GOP Quick To Answer Truman

Reiterate 'Corruption' Charges In Reply To Truman's Warning Of 'Lies and Smears' In 1952 Campaign; President Sees Election As Slugging Match

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans reiterated charges of "corruption" today in reply to President Truman's assertion that the Democrats won't take lying down.

Mr. Truman told an audience of party members here last night he thinks more money will be spent "in trying to defeat the Democratic Party next year than has ever before been spent in any election in the history of the country."

His declaration that "the truth and the facts are on our side" brought a retort from Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) that "President Truman should certainly get the prize for political effrontery" for his speech.

Guy G. Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said Mr. Truman had "a flash of realism" when he said "a mistake in a presidential election can cause the country untold harm."

"The reminder isn't necessary for millions of Americans," Gabrielson said. "They are disgusted and alarmed at the high taxes, high prices, corruption, crises and war of his incompetent administration. They won't make the mistake again."

Without naming the senator, Mr. Truman singled out Taft with the assertion that "special interests" had poured money into Ohio last year to elect the Republican.

Taft, an avowed candidate for his party's presidential nomination, said in a statement in Cincinnati that "it is the Truman Party which is the beneficiary of the money of special interests and of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money used for political propaganda."

"The head of an administration which had condoned communism, immorality and corruption and does not even bother to deny the proven charges, talks of the great moral position of his administration in the world," Taft continued.

Mr. Truman, who planned to return today to Key West, Fla., to resume his interrupted vacation, outlined for his party at a banquet the National Women's Democratic Club last night the kind of a campaign he said it must make next year.

He pictured it as a slugging battle against well-heeled Republicans who could be expected to put on a "dirty smear campaign."

The President left up in the air the question whether he will run again. But he seemed to indicate that if he doesn't, he fully expects to have the determining voice in naming the Democratic nominee.

Mrs. Truman, who had a lot to do with making the presidential date for the banquet meeting, laughed with the crowd as the President said: "I am not going to make any announcement about who my candidate will be, although I do have some ideas on the subject."

Mrs. Truman has reportedly urged the President to retire when his present term expires.

Protest Quality Of Army Smokes

OTTAWA, Ont. (UP)—Cigarettes issued to Canadian troops in Korea were branded today as a "secret weapon" which might aid the enemy in breaking the soldiers' morale.

Opposition leader in Commons, George Drew, said the cigarettes, made in Australia, were not fit for smoking and demanded that Canadian troops be issued Canadian brands.

Drew said the cigarettes were similar to the low-quality "gasps" of World War I.

Durant Says No World Order Based On Democracy Is Likely

Diplomats of today can speak only with the eloquence of the gnat which lie behind them, Dr. Will Durant last night told members of the Pitt County Executive Club.

He said the people of the world can not look for world order based on democracy. "It will come only when there is a military power unchallengeable by any other."

The noted historian and philosopher discussed the history of civilization, from the biological, geographical, political and religious standpoints.

"Future civilization will be built along new trade routes which will be in the air," Durant declared. "The great civilizations 100 years from now will be China, Russia, Brazil and the United States. The countries which have great inland areas. Commerce is shifting from

Grand Jury Says Schools Found In Good Condition

Minor Repairs Being Made; Vandalism Noted In Periodical Report

The periodical report of the Grand Jury in Superior Court here yesterday indicated that Pitt County schools are in excellent condition with the exception of a few minor repairs, which are now in the process of being completed.

E. H. Willford, foreman, reported that a delegation of the Grand Jury visited every school in the county, and submitted a record of the repairs recommended by the Grand Jury which have already been completed, or in an advanced stage of repair.

The jury stated in its report that quite often repair efforts were offset by vandalism. "Expensive door and window glass frequently lasts a very short time, as many installations are broken in a few days. This same condition exists in respect to furniture and equipment."

The repairs completed up to the date of the jury's report are, white schools: Falkland, repaired roof; Arthur, first-aid room floor, and boiler and equipment repaired; Bethel High School, repaired auditorium ceiling; Bethel Elementary, faulty plaster removed and replaced; Ayden Elementary, some plumbing repairs completed, fire escapes practically completed, new electric fixtures and wiring will be installed in the near future.

Negro: Factious, new floor installed in one classroom, ceilings, windows and pillars repaired; faulty locks repaired; Shiloh, roof and windows repaired; Sallie Branch, new stove pipe installed, chimney flashing repaired; Post Oak, roof repaired; Clemons, repaired windows and doors, installed locks; Harris, repaired water pump; Ayden, repaired roof flashing; Harpers, repaired windows, added new furniture.

Members of the Grand Jury reported they had passed on all bills presented to them. They complimented Judge Walter J. Bone, Solicitor W. J. Bundy, and State and County officials for their cooperation and assistance during this term of court.

Orders Non-Suit In Briley Trial

Late this morning Judge Walter J. Bone ordered a non-suit in the case against Artis Briley, Greenville Negro charged with first-degree burglary.

Upon completion of all the evidence against Briley, defense attorney Albion Dunn moved for a non-suit on the grounds that the circumstantial evidence was not sufficient to indicate the guilt of the defendant.

Judge Bone granted the motion and declared a non-suit because the evidence did not point unerringly and beyond a reasonable doubt to Briley's guilt.

The trial began Monday afternoon but a mistrial was ordered by Judge Bone at that time. A special venire of 50 jurors was drawn and the trial recommenced yesterday morning. It consumed part of three days.

Authorities said the case against Jim Jordan would be heard Friday, as court will adjourn tomorrow for Thanksgiving. Jordan is charged with the murder of his wife.

Boy's Leg Is Run Over, Broken By Wagon Tuesday

A 14-year-old boy suffered a broken right leg yesterday morning when he fell from a tractor-drawn wagon, and was run over by the wagon.

Highway Patrolman Delton E. Perry, who investigated the accident, stated that the youth, Ernest Sparrow, fell from a half-loaded wagon of corn.

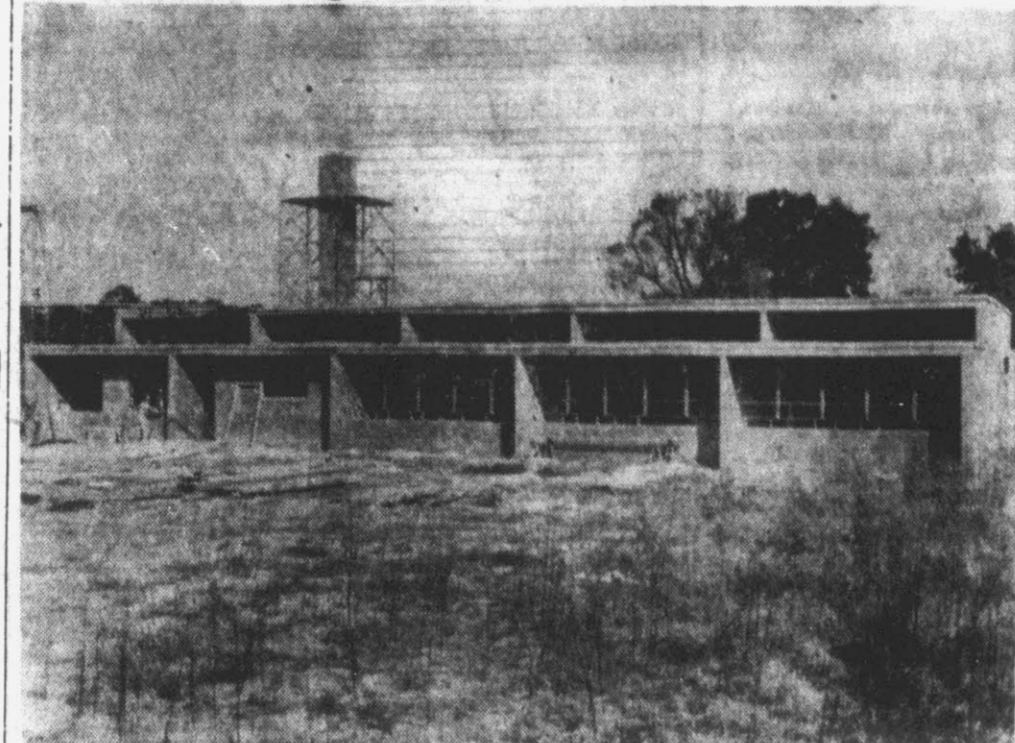

The boy was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where he was admitted for treatment.

Riding with the boy at the time was his sister, Doris Johnson.

Perry stated no charges were placed against the driver of the tractor, Mac Baker of Route 2, Greenville.

The trio had been gathering corn and were returning home around 9:30 when the accident occurred, some six miles from Greenville on the Stantonsburg highway.

Work is proceeding on the new eight-room elementary school building for Fountain Negro students, and is expected to be completed by the middle of March. The unit will cost over $57,000 when completed and is located on a four-acre tract of land just out from the city limits of Fountain. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

Czechs First To Reply To Disarmament Plans

Generalized Statement Says It Does Not Provide For Immediate Prohibition Of A-Bomb; Vishinsky's Talk Awaited

PARIS (AP)—Czechoslovakia gave the United Nations today the first Soviet bloc reply to the Western disarmament proposals—a mild, generalized statement that the plan was not acceptable because it does not call for immediate prohibition of atomic weapons.

There was no hint when Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky would take the floor in the U. N. Assembly's political committee to reply to U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson's outline of the plan.

Vishinsky sat attentively as Mrs. Gertrude Sekaninova, head of the Czechoslovak delegation, called the West's proposals vague and complicated.

She was followed by Lester B. Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs and chairman of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), who announced Canada's full support for the plan and defended NATO as a regional setup within the United Nations necessary until fears of Russia diminish.

Pearson argued that the West had to negotiate through strength for peace until Russia's threats to peace were withdrawn.

Mrs. Sekaninova's statement reflected none of the laughter Vishinsky said he had for the Western plan after it was first announced.

Instead she spoke at length and in measured tones of both the resolution and the statements that have accompanied it.

Systematic Red Blood Bath Is Charged By Rhee

PUSAN, Korea (UP)—South Korean President Syngman Rhee charged today that the Communists have begun systematically wiping out millions of pro-Allied North Koreans.

He confirmed an 8th Army war crimes report that "Reds already have slain 7,000 South Korean troops and 250,000 civilians and added:

"In addition... they are right now carrying on a campaign of murder never before exemplified in the history of civilized man. Millions of Korean civilians in North Korea are being systematically starved and frozen to death."

"All of those who joyously welcomed the liberating armies a year ago are marked for destruction. They are forced to give up all their food supplies as proof of renewed loyalty to the Communists."

"Warm clothing and bedding is taken from them. They are left naked, and the sooner they die the better it pleases the bestial invaders."

UN Negotiators Concede Arab-Israeli Task Failed

PARIS (AP)—The United Nations Palestine conciliation commission announced today its failure to settle Arab-Israeli differences.

The commission said it had called off the fruitless talks begun here Aug. 10 because neither party showed willingness to make concessions.

The group—made up of representatives of the United States, France and Turkey—now is drafting a report of its failure to the General Assembly. It then will be up to the Assembly to decide whether the commission should be liquidated or continued in existence.

'Mail Early' Is Post Office Plea

Rush Season Near; Senders Advised To Address Carefully

With the Christmas rush approaching, officials at the local post office have begun urging people to get Christmas mail in the post office early and properly addressed.

Joe Dudley, superintendent of mails, said one of the first things to do in aiding post office employees is to purchase an adequate supply of stamps ahead of time and put the proper postage on each mailing article.

Dudley said the post office is recommending people to send mail in first class with the sender's address in the left-hand corner so the mail can be returned if the article is not properly addressed. Third class mail cannot be returned to sender if it is not delivered.

First class mail can be sealed and contain a written message but third class mail cannot be sealed or contain a written message.

"Most important of all," Dudley said, "is to have all mail properly addressed and with the proper name. Do not use nicknames." He said all mail should be completely addressed with the street, house number, apartment number, and complete rural address. Last year between 2,000 and 3,000 articles of mail were destroyed after the Christmas season because of improper addresses.

In reference to parcel post, all packages should be wrapped strongly and carefully and in strong containers.

Three services are offered by the post office to insure quicker delivery: air mail, special delivery, and special handling. Special delivery mail is delivered as soon as it reaches the town or city it is supposed to go to.

Dudley has recommended that all out-of-town mail be in the post office by December 10 and all local mail be in the post office by December 15.

"We expect to handle at least 65,000 articles of outgoing mail per day during the Christmas season," Dudley said, "and the incoming mail per day will be just as heavy." This number is from seven to eight times the volume usually handled.

Extra employees will be hired during Christmas in the office and as carriers. Someone will be stationed by the letter box in the post office to place mail in boxes labeled "local" and "out of town." People are urged by post office officials to separate mail into local and out-of-town mail before bringing it to the post office. It is also asked that mail be brought in instead of leaving it to the carrier to take to the post office.

Jack Garner Will Be 83 Tomorrow

UVALDE, Tex. (UP)—John Nance Garner, still as salty a character as when he was vice president, will be 83 years old tomorrow.

His main ambition is to live nine more years, to the age of 92. "Then I can say I spent half my life as a private citizen," said "Cactus Jack."

Romania Lodges Protest Plane Violated Border

Silent On Whether Missing Transport Is Down Behind Iron Curtain

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UP)—Communist Romania today accused a U. S. Air Force transport of violating its frontiers, but did not say whether the missing plane and four Americans aboard had gone down behind the Iron Curtain.

The protest was lodged with the U. S. delegation in Bucharest as American planes searched in vain over Yugoslavia and adjacent areas for the twin-engine aircraft, missing since Monday.

Romania's note ignored an American claim that Romanian border guards fired on the C-47 when it became lost over Yugoslavia. It was transporting supplies from Munich, Germany, to the embassy in Belgrade.

The embassy announced last night that the pilot also reported Hungarian border guards fired at his plane when it strayed off its course.

(Washington officials promised tough diplomatic action if an investigation shows guards fired on the plane. Det. L. S. were still too meager to warrant immediate action, they said.)

Bucharest's note declared: "The government of the Romanian Popular Republic considers the flight of an American military plane over Romanian territory to be a gross violation of its frontiers — and of elementary principles of international law."

There was no doubt the note referred to the missing aircraft since the note said the violation took place on Monday, the same day the plane disappeared. Allied pilots customarily steer wide of the Iron Curtain on Balkan flights.

The embassy announcement said the plane strayed over the Romanian frontier at Jass Tomic, 80 miles north of Belgrade, and was fired upon there as well as at the Hungarian frontier.

The Hungarian government informed the U. S. legation in Budapest yesterday that it had no information on the plane.

A final message from the pilot, according to the embassy, said: "Lost... no idea where I am."

The search area extended from the Alps region of the Italian, Austrian and Yugoslav borders southward to the Adriatic.

Yugoslavia lifted its normal restrictions on flying over the country and permitted the search planes to hunt from dawn until dusk.

Police Get High Grades In Test

Members of the Greenville police department, in a recent routine examination, part of the permanent training program started by Chief Guy C. Langston, averaged 81.9 per cent, Capt. W. O. Berg stated.

Police men have been required to copy one of the ordinances from the Book of City Ordinances each week for 52 weeks and turn the papers in. The oral examinations this week were Monday night.

Late last spring the merchants' directors agreed to raise the funds for the high school band and the drive for these funds was begun early this fall. During the drive it was learned that the Eppes High School also was in need of new uniforms and that the faculty and student body of the school had been working at various projects and contests for several months trying to raise the necessary $2,000 to purchase the uniforms. The directors continued their drive beyond the actual total needed for the Greenville High School uniforms with the result that the fund was sufficient to take care of the original project and make up the $1,000 supplement to an equal amount already in hand by Eppes High School to pay for its uniforms.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, when informed of the action of the merchants' directors expressed deep appreciation that provision had been made for both the white and Negro bands; and O. E. Dowe, principal of Davenport, principal of Eppes High School each expressed the appreciation of his respective school for

Over 100,000

WASHINGTON (UP)—American battle casualties in Korea—including 16,972 dead—have passed 100,000, the Defense Department announced today.

The total, exceeding the number for World War II in a similar period of combat, was reported as 100,171, including 16,971 missing.

The missing figure covers men whose fate is not definitely known. Many of them are dead, some victims of Red atrocities, some may be prisoners of war, and some eventually may find their way back to the American lines.

The 100,171 total includes all casualties since the war started June 25, 1950, which have been reported to next of kin.

The new total is 950 higher than the one reported a week ago. It includes 70,768 wounded, 174 captured, and 1,391 returned after being listed as missing.

Pay Supplement Plan Is Prepared

A salary supplement based on shooting ability may be forthcoming for members of the Greenville police force if the proposition receives favorable action by the board of aldermen December 6.

A salary supplement scale has received the approval of the police committee of the board of aldermen, and the committee is expected to recommend the proposition to the full board at its next meeting.

The supplement would provide on a monthly basis an addition of $7 to the base pay of the members of the police force. The amount of the additional pay would be determined by the score each month the individual policeman makes on the pistol range.

Police Chief Guy C. Langston pointed out that efficiency in the use of fire arms is an important part of the police program. "In order to gain a high degree of efficiency and skill in the use of it, we have qualification scores required for the policemen each month." If a policeman could qualify in pistol firing, he would receive a qualification supplement for the month.

As the supplement scale is set up at the present time, a policeman who can qualify as a master marksman—30 hits out of 30 shots—would receive a supplement of $7 per month. An "expert"—27 hits out of 30 hits—would receive a $5 per month supplement; a "sharpshooter"—24 hits out of 30 shots—would receive an extra $3 per month; and a "marksman"—20 hits out of 30 shots—would receive an additional $2 per month.

Chief Langston said each member of the force would have to qualify each month for the supplement. In the qualification tests, the policemen will be required to fire 10 quick-draw rounds at a target from 21 feet, with a maximum of three seconds for each shot; 10 shots running fire at five targets in 10 seconds; 10 rounds at 45 feet with 10 seconds allowed for each five rounds.

If the supplement is approved by the aldermen at their regular December meeting, the program is expected to go into effect next month.

GHS And Eppes High School To Soon Acquire New Band Uniforms

Both white and Negro high school bands of this city will soon appear in brand new uniforms as a result of a recent drive for funds by directors of the Greenville Merchants' Association, supplemented by funds already raised by the Eppes High School covering half the cost of their new uniforms. Final action on distribution of the funds was taken by the Merchants Association directors at a regular meeting Monday night.

Late last spring the merchants' directors agreed to raise the funds for the high school band and the drive for these funds was begun early this fall. During the drive it was learned that the Eppes High School also was in need of new uniforms and that the faculty and student body of the school had been working

Chief UN Negotiator Admits Optimism Rising, Though Many Arguments Lie Ahead; Sporadic Fighting On War Front As ROKs Extend Advance

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The Communists agreed in principle today to a United Nations proposal to try to end the Korean war within 30 days.

Several more days of technical arguments on the plan may lie ahead, however, and it was feared that Allied hopes for a truce by Christmas may be dashed.

The Communists replied to the U. N. proposal with a counter-proposal of their own. It was so close to the original Allied plan, however, that Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, chief U. N. spokesman, said:

"I am more optimistic today than I have been for some time past." Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges asked—and the Communists agreed to—a recess until 11 a. m. Thursday (9 p. m. Wednesday EST) to study the Communist counter-proposal.

He said the Allies would present then "the necessary revisions" to clear up ambiguities in the Communist formula.

Hodges at first told newsmen the Red plan "doesn't look as close to ours as we had hoped," but later he and his associates seemed to take a more optimistic view.

Both the U. N. and the Communist plan provide that a cease-fire line provided agreement is reached on the rest of the armistice term within 30 days.

The main unresolved items are supervision over the way armistice terms are observed and arrangements for the exchange of war prisoners.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee San Cho opened the subcommittee meeting after a one-day recess requested by the Communists with the words:

"We have made a careful study of your Nov. 17 proposal and explanatory statement. We agree in principle to your proposal.

"However, we consider the form not proper and suitable for a formal agreement. Also, we hold different views in connection with certain parts."

8TH ARMY HQ, Korea (UP)—United Nations forces seized a hill and beat off two Communist attacks in sporadic fighting along the 135-mile Korean front today.

A U. N. raiding party took a hill northwest of Chorwon on the west-central front in the only Allied advance reported in the 8th Army's evening communique.

Further east, the South Korean 6th Division repulsed a Communist attack against its newly won positions southeast of Kumsong.

The South Koreans had gained another 2,500 yards east of the Pukhan River Tuesday to extend their over-all advance since Saturday to five miles on a nine-mile front. The limited offensive has brought some 38 additional square miles of North Korean territory behind the Allied lines.

On the east-central front, U. N. elements northwest of Puchon Valley beat off a Communist attack in a five-hour battle which lasted until after dawn.

A dispatch from the western front said Allied troops still are counting Communist dead northwest of Yonchon after three nights of futile enemy attacks.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
November 21, 1911

Last night's performance at the Gaiety theatre was highly appreciated by every patron who had the pleasure and time to visit this popular little play house. The singing of Miss Lovelace is up to the standard. Joe Howard still continues to please the funny side of the audience. Everyone should visit the Gaiety tonight. Remember the best comedian on earth can't make chairs laugh. Tomorrow new acts. Hearem and Giggie will hold down the boards. There will be nothing said or done that the most fastidious person would object to. Mr. Armstrong will sing tonight "In All My Dreams I Dream Of You."

At about three o'clock this morning fire of unknown origin broke out in John D's Greenville domain on the west side of the Atlantic Coast line tracks. With an activity and willingness which speaks volumes for the Greenville fire ladders, considering the intense cold prevailing at the hour, a number of fire-fighters turned out and rushed the engine to the place where the Standard Oil Company's tanks are and after a short struggle the fire was extinguished; however, not before a single story frame house had been "ate up" by the flames. Although there was a material loss, it is not expected that John D. will lose any sleep over it.

Funeral Friday For Pitt Soldier

The remains of the late Pfc. Alfred May arrived in Greenville this morning. Pfc. May was killed in action in Korea on February 12, 1951.

Rashie Kennedy, pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church in Greenville. Burial will be in Laney Wood cemetery near Snow Hill. Full military honors will be accorded by a squad of men from Fort Bragg.

Pfc. May, son of Mrs. Mary Mooring May of Greenville, and the late Ben May, was born and reared in Greene County. He came to Pitt County with his family in 1939, and attended Pactolus School. He was drafted in the Army in May, 1945, trained at Fort Bliss, Texas, and served with the Army Occupation in Germany. He was discharged February, 1947. Later he joined the Enlisted Reserve Corps, and was called back in service in October, 1950. He trained at Fort Bragg for a short period before going to Korea, serving with Company A, 38th Infantry Regiment, Second Division.

Surviving are his mother; and three brothers, Ben May, Jr., of Newport News, Va., Marcellous May of near Greenville, and Arthur May of the home.

A Thanksgiving offering will be taken which will go to the orphanage work of the supporting churches. The people of Greenville are urged by ministers in the city to attend the union Thanksgiving service.

Follies Opens To Large Audience; Show Closes After Curtain Tonight

By JESS POINDEXTER
Reflector Staff Writer

Amid the customary bustle, fanfare, and mass confusion so intimately associated with "first nights," the Service League "Follies of '51" opened last night at Austin Auditorium before a near capacity house.

Delighted spectators viewed a little touch of Broadway, as performers in brilliant, multi-colored costumes worried about the stage like authentic troupers.

Long before curtain time, teenage ballerinas and matronly "flappers" darted frantically between rooms, and then with their preparation finally complete, milled in the wings sneaking occasional peeks at the buzzing audience through the curtain.

Approximately 125 local performers revived the era of the pocket flask, bathtub gin, and split skirts for an enthusiastic crowd. The dynamic Charleston, dead for three decades, lived again last night for a fleeting period, and brought back fond memories of a bygone day to mothers with children by their sides.

Immediately before the opening curtain, Director John Farrow told the cast that the three-week rehearsal was ended and they were now "on their own." "I have now finished my work, the rest is up to you," he said. And they did not fail him. There was little respite during the two and one-half hour performance, but entrances were made promptly, and an attentive audience which stayed the entire performance testified to its overall excellence.

During intermission, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, president of the Service League, appeared on stage and thanked the large crowd for attending. "We owe much to you, our community, because on every occasion you have aided us. But we pledge to you that every cent you have contributed through your presence here tonight will go to a good and needy cause."

Members of the cast began arriving shortly after 6 o'clock to start the ordeal of makeup. Each male in the cast showed a look of horror on his face as he was approached by someone waving a lipstick brush at him. "Am I gonna have to put that junk on my face?" one groaned.

Lipstick, powder, eyebrow pencil, eye shadow, and leg makeup were all a part of the makeup and where these items were kept was the busiest room in the building. A crew of about four girls kept the cast member's noses from shining and kept the mascara from getting into watery eyes.

"I can't find my costume," "Oh, I know I'll forget my lines," "Has anyone got earrings to go with my costume?" "I simply can't go on until I change my hose, these have a run in them," and the like were only a few of the many exclamations and remarks heard backstage.

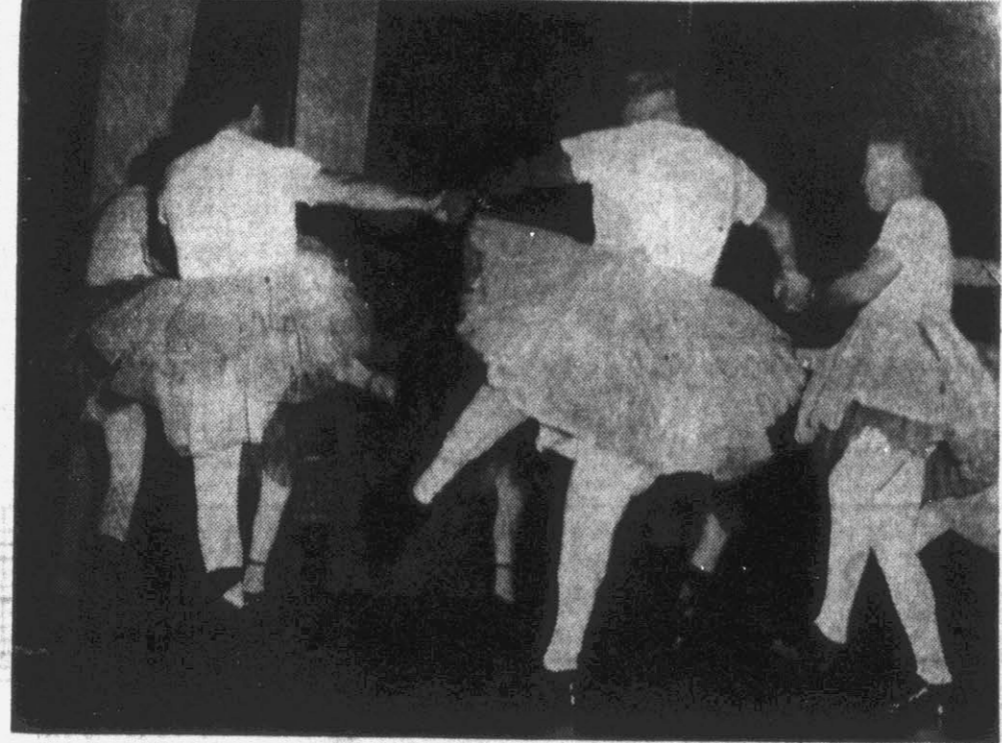

Just about the busiest people backstage were those who handled props. A crew of six or eight handled all props and were right on time with the correct scenery at the correct time.

Not many things added to the confusion backstage and the actors, actresses, dancers, singers remained calm until their number came up. The only a few got "butterflies" and weak knees but all managed to make their entrance and give a commendable performance.

The show, which embraces a total of 30 scenes depicting various settings, will be presented again tonight at 8:15, in Austin Auditorium.

Members of the dance "Top Hat" relaxed just before their number was due, to gossip and discuss the progress of the "Follies" so far. (Staff Photos by Roy Hardee.)

One of the most entertaining scenes in the "Follies of '51," presented last night in the Austin auditorium by the Service League, was the Men's Mock Ballet, "G-object" figures of some of the town's well-known citizens tripped the light fantastic across the stage, to the delight of the audience.

Mercury Drops To 20 Degrees During Night

Frigid weather continues to prevail in the Greenville area and the mercury dropped to 20 degrees (12 below freezing) last night. Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U. S. Department of Commerce, reported today.

Highest temperature here yesterday was 43 degrees. Lowest last night, 20, and at 8 a. m. today the mercury stood at 25. Heavy frost and ice last night.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature in the Greenville area was 79 degrees. Lowest that night, 36, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 37—five degrees above freezing. Slight drizzle of rain that day.

The local Weather Bureau records show that it snowed in Greenville last November 25 (the Saturday after Thanksgiving). Light snow fell during the forenoon and turned to sleet in the afternoon.

Pinehurst Votes Beer-Wine Sale

PINEHURST —(A*) Legal sales of beer and wine are back again in Pinehurst.

At a special election in this resort community yesterday voters approved the legal sale of beer and win by heavy majorities. The vote for wine was 235 for, 21 against; for beer, 238, against 17. The legal sale of the two beverages was voted out in a county-wide election last September.

All members of the cast of the "Follies of '51" went through the same that Betsy Flye Hedgepeth is going through shortly before she appears on the stage. Mrs. Reid Perkins is adding the last artistic touch to Betsy. (Staff Photos by Roy Hardee.)

THANKSGIVING

"What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me?"

I will take the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord." (Ps. 116:12-13)

These two verses express the truth which lies at the heart of all sound religion, namely, that salvation is a gift from God. There is no task we can do which will result in the salvation of our souls. All we can do is to accept the provision which God has offered, after letting go the inferior type of life we have been living.

This is the Thanksgiving season. What can we do to show our thanks to God for all his blessings to us? We can use those blessings to his glory. Above all we can accept the blessing of a regenerated and transformed life which He has offered to those who have faith in Him through Jesus Christ.

We do not work for our salvation; we accept it. It is God's gift. What God most wants from us is not diligence in some work alleged to be holy and redemptive of nature, but simply the willingness to accept and gratefully use the gifts He has to offer.

Another Step To Be Mastered

Now that the figures are in for the 1951 selling seasons on the Greenville and Farmville markets, it is evident that dollar-wise Pitt county has had and is having one of its best fall seasons in many years.

The two markets sold over 105 million pounds of tobacco and paid out more than $58,000,000 during the season, which is several millions more than tobacco on the two Pitt County markets brought last year.

For the farmers it has been an exceptionally good season in spite of the high cost of operations. For the merchants of the county, the fall season this year should prove equally prosperous because the prosperity of the farmers to a great extent determined the prosperity of Pitt County as a whole.

Pitt County continues to hold its rating as the world's largest producer of bright leaf tobacco. The price which tobacco brought this season will go a long way toward keeping for Pitt County its position as one of the leading counties in North Carolina in agricultural wealth.

In spite of higher prices generally, the amount of money in circulation in the county, the unusually high rate of employment during the past several months, and the outlook for continued good employment conditions should help stave off at least partially the post-harvest slump the county experiences each year. It will not, however, unless the people of the county take care to look after the money they have earned.

The people of Pitt County have proved themselves able money-makers, but far too many people of the county have not learned to make the best use of the money they earn.

A Season Of Thanks And Praise To God

With the presence of another Thanksgiving season the people of the United States stop in their whirl of everyday affairs to give thanks to Almighty God for His bountiful blessings which have poured forth abundantly upon the nation and its people.

The hum of factories has ground to a halt, the doors of business houses have closed and most of the people have gathered in their family circles to rejoice with their loved ones and praise God for His thousands of blessings.

In many family circles across the nation this year there will be a vacant chair formerly occupied by a young man who is away at war; and yet we can be thankful that this nation has been spared the horrors of war which have ravaged other nations. There are families which will sit down to feasts of turkey and trimmings; and others who will munch a crust of bread and sip water. But each individual, regardless of his material possessions or his Thanksgiving dinner, has much for which to be thankful. When the Founding Fathers paused at Plymouth to celebrate the first Thanksgiving in 1621, they were aware of the bitter hardships which lay before them, but they were grateful to God for His blessings in spite of the miseries which they had endured. When George Washington proclaimed the first national Thanksgiving 174 years later, the people of the young republic of the United States faced a time of crisis, but they were mindful of the blessings from Almighty God. So it has been down through the decades as once each year America stops to give thanks. Each passing year has brought its bitterness and its sorrows, but each year likewise has unfolded new blessings and abundant mercies from the Great Shepherd upon our people and this nation.

And so in another season of Thanksgiving the people across the nation should pause to count their many blessings and thank God for His goodness as did the Psalmist who wrote:

"Thou visitest the earth, and watarest it; thou greatly enrichest it with the river of God, which is full of water; thou preparerest them corn, when thou has so provided for it.

"Thou watarest the ridges thereof abundantly; thou settlest the furrows thereof; thou makest it soft with showers; thou blessest the springing thereof.

"Thou crownest the year with thy goodness; and thy paths drop fatness."

News Behind The News
By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Washington's refusal to extend financial aid to bankrupt Iran for fear of antagonizing the Churchill Government in the petroleum controversy may result in the loss of another key country to Russia, as denial of military assistance to Chiang Kai-shek helped to throw China into the arms of Moscow. That is the considered opinion of diplomatic row at the Capital, as well as the fear of informed Americans.

London has opposed bitterly any American effort to relieve Prime Minister Mosaddegh's financial condition, which is so bad that Iranian government employees have been unpaid for several months now. Downing Street has also warned that it would regard as an unfriendly act any attempt by American oil interests to negotiate separately with Mosaddegh for operation of the nationalized petroleum industry.

TECHNIQUE—Churchill has been even more adamant against American intervention than Labor Prime Minister Clement Attlee has been, although even he had to warn against U.S. interference. Mr. Churchill really meant it when he said that he "did not become the king's first minister to preside over the dissolution of the British Empire."

As a result of this attitude, the Truman Administration's last-minute move to negotiate a compromise was doomed from the start. Whenever George C. McChes, Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs, reached a tentative agreement with the Iranian negotiators at Washington, he had to phone the British Foreign Office for its reaction. Foreign Minister Eden invariably rejected suggested compromises.

Britain, in effect, hopes that the loss of oil royalties, which are Iran's principal source of revenue, will lead to the overthrow of the Mosaddegh regime, and selection of a Prime Minister willing to settle on London's terms.

To use diplomatic language, the British aim to starve Mosaddegh out of power. It is the historic technique for forcing colonial peoples into line. It is what T. R. called "the big stick."

DEAL—Neutral diplomats, as well as American emissaries once stationed in India and the Near East, do not share the British optimism over the prospective fall of Mosaddegh. Aware of the fierce, nationalistic sentiment which he represents and recognizes, they predict that he will make a deal with Stalin.

Mosaddegh hinted at such a tieup after he discovered that he could expect no help from Washington, and that Mr. McChes was really speaking for Anthony Eden. Shifting his schedule for his home-ward flight, he announced that he would return to Teheran via Egypt, which is virtually engaged in armed conflict with England over the Suez Canal and the Sudan.

DREAD—While hoping for the best, diplomats dread lest the Anglo-American attitude in the dispute may mean the loss of this extremely vital and oil-rich area to the Reds, with the exception of Turkey. It may mean that the Arabian world, which flanks India, will join China in casting its lot in the "cold war" with Josef Stalin.

It is technically true that funds for financing Iran are not available in the Export-Import Bank or the Mutual Security Administration, which now handle both economic and military aid overseas. The Export-Import Bank lends money only on a sure-return, businesslike basis, and the MSA's total appropriation for the whole Near East and Egypt is only $100,000,000.

But technicalities, even if understood, will not satisfy excited mobs in Teheran. They do realize, however, that we have advanced $12,000,000,000 to Western Europe in four years, with no guarantee of repayment, and that we are continuing to pour out money to NATO members.

DISCRIMINATION—So, Mosaddegh's retinue, naturally, left Washington with the impression that we were indulging in discrimination against Iran for England's sake, only they probably called it "blackmail."

These are the factors behind a situation which may transform the Islam world into a more dangerous and explosive area than Korea itself, as developments of the next few weeks or months may demonstrate.

FIFTY-FIFTY—Prime Minister Churchill will make a demand for a British stockpile of atom bombs when he confers here with President Truman in January. Although he will also ask for a loan to tide Britain through its current financial stringency, his principal request will be that England be given a fifty-fifty partnership in the atomic adventure.

Only recently he said that our possession of this weapon was all that had kept Stalin from waging war. He believes that Moscow's awareness of England's strength in this field will serve as another deterrent. He will point out that it is essential for western defense to have a store of tactical A-bombs within easy flying distance of any invasion point.

His announcement of construction of atomic airfields in East Anglia, which started off a secret-minded defense experts, marked his first move in his plan. He made the statement prematurely on purpose. He realizes that any showing of atomic secrets or weapons with a foreign country will necessitate a change in our laws on this question.

These vest control exclusively in civilian authorities, whereas Churchill undoubtedly wants to turn them over to the military. It is expected that any proposal along this line will raise a storm of debate and protest on Capitol Hill.

The Courtship Of Ike Standoffish

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Here's a news flash if I ever heard one! There's a shortage of corn cobs! Before jumping to any conclusions, let me remind you that this shortage will not necessarily boom the paper industry. The shortage of corn cobs came about because they are used for making furfural, which is a chemical compound used in many defense products, ranging from synthetic rubber to nylon.

The Office of Price Stabilization is upset about the corn cob shortage. Last week the OPS removed price restrictions on cobs, hoping that it will bring more out into the open. In other words, with price restrictions gone, people who have been hanging on to their cobs will probably put them on the market.

It's been almost a year since the OPS froze prices, so it's high time they let the lid off. But some day maybe we will understand why the lid never actually went on. Never before during price freezes have so many prices been increased. Of course the hikes had to be approved by the OPS, but that was just a formality. Actually, I think there would have probably been fewer price increases if it had not been for the OPS! In Russia, I'd be sent to a concentration camp for saying such a thing about the government. One of the things I like most about our government is the privilege we have to kick it!

The corn cob industry should be booming this week, with no OPS restrictions. But cobs are not alone. There are several other items that have been exempted from price controls recently:

1. Wooden haircurlers.
2. Glass ice cubes.
3. Toy bones for dogs.
4. Insect burners.
5. Wigs and toupees.

This would be a good story if I could tell you how many man hours, and how many government dollars were spent getting the price restrictions off wooden haircurlers. Since I don't have the figures, you can imagine with me. A wooden hair curler probably costs a penny. Figuring the salaries of government and employees who worked on the hair curler project, the supplies they used, and their retirement benefits, Uncle Sam could have probably supplied the entire nation with free wooden hair curlers for two months with the money he spent.

Today I have thoroughly enjoyed kicking the officials of a country that I'll fight for tomorrow if the draft board comes after me. And I thank you.

Reflector Bureau
By LYNN NISBET
Assn. Afternoon Daily

CROSS SECTION — A Saturday afternoon football crowd in any North Carolina college stadium affords about as good a cross section of adult state population as can be found anywhere. It is just about as completely democratic gathering as can be imagined, and one of the finest places to see the American spirit manifest itself. Millionaire businessmen and mechanics and bookkeepers who work for their rub elbows in complete equality at Saturday football games in this area. Now it is in other places, your reporter would not know. Hereabouts all kinds of folks go to the games, and it is natural that those interested in the same kind of things should sort of gravitate together. One group will be made up mainly of students, another of lawyers, another of newspaper men. Then, sitting along all of these will be groups of old friends getting together—whatever the original basis for association and origin of the friendships, or present position in the overall scheme of things. In such groups two subjects of conversation predominate—politics and business conditions. A bit of eavesdropping on some of these group conversations quickly convinces the listener that these two subjects include, directly or indirectly, just about everything that affects the average citizen—and that actually there are not two subjects, but just one.

KENAN — Kenan stadium at Chapel Hill last Saturday afternoon presented a fine illustration of mass assemblage with natural breakdown into affiliated groups giving a cross section of North Carolina. Main business of the forty-odd thousand folks present was to see the game between Notre Dame and Carolina. Each of the spectators, whether ten or eighty years old, saw plenty of good football. A considerable proportion of the attendants also took advantage of the opportunity to renew personal friendships, discuss matters of peculiar interest to their vocations whether that interest was primarily in government, manufacturing, banking or farming. That necessarily meant there was a lot of political talk, because next year is a political year in North Carolina and in the United States — and recent developments have made it a highly important year.

POLITICS — Whether by accident or design is not quite clear, but your reporter found himself mixed up in a group that was apparently most concerned about outcome of next year's elections. Some two dozen members of the legislature, past and present, were on hand. So were a half dozen or more high ranking state officials, most of whom admittedly want to keep their rank. Mixing around in the crowd were several men expected to figure prominently in the race for governor next year. There was State Treasurer Brandon Hodges of Asheville, Major Lennox P. McLendon of Greensboro and former Judge Hubert Olive of Lexington. They were all genial and each of them spoke to as many people as possible, but somehow none of them acted much like a real candidate. Also on hand was former Senator William B. Umstead of Durham, who is an avowed candidate for governor—and acted like it. QUALIFICATIONS — Although his prospective candidacy is not presently accepted very seriously, his record qualifies him for support of the extreme liberals. He was one of the insurgent leaders who broke into a long established organization in Buncombe county in 1946, and represented the county in the 1947, 1949 and 1951 legislatures. He consistently supported larger appropriations for public schools, welfare and health, and sponsored several "measures" which were classified as pro-labor. There had been previous suggestion he might be injected into the race for speaker-ship of the next house of representatives, or as a candidate for congress in the twelfth district, but until the past few days had not been mentioned in connection with the governorship.

AGE — Taylor will be 42 years old next January 31. He is the youngest prospective candidate put forward this year, but is about two years older than was Charles B. Aycock when he was inaugurated governor. Next youngest governor was Max Gardner, who was 41 when elected—but only 39 when he ran the first time. Ralph McDonald, who was 33 when he made his first unsuccessful try, is believed to be the youngest candidate in recent years. The state constitution requires the governor and lieutenant governor to be at least thirty years old when inaugurated. It was noted that several chief executives attending the recent national governors' conference at Gatlinburg were under forty years of age.

assistant chief. A couple of members of Smyth's office staff were also suspended, one for confessing to embezzling $45,000 and another for confessing to back-dating receipts of tax returns to cut off interest penalties for certain taxpayers. How is the man who brought this corruption to light rewarded? His superior tries to fire him. "It should shock the American people," says Senator Williams, "just as it shocks me."

If it will help Attorney General McGrath any in making up his mind whether to keep or fire Mr. O'Gara, we'll say this: It shocks us.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

WERE NOT SHOCK-PROOF YET (Greensboro Daily News) Fledgions in the papers are about to do a lot of firing in an attempt to clear the air in the Internal Revenue Bureau and the Justice Department. Certainly a housecleaning is overdue; the air is foul. But it will not be easy. Look at this bit of news. The man who lifted the lid on corruption in the office of the collector of internal revenue in San Francisco is about to get fired himself. He is Charles O'Gara, assistant United States attorney. His dismissal has been recommended by his superior, U. S. Attorney

Chauncey Tramulo. The recommendation is in the hands of Attorney General McGrath. Mr. O'Gara is the man who gave the information on the irregularities in the San Francisco office to Senator John J. Williams of Delaware and the Senate Finance Committee. As a result, see what happened. James Smyth, collector of internal revenue, San Francisco, was suspended pending an investigation of his competency. Also suspended for similar investigations were his chief deputy, assistant chief of the income tax division, chief field deputy, deputy collector, chief of the wage and excise-tax division and the assistant chief. I've never used my glove-clutch; I forget about the thing that hangs my bag on the edge of a restaurant table, and I can't find a battery to fit the little flashlight designed to help me find the lock of my front door. Also I've plenty of keys and a definite over-supply of fat little wallets and slim little money-clips, all of which carry my initials and so prevent my giving them away. I've no place for pictures of family groups even if my friends have handsome children. We have enough cocktail, highball, old-fashioned, wine and pony glasses to equip a new restaurant. We don't have even an old-fashioned record player, so enough of these dandy albums of his show songs. I haven't put up last year's antiquated door-knocker and matching mud-scraper, and we haven't used the old sleighbells for Yule decor. Finally, we sure liked the pair of holly trees, sir. But you didn't send us a boy and a girl. They are

Business Today

One of the nation's largest producers of men's accessories has put its salesmen through a course to relay to retailers to help sell its products. It is interesting because the principles of this course will sell more than belts and jewelry—they will sell canned tomatoes, shoes, fishing rods, generators and love seats. Point 9 will need a bit of adaptation.

It may pay all retailers to take a peek at these sales principles propounded by Ray C. Brewster, sales manager of Hickok Mfg. Co.:

1. Customers are individuals who want to be better, not different.
2. Customers want to be known for their better tastes.

WONDER DRUGS CHANGE DRUG SALE PATTERN

More than half the sales of pharmaceutical companies today are being made on drugs that were unknown ten years ago. The Synthetic Organic Chemical Manufacturers' Association was told at its recent convention. These include the long list of "wonder drugs" that have greatly altered medical practice.

ENGINEERS SCARCE

MANY COMPANIES SAY Thirty per cent of the manufacturing companies polled by the National Manufacturers' Association were unable to fill their present openings for graduate engineers and 41 per cent said they expect difficulties during the next two or three years. Of the firms polled, 41 per cent said they normally hired one or more graduates each year.

EXPECTS TEXTILE FIRMS IN APPAREL RETAILING

Many clothing retailers have also become manufacturers in recent years.

Now, no wool fabric manufacturers may enter the retail field, C. F. H. Johnson, leading manufacturer, warned the New York Society of Security Analysts. He was not speaking of his company, Botany Mills, which is concentrating on exclusive garment manufacturers in the men's and women's field. The trend, he indicated, was to simplify distribution with the elimination of multiple mark-ups.

Hal Boyle's Column

Dear Mr. Claus: I hope you won't think I'm too fussy. But I just want to be helpful. Don't you think, Mr. Claus, that you are staying up North too much? Don't you think you are getting a little out of touch with us gift-receivers?

What I had in mind was that you assign some of your helpers down here on a permanent basis and have them make surveys for you on our receiving problems. It would save you a lot of trouble. I'm sure, and maybe you could even cut down on the size of your staff. I know it would make life more pleasant for us.

Of course, mine is just a personal reaction. I wouldn't even call it a complaint, but let's just take last Christmas's performance, for example. I suppose lots of people would agree that "The Complete Fox Terrier Book" that I do think representative down here could have found out it was a book on cat-raising we needed.

And about stockings, Mr. Claus, nylon is a wonderful present for any woman. I'd have enjoyed my present much more, however, if they hadn't been two sizes too small and designed, apparently, for a midget. And I sort of resent spending a lunch hour leaving them exchanged.

No handkerchief cases this Christmas, please. Things must have gotten mixed up last year—I received three of them, and two the year before. At the moment, I do believe I've more cases than handkerchiefs. And while we're on the subject, I like little white ones with hand-rolled edges. In the alternative, give me a year's supply of cleansing tissues.

There's the difficult perfume situation. I don't care how much it costs per ounce, but I just don't like floral odors except a good carnation. Yet I'm the kid who gets the big bottles of lilac and sweet pea. I don't care how it's wrapped — the decor leaves me cold — and I put it aside until it evaporates and meanwhile sneak out and buy my favorite smell.

No compacts, no cosmetic sets and above all no more gadgets for my purse, dear Santa, on account I've got drawers full left over from previous years. If I were to equip my handbag with all the gimmicks I now possess, there wouldn't be room for my change purse and commutation ticket. I've never used my glove-clutch; I forget about the thing that hangs my bag on the edge of a restaurant table, and I can't find a battery to fit the little flashlight designed to help me find the lock of my front door. Also I've plenty of keys and a definite over-supply of fat little wallets and slim little money-clips, all of which carry my initials and so prevent my giving them away.

I've no place for pictures of family groups even if my friends have handsome children. We have enough cocktail, highball, old-fashioned, wine and pony glasses to equip a new restaurant. We don't have even an old-fashioned record player, so enough of these dandy albums of his show songs. I haven't put up last year's antiquated door-knocker and matching mud-scraper, and we haven't used the old sleighbells for Yule decor. Finally, we sure liked the pair of holly trees, sir. But you didn't send us a boy and a girl. They are flourishing, but they are either a couple of boys or a couple of girls—anyway, no berries. Like I said, I appreciate everything and we wouldn't want to change a thing. If you'd only take a few more pains in your preliminary surveys, I wouldn't say a word. Or just send gift certificates. And a Merry Christmas to you.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — "How ye goun' to keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen Parsee?" war a popular ditty of World War I days. Returning ex-farm-bro soldiers seemed to prefer the city's bright lights to the wide open spaces.

Today it isn't so much the boys but the girls who are leaving the farm for the city.

Miss Lydia Lynde, farm family life specialist of the Department of Agriculture, brought up this problem at a conference of agricultural extension people. Miss Lynde told the conferees that all over rural America girls are leaving the farm earlier than usual, chiefly because the farm isn't offering them any future as far as jobs are concerned.

"Families ought to give daughters more independence and more opportunities for pleasant entertainment at home, and churches and communities ought to work out more programs of interest to young girls," Miss Lynde said. "A great deal has been done in father-son agreements about profits on the farm, but so far nothing has been done about father-daughter agreements. This might be one solution to the problem."

In making the home pleasant enough to keep young women on the farm, strides have been made in improving household equipment, although farm women do not have the household equipment that city women have.

China Frankly Describes Force Labor Camp Use

HONG KONG —(UP)— Forced labor camps which the Chinese Communists are using to stamp out all independence of thought are a great success, the official New China News Agency reported from Peiping.

The agency distributed a frank account of the system operating in one of the camps which the Communists have started for political dissenters in China.

It said that the Chingo farm, operated by the Peiping public security bureau (political police) near the national capital, began functioning in March, 1950, just six months after the Communists established their government.

It was just an expanse of desolate fields with few inhabitant but in 18 months the prisoners had built eight villages, dug miles of ditches and installed pumping stations, brick kilns, rice mills and

Bad Checks Paid For Honeymoon

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP)— A young couple police said financed part of a Florida honeymoon with worthless checks probably will spend the rest of it in jail.

Mrs. Ora Lee Davis, 21, of Lenoir, N. C., was sentenced to six months in state prison yesterday by Criminal Court Judge E. G. Newell.

She pleaded guilty to issuing a worthless check for $50 to a Rivera Beach tourist court.

Her husband, John E. Davis of Richmond, Va., was sentenced to a year in prison last month when he pleaded guilty to the same charge. Both signed the check. Davis had been held in jail pending disposition of his wife's case.

Sheriff John F. Kirk of Palm Beach County said the couple also faced prosecution on worthless check charges at Key West, Fort Lauderdale and Daytona Beach.

The sheriff said Davis was wanted in Fairfax, Va., on stolen car charges and that he had spent time in the Ohio state penitentiary.

The car was recovered in Homestead, Fla., a short time after Davis told Key West police it had been stolen while he and his bride were honeymooning.

a straw bag factory.

Land Reclaimed
In 1950 the political prisoners reclaimed more than 1,000 acres of land, planted rice on 840 acres and reaped 1,800,000 pounds of unhusked rice.

This year production skyrocketed by 500 to 600 per cent, apparently due to a speed-up and a great influx of fresh labor, and by 1952 the prison farm should be self-sufficient, the agency said.

"When the criminals first came here they had absolutely no work habits, no production skill and they hated labor," the report went on. "Some of them practised slow-down strikes, some utilized the time for going to the toilet to evade work, and some even went to the length of open resistance, sabotaging tools or organizing escapes."

"Through diverse labor and ideological education the criminals have undergone a great change ideologically. Most of the criminals submitted to authority, admitted their crime and showed repentance."

Extreme resisters are shot in front of the other inmates, the agency said, citing one prisoner who organized an escape.

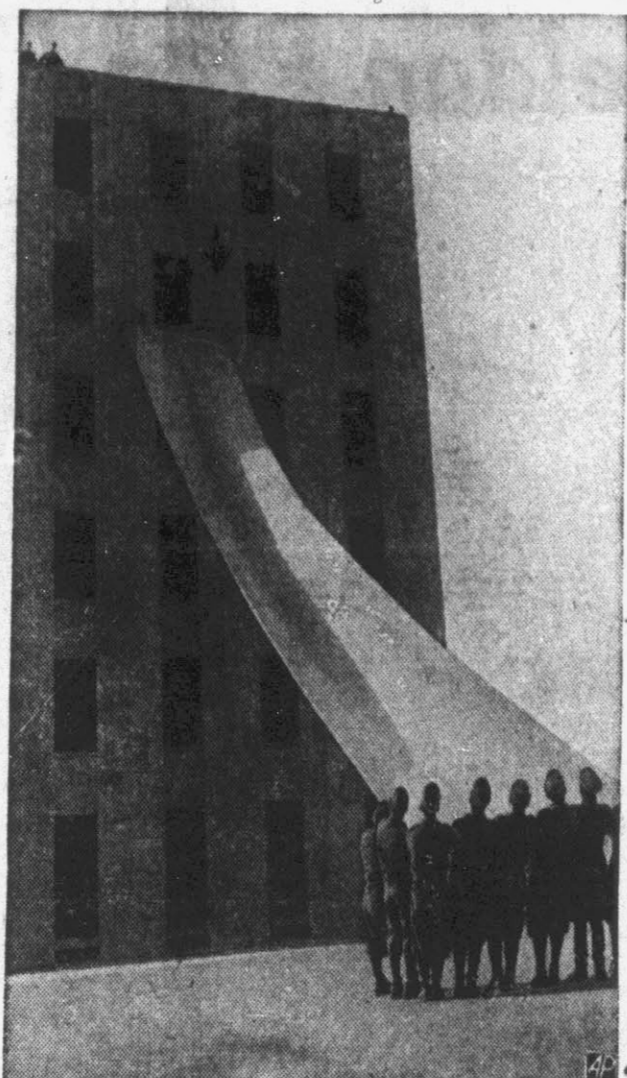

The agency admitted that "the reactionary thoughts of counter-revolutionaries cannot be reformed all at once. A few counter-revolutionaries resist reform and even continue to carry on sabotage activities..."

"Those criminals who sincerely repent and demonstrate outstanding positiveness (adaptability to Communist ideas) and whose crimes are not serious are released ahead of schedule."

Some Set Free
"From March 1950 up till now, the Chingo farm has, with the approval of superior organs, set free more than 200 criminals, including 40 who were released before the expiration of their terms."

"That the Chingo farm has achieved the above success in educating counter-revolutionary criminals through labor is due to the fact that the farm adopted the correct policy of combining reform through labor with political reform."

The purpose of it all is to make the prisoners "new men" purged of all independence of thought. This idea of making political dissenters into "new men" is also the theme of a current film being exhibited in Communist China.

This Year's Yule Trees Planned In '41

By CHARLES LYONS
AP Newsfeatures Writer
This year more than 10 million Christmas trees will be used in the United States. Planning for most of them was begun about a decade ago by the Christmas-tree farmer.

In early days wild stock was used exclusively for Christmas trees. With the growing interest in conservation in the early years of the 20th Century, hand-planted trees appeared. Since then the trend has been toward the domestic rather than the wild tree.

Any land that is well drained and free from large woody vegetation will probably grow Christmas trees. The annual income per acre from a Christmas tree plot may well compare favorably with that from a more intensive crop.

A Christmas-tree farmer has to have a good deal of know-how. He has to be alert to possible hazards from livestock, fire, insects and disease, rodents, adverse weather, thieves and the competition of "volunteer" hardwoods growing up in the Christmas tree plantation.

Some farmers plant an equal area each year until the first harvest, say in 10 years. After harvesting, each area is replanted the following spring thus a rotation is established and the supply is constant.

Four groups of conifers are in common use as Christmas trees: pine, spruce, fir and hemlock.

Pines hold their needles well and are rapid growers, compared to spruce or fir. However, they usually present a too open, scraggly appearance. The spruces are popular because of their compact bushy growth and conical shape. One of the most beautiful trees produced in the U. S. is the black spruce from swamp bogs of Minnesota.

Douglas firs and balsam firs develop into satisfactory trees without pruning. Spruces require years. Hemlocks are the least satisfactory because of the tendency to needle loss when brought indoors. The demands of the public determine cutting time for Christmas trees, whether it be for 3-foot table models or the more conventional 6 and 7-footers.

Roman Candles To Chase Birds

URBANA, Ill.—(AP)— Use Fourth of July Roman candles to get rid of noisy flocks of starlings or blackbirds, suggests the University of Illinois experts.

The university wildlife service says shoot the Roman candles just before it gets dark and the birds then will have only enough light left to fly elsewhere for the night. It adds that two or three nights of this should scare the birds away for good.

FARMVILLE—The Pitt county Negro English teachers met at H. B. Sugg Hill School here Monday night to synchronize teaching of English from the eighth through the 12th grades.

This move was deemed necessary in order to prevent an academic lag during the expected change of schools by many of the Negro tenant populace, a teacher stated.

Goals proposed are: (1) The mechanics of written and oral composition are to be emphasized in the eighth, ninth and 10th grades. (2) Literary practices and procedures are to be emphasized in the 11th and 12th grades. Various techniques are to be used in pursuance of these goals.

LAGAYETTE, Ind.—(UP)— Nearly everybody reads too slowly but that habit can be corrected, according to Prof. Russell Cosper of Purdue University.

FINED FOR GAME LAW VIOLATION
Magistrate H. L. Jenkins found David Dixon, middle-age white mechanic of the Black Jack community, guilty of hunting deer out of season at a hearing this week.

He fined the defendant $40 and court costs.

Dixon gave notice of appeal, but later withdrew it and paid the fine and about $9.70 court costs, District Game and Fish Protector J. O. Teel stated.

Testimony was that Dixon, with gun and dog, was hunting deer in Pitt County in violation of a state law prohibiting hunting of deer in Pitt County at any time.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY KELLS

The United Press All-Star team for the Southern Conference, announced in today's sports pages, will no doubt evoke some comment from persons who follow the play of the 17 member circuit.

Perhaps the biggest comment will come from supporters of the Wake Forest Deacons who failed to put a man on the first team. The Deacs got Guard Clyde Pickard on the second team and three men on the third team. Only Bill Miller—who was out most of the year with injuries—got backfield mentions for the Deacons.

Tackle Bill George, rated by many as the best in the loop, came up with a third team nomination. He was ranked behind Elmer Costa of State, John Kreamcheck of William and Mary, Ed Meadows of Duke, and Dick Modzelewski of Maryland. Placing George, a senior and the mainstay of the Deacon line, down that far will make some folks mighty unhappy.

Another cause for griping might come from leaving off the Deacon backfield men who did the real work for them this year. Miller is without a doubt a powerful runner—perhaps the most powerful in the circuit—but not too much running can be done when a player is sitting on the bench with a bad knee. That was Miller's situation for most of the year and only against Duke—when he ran wild as usual—did the big fullback see any extensive duty.

Other than leaving out the Deacons—End Jack Lewis is another that might have been mentioned—the team seems to be a pretty good one. I hardly think there will be any real complaining about the guys who made the team—it's the ones who didn't make it that will bring about the gripes.

The Exchange Bowl game tomorrow afternoon in East Carolina College's football stadium should attract the attention of a lot of Greenville football fans. The game will decide the championship of the Little League Football League.

The game will be played by White and Blue teams. Kick-off time is slated for 3 p.m.

Judge Saul Streit, the presiding judge in the trial of the basketball "fixes," has finally brought to light that which almost everyone has known for these many years. He's told the public about how big-time athletics operates. His disclosures have already evoked comment from several big-time coaches—including Maryland's Jim Tatum and SMU's Rusty Russell.

Streit charged SMU with giving out 154 athletic scholarships a year—thereby creating an air of professionalism and besmirching the fair name of collegiate athletics. Coach Russell's reply was pretty much to the effect that "Sure SMU gives out 154 scholarships. But they aren't all for football. We give scholarships in baseball, basketball, swimming, golf—and others. It helps some boys get through college who would otherwise have to stay home."

Tatum, Maryland's Sunny Jim, also backed up the Judge's charge that Maryland had 97 football players—60 of them from outside the state. He admitted the figures were correct but defended them in uncertain tones.

"We bring them (athletes) before our scholarship board, and if they pass, we give them books, tuition, room, board, and $15 a month," said Tatum. "Sure we help them. Everybody needs a little help now and then. But it's no racket. If I thought I was running a racket, I'd quit right now."

There are other echoing statements coming from all over the country. Some folks are jumping to either side and it looks as if the battle lines are drawn.

This column likes athletic scholarships. For the most part, the aid goes to boys who need it. And all of them aren't disappointing in the classroom—a very great majority do very well, thank you. After all, they're just ordinary human beings. Some people seem to want to forget that and expect superhuman efforts from athletes.

Incidentally, the basketball players who got sentenced got only a little publicity. They were shoved down into the last paragraphs by the Judge's blast at inter-collegiate athletics.

Greenville High School will open an 18 game basketball schedule November 30 when they meet the Cyclones of Wilson High School here in Greenville. Five of the 18 games will be played before Christmas.

Two games are scheduled with Rocky Mount, two with Wilson, and one with Goldsboro. The game with Goldsboro will be played in Goldsboro and is to be the dedication game for the new gymnasium.

Ayden And Weldon Prep For Goober Tilt

Both Teams Defeated By Williamston Wave

Ayden Planning Motorcade To Make Trip To Enfield; Highway Patrol To Escort Parade Which Will Form At 12:30

Ayden and Weldon will square off in Enfield tomorrow afternoon in the fourth annual Goober Bowl football game. Sponsored by the Enfield Junior Chamber of Commerce, the bowl has brought together two of the outstanding Class A teams in the East for the last four years.

Committee members who were in charge of selecting the teams this year have announced that they have selected the best two teams ever to be represented in the Goober Bowl in the Tornadoes from both Ayden and Weldon High. The two clubs have almost even records. Ayden has dropped three games this year while winning five. Ayden has won five, lost two, and tied two.

Both teams were defeated by a mutual opponent, defending state champion Williamston High. Williamston squeezed by Ayden in the first game of the year with a late game touchdown pass, 18-13. The Green Wave bowled over Weldon last week, 32-13.

Over 5,000 fans are expected to turn out for the event, although the weatherman has promised plenty of good, cold wind. No snow or rain was in sight at the last report.

Ayden people have planned a big "Goober Bowl Motorcade" when they start on their journey to the peanut city. People who wish to drive to Enfield have been asked to meet by the Primary School in Ayden at 12:30 and they will all leave together, behind a state highway patrol escort.

Weldon will depend upon halfbacks Dickie Dickens and Garland Conwell for its scoring punch. Dickens is reputed to be one of the best backs in eastern high schools, and has gained over 700 yards in the eight games this year. Conwell is also a good runner and does part of the passing, sharing this with Dickens.

Leading the team on defense is their 235-all-conference, Hank Spivey. Spivey has been a terror in opposing backfields all year and has been voted on the first team All-Roanoke-Chowan Conference team for the second year and the Halifax County Conference eleven for three years.

Ayden's backfield punch centers around quarterback Hal Edwards' passing and running. Edwards has been the chief cog in Coach Stuart Tripp's team this year after taking over the first string quarterback duties midway the season.

Edwards will be backed up by the backfield by three other hard runners. Wesley Cannon, a 120-pounder who came into his own as a star this year, will join with red-head John Cheek at the halfbacks to give Tripp one of the best pair of runners in Ayden history. Delann Cox, who can also pass and does so occasionally, takes care of the fullback duties.

End Mac Whitehurst, all-Coastal Conference for three years running and captain of the mythical squad and co-captain of the Tornadoes this year, is the best pass receiver. Whitehurst, who stands two inches over six feet, was one of the chief factors in holding the heavily favored Hertford Indians to a tie last week.

All-Conference Randall Harrington holds out at one of the tackles, while Todd Kittrell handles the other. Gordon Hart, Riey Tripp, Norman Skinner, and Billy Holland will alternate at the guards. Curtis Dennis, another all-conference stalwart, holds forth at center. Willis Manning, second string all-conference, teams with Whitehurst at the other end position.

Kickoff time is slated for 3 p.m. in Enfield.

Pirates Finish Heavy Workouts For Final Game

The East Carolina Pirates yesterday closed out their rough work for the 1951 football season and have only light signal drills to cover before closing their season Saturday against the Citadel in Charleston, South Carolina. The game will begin at 2:30.

Coach Bill Dole yesterday said that he was well pleased with the way the Buc practices were coming along. "The team has a lot of spirit and pep and are looking forward to the game," Dole continued. This is the first time that football teams from the two schools have met.

The Pirates have held heavy workouts on both Monday and Tuesday of this week and the feature of both days has been the running of halfback Iliard Yarborough. Yarborough, who has been out of action since the third game of the year, returned to heavy work only last week but is expected to be at one of the starting halfback slots on Saturday. He is a 170 pound native of High Point.

Yarborough's injured knee is not giving him any further trouble and only tackle Sonny Callahan seems to be bothered to any degree by injuries. Callahan still complains of soreness in a knee that was hurt in practice about two weeks ago and which kept him out of the Pirates' 45-0 victory over Cherry Point.

The Pirates will leave Friday morning via chartered bus for the contest.

Kaz Leads All-East Selections By UP

NEW YORK (UP)—Dynamo Dick Kazmaier, Princeton's brilliant triple-threat halfback, and three of his Tiger teammates were named today to the 1951 United Press All-East college football team.

In addition to Kazmaier, the Tigers named were end Frank McPhee, center Dave Hickok and Vic Bill, a guard.

Holy Cross, the second-ranking Eastern team, placed two men, quarterback Chuck Maloy and tackle John Felch.

The remainder of the mythical first team is made up of end Earl Kluckhorn of Colgate, tackle Paul Tetrault of Navy, guard Dominic Liotta of Villanova, and backs Harry Agganis of Boston University and Burt Talmage of Bucknell.

Have 'New Look'

EAST LANSING, Mich. —(AP)—Michigan State's 1951-52 hockey team will have the new look when it takes to the ice. Included on the 27 man roster are only seven holdovers. In addition, the team will be directed by a new coach, Amo Bessone.

Terps Pace UP Selections For All-Southern Squad

RALEIGH, N. C. (UP)—Mighty, undefeated Maryland, currently on the carpet for accepting a bid to the Sugar Bowl, placed two virtually unanimous choices on the 1951 United Press All-Southern Conference football team announced today.

Bob Ward, ferocious 185-pound "midget" guard of the huge Terrapin line, led the balloting for the dream team selected by UP sportswriters from stars of the largest conference in the nation.

Ward's teammate, fullback Ed (Mighty Mo) Modzelewski, led the backfield balloting from among 76 nominations that included stars from 16 of the 17 conference members.

Ward, a senior from Elizabeth, N. J., called by Coach Jim Tatum "one of the greatest linemen in history," was one of four repeaters on the team from 1950. Other stars re-named were end Glenn Smith of Clemson, tackle Elmer Costa of North Carolina State and glittering Oil Bocetti, Washington and Lee quarterback.

The 1951 All-Southern is a team of experience, with eight seniors and three juniors. It is a team of big linemen, averaging a shade better than 200 pounds each and standing an average of more than six feet. It is a team of versatility in every position.

Bocetti's ball-handling wizardry, fakes, pitchouts and bullet passes earned him the first-team berth again, but he just shaded such stars as Maryland's Jack Scarbath and the league's leading ground-gainer, Alex Webster of North Carolina State.

Teamed with Bocetti and Modzelewski in the first-team backfield were triple-threat tall-tack Billy Hair of Clemson and shifty Ed Modzelewski, the break-away runner and deadly passer who brought William and Mary to unexpected heights. Hair and Modzelewski edged out Steve (Cadillac) Wadiak of South Carolina and romping Chet Hanulak of Maryland in the voting.

The two Smith boys, end Glenn of Clemson and center Larry of South Carolina, were mainstays of their respective teams. Glenn was Clemson's best pass-snatcher and teamed up with Hair to give the Tigers one of the best aerial combinations in the country. South Carolina Coach Rex Enright termed his Smith "one of the finest centers I've ever coached," and outstanding centers have been a tradition with the Gamecocks.

Neal Petree of VMI, rangy pass-snagger, and one of the league's best punters, who was chosen as the other end, so versatile he often plays safetyman.

The biggest men on the squad are "Big John" Kreamcheck, bulwark of the William and Mary line, and Costa, the "Big push" of the Wolfpack, at tackles. They weigh 235 and 220 respectively.

Joe Dudeck, captain and inspirational leader of the North Carolina Tar Heels, won the other guard spot, edging Captain Weir Goodwin of VMI.

Little League Champs Meet In Exchange Bowl

'Drastic Plan' To Be Present To NCAA Meeting

CHICAGO (UP)—A drastic plan to curtail bowl games and basketball tournaments, financial aid, practice sessions and eligibility will be presented to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Cincinnati convention Jan. 9-12.

The program was approved by the policy making NCAA council after a two day-session. It called for:

1. A resolution requesting members to make no commitments for post-season games after Jan. 2, 1953, pending a report by the extra events committee on how to eliminate pressures such games create.
2. Two constitutional amendments on out-of-season football and basketball practice, one limiting practice to the season of the sport, the other restricting workouts to 9 days. The convention will be asked to approve one.
3. A constitutional amendment requiring an athlete, to remain eligible, to enter in accordance with published requirements, maintain academic standing, and make satisfactory progress toward a degree.
4. A constitutional amendment making ineligible any athlete who receives financial assistance not administered or approved by his institution.
5. A resolution to give the football rules committee survey results showing the "majority" of members "want something done" to limit free football substitutions, affecting the platoon system.
6. A resolution appointing a committee to study scheduling practices and recommend to the 1953 convention limits on the number of games and the length of seasons for all sports, particularly football and basketball.

The championship of the first Little League Football League in Greenville will be decided Thursday afternoon as the White and Blue teams battle each other for the title in the annual Exchange Club Bowl game. The contest will be staged at College Stadium on the campus of East Carolina College, with a 1 p.m. kickoff.

White won the regular season title and defeated Red in the first game of the championship playoffs on November 8. They were scheduled to meet the winner of the Gold-Blue game in the finals, but when Gold was forced to drop out of the loop because of undisclosed reasons, league officials decided to have the two teams, White and Blue, meet in the championship game.

Exchange Club officials, who have been sponsoring a Thanksgiving Day Bowl game for the last two years, asked the two teams to play off the crown-game under the club's auspices. Their bid was accepted by the managers of the eleven and Recreation Director Warren Carroll. Tentative lineup for the White team, coached by Mickey Berman and Herb Carlton have Harris Northrop and Chris Henderson at the ends, Jimmy Bridges and Billy Willis at tackle, and Bryce Cummings and Howard Garner at the guards. The center slot will be held by Merrill Eymann, with Ike Riddick, Charles Bumbley, Bobby Edwards, and Peanut Nunn in the backfield. Blue will have as its starting lineup: ends—Jimmy Long and Barney Barrett; tackles—Erskine Duff and Abner Eason; guards—Dickie Harr and Charles Catlett; center—Colon Nuffin; backs—Bentley Sermons, Jim McGee, Robert Crawford, and Kelly Barnhill.

Tech-Vols Series Might Be Renewed

ENOKVILLE (UP)—Tennessee and Georgia Tech may resume their Southern Conference football rivalry in 1954.

Tennessee Coach Bob Neyland said last night he and Coach Bobby Dodd of Tech have agreed to "talk over dates" at the SEC meeting in Birmingham Dec. 13-15.

The four-year series ended in 1949 with each team credited with two wins. The contract between the Vols and the Yellow Jackets was not renewed because of the inability of the two to shift dates on their schedules.

PUNTS-RETURN SPECIALIST
EAST LANSING, Mich. —(AP)—Jim Ellis, lightning-fast Michigan State safety man, returned a punt 87 yards for a touchdown against Penn State. In the next game against Pittsburgh, Jim gave a repeat performance by sprinting 55 yards with a punt for a touchdown.

CCNY To Curtail Future Athletics

NEW YORK (UP)—City College of New York, which returned basketball to its gymnasium when some of its players became involved in the bribery scandal, took another long stride away from athletics today with the announcement of a de-emphasis program.

Lester M. Nichols, assistant to President Harry Wright, announced the college is adopting a plan that, he said, "will result in the elimination of City as an athletic power in the future."

Nichols said the college will take steps to see that there is no recruiting of athletes and will carefully check high school transcripts of athletes. He made the announcement yesterday after Wright had admitted that at least two of the basketball players convicted of "throwing" games had gained entrance to the college through falsified high school grades. This had been charged by Judge Saul Streit at the time he sentenced the players.

Wright said "no evidence" had been discovered as to who tampered with the records of the players, and added, "The situation is complicated because there are about 50 persons in the recording offices who had access to the files."

Armed Forces Plan To Call Up More Reserves

WASHINGTON (UP)—The armed services expect to call up more reservists to help replace those it releases, a United Press survey showed today.

The great call-up of reserves after outbreak of the Korean war yanked 740,000 Americans back into uniform in the first 15 months, the services revealed.

Now some reservists who were called back are ending their tours of duty.

Congress has provided that World War II veteran officers called back from the inactive and volunteer reserves (non-pay status) must be released as soon as possible after 17 months active duty — or in the case of enlisted men, no more than 18 months, effective Nov. 30.

Reserves called back with organized units and those who returned voluntarily must serve 24 months.

Here is a breakdown of the reserve picture by services:

Army — Called up 322,000 reserves by Sept. 30. This includes 82,000 officers and 123,000 enlisted men called as individuals, 8,000 officers and 29,000 men with organized reserve units and 10,000 off-

Early Carolina Pageant Presented By Students

Members of the eighth grade North Carolina History Class of Greenville High School presented a five-scene pageant entitled "Sketches of Early Carolina" this morning in the high school auditorium. This pageant, consisting of drama, music, dance and pantomime, was presented as a climax in the classes study of a unit on North Carolina before the American Revolution. The scenes in the production included a portion of Paul Greene's symphonic drama, "The Lost Colony." Also, included were scenes of the Edenton Tea Party and the arrival of Flora McDonald in Wilmington.

The Junior High Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Osa Shindler assisted by Miss Jean Shavendor and Miss Alice McKenzie, practice teachers from East Carolina College, rendered appropriate selections throughout the production. Included in the musical arrangements were: "The Old North State," "Cindy," "Steal Away" and "Dundee," a sixteenth century hymn.

Nelson Blount was historian and unfolded the story of the pageant to the audience. Leading roles were KINSTON — (AP)—More than 700 Negro students of Adkins High School staged a one-day strike yesterday in protest against conditions at the school.

Student leaders advised the strikers to return to school. The students left the school and paraded through town to emphasize their eight-point protest which was presented to the school board Monday night. The sidewalk parade was orderly and no disturbances were reported.

The protest was based on claims that the school grounds, classrooms and auditorium were inadequate.

Prisoners In TB Hospital Escape

RALEIGH (AP)—A search continued today for two prisoners under treatment for tuberculosis who escaped Monday night for the prison ward at McCain Tubercular Sanatorium.

Prison Department officials said the pair escaped by prying open two bars of the prison ward. They were listed as Roland Cole, 36, of Greensboro, serving six months from Guilford County for violating the state's health laws, and Joe Elmer Swann, 45, of Fayetteville, serving eight to ten years for breaking and entering.

Quick Profits In Steel Dealings Is Told At Hearing

CHICAGO (UP)—A 30-year-old steel broker says that in five years he ran an original investment of $1,300 of his own money into a business netting him currently an estimated $280,000 a year before taxes.

Seymour Waldman told a Senate subcommittee investigating a steel grey market yesterday that he expected his sales to gross about $7,000,000 in 1951.

Another broker, Isadore Forman, of Pittsburgh, said he "saw a chance to make a fast buck" so he started in business about a year ago although he knows nothing about steel production, owns no warehouse and has never seen any of the steel he bought or sold.

"There ain't nothing illegal about it," Forman said. "Everybody made a profit, even Uncle Sam. What's everybody screaming about?"

Sen. Blair Moody (D-Mich) headed the subcommittee conducting the one-day hearing into alleged artificial shortages and price-gouging in steel.

Moody said that there was nothing illegal about the activities of the middlemen who entered the steel business, but told newsmen that he believes shortages in the vital metal were brought on by the middle-

Distraught Parents Decide To Let Son Die And Quickly

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP)—The distraught parents of three-year-old Rodney Dale have made a heart-breaking decision—to let him die of cancer as soon as possible.

It was one of the toughest decisions a parent could be called upon to make.

A hospital doctor told Mr. and Mrs. LeeRoy Dale that a nitrogen-mustard compound might keep the spark of life alive in Rodney's pain-racked body for two or three months more.

"We thought about it for a long time," said 29-year-old Mrs. Bonnie Dale last night.

"Then we decided against it. It would only prolong Rodney's misery. And he's miserable enough now."

Death may come at any time. Already Rodney has had his Christmas tree and toys. But he scarcely was able to know it.

Little Rodney became ill last August. Doctors collapsed a lung in September and operated. They found cancer cells were filling his body.

They told the parents to take him home. There was nothing more they could do.

The 33-year-old father laid off work as a freight handler to be with his son.

Breathing for Rodney became laborious. He couldn't walk, scarcely could eat. All he wanted was to ride. His father took him daily—in cars loaned by neighbors.

Staying off work erased father Dale's slim funds. Last Saturday the word of his plight got out to the newspapers.

The story brought an outpouring of generosity.

The Dales have no telephone. So people by the hundreds went to the home.

"There must have been 500 of them," Mrs. Dale said.

The callers brought hams, turkeys, home-canned delicacies, and toys. Three nuns from Berkeley came with a decorated Christmas tree. A merchant seaman brought presents picked up in the Orient.

Yesterday Dr. Luigi Luzzatti, medical director of Children's Hospital, offered the gift of medical aid—an offer to retard the growth of the cells with a drug. He made it clear that Rodney would die any way—but perhaps not until Christmas was over.

"We felt the child's parents should make the choice," the doctor said. Tearfully the Dales searched their hearts and came up with the answer they felt was best even for Rodney. It was "No."

Today Rodney, in great pain, grew weaker. Death might come in days—or hours.

Korean Veteran Likely To Head Allied 'Chutists'

By CARTER DAVIDSON AP Newfeatures

SUPREME ALLIED HEAD-QUARTERS, Europe — Likeliest nominee for boss of any paratroop unit the Allied Armies may form in Europe is a tough infantryman who made two behind-the-lines drops in Korea and then fractured his back practicing for a third.

Brig. Gen. Frank S. Bowen, Jr., says "paratrooping is my business. It's the greatest kind of thrill a man can have."

Right now Gen. Bowen is out of business as a paratrooper, but very busy as deputy chief of the plans, policy and operations staff in Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE).

Under his much-decorated Army tunic Bowen still wears a bulging plaster cast that covers his fractured back.

And under the urgent schedule of work he is now doing he still nurtures the hope that SHAPE will decide to have a paratroop battalion and that he will be picked to command it.

"I like working with men in the paratroops," he says. "They are the best-trained men in any army, and they have a spirit for their duties that makes it easy to command them. Besides I like it myself."

Born in Army Family Gen. Bowen counts San Francisco his home town because his mother live there now, but he was born into an Army family in the Philippines 46 years ago. He has lived most of his life in Army camps, and plans the same sort of career for his son, now a San Francisco high school student.

Bowen was a colonel when he made his first combat drop in Korea. He "bit the silk" with 3,700 men at Suichon, north of Pyongyang. It was when the United Nations forces were pressing north of the 38th parallel, and the paratroopers' mission was to cut off the Red retreat.

It succeeded so well that Bowen was made a brigadier on the spot, but didn't learn of it for about four days because he was fighting his way out of encirclement.

How He Broke Back A short time later he dropped with about the same number of troops at Munsan, near where the U. N. and Communist chiefs have since been having truce talks, but which at the time was well inside the Red lines.

After that Bowen and his paratroopers were given a rest, but made practice jumps just to stay keen. On one of these, Bowen was about ten feet off the ground when a gust of wind flipped him over and he landed on his back and ended up in a fracture cast.

THERE ARE STILL HORSES RICHMOND, Va. (UP)—Apparently city fathers here aren't too sure that the horse-and-buggy days won't return. The city council okayed moving a horse-watering fountain from a busy downtown intersection but stipulated that it be relocated a few blocks away.

Japanese Revive Story Of Flight

TOKYO (UP)—The revival of commercial aviation in Japan after a six-year ban since World War II brings to mind the story of the first flying machine in Japan.

According to a small Japanese book written in the 16th century, it was built long before that time by a man named Kokichi.

Kokichi got the idea for his flying machine by watching birds in flight. He captured a dove, measured its wings and body, and calculated the size his "wings" would have to be to carry him into the blue.

He fashioned the wings from paper and bamboo, attaching strings to the ends so he could flap them like a bird.

Kokichi never was successful in taking off from the ground, according to the story, but was able to fly off the roof of his house. He did it quite frequently, his "invention" apparently working like a glider.

Nobody paid much attention to him, however, until one day he flew far from home and landed near a group of citizens enjoying a picnic lunch.

The strange machine scared them away and Kokichi helped himself to the food they left behind.

The incident attracted attention. Kokichi was summoned to appear before the governor of the province.

The governor told him that flying around, scaring people and eating their picnic lunches were frowned upon in that community. The flying machine was confiscated and poor Kokichi was deported to another province.

Tourists Damage Park's Beauty

LIVINGSTON, Mont. —(AP)—Destructive tourists are destroying some of the beauties of Yellowstone National Park, Supt. Edmund B. Rogers complained in a talk here after the end of the 1951 summer season.

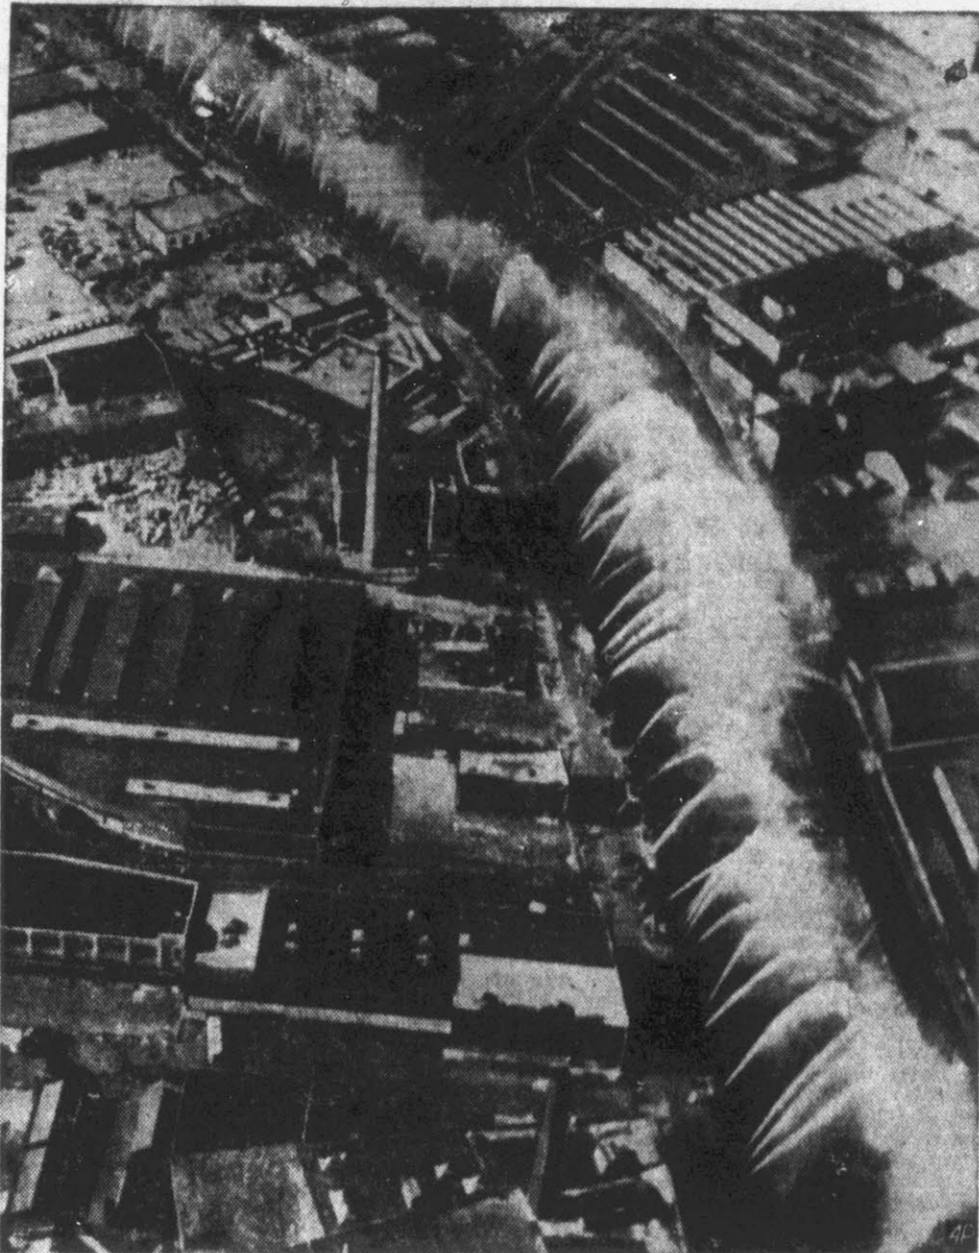

Morning Glory Pool, for years one of the beauty spots, has been almost ruined because tourists throw trash into it, he said.

The park now has five times as many visitors as it had 20 years ago, but fewer rangers, the superintendent said.

Had Right Plea, But Wrong Town

BALTIMORE —(AP)—A 56-year-old man from Arkansas had the right plea, but the wrong town. "Just give me a break, your honor," he pleaded before Magistrate John Berry on a drunk and disorderly count. "I'll get out of town right away. I'm on my way to Baltimore to visit my brother."

He was taken over to the city jail to visit the boys there for 10 days.

POURING IT ON IN DRILL — Firemen use 87 pumpeurs to throw up a wall of water in Providence as Rhode Island holds statewide civilian defense drill with mock aerial bombing.

No Regulations On Sleigh Rides

COLUMBUS, O. —(AP)— The State Utilities Commission had regulations for all types of transportation in Ohio.

Recently a newsman asked commission member Ray Martin whether the board had any control over hayrides and sleigh rides—definitely forms of transportation. Martin thumbed through the law books and called a staff conference. No regulations, Martin summed up his findings.

"The commission does not want to interfere with private enterprise or public fun. The commission never has desired to take anyone for a sleigh ride."

OLD BUSINESS REVIVED BOSTON (UP)—A modern livestock market is to be built on the site of America's first stockyards. It was these Brighton stockyards that supplied Gen. George Washington's army with meat when it was bivouaced in Boston in 1775.

Chapter 21

Jan spent most of that long day at the field, waiting in vain for further news of Ray and the silver ship. Not only was there no news from him; there was no news from any source.

"He must have blanked out," Mac tried to concede finally, having tried over and over to receive some faint response to his persistent signals. Mac took one glance at Jan's face and tacked on hastily. "Of course it may just be this radio went haywire."

"You know it's more than that," Jan said. Why pretend about this? Was it her punishment for all the pretense she had been guilty of? Oh, dear God, please, no! She asked Hank if he thought Ray had managed a forced landing. She wanted the truth. She would have to face it.

"Well," Hank answered carefully, since he, too, had seen the stricken look in Jan's eyes, how white she had turned, "he'll have a job on his hands. With the motor out and not much ceiling or visibility... But if anyone can squish a crate down in that rough mountainous country Ray can do it. If he can't well, he'll have sense enough to bail out."

"You mean he'll jump?" Jan asked.

Hank nodded. "Ray's probably perched in a treetop now, sitting

But why should Ray be punished too? Oh, if only he had kept his lucky charm, not pinned it over her heart. For she had brought that bad luck to him.

"Darling, I'm so glad you got home!" Eve came to meet her. "I have something to show you." She handed Jan a folded newspaper. It was the early afternoon edition.

There, looking directly at her from the front page, was Ray, wearing his wide confident grin, his wavy hair tousled, his blue eyes clear and unafraid. He was standing in front of the silver ship and beside him, looking poised and cool and lovely, was Bernice. It had been snapped before the take-off and the caption beneath contained no report of the crack-up.

Jan took one look, handed the paper back to her mother, and ran up the stairs.

She wanted to drive out to the field again but she had Hank's promise that he would call her. So Jan would not leave the house. She must stay close by the phone.

When it finally rang, around nine o'clock, her heart stopped. Her hands shook so as she removed the receiver she almost dropped it. She was glad she could sit down to take whatever the message would be.

Her lips formed a silent little prayer.

It was Hank. He apologized first for not calling sooner. He said it had been a madhouse at the field. He had not been able to get through to her. Had she heard the last report?

"No, no. Tell me, Hank." She steeled herself to face it, whatever it might be.

"They found the ship," Hank said. "Near Kylesport. It was pretty badly cracked up, but not too badly at that. One wing torn, and of course the motor..."

But Ray... tell me... did they find him?"

"They found the ship," Hank said again. "But they haven't found Ray, Jan."

It was then that Jan, who thought she could face anything, that she had her emotions in hand, slid to the floor in a little heap, fainting into unconsciousness as any feminine girl might have done as strong and healthy as a man.

As long as she lived Jan would never forget the night and day that followed. For it was during these hours of despair and anguish that she realized that she loved Ray. Loved him as a woman loves a man, not with a girl's youthful passing infatuation.

When Jan regained consciousness she was lying on the couch, her mother anxiously bending over her. Jim Peters was pacing back and forth. They told her that they had come home early as they could not help feeling worried. Eve had tried to telephone the house; there had been nothing but the busy signal as the line had not been disconnected when Jan had fainted. They also told Jan that the only trace that had been found of Ray had been his abandoned parachute and helmet.

It was believed that the pilot had managed to get free of the ship, either by climbing or by crawling out after it landed. He would have realized the danger of fire and made a supreme effort, even if hurt, to get away from the ship.

The newspapers all played Ray up as a hero for riding his ship

Chapter 22

Sometimes prayers are answered. Sometimes people are given another chance. Jan's prayers were answered, as Ray was found that following day. Newsboys, shouting an extra, brought the first word; then the phone, ringing insistently, brought the glad tidings from Hank.

"He's alive. They've found him. He did it, just as we knew he would!" Hank was almost delirious with joy. He said that both he and Mac were so happy they had cried like a couple of kids.

"Thank heaven!" This was all that Jan could say. She did not shed any more tears then.

The papers gave the details, details that read almost like a miracle. They told how Ray had managed to reach the foot of the mountain, crawl to the edge of the road. It had been a slow and painful journey during which at times he had relapsed into unconsciousness. He had been weakened from loss of blood from a cut in his forehead. He had been chilled from the long exposure, hungry and thirsty, yet he had not given up. He had occasionally heard the planes circling overhead and knew that a search was being made. He had heard the shots and seen the flares from the searching parties on the ground. Because of

"Did you love my father so much?" Jan had to ask this.

"Of course I did, darling!" Eve's beautiful face saddened. "I loved him more than anyone, more than life itself!"

Yes, Jan thought, that is the way I love Ray.

"What I wanted to tell you," Eve said, "is that if you are sure you love your young man in that same way, then you should not let anything, or anyone, keep you from going to him."

"Going to him... you mean now?" Jan sat up to lean on one elbow, to search her mother's face.

Certainly I mean now! Eve's eyes smiled deeply into hers. "I would go to him if I had to walk every step of the way!"

"How could I go to Ray?" Eve had a ready answer for that.

"You can fly," she said. "You can get there much sooner," she added. "Within a few hours, in fact."

"Oh, Mother! If I only could." "You most certainly can. I'll phone Jim: right away."

Jan wanted to throw her arms around her mother's neck. She said, "You're the very best mother any girl ever had!"

"Then start right now," Eve chided. Tears stood in her eyes now. She was so happy and so proud at what her daughter had just said. Now, no matter how different they were—for Jan was so like her father—Eve knew that two of them, mother and daughter, always would be very close indeed. She knew that she never would have to give up Jan or lose her.

Jim Peters not only chartered a private plane, but he insisted, when he came to get Jan, that he would accompany her.

Jan was surprised and touched at such solicitude. Why, Jim Peters was not such an impossible person after all. He ought to make a very satisfactory stepfather!

"I appreciate your offer," she told him as they drove to the airport, "but I wouldn't think of asking you to go with me. I don't mind going alone at all. So please don't worry about me. I will be all right."

"I expect you will be." There was a suggestion of a twinkle in Mr. Peter's eyes. He had started to assist Jan from his car. But she had jumped out before he could do so.

She surprised both herself and him by giving him a light kiss on one cheek and an almost bear-like hug.

"Thank you so much," she said. "I want to tell you that I think you'll make a wonderful daddy! Why don't you and Eve hurry up and be married? Tell Mother I told you this. Goodbye, and thanks, again!"

Jim Peters did not answer; no doubt he was too taken back and too pleased to find the right words quickly enough. He simply beamed and when the ship took off he stood watching, hat in hand.

Duke Power Co. Seeks Higher Electric Rates

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Duke Power Company announced today that it is asking for higher electric power rates in the Carolinas.

The company, which serves the section of the two states, filed application for the increased rates simultaneously in Raleigh and Columbia.

In a formal announcement, E. C. Marshall, president of the big utilities company, emphasized that the increase would be what he termed "moderate". He said the maximum increase for general residential service "will not exceed 20 cents a month, and the maximum increase for water heating service will not exceed 15 cents a month."

The company said the increase would amount to less than four per cent of its annual gross revenues from its electric business.

The announcement said: "Steadily mounting costs have forced Duke Power Company to request authorization by the State

Utilities Commission in North Carolina of a minimum increase in electric rates."

"The costs of providing electric service are constantly rising," Marshall said. "Since 1939, when rates were reduced to the present schedule, wages have increased 155 per cent, copper 118 per cent, insulators 90 per cent, line transformers 61 per cent, steel 127 per cent, crosseted poles 91 per cent and coal 100 per cent. Only about 20 per cent of the increase in the cost of coal is being recovered by the existing coal adjustment clause."

"In consequence, we are now reluctantly requesting the state regulatory commissions to authorize a moderate increase in rates so that the company may continue to give good service and maintain the soundness of our credit. Maintenance of the company's credit is important in order that we may obtain on reasonable terms large amounts of new capital for the construction program necessary to meet increased demands for service in the growing piedmont Carolinas xxx.

"We believe the new rates to be reasonable and moderate in every respect. xxx"

The new rates, if approved by the North Carolina Utilities Commission and the South Carolina Public Service Commission, would affect 515,000 customers in the two states.

Tone Says Rival Never Forgotten

LOS / GELES (AP)—What caused the ruin of his seven-week marriage to Barbara Payton says Franchot Tone, was the reentry into her life of Tom Neal, her ex-suitor with the body beautiful.

"She won't forget him," Tone told newsmen yesterday.

They had several quarrels about Neal, he said. When Barbara informed him she planned to co-star in a movie with the handsome young actor, he decided he was through.

He filed suit for divorce yesterday, charging "extreme mental cruelty."

Neal went to Seattle last September where he spent many days in a hospital. Shortly after he recovered, he married Miss Payton.

Miss Payton was on the verge of filing a suit herself, but dropped the idea when Tone acted first.

Her lawyer said she was not interested in alimony. In his suit, Tone said there was no community property to split and he did not offer any settlement.

Late in the day, Miss Payton denied reports that she had asked her lawyer to seek an order requiring Tone to move from her apartment. Tone, meantime, had already moved.

Wait On Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—If an agreement can be worked out with the Communists to send food and medicine to prisoners of war in Korea, the American Red Cross says it is ready with a program.

The Red Cross announced yesterday that 5,000 food packages assembled by volunteers in Washington are at a west coast port, ready for shipment to Japan. It said 4,000 other special packages have been made available for prisoners who may be ill or undernourished.

Arrangements relating to prisoners of war of both sides is on the agenda of the current armistice talks in Korea.

Welfare Dept. Notes

The North Carolina School Compulsory Attendance Law requires all children from ages 7 to 16 to attend school. Many of the larger children in farming areas have been permitted by the school authorities to help with the farm work and the reports coming in now from the school principals indicate that a few have not gotten their children in regular attendance. "We hope that those who continue to disregard the law will take notice that reports to the Superintendent of Public Welfare will be promptly investigated and prosecution will follow," said K. T. Futrell, department superintendent.

Georgia Hughes, child welfare case worker in the Pitt County Welfare Department for the past 18 months will leave the department January 1st, as the Superintendent of Public Welfare in Carter County at Beaufort, North Carolina. The successor to Miss Hughes has not been made.

Recipients of cash grants under the Federal-State and County Programs are requested to keep the department informed if they move. Failure to keep the department fully informed about where they move or of a change in circumstances is cause for closing their case for non-cooperation.

A change has been made regarding cases in need of hospitalization. Applicants who heretofore have been referred to the department by physician indicating need for hospital care, will go to the hospital. The department will work out plans for those eligible for hospital care with the hospital.

Light Docket Today In Police Court

Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of an unusually short docket in Police Court today. Less than a dozen cases were called. All of them were traffic violation cases.

Judge Whedbee informally passed along a word of caution about driving carefully on the Thanksgiving holiday.

Lavish Menus In Holiday Planning

Inmates of the Pitt County Home, state prison camp and jails will enjoy a feast for dinner tomorrow—Thanksgiving Day. It is a long-time custom for heads of these institutions to provide special menus on various holidays.

Capt. Paul Crawford, head of the State Prison Camp, is going to provide for his prisoners and guards a turkey dinner, with all of the trimmings.

Jailer W. G. Leggett is arranging for either a chicken or turkey dinner, with a lot of extras, for the 17 prisoners in the county jail. Some of them are to be taken to State Prison after Superior Court adjourns this term.

Supt. H. E. Hill is planning a fresh pork ham dinner with a lot of extras for the inmates of the County Home, in the Bell's Fork community. Chief W. T. Lucas said there were no prisoners in the Farmville jail at noon today. The policy of the department is, however, to provide something extra for Thanksgiving Day dinner when any prisoners are there.

Claims Martha Plays Too Rough

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—"Velvet fog crooner" Mel Torme sought $3,906.51 damages today from comedienne Martha Raye because she allegedly behaved in his home with the same hysterical abandon that brought her stage fame.

Torme filed suit against the actress yesterday, charging he rented his home to Miss Raye and her husband, Nick Condos, while she was appearing in a musical comedy here last summer.

When they left, Torme said, he found the house and furnishings battered, burned and scratched. A 55-square-yard living room carpet was so badly damaged it had to be replaced, he said, and the bedroom floor "was gouged."

Durant Says...

the downfall of Greece and Rome, and named France as the most recent nation to commit biological suicide. "Fertility of the soil has never been able to keep up with the fertility of women," Durant said. "In the world as a whole the fertility of the human race is too great, but in the higher civilization, fertility is too little rather than too great."

From a political standpoint, the speaker said all civilizations have been created by the aristocracy... "the educated illiterate." "We have seen the British aristocracy die before our eyes between the two World Wars. British aristocracy, lost itself in the greed for wealth."

Today the need in democracy is order rather than liberty, he said. "The age of liberty between you and me is ending. Democracy is molding itself to a new system as the external security diminishes and the need for internal order becomes more pressing." Durant said religion gave a supernatural foundation to the necessary restraints of primitive traits of man which had to be restrained if civilization was to be built. "The great problem of our time is the loss of religion upon which civilization has been built. Religion stands at the cradle of all civilization, and philosophy stands at the end."

Durant, the author of several outstanding books on history and philosophy, was introduced by B. B. Sugg Jr. of Greenville. The address last night by the noted historian was the next to the last lecture he will give before he retires. President Sam Bundy of the Executive Club presided at the meeting.

Most ancient Greek hippodromes, constructed for horse and chariot races, were placed on a hill slope so that excavated material from one side could serve as an embankment for the other.
