Foreign Aid Cut Argued By Solons

Sen. Hunt Says Foes Toying With U. S. Security; Taft Argues Economy Has Limit To Spending Ability; Eisenhower Views Discussed

WASHINGTON (UP)— Sen. Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo.) said today that congressmen seeking big cuts in the $3,500,000,000 foreign aid bill are "toying with the security of the United States."

He told a reporter the giant bill for arms and economic aid to non-Communist nations is "the best investment we can make" for the nation's survival.

Hunt is a member of the Armed Services Committee which met in closed session with the Foreign Relations Committee to begin drafting the measure.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (R-Mass.) had been scheduled to report on his recent visit with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower who, it was disclosed, may ask for more American troops for Europe. But Lodge decided to postpone the report.

Hunt defended the administration's program as Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.) opened a drive to cut "at least $2,000,000,000 from the program and Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O.) said that Americans must face the question of "how much we can stand" in domestic and foreign military spending.

"What I am most concerned about," Taft said, "is the total amount of military spending — at home and for arms aid abroad — rather than how much we are going to spend for Europe."

Eisenhower told Lodge and the other senators who recently inspected European defenses that the United States should "get out" of Europe entirely unless it steps up the program to halt possible Russian aggression.

The official views of Eisenhower, Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain, British Prime Minister Clement Attlee, Winston Churchill and other European leaders were reported yesterday by the United Press in a copyrighted dispatch.

Eisenhower told the senators that some day he may need more than 500,000 U. S. divisions — a total of about 344,000 ground and air troops — now set for duty in the Pacific.

He said he would "not hesitate to ask for them" if necessary. "If we drag this job out, we fail," Eisenhower said. "The sure way to get the results at twice the cost is to do this program out. If we can't do this job in a reasonable length of time, it can't be done and we'd better get out."

Francisco Spain was a "beasted country" unable to give its citizens the freedoms of press and assembly granted in America. Spain's participation in a general war, he said, would depend on "circumstances," but Spain could contribute a 2,000,000-man army if it gets equipped aid.

Attlee scoffed at America's increasing cooperation with Spain, saying that some people still think they can "sup with the devil" with a long spoon. Churchill criticized the prime minister's attitude. President Vincent Auriol of France said admittance of Spain to the Atlantic Pact would anger many Frenchmen because "people are always led by their ears," and Frenchmen never would permit Spanish troops to be stationed on their soil.

Who Calls The Tune?

Observers At Kaesong Convinced General Nam II Is A Spokesman Rather Than Policy Maker At Truce Talks; Chinese General Looked To For Approval

By HOMER JENKS

One of the big mysteries of the Korean cease-fire conference is the identity of the real boss of the Communist delegation.

Who is the man who makes the day-to-day decisions on when the Reds shall stand firm and when they shall yield? Who will decide when to give the final word that may mean peace or war?

United Nations negotiators don't know. But they are convinced that it is not Gen. Nam II, the senior Communist delegate and the only one who addresses the U.N. team during the conference sessions.

Nam II is very definitely coming into focus as a spokesman rather than a policy maker, an official U.N. spokesman in Korea said the other day.

In other words, the North Korean general is just a front man who parrots what is told him, who reads what is written for him, who follows the time schedule laid down for him.

Three-Quarters Of Leaf Crop In Belt Harvested

Analysis Of Questionnaire Indicates 90 Per Cent Housed In Late August

A tobacco report released by W. L. Whedbee, supervisor of sales, reveals that about 75 percent of the tobacco crop in the Eastern Bright Belt has now been harvested.

In a further estimate of the progress made by farmers, it is reported 90 percent of the crop will be housed by the end of the third week in August.

The report compiled by Whedbee grew out of a questionnaire sent to 277 farmers and 19 county agents in the Eastern Bright Belt. The answers to the questions were analyzed to complete the crop report.

Many farmers reported that weather conditions in the section since the last report have been very good, due to numerous thundershowers and several soaking rains. The rains have served to fill out the tops of the early planted tobaccos and complete the growth of the later planted tobaccos.

The damage done to this year's crop from insects is reported to have been about normal and is of no great importance as far as the crop as a whole is concerned. The chief disease with which the farmers have had to deal this year is black shank, the proportions which have increased considerably over last year.

As to the final weight of the crop, it is Whedbee's opinion that although there has been a 14 percent increase in acreage and farmers are generally setting their plants closer together, and the fertilizing the same more heavily, that these factors are offset by dry weather conditions in the early stage of the growth of the crop, and losses in weight due to black shank.

The losses in weight have been increased in the last two weeks. The reason for the increased loss is rapid ripening of the tobacco in the field and insufficient barn room to handle the crop as fast as it ripens.

Whedbee said that a substantial portion of the lugs will be of a desirable quality, superior to the lugs seen south of this area, due to the fact that our seasons were more favorable. "As to the rest of the crop," Whedbee said, "it is my opinion that although the crop is not fancy, yet it is a good smoking crop of tobacco, fully matured, and somewhat on the thin side with right much color."

Dewey Says He Is Not In Running

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (UP)— Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York emphasized again today that he has no presidential ambitions.

Arriving here from Australia, on his tour of the Pacific and Far East, Dewey reiterated that he was ready to support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a presidential possibility.

Summing up his tour, Dewey said "we've right now an even chance of averting war—which is pretty good."

When Dewey reaches the United States he will make a detailed firsthand report to President Truman.

Thirty-Nine Entries For Beauty Contest

Figure Is Three Shy Of Entrants In 1949 Event; Midnight Deadline May Yet Bring More Applications

Thirty-nine girls have entered the beauty contest to be held tomorrow night at New Carolina Warehouse, three shy of the 42 entrants in the previous Farmers Day event in 1949.

The 39 have made application for the parade of beauty, which this year is serving as a preview of Farmers Day Wednesday, through late this afternoon. And although the deadline for contestants' applications is not until midnight tonight, the likelihood of passing the 1949 mark is slim.

Bob Ross, chairman of the contestants committee of the Jaycees, sponsor of the event, said this morning that the 40-mark will probably not be reached.

"Of course we'll accept any application received in the mail tomorrow morning," he said. "However, those girls applying toward the last hours of the deadline will have to be notified of their eligibility by telephone tomorrow."

Three more applicants were received today, all from Pitt County girls. They are: Miss Pauline Dupree, Belvoir, sponsored by the Belvoir-Falkland FFA club.

Miss Sylvia Gardner, Fountain, sponsored by the Fountain Home Demonstration Club.

Miss Doris Edwin Wilkerson, Farmville, sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees.

The girls will meet tomorrow afternoon at Ragdale Hall on the East Carolina College campus at 2:30. From there they will be taken to the warehouse for a rehearsal which lasts until five o'clock. Afterwards they will be taken to dinner by the Jaycees, then back to the college to dress, and from there to the warehouse where the contest begins at eight o'clock.

The dance will begin at 7:30 for the public with Bob Lee's orchestra, formally located at the queen, the dance will continue. The queen and the two runners-up will preside over the ball and will be guests of honor during Farmers Day activities Wednesday.

The beauty contest entrants and their sponsors are: Joan Atkinson, Seven Pines, Pitt-Greene Electric Membership Corporation; Jean Bailey, Williamson; Williamston Jaycees; Joyce Beverly, Bethel, Bethel Home Demonstration Club; Dorcas Clayton Winterville, Winterville Ruritan Club; Helen Joyce Copeland, Stokes; Stokes 4-H Club; Essie Cox, Belhaven, Greenville Jaycees.

Falkland To Get Share Of Money

Residents of Falkland were surprised yesterday when it was noted that the town would receive $234 of Powell Bill street funds.

Previously the town fathers had thought no funds would arrive, since there are no locally-maintained streets. But they went ahead as instructed and sent in a survey of the streets in the town that are maintained by the State Highway Commission.

Surprisingly enough the funds came through. Mayor Frank Park-Farland said today he reckoned the town got the money on the basis of its 174 population. However, what they'll do with the funds is another question.

Currently Parker and his board of aldermen are considering putting a yellow warning signal at the intersection of the Pinetops and Fountain highways, provided the funds can be used for such a purpose.

Parley Deadlocked By Red Stand On Armistice Line

Insist Parallel 38 Be Basis For Armistice Line; Allied Spokesmen Told Talks Will Lose Significance And Purpose If Views Opposed

PACIFIC CAMP, Korea, Tuesday.—The Communists threw the Kaesong cease-fire negotiations into a new deadlock Monday by insisting flatly on an armistice line based on the 38th Parallel.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, the chief Red negotiator, called the United Nations' proposal for a line based on the present battle front "mad," Red radios said.

If the Allies reject the Communist "fair and reasonable" proposal for a line based on the parallel, "responsibility for a stalemate in the negotiations must be fully borne by the U.N.," Nam was quoted as saying.

Unless the Allies give in, the conference "will not in future have any significance and no progress can be made," Red radios reported him as telling the Allied negotiators.

As the result of yesterday's developments the U.N. and Communist cease-fire negotiators will hold their 24th meeting at 11 a.m. Tuesday (8 p.m. Monday EDT) with only the prospect of a further tedious deadlock ahead of them.

Allied and Communist negotiators met for 18 minutes at Kaesong Monday. A U.N. communiqué called the meeting "unproductive."

Later the North Korean Pyongyang radio and the Chinese Communist Peiping Radio broadcast statements of Nam Il's attitude which made it clear that "unproductive" was the right word.

"I told Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. negotiator, that the conference would lose both its significance and its purpose unless they changed their position, Pyongyang radio said.

At Sunday's cease-fire meeting the Communists had seemed to give a hint they were ready to compromise.

At Pusan, South Korean Foreign Minister Yung Tai Pyn predicted a cease-fire "will be patched up somehow, (but) with no aggressor punished and with Korea still divided."

The first suggestion of a Communist willingness to compromise over the question of an armistice buffer zone came during Sunday's session.

The Communist delegation presented a map then showing the relationship between U.N. and Communist proposals to the present battleline and a U.N. communiqué said.

"Although no tangible progress was made today's (Sunday's) meeting may have uncovered a mutually acceptable area in which further exploratory discussion might be held."

However, the Communists failed to follow through at Monday's 78-minute meeting.

Joy opened the meeting with a reply to five questions submitted Monday by North Korean Gen. Nam Il, the chief Communist delegate.

The questions dealt with the U.N. among whom I made my discoveries on poliomyelitis. I want to end my days at home."

Her journey to the United States is eased by the fact that the American Congress, in a special bill, granted her the "Freedom of the United States." She is the second person in history to gain this distinction which allows her to travel back and forth without passport or immigration formalities. The first was Gen. Lafayette who won the right for his services in helping the American colonists gain their independence from England in the 18th century.

Miss Kenny lived in the United States from 1940 until February of this year when she returned to Queensland.

The noted nurse will present a manuscript on her controversial concept and treatment of polio to the American Medical Association while in the United States.

He asserted, "as a matter of fact, it has decreased a little bit."

The Colonel said that the Army's those who do go astray." He explained that the Army is establishing Camp Gordon, Ga., as a rehabilitation-retraining center for psychiatrists where personnel in need of attention can get adequate treatment.

Col. Holland said that the basic principle under which the Army operates now is to "get them out of the guardhouse as quickly as possible."

"Also, he added, "we don't put them in unless it is absolutely necessary."

Tempo Of Probing Attacks Stepped Up On Korean Front

SIXTH ARMY HQ, Korea (UP)— Communist probing attacks spread like brush fires through the Korean hills today. Reports from the front indicated Red losses were heavy.

At least 12 enemy attacks, in strength from 50 to 500 men, were reported.

Eleven of the attacks were repulsed by nightfall without gain to the Communists.

In the sharpest fight, two Red companies slammed into Allied hill positions north of Inje on the eastern front. The battle was reported still in progress Monday night.

There was no indication whether the Reds had made gains. In the same sector, the Allied forces beat off an attack by a full battalion of Communists.

"At least" seven attacks by the Communists were repulsed west and northwest of Kumhwa in the old "iron triangle" area of the central front, reports said.

U.N. forces skirmished with Red troops south of the cease-fire conference city of Kaesong Monday.

It was the sixth straight day on which U.N. and enemy patrols have clashed in minor but fierce fights below the five-mile neutrality zone around Kaesong.

Near the east coast, Allied units stormed a hill west-southwest of Kaesong 27 miles north of the 38th Parallel. Two Communist companies drove the Allies from the height Sunday, but counter-attacking Allied troops had pushed back within 300 yards of the crest by nightfall.

Elsewhere along the front, the Allies beat off repeated Communist probing attacks. Ten times Sunday, the Reds charged U.N. positions imbedded in the hills south and southwest of P'yongyang on the central front. All the charges broke against the barbed wire, minefields and interlocking gun positions forming the U.N. line.

There was no staying power in the Chinese and North Korean attacks. It seemed evident that the Communists were feeling the effects of the day and night air attacks on their communications and supply lines.

Improving weather enabled the Far Eastern Air Forces to step up their attacks. B-29 Superfortresses hit the railway centers of Hamhung and Sariwon.

Seven injured in auto accidents

Three children are among weekend's Pitt Hiway toll

Seven persons were injured over the past weekend in Pitt County as the result of motor vehicle mishaps.

Two 18-month-old twin boys were the victims of an accident at Chiloc Saturday afternoon, when a truck driven by their father backed over them as they were playing in the yard.

Patrolman Paul C. Whitley gave the name of the father as Dennis Anderson, 29, of Route 3, Greenville.

Injured were Billie Ray Anderson, severe internal injuries, and his twin brother, Bobbie Anderson, broken right arm. Both of the boys were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Two early morning accidents Sunday resulted in injuries to two persons and the arrest of two others.

Injured when their car turned over one mile east of Ayden Sunday morning around 2:30 were Anthony May Jr., 28, of Ayden, and Geneva Mullins, 27, also of Ayden. Both received moderate injuries and were treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released. They were placed in Greenville city jail on charges of being drunk by Patrolman Paul Whitley who investigated the accident.

Three other occupants in the car at the time of the accident, including the driver, fled the scene. Investigation of the accident is not complete, pending arrest of the driver. The car was totally destroyed. The accident occurred on the old Gun Swamp road one mile east of Ayden.

Charges of parking on the highway without lights were filed against a 31-year-old Negro man after an accident occurring six miles west of Greenville on U.S. 264 4:30 Sunday morning.

Arrested was William Hill, Route 1, Winterville.

According to Patrolman Paul Whitley, Hill had parked his car on the wrong side of the highway and gone into a house, leaving his car without lights.

No Evidence Of Honest Intent, Says Ridgway

UN Commander Declares Communists Have Shown No Evidence Of Peaceful Intentions; No Doubt As To Goals

WASHINGTON (UP)— Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today that the Communists so far have "produced no concrete evidence of honest, peaceful intentions."

Ridgway, commander of the United Nations forces in Korea, said he "will now judge Communist intentions not by words, but by performance."

He made the statement in a copyrighted radio-telegram interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report.

"The ceaseless flow of falsehoods, perversion and slanted statements which continue to emanate from Communist-controlled public information media, together with the long record of Communist duplicity, deceit and faithlessness in contractual obligations," Ridgway said, "have dissolved all doubts in the minds of members of this command as to Communist objectives."

Ridgway said he faced a "unique" problem in asking troops to fight during cease-fire talks, but "our forces know why they fight and their spirits were never higher."

He said the U.N. has "an unbeatable battle team" in Korea.

Ridgway said morale among U.N. forces has shot up during the past six months because of improved "leadership at all levels in all services and national contingents" and "the incalculable of a reasoned understanding based on facts of the purpose of their presence in Korea and the objectives for which they fight."

Rotation of troops, Ridgway said, is working "exceedingly well under the circumstances."

"To date," he said, "more than 50,000 of our fighting men have returned from Korea to the homeland and their places taken by other young Americans splendidly trained in the United States—physically, professionally and spiritually—since the Communist aggression in Korea began."

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Cain (R-Wash.) wants President Truman to make "an outspoken demand" for the new Czech ambassador for the release of William Oatis, Associated Press correspondent now in a Czech jail for "spying."

The new ambassador, Vladimir Prochazka, will present his credentials to the President soon.

Cain wrote Mr. Truman on Saturday that the meeting would afford a "dramatic opportunity to confront the Czech regime with an outspoken demand for the immediate release" of Mr. Oatis.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The 1952 presidential election still is more than a year away. But the political experts already are beating their gums about events ahead.

But they're being pretty cagey about it — they have to be — because the future is uncertain. As it stands now, the picture can be summed up briefly:

Republicans — General Eisenhower and Senator Taft of Ohio are the two most prominently mentioned for the Republican nomination.

Taft is running for it as hard as he can. No one can predict at the moment what Eisenhower will do; he may want no part of it; or he may think he's more needed in uniform because of a war or because he thinks his job of rebuilding Europe's defenses isn't finished.

Democrats — President Truman has given no hint of whether he'll seek re-election. Apparently awaiting his decision, most of his fellow Democrats have remained pretty mum on any other choice of their own, if any.

They don't seem to have a wide choice. Given most mention as possible Democratic candidates are Mr. Truman doesn't run as these three: Senator Douglas of Illinois; and the Supreme Court's Chief Justice Vinson and Associate Justice Douglas.

The Supreme Court is not a place for developing political attractiveness and the two justices don't have much popular backing. And as for Senator Douglas—the President is reported to dislike him intensely.

The experts ridicule any suggestion that if Mr. Truman doesn't run he might, if he wanted to, be able to persuade Eisenhower to take the Democratic nomination.

Republican backers of the General claim to know he is a Republican and would run only on the Republican ticket. Only last week the President said he doesn't think the General is a candidate for the Democratic nomination although that doesn't rule out the chance he might try to persuade the General to be the candidate.

If Eisenhower ran as a Demo-

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church, North Georgia, recently passed resolutions calling for the "immediate termination of the use of racial prejudice in political campaigns," and urging the "end of every discrimination by the state against a fellow human being."

The delegates also expressed their shock at "shocking by the findings of the Kefauver committee and by grand juries in our own state" and asked local societies to "go before grand juries and ask for indictments against local gamblers."

Mrs. Lewis W. Riess, of Walla Walla, Wash., who with her late husband had years of experience in social work in Greece, Germany, Czechoslovakia, and Hawaii, has been named by the Congressional Christian Service Committee, Boston, Mass., to head the work of the church among Greek refugees and other displaced persons in Greece. She will direct a wide variety of services including aid to dental and medical clinics, summer schools for children, leadership training programs, and cooperation with the School of Social Welfare in Athens and Pierce College. She will cooperate also in the refugee and DP services of the World Council of Churches and the International Relief Office.

The Maryknoll Fathers of Ossining-on-Hudson, New York, is perhaps the most active Roman Catholic society in America in sending priests and missionaries overseas. Now the Maryknoll Order of Sisters is increasingly active in this foreign mission field. It recently ordained and commissioned thirty-nine sisters for life-time service at services in Maryknoll Seminary, and under the direction of Bishop Raymond A. Lane. The sisters will serve in Africa, Korea, Ceylon, the Philippines, Japan, Central America, Peru, and California.

The 400,000 women of the American Baptist Convention are now "organized for action" as the "National Council of American Baptist Women," replacing the National Committee on Women's Work. Mrs. Maurice B. Hodge, of Oregon, is president of the new body; and the administrative secretary is Miss Violet Rudd, of 182 Madison Avenue, New York.

Billowing Smoke Is False Alarm

WAUKEGON, Ill. (UP)—Firemen raced to the Sears Roebuck store answering a report that billowing white "smoke" was pouring out of the windows.

They returned to the station red-faced when they learned the "smoke" was an insecticide spray the janitor had been using on the building.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Boyce of Farmville announce the engagement of their daughter Jean to J. F. Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bailey of Weldon. The wedding will take place in the Farmville Methodist Church on Sept. 30.

Eloise Tucker Bride Elect Complimented

WASHINGTON—Miss Eloise Tucker of Greenville, whose marriage to Lt. William Planders, of the U.S. Air Force, Alexandria, La., and Durham, N. C., will take place in September, was honor guest when Miss Ramona Sawyer entertained at a luncheon Thursday at the home of Mrs. Lee Davenport. Miss Tucker was a member of the Washington High School faculty last year.

A delightful two course luncheon was served at 1:00 o'clock. Centering the lace covered luncheon table was a massive design of pastel garden flowers. Places were marked at the table by attractive place cards. The markers were tied with white satin and a single pearl, and designed with soft green wedding bells.

The bride-elect was presented a lovely corsage of baby mums tied with white satin, by the hostess, who also remembered her with a cold meat fork in her chosen pattern of silver, "Old Master."

Invited luncheon guests included Miss Tucker, honoree, and her mother, Mrs. Durward Tucker of Greenville. Miss Annie Frances Reddick of Hobbaville, Miss Emma Dean Calfee of Belhaven, and Mercedes J. C. Crow, Carl Bowers, Marvin Cherry, Misses Mary Ann Campbell, Josephine Hoyt, Penelope Bogart, Isabel Carter and Mrs. "Choppy" Wagner, mother of the hostess.

Mrs. A. G. Walters Funeral Set Tuesday

Mrs. Myrtle Garris Walters, 59, widow of A. G. Walters, died at her home in Greenville Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock after two months illness. She had been in failing health for the past three years. Funeral services will be conducted at the chapel of S. G. Wilkerson & Sons Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Rev. J. M. Perry, Christian minister of Robersonville. Burial will be in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Walters was born and reared in the Falkland community and was the daughter of the late James and Mary Davis Garris. She came to Greenville as a dressmaker in 1916, and was married to A. G. Walters in 1914. She had operated a tailor and dressmaking shop, and was a member of Eighth Street Christian Church.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Lester Lee Jones of the home, Mrs. Joe E. Willard of Washington, and Mrs. Edward Lee Smith of Greenville; a son, Raymond G. Walters of Portsmouth, Virginia; three grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Beulah McLawhorn of Winterville; and a brother, J. Bruce Garris of Washington, D. C.

HOSTESS TO BOOK CLUB
An interesting session of the Grifton Book Club was held on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Grindel Tucker as hostess at her home here. Roses and other garden flowers were used as decorations.

Mrs. H. P. Quinerly presided at the short business session at which time Mrs. Quinerly and Mrs. Alton Chapman were re-elected as officers, a committee of Miss Bert Johnson, Mrs. Tucker and Mrs.

Tom Gower, were appointed to select a program for the coming year.

Mrs. Tucker gave in an interesting manner a talk on Stam, the old of the country, its customs and people and dwell mainly on the present king, Phumiphon Aduladet.

At the refreshment hour delicious refreshments were passed. Present for the afternoon were Mesdames Quinerly, Chapman, Tucker, Bryan Davis, Robert Mewborn, Thurman Williams, Cecil Cobb, J. L. Tucker.

ENTERTAINS BRIDGE CLUB

On Wednesday night Mrs. Robert Mewborn entertained at bridge at her home here, as inspiration for the party were a number of out of town visitors, Mrs. Edward Mewborn of Philadelphia, Miss Isabella Dawson of Baltimore and Miss Lena Dawson of Aycin. Guests were received by the hostess in rooms pleasingly decorated with pink and yellow dahlias, summer phlox and tuberoses. Four tables were placed for bridge, highest scores were compiled by Mrs. Eleanor Gower, Mrs. Alton Chapman, Miss Lena Dawson, while the consolation went to Miss Louise Mewborn. The hostess served lime ice, orange wafers, salted nuts. Players were Mrs. Mewborn, Mrs. Gower, Mesdames Dawson, Mewborn, Mesdames Trent Berry, H. P. Quinerly, S. E. Cotman, George Sugg, L. L. Mewborn, W. I. Misette, Cecil Cobb, Clifton Jackson, Alton Chapman, Miss Marie Chapman.

HOSTS AT BRIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Johnson received informally on Wednesday night at their home on Main Street. Two tables were in play and Mr. and Mrs. Glendel Tucker compiled the highest scores for the club members and Mr. and Mrs. David Wassum for visitors, other players were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hart. During the games light refreshments were served.

HOSTESS TO CONTRACT CLUB

Mrs. Edward Hart was hostess on Thursday night to members of her contract club at an enjoyable session. Two tables were in play a variety of garden flowers made a pretty setting for the games.

Mrs. Josh Worthington secured high runner up was Mrs. Milton Hart and the consolation went to Mrs. Glendel Tucker. During the games Coca Cola were served and as cards were laid aside a sweet course was enjoyed.

Miss Wilma Patrick is spending some time at Robbins as guest of Mrs. Barbara Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Williams have returned from an overnight stay at Atlantic Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell McConnell of Edinboro, Pa., who have been guests of Mrs. Adele Patrick, left Thursday for Mantoe en route to their home.

Mrs. L. O. Cox and Steven Cox have returned from a visit in Fayetteville with Mr. and Mrs. John Cox and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Holton of Miami, Fla., were guests during the week of Miss Nancy Patrick and Mr. L. C. Patrick and family.

Mrs. Richard Hahn, Mrs. Leslie Renfrew, Rickie Hohman and "Tuck" Renfrew have returned to their home at Lucama after a visit here with Mrs. G. Tucker.

Misses Betty and Barbara Thompson and George Thompson have returned to their home at Selma, Ala. after a visit here with their grandmother, Mrs. Jessie Thompson.

Mrs. E. L. McDaniel of High Point is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Chauncey.

Mrs. Harold Wall of Raleigh was a guest on Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hart, Judy, Carolyn and Joe Hart have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Starling in Kenly.

W. S. C. S.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service held its August meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Ralph Hill, with Mrs. J. L. Peterson, president, in charge. Following the transaction of routine business an inspirational program was presented under the direction of Mrs. B. L. Witherington, with Mrs. Donald Witherington, Mrs. Russell Lancaster and Mrs. Ralph Hill taking part. The devotional was given by the spiritual life leader, Mrs. Alton P. Hill, Jr.

During the fellowship and social hour refreshments of ice cream and assorted cookies were served by the hostess.

Bridge Club

On Tuesday night Mrs. J. E. Ewell entertained the weekly bridge club and a number of invited players at her home on South Main Street. Guests were Mrs. Elmo Hill, Mrs. Jimmie Huff, Mrs. James E. White, Mrs. Alex Williams and Mrs. Frank Jones of Kinston.

The home was attractively arranged with red radiant roses and other garden flowers. Mrs. Alex Williams was high score winner, Mrs. Earl Cleve won the traveling prize with Mrs. Frank Jones receiving the consolation award.

During play Coca-Cola and cheese ritz were served. After progressions the hostess served ice cream and coconut cookies.

Miscellaneous Shower

On Friday night the Woman's Betterment Society entertained with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. A. B. Morton Jr., recent bride at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Lancaster on New Street.

The Lancaster home was attractively arranged throughout with purple and orchid gladioli and asters in pastel shades. Upon arrival the honoree was presented a corsage of purple and orchid asters and Mrs. Henry Williams, mother of the honoree, received a corsage of pink asters. Mrs. Morton was presented the shower of gifts in an umbrella covered in yellow and green with miniature bouquets of flowers in pastel shades at each point.

Mrs. H. E. Barrow presided over the guest book and Mrs. Lancaster invited those present into the dining room where refreshments of lime ice punch, bridal mints, nuts and bridal cakes were served from the table which was covered with a cut work linen cloth, centered with an arrangement of white asters in a silver bowl lighted with white tapered with fern, in silver holders. Miss Beverly Witherington presided punch. Approximately twenty-five guests were present for the occasion.

Hasty Robbers Missed $1,000

BISMARCK, N. D. (UP)—Hasty thieves stole $500 from a cash drawer at the Sears Roebuck store here but overlooked more than $1,000 in the same drawer.

Police said the burglars broke into the store, pried open the safe door, grabbed the cash and made their getaway without realizing they left behind twice as much as they took.

Driver Tried In Police Car Wreck

In Police Court today, Willie L. Whitchard, 26-year-old Negro, was found guilty of driving drunk, driving with improper brakes and damaging city property.

Police officers testified that Whitchard collided with the radio car at Second and Greene streets late last night. They said he was driving while drunk; that his brakes would not work, and that he collided with the police car. They quoted Whitchard as saying: "If I had a known your's was the police car I wouldn't a-run into you."

Judge Charles H. Whedbee gave Whitchard 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $100 and costs for driving drunk, and ordered that his driver's license be suspended for a year. The court consolidated the no brakes and damaging city property cases and gave him 3 days in jail, suspended on payment of $55.24 to the city for damage. This 30-day sentence is to run concurrently with that for driving drunk.

Carver Library

Too often we pass up a solution that may cure a psychological ill, and one is that of reading a good book. Many outstanding characters were not educated in the classroom but through extensive reading. Read for relaxation. This will give you an opportunity to rest your mind, and free yourself from worry. Also read to obtain knowledge. One would be surprised to discover what he doesn't know and wouldn't learn unless he did more reading.

The library shelves of the Carver Library are being replenished with many new books. Among these are: "The Story of American Roads," by Val Hart; "Mr. Lincoln's Army," by Bruce Catton; "Lon Boy's White Brother," by Alder G. Stevens; "Umberto's Circus," by Edward Boss; "Partner's the United Nations and Youth," by Roosevelt and Ferris; "Jinks of Jayson Valley," by F. E. Rehnitzer; "Peter Graves," by William Penne du Bois; "Time For Tapoca," by Charlotte Stryker; "The Picture Story of Alaska," by Hester Omer; "Garden Flowers in Colors," by Daniel J. Foley; "Lone Star Tomboy," by Allyn Allen; "The Nile," (the life story of a river) by Emil Ludwig; "Charles Dickens," the last of the great men by G. K. Chesterton; "Americans Before Columbus," by Elizabeth Chesley Baily; "The Story of Serapina," by Anne H. White. These and many others will add to your reading pleasure.

When the children gathered for Story Hour at the library Thursday afternoon from 4 to 5 p. m., they were entertained with stories told by Barbara Garner and Arvis Davis, Reading Club members. The Vacation Reading Club's story hour will close August 30th. All children are asked to make their reports beginning August 23rd at which time the Reading Club will have its next meeting.

Churches Appear Latest Target In Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—Missionaries being ejected from Red China said today the Communists appear bent on eliminating all Christian churches except their own "reform church."

The Catholic Church is bearing the brunt of Red activities now. Travelers from Peiping said every foreign missionary in the Red capital is either in jail or under house arrest. The report said

Chinese Christians are under pressure to join the "reform church." The Rev. Harold Rigney of Chicago and 18 other Catholic missionaries were reported jailed July 25. Rigney, only remaining American missionary in China and former rector of Catholic Fuijen University, was bound when taken to jail. He was an Air Force Chaplain in World War Two.

Arrest Negro Woman On Three Serious Charges

Police arrested Roberta B. Sutton, 43-year-old Negro woman, 419 Bonner's Lane, Saturday night and charged her with breaking and entering and assaults with deadly weapons—a pistol and a knife.

She gave bond for appearance in Police Court Monday, August 20, and was released.

Warrants charge her with breaking into the home of Mattie Morris, Negro, 510 Sheppard street, assaulting Mattie Morris with a Pistol, and assaulting her with a knife.

Sign Terms For Uranium Study

CHARLOTTE (UP)—The American Cyanamid Co. said today it had signed two non-profit contracts with the Atomic Energy Commission for uranium research and development.

Uranium is the main component of atomic bombs. The company said one of the contracts called for research in new ways of recovering uranium from various ores.

Under the other contract, Cyanamid will take over operation of a plant to recover nuclear fuel from used reactor fuel elements.

Military Honors For Steve Early

WASHINGTON (UP)—Stephen T. Early, former presidential press secretary, will be buried with full military honors at Arlington National Cemetery tomorrow.

The burial will follow Episcopal funeral services at Washington Cathedral.

President Truman and many high civilian and military officials were expected to attend the services. Early, 61, was stricken last Tuesday with coronary thrombosis and died Saturday.

What Has Pitt Done For Its Negro Schools?

Pitt County has for many years taken great pride in the efforts it has made to improve the educational facilities of the county school system.

The work done to improve the schools for Negro children of the county is obvious to those who have visited the various schools of the county, and it is also obvious from the records of the County Board of Education.

The example set by the Pitt County schools is one which could profitably be followed by other counties of North Carolina.

Don't Be A Sucker For A Flimflam

When tobacco season rolls around and there are a lot of folks with wads of greenbacks in their pockets, a flock of sharks of one type or another descend on Eastern North Carolina to skim off some of the cream.

Each year these flimflam specialists take thousands of dollars from unsuspecting individuals who are taken in by the old lines of getting a big return on a few hard earned dollars, allowing a stranger to hold some money for "good luck" and various and sundry other schemes.

It isn't often that the same guy gets caught by one of the flimflammers for a second time, but there are always enough new suckers to make the racket profitable for the unscrupulous individuals.

Now is the time to be, on the lookout for these characters who will take your money at the bat of an eye. They will be working this area from now until Christmas.

If that extra money burns your pocket, put it in the bank, don't give it to a shark. You know where the bank is when you want your money back, but you'll probably never see the shark again after he gets his hands on some of your dough.

News Behind The News By ROGER WARREN (Ray Tucker is on vacation)

WASHINGTON—A new battle royal will be fought over lack of current machinery to curb waste and recriminations will be hurled over postwar losses through neglect and decay when the Military and Naval Construction Bill comes before Congress soon.

It is in addition to the approximately $6 billion dollars involved in ships, weapons, planes etc. for defense, and eight or more billion dollars requested for foreign military and economic aid and the cost of the Korean fighting.

The distressing fact is that this enormous sum need not have been merely so gigantic if we had not lowered our guard after the war. At the period when everyone was demanding "bring home the boys," a companion demobilization folly was to junk everything left behind by way of buildings and ground facilities.

Now we must start reconstructing the things that were torn down, sold or allowed to tumble into ruin. EARL BURNETT—The figures for the armed forces are set at three, and a half million men. As about 12 million were in uniform at the peak of the war, one naturally asks what happened to the barracks, mess halls, airfields and naval depots this big force had.

The answer of the military is that the old physical structure has either become obsolete, inadequate or has vanished in one way or another.

Except for a few new air bases practically all the money is earmarked to restore what we once had. We must relay water and sewer pipes which were dug up and disposed of. We even have to buy back about 300,000 acres of land that we sold.

LEFT-OVERS—The Army got rid of stockpiles of clothing. The Navy, because of different requirements, kept most of its excess uniforms. But immediately after the war when building materials were scarce, about every community near a base demanded some of the left-overs such as schools, gymnasiums, chapels, hospitals. Other facilities were channeled out through the surplus property act.

During the war speed was of major importance. Hence most buildings were either of the mobilization type, consisting of framed structures with unfinished interiors, or theater-of-operations type: wooden frames with tarpaper sides. These flimsy shacks just faded away.

Personnel was cut so that neither caretakers nor watchmen were available. In some places where the local National Guard took over a portion of a base, the buildings are in excellent shape. But when a unit of the Armed Services Committee a few weeks ago inspected bases in the South they found signs growing through broken windows and the interiors as badly deteriorated as though in a wet jungle.

DIFFERENT—There are several other factors in the new building program of the Defense Department that are different from that of war days. We are not mobilized on a war footing. Therefore we need more warehouses to store goods for the day that war comes, if it must. Previously our full supply of goods did not arrive until 1942. As we were engaged in global war, surplus materials were moved directly to the fighting fronts and contained.

We are grinding up large quantities of materials and weapons in Korea. But even Laid drain is much less than full-scale war. Approximately 35 billion dollars in war procurement contracts have been cut. The goods pouring from factories will increase in volume in the next few months. Hence both open and closed storage must be provided.

JET—Another new feature is the jet plane. We must realize that neither the Navy nor the Air Force had a single jet plane in operation throughout World War II. Now about everything is heading in the jet direction.

This means the installations of entirely new fuel systems and enlargement of existing runways. Previously a 6,000-foot runway could handle about any plane. But to accommodate jets, all runways must be widened to 200 feet and extended to at least 8,000 feet.

Several extra inches of concrete must be added to take care of the extra pressure caused by the weight of the planes and their performance characteristics. In some cases fields have to be rearranged in order to give planes the proper altitude and to protect heavily congested districts from loud noise.

WASTEFUL—Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia of the House Armed Services Committee says that never before in his experience has a committee gone over a budget with a finer-toothed comb. The initial request from Deputy Secretary of Defense Lovett was for 12 billion dollars on the basis of total mobilization. This was cut more than half on a partial mobilization basis. It was then screened eight different times. The committee itself made 203 amendments to the bill.

But Republican Congressmen, like Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, member of the Rules Committee, are worried because the Armed Services Committee has not the personnel to act as a watchdog on this expenditure along with the nearly 70 million dollar total in the whole defense financing.

Selected Shorts BUFFALO, WYO., BULLETIN: "The first cause of inflation is runaway spending by the Federal government. President Truman has asked for wide control powers over every aspect of the national economy, as a means of 'controlling inflation'."

Chip Off The Old Block

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYNN NISBET Daily Reflector Bureau

TOO DARK — Suggestion by Robert L. Thompson, High Point editor and radio commentator, that Rev. Casper Warren of Charlotte would make a good "dark horse" candidate for governor

INGS about separation of church and state to elect a preacher to the state's highest office, solely on the basis of his reputation as a cleric. DRAFT—The capitol square folks virtually marked off Mr. Warren as a prospect when he said he would consider the matter only if there developed a real movement to "draft" him.

DARK HORSES—The idea of dark horses in political campaigns is not new, but in every important instance of success in that guise the name has been one that is familiar, but had not been considered in that particular light. That was the case when Warren Harding was nominated for president, and with Calvin Coolidge and Harry Truman when they succeeded to the presidency.

IMPROBABLE—Folks around capitol square, most of whom earn their livelihood out of speculative politics, think it very improbable that any person can be elected governor in 1952, who has never taken any part in politics, which means government, other than as voting citizen. There is further improbability, according to these practical politicians, that North Carolinians would yield enough in their traditional feelings about separation of church and state to elect a preacher to the state's highest office, solely on the basis of his reputation as a cleric.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

IF DEATH IS WAGE OF SIN, PUBLICITY IS WITHHOLDING TAX (The Publisher's Auxiliary)

"You've faced the common complaint: 'Let's say anything only cause trouble.' Unfortunately, the 'trouble' has usually been caused as last week's editorial cited as being true in Washington, gossip runs rampant. While in Washington, much of it is motivated by malice, smalltown gossip is usually prompted by a genuine interest in fellow men.

Will He Have Competition (Washington Daily News) William E. Umstead is a candidate for governor of North Carolina. That has been made clear by the letters he has been writing friends around the state. This writer saw one of the letters recently in which Mr. Umstead said "I have not announced my candidacy publicly, but I will definitely be a candidate for governor."

What other papers are thinking... You've faced the common complaint: 'Let's say anything only cause trouble.' Unfortunately, the 'trouble' has usually been caused as last week's editorial cited as being true in Washington, gossip runs rampant.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER Much has been said here and elsewhere about the unwieldy side of business inventories. The total at the end of June, according to Commerce Department figures, was $60,300,000,000. A most serious factor in the business situation is the size of consumer inventories. In buying waves that followed the outbreak of war in Korea, consumers stocked up. Coffee and sugar hoarding was most spectacular, largely because it was so general and so foolish. In addition, families bought up autos, appliances, clothing and other goods.

Hal Boyle's Column

By CHIEF LEADING EAGLE, JR. (Alias Hal Boyle) Hibbing, Minn. —(AP)— You think you'd like to be an Indian chief? Well, I think again, palface. There's a lot of woe to the title, and in the Sioux tribe at least you don't get paid a sou for the job. I've been an Indian chief less than a month, and already I'm beginning to think I should have remained an Irishman.

Washington Letter

By JACK ADAMS (For JANE EADS) WASHINGTON—Some new and worthwhile fun for those with a technical turn of mind has just been opened up by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

The FCC has established an Amateur Novice Class in the "ham radio" field. Response has been tremendous. Some 222 persons showed up at field offices throughout the country to take the qualifying tests on the first day, with 178 meeting the qualifications. Before the end of July, the first month, FCC had mailed out more than 850 Novice Class Amateur licenses to eager beginners in all parts of the United States.

What other papers are thinking... The girl friend of an infamous gangster protests, "Why won't the press leave us alone." The government official claims: "This matter will work itself out, if we can avoid the publicity."

What other papers are thinking... What kind of a lodge was I in? I began to think I ought to have joined the Elk or the Moose. Well, it was one of that Irishman who joins the Sioux is just moving from one downtrodden clan to another.

Grass Grows Faster Than Cattle Can Eat

HEREFORD, Tex. —(AP)— Jay Boston figures he takes in about $1,275 a month from a small patch of grass on his ranch near here. And Pete Carmichael, farmer of Deaf Smith County, says, "It's the easiest money a man ever made." He grazes livestock on an irrigated pasture of only 20 acres.

That's just a tiny pasture, son, here in this panhandle county where the average spread runs 1,203 acres. It's big ranch country where wheat and grain sorghums are a basic farm crop.

Other Farmers Encouraged
But outstanding success of leading farmers is encouraging others to irrigate their small pastures from the priceless underground water supply.

One of the leaders is Boston, who was named top farmer in neighboring Castro County for the past two years. He farms 840 acres. But he uses only 20 acres of it to graze 85 cattle and 15 hogs.

Even by eating full-time, the livestock can't keep down the grass. It grows so fast that Boston recently had to go out and mow it.

On other irrigated pastures, grazing loads of six or seven steers to the acre are not uncommon. That's far superior to the 8 to 10 acres needed for a cow on native grass. Sheep man Earl Springer has an equally amazing small pasture. He grazes 40 sheep on 70 acres fenced into six pitches. The stand is a mixture of brome, orchard and rye grass with some ladino clover.

Wool Another Bonanza
High wool prices this year gave Springer an additional bonanza. He slipped $2,900 worth of wool from the flock.

Springer waters his pasture frequently—as often as five days and five nights during the growing season. He also supplies anhydrous ammonia fertilizer to make up a soil deficiency. The sheep thriving on his 70 acres would have needed two sections of land in the old days. But the old days are long gone. At the turn of the century, the en-

UNDERGROUND WATER makes Texas grass grow this way.

The western half of Deaf Smith County was part of the XIT Ranch—called "a fence around all outdoors." The 3,000,000 acre layout along the western edge of the panhandle was divided and sold before the owners fully realized what irrigation would mean. Wells now supply water for a thriving truck garden area.

Irrigation plus a special seed mixture gets Boston his bumper grass crop. Seed to the acre is five pounds each of Kentucky No. 21 fescue, brome and orchard grass; four pounds of rye; two pounds of hairy vetch; and one pound of ladino clover, Madrid clover and alfalfa.

PMA Fights the Bill
The Production and Marketing Administration picks up the bill for about two-thirds of the seed cost. Permanent pastures conserve soil.

Facts 'Explode' Myth Of Dying Theater In U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (UP)—This is as good a time as any to explode some myths about the Broadway theater.

There is the myth that the theater is dying. Before lighting the fuse to that one, let the record speak:

There are currently 91 brain children by 91 playwrights being considered seriously for Broadway production this coming season by at least three dozen producers.

Not all of these will be born, of course, but that's a pretty large crowd for any funeral.

I look forward confidently to a future that cannot possibly develop any genius who would provide a substitute for the living theater complete with living actors, stage illusion, plays that are adult and enjoyed in a community of feeling with a thousand of one's neighbors.

The Greeks, who started the theater, had a word for it—imperishable. The Greeks will always be right, electronics notwithstanding.

There is also the myth that if a show is very entertaining it cannot be very good art, and that if it is good art you must have a perfectly horrible time at it. Some scholar of medieval bent must have started that one.

If a show conveys the truth of common experience and is honestly integrated, it will be good entertainment and good art at one and the same time. Do I hear any objections from those who have seen "Oklahoma!"?

Then there is the myth that Broadway producers are plain stubborn and just won't send their shows on the road because they don't want anyone outside of New York to enjoy their shows. This notion gained circulation a decade ago when audiences for touring shows began to dwindle.

The reason why producers don't send more shows around the circuit is because of one stark economic fact. Shows need larger audiences than ever before to make ends meet. This is due to the increased costs of producing and railroad travel.

Ticket prices have risen only 40 per cent in the past 10 years while food, house furnishings and clothing have advanced more than 100 per cent.

There is the myth that only the smash hits are worth seeing, that any show less than a smash is beyond contempt.

This fallacy is the most destructive of them all and a real danger, not only to the theater and all the entertainment arts, but to American thinking.

It is based on a really primitive form of worship by which all values are judged by the No. 1 label. Number-one-omania sneers at anything less than the No. 1 best-selling book, the No. 1 lover, the No. 1 tomato juice. It would rule out some of the most rewarding and enriching experiences of living and leave us poor indeed.

And finally there is the myth that the full flavor of the current musical hit, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" (music by Arthur Schwartz), can be appreciated only by Dodger baseball fans.

This, of course, is an unvarnished generalization.

NEW AND HOT
CLEANER: A vacuum cleaner with a swivel top, requiring less walking around when cleaning a room, is now in production by General Electric Co., at Bridgeport, Conn. It features a larger disposable dirt bag.

TWO-WAY: A new two-way portable radio can be operated by plugging it in to the cigarette lighter socket in an auto. It has a 20-mile range, says Northeastern Development Engineers, Inc., 21 Lewis St., Pawtucket, R. I.

Corner Of Four Western States Has Corner On U.S. Atomic Bomb 'Seed'

By JAMES CARY
AP Newsfeatures

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A high, bald plateau in the Indian country of the southwest — lying astride the juncture of four states—holds the explosive seed of many atom bombs of the future.

The area, covering some 200 square miles in Arizona, Utah, Colorado and New Mexico, is impregnated with an estimated 80 per cent of the nation's known uranium deposits.

It is already producing about 90 per cent of the strategic mineral in the United States and may become the first major field to bolster our defense effort.

The district is known popularly as the Four Corners area and is almost completely within limits of the sprawling Navajo Indian reservation.

In the past it has been considered a colorful arid wasteland, cut by sharp defiles and treacherous canyons, many of them never explored by white men.

But today it holds the country's hopes for more and more of the dangerous stuff that has helped mold foreign policies and remake the world's alignment of power.

The four corners deposits are both a blessing and an enigma.

Charles H. Dunning, veteran Arizona mining figure and for seven years director of the Arizona department of mineral resources, says there is every indication the present mines operating in the area will be increased many fold. He thinks the richness of the ore, at present all low grade, will rise steadily, although it will never reach the quality of pitchblende, source of uranium in Canada and the Belgian Congo.

"But how the uranium got there is a mystery," Dunning said. "There is no universally accepted geological explanation of what made it occur."

The radio-active ore has been found mainly in sand stone, in what geologists call the Grand Canyon sedimentary series. The puzzle is whether the uranium was laid there as the sandstone was forming, was deposited later in some upheaval of the earth's crust, or came in through some fissure in the formation.

"We don't have the answers to these questions," Dunning said, "as we do when uranium occurs in an igneous (volcanic) formation."

25 Mines Are Working

With or without answers, however, production and discovery of new deposits is going forward slowly. There are already more than 25 mines sending ore to mills at Monticello, Utah, and Durango, Colo.

The richest find to date will soon be adding to the total. It is located in the Lukachukai mountains of northeastern Arizona. The property will be already producing uranium in his home area of Dove Creek, Colo.

Dunning estimates this new discovery will average seven to eight pounds of uranium oxide per ton, compared with four or five for all previous finds.

New Way to Prospect

The Atomic Energy Commission discovered the Lukachukai ore by a new method vastly superior to the prospector's patient search for a visible outcropping of ore.

It sent teams into the field to locate favorable formations, then tested its calculations by drilling. The results were highly satisfactory, Dunning said.

The ore differs from that in most of the mines. It is a uranium copper phosphate. Much of that found in the area in the past has been carnotite (uranium vanadate) which occurs in petrified wood, and some autunite (uranium calcium phosphate).

Indians Get a Split

The future of the Four Corners area is bright. There are no illusions it will ever have mines comparable to the major copper operations that have fathered so many communities of the west. But the time may not be distant when numerous small mines dot Navajo homeland.

It may prove a great boon to the poverty stricken tribesman. The Indians receive a 10 per cent royalty on the production of every mine.

Dunaway Reveals Intent To Run In Governor's Race

RALEIGH —(AP)—Manley R. Dunaway, Charlotte realtor, has become the first candidate to formally announce he will run for governor in 1952.

Dunaway, 55, announced his candidacy over the weekend, but said he would wait until after the Democratic and Republican conventions to reveal his party affiliation.

Dunaway withdrew from the 1950 illness. He has been a resident of Charlotte for the past 28 years.

At least nine others are considered as possible candidates to succeed Governor Kerr Scott. One of them, former U. S. Senator W.B. Umstead of Durham, has sent letters to a number of friends urging them to support his candidacy. However, Umstead has made no formal announcement.

Others mentioned as possible candidates include Ambassador to Columbia Capus Waynick, Secretary of State Thad Eure, State Supreme Court Justice Sam J. Ervin, Jr., State Treasurer Brandon Hodges, State Highway Commission Chairman Dr. Henry W. Jordan, Dr. Casper Warren, Charlotte Minister, former Superior Court Judge Hubert E. Olive of Lexington, and former House Speaker Kerr Craige Ramsay of Salisbury.

Special Doctor For Emergency In Night

ST. LOUIS, Mo. —(UP)— Sometimes people who need a doctor in the middle of the night and are unable to reach the family physician are in a quandary.

In his city the Emergency Call Service, which the American Medical Association says is the only organization of its kind in the country, handles such problems. It is a band of 120 volunteer doctors who stand by from 6 p.m. to morning to answer calls of distress.

Dr. C. W. Schumacher, energetic sparkplug of the ECS, said many other cities maintain "call services," usually where exchanges where the location of the family doctor may be passed along, but the Emergency Call Service provides an expert within minutes after just one call.

The service, sponsored by the St. Louis Academy of General Practice, gives adequate publicity to its two telephone numbers and in a year of operation has answered 300 emergency calls.

Personnel is not only highly competent but the members stick to the often thankless job. Just 120 of the city's 2,000 physicians who first volunteered stood up against the service's rigid requirements. There are 120 members today.

Besides volunteering, the emergency doctor must be a member of the national, state and city academies of general practice and must take at least 150 hours of post-graduate work every three years. Each physician is responsible for a specific area for a certain period on designated nights. When a sick or stricken person has a critical emergency, he may telephone the exchange.

Variety of Calls
The appointed doctor receives word and, if he stops at all before grabbing his black bag, it will be only to call the patient and give preliminary instructions.

The calls have encompassed a variety of ailments ranging from premature child birth and heart attack to narcotic addiction and acute alcoholism.
The bill averages $5, the accepted fee under academy rules, but it appears that some persons don't consider life worth that much. One doctor, who maintains he isn't ready yet to give up his voluntary work, was handed $1 a few moments after delivering a new baby.

Patrol Bomber Lost In Alaska

KODIAK, Alaska —(AP)— The Navy reported today that an Alaska-based four-engine PB4-Y-3 patrol bomber with 12 men aboard has been missing since its last position report at 10:14 a.m. (3:14 p.m. EST) Sunday.

The Kodiak-based Privateer was on a routine mission when it vanished.
Names of the three officers and nine enlisted men in the crew have not been released.

Warn Refugees May Be Deported

NEW YORK (AP)— The National Lutheran Council says many Baltic refugees who braved the Atlantic in small boats to find sanctuary in the U. S. may be deported to Sweden.

The council said on Saturday that the Immigration Service had notified 84 Estonians, who arrived in 1948, that arrangements were being made to deport them.

Some 300 refugees from Estonia, Latvia, Poland and Finland have arrived in the U. S. over the last five years at Atlantic ports from Boston to Miami, the Council said.

At least 200 were paroled in the U. S. and are living in various parts of the country. Of these, 121 were bonded by the Lutheran group.

The Council said the deportation action followed the indefinite postponement by the Senate Judiciary Committee of so-called private bills to allow them permanent residence.

It was understood, the Council added, that the Balts would not be sent back to their homelands behind the Iron Curtain, but to Sweden.

ALBEMARLE, N. C. —(AP)— A head-on crash of two automobiles took the lives of seven persons near here yesterday.

The victims were five white women, all residents of New York state, and two Negro men.

Investigating officers identified the dead women as Geraldine M. Donovan, 28, Jeanette C. Donovan, Bronica Donovan and Mrs. Julia

Inzvestia Sternly Frowns On Tractor Plant Culture

MOSCOW (UP)—Victor P. Suslov, manager of a tractor plant at Minsk, was worried.

Production figures were low. An inspection visit from the USSR minister of the tractor industry was imminent.

This is what happened, according to the government newspaper Izvestia:

Suslov shoved rakes, brooms and garden shears into the hands of hundreds of his skilled mechanics. He launched a whirlwind, 10-day program to beautify the factory and its surroundings.

The workers planted rows of pansies and forget-me-nots. Other flowers were heaped on defective machinery. Garbage cans received a new coat of silvery paint.

Walls were whitewashed. Weeds disappeared. Artists splashed peppy slogans on the plant walls.

Hundreds of workers, just returned from studying how to make a new type of tractor at Leningrad, joined in the beaverish activity.

To top the thing off, Suslov ordered the plant's glass walls smashed in to admit more light and fresh air.

"The main thing," he told the workers, "is to observe culture."

Izvestia took a dim view of these "cultural" goings-on. It asked whether Comrade Suslov's interest in beauty was not, perhaps, connected with the minister's impending visit.

What was unforgivable, the newspaper said, was that the plans fulfilled only seven percent of its target during the month of beautification.

"Love demands sacrifices," Izvestia said sarcastically. "But isn't love of the manager of the Minsk tractor plant for pansies and forget-me-nots somewhat too expensive for the state?"

It observed that flowers prospered in the warm summer rains. The machinery close to the smashed glass walls, it added, didn't.

Whenever Izvestia or other official publications engage in such lampoons, corrective action follows.

Find Last Body In Rail Accident

SIMMESPORT, La. —(AP)— The body of the last known victim in a crash between a Marine troop train and a steamliner has been recovered from charred and twisted wreckage.

Dr. J. C. Roberts, coroner of Pointe Coupee Parish (county), said he was practically sure it was the body of L. L. Rainey, 69, engineer of the Southern Belle.

The Southern Belle and the troop train carrying more than 300 Marines crashed head-on early Friday, killing 11 and injuring 60.

R. R. Sutter, Kansas City Southern superintendent of transportation, said yesterday the troop train engineer, C. A. Yates, 41, of New Orleans, had written instructions to allow the Southern Belle to pass.

Both trains were operated by the KCS.

Sutter said "I guess it was one of those human failures" in explaining the cause of the KCS's worst accident in 40 years. He added that Yates had a perfect record in his 10 years service with the railroad.

In addition to Yates, the fireman and the trainmaster of the troop train were in the engine when the crash occurred and perished in oil-fed fire.

Two names were omitted from the teacher list for the Grimesland School which appeared in Friday's Reflector.

The names of Mrs. J. A. Watson and Frances W. Madry should have appeared with the list, making the teaching staff total 17.

Army Is Holding Firm On Policy In Firing Cadets

WEST POINT —(AP)— The Army was holding firm today to its stand that there will be no honorable discharges for cadets found guilty of violating the Military Academy's honor code.

There has been a strong movement, launched last week by head football coach Earl (Red) Blaik, to allow the accused cadets to leave the academy without the stigma contained or implied in other forms of dismissal.

A restatement of the Army's position came yesterday with an official announcement that final hearings should be completed early this week on the 90 cadets facing dismissal for cribbing on examinations.

"The action we are to take has been approved by the department himself," said Col. James B. Leer, the academy's Public Information Officer.

OUTCAST OF DESTINY

PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 147, 178-182

Those who knew him usually called him Tex; to the few who thought they knew him more or less intimately he had another name, Brent. They assumed that Brent was a surname but they were wrong; his name was Brent Hollister and he came from Arizona and not from Texas, but he kept the Hollister to himself because the name would immediately associate him with another Hollister and that would mean sudden death.

Night had fallen and he stood in front of a dark building and gazed across the street at a doorway which opened on stairs leading to the hall over Hannigan's store. Above that doorway a smoky kerosene torch illuminated a canvas streamer bearing the words SAM CARTER'S LYCEUM PLAYERS. Inside, a fat, baldheaded man sat behind a table with a cashbox on it and standing near him, eyes alert, was Cliff Durham, the town marshal.

Customers went through the doorway, paid their admissions and stamped up the stairs after receiving a cherubic smile and a hearty thank-you from Sam Carter.

A girl came running down the stairs and the light from the bracket lamp above Sam's head caught and held her in its yellow embrace. She was tall for a girl, but slim and graceful, with a bright face and a cluster of dark curls falling over one shoulder. Brent stared interestedly; there was something clean and vibrant about her which drew him. She spoke to Sam and he nodded and she ran up the stairs, silken-clad ankles twinkling.

Brent took a bundle from beneath his arm and shook it out. It was a black cloth sack some six feet long and two wide. He slipped it over his head, thrusting his arms through holes cut for the purpose. It covered him from the top of his hat to the toes of his boots, and there was a slit through which he could see. He raised the bottom of the robe and drew the 44 Colt, then moved across the street and mounted the store steps at an angle designed to keep him out of the range of vision of Sam and the marshal.

Brent drifted silently backward, the black hood blending with the shadows that engulfed the store entrance. Cliff came into the light and Carter came out after him. Sam said, "I'm much obliged to you, Marshal, for your help. I'd like to give you a little—uh—token of my appreciation. Say, five dollars?"

He was looking questioningly at Cliff, the flare illuminating his anxious face, but Durham did not answer. Sam raised the lid of the cash box, fumbled with its contents, then drew out a gold piece. He dropped it into Cliff's extended palm and Cliff said, "Keep comin'; I'll tell you when to stop."

"It's robbery!" moaned Sam.

"Brother, you said!" agreed a voice from the darkness.

Cliff wheeled, crouching like a cat, his hand whipping to the gun on his hip. He was fast, but he didn't go through with the draw. The light fanning out from the flare showed him a hand with a leveled gun in it and that gun was pointed at his stomach.

Brent said, "Get behind him, fatty, and lift that gun out of the holster. Chuck it into the street and feel him over for others. Hands up, you!"

Carter obeyed and Brent came slowly forward, the gun still pointed at Cliff's stomach. He said, "Turn around, both of you."

Carter turned instantly; Durham, reluctantly, his glinting eyes stabbing at the dark-robed figure until the last minute. Brent moved forward, raised his Colt and struck just back of Cliff's right ear. The marshal folded up like a wet sack. Brent bent over him, took a pair of handcuffs from his

Georgia-Florida Leaf Sales Well Ahead Of 1950

VALDOSTA, Ga. — (AP) — The Georgia-Florida flue cured tobacco sales season is about two thirds over and already this year's crop is $5,000,000 and 10,000,000 pounds over the entire crop for last season.

A U. S. Department of Agriculture report shows gross sales through Friday to be 152,423,282 pounds at $48.26 per hundred. This adds up to $73,593,476 cash for leaf growers compared to the 1950 total of $68,537,394 for 142,424,972 pounds.

Last week's sales dropped back to $43.15 on sales of 44,393,621 pounds, but prices on gross sales for this season are still 14 cents a hundred above the 1950 season average for $48.12.

Prices on several grades of leaf dropped from $1 to $3 last week; others remained unchanged. The Department of Agriculture blamed the price drop largely on poorer quality tobacco.

Although several markets closed on August 15 last year none of the 19 Georgia and three Florida markets has yet announced a closing date.

Heavy volume is expected to continue.

Church Holdings In Holy Land Is Eyed By Russia

JERUSALEM — (UP) — An emissary from Moscow is in Israel to take over all holdings of the Russian Orthodox Church, valued at about $100,000,000.

He is enigmatic, 40-year-old Prof. Kalugin of the Moscow Academy of Science, an expert in Near Eastern archeology.

All indications are that he came to Israel to expand the scope of Russian activities in the Middle East other than in archeology. Neither, it is assumed, is his primary mission the welfare of some 120 aged monks and nuns, here long before the Bolshevik revolution in 1917.

Local archeologists know nothing of his scientific standing.

The so-called Russian Orthodox Society is the legal owner of the property concerned.

Vast Holdings

The holdings include an imposing, green-domed Slavic cathedral in a spacious courtyard in the center of modern Jerusalem. They also comprise structures now housing Israeli courts, police headquarters, the government tuberculosis hospital and churches, hospices and real estate in Nazareth, Jaffa, Haifa, Tiberias and Hebron.

To acquire title to all this property, Prof. Kalugin will have to prove that the Moscow Academy of Science which he represents is the heir of the Russian Orthodox Society. The latter is an organization set up in Russia in 1882 to groups in the Holy Land.

Upon his arrival here, Prof. Kalugin was installed with his wife as a secretary in an apartment not far from Jerusalem's Russian compound, with the help of the Soviet embassy in Tel Aviv.

Clergy Anxious

Most of the Russian clergy now in Israel regard Prof. Kalugin's presence here with anxiety. They are afraid that liquidation of the Orthodox Society's holdings and the transfer of all church property to direct Soviet control through the Moscow Academy of Science will deprive them of a steady income.

Although they have long dropped any quarrel they may have had with the Soviet regime, they feel that the present government of the U. S. S. R. will have nothing to offer to former adherents of the Czar.

Between the 1917 Russian revolution and 1944, when the Russian Orthodox Church was officially recognized as the state church, there was no contact between the Soviets and the Orthodox Church in Palestine.

Custodian Named

Most of the church's supporters remaining in Palestine after the Russian Revolution fled to Arab territory during the 1948 Palestine fighting before the establishment of the "state of Israel."

A custodian of Russian property appointed by the Israeli government now administers all the affairs of the Russian Orthodox Church. The custodian keeps track of the church's income and maintains its institutions. He pays the salaries of the clergy and lay officials of the church.

The Israeli government would prefer to have a local Russian Church body take over the vast holdings of the Orthodox Society rather than the Moscow Academy of Science. Government officials would rather have the old monks and nuns live in the Russian buildings than a corps of young Russian "scientists" purportedly engaged in archeological undertakings.

Southern Pines Combat Test Gets Under Way

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (UP)— An advanced unit of the 82nd Airborne Division struck cautiously into "enemy" territory at dawn today as Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge signalled the start of the largest Army and Air Force maneuver since World War II.

Providing realistic combat testing for an air-ground team of 110,000 officers and men and 400 aircraft, the two-week maneuvers assumed special significance as a final rehearsal for two European-bound National Guard divisions. They are the 28th of Pennsylvania and the 43rd of Connecticut, Vermont and Rhode Island, soon to join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's forces.

Hodge, 3rd Army commander, is maneuver director with Maj. Gen. W. R. Wolfenbarger, 9th Air Force commander as his deputy. They assigned the "U.S. forces" the task of hurrying back an audacious "aggressor" who has rammed an armored spearhead in to the Fort Bragg, N.C., area.

The defenders had a 10-to-1 manpower advantage to pit against the mobile striking force. Brass hats said "nobody learned much of anything" from earlier maneuvers which had equally balanced armies.

The aggressor, a force with its own uniform, language and tactics, has successfully exploited a sneak attack on South Carolina and is bent on capturing Raleigh, N.C.

A steady rain fell in the low scrubby hills four miles west of Fort Bragg and seven miles west of 82nd Division headquarters as reconnaissance parties dispatched by Maj. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, division commander, sought out aggressor positions.

What effect the weather would have on land-air operations was not clear at first, but it probably would benefit the U.S. forces. Maneuver umpires have decreed that the aggressor has air superiority in the first phases of the war games.

That means that, quite unlike the situation in Korea but probably similar to what would be encountered in Western Europe, U.S. ground forces here are vulnerable to slashing jet fighter attacks. Any let-up in air operations thus should aid the 82nd as it moved into positions to attack the aggressor, especially so since no means apparently could be found to avoid movement to the front along well-paved roads, exposed to enemy thunderjets and mustangs.

The 82nd was to shield the two National Guard divisions as they assembled into a "third field army" for a later major assault. At that time the 82nd was to withdraw and prepare itself, in conjunction with the 18th Air Force, a troop-carrier outfit, for an air drop at the windup of the maneuver.

The aggressor force, comprising elements of the 325th and 511th Airborne Regiments and the 3rd Cavalary Regiment, is commanded by Maj. Gen. Henry J. D. Meyer, recently an artillery commander in Korea. Col. Ansel J. Wheeler, commands an air force which has units of three fighter groups, two of which will shift to the U.S. side later to signify a change in air superiority.

Blinded Fan Still Enjoys Baseball

MASCOUTAH, Ill. —(UP)— Blinded as a result of a sandlot baseball accident 35 years ago, Fred Zapp still enjoys "seeing" a baseball game.

Zapp visits Sportsman's Park in St. Louis, 25 miles from his home, and sits in the press box when the St. Louis Cardinals play.

With an assist from the radio announcers, Zapp says he can "see" the game almost as well as fans to the radio broadcasts of St. Louis Cardinal games at home but that's not as satisfactory to him as "watching" the game in the ball park.

FIRE CHIEF BURNED OUT
NORRISTOWN, Pa. —(UP)— John W. Brennan, fire chief, has a red face to go with his fireman's hat. Brennan had to call on his own company to help put out a fire which started in a mattress in his room.

Cleveland Takes Big Lead As Yankees Fold Up Rapidly Yankees Defeated In Two Contests Greenies Drop Games To Ormondsville

Indians Beat Chisox In Single Game As Boston Red Sox Down Bengals Twice By 6-2 Margins; Brooklyn Holds Lead

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Could the Yankees, victims at last of some miserable bad luck, fold up as the White Sox did because of losing a game they almost certainly had won?

That was what was worrying Casey Stengel, the boss man today, even more than the fact that the sudden combination of circumstances put the roaring Cleveland Indians a game-and-a-half in front when they were in a first place deadlock with the Yankees before yesterday.

The Yankees looked like anything but champions in the 9 to 5 and 7 to 4 defeats they suffered against seventh place Philadelphia, even though they put over five runs—enough to win—which were wiped off the books in the second game because of the Pennsylvania state curfew law.

Cleveland, meanwhile, looked as if Manager Al Lopez might be about ready to announce his World Series pitching plans, as it swept to its 10th straight victory 7 to 1 over those defeated White Sox.

Wally Westlake tripled to right in the eighth inning, and the Yankees merely were getting a hiccup from the same American League rule that forbade the White Sox a victory at New York July 27 was of small consolation to them. In that game, rain wiped out the final inning before the Yankees could bat and the three runs which would have given Chicago the victory went for naught.

It was significant that the White Sox, in only 3 1-2 games out of the lead, collapsed and now are almost hopelessly 10 games behind.

The loss of a game, which apparently was won cannot be dismissed lightly, particularly when the opposition is a seventh-place club. However, the A's won their opener without a hit, battling out rookie Tom Morgan, who had won eight in a row, and going on to run up 11 hits. Eddie Joost, who paced the A's all the way, made four hits in the opener and three in the second game.

Garcia was nobly supported by Larry Doby, Ray Boone, and Bob Avila who belted home runs as the Indians made it 37 victories in the last 40 games. Garcia now has won 10 of his last 11 games.

In the other American League game, the Red Sox twice topped the Senators 6 to 2, while the Tigers downed the Browns 3 to 1. On Hoot Evers' game-winning single in the last of the ninth.

Brooklyn's great Negro battery was the whole show in a 7 to 2 triumph over the Braves in which Don Newcombe pitched eight-hit ball for his 16th victory, and catcher R. C. Campanella drove in five runs with his 23rd and 24th homers.

The Giants won well-pitched 3 to 2 and 2 to 1 decisions from the Phillies behind Sal Maglie, and rookie Al Corwin, while the Cardinals edged the Reds 4 to 3, and the Pirates and Cubs traded shut-outs. Larry Dickson shut out Chicago 1 to 0 for his 18th victory in the opener, while Paul Minner re-taliated with a 6 to 0 victory for

Ben Hogan Fires 66 To Win Tam O'

CHICAGO (UP)—Golf's greatest money player, Bantam Ben Hogan, had the biggest single paycheck of his career today, $12,500, simply because he came through with his boldest round to nip Jimmy Demaret and win Tam O'Shanter's so-called "world" championship.

Hogan, five strokes off the pace of Demaret going into the final round, picked up eight strokes on one 18 hole tour of the 6,915 yard course, and left Demaret gasping at the finish as he increased his total take for the week to something around $25,000.

Bantam Ben, who returned to golf last year after a 1949 car-bus collision nearly took his life, had all the strokes in the book for his final four of this link, an appearance for which he was guaranteed upwards of $10,000 simply for teeing up the ball.

His final tally of 66, six-under par, gave him a 273, 15-under par for the 72 hole tour of the links. And he was three strokes ahead of Jimmy, who after leading the field at every 18 hole post on the course until the final round, blew apart for a two-over par 74 on his final round and lost out.

Demaret still picked up $5,000 for finishing second. Peter Cooper, White Plains, N. Y., and Bobby Locke, South Africa, each netted $2,750 for a tie for third, while Lawson Little, Pebble Beach, Cal., and Clayton Heatter, Charlotte, N. C., were credited with $2,100 each for deadlocking for fifth.

Mrs. Babe Didrickson Zaharias, Chicago, captured the women's open purse of $2,100 with a final round of 73, three-under par for a 298 total.

The Toledo muscle man, Frank Stranahan, won the men's amateur division with a final-round 72 for a 288 total.

Little League Star James Got 3 For 3 Against The Moose Monday!

Twelve year old James Hudson is considered by many to be the best catcher in the league.

The husky little Elk receiver has caught such terrific hurlers as big Ike Riddick, Charles Rumbley. His amazing speed enables him to make man put-outs that seem impossible.

As a clutch hitter Hudson is incomparable. He is leading the league in doubles with 16. James collected number 16 in last Monday's double header with the Moose. Hudson slammed out a triple, a double and a single as the Elks took both games.

Hudson is not a long-ball hitter although some of his drives are for extra bases. His left-handed stance enables him to send some home smashes between first and second bases. James is slugging at a hefty .400 mark.

James was chosen on the All-Star team as a catcher but also played shortstop. No matter where young Hudson plays he is always a hustling, hard-fighting ballplayer.

James Hudson resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hudson on Liberty Street.

Mary McNabb Is Hope For U. S.

WATERBURY, Conn. (UP)—The United States has a new standout 1952 Olympic track prospect in 17-year-old Mary McNabb of Atlanta, Ga., an enrolled freshman at Tuskegee Institute.

Miss McNabb won two sprint titles and ran a leg on the victorious Tuskegee 400-meter relay team yesterday in the National A.A.U. women's senior outdoor track and field championships at municipal stadium. Saturday she won three events in the Junior A.A.U. championships.

The Atlanta Negro girl won the 50-meter dash in 6.6 seconds, took the 100-meter race in 12.2 seconds, and ran for the Tuskegee 400-meter relay quartet that won in 49.8 seconds. In all, she accounted for 20 individual wins in the senior events and 30 in the junior meet.

During the two-day championships, Miss McNabb ran 16 races. Including trials, finals and relays, and won every race. She is expected to win a place on the 1952 U.S. Olympic team in the trials to be run next June.

Grid Meeting

Coach Bill Kittrell has called a meeting of all members of the varsity football schedule and for all interested boys Tuesday night at the local high school gym.

The meeting will get underway at 8 p.m. Coach Kittrell asks that all boys who wish to participate in football this season attend the meeting.

Band Leader Wins Sweepstakes Title

RED BANKS, N. J. (AP)—Band leader Guy Lombardo gunned tomorrow to win his third National Sweepstakes title yesterday.

Lombardo, who took the title in 1946 and 1950, won the second of two ten-mile heats yesterday as easily as he took the first on Saturday. He finished with a half mile ahead of Al DeWitt through half the race and brought his 22 cubic inch hydroplane you-all in third.

Lombardo was timed at 81.080 M. P. H. yesterday compared with 77.956 Saturday.

Greenville Ends Season With Double Loss By Scores Of 9-2 And 4-2; Ormondsville Finishes In First Place

Greenville wound up the 1951 baseball season during the past weekend by dropping two games to Ormondsville, 9-2 and 4-2.

The double win assures Ormondsville of first place in the final regular season standings, with the championship play-offs coming up this week.

Manager Garland Little hurled the first victory for the Ormondsville nine, winning 9-2. Little, a southpaw, fanned a total of 11 men and walked but four. He was tagged for seven Greenies hits.

Ormondsville scored one run in the first and three in the second to take an unsurmountable lead over the losing Greenville team. Barry Jones led off the first frame with a long double down the rightfield foul line. After moving to third base on a passed ball, he tallied the initial marker as Stuart Tripp grounded out second to first.

In the second inning, James Ray McLawhorn singled to begin the three run rally. He was nipped at second base on a fielder's choice on a grounder by Ed Couche. Red McDaniel reached base safely on an error by the third baseman and Doug Bruton singled to fill the sacks for Ormondsville. Couche and McDaniel scored as Little singled. Bruton came across as Little Greenville scored singletons in each the third and ninth innings. Lou Collie was struck by a pitched ball in the third and moved to second on a fielder's choice and then to third on a passed ball. He came home with the first Greenville run on a wild pitch.

Blaine Moye, who led the Greenies at bat, singled to lead off the last inning and moved to second on a long fly by Hobby Hobgood David Bryan walked and Collie singled to send Moye home.

Sunday's Game
Ormondsville scored twice in the third and seventh innings and then withstood two one-run rallies by Greenville to take a 4-2 victory in Sunday's game, played in Ormondsville.

Darrell Worthington started and was the winning pitcher. He was relieved in the seventh by Jimmy Byrd.

Score by innings (first game):

Ormondsville	130	000	221	—	9	14	0
Greenville	001	000	001	—	2	7	8

Second game:

Greenville	000	000	011	—	2	6	2
Ormondsville	002	000	20x	—	4	9	1

Curfew Rule In American Receives Sharp Criticism

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The shoe was on the other foot for the world champion Yankees today, and, as a result, the American League's rule on curfew-ended ball games may be bootied out.

Three managers—Casey Stengel of the Yankees, Jimmy Dykes of the A's, and Paul Richards of the White Sox—aimed sharp criticism at the curfew rule today in the wake of the A's 7 to 4 victory over the Yanks in the second game of the doubleheader here.

That was the game where the Yanks came from behind with five runs in the top half of the eighth inning, only to see them wiped out along with a 9 to 7 victory when the Pennsylvania 7 p.m. curfew—and some high links—kept the A's from batting to end the eighth frame before deadline.

It was a tough game for the Yanks to lose, for it followed a 9 to 5 loss in the first game. But, in a way, it was just returning the "gift" victory they got July 27 when Richards' White Sox scored three runs in the eighth inning only to have rain wash out the inning and restore a Yank win.

Richards joined with Stengel and Dykes today in lambasting the curfew rule.

All three indicated they would like to see the American League rule more like the National League rule. National League games shortened by the curfew law are regarded as "suspended" and resumed at a later date. The league's rules on games cut short by rain are the same as the A. L.'s, however.

Stengel was furious when the curfew came to the aid of the Athletics yesterday and helped cost the Yankees two losses and drop them a game and a half behind the Cleveland Indians.

Local All-Stars Split Twin-Bill

Greenville's All-Stars, a local softball team, split a doubleheader with Kingston yesterday, dropping the first game, 10-11, and winning the nightcap, 12-7.

Four runs in the last inning of the second game assured the win for hurler Dan Gordan. Tommy Lupton started for the inning by hitting a grounder to the shortstop who errored the ball. Ralph Blendenbeck walked and Gordan hit a grounder which was errored by the third baseman, with Lupton scoring. Julian Vainwright walked and then Joe Dudley doubled to score three runners.

Kinston scored five times in the first inning of the opener to take an early lead, but had to withstand a three run rally in the last inning by the losers.

Bill Kittrell led Greenville with two hits in five times at bat. Second baseman Oliver homered for Kinston in the third inning.

Score by innings (1st game):

Kinston	500	222	0	11	11
Greenville	300	113	3	10	8

Score by innings (2nd game):

Kinston	072	000	4	7	7
Greenville	300	234	x	13	8

When Will Army Recover?

WEST POINT (AP)—How long will it take Army football to recover from the present team-cribbing scandal and fight its way back to a place of eminence?

"Five years at least," said one high-placed source here today. "Near ten" commented another.

The outlook is anything but bright. De-emphasis may well set in after all the hullabaloo about recruiting. Once-mighty Army may be tossed back to an ultra-conservative Ivy League category.

This is a prospect that head Coach Earl (Red) Blaik, who in the last ten years raised West Point football to its highest stature, is not ready to contemplate.

"De-emphasis does not come in my department," he said. "We shall continue to build the best football team possible from the material at hand."

He said there is no way of softening the schedule because the slate is made out three years in advance.

Even if permitted to operate normally, Blaik would have a herculean job ouliding the Black Knights into the powerhouse he has enjoyed during his ten years as head coach.

He faces a major nine-game schedule this year with a "fifth-string" team, a squad of 31 counting only one quarterback and a fullback named William Haff who weighs just 152 pounds.

With his regular 1951 squad virtually wiped out by the scandal, Blaik is left with his 1950 plebes and a few B-squad members who couldn't make a letter in three years of trying.

Russ Meyer Out With Cut Ankle

NEW YORK (UP)—Righthander Russ Meyer of the Philadelphia Phils is expected to be sidelined for two or three weeks because of the ankle cut he suffered in a collision during yesterday's Giants-Phils doubleheader.

In the first inning of the first game, Meyer raced to cover first when Alven Dark of the Giants hit a grounder to Phils' first baseman Eddie Waitkus. Meyer and Dark collided at the bag and Dark accidentally stepped on Meyer's ankle.

The Phils' pitcher suffered deep lacerations near the Achilles tendon in his right heel.

Meyer had won eight games and lost nine. His loss comes when the Phils are driving in an attempt to oust the Giants from second place.

World's Top Amateurs In Large Field At Longwood

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UP)—Cup titles and American Davis Cup berths were in the offing today as more than 250 of the world's top amateur court stars began a week-long struggle in the 70th U. S. national doubles tennis championships at the Longwood Cricket Club.

A power-packed Australian contingent was on hand to defend the men's doubles crown won last year by Frank Sedgman and John Bromwich.

Bromwich was out this year while the youthful Sedgman was paired and given first foreign seeding with compatriot Ken McGregor, a lanky slugger whose play enabled the Aussies to capture the Davis Cup at Forest Hills, N. Y., last year.

Hopes for an American victory were pinned on the top-seeded domestic duo of aging Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Bill Talbert of New York, four-times winner of the title.

The No. 2 American seeded entry of veteran Budge Patty of Los Angeles and 20-year-old Tony Trabert of Cincinnati was rated a strong threat in the closely-matched field.

First-seeded Shirley Fry of Akron, and Doris Hart of Coral Gables got a slight nod over the second-seeded pairing of Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Cal., and Mrs. Patricia C. Todd of La Jolla, Cal.

Rear-End Auto Collisions Costly

NEW YORK (AP)— Traffic congestion in New York City is causing almost 3,000 rear-end collisions per year, 80 deaths, 2,800 injuries and about $1,000,000 in damages.

The figures were compiled by the Greater New York Safety Council, which described the rear-end crash as the "most costly and most easily avoided of traffic accidents."

The council warns motorists that with continued gains in traffic volume a proportionate degree of care should "be exercised to maintain safe distances between vehicles."

Camera 'Insures' Baby Is Yours

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)— Mom and Dad now can get a snapshot of "unior" before the baby is 24 hours old.

St. Joseph's Hospital here has installed a camera; the "Hopix," designed for taking pictures of babies for identification purposes.

The baby is placed in front of the camera in the nursery soon after birth. A slip with the baby's family name, sex, the date of birth and the mother's hospital admittance number is attached to the slip.

The camera automatically moves the "unior" for the next picture after the shot is made.

Enlarged 6x7 prints of the head and shoulders are offered to the baby's family when the child leaves the hospital.

Lanier Reviews Recent Appeal On Leaf Taxes

J. Con Lanier, nationally known tobacco authority, guest speaker at the Greenville Kiwanis Club Friday night, reviewed his recent appeal to congressional committees not to increase the tax on cigarettes.

He reminded that the present federal tax on cigarettes is 7 cents, and declared it will cause a hardship if the government adds three cents to the already excessive tax. Lanier expressed the belief that only one cent will be added.

B. B. Sugg, president of the State Bank and Trust Company, introduced the speaker.

The tobacco taxes — local, state and federal — total nearly two and a half billion dollars, and 96 percent of that comes from cigarettes. Lanier referred to the newspaper report of his plea to the congressional committees. He recalled the low price of 8¢ a pound for tobacco in 1931, before control of the crop was contracted. He reviewed the agreement with the three big cigarette manufacturers. The price was higher as a result of control.

Lanier smilingly recited the incident in which Henry A. Wallace was secretary of agriculture and refused to sign the tobacco control contract. Wallace signed, he said after he received a note from President Franklin D. Roosevelt, ordering him to sign it.

In his review of the history of tobacco control, Lanier, who is executive secretary of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters' Association, Inc., said "We have prospered under control, but we must be careful not to overdo the things, and bring on antagonistic action by some other farming interests." He quoted two Duke University professors as saying the tobacco control act is in restraint of trade and a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. In concluding he again warned tobacco growers against the dangers of developing a monopoly.

Dr. H. Glenn Hanes, president, recently returned from his vacation, presided.

Who Calls . . .

corps commander regarded as a rising politico-military figure, and Gen. Halseh Fang, otherwise unknown.

Fang's position is particularly intriguing. Nam II has been seen on numerous occasions to glance at him as if for a nod of approval. Fang sends him frequent notes, and even gives the final word before Nam II agrees to recesses for lunch.

Nam II moreover seldom speaks extemporaneously. Or if he does, he merely repeats what he has said before — the strict line laid down for him in advance. All his long speeches are prepared in advance.

He often has been seen to glance at his watch before reading a statement, as though to check his time schedule. He undoubtedly was following instructions when he sat in complete silence for two hours and 11 minutes last Friday.

Trio Negroes Will Be Tried Charge Disturbing Peace

Police issued warrants charging three disturbing the peace against three Negroes shortly after last midnight at 1206 Greene street.

They arrested Beatrice Miller, 35, 1206 Greene street; Everett House, 33, and Nellie Carr House, 43, 1202 Clark street. The cases were to be tried in Police Court today.

First Fires In 2-Week Period This Morning

Greenville firemen answered their first fire alarm in over two weeks this morning shortly after eight o'clock when a fire broke out in a house occupied by Jake Green in Allen's Alley.

Moderate damage was caused by the blaze believed to have originated from defective wiring.

A tobacco barn on the Leslie Humbles farm at Frog Level was destroyed by fire this morning, but a fire truck from the Greenville Fire Department prevented the spread of the blaze to a nearby barn and shed.

The barn which was full with top grade tobacco was owned by Lee Coward, a tenant on the Humbles farm.

The fire was discovered around nine o'clock this morning.

No estimate as to the amount of damage caused by the blaze was given.

Potential . . .

crat a lot of Republicans backing him now as their candidate would be badly embarrassed. They could not very well campaign against him later.

From what he's said in the past, Eisenhower doesn't seem very close to Mr. Truman's thinking on domestic affairs.

But the General is much closer to the President's views on foreign affairs than he is to Senator Taft's. The General and the President both want strong military alliance with Europe, backed up by a lot of American aid.

Taft, from away back, hasn't been very warm about close tie-ups with Europe as a few items from his record will show:

He was against lend-lease before we got into World War II, although he supported it after we did; he was against sending 50 destroyers to Britain even when she was backed to the wall by Nazi Germany; he opposed the legislation which made us an active part of the United Nations; and he opposed the Atlantic Pact which put us into the present alliance with Europe as part of which Eisenhower is now in Europe, trying to build up western defenses.

Still, the experts don't seem to think the following could happen, even though anything seems possible in politics:

If Mr. Truman doesn't run and Taft clinches the Republican nomination because he differs so much from Taft on foreign affairs.

Chicod Teaching Staff Announced

Twenty-one teachers have been named to the staff of Chicod High School for the coming school year.

Fodie H. Hodges will serve as principal and the following teachers make up the staff:

Eugene James, Sarah E. Perkins, Olive McCallum Smith, Eugene Morris, Newsome Worsley, Winifred Birch, Kathryn G. Edwards, Vera L. Claybrook, Linwood C. Lewis, Rosa D. Duboise, Edith D. Cain, Frances C. Tyson, Ina T. Venters, Frances S. Peters, Verna B. McGee, Gladys Stokes, Elnora M. Cowart, Pauline H. Spain, Vivian E. Mills, Elizabeth C. Langley, and Viola G. Underwood.

HD Clubs Hold Annual Picnics

Home Demonstration clubs in the county are holding annual club picnics this month.

It is a custom of the clubs to hold a picnic at the end of the summer and to include the entire family. Most of the home demonstration clubs have already had their picnics and the others will have theirs by the end of the month.

The recreation leader in each club is in charge of the picnic and has charge of the entertainment which includes dancing, singing, and contests.

Colored News

Mr. Wiley Langley of Falcotus died Sunday, August 12, about 8:15 o'clock. He has a wife, three daughters, Mrs. Claude Chance of Greenville, Miss Nora Langley and Ella Langley of Philadelphia.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

All members of the 20th Century Club are requested to be present at a call meeting Tuesday night, Aug. 14, at 8 o'clock at Bell's Place.

Business of importance will be discussed.

proposal for a cease-fire and a demilitarized buffer zone along the present battlefield, at some places 30 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

"The proposed zone was given to you for the purpose of providing a clear and concise understanding of our concept of a demilitarized zone reflecting the current military realities," Joy told Nam II.

"We have repeatedly stated that we are willing to discuss this proposal jointly on a map with a view to making such adjustments as would be acceptable to both parties.

"We would listen attentively to any views you may care to present on a demarcation line and demilitarized line based on the battlefield and existing over-all military situation. Have you any adjustments to propose?"

But Nam II did not rise to the bait. He stuck to his old demand for an Allied withdrawal south of the 38th Parallel.

He said Joy's reply was "not satisfactory." He obviously had prepared his "not satisfactory" statement before he had heard the U.N. representative's reply. Even translations of it were ready for the interpreters.

Nam II attacked the Allied position as "arrogant, absurd and self-contradictory." He said the Commission who suffered chest injuries.

The accident occurred on the Renslow highway two miles west of Winterville about 8:30 this morning.

According to information given by Patrolman Whitley, the girl was one of a crew of tobacco hands on a truck driven by Johnnie Smith Jr. of Route 1, Winterville.

Smith stated that the hat of one girl blew off and that the Harris girl got off the truck without his knowing it. However, he stated that the workers on the back of the truck knew that she was off but failed to give any warning when he backed up.

Two persons were taken to a Kingston hospital early this morning when their automobile went out of control on a curve leading into Scurfieton around seven o'clock.

Names of the persons injured were not known at the time, Whitley said.
