New Sidewalks Completed On Fifth Street

No longer do college students and townspeople alike have to stumble along the broken sidewalks which once lined Fifth Street in front of East Carolina College. Now the city has removed the old sidewalks, moved them back and poured new cement walk-ways which were completed yesterday. Work was done by the City Street Department. Missing Cotton Suit Shapes Up As Long Hearing

May Extend Into Next Week, As Today's Proceedings Go Into Background

King Cotton continued his reign in superior court today and by all indications he'll remain on the throne for the better part of a week. The question of what happened to the missing cotton belonging to J. H. Harris of Farmville began building up this morning as depositions from him were read to the jury concerning the storing of his 1939, '41 and '42 crops in the Farmville Bonded Warehouse.

Harris was not present in court, due to advice from his physician, but statement transcribed from him in June of this year served as testimony from the witness stand.

The proceedings during the morning session gave proof to the belief of lawyers on both sides that the case will continue through Saturday and over into next week. The testimony of Harris, obtained by his attorneys, J. B. James and W. W. Speight of Greenville, sought to point out that he was dealing in good faith with George S. Williams, former manager of the warehouse, when he stored his cotton with him.

A cross examination, via deposition, obtained by attorneys for Henry Clark Bridgers, overall manager of the Tarboro and Farmville warehouses, sought to point up the fact that Harris was apparently in no hurry to investigate the whereabouts of his cotton.

Harris, it seems, let his 127 bales of cotton remain in the warehouse without inquiring about them until 1944. At that time he asked Williams to sell 22 bales, which had been stored in 1942. (The remaining 105 bales had been stored in 1939 and 1941).

Of the 22-bale lot, Harris had asked Williams to send the sale receipts to the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association. The association later noted that it had a record of the sale but no receipts for the individual bales sold.

Then in 1947 Harris first made inquiry concerning the original 105 bales. He told defense attorneys in his deposition that he had again asked Williams to sell the cotton, as he had done in the 22-bale lot, and send the receipts to the Association. As yet, he said, he has received no receipts nor money for the crops.

Yesterday afternoon's session was taken up in reading the complaint against the several defendants and their answers. In addition to A. B. Fairley, State Warehouse Superintendent, the other defendants are the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company, Indemnity Insurance Company of North America, the National Surety Company, and the Farmville Bonded Warehouse.

At the close of court yesterday the Indemnity Insurance Company of North America was let out (via non-suit) of the case since its dealings with the warehouse began in 1946—after the cotton was missed.

Doctors Report King Is Stronger

LONDON—(AP)—King George's doctors said today he is stronger and his appetite is improving.

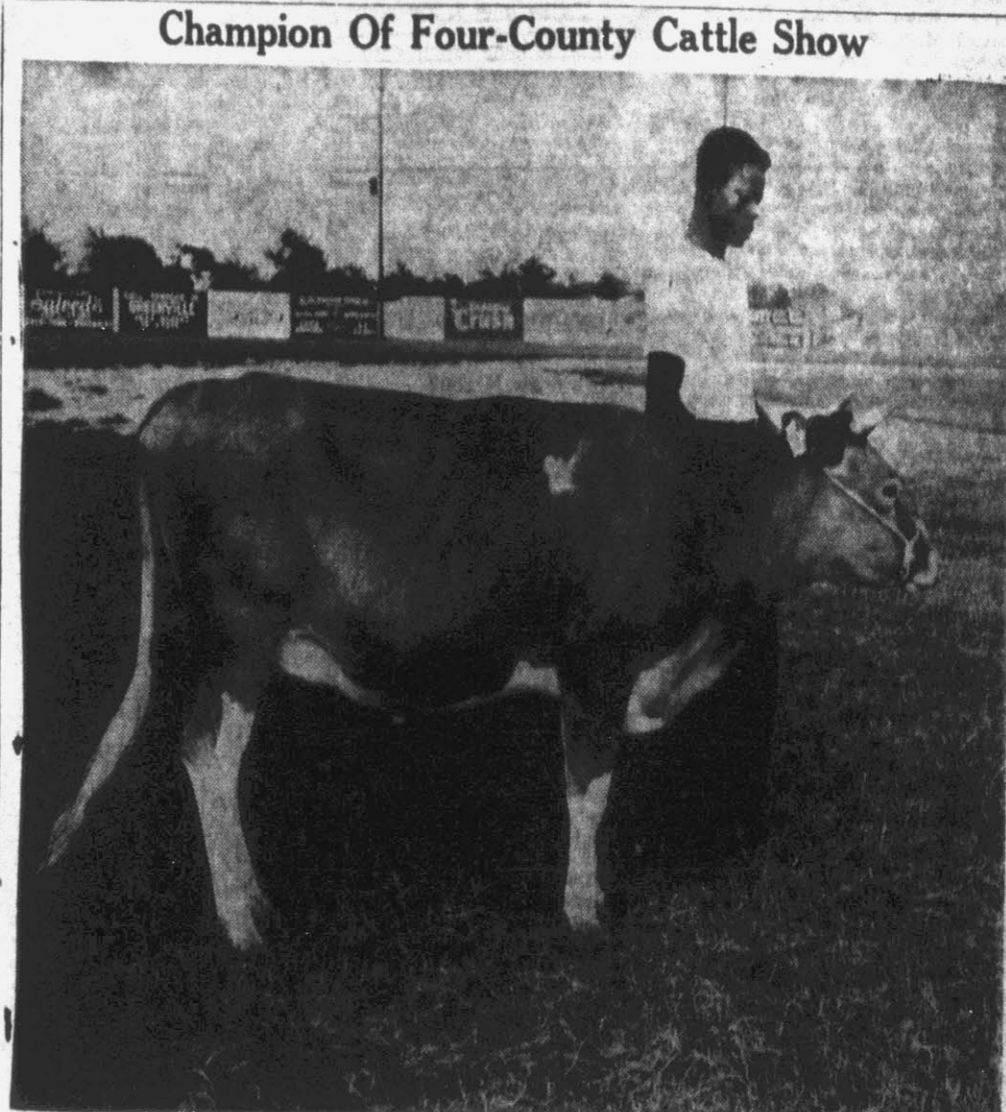

Their morning bulletin, the eighth since a serious lung operation Sunday, said the king had a better night and that his progress is continuing.

Season's Best

Tobacco prices on the Greenville market yesterday reached the highest average of the season as 1,583,486 pounds of leaf brought an average price of $37.25.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee said more tobacco was sold in Greenville yesterday for $70 per hundred pounds and over $70 per hundred than has been sold here any day since the 1919 season.

New Red Jets Again Challenge Allied Planes For Third Defeat In Three Days

Mixed Picture In Price Ratings

Labor Dept. Reports Six-City Food Price Survey Results

Among some items of food, Greenville ranks highest in the average retail prices over six North Carolina cities up until September 15, according to statistics compiled by the state department of labor.

Greenville, along with Asheville, Charlotte, Greensboro, Raleigh, Salisbury, and Wilmington, were the cities used by the Division of Statistics in compiling and comparing average retail prices of certain food-stuffs.

The following items and its average price in cents were listed as being the highest here: Bacon, 707; fresh milk, 252; evaporated milk, 151; bananas, 148; oranges, 526; carrots, 150; onions, .087; tomatoes, 211; canned peas, .272; dried prunes, .299; dried navy beans, .178; coffee, .919; shortening (hydrogenated), .371; salad dressing, .419; margarine, .352; and sugar, .106.

Greenville was rated as having the second highest average in the following items: Corn flakes, rice, rolled oats, ham, ice cream, green beans, lettuce, canned corn and baby food cola drink (six bottle carton), and lard.

But, on the brighter side of the picture, especially when meat is concerned, the statistics show Greenville to be rated as having the lowest average price in the following items: Round steak, 1.044; rib roast, .757; chuck roast, .716; frankfurters, .572; salt pork, .357; canned pink salmon, .503; and cheese, .575.

On the items that Greenville was lowest on, the following cities showed the highest average: Round steak, Charlotte, 1.097; rib roast, Wilmington, .805; chuck roast, Greensboro, .747; frankfurters, Greensboro, .607; salt pork, Wilmington, .383; pink salmon, Raleigh, .620; and cheese, Raleigh, .613.

Boyle-Siskind Deal Raises Doubts In Senate Hearing

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator McClellan (D-Ark) told Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., today his purported sale of his law practice "implies" Boyle may have used his political position for personal profit.

Boyle specifically denied, too, that he used political influence in behalf of $565,000 of RFC loans to the American Lithofold Corp.

He acknowledged that he did make an appointment for R. J. Blauner, president of the St. Louis printing firm, to see RFC Chairman Harley Rice about the loans on Feb. 28, 1949.

Chairman Hoey (D-NC) announced to his colleagues on the committee that Boyle had informed him he was "perfectly willing" to turn over his 1949 and 1950 income tax returns.

Enemy Pilots In Faster MIG Become Increasingly Aggressive And More Skill Shown; Ground War Slackens To Scattered, Small-Scale Fighting

8TH ARMY HQ., Korea (UP)—New, faster Communist jets challenged American Sabrejets over Northwest Korea for the third straight day today, but were driven back into Manchuria with two damaged.

The 84-plane battle ran the United Nations score in three days of heavy aerial fighting to 26 Soviet-built MIG jets destroyed or damaged.

The Red pilots were becoming increasingly aggressive in their challenge to American air supremacy over the northwest corner of Korea.

An Air Force spokesman said the Communists appeared to be using a modified, faster version of their MIG-15. However, they have not begun using Russia's new MIG-19 jets yet, he said.

Communist pilots also have improved, the spokesman said. It was believed that European supervisors—German, Russian or both—were giving the Chinese a North Korean pilots intensive training in combat tactics.

On the ground, 8th Army troops threw the Communists off another vital hill northwest of Yangu on the east-central front, but the Reds still cling to vital "Heartbreak Hill" a few miles away.

Fifty MIGs intercepted 34 American F-84 Sabrejets in the latest large-scale dogfight in "MIG alley" just south of the Yalu river Manchurian border shortly before noon (10 p.m. Wednesday EST).

The mass dogfight raged all the way from 10,000 up to 30,000 feet. It ended with two Communist jets damaged and the rest in flight toward their Manchurian sanctuary. All Sabrejets returned safely to base.

The victory topped the three-day tally of U.N. air fleets to six MIG jets shot down, one probably destroyed and 19 damaged. One American Sabrejet was shot down Wednesday and an Australian Meteor jet damaged, while another American jet was damaged Tuesday.

In each battle, the Red airman sought to break up American jet formations screening fighter-bombers which attacked enemy reinforcement and supply convoys and facilities on the route from Manchuria.

On the east-central ground front, U.N. infantrymen drove the Communists from a second hill in as many days Wednesday northwest of Yangu.

An estimated North Korean battalion—probably 750 troops—put up bitter resistance for nine hours, then retreated north.

A few miles away, a French battalion fought its way almost to the crest of "Heartbreak Hill" before a hail of grenades and rifle, machinegun and mortar fire forced them back down the slope.

Gen. Kim Il Sung, North Korean premier and commander-in-chief, and Gen. Peng Teh-hual, Chinese commander in Korea.

"I believe this proposal provides for arrangements that can be mutually satisfactory to both our sides," Ridgway told the Red commanders.

The Communist generals have rejected one earlier Ridgway proposal to shift the talks from Kaesong. However, Ridgway on that occasion did not specify any particular alternative site.

The U.N. commander's new note specifically suggested that the truce talks be resumed "as early as possible" in the vicinity of Songhyon, eight miles southeast of Kaesong and approximately midway between the battle lines on the Western front northwest of Seoul.

Ridgway addressed his proposals over the meeting. Humber briefly traced the history of feudalism, which evolved into a regime in Europe after the French Revolution. But, he said, a regime has never been tolerated because civilization has always been interested in the sovereignty of the individual.

"In order to save that sovereignty, governments have had to be limited in the scope of their powers," he stated. "Why did monarchy die?" he asked. "Because it piled up huge debts in order to liquidate itself."

Washington (AP)—A real test of the ability of labor and management to iron out their problems peacefully may be shaping up soon.

That's the word from the labor trouble-shooter now at the helm of the Wage Stabilization Board.

His name is Nathan P. Feinsinger, a University of Wisconsin law professor with a decade-old background in putting out labor fires for the government.

"Up to now," Feinsinger told this writer, "we've had the rather rare experience of having labor and management join together in appearances before the wage board, both asking us to approve the same thing. So there's been no real test of their ability to get along."

"It seems to be that we've had some steady improvement in relations between labor and management. But whether that's permanent or only temporary will probably be tested by developments in the near future.

U. S. Again Steps Into Oil Tensions

Iran Called Upon To Revoke Expelling Order On Technicians And Britain Urged To Avoid Threatened Force

By UNITED PRESS

The United States stepped in today in an effort to dispell the ominous war clouds hanging over Iran.

The U.S. called on Iran to revoke its announced plan to order all British oil technicians out of Iran by Oct. 24, the State department disclosed in Washington.

And President Truman sent a personal message to Prime Minister Clement Attlee today urging Britain to avoid use of armed forces to keep Iran from throwing British out of the Abadan refinery and oil report.

Nationalist fury threatened to set off the British-Iran oil tinderbox into World War III.

Leaders of both British political parties met to consider Mr. Truman's recommendations faced with a stern warning from the Iranian premier.

Premier Mohammed Mossadeq told his people that Iran will struggle against Britain "with all our strength" to preserve the country's rights in the dispute.

The British cabinet gravely studied what moves to make for it was feared Russia almost certainly would intervene if the British took armed action.

The State department disclosed that the U.S. is ready and willing to mediate the dispute, but gave solid support to Britain's determination to keep its technicians in Iran.

Reports from Cairo said everything was ready "down to the last detail" to rush British troops from the Suez canal zone and Cyprus to Iran if necessary. Military and civilian planes were standing by to transport them.

The atmosphere was tense in Tehran. Angry Iranians milled around Parliament shouting demands for British blood.

The British cabinet met for three hours this morning to decide whether to use its Middle East naval, air, and ground forces to defend 33 British technicians guarding the Abadan refinery, or to bow to Iran's demands and thus suffer tremendous loss of face in the entire Arab world.

If British troops land at Abadan, Iran appeared ready to put up at least token resistance. Tehran dispatches said Premier Mohammed Mossadeq conferred with his police and military chiefs last night on security measures to be taken against British action.

Plan Protest Of 'News Blackout'

Top U. S. Editors Unanimously Attack Truman's Order

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—A formal protest is upcoming from America's leading editors against broadening the blackout on news from government agencies.

Some 250 editors voted unanimously to draft such a protest at yesterday's opening session of the annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

J. R. Wiggins of the Washington Post called President Truman's new security order the most important censorship problem of the year.

Wiggins said the order makes possible the suppression of even routine data—from crops to industrial production—in the name of security.

He expressed hope that "courageous editors can find means of circumventing the order." He pointed out that it fails to provide penalties for violators.

James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors' Committee on Freedom of Information, said: "It seems we have been kicked back over goal line."

Dr. T. G. Basnight, Pitt County health officer, made a report showing that 733 X-rays were made from January through August. He reported 36 active and 14 inactive cases from January through August which were reported to the State Board of Health. He said there were eight deaths during the eight months. Of the 733 X-rays taken, 381 were colored and 352 were white.

A motion was unanimously passed appropriating $1,000 plus any unexpended amount of the 1950-51 appropriation to be spent on the care of TB patients, with not more than $150 to be spent on any one patient.

Dr. W. E. Marshall was appointed Seal Sale Chairman for Pitt County for 1951 and Mrs. Tommy Henderson was elected secretary for four months, beginning October 1.

The Service League, represented by Mrs. J. H. Thomas, president, agreed to render all possible aid during the Seal Sale and for the association to use their office and telephone.

Larry E. Brown, treasurer, read a financial report of receipts and disbursements which was accepted and ordered filed.

The entire board of directors was re-elected with J. H. Waldrop as president; Mrs. J. P. Davenport, vice-president; Larry E. Brown, treasurer; and Rev. R. L. West, Fountain, succeeding Mrs. R. A. Fountain Jr., who has moved to Greenville.

Directors present at the annual dinner meeting given by Waldrop were: J. H. Waldrop, Mrs. R. A. Fountain Jr., Mrs. W. F. Stokes, R. H. Stator, Mrs. J. T. Dupree, Miss Lela Higgs, Dr. W. E. Marshall, Dr. F. P. Brooks, K. T. Futrell, Joseph S. Moye, Mrs. James T. Little, Dr. T. G. Basnight, Rev. Leon Russell, and Larry E. Brown.

Mrs. J. H. Thomas, Mrs. Emily Johnson, county nurse, Mrs. Riley Cox, secretary at the health department, Miss Lillian Wilson, field director of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association, and Mrs. J. Bryan Brown met with the directors.

TB Association Board To Hire Full Time Educational Worker

The Board of Directors of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association unanimously favored the employment of a full-time educational worker at a dinner meeting of the board Tuesday night at the American Legion Home.

K. T. Futrell, superintendent of the county welfare department, was authorized to negotiate and the board president, J. H. Waldrop, was authorized to call a meeting of the board when a suitable applicant is available.

Waldrop said the tuberculosis rate in Pitt County had been very high and he hoped to employ a regular worker to improve the situation by education.

Test Of Air Power

Wider Use Of Air Power Is Sign Post To What Communists Contemplate In Korean War; If 1,000 Planes Can Insure Victory, They'll Be Used; Stalin To Decide

By HARRY FERGUSON

The situation shakes down to this: 1. The Communists cannot defeat the U.N. army unless they go in for unrestricted aerial warfare, and they know it.

2. If they go all out in the air, it means that Russia will have to take a more active role in the fighting. She will have to supply all of the planes and most of the pilots.

3. If and when she does that, she is looking into the abyss of World War III.

What has been going on in "MIG alley" for three days would appear to be the Communists testing their wings. They have about 1,000 planes on or near the Manchurian border, but have been committing them to the fighting in comparatively small batches—60 at the most and more often 20.

The U. S. Air Force has testified that the Communist planes are excellent. The MIG-15, a Russian built jet fighter, has a power plant that is superior in some respects to the best thing America can put into the air. And there are reports of even faster enemy jets in action.

The U. S. Air Force saved the war in the desperate days of the Pusan beachhead and—with the Allied navy—has provided the U. N. army with superior striking power. Jet-fuelled gasoline dropped from U. N. planes is the thing the Communist foot soldier dreads most of all.

It is a safe assumption that one reason the Reds have been stalling on the cease-fire talks is that they want to decide what to do about air power.

That is a decision that no Chinese or North Korean general can make because the planes don't belong to them.

Approaching Problems

Real Test Of Ability Of Labor And Management To Peaceably Iron Out Problems Is Coming Soon, Says WSB Boss; His Past Experiences; Board's Limits

Sherman Parks Presides At West Greenville PTA

The P.T.A. of West Greenville School got off to an enthusiastic start with a large crowd which met in the beautiful new auditorium for the first time. Corages of yellow mums were presented to each of the teachers.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Parks greeted the parents upon their arrival and introduced them to the receiving line which was composed of the teachers of the school.

The P.T.A. considers it an honor to have as its president, Mr. Sherman Parks, who presided over the meeting.

The devotional was given by Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, who used as his subject, "The Responsibility of Training the Children Interested in Us." He said that there is no greater challenge than that of moulding the children in our midst into upright, reliable citizens in our great democracy. He closed with the inspirational reading, "I Am the Child."

Miss Jane Hadley, chairman of the program committee, then introduced Dr. Clinton Pruitt, Dean of Men and a member of the Department of Education at East Carolina, who was guest speaker for the evening. His subject was, "The Partnership Between Parents and Teachers in Education."

He listed a number of objectives

Officers: President, Prof. R. H. Wright; Treasurer, Mr. J. B. Spilman; Secretary, Miss Marnie E. Jenkins; Physician, Dr. C. O. H. Laughinghouse; Superintendent of Infirmary, Miss Mittle R. Beaman; Stenographer, Miss Emma R. Jones; Custodian of Records, Miss Ola S. Ross.

Equal Rights Day Observed

Equal Rights Day is being observed today by dozens of Greenville business and professional women as part of the National Business Women's Week.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs Inc. is spearheading a great drive to secure the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Federal Constitution. This bill has been before Congress since 1923.

The increased need for women in all phases of the defense effort makes it more necessary than ever that they receive recognition as full citizens and partners in the job. Many local women will join thousands throughout the United States in writing to their Congressmen today urging him to vote favorably on H.R. Res. 52 without any amendments to the present wording when this bill does come to a vote.

President Truman has endorsed the program for the week with the following words:

"I am happy to give my endorsement to National Business Women's Week and to the theme for its twenty-fourth observance by The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs Inc. 'Full Partnership for the Job Ahead' is a good slogan at this time.

"Once again our Nation is forced to prepare to defend its freedoms. We know that to get this job done we must make use of the energies and abilities, the knowledge and training of all our citizens, women as well as men. The day has long since passed when the few decisions and big actions necessary to our continued welfare were reserved for men alone. I have appointed, and will continue to appoint, com-

Advise Slowness In Selling Cotton

GREENSBORO (AP)—"All cotton farmers should continue putting at least 50 per cent of the 1951 crop in loan."

That was the "unanimous opinion" of cotton states' representatives meeting in Chicago as reported by R. Flake Shaw of Greensboro, executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau.

Shaw, who is in Chicago attending a board meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation, reported by telephone yesterday that cotton producers should not become overly optimistic about the rising market.

While the cotton market is now "reasonably stable," Shaw said "any large-scale movement on the part of farmers to sell the current crop will definitely cause the market to take another dip."

Shaw asserted that holding a large portion of this year's crop off the market will bring supply and demand into proper balance.

Betsy Nobles Luncheon Guest At Hotel Party

Mrs. Frank Savage was a luncheon hostess on Wednesday to honor Miss Betsy Nobles, bride-elect of October.

The luncheon was given at the Proctor Hotel at 1:00 p.m. Mrs. Savage and Miss Nobles welcomed the guests and directed them to the dining room, where from a well appointed table a course luncheon was served.

The table centerpiece was an arrangement of massive white chrysanthemums and white gladioli interspersed with maidenhair ferns placed in a crystal bowl. Traceries of the fern formed an interesting pattern down the length of the table, while twin branched crystal holders with white tapers were placed on either side of the bowl of flowers. The candles were tied with single white pom poms and a spray of fern nestled in a ruffle of green tulle.

Bridal place cards marked the seating position of each of the guests.

Following a three course turkey luncheon, the hostess presented Miss Nobles with a "bride's book" in which each guest had written suggestions as to how to hold a husband. There was much merriment when the many bits of advice were read aloud by the honoree.

Miss Nobles was given a gift of crystal in her selected pattern and fern by Mrs. Savage as a remembrance of the occasion.

St. Raphael's P.T.A. Elects Officers

The first fall meeting of St. Raphael's P.T.A. was held Wednesday afternoon, September 26, at the school. Mrs. Robert Arthur called the meeting to order and Father Gable made a P.T.A. prayer.

Last year's projects and business were discussed and the new slate of officers was presented. They were: Mrs. L. A. Reeves, president; Mrs. Alton Clapp, vice-president; Mrs. W. W. Brown, secretary; and Mrs. Jimmie Harris, treasurer.

A Halloween committee was also appointed with Mrs. Roy Tripp, Mrs. Joe Salced and Mrs. Stokes of Ayden as co-chairmen. All following meetings will be held the third Wednesday of every month at 3 p.m.

Church Seminar Set For Oct. 10

"The Church for You Doth Wait" will be the general theme for the annual Fall Educational Seminar of the Zones. Central Zone, New Bern District Women's Christian Service, will be held at the Bethlehem Church on Walstonburg Charge Wednesday, October 10.

Mrs. D. Lester Latham of Washington is Central Zone leader and will preside with the help of the Secretary of Missionary Educational Service, Mrs. M. B. Andrews. Plans for teaching the current mission study, courses and presentation of several phases of work of the WPCS will include:

Churches for our country's needs, Mrs. J. L. Smith of North Harlowe; Family life, Mrs. P. P. Brooks of Greenville; the Book of Acts, Mrs. W. B. Rouse of New Bern; Latin America, Mrs. M. B. Andrews of Goldsboro; program building, Mrs. I. N. Moore of Beaufort; literature education, Mrs. Joe Troup of New Bern; and Wesleyan Service Guild, Miss Charity Holland of Kingston.

Wayne Zone Seminar met recently at Providence Church near Goldsboro. Mrs. M. B. Andrews presided and Mrs. D. Lester Latham presented the study of "Family Life—A Christian's Concern." She acknowledged "There's No Place Like a Christian Home" and referred to the book by James Lee Ellenwood, "There's No Place Like Home."

Mrs. Donald Witherington of Vanceboro is zone leader for the Tri-County Zone. The Seminar will be held October 13 at Beach Grove Church near New Bern and Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. Latham will also present study books.

The Carteret Zone Seminar will be held October 18 at Core Creek and Mrs. W. L. Smith of North Harlowe is zone leader. Mrs. Charles Boyd of New Bern, who has recently been appointed as District Promotion Secretary, will present the study, "Family Life."

Rally Day To Be Held At Boyd Memorial

Many years ago a Saxon Duke built a magnificent church for the people of his village. When it was completed, he took his little daughter to see it. "But, Daddy," said the little girl, "there are no lights!" "That's right," replied her father, "each member will be given a lantern to bring to church. Whenever they all come, God's house will be filled with light."

Will some corner of Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church be dark because YOU are not present next Sunday when we have our annual Sunday School Rally Day and Homecoming? Sunday School is at 10 a.m., and the regular worship service follows immediately. A barbecue dinner will be served after the worship service.

September 30 is the day. Come from near and far away. Bring the lambs into the fold. To have 100 is our goal.

Invite Delegate To SASC Meet

The Student Council Association of Greenville High School has been invited to send a discussion leader to the Southern Association of Student Councils at Shreveport, La., in November.

The council is undecided whether to send a delegate again this year. Last year Rodney Fitcher represented the high school council at Oklahoma City and Miss Frances Lamb, council advisor, said it was an honor to be invited to send a delegate. The invitation is based on the work of the council.

So far this year, the council has been working on a number of projects concerning the students and the school.

The council is conducting a survey in all of the homerooms on why students do not visit the Teen-Age Club more often. During the survey, the students have also been asked to make suggestions concerning the Teen-Age Club. The suggestions will be carried by the council to the Recreation Commission.

One problem confronting the council is that of the admission to charge for Friday night dances. Since the football games cost the students fifty cents, the council has decided to limit the cost of admission to the dances held after the games. The limit put on admission is fifteen and twenty-five cents.

The council has also decided to give more publicity to athletic events by posting notices of games on the bulletin boards and street advertising.

Another Heavy Docket In City's Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court yesterday, Arthur James Morris, Negro, 507 15th St., was found guilty of three charges of motor vehicle law violations.

Judge Charles H. Whedbee fined him $25 and costs on the hit-and-run charge of damaging public property. He also found Morris guilty of driving with defective brakes and fined him $15. The court fined him $25 and costs for driving without an operator's license.

Traffic Officer H. B. Lilley testified that Morris ran into a street intersection sign on a sidewalk and then abandoned the car and fled. The officer stored the car. Wesley Stevenson, Negro, reported to Lilley that his car was stolen while he was asleep, and named three persons he suspected.

The patrolman found Morris in a bathing suit at his home and arrested him. He denied that he was the driver of the car until witnesses identified him, the officer testified. The car was returned to its owner.

Mary Pitt and Sam Cox, Negroes, found guilty of assaulting each other with deadly weapons—a metal pot and a long knife—were each sentenced to serve 30 days at the county home.

Wille M. Little, Negro, reckless driving, 60 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25 and costs. The court ordered that he surrender his driver's license for a year, or for 30 days, if he makes restitution for property damage in that time. On another charge of reckless driving the court gave Little 30 days in jail, to be served concurrently, sentence suspended on payment of $25 and costs.

Johnnie Harris, driving drunk, was fined $100 and costs and his driver's license to be revoked for a year. The court ordered that he not ride in any motor vehicle but a public passenger bus for six months, or until he had made restitution for property damage.

Paul Meeks, Negro, driving drunk, asked for a jury trial in Superior Court.

William Stancill, Negro, driving drunk, 60 days in jail, suspended on payment of $100 and costs and his license is to be revoked for a year. The defendant gave notice of appeal.

Rev. Thaddeus T. Shivers, Negro, driving drunk, 60 days in jail, suspended on payment of $100 and costs and his driver's license is to be revoked for a year. Shivers has pleaded guilty, but changed his plea to not guilty to permit of his taking an appeal. Solicitor Eli Bloom stated, No operator's license: Redmond Wilkes, Negro, $25 and costs; Guy C. Elks, not guilty; Geneva W. Loughby, $25 and costs.

Speeding: William E. Storks, $15; Daniel F. LaFerre, $20; Jesse R. Rowe, $20; Ed Fleming, Negro, $15.

Reckless driving: Arlen Corbett, Negro, $25, and he was ordered to surrender his driver's license for six months or until he makes restitution for property damage; Otis Simpson, Negro, six months, suspended on payment of $25 and costs and he was ordered to surrender his driver's license for 30 days.

Linwood C. Dail, larceny of a watch from John F. Buck, was given six months on the roads, suspended on payment of $25 and costs and he was placed on probation for a year.

Preston Evans, Negro, paid $25 for assault on a female.

Charles A. Vendrix paid $5 for not stopping at a "stop" sign.

Drunk: Beulah Hardy, Negro, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $10; Ernest Tyson, Negro, 30 days or $10.

Local Kiwanians To Attend Annual District Session

LARUE F. SMITH
The Kiwanis Club of Greenville will be represented at the 1957 convention of the Carolina Kiwanis District to be held October 7 to 9 at Raleigh, N. C. Club President Dr. H. G. Haney announced today.

Larue F. Smith, prominent corporation executive of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and vice president of Kiwanis International, will be featured on the speakers program during the three-day meeting. Dr. Orin F. Crow, Dean of the School of Education at the University of South Carolina and trustee of the Kiwanis International, will also attend the convention of his home Kiwanis district.

Delegates from 97 clubs in the district, representing a membership of more than 5,680 business and professional leaders, are expected to attend the various sessions. Committee conferences, a discussion of plans for the coming year, and election of officers will highlight the convention, Haney said.

The president officer will be Joseph T. Chlot, property management executive of Asheville, N. C., and governor of the Carolina Kiwanis District.

Mr. Smith, who will serve as official representative of Kiwanis International at the convention, retired July 31st as president and general manager of the Spirilla Company of Canada after thirty years of service to the firm. He remains as a board member. As a leader of Boy Scouts and other youth organizations, he has directed many worthy fund-raising campaigns. In addition, he organized and for four years supervised one of the first prison schools in America.

Delegates who will represent the Kiwanis Club of Greenville at the meeting will be Milo H. Smith, Dave C. Moore and Dr. Haney.

Steel Shortage May Delay Roads

RALEIGH—(AP)—Many road and bridge projects on the State Highway Commission's planning boards may be delayed because of the steel shortage.

This was indicated yesterday by Chief Highway Engineer W. H. Rogers, Jr. He said the commission faces "a critical situation" in obtaining steel for bridges and other road work.

Rogers asserted that with the opening of bids today on 18 road improvement projects, the Highway Commission will have enough work under way to use all the steel allocated to it for the next 15 months.

He pointed out that the shortage is likely to cause a big slowdown in the bridge building program.

Rogers said "the general opinion in Washington is that highways are not essential. The government has not made steel allocations for highway uses comparable with other industries."

Dispute Ties Up Shrimp Trawlers

NORFOLK—(AP)—A labor dispute has tied up nearly 200 shrimp trawlers at Southport, N. C.

Norfolk maritime union spokesmen said last night that more than 60 shrimp fishermen asked the union to step into their dispute with four owners who reportedly control shrimp fishing at Southport.

The union's acceptance appeared to be the first step toward organizing between 1,500 and 2,000 shrimp fishermen scattered along the Atlantic coast from Virginia to Miami, Fla.

Deadly Twister

WAUPACA, Wis.—(AP)—The spiraling black finger of a tornado dotted a line of death and ruin across two rural areas in central Wisconsin yesterday, taking seven lives.

Due eastward across Lake Michigan from the state, a tornado struck the village of Bitley, Mich., at night and left one woman dead.

The lower part of Wisconsin's Waupaca County was ripped by a "roaring and terrifying" twister which killed six persons and injured at least three. Four of the victims' members of one family, were carried into a swamp a quarter of a mile from where the tornado engulfed them.

Then some 45 minutes later—4:30 p.m. (CST) and about 50 miles to the south—a funnel-shaped cloud hopped across a 15 mile path in Columbia County, killing a woman and injuring her three children by picking up their farm home and smashing it down 250 yards away. Seven others were reported injured. A deputy sheriff said buildings were crushed "like matchboxes."

Discrimination Charge Levelled

CHAPEL HILL—(AP)—A charge of "discrimination" has been leveled at the University of North Carolina for allegedly segregating Negro students at home football games.

A spokesman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People claimed here yesterday that the University violated a federal court order by segregating the students. The spokesman, NAACP attorney C. O. Pearson of Durham, said court action would be sought to end the "discrimination."

Pearson asserted that the University refused to issue athletic pass books to five Negro students now attending the UNC law school. He claimed the Negro students are issued separate tickets for home games and are required to sit in a section labeled "colored." The section is located in the end zone and separate from the regular student section.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. COUGLAS
RISING ABOVE HINDRANCES
Beethoven suffered untold agony because he was deaf. When he came to the end of his life, he could not hear a single tone of the great compositions he had produced. Just a short time before the end, he sat in the orchestra pit looking up at the orchestra director and beating time for one of his compositions which was being produced. He could not hear the thunderous applause, as the piece ended, and when he was lifted by the hand and turned around to face a cheering audience, he could only stare at them vacantly hearing not the faintest suggestion of hand-clapping.

Protest runs through the whole of his musical compositions. It protrudes like sharp thorns thrusting themselves through soft down. Beethoven could not repress the bitterness he felt over the tragic irony of a man producing deathless melodies yet not being able to hear a single tone of what he had produced.

There are some things in the world we will never understand. No one could explain to Beethoven the significance of an affliction. But John Milton was also afflicted. It was blindness in his case. Christian faith raised him above his affliction and caused him to sing sweetly and praise God even as he sat in darkness.

Only Christian faith can comfort one in such straits.

Its Nice To Have Complete Cooperation

Federal regulations on businesses in a time of emergency are not among the most pleasant things we can think of, but it is encouraging to know that the Greenville merchants are cooperating with the OPS regulations.

An OPS official revealed yesterday that not one violation of the OPS regulations checked among local establishments was found. The official would not say exactly what violations he was seeking, what kind of establishments he was checking or how many firms were visited. He did state, however, that no violations were found.

It is necessary to have some sort of effective economic controls for the nation in a time of emergency such as the United States now finds itself. In order for the controls to work, there must be cooperation from the individual businessmen.

It is nice to know that local businesses are cooperating as fully with the controls program as the report of the OPS official indicates.

An Order To Cover Government Ills

The American people suffered a serious blow Tuesday as President Truman signed an order leaving to the discretion of government department heads the information about their groups which should be open to the public.

Truman insists the order is in no way a censorship, but as long as department heads can put anything they like in the category of "security information" they can keep the American people from knowing what is going on in their departments of the government.

The President's order clamps down tightly on "security information" but does not define such information. The President says the order is not to keep anything away from the American people except information vital to the national security, yet the order fails to define what is and what is not vital to the security of the nation. Anything at all can be put into the category as long as the department head says so.

Newspaper people all over the nation realize that a certain amount of information should not be made public because it would give information to the enemies of the United States which they should not have. The newspaper people know a good many government secrets they do not divulge because they realize the security value of the information. When each department head has an executive order to withhold any information he wishes, however, the American people are in grave danger of losing their freedom of the press and their knowledge of government activities they must have if they are to maintain their freedoms.

The executive order from President Truman man will work two ways to keep from the people of the United States information which they should have. In the first place it will allow department heads an ideal curtain behind which to hide underhanded activities which should be exposed to the public. In the second place it will make the various lower echelons of government so afraid that the big boss will disapprove of some information they release, that the people may be able to get virtually no news from many agencies and departments.

Whether the general public realized it or not, similar rigid rules of censorship already have been placed by government agencies on legitimate news which the people should have. One of the most flagrant examples of this is the censorship of news on selective service which has been imposed by Col. Upton, head of the North Carolina Selective Service organization.

For many months the only information available from local Selective Service offices is the number of men actually inducted into service, the men to be taken in the next call, and the names of those actually inducted. There is much more information which the public should be allowed to know, but Upton clamped the lid down tight, and the Selective Service program is operated virtually without public scrutiny.

The new order of President Truman will allow every other agency of the government to do the same thing no matter how remotely it is connected with the nation's defense efforts or anything else. The order makes possible an iron curtain around government activities, and is so designed that it can, in a period of years, snatch away from the American people one of the essentials of free government and personal liberties.

The presidential order is one which is detrimental to the welfare of the United States, and one which the people should insist be withdrawn.

National Whirligig
News Behind The News
WASHINGTON—Despite revelations that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was transformed into a political pawnshop under Truman-Boyle auspices, the new twist in the investigation of the multi-billion-dollar lending agency threatens to harm the Republicans more than the Democrats. It seems to be another example of the famous "Truman luck."

The growing demand among Capitol Hill Republicans for the resignation of Guy Gabrielson, their national chairman, threatens to aggravate intra-party dissensions that were dangerous enough already.

Should he be forced to step out because he has had dealings with the RFC on behalf of his firm, the Carthage Hydrocol Corporation, it will precipitate a knock-down-dragout battle over the chairmanship between the Taft and the Eisenhower forces.

DIVISION—Such a controversy would disclose to public case the almost hopeless division between the two factions on domestic and foreign issues. It would leave scars, personal and political, that might not heal in time to permit the GOP to present a united front in next year's presidential contest.

It would serve notice on General "Ike" Eisenhower that he cannot obtain the Republican nomination without engaging in a back-alley scrap.

Since he has said he will accept the honor only if it is handed to him on a silver platter, meaning a virtually unanimous draft, the spectacle of a row over the chairmanship might incline him to announce that he will not be a candidate under any circumstances.

BATTLE—Incidentally, neither the Taft nor Eisenhower forces relish a showdown at this time, and will use their influence to prevent it. The Dewey-Duff-Darby group has deliberately delayed formation of an Eisenhower organization, preferring first to stimulate a seeming public demand for him.

Therefore, they are not prepared to engage in a battle where they might be outnumbered within the National Committee, which is composed of "professionals" supposedly hostile toward the Eisenhower movement until it shows more popular strength.

CRITICS—The strange mixture of Republican politics crying for "Gabe's" scalp reflects vividly the confusion, uncertainty and bewilderment prevailing in the minority camp. It shows that none of them know where their National Chairman stands as between the Senator and the General.

The Gabrielson critics include several anti-Eisenhower men, but among them is such a strong Taft supporter as Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois.

Others base their demand for his removal simply on the reason that they feel his dealings with the RFC tend to nullify the GOP attack on Democratic National Chairman Boyle and other White House cronies, who received money or gifts from firms seeking RFC loans.

The anti-Eisenhower GOP-ers demand a Gabrielson ouster because they think he favors the commander of SHAPE. The national chairman has been allocated to the Eisenhower faction largely because of his Eastern and Wall Street connections, where most of the General's strength lies.

BACKGROUND—The fact is that, although a national chairman is supposed to be neutral—and Mr. Gabrielson has conducted himself with strict impartiality—his sympathies lie with Senator Taft. The tipoff on that came when B. Carroll Reese of Tennessee, former National Chairman, declared that Mr. O would be able to explain his RFC negotiations "satisfactorily."

Mr. Reese was deposed as chairman after the Dewey nomination in 1948 because he was a TIF man. He was replaced by Representative Hugh D. Scott of Pennsylvania, who was Dewey's choice.

After the disastrous 1948 defeat, the national committee ousted Mr. Scott as a sign of their resentment against the New York Governor. Although Mr. Gabrielson was a compromise choice, winning by a narrow margin, he was elected by Taft votes within the committee.

This background explains why a chairmanship row will result in an intra-party Donnybrook which will profit only the beleaguered Democrats.

THE RFC GRAFT
(Wilson Daily Times)
As long as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation exists, it'll make questionable loans. What circumstances we expect in the circumstances? Businesses which can't get money from the regular channels will, as a last resort, appeal to the RFC if they're turned down, they'll use political pressure. It's only natural for no man will fail if he can help it. Knowing all that, why don't we junk the RFC? It's the only safe way to avoid scandals the likes of which we've been hearing lately.

When it first came into being under President Hoover it served a useful purpose. Banks were popping fast and where those banks had adequate assets the government money pulled them through. That saved many an institution. But, when after the banking holiday, new regulations were established, the need expired. However, for no good reason, we continued the RFC operating in much the same way as a private bank. In the last 15 years it's made many loans, some of which, we're now finding out, were questionable.

It'll go on making more of the same kind as long as it exists. For that's the nature of political institutions. What is more, it'll be a bank of the last resort, a place where those who can't get money elsewhere will apply. The politicians introduce the applicants. To them, that's a part of their business. And many a questionable loan will be made which wouldn't be made by private institutions. Thus if we're to reduce the temptations, we'll junk the RFC. It's the only way to get away from repetition of the scandals that have been perturbing us of late.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

Leave it to me to hear a story when it's two months old. This one might be old, but it's still worth telling.

It happened to Edith and John Spinks. John, City Editor of the Reflector and graduate of the University of North Carolina School of Journalism, is a native of Winston-Salem. Edith, however, is from Baltimore, Md.

One of Edith's special girl friends from Baltimore was coming to Greenville to visit her. Naturally, Edith and John wanted to arrange a date for her while she was in Greenville.

Unfortunately, the name of the Greenville Don Juan who was picked for the date is not available, but the date was arranged. Edith's friend was scheduled to come in to Rocky Mount on the train. Edith, John, and the friends date were to meet her in Rocky Mount.

SCOTT—Governor Scott was not in a particularly bellicose mood at his latest press conference, but he manifested no disposition to run from the prospect of a fight on either of the two subjects discussed. In answer to questions about defections in the parols commission's office, the governor affirmed his full faith and confidence in Parol Commissioner T. C. Johnson, and quipped that "the little doctor can take care of himself." As to the inadequacy of electric power in North Carolina, the governor repeated at length the same "speech" he has made at numerous other press conferences and in public favoring government development of resources. He added something new and significant in specific charge that the power lobby in Washington had been successful in suppressing a report on an army engineer corps survey of power potentials on the up-state tributaries of the Cape Fear river.

SUPPRESSED—The governor said the report of a survey made some years ago indicating that power development on the lower Cape Fear were not feasible has been published. Another more recent report, he said, showing the feasibility of combination flood control and power, generally on the Deep River, the Haw river and New Hope creek had not been released.

When asked why, the governor replied with a grin that "the private utilities have a powerful lobby in Washington." He said he had positive information that the army engineers wanted to publish the report, but were blocked by congressional refusal to authorize publication. He clearly intimated that congress ready to take the trip to Rocky Mount a brain storm hit him. In the few minutes of available time, he borrowed a 1951 model Cadillac and a chauffeur's uniform from a friend.

Soon afterwards, the three took off for Rocky Mount, with Don Juan in the front seat, donned in a chauffeur's uniform, and Edith and John sitting in the back seat, with a very dignified expression on their faces.

When the girl friend hopped off the train, Don Juan was right there, ready to take her bag, bow and scrape in a manner becoming the best of chauffeurs. The Baltimore Miss was overwhelmed by the chauffeur, 1951 Cadillac, and dignified airs of Edith and John.

En route back to Greenville the stunned girl was comfortably seated in the back seat with Edith and John, little realizing that the "chauffeur" in the front seat was the man destined to

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.
Leave it to me to hear a story when it's two months old. This one might be old, but it's still worth telling.

It happened to Edith and John Spinks. John, City Editor of the Reflector and graduate of the University of North Carolina School of Journalism, is a native of Winston-Salem. Edith, however, is from Baltimore, Md.

One of Edith's special girl friends from Baltimore was coming to Greenville to visit her. Naturally, Edith and John wanted to arrange a date for her while she was in Greenville.

Unfortunately, the name of the Greenville Don Juan who was picked for the date is not available, but the date was arranged. Edith's friend was scheduled to come in to Rocky Mount on the train. Edith, John, and the friends date were to meet her in Rocky Mount.

As Don Juan was sitting around

Around Capitol Square

SCOTT—Governor Scott was not in a particularly bellicose mood at his latest press conference, but he manifested no disposition to run from the prospect of a fight on either of the two subjects discussed. In answer to questions about defections in the parols commission's office, the governor affirmed his full faith and confidence in Parol Commissioner T. C. Johnson, and quipped that "the little doctor can take care of himself." As to the inadequacy of electric power in North Carolina, the governor repeated at length the same "speech" he has made at numerous other press conferences and in public favoring government development of resources. He added something new and significant in specific charge that the power lobby in Washington had been successful in suppressing a report on an army engineer corps survey of power potentials on the up-state tributaries of the Cape Fear river.

SUPPRESSED—The governor said the report of a survey made some years ago indicating that power development on the lower Cape Fear were not feasible has been published. Another more recent report, he said, showing the feasibility of combination flood control and power, generally on the Deep River, the Haw river and New Hope creek had not been released.

When asked why, the governor replied with a grin that "the private utilities have a powerful lobby in Washington." He said he had positive information that the army engineers wanted to publish the report, but were blocked by congressional refusal to authorize publication. He clearly intimated that congress

What Other Papers Are Thinking

When it first came into being under President Hoover it served a useful purpose. Banks were popping fast and where those banks had adequate assets the government money pulled them through. That saved many an institution. But, when after the banking holiday, new regulations were established, the need expired. However, for no good reason, we continued the RFC operating in much the same way as a private bank. In the last 15 years it's made many loans, some of which, we're now finding out, were questionable.

It'll go on making more of the same kind as long as it exists. For that's the nature of political institutions. What is more, it'll be a bank of the last resort, a place where those who can't get money elsewhere will apply. The politicians introduce the applicants. To them, that's a part of their business. And many a questionable loan will be made which wouldn't be made by private institutions. Thus if we're to reduce the temptations, we'll junk the RFC. It's the only way to get away from repetition of the scandals that have been perturbing us of late.

Business Today

If history repeats itself, Americans can expect a great rise in offerings of stocks in Canadian gold mines, Congo uranium lodes, South Pacific coconut plantations, Honduran oil wells and Andean chinchilla-raising projects.

Better Bureau, postal inspectors and Security Exchange commission investigators are going to be busy checking up on a flood of get-rich-quick promotions.

There is nothing like a high total of personal savings to whet the appetites of big time swindlers. And the total of savings is enormous.

The Federal Reserve Board has published figures showing that consumers saved $14,000,000,000 in 1950, a rise of $9,000,000,000 over the previous year. The United States Savings and Loan League reported that savings associations alone will increase their deposits by $2,000,000,000 this year.

Department of Commerce figures show that savings for the third quarter of last year, when they were sapped by the Korea buying binge, were at an annual rate of 4.5 billion dollars. In the last quarter they rose to 16.8 billion and in the first quarter of this year, when there was another buying spree, dropped to 9.3 billion. Then in the second quarter of this year they rose to the amazing annual rate of 21.1 billion.

That's not a record. Savings reached their peak of nearly 36 billion in 1944, when there was little to spend money on. They were only 4 billion in 1947, when goods were plentiful again.

The slickers have a ready-made argument for unloading high-risk and outright phony stocks and shares. It is inflation. "Inflation is eating up your savings. If you put away $100 in 1939, even with the interest it would buy less today. But real property rises in dollar value with inflation. The thing to do is to convert your savings into real property, and shares in this venture represent gold in the ground." Or bananas in Bali, plutonium in Ceylon or pie in the sky.

Fortunately, laws against phony stock and doubtful shares and "interests" have been progressively tightened. Shrewd promoters always manage to keep a few steps ahead of the legislators. Just because an "investment" does not come under the jurisdiction of the SEC, postal laws or state "blue sky" laws is no reason for believing it is sound. In fact, that's a reason for being more careful than usual.

OLD ADVICE IS STILL THE BEST
Better than any other precaution against being swindled is

MILITARY BUYING BOLSTERS SHOE MARKET
If it wasn't for military buying, the shoe industry would be in a bad way. Shoe production of 361,771,000 pairs during the first nine months of this year was 2.9 per cent less than production during the same 1950 period, the Tanners Council of America reports. But if it had not been for government orders, the drop would have been 7 per cent, it calculates.

GOVERNMENT BACKING EAT-APPLE WEEK
This year's apple drop, now being harvested, will be almost as large as last year's, the Department of Agriculture says. And last year's was so large that thousands of tons were dumped or left unpecked.

The Department is backing up the promotion of National Apple Week, October 25 to November 3, and is urging people to eat apples like crazy. To help things along, it is offering apple recipes, including one for scalloped apples and sweet potatoes. (The Department is trying to help move the jam crop, too.)

CHINESE DELICACIES LARGELY AVAILABLE
Breaking off trade relations with China has had little effect on the fanciers of Chinese food. Most of the vegetables have long been grown in the United States, and soy, oyster, duck and plum sauces produced here are said to equal the imported varieties in flavor. There are large inventories of Chinese tea in the United States and ample production in Formosa, Ceylon and India.

There is a large supply of ginger in non-Red Hong Kong, but exporters must certify it did not come from China since Dec. 17, 1950. Some of the rarer delicacies, such as bamboo shoots, shark fins and birds' nests, are somewhat scarce. Li-chi nuts are now being grown in the United States but the crop is still meager.

BACKING: A new process that integrates a foam rubber backing with carpeting, forming a soft underlay, has been announced by Collins & Alkman Corp., 200 Madison Ave., New York.

Hal Boyle's Column
NEW YORK (AP)—"If the Great American Tragedy today is the average cup of restaurant coffee, pray tell what is the average cup of restaurant tea?"

This query came from a lady fond of the brew that cheers but not lubricates—which, by the way, is tea.

And I feel I can give an authoritative answer. The average cup of restaurant tea isn't tea at all. It is a felony perfume, a high crime against two of the noblest beverages of history—honest water, honest tea.

It is a far worse thing to serve a bad cup of tea than it is a bad cup of coffee, because it wounds the recipient more grievously.

Coffee drinkers are hearty, durable, down-to-earth people able to stand the shocks and sensitive soul easily depressed by harsh realities.

I don't say this altogether just disappointments of life. But your true tea lover is a finer, more because I am a tea lover myself, although naturally, that's a factor. The poets and writers of the past have hinted at this truth.

"Thank God for tea!" cried Sydney Smith. "What would the world do without tea? I am glad I was not born before tea."

Emerson observed "There is a great deal of poetry and fine sentiment in a chest of tea."

Edmund Waller spoke of tea as "the muses' friend." And Thomas De Quincey wrote:

"Tea, though ridiculed by those who are naturally coarse in their nervous sensibilities... will always be the favorite beverage of the intellectual."

(Editor's note: Is that the same guy who wrote "Confessions Of An English Opium-Eater"?)

(Boyle's note: Yes, he went on to opium from restaurant tea.)

Tea drinking is a highly esoteric art. It can become a cult. But it is basically as simple as putting tea leaves in boiling water. You can add a lot of refinements, but if you simply do that you'll get an acceptable drink.

The trouble with restaurant tea boils down to this: The average restaurant simply seems unable to boil water.

The waitress drops a cheese-cloth sack containing five assorted tea leaves into a small piece of covered crockery supposedly containing boiling water. Anxiously you wait a moment, sorrowfully you pour despairingly you taste. It is as tepid as a Victorian love scene, as flavorless as melted snow. You could not even put peppermint in it and palm it off as a garble.

I have seen grown up tea drinkers put their faces down on their arms and cry when dished up this insult to their favorite beverage.

About restaurant coffee there is some hope, about restaurant tea there is none. And there never will be until they pass a law allowing customers the right to pour over the head of anyone

Washington Letter
By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON Mena Hogan found that farm women abroad are interested in the same things we are—peace, freedom and improved living conditions.

Sometimes only the simplest things are involved in the letter, she found—lifting a wash tub from the floor to a higher working level so there will be less back-breaking bending, for instance.

The most of the farm homes Miss Hogan visited during her six months' tour of 11 foreign countries as a Marshall Plan home demonstration consultant, on loan from the Department of Agriculture's extension service, she found women eager to improve on their homemaking.

Though her main job was to compare methods for setting up home economics demonstration extension programs, such as we have in this country, Miss Hogan was able to give a few easy suggestions direct to the housewife in the hundreds of homes she visited.

"In Ireland, Turkey and many parts of Italy, I found women still cooking over the fireplace in pots hung from tripods and a great deal of darkness in the kitchen from too few windows and ages of smoke," she told me. In Austria, she said they even called these "smoke kitchens."

"I always emphasized simple improvements would be the best to start with at least—raising the working surface, getting more light in from the outside or white-washing the walls." The arrangements of kitchens in most places, even in England, Scotland, Wales, and France, she said, resulted in too many needless steps.

"They like big kitchens—the family life centers there—but the housewives want a hand in re-grouping them so as to save extra motion," she said.

Miss Hogan was talked with a number of agricultural specialists who came over here to study programs in this country. She says she found them remarkably pleased with the many things they had been able to adopt to meet their own specific problems. Most countries feel there has been a lag between the progress in ways of doing things on the farm and in the home. "They believe extension work can be adapted to meet many of the problems encountered in the home and they are anxious to build up such programs," she told me.

Continued Mild

The temperature in this area continues to prevail in the 50's. The mercury has not ascended to the 60's in more than a week. Highest temperature here yesterday was 64 degrees. Lowest last night 54, and at 8 a.m. today it was 58. No rain.

Yesterday a year ago the highest temperature was 69 degrees. Lowest that night, 51, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 55. No rain.

Light frosts occurred here last year on the 25th and 26th of September. Mrs. Carl E. Madden, local observer for the U. S. Department of Commerce, reported.

New Draft Regulations Re-Classify Large Group; 500,000 'Eligible'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman yesterday signed new draft regulations which make childless married men eligible for military service.

The presidential action also makes other changes in Selective Service rules in keeping with the draft law passed by Congress last June. They range from including some aliens in the draft to lowering the volunteer age limit.

Of major effect, however, is the permission to draft childless married men, a chance Selective Service officials believe will make 500,000 men formerly deferred eligible for duty. Brig. Gen. Louis Renfrow, acting director of Selective Service, said about 200,000 of this total may be drafted.

The new rules are for the guidance of local draft boards. Selective Service has said a few of them already have been reclassifying childless married men.

To prevent last-minute claims for deferment "based only on the registrant's opinion that his wife recently has become pregnant," the new law clearly defines "child."

Under the amended law, "child" means an infant from date of conception. A man may obtain deferment only if his doctor says a child has been conceived before the draftee is ordered to report for induction.

New regulations for the first time also:

1. Force conscientious objectors to do some work of national importance for two years if physically able.
2. Spread the draft more evenly through age groups to prevent too-heavy call-up of young men.
3. Lower physical standards to those of January 1945—the lowest point in World War II—and reduce mental requirements.

Slower Driving Can Cut Toll Report Insurance Men

L. M. Buchanan, of Hooker and Buchanan, Inc., recently returned from Philadelphia, where he attended the annual meeting of Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Company agents at Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Agents from North Carolina and eight other southern states were present. They made a study of recent insurance developments and had a discussion on how to reduce the mounting traffic toll by adding to the motor travel time.

H. G. Kemper, president of Lumbermen's, told the agents that traffic accidents and deaths would be cut 90 per cent if all motorists regulated their speed to fit the common hazards encountered in everyday driving.

"The average driver spends 64 minutes behind the wheel of his car per day," Kemper said. "He would not have to increase his total travel time by more than 10 per cent, or six minutes, to achieve the 90 per cent cut."

"The additional six minutes would be used in making honest stops at stop signs, in not jumping or in other ways cheating on traffic lights, in slowing to a safe speed when passing near adults and children, or when passing blind corners, double-parked cars or any of the recognizable danger points encountered in every-day driving," the insurance executive continued.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS

Officials of the Kinston High School athletic department are reportedly expecting a rather large delegation of Greenville folks at the Greenville-Kinston football game in Kinston tomorrow night. The game will be the first in Northeastern Conference play for the Red Devils.

The Phantoms are receiving a lot of favorable publicity in Kinston and folks over there are drumming up the game to big proportions. As might well be expected, the Kinston followers have installed their team in the driver's seat and to attempt to get one to admit otherwise is well-nigh inviting calamity.

The Kinston backers have a great deal in their favor this far this year. The club has kicked one Class AAA school (Wilson High). They've given up only four touchdowns in their three games (one more than the Phantoms have given up in two contests) and have scored seven against three for the Phantoms (who, remember, have played one less game.)

The greatest thing the Phantoms have in their favor as game time draws near is the fact that they have beaten a club (Morehead City) that has supposedly lost only one game in the last two seasons. They didn't look particularly bad against Edenton although Coach Bill Kittrell did not think they looked good in losing and right now Kittrell is banking a lot it seems on the experience the boys will pick up in each game.

Ed Briley will doubtless be better off in tomorrow's game than he was last week when he ran at quarterback for the first time. Sonny Scott and the other Phantoms backs, such as Guy Smith, who've been shifted around in the last two weeks, will be more at home than they were in the opener with Edenton. The two-game experience the Phantoms have will be a help and they'll be in top physical shape—something that Kinston will also be able to claim.

Taking consideration of all factors involved, it seems that the Phantoms will have a rough time trying to avenge the 30-0 defeat they suffered last year. It's true they're "up" for the game and want it badly since Kinston is definitely the club to beat in the Northeastern Conference this year.

It will be interesting to note the results of the suit pending in Denver, Colorado, in which a former football player at Denver University is seeking to collect $26 in "back pay." The player, a former end, claims that he was injured and was not "paid" for the time he was out of action. The school, quite naturally and as might be expected, has denied that he got paid at all.

The Colorado State Industrial Commission has ordered the University to show their books for the period in question and definitely establish that the gridded was either not supposed to be paid anything other than the claimed tuition "grant-in-aid" or that he was paid for the week's "work."

The case is one that is rather unusual even though it has been expected for some time. It just had to pop up somewhere now that colleges and universities all over the land have just about openly admitted they are doing almost everything in an effort to attract more and better football players to their respective campuses.

Incidentally, the Denver coach told a Denver civic group that he could give them a football team if he had the use of $50,000 for three years. If not, the coach continued, he would like to "get the hell out."

You may be leaving sooner than you think, coach. If your former player's law-suit comes through. And without your $50,000.

Sandy Siler's build-up as the successor to Roger Thrift at East Carolina doesn't seem to be too far from being correct. In the two games the Pirates have played thus far, Sandy has completed 25 of 47 attempted passes.

Leo Is Candidate For Manager Of Year Tribute

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Win or lose in the pulsating National League pennant race, Leo Durocher of the amazing New York Giants is certain to be a leading candidate for Manager of the Year honors. "Don't write about me," said Leo in the dressing room after his Giants slaughtered the Philadelphia Phillies last night 10 to 1, and pulled once again within one full game of the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

"The success of this ball club is due to the 25 men who comprise the squad. They never quit. They have fought hard. Always remember that the players make the manager, not the manager the players. All I do is decide who is going to pitch and name a batting lineup. Then I go out to the third base coaching box and shout myself hoarse."

Phantoms Play Kinston Friday Night

Devils Slated To Field Strong Team

By MELVIN LANG
Greenville will enter its contest with Kinston's Red Devils Friday night as a slight underdog, but those who saw the Phantoms roll to an easy victory over a good Morehead City eleven last week will not readily agree.

The general consensus of opinion following the contest was that the Phantoms appeared to be strengthened in every position, especially in the backfield. Coach Bill Kittrell switched his backs around for the game and it paid off better than he expected.

Halfback Ed Briley was moved to quarterback, with the former signal-caller, Glenn Scott shifting over to Briley's old slot for the Morehead game. The result: an exhibition of excellent leadership as Briley guided the Phantoms to a 12-0 win and their first victory of the year.

Briley is expected to lead the Greenville attack against the Red Devils. He will have several good runners backing him up in the form of Scott, fullback Guy Smith, who scored once and got off several long runs in Friday's win, and halfbacks Bob Perry and Doug Morgan.

The end positions will be held down by Captain Joe Rowland and Wallace Conway. Rowland displaced his shoulder several weeks ago at the beginning of practice and did not appear in the Phantoms' first game against Edenton. He appeared in eight plays against Morehead. Conway set up both Greenville touchdowns against the Carteret Countians with perfect catches of long passes thrown by Briley.

Kinston Strong
The Red Devils are expected to field one of the strongest clubs to face Greenville this season. Kinston opened the season by up-setting the Class A Wilson Cyclones, 12-0. Methodist Orphanage dropped the Devils, 12-6, two weeks ago and La Grange was stopped 25-7 last week as Kinston returned to the win column.

Fullback Bryant Alridge leads the strong Kinston backfield, supported by halfbacks Kilby Turner and Crispin Emory, and quarterback Charlie Wickham. Alridge is making a strong bid for all-state honors this season. In the first three games he has scored three touchdowns to lead Kinston in that department. Coach Frank Mock's team has crossed the goal line seven times this season, with three conversions, making a grand total of 45 points. The opposition has scored 19 points.

The Grainger Stadium contest will be the first Northeastern Conference contest for Kinston.

Both teams have been hard at work this week preparing for the oncoming game. Greenville went through a 45-minute scrimmage Tuesday with the defensive team working against the Kinston plays. Kittrell worked separately with the linemen yesterday on offensive blocking while assistant coaches Dave Banerman and Otto Alford worked with the backs and ends, respectively on offensive tactics to be used in the Kinston game.

Bums, Giants Win To Tighten Race

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
For the seventh year in the last eight, it appeared likely today that at least one of the baseball pennant races won't be decided until the last day of the season.

This time, with the Dodgers and the Giants involved, the madness is more intense than ever because the teams authentically hate each other and the feud has spread to the point where fellow subway strap hangers aren't speaking.

The arguments are loud and long but the facts boil down to a good bet for the battle of the big touts to continue until the final putout Sunday afternoon after both teams poured it on to win easy victories yesterday.

The Giants won their fifth straight, crushing the Phillies 10 to 1 in a night game, while Brooklyn suddenly looked like a contender again after days of mediocrity—or worse—pummeling the Braves for a 15 to 5 victory.

Brooklyn, still protecting a one game lead, plays the Braves for the final time today, while the Giants enjoy the first of two consecutive off-days. The Dodgers have four games to go and need to win three of them to clinch the pennant, even if the Giants win their remaining two games in Boston

Tornadoes Prep For First Defense Of Coastal Title

AYDEN — Coach Stuart Tripp's Tornadoes went back to the old familiar grind of hard work this week as they began preparations for their first defense of the Coastal Conference championship, which they won for the second time in a row last year.

Ayden will play host to Robersonville's Rams here Friday night in a contest slated for 8 p. m. kick-off. The Tornadoes will enter the contest as a two touchdown favorite. Robersonville defeated Jamesville last week, 6-0, and tied Windsor, 6-6, in its opener. Ayden lost its first game last week to Williamston, the defending state champions, as the Green Wave scored with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

The Tornadoes did not suffer a serious injury in the contest, although starting halfback John Cheek received a kick on his left ankle. The blow caused the ankle to swell tremendously, but Cheek is expected to be able to play Friday.

Coach Tripp has sent the players through several long practice sessions yesterday. He plans to taper off the week's work-out with a lesson on fundamentals today.

120 Golfers Tee Off In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A tired bunch of tournament tourists tackled Meadowbrook Country club here today in quest of $15,000 prize money offered for the 2nd annual St. Louis Open.

Headed by defending champion Cary Middlecoff, 120 golfers teed off for the 72-hole grind hopeful to turn in some low scores on the comparatively short layout. Middlecoff said the touring pros, nearing the end of the summer trail, all were "more or less tired."

However, he predicted the winner would have to shoot a hot 70, the same number of strokes he and Ed (Porky) Oliver used in finishing the four-day event here last year. Middlecoff won the title in a playoff with the West coast fat man.

Jim Martin, Detroit Lions' end from Notre Dame, has been nicknamed "Jughead" since he was a youth and wore short hair cuts.

SMU Coach Says Defeat In Offing

DALLAS — (AP)—Coach H. N. (Rusty) Russell of Southern Methodist turned prophet today, said Ohio State would beat his team by at least three touchdowns Saturday.

There is no prospect of an upset like the Methodists staged last year, the SMU coach declared.

"They may be a little short on manpower," he said facetiously. "They only have about 50 members of last year's squad back. Maybe we better lend them some men."

"They have more experienced men than I have men on my entire squad," Russell added.

The Giants, who have been staying alive by winning the close ones, blasted away early and often last night as Jansen won his 21st game by scattering nine hits. Four runs in the first inning, three on a tremendous homer by Monte Irvin, put the game beyond recall.

Irvin, the league's top run-batted in artist also connected for a double and triple, driving in four tallies to bring his total to 119.

The Dodgers, shaking off memories of their horrid showing in losing a doubleheader the night before, gave Don Newcombe 14-hit support as he won his 19th game.

The Yankees were prevented from clinching at least a pennant tie when lefty Bobby Shantz pitched a great six-hitter for a 4 to 1 victory by the "Spoiler" Athletics.

In other American League games, the Red Sox were done out of anything but a pennant tie, by dropping a 7 to 2 decision to the Senators, while Ned Garver pitched his 19th victory, 7 to 1, for the Browns over the Tigers.

The Red Sox could only tie for the pennant now by winning their finale from Washington today and the next five games in a row from the Yankees.

The second-place Indians, 2 1-2 games out of the lead, had the first of three open dates before they wind up in two games with the vengeful Tigers.

Other National League teams had open dates.

Rams Preparing For Coastal Tilt

ROBERSONVILLE — Coach Bob Lee sent his boys through an hour long scrimmage here yesterday in preparation for Friday night's Coastal Conference tilt in Ayden.

Robersonville defeated Jamesville in its last outing, by a slim margin of 6-0. Ayden dropped its opening game to Williamston last Friday night by an 18-13 score, as the Green Wave rallied for a late quarter touchdown.

The Rams emerged from the Jamesville contest without a serious injury. Several boys received bruises, but all expected to see action Friday.

Co-captains Sonny James and William Taylor led the Rams in practice yesterday. James, a fullback was one of the standouts for Robersonville against Jamesville, as was Taylor, a guard, outstanding on defense.

Ewell Blackwell has been named to the National League All-Star team in each of his six years with the Cincinnati Reds.

Athletic Rules Are Proposed By Leaders

D. H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools, released earlier in the week a series of proposed rules and regulations to govern scholastic athletic contests.

The rules were suggested by county superintendents at a statewide meeting held in August. As yet they have no official standing, as they have not been approved by enough people. The various superintendents have passed out copies of the rules to school principals and are waiting on their report before a committee is formed to enforce the rules.

First on the list is a rule covering eligibility of a player. The chief exponents of the rule are: (1) Player must be enrolled in school; (2) He must have attended at least 60 per cent of the previous term at an accredited school; (3) Must secure passing grades on three subjects; (4) Player is eligible for four years play after entering high school; (5) He may not play if he is 19 years of age before July 1; (6) Participation in all-star games nulls eligibility in that year.

Other factors covered in the list are: Only one football game and two matches in other sports will be allowed. A recommendation that girl's basketball be limited to one game a week is also included.

A limitation is also placed on the number of games, 10 for football, and 20 for basketball and baseball. No spring football practice will be allowed.

Post season games, except in county conference or state play-offs, would not be allowed. There would not be a state championship for girls.

A team may enter but two tournaments a year in one sport. Girls are confined to one.

The remainder of the list included coverage by insurance and goes into further detail of the rules already listed.

Frank Smith, ace relief pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, is the son of a blacksmith. His father operates a blacksmith shop in Stone Mills, N. Y.

Red and Gold will play the second game of the young season this afternoon at the Little League park.

INTOXICATING CHICKEN MASH CROWN POINT, Ind. — (AP)—A chicken raiser has lost his suit to avoid payment of a mash bill. He charged the mash made his chickens pilled. He said they were "nervous, excited and unmarketable." A jury thought otherwise and ordered him to pay the $198 bill plus interest.

Opening Contest Ends In Deadlock

The local Little League football program began Monday with a stalemate, as the Whites and Blues struggled to a 6-6 tie.

Blue scored first with quarterback Jim McGee climbing a drive which covered the length of the field by going over from the six yard line for the TD. A running attempt for the extra point by McGee was futile.

White took the kick-off following the touchdown and marched to the Blue goal-line, where fullback Ike Riddick took a pitch and went 12 yards around left end for this score. Riddick's attempted pass for the extra point was no good and the score stood at 6-6 at the end of the first quarter.

The teams battled evenly for the remainder of the game. White reached the Blue 11 yard line before being stopped on downs late in the fourth period.

Fullback Billy Sermons, who had to cut his weight down by one pound to become eligible for participation, end Barney Barrett, and tackle Robert Crawford were also outstanding for the Blue squad.

The Whites were led by Riddick, end Harris Northrop, and center Merrill Bynum.

Green City Murder Case

By Wm. G. Bogart

Chapter 9
From the windows of the office high in the Carew Tower building you could see the rising Kentucky hills forming a background for the winding Ohio River. It was late afternoon, and now gray leaden clouds hung in the sky, and there was an occasional gust of snow flurries, like confetti thrown to the wind. Outside, it was cold. Inside the warm, hushed quiet had left Nancy behind to go with the place. Johnny liked nice things. Here was a richly furnished office designed to impress a prospective client, as any average agency wishes to land a customer. Of course, Johnny Saxon wasn't average. People came to him. And if he didn't like their propositions, he left with them. Just the same, maybe he was passing up something. Maybe he, too, should have amber-colored drapes at the windows. And modern furniture that was cream-tan, and leather covered. Take this desk, for instance. Its massive broad top contained, in place of the usual blotter set, a nicely cut hide of some sort that draped over the sides. There was little else except a silver-framed small clock, a highly-priced fountain pen set, a chrome ash tray and a telephone. His long legs hooked on the edge of the smooth desk top. Johnny watched black figures appear in a square frame of the clock with each passing minute. There was no customary dial. Finally he turned back to examining the evening newspaper that was spread across his legs. The paper was double-spread at the entertainment section. The two-column-by-18 advertisement featured these attractions of the popular CLUB MAYFAIR, a night spot across the river in Kentucky, and the most intriguing thing about the copy was the partial view of a girl's nicely shaped ear and a glimpse of smartly coiffured, brunette hair. Beneath the cut was the caption: "This is Jeanette's right ear. You can see the rest of her nightly at the CLUB MAYFAIR."

"Jeanette Evans" was the name that the auction room clerk had scribbled on the slip of paper for Johnny Saxon. He remembered, now, why she had looked familiar. There had been a full-size picture of Jeanette in yesterday morning's edition of the Cincinnati Enquirer. Of course, there in the store, with more clothes on... He kept wondering about the desk and just why in the devil anyone desired to pay such an outrageous price for it. He lifted the receiver off the handset. Nancy's pleasant voice answered. "Yes, Johnny?"

"Look, sweetheart," he said, "how well do you know Max Milton, the auctioneer?"

"Fairly well, Johnny. We have bought things from him from time to time. It's been located here for years, you know."

"There's a couple questions I'd like to ask Max and a couple that he had this afternoon. Could you sort of lay the groundwork for me? Say I'm a friend and anything he tells me will be held in confidence. Can you do that?"

"Certainly..." Then her tone changed. "Was she that attractive Johnny?"

He held the cigarette an inch from his lips. "What do you mean?" "You know what I mean." He wondered if she were just a little bit jealous. "Moe just called."

He said, "Oh." "He's worried about you. He was afraid maybe you had ducked out some place—after her. He's afraid you won't be around if Beth calls."

"Did your sister call yet?" "No, not a word." He thought she sounded just a bit up set. "I tried twice to reach her, but everyone must have been out. I'm going to stay here a while just in case she tried to reach me."

"Yes—ah, about this other..." "Hold on. I'll get Max and see what I can do."

Nancy's voice said, "Here you are, Johnny. Max is on the line now..." She plugged him on the call.

"Max," Johnny started, "did Miss O'Neil tell you..." "Yes, yes," said the little impatient auctioneer. "What is it you want to know?"

"Look, Max," Johnny said. "I'm just curious about that girl who bought the old desk this afternoon. What I mean is, why would she want the thing? Certainly it wasn't worth more than ten dollars at the outside..."

"Mr. Saxon?" said the dealer. "Yes, Max?"

"This is positively confidential?" "I give you my word..." "Okay, Frankly, Mr. Saxon, I am amazed. The desk is worth practically nothing. I am trying to unload it for years. Just a lot of junk there is in that thing..." "You mean," asked Johnny, "there was something in the desk?" "That's right. Something may be an old maid collects... lace...

letters... albums. I'm telling you don't ever remember who left it, here. He looks at the desk, and he even asks me have I got a key. The key is lost. I am thinking maybe he is going to buy the desk because he seems interested—and then he doesn't!" Johnny's eyes flickered. "Was it the same man who stored the desk?" "No."

Johnny thought that was that, until Max said abruptly, "Say!" "What?" "A few days ago a guy was in

Johnny said with some disappointment, and hung up. He sat thinking for some time. Then he realized that Nancy's tall, straight figure was standing in the doorway leading to the out-of-office. Her mahogany-colored hair shone in the light from the room behind her. (To be continued)

Two great advantages for smart beef buying...

2 Guaranteed Grades at 2 Prices!

Depend on Colonial to help you stretch your beef-buying dollars! Colonial offers two grades of beef at two prices. Select the grade to fit your menu and your budget, too. Want a "company" steak? "COLONIAL PRIDE" is the best you can buy—grain-fed "naturally tender" beef from the nation's finest herds, U. S. Government Graded CHOICE or better. For your steaks and pot roasts, choose "Budget Beef." Rich in flavor, nutritive value, and vitamin content—this thriffter grade is also fine meat from the country's top-packing houses, U. S. Government Graded COMMERCIAL. Take your choice of grade, of price—Colonial's markers make your selection easy. Colonial's Money-Back Guarantee makes satisfaction a certainty!

Singing Convention Slated For Sunday

Several hundred singers are expected to participate in the first annual Coastal Plain Singing Convention to be held at East Carolina football stadium next Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

The Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the musical event.

Rev. D. A. Windham, First Will Baptist minister and veteran song leader for nearly a third of a century, is director.

Judge Charles H. Whedbee of Municipal Recorder's Court will be master of ceremonies.

Mayor Lester D. Page and Dr. John D. Messick, president of ECO, will welcome the singers and spectators. Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, will say the invocation. Old gospel hymns will feature the program.

The latest group to enlist on the program is the Christian Choir of 15 voices, from Macleesfield.

In case of rain, the program will be presented in Austin auditorium.

At present, one chorus, six choirs, six quartets, two trios and one duet are enrolled for the song festival. Men and women will compose the singing groups. Each will sing two numbers. In addition, a choir composed of the combined choirs of each church in Greenville will sing one selection.

Bob Russ is Joyce chairman of the Committee on Arrangements. The program is free to the public.

Ayden's New Jail Near Completion

AYDEN—Finishing touches are being put to the new Ayden jail which when completed will cost the town some over $3,000.

The portion of the jail which will house men taken into custody already has been completed with four cells designed to hold two prisoners each. Each cell is complete with two bunks, toilet, lavatory and drinking fountain.

In another portion of the jail work is being completed on two cells for women and juveniles. These cells will be equipped just like the other in the other part of the jail.

The jail is located in the building which houses the town office and the police department, and will be heated from the same hot air heating plant which heats the offices.

A new booking and filing system and a fingerprinting system have recently been put into operation at the police department by Chief G. W. Riley. The chief said the system is similar to the one used in Greenville.

Farmville Native Takes Oath As Attorney Here

A Farmville native and nephew of a former superior court judge was administered the oath as a practicing attorney here this week.

He is Marvin Vale Horton, Jr., son of Mrs. M. V. Horton and the late Mr. Horton of Farmville. He is the nephew of the late J. Loyd Horton of Greenville and Farmville who until his death in the early 1920's was the youngest superior court judge in North Carolina.

Horton graduated from the University Law School in June and recently passed the North Carolina State Bar examination. He was presented to the court by Dan Jones, Farmville attorney, and was sworn in by Judge Quincy Nimocks who is holding this week's term of court.

U.S. Again . . .

Iran has a standing army of an estimated 150,000 troops trained and equipped partly with American arms. In addition it has thousands of reserve troops and security police.

If British troops land on Iranian soil, Russia could invoke the 1921 Soviet-Iranian friendship treaty and pour Soviet troops across Iran's northern border.

Weeping, tottery Mossadegh pledged before a crowd crying for British blood today that his government will struggle against Britain "with all our strength" to preserve the nation's rights.

Quiet Night For Police; Carry Out Routine Patrols

All was quiet in police circles last night. Radio patrol cars and officers on foot reported the night as a quiet routine period. Capt. William D. Berg stated.

Police made eight arrests. They ranged from driving without a license, assault on a female, transporting whiskey, profane language to speeding, etc.

The police were called on during last night by a Norfolk, Va. telephone operator to notify Mrs. Lonnie Simpkins, on the Winslow farm on the Pactus highway, that her uncle, Lonnie Williams, was dead and that the funeral would be held in Norfolk Friday afternoon.

A man of varied interests—law, labor and marital relations, and intercollegiate sports—Feinsinger has been mixed up as a mediator and arbitrator in some of this country's worst labor disputes.

Probably his greatest success was in handling the tangled strike situation in Hawaii in 1946. Strikes in the longshore, sugar and pineapple industries had crippled the island's economy.

Feinsinger stepped in as a special representative of the Labor Department. All three strikes were quickly settled. For that feat, a special day honoring Feinsinger was proclaimed throughout Hawaii.

During World War II Feinsinger figured in some of the biggest labor troubles as Disputes Director for the War Labor Board. Friends say he wangled a number of settlements single-handed. He has also served on a number of big labor dispute fact-finding boards named by President Truman.

Senate Votes To Place Tax On Expense Money

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate voted 77-11 today to wipe out the tax exemption on expense allowances of the president, vice president and members of Congress, effective Jan. 3, 1953.

The amendment, described by its sponsors as in effect a salary cut, was tacked on to a bill to increase taxes an estimated $5,500,000,000 a year. The bill calls for an 11 per cent boost in income taxes for most persons.

Senator Williams (R-Del.), sponsor of the amendment to remove the tax-free privilege on the expense funds, originally planned to make it effective Nov. 1, this year. That is the scheduled date of the boost in personal income taxes.

Revenue Man And Eight Employees Are Suspended

WASHINGTON—(AP)—James G. Smyth, collector of internal revenue in San Francisco, and eight other tax office employees were suspended today. One of the eight was accused of embezzlement and another of juggling accounts.

President Truman suspended Smyth pending an investigation "relating to incompetency" in the conduct of his office.

Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap, who announced the suspension of the wage and excise tax division in the San Francisco office, has confessed post-dating tax receipts "in cahoots" with tax payers to avoid payments of about $3,000 in interest and penalties.

reached its zenith as the ultimate expression of our way of life," he said. Because "In order to preserve nationalism, it requires the slaughter of millions. No regime that depends on the annihilation of millions deserves to continue without a re-appraisal," he said.

As to the possibility of World War III, Humber described it as an indictment of this country's sanity to let it come. He asked where the United States is going with the victory if it wins it? "You can't win a fire," he said, "you can only hope to put it out."

Charge Mailman 'Delayed' Mails

TEXARKANA, Tex. (UP)—A Texarkana mailman who used his apartment as a "dead letter office" to lighten his daily load was held under $500 bond here today charged with "detaining and delaying mail deliveries."

Postal inspectors found three bushel baskets filled with letters in the apartment of James V. McGuire, 34, postman since 1943.

either one of them. They belong to Josef Stalin. What he probably wants is iron-clad assurance that if 1,000 Russian-built planes are thrown into a general offensive, the United Nations army will be driven into the sea.

If the tempo of the Red aerial activity increases, it may mean that the Communists have decided to try one more big battle. If it dwindles, there yet may be a chance for arranging a cease-fire.

From the RECTOR'S KITCHENS

A perfect fall dish

Quick lunches, easy suppers and poppy breakfasts in variety are the order of the day in homes where Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage is on hand, links or roll.

Easy does it, too. Just shape Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage roll (as it is—nothing added) into a juicy meat loaf—see recipe for baking directions. . . . Result—a tender, luscious meat loaf with juiciness and flavor beyond compare.

We admit it wasn't so much the baking that made this meat loaf so superior. It was the downright goodness of famous-for-flavor Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage. It's the finely ground, pure pork delicately spiced that makes the wonderful aroma, and the savory spiciness of this oh-so-perfect meat loaf. Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage is "America's Finest."

Morning:
A poppy Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage Breakfast:
Fried Eggs with savory, crispy fried Wilson's Certified Sausage Links.
Pancakes or mush and sirup with Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage Patties. Yummy-Yum!

Noon:
Quick Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage Lunches: A hot sandwich of scrambled eggs sandwiched in a bun with a luscious and savory fried Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Patty.
Waffles with wonderful Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage links, fried.

And Night:
Easy Wilson's Certified Sausage Suppers: Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage Links or Patties baked in Acorn Squash Halves.
Fried Sausage on top of a Corn Casserole, or a Sausage Meat Loaf as follows: Use 2 lbs. or more Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage. Shape as a meat loaf (adding nothing). Place on a rack in a shallow baking pan. Bake at 350° F. for 1 hour. The savory fat that cooks out has many uses for frying: in sauces for vegetables, in macaroni casseroles, in salads and hot breads. In fact, you'll be sorry when it is all used up.

Serve hot with apple slices. Serves 4.
