Young Forger Is Given Two-Year Prison Sentence

Wayne Canady, 16-year-old check forger from Cumberland County, was given a two-year sentence in superior court today for forging $125.50 worth of checks at eight establishments here.

Canady, who is the son of deaf-mute parents, will begin his sentence at the end of a four-to-six year sentence he is now serving for forgery of checks in Fayetteville.

His attorney entered a plea of nolo contendere at which time he told Judge Quincy Nimocks, also of Fayetteville, that the teen-ager "sleaze" of check cashing stemmed from the fact that he had had no proper upbringing in his home.

Other cases heard yesterday and today with judgments rendered: Willie David Richardson and Alexander Barnhill, breaking and entering and larceny - Richardson pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property, jury verdict of guilty to original charge, seven months on the roads; Barnhill pleaded guilty, sentenced to six months on the roads.

John Barnhill, illegal possession of non-tax-paid liquor; 30 days suspended on payment of costs. Frank Johnson Green, illegal possession of non-tax-paid liquor and transporting same; 30 days on first charge, suspended on payment of costs; 30 days on second charge, suspended on payment of $25 and costs.

Red Korean Units In Frontal Attack

Two Battalions Of Shock Troops Hit 'Bloody Ridge'; Issue Still In Doubt; Infiltration Attempts Foiled

8TH ARMY HQ, Korea, Fri. (UP)—Two battalions of North Korean shock troops fiercely attacked United Nations positions on the east-central front Thursday afternoon. The issue was still in doubt at last report.

Up to 2,000 of the Communists made a frontal attack on the U.N. lines on "Bloody Ridge," where fighting has raged since Aug. 13. They were met by mass artillery fire and a lashing attack by Allied planes.

The Reds attacked in an attempt to surprise the Allies after trying to infiltrate their positions during the day. Enemy infiltration tactics took the Allies by surprise in the early part of the Korean war, but they met little success this time.

One Red unit slipped through U.N. positions north of Yangju on the east-central front last night and forced an Allied command post to withdraw, but a counter-attack routed the enemy.

Sixty other North Koreans were intercepted and killed by an Allied tank force northwest of Yangju. Clear skies enabled U.N. fighters and fighter-bombers to hit Communist railway lines and marshaling yards throughout North Korea.

B-29 Superfortresses led the parade of destruction with a 50-ton raid on the yards at Yangju, north of Sinanju in northwest Korea. The Air Forces announced beately the loss of two planes in Wednesday's raids. One was a twin-jet British Meteor, the first lost since the new-type planes went into combat recently.

The meteor was one of eight piloted by Australians which joined 20 American Sabrejets in a brief but furious air battle with about 40 Communist MIG-15 jets over northwest Korea. Communist bullet-belts sent the Meteor crashing to earth.

The other Allied plane lost was an American F-80 Shooting Star jet shot down by ground fire in another action. On the ground front, South Korean troops captured three hills northwest of Kansong on the east coast Wednesday, but lost one of them to a heavy North Korean counter-attack. An estimated 232 Communists were killed in the fighting.

High School To Have Biggest Enrollment Record 575 Students Already Accepted; Distributive Education Course Is Dropped From Curriculum

A record number of students have already registered in Greenville High School for the coming school year.

Job Vacancies In Pitt Outnumber The Unemployed

Few File Claims; Local Office Reports Calls For Laborers Still High

Practically all the people in Pitt county who want to work are having little difficulty in finding employment now. That was the report from the local office of the Employment Security Commission this morning as Manager W. E. Dillingham announced the unemployment claims filed with the office have dropped from several hundred a few weeks ago to the present rate of "15 to 20 a week."

The employment situation in Pitt at the present time "is a good healthy situation," Dillingham stated. "It is well balanced. If it were like that the year around it would be fine. At the immediate time it is a prosperous situation as far as work is concerned."

Although the greatest demand for labor in the county is coming from the tobacco factories at the present time, the office likewise is seeking construction workers needed by various projects in this vicinity. There are also a "scattering" of other jobs which could be filled if we had the people," Dillingham said.

Jap Delegates To Watch Manners

TOKYO (UP)—Japan's delegation will take a booklet on Western manners to the peace treaty conference in San Francisco next week. The Japanese Foreign Office pamphlet warned the delegates against:

- 1. Taking off shoes and wiggling toes in public. 2. Imbibing alcohol until violent - even though from "ancient times in Japan this has not been considered shameful." 3. Belching at the table. 4. Squashing a hat down to the ears. 5. Going into a corner to blow your nose, thus attracting undue attention. 6. Making too much noise while gargling. "We don't realize it," the pamphlet said, "but it has been said that foreigners can tell Japanese are in the next room by the noise they make like ducks while washing."

U. S. Abandons Long Effort To Mediate Dispute

TEHRAN, Iran (UP)—The United States abandoned today its prolonged efforts to mediate the Anglo-Iranian oil crisis.

U. S. Ambassador Henry P. Grady conferred with Premier Mohammed Mossadeq for 45 minutes this morning in a final effort to settle the oil nationalization dispute. Later, he told newsmen he failed to win a change of heart from the premier and the American government would make no further efforts for the present at mediation. He added gravely: "We are all seriously disturbed that there is no settlement."

UN Command Looks For Resumption Of Talk But Armistice Not Likely

TOKYO (UP)—The United Nations command said today that Korean peace talks may be resumed soon, but there is little prospect of an armistice agreement.

"The resumption of the talks no longer seems to hold the promise of a possible agreement on a cease-fire that it did a month ago," the U.N. command said in a broadcast to Korea.

The initial enthusiasm that the war soon might end has died down as it has become obvious that the Communists do not care how long the war goes on. The broadcast came as the Allies were awaiting the official Communist reply to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's latest offer Wednesday to resume the suspended armistice talks.

Some indication of the nature of the Communist reply was seen in a Chinese propaganda broadcast by Radio Peiping. Although somewhat milder than previous Red broadcasts, it nevertheless charged that Ridgway had "lied," "distorted facts" and "slandered" the Communists in his denial that a U.N. plane had bombed the conference city of Kaesong the night of Aug. 22.

It was on the pretext of this "raid" that the Reds broke off the cease-fire talks the next day, Ridgway said in an on-the-spot investigation the night of the incident showed only that the "raid" had been faked.

In his note Wednesday, Ridgway rejected a Communist demand that U.N. liaison officers be sent back to Kaesong for another look at the "evidence."

He said the chief Communist liaison officer, Col. Chang Chun San, had refused to permit an investigation in daylight the morning after the raid, and too much time now had elapsed to make another investigation worthwhile.

Radio Peiping said Chang denied that he had refused to permit a U.N. investigation in daylight the morning of Aug. 22. The U.N. command broadcast to Korea reviewing the cease-fire prospects said: "It has become obvious that the Communists do not care how long the war goes on. 'Human life means nothing when the Communists are intent on aggression through negotiation at Kaesong.' 'Having failed to conquer Korea by force of arms, they sought to do it by volume of words. They have prolonged the war. They have sought to restore an unnatural partition of Korea by the reestablishment of a discredited pre-war boundary.'"

Bride Elect, Recent Bride Share Honors

Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb was a gracious hostess at an informal coffee hour on Tuesday afternoon to honor a recent bride and a bride-elect.

The coffee hour guests were invited for the hour of 3:00-4:00 p.m. to share in the compliments paid to Mrs. J. B. Spilman, the former Joyce Duke, and Miss Eloise Tucker, who will become a bride on Saturday.

Mrs. Lipscomb, the honorees, and Mrs. Durward Tucker were at the door to greet the guests and to invite them into the home made lovely with arrangements of late summer flowers. A bouquet of purple asters and yellow chrysanthemums was particularly lovely in the front hall.

Mrs. Dick Evans and Miss Muriel Showell stood at the door to the dining room to direct the guests to the coffee table, which was centered with a silver candelabra placed on a reflector and encircled with clematis. Flower-filled spriguettes were used in the candelabra, while single candle holders were placed at either end of the table holding white tapers.

Mrs. Larry James Sr. poured French coffee and assisted in serving cheese wafers, daintily decorated mints, white bridal cakes, and mixed nuts were Misses Martha Conway and Mary Ann Smoot.

The hostess gave the honorees lovely bridal coronas of white when they first arrived, which they wore for the occasion.

Considering Site For N. C. Base

WASHINGTON (AP)—Behind closed doors the Senate Armed Services committee considered today a disagreement over location of a troop carrier base in North Carolina.

The Air Force selected Raleigh-Durham Airport in Wake county for a $33,315,000 expansion to accommodate two troop carrier wings.

Rep. Durham (D-NC) and Rep. Cooley (D-NC) supported the selection.

But opposition came from Reps. Deane, Carlyle and Barden, also North Carolina Democrats. Barden said Seymour Johnson Field at Goldsboro should be reactivated to save money. Deane and Carlyle said the same thing about Laurinburg-Maxton Field in Robeson County.

The House Armed Services Committee sent a special committee to Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina to view seven possible locations. The smaller group agreed with the Air Force on the Raleigh-Durham expansion, but the full committee delayed decision until after a House recess ends September 12.

SAIL FOR KOREA

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (UP)—Eight hundred British infantrymen sailed today for Korea to join British forces fighting there. The men are members of the 1st Battalion of the Royal Norfolk Regiment. They will relieve the 29th Infantry Brigade.

Not So Hot

The highest temperature here continues to range in the upper 80s and the mercury lingered at 87 as the high spot yesterday.

Lowest temperature here last night was 66, and at 8 a.m. today it was 70 degrees.

Yesterday a year ago the highest temperature recorded here was 96 degrees. Lowest that night, 76, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 78, Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, reported.

Paul S. Moore Rites Held In Ayden Today

ELIZABETH CITY—Funeral rites for Paul S. Moore, 72, who died Wednesday morning at the Abemarle Hospital after a short illness, were conducted Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Timothy Christian Church at Ayden. Burial was in the family cemetery.

Mr. Moore was a native of Ayden who was making his home in Elizabeth City with his daughter, Mrs. Roy Miller. He was the son of John J. and Rebecca Gardner Moore and husband of Lucy K. Moore. He was a member of the Timothy Christian Church at Ayden.

Surviving are his daughter, Edward Moore of Ayden, Francis Moore of Newport News, Va., and William Moore of Jacksonville, Fla., one brother, E. E. Moore of Ayden.

TO SEEK RECORD

LONDON (UP)—A twin-engine Canberra jet bomber tomorrow will attempt to set an east-west transatlantic flight record. The plane will fly 2,100 miles from Aldergrove, Northern Ireland, to Gander, Nfld.

Will Probe Weak Cement Charges

RALEIGH (AP)—A complete investigation was promised today into charges that weak cement was used in some of the early construction of a public housing development being erected here.

The Raleigh Housing Authority met yesterday to confer on the accusations made by Harry A. Van Zuch, a project engineer with the Richmond, Va., field office of the Public Housing Administration. The housing authority said a full probe will be made.

Van Zuch told Mayor James E. Briggs the project was Halifax Court, which together with a housing development at Chavis Heights will cost approximately $1,000,000.

Van Zuch said he had written to Director A. R. Hanson of the PHA office in Richmond, recommending that further bricking be discontinued at Halifax Court and that the project be condemned because of failure in concrete laboratory cylinder tests.

Douglas Ending Vacation Travels

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Associate Justice William O. Douglas leaves today for Washington after a two-month vacation in the Far East.

Mr. Douglas arrived here last night. During his trip to the Orient, he visited Tibet, Thailand, Indonesia, India and Pakistan. He also climbed an 11,000-foot mountain in the Himalayas.

Stays Execution At Last Minute

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. —(AP)—A convicted murderer was snatched from the electric chair last night—only an hour before he was to have been executed.

A series of dramatic actions started when a San Antonio judge paid off for Albert Edwards at 11:12 p.m. with an order from Gov. Allan Shivers granting a 30-day stay of execution.

Judge P. C. Sanders signed the writ and in effect ordered the prison manager to turn over Edwards to Bexar County deputies so he could be brought into court for a hearing. Edwards' attorney claims the prisoner was not represented properly at a clemency hearing. As the deputies sped toward Huntsville, prison officials were unaware of the action.

Informed of the judge's order by an Associated Press correspondent, Don Reid, they started to check.

Members of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles at Austin were informed. The Governor was then contacted and he issued the stay of execution.

Thief Cooked Himself A Cake

IOWA CITY, Ia. (UP)—A thief broke into the Presbyterian church, stole some old clothes and then cooked himself a meal.

The burglar topped off the feast by baking a cake. He ate all of it except the frosting—apparently because it didn't turn out just right.

Cab Driver Fined And 'Lectured'

The police officers are out there for your protection and the protection of other people, and you are expected to cooperate with them in enforcing the law," Judge Charles H. Whedbee warned a defendant in Police Court yesterday.

Testimony was that Luke Best, Negro taxicab driver, was abusive to two police officers when they arrested him for speeding in the city. The judge fined Best $35, costs deducted.

All but one of the 16 cases in court yesterday involved violations of traffic and motor vehicle laws. Walter Crisp, Jr., paid $10 for being drunk.

mos each paid $20 for speeding.

William Hill, Negro, found guilty of parking on a highway without lights, was given 30 days, sentence suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted, and surrender his driver's license for six months or until he makes restitution for property damage he was found guilty of causing. Edwards' attorney gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

William J. Nobles, Negro, was given 30 days in jail for driving drunk, sentence suspended on payment of $100 and costs and he was ordered to pay Robert Lee Chauncey $93.75. The court fined Nobles $10 for not having brakes on his car.

Preston Shields, Negro, was fined $15 for having improper brakes and he was ordered not to drive the car until the brakes are repaired.

The case against Keith Sewell, charged with failure to give right of way, was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Students Join Workshop Course At Tel Aviv, Israel

NEW LIBRARY at the school where U. S. students make their headquarters during their studies in Israel.

AP Newsfeatures

TEL AVIV — The third group of students hailing from all parts of the United States will soon close its "summer workshop" in new Israel.

The students headquarters, where the young men and women spent most of the time and listened to the nation's top men in many fields of public life including Premier David Ben Gurion and Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett, is "Beth Berl" (Hebrew for House of Berl) near Kfar Saba in the beautiful, Biblical "Valley of Sharon". During their six weeks course on the development of the Jewish State per lights, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15.

Iver R. Bailey, failure to stop at traffic signal light, was fined $10, and ordered to surrender his driver's license for 30 days, or until he makes restitution for property damage, prior to 30 days.

Walter T. Cone was fined $25, costs deducted for careless and reckless driving. He was found not guilty of failure to stop after an accident.

Emmanuel Moore, Negro, was found not guilty of driving without brakes.

Alton D. James was fined $15 for speeding and $10 for failure to stop at a traffic signal light.

They also toured the country from the Mountains of Galilee in the North down to the Negev Desert and the Red Sea in the South.

The American-Israel "workshop" in which up to now almost 200 students—most of them Jewish—and a small group of non-Jews—have taken part, is sponsored by the Jewish Culture Foundation of New York University. The "see the people where the people live" course was initiated three years ago by Prof. Abraham I. Katsch. The students come and go by plane. But even if it's a flying visit—it is not a flying study. I observed them at a two hours lecture by the Jerusalem critic L.M. Lask on modern trends in Hebrew literature. There wasn't one whose attention strayed for a moment.

Besides the general routine, each student has to write a paper on an Israel subject of specific interest to him. Each—if he is not the recipient of one of the eight scholarships donated by the Israel Foreign Office and various institutions in the United States—pays for the round trip and course, about $1,000, of which two thirds are spent on traveling expenses.

Prof. Katsch told the AP that the "workshop abroad" idea has made great progress at New York University during the last few years. While the study trip to Israel was the first of its kind, more workshops have since been opened in England, France, Holland, Germany, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Messick Named To Advisory Study Group

Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College, has been appointed as a member of the Advisory Committee of the North Carolina Communication Study Commission.

The appointment was made by Governor Scott recently. Messick is to serve on the committee until June 30, 1953, when his term expires.

The purpose of the advisory committee is to recommend to the next General Assembly a state-wide plan including adequate financial support for the study and advancement of the use of audio-visual aids in education.

A committee meeting will be held early in the Fall in Durham.

Shake Out That Old Piggy Bank

WASHINGTON (UP)—Shake out that piggy bank—Uncle Sam hasn't got enough pennies.

Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, said that if every family would put 10 pennies back into circulation, the government would save 1,260 tons of scarce copper and five months production.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS RELIABILITY
Almost all of us like to be thought well of by our family and friends. Even if we are above liking to be praised to our face, still we want to know that others value us highly and speak of us with respect.

We may be valued for different reasons. Some people, unfortunately, are admired only for wealth and social position, while others are respected and sought after because of their great knowledge or brilliant intellect.

For most of us, these means of winning esteem are out of reach. But there is a quality available to rich, poor, important, unknown, clever, and ordinary people alike, which will always draw respect: reliability.

The man who is one hundred percent reliable is a valuable man everywhere—in the home, in the community, in business, in church. He inspires confidence and pride in those around him. His wife says, quietly, "John said he would come. You may count on him to be there." His neighbor says, "Don't worry. We can depend on John to help." His employer says, "I know that part of the job will be done well, because John has charge of it."

We cannot all be rich, or influential, or brilliant. But everyone who wills it can be reliable and win the respect of all who know him.

East Carolina's Stumbling Block

You don't have to look to some defense area to see how critical a housing shortage can be. The people in Pitt County can just look at East Carolina College and understand what plight the lack of enough housing facilities can cause.

As badly as the people in eastern North Carolina, and particularly the people of Pitt County, want to see East Carolina College continue its growth, it is almost heartbreaking to watch the college turn away eager young students because of the lack of housing facilities.

The townspeople of Greenville have offered to provide rooms for some 230 college students this fall; but many, many more vacant rooms in private homes of Greenville could be filled by college students if the owners would let the college officials know that the rooms are available for rent.

The truth of the matter is the college enrollment this fall will be several hundred less than it could be if there were adequate housing facilities on the campus. So far the college has turned down applications of approximately 175 students for the fall term because dormitory space is not available. Applications are still flowing to the admissions office of the school, and by the time the fall term opens next week, some 200 applicants probably will have been turned away for lack of places for them to stay.

At East Carolina there is dormitory space for 1,053 students. The anticipated enrollment of the institution this fall has been set at 1,900. Of the student body some 300 have their homes in Greenville or commute to school each day from their homes in nearby towns. Rooms are available in Greenville for some 230 other college students, but even with that, it leaves approximately 310 students who have no place to live when they get here to enter East Carolina.

If more rooms were made available to college students by the people who live in Greenville, that would be a great help in solving the immediate housing problem of the college. But getting places in town for so many students to live is not the permanent answer to the needs of East Carolina. The only permanent answer is more dormitory space.

The lack of dormitory space for girls has sharply cut the potential freshman enrollment at East Carolina. Places can be found in town for some of the girls to live but many parents are reluctant to allow their daughters to come to college and live in private homes where they will not be under the direct supervision of the college officials. Then too there is the matter of expense. It costs $20 per quarter to live in a dormitory, and about $45 a quarter to live in a private home.

As it is now the dormitory rooms are full. The old president's home is full of girl students, all the vacant rooms at Ragsdale hall, the faculty dorm, have been assigned to girl students, and girls have even been assigned to vacant rooms in the college infirmary.

East Carolina desperately needs a new dormitory. To provide it immediately is of course out of the question; but the state should make plans to provide East Carolina with a new dormitory at the earliest possible moment.

Circus Thrills For Young And Old

Many Pitt Countians, youngsters and grown-ups alike, woke up this morning with the smell of the circus still in their nostrils, the blare of the brass band ringing in their ears, and the images of trapeze performers flashing through their minds.

Yep, the circus had come to the county and already it was gone. But the memory lingered.

The elephant herd, the tall giraffe, lions and other animals pacing their cages, the ever-faceticious monkeys, the prancing ponies brought to many the thrills of by-gone days, and to the youngsters new thrills which before had been only words from twice-told fables.

To many of the older folks, the circus splendor of last night was overshadowed by reminiscing of circuses in by-gone days. There was the unmistakable glory of the days when the circus came by railroad—John Ringling with his 100 cars to carry his troupe; Hagenback-Wallace, the John L. Robinson show; the unforgettable Barnum and Bailey circus.

It brought recollections of the almost forgotten Fourpaw and Sells show which lost $25,000 in a payroll robbery at Tarboro the night before the circus was to be sold. The train wreck between Kinston and Greenville which caused the cancellation of its appearance in Greenville in the next to the last performance scheduled for the circus before it went on the auction block.

There are those who still remember the day Buffalo Bill Cody, and W. T. Lipscomb, Sr., rode down the streets of Greenville at the head of a parade in a big carriage pulled by two huge white horses, while persons along the sidewalks marvelled at the likeness of the two men. They could have passed for the same man except Buffalo Bill wore his white hair at shoulder length, and Lipscomb wore his hair bobbed at the collar.

By many standards circuses are better than ever. But in the minds of many, the modern shows are a mere facsimile of the extravaganzas staged in the yester-years.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON—The incredible Bill Douglas, who is one of those almost too-good-to-be-real statesmen, has asked the several hundred legitimate and registered lobbyists at the Capital to give him suggestions on his plan to create a Congressional or semi-official commission to elevate the ethical standards of federal officials.

"Is he kidding or am I dreaming?" remarked one of the nation's highest-paid special pleaders when he received the form letter from the Lincolnshire Senator from Illinois. "I feel like a condemned man who is asked on the eve of his execution by the warden whether he would like turkey or rare roast beef for his last supper."

The request, however, is a testimonial to Senator Douglas' honest and sincerity. He recognizes that official morality cannot be improved unless the Adams and Eves among the unofficial tempters cooperate. In his opinion, it is more sensible to take counsel from potential sinners against the code than from the official victims of their cloakroom and cocktail party operations.

DEFENSE—Naturally, the lobbyists' replies refute the suggestion that they seek or try to contaminate the morals of elected or appointed officers of the federal government. They make the point that they represent legitimate interests—farm, labor, consumers, industry, finance, railroads, private utilities etc.—before Congress and federal departments.

The more honest admit that they write speeches for certain members of House and Senate, frame or amend measures affecting their clients, and work openly and privately to impress their views on both the legislative and executive branches of the government. They see nothing dishonest or underhanded in this method of presenting their beliefs to law-makers and administrators of the laws.

After entering this defense, many of the more experienced and intelligent lobbyists recited reasons why Senator Douglas should apply his housecleaning effort to the federal family rather than to what they call "the fifth estate."

NECESSARY—In general, the lobbyists maintain that their presence and work at Washington are necessary to protect both the Congress and the American people from the overwhelming power and pressure of the executive branch of the government. Though it seems like an odd contention, they make a strong argument.

With a budget of fifty-plus billions, a publicity organization costing at least $100,000,000 a year and presidential access to front-page headlines almost every day in the year, the executive branch enjoys a tremendous advantage over every other interest in the country, according to this theory.

Only experts acquainted with all the diverse problems of the vast United States, they maintain, can prevent an Administration from "pulling the wool" over the eyes of Congress, the courts and the people.

Citing chapter and verse, including the reports of the Kefauver and Fulbright committees, the lobbyists contend that the ethics of President Truman's bureaucrats are lower than those of members of Congress, their political friends and of the so-called "fifth estate."

"There is no need for a new code or commission of ethics for government officials," wrote the smartest lobbyist at Washington in his letter to Senator Douglas. "All they need to do is to paste the Ten Commandments and the Bill of Rights in their hats!"

INTRIGUE—This concerted attempt to discredit the New York Governor ties in directly with 1952 presidential politics. It strikes veteran political observers as a flank attack on General "Ike" Eisenhower's candidacy for the Republican nomination for President.

Governor Dewey was the first prominent Republican to declare for "Ike" as next year's nominee. Despite some dissension among Empire State Republicans, he hopes to boost the Eisenhower candidacy with New York's 90-odd delegates. His basic ambition, according to his friends, is to be either Secretary of State or Attorney General in an "Eisenhower Cabinet"

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Yesterday afternoon at the store I received a telephone call from Dot (Mrs. L. W.) Edwards. "Ever give out of column material?" she asked. "I stay out," I answered. "Well," she explained, "I have a human interest story that will vary from what you hear about teen-agers these days. The papers are full of news about teen-agers and their hot rod automobiles and the large number of them that are using narcotics."

I had money in it, and we never expected to see it again. But much to our surprise it was returned by a teen-ager, Leslie Smith Jr. And returning it involved a long walk to our house. Mrs. Edwards has a point that needs emphasis. The honest people in this world go unmentioned. Sometimes I think it's because I think there are so few of us. Please note that I said "us." Let it be clearly understood that I come in the category.

Suppose a business firm sent you a tool that sells for $31 and overlooked charging you with it. This happened right here in Greenville, and somebody asked the store manager what he planned to do with it. "Write the company," he said, "and tell them about the error." "You're crazy," he said. "You could be in $31."

Around Capitol Square

Raleigh, N. C. By LYN NISBET

By LYNN NISBET
COYNESS—William Umstead of Durham has let it be known about as emphatically as possible short of formal announcement that he is a candidate for governor of North Carolina in next year's elections. Ray Rowe of Burgaw and J. C. Pittman of Sanford have been almost as positive in committing themselves to candidacy for lieutenant governor. Most of the other tentative, suggested or prospective candidates for high state office are being very coy about the matter. Several of them are very much like the maiden who was entirely willing to be kissed, but didn't want to be blatant in demonstrating eagerness. Three entirely unrelated incidents Tuesday morning indicate the attitude of most of the prospective candidates. The only common factor in these incidents was the fact that your reporter was present at each, inadvertently on two occasions, with deliberate intent at the other.

ERVIN—A few minutes earlier your reporter had ridden the elevator with Associate Justice Sam Ervin and several lawyers en route to the supreme court. One of the lawyers told the judge that he (the judge) is running for governor in your home part of the state, whether "you like it or not." Judge Ervin smiled and commented: "Well, it is nice to be prophet honored in your own country."

SPOTLIGHT—Kerr Scott has again stolen the spotlight, and his prospective candidacy for lieutenant governor is attracting more interest than all the candidates for governor combined. Opinion prevails that if he does get into that race it will be a case of the tail wagging the dog, and the lieutenant governorship, normally considered a minor position, will take precedence over the No. 1 office in the 1951 campaign.

EURE—While making the daily routine call on Thad Eure, secretary of state, your reporter was interrupted by an eastern lawyer who told Mr. Eure that he had just dropped by "to see if you are running for governor." The secretary's prompt reply: "I haven't denied it yet." These three incidents clearly indicate that while these gentlemen have not reached the point of actually inviting friends to come into their house as candidates, they are not shutting the door in the face of anybody who wants to enter.

GENERAL—That is pretty generally the attitude of other prospective candidates. There is manifestation of willingness to be drafted, even to meet the draft board more than half way, but no apparent disposition right now to get out on a limb with positive statements. That is definitely the position taken by Henry Jordan, chairman of the highway commission. It is known that considerable effort has been put forth by Jordan's friends during the past few weeks to stimulate demand for him to get into the running. The chairman insists he is taking no part in these efforts, but nothing he has said or done tends to discourage them. Practically the same comment can be made with respect to Hubert Olive of Lexington, former superior court judge, who is rated by many observers as a more likely candidate than anybody else except Umstead.

The Voice Of The People

To the Editor, Daily Reflector
There are times when silence is anything but golden; and while I realize this message to you may cause much adverse criticism, I cannot refrain from addressing this missive to you.
Greenville is noted for its splendid race relationship on the street, in the shopping centers, one appreciates the courtesy exchanged by customer and salesman regardless of race. Our city is a vital artery in the great tobacco industry. Most of the revenue that maintains our county and its institutions come from the Golden Leaf. Although the processing of tobacco is only seasonal work, many families are dependent on it for their sustenance. Most of the workers leave their homes at a great sacrifice, leaving their children and home work to others.

The writer was prompted to write to you as a result of an incident that occurred in one of our processing plants less than twenty-four (24) hours ago. An incident that runs contrary to the usual serenity that is paramount in the factories.
The story—A certain Negro woman left her home and invalid mother on Monday at 4:30 p.m. to report to work. She left her husband to prepare supper and wait on her mother.
Unfortunately, she only worked one hour before she returned home to her mother. Not because something had gone wrong at home, because everyone was surprised to see her. But why? Because she resented the insulting manner of her supervising foreman, a member of the white race. His approach: "I can make it easy for you if you will do as I say. I have been with colored women before, and if you don't listen I can make it hard for you."

The woman resented this approach and, in no uncertain terms, advised him accordingly, and left her job. Subsequently, she reported to the superintendent that she was leaving and why.
The writer has nothing but commendation for the plant in question; for within a half-hour the company's official car drove to the Negro woman's door and told her to come and return to her work and assured her there would be no repetition of such an incident. The culprit was fired.
George M. Jones, Greenville, N. C.

Business Today

When two retailers meet today it is a good bet that within the first five minutes one of them asks, "How good will business be after Labor Day?"
There is a seasonal upturn after Labor Day. Families are back from vacation, children must be readied for school, the calendar turns attention to fall and winter clothing needs and cool weather snaps most human activities.
An almost perfect case for a trumping rise in sales can be made.
Personal income is at record high.
Deductions for taxes won't be as high as expected earlier.
Savings are high, having reached an annual rate of $19,000,000,000 during the second quarter.
The cost of living appears to have declined, though slightly, from the July 15 peak.
Credit terms have been softened so as to bring several million families back into the installment market.
Employment is at a record peace-time high.
Prices for most consumer goods have stopped rising; indeed, some prices have been shaved.
Despite the fact that almost every economic condition is favorable, there are some who have only restrained optimism. They point out that when people have confidence in the international situation, they are less likely to accumulate goods than they are during periods of uncertainty. And if foreign affairs have not improved, they have not turned much worse.
Furthermore, a lot of buyers' resistance has been built up. It has been stiffened by the failure of so many predictions of shortages. The public was led to expect them last year, they were predicted again for this spring. Then the public was told they would come with production out-backs in July. But they haven't happened yet.

DEPARTMENT STORES TRAILING OTHERS
Now that the figures are in, retailers generally appear to have done better than department stores in July. The Federal Reserve's index on department stores sales has sales 13 per cent lower than a year ago, while Department of Commerce figures for all retail shows a decline of only 8 per cent.
UNCERTAINTY SLOWS SOME COLLECTIONS
A large number of business firms report a lag in collections. One company says its receipts are slower than at any time since 1933.
There is a seasonal lag about this time every year, with so many treasurers, bookkeepers and accountants on vacation. But some companies say the lag is more than seasonal.
Their accounts, they say, are solvent. It's just that a bit of uncertainty has permeated some lines and some companies are "conserving" assets by paying important suppliers first and letting others wait a little longer. Some of the uncertainty has been caused by the slowness in finding new corporate tax rates.
SHIPPING CARTON BECOMES PLAYHOUSE
Furniture shipping cartons that can be converted into children's playhouses are being used by one company, Herman Miller Furniture Co., Zeeland, Mich.
After the carton has been used for shipping, remanufacturing the wooden bottom and cutting a door and window, per directions, makes the container into a playhouse.
FLAKES: Wheat germ flake form is being introduced as a breakfast cereal by Battle Creek Food Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
AIR-CONDITIONER: A new General Electric air conditioning unit that furnishes hot air in winter and cool air in summer is unlike others in that it can be attached to central heating systems already installed. It is by General Electric.
CUT-OUT: A "radio silencer" that has met response in New York is no woeing marketed nationally by Roy Ketchum & Co., Horseheads, N. Y. The can be plugged into any wall socket and the radio plugged into the cut-out. There's a button on an extension cord from the cut-out and pushing the button will silence the radio for a short time.

The important point is that nothing has happened to dissolve the resistance and the old law of inertia may hold true.
A new way scare would do it. Or it may come when the first man trying to buy a car is told he will have to wait six weeks and take any color that comes in.
Or it may come with a series of bang-up promotions and a large charge of daring merchandising.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK —(AP)—The campaign in Korea still is the strangest in the history of American arms.
For two months now more words than bullets have been fired in anger back and forth across the tattered peninsula. Instead of trying to call each other's shots, each side has been calling each other names.
Only a year ago the North Korean order of the day was "On To Pusan." And the fledgling American Army's grim instructions were to "Stars, Or Die" on the Naktong River line.
The present philosophy of all adversaries seems to be that comfortable old schoolyard slogan:

tions could stay in Korea. No one who was there then can help but feel today the hope of a settlement of the Korean issue is nearer. The longer the talking goes on, the surer it is there won't be any more major battles.
Conversation is often boring, but it is rarely fatal. And the more anybody talks about fighting the less reason he sees for it.

Washington Letter

By VERN HAUGLAND (For JANE EADS)

WASHINGTON — Chairman Robert Ramspeck of the Civil Service Commission — formerly Rep. Ramspeck (D-Ga.) — says membership in the House of Representatives should be reduced by about one-half.

He says each enlarged congressional district then should elect two representatives, one to Congress and the other to represent the people with the executive branch. This is necessary because of the size of the job facing the congressman of today, Ramspeck says.

The Georgian initially made his suggestion in 1945—his last year as a representative—to the Joint Committee on the Reorganization of Congress. "It was not given serious consideration, but a solution is needed," Ramspeck says. Recently he revived the proposal in an address at Denver.

"Big government, like big business, must have more layers of responsibility," he said. "The lesser layers of officialdom are not well known, but they make the studies and prepare the data upon which the known officials make decisions. We must be sure that they are dedicated career people, devoted to the public interest—not to some pressure group."

"In the early days senators and congressmen did not have their time consumed with the problems of representing constituents in matters pending for decision in the executive branch. "Now most of their time is so consumed. As a result, the time they can devote to legislative problems is limited. This is a most difficult problem for them. I know from experience. If they fall in their contact with constituents, they do not get re-elected."

Ramspeck said his proposal would require a constitutional amendment for the prohibition of the legislative representative from invading the jurisdiction of the executive branch. 2. Keep the representative of the executive branch from attempting to influence legislation. "Any big business would adopt a similar solution—that is, divide the job when it becomes too difficult for one man," Ramspeck says. "If some solution is not found, good men will be unwilling to serve in the Congress. The burden has become too great."

The Senate has lightened its load by providing each senator with an executive assistant. "That has created a problem in connection with keeping the government responsible to the people," Ramspeck said in his speech. "It is said, 'I have no doubt, are doing the best—but you, the public, did not elect them.'"

The lull has given South Korea time to train more troops and do something to help her millions of displaced refugees. And it's average Korean farmer, looking into his greening paddies, can't help but pray to his household gods that the unofficial truce will go on for another two months or so. That'll give him time to harvest his rice, the crop his life depends on.

This strange half-armistice also has been a lifesaver for scores of thousands of weary American veterans who took the brunt of heavy fighting from the start. It has given the army a chance to rotate them home and replace them with new troops. And for that reason alone many homes today hold a tremendous gladness.

Only a year ago it was still really nip-and-tuck whether the Stars and Stripes and the blue-and-white flag of the United Na-

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

Knowledge of the proper use of screws and screw drivers is very important to the household repair man and home craftsman. The amateur who thinks a screw driver is such a simple tool that there is nothing to learn about it is often the man who uses it for a can opener, cold chisel or crowbar. His house is probably peppered with woodwork blemishes and chipped-up screwheads caused by wrong-sized screw drivers slipping out of slots.

Screws have so much more holding power than nails that you'll find them variably used in critical places—keeping hinges securely in place to prevent doors from sagging—securing locks and handles—holding heavy parts together in furniture, such as piano legs—even fastening in place small brackets for curtain rods. Where a screw is called for, nothing else will quite do the job.

While there are more than 100 varieties of nails in common everyday use, without counting different sizes, there are even more kinds of screws. Wood screws—most common in and around the house—are the tapered, pointed varieties with rather coarse threads for gripping wood fibers. Machine screws, or bolts, are made of straight, untapered rods, threaded to fit nuts.

Ordinary wood screws have heads that are flat, round, oval or fillistered. The undersides of the flat head and oval head screws are beveled to permit them to be countersunk into the wood. The undersides of round head and fillister head screws are flat leaving the screwhead above the surface of the wood.

In addition to the usual slotted screws, driven with ordinary screw drivers, there are Phillips screws with two V-slots crossing at center. These can be driven only with Phillips screwdriver. They are commonly used in mass assembly work—automobile trim, radio cabinets and furniture. The advantage is that no time is wasted fitting the screwdriver into the slot and the screwdriver is not apt to slip out to damage expensive finishes.

Then there is the lag screw—a large wood screw with a square unslotted head like that of a bolt. This is used in heavy construction where maximum strength is needed. The lag screw is driven with a wrench.

A drive screw is a combination screw-nail. It has a very coarse spiral thread, pointed tip and a slotted head for removal.

The advantage of being able to remove screws and take work apart without damaging the members is one of the most important features of screws. However, if screws are not properly driven in the first place, their heads are damaged by careless workmanship, this advantage of removal is impaired.

No screw should be driven without a pilot hole. The master craftsman will never start a screw with a hammer. If it's a small screw and the wood is soft, it is often unnecessary to start it, or a sharp punch or bradawl, may suffice. But for good practice a pilot hole is bored, slightly smaller than the diameter of the threaded part of the screw.

Pilot holes in hardwood and for all but the smallest screws are enlarged to the depth of the unthreaded shank of the screw. Then the screw is rubbed on a piece of beeswax, paraffin or soap and driven into place.

Where the screw head is to be concealed, a third section of the pilot hole is widened to the width of the screwhead and bored deep enough to accommodate a plug of the same kind of wood as the surface. This plug is glued into place over the screw, sanded smooth and finished with the surface.

In driving a screw, select the right sized screw driver to exactly fit the slot in the screw head. If the blade is too small it may break or slip from the slot, chewing the screw head. If it is too large it will not fit into the bottom of the slot, slip out and mar the wood.

The tip of the screw driver must be sharply square. When its edges become rounded it is dangerous. Use both hands in driving a screw. One hand grips the screw driver handle, cupped in the palm against the heel of the thumb. The other hand holds the blade in the slot. Use the longest screw driver possible. Stubby drivers are for cramped places only.

Brass screws will not rust, but they are much more apt to twist off than steel screws. If you want to use brass screws in hardwood, it's a good idea to insert a steel screw of the same size and thread the pilot hole first. Then remove it and drive the brass screw.

To remove a tight screw that doesn't seem to budge at first try, a slight twist to the right—the direction in which the screw is driven—often helps to get it started. Then twist in the opposite direction. Magnetized screw drivers, for holding small steel screws, are available in any hardware store. Ratchet screw drivers and screw driver bits for ratchet braces are very handy tools. Countersink bits are indispensable for sinking flat and oval heads flush with a surface.

More States Aid School Districts

CHICAGO (UP)—The Council of State Governments reports that several states have moved to help local school districts relieve the critical shortage of school buildings.

The shortage was brought on partly by the war-time increase in the birth rate.

Following the lead of Pennsylvania, several states have created special school building authorities designed to help local districts finance new buildings or expand old ones, the council said.

Among them are Georgia, Indiana and Maine.

The Pennsylvania public school building authority was established in 1947 to construct, improve, maintain and operate school buildings.

Most of the other plans adopted by various states this year are patterned after the Pennsylvania plan, the council said.

Propose Single Memorial Day

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Growing interest in observing Memorial Day as a holiday instead of Armistice Day, November 11, and the victory days is shown by a survey of West Texas cities completed by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Sixty-six local chambers of commerce contributed to the survey. Twenty-eight reported their towns observe Memorial Day while only twenty "close up" on Armistice Day and none on VJ Day.

The American Revolution ended October 19, 1781.

Photographers In East Germany Under Police Eye

BERLIN (AP)—The long arm of the police and the long nose of the censor are closing in on the photographer in Communist-ruled East Germany.

A new law requires that all professional photographers press, portrait and commercial—register with the police. They must also register all their employees, especially their dark room men. The law demands that every photograph made "bear the stamps of the photographer who made it and the man who developed it, together with their police registration numbers. This applies even to snapshots for passports or identification cards.

This is to make it easier for the "people's police" to catch up with the producers and disseminators of any pictures regarded objectionable.

Mecca Indicated Hazardous City

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—The federal government announced that 100 aged pilgrims who left Malaya for Mecca on the first sailing this year of the steamer "Tyndareus" died "owing to the climatic and living conditions in the Holy City."

The pilgrimage advisory committee said it would discuss at its next session the question of introducing more rigorous medical tests for pilgrims.

The most common jellyfish on the Atlantic coast is the shimmering "moon jelly," or aurelia aurita, which has eight eyes, tentacles and stingers.

Rare Natural Mummy Of Indian Child Is Unearthed

BERKELEY, Calif. —(UP)— A natural human mummy, a rare find in California archaeology, is reported by anthropologists on the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

The partially mummified remains of an eight or nine-year-old child, with an accumulation of prehistoric archaeological material and various objects dating from the '49 Gold Rush period, were found in Samert Cave near Clemente.

In addition to the desiccated remains of the child, the anthropologists recovered pieces of basketry, shells, arrow shafts, remains of food, acorn shells and pieces of netting.

The find was important because it included perishable items which disintegrate in the usual open sites, according to Dr. Robert F. Heizer, associate professor of anthropology who reported it.

The dry, closed, protected location of the site, in this case, accounted for the preservation of archaeological findings.

Wrapped in Cordage
The natural mummy, one of three so far found in California, was wrapped in a cordage carrying net and sandwiched between two halves of an openwork twined burden basket. Judging from the artifacts accompanying it, Heizer ascribed the child to the Miwok tribe.

Heizer said that although cave burial was rare among California Indians, the fact that the other two cases were also children seems to indicate an existing cultural practice of occasional special interment of children in caves.

He speculated that the cave had served as a kind of retreat during the period when the Indians were being crowded from their land by the gold miners.

Reveal Story Of Philanthropist

ABILENE, Tex. —(AP)— The life story of Arthur Lee Wasson, Big Spring rancher, oil man and philanthropist, is told in a new book, "Adventuring with a Purpose."

The book was written by Dr. Rupert N. Richardson, president of Hardin-Simmons University, a Baylor Co. of San Antonio.

Wasson and the late Mrs. Wasson have donated about $2,500,000 to southern Baptist institutions. Wasson has cattle and oil interests in Texas, Montana, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado and northern Mexico.

Whooping Crane Nesting Tragedy

NEW YORK —(AP)— Another nesting tragedy for Ori and Jo, the only mated pair of whooping cranes in captivity, is reported by the National Audubon Society. As the result of a flood, their single egg was broken before it had a chance to hatch.

The birds are at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas. This tends to show, says the society, that the crane's best chances for survival (there are only about 30 of the birds left) depend on its breeding successes in the far north. Most of the cranes winter in Texas, but just where they nest is not known.

The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was organized in 1866 and incorporated in New York State.

Memorial Day, May 30, also known as Decoration Day, was first observed in 1868.

Active Woman Is Constantly Busy

CORINTH, Miss. —(UP)— It's never a surprise to people around here when they run into Mrs. Dora Walden, anytime, anywhere.

In addition to being a farm wife, she's a school lunchroom supervisor; a practical nurse; secretary and treasurer of a farmer's market; 4-H club leader and past president of the home demonstration council.

She writes a column for the local newspaper about activities in her farm community. She also finds time to can from 300 to 500 quarts of fruits and vegetables each year.

Ten Percent Of Sub's Weight In Rubber Material

AKRON, O. —(AP)— Ten per cent of the total weight of a United States Navy submarine is rubber.

Perhaps the largest amount is used in the vessel's 252 hard rubber company (B. F. Goodrich) estimates. The bulkheads and decks of each of the two battery rooms which house the huge cells are completely covered with rubber for protection against acids.

Rubber also can be found in the gaskets that make hatch covers and compartment doors watertight. In flood and vent valves on ballast and trim tanks, in shock mountings for heavy machinery and other equipment, and in electric cables, water and oil hose.

Red Sox Defeat Ormondsville, 6 - 4 For Third Victory

Kid Gavilan Beats Billy Graham In Title Defense

NEW YORK—(AP)—Kid Gavilan won a hairline decision over Billy Graham to keep the world welterweight championship, but the fight served only to start a furious argument.

It was their third meeting and the third split decision. Graham now has won once and the Cuban twice.

The 15-round fight last night in Madison Square Garden resolved itself into a matter of personal opinion. Gavilan was more generally the aggressor, started fast, and threw long, looping punches. C. Graham was the superb counter-puncher, started slowly, and closed with a mighty rush. Despite the FARMVILLE—Farmville's fighting Red Sox won their third straight game in the championship finals of the Bright Belt League by defeating Ormondsville, 6-4.

The sixth of the seven-game series will be reeled off tonight. Farmville now is leading by a 3-2 margin over Ormondsville.

Worthington-Whitehurst Elected Ayden Co-Captains

AYDEN—Veterans Darrell Worthington and Mac Whitehurst were elected co-captains of the 1951 Tennessee football squad yesterday.

Worthington is a halfback who is being tried at the quarterback slot this season. Whitehurst is an "H" Conference end now in his third year.

Coach Stuart Tripp sent the boys through scrimmage sessions both Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, with offensive stress. The first team ran plays against the defensive second string.

The team has been bolstered since opening day, with the squad now totaling 26. Newcomers Todd Krell and W. O. Jolly have looked good in line along with veterans Riley Tripp and Randall Harrington and first year man Bobby Harris.

A big struggle is going on between Curtis Dennis, a sub and on last year's undefeated squad, Billy Holland, and John Benson for the center position, vacated by two-time all-conference Greg Davis.

Worthington, Hal Edwards, John Edward Cheek, and Delano Cox are fighting for the backfield positions. Cox and Worthington are raging a battle for the position under the center. Both boys played at the position several times last season. Cheek is probably the fastest man on the team, deadly in open field running. Edwards played at nearly every position on team in 1950 although listed as a back.

Coach Tripp is reported to be pleased with the progress shown so far, especially in the new boys. His team will take a thorough test in the season opener against Williams on September 21.

Ayden is running from the T and Double Wing-Back formations again this year.

Willie Mays, New York Giants' rookie outfielder, blasted his first 15 major league home runs off 15 different pitchers.

Charles MacDonald won the first USGA Amateur golf championship in 1895.

Sam Mels, outfielder for the Washington Senators, is a nephew of Tony Cucinello, Cincinnati Reds coach.

Bobby Avila, second baseman for the Cleveland Indians, was born in Vera Cruz, Mexico.

CORRECTION

It was reported in yesterday's paper that Mark Herring hit an inside-the-park home run in Tuesday night's game. Instead, it was outfielder Gathier Cline, all-star from Gastonia, who hit the circuit drive to bat in three runs and win the contest for Farmville.

Manager Norman Clark's crew lost the first two games and caught fire and have passed the Greene County nine in the last three games. Clark scheduled to go to the mound himself tonight in the all-important contest. The Farmville pitching staff has been bolstered throughout the series by a young Farmville High graduate, Harvey Lee Webb. Webb, whose name has constantly bobbed up in box scores of the games, has appeared in three of the last four games. He has won one of the three and saved two others. He could do nothing with the outcome of the other.

Joe Hines started for the Red Sox last night but was relieved in the seventh by the same Webb mentioned above. Manager Garland Little hurled the entire game for the losers.

Catcher Ralph Britt continued his hard hitting in the series by blasting out a pair of singles and two doubles last night, to lead the Red Sox in the hitting department.

Jimmy Byrd, pitcher—now playing in the outfield, led the losers with a brace of safeties, including a single and a double.

Plans For Shrine Bowl Completed

CHARLOTTE—(AP)—Plans were completed here yesterday for the 15th annual Shrine Bowl All-Star football game between North Carolina and South Carolina.

The Bowl athletic committee picked three coaches from each state for the Dec. 1 classic. Their names will be announced about the middle of October.

Squads will be selected at a meeting here Nov. 11 and will report Nov. 25 to start practice for the game, which will be played in Charlotte's Memorial Stadium.

Herman Brown is general chairman of the game this year, with Stan Cropley as athletic director, assisted by Jim Grey.

The committee is composed of Brown, Cropley, Grey, E. P. Faulkner, George Sparger, Doc Martin, Dave Harris, Bob Quincey and Wilton Garrison.

According to the committee, all general admission seats to the game have already been sold, and only a few of the Shrine Bowler tickets remain.

ELKS GO TO PUERTO RICO
NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(AP)—Coach Howard Hobson, Yale basketball coach, will take ten members of last year's squad to Puerto Rico in September for a few court games. Two of the contests will be with the University of Puerto Rico and one each with amateur teams in Ponce San Germain and the College of Agriculture at Mayaguez.

During the regular season the University of Puerto Rico will return the compliment and meet the Bulldogs Jan. 3 at the El Gym.

Champ Will Not Return To Coast

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—World Champion Jimmy Carter of New York will take his slightly tarnished crown back east in a few days, swearing he will never defend it in California.

"We were robbed once. Never again."

So spoke his manager, Willie Ketchum, in a bitter aftermath of Carter's loss in a 10-round fight Monday night to Art Aragon, so-called "Golden Boy" of Los Angeles.

Cocky Aragon grabbed the split decision before a sellout crowd of 10,400 fans who paid $47,533 gross to witness the non-title match.

The defeat, tenth in 69 fights for Carter, came as a surprise to many of the ringsters who had installed him as the favorite, and proved a distinct shock to the New Yorker and his handlers.

Aragon, trailing in the middle rounds, caught fire when he saw the blood streaming from Carter's left eyebrow as the eighth canto got under way. It had been opened in the last minute of the previous round. Referee Roth said it was a clean left hook but Carter claimed he was butted.

Coast Leaguers Threaten To Quit

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Rumblings of a new baseball war were heard over the Pacific coast today.

Directors of the big, Triple-A Pacific Coast League voted unanimously last night to quit organized baseball unless their demands for abolition of the draft and recognition of major league equality were accepted.

The drastic steps culminated a five year struggle to free the coast circuit from the draft law which permits major league clubs to pick up Triple-A players for $10,000. The coast loop was the last of the minor leagues to accept the draft, agreeing to it in 1951.

One bitter complaint against the draft was the case of George Metkovich, an outfielder purchased by Oakland from the Boston Red Sox for $25,000. After a sparkling season, Metkovich was drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates for $10,000.

The coast delegates also shut the door on the possibility of a major league outfit purchasing the San Francisco club by reaffirming a resolution adopted in 1944. The resolution prohibits the sale of any CPL club to the big leagues.

Darlington Track Has Mystery Man

DARLINGTON—(AP)—Officials at the Darlington speedway here have a mystery on their hands.

Track officials are still wondering today who drove a 1950 Oldsmobile eight laps around the mile and a quarter track yesterday at an average speed of 81.11 miles per hour to become the day's top qualifier for the 500-mile Labor Day race.

Harvey (Ace) McGarrin of Jacksonville, Fla., was supposed to be at the wheel of the Olds. But McGarrin was in Jacksonville.

Yankees Tie Cleveland For Lead By Defeating Graver

New Yorkers Defeat Brownies, 15-2, As Cleveland Loses 3-0 Shut-Out To Athletics; Hodges Sets New Bum Record

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
The American League today had that old look—all knotted up—and one good reason is the Yankees' amazing success against the pitcher or many consider the best in the American League — Ned Garver, the Brown's star curve-baller.

Garver hasn't beaten the Yankees in the last two and a half years—eight straight decisions having gone against him—and the latest was a 15 to 2 shelling that vaulted the New Yorkers back into a tie with the Indians for the lead last night.

The Indians, deep in a run-famine that threatens to strangle their pennant chances, had already suffered their third shutout in six games—a 3 to 0 loss to the Athletics—when the Yankees took the field against Garver last night. The Yankees knew all they had to do to gain a tie was beat the Brownies for the eighth straight time and they wasted no time showing they were equal to the job.

Garver retired only one man before the Yankees had pounded him for four hits and five runs. They went on to blast 17 hits, including homers by Mickey Mantle and Gil McDougald, as Allie Reynolds breezed to an easy two-hit victory. Reynolds probably would have had a shutout except that catcher Yogi Berra dropped a foul pop fly by Ken Wood just before the Brownie outfielder hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

Cleveland wasted another fine pitching performance—this one by 17-game winner Mike Garcia—who now have scored only eight runs in their last seven games. Gus Zernial had a hand in all Philadelphia's scoring, blasting a two-run homer in the fourth inning and scoring after hitting a double in the seventh.

Alex Kellner scattered five hits to win his eighth game and score the first shutout of his major league career.

Boxer Flores Is Hurt In Knock-Out

NEW YORK (AP)—Welterweight boxer George Flores of Brooklyn, who was knocked out and fell to regain consciousness last night, was reported in critical condition today after a brain operation.

The surgery was completed at 1 a. m. (EST). Dr. James Daniels, who participated in the operation, said the object was to remove pressure on a blood cot. Indications were that there would be no change in the 20-year-old Flores' condition for several hours.

He was taken to St. Clare's Hospital after being knocked out by Roger Donoghue of Yonkers, N.Y., in the eighth and last round of the semi-final bout of the Kid Gavilan-Billy Graham welterweight championship card at Madison Square Garden.

Dick Savitt Has Infection In Legs

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (UP)—Dick Savitt's hopes for a grand slam of the world's three greatest tennis crowns were threatened today by a leg infection that may force a postponement and possibly a default of his fourth round match in the U. S. championship against Straight Clark of Pasadena, Cal.

The Orange, N. J., slant, winner of the Australian and Wimbledon titles this year, came down with a mysterious swelling on the calf of his left leg late yesterday and was ordered to bed immediately by his physician.

His match against Clark was listed tentatively for today but if he is unable to go through with it he'll be granted a postponement until Friday, the final deadline.

Four other men's singles matches were on the schedule to round out the quarter-finals, reached yesterday by Frank Sedgman of Australia, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Gardnar Mulloy of Miami.

Defending champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Cal., drew a tough foe in young Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La.; Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Cal. was matched against Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J.; Vic Seixas of Philadelphia against Ken McGregor of Australia and Budge Patty of Los Angeles against Maryvyn Rose of Australia.

Sedgman, top-seeded Foreign player, rolled into the quarter-finals yesterday with a highly convincing victory over Billy Talbot of New York, 6-1, 6-1, 7-5.

Added Hunting Days For Ducks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interior Department today granted the nation's duck-hunters five to 10 extra days of shooting this fall.

Acting Secretary Richard D. Searles Jr. signed new migratory waterfowl hunting regulations, liberalized because of favorable conditions on the northern breeding grounds throughout the summer.

Albert M. Day, director of the Fish and Wildlife Service, said he hoped the longer seasons would "give gunners in every section of the country good opportunities for shooting, regardless of unpredictable weather conditions."

The bag and possession limits for ducks remain the same as last year.

Changes for this year include: Atlantic Flyway (Eastern Seaboard states)—a 45-day open season, an increase of five days. States selecting a split season will have two periods of 18 days each.

For the first time since 1946 this flyway will have a 10-day brant season, with a daily bag and possession limit of three. The coot bag limit has been reduced from 15 to 10. The bag limit of four ducks and eight in possession remains the same.

The open season for duck: Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, Nov. 22-Jan. 5.

Brant—daily bag and possession limit, three. Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, Nov. 22-Dec. 1.

Yanks Purchase Johnny Sain For $50,000—Player

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees said today that newly-acquired pitcher Johnny Sain "may be able to prove himself on the field."

The Yankees acquired the 33-year-old right-hander, who has been a 20-game winner four times since 1945, in a waiver deal with the Boston Braves yesterday. The Yankees gave the Braves' 24-year-old pitcher Lou Burdette, on option to San Francisco in the Pacific Coast League from New York's Kansas City farm club in the American Association, and an undisclosed sum of cash believed to be $50,000.

It was the third time in as many years that the Yankees engineered a deal with a National League club for important aid at a key stage of the race. They acquired Johnny Mize from the Giants in 1949 and Johnny Hopp from the Pirates last year in similar deals.

Stengel did not attempt to hide his elation at Sain's acquisition but admitted he was not sure how he intended to use the 33-year-old curve-ball specialist.

"He should bolster our second-line pitching but I'm not certain yet whether I'll use him as a starter or in relief."

Stengel has been so hard-pressed for a capable late-inning relief pitcher this year that he has been forced to ask starters Allie Reynolds and Bob Kuzava to double up as relievers. He has even toyed with the idea of putting Reynolds, a 13-game winner, in the bullpen permanently.

Ralph Kiner, slugging star for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was born in Santa Rita, New Mexico.

struction since 1948. Besides television it is designed to carry telephone and other communications services. In fact the telephone part was put under way in mid-August, ahead of TV. This link is made up of 56 relay stations, many of which utilize the high peaks of the Rocky mountains over which the circuit passes in going through Denver, without a TV station as yet, and through Salt Lake City.

Actually, from New York to San Francisco a total of 107 relay towers are required. In addition to the micro-wave relay from New York there also is a coaxial cable to coast TV operation it is planned to use only the micro-wave pathway to insure full range signals.

At the start of TV service, the circuit is to operate on a one-way basis, east to west. Later regular transmissions from the west coast, which of course means Hollywood originations, will be added. However, in opening the circuit ahead of the original date of September 30, temporary arrangements were made to pick up the Japanese treaty conference at San Francisco.

Besides San Francisco, Los Angeles-Hollywood and Salt Lake City, it is possible for San Diego, Calif., to hook on through a direct pickup from Los Angeles. These cities have 13 stations, divided San Francisco three, Los Angeles seven, Salt Lake City two and San Diego one.

The 11 TV cities having a total of 13 stations, which will not be a part of the network until considerably later, are in the far south, the southwest and the Pacific northwest.

Miami and New Orleans with one station each are up for addition later in 1962. The next year it is expected service will be available to Oklahoma and Texas, where Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Ft. Worth and Houston have one station each and Dallas and San Antonio have two stations each.

No dates have been set for the linking in Phoenix, N. M., Phoenix, Ariz., and Seattle, Wash., each with one station.

NEW YORK — Network television, now expanding coast to coast, will embrace all but 11 of the country's 65 TV cities. In these network communities are 94 of the 107 operating stations.

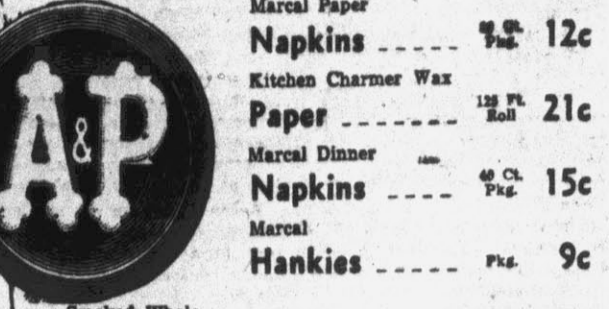

The extended service is made possible through a new microwave radio relay link between Omaha and San Francisco which in turn contact an established microwave circuit to Los Angeles and Hollywood. The new circuit is part of the system of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., directly on one or the other circuit, programs are available to them through private relays. These consist either of special microwave circuits of direct pickup and retransmission of programs from a studio, fairly close by. The newlink has been under con-

Friends Gather For Walker Rites

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Robert Walker's closest friends, shocked by his tragic death at the peak of his fine comeback in the movies, were gathering today to pay final tribute.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Walker, parents of the 37-year-old actor, were arranging for the funeral service. They flew here yesterday from their home in Ogden, Utah. Walker's former wife, actress Jennifer Jones, planned from New York with her husband, movie producer David O. Selznick.

Final rites for the young actor will be held Saturday afternoon at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, in nearby Glendale.

Two psychiatrists, Dr. Frederick J. Hacker and Dr. Sidney H. Silver, signed the death certificate saying he succumbed last night because of a respiratory failure after he had been given an injection of seven and one-half grains of sodium amylal. The sedative was given, they said, because he was in a highly emotional state. Walker had been a patient at the Hacker Psychiatric Clinic for the last 18 months.

'The Saint' Will Visit Singapore

SINGAPORE —(AP)— 'The Saint' is expected to pay his first visit in 25 years to Singapore in the near future. So says Dr. S. C. Yin, 75, the father of Leslie Charteris, author of 'The Saint' novels.

Dr. Yin said Charteris, who was born in Singapore, was named Leslie Charles Bowyer Yin but "by the time Leslie was 19 he already had adopted the nom-de-plume of Leslie Charteris, and later as a real name."

Charteris, 44, now lives in Beverly Hills, Calif. He wrote his first book "Esquire" in Singapore.

Crochets To Keep Fingers Nimble

CHICAGO —(UP)— Mrs. Bernice Granati, 53, must crochet every day to keep her fingers from stiffening permanently.

Doctors told Mrs. Granati that she has an arthritic condition which will cripple her hands unless she exercises them constantly. A widow, Mrs. Granati appealed to Chicago residents for crocheting thread. She is on relief and doesn't have the funds to keep herself supplied with the thread.

New Draft Rules Cut Deferments

WASHINGTON (AP)—New draft regulations now awaiting President Truman's approval would deprive well over 300,000 men of present draft deferments. Selective Service said yesterday that between 100,000 and 200,000 childless married men will lose their deferments under the new rules. An estimated 100,000 4-F's are expected to be drafted when the armed forces' mental standards are lowered. The new regulations will carry out provisions of the Universal Military Training and Service (UMTS) Act. The act also calls for reclassification of thousands of displaced persons who are permanent residents of this country but not yet U. S. citizens. And some 9,000 conscientious objectors, heretofore deferred outright, will be required to do essential defense work.

Drill Called Off, Firehouse Afire

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—A ladder practice session for firemen from Engine House No. 20 ended in a hurry last night. Five minutes after the fire-fighters arrived at the practice area, they received a call to put out a fire at Engine House No. 20. A gas outlet on a stove had accidentally been left open while repairs were being made and caused a fire that resulted in $40 damage.

Miss Janet Waters Describes Experiences In Drama School

Miss Janet Waters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Waters of 107 Woodlawn Avenue, returned Sunday from a six weeks' period of study at the Burnsville School of Fine Arts, Burnsville, N. C. Miss Waters was given a scholarship by Women's College to attend the school, which is annually sponsored by the Extension Department and the School of Fine Arts of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. The enrollment is limited to 80 students, who come from all over the United States to attend the six weeks' course in drama, music, art and creative writing. While there Miss Waters appeared in three productions: "The Taming of the Shrew" by Shakespeare, the annual music and dance recital, and also the musical production of "Iolanthe." In the first performance, Miss Waters played the role of Bianca, the second feminine lead. In the music and dance recital, she was a dancing member of the group, and in "Iolanthe" she was one of a trio of dancers. During her six weeks there, Miss Waters attended three classes five days a week, for two of which she will receive college credit. They were courses in "Introduction to the Theatre," taught by Gay Collier from Abilene, Texas, a member of the drama department of Texas Christian University; "Play Production," taught by W. R. Taylor, a member of the drama department of Woman's College; and a course in "Voice and Diction" taught by Miss Catherine England, also of the drama department of the Woman's College. "I learned in six weeks by doing what I would have learned in a year of college work," Miss Waters stated. There the students did all of the work connected with the production of play-building sets, designing scenery, designing and making costumes, executing their own lighting effects, and doing their own make-up, as well as selecting, rehearsing, producing and directing their plays. A different presentation was shown every week, and in that week's time, the participants had to start from the beginning with the assignment of the production and be ready to present it to the audience, composed of local inhabitants of the community, in six days' time. "The most marvelous thing about the experience," Miss Waters said, "was to see everybody working together for the same thing. All were most concerned about each show and there was perfect cooperation on the part of all." Miss Waters will enter East Carolina College this fall as a major in Primary Education.

OUTCAST OF DESTINY

PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 16

Well, he had wormed himself back into her good graces and might learn something yet. He moved about the room playing a little at the various tables, but continuing to watch Judy. The man she was with was tall and good-looking; he kept buying drinks and presently Judy was smiling at him and letting him hold her hand. Brent got madder by the minute, and finally went out to cool off in the night air.

When he returned to the Palace the goodlooking outlaw had gone and Shotgun was at the table with Judy. A sullen rage came into him and he went over to where they sat and stood glaring at Cuthbert until he looked up. Brent said, "Get out; I want to talk to Judy."

Shotgun pushed back his chair and got up. "By grab, feller, you ain't order me around that— I said, get out."

Shotgun's face was flaming. "If it wasn't for this bum arm—!"

"Your gun arm's all right," Brent told him.

"You're dapped tootin' it fat!" Men were watching them and Shotgun raised his voice. "I'm gettin' tired of seein' you around, Tex. Git out of Destiny by tomor-rer night or you'll find out how good that gun arm is."

"That's too long to wait," drawled Brent. "Let's make it noon."

"That's just peachy. I'll be ready for you and rarin' to go." He backed away three steps, gave a curt nod and turned away. He shuffled the length of the room and went through the doorway to the street.

"Tex! Judy's voice was sharp, strained. He turned and looked at her; the mask was gone and there was fear on her face. She said, "He'll kill you!"

"Maybe." He sat down, leaned over the table. "Judy, I asked you to marry me and you turned me down. I thought that maybe I'd gone about it the wrong way but now I don't know. I believe that this life has got into your blood, that it comes easy to make up to anybody who'll shell out the price of a double shot, including scum like Shotgun Cuthbert."

She winced as though he had struck her. "Tex!"

He went on, his voice tight. "The other night you wouldn't even give me a dance. You'd saved them all for Biff. Tonight I learn that while I was away you were entertaining him and liking it. Just how far that entertainment has gone I don't know, but I suppose that's your business."

The brown eyes were angry and there were spots of color in her cheeks. "It certainly is my business! I'm glad you realize it."

He pushed back the chair and got up. "Okay, I won't bother you any more. I tried to help you, to make the tough spots a little smoother, but you don't seem to want it th... ay. You don't need me anymore. I was even fool enough to fall in love with you, but I'm not foolish enough to think that makes any difference to you."

He turned away, ignoring her agonized "Tex!" and strode blindly back to the bar. Lil slipped in beside him. She said in a low, angry voice, "What have you done to the kid now?"

"Just told her what I thought of the w... she's acting. I guess she didn't like what I said."

Lil used at him in speechless rage for a moment, then snapped, "You're the biggest jackass in Destiny!" and flounced away.

Brent moved about the place, uneasy and miserable. Half an hour passed and Shotgun came back in. He entered swaggering and he walked directly to Judy's table.

He heard Shotgun say, "Feelin' better?"

She said, "No, I don't feel any better. I don't want you here, Shotgun; I just don't like you."

Anger flamed in his cheeks. "Oh, you don't! And who do you think you are to play lady? Well, you're gonna drink with me and you're gonna do the drinkin' at the bar and not at no private table."

He seized her by a wrist and jerked violently and she was pulled out of her chair. She cried out with the pain and seized him by the injured arm. He jerked away, but she had felt the object he held in the hand which was hidden beneath his coat.

Brent, a dozen feet away, said "Turn her loose, Cuthbert!"

Shotgun let go her wrist, pushed her and she stumbled back into the chair. He turned slightly so that his right side was towards Brent. He grated, "Not tomor-rer night and not tomor-rer noon—now!" His right hand fell to the Colt at his hip.

"Tex! The other hand! Look out!"

The blood was pounding through Brent's veins and Judy's voice seemed to reach him from a distance. The import of her words struck him like a sledge, explaining in a flash Shotgun's confidence, belligerence and odd stance.

He hurled himself to the left even as Shotgun's coat spewed flame and smoke; he felt the bullet from the small gun Shotgun had concealed in his other hand rake along his side. His own gun came out while he was falling and he fired instinctively and from the hip.

He went crashing into a table and sent it skidding and heard Lil's

Feminine Hunch Finds Brothers

COLUMBUS, Ind. —(UP)— Mrs. Harold Hill tried for 21 years to get in touch with her two brothers whom she had lost track of in 1930. She was just about to give up hope. Their name was Smith and that

HUNT MISSING VESSEL

VALPARAISO, Chile (UP)—Ships and planes searched today for the Chilean schooner Inoa missing a week with 28 persons aboard en-route to Juan Fernandez (Robinson Crusoe) Island.

made it more difficult. While driving through Wichita, Kan., on a vacation trip, she stopped "just on a hunch" and looked through the city directory. She found two "William S. Smiths" and thought one might be one of the missing brothers. The first one she called was her brother. A family reunion followed.

Unpaid Teachers Talking Strike

KULPMONT, Pa. (UP)— Public school teachers in Kulpmont and Branch township threatened to strike next Tuesday, the first day of school, unless they are paid overdue salaries.

Representatives of 18 other school districts in Northumberland and Schuylkill counties met tonight to take a "like vote. Between 200 and 300 teachers in the two counties have not been paid over periods of one to six months.

Humidity Slows Clocks, Elevator

ST. LOUIS (UP)—The humidity was so bad in St. Louis yesterday that even the clocks and elevators slowed down.

Officials in the civil courts building said the 98 per cent humidity made the clocks run 15 minutes slow. And condensation inside the elevator signal apparatus prevented operators from hearing floor signals.

Walkout Halts Tunnel Project

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (UP)— A strike for higher wages kept most of the 300 carpenters employed at the multi-million dollar wind tunnel project here off the job today.

The carpenters have demanded a 15-cent hourly boost to raise their pay scale to $2.30 per hour. There was no picketing at the vast Arnold Engineering Development Center during the first day of the strike yesterday.

Irvin Levengood Is Dead Again

READING, Pa. (UP)—Irvin Levengood, 47, was dead again today. Levengood, who returned last April after being missing for years and having been declared legally dead, died in Sacred Heart Hospital at Allentown of natural causes after being found ill in a street.

STORM TOLL RISES KINGSTON, Jamaica (UP)—The death toll from a hurricane which battered this rum-making island last week has risen to 154, the government announced last night.

$400,000,000 Is Estimated Cost Of Equal Schools

By WILLIAM M. BATES
United Press Staff Correspondent
COLUMBIA, S.C. (UP)—Southern school officials have estimated that it would cost a staggering $400,000,000 at the minimum to preserve racial segregation in their classrooms by providing Negroes equal facilities.

A United Press survey in 11 of the Southern states where Negroes and Whites go to separate schools showed that the value of Negro school properties alone—buildings, grounds and plant facilities—totals some $400,000,000 behind White facilities in proportion to the enrollment of both races.

The South, spurred by the language of a three-judge panel that ruled in favor of separate but equal facilities in South Carolina, is engaged in an unprecedented school construction program. But there's a long way to go.

Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas, Tennessee and Virginia.

The most critical discrepancy in the Negro and White systems appeared to be in the value of school plant facilities.

About 30 per cent of the 7,507,000 public school students enrolled in the 11 states are Negroes. But the value of Negro school property is only about 15 per cent of the total for both races.

Mississippi, with about the same number of White and Negro students, valued its White school property at four times that provided for Negroes. Georgia, with Negroes making up one-third of the enrollment, has five times better facilities for White pupils.

On the other hand, Texas, with about six times as many Whites as Negroes in public schools, valued White school property at about $125,000,000 and Negro property at $75,000,000.

most progressive Southern state, values its White school property at about five times that for Negroes, although Negroes make up about one-third the enrollment. Arkansas has eight times better facilities for White pupils but they make up only three-fourths of the enrollment.

Some of the Southern states are taking bold action to bring school facilities for Negroes more in line.

South Carolina and Georgia plan to spend a total of $175,000,000 on building programs. Florida will vote on a constitutional amendment that would authorize a $150,000,000 school construction project. Alabama has approved a $5,000,000 program for 1951-52.

The best guess among officials contacted was that it would take ten years, even if White schools re "rined at today's level, to bring the Negro facilities up to the equal level.

'Dies,' Returns To Tell Of Dream

PENANG (AP)—Fifty-nine-year-old Prasarman Tambulung, an Indian overseer, "died" and when he awoke told a strange tale of visiting Hell.

While relatives prepared him for burial, Prasarman claimed his spirit wandered for five minutes "in a strange hereafter where there was only bare land, without houses and trees."

"It was drab, misty and weird. I looked round and saw spikes on which some wrongdoers were being punished," he said. These people looked like ordinary beings, except that they had large heads with tremendous eyes, ears, and noses. All around me were boiling cauldrons and huge flames. Suddenly I was thrust into a deep, fathomless pool of icy-cold water which practically numbed me."

At this stage Prasarman "returned to life." A few minutes more and he would have gone into a grave. Medical authorities, however, said they thought Prasarman might have been in a delirium during his visit to "Hell."

"Glow worms" are female and "gnat re fireflies."

American Tours Rubber Estates

PENANG (AP)—Warren S. Lockwood, chief of the Natural Rubber Bureau in Washington, thinks rubber planters in Malay are doing a good job.

Lockwood, touring Malay to urge the production of more rubber powder for road-building said here "If every American would take the trouble as myself to visit Malaya and see for himself the magnificent job being done in rubber estates under severest odds, I am sure the American government would realize the vital importance of increased use of natural rubber."

Lockwood is going to Indonesia after completing a 12-day tour in Malaya.

BYRNES WELL-SUED
COLUMBIA, S.C. (UP)—Gov. James F. Byrnes says he has helped sue many persons during his career as a lawyer but had to become governor before being sued himself. The former "assistant" president, Supreme Court justice and secretary of state has been named defendant in several lawsuits attacking the legality of the state's new multi-million dollar school program.

Scientists estimate the light of a firefly at 1-400ths candlepower.

Rice Diet Also Found Helpful For Diabetics

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Dr. Walter Kempner of Duke University, founder of the famed rice diet treatment for high blood pressure, told physicians here that the diet also helps sufferers who have diabetes.

Dr. Kempner said he studied 50 patients who had diabetes in combination with hypertension and kidney disease and found that: "The rice diet is not only well tolerated by these patients, but in a significant number of patients it lowers the blood sugar level and the insulin requirements."

The Duke doctor addressed physicians here, under the auspices of the American Hospital.

Dr. Kempner began treating high blood pressure with the rice diet 10 years ago. Last Spring he reported that more than 1,200 of 1,800 patients have received "marked benefit."

Has Land Deed Franklin Signed

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—A Pennsylvania resident is one of few persons owning an original land deed signed by Benjamin Franklin.

He is Rolla D. Walters, of nearby New Castle. The farm land was given Walters' great-grandfather, James McLean, for services rendered during the Revolutionary War.

Records show that on January 8, 1787, approximately 261 acres of land were assigned to McLean. The sheepskin parchment, written in the flourishing style of Franklin, hangs in the front hall of the home-stand built when McLean was given the land. Today Walters has a thriving dairy farm on the land.

General John J. Pershing is the only person ever to have held the rank of General of the Armies, (as distinguished from today's rank of General of the Army.) Pershing was authorized to prescribe his own insignia for the rank, but never wore more than four stars.

Public Tolerance Of Bad Govm't Said Dying

(RELEASE AT 1 P.M.)
 DES MOINES, Ia. (UP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said today that "public tolerance of scandalous behavior" in Washington could destroy the nation.

But, he said, there are signs that the nation is returning to a course where "moral indignation" can assert itself.

The nation's only living ex-president spoke at the Iowa State Fair, where he accepted an award in recognition of his services to the nation and to the state.

"Our greatest danger is not from invasion by foreign armies, for no army on earth can land on our shores," he said.

"Our dangers are that we may commit suicide from within by complacency with evil, or by public tolerance of scandalous behavior, or by cynical acceptance of dishonor. These evils have defeated nations many times in human history."

Mr. Hoover said the redemption of mankind by America will depend upon our ability to cope with these evils right here at home.

The United States, he said, is "turning its face away from the mauling leftisms."

"We sense the frauds on men's minds and morals," he said. "Moral indignation is on the march

British Deny Finding 2 Missing Diplomats

By JACK V. FOX
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 LONDON (UP)—The Labor government denied a report in its own party newspaper today that missing British diplomats Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess had been found.

The three-month-old international mystery—and fear the diplomats might have ducked under the Iron Curtain—took a curious turn when: 1. The Daily Herald, official organ of Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor Party, said flatly that British Military Intelligence agents had located MacLean and Burgess.

2. William Ridsdale, chief of the Foreign Office press department, denied entire report.

Ridsdale issued this statement: "The reports appearing in certain sections of the press that MacLean and Burgess had been located was officially stated to be without foundation. The Foreign Office has checked that it sources quoted have made no such statements as those attributed to it."

Ridsdale's statement was prompted by a storm of queries following the Daily Herald's exclusive story this morning. There were still some who believed, however, that the Labor newspaper was "on to something."

The Daily Herald did not give the source of its story, but quoted agents of Britain's MI-5, the Military Intelligence system.

The newspaper said: "Agents of MI-5 reported to the Foreign Office yesterday: We know where they (MacLean and Burgess) are and what happened since they landed at Saint Malo."

The two diplomats last were seen May 25 at St. Malo after stepping off a cross-channel steamer.

In another development today, French intelligence agents were ordered to question Mrs. Melinda MacLean at her rented Rivera villa in Beaulieuville. The order went out after the Daily Herald claimed she had received a fresh communication from her missing husband.

A French government spokesman in Paris said Mrs. MacLean is and has been at her Rivera villa, despite reports that she had vanished last Friday as mysteriously as her husband.

The French order was issued by the Foreign Office denial in London.

The Herald did not say when or where the diplomats had been found.

MacLean, 38, chief of the Foreign Office's American service, and Burgess, 40, a Far East expert in the Foreign Office, were feared to have fled behind the Iron Curtain, carrying vital Western secrets with them.

Some of their friends denied these reports, however, and claimed the two men were just having "a lark" on the Continent.

The Herald story made no mention of fears that the diplomats had fled behind the Iron Curtain. It said the search had gone on throughout Western Europe.

Ask Old Pieces Of Furniture To Use In Center

A committee formed to redecorate the snack bar in the local teen-age club has asked for old pieces of furniture to put in the room.

Most needed pieces, according to the group, are chairs, tables, a coffee table, lamps, and a magazine rack. The funds of the club are small and, consequently, not enough to equip the room. The members ask that anyone who has any old furniture which they wish to dispose of, call 5149.

It does not desire new furniture, but the old stuff that has been put away in the attic or garage. The members are willing to paint and renovate the furniture.

If anyone has an article which they wish to donate, notify the club and a member will pick it up.

Flying Truck Rim Crashed Glass In Furniture Store

A blowout of a tire on a log truck on Dickinson Avenue Tuesday night resulted in a broken plate glass window in a store, a police report states.

When the tire blew out the rim left the truck and hurtled into a window at J. A. Collins & Son's Furniture Store. Police said the driver stopped temporarily and then proceeded on his way.

Investigating officers said the truck was owned by James A. Taylor of Ayden. They notified him to contact the owners of the store.

Police had information today that the owner had contacted the owner of the building.

Associated Women Of Pitt Farm Bureau Hold Dinner Tonight

The Associated Women of the Pitt Farm Bureau will hold a dinner meeting at Respass-James Barbecue House tonight at seven o'clock.

Purpose of the meeting is to organize their program in order to put over the annual Farm Bureau membership drive in the county which begins September 11.

Speakers on tonight's program will be Mrs. Harmon Baker, president of the Associated Women; Arch Flanagan, membership drive chairman; William E. Little, bureau vice president and educational director; and S. C. Winchester, county farm agent.

strengthening our allies... it is the policy that recognizes that the United States cannot stand alone in a hostile world.

"It is the policy that seeks to promote world peace through helping the free nations of the world make themselves so strong that no aggressor will dare attack them."

He added: "If this country and its European allies 'now put our shoulders to the wheel and push ahead with this program, we can complete it within a relatively short period—say, three years or so—and then relax our effort somewhat."

"If we try to stretch it out, we are taking a dangerous gamble and one that I am not willing to assume the responsibility for."

If the two Connally statements are pulled together and boiled down, this is what he said: "This foreign aid program hurts, and how it hurts, but we have to do it to have allies in stopping communism because otherwise we might have to stand alone."

But when he got into the field of prophecy—that the spending may taper off in three years—he may have been doing some wishful thinking, even though he was comforting those taxpayers who are fed up on spending.

Police Investigate Robbery At Service Station In City

Police today were investigating a break-in at Ed Ricks' Service Station, Ninth and Evans street, last night. The investigating officer quoted the manager as saying the robber obtained between $25 and $30 in currency.

An officer said the nocturnal prowler gained entrance to the building by breaking a glass in the rear of the station.

Cotton Demand Seek Military

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senators sought more specific information today on a report that the military will consume the equivalent of 1,000,000 bales of cotton in the coming year.

John D. Small, Munitions Board chairman, gave the estimate to a Senate armed forces subcommittee yesterday. He did not know how that compared with cotton buying during the previous fiscal year except that it was larger.

The subcommittee promptly called Defense Department and Navy officials for further questioning today about how much cotton the armed services plan to buy.

Headed by Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss), the group has been exploring proposals by Southern senators that the government buy and stockpile raw cotton now to avert a possible shortage in the future. The government purchases would also help boost sagging cotton prices, which now are only a few cents above the support price of about 32 cents a pound.

The Southern senators have also been trying to prod the military into buying more cotton goods now while prices are low during the marketing peak instead of later—after the cotton has left farmers' hands.

Four Die In Birthday Fire

NEW YORK (UP)—Fire during a gay birthday party killed four persons today. Two children received minor burns and 10 party-goers escaped injury.

The catfire singing of "happy birthday to you" gave way to the screams of children and near panic among the adults as flames enveloped the flimsy fifth floor apartment of Raymond Hurley, 47, a longshoreman.

Hurley rescued one of his four children, passing her through a window to a neighbor, then he dashed back into the flames to find his 8-year-old son Vincent, but died with the boy. Also killed were Dolores Carmody, 20, and her 8-year-old daughter, Geraldine.

Two other Hurley children, Raymond Jr., 11, and Raynor, 7, were burned, neither seriously.

Ten other celebrants at the party walked to safety down the smoked-filled stairs and fire escape.

Firemen extinguished the blaze less than an hour after the midnight alarm was sounded.

The party was in honor of the 18th birthday of Hurley's stepdaughter, Ann Marie Vaughan, who left before the fire started.

The Oatis Case . . .

 21 by a Hungarian announcement that Vogeler would be released and expelled from the country in return for the granting of "various just Hungarian claims."

These "just claims," it developed, were the reopening of the consulates in the U. S., the lifting of the travel ban and the return to Hungary of a collection of articles looted by the Nazis and recovered by U. S. troops in Western Germany.

Vogeler finally was released April 28 after having served 17 months of his sentence. He was turned over to American officers a pale, shaking remnant of the robust businessman who had entered Hungary more than a year and a half earlier.

The Oatis case may follow the same pattern. The U. S. can be expected to take some concrete retaliatory action as it did in the case of Vogeler. That may provide a basis on which negotiations for Oatis' release can be begun.

Examination Passed, CPA Certificate To Go To R. K. Worsley

CHAPEL HILL—Richard K. Worsley of Greenville is among the 22 candidates who will receive licenses as Certified Public Accountant in North Carolina.

The announcement was made yesterday by Professor Earle E. Peacock, secretary and treasurer of the North Carolina Board of Certified Public Accountants examiners that the candidates had passed examinations given by the board. The certificates will be issued soon.

Worsley will be associated in business with his father, James R. Worsley of Greenville.
