Tobacco Season Best In History

Only 1939 Saw Greater Poundage Sold On Local Market, At $16.35; Over 74 Million Pounds Auctioned This Season For Average Of $55.38

By MURIEL SHOTWELL, Reflector Staff Writer

With the completion of Monday's sales, the final sales for the 1951 season, the Greenville Tobacco Market brought to a conclusion the best season that it has ever had in its entire 60-year history.

The amount of tobacco sold on the market this year is the highest in the history of the market with the exception of the 1939 season when the market sold slightly over 75,000,000 pounds of tobacco.

This year the tobacco acreage control was abandoned for a one-year period and the Greenville market paid out $12,921,814.00 for an average price of $16.35.

This year the total poundage was 74,419,452 pounds for $1,216,710.42, a yearly average of $55.38. Money paid out this year tops the amount paid out on the previous high season by $5,233,326.42.

The money paid out during the current season exceeds the money paid out last year by $5,990,775.42. Last year the Greenville market sold 62,700,247 pounds for $35,325,935.00. This year the market exceeded last year's figures by 11,719,204 pounds, an increase of 18.69 percent over last year.

W. L. Whedbee, supervisor of sales, stated that the current season has been characterized by several outstanding things:

"First, it was the best year in Greenville's entire 60-year history; "Second, the amount of money paid out this year exceeds all previous years by $5,000,000.00; "Third, more tobacco was sold in Greenville this year for over $70.00 per hundred than has ever been sold here in the entire history of the market.

"Fourth, the most unusual thing of all is that prices on all grades of tobacco, instead of declining as the end of the season approached, remained firm and high for the entire season even through the last days of sale and this has never happened before; "Fifth, this year the Greenville market has found many new farm legends and hundreds of farmers from distant sections of the state and even farmers from other states have marketed their tobacco here; "Sixth, with the increase of 11,719,204 pounds over last year, the Greenville market will show an increase of 18.69 percent in poundage gained over last year."

Of the two markets in Pitt County, Greenville and Farmville, the 1951 sales record shows 105,499,766 pounds sold on the two markets. With a 1951 official allocation of 39,666.5 acres, the U. S. Government still ranks Pitt County as the largest producer of flue-cured tobacco in the entire world.

Whedbee said, in commenting on the season, "All of us should be truly thankful for this bountiful harvest and this wonderful marketing season. However, do not fail in your rejoicing over your good fortune to give thanks to that omnipotent power which has made this wonderful harvest possible."

Kefauver Backed For Presidency

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—A "Kefauver for President" Club began drumming up support today for a move to see the Democratic nomination for Sen. Estes Kefauver, former chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

A spokesman for some three-dozen persons who helped elect the Tennessee Democrat to the Senate in 1948 said they felt he should be given an opportunity through the presidency to broaden his recent crusade against crime into a campaign against corruption in government.

Merchants' Board Votes 2-Day Christmas Closings

The Board of Directors of the local Merchants' Association voted last night at their regular meeting to recommend to members that business firms be closed for two days, December 25 and 26, to observe Christmas.

The directors of the association also voted to recommend that the stores remain open Friday, Saturday, and Monday before Christmas until 8 p. m.

The Trade Promotion Committee Chairman, J. A. Taylor, reported on Christmas plans for the city and plans are being formulated for the Santa Claus and Pet Parade Saturday, December 1, at 10 a. m. The city will be completely decorated by that date and lights turned on that night.

The association voted to cooperate with the request of the Greenville Council of Churchwomen to close for the World Day of Prayer Service, February 19, from 11 to 12 o'clock.

The Membership Committee reported that the following new members had come into the association since the last meeting of the board: Jack Wallace, J. F. Sumrell & Co., Diabco Rest, Evans Supply Co., Combs Roline Service, and the Rainbow Camera and Laundry.

Tobacco Contest Championship To Chicod Student

Grew Most Tobacco Per Acre In Annual N. C. 4-H Club Competition

Officials at the Pitt County Farm Agent's office announced this morning that Harrell Brooks Mills, 15, of Route 3, Greenville, has won the 1951 State Tobacco Championship.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Mills, the Chicod High School Junior produced more tobacco per acre than any other 4-H Clubber in North Carolina, and will attend the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, all expenses paid.

The congress, which will be held November 23 through December 1, will bring together champions from every state in the nation.

Assistant County Agent C. J. Goodman stated that young Mills is a member of the Chicod Senior 4-H Club, and is rounding out his fifth year of club work. "This year Mills produced 2,094 pounds of tobacco on one acre—a better yield than any club member in North Carolina reported—and sold that amount for a phenomenal average of $67-per hundred," Goodman said.

The assistant farm agent asserted that Mills has been extremely active in country 4-H Club work during the past three years, having completed four projects successfully during that time. They are tobacco, peanut and corn production, and feeding a purebred brook trout.

Young Mills is a member of the 100 Bushel Corn Club, the F. C. X. pig chain, and in 1950, was representative speaker at State College on "How I Produced 100 Bushels of Corn."

Goodman revealed that within the past three years, Pitt County has produced two national winners, four state winners, and two district winners in 4-H Club competition. These were in farm safety, tobacco, soil conservation, public speaking and peanut production.

Begins Vacation In Workhouse

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Fifty-five year old James Dorton bade goodbye to winter's ice and snow today as he began his annual all-expense paid vacation—in the county workhouse.

Every year about this time, Dorton, who sleeps out doors in the summer and ekes out a living at the produce yards, appears at police headquarters and asks to be sent to the workhouse on vagrancy charges.

Magistrate John J. Fiorucci obliged him with 180 days and Dorton was off on his 15th annual "vacation."

Mail Order Chain Will Sell Cars

DETROIT (UP)—Sears, Roebuck and Co., which sells everything from girder to fishing tackle, is going into the automobile business in a novel agreement with Kaiser-Trazer.

The huge mail order and department store chain and the nation's youngest car-maker announced that K-T will produce a low-priced car called the "Allstate" which will go on sale in 17 Sears stores by Christmas.

The new auto in appearance, engineering and price will be much like K-T's "60-inch wheelbase" Henry J, but it will have some distinguishing style characteristics.

Dr. William McGhee of Spray, council chairman, said at the group's meeting here yesterday that the Lincoln City new system would serve to encourage prisoners to strive for better work to provide them with spending money, and to enable them to build small funds for use in re-establishing themselves. Prison law now allows no pay to prisoners.

Mr. Truman, making the trip in his four-engined plane, Independence, will fly back to Key West tomorrow.

Demands Demos Pay For Flight

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep Fred E. Busby (R-Ill.) demanded today that the Democratic national committee foot the bill for President Truman's round trip flight from Key West to address the Women's National Democratic Club here tonight.

"The purpose of the trip is politics and nothing but politics," Busby said. "Why Mr. Truman should have the free use of a plane that is paid for out of the Air Force's funds is beyond me."

Critical Peak

WASHINGTON (UP)—The military manpower problem will reach a critical peak next July when the draft is expected to start grabbing 18 1-2-year-olds.

Defense Department officials have raised the armed forces manpower goal from 3,500,000 to about 3,800,000. Previously, officials have said that this will "scrape the bottom of the draft manpower barrel."

That means that the Defense Department probably will have to call on Selective Service for youths reaching 18 1-2 years of age, the minimum draft age.

Last week the Defense Department revealed that it would not recommend any change in the draft law so long as voluntary enlistments continue at a high rate.

But Maj. Gen. E. C. Lynch, director of manpower requirements, said that it is generally agreed that a military force near 4,000,000 men cannot be maintained on a long-range basis solely by induction of men becoming 18 1-2.

New Ambassador To Soviet Talked

George Kennan Considered As Replacement For Kirk

KEY WEST, Fla. (UP)—President Truman confirmed today that George F. Kennan, long-time State Department Russian expert, is being considered as the new ambassador to Moscow.

The President said Kennan, former head of the State Department policy planning staff, "would make a good ambassador."

Asked about reports that Kennan would succeed Allan G. Kirk, the present ambassador to the USSR, the president said:

"It has been discussed, but I have signed no commission. I discussed it with Secretary (Dean) Acheson before he left for Paris. "Kennan would make a good ambassador. He ought to know his way around."

Mr. Truman seemed a bit surprised that the Kennan appointment had gotten into print. "I didn't know anything about the story," he said.

Kennan, now at Princeton University, has served in Moscow with the American embassy on several occasions and prior to leaving the government was one of the State Department's top experts on Russia.

Kennan helped write the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan. Under the pen name of "Mr. X," Kennan for the first time described to the public America's foreign policy aimed at containment of Russian expansion.

At Princeton, N.J., Kennan said he will return to government service about the end of next April, but refused to comment on his assignment.

"What they are going to do with him, I can't say," he said.

During Kirk's recent visit to Washington, he was reported to have told President Truman that he wished to be relieved. Kirk now is attending the United Nations General Assembly meeting in Paris.

In Paris, State Department sources said Kirk probably will be sent to post-war Germany in April. He would replace U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy, who also is known to have asked to be relieved of his post next spring.

Prisons Council Favors Training And Pay System

RALEIGH (UP)—If the Prisons Council has its way, Tar Heel prisoners will learn useful trades while serving their time and perhaps be paid an incentive wage for their work.

The council recommended that prisoners be taught skills which would help them earn lawful incomes after their release, and it suggested a study of the advantages of incentive pay. It also recommended an administrative assistant to supervise an "effective" classification system for grading prisoners.

Dr. William McGhee of Spray, council chairman, said at the group's meeting here yesterday that the Lincoln City new system would serve to encourage prisoners to strive for better work to provide them with spending money, and to enable them to build small funds for use in re-establishing themselves. Prison law now allows no pay to prisoners.

Mr. Truman, making the trip in his four-engined plane, Independence, will fly back to Key West tomorrow.

"The purpose of the trip is politics and nothing but politics," Busby said. "Why Mr. Truman should have the free use of a plane that is paid for out of the Air Force's funds is beyond me."

Utilities Board Votes To Raise Pay Of Employees

Commission Holds 'Semi-Secret' Session To Act On Tentative Increase

Some 67 employees of the Greenville Utilities Commission may get a five percent salary increase January 1 as a result of a resolution passed by the commission in a semi-secret session last night.

Commission Chairman J. Roy Martin this morning denied there was anything secret about the meeting although Superintendent Martin Swartz said when the meeting was planned it was the consensus of the board that the meeting was not to be notified of the meeting. Despite an inquiry by The Reflector yesterday morning about a pending meeting of the Utilities Commission, it was not informed about the meeting to be held at the city hall last night.

The resolution passed by the Utilities Commission last night set up a tentative five percent cost-of-living salary increase for the 67 employees of the commission who are paid on a monthly basis. There is a possibility that the five percent figure may be altered when the utilities officials and the city administrative officials confer to establish a uniform wage hike for all city employees as has been the policy in the past.

If the five percent salary increase is confirmed for the 67 utilities employees, it will cost the commission an estimated $800 to $900 per month. In the event the five percent pay increase is applied to the hourly workers of the Utilities Commission as well as to the 67 employees paid on monthly salaries, the dollars and cents cost will be considerably more, although no action has been reported in reference to pay increases for hourly wage earners of the commission.

No estimate was immediately available on the additional cost to the city in the event the five percent salary hike was applied to the 93 other city employees in addition to those under the Utilities Commission.

Employees under all the departments of the city of Greenville were granted a 10 percent across the board wage increase late last winter, and recently the finance committee of the board of aldermen turned down a request for an additional salary increase for members of the police department and fire department.

Building Project In Final Stages

Robersonville School Addition To Be Finished By Next April

ROBERSONVILLE—Work on this Martin County town's newest school building addition is moving along on schedule, and will be completed in the latter part of April, 1952, if there is no material hold-up, it was learned today.

Begun in April of this year, the large building will house a new gymnasium and lunchroom, with a capacity of serving more than 300 students daily.

In addition to the gym and lunchroom, classrooms, lockers, dressing rooms and showers for use by the athletic teams will be included in the unit.

Cost of the project, which was let by the Martin County Board of Education in December of 1950, is $163,000. This figure includes all plumbing, heating and electrical outfit. It does not, however, include the equipping of the building, Principal C. B. Martin stated.

The gym measures 110 feet by 85 feet and will have a seating capacity of 1200 persons. Bleacher-type seats will be used.

General contractors for the project are the J. N. Bryan Construction Company of Raleigh, while heating contracts were let to the

Communists Open 'Futile' Attacks

Smaller Nations Talk Arms Issue

Major Powers Are Silent In Debate On Disarmament

PARIS (UP)—A Brazilian representative in the United Nations appealed to Russia today to accept Western disarmament proposals because world tension "is reaching the boiling point."

Marlo de Pimentel Brandao, one of three smaller nations' spokesmen who took the rostrum before the U.N.'s main political committee, said responsibility for the success or failure of the disarmament plans rested squarely on the Soviet Union—"the sphinx that sits among us."

Speakers for Peru and Haiti also supported the disarmament proposals of the United States, Britain and France. But no major power wanted to talk about the issue—not even Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei V. Vishinsky. The session was adjourned until tomorrow for lack of speakers.

The Brazilian described U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson's speech yesterday outlining the disarmament plan as "a model of moderation and restraint."

"The USSR should have the wisdom not to refuse the hand that is being extended to it," he said.

The West proposed meanwhile that the U.N. set up a watch-dog commission to observe Soviet threats against Yugoslavia's frontiers. Russia and Poland asked for time to answer the proposal, which sponsored by France, Mexico, U.S., Britain and Greece.

Effect Of 'Baby' A-Bomb Studied In New Series

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Atomic scientists today studied how much danger a baby nuclear blast did to military equipment, fortifications and materiel.

The first blast of this new series of atomic tests necessary before atomic weapons are used in combat was set off yesterday.

The explosion was neither felt or heard here. The blast went "up into the sky like a flaming rocket."

It was indicated the next detonation would not be set off for several days in order to allow the Atomic Energy Commission and scientists time to make a complete study of the effects of the explosion.

Some 250 special troops studied the demonstration yesterday. An official for the military termed it "very effective."

SMOKE NO FIRE PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Nearly a score of fire engines raced to a packing house last night when dense smoke poured from the building. There was no fire. It was only workmen smoking hams.

Beaten Off, And Allies Re-Capture Hill They Took; Eighth Army Grinds Out Small Gains On Eastern Front Though Action Light

8TH ARMY HQ, Korea (UP)—Hundreds of shouting Chinese Reds threw futile attacks at the Allies on the Korean western front today. The Communists pushed United Nations forces off a hill west of Yonchon but the Allies retook it in a counter-attack.

The Reds struck in battalion strength—some 800 to 1,000 men—a half hour after midnight after suffering heavy casualties in a vain effort to dent the Allied line a few hours earlier.

This time, the Chinese reached the top of the hill. Regrouping at the foot, the Allies stormed back to the crest and seized it against light small arms and artillery fire in an hour-long fight just before dawn.

On the east-central front, U.N. forces drove ahead nearly a half-mile in high ground northwest of Puchon Valley.

An 8th Army communique reported only patrol activity along the rest of the 135-mile Korean ground front.

The 6th South Korean Division and the 21st regiment of the 8th South Korean Division consolidated newly-won positions after a three-day limited offensive southeast of Kumsong on the rugged central front.

The push advanced the U.N. line more than three miles north of the Pukhan River, which the South Koreans crossed on a nine-mile front Saturday.

An 8th Army briefing officer called the South Korean operation "eminently successful."

AWOL Hillbilly Soldier Is Advised To Return Soon

ABERDEEN, Md. (UP)—The Army today urged Peter Grainger, an AWOL hillbilly recruit who took a 1,000-mile stroll to see a pretty high school girl, to "please come back before you really get in hot water."

Officials at the Aberdeen proving grounds said they were "seriously concerned" about the 26-year-old recruit who came down out of the New Mexico mountains for the first time in his life last month to enlist.

They didn't know whether Grainger still was in Waukesha, Wis., where he went out with a girl for the first time, or whether he was on his way back to camp, as reported by the girl's mother.

"He's just a young soldier who didn't know any better," one official said. "If only he'd come back right away, there'd be no stern discipline."

"But he's definitely over the hill, and we want him," the officer added in a more military manner. "If he doesn't show up in the near future, a pickup-at-sight order will be issued. Then he'll really be in hot water."

First Indication Of Favorable Reply To UN Proposal At Armistice Meet Slated Tonight; Acceptance Does Not End Hostilities, Says Ridgway

TOKYO (UP)—The Chinese Communist radio indicated today that Red negotiators will accept the United Nations "Truce by Christmas" challenge in Korea.

The Communists are scheduled to give their answer to the U.N. proposal at an armistice subcommittee meeting in Panmunjom, Korea, at 11 a. m. Wednesday (9 p. m. EST Tuesday).

Even if the Reds accept the proposal, however, U.N. troops will continue fighting in Korea until a full armistice is signed, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway warned in a formal statement.

Under the U.N. plan, the Allies would yield to the Communist demand that the present battleline become the cease-fire line—provided the rest of the armistice terms are settled within 30 days.

First indication of a favorable reply came from the Peiping radio. It broadcast a dispatch by Alan Winnington, correspondent for the London Daily Worker and frequently the sounding board for the Communist viewpoint in the truce delegations.

Winnington said the Allied plan comprised "roughly the same policy" proposed earlier by the Communists.

Moreover, Winnington said: "The (North) Korean and Chinese delegation told the Americans Monday morning that if both sides make an effort the full armistice agreement should be concluded within 30 days after settlement of item 2 (the cease-fire line) of the agenda."

Ridgway's statement emphasized that Communist acceptance of the U.N. plan would not bring either a cessation of hostilities, a de facto cease-fire, or even a slowdown in Korean ground operations at this time.

"A cease-fire can result only upon mutual acceptance of a complete military armistice agreement," the statement said.

It came on the eve of the Communists' promised reply to an Allied offer to accept the Communist demand that the present battleline become the cease-fire line—provided the rest of the armistice terms are settled within 30 days.

The joint subcommittee working on the cease-fire line problem took a day off today to give the Reds more time to study the Allied proposal—and presumably get instructions from Pyongyang, Peiping and Moscow.

The Communists said they would give their "over-all reply" to the Allied plan at the subcommittee meeting scheduled for 11 a. m. Wednesday (9 p. m. Tuesday EST) at Panmunjom.

First indications were that the Communists would accept the proposal. The two Communist subcommittee members said Saturday the proposal "seems in the main in accordance with our principles."

But the Reds raised a possible new obstacle Monday night. North Korean Foreign Minister Pak Hon Yong sent a four-point proposal from Pyongyang to the United Nations General Assembly in Paris that bore no relation to the present, Panmunjom negotiations.

Radio Pyongyang said Pak demanded an immediate cease-fire, the already-accepted plan for a 2 1/2-mile-wide buffer zone between the opposing armies, the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea, and the punishment of those responsible for "barbarous deeds" against civilians.

SENATOR IMPROVING

RENO, Nev. (UP)—Sen. Pat McCarran, 75, was showing "marked improvement" toward recovery today from a heart attack he suffered three weeks ago.

Grainger, who claims he never saw an automobile, and got a look at only one woman during his years in the hills, disappeared Nov. 12, the day he was supposed to have reported for basic training here.

The last the Army saw of him was when he arrived at the railroad station with a group of 30 recruits from Fort Sam Houston in Texas. An Army spokesman said Grainger apparently got curious while the recruits were waiting for a truck to take them to camp, and told his buddies:

"I guess I'll take a little stroll and see what this Aberdeen looks like."

Two days later, Grainger turned up in Waukesha, a Milwaukee suburb where he had the first date of his life. Seventeen-year-old Carol Amidon, an attractive high school girl, had written Grainger when his first encounter with civilization in mid-October attracted nationwide publicity. Grainger said he got "hundreds of letters" after he joined the Army, but "Carol" appealed to me most.

Rev. Russell Is Rotary Speaker

By WYATT BROWN

Those who have an attitude of gratefulness have almost everything and those without gratitude have almost nothing, declared Reverend Leon Russell, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, when he spoke on "Thanksgiving" to his fellow Rotarians last night at their special Thanksgiving program put on by program chairman J. B. Kittrell. Howard McGinnis read George Washington's proclamation in January 1795, proclaiming the first national Thanksgiving Day to be observed February 19, 1795.

The realistic acknowledgement of how things are and yet to be thankful was denominated true thankfulness by Rev. Russell. It was not the outward circumstances which prompted the Puritans in their first Thanksgiving observance but an attitude of a people who reacted to their world with gratitude, he pointed out. They still had a long period of struggle ahead but they had developed the virtue of gratitude.

"Happiness comes from within for it is something that is created within. Get a man's attitude right and he will be one who outward circumstances will never hurt," he said. The reverse he pointed out for those with gratitude for they know only misery.

"The main thing is your attitude," he declared. "He warned that if one is not happy, chances are one will not be happy elsewhere."

Mr. Russell reminded that it would be easy to find a long list of things to be thankful for in this country rich in material things but that this Thanksgiving time should instead be one for cultivating gratitude.

Dr. McGinnis' reading of the first presidential proclamation revealed that the first national Thanksgiving was not until 1795 and was to thank God for the constitution and peace of the United States. Sam Underwood lead the club members in a special responsive reading. Song Leader Bancroft Moseley led the club in the singing of the hymn, "Come, Ye Thankful People."

The meeting was concluded by Rev. Russell's leading in prayer.

Frank Peterson of Ayden was a visiting Rotarian last night. Eddie Farley was greeted as Junior Rotarian. Charles White, club president, presided.

Scouts Given Use Of Swimming Pool Buildings For Meetings

By ROY HARDEE
The Greenville Recreation Commission in its monthly session last night endorsed use of the old swimming pool locker rooms and office space by the Pitt District of the Boy Scouts of America for meeting space.

Approval of a proposal by Erskine Duff, representing the Council of the Boy Scouts, asking for partial use of the building, was given after the problem had been discussed at length.

Duff cited the dire needs with which the scouts are now faced so far as meeting space is concerned.

"The scouts and their patrols are shoved from one place to another as have no place which they can call their own," Duff pointed out.

Duff stated that the Pitt District would be glad to take care of the heating needed for the building. The commission agreed to this and stated that it would furnish lights for the building.

At the time the converted swimming pool office and locker rooms are serving as a practice area for the Greenville High School band.

The commission voted to allow the band to use the room until after school, then all instruments would be placed under lock and key, making it possible for any interested group to use the building in the afternoons or at night.

Scheduling of events at the building will come through the Recreation director.

Chairman Heber B. Tripp was authorized to look into the matter of purchasing property on the river, adjoining the present owned city property, for future expansion of the Negro Playground in that section. Estimated value of the land was placed at about $1500.

A resolution was drawn up for presentation to the Board from the Commission that should the United Service Organization be re-elected in the city, due to the increasing number of service men coming here, that it would come under the Recreation Commission.

A step towards future expansion of the recreational program was made by the Commission in requesting that six tennis courts, part of a city master plan for recreation still in the blue-print stage, be laid out and asphalted.

Director Warren Carroll pointed out that the six courts, two to be located in South Greenville for use of the Negro citizens, and four in the Little League football region, could be fixed now at a saving.

The matter was referred to the Board of Aldermen for approval, provided the necessary funds can be obtained.

Also included in the plans are additional football and baseball fields and community building, along with swimming pools. Director Carroll in reply to a question of how long will it be before the city can have a swimming pool, said "they are out for the time being under the regulations given in Washington governing the use of building materials."

Director Carroll announced the resignation of Miss Jo Hunter, who has served as assistant in the program here since the early part of the summer. Miss Hunter resigned to accept a teaching post.

Carroll stated that he had been unable to find a replacement for Miss Hunter, but believed that he could fill in the position with a part-time worker. The approval of the commission was given to the part-time worker. Other business matters taken up dealt with the commission purchasing a movie camera, with the Fire and Police Departments, for training purposes, and the buying of a combination file cabinet and safe for the office.

Carroll stated that attendance at the local Teen Age Club continues to be slack while the Negro Recreation program is moving along steadily.

Bottlers Pledge Cooperation In Sign Removals

RALEIGH (AP)—Tar Heel bottlers have promised to cooperate in the campaign for the voluntary removal of advertising signs from highway right-of-way.

This was reported yesterday by State Highway Commission Chairman Henry W. Jordan. He said he had been told by Fred O. Bowman of Chapel Hill, executive secretary of the North Carolina Bottlers Association, that the bottlers will support the campaign.

Leaders of the Tar Heel petroleum industry pledged their cooperation earlier this month.

State Attorney General Harry McMillan has ruled that signs encroaching on highway rights-of-way may be removed by the highway commission.

Belvoir Student Wins Pitt-Wide Speech Contest

Robert Bright of the Belvoir High School was chosen as winner last night at WOTO in the county-wide "voice of Democracy" contest, sponsored by the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Bright won over three other finalists from the county with his five-minute transcribed speech, "I Speak For Democracy." His was judged by W. W. Speight, C.J. Goodman, and Dr. M. N. Posey. Students from grades 10 through 12 all over the county were eligible to participate in the contest and the last four finalists were Bright; Bobby Langston, Greenville; Guitta Cannon, Farmville; and Wilbur Jackson, Ayden.

The winner will be presented a $25.00 Savings Bond at the next meeting of the Jaycees and he is eligible to compete in the statewide contest which will be in progress between November 25 and December 15. The state winner will compete in the national contest in which a $500.00 college scholarship, a week's trip to Washington, D. C., and other prizes will be awarded.

W. H. Watson, project chairman, said he wished to express his appreciation to the other two members of the committee, Louis Gaylord, Jr., and Kenneth Hite, in the work they have done toward making the contest possible.

"It is the intention of the Jaycees," Watson said, "to have the contestants present at the next meeting to give their speeches and the bond will be presented to Bright."

Tone's Marriage Already On Rocks

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Blonde Barbara Payton flounced out on Franchot Tone after a bitter quarrel late yesterday and told friends she'll wind up their 53-day marriage by filing a divorce suit today.

Her attorney, Robert Feder, said "She is sorry the marriage didn't work, but she is now contemplating legal action."

Barbara, who only 24 hours ago lost her movie contract, said she will charge her bridegroom of seven weeks with the time-tested Hollywood excuse of "mental cruelty."

On the other side of the fence, Tone's pals insisted he's the one who's going to file.

"He's been conferring with his lawyer, Henry Hartshorn, for some time about it," one friend said. "I wouldn't be surprised if Barbara tried to file, but Franchot's going to jump the gun on her."

Even during their honeymoon days, the spokesman said, Tone has had a detective following Barbara. "So I'm sure," the friend said, "that Franchot will be the one to go to court."

Mrs. Kent Moglin, friend of the newlyweds said their wedding bliss must have blown-up suddenly around dinner time last night.

"I called Barbara at six o'clock," she explained, "and everything was lovey-dovey then. I don't know anything about a separation or divorce."

But a lawyer friend of the curvaceous starlet said Barbara stomped out of their hillside love-nest after a bitter quarrel.

"They had a terrible fight," the friend said. "It was about the same old stuff. Franchot was jealous and Barbara lost her temper. She moved in with a friend in Beverly Hills."

The friend also said Tone has had a detective following Barbara "ever since the fight."

This rift led to the now-famous pre-dawn brawl Tone had with actor Tom Neal over which one was going to marry Barbara. The fight that followed sent Tone to the hospital with a brain concussion, broken nose and fractured cheekbone. The next day, Barbara went to Tone's bedside and announced that Tone was the man she loved after all.

Two weeks later they were married in her aunt's home in Cloquet, Minn.

Highest temperature here yesterday was 49 degrees. Lowest last night, 19, and at 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 25 degrees. Heavy frost occurred last night.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature was 60 degrees. Lowest that night, 46, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 65.

LEARNING VERSUS WISDOM
There is a vast difference between information and education. Some entirely ignorant people are walking encyclopedias of information. They have a mass of facts in their heads but they never seem to be able to relate these facts to the practical issues of life in a helpful fashion.

Educators are in the habit of saying that in the learning process a person must not only acquire knowledge of a fact but must understand the meaning of that fact. And the "meanings," as they are called, are what make the difference between a person possessing information as contrasted with a person having real wisdom. In fact it can be said that wisdom is the ability to use knowledge helpfully.

It is most arresting to contemplate the fact that Christianity, mighty in its influence upon every aspect of life for the last 2000 years, was started by a group of people none of whom had formal education. Our Lord's education was probably not any more than what would have been equal to a high school education in his day. His disciples for the most part appeared to have lacked what we would call today even grammar school education.

Intellect and intelligence are not the same thing. Knowledge and wisdom are not synonymous terms. Wisdom is knowledge in action.

Junior Is Getting An Over Dose Of Crime

If a survey of programs presented during one week by seven Los Angeles T-V stations is typical of the programs being carried by all the television stations across the nation, the youngsters are getting an over-dose of crime right in their living rooms.

The survey conducted by the trade publication T-V Magazine said 692 crimes were committed on the television programs of the seven stations during the first week in May. There were 127 murders, 101 justifiable killings, 357 attempted murders, 93 kidnappings, 11 jail breaks and three hot iron brandings.

Even more striking is the fact that 82 per cent of these crimes were committed on programs designed especially for children. The survey showed only 5.5 per cent of the crimes programs are presented after 9 p. m.

With all this crime being committed on television on top of that in the comic books and in the movies, the children of the United States are surely getting more than their share of criminal stories in their realm of entertainment. It would be nice for junior to learn through these wonderful media of communications some of the finer things of life rather than so much about crime.

The Bottom Of The Barrel Has Been Reached

The United States has been facing and struggling with the ever-present tax issue for the past three sessions of Congress. It looks like right now, however, that the real crisis will be reached when Congress convenes in January.

President Truman reportedly is drawing up a $90,000,000,000 budget for the federal government for the coming fiscal year. At the same time Democratic Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado of the Senate Finance Committee and Republican Representative Daniel A. Reed, ranking GOP member of the House Ways and Means Committee have asserted Congress will not approve another tax hike. In the face of the coming elections in November of next year, it is quite likely that the members of Congress will be reluctant to vote taxes any higher than they already are, even though they may be less reluctant to do so come January 1953.

The simple fact is that the economy of the United States can hardly bear more taxes than it already is carrying if free enterprise is to be maintained. . . . and the present tax load can not be carried for many years without wrecking free enterprise in the country. By the same token, the economy of the nation can not stand continued deficit financing at the rate it has been going on for the past few years.

The tax payers, individuals and corporations alike, in the United States have tightened their belts and squeezed out more billions for the government until much more squeezing might choke the life out of the nation's economy as the people know it. Between the demands for more federal spending, and the necessity for reducing the federal spending and the tax load on the nation, there must be some compromise.

Under the present tax structures of the nation, heavy as they are, the government can not expect more than $67 billion in revenue next year. If the budget called for $90 billion, there would be a deficit of $23 billion to be added to the national debt on which at least the interest must be paid.

The only answer to the problem, as The Reflector sees it, is to cut down on the non-essential spending in the federal government. Therein lies the only real solution to the problem. The day of reckoning can be delayed through the false philosophies of economy which are being practiced by the government today, but eventually the government will be called for a settlement of its tremendous debt even though it is owed to the people of the nation.

At the present rate taxes and federal indebtedness are piling up, the people of the United States may soon find themselves confronted with tax structures equal to or even more harsh than those of England where there are only 70 individuals with net incomes after taxes of more than $16,800; and only 320,000 people with net incomes from $2,500 to $4,000.

Whether the people of the United States realize it or not, we are fast approaching the point of no return.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Senator Robert A. Taft's literary effort to repudiate his reputation as an "isolationist," as evidenced by publication of his recent book on foreign affairs, is matched in the domestic field by a fairly successful attempt to discredit the charge that he is anti-labor. He has recently won the left-handed praise, if not the ballot-box support, of powerful labor factions.

Mr. Taft's accomplishments in this field have escaped general notice, but they have made a deep impression in union circles. He has shown a willingness to modify the Taft-Hartley Act in a manner that removes many of its original restrictions on unionizing workers.

As evidence of his avowed desire to treat capital and labor fairly, there is the fact that he was joined in the modification movement by such a radical as Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, a Farmer-Labor-Democrat.

MEASURE—One Taft-introduced measure was so satisfactory to the CIO that President Truman signed it into law. It makes it possible for employers and employees to write a union-shop agreement without first holding an election under National Labor Relations Board auspices to determine which union, AFL or CIO, the workers prefer.

Although CIO President Philip Murray continues to denounce Mr. Taft, this measure saved his bacon by preventing raids on his unions. It validated all agreements made with employers before union officials were forced to sign anti-Communist affidavits. It overrode a Supreme Court ruling that these contracts were invalid, and would have to be renegotiated.

LOGIC—Had Mr. Murray been forced by the high tribunal's decision to renounce his mass production plants now expanding under the vast rearmament program, he might have lost some of them to the AFL or to the Lewis brothers' formidable, catch-all organization known as District 50.

Cold Taft logic led him to back this plan, although it seems to force workers into unions they might not want to join. Experience showed that the unions had won 96 per cent of the elections held by NLRB. So, it seemed wise to save both industrial time and government money by eliminating the requirement for elections.

RIVALRIES—The other labor relief measure sponsored by Senator Taft also had the backing of Senator Humphrey, who once headed the Americans for Democratic Action, which represents the Roosevelt wing of the party in power. Although it was on the verge of passing the Senate, it was finally returned to committee because of jurisdictional rivalries it provoked within the unions.

The bill eliminated the provision for representative NLRB elections in the building trades unions. Indeed, it seemed to violate the general philosophy of the Taft-Hartley Act by requiring construction workers to join the union seven days after they went on the job. T-H legislation was originally designed to give more freedom to employees from labor union domination.

GRATITUDE—Mr. Taft agreed to the amendment because construction workers move from job to job so frequently that it is almost impossible to hold stable elections. But it was fought bitterly by the AFL Machinists and the CIO, which feared it might force their members into rival unions.

It did, however, cheer the Building Trades Unions, which comprise three million of the AFL's overall membership of eight million. In fact, probably in gratitude to the Senator, Richard J. Gray, head of the construction workers' organization, suggested that labor take a second look at both Mr. Truman and Mr. Taft, if they should be the 1952 opponents.

PATTERN—Mr. Gray said that the Administration's labor record was so "full of flaws" that it might be advisable for the workers to "think about voting Republican." Apparently, many followers took his advice, for the Republicans carried numerous industrial cities in the November 6 elections.

The importance to organized labor of these Taft-sponsored changes in election and unionizing procedure is that they coincide with the enrollment of millions of new men and women in the defense effort. The membership gains registered by the rival organizations now will fix the pattern for many years ahead, when the working population will probably hit an all-time peak of sixty-five or seventy million.

MANEUVERS—Although "Mister Republican" is best known as the "intellectual" leader of his party on Capitol Hill, these maneuvers show that it is also an extremely practical and hard-bellied politician. They are aimed directly at the Eisenhower candidacy, which represents the only real obstacle to the Ohioan's first-ballot nomination.

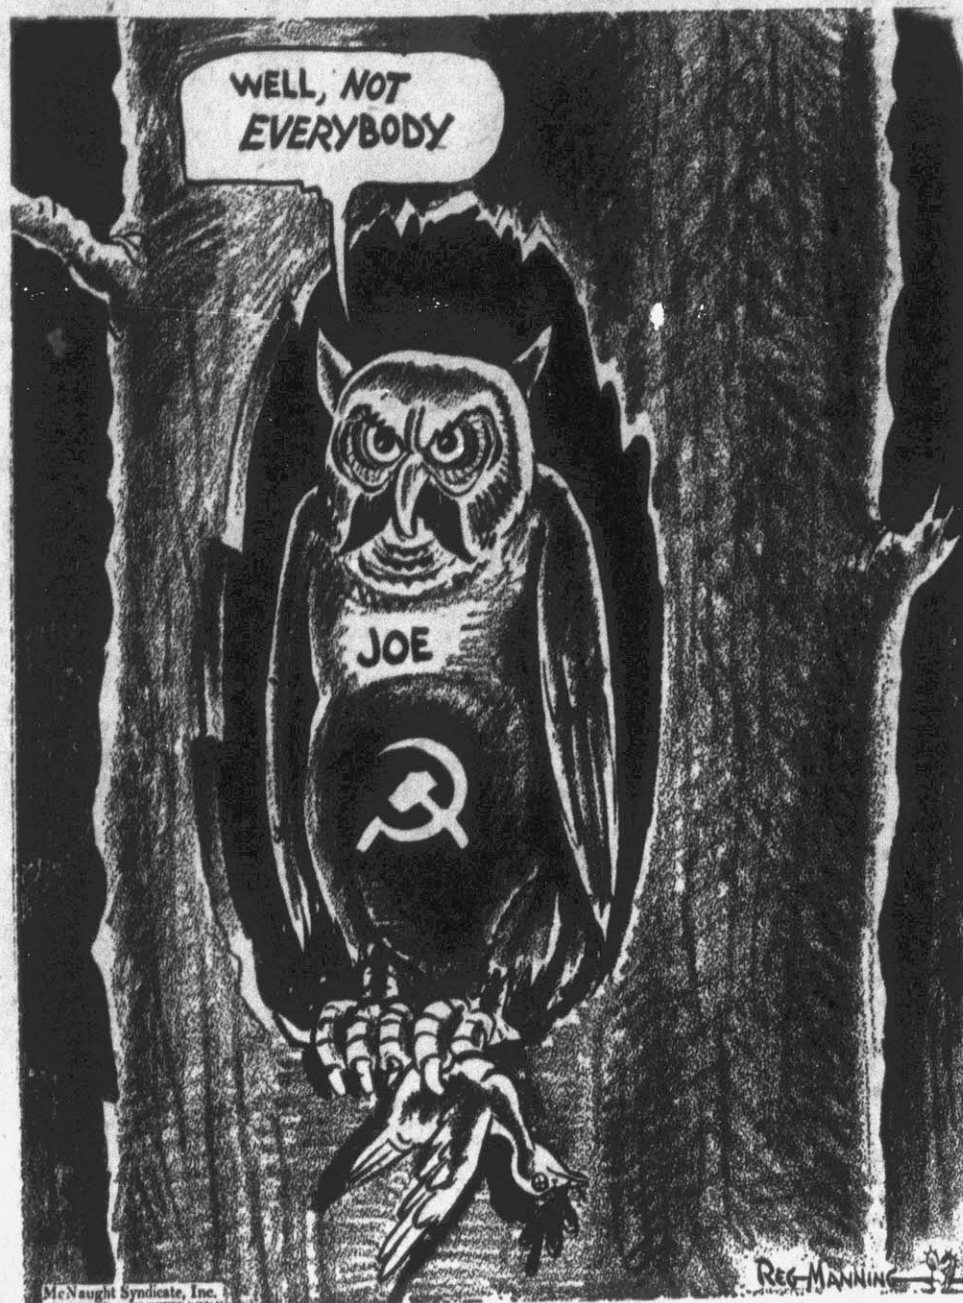

They are designed to win over politicians frightened by the Dewey-Duff-Darby insistence that "Taft cannot get the labor vote." They are intended to smash labor's 20-year alliance with the Democrats at the polls. Therefore, even if Mr. Taft should not be the nominee, his admittedly selfish striving in this field may redound to the benefit of the G.O.P. generally.

BAY CITY, MICH., VALLEY FARMER: "By using the tax resources of government to compete overwhelmingly with private industry, the Social Planners constitute themselves a living trap. The people in whose name the plant is grown—may fall for the flower but in so doing, they also fall in and are swallowed up."

OSKALOOSA, IOWA, HERALD: "Senator George, chairman of the senate finance committee, said that he had voted for his last tax increase, short of actual war. There can be substantial cuts in the Federal outlay, he said, if there is any strong will in the executive departments to accomplish them. Senator George could see no evidence of such will."

Everybody Longs For The Light

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Got an interesting story today about tomatoes, but before I start let me remind you of the Service League Follies of 1951 tonight and tomorrow night at the Austin Auditorium, East Carolina College. It's a great show, and the proceeds go for a worthy cause.

Last week there was a lady in New York by the name of Tillie Lewis of Stockton, Calif. She was staying in the swanky St. Regis Hotel, and decided that she wanted two tomatoes, just plain tomatoes. So, she called for room service and a waiter brought up two tomatoes and a bill for $1. Tillie blew her stack, said to the waiter, "You can tell Vincent Astor (the owner of the hotel) that these tomatoes cost him more than a nickel apiece, that's 1,000 per cent profit." The waiter, "I guess you know your tomatoes."

The waiter didn't know it, but he was talking to the tomato queen of America. In fact, Tillie calls herself the world's queen and one of the nation's largest independent canners of fruits and vegetables. This year she says she will net $120,000 after taxes.

At the age of 15 Tillie married a Brooklyn wholesale grocer who imported pear-shaped Italian tomatoes which make the best spaghetti sauce. She later divorced the grocer but didn't forget the tomatoes. In 1934 tariffs were so high that Italian tomatoes went out of reason in price. Tillie began to think about growing them in this country. Everybody told her it was impossible. "The soil isn't right," they said. But Tillie went to Italy, got seed, and talked an Italian importer into putting $50,000 into a project to grow them in California.

In California, Tillie talked farmers into helping with the experiment. It worked. Now pear-shaped tomatoes make up about 10 per cent of California's crop. Tillie talked Pacific Can Company into building a small plant near Stockton, with an option for her to buy. In 1935, her first year, she lost $1,000 but paid all her bills. One day when her boilers went on the blink she got a railroad to move in a locomotive, used its steam to complete the canning before the tomatoes spoiled.

Tillie loves her tomatoes. She says, "To see those rich red tomatoes against the white conveyor belt and the gleaming cars traveling overhead—well, it's really beautiful."

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Reflector Bureau

By LYNN NIBBET

COLOR — S. T. Henry of Spruce Pine, whose varied business interests include publishing and mining, but whose main job is boosting his section, said Saturday there is still some good color in the mountains. He can't recall another season when the mountainsides were so colorful so late in the fall. He will argue with anybody who says the color was not up to standard this year. Very early in the season there was fear the hues might be dull instead of having their usual brilliance, but as oaks and other hardwoods came into full color there was no complaint about brilliance.

DUPLICATION — There is a lot of duplication in duplicating activities around Capitol Square. Governor Scott recently appointed a committee, with his secretary John Marshall as chairman, to study possibility of setting up one central office or plant where most of the mimeographing and other duplicating processes for most if not all the departments could be done. Marshall heard that Indiana had such a system, and went on from the Governor's conference at Hot Springs to investigate the operations at Indianapolis. He says he got some good ideas, susceptible to adaptation in this state, but on the whole found enough difference in budget and administrative policies to render copying the system impossible. Indiana does have a central office, but a great deal of the work is "farmed out" to private shops in the state.

TOUGH — Dewey Dorsett, former chairman of the state industrial commission and now a top brass insurance executive in New York, had a tough decision to make. He was in Raleigh to present an award for highway safety education in the North Carolina public schools to Governor Scott, and he liked that part of his job. Dorsett is an alumnus of the university and an enthusiastic supporter of the Carolina football team. He is also an active churchman, chairman of the finance committee of the Presbyterian church in his New Jersey home town. Carolina was having its biggest football game Saturday, and the New Jersey church had staged its every member canvass for raising the budget for Sunday. Dorsett desperately wanted to take in both events. But he missed the ball game.

AWARD — In presenting the plaque in recognition of driver education in our schools, Dorsett recalled that a few days ago newspapers reported that in Korea the one millionth American soldier had been killed in battle. The national safety council has figured that before Christmas the one millionth fatal automobile traffic accident will occur. In all the wars since the United States became a nation, one million soldiers have died in battle. In the half century that automobiles have traversed American highways, one million people have died in accidents. In acceptance, the award, Governor Scott commented that if any foreign power would slaughter American people at that rate the whole world would rise in horror and fight to end such a program. Unfortunately, the traffic accidents are sort of accepted and nobody does very much about it—except talk.

PARALLEL — There wasn't anything new in the answer, although the question had a new twist—which the governor recognized. It is interesting to note the way the story was reported. A. P. — The Associated Press, represented by Allen Alexander, said: "Roy Parker, publisher of a string of papers in the eastern part of the state, asked the Governor: "From the public's standpoint, how do you feel about the delay in holding up the Virginia Electric Power Company's application to erect a dam on the Roanoke River?" That was exactly the way your own reporter understood the question. Greensboro Daily News: Arthur Johnsey, capitol representative of the Greensboro Daily News in a signed story wrote: "Asked how the public will be affected by the government's delay in allowing Virginia Electric and Power Company to build a hydro plant at Roanoke Rapids," etc.

News and Observer: Woodrow Price was at the conference for the Raleigh morning paper and next day had a paragraph in Under the Doe beginning as follows: "When Roy Parker, Ashokle newspaper publisher, asked for his thoughts on the attempt by Virginia Electric & Power Company to jump in ahead of the government with a power dam at Roanoke Rapids, the governor had plenty to say." That was an entirely different question from the one the other reporters heard asked.

There was essential agreement in the report of what Governor Scott said. That was reiteration of his belief that Secretary Chapman is right in his attitude, because to let VEPCO build the dam would mean the government doing the expensive dirty work and private enterprise getting the cream; and because if private enterprise wanted to build dams the Cape Fear river is open; and anyway, private companies are going more into steam generation. The statements were in effect an answer to the question which the Raleigh paper put into Mr. Parker's mouth, but they did not touch upon the question which Parker really asked—the probably effect of delay upon the public interest.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

McKINNEY'S FIRST MOVE

(Wilson Daily Times)

If Truman isn't a candidate in 1952, all the straws are blowing the wrong way. He's undoubtedly the choice of all the office-holders and now the new Democratic chairman, Frank E. McKinney, maintains he can win. He was, one of the broadcasting systems told us, the most likely man, according to the delegates at the recent Democratic meeting.

To get him in line, however, McKinney insisted on the air of respectability if not respectability itself. So he prevailed on the President to agree to put the 64 Internal Revenue collectors under Civil Service. At a later press conference, he asked, "Will any member of Congress vote against losing 64 jobs?" But the department as well as 50,000 employees. Are not they political plums, too, and will the politicians vote to free them from their party adherence?

After 1948 Truman was something like Roosevelt after 1936. He had grown to look on himself as infallible. But since the scandals of this year, a great change has been noticeable. Neither the President nor the party members want the public to think that they're callous toward dishonesty. So they're moving in to clean house, to attain the air of respectability, if not respectability. It may have the effect they desire. But they've given the enemy much in the way of ammunition, and regardless of what they do now, they can expect to dodge shells when the fighting gets under way next year.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Small manufacturers may be confronted with a unit cost squeeze as smaller allocations of materials are made next year. This squeeze has been discussed by manufacturers before but, because shortages have pinched only a few of them, it has remained more theoretical than real. It may soon move from the discussion to the pocketbook stage. Each item a manufacturer produces carries a share of the total overhead and, unless the manufacturer is operating by guess and happenstance, the overhead is reflected in his pricing.

Thus, if a manufacturer is turning out 10,000 items a month, and if his rent, depreciation, insurance, management and other fixed costs total $5,000 a month, the overhead chargeable to each item is 50 cents. In pricing his line, the manufacturer must take this cost into consideration just as much as he considers the cost of raw materials and labor. But if the manufacturer can get only half as much raw material, he can make only 5,000 items a month and each one must carry a $1 share of the fixed charges.

As it looks now, the added 50 cents will have to come out of profits. The Office of Price Stabilization has no provision for increasing ceiling prices under these conditions. If raw materials, labor, shipping and taxes go up, the manufacturer has a basis for seeking a higher ceiling price. But so far, a rise in unit cost resulting from curtailed production will get him nowhere with the OPS.

This hits small manufacturers harder than it does large ones. Or, more specifically, it hits those who make civilian goods solely harder than it does those who can obtain defense contracts. The latter can, quite properly, assign part of their fixed charges to defense work. But the company without full-volume business can only absorb the per-unit increase in overhead. OPS TAX RULING

PUZZLES RETAILERS
There is another little joker in OPS regulations, retailers say.

The OPS allowed retailers to add a third of a cent per bottle of beer to compensate for the higher tax. But the OPS rules also provide that fractional prices must be shifted to the nearest cent.

So a retailer, who has been selling three bottles of beer for 45 cents can increase the price to 46 cents. But he can't increase the price of a single bottle, because it would rise to 15 1/3 cents and then go right back down to 15 cents under the fraction rule. Some retailers are asking OPS to clarify this point before they go cra-a-a-zy.

SLOW-MOVERS TURNED INTO FAST-MOVERS

An Iowa market has devised a truly ingenious promotion. It has erected a large wheel of fortune in the store. Opposite each number is the name of a product. At intervals a bell is rung and the wheel is spun. When it stops, every shopper with the winning item in her cart gets it free.

Of course, the idea creates an air of excitement and the hope of something for nothing, which lure shoppers into the market. But more than that, all the products listed on the wheel are slow movers. Each shopper who studies the list of items is tempted to take these items.

GAS HEATERS FAILING

TO REACH 1950 MARKS
Shipment of automatic gas heaters rose from September to October, but it is doubtful that the year's total will equal that of 1950.

October shipments totaled 157,700, according to the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association. This brings the total for ten months to 1,672,000, compared with 1,954,000 in the same months last year.

FOREIGN AID GETS HEDGED APPROVAL

Although 54 per cent of the purchasing agencies polled by Purchasing magazine believe that methods now being used to help foreign economies may be permanently harmful to free enterprise, 66 per cent believe it should be continued anyway. They think the danger of aggression is greater than the danger to free enterprise. However, 42 per cent believe foreign aid should be scaled down and 13 per cent believe it should be reduced drastically.

NEW PRODUCTS

DOLL: What is said to be one of the few truly Negro dolls is being introduced by Ideal Toy Corp., 200 Fifth Ave., New York 10. Most other dolls for colored children have been made in molds for white dolls and colored differently, or they have been comic parodies.

BATH: A preparation especially for babies' baths is being marketed by Sterling Drug Co., 1450 Broadway, New York. It is said to make baths pleasant and soapy without the addition of soap, oil or creams.

BOOT: Replicas of Santa's boot for front door holiday decorations are getting fancier. The latest, by Town-Line, MFG Co., 106-04 Jamaica Ave., Richmond Hill, N. Y., is 29 inches long, made of red and white quilted plastic, and decorated with pine cone, holly and jingle bells. It is weather resistant.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Notebook jottings by a Pavement Flaco: One of the sadder aspects of the weird times we live in is the unexpected impact they have on the minds of your young.

The other night a father woke up to hear his small son crying bitterly in the dark. He arose and went into the boy's room to find out what was wrong. "I forgot the Lord's Prayer, Daddy," sobbed his son. "But you said it just before you went to bed," said the father.

"I know," replied the child. "But I dreamed I was talking to a scientist, and he told me all the air was escaping from the earth, and everybody in the world would soon be dead. And I tried to say the Lord's prayer, and I couldn't remember it." The father soothed his fears and said, "Of course, you remember it, son. Let's say it together."

And they chanted, "Our Father, who art in heaven—" Soon the small boy was sound asleep again. But the father stayed awake for a long, long time. Manhattan snapshot: An old lady, out walking her dog, paused at a First Avenue doorway in which a dirty-whiskered bum lay curled, his eyes closed, majestically at peace.

The elderly derelict got up and muttered belligerently: "What do you say? I heard you."

"I said you're a bad boy," replied the old lady sternly, pulling back her dog. "Thass right, thass right," agreed the bum, lying back contentedly. "You got a sixth sense, Lady."

To members of the Worry-Of-The-Month Club: Get ready now to wrinkle your brows over our December selection: What to do about old vests?

We feel that this should be perhaps our most popular worry-of-the-month during 1951. Many men complain their closets are bulging with old vests they no longer wear. They refuse to throw them away, however, and wives say they can't use them to make skirts.

What will be done with all the nation's old vests? Don't wait until December. Start worrying about this problem now. It deserves your best anxiety.

All four gave the same answer: "Recess!"

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — As in 1940 and again in 1948 when he campaigned for the presidency, Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) will have his wife's support in 1952 when campaigning for the Republican nomination.

Convincing from a serious heart ailment, she will not be able to accompany him on his strenuous speaking tour. But as his close confidant—seen and lived-with as over—Sen. Taft says she is taking "an active interest" in his campaign.

The "Bob and Martha team" became well known in 1938 when Mr. Taft was running for the Senate from Ohio. The term was applied to them again in the 1940 presidential campaign. But during the convention Martha made a name for herself as a political factor on her own. She held press conferences and talked about her husband. Eighty per cent of the attendance was male.

In 1948 Mrs. Taft again was the senator's No. 1 booster, advising him and writing and listening to his speeches. Her big job was to project the senator's position and his personality in a sympathetic light. She said she would emphasize her husband's "courage, frankness, honesty and, of course, his ability." She said she thought his least understood quality was his ability to get along with people.

Martha Taft, trained in politics from strong opinions, a sense of humor and an unbridled platform personality. Her wit, criticisms and pungent phrases have been quoted everywhere. "To err is Truman," was one of her 1948 devastations.

Mrs. Taft is at the family residence in Cincinnati but expects to return to the family's Washington home in fashionable Georgetown with the senator in January. This home, filled with books, family antiques and gay color, was described by Martha Taft's close friend, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, as "the kind of a home that has a cookie jar instead of a bar in the pantry." Moving about the White House would not be a new experience to her. As Martha Wheaton Bowers, daughter of the solicitor general in President William Howard Taft's administration, she was often invited to the White House by the President's son, Bob.

Let Love Alone

Chapter 19

It was a few days later that Jan received another wire from Ray. It merely stated that he and Bernice had landed at Burbank and that another wire would follow shortly when he knew the exact time for the take-off on his important test flight. It ended by telling Jan to stand by and listen in over the radio tower and to keep her fingers crossed. This time it was signed, Love, Ray. There was no message from Bernice.

The final wire for which she had been waiting arrived. This was it. Ray was to take off, alone, for the test at daylight the next morning. Her alarm before she went to bed that night. She planned to be up the next morning at daylight. There would probably not be any more word from Ray for a while, until the silver ship got within pick up range. But there would be other flashes relayed to report the progress of the flight.

Jan need not have set the alarm, as she scarcely closed an eye all night and was up and dressed before the clock could go off. There was hardly any traffic out to the airport. She went directly to the tower to climb the steep iron ladder that led into the tiny tower room.

Hank greeted her, as he was there, too. Jan knew the radio man whose name was Mac.

"Any news yet?" Jan asked when Mac swung around, after his first brief greeting, to face her from his high stool. Mac was Irish. He had a homely honest face.

"All we know so far is that Ray took off okay," Mac replied. "Probably won't be much more until he flies over Wichita. Of course he got a start, as the time out there is earlier."

Since there would not be any news for a while she sat down in the only chair in the small enclosure when Hank insisted she do so. "You might as well settle down and make yourself as comfortable as you can," he said. "Maybe you can snatch a few more winks."

Jan said she had all the sleep she would be able to get. She was so keyed up that her nerves were like taut wires.

"What altitude do you suppose Ray is flying at?" she asked. The flight was all that occupied her mind.

She had not much more than put her question when a boy came up from the teletype room with a message. It was the first direct relay from the silver ship. It had been sent to the Department of Commerce from Wichita. It read: "Estimated position fifty miles east. Altitude fifty thousand. Everything okay. It was signed with Ray's last name: Richmond. "Whew!" Mac emitted a long whistle.

"That answers your question, Jan," Hank added. "I imagine Ray will settle on that altitude for his cruising speed." He dug in a pocket, consulted an old-fashioned watch. "It's seven forty-three. He's been on his way about two hours."

Evening okay, Jan was saying to herself. There was comfort in the phrase, brief as it was. It was the way Ray would have said it. Some of her tension gave way, and her nerves relaxed.

"I'll be some time yet," Mac said. "Before we can pick up Ray's call letters. Why don't you run along and get yourself something to eat, Jan? If you wouldn't mind, I sure could use some hot java now about you, Hank?"

"Sure could," Hank agreed. He was thinking that it was pretty rough on a young kid like Jan Lawrence to have the guy she was going to marry making a test flight like this. Jan was a game kid. Pretty too; her face so flushed, eyes bright as could be. No wonder, Ray was so crazy over her. Jan hated to leave the tower for even a short while. She did not want to risk missing that first direct word from Ray. She was not hungry; she had no appetite for days. But of course she could not refuse to get coffee for Hank and Mac.

"I'll run along," she smiled at them. "I'll even try to eat something if you insist. But if you dare contact Ray before I get back, I'll never forgive you!"

"If I do, I'll send the whole outfit on the run after you," Mac laughed. He rolled his eyes comically. "Golly, Ray is one lucky chap. Wish I could get some gal so hot up over me that she wouldn't want to eat!"

"Don't be silly!" Warm color flooded her pretty young face. Yet she did not mind such teasing as much as she would have before.

It was not she told herself, Ray she was so worked up about; it was his flight. Ray of course Ray was all right and would come through safe and sound. It meant so much, however, for the tests to come out successfully too.

She managed to drink some coffee, eat part of the buttered toast, but this much food seemed to stick in her throat. She told the waitress to fix a pot of coffee and some toast so he could take it to the tower. While waiting for this she walked over to the hangar where Ray kept the plane he usually flew. He had asked her to wait until his return before she tried her solo. He need not have asked that; Jan knew she was far too jittery. Besides, she still preferred Ray as a teacher to anyone else.

Another one of the mechanics greeted her and asked for news. He said, when she revealed what she knew, that he bet Ray would beat all previous records for speed and altitude. "If it can be done, he's the lad to do it!" this mechanic said.

They all thought so much of Ray. It was evident that everyone who knew and worked with him admired and respected him and had faith in him.

"Ray will come through with bells on," Jan agreed. She had that same faith. She smiled to herself at her choice of Ray's own familiar expression.

Chapter 20

She picked up the tray and hurried back to the tower. Yet she took time to stop at the weather bureau for the latest report. Weather could be so risky. But thank goodness it was all in Ray's favor—unlimited ceiling, no danger of storms or fog.

She saw that there were several bulletins on the bulletin board giving reports of the flight. They told her nothing new, however. She hurried on up the steep steps to the tower. That little glassed-in room was mighty important to her! And the second she entered she knew that something important was taking place. Hank was on his feet, head bent, listening, wearing a wide grin, and Mac signaled to her wildly to come over closer, at the same time warning her with a shake of his not to talk.

Her heart began its painful hammering once more. To her ears the sounds coming through were only a scrambled jumble, not very distinguishable. And then, as Mac held up a hand, clear yet very faint came Ray's call letters! "JB...JBHLP...calling DRK..." those were the tower letters—"JB...

HLP calling DRK..."

"Oh, Mac, can't you get it louder?" Jan had to ask this, in a low whisper. She did not want to miss one word. She wished her heart would stop being so noisy!

"It would come through louder soon," Mac assured her. "I sensitive fingers worked with the dials. There was nothing but silence, so intense it seemed like a loud noise too. Then Ray's call letters came through once more, much clearer, more distinct, almost as though Ray had suddenly stepped into the little room.

"JBHLP calling DRK. Estimated position borderline of Pennsylvania. Altitude fifty thousand. Breaking all speed records. Everything okay."

Mac gave Jan a triumphant look. "How's that?" he demanded. "You could get it all, couldn't you?"

"Perfect!" Jan said. Not only could she get it, she was thrilled to her very toes. It was amazing to think that just the familiar sound of someone's voice could thrill a person like that.

She forgot that she was supposed to get a little bit provoked with Ray, so that she had vowed to get even with him for his first big idea. How childish all of that seemed to her now. She forgot everything except the sound of his voice.

"He'll come in again soon," Mac said. Before he does, tell me what message you want me to give him, from you, I mean, Jan."

"You mean you can say something to Ray for me?"

"Sure thing, so make it good!"

What should she say? Instinctively her hand went to the little pin worn over her heart. The pin that must bring Ray luck.

"Tell him that I'm wearing his pin," Jan said. That still did not seem quite enough. But before she could think what else she could say, Mac picked up the microphone once more and Ray's call letters came through.

Mac was speaking into the microphone once again. "DRK calling JBHLP...Jan says to tell you she is wearing your pin. She sends all her love to you."

"Love" Jan gasped. She had not added that.

Mac held up a hand to silence her. He wore a wide grin when he swung around. "Just that about a pin didn't seem enough," he said. "You want him to break all records, don't you?"

Jan did, yet she wondered what Ray would think. But he might have expected her to say that. So it was all right.

It seemed some time before another message came in. It was brief, merely stating the position of the ship, over the All Henies.

"Did you think Richmond's voice sounded a bit funny?" Hank inquired. "Kind of sharp, as I got it."

"I didn't notice," Mac returned. "Ray always speaks so soft and easy-like," Hank said.

That was true, Jan agreed. It took a lot to get Ray to raise his voice, to get him disturbed. Did Hank mean that something might possibly have gone wrong to worry Ray?

It seemed ages before the listened-for call letters came through this next time. E. When it did there was no doubt as to the sharpness in Ray's voice.

Oxygen giving out. Forced to nose down to heavier air. Some fog. Losing altitude fast. Leak in oxygen tube."

Jan's heart leaped into her throat. She grabbed Hank's arm. "Hank, is that bad? What does it mean?" She knew what it meant. Without oxygen Ray could not maintain his altitude, but it need not necessarily mean more trouble.

"Can't tell," Hank said. But he

Emotional Disturbance Results, Says Doctor, If Woman Is Alcoholic

NEW YORK —(UP)— The woman who becomes an alcoholic is more emotionally disturbed than a man who becomes a chronic drinker, says a New York psychiatrist.

Dr. Ruth Fox, chairman of the medical committee on alcoholism and head of the New York alcoholics treatment center, said our long history of frowning more severely on women problem drinkers than on men has made that true.

"A woman who takes to drink to escape her problems bucks a life-time convention," Dr. Fox said. "She's more desperate than the man who drinks too much, because she won't be forgiven as easily as he will."

Blame: Cocktail Parties

"However," Dr. Fox added, "the proportion of women alcoholics in the number of excessive drinkers in the country has risen since the saloon has been replaced by the cocktail party."

Dr. Fox said it is estimated that between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 Americans are excessive drinkers and about 850,000 of them are chronic alcoholics. One out of five of them, she said, are women.

"That proportion," Dr. Fox said, "is high compared with the proportion of excessive drinkers among women in countries where social drinking is frowned on as unbecoming the fair sex, and low compared with one country where women have been drinking with men longer."

Worse In England

"In Norway, for example," she said, "only one alcoholic out of 23 is a woman. In Switzerland, the proportion is one to 12. In both those countries, it's not considered nice for women to drink. On the other hand, in England where women have been drinking with men longer than we have, the proportion of alcoholics is one woman to two men."

"American women," she said, "have been fighting a long time for the right to drink with men without social censure. They have just won that fight."

"However, if we don't learn to judge when the social business of drinking turns into a compulsive need to drink, that right may well turn out to be a Frankenstein freedom for many women, as it has been for many men."

Police Go After Young Gamblers

SINGAPORE —(AP)— A drive is underway against juvenile gamblers. The youngsters, who rarely are above 15, set up stalls in alleys and footpaths and start roulette and "wheel of fortune" games.

First offenders face loss of apparatus and cash in hand. Other offenders can be fined up to $100.

Movies Help In Selecting Mate

MUNICH, Germany —(AP)— A Munich marriage agency makes talking movies of persons seeking a mate. These films are shown to applicants of the opposite sex, instead of the usual still photographs.

The films are much more persuasive, the agency finds. They also help to avoid the disappointments which often result from artistically re-touched photographs. The agency plans to promote exchanges of such films with lonely heart services in America.

Bandit Took His Teeth, No Money

ST. LOUIS —(UP)— William Thornton, 56, was without his false teeth because of an annoyed bandit.

Thornton said a masked robber forced him to put up his hands, grabbed the dental plate from his vest pocket and demanded the victim's wallet.

Thornton said he had left his wallet at home.

The bandit, angry, stuffed the false teeth into his own pocket and escaped.

Speeding Driver Has Good Reason

ST. LOUIS —(UP)— Anthony Sadowski, a pipefitter, was fined $90 after pleading guilty to the following traffic violations:

Passing three stop signs, going through an automatic signal, careless driving and leaving the scene of an accident after his car hit another machine.

Sadowski had a ready explanation for the police. He said he was fleeing from the late husband of a woman with whom he had been drinking beer.

Deer Tangled In Vines Is Freed

CENTRALIA, Ill. —(AP)— Hunters along the Kaskaskia River happened onto a big 5-point buck deer, trapped by grape vines twined rope-like in his antlers.

While others held the buck, one man cut it free. Then, fearful the scared beast might attack, they used trees for protection. But the 300 pounder—perhaps grateful—bounded away.

Alligators Face An 'Open Season'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. —(UP)— Florida's big bull alligators, grown bold to the point of insolence since they were put on the protected game list in 1944, once more have become a target for the hunter.

The state game and fresh water fish commission, prodded by tales of 'gators roaming freely about folks' back yards, voted to permit shooting them between Oct. 1 and Feb. 1.

The alligators, a Florida trade mark, were put on the protected list seven years ago because they were becoming extinct. However, Ross Allen, state reptile expert, said they are abundant now and "it's time they were put in their place."

Only 'gators eight feet or longer can be killed. Allen said the smaller saurians do most of the breeding anyway and will keep up the supply.

State game wardens had reported they've been kept so busy chasing alligators away from people's homes that they have had little time for other work. Recently, a Coral Gables child was attacked by a 'gator.

"Since the hunters have not been able to kill them, alligators have become unafraid of man and even are apt to attack him," Allen said. "By permitting them to be hunted, alligators again will become afraid of man."

He said the smaller reptiles, though continued on the protected list, will "learn to be more respectful" by seeing the larger ones killed.

Plywood Truck Is Economy Effort

CHICAGO —(UP)— A new plywood refrigeration truck that could save an estimated two tons of vital metals for defense production has been put on the market.

The new truck is made by Pressed Steel Car Co., Chicago. But the only steel used is in the wheel and axle assembly and door frames.

The body of the truck is formed from layers of plywood strengthened with "specially formulated" plastics, the company said.

Breaks Even On Gambled Chance

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(UP)— Jesse Doyle, 33, was faced with a dilemma in criminal court. He took a gamble on a jury's verdict and broke even.

Doyle had been offered a chance to plead guilty to theft of $44 worth of whiskey and take a two-year prison sentence.

He refused and took his chances with a jury. The two years could be cut by the jury to one or could be increased to as much as five years.

The jury gave him a two-year sentence.

Last Rehearsal Held For Staging Follies

Amid shouts and cries of stage directions, actor's cues, and a male English voice crying "Where is the ca-a-a-st?", the dress rehearsal for the "Follies of 51" ran smoothly last night and all is prepared for the opening of the show tonight.

After several days of anxious waiting by the costume committee of the Service League, the costumes for the follies arrived day by day from all parts of the United States where a follies had recently been presented.

Two days of unpacking and fittings finally got the cast all straight in their costumes and the dress rehearsal got underway. Since the practice last night was the first practice in costumes, the entire cast of the follies, 25 people, paraded the halls of the Austin Building at the college, admiring each other's dress and getting used to the frills and ruffles. There were few cases of some tripping over their long skirts and they tried to make a "grand" entrance onto the stage.

Despite the trials and tribulations of a dress rehearsal, the cast with makeup, everyone managed to survive and finally at midnight a weary cast left the auditorium, hoping for a good night's sleep.

and a restful day before the opening tonight. The "Follies of 51" will be presented again tomorrow night by the Service League for the Laughinghouse Hospital Bed. One Service League member was overheard when she commented, "It's been hard work and plenty of headaches, but we'll be rewarded when the follies helps save a life."

Weak Economy Despite Boom

JAKARTA, Indonesia — (AP) In spite of record prices paid on war-jittery world markets for Indonesia tin, rubber and oil, Indonesia's economic position is weak. This was stated this week by the head of the Directorate for Trade and Industry of the Ministry of Economic Affairs. He was addressing a conference of economic officials.

"Any drop in prices being paid for our main export products would seriously harm Indonesia's economy," he said.

Asks Observance Day Of Mourning

ELIZABETHTOWN — Louis F. Commander of the North Carolina Department, American Legion, today asked the 400 Legion posts and 51,000 Legionnaires in North Carolina to observe Sunday, November 25, as a Day of Mourning in the state for Korean war dead executed by the Communists while prisoners-of-war.

Parker's letter to district and post commanders urged that Legion members take lead in contacting individual ministers of all faiths to have 30 seconds of silence in their services Sunday and congregational prayers for the speedy end of the Korean conflict. "While the Red atrocity in Korea has not been settled as to its degree, it is known that servicemen of this nation have been subjected to untold horrors by the Communists," Parker said. "and although our prayers are in memory of the dead, let us also pray for the early end of hostilities throughout the world and for divine guidance in our future actions in helping bring peace to all nations."

RALEIGH (UP)—Agents of the OPS continue checking cigarette vending machines here today in an effort to catch operators who increased prices two cents a pack instead of one cent to match the increased federal excise tax. They said they have discovered no violations, but have received the impression that machines were being reloaded with 21-cent cigarettes just before they arrived to check.

Lions Club Holds Business Session

The Greenville Lions Club held its regular weekly meeting last night at the Woman's Club, which was devoted nearly in its entirety to the transaction of business.

A report was given by dance chairman, Larry Averette, on the Tex Beneke dance held here last Thursday. Averette termed the dance a big success and praised club members for the fine work which they did in carrying out the dance.

No figures are yet available as to the profit made by the club. Averette stated since all money and bills have not been turned in.

Ben Rouse explained to the Lions that the time for selection of "Greenville's Young Man of the Year" is at hand, and that he urged every member of the local club to fill out the selection blank being given out by the Jaycees.

All civic clubs in the city will vote their choice for the man of the year and the results tabulated and judged, Rouse said.

A report on the blind work for the past month, was also given by Larry Averette, and the report indicated great strides were made among the "old" cases as well as the new ones, helped by the club.

A total of 18 persons were aided by receiving glasses, while a number of persons were given examinations, and others advised to have surgery to correct their vision, Averette reported.

Quest of the club last night was Junior Lion Chester DeSaigny of the Greenville High School Student body.

President Jimmie Harris presided over the meeting. A board of directors meeting was held following the regular meeting.

ing to persuade them to accept a civil rights plank drafted by the platform committee at the 1948 Democratic convention.

The plank — a general statement — was rejected on the convention floor after a fight led by Gov. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, now a U.S. senator. The stronger plank offered by Humphrey was adopted, with the result that some Southern delegates walked out to form the State Rights Democratic party.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) told reporters he believes Southern Democrats would accept a civil rights plank similar to the one written by the 1948 platform committee.

Sparkman, who usually supports the administration — although not on civil rights — is one of a group of Southerners who have insisted on fighting out party battles within the party.

One border state Democrat, who asked not to be identified, told a reporter that he doubts a compromise plank can be reached on the civil rights plank if President Truman decides to seek another term.

Mr. Truman embittered many Southerners by putting his broad civil rights program — aimed at racial discrimination — before Congress in 1948. None of the proposals has been enacted by Congress.

There have been signs that some Southern Democrats will not accept any platform compromise unless Mr. Truman decides not to run again. Some Southerners are determined to block Mr. Truman's reelection by any means possible if he becomes a candidate for another term.

Sparkman said he has a "hunch" that Mr. Truman will not be a candidate again. He added that he also believes Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower may be the Democratic presidential nominee, even though a Republican bloc is working to get the general the GOP nomination.

Chairman Guy George Gabrielson of the Republican national committee said in Atlanta yesterday that he would be glad to see Southern Democrats vote for the GOP presidential nominee under a state Democratic label.

He also promised a drive to strengthen the GOP "in the South."

"I believe the South is now the great frontier for Republican expansion," Gabrielson said, "and we are going to move in here and do battle for the Republican Party below the Mason-Dixon line."

The claws of the California condor, which has the widest wing span of any North American bird, are so weak it can scarcely walk on them. The bird needs a lurching run or a sharp cliff to make a good takeoff.

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a big dance at the Planters' Warehouse, Monday night, November 26, featuring Claude Thornhill, his piano and his orchestra.

Look Magazine featured Claude Thornhill's band as "the band of the year." The band has recently concluded an engagement at Statler Hotel in New York City.

Features of the band will include Thornhill's quartet, the "Snowflakes" and the featured vocalists, Christy Conner, the same combination that played an engagement at the Palladium in Hollywood, Edgar Gurganus, chairman of the Dance Committee, stated.

Advance tickets will be on sale at the Mary Ann Soda Shop in Greenville.

SOUTHAMPTON, England — Contractors have dredged some five million tons of mud from the approaches to Southampton, making the risk of big liners grounding off the port "extremely remote", the harbor committee stated.

Awkward curves have been ironed from the approach channels where the liner Queen Elizabeth was grounded 26 hours in 1947. In one place the width of the channel has been increased from 1,550 feet to 2,500 feet.

Nearly 600 People Died To Make Theatres Safe

AP Newsfeatures

CHICAGO — Few of today's theater-goers realize their safety resulted from the deaths of 596 persons who perished when Chicago's old Iroquois Theater burned Dec. 30, 1903.

The dead, mostly women and children who were attending a matinee performance of "Mr. Blue Bird," later played roles in a less spectacular drama which resulted in more strict fire regulations for United States and European theaters.

Chicago school children had eagerly anticipated their trip to the newly-opened Iroquois Theater on that fateful day. It was exciting for them just to visit this palatial theater with its awesome architecture. The clanking of leading comedian Eddy Foy made it a double treat.

The clown of the play was to be one of the heroes of a macabre performance in the middle of the second act. A spark from a stage light... a glow... then flames skipped along the flimsy scenery.

Foy's Heroic Effort
Foy bravely stood on the stage and entreated the alarmed audience to remain calm. He thought, at most of those in the theater thought that the building was fireproof. Besides, the asbestos stage curtain certainly would hold a fire in check. What followed exploded the myth of the fireproof building.

As the flames spread, the audience ignored Foy's pleadings and rushed for the exits. Behind Foy, panicky actors and actresses opened a rear stage door as the asbestos curtain lowered. But the curtain stuck and the draft from the open door converted the stage into an inferno. Firemen, who came in response to a delayed alarm because there was no firebox in front of the theater, strung their hose 11-12 over layers of bodies which were 10 deep in some places.

Bodies Jammed Exits
Newspaper reporters joined firemen in prying bodies from the exits. A few of those jammed underneath the top layer were still alive. The top layer was charged. Although there were 30 exits the death toll climbed to 596.

At the official investigation which followed, the public was appalled at evidence showing that most exits were bolted, barred, or padlocked shut.

The public was shocked when it was shown photos picturing stage flues which had been covered with heavy timbers and then nailed down. Added to the pictures was evidence showing the theater's lighting system failed when the fire burst through wires which should have been enclosed in fire-resistant coverings. There were no lights over exits nor conspicuous exit signs.

Trampled in Panic
In the two balconies, where aisles and exits were narrow, people were thrown down stairways and trampled by the crush of the panicky. Heated gases rose to these balconies and snuffed out other lives.

Mayor Carter H. Harrison, Jr. was held to the grand jury along with the theater managers and a long list of city officials. Harrison, through his attorney, Clarence Darrow, who was to become famous later as a criminal lawyer, went free under a habeas corpus writ. Most of the others indicted were later freed.

But the calamity resulted in a new set of fire regulations for theaters, adopted by cities and states throughout the United States. Today, in every large city, there are steel fire curtains, broad aisles, better floor-pitch and working exits.

In Germany, the Kaiser ordered his Royal Opera House closed for inspection. Actors and actresses went without work there and in England, Holland, Sweden, and Ireland as theater fire regulations often required rebuilding of theaters.

Next time you see a uniformed fireman in a theater, don't suspect him of enjoying a few shows on taxpayers' time. He's making sure that you come out alive to enjoy future shows.

Wife Of Artist Sees Warmth In Heart Of North

MONTREAL — (AP) — Mrs.

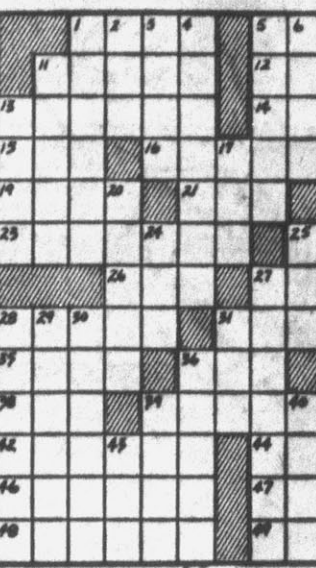

James Houston, wife of Canadian Artist Jim Houston, doesn't think of the Arctic as a vast, cold wasteland of ice and snow.

After eight months in the Northland, Mrs. Houston is more impressed by the warm-hearted, hospitable people who live in snow huts and look mainly to hunting and fishing for their living. "They're such an honest, cheerful people."

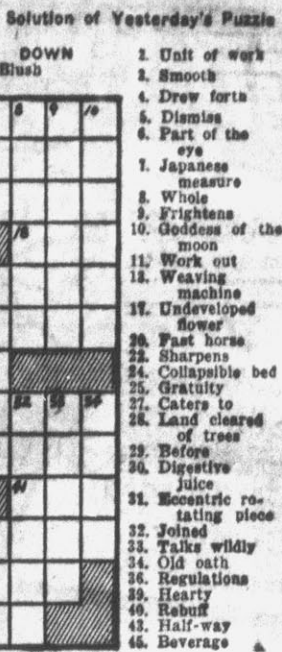

With the backing of the Canadian government, the Canadian Handicraft Guild and the co-operation of the Hudson's Bay Co., Mr. and Mrs. Houston bring back products of Eskimo culture—carvings, leatherwork and woodwork.

Job Openings Unlimited At Defense Department

There are openings for an unlimited number of persons trained as clerk-typists, clerk-stenographers and communications clerk with salaries ranging from $2,750 to $3,175 per year for work in the Department of Defense, Washington, D. C.

Both college graduates and high school graduates with some college training and experience in the clerical positions are urgently needed, said Mrs. Mary R. McCary, representative of Armed Forces Security agency of the Department of Defense. Also needed are tabulating machine operators, teletype operators, and photographers.

Persons interested should get in touch with Mrs. McCary who will be the local Employment Security Commission, 222 East Fifth Street, November 23.

"For those persons who are interested in continuing their education," Mrs. McCary said, "it is possible for many of our people to find time to take extension and night courses at nearby universities, although the jobs are 40 hours per week." She said that George Washington, Georgetown, American and Maryland Universities are in the immediate vicinity. No examinations are required, nor is it necessary for applicant to have Civil Service status. The selection will be based on the applicant's education and experience.

PUT IN THEIR PLACES
LANSING, Mich. —(UP)— Two state legislators who played hockey to watch a baseball game got the old schoolmaster treatment from House Speaker Victor A. Knox. "You've held up business for 45 minutes," he told the sheepish-looking lawmakers. "Go to your seats and stay there for the rest of today's session." They did.

Student Nurse Is Real Sailor In Windswept Seas

PROVIDENCE, R. I. —(AP)— Brisk fall breezes pushing her 19-foot sailboat helped pretty Shirley Whitcomb, 22, a student nurse, to prove she is a sailor recently. She owns the boat jointly with a friend. She used it during the summer at her parent's summer home at Old Lyme, Conn.

Fall arrived with variable winds that usually keep small boats in sheltered waters. But she wanted the boat in Providence so she could work on it during the fall and spring. So she sailed it the 100 miles to a winter harbor.

She took three days to make the trip, sailing with a different person (two friends and father) each day. On one trip of 27 nautical miles she averaged nine knots. She said she didn't see any other small boats on the whole trip. And sometimes she wondered if the sail would hold. But now the boat is in Providence and she plans to scrape the paint off and repaint it.

Island Provides 'Jalopy Heaven' For Cranky Cars

PROVIDENCE, R. I. —(AP)— If your old jalopy is cranky and has been acting up under the stresses of urban life, maybe you ought to retire it to Prudence Island in Narragansett Bay where it can spend its declining years in peace and quiet.

Real oldies are just the thing on Prudence Island. There are no roads, no need for an operator's charge for registration because Prudence cars are not registered with the state of Rhode Island. Your car will bump along on driftways, a fancy name for cow path. Fifteen miles of driftways wander around the small island. Bulldozers, a scraper and grader keep the driftways in good shape. The driftways serve 30 cars, all second-hand, and another 100 belonging to summer visitors. Most of those are second-hand too.

It costs $7.50 to ferry a car over to the island. Few ever return.

Pygmies Acquire Army's Surplus

COLUMBUS, O. —(AP)— A lot of pygmies in Africa are wearing Army surplus shirts with "PW" on the back. They're not prisoners of war. The shirts represent the pay William said Columbus hunter, gave them for helping him capture gorillas. He explained pygmies want clothes most of all. Said recently returned from a two-month African safari with two gorillas, a mustachioed monkey, a chimpanzee, and an African otter.

Peanut Growers To Meet Friday

R. Flake Shaw, executive vice-president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, announced today that a special meeting of the state's peanut growers will be held in Scotland Neck next Friday.

The meeting will be in the high school building there at 2:30 p.m., and all members of County Peanut Committees and Farm Bureau leaders in peanut producing counties are urged to attend.

"Since the last meeting at Scotland Neck in connection with peanut problems, we have had many new marketing difficulties to develop," Shaw said. "In view of the existing situation peanut growers face regard to marketing the 1951 crop, I emphatically urge all growers to attend meeting Friday."

Shaw said he not only asked a large attendance, but requests that those who are contacted use every means at their disposal to advise other growers about the meeting. "There are a number of major marketing problems to be worked out at this meeting," he asserted.

Landscapes Get Protection Of New Italian Law

ROME —(AP)— Neon signs and advertisements will not be allowed to spoil the landscape around Italy's famed tourist resorts. A law for the defense of Italian landscape has been enacted recently.

The ministerial committee responsible for enforcement has already approved plans covering the island of Capri and Ischia in the Bay of Naples and of Portofino and Nervi, on the Italian Riviera near Genoa.

The committee has to approve the areas where new buildings may be built, and approve the style and dimensions of the projected buildings.

It has asked for the removal of advertising posters which spoil the landscape in certain areas of the country.

Roman Nobility To Give Up Land In Reform Move

ROME —(AP)— The Roman nobility will have to give up 65,400 acres of cultivable land as part of the Italian agrarian reform.

The reform, aimed at distributing land to landless peasants, has been under way for most of the year in Southern Italy—Calabria, Apulia, and Lucania.

The large estates of the Roman nobility will be cut by from 20 to 80 per cent, according to their size. According to the new Italian law, no one is allowed more than 500 to 800 acres of land. The rest is taken over by the government, which redistributes it to the peasants. By 1955 the government expects to have redistributed 1,500,000 acres to some 100,000 peasants' families.

Tennessee Regains First Place In Grid Ratings; Spartans Drop

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Tennessee regained the top spot in the United Press college football ratings today, but its lofty position and perfect record face a stiff test Saturday in its traditional game against Kentucky.

The powerful Volunteers celebrated acceptance of a Sugar Bowl bid last weekend by crushing Mississippi 46 to 21 for their 18th straight victory over the past two seasons. That convinced the 35 leading coaches who comprise the board that the Vols belonged back on top after a one-week absence.

Michigan State, last week's No. 1 team, won a 30 to 26 squeaker from Indiana, being forced to come from behind in the last half for the fifth time this season, and dropped to second place.

Only Kentucky and Vanderbilt of the Southeastern Conference now stand in the way of Tennessee's quest for a perfect season and the national championship. Both could prove troublesome, but the single-wing Vols have proved thus far that they can rise to the occasion and adequately handle the tough teams on their schedule.

Tennessee has hit back at critics of its "soft" schedule by disposing of its toughest opponents with the same ease as the weaker ones. In the big games the Vols have played, they have beaten Mississippi State 14 to 0; Duke 26 to 0; Alabama 27 to 13; and North Carolina 27 to 0.

Both the football and basketball Pirates of East Carolina College went through long practice sessions yesterday at the college. The football Bucs are on the last leg of preparations for their meeting Saturday with the Citadel Bulldogs while the basketballers began their preparations for their December 1 meeting with Guilford in Wright Gymnasium.

West Virginia's Mountaineers lead in total defense with 214.8 yards. Maryland's rushing defense average of 86.6 yards is best.

How to make old roads seem NEW

PICK a road that you know by heart. Not too good a road. One that has some bumps—some unbanked turns—a tough hill or two.

Then get in touch with us, and let us put you behind the wheel of a Buick, with Dynaflo Drive.*

Now you're all set for a new experience. You'll find out this:

Those bumps seem to lose their bobble. You just take them with a smooth and level stride.

Those unbanked turns don't seem so sharp, and those hills seem almost to flatten out.

How come? Well, a lot of things are different when you travel in a Buick.

You're riding on big, soft coil springs that let every wheel dance beneath you, without passing on the jolts to you in the car.

You're driving a car that's plenty inches broader than it is high—a sure-footed road-hugger if there ever was one.

And you're riding behind a Fireball Engine—Buick's time-tested version of a high-compression valve-in-head engine that packs more power than most people ever need to use.

With this power—and Dynaflo Drive*—you don't have to "rush" a hill at the bottom to soar serenely over the top. You just feed the power as you need it—climb with a sure, steady swoop without buck or bobble all the way up.

There's a lot more that we could tell you about a Buick. But such things as room, and comfort, the confident way it steers, and the way it shortens the miles are things you can best discover from personal experience.

So why not follow the routine already suggested? You supply the road—we'll supply the car—and let it speak for itself.

The Tatum-coached Terps have averaged 401 yards per game in total offense, and have a rushing average of 297.9 yards.

About the only department in which Maryland doesn't figure is passing. VMI, with Bill Brehany doing most of the throwing, leads with 152.3 yards per game.

Ayden Teams Release Slate For 1951 Basketball Season

AYDEN — With football rapidly falling by the wayside as winter draws on, basketball is taking over interest here as Coach E. F. Johnson's Tornado lasses start practice for the coming season, which opens with both boys and girls games with Grimesland here on December 4.

The girls have been working out for about seven days, while Coach Stuart Tripp has delayed practice for boys until next Monday because of the Goobor Bowl football game on Thanksgiving Day.

Johnson stated yesterday that he will have only five lettermen players returning this year, but they include his star forwards, Alice Jean Cox and Katherine Wooten. Forwards back for another season include Charlen Smith and Wilma Stocks, who will probably alternate the majority of the season at the center-forward spot.

Peggy Conway is the only guard returning that has won her monogram. Another girl who had been counted on, June Stokes, was recently declared ineligible for further competition. Five girls—Evel Meeks, Joan Padley, Goldie Harris, Boots Thomas, and Nettie Hensley—are also returning from last year's reserve squads.

Betty Jean Padley, a substitute forward last year, is also back for another year. Newcomers Vera Thomas, Guendolyn McLawhorn, and Barbara Harper have looked good in practice at forward, while Frances Sutton and Barbara Bradshaw are the leading guards who are out for the first time. A total of 35 girls reported for the first week of practice.

'Cats Get Bid To Cotton Bowl

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—The Cotton Bowl, which picked the winner in last year's Tennessee-Kentucky football feud, hopes it has done it again in inviting Kentucky to the 1952 Cotton Bowl.

The circumstances aren't quite the same as last season when undefeated Kentucky met once-beaten Tennessee, which just before the game had accepted a Cotton Bowl invitation rather than wait for a Sugar Bowl bid if it won.

This year, it's Tennessee that's unbeaten, and the Vols already have signed for the Sugar Bowl while Kentucky has three early season 'ts on its record.

But, yesterday the Cotton Bowl gambled again and hoped it would bring a good luck charm to Kentucky by inviting the Wildcats to meet the Southwest Conference host team— whoever that might be from a field of four contenders. Kentucky promptly accepted.

The Southeastern Conference team's opponent won't be determined until Dec. 1 when the Southwest Conference race closes.

Meanwhile, Kentucky's scouting corps will have to be busy, covering five games within eight days time in an effort to get a line on the club which might face the Wildcats New Year's Day.

Still in the running for the conference title and the automatic role of Cotton Bowl host are Texas Christian, Rice, Baylor and Texas, a club which handed Kentucky the first of its three early-season defeats.

So involved is the race in one of the wildest seasons in the loop's history that any one of the four could finish undisputed champion or there could be several tie combinations.

Aside from the partisan fans from the other three schools, however, the team most grid fans would like to see face the Wildcats would be Baylor, a club which has won six, lost one and tied one.

Baylor, in second place a half game behind co-leaders Rice and TCU, boasts one of Kentucky's most serious rivals for All-America honors in Larry Isbell.

Southwest fans, who saw Parilli whittled down to size by Texas, feel that Isbell would prove his superiority if given the chance in a personal duel with Parilli despite the latter's four national passing records.

Baylor will have to beat Southern Methodist and Rice in that order while either Rice or SMU dumps TCU before Isbell will get his chance.

Coaches of the four contending teams were unanimous in hailing the selection of Kentucky and in "hoping we squeeze in there against them."

They agreed Kentucky had "come far" since those early losses and now rated as one of the nation's stronger teams.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS

After Saturday's game with The Citadel in Charleston, football for this area will be over for the 1951 season and local attention will be turned to basketball in both the high school and college.

At the high school, Coach Bo Farley has already started preliminary sessions and will announce the school's schedule in a couple of days. He already has games scheduled with a couple of Class AAA high schools and is expected to add at least two more games with the AAA schools.

Farley will be able to get down to real work with his squad this week now that the football season is over. Several of the potential squad members were members of Bill Kittrell's football aggregation and were held up. They'll all be out by the end of the week according to Farley.

At ECC, Coach Howard Porter's team opened a 23-game schedule Saturday night against the Naval Air Station of Norfolk and came out on the short end of a 63-55 score.

Porter said Monday that his squad members would get a lot of offensive drilling before their next contest, December 1 against Guilford. "We really had a cold night against those sailors and when you can't hit and the other team can—well, you know what happens," Porter said.

No one got hurt in the game Saturday and, other than a few colds, Porter says his squad is in good shape. The Pirates' October 1 game will be the first of 13 North State Conference games and the first of 11 home contests.

Football in the state will be shoved out of the picture following Saturday's action but the 1951 season is expected to make exactly a quiet exit. Most of the expected noise is forecast for Durham Saturday when Duke plays host to Carolina. Regardless of seasonal records, that game is always the big one for both the Blue Devils and the Tar Heels and both clubs are usually out to win.

Right now, the game looks very much like a toss-up with either side being conceded a good chance of victory. Carolina's single-wing attack has sputtered all year long but has had a lot of trouble generating any power when it gets within sight of the goal line.

Duke has been pretty much the same way. The Blue Devils' split-T has looked everything from great to lousy this year and it's hard to say what it will look like when it comes up against Carolina Saturday.

One idle thought about that game, though: If Carolina's line plays Saturday against Duke as it did last Saturday against Notre Dame, Bill Murray may as well start looking ahead to next year for a victory. Even with all the terrific blocking the Irish put up, Joe Dudek and company still had little trouble in bottling up the Irish.

Thanksgiving Day always brings with it several invitations to play in a Turkey Day football game, but the only team within this area to receive an invitation so far is the Ayden Tornadoes, who have just about all the grid honors to be had for the last three years. Ayden accepted a bid to play Weldon in the Goobor Bowl game in Enfield.

Weldon supposedly has one of the better Class A teams in the state, although their record is not one of the best this year. Coach E. Davis, a graduate of East Carolina, has seen his team go down before three clubs this year, including a 32-13 walloping last week at the hands of Williamson High School.

On the other hand, there is little to choose from in comparative records, for Ayden has lost two and tied two this year while winning five. Weldon has won a like number. The Green Wave defeated Ayden in the season's opener, 18-13.

The game is to be carried over radio stations from Tarboro, Rocky Mount and Roanoke Rapids. Announcers will probably have their hands full when they call the teams by their nicknames, as both eleven are known as the Tornadoes.

Weldon is the champion in the Roanoke-Chowan and Halifax County conferences, while Ayden took the title in the Coastal Conference again this year.

Each team will be represented by all-conference players, as Weldon has three and Ayden has four first stringers on their respective mythical league teams.

Halfbacks Dickie Dickens and Garland "Bulldog" Conwell and Center Hank Spivey, a 235-pound bruiser, each made the Roanoke-Chowan team for the second time. Ayden's Mac Whitehurst repeated on the Coastal eleven for the third successive year. Tackle Randall Harrington, Center Curtis Dennis, and Back Hal Edwards made the club for the first time.

NCAA Committee To Study Emphasis

CHICAGO (UP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn., armed by the support of a "substantial majority" of its members, said today it will name a drafting committee to study recommendations to deemphasize collegiate athletics.

NCAA president Hugh Willett said yesterday that the majority of NCAA members favor a 12-point program proposed by the policy-making council to curtail the stress on big time college sports.

Willett said a drafting committee will study the reaction of NCAA members and recommend how the council should act to bring the program before the NCAA convention in Cincinnati Jan. 9-12.

A United Press survey showed that the NCAA members favored

10 of the council's points overwhelmingly. The survey also revealed that while they supported suggestions to restrict or abolish out-of-season practices and platoon-system football, they differed on what steps should be taken on each point.

New Yorkers Start Inquiry In Reports Of 'Forgery'

college authorities started a swift investigation today into Judge Saul Streit's charges that some of the bribed basketball players he sent to prison had entered City College of New York by "fraud and forgery."

A special committee of three was appointed by the Board of Higher Education to look into Streit's report that at least two players—Al Roth and Herb Cohen—were admitted to the free college on the strength of false high school grades.

"I suggest that in the cases of Roth and Cohen there was deliberate fraud and possible forgery," Streit said yesterday in a bitter denunciation of athletic corruption as he sentenced five players and a "master fixer" to prison terms.

Other charges made by Streit in his 41-page statement were having equally explosive effect on college campuses across the nation.

And Streit said the "commercialism" of college sports that led to bribery began with football first and spread to basketball. He said his survey found:

1. At the University of Michigan recently, 100 faculty members charged a double standard was used in crediting athletes and non-athletes for extra-curricular activities.
2. At William and Mary, "there is the shocking situation of the alteration of a preparatory school transcript to admit an athlete."
3. At Bradley University, "a spot check of 15 athletes shows that eight were majoring in physical education and among the courses for which credit was given were handball, elementary swimming, social dancing, football, and first aid."
4. At Ohio State football players were on the payrolls of state agencies.
5. At Oklahoma, a senior football player was taking introduction to geography, theories of basketball, swimming games, and volleyball.
6. At Denver, the State Industrial

Commission ruled that former Denver U. football player Brad Nemeth had been hired to play football and was entitled to disability pay for his football injury.

7. The University of Texas grants 100 athletic scholarships a year; Texas A&M 120; SMU 154.

8. At the University of Maryland, of 97 football players, 42 are from Pennsylvania, 10 from New York, five from New Jersey, and three from Rhode Island.

In response to this last observation, Coach Jim Tatum of the University of Maryland admitted Streit's figures were correct but defended them.

"We bring them (athletes) before our scholarship board, and if they pass, we give them books, tuition, room, board, and $15 a month," said Tatum. "Sure we help them. Everybody needs a little help now and then. But it's no racket. If I thought I was running a racket, I'd quit right now."

In the case of convicted basketball players Roth and Cohen, Judge Streit said candidates for admittance to CCNY must show high marks in high school, and Streit said that both Roth and Cohen actually were "ineligible" for the school.

Cohen was one of nine players whose sentences were suspended by Streit. The others were Adolph Bigos, Leroy Smith, Nate Miller, and Dick Feurtado of Long Island University; and Ed Roman, Floyd Laune, Irwin Dambrot, and Norman Mager of CCNY.

Roth, Ed Warner of CCNY and Connie Schaff of New York University were sentenced to six months each. LIU star Sherman White drew a one-year sentence, and LIU player Eddie Gard was given an "indeterminate" sentence which could last three years.

"Master fixer" Salvatore Solazzo was sentenced to from eight to 16 years.

'Lean Pickin's' For Major Leagues

CINCINNATI (AP)—A brisk trading winter was predicted today as a result of "lean pickin's" in the annual major league draft that brought promotion to only 17 minor league players, the lowest number in years.

E. J. (Buzzy) Bava, effervescent vice president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who has spent practically every waking hour of the two days that he's been here talking over possible deals with rival club representatives, didn't bother to conceal his pleasure and relief over the termination of the draft.

"Maybe now we can settle down and do some business among ourselves," he sighed. "I've talked with every National League club and some in the American. They were all anxious to do business, the same as I was. But they preferred to wait until the draft was over."

Malta Is Still A Bastion In Today's Defense Plan

VALLETTA, Malta. —(UP)—This tiny, war-scarred Mediterranean island threatened two years ago to quit the British Empire and host the American flag.

Now it is ranked by service chiefs of the Atlantic alliance as the pivot of the southern flank in European defense.

It is not difficult to understand, even on a flying visit to this island which has been a British outpost since 1814, why Malta must assume great strategic significance. It lies in an area of new international stresses resulting from Egypt's abrogation of her treaty with Britain.

Through Malta pass the western allies' sea and air communications with most parts of the Commonwealth and the Far East. In the concept of naval and air strategy, the little island becomes virtually the gateway from the west to India and Pakistan, and to the vast continent of Africa.

No Crisis Seen

Malta does not look like a colony on the verge of a financial and perhaps a constitutional precipice, which Maltese opinion claims it is.

In 1947 Malta was given self-government through a legislative assembly of 40 members headed by Prime Minister Paul Boffa, who went to London to put the island's case to the colonial office.

He returned to tell his parliament that the island, which was presented with the George Cross in recognition of the loyalty of its people during the war, could expect no financial aid from Britain and no share in Marshall plan aid.

Disappointment stirred up latent discontent and a rebel element led by a former deputy prime minister, Dominic Mintoff, threatened to haul down the Union Jack and hoist the Stars and Stripes.

Orders Rescinded

Then both Foffa and Mintoff went to London. The British government "reconsidered" and decided to rescind orders for the discharge of some 1,200 workers in the naval dock yard which, the Maltese said, was aggravating the crisis in the island.

The British government gave Malta $30,000,000 (sterling) for war damage repairs, 2,720,000 (sterling) for food supplies and development purposes and 120,000 (sterling) for Malta University.

These funds have brought what the Maltese describe as "superficial" full employment for the colony's 315,000 population, which works out at something like 2,000 to the square mile.

The naval dock yard at Malta is the principal means of livelihood for the colony, which produces nothing except building stone and a little food.

Tender, delicious second helping tidbits from Wilson's Certified Turkeys are ever popular. In fact, homemakers call them "planned leftovers."

Wilson's Certified Turkeys are young, tender, meaty, flavorful and wet at Rector Kitchens carve the leftovers right after dinner while still warm. For them, every smidgeon of luscious turkey meat comes off. There's no waste. Also the bones get into the soup kettle while there are still plenty of fresh table morsels to savor the Turkey Soup.

For best keeping we wrap the tidbits in the roasting cloth, then in wax paper and refrigerate.

The chilled morsels are delicious, moist and flavorful when used. As a sandwich, on waffles, in pot pie, or salad, they'll be deluxe. If heated, never let them boil.

When but a little turkey is left, serve Turkey Tetrazzini. It's marvelous and easy to prepare!

TURKEY TETRAZZINI

Break one-half pound of spaghetti or macaroni and cook in boiling hot, salted water until just tender. Drain. Make a cream sauce of:

2 tablespoons Wilson's Certified Margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt

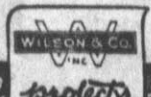

Stir in: 1 cup milk or cream
1/4 lb. cut-up mushrooms, optional

Divide the sauce in half. To one-half add:

3/4 to 2 lbs. of shredded turkey
1 pint tomato, chopped
1/4 teaspoon paprika

Add other half of the sauce to cooked, drained spaghetti. Put the spaghetti in oiled casserole making a hole in center for turkey mixture. Cover with grated Wilson's Certified American Cheese and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) until cheese softens, about 15 minutes.

successfully performed difficult operations aboard a Canadian destroyer in Korean waters.

The Navy identified the bogus surgeon as Ferdinand Waldo Demara Jr., a part-time philosopher from Lawrence, Mass. He will be discharged for "fraudulent entry" into the service.

It was definitely established, the Navy said, that Demara, 29, entered the service by using the credential of Dr. Joseph Cyr of Edmundston, N. B. The fraud was discovered when Cyr reported his papers were missing.

The Navy was embarrassed by this disclosure because a press release had been prepared praising "Surgeon Lieutenant Cyr's" skill with a scalpel.

In Korea, Demara extracted a bullet lodged within a quarter inch of a Canadian soldier's heart, collapsed a patient's lung and performed various leg amputations.

"Nothing has occurred to indicate either to Royal Canadian Navy authorities or to a 'thorities of other forces serving in Korea that he did not possess the competence of a fully-qualified medical man," the Navy said.

Demara entered the RCN in March 1951 and was commissioned a surgeon lieutenant and assigned to the destroyer Cayuga.

In Lawrence, Mass., Ferdinand W. Demara Sr., 63, said his son left high school 14 years ago to enter the Cistercian Monastery at Cumberland, R. I.

The elder Demara said his son returned home within a year but was still bent on seeking a monastic life.

After serving hitchhikes in the Army and Navy, the younger Demara taught philosophy at St. Martin's College in Lacy, Wash., and studied at Purdue University, the father said. He also worked as an orderly at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Hospital in Boston.

Heat for the building will be furnished by a blower system, connected with the central boiler room. Dressing rooms for boys and girls teams will be housed on the side of the building and will include showers with hot and cold running water and locker space.

At the present time, the Robersonville school has no dressing rooms or showers for use of the athletic teams. Classrooms are being used for the teams to dress in.

Overall length of the entire building will be 154 feet by 185. A 40x40 foot band room will also be included in the structure.

Once completed the new building will serve the 234 students now enrolled at the high school. The gym will be used for community programs and dances when not in use by the athletic teams, Martin said.

Tables, seating four each, will be located in the main section of the lunchroom and all equipment will be modern in design. Cooking equipment will include gas stoves, all of which will be purchased new. No funds have been allotted for furnishing the kitchen as yet, Martin stated. It is estimated that cost of the equipment for the kitchen will run around $2,100.

Martin said that a small amount of money has been allotted for possible equipment, but nothing definite has been made towards those lines.

All of the brickwork for the building has been completed and nearly the entire steel frame work has been put in place. Martin stated that providing bad weather and lack of materials do not hamper the construction workers, the building should be completed on schedule.

Guards' Legend Blown Sky High
LONDON (UP)—Ernest Salmon, 20, one of the tall, impressive guards that strutted before Buckingham Palace in bearskin hats and scarlet tunics, couldn't stand it any longer.

He blew up the Guards' legend of iron discipline by going AWOL. A horrified court martial sentenced him yesterday to 56 days in the guard house.

"I just got fed up," Salmon told the court.

Mistrials Ruled In 2 Court Cases

Two cases which ended in mistrials consumed much of yesterday's session of Superior Court here.

In the case of Aris Briley who was originally charged with first degree burglary, Solicitor W. J. Bundy announced that the state would ask a guilty verdict on a charge of second degree burglary, instead of the more serious charge.

However, during the trial, the court withdrew a juror and ordered a mistrial. Upon motion of Solicitor Bundy, the case was reinstated upon the capital charge of burglary in the first degree. It will be tried later in the week.

William H. Latham and Charles H. Odep pled guilty to larceny, and turned state's evidence in the case which also involved "Dock" Murchison. Murchison pled not guilty to the charge, and after hearing the testimony, the court withdrew a juror and ordered a mistrial. It will also be tried later.

It could not be determined this morning when Jim Jordan, Farmville Negro who is charged with murder, will be tried. Late yesterday afternoon, Judge Bone ordered the drawing of 56 new jurors for service this week.

Ridgway Cuts Atrocity Figures, Reds Answer

By GENE SYMONDS
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO (UP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway announced today the United Nations has conclusive evidence of only 348 American deaths from Communist atrocity in Korea, but he conceded the actual total may be 6,000 or more.

Ridgway's headquarters released a statement which heavily qualified the sensational charges of Red atrocities released last week by Col. James M. Hanley, chief war crimes investigator for the 8th Army.

"Investigation of the atrocity report made public last week by Col. Hanley in Pusan makes it clear that the total number of U. S. dead as result of the atrocities and for whom bodies have been recovered is 348," Ridgway's statement said.

However, the statement added that "there is considerable evidence to justify a presumption of death by atrocity of a large number which may approximate 6,000" of the 10,836 U. S. troops missing in action.

Hanley had charged that the Communists "murdered" a total of 13,400 United Nations war prisoners, including 6,270 Americans, since the outbreak of the war June 25, 1950. He said the Chinese alone had slain 2,513 since China entered the war a year ago.

Ridgway's statement dealt only with atrocities involving American troops. Hanley had charged that the Communists also killed 7,000 South Korean and 130 other Allied war prisoners.

The Communists have hotly denied the atrocity accusation and counter-charged U.N. troops with murdering Communist prisoners and civilians.

Only a few hours before Ridgway released his statement, however, the Chinese radio at Peiping admitted that some American war prisoners had died in Communist captivity, but it insisted they were victims of disease rather than atrocities.

This presumably will be the Communist defense if and when the Reds disclose the number of deaths among American prisoners.

Ridgway said that only 254 of the 65 atrocity victims whose bodies have been recovered have been identified. These deaths were reported "through the normal process in each case to next of kin as killed in action," he said.

Of the 10,836 persons still carried as missing in action," Ridgway said, "there is no conclusive proof as to the number of dead, although there is considerable evidence to justify a presumption of death by atrocity of a large number which may approximate 6,000."

"Investigation has established no increase in the 16,855 total verified known dead as reported by the Defense Department in its Nov. 14 casualty release."

Radio Peiping said a spokesman at Chinese headquarters in Korea denounced 8th Army charges that the Chinese have murdered 2,513 Americans and 130 other United Nations war prisoners as "an absurd lie."

"A number of prisoners of war were very weak at the time of their capture," the Chinese spokesman said. "Some had contracted diseases. Especially numerous is the number of disease-ridden Americans captured."

"Our units have done their best in curing these sick captives, but among them have been some whose lives could not be saved because of their injured health and the serious state of their sicknesses."

"The governments of the American aggressor and their satellite nations must bear full responsibility for this."

FBI Assists In Flogging Inquiry
WHITEVILLE (UP)—FBI agents and members of the State Bureau of Investigation helped Columbus County officers today in an investigation of floggings of two White men by masked mobsters during the past month.

Sheriff Hugh Nance identified the most recent victim as Clayton Sellers, 28, of the New Hope section near here. He said Sellers was beaten about midnight last Thursday.

The other victim was identified as Robert Lee Gore, a resident of the Olympic section near the South Carolina line, Nance said. FBI agents have entered the Gore case, the sheriff said, because evidence indicates that masked men who seized him Oct. 28 carried him into Horry County, S. C., where he was flogged.

Sellers said two unmasked men roused him about 11 p. m. last Thursday and asked for gasoline for their car. He said he was getting some gasoline from his own tank when another car drove up and masked men got out and seized him.

They put him in a car and drove off, he told Nance, after his mother tried to tear the mask from the face of one man and his wife fired five shots near his captor. He displayed bruises on his thighs where he said men beat him with a piece of machine belt or auto tire.

The men accused him of beating ever striking her.

The sheriff said Gore's story follows the same general pattern.

Passenger Train Cars Derailed; 4 Persons Hurt

GILMAN, Ill. (UP)—Nine cars of the Illinois Central railroad's fast passenger train "The Louisiana" jumped the tracks at 50 miles an hour today, injuring four persons and jostling scores of other passengers.

The derailed cars of the Memphis-to-Chicago overnight limited remained upright.

The 17-car train was carrying 150 passengers.

The crew said the ninth car from the end left the tracks as the Diesel-powered train passed through here. The engineer quickly pulled the train to a stop as the derailed cars bounced over the ties.

The injured were porter R. R. Cummins, Chicago, and three unidentified passengers.
