Intense Effort To Relax Sentencing Of Pair Is Futile

Some 140 Pitt Citizens Swamp Paroles Office With Letters In Assault Case; One Prisoner Has Long Record

Efforts of some 140 Pitt County citizens to keep two Pitt men from serving sentences imposed by the April special term of Superior Court apparently will go to no avail. The two men, Thad Braxton Jr. and Herman Newell, both of the Ayden community, are slated to report tomorrow to begin serving terms for assault with a deadly weapon and conspiracy to assault with a deadly weapon.

State Paroles Commissioner T. C. Johnson, in a telephone conversation this morning from Raleigh with The Reflector, said his office has been swamped recently with letters and petitions from Pitt citizens requesting the two men be put on parole or probation rather than being made to serve their sentences. "We have taken no further action and do not contemplate any," the head of the State Paroles Commission declared. "We granted a two week reprieve for investigation and we have declined to commute the sentences."

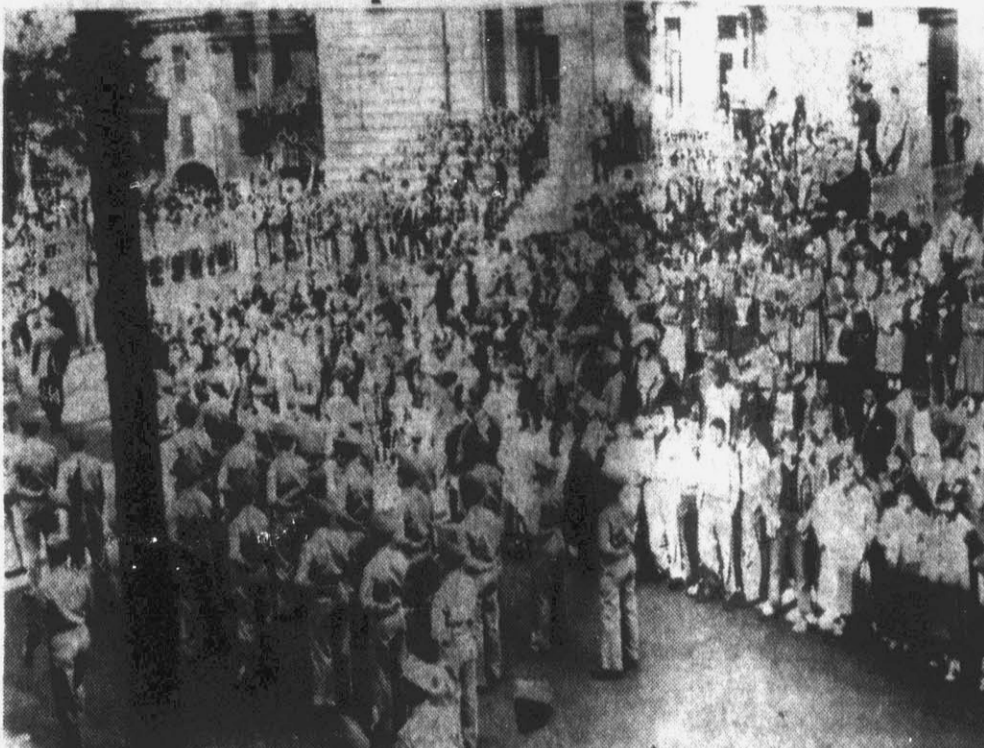

The case grew out of action in Pitt Superior Court last April when three Pitt men and two Greene County men were on trial for kidnapping and assaulting three Negro men, two from Pitt County and one from Greene County. During the trial the charge of kidnapping was dropped, and the five defendants were convicted of assault with a deadly weapon and conspiracy to assault with a deadly weapon. Braxton was sentenced to six years, Newell sentenced to four years, and sentences were also imposed on Fennie Croom of Pitt, Earl Stocks and Earl Everett of Greene County.

Judge Henry Grady of New Bern, who presided at the trial, recommended the sentences of Stocks and Everett and placed them on parole. He allowed Braxton, Newell and Croom until November 1 to begin serving their sentences. Since that time, however, Croom has been convicted of a liquor charge in federal court, and is serving a 12 months sentence in federal penitentiary.

Braxton and Newell were originally scheduled to begin serving their sentences November 1, but a two weeks reprieve by the state Paroles Commission allowed them until November 14 to begin the sentences. Johnson said this morning the Paroles Commission has investigated the cases and has declined to commute the sentences. The paroles chief said, however, that an unusually large number of letters urging paroles for Newell and Braxton have been received by his office in the past two weeks. The letters urging paroles included letters from M. Brown Hodges, chairman of the Pitt County board of commissioners, Frank M. Kilpatrick, Pitt representative in the General Assembly, and Judge Henry Grady of New Bern who presided at the trial.

Commenting on Judge Grady's letter, Johnson said, "Judge Grady recommended that two persons be given suspended sentences on condition they pay $500 to the injured parties. We declined to consider that condition as other than the condition of his recommendation, because we could not make that a condition of a suspended sentence." According to court records available here, Braxton has faced charges in Pitt recorder's court and Pitt Superior Court 11 times since 1941. Newell has no previous court record, according to information available. According to the Paroles Commission office in Raleigh, letters in behalf of Braxton carried the signatures of the following people: Roger Johnson, J. L. Quinerly, M. B. Hodges, J. M. Whitehurst, James Ross, Zeb Manning, H. H. Adams, N. L. Bradshaw, Paul A. Bradley, Garland Little, J. Raymond Bullock, F. M. Kilpatrick, J. B. Hemby, Raymond Lee Collins, H. F. Buntin, Milton Kilpatrick, A. F. Rowe, E. W. Fleming, Walter Joyner, W. L. Johnson, Mrs. William Rouse, W. move.

Hundreds Participate In Community Chest Parade

Literally hundreds of men, women and children yesterday participated in the long Community Chest parade which was a preview of the opening of the 1951 Community Chest campaign in Greenville. Participating in the parade were bands of Greenville High School and C. M. Epps High School, the AROTC drum and bugle corps of East Carolina College, and representatives of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Teen-age clubs, Service League Thrift Shop, the Emergency Charity fund and the United Defense fund. The photo above shows the crowd gathered at the court house for a brief talk on the Community Chest, and brief Armistice Day ceremonies. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Chest Drive Off To Start Today

Special Gifts Teams Begin Solicitations For Larger Goal

Special gifts teams of the Greenville Community Chest this morning began calling on Greenville business firms for contributions to the Red Feather organizations as the 1951 Community Chest campaign moved into high gear. A kick-off breakfast was held this morning for the white special gift solicitors and a similar kick-off meeting was held last night for the Negro leaders in the Community Chest campaign.

A goal of $12,000 has been set for the current fund raising campaign for the support of the six local organizations included in the Community Chest. The Chest funds will be divided between the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Teen-age club, Service League Thrift Shop, Emergency Charity fund and the United Defense fund. Campaign Chairman Alton Johnston this morning told members of the special gifts teams, "If you saw that parade yesterday, I know you are inspired to do your utmost to make the Community Chest campaign a success." He referred to the mile-long parade through downtown Greenville which included representatives of all the agencies which are included in the Community Chest. Johnston urged the solicitors to "express the need for increased contributions to the Community Chest this year to meet the increased needs."

Special Gifts Chairman Reynolds May made assignments to solicitors at the meeting, and urged them to complete their solicitations today or tomorrow. E. E. Rawl reported at the meeting this morning that local warehousemen have contributed a total of $1,075 to start the 1951 Red Feather drive, and H. Frank Steinbeck reported the committee for branch stores already has received contributions totaling $746.03 and an additional $100 in pledges. The special gifts solicitations will continue today and tomorrow, and on Thursday the general and residential solicitations for the Community Chest will begin throughout the city. More than 150 local citizens are expected to join in the solicitations for Chest funds by the end of the week.

Prison Camp Has Too Many Boys

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Whittier Prison Camp has more bad boys than it can handle. Superintendent Troy Martin said today his camp has room to take only four prisoners in solitary confinement. Nine were ordered placed in solitary over the weekend. The extra five "disgruntled" and "troublemakers" were taken to more spacious Craggy Prison Camp in what Martin called a "routine" move.

Continued in many instances, and much more freight will have to be transported by truck. The board voted unanimously to authorize the Transportation Committee to cooperate in every way possible to promote the extension of highway 13. A petition from the Norfolk and Southern Railroad requesting permission to remove trains number one and two from service was presented. Discussion revealed that the trains were operated as mail carriers, and when the new U. S. Mail bus went into service, the railroad lost the government mail contract. The freight that is normally transported on these trains will now be carried by trucks operated by the Railway Company and the Norfolk and Southern Bus Company. Kyzer stated that none of the chamber's members had called to complain about the removal of the two trains. A. H. Campbell, manager of Station WGTC, elaborated on plans now underway to set up a television transmitting station in Greenville. "We have about $60,000 subscribed now, and about $40,000 more will be forthcoming when any positive action is taken. We are very pleased with the re-

Dixie Governors Angriely Reject Plea By Rayburn

Partisan Nature Of Speech And Pro-Truman Stand By House Speaker Evokes Cold Reception From Most Delegates

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UP)—Anti-Truman Southern governors angrily rejected today a plea by House Speaker Sam Rayburn to soft-pedal their opposition to the President. Rayburn's speech last night to the Southern Governors' conference, in which he pledged personal support to the 1952 Democratic nominee, whoever he may be, fanned the flames of the Dixie revolt. Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, one-time Truman secretary of state and now acknowledged leader of the Southern opposition, sat impassively through the scattered applause that greeted Rayburn's stand. Byrnes reserved any comment until a press conference today.

Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia exploded immediately with a comment that the only way to avoid a split in the Democratic party is to drop the proposed Fair Employment Practices Commission, restore the two-thirds rule at the national nominating convention and "not to renominate Harry Truman." Retiring Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi and Gov.-elect Hugh White who succeeds him in January issued a joint statement criticizing the political character of Rayburn's speech and declaring they will not support a party nominee who isn't completely acceptable to the South. The partisan nature of Rayburn's speech provoked a walk-out by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, the only Republican governor at the conference. McKeldin told reporters it was "outrageous" as he stalked from the banquet hall. Later he issued a statement in which he said, in part: "My first reaction to the speech of Speaker Rayburn was amazement at the smearing of former President Hoover. Amazement"

Way Cleared For Inquiry In D. C.

KEY WEST (AP)—President Truman cleared the way today for a congressional inspection of tax returns in connection with a crime investigation at Washington, D. C. He signed an executive order making the returns available at the request of Chairman Neely (W-Va.) of a committee inquiring into alleged connections between gamblers and Washington police officers. The order is a far reaching one. Mr. Truman actually signed it last night, but it was not made public until today when it was sent to Washington aboard a courier plane which brought it and other documents to Key West. Mr. Truman ordered the draft prepared before he flew to Key West last Thursday. It covers income, excess profits and all other tax returns pertinent to the inquiry. The executive order was disclosed along with an order from Secretary of Treasury Snyder to all Internal Revenue collectors to co-operate with the investigation. Snyder's order calls for a written request from Senator Neely to the Secretary of Treasury giving the names and addresses of the taxpayers "whose returns it is necessary to inspect." This would make it possible to inspect returns of policemen, gamblers or any others whose names may be brought into the inquiry.

Iran Gets Loan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Iran, almost bankrupt in a dispute with Great Britain over its oil reserves, received an $875,000 emergency credit today from the International Monetary Fund. The fund announced it would exchange that amount in dollars for Iranian rials at the rate of 32.25 rials per dollar. Iran can spend the dollars now to bolster its tottering economy and return them to the fund when it weathers its financial crisis. The fund's action gives Iran at least a temporary breathing spell in the economic crisis arising from its dispute with Great Britain over the Iranian government's move to take over oil properties formerly held by England.

Taft To Avoid Impending Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Supporters indicated today Senator Taft (R-Ohio) will keep clear of an impending battle for control of Pennsylvania's 70-vote delegation to next year's GOP presidential nominating convention. Although Taft's backers believe he can gain some support among these delegates in his bid for top spot on the ticket, they said that unless plans are changed his name will not be entered in the state's April 23 presidential primary.

UN Votes Debate Chinese Charges

PARIS (UP)—The United Nations delivered three defeats to Russia today in key areas of the cold war—China, Germany and Yugoslavia. Over the protests of Russian delegates the General Assembly voted: 1. By 30 to 8 with 13 abstentions to debate Nationalist China's charge that the Kremlin threatens China's independence. 2. By 47 to 6 with two abstentions to discuss the establishment of a U.N. commission to determine the possibility of all-German elections to unify the split nation. 3. By 44 to 5 with four abstentions to hear Yugoslavia's charges of aggression against Marshal Tito by Russia and its satellites. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky and his fellow delegates Jacob A. Malik and A. A. Sobolev shouted denunciations of the "Kuomintang gang," "American imperialists and capitalists" and the "Tito gang."

Twenty Die, 49 Injured In Crash Of Streamliners

EVANSTON, Wyo. (UP)—Twenty persons were killed and 49 injured yesterday when two Union Pacific streamliners crashed in a snow-storm, and today authorities planned to question a badly injured fireman to learn the cause of the disaster. John Branstetter, 38, Evanston, was the only survivor of the three-man crew in the four-unit diesel engine of the City of San Francisco that plowed through the rear four cars of its sister Eastbound train, the City of Los Angeles. The Los Angeles-to-Chicago train had halted briefly at a siding four miles west of Evanston, so its engineer could determine if a snow-covered signal indicated he should proceed. The City of Los Angeles had just started up again when the City of San Francisco smashed through the silver-painted observation car, ripping it apart like a tin can, and telescoped on through three Pullmans. Witnesses said the engine slipped before screams of the injured rose from the snow-covered wreckage. A woman who saw the scene described it as looking "like my boy's train when he goes to bed at night." All the passengers who were killed were on the City of Los Angeles. So were most of the 49 who were injured, 10 seriously. Witnesses said that the fact the City of San Francisco was moving relatively slowly because of the poor visibility prevented the casualty list from being much higher. With Branstetter in the San Francisco's power unit were engineer Reese M. Paul, 55, Evanston, and electrician Norman Evans, 56, Omaha. The latter were killed but the fireman was expected to survive. Among the occupants of the sleek trains were many medical men returning to Eastern offices from last week's convention in San Francisco. Those who survived aided Evanston and surrounding community physicians in treating the injured at the hospital, designed to hold but 26 patients. But among the dead was Anthony S. Topolito, noted Chicago Orthopedist and former Purdue and Chicago Bears football star. Rescue crews had to fight snow and ice. Highways leading to the scene were so slippery it required one expert Wyoming driver four hours to travel 100 miles last night — that patrolmen blocked off all except essential travel. The death toll was the second highest in train wrecks this year. Eighty-five persons were killed Feb. 6 when a Pennsylvania commuter train jumped the track and plunged over an embankment at Woodbridge, N. J.

UN Negotiators Say Immediate Acceptance Might Cause Delay In Release Of Prisoners; Vandenberg Says Reds Using Entire Air Power In Manchuria

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The United Nations rejected today a virtual Communist demand for an "immediate" cease-fire in Korea. A U.N. communique said acceptance of the Red proposal at this point might delay if not forestall the release of thousands of Allied war prisoners in Communist hands. The U.N. will not agree to end the shooting until the disposition of war prisoners and enforcement of the truce have been assured, a U.N. spokesman said. The showdown came during a marathon five-hour meeting of the joint subcommittee seeking to trace a cease-fire line and buffer zone across Korea. The subcommittee will meet again at 11 a. m. Wednesday (9 p. m. Tuesday EST). The U.N. communique said the Communists made it clear that ever before that they want a cease-fire to take effect as soon as the truce line has been agreed upon "rather than when other essential matters are settled and an armistice is signed." "Today's stand by the Communists was virtually a renunciation of their previously stated position that hostilities should continue during the armistice talks," the communique said. "They would thus obtain success from U.N. military operations. Agreement on other agenda items, including the question of prisoners of war, which is viewed with extreme importance by the U.N. command, could be delayed thereby, if not forestalled." The Communist proposal specifically called for the cease-fire line to be based on the present battle line, with each side withdrawing two kilometers (1.4 miles) to form a buffer zone.

Chest Drive Leaders Get Heads Together

Three big cogs of the Greenville Community Chest campaign got their heads together for a last minute check this morning following the kick-off breakfast which officially opened the drive for $12,000. Pictured left to right are L. S. Ficklen, president of the Community Chest; Reynolds May, chairman of the special gifts committee, and Alton Johnston, general chairman of the 1951 fund campaign. C-Of-C Directors Plan Support Extension Of Arterial Highway

If the highway construction plans discussed last night by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce materialize, Greenville may well become the key eastern North Carolina city in an arterial highway stretching from Canada to Florida. The potential highway would be an extension of U. S. Route 13 from Norfolk through Greenville, Wallace, White Lake, Lumberton and into Marion, S. C. Chamber of Commerce Secretary W. T. Kyzer told the board that R. B. Nelson, Robersonville farmer, was pushing the project. "Nelson said he had already been to the U. S. Bureau of Roads and the N. C. Department of Highways, and both offices looked upon the project with favor," Kyzer stated. "He also has received the approval of the Pitt County Board of County Commissioners and the Greenville Board of Aldermen, in addition to boards in other cities and counties in the state." Board Member J. E. Waldrop said, "The realization of this new highway will be a boon to Greenville in that it will draw a lot of traffic through the city. The project is entirely plausible because railroad service is being discon-

Eastern Star Chapter Plans Thanksgiving Aid To Needy

On Tuesday, November 6, the Greenville Chapter No. 148, Order of the Eastern Star, held a regular meeting at the Masonic Temple.

The meeting was opened in ritualistic form by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Keith Downing Cain, after which the pledge of allegiance was given to the American Flag.

A routine business session followed. Mrs. Marguerite Howard made a very interesting and informative report on the work of the Ways and Means committee, of which she is chairman. She reported also that notes of thanks had been mailed to everyone who contributed to or helped in preparing or serving the recent Scottish Rite dinner.

Mrs. Howard was given a rising vote of thanks from the Chapter members in appreciation of the excellent work which she and her committee have done throughout the year.

Reports were heard from various other committee chairmen. Mrs. Helen Sermons reported that she was getting very good response in her Tar Heel Star news subscription campaign and that she hoped to reach her goal.

Mrs. Ruth Joyner gave an excellent report on her collection of Octagon Coupons and urged all members to contribute soon. These coupons are collected and sent to the Masonic and Eastern Star Homes where they are used for premiums to add to the comfort and happiness of the old people. It is a very deserving cause, and every one will want to have a part in it.

Plans were then made for remembering needy families at Thanksgiving. All members were invited to bring to the next meeting gifts for spreading Thanksgiving cheer. Mrs. Thelma Maxwell and Mrs. Josephine Rawl will act as co-chairman of this local charity

GREENSBORO—(AP)—Asheville's one-time slot machine big shot, Vaughn J. Cannon, will begin a two-year prison sentence Nov. 23.

Cannon was sentenced by Judge Johnson J. Hayes in middle district court yesterday. He pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) to a charge of attempting to defraud the government of $69,000 in income taxes for the year 1946.

Judge Hayes said he was reluctant to delay Cannon's imprisonment but he raised the defendant's bond to $15,000 after defense counsel said the time would be needed so that arrangement to pay the tax could be completed.

Cannon will also pay a fine of $10,000 unless he pays the tax.

Car Turns Over, Driver Arrested

A car driven by Moses Clemons, Negro, 106-B East Third Street, got out of control on West Third Street, near Ford Street, yesterday about 3:30 and turned over.

Police estimated damage to the car at $500. Clemons and Rosa Harris, 17, Negro, who lives on Fairfax Avenue, an occupant of his car, received head lacerations.

The investigating officer quoted Clemons as saying a tire blew out while he was trying to pass another car and that caused him to lose control. He arrested Clemons and charged him with careless and reckless driving and driving with defective brakes. The case is expected to come up in the traffic session of Police Court tomorrow morning.

Plans Completed For Lions' Dance

PLANS COMPLETED
Plans were completed last night at the meeting of the local Lions Club for the Tex Beneke dance to be held here Thursday night at the New Carolina Warehouse on Dickinson Avenue.

Ben Rouse, chairman of the ticket committee, reported that the advance sale of tickets has been very good and that "according to the sales to date, a large crowd is indicated for the annual event."

Committee arrangements were worked out at the meeting last night and all is now in readiness for the warehouse dance which gets under way at 9 o'clock and lasting until one o'clock.

This year as last, tables are being arranged whereby couples may rest between dances or for spectators to watch and listen to the band.

Beneke will bring two vocalists with his well-known band, composed largely of former members of the late Glenn Miller's band.

Advance tickets for the dance can be purchased at a savings from any member of the Lions Club and at many business places.

Curtis Hendrix, Junior Lion from Greenville High School, was guest of the club last night.

President Jimmy Harris presided over the meeting and supper.

The proposal calls for North Carolina farmers to pay an assessment of five cents per ton on feeds and fertilizer to finance agricultural research and education.

Rubber Highways Are Put To Test

CHICAGO—(UP)—Rubber roads are becoming quite common, in the experimental stage at least.

The American Public Works Association reports that an increasing number of cities and states have been giving rubber roads a tryout since the end of the war.

Typical of such experiments is the newly-laid stretch of rubber road on Constitution Avenue in Washington, D. C.

In Massachusetts, highway builders announced plans for experiments with asphalt-rubber topping on an additional 100 miles of roadway in various parts of the state.

Highway engineers currently are trying powdered rubber as a mix with asphalt to provide smoother roads while at the same time giving a less slippery surface.

Engineers believe rubber will help overcome asphalt's chronic softness in summer and brittleness in winter and will tend to allow for expansion and contraction with the seasons.

Akron, O., laid the first section of test rubber road in this country in 1947. Virginia, with a 1,000 foot stretch of rubber road near Richmond, was another pioneer.

Other test sections are being built in Texas and on state highways in Ohio. Cities which have stretches of rubber street include New York, Columbus, O., and Baltimore, Md.

A national weather bureau was established in 1870 under the supervision of the Army Signal Corps.

Strength for the Day

THE MALADJUSTED PERSONALITY
Success in rowing a boat straight arises from the ability to pull with equal force on both oars. Just as soon as we begin to pull a little more on one oar than on the other, the boat begins to turn. If we stop pulling on one oar altogether and pull vigorously on the other, the boat goes around in a circle.

Psychologists are telling us a great deal these days about twisted and maladjusted personalities. The science of psychology is undoubtedly overemphasized, and the psychologist and the psychiatrist claim to know all the answers in many fields where neither they nor anybody else has been able to give satisfactory answers to any considerable number of pressing questions. But the twisted and maladjusted personality is nevertheless a real person in the world.

Largely he is the victim of too much of some one particular thing. He may be the victim of too much liquor, or too much work, or too great a love for money, or too much selfishness, or a devastating sensuality. His life keeps going about in a circle because he insists on pulling away on one oar all the time instead of keeping his life in a straight line by balancing his powers between two oars.

Balance! The Greeks knew the value of balance and acclaimed it. They were the world's wisest people.

Treasure Chest Of A Better Community

Today marked the opening of the 1951 Community Chest campaign in Greenville as some 150 local citizens began seeking $12,000 to be distributed to six worthwhile local organizations to carry out their work in 1952.

The Greenville Community Chest is not just another pinch for a gift from the people's already hard-hit pocketbooks. It is six organizations putting all their begs together in one "ask-it" for funds. The goal for the Greenville Community Chest this year is big—25 per cent larger than it was last year—but the organizations are constantly enlarging their efforts to make Greenville a better community and it takes more funds. This year with more young men and women going into service, another organization, the United Defense fund, is needed and has been included in the group of Community Chest organizations.

A $12,000 goal for the Community Chest may seem like a big hunk of money, but when one considers the fact that the amount will be divided between six individual organizations . . . plus the fact that all of it will go directly into the local community . . . the sum seems small rather than large.

Those people of Greenville who contribute to the 1951 Community Chest will be giving in one package to the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Teenage Club, the Service Thrift Shop, the Emergency Charity fund and the United Defense fund.

The Boy and Girl Scouts and the Teenage Club are organizations devoted to building character and good citizenship in the youth of the community. The Service League Thrift Shop and the Emergency Charity fund are dedicated to helping the indigent and unfortunate people of the community; and the United Defense fund is dedicated to affording wholesome recreation for the men and women in the armed services who visit the community and aiding families of men and women of Greenville who are in service.

This morning the Community Chest teams on special gifts began calling on the business firms of the city and Thursday the general and residential solicitations throughout Greenville will begin.

Greenville unquestionably needs the continued efforts of the six worthy organizations which share in the Community Chest fund, and the six organizations must have the financial support of the people of Greenville if they are to carry on their fine work.

Give now and give generously to the Community Chest to help build a better community.

Strengthening The Ties That Buy

With Winston Churchill back in the saddle again in England, it is evident that vigorous efforts will be made to strengthen the ties between the United States and Britain.

Churchill and his leadership ability are held in high esteem in the United States as well as in Great Britain. The White House announcement that Churchill will visit the United States in January and the speculation that he will address a joint session of Congress leave the way open for further speculation that Churchill's visit to the United States will be aimed at strengthening the British ties with the United States treasury as well as more closely coordinating the foreign policies of the two nations.

There is hardly room for questioning the fact that the people of this country, those in Congress as well as those back in the home towns, will be more anxious to cooperate with Churchill's government than with the government under Attlee. By the same token, the requests for expanded financial aid to England, if they come from Churchill, will find many more favorable ears in this country than similar requests from Attlee.

Past experience with loans to Socialist Britain have had a disheartening effect on American observers. The money, much of it, was not used to increase production potential, but to augment existing production. Such augmentation of a demonstrably inadequate production system is pure waste, unless regarded as a stop-gap measure . . . a viewpoint that was certainly not intended at the time past American loans were made.

Although Churchill is in the driver's seat in Britain, the United States must remain reasonable in its financial aid to England. We must be sure that future loans are used to reestablish a permanent sound economy for Britain—not used merely as doles to prolong the economic agony under Socialism.

The foreign aid billions which are being handed out by the United States must be termed, for all practical purposes, direct gifts which some day must be repaid out of the taxes of the people here in the United States. Even with Churchill at the head of the British government, the lawmakers of the United States should not lose sight of that fact.

National Whirligig

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—National Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann's recent inspection of American and allied arms overseas needs may mean bad news to civilian customers in this country. The same result may flow from General Eisenhower's recent visit with President Truman and defense leaders at Washington, for the two trips are closely related.

It may lead to a vast quickening of our rearmament production program, with heavier and more immediate demands on the civilian economy than had been originally planned. It may, and probably will, precipitate far more serious cuts in the output of cars, the building of roads and schools, and the production of many everyday articles.

SACRIFICES—In short, the earlier schedules for peak manufacture of war-making equipment, which had been fixed for 1953, may be advanced by from six to eighteen months.

Politically, it may result in critical shortages in many lines of civilian goods in the midst of a presidential campaign waged largely on such issues as foreign policy and the cost of the foreign aid program to the American taxpayers.

General Eisenhower's advice to his Washington conferees envisages severe sacrifices for the customers, even though he may be an interested figure in next year's presidential struggle.

UNUSUAL—It seems that Pentagon military experts and the civilian defense staff headed by Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson and the young, energetic Mr. Fleischmann, have been quarreling, albeit pleasantly, over the present and prospective rate of production of "hardware"—finished planes, tanks, guns, armored vehicles etc. They are not rolling off the assembly lines in satisfactory volume.

Oddly, in this instance the "brass" has assumed a somewhat unusual position, in view of their normal attitude on this question. They favor a slower production tempo, whereas the Wilson-Fleischmann group believe that it should be stepped up considerably.

REPORT—The military prefers to engage in more detailed experimentation with the various types of postwar arms, even if that means delay in procuring the actual weapons. The civilians at the top level insist on getting on with the job of finished production, stockpiling the weapons, and shipping them to our units in Korea and to Eisenhower's Western European army.

Therefore, Mr. Truman and his aides, both civilian and military, wanted from Eisenhower a full report on the amount and kinds of equipment he needs, as well as an estimate of the time when he thinks it should be delivered in quantity. "He" admitted frankly that he could use a lot more than he is getting now. He seems to side with Messrs. Wilson and Fleischmann.

SURVEY—The latter will make both an economic and military survey on his current visit to Europe. He will sound out the heads of foreign governments on their ability to rearm, although he anticipated a discouraging report even before he left Washington. He will also try to obtain priority schedules from Eisenhower and his "hardware" men on the kinds of material they need most.

In both camps, despite the dispute over the time element, there is full realization that it would be disastrous to train Western European troops in the use of obsolete or second-rate stuff, and hand them our latest and most complicated weapons on the eve of battle.

In this connection, it is significant that we now have no infantry or artillery unit capable of handling atomic missiles in a war.

HOUNDED—The Wilson-Fleischmann family must think of public and political psychology. They frequently point out that Russia's "cold war" technique makes difficult their mobilization of the nation's resources and manpower. Even the sense of urgency born of the North Koreans' attack has vanished. So they question the wisdom of the slow, three-year, rearming tempo.

They are hounded periodically for hard decisions by their own associates in business and industry, by union labor officials and by the politicians. Wilson-Fleischmann executives cannot remain at Washington permanently. These are the conflicting considerations that lie behind the behind-the-scenes debate over American rearmament.

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Quite often I have thought about asking a lot of questions of a preacher. Yesterday I saw the story of an interview with a Methodist preacher, the Rev. Ralph W. Sockman of New York. In this interview, the preacher's answers are well worth reading.

Is there a Heaven?
My profound conviction is that there is. The life we can test in the physical world, is law-abiding. There must be a law in the world of spirit, as well. It would be a lawless and topsy-turvy world, indeed, if a fine boy could be killed in Korea, while an old rube lives to be 80, without a place where the score is evened. Justice demands a place where the inequities of life are adjusted. That place is heaven.

What makes you think there is a God?
My first reason for believing in God is the sight of the believers. All through the ages, not just out of fear, but I think out of a sense of inadequacy, man has kept up the belief in search for God. Life is too large just for the body. There must be a reality beyond what we can see. My second reason is the orderliness of nature. There must be some purpose back of it. Then there are the sudden flashes of genius. Many poets, saints and mystics have, I am sure, perfectly valid insight. I, too, have had personal experiences, such as the time I lost my son some years ago, when I have had an overpowering sense of otherness in the world. All these things bring one to a sense of a power that is not in ourselves.

Yes, but what do you say to people who ask for facts, not just feelings?
Feelings are facts. You fall in love—that is a fact, though it is pure feeling. A mother's love is not something you can describe, but it is there—it is real, it is a fact.

Jesus said, "Life is more than meat." Ideals are real. And without them, sustained as they are by the religious faith of all of us, life would no longer be worth living.

We hear so much about "peace of mind." How do you think it can best be achieved?
Surely, only by the way we choose to look at things. Let's suppose you made a trip to Atlantic City. You might seat yourself with your back to the ocean, watching the passing parade and being confronted with the transient throngs of life—fashions, moods, idle chatter. But you could just as easily swing around and face the sea—with a symbol of life's enduring beauty and eternal truth. We must learn to look in both directions, but too many of us gaze only at the transient things and never achieve the wonderful spiritual comfort that comes with a sense of the eternal. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Reflector Bureau By LYNN NIBBET Asso. Afternoon Dailies

BARBECUE—This is another piece about barbecued pig. Experiences of the situation require that it be written in the first person singular, rather than the more obvious editorial "we." So here goes. When I, innocently and naively, casually mentioned some weeks ago an often heard story about an Edgecombe county man who was an officer in the army during the Mexican war bringing back the recipe for cooking barbecue, I started something that is going to take a lot of doing to stop.

REPERCUSSIONS—First call of the bluff came from Henry Belk, editor of the Goldsboro News-Argus and one of my bosses. He said he would like to have the rest of the story. Then came an editorial in the Greensboro Daily News, written by "Slim" Kendall, editor-in-chief of that newspaper, who spoke of that newspaper, who spoke with some authority because of previous residence in the barbecue area of mid-eastern North Carolina. Also came numerous telephone and word-of-mouth comments from friends, wondering if there was any factual basis for the implication that barbecue came to eastern America from the Mexican war.

SPOT—That put me on a spot, and in an effort to get off several telephone calls were made. First one was to "Cousin Willie" Clark at Tarboro, business mogul of the area and long time state senator from Edgecombe county. Another call went to Hugh Dortch, Goldsboro attorney and former state senator from Wayne county. Using data obtained from these sources, supported by conversations with sundry oldtimers hereabouts, another story was written stating that barbecue gained prominence in eastern North Carolina immediately after the War of the States, the Civil War, the Confederate War, or whatever name is preferred, (anyhow, during the late 1860s) but that it had really been brought to the section some years before by a slave retainer of the Lewis family by name of Elias. Brother, that story did the trick.

HOT SPOT—From then on I wasn't just on a spot; it was a hot spot with sizzling temperature. I'm not off yet, and frankly, there's not much prospect of getting off. Looks now like a well-intentioned but naive reporter will be vicariously barbecued with every pig that winds up on a makeshift grill above a slow fire of hickory bark, or hardwood charcoal or corn cobs for a long time to come. (Devout prayer is made that I won't be counted among those present on a revolving spit in front of some electric wires, or inside an oven where roasting pork is spattered with some pepper sauce and catchup and dished out as barbecue.)

ATTACK—Admission in the first item that eating barbecue is a congenial and convivial delight, and that barbecue without fellowship is a flat dud failed to ward off attacks from various quarters about lack of proper respect for the trimmin's. Slim Kendall first resented, in his Greensboro News editorial, failure to mention the traditional policy of putting the jug up in a tree and the ground rules which required that when a guest could not climb the tree and get back down safely he had to start eating or go home. Then came the personal column by Josh Horne in his Rocky Mount Telegram calling attention to the same omission, and further challenging authority for statements that barbecue did not become popular in his section until during or after that war—which here will be called the "Civil War", although it was about as uncivil as any ever waged. From the heart of the barbecue country, Editor Horne reports that long before "the war" landowners with fifty or more slaves who did not give an annual barbecue after "laying by time" were counted as pikers. All that was bad enough and raised doubts about the wisdom of taking at face value information obtained from former state senators, but there was more and worse to come. It developed that barbecue is more than dead pig. It is a symbol of a way of life and a sort of escutcheon related to the family trees of a lot of folks.

RIVALRY—It also develops that there is keen rivalry, approaching almost the status of personal jealousy, among some current purveyors of barbecue who take pride in the quality and reputation of their product. There have been letters and telephone calls and personal visits from disciples of Melton and Overton and Bulluck at Rocky Mount, Griffin and Scott at Goldsboro, the Blackweiders at Salisbury and other points in the piedmont, all wanting to know "where do you get this stuff about William Gaston Lewis and his man Elias—originating barbecue in North Carolina."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE COLORED MIGRATION (Wilson Daily Times)
From the census figures we gather that many of our colored brethren in the South are moving to the industrial sections of the North. That, in a sense, is a natural movement, for in the North, for one thing, they'll make who migrate North will miss. They'll get away from some kinds of segregation. But those who are moving away have much to learn. They'll not be treated as they would like to be treated, for one thing; and they'll not get the same opportunities, for another.

In only one way has the South been hard on our colored folks. It does insist on segregation. But in the matter of getting ahead, the white man has been the colored man's best friend. The former likes to see the latter succeed, despite beliefs to the contrary. Never has he been denied an opportunity, if he shows sufficient perspicacity to get ahead. Thus, in the South we see a lot of them in large businesses. They run banks, newspapers, insurance companies; they operate buses, taxicabs and stores. Seldom do we see anything of that sort in the North. And while those who are getting ahead in the South largely cater to their own race, others get ahead by catering to the white man. On the farms, too, they're making progress. That, too, is something we see little of in the North. As they make continued progress the relations between the two races will improve. For everyone likes to do business with a successful man. All of that the ones who migrate North will miss. And while they may feel that they're bettering themselves, in the end we wear they'll be disillusioned.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
In those lines where sales have become harder to make—and there are more than a handful—many retailers are now turning to manufacturers and wholesalers for help. They are rediscovering the fact that a supplier is a pretty good man to have on the team.

The first request, or often demand, is that the manufacturer do more advertising in the retailer's community. Sometimes that works. Many of the larger companies have increased their advertising in newspapers and on radio.

When this doesn't solve the problem, retailers can turn to cooperative advertising. Manufacturers share the cost of co-op advertising. It is usually designed by the manufacturer and with the dealer's signature or as part of his own ad. In the past, retailers have passed up millions of dollars worth of co-op advertising, sometimes because they liked their own copy better than the manufacturer's, sometimes because they didn't want to match the manufacturer's payment, sometimes because they didn't want to go to the bother of paying for the ad and then, after sending leaflets and duplicate invoices, waiting for payment. But today, every manufacturer's co-op offer is studied carefully. And sometimes sales were just too easy to make.

Retailers are taking more interest in point-of-sale. In the past some retailers, perhaps a minority, used manufacturer's counter displays, decals, posters, streamers and stand-ups only when they particularly appealed to them. Tons of material went to waste; some advertising men advised manufacturers against using point-of-sale material unless they were willing to pay to have salesmen or other employees arrange for its use, even to the point of putting it up. Now these contributions to selling are getting better attention. So, too, are booklets and other materials telling store managers and salespersons how to sell the manufacturer's goods. There is also more retailer cooperation with special weeks, contests coupon deals and other sales hyp-

pos. In fact, a lot of retailers may actually learn again how to sell. U. S. OFFERS HELP CHECKING FOREIGN CREDIT Selling to firms outside the United States may involve a lot of red tape with both the American and foreign governments and there may be losses from fluctuations in foreign exchange. Again, an exporter may find his payments blocked by his customer's government.

But it is even worse when the buyer can't pay. To minimize this hazard, the U. S. Government has compiled lists of agencies abroad that furnish credit information. Lists of these agencies in 40 foreign countries are available from field offices of the Department of Commerce at $1 each. Also available for the same fee are reports on foreign firms compiled by the U. S. Foreign Service.

IN INSURANCE FIELD
There are "new products" in the insurance field as well as in industry. New insurance plans will be one of the topics of discussion at the national conference of the American Management Association in Chicago this Thursday and Friday. One of the new policies provides medical catastrophe coverage, protecting individuals from heavy costs of major illness or accident. Another is the coverage expected from the proposed War Damage Corporation.

COLLEGES TRAINING EMPLOYED WORKERS
Colleges are offering a vast number of adult management training courses for people already in jobs, a survey by the Association of University Evening Colleges shows. The 77 minor colleges, the association says, are already doing the job that the government had to organize during World War II.

Courses now offered include production and quality control, time and motion study, plant layout, product design, business organization, job analysis, industrial purchasing, traffic management and many others. Businesses foreseeing the need of promoting employees as defense production rises and trained manpower becomes scarce might profitably look over the programs of local and nearby colleges.

NEW PRODUCTS GAUGES Two gauges for fast and cheap determination of weight per unit area of sheet material have been developed by Tracerlab, Inc., 130 High Street, Boston, Mass. They can weigh materials too thin to be weighed by other methods and they do it by passing a small beam of beta rays through the material.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK—(AP)—To get ahead in show business today you have to develop the art of squelching hecklers gracefully. For hecklers hang out in the swank night clubs as well as the rafters of Madison Square Garden.

"They fall into two broad types—people who try to get into the act deliberately, and those who unconsciously slip up the show," said Margaret Phelan, a red-haired Texas lass who has become one of America's top supper club singers.

Sometimes performers have a wild desire to go to work on boorish hecklers with a baseball bat. Many do keep a stock collection of cutting deep freeze remarks handy to chill noisy showoffs. The oldest standby: "Why don't you just turn yourself into a hoop the roll away?"

But Maggie prefers generally to rely on a pretty smile and a friendly rebuke that leaves no sting. "You don't want to make them mad," she said. "You just want to make them aware they are disturbing others—and holding up the show. The audience doesn't like it, either, if an entertainer embarrasses a heckler too much, unless he is completely out of hand."

Surprisingly, Miss Phelan says there are just about as many women hecklers as men. "But it is much harder to handle a woman heckler," she said, "because she often is doing it deliberately." Here are seven types of deliberate and unconscious night club hecklers she has catalogued:

1. The lost soul—"He wanders from chair to chair, table to table, all through the performance."
2. The fellows with determined looks who keep walking in and out of the spotlight, holding their hands to their foreheads like Indian scouts—"They are looking for the men's room."
3. The silverware droppers, ice-in-the-glass tinklers, and the swizzle-stick-against-the-glass rhythm keepers—"Whether they are dropping a fork or trying to keep time, they are always a half beat off."
4. The frustrated Caruso—"They want to make a duet of your solo. Thank heaven, there aren't many of these."
5. The would-be Milton Berles—"They make loud wisecracks, probably hoping a television producer in the audience will hear them and hire them. But I never heard of anybody getting a job that way."
6. The lady conversationists—"They try to talk above the music because they want to be the life of their party. But if they'd wait until the show was over, they'd have more to talk about—when they'll need some conversation."
7. The elderly kittenish Romeros—"Usually you can quiet them with a wink. I'm afraid to do it by kissing them on their bald heads—there's so much heart trouble around these days."

are good-natured about it, and I like happy hecklers. If you kid back and get the best of them, they like that better than the rest of the show."

There is a maverick breed, however, that disconcerts any performer. "That's the strong, silent he-man heckler, and he's the worst of all," Maggie said, smiling. "He's the type who sits at a ringside table with his back turned to you all the time you're on."

"There's nothing you can do with him. But I just figure his wife has got him buffaloe—he doesn't dare turn around."

Washington Letter

By ROBERT E. GEIGER (For JANE EADS)

WASHINGTON—Among unusual government jobs is one at Savannah, Ga.; weighing meals for clothes moths.

Among other chores, men at the Department of Agriculture Laboratory studying insects affecting men and animals, test the value of new substances created or sold to repel moths or beetles.

Also, if manufacturers claim that a new fabric they are selling is "moth proof," this can be put to the test very quickly. Moth or beetle larvae (the worms that do the dirty work) are turned loose on the fabric. If the cloth isn't moth-proof.

L. S. Henderson, assistant chief of the division doing this work, says thousands of moths or beetles may be raised in a week's or a month's work of testing.

Moth larvae are starved for a time before being placed on the cloth to be tested. Being good and hungry, they go right to work. The laboratory workers know from the way they act whether they really are enjoying the meal. But they have ways of knowing exactly how enthusiastic the are.

They weigh the larvae before they begin eating. Then they weigh them afterward.

Another way of checking up is to count the holes in the fabric. The most unusual case Henderson has come across was that of the big game hunter and the elephant tusks. Something was eating on the tusks and Henderson was called in to try and find the culprit.

"It's a plain case of carpet beetles," says Henderson. "The man didn't know what a lot of people don't know! Carpet beetles will eat ivory."

Henderson said the beetles had started from the inside of the tusks and were eating outward. "I never heard of beetles eating the ivory keys from a piano, but undoubtedly it could happen," he says. Beetles and moths do damage to horn (like cattle horns) and to feathers, besides wool. Henderson says it is the keratin in these products the insects are after. Keratin is a protein that nature uses to hold things together.

Two Schools, 300 Pupils Made Up City Education System Fifty Years Ago

At the turn of the century Greenville Schools consisted of one school building for white children and one building for Negro children. Here 200 white children and 300 Negroes came to learn the three R's taught by six white and three colored teachers.

Today there are some 3,500 students enrolled in the city school system learning the same fundamentals. The students in the students in the Greenville schools are learning how to use the mother tongue, how to write, how to spell, and how to use numbers more effectively than were the children in 1903.

The schools are teaching the children of all people whereas, at that time only small select group was being taught.

The task of the teacher is more difficult because the responsibility of helping the child understand and live in the constantly changing and complex world. Therefore, the curriculum includes more than the three R's.

The Greenville schools are teaching citizenship, health, science, social studies, foreign languages, vocational and occupational skills, art, music, and the appreciation of the American way of life.

The following is a schedule of a typical grammar grade: 8:50-9:15, opening exercises, devotional, health check, and story; 9:15-10:00-arithmatic; 10:00-10:30 music; 10:30-10:45 recess; 10:45-11:15—spelling; 11:15-11:50—English; 11:50-12:30—history; 12:30-1:30—lunch; 1:30-2:00—reading; 2:00-2:40—geography; and 2:40-3:10—physical education.

The schedule is flexible and may be subject to change when the need arises. Many subjects are correlated into units of work so that a central theme is carried throughout a period of time that may require a day, a week, or more.

Butler Speaks At Rotary Meeting

By WYATT BROWN

The battle of service against selfishness can be greatly abetted by Rotary ideals declared James W. Butler in his brief address to the Greenville Rotary Club last night. He was introduced by immediate past district governor Howard McGinnis. Both McGinnis and Butler are senior active members of Rotary.

In his opening Mr. Butler said that as District Governor a few years ago of this District he had found the Greenville Club "tops" in every avenue of Rotary service.

In introducing his subject, the speaker said that there is a battle continuously raging within man as to whether service or self shall predominate. He warned that joining Rotary did not mean the battle was ended but the "duration" just started.

"The task of the Rotarian is to pull the world back from selfishness to service," Mr. Butler pointed out. Rotary ideals will help the battle at every point he urged. He said he observed that lots of fellows in Rotary learning fellowship and friendship as fine as that is. But the field of service is open fifty-two weeks in the year right at home in one's own club that affords one a cross section of the world community thus obviating the necessity of wanting a role in the world amphitheater.

In conclusion he pointed to the need for counsel everyone to put service above self in life and work—Rotary's job is to teach the lessons and habit of service.

Rotarian Erzell Webb gave a brief sketch of his life last night. He was born in Chowan County and for the first three years of school went to a one-teacher rural school. Soon after, he moved where he could attend Ederton schools where he graduated in 1927. Then he graduated from Wake Forest in 1932 and entered the teaching profession. From there he went with the North Carolina State School Commission from 1935 to 1944. After a few months with the Citizens Association in 1944-1945 he came to Greenville to work with the Carolina Dairy where he has been associated until now.

Prior to the program Alton Johnston, chairman of the 1951 Community Chest Drive, called attention to the fact that this week is Community Chest Week in Greenville. And that seven of the most important welfare agencies were included in the budget. He emphasized the value of one drive to cover several agencies and the advantages of orderly distribution of funds to the agencies participating. He urged liberal giving by the Rotarians.

William A. Bowen was a guest of the club as was Lowell Lyles of Fayetteville. Jesse Moyer of Farmville was the only visiting Rotarian John Messick was greeted as Junior Rotarian. The program was presented by Reid Perkins, chairman of the Club Service Attendance Committee. Charles White, club president, presided.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY SELLAS

This business of predicting winners in the weekly football games took a decided turn for the better last week when the column hit on four out of four predictions. To say the least, that was quite unlike the three previous weeks when the luck was not so good.

First of all, the game that seems most likely to discuss is the game played at Cherry Point Saturday in which the East Carolina Pirates had a merry time disposing of the Marine Flyers. The 45-0 score indicates to the utmost the control the Pirates had over the ball game.

For a change, Saturday was the day that the Pirates could do nothing wrong. Their ball handling was sharp and the blocking was good. The defense did a good job of stopping the Marine backs who were able to penetrate only one time as far as the 11 yard line.

The business of who-was-who for the Pirates was discussed in the write-up of the game which appeared in yesterday's paper but not a word was said about one of the Marine backs who appeared to be just about all Cherry Point had to offer in the way of exceptional football material.

That player was halfback Antonio Kapolewski, better known as Tony, a guy that played the entire ball game. Kapolewski looked good running for the Marines even though he has played only high school football. He would have no trouble making any of the North State Conference teams as a halfback.

In spite of Kapolewski, however, the Pirates clicked. Their victory was a team victory with just about everyone of the players getting an opportunity to shine. Coach Bill Dole of the Pirates used every one of the players that made the trip and not one failed to turn in a good job.

The Pirates are idle this week but they'll be gunning for win number five next week when they journey to Charleston, South Carolina, to meet The Citadel on November 24.

The Wake Forest-Duke game at Durham was one of those thrillers in which the clock ran out of gas before the Deacons did. With the help of the time piece, Wake Forest came out on top 19-15.

We say it was with the help of the clock because Duke's greater reserve talent was beginning to tell on the Deacons as the game wore on. Coach Bill Murray's almost endless supply of talent was steadily wearing down Tom Rogers' 25 men and even Rogers will admit that Duke was playing much better ball in the latter portions of the game than were his Deacons.

Most of the credit for the victory will go to passers Dickie Davis and Ed Kissel and end Jack Lewis but I think both coaches will agree that fullback Bill Miller had no small amount to do with Wake Forest's win.

Miller always seems to save his best performance of the year for the Blue-Deacons and Saturday was no exception. He has been bothered all year long with a bad knee but he came off the bench Saturday to take Duke's defensive line apart almost as he pleased. That's the third year now that Miller has done that for the Deacons.

The Carolina-Virginia game is one of those contests that Carl Snavely would just like to forget, thank you.

The Cavaliers mauled the Tar Heels almost as they pleased to go for the second year in a row and to send Coach Art Gupepe home happy. Gupepe has had to take some terrible ribbing in the past few years because of the fate of his Virginia clubs against Carolina. This year, the gentlemen from Virginia knocked off both Duke and Carolina and Gupepe is doubly happy.

The road will be no smoother for the Tar Heels this week when they return to pine-surrounded Kenan Stadium for a little set-to with Notre Dame. The Fighting Irish got picked apart 35-0 Saturday by a great Michigan State ball club and there are some rash individuals in this world who are already saying that it won't happen this week. Personally, I'd rather wait until Saturday. We'll know then.

State's Wolfpack finally found the going easy—for a change and wound up with an easy 31-0 win over Davidson. Davidson wasn't expected to put up much of a fight but for holding the score down, there are certain Davidson undergraduates who might be tempted to call the game a moral victory for the Wildcats. Their record last year was something like two victories and eight moral victories.

As expected, Alex Webster showed that he's still "Mr. Offense" for the Wolfpack by scoring three touchdowns despite time burns in his eye and, in addition, he moved to within one yard of Ed Mooney's yards-gained record. Mooney gained 1,128 last year and now Webster has a total of 1,127.

The schedule: November 17, Naval Air Station at Norfolk; December 1, Guilford in Greenville; 4, Catawba in Greenville; 8, Camp Lee at Camp Lee, Va.; 10, Camp Lejeune at Camp Lejeune; 14, open; 18, Appalachian at Boone; January 8, McCrory Eagles at Asheville; 12, open; 16, High Point in Greenville; 18, A.C.C. in Greenville; 22, Naval Air Station in Greenville; 26, Camp Lee in Greenville; 29, Appalachian in Greenville; 31, High Point in High Point; February 2, Mon in Burlington; 5, W.C.T.C. in Cullowhee; 5, W.C.T.C. in Cullowhee; 9, Mon in Greenville; 15, A.C.C. in Wilson; 18, Catawba in Salisbury; 18, McCrory Eagles in Greenville; 22, The Citadel in Greenville.

The Kittrellmen will enter the contest in the same role that they have had so many times this year—as underdogs. Roanoke Rapids has one of the better teams in the Northeastern Conference and is expected to take the Greenville squad without too much trouble.

However, several teams have thought that they would get past the Phantoms without any trouble, but only found out that Greenville continued to fight even if they dropped way behind the other team. This spirit to fight seems to be the only thing that has kept the squad together beside Coach Kittrell.

Phantoms Return To Hard Grid Practice

Coach Bill Kittrell sent his Green Phantoms back to the old grid of preparing for another football game yesterday, as he got down to business in preparation for the last game of the season, scheduled against Roanoke Rapids Friday night, in Roanoke Rapids.

Kittrell stated last week that he would use the game as a test for the boys who will return next season. At the present time, the Phantoms have a record of two wins and six defeats, after a season that has been filled with an unusually large number of injuries.

Greenville stressed work on the returning players in practice all last week, and it looks as if several of them will start against the Jays.

The Phantoms will lose around 10 boys by graduation this summer. Included in the list are Wallace Conway, Sid Briley, Sonny Scott, Sam Hux, Joe Rowland, Fletcher Murray, Bob Tindal, Wilton McLawhorn, Charlie Haffner and Tommy Evans. Tindal, Evans and Haffner Bobby Perry will miss the last game because of injuries.

The Kittrellmen will enter the contest in the same role that they have had so many times this year—as underdogs. Roanoke Rapids has one of the better teams in the Northeastern Conference and is expected to take the Greenville squad without too much trouble.

However, several teams have thought that they would get past the Phantoms without any trouble, but only found out that Greenville continued to fight even if they dropped way behind the other team. This spirit to fight seems to be the only thing that has kept the squad together beside Coach Kittrell.

East Carolina Cagers Have 23-Game Slate

Play Norfolk Air Station Saturday

Pirates Open Home And North State Schedule On December 1st

The East Carolina College Athletic Department has announced a 23-game schedule for the 1951-1952 East Carolina basketball Pirates. Efforts are being made to fill two open dates on the schedule which includes 13 North State Conference games.

Coached by Howard Porter, the basketball Pirates have been working out formally for about a month and an 11-man squad has been picked by Coach Porter to open the season Saturday night at the Norfolk Naval Air Station.

Leading the seven returning lettermen Porter has available is the Pirates' All-Conference forward Sonny Russell, a junior from New Bern. Russell has made the North State All-Star squad both years he has played with the East Carolina quintet.

Along with Russell, veteran performers on the squad include Toddy Pennell of Wilmington, Lou Collier of Wilmington, Dick Blake of Camp Lejeune, Paul Jones of Thomasville, John Postas of Red Bank, New Jersey, Clarence Butler of Salem, and Charlie Buffman of Thomasville. Postas is the only member of the squad from outside North Carolina.

Carl King of Farmville, up from the freshman team, will lead the number two combination which will include freshmen Cecil Heath and Jack Carr. Heath is from Wilmington's State Championship team while Carr is a Rose Hill native who played with Magnolia High School.

As yet, Porter has made no predictions about what his ball club might do this year other than the comment, "We'll play some interesting basketball this year."

The Pirates will open their home- and North State Conference-schedule on December 1 when Guilford comes to Wright Gymnasium. All home games will be played in the Wright Building until the new physical education plant, on the south side of the football stadium, is completed.

The schedule: November 17, Naval Air Station at Norfolk; December 1, Guilford in Greenville; 4, Catawba in Greenville; 8, Camp Lee at Camp Lee, Va.; 10, Camp Lejeune at Camp Lejeune; 14, open; 18, Appalachian at Boone; January 8, McCrory Eagles at Asheville; 12, open; 16, High Point in Greenville; 18, A.C.C. in Greenville; 22, Naval Air Station in Greenville; 26, Camp Lee in Greenville; 29, Appalachian in Greenville; 31, High Point in High Point; February 2, Mon in Burlington; 5, W.C.T.C. in Cullowhee; 5, W.C.T.C. in Cullowhee; 9, Mon in Greenville; 15, A.C.C. in Wilson; 18, Catawba in Salisbury; 18, McCrory Eagles in Greenville; 22, The Citadel in Greenville.

Indians Rally To Help Jim Thorpe

NEW YORK—(AP)—Indians in the metropolitan area are rallying to help Jim Thorpe, the fabulous Indian athlete who is recovering from an operation at Philadelphia. Thorpe's wife said the onetime All-America football star and Olympic medal winner, voted "Athlete of the Century" in Associated Press poll, is without funds.

A Sioux princess, Juanita Senter, said she had formed a committee to raise funds from among Indians to aid Thorpe. She said she herself had donated $100.

She said the funds are to help the famous Sac and Fox Indian "get on his feet so he can resume his work as soon as possible."

The U. S. had 44, 670,588 registered automobiles out of the world total of more than 62 million in 1949.

He might have a little trouble breaking that mark, though. The Pack is playing Maryland this week and the Terps seem to remember a little 16-13 deal handed them last year by this same State team. Ah, mercy me, it will be a rather rough afternoon for Mr. Feathers' lads when they engage Mr. Tatum's lads Saturday. Perchance when it's all over, the Terps will have another pelt for their already imposing collection.

That record of four-for-four brings the season's average up just a wee piece. I don't remember the exact figure but the mark last week was something like .657 if memory serves me correct.

Terps Flirting With Bowl Bids

NEW YORK—(AP)—The powerful, unbeaten Maryland football team was the apex of a triangle today that threatened to throw the bowl picture into wild confusion.

Both the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans and the Cotton Bowl in Dallas are flirting with the terrific Terrapins from College Park. Maryland is flirting right back.

But the Southern Conference, of which Maryland is a paid-up member, is on record as opposing all post-season games.

If Maryland wants to play in a bowl—and it definitely does—it will have to get conference approval first. This appears impossible in view of a 13-1 vote (Maryland abstained) by college presidents to outlaw bowls.

The presidents' vote came in the form of a recommendation, which is to be acted on at the Dec. 14 conference meeting.

The Sugar and Orange Bowls can't wait until then to pick their teams. Maryland can't wait until then to say, "Yes or no."

Maryland Coach Jim Tatum, in New York yesterday to address a football writers' luncheon, said if given a definite bid Maryland probably would take an immediate telephonic poll of the conference members.

If the members said "No," which is figured likely, there are reports Maryland may bolt the conference and go on its own hook.

But this creates additional problems. The Sugar Bowl directors, for example, say they wouldn't want to take a Maryland team that didn't carry its conference blessings. They wouldn't want to antagonize a whole league just to get one team for one year.

The Cotton Bowl crowd may be of the same mind. In this case, Maryland couldn't gain by pulling out of the conference because it wouldn't get the bowl gravy, anyhow.

At the same time, the bowls can't afford to shrug off Maryland completely and start looking elsewhere.

As matters now stand, the two choicest plums for the uncommitted bowls are Tennessee, second ranked nationally, and Maryland, No. 5 in the latest Associated Press poll.

ROBERSONVILLE—Coach Bob Lee's Rams opened practice here yesterday for their final game of the season, a home affair with Benvenue on Friday afternoon. The Rams currently have a record of three wins, five defeats, and one tie.

No one was seriously injured in their losing battle to Plymouth last week. The Panthers proved too strong for the locals and ground out a 20-7 victory.

The Rams will be favored to take a decision in their fight coming up with Benvenue.

Thanksgiving Day Game For League Little League football in Greenville is over for 1951, with the exception of a Thanksgiving Day game between White, the championship team, and the Blues, it was announced yesterday by Little League officials.

The playoffs which started last week as the Gold team was forced to disband and the schedule was consequently ruined. The Whites, who won the regular season, were then declared the champions.

The Thanksgiving game, sponsored by the local Exchange Club, will turn over all proceeds to the players for a banquet and to purchase Little League monograms.

Sixty Minute Man NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Bob Werckley, captain of the Vanderbilt football team, demonstrated Saturday night why his nickname is "Work-Horse."

Werckley participated in every play against LSU as the Commodores won 20 to 13. It was his second 60-minute game of the season. The other was the contest in which Vanderbilt lost to Georgia Tech 7 to 8.

Spartans Take Over First In Grid Poll; Vols Second

NEW YORK—(AP)—Michigan State, back on top in the Associated Press' football poll, may be hard to dislodge from its position as the No. 1 team in the nation.

The spectacular Spartans take on Indiana Saturday and close out their season the following week against Colorado. Both games should prove easy for the infant members of the Big Ten.

Tennessee nosed out Illinois for second. The Illini, Big Ten leaders, finished third with 20 firsts and 1,145 points. The three pace-setters are riding seven-game winning streaks.

The Spartans charged to the top from fifth place as a result of their smashing 35-0 victory over Notre Dame. Tennessee and Illinois scored easy 60-14 and 40-13 victories, respectively, over Washington and Lee and Iowa. Illinois has two tough conference games remaining against Ohio State and Northwestern.

Three other unbeaten and untied teams followed the top three. Stanford, with eight victories, came in fourth with 951 points. Maryland, boasting seven victories, placed fifth with 927 points and Princeton, also unbeaten in seven outings, was sixth with 793 points. Rounding out the top ten are Georgia Tech, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Baylor in that order.

Pirates Have Open Date; Get Day Off

With the squad facing an open date this weekend, East Carolina College Head Coach Bill Dole today gave his gridiron warriors the day off after working them in a rough work-out yesterday afternoon. Dole told the squad they would have Friday afternoon off also.

Yesterday Dole sent the Pirates through a review session of the errors they made in their 45-0 victory over Cherry Point Saturday and began the preliminary work for the closing game with The Citadel. That contest will be played November 24 in Charleston, South Carolina.

The Pirates will return to the practice field tomorrow and Thursday for scrimmage sessions designed to set up formations against the Bulldog attack. Scouting reports will be given to the players and Dole and his assistants will work the Pirates on new plays of their own.

"The boys deserve the rest," Dole commented Monday as he reviewed a campaign that has seen the Pirates lose five first string men to injuries. A sixth, Jack Britt, came off the bench Saturday to score twice and turn in the first real action he has seen since the third game of the year—against the Norfolk Naval Air Station—when he suffered a sprained ankle.

Britt and Jack Benzie, who were second string performers Saturday, scored twice for the Pirates against Cherry Point but the number one backfield combination of Tom Allsbrook, Claude King, Paul Gay and Sandy Siler turned in some good work.

Allsbrook's work was especially pleasing since it was the first real action the 160 pound halfback has seen all year long. He scored once, on a pass play from Siler that covered 59 yards, and did some good blocking for the running of King, Britt, Gay, and Benzie.

Siler, the quarterback who has been hot and cold all year long, finally found his mark against the Marines and completed six of seven passes that included three touchdowns gained. Altogether, the Pirates gained 151 yards through the air, all of it on Siler's six tosses.

AYDEN—Coach Stuart Tripp's Ayden High Tornadoes will take on their second straight state championship contender Friday night as they play host to the powerful Hertford Indians in the last game of the regular season.

Ayden, who has accepted an invitation to play Weldon in Entfield's Goober Bowl pageant on Thanksgiving Day, lost Friday night to strong Beaufort team. The Tornadoes were unable to stop Beaufort's Johnny Lynch, who chalked up nearly a six-yard average for 28 rushing attempts.

Hertford defeated the Sea Dogs earlier in the season, and will probably enter the game with Ayden as the favorites. The Indians from Perquimans County are challengers for the state Class A championship, won last year by Williamston.

Poland Is Turning Into One Great Prison Camp

STOCKHOLM (UP)—Poland has erected a series of machine gun towers and barbed wire enclosures along the Baltic coast, making it much like the "Atlantic Wall" that Adolf Hitler built against an invasion of France in World War II, refugees said today.

The "Baltic Wall," manned by troops using trained police dogs, is to prevent escapes from the Communist country.

Recently groups of Poles have fled to Sweden by air or sea, despite attempts to halt such action.

The refugees here said all non-essential Poles living near the Baltic were moved away from the coast three years ago and former resort hotels were transformed into barracks for coast guard units.

They said Polish authorities had built a line of 15-foot watch towers every 600 to 1,500 feet along the coast. They are studded with machine guns while dogs patrol between the towers all night.

Coastal towns are swept by floodlights to prevent anyone from slipping away in small boats. The refugees said Communist police agents have infiltrated into crews of Polish vessels to prevent mutinies by anti-Communist crew members, as in at least two earlier cases reported to Swedish authorities.

The watchdogs patrolling between the towers carry wooden tags in their mouths and are trained to drop them when a person is seen.

Alaska May Add Abalone Fishing

KETCHIKAN, Alaska —(UP)—Abalone harvests may one day be added to the fishery resources of Ketchikan, salmon-canning capital of the world.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has hired a deep-sea diver, W. E. Walker, and his boat to survey the main beds of the shellfish in and around the Gulf of Esquibel. The FWS hopes the abalone survey will indicate the possibility of a new off-season fishery in Alaska.

Methods of handling, preserving and freezing the abalone will be studied aboard Walker's boat and in the Ketchikan and Seattle FWS laboratories.

Missing Jewels Underinsured

CHICAGO —(UP)—More than 50 per cent of the jewels lost or stolen so far this year were underinsured, an insurance company survey says.

"Too many people lost money replacing missing jewels," said John A. Arnold, vice president of National Retailers Mutual Insurance Co. "Their insurance paid only a portion of the replacement cost."

The hardest hit was the group that bought jewelry more than three years ago, he said.

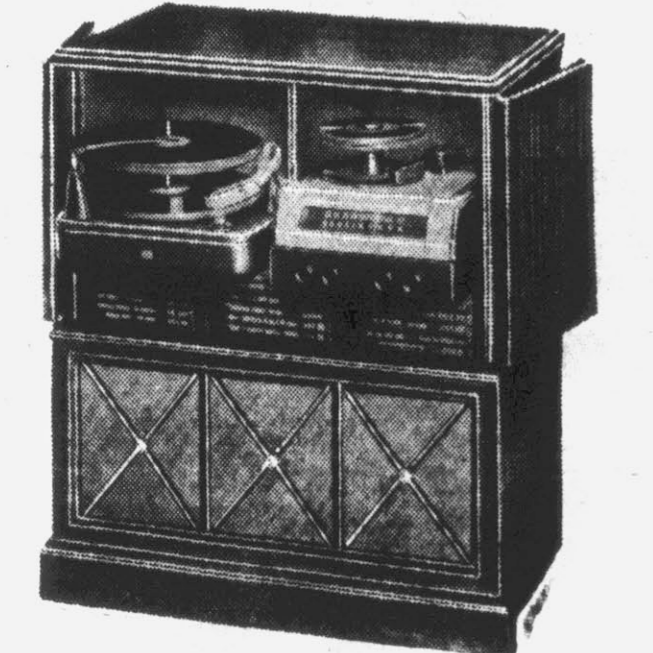

He cited the example of a man who bought a diamond ring in 1941 for $350 and insured it for that amount. When the ring was lost last summer, the man learned it would cost him $1,200 to duplicate it today.

CLEVELAND, O. —(UP)—"Injuries to workers from radiation exposure in American atomic energy plants are rare," Dr. H. M. Rozenhall, a physician connected with the General Electric Research Laboratory, says.

Dr. Rozenhall said, "The accident record is remarkable in view of the vast number employed and the hazards encountered."

The large use of colors to identify dangerous materials and the proper labeling of properties with unknown qualities unfamiliar to workers was cited by Dr. Rozenhall as the main reason for the small number of accidents.

Check-Writing Has History All Its Own

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The left-handers among us will be interested to know that they have the big money men on their side.

The banks have come up with left-handed check books. Instead of backing up to balance the account, a southpaw can keep right on flowing with his pen and find the check stub on the right side of the check-book, instead of the left.

Edwin Stokes, a vice president of the Union Trust Co. here, where a lot of representatives and senators deposit and borrow money, thinks it's a good idea.

Some 6,000,000 checks are printed each year. Now some of them will be for southpaws.

The left-handed deal is part of the banks' campaign to get the people to pay their bills by check, where they are sure of a receipt.

Checks, incidentally, are nothing new in the matter of bill-paying. They were used by the ancient Romans and even the more ancient Assyrians who wrote checks right- and left-handed on mud tablets as early as the 9th century.

The Library of Congress says that checks, legally worded, can be written on almost anything. They have been put on postage stamps and honored. One was scribbled on a ginger cookie. Another on an egg, one on a cigaret paper, and yet another was written in chalk on a block of wood for the purchase of a mule.

Perhaps the most unusual check ever cashed was fashioned on sheet steel with the draft written in electric welding. The cancellation was in machine gun bullet holes.

This country claims honors for the biggest and smallest checks.

The largest was a check for $7,500,000, drawn by the Treasury Department. It re-jiggered government funds from one account to another to balance the books at the end of fiscal 1948.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has no challenge on the claim for the smallest check ever penned. It came from a man who managed to figure out that he owed the government exactly nothing in income taxes.

He sent Uncle Sam a check for $0.00.

Roland T. Carr, a vice president of Riggs National Bank here, looked through his records and found that President Lincoln was one of the first writers of small checks.

The Emancipator was in need of a pair of eye glasses and went to Franklin and Co. to get same. The bill came to $2.50. He gave the

Canada Is Again Taping Niagara For More Power

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. —(UP)—A tunnel large enough to "swallow" a four-story building, stretching for more than five miles, will be built to feed water into Ontario Hydro's new generating plant at Queenston, Ont.

The $182,000,000 power project, expected to stretch over the next four years, is one of the largest engineering jobs in the world today. When completed, the new underground waterway will be the largest of its kind anywhere.

The development involves, besides construction of the long pressure tunnel, the building of an open-cut canal about two and one-half miles long and the erection of a generating station with seven 100,000-horsepower units giving a total output of 525,000 kilowatts.

It was made possible last year when the United States and Canada signed a 50-year treaty. After sufficient water has been provided to assure the scenic character of the majestic falls, the two countries share the remainder.

Chapter 13

Jan was glad now that she had a lovely new dress, purchased so reluctantly among the "trousseau" clothes which Eve had insisted upon to wear at the announcement party.

It really was a dream of a dress—sky blue tulle, yards and yards in the bouffant skirt, with glittering silver butterflies in the folds. She had silver sandals for her feet and a coronet of tiny silver butterflies to crown her shining hair. For once Jan would look as feminine and as alluring as even her mother could desire. And for once Jan was perfectly willing to look that way.

Eve had seen to it that the entire setting for this event should be the last word in romance. Gay Japanese lanterns were strung around the terraces, a platform had been erected for dancing, and in case the real moon would not put in an appearance an artificial one had been supplied.

"I wonder," Eve murmured to Jan as they stood in the receiving line, "what can be keeping Ray? It began to be an effort to keep a stiff smile on his lips and her arm began to ache from shaking hands and still Ray and Bernice did not arrive.

"I cannot understand it," Eve murmured, sotto voce, again. "Unless that redhead did this deliberately. No doubt she thinks it's smart to be late. She probably wants to make a dramatic entrance. She might remember that this is your night, not hers!"

She broke off to welcome a portly dowager, and it was at this moment that Ray did arrive and that Miss Darrow made her entrance. For there was no doubt about its being an entrance.

She was all in white, simple yet extremely sophisticated, so that Jan felt like a schoolgirl in the silver and blue dress. She wore a string of magnificent pearls around her lovely throat and no other ornament. Her red hair was a flame, her violet eyes mysterious. She carried herself as though she were royalty.

"I'm afraid it's my fault that Ray is late," she said in apology to Jan and her mother. "We were making our first test flights today and we became so interested that it was late before we finished and before we recalled that this was the evening of the party." Her violet eyes smiled down into Jan's. "I do hope, my dear, that you will forgive Ray."

"There's nothing to forgive," Jan returned shortly. She was consumed with such a torrent of emotion that she felt hot all over. Why did this woman always manage to make her feel like a worm? She was friendly and smiling, but it could not be sincere.

Besides, Jan felt that Ray ought to offer his own explanations and apologies. He stood there wearing that sheepish air, if he did look unusually handsome in his white coat and dark trousers.

Again Jan thought that the two of them made an exceptional couple, both so tall and good-looking and poised. And Ray did not say one thing about her new dress, not even later in the evening when he asked her for a dance. He had danced first with Miss Darrow, too, which had not made Jan feel any more kindly toward him.

"You understand why I had to ask Bernice first, don't you?" Ray asked as they circled the platform, the big artificial moon shining down, to the music of a slow sentimental waltz. "And I'm sorry we were a bit late. It wasn't altogether Bernice's fault. But you knew I would make it didn't you, Jan?"

"It doesn't matter," she said, "whose fault it was. You got here. Why should I care if you asked Miss Darrow to dance first?"

"This was the first time she had ever danced with Ray. She was surprised to find him such a good dancer."

"I knew I could count on you always to understand," Ray said. He held her closer as they danced an intricate dip. "You sure dance like a team, Jan. You look like a dream this evening too."

"I don't feel like one," Jan answered softly.

"I'm sorry you have to go through this ordeal," she told him as the dance ended. "I promise you it will be the last one. Eve said to be sure to tell you that you were to be with me when she makes the announcement, or rather when the buffet upper is served and the guests receive those terrible favors?"

"What favors?"

"You'll see them soon enough," Jan said grimly.

"I can't wait," he grinned down on her. "And I won't desert you again. It won't be necessary, not the way every male present is clamoring to dance or talk with Bernice."

His glance traveled over to where Bernice stood, tall and serene in her white gown, surrounded with a group of admiring men.

"Isn't she wonderful?" he said to Jan. "Did you ever know anyone like her?"

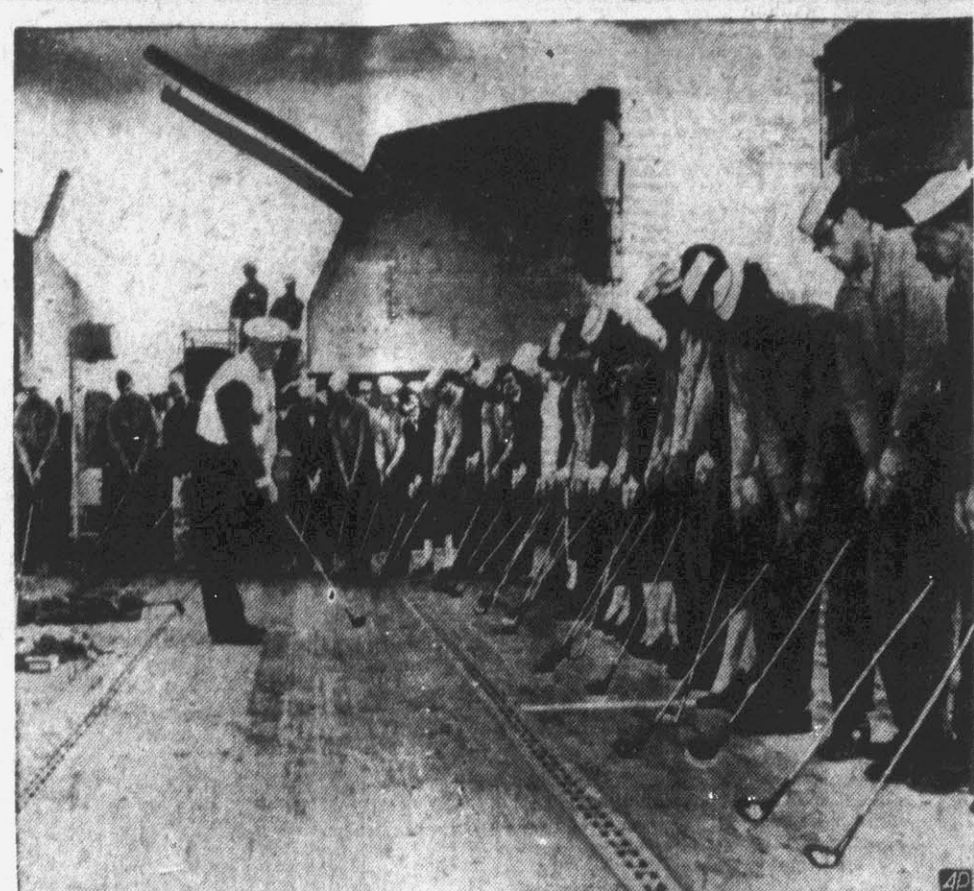

"I'm hardly qualified to say," Jan returned. The emotion she felt now was like lead, as though a heavy weight had suddenly descended upon her chest. "I hardly know Miss Darrow."

"You should. You must get to know her," Ray said. His glance still lingered across to where it had traveled. "Bernice said that she liked you very much."

"How sweet of her," Jan said.

At this moment Bernice must have become aware of Ray's attention, for she looked in his direction and made a little beckoning motion.

"I guess Bernice does need me," Ray said, somewhat hastily, Jan thought. "She probably wants to be rescued. You won't mind, will you, Jan, if I..."

Hormones Make Turkeys Increase Egg Production

STORRS, Conn. (UP)—Scientists are persuading hen turkeys, through hormone injections, to forget their motherly instincts and lay more eggs.

Dr. James R. Carson, in charge of poultry breeding at the University of Connecticut, said hen turkeys instinctively stop laying to sit on their eggs. Even when there are no eggs, he said, they knock off work, anyway. Producers call this period "broodiness." Mother instinct is another word for it.

In the pedigreed breeding pens at the university, the eggs are removed every hour and placed in incubators. The non-producers, or motherly hens are given a shot. "The injection of hormones," Dr. Carson said, "amounts to a shock treatment. The hen is shocked out of her motherliness."

Sixty per cent of the hens receiving injections last spring got back on the production line.

Policeman Makes Gun Fool-Proof

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Tragedies involving a loaded pistol in the hands of children may be a thing of the past, according to a Los Angeles policeman-inventor, Tex Bjorklund.

Bjorklund has invented a device which locks the trigger of a pistol and prevents cocking the weapon. It fits into one side of the trigger guard with a cog which locks the trigger. The other piece is placed on the opposite side and locked in with a key.

Disclosure of Bjorklund's invention followed a tragedy here in which a child discharged his father's pistol, killing his younger brother and seriously wounding his mother.

Older Drivers Share In Blame

CHICAGO (UP)—Inexperienced drivers are far safer than those who've been at it a long time, a Chicago Par. District survey shows.

Drivers with less than a year's experience were responsible for only 28, or about 1 per cent of the 2,424 traffic accidents in the Chicago area in one month, the survey revealed. Drivers with between 10 and 30 years experience were the cause of 1,077 or about 44 per cent of the accidents.

Dear Judge

AP Newsfeatures

If you want to give some pretty and inexpensive gifts this Christmas, get your sewing machine humming!

A few yards of fabric can make some delightful and glamorous presents. Such fashionable gifts as a crinoline petticoat or a cuffed wool jersey stocking, cap are easy to make and can be counted as sure hits with the sub-deb set.

Here are some helpful tips that will make your crinoline project easier as suggested by sewing center experts:

Select an easy-to-make circular petticoat pattern. When choosing the required yardage consider crinoline with a permanent finish, so it will retain its stiffness after laundering. After cutting the crinoline for the petticoat, it is a good idea to decide upon the desired length. Then alter pattern to this measurement, allowing one-quarter of an inch for turning the raw edge. Straight edge scissors are recommended for cutting crinoline.

Cotton or rayon seam binding on all seams prevent rough edges from snagging fine lingerie. Use a cotton fabric or grosgrain ribbon for the waistband of the petticoat, and be sure to cut it on the straight of the goods to avoid stretching. To finish off the raw edge along bottom of the petticoat, face the underside with a six or eight inch bias strip of bright colored taffeta to protect hosiery from snagging.

Fashionable dress houses are showing petticoats made of taffeta with a wide ruffle of crinoline over the taffeta ruffle at the hem. Another ruffle of taffeta is put over the crinoline. This is said to give the same effect as all-crinoline petticoat without the disadvantages of snagging stockings or lingerie.

Another make-it-yourself gift is a denim apron, perfect for mother or a favorite aunt. Select contrasting colors in stripes or solids and accent them with huge patch pockets.

Local sewing center experts will show you how to save stitching time by using time-saving attachments for your sewing machine. The zig-zag attachment applies applique and decorative trims in short order.

A cuffed wool jersey stocking cap, fashion's cold weather favorite, requires a minimum of stitching. First, double fabric and cut hat in a cornucopia shape. Bottom opening should fit head measurement. Sew side seams together and hem cotton edge. Try on and twist and drape long point to give a novel effect. Put a fringed tassel on pointed end. Add a couple of Christmas ornaments just for the holiday touch.

Another pretty gift is a space-saving holder for earrings, pins and bracelets. To make it, take two equal rectangles of color-contrasting rayon satin and velvet—each should be about ten by thirteen inches. Sew a half-inch seam allowance, sewing them back to back with hidden seams, giving you a piece of fabric that is satin on one side, velvet on the other.

Then make into an "envelope" shape by turning up the bottom third along the length of the fabric.

so that the satin is on the inside. Stitch up the sides of the bottom fold, and then make compartments by running equally spaced stitching parallel to the sides up across this bottom fold. Leave the top third of the fabric free for a fold-down flap.

Attach two twelve-inch lengths of narrow satin ribbon at one side of the bottom fold. Then, when the jewelry is placed in the compartments, the kit can be rolled up and tied with the ribbon, to fit neatly and securely into any little cranny in a suitcase.

You can buy attractive boxes in which to pack your little homemade gifts, and if you keep in mind that your package will make a first impression even before the recipient gets around to the contents, you will make your wrapping attractive. The prettiest gift can be spoiled by a careless or unattractively wrapped package.

Long Canadian Highway Has Strategic Import

By GEORGE A. DOBIE
United Press Staff Correspondent
EDMONTON, Alta. —(UP)— Federal and Alberta government officials look to a new highway to help build up Canada's vastly rich but comparatively unscratched northland.

The all-weather Mackenzie Highway also is being heralded as an important road link in the event of an enemy attack over the polar region.

The highway crosses 384 miles of muskeg, forest and farmland on a course due north from the northern Alberta center of Grimshaw to Hay River, on Great Slave Lake northwest territory.

A gravel road built three years ago at a cost of $4,300,000 to both governments, the Mackenzie Highway is making its importance felt in the northland.

Trade Grows
The highway is connected with the main road system in northern Alberta which, traveling south, ties in with Edmonton, and, northwest, reaches Dawson Creek, B.C., the southern terminus of the Alaska Highway.

Alberta officials surveyed the results of the Mackenzie Highway and got these results:

Traders who once had to wait weeks for a shipment of supplies freighted along the Peace River, or by winter tractor-train, now have goods delivered to their doorstep within hours after large trucks have left Grimshaw.

Miners no longer have to fly or freight their heavy machinery to the north at exorbitant costs. Heavy trucks carry supplies to Hay River, where boats regularly serve Yellowknife and points along the Mackenzie River system, which reaches north to the Arctic coast.

North of Grimshaw, homesteaders use the highway to carry rich harvests to elevators on the railway. Last year more than 600,000 bushels of wheat and 200,000 bushels of coarse grain were taken to market over the road.

Plenty of Fish
Great Slave Lake provides Canada with the greatest source of fresh water fish of any lake in the country. Last year, about 8,000,000 pounds of white fish and trout, valued at $612,000, were hauled from Hay River south along the highway to market outlets.

Formerly, limited supplies of fish were taken only in the summer from the northern lake and transported by water down the Slave and Athabasca Rivers. Winter fishing now accounts for almost half the total annual catch.

Fur traders now market their pelts over the highway, whereas, they formerly used the waterways or airplanes by necessity. Trappers and traders are within easy reach of hospital and medical services.

Tourists are able to get their first look at the 46-foot Louise Falls and the 106-foot Alexandra Falls along the Hay River paralleling the highway at various points. Also moving out over the highway are gold from Yellowknife, uranium from Port Radium and other metals urgently needed in Canada's defense build-up. Moving into the northland over the highway are defense construction materials for the air force and army establishments in the north.

Bodies Of Fire Victims Exhumed

STATESVILLE —(AP)— The bodies of a Negro mother and her four children who apparently died when fire destroyed their home here Oct. 23, were exhumed today.

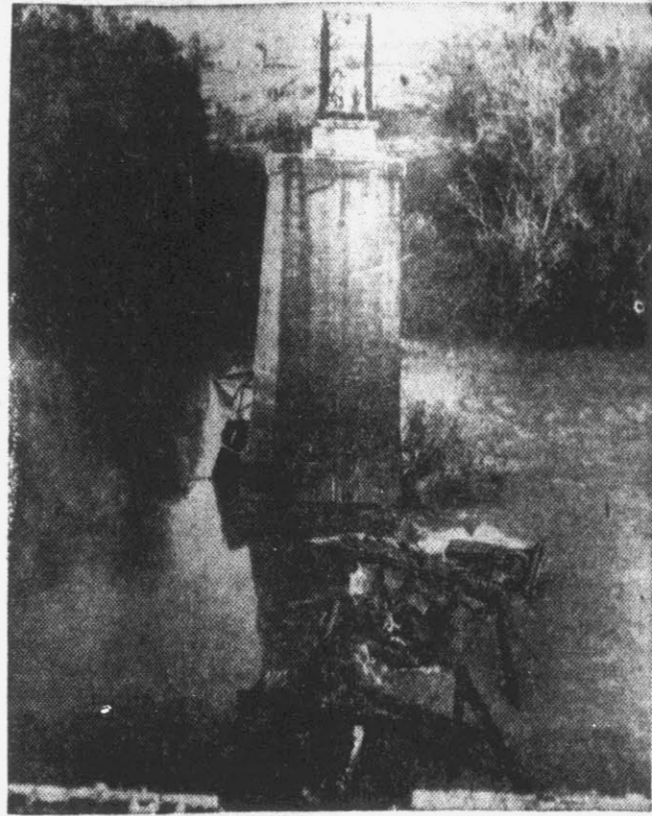

Tredell coroner Marvin W. Raymer ordered the disinterment of the bodies to permit a pathological examination of the remains. Tests on the bodies of Mary Murray, 28, and her four children were conducted today by Dr. W. M. Summerville, Mecklenburg County coroner, assisted by Dr. J. B. Heninger of Statesville's H. F. Long Hospital.

Purposes of the tests was to establish whether any of the victims were dead before fire partially destroyed their four-room frame dwelling. The bodies were found in the charred remains of the home.

The fire occurred just as Statesville conducted a civil defense test. Since the fire, coroner Raymer and Statesville police have continued an investigation into the deaths and have examined a large number of witnesses.

Otto F. Maynard, 42 (left), was booked on a vagrancy charge at Oakland, Calif., after police officer Richard Johannsen had looked over his "home" under an approach to the Oakland-San Francisco Bay bridge. Police said they uncovered professional photographic equipment and a file of negatives of rail yards, plants, bridge approaches and naval installations. A reporter at right looks into the crude living quarters where Maynard has made his home for the past two years. (AP Wirephoto).

TRUCK AND BULLDOZER DUNKED:—A truck and a bulldozer lie partially submerged in the twisted steel work of a bridge that collapsed into the Broad River near Gaffney, S. C. The truck was hauling the bulldozer and their combined weight caused two sections of the bridge to give way. The truck driver's condition was listed as fair. (AP Photo).

Train Wreck Survivor Says 'I Should Be Dead'

EVANSTON, Wyo. (UP)— I we in a mess." I didn't think I could smile but I did.

I had just left my own chaircar on the City of San Francisco and was walking toward the diner at the rear of the train.

I stopped off at the washroom and was talking to the conductor. All of a sudden, the conductor shouted: "Oh, my God!"

I don't know why, but I grabbed for the water fountain.

The next thing I knew the fountain jerked loose from the wall with my arms still around it and I plunged through the partition of the washroom into the coach behind us.

There, in a blur, I saw a maze of legs, suitcases, arms and clothing. It happened so fast, no one uttered a sound. It was like as if I was in another world.

There must have been a terrible noise as we hit the Los Angeles, but I didn't hear it.

The next sound I heard was that of cars hitting cars, I guess. I couldn't tell for sure.

I asked a soldier to lift the fountain off me, for I found it was resting across my chest. The soldier smiled and said: "Boy, aren't we in a mess."

He lifted the fountain off and we both got up and turned around.

We found that no one in our car was seriously injured, although several were trapped and bleeding from cuts.

The conductor — gee, he was a nice guy — was bleeding from the forehead but he told us to be calm and stay where we were, not to try to move from the car.

It dawned on me all of a sudden that the women and the children in the car were all crying and screaming and the conductor asked me to help comfort them.

I walked down the aisle with the conductor, doing what we could, and pretty soon all was quiet again.

It seemed to me we sat in the wreckage of our car for almost an hour — but I guess it couldn't have been that long.

Finally a man motioned us away from the windows and he started to break the glass. After the glass was cleared he told us to come out, one at a time, and to bring what clothing we could.

Blue Baby Has 2 Strikes Already

DURHAM —(AP)— The fate of little Billy McAdams was in the hands of an expert surgeon today — a symbol of hope for his anxious parents.

Billy, 20 weeks old, was moved from an oxygen tent in Greensboro's Sternberger Hospital to another oxygen tent at Duke Hospital here.

The boy was born with two strikes against him. He is a "blue baby"—which means he has an abnormal heart condition. To live, his heart needs more oxygen than he can get outside an oxygen tent.

Also, his heart, stomach and liver are on opposite sides from the normal positions.

He was transferred to Duke so a surgeon of widely recognized skill can study his case. The surgeon is expected to determine within a week or 10 days what, if anything, can be done to help Billy towards a life like other babies.

Weight is a measurement of the attraction of the earth for a body on or near its surface.

Other candidates are R. Hunt Parker and F. Donald Phillips, Superior Court Judges, and Oscar O. Eiford, Winston-Salem attorney.

Electronic Brain Backs Out Of Chess Challenge

WASHINGTON (UP)—Donald H. Jacobs claimed a victory for man over machine today.

An electronic "brain" which had accepted his challenge to a $1,000 chess match flipped a switch and turned down the offer after all.

The "brain," through its developers, the Computer Research Corp. of Hawthorne, Calif., announced that it had important "defense" matters to think about, and couldn't waste time on a game of chess with a mere man.

Jacobs, president of the Jacobs Instrument Co. of nearby Bethesda, Md., said he wouldn't question the "brain's" reasons for backing out.

"The brain's thoughts are its own," Jacobs said. "But its refusal to match wits over a chess game bears out my original contention that man is still superior to a machine — at least over a chess board."

Jacobs had offered to wager a "gentleman's bet" of $1,000 with the electronic computer on a 20-game chess tournament. The "brain's" seconds accepted the challenge immediately, but announced last night that the "urgency" for this machine in the defense effort makes such a tournament untimely.

Computer Research had claimed

Delays Decision On Accepting His English Legacy

CUYAHOGA FALLS, O. — (UP)—The question of what to do with an English legacy still bothers a vaive salesman, James Gape, 46.

Gape was willed an estate estimated to be worth $254,000. It includes two manor houses and 1,000 acres of land in England. It was bequeathed by his cousin, Sybil Gape, who died in December, 1950.

The catch in the will was a provision that Gape must take up permanent residence in England, on the estate, within six months.

Decision Delayed

At first, Gape thought the six months were up last summer and at the time he "half made up" his mind not to accept it. However, he said he has learned since that the six-month-period will not start until the estate has been cleared of all debts, taxes and other encumbrances.

While those legal details are being worked out abroad, Gape is fretting over printed criticism from England. He lives here, not far from Akron, with his wife, Mary, 33, two sons, David, seven, and Tommy, two months, and daughter Gracie, five, in a small but comfortable Cape Cod-style home while he ponders the provisions of the will.

The estate has been in the Gape family for 600 years and will go either to Gape, a brother in Detroit, or another cousin still in England. The American Gapes were born in Canada but came to the United States and are naturalized citizens.

"I've got my fingers crossed and I'm biting my nails over the whole affair," Gape said.

Alumni Speaker

Dr. J. Bryant Kirkland, dean of the School of Education at N. C. State College, will be the principal speaker at a supper meeting of the Pitt County State College Alumni Club at Red Oak community building Wednesday night at 8:30.

M. Brown Hodges of Grifton, president of the club, will preside. A motion picture film will be shown and announcements will be made.

Supper will be served "dutch treat." Members are invited to take their wives to the meeting. Those planning to attend are requested to telephone Mrs. B. L. Tyson, telephone 2059, Greenville.

Marines Splash Ashore In Final Phase Of Games

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (UP)—Waves of Marines slashed ashore at Onslow Beach today to grapple with "defensive" forces in the final phase of Operation Lantflex '52, the largest Atlantic Fleet maneuvers since World War II.

Warships standing off the beach blasted shore installations and carrier planes bombed and strafed the beach as the first wave of "attackers" splashed through the chilly surf at 9 a.m.

An armada of more than 200 ships carrying 18,000 men maneuvered into attack formation several miles off the beach. Officers called the formation "something entirely new, designed to minimize the effect of an atom bomb blast."

The landing climaxed Lantflex, which designates Atlantic Fleet Exercise, the maneuvers started in the Caribbean in the vicinity of Puerto Rico and moved up the Atlantic Seaboard. The troops are members of the 2nd Marine Division.

Underwater demolition teams made up of the navy's famed "frogmen" paved the way for today's assault by destroying simulated beach obstacles set up by the "defenders."

Churchill Party Wins Test Vote

LONDON —(AP)—The House of Commons gave Winston Churchill's new Conservative regime its first vote of confidence last night, beating out by a 39-vote margin a Labor attempt to halt repeal of steel nationalization.

The house, voting 220-281, rejected an opposition amendment regretting that the King's speech opening parliament had promised an end to government ownership of the steel industry, which the previous Labor-controlled house had voted.

The King's speech is written by the cabinet in power and outlines its program. Return of steel to private enterprise was a major pledge of the Conservatives in the Oct. 28 general election.

The Tory regime disclosed during yesterday's debate that it plans to introduce by Feb. 1 a bill denationalizing steel. Former Supply Minister George Strauss declared Labor would fight the bill at every stage. If the Tories do take the industry out from under seek to restore it at the earliest possible moment," Strauss added.

The Indiana University library's Department of Special Collections and Rare Books houses some 22,000 books and pamphlets and 170,000 manuscripts.

Prof. Davenport Joins Campaign

The Negro Tuberculosis Seal Sale Campaign in Greenville will be headed by Prof. W. H. Davenport, principal of C. M. Eppes High School. He was recently appointed chairman of the Negro campaign by Dr. W. E. Marshall, chairman of Pitt County Christmas Seal Sales.

In accepting the appointment, Prof. Davenport stated that he realized the serious problem of tuberculosis among his people, and pledged his efforts to eliminating T. B. in Greenville and Pitt County.

"It is my understanding that T. B. leads all other diseases as a cause of death in the important child-bearing and child-rearing ages of 15 to 35," he said. "Since T. B. can be prevented, an important step in prevention is to discover which people have the disease and see that treatment is provided for them."

"To achieve this end I urge all my people, who are 15 years of age or older, to get a chest X-ray," Prof. Davenport stated. He also expressed the hope that Christmas Seal sales would meet with great success this year.

To hold all the natural gas in America's 314,000 miles of pipelines would require 100 tanks the size of the Empire State Building in New York City or a single tank half a city block in diameter and 30 miles high.

Four Minor Accidents On Pitt Highways In 24 Hours

Four minor highway accidents were investigated by the State Highway Patrol in Pitt County in the past 24 hours.

No arrests were made, and property damage was light in most cases. The patrol reported that it encountered more accidents yesterday than on Armistice Day which had been picked as a bad day for highway accidents.

Early yesterday morning, cars operated by William Barrett, 29, 1118 Clark Street, Greenville, and Donald MacLachorn, 19, of Winterville, were in collision just beyond the city limits of Greenville on NC 11.

Moderate damage resulted. The accident occurred, investigating officer H. M. Morrow reported, when one car stopped for a road crew working on the highway and was struck by the second one.

No one was injured and no charges were made, Morrow reported. Last night, a mule-drawn cart and its occupants escaped possible serious injuries when it was struck by a passing automobile on the Pictonus highway.

Cpl. H. M. Morrow, who investigated the accident, listed the driver of the car as James Edward Whittier of Route 5, Greenville, and the wagon driver as William Earl Toier.

The accident occurred when the Whittier car struck the wagon in the rear as it was meeting another car. There was no light on the rear of the cart, Morrow stated.

The car and wagon were demolished. No injuries were reported and no charges.

A two-car accident near Bethel last night caused minor damage to a car and truck driven by James Arthur Staton, 39, of Bethel, and Emanuel Worth Nobles of Winterville.

City Involved In Frantic Search For Small Boys

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A frantic hunt for three small boys, missing since Saturday, today overshadowed the workday pursuits of the more than half a million Minneapolis resident.

Kenneth Klein Jr., 8, and his two brothers, David, 6, and Daniel, 4, simply dropped from sight. The boys left their northside home Saturday afternoon to play in a park four blocks away. The Mississippi River is only a short distance beyond.

Kenneth Klein, the boys' father, called police when they didn't come home Saturday night. A routine notice was radioed to squad cars. No results.

Police Chief Tom Jones Sunday called out 100 civil defense auxiliary police to aid his reserves in one of the city's greatest man-hunts. The volunteers combed the area for miles around the Klein home. They searched alleys, rang doorbells, found nothing.

One resident reported seeing three small boys resembling Kenneth, David and Daniel sitting on a curbstone late Saturday. A tracking dog was taken to the spot. The dog followed a trail to the river bank. There the search stopped.

Police cars carrying loud speakers patrolled the fringes of swampland to blast out the boys' names. No answer.

Squads plodded through warehouses of the river industrial district. Hollow echoes answered their shouts.

Yesterday, three Civil Air Patrol planes, wheeled over the Mississippi but again no clues to Kenneth, David and Daniel. A police launch towing draglines turned up only waterlogged wood.

Price Supports Gone; Market Up

WASHINGTON (UP)—What happens to consumer prices when a farm crop goes off the government support list? Take a look at potatoes.

This year — for the first time in nine years — the government isn't buying potatoes via the taxpayers' pocketbook. But figures show that consumers are spending more per capita for spuds than they spent last year contributing to the surplus purchase program and buying their own supply for the dinner table.

The government spent $63,000,000 in 1950 buying surplus potatoes to support growers' price. On a per capita basis, each consumer spent about 42 cents on the program. With consumption estimated at about 100 pounds per person, each consumer spent an additional $1.43 for his own spuds. So each of us spent about $1.85 on potatoes last year.

This year, with no government supports, farmers cut production to get a shorter supply and higher prices. Per capita potato spending this year is averaging $2.33.

OPS Plans Use Singing Squibs

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government is going in for singing commercials.

The Office of Price Stabilization revealed today that OPS officials in New York are lining up "name" talent to record squibs plugging price controls for use on radio and television station breaks.

Interference In Dam Work Charged To Sec. Chapman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Willis Smith (D-NC) has accused Secretary of Interior Chapman of "interference" in the Roanoke Rapids dam case.

Smith rapped Chapman in a letter to Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath. The letter asked the Attorney General to "most carefully consider" before appealing the case to the U. S. Supreme court.

The federal Power Commission has given the Virginia Electric and Power Co. (VEPCO) the go-ahead to erect a multi-million dollar dam on the lower Roanoke River at Roanoke Rapids, N. C.

A Federal Appeals Court has refused to review the FCC's decision. The review was requested by Chapman and the Virginia Rural Electrification Association, who feel the dam should be a public power project.

In his letter to McGrath, Smith declared: "We talk a great deal about the need for power but here is an incident where the power company would long since have had the dam and power plant completed had it not been for Chapman's interference."

Egyptians Hold Protest Parade

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Two hundred thousand Egyptians marched through the streets of Alexandria today in the largest demonstration in the nation's history, protesting British occupation of the Suez Canal zone.

The almost three-mile long procession snaked through the shuttered heavily-guarded streets of the Egyptian summer capital. The demonstration marked "National Struggle Day", anniversary of the 1919 revolution against the British.

From Valletta Malta, it was reported units of the British Mediterranean fleet had been alerted for possible trouble during the demonstrations. Three squadrons of aircraft were loaded aboard the carrier Ocean. The flagship cruiser Liverpool and the frigate Mermaid left Valletta for an undisclosed destination.

Police declared a state of emergency in Alexandria. All of the city's political, social, religious, industrial and commercial organizations were represented in the demonstration.

The demonstrators started a five-mile march to Kasr el Palace, the Alexandria residence of King Farouk.

Special guards were placed about all foreign consulates. The city has a foreign population of about 250,000 mostly Greeks, Italians, British and French.

The demonstrators were ordered to disperse at the end of the march to avoid anti-British riots. A similar procession will be held in Cairo tomorrow and a temporary stoppage of all the nation's trains also is scheduled for tomorrow.

Red Air Power Steadily Grows

LONDON (UP)—Russia's Air Force now has 500 bombers capable of dropping atomic bombs on the United States, an authoritative military publication said today.

Brassey's Annual, a yearly review of world military developments assembled by leading British experts, said that 12,000 combat aircraft are rolling from Russian production lines each year.

It said Russian combat air force strength is about 19,000 aircraft, including a new jet fighter whose performance equals the MIG-15 now used in Korea.

The 460-page analysis of world military developments said Russia's best chance to win World War III would be to start it right now when the Soviet Union enjoys a tremendous advantage in modern weapons.

Brassey's also said the present Russian army of 175 divisions, comprising 2,800,000 men, can be mobilized "at any moment" to almost 15,000,000. One million men are being trained yearly as army recruits, it said.

Russia, it said, has 380 submarines with others under construction. Russia is concentrating on "battlewagon" class battleships and at least three are known, Brassey's reported.

Five Prisoners Escape Davidson County's Jail

LEXINGTON (AP)—Sheriff's officers using bloodhounds searched this area today for five prisoners who escaped from the Davidson County jail here last night.

The prisoners, all of whom were awaiting trial, attacked jailer Foster Cook as he entered the lock-up on a routine round about 6 P.M. Cook was scratched and bruised in the struggle but was not seriously hurt. The jailer's wife, who was standing by the lock-up door, was also bruised as the prisoners rushed to freedom.

Police identified the escapees as Willie Myers, 22, of Winston-Salem; charged with highway robbery; Samuel Eldridge, 30, of New York City, charged with auto theft; Boyd Carl Bartlett, 20, his brother, J. B. Bartlett, 22, and Johnny Norman, 21, all of Reidsville, charged with breaking and entering.

Says Food Crops Likely Target

BILOXI, Miss. (UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan warned today that the nation's livestock and crops might be attacked by germ warfare in the event of war.

Brannan told the national convention of commissioners, secretaries and directors of agriculture here to be alert in detecting and reporting "unusual occurrences" of livestock and crop diseases and pests.

Escaped Convict Gives Self Up

RALEIGH (AP)—A convict who fled the Duplin County prison camp Sunday returned last night bringing back the guard's automobile which he and two others used for their escape.

Prison Director H. M. Honeycutt said that Perry Clark, 39, Negro, drove the automobile back to the camp and surrendered. Clark was serving sentences totaling three years from Columbus County for larceny.

New Reactor To Be Built In California

LOS ANGELES (UP)—North American Aviation, Inc. today awarded only the green light for the Atomic Energy Commission before starting construction on the first low-power atomic furnace for use in industrial and medical research.

Plans for the furnace, or nuclear reactor, designed for "peaceful use of the atom in research," were unveiled yesterday by Dr. Chauncey Starr, director of atomic energy research at the company's Downey, Calif., plant.

Starr said the reactor was "ideal" for use in university and industrial research because it will cost only about $1,000,000 to build and is safe even from "sabotage."

The reactor is an octagonal furnace 11 feet high, 19 feet wide and weighing about 500 tons. It operates on fissionable material that is predominantly uranium 235, which is scattered through a "core in the center of the octagon."

On a single charge of the fissionable fuel, the furnace can operate at the rate of 2,000 hours a year for 10 years.

The core is surrounded by a gas-tight aluminum container, a 34-ton graphite reflector, 450 tons of steel and concrete shielding to hold back deadly Gamma rays, and cooling agents such as heavy and light water.

The reactor will produce from 160 to 200 kilowatts of heat energy—enough to keep 100 electric toasters hot simultaneously.

Operating at 160 kilowatts, it will provide a flow of 6,000,000,000 neutrons per square inch for experimentation. The barrage will pour through a dozen holes in the uranium core.

A controlled chain reaction can be started in the reactor by firing a stream of neutrons, which start the fission process by striking and exploding the nuclei in the unstable uranium atoms.

Starr said it would be impossible for the reactor to destroy itself or to be sabotaged because as its temperature rises, the production of neutrons diminishes. Automatic safety devices will shut down the machine at the first sign of trouble.

"One million dollars is a fraction of what the government has spent for the larger reactors now operating," he said. "Yet this one, although small, is large enough for a vast amount of medical and industrial researches."

Starr said the reactor could be built to order in 18 months for any university or research group approved by the AEC. North American has completed the design and started development of its component parts.

It is likely that the first reactor may be used for experiments in the treatment of cancer.

SOLDIER GETS FILL-INS

BOSTON (UP)—Marine Pvt. Charles Capcut, fighting in Korea, was sent a letter by five friends who used a sheet of paper 18 feet long and nearly two feet wide to write their greetings and the local news.

Smudges on the wall and ceiling above a radiator are caused by currents of warm air rising from the radiator and carrying along the dust. The smudges would probably occur no matter what kind of fuel is used in the furnace.
