Atrocity Story Not 'Cleared'

Ridgway HQ Opens Inquiry; Doubt Timeliness Of Murder Revelations

TOKYO (UP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters opened an investigation today into the 8th Army's unexpected release of a statement charging the Chinese Reds with murdering 9,843 Allied war prisoners.

The U.S. Defense Department in Washington also was reported to have made inquiries into the circumstances surrounding release of the statement.

Ridgway neither authorized nor planned publication of any such statement for propaganda purposes at this critical moment in the armistice talks, an informed source said.

The statement was released Wednesday, by Col. James Hanley, the judge advocate of the 8th Army, at a press conference in Pusan, provisional capital of South Korea.

It charged the Chinese Reds with murdering 2,643 United Nations war prisoners, all but 139 of them Americans, and about 7,000 South Korean prisoners since China intervened in the Korean war more than a year ago.

North Korean troops murdered an additional 147 American prisoners during the same period, Hanley said. Unofficial estimates of the number of war prisoners killed by the North Koreans before the Chinese intervention ranged up to 3,000.

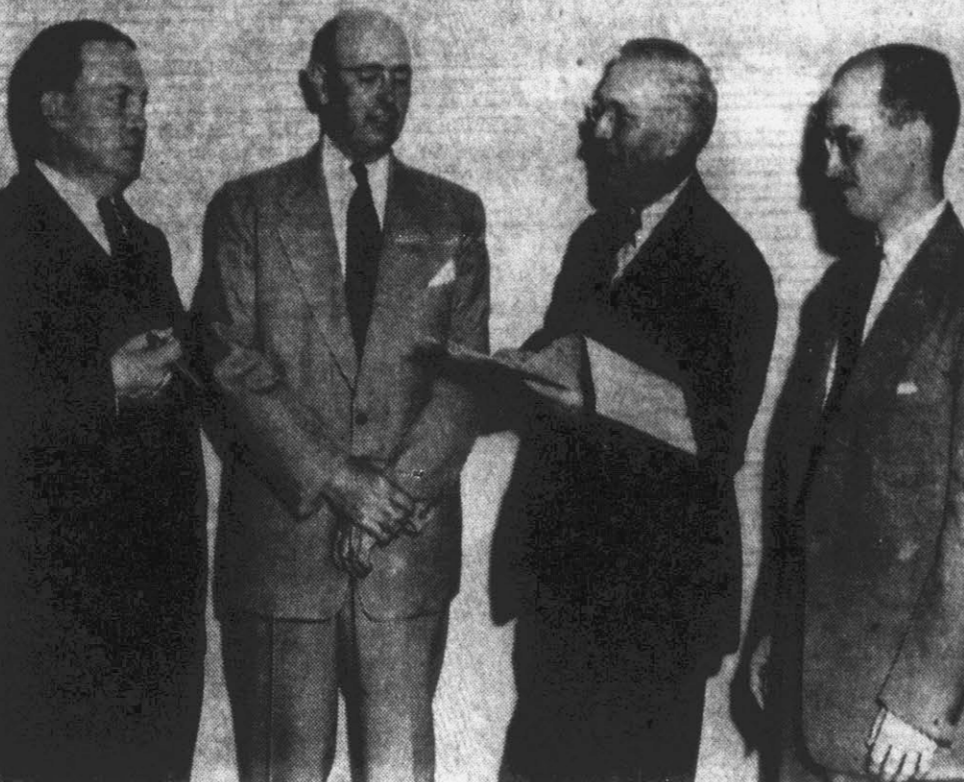

Altogether, it was believed, the Communists have murdered some 12,790 Allied war prisoners since the start of the Korean war. Hanley said it had been estimated that the Reds also have put to death "upward of a quarter of a million" South Korean civilians.

Hanley did not disclose the intelligence sources and details on which he based his estimates.

His announcement carried the implication that the U.N. command was preparing its propaganda case for the next round of the truce conference agenda in Panmunjom—an exchange of prisoners and adopting a tougher attitude.

An informed source at Ridgway's headquarters denied this was so. He said that while the statement had cleared through camp censorship, "it had not been reviewed for propriety."

N. C. Medical Association Official Addresses NCEA Session In Fountain; Reminds That Organization Still An Infant

By ROY HARDEE, Reflector Staff Writer
FOUNTAIN — A crowd of more than 200 members of the Pitt County Unit of the North Carolina Educational Association last night heard an address by Dr. C. Sylvester Green, executive vice-president of the North Carolina Medical Association, at the second regular meeting of the organization here.

Dr. Green spoke on the topic, "It Takes Time," in which he declared that the people of the world today are unjustly downing the work carried on by the United Nations which is still an infant.

Speaking on the growth and progress of the United Nations, Dr. Green compared it with the beginning of the United States, in which he declared it took a total of 13 years to bring the 13 small colonies together and unite them for one cause.

The same basic principle is true with the present United Nations, except that there are 59 nations now striving to work in harmony and prevent the outbreak of a third world war, the speaker stated.

"Time and time again the U. N. has actually prevented the threat of another world war, and is yet faced with a larger and more pressing threat now," Green declared.

"Had it not been for the United Nations we would already be engaged in a global conflict," the speaker stated.

"It takes time to build a peaceful world, one which could have been started in the years following the first world war had the League of Nations been given a chance to prove itself.

"The armistice which was signed after the first world war was just a breathing spell of some 31 years during which time the world remained in an unpeaceful state, ending in a second world war and the threat of a third," Green reminded.

Yugoslavs Place Charges Before Assembly Of UN

Peace Endangered By Hostile Acts, Menacing Army, Says Kardelj

PARIS (AP)—Communist Yugoslavia charged today that Russia's satellites have 25 divisions poised on her borders, threatening world peace.

Speaking before the United Nations General Assembly, Yugoslav Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj, claimed this was almost double the number of troops the satellites—Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria—had stationed there two years ago.

The charge was part of an 11-point indictment Kardelj presented to the 60-nation assembly to back up Yugoslavia's complaint of hostile acts against her by the Soviet Union and other eastern European countries—once her allies but now her bitter enemies.

Kardelj said Russian aggression against Yugoslavia was not an isolated incident but was part of a worldwide series of Soviet acts which threaten the peace of the world. He cited the war in Korea as another example of warlike Soviet policy.

Kardelj was one of the small nation speakers today in the continuing opening debate before the General Assembly. French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman is expected to be the last speaker Friday.

Kardelj called on the assembly "to recommend to the Soviet Union and other governments of the Soviet bloc x x x to use all means for the peaceful adjustment of the outstanding problems existing between them and the Federated Peoples Republic of Yugoslavia."

Warren's move today put his formal in the ring along with Taft's. So far the Ohio Senator and Warren are the only avowed candidates in either major party.

Eisenhower-for-president Republican backers are hard at work in his behalf, however, despite the General's refusal to say publicly whether he will run.

Senator Duff (R-Pa.), one of the leaders of the move, announced in a New Orleans speech last night that Senator Lodge (R-Mass) will "accept the leadership" of a campaign to put Eisenhower in the White House.

Taft and Eisenhower between them polled 126 first choice ballots in Cole's poll, with Taft getting a 17-vote edge. In third place was No. 1 choice was Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois with 13 votes.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur was fourth with 12 votes, followed by Warren with 5.

Fair Deal To Be Demo Platform

Truman Says Program Will Be Heart Of Platform Regardless Of Who Runs In His First Press Talk In Three Weeks

KEY WEST, Fla. (UP)—President Truman said today that if reports are true that 2,500 American war prisoners have been slaughtered in Korea, it is the most uncivilized thing that has happened in 100 years.

At his first press conference in three weeks, Mr. Truman also told reporters he did not discuss domestic politics with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during their recent conference.

But the President declined to comment when asked whether he would support the general for a presidential nomination.

President Truman today again defended the integrity of the average federal employe, but he said strongly that actual wrong-doers should be forced to take the consequences of punishment.

President Truman told newsmen that his Fair Deal program would be the heart of the 1952 Democratic platform, regardless of who makes up the presidential ticket.

The President was questioned about the report from 8th Army headquarters in the Far East that in the past year Chinese Communists and North Koreans had slain more than 2,500 United States prisoners of war.

Mr. Truman said thoughtfully that it was a horrible thing, but he added that he had not yet received any of the official facts.

It was, he said, the most uncivilized thing that has happened in the last century — if true.

Asked whether the slaughter might hasten the day of tactical use of the atom bomb in Korea, the President replied crisply that he had no comment.

"Did you discuss domestic politics with General Eisenhower?" the President was asked today.

The President answered flatly that they did not. He pointed out that Eisenhower had said the same thing and now he, the President, was saying it.

Taft Favored In Private Survey

House Republicans Favor Ohioan Over Ike By 71-54 Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft tops Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, 71 to 54, as the first choice of House Republicans for the GOP presidential nomination in a poll conducted by Rep. Cole (R-N.Y.).

Results of the private survey, started in September and concluded this week, were disclosed by Cole today in the wake of California Gov. Earl Warren's announcement he is a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Warren's move today put his formal in the ring along with Taft's. So far the Ohio Senator and Warren are the only avowed candidates in either major party.

Eisenhower-for-president Republican backers are hard at work in his behalf, however, despite the General's refusal to say publicly whether he will run.

Egypt Defiantly Warns Eviction Plan Unchanged

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Egypt served a defiant new warning today that it will stand on its demand for the withdrawal of British troops regardless of "any form of pressure or compulsion."

Premier Mustapha el Nahas Pasha, speaking in the name of King Farouk, told the opening session of Parliament that his government has no intention of yielding to the British.

Backing up the premier's words, the government for the first time began organizing "underground" liberation battalions to drive the British from the Suez Canal zone and from the Sudan.

The battalions sprang up all over the nation in recent weeks pledged to prepare for war with Britain if necessary. At first, the government said it would neither help nor halt the organization.

Sheriff R. W. Tyson said this morning that Herman Newell and Thad Braxton, Jr., both of Ayden, reported to his office at 5:15 yesterday afternoon to begin serving sentences imposed upon them in the April special term of Pitt County Superior Court.

Newell was sentenced to six years, and Braxton is scheduled to serve four years. The sentences were to have gone into effect November 1, but the state Paroles Commission granted the pair a two weeks reprieve.

The two men were confined in the county jail last night, and the sheriff stated they would be transferred to prison camp today to begin their sentences.

LYON, France (UP)—Rescue teams found the twisted and burned-out wreckage of a U.S. Air Force Flying Boxcar half-buried in the snow on the slopes of Mount Dore today and reported all 36 servicemen aboard were dead.

Officials will not release the passengers' names until next of kin have been informed.

A French reconnaissance plane was the first to spot the wreckage this morning, two miles northeast of Puy de Sancy, four miles southwest of Lake Combon, famed French summer resort.

An American plane confirmed the report soon afterward and radioed that there was no sign of life in the bleak area.

MIAMI (UP)—Naval officials declined to comment today on whether three submarines spotted about 10 miles off the Florida coast were U.S. undersea craft taking part in Atlantic fleet maneuvers of those of another nation.

A Navy Corsair fighter plane was rushed to a spot off Hollywood, Fla., some 20 miles north of here yesterday when Nick Dean, operator of a Miami air taxi service and former RAF pilot, radioed that he and a passenger had seen the subs.

The men left for Raleigh where they will undergo pre-induction examinations which include both physical and mental examinations.

She has requested that prospective donors call her at the Red Cross office between the hours of nine and five o'clock and at her home after five.

KINSTON (AP)—Damage estimated at $20,000 resulted when 17 cars of a 66-car Atlantic and East Carolina freight train derailed at Falling Creek Station near here yesterday.

No injuries were reported in the accident. The train was traveling a regular route from New Bern to Goldsboro.

Company officials said five or six of the freight cars were damaged beyond repair and would have to be scrapped. The pile-up occurred at a road crossing. Exact cause of the accident has not been determined.

Ceiling Prices Rolled Back On Used Autos By New OPS Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today rolled back ceiling prices on used automobiles six per cent below levels of last January.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) said its new dollars-and-cents ceilings set prices at about current market levels. An exception to the immediate rollback will be 1951 models which may be sold at the going market price.

However, OPS said 1951 cars, along with all others, will be subject to a two per cent deduction for depreciation on Jan. 1. Every three months thereafter, on the first day of each calendar quarter, another two per cent must be cut from the price of all the named 35 makes of cars manufactured between 1940 and 1951.

The ceiling price of pre-1940 cars will be that of the oldest model listed for the same make.

The new dollars and cents order replaces previous orders setting ceilings on the basis of prices in several used car guide books. Provisions of the regulation are effective Nov. 20. However, the dollars and cents prices do not go into effect until 30 days after that date.

The order divides the country into three geographical areas for pricing. The areas generally reflect differences in shipping costs of the cars originally. Those in Region A will have the lowest price and those in Region C, the far west, the highest under the lengthy tables.

The ceiling prices include all standard equipment, as well as radio, heater and other items on the car at the time the seller bought the car. Automatic transmissions or drives, or air-conditioning units are extra and prices also are listed which may be added to the car ceiling.

At the same time, more than 9,000 PMA county committeemen and 87,000 community committeemen will be elected in the United States. Elections are to be held in 3,022 counties and 28,899 communities throughout the country.

Any participant in any program administered by a PMA county committee is eligible to vote, and only farmers are eligible to hold office as committeemen. Meredith said the county committeemen elected in December will not only administer the agricultural program currently in effect, but will administer any emergency program that might arise.

James Meredith, secretary of the Pitt County Production and Marketing Administration, announced this morning that elections of PMA community and county committeemen will be held the week of December 10-15.

Each of the county's 22 townships will elect a community chairman, vice-chairman, regular member, and two alternates. The county committee consists of a chairman, vice-chairman, regular member, and two alternates, and is elected by the delegates from each township.

The present slate of county officers is composed of Jamie Wilson of Winterville, chairman, Arthur L. Woodard of Stokes, vice-

Inter Se Club Hears Talk On Georgian Architecture

There is perhaps nothing in American history more beautiful than Georgian architecture," stated Mrs. Burke Stanell before the Inter Se Club, which met at the home of Mrs. F. D. Duncan on Tuesday afternoon.

The title of Mrs. Stanell's talk was "Domestic Architecture," and she selected the Georgian phase of the Colonial period to outline before the group. She stressed the importance of the works of Sir Christopher Wren of England and the influence that he had upon architecture in this country.

Mrs. Stanell displayed illustrations of Georgian architecture, among which were pictures of outstanding homes in Williamsburg, Virginia, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, Salem, Massachusetts, and New Castle, Delaware. It was brought out that even after the Georgian period was officially dead, many architectural motifs which had been introduced by Robert Adams and Samuel McIntyre still appeared on buildings of a much later period.

Vance Perkins, club president, presided over a short business session. During this time, it was decided that the club should purchase a TB book.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Sam Underwood and Mrs. Lindsay Wilkerson, served dainty sandwiches, sweets and hot tea.

Wyatt Brown Gives Program At Round Table

Mrs. C. E. Oakley entertained the Round Table at her home on East Fifth Street Tuesday afternoon. Her rooms were attractive with arrangements of lovely fall flowers.

During the short business session the members heard an invitation from the Greenville Music Club to attend a production of "La Traviata" which is being sponsored by the club. Also they were invited to see the "Follies of '51," sponsored by the Service League.

Wyatt Brown, son of Mrs. Wiley Brown, gave his mother's program for the afternoon. He gave a pleasing study of "The Mellon Family." He traced the growth and development of the family as a part of early American history, closing with a more detailed study of Andrew J. Mellon. These present saw Mr. Mellon succeeding in many business lines and enjoying the varied philanthropic interests for which he is best remembered. The Round Table is always glad to hear a program presented by this intellectual son of one of their best loved members.

The hostess, assisted by her guests, Mrs. J. L. Evans and Mrs. George Clapp, served a delicious salad course with hot rolls and coffee. The other guests were Mrs. Frank Reid and Mrs. Robert Fountain.

Little Theatre Guild's Tish Staged At Center

On Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week, "Tish" invaded the Greenville Recreation Center in a comedy, in three acts produced by the Greenville Little Theatre Guild. "Tish," a female tornado herself, and her dear companions Lizzie and Aggie, constantly found themselves in a series of ridiculous situations but none so severe that Tish could not find a way out for the three of them. The entire action of the play took place in the combination lunch room and lobby of "The Eagle Hotel" located in a remote section of the Southwest near the Mexican border.

The cast of characters in "Tish" were as follows: three spinsters "Tish," Lizzie and Aggie, were played by Donna Tabor, Elizabeth Savage and Anne Askew; Elin Leighton who runs the Eagle Hotel by Bettie Mobley; her Mexican maid by Patay Baker; the sheriff, Joe Trotman; Luther Hopkins, Frank Toothman; Callie Hopkins, Geraldine Weathers; Charlie Sands, Sam Fleming Jr.; Bettina Trent, Helen Jackson; Wesley Andrews, Claude Taylor; Denby Grimes, Douglas Mitchell; and Dorice Gaylord, Joanne Bloom, who also directed the play.

The Guild welcomes all who are in any way interested in dramatics; they meet each second and fourth Sheppard Memorial Library. Recently the Little Theatre Guild has become a part of the Greenville Recreation Department.

Third Grade Gives Program At Training School P.T.A.

The Third Grade of the Training School, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Eunice McGee, presented a charming and enjoyable program at the Parent-Teachers meeting at the school on Wednesday afternoon.

Miss McGee introduced the program with a few remarks concerning the place of performances in the school program and mentioned some of the values derived from playing and group programs in the educational life of the children.

The program was in three parts. The first was a delightfully whimsical enactment of the fairy story, "The Golden Bucket." Sarah Collier Webb as the fairy in disguise, Scottie Smiley as the little boy who went to gather nuts, and Myra Hawthaway as the child's mother were both natural and poised in their roles.

A group of nine children then recited Bible verses and children's prayers. Those repeating Bible verses were Emily Stanci, Ginger Melton and Kay Oglesby, while Dallas Clark, Jr., Martha Russell, Rick Sauve, Brenda Stocks, Cindy Swayne and Lois Semons recited the prayers.

The entire grade then joined in singing two songs, "Thanksgiving" and "Winter." Bill Norman and Bobby Hardee sang a song by themselves, called "Lights," and the last song, "To Mother," was sung by the group. Martha Russell played a verse of it on the xylophone and Rick Sauve, Margaret Rose Eaton and Mac MacKenzie played a verse on the horns and ukulele. The program was concluded by group singing of another verse.

During the business session which followed, the president, Mrs. Dink James, called for reports from the various officers. It was announced that over $300 was cleared on the Halloween festival.

Mrs. L. W. Edwards, membership chairman, reported an enrollment of 532 members, with two classes, Mrs. Marshall's seventh grade and Miss Purvis' fifth grade, reporting 100 percent membership in the association.

Kirkland Speaks On Expansion At State College

Dr. J. Bryant Kirkland, dean of the School of Education at State College discussed the expansion program at the institution at the Pitt County Alumni Club's supper meeting at Red Oak Community building last night.

He said each of the six degree granting schools at the college have modern facilities for teaching and have gained national recognition for the fine students they turn out.

Kirkland said that in 1905 there were 484 students enrolled at State College, which at that time had a physical plant valued at $1,000,000. Today, he said, there are 2,702 students and a physical plant of $2,000,000. He emphasized the fact that there is no other land-grant college in the South that is capable of rendering a greater service than North Carolina State College.

The Pitt County alumni Club elected E. P. Baas as president, Dr. Joe Bateman, vice-president, and Milton May, secretary.

The organization voted to send $10 to the National Building Fund in Chicago to apply on the construction of the National Foundation building. A check for $10 was also to be sent to the State Headquarters for the Martin Memorial Fund.

The association also voted to favor the recommendation which had been made and passed at the meeting of the Student-Parents-Teachers Council of the high school on Tuesday night limiting the financial drives carried on through the schools to the Junior Red Cross drive and the March of Dimes.

At the conclusion of the meeting, it was announced that Miss McGee's Third Grade had won the attendance prize with 27 parents present. All members present were 17.

Democracy Also Affects Schools

Editor's Note: The following article on democracy at work in Greenville high school was written by Marty Hadley, co-editor of Green Lights, Greenville High School publication, in connection with National Education week.

By MARTY HADLEY

Democracy, government of the people, for the people and by the people, as practiced within each organization of Greenville High School, prepares us for our roles as the citizens of tomorrow.

Free from tension and from dictatorship, we can express our own opinions in all the class rooms and clubs. Through executing our own plans, we develop responsibility and leadership. Without responsibility there can be no real freedom. Unless we accept the responsibility of voting and of standing for certain issues we lose our freedom. Just as freedom insures responsibility responsibility guarantees freedom.

The Student Cooperative Association sets the standard for the other Greenville High School clubs. By means of the democratic ideals practiced by each organization, we experience the advantages of freedom.

The building of character should be the basis of education. Through all phases of our school life we learn the value of citizenship, cooperation, truth, respect, and spiritual enrichment. The importance of the teacher in the student's achievement of high standards of character can never be over-estimated. The final adult is often the product of the teacher's guidance.

The school is an important source of moral and spiritual values, but it must unite with the home, the church, and the community in order to influence the developing personalities of youth.

Mrs. De Savigny Speaker At End Of Century Club Meet

Mrs. A. D. Frank was hostess to the End of the Century Book Club on Tuesday, November 13, at 3:30 p.m. at her home on Eighth Street. She had as special guests for the occasion Mrs. Leon Russell, Mrs. P. L. Blount, Mrs. M. L. Wright and Mrs. Shelia De Savigny.

Mrs. J. B. Spilman, vice president, presided over the meeting and extended a welcome to the guests.

Mrs. J. T. Little, program chairman, introduced Mrs. De Savigny, who was speaker for the afternoon.

In her attractive and informal manner, she gave a most interesting talk on Costa Rica and Nicaragua, where she had resided for seven years before bringing her family to live in Greenville.

A comparison was made of the two republics with respect to their government, schools, people and resources. The cultivation and processing of coffee was carefully explained and pictures of it in its various stages were passed. Mrs. De Savigny also discussed the banana, sugar, stock-raising and mining industries and showed pictures of these businesses.

Mrs. De Savigny wore a lovely brooch and bracelet which were hand-made of pure gold, and she displayed these in touching on the handicrafts for which the people are well known. Attractive hand-made cards, which are replicas of those in actual use among the people, were also passed around for the inspection of the guests. She told of many interesting and exciting personal experiences which she had had while a resident in the countries. She reminded her listeners of their good fortune to live in such a safe, secure and well-provisioned city as Greenville, which she declared to be the best place in the world to bring up teen age children.

During the short business meeting, a letter was read from Charles A. White concerning the opera, "La Traviata," which is to be presented under the auspices of the Greenville Music Club on Sunday night, November 25. Tickets for this and the Service League Follies were available for members who wished to purchase them at the meeting.

The hostess served a delicious salad course with coffee and cake after which the books were exchanged and the club adjourned.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS THE CHARACTER OF GOD

The English word "character" is derived from a Greek word almost identical—"charakter." Originally this Greek word meant the tool which a sculptor used in fashioning a statue. Finally it came to mean the image itself. This word is used only once in the Greek New Testament, in the first chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews where the word "charakter" is translated "express image." Jesus is the express image of God.

Jesus is the image of God. Jesus is the character of God. There are undoubtedly many things about God which humans could not possibly understand because they have no capacity for understanding things outside the comprehension of the five senses. These attributes of God are nowhere set forth either in the Bible or in the life of Jesus, except by hint and implication. But the things human beings can understand, namely, power, righteousness, love, unyielding purpose, eternal persistence—these characteristics of God are set forth in Jesus, who is God's "charakter" or "express image."

Let us not be guilty of that modern superficiality which regards Jesus as one of the history's great figures. He is all that and more. He is the "charakter" of God.

Replace The Talk With More Action

People wonder where all the money collected by the federal government is going. Then they look at reports of the extreme top-heaviness in government personnel and they realize where a large chunk of the billions is going.

Since 1945 the people of the United States have paid the federal government over $12,000,000 more in taxes than the people of this nation did during the entire period from 1789 through April, 1945. The unnecessary personnel on government payrolls has accounted for a good part of this money.

At the present time the United States has 3,500,000 people in its armed forces. Yet in Washington there are 361 general and flag officers and 91,081 civilian employees of the armed forces. When the American armed forces were at their peak in 1945 with more than 12,000,000 men and women in service there were only 397 general and flag officers in Washington along with 98,071 civilian employees of the armed forces. There was enough wasted civilian manpower in government jobs then, but during the past five years the amount of waste has almost trebled.

Since the end of World War II the armed forces have been singing the blues about the cuts in appropriations, and shouting to the tops of their voices that they have cut out all unnecessary expenditures to stay within their budget. It now is taking 91,081 civilian employees to look after the paper work for 3,500,000 service personnel where it took only 98,071 to look after the paper work for 12,000,000 military personnel six years ago.

The paper work of the armed forces has not become that much more complicated during six years. The number of employees alone attest to the extra ordinary inefficiency and waste of manpower in this one agency of the federal government.

Multiply the waste of civilian personnel of the armed forces by the numerous other agencies of the government, and it is plain that billions of unnecessary dollars are being poured down the drain for manpower alone by the government agencies.

Congressional investigation committees keep plugging for more personnel efficiency in government agencies, but somehow the numbers of government employees keep growing rather than being cut down. The whole federal government structure is top-heavy with employees.

The man on the street is tired of hearing about more efficiency in government and less waste of tax payers money without seeing any results of such talk.

The members of Congress should turn their attention to carrying out some of their own recommendations for cutting down the government inefficiency instead of continuing to feather-bed the government payrolls.

Are Negotiations With The Communists Futile?

Sometimes the attempts of the free nations of the world to reach a reasonable, lasting peace with the Communist nations seem completely and hopelessly futile.

The smaller nations of the world through Spokesman Ole Bjoern Kraft of Denmark have urged through the United Nations that the larger nations of the world—the Western leaders and the Kremlin—settle their differences through the disarmament proposal submitted by the United States, Britain and France. As the spokesman viewed the situation, adoption of the disarmament proposal is the only alternative to another destructive World War.

The free nations of the world, of course, stand ready to work out the proposal at any moment the Communists are willing to cooperate. But the Communist barbarians are bent upon their desire for world domination, no matter what the cost in lives of their own people or of other peoples of the world. The free nations of the world have learned through bitter experience that the word of the Communist nations is worthless. They will abide by an agreement only so long as it contributes to their ultimate goal; then the agreement will be disregarded altogether.

In Paris members of the free nations in the United Nations are seeking to bring the Communist nations to see the need for disarmament. From the other side of the world war has come that Communist troops have slain in cold blood some 12,000 South Korean and United Nations prisoners of war in Korea . . . in open violation of the long standing Geneva convention provisions for treatment of war prisoners.

Yet the free world continues its efforts to come to terms other than on the battlefield with Communists who know only hate, war and suppression.

The free world keeps hoping against hope that a settlement short of global war may be found; but while the efforts for peace continue, the free world must prepare itself materially and mentally for a horrible war the like of which mankind has never known.

News Behind The News By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The most disgruntled and baffled politicians in the country today are the professional leaders of organized labor.

Recent 1952 presidential maneuverings involving such top figures as President Truman, General "Ike" Eisenhower and Senator Robert A. Taft make them fearful that the political power they have wielded for almost twenty years will end next year.

As of today, the union bosses are not satisfied with any of the leading candidates for both parties' nomination, including the man in the White House. He has been criticized severely at both the American Federation of Labor and the CIO conventions for his failure or inability to keep his pledges to those organizations. Their private comments on his labor record are unprintable.

GRUDGING—Although labor may be forced to support almost any Democratic nominee next year, the backing will be reluctant and grudging. As recent elections in numerous industrial cities and states showed, the "big shots"—William Green and Philip Murray—will not be able to influence the votes of the workmen and their wives.

GRUDGING—Although labor may be forced to support almost any Democratic nominee next year, the backing will be reluctant and grudging. As recent elections in numerous industrial cities and states showed, the "big shots"—William Green and Philip Murray—will not be able to influence the votes of the workmen and their wives.

ATTITUDE—In his finest Shakespearean manner, he advised them to remember that union labor's attitude toward both the Democrats and the G.O.P. should approximate the sentiment reflected in the bitter comment: "A plague on both your houses!" Now he stands on the sidelines and says with a grin: "I told you so."

As he forecast, both the AFL and the CIO will find it advisable next year to withhold active ballot-box and financial support from both the major parties. Instead, they will concentrate on the Senate-House elections.

MANIFESTATIONS—President Truman's reported offer to obtain the Democratic nomination for General Eisenhower aroused sharp suspicion in labor ranks toward the Chief Executive's sincerity on their behalf. But there had been earlier White House manifestations which antagonized powerful figures inside the unions.

The head of the building trades group, which is the dominant unit in the AFL, declared the Truman record to be so full of "flaws" that labor should consider voting for a Republican. Walter Reuther, boss of the United Automobile Workers, has attacked the Administration's wage stabilization policies, its price control failures and its tax amortization favors to great corporations. He says, in effect, that "Truman favors the rich."

FAILURE—More internationally minded leaders are angry over European labor's failure to obtain proportionate benefits from the $12,000,000,000 of Marshall Plan funds.

Their overseas comrades, they have told President Truman and Mutual Security Administrator W. Averell Harriman, have not benefited in the form of higher wages, shorter hours or improved working conditions from our vast expenditures.

The Green-Murray agents in this field are especially chagrined because, in their talks with European opposites, they won foreign approval of the Marshall Plan by promising labor they would be among the principal beneficiaries. It has not worked out that way, with the result that a schism has arisen in the whole international labor movement, to the discredit of the American promoters.

POISON—As a Truman substitute, Chief Justice Fred Vinson would spark no enthusiasm with the leaders of the masses of organized labor. For one thing, they have a natural prejudice against a Southern politician. Secondly, Mr. Vinson has written several pro-Taft-Hartley decisions inimical to their demand for repeal of the statute.

They don't want General Eisenhower as a Republican or Democratic nominee. In a formal statement, a top CIO official referred to his supposed animosity toward Taft-Hartley repeal and too generous Social Security and pension payments. Moreover, military men in civilian posts have always been poison to labor leaders.

FAVORITE—Senator Taft, of course, is the principal hate of the professional labor boss. His smashing victory last year, as well as a study of the industrial voting in the November 6 elections, suggests that their hostility is not shared by factory workers and their families. A majority of the well-populated cities elected Republicans, especially in Pennsylvania, New York and Indiana.

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR. If you walked up to me on the street and asked, "Jack, what do you consider yourself?" my answer would be that I consider myself an average Greenville businessman, with an enjoyable hobby of writing a newspaper column, blessed with good opportunities and a bright future. On most days that would be my answer. However, since I am an average Greenville businessman, some days I might say, "I am attempting to do a job that sometimes seems impossible. Everything I touched today went wrong. I had an argument with somebody, and later found out that I was wrong and he was right. By that time I was in such a foul state of mind that I wasn't man enough to go back to him and tell him he was right. Tomorrow I'll tell him." Today's column was inspired because yesterday was one of those days. When a bad day comes along, mole hills become mountains, and the least little thing will cause a lot of worry. If you are a normal individual, these things have happened to you, and probably you have learned how to combat them. In case you haven't, I have a simple solution. After a rough day at work it's a pleasant change to come home. A change of scenery is the most important factor. But suppose your living room reminds you too much of your daily routine, and consequently of your unpleasant day at work. Then it's time to leave home. The next step involves companionship. As it happened, last night we were filling in for the neighbor's bridge club. One of the members of the club, Don Calloway, had an unexpected visitor. His brother, an Army corporal en route overseas, dropped by. We never played the first hand of bridge, but instead sat around and talked. If there was a worry in the crowd, it was forgotten for the evening. It's companionship that helps you forget your troubles. More important, after a few hours away from them, it's easy to go back and face them. It also helps to look around you. The businessman might be concerned with a dissatisfied customer, and it causes him a lot of worry. Then he can easily look around and find someone much worse off. That one dissatisfied customer suddenly becomes a minor problem compared to a neighbor, who has sickness in his family. No matter how much a man enjoys his work, there will be days when everything will go wrong. As they say in Brooklyn, "Some days ya' shoulda' stood in bed." But until we can learn in advance which days they will be, the only thing we can do is forget the bad ones and remember the good ones. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Asso. Afternoon Dailyies

QUIET — It has been very quiet all along the political front in North Carolina for the past ten days or more. Despite efforts of newspaper men to get a positive commitment from State Treasurer Brandon Hodges about his probable candidacy for governor, the treasurer just smiles and says he is giving the matter serious thought. Two or three trial balloons sent up in behalf of Major L. P. McLendon of Greensboro failed to stir any enthusiasm. Maintaining similar silence are Judge Hubert Oliver of Lexington and Henry Jordan, chairman of the highway commission. Opinion grows every day that neither of these gentlemen will get into the running. Meantime, William Umstead of Durham has the field to himself. Recognized as a certain candidate for several years, he formally announced some two months ago. He is making three or four speeches a week. While he has never suggested that he has the nomination clinched, his position has appeared secure enough to give pause to other aspirants for the office.

NUMBER TWO — There is even less interest in the lieutenant governorship now than appeared in midsummer. Then it seemed very likely that Governor Scott would seek election to that office. Such a prospect is now regarded very remote. Friends of Roy Rove of Burgaw and J. C. Pittman of Sanford, generally accepted but unannounced candidates, have been less active lately, and there is growing belief that either Frank Taylor of Goldsboro or John Lar-date there is no specific opposition in sight for other elective offices. These include state auditor, where Henry Bridges is ending his first elective term after nearly two years by appointment; superintendent of public instruction, where Clyde Erwin has served since 1934; commissioner of agriculture, where L. Y. Ballentine is ending his first term; commissioner of labor, where incumbent Forrest Shuford has held forth since 1938; commissioner of insurance, where Waldo Cheek is ending three years tenure, one by appointment and two by election to fill an unexpired term.

TOTALS — The people of the whole state next year will elect a governor, a lieutenant governor, an attorney general, seven members of the council of state, a chief justice and two associate justices of the supreme court. Each of twelve districts will elect a representative to the national congress. Thirty-three districts will elect fifty state senators and one hundred counties will elect one hundred and twenty representatives in the general assembly. An undetermined number of county commissioners and other local officers will also be elected. There will be no superior court judges or solicitors, sheriffs to be elected, unless vacancies occur in these offices by reason of death or resignation. It will take a lot of voting to fill all these positions. Traditionally, top interest is in the governor's race, but next year the supreme court and some congressional districts promise to put the contest for governor in second or third place.

COUNCIL — Members of the council of state are also concerned about the contagious and infectious nature of "candidate fever." First break in these ranks came last week with announcement by H. T. Joyner of Winston-Salem that he would seek nomination as secretary of state, position held by Thad Eure since 1936. If Treasurer Brandon Hodges gets into the governor's scrap, there will be several empty spots for council members.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

IT FLIES AGAIN (Washington Daily News) The Confederate flag is flying again, but those who saw it fly in the days of the War Between the States would never recognize the domains over which it flies today. And they may not appreciate the spirit of that unveiling. The Confederate flag today is being flown the world over. Yankee land is fertile grounds for the banner to wave over. It waves in Korea, in Germany, and in many far flung places. It also waves on many automobiles passing every day along our highways. It has even been noticed flying on front of cars from Maine, Pennsylvania, New York, an many other states. It is not only the flag, but Confederate hats are becoming a common fad of the day. School children, old men, and even some women perhaps are adorned in the Southern gray. Football games seem to be a special sanctuary for confederate flags and hats. A few people have expressed indignation. Others have looked upon the fad with a feeling of pride in that either by hope or inclination, they feel a new birth of the Old South. Perhaps the spirit of 1860 is about to be revived. We do not mean the military spirit, but the spirit of a people who desire to have less government and more self determination. It may be just a fad, and if that is true, it will die out shortly. To those who remember the grim days of the Secession period, that Confederate gray means more than cloth and twine. Somehow, when ever a Southerner sees that memorable gray, he cannot help but be strangely silent. Whatever the causes and the implications here, we can be sure that the gray lives again. One has only to look outside to realize that fact.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER There will be plenty of new 1952 model autos, appliances and radio and television sets. It won't be until 1953, assuming a continuation of international tensions, that the annual flurry of new models will be missing.

The National Production Authority's amendment to the machine tool order, virtually restricting the machine tool industry's output to defense requirements and practically imposing a freeze on new models after February 1, will have very little effect on the 1952 parade of design.

Several new model autos have already been unveiled and more are coming. While some new appliances, radio and TV designs have been shown, most of them will be unveiled after January 1.

Long before the new restriction was imposed, there were strong hints from Washington that such rules were in the works. But most manufacturers didn't need such hints; it was obvious that as defense work increased it would be necessary to cut back development of civilian products. Hence manufacturers advanced their planning for 1952, and in most plants parts for new models are already being turned out.

There have been two restrictions, however which, though not imposed directly by the government, amount to the same thing. The rise of defense orders has compelled manufacturers of durables to divert the efforts of their best designers and engineers to government work. The shortages of metals and other materials has also forced manufacturers to limit the number of model changes.

Hence, in many instances, 1952 models will look much like current items.

Some manufacturers of appliances who usually bring out new models before the end of the year have been delaying their announcements. This has not been caused by any uncertainty over government controls. But their introduction rights now would find many dealers still with heavy inventories of current models, cause dealers severe losses and restrict their ordering of new models.

It will profit retailers to keep informed about their suppliers plans for 1952 models, to make every effort to clear out current models, and to promote heavily the 1952 versions, which may be standard for a long time.

GOVERNMENT'S LARGE SOURCE OF INCOME

The government taketh away, but it also gives. An analysis of federal, state and local figures by the Institute of Life Insurance shows that of the $25,000,000,000 in personal income in 1950, $35,200,000,000 came from government. Total

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK —(AP)— I went down to Wall Street the other day to see how a young Phi Beta Kappa there is doing in his campaign to make America a land of little capitalists. He is doing right well. "The idea of not apologizing for capitalism has made quite a hit," said George Keith Funston, who is 41 and tall enough to play basketball for Kentucky University, is the new chief shepherd of the bulls and bears of the financial district. He recently gave up the presidency of little Trinity College to become president of the big New York Stock Exchange. This $100,000-a-year post automatically makes Funston a middle-class capitalist himself at least. But he has a program to manufacture more American capitalists by the millions, and he believes that is the way to turn back communism and socialism. His idea is to broaden the base of industrial ownership by getting small investors to buy shares of common stock. "People are for what they have a vested interest in," he said. "They follow their pocket-books." "If a man buys a share of stock, whether that stock goes up or down, he will still remain a capitalist." Funston thinks nobody should buy stock unless he can afford to take a risk, but that anyone with an income who has provided against emergencies can afford to take the risk of stock investment. How many stockholders are there in America? No one knows for sure. "We estimate about 15,000,000," he said, "but we are taking a census now to find out more exactly." "I think it will show, however, that it is Main Street, not Wall Street, that owns American industry."

Washington Letter

By JANE KADE WASHINGTON — Thanksgiving, Nov. 22 this year, was not fixed as a national holiday until a week after President Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg Address in 1863. That it was so fixed was the work of a woman. David Hearns, assistant librarian for Congress, brought this interesting fact to light after detailed study of the library's Lincoln papers. "Every school boy," he says, "knows that Gov. Bradford decreed Thanksgiving for Plymouth's harvest in 1821, and readers of Mour's 'Relation' remember how the Pilgrims entertained and feasted Massasoit and his men for three whole days." "But for many years, he points out, Thanksgiving was observed in the United States on different days in different localities. Sarah Josepha Buell Hale, first woman editor in U. S., who for 40 years conducted the famous 'Godey's Ladies Book', in 1846 launched an unrelenting campaign for Thanksgiving's annual observance on the same day throughout the United States. "When the union was threatened she urged a thanksgiving observance as a means of salvation, and when salvation came she thought so well of it she begged for its extension throughout the world as a way for peace." At first Mrs. Hale worked through the governors, then sought backing from Presidents Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan without gaining much headway. Then she wrote to her friend Secretary of State Seward, who replied in September, 1863, that he had passed her recommendation on to President Lincoln. In the Lincoln papers a address to the President in there is a lengthy letter directly which she urges a "national and fixed Union festival" and entreats him to put forth his proclamation appointing the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving. Six days later he obliged, inviting "fellow citizens in every part of the United States and all those who are at sea and those sojourning in foreign lands to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November next as a day of Thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father who dwelleth in the heavens."

Traviata Tenor Once A Student At Duke

The Redemption of Love is the theme of Verdi's "La Traviata", which will be presented at the College Theatre Sunday, November 25, under the sponsorship of the Greenville Music Club.

A rising young tenor, John Alexander, will play the role of Alfredo in Verdi's famous opera, which was first produced in Venice in 1853.

A native of Meridian, Miss., Alexander was once a pre-medical student at Duke University before going into the field of music.

While at Duke, he was active in musical productions on the campus, and was tenor soloist with the nationally known Duke Chapel Choir.

Alexander left Duke one year short of graduation, and entered the Air Force. While in service, he sang the role of Canio in an all GI presentation of Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci" produced in England.

Upon discharge, Alexander entered the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. There he pursued a basically operatic course, which gave him a sound preparation for his professional career.

He received his Bachelor in Music in 1949, and in 1950, made his debut in opera with the Cincinnati Summer Opera, singing the lead role in "Faust".

It was through this appearance that he was engaged by Charles L. Wagner to sing the role of Alfredo in the forthcoming Wagner production of "La Traviata".

Appearing opposite John Alexander, in the role of Violetta, will be lovely Beverly Sills, and the part of Elder Geront will be played by Edwin Dunning. "La Traviata" will be conducted by Paul Breisch, and is staged by Desire DeGreere, of the Metropolitan Opera.

Aerialist Killed In Death Plunge

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Pretty Evy Trostli plunged 60 feet to her death from a high wire last night, only a few days before she was to have left her family's daring circus act to return to high school.

The 17-year-old beauty, youngest member of the "Great Arturos" acrobatic trio, lost her balance at the climax of her solo Spanish dance on a 3-8 inch cable.

The Shrine Circus audience of 7,500 and the girl's father and cousin, who were on one of the high wire platforms, watched in horror as Evy hurtled to the sawdust that covered the floor.

Arturo Trostli, Evy's father and head of the troupe, slid down a rope and ran to the girl's crumpled body.

"I can't breathe, Daddy," Evy screamed. "Help me. It hurts."

Trostli said the girl's cousin, Eric, gave the victim first aid until an ambulance took her to Maryland General Hospital. However, she lapsed into unconsciousness and died about half an hour later.

Evy, who came to America with her family from Vienna in 1949, began learning tight rope walking when she was 10. She had been doing her Spanish dance number for four years, but had planned to return to school next week in Tampa, Fla., where the Trostlis live.

The audience, including 5,000 women and children, was quiet for a moment after the tragedy. Then the crowd began to moan and scream.

Evy's foot slipped as the circus music stopped to let her change the tempo at the climax of her dance, which she performed with a 24-foot balancing bar.

Charles Rubin, a member of the audience, said he noticed the girl's foot slip before she fell.

"Then one of her feet hit a guide wire which made her fall straight down," he said.

The Trostlis are members of a family which has produced generations of famous acrobats. Evy went on the road with her father and brother three years ago, and was a favorite wherever she performed her dangerous act.

Judge Arrests, Fines Himself

LEMOORE, Calif. (UP)—City Judge W.W. Sheahan has a standard fine of $200 for drunk driving and he makes no exceptions—even for himself.

After having difficulty negotiating a turn in his car after a party, the judge had himself arrested, signed the complaint against himself, and pleaded guilty before himself.

He then fined himself $200 and warned himself not to appear in court again on the same charge.

TVA Claims Big Power-Use Jump

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority says its customers used eight billion kilowatt hours during the past fiscal year, an increase of 15 billion over the previous year.

In a report yesterday, the TVA said it had added 68,000 new customers, making nearly 1,200,000 being served, and had a net income of $15,300,000. Total revenue was $94,300,000, an increase of $12,800,000, the report said.

Not included in the report was the amount of current used by such defense customers as the Atomic Energy Commission, with its huge plant at Oak Ridge; the Arnold Engineering Development Center and those engaged in the manufacture of aluminum, ferro-alloys and chemicals.

The report also noted: 1. A 29 per cent jump in residential consumption and a 17 per cent rise in commercial and industrial use.

2. The addition of 32,000 farms to the system, making about 81 per cent of all farms in the area now using electricity.

To meet the demands for more power, the report said TVA spent $47 million on construction of distribution facilities last year and is now conducting a huge building program.

It said TVA expects to increase its power producing capacity to more than 6 million kilowatts in the next four years. It now has more than 3 million kilowatt capacity.

tee heads have also been appointed for outlying towns in the county and they are as follows: G. S. Porter, Simpson; Chief of Police G. W. Riley, Ayden; Marguerite Wooten and Frank Parker, Falkland; J. D. Heath and M. L. Heath, Grimesland; and Paul Davenport, Paoletus.

Baptists' Annual Meet Nears End

ASHEVILLE—(AP)—A round of speeches headed the program today at the closing session of the annual North Carolina Baptist Convention.

The 1,500 messengers heard addresses by three ministers—the Rev. M. M. Johnson of Raleigh, the Rev. Garland Wellborn of Waco, Tex., and the Rev. E. Gibson Davis of Kinston, Tenn.

The convention yesterday adopted a report condemning the Ku Klux Klan and President Truman's appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican.

The report urged a Christian approach to the solution of racial and industrial problems.

Referring to the President's nomination of Gen. Mark Clark as ambassador to the Vatican, the report stated that if the nomination is confirmed, all Roman Catholic bishops in the United States should be registered as agents of a foreign government.

The messengers re-elected Grover H. Jones of High Point president of the convention. Other officers named included:

The Rev. Chas. F. Leek of Thomasville, first vice president; Dr. Louis Gaines of Fayetteville, second vice president and Rush Dickson, Charlotte layman, third vice president.

M. A. Huggins was re-elected general secretary-treasurer; L.L. Morgan, statistical secretary and Charles B. Deane of Rockingham, clerk.

The report adopted by the convention also hit what it termed as the unholy alliance between gambling, political leaders and law enforcement officers.

East Germany Is Ready To Revolt Says Art Sleuth

NEW YORK (UP)—An American art sleuth who phones Stalin long-distance for amusement, returned this week from behind the Iron Curtain where he helped rebury the bones of Johann Sebastian Bach and found East Germans wanting to revolt against Russia.

Carleton Smith, director of the National Art Foundation, said that "almost everybody" he met in East Germany and Poland "would like to throw out the Russians."

"Of course, there is not much they can do about it now," he added, "but they are certainly on our side and will show it if we give them a chance."

Smith, an economist, author, musicologist, art expert, and ex-government adviser on rubber, said he traveled throughout East Germany and Poland's western provinces without any interference from Communist police.

"They would just look at my American passport, pat me on the back and tell me to go wherever I wanted," Smith said.

He got a Soviet visa at half price when he refused to pay the full amount because it was not valid in the Soviet Union, he said.

In Leipzig, he helped transfer Bach's bones from a semi-destroyed church to another church. In Dresden, he looked for the autographs of Beethoven's Seventh and Ninth symphonies which were lost during the confusion of Germany's fall.

Smith said people in East Germany lead "horribly drab and hopeless lives."

"They are surrounded by thousands of portraits of Stalin, Picasso's pregnant peace-doves and uncounted peace slogans everywhere," he said.

An East German friend told him: "We are prisoners of peace here." Smith is convinced that hatred for Russians is almost universal in East Germany. He said that even Communist police, except for the top officials, doubted "the wisdom of the Soviet regime."

"Why," he said, "I kept mailing postcards from the Soviet zone saying 'Stalin is a liar' and they were all delivered in Western Europe or in this country."

"Whenever I am bored, I just pick up the phone and call the Kremlin. I ask for a Soviet visa and all sorts of officials come to the phone to assure me that I will get one. But I never do lately."

Smith visited Russia 10 times before the war, interviewed Stalin's mother, and had Stalin place a plane at his disposal and open the czar's musical collection for him.

Health Survey Is Speeded By Air

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(UP)—The University of Rochester sociology department, headed by Dr. Earl L. Koos, has begun a survey of the health habits of 1,000 families in this area.

The Public Health Services awarded a $10,000 grant-in-aid to the project.

Dr. Koos used a photographic aerial map of the city and suburbs to determine which streets had enough families on them, instead of conducting a street-by-street survey.

The map was made from enlargements of photographs taken at a 12,000 foot altitude from a B-36 bomber last April.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY KILLS

A little story on yesterday's sports pages illustrated very graphically what a college football coach is up against these days. It was the charge made by Sports Editor Chauncey Darden of the Richmond Times-Dispatch that Carl Snavely would be cut loose at the end of this season by the University of North Carolina.

Darden said that Snavely would be released regardless of how well the Tar Heels did against Notre Dame this week and Duke the following weekend. He also stated that his charges were not idle rumors but the word of a man "close to Tar Heel athletics." He graciously declined to name the bearer of the report.

Such a charge has been expected for quite some time now. It's quite true that Carolina hasn't done well at all this year in their eight games already played and they don't have any reason to expect better results these next two weekends. But is it really Snavely's fault?

If memory serves me correctly, there were people—rather influential souls, too—who were saying that Snavely had a job for life at Carolina if he wanted such a job. That was some two or three years ago when Charlie Justice, Art Weiner, et al, were playing for Mr. Snavely and UNC.

Now that Justice, Weiner, et al, have departed, these same kindly souls have turned harshly upon brother Snavely and are ready to bounce him rudely into the main stream of unemployed football coaches. It ain't right.

I hardly think that Snavely can be blamed for Carolina's losses this year. It has always seemed to me that it takes exactly 11 men at the time to win a football game and a coach can do little more than stand on the sidelines during a game and attempt to guide his players. He can't get and carry the ball for his men or block opposing players or other kindred acts. He can but sit and watch.

Snavely has had to sit and watch a lot this year. He's had to watch some highly touted ball players fold up when rougher opposition climbed all over them. He's had to watch his team lose to Texas, Tennessee, Georgia, Virginia, Wake Forest and Maryland when Carolina players couldn't come through.

A coach can hardly hope to be "successful" when his team fails to get more points than the opposing team.

This column is NOT charging the Carolina team with laying down this year. It's just that Carolina has not the available manpower to tackle Tennessee, Maryland and a few of the other schools. Sure, they've got some good ball players up at Chapel Hill but it seems to me that Maryland, Tennessee and those others just got there "fustest with the mostest."

Carolina has had its day and will have another before very long. I'll wager. Perhaps the previous success can be handed to Snavely's genius as a coach but I still like to think that Justice, Weiner, Kenny Powell, Bulldog Varney and the other players should get the credit.

Now that Carolina is losing, the credit should go to the players. Not to Carl Snavely or his assistants. That goes for any school and-or any coach.

The East Carolina Pirates attracted a fair-sized crowd of students last night when they held their first night workout. Most of the spectators didn't sit through most of the drill but were in and out all night long.

The majority of them didn't seem to be disappointed in what they saw.

More on the Snavely affair: It developed late yesterday that alumni of Carolina were definitely howling about the lack of success of the Tar Heels. The Athletic Council, however, will not commit itself as to just what the situation really is.

One member of the council did come out with the statement that "Carl Snavely is still coach." However, this same man refused to venture an opinion as to how long that situation would be such.

It looks now as if Joe Louis is determined to keep holding his aged and creaking (for a boxer) body into the boxing ring.

In Japan for a series of exhibitions for U. S. servicemen, Louis told reporters that his income tax troubles were "almost cleared up" and that he had "no plans for retiring."

Why doesn't Joe Louis wise up? He's never going to be able to regain his lost crown and his fight against Rocky Marciano showed that he can be picked to pieces by a younger, more aggressive fighter.

The Illinois State Boxing Commission should be congratulated for denying Louis the right to fight in that state. Other states would not be wrong in following that lead.

If Joe Louis persists in continuing as an active fighter, we may see the "Brown Bomber" turned into the "Brown Bummer."

Hot Stove League Host To Players

RALEIGH (AP)—The Raleigh chapter of the Hot Stove League will play host tonight to six major league baseball players.

Duke baseball Coach Jack Coombs will be the principal speaker.

Program Chairman Willie Duke said the following major leaguers had accepted invitations to attend: Enos Slaughter of the St. Louis Cardinals, Willie Jones of the Philadelphia Phillies, White Lockman of the New York Giants, Gil Coan of the Washington Senators, Tommy Byrne of the St. Louis Browns, and Clyde King of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Slaughter will be presented a gift for his outstanding play as a major leaguer.

The nation's 1951 rye production is estimated at 24,000,000 bushels, about 6,000,000 under the 10-year average but nearly 1,000,000 above last year.

More Injured Pirates Return To Drills

Bucs Have Rough Day Wednesday; Get Friday Off

The East Carolina College gridiron Pirates returned to the practice field yesterday after a day of rest with all but two injured players back in uniform.

Heading the list of returnees was Halfback Illard Yarborough who was given the okay Tuesday by a knee specialist at Duke Hospital. Tackle Thurston Callahan, also bothered by a bad knee, was pronounced all right by the same doctor and both will see at least limited action in the Pirates' next game November 24 against The Citadel.

The return of Yarborough and Callahan to action leaves the Pirates with only two players remaining out of action. End Cecil Winslow still has his hand, broken in the Guilford game, in a cast which will be removed next Monday and Center Luke Taylor has his wrist in a cast which will be removed sometime within the next week. Taylor broke the bone in the game with Western Carolina Teachers College.

At one time this year, the Pirates Jack Britt and Mike Kovack, who had six first stringers out of action, have been out since the third game of the year, got back into the line-up last week against Cherry Point. Britt scored twice and ran hard while Kovack, in one touchdown drive, gained 31 of a needed 51 yards.

The Pirates yesterday began their final phase of preparations for the Bulldogs. They went through a rough workout which will be duplicated this afternoon. They will take off tomorrow afternoon and return to drills Monday after a long weekend.

One Of Every 25 Skulls Is Thin

CINCINNATI — Are the skull bones of one out of 25 boxers too thin for fighting?

This "one-in-twenty-five" is the ratio found at the University of Cincinnati in the first x-ray study of boxers' skulls. The rays showed the density of bones in the head. All but two were normal.

One of the pair had bones somewhat thinner than average but was approved for boxing because he was in the featherweight class. It was thought that blows hitting him would be lighter because of this class.

The other man was ruled out because the front bone of his head was unusually thin. The other bones were normally thick.

This study was started by Dr. Laurence B. Chenoweth, director of the University's student health. He suggests that doctors get X-rays of skulls of boys who want to box and in cases where skull bones aren't normal, recom and strongly against this sport.

Roanoke Rapids Last Foe For Greenville Phantoms

ROANOKE RAPIDS — Greenville High School will invade Roanoke Rapids Friday afternoon for the final Northeastern Conference and regular season game of the year for both squads.

The locals will be favored to take the contest, as Greenville has been able to win but two games all year, while dropping a total of six. Roanoke Rapids currently has a record of six wins, one defeat, and one tie. Included in the string of victories for the Jax are a 13-0 decision over the Kinston Red Devils, who walloped the Phantoms, and a 24-0 rout of Emporia, Virginia. In the Emporia game, the Virginians were unable to chalk up a single first down and were held to a net total of minus six yards rushing and passing.

Heading the Yellow Jacket offense will be blocking back Calvin "Bo" Batton and fullback Calton Matthews. Batton, a 175 pound co-captain, is a converted wingback and kicks most of the extra points. Matthews, a 200-pounder, is the hardest runner on the team and takes care of the majority of the plays on the inside.

Otis King, weighing in 155 pounds, does most of the passing and some of the running from his tailback spot. King is in his second full year on the varsity, after a year on the junior varsity. Millard Walker, who is a better runner than King, alternates at the tailback slot. Walker moves over to guard on offense.

Seasoned Men Starting For Pirates Basketball Opener

Coach Howard Porter's East Carolina College basketball Pirates began night practice last night at ECC as they entered the final round of practice before their opening game Saturday night. The game will be played in Norfolk, Virginia, with the Naval Air Station furnishing the opposition.

Following the workout in Wright Gym which was designed to get the players used to working under lights Coach Porter said that an all- veteran quintet would start for the Pirates against the Flyers. Soupy Russell and Charlie Huffman will open at the forwards, Toddy Fennell at center, and Richard Blake and Paul Jones at the guards.

Russell is the All-Conference and All-State forward from New Bern and will be beginning his third year of first-string ball. Huffman matches Russell's height at six feet, three inches. He hails from Thomasville and is a sophomore. Fennell, the center, is the "shorty" in the starting line-up at 5-10 but he will be beginning his fourth year of campaigning with the Bucs. He hails from Wilmington and played for Leon Brogden at New Hanover High School.

The guards, Blake and Jones, both stand 6-3. Blake is a junior from Camp Lejeune while Jones, a sophomore, is from Thomasville. Porter said last night that 13 men, including three freshmen, would make the trip to Norfolk. Other than the starting five, the members of the squad are as follows: Cecil Heath, Jack Carr, Louis Collier, John Postas, Carl King, Clarence Butler, Clyde Owens, and Larry French.

Postas, Collier, and Butler are let-termen this year. Postas is the squad's tallest man at 6-5 and is a junior. He's from Red Bank, New Jersey, and the only member of the squad from outside North Carolina. Collier is 5-11 and from Wilmington while Butler is 5-1 and from Salem- bury. Both Collier and Butler are seniors.

Heath, Carr, and Owens are the freshmen members of the squad. Heath, at 5-9, was a member of last year's State AAA High School champions at Wilmington. Carr, a six foot, four inch forward, is from Rose Hill and did his high school work with Magnolia High School. Owens is 6-3 and from Beaufort.

King is up from last year Jayvee squad where he did some outstanding work as a freshman. He's 6-1 and from Farmville. French is a transfer student from Carolina who has just established his year's residence on the ECC campus. He is originally from Kinston.

"The Naval Air Station, if they have anything like the club they had last year, are going to be rough customers for us in this first game," Porter said last night. "However,

I expect to learn quite a bit regarding just what we have and what we're going to look like this year." The Pirates lost to the NAS team last year.

After the game Saturday, the Pirates will lay off until December 1 when Guilford comes to Wright Gym to open the North State Conference schedule. There are 17 home games scheduled for this year.

Deer, bear and wild turkeys are the most popular big game species hunted in New Mexico.

Ayden, Robersonville Top Choices By Placing 4 Men On First Team

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Writer

Ayden's championship Tornados and Robersonville's Rams placed four players apiece on the 1951 All-Coastal Conference selections. South Edgecombe put two men on the mythical eleven, and Farmville rounded out the squad with one player. Only Vanceboro failed to place a man on the team.

Leading the selections was end Mac Whitehurst from Ayden, who received a first place vote on each of the ballots turned in by the five conference coaches. Whitehurst made the squad for the third successive year, as he made it in both '49 and '50. By virtue of his leading vote, he was elected honorary captain of the team.

Maurice Everett, from Robersonville, took over the other first place position. Everett has been the leading pass receiver on the Robersonville team all year, and is the third highest scorer on the all-star eleven, with 43 points for the season.

Randall Harrington of Ayden and Maynard Abrams of South Edgecombe were chosen by the coaches to handle the tackle berths on the first team. Harrington, 16-year-old junior, and Abrams, a 17-year-old senior, have never made the all-star team before. Harrington will complete his second full year on the Ayden varsity on Thanksgiving day, while Abrams will finish four years of competition Friday night.

Robersonville placed men at both first string guard positions, Lang Martin and William Taylor. Both boys are seniors at Robersonville and will complete their high school gridiron career Friday afternoon. Martin has played on the Ram varsity for four years while Taylor, who was a co-captain of the Rams for this season, is in his third year as player.

Ayden's Curtis Dennis, a newcomer to the squad also, won the center position in a hard-fought duel over Farmville's Paschall Barrett. Dennis, who is also a senior, belittled his weight (185 pounds) all year while playing at offensive center and defensive linebacker for Coach Stuart Tripp. He is an even six-footer.

Backs for the team are Hal Edwards, Ayden; Brooks Webb, South Edgecombe; Joseph Smith, Farmville, and Sonny James, Robersonville. This is one of the speediest backfields ever compiled on an all-star team since the formation of the league three years ago. Neither of the boys has even been on the all-star eleven in previous years, but each one has at least three years of varsity experience, with both Webb and Smith having played four years at their respective schools.

Webb, a senior at South Edgecombe, is the leading scorer on the team and also in Coastal Conference. The fleet little halfback for Coach Wiley Parker has accounted personally for 54 points during the season. Smith is second in the scoring race with 46 points.

Edwards accounted for 31 points and passed for almost a like sum, after taking over at quarterback in mid-season. He was previously a fullback. James has scored the smallest sum of any of the backs, 23. Both boys are juniors and were outstanding players on defense also.

The team coaching position went to Stuart Tripp of Ayden, who has led his Tornados to three successive league championships since the loop was originated.

Player	Position	Team
Mac Whitehurst	End	Ayden
Maurice Everett	End	Robersonville
Maynard Abrams	Tackle	So. Edge.
Randall Harrington	Tackle	Ayden
Lang Martin	Guard	Robersonville
William Taylor	Guard	Robersonville
Curtis Dennis	Center	Ayden
Brooks Webb	Back	So. Edge.
Hal Edwards	Back	Ayden
Joe Smith	Back	Farmville
Sonny James	Back	Robersonville

Second team honors went to Ayden also, as it placed four men on the team, end Willis Manning, tackle Todd Kittrell, guard Riley Tripp, and back Darrell Worthington.

Vanceboro is represented by end Clarence Powell, guard Curtis Morris, and back Eli Toler. James Fountain, a tackle, Paschall Barrett, center, and back Charlie Fitzgerald come from Farmville, while tailback Dan Clark of Robersonville completes the list.

Coaches Tripp, Parker of South Edgecombe, Bob Lee of Robersonville, Elbert Moye of Farmville, and George Wood of Vanceboro selected the teams. A first place vote counted two points in the tabulation while a second team ballot counted one point.

Those who received honorable mention were: End — Roy Vick, Farmville; tackles — Don Ormond, Vanceboro; guards — Gordon Hart, Norman Skinner, Ayden; Dick Matthews, Robersonville; centers — Julius Budeca, Robersonville; Maynard Leonard, South Edgecombe; backs — Sigbee Dilda, Farmville; John Cheek, Wesley Cannon, and Delano Cox, Ayden; Jack Taylor, Vanceboro; Stanley Whitley and George Pitt, South Edgecombe.

Picking Coach Of Year Is Big Task For Writers

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Choosing the Southern Conference Football Coach of the Year won't be the easiest job in the world.

The way things now stand, a veteran mentor and two coaching newcomers shape up as the top contenders for the annual award voted by the league's sportswriters.

First and foremost in the running, perhaps, is sunny Jim Tatum, the man who's finally brought about Maryland's long sought gridiron renaissance.

Tatum's terrible Terrapins, the nation's fifth-ranked team, are gliding along on an impressive seven-game winning jag that has boomed the old liners into the Sugar and Cotton Bowl limelights.

But it's not all Tatum's show.

Marvin Bass of William and Mary, a pair of first year coaches who've taken to their tasks with ease, will come in for strong consideration, too.

Rogers is ably filling the big shoes of the departed D. C. (Feather) Walker at Wake Forest. Under the 41-year-old former assistant to Walker, the Deacs have won six and dropped two, and have already wrapped up the championship of North Carolina's tough Big Four league.

Bass, called in suddenly at scandal-stricken William and Mary, has done a remarkable job. Few are the number who would have foreseen the Indians winning six of their first eight games. Yet, that's what they've done.

Tough games loom for both the Indians and Deacs this week, and very possibly Maryland, too.

Opposition Growing To UV De-Emphasis

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—(AP)—A committee report calling for de-emphasis of football at the University of Virginia suffered its first setback today. The faculty of the University's Department of Education announced it has rejected the plan.

The Education faculty turned down the drastic de-emphasis proposals by a decisive 21-1 vote.

It said in a statement it "does not believe that the facts relating to the present athletic policy and its administration at the University justify the demands made for exclusive faculty control of policy and administration."

The de-emphasis report, already endorsed by the University's academic faculty, called for complete faculty control of the athletic program and urged the University to field "less professional" football teams. In addition, it advocated abolition of athletic scholarships—a step which would effectively kill big-time football here.

Action by the Education Department faculty was the first of an adverse nature which the report has met. The rejection apparently portends a rocky road ahead. Before it can be adopted as University policy, the report must go before the faculties of the other professional schools of law, medicine and engineering; the 21-member University Senate; and, if it wins Senate approval, before the University Board of Visitors.

Opposition appears to be growing fast.

Pentagon Reports U.S. Shipping Arms On Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon, annoyed by talk that arms aid to the western European nations is lagging, gave out some item-by-item figures to show what has been done.

Whether by coincidence or otherwise, a news conference by Gen. George L. Oimstead, Director of Military Assistance, yesterday followed a series of recent developments, including:

1. Press dispatches from Paris, saying the French are concerned over slow delivery of arms aid. 2. The recent visit of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Supreme Commander of Western European Forces, to discuss with Washington officials an increased tempo in equipping his forces. 3. A Paris meeting of Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Defense Lovett and W. Averell Harriman, Director of the Mutual Security Agency to discuss the arms aid program.

Gen. Oimstead used France as an example of how the United States is keeping generally abreast of its arms aid commitments. He said that:

The allocation of tanks for France was 2,736 and that deliveries to date total 2,148. Out of an allocation of 847 105-millimeter guns, 656 have been delivered. However, plane deliveries have been somewhat slower. France has been assigned 401 F-84 Thunderjet fighter planes of a late model. These are just beginning to come off the production line. Before the end of this year, the first 19 will have been delivered and all of the allocation will be in French hands in 1952. An assignment of 46 F-48 of earlier model has been fulfilled.

Oimstead said that equipment originally allocated to equip an undisclosed number of western European divisions would be delivered to the member nations by next spring, several months ahead of the planning date first set.

In his public comments while here, Eisenhower did not say he believed there was an actual lag in arms deliveries to Europe. Those familiar with the series of conferences he held at the White House and Pentagon said the point emphasized was that there must be a speed up beyond the present schedule—that instead of a slower program to outfit more divisions a drive should be made to make battle-ready and fully-equipped up to 30 divisions by next summer.

Even while the United States was wrestling with the problem of keeping up to its current European commitments and looking into Eisenhower's plea for faster deliveries of arms, new although not unforeseen problems cropped up in another quarter. The U. S. and Yugoslavia signed an agreement providing terms upon which American military aid will go to the Balkan nation which broke from Russia's family of satellites.

Some small arms, artillery and vehicles already have been delivered to Yugoslavia as the result of negotiations which started last June. But now, because Yugoslavia becomes fully eligible to a share of the $7,328,000,000 foreign aid program, the problem becomes more complex.

Moreover, some of Yugoslavia's critical needs are in the very items where American supply sources are hardest pressed. Oimstead included jet planes among the weapons needed by Yugoslavia. From other sources, it was learned that her requirements appear to embrace all types of aircraft.

In troop maneuvers, it has been noted Yugoslavia has been using old vintage Russian and German aircraft. None of these would be a match for the thoroughly modern Soviet air force.

College Leads Way In Education Field

Special education, a new phase of public school education in North Carolina, has become an active part of the curriculum at East Carolina College. Through the cooperation of individual departments, a program has been developed to give present and future teachers effective instruction in the schooling of handicapped children.

At the beginning of the present term, the education department organized classes in phonetics and introduction to exceptional children. The science department offered anatomy and physiology of the ear, eye, and voice mechanism; the psychology department, child psychology and mental hygiene; and the art department, art for the handicapped—required courses under the state standards for special teacher certification.

Speech pathology, audiometric testing, and the re-education of the acoustically handicapped are prerequisite courses the education department has listed for the winter session.

The special education program includes specific phases of knowledge needed in the areas of the visually handicapped, hard of hearing, speech correction, crippled, mentally handicapped. At E.C.C. both classroom and laboratory methods are used to present the problems and correction procedures surrounding the exceptional child. Within the classroom, visiting lecturers supplement textbook discussion with personal experience observations. Among the speakers presented this fall was Miss Jennie Manning, Pitt County case worker for the blind. Miss Manning, a graduate of Flora McDonald College and one-time student of social work at the University of North Carolina, spoke to the class in the introduction to exceptional children. As case-worker and as a visually handicapped citizen, she considered the question of the blind in North Carolina.

An example of laboratory method is the out-patient speech clinic which is held weekly on the campus. In the clinic students view speech reeducation in action. This new finger of education was projected on a statewide basis by the 1947 General Assembly, but it was the 1949 General Assembly that authorized funds for carrying out the provisions of the 1947 law. As a consequence of this action, the state board of education arbitrarily allotted 25 teachers to be used for special education and proposed that East Carolina become a center of teacher training in this field.

The college acquired the services of Mrs. Dorothy Perkins, Michigan University graduate in speech pathology; and under her direction, two courses, speech pathology and principles of speech correction, were planned for the 1949 summer term. Forty-eight students completed this work. Since that time over 300 teachers have had one or more special courses in the speech correction area. From their group, two women Mrs. Vro Davenport, of Jamesville, and Mrs. Eula Greathouse, of Snow Hill, have gone out as certified special teachers. Mrs. Davenport, upon receiving her Master's degree in education in the summer of 1951, was presented the first special education certificate awarded by the state board of education.

During the winter term of 1950, the East Carolina chapter of the International Council for Exceptional Children was founded. It was set up to function as a coordinating force among persons interested in the handicapped child and to define the problems in special education and related fields.

At the first annual special education conference in 1950, Dr. Clyde A. Erwin state superintendent of public instruction, made the following statement: "We can feel justly proud of our achievements in public education, yet we have over the years neglected one great group of our citizens, namely those many thousands of children and youth who are victims of handicaps. While our residential schools for the blind and the deaf, and certain other facilities of a residential nature are essential and valuable part of our total educational structure they are only a beginning."

Mild Hurricane Season Comes To Uneventual End

MIAMI (AP)—This country's mildest hurricane season in 20 years officially ended today.

During 1951 ten tropical storms were charted over Atlantic and Caribbean waters, but for the first time since 1931, no part of the U. S. coast line felt hurricane winds.

One storm crossed central Florida and damaged crops in the Everglades area but its winds were far below hurricane force.

"The hurricanes," said Chief Storm Forecaster Grady Norton of the Miami Weather Bureau, "just happened to go somewhere else."

One hurricane which raked Jamaica and Mexico killed 350 persons and caused heavy property loss. It was the only hurricane to cross a coast line during the season.

Devises Way To Protect Birds

HOWARD, S. D. (UP)—John Hoss has devised a method for protecting pheasants and other wild birds while harvesting his farm crops.

He has his black Labrador hunting dog flush the birds from in front of the mower.

He also places several pickup guards on the sickle bar. The guards jut out several inches ahead of the blade and arouse the birds.

Ice Eases Huge Machine In Place

DETROIT (UP)—Engineers in an automobile plant used 60 tons of ice to solve a problem. During a model change-over, a 278,000-pound stamping press had to be turned on its side for shipment to another plant.

Workmen stacked 300 cakes of ice behind the press, and tilted the press against it. As the ice melted, the press sank gradually to the floor.

Find New Cavern In Texas Park

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Palo Duro state park has a new cave—largest yet found in the park.

It was discovered recently by accident. The entrance apparently had not been uncovered long. Probably rains washed away enough earth to reveal the opening. The entrance is 10 feet high and 50 feet wide. A portion of the back wall was seen about 20 feet from the entrance.

Probability of finding rattlesnakes kept the discovery party from further immediate exploration.

Let Love Alone

By KATHLEEN HARRIS

AP Newsfeatures

Of course Jan was not certain that Ray would return after he escorted Bernice to her hotel. However, she had a feeling that he would, perhaps because of that light she had seen in his eyes.

And Bernice had had a strange look in her lovely big violet eyes too. Could it be that she had hoped that the engagement between Ray and Jan would not last? No one, no matter how much money she might have or how much interest in promoting aviation, would back a young pilot just out of the kindness of her heart. Certainly Bernice Darrow was not that philanthropic.

Jan wondered why she had not seen this light before.

These thoughts of Jan's were interrupted by Ray's return. The terrace was deserted, as if the guests had long since gone and Eve, claiming she was simply exhausted, had returned. Jan had waited beside the palms, near where the orchestra had sat. The gay Husbands! Wives! Want new Pep and Vim?

Thousands of couples are weak, worn-out, exhausted, listless because they lack the pep, vim, vitality, energy, vigor, stamina, endurance, and strength that only Peppermint can give them. Peppermint is the only medicine that gives you the pep and vim you need for a successful life.

At all drug stores everywhere. In Greenville... at Bissett's Drug

Japanese lanterns had been extinguished; even the artificial moon had been put out. The night was shrouded in shadows so that it was a few moments before Ray saw her sitting so quietly.

"See here," he began without any preliminaries, "did you mean what you said to Bernice? Or was it more pretending?"

He looked so fierce and grim that for a moment Jan wavered. But for a moment only. "You ought to know when I am pretending," she returned. "You said yourself that I'm no good at it. Why did you think I kissed you?"

"I didn't know," he admitted. "You nearly knocked me off my feet. You told me once that a kiss meant something to you, so I'd hate to think, Jan, that you would pretend now about a thing like that."

He seemed to be afraid to believe her. Or maybe he did not mean to, Jan thought.

"Do you really mean all this?" Ray said. He towered over her, still wearing that stern scowl. Reaching down, he caught both of her hands and pulled her onto her feet. "Don't say things you don't mean, Jan. Don't try that make-believe stuff on me!"

"We're all alone, aren't we?" Her eyes looked back into his, beneath long curling lashes, and could he have seen into their depths he would have found plenty of purely feminine guile. "We said we would only have to pretend in public."

"This is just between us then." He appeared to be satisfied at last. "Not for the benefit of Eve. Not for a little while, but for always."

That always sounded very stern. It did give Jan's conscience a twinge. Yet she managed to say, if her voice was a bit wavering, "For always."

"And we will be married as soon as I get back?"

She nodded her head. She could not bring herself to answer in any other way.

Ray drew a long breath. "It's hard for me to believe," he said. But that light came back into his blue eyes. "I'll make a confession to you, too, Jan. I hoped to make you jealous; that's why I stayed so close to Bernice tonight and why I haven't been phoning you. I wanted to wake you up somehow. I felt you needed help, Jan: to free yourself from all the rock-bound ideas you had, that love was the bunk, marriage a fool's trap."

"Imagine a girl like you," Ray was saying, still clutching tightly to her hands, "spending her life with a cat! And wanting to have a career, do things like a man."

What was wrong with that? Jan's anger burned much brighter. Bernice Darrow had had a career, hadn't she? She had done things a man could not do, Ray himself had said so.

"I'm glad you've given all that up," Ray continued. He spoke so eagerly that he did not wait for her to say anything. "I'm glad you're willing to be just what you are, Jan—a sweet good woman, a wife and mother."

It was getting worse and worse.

He made her realize that she was not so good, certainly not very sweet. The conceit of the man, thinking a girl would give up all her dreams just for him! This alone was enough to still any feeling of guilt Jan might have had.

"Now," Ray was saying earnestly. "I have to make good on this flight. It just has to be a success. Because of you, Janie dear, because I'll know you'll be here, as tonight, waiting for me."

"I'll be here, Jan said. Her voice still sounded shaky.

"Do you really think you will get away Monday?" she asked.

"I hope so," he said. "More than ever now. Because the sooner we get off, the sooner I'll get back."

"Do you have to take Bernice Darrow with you?" Jan asked.

This just popped out without her planning to say it. She tried to draw her hands away.

"Ray held them more tightly. "Jealous again, my sweet?" He laughed. "You need not be. I'm a one-woman man. Of course I think Bernice is wonderful. But you can admire and respect a woman without being in love with her."

Jan would rather have had his respect and admiration than his love. And of course she was not really jealous, although she did wish he did not think, Miss Darrow such a paragon.

"It's Bernice's ship," he reminded her. Drawing Jan's hand through the bend of an arm, he let her gently down on the bench where she had been sitting before, and sat down close beside her. His other arm rested lightly around her shoulders. Jan wanted to draw away. Her heart began to flutter like a frightened bird about to be captured. Yet she knew she could not escape.

"If it wasn't for Bernice there would not be this wonderful opportunity," he told her. "It's only natural and right that she should want to go along."

"Bernice is just going on the flight to the coast," Ray said. "The final test I will make alone. I'll have to have as light a load as possible to carry extra gas and equipment. And it will be too risky for a woman."

Taft Foreign Policy Book Calls For Commitments Within U. S. Abilities

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) foresees a likelihood that the United States may be asked to commit "far more than six divisions" to the defense of Western Europe.

The Ohio senator said in a new book, "A Foreign Policy For Americans" that the past history of the Truman administration's handling of foreign policies makes it likely that "in another year we will be asked for more divisions" to supplement the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces headed by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

As a candidate for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination, Taft wrote down a barrage of criticism against President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, Gen. George C. Marshall and other administration figures.

Taft said most presidents "have been imbued with a real determination to keep the country at peace." But he went on in a direct attack on Mr. Truman and President Franklin D. Roosevelt: "I feel that the last two presidents have put all kinds of political and policy considerations ahead of their interest in liberty and peace."

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), a supporter of the administration's foreign policy, promptly described Taft's book as "amazing for its blindness to the nature of the problems we face today." A member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, McMahon declared that Taft views reflected "total ignorance of a sound foreign policy for the United States."

Perhaps in reply to Taft's criticism of Mr. Truman and the late President Roosevelt, McMahon said:

"Sentence after sentence (of the book) contains a quotation out of context or a distorted statement, woven together to support a politically expedient but factually incorrect conclusion."

Praising administration policy, McMahon said it "stopped Soviet expansion in every area of the world which Russia did not occupy with its own troops during the war."

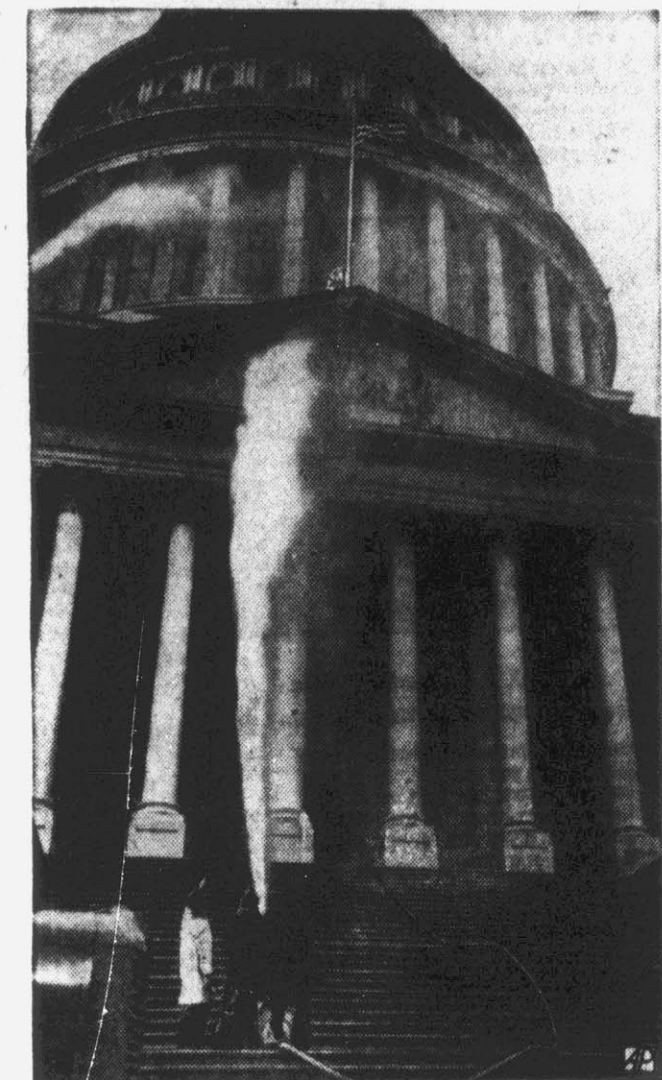

Taft wrote that he doesn't go along with those who think this country can withdraw to its own shores. He said he believes the threat of Russian aggression is "so serious today that in defense of the liberty and peace of the people of the United States I think we are justified in extending economic and military aid to many countries xxx."

But he said he is not for any permanent program calling for a global plan for general free assistance to all mankind on an organized scale as part of our foreign policy."

Taft, who opposed the North Atlantic Treaty and agreed with reluctance to the contribution of six American divisions to the North Atlantic treaty forces, said it was "encouraging" that Eisenhower "by the force of his personality made so much headway in persuading the European nations of the tremendous importance of arming themselves in a joint defense."

Eisenhower is being boomed by some Republicans as a possible candidate against Taft for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

Taft said the United States has no choice now but to "complete as rapidly as possible the arming of western Europe if it de-

Ex-Guerrillas To Have New Home

JAKARTA, Indonesia —(AP)— The Indonesian Ministry of Social Affairs is laying plans to transmigrate 5,000 ex-guerrillas with their families from East Java to Borneo. Another 2,000 of these "former fighters for freedom" will be moved to South Sumatra in the near future. A sum of $2,630,000 has been set aside for this purpose.

The aim of the government is to rehabilitate the ex-guerrillas in Indonesia's undeveloped and underpopulated areas. About 120,000 of them have registered themselves at the National Rehabilitation Bureau so far.

Draws Upon 71 Years In Advice

HONEOYE, N. Y. —(UP)— Alfred H. Youland, 93, and his wife Margaret, 89, can give some of the hoary folk advice on marriage. They look back on 71 years of wedded life.

Youland said "doing things on a 50-50 basis" was the reason for the long marriage.

"If folks will work together, plan together, play together and always respect one another, 71 years will roll around pretty fast and happily," he said.

Ambush Backfired For Reds In No-Man's Land

By ROBERT VERMILLION
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 WESTERN FRONT, Korea (UP)
 Our tank and infantry patrol set out on a "routine mission" into No Man's Land.

The men filed off from a United Nations outpost in leisurely strides as if they were unafraid of death. An ambush lay ahead at the bend of a canyon.

The tank men's job was to harass the enemy with fire while the foot patrol was to seek Chinese soldiers and kill or capture them.

The tanks rumbled up the valley and behind them walked the men in deep furrows dug by the treads.

for the slightest sound from the canyon below.

One tank fired at a distant hill and the sudden blast caused the infantrymen to hit the dirt. They got up grinning sheepishly. Then the tank methodically raked the valley with shells.

Across the valley the Chinese watched from hiding places.

Another half-hour passed. Then a burst of wild firing from the river bank broke the silence. You could hear the burst of grenades and machinegun and rifle fire.

An infantryman cried: "Ambushed! Ambushed! The squirt-eyed so-and-so's!"

Tank men leaped into their turrets while their commanders searched the cliffs for the enemy. Infantrymen who stayed with the tanks crouched on the slope beside the trenches, their rifles ready.

In the gorge the firing continued in quick, wild bursts.

Then someone yelled: "There

they go! Get 'em!"

Four tiny figures ran and fell flat on the level ground beyond the canyon rim. They got up to run again as red tracers streamed out toward them. One fell and flopped like a bird with a broken wing, then lay still. The others disappeared into tall grass, and our tanks and rifles poured fire into the field.

We were standing on the hill, pointing and yelling when enemy bullets began whizzing overhead and between us. They sent us diving into our holes. The infantrymen kept up a din of fire, with only helmets, rifles and rifles showing above the rim of trenches.

Communist mortar shells fell to the right and left of us and the men hugged their foxholes. For two hours the shooting went on, then in the canyon it suddenly halted. Four men in GI green emerged, then a dozen more joined them.

They walked haughtily along the cliff in single file. One man proudly tried to trip the man ahead of him.

"Hell, they are all right," a soldier said.

It turned out that an enemy ambush had backfired. So the score of our "routine mission" — nobody knows how many days before a case-fire — was a dozen Communists killed.

terrorists that no recruit could be taken.

Tan said proof of the fact that many Chinese would join with the Chinese Nationalists is that here.

There are "many Chinese in the colony today who are voluntarily risking their lives to help the government against Communism."

Wilson's Weekly Bulletin

from the RECTOR KITCHENS

In the true tradition of America's annual day of Thanksgiving, Wilson's delicious Certified Turkeys will again hold the center of the stage on thousands of tables.

These are very special Turkeys. They are young, tender, plump and full-breasted. Wilson's Certified Turkeys come in sizes 8 to 26 lbs. to suit the appetites of family groups of all proportions. Order a Certified Turkey now (dressed or oven-ready) for your holiday celebration. At leading food stores everywhere.

Notice: Becoming increasingly popular are Wilson's "Beltsville" Turkeys. Small but fully matured, these "family size" turkeys (4 to 8 lbs.) provide just enough delicious, juicy, tender white and dark meat for the family that prefers a "one-meal" bird. Better reserve yours now.

Large or small, Turkey Roasting remains the same except for Time and Temperature SELECTION: You can depend on the Wilson label to give you a fine, broad-breasted turkey, plump, juicy and tender enough to make a "real feast" of the holiday meal. Buy a pound of turkey per person, if you plan for second servings.

TRUSSING: Rub cavities with salt, using 1/2 teaspoon per pound of turkey. Rub in well. Lightly stuff with your favorite dressing. To close, place skewers across body opening and lace shut with twine. Fasten drumsticks to tail. Pin neck skin to back. Shape wings "akimbo style" or skewer tight to body. Brush skin with melted Clearbrook Butter, Certified Margarine, or Wilson's BAKE-RITE. Place trussed bird, breast down, on a rack at least 1/2 inch high, in a shallow pan. Cover with fat-moistened thin cloth. Let it drape down sides loosely, do not tuck it in.

SLOW ROASTING AVOIDS OVEN SABOTAGE: Roast at low temperature—see table. After an hour, at least before half done, dip legs loose from tail. Turn breast up when 3/4 done. Roast until thick part of drumstick pinches soft. If cloth dries out moisten by basting with drippings.

Ready-to-Cook	Oven	Total Cooking
Drawn Weight	Temperature	Time
4 to 8 lbs.	325° F.	3 to 4 hrs.
8 to 16 lbs.	300° F.	4 to 5 hrs.

Sadie Harkins Day To Be Observed On Campus

Sadie Hawkins Day will be celebrated on the East Carolina College campus Saturday of this week with a race staged on the campus in the afternoon and a dance in the Wright auditorium in the evening. The event, held each year at the college, will be sponsored by the student Science Club, of which Jennie E. Cannon of Wilmington is president.

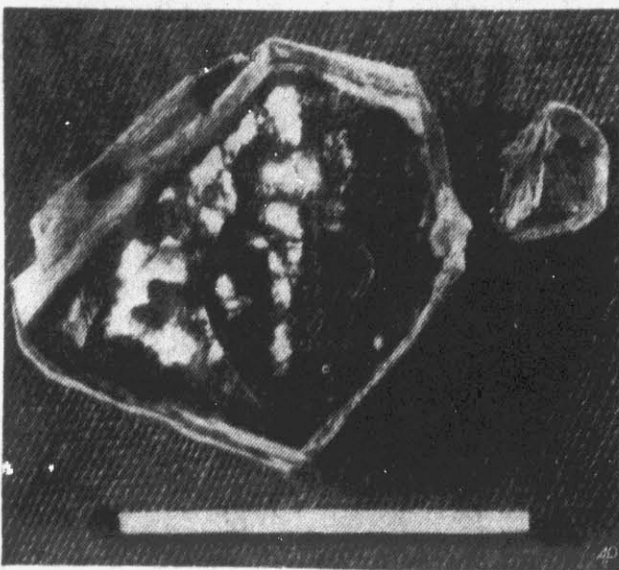

The race, modeled after the famous Al Capp contest of the comic strips, will be open to all stu-for square dancing. A wedding, with a campus Marryin' Sam performing the ceremony, will be an attraction at the intermission. Prizes will be offered for the best student Daisy Mae and L'il Abner.

Among members of the science club who are assisting with plans for the celebration of Sadie Hawkins Day are Robert Linderoth of Red Bank, N. J.; Edward A. Mackie of Belhaven; Ernest Sylvant of Snow Hill; and others.

Best Thinking Is While Standing, Says Researcher

NEW YORK (UP)—A psychologist offered evidence today that many do more forceful thinking when he is standing or walking around than when lying down.

Dr. Hugo G. Biegel, associate professor of psychology at Long Island University, said he based his conclusions on experiments with 22 subjects who were asked questions—the same questions—when they were reclining, sitting and standing. To make them forget their previous answers, the subjects were hypnotized in each step of the experiment.

Biegel disclosed that in the experiments he showed letters to the subjects—letters allegedly from a "girl friend" who said that she had become pregnant.

In all cases, he reported, the reactions of the subjects "were more vigorously expressed in the standing position than in the reclining position."

While reclining, he said, the subjects were more of the sympathetic mood and with an attitude to help, but in the standing position they were more belligerent and had a "don't care" attitude after reading the letter.

As a result of the experiments, Biegel said "we may formulate the hypothesis that body position exerts considerable influence of perception, thinking and emotions."

"The reclining position," he said, "has a tendency to remove these processes from reality considerations and consequently allows him greater complacency. It favors expansions of suggestions and associations, but inhibits the tendency toward action."

"In the standing position the energies are stimulated toward action, and emotions express themselves more forcefully. At the same time the field tends to be narrowed and the influx of new suggestions partly blocked."

While standing, the experiments show that the human being does not scrutinize situations "as carefully and surrounding possibilities are not sufficiently examined."

"Decisions come faster and are more vigorous," he said.

He believes that the "sitting position seems to favor an equalization between the two antagonistic tendencies," but that "it is, however, closer to the standing position than to the reclining position."

Hens Lay Better If They Can See

COLUMBUS, O. —(AP)— Although they don't have to see what they're doing, laying hens work better if they have light.

"Lights are a big help in getting increased egg production which means more profit per bird," said Emil Malnovsky, extension poultry specialist at Ohio State University.

"Artificial light extends the hen's working day," he said. "It makes it possible for each bird to eat more feed. Main reason for larger egg production when lights are used, however, is stimulation of the pituitary gland by light rays."
