Idle Labor Rare Item For County

Only 12 To 15 Persons Seek Unemployment Claims Whose Skills Not Applicable

The labor market is up and the unemployment claims being paid in Pitt County is the lowest point it has been in years.

That was the employment picture of the county painted today by Manager W. B. Dillingham of the local office of the Employment Security Commission.

"We don't have but 12 to 15 people now filing unemployment compensation claims each week," Dillingham declared, 'and mostly they are the ones who do not fit into our labor situation here."

A check of the compensation records of the office show unemployment compensation claims in Pitt County have ranged from 10 to 15 weekly during the past two months. Dillingham said the claims are the lowest they have been during the years he has been in charge of the Pitt office. "There is not a person in the laboring class or domestic service class who is drawing compensation," he added.

"Labor is much more scarce than it was last year. I am sure there was not a time last year when we had so few claims filed or so many jobs open as we have now."

Dillingham said this fall is the first time since he has been at the local employment office that the calls for women workers in industrial jobs have exhausted the office files of people available for employment. "We have not had enough labor to supply the requests for domestic servants from housewives," he commented. "There has been a shortage of domestic workers since green tobacco season opened."

The high employment figure in the county at the present time is attributed to the peak tobacco season and the operations of the tobacco processing plants here. But along with tobacco season, a large volume of construction work in and near Pitt county is making demands on the local labor pool. Dillingham said calls for workers on construction jobs and other jobs in the area are expected to be sufficient to take up all the slack of male workers who are laid off when the tobacco factories begin curtailing operations late this fall.

Even though unemployment claims have been at a minimum for the past two months in Pitt, the manager of the employment office said claims from women workers are expected to show a sharp increase as soon as tobacco factories in this area begin slowing down their operations. "There is not too much we can do about that," Dillingham stated. "The answer to the problem as we all know is some sort of year around employment."

When Car And Lumber Truck Collide

Three persons were injured yesterday afternoon at House Station, when the automobile shown above collided with the rear of a loaded lumber truck on the truck's side of the highway. The force of the impact ripped away the entire front of the automobile, while knocking the wheels from the truck. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

A collision between an automobile and the lumber truck shown in the above picture resulted in the back wheels to be torn loose from the truck. Luckily the load of lumber remained intact and did not fall on the automobile whic hstruck it. Heavy property damage was reported to both the truck and the car. Three Injured When Auto, Truck Collide

By ROY HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

HOUSE STATION—Three persons were injured here yesterday afternoon when an automobile collided with a loaded lumber truck, on the truck's side of the highway.

Patrolmen D. E. Perry and N. F. Casey, investigating officers, stated that the driver of the automobile, Walter Briley, 16, of Route 5 Greenville, said that he did not remember anything about the accident or how it occurred.

The Briley car, occupied by five persons, was headed in the direction of Greenville at the time of the accident and was meeting a lumber truck coming from Greenville.

Patrolman Perry said that Briley told him that the last thing he could remember was when he entered the Bethel Highway, headed towards Greenville from the Stokes Highway.

Ronald Tyson, 37, of Winterville, driver of the truck, stated that the car came on his side of the road, and that he cut his truck in an effort to avoid colliding with the oncoming car.

The right front part of the automobile collided with the right rear of the lumber truck. The driver stated he was traveling at a speed of around 50 miles per hour at the time.

Force of the impact spun the Briley car around, partly off the highway, a good distance away from the point of impact.

The truck went down the highway onto the shoulder of the road dragging the broken rear wheels. Both back wheels of the truck were torn from the body of the truck, but the load of lumber remained on the truck and did not spill out.

Injured were: Briley, who received cuts on the head; Albion Brown, 16, Route 4, Greenville, cuts on face and knee injury; Jennis Clark, 14, Route 4, Greenville, facial injuries and brain concussion.

Clark's brother, Dennis, 14, and Robert Thomas, 16, also of Route 4, were not injured. They were occupants in the back seat of the car. All of the injured were riding in the front.

The five boys had been on a hunting trip since three o'clock that morning. Time of the accident was placed at about 12:10 by the patrolmen.

Brown and Clark were admitted to the Pitt Memorial Hospital while Briley was treatec and released The trio were taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Damage to the truck and car was estimated to be very heavy.

Charges of driving in a careless and reckless manner were lodged against Briley by Officers Perry and Casey.

Charge Peddler Purchased Girl

DETROIT (UP)— A 42-year-old fruit peddler today awaited sentencing on charges he "bought" a teen-age girl in Tennessee for $40 cash and $45 worth of groceries and brought her to Detroit for immoral purposes.

Ellis Sims of Hamtramck, Mich., was convicted in federal court yesterday for violation of the Mann Act. The girl, identified only as "Catherine" from Centerville, Tennessee, now lives with Sims' wife, who has filed suit for divorce.

Asia's Unrest Grows

Assassination Of Pakistan's Premier Is Fourth Such Slaying In Seven Months For Area; Authentic Revolution Is Underway; People Are Pushing Leaders Along

By HARRY FERGUSON

The great surge of unrest throughout Asia once more has resulted in a political assassination. When Prime Minister Liaquat Ala Khan fell with two bullets in his chest in an obscure town in Pakistan yesterday, it was the fourth time in seven months that a major political figure had been killed in that general part of the world.

Those deaths point up the dramatic fact that authentic revolutions are under way in most Asiatic nations. The majority of political revolutions in Europe since World War II has been phony in the sense that there was no popular uprising.

Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Romania changed governments because of a small Communist minority gained access to the levers of power and threw the switch. The great mass of people were never consulted and if they had a chance to vote in a free election today they probably would throw the Communists out of office.

The opposite is true in most Asiatic nations. The leaders aren't pulling the people along; the people are pushing the leaders. Liaquat Ala Khan was killed because a fanatic believed he was proceeding too slowly in advancing Pakistan's quarrel with India over who should have the princely state of Kashmir.

Ala Razmara, premier of Iran, was assassinated in March of this year because somebody thought he was being too moderate in the Iranian campaign to push the British out. Mohammed Mossadegh, present premier of Iran, probably is alive only because he did push the British out.

When the tide of Japanese conquest in the Far East was at the flood early in World War II, the troops took with them wherever they went this slogan: "Asia for the Asiatics." Japan fell but the slogan lived on, and it still fires the imagination of Asiatics from the Dardanelles to the China coast.

It is that surge of feeling that is causing Britain all her trouble in Egypt and Iran, and France all her difficulties in Indo-China. It is the reason the United States gets so little sympathy from Asiatic nations in its attempt to preserve the independence of Korea.

The fixed idea among extreme factions in all Asiatic countries is

Britain Rushes 3,000 Paratroopers To Suez Area; Crisis Tension Rise

Communists Warned That Allies Set For Winter War

TOKYO (UP)— The United Nations command warned the Communists tonight that the Allies are fully prepared to fight through the winter if the Reds won't agree to a realistic armistice.

The warning came as efforts to arrange resumption of the suspended truce talks dragged through another day in Korea.

A spokesman said Allied and Communist liaison officers made some "slight" additional progress during two sessions in a tent at Panmunjom, but failed to break the main deadlock over the size of the proposed neutral zones.

The Reds refused to budge today from their demands for continuation of the present five-mile-wide neutral zone around their truce delegation's camp at Kaesong, establishment of a similar zone around the U.N. camp at Munsan, 15 miles to the southeast, and a three-mile-wide corridor between them.

The U.N. command was equally insistent on as small neutral zones as possible — a 3,000-yard zone around both camps and a 1,000-yard zone around the proposed conference site, Panmunjom.

8TH ARMY HQ, Korea (UP)— Communist resistance faded on the approaches to Kumsong today and United Nations forces drove almost to the outskirts of the big enemy base.

The U.N. infantrymen surrounded and clamped a stranglehold on 800 Chinese Reds in their advance.

An 8th Army communique reported that the vanguards of three divisions, at one point only four miles from Kumsong yesterday, had pushed on another 1,000 to 2,000 yards along a 22-mile front by midday Wednesday.

The communique said the Reds are offering only light opposition southwest, south and southeast of Kumsong, 29 miles north of the 38th Parallel on the east-central front.

On the western front, however, the U.S. 1st Cavalry was held to minor gains by bitterly resisting Chinese entrenched in log and dirt bunkers northeast of Yonchon. The cavalrymen were blasting their way north with flame-throwers and hand grenades.

The 8th Army made its deepest penetration of North Korea on the east coast. Two-day-old reports put the South Korean capital division only two miles from Kosong, 46 miles north of the old border.

Atmosphere Of Emergency Throughout Country; Thousands Of Demonstrators Demand Arms; Naval Units Alerted By British Headquarters

CAIRO, Egypt —(UP)— Britain began rushing some 3,000 paratroopers to Egypt today to bolster 10,000 troops already stationed in the troubled Suez Canal zone.

An atmosphere of emergency existed throughout the country. British jet planes patrolled the skies over Ismailia, principal trouble spot where rioting flared yesterday.

In Cairo thousands of youthful demonstrators shouting anti-Western slogans surged toward the center of the city and armed police took urgent steps to prevent bloodshed.

British naval headquarters at Malta announced also that a frigate flotilla and the cruiser Liverpool had been alerted to stand by there for further orders.

The paratroops are members of the crack 16th Independent Parachute Brigade that has been on Cyprus since the Iranian oil crisis flared last summer.

The big transport planes began roaring away from Nicosia airport in the early morning after Britain announced last night that she would reinforce her Suez Canal zone troops.

All available police were on duty throughout the country to thwart a repetition of rioting that killed 12 Egyptians and injured 74 in the canal zone yesterday.

In Cairo, some 10,000 students shouted "we want arms," "revolution," and "down with Britain, the United States, France and Turkey."

Eye-witnesses said police set up barricades to keep the students from crossing the Nile and the crowd broke up into small seething groups.

Schools throughout Egypt were ordered closed until Saturday. At least 250 police, some armed with rifles and others with batons, cordoned off approaches to the British embassy.

British troops and tanks enforced an uneasy peace in the Suez Canal zone.

Dozens of teen-aged Egyptians groaned with pain from bullet wounds at Ismailia hospital today as the price of their bloody demonstration.

Nearly all of the Egyptians hospitalized after yesterday's riots were under 20 years of age. One, with a bullet wound in his groin, was 10.

The city bristled with British machine guns, armored cars, rifles and barbed wire barricades. British troops blocked off all roads leading to the city. They promised to withdraw to their nearby garrison only when Egyptian authorities proved their ability to maintain or Outside the hospital, excited crowds spoke excitedly for hours after the rioting. One 13-year-old schoolboy boasted that he helped smash three British trucks and burn a service club to the ground.

The Egyptian government sent 700 police from Cairo to take over the patrolling of Ismailia from the British troops, who occupied the city yesterday after nationalist rioters overwhelmed the regular police force of 40 men.

Gen. Sir George Erskine, the British commander in Egypt, made it clear that his forces have no intention of getting out of the canal zone. He told British troops to "resist most strongly" if the Egyptians try to carry out their threat to expel them.

"We are not going to be turned out, forced out, or knocked out," he said. "I have plans to meet the situation."

(The War Office in London said reinforcements were being sent to the canal zone, but refused any details.)

Pitt Fair Nets Legion $10,000

Sum Will Make Up Deficit Of $5,000 In Building Fund

The American Legion's Pitt County Agricultural Fair, held in Greenville, grossed $23,000, and after all expenses are paid the three posts will net $10,000, Larry Averette, treasurer, reported to Post No. 39 last night.

Averett said the three American Legion posts had spent $5,000 more than their building fund contained for permanent improvements at the Fair Grounds, and that they will finally net $3,000 from the fair, after paying the manager his percentage.

Post No. 39 had a large attendance at its supper meeting last night. Commander Lester E. Turnage, Jr., presided.

Four Pitt County Agricultural Fair committeemen were unanimously elected for a three-year term. They are Commander Turnage, Frank Taylor, James Worsley and Col. T. K. Fountain. Fair committeemen elected by the Ayden, Farmville and Greenville posts, according to custom, elect the fair officers.

Gordon Gibbs, right-of-way engineer for the State Highway and Public Works Commission, whose hobby is making pictures with delicately shaped wood from all kinds of trees, entertained the legionnaires with the story of how he started the hobby and how he makes the pictures. He displayed numerous specimens of his work. Incidentally, Gibbs not so long ago made a picture of President Truman on panelled wood and presented it to the nation's chief executive in Washington.

Herman McLawhorn, delegate to the American legion convention held at Miami, Florida, will report on the convention at the next meeting of the post.

Commander Turnage read a letter from the American Philippine

Hunting Casualty

The first casualty of the hunting season occurred early today when Earl White, 16-year-old high school student of Bethel, accidentally shot himself in a hand with a shotgun.

The injured youth was taken to Pitt County Memorial Hospital for treatment.

'Employ The Handicapped Week' Is Termed Success

Employ the Physically Handicapped Week which was observed in Pitt County last week was one of the best ever held in this county according to a statement late yesterday by Miss Audrey Bottoms, chairman of the Pitt Committee.

A total of 193 physically handicapped persons were interviewed by the Pitt office of the Employment Security Commission, and approximately 50 per cent of those interviewed were already gainfully employed.

Fourteen physically handicapped persons of the county who were not employed were referred to prospective employers and five of the 14 were put to work on new jobs. Eight of the physically handicapped persons failed to contact prospective employers, and one case is still pending.

One physically handicapped person was placed as a companion in a private home, one as a sheet metal worker, one as a kitchen helper, one as a salesman and one in a nursery as a maid.

The program carried on during the week by the committee urging the employment of the physically handicapped included letters to 46 of the major business firms of Greenville, six radio programs, five talks at local civic clubs, and a display at Sheppard Memorial library.

"Except for the number of people actually being placed in jobs, the week was better than the average for the past several years," Miss Bottoms said.

Over the past 18 months a total of 69 physically handicapped persons have been placed in jobs by the Pitt office of the Employment Security Commission.

Idea Of Progress 'Dead' In Europe, Says German

Prof. Josef Schwarz, a teacher of Heidelberg, Germany, talked at the AAUW meeting Monday night on some of the chief differences he has noted between education in Germany and that in the United States. In the United States for six months to study American education, Mr. Schwarz is spending the first two months of his time at East Carolina, and will go from there to New York University.

New members joining the Greenville branch of AAUW Monday night, as reported by the treasurer, Miss Emma Hooper, were Mrs. Donald M. Murray, Miss Gertrude Irby, Mrs. William R. Young, and Mrs. R. O. Everett.

After a business session, conducted by Mrs. Walter Krausnick, the president, the speaker was introduced by Dr. Elizabeth Utterback, program chairman.

Mr. Schwarz said in his speech that one great difference between German and American education is that education in the United States is far less traditional. "For you," he said, "your past is not something that hinders you, that has overtaken you; it looks to the future, to be fulfilled." That means more freedom in America to move forward, he added.

"The very idea of progress is dead in Europe today," he declared. "You have something to be attained; we have something to be avoided."

Mr. Schwarz commented on the effort of the United States to edu-

Air-Sea Search Hopes Rise As Signals Sighted

WESTOVER AFB, Mass. (UP)— An air-sea search armada of more than 100 planes and ships converged today 490 miles east of Cape Cod where a blinking light and a faint SOS call gave hope for the safety of 11 men who vanished in an Air Force Stratocruiser.

A public information officer at this base said the light was seen on and off by various aircraft" during the night. It "probably was the same light" they saw, he said.

None, however, was able to determine its source, nor was the Coast Guard cutter McCulloch that also reported seeing an unexplained red light in the area.

The Stratocruiser vanished early Monday on a "deadhead" flight to Westover from the Azores. Three SOS calls from an unidentified source were picked up yesterday before the light was seen.

Seventh Cavalry In Bloody Battle

Half Of Unit Killed Or Wounded In 9-Day Assault

The U. S. 7th Cavalry Regiment fought a nightmarish nine-day engagement in the battle for "Heartbreak Ridge," blasting a bloody salient into a Chinese stronghold but paying dearly for it.

The drive began Oct. 3 and ended Oct. 12. Half of the infantrymen who smashed into the well-prepared Chinese positions were killed or wounded.

The outfit lost as many men in that time as it had in the previous six months of the Korean war, but the enemy paid heavily too. His losses were estimated at more than 5,000 dead or wounded.

At the end of the engagement three shattered battalions, shouting the password "Garry Owen," withdrew from forward positions that speared into the ridges north of Yonchon.

To make their drive, the infantrymen violated one of the principles of war by inching forward behind a rolling artillery barrage with no flank protection. Three Chinese regiments were poised to move in on them.

The going was rough. One company fought forward to a graveyard on a horseshoe-shaped ridge and then withdrew with only one platoon leader remaining. All the company's other officers were casualties.

In another company every officer was wounded or missing in action. One battalion's forward observers were killed to the last man by enemy artillery, mortar and rocket fire.

Judy Stirs Old Broadway Today

NEW YORK (UP)— Hollywood's hard luck girl Judy Garland brought back big-time two-a-day vaudeville to Broadway today with a bang the old street hasn't heard in 20 years.

Slimmed down for her first big stage debut here, vibrant-throated Judy was barraged with applause during her 50-minute performance last night by a capacity audience that included virtually ever show business celebrity in the books.

Outside the historic Palace Theater police had to block off Broadway with sawhorses and cordons to control enthusiastic crowds.

Who Is Responsible?

State Department And British Foreign Office Blame Each Other For Mounting Troubles In Middle East; Both Have Good Arguments, But No Solution Seen

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The State Department and the British Foreign Office are calling each other non-diplomatic names over who is to blame for the 21-carat mess in the Middle East.

Behind the scenes, American diplomats complain bitterly that the current wave of anti-Western demonstrations can be traced to what they regard as British stubborness in clinging to an outdated colonial policy in the Middle East.

If the British had heeded American advice earlier, they say, London would have voluntarily offered the Iranians and Egyptians better deals, thus averting the present crises in these areas.

The British retort that the Americans are quick to give advice and even quicker to dodge responsibility for helping solve the Middle East's acute problems.

The growing anti-Western riots and demonstrations, say the British, are a direct reflection of the Arab world's pent-up bitterness at the United States for what they term pampering the new Israeli government and discriminating against the Arabs.

Besides, the British say, the United States has indirectly encouraged Iran and Egypt to kick the British around by adopting an unrealistic "head-in-the-clouds" attitude.

And although they don't say so, the British attitude suggests they suspect that the State Department is secretly trying to shove Britain aside in the Middle East and take over as the dominant western force in this highly important region.

The "you're-to-blame" attitude is hampering Britain and the United States as they try frantically to find some joint policy for restoring order. Both are gravely worried lest the Iranian and Egyptian problems spill over into other Arab countries and threaten vital allied defense bases and essential Middle Eastern oil supplies.

For the moment, the strategy will be to maintain British troops, by force if necessary, in the strategic Suez Canal zone. Both American and British military strategists are reported agreed that the West must hang on to this at al

Habitual Drunks Have New Hazard

CHICAGO (UP)— A new policy was in force today for the alcoholic derelicts of Chicago's Skid Row.

From now on, habitual drunkenness offenders will be fined $200 or 100 days on a work farm.

Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor said "this not only will clean up Skid Row—it will benefit the drunks as well."

Bible Institute To Open Here Thursday

The Rev. Rashie Kennedy, pastor of the Free Will Baptist church of Greenville, today announced the opening of a Bible Institute in Greenville on October 18.

Rev. Kennedy said a preliminary course has been taught for the past two years in an adjoining county in community classes and has paved the way for the Institute here in Greenville. Twenty-two students graduated last May from the preliminary course.

The Greenville Bible Institute will include in its curriculum a preliminary course of six units of 12 class hours each for new students. The course consists of three units in Bible and three units in methods and gives credit for four semester hours toward the standard course in Christian education. The Gold Seal certificate course will be offered for graduates of the preliminary course and others who have taken one or more units of the preliminary course.

Rev. Kennedy said, "The Bible Institute will specialize in the training of young people to become teachers of Bible in the home and church. It will specialize in the training of Christian workers in general, namely: pastors who need further preparation, young men who are aspiring to the ministry, parents who want to be better teachers in the home, church officers who need to know the Bible, Sunday School teachers and officers who need to know the Bible and how to teach it, Daily Vacation Bible School workers and all Christians who desire a working knowledge of the Bible."

The pastor said all subjects in the Institute will be taught on an interdenominational basis in content, aim and purpose to aid as many people as possible in Bible study and preparation for Christian work in the various churches.

For the first 12 weeks classes in the Institute will begin at 7:30 on Thursday night. Each Thursday night from 7:30 to 8:15 a class will be taught in Old Testament history, from 8:20 to 9:05 a class in Sunday School Evangelism.

Other courses to follow will be Old Testament Poetry and Prophecy, New Testament, Child Study, Pedogogy, Sunday School work, Bible Introduction, Bible Doctrine, Missions and Daily Vacation Bible School.

Rev. Kennedy said the enrollment in the Institute is expected to be above 100, and he pointed out that people from other communities in this area as well as from Greenville are expected to enroll. All the subjects planned for the Institute, he said, are to be accredited toward a standard course in Christian education offered in 160 or more Bible Institutes, colleges, seminaries and universities in the United Steates and Canada.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout leaders rolled back the years last night at a leader's training course by turning into Girl Scouts again.

In conducting the training school, Mrs. R. W. Wolff asked the leaders to pretend they were scouts at a troop meeting. The troop was divided into patrols with each patrol taking part in some activity. One patrol dramatized a Girl Scout law and the other patrols were to guess what law it was.

Together the patrols planned hikes, taking in the purpose of the hike, what to wear, and what to take. Mrs. Wolff taught the troop some hiking songs. The troop also planned for programs and activities at troop meetings and they held a flag ceremony in the proper way.

The leaders made plans for the Cookie Sale which begins October 27. Girl Scouts will begin taking orders this week. Plans were also made for Girl Scout week in planning downtown window displays.

The training course and leader's meeting ended with the friendship circle.

Appeal To Jury Proved Costlier

DENVER (UP)—Donald H. Stone was caught speeding by police, who testified he was traveling 80 miles an hour and ran a red light. Stone was fined $84 and sentenced to 60 days in jail by the municipal court.

Not satisfied with the verdict, Stone appealed to the county court.

An all-woman jury yesterday fined him $300 and sent him to jail for 90 days.

Unusual Program Planned For Club Meeting

The Greenville Garden Club will meet at the Woman's Club on Friday afternoon at 3:30.

A delightful program has been planned under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Dole. The program will be on Elizabethan gardens and descriptions of a true Elizabethan Garden will be given and pictures will be shown to illustrate it.

Early English music will accompany the talk, with Miss Madelyn Hodges playing the piano. Some of the selections were composed as early as 1450 A.D.

The men of Devon will be represented by Miss Imogene Faircloth, Miss Mary Glenn Walston, Miss Vivian Thomas, Miss Rebecca Pate and Miss Louise Stewart. The women of Devon will be played by Misses June Pritchard, Sarah Stancill, Alicia Blue, Betty June Sanderson and Geraldine Worrell.

The proposed garden at Manteo will be described and there will be pictures shown of the site.

The program will be presented by Mrs. W. E. Dole and the above mentioned students of the college.

Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. J. G. Lautares, chairman, assisted by Mesdames E. K. Allen, E. L. Baker, H. L. Andrews, Ed Batchelor, J. M. Basart, Raleigh Bland, J. Key Brown, Ed. Clark, Arthur Corey, F. J. Diener, J. N. Hart, and Lindsay Savage.

All members are cordially invited to attend.

No Prayer Service

There will be no prayer service at Memorial Baptist Church this Wednesday due to the Association Meeting in Robersonville.

Barbecue Supper

FOUNTAIN—The Grace Presbyterian Church will sponsor their barbecue and brunswick-stew dinner in the Falkland school lunch room Wednesday, October 17, from 6 to 8 p.m. Price: $1.00 per plate.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
October 17, 1911

BETHEL—The Round Dozen Club held its first regular meeting last Tuesday evening with Mrs. J. A. Staton. It being time for election of officers, the following were elected: president, Mrs. R. L. Barnhill; vice president, Mrs. V. A. Ward; secretary, Mrs. W. H. Woolard.

After a discussion of the several magazines, the guests were invited into the dining room, where a dainty salad course, followed by cream and cake, was served.

Upon returning to the drawing room an interesting "cat contest" was entered into. There were six ties for the prize, and as Mrs. H. V. Staton drew the lucky number, she was awarded the book entitled "Kittens."

At a late hour the members left delighted with the idea that their next meeting would me with a "Mrs. Staton."

CAP Members In Annual Training Mission Work

Several pilots and planes from the Washington-Greenville flight of the Civil Air Patrol went to Albemarle October 13 to participate in the annual training mission of the CAP.

Mobile radio units also went on the training mission to help with the ground communications system. The U. S. Air Force provided some equipment for the training mission.

The CAP, flying under USAF orders, carry out rescue operations for lost civilian, commercial and military aircraft. The last real test for CAP came when a P-51 Mustang pilot went down in western North Carolina. After four days of flying over rugged mountain peaks, the plane was located and the pilot rescued.

Study Of Rivers Is Club Topic

Mrs. J. H. Waldrop and Mrs. W. E. Hooker were gracious hostesses to the members of the Sans Souci Book Club on Tuesday at the Waldrop home on East Tenth Street, celebrating the opening of the fall season, with a delightful two-course luncheon, served at individual tables. The rooms ensuite were lovely with artistic arrangements of colorful fall flowers and evergreens.

Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, vice president of the club, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. S. T. White. Mrs. Waldrop, in her usual charming way, welcomed the memb s back from their pleasant vacations into the new club year.

Mrs. W. I. Wooten, program chairman, commented on the subject, assigned for study for the club year, namely: "Great Rivers of the World."

The speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. W. E. Hooker. She chose for her particular topic, River Characteristics and Activities. Mrs. Hooker mentioned briefly many rivers in a very concise and interesting manner. She emphasized these facts: That rivers have a definite effect on law, politics, and even global economy. That there are six rivers larger than the Mississippi and that rivers can be tamed and utilized.

At the conclusion of this informative talk, each member expressed delight in the future study of the great rivers of the world.

Following distribution of books, the meeting adjourned.

Farm Bureau Plans Associate Member Campaign Oct. 25

Some 60 workers for the Pitt County Farm Bureau associate membership committee will meet for a kick-off supper session October 24 on the eve of the beginning of the campaign for associate Farm Bureau memberships in the county.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon the five-man county associate membership committee laid plans for the supper and the campaign which will follow. Yesterday's meeting was presided over by W. H. Woolard, county chairman for associate memberships, and included Alton Barrett, associate membership chairman for Greenville, B. B. Sugg, Sr., L. E. Walston and Sam C. Winchester.

A goal of 450 associate memberships for the Farm Bureau has been set for the county. It is approximately the same number of associate memberships the Pitt Farm Bureau sought in 1950.

The regulation of interest rates is generally exercised by state legislatures.

Worthy Grand Matron Visits Vanceboro

VANCEBORO — Vanceboro and Craven Chapters, Order of the Eastern Star, held a special joint meeting in the chapter room of the Masonic Lodge in Vanceboro Monday night for the official visit of the Worthy Grand Matron, of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, Mrs. Maude Baynor Foy of Kinston. Vanceboro and New Bern chapters were officially opened by Worthy Matrons Mrs. Verona T. Lancaster and Mrs. Doris Scott respectively, with the Vanceboro chapter giving the ritualistic opening.

Immediately following the flag ceremonies, the Worthy Grand Matron was introduced and seated in the east. Her introduction was followed by the presentation of Mrs. E. P. Blair, grand representative for the state of Virginia; the district deputy grand matron, Mrs. Jennie Potter of Cash Corner; the worthy matron and patron of New Bern chapter, Mrs. Doris Scott and Frank Hill, all of whom were introduced and seated in the east.

Recognized also at this time were five members who have been members of the Order for twenty-five years or more. Mrs. Foy stated that these members would receive a special invitation to the grand chapter session being held in Raleigh in June, and they with other "Twenty-Five and Plus" members, would march in the processional and receive other special honors since this sesion of the grand chapter has been designed the "Memory Session."

The Worthy Grand Matron then made a most interesting and impressive talk using as her theme 'Memories." Her address on "Suppose" followed, in which she stressed the idea of what wonderful things could be accomplished if all the time and energies devoted to wars and unpleasant incidents of all forms could be diverted to more wholesome pleasant and profitable ventures. Mrs. Foy closed her address with a short poem, "Within My Room," followed by a prayer and the hymn "Take Time To Be Holy," the Worthy Grand Matrons song.

Mrs. Foy then told of the conditions existing in the dining room and kitchen of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home for the Aged in Greensboro. The improvement of this being her major project of the year, a silver offering was taken.

The Vanceboro Matron thanked the members serving on the general preparation committees: Refreshments, Mrs. B. L. Witherington, Miss Helen McLawhorn and Mrs. Jack Laughinghouse; decorations, Mrs. Virginia McLawhorn, Mrs. E. P. Blair, Mrs. N. M. Lancaster, Mrs. J. E. Hellen and Mrs. W. W. Butler; gifts and corsages, Mrs. Jother McLawhorn and Mrs. Lawrence Lancaster.

During the social hour refreshments of home made cake decorated in the emblematic colors, salted nuts, mints and orange ice punch were served from a table covered with a white cutwork linen cloth, centered with an arrangement of roses in a crystal bowl, lighted by burning tapers in crystal holders.

Seventy members were present for the occasion.

Plan To Attend Church Meeting

Several ministers and laymen from Greenville and the county will attend the Presbyterian Men's meeting in Greensboro Friday through Sunday.

The meeting is the first of four regional men's meeting sponsored by the Presbyterian church. Dr. S. J. Patterson, director of men's work in the denomination, said that the conferences are designed to set up the activity of local Presbyterian men's groups to match that traditionally carried on in the church women's organization.

General theme of each of the four conventions will be "Christ and You—Partners for Action."

Those from Greenville who are planning to attend are: Rev. L.W. Topping, Rev. J. W. Hassell, Rev. C. D. Patterson, Hunter Keck, Ken Beatty, Cliff Rhodus, and Angus Blue.

From the county are: Rev. Willingham, Chicod; W. D. Morton, Farmville, Rev. E. S. Coats, Farmville Presbyterian Church; and Rev. P. M. Cory, Fountain Presbyterian Church.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WHEREIN LIES VICTORY?

"There is no fiercer hell than failure to accomplish a great purpose" wrote Keats, the English poet who was to die at twenty-five. "Ah yes, there is," wrote a great admirer of Keats: "The fiercer hell would have been the surrender of that purpose. He might have become John Keats, M.D., with a neat doorplate on a London villa. That would have been failure indeed, for he would have cast away his most precious gift. It is better to fail in a high ambition than to succeed in a lesser one."

Keats was immeasurably grieved because, with all his splendid writing, he never achieved what he believed to be the best. He left a volume of the world's finest poetry behind him when he passed away in young manhood, but still he felt that he had never written anything worthy of his endowments. There was much in his view that was commendable. He had that humility of spirit which fills a man with conviction that his best is never good enough. What he failed to realize was that God loves those who aspire beyond every present achievement and stands ready always to comfort them in the grief they have over what they consider failure.

'Tis always better to have tried and failed than not to have tried. Failure is to be measured by purpose, not by achievement. It is what we want to do and try to do which makes us victorious, rather than what we achieve.

Dix Hill Charges Deserve Investigation

Charges of lax moral standards, prostitution and mistreatment of patients in the North Carolina mental institution of Dix Hill should be investigated thoroughly and vigorously by the state.

The charges should not be discounted as mere wild talk just because they were made by an inmate of the institution. They were made during a habeas corpus hearing in Wake County Superior Court. There may be more truth than fiction to the statement of the inmate. Behind the locked doors at Dix Hill where the mentally sick of the state are confined for treatment, the conditions may be much worse than the people of North Carolina ever dreamed.

After hearing the testimony of the Dix Hill patient, Judge Chester Morris told the court, "I believe some of what this man has said . . . and I'm convinced that things are not good at State Hospital." The Reflector has no first hand knowledge of the conditions at Dix Hill, but we are strongly of the opinion that the whole matter should be investigated and aired in the open.

The mental institutions are among the most important institutions of the state. In them it is mandatory that the state have the highest moral sandards, and the best possible treatment for those people confined to the institutions.

If there is misconduct in the institution or if there is mistreatment of the patients, it should be corrected quickly; and forceful action taken against the persons of authority who are responsible for the misconduct or the mistreatment.

The Louisiana Lynching Must Be Prevented

Early this year the United States watched the lynching of the freedom of the press in Argentina by Dictator Peron. Today the United States has its eyes fixed upon Lake Charles, La., where court action brought by county officials and admitted gamblers is seeking to kill the freedom of the press in that state.

What the outcome will be can not be determined without a lengthy court procedure; but if the five crusading newspapermen indicted by the solicitor are found guilty of defaming 16 officials and three gamblers, the freedom of the press will no longer exist. It will put the press in Louisiana at the mercy of county officials, and in the case of Lake Charles, at the mercy of gamblers and the officials who are apparently linked strongly with the gamblers.

By that statement we do not mean that newspapers have the unchallenged right to slander an individual; but the newspapers do have the right by the constitution to voice their opinions and expose to the public corruption of which the people should be aware.

If the press in any community is at the mercy of the officials, the officials will be able to participate in flagrant violations of the laws and other corruption without fear of being exposed by a free press directed by free men.

The Louisiana case can not be taken as an isolated incident. In recent months there have been several instances in which officials from local governments to the federal government have taken steps which they hope will fetter the freedom of the press in the United States. If the officials in Lake Charles, La., are successful in their attempt, the people may rest assured that corrupt officials in other parts of the country will try to silence the voice which bares their corruptness to the view of the people.

The Lake Charles case is not the concern of only the people of that community, but the concern of the people of every community in the United States.

Politics Is Nothing To Joke About In England

Politics in England is no laughing matter these days—or at least the BBC doesn't think so. All political jokes have been banned from broadcasts until after the election next week.

Politics and government in England has ceased to be a joke during recent years as the Labor government has golloped down the socialistic road. The people in the United States may joke about the government furnishing the British people everything from maternity benefits to false teeth. In England, however, it has ceased to be a joke.

The British, we imagine, have difficulty in finding the humor in their basic income tax of 47 per cent which is certain to rise to over 50 per cent if the Atlee government is re-elected. There is no joke to the gasoline, and food rationing or the almost prohibitive cost of clothes. There are few who can find the humorous side to the nationalization of the steel, coal, shipping, electric power and communication industries of England as the Labor government has done.

For the British people, the coming general election is anything but a joke. It is downright serious business, and well it should be for England has reached another crossroads. To turn to Conservative leadership now would mean England could begin the long, difficult climb back to economic stability. To ignore the Conservative leadership now, will mean England slides farther down the economic ladder to a point where she may never be able to rid herself of the chaos and confusion which come with the economic suicide of Socialism.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON—The topsy-turviness of American politics has rarely been illustrated more vividly than by the current reconciliation between President Truman and Henry A. Wallace, the Cabinet member who was fired summarily by Mr. Truman for insubordination on the question of U.S. policy toward Russia.

Ironically, Mr. Truman feels more kindly today toward the erstwhile apostle of friendship for Russia than he does toward the former Secretary of State who insisted on the Wallace ouster—Governor James F. Byrnes of South Carolina.

Whereas the President and his former crony speak of each other only in bitter terms, friendly letters are now exchanged between the White House and the Wallace farm in New York.

PENITENT—Mr. Wallace, now penitent and remorseful over his misjudgment of Stalin, has tried to exonerate both the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations of charges that they favored Chinese Communists as against Chiang Kai-shek. His statements and testimony are designed to weaken both the McCarthy and McCarran indictments.

Secretary Acheson has returned the compliment by clearing Mr. Wallace of the suspicion that, as a special emissary in China, he played the Reds' game.

Hitherto unpublished documents show that Wallace and two accused State Department advisers—Owen Lattimore and John Carter Vincent—urged replacement of General Joseph Stilwell with General Albert C. Wedemeyer. Stilwell was anti-Chiang, whereas Wedemeyer was anti-Communist.

RAPPROCHEMENT—Although the China picture still remains confused, the Truman-Wallace backslapping represents another move by presidential politicos to consolidate strength for the 1952 election. It is freely forecast that the former Cabinet member, although he ran on an anti-Truman ticket in 1948, will campaign for the Missourian next year, if the latter should be renominated.

The papers published by Wallace and Acheson are not the only evidence of a rapprochement. The White House has permitted influential spokesmen to let Henry know that his return to the party would be welcomed, and that there might even be a reward for him in the form of an honorary appointment.

FOLLOWERS—Although Mr. Wallace has resigned from the Progressive Party that nominated him three years ago and is a leader without followers, it is believed that he still represents a curious class of voters.

His appeal to them, as a well-intentioned humanitarian and dreamer, is personal and sentimental. But no man with even a ragtail-bobtail squad of voters is ever discounted by the practical politicians.

Assuming that the 1952 contest will be close and hard-fought, as veteran observers do, Mr. Truman's wooing of Wallace is understandable. A study of the 1948 presidential vote, which is required reading at the White House and Democratic National Headquarters, reveals that Governor Thomas E. Dewey might have been elected, if it had not been for the ex-Iowan's candidacy.

SUPPORT—As the original advocate of shipping American milk to the Hottentots, it is understood that the reformed and shriven Mr. Wallace would be given a place in the "Point Four" organization, if Mr. Truman should be reelected.

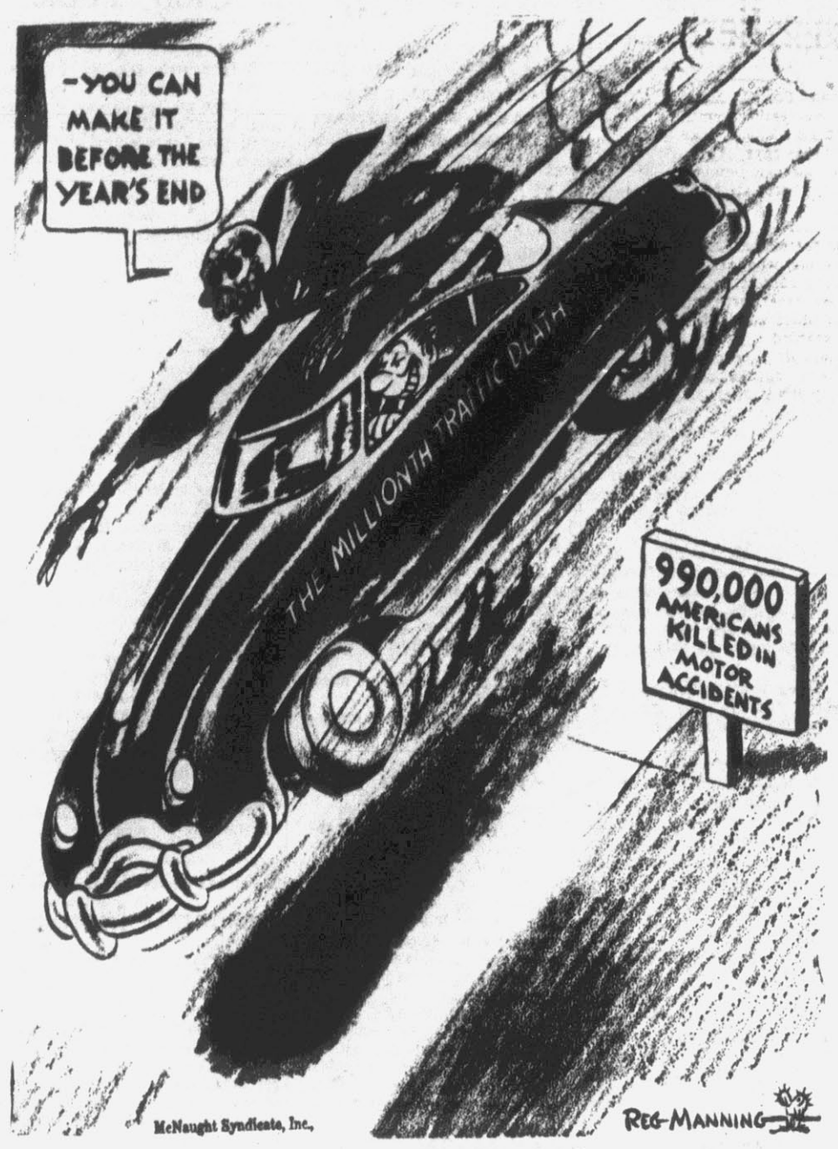

As a matter of cold fact, Mr. Wallace would probably support Mr. Truman or a substitute nominee in any event, if either Senator Taft or General Eisenhower should be the Republican nominee.

The Ohioan frequently satirized the former Cabinet member's program of farm subsidies. As a pacifist, Mr. Wallace could not back Eisenhower.

The General's brother, Milton, served under Wallace for years at Agriculture, and the two were never too friendly. Now president of Penn State, Milton was too opportunistic, too calculating, too brash, for Henry.

Republican wits on Capitol Hill have formed what they call their own 4-H Club. Its motto is: "Help Hurry Harry Home!"

If You Hurry—

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last night I asked Wife Rachel to conjugate the verb spit. W.R. wasn't sure, so we looked it up in the dictionary. We found that the verb has two correct conjugations:

spit, spat, spit
spit, spit, spit

After going to all of that trouble, W.R. naturally wanted to know why I was so interested in the correct use of the word. "Well," I said, "Nancy (our 13-month-old daughter) spit on me tonight and if I'm going to write about it, naturally I can't afford to misuse the verb 'spit.' "

We decided that "spat" is too stiff, and to use the straight conjugation, spit, spit, spit.

This mess started when I started teaching Nancy a new noise. The idea was for her to "put put" in response to my "puts." She did, but every one of her "puts" was accompanied by a spray, of which I was the proud recipient.

This business of being a parent is a crazy mess. Your child commits a most uncouth act, that of spitting in your face, and instead of being upset, you are proud, simply because she was successful in imitating your noise.

A year later, when the child does the same thing, she has to be told emphatically, maybe even with a hair brush, that it isn't nice to spit in people's faces. Naturally, the child doesn't understand.

To make a more general statement, the average parent spoils his children, then later on has to un-spoil them. And yet, if children aren't given proper attention, they are likely to develop dangerous complexes.

Many parents say, "I spoiled the first one, and when the next one comes, I'll spoil him, too." It's a vicious cycle, in which very few parents know the right thing to do.

Every prospective parent should be warned against making profound statements, like "My child is going to be this or that." Parents have to eat more words than anybody else.

Of all the words the parent teaches his children, the one that's hardest to get across his only one syllable: no. At 13 months, the baby only wants to play with items that he can't have, like ice picks and sharp knives. Try to substitute a nice dull spoon, and you get a strong protest.

The only solution is to keep things out of reach until that awful word "no" can be explained.

And I thank you.

REGIONAL — North Carolina's commissioner of revenue, Eugene Shaw, is taking a leading part in formulating an organization of tax administrators for the southeastern states. The plan contemplates affiliating the regional group with the National Association of Tax Administrators, much in the same way the Southern Governors' Conference fits into the national conference. By having more frequent meetings and limiting discussion to matters of perculiar interest to the section, leaders in the southeastern movement feel they will get more out of it.

ORIGIN— The idea originated in an informal conversation between Shaw and William M. Lester, deputy commissioner of Georgia, while attending a national meeting at Mackinaw Island early this summer. Out of that conversation call for a meeting in Atlanta the last two days in August, where a temporary organization was set up with Lester as chairman, Shaw as vice-chairman and Fielding Dillar, of the Georgia department, as secretary-treasurer. An executive committee composed of one member from each of the eleven participating states was named and authorized to prepare a constitution and by laws, suggest an appropriate name, further perfect the organization plans, and call a full meeting sometime this winter for completing the job.

AREA — The territory embraced in the group includes the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee. All of these states now have a general sales tax, except Kentucky and Virginia, and a large part of the problems in interstate relations arise out of application of sales and use taxes. These eleven states are in the Southern Governors' Conference along with Maryland, West Virginia, Oklahoma and Texas. The tax officials decided there was perhaps not enough community of interest to justify bringing the border states into the southeastern tax group.

TOO BIG — One of the troubles with national conventions is they are too big, and only the big men (that is the men holding top offices) can hope for any recognition. Result is that reports made at the convention were compiled by somebody else, and benefits derived from attendance have to filter down through several hands before getting to the men who must actually use the knowledge in daily contact. To large degree the same thing is true of state associations, in which problems of great local or sectional interest cannot be aired because so many attendants are not interested. That is the reason back of the custom for breaking up the big associations into smaller groups. The Eastern North Carolina Press Association, one of three or four sectional components of the state association, held its fall meeting in Raleigh Friday and Satuday, at which attention was given only to matters pertaining to eastern Carolina. The Western N. C. Press group helds monthly meetings, where discussion is limited to matters of concern in that area.

Valuable—It is easy to see that much more can be accomplished in bringing about uniform in tax administration by working through a relatively small group, composed of members with similar, though by no means identical, problems. Experiences of North Carolinians at the National Young Democratic Clubs convention in St. Louis ten days ago, which were similar to southern experiences at the quadrennial Democratic convention in Philadelphia three years ago — repetition of which may be expected at Chicago next summer—have convinced many people that regional rather than national adjudication of political issues may be in order.

SALES TAX — The organizaton will give attention to all phases of state taxation—beverage, franchise, income and other brackets. In these fields it is recognized that problems are more legislative than administrative. Major attention at first will be accorded the sales tax, where there is greater overlapping of legislative and administrative junctions. Almost every day some question arises about where the sale was made if the ultimate purchaser lives in a different state from the seller.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

AS TO A PAROLES COMMISSION
(Henderson Dispatch)

Generally speaking, a paroles commission would have advantages over the present State system of a single commissioner. Under the current arrangement, one man carries the full burden, and is very influential in the matter of paroles, pardons and commutations. Although the governor has the final voice, he must of necessity be guided in large measure by decisions and recommendations of the commissioner, who digs into the facts and has firsthand information. The chief executive clearly does not have the time to go into all cases as thoroughly as this official.

The single commissioner thus determines in large measure, for instance, whether a condemned felon shall be saved from the gas chamber or shall be required to forfeit his life for the crime he has committed. It is a tremendous burden for one individual to carry.

Dr. T. C. Johnson, the State paroles commissioner, is advocating a commission with "at least" three fulltime members. In line with so many others, he favors creation of more jobs and additional salaries. He has proposed the abolition of his office and substituting for it two or more additional jobs. Presumably he might surmise that he would still be one of the three.

A commission of several members seems to us to be a better system than the one now in force, but not with "three of more" on "fulltime" basis. Thre should be one man giving his whole time with others meeting with him at intervals in advisory capacity and having equal voice in decisions.

The whole parole and probation system could stand a revamping. There is too much leniency at too many points. Rehabilitation is an admirable theory, but it appears to car. too far in some instances. To put criminals on probation immediately after conviction, without ever feeling the punitive authority o f the law, is to invite recurrence and continuation of disrespect for legal restraints. Probation gents show up at nearly every term of criminal court ready to take over those who plead guilty or who are convicted. Such generosity may be justified in some cases, but too much of it defeats the very purposes it is intended to serve.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

The demand for common stocks, city and suburban real estate and farms is very likely to rise in the coming year, affecting prices accordingly. The rise may be expected to increase if it becomes necessary to increase further the defense program and to be slowed down if world events permit a curtailment.

Appropriations for the current fiscal year are expected to run from three to thirteen billion more than the total revenue provided by the new tax bill. The difference may be less than official estimates, first, because revenue estimates are usually conservative and, second, because higher employment and higher income will automatically create higher tax receipts.

Nevertheless, the difference between income and outgo will be great. The difference is directly inflationary because the government must inflate its buying powthe gap.

With income rising and civilian production being cut back, the difference between buying power and goods available—now apparent in only a few lines—is likely to become large and this gap, too, is inflationary.

The hedge against inflation is the conversion of funds into tangibles. Hoarded money may lose some of its buying power; even the interest gained on investments in static securities may be less than the loss of buying power at maturity.

Some people with funds will invest them in goods, like the Frenchman we know who saved the original purchasing power of his francs by buying up a vast amount of cognac and burying beyond the scent of the Germans. He dug it up after the war and converted it into dollars. If he had not changed his francs into cognac he would have lost almost all their buying value through inflation. Other people may convert money into other goods. But goods wear out, become out-moded, require insurance and cost in storage.

So many will invest in stocks, which represent a share of plants and factories, and in farms and real estate. While these may require taxes and insurance, they do not depreciate in the way that goods do. It is significant that many trust funds are shifting from bonds to stocks and that savings banks have been asking for the right to nivest in stocks as well as bonds and real estate.

It is also significant that the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., in a bulletin to farmers, says that now is the time to go into debt if the debt will increase the efficiency of the farm unit.

The more people try to convert funds into tangibles, the greater will be the demand for tangibles. And the greater the demand, the higher their value in the market places.

Don't go out and buy a bale of stock or a passel of land just because it says here that prices are likely to go up. Please! It says here that prices are "very likely" to go up on tangibles. And, of course, they may not.

Furthermore even if stock or realty prices go up generally, there will always be some shares and some parcels that decline. Painfully.

Investing in common stocks or real estate will require as much caution as ever before; in fact, even more, because a rise in interest in tangibles always brings out a lot of Old Promoters who seek to use the trend to unload over-priced papers. It is always well to remember that inflation of tangibles can always be much greater than the inflation of currency.

PACKAGING TECHNIQUES

A lot of work is going on in chemical protection of food. Item: Canadian Industries, Ltd., reports the development of a substance to replace paraffin for coating turnips, cheese, etc. It is called acetostearn and can be eaten right along with the cheese of vegetable. Item: Dewey and Almy Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass., has developed a plastic bag in which a dressed turkey or chicken, with or without stuffing, can be sealed immediately after slaughter. Poultry can be cooked without removing the bag and requires no basting.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK —(AP)— The midweek roundup:

Akira Oguchi, a 16-year-old Japanese schoolboy, has his troubles.

He explained them in the following letter to the Associated Press:

am sorry I'll surprise you with this unexpected letter from Japan.

On the 3rd of September when I was at school, my house was burnt. A letter from my American pen friend I got after four years of hard toil was also burnt. I have not read it yet.

"I am very, very sad for that. I cannot find the suitable words to apologize to the pen friend. I cannot write to him or her as I don't have his or her address. I think I must thank his and apologize him."

Akira then asked for help in locating his lost American pen pal.

Anybody wanting to cheer up a young Japanese boy studying English can do so by dropping him a line at 2099 Hiratsuka, Hiratsuka City, Kanagawa Prefecture, Japan.

It's one way to have your own Private Marshall Plan for the F East.

World Series echoes: Joe Dimaggio was at bat in a crucial game with the New York Giants.

A fan stood up in the stands and yelled at peak voice:

"Hit, you blankety, blankety, blank!!!"

Suddenly the fan felt a tap on his shoulder and heard a mild voice in his ears:

"I wouldn't call him that if I found you."

The fan turned around and himself looking into the eyes of Joe's younger brother—Dom Dimaggio, Boston Red Sox outfielder.

Having difficulty with your husband's snoring, ladies? My own wife has. A reader, Miss Leone Hinton of Little Rock, Ark., clipped and mailed in the following solution:

"How can you cure someone of snoring? Easy. By good advice, cooperation, kindness—and stuffing an old sock in his mouth."

My own feeling is this wouldn't stop a good snore. It would just strain it.

I have a friend who collects barroom signs. He says this one isn't new—but it's his favorite:

"Why must you be so disagreeable when, with a little effort, you could be a real stinker?"

Eerie dialogue overheard in a barbershop:

"Marriage is a fifty-fifty deal," the manicurist said to her customer. "I told my husband right at the start: 'I'll sew the buttons on the clothes you wear, and you'll scrub the floor I walk on.' "

"How long you been married?"

"Two weeks," said the manicurist, "and everything's worked out swell. I never been happier."

Wonder how the husband likes her formula?

Our face-is-red department: Some time ago we printed here a humorous "guide to the war news," which had been mimeographed by an Air Force officer in Korea and distributed to the fliers there.

We picked it up for the laughs. It turns out, however, the item is a wry laugh on us. The piece was originally published in the Penn State Froth, humor magazine of the Pennsylvania State College, and was written by Ronald S. Bonn, editor of Froth.

To Mr. Bonn and the Penn State Froth—our apologies.

Moral: Nothing causes a man more trouble than pickups.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Palmer Wright, for more than a decade the anonymous writer of one of Uncle Sam's most fascinating publications, recently tapped out "30"—traditional typographical farewell—to his service.

The government get out bulletins and pamphlets for its citizens on every subject under sun, sea and soil, and Palmer Wright's lively, interestingly-written "Clip Sheet" was one of them. It was sent periodically to more than 1,300 persons, mostly editors, who requested it. It was dropped much to Mr. Wright's dismay, due to "limitations" in the 1952 Agriculture Department appropriations act.

The "Clip Sheet" was written in laymen's language—"so the reader wouldn't have to go to the dictionary to look up difficult words." He "translates" scientific manuscripts in which Agriculture Department specialists and researche s present reports on their work and findings. Interpreted by Mr. Wright, these articles came out under such titles as "Chigger Freedom" "Tags for Lice", "Chicken in the Mink", "Rambling Spuds" and "Waddling Weeders".

I interviewed Mr. Wright by writing out my questions on a pad of paper. He has had "no usable hearing" for a least 15 years. He was born in Fairbury, Neb., and hi hearing began to fail while he was a student at Columbia University, from which he was graduated in 1917. Unable to "join up" in World War I, he became an editorial writer for the Minneapolis Daily News.

In 1919 he became an editorial writer for the New York World and in 1925 he served a year as its motion picture editor.

"I never cared for the glamor stuff and the bright lights—somehow I felt like a stranger in the town," he told me. In 1927 he came to Washington.

In addition to the clip sheets, he writes general news releases. Now he has been shifted to editing some new publications, revising and re-writing old ones.

Because of deafness and a heart ailment, Mr. Wright has had to cut out his two hobbies—gardening and hiking. Reading aloud to his wife is his only recreation now, but this goes on until 1:30 and 2 a.m.

"Very few people have had more fun out of life than I have," he said.

Music Club To Present Opera Here In November

For the third consecutive season a Charles L. Wagner opera production will appear in Greenville.

Charles A. White, president of the Greenville Music club, announced today that the Wagner production of "La Traviata," Verdi's most popular opera, will appear here on the night of Nevember 25 under the auspices of the club.

The opera will be presented in the new College Theatre in the Training school on the East Carolina campus. White said because of the limited seating capacity of the theatre (750 people) which is only one third the size of Wright auditorium, "we are confident that every seat will be sold long before November 25. We urge that you mail your orders in immediately."

Known for his type-casting, Wagner has chosen outstanding young American singers for the cast of "La Traviata." Each member of the ensemble and the orchestra has been hand-picked for the production.

Wagner's twin bill of opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Paglicacci" to Greenville in the fall of 1949, and Wagner's production of La Boheme was presented here last year as a part of the East Carolina entertainment series.

Home Agents Plan New Organization For Pitt County

The organization of a young men and young women's club is being planned for county youth by the home agent's office and Mrs. Ann Parker Hodges, assistant home demonstration agent.

The first meeting of the club will be held Thursday, November 1, in the Agricultural Building here. The club is for both married and single young men and women between the ages of a 4-H club member and a home demonstration club member.

At the first meeting of the club, officers will be elected and a program planned for the year. It is up to the members what kind of programs will be planned, either an educational or social program. Mrs. Hodges said she was hoping to get a movie to show at the opening meeting.

Life's Savings Is Again Located

ST. LOUIS (UP)— Bernhart Levyson, a 74-year-old Spanish American war veteran from Arkansas who arrived here clad only in a pair of dirty overalls, gets his life savings of $8,800 back today.

Levyson told an almost incoherent story of losing $8,800 in bonds and $100 in cash when he turned up at a Traveller's Aid station Oct. 2. The bonds, tucked into an unsealed envelope, were found yesterday by Albert Gillum of Brooklyn, Ill., in East St. Louis, Ill.

Map Floor Of Downtown Berlin

BERLIN —(AP)— The Russian sector of Berlin is drilling a lot of holes in the ground these days to find out how far is down.

Faced with the urgent need to rebuild dwellings on the site of twisted bomb ruins, squadrons of workmen have been assigned to gather the data for a "floor map" of the downtown area.

The map is designed to show how much weight an area can handle. It is a dire requirement in the central part of Berlin because the city is literally sitting on sand.

Recreation Class Begins Next Week

Lonnie Powell, member of the State Recreation Commission, will hold a recreational training school for three days, beginning October 22 through October 24, at the Armory here at 8 o'clock each night.

Last spring Pitt County asked for a recreational training school for people who are interested in directing recreation in their clubs and on other occasions in their communities and their request has been granted.

Letters have been sent out from the home agent's office here to home demonstration and 4-H leaders announcing the training school and all ministers, recreational leaders, directors of religious education, and all other interested people are invited to attend.

Warren Carroll and Jo Hunter, recreational directors here, will work with Powell in conducting the training school. Carroll said that Powell was excellent in calling and teaching square dancing and folk dancing which will be included in the training school.

Peanut Growers Plan Marketing

SCOTLAND NECK —(AP)— Peanut growers met here today with the North Carolina and Virginia Farm Bureau Peanut Committees to make plans for orderly marketing of the year's chop. They also discussed storage possibilities.

R. Flake Shaw of Greensboro, executive vice-president of the State Farm Bureau, warned yesterday that unless marketing is handled in an orderly manner growers will find themselves having to sell under depressed price conditions.

He said many peanut producers are not entirely familiar with the present grading service and should know the exact grade quality in order to be assured a fair price.

R. V. Knight of Tarboro, State Farm Bureau Peanut Committee chairman, presided at today's meeting. Also attending were representatives from the State Peanut Grading Service, the Growers Peanut Co-Operative, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration and buyers.

Multimillionaire And Industrialist Takes Own Life

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. —(AP) — Max C. Fleischmann, 74, one-time head of a yeast and gin empire, killed himself with a pistol late yesterday.

Doctors had told him he had an incurable, malignant disease.

Julian Bergen, the multimillionaire's confidential secretary, gave the story of the death. He said Fleischmann came here a month ago from his home in Nevada for an operation which disclosed the malignancy.

Coroner John Ross said Fleischmann shot himself through the mouth and died instantly.

Malaya Exports Still Skyrocket

SINGAPORE —(AP)— Malaya's exports are still skyrocketing.

Shipments to foreign countries in August exceeded $146 million. That was $10 million more than in the preceding month.

Malaya had a favorable trade balance of nearly $25,900,000 in August. This compared with July's $5,100,000 and June's $42,000,000.

KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY

THIS WHISKEY IS 4 YEARS OLD

Life Is Tough For Fictional In-Laws

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The major preoccupation of the family counsellors and experts for the last couple of seasons has been an old American institution, the mother-in-law. If this educational project goes much further, there won't be any more bad jokes about this lady. That, at least, will be progress of a sort.

A while back, considerable paper and ink was being expended in advising the young-wife-with-children on comparatively painless procedures for coping with the mother-in-law problem. The bill of particulars drawn against mothers-in-law in general seemed to encompass three major allegations:

1. She competes with the wife for John's free time. (He has to visit her occasionally and it's usually when he's needed to put up the storm windows or take his wife to the movies.)
2. She is too ready to proffer advice on any subject.
3. She spoils the children and upsets the discipline of the home.

In almost all cases, the mothers-in-law under discussion were those of the wife. I could figure out why: wives with mothers-in-law were the ones who were interested in reading the articles. Husbands with mothers-in-law were more interesting in perusing the sports page and preferred to deal with the problem on an extemporaneous basis when a crisis occurred.

It appeared, from the general tenor of the articles, that the experts were generally in sympathy with the wife's point of view. However, with unanimity of thought rarely encountered in the profession, they councselled patience, forbearance and fortitude in handling mothers-in-law. It was the responsibility of a successful wife to establish and maintain an amicable relationship with John's mother, without relinquishing for one moment her authority as feminine head of the family.

As far as John's visiting his mother is concerned, the wife must realize that there's a chance he actually likes to see his mother and after all she did bring him up. Anyway, she mustn't nag him about his mother. As far as advice is concerned, she must educate the mother-in-law so that she won't interfere unless invited to—and once in a while be polite and accept the advice even when it is good advice. Speak to her firmly about the children—she'll understand and stop spoiling them.

That, of course, was months ago. Now the experts are speaking right up to John's mother. And now they s - on her side. Sure, she knows more about life than that fibbertigibbet he married, and she can save that young woman plenty of learning pains—but everyone has to make his own mistakes. Naturally she resents John's devotion to his mother, but that's normal, youthful insecurity. Ahd, of course, you know more about bringing up children than she does, but again—let the girl find out the hard way.

All this sums up to a quick sentence of advice to mothers-in-law: Shut up, speak only when spoken to and keep out from under foot.

As a matter of cold fact, that's not too bad advice, even for educated mothers-in-law, who would rather die than suggest even a housekeeping short-cut. I have a wide circle of mother-in-law acquaintances, all of them rather self-conscious these days because they are aware of the rules under which they operate. They are all on excellent terms with their daughters-in-law, but several of them have voiced one tiny complaint.

They would like to observe the rules, visit when invited and generally let the kids run their own lives. What they'd like to know it, how can they avoid being called in constantly as emergency and unpaid babysitters?

Greek Church Is 'Strict Neutral'

DAMASCUS, Syria, — (AP) — The Greek Orthodox Church of Antioch says it observes a "strict neutrality" in the East-West cold war.

It issued this statement in Damascus recently, after a meeting of its Holy Synod under the Presidency of His Beatitude, he Greek Orthodox Patriarch Alexander III. The Patriarch has just returned from a two-month tour of Russia.

There are five Greek Orthodox Apostolic Churches—Istanbul, Antioch, Alexandria, Jerusalem and Moscow. Rumania, Greece and Yugoslvaia are under independent Greek Orthodox Churches.

Hostess at Bridge

Miss Louise Mewborn entertained on Friday night at an enjoyable bridge party at her home here as a compliment to Mrs. Dale Smith of Gadsden, Ala., who is visiting relatives here. Three tables were in play during the evening. Arrangements of pink dahlias and other early fall flowers were used as decorations. During the games Mrs. Clendel Tucker and Mrs. A. C. Fletcher compiled highest scores. Mrs. Smith was remembered with a gift from the hostess. As cards were laid aside a delectable salad plate with spiced tea was served. Guests included Mesdames Smith, Tucker, Fletcher, Billy Phillips, Joe House, W. E. Rasberry, E. K. Tucker, Clay Burney, Sam Nelson, Claude Hart, Roger Johnson and Clarence Hart.

Mrs. Clay Burney had as guests on Sunday Mrs. Myrtle Boykin, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clark of Wilson.

Mrs. Heber Wade and Jesse Wade visited Mrs. J. R. Hardy and infant daughter Dianne at Seven Springs on Sunday.

Miss Walenah Quinerly has returned to Charlotte after spending the weekend here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Quinerly. Miss Quinerly is on the hospital staff at Memorial Hospital in Charlotte.

Mrs. Emmett Sherron and daughter Nancy Jean have returned to their home in Raleigh after a visit here with Mrs. J. W. Scarborough. They were accompanied home by Mr. Sherron who spent Sunday here. Also guests in the Scarborough home on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Broadhurst and family of Deep Run, Misses Eugenia and Vivian Scarborough of Kinston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Peele and son Charles of Elm City were guests during the weekend of Miss Marie Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mewbern had as guests Sunday the Rev. and Mrs. Jack Rountree of Kinston.

Mrs. E. W. Downum is spending sometime in Beaufort with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Downum and family.

Miss Bette Tilghman of Greenville was a guest Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gower.

Miss June Tomlinson, student at ACC, spent the weekend here with Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Bissette.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glendel Tucker on Sunday were Messrs. Ralph Stout of Dixon and Neil Stout of New Bern, brothers of Mrs. Tucker.

Mrs. Jake Worthington has moved her residence from McRae Street to No. 12 Westland Drive in "Grifton Heights."

Mr. and Mrs. John Oglesby and children, Nancy and Bob, spent the weekend in Morehead City with Mr. Oglesby's father, Mr. John Oglesby Sr.

Imported Beetle Destroys Weeds

SALT LAKE CITY —(AP)— A type of strictly vegetarian beetle is helping destroy a noxious range-damaging weed found north of the Salmon River.

The weed—called goatweed, St. Johnswort or Klamath, depending on the section of the country—has crowded out desirable plants on two million acres of western grazing land.

The beetles are fussy too. Imported from California via Australia, they devour all the goatweed—and only goatweed—in sight and then conveniently lie down and die.

Briton Is Head Of Indian Navy

NEW DELHI —(AP)— India's naval squadron has a new British commander, a veteran who served brilliantly in the Mediterranean area during World War II.

He is Rear Adm. N. V. Dickinson, appointed to succeed another Briton, Rear Adm. G. Barnard, as chief officer afloat in the Indian navy.

India, only four years old as an independent nation, is still training its leaders, and British officers hold top positions in both the Indian navy and air force. An Indian, Gen. K. M. Cariappa, heads the Indian army.

Gen. MacArthur To Speak Today

MIAMI —(AP)— Gen. Douglas MacArthur grabbed the full spotlight of the American Legion National Convention today with an address expected to focus new interest on next year's presidential campaign.

The General has advised Legion officials he plans to talk for 45 minutes. And there was little doubt his speech will be another sharp attack on the Truman Administration's domestic and foreign policies.

Interest in the address was sharpened with the announcement yesterday by Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio that he (Taft) will be a candidate for the 1952 GOP presidential nomination.

Taft and MacArthur are known to have been in frequent communication with each other since Mr. Truman fired the five-star General from his Far East commands in a dispute over the conduct of the Korean War.

Yesterday and last night, MacArthur shared the convention spotlight with the Legion's mammoth and colorful parade which drew at least 300,000 people into the city's streets.

The General was on the reviewing stand throughout the six-hour-long parade and when the last unit marched by near midnight he appeared as fresh and vigorous as he did earlier in the day.

3-YEAR-OLD SOUNDS OFF

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. —(UP)— A false alarm was turned in by a three-year-old girl. Authorities said the child stood up on a chair to reach an alarm box outside an engine house.

Bonn Is Fighting Prussian Spirit

BONN, Germany —(AP)— Members of parliament here are planning to eliminate the Prussian spirit from any future German armed force.

Informal discussions are being held between members of leading political parties to draw up a new code that substitutes civil rights and democratic respect for the individual for the bullying methods of the old German army.

The deputies recognize the need for discipline but want to get rid of he haughty officer caste system, brutal punishments and victimization of subordinates who complain of injustice.

Ministers Plan Study Of Family

OMAHA, —(AO)— Nebraska's wives are going to study the best psychological methods of counseling the American famly.

The object of the monthly meetings is to foster a closer knit family group through the help of the church.

Dr. Charles A. Tompkins, Omaha pediatrician and prime mover in establishing the clinic, says Amrican family men spend more time in business conferences and club meetings than they do with their families. He says this denotes a sick way of life.

Queen City Murder Case

By Wm. G. Bogart

Chapter 27

By the time he had taken Doris back to the table, the party had warmed up considerably. Everyone was now talking at once—everyone except Nancy and big dark-haired Ralph Cronk. Neither was seated at the table.

Someone laughed, noticing Johnny's expression. "He stole your wife!"

It was Jock Wells. He motioned toward the dance floor and, turning, Johnny saw Nancy dancing with Cronk. Relief flowed through him.

His partner, Doris, had just started to sit down. She, too, had seen Nancy out on the floor with Ralph Cronk. In a remark meant to be under her breath, she said icily, "That louse! He's always after a woman!"

She said it loud enough for others to hear, and Johnny saw tall, angular-looking Bea Cronk catch her breath. Bea's face reddened. Grabbing the arm of Nancy's brother-in-law, Dave Sherman, she said quickly, "Dance with me, Dave."

As the two threaded their way toward the dance floor, Beth Sherman said, "Well, Doris is right. It's to bad Ralph Cronk owns a cottage at The Colony. Why doesn't he get a girl of his own? He's always after some married woman!"

Doctor Sam Clark said worriedly, "Now, now, girls. That isn't the way to talk. I thought this was going to be a jolly evening!"

It was getting to be a lovely party, Johnny decided. Nancy had not yet returned to the table. He saw her still dancing with Cronk. He wondered if he really should be worried about her. Was the guy a murderer?

He kept up drink for drink with Doris Wells. He was just a little bit tight. There was a lot of noisie in the big dining room, and he was trying to hear what everyone at the table was saying.

Then he was aware that Doris' hand was on his arm and that she was saying, "Do you know something?"

He turned and grinned at her. "Sure. What?"

He realized that she was suddenly, seriously tight.

"That guy!" she said and there was venom in her voice.

"Who?" prodded Johnny.

"Ralph Cronk, who do you think?" She raised the glass, took a sip, spilled half the contents as she put the glass back on the table with determiniation. "I'll bet you can't guess what he's—"

Beside them, stocky Doctor Clark said, "Do you realize, my dear, that you haven't even given this tottering old man a dance?"

"Oh!" Doris Wells jumped up, contrituion suddenly in her vice. "I'm so sorry, Sam. Really, I am!"

They disappeared in the crowd. Johnny thought that Doctor Sam Clark's interruption had been timed for a reason. What was it Doris had been going to tell him about Cronk? They all seemed to have it for that guy!

Everyone in the party was either dancing or talking. Johnny's slightly bleary thoughts kept going back to Irma, Steve Eggers' friend, and he thought maybe he could find her somewhere around. Thinking of Steve reminded him of the police department. He ought to try and locate Steve and Moe Martin and see how they had made out. First though, he'd have a talk with the girl.

He met Nancy as he made his way through the room. She accompanied him to the foyer. They found a corner, deserted momentarily, beyond the phone booths.

"A fine detective you are!" scolded Nancy. "I think you're getting drunk!"

He grinned at her. "A fine wife you are! Running around with another man!"

"Well," Nancy continued with satisfaction, "at least I'm working."

"What did Cronk have to say?"

She made a wry face. "He's the kind who doesn't talk while dancing. He doesn't have to—if you know what I mean!"

"So you didn't learn anything?"

"Yes, I did."

"Did what?"

"Learn something. Cronk knows her!"

"Who?"

"Irma."

She told him about it. "We were dancing. The far end of the floor is near a hallway that apparently leads in from a side entrance. The hall is the way back to the dressing rooms, I imagine. Well, Irma must have just been coming to work. She passed through the hall, and Cronk saw her. The reason I knew is that he made a misstep while dancing. Then I saw his eyes following her as she passed the doorway."

"Did he say anything, pet?"

"No. He didn't have to. He was worried, I could tell."

"Where is he now?" Johnny asked.

"Back at our table. At least, he was just now."

Johnny said, "Don't let him out of your sight if you can help it. I'll be back in a monet. I want to call Steve Eggers and Moe."

But as soon as Nancy left him he headed toward the rear of the club. Another hallway led back to the men's smoking lounge, and beyond this was a door marked: "Employees Only."

Half way down the hall he paused at an intersecting corridor, the one that Nancy had mentioned. A bus boy came along as Johnny stood there.

"Where's Irma?" asked Johnny.

The boy started to say, "Patrons aren't permitted back here in the—"

Johnny put a bill in the young fellow's hand.

"That next door," the boy said, pointing. He pocketed the bill with alacrity and disappeared.

Johnny rapped on the door. From inside the room, the girl's voice said, "Yes? Who is it?"

"May I see you a moment?" asked Johnny, pulling himself together. Champagne sure stuck by you, he thought.

The door opened a trifle. He saw Irma's auburn hair and her childishly cute face. He saw the rest of her plainly revealed beneath the skimpy kimono which she held tightly around her slim waist with one hand. In the other and she held a hair brush.

"Oh!" she said with some surprise. Then her eyes seemed to brighten. "You! Oh, I want to see you!"

Butter Reserves Lower By Half

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The nation moved into the fall season with butter reserves only about half as large as a year ago, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The reserves help meet consumer needs during the fall and winter, seasons during which production usually does not match demand.

Officials expressed belief, however, that the reserves will be sufficient because butter consumption has dropped considerably below last year's level.

Actor Agar Has Term Reduced

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Actor John Agar, former husband of Shirley Temple, will be released from a county prison farm three months ahead of schedule because he accepted his 150-day sentence for drunk driving "like a man."

Municipal Judge Vernon W. Hunt, who sentenced Agar to the prison honor farm Aug. 27, reduced his sentence to two months yesterday, permitting his freedom on Oct. 25.

"I think he will make good," Hunt said, "and I hope he will be able to resume his career."

Vs.

Such persons unknown, not in being, as may in any contingency become interested in the lands of W.H. Peaden and Katie R. Peaden.

Under and by virtue of the power and authority vested in me as Commissioner of the Court by that certain Judgment entered by D. T. House Jr., Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, in the above entitled action, same being Special Proceeding Number 5482 in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, and the order of said Clerk having been approved by Honorable J. Paul Frizzelle, Resident Judge of the Fifth Judicial District of North Carolina, and said timber having been offered for sale after due advertisement on October 5, 1951, and within ten (10) days thereafter said bid received on October 5, 1951, having been raised by a deposit with the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, the undersigned Commissioner will offer for sale at public auction at the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, to the highest bidder for cash, on Wednesday, October 31, 1951, at twelve (12) o'clock noon, all of the timber of every kind and description measuring twelve (12) inches in diameter at a point twelve (12) inches above the general level of the ground, and such timber which shall attain said size during the period given for cutting same, upon the following described land in Pitt County, North Carolina, to-wit:

(a) Lying and being in Falkland Township, Pitt County, and specifically described as follows: Beginning at W. A. Peaden's corner on the public road; thence South 8 West 16 poles; thence South 32.5 West 260 poles to a pine; thence South 38 East 58 poles; thence South 8 East 67 poles; thence North 2 East 141 poles; thence North 45 East 54 poles; thence North 75 East 39 poles; thence North 255 poles to the public road; thence with said road to the Beginning, containing 239 acres, and being the identical parcel of land conveyed by J. O. Proctor and wife, Betty S. Proctor, to W. H. Peaden, under deed dated October 19, 1900, and recorded in Book B-7, page 442, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, North Carolina.

(b) Lying and being in Falkland Township, Pitt County, and specifically described as follows: Adjoining the lands of J. V. Johnson's heirs formerly owned by Betty Johnson, Beginning on the Greenville-Wilson Highway in W. H. Peaden's corner; thence in a southerly direction to a pine in the pocosin; thence in a northerly direction with the E. J. Peaden line to a stake on the Greenville-Wilson road; thence with said road in an easterly direction to the Beginning, containing 35 acres more or less, and being the same land conveyed to W. H. Peaden by Elizabeth Peaden on the 29th day of January, 1907, by deed recorded in Book Z-8 at page 145 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, North Carolina.

The purchaser of said timber will be given three (3) years in which to cut and remove said timber.

The highest bidder at such sale will be required to make a deposit of ten (10) percent of his bid with the undersigned, or the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, to show his good faith in the bidding and await confirmation of the sale.

The sale shall remain open for ten (10) days, subject to an upset bid, and same will be subject to confirmation of the Court.

This the 16th day of October, 1951.

Fraley Picks All Big-Four Teams To Win Saturday

Carolina-Maryland In Top Southern Conference Tilt

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Fraley's Follies and the weekend football "Winners"—along with a bit of this and some of that.

Game of the Week:

California over Southern Cal — Both are unbeaten but Cal figures to have too many guns with too much firepower. Comparative scores indicate equality, but Cal was looking past Washington State to this one.

Tele-Viewing

Ohio State over Indiana—Watch that Buckeye bounce.

Cornell over Yale—The Blue gets a shade deeper.

Blue Plate Specials:

Northwestern over Navy — On a hunch.

Brown over Colgate—It's your money.

Penn over Columbia—Force of habit.

The East:

Notre Dame over Pitt — J'hear about the flunked football player?

Michigan State over Penn State—Said two and two was six.

Army over Harvard—The coach asked a new exam.

San Francisco over Fordham — Said, after all, the guy only missed by one.

Aslo: Princeton over LaFayette, Boston College over Detroit, COP over Boston University, Bucknell over Buffalo, Rutgers over Lehigh, Holy Cross over NYU, Dartmouth over Syracuse and Temple over Delaware.

The Mid-West:

Wisconsin over Purdue — Fishing is a universal sport.

Michigan over Iowa — The Persians started it.

Oklahoma over Kansas — But not for fun.

Nebraska over Minnesota—They were hungry.

Also: Iowa State over Missouri, Cincinnati over Western Reserve, Colorado over Kansas State and Bradley over New Mexico Aggies.

The South:

Tennessee over Alabama—Thesus, a Greek prince, started the fight game.

Kentucky over Villanova—He was patron saint of undertakers.

LSU over Georgia—That was in 900 B.C.

Maryland over North Carolina—Contrary to belief, Joe Walcott was not fighting then.

Aslo: Georgia Tech over Auburn, Vanderbilt over Florida, Tulane over Mississippi, Duke over Virginia Tech, VMI over Virginia, Davidson over Richmond, N. C. State over W. & M., Wake Forest over George Washington, Citadel over Furman and Miami over W. & L.

The West:

Illinois over Washington — The Greeks began football, too.

Oregon State over Washington State—Caesar outlawed it in 28 B. C.

UCLA over Oregon—Said it was too sissy.

Stanford over Santa Clara —How about that!

CHAPEL HILL (UP)—With the shadow of mighty Maryland hanging over the practice sessions, North Carolina's Carl Snavely ordered the lights turned on and sent his squad into overtime drills yesterday.

Larry Parker, Bud Carson and Billy Williams did most of the running and passing as the Tar Heels sharpened their attack. Defensive standouts were linemen Glen Nickerson, Joe Dudeck, Paul Hursh, Bill Kuhn and Dave Wiley.

DURHAM (UP)— Duke football trainer Bob Chambers reported today that most of Duke's injured players will be back in shape for play in time for Saturday's game with Virginia Tech.

Jack Kistler, Red Smith, Tank Lawrence, Blaine Earon and George Grune returned to practice yesterday, but Piney Field, Bobby Burrows, Bill Keziah, Jim Gibson and John Carey were still out.

Chambers said it was doubtful that Carey could play this week.

RALEIGH (UP)—Two freshmen filled in the empty fullback spot for N. C. State today while regular Jim O'Rourke continued to nurse an injury from the Duke game.

Gene Williard ran at offensive fullback and Don Langston operated on defense.

With tailback Alex Webster keeping O'Rourke company on the bench, sophomore Paul O'Hara took his job on defense and junior Ted Potts worked the offensive. In scrimmage yesterday, Potts tossed two touchdown passes.

WAKE FOREST (UP)— Wake Forest's conference-leading defensive squad set up its plans today to stop the special plays used by George Washington's Andy Davis and Ken Belliveau.

The Deacons worked particularly on pass defense and line assignments against reverses and cutback frequently used by Davis. Working in the backfield against passes were Ed Kissell at deep back, Guido Scarton and Larry Spencer at halfbacks and Tom Donohue and Joe Koch backing the line.

FRANK MADIGAN, a native of Portsmouth, Virginia, is the first string offensive center for the East Carolina College Pirates and will be in the starting line-up Saturday night when the Guilford College Quakers come to ECC's stadium. Madigan is a letterman. (Reflector Sports Photo by Roy Hardee).

Marciano Has Method For Beating Bomber

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (UP) Heavyweight Rocky Marciano used a new method today to sharpen his ax for Joe Louis.

The unbeaten slugger from Brockton, Mass., shortened his sparring rounds from three minutes each to two minutes in order to speed up and intensify the attack he hopes will fell Louis at Madison Square Garden on Oct. 26.

Trainer Charlie Goldman, who ordered the change, said he could not remember any other fighter having used "capsule" rounds in sparring since 1912. "And the guy who used two-minute rounds in 1912 was me," said Charlie. "I used them before my non-title fight with bantamweight champion Eddie Coulon, and I won the newspaper decision."

It is the belief of Marciano and Goldman that "continuous pressure" will wear down 37-year-old Louis and ready him for a knockout in less than the 10 scheduled rounds.

Should 27-year-old Marciano, with 37 straight victories under his belt, knock out Louis, he probably would be regarded generally as the best fighter in the world and the favorite to beat either champion Jersey Joe Walcott or ex-champ Ezzard Charles.

New Arrest Will Spread Scandal In Basketball

NEW YORK—(AP)—The college basketbal iscandal is expected to spread to more schools and players according to Assistant District Attorney Vincent O'Connor.

O'Connor made this assertion yesterday following the arrest of Joseph Benintende, 42, alleged king pin of a basketball "fix" ring. O'Connor, however, gave no indication as to how many colleges or players might be involved, or when details would be made public.

The scandal so far has involved 31 players from six teams, Bradley, Toledo, CCNY, Manhattan, Long Island University and New York University.

O'Connor indicated that Benintende was "singing" on colleges involved but not mentioned so far in the scandal.

Steelers' Power Worries Cleveland

CLEVELAND (UP)—The Cleveland Browns, perennial pro football champs, "started from scratch" in preparation for Sunday's game against the twice-beaten and once-tied Pittsburgh Steelers, Paul Brown said today.

Coach Brown was working hard to keep his defending national football league titlists from getting complacent about the power-play exponents from the steel city.

UNC's Larry Parker Named AP Freshman

RALEIGH—(AP)— A University of North Carolina tailback who began the season as a defensive halfback is the Associated Press Southern Conference Freshman of the Week.

He is Larry Parker, 19-year-old former high school flash of Charlotte. Parker and sophomore Billy Williams of Henderson supplied the offensive spark for North Carolina's 21-6 victory over South Carolina Saturday.

The week before, Parker turned in a bang-up performance on defense against Texas. His play won him a promotion to the offensive team.

Grabbing headlines is nothing new to the boyish Parker. At Charlotte Central High he won honors as an All-State, All-Southern and All-America. He was a triple-threat with running his principal forte.

The 180-pound star returned three kickoffs against South Carolina for a total of 115 yards—an average of 38.4. One was for 60 yards and set up a 40-yard touchdown jaunt by Williams.

Parker completed four of six passes, including one for 11 yards and a touchdown to end Bill Baker.

Allen, Farley Go Into Semi-Finals Of Local Tourney

W. L. Allen and Bo Farley moved into the semi-finals of the President's Cup golf tournament being played at the local country club golf course by defeating John Proctor and L. S. Ficklen, respectively in fifth round matches this week.

Defending champion Herbert Waldrop and Milton Harrington have yet to play a fifth round match to determine the other entry in the semi-finals. They will play sometime this week, probably Sunday afternoon.

One of the three winners—Allen, Farley, and either Waldrop or Harrington—will receive a bye for the semi-final round of play and move directly into the finals. The championship match is tentatively slated for Sunday, October 28.

The tournament began in the first week of September with 96 entries. These have been cut down to the present number by five sudden death rounds of play.

Tigers Hire Ruel And Fire Kennedy

DETROIT (UP)— The Detroit Tigers will announce today that Harold (Muddy) Ruel has been named head of their farm system replacing Ray Kennedy who said he was fired "for no good reason."

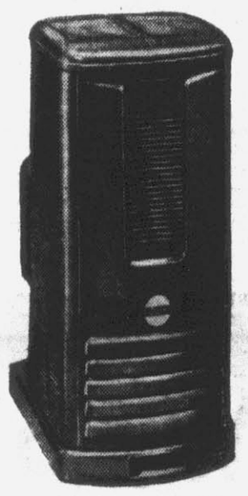

Kennedy disclosed last night that the Tigers fired him yesterday and that general manager Charley Gehringer told him that "Ruel was coming in to take over."

Kennedy said he did not wait for the formal announcement because "I want to make it clear that I was fired, that I did not resign.

"The Tigers do not have a good reason for dismissing me," he said. "I was expected to develop a productive farm system in three years. That is impossible, but our system as it stands is as good as any in baseball right now."

Ruel, who quit as farm director of the Cleveland Indians farm system last week, has been rumored headed for the Detroit organization.

By JIMMY ELLIS

Much of the writing in this column for the past few days has been of football and since that subject is getting a bit stale right now, let's talk about something else. Let's start with baseball.

With the World Series out of the way, several of the major league owners are starting the serious business of preparing their clubs for next year. For some clubs, it'll be a simple job of adding new men at key positions while other teams will have the big order of rebuilding from the ground up.

There'll be a lot of trading making the rounds this year, if the signs are correct, with most of the deals coming off at the annual December meeting of the baseball owners. Everyone of the sixteen major league teams and almost all of the minor league clubs are going to be out for all they can get to at least partialy insure their chances for next year.

Speaking of trades calls to mind a story which supposedly involved John McGraw, the immortal baseball man who ran the Giants.

The story goes that McGraw had a pretty cocky young outfielder on his club who had an alibi for everything. In one game, the young fellow missed three fly balls—easy catches, mind you — and each time he missed, he would shake his head and mutter, "It was the wind. There's a tricky wind out there today."

When he bobbled his third fly of the game, and again blamed the wind, McGraw popped up from his seat and snapped, "That was a wind, all right—a Trade wind. Tomorrow you'll be traded to Toledo."

I don't suppose Leo Durocher will be wanting to trade either of his outfielders this winter but I think the story would strike home in this day and age more readily in the area around Ebbetts Field. Walter O'Malley, who insists he's keeping Charley Dressen as manager, may have decided that what Brooklyn needs is not a new manager but some new blood in that outfield, already one of the youngest in the history of baseball.

A recent story out of New York seems to insist that the Yankees don't have to do much to replace their fading or faded stars.

The article calls attention to the presence of such players as Jack Collins, Gil McDougald, Dr. Bobby Brown, Billy Martin, Jack Jensen and Mickey Mantle who are just about ready for full-time big league baseball.

With the presence of these fellows, it seems that the Yankees don't have too many troubles for the coming years.

To my way of thinking, the club outside of the Detroit Tigers which has the most urgent need for rebuilding is the—surprise—not the Browns but the Boston Red Sox. Something drastic must be done with Tom Yawkey's boys.

On paper, the Red Sox have what is generally acknowledged as the best team in the major leagues. They've got Ted Williams, Ray Scarborough, Ellis Kinder, Johnny Pesky, Bobby Doerr, Vern Stephens and a potful of other top notch ball players. Yet they can't win when the chips are down. They dropped 12 out of their last 13 ball games this year.

Ted Williams is probably the best all-around ball player, to my way of thinking, in the American League today. (Bet I get a gripe on that.) He's really hot-stuff with the bat and he's loosened up in his manner in the last year so that he's a right decent fellow most of the time.

Williams has spent all of his major league career in Boston. He likes it there and has threatened to quit if he's traded or sold by the Boston. Yet, in spite of his value to baseball, that might be the best thing that could happen to the Red Sox. It would be a start, anyway, and everybody knows they've got to start somewhere.

The Detroit Tigers are perhaps the most pathetic club in the majors today. They've got the best ball park, the most liberal owner, and just about one of the lousiest teams you could find anywhere.

Walter Briggs has done a lot for his Detroit players—mostly in the form of paying them a heck of a lot more than they're worth. He's given out a lot of bonuses to untried rookies instead of trying to perfect a farm system and he now has very little to work with.

Vic Wertz and Hoot Evers cannot carry the load by themselves. Red Rolfe knows that and so does General Manager Charlie Gehringer. Detroit is another club that needs drastic revising before it can expect to get anywhere.

The final note today is on the favorite scapegoat of the sixteen clubs: the St. Louis Browns.

A lot of people simply gave up on the Brownies a long time ago. A great deal more quit when Bill (Screwball) Veeck came into possession of the club and immediately turned the Browns' home games into a three-ring circus.

Veeck's ideas may be a lot sounder than most people like to think. No one realizes more than he that in order to compete on the market for ball players, he's got to have some cash. To get the cash, he's got to get some paying customers into his ball park. Right now, to get those customers, he's having to turn his ball games into clown acts with midgets, and clowns, and everything else. When he gets the money to operate effectively, he'll get the ball players.

Veeck did the same thing in Cleveland and he won a World's championship eventually.

I don't ordinarily like to think that I approve of Veeck's burlesque of the game, but I will say that the St. Louis fans, if they go to his circuses and firewoorks displays, will profit by it. Uncle Bill will get them some major league ball players.

And it may be sooner than you think.

Coastal Crown Ride's On Friday's Game

Ayden-Farmville To Clash In Farmville

Ayden Needs Victory To Win Conference Title For Third Straight Year; Have Record Of 3 Wins, No Losses In League

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Writer

Friday night's contest in Farmville between Farmville High's Red Devils and Ayden's Tornadoes will probably decide the fate of the Coastal Conference championship for 1951.

The Tornadoes, who have won the championship every year since the league was formed three years ago, need a victory in this game to take the crown for the third year. It is the last loop encounter for Ayden, and a victory there would give the team a 4-0 record in the conference. On the other hand, if they lose, Coach Stuart Tripp's boys will still be assured of at least second place, as no other member of the five-team conference could match their record.

Despite the loss of Quarterback Darrell Worthington for the remainder of the year, the Tornadoes will enter the game as a 14-point favorite over the Red Devils, who have won their only loop tilt up to now, beating Robersonville in a tight defensive game last Friday night, 7-6.

In overall play, Ayden has defeated Robersonville, 25-7; South Edgecombe, 14-6; and Vanceboro, 34-12. It lost to Williamston in the curtain raiser of the season, 18-13. Farmville has beaten Norlina, 32-6; Snow Hill, 12-7; and Robersonville, 7-6. The Red Devils have dropped decisions to Hertford, 40-0, and Morehead City, 25-6.

Ayden has scored a total of 86 points in four games, while allowing but 43 to its opposition. Farmville has tallied 67 compared to 84 points for the opposition.

In the absence of Worthington, who cracked his right elbow in Friday night's game with Vanceboro in Ayden, converted-fullback Hal Edwards will probably step into the quarterback slot. Edwards is one of the hardest runners to stop on the Tornado squad and is also an excellent passer. He moved into the quarterback spot after Worthington was injured Friday night, and immediately heaved a pass from his own 20 to End Mac Whitehurst, who took the ball on the mid-field stripe and carried it for pay-dirt.

Edwards will be backed up in the Tornado backfield by Halfbacks Delano Cox and John Edward Cheek. Gordon Hart will probably move into Edwards' vacated position. Wesley Cannon, a 120-pounder, has seen a considerable amount of action during the last two contests and is expected to play against Farmville.

Co-captain and all-conference end Mac Whitehurst will team with Willis Manning at the end spots, while Randall Harrington and Todd Kittrell will play at the tackles. Norman Skinner or Billy Holland and Riley Tripp will handle the guards, while lettermen Curtis Dennis, who was converted from end, will be at center. Linemen Jimmy Jenkins and Billy Davidson and backs Billy McLawhorn and Harry Ross are also slated to see a lot of action.

Farmville Headliners

Farmville is headed by a plunging halfback by the name of Joe Smith, who almost single-handedly defeated Robersonville. Smith plunged into the line time after time, either through the center or off tackles, averaging over four yards per carry. He also played a sterling game on defense for the Red Devils.

Charlie Fitzgerald, a slender quarterback, takes care of most of the passing for Coach Elbert Moye's team. The remainder of the backfield is made up of Sigbee Dilda, a stocky, bone-crushing fullback, and Halfback Jesse Joyner, who is also an excellent runner.

Line play is headed by co-captains James Fountain and Paschall Barrett, tackle and center, respectively. Both are seniors in school and are in their second year on the Farmville varsity. Tackle Billy Shackleford, a 165-pound junior, has been consistently outstanding on defense in each game so far.

Moye sent the team through a two-hour defensive scrimmage last night, assigning each boy to his various job. The Red Devils spent several minutes preparing a defense against Ayden's potent pass defense.

The Tornadoes have been at work equally as hard all week, in an endeavor to stop Farmville's strong ground attack.

Other Coastal Activity

The only other intra-conference tilt on tap for Friday is slated for Vanceboro in the afternoon. Coach George Wood's Vanceborians will be attempting to take their first victory of the year as they take the field against South Edgecombe in their third Coastal encounter. They are not expected to succeed, however, as Wiley Parker's Pinetoppers have more experience and a better line.

Robersonville, the fifth member, travels to Tarboro for a night game with Coach Johnny Wolfe's eleven there. The game has been billed as a duel between Robersonville's Sonny James and Tarboro Fullback Ken Brewer. Both boys have led their respective teams all the year. Toss-up; no prediction.

REAL COMER

DURHAM — Jules Skodzinski, lanky former Philadelphia Catholic High grid star, is a real comer as an end for Duke grid teams. In last week's Duke-Wake Forest Jayvee game, Jules caught four passes for 48 yards.

Pirates Work On Passing Defense

A long, hard scrimmage, with particular emphasis on pass defense, was the order of the day for the second straight day yesterday on the East Carolina College football practice field as the Pirates continued to prep for their game Saturday night with Guilford College.

Mike Kovack, who only returned to duty Monday after being out with a bad knee for two weeks, reinjured his knee again yesterday and there was some speculation that he might be lost for the rest of the year. Kovack's bum knee was expected to heal more rapidly than it has and if he is put out of action, he will join Illard Yarborough in the "injured knee" department. Both were hurt in the same ball game, against Norfolk Naval Air Station.

The Pirates worked again yesterday without the services of Jack Benzie, the right halfback. Benzie went to Portsmouth, Va. Sunday night to attend the funeral of his grandmother and has not yet returned. He is a probable starter Saturday night against the Quakers.

The other injuries in the Pirate camp continued to take their own time toward getting well. Claude King, who was sporting a charley horse after last week's game with Western Carolina Teachers College, has gone back to practice after laying out Monday and will probably be at left halfback Saturday night. King does almost all of the Pirate punting now but he had to hand the job to Benzie Saturday when he got hurt.

Other minor injuries to ECC players are healing as rapidly as can be expected and no one other than Kovack is expected to miss Saturday's game because of injuries.

East Carolina players got a look at some of their game movies Tuesday night and when all the looking was over, Coach Bill Dole gave notice of some changes to be made in both the defensive line and backfield for this week's game. These changes will be worked out in practice sessions the remainder of the week.

Robersonville Travels To Tarboro For Game Friday

ROBERSONVILLE — Robersonville's Rams, with a season's record of two wins, two defeats, and one tie, travel to Tarboro Friday night for a non-conference clash with the Tars there.

An individual battle between Robersonville's Sonny James and Tarboro's Ken Brewer is expected to feature the contest. Both boys have carried their teams' offense on their shoulders all season long. They are both fullbacks.

Running from the single wing, James either ran or figured in a pass play on nearly 75 per cent of Robersonville's plays from the line of scrimmage against Farmville last week, which the Rams lost, 7-6. He averaged nearly five yards per try on the ground in the game.

Brewer is the leading passer and broken field runner on Coach Johnny Wolfe's team. He has played a prominent role in each of the team's five games. He will be supported by Nelson Morris, who does most of the punting and is an excellent runner.

Tarboro has won three games while dropping two. They defeated the Tarboro High Alumni, 13-7; lost to Spring Hope, 31-0; won over Benvenue, 14-0; lost to Ahoskie, 24-12; and defeated Scotland Nack last week, 24-12. It has a light line, led by captain and guard Gene Morris, which averages approximately 143 pounds.

The game will be rated as a toss-up.

COACHES TRACKMEN

DURHAM — Robert L. Chamberbers, head trainer for the Duke University athletic teams, is also head coach of the blue Devil track squad. H is assistants are Bob Montfort, assistant trainer, and H. M. Lewis, Duke business manaer of athletics.

Vanceboro Gridders Plan To Win Friday

VANCEBORO — Farm Life High School in Vanceboro plans to get on the victory train Friday afternoon when it meets South Edgecombe in a Coastal Conference game at 2 p.m. in Vanceboro.

Coach George Wood's squad, whose roster shows but 20 names, has been hit hard by injuries during the last week, but the team is expected to be in good physical condition by game time Friday. The only exception will be first string left tackle Bobby Lewis, who broke his arm several days ago. Other injuries include a sprained back for right halfback Jack Taylor and pulled muscles in both legs for quarterback Furney Powell. Both of the boys are expected to be ready Friday.

Coach Wood stated yesterday that he "is expecting to win this one. We will be out there playing to win. The team is tired of losing and wants to get the taste of victory in their mouths."

Vanceboro has lost four of five games this season, including two conference losses to Robersonville and Ayden. The team tied Swansboro in the second game of the year, 0-0.

Defense, especially pass defense, has been stressed in the Vanceboro practice camp this week. Wood is trying desperately to halt the passing attack of the opposition, which has hurt the team several times this year. It was futile in attempting to stop Ayden last week, who completed 10 of 14 passes for nearly 200 yards, including one pay-dirt toss that covered 80 yards from the line of scrimmage.

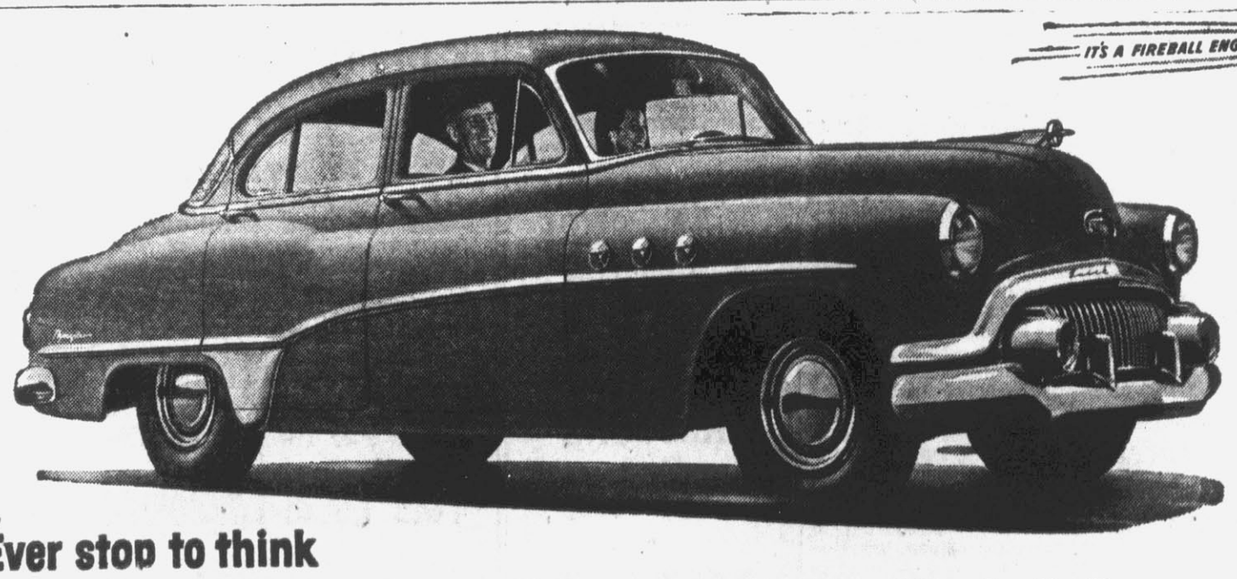

South Edgecombe Works For Game With Vanceboro

PINETOPS — Fresh from their first victory of the season, South Edgecombe High's gridders began preparations here yesterday for their game with Vanceboro in Vanceboro Friday afternoon.

The Pinetoppers defeated Benvenue, 13-7, last Friday. Brooks Webb starred in the backfield for the locals, playing in the second game of the week. South Edgecombe has lost to Nashville earlier in the week.

Coach Wiley Parker sent the team through a short scrimmage yesterday with the first team running against the second eleven. Webb, a tailback in the South Edgecombe George Pitt led the offensive play, single wing attack, and wingback while Guard Mickey Tuller was outstanding on defense.

The game with Vanceboro will be the second in Coastal Conference competition for the local squad, who lost the opening loop game to Ayden.

Ever stop to think

Your First Car can be a Buick!

THIS being a land where it is every man's right to dream of getting ahead—and the pursuit of happiness is guaranteed by the Constitution—it happens that a great many people aspire to own a Buick.

But too often they start with a lesser car first—from a feeling that Buicks are something you have to build up to gradually, as your take-home pay improves.

So—if you have any such notion—we'd like to set you straight, right here and now.

You don't have to hope and dream and wait. If you can afford a new car—the first car you buy can be the Buick SPECIAL pictured here.

Its price tag says so. Its low cost of operation says so too.

We know that it looks like a lot of money. That's what makes it such a buy.

We know that it has a long list of features found in costlier cars, and that it rides and handles like cars that sell for a great deal more.

But that simply means that—at its price—you're getting a very big money's worth.

All of which adds up to one conclusion: the smart thing to do is come in and give this neat and nimble new SPECIAL a thorough going-over.

Try out its power—the power of its high-compression, valve-in-head Fireball Engine.

Try out its ride and handling—and you'll discover it has the "big-car feel" that you'd expect from a Buick.

Try it out for size—for room—for comfort—for all the things that you've dreamed someday of having in a car—and you'll thank your stars that you found out the facts of life in time.

Town Is Building Plant For Firm

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn. —(AP)— Elizabethton voters have approved a 50 per cent increase in a $4,000,000 bond issue they previously voted for construction of a textile plant to be leased to Textron, Inc.

In a second special referendum yesterday, they voted 1,476 to 16 to authorize a $6,000,000, 15-year bnd five-year issue approved earlier this year.

Here is the difference in the two plans for financing the $7,800,000 plant as explained by city officials:

Under the original five-year plan, bond proceeds of $4,000,000 would have been added to two years advance rental at $1,500,000 a year and an additional $800,000 to be put up by textron.

Under the 15-year plan, bond proceeds of $6,000,000, two years advance rental at $500,000 a year and the extra sum from Textron will total $7,800,000.

Although the city will retain title to the plant, officials said, the bonds cannot be held as an indebtedness against the city under the 1951 Tennessee law which authorized such referendums.

One State Safer From Lightning

BOSTON —(UP)— Rhode Island is the safest place in the country to live as far as lightning is concerned according to the New England Journal of Medicine.

The state has not recorded a lightning-caused death since 1936, the journal said.

About 250 persons are killed by lightning each year, the journal said. Nine out of 10 fatalities from lightning occur in places with 2,500 inhabitants or less, and four times as many men as women are killed by bolts.

Quarterly Health Dept. Report Given By Basnight

Dr. T. G. Basnight, health officer at the Pitt County Board of Health released yesterday a quarterly report of the activites of departments in the health office for July, August, and September.

The reports were made by department heads and turned over to Dr. Basnight. The following report covers the third quarter of the year:

The Vital Statistics Department reported a total of 582 births during the three-month period of which 241 were white and 341 Negro. Deaths reported in the county totaled 100 in which 48 of the deaths were white and 52 were Negroes. Ten stillbirths were reported, four white and six Negro.

For the third quarter of 1951 the activities of the Venereal Disease program was as follows: Patients admitted for Rapid Treatment, 22; patients referred to private physicians, six; patients treated for syphilis in the clinic, two; and patients admitted for the treatment gonorrhea, 13.

Diagnostic observations completed: Number infected, 38; number not infected, 449; dropped or transferred, 12; field visits to contacts and suspects, 197; field visits to lapsed patients, 121; patients interviewed, 11. Five hundred and fourteen blood tests were made.

A total of 194 x-rays were made by the health department during the three months of which 100 were white and 94 were Negro. Of the number x-rayed, 20 were referred by the doctors; 43 were contacts of T. B. cases; 108 were ex-sanatorium patients, suspected cases, and recheck film on follow-up cases; four were referred by the welfare department; and 16 were teachers and other professional workers.

Eleven T. B. cases were reported to the health department, of which 10 were far advanced active cases (one six-year old boy) and one was a primary case in the inflammatory stage. There was one death in the past three months and three patients were admitted to the sanatorium.

The following laboratory examination were made: Negative sputums, 84; positive, 14; negative cultures, five; positive, one; negative feces, four; positive, one; negative diptheria cultures, 48; positive one; and negative typhoid culture, 13.

Immunizations during the three months reported by the health department were: Diphtheria, 349; whooping cough, 226; smallpox, 309; tetanus, 408; and typhoid, 1,261.

Although no actual work was done in the schools by the health department nurses during the past three months, many visits were made to follow up physicians recommendation as to correction of physical defects. There were several cases of communicable diseases which had to be followed up. The were:

Diphtheria, four; scarlet fever, three; tuberculosis, 11; and typhoid fever, two. The cases were investigated and quarantined when necessary, and contacts checked.

The nurses made visits for maternal, child health, and orthopedic nursing supervision. Several trips were made to transport premature infants to the state centers at either Duke Hospital or James Walker Hospital.

Routine clinics continued to be held throughout July, August, and September. Since it was vacation time all the nurses had to double up their work to fill in for those on vacation. Several nurses also took summer courses for a week each at the University of North Carolina.

Nurses who attended the courses were: Mrs. Noble, cancer nursing; Mr. Griffith, mental hygiene; and Mrs. Henningway and Miss Fisher, geriatrics. One nurse left the staff. Miss Janie Johnston began a leave of absence in September to take a year's work in Public Health Nursing at the University of North Carolina. She was replaced by Miss Jackie Moore who has just completed a year's work in the same field.

Beginning in September Miss Carolyn Flewellen, nutrition consultant, was added to the staff. She is making dietary surveys of school children and conducting refresher courses in nutrition for teachers. At present she is just beginning to start nutrition units in several classrooms.

During the third quarter, the sanitarians in the sanitation section of the health department made one visit in connection with rabies and two visits in connection with typhoid. The sanitarians attended three professional meetings and made two formal talks.

Other activities of the sanitarians are as follows: Schools inspected, two; private water supplies approved, four, private sewer disposal facilities, 712; sewer connections made, 75; privies condemned (county , 59 and city, 635; restaurants permits revoked, three; visits to restaurants, 157; and restaurants graded, 41;

Visits to county home, one; boarding home visits, six; boarding homes graded, five; drink stands visited, two; frozen food plants visited, five; frozen foods plants graded, three; hotels visited, four; meat markets visited, 76; meat markets graded, 48; meat markets permits revoked, two; school lunchrooms visited, three; visit to abattoirs, four; and abattoirs graded, two.

Producer dairy farms inspected, four; pasteurizing plants inspected, one; producer farms visited, 22; pasteurizing plants visited, 10; milk samples collected on prolected on pasteurizing plants 16; ducer farms, 42; milk samples colproducer farms degraded, one.

Inspection of swimming pools, four; tests made of swimming pool water, four; visits to garbage disposal system, one; complaints investigated, 11; visits to fish ponds, nine; and water sample collected, 24. The sanitation section also set up a milk testing laboratory in the county. It is now awaiting approval of the State Board of Health. Rat poisoning programs are being conducted in Farmville and Greenville on a continuous bases.

The sanitarians supervised the construction and operation of the food booths and toilet facilities at the fairgrounds during the recent fair.

MAYOR TAKES ACTION

OSWEGO, N. Y. —(UP)— When Mayor Frank L. Gould was taken ill, his trip to the hospital was delayed because the city's only ambulance was out on another call. After he was released, he bought a second ambulance out of his own funds and turned it over to the city as a standby for emergencies such as his own.

C-Of-C Campaign Teams In Action

The teams which make up the membership committee of the local Chamber of Commerce made final plans for its membership campaign at a dinner meeting last night at Respess-James Barbecue House.

Six teams with a captain and five members on each team made plans to call on 74 prospective members of the Chamber of Commerce today and tomorrow in winding up its campaign which began the first week in October.

For the past week a series of cards have been sent to prospective members carrying out the theme of the campaign, "We'll Get More Done If We Get Together." cards have also carried cartoons by Dave Morrah, nationally known humorist and cartoonist.

Van Fleming, Jr., chairman of the membership committee, said the purpose of the campaign was to stimulate an active interest of more business and professional people in the city in the program of activities of the Chamber of Commerce. The program is designed to promote the advancement of Greenville into well-rounded development of city affairs, agriculture, transportation, and trade expansion.

He said that in addition it is to stimulate interest on the part of the citizen in legislative and national affairs, and good public relations in surrounding areas as well as in the community in making it a better place to live, work, and play.

Captains heading the membership teams who began work this morning are Larry Averette, Charles Bissette, C. E. Blair, Tom Webb, H. L. Hodges, Jr., and George Wilkerson.

N. C. Supervisor Of Music Speaks

WINTERVILLE, — Arnold Hoffman, state supervisor of music, spoke to a number of Public School Music teachers yesterday at a music workshop at the Winterville School.

Grammar grade teachers and Public School music teachers from all over the county attended the workshop which was broken up into several sessions. The session at which Hoffman spoke to the public school music teachers was held separately from the general session.

Hoffman told the teachers about the current trend in the use of a music teacher. He said the classroom teacher should have charge of teaching the music and the public school music teacher should act as a assistant and advisor. Following Hoffman's talk, the teachers organized and Mrs. Rosa Little of Ayden was chosen chairman of the group. Mrs. Sarah Brown of Winterville was chosen secretary.

At the general session of the teachers, Marion Egbert, member of the department of community service with the American Music Conference, distributed musical intruments among the teachers and led them in a rhythm band. He also taught the use of the piano keyboard in the understanding of music fundamentals.

Egbert is also working in the county schools with grades seven and eight and high school choral groups. This is Egbert's third trip to Pitt County in working with the schools.

Hoffman also spoke a few minutes to the general session and challenged them to take advantage of having special music teachers.

Asia's Unrest . . .

that the White man should go home and mind his own business. King Abdullah of Jordan was assassinated in Jerusalem last July because he took a moderate, friendly attitude toward Britain. Sir Henry Gurney, British high commissioner for Malaya, was killed this month by assassins committed to driving out the British at any cost.

The Middle East and the peninsulas that jut out from the southern coast of Asia — India, Burma, Siam, Indo-China, Korea — are the big prizes in the cold war. If they fall to communism, the Western world is going to be badly outnumbered when the showdown comes.

If they can be saved by firmness and patient negotiation — such as is going on now with Mossadegh of Iran here in the United States —Moscow can't possibly win.

Red Oak News

A large and enthusiastic group of people met at the church Sunday evening at seven o'clock and made final plans for the Harvest Festival at the Red Oak Club House Friday night, October 19th. If any of our members were not present, but wish to help in some way, they may contact Mrs. B. L. Tyson. We want every member to contribute something to sell at the auction, and to help in some way with serving the meal. Supper will be served from 5 o'clock until 7 o'clock. The menu consists of a choice of turkey and dressing, or baked ham, salad greens, collards, a variety of salads, candied yams, snap beans, rolls, hush-puppies, hot coffee and cake. We need several bowls of salads. We invite our members and friends to come and help make this our very best "Harvest Festival." A solo by Little Miss Eileen May and group singing led by Mrs. William May brought the meeting to a close.

The Young Married Couples class of the Red Oak Christian Church will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Leroy James, Wednesday night, Oct. 17th at 7:30 o'clock. Each member is asked to be present to help to attend to some important business.

Slated To Vote On Flood Funds

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House was scheduled to vote today on a compromise bill providing $597,262,713 for flood control and rivers and harbors projects.

The bill, as approved by a Senate-House conference committee, was $41,315,500 less than the Senate voted soon after last summer's floods in Kansas and Missouri.

Heavy Docket In Recorders Court

In Pitt County Recorder's Court yesterday, Judge Dink James disposed of an unusually heavy docket.

Sandy (Joe Nathan) Crandell, Negro, possession of non-tax paid whiskey, $25 and costs.

Possession of non-tax paid whiskey for purpose of sale and transporting: Mary Pittman, Negro, was not guilty. Ibet Brown, Negro, was not guilty. Ben Grimes, Negro, (and driving without an operator's license) was fined $50 and costs.

Driving drunk: James Williams, Negro, $100 and costs and his driver's license was ordered revoked for a year.

Bus Pittman, Negro, assault with a deadly weapon, $25, costs deducted.

Drunk, disorderly and assault: Jesse Lee Sutton, $25, costs deducted.

Worthless check: Weldon Newton, case transferred to Superior Court.

Breaking, entering and larceny: Henry Johnson, Negro, guilty, sentence suspended and he was placed on probation for two years.

Gambling: Elijah (Pete) Harris, Johnnie Harris and Henry Joyner, Negroes, pleaded guilty and the court taxed each with one-third of the court costs.

Arvill Suggs, assault and public drunkenness, paid court costs in both cases.

costs.

The State Department, however, is not prepared to stop at this. It wants a positive approach that will convince the Arabs to hitch their defense wagon to the allies rather than the red star.

But, now that the Egyptians have scornfully rejected the West's carefully drafted plans for a Middle Eastern defense command, it appears stumped on what to do next.

The armed clash between Egyptian rioters and British troops in the canal zone yesterday—which cost lives—will not improve things.

It is obvious that both Britain and the United States have seriously underestimated the fanatic zeal with which Arab nationalists are clamoring for complete independence and equality.

Perhaps this is because the United States and most western countries have kept their eyes on Korea and Western Europe almost exclusively for the past two years, paying only incidental attention to the Middle East.

Greenville Oil Dealers Unite For Service

At a meeting of the wholesale oil dealers of Greenville Tuesday, an organization was formed to effect a closer union of the wholesale oil distributors and jobbers and to cooperate in all matters pertaining to the advancement of their business.

A central credit bureau has been set up with active files and they are to be kept up to date, it was stated. An oil dealer at the meeting said it is the intent of the oil distributors of Greenville to better serve their customers and the public generally.

W. L. Allen was appointed chairman of the group, and W. O. (Bill) Moore, vice-chairman. Meetings will be held the second Tuesday of each month.

'First Bicycle' Made In Russia

WASHINGTON (UP)— Moscow's latest claim to fame is that "the first bicycle in the world was invented in Russia" in 1801.

"In 1801 a man arrived in Moscow from the distant Ural regions on an unknown vehicle," the Russians were told in a recent broadcast. "He, Artamonov, who lived and worked in Penza province, was the inventor of th first bicycle."

cate everybody as "admirable acceptance by the country of the consequences of its starting point, democracy."

In Europe, he said, the school is the old learning-teaching one, with the school emphasizing learning alone, and the family providing the wider education. The aim of the school is to make the child grow up familiar with the cultural heritage of the past. Not everyone is expected to enter the secondary school in Germany or France—only those who are equal to highly exacting work.

The speaker closed with the thought that the struggle of ideas now going on in Europe between Communism and Christianity, of vital importance to the world, can be and is fought out on the abstract intellectual level in France more than anywhere else because of the emphasis of education there on the search for truth and for understanding of ideas. "Ideas, not facts, have made history," he concluded.

Mutiny In Prison Brought To End

MOUNDSVILLE, W.VA. (UP)—A 22-hour mutiny by 1,300 prisoners at West Virginia's state prison ended today as they returned to their cells voluntarily on a promise of being fed.

The convicts began returning to their cells at 8:50 a.m. after Warden Orel J. Skeen promised they would be given food.

"If you will lineup now and enter the cellblock you will be fed," Skeen said over a prison loudspeaker.

The men fell into formation and began filing into the cell blocks. At a signal, the cell doors slid open and the men entered their cells for the first time since noon yesterday.

Through the chilly night the convicts had been kept in the open prison compound, under the muzzles of rifle and machineguns held by guards and police on the wall. Earlier today 50 state troopers arrived.

Thieves Get 350 Sticks Tobacco Monday Night

Pitt sheriff's officers today were continuing their investigation in an effort to apprehend the person or persons who stole 350 sticks of ungraded tobacco Monday night.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the theft was reported by James Mills who owns and operates the John Ogeary farm on highway 43 nine miles south of Greenville. Tyson quoted Mills as saying the tobacco was taken from a vacated dwelling house on the farm which is being used as a packhouse.

Wins Fight To Become Citizen

DETROIT (UP)—Mrs. Margaret C. Green, a former German baroness, was an American citizen today, ending a 15-year fight against deportation.

Mrs. Green, 34, the former Baroness Egan von Mauchenheim of Munich, took the oath of allegiance yesterday. She and her then husband fled Nazi Germany in 1935, and this government ordered them out of the country five times between 1936 and 1940. Each time they averted deportation.
