Churchill Names Cabinet Choices; Key Defense Job Is Kept For Self

Anthony Eden To Be Foreign Affairs Minister And Deputy To Churchill

LONDON (UP)—Winston Churchill named his trusted friend Anthony Eden as new foreign secretary for Great Britain today, but kept for himself the job of running the empire's defense while he is prime minister.

The handsome Eden was also given the duties of deputy prime minister and leader of the House of Commons in this time of crisis in relations with Iran, Egypt and the Communist bloc.

The announcement of top cabinet positions was made after Churchill and his leaders went to Buckingham Palace to submit the list to the Privy Council. They received the seals of office and kissed the king's hand in a traditional ceremony.

The wartime prime minister, back in power after six years of Socialist government, will be minister of defense as well—in the same dual job he held during World War II.

The latest election returns, from 622 of the 625 districts, gave the Conservatives 320 seats in Commons, Labor 294, Liberals 6 and Irish Nationalists 2. Only three were undecided.

When the Churchill government starts operating next week, it is expected to make a series of bold moves intended to win economic recovery at home and peace for the world. The new Parliament will convene Nov. 6.

The opposition Labor Party at the same time found itself hopelessly divided in a struggle for power between moderate socialist Clement R. Attlee, who resigned last night after six years as prime minister, and American-baiting Anthony Eden.

The Daily Herald, organ of the party, shattered the campaign honeymoon of the factions today.

It charged that Eden's resignation from the Labor government to lead the party's rebellious left wing had wrecked Socialist chances for victory.

Retorted Eden: "I am particularly pleased with the successes of the Socialist candidate in those divisions in which I spoke during the election campaign."

The standing after 620 districts had reported was: Conservatives 319, Labor 294, Liberals 5, and Irish Nationalists 2. That gave the Conservatives a majority of 18.

Of the five districts still to report, two voted last year as Conservative, two as Labor and one Liberal. If they follow the same pattern in the current election, it would reduce the Conservative majority to 17.

However, Churchill already has indicated he may invite the Liberals into a national government, and the Irish Nationalist members traditionally refuse to take their seats. This would up Churchill's working majority to a maximum of 31.

THE NEW CABINET

Minister of Labor and National Service — Sir Walter Mockett.
Colonial Secretary — Oliver Lyttelton.

Truman Cool To Big Three Meeting Churchill Favors

By DONALD J. GONZALES
WASHINGTON (UP)—Winston Churchill will have a tough job selling President Truman on the idea of another Big Three meeting with Josef Stalin, administration sources said today.

Mr. Truman, it was said, would be receptive to any suggestions Churchill may make to take the fever out of the cold war. But he was reported to believe at the same time that failure of a Big Three meeting to solve major world problems would be more damaging than not having one.

Future world conditions will determine Mr. Truman's answer, these officials said. They thought it unlikely that such a meeting would be warranted in the foreseeable future because the Western powers are building up their military strength to do better bargaining with the Russian.

Mr. Truman feels that the United Nations still is the proper place to do business with the Russians, for several reasons:

1. Many cold war issues directly affect countries other than the United States, Britain and France. The Western coalition is more united now than ever before. Bilateral or tripartite negotiations would not be broad enough to satisfy the interests of the small powers. They would be angry at being presented with any fait accompli by the Big Three.

2. The U.N. was established to preserve world peace and has taken definite action in Korea to halt aggression. The coordinated military campaign may convince the Reds against taking military action elsewhere.

3. Mr. Truman and his cabinet constantly are faced with the "ghosts" of previous meetings between Churchill, President Roosevelt and Stalin at Yalta and Potsdam. These agreements have been distorted and junked by the Soviets. And Stalin got away with some till-embarassing concessions.

4. While Churchill was promising an effort at the Big Three talks during campaign speech, Mr. Truman was saying that agreements with the Russians aren't worth the paper they are written on.

"Now that Churchill is in power again, it is anticipated that he will seek a meeting with Mr. Truman here in the next two or three months. Personal conversations of this type would be welcomed as a valuable liaison forum, and would have to precede any Big Three conference.

Churchill's vigorous use of personal diplomacy also is expected to produce frequent trans-Atlantic telephone calls and cables of the kind he used during World War II in his relations with Mr. Roosevelt.

The success of this type of negotiation may be different now, however. Mr. Truman relies heavily on the advice of Sec. of State Dean Acheson — unlike Mr. Roosevelt's frequent short-circuiting of his secretary of state, Cordell Hull

Work On Power Lines Extension Is On Schedule

Swartz Pleased With Progress Made In Tri-County Rural Program

Progress on the extension of power lines of the Greenville Utilities in Pitt, Craven and Beaufort counties is moving along pretty much on schedule according to the reports submitted today by the project engineer and contractor.

Superintendent Martin Swartz of the utilities said he is "well pleased with the progress. Our greatest problem was where we started first on the tie line between Calico and highway 17."

Swartz emphasized the importance of people in the rural areas who would like to have electricity through the present expansion program making applications for the service. "It is too late to make application for service after the stakers have passed your house. You do not need to have your house wired for electricity, but you do need to have your application for service in."

He explained that the staking crews are unable to back-track to stake the course of lines to additional houses after the original path of the power lines has been established.

According to the report of the project engineers, during the week which ended today a total of 46 miles of lines were staked bringing the total mileage of lines staked out since work began October 8 to 121 miles. Only 80 miles of staking was scheduled to be done through today.

Released to the contractor by the engineer this week was 17 miles of the proposed line, bringing the total mileage released to the contractor to 62 miles—three miles less than scheduled. Right of way has been secured on a total of 26 miles so far, 13 miles of which was cleared this week. The right of way secured today is one mile ahead of schedule.

A total of six miles of poles have been set through today, but lagged nine miles behind the schedule which called for the completion of pole setting on 15 miles of the line through today.

Construction crews have been trimming right of way west of Winterville during the week, and crews are slated to begin setting poles in the areas south of Greenville during the coming week.

If things go according to schedule on the 243 mile expansion of rural lines by the Greenville Utilities commission, the first five miles of the line will be energized by November 26. By December 10 a total of 25 miles of the line is slated to be energized, and the entire system is to have electric service by February 25.

To date it looks like the contractor will finish on schedule or before unless we have too long a period of bad weather," Swartz said. Last Wednesday Swartz, Engineer L. E. Wooten, representatives of the R. H. Bouligny construction company and REA engineers met in Raleigh to discuss the progress on the line and iron out the difficulties which have arisen with the beginning of the construction project.

Swartz said the meeting consisted of discussing and finding the answers to all the problems which are natural to show up at the beginning of any job. He added that the RET engineers were "well pleased with the planning and coordination between the engineer, construction officials and owners of the new lines."

Tighter Grip On Dispensing Of Dangerous Drugs
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman has signed a bill giving the government a tighter grip on dispensing of dangerous drugs.

The bill signed yesterday makes it a federal offense to refill a prescription containing drugs classed as dangerous, without direct authorization by the physician who first prescribed it.

But, the Food and Drug Administration said, the bill also makes it legally permissible to refill, without the doctor's signature, prescriptions classed as simple home remedies.

It also legalizes telephoned prescriptions for all drugs, with the proviso the pharmacist must immediately put the prescription in writing and file it.

Bragg Housing Project Okayed
GREENSBORO (UP)—The Federal Housing Administration gave its okay today to a $9,191,000 housing project at Fort Bragg.

FHA Director James McRae said his office endorsed notes permitting building the 1,000 unit project. The units, planned since last summer, will be near the 1,000 units already built.

The project will have two-bedroom apartments renting from $70 up depending on the rank of the soldier occupant, and three-bedroom apartments renting up to $105 monthly. They will be for officers and GI's.

Sixty-Two Cases On Court Docket

Ten Divorce Suits And 52 Criminal Cases To Be Heard

Pitt County Superior Court will open here Monday, with 62 criminal cases and 10 divorce suits scheduled to be heard before the Hon. Q. E. Nimocks, Jr., of Fayetteville, presiding jurist.

The divorce suits will be heard Monday, and the remainder of the week will be confined to criminal cases.

The 52 case criminal docket involves a multitude of charges, but there are no capital cases on the agenda.

Court officials said today that of the 52 criminal cases, there are 16 cases of drunk driving, two carrying additional charges of speeding and reckless driving; four cases of reckless driving and speeding; five cases of breaking and entering and larceny, and four of larceny; seven cases involving charges ranging from simple assault, to assault with a deadly weapon, assault on a female, and assault with intent to kill; four violations of the motor vehicle law; two violations of the fishing law, which were appealed from magistrate's court; two cases of non-support; and one perjury, forgery, gambling, liquor, and receiving stolen property.

This is the sixth term of county court since August 20, or three years ago, since confined to civil cases, the mixed terms of civil and criminal cases, and a cancelled at the request of the clerk of the cause of an insufficient number of cases requiring trial.

General Outcry Over Vote; Police Curb Demonstrations
CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Authorities clamped a new state of emergency on Cairo today to combat threatened demonstrations against Winston Churchill.

A general public outcry, arose over Churchill's election as British prime minister. The election was regarded as a severe blow against Egypt's efforts to oust the British from the Suez Canal zone and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

The independent weekly Akhbar El Yom said if Churchill used force in Egypt, he would ignite World War III and "dig a grave for himself and his country in Egypt."

London announced that British troops shot and killed an Egyptian truck driver in the Suez Canal zone Thursday when he attempted to force a British off the road.

The Egyptian press declared unanimously that Churchill's return to power will not frighten Egypt into compromising their national demands.

"No power on earth, no matter how potent, can subject 20,000,000 people to its will or force them to be friendly without their consent," said the newspaper Al Akhram.

For the first time, it compared Egypt's battle with India's passive resistance campaign that forced the British to give that nation its independence. Egypt, likewise, has embarked on a non-cooperation program with the British.

The first official government reaction to Churchill's election came from Interior Minister Fuad Serag el-Din. He said Egypt was not interested in a change of personalities but in a change of policy.

Fuad said yesterday that Egypt was prepared to "fight to the last man" against any British armed attack.

Allied Negotiators Refuse To Bargain Over Truce Line

Winnie, 76, Is Back On Scene

Shaded line is the buffer zone across the Korean peninsula proposed by the United Nations in a give-and-take compromise. The line, which criss-crosses the current battle line (heavy black line) calls on the Allies to yield about 200 square miles of North Korea in the East, and for the Reds to give up a similar area in the West. The buffer zone would be about 2 1/2 miles wide, running from the mouth of the Yesong river in West Korea to 11 1/2 miles southeast of Kosong on the Korean east coast. It follows generally the present battle lines. (AP Wirephoto Map).

Red Jets Try Vainly To Beat Off Bombing Raid

Appear In Force For Seventh Straight Day; First Snow Of Season Falls On Eastern Front; Heavy Air Activity

TOKYO (UP)—United Nations planes damaged at least eight Communist jet fighters today in a series of air battles which raged as far south as Chinnampo, only 80 miles from the 38th Parallel.

The Reds threw 105 Russian-built MIG-15 jets against 128 U.N. jets and B-29 bombers in a vain attempt to break up Allied raids on the already badly damaged railway links between North Korea and Manchuria.

One B-29 was damaged, but landed safely at an Allied base. It was the seventh straight day of dogfights over North Korea and boosted the week's total of MIG's to 11 destroyed, five probably shot down and 26 damaged.

On the ground, U.N. troops captured a key hill mass on the southeast approach of Kumsong, former Communist central front bastion 29 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

A tank-infantry patrol simultaneously raided ruined Kumsong, now a no-man's land, and another party stabbed over the mile north of the city. Fanatically resisting Reds destroyed two U.N. tanks and damaged three others in a similar raiding force Friday.

Other 8th Army units turned back Communist probing attacks northwest of Yonchon on the western front and northwest of Yanggu on the eastern front. Those in the east were launched by up to 800 Reds.

The first snow of the season fell in the east coast mountains. Five separate air battles were reported over northwest Korea during the day.

The first was touched off by eight B-29s which dropped 1,000-pound bombs on a 1,900-foot temporary bridge near Sinanju, the main railway between Manchuria and P'yongyang.

The Communist jets tried to break through a screen of 32 American Thunderjets that set at the bombers. A few slipped through, but the scenic beauty.

There are thousands of water powers now being used every day. Most of these are operating mills of various kinds; but they are actually being converted to generate electricity which power can be transported. I, however, consider the Niagara Mohawk Power Company the prime electric power Gravity Development. This is the company which taps Niagara Falls and, supplemented by other falls and steam plants, supplies electric power to most of New York State, from Buffalo down to New York City. The stocks of this company are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The 3.90 per cent preferred pays $3.90 and sells at 96, thus yielding 4 per cent. The common pays $1.40 and sells at 25, thus yielding nearly 6 per cent. One cannot get rich quickly by buying these stocks, but if you put them away in your safety deposit box, they should gradually become more valuable and give you good dividends each year; all from GRAVITY.

GRAVITY VILLAGE, New Boston, N. H. — Readers know that I have always been interested in the Force of Gravity and its possibility for free power from which everyone could greatly benefit. Electric Power Developments
Every waterfall produces power due to gravity plus, of course, the heat of the sun which takes the water from the oceans into the clouds. The clouds eventually turn into rain and supply the water which flows over these falls. In this connection, it must be realized that this gravity pull is the same in any part of the United States as it is at Niagara Falls. If any reader has never visited Niagara, he surely should do so. At that time he should realize that only a small portion of the power is now being used. The part of the water-fall which is being used cannot be seen; while

VFW Auxiliary Make Plans For Fund Collections

The VFW Auxiliary of the Charles Gray Morgan Post No. 2683 met on Thursday night at the clubhouse. Mrs. Carrie West, president, presided.

The meeting was opened with the ritualistic service, after which the minutes were read by Mrs. Ruth Garner, secretary.

Reports were made by the chairman of the committee which was responsible for writing letters to the members of the local National Guard unit which were slated to go overseas. Several responses have been received and these were read to the club members.

The Hospital Committee chairman reported that 12 cards had been sent to veterans in the hospital in Fayetteville, and two plants had been sent to sick members of the local Auxiliary.

Mrs. West announced that the club was beginning a membership drive for this year and that the District will award a plaque to the Auxiliary securing the most new members within a limited time.

Mrs. Frances Andrews was appointed as chairman of the National Home Committee. It was announced at the last District meeting in Kinston that donations to the home in Easton Rapids, Michigan, should be turned in immediately upon collection. There are at present five North Carolina children living there, and the monies from the fund are to be used to build and equip a home for the rapidly expanding number of children who are applying for admission.

Plans for the Buddy Poppy Sale, to be held this year on November 10, were discussed and Mrs. Madeline Vincent was appointed chairman of this sale. Funds from the sale of poppies are applied to help disabled veterans, widows and children of veterans.

The business session was closed with a ritualistic service, and the hostesses, Mesdames Jeannette Waters, Zula Waters, Anabelle Averette and Ruth Williams, served refreshments.

Mrs. Galloway Hostess To Literature Dept.

The Literature Department of the Woman's Club met on Tuesday afternoon, October 23, at the home of Mrs. J. C. Galloway Sr.

Mrs. Bill Sermons and Mrs. Lloyd Mills were assisting hostesses.

The chairman, Mrs. R. P. Rogers, presided over a short business meeting at which time routine reports were heard. Mrs. Dan Vornholt made a report on the needs of the children in Korea, especially with reference to the food situation. From her talk, it was evident that there were many hungry children there and a proposal was made that the club take up a collection to be applied to this cause. A tidy sum was counted when the collection was made.

After the business session, Mrs. W. H. Woodard, who was in charge of the program for the afternoon, presented two students from the music class of Miss Gladys Ramey, members of the music department of the East Carolina College. They were Miss Marietta Hooper of Elizabeth City and George Starling of Rocky Mount, who presented a very enjoyable musical program.

The hostesses served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed before the meeting adjourned.

A Tribute To Our American Legion!

Valor, said one of the great philosophers, is something lightly remembered. Is that true here in this town? We don't think so. We remember. We remember the faces and figures of our boys who marched away for World War I—and our lads who donned uniforms for World War II. The American Legion is a fraternity of these men who, when the occasion arose, took up arms in our defense. Do they remember? Most certainly. They remember everything they and their buddies went through—and now with their regular meetings at the Post, they glory in the fact that they constitute one of the greatest, most influential forces for good in our nation. All hail our heroes who proudly wore the Blue and the Khaki!

Remind Farmers Of Scrap Needs

County officials of the Production Marketing Administration today urged farmers all over Pitt County to be especially active in the collection of scrap metal during the last half of the 1951 farm scrap drive.

The drive, which began October 15, and continues through November 15, is designed to boost steel supplies for a swiftly expanding national defense program.

Spokesmen for the drive said that it would take an estimated 60 millions of tons of scrap to make sufficient high-grade steel for use next year.

The farmers' two important responsibilities in the drive will be to gather the maximum amount of scrap, and to see that it is transported to the nearest scrap dealer.

James Meredith, secretary of the Pitt County Production and Marketing Administration, suggested that farmers search the numerous places around the farm where scrap is most likely to accumulate.

"Flow points and shares, broken machine parts, old electric wire and cable, old windmill and water tank towers which have been replaced by modern pressure systems—all these will contribute materially to the defense effort and make the Farm Scrap Drive a successful one", Meredith said.

Meredith added that scrap dealers would pay farmers the prevailing prices for scrap metal delivered.

Waterworks Securities

The most economically operated public utilities are GRAVITY WATERWORKS which supply households with water. Why? The answer is that gravity does most of the work for them by causing the water to flow through the pipes and up to your bathrooms without aid of costly power. In most water systems steam or electric power is needed first to pump the water up

'Follies' Will Assist Hospital Bed Fund

The "Follies of '51" which will be staged by the Greenville Service League in November, 20 and 21 is to raise funds for their year-long project, the Laughinghouse Hospital Bed Fund.

Shortly after the Service League formed it undertook to provide bed space in the Pitt General Hospital for those who can not afford but need hospitalization. The space was provided to offer impartially to men, women, and children, both white and colored, bed space in the local hospital.

It is the privilege of doctors in the county to recommend patients and the cases are passed upon by the League Hospital Bed Committee. Medical services are rendered the patient by the hospital staff without additional cost.

The bed is dedicated to the memory of the late Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse in grateful appreciation of his life, ideals, and work and in the acknowledgement of the leadership of his daughter, Mrs. R. C. Bokes, Jr., as the first league president.

Service League members say they are proud of the fact that the doctors have felt that the bed was needed and have called upon the league often. Since 1929 the League has cared for 228 patients and has spent a total of $7,508.61 from the bed fund.

Mrs. J. H. Thomas, League president, said the members do not measure their work in dollars and cents. "We have been able in our small way to help some less fortunate persons that they may go back into the community as healthier, normal, and happier people," she said.

In order to raise money to cover the expense of operating the bed at the hospital, the League will sponsor the "Follies of '51." "We are not asking the people of Greenville to donate money," Mrs. Thomas said, "but the members are undertaking the production of the 'Follies' and we are asking and expecting the support of all. We feel that value will be received for people's investment in the 'Follies' whether they actually take part in the production or buy a ticket."

"To all we are offering good, clean, and hilarious entertainment in exchange for support of the Laughinghouse Bed fund in order that we may not have to turn down one single worthy soul who needs our support."

Mrs. Flye Tells Of Summer Trip At Class Meet

The Lydia Wooten Class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church held its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Leon Russell.

The home was lovely throughout with attractive arrangements of fall flowers.

Mrs. W. G. Garner, the new president, presided over the business session at which time plans for the new year were made.

Mrs. Henry Martin reported that the apron sales were so close to $500 that this goal would be reached during the week. This is a project of the women of the church. Money from sales is to be divided equally among four adult classes for the new furniture.

Following the business session Mrs. Dorothy W. Johnson gave the devotional, using as her theme thoughts centering around the "Week of Prayer and Self-Denial" which is being observed in the church this week.

Mrs. C. R. Flye, in charge of the program, gave a most interesting and entertaining account of her experiences abroad this summer.

For refreshments the group was invited into the dining room where punch, ice cream sandwiches, and nuts were served.

The following were assistant hostesses: Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. A. P. Baker, Mrs. J. F. Merrill, Mrs. Bruce Hooker, Mrs. Jack Moye, and Mrs. Bill Pollard.

New Post Office And Renovated Jail For Ayden's Use

Friday 13th Was Good Day For Post Master To Ask For Expansion

By ROY HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — While some people consider Friday the 13th as unlucky, it was really one of the luckier days for the city of Ayden.

On Friday, the 13th, the old Ayden Post Office was closed and the new building and offices of a modern Post Office was opened for use by the public.

For years and years Ayden had been served by an inadequate Post Office due to the lack of space and equipment.

Now all that has changed and post master W. C. Ormond, states that for the first time since the Post Office has been in operation, it will be able to take care of the peak loads handled around Christmas and other special times.

The Post Office is located in the Roy L. Turnage Building, on Lee Street, just across from its old location.

The new building with a floor space of more than 2200 feet, is leased by the United States Government for the next ten years. All equipment and furnishings in the building are the property of the government.

The ten-man staff of the Ayden Post Office is directed by Post Master W. C. Ormond, who has been at the helm for the past ten years.

There's quite a story behind the remodeling of the local Post office and it was only by chance that the modern building, now erected, is serving as the Post Office.

It seems that Post Master Ormond had written the Post Office department, Washington, about remodeling the local office and bringing it up to the point where it could handle the needs of the public.

At the same time there was a move underway in Williamsburg, Va., by a group to remodel the Williamsburg Post Office at a cost of over $50,000.

Approval for the remodeling of the Williamsburg Post office and the Ayden Post office came about the same time.

This actually solved one of the repair problems, since with the remodeling work to be started on the Williamsburg Post Office; what was to be done with the old materials used there? Simple, they were transferred to the Ayden Post office for use.

Williamsburg was a first class post office and had a Philippine mahogany constructed front for the offices, all of which fell to Ayden.

Now Ayden sports a modern and up to date post office which any town of its size anywhere would well be proud of.

An estimated 350,000-400,000 pieces of mail are handled by the Ayden Post office in the course of one year. A total of 154.10 miles of rural customers are served by carriers working out from the local post office.

One reason for the large volume of mail service carried out by Ayden for a town its size is the fact that the Free Will Baptist Printing Office serving the entire United States is located in Ayden, and thus through the mails go the thousands of pieces of mail used over the nation by the Free Will Baptist Churches.

Mail from this small Pitt County community travels to nearly every section of the United States.

Steadily through the years the local post office has grown as shown in the following figures beginning with 1939, which give the postal receipts for the years starting with 1939:

|------|-------------|
| 1939 | $7,500.24 |
| 1940 | $7,604.34 |
| 1941 | $7,927.96 |
| 1942 | $8,170.54 |
| 1943 | $12,368.63 |
| 1944 | $14,975.13 |
| 1945 | $15,284.48 |
| 1946 | $13,191.68 |
| 1947 | $11,699.59 |
| 1948 | $13,166.12 |
| 1949 | $15,465.59 |
| 1950 | $14,853.33 |

1951 to date, for the first three quarters, receipts total $11,067.01.

Ayden changed to a second class rating in 1944 and now has a building to support it.

Post master Ormond, praised the work of his staff and especially that of a former Greenville postal employee E. L. Hill, who transferred to the Ayden Post office years ago.

It was Hill who worked out the first city delivery system for the City of Ayden and it is through his efforts that the job had become a success, Ormond stated.

When the system was first installed and had been working for only about 30 days the postal inspector arrived to check the office and he was quoted as saying that the system for the city routes was in the best shape of any office which he had checked.

The regular staff of the Ayden Post Office is as follows: Mrs. Pauline C. Taylor, senior clerk who has been working since 1943; W. C. Tripp, Clerk, 1944; Raymond G. Gaylor, classified substitute clerk, 1947; J. D. Dennis, substitute carrier, 1949; Kemp Edwards, special delivery, 1947; W. L. Lyons, rural carrier, 1930; M. C. Phillips Rural Carrier, 1917; R. L. Davis, clerk, 1938; and E. L. Hill, rural carrier and city carrier, 1922.

Policeman J. M. Whitehurst, former chief, receives a telephone call in the new offices shared by the Ayden City Police and the Highway Patrol. A complete renovation program has been carried out at the Ayden jail.

This Philippine mahogany built front at the Ayden Post Office adds greatly to the appearance to the new office. When the Williamsburg, Va., Post Office was remodeled, the old equipment used there was transferred to Ayden where it was transformed into the modern unit that it is now.

Jail Cell Repairs Cost City 'Fraction' Of Bid As Improvements Made

By ROY HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — What once was one of Ayden's sore spots so far as some people were concerned, is now another step in the past of this community.

At the August term of Superior Court last summer, the cell block of the Ayden jail was ordered not to be used until special repairs and improvements had been made so as to bring it up to a sanitary level.

The Ayden board of aldermen were a step ahead of the judge, for they had known the condition which existed and had already taken steps to remedy a situation which was the outgrowth of neglect over a period of years.

At the time the judge ordered the jail closed, replacements parts for the repairing of the unit were already ordered.

When the jail and police station came into the limelight on orders of the judge, the jail consisted of only four cells, served by one outdated toilet unit.

In addition, a coal-burning stove was the only means of heating the cement and steel cell block in the dead of winter.

A small "hole in the wall," served as the office for the law enforcement officers in the section, while the front portion of the building housed the town's sole fire truck.

When a new fire station was erected, and the fire fighting equipment housed there, the vacant space in the front part of the police station was converted into a large office space, to be used by local police officers and the Highway Patrol.

The old office space was removed and in its place two new cells installed to be used for women prisoners or mental cases if the need should arise. The other space was then turned into a locker room with modern toilet facilities.

Bids on the two new jail cells, ran to a total of $3,500, stated Superintendent of Utilities, A. W. Sawyer, and they considered that just too high. So Sawyer purchased around $300 worth of metal strips and set to work with a crew of men to build a section of jail cells, just exactly like the ones which would cost more than three thousand dollars.

The result, now the cell block had two additional cells about one sixth the cost. At a glance one can hardly tell the difference between the factory and the home made cells.

To overcome the problem of heating the cell block and police station, a modern, forced air heating unit was installed as a cost of $1,300. Not only does it heat the jail and police offices, but the town hall and the City Court room, as well.

The improvements made to the Ayden jail recently, and those which will be completed within the next month, are the first major repairs to be made since 16 years ago when new cells were added to the cell block.

All of the old cell block was re-worked and checked, with a complete new paint job over the entire building. Each cell houses two beds and are properly ventilated, along with the drinking fountain, running water and toilet unit.

Superintendent Sawyer, stated that with the exception of a few minor repairs and work here and there the remodeling of the jail should be completed within a month. Work on the new section of cell block is not yet done and several doors, painting and plastering have to be finished Sawyer stated.

New lighting fixtures for the City Hall offices are in the office, as well as a new asphalt tile floor for the city unit.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court yesterday, Judge Charles H. Wheeler found Ernest Wells, Negro, guilty of forcible trespass at the home of Catherine Redmond, Negro.

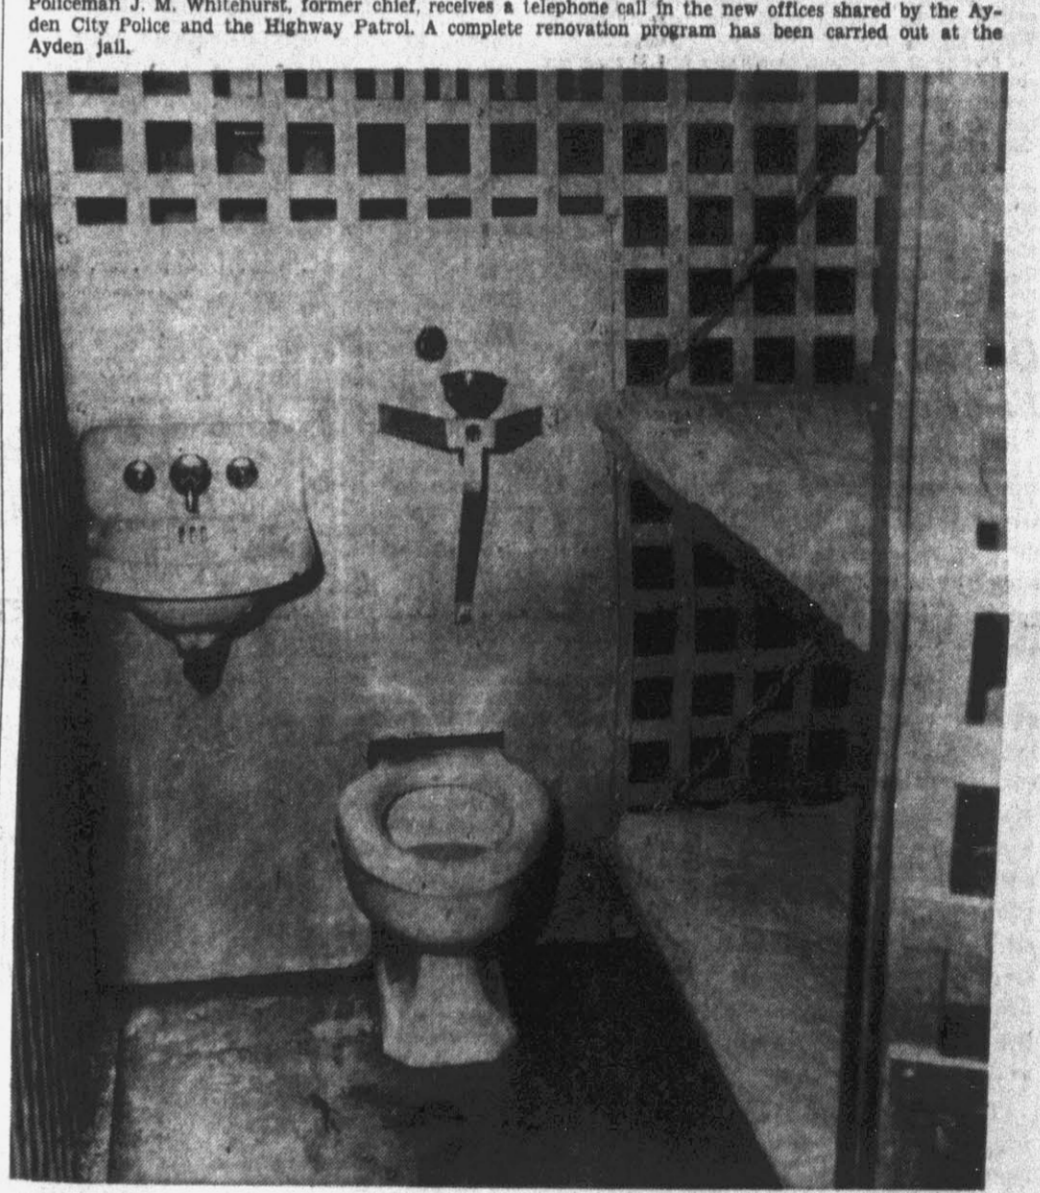

The court gave him 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $5, and Wells was ordered not to molest or harm Catherine Redmond, his sister.

John Greene, Negro, assault on a female, 60 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted, and he was ordered not to molest or interfere with Lillie Belle Streeter, Negro.

Jack Tatum, Negro, was fined $25, costs deducted, for assault on a female.

William S. Gofham, Negro, was fined $10 for being drunk.

The hare—not the rabbit—takes readily to water and one instance recorded of an animal swimming a mile in salt water.

When the Judge of Superior Court in August ordered that the Ayden jail not be used until repairs were made, the town board got together in a hurry and laid plans for remodeling the unit. As a result, two new cells were installed in the plant built by the city at a saving of around $2,800 and the cells and building brought up to specifications.

Added space in the new Post Office means a greater number of city delivery boxes, which could be installed as can be seen above. The entire Ayden Post Office is modern and up to date in every way.

This inside view shows the remodeled cells in the Ayden city jail cell block. Prior to the remodeling program, one toilet served the entire four-section cell, now there is a separate toilet in each cell, running water and a drinking fountain.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
SILENCE IS GOLDEN
In a civilization which seems to get noisier year by year, we all ought to reflect occasionally on the value of silence. Our homes are penetrated by radio and television; our public places are likely to resound with amplified advertising along with more insidious clamor. Even small communities enjoying their remoteness from the noise of the railroad now sometimes suffer a worse disturbance from low-flying airplanes.

Yet with all this noise increasing, we all know very well the soothing and recuperative effect of silence on the human mind and nervous system. Where can we find silence?

One place we should be able to find it is in our churches. The Psalms tell us more than once to "worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness," and the sanctity of true holiness is best expressed in stillness: "Be still, and know that I am God."

And when we speak to God in prayer, whether in church or in our home, it should be in an atmosphere of silence. Remember the story of Elijah, who, waiting for God, heard first the rushing of a great wind, then the rumbling of an earthquake, and then the roaring of a fire. But, the Bible tells us, God was not in any of these—and then finally, "after the fire a still small voice." That was God.

Do Not Lose Sight Of The Priority System For Streets

Now that the contracts have been let for the spending of the first portion of Greenville's Powell Bill funds, the aldermen must be more careful than ever to stick by their "priority system" which is to govern the expenditure of the state funds allotted to Greenville for its streets.

With the paving and improvement program actually under way rather than in just the planning stages, it is quite likely that the aldermen will be besieged with many more requests from citizens who would like the city to pay one-third of the cost of paving on streets adjacent to their property. According to the resolution passed by the aldermen, the city will pay one-third of the cost of surfacing streets which are given "priority" by the city, provided the property owners will pay the other two-thirds of the cost.

Theoretically that is the way all the paving within the city is to be done, but in recent years, the city has had no funds which could be applied to non-paving, so the property owners have been bearing the full burden. In view of the resolution passed by the board concerning the expenditure of the Powell bill funds, the property owners will continue to bear the full cost of paving done on non-priority streets.

The city officials must be on their guard to see that they do not get pressured into applying Powell bill funds to streets which are not strategic in the city's traffic movement. As always when there is "free money" to be used, there are a good many people who would like to help plan the use of the money to their own advantage. The same reaction may be with respect to the Powell bill funds of Greenville.

The aldermen, however, must see that the funds are spent where they will do most good for the people of Greenville as a whole—not where the money will be the most beneficial to the interest of a few of the city's citizens.

Don't Throw It All Away Foolishly

Pitt County has just entered its flush season of the year when the dollars are more plentiful than ever before. Reports yesterday from local banks show the highest peak in bank deposits in history.

With much tobacco still to be sold and with the county's large cotton crop yet to be disposed of, several more millions of dollars should get into the hands of our farmers before the marketing season ends.

Too often in times of prosperity our people are prone to go on a spending spree with the result that before many months are past they are borrowing against another crop. It is to be hoped that the great majority of our people who are now handling more money than ever before will use some of it to get out of debt, if they have obligations, and put aside some of the balance for the dull months that will precede the harvesting of another crop.

No one can foresee just what the coming months and years hold for our section from a financial standpoint and those persons who have a nest-egg in the form of a bank account or government bonds will be in better position to weather the storm of another business recession or depression should one come.

Another Bogey-Man Or A Real Danger?

Government by propaganda is just another bogey-man raised by administration critics... or is it?

On recalling requests for millions of dollars from congress by branches of the government and various agencies for their "information services" the reality of such a design takes shape.

The Office of Price Stabilization alone sought over $3 millions which would hike its publicity staff to 400 persons, including 100 in Washington. That is an amazing amount of money and an amazing number of people for the spreading of information... the more so, when legitimate news-gathering agencies anxiously devote their own money and personnel to the gathering of such information and distributing it to the public.

The OPS is just one of many federal agencies with public information services, all with an eye toward expansion, if at all possible.

This tendency towards big staffs of information specialists can be frankly regarded as organs for the presenting of a desired aspect, or the "administration's side" in matters of a controversial nature. That's propaganda, pure and simple.

When squads of government employees, biased to begin with, equipped with statistics and cleverly prepared arguments, are sent out to the listener's and reader's expense to propound their propaganda... then it is that fair questions cannot be given an honest appraisal.

News Behind The News

Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of a general nature on national politics and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—Although a Senate first-termer, Senator "Joe" McCarthy of Wisconsin has certainly become the most controversial and discussed figure in national politics, judging from my recent mail. Incidentally, my correspondence runs largely in his favor, despite some criticism of his methods.

"Are the methods and manners which you and others complain about," asks C.J.W. of Seattle, referring to a recent column of mine, "any worse than those of the President himself? And isn't it far more important that the President of the United States be circumspect in these matters than it is for a Senator?"

POPPYCOCK—C.J.W. and R.H.W. of Santa Ana, Cal., who was a member of Air Counter Intelligence during the recent war, make the point that Senator McCarthy has done great service by awakening the people to Communist influence and personalities in key posts at Washington. Writing in this same vein, others argue that his constructive accomplishments outweigh his methods.

First, let me say that I have not "complained about" or "smeared" Senator McCarthy. I have simply reported that many people believe that he has frequently "gone beyond the bounds of good taste, fairness and decency." To question the existence of such an attitude toward him is to say that two and two do not make four.

In fact, charges that he is a "character assassin," and that he is destroying faith in our government and our elected or appointed rulers, is historical poppycock. It requires long residence and observation in this turbulent and temperamental Capital to give one a proper perspective on the relative and evanescent nature of political name-calling.

CORRUPTION—When I came to Washington in the midst of the Teapot Domes scandal in 1924, the Republicans were under attack on Capitol Hill by such eminent Senators as the late Tom Walsh of Montana, "Old Bob" LaFollette of Wisconsin, Burt Wheeler of Montana, Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Carter Glass of Virginia, such Progressives as "Bill" Borah and "Hi" Johnson were also expressing their disgust with official corruption.

As the Truman Democrats now proclaim, the Republican reply was that they were as "pure as the driven snow," and "clean as a hound's tooth." They at first resisted Congressional demands for the Teapot Domes, Daugherty, Veterans Administration and Alien Property Investigations.

White House spokesmen, partisan newspapers and their Capitol Hill allies denounced their critics more bitterly and violently than Mr. McCarthy has been assailed.

OVERSTATEMENT—The Democrats, according to the beleaguered G.O.P.-ers, were "character assassins," "mudgunners," "domestic traitors," "prophets of doom" and, of course, "enemies of the country." These are only a few of the old headlines I find in my files.

The explanation for current explosions at Washington is that we are entering a presidential campaign in which the G.O.P. will try desperately to end their 20-year exile from the White House, with the Democrats in an Alamo mood. The scrap, however, has started earlier than usual, and will probably be the most vicious since the Hoover-Smith duel of 1928.

Seen in this light, the pro-McCarthy eulogies and the anti-McCarthy tirades are only a passing political phenomenon.

I like Senator Taft's latest comment on "McCarthyism." The Republicans' only avowed presidential candidate believes that the Wisconsin Senator sometimes "overstates" his case, but he suggests that there are times when "overstatement" is necessary in order to attract and awaken public interest.

EXPENSES—H.R.J. of Long Beach, Cal. would like to know who "paid the travel expenses of 'Dear Alben' and two Cabinet members, who attended the State Democratic Committee's love feast in Los Angeles a few days ago, when Bill Boyle and all other good Democrats were unreservedly approved?"

Answer: When the "Veep," Cabinet members or high officials attend purely political affairs, their principal expenses are supposed to be paid by the Democratic National Committee, or by local politicians. However, they are frequently underwritten by the taxpayers.

It is not difficult for Secretaries Brannan, Chapman or Tobin, for instance, to find that official business requires them to be in a state or city where party patriots have planned a celebration. Or they may persuade themselves that their remarks before fellow-Democrats are "in the public interest and in discharge of their duties." So persuaded, they charge the expenditure to the departmental account.

I might add that Truman Democrats are not the only offenders in this respect. It is an old Washington custom.

On Again, Off Again

Somebody Told Me

By J. J. (Jack) EDWARDS

If you read this thing regularly, you realize that every now and then I get in the mood to preach a sermon. Today is one of those occasions, and my target is a certain group of Greenville businessmen.

The group consists of those who say, "Greenville is a three-months town. There's no business except during the tobacco season." Others say, "What we need here is industry."

Now is the perfect time for me to talk to these businessmen, because business is booming! Every merchant should be happy. To reveal my point in one sentence: What could be a better industry to have than the tobacco industry?

It happens every year. The merchants are happy around the time tobacco money is in circulation. Then, business in Greenville lets down. The merchants who are smart take off for Florida, or cut their working schedule down during the slack seasons. Others are so hepped up by the business boom that they stand around the rest of the year crying about how bad business is. If we can prosper in Greenville, and plenty of people do, let's take advantage of the fact that we have months that are free from the grind of business.

The pace of living in this world is getting faster, and faster, and more and more people are getting stomach ulcers. More and more are dying of heart attacks.

With the pace becoming faster and faster, we need plenty of slack season that allow us time to be relieved of the pressure the busy season brings.

Another point should be made. The hospitals that specialize in treating patients with nervous disorders are packed and jammed. The way to keep away from such hospitals is to take it easy. There is one merchant in Greenville who could probably double his business if he employed outside salesmen. One day I asked him why he doesn't. "I don't want to do any more business. Of course don't misunderstand me. I appreciate the patronage I get. But what's the point in getting more when it causes so much worry that it drives you to the grave?"

Not only that, but it's not profitable. When you make so much money, the percentage of take from income taxes makes it unprofitable.

This is a sermon that I have preached to you and to myself. Frankly, I'm a businessman who hustles every month of the year to do a good job. And I think it's better to confine hustling to a few months. Now all I have to do is heed my own sermon. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

GOVERNORSHIP—The situation with respect to probable candidates for governor next year gets more confused every day. William B. Umstead of Durham is presently the only announced candidate. He has been campaigning for months and there are many astute political observers willing to say they think he will win the nomination without really serious opposition, though not without formality of going through a primary. That opinion is based upon knowledge of the fact that the Scott faction in the party has apparently not been able to find a candidate with reasonable chance of defeating the Durham man. There has even been suggestion that Governor Scott would wind up in the Umstead camp, making his nomination practically certain.

QUESTIONED—Developments of the past few days serve to question the probability that Umstead will win without a real contest. These developments also raise the question of how much influence Kerr Scott has with the so-called "liberal" element in the party. Here are some of the things which have happened and which may have considerable effect in the 1952 primary elections. Before going into that, let's backtrack a little bit.

STRATEGY—Governor Scott has often referred to his election in 1948 as a political revolution in North Carolina, implying that he and his associates had taken over control of state politics. He named his campaign manager, Capus Waynick, as state Democratic chairman, and his friend, Jonathan Daniels, as national committeeman. He appointed Frank Graham as United States senator. For a time it looked like he and his group had taken over. Then Waynick resigned as state chairman to go into diplomatic service. Frank Graham was defeated in a senatorial primary, and not much has been heard for a year or so from Daniels as national committeeman. That left Scott somewhat alone to maintain the prestige of the outfit. His strategy was to find a candidate for governor who would carry on his policies, and he let it be known he was not himself averse to running for lieutenant governor.

CROWN PRINCE—He found some difficulty in getting a crown prince upon whom he could place his mantle of government philosophy. His first choice was Capus Waynick, and he said he would take pleasure in supporting his former campaign manager and state chairman. Waynick surveyed the field and announced his purpose to stay with the diplomatic service. Then the governor said he would support Henry Jordan, chairman of the highway commission. Because of various conflicting circumstances the Jordan balloon did not get very high. Then commitment from either side but with common understanding of mutual support, Hubert Olive got into the picture. Popular reaction was not enthusiastic. Apparently nobody dislikes Olive, but few people evidenced any special desire to have him as governor. There was some talk about George Coble of Lexington, highway commissioner for the sixth division; that didn't click very loudly—though it remains a possibility. Harry B. Caldwell, master of the State Grange, has been marked off as a prospective candidate. INDEPENDENTS—Meantime there was sentiment for some other candidates, more on geographic and personal lines than because of political philosophy. These included Sam J. Ervin, Jr., of Morganton, associate justice of the supreme court, and Brandon P. Hodges of Asheville, State treasurer. The Ervin boom failed to make a real impress upon the situation. Hodges is still a probability, because he is the only prospective candidate from the far west. All along some of the Scott folks have been urging one or both of these men to get into the running with obvious hope of splitting the Umstead vote. Hodges stays in the list because of his geographic claim, plus his personal following and the support he is getting as a potential candidate—from those who want to split the conservative vote.

WAYNICK—There is not too remote possibility that Capus Waynick might come back into the gubernatorial race on his own. Persons close to him say that he feels keenly he did not get the backing he felt he was entitled to for his earlier "feelers" in this connection, but that rescind his statement taking himself out of the contest. Organized labor is particularly vocal in that attitude, and there is possibility of developments after the CIO political action committee meeting this weekend, at which Waynick and Governor Scott are billed for major speeches.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

This Talk About "Democracy" From The Terry County Herald (Brownfield, Texas)

We Americans have gotten into the habit of calling our nation a democracy, in speaking of the self-governing people of the democratic nations. Even Joe Stalin calls his godless nation a democracy. We are really glad that our nation is not a democracy, but a republic. Yeah, we talk about "making the world safe for democracy." Do we mean the kind they have in the USSR? If you have any notion the USA is a democracy, better dust off some of your old US histories that has a copy of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. Take a look at Article IV, section 4, which says, "The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government," etc. Now smart men say both a republic and a democracy may be a representative form of government, but a republic is limited and restricted democracy. One difference is in the degree of majority rule; the republic is restricted, the Bill of Rights restricts the power of the representatives in this nation, along with executive and legal sections. They are denied the privilege of abridging the freedom of speech, right of assembly, press and a trial by jury; against unreasonable searches and seizures and other individual rights, no matter how big the majority opposed to such individual rights. Under a democracy such as the Kremlin claims, there is no such thing as individual rights against the rule of the majority. Democracy might mean unrestricted majority rule, which our Constitution carefully prohibits. Thus the Declaration of Independence points out that "all men are created equal." But this may go even deeper than the basic laws of our land, and take in the Christian concept of the Golden Rule. So, let's talk less about our democracy and more about our republic and the flag for which we stand.

Business Today

The adjournment of Congress has left the present price control law as is, but the Administration is expected to see changes designed to strengthen the control measure when the legislators return to Washington in January.

Chief bugaboo of the price controllers is the Capehart amendment which permits manufacturers and processors to pass on all increases in costs between June 25, 1950 (when the Korean war started) and July 26, 1951. The Capehart amendment was enacted into the old control law when the old law expired last July. It was immediately assailed by the Administration as workable, but its backers charge the Office of Price Stabilization hasn't tried to enforce it anyway.

The Senate has acted to limit the amount of post-Korea cost increases incurred by manufacturers that may be passed on, but the House Rules Committee voted to delay any consideration until January.

The Administration has served notice it will seek three other changes in the law: It wants to eliminate the present guarantee that wholesalers and retailers must get their normal percentage profit margins, it wants to restore slaughtering quotas as an aid to meat price controls, it wants repealed present inflexible import restrictions on fats, oils and dairy products.

You can bet it will get none of these changes easily, if at all. Each is opposed by an important economic bloc. For their part, the large retailers organized in the National Retail Dry Goods Association have filed strong opposition to the proposed change in the guarantee of normal percentage profit margins. NRDA's argument is that price controls must be based on ceilings at all levels and on all cost factors, and if such overall controls are enforced, percentage margins cannot be inflationary for the margins will be stabilized. But if other costs mount while retail prices are rigidly controlled, retailers' net profits will quickly disappear, says NRDA. As it is, NRDA complains, operating costs are rising even faster than the expense ratio envisioned in the present normal percentage markup.

The new battle over price controls may seem academic when many items are selling below present price ceilings, and not moving very fast at that. But is convinced that there may be resurgence of inflation. Inflation and certainly there is some tendency in the hard goods field for prices to move up, as indicated by the very recent, if small, boosts on several makes of refrigerators, television sets and a few small appliances.

TREND IN LAWS TO CLARIFY EMPLOYEE PROBLEMS

A trend toward clarification of employer-employee problems is evident in new state laws this year. Commerce Clearing House changes in wage and hour regulations, OCH reports after a nationwide survey, but another significant tendency is to increase financial and physical protection for workers. There also has been a strengthening of anti-discrimination laws now in effect in nine states, some of which, in addition to race, color and creed, prohibit refusal to hire because of age, physical handicap or status as veteran, draftee or reservist.

HAVING TROUBLE HIRING OFFICE HELP?

It's getting pretty hard to find competent secretaries because of competition of war-plane jobs, office managers reported at an American Management conference in New York recently. Executives were advised to see whether they can increase efficiency of present staffs and procedures before trying to hire new help at this time.

THE OLD PROMOTER FINDS SILVER LINING IN TAX LAW

"That's not a bad tax law at all Congress just passed," the Old Promoter commented the other day, easing himself into the guest chair.

"Well, you're the first person we've encountered who does not have a squawk about it," we said with an appropriate display of surprise.

"Yep. They increased the excise tax on cigarettes but not on cigars," the O.P. explained. "That saves you plenty."

"Not as much as we'd save by not giving you cigars at all," we retorted. "But have one, it isn't every day Congress overlooks an item that could be taxed further."

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—Europeans are firmly convinced that American wives are the world's most spoiled women.

But it seems to me that recently there has been a trend here in the other direction. Many American wives, tired of being spoiled themselves, want to spoil somebody else—usually the men in their lives.

How do you spoil a husband? Some wives are at a loss as to just how to go about it. They have forgotten the technique; it has been so long since they used it.

There is a right way and a wrong way. An example of the wrong way is the wife who wearsied of hearing her husband complain of his dish wiping chores and hit upon this solution: "I'll surprise him by buying him an electric dishwasher."

That only gave him a new problem—how to pay for the new dishwasher. The first thing a wife must do if she wants to spoil her husband is to cut down the number of his problems.

When he comes home at the end of the day, lady, don't burst into a long tirade about your own vexations. Just be standing there in the open door, patiently holding his slippers in your mouth. Then pat him on his bald spot and say—first taking the slippers out of your mouth, of course—"Now you just sit down and rest, honey. Read your newspaper a while. Never mind cooking dinner tonight—I'll do it myself for a change."

If you've had a lot of household troubles, make light of them. Say merry things to him, such as: "Well, the new maid bit me today, dear, and you should see the look on her face when I bit her right back. Ha, ha!"

Your little man has spent the whole day trying to avoid making decisions at his office. So don't force him to make decisions in his own home.

Are you going out for dinner? Don't say, "Why is it you never can make up my mind what restaurant we want to go to?" He knows that if he named twenty-nine different restaurants, as usual, you would decide to go to thirty. Tell him, "Big boy, I've always wanted to take you to the Chez Nous Choppery, and that's where we're going."

When it's time to leave, don't stand by the door like a horse waiting to be harnessed. Get your own coat out of the closet and put it on all by yourself, for a change. And don't give him a glare if he's slow to open the door. Reach out, grab the knob firmly, and open the door yourself. You'd be surprised at the power you have in your strong womanly hands.

That's the basic principle, if you want to spoil your husband. Start doing for yourself again all the small things you have been forcing him to do as duties all the years of your wedded life. Go even further—light up his cigarette once in a while.

One thing more. Husbands like to be courted. They are always saying to themselves: "My wife takes me for granted. I know she loves me, but she never tells me so any more." So tell the big lug. Write little love notes and hide them in his pockets. It cheers him when he pulls out a handkerchief at his office and finds in it a note saying, "I always did like the way your nostrils flare, Oswald. It will go right into the men's room and flare his nostrils at himself in the mirror for half an hour, thrilled to the soul that you remembered."

That's all there is to it, lady. Just make him feel important. And the more you spoil him the more your dream boy will want to spoil you, too. That'll be your reward—he'll start courting you all over again, and mean it.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Uncle Sam's best seller, "Infant Care," the 20-cent volume which has served as a bible for mothers all over the world, has been revised for the ninth time.

Published by the U. S. Children's Bureau since 1914, "Infant Care" has grown to a distribution of more than 26 million copies and has been translated into eight languages.

The 1961 edition, like its predecessors, is an attempt by the Children's Bureau to bring together the "best known and most widely accepted modern ideas about what is good for children from birth to their first birthday." Doctors, nurses, psychiatrists, nutritionists, social workers and parents were consulted in its preparation.

How attitudes have changed is reflected in the advice given today as compared with advice given in the 1914 edition on thumb-sucking. In 1914 mothers were advised to pin the sleeve of the baby's jacket over the "fingers of the offending hand for several days and nights" to stop the habit. The new edition says "sucking is the first way a baby gets pleasure. Sucking is a poor substitute for being held, or talked to, or fed; but it is better than nothing."

The thinking is also reversed on picking up the baby. The new edition says: "About the first way you can be of use to your baby is by holding him closely and smiling at him." It advises you to "hold him all you like."

The 1914 edition advised parents to feed their infants at regular three-hour intervals. The new edition says that it is wise to let a baby have the chance to develop "a feeding rhythm of his own."

The 1914 booklet advised breast feeding. The 1961 edition says: "Whether your baby is nursed at the breast or fed from a bottle, your concern will be to see that he gets enough food of the right kind. It is the spirit in which you feed your baby that counts, rather than the particular kind of milk he gets."

The new edition, written in simple, stated, folksy style, takes up new theories on toilet-training, self-feeding, clothing and baby-sitting and recommends that mothers take "time off" as it is "good for your baby to learn that he can be independent of you and still be happy."

Yugoslavs Near Deal With U. S. For More Arms

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States and Yugoslavia soon will sign a formal agreement providing shipments of modern American weapons, to Marshal Tito's Communist but anti-Russian nation.

Informed sources said only a few minor technical details remain before the United States makes its first agreement since the end of World War II to supply a Communist country with weapons.

Tito at first did not want U.S. military aid, these sources said, because he opposed an American military mission a free hand throughout Yugoslavia. However, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff who recently visited Belgrade, was reported to have assured the marshal that the mission would confine its activities to the Belgrade area.

EVEN IN PERU
LIMA, Peru (UP)—Police picked up an eight-year-old runaway boy yesterday. He said his name was Henry Truman and he was looking for brightly colored fish in a nearby lagoon.

Portrait of a Soul

Did you think a soul was invisible? Did you even suspect that it was a theological concept that only ministers could understand?

Well, look into this boy's eyes! Do you see happiness... the certainty that life is full of beauty and truth? Do you see hope... the assurance that every tomorrow will be better than every today? Do you see courage... the fortitude that will look through defeat to victory? Do you see faith... the confidence that God hears, and knows, and cares, and helps?

You're looking into a soul! You're seeing the spark of Himself which God has put into every one of us. And you're seeing it still unblemished by the cares and disappointments of life.

You can see a soul through your own child's eyes. But unless you give that soul a chance to grow up with the body and mind that possess it... soon you'll no longer see it in your child's eyes... and perhaps, someday, you'll no longer see it in life.

The Church, through careful religious education, develops that spiritual inner-being which we call the soul. Your child deserves the advantage of the Church's instruction. And, in church worship, you will rediscover the beauty and strength of your own soul.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

New Bern Tops Greenville 7-2 In Homecoming Contest

Phants Score On Safety By Tindal

Greenville Tackle Blocks Punt In Last Quarter For Automatic Safety; Billy Boyd Scores New Bern Touchdown

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Writer

A determined bid was cut short by the final whistle last night and Greenville lost what was probably its hardest fought game of the year to a good New Bern team, by the slim and unusual score of 7-2.

With less than a minute to go in the contest, big tackle Bob Tindal pushed through the Bear offensive line and blocked a kick by Ken Vernelson on the New Bern 17 yard line. The ball rolled into the end zone for an automatic safety for Greenville, with the Phantoms getting another chance as New Bern kicked off.

Sid Briley carried the kick back to the Bear 45 before he was stopped. Three passes were incomplete and on fourth down the whistle sounded before he could attempt another.

New Bern took the lead soon after the third quarter opened. After an exchange of fumbles after the opening kick-off, the Bears got the ball on their own 32 yard marker. Two running plays by Lee Atkinson and Billy Boyd carried the ball to the 43 for a first down. Ken Vernelson and Dick Wade combined to pick up another first down in three plays, going down to the Greenville 45.

Vernelson, who almost was a one man backfield all night, picked another first on a 16 yard jaunt off right tackle, going to the 26. In four straight plays, Vernelson carried to the 19. Quarterback Dick Wade took command then and faded back to pass.

Wade's pass was taken in by halfback Billy Boyd, who was standing in the clear on the 10. He shook off two tacklers, jumped away from another, and went over for the touchdown, ending a drive that covered 68 yards. Vernelson converted to give New Bern a 7-0 lead with approximately seven minutes left in the quarter.

Greenville, who had been favored to win in some quarters, threatened to score the first time that it got the ball. New Bern kicked off to start the game. Briley took the kick on his own 15 and returned to the 16. Three running plays netted 1-2 yards to the 44, and on fourth down, Briley gambled on a quarterback sneak and picked up the first down.

Four ground plays took the ball to the 35, where Greenville was penalized 15 yards for offensive holding, placing them back to the 48. Doug Morgan then took a handoff from Briley and passed to end Joe Rowland, who picked up 17 yards back to the 35 of New Bern. A few minutes later, with the ball on the 17 yard line, fullback Guy Smith fumbled and New Bern's big tackle, Bill Koonce, bounced upon it for the Bears.

New Bern was forced to kick a few minutes later and the Phantoms took over once again, this time on their own 39. On the first play from scrimmage, Glenn Scott, who has been out with an injured knee, went over left tackle, broke into the clear. For a second it looked as if he would go all the way for a Greenville touchdown, but he was pulled down from behind on the New Bern 21 by that boy Vernelson.

Bob Perry took it around right end for 12 yards before he was stopped by Koonce on the 9 yard line. Perry injured his shoulder on the play and was taken out of the game. The Greenville star did not re-enter the contest, and from that point, the Phantom offense seemed to bog down. Morgan and Scott took the ball to the one yard line in three plays, and then with fourth down and goal to go, Briley was stopped for no gain. The ball went over and the threat was ended.

Greenville's only score came about in an unorthodox manner. Dick Wade intercepted a Briley pass on his own 20 to stop another Phantom threat and carried out to the 28. Two plays carried up to the 32 and then the Bears were penalized back to their own 17 for offensive holding. Vernelson was forced to kick two plays later. Tindal, who had missed practice all the week with an upset stomach, did not show any lack of conditioning as he pounced through the center of the New Bern line and blocked the kick before the Bear star could get it off. In the mad scramble that followed, no one could get his hands on the ball and it rolled calmly into the end zone for a safety.

The defeat was a hard one to take, even harder than the ones preceding it, for the Greenville squad. They had worked hard during the past week in preparation for the game, and were expecting to win this last home game. Earlier in the week, Coach Bill Kittrell announced that the team wanted to win the contest "for the home town people who have given us their support all through the year."

One thing can be said in passing, for the Phantoms, they were really trying. Time after time, with all the odds stacked against them, they gambled for that extra yardage on fourth down, even in their own territory.

Tindal, Wilton McLawhorn, who almost blocked another punt and did force Vernelson to kick for a net gain of 1 yard, Jimmy Cheatham, and Fletcher Murray were the outstanding defensive players. For New Bern, their right tackle, Bill Koonce, came through with the excellent game that was predicted for him.

The Phantoms now have only two more games left on the 1951 schedule, a return match with Camp Lejeune next week, and a conference game in Roanoke Rapids on November 2.

Lenoir Rhyne Favored Over East Carolina In Loop Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three games tonight are on the North State Conference football card.

Elon and Western Carolina clash at Reidsville, Catawba takes on Virginia Military Institute in a homecoming game, and Lenoir Rhyne will be at East Carolina.

The Elon-Western Carolina battle will be the first taste of collegiate football for Reidsville in many years. Elon, with three triumphs, will be without the service of end Bob Lewis, but is still rated a top-heavy favorite.

In the other conference game, the highly-regarded Lenoir Rhyne Bears are expected to have a fairly easy time of it against East Carolina. Still, the Bears can remember last year when the Pirates handed them a stunning 27-19 upset.

Catawba and VMI each have won three games in their six-game series, but it will be the first time the Virginians have met the Indians at Salisbury.

Appalachian edged Tampa University, 14-13, in a tight one at Tampa last night. The Aps scored two touchdowns in the first half and then held on for dear life the rest of the way.

Coaches For '52 Grid Game Picked

DURHAM—(AP)—A meeting of the North Carolina High School Coaches Association was held at Duke University today to trim the list of coaches nominated for the 1952 All-State football game.

Seventy-four coaches have been nominated for the four coaching assignments. The list was to be narrowed to 10 candidates at today's meeting.

High school coaches throughout the state will make the final selection of two coaches for the East and two for the West.

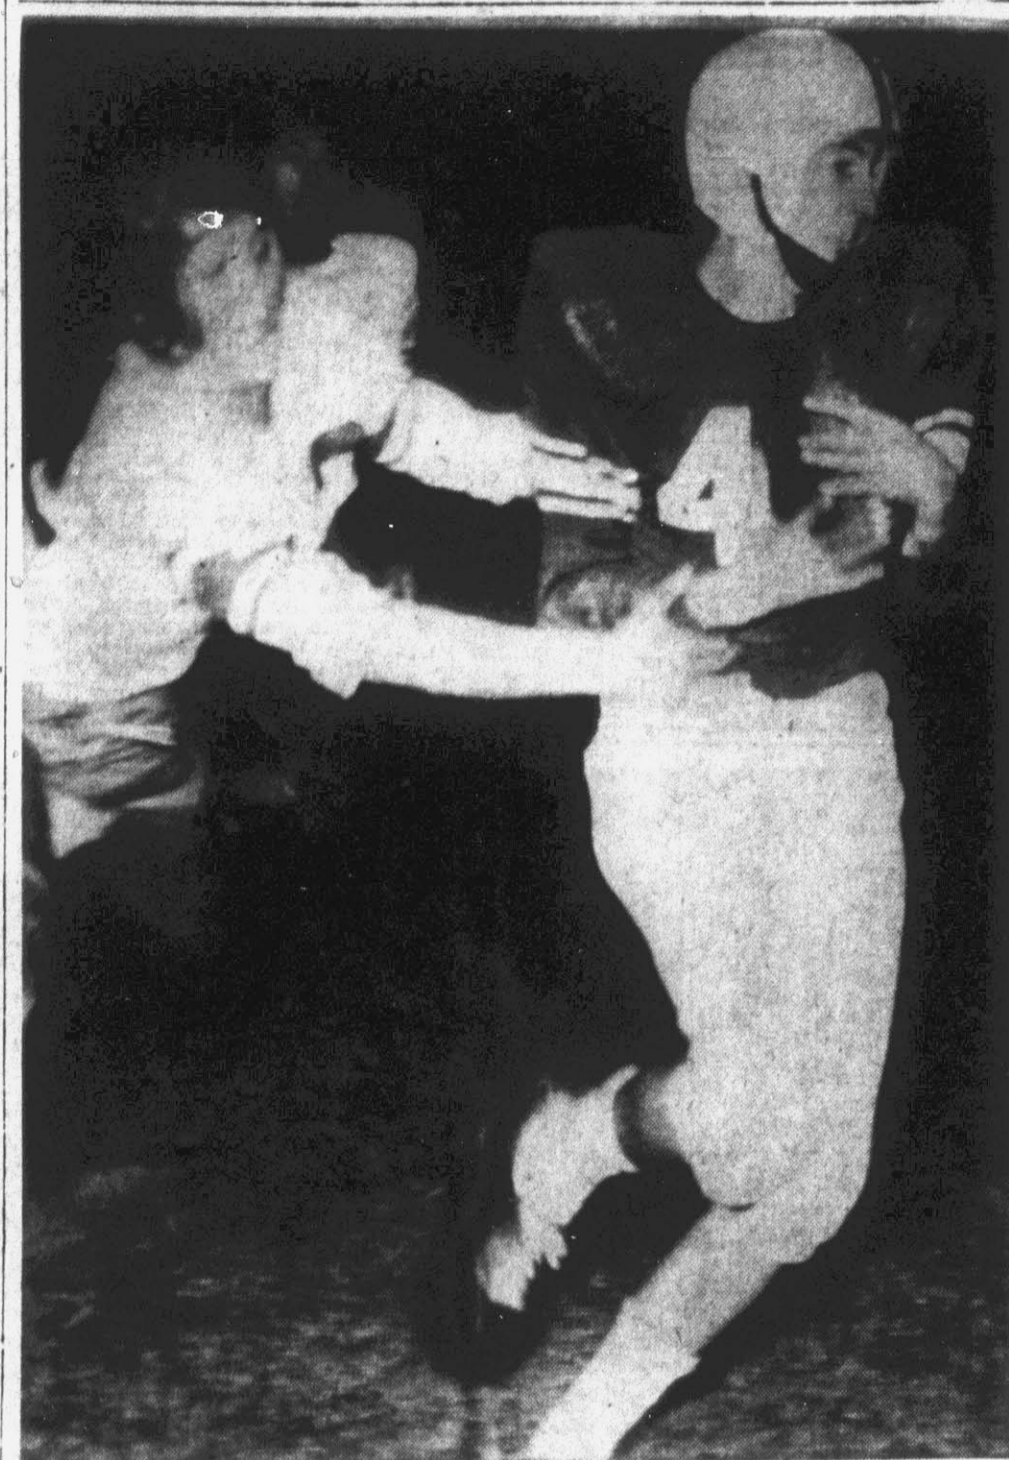

STATE WINS
WILLIAMSBURG, Va.—(AP)—The North Carolina State cross country team crushed William and Mary here yesterday, 15-52.

Garrison, Sawyer, Shockley and Smith, all of State, finished the race in a four-way tie for first place. Their time was 25:09.8. Munger, in seventh place, was the first William and Mary runner to finish.

DUKE BEATEN
COLLEGE PARK, Md.—(AP)—The University of Maryland swamped Duke University, 15-55, here yesterday for its 30th straight cross country meet victory.

Seven Maryland runners tied for first place with a time of 20 minutes and 42 seconds over the four-mile course.

An English friar, Roger Bacon, and a German monk, Berthold Schwartz, both living in the 14th Century, have both been credited with the accidental discovery of gunpowder.

Tornadoes Score In Second Half To Win

Marciano Knocks Out Louis In 8th

NEW YORK—(AP)—Joe Louis is through. Boxing has a new idol today in Rocky Marciano.

It's the old story of the ring. Youth must be served. At 2:36 of the eighth round in Madison Square Garden last night, the old Brown Bomber was stretched on his back on the apron of the ring in a pathetic finish to one of the most fabulous stories in all sports.

Today 27-year-old Rocky, a one-time soldier, shoemaker, and ditch-digger with little more than three years of professional fighting, was the toast of the town, the man of the hour.

The big brass of the International Boxing Club will sit down today with Rocky—born Rocco Marchegiano on Sept. 1, 1924—and discuss plans for the new young tiger of the ring.

He'll be offered a shot at Ezzard Charles, the ex-champion, for February or March and a possible title bout with Jersey Joe Walcott next summer.

Louis was an old man of the ring at 37 1-2 years. It's the end of the long trail—a trail that began 17 years ago and brought him to the world's heavyweight championship and ring earnings of more than $4,500,000. Now the road turns.

It was only the third loss in Joe's 71-bout career and the second knockout. He was kayoed in 12 by Max Schmeling in 1936.

For his victory, Marciano collected his biggest payday, about $44,000. Louis received about $132,000. Rocky got 15 per cent of the net gate and of the $185,000 radio-TV receipts.

Joe said he'd wait until Monday to make a decision about his fighting future.

"I don't want to make a hasty decision," he said through puffing lips in his dressing room.

He doesn't have to say it. The crowd of 17,241 (gross gate $152,845) in the Garden and the 50 million or more others who watched via a coast-to-coast telecast, knew the answer.

Now the talk is all Rocky, the new wow of boxing, the hit of television. Thirty-eight fights, 38 victories, 33 knockouts—almost a carbon copy of the string hung up by the once magnificent Brown Bomber.

And Rocky tore a page out of Louis' book in writing finish to it. He belted the halting Joe with rights to the kidneys to take the drive out of his legs, he rushed him until the Bomber was befuddled and he finished him with the fury of the Louis of old.

Leading on the scorecards of all three officials going into the eighth round, the swarthy, 26-year-old Brockton (Mass.) belter, tore out of his corner with the advice of trainer Charley Goldman ringing in his ears:

Appalachian Gets Upset Victory In Game With Tampa

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—The Appalachian State Mountaineers took a two-touchdown first half lead and then held on for dear life to score a 14-13 upset victory over Tampa here last night.

Appalachian's first touchdown came in the opening period off Quarterback Alvin Hooks' sneaked over from the one after a drive of 46 yards.

Shirley Gabriel ran a second-quarter punt back 70 yards for the visitors' second tally. Jack Groce made good on both conversion attempts.

Tampa came roaring back in the second half and made two sustained drives pay off in touchdowns. Holland Aplin missed his first try for extra point, which meant the difference.

Whitehurst Scores On 34 Yard Pass Play In Third Quarter And Hal Edwards Goes Over From 12 For Final Touchdown; Ayden Defense Stars

By KEMP EDWARDS
AYDEN—Coach Stuart Tripp's Ayden Tornadoes roared to a 14-0 victory over Tarboro here last night in a non-conference scrap.

After a scoreless first period, Ayden came home with a touchdown with less than five minutes gone in the third period. With the ball on the Tarboro 34 yard line, quarterback Hal Edwards faded back and passed to end Mac Whitehurst, who took it in on the 26, pulled away from three would-be tacklers and went all the way to a touchdown. Edwards bucked over right tackle for the extra point to give Ayden a 7-0 lead.

The Tornadoes scored again late in the fourth period. Halfback Delano Cox intercepted a pass by Tarboro's Ken Brewer on Ayden's 30 and returned it to the 35. Two running plays by Harry Ross and a short pass gain made a first down on the Ayden 48, and then Wesley Cannon, who starred last week and has now assured himself of a starting berth, went 39 yards around right end to the Tarboro 12. Cannon's sally through the Tars' secondary was the longest run of the night.

Edwards took over the offense then and went around left end for the 12 yards and pay-dirt. He passed to left end Willis Manning for the final touchdown, with less than four minutes left in the game.

The winners' first march covered nearly 80 yards, while the second took 70 more.

Tarboro was held to a net total of 21 yards on the ground by the strong Ayden forward wall. They were not allowed to penetrate past the 20 yard line at any time during the night. On the other hand, the visitors picked up a total of 101 yards through the air on 10 pass completions.

Boxer Picked Up For Selling Dope

NEW YORK—(UP)—A professional fighter who appeared on last night's Joe Louis-Rocky Marciano card was held in $10,000 bail today on a narcotics charge.

Vincent Jimmy Gambino, 20, a former Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, was arrested by federal narcotic agents at Madison Square Garden just after losing on a technical knockout to Ray Wilding of England in the eight round semi-final.

Gambino was taken to the federal building where he was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Edward W. McDonald. A hearing was set for Nov. 2.

U.S. Attorney Myles Lane said that Gambino sold 55 grains of heroin for $80 to a narcotics agent on a Greenwich Village Street Oct. 10.

As the sale was being made, two men with guns stepped up to the agent, Gambino and a go-between, a man known only as "Johnny."

They forced the agent and the other two into a car and one man took $337 from the agent, but ignored the narcotics.

The origin of the harp is believed to come from the tense string of ancient warriors' or hunters' bows.

Sigbee Dilda Leads Devils In Comeback 20-12 Victory

By HAROLD FLANAGAN
FARMVILLE took over where it left off when the third period began and immediately marched the length of the field for a touchdown. Sigbee Dilda climaxed the long drive by going off tackle for 8 yards, making the score 12-6 in Vanceboro's favor.

Dilda scored again soon after the final quarter opened, this time bucking over from the one. Joe Smith went around right end for the extra point, putting Farmville ahead for the first time in the game, 13-12.

The Red Devils added another TD late in the period. Roy Vick turned end for 8 yards to cross the goal line for the touchdown. A pass from Bert Warren to Marvin Tugwell accounted for the extra point and the score stood at 20-12.

Outstanding on defense for the winners were Jimmy Allen, tackle and Paschal Barrett, center and co-captain. Vanceboro was led by Guard Billy Laughinghouse.

Two more games remain on Farmville's schedule. A Coastal contest is on tap for next week with South Edgecombe in Farmville, and then on November 9, the Devils travel to La Grange.

Eppes High School's Homecoming was spoiled last night as Elizabeth City scored early in the game and went on to take a 20-0 victory over the local Bulldogs.

Elizabeth City, one of the strongest Negro clubs in the state, got its first touchdown when Roscoe Williams went around right end for 10 yards. The conversion was good and the score stood at 7-0 soon after the game began.

The Pirates came back for another in the second period, this time with Herbert Nixon going over from the eight yard line. The conversion was again good.

They scored again late in the third period. Quarterback Sherwood Brickers passed to end Lonnie Gibbs for 5 yards and the TD. The attempted conversion was no good.

Bicycle Parade Set Monday Afternoon

Many Greenville youngsters will mount their bicycles Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock for a decorated bicycle parade sponsored by the local Post E.E. of the Travelers Protective Association in observance of Child Accident Prevention Week.

Participants will assemble as soon as school is out on West 14th Street, between Pitt and Elizabeth Street, in the area reserved for bicycles. The parade will terminate at the courthouse where judges will announce prize winners and the parade will be led by the Greenville High School and Epps High School bands. Members of the safety patrol from elementary schools not having bicycles will carry banners bearing the slogan for Child Accident Prevention Week, "Make Safety First and Make It Last."

First prize in the parade will be a Columbia bicycle and other prizes are as follows: Head light and horn set, second; hand and rear light set, third; bicycle basket, fourth; rear view mirror, fifth; and mud flap with reflector, sixth. Prizes will be awarded in duplicate in white and colored and they are on display at Blackwoods Associate Store, west of Five Points on Fifth Street.

Judges for the parade are: Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, president of the Woman's Club; D. J. Whitchard, managing editor of the Reflector; Allan Powell, county auditor; Mrs. Dink James; and Dr. J. D. Messick, president of East Carolina College.

To be eligible to enter the parade, elementary school students had to make 30 out of a possible 40 points on a bicycle safety questionnaire administered and supervised by teachers. Those making the required number of points on the test were given cards to fill out which qualified them to enter the parade.

The parade is being held with bicycle safety in mind and the promotion of the program was entrusted to Police Chief Guy C. Langston and Russell T. Rogerson, field representative of the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles.

Bicycling Boy Is Injured In Wreck

AYDEN — A ten-year-old Negro boy was seriously injured this morning when the bicycle which he was riding was struck by automobile, two miles south of here on N. C. 11.

Fairman J. W. Boykin of Ayden, who investigated the accident listed the injured boy as James Earl Chapman, of Route 3, Ayden.

Boykin stated that Chapman was traveling in the direction of Grifton on the right side of the highway when he turned into the path of the car.

The car was driven by Marvin Brown Hodges, 53, of Grifton. Hodges was quoted as telling the patrol officer that the boy was traveling in the same direction as he was and that he boy attempted to make a left hand turn in front of him and that he could not avoid hitting him.

The child was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where his injuries were described as being head injuries and slight chest injuries. He was admitted to the hospital for further treatment, the Patrolman stated.

Damage to the Hodges car was placed at around $30 while the bike was a total loss.

No charges were placed against the driver.

Air Force To Call ROTC Graduates To Active Duty

All college students enrolled in the Air Force ROTC program who receive their baccalaureate degrees and commissions between January 1, and March 23, will be ordered to active military service within 90 days after their graduation, Fourteenth Air Force Headquarters announced today.

Air Force ROTC students who have seen previous service will be excluded from the call, but an estimated 200 non-veteran cadets in the Fourteenth Air Force 12-state area will be directly affected.

However, veterans who hold commissions may be called should fulfillment of the service requirements of the service necessitate such action, the Air Force said.

There has been no announcement in regard to the calling of the several thousand Air Force ROTC students who may graduate after March 23, but the Air Force said that a decision would be announced after a "detailed determination of Air Force requirements" is made.

The January-March graduates who are called will be encouraged to apply for flying or meteorology training. At present the Air Force is offering training in certain foreign languages, and students may apply for training in this field.

Cigarette Taxes Rise November 1

A new tax on cigarette will go into effect November 1, Commissioner of Revenue J. B. Dunlap announced today.

Provided for in the Revenue Act of 1951, the tax boost will hike the tax on both standard and "King" size cigarettes from $2.50 to $4.00 per thousand.

The Act also imposes a floor stocks tax of fifty cents per thousand on all stamped cigarettes held by manufacturers, importers and dealers, for sale at the first moment of November 1, the day on which the increase becomes effective.

The commissioner emphasized the need for manufacturers, importers, and wholesale and retail dealers, to take an actual inventory of all stamped cigarettes on hand November 1, in order to prepare and file with the district collector an inventory covering the tax.

"Dunlap said that in addition to the inventory of actual cigarettes on hand, manufacturers and importers are required to include in their returns and inventories the number of unattached small cigarette stamps on hand November 1, for the purpose of paying the difference between the $2.50 rate and the increased cost of the stamps after that date.

Revenue officials stated that the floor stocks tax return and inventory forms, for the use of wholesale and retail dealers, manufacturers, and importers, are now in every person liable to file should apply to the district collector of internal revenue for the necessary forms.

Two Children Are Found Dead, No Inquests Planned

Two Negro children were found dead today and yesterday and Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said there was no indication of foul play in either of the deaths.

Mary Louise Perkins, three months old, was found this morning dead in bed by her parents, Charlie and Mary Perkins, about 6:30 or 7 o'clock. Her death was termed due to "acute indigestion" by Dr. T. G. Basnight, and Rouse said no inquest would be held.

The child lived with her parents and two brothers, age three and five, on Durward and Larry Tucker's farm, five miles northeast of Stokes. The second death occurred yesterday when Ada Leaver, age six, died of natural causes, according to the investigating authorities, Basnight and Rouse.

She lived at home with her parents, Moses and Sarah Jane Leaver on L. W. Tucker's farm near Grimesland.
