Vast Arms Budget Is Given O.K.

Record Peacetime Military Outlay Of $56 Billion Passes House Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—A record $56,062,405,890 peacetime military budget was approved today by the House Appropriations Committee.

It is $1,542,008,500 less than the President requested and does not include $4,500,000,000 for public works construction to be considered later this year.

With that one exception, the present measure is to finance the Defense Department for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Accompanying the big money bill by the House for debate starting Wednesday was a statement by Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.)

More than half the bill's total is for buying military "hardware"—tanks, planes, guns, rockets, weapons and other supplies for a military manpower force of 3,600,000.

At $15,000,000,000 for aircraft and component parts to give this country what the committee called "the most powerful striking force ever placed in the hands of any nation."

The overall objective of the huge outlay of funds, the committee said, is:

"To build sufficient forces as soon as practicable to act as a deterrent to further aggression; to create sufficient power to prevent disaster in the event war is forced upon us; to provide an immediate capability for quick and strong retaliation in case of an attack upon us; and to produce a firm base upon which to build, as quickly as possible, that power necessary to assure victory should we be forced to engage in all-out conflict."

Here's how the money would be allotted, by services:

Army: $20,128,574,665, a cut of $885,321,500 from what it wanted.

Navy: $15,552,143,225, a cut of $194,272,000.

Air Force: $19,854,128,000, a cut of $647,015,000.

National Security Council: $160,000, no cut.

National Security Resources Board: $1,600,000, no cut.

Secretary of Defense: $528,800,000, a cut of $16,000,000; out of this allotment comes retirement pay of $345,000,000.

Deep cuts were made in funds requested for civilian personnel and military procurement. The aggregate $146,130,500 chopped off civilian personnel funds is resigned to cut planned white-collar and blue-collar working forces by close to 80,000.

Three Auto Wrecks Mar Pitt Weekend

Two Persons Injured; Lack Of Tail Light, Mule On Road And 'Trespassing' Bumble Bee Cited As Causes

Three highway accidents were chalked up on Pitt County highways over the weekend, but only two persons received injuries in the mishaps.

Two of the highway accidents occurred in the Bethel area while the other occurred on the Facticals highway.

The driver of one car was arrested on a charge of having improper lights on his car as the result of a two-car accident on the Facticals highway Saturday night.

Investigation of the accident was made by Patrolman Paul C. Whitley, who gave this account of the accident:

A car operated by Willie Ray Joyner, of Route 1, Farmville, was traveling along the highway without any tail lights and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Robert Lee Langley, of Route 5, Greenville.

Damage to both of the cars was estimated at $400. No one was injured in the accident, Whitley stated.

Another car-automobile accident was reported by Patrolman Delton E. Perry yesterday in the Bethel area. A car driven by Earl Derous Loftin, 847 Jefferson Avenue, New York, struck a mule which was loose on the highway. Damage to the car was placed at $100. No one was injured.

The accident occurred on N. C. 11 one mile north of Bethel around 12:15 a.m.

A bumble bee was given as the cause of a head-on collision on U.S. 64 out of Bethel yesterday afternoon, Patrolman D. E. Perry reported.

According to Perry, a car driven by Mattie Staton, 45, of Bethel, went out of control and collided with another car when a bumble bee got in the car causing the driver to cut into the path of the oncoming car.

Two persons were injured in the accident but did not receive any serious injuries. Injured were: Mattie Staton, minor bruises and lacerations, and Mary Lois Staton, lacerations of left eye and left knee.

Damage to the car was estimated at $150 each.

No charges were filed against either driver. Driver of the second car was Cecil Jones of Route 2, Robertsonville.

Another Entry In Farmers' Day Beauty Contest

Helen Copeland of Stokes is the 13th entrant in the beauty contest which will be held at New Carolina Warehouse the night before Farmers' Day.

Helen is 16 years old, a rising junior at Stokes High School this fall, and will be sponsored by the Stokes Senior 4-H club of which she is a member.

In her 4-H and FHA work Helen has been active in both dress design and dairy foods demonstration. Last year she won the county-wide contest in the latter demonstration and earlier this year was the county's FHA winner dress modeling.

At school Helen has been a member of the Stokes basketball team for the past three years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Copeland of Stokes.

UN Army Picks Up Real Estate Near Truce City

One Column Advances Nearly Six Miles In Light Action Near Kaesong

8TH ARMY HQ, Korea (UP)—United Nations troops fought today to extend their hold east and north-east of the cease-fire conference city of Kaesong.

One column advanced nearly six miles yesterday north of Korangpo, 15 miles east of Kaesong.

Another struck west across the Imjin River and ran into three Communist platoons. It scattered the Reds and advanced 1,000 yards before colliding with more enemy troops. No further reports of this engagement have been received.

Southwest of Kaesong, Communist batteries fired 24 rounds of mortar and artillery shells Sunday at the Allies without causing any damage.

On the central front, an estimated 34 Communist troops were killed in an eight-hour skirmish Sunday south southwest of the Communist stronghold of Kumsong, 29 miles above the 38th Parallel.

U.N. naval units stepped up the shelling and bombing of Communist targets in Korea Sunday. Ships and planes of four Allied nations took part.

The British cruiser Ceylon teamed up with American carrier pilots in blasting entrenched Communist troops southwest of Haeju on the west Korean coast.

Other American carrier planes ranged as far north as Chinnampo, the port for Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

The Australian frigate Warramunga, South Korean frigate Apnok and British frigate Mounts Bay hit other west coast targets.

Last Hours For Warehouse Bids

Five o'clock this afternoon is the deadline for any upset bid on Gold Leaf Warehouse.

As of early this afternoon no one had raised N. G. Raynor's bid of $198,000, set July 26, at the time of public auction.

Sanitarians from the local health department plan to inspect, from 35 to 50 outdoor privies and vegetable toilets a week and make recommendations of improvements to landlords.

Willie Fite, senior sanitarian, has asked that all landlords who know they have insanitary conditions on their property to begin correction on the conditions so as "to save work, worry, and maybe embarrassment."

According to a city ordinance, all dwellings shall be provided with an approved water closet and sink within the building for each family therein.

Pate said Griffin is having a complete privy survey and cleanup and a similar survey will begin in Bethel in the near future.

Wage Earners In South Show Rise

ATLANTA (UP)—The U.S. Labor Department reported today that more than 2,000,000 wage earners in the South received pay increases during the first seven months of 1951.

The report covered 1,600 establishments employing 20 or more workers each, and did not cover increases granted small groups or individuals.

About half of the increases ranged between five and 10 cents per hour. Another 39 per cent ranged from 10 to 35 cents per hour.

Offer 'Social Drinkers' Check List For Alcoholism

BALTIMORE (UP)—The National Committee on Alcohol Hygiene, Inc., offered a test today to help "social drinkers" and others find out whether they are turning into alcoholics.

The organization said that any person answering "yes" to any of the following questions "may be" an alcoholic.

"If you answer 'yes' to any two," it said, "the chances are that you are an alcoholic." Three or more "yeses" and you are "definitely an alcoholic."

The question: Do you lose time from work due to drinking?

Do you find drinking making your home life unhappy?

Do you drink because you are shy with other people?

Peiping Radio Says Proposed Truce Line Calls For 'Impossible' Retreat

TOKYO, Tuesday (UP)—The Chinese Communist Peiping Radio broadcast last night that the United Nations demands a truce line which would force Communist armies to retreat up to 25 miles from their present front.

"We absolutely can not accept it," Peiping said.

Supreme headquarters here said officially for the first time that the Allies demand line based "in effect" on the line now generally held by the U.N. forces.

But the Allies held never has been specified by the U.N. command, and censors refuse to pass dispatches purporting to give it.

Peiping said the Allies want to start the line at Son-Ri, about 50 miles north of the 38th Parallel on the east coast, run six miles north of Pyongyang and 14 miles north-west of Chorwon, both cities now in Allied hands, through Kunchin 11 miles north of the parallel and to the Ongjin peninsula.

"This involves establishment of a demilitarized zone inside the sectors presently held by the Korean people's army and the Chinese volunteer army," Peiping said.

Peiping said the Allies demanded the line on the ground that the allied superiority in naval and air forces justified it.

Further, the broadcast said, the Allies are trying to bring pressure on the Red cease-fire negotiators by continuing air and sea bombardments of North Korea.

It took Peiping two hours to broadcast the 3,000 word statement in Morse code. It ended:

"We desire peace but we will never give in to your unreasonable demands."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway urgently summoned his cease-fire negotiators to Tokyo yesterday, conferred with them on the suspended Korean cease-fire talks and held them on call here overnight.

Hours after the conference in Ridgway's Tokyo headquarters had ended, there still was no official word on the reason for the supreme United Nations supreme commander's dramatic summons of his negotiating team from Korea.

However, it came after the Communists had complied with his conditions for resumption of the armistice talks in Kaesong.

Before Ridgway summoned his cease-fire negotiators to Tokyo, his headquarters disclosed officially that the U.N. command seeks a truce line which is "in effect the line now generally held by the U.N. forces."

According to the Communists, however, the line actually would result in an advance of the U.N. forces beyond the present front in some areas.

In the Kaesong talks, the Communists still are demanding a cease-fire line along the 38th Parallel.

Ridgway broke off the talks Sunday on grounds that the Communists had "flagrantly" violated the neutrality of Kaesong by having armed troops within 100 yards of the conference house. He demanded an explanation and assurances it would not happen again.

North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese commander Peng Teh-huai replied early Monday that the breach was accidental and promised there would be no repetition. They asked an immediate resumption of the cease-fire talks.

Ridgway had not replied when he conferred with the U.N. negotiating team.

Speculation over the reason for the Tokyo conference included:

1. The sudden recall is part of a "be tough" policy intended to take the initiative away from the Communists.

2. Ridgway may demand a change of conference site on grounds that a meeting in enemy territory is an "improper atmosphere" for armistice negotiations.

3. U.N. members in the Korean war, particularly Britain and France, may be pressuring Washington to speed the tempo of the talks, even at the expense of some concessions to the Reds if necessary.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. negotiator, and his colleagues arrived by plane in Tokyo from Korea at 5:03 p.m. (2:03 a.m. EST).

The negotiators conferred with Ridgway for nearly an hour and a half. Neither Joy nor the others present had any comment to make as they left.

Joy plainly had been puzzled by his sudden summons to Tokyo. He showed this when he addressed a colonel from Ridgway's staff as he left his plane.

"Got any word for us?" Joy asked. "Got any word?"

The colonel replied: "Well, I have a faint indication..." He halted when newsmen hurried up.

Pressed for comment, Joy told the newsmen: "You can say I'm going to see General Ridgway."

Begin Sanitation Check This Week

Landlords Urged To Start Corrections At Early Date

Inspection of insanitary toilet conditions prevailing in the city will be started this week.

Sanitarians from the local health department plan to inspect, from 35 to 50 outdoor privies and vegetable toilets a week and make recommendations of improvements to landlords.

Willie Fite, senior sanitarian, has asked that all landlords who know they have insanitary conditions on their property to begin correction on the conditions so as "to save work, worry, and maybe embarrassment."

Will Stay On

WASHINGTON (AP)—William M. Boyle, Jr., conferred with President Truman today and said afterward he has no intention of resigning as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Boyle told reporters, "I have always conducted myself honorably."

Boyle's name has been brought into published accounts of a $555,000 government loan to a St. Louis printing firm. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch said the loan was turned down three times but was granted after the firm retained Boyle.

Peace Rally Mob In Western Zone

Berlin (UP)—Thousands of youths here for a mammoth Communist "peace" rally swarmed into the Western zone of Berlin today and gaped in awe at store windows laden with goods.

West German police and American troops were alerted for possible trouble, although the invasion appeared to be peaceful. The soldiers were confined to their barracks but later began returning to their normal duties.

Western authorities said that since yesterday 15,000 delegates had defied Communist police patrols to visit the glittering shops of West Berlin. They said 86 of the visitors already had asked political asylum.

Yesterday 500,000 youths, including an eight-member American delegation carrying a United States flag, marched through East Berlin shouting attacks against the West.

Today Western authorities relaxed restrictions and let columns of the youths roam the streets of West Berlin.

Some of the delegates commented that the display of shoes, dresses, toys and fresh fruit was something they had not seen in the controlled stores of the Communist zone.

West German authorities, seeking to lure youths away from the 15-day Communist demonstrations, gave away show tickets. Professional entertainers offered to furnish free attractions.

Among those absent was Paul Robeson Jr., son of the leftist Negro baritone.

Protesting the State Department's denial of his appeal for a passport, he said in New York, "only those who agree with the views of the State Department can get passports nowadays."

Town Meeting

FARMVILLE—Sentiments of citizens will be voiced tonight in a mass meeting concerning a proposed power hook-up between the Utilities and Carolina Power and Light Company.

No contract has been drawn up as yet, pending the outcome of tonight's special meeting. However, a proposition made between the City and C P and L calls for purchasing 800 kilowatts of firm power per day in a 20-year contract.

The Commissioners are expected to take action on the public response at tomorrow night's monthly meeting.

Utilities superintendent W. A. McAdams said today the purchase of power from the Raleigh company will be a standby agreement, similar to contracts made recently between Virginia Electric and Power Company and Greenville Utilities and other towns in eastern Carolina.

It will not call for an exchange of power, McAdams said, but just an arrangement whereby the local plant can purchase power in case of an emergency. Proposed cost of electricity has been set at 9.4 mills—less than it can be generated here.

Senator Doubts Cadet Cheating Was Surprise

Last Rites Held For Tobacconist

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.) said today he had "grave doubts" that West Point cadets could have cheated on their officers knowing about it.

McCarran called for a congressional investigation of the dismissal of 90 cadets for "no guesswork" as to their guilt. The men should be treated "fairly and honestly," he said.

"I have grave doubts that these going-on could continue for long, as reported, without being known by the officers," McCarran said.

At West Point, parents of some of the cadets said they will appeal to Defense Secretary George Marshall in an effort to get "fair trials" for their sons.

Organized by West Point graduate Lt. Col. Harrison Travis, the parents issued a statement asking for public support.

Travis, charging that the cadets were denied the right of court martial, said the committee would send a representative to Washington to see Marshall.

The parents converging upon the tiny hamlet outside the West Point gates, set up their organization under the retired officer who graduated from West Point in 1930 and has a son there now.

Some cadets have been quoted as saying that the cheating had been going on for some time, and that more than 90 men were guilty.

Sen. Herbert R. O'Connor (D-Md.) urged "calm reflection" on the situation, and said it should not lead to suspension of athletics at either West Point or Annapolis.

"Many great leaders have gone forth from the athletic fields of West Point and Annapolis to honor, and sometimes to die, in our nation's defense," he said. "Many more will follow them, we can be sure."

Seventh Blaze For Weldon Mill

WELDON (UP)—A Weldon lumber mill, the scene of six major blazes in the last seven years, had another yesterday.

The fire destroyed the boiler room of J. S. Turner and Sons Lumber Co. Fire Chief D. R. Medlin said the plant would be closed for about three weeks. He said the fire was of undetermined origin and no estimate of damage had been made.

Doubling Of U. S. Aid

Size And Scope Of New Military And Economic Foreign Aid Program Is In For Heavy Argument In Congress; Two Plans For Its Administration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The next fiery business in Congress will be the foreign aid program. Coals are being heaped on it now.

There are two issues: how much money should be spent on it? and who'll run it?

Reason for the upcoming fight: our foreign aid in the past was mainly economic. Now the nature of that aid has changed.

Now it will be combined economic-military help. It will be mainly military, giving arms. And the cost will be greater.

When the Marshall Plan was created four years ago it was expected to end by 1952.

It was to help Western Europe recover from the war. If it had been able to take it over from the inside, without firing a shot.

Europe made a good recovery. But this country and Western Europe realized a new danger: This country and Western Europe were not prepared to stop communism if it attacked with arms.

The attack on Korea was the shock that drove the U.S. and Western Europe into re-arming. Two new problems arose:

1. Western Europe needed military help from us. It couldn't produce all the arms it needed.

2. It needed continued economic help to keep up its living standards, for the more arms its factories produced, the less goods for civilians there'd be.

So far $12,300,000,000 has been pumped into the Marshall Plan. But Secretary of State Acheson says the new economic-military program of aid will cost $25,000,000,000 in the next three years.

Of that $25,000,000,000 President Truman has asked Congress to vote $8,500,000,000 for this next year; $2,300,000,000 for arms; $2,200,000,000 for economic aid.

The biggest part of this help is for Western Europe. But some will go to the Near East, Latin America, and countries of Asia.

As he has in the past on other programs, Senator Taft, Ohio Republican, says the amount asked by Mr. Truman sounds too high. And even one of Mr. Truman's staunchest supporters on previous aid pro-

Russian Olive Branch

New Propaganda Line Claims Desire For Friendship With West; In Effect, This About-Face Means Things Are Going Badly For Reds Again; The Record

Russia is waving the olive branch again.

The Soviets say they want to be friends with the United States, Britain and the rest of the Western world.

Moscow propagandists contend Russia has no desire to impose communism on other countries. And they are dusting off some of Premier Joseph Stalin's old statements in an attempt to prove it.

But the U.S. government is not being taken in by the Soviet protestations of innocence. In the words of Assistant Secretary of State Edward Barrett, the Russian peace offensive is as "phony as a three-dollar bill."

It just means that things are going badly for the Reds again, and they think they can get more with honeyed words than threats.

Their new line is designed to split the Western Allies and lure them into a state of false security. The Reds don't like the way the Korean war is going and the way the Atlantic Pact armed forces are building up.

First the Russians suggested a cease-fire in Korea. Then they

First Degree Burglary Charged In Local Arrest

GREENVILLE—Police Saturday arrested Artie L. Briley, 39-year-old Negro, 310 Tyson Street, on the charge of first degree burglary.

The warrant charges Briley with breaking into the home of Mrs. Pattie Wooten on Maple Street, in the College View section of the city, last Friday about midnight.

He is being held without privilege of bond pending a preliminary hearing before Judge Charles H. Whedbee in Police Court Wednesday morning.

When Mrs. Wooten and her son, Billy Wooten, went downstairs at their home Friday night to investigate a noise they found a screen at a window with a broken latch had been removed.

They went upstairs, and there they heard a footstep, then another, and Mrs. Wooten screamed.

A man ran down a rear door, she said. When police arrived they found tracks in the mud outside the window and took fingerprints from the window screen.

They arrested Briley at his home shortly afterwards. After testing fingerprints and fingerprints, police issued a warrant charging Briley with first degree burglary.

Switzer-Johnson Marriage Solemnized In Parkers Chapel

The marriage of Miss Margaret Davenport, daughter of Mrs. Joseph S. Johnson of Greenville, and the late Mr. Johnson, to Charles Frederick Switzer II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Switzer of East Chicago, Indiana, was solemnized in Parkers Chapel Free Will Baptist Church Sunday July 22, at 3:30 o'clock.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Paul Davenport Sr., pianist, Miss Peggy Bowers and Mrs. James

Apron Sale To Be Held On Wednesday

The women of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, in a concerted effort to raise funds for furnishing the new Educational Building, are having a sale of aprons on Wednesday of this week.

The idea of making and selling aprons originated in the mind of Mrs. Henry Martin in the spring, who held classes of the plan. Each person with whom she discussed the project spoke approvingly of the idea and soon her enthusiasm touched all the ladies who heard about it and volunteers began to offer their services as seamstresses, cutters, prospective buyers and salesladies.

Several stores in Greenville agreed to contribute the material, and this was soon secured and distributed to those who had volunteered to sew. A committee composed of Mrs. Martin as chairman, Mrs. J. B. Smith as vice-chairman, and Mrs. Beulah Brown as treasurer was formed to handle the details of the project.

For several months dozens of seamstresses have been busy making the attractive aprons in assorted patterns, designs and sizes. Many friends outside of the Methodist group gave their time and talents to help in the undertaking.

Now on Wednesday morning more than 200 of the aprons will be put on sale from tables placed in front of the stores which contributed the material. Ladies of the church will act as salesladies and the aprons will be priced from 50c up. The selling hours will be from 9:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Tomorrow attractive posters will be placed in store windows to remind the public of the sale. The posters were made by Miss Rose Messick. Original verses to be printed on each apron were written by Mrs. Chester Harris and typed and stenciled by Miss Annie Turner and Mrs. Ralph Tucker. Mrs. Alice Keel and Mrs. Jeffrey C. Mose each made 20 aprons apiece, while many other ladies made several each.

The aprons are of all sizes, styles and materials. They would make delightful gifts or would be practical things to buy for personal use.

The public is urged to support this apron sale and by thus doing, they will secure nice things for themselves while aiding a worthy cause.

Funeral Tuesday For Mrs. C. B. Whichard

Mrs. Catherine Renfrew Whichard, 73, widow of Clarence B. Whichard, died at 7:10 Sunday morning at the home of her son, James H. Whichard near Bethel. She had been critically ill for several weeks. Funeral service will be conducted at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at the chapel of S. G. Wilkerson & Sons Funeral home, and burial will be in Cherry Hill Cemetery in Greenville.

Mrs. Whichard was born in Nash County, and was a daughter of the late William and Lucretia Armstrong Renfrew. She came to Greenville when a young girl and was married to Clarence B. Whichard in 1890. He died in January 1929. She was a member of the Memorial Baptist Church for many years.

Surviving her is a daughter, Mrs. James A. Donaldson of Panama City, Florida; two sons, Clarence B. Whichard, Jr. of Frederick, Md., and James H. Whichard of near Bethel; ten grandchildren, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

Within recent years it would appear that the proportion of women who have been canonized as saints by the Roman Catholic Church has increased over earlier years when larger proportions of men than women were recognized for their deeds. Two nuns who in the 1800's founded religious orders within the Church in Europe were recently proclaimed saints by Pope Pius in colorful ceremonies. One was Saint Emille de Viator, of France, whose "saint day" will be August 24; and the other is Saint Maria Massarelli, of Italy, to be commemorated each May 14.

Church women have recently "made good" as pastors and preachers in some Protestant denominations. Now they are proving that they have executive ability and "church statesmanship" as well, for of the more than 200 executives of local and state church councils across the nation eighteen are women—and they are acknowledged "among the best." Among the council women executives are listed Mrs. Dorothy Blount Crandall of Mobile, Ala.; Miss Gertrude L. Apel Seattle, Wash., who is also an ordained minister of the Methodist Church; Miss Jennie M. Doldge, of Bridgeport, Conn.; Miss Florence Query, Durham, N. C.; Mrs. Vivian Reno, Oklahoma City; Mrs. A. B. Stoney, Wheeling, W. Va.; Mrs. Lella Lytle, Decatur, Ill.; Miss Marguerite Ohm, Milwaukee, Wis.; Miss Elizabeth M. Clark, Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Candidates Back States' Rights

JACKSON, Miss. (UP)—All eight Democratic candidates for governor of Mississippi wound up their campaigns today by endorsing states' rights and promising to oppose the renomination of President Truman.

About the only major issue facing an expected 350,000 voters in tomorrow's primary was prohibition. Unanimous agreement among the candidates on national political matters gave assurance that the next chief state executive will be virtually a carbon copy of retiring Gov. "Ib" H. White, one of the leaders in the 1948 states' rights revolt.

Three years ago Wright refused to accept the party's civil rights program, ran for vice president on a states' rights ticket and drew all but 10 per cent of Mississippi's vote away from the Truman-Barkley slate.

Two candidates favor an end to prohibition, two promise to support present liquor laws, and the rest would leave the matter up to a referendum.

'Wanted Man' Is Taken From List

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The name of Ollie Gene Embry was removed today from the FBI's "10 most wanted fugitives" list, just 13 days after he made the "who's who" of crime. He is no longer wanted. He is in jail.

FBI agents and city detectives closed in on the 22-year-old Embry yesterday while he was working as a gasoline station attendant.

Armed only with a wiping rag, Embry did not resist, according to L. V. Boardman, special agent in charge of the Kansas City FBI office.

Embry was wanted for his part in the $8,943 robbery of the Monroe National Bank, Columbia, Ill., Feb. 6. He had been working at the service station on the southeast edge of Kansas City for about two months.

City Detectives James Messick and Clyde Moore received a tip from an informer that led to the capture.

Embry took to crime when he was 18 and graduated to bank robbery at 21. He was only 13 when he left his Harrisburg, Ark., home.

Youth Describes Killing Of Father

DALLAS (UP)—A 16-year-old boy who crept up on his sleeping father and killed him with one shot from a rifle said today he killed the millionaire oilman because "he had been after me for staying out late at night."

Michael Hawkins admitted after three hours of questioning yesterday that he stole into the bedroom of his father, Wallace Hawkins, vice president of the Magnolia Petroleum Co., pointed his .22 caliber rifle at his father's head, "real close," and fired.

Throughout the questioning, detectives said, the youth remained calm and showed no remorse.

It was Michael who reported the slaying to police, saying he came home from a late date Saturday night and found his father dead.

However, he changed his story after the prolonged questioning and led officers to a water hole several miles from the palatial home where he had ditched the gun.

Capt. Will Fritz, who took the boy's confession, said the police followed the youth's directions.

"He sat there in the car and showed us where to drag for the gun," Fritz said. "We found it just like he said we would, with the empty shell in the chamber and the bolt in place."

"The boy didn't shed a tear."

The older Hawkins had reprimanded Michael about keeping late hours before the youth left for a

Sees No Need Of Dixie Alliance With Republicans

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Clinton D. McKinnon (D-Cal) thinks Southern Democrats "will take care of themselves" without a formal alliance with the GOP as proposed by Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD).

Mundt, appearing with McKinnon on a Columbia Broadcasting System program last night, said such an alliance would "rescue the South from Northern carpetbaggers" by giving the South a choice of presidents.

But McKinnon argued that the alliance only would create confusion and tend toward weak government, with the GOP trying to dictate to the South.

Mundt has offered to support a Southern Democrat for president to launch an anti-Truman alliance.

New Sense Of Humor In New Army, Says Comic

NEW YORK (UP)—Comedian Jack Carter said today the new Army has a new sense of humor. He said the current GI has a "broader" appreciation of comedy than his World War II counterpart. Carter believed it was because the present-day soldier was "more worldly."

"In World War II days, he said, you could roll soldiers in the aisles with a simple gag like: 'I went out with a wick last night—th t's a Wac lit up... Or maybe I like this: 'I was going to be a sailor—but my father beat the tar out of me.'"

But, Carter said, it's not that way anymore. He said it takes "more than an army joke" to make today's boys laugh.

He should know, Carter, who hit the big time in the Broadway "Call Me Mister" and in television, played before thousands of GIs during the last war; and early this summer he made a four-week tour of England, Germany, France and Italy to entertain U.S. occupation forces.

"It's pretty obvious that the new recruits are fed up with Army jokes," he said. "The youngster of this Army was an impressionable teenager when his older brother went to war. War and the Army were new to him then, but not now. He had a steady diet of Army lingo and jokes for five or six years before he went into service."

"It also seems that the new recruit between World War II and

Offers Solution For Gas 'Waste'

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(UP)—Three cardinal sins of the "gasoline wastrel" are costing New York State motorists more than $274,000,000 annually, according to one of America's top automotive engineers.

Delmar G. Roos, vice president of Willys-Overland, blames the waste on impatience, negligence and incompetence. Because of it, every New York automobile owner adds about $11 to his gasoline tax each year, Roos said.

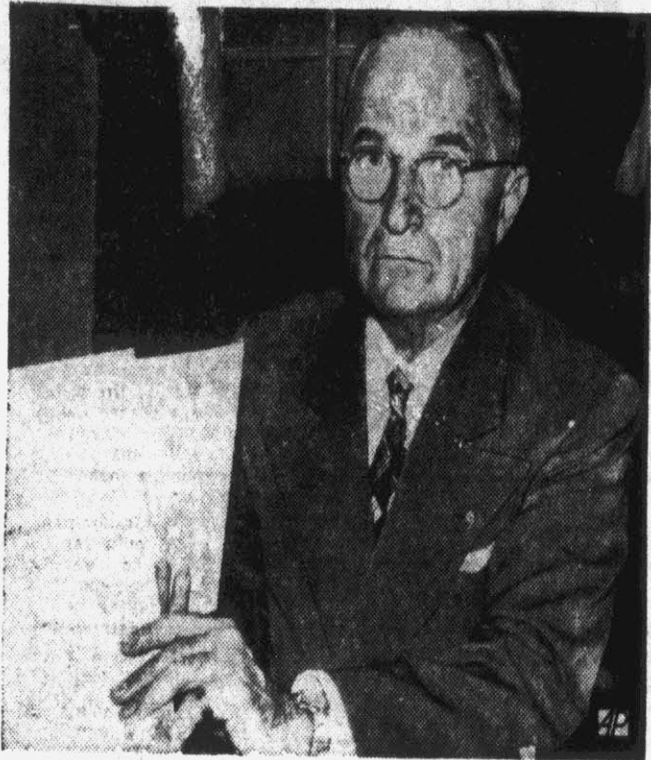

Roos made his conclusions after a year-long series of controlled mileage tests. His figures on gasoline wastage were based on current gasoline prices throughout the state, number of miles "got" per gallon by the average motorist and the latest available mileage figures released by the National Safety Council.

The two worst gas wasters, aside from habitual speeding, are jack-rabbit starts and quick stops, Roos said. Speed alone cuts mileage almost in half.

His study showed that faulty spark settings, cylinder compression and tire pressures cut gasoline efficiency between three and six percent and costs the motorist between one and two cents extra for each mile he drives. Other common mechanical faults affecting fuel mileage are dirty air filters, dragging brakes and improper wheel alignment.

President Truman looks quite displeased after "reluctantly" signing the new economic control bill in the White House at Washington. "I'm not very proud of it," he told newsmen. He condemned the measure as "gravely deficient" and blasted it for wiping out slaughter quotas on beef. He said that would "encourage the return of black markets." (AP Wirephoto).

Demands End To Prolonged Delay On Boyle Status

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) demanded today that President Truman "Procrastinate no longer" in declaring whether Democratic national chairman William M. Boyle Jr. was "guilty of using his influence" to swing an RFC loan.

Byrd said that Mr. Truman should act quickly in the case because "to leave the question as it stands will further weaken confidence in the administration."

He said delay would "tend to discredit the national committee and generally contribute to the creeping moral deterioration which appears to be abroad."

Boyle has denied any connection with Reconstruction Finance Corp. loans totaling $565,000 to the American Lithofold Corp., St. Louis. The firm got the funds after having been turned down three times by the St. Louis RFC office.

But Byrd said Boyle was implicated "with figures and dates" by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which said Boyle got $2,000 in "commissions" from the company over a period of more than a year. The paper said he got part of the money after becoming an official of the committee.

Boyle said he received only $1,250 in legal fees from Lithofold for a short period in 1949 before becoming a full-time committee official. He said he had taken nothing in fees from any firm since then.

The Boyle-Lithofold case has brought demands in both House and Senate for a full-scale investigation. The Senate's Permanent Investigating Committee has finished a preliminary inquiry and will report this week to its parent body, the Senate Executive Expenditures Committee. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said the committee would decide this week whether to conduct a full-scale investigation.

Mr. Truman said last week he still is looking into the case, but Byrd said that Boyle is either "guilty of using his influence with the RFC" or not guilty.

Byrd said last week that if Boyle was guilty of "peddling his influence," he should either resign or the national committee should oust him.

Daredevil's Body Located At Foot Of Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS (UP)—The body of 38-year-old William (Red) Hill was washed ashore today on rocks at the foot of the Horseshoe Falls. He tried to ride yesterday in a rubber barrel.

Hill catapulted to death before 200,000 spectators when the "thing"—a barrel made of 14 tire inner tubes—ripped to pieces on the rocks beneath the 168-foot falls.

A weeping younger brother of the daredevil rider vowed he would ride Niagara himself in a steel barrel, probably next Sunday, to fulfill his brother's deathbed promise to his father.

The brother, Major Lloyd Hill, started to make the drop a year ago but pulled out at the last minute and watched his barrel shatter on the Niagara rocks.

"Well, he put on a great show," Major Hill said of his brother, Red. Red Hill's almost unrecognizable body was washed on the rocks near the Maid of the Mist landing about 7 a.m.

"He must have taken a terrible pounding from the rocks," an officer said.

In 1942, as his father lay on his deathbed, Red Hill promised he would ride the falls, a feat which had already been successfully achieved by one woman and two men. Two others had died trying.

His dying father told him to go over in a rubber barrel because a metal one would carry him to certain death.

Red Hill was so confident yesterday he would conquer the cataract that he drank a few beers.

"People say it can't be done, but I say it can," he insisted. "They're betting on it right now and the odds are against me. But somebody's going to lose some money."

Just what happened, no one knows. The barrel came apart when it struck massive rocks below the falls and from all indications the weight of the 150-pound daredevil was too great for the flimsy craft.

Norman Hill, another brother, and three other men in a rescue boat were the first to approach the barrel after it reappeared with inner tubes poking out at all angles.

"There's no one in it," the brother yelled.

One of the spectators who had thought Hill would succeed was Jean Lussier, who went over in 1928 and is now the only living conqueror of Horseshoe Falls.

"The barrel was not so good," he said later.

Rash Of Drownings In Weekend Of Accidents

By UNITED PRESS

A rash of drownings broke off in North Carolina during the weekend as violent deaths rose to a total of 18.

At least two persons drowned while trying to aid other swimmers. Mrs. R. W. Weitzel, 28, of Danville, Va., went into the surf at Carolina Beach and helped her cramp-stricken sister-in-law to shore but drowned herself. Bobby Roscoe Morton, 17, of Jacksonville, drowned when he swam to help friends floundering in deep water near Morehead City.

Another youth, Gary Jarrett, 13, of Statesville, died when a rowboat capsized in a private lake near Statesville. Willard Gillard, Wilmington Negro, disappeared in the Cape Fear River when he slipped from a launch tied up beside an oil tanker at the Wilmington docks.

Lloyd Tucker, 32, of High Point, and Mary Ellen Williams, 15, of near there drowned when a small boat overturned in High Rock Lake with a party of picknickers.

James Pressley of Asheville drowned when he fell from a boat while fishing in Lake James near Marion. Van Downing, 52, of Louisville, Ky., drowned while swimming at Nags Head.

Coroners ruled at least three weekend deaths to be suicides. Thomas Carroll Vail, 29, of Pikeville, fired a .22-caliber gullet into his head and Nathaniel McNair Smith, 49, of Raeford, killed himself with a shotgun.

Dr. Albert ray Newsome, 57, bled to death through slashed wrists at his Durham home. He was formerly head of the University of North Carolina history department.

Two Fort Bragg soldiers died in the weekend's worst traffic accident. Sgt. Arthur Eitel, 32, of Forest City, and Sgt. Garvin Reed, 31, died in a collision with a truck.

Commercial sturgeon fishing has died out in North America because over-fishing depleted the supply.

Farm Population Of State Now Ranks 'Largest'

RALEIGH (UP)—C. H. Hamilton, head of the rural sociology department of North Carolina State College, said today that final tabulation of 1950 census results probably will show that North Carolina has the largest farm population in the nation.

Preliminary census figures listed 1,376,164 farm residents in the state. This was a decline of nearly 260,000 from the 1940 census, but Hamilton said the farm population had dropped even more rapidly in other areas.

North Carolina ranked second to Texas in 1940, followed by Mississippi, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee. All have reported sizeable declines in farm population, Texas dropping to 1,307,000.

The Three R's First, Football Second

Athletics in American colleges and universities has become mighty big business. It has become so big in fact, that it commands millions of dollars each year, and even beyond that, it has transcended the scholastic honor codes of not only run of the mill schools, but the nation's military academy as well.

In the blow-up at West Point, 90 cadets, reportedly including a large portion of Army's great football aggregation, have been booted out of the academy for violation of the honor code and receiving outside help in their studies.

Even though the dismissal of the cadets is a regrettable incident in the history of the military academy, it is gratifying to know that there, at least, the honor code and scholastic achievement have not been sacrificed for the sake of a winning football team.

On college campuses across the nation the big hero is not the president of Phi Beta Kappa, or necessarily the president of the student body—he is the star backfield man who piles up the touchdowns on the brisk fall afternoons.

Football has a vital place in collegiate activities. That is not to be denied. But in all the schools, scholastics and the honor system should be take precedence over the athletic activities.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Although only a few mutual friends of President Truman and Senator Harry Flood Byrd realize it, the Virginia statesman's leadership role in the Southern Democrats' movement to drive "Trumanism" from Washington bears some resemblance to the historic break between James A. Farley and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

President Truman and Senator Byrd were once extremely close friends, and their careers have crossed on several important occasions, usually to the advantage of the man from Missouri.

It is not too much to suggest, although the anti-Truman bugler for Dixie Democrats may regret it, that the President owes his present eminence to several boosts from the apple grower from the Shenandoah Valley.

FRIENDSHIP—The friendship began soon after Mr. Truman's election to the Senate in 1934, only a year after Mr. Byrd moved from the gubernatorial chair at Richmond to Capitol Hill. An expert legislative hand because of his earlier experience the Senator taught many parliamentary tricks to the comparative greenhorn from Independence. They sat next to each other in the rear of the chamber.

In 1940, when the Roosevelt Administration undertook a rearmament program like the current rebuilding, the economy-minded Mr. Byrd began to worry over huge expenditures, the rapid expansion of the government and the seeming lack of strict supervision over the sprawling activities. He discussed his concern with the man sitting next to him.

ATTACKS—Finally, Senator Byrd introduced a resolution creating a Senate Committee to make periodical checks and reports on the progress of the preparedness program. It was referred to the appropriate committee, and promptly lagoon-holed.

It is understood that Franklin D. Roosevelt blocked action because he resented this seeming criticism. It was not until later that he discovered the regular and alphabetical agencies were getting beyond his control, and agreed to Senate supervision. Moreover, Franklin D. Roosevelt did not enjoy frequent Byrd attacks on wasteful spending.

PERFORMANCE—By coincidence or not, Senator Truman introduced the same sort of a resolution only a few months after the Byrd proposal had been buried in committee. Although there were a few minor changes in verbiage, the Missouriian's demand was so similar that it led to establishment of the famous "Truman watchdog committee." Franklin D. Roosevelt agreed to its creation.

It was, of course, Mr. Truman's performance as chairman that won this relatively obscure member consideration as a vice-presidential candidate in 1944.

Had it not been for this service, the late "Bob" Hannan of Missouri, then Democratic National Chairman, would not have been able to foist a first-term on Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Flynn-Hague-Arvey politicians or the convention as a V.P. nominee. Indeed, Franklin D. Roosevelt's first preference was Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court.

FAVOR—Ironically, Mr. Truman made a personal plea to Senator Byrd for the support of the Virginia delegation in the bitter vice-presidential scrap. When it became a neck-and-neck race between the Missouri man and Vice President Henry A. Wallace, Mr. Truman asked the Virginian to get aboard his bandwagon as a "personal favor." Inasmuch as Mr. Byrd's principal objective was to block a Wallace selection, he eventually cast the Old Dominion's ballot for the winner.

Senator Byrd did not know then that it was the late Sidney Hillman who made possible the Truman nomination by refusing to accept the Virginian's good friend, Governor James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, for second place. He did not know that Mr. Truman still feels so grateful to his New York City sponsor that he advocates the social, political and economic ideas which he never favored when he was a Byrd colleague on Capitol Hill.

Judges By Bar Assn. Vote?

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NIBBET Daily Reflector Bureau

CO-OPERATION—There was a demonstration of practical co-operation afforded at a meeting held in Governor Scott's office Friday morning. Occasion was presentation of request from North Carolina College in Durham for an allocation of $271,000 from the contingency and emergency fund to provide adequate post graduate courses at the college. Present were the governor and all members of the council of state except Commissioner of Agriculture Ballentine, who was out of the city; members of the budget bureau and the advisory budget commission; top administrative officials of the college and of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, and representatives of the boards of trustees of the university and the college—and news reporters. There was virtual unanimity with request to the urgent need for the requested provisions; the co-operative efforts were directed toward how the need could be met.

QUESTIONS—There were legal questions involved. A twelve-year-old statute specifically requires the college to establish graduate courses as demand justifies within limits of available funds, and authorizes the council of state to allocate necessary funds if the college budget cannot meet the demands. An older statute implies prohibition against use of contingency and emergency funds for purposes which have been presented to the general assembly and denied. In this instance request was made of the general assembly—and denied—for funds to develop the graduate school at the college at master level. No request was made for doctoral level school. The $271,000 now requested includes only $43,200 for the doctoral school. Proponents of the pending request pointed out that developments since the general assembly adjourned had made the doctoral courses in education necessary, and since these courses could not be established until the other graduate policy had been strengthened, essentially the whole amount was an emergency proposition.

PRACTICAL—The request was grounded in report of a joint committee of the university and college trustees appointed to study the matter in light of recent federal court decisions in cases dealing with admission of Negro students to the university and other state supported schools. Supporting arguments dealt with sentimental, prejudicial and political aspects of the situation; but mostly they emphasized the practical side. This phase was ably handled by Gordon Gray, president of the university, who made the point the issue was really whether North Carolina would retain control or surrender to the federal courts determination of educational policy in the state. Point was made by Spencer Murphy that while this requested allocation would solve an immediate dilemma, it was not a stop-gap process, but a major contribution to the traditional healthy balance in North Carolina education. (Incidentally, the legislative authority under which the request was made is known as the "Murphy Act," sponsored by the late Walter (Pete) Murphy, father of the present college trustee.) Billy Carmichael, controller of the university, made the further practical point that the present immediate dilemma stems from the fact North Carolina has progressed further than any other state in the higher education of Negroes, through a policy that has paralleled "equal though separate" rather than "separate but equal" facilities provided for Negro students.

STUDY—The governor and council of state listened attentively, manifested keen interest in the situation, but concluded it was too important to be decided on snap judgment. Action was deferred until Monday. Several factors apparently contributed to the postponement. Besides the question of authority since most of the items had been requested of the general assembly, there is the further important fact that the amount requested represents such large part of the discretionary C & E fund. And, as Governor Scott gleefully reminded Speaker Frank Taylor and Senate Finance Chairman Hampton Price, who was present, the general assembly dug pretty deeply into the C & E fund by specific legislative allocations out of money supposed to be handled by the governor and council of state.

PRECEDENT—Governor Scott pointed out that other borderline situations have developed, and allocation of more than a quarter million dollars to one state institution might well be pleaded as precedent by other institutions and agencies whose problems have increased with rising costs and changing conditions. He reminded everybody present that these matters had to be considered in relation to the overall situation, not to the Durham college alone. That idea was obviously in the minds of several council of state members, too.

SINCERE—Despite these offshoots of wise-cracking, basic fact remains that the group meeting in the governor's office Friday was sincerely desirous of finding satisfactory solution for the varied problems confronting the state educational system, most of which problems stem from impatience on part of certain individuals who seek solution through court decree rather than through orderly process of developing mutual goodwill among all the people.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

(Henderson Daily Dispatch)
Where Your Tax Money Goes
Nearly everybody pays their taxes with regularity each year, sometimes with a bit of grumbling, and almost always wondering why it takes so much money to run government at various levels. A rule, however, they stop there. Scidmore does the individual often in a feeling of futility, press on to a knowledge of why he comes of his tax money and what he gets in return for it.

Next to the Federal government, the State is the biggest spender. In an address to the Rotary club at Chapel Hill the other night, D. S. Coltrane, assistant director of the State budget, undertook to outline, in round figures, what happens to the cash that flows into the State's tills. It was an enlightening, and furnishes information which even some of those best informed do not possess.

Of the $336 millions appropriated for the biennium which began this July 1, some $216 millions goes to public schools, State institutions of higher learning will get $25 millions, the mental hospitals $12 millions, and tubercular hospitals six million dollars. Other agencies share the remainder.

One startling fact revealed by Coltrane was that there are half as many people in mental institutions in North Carolina as are enrolled in State-supported colleges—20,000 in the colleges and 10,000 in the mental institutions. There is the temptation to ask whether higher education pays, under such circumstances.

Per capita cost of mental patients is $830 a year, including an average of $50 privately paid for each, compared with $300 as the cost for each student at the State University. Per capita cost for students at Chapel Hill, Coltrane said, is less than at State College or Woman's College. Cost for mental patients stems in part from the fact that expenditures in their behalf have increased so greatly in recent years; that is, in providing better care and better treatment.

Coltrane spoke also of State income. He said about two-thirds of State revenue comes from the income tax, amounting to $70 million, and the sales tax, which accounts for another $50 million. He said the State is always in good financial shape when business is good, but business conditions are difficult to forecast from year to year, and hence appropriations have to be made on a conservative basis as possible. He cited a $162 million yield last year from the same tax structure that brought in only $57 ten years ago. This, he said, is an example of how rapidly economic conditions change. Moreover, it is conceivable that current trends could be reversed, although there is no serious threat of such a transition in the immediate future and without advance warning.

Coltrane argued that the State's tax structure is too sensitive to economic conditions. "But he was not quoted as offering any remedy for improvement. The State, like the individual, must order its economy on the basis of ability of the people to support that economy. Whether revenues come from good times or bad, or from income and sales taxes or something else, the capacity of citizens to pay is the soundest, and in the end the only reasonable and substantial, basis for operation.

On the present schedule of spending, a depression would force the State to pull in its horns along with similar compulsory procedure by its citizens. A lot of folks would kick like steers against such curtailment, but it would be either that or debt, and possible insolvency.

Wilson Daily Times

We for one were glad to see the House take the stand it did the other day on economy measures. By a vote of 188 to 166, it refused to "retreat from its position on the administration's housing program. It demands that cuts be made, both in housing and in the numbers of employees. It was adamant toward the Senate stand which would have compromised the issue.

In a nation that's reaching as deeply into everyone's pockets for taxes as ours there's no need for non-sensical spending. If it's done for political purposes. The man in the White House, however, is definitely politically-minded. He wants his cake and he wants it, too. But it's the House that must originate the money-bills. Its members are conscious of the public attitude.

We've been tinkering with our American economy too long not to leave some lasting results. Let us hike taxes still more, spending much of it on unnecessary things, and we can transfer wealth from one pocket to another. "bat show!" it be the effects of government. It shouldn't promise something for nothing; it should merely promise an opportunity. But the "something for nothing" seems to go over big with some groups, and Truman, ever since he's been in office, has catered to those groups.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
The big television and appliance push is building up.

It broke out over the weekend. In many marketing areas, week-end papers were loaded with ads.

The theme: new and gentle credit terms; lower prices.

Marketing experts believe the coming sales drive will, in many lines, exceed the campaign to sell television sets last winter.

The reasons behind the drive are:

1. Manufacturers, wholesalers and many retailers have top-heavy inventories. That's the consequence of the production rush to beat materials and manpower shortages and the decision of many families to save funds instead of spending them. The fact that many families over-extended themselves in the buying rubes earlier this year is also a factor. It reduced buying power and induced many dealers to misjudge future buying.

2. New models are on the way. In most cases there will be very little difference from current models. Defense production demands have prevented extensive retooling. But even slight changes make it imperative to manufacturers and retailers to clear current stocks.

3. The new credit regulations, reducing down payment and week-end financing to count against them, give the television and appliance industry a great opportunity to bring millions of families back into the market.

In the past week, many TV and appliance manufacturers cut prices. Some frankly said it was to move goods before their new models hit the market.

The trade-in provisions will be especially helpful in the television field. Industry sources estimate that there are 3,000,000 sets in homes with screens of 12 inches or smaller. The owners of these sets are ripe for larger sets, especially if they can get them at low prices with little or no down payments.

And dealers do not have to insist on TV sets traded in or TV sets. They can accept old refrigerators, just as refrigerator dealers can accept old TV sets.

COMMUNITY ANTENNAS BROADEN TV MARKETS
Community antennas are creating new television markets.

There are many areas in the country just beyond TV reception. The erection of community antennas on top of nearby hills or even high buildings can bring stations in to sets connected with them.

The National Association of Radio and Appliance Dealers reports that such antennas in 32 communities have brought potential TV to 1,000,000 people. An antenna at Lansford, Pa., pop. 8,700 resulted in the sale of 100,000 worth of TV sets in nine months.

CRAZFISH NOT LOBSTER
SAY MAINE CONGRESSMEN

When it doesn't come from Atlantic waters north of Cape Hatteras, says the Maine delegation in Congress.

The delegation has introduced a bill prohibiting the sale of frozen crayfish tails and spiny lobsters as lobsters. It says, and should not be pounds of these lobsters were imported from South Africa, Cuba and Australia in 1950. The bill would permit Canadian lobsters to be sold as lobsters.

PACIFIC PALM OIL PRODUCTION RISING

Both GI's and movie-goers remember the war-blasted palm groves on the islands of the South Pacific. Well, new palm trees are growing there now.

Philippine copra and coconut oil exports in the first half of this year amounted to 409,624 tons, copra basis, the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations reports.

That's half again as much as was exported during the first half of 1950. Indonesian exports are down, due to labor troubles and harbor congestion, but stock levels are rising.

BULBETS NOT BULBS, NATIONAL BBB WARNS

There's a difference between a tulip bulb and a bulbet, the National Better Business Bureau says. A bulb too small to produce a flower next spring is a bulbet. It says, and should not be offered or advertised as a bulb.

The BBB investigated the matter after thousands of persons complained that bulbs bought by mail last year were pea-sized and did not produce tulips.

EXTRACTORS: Garlic must be here to stay. A wooden garlic muller and pestle for crushing garlic and other spices have been brought out by George S. ## Hal Boyle's Column

By RELMAN MORIN
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK—The mayor of a town in upstate New York came through with an interesting idea the other day.

It was about giving intelligence tests to newspaper reporters. He said that if a man failed in the test, a newspaper should be prohibited, by law, from hiring him as a reporter. The mayor said there ought to be such a law, and he asked the city council to write and enact it.

A couple things about the mayor's idea struck me right away. You will notice that he specified reporters. He didn't say whether the law should be applied to anybody else on the paper. Apparently, he doesn't care what kind of an IQ they have over on the news desk, or down in the business office. He doesn't insist that the circulating manager should be able to define the second law of Thermodynamics—much less give the date when it was passed.

So what's going to happen? A fellow comes into the city room looking for a job. He knows his bi-net batting average is pretty low. There is only one thing for him to do, admit it, and say, "I'm too dumb to be a reporter, but do you need a good city editor?"

The other disturbing thing about the mayor's idea is that he doesn't specify what kind of intelligence test should be used on reporters. There are several, you know.

For instance, I hope they don't use the ink-blot test. It's for backward children, and, to this day, I have a lot of trouble with it.

In this test, they show you an album of eccentric shapes and patterns. As you look at them, you are supposed to tell the examiner what they make you think of. (No coaching from the audience, please.)

Actually, the blot looks exactly like a blot, and nothing else whatever. However, in a puppy-like effort to please, you say, "This looks like three tropical fish swimming toward a window on the 41st floor of the Empire State Building where there is a meeting of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick in session."

The examiner instantly writes down in his note book: "Introvert—hated his maternal grandmother—probably has flat feet—intelligence pre-Cambrian or at best, neanderthal."

Then there is the word-test, and if they require all journalists to take that one, I am afraid the carnage will be ferocious.

One of my friends, a very good reporter, too, came back from the front one afternoon during the last war. He was very excited.

He said, "Gee, we had a close call today. I thought sure we were going to be captured. The Germans had us completely surrounded in a semi-circle."

He won't last long, if the mayor has his way.

But while all of us are over in one corner fitting blocks together to qualify as reporters, it might be a good idea if all the politicians in the world were taking a different kind of test. It would embrace—

1. A speaking acquaintance with the eighth, ninth and tenth commandments.

2. The faculty of distinguishing between black and white.

3. The ability to speak at least basic English.

4. A definition of the words "promise" and "campaign promise."

You understand that, personally, I'm not worried about my future even if that intelligence-test law does flunk me out of the newspaper business.

I have a standing offer of a job as mayor.

Washington Letter

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
(For Jane Egan)

WASHINGTON—Why eat lumpty potatoes and indifferent gravy, day after day, asks Frank G. Ashbrook, when you might occasionally try pot-roasted muskrat or broiled sandarak?

In an effort to help change the humdrum pattern of American eating, Ashbrook is offering the public some of the world's finest recipes for wild game. They're in the new Yearbook of the United States Department of Agriculture, called Crops in Peace and War. This may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., for $2.50. (Please do NOT write or call this newspaper.)

Ashbrook is in charge of wild fur animal investigations in the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of Interior. He says the inns, taverns and hotels of the larger cities just before the turn of the century built a great American tradition for mouth-watering food. He writes:

"Imagine sitting down to an elaborate and sophisticated dinner where courses of soup and fish were followed by 'relieves,' six or more in number (relieves were appetizers to place the guest in the proper mood for the main course), among them turkey à la Toulouse, saddle of venison with currant jelly, and stewed terrapin à la Maryland.

"And after that came a number of cold ornamental dishes; then the entrees and hors d'oeuvres."

"The second main course offered crayfish ducks, pheasants, partridges and grouse with 10 vegetables. And finally came 15 desserts and coffee."

Ashbrook isn't suggesting that modern Americans whet up a Gay Nineties appetite for game. The hunting laws were lax in those days. The game would last long if people hunted for the commercial markets. But he says man can hunt for recreation today without exterminating wild game, if he abides by the laws.

He estimates that in 1943 around 127,000 tons of dressed meat was provided from game. He says this is such a large supply of meat it is important that Americans know how to prepare it in the most appetizing manner possible.

First, he explains that game must be aged so it will be tender and tasty. He says these species, among others, are safe to eat: Wild raccoon, beaver, muskrat, skunk, armadillo, deer, antelope, moose, reindeer, buffalo, bear, boar, wild turkey, quail, pheasant, grouse, partridge, prairie chicken, sparrow, crow and woodcock.

Chapter 23
On the day following her engagement to Peter, Marcia had written Lucy Cunningham the news. She had not written hastily nor carelessly. She had torn up half a dozen letters before she managed one to her satisfaction. She knew Lucy so well! And after she had mailed the letter, she had waited anxiously for an answer.

It was a morning just four days Lucy's answer came.

Marcia's hand shook a little as she studied the plump, square envelope, with her name splashed across it in Lucy's well known hand. It meant so much. If only Lucy had reacted as she, Marcia, had hoped.

Marcia:
"Have you lost your mind? Are you mad? You must be even to think of such a thing as to marry a blind man. What if he is com- fortably off and can help you with your music? You must know that I simply will not stand for it! I have great plans for you and your voice. You must have known that when I sent you off down there to that dreadful place to rest! And I certainly don't propose to have you throw everything away. You are to return to New York immediately—do you understand? I have arranged a fund at the bank, sufficient to pay for your training. You can pay it back later if you like, or you can use it to help someone else. Anyway, I simply won't have you spoiling your life with another foolish marriage! I have taken a house in Taxco, for the winter. You and I will go to the spring we will return to New York, and you can go on with your studies. Wire me when you arrive, so I can have someone meet you. I was in Maine when your letter came, and that is the reason I have not written earlier. Hurry back, darling! I've missed you. You are the only amusing person I know, and we will have fun in Taxco—or if we get bored, Mexico City is quite gay. Fondly, Lucy."

P.S.—Don't try to tell me any nonsense about being in love with this blind man. I know it isn't true! You couldn't possibly be! Marcia dropped the letter in her lap and sat very still for a while.

Folks Back Home Share In 'Tours Of Globe-Girdler'

By HARRY CARLSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—An enterprising Seattle importer with an unusual post-war idea has made himself a "One-Man Marshall Plan."

Sidney C. Anshell is popular not only in Europe but in the United States. He is dumping dollars by the thousands every month in 16 European countries and is making everybody happy, including himself.

Anshell created the "International Gift of the Month Club," an enterprise that already has acquired more than 40,000 members.

"For $20, Anshell offers Americans a 12-month European "tour" via international parcel post. Letters from members show that his tour fulfills the world travel dreams of those who cannot leave their home towns.

Club members see Europe through the eyes of Anshell, who has been globe-circling since the end of World War II. His own trips are primarily for business, buying exotic gifts for club members back home. Each month's gift comes from a different country. With it is a descriptive little essay spiced with romance, history and phrases from the native tongue, written by Anshell.

Products Selected
Anshell does his best for the folks at home. He ignores tourist trade items. Instead, he searches tradition culture and artistry of each country.

A six-month "tour" may include a Florentine leather wallet from Italy, silver coffee spoons from Sweden, Delft pottery from Holland, embroidered handkerchiefs from Switzerland, a crystal necklace from Czechoslovakia and a hand-painted sugar and creamer from England.

"We sell them romance," the greying, 58-year-old Anshell says. "We sell them stories... history... culture. We even sell them postage stamps. Sure, we don't put one big denomination foreign stamp on the package... we paste a whole bunch of little ones on it for the stamp collectors. They love it."

Anshell said most of his club is composed of "donor" members. "Old members keep sending in memberships for their friends and relatives," he explained.

Stories Cherished
A member from Cleveland, O., writes, "Please start my mother out with that cute little cigarette box from the Republic of San Marino." Another sends an air mail letter from Chattanooga, Tenn., saying "My gift from Barcelona, Spain arrived today, a lovely embroidered luncheon set. But I didn't get the story with it. Will you please send the story?"

A letter from Allen Park, Mich.: "The anticipation of each month's arrival makes me border on impatience." Another from Dallas,

Devises Portable Garage For Trips

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Pacific Transport Lines has devised a "portable garage" for automobile transportation.

It's the answer of the San Francisco trans-Pacific carrier to the problem of getting cars to their overseas destinations in perfect condition.

Heretofore subject to engine and paint corrosion from salt air, each automobile is now shrouded in the "portable garage," which is made of an iron-strong heavy gauge vinyl plastic cover to provide the car with bumper-to-bumper protection.

Since the plastic garage is dust-proof, waterproof, windproof, snow and sunproof, and resistant to salt air or tropical heat, it protects the car in all types of weather.

Spearmint has been known since Biblical times.

Tex.: "Even the postman gets a thrill waiting to see what we get I gave him your address and he joined the club."

Meanwhile, Anshell is having the time of his life. He talks about Lisbon, Marseille, Tunis, Ankara, Cairo, Copenhagen and scores of other cities with the authority and love of a native.

Perfume From Paris
The "tour" usually begins in France and the first month's gift is a bottle of perfume from Paris. Each month's gift is bought, packaged and mailed in its own city. Having eliminated all middle men, and through mass buying and a favorable exchange rate for his U. S. dollars, Anshell is able to provide good values.

"Sometimes I buy out the entire production of a little European factory," he said.

After another swing around Europe hitting up the 1952 tour, Anshell wants to add Japan and the Far East to his club members postal itinerary.

Scott And Hoey Address Session

REILGH (UP)—Gov. Kerr Scott and Sen. Clyde R. Hoey spoke today as nearly 1,500 delegates opened the 23rd annual convention of the state association of Future Farmers of America.

Cash awards totaling $12,000 will be presented FFA boys for outstanding farm accomplishments during the course of the three-day meeting.

The convention is the third major farm convective to be held at State College within the last two weeks. The previous meetings were Farm and Home Week and 4-H Club Week.

Speakers today included Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, state superintendent of public instruction; J. Warren Smith, state director of vocational education; Wayne Starritt of Catawba, W. Va., national FFA secretary; and Pamela Bigham of Charlotte, state president of the Future Homemakers of America.

Tonight's program will include a statewide speaking contest and instrumental solo contest, with award of prizes to the winners.

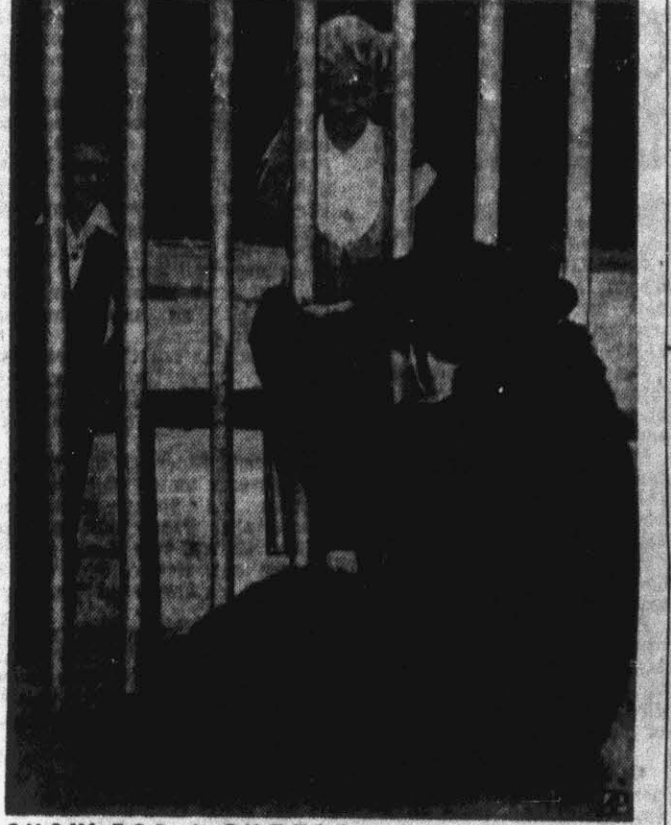

A livestock judging contest, shops contest, committee meetings and a livestock fitting demonstration are on the agenda for tomorrow morning. The tri-state public speaking contest will be held in the afternoon with speakers from North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia competing.

Investigation Of Agency Sought By Administrator

WASHINGTON (UP)—General Services Administrator Jess Larson has asked for a congressional investigation of his agency's operations in buying vast quantities of non-military goods for the government.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Executive Expenditures Committee yesterday agreed to Larson's proposal, and broadened the inquiry to include non-military purchases of all federal agencies—running into billions a year.

GSA, which buys huge amounts of "housekeeping" goods, has been criticized recently for buying and storing in warehouses large quantities of desks which could not be used by the government within a reasonable period of time.

Cleveland Moves Up With 2 Decisions Over Athletics

Yankees Take 2 From Browns

Indians Now Only One-Half Game Behind New York; Al Lopez Says Record On Eastern Swing Good For First

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Freshman Manager Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians, isn't as outspoken as his predecessor, Lou Boudreau, but he still thinks his team will win the pennant.

Barring injuries, particularly to key stars, Larry Doby and Luke Easter, who have operated on half power about half the season, Lopez believes the Indians will come home in front.

He steez things up after the Indians completed yesterday their most successful road trip since Boudreau's world championship year of 1948, by defeating the Athletics to 3, 9 to 3, as Bob Lemon and Early Wynn pitched timely-hitting support.

That gave the Indians a record of 10-4 through the East as compared with the third swing through the badlands in 1948 by Boudreau's club which ended with an 8-3 won-and-lost record.

At that time Boudreau said without qualification, "We're definitely going to win because we're the best team." He had to prove it by beating the Red Sox in a historic playoff game in a mad stretch battle.

Lopez, more conservative, realizes that if either of his Negro sluggers gets hurt again it could be in all sorts of trouble. But he also emphasizes that for the first time this year, the whole club is intact with no players out because of injuries.

Lemon won his 12th game yesterday as Al Rosen hit his 17th homer and added a double and single. In the second game Wynn gave up just five hits to gain his 11th triumph as his mates piled up a 4 to 0 lead in two innings and then coasted.

The Yankees stayed half a game in front by topping the Browns 6 to 2 and 4 to 3. Ed Lopat pitched five hit ball to win his 14th game in the opener and Allie Reynolds struck out 13 batters—tops for a nine-inning game in the American League this season—to gain the second triumph.

The Tigers upset the third place Red Sox twice, 3 to 1 and 8 to 0, to put them 3 1/2 games off the pace while the still-in-the White Sox edged Washington 5 to 3 to stay seven games behind.

In the National League, the pace-setting Dodgers defeated the Reds 9 to 8 and 2 to 0 while Bubba Church of the Phillies pitched a one-hitter to down the Pirates 5 to 1 after which the Phillies won the second game 13 to 0 on 16 hits. The Giants dropped 2 1/2 games behind Brooklyn in second place although they won 8 to 4 from the Cardinals and the Braves topped the Cubs 7 to 4 and 4 to 2.

Detroit put over late rallies in the seventh innings of both games to win. In the opener, doubles by Johnny Groh and Don Kolloway and a triple by Joe Ginsberg gave the Tigers two runs and a permanent lead. In the second game

Ginsberg tripled again for two runs in the seventh as Detroit put across three runs.

Lou Kretlow, who never has beaten another major league team except Washington since 1946, kept his hex against them in operation by surviving a three-run ninth inning. He yielded only five hits and four of Washington's runs were unearned. The White Sox put on a five-run uprising in the fourth.

Roy Campanella batted in five runs with two homers in Brooklyn's opener and Ralph Branca took charge all the way in the second game, pitching eight-hit ball for his ninth victory and driving in both runs with a single and a squeeze bunt.

Church had his no-hitter spoiled by Ralph Kiner's homer in the seventh and the Pirate slugger went on to hit two more in the second game and tie Gil Hodges of Brooklyn for the major league leadership with 31. The Phils got 16 hits in the nightcap, Ricnie Ashburn collecting four.

Corwin received 15-hit support, Monte Irvin leading the way with two singles and a double, which was the only Giant extra base hit. Stan Musial hit his 24th homer and a triple for the Cards.

Warren Spahn pitched eight-hit ball and struck out seven in winning his 13th game for Boston in the opener as Sam Jethroe's three-run homer was the big blow. Boston came from behind to take the second game as Roy Hartford fielded out his third bunt of the game to touch off a three-run eighth inning victory rally.

Kiner Blasts 3 Homers To Tie Gil Hodges For Lead In Majors

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner and Brooklyn's Gil Hodges were tied at 31 each in the National League's home run race today but it appeared unlikely that the slumping Dodger strong boy would withstand Kiner's withering pace for long.

Neither has better than a 100-1 chance to challenge Babe Ruth's single season mark of 60 but Kiner was shooting for another prized Ruthian record.

The powerful $65,000 a year Pirate slugger, who smashed three homers while the Pirates were losing a double header to the Phillies yesterday, will tie Ruth's all-time big league record of winning or tying for the home run crown in six straight seasons if he out-homers Hodges and the rest of the league this year.

Kiner is a solid bet to accomplish the feat because he appears to be off on one of his famous "tears." He has hit four homers in the last two days and six in his last eight games.

Meanwhile, Hodges has been in a month-long slump. The big first-baseman hit his 28th homer a month ago today to go far ahead of Ruth's 60-homer schedule. But he hit only three homers in the last calendar month while Kiner, who had only 19 homers on July 6, blasted 12.

Ruth set his record of six consecutive homer crowns from 1925 to 1931 inclusive. He hit a total of 302 homers in those six seasons, averaging slightly better than 50 a season and never falling below 46. His successive season totals were 47, 60, 54, 46, 49 and 46. He was the undisputed leader in the first five years and tied with Lou Gehrig in the sixth.

Kiner's homers yesterday raised his five-and-a-half-year career total to 246. His successive season totals were 23, 51, 40, 54 and 47.

Challenging Ruth's 60-mark is virtually out of the question for either. Kiner has only 82 more home runs to play while Hodges has 56. Both would have to average better than a homer every two games the remainder of the season to tie or break the mark—assuming that they played all their teams' games or for that matter, that their teams play all their remaining scheduled games.

Whether or not Kiner ever hits No. 60, Emory (Bubb) Church of the Phillies probably will remember No. 29 of this year most clearly.

For until Kiner got the range in the seventh inning of yesterday's opener the young right-handed curve-baller was enroute to a no-hitter. Church, who struck out six in the near-classic, had walked Kiner in his first two appearances at the plate.

Kiner was first up in the seventh and Church decided grimly to get the first one over the plate. He did and Kiner got it against the scoreboard behind the leftfield bullpen.

Little League Star

Big Jim McGee, the husky Moose shortstop, is this week's "Little League Star." McGee is by far the best hitter in the league and also rates high as an infielder.

He is slugging at an amazing .476 clip! Besides leading the league in hitting, he also has slugged more home runs than anyone else! To add more to big Jim's prowess as a slugger, he collected all four of his round-trippers in the same week!

Friday, McGee led the Moose to a ten to three upset victory over the top-place Jaycees by smashing a line-drive homer, a double and a single. He also took the pitching honors by turning in a one-hit performance against the highly-rated Jaycees.

The All-Star tournament was nearly a two man show, with big Jim and Ike Riddick sharing the honors. The two together slugged 15 home runs, with McGee taking credit for three of them!

Greenies Drop 6-2 Game To Farmville Saturday Night

Talbert Rises In National Rates

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J.—(AP)—Thirty-year-old Bill Talbert, among the six top tennis players in the United States since 1942, is making a strong bid for a higher spot than the No. 5 he was ranked last year.

The veteran New Yorker's strongest bid came in winning the Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championship yesterday. He whipped his 37-year-old doubles partner, Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1, in the finals. Mulloy was ranked No. 4 in 1950.

Talbert eliminated the up-and-coming Tony Trabert, intercollegiate champion from the University of Cincinnati, in a semi-final match.

Talbert, rated one of the top doubles players of the country for years, was ranked as high as No. 2 in 1944 and 1945. Only once has he dropped as low as sixth in nine years.

In the doubles finals Talbert and Mulloy lost to the great Australian combination of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 9-7.

The women's title in the Eastern Grass Court event went to Mrs. Pat Gaanning Todd of La Jolla, Calif., with a 3-6, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif.

Softball Tourney Begins Play Today

The City Softball League championship tournament gets underway with two games scheduled.

Hill's Clothiers and the Lions will start off the tourney, followed by a game between A&P and the Varsity Shell Station nine. Home Builders and Post Office received eyes for the first round and will play the winners of today's games tomorrow.

It is a double elimination affair, with two losses throwing a team out of the match. The championship game will be played August 14.

Champions Tonite

The Converts and Sedans will meet in a game tonight at Guy Smith Stadium to decide the championship of the local Junior League baseball championship.

The teams will play a single nine inning game for the title. The winner will represent Greenville in the state tournament next week, to be held in Charlotte.

Webb Ralph Britt singled to send Thrift to second. Both runners scored on an error committed on an infield grounder by Pete Pie-strak.

Harvey Lee Webb hurled the first eight innings and received credit for the victory. He was relieved in the ninth by Clint Provost. Webb gave up five hits and a like number of walks while fanning eight. Provost pitched to only three men in the ninth, striking out one.

Greenville scored its first run in the bottom of the seventh. Ben Hester obtained a free pass to begin the frame, and stole second. An infield out by Blanche Moye sent him to third, from where he scored a few minutes later on an error on a grounder by Hobby Hobgood.

Jim Pollard went the route for the Greenies, dropping his first start for Greenville. He gave up nine hits, walking six and striking out eight.

Cary Middlecoff Takes Tam Title

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (UP)—Dr. Cary Middlecoff, an ex-tennis player from Memphis, had a new trophy for his mantelpiece and his wife had a $2,250 check today.

But the former extractionist had to get through the hard way, looking his major competition in the eye and outshooting him.

Middlecoff won both awards, and handed the check to his wife, for a 72-hole, 274 total, 14 under par, to win the professional division of Tam O'Shanter's annual "All American" Open links tourney. It was his fourth sub-par round of the tourney.

But Fred Hawkins, El Paso, nearly took the mantelpiece and Mrs. Middlecoff's check away in a blistering stretch drive, which Middlecoff stood off with the stamina of Man O'War.

Gallant Fox, Triple Crown winner of 1930, retired with earnings of $328,165.

Vern Bickford Is Out For 3 Weeks

CHICAGO (UP)—Vern Bickford, star right-handed pitcher for the Boston Braves, will be out of action for three or four weeks with a broken finger, club officials said today.

Bickford, who has an 11-9 record, suffered a fracture of the fourth finger of his pitching hand yesterday when he was struck with a ball during a pepper game preceding the twin bill with the Chicago Cubs.

Bickford's injury came shortly after Manager Tommy Holmes announced that catcher Walker Cooper was sent back to Boston for treatment of a neck injury.

Davis Cuppers Vs Canadians Friday

By CONNIF RYAN
United Press Sports Writer

RYE, N. Y. (UP)—The United States Davis Cup team, halfway to its goal of a shot at Australia after adding Mexico to its victims, was given a shake-up today in preparation for its American zone final against Canada starting Friday.

The Americans completed a 5-0 sweep of their American zone semi-final yesterday when Herb Flam and Vic Seixas beat two Mexican stars in the final singles matches.

And the Canadians held a clinching 3-0 lead over Cuba in the other semi-final at Montreal, so it will be the U. S. vs. Canada at Montreal Friday. The winner of that best-of-three series will meet European zone winner Sweden for the right to challenge cup-holding Australia in December "Down Under."

Flam, the dogged retriever from Beverly Hills, Cal., racked up his second semi-final series singles victory by sweeping through Rolando Vega 6-3, 6-3, 6-3. Rolando was a substitute for his brother, Armando Vega, who injured his wrist during the doubles match the day previous.

Seixas, young Philadelphia who ranked eighth in the nation last year, followed up his role in the doubles triumph that clinched the team victory over Mexico by registering his first Davis Cup singles win in the concluding singles match. He swept through Mexican champion Mario Llamas with only one difficult set 6-3, 8-6, 6-1.

With Mexico out of the way, U. S. non-playing Capt. Frank Shields laid his plans to shake up the squad in accordance with the idea of giving all of the U. S. leading players a chance to show their worth for a berth in the final round against the Aussies.

Against Canada, the U. S. team will be made up of Wimbledon champion Dick Savit of Orange, N. J., national clay courts and intercollegiate champion Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, national champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Cal., and 1950 Wimbledon champion Budge Patty of Los Angeles. Specific assignments, singles and doubles, won't be announced until Thursday.

Army's Top Gridders Are Dismissed - Blaik Resign?

West Point, N. Y.—(AP)—The question of whether Col. Earl (Red) Blaik will resign as Army's head football coach was tossed about in sports circles today as the result of the order dismissing 90 cadets—many of them his top gridiron stars—for cheating in examinations.

The Army steadfastly has refused to name names. But well-founded reports said 60 or more football players were among the 90 involved in the scandal that rocked the United States Military Academy.

However, 10 of the players who figured prominently in Blaik's plans for "other great army team" have said they are among the cadets ordered dismissed.

Three others, however, disclosed through their parents that they were not connected with the violation of the academy's sacrosanct honor code.

But, if reports are true, Blaik's varsity squad has been ripped asunder. Graduation last spring took 10 of the team that rolled through 28 straight victories before losing to Navy 14-2 last fall. And now the dismissal rind, taking players that figured to again make the Black Knights the feared power of the gridiron.

Blaik had built his offense around his son, Bob, No. 1 quarterback last season. Young Blaik himself has refused to say if he was involved. But speaking in a group of cadets he used the pronoun "we" in declaring:

Fearless Fraley Rambles

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures: Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, still is popping off at White Sox pilot Paul Richards in their called-game feud because he doesn't "want the people around the country to think that something wrong is going on here."

Richards protested bitterly last week when rain washed out a ninth-inning Chicago rally which might have licked the Yanks. New York led 3 to 1 going into the ninth and the Sox rallied for three runs when rain washed out the inning, giving the Yanks the game.

"Richards has done a good job managing the White Sox all year but now he's beginning to cry because he's losing," was Stengel's latest retort. "He should shut up."

Casey's bitterness refurbishes the idea that he may be enjoying a last season of rock throwing before quitting the Yankee helm.

It is believed that there will be 15 cent starters in Wednesday's Hambletonian trotting classic at Goshen, N. Y., making the purse just over $90,000—the richest in harness racing history. The field may go to 25, however, in which event the purse would be almost $97,000... and that ain't hay, Bl... Happy birthday, last Saturday, growing from its upper jaw... Excitement On Delaware Bridge
PHILADELPHIA—(UP)—The Delaware River Bridge is 25 years old this year, and the men who take care of it say it's not as idle or boring a task as some might think. Since the 720,000-ton chunk of steel and concrete was opened to traffic in 1926, these are some of the things that happened on the bridge:

More than 335,000,000 vehicles have crossed it. The boat crossed over it, not under it. It was a 35-ton tugboat carried on a huge trailer truck. The toll was $18.75. Forty-seven persons plunged to their deaths from the footwalks, now closed. Thirty-two others were prevented from suicide jumps by alert bridge police. Traffic lanes were increased from six to eight and a high speed lane was established. Bicycles were banned. Horses were not but they rarely make the crossing. Only two horse drawn vehicles crossed last year. Joseph K. Costello, general manager of the bridge, estimates that costs and expenditures during the 25-year period were nearly $100,000,000. Receipts in the same period totaled $86,000,000. The present toll for automobiles is 20 cents. There have been some large cranes on which the toll was $25.

Has No Regrets When He Dies
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(UP)—Milton S. Samuels, former St. Louis resident, had no regrets when he died here. A statement he made before his death read as follows:

"My house is in order. I am sure of myself and have no fear. I start out each day with the thought in mind of serving my fellow man and doing as much good as I can. I have had a wonderful wife. I have a wonderful daughter, son-in-law and granddaughter that inspire me to go on and on."
If I have an enemy under the canopy of heaven I know not where. If I did, I would go and square myself. So what more would one want in this life? I am happy and smile the hours away each day."

Samuels, 67, made the statement after his wife's death and asked that it be used when he died.

Colored News
The Modernettes Social Club gave their president, Mrs. Vernice Lee Whitchard, a surprise birthday party at her home Sunday evening. She was the recipient of many gifts.

Friends of Mrs. Ethel Daniels will be glad to know that she is improved from an operation which she underwent at Tayloe Hospital.

The saxophone, invented by a man named Adolphe Sax, is a modern hybrid instrument, having the clarinet mouthpiece with a single reed applied to a conical brass tube.

Finds Solution To Nursing Problem

CLEVELAND, O.—(UP)—Mt. Sinai hospital here hopes it has what will prove to be the answer to the shortage of nurses.
Dr. Sigmund Friedman, hospital director, has started a nursery school for the children of nurses, where youngsters can be left for the day while their mothers work. The nursery, for two-to-five-year-olds, is next door to the hospital. Play and napping facilities are available.
The nursery is under the direction of a social worker who has a volunteer teacher to help.

Turns Down Man's Offer Of Blood

READING, Pa. (UP)—The Red Cross politely turned down the offer to donate a pint of blood by John W. McCawley, an amputee who arrived here yesterday after a cross-country jaunt on crutches.
McCawley, who said he was hitchhiking from Oregon to Washington, D.C., to find a job, gave his age as 97. That is 38 years over the acceptable limit for a donor, the Red Cross said.

Cab Driver Alert For Story Plots

NEW YORK (UP)—Unsuspecting passengers who climb into Reuben Hecht's taxicab can be divided into two classes. Those he tells about the stories he's published, and those who tell him stories he can jot down on a pad he carried in the front seat.

"It was an accident and a bewilderment to me that I am now a successful writer," the chubby and cheerful hatter insisted. "me who never went past the fourth grade."

A ride in his cab, however, makes the whole thing seem more than an accident.

"Got somethin' here for ya to read," Hecht is likely to say to a passenger, handing him the latest magazine to publish one of articles. "Look on page 76."

"I spot a guy by lookin' from the tip of the nose right up to the forehead," he explained, denying he hands out his articles to passengers at random.

Then comes the conversation in which Hecht explains how he became an author.

"I used to tell my wife stories about people I'd met in the back," he says. "She indirectly sort of encouraged me. She'd say she liked the story and for me to write it down so she could show it to her friends."

Two and a half years ago he mailed his first story of driving a cab at night to a national magazine, which bought it. Since then 13 other stories have been published.

"Before I realized I had somethin' I'd practically throw the scripts away after I finished," Hecht confessed. "Sometimes another cabby would read 'em to me and say 'Rube, got anythin' to read?' and I'd toss him a story. I didn't even have another copy of 'em."

Now he saves everything in the overflowing filing cabinets in the foyer of his three-room Bronx apartment.

"I got 50 magazine scripts makin' the rounds now," he says, ducking his head modestly. "Mrs. Roosevelt and I got the same literary agent now, too. I sold most of my stuff without an agent, though. I'm a natural writer. I write it first in longhand, then poke it out with two fingers on the typewriter. Not much good on those dots and dashes, though. I pay a girl two bits a page to put those in for me."

Called To Parley

TEHRAN—(AP)—British and Iranian representatives were called to a meeting tonight to begin negotiations aimed at a settlement of the critical dispute over the nationalization of Iran of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's holdings. The first session was to be an exploratory one seeking a common ground for further discussions. Some light tanks patrolled the streets and other precautions were taken against possible violent demonstrations. Today is an Iranian national holiday.

For what the Kremlin really thinks, wants and intends to do, you have to go to the publications distributed by Moscow to the Communist faithful for their guidance in tactics and propaganda.

In none of these will you find Stalin's assurance of non-interference in the affairs of other nations or his assertion that communism and capitalism can live peacefully together in the same world.

Instead, you will find over and over again such party-line statements as these by the Soviet premier:

"On the purpose of the Soviet October revolution: 'The goal is to consolidate the dictatorship of the proletariat in one country, using it as a base for the overthrow of imperialism in all countries.'"

On Soviet aid to Communist revolutionists in other countries: 'The victorious proletariat . . . after organizing its own Socialist production, should stand up . . . against the remaining capitalist world, attracting to itself the oppressed classes of other countries, raising revolts in those countries against the capitalists, (and) in the event of necessity even coming out with armed force against the exploiting classes and their governments.'"

On the inevitable struggle between communism and capitalism: ". . . in the course of further development of international revolution, two centers will form on a world scale: a socialist center (Russia) . . . and a capitalist center (U.S.). The struggle between these two centers for the possession of the world economy will decide the fate of capitalism and communism in the whole world."

Doubling Of . . .

grams, Senator Connally, Texas Democrat, got angry over the scope of this program and the drain on the taxpayers.

So the question of cost will be fought out. Equally unsettled is the question of who'll run it.

While our foreign aid was still strictly economic, under the Marshall Plan, two agencies had chief interest in it: ECA—the Economic Cooperation Administration—which runs our foreign policy.

Since the foreign aid and our foreign policy were tied together ECA and State worked hand-in-glove although ECA remained independent. Congress wanted it that way.

ECA and State would still have a top interest in the new program but, since it involves military help as well as economic Marshall's Defense Department which does our military planning at home and abroad, has an equally vital interest in it.

That makes three agencies with a hand in the new plan. Suppose they can't agree on a problem. Who, then, will have final say? Mr. Truman, although vague about it, has made it pretty plain he wants Acheson's State Department to have that final say.

This doesn't sit well with Taft and his fellow-Republicans in the Senate who don't like Acheson anyway.

At this point two plans are being battled around in Congress: (1) abolish ECA and set up a new agency to handle the economic part of the program, with the Defense Department as boss over military aid; (2) set up one big agency to handle the whole thing.

COSTS JUMP

OTTAWA, Ont. (UP)—Canada's cost of living index jumped 3.5 points during June to a record 187.6 the Bureau of Statistics reported today. It said the increase was almost entirely due to a 4.1 per cent increase in food prices.

Princess Again Romantically Linked By Press

LONDON (UP)—Princess Margaret spent a week at the country home of Billy Wallace and London newspapers speculated that their long friendship may lead to marriage.

Wallace, wealthy 24-year-old polo player, is a stepson of American writer Herbert Agar.

His mother said the princess was ending her visit at their 10-room home in Sussex. She declined to comment on the press reports.

Nearly all London newspapers today printed a photograph showing Margaret handing Billy a trophy marking his team's victory in a polo match Saturday. She had a shy smile and her eyes were cast downward.

The Sunday Reynolds News said Margaret is expected to announce her engagement soon and that Wallace is the favorite.

The Sunday Dispatch said Margaret was impressed with the "simple domesticity" of the Agar home.

Signed His Own Death Warrant

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Nine days ago, Samuel Copperman reported to police he had been robbed of $2,800 in his Washington liquor store.

Police checked the report, found it false and fined him $100.

Saturday night, exactly one week later, a real robber shot and killed Copperman as he tried to flee his store with $45 in a paper bag.

Police said today the liquor store owner literally signed his own death warrant by advertising the fact that he had so much money.

Farm Bureau Of States Bids For More Members

GREENSBORO (UP)—The North Carolina Farm Bureau opened a statewide drive today for 10,000 new members, to increase its rolls to 80,000.

R. Flake Shaw, executive vice president, urged members to go "all out" to exceed the quota.

"We need every man and woman we can get to strengthen the influence of farm organizations in order that they can speak effectively for agriculture," he said.

Shaw blasted "politicians and bureaucrats" who "seek to bind the farmer and his free system of production with price controls and red tape which never have and never will work as long as we have a democratic form of government."

Cotton Crops In Some Sections Hit By Drought

RALEIGH (UP)—Cotton specialist J. A. Shanklin of the State College extension service reported today that prolonged drought has caused dried squares and shedding bolls in many sections of the state.

The condition is worst in Southern and lower Piedmont counties, he said, and recent rains are expected to help only in a few of the Piedmont counties.

Shanklin said the prospects are good but there is much unevenness in most areas. Plants in Southern counties are almost through squaring and the peak of squaring should be reached soon in other areas with the exception of later cotton in the Piedmont.

Insect control specialist George D. Jones reported that boll weevil migration seems to have started in most areas.

Peiping Radio . . .

Then he and his party left for supreme headquarters in downtown Tokyo. With Joy were Maj. Gen. Laurence C. Craigie, Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke and Ms. Gen. Henry I. Hodes, all members of the negotiating team.

Maj. Gen. Paik Sun Yup, South Korean member of the team, remained in Korea.

It was apparent that the military armistice negotiations had reached some new critical stage which required the presence of the delegation in Tokyo, where back-and-forth talking with Washington is possible.

The group arrived in Tokyo nearly 12 hours after the Communists had broadcast their explanation of assurances that it would not be repeated.

Ridgway had been expected to accept the Communist explanation and propose a resumption of the declassified cease-fire talks either Tuesday (Monday night EST) or Wednesday.

The "flagrant violation" of Kaesong's neutrality protested by Ridgway was the marching of a company of armed Communist troops within 100 yards of the conference house Saturday before the eyes of U.N. negotiators.

Ridgway said the U.N. delegation would not return to Kaesong until the Reds gave "a satisfactory explanation of this violation and assurance of a non-recurrence."

The Red reply came early Monday. First the Chinese radio at Peiping broadcast that the soldiers in question were "security troops" who had "accidentally entered" the conference zone.

Then a formal message from North Korean Premier Kim Il-Sung, commander in chief of the North Korean Army, and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, commander of Chinese "volunteers" in Korea, addressed to Ridgway was broadcast by the Communist radio stations.

Ridgway suspended the cease-fire talks while they were in their ninth day of deadlock over the location of a cease-fire demarcation line and a buffer zone between the opposing armies.

The information that a train runs "only on Saturdays" or on "Mondays and Thursdays between June 17 and Sept. 21" now is provided directly after the name of the destination.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Two unexpected guests literally dropped in for lunch yesterday at the home of Homer Parker.

The Parker family was eating lunch when an airplane crashed into the bedroom 20 feet away.

The occupants of the light plane, Sgt. Chester T. Christopher and Lt. Douglas Wells of Randolph Air Force base at San Antonio, suffered slight injuries.

None of the Parkers were injured.

Joe M. Dresbach, Administrator of the Estate of W. C. Dresbach July 11-18-25 Aug. 1-8-15

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Two unexpected guests literally dropped in for lunch yesterday at the home of Homer Parker.

The Parker family was eating lunch when an airplane crashed into the bedroom 20 feet away.

The occupants of the light plane, Sgt. Chester T. Christopher and Lt. Douglas Wells of Randolph Air Force base at San Antonio, suffered slight injuries.

None of the Parkers were injured.

Having this day qualified as administrator of the estate of W. C. Dresbach, deceased, this is to notify all persons having claims against said estate to present them to the undersigned at Greenville, North Carolina, within twelve months from the date hereof; otherwise this notice will be placed in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate settlement.
