Three Allied Planes Are Lost In Another Day Of Air Battle

Three MIGs Damaged In Dogfights; Chinese And Red Koreans Launch Attacks; Repulsed

SEVENTH ARMY HQ., Korea (UP)—United Nations planes damaged three MIG-15 jet fighters in air battles over northwest Korea today, but three of their own were lost during the day.

One American Thunderjet was shot down in a dogfight with the enemy's jet, while another was lost because of mechanical failure on its way back to base from a second dogfight.

On the ground, Chinese and Korean Reds launched seven attacks along a 50-mile front in an attempt to gain territory for bargaining in the Korean truce talks.

Another F-84 crashed on its way home but the pilot was rescued from the Yellow Sea.

Waves of Chinese, hundreds strong, forced a temporary Allied withdrawal west of Yoncheon on the western front, but U.N. troops retook the lost positions without opposition after dawn.

Taft Pledges No 'Me-Too' Planks

CHICAGO (UP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft said last night that a "me-too" Republican campaign next year would lose more vote than it would gain.

The Ohio Republican said the GOP need not take "an extreme position, but neither should it seek to 'attract New Dealers to the Republican fold.'"

"A compromise campaign, he said, 'will lose the enthusiasm and determination of our supporters... far more than it will gain any elusive and so-called independent vote.'"

Taft, the only announced presidential candidate to date, addressed Republicans at a $100-per-plate dinner. The speech was broadcast over the Mutual Broadcasting System.

He said the 1952 election promises to be the most crucial in the nation's history. The voters must decide, he said, between "progress" under Republican leadership or "socialism, military government and the totalitarian state" under a Democratic regime.

Taft accused the administration of resorting to "usurpation" of powers, profligate spending, propaganda and a "Truman war" to maintain itself in power.

He said he was optimistic about Republican chances. The party "represents the philosophy of the majority of Americans," he said, and for the first time in many years is winning the favor of young voters.

"How can anyone work up a fever for milk coats, or deep freezes, or income tax racketeers, or Harry Truman himself for that matter?" he asked.

Business Opportunities Exist If Same Old Risks Are Accepted

By ROGER W. BABSON BABSON PARK, Mass.—I hear young people today say that opportunities aren't what they once were. To a certain extent this is true. When the government takes so much of everyone's earnings, some people lose their incentive to work hard.

Suez Zone Becomes Fortress

British Army Units Reinforced; Families Begin Leave Trouble Spot

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—A mighty British force of 21,000 men—16,000 of them front-line fighters—converted their Suez Canal zone camps today into potential fortresses against a threatened Egyptian underground attack.

At the same time, the vanguard of 1,000 servicemen's families to be sent home to Britain from the troubled zone boarded the liner Asturias.

They left their husbands to face the twin threats of an Egyptian non-cooperation campaign and an outright war from scores of armed "liberation" battalions springing up throughout the nation.

The California Democrat said U. S. Attorney Chauncey Tramotolet at San Francisco refused to discuss the situation with a subcommittee representative who is investigating the Internal Revenue Bureau office in that city.

King said Tramotolet's action "calls for an answer" from Attorney General J. Howard McGrath.

"I am in a complete loss to understand this attitude on Mr. Tramotolet's part," King said, "and if Mr. Tramotolet indeed, been instructed by the Department of Justice to refuse to discuss the grand jury question with the subcommittee's representatives, I am even more surprised."

"In the present atmosphere, it is hard to understand why the Department of Justice is not most anxious to defend its position in the handling of these matters, unless its conduct of them has been indefensible. I do not believe that the U. S. attorney or the Department of Justice is in any position of silence."

San Francisco tax collector James G. Smyth and eight officials in his office have been suspended. King also said that Assistant Atty. T. Lamar Caudle faces more questioning on his business transactions and income tax returns.

Caudle is chief of the Justice Department's tax division, responsible for prosecuting tax evaders.

Caudle had no comment after a three-hour closed session with the subcommittee yesterday and King refused to reveal details of the questioning.

But it was learned that the subcommittee is interested in some of Caudle's oil deals and his trip to Italy last summer, paid for by New Jersey wine merchant Carmon D. Agostino.

King announced "complete agreement" with secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder and Internal Revenue Commissioner John P. Dunlap on eliminating "obscure" and "complex" provisions from the government's tax collection.

King's announcement followed a stormy three-hour session with the two officials. A short time later, Dunlap completely reorganized his income tax unit to give him more direct supervision over tax collecting.

Eisenhower Due To Arrive Today

FORT KNOX, Ky. (UP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower arrives from Europe today for a quiet weekend with his son, but the heat was on to make him disclose his political intentions.

The 61-year-old supreme commander of Western European defense forces promised a press conference shortly after his arrival this morning.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five U. S. ships have been sunk and 29 damaged by enemy mines, gunfire or bombs during the Korean campaign, the Navy said yesterday.

The casualties reported from these actions included 102 killed, 31 missing in action and 282 wounded.

Four of the ships sunk were the USS Sigsbee, the USS Lamson, the USS Johnston and the USS O'Brien. All sank after hitting enemy mines.

The group voted against the recommendation of their board of education 111 to 77. It later adopted a motion asking the bishop to call a one-day session in March to consider the question.

The conference also asked the bishop to appoint a committee to study educational needs and report to the session in March.

Surprise UN Compromise Proposal Brings Cease-Fire In Korea Closer

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The United Nations brought a Korean truce closer today with a surprise compromise proposal to make Kaesong a neutral city.

Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodess, chief U.N. representative, made the suggestion verbally at the end of another day of discussion to fix a mutually agreeable cease-fire line.

"The Communists, although continuing to state they felt Kaesong should remain in their control, did not categorically turn down the proposal," Brig. Gen. William Nuckols said.

Nuckols said discussion of the proposal would continue at a subcommittee meeting at 11 a.m. Sunday (9 p.m. today EST).

Hodes and Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke had spent the entire morning and most of the afternoon session in a vain attempt to persuade the communists to swap Kaesong for U.N.-held Korean islands north of the 38th Parallel.

The Reds retorted that they already had made "adequate adjustments and compensations" for Allied "fears of withdrawals not only from the coastal islands, but on the east coast and immediately south of Kaesong. However, the Communists refused to pinpoint these "concessions."

The subcommittee meeting was nearing the end of its fourth hour when Hodess made his surprise proposal to put Kaesong in a demilitarized zone, thus denying its use to both sides.

If the Reds accept the proposal, they will have to abandon Kaesong as their truce delegation's headquarters. They also will be deprived of its propaganda value as the largest South Korean city still in Communist hands and the ancient capital of Korea.

The Communists might be somewhat placated, however, if they were permitted to keep 1,500-foot Pine Tree Peak, which rises a few miles to the north and dominates Kaesong.

The U.N., by the same token, would give up its claim of Kaesong for a defense anchor on the northwest approaches to Seoul, 35 miles to the southeast. Kaesong was in no-man's-land until it was chosen as the initial site of the truce talks, and then the Communists suddenly occupied it.

It was too early to tell whether this was the final break that would bring agreement on a cease-fire line. But there was no doubt here that the proposal had opened the way for further bargaining just when the negotiations appeared to be stalemated again.

Byrnes Hopes President Vetoes School Aid Bill

CLEMSON, S. C.—(AP)—Gov. James F. Byrnes said today he hopes that "next year in electing a President, the people will disregard the labels of political parties."

"I hope they will support the candidate and the party they believe in when the war emergency is past—will restore all emergency powers to the people," he declared.

Byrnes also rapped union opposition to the transfer of textile plants from the New England to the South.

He again criticized the Democratic administration for failing to "hold the line" on wages, rents, services and prices.

More Purges In China Promised

Premier Chou En-lai Discloses Troubles Behind Curtain

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Red China's premier Chou En-lai has warned that more blood purges are coming in his troubled homeland, which he bluntly calls "economically backward."

At the same time, he has pledged "strict economy" in government and an unrelenting campaign to "resist American aggression and aid Korea."

Peiping Radio only yesterday broadcast the long and detailed speech by Chou, which it said was made Oct. 23 at the national committee meeting of the Political Consultative Conference in Peiping.

Apparently the Red leaders of China pondered awhile before releasing to the world a speech that told of a sea of trouble behind the Bamboo curtain.

The speech as monitored here by the Associated Press referred repeatedly to the troubles the Peiping regime was having with its "land reform" program.

Chou remarked that Chinese who resist communist dictatorship "were reluctant to accept their extinction lying down."

Light Early Turnout In Farm Proposal Voting

Offers 2 Plans To Improve Jail

Langston Prefers New Lock System And Harder Steel Bars

Greenville Police Chief Guy C. Langston Thursday night offered the Board of Aldermen two alternatives for making the city jail "escape proof."

Chief Langston stated that the entire lock system could be replaced, and "tool proof" steel bars set in every door and window in the jail; or, the present locks could be repaired, and the doors and windows barred with "concrete reinforcement" steel, obtainable here in Greenville.

The chief advised the board to authorize new locks for the doors and "tool proof" steel for barring the doors and windows, because they cannot be filed and would make the jail virtually "break proof" in regard to lock-picking. "The locks have been in use since 1917, and are so badly worn that almost anyone can pick them," he said.

He submitted an estimate made by the Roanoke Bridge and Iron Company, which set a figure of $2,400 for installing a new lever lock system that could be operated from outside the cell block. Other estimates were $775 for barring the six windows around the cell block with "tool proof" steel, and approximately $1,500 for barring all the 18 windows in the jail with the same material.

The cost of "concrete reinforcement" steel for the six windows around the cell block would be about $675, the chief said.

Cost estimates for repairing the old locks were not available this morning.

Bandits Snatch Cash From Cage

NASHVILLE (UP)—Police here said two bandits snatched $1,500 from a bank teller's cage after a cohort lured the teller away with a telephone call.

Miss Martha Turner said she left her cage in the First American National Bank yesterday for a lengthy telephone conversation with a "Mr. Bailey," who said she had overpaid him in cashing a check earlier in the day.

Bank officials said they saw "A large, tall man and a dark short one" leave the bank after the theft.

Sinatra And Ava Acquire License

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Frank Sinatra is expected to sing "I Do" here next Wednesday, climaxing a hectic, round-the-world romance with Ava Gardner.

The crooner and the North Carolina-born actress applied for a marriage license in a nearly secret flying trip to city hall yesterday, 24 hours after Sinatra's Nevada divorce from his first wife, Nancy.

Community Chest Drive Plans Completed, Reports Chairman

Community Chest Chairman Alton R. Johnson announced today that plans have been formulated for the 1951 Community Chest campaign which gets under way November 12 and runs through November 16.

The campaign will begin Monday, November 12, with a parade at 11:45 which will carry the slogan "Join the Parade for a Better Community." The Negro special gifts committee will have a kickoff dinner Monday night at the Eppes High School and a kickoff breakfast for the white special gifts committee will be held at the Proctor Hotel Tuesday.

Special gifts solicitation will be held Tuesday and Wednesday along with general business and employees solicitation. General and residential solicitation will take place Thursday and Friday and Johnson said it is hoped that the full quota will be in the bank by Saturday morning.

Johnson reminded that the Community Chest quota is 25 percent above that of last year and requires more active support than in the past. "It is a community project which we should like to participate in," he said, "and over 150 volunteer workers have subscribed their energies for solicitation to procure funds."

This year, for the first time since World War II, the United Defense Fund has been added to the budget and Johnson described it as an important agency for war relief and welfare for servicemen and women. The United Defense Fund includes the operation of USO centers and has been declared paramount among community needs.

The participating agencies which benefit from the Community Chest are threefold. There are the organizations which build through youth the citizenship of the future; the Boy and Girl Scouts, both white and colored, and the teen-age club. There are those agencies devoted to the welfare of the indigent and the unfortunate, the Emergency Charity Fund and the Service League Thrift Shop, and the United Defense Fund.

All citizens of Greenville are urged to join the parade for a better community—give generously to your Community Chest." Johnson said.

President Vetoes School Aid Bill

Threatens To Widen Breach With Southern Democrats

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman's veto of a school construction bill threatened today to widen the breach between the administration and Southern Democrats.

Most Southerners still in town declined to comment publicly until they have studied Mr. Truman's veto message. But they indicated disappointment with his pocket veto, which killed a measure authorizing federal school construction in potential defense areas.

Mr. Truman said he turned down the measure because it had a rider enforcing segregation of school Southern states.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) would say only that he was "sorry" the President vetoed the bill. He noted that it would have provided federal aid for school construction for youngsters of future workers on the Savannah River atomic project.

"The veto" may hit them hard down there," Johnson said. "They need the help."

Johnston said he could not predict how Congress will react to Mr. Truman's suggestion that it re-pass the bill next year—without the segregation rider.

In his veto message late yesterday, Mr. Truman denounced the rider as "a backward step in the efforts of the federal government to extend equal rights and opportunities to all people."

Chicago's Dust Is Radioactive

CHICAGO (UP)—Scientists at the University of Illinois Institute of Technology said today that the Nevada atom bomb tests had caused a "tremendous increase" in the amount of radioactivity in Chicago's dustfall.

Dr. Walter C. McCrone, however, said that the radioactivity is "still far below the tolerance level for human safety" and that "no one need have fear of ill effects."

He said the amount in the air today is "less than one receives when getting a tooth X-rayed."

Returns Stolen Car To Agency After One Year

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—A thief who stole a new Cadillac from an automobile agency a year ago, brought it back yesterday with thanks.

A salesman answered the telephone at the agency and heard a voice say: "I took your Cadillac last year and just brought it back. It's parked in front of your building, but doesn't have any anti-freeze in it. You had better put some in. It might freeze up."

The caller hung up after a cherrry. "Thanks a lot."

The car was in good condition. In fact, detective James Reeves said, it had been repainted, the engine had been steam cleaned and the interior had been cleaned recently.

Decline To Raise $1 Million Fund

WILMINGTON (UP)—The North Carolina Methodist Conference yesterday rejected a proposal to raise $1,000,000 for Methodist-supported colleges in the state.

The group voted against the recommendation of their board of education 111 to 77. It later adopted a motion asking the bishop to call a one-day session in March to consider the question.

The conference also asked the bishop to appoint a committee to study educational needs and report to the session in March.

Last Balloon At Truce Tent Down

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The last "peace balloon" over the truce conference tent at Panmunjom came down today.

The United Nations had floated four brightly-colored balloons over the tent to warn off straying aircraft. One exploded and the other three gradually floated down, one by one.

Bad Weather In Forenoon Believed Cause Of Showing; Farmville Reports Heaviest Vote In County By Noon

Reports in this morning from polling places throughout Pitt County indicated that voting might be extremely light in the farm proposal referendum being held today.

Folling officials said voting had been "mighty slow" up to 11 a.m., but reported that all who had voted at that time seemed to be in favor of the proposal. They attributed the light vote to the bad weather, and expressed the belief that the balloting would be much heavier this afternoon.

Farmville reported the heaviest vote in the county this morning, with 91 ballots having been cast by 11:30. Officials said only one voted against the proposal and seemed disappointed with the small number of votes cast.

Elsewhere in the county, Ayden had 11 votes in, Grimesland six, Belvoir 34, and Greenville 50. Officials stated that several young F.P.A. and 4-H Club members had voted, and that Negro farmers in the county were taking an interest in the balloting.

All polling officials contacted said that if the weather cleared this afternoon, an impressive vote might still come in.

Over 50,000 Of Men In Korea To Be Coming Home

TOKYO (UP)—More than 50,000 U. S. troops stationed in rear areas must spend a second winter in Korea, C. Matthew B. Ridgway said today.

However, the supreme United Nations commander reiterated that enlisted men who were serving in front-line infantry divisions last Jan. 1 will be on their way home by the end of this month—with the exception of a few critical specialists.

Ridgway said he was issuing his decision to correct a public misconception that 200,000 men would spend a second winter in Korea.

Not covered by the "one-winter" order, he said, were troops serving in such rear areas as corps or army headquarters and supply services.

"These troops must normally serve at least 18 months in Korea and quite obviously many of them must remain a second winter there," he said. "There are more than 50,000 of these troops who were serving in Korea on Jan. 1 of this year."

Four Inch Rainfall During Past Two Days For Area

Four inches of rain fell in the Greenville area during the past two days. An eighth of an inch drizzle fell yesterday and 3.87 inches had fallen here up to 9 a.m. today.

Rainfall here during the first eight months of this year was below normal. Mrs. Carl E. Malden, local observer for the U. S. Department of Commerce, reported.

S. C. Winchester, Pitt county farm agent, said the copious rainfall over a wide area will be beneficial to fall and winter cover crops and permanent pastures. Farmers hereabouts usually plant for cover crops rye, wheat, oats, Austrian winter peas, and crimson clover. Ladino clover and feacue are principal crops grown for pastures, the farm agent said.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 58 degrees. Lowest last night, 43, and at 8 a.m. today the mercury still stood at 43.

At 9 o'clock the temperature had dropped three degrees, the observer reported.

Highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday a year ago was 58 degrees. Lowest last night, 39, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 64.

Chatham Club Hears W. E. Marshall

Joint Hostesses Entertain For Mrs. Williams

A regular meeting of the Chatham Book Club was held on Tuesday afternoon at 8:30 at the home of the hostess, Mrs. F. A. Bendall.

Open arrival members and guests were served a delicious dessert course with nuts and coffee. Mrs. T. M. Watson, Mrs. E. R. Conway and Mrs. N. S. Beard assisted the hostess in serving.

Dr. W. E. Marshall, member of the faculty of East Carolina College, was presented to the club as guest speaker. His subject, "Subsidiaries and Agencies of the United Nations," was a continuation of the club course of study on the United Nations.

Dr. Marshall prefaced his talk by quoting the democratic observations of several of the world's most famous philosophers and the words of Christ himself who admonished mankind to "do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

He pointed out that the whole philosophy of American government was predicated upon the fundamental principles of Christianity and for that very reason, he said, American honesty and forthrightness in dealing with other nations whose policies are basically opposed to it has made the United States a perfect target for sabotage, underhand dealing and subversive propaganda.

Dr. Marshall stated that the United Nations and greatly contribute to the peace of the world through the proper functioning of its various subsidiaries and agencies. Each agency has its specific goal. He gave the following examples of their activities to show the magnitude of their operations:

The International Labor organization is attempting to bring about improved working conditions, higher wages and shorter hours for laborers and better relations between labor and management. The International Food and Agriculture organization is seeking to increase world food production and through proper distribution relieve the standard diet of many countries. The International Bank is lending money to governments and individuals for reconstruction and industrial development. The International Refugee organization is finding homes for and rehabilitating refugees. The International Trade organization, through greater production and more equal distribution of trade, hopes to divide the wealth of the world.

Dr. Marshall expressed his opinion that within the next fifty to one hundred years, the world will realize that no nation is self-sufficient and that all are dependent and must help one another.

"If peace could be bought," he concluded, "we would already have it; but you cannot buy character—it has to be developed. It takes a long time to win through moral principles and the United Nations cannot be expected to do in a few years what man has so far failed to accomplish in centuries."

In his opinion, if each member government will recognize the individual's right to security, freedom of action, and equal opportunity to make a living, the principles of the special agencies can be carried out. He said that there would then be no more need to maintain force and the world would be assured of lasting peace.

Following the program, a short business session was held, during which time the books were exchanged.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Kenneth Outhbert and Dr. Marshall.

Revival at Mt. Pleasant Church. Revival services will begin at Mt. Pleasant Christian Church Wednesday night, November 7. Rev. Louis Stryon of Roanoke Rapids will conduct the services. Book Review By Mr. Rives Given At Clio Club

Members of the Clio Book Club heard an informative and interesting speaker at their meeting on Tuesday afternoon, when Mr. Ralph Rives, a senior at East Carolina College, reviewed the book, "Weep No More My Lady," by Mr. W. E. Debnam.

The club met at the home of Mrs. W. L. Whedbee on Latham Street, and the home was beautifully decorated with fall flowers.

A short business meeting was held with Mrs. James M. Moye, president of the club, presiding. Mrs. Ed Wilson, treasurer, gave her report. Miss Jane Haged acted as secretary for the meeting.

Mr. Rives, who was introduced by Mrs. Whedbee, in his review of Debnam's book brought out the fact that the South had developed much more than any other section of the United States since the Civil War days. Never did the South let down on their standards of cultural and decent living," declared the speaker, and added, "With those principles the South has made its growth."

Following the interesting book review by Mr. Rives, Mrs. Whedbee, assisted by Mrs. John Adams, and Mrs. Helen White Haves, served a delicious salad and sweet course.

World Affairs Discussed At Atheneum Club

On Tuesday, October 30, at 1:00 p.m., Mrs. Walter Harrington was most gracious hostess to members of the Atheneum Book Club and the following guests: Mesdames Travis Flanagan, E. S. Flanagan, J. B. Kittrell, W. S. Bost, K. V. Gilbert, E. C. Wilkerson and Dr. A. D. Frank.

Following a most delicious two course luncheon served in a setting of colorful fall flowers, Mrs. Harrington introduced Dr. A. D. Frank of the East Carolina College faculty, who was the guest speaker for the afternoon.

Dr. Frank discussed in an interesting and clear manner the situation in Korea, the recent elections in England in which the Conservative party under the leadership of Winston Churchill won out, and the approaching presidential election in the United States and its possible significance.

The speaker struck a note of interest in the minds of everyone present. With an optimistic point of view concerning the conditions in the United States, Dr. Frank gave a lift to the hearts and minds of all who heard his comments.

After this enlightening discussion on international affairs, Mrs. K. E. Pace brought members of the club nearer home with an interesting bit of information about the local tobacco market.

After a brief business session, the books were exchanged and the club adjourned.

Langston Asks Better Intersection Visibility

Police Chief Guy C. Langston, in his recommendations to the Board of Aldermen Thursday night that certain shrubs at street intersections in the city be removed or trimmed, pointed out that this proposal is for facilitating traffic.

He said motorists approaching the enumerated intersections are unable to get a clear vision of approaching traffic upon approach. Removal of much of the scrubbery will contribute to the safety on traffic in the city, Langston declared.

A Tribute To Girl Scouts!

When Judy, Jane and Barbara don their Girl Scout uniforms, they are not merely putting on different clothes. They are becoming part of a world-wide crusade for health, mental stimulus and good citizenship which builds character and fine womanhood. So we salute the Girl Scouts of this community and wherever they may be participating in this expertly directed movement. They have fun, bless them, and with it all, they learn to use their hands, their youthful heads... and above all, their innocent hearts. Your girl, too, should be a happy, healthy member of the Girl Scouts!

Let Love Alone

By KATHLEEN HARRIS

Chapter 4

Ray's idea went over splendidly, as Jan told him afterward. Eve was simply delighted to think her darling daughter actually was engaged to be married.

"I just knew that old romantic moon would turn the 'ick' she teased. 'And a young man's fancy in the spring, well, I knew, too, that when he asked you to dine with him before he went away, your young man was serious.'"

Jan supposed she would have to take all this nonsense about the spring and the moon.

"You couldn't fool your mother, darling," Eve went on. "Trying to pretend you two talked, and thought, of nothing but flying, not falling in love. I do think it's too romantic."

"Oh, Mother, please," Jan said. After she could stand just so much. As this conversation was taking place over the breakfast table, her appetite was almost spoiled. "Does it have to be so romantic? We finally decided that we have the same interests, flying mostly, and like the same things. And since most people do have to marry eventually, Ray and I thought we might as well be engaged. And now, Mother, there's no reason why you can't go ahead and marry your Mr. Peters."

"Why, so I can?" Eve said, but not as enthusiastically as her daughter had expected.

"There will be so many things to decide, darling. Your plans must come first, as they always have with me, with every unselfish mother. Now when Ray comes to the house? After all, I do want to talk with your young man."

"You forget," Jan reminded her, feeling glad of this for the first time. "Ray is going away today. He's taking off sometime around noon for Washington."

"Dear me, what a shame! Well, as soon as he comes back we could have a small dinner party."

"Now, Mother!" Jan did not want her mother starting to make plans like that.

"How long will he be gone?" Eve asked. "I suppose we will have to wait, but I do hope not too long."

Jan said she did not know exactly how long Ray would be away. He had said it might be only a few days; again it might be a few weeks.

"Of course you are going out to see your young man off!" Eve pushed back her chair now.

"I hadn't thought about it," Jan said. Now that she did, it seemed like a rather good idea.

"Run along, darling." Her mother leaned down to brush her lips lightly against Jan's smooth young cheek.

Ray was surprised to see her when she arrived at the field. He was so surprised he seemed exceedingly pleased. "To think you'd clear out here to wish me happy landings. Gee, that's swell of you, Jan!"

"It was Mother's idea," Jan returned. From the way Ray's face had lighted up, the quick step he had taken toward her as though he might grab her in his arms, anyone might have thought they were engaged. He need not overdo it, cooing Eve.

"Oh, I see." The light went brightly off his face and he did not come any nearer.

"I broke the news to her," Jan explained. "She fell for it like a ton of bricks. She is almost beside herself, she's so delighted."

"That's great," Ray said. "It's good to make someone happy. But you needn't have bothered to come, Jan, if you didn't want to. You could have gone somewhere else, pretended about this too."

He turned on his heel to walk back toward his plane, the open job, which was being put in preparation for the trip. He said something to the mechanic who was kneeling down and who got up then to go toward the hangar.

Jan walked over to the ship too. She said, "I didn't mean it the way it sounded. I did want to come to wish you luck, Ray."

Suddenly looking up at him, her heart seemed to leap to her throat and then stop beating. He was not only going away; he was going to be in danger. He had admitted that last night. And again, as then, she felt a deep conviction that she did not have to go.

"Thanks," he answered somewhat shortly. He was looking down at her in that intent odd way she had noticed the evening before.

"You'll be careful, won't you, Ray?" Now she had a queer feeling in the pit of her stomach, an awful emptiness.

"Sure, I'm always careful. Got to be in this racket." His tone was cheerful now and his eyes smiled down to hers.

The mechanic came out of the hangar. He asked if Ray wanted him to warm the ship up for him. Ray nodded and the other man climbed up into the cockpit.

"I hope you won't have to be gone too long," Jan said. She did not know quite what to say. She felt suddenly awkward and self-conscious and her heart was now beating like a drummer working up to a fast rhythm. That emptiness was still with her too.

"Mother wants to give a dinner party," she added. "I suppose we'll have to let her."

"I suppose we will," Ray said. "If we are going to do a good job of this make-believe stuff."

"There's not much use in doing it if we don't do a good job," Jan agreed.

"Oh, dear, the mechanic had the ship warmed up now. He was getting out, and that meant that Ray would get in."

"Right you are," Ray said. And then, "Well, so long, Jan."

Now he was taking his place behind the stick; he raised one hand in a kind of salute.

A fine lover's farewell. What would Eve have thought? This was not very good make-believe. Jan ran over to the big plane and, standing on tiptoe, clinging to its side, called to him, "Goodbye, Ray. Happy landings; as remember you promised—and you said you always keep your promises—to be careful and to hurry back."

He had to lean out, bend over in order to hear her above the roar of the motor.

"Sure, you can count on me, no matter what happens."

The sound was so deafening in her ears that Jan caught only snatches of what Ray replied.

She raised her hand in a salute too, stepping back.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. SOUGLAS
THE PROPHETS WERE INTERNATIONALISTS
People frequently criticize ministers who bring the message of public issues into the pulpit. They are right, of course, if the thing is carried too far, for a minister may sometimes use his pulpit to advocate partisan issues.

But the critics should remember that the chief theme discussed by the ancient prophets of Israel was public affairs. They were great international thinkers, and they interpreted world events in terms of the will of God.

Three things these ancient prophets always told the people of their generation with reference to international events. First, they assured them that systems of force and cruelty would eventually be destroyed; they had a profound respect for the heavy hand of God. In the second place, they urged those who believed in God to keep themselves free of the evil influence of godless nations. They sometimes advanced the most rigorous measures for the suppression of godlessness. Last of all, they continually assured their hearers that those who believed in God would find their only real security in trusting Him. Armies, they declared, are of no avail, but a man's trust in God gives him adequate and lasting inner security in the day of darkness, and this inner security alone is worth while.

These are messages coming to us from an ancient day, and we may well ponder them in these chaotic times.

Where Today Ends And Tomorrow Begins

A case recently heard in a Wayne County magistrate's court carries a lesson for school officials and for farmers.

A Wayne County farmer was convicted in magistrate's court for violating the school attendance law by keeping his children at home to work on the farm rather than allowing them to attend school.

All over North Carolina, school officials for a long time have listed the lack of school attendance as one of their major problems, and have sought in vain funds from the state legislature to cope with the problem. In the Wayne County case, however, the school officials took matters in their own hands and brought the offending parent into court. Perhaps if school superintendents in other counties would follow the same course of action, the absences from the school rooms would be cut considerably.

In fairness to farm families, it can not be denied that the children of families in many instances are needed at home to help tend and harvest the crops. But the parent who forces his child to miss school and stay at home day after day to work is taking a short sighted view of this thing we call education. The farmer will not miss the amount of work the child would do on the farm during the days he stays out of school nearly so much as the child in later years will be handicapped by his lack of the fundamentals of education.

In an effort to cooperate with the farmers in harvesting their crops, schools in many rural sections adopt a half-day schedule for the first five or six weeks to allow the children to work at home during the afternoons. In spite of this concession on the part of the schools, many farmers are insistent upon their children staying out of school altogether to work on the farm.

By this practice, an individual farmer may think he is bettering his immediate economic condition, but in reality he is seriously limiting his child's potential ability to make a good living for himself.

A Better Set Of Teeth For The Sanitation Law

Greenville aldermen have put a new set of teeth into the city's sanitation law which should make property owners more cognizant of the need for sanitary facilities in the city.

At the same time the new regulations re-emphasize the determination of the city officials to see that Greenville has the sanitary facilities necessary to protect the health of all the citizens of the city.

A few weeks ago the Attorney General of North Carolina rendered an opinion in which he said a portion of one of the sanitary laws in the city code is invalid, at least in part. At the meeting Thursday night the aldermen remedied that situation by adopting the new sanitation ordinance which they will make effective January 1, 1957. The ordinance provides not only for modern type toilets in every dwelling but likewise requires sinks connected to the city sewer lines wherever sewer lines are within 300 feet of the house.

The new ordinance rules out the old Vogel type toilets by prohibiting the installation or use of toilets which are "designed to be flushed by direct pressure from the water pipe except that a flushometer with a measuring device may be used if sufficient volume and pressure of water may be obtained."

By delaying the effective date of the new ordinance until January 1, the aldermen in effect have allowed property owners another 60 days in which to begin work on toilet installations where the present ones do not comply with the new ordinance. At the same time the aldermen have set a heavy penalty for property owners who fail to comply with the ordinance by providing a fine of $50 for each offense, and stating that each day that conditions exist in violation of the ordinance shall be considered a separate offense.

The new ordinance should go a long way toward bringing about the designed sanitary conditions in Greenville; but it must be remembered that the law will have little effect unless it is enforced vigorously.

So far the people of the city generally are cooperating with the officials in cleaning up the residential sections of Greenville where sewer lines are available, but adequate toilet and sink facilities are not available in the dwellings. The new ordinance will give the officials a concrete foundation for bringing reluctant property owners around to cooperating with the clean-up effort.

National Whirligig

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6206 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—General Eisenhower, General MacArthur and Senator Taft, if they were three men in one, will never defeat the Truman ticket," declares Mrs. M.C. of Houston, Tex., in an extremely interesting analysis of political "trends" here and abroad. She continues:

"Look at the world trend, or whatever you want to call it. It is fast moving toward the average man, the working man and woman. And certainly the Churchill Party of England, as well as the Taft Party (called Republican), is a pull in the opposite direction. The vote is stronger than any party. Therefore, Mr. Truman or a Democratic candidate will be our next President, whether we like it or not."

SIGNIFICANT—Answer: There is no disputing the fact that the twentieth century seems to be the era of what Henry Wallace calls the "common man." Never before have the masses of people taken such a great and active interest in politics and economics. It is also true that the Truman-Roosevelt and Atlee-Bryan programs should make a greater appeal to the enlarged electorate than the more conservative platforms of the Churchills and Tafts.

Nevertheless, the trend has been in the opposite direction in such English-speaking countries as Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Canada. The center parties have shaky majorities in both France and Italy.

The election results in the British possessions are especially significant, for in all these countries socially minded ministries were thrown out of office after an actual trial of their supposedly popular reforms.

ANALYSIS—In fact, a cold analysis of presidential election returns in our own country does not seem to support Mrs. C.'s conclusion. Despite Franklin D. Roosevelt's great popularity, war pressures and the tremendous expenditures of money, the Democratic vote in these contests dropped steadily from 1932 to 1948, with the exception of the Landon Year of 1936.

Mr. Roosevelt obtained 58.3 per cent of the popular vote in running against Herbert Hoover in the midst of depression. He got 60.4 per cent against Alf Landon, when the G.O.P. conducted the most wretched spoliage of a campaign in political annals.

The Democratic vote, percentage-wise, in 1940, 1944 and 1948 was, respectively, 54.2, 52.5 and 49.4 (Truman) per cent. The combined ballot of all his opponents was, therefore, greater than Mr. Truman's. There is certainly no evidence of an overwhelming "trend" in these statistics.

DISILLUSIONED—Moreover, there are signs that the average man and woman are growing disillusioned with "common man" promises that are not matched with performances.

Only last week, the head of the Building Trades Union, which comprise half of the A.F.L.'s 6,000,000 members, declared that the Administration's labor record was so "full of flaws" that workers should consider the possibility of voting for a Republican next year, provided he were not Senator Taft. ADA "liberals" show no great admiration for the Truman regime.

If Mrs. C. includes in her analysis of "common man" trends the demands of Egyptians, Iranians and other oppressed peoples for economic and political freedom, I think she is utterly mistaken. There is no comparison between their understandable aspirations for independence with American voters' quadruple search for a more efficient, economical and trustworthy Administration.

DISTURBED—"I am deeply disturbed," writes D.M.C. of Rye, N.Y., "about the nomination of General Mark Clark as Ambassador to the Vatican for a very practical reason. It seems to me that our armed forces are rapidly losing their top talent. Can you list the experienced Generals and Admirals who have been separated from the service, and why?"

Answer: The excessive use of trained military experts for civilian assignments, which began during F.D.R.'s time, is one of the questions which worries the Pentagon men responsible for national defense. Combined with this tendency, other factors are depleting the ranks of those who must train, equip and lead our forces in war.

LEADERS—General Eisenhower and a host of able soldiers are on duty abroad, although working on problems of the defense of the western world. Walter Bedell Smith, Eisenhower's former chief of staff, heads Intelligence. General Marshall has quit because of age, as have Sailors Halsey, Nimitts, Leahy, Spruance, King etc. Such fine soldiers as Spaatz, Baker and Kenney have retired of their own volition.

MacArthur, Admiral Denfield and General Wedemeyer were forced out by the Administration, although Wedemeyer quit in protest. These, of course, constitute only the most prominent losses. There are scores of lesser figures who have left the service since the end of World War II. Thus we can ill afford to spare leaders like Clark, who heads the major forces.

But we still have that great hero, Major General Harry Vaughan!

Barkley Is Willing

Somebody Told Me

By J. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, 'X.

Every now and then I take a look at the state of business from the national angle. Of course our business here in Greenville is good because of our tobacco season, but when the season ends we will fall into the state of the nation in general.

In a nut-shell, this is the story: the stock market is down, but business is picking up.

Last week industrial averages reached their lowest point since last July. Even stocks like Jersey Standard, whose net profit reach a new high, went down in the heavy selling.

Many people with money invested in stocks are undecided about the future. When that situation arises, they usually sell their stocks and sit on the sidelines while wondering what to do.

Does all of this mean that the nation's business is in for a slump? Everybody is crying about a steel shortage. Yet the Chairman at Bethlehem Steel, Eugene Grace, says, "I can't see anything but overproduction, and soon, in steel." Grace made that statement despite the fact that Bethlehem's unfilled orders are stacked higher than they have ever been during peacetime. Yet, Grace should know what he's talking about.

Another indication came from the paper industry. Unfilled orders for paper board were off 40 per cent from last year. And the Federal Reserve Board says that because of slack demand, production of many consumer goods has even been below levels authorized by the National Production Authority.

But the entire picture is not that gloomy. On the bright side, purchasing agents are noticing that the pickup in orders, which started in September, is continuing. Automobile sales have recently been running ahead of production, and the automobile industry expects output to fall far behind sales next month.

Television and appliance sales are also pulling out of their summer slump. Department store sales, according to the Federal Reserve Board, jumped 10 per cent over the 1950 level in the latest weekly report, which is the biggest rise in six months. And the biggest spending of the arms program, and greatest civilian cuts, is yet to come.

On one hand, things look good, and bad on the other hand. Since none of us has an accurate crystal ball, we'll just have to guess how it'll all come out.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

TURNED—Governor Scott had the tables turned on him Wednesday night. He has spoken to many civic club and business organization meetings at which he took delight in throwing barbs into his hearers about how the farmers have been discriminated against and how city business men had mistreated their country neighbors. He was present at the beer distributors dinner the other night and took occasion then to reprimand some of the members in the audience for failure to go along all the way with his program. Then he had to sit for nearly an hour and listen to Jack Major, nationally famed after dinner speaker from Paducah, Kentucky, tell about how farmers got all the breaks in law laws, how they theoretically "got by with it" in avoiding taxes, which other business men must pay.

PRIORITY—Trend of the time may be noted in a recent decision of the Pennsylvania supreme court ruling out extra bonus credits for promotion among state employees for war veterans. The 10-point bonus is retained for original employment, but the court held in effect that once on the job actual qualification and performance should be the criterion for promotion.

Illinois and New York have taken action in the same direction, according to news release of the national Civil Service Assembly.

CURT—Superior court judges fared better than average in decisions of the supreme court this week. Of twenty cases decided twelve lower court actions were affirmed or found to have no errors; six were reversed or sent back for new trial; one was modified and affirmed, and there was one split-affirmation on one point, reversal on another. That adds up to slightly better than two-to-one in favor of the superior court judges.

STANDARDS—Associate Justice Sam Ervin re-stated a basic principle in the opinion he wrote upholding the right of Sheriff E. Y. Ponder to his office in Madison county. The justice wrote at one place in the lengthy opinion: "If we are to have a government of laws rather than of men, law suits must be tried according to general rules of procedure established by law for all like cases. Judges cannot be expected or permitted to devise special rules on the spur of the moment to fit the supposed exigencies of particular trials."

ELECTIC—The same idea was expressed in different words by the local government commission. In a formal resolution affecting proposals for an election on bonds for public hospital construction in Iredell county, the commission adhered to its traditional policy of requiring at the same time a vote on authority to levy a tax to support the hospitals when built. A few weeks before, the local government commission had refused approval of a Wake county election on bonds to construct additions which were not controlled by a governmental agency. There were some exceptional circumstances in Iredell. Wake and in numerous other county hospital programs—as there were unusual conditions surrounding the Madison county election for sheriff. In opinion of the judges and the members of the local government commission these exceptions are not important enough to justify breaking down the overall policy.

CREDIT—Credit for this exceptionally good situation must be distributed, of course, over the past fifty years or more of state history and prospects for continuing, even more rapid, progress in the future. But Auditor Bridges expresses belief that the big investors would not have known about or understood this background except for the splendid job Treasurer Hodges has done in "selling North Carolina to the big bankers." He points out another place in which the treasurer has contributed very substantially to state stability. Under authority of a 1949 act, jointly sponsored by Governor Scott and Treasurer Hodges in their primary campaigns and before the general assembly, previously "idle" state funds have been invested and deposited so as to draw interest. By judicious investment, buying and selling at appropriate times, this "idle" money current "is working" and yields as of October 1 this year at the rate of $4,000 an hour to the state general fund. That yield will vary with conditions and as the money is required to pay highway and public building construction and to operate the public schools and other functions of state government, the amount invested will decrease. Right now it presents a pretty picture.

CRITICISM—Governor Scott made some caustically critical comment about how the county ABC boards were not cooperating with his administration as well as beer distributors. A significant factor there is that the ABC boards are public officials, the beer dealers are private business men. Criticism of ABC administration is not confined to one side. The local ABC boards have voiced as much grievance at inability to get cooperation, direction and assistance from the state board. Complaints on this score have increased tremendously during the past few months.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

HARD TO BEAT (Wilson Daily Times)
In 1948 the total vote ran somewhere around 50,000,000. At the present moment, the national government has some 2,000,000 on its payroll. They're all beholden to the government and they can, therefore, be expected to vote Democratic. With their families they constitute 10 per cent of the votes. But let's go a little further. That national government has something like a billion to spend on things that people want. Can that be spent in such a way as to change states where normally the parties are pretty evenly divided? That's what was done in 1955. Adopting the philosophy of Harry Hopkins of "tax and tax, spend and elect and elect," the winner carried all but two states. If the truth were known, he could have carried those other two had more money been poured in. Is that what the Administration contemplates doing next year? Is that the reason so much of the non-essential spending has been kept in the budget? It's a politically-minded Administration, we must all bear in mind. It knows how to transfer funds in ways that will do it the most good.

We used to hear a great hue and cry when "slush" funds reached $5,000,000. But what's that compared to a billion? If what has gone on for the last 15 years is continued, we'll have only a one-party nation. It should be a matter of great concern to all of us, although we seem not to be doing much about it. In the end, however, it's bound to lead to some form of statism because our people will be unable to stagger under the national debt. But it's not healthy for the nation and it doesn't auger well for the future. If we're interested in that future, not for ourselves, but for our children, we should do what we can to stop what's taking place in Washington.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
There is one group that heartily approves of the higher corporation and excess profits tax rates. This group consists of a fringe of dealers in paintings and other objects d'art. They have been finding the high tax rates and the system of allowable deductions has created a fine market for their wares.

This is how they work it: A dealer approaches a corporation owner and offers him, say, a painting by a famous artist for $50,000. If the prospect knows anything about art, he may regard the price as high. But the seller assures him that purchasing the painting actually assures the prospect's company a profit.

The argument runs like this: "Your corporation buys the painting as a business expense. You use it in advertising and at trade shows, in your office or lobby, or you can send it on tour or loan it to museums and schools. You may very well get $50,000 worth of publicity out of it. But because your profits are being taxed at 52 per cent, the painting only costs your company $24,500 out of pocket or even less if it is in the excess profits bracket."

"That's not all. A year later I'll produce recognized experts, whose appraisals have been accepted by the courts, who will value the painting at $75,000. If I can't, I'll return your money and take back the picture."

This "guarantee" is not difficult. Valuation of art is largely a matter of opinion and one expert's appraisal may be ten times that of another.

"Then," says the seller, "you can give the picture to a recognized institution and deduct $75,000 as a charitable gift, saving $39,000 more on taxes. Of course, you may have to pay a tax on the increase in valuation, but that will be small and in total your company will actually make a 'pure profit.'"

Bureau of Internal Revenue experts are certainly working on ways to circumvent this kind of tax escapement. Just as certainly, by the time they do the tax sharks will have figured another way around.

This department does not know how much of this is going on, but "tax sales" are common talk in art circles. They tell of a business man who dashed into a New York gallery and said he wanted to buy a $20,000 painting.

"What kind of painting are you interested in?" asked the salesman.

"Any kind," replied the man, "as long as it costs $20,000."

CITIES SELL SERVICES
Cities, hard pressed by rising costs, are trying to squeeze income out of their services.

On one hand, things look good, and bad on the other hand. Since none of us has an accurate crystal ball, we'll just have to guess how it'll all come out.

And I thank you.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—All I know is what I read in my mail.

Here are a few odds and ends culled from the mailbox—gathered to make your mind a hedge-podge, too:

Little Switzerland has more than 3,600 banks, one for every 1,300 people and total deposits average $1,004 per head, as compared with only $976 in the poor old United States.

They are using radar now to catch illicit fishermen off the coast of California. The Goatee Society of America has been organized—a number are over 70—honorary member: Uncle Sam... the sun has a candlepower of about four billion billion billion (and who'll all those candles find that out?) ...

The water in a flowing stream is lower in the middle than along the sides... so now you know where to turn over that canoe. What is the "stopper"? It is a layer of the atmosphere, beginning about 30,000 feet and going up to around 100,000 feet where the temperature is only 75 degrees below zero. It is a sure place to go to if you want to get away from bathing beauty contests.

Laura Weber at 14 has performed on television more than 250 times... a new talking vending machine is on the market... but it hasn't even been on video... how long does any one day of the week last? ... The answer is 49 hours. If you follow it all around the earth... but you'll have to write General Electric if you want to know why. I do not understand it myself... Creosote will prevent dry rot in your barn. Mrs. Nellie Abrams of the Hotel Forrest here keeps a stock of false eyelashes, false fingernails and just plain falsies for young theater hopefuls trying to crash Broadway. Taxes bothering you? Stricken Finland raised hers to 20 times their pre-war level in a rehabilitation drive one of every 24 Finn children was orphaned by the war.

More crimes, suicides, and insanity occur in a summer than at any other time of the year... B-r-r, doesn't the cold weather feel good? Don't worry about having that baby, little mother... the American Medical Association says you have 999 chances out of a thousand of going safely through your ordeal, and your baby can look forward to living to be 70. If you had had him in 1900, however, he could have looked forward to only 49 years.

The Association of Gas Writers listed this item by Tony Farrar as one of the ten best gags of 1951: "I've found a wonderful use for food leftovers. I eat them."

No wonder people haven't been laughing much this year... one out of every 10 criminals is a woman, says mystery writer Brett Halliday... the chief feminine crime: drunkenness... any bartender will agree with that.

Now a good word for the ladies... Arthur Cremin, president of the Music Lovers League, says women are generally better singers than men because "they are more soulful and sensitive."

The highest known human community is 18,000 feet up in the Andes Mountains in South America... There are more than 900,000 species of living animals... the insects lead with 675,000 varieties, not including those still uncatalogued along Broadway.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Moré than 100 bus-loads of girls take off from downtown Washington every week to go dancing with servicemen in some 30 military installations around the capital.

These junior hostesses, most of whom work for the government, are hand-picked, interviewed by club workers, checked for security and given special training courses by the Armed Services Hospitality Committee. All of them carry identification cards bearing their photographs.

They have to take a written test on military security. Their identification cards are like the ones the servicemen themselves carry. The girls have to show them to the chaperones who accompany them on the buses and can't get into camps without them.

Girls are not allowed to leave the hall during a dance. One of them, writing for a pamphlet put out by the Hospitality Committee called "Mother, May I go out to Dance?" says: "The high school dance back home had plenty of intermissions, and there was plenty of necking in the parked cars. For my money, I think they are quite strict here."

Mrs. Winifred Baker, recreation director in charge of social programs for the military district of Washington, tells me she has had few problems to cope with since she first started a program in 1941 at Fort Belvoir, Ga.

When directors of the camp service clubs call Mrs. Baker to see about getting girls for a dance, she contacts the Hospitality Committee, which keeps a file of girls who have been cleared. She estimates that one girl for every three or four men is a proper proportion, and if there are service women on the post she asks for even fewer civilians.

"One girl for every man is too many," she said. "Some of the men don't dance and that inevitably leaves a few wall-flowers."

Music may be provided by orchestras on the post or hired from town. Round dances are given one night, square dances another at Fort Belvoir, in nearby Virginia, dances are held on different nights in each of the post's three clubs.

I HAVE TO LIVE IN THIS WORLD!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in our world for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church: (1) For his own edification. (2) For the edification of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his need and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Friday	... Psalm	1	6-8
Saturday	... Psalm	1	6-8

I'm just a little nervous—and it's big people like you who run the world. But I sure do wish you would think about me, 'cause I have to live in this world when I grow up.

I know it's not your fault that things are the way they are. But if you want to give me a break, you might start improving the world now.

The Church up the street can help you improve yourself. And pretty soon I'll be there too, learning the lessons I need. And the family next door, we could invite them to go with us every Sunday. And the rest of the folks in town—we can give them a sample of what we believe by treating them the way we like to be treated ourselves.

Understand... I don't know all the answers. But God does!

Just listen to Him—that's all I ask!

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS

The muddy prospects for tonight's game at College Stadium calls to mind the last game played between East Carolina and Appalachian. That was last year's contest in Boone.

The Pirates, who lost only three games all last season, went into Boone where the first thing that greeted them was extremely cold weather. By the time playing time had rolled around, the plain cold had been bolstered by a driving rain which later turned to a conglomeration of ice, snow and sleet. The Mountaineers won the game 20-0 with halfback Jack Groce standing as the big man in the victory.

There will be different squads tonight, but it surely looks as if there might be much the same type of weather for the game this year. The cold rain has surned College Stadium in a veritable sea of mud and as this is being written, there is little hope of the rain stopping.

The Mountaineer attack has been led again this year by the elusive Groce. In six games thus far, he has carried the ball 74 times and picked up 506 yards for a near-seven yards per carry average. He's been the wheelhorse of the Appalachian attack which has scored 66 points while holding the opponents to 61.

Groce's chief aid in the three Mountaineer victories thus far this season has been the other half, Steve Gabriel (the last name was erroneously spelled "Grayhill" earlier in the week). Gabriel does most of the passing, having completed 11 out of 32 thus far this year.

Perhaps the man who deserves much of the credit for the smoothness of the Appalachian attack is quarterback Alvin Hooks. Hooks is from Rocky Mount and played high school football, basketball, and baseball before going to the hills for his higher education.

Alvin is the brother of Wake Forest's great Gene Hooks, the All-America baseball player who spent this past season with Springfield, Mass., in the AAA International League.

The Appa. North State Conference champs for the past two seasons have won two and lost three within the Conference thus far this year. They have defeated

Western Carolina and Guilford while losing to Catawba (2-0), Elon (20-6), and Lenoir Rhyne (20-0). Their other victory came last week at the expense of Tampa University in a 14-13 thriller. Tampa had earlier defeated Lenoir Rhyne.

Tonight's game will be broadcast, according to information received by Coach Bill Dole of the Pirates, through the courtesy of the people of Tampa. The citizens of that Florida city raised the money to have the game broadcast to Appalachian tackle Gerald Adams who is still in a Tampa hospital with a serious kidney injury. Adams was hurt in last Saturday's Appalachian-Tampa game.

There will be several EOC seniors in the line-up tonight who will be making their final home appearance. Don MacKenzie, Mike Kovack, Bob Bradley, George Graybill, and Pete Meadows are the members of the squad who are playing in their last home game. Cecil Winslow would have been included in the list had he not been injured in the game with Guilford two weeks ago and forced to the sidelines before that game was over.

Kick-off time will be 7:30.

The rain yesterday surely played havoc with two of the column's football predictions.

Greenville High School was edged 7-6 by a late rally by Camp Lejeune, and State College got lost in the snow to lose 26-2 to Louisville.

Oh, well — I've still got the Carolina-Tennessee, Duke-Tech, and EOC-Appalachian games to look forward to.

The rain yesterday didn't help the British Ryder Cup team very much as the American squad went into a 3-1 lead after the first day's action. Many observers had thought that if the visiting links-men could have gotten rain, they would have moved out into the front but such proved to be not the case.

Many close observers of Ryder Cup golf will tell you today that with a 3-1 lead, the Americans can almost count themselves victorious. They'll cite Britain's glaring weakness — lack of confidence — for evidence.

2c 30 Ital—LEJEUNE

By SGT. BOB VAN ATTA (Lejeune Public Relations Officer)

CAMP LEJEUNE—It was all a day of rain and mud here yesterday, but Camp Lejeune High School's Devil Pups bulldozed their way to a 7-6 decision over Greenville High's Phantoms.

Lejeune came from behind in the third period and marched 67 yards for its only touchdown of the day, with the scoring play starting out as a short pass from Halfback Ron Hodge to End Howard Waller. Waller broke into the clear soon after he had caught the pass and went 41 yards for a TD. Fullback Jack Henry plunged through the center of the line for the game-winning extra point.

After a scoreless first half, Greenville took over the lead by scoring the first time it got the ball. Starting on their own 41 yard line, the Phantoms marched 59 yards for the marker, with Sid Biley either carrying or passing the ball on every play.

The drive came to an end as Biley tossed 25 yards to Glenn Scott for the touchdown. A bad pass from center on the attempted conversion forced the kicker, Scott, to be smothered by a host of tacklers as he attempted to run with the ball.

Soon after Camp Lejeune scored, Phantom Guard Anwer Joseph blocked a Devil Pup punt on Lejeune's 35-yard line. "The Greenville threat ended a few seconds later as Charlie Sells intercepted a Biley pass on his own 22."

Greenville threatened time after time in the hectic second half, but was unable to cross the goal line after the first try. It took the ball on downs late in the fourth period on the Lejeune 31, but three incomplete passes and a four yard running loss killed the attack.

Coach Bill Kittrell's boys also threatened early in the first quarter, marching to a first down on the Lejeune 30.

A pass from Biley to team captain and End Joe Rowland was dropped in the end zone, and Greenville was penalized 15 yards on the next play for a personal foul, and the drive was chilled.

Greenville Coach Kittrell commented after the game that "This was the best defensive game that my line has played all year." Bob Conway led the Phantoms' ground attack, while Bob Tindal paced the line.

Greenville has only one more game left on its schedule, with Roanoke Rapids next week.

Starting lineup: Lejeune LE—W. Conway LT—Tindal RB—Marshall LG—Nunn C—Huffstetler RB—Hux RT—Murray RE—Rowland LH—Scott QB—Biley RH—Morgan FB—Smith Henry

Bungling Referee Charged By D. A. In Cage Scandal

NEW YORK (UP)—A referee who bungled his first attempt at fixing a basketball game for gamblers and then "begged for another chance to make good," was held in $15,000 bail today in the latest development of the ever-widening scandal.

District Attorney Frank Hogan unseated the story of Sol Levy, 41-year-old professional and college referee, who was charged with accepting a total of $3,000 "to shave the point-spread" in three National Basketball Association games last season.

Levy, whose case will be heard Nov. 13, protested that he was innocent. According to Hogan, Levy maintained that he merely had been "a good listener" to gamblers' offers, and did not know what "shaving points or the point-spread was until a month ago."

Hogan charged that Levy rigged the outcome of games 1, calling personal fouls on star players so that they would either be ejected or become so hampered to diminish their effectiveness.

The referee's bribers were old hands at fixing games, too. They were Salvatore Solazzo, allegedly the prime mover behind many college fixes, and Eddie Gard, former Long Island University star, who has been indicted for numerous fixes.

According to Hogan, Levy was directed to foul out George Mikan of the Minneapolis Lakers in a game against the Washington Capitols, but the Lakers won, 91-85.

Hogan said that Solazzo, who had "lost a large sum of money on the game, was 'screaming mad' at Levy. The referee 'was plentiful' Hogan related, 'and begged for another chance to make good.' Levy complained that it was difficult to fix a game in view of 10,000 fans.

Given another chance, Levy then fixed the outcome of the Boston Celtics' 88-87 victory over Washington, but then "hindered" the Indianapolis Olympians in their 78-75 setback by the Celtics, Hogan said.

Putting Genius Gives Americans Ryder Cup Lead

By STAN OPOTOWSKY
United Press Sports Writer
PINEHURST, N. C. (UP)—The U. S. Ryder Cup team threatened today to make the international golf matches a humiliating rout because they're beating the British at their own game.

The Yanks carry a 3-1 lead into the singles matches of the 12-point series tomorrow. They gained that lead yesterday with their deadly approach shots and putts, where they were supposed to edge their foes with big drives.

In the eight match-play duels Sunday, the Americans rated as overwhelming favorites even before the actual pairings were announced.

The sterling putts of Jack Burke Jr. gave this lot of the tees and Clayton Heafner a 5 and 3 victory over British Open champion Max Faulkner and Dai Rees. Sam Snee's 41 brilliant approach shots gave him a 2 and 1 triumph over the No. 1 British duo, Scotsmen Jimmy Adams and John Patton. And Burtam Ben Hogan's unflinching putted him and jaunty Jimmy Demaret to a 5 and 4 win over Fred Daly and Ken Bousfield.

Only in the lone British victory did the visitors stand out when they left the tee. Charley Ward putted like a Hogan or a Burke to lead his partner, Dai Rees, to a 2 and 1 victory over Ed Oliver and Henry Ransom.

These 36-hole Scotch foursome matches — in which the team members take alternate shots — are more to the British liking, because they play them often. In the man-to-man play Sunday the Yanks will be as much at home as their rivals.

Burke sank two 25-foot putts, one 10-footer and two longer than six feet to give his team a 2 up lead over the first 18 holes of yesterday's 36-hole match. The 29-year old baby of the American team was in on the kill, too, closing out the match when he chipped two feet from the pin for an eventual birdie two on the clinching 15th.

Hogan sank putts of 20, six, and 11 feet for birdies on the first three holes of his match, and from then on it was just a matter of playing out the string. Once the Americans went 8 up on the morning round, only to blow part of the lead when Demaret missed a pair of eight-foot putts for bogeys.

"But Captain Sneed of the Yanks is not worried about Demaret. 'As long as Ben Hogan is around, Jimmy will sharpen up,'" Sneed said.

Sneed's approach constantly set up the winning holes for his team. Once he laid the British a stymie.

But Ward was doing as well as his American foes, and hence is the No. 1 British hope for a victory tomorrow. Ward gave his team three straight birdies on the back nine of the opening round with putts of six, 20 and 10 feet.

The worst trouncing the British ever have suffered was 11-1 four years ago. Any victory they pick up tomorrow's singles will be an improvement on that 1947 debacle.

Pirates-Mountaineers Play Tonight On College Field

Plymouth Holds Favored Ayden To 6-6 Tie

PLYMOUTH — Plymouth battled a heavily favored Ayden team to a 6-6 tie here last night in a contest that was played in rain and mud.

Plymouth took the lead early in the second quarter as quarterback Lynnwood Brown tossed a 16 yard pass to right end Bobby Davenport for the touchdown. A running attempt for the extra point was no good.

The Tornados came back in the third period to knot the score. End Mac Whitehurst blocked a Plymouth punt on the 10 yard line and center Curtis Dennis recovered for Ayden on the 8. A running play lost four yards, and then John Cheek went over from the 12 on a double reverse. Hal Edwards was stopped short of the goal line for the extra point.

Neither team was able to penetrate very far in the other's territory in the scoreless fourth period. Plymouth reached the 23 yard line before Ayden's defense tightened up and held them on downs.

The game was primarily a defensive affair because of the wet condition of the ball. Edwards and Dennis led the Tornado defense.

It was the first tie for an Ayden team in over eight years.

Last Saturday, several hundred Aggie cadets carried the Baylor players off the field on their shoulders.

The first offspring of Stymie will get to the races at Hialeah this winter. Wonder if their names will reflect the language that stymies (in golf) produce? . . . College talent scouts are giving Portsmouth, Va., hotels plenty of business. They all want to look over Jerry Mings, a big tackle at Woodrow Wilson High; Jessel Curry a great basketball prospect and a good quarterback; and Mickey Riggs, who can sprint with or without a football.

Although the promise of a sea of mud continued to stare them in the face, football squads of East Carolina College and Appalachian continued to appear for the North State Conference contest tonight in East Carolina's College Stadium.

Yesterday's cold, steady rain washed out any hopes of a final light workout for either of the two clubs. But, as a result, both squads went through skull sessions which reviewed their own formations plus those of their opponents for tonight.

Coach Bill Dole of the Pirates has already announced that the East Carolina line-up will see several switches again tonight in their final home contest of the year.

George Graybill, long an offensive guard in the Pirates' "T" attack, has been switched to defensive end by Dole and will play at that position tonight. His place on the offensive team will be taken over by John Stuart. Graybill is one of the EOC seniors making their final home appearance for the Pirates with tonight's contest.

Bill McDonald, a 200 pound offensive tackle for three years, has been shifted to defensive guard by the Pirates in an effort to strengthen a weakness at that post. McDonald's post on offense will be assumed by Nick Kanos, a 196 pound freshman from Fayetteville, who will be starting his second straight game. Kanos started out the year as a thoroughly unheralded reserve and only got into his first real action last week when he started against Lenoir Rhyne.

In the defensive backfield, John Daughtry, who has been dividing the linebacker duties and halfback chores, has been given a permanent job backing up the line. This will release Claude King for strictly offensive action as the left halfback.

The final change in the defense has freshman Tom Cannady playing halfback in place of Jack Bencie, who will be used solely on offense tonight. Cannady has not seen any previous action this year but has come along fast and is the second fastest man on the squad.

The probable offensive line-ups for tonight's game:

The Pirates' defensive line-up will have Bobby Hodges and Don Burton at the ends, Willie Holland and Al Auerback at the tackles, Jesse Aldridge and Bill McDonald at the guards, John Daughtry and Gaither Cline backing up the line, Tom Cannady and Tippy Hayes at the halfbacks, and Boyd Webb at the safety position.

Postponed

FARMVILLE — Officials of Farmville High School postponed the scheduled football game between Farmville and South Edgecombe last night, moving back the game time to Monday night at 8 p.m.

Bad weather conditions caused the postponement of the game, which was to have been Farmville's Homecoming game.

Novacaine Used To Win '45 Flag

DETROIT—(AP)—The use of a pain-killing drug on Detroit Tiger pitcher Hal Newhouse in the 1945 season was bared today, but with the implication that the practice was a normal one.

Both Newhouse, and Dr. Raymond Forsyth, who administered the drug, confirmed a statement by Steve O'Neill, former Detroit manager, on the use of novocaine on Newhouse.

O'Neill, in an interview with Al Hirschberg, sports writer of the Boston Post, described the use of the drug on Newhouse.

"If it wasn't for that stuff," Hirschberg quotes O'Neill as saying, "we'd never have won the pennant because Hal never would have been able to pitch."

Dr. Forsyth, contacted in Peoria, Ill., said that he had used novocaine "many times" on players of the Detroit Tigers baseball team, the Detroit Lions pro football team, and the University of Detroit football team, with which he is now team physician.

"There is no doping situation involved," he said. "The drug is merely used as an aid for healing."

Green Wave Dumps Scotland Neck' 33-6

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Writer

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston's defending Class A champions ground out a 33-6 victory over an out-clasped but stubborn Scotland Neck team here last night to take their sixteenth win in a row, over a two-year span.

Playing in a hard drizzle and running in mud, a Scotland Neck punt was blocked on its own two yard line soon after the opening kickoff as Joe Robertson burst through the Scot line to bang the ball. Bobby Mobley recovered in the end zone for a Williamston touchdown. Tackle Jack Ross converted and Williamston took the lead, 7-0, with less than three minutes gone in the game.

The winners came back again late in the same period recovering a Scot fumble and marching 65 yards for the TD. Herbert Harrell slipped and scooped his way through the mud for nearly 50 yards to set up the score, and David Davis took it over for the second touchdown from 14 yards out. Ross' conversion gave the Green Wave a 14-0 margin.

The second quarter story was the same, as Williamston recovered a fumble on the nine yard line of Scotland Neck. Harrell went over standing up for the touchdown. Ross' kick was blocked this time by the center of the Scot line.

Scotland Neck, trailing the stronger Williamston club by a 20-0 count at the time, came charging back as the second half got underway. The Scots kicked off and Williamston was stopped on the 30. An illegal use of hands penalty carried the ball back to the 12 yard line, and Scotland Neck took possession on the first play from scrimmage as Charles White recovered the elusive ball on the 15 yard line.

A running play and a pass that was dropped in the end zone netted next play, they picked up a first only one yard for the Scots. On the down on the two yard line as Raynes Lilly pulled in a pass from Marvin Brady, good for 12 yards.

Williamston held on for two plays, but Billy Frank took the ball from Brady on a Statue of Liberty play and went around left end for the touchdown. An attempted pass to Franks for the extra point was incomplete.

Williamston took over from there, and had a touchdown two plays after the ensuing kickoff. With the ball on the 35, Halfback Billy Lassiter went off right guard and broke through the Scot secondary, going 65 yards for the score. Ross' conversion was good, and Williamston led by a 27-6 count.

Lassiter scored once again as Scotland Neck fumbled on the second play after the kickoff and Quinn recovered for Williamston on the 35. He went all the way on the first play from scrimmage for the touchdown. The Scotland Neck line blocked the extra point attempt again, and the scoring was finished, as the fourth period emerged scoreless.

Lassiter was easily the outstanding Green Wave player on offense. Quinn and Joe Robertson led the defensive line for Coach Carroll Blackwell.

For the losing Scots, Billy Franks and Quarterback Marvin Brady paced them on offense. Franks teamed with Charles White to lead the defensive contingent.

Williamston tangles with Ashokic next week to decide the championship in the Albemarle Conference. The Indians edged Scotland Neck, who was hampered somewhat last night by injuries to five key players, in the season opener by a 12-0 score.

Autopsy Ordered In Death Of Star

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Doctors ordered an autopsy today in an effort to learn what injured star halfback Ronnie Nannini, 18, fatally in the opening play of a high school football game.

Nannini fell under a mass of tacklers after returning the initial kick off 10 yards in the Oakland High-Fremont game yesterday afternoon.

He was taken off the field with a broken hip and rushed to Providence Hospital by police ambulance. Doctors successfully reset the fractured bone. But he died while under anesthetic.

Doctors said he complained of severe abdominal pains. Blame for the death ranged from heart trouble to possibly undisclosed internal injuries. An inquest was set for Monday.

The American Football Coaches Association said 11 high school players have been killed so far this year—six directly and five indirectly from grid play. Thirteen died last year.

Detroit, Browns, Indians In Three Way Trade Report

Cleveland—(AP)—Bill Veeck, the St. Louis Browns owner, is visiting Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians today to see if he can make a trade and gain some young pitchers.

Veeck—who has been telephoning the Indians' general manager ever since Greenberg took charge—has been expected to have his eyes on pitcher Bob Chakales, Dick Rozek and Sam Jones. But there were few indications Greenberg was interested in any of the Brownies except possibly catchers Sherm Lollar and Matt Batts.

There were reports in Detroit, however, that Greenberg has been discussing trades with the Tigers. One story was that he had offered catcher Jim Hegan, third baseman Al Rosen and a pitcher in hopes of getting from the Tigers third baseman George Kell, outfielder Vic Wertz and catcher Joe Ginsberg. Charley Gehringer, Tiger general manager, said he would be interested in that deal only if the pitcher was a first liner such as Bob Lemon or Bob Feller.

Veeck—who owned the Indians once—is rumored to have worked out a deal whereby he would trade his star pitcher, Ned Garver, to the New York Yankees for outfielder Hank Bauer and a number of youthful Yankees. Cleveland would be interested in getting Bauer.

Dodgers Will Sign Dressen For 1952 Says Robinson

NEW YORK (UP)—Jackie Robinson may have tipped the Brooklyn Dodgers' hand when he declared that Charley Dressen will be back to manage the club next season.

Robinson revealed yesterday that the club owner Walter O'Malley announced he would present Dressen with a new one-year contract. The Negro star said O'Malley made the statement following the final game of the national play-off against the New York Giants.

The Dodgers have scheduled a press conference Monday, presumably to announce their 1952 managerial plans.

"When O'Malley announced in the clubhouse after the playoffs that Dressen would be back, we all cheered," Robinson said. "I'm certainly glad he's going to be back and we'll prove that we're behind him."

Kiwanians Elect Milo Smith New Club President

The Greenville Kiwanis Club last night elected Milo Smith president for 1951. He succeeds Dr. H. Glenn Haney.

The Kiwanians elected Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, dean at East Carolina College, vice-president, and he succeeds Milo Smith.

Four new directors are Henry L. Andrews, Dr. J. M. Barrett, Ted Ashworth and J. C. (Red) Clifford. They succeed D. H. Conley, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, J. R. Pittman and R. W. Shiple. New officers and directors take office at the first meeting in January.

Eight members compose the Kiwanis board of directors. The four holdover directors are John T. Barnhill, Bill B. Drum, Dr. D. L. Moore and Dr. John R. Reynolds. The secretary-treasurer is appointed by the directors at their first meeting in January.

Mrs. J.H.B. Moore of Greenville addressed the Kiwanians briefly about the State Art Society and mentioned the present drive to obtain new members. Dr. John D. Messick and Dr. S. H. Crisp spoke in favor of it.

Kiwanian Ed Waldrop directed the program. He called on some of the newer members of the club to give a brief outline of their history. They were Guy C. Langston, Dr. Howard H. Grady, Elbert H. Bennett, L. F. (Buck) Johnson, Dr. Orval L. Phillips, H. Frank Steinbeck and Ed S. Jones.

President Haney thanked the Kiwanis committee for its part in making the Halloween party at G. Smith Stadium a success.

Dr. Orval L. Phillips won the attendance prize. The following Kiwanians had birthdays and they donated a nickel for each year of their age: Fred Stokes, Dr. D. L. Moore, and Dr. Stephen R. Bartlett.

Soil Testing In Pitt Urged 'Now'

"We urge all Pitt County farmers who are interested in taking soil samples to do so within the next two months if at all possible," James Meredith, secretary of the Pitt County Production and Marketing Administration said today.

"November and December are both relatively slack months for the State Soil Testing Laboratory, and thus, samples received during this period can be handled promptly," he added.

PMA officials revealed that though North Carolina farmers use more commercial fertilizer than any other state, a recent summary of tests show that many plant deficiencies exist. They said that if the farmers of Pitt County are to get the maximum return for their fertilizer dollars, it is necessary for them to use fertilizers that will correct the many plant deficiencies.

"Soil tests will point out what is needed," Meredith said, "and if samples are submitted soon, a report can be made in time for farmers to buy the lime and fertilizer their soils will need for the spring crops."

Two stiff fines for violating the fishing law were levied by Judge Nimocks yesterday as the October term of Pitt County Superior Court came to a close.

Howard Wiley and Richard Farris, who were charged with dynamiting fish in Contentnea Creek, were given 30 days on the roads, sentence suspended provided each pay a fine of $100 and the costs, and not violate any fish or game law for five years, said violation to put road sentence into effect.

Harvey Bowen, violating the motor vehicle law, called and failed, capias issued.

Robert H. Short, Jr., larceny, called and failed, capias issued; Rudolph Manning, larceny, and breaking and entering and larceny, not-pros with leave in both cases.

Sweet Potato Sales Hit 3,000 Bushels Friday

BETHEL—Sales on the auction sweet potato market yesterday totaled about 3,000 bushels. Prices ranged from $2.25 to $3.70 a bushel.

J. L. Brown, auctioneer, said the quality of the day's offerings was not as good as on previous days. He urged growers to pack the baskets with uniform potatoes and see that they weigh at least 60 pounds. Care in packing results in better prices, he said.

The Bethel sweet potato market is open daily except Monday. Sales are held from 9 a. m. to noon and from 2 to 5 p. m. Saturday's sales start at 9 a. m. and end at noon.
