Accuse Murders Of UN Prisoners

Ridgway's Aide Says Army Report Of 6,270 Slain Exaggerated; Number Considerably Fewer Than Those Charged By Hanley; Another Report Soon

By RUTHERFORD POATS United Press Staff Correspondent TOKYO (UP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway formally accused the Communists today of mass murders of United Nations war prisoners in Korea, but an aide said an 8th Army report that 6,270 Americans had been slain appeared exaggerated.

The supreme United Nations commander mentioned no figures in his first official comment on what he called Col. James Hanley's "most regrettable" announcement that the Reds have murdered 13,400 U.N. war prisoners.

However, a headquarters staff officer said specific and proved cases of Red atrocities were considerably fewer than those charged by Hanley, chief war crimes investigator for the 8th Army.

Hanley's controversial statement that 6,270 Americans, 7,000 South Koreans and 130 other United Nations prisoners had been murdered was based in part upon "unscientific investigation," generalizations and possible duplications, the officer said.

Ridgway may release Sunday a further statement clarifying and qualifying Hanley's figures, the spokesman said.

Despite Ridgway's confirmation of mass Communist atrocities, the Chinese command radio at Peking broadcast an indignant denial and counter-charged that the U.N. had "inhumanly slaughtered thousands" of Red prisoners.

Ridgway's statement said it became evident to the U.N. more than a year ago that Communist pretensions they were adhering strictly to the Geneva convention in their treatment of war prisoners were "false."

U.N. investigators went to work at once, Ridgway said. "It had been concluded some months ago that at an appropriate time, when the accumulated evidence warranted and when due coordination had been effected with the proper authorities in Washington, this evidence should be made public," he said.

Reported Red Atrocities

Col. James M. Hanley (above), chief of the Far East command's war crimes section, said in an interview at Pusan, Korea, that Communists had slaughtered some 5,500 (a figure subsequently raised) American prisoners of war. Hanley said he divulged the figures because he thought American soldiers at the front ought to know what they are up against. (AP Wirephoto).

Agents Stage Narcotics Raid

Fifty Of Capital's 'Top Peddlers' Arrested Last Night

WASHINGTON (UP)—Federal agents and metropolitan police arrested 50 of the capital's "top peddlers of heroin" last night in the first mass raid of narcotics racketeers since enactment of a stiff new law aimed at illegal drugs traffic.

The raids by nearly 100 officers, including U. S. marshals and Treasury agents, climaxed five months of intensive undercover investigation in which officials spent more than $15,000 buying narcotics from peddlers and lining up other evidence against drug distributors.

Boyd M. Martin, district narcotics supervisor, said many of the peddlers nabbed were "top men in the operation of dope peddlers in the Washington area."

Authorities predicted that the mass arrests were only the start of a concentrated drive to wipe out peddlers of crippling narcotics who under the new law, face stiffened jail terms when convicted as repeat offenders.

Martin denied published reports that narcotics can be bought on many Washington street corners. But he said that the Treasury Department has on file every "big time" narcotics operator in the nation.

United Nations To Study West Disarmament

Vote Made On Studying Proposal; Soviet Plan At Tailend Of Agenda

By E. H. SHACKFORD United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS (UP)—The United Nations voted overwhelmingly today to begin study of the West's disarmament proposal Monday and to place the Soviet counterplan near the tail end of the agenda.

The U.N.'s powerful political committee voted 45 to 5, with 5 abstentions, to begin debate Monday on the global plan sponsored by the United States, Britain and France. U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson will lead off the debate.

The move was made over bitter objections from Russian delegate Jacob A. Malik.

He said it was "bizarre" to relegate the Soviet proposals to the background and accused the U. S. of trying to "guillotine" them.

Before Malik spoke, Acheson told the committee that press reports he had seen about a near agreement in Korean cease-fire talks were good news. He warned, however, that two vital issues remained to be settled even after agreement on a cease-fire line.

The issues, he said, are supervision of the armistice line and the return of prisoners of war.

Malik desc. "The Korean talks as 'the most shameful in American diplomatic history.'"

"Mr. Acheson talks about wanting to end the bloodshed," he said. "Well, why don't you end it, Mr. Acheson. It all depends upon you. All you have to do is to tell Gen. Ridgway and the Pentagon to stop putting obstacles in the way of agreement."

Community Chest Fund Is Still Below Quota

Chairman Alton Johnston Reports That $7,831.27 Has Been Collected Toward $12,000 Goal

Community Chest officials reported this morning that fine progress is being made in the 1951 drive, but revealed that the $7,831.27 collected through yesterday is still far short of the goal of $12,000.

Alton Johnston, general chairman of the Community Chest, urged all solicitors and participants to conclude their activities and report funds. He also asked all who have not contributed to do so at once.

The drive got underway Monday, with a parade of many of the civic organizations in Greenville. "The success of any Community Chest Plan is the response of its citizenship; by either volunteering for service, or contributing financially to the plan," chairman Johnston said.

He further emphasized the importance of individual participation, and asked the support of every citizen and business enterprise in Greenville to make the drive a tremendous success.

Old Soldier May Seek Top Post

Sgt. Alvin York Considering Running For President

PALL MALL, Tenn. (UP)—Another "old soldier" today stepped into the political battle shaping up over next year's presidential race.

From his Cumberland Mountain home, Sgt. Alvin York announced he is "considering" running for president. But the Congressional Medal of Honor winner said he will support President Truman if the chief executive sees fit to run.

Hints Of Compromise Made To End Korean Conflict

Tax Fraud Probe Only Beginning Says Rep. King

Prober Says Assistant Attorney General's Case To Be Followed Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's firing of Assistant Attorney General Theron L. Caudle appeared today to be the forerunner of wide-scale charges involving Justice Department tax fraud prosecutions.

"This is just the beginning," said Rep. King (D-Calif.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Subcommittee, which has been unearthing corruption and misconduct in the Internal Revenue Service.

The President late yesterday fired Caudle as the government's chief prosecutor of tax frauds less than 48 hours after the committee passed along to Mr. Truman information it said it had dug up on Caudle's activities.

Mr. Truman announced Caudle resigned by request because he had "engaged in outside activities" inconsistent with his position as head of the Justice Department Tax Division. Presidential secretary Joseph Short told reporters that to summon him as the star witness in hearings now scheduled for Nov. 26.

The chairman would not comment on the nature of the information presented by Mr. Charles Murphy, by telephone last Wednesday. King refused to answer "yes" or "no" to questions whether other individuals in the Justice Department would be involved. But he said:

"This is just the first individual, or matter, that we have taken up in the tax division."

The Caudle firing was the latest in a series of some 26 suspensions or firings in the wake of the committee's tax investigations. All previous ones, however, have been in the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Six of them were collectors, of whom two have been indicted for bribery and other misconduct.

Warren opened his campaign for the 1952 Republican nomination with an address by transcription last night to 500 members of the California Republican State Committee. He was unable to attend because of an intestinal disorder which forced his hospitalization in San Francisco.

The California Republican said his political views called for tax economy, streamlining of government agencies, price support for farmers, unemployment compensation, old age insurance, decent housing for people in low-income brackets and medical care on reasonable terms for all citizens.

New Price Hike?

DETROIT (AP)—Another auto price boost apparently is in the making, although it may be some time away.

An indication of this was given last night when government price officials in Washington announced that a new order, putting auto makers under the Caperhart Amendment, probably will be issued in about 10 days.

The order would give auto manufacturers the right to compute new prices under the amendment. Some other manufacturers already have been permitted to "make use of the amendment."

Auto industry sources, who have been pressing for relief from rising costs and frozen prices, are expected to take immediate advantage of the order.

Early this fall, OPA granted authority for some price boosts—averaging around six per cent—to most auto makers. But this relief, the manufacturers claimed, was insufficient.

Warren States GOP Platform

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—Gov. Earl Warren today was committed to a presidential nomination campaign of "social progress" based on old age, unemployment, low-income and farm benefits.

Warren opened his campaign for the 1952 Republican nomination with an address by transcription last night to 500 members of the California Republican State Committee. He was unable to attend because of an intestinal disorder which forced his hospitalization in San Francisco.

The California Republican said his political views called for tax economy, streamlining of government agencies, price support for farmers, unemployment compensation, old age insurance, decent housing for people in low-income brackets and medical care on reasonable terms for all citizens.

He added to his platform flood control and reclamation projects, financial and military aid to nations fighting communism and a bi-partisan foreign policy supporting the United Nations.

Communists Indicate They Would Accept Compromise By UN; Plan For Cease-Fire In Panmunjom; UN Troops Attack Nine Mile Line

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The United Nations today offered—and the Communists indicated they would accept—a compromise proposal designed to end the Korean war within 30 days.

Under the proposal, the U.N. would accept the Communist demand to make the current battle-line a cease-fire line provided the rest of the armistice agreement is ready for signing within a month.

U. S. Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodas handed the plan to the Communists at a joint subcommittee meeting in Panmunjom.

A U.N. spokesman said the Reds gave this map appraisal of the proposal:

"We have heard your proposal, but have yet to make a full study of it. I can tell you this much. Your proposal seems in the main in accordance with our principles."

The Communists presumably will give a formal reply at the subcommittee meeting beginning at 11 a. m. Sunday (9 a. m. Saturday EST).

Hodas also suggested that, as a preliminary step, staff officers of both sides meet at 10 a. m. Sunday (8 p. m. Saturday EST) to see how far apart they are on their interpretation of the actual battle-line of contact.

If the Reds accept the new compromise proposal, it will be the biggest step toward a Korean armistice since the truce meetings began July 10.

Flyers Guide Semi-Conscious Mate Home By Tipping Wings

5TH AIR FORCE HQ, Korea (UP)—Two U.S. jet fighter pilots said today they guided their semi-conscious flying mate to safety by tipping his plane wings on each side.

Capt. John L. Paladino of North Little Rock, Ark., thanked fellow Arkansas 1st Lt. Wood S. Arthur of Little Rock, and Capt. Jack R. Miller of Dayton, O., for saving his life through almost unbelievable precision flying.

More Billions For Larger Air Force Is Encouraged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional sources said today they expect an administration request next year for added billions of dollars to speed expansion of air power. And chances appear good now that the request will be met.

Some lawmakers look for President Truman to stress the need for more air power quickly in his messages to the new session shortly after the first of the year.

With 'Long Range' Investments Patience Profitable In Dealing

By ROGER W. BABSON BABSON PARK, Mass.—A friend of the Babson Institute recently presented it a beautiful indoor heated swimming pool costing $235,000. When he was thanked he replied: "Don't thank me. Thank those who taught me PATIENCE. This gift of $235,000 cost me nothing."

No Fairy Story! The explanation of the above is that many years ago he bought stock around $2.50 a share in the American Investment Securities Company which controlled the Columbian National Life Insurance Company of Boston. For years, the stock didn't act well, and no profit was in sight, but all at once the American Investment Securities Company was liquidated.

For each 100 shares of the A. I. S. stock costing $2.50 a share, he received Columbian Life Insurance stock which today is worth $3,600. In addition, he received other securities which more than repaid his original investment. Hence, his insurance com-

Two Symbols of Thanksgiving

Everyone knows that the turkey is a symbol of Thanksgiving. But, do you recognize the other symbol—the more important one?

It is the smile on this young lad's face!

A turkey, after all, is not essential to the celebration of Thanksgiving Day. Some folks prefer duck, or steak, or even an old-fashioned meat-loaf.

But a smile is indispensable! For thankfulness and happiness are cut from the same fabric. Thankfulness is really happiness with a sense of direction. It is happiness that traces its source to the goodness of God, and expresses its destiny in humble reverence.

The smile of a thankful Christian is the natural symbol of Thanksgiving. And it explains the meaning of this sacred Day: GOD HAS SMILED ON US!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dudley-Massey Engagement Announced

Miss Jane Toler Massey is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Moulton Braxton Massey of Greenville. Her engagement to Oliver Witcher Dudley, III, son of Mr. O. Witcher Dudley, Jr., of Richmond, Virginia, and the late Mrs. Dudley is announced by her parents. The wedding will take place on December 13.

Mr. Rose Speaks To Members Of Third St. P. T. A.

The P. T. A. of the Third Street School met on Wednesday afternoon, November 14, with Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, president, presiding.

The meeting was opened with greetings by letter from the state president. The devotional was presented by the sixth grade students, with Burke Stanell Jr. leading a responsive reading. The meditation was concluded with the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Burke Stanell, program leader, presented J. H. Rose, superintendent of the city schools, who spoke to the members on the subject of "Teaching Citizenship in the Schools." This program was in observance of American Education Week, which has been commemorated this week.

Mrs. Arthur Andrews, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, reported that the P. T. A. had cleared $315.11 on the Halloween festival. Mrs. Nelson Bowdler, membership chairman, stated that the organization had enrolled 214 members, including 73 fathers and one grandmother and one grandfather.

The association voted to send $5.00 to the State Foundation for the Martin Memorial Fund.

The attendance prize was won by Miss Foley's fourth grade.

After the meeting, the parents were invited to visit the library where there were exhibits done by the children depicting the books they had read in connection with National Book Week.

Sings 'Violetta' In Opera Here Nov. 25

Miss Beverly Sills (above) will sing the role of Violetta in the forthcoming Charles L. Wagner production of "La Traviata", which will be presented at the College Theatre here Sunday, November 25.

The opera is being presented under the sponsorship of the Greenville Music Club, and marks the twelfth season for the touring Wagner Grand Opera. Wagner has chosen young American singers, who not only sing their roles perfectly but who, as in the case of Miss Sills, look them as well.

The producer boasts that each member of the ensemble and orchestra is hand-picked. Fine musical and stage direction will play the uppermost part in the production. The musical direction is in the hands of Paul Breisbach, who came to America from Vienna in 1939.

Scenic material, especially designed for Wagner Productions, is unique because it is adaptable to various sized stages, and because it travels collapsed in trucks. The lighting equipment is similarly adaptable. New and colorful costumes will be used, and both equipment and lighting have been so skillfully devised in style and character as to represent elaborate operatic sets.

Musical Program Featured At Atheneum Club

Mrs. H. L. Ormond was hostess to the members of the Atheneum Book Club on Tuesday, November 13, at her home on Rotary Avenue.

On arrival at one o'clock the members and guests were served a most delightful two-course luncheon by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Janice Ormond.

The dining table and auxiliary tables were centered with artistic arrangements of fall flowers.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Ormond introduced her guest speaker, Dr. Kenneth Cuthbert, head of the music department of East Carolina College. His talk on "Mental Health in Music" was a delightful discussion of music as a diversion from the strain of everyday life. He pointed out that an interest in music affords a ready means of relaxation.

Dr. Cuthbert introduced Bernard Ham, who sang "Without a Song" and "Falling in Love" accompanied at the piano by Miss Matthews, both of whom are students at the college and members of the College Choir.

The president, Mrs. J. J. White, presided over the business meeting and at this time the club members voted to buy a T.B. Bond.

Current events were given by Mrs. S. M. Crisp and after the exchange of books a motion for adjournment was made.

Guests for the meeting were Mesdames Kenneth Cuthbert, J. H. Waldrop, J. H. Thomas, S. T. White II and Helen White Haves.

DECEMBER WEDDING PLANNED

Completes Five Years As Pastor

When services close tomorrow, Rev. J. A. Neilson will have completed five consecutive years as pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church here.

During the five years, 251 new members have been received into the church, and membership has grown from 420 to 547. The Sunday School enrollment has increased 87 per cent—from 168 to 315—while the average Sunday School attendance has increased 106 per cent—from 96 to 198.

The Choir, W.M.U., and Youth Fellowship have also shown considerable growth and improvement. Gifts to the Cooperative Program increased during the five years from $709.54 to $2,180.23, gifts to missions from $2,286.04 to $4,070.77, and total money raised for all purposes amounted to $80,861.30. Rev. Neilson termed these facts and figures "an evidence of the loyalty and support of a splendid people."

In the last three years, an eight-room brick parsonage valued at more than $30,000 has been built and used for the congregation. The interior of the church has been renovated and beautified, the church kitchen completely remodelled and modernized, and additions or improvements made in all departments of the church and Sunday School.

The goal set for tomorrow in observance of the occasion is 300 in Sunday School, and an overflowing church for the Morning Worship.

The Chapel Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Moyer Dail, will sing two anthems: "Praise to the Lord," by Marks; and "Thou Shalt Remember," by Redmond. The subject of the pastor's sermon is "Purposeful Living."

Rev. Neilson urges all members of the church to be present tomorrow so that the goal may be attained. "Visitors and friends are cordially invited to worship with us," he said.

Held Armistice Day Program in Training School On Monday

An Armistice Day program was held in the chapel at Pitt County Training School last Monday under the auspices of the Historical Committee. The annual parade was canceled due to the present building program in progress at the school.

Appearing on the program were Mesdames P. G. Grimes and S. E. Selby, and Misses C. Venters, Carolyn Hawkins, Inell Tetterton, Lula M. Brown, and Odessa Hopkins. The school Glee Club presented a choral sing.

Ushers for the occasion were Misses Edna Louise Crandol, Peggy Joyce Moore, Deloris L. Adams, Re-ecca Jones and Ezekiel Little. Marjorie Boyd was elected Miss Pitt County Training School, and the coronation ceremony will be held in the Spring. Members of the Historical Committee are Mrs. W. A. Cherry, Mrs. P. G. Grimes and Miss C. Venters.

Dr. Karl Gilbert Is Charter Member Of New Musical Group

Dr. Karl V. Gilbert of the department of music at East Carolina College has become a charter member of the North Carolina unit of the National Association of String Teachers, recently organized in Greensboro. The state organization, headed by George Dickenson of the Woman's College faculty, Greensboro, has as one of its major purposes promoting interest throughout North Carolina in music for stringed instruments and raising standards of performance.

Two or three meetings of the group will be held each year, according to present plans. Programs will include performances of works for the stringed instruments.

The speaker recalled that Kefauver Senate Committee uncovered crime and corruption on local, state and national scales. He pointed out that many of our political leaders have forgotten their responsibilities to their fellow-Americans.

Mayor Talley quoted a famous retired American jurist as saying that despite all this, there has not been any moral breakdown in this country. "The individual American still holds to his high moral principles and has abiding faith in his country," the speaker declared.

"Civic clubs, made up of the best men in the community, can play a big part in this country's role of world leadership, and with a strong faith in God, we in America can protect our priceless heritage of freedom," Talley said in concluding.

Mayor Talley, for many years active in Kiwanis circles and a past president of the Fayetteville Kiwanis Club and lieutenant governor of his division, was recently elected governor of the Carolina Kiwanis District at the Raleigh district convention.

James Latham regional enforcement director of the Office of Price Stabilization in Raleigh, introduced the speaker.

Miss Jacquelin Waldron and Miss Maxine Maddry of the music department, East Carolina College, presented an elaborate musical program.

Heads of other Greenville civic clubs and their wives were special guests. They were: President H. Glenn Haney of the Kiwanis Club and Mrs. Haney, President Jimmy Harris of the Lions Club and Mrs. Harris and President Charles A. White of the Rotary Club and Mrs. White.

Alterations Going On At Legion Home Are To Be Finished Soon

Alterations and improvements on the second floor of the American Legion Home, 557 Evans street, are nearly completed. Meetings hereafter will be held upstairs.

Lester D. Turnage, Jr., commander of Pitt County Post No. 39, said some of the rooms were made into one large room. This arrangement will practically double the seating capacity. The supper meeting to be held next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock will be held upstairs.

Recreation facilities will be provided in the new quarters for legionnaires, the post commander said.

Mrs. Sallie Latham Of Wharton Dies

Mrs. Sallie Williams Latham, 81, wife of J. C. Latham, died at her home in the Wharton community in Beaufort County at 10:20 o'clock Friday night. She had been ill for the past seventeen months and critically ill for the past week.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and burial will be in Oakdale Cemetery in Washington. The Rev. William Clifton, pastor of Tranters Creek Christian Church, assisted by the Rev. D. W. Arnold, Christian minister of Washington, will officiate.

Mrs. Latham, daughter of the late Allen G. and Parthenia Teel Williams, was born in the Wharton community and spent all her life there. She was a member of Tranters Creek Christian Church. She was married to Mr. Latham on November 25, 1891.

Surviving are her husband; three daughters, Miss Myrtle Latham and Mrs. L. C. Dixon of the home, and Miss Louise Latham of Fayetteville; three sons, J. R. Latham of Raleigh, Churchill Latham of the home, and Lester Latham of the Wharton community; two grandsons, J. R. Latham Jr. of Long Beach, California, and Gordon Latham of Raleigh; two great grandchildren, Robert Allen Latham and Patricia Louise Latham, both of Long Beach, California; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Mayor Speaker At Exchange Club

By CHESTER WALSH

Mayor Joe Talley of Fayetteville was guest speaker at the Greenville Exchange Club's "ladies' night" banquet at the Woman's Club last night. President Robert S. (Sweeney) Moye was master of ceremonies.

The distinguished Fayetteville attorney described the United States as a modest country faced today with the problem of world leadership and assuming its responsibility.

"Founded on the primary belief in freedom for all men, this country has survived because over 1,000,000 American citizens have given their lives in our wars to preserve our heritage. The chances are a million to one that we will not lose faith in ourselves," he said.

The speaker recalled that Kefauver Senate Committee uncovered crime and corruption on local, state and national scales. He pointed out that many of our political leaders have forgotten their responsibilities to their fellow-Americans.

Mayor Talley quoted a famous retired American jurist as saying that despite all this, there has not been any moral breakdown in this country. "The individual American still holds to his high moral principles and has abiding faith in his country," the speaker declared.

"Civic clubs, made up of the best men in the community, can play a big part in this country's role of world leadership, and with a strong faith in God, we in America can protect our priceless heritage of freedom," Talley said in concluding.

Mayor Talley, for many years active in Kiwanis circles and a past president of the Fayetteville Kiwanis Club and lieutenant governor of his division, was recently elected governor of the Carolina Kiwanis District at the Raleigh district convention.

Mrs. Derrick Hostess To Aries Book Club

The Aries Book Club met on Thursday night with Mrs. J. O. Derrick at her home on East Eighth Street. A burning fire, and fall flowers made a welcome setting for the meeting.

The business session, which preceded the Red Cross course which the club is taking, was presided over by the president, Mrs. Leo Jenkins. She read a letter from Charles A. White with reference to the opera which is being presented in Greensboro on Sunday night, November 25, under the sponsorship of the local Music Club. The club also voted to buy a T.B. Bond to aid in the current T.B. Seal Sale Drive.

Most of the lesson session, taught by Miss Mabel Daugherty of the East Carolina faculty, was a review of previous lessons, with some new information studied with reference to artificial respiration. Members were asked to wear slacks to the next meeting, as a more exhaustive study of this will be made.

Before the books were exchanged and the club adjourned, the hostess served iced drinks, sandwiches, cookies and nuts.

COMMUNISM PLANS SUICIDE
Before the communist revolution in Russia, every home contained a holy icon. In fact the house was built about that sacred relic. We may disagree with all this as valid religious procedure, but the fact remains that every Russian, from the Winter Palace to the hickiest hut in Siberia, had an icon and cherished it.

All that is swept away today. The heavy handed hoodlums who occupy the Kremlin, following the teachings of the atheistic Karl Marx, have thrown the holy icon into the discard. But they have done much more than this. With the icon has gone the reverence of vast multitudes of people for sacred things, and hopes in powers beyond themselves. Today they look to Moscow and listen attentively to the propaganda being poured into their ears by radio broadcasters. Instead of churches they now have the Kremlin; instead of priests, they have commissars; instead of the liturgy of the Church, they have five-year plans; instead of the Bible, they have the writings of Marx and Lenin.

Yet we may take a certain satisfaction in all this for our enemy is killing himself off more surely by this procedure than if we were to drop a thousand atomic bombs on his territory. The holy icon has gone out of his house, out of his heart, out of his life. Communism has thus definitely decided upon suicide.

Married Men Should Not Go First

The Reflector is trenchantly opposed to the Selective Service System practice of calling into military service married men without children while local draft boards still have a backlog of single men who have not been deferred, and other young men who have been deferred because they are in college.

This week from Pitt County 41 married men without children were sent for pre-induction examinations, and unless some unforeseen change takes place, the first of these married men from this county will be called for induction into military service in January.

If the Pitt Draft Board calls these married men for active service it will be in spite of the fact that the board has a backlog of some 145 single men who already have passed their pre-induction examinations, and others who have been deferred because they are in college.

There is absolutely no justice in calling these married men into active military service while there are still plenty of single men, already accepted by the army, who are passed over by the draft board in order that the married men may be shoved into the army before they pass the draft age limit or become fathers which changes their draft status. But the draft board, unless it changes its present way, will do exactly that. They will begin calling married men without children from Pitt County while there is still a backlog of 145 or more unmarried men who already have been found mentally and physically acceptable for military service.

Of course all the blame for the situation cannot be placed entirely on the local draft board. They are operating under the directives of the State Selective Service office which virtually dictates local policy to the local board boards. Nevertheless, if the Pitt board would stand on its own feet and demand that it be allowed to withhold the call of married men until its backlog of single men has been exhausted, The Reflector believes they could carry their point.

Some of these married men the Pitt Board has put its finger on even have previous military service, although it was not enough to qualify them as veterans according to the draft Board's interpretation.

The Reflector is in no position to debate the army's need for men; but of this we are sure: An army job can be filled just as well by a single man as it can by a married man, and in most cases better. And furthermore, common sense can not deny that the married men by and large are needed much more acutely at home than the single men.

There is just no sense in the Pitt County Draft Board calling married men to active military service when it has a backlog of some 145 single men who have passed their pre-induction examinations and have not been called to active duty.

Another Look At That Statement, Please

Ironic, isn't it that a slight error which completely changes the meaning of a sentence closer to the truth than it was originally meant to be.

For instance there may be more truth than fiction in the United Press news story yesterday which told of a pending CIO wage fight that "may topple the government's program to keep inflation."

Obviously a word was left out of the report, but when one stops to analyze the situation it is conceivable that the government's economic program is doing more to "keep inflation" than to keep down inflation.

The government is constantly bidding against every other enterprise in the nation for materials, and sending the prices up. The taxes taken from the people are causing wages to take another upward trend; the extravagance of the government's employment program is making workers scarce and prices for them higher and consequently contributing to the higher cost of living.

A knock-down, drag-out wage fight by the CIO might hinder somewhat the government's program to keep down inflation, but The Reflector is of the opinion it will take much more than the CIO to get the present administration away from its program "to keep inflation."

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6306 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—What would happen to economic conditions in the United States," asks T.O. of Tulsa, Okla., "if Stalin agreed to President Truman's proposal for total disarmament? Wouldn't that lead to a terrific depression in this country? And what is the real reason for making such a suggestion only a few weeks after Mr. Truman said that Soviet promises were only 'scraps of paper'?"

EXPENDITURES—Answer: Obviously the kind of progressive and gradual disarmament schedule outlined by Mr. Truman would not hurt us immediately. But government economists, speaking privately, admit that economic conditions would become chaotic, if we were to cut down defense expenditures totalling more than fifty billion dollars a year. They form the foundation of our topheavy prosperity structure.

I have heard economic authorities, public and private, say that Stalin would be smart if he did enter a disarmament pact, and prove that he meant it. Had it not been for postwar expenditures here and abroad, Mr. Truman's own Council of Economic Advisors expected and prepared for a severe deflationary movement, with fearful unemployment.

BELIEF—However, it is the general belief, based on the experience of the last twenty years, that the Administration would find some other way to pour out money so as to stave off an economically and politically disastrous downturn.

At home there are about eleven billion dollars worth of roads to be built, schools and hospitals to be financed, and there could be a vast extension of the system of social security and farm payments.

President Truman or his successor might look more kindly on Senator McMahon's suggestion that, in return for foreign nations' agreements to be good, we should spend fifty billion dollars, perhaps more, to keep them peace-minded and prosperous.

GESTURE—President Truman's appeal is generally regarded, here and abroad, as a "play to the gallery," using that phrase in its best sense. Anticipating a peace gesture by Vishinsky at the United Nations Assembly, he wanted to place the United States on record as being "against sin," too.

Even our allies have become frightened and suspicious over all the war talk and preparations in this country. Stalin, of course, cites it as evidence that we need and want a war so as to stave off the depression that might follow any real reduction of American armament manufacture.

It is clear that Prime Minister Churchill does not take Mr. Truman seriously. Nor does Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, although he had to join with Messrs. Acheson and Schuman in submitting our plan to the U.N. Assembly.

ATMOSPHERE—Mr. Churchill plans to have a man-to-man talk with Stalin, unless Mr. Truman can argue him out of it when they meet here in January. The President opposes any personal conference of that kind, unless it is held here, and, of course, he knows Stalin will not agree to that. Mr. Eden also admonished Mr. Truman gently when he pointed out that a prerequisite for disarmament is the creation of an atmosphere of peace. That does not exist now.

It is hard for us to see ourselves as other peoples do. While we know that we do not want war, they see us rearming at breakneck pace, shipping an army to Western Europe, sending weapons to Eisenhower's allies, building air and naval bases all around the world and making like to fight.

It arouses their fear of the Colossus of the West, and tends to strengthen Moscow's "phony peace offensive."

DAMNYANKEE—"How do you explain the renaissance of Confederate flags, forage caps and other symbols of the South now being displayed everywhere?" inquires Mrs. M. A. of Charlotte, N. C.

Answer: As a "damnyanke" from Holyoke, Mass., I am hardly qualified to answer that query. But I will draw on replies to a questionnaire on the subject recently given the Washington Post, D.C., by prominent editors of Southern newspapers.

STUNT—Some believe it is a "college boy stunt" that has extended to the adults. They attribute it to a cloud of Confederate banners carried to Philadelphia in 1947, when the University of Virginia football team played Penn. and some of the celebrating collegians upset the Northerners more than Lee's men did when they camped on the outskirts of that city. Virginia won the game!

PRIDE—Administration sympathizers among the editors see no political significance in the vogue. Anti-Truman journalists think it symbolizes the South's resentment of policies unpopular in Dixie. Others believe that it epitomizes the South's new pride in its current expansion from a one or two-crop region into an industrial empire.

A simple enough explanation, to my mind. Is that the Stars and Bars make an aesthetically beautiful and decorative emblem, and recall a glorious, albeit tragic, page of our history.

The Goose That Laid The Golden Egg

Somebody Told Me

By E. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last night I took a trip over to the Rotary Club where rehearsal was underway for the Follies of 1951, to be presented by the Greenville Service League Tuesday and Wednesday nights at Austin Auditorium. In short, what I saw convinced me that I'll be there when the curtain rises.

The Follies will bring a new kind of production to Greenville: professional directing and costuming, and local amateur talent. The Coghill Company of New York furnishes the director, a native of England named John Farrow, and the costumes.

Among the cast of the show will be Greenville ex and present dancing teachers, Ramona Van Nortwick and Marie Wallace. Ramona taught dancing from 1935 until 1940. For three years one of her students was Marie Wallace, then Marie Smith, who started teaching in 1942 and has continued since, save a brief wartime intermission. Ramona, who will be in eight numbers, says, "I came out of 12 years retirement to do this show, but this is definitely my swan song."

As I was sitting talking to Ramona the rehearsal was underway for the rumba number, which we were viewing from the rear. "Who," I asked Ramona, "is that cute girl in the second row?" "You've been knowing her all your life," Ramona said. "Well," I shot back, "I knew it looked like Rosamond Wagner, but the way she swings her hips in that rumba dance I thought it was probably a wringer from the college."

It's worth the price of admission to see Rosamond Wagner dance the rumba, and she holds the distinction of being the only grandmother in the cast!

Helen Parkinson, who appears in several numbers, was bubbling over with enthusiasm about the Follies. She said, "People who did not get the opportunity to participate are missing the best time of their lives. I don't know when I have enjoyed anything as much!"

All the profits from the Follies will go to the sponsorship of a hospital bed which is available to those who cannot afford to pay. But do not buy a ticket with the idea of contributing to the fund. Instead, buy it with the idea that you'll see a show well worth the money.

The Follies cast includes 75 Greenville people who will surprise you with their talent in the musical production that will make the Follies of 1951 a show that will be remembered for a long time! And I'll see you at the Follies.

TREES—Accustomed as they are to think of "cash crops" in terms of cotton, tobacco, peanuts and other annual products, North Carolinians have been slow to recognize trees as an important source of regular cash income. The forestry section of the State College extension service cites some facts about the Bent Creek forest experiment station near Asheville. During the past five years careful harvesting of trees for sawlogs, pulpwood, fence posts, firewood and dogwood bolts, also yielded cash income of more than two thousand dollars a year, a substantial part of which represented wages for handling the harvest and sale.

PRIVATE—Illustrations can be offered of private operations yielding even larger returns than those shown on the experiment forest farm. Colin Spencer, Carthage business man, has long been interested in the problem of replenishing depleted forests. He told the other day about planting some pine seedlings about twenty years ago with expectation that his grandchildren would reap some benefit from them. For the past three years he has been harvesting pulpwood and small lots of sawlogs from that acreage—and is planting the lots for his grandchildren. Miss Ethel Parker, member of the state board of agriculture, regards the trees on her Gates county farm as much a source of cash income as the cotton and peanut fields—and supervises them with equal attention. Hundreds of other instances can be cited.

MANAGEMENT—State College folks and successful private operators emphasize the fact that careful management is required to obtain profit from trees, just as planning, management and work is necessary in production of cash crops from cultivated fields. The landowner should select the acreage to be devoted to forests with the same care used in selecting fields in which to plant various crops or to be developed in permanent pasture. Then attention must be given to protecting the tree crop from fire and disease. Experience records can be cited to show that for time and dollars invested in trees the yield is proportionally larger than for time and dollars invested in production of the traditional "cash crops."

GOOD—One man who has been active in promoting intelligent interest in trees for many years voiced the hope that some good might come out of the situation in the forestry division of the state department of conservation and development. Publicity incident to the firing of State Forester W. K. Beicher by C.&D. director George Ross, without concurrence of an actual or protest of the forestry committee, has focused attention on the need for a more actively co-ordinated state program in forestry.

PAROLES—The state paroles system, specifically the incumbent's right to parole during recent months for apparent unwise use, if not actual misuse, of the power to grant clemency to convicted prisoners. In reply to some criticism Dr. T. C. Johnson, paroles commissioner, has adopted the only course policy—confession and avoidance. Paroles, reprieves, commutations and pardons have been granted without serious attempt at justification. On the other hand, pleas for clemency have been declined for cause when the records in the cases would, on the surface, have justified favorable action. One such case made news this week.

OTHER SIDE—That was the case of Thad Braxton, Jr., and Herman Newell, convicted in Pitt County superior court last April of assault and sentenced to six and four years in state prison. Three other defendants in the same case are not pertinent to this story. Judge Henry Grady, who presided at the trial, and 140 citizens of Pitt and adjoining counties—including Brown Hodges, chairman of the Pitt county board of commissioners, and Frank Kilpatrick, representative in the general assembly—wrote the paroles office asking that the sentences be commuted or reduced to probation or parole status before either of the sentenced men entered prison. That was right potent pressure upon the paroles office, but it was resisted. The presiding judge and the paroles commissioner had granted leniency of time for beginning of the sentence, but when that time expired Wednesday of the men reported to the sheriff of Pitt county and were brought to central prison.

PARADO—Business of commanding the paroles office for standing firm in cases like this is interrupted by news stories about other convicted persons being released, over protest of judges, solicitors and numerous other good people, and immediately committing other crimes more heinous than those for which they had been convicted. Unavoidably that raises question of whether there is any real policy in the paroles system, or if decisions are based upon personal whims of the commissioner and the governor.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Some economists believe the nation is heading toward a wave of mergers and absorptions in business. This belief is based on the fact that many retailers and distributors are being squeezed by rising operating costs and price ceilings.

Most of the costs of merchandising are rising. Wages, rents, shipping, delivery, taxes and other expenses have gone up and seem to be heading higher. Meanwhile, retailers are under margin control, and so Office of Price Stabilization officials told the American Retail Federation, there are no plans to change that.

A manufacturer granting a pay rise can, on application to the O.P.S. increase his prices to make up the difference. A retailer granting a pay rise cannot increase his prices. He can sell more goods, if that is possible, taking more, if not larger, mark-ups. Or he can cut other expenses if that, too, is possible. Or it can come out of profits.

A recent survey showed that 45 per cent of the department stores lost money in the first six months of this year. When all other efforts to reduce expenses have been exhausted, a consolidation may be resorted to. It is usually possible to eliminate up to half of the management staff, part of the clerical staff, some of the shipping and delivery costs and to affect other economies. When the merger is physical, it is also possible to reduce total costs for rent, warehousing and servicing.

And when all other efforts of one store to increase sales are insufficient, buying up a competitor may still do it. While manufacturers and distributors are not suffering from precisely the same kind of margin controls, they have their own problems resulting from price regulations and higher taxes. Paul S. Willis, president, told the Grocery Manufacturers Association convention in New York this week that manufacturers' and distributors' margins fell to a new low in the first half of this year, with net profits sinking to 3 1/2 per cent of sales. Retained profits of 25 manufacturers were $15,000,000 lower in that period than in the same six months in 1940.

Among large corporations, tax considerations may discourage some mergers. However, savings resulting from consolidation of various activities can in many cases offset the cost of moving into a higher corporate or excess profits bracket.

OLD PROMOTER FAVORS MERGERS
"I don't see why you are so excited about mergers," said the Old Promoter, who had wandered into this office and engaged himself in reading over our shoulder. His words are sometimes less than endearing.

"I made a check recently," he went on. "I found that four milk trucks, fifteen fuel oil trucks and three bakery wagons deliver on my street. It seems to me that people on my street are paying for wages, gas and oil, garaging and depreciation on 22 trucks when, if there were some mergers, five or six would be plenty. Many furniture and department stores have discovered they can save money by using cooperative or proprietary delivery services. Why can't other businesses?"

We pointed out that mergers reduce competition and throw people out of work. "Huh!" snorted the Old Promoter. "I haven't worked for years."

BY A BANK, NO LESS!
Banks rarely have sales and they certainly never offer dollar bills for 87 cents. But the State Bank of Wellington, St. Louis, is conducting a bargain sale, marking coin banks down from $1.50 to $1. What's more, the coin banks cost State $1.80.

Philip C. Koplitzky, chairman of the board, believes the sale will encourage saving and thereby combat inflation. It also advertises the bank and adds new accounts.

HOSPITAL SWEETSTAKES HIT BY GAMBLING TAX
Irish hospitals, as well as this city's bookies, may suffer from the new federal betting tax. It applies, lawyers say, to persons who sell smuggled-in tickets on sweepstakes tickets. They have always been liable to penalties under other laws but now, when a person wins a prize a little T-man is likely to appear and ask with new firmness, "Just whom did you buy your ticket from?"

NEW PRODUCTS
FUSE: Household fuses incorporating a time-delay lag link which absorb starting overloads and sudden current surges, preventing a fuse from blowing out while still protecting circuits, are being manufactured by Royal Electric Co., Pawtucket, R. I.

PAINT: A patent has been granted to Minnesota Mining & Mfg. Co., St. Paul, for a reflectorized highway paint. It is claimed to last three to five times as long as ordinary paint and to reflect three times as much light at night.

COUPLINGS: Couplings specially designed for repairing or joining plastic garden hose of 7-16 inches diameter are now being made by H. B. Sherman, Mfg. Co., 22 Barney St., Battle Creek, Mich.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK—(AP)—Life sometimes exasperates people so much they exclaim impulsively, "I almost wish I were dead!"

Against such rainy days they should write down a list of all the things they really would miss if they were out of this world.

Then, when they felt bad, they could pull out their own catalogue of personal pleasures, read it over—and feel better.

A few things would be on every person's list. But each would have some items that would be the private fruits of his own lifetime. He's one man's tentative index:

The relief of taking off a pair of tight shoes after a long hard day... the pleasure of scratching the ecstasy of spring and autumn... the soaring prose of perfumes and corset ads in lady fashion magazines...

Seeing the Empire State Building on a misty day the smell of fog, new leather, old clothes and shoe polish... the sound of a wife's surprised laughter, children's voices, the thump of a dog's tail... the feel of a fresh wind, summer rain, and the soft patina of a century-old cherry wood dining table... the glint of a candlelight on polished bronze and antique silver...

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—An attractive, blonde Russian woman who married an American in Moscow in 1945 was naturalized here the other day.

A lucky lady, that one Mrs. Kyra Shirk. She was one of the last five Russian girls with American husbands who were permitted to leave the Soviet Union. They all came over at one time, in September, 1946. The next year the Soviet government forbade marriages between Soviet citizens and foreigners.

In the '30's Union now are 250 wives and 66 husbands of American citizens who have tried through the U. S. Embassy in Moscow to leave the Soviets and come to the U. S. The U. S. government is very lenient in relaxing immigration quotas to permit husbands and wives to join each other, but the Soviet government hasn't issued an exit permit to any of these 416.

Most of the wives that Americans had to leave behind them have been advised or forced by Soviet authorities to obtain a divorce and abandon any idea of joining their husbands.

The Soviets don't even let American citizens leave their country unless they have official or diplomatic status. Although 2,000 Americans or claimants to American citizenship have registered at the U. S. Embassy in Moscow with the hope of getting out, not one has been granted to Americans since 1940, when 21 have been granted to Americans since 1940. Of the 2,000 registrants, the claims of 659 have been substantiated by the State Department, and most of the remainder are believed by the department to be bona-fide U. S. citizens.

A great many of them are naturalized Americans who were visiting or living with relatives in satellite countries when the Reds took them over. Thirty-two are in slave labor camps. Twenty are minor children of American-Soviet dual citizenship whose parents are in the U. S.

Nearly every other nation in the world permits any person to leave its territory. The reasons the Soviets won't let people out, according to experts here, is that they need all possible manpower and that they are afraid people will talk after they leave.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

ANOTHER REVOLUTION
(Wilson Daily Times)

That America has been going through one revolution after another history makes clear. That we're about to go through still another was indicated the other day by Senator McMahon of Connecticut when he emphasized, before a meeting of the American Institute of Physics, that we're on the threshold of a revolution in production and profitable use of atomic weapons. We hope it's the sort of revolution he implies, for it could turn out badly. We'll have these new weapons for what use? Surely some general will insist on employing them. We like to think of revolutions as something designed to better mankind. Most assuredly the one the Senator talked about won't be better mankind. On the other hand, it'll kill mankind, whether that mankind lives in America or Russia. What's more, his revolution is costing far more than a bloody one. It's hitting the taxpayers hard, reducing their living standards, for what purpose? Are we, through talks such as McMahon gave, prolonging the cold war? Or are we trying to frighten our potential adversaries?

To say, as McMahon did, that our stockpile of atom bombs has been protecting Western Europe is going far. They didn't protect Poland. Nor did they save the Balkans. Long before Chiang was forced to abandon China, we had a stockpile of bombs. Did they deter Russia? We must confess that our bomb has been louder than our bits. That we're getting stronger, we'll all admit. But cannot McMahon be characterized as a warmonger when he talks as he did? For we're building up that stockpile for some use. Can it be so that a few present-day unknown captives can become heroes?

Before Pupils Can Learn, Teachers Have Work To Do

Preparation For School Term Always Going On

By MURIEL SHOTWELL
Reflector Staff Writer

In order for a teacher to do his or her job, a large amount of work is done outside of the classroom. Teachers in the Pitt County Schools attend professional meetings, workshops, and answer questions as to what should be considered in setting up a good instructional program in the school.

Much interest is shown in what the students do in school but before the students work, the teachers must work. Before a yearly program for a school can be put into effect, the teachers get together and plan what type of work needs emphasis and what should be stressed in the yearly program.

In inquiring into the teacher's centers of interest and what they need in the schools, an opinionaire was compiled in the Spring of 1950 by Annie Lee Jones, elementary supervisor, and sent to the 139 teachers and principals in the county schools. Through the answering of the questions, the administrators were able to come to conclusions on the type of things in which the teachers needed help and instruction.

The opinionaire showed that the teachers asked for help in five areas, those being science, art, reading, music, and the teaching of slow learning students. The areas were listed among the top five of the 24 areas which were questioned.

In reference to professional meetings, teachers in the county schools asked that meetings be held in various schools, that they meet in grade groups, meet with local faculties, and meet on different subjects.

The teachers asked that many things which are already being used in the county school program be continued. They showed interest in the workshops which have been conducted, the bulletins which are issued in the fall, the reading tests and work toward improvement in the reading program, and the distribution of free professional material. The only thing they wanted discontinued were too many meetings.

Interest shown in supervisory work centered around requests for visitation and constructive criticism by supervisors, held in subject areas, sharing of ideas from other schools, help with materials, demonstrating lessons, and help in establishing a uniform schedule and philosophy throughout the county. Bulletins have been used by the county elementary school supervisor for the last eight consecutive years and the last one which was issued in the summer of 1951 was compiled by Annie Lee Jones, present elementary supervisor. The last bulletin contained bits of philosophy on teaching and relationship between teachers and children, state requirements for instructional equipment, information necessary to the booking, distribution and use of the 101 films in the county film library, and suggestions in subject areas, some as an outgrowth of study and research by the supervisor.

One major phase in the instructional program in the county schools is a readiness program for beginners. The program was based on the belief that children have much less difficulty learning to read if they are not forced into process before ready.

A plan for the reading program grew out of the meeting of first grade teachers last spring and two meetings in the early fall. Suggestions on carrying out the reading program were given in the bulletin and further suggestions were made in additional bulletins on helping to develop the following things: Language abilities (giving child something to talk about), habits of working in a group, left-right directions, visual and auditory discrimination, and a desire on the part of the child to read.

Emphasis has also been placed on a uniform philosophy, especially in each school. The main idea of the teachers has been to work together for the good of the children if all agree on what is being attempted.

This year in the field of elementary science, an over-all plan for grades on through eight, there has been an emphasis on sequence learning. A well balanced program stressing that each child have the opportunity to have experiences in all fields has been enacted.

Another phase of work which has been emphasized is that of keeping classrooms and buildings attractive as possible since surroundings play a large part in the learning ability of children. This program also ties in with a program on mental health where teachers have been encouraged to help children understand themselves. It has also been related with behavior and citizenship.

In encouraging professional growth, a number of workshops have been held in the county schools this year in many fields. Representatives from the Department of Public Instruction, in Raleigh have held the workshops in physical education and music. Demonstrations on both fields were given in the schools.

Several grade group meetings were held during the year and they were organized for teachers to share ideas and discuss mutual problems among teachers of the same grade. The librarians in the first and fourth grades have met and become organized, bringing samples of their work and their projects to other teachers. Other groups will be organized and plan to meet twice this year.

Faculty groups have met with the supervisors at anytime requested by members of the faculties or by the supervisors. An elementary council has been organized within the county school system and is made up of one teacher from grades ones through eight.

The council meets to help determine policies and helps toward uniformity throughout the schools. Each person on the council serves now as a moderator between the supervisor and teachers in the schools. The council also works to see that materials circulate in all of the schools.

Four meetings of the North Carolina Education Association were scheduled for the year with two of the meetings already being held. The first meeting of the N. C. E. A. was held in Bethel when Dr. Clyde Erwin spoke to the group and the second meeting was held this month in Fountain when Dr. Sylvester Green spoke. Meetings have been held in various schools in the county and along with the meetings, an open house was held to give teachers the chance to observe what is in progress in other schools.

Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, supervisor in the grammar grades, started work in March in the libraries of the county schools. She asked the principals in the schools which did not have a trained librarian, to appoint someone to act as a librarian. Following the appointment of librarians, Mrs. Mrs. Baker and Miss Cora Paul Bomar, state school library supervisor, made a survey of the county school libraries and then drew up some recommendations.

Mrs. Baker is working to follow up the recommendations and a minimum amount of supplies has been ordered for each library in the county schools and a recommended list of library books have been put into the hands of librarians. Mrs. Baker compiled a library handbook for each librarian on the general organization of a library, including the mechanical preparation of books for use and selection of books.

Librarians have been encouraged to make the libraries more attractive through planned arrangement and library periods have been scheduled in the schools. Most Beta Clubs in the schools have taken an active interest in the libraries and Mrs. Baker said they had been of much help.

One of the most outstanding programs that has been held in the county schools system this year is one on nutrition and health education. Carolyn Flewelling, nutritionist from the State Board of Health, has conducted a refresher course in nutrition for the teachers and made a survey in Arthur and Farmville.

From the program on health, a number of grades in the county schools undertook projects concerning health. In the Bethel first grade at the colored school and in the first, second, and third grades in the Farmville Negro school, the students used white rats in experiments with the value of milk. They also made milk products in class and served a breakfast and lunch.

During the year a complete survey on supplementary readers in the schools to determine which materials are acceptable for further use. In conjunction with the teachers and principals, recommendations were made to replace non-acceptable materials. The recommendations were made on suggestions from the state department, who also helped to make orders for new materials.

Since visual aids has become a part of the school, 101 instructional films have been circulated among the county schools. The films vary in content so that they correlate with all areas of work. Each school is equipped with a film projector and films have been booked and distributed from the county office. Materials and information on free films have been put into the hands of teachers and principals.

A film library is being started in the colored schools in the county.

parallel with the tests that are being taught. Many of the teachers think this kind of thing will arouse interest in both the grammar grades and in the high school.

An attempt has been made by the county school administrators in working with handicapped children. The nurses at the county health department, the Pitt County Welfare Department, P.T.A. groups, and Mrs. Dorothy Perkins and Hazel Taylor at East Carolina College have worked in the county schools with handicapped children.

Mrs. Hazel J. Jordan and Mrs. Madellen L. Blount, supervisors in the county Negro schools, said progress in the instructional program of the Negro School had been made toward the organization of study groups. Teachers in each subject field had been divided into groups and they have met and studied and talked about plans for procedures for improving instruction on the high school level.

The teachers in each of the field have met several times and exchanged ideas, evaluated their programs, and determined whether or not the programs were needed.

During the year the teachers had meetings at Bethel on science and mathematics with H. A. Shannon of the State Department of Public Instruction meeting with them. Meetings have also been held at Tarboro on music with Dr. Greer of the Silver Burdett Company, and with Ray Thompson on guidance.

Emphasis has been placed largely on guidance in the schools since the administrators feel that the proper amount of guidance would help keep students in school longer and keep them from dropping out. More home visitations have been endorsed by the supervisors.

Work has been done and is still in progress on the development of reading readiness in grades one through three. Eight centers were organized for the study. In grades four through six, one thing that has been greatly stressed is the unit plan study. From this a large number of projects have been undertaken by grades. One of the supervisors pointed out some outstanding projects at Simpson School, Post Oak, and Falkland.

A study of water resources was undertaken in grades six and seven at Falkland and it grew out of a discussion of a broken pump on the school grounds. From the project some of the students wrote a play on water resources and its use and dramatized it.

A South American program was given by the fifth and sixth grades at Simpson when the grades completed a project on South America. The culmination of the project was a dinner in which South American foods were served and a filmstrip on the country was shown.

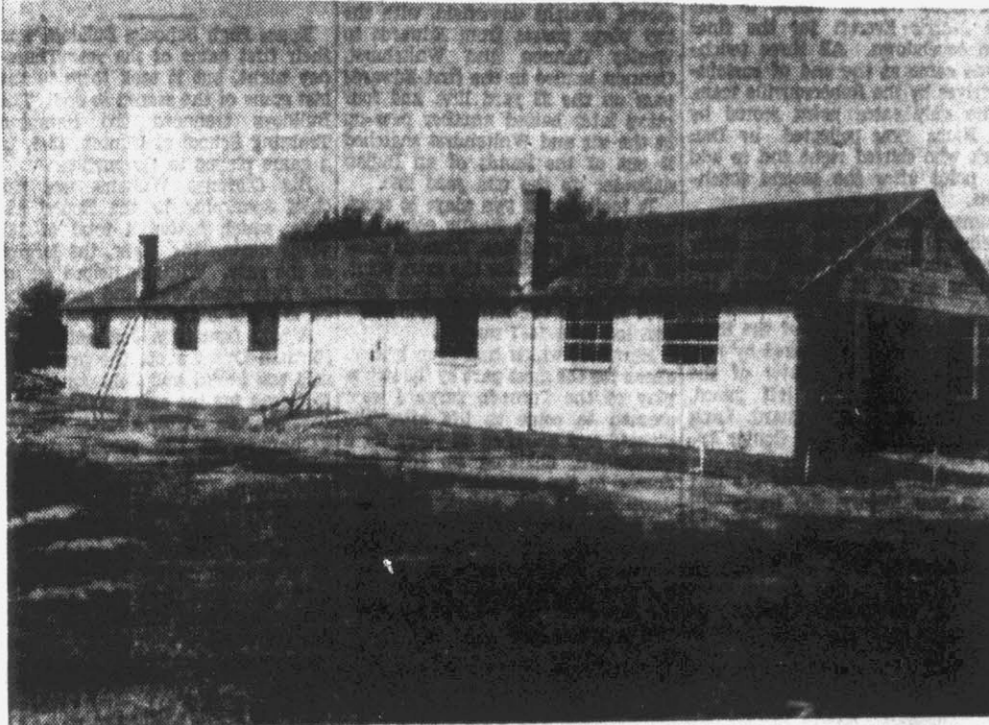

The supervisors reported that this type of work has aroused quite a bit of interest in the schools, even in the beginning groups.

Here is the modern Ayden library. Throughout the county school system, units such as this one are increasing the facilities available for use by the rural school children.

Expansion for shop programs over the county is now underway and modern units such as the Farmville Negro shop above are the results. This unit houses a shop, vocational agriculture class section and other space used for classroom study.

Enfield Prepares To Greet 2 Tornadoes

ENFIELD—This city is rapidly preparing itself for an invasion by two tornadoes. Contrary to the general rule, these tornadoes will bring very little wind, and it is hoped, no snow or rain, but will bring plenty of football.

The tornadoes are the football teams from Ayden High and Weldon High, who will meet here on Thanksgiving Day in the fourth annual Goober Bowl contest. Perry Band, chairman of the Goober Bowl committee, has stated that "unquestionably, these two teams are the best ever to participate in the game."

Records compiled by the two schools over the last three games should show that a good game is in the making. Ayden has won a total of 20 out of its last 23 games, and Weldon has won 12 out of 15. Both teams are undefeated, untied, and many experts claim untied.

Maryland accepted the bid to the Jan. 1 game in the face of an anticipated Southern Conference ban on post-season games when conference presidents meet on Dec. 14.

Southern Conference presidents voted 13-1, with three schools abstaining last September, to direct their representatives to "vote at the December meeting" against giving permission to any member institution to participate in a bowl game this year.

Conference bylaws provide that "no post-season football games will be permitted, except by the consent of the conference." However, there is no penalty provided for violation of the rule.

Maryland President Dr. H. C. Byrd said he accepted the invitation without first asking permission of conference members. He said he followed the "pattern of past procedures."

Dr. Byrd would not directly answer what course of action Maryland would take if Southern Conference members refused to grant the Terrapins permission. He said "I would expect them to approve our request."

Conference Commissioner Wallace Wade said he was "surprised" that Maryland had accepted the bid without first consulting other members.

The Maryland Athletic Council denied the school had violated any rules. The Council said in a statement:

"In view of certain recent publicity, a question may arise as to whether or not the University is violating any regulations in accepting the invitation. The simple answer is that the University is not violating any regulation, and is acting within the rules of the Southern Conference and on the basis of custom and procedure over many years."

Maryland Coach Jim Tatum said the school would ask the conference for permission at the Dec. 14 meeting. He said if the conference refuses, he would consider it "discrimination" since it has been the custom to permit Southern Conference teams to play in bowl games.

Sugar Bowl President Charles Zatarain, commenting on the dispute, said: "We look on that as a family affair between the team and the conference. It's none of our business. We issued the invitation and Maryland accepted it."

Zatarain said the Sugar Bowl had issued the invitations under similar circumstances before. Duke played in the Sugar Bowl in 1945 and North Carolina in 1947 and 1949. Both schools are members of the Southern Conference.

The selection of Maryland and Tennessee didn't come as any big surprise. The Sugar Bowl indicated early in the year they would like to have a representative from the eastern seaboard.

The announcement at this particular time did come as a surprise. The Sugar Bowl previously had never announced its selections until the last weekend in November after both teams had completed their seasons.

Tennessee is a long way from an undefeated season. The Vols meet Mississippi today, Kentucky next Saturday, and close the season with Vanderbilt.

Vols And Terps Accept Bids For Sugar Bowl Game

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Maryland will meet Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl football classic here New Year's Day—with or without the Southern Conference's approval.

The Sugar Bowl announced last night that Tennessee, No. 2 in the Associated Press' national poll, and Maryland, No. 5, had accepted invitations.

Both elevens are undefeated, untied, and many experts claim untied.

wound up 66 yards later—tired, but with the fourth touchdown. Matthews kicked the point to make the score 27-0.

Greenville again took the kickoff but could go no where and Briley was dropped back to the Roanoke Rapids 43 on fourth down. Greenville recovered the ball a couple of plays later when Matthews fumbled for the second time but the Yellow Jackets got the ball back when Earl Crumpler intercepted another of Briley's passes. Crumpler returned the ball to the Greenville 22. It took four plays to get a touchdown. Cullum took the ball over from 10 yards out on a reverse. Matthews kicked the point.

The halftime margin of 41-0 game when King went 45 yards over tackle after a Briley punt had rolled dead on the Greenville 45. Matthews kicked the point just before the half ended.

The second half scoring came just as quickly as did the first half. Matthews kicked the point just before the half ended.

Roanoke Rapids gained possession of the ball on the Greenville 29 but on the first play, Cullum lost 11 yards when the ball was juggled in the backfield. King gained it all back and got a first down to boot, however, when he circled the end for 26 yards on the next play. Crumpler lost three yards but Baton, throwing on a reverse, found Alton Little alone in the end zone and passed 17 yards for the touchdown. Matthews kicked the point to make the score 48-0.

On the first Greenville play after the kick-off, Briley's pass was intercepted by Flanders O'Neal who returned the ball to the Greenville 30. King lost six yards at tackle but an off-side penalty against the Phantoms on the next play moved the ball to the 31. The same reverse pass, this time from King to Little, ran the score to 54-0. The try for the extra point, by King, was no good.

The fourth quarter was used mainly as a kicking period by both teams and not until there were but two minutes remaining did Roanoke Rapids come up with the final touchdown. Roanoke got the ball on its own 21 after an exchange of punts and Matthews was given the task of moving the ball. On the first play, he hit for five yards and then on the next play, he went all the way — 74 yards — through the middle of the line. He appeared to be stopped when he first hit the line but he spun away and ran over a couple of secondary performers as he bulled his way for the six-point play. The unnecessary extra point was blocked.

The victory gave Roanoke Rapids a 7-1 record for the year with a final mark of 4-1-1 in the conference. For the Phantoms, it was their seventh loss in a nine game schedule.

ROANOKE RAPIDS—With fullback Bubba Matthews leading the show, Roanoke Rapids' Yellow Jackets blasted the Greenville High School Phantoms 60-0 yesterday on the Roanoke Rapids gridiron. The game was a Class AA Northeastern Conference contest and the last game on the 1951 schedule for both clubs.

Matthews, one of the most sought-after backs in Northeastern Conference history, scored two touchdowns for Coach Harry Adams' club and hit six out of six extra point placement attempts to wind up with 18 points for the afternoon's work.

The Yellow Jackets wasted very little time in getting down to their task of making mince-meat out of the Phantoms. A stout defensive line held Greenville's running game to a meager 57 yards and the alert secondary picked off eight of 37 attempted passes while holding completions to 13 and yards gained via the aerial route to 118.

It was Matthews who started the scoring spree for the Yellow Jackets by going over from 1 yard out on the seventh play of the game. After Bubba was stopped in attempting to run the extra point, the flood gates were open and Greenville was lost in the tide.

Touchdown number two came in short order after Matthews' first effort. The fullback kicked off deep into Greenville territory and while the Phantom backs were watching the ball roll around, Roanoke Rapids tackle Sidney Deloach thundered downfield and covered the ball on the four yard marker.

Matthews hit the center of the line for one yard before Bo Baton went around right end for the remaining three yards and the touchdown. Matthews kicked the point to run the score to 13-0 with less than three minutes gone in the game.

Greenville returned the kick-off to their own 29 but their offense was cut short when Dickey King intercepted one of Sid Briley's passes and ran it back to the Greenville 33. Four plays later, Roanoke Rapids had scored again.

This time it was wingback Lloyd Cullum who went into pay dirt. He scored from 12 yards out on a reverse. Matthews kicked the point to make the score 20-0.

Greenville took the kick-off and made two fast first downs before losing the ball on the final play of the quarter when Alton Baton intercepted a Briley pass in the end zone. The ball was moved out to the 20 yard line as the quarter ended and the Yellow Jackets were on their way again . . . although a fumble delayed them momentarily. After Greenville had recovered Matthews' fumble, the Phantoms ran a couple of plays before Baton snared another of Briley's passes in the end zone. The ball was again moved to the 20 and the Jackets were ready to march again. It took them three plays to cover the 80 yards that separated them from paydirt.

On the third play of that series, Dickey King, running at wingback, set sail around end on a reverse and

Yarborough Looks Good In ECC Football Workouts

East Carolina College football players were today enjoying the second day of a long weekend. They were given yesterday afternoon off from football practice by Head Coach Bill Dole since there is no contest scheduled for this weekend. They will resume practice Monday for their final game of the year which will be played next Saturday in Charleston, S.C. against The Citadel.

Dole, before he left the campus yesterday afternoon to take in a couple of football games, was all smiles as he recalled practice sessions this week at ECC. Most of the smiles were caused by the return of Ilard Yarborough to action.

Yarborough, the team's leading ground gainer before he went out of action September 29, has been running wild in the two scrimmages in which he has taken part. He got the okay to return to action Tuesday afternoon from a Duke Hospital doctor and reported for action Wednesday. He took part in both Wednesday's and Thursday's rough workouts and when it was all over, Dole was about ready to stand on his head—or something of that nature.

Yarborough's return will give the Pirates some much-needed strength and depth in an almost-over-taxed backfield unit. With Yarborough, Jack Britt and Mike Kovack out of action at the same time, most of the ball-carrying burden fell on the shoulders of Claude King, Paul Gay and Jack Benzle.

Last week against Cherry Point, Britt and Kovack got back into action and Dole tossed in sophomore back Tom Allsbrook who came through in an almost-unexpected fine style. With Lyn Grissom backing up Quarterback Sandy Siler, that gives Dole and the Pirates two complete backfields for almost the first time this season.

While most of the attention this week has been devoted to the return of the injured ball carriers, there has also been some strengthening in the line.

The two days of rest given the Pirates this week have given all the linemen a chance to catch an extra breath but the big news remained to be made by Sonny Callahan. The

The game ended a few minutes later with Hertford knocking again. Check fumbled for Ayden on its own 22 and Thomas Robertson pounced on the ball for the Indians and in four plays they were to the seven. Vance Bright, who had sparked the last two drives for Hertford, contracted muscle cramps in his legs and the attack bogged down. The game ended with the ball on the Passes Inter. By 2 1 Ayden 10 in possession of Hertford. Each team played an exceptionally good brand of defensive ball, with both lines diagnosing nearly every play by its opponent. Time after time, Ayden's Curtis Dennis, Gordon Hart, Randall Harrington, Willis Manning, Billy Holland and Mac Whitehurst, as well as the four backfield men, broke through to throw the Indians for a loss or to hold them to no gain.

It was the same story for Hertford. Leading the line play were Preston Morgan, Pete Matthews, Johnny Mansfield, Thomas Robertson and Willis Proctor. Morris and Lane were outstanding in the backfield for the Indians in both offense and defense.

Both teams played a rough but clean game, with Hertford getting the worst in the yards penalized column with 35. Ayden was punished with only five yards, an off-side penalty in the third quarter.

This was the final game of the regular season for Ayden, giving them a record of five wins, two defeats and two ties. Williamson and Beaufort were the only teams to whip the Tornadoes during the season, while Plymouth battled them to a 6-6 muddy stalemate. Although it is the poorest record for an Ayden team in the last three years, it has been invited to meet Weldon's Tornadoes, champions in the Roanoke-Chowan Conference, in the Goober Bowl on Thanksgiving Day in Enfield.

AYDEN—Hertford's heavily favored Indians battled right down to the final gun here last night, but when the game was over, Ayden had held the Perquimans County boys to a 14-14 stalemate, the second of the year for the hometown Tornadoes.

Ayden spotted Hertford a 7-0 advantage early in the second quarter and then bounced back to tie the score with less than 10 seconds left in the first half. Each team then scored seven points apiece in the final period to end in the deadlock.

Quarterback John Morris provided the first touchdown for the visiting team by intercepting a pass by Ayden's All-Coastal Conference quarterback, Hal Edwards, on his own 35-yard line and running all the way for a 65-yard scoring jaunt.

With only four minutes and forty seconds left in the quarter, Fullback A. L. Lane, who was one of the brighter players on Coach Ellis Fearing's team during the night, went off right tackle for the extra point and Hertford led in the game, 7-0.

Ayden marched from its own 20 to the Hertford 35 on the following series of plays before Edwards was forced to kick out of bounds on the 11. On the second play for Hertford, Lane fumbled and Guard Jordan Hart recovered for Ayden on the 20.

On the first play, Edwards' pass to Mac Whitehurst, also an all-conference performer, on the 10-yard line was no good, but the referees called interference on a Hertford player for pushing and Ayden took over on the 5 with a first down. Edwards then passed to Whitehurst in the end zone for the touchdown with less than 10 seconds left in the quarter. Willis Manning pulled in a pass from Edwards for the extra point and the first ended before the ball could be put into play after the kickoff.

The Tornadoes took a brief lead early in the fourth quarter by marching 70 yards in eight plays. Making the ball on its own 30, Ayden moved straight downfield, with the key plays passes from Edwards to Wesley Cannon and Whitehurst. Cannon hauled in the first Edwards pass on the 23 yard line, and four plays later batted another pass up in the air and Whitehurst snatched it out of the hands of an Indian defender on the one yard line.

It took Ayden two plays to score, with John Cheek finally going over the 3 yard line. Edwards passed to Whitehurst for the extra point, and with approximately two minutes gone in the fourth period, Ayden led by a 14-7 margin.

Hertford, which had been held in check for the most part by the strong play of the Tornado forward wall, seemed to come to life after the kickoff and marched 80 yards for a touchdown, chalking up five first downs in the process. With a first down on the one, Morris went over on second down to make the score 14-13. Hertford's little halfback, Garland Walker, made the all-important extra point attempt by shrugging off two would-be tacklers and going around right end.

Buc Basketeers Open 1951 Slate Tonight At NAS

Coach Howard Porter's East Carolina College basketball Bucs will open their 1951-52 season tonight when they meet the Norfolk Naval Air Station Flyers in Norfolk. The game will be the first of a scheduled 23 game slate.

Porter has indicated that he intends to start a seasoned quintet against the Flyers who beat the Pirates last year. The ECC squad will be led by All-Conference and All-State forward Sonny Russell, a 6-3 Junior from New Bern, who will team up with Charlie Huffman as the number one forward combination. Huffman is from Thomasville and earned his letter last year. Like Russell, he stands 6-3.

At center, Porter will start senior Toddy Fennell, a 5-10 cager out of Wilmington's New Hanover High School. This will be Fennell's fourth year as a regular for Porter's Pirates.

The guards will have sophomore Paul Jones of Thomasville and Junior Dick Blake. Blake is from Camp Lejeune. Jones is 6-3 and Blake is 6-3.

Robersonville Bows 34-19 To Powerful Benvenue

ROBERSONVILLE — Robersonville High School Rams got lost in a maze of Purple Clouds yesterday afternoon and bowed 34-19 to a powerful Benvenue High eleven at an annual homecoming classic here.

The Rams under the direction of Coach R. B. Lee opened their bag of offensive tricks in this last game of the season, but proved no match for the running and passing offensive sparked by the two thunderbolts of the Purple Clouds, George Davis and Tom Boswell.

Davis passed to Darrell Taylor 16 yards for one touchdown, intercepted a Ram pass and galloped 67 yards for another score, and broke away around right end and scampered 46 yards for a third touchdown.

Boswell passed to Davis for another tally for the Purple Clouds, and swept left end for 11 yards and another touchdown. Boswell made one extra point and Davis added three.

Some 600 Robersonville fans were on hand for the homecoming game and witnessed a wide open offensive battle in which their team was just outclassed. The Rams were fairly well bottled up on the ground and took to the air for most of their offensive punch. Fullback Sonny James hit Right End Charles Teel with two touchdown passes in the second and third quarters, and Tailback Andy Warren tossed to Left End Morris Everett for the final Ram touchdown. All three touchdowns came at the end of sustained drives by the Robersonville team.

The only extra point scored by the Rams was collected by Dan Clark who skirred right end to add the point after the second touchdown.

James and Warren divided the passing chores of the Rams fairly evenly and came up with six completions out of 11 tries during the game.

Defensively, the play of the Robersonville team was sparked by four rugged boys in the center of the line: William Taylor, left guard, Dick Matthews, right guard, Lang Martin, right tackle, and Center Julius Budecz.

With their final game of the 1951 season now history, the Rams will pack away their football gear in mothballs along with the season's record of three wins, six losses and one tie. They wound up in third place in the Coastal Conference

Eppes Ends Year With First Win

Eppes High School's Bulldogs won their first game of the year Thursday night, but it took them to the last game of the season to do it. The Bulldogs trounced the Hampton Training School of Clinton, 13-0, in a game played in Greenville.

Big Clarence Williams was the chief sparkplug in the Eppes' attack, which netted a total of 187 yards during the night, the largest of the year. Williams helped set up the first touchdown and scored the second one himself.

A pass from Don Johnson to end Herman Dyers wrote the first score into the books, and Johnson passed to Green for the extra point, in the first quarter. After a series of punt exchanges in the second period, Williams went 30 yards for the final touchdown. The extra point attempt was not good.

The Bulldogs threatened again late in the contest. They fell short of a touchdown by but six yards after marching from their own 40.

The game was a Class AAA Conference clash.

Williamston Tops Weldon By 32-13 In Final Contest

WILLIAMSTON — A big Green Wave triumphed over a mild group of Tornadoes here tonight as Williamston High ended the regular season with a convincing 32-13 victory over the Goober Bowl bound Weldon eleven. It was the seventh win of the year for the Wave, which has lost but one game.

Williamston scored early in the first quarter as Russell Rogers clipped a 37 yard march by going over from the seven yard line Jack Rose kicked the extra point.

Watson McKeel passed 11 yards to Raymond Robertson for the second Green Wave touchdown, coming in the second period. Ross' conversion was again good and Williamston led at the halftime intermission by a 14-0 score.

Rogers went over twice in the last half and Jimmy Goff also scored one time. Ross did not make a conversion in the second half.

Weldon, who will play Ayden in the Thanksgiving Day Goober Bowl, scored once in the third period on a pass from Wallace Hux to Garland "Bulldog" Conwell. Hux pulled in a series from Dickie Dickens in the final period for the last Weldon touchdown. Conwell made the second extra point.

Warehouseman Is Speaker At Farm Bureau Banquet

Barbecue and barbed wit was the theme of the Farm Bureau banquet at Bethel last night, as guest speaker Bruce Sugg kept a crowd of well over 200 in stitches throughout his entire address.

Sugg, a Greenville warehouseman, flowered his serious remarks with a series of witticisms that brought roars of laughter from a receptive audience.

Striking a more serious note Sugg said, "Tobacco support prices and grower's programs have never cost the government one dime. In fact, it has taken in millions of dollars from our produce in taxes."

The tobaccoist asserted that tobacco is the most valuable crop in the world, and with the aid of the Farm Bureau and other such organizations, Pitt County farmers can expect to continue to profit from its cultivation.

"The Farm Bureau has benefited farmers by calling the attention of congress to abuses in the industry. The bureau sponsored and contributed heavily toward the establishment of favorable price structures, the stabilization corporation, research in disease control, and foreign markets."

"But we must not feel that our problems are over," Sugg added. "Increased effort and research is necessary for farm programs to keep in stride with rapidly changing modes."

Entertainment for the occasion was provided by the Diamond Five, a Negro quartet from Bethel who presented a program of gospel harmony. A number of prizes donated by the merchants of Bethel were presented to lucky ticket holders.

President of the Pitt County Farm Bureau John B. Bunting presided over the festivities. Also present were W. J. Smith, district committee chairman; W. A. House, outstanding bureau member and worker; S. D. Dewey, chairman of the banquet committee; and W. R. Eagles, of Maclefield president of the Edgecomb County Farm Bureau.

Pitt Cotton Gins Keep Fast Pace

Pitt County's 1951 bumper crop of cotton is still keeping the cotton gins of the county humming with the harvest of some 14,000 acres of the crop grown in the county this year.

A report released this morning by Joseph R. Norwood, district supervisor for the bureau of census of the Department of Commerce showed a total of 6,491 bales of cotton had been ginned in Pitt County through October 31. The number of bales of cotton ginned in the county through the last of October was exactly 5,700 bales more than the amount ginned during the same period last fall.

Earlier this fall County Agent Sam C. Winchester estimated the bumper crop of cotton in Pitt County would produce approximately 13,440 bales of cotton this season. He estimated the income from the cotton crop this fall at $2,419,200, compared with the $2,800,000 Pitt farmers received for their crop of cotton in 1950.

There was almost 100 per cent increase in cotton acreage in Pitt this year, and the per acre yield is almost 400 per cent over the per acre yield of the 1950 cotton crop in the county.

Feature Farming Talk At Kiwanis

Talks on agriculture and improved methods of farming featured the Kiwanis Club's supper meeting program last night. The speakers were S. P. Peterson and J. H. Mobley, agriculture teachers at the Ayden and Winterville high schools, respectively. John D. Dickens had charge of the program.

President H. Glenn Haney opened the meeting and announced that the Kiwanians to nominate their choice of the young man of the year to the Junior Chamber of Commerce by next week. Charles E. Blair of the Public Affairs Committee has charge of this.

President Haney left to attend the Exchange Club's meeting at the Woman's Club. Vice-President Milo Smith and Mrs. Smith and Lieut. Governor E. H. Bloom attended the Kiwanis Club's "ladies night" banquet in Farmville.

Herman Duncan won the attendance prize. Guests were: Davis L. Moore, Jr., Thomas J. Moore, Jr., of Washington, D. C., and Arthur (Pot) Johnson and Al Harrington of the Circle K Club at East Carolina College. Berry Bosley and Wyatt Highsmith had birthdays and donated a nickel for each year of their age.

group of distinguished American citizens, the mayors of 200 of our cities.

"This film, which I personally selected, is a film of approval of proper authorities exhibited in Washington, showed the bodies of these soldiers each shot in the head and with their hands still tied behind their backs, as they had been at the moment of execution.

"It may well be that in no other way could all lingering doubts be dispelled from the minds of our people as to the methods which the leaders of communism are willing to use, and actually do use, in their efforts to destroy free peoples and the principles for which they stand."

Ridgway said the publication of Hanley's statement "bad, of course, no connection whatever with the current armistice negotiations."

NEW YORK — (AP) — The National Committee for Mental Hygiene was told here recently that adults read 60 per cent of the 50 million comic books sold monthly in the United States.

Mowed Down

TAIPEH, Formosa. — (UP) — Nationalist China's former ambassador to Korea charged today that Chinese Communists massacred 150 American Negro war prisoners.

Shao Yu-lin said he learned of the incident prior to his retirement as ambassador to Korea three months ago.

He said the Negroes had surrendered after being surrounded on the Korea front by the 117th Division of the 39th Chinese Communist army.

The Reds mowed down the Negroes with machine guns soon afterward in supposed retaliation for the destruction of a company of Chinese garrison troops by the Negroes in fighting a few days earlier.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court yesterday, Judge Charles H. Whebeeb found James D. Tyson, Negro, guilty of carrying a concealed weapon and assault with a deadly weapon.

The court gave him 60 days on the roads for carrying a concealed weapon, suspended on payment of $50 and costs, and he is not to violate any law for a year and remain of good behavior. The gun was ordered confiscated and is to be turned over to the clerk of Superior Court.

For assault with a deadly weapon, the court gave Tyson 60 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25, no costs. This sentence is to run concurrently with that for carrying a concealed weapon.

Pinkey Suggs, Jr., Negro, carrying a concealed weapon, 60 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $50 and costs, and he is to remain of good behavior and not violate any law for a year.

Walter F. Phillips was found not guilty of following another vehicle too closely.

Warren Herring, non-support, six months on the roads, suspended on condition that he pay his wife $10 before being released and pay her $10 a week for support of his daughter. Judgment is suspended if the husband and wife go back together, but the sentence goes into effect immediately if they again separate, the court order stated.

Patience . . .

I am especially anxious that the banks holding Trust Funds insist upon flexible Trust Agreements so as to take advantage of this great growth ahead. This should enable banks handling the Pension Funds — at the request of the Employees' Committees — to purchase stocks in American Industry — not mere Government Bonds — which stocks will pay both a fair rate of interest and with patience some day become very valuable. I know no method to help readers to get rich quickly. One must take time to create a fortune as to mature a baby into a twenty-one year old boy. Everything worth while takes time and PATIENCE, especially investing money successfully. Incidentally, let me add that when people ask my grandchildren about my business and what I sell, they reply: "Grandpa sells PATIENCE."

What About Jobs?

Finally let me say a closing word to graduates of colleges and high schools. I beg of you to be PATIENT for promotions. Don't let anyone beat you in waiting. Forget salary, but take the job for which you are best fitted and in which you can render the most service for Mankind, and have patience.

Financial independence comes from having a praying life-partner and good children, who will help you save a little money each month for insurance, for a home, and certain growth stocks. But you must have PATIENCE. Being in too much of a hurry will prevent you from making large profits; yes, being in a hurry will be responsible for most of your losses.

The program will mark the first presentation of the "Messiah" at the college under the sponsorship of the East Carolina department of music.

Six student soloists will appear with the choir at the December 6 performance. They are Carolyn Eisele, Statesville; Jeannine Ennis, Dunn; Alison Hearne, Greenville; George Starling and Leonard B. Starling, Rocky Mount; and Bernard Ham, Portsmouth, Va.

George E. Perry of the faculty will appear as organist on the program. Dolores Matthews of Henderson is serving as accompanist during rehearsals.

FBI Agents Take 'Wanted' Man In Denver Yesterday

DENVER — (AP) — Raymond Edward Young, listed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as one of the 10 most wanted fugitives in the nation, was arrested in Denver last night.

George Buton, special agent in charge of the Denver FBI Office, said the 39 year old Young offered no resistance and admitted his identity.

Young, wanted in Los Angeles, was arrested in a bakery where he worked nights loading break on trucks. He told FBI agents he had been in Denver since December of 1948 under the name of Donald Sherman and worked days as a motorcycle messenger for a mortuary.

Loyalty Oath At California Univ. Killed By Vote

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP) — The University of California has scrapped its "loyalty oath" for professors and employees, subject of a dispute that has rocked the institution for two years.

The board of regents voted 12 to 5 yesterday against reviving the issue of whether all workers on the university's eight campuses should be required to state in writing they are not members of the communist party.

Yesterday's vote was taken at the end of a discussion that was quiet in comparison to some of the bitter wrangling at regents' meetings since the oath was adopted in March, 1949.

College Choir To Sing 'Messiah'

Handel's "Messiah" will be presented at East Carolina College by the department of music Thursday evening, December 6, at 8 o'clock in the Austin auditorium, according to an announcement by Dr. Kenneth Cuthbert, director of the department.

Dr. Karl V. Gilbert of the faculty will direct the performance of the famous oratorio, which will be sung by the College Choir, an organization made up of 46 men and women students of music at East Carolina. The program will mark the first presentation of the "Messiah" at the college under the sponsorship of the East Carolina department of music.

Six student soloists will appear with the choir at the December 6 performance. They are Carolyn Eisele, Statesville; Jeannine Ennis, Dunn; Alison Hearne, Greenville; George Starling and Leonard B. Starling, Rocky Mount; and Bernard Ham, Portsmouth, Va.

George E. Perry of the faculty will appear as organist on the program. Dolores Matthews of Henderson is serving as accompanist during rehearsals.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court yesterday, Judge Charles H. Whebeeb found James D. Tyson, Negro, guilty of carrying a concealed weapon and assault with a deadly weapon.

The court gave him 60 days on the roads for carrying a concealed weapon, suspended on payment of $50 and costs, and he is not to violate any law for a year and remain of good behavior. The gun was ordered confiscated and is to be turned over to the clerk of Superior Court.

For assault with a deadly weapon, the court gave Tyson 60 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25, no costs. This sentence is to run concurrently with that for carrying a concealed weapon.
