Solons Denounce Butler Tactics In Winning Seat

Say Senator's Supporters "Destructive Of Fundamental American Principles"

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Elections Subcommittee today bitterly denounced the campaign tactics of Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md) but did not recommend that he be ousted from the Senate.

The subcommittee conducted a long investigation into charges by Butler's defeated opponent, former Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D-Md) that Butler's supporters used "scurrilous" campaign literature against him and were guilty of financial irregularities.

The subcommittee recommended: 1. The Senate Rules Committee should ask the Senate to adopt a rule "which will prescribe in unequivocal terms that the use of defamatory literature in a senatorial campaign will constitute good grounds" for ousting a senator and declaring his seat vacant.

2. The Senate should set standards "to definitely fix by law the responsibility on the part of a candidate for the campaign acts and conduct of his campaign manager and other authorized campaign aides."

3. The election laws should be changed to rule out composites "which falsely or maliciously misrepresents facts and without justification create and exploit doubt about the loyalty to his country of an opposing candidate."

4. The provision should cover "all types of composites, whether they be newspaper pictures, voice recordings, motion pictures or any other means or medium of conveying a misrepresenting composite impression."

5. The Illinois judgeships put off a week.

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman was given a one-week postponement on his controversial Illinois judgeship appointments today in a move to make peace with his.

His request was submitted to a Senate Judiciary subcommittee by Peyton Ford, assistant to the attorney general, as the group prepared to open hearings on the appointment of Cornelius J. Harrington to the district court in Northern Illinois.

A note Ford had scribbled hastily in pencil was handed to Chairman Pat McCarran (D-Nev) as he summoned Harrington and Douglas to the committee table. It requested a one-week delay to "obtain additional information."

McCarran granted the delay. Douglas appeared to find it hard to believe that a compromise effort actually is in the works.

"I love you, I love you, I love you," he said to reporters. Although Ford said "additional information" was wanted, it had been made known earlier that the president is trying to arrange a compromise in his stormy dispute with Douglas.

A well-informed senator who declined use of his name said the president was prepared to withdraw the appointment of Joseph J. Drucker, whom Douglas also opposes, and substitute Benjamin J. Epstein, the senator's choice, if Douglas accepts Harrington and drops his fight on behalf of William H. King.

OPS Puts Sixteen Used Car Dealers Out Of Business

Prohibits Dealers From Selling Cars Until They Meet Regulations

RALEIGH (UP)—The Office of Price Stabilization put 16 Eastern North Carolina used car dealers temporarily out of business yesterday in the stiffest enforcement of OPS regulations yet made in the nation.

Federal Judge Don Gilliam signed injunctions against the dealers prohibiting them from selling any automobiles until they meet requirements of OPS regulations. He ordered them to appear in court here Aug. 9 to show cause why the injunctions should not be made permanent.

James F. Latham, district enforcement director, said similar action is being sought against three dealers in the Burlington area. The orders were issued against Marvin Ham Used Cars, Fayetteville; Thomas Woodrow Shirley, Smithfield; Hurley Motor Co., Morehead City; Carleton R. Nixon, Winfall; E. L. Yoder and B. B. Pittman, Sharpburg; Wrenn Motors, Lenoir; Spencer Motor Sales, Lenoir; D. & E. Car Exchange, Wilmington; Gupton Service Center, Lenoir; Willetts Motor Co., Bolivia; Bradshaw Bros. Used Cars, Wilmington; Morgan Motor Co., Raeford; Pamlico Motor Co., Washington; Pembroke Motor Co., Pembroke; Britt Buick Co., Elizabethtown; and Edwards Brothers, Lenoir.

Reports Indicate Demand Laid By United Nations For Truce Line

Ex-Priest And Girl Plan To Wed

Get High Sign From Federals On New Controls

Government May Abolish Open Market In Steel, Copper And Aluminum

By ANTHONY ULLSTEIN United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—Businessmen got the high sign today that the government is set to stop an experiment in running U. S. industry partly under controls.

Soon it will be completely under controls. Defense Production Administrator Fleishmann said last night that the government may abolish the open market in steel, copper and aluminum, the basic industrial metals.

Fleishmann told a meeting of steelmen that he is "convinced" the change would be good for everyone. He said he would reach a formal decision in the next few days.

No one at the meeting had any doubt as to which way the decision will go, particularly since all indications have been that the government's Controlled Materials Plan (CMP) will be extended to cover all industry starting Oct. 1.

Such a move would end what Fleishmann earlier this year called an experiment in letting civilian goods manufacturers get their basic metals on the open market—as best they could and how they wished—while supplies for defense production were rationed strictly.

Fleishmann said practice has shown that a "100 per cent controlled materials plan" would be easier to operate. He said it would assure allocations to civilian goods manufacturers, many of whom have been left empty-handed while scrambling for supplies on the open market.

However, businessmen were not sure that a return to the 100 per cent controls setup of World War II is what the nation needs at this time.

Industry representatives at a meeting said that even with CMP allotment "tickets," many companies would not be able to get steel. Controls, they said, have thrown the normal consumer-supplier relationship out of kilter.

Other steel spokesmen complained that too many companies are asking for and getting allotments which they do not need, just to be on the safe side. They said the National Production Authority has allocated more steel than there is in total supply, with confusion the result.

Fleishmann's reply to this was that some dislocation is inevitable at the outset, but things are getting straightened out.

Board Votes To Enforce City Sanitation Laws

90 West Pointers Being Dismissed

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army announced today it is dismissing about 90 West Point cadets because they sought outside assistance in academic work.

Army Secretary Frank Pace Jr. said the action followed the findings of a board consisting of Judge Learned Hand, Lt. Gen. Troy H. Middleton and Maj. Gen. Robert M. Danford, former commandant of cadets at the academy.

The announcement did not include names of the cadets, but said: "In the group being discharged are cadets who have been prominent in various activities including varsity football."

The statement indicated that the dismissal action has not yet been carried out. "I deeply regret that it is necessary to take this severe action," Pace said in a statement. "The great value of West Point to the board heard health officer Dr. T. G. Basnight say that his department will cooperate with the city in ridding itself of insanitary privies and water outlets, making landfills connect their tenants' houses to sewer lines and water mains where they exist.

So far as the aldermen were concerned the thing was actually a cut and dried issue. Instead of the looked-for protesters, not one showed up to say that the enforcement of the ordinance would work a hardship on him—contrary, at least, to a similar meeting in 1948 when the board heard protests from several persons.

As a matter of fact a local dealer in plumbing equipment, which has been outlawed by sanitarians, backed up the health department's claim that such toilet facilities should be condemned. He was George W. Smith, manager of Standard Supply Company here, who stated he had sold large numbers of the Vogel type toilet in the past when a clean-up of city sanitary conditions was ordered.

However, last night he was in full agreement with Basnight and Willie Pate, sanitarian who will make part of the condemnations, saying the Vogel type is insanitary equipment.

The Board's feeling on the matter followed Mayor Lester Page's thinking previously—that the law is on the books and it has to be enforced. Pate told the Board that a little less than 40 percent of the residences in the city were not connected to sewer and water lines, either because of the absence of the lines in certain neighborhoods or because landlords have refused to make the connections in neighborhoods where the lines exist.

Hoey Sees Little Chance Of Senate Approving Tax

Hoey Sees Closed Hearing Next Week

WASHINGTON—There is practically no chance that the Senate will yield to the Administration's request for a three-cent per pack tax increase on cigarettes, Senator Clyde Hoey said today.

However, Hoey added, it is still too early to determine whether the one-cent per pack increase voted by the House can be removed by the Senate.

Several other members of the Senate Finance Committee who did not wish to be quoted, agreed with the North Carolina Senator's summary of the situation.

The finance committee yesterday heard a powerful plea by J. Con Lanier, Greenville tobaccoist, against increased taxation of cigarettes. And Hoey said today he would lead a fight in committee for removal of the House-approved levy.

But the North Carolina senator did not change his opinion of the one-cent tax increase, which would depend to a great extent on how the rest of the defense tax bill shapes up. He pointed out that the committee will not begin closed sessions for consideration of the bill until sometime next week.

"But," he said, "I do not think there is any danger at all that the committee will increase the one-cent added by the House. I do not think, and I do not think anybody on the committee thinks, that the three-cent increase asked by the Treasury is reasonable, and I am of the opinion that the committee would not consider a two-cent compromise either."

COURTESY ON ROADS WINNIPEG—(AP)—Increased accidents resulting from improper passing have led the Manitoba Automobile Transport Association to launch a campaign against its offense Mayor Garnet Coulter pasted the first "Yield to Trucks" sign on the back of a truck.

Balance sheet for the week between good and bad news in the hot and cold wars.

GOOD NEWS Britain and Iran agreed on a basis for a full-dress resumption of oil negotiations. Britain is sending a government mission headed by a cabinet minister, Richard Stokes, to Tehran in what may be a final effort to reach an agreement that will keep Iran's oil—one-sixth of the world's production—flowing to the West.

New Questions In '52 Nominations

Says South Opposed To "Centralized, Socialistic" Proposals Of President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Political leaders, both Republican and Democrat, conceded today that President Truman and Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio had their guesses.

Lausche, who has a habit of puzzling his Democratic party colleagues, did it again at the White House yesterday by announcing that he had urged Mr. Truman to run in 1952.

The Ohio governor reported that the President smiled and thanked him. Mr. Truman himself got off a political brow lifter earlier in the day.

He hinted at his weekly news conference that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's duties in Europe would not interfere if the general is in (Continued on Page 10)

'Million Dollar Mountain' Captured By U. N. Forces

8TH ARMY HQ. Korea, Sat. (UP)—United Nations fighting men stormed and captured the "million dollar mountain" on the central Korean front Friday in face of Communist machine gun, mortar and artillery fire.

Allied infantrymen captured the hill, which got its name from the enormous amount of fire power that was poured into it before the assault, at midday.

"The operation was a complete success," an Allied spokesman said. "We inflicted heavy losses on the Reds."

The 5th Air Force announced that 53 American B-26 light bombers smashed at the North Korean capital of Pyongyang again Thursday night in one of the heaviest raids in recent weeks. They destroyed huge supply dumps and left the city wreathed in flames.

Also Indicates That Compromise To Break Deadlock, Now In Ninth Day, Might Be In Sight; Developments Introduce New Factor Into Negotiations

United Press Staff Correspondent PEACE CAMP, Korea, Sat. (UP)—Apparently reliable reports indicated today that the United Nations command has laid down a demand for a truce line far north of the present battle front.

The reports which came from both the Communist and the Allied sides, indicated that a compromise to break the deadlock in negotiations, now in its ninth day, might soon be in sight.

Developments which introduced an entirely new factor into the negotiations included: 1. It was disclosed in Tokyo that the United States Army issued a press release three days ago saying that the truce line ought logically to be fixed somewhere between the present front and the Manchurian-Siberian border.

2. A U. N. briefing officer in Seoul, asked about reports that the U. N. has demanded a truce line north of the present front, said: "I have heard such reports but can not comment."

3. Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, briefing officer at this cease-fire base, said of a statement by Communist correspondents in Kaesong that the U. N. demands a truce line "far north" of the present front, that he "concerned a substantive part of the negotiations and that he could not comment."

The Army release to Japanese papers said a substance the military demarcation line should be midway between the Yalu-Tumen river line and the present battle line. (The Tumen River forms the border between Korea and Soviet Siberia.)

The official line in Kaesong has been that the U. N. command was holding out for a truce line on the present front and that the Communists demanded a line along the 38th Parallel, a boundary between South and North Korea.

The U. N. command has never permitted U. N. correspondents to say exactly where the present battle line is.

Thus it seemed possible that a compromise might be reached on a line below the "far north" one the Communists are talking about but still north of the 38th Parallel.

Kaesong session. Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. negotiator, told the Reds the Allies would not withdraw south of the parallel and thus satisfy Communist "political desires to subdivide Korea."

A break in the deadlock seems imminent. For eight days the Allied and Red negotiators have argued fruitlessly.

The 19th cease-fire meeting starts at 11 a. m. Saturday (6 p. m. EST Friday).

A Red compromise proposal may come then. The Allies expect the Communists to back down on their demand for a buffer zone along the 38th Parallel—pre-war frontier between North and South Korea.

Government May Abolish Open Market In Steel, Copper And Aluminum

He estimated that he and the department's other sanitarians can make the citywide condemnations in 12 months' time. That will have to be done in addition to their other duties throughout the county, he said, unless the City can dig up a man to help them in the undertaking. Getting such a man is a future proposition, it was decided, and it was left up to the street department to supply him.

Balance Sheet

Britain And Iran Agree On Basis For Oil Negotiations; Sending Government Mission; Bed News—Cease-Fire Talks Remain Deadlocked In Korea

Balance sheet for the week between good and bad news in the hot and cold wars.

GOOD NEWS Britain and Iran agreed on a basis for a full-dress resumption of oil negotiations. Britain is sending a government mission headed by a cabinet minister, Richard Stokes, to Tehran in what may be a final effort to reach an agreement that will keep Iran's oil—one-sixth of the world's production—flowing to the West.

The Russian people finally got a chance to read and hear an unvarnished version of what the Western world thinks of their government and what life in a Western country is really like. The official Soviet newspaper Pravda made good on its agreement to publish in full a statement addressed to the Russian people by British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison and ran its reply alongside. Both statements have been picked up by other Soviet newspapers and by Soviet radio stations.

Unrest is growing in Russia's satellites. Reliable Yugoslav sources say the Communist regime in Bulgaria has arrested 200 high-ranking Reds in a desperate effort to retain control of the country.

British Oil Mission Optimistic In Talks

LONDON (UP)—A British mission left for Tehran today convinced that a settlement can be reached in the Anglo-Iranian dispute which cut off vital oil supplies to the West.

Lord Privy Seal Richard Stokes, head of the mission of diplomatic, legal and financial experts, said he was certain of the "utmost goodwill" in the talks.

"As long as we get that," he said, "I think we shall find some solution which will be acceptable to everybody."

Korea Veteran To Resume Position On GHS Faculty

Ward James, a 31-year old Korean war veteran, will resume his teaching duties at Greenville High School next month after being away for nine years.

James is a native of Winterville and returned last month from Korea where he spent seven months in combat. Prior to entering the Infantry in World War II he taught English and mathematics at the high school after graduating from East Carolina in 1941. This fall he will teach senior English and two classes in dramatics.

His World War II ground forces duty carried him to the ETO where he fought in Germany until the end of hostilities. Following that he was connected with American Military Government in the western zone during 1946-47.

Rent Controls

New Rent Control Law Is Same With Changes; Two Main Changes Made which apply To Places Under Federal Control; Four Parts Remain Unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is an ABC on rent controls. The new rent control law, which went into effect this week, was laid on top of the old law, still in effect. So what we have is the same rent control law with changes. These are the two main changes:

(a) The government now can put controls on any community, whether or not it's ever been under controls, but only if that place is considered a critical part of the defense program.

Attends Methodist Town And Country Conferences

Among the 2,500 Methodist pastors and lay leaders who participated in the "National Methodist Town and Country Conference," Sioux City, Iowa, recently was Mr. Roy Turnage, Jr., lay delegate, representing the New Bern district.

The conference, called by the Council of Bishops and by the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Church, was planned to discuss the importance and place of the church in the rural and smaller communities of America, and to help the smaller churches better the service they render to men, women and children in their communities.

Bishop Charles W. Brashear, of Des Moines, was general chairman and keynote speaker of the conference.

A unique feature of the conference was on Sunday when the delegates visited some 194 churches in 39 counties of our states within a radius of 80 miles of Sioux City. The delegates conducted the worship and preaching services, taught church school classes, and discussed with the churches their problems of leadership, of religious education, etc. It is estimated that more than 20,000 people were reached in the preaching services, and 17,000 in the church school sessions.

While much of the conference was in the nature of study groups on specific problems—with findings that will later be transmitted to local churches and pastors for their study and use—there were also on the program a number of nationally-known speakers on problems related to the rural church and the small community. Among these speakers were: President Murray D. Lincoln of CARE, Prof. Charles M. McConnell of Boston University, Dr. Carl G. Taylor of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bishop Gerald Kennedy of Portland, Oregon, Dr. Arthur F. Draper of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bishop Hasen G. Werner of Columbus, O., and Miss Katherine F. Lenroot of the U. S. Children's Bureau.

To Enter Fork Union Academy
A Greenville boy, George W. Gardner Jr., has been accepted for enrollment at Fork Union Military Academy, located at Fork Union, Va., and he will enter that school for the first time in September. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gardner of 705 W. Third Street.

Gardner will study under the new one-subject plan at Fork Union. This is the system which allows a student to concentrate on only one subject at the time and to thoroughly complete that course of study before moving on to the next topic. The plan has been highly successful.

At Fork Union, the Greenville boy will become a member of the cadet corps which last year earned an honor ROTC rating from the Department of the Army. All Fork Union cadets receive standard ROTC training under the supervision of U. S. Army officers assigned to the school.

Gardner is expected to be a member of the senior class at Fork Union.

Churches of Christ, Scientist
The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches next Sunday is "Love."

The Golden Text is from Jude (1:21). "Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life."

Selections from the Bible include: "And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him." (I John 4:16)

And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine Love is infinite. Therefore all that really exists is in and of God, and manifests His love." (p. 340) "Universal Love is the divine way in Christian Science." (p. 266)

TRUTH SERUM FOR "DEAD" MAN—Questioning officers are using truth serum on Sam Jones who was found alive in Denver, Colo., last week—two years after he was believed to have been murdered near New Orleans. TROUBLE, TROUBLE, TROUBLE FOR RED BONDSMEN—Continuing investigations and court actions are piling more trouble on this quartet in New York. All are trustees of the Civil Rights Congress Ball Fund, designed to furnish bail for accused Communists. Left to right: W. Alpheus Hutton, Mystery Story Writer Dashiell Hammett, Leftist Millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field, and Abner Green. Field and Green were sentenced in New York Federal court Monday to serve six months each in jail for contempt in refusing to answer questions before a federal grand jury. The grand jury was investigating the source of bail for Communist chiefs convicted of teaching how to overthrow the U. S. government by violence. Meanwhile, Hutton and Hammett were questioned by the New York State Banking Department to determine whether the ball fund of the Civil Rights Congress violated banking laws. They, too, are serving jail sentences. (AP Wirephoto).

Graduates From Cooking School

FORT BENNING, Ga.—Pfc. Marvin B. Mobley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mobley of 706 West 4th Street, Greenville, N.C., graduated recently from the cook's course at the Third Army Food Service School here, Lt. Col. Don C. Romine, commandant, announced.

This course is designed to train selected officers and warrant officers in the administration and supervision of a unit or consolidated mess, and to direct food service planning and operation at military installations.

It is one of five courses open to officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army and Air Force Organized Reserve Corps and National Guard. Courses range from training recruits to be cooks to training officers in mess administration. Due to the world situation, the field type mess under combat conditions is stressed.

Towns And Cities In State Eligible For Powell Act

RALEIGH (UP)—The State Highway Commission reported today that 300 cities and towns are eligible for state street building aid under the Powell Act passed by the 1951 General Assembly.

Statistical engineer James S. Burch estimated about $4,543,000 will be allotted to these municipalities. Total populations of the towns in 1950 was 1,708,444 and they possess 5,230 miles of streets which meet the requirement for state aid under the act.

Burch said the allocations would amount to approximately $435 per street mile and $1.51 for each person in the 1950 population.

Charlotte, with 306 miles, has the highest amount of street mileage not on state or county highway system.

Thomas B. Perry, Jr., executive secretary of the Berkshire Music Festival, said last night ushers will hand out wraparound skirts to women who show up in shorts.

Ava And Frankie Cut Trip Short And Return

MEXICO CITY (UP)—Crooner Frank Sinatra, who says he doesn't believe in "quickie" divorces, and movie star Ava Gardner planned today to cut short their summer vacation and return reluctantly to Hollywood.

The spindly idol of wartime bobbers said he and the sultry screen siren would sun themselves on the beaches at Acapulco over the weekend before flying back to stop all the gossiping.

Sinatra and Miss Gardner arrived in Mexico City Wednesday night with an overload of baggage on what they had hoped would be a "secret" junket.

But their dreams of quiet turned into nightmares as reporters tried to confirm reports that Sinatra was planning to get a Mexican divorce from his wife, Nancy, so he could marry the North Carolina beauty.

"There's not a bit of truth to these rumors," Sinatra said. "We're really just on a vacation. I do not believe in overnight divorces."

Judge Gives All-White Jury A 'Tongue-Lashing'

WINTON (UP)—A Superior Court judge delivered a "tongue-lashing" here to an all-White jury for clearing a White tenant farmer's son of a morals charge involving a Negro girl, but jurors said today their verdict was "exactly just."

"The verdict was an outrage based solely upon the fact that the prosecuting attorney was a colored girl and the defendant a White man," declared Judge Henry A. Grady of New Bern yesterday. "This is a disgrace to the White race, a disgrace to this country," said the judge. "No man who would render such a verdict on the evidence offered in this case is fit to serve on a jury."

Bandit Found By Wife's 'Joke'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—A former loan company employe whose wife tipped police "just as a joke" admitted today that he had staged five holdups here. When police arrested Forrest W. Ford, 34, his wife Mable hurriedly explained her tip was a prank, but victims at four loan companies identified Ford as the bandit who had robbed them. Ford then confessed.

Mrs. Ford said she had teased Ford about his resemblance to the bandit's description and decided to "get even" because he paid too much attention to another woman at a club last Saturday night.

The slave trade began in 1503, when the Portuguese landed the first shipment of Negroes at Santo Domingo.

Newsome, son of a Hertford County tenant farmer and operator of a Mamaronock, N. Y., delicatessen, is married and has three children. He was originally charged with raping the 15-year-old girl last June 30. A grand jury reduced the charge to carnal knowledge of a female under 16.

Newsome was visiting here when the alleged incident took place. "Judge Grady's remarks were unjust," commented the jury foreman J. B. Horton, an Abner's fish salesman. "We feel our verdict is correct."

Another juror, merchant J. P. Wheedbee, said "the judge and the solicitor advised us along the lines of the law and we followed their advice. No other verdict could have been returned under the circumstances."

Court clerk Arthur W. Greene said Grady's "tongue-lashing" had stirred up a great deal of resentment in this tobacco belt county, which has a population 62 per cent Negro.

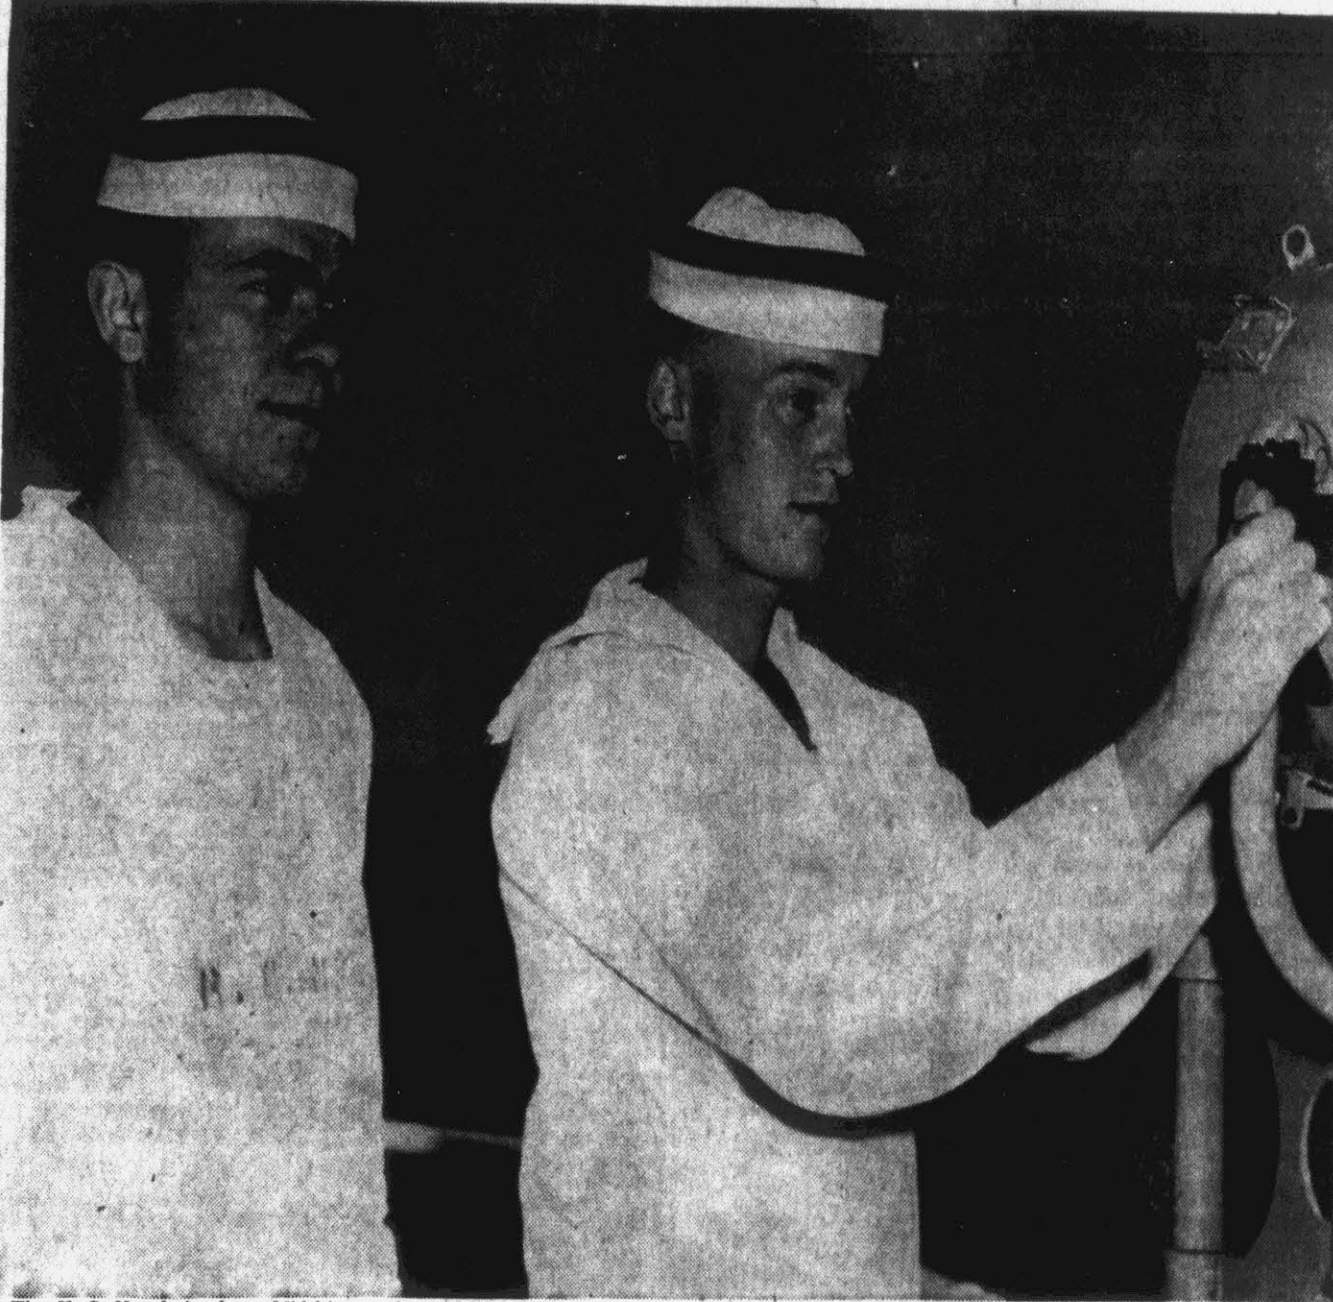

The Negroes are upset about the verdict, said Greene, "and the Whites are upset about the judge's denunciation of the jury. We don't expect any trouble. The relationship between White and colored people here has been ideal for many years."

The girl, described by Greene as "very intelligent," testified that Newsome came to her home Saturday, June 30, and asked her to sit with his children while he and his wife attended a movie. She said he then drove her to the home of her brother some distance away, choked her, threatened her life and raped her five times during the afternoon and evening.

Newsome denied having sexual relations with the girl.

"There's no question about his committing perjury," said Judge Grady. "No one swears he had never been to her brother's home when there was definite evidence that he had been there."

Girl And Italian Priest Go Job Hunting In Italy

MILAN, Italy (UP)—Claire Young of Chicago, and an Italian former priest went job hunting today before their civil marriage which will excommunicate him automatically from the Roman Catholic church.

Miss Young, 21, was released from prison last night after spending six days there on charges of "insulting Italian police." She went directly to the two-room apartment that Luciano Negrini, 42, a former priest who met her in Chicago, shares with his aunt. The couple left the apartment this morning and the aunt said they had "gone looking for work."

The American blonde has received three job offers in Milan. Negrini has been searching for employment for months and said he had received several offers "but nothing permanent."

They can not marry immediately since the paper work for the ceremony takes about 15 days and Miss Young must have her birth certificate and other documents from Chicago.

Miss Young was given a three-month extension of her permit to stay in Italy after a psychiatric examination found her "sound in body and mind." Her old permit would have expired Monday and then she could have been deported.

The girl's mother, who objected to her following Negrini to Italy, and then came here to prevent their marriage, remained in a Milan convent.

Mail For Flood Victims Goes Out

RALEIGH (AP)—A flood of mail designed to help save lives in case of disaster has been sent out from the North Carolina Civil Defense office here.

State Civil Defense Director E. Z. Jones said today that more than 638,000 booklets, brochures and cards were given statewide distribution by his office this week.

The material includes official instructions in emergency life saving, suggestions for assembling household first aid kits, and air raid alert cards.

All three publications are available to the public in local civil defense offices, Jones said.

Americans ate an average of 300 pounds of game per capita per year in frontier days, according to the National Geographic Society.

Former Beer Baron Jailed On Narcotics-Handling

NEW YORK (UP)—Aging gangster Waxey Gordon, last of the bootleg beer barons and former Public Enemy No. 1, was jailed in $250,000 bail today as a big-time peddler in a coast-to-coast "black hand" illicit narcotics ring.

Gordon, 63, who once earned $1,500,000 a year in bootlegging, waived examination by U. S. Commissioner Edward W. McDonald today and was led away to a cell.

He and three other men were arrested on a dimly lighted Manhattan corner last night, carrying two packages of heroin which would retail at more than $150,000.

An attorney for Gordon, whose real name is Irving Wexler, protested to McDonald that the bail was excessively high, but U. S. Attorney Irving Saypol, who appeared at the post-midnight session, retorted:

"I don't think so, because this man still owes the government $1,000,000 in taxes in arrears."

Saypol referred to the trial of Gordon in 1933 on charges of evading $382,000 in federal income taxes for the years of 1930 and 1931 when Waxey ruled the Eastern underworld. He was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment.

A joint squad of city policemen and narcotics officers which had been observing Gordon's movements for several weeks said Gordon received a package containing more than one pound of high grade heroin last night from Benjamin Katz, 35.

Katz walked back to a parked automobile and received another package containing half a pound of the narcotics from a passenger identified as Samuel Kass, 39, a gambler.

The squad moved in and arrested the three men and Arthur Repolo, 23, chauffeur of the automobile. Katz and Kass were held in $100,000 bail each and Repolo's bond was fixed at $50,000.

Saypol said Kass, Katz and Repolo received heroin from seamen returning from Mediterranean countries and turned it over to Gordon, who passed it along to the West Coast where he was linked with a "black hand" mob.

Gordon's outfit, according to Saypol, was tied in with another

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
GIVING AWAY OUR EYES

Some months ago a man was injured on a ship in New York harbor and was admitted as a patient at the Marine Hospital. In the bed next to him was a young boxer whose right eye had been so severely injured that he had lost the sight of it and was being forced to retire from his athletic career. When the injured man learned of the young boxer's predicament, he offered to donate the cornea of his own eye. This eye had been injured in some respects but not in the cornea. The offer was accepted and the cornea transplanted.

When the postcards, letters of congratulation, and praise from the hospital staff began pouring in upon him, the self-sacrificing man's only comment was, "I am very happy to hear that my good friend can see again, and I am glad I was in a position to aid him."

We wonder sometimes at the spiritual resourcefulness and power of undistinguished people. Few even among great spiritual leaders would have made a sacrifice such as this. In this world as well as in heaven, many that are first are last, and many that are last are first.

And the gift of an eye was significant. We make the gift of our eyes every time we pass on any helpful experience to another person, particularly to our own children. It is often said of parents, "They would give their eyes to their children." The answer is, that if they are wise parents, they do.

Private Enterprise Or Nationalization For Power

Apparently it is going to take a decision of the supreme court to decide whether the government or the Virginia Electric Power Company has the right to build a hydro-electric plant at Roanoke Rapids.

Virtually the decision will declare are whether government or private enterprise in the United States has the prerogative in the construction of electric power plants and furnishing electric power to industries and individual consumers.

The stand which has been taken by Secretary of Interior Chapman in insisting on taking the matter to the supreme court if necessary is clearly an attempt to stop expansion of the electric power industry by private enterprise, and nationalize the industry under the auspices of the federal government. If Chapman accomplishes his scheme, it will be one of the most pronounced steps the United States has taken toward complete socialism.

For more than two years the Virginia Electric Power company has sought permission to construct a hydro-electric plant on the Roanoke River; but the company has been thwarted in its efforts by the Department of Interior which insists it has the sole right to reserve the development of the entire Roanoke River basin for its own projects when and if Congress approves funds for such projects.

In the meantime the area is doing without electric power it needs to bring new industry to the region and to meet the increasing demands for electric power.

Government projects in such regions should be undertaken only where private enterprise can not or will not develop the facilities which are needed by the people. The government should not step in and tell private enterprise in the United States you can not provide electric power for this region because we might want to go into the same business here ourselves sometime in the future.

The Federal Power Commission supports the view of the private enterprise and VEPCO in the case of the Roanoke Rapids project, but the Department of Interior under Chapman clings tenaciously to its socialistic principle that the government comes first, and private enterprise must wait and take what's left when the government is through spending the peoples' money for the development it wants to do.

VEPCO says it can build the Roanoke Rapids dam for $27,000,000 and is ready to begin immediately. The government says it will cost $32,000,000 to build the dam as a federal project, and of course it can not be started until the Congress sees fit to appropriate the funds . . . which in our opinion will be many years if at all.

The stand the Department of Interior has taken in the matter is not in the best interest of the people of the United States, but in the interest of the bureaucrats who would like to control industry from top to bottom.

The Virginia Electric Power Company should be allowed to build the dam; and as we said before, the government should confine its electric power development to areas where private industry can not or will not make the developments which are needed by the people.

Another Onion For Soviet Propaganda

It will be interesting to watch the communist press' interpretation of the mutiny of the crew of a Polish minesweeper which put into a Swedish port with the crew asking for asylum as political refugees.

Naturally the communist leaders will brand the crew as something like capitalist inspired good-for-nothings who have betrayed the common man—or as the communists like to phrase it, "the worker."

The truth of the matter is that the crew members probably are political refugees. They are plain working folks who are seeking asylum from the communist tyranny in their homeland. They have come to realize that this thing called communism promises the common man a throne; but once he has succumbed to the financial preaching of communist leader, he finds himself locked in a yoke rather than surrounded by glory, freedom and plenty.

The unfortunate part of the incident is that a lot of people who should be able to think for themselves will believe the communist version of the Polish minesweeper incident, rather than the true version presented by the free press. Here the world will witness again a fundamental communist theory in practice: If you tell the people a lie often enough and loud enough they will believe it.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—"Harry simply tried to bite off more power over more problems than Congress thinks any President of the United States has a right to chew!"

That slightly irrelevant remark, which happened to be a "direct quote" from one of the acknowledged leaders on Capitol Hill, explains most accurately why the 82nd session refuses to grant the White House the full amount of the economic power he says he needs to cope with the world emergency. Behind it lies the uneasy fear that such vast control over the nation's economy should not be given to any Chief Executive in time of peace.

CLIMAX—There have been too many instances, in the opinion of a Congressional majority, of a tendency to make the "cold war" a pretext for extending federal controls more or less permanently into civilian fields. The suspicion of such a move is sharpened by Truman-Acheson-Marshall reiteration of the warning that the current crisis may last "for an indefinite period."

The climax came when Mr. Truman, in his recent economic message, declared that one-fifth of the national income may have to be spent for national defense for several years. Since he looks forward to an annual gross income of $300,000,000,000, his estimate contemplates future budgets of more than $70,000,000,000, including routine, civilian expenditures.

RESISTANCE—Such an inflationary outpouring of federal funds, together with defense demands on production capacities, would require a semi-permanent system of wage-price ceilings, profit-fixing, allocation of material and output quotas, and many other restrictions which were not considered necessary even during World War II.

The citizen would become, in time of peace, what Governor James P. Byrnes of South Carolina calls "an economic galley slave on the ship of state."

Although President Truman's recent quarrels with Congressmen have increased his unpopularity on Capitol Hill, this legislative resistance movement is not directed against him in a narrow or personal way. It is aimed at the kind of "big government" his program envisages.

INVASION—A particularly symptomatic and frightening presidential proposal was that in which Truman demanded the right to build or expand industrial facilities with federal funds, if his unknown advisers deemed that private interests were not meeting presidential schedules of requirements. With two blunt refusals, in 1949 and now, Congress revealed its concern over such encroachment.

As owner, lessor or lender, the government is still a partner in several industries it promoted and financed during World War II, and there is some doubt as to whether the federal control and clutch will ever be relaxed.

Further and broader invasion of manufacture would tighten and make more permanent the government's grip, especially in view of the national planners' undisclosed scheme for using this authority. In World War II, the government tried to confine its interest to industries clothed with a national defense character—rubber, aluminum, shipping, railroads, weapons, etc. But the wording of the pertinent provision in the Defense Production Act would have permitted Washington to set up shop in any industry under its own terms.

Its self-imposed provisions for financing, producing and marketing would have fixed a pattern for firms in the same field, or built rivals for them for the future.

POWER—Congress has discerned a hunger for its own sake among several groups of Truman subordinates, especially in the Justice, Agriculture and Interior Departments. While the legalities responsible for this trend are only relatively unknown survivors of "new deal reform" days, their upstairs bosses—Messrs. McGrath, Brannan and Chapman—have not checked them.

Mr. Chapman, for instance, cites the emergency need for hydroelectricity for war camps and installations and expanding communities as a reason for giving him almost plenipotentiary authority in this field. He supports his demands with Supreme Court decisions which, in his opinion, permit the federal government to embark on almost any sort of enterprise under the "general welfare" clause.

AUTHORITY—In Southern California, on the Santa Margarita River, the D of J seeks to appropriate water from long-settled farmers on the ground that it is required by a reactivated Marines camp. The authority brought into legal being here is a strange commingling of national sovereignty and national defense. Worse still, the D of J is charged with deputizing uniformed Marines and sending them throughout the affected area to serve subpoenas on 17,000 civilians.

Defense Secretary Marshall's so-called "expeditors," consisting of weapons experts assigned to individual plants with government contracts, are said to be exceeding their authority. If they had their way, the output of civilian goods in these factories would be reduced to a vanishing minimum.

In view of the revolutionary effect World Wars I and II had on the domestic structure, many M.C.'s fear that a third total war would lead directly to the totalitarianism. But they intend to shove off that threat until it can not be avoided, even if they have to ration Mr. Truman's diet of federal power.

Don't Get The Wrong Idea, Harry

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

If you read this column you realize that some days it's a real job to find a column idea, and sometimes the ones I find aren't readable. Then again, like today, a good topic falls right into my lap.

Haywood Sellers of Greenville is thought of by his friends as a handsome and talented redhead with a radiant personality. After graduating from East Carolina, Haywood won a direct commission in the Army by virtue of high grades on an Army examination. Haywood is now a First Lieutenant stationed in Germany. Today's column consists of a letter from Haywood to Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Duval of Greenville, Haywood's former neighbors.

16th Chemical Base Depot
APO 757
27 July 1951

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Duval,
Just thought I would drop you folks a line and let you know I am still very much alive and kicking. As you probably know, Rusty and I have been in Europe since April of this year. Since our arrival over here we have already been to three countries and plan to visit more this September. Germany is quite some country and it is an education within itself just to be here. The people differ from Americans in many respects. I think the most outstanding difference occurs in their physical makeup. Most of them are not good looking and pretty by our standards. The average woman is short, stocky and fat, with no makeup whatsoever. Her hair is short and very frizzy or kinky. Most of them have a red complexion all the time and as you can't figure out whether it is from sunburn from working in the fields or from the large volumes of beer they consume. The men resemble men in the states somewhat except almost all of them smoke long pipes and have a short beard (this is especially true in Bavaria). I can truthfully say that they are way behind the Americans in brains! A few are smart but the majority of them are thick between the ears and they are much more clumsy than any American ever was. They eat all the time, mostly black bread, butter and drink beer.

Dry cleaning is a luxury which most of the Germans can never afford and consequently when one passes you on the streets you can smell last week's breakfast, dinner and supper. Their farming is very primitive.

To guard against infection, all Americans over here soak their vegetables and fruits in a solution called "microcline," which disinfects the food but doesn't alter the taste.

This letter will be continued tomorrow.

And I thank the Duvals.

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

CONGRESS—Richard Queen of Wayneville visited around capitol square Wednesday, enroute to Washington from his home. While at home over the weekend he announced his candidacy for the twelfth district seat in Congress being surrendered by Monroe Redden. The unexpected entry speeded politics in the mountains and is said to have broken several playhouses. Most likely opposition to young Queen will be afforded by Frank Parker of Asheville, former state senator. Several conferences have been held among Buncombe county leaders seeking to find a candidate who might have reasonably solid county backing. The political dopesters were putting out word Tuesday that Parker is the man, and that likelihood of a contest between Frank Parker and Roy Taylor, legislator and county attorney, has been eliminated.

RIVALRY—With the race virtually between Buncombe and Haywood counties, with the rest of the district choosing sides as much for fun of it as because of any real choice between the candidates, will paramount long standing rivalry between the big voting counties. It will also bring into sharp focus the present controversy over establishment of a new interstate highway along the Pigeon river and improvement of the present highway into Tennessee along the French Broad.

SURPRISE—People in the district had been expecting an announcement from former solicitor John Queen, who has been working the district ever since Redden notified his constituents he would not seek re-election. Some of the newspaper readers at first thought there was a typographic error and that the announced candidate was John instead of his nephew, Dick. The older man removed any doubt when he issued a brief statement saying he was retiring from the race and would support his young kinsman.

LIVELY—The district expects a lively campaign for several reasons. The Buncombe-Haywood rivalry is enough to assure a lot of effort in both counties, where factional lines have been clearly marked. Despite claims of leaders that in both counties the factions have been welded together, many voters insist they have not been and will play important part in the next election. Candidate Queen is a former member of the secretarial staff of Senators J. M. Broughton and Frank Graham, and some observance see prospect of reviving some issues which influenced the campaigns of 1948 and 1950. It is conceded on all sides that the Queen family, of which John is the recognized chieftain, is political potent in Haywood, and all the counties west, although not very important in Buncombe or Henderson. Opinion was generally expressed around Hendersonville and Asheville early this week that Dick Queen will be stronger as "John's man" than in his own right.

GOVERNOR—It is expected that the governor's race may have considerable bearing on the congressional situation, particularly if Buncombe or Haywood has a candidate for governor. Your reporter talked with several dozen politically-minded men in Hendersonville and Asheville and checked several others by telephone Monday and Tuesday. He found belief much stronger now than it was a few weeks ago that Brandon Hodges will be in the governor's race. Hodges, presently serving as state treasurer, has not committed himself. Analysis of numerous comment indicates growing belief that he is the "best bet" for a real western candidate. Such statements were generally qualified with an "if" William B. Umstead of Durham, only avowed candidate now in the running, has a lot of strength in the mountains. As of this date he would probably walk away with any other candidate from the piedmont, whether he lived on the east or west side of that mythical dividing line. For present purposes the mountaineer politico rates the east-west line at the eastern foot of the Blue Ridge.

POSER—That situation poses other problems. Hodges is relatively new on the statewide political scene, and despite his excellent record as state treasurer in handling state funds to make a profit and his phenomenal success in bringing new industry into the state, there is doubt about his political strength outside his native mountains. Other suggested candidates—Cappus Wynick, Hubert Olive, Frank Graham—are better known by name in person on statewide level. They wouldn't hold a candle to Hodges in the mountain, and apparently would not interfere much with Umstead in that area. The politicians are trying to find acceptable answers to the numerous questions arising out of this situation. About all they are certain of is that the answer hasn't been found, and that Dick Queen's formal announcement for Congress makes it necessary to speed up activity all across the board.

Business Today

By ELMER BOESSNER
Of the softer consumer credit regulations ordered by Congress, the new trade-in provisions are regarded as most important by many merchandisers. Under the new dispensation, traders in articles may count against down payments for appliances and furniture. Previously, trade-ins could count against down payments only on autos.

The other relaxations on credit controls will be less important. Extending auto and furniture payments from 15 to 18 months make each payment only slightly smaller. Lowering down payments from 25 to 15 per cent on television sets and appliances will help many retailers to move their inventories. But the real big break for dealers is the trade-in rule.

Making trade-ins count against the down payment will give sellers of TV sets, radios, washers, refrigerators, suction cleaners and other controlled items a vast opportunity to sell more in the replacement market. And for many of these things, the replacement market is much larger than the "new" market.

Even more important, it brings back the equivalent to the old "no down payment" days. Fifteen per cent down on a $200 appliance is only $30, and it won't be hard for a dealer and a prospect to get together on a trade-in of that size. However, this easier credit is likely to bring a firming of prices. Take TV sets, for instance. With sales slow, many retailers have been cutting prices. Discounts of 10, 20 and higher per cent have been common. A few days ago a set listed at $360 was offered at $299. That called for a down payment of $74.75. But today the dealer will be inclined to go back to the $360 price and offer the $61 difference—or more—on a trade-in. Many will find that it is easier to sell at list price with no down payment than to sell at a discount with no cash down.

The relaxation of credit controls voted by Congress appears to have been done with the purpose of reviving lagging sales and permitting retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers to reduce their inventories, even at the cost of a dash of inflation. The Administration's fight against the relaxation of these controls was regarded by many observers as only a token resistance. At least some Administration supporters believed that unless something was done to break the inventory log-jam, the repercussions at the polls would be long indeed.

ADDING A SKIN MAKES TAX LIABILITY
When new skins are added in remodeling a fur scarf, the added skin is considered sold at retail and is therefore subject to tax, the Bureau of Internal Revenue has ruled in response to a query from the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

INVENTORY COUNTS OFTEN GUESSWORK
Methods now in general use for measuring dealer and consumer inventories are usually crude and inaccurate a study by the National Industrial Conference Board discloses. Many times inventories are estimated from the volume of orders; sometimes they are based on salesmen's estimates, which may reflect the individual's pessimism or optimism. The most accurate method in use is an actual audit of wholesaler and retail holdings, although this involves considerable expense, the Board study says. "There is some evidence that a well-designed sample survey is just as accurate as a complete audit and, on occasion, even more so," the survey says.

LUGGAGE BUYING ABOVE EXPECTATIONS
Orders at the National Luggage and Leather Show in New York this week were better than expected, exhibitors said. While some retailers still have high inventories, many have reduced them to the point at which they are able to order replacements.

Prices were close to year-ago levels, although there were some increases up to 10 per cent. Manufacturers reported they have not yet been hit by shortages, although restrictions on metals may be felt later in the year.

CANNED STOCKS DOWN; MORE COMING UP
Although supplies of canned fruits and vegetables are reported by the National Canners Association to be 25 per cent below this time last year, no shortages are expected. Ripening crops are large and the canning season is entering its peak months.

NEW AND HOT
CARDS: Sets of new designs in twirl-around Christmas cards are being brought out by P. F. Volland Co., Joliet, Ill. The cards with central parts that move in air currents were introduced at a trial basis last year and response is encouraging expansion of lines.

LABELS: Sets of 96 price combinations for identifying pricing dowels used to stamp prices on packages in supermarkets are being printed in laminated plastic sheets by Hopp Press, Inc., 460 W. 34th St., New York. Ink stains may be wiped off, eliminating errors in selecting dollars.

FLUTE: A flute with reeds and a harmonica tone is being made of plastic by Magna-Harmonica Corp., 430 Freylinghusen Ave., Newark, N.J. Even the reeds are plastic. Numbered finger-holes makes playing simple.

SEALER: A new paint based on Bakelite styrene emulsion is claimed to seal concrete and cinder-block walls and be decorative at the same time. It may be sprayed, brushed or rolled on and is by Marvella Paint Co., 1237 Light St., Baltimore 30, Md.

SUBSTITUTE: A plastic material that has the appearance of metal is being produced as an alternate material for metal decorations on radio sets, signs and other non-functional uses by Coating Products, Inc., 135 W. 21st St., New York City.

VENDOR: An automatic vending machine for candy bars which will make change from a dime in nickels or pennies, has been announced by Rowe Mfg. Co., Inc., 31 E. 17th St., New York City.

LABELER: A new machine that prints multicolor labels for pre-packaged meats has been announced by National Cash Register Co., Dayton, Ohio. It prints weight, price per pound and total price, and keeps a record of totals.

CLOVERLEAF: Fruit pie tops can have a lattice design in cloverleaves, with a new plastic dough cutter by Kesco, Inc. 8614 Blackstone St., Chicago. It works on 8- and 9-inch pies.

SNUFFER: For hostesses who are driven a-mad by guests who drop arts on coasters, an anodized aluminum coaster with a half-inch cigaret snuffer rim is being planned by General Chrome Co., Fifth Ave., Bridge 11 Mich.

CADDY: A three-tray attachment to hold nails, tools, paint or cleaning utensils and designed to be attached to step-ladders and ladders, is being introduced by the Teftom Corp., 411 N. Seventh St., St. Louis. The caddy can be removed from a bracket on the ladder for storing.

Washington Letter

(For Jane Eads)

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Madejón Frances Evans, a shapely former show girl, was in jail today and a covey of hoodwinked junior officers at nearby Bergstrom Air Force Base had faces redder than her flaming hair.

Mrs. Evans, 26, was charged with impersonating a lieutenant in the Women's Air Force. She said the whole thing was a "prank."

But to the Air Force it was "very embarrassing."

The pert redhead arrived Saturday aboard an Air Force plane from El Paso, Tex., after hitchhiking a ride with a major piloting the ship.

Bergstrom authorities said Mrs. Evans implied she was a lieutenant of long-standing in the WAF. She was shown the "customary courtesy" of one night's lodging in the nurses' quarters and the following day she moved to an Austin apartment.

The glib young woman made herself well known to many persons at the base. She even obtained a temporary Bergstrom identification card, issued "pending receipt of orders," and got staff car transportation.

Mrs. Evans implied to junior officers, Bergstrom spokesmen said, that she was a lieutenant although she wore no uniform. But after four days, she came a cropper when she talked her way into the office of Col. Ben W. Lichty, base commander.

She told him she wanted to obtain a commission as a lieutenant in the WAF, Lichty said. He questioned and learned that she had hitch-hiked here on an Air Force plane.

An investigation was ordered and soon afterward Mrs. Evans was behind bars. In an interview at the county jail, Mrs. Evans said "it's all a big joke. I swear. I just wanted to help my husband out."

WASHINGTON—The green-eyed red-head in the apple tree had an infectious laugh at John Hess thought. He noticed a lot of the other guys in the apple-picking party were attracted to her too.

The competition was so keen it took Jack almost 18 months to convince Amanda Leak she should be his bride. But their marriage on Valentine's Day, 1946, demonstrated once again that even in the atomic age an old-fashioned walk is a good way to invite romance.

Jack says he knows of at least 100 weddings that have occurred because boy met girl on the Appalachian Trail, the 2,025-mile hiking path through 14 eastern states, from Maine to Georgia. Twenty-six clubs, with headquarters in cities along the trail maintain it.

Amanda was a government girl back in 1944, and had been away from her home in Linton, Ind. only three months. A bit lonesome in the nation's war-time capital, she was trying to get acquainted.

Another government girl invited her on the apple-picking party arranged by the Potomac Appalachian Trail Club. Farmers were having a hard time getting hands to pick the wartime apple crop. Club members decided they would help some of the farmers through whose property the trail runs.

John Hess, a printer now with the Government Printing Office, had been a member of the club for seven years. He went too.

"I always will swear she hit me over the head with a bushel of apples," says Jack with a smile.

Anyway, Amanda became a member of the hiking club. She and Jack became great friends, and wedding bells rang on Valentine's Day.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

(Henderson Daily Dispatch)
A group of House members, mostly Republicans, failed in their effort to get at Secretary of State Acheson by refusing to include in the State Department appropriation bill funds to pay his salary. They were decisively defeated in their attempt, but are hatching up a new scheme which they hope will fare better, but which probably won't.

Methods adopted by the secretary's political enemies to get rid of him were rather crude at best. We don't like him, either, for the reason that he is too far to the left of center to suit our taste. Frankly, we don't know enough about pulling political strings to trump up a scheme which might prove his undoing, but withholding money for his salary would not be effective, even if the provision were written into the appropriations measure.

So long as Acheson wants to stay and so long as President Truman wants to keep him, and will stand by him, there isn't much Congress can do about it. He is in office and cannot be ejected short of impeachment, a procedure which would find little more support than the salary move, and probably even less. Mr. Truman could find the money to pay the secretary's salary and undoubtedly would, both because he likes the man and at the same time as a means of defiance of Acheson's enemies in Congress. It would set the President's dander up, and he would go to the ends of the earth to retain an official so much in his favor as is the secretary of state.

Some congressmen would derive a great deal of satisfaction in putting across such a proposal as they attempted, but that is about as far as they could move. They couldn't pierce the armorplate of the man in the White House. It appears that they are going to have to put up with the top cabinet member so long as present mutual respect between him and his chief continues. Sniping at Acheson may be a gratifying pastime, but it is little more than that.

Firefighter Is Nearly Drowned

SAN FERNANDO, Calif.—(AP)—Blaine R. Kensley says he was nearly drowned while fighting a fire.
The city fireman was manning a hose at a residential blaze when the hydrant broke. A great gush of water knocked him against a nearby engine and the stream kept beating at him. After coughing out the water, he was treated at an emergency hospital for a fractured collar bone.

Scottish Pence Is Nassau Champion

WESTBURY, N. Y.—(AP)—Scottish Pence improves with age.
The six-year-old pacing star from the Castleton Farm, Lexington, Ky., a so-so in harness racing until last season, captured the $50,000 Nassau two-mile pace for the second straight year last night at Roosevelt Raceway.
He cracked the world record, stepping the route in a brilliant 4:15 2-5, compared with 4:16 4-5, set in 1949 by Grattan McKelvy.

License Issued To Fund-Raising Organizations

During the month of July licenses were granted by the State Board of Public Welfare to seven organizations to conduct fund-raising campaigns through public solicitations for the support of their programs, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Ellen Winston, Commissioner.
Five of these organizations were re-licensed in accordance with the state solicitation law. These are the American Foundation for the Blind, the National Probation and Parole Association, and the National Social Welfare Assembly, all of New York City; the Cape Fear Area Council, Boy Scouts of America at Wilmington; and the Palmer Memorial Institute at Sedalia, N. C.
The Japan International Christian University Foundation which has American headquarters in New York City and the League of Women Voters of Durham received licenses to solicit funds for the first time.
The total amount which these seven organizations will seek from the public at large in North Carolina is $206,594.
It was also announced that during the month of July the Girls' Vacation Fund and the Save the Children Federation both in New York City solicited citizens of this state. The State Board of Public Welfare is pointing out that such solicitations are in violation of the North Carolina solicitation law since these organizations are not licensed in accordance with the state statute.

Expected To Ask Council For Funds

RALEIGH—(AP)—Officials of the University of North Carolina and North Carolina College, were expected to ask the council of state today to earmark $271,000 of state emergency reserve funds for doctorate training at North Carolina College.
R. M. Gantt, Durham attorney and chairman of the N. C. C. Board of Trustees, said yesterday a joint committee from the institutes would appear before the council today.
The emergency appropriation, if approved, would provide $151,200 for next year when graduate training in education would begin, and $114,000 for the current year before the Ph. D. training is instituted.

Stricken From Election Rolls

NEW DELHI, India (UP)—Election authorities said today that approximately 2,800,000 women have been stricken from the rolls for India's first general election because they refuse to give their age.
Following age-old custom, the women insist on listing themselves merely as wife of so-and-so or daughter of so-and-so. Those who refused to give their ages total about 10 per cent of the women voters of five states.

Greenville Drops Championship Game To Wilmington

North Wilmington Shows Big Punch

Greenville Unable To Win Third Game In Two Days; Take Semi-Final Tilt From Kinston; Wilmington Has 3 Homers

By MELVIN LANG

HAVELOCK—North Wilmington blasted the Greenville All-Stars yesterday, 9-0, to take the Fourth District Little League championship.

Wilmington will now travel to Raleigh next Wednesday to participate in the state tournament.

The winning run crossed the plate in the second inning in the form of Earl Allen, who hurled a no-hit game against Havelock the day before, hit a towering blow which cleared the centerfield fence.

Righthander Dan Casteen went the distance for the winners, allowing but one hit to the tired Greenville players, who were playing their third game in two days. Casteen did not allow a man to get past first base until the fifth inning. He fanned 12 men during the six-inning contest.

The Wilmington club displayed the most power seen in the two day tournament. It collected nine hits, including three four-baggers. Besides Allen's roundtripper, Dan Casteen and Larry Brown connected for streak drives.

James Hudson collected Greenville's only single, a drag bunt in the fourth frame.

Greenville-Kinston

Greenville and Kinston hooked up in an eight inning game in the morning to play one of the best games seen here. Greenville's Ike Riddick led off the bottom of the eighth with a tremendous blow over the left field wall to break up the game.

Riddick started on the mound for the winners and was relieved in the fourth by Hudson Miller. Miller was the winning hurler. Each pitcher allowed one hit.

Greenville scored first and took a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the fourth frame. Mack Roebuck singled with two away and then leftfielder Jim McGee connected for his second homer of the tourney.

Kinston came back with a pair in its half of the fifth. Rickey Baldree began the rally by reaching base on an error on the first baseman. Steve Creech singled to send Baldree to third. Baldree scored as the shortstop errored the throw-in. Creech came home on an error by the first baseman.

Ike Riddick, Jim McGee, and Mack Roebuck collected the hits for Greenville. Baldree and Creech rapped out the Kinston hits.

Score by innings:

Kinston	000	020	00-3	2	2
Greenville	000	001	-3	3	4

Batteries: Daniels and Sawyer, Parrott (8); I. Riddick, Miller (4), and Duff.

Score by innings:

Wilmington	011	250	-9	9
Greenville	000	000	-0	1

Batteries: Casteen and Hanchey; Miller, Nickola, and Duff, Hudson.

Camp Lejeune Marines

1951 East Coast Champions Play In Farmville Tonight

Camp Lejeune will play Farmville tonight at 8 o'clock.

With a four-game sweep over the Cherry Point Flyers last week to win the east coast Marine Corp. championship, the Camp Lejeune Marines are looking ahead to the All-Marine Corps championship, held at Camp Lejeune, starting 9.

The West Coast champion is Camp Pendleton. The winner of this five game series will represent the Marine Corps at the National Baseball Congress, scheduled to get under way at Wichita, Kansas, August 19.

The Camp Lejeune Marines now have an over-all season record of 59 wins and 13 defeats. This includes games with college teams, semi-pro and professional, as well as service opponents.

In games with service teams alone, the Lejeune record stands at 43 wins and 8 defeats. This is but one of the reasons Camp Lejeune has been tagged by sportswriters and baseball observers as the most powerful service team in the nation.

Indeed, Coach Bill Shea's powerhouse can certainly qualify for this title in many ways: one, Sporting a team batting average of .313 for 72 ball games, the Leathernecks have pounded out a total of 44 home runs, 68 triples and 114 doules.

The Lejeune team has scored a total of 627 runs to 348 for their 373 opponents. That gives them an average of between eight and nine runs scored every game this season.

The Marines have yet to be shut-out this season, and in only twelve games this year, have they failed to score five runs or more.

Greenville Meets Red Sox During 'Booster Night'

Greenville and Farmville will tangle in a Bright Bell League contest here Saturday night.

The game has been designated as "Booster Night," with a large number of free prizes to be given away to holders of the jucky ticket number.

Manager Bill Phillips stated today that righthander James Pollard, who hurled briefly for the pro Greenvies several years ago, will start on the mound for the Greenvies. Pollard has been playing with service teams for the last two years, losing but one game over that period.

Greenville will be continuing its fight for the league championship play-offs, which start in three weeks. It is still in last place, but a sweep of its last four games would give the team a good chance of making the post season series.

Vern Williamson Hurls No-Hitter

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Vern Williamson pitched a no-hitter against Birmingham last night as the pace-setting Little Rock Travelers topped the Barons in the curian-raiser of a Doubleheader, 2 to 0.

It was the pint-sized (5-8, 140) righthander's eighth win of the season against four losses and the second no-hitter of the year in the Southern Association. Bert Flamm, mlin of Nashville tossed the first no-hit game against Atlanta last month.

Gene Hudson Records 3 Victories In One Night

Gene Hudson recorded three victories last night in Junior Baseball League play, defeating the Wreckers, 3-2, 4-0, and 6-1.

The young Sedan righthander hurled one inning to complete a game which was protested on July 13, and won the game when he scored the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning, 3-2. The score was tied at 2-all when the teams started play.

The next victory for Hudson came in a four-inning shut-out win, 4-0. He allowed but two hits in this game, singles for Jerry Phillips and Hal Edwards, striking out five.

Another four inning game gave the mound star his third win of the night, a 6-1 victory. He was reached for three hits in this contest, one double by Smith Worthington and singles by Phillips and Edwards.

Score by innings (second game)

Sedans	013	x-4	5
Wreckers	000	0-0	2

Batteries: Hudson and Nunn; Williams and Edwards.

Score by innings (third game)

Wreckers	001	0-1	3

Boston Slams Out Double Win Over Brownies; Yankees Lose

By CARL LUNDQUIST

United Press Sports Writer

The roar of those Red Sox bats could be deceiving because it was only St. Louis Browns pitcher against whom they were swinging, but that total of 28 hits for a double victory had a mighty ominous sound today.

The Red Sox—by winning 12 to 1 and 11 to 6 decisions from the Browns while the Yankees were losing a 6 to 0 decision to the Tigers—once more made the American League pennant scramble tighter than a New Year's Eve party.

The Red Sox once again were only a game behind the Yankees, as were the Indians who beat the Senators 5 to 2 in a night game marked by Larry Doby's tremendous homer that landed on a 35-foot high platform, 408 feet from home plate.

In the opener, big Walt Droppo, back for his third trial with the Sox, flashed the hitting form that made him "rookie of the year" in 1950, getting two doubles and a single to set the 14-hit pace. Johnny Pesky hit a three-run homer as Ray Scarborough pitched eight-hit ball to win his eighth game.

Rookie Charley Maxwell, delivering his third pinch home run in two weeks, was the most spectacular slugger in the second game, getting his blow with the bases loaded in a seventh-inning rally that countered a six-run Browns uprising off starter Chuck Stobbs and reliever Harry Taylor. Jack Maguire hit a homer to touch off the Browns rally.

Clutch-hitting Clyde Volmer got the Red Sox off right in the first inning of the second game when he doubled with the bases loaded to highlight a three-run rally.

Doby's homer was believed to be the longest drive hit in Griffith Stadium since Babe Ruth hit one to virtually the same spot, only about 25 feet further, in 1923. It came in the third inning and gave Steve Gromek a 5 to 0 lead. Gromek went the route with a four-hit trial to win his fifth game compared with two losses.

Jim Busby's homer in the top of the 10th inning gave the White Sox a 4 to 3 victory over the A's, leaving the Sox still six games behind.

Hal White fit the Tigers with relief help from Bob Cain, celebrated the anniversary of a two-hit shut-out against the Yankees on Aug. 2, 1950. This time he gave up three hits to win his first game of the year, but Cain had to come on with the bases loaded and none out in the seventh, to strike out the side when White's wildness got him in trouble.

In the National League, Brooklyn went 10 full games in front by defeating the Pirates 10 to 5 with a 4-hit attack that included a two-run homer by Fawcett Reese. The second-place Giants suffered a four-hit, 6 to 2 defeat at Chicago as Bob Kusch pitched strong ball all the way.

The Phillies pushed over five runs in the eighth for a 7-to-5 victory at Cincinnati.

At St. Louis, the Braves were leading the Cardinals 7 to 3 in the ninth inning when the game was suspended so the Braves could catch a train. The game will be resumed Sept. 13.

That was so' g the way he did in 1950 to win "rookie of the year" honors, and like he didn't show early this year when he was farm-er" out.

"I'm going to give Droppo a good crack at the job," said Boston Manager Steve O'Neill. "This is his ball park. I'm just hoping he can come through for us. We need some hitting."

Greenville Police Team And Chief Win Honors

By CHESTER WALSH

Greenville's police department pistol team won sixth place among 13 other teams at the National Rifle Association's tournament at Wilmington yesterday.

Chief Guy C. Langston, Lt. Raymond T. Rogerson, Sgt. Claude H. Christopher and Patrolmen C. R. Howard and V. C. Ackert are members of the five-man team. One member is auxiliary marksman.

All the Greenville police officers were qualified as American Rifle Association marksmen.

The matches were held under auspices of the North Carolina Association of Police Executives' convention at Wrightsville Beach. The tournament was held on the Wilmington police range. An official of the American Rifle Association from Savannah, Ga. was observer at the matches.

Following are the scores:

State Highway Patrol, Troop D, 3069; State Highway Patrol, Troop B, 3061; Winston-Salem police 3045; Charlotte police, 2988; State Highway Patrol, Troop A, 2829; Greenville police, 2821; Charlotte police, department 2, 2743; State Highway Patrol, Troop C, 2738; Kinston police, 2684; Rocky Mount police, 2622; Durham police, 2564; Wilmington police, 2546; and State Highway Patrol, Troop E, 2494.

Chief Guy C. Langston of Greenville was third highest in the state pistol match. He was first in the national match course; third in the state aggregate course and he won first place in two other matches.

Another pistol tournament will be held at Durham, under auspices of Durham police next September.

Art Lawson Sees Action In Davis Cup Play Today

RYE, N. Y.—(UP)—Art Larsen, whose nation tennis crown rests uneasily on a much-bloodied brow, gets his big chance today to prove that he is a steady Davis Cup berth when he and dogged Herb Flam represent the United States in the two opening matches against Mexico.

The best three-out-of-five series opening today on the courts of the Watchtcher Country Club are the semi-final round of American zone eliminations. The winning team will meet the winner of the Canada-Cuba series, also starting today.

It is the U. S. is looking far beyond both the Mexico series and the final round in the American zone-looking ahead to the very last round against Australia in the fall.

Few people doubt the U. S. will win its way to that round. But many doubt that blond, southpaw Larsen rates a permanent spot on the team—in view of his many recent losses along the tournament circuit.

Larsen was not a member of the team which beat Japan, as non-playing Capt. Frank Shields experimented successfully with young Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, who scored one singles victory and one dou es win.

Thomas Takes Wilson Swimming

WILSON—(AP)—A full schedule of 26 events was on tap today as of the Southern Invitational A. A. U. Swimming and Diving Championships continued here.

Jimmy Thomas of Baltimore, Md., star performer for the University of North Carolina, opened the meet last night by cracking the National A. A. U. record in the 150-meter medley. Thomas' time was 1:42.9. The old record of 1:45.4 was set by Joe Verdeur of LaSalle College.

Bob Mattson of Worcester, Mass., a freshman swimmer at North Carolina State College, also shattered the old record, covering the distance in 1:43.8. The new mark also is unofficially recognized as a new world's record.

Chapter 19

Peter stood up, smiling as he thanked the professor and shook hands with him. He whistled exuberantly to Gus, who came bounding and stood waiting for his harness to be adjusted.

"Peter," said the old man, "suppose I had advised you differently? What would you have done?"

"Peter hesitated. Then: 'I'd probably have asked her anyway, sir!' he admitted, laughing a little ruefully.

The professor chuckled. "I gathered as much."

It was late afternoon when he heard Betsy coming across the lawn. It was almost as though his thoughts had evoked her physical presence, and he turned his face toward the sound of her steps, making himself smile warmly.

Betsy eyed him with suspicion. "What's wrong? You're not holding out on me? You haven't been ill or upset or anything, and trying not to let me know?"

"Of course not, child."

Betsy dropped into the chair, accepting his statement, and plunging instantly into the reason for her coming.

"I wanted to tell you, Professor Hartley, that Pete is letting Gus help him. Isn't that wonderful?"

"Yes, I know. Peter was out here this morning."

"Oh, what for?"

The old man hesitated. Yet would it not be kinder if someone she loved and trusted delivered the blow?

"He came to ask my advice," said the professor. "He wanted to know if I thought he had the right to ask a woman to marry him."

"Marcia Eldon, of course," she said at last, her voice too faint to have reached ears less keen than those of the man sitting nearby.

"Yes."

Betsy sat very still for a while, and then suddenly her small clenched fists beat at her knees and she said through her teeth, "But she's not good enough for him. She's—spiteful, and malicious, and unkind!"

"Betsy, Betsy, child!"

"I know you think I'm being petty and mean. But truly I'm not. She isn't kind, Professor. I saw her shrink from Peter one day. And the other night when we were having Coca-Colas, Pete spilled a little. He didn't know it—nobody let on that they noticed it. But Marcia looked at him, and then at Bo Norris and wrinkled her nose in disgust. Bo wanted to smack her. I wish I'd let him—oh, I wish I'd let him!"

The tears had come now, and Betsy was weeping with heart-broken abandon.

When at last she stood up to go, she said huskily, "Thanks for telling me, Professor Hartley. I'd much rather hear it from you than from anybody else in the world."

"I know you think I'm being petty and mean. But truly I'm not. She isn't kind, Professor. I saw her shrink from Peter one day. And the other night when we were having Coca-Colas, Pete spilled a little. He didn't know it—nobody let on that they noticed it. But Marcia looked at him, and then at Bo Norris and wrinkled her nose in disgust. Bo wanted to smack her. I wish I'd let him—oh, I wish I'd let him!"

Ava Gardner In Mexico City With Sinatra Behind

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Actress Ava Gardner came here last night with singer Frank Sinatra, who followed her to Spain last year, still close behind her.

The crooner curtly declined to say whether he would seek a quick Mexican divorce to marry the Hollywood beauty.

Frankie's wife of 12 years agreed last May to give him an uncontested divorce. Asked about Hollywood rumors he would get the divorce here—it takes a week in Cuernavaca if all goes well—Frankie snapped: "I don't know what you're talking about and I don't know what they're talking about." Then he told another reporter: "I can't answer that question."

Miss Gardner said she was here for a vacation. Enroute to Mexico City, in El Paso she had been asked whether the trip had any romantic aspects.

"Now please . . ." she answered. The couple declined to talk about their plans but Sinatra said he would remain in Mexico City. They were met by a representative of an Acapulco hotel, however.

The hotel representative sped Miss Gardner through customs and immigration and left with her by car, Frankie, who had lugged some of Ava's baggage into customs, stayed behind for the inspection. And then left with Mexican friends.

Ava smiled pleasantly and answered briefly. Sinatra was terse.

The couple, who had avoided being photographed together during the trip, made no objection here as photographers clustered around them.

Fellow passengers on the flight said "they acted just like one of us. They seemed a little fond of each other."

Air Units Withdraw From Fort Bragg

NEW YORK—(AP)—The New York Times said today that Navy-Marine air units have withdrawn from the big war games at Fort Bragg, N.C., because of differences with the Air Force over the system of air control to be used.

The story, by Hanson W. Baldwin, the Times' military expert, says the cancellation represents "according to informed sources, an indirect by-product of far broader service differences about the control of aviation assigned to the front-line support of ground troops."

The "Exercise Southern Pine" maneuvers, the largest joint training exercise in this country since the end of World War II, is scheduled for the Fort Bragg-Camp Moore area from Aug. 13 to 28.

Taking part will be three Army divisions and other ground forces totaling 85,000 men, 400 Air Force planes and 12,000 Air Force personnel.

But, the Times says, Navy and Marine squadrons totaling more than 100 aircraft have been withdrawn.

In discussing the reported differences about the services about air support Baldwin wrote:

"Fundamental, however, is the Air Force belief—not shared by the other services—that close air support is the least effective and most wasteful way of using air power."

"Higher priorities of the Tactical Air Force were defined as the winning of air superiority and the clearance far behind the enemy front of enemy supply lines," the article said.

In contrast, Baldwin says, the Navy believes in close air support of fighting ground troops.

The differing concepts, Baldwin concludes, "must be settled at the Joint Chiefs of Staff level, all services agree, and not in the field."

'POSSUM BRUSHED OFF' GREENSBORO

GREENSBORO—(UP)—Despite the request of a staff obstetrician, a Greensboro hospital refused to admit an expectant mother opossum the physician had found wandering about the hospital parking lot.

About half the meat eaten by members of the U.S. Armed Services is pork.

Yesterdays, the five-man subcommittee looked over the Air Force's first choice for the base—Raleigh-Durham Airport, and inspected Seymour Johnson Field at Goldsboro.

The inspection tour was initiated after the North Carolina House Delegation could not agree over the Air Force's selection of Raleigh-Durham as a site for the base. The two troop carrier wings to be located at the proposed base would serve airborne troops stationed at Fort Bragg.

The subcommittee is headed by Rep. Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.), along with Reps. Melvin Price (D-Ill.), O. C. Fisher (D-Tex.), Dewey Short (R-Mo.), Charles E. Elston (R-O.) and William Bates (R-Mass.)

Waynick will leave tomorrow for Raleigh, Greensboro and High Point to talk over his political chances with friends. Then he will leave for Colombia.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Capus M. Waynick, the new ambassador to Colombia, said today he will decide by Sept. 1, whether to run for governor of North Carolina.

Waynick called on President Truman preparatory to leaving for his diplomatic post.

He said that acceptance of the diplomatic assignment did not preclude his later resignation to make the campaign if he decides he has a reasonable chance of success.

Waynick will leave tomorrow for Raleigh, Greensboro and High Point to talk over his political chances with friends. Then he will leave for Colombia.

Illegal Sale Of Horsemeat Gets Police Attention

ASHEVILLE—(AP)—The illegal sale of horsemeat in the Asheville area occupied the attention of city police court again today.

Two Asheville butchers, J. W. (Jeff) Anders and O. B. Harris, were convicted yesterday on 17 counts involving the sale of the meat. Judge Sam P. Cathey fined them $50 each on one count but deferred judgment on the other 16 counts until today.

Their trial was followed by that of Charlie Giesentanner, an Asheville grocer, on six similar charges. The trial of Frank Wallace, a poultry dealer, on other similar charges was expected to follow the conclusion of the Giesentanner trial today.

Harris, Anders and Giesentanner have named Charles Brackett of Charlotte as the man who supplied them the illegal meat. All said they were under the impression the horsemeat was beef and stopped handling it when they discovered its true nature.

Brackett has been indicted by the Buncombe County Grand Jury and is being sought by North Carolina and South Carolina police.

CVA Drive Shelved But Is Not Forgotten

PORTLAND, Ore. — (UP) — The administration's proposal to establish a Columbia Valley Authority similar to TVA has been shelved but not forgotten.

The tip-off that the CVA campaign had subsided came when O. Girard Davidson, assistant secretary of interior, resigned his government post and returned to Portland to resume private law practice.

Davidson, a young Louisianian, had spear-headed the administration's drive to convince the people of the Pacific Northwest that they need a light CVA to administer the water, power, reclamation and irrigation programs in the vast Columbia River watershed.

Some observers feel that vociferous opposition to the CVA encountered by Davidson in Oregon, Washington and Idaho has resulted in complete collapse of the proposal. Others think it is not collapsed but merely dormant for the duration of the national emergency.

Called Socialistic

Opponents of the CVA called the plan "dictatorial" and "socialistic." Although the major resistance came from Republicans and most of the support came from Truman Democrats, the fight cut across party lines.

CVA supporters contended that development of Columbia River resources has been hit-and-miss, with various governmental agencies, printhe Bureau of Reclamation, the municipal power systems or the private companies.

That was a far cry from his advocacy of the Department of Interior's CVA. It was a long way from the idea that public power, particularly valley authority power, could do more work than privately-developed power could do.

Tie-Up Advocated

Davidson also advocated a power tie-up between the Northwest and California, with each area contributing to the other during times of power surpluses.

Now, with the emphasis on CVA gone, the Columbia Basin Inter-agency Committee, members of the seven-state interstate compact committee and Bonneville Power Administration are working toward the integration-without-control goal for power developments.

The old struggle between fish and power interests along the Columbia and its tributaries still continues, not as ever. Fish and conservation interests, fearful of further decline of the salmon and sports fish population, so far have blocked proposed construction of a proposed private utility dam on the Deschutes River in central Oregon. That issue, like other fish vs. dams arguments, appears to be headed toward compromise, including fish ladders and expansion of fish hatcheries.

Actor With One Hundred Faces

FROM THIS would you recognize the man at right?

AP Newsfeature

DAN MORGAN has been carrying on a one-man campaign against type casting on TV. Known as "the actor with 100 faces," Morgan has demonstrated that a good performer can portray almost any kind of character. In 36 recent television appearances, he has been cast as a witch, gangster, tailor, sea captain, reporter and various other types. Dan began his career with the Cleveland Playhouse and he worked as a radio announcer before he crashed television in New York in 1947. His first video role was that of a 75-year-old doctor, and Dan was only 28.

Commission To Stretch Mileage, Make Smaller

RALEIGH (UP)—The State Highway Commission plans to stretch the mileage of mountain paved roads by making them more narrow.

The commission agreed to permit 12-foot paving, instead of the previous 16-foot minimum, on mountain roads travelled by less than 75 vehicles a day.

Chief Engineer W. H. Rogers Jr. recommended the new policy to the commission at its meeting yesterday. He said that by limiting width where construction costs are very high and usage is low, the commission will be able to "extend this service to as many miles as possible."

The state will be improving on standards recommended by the American Association of State Highway Officials, he said. The group recommends that no paving exceed 12 feet in width where the traffic count is 100 vehicles or less per day.

DiSalle To Visit North Carolina

CHARLOTTE — (AP) — Mike V. DiSalle, Office of Price Stabilization administrator, will confer with several hundred OPS cooperating committees from North Carolina cities here next week.

An OPS announcement released today said Ben E. Douglas of Charlotte, district OPS director, is in charge of arrangements for DiSalle's scheduled visit. DiSalle will speak on economic control problems at a luncheon at Hotel Charlotte.

Governor Scott has been invited to attend the luncheon.

Court Injunction For OPS Violators

RALEIGH—Federal court injunctions were served yesterday on two men for illegal slaughtering in violation of Office of Price Stabilization orders.

The temporary restraining orders, signed by Federal Judge Don Gilliam, were served on Neusom A. Worsley, Route 1, Burgaw, and Stephen W. Carroll, Route 1, Willard.

The two men allegedly failed to require registration numbers for slaughtering activities. They were ordered to show cause in Federal Court here Aug. 9 why a permanent injunction should not be issued.

High Costs Delay Caswell Project

RALEIGH — (AP) — Because of high bids on construction, the state may have to revise its plans for a new tubercular hospital at the Caswell Training School at Kinston.

Roy Purser, business manager of the State Hospitals System, said yesterday that low bids opened Tuesday in Kinston on the project totaled $385,990.65. The 1949 General Assembly appropriated $217,000 for the two-story structure.

Korean G. I. Bill Introduced Today

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senators George (D-Ga.) and Kerr (D-Okla.) have introduced a GI education and training bill for veterans of the Korean war.

Under the measure introduced yesterday, veterans of 90 days or more of military service since June 1950 would be eligible for one month of training for each month of active service.

Veterans whose education was interrupted by entrance into the armed services would be provided a maximum of four years training. Other veterans would be entitled to one year.

HELPING HAND

YORKTOWN, Sask. — (AP) — Norman Roebuck helped a neighbor spray weed-killer on his field. When he returned home fumes from his clothing killed most of the prize plants in his house.

WIFE LEARNS TOO

CHICAGO (UP) — Orville Russell's wife, Ann, kept asking him about his work as a body and fender repair man. In self defense, he finally taught her the trade and she now works side by side with Russell in a shop.

Canoe Used For Exploring Nile In 2,400-Mile Trip

CAIRO, Egypt — (UP) — A Californian and two French friends have returned to Cairo after a perilous nine-month, 4,200-mile paddle down the Nile River, possibly the longest canoe trip ever made.

Tall, blond, John M. Goddard, 26, of Los Angeles, a former United States Air Force pilot, headed the expedition, which crossed jungles, deserts, swamps, reputedly impassable cataracts and areas never before traversed by white men.

The sun-tanned trio put in for ten days at Cairo and then set out northward to reach the Mediterranean at the Rosetta mouth, bringing to an end the first complete descent of the Nile.

The venture began last November 2 from the farthest source of the Nile, the Kagera River, in the land of Ruanda-Urundi, west of Tanganyika Territory. The Kagera feeds Lake Victoria, out of which flows the Nile.

Photographic Record

Goddard's two French mates were Jean Laporte, 31, an interior decorator, and Andre Davy, 33, a writer. The French Geographic Society and the French Museum of Natural Science patronized the expedition. The trio explored the whole length of the river and recorded it thoroughly for documentaries on film.

let the world know more about the age-old institution the Nile represents," Laporte said.

"We didn't take the trip just for the fun of paddling through 4,200 miles of water," Laporte added. "We studied everything we could about the river and its influence on culture of the people who live on its banks, especially the isolated tribes. We also collected specimens of the fauna and flora en route."

Cataracts Encountered

Six roaring and foaming cataracts and innumerable small rapids were the biggest obstacles on the way.

"Tearing down the river around blind turns and shooting rapids for sheer thrill is incomparable," Goddard said.

Africa's crocodiles, hippos, lions, rhinos, elephants and other wild beasts were met by the adventurers during the perilous adventure but rarely gave the three men any trouble.

The three adventurers lived most-

Snakes Were The Real Thing In Reggie's Bar

LOS GATOS, Cal. (UP)—Customers returned to Reggie Puccinelli's bar today with the satisfaction that when you see snakes in Reggie's, it isn't the liquor—they're the real thing.

Friday night Reggie was distracted from his mixology by a whirring sound at the end of the bar. He took a look, shook his head, and poured his own drink down the drain.

A customer rubbed his eyes and remarked, "I see a rattlesnake."

"So do I," answered another, "but let us be thankful the pink elephant and blue moose aren't with us also."

As the patrons drank thankfully, a new customer arrived and broke the placid silence with a screaming vow that he was on the wagon and something should be done about the snake in Reggie's.

The reptile was captured and dumped into a bottle. It now resides for all to see at C.A. Kirendall's drug store.

The National Geographic Society says fish account for about 95 per cent of Iceland's exports.

Three More Entries From Pitt For Beauty Pageant

Three more Pitt County girls were entered in the Greenville Farmers Day beauty pageant today as the number of contestants swelled to nine.

The new entries in the pageant were June Turner of the Belvoir community, sponsored by the Greenville Business and Professional Women's club, Elva Forrest of the Timothy community, sponsored by the Chocod 4-H club, and Barbara Ann James of the Stokes community, sponsored by the Greenville Rotary club.

The girls join the six others who already have put their names on the line to seek the title of Eastern Carolina Harvest Queen and a free trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to be awarded at the pageant here on the night of August 14.

June Turner is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McAlvin Turner of the Belvoir community, and is one of the outstanding students at the Belvoir-Falkland high school. She has been a member of the 4-H club for six years and during that time she has been crowned the Belvoir 4-H health queen, has been a club dress review winner, a club reporter for two years, and has participated in cooking and sewing activities of the club. In school she is a member of the glee club, the basketball team, a cheerleader, and a member of the school newspaper staff.

Elva Forrest is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Forrest of Ayden route two and a student at Chocod high school. She has been outstanding in 4-H club work especially in the fields of food preservation, canning and freezing.

Barbara Ann James is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. James, Jr., of Bethel route three. She is a member of the 11th grade class at Stokes high school where she is a member of the glee club, and has been a member of the 4-H club for three years. She has participated in the food preparation and clothing activities of the club.

terested in politics in 1952.

The President went on to say he believes Eisenhower, claimed by some in both major parties as their favorite candidate, will put duty to his country first.

Lausche also brought up the name of Eisenhower, saying that the U.S. Governors Conference wanted the general to be principal speaker next month at its conference at Gatlinburg, Tenn.

Both Democratic and Republican party leaders here saw a possibility that Governor Lausche was making an early personal bid for strong Democratic party support for next year.

Many expect him to oppose Republican Senator Bricker of Ohio.

Senator Brewster (R-Ms.) generally regarded as a backer of Senator Taft for the presidency in 1952, asked a reporter why President Truman was bringing up Eisenhower's name at weekly press conferences.

"I agree with Bernard Baruch that it would be a great disservice to General Eisenhower to put him into the political area," Brewster said.

Senator Moody (D-Mich.) who flew out to Detroit last Saturday with the President, expressed doubt that Mr. Truman was boosting either Eisenhower or himself for 1952.

"I'm sure I don't know if President Truman will be a candidate and I don't think that even he knows," Moody, a former newspaperman, said.

Senator Murray (D-Mont.), who returned from Europe agreeing with Brewster that Eisenhower would not be a candidate, said he is confident that President Truman will be and should be a candidate next year.

Rent Controls . . .

and Woods can't reimpose them.

4. And when a state substitutes its own rent control for federal control, Woods can't reimpose. For example, Woods can't put controls back in any part of New York which, as explained, has its own law.

All this so far deals only with Woods' power to reimpose controls. But under the new law federal controls can be placed on any community, whether or not it has ever been under controls and no matter how it has been de-controlled, but only in this way:

The Secretary of Defense, George Marshall, and Charles E. Wilson, boss of defense mobilization, must first decide that such a place is critically in need of controls for the good of the defense program.

So where Woods can reimpose controls only where he himself has decontrolled, Marshall and Wilson can decide on controls for any community.

They can do that to a whole city or just part of a city. For example, the area around an important defense plant. And where Woods' power to re-control is limited mostly to housing units, Marshall and Wilson can put controls on any kind of housing.

Further, whenever Marshall and Wilson decide an area must be controlled, the government must relax in that area its nationwide restrictions on credit for new housing. Example, the size of the down payment. The reason: To get housing built in that area faster.

There are a couple of points to keep in mind:

1. When Marshall and Wilson decide on rent controls for an area, they still can be wiped out if the city council or state legislature wants them ended. But they can stay wiped out only for 30 days. Then the government can step in and order the controls again.

2. New York, the only state with its own statewide controls, is a notable exception to all that's been said about the new law. The government can't impose federal controls in New York unless it finds that rents in New York as a whole have been rising faster than rents in the nation as a whole.

As for landlords: Those who want to boost their rents to 20 per cent above what they were on June 30, 1947, can do so immediately after filing a sworn application with their

a 23-minute prepared statement repeating the U.N. stand for a cease-fire along the fighting front.

"Adm. Joy emphasized that the U.N. command would not relinquish its present military defense positions to satisfy (Communist) political desires to subdivide Korea," the U.N. communique said.

Joy contended that a cease-fire line was only temporary and would remain in effect only until a final frontier had been established by a peace conference. During the armistice, he said, the Allies must retain defensible positions and there are none along the parallel.

Chief Communist delegate Gen. Nam II replied with an apparently prepared statement which lasted for an hour and 49 minutes.

"There was little if anything new in Gen. Nam II's statement," Nickols said.

He said the North Korean general repeated one phrase 14 different times during the statement.

During the discourse, Nickols said, Nam II grudgingly admitted that the U.N. Air Force had "certain effectiveness" and had exerted certain influences on Communist ground operations.

He said Nam II basically was trying to justify the Communist attempt to fix the demarcation line along a parallel of latitude. The Communist repeatedly denied that such a line had "territorial or political" significance.

Communist radio stations kept up their propaganda broadcasts seeking to justify a cease-fire along the 38th Parallel.

Presumably echoing Nam II's arguments at Kaesong, Peiping radio said:

"The 38th Parallel reflects the present military situation, and is a line showing that the military power of both sides is equally balanced. Therefore, it is extremely just to both sides to have the buffer zone on this line."

Peiping also claimed (although it is not true)—that the Communists hold about as much South Korean territory south of the 38th Parallel in the west as the Allies hold north of it in the center and the east.

The 8th Army is 30 miles north of the parallel in some places. The Peiping broadcast said the U.N. proposal for a cease-fire along the present front is "extremely unreasonable."

Blockades are back in the news in Germany. Russian occupation authorities refuse to sign permits for West Berlin to export goods through the Soviet zone to the Western zones of Germany. In retaliation, West Germany has halted all exports to the Soviet zone with the expiration of a trade agreement. Commercial air liners have begun a "baby airlift" to move 12,000 tons of backlogged goods out of West Berlin.

Wright Predicts Southern Revolt Against Truman

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. — (AP) — Southern democrats will bolt the National party again before they will accept President Truman to head the 1952 party ticket, predicts Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi.

Wright, 1948 States Rights candidate for vice president, said the South is opposed to the centralized, socialist proposals advocated by the President.

He said he did not think "the South would accept President Truman as a candidate for reelection under any conditions."

Wright made the comments last night in a telephone interview from Jackson, Miss., when he was asked to elaborate on a speech earlier in the day here.

Wright forecast another southern rebellion if the National party follows its 1948 course. He said the National administration had not professedly "civil rights proposals, but that coalition of southern democrats and republicans had blocked them."

He listed Gov. James Byrnes of South Carolina, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia and Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, all democrats, as likely leaders.

Wright said, "the South is opposed to the police state the FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Commission) would set up."

He added that he was retiring to private life after his term expires next January, but as a private citizen he would "accept a small part (in such a southern rebellion) if called upon to do so."

Eight candidates are seeking to succeed him in next Tuesday's primary in this solidly democratic state. All are avowed states righters.

The 1948 southern revolt against the fair deal and civil rights resulted in the states rights ticket headed by former Gov. J. Strom Thurman of South Carolina. It carried Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina.

Wright said he was not opposed to proposals by Sen. Carl Mundt (R-SD) for a coalition of republicans and southern democrats. He said, however, that he thought such a proposal would involve too many difficulties to be ironed out in time for the 1952 elections.

Accused Aliens Put Into Custody In New York City

NEW YORK — (AP) — Fifteen of 39 accused aliens were in custody today as the government voided all bail posted through the Civil Rights Congress, labeled subversive by the attorney general's office.

All face deportation on charges of being members of the Communist party or having Red connections. The $1 fund of the Congress had posted a total of $110,000 for the defendant, "1 of whom live in the New York district and eight in the Detroit area."

They must produce new bonds or go to jail.

Their re-arrests started yesterday after Attorney General J. Howard McGrath announced that the Justice Department considers void all bond furnished by the Congress' all fund.

Of those who surrendered yesterday—all New Yorkers—13 gave themselves up here, one in Boston and one in Philadelphia.

Outgoing of the CRC as bondsmen was initiated last month in New York by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan. He acted after four of 11 convicted Communists jumped $80,000 in Congress bail, and the bail fund trustees refused to furnish a list of fund contributors.

BVD Industry Being Purchased By Mill Owners

NEW YORK (UP)—Michael Erlanger, president of BVD Industries, Inc., announced today that the 75-year old men's apparel business is being sold so that the concern can "concentrate on its rapidly expanding Southern textile interests."

"BVD" which has become an American catchword for men's underwear, is being purchased, for an undisclosed sum, by Paul P. Gelles and Col. T. J. Gelles, owners of Onyx-Superior Mills, Inc., a company formed just recently by a merger of Peterzell Gelles (the former Onyx Knitting Mills) and Superior company.

In addition to its control of BVD Co., Inc., BVD Industries, a holding company, also owns controlling stock in the North Carolina Finishing Co., Salisbury, N. C.; Erlanger Mills, Inc., Lexington, N. C.

Negro Night Spot Ordered Locked

The Pactolus Honky Tonky, a Negro night spot, is no more.

By order of Judge J. Paul Frizelle of Snow Hill yesterday the proprietor Andrew Moore will vacate the premises immediately.

Moore was ordered to pay only costs of the action on condition that he not operate any store or juke joint anywhere during the next two years.

Moore's establishment, located on the Washington highway in the vicinity of Pactolus, was padlocked by the sheriff after Solicitor W. J. Bundy charged that the place was a public nuisance.

B. E. Ward, a second defendant named in the padlocking order, was exonerated when it was found that he had nothing to do with running the place. He filed answer to the solicitor's order in the middle of July, saying he had nothing to do with the Honky Tonky except in "so" — as being a member of the Oldfellows club which housed it.

City Tax Take Above Last Year

City tax collections for June and July are up $6,000 over collections made during the same period last year.

Total collections through July 31 amounted to $97,592.98, it was reported by H. H. Duncan, city clerk. Last year's collections for the two months were $91,104.82. Discount on the collections amounted to $1,747.11.

Duncan also reported that the delinquency for paying city privilege licenses has been extended one month. Reason for the extension, he said, is due to the fact that many firms have not been notified that a penalty for not paying in July 1 in effect this year for the first time.

Original deadline for the new order was August 1. It has been extended to September 1. At the present time $9,917.75 has been collected.

Board Votes . . .

since the latter will be working on the tobacco market for a large part of the year.

Collins brought the matter to a vote. He asked Page why he should not retain his chairmanship. Page said he didn't have to give any reason. However, he said, one reason was that Collins had not consulted other committee members about certain projects supposedly undertaken by the committee as a whole. Collins denied it.

With the naming of the street committee, Page's complete list of fiscal-year appointments thus was brought to a close. Since his July 2 assignments, which the Board refused to approve, the street committee of last year, with Collins as chairman, has been serving intact.

The final budget for the fiscal year was approved, having been put off until the regular monthly meeting in order that final adjustments could be made concerning all department's requests. Auditor C. H. Bass, representative of the George E. Scott Company which audits the city books each year, reported that the fiscal year began with a balance of $13,000 left over from last year. "That speaks pretty well for you," particularly since the city began the biennium with a $9,000 overdraft, he said.

Action on a supplementary increase to former city clerk J. O. Duval's retirement money was referred to the finance committee for further consideration. W. H. Woodard, president of Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, appeared before the board in Duval's behalf asking if something could be done toward raising the retirement funds to the allowable maximum. Woodard stated he was no special friend of Duval's but was appearing to find out why the finance committee had not supplemented the fund which is allowable under the general statutes of the State.

J. E. Waldrop, former finance chairman, stated that the committee was considering the increase in the light of how much the City will have to increase other persons' retirement funds in the future. He said that if the committee had been considering only Duval's case, "we'd have done it right fast."

An actuary had been consulted in the matter, he said, to determine how much the City would be paying in the future when other persons come up for retirement. He reported it would cost several thousand dollars each year.
