Hope Abandoned For Restoration Of House Cut In Foreign Aid Fund

Administration Leaders Concede Impossible Task To Get Full Amount

WASHINGTON (UP)—Administration forces abandoned most hope today of restoring much of the $1,001,250,000 which the House cut from President Truman's foreign aid program of $8,500,000,000.

Although the Senate has yet to act on the military and economic assistance program, administration spokesmen conceded that they face an impossible task in trying to get the full amount requested by Mr. Truman.

They were prepared to settle for considerably less. Even if the Senate should approve the full $8,500,000,000 request, which appeared unlikely, senators still would have to agree to a compromise figure that the House would approve.

The House made it clear in approving a $7,498,750,000 program last night that it would not go nearly so far as Mr. Truman asked in making money and munitions available to friendly foreign nations.

House administration leaders had figured they were in relatively good shape before the final round of voting. The Foreign Affairs Committee had cut $651,250,000 from the legislation, and all further attempts to cut it further had been defeated—until the last minute.

Then Rep. B. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn) former GOP national chairman, moved for an additional cut of $350,000,000. He proposed that it be sliced from the $1,353,000,000 in economic aid for Europe.

Democrats had succeeded in defeating a $300,000,000 reduction in the same item, and thought they had the votes to whip Reece. But they were defeated, 186 to 177.

Except for the $651,000,000 which the committee had chopped from the bill, Reece's action was the only major reversal suffered by administration forces.

The house approved the bill, 260 to 101, after making the cut. The bulk of the $7,498,750,000 would go to Europe. The sum includes $5,028,000,000 in military aid and $2,470,750,000 in economic help.

In addition to providing funds for arming America's allies and building up their industrial capacity for production of military and civilian goods, the house-approved legislation would establish a new mutual security administration to handle the whole foreign aid program.

The administrator of the new agency would have cabinet status and direct access to the president.

Suggests West Build Cominform

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev) has proposed that the United States set up the "equivalent of the Cominform" to help overthrow the Russian dictatorship.

In a television interview last night, McCarran also suggested that America arm refugees from Communist nations to promote revolution and to support "underground insurgent groups" behind the Iron Curtain.

Gov't Employ Total Up 45,000

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government added 45,065 persons to the federal pay roll during June, making a total of 2,489,531 civilian government employees, the Civil Service Commission reported today.

Military departments accounted for 60 per cent of the increase and seasonal increases in the Interior counted for 20 per cent. Only the Veterans Administration reported a sizeable decrease, the report said.

Incentive Pay Cited As 'Only Solution' To Consumers' Needs

By ROGER W. BABSON GLOUCESTER, Mass. — I was asked by a Boston friend to help him find a cottage in Gloucester which he could rent for the summer. On the following Saturday, we visited three real estate offices and all were closed. They were locked and bolted!

Why Merchants Lack Customers Upon inquiring the reason, I learned that, in view of the recent raise in wages and the forty-hour week law, the real estate and insurance offices tried to "make both ends meet" by closing on Saturday. This resulted in enabling the office clerks to have more time to themselves; but let us look at the result to the other parties involved.

This closing of the real estate office prevented my friend from renting a cottage because he could come down to look at cottages only during a week end. The next two week ends were cold and rainy. This caused him to give up renting any cottage this season. I find this

U. S. And Red Jets Clash In Two Thundering Air Battles

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS (AP)—U. S. and Red jets fought two thundering battles over northwest Korea today in the first large-scale air action in more than a month. U. S. Fifth Air Force said one Red fighter was damaged in the first clash and one was "probably destroyed" in the second.

The Air Force said all the American F-86 Sabre jets in both battles returned safely to their bases. Twenty-eight Sabres tangled with 24 Russian type MIG-15s between 15,000 and 35,000 feet in the second fight. Lt. Charles F. Loyd, Marion, Ky., was credited with the probable.

In the earlier fight, 29 Sabres collided with 30 Red jets. The battle, 6,000 feet over Seonchon, lasted five minutes. The MIGs broke off the fight and flew north. It was the first large scale jet air battle since July 11. The Sabre jets, of the Fourth Fighter Interceptor Wing, were flying top cover for a flight of F-80 Shooting Star jets attacking military targets when they intercepted the MIGs.

United Nations and Communist infantry fought hand-to-hand battles at both ends of the Korean battle line yesterday. In the center of the 140-mile front, one allied patrol probed within sight of Pyongyang, then withdrew under enemy fire. In all there were five small patrol skirmishes in the sector, once the Communist "iron triangle" buildup area.

Chinese troops, attacking in the west in the Yonchon sector, 35 air miles north of Seoul, were repulsed. Thirty-one Chinese were killed and 33 taken prisoner. On the eastern end of the line, U. N. forces fought to dislodge the MIGs.

Parachutists In War Games Test

TWO RANGER COMPANIES DROP INTO ENEMY TERRITORY

FORT BRAGG, N. C. (UP)—Two companies of Rangers, rough, tough masters of knife and garrote fighting, parachuted into "enemy" territory today in the first airborne maneuver of the Carolina war games.

They were assigned to make swift guerrilla raids at enemy command posts, execute a quick reconnaissance mission, and work their way some four miles back to their own lines. The Rangers form a special section of the New England 43rd Infantry Division, which received its baptism of fire yesterday as it teamed with the Pennsylvania 28th to drive the first U.S. counter-punch against Aggressor forces.

Commanded by Brig. Gen. Henry J. D. Meyers, who recently returned from Korea, the Aggressor army and air force serve as a training aid in the "Southern Pine" maneuver. Their attack yesterday assessed heavy losses for the failure of the two former National Guard divisions to maintain contact.

The 2nd Battalion of the 43rd's 172nd Regiment took most of the punishment. Aggressor Capt. A. H. Wood of Montclair, N. J., said he surprised two of the battalion's companies at breakfast after leading pre-dawn patrols four miles into U. S. territory without encountering a single outpost.

THREE NEW SCHOOLS WASHINGTON (UP)—Three more officer candidate schools will be opened on Sept. 1, the Army announced today, at Fort Belvoir, Va.; Fort Monmouth, N. J., and Fort Knox, Ky.

Not Worried

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida told parliament today that "a state of war" will continue between Japan and powers not signing the peace treaty at San Francisco next month.

He told a questioner however, that he does not believe these powers will threaten Japan's independence. Yoshida said the question of inviting Communist or National China was up to the Allied powers. Japan has no right to intervene. Councillor Makoto Hori of the minor Labor-Farmer party asked the questions.

Contract Issues Settlement Seen

Tobacco Firms And Union Hope Reach Accord Next Week

By JOHN D. SPINKS, JR. All indications in the management-labor bargaining of three tobacco companies here point toward a final settlement of grievances sometime next week.

At that time both management and labor of Person-Garret, E. B. Picklen and Greenville Tobacco Companies will get together for the tenth time this year. None of the three independent companies has a contract as yet with their employees. However, representatives from both sides are hoping for a settlement shortly after the market opens Tuesday.

Today the secretary-treasurer of the FTA-DPOE union here stated that everything depends on next week's meeting. She is Annie Street, Negro of 205 W. Fourteenth Street, who sometime ago assumed the duties of secretary-treasurer of the local.

She told a Reflector staff writer this morning that she could not speak for the union because "I'm just one of them" (the union members). However, she said, a statement concerning the outcome of the meeting will be forthcoming at a later date.

As yet there has been no indication that tobacco workers will walk out if they don't get a contract. Mrs. Street stated she didn't know what will happen along that line, although "the people are very much disturbed."

Thursday the police department heard a rumor that there was a possibility of a walkout either that day or in the near future. Police Chief Guy Langston stated yesterday that he and several of his officers had visited the companies involved in the bargaining with an eye toward getting the lay of the land if a walkout was staged.

However, he said, the rumor proved to be just a rumor and nothing ever came of it. If one does occur, he said, his officers will be stationed about the entrances and exits of the firms in an effort to maintain order.

Russia Re-Opens Lend-Lease Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has arranged a meeting of Russian and American experts here next Tuesday to take another look at Russia's six-year-old $11,000,000,000 lend-lease bill.

The meeting was Moscow's idea. Without advance warning, the State Department said yesterday a Soviet embassy translator popped into a department official's office last Wednesday and announced that Moscow wants to talk lend-lease again.

The translator, one Myschkov, has a habit of showing up unannounced, the department said. This time he walked into the office of department official George Truesdell.

Truesdell said Myschkov did the same thing several times before when he wanted to talk with various U.S. officials connected with lend-lease. Usually, foreign representatives telephone the department in advance of any official calls.

Truesdell said Myschkov ignored a question whether Russia had anything new or "constructive" to offer in way of settling the deadlocked lend-lease account.

Towers In Microwave System

Here are two types of relay towers used in the $40,000,000 Microwave radio beam system spanning the continent which went into operation Friday for long distance telephone service. There are 107 towers between New York and San Francisco. The system is owned and operated by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. In addition to telephone service, it is due to carry network television from coast to coast, starting Sept. 30. The steel tower at left is near Salt Lake City, Utah. Changes Announced For East Carolina's Staff

Dr. O. L. Phillips To Become New Registrar; Long New Director Of Department Of Education This Fall

President John D. Messick of East Carolina College has announced several changes among administrative officers and heads which will become effective at the beginning of the fall quarter, September 3. New appointments as registrar, director of the Bureau of Field Services and Extension director of the department of education, and assistant dean of women have been made.

Dr. J. K. Long, registrar at the college for the past four years, will become director of the department of education this fall. A native of Seaboard, N. C., Dr. Long served in public schools in North Carolina as teacher and principal and later was for eight years superintendent of the Louisville, Kentucky, schools, where he was in charge of work in secondary education. As director of the department, he succeeds Dr. Allan S. Hurlburt, who resigned after a year's leave of absence, 1950-1951, during which he worked with the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

Dr. Orval L. Phillips will become East Carolina's new registrar in September. During 1950-1951 he directed the Bureau of Field Services and Extension at the college here. Before joining the East Carolina faculty, he was head of the department of mathematics at Mississippi Southern, Hattiesburg.

Dr. Ed J. Carter, acting head of the department of education during the absence of Dr. Hurlburt, will replace Dr. Phillips as director of the Bureau of Field Services and Extension. A native North Carolinian and a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Dr. Carter was head of the department of education at Murray State College in Kentucky before coming to East Carolina.

Edith Zinn of Altoona, Pennsylvania, has been appointed assistant dean of women, to replace Celia Segerman, who resigned. For the past year Miss Zinn has been a dormitory counselor on the staff of Dean of Women Ruth White of East Carolina. Before coming to the college here, Miss Zinn served at Syracuse University as a member of the student dean corps and at Pennsylvania State College as assistant to the dean of women in charge of the orientation program for new students.

The actual war against Germany ended May 8, 1945, when the German high command surrendered. But a state of war, declared by Congress on Dec. 11, 1941, still exists.

The Allied occupation of Western Germany will continue even after the official state of war is ended, but Germany would be a "friendly" power and no longer an "enemy."

The proposed boycott of Czechoslovakia was included in a resolution condemning the Russian ultimatum for the "sham trial and unjust conviction" of Oatis on spy charges.

The State Department already has started to revoke trade concessions to Czechoslovakia in the hope that this move would help force the Czechs to release Oatis. The third measure would give President Truman some discretion on what nations could be blacklisted for economic and military aid.

Guardsmen Start Summer Training

RALEIGH (UP)—National Guard units throughout North Carolina left home today for Fort McClellan, Ala., to begin their two-week summer training program. About 5,000 Tar Heel guardsmen were scheduled for the program this year, 30th Infantry Division spokesmen said. Several non-divisional Guard units will be attached to the North Carolina-Tennessee division for training this summer.

Most of the guardsmen were leaving aboard 11 special trains from different sections of the state. Others were traveling by motor convoy.

Britain Says Iran Must Accept Proposals Or Negotiations End

TEHRAN (UP)—Britain told Iran today to accept its proposals for settling the oil dispute or British negotiators and British experts in the oil fields will pack up and go home.

The tough British statement came only a few hours before a scheduled show-down negotiating session. It produced an immediate and angry reply from Iran. Vice Premier Hussein Fatemi told newsmen: "We shall not submit to threats of a breakdown in negotiations."

Three Measures Expected To Hit Reds Body Blow

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate leaders today forecast quick passage of three measures which would deal Russia a body blow in the cold war:

1. A resolution officially ending the state of war between the United States and Germany, and clearing the way for Western Germany to rejoin the family of non-Communist nations as an equal.

2. A boycott of all U.S. trade with Czechoslovakia until American newsman William N. Oatis is released from prison.

3. Legislation to cut off all U.S. economic and military aid to nations shipping war goods to Russian-dominated countries.

All three moves recently were approved overwhelmingly by the House. The Senate Foreign Relations committee approved them unanimously late yesterday and sent them to the Senate for action. Approval is expected within a week.

The two United Nations and Communist generals were observed through the entrance to the Kaesong conference room standing around a map on which they designated various points as they talked.

The meeting lasted for three hours and 19 minutes, late into the sweltering afternoon. A third session was called for 11 a. m. Sunday (8 p. m. Saturday EST).

As with the initial session Friday, the four delegates appeared relaxed as they talked. The previous session of the full plenary sessions was absent. Outbursts of laughter were heard.

Hopes rose in U.N. circles that the subcommittee would succeed in breaking the deadlock over location of a cease-fire line that stylized the last 15 meetings of the full plenary.

The optimism was buoyed by the continued good humor of the subcommittee members and a terse briefing broadcast that the delegates at their first meeting Friday had "carried out the first-step discussions on the method of solving the deadlock."

The main truce talks were recessed Thursday to give the subcommittee a chance. The Communists had been demanding a cease-fire demarcation line and buffer zone along the 38th parallel.

stand on the principles of my eight-point proposals," Stokes said. "They are the best offer I can make. I have no alternative. On that basis, I am prepared to negotiate."

Stokes' proposals call for a British-run purchasing organization to market Iran's oil and a 50-50 split between the two countries in oil revenue. They acknowledge Iran's ownership of the oil industry, however, and would turn over all holdings of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. to a purely Iranian concern.

View Probable Adoption Of MacArthur's Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three senators said today if Kaesong truce talks fall the United Nations may strike the Red Chinese in Korea with the sort of warfare proposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, told reporters he thinks the U. N. "will have to adopt the MacArthur program if the truce talks fall."

MacArthur, ousted as Pacific commander by President Truman, called for the bombing of Manchurian Communist bases, a naval and economic blockade of China and use of Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa. Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), one of eight Republicans joining in a statement condemning MacArthur's ouster, said in an interview he has no doubt that the MacArthur program will be called into play immediately if it is determined that the Chinese Reds won't agree to a truce.

"I am certainly supporting Gen. Ridgway's position that the fighting cannot be halted on the basis of the 38th parallel as the dividing line between North and South Korea," Smith said.

Without direct reference to MacArthur's proposals, Senator Russell (D-Ga.) told reporters if there is no peace, the U. N.'s answer will be "vigorous" warfare against the Red Chinese.

Chief UN Truce Negotiator Warns Collapse Would Give Reds Big Advantage; Subcommittee Men Apparently Making Progress In Buffer Zone Talks

PEACE CAMP, Korea (UP)—The chief U. N. truce negotiator warned tonight that it would "definitely be foolhardy, and perhaps be disastrous" to draw a cease-fire line along the 38th Parallel as the Communists demand.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy made the statement as a four-man armistice subcommittee prepared to meet for the third time in Kaesong to try to agree on an armistice line.

Joy pointed out that under international law the Communists could legally at any time give notice to end an armistice after taking advantage of it to build up their forces.

"It was reported that the subcommittee men seemed to be making progress in a friendly atmosphere. But the war suddenly flamed up to fury again, while the subcommittee men talked Saturday."

A formal statement by Joy made clear to the Communists the exact position of the U. N. on the truce-line deadlock. The Allies want a line based on the present front, the Communists demand a line drawn on the 38th Parallel.

"It would definitely be foolhardy, and perhaps be disastrous, for either commander to expose his forces along a political demarcation line rather than to place them in a sound militarily defensible position where they can protect themselves in the unfortunate event hostilities should be resumed," Joy said.

"We must retain defensive positions. We must keep our military guard up until the final settlement of the Korean problem seems assured."

Joy said during an armistice the enemy could continue to build up his forces while "the U. N. command today is already at peak efficiency, well organized in combat formation and well supplied."

Joy spoke after the session at Kaesong which aroused new hopes of agreement.

Churches of Christ, Scientist The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches Sunday will be "Soul."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (131:1,4). "Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. . . Show me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths. . . Selections from the Bible include: "For the Lord God is a sun and shield; the Lord will give grace and glory; no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly." (Ps. 84:11)

And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Day may decline and shadows fall, but darkness flies when the earth has again turned upon its axis. The sun is not affected by the revolution of the earth. So Science reveals Soul as God, untouched by sin and death—as the central Life and intelligence around which circle harmoniously all things in the systems of Mind." (Pg. 310)

Evangelist Talks At Kiwanis Meet

Your best partner in this world is the Lord Jesus Christ. Rev. Oliver B. Greene, South Carolina evangelist, declared at the Kiwanis Club last night.

The minister, whose $14,000 tent near the baseball park was blown down during a storm a week ago, said he found special pleasure speaking before a distinguished group of business and professional men.

South America was settled by men seeking gold. North America was settled by men seeking God," the minister said. He said he and Mrs. Greene had been in evangelistic work in the eastern part of the United States 14 years. He explained that much good is done by evangelists in tents, although some of the missions in tents may not be what they should.

"We reach many people—men, women and children—who may not be contacted with the Gospel message in the churches. There's comfort in the knowledge that we are doing good," he said.

He reminded that during a recent revival in Rocky Mount, 150 persons who attended his meetings were baptized in a Baptist church there.

Greene gave a dramatic description of the near destruction of his tent here a week ago during a wind-storm. He said "the future of his work seemed dark, but with the Lord's help we now have 200 feet of the tent in use again and we can carry on our work. The joy of my life is helping men who are down and out."

The Kiwanians invited the evangelist to attend again. Herman H. Duncan had charge of the program. Vice-President Milo Smith presided.

Dr. A. Ward, pastor of the Norway Baptist Church, Norway, B. C. and Claude D. Ward Jr. were guests of the club.

Delegates to the Carolinas Kiwanis District Convention at Raleigh in October will be elected at the next meeting.

Kiwanian Ed Rawl had a birthday and donated a nickel for each year of his age. Kiwanian A. C. Tadioc won the attendance prize. Clifton Edwards will have charge of the program next Friday.

In Tuesday's REFLECTOR

Square dancing held Wednesday night closed out the third annual Greenville Farmer's Day and brought out large numbers of people to take part. Above is a portion of the dancers while a large crowd looks on in the background.

All seats for the performances on the stage during this year's Farmers Day celebration were filled as shown above. The group is watching one of the performances of Hank Snow and his Rainbow Ranch boys. (Reflector Staff Photos By Roy Hardee).

Third Farmers' Day Is Biggest And Best Yet

The fanfare has faded away and the third annual Farmers Day celebration is now recorded as another page in the history of Greenville, one that will be remembered for a long time to come.

This year's celebration which drew about the largest crowd ever to attend one of the events, was staged while many farmers were still engaged in putting in a good part of their 1951 tobacco crop.

However, one thing is certain, the people who did attend this year's celebration left Greenville with a genuine better feeling towards the town than they had before. This is the idea behind the Farmers Day event, the bringing of farm folks of the county into Greenville for a day, or in the case of this year, two days of entertainment, topped off by many free and valuable prizes given away, was well carried out.

Farmers Day was divided into two days this year, making the event even larger and better than ever.

The beauty contest, one of the top crowd gatherers, was staged on Tuesday night with a field of 41 contestants from all over Eastern North Carolina.

A crowd in excess of 2,500 persons jammed into the New Carolina warehouse to watch the two-hour long event which resulted in the selection of pretty 21-year-old Betty Lou Worthington of Ayden as this year's Harvest Queen. In addition to the Queen, a second and third place winners were selected as royal attendants.

Following the beauty contest, a round dance with music by Bob Lee and his dance band was held with a large crowd taking part.

The large New Carolina warehouse was gaily decorated and 33 well-prepared booths dotted its floor. All types of booths, including commercial, school, and educational projects were to be found at this year's Farmers Day.

All day long Wednesday, hundreds of people milled around the warehouse while waiting for the main attractions to start.

An early morning radio show put on by Fred Fletcher and company held on Evans Street at 10:30 started off the morning's events while Hank Snow and his Rainbow Ramblers, along with Bubble Brown, took the spotlight in the afternoon and evening.

Outdoor field events started just after noon, and kept more than 400 persons entertained until time for the main events. Prizes for the winners in each division were given out while the two top winners were presented grand prizes each.

Long before the scheduled start of the evening's performances scores of people were on hand to take front row seats.

The evening's events were begun by Hank Snow, the deep sea fishermen turned hillbilly singer, followed by a large square dance with music by Hal Pollard's band the Bar-X Boys.

Dancing followed until midnight and most of the dancers were willing to keep on for hours more but a halt had to be called.

Thus the final curtain fell on the 1951 edition of the Greenville Farmers Day celebration, reputed to be the biggest and best in the past years, and many of the folks which took part in this year's event were looking forward to next year, when once again it would be Farmers Day time in Greenville.

In spite of 90-degree-plus weather more than 400 persons turned out for the outdoor contests such as the one shown above. Here a tug-of-war team battles against another strong team. Prizes were given to all winners and a grand prize awarded to the boy and girl with the most points at the end of the events.

While everyone else is looking over the displays and taking part in other entertainment at the New Carolina warehouse, these three young ladies pause long enough to blow up large balloons before starting on again.

Hillbilly singer Hank Snow, feature attraction of the 1951 Farmer's Day event goes through one of his routines. Thousands of people were on hand to attend his shows held Wednesday.

This thirsty young lady gets a helping hand from a Greenville fireman as she takes a sip of water. The fountain was just a wee bit too high for her to reach all by herself.

Exhibits such as the one sponsored by the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce shown above, drew large crowds. The exhibit showed the possible progress which Greenville can make in the coming years to develop into a modern industrial town.

Shown above is a project of the Future Farmers of America Clubs. The booth displayed the work carried on by the Pitt FFA Clubs during the year in the schools of the county.

McCarthyism, A New Word In Our Language

He's untamed, but when an indignant outburst is aimed at a "scandal-monger" by an Administration spokesman, the listener or reader isn't slow to think of Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin.

It is recalled how an ex-Marine with a good war reputation, elected to the Senate, used his honored position to throw unsubstantiated, harsh accusations broadcast . . . accusations that wounded deeply and stained reputations of good men as well as occasionally striking a deserved target.

One might liken the senator's tactics to shooting a load of buckshot into a group of chickens with a lone hawk in their midst. The hawk might be hit, but the flock of hens suffer even greater harm.

"McCarthyism" has become a recognized term in the language denoting a scurrilous form of conduct in politics—a field known for its rough-and-tumble campaign tactics.

What a blow to the pride and reputation of any man to be so distinguished!

Still Trying To Make Those Ends Meet

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

One accurate statement that can be made about the average American is that he'll join anything that looks attractive. There are probably ten times more different organizations in America than in any country in the world.

Yesterday I heard about a new one: the Optimist Club. If the world is treating you pretty rough, you're having trouble meeting all the bills, the war news is worrying you, your children are sick and your car is on the blink, forget it and smile! Much easier said than done, right? The Optimist Club was formed to help people in such shape forget their worries.

Already there are 750 of these clubs in America, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, England, and Australia, plus 30,000 wives in their ladies auxiliaries, the Opt-Mrs.

Norman J. Ubricht, assistant secretary of this movement, says, "We think that if you think happy thoughts you'll live a happier life. Of course you don't have to blink your eyes at problems. We just think they can be worked out without a defeatist attitude. Why, if you'll wake up mornings thinking you'll have a pleasant surprise that day you can be happy just living in anticipation of it!"

Members of the Optimist Clubs don't spend all their time making just themselves happy. They go to the bedside of sick children. They improve their home communities by plugging a variety of campaigns and contests. Best of all, they call themselves "the friend of the boy" and run some 300 local boys clubs and camps at an annual cost of one million dollars.

Many mayors and congressmen are Optimists, and for more common professions like lawyers, doctors and car dealers there is a quota system so that local clubs maintain a cross-section of interests.

James Stewart of the movies was a charter member of the Optimist Club in Indiana, Pennsylvania, his home town. The late Tom Breneman belonged. So does Clarence G. Nash who furnishes the voice for Donald Duck in the movies.

President Truman is the first Chief Executive to be a member. When the membership was presented to him early during his first term he remarked that he belonged to the Kansas City club years ago.

The creed of the club should be read at least once a day by all members:

"Promise yourself—
... to talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet.
... to look at the sunny side of everything and make optimism come true.
... to wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile.
... to be sure of the future and be confident of success.
... to live and let live.
... to be a cheerleader for the good and the right.
... to be a friend to the poor and the unfortunate.
... to be a neighbor to the neighbor.
... to be a citizen to the citizen.
... to be a patriot to the nation.
... to be a friend to the world.
... to be a friend to the human race.
... to be a friend to the universe.
... to be a friend to the God of the universe.
... to be a friend to the God of the universe."

GEOGRAPHY — The most serious geographic handicap facing William Umstead of Durham, Capus Wayne of High Point, Harry Caldwell of Greensboro, Orange, Alamance or Guilford, will not be the traditional east-west rotation system. It will be the record of how Governor Kerr Scott has concentrated the administration of state government during his term of office in that small sector of the state within a fifty mile radius of his home at Haw River, and mostly within the borders of the sixth congressional district comprising the four counties named. The dividing line between east and west is uncertain. Boundaries of the sixth congressional district are easily determined, and the Haw River home of the governor as central point of state administrative officials is just as easy to locate on the map.

CONCENTRATED — The voters of the state as a whole are responsible for some of the concentration of authority in this small area. They elected Kerr Scott of Haw River as governor, Henry Bridges of Greensboro, the sixth district, as commissioner of labor, all from the sixth district. Governor Scott, by exercise of his appointive power, made sure that his congressional district and immediate environs should completely control the state government. Besides having the governor and two members of the seven-member council of state, the sixth district has nearly all of the really important appointive offices; and several others have been given to men living in counties contiguous to that smallest of the state's twelve congressional districts.

APPOINTMENTS — Eugene Shaw, commissioner of revenue, charged with collection of state-levied taxes, hails from Guilford county. So does David S. Coltrane, assistant director of the budget, charged with keeping check on expenditure of the money collected by his fellow countryman.

OTHERS — The director of purchase and contract is Charles M. Williams of Alamance, in the sixth district. E. A. Jones, director of civilian defense, and "Tarvia" Jones, director of highway safety, also come from the governor's home county of Alamance. So does James A. Barnwell, one of the ten highway commissioners. With three industrial commissioners to name, Governor Scott went to his own district for one of them and appointed Bob Scott of Durham (no kin to the governor so far as records show). With two appointments to the advisory budget commission the governor also went to his own district to pick Harry Caldwell of Guilford. This list does not include many secondary place appointments from the governor's own neighborhood. It does prove that with the collector of state taxes (commissioner of revenue); the head of the purchase and contract division, in charge of all buying, the assistant director of the budget and one member of the advisory budget commission, all coming from the same district in which the governor himself lives, there can be no question about that area "running the state."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE TAX LOAD (Wilson Daily Times)
When we read, as we did the other day, where every man, woman and child in America bears a tax load, federal, state county and city, of $360 a year, we sometimes shudder. For it means, in a family of four, $1,440 a year. If, then, after checking, we find we're paying less, we give it little thought. But to offset those families that pay less, other families pay more. And we take for granted that that's as it should be, for it's based on the ability to pay. It doesn't occur to us that the family that is carrying our load may be penalized to the point that it can save nothing. Saving nothing, it has no thing to re-invest in new enterprises. Without new enterprises we have no new jobs. Without new jobs how do we absorb a growing population? Where are those youngsters who're now 10 to find work when they reach a working age? Uncle Sam, through taxes, has drawn off the surplus, leaving only enough for a normal living. If, for our work, we're to get only a living, what incentive is there to prospect new fields? A lot who think that the rich are paying take that position. But it's a position that is quite likely to affect their children when those children start looking for work some 10 years hence. America can't expand without capital. In the era when taxation was low, much in the way of venture capital built our vast enterprises of today. True, in many cases, it made money for the ventures. But it likewise made jobs for those who lacked the capital to venture. It was in those eras that we really built America. It's only in the last 20 years that we've been claiming that that sort of thing was unsocial, that we've been using taxation to penalize those who had a hand in that building. But some penalties can be carried too far. It now begins to look as if the one we call taxation has been. For $360 a year per man, woman and child is far too much.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
The efficiency of retail sales persons is declining again, dropping back to levels of World War II. Because so many retailers are unable to cope with the problem, more manufacturers are attempting to tackle the problem.

There have been a number of surveys of retail selling recently. Each one has indicated that dangerously high percentages of retail sales people do not know the products they sell or how to go about selling them. Sales Management has made a regular feature of the experiences of its staff with in-store sales people. It cites instances when the ignorance of sellers is sometimes colossal and often the information they offer is false or downright silly. The magazine names stores and products, sparing no one's feelings.

Retail management is not entirely to blame. The lure of defense and government jobs and the draft keep employees turnover rates high and make recruitment of good salesmen difficult. Store owners find the burden of training new employees and retraining old ones costly and time-consuming.

So, in self-defense, more manufacturers are stepping in and offering retailers help. More of them are using tags and labels on which the selling points of an article are spelled out. Even if an employee won't bother to read the tags, there is always a chance that the customer will. More manufacturers are supplying booklets and leaflets telling how their products can be sold. If employees won't read them, the manager can read them aloud to employees.

Still others are offering training films and a few are actually conducting classes for their retailers' employees. Sometimes the "faculty" travels from store to store; at other times the manufacturer conducts sessions at their plants or at central locations in various marketing areas.

There will be more of this as trained sales manpower grows scarcer. More manufacturers will face the choice of developing programs to teach store employees how to sell their products or of watching their goods lie idle on shelves.

BROOMS GO UP
Broomcorn is scarce. Prices have gone to $450 and $500 a ton.

GUARANTEES ARE NOW ON THE OTHER END
While cotton has shown weakness in price because of large inventories and the predicted large cotton crop this year, one of the leading manufacturers has guaranteed that its wholesale prices will not be cut before Christmas.

This may help stabilize the market.

It is interesting to note, however, that just a year ago some manufacturers were guaranteeing their prices against rises.

WHAM WHAM UP AGAINST
The Communists have a philosophy, a program, a passion.
Lack of these three factors. They have a philosophy. And their philosophy is to get power into their own hands, and to decide the populace into believing that they are doing all this for themselves but for the beloved common people.
Their program is always to have on hand plenty of stout clubs, a pistol or two, and to call in the scientist to administer habit-forming drugs in order to get a "confession" from someone they have kidnapped. They believe in concentration camps. They are quite sure that slave labor is profitable. They are willing to give up butter—or better still, have somebody else give it up—in order that they may accumulate armament and territory weak nations; or perhaps strong nations which have lost the will to fight.
Their passion arises from the fact that they know what they want, they have no scruples about getting what they want, and they live in a world filled with discontented men who are willing to listen to their strenuous melodies.
Democracy has the truth, but often it does not have the philosophy or the program or the passion to implement the truth.

News Behind The News
Every Saturday this column is devoted to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6306 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—I read so much these days about Communist diplomatic gains, Communist ploys, Communist fighting," writes T.P.M. of Houston, Texas, "that I fear they are stealing a march on sleeping Americans. Are the Communists gaining throughout the world?"
Answer: The answer is no, positively no in the overall picture. Here in Washington is the nerve center of information pouring into various American departments and into all the embassies of different nations.

From this vantage point it can be stated that Stalin has less chance of gaining world domination now than before Korea or any previous date. The free world is gaining in physical resources, military strength and moral courage. If we keep up the pace, we can never be overtaken.

Let's glance at a couple of gains. The first objective of Reds in a country is to win control of parliament by legal methods—in other words, elect a majority favorable to Moscow. Seizure comes later.

DANGER—Britain defeated the two Communists who had been members of Parliament. The number of Communists in the Netherlands legislature of 100 members dropped from ten to eight. In Belgium the Reds slumped from 23 to seven. In France the Communist membership has been reduced from 181 to 101. Norway kicked out her entire 11 Communists. In Austria, where the Russians share control, in the postwar parliamentary election the Reds won only five in 168 seats. In the national elections of the Federal Republic of Germany no Communist parliamentary candidate gained a majority vote in his district. Proportional representation, however, gives Stalin's stooges 18 out of the 402 seats in the Bundestag.

A couple of years ago there was great danger that the Communists, taking advantage of the democratic voting system, would capture parliaments and hence cabinets in France, Italy and Belgium. That danger is past.

ENCOURAGEMENT—It is now too late for them to try another Czech coup by force of arms and police clubs.

Here's one more little known sign of encouragement. Millions of Chinese live outside the territorial limits of China, especially in the East, where they control a large share of the trade. When Chiang Kai-shek was driven to Formosa, many cosmopolitan Chinese resented that they might as well "accept the situation" and do business with Red China.

Even some American Chinese did. But soon they discovered that money remitted to relatives was not reaching their kin, that trade was ruined and their homeland families were persecuted. So they broke with Communist China.

Similar breaks occurred in the Chinese colonies in Japan, Malaya, Indo-China, Indonesia, Burma and the Philippines. This swing back started last June. A large delegation of Malayan Chinese merchants visited Chiang in Formosa, pledging opposition to Mao Tse-tung. Cynical, shrewd Chinese speculators are gambling that the Communists are losing.

CRISIS—"Why doesn't Congress quit and go home?" asks R.C.F. of Patterson, N.J.
Answer: Because its work isn't finished yet. After the various defense appropriation bills are out of the way will come the tax bill and several other special bills of legislation. Leaders in both houses now forecast October as the wind-up.

It's easy for laymen to picture all politicians as a bunch of lazy, ranting, greedy, slippery, half-witted demagogues. But that night club comedian approach is utterly unfair.

There are screwballs in every legislature. But the number of Heflins and Bilbos and Huey Longs grows less. Most Congressmen of either party try to master complicated bills and keep exacting constituents satisfied.

Sessions last longer today because we live in a continuous world crisis in which the United States is the recognized world leader. Our legislature, therefore, is the most important law-making body on earth. Its decisions affect the whole globe and the peace of that globe.

GLAMOR—"Now that Margaret Truman has dazed Europe and Princess Elizabeth is coming here in October to charm Americans," writes Mrs. K.G.R. of Topeka, Kansas, "why doesn't America send us her glamorous girl, Eva Peron, to spread diplomatic goodwill and ease some of the grimness between Washington and Buenos Aires?"
Answer: I put that question to the new Argentine Ambassador Hipolito Jesus Paz. "Why she's working 14 hours a day with her charities," he explained. "Besides, there is to be an election in November."

No government uses sex appeal with the finesse of the Argentine regime. Many of its official publications on economics and social problems are adorned with the portrait of the General's pretty wife, beautifully retouched and in full colors, better than many a North American movie magazine cover.

Inside illustrations show Eva paying orphan babies or shaking hands with aged people. It may be bunk or showmanship or love of limelight, but at least she does that sort of thing all the time.

Eva is not modest in campaigning for her husband. An American candidate's wife on the stump usually smiles and keeps in the background. Eva seizes every chance to speak.

"Your Excellency," she called out to her husband at a recent jam-packed meeting, "we enjoy having in our midst a man of your caliber, who is building our country's greatness without hesitating because you are illuminated by a star so great and so pure in its light that it can only be designated with the destiny of a star."

No shrinking violets, the Perons.

STEEL—"Since steel is the backbone of war and defense," writes M.G.L. of Spokane, Washington, "how well are we doing in steel production?"
Answer: For the first seven months of this year the production of steel almost equaled the entire output of 1944. It was 60,968,000 tons, a world record. Among our European Allies steel production, which in 1947 was down to 65 per cent of the prewar level, was up to 112 per cent of this level in 1950.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK —(AP)— To the Hon. Trygve Lie, Secretary General, The United Nations.
Dear Mr. Lie:
The other day a friend took me into a fashionable men's bar in Manhattan. It is as exclusive as $1 a drink can make it. As we stood gulping our ketchup, two middle-aged men dressed with conservative elegance entered and took a place at the bar beside us.

"Know who they are?" whispered my friend.
"Probably a couple of stockbrokers."
"Stockbrokers nothing!" my friend whispered, even lower. "They're about the two biggest gangsters in America. They really run the underworld, and they hang out here every afternoon."
Well, Mr. Lie, the two men ordered a fine old brandy. And as they sipped it I couldn't help overhearing their conversation. I thought it might interest you. But on account of I am a cautious man, I am going to call them Mr. Manicure and Mr. Mustache—instead of their real names.

"I'm worried about the way the world is going today," began Mr. Manicure.
"Yes, indeed, I know what you mean," said Mr. Mustache. "Nothing but violence, violence, violence—everywhere. It's shocking."
"Why don't they get organized upstairs like we did Downstairs?" continued Mr. Manicure. "It would be a happier world. There would be no gunplay. Everybody could sit down, talk over how to cut up the pie, take his own piece, and go home to his wife and kids."
"I know what you mean," mused Mr. Mustache. "It's cheaper for everybody to make a living by cooperating. That way everybody could have a car and a summer home and eat and drink in the best places. Live and let live, I say."

Mr. Manicure nodded morosely and cuddled his brandy glass in his soft white hand.
"We learned from the old Chicago days there's no profit in rough stuff," he said. "It taught us reality. Rash actions are really uncommercial in the long run. But, internationally, people still seem to prefer to live in the jungle. Don't they know they'll never have peace until they organize and shut all the cheap competition?"

Just then a small mousy drunk—he looked like a bookkeeper on a spree—wandered in. He pushed woefully in between the two men and mumbled, "move over, well, believe me, Mr. Lie, I really, really breath. Nobody shoved gangsters around like that in the 1920's."
"Mr. Manicure merely moved away distastefully. And Mr. Mustache just lifted a finger and pointed. The bartender saw the finger, and made a signal. Then two big house detectives moved in, lifted up the little drunk gently, and carried him out.
"They should catch such bores at the door," murmured Mr. Manicure.
"Yes, this place is getting run-down," replied his colleague.
"Getting back to our subject," said Mr. Manicure. "If we have another international war it may upset our own apple cart. These so-called statesmen are away being in an organization. It's a crime, really a crime."
"Sometimes I think we ought to move in upstairs—just to protect ourselves. If we took over everybody would get a fairer shake of the dice. And there wouldn't be all this violence. What do you think?"
"H-m-m-m," said Mr. Mustache, thoughtfully. "I'm glad to see you thinking along those lines. First, we'd have to—"
Well, Mr. Lie, they dropped their voices then, and I couldn't hear any more. But I thought you might want to know. They could not really do what they say, could they?"
Sincerely,
Wilbur Peebles, Patriot.

Washington Letter

By ROBERT E. GEIGER (For JANE EADS)

WASHINGTON — The boss of the nation's manpower program says women have some wonderful opportunities to take over high-paying jobs if they will train for them.

Arthur S. Flemming, head of the manpower office, has in mind engineering jobs, scientific fields and jobs requiring a high degree of technical skill or knowledge.

"I don't believe there is any branch of engineering in which a woman can't hold down a job just because she is a woman," says Flemming.

"The point is that she must have the knowledge or the skill to compete with men. If a woman has that knowledge or skill she can hold almost any job a man can hold. This was demonstrated in World War II."

Flemming mentioned particularly that the women proved their worth in engineering and other jobs in aircraft manufacture and in many fields of science, particularly in research laboratories.

Except in certain areas of extreme labor shortages, opportunities for women without experience in industry or other activities aren't unlimited today despite the defense program, Flemming says.

About 20,000 women already are employed in this country out of a total labor force of 61,800,000. That means about one-third of the labor force today is composed of women. Most of these women had some training or experience before they got their present jobs. Quite a few gained this experience in World War II. So it would seem that few experienced women now are left without jobs, at least in areas of "critical labor shortages."

At the peak of World War II employment there were around 21,400,000 women in the labor force, or about 38 per cent of the total.

Flemming's advice to women who want jobs but can't find them is to visit the nearest public employment office. If no jobs for women are available in the area, the offices have information on where employment may be available in other states or cities.

But Flemming believes the greatest opportunities now are in engineering and science.

"The colleges should do a better job of pointing up these opportunities to women students," Flemming says. "Employers also should do a better job of utilizing women trained in these fields. Of course there is no problem now about getting jobs for qualified women since the shortage is so great."

Carteret Orders Big Clean-Up On Pinball Machines

BEAUFORT —(AP)— A clean-up drive on pinball machines in Carteret County will begin next week, the Sheriff's department announced today.

The ultimatum on the machines was pronounced by recorder's court Judge Lambert Morris earlier this week in sentencing three persons convicted on charges growing out of recent raids in which a dozen slot machines were seized.

Alfred Cooper, convicted of ownership of slot machines, was fined $1,200 and costs. Judge Morris also ordered $200 fines and costs each for Lucille Downs, operator of the Atlantic Beach Hotel, and Edward (Bud) Dixon, operator of the Ocean King Hotel, following their conviction on charges of operating slot machines.

George Merritt, Jr., operator of the American Legion Club at Swansboro, will be tried next Tuesday. His case was scheduled this week but was postponed.

Sheriff C. Gherman Holland and his deputies assisted SBI agents in the raids which resulted in the arrest of the four.

In ordering the clean-up of pinball machines which can be used for gambling purposes, Judge Morris allowed a week of grace for owners to get the machines out of the county. Some operators in rural areas may not be aware that the machines are illegal, he explained.

Offer Tourists Cold Reception

OSLO —(AP)— When taking a summer cruise to Norway, better bring along some nice warm clothes and your skis.

That at least is the impression of some 100 tourists from many nations, currently on a mid-summer cruise to the Norwegian fjords with the "Stella Polaris".

Driving from Hjoerungfjord, 25 miles south of Aalesund across the mountains to Geirangerfjord, their touring cars were forced to return at the half way mark by a howling snowstorm. A scheduled skiing exhibition by crack Norwegian skiers on what was left of last year's snow was called off—because of too much fresh snow.

A 'Good Day' At Fishing Hole

PUEBLO, Colo. —(AP)— Modern Huck Finns know a good fishing hole when they see one.

When a tank truck from the Colorado Game and Fish Department brought 3,000 trout to dump in Mineral Palace Park Lake, nearly 60 boys, poles in hand, met it.

Before the men finished dumping the pan-size fish, several lads had caught their day's limit of five and headed home. One boy didn't even use a line for one catch. A fish missed the lake and slid under the truck. The boy came up with the fish firmly clutched in his hand.

Valued Safe Has Own Protection

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. —(AP)— Burglars went to a lot of trouble to force their way into the food mart here, then a barking dog scared them off.

It was just as well, Ross Johnson, the owner, doesn't leave his money at the store. Worried about his costly safe, Johnson leaves it open each night with a sign reading "no money in here."

These are the days of innocent childhood, when the world is beautiful and the future is bright; when the morning stars sing together and Nature is attuned to the music of the spheres.

It is a time when boys and girls should heed the counsel of Solomon, who said: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, when the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh when thou shalt say, 'I have no pleasure in them'."

It is a time when parents and teachers and friends should endeavor to fortify youth against the pitfalls of the most dangerous period of human life; when a slip or more serious mistake may take the brightness from the skies and leave only gloom and disillusionment.

Youth needs God—needs a deep sense of the Infinite and Eternal in human life. The churches of this community are endeavoring to meet this need.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court yesterday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee gave James King, Negro, two years on the roads for assault with a deadly weapon. He continued judgment on condition that the defendant pay $50 and costs and pay medical bill and $200 to prosecuting witness in compensation for loss of employment. The court ordered him not to violate any law or city ordinance for two years.

The case against Jesse E. Spruill, Negro, charging assault with a deadly weapon, was dismissed.

Donald E. Lowder, Marine from Camp Lejeune on furlough, was charged with disorderly conduct. Testimony was that he had told his wife he was going to kill himself. Police arrested him on the Coast Line Railroad near Dickinson avenue. The court continued the case.

Assault on a female: James O. Jackson, Negro, six months, suspended for a year on payment of $25, costs deducted and $40 to the prosecuting witness for loss of time and he is to pay the medical bill and not molest his wife, prosecuting witness, or violate any law for a year.

Probable cause was found in the six cases charging R. A. (Bob) Scroggs with forgery and he was under $150 bond in each case. A case in which Scroggs was charged with speeding was transferred to Superior Court.

James King, Negro, was found guilty of possession and transporting non-tax paid whiskey and given six months on the roads. Sentence was suspended for two years on payment of $50, costs deducted. The car in which the whiskey was transported was ordered confiscated and to be sold at public auction. King was ordered to be of good behavior for two years.

Joe Freeman Hyman, Negro, found guilty of assault on a female, was given six months on the roads, sentence suspended one year on payment of $25, costs deducted, and he is to make provision to pay medical bill for prosecuting witness. He is not to violate any law for six months.

Jackie Ray Moyer, Negro, drunk, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted, and he is not to violate any law for six months.

Leonard W. Campbell, trespass and assault, was fined $10.

Leroy Simmons, Negro, was found not guilty of allowing his dog to run at large.

In the case of James Williams, Negro, charged with assault, the wife, with the costs.

Trail Hurricane That Hit Islands

MIAMI—(AP)—Navy planes took off at dawn today to pick up the trail of the hurricane that apparently struck overnight at the British West Indies island of Jamaica.

Communication with Kingston, the Jamaican capital city of 120,000 population, was lost early last night when the airport and radio tower were evacuated.

All efforts early today to learn how the city and the outlying banana and sugar cane lands without the 120-mile-an-hour punch of the storm were fruitless.

The Miami Weather Bureau's last report from the island at 6 p.m. (EST) said rain squalls, the usual prelude to hurricane winds, were pelting the Jamaican coast. The central eye of the storm is believed to have passed Kingston about 10:30 p.m.

"This is a dangerous hurricane," the Weather Bureau said in an advisory at 5 a.m. (EST).

Caution was advised for the Cayman Islands and all other interests in the northwest Caribbean Sea.

POLISH CONSUL QUILTS

OTTAWA (UP)—Zygmunt Ziemiński, 50-year-old Polish consul in Winnipeg, announced today he has cabled his resignation to the Communist government in Warsaw and will seek permission from the Canadian government to stay here.

Demo Senators Win Poll Honors

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Democratic National Committee beamed today at the way party senators "walked away" with honors in a recent poll to determine the "10 best and 10 worst senators."

The committee noted that not only had Paul H. Douglas (Ill.) been chosen "best senator," but that the Republicans "won the 10 Worst sweepstakes by an even wider margin than the Democrats took the 10 Best contest."

In the poll of Washington correspondents conducted by Pageant magazine, Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O) appeared on both lists. That, according to the committee, displayed Taft's "unusual ability to be on all sides of all questions."

Disaster Fund Is Being Depleted

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Red Cross has reported that "substantially all" of its disaster fund, planned to last the entire year, would have to be used for rehabilitation in the Midwest flood area.

President E. Roland Harriman said that at least $10,000,000 of the $11,000,000 set aside for disaster services in 1951-52 would be used to aid 27,000 families stricken by the floods.

He asked the chapters to raise $10,000,000 in the current emergency flood relief drive.

Kids Bruised In Rally For Peron

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Dozens of children nursed bruises today from a mass rush for seats at a youth rally sponsoring the reelection of President of Juan T. Peron.

Free toys and candy were distributed to 30,000 who succeeded in getting into Luna Park stadium for the rally yesterday. Another 100,000 youngsters and their parents were shut out for lack of space.

Circus In Town On August 29th

No circus without clowns and girls

It will soon be circus time. Men may come and empires may crumble, but circuses go on forever.

The King Bros. combined shows with Joe Mix, famous Western screen star, is coming to Greenville on Wednesday, August 29, near the Farmers Warehouse for performances at 2 and 8 p.m. Doors to the menagerie will open at 1 and 7 p.m.

The show is being brought to Greenville under auspices of the Exchange Club.

There are 600 people traveling with the big shows this season in addition to 30 billposters, agents and advertising men who travel in advance. Two special convoys are utilized for transportation. Two hundred and fifty wild animals and a herd of elephants are promised. Indians, cowboys, cowgirls, Cosacs from the bleak Mongolian wastes and rough riders from the tremendous Wild West show headed by Joe Mix, famous star of the moving pictures. It will be a revival of the old West with its picturesque frontier days.

The famous Cristian Family of riders with Lucio, greatest riding comedian of all time, whose act is considered to be the most daring and thrilling the world; Truzzi, internationally famed juggler; John O'Brien and his liberty horses, and the great Davicco and La Louisa, champions of the lofty perch pole, are among highlights of the big show program.

East Germans Rely On Rule By Rubber Stamp

By TOM REEDY
AP Newsfeatures

BERLIN—East German Communists have devised a law-making system that looks . . . on paper . . . like democracy. But it's just as absolute as Hitler's one-man decrees ever were.

Since October, 1949, the Soviet zone has functioned with a "peoples chamber" as a lower house and a "state chamber" as a sort of senate. The Communist-controlled government submits bills to the legislature and "debate" follows. The result is somewhat different from what happens in the American Congress and the British House of Commons.

None Votes No

The so-called Volkskammer has met 31 times in 20 months and debated budgets, laws, resolutions and policies. None of the debate ever developed opposition to the government's proposals. None of the members ever has voted "no."

Fifty-one "laws" have been passed without a single dissent. Two thirds of them were rushed through on caudal reading without the formality of committees considering them, though the committees exist.

The government has gotten all its actions rubber-stamped by the legislature in a total of 131 hours of sessions.

The delegates or deputies have been paid 500 marks a month. Each has now collected 10,000 marks, an average of 75 marks an hour for listening to the Communist bosses, then dutifully saying "yes." (The East German mark is artificially pegged at 4.2017 to the American dollar.)

They are paid more for one hour of doing nothing than the average German in the east receives for two weeks work.

In addition, the deputies enjoy free transport on the railways and city elevated and subway trains and have other special privileges for concerts and theatres.

Dissent Not Safe

Undesirable conduct in the legislature, such as saying "I disagree," would cost the member his favored position in his party as well as in the law-making body. Such a stigma extends down into commercial life so he would be automatically chopping off his chances for earning a living. Ergo, none do.

The Communists brag that the legislature's approval of laws and government actions shows the backing of the people. They blandly ignore that the people never had a chance to choose the members of the legislature but were presented a single ballot to say either "yes" or "no" to the whole kit and kaboodle.

On the other hand, the Communists seize every chance to find fault with the democratic debate in the West German Parliament. Whenever the lawmakers at Bonn exercise their right to say "no," the East Communists maintain that the West Germans are against the government, against the Western Allies, and even against their own freely-chosen political parties.

Study Steps To Bolster Prices

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department, prodded by Southern congressmen, studied the possibility today of holding up soaring cotton prices through bigger exports and government stockpiling.

Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D-NC) of the House Agriculture Committee, said the department would take immediate steps to arrange for Export-Import Bank loans to stimulate cotton exports.

Cooley had a contingent of cotton-belt congressmen which urged in a conference with top department officials yesterday that the government "also" adopt a 2,000,000 bale stockpiling program.

In a statement issued after the conference, the group said that department experts "are going to work immediately" on the stockpiling proposal and will take the matter up with Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

The group warned that "the rush of cotton to the market during the next few weeks may force the price down to support level. For many farmers this would mean an actual loss in their operations this year."

NEW YORK (UP)—Ralph Nichols, 40-year-old clerk, tried hard to commit suicide because he "had a lot of worries," but was in good condition today at Kings County Hospital.

After Nichols was rescued from his gas-filled apartment in Queens yesterday, doctors pumped his stomach and recovered 3-4 quart of wood alcohol, 1-4 pound of DDT, the equivalent of 12 sleeping pills, and 18 aspirin tablets.

Exhibit Includes Painted Skulls From Australia

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—An exhibit showing an unusual treatment of the dead has been installed in the U. S. National Museum here.

The exhibits include four aboriginal skulls from Australia covered with complex, painted designs. The collection represents a phase of an expedition to Australia sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution, the National Geographic Society and the Australian Government in 1948.

The painted skulls, says Frank M. Setzler, head curator of anthropology for the National Museum, are often carried about by a close relative of the deceased, or suspended from a tree limb near a camp. The belief is that possession of the skull will attract the dead person's spirit.

Roads Geared To Careless Drivers

CHICAGO (UP)—Streets and highways that protest, out loud when drivers go on the wrong side of the road are being adopted in many places throughout the nation, the American Public Works Association says.

The warning device is a 24-inch wide concrete separator with a scored surface, placed flat between the traffic lanes. It emits a loud hum when tires run over it and thus warns careless drivers to get back in the right lane.

First used experimentally in New Jersey, it now is being installed in the reconstructed six-lane New London turnpike in Cranston, R. I., the association said.

Chapter 6

Bub took the deck and shuffled clumsily. He spilled some of the cards and said apologetically, "Sorta outa practice, boys. Mebbe I'm gettin' old." He slapped the deck in front of Tex and said, "Cut."

There was a tiny break near the middle of the deck and a bunch told Brent to cut at that point. Bub picked up the deck and dealt.

Biff's first card was a jack, Cuthbert got a six, Brent a nine. Biff's second card was another jack and a flicker of satisfaction crossed his face. Shotgun drew a deuce and swore. Brent's card was a king. Bub gave Williams a five and Shotgun whooped when he got another six. Brent drew a trey. Biff now had a pair of jacks, Shotgun a pair of sixes, Brent was king high.

Slowly Bub dealt the fourth card to Williams. It was a ten. Shotgun got a seven, Brent another nine. The watchers were commenting in low voices; these were surprisingly high hands for three-handed showdown.

The last card to Williams was an ace. Cuthbert yelled, "Hit me!" and yelled louder when a second deuce fell. Two pairs, Williams swore and brushed his cards from the table. Somebody said, "A buck'll get you ten that Tex don't beat those two pairs."

Lil shouted, "I'll take that, sucker!"

The Cockeyed Kid dealt Brent his last card. It was a third nine. There was an instant of dead silence, then bedlam. Lil yelled, "Gimme that sawbuck, Frisco!" and tucked the bill under a garter. She said to Lu Roselle, "That Tex is a lucky guy, ain't he?"

Lu said, "Yeah," and rubbed her cigarette savagely on a tray.

Brent got his right arm beneath Judy's knees and his left below her shoulders. He raised her from the chair and her dark head lolled against his chest. Jack Roselle opened a door in the side of the room and Brent saw a flight of stairs leading to the second floor. He mounted them carrying Judy.

A lamp in a wall bracket burned in the upstairs hall and the door to Lil's room stood open. Brent put Judy on the bed and as he did so the arm which was over his shoulder brushed off his hat. He struck a match and lighted the lamp which stood on a washstand, then went over and looked down at her, and suddenly a wave of tenderness swept over him. He said, "Judy!"

She said, "What?" and sat up. Her eyes were dazed but the dullness had left them. She looked quickly about her, realized where she was and got up. Her knees were so weak that she sat down on the bed again. She stared at him with frightened eyes, then covered her face with her hands and began to cry.

Brent said, "We played a hand of showdown for the fun of putting you to bed. Shotgun, Biff and me. I won, but I reckon you're able to get into bed without help. From now on you'd better drink tea. The next time one of the others might win."

The shoulders ceased their convulsive heaving and she raised her eyes to look at him. What she saw on his face pushed away the terror and brought wonder and gratitude. She said, "Oh, Tex!" and her voice broke.

She stood up and they were but six inches apart. Impulsively she put her hands on his shoulders and raised her lips. "You deserve something for winning and I want to give you—what I can."

He bent over and kissed her. Her lips were soft and sweet like those of an innocent child. She whispered, "As a honkytonk girl I guess I'm a terrible disappointment."

He said deliberately, "I think you're the most wonderful girl in the world. Now get in bed and go to sleep."

He went out and closed the door, her soft, "Goodnight, Tex!" following him. He felt a bit dazed.

Brent went down the stairs, opened the door and entered the barroom. The excitement aroused over the poker hand had not abated; winners of bets were buying drinks and still marveling at the strength of the hands. His entrance brought a silence. Biff Williams said drily, "Fast work, Tex."

Brent leaned against the closed door. He raised an eyebrow and asked, "What's the matter? I was supposed to put her to bed. She's in bed."

"Musta been a tough job," said Biff. "You lost your hat down it."

Brent realized then that he had left his hat in Judy's room.

Shotgun came slouching around the end of the bar, a wolfish grin showing his stained teeth. "You've apt to ketch cold, sonny boy; I'll run upstairs and git it for you."

Brent did not budge from the door. "You needn't bother, Shotgun."

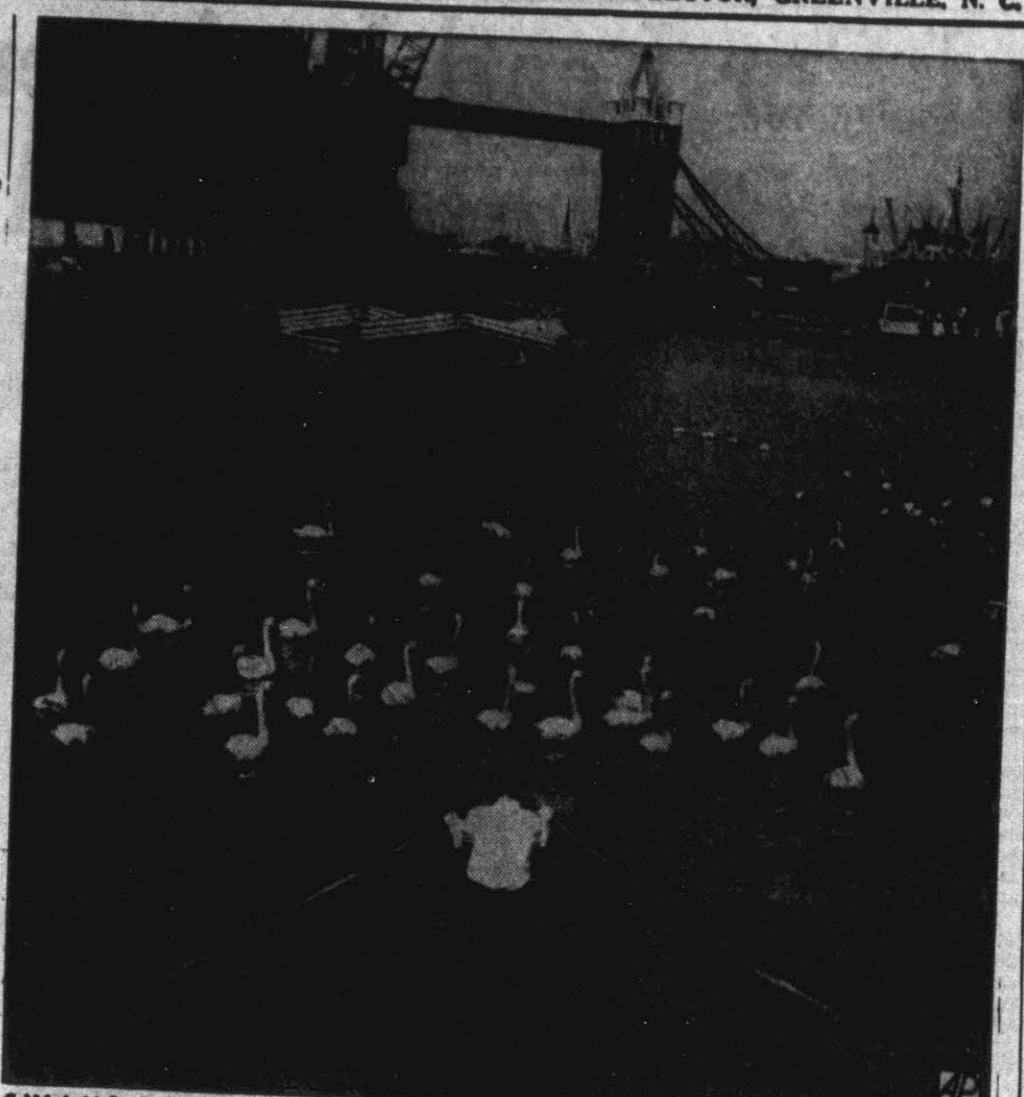

Cold blue eyes met the reddish, bull-like ones in a long stare, then Shotgun shrugged and turned away, passing it off as a joke. "If you ketch lung fever, don't blame me."

He returned to the bar.

Brent crossed the room and sat down in a chair beside Uncle Jim Ferguson. Ferguson asked, "She's all right?"

"Yes. She snapped out of it when I got her upstairs."

"I'm glad to hear it, Tex. I feel responsible for the girl. I'm going on a buying trip tomorrow; I wish you'd sort of keep an eye on her for me while I'm gone, will you?"

Brent said gruffly, "I can't be riding herd on every girl that comes to the Palace. She must realize by now what she's up against."

"Do the best you can, Tex. You are different from the rest of them; I've noticed it from the first. You are educated, you have manners, you're clean. There's not another man in Destiny I'd ask to do this."

He got up. "I'm going to turn in; have to get an early start. See you when I get back."

He went out and Brent sighed. He got up and went over to the bar. He ordered a drink and was loyally with it when he happened to glance towards the doorway. Coming along the aisle between layouts and bar was Cliff Dyrham and his intent gaze was fixed on Brent. He was a formidable appearing man, short and stocky and muscular, with yellow hair and moustache and light blue eyes. The area about his right temple where Brent had kicked him was swollen and blue.

He came up to where Brent was standing and his eyes did their best to drill a hole in Brent's composure. Brent asked, "Run into a door, Cliff?"

"Maybe I did. When did you get back to town?"

"Around supper time."

"Where's your hose?"

"Down at the livery corral."

"I'll be takin' a look at him."

"He's not for sale."

"I'll look at him just the same."

He ordered a drink, downed it and went out.

GI Morale Rising On Aleutian Chain

ANCHORAGE, Alaska —(UP)—Chaplain William M. Perkins, "The Pastor of the Aleutians," says morale among service men stationed on the bleak, fog-shrouded chain is fast regaining pre-Korean heights.

The broad-shouldered Negro captain should know. In the last year he has flown more than 30,000 miles over the Aleutian chain, ministering to the spiritual needs of military personnel.

"Before the Korean war, when men could look forward to just one year on one of the islands, morale on the chain was higher than at most U. S. bases," he said.

"Last year when they froze rotation, it just knocked morale flat. If a fellow was looking forward for a year to ginge home and then he had to stay an additional several months, he'd be likely to go to pieces if he was the highstrung type."

Since restrictions on rotation were relaxed several months ago, morale at the Aleutian bases is climbing back to normal, he said.

Many Flying Trips

The 48-year-old Air Force chaplain made many flying trips to Aleutian military bases while he was stationed at Elmendorf Air Force base here, until last December when he became base chaplain at Shemya, near the tip of the chain.

"While the chain isn't the most enjoyable place to be stationed, it's certainly not like it was during the war," Perkins said. "Nobody has driven off 'Suicide Hill' for a long, long time and few men have to be shipped back home because they cracked up."

The dark-skinned chaplain said higher morale on the lonely islands is due to the men keeping busy at their jobs and the understanding attitude of the officers toward the enlisted men.

"Commanding officers at the various stations handled their men like a big family. There is no such thing as a caste system on the islands but yet the officers still maintain the respect of the men. Officers and men mingle in such activities as the glee club and baseball games."

Problems Encountered

Perkins is proud of the fact that close to 65 per cent of the population of Shemya attended his church services every Sunday, often when gale-force winds whipped the snow into big drifts on the road.

A-Bomb Survivor Joins U. S. Army

By JOHN MINE

PORT MEADE, Md. —(UP)—Gene Fujita refused to fight against the United States—and ended up being blasted by a U. S. atom bomb. He was burned, and his father was killed at Hiroshima.

But now, 21-year-old Gene, a Japanese-American, is ready to fight for Uncle Sam. He's a GI here at a medical replacement training center.

If young Gene hadn't refused to take up arms against the United States in World War II, he might not have been in Hiroshima that fateful Aug. 6, 1945, the day the A-bomb blasted that Japanese city.

Fujita's story goes back to the summer of 1940 when he and his family took a vacation trip to Japan. When the family tried to get back to the U. S. in 1941, they couldn't get transportation. So American born Gene and his family were trapped in Japan when the war started. They tried to make the best of it and Gene entered a high school in Japan. Then came 1944, when U.S. forces were closing in on Nippon and B-29s were blasting Japanese cities.

Gene was given the choice of joining the Japanese army or becoming a first aid specialist to help out after bombing attacks.

He refused to join the army and so was assigned to a job in a government factory at Hiroshima with a side task as a first aid man.

He said that some other American-born Japanese boys were in the factory when the A-bomb-carrying B-29 appeared over Hiroshima. Ten of the boys, including Gene, went to an air raid shelter when the alarm sounded, and just as Gene closed the shelter door there was a tremendous blast.

Gene was burned on the hand but after the raid he picked his way through the blasted city giving aid to the wounded.

He says the main avenue of Hiroshima was so littered with dead he could scarcely walk, but he gave aid where he could from his first aid pack.

Among the victims was his father.

After the war, Fujita and his mother, Mrs. Mary Fujita, made their way back to the United States. She now lives at 412 21st Avenue, Seattle, Wash.

Billions Lost To Deterioration

WASHINGTON —(AP)— We could re-arm on the twelve billion dollars annual loss from deteriora-

The twelve billion figure is from the Prevention of Deterioration Center of the National Academy of Sciences. The deterioration includes everything from a hundred million dollars that moths eat to five billions that rust takes.

A Tribute To Our Boy Scouts

When Lord Robert Baden-Powell, the Englishman, conceived the idea of the Boy-Scouts and, later our own American, Dan Beard, furthered and promoted the idea here, neither, we suspect, ever dreamed what world-wide fountains of Youth he was putting in action! Today the Boy Scouts are the flower of young manhood in every quarter of the globe. Their deeds are legion. Their clean, manly characters shine forth from their scrubbed faces and the trim uniforms they wear. How very proud we fathers and mothers of Boy Scouts should be! Their merit badges are a symbol of sincerity, eagerness to serve and pride in their organization. God bless them all. They'll be leaders tomorrow!

New Bases For British Army To Be Ready Soon

BRUSSELS —(A P)— British army supplies for occupation troops in Germany are expected to start moving through Belgium early in 1952. Work was recently begun on the construction of a traffic center for the British army in the Campine area of Antwerp Province, 20 miles east of the port of Antwerp.

When completed the center will cover 3,952 acres and include a gasoline dump and storage space for all types of army supplies. The installations will be dispersed in 26 locations. A few miles further east two new airfields are also under construction. They will not, however, be manned during peacetime.

At present most British supplies pass through the port of Hamburg. Military tacticians, however, have decided that Hamburg is too close to Russian-controlled territory. A lunge at Hamburg could quickly cut off supplies for the British in Germany.

German Expert Helps U. S. With Guided Missiles

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. —(UP)— Dr. Walter H. Dornberger, a German scientist who played a key role in the development of the Nazi V-2 rocket, now is helping the Bell Aircraft Corporation develop guided missiles.

At the Bell plant he is regarded as the biggest "catch" that U. S. industry has made from the German scientific field. His presence on the Niagara frontier has been little publicized, however.

A major general in the German Army during World War II, Dr. Dornberger is a guided-missile consultant under Roy J. Sanderson, Bell's vice president, in charge of engineering. He has been with the aircraft firm for a year but the company still declines comment on his occupational activities.

Dr. Dornberger, like all German scientists brought to this country after the war, was under contract to the armed forces. After the contract expired he was on his own and stayed.

Yankees Tie Cleveland For Lead In American League

White Sox Take Pair From Tribe

Red Sox Are Victorious In 12-Inning Marathon With Washington; New York Giants Move Up In National

By CARL LUNDQUIST

Stubby Overmire's soft-stuff pitching put the Yankees back into a first place tie and softened the heart of manager Casey Stengel today at a time when he was about to admit he was soft in the head for ever gambling on the little lefty.

Overmire had been nothing but a disappointment since coming to the Yankees from the Browns just before the trading deadline in June, but he was all heart and a yard wide in his eight-hit, 3 to 2 triumph over the Athletics last night. The victory coming after the reviving White Sox twice defeated the Indians, 7 to 1 and 8 to 3, put New York and Cleveland into an exact percentage tie for the lead.

And Stengel was the most amazed man in Yankee Stadium when it happened. Overmire, who had failed to win a game for the Yankees, was a desperation starter because righthander Allie Reynolds needed an extra day of rest for his ailing elbow.

Stengel said Overmire won the important decision because he finally decided to pitch like himself and not to try and "barrel the ball in there like the other Yankee hurlers."

Giving the A's his slow, tantalizing curve, he put them consistently off-stride and he was in practically no trouble until he tired in the ninth. In other words, Stengel meant that when the little lefty tried to put something on the ball he had nothing, but when he gave them his "nothing ball" he had something.

The Yankees took off to a 2 to 1 lead in the first inning on three singles by Joe Collins, Bobby Brown and Joe DiMaggio, interspersed with a walk to Gil McDougald. And the Athletics, who had picked up a run in their half of the inning, didn't bother Overmire again until the ninth when they got their final tally.

The White Sox threw double digits at the Indians. Lefty Bill Pierce halted Bobby Feller in the opener as the Cleveland ace missed in the quest for his 20th victory. Pierce gave up only five hits as the White Sox cashed in on 10, including homers by Al Zarilla and Ray Coleman that produced five runs. In the second game, Jim Busby hit a three-run homer to put Chicago in front for good.

The Red Sox also closed in, moving four games behind the dead-locked leaders with a 7 to 4 12th-inning victory over the Senators in which Clyde Vollmer singled home the deciding run and rookie Fred Hatfield homered for two more. Believer Ellis Kinder won his eighth game against two losses.

The Tigers topped the Browns, 6 to 4, as Ted Gray pitched a steady eight-hitter and Pat Mullin supplied a two-run homer.

In the National League, the Giants prolonged their hottest

Battlefield And Hall Of Fame Are Headliners Today

NEW YORK (UP)—Battlefield and Hall of Fame, two Eastern colts with equal claims to the three-year-old championship, were scheduled to strut their stuff today on separate racing fronts.

Battlefield, owned by George D. Widener, headed the field for the third running of the Travers at Saratoga, while Hall of Fame, representing the Green Tree Stable, was in Chicago for the American Derby at Washington Park.

Battlefield, with four stakes victories to his credit this year, has earned $134,500. Hall of Fame is close behind with $132,805.

Willard "The Knuck" Ramadell of the Cincinnati Reds was taught the art of pitching by his father, an ex-semi-pro ball player.

Equipment Issued

Football equipment will be issued today to all boys who are trying out for the 1951 Greenville High School eleven.

Coach Bill Kittrell has designated the Third Street School field house as the focal point for the distribution of equipment. He will be there from 4 until 6, and from 7 until 9 p.m.

Fallen Chisox Can Still Play Championship Ball

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, the one-time American League leaders, who've slipped to fourth place, can still play first-place baseball.

They proved that yesterday with a doubleheader victory over the Cleveland Indians, 7-1 and 8-3.

The Sox were doing just about everything right and their play brought recollections of the seemingly-invincible Comiskey who cast aside second-division tradition and, for a month this season, sailed along in the lead.

That was before a disastrous losing streak plunged them to the point where, even with their double win yesterday, they are still nine games out of first place. Cleveland and New York share the lead now.

Primarily, the Sox were hitting in their old style. They didn't particularly need to in the first game which Lethander Billy Pierce won on a five-hit job. The Indians scored their run in the ninth, on a double by Al Rosen after two were out.

Before that, the Sox had all their runs and had bled the mighty Bob Feller, seeking his 20th win, into the shower room. A two-run homer by Al Zarilla off Feller in the second inning was enough for victory. Ray Coleman knocked one out for three runs in the seventh.

Pierce struck out seven Indians before the crowd of 30,083 which raised total season attendance above the million mark—to 1,007,318—for the first time in Comiskey Park history.

Ex-Bank-Robber Is Sought In Fix Case

NEW YORK (UP)—A notorious ex-bank-robbler who bet $50,000 a game was sought by police today as head of a basketball fix ring which bribed Bradley University players.

Joseph Benintende, 41, described by District Attorney Frank Hogan as "one of the worst of the Kansas City mob of killers and narcotics peddlers," was indicted yesterday along with seven confederates and three stars of Bradley's 1950-51 basketball team.

The players indicted were All-America Gene Melchiorre, 23; Bill Mann, 24; and George Chianakas, 23. Other members of the fix ring indicted were: Jack West, the English brothers, Nick and Tony; Jack Rubenstein, Marvin Mansberg, Saul Feinberg, and Eli Kinkofsky, West are still at large.

Hogan said that Benintende, now the object of a 16 state police alarm, "is a known gunman and very dangerous."

Hogan disclosed that Benintende tried to "buy" the entire Bradley team for the 1949-50 season and that the gambler's bets ran as high as $50,000 a game when he knew the "fix was in."

The indictments charged that Melchiorre, Mann and Chianakas agreed to accept $500 each to throw the Bradley-Bowling Green game for third place in the American Invitational Tournament at Madison Square Garden in March of 1949.

Ironically, the players didn't receive the stipulated amounts because they lost the game by a smaller margin than was agreed upon. Bradley was supposed to lose by seven points, but was beaten only by five, 82-77, when a last minute substitute for Melchiorre sank a field goal.

Hogan said plans were made later for Bradley to "shave" the point-spread on the game against Washington State, at Peoria, Ill., Dec. 21, 1949. Bradley won the game, 67 to 59, and Melchiorre, Mann and Grover each received $500.

He revealed that Melchiorre turned down an offer of $10,000 to dump the 1950 NCAA championship game against City College of New York. During the regular 1949-50 season, Melchiorre and Aaron Pecco had spurred an offer to fix the game against Manhattan College because a Bradley defeat would impair its chances of a bid to the NIT.

Melchiorre, Mann and Chianakas pleaded not guilty to receiving bribes and were released in $500 bail. It was believed that they will receive light sentences for cooperating with the grand jury if found guilty.

BBL Play-Offs Get Underway

FARMVILLE—Manager Gariand Little's regular season league leading Ormondsville nine captured a 5-1 victory over Macesfield last night in the opening game of the three-out-of-five semi-final play-offs for the Bright Belt League championship.

Righthander Doug Bruton went the distance for the winners and was never in serious trouble. Bruton, former star for Kinston High School, allowed but eight hits.

The defeat was costly to the Macesfield team as its regular third baseman, Lyman Laughinghouse, was struck in the eye by a line drive. Laughinghouse will be out for the remainder of the series.

Jimmy Byrd and Sam Stall led Ormondsville at bat with two hits in three attempts. Byrd collected a pair of triples.

Bobby Clark and Folk Smith led the losers with two hits for three times at bat.

The second half of the series will get underway tonight as the number 2 club in the loop, Farmville, meets Pinetops, number 3 team.

Urzetta Faces Jinx

BETHLEHEM, Pa.—Sam Urzetta hopes to make it two in a row when he defends his title at the 51st U. S. Amateur Golf Championship at Saucun Valley Country Club September 10.

If the East Rochester, N. Y., champ does take the crown for the second consecutive year he will be performing a feat last accomplished by Lawson Little in 1934-35.

Big Card Expected For Mat Card In Rocky Mount

ROCKY MOUNT—Everything's set for the giant wrestling show to be presented here tonight and officials of the Citizen Club, which is staging the big charity mat show, say that a capacity house is expected.

In the neighborhood of 5,000 fans are expected to swing through the turnstiles and while the club has enjoyed a king-sized advance sale, officials promise that everyone who turns out will be able to find a seat somewhere in the stadium.

Top billing on the most ambitious mat card ever attempted in Eastern Carolina is split between one bout which features two of the top women's wrestling world and a second which sees The Great Scot of television fame going against Bud Curtis, who is coming to Rocky Mount from Honolulu.

Curtis is known in the mat world as the "Russian Lion" because of his features and his methods of attack in the ring. A strapping 235-pound grappler, Curtis is of the rough and tumble school. He has a large jaw and one of the finest builds of any wrestler to go with it.

Nell Stewart, a shapely 140-pound gal grappler will meet Carol Cook in the other half of the double feature. A tigress in her ring action, Nell lets nothing stand in her way to win her match, while Carol uses science to gain her ends.

Roger Mackay, the handsome idol of the wrestling bobby soxers, will

Sanders-Welch Meet In Finals

DURHAM, N. C. (UP)—Doug Saunders of Cedartown, Ga., and Don Welch of Whitefish, Mont., met today in the 36-hole final round for the National Junior golf championship.

Saunders, a steady, methodical-shooting youngster, moved into the title round yesterday by whipping Bob Goetz of Wichita, Kan., 3 and 2. Welch advanced by posting a thrilling 1-up victory over Bill Parker of Tulsa, Okla., in a match that required 19 holes.

Welch calmly dropped a 10-foot putt on the extra hole after his opponent blew his chance with a bad approach shot that landed in a trap.

Earlier in the day, Saunders knocked darkhorse Jim Deemer of Blacksburg, Va., out of the quarter-finals, 3 and 2, and Welch defeated Roger Boyd of Tacoma, Wash., 1 up. Goetz eliminated Jackie Doss

Camp Lejeune Beaten In Wichita

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—Four games are scheduled today as the 17th Annual National Semi-Pro Baseball tournament moves into its second day.

The 11th Airborne Division Angels from Fort Campbell, Ky., and the Wichita Boeing Bombers posted victories in last night's opening games. Connie Mack, 98-year-old president of the Philadelphia Athletics, received a plaque from the National Baseball Congress at between-game ceremonies.

The 11th Airborne Division team defeated the Marine Corps champions from Camp Lejeune, N. C., 3 to 1, in the first game.

Browns Easily Beat Collegians In Wild Affair At Chicago's Soldier Field Before Large Crowd Of 93,000 People

By ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO (UP)—The best professional football teams in the business have known all along just how good the Cleveland Browns are; today the 1951 college All-Stars know it, too.

Coach Paul Brown's maulers, who haven't missed a championship in any year since they were organized, crushed the collegians, 33 to 0, last night in the 18th renewal of the All-Star classic at Soldier Field. A crowd of 93,180 helped make the financial receipts a record for the series.

The Browns resembled a steam-roller gaining momentum. They tallied two points in the first period on a fumble by SMU's Kyle Role, which Notre Dame's Bob Williams recovered in the end zone.

After that, apparently feeling their way under the sharp eyes of Brown, who sent in player after player to his star quarterback Otto Graham, Cleveland began to roll.

It was a varied attack—passes by Graham, who completed 18 out of 31 attempts for 388 yards and two touchdowns, or runs by Dub Jones, who made 105 yards in 12 carries, or Marion Motley, whose smashing drives through the line split the collegiate forwards and secondary easily.

Cleveland pranced more than half the length of the field twice for scores in the second period and Jones clipped off one touchdown on a two-yard plunge. Though the second drive bogged down short of a six-pointer, automatic Lou Gross booted a 20-yard field goal to give the Browns a 12 to 0 advantage.

In the final half, the Browns opened up. Graham alternately worked his two star ends, Dante Lavelli, who caught seven throws for 148 yards and one touchdown, and Mac Speedie, who hauled in a drive over for another two-yard touchdown and Graham hit sub full-back Emerson Cole for still another tally.

The crowd, which with television and radio receipts added, paid a record of $428,000 to see the match, was convinced of the Browns' mastery. The attendance did not set a record as such, however, falling short of the 1947 mark of 108,840.

Harvie Ward And Charles Dudley In Biltmore Finals

ASHEVILLE—(AP)—Harvie Ward of Fayetteville, former North-South Amateur champion, and Charles Dudley of Greenville, S. C., met today in the 36-hole finals of the 29th annual Biltmore Forest Country Club Men's Invitation Golf Tournament.

Ward won the Biltmore crown in 1942 and is a strong favorite to repeat. Dudley also is a former titleholder, having captured the championship trophy in 1939.

Both players came through with impressive victories in their matches yesterday.

Dudley defeated Hobart Manley Savannah, Ga., 5 and 4, in the semi-finals, while Ward downed Jud Brumley of Greenville, 4 and 3.

In yesterday's quarter-finals, Dudley eliminated Marshall Ballentine Greenville, S. C., 5 and 4, and Ward defeated Al Dowlin of Asheville, 4 and 3.

Manley knocked off defending champion P. J. Boatwright, Jr. Aiken, S. C., 3 and 2, and Brumley ousted Billy Delk, Gastonia, one-up.

D ring his record 56-game batting streak of 1941, Joe DiMaggio tagged 43 different pitchers for one of more hits apiece.

Vic Janowicz Is Back In Uniform

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Half-back Vic Janowicz, suspended from Ohio State for poor grades just two weeks after he received the 1950 Heisman Trophy, will be back in uniform when the Buckeyes begin fall practice Sept. 4.

The 21-year-old senior from Elyria, O., will be one of the biggest threats in the lineup planned by new Coach Woody Hayes.

Janowicz' return is no surprise. He was suspended for one quarter, worked awhile, re-entered Ohio State and compiled a "B" average in the spring term. This made him scholastic eligible.

All-America Viv Ran, passed, punted and place-kicked his way into the hearts of football fans across the country last season.

This record resulted in award of the Heisman Trophy as the outstanding college football player in the nation.

Mr. Tobacco Farmer

North Carolina

Dear Friend:

How can you get the most money for your 1951 TOBACCO crop? To get the most, you must get the highest possible market dollar for each individual basket of your TOBACCO; and you must market your crop at as reasonable expense as possible.

Keel's Warehouse always gives you the best in courteous, efficient service, with the high dollar on each basket of your TOBACCO. How much is 23% of the warehouse charges which you paid in marketing your 1950 crop? That is the amount which our Board of Directors were able to return to all farmers on the tobacco sold here last fall: farmers selling here last fall were returned a total of $24,896.32—and that's a lot of money!

Put that truck of yours hauling tobacco to Keel's warehouse for extra income this fall. That's all there is to it. Remember . . . YOU DO NOT HAVE TO BE A STOCKHOLDER TO RECEIVE YOUR DIVIDENDS.

Sincerely,

James T. Keel
Manager

New Records From Old In Magic Of Laboratory

By HOWARD W. Blakelock Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK The Phonograph voices of Caruso, Scotti, Farrar, Schuman-Heink and other early-century masters are being resurrected by a magnetic miracle that makes them clearer and truer today than when recorded.

Other old masterpieces of music are similarly resurrected. The source is records of 40 years ago. These records contained mechanical faults and occasionally shrill or unclear tones due to slips in singing or playing. All are corrected.

These new records are the Treasury of Immortal Performances, from old Victor and British records, by Victor-R. G. A. The project started less than two years ago, directed by Albert Pulley, the company's chief recording engineer, here in New York.

Six sound technicians were assigned to use microscopes on the old records. They followed each sound groove looking for bumps, dents and other irregularities. Most of these were due to mechanical causes. With sharp instruments they smoothed all the imperfections they could see. Next a sound expert listened to the music played from the smoothed record. He marked spots of imperfection that the microscopes missed. Records were re-examined and smoothed as much as six times.

After that the old record was played to the magnetic recording tape, a paper-thin, single strand half as wide as a postage stamp. The tape records by magnetism, a process that puts nothing visible on the record and that strings the sound record out in a line hundreds of feet long.

The tape transfers the sound directly into electric current, which in turn runs a speaker that converts it into music. These sounds are perfect reproductions of whatever is on the record. They show up further faults. Some of these are tiny, popping sounds.

A pop may take up nearly an inch length of tape. This inch is cut out with scissors and the remaining tape ends rejoined. The loss on tape is so small that the music is not affected. There remain, finally, the faults in singing or in instrumental music that were originally recorded. This music as it comes from the speaker is a combination of many tones or sound frequencies. The speaker can select part of these sounds and make them either louder or softer, and this change corrects singing and playing faults.

If the voice lacks clearness, part of the frequencies, but not all of them, are made louder. If too shrill, part of the frequencies, but again not all of them, are made softer. When all the faults have been corrected, the voice of the electrical speaker is recorded on a new master record, a production of the old, but a better record than the original.

A police report states that a truck and car collided at Dickinson Avenue and 10th street yesterday morning and the car was considerably damaged.

Some sources speculated that naval problems might have been discussed Friday and air problems Saturday.

Both sides again limited the number of newsmen permitted to enter the present battle line, which runs up to 30 miles north of the parallel. Maj. Gen. Laurence C. Craigie, vice-commander of the Far East Air Forces, replaced Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke as the second U.N. delegate at the second meeting.

Meral said he had been in Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, during the "largest" air raid of war" a few days ago. He claimed it killed mostly women and children.

Incentive Pay . . .

(Continued from page one) sat. "led labor with the highest REAL wages possible. But both employers and wageworkers must cooperate to increase sales and production and the quality of the products. This could be brought about by all agreeing on a wage that "the average" is worth and then pay a bonus for good work and more of it. Incentive pay is the consumer's only hope, and the wageworkers mine up 80 percent of the consumers.

What About Strikes: Then finished costs would go down, causing lower prices to benefit consumers; while both real wages and real profits would increase likewise. But strikes which are costly to all parties must also be discouraged. It would greatly help in reducing strikes by inserting a clause in every labor contract that neither the labor officials nor the company officials could get any pay while a strike is on! This simple clause would do much to help out consumers. Another thought: Returning to my reference to the cottage. The owner of the vacant cottage had some idle money which he had planned to use in building another cottage next door. The fact, however, that he failed to rent his present vacant cottage caused him to give up building the new cottage. This will result in a loss to 27 different industries, from the woodsmen who cut lumber to the electricians, plumbers and painters. Yes, even the City of Gloucester loses one more cottage to tax while the new summer resident would lose a vacation making him more efficient all next year.
