Agers Ready For Battle

N. Y. YORK (UP)—Police arrested 27 teenagers last night in a brush-off lot as they were set to stage an all-out battle with another youth gang for control of their favorite lovers' lane.

Three girls were among the arrested teenagers, who were armed with pocket knives, iron bars and clubs.

met, was an aircraft production board like that of World War II, Ramsey said.

He described as "costly but sound" the government's decision up to now to concentrate on expanding aircraft production capacity rather than "turning out all the airplanes we could possibly produce." The aim is to be able to attain World War II production rates quickly if a new war comes.

But Ramsey said information now has become available which discloses a need to "re-appraise the production program and take out more air insurance." He mentioned improved military intelligence regarding Russian might, studies by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's staff on European defense needs, and the uncertain Far Eastern situation.

Ramsey said the rate of increase in craft production today is under 50 percent of the World War II rate. In terms of units, that probably means the industry will turn out about 4,500 military planes in 1951. That compares with a Russian figure of 12,000 revealed in a speech last week by Elic Cocke Jr., American Legion national commander.

Ramsey said that if it gets the men, money, and materials, the industry can turn out the planes for a 150-group Air Force and a naval air arm of 7,000 aircraft. There is growing agitation in and out of Congress for such an air power buildup. There will be no large deliveries of planes until 1953 because of the time-consuming process of tooling, engineering, assembling materials, and training employees.

Crime Increased Six Percent in Past Five Months

WASHINGTON (UP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover today reported six per cent increase in various crimes during the first five months of the year.

Hoover said crime reports from cities throughout the nation showed an "alarming" increase in some major types of crime compared with the same period of 1950.

The major increases were in crimes against property. Auto thefts were up 22 per cent and larcenies nine. Among crimes against persons, rapes exceeded the 1950 figure by more than six per cent, Hoover said.

Murders decreased four per cent, manslaughter nine per cent, robbery eight per cent, burglary two per cent and aggravated assault less than two per cent.

SKUNK TAGS ALONG
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—When Mr. and Mrs. Harold Duke moved here from Tupelo, Miss., they found a skunk had moved with them, in the drawer of a vanity.

MUNCIE, Ind. (UP)—A mother dove and two young ones didn't budge from their tree-branch nest when carpenters started building a house less than a foot away. So the carpenters built around the limb until the baby birds could fly.

Trains Collide Head-On For Movie Thrill

Two old-time trains roar down a stretch of narrow gauge track and collide head-on near Durango, Colo.—but nobody got hurt. The terrific crash was staged for filming one of the scenes of the movie, "The Denver and Rio Grande." The moving picture is based on the construction of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad through the Rocky Mountains before the turn of the century. (AP Wirephoto).

Kansas River Valley Now Scene Of Vast Desolation

By SAM SMITH
MANHATTAN, Kan.—(UP)—The Kansas River valley—birthplace of the nation's first billion-dollar flood—looked like a mud-caked battlefield today, pock-marked with water-filled bomb craters.

Sandy desolation stretches mile after mile where corn should be deep green and cattle should be grazing.

The sand has choked off crops, perhaps for years to come.

The river is back inside its banks, but wide, shallow lakes stretch between sandbars across the valley.

Uprooted trees, torn as if by gunfire, lie on their sides, their roots in the air.

The city of Manhattan at the confluence of the Kansas and Big Blue rivers, suffered through 30 days of flood.

For the last two weeks there has been no business in the downtown area. There will be none for some weeks to come.

Flood damage here is estimated conservatively by Mayor Z. R. Hook at $22,500,000. That's an awful impact on a college town of some 20,000 persons.

The story also is told in the tears of a middle-age woman who two weeks ago lost her husband. She was scrubbing some furniture on her mud-coated porch, sobbing how "awful it is to be alone and have my home and everything I have left ruined."

It's told in the muddy, stinking piles of debris in the alleys and in the main street—debris that a couple of weeks ago was clothing, furniture, groceries, appliances.

It's told in the little radio shop which the proprietor had not even bothered to reopen, in twisted homes, in pumps busily sucking water from basements.

It's told in the sickly odor you smell in every flooded area in this valley.

Throughout the valley people are ruined financially. One hears echoed the remarks of Manhattan's Mayor Hook: "We must cut the red tape and get help for these people."

The American Federation of Labor was organized in Pittsburgh Nov. 15, 1881.

Your EXECUTOR

Personal integrity is only one of the necessary qualifications for an estate Executor these days. The ability and capacity to perform the work entrusted to him are equally important.

Good intentions are of little help if the Executor becomes lost in a maze of unfamiliar situations. Administration of the modern estate involves a multitude of technicalities and details which did not exist several years ago. TAXES, INVESTMENTS and PROPERTY MANAGEMENT have become specialized fields.

Your Executor should be a specialist in many fields if you expect him to carry out his trust efficiently. Since all the necessary qualifications can rarely be found in one person, the Guaranty Bank maintains a complete staff of men experienced in every phase of estate administration, who work together as one for the welfare of your family.

Lauds Intelligence Of Night Club Girls

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP)—Prof. Nathan S. Goldberg warned the nation's bachelors today that they're living in a fool's paradise if they still think chorus girls are dumb.

"For all-round savvy and native intelligence, I'd pit any of those I know against senior coed," he said. "They're alert, they're industrious and they try much harder for self-improvement."

Goldberg admitted he had no idea showgirls were so smart until he quit his teaching jobs at the University of Pennsylvania and the Martin School in Philadelphia to buy a nightclub. The change in occupations was unpremeditated.

"I went to Atlantic City to visit some friends," he said. "We had a terrible nice time one evening and the next morning I learned I had bought this nightclub."

He recalled he was in a magnificent sweat the first month, because there was nothing in his English, Greek history or physical culture text books to help him figure the profiles on such things as scotch, soda and steaks.

"It was such a challenge," the mild-mannered Goldberg explained, "that I couldn't reject it. I went right behind the bar and learned what a man means when he says he wants a boilermaker or a horse's neck."

Between shows at the smart yacht club, Goldberg said he got to know the chorus girls about himself and they were delighted to know their new boss was a former college teacher.

"Before I knew it, we were having classes in the afternoon," he said. "They picked the subjects and went heavily on modern literature, economics and music. I'm a little 'sack on that last one and they were w. t. by me there."

Shortly after he took over the club, a year ago in January, Goldberg instituted a system of giving girls who applied for chorus jobs a standard I-Q test. He wanted to satisfy a suspicion that most of them were above average.

"It was just as I thought," he said. "Their marks were well above those of the average girl entering college, and you have to remember some of them didn't even finish high school."

Goldberg said he hated to think of a bachelor of arts, science or philosophy trying to pull wool over his chorines' eyes.

"In a game like that, the man would end up without his bachelorhood," Prof. Goldberg said, "and it might be the most educational thing that ever happened to him."

'The Thing' Is Washed Ashore

SHUYAK ISLAND, Alaska (UP)—What has 45-inch feet, yellow-brown fur and no horns?

Why, "The Thing," of course! That's about as close as some experts came today to identifying the "monster" washed ashore here Tuesday.

Roy Lindley, Kodiak, Alaska, fish and wildlife expert, examined the creature yesterday.

"Frankly, it is unlike anything I have ever seen," he said, shaking his head as he stood over the 30-foot carcass.

There had been speculation that it was a whale. But its 45-inch feet ruled out that possibility.

Victor Schiffer, fish and wildlife biologist of Seattle, said that descriptions of the animal sounded "mostly like a whale."

"An investigation will be conducted to determine if the 'sea monster' is a sea elephant, long supposed to be extinct," Schiffer said.

"We said the last-known sea elephant was reported seen in the Bering Straits in the late 1700's. Photographs taken of the animal were sent to Seattle for further identification.

Oh, yes, it has hand-like front feet.

U. S. City Gets Canadian Water

CALAIS, Me. (AP)—This Down East Maine city is one of the few communities in the nation getting its water supply from another country.

Since 1908, Calais' population of 600 has received its water from St. Stephens, New Brunswick, just across the Canadian border.

Having this day qualified as administrator of the estate of W. G. Dresbach, deceased, this is to notify all persons having claims against said estate to present them to the undersigned at Greenville, North Carolina, within twelve months from the date hereof; otherwise this notice will be placed in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate settlement.

This 10th day of July, 1951. Joe M. Dresbach, Administrator, of the Estate of W. G. Dresbach, July 11-18-25 Aug. 1-8-15

Millionaire Dies At Winter Home

BELLEAIR, Fla. (UP)—Henry J. Topping Sr., 64-year-old millionaire father of playboys Bob and Dan Topping, died here of a heart attack yesterday at his winter home.

On of the nation's leading amateur golfers in the 1930's, Topping was the son of the late John Alexander Topping, one-time chairman of the board of the Republic Steel Corp.

Mr. Topping was a member of the Professional Beer-Taster Richard D. Bell worked too hard on his job. He was fined $50 yesterday for drunk driving.

Job Draws Fine Covert, Eng. (UP)—Professional beer-taster Richard D. Bell worked too hard on his job. He was fined $50 yesterday for drunk driving.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

A CENTER HALL modern one-story house with basement, this plan features large rooms and a spacious terrace and breezeway area for outdoor living. With a two-car garage, the house has an overall width of 35 feet. There are two baths, 10 closets and a dressing room with a built-in vanity. This is Plan #727 by Edward R. Tyler, architect, 885 Macon Road, Hempstead, N. Y. The house covers 1,830 square feet without garage, terrace and breezeway. The architect suggests a facade of brick or stone painted white.

Tough Iranian Military Figure Guarding Wealthy Oil District

By JAMES M. LONG

ABADAN, Iran—The husky six-foot Iranian general whose troops reoccupied Abadan from the Russians in 1945 is in command of the British-Iranian oil dispute.

He has three British warships at his port, an aroused Iranian populace determined that two thousand British men go—and he says:

"We'll have no trouble here. I have at my disposal more than enough forces to assure complete security."

Looks Like Coach He's 45-year-old Gen. Astozla Kamal (accent on the last syllable) military governor of Khuzistan where the British are slowly evacuating one of the richest oil fields under pressure of Iranian oil nationalization.

Take him out of his sun-bleached khaki and the square-jawed professional soldier in the army of the shah would look like an American football coach—graying a bit at the temples but in strapping fine physical condition.

He didn't get that way from athletics. "Never had time for sport," he says. "The Army has kept me busy."

He's busy now. His Tenth Iranian Division (Iranian divisions are only a fraction the size of American and European Army divisions) has been ordered from Teheran to make sure there is no trouble here.

For if it started it might lead to World War III, with Britain determined to see that her subjects are safe and with Uncle Ivan watching from the north to see that no western armies land here. Numbers Secret General Kamal refuses to say how many men he has for the job, or how they are deployed in this land that comes down from the snow-capped Zagros mountains to the desertland at the head of the Persian gulf.

"If you were playing poker," he says, "you'd hardly beat the other players see your cards."

His Tenth Division is part of the Southern Iranian Military Command with headquarters at Ahwas 100 miles northeast of here.

That's where his tanks are in reserve—Shermans and light Stuarts that Iran got from American Army surplus stores. And that's his air force base, too, if he needs to call on Gen. Shah Bakhtiari, Iran's "tiger of the south" for air support.

But Kamal doesn't expect to need help. He said Teheran had offered him more troops and he replied "no need for them."

Troops Drafted His force is composed of Iranian compulsory service troops mostly on the 18th month of their required 24 months service. They come mainly from this wasteland, accustomed to the blasting heat of 180 degrees in the sun and 120 in the shade in country where there is no shade.

Kamal studied military science at the French-run Ecole de la Guerre at Teheran.

He was born at Teheran, Iran's most modern city.

"But that was more or less accidental," he explains.

His family came from the salt desert country of the great plateau near ancient Qum southeast of Teheran. He was born when his father and mother were in the capital temporarily on business.

Painting Skill Delays Sentence ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—A convict won another delay from Circuit Judge William R. Dusher in a habeas corpus petition to serve his sentence in the Winnebago County jail instead of the Joliet penitentiary, all because he's handy with a paint brush.

His attorney told the court the man was "doing a good job of rehabilitation" in the county jail. "He does good work with a paint brush," the attorney said.

"It's a strange request," Judge Dusher commented. "I'll take it under advisement at least until the painting is done."

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE Naging backache, loss of pep and energy, headache and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday conditions, such as stress and strain, cause this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 60 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these disorders—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

General Claims Agent Fred L. Johnson found Fulton's letter quite "refreshing" and with good reason. He okayed $50,000 in livestock claims last year.

Republicans 'Hold Fire' On Checks Given Boyle

WASHINGTON (UP)—Republicans held their fire today—at least momentarily—on a report that Democratic national chairman William M. Boyle Jr. got $8,000 from a St. Louis printing firm after it received an RFC loan.

It appeared, however, to be the calm before the storm.

The Republican national committee had no immediate statement on the report published yesterday in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Post-Dispatch said that the American Printing Co. began making $500 monthly payments to Boyle soon after the RFC, which had refused three earlier applications, approved loan to the company totaling $565,000.

The only immediate Republican reaction came on Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.) who read news patches about the case to the Senate and said:

"These stories demonstrate how low the morals of this administration have deteriorated during the past five years."

In previous Senate speeches, Williams had criticized the RFC loan to the printing company and charged that former Eastern Missouri internal revenue collector James P. Finnegan had been "legal adviser" to the firm shortly after the loan went through in March, 1949.

Finnegan now is under grand jury indictment in St. Louis.

Boyle was quoted by the Post-Dispatch as saying the payments were made to him as "legal fees" for work not connected with the RFC loans, but the paper said it had learned that Boyle's checks were charged to "commissions" by the firm.

State Dept. In Defiant Mood; 'Dare' McCarthy

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department angrily defied Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy today, and all but dared him to name 20 persons he claims are security risks.

The Wisconsin Republican accepted the challenge promptly and said he would reveal the names in a 15-minute speech "within a few days."

McCarthy said he had made a "reasonable" request that he be assured that the 20 persons be barred from "secret materials" while their cases were pending before the department's loyalty-security board. He said the department gave him "no choice" but to make the names public.

In an angry letter, the department told McCarthy that it would not yield or compromise his "political strategy or threat."

Undersecretary of State Carlisle Nelson, head of the loyalty-security division, wrote the blistering reply. He said disclosure of the names would violate President Truman's order forbidding release of any information on pending loyalty cases.

The caustic exchange could be the opening cross-fire of a new row between the department and McCarthy, who last year accused the department of harboring Communists. His charges were investigated by a Senate subcommittee.

The subcommittee's Democratic members charged McCarthy with "a fraud and a hoax," but Republicans countered with cries of "whitewash." The chairman, former Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D-Md.), was defeated for reelection in a campaign that centered on the investigation.

The State Department made no attempt at "fully mollifying" McCarthy. Humaine said the attack was made "for purely political reasons, and without regard to the facts."

He said McCarthy's list—"like your previous lists"—contained the names of persons not working for the State Department, some who already have been cleared and others whose cases actually are pending.

McCarthy said his list "cannot be incorrect" because he got it from Chairman Hiram Bingham of the Civil Service Commission's top-level loyalty review board.

Another Hot Day

Last night's 20-minute rain in the city cooled things off considerably, although it brought on another hot and sticky day today.

Close to half an inch—49-fell last night, beginning about nine o'clock, which brought the two-day rainfall total to 2.59 inches.

Yesterday's high temperature was 90 degrees, the low was 75, and at eight this morning remained at 75. A year ago today, a day which was brought, sunny and with nary a trace of rain, high reading was 91 degrees with a low of 76.

On Alert For Major Communist Assault

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson told Congress today that the United Nations is on alert for a major Communist assault.

"The Red-Allie mystic talks should collapse," Acheson said.

Opening administration testimony on its proposed $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program, Acheson stated: "The discussions at Kaesong thus far have not yet produced agreement as to any points of substance which are essential to a satisfactory armistice."

"If the armistice talks should collapse, we should be ready for a Communist assault on the United Nations forces. The enemy has been building up his forces (Matthew B.) Ridgway is alert to the threat and is ready for it."

Acheson used the true talks to emphasize that the United States should not let down on any phase of its defense program at home or abroad. He said the United States must not allow itself to be "pulled of balance" by any shift in Communist tactics or if there is a Korean armistice.

"Day-to-day changes in the news from Korea do not change the basic situation," Acheson said. "The danger is no less real than it was a month ago. The strategy of the Kremlin is still the same."

Acheson said it would be "mistaken" to imply that the aid program could be completed without sacrifice.

"It is going to cost large sums of money and it is going to take time," he said. "I am convinced, however, that it represents the most economical, practical, and efficient method of providing this before—that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were afraid to say what they really thought because of fear of reprisal from the White House.

It is difficult to nail down precisely what the general had in mind in many parts of his speech since in almost all of it he made charges without naming names.

For example, he spoke of the "insidious forces working from within which already have so drastically altered the character of our free institutions." Those "insidious forces," he said, have "infiltrated into positions of public trust and responsibility—into journalism, the press, the radio and the schools."

Mid-way in his speech he again defended his conduct as commander-in-chief of the United Nations armed forces and blistered the Truman reasons for firing him.

And he criticized the amount of aid this country is giving its allies abroad but added: "We should do all in our power to alleviate the suffering and hardship of other peoples and to support their maximum effort to preserve their freedom from the assault of Communist imperialism."

When this effort is "carried beyond the ability to pay," he said, it becomes "insufferable."

one of the shortest—since the Kaesong meetings began July 10.

The U.N. announcement said that following the approval of the agenda, the negotiators began a preliminary discussion of the other items: "in order that a potential for halting bloodshed in Korea may be realized as soon as possible."

This indicated that the delegates talked on the question of the demilitarized zone to be established between the opposing armies.

Prolonged debate was anticipated on this item. The U.N. wants the demarcation line fixed along the present fighting front, which extends 26 miles north of the 38th parallel in the east.

Communists, on the other hand, want the Allies to fall back across the 38th parallel, pre-war frontier between South and Communist North Korea.

773 New Cases Of Polio Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—Polio increased about 30 per cent last week, the Public Health Service said today.

During the week 773 new cases were reported, compared with 592 in the preceding week and 592 in the corresponding week a year ago.

The number of cases since the seasonal low point last March is 3,360, compared with 3,892 a year ago.

Flood Waters Flow Into Gulf

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (UP)—The great midwestern flood rolled sluggishly down the Mississippi toward the Gulf of Mexico today as federal, state and municipal officials conferred on the staggering job of reconstruction.

The crest passed Cape Girardeau at 41.7 feet yesterday, leaving a two-mile waterfront section flooded. There was no new threat, but at Nume: 3 points the river was under close watch.

The river dropped toward 38-foot level at St. Louis early today, but soggy levees at Chouteau Island, Ill., and in Perry County, Mo., still were patrolled by volunteers and soldiers to keep sand boils and seepage under control.

In Kansas City, an emergency flood conference recommended establishment of federally-sponsored flood protective insurance and urged completion of the Pick-Sloan flood control plan for the great basin.

Thousands of families and hundreds of industries in the Kansas and Missouri valleys suffered losses up to 100 per cent due to lack of insurance.

Some 1,500 federal, state and city officials and citizens from flood-stricken communities attended the emergency conference.

They asked that the federally-sponsored insurance "be made available at practical and reasonable cost to home owners, farmers, and all commercial institutions owning property in the flood plains of navigable rivers and their tributaries under control of the federal government."

The resolution further recommended the insurance program be given "retroactive effect" within "sound limitations."

The National Production Authority dispatched an emergency mission to Kansas City to help with rehabilitation of business and industry. It will have full authority to approve an adequate flow of materials to the distressed area, officials said.

gas tanks held only about five gallons of gasoline and the men were forced to stop and fill the car.

It was at Brooks Service Station, located on the Pactolus Highway about five miles from Greenville, that the men were first spotted. After buying gas for the car they released the three dogs, telling the owner to call Captain Crawford in an hour's time and let him know where the dogs were. The men then headed in the direction of Grimesland. As soon as the two pulled away from the station, Greenville police were called and the location of the men was flashed on the radio and the dragnet of officers began to close in on the fleeing car.

Traveling at a high rate of speed the convicts reached Grimesland before officers could set up roadblocks and were next spotted as they entered the Black Jack Highway headed towards Chicod. Next reports on the escapees were when they passed through Chicod, and took a rural road from there.

Nothing further was heard from the car until about nine o'clock when a patrol car picked up the trail out of New Bern and roadblocks were ordered around Cherry Point. Officers later learned that the men took a dirt road to Port Barnwell after leaving Chicod, then hit the Old New Bern-Kinston Highway going into New Bern. It was shortly after leaving New Bern that they were spotted and the end of the chase crew near.

A heavy concentration of Patrolmen and Sheriff Department personnel had been centered around Ayden and Grifton area, with all roads blocked, the officers thinking that the two might swing back through there and not head for the coast.

A roadblock established at Sautter's Service Station, about one mile North of Cherry Point on Highway 70, finally snared the prey, with Patrolmen N. H. Robinson of Havelock and J. W. Sykes of Morehead City making the arrest.

The two men were returned to Wednesday by removing their demand that the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea be considered at the armistice talks.

In the place, they submitted a compromise proposal which was accepted Thursday by chief U.N. negotiator Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy. Details were not disclosed.

Observers generally believed that the mechanics of agreeing on an armistice would prove less difficult than had the agenda.

However, Communist newsmen in Kaesong predicted that it would take 1 to 3 weeks to work out the details and an additional two weeks to put them into effect—possibly until September.

The agreement on the agenda came with dramatic suddenness at the 10th negotiating session—and

Vagrancy Law Is Questioned By New York Negro

NEW YORK (UP)—Fred Arnold, 24-year-old clothing cutter, has started suit to have the state vagrancy law declared unconstitutional on the grounds that loafing is a person's own business.

Arnold, a Negro, was arrested last Oct. 29 on vagrancy charges during Mayor Vincent Impellitteri's pre-election roundup of loiterers as he was standing on a street corner.

He admitted to police he wasn't working, but refused to say how he supported his family. Later, he was found not guilty of the charges, and filed suit for $50,000 damages against the city and the arresting officer.

The city replied the arrest was justified under the law. But Arnold's lawyer claimed in an answer filed yesterday that the vagrancy law is unconstitutional on grounds it deprives a person of due process of law and violates constitutional rights against involuntary servitude.

Here To Assist Air Reservists

A non-commissioned officer of the Regular Air Force will be here tomorrow to answer any questions pertaining to the Volunteer Air Reserve Training program that is being conducted here every week.

The officer will be located in the office of Col. T. K. Fountain in the Edwards Building tomorrow afternoon from two to five o'clock.

The local meetings of the Reserve are held each Friday in East Carolina's Austin Building at eight o'clock. This week's program consists of several Air Force films, showing matters of interest to all officers and enlisted men in the Reserve, Col. Fountain said.
