Cordiality Reigns In Arms Meeting

Initial Procedural Matters Quickly Disposed Of; Big Four To Stage Two Meetings Daily On Discussions Of Disarmament Proposals

PARIS (UP)—Big four delegates began a 10-day effort to end the East-West arms race today with a 60-minute meeting which the chairman said brought a quick and cordial agreement on procedure.

U. S. British, French and Soviet representatives emerged from their conference around a felt-covered poker table with delighted smiles. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky wore the biggest smile of all.

United Nations General Assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico said the delegates agreed completely on procedural matters. Nervo is serving as chairman.

"The atmosphere was so cordial," he said, "that it certainly will be a good omen if we follow this spirit during the course of the very difficult task entrusted to the Big Four subcommittee."

Nervo said all sessions for the time being will be closed. He said the delegates will meet twice a day and sometimes in the evening, starting Monday, because of the 19-day limit.

It was the first conference of U. S., British, French and Russian delegates under U.N. auspices since the Berlin blockade issue was settled in New York two years ago.

Top-ranking "Dealers" at the poker table session were Vishinsky, U. S. delegate Philip Jessup, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd, France's Jules Moch and Nervo sat down at the table.

An American spokesman said the "most constructive step" that could be taken at the conference would be an agreement to deal with the "most serious disarmament problem" within the Western-proposed 12-nation disarmament commission.

The commission is to be composed of Canada. But Russia already has opposed the idea.

First order of business was the settlement of organizational issues such as the time and frequency of the meetings, a policy for publicity on the sessions and other details.

There was only the most meager hope that the conference could penetrate through a six-year-old deadlock over disarmament and atomic control. But so great was the clamor of small nations for a big four meeting that none of the great powers could hold back without risking a major propaganda defeat.

Vishinsky is determined to fight for Big Four approval of the main features of the Russian disarmament plan. This calls for immediate outlawing of the atomic bomb to be followed by a one-third reduction in arms of the major powers.

Jessup, Lloyd and Moch want their proposal for a "fool-proof" arms inspection system adopted.

The Big Four subcommittee will report back to the main political committee Dec. 10. Western powers insisted on the 10-day limit in order to make sure the talks will not be used for propaganda purposes and thus block adoption of the Western disarmament formula.

Vishinsky argued yesterday before the committee that the U.S. idea of world arms reduction is that only Russia should disarm. "That's for the birds," he said.

Comment Prayer To Open School

ALBANY (AP)—Clergymen throughout New York state have joined Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in commending a board of regents proposal that public schools open the day with a prayer, as well as a pledge of allegiance to the flag.

But Joseph Lewis, president of the Free Thinkers of America, threatens legal action "to prevent the contamination of the public schools" by the proposal.

The Free Thinkers claim the proposal is unconstitutional and an effort to scuttle the principle of separation of church and state.

Winnie Ruth Judd Found And Returned To Asylum

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Tired and dejected, Winnie Ruth Judd, the trunk murderer, was back in the state hospital for the insane today. Her fourth escape brought less than 24 hours of freedom.

She was brought back late last night, given warm milk and put to bed in her regular room.

The one-time "tiger woman" who killed two girl friends 20 years ago was as meek as a frightened kitten, after being recaptured by police.

Given Asylum?

BERLIN (AP)—The West German newspaper Die Welt said today the chief engineer of Russia's atomic bomb project fled to Berlin and was taken to "a secret place in Western Europe."

Die Welt identified him as Lt. Col. Fedya Nikolayevich Astachov, a Stalin prize winner who has been in charge of planning in the Soviet Wismuth A. G. Company in the Russian zone since 1947.

The newspaper gave neither the source nor the time of Astachov's reported flight to the west. It added that a shake-up of the Wismuth staff was the immediate result.

The report could not be confirmed elsewhere. Americans in contact with anti-Stalin Soviet groups in West Germany said a "defector of colonial rank" is known to have fled from the east some recently.

One Survived In Yacht's Sinking

Engineer Tells Of 4-Day Nightmare Aboard Lifeboat

CHARLESTON (AP)—The only survivor of a yachting tragedy which took eight lives sobbed out last night his story of a four-day nightmare aboard a small lifeboat without food or water.

In the boat with the survivor, Negro crewman Gustave Emanuel Fraser, rescuers found the bodies of the yacht's skipper and his wife, and their dying 13-year-old son. Four others died at sea and the yacht's 15-year-old skipper overboard to die.

Fraser had to be given an emergency blood transfusion after he was taken aboard the minesweeper token, which sighted the 14-foot lifeboat while on a practice mission yesterday afternoon.

The boy, son of Capt. and Mrs. Samuel A. Luttrell, was still alive when picked up, but he died before the minesweeper could reach shore.

Phrases in broken, agonized phrases, related how the grim saga began last Monday at Morehead City, N. C., where the yacht Amphitrite put out for St. Thomas, the Virgin Islands, where the Luttrells lived.

Monday night the yacht sprang a leak. Luttrell changed her course for Charleston. The harbor lights were in sight when high winds and heavy seas hurled the 96-foot craft on a reef.

All nine persons aboard took to the 14-foot lifeboat. But in their haste they forgot to put aboard water and provisions. They tried to maneuver the small craft back to the yacht, but heavy seas pushed them back and high tide swept the bogging boat out to sea. Then followed four days and nights of exposure, hunger and thirst.

Peron Disclaims Loan Wanted

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—President Juan D. Peron said he doesn't want a U.S. loan but only "fair prices" for Argentine products on a basis of unrestricted international competition.

He made the statement last night to six members of the U.S. House of Representatives Banking and Currency Committee.

Factory Hiring At Lower Level

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that the rate of factory hiring in October reached its lowest level in more than 10 years—except for the year 1949.

The bureau said that hiring rate during the month was 43 per 1,000 employees—eight below the October 1950 level.

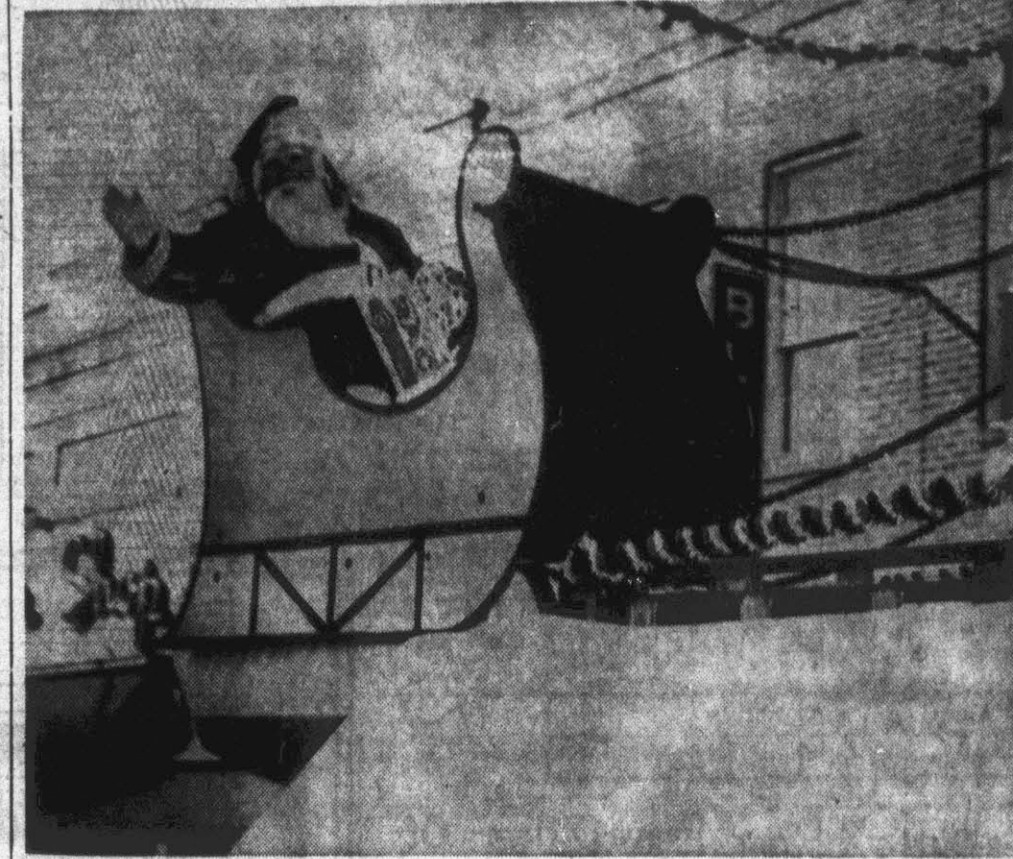

The decline was attributed mainly to cutbacks in civilian industries.

apartments during the occupant's absence, offered no resistance, but pleaded with patrolmen George Sanders and Harold DeWitt to turn her loose.

"Why did you have to pick me up?" she asked. "I've served 20 years out there (the hospital) and I think I should be turned loose. I had a tragedy 20 years ago that I wasn't wholly responsible for."

It was in October, 1931, that Mrs. Judd shot her roommates, Agnes Anne Le Roi and Hedvic Samuelson, to death here. She shipped their dismembered bodies to Los Angeles. Mrs. Judd was convicted and sentenced to hang. Within 72 hours of the execution time she was found insane and was committed to the hospital.

Achievement Day For 4-H Monday

Awards To Be Presented Outstanding Members In County

Pitt County 4-H Club Achievement Day will be held Monday at 7:30 in the courtroom of the Pitt County Courthouse and awards will be presented at that time.

Helen Hicks, assistant home demonstration agent, and C. J. Goodman, assistant farm agent, will present the attendance awards and the county champion awards.

Dean Samped, president of the Jaycees, will present the coveted Jaycees plaques to the outstanding boy and girl in 4-H work on the county.

Reports will be given on special events, such as the National 4-H Congress, 4-H camp, wildlife camp, farm-home electricity congress, and the 4H short course. Members of 4-H clubs will give the reports.

Also at the Achievement Day program, Robert Bright will give the "Passing Parade of Pitt" and the County Council officers will be installed by Helen Hicks.

Before the awards will be given, Mrs. B. L. Tyson will lead the group in songs and entertainment and William Harris of Belvoir will salute the 4-H leaders.

Franklin Garris, president of the 4-H County Council, will preside over the program.

Chinese Mother Kills Self Rather Than Pay Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Chinese mother, victimized twice in the Chinese Communist ransom racket because she has sons in the United States, killed herself rather than pay the latest extortion demand, one of her sons said.

Joe Mang told the tragic end of his mother's case after receiving a letter relating how she had drowned herself on Nov. 24.

The 67-year-old mother, Sin Shee Jang, had been living alone in the family home in Cheungshan Canton, Kwangtung province of South China.

A month ago, the son reported, the mother was arrested, tortured and finally released after paying $1,000 of her life savings.

Another Jump In Gov't Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Congressional Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Federal Spending said today civilian employment in the government increased by 2,591 persons in October.

Seven agencies showed decreases for the month, eight reported increases.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) said the military establishment boosted its civilian payroll by 10,968 industrial employees in the month to bring its total of all civilians to 1,269,713. This compared with 1,260,658 in September.

NEWSPRINT SLASHED BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The government of President Juan D. Peron today announced a 50 per cent reduction in supplies of newsprint to newspapers. It is the fourth slashing reduction in three years.

Study Demands

PITTSBURGH (AP)—U. S. Steel Corp. took time out from contract talks with the CIO United Steelworkers today to ponder the 22 CIO demands which one union official said includes a 30 cent hourly pay hike.

William Malheffer, president of an Indiana USW local, gave the heretofore undisclosed figure last night in announcing his local will open negotiations with Inland Steel Co. in East Chicago, Ind. Monday.

Malheffer said the figure follows the general pattern for the steel industry.

License Plates Go On Sale Today

State Issuing Only One Plate, White Numerals On Red

The new North Carolina license plates for 1952 went on sale here this morning. Through noon today, officials said, the anticipated rush to purchase the new plates had not materialized—in fact, buying had been relatively slow.

The color scheme of the new plates, which are being sold under the auspices of the Carolina Motor Club, is an exact reversal of this year's. Instead of having red numerals on a white background, as did this year's tags, the 1952 plates will feature white numerals on a red background.

The price of a license for private cars remains the same as this year $10, but the motorist may feel a little "skinned," because the state is issuing only one plate this year. Officials volunteered the opinion that the national defense effort and the Korean War curtailed the use of essential metals, and thus the change in license policy.

West Germany Imposes Blockade On Eastern Zone

BERLIN (UP)—West Germany imposed a complete economic blockade of the Soviet zone today and recommended doubling a "baby airlift" to meet possible Soviet retaliation.

The blockade was ordered in an effort to force the Communists to lift restrictions since last May on movement of West Berlin goods across the Soviet-Soviet corridor to West Germany.

A coalition of carriers carrying 100 tons of such goods compared with 12,000 tons daily at the height of the historic Berlin blockade two years ago.

Recommendation for doubling the airlift was made by West German authorities to the occupying powers. Allied officials said such action was not necessary as yet. The lift carries only about one per cent of the total tonnage of Berlin exports.

Sidewalks Lined For Santa Parade

Prizes Presented Children Participating In Annual Event

Scores of children and adults lined both sides of streets in the business section of Greenville this morning to watch Santa Claus, the bands, floats, children and animals which accompanied him.

Cries of children announced Santa's approach down the street as he passed, waving greetings to the youngsters who waved at him, and the ones who just stared in awe.

Preceding Santa Claus in the parade, the Greenville High School, the Upper High School, and the East Carolina College bands marched playing Christmas music.

Represented on the floats were a nativity scene, the girl scouts and brownies, a Christmas angel on a float with a boy wearing an example of the new band uniforms ordered for Greenville High School.

A number of miniature Santas rode in their little sleighs, other toddlers down the street among the marchers. Pets in the parade included decorated dogs, a number of ponies, horses, and buggies shared in the show.

Boy and Girl Scouts were included in the long procession as well as a number of decorated bicycles.

J. A. Taylor, chairman of the Christmas Committee of the Merchants' Association, which sponsored the parade, presented the following prizes:

Saddle horses—Roland Mayo, first, trophy; Nancy Ann Hoot, second, $5.00; and Gray Smith, third, $2.50. Ponies—Patsy Jo Gurganus, trophy; Bethel; Ray Hardy, $5.00; and Lina Brown, $2.50. Buggies—Collen Wilson, $2.50. $5.00, and Sammy Pollard, $2.50.

Flats—South Greenville School, $25.00; Girl Scout Troop 9, $15.00; and Girl Scout Troop, $10.00. Dogs—Louis Arthur, $5.00; Jane Joyner, $2.50; and John Barrett, $2.00. Best team of horses—J. L. Gurganus, Bethel, $2.50.

Other pets—Gayle Clapp, $5.00; Wesley Earl Brown, $3.00; and Roy Lee Kirkman, $2.00. Decorated bicycles—Scott Smiley and Jane Blue, $5.00; and Marshall Evans, Jr. and Gene Hemy, $2.50. Costumes—George and Sammy Mayo, $5.00; Madeline Whitehead, $3.00; and Nina Seamater, $2.00.

Negro prizes: Pets—Daisy Mae Redmond, $5.00 and Thelma Redmond, $2.00; Dogs—Mary Perkins, $5.00; Dora Stokes, $3.00; and Billie Brown, $2.00. Decorated bicycles—Lucille Gorham and David Brockert, $5.00; and Zebbie Daniels, $2.50. Costumes—Flemings Home Store; Club, $5.00; Viola Mae Stocks, $3.00; and Carrie Jean Daniels, $2.00.

Judges for the parade were: Zolma Bradley, executive secretary of the Rocky Mount Merchants Association; Thompson Greenwood, executive secretary of the North Carolina Merchants' Association; and Lou Williams, supervisor of the teen-age club in Rocky Mount. W. T. Kyzer was host to the judges.

Acute Shortage In Scrap Steel May Close Mills

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government officials said last night a shortage of scrap metal has grown so acute it may force some steel mills in the Pittsburgh area to shut down, possibly next week.

Spurred by what he called a "very serious" situation in the steel industry, foundation rock of the defense rearmament effort—National Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann last night ordered a quick check of scrap supplies and called an emergency conference.

He telegraphed steel mills throughout the nation asking reports by Monday on the amount of scrap they have. Scrap is a major ingredient in making new steel.

Fleischmann also asked iron and steel scrap users and suppliers to be here for a conference Dec. 4.

Right To Build Air Bases During Truce Is Red Goal

Predicts Firing Of High Official In Caudle's Wake

Counsel For House Investigators Says Many Are Under Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (UP)—A congressional source usually well-informed on the spreading government "tax scandal" said today another high official will resign or be fired shortly.

The source declined to identify the man, except to say his rank compared with that of ousted Assistant Atty. Gen. T. Lamar Caudle.

So far 52 persons in the Internal Revenue Bureau have been fired or suspended or have quit their jobs. Caudle's ouster by President Truman as the government's top tax prosecutor brought the over all toll to 53.

Adrian W. Dewind, counsel for a House subcommittee which has spearheaded the investigation, said yesterday "every high office" in the Internal Revenue Bureau was under committee scrutiny, including that of chief counsel Charles Oliphant.

Dewind has declined to speculate however on where the ax might fall next or what additional heads are to roll.

Subcommittee investigators were spending the weekend laying groundwork for presentation next week of "two or three" more cases involving Caudle with persons in tax difficulties.

He already has been pictured as having accepted a $5,000 commission on sale of an airplane to a representative of two persons under tax fraud indictment, and as having intervened several times to help get the trial postponed.

Subcommittee Republicans have demanded that Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath be questioned about Caudle's statement that McGrath approved his acceptance of the commission. They demanded that McGrath also be asked about "improper action" of other subordinates in handling tax fraud cases.

McGrath replied last night that he would be "delighted" to testify at a public session.

He said he is "disappointed" that the subcommittee already hasn't conferred with him.

The subcommittee will be busy most of next week airing the rest of its case on Caudle. After that, Dewind said, it may go into seclusion for a few weeks preparing the way for later cases.

Spotters Scan Skies In Drill

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UP)—Nearly 100,000 civilian spotters scanned states today for 1,200 civilian patrol and military airplanes taking part in one of the biggest post-war defense exercises.

Purpose of the all-day drill was to train a scattered army of spotters in hundreds of cities and villages in quick observation and reporting of any enemy planes that might penetrate the Atlantic coast "from Virginia to Maine."

Some 1,000 CAP planes staged simulated attacks on coastal areas as "hostile fighter planes."

Russians Again 'Warn' Turkey

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio broadcast today a new Russian note warning Turkey that joining the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) "will undoubtedly cause serious harm to relations between Turkey and the Soviet Union."

Turkey must take all the responsibility for the consequences if she persists in joining NATO, said the note, which Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed to the Turkish ambassador in Moscow yesterday.

He said he already has telegraphed Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, asking for a hearing into the matter.

North Korean Demand Rejected, Though Allied Negotiators Agree To Permit Other Construction; Fear Further Growth Of Red Air Power

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Communist truce negotiators today demanded the right to build airfields in Korea during an armistice.

The United Nations delegation rejected the demand and disclosed afterward that it considers the Communist air force a major threat to a stable armistice.

However, the Allies yielded to the Communists to the extent of agreeing that other types of military reconstruction or rehabilitation work might be undertaken during a truce.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. delegate, told the Communists: "After painstaking and sincere consideration of all types of military facilities and installations, the full rehabilitation or construction of which may endanger the security of either side, the U.N. command delegation concludes that airfields are the only type requiring restriction."

Nam II immediately came out into the open for the first time to demand the right to construct during an armistice the Korean airfields that Allied raids so far have prevented him from finishing.

He said "wanton" allied bombing attacks have wrecked Korean cities. It is therefore imperative, he argued, that the Reds build up their anti-aircraft defenses.

A U.N. spokesman said after the conference meeting that the U.N. command is "concerned" about the Communist air threat to both Allied ground and sea forces.

At present, all Communist planes are based in Manchuria out of reach of Allied planes.

Joy served notice that the U.N. has no intention of abandoning its main demands for an armistice freeze and inspection just to get a quick armistice. He said the Allies would "continue to insist" on adoption of their program.

The Reds nevertheless again rejected the program and reserved the right to express their objections in greater detail at the next meeting at 11 a. m. Sunday (8 p. m. Saturday EST).

Joy emerged from the conference tent at Panmunjom at the end of the session and told newsmen: "There was absolutely no progress today."

Although Joy said the Allies would "continue to insist" that the Reds accept the U.N. program, U.N. spokesman Brig. Gen. William P. Nuccio said the admiral's statement was not an ultimatum. The way apparently was still open for an eventual compromise.

Joy began his 23-minute statement with a categorical rejection of what he called the Communists' "invalid objections" to the Allied demands.

He said the Allies insisted that these principles be included in an armistice agreement: 1. Neither side may bring in reinforcements or additional "war equipment and material" during an armistice.

2. A mixed armistice commission and its joint observation teams shall have the authority "to observe on the ground, sea and at airports of entry and communications centers throughout all of Korea" to guard against any truce violations.

3. The commission also shall have authority to establish joint aerial observation and photo-reconnaissance over all of Korea and joint observation of the demilitarized buffer zone.

Joy reiterated that the Allies "continue to insist" that the armistice teams have no authority to discuss the Communist demand for withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea. He said that was a matter for the "ultimate determination of the government's concerned."

Nam II replied by restating the arguments already refuted by Joy. Primarily, he charged that inspection of North Korea would interfere with the country's internal affairs.

He also protested that the armistice would prevent North Korea from building up its defenses and charged that continued Allied possession of islands off the North Korean coast constituted a direct threat to the Communist rear.

Other side scored any hits. Three other flights of Sabrejets and one of Thunderjets also sighted Communist jet formations, but could not engage them.

None of the Allied planes was lost in combat. However, a Marine AD-3 was shot down by enemy ground fire. The pilot was killed.

The latest victories raised the 6th Air Force's bag of Communist planes to 123 destroyed, 26 probably destroyed and 270 damaged.

An 8th Army communique reported that the Allies gave ground northwest of Yonchon in the face of a Communist probing attack.

A platoon-sized Red attack southeast of Kumsong on the central front was repulsed without loss of ground after a three-hour fight.

The Communist used many fresh troops into position all across Korea—presumably in preparation for a big offensive if truce talks collapse.

At the same time, the South Korean government clamped martial law on the southern half of Korea to crack down on 8,000 Communist guerrillas whose increasing raids posed a threat to the U.N. rear.

The 3rd Division beat off two Communist squads which rammed into its line west of Yonchon Friday night and used artillery, machine-guns and rifles to chase off enemy infiltrators who tossed grenades against a hill position four miles behind the main Allied lines.

Division artillery sent 2,300 shells screaming into Red lines Friday. The Chinese fired only 115 shells in return.

Two More Red Jets Downed Over Korea

Allied Fighting Planes Ordered To Hit Enemy 'Ruthlessly' On Ground; Air War Continues Hot And Heavy

8TH ARMY HQ., Korea (UP)—United Nations forces shot down two more Communist jet fighters today and got orders to hit the Reds on the ground "ruthlessly," U.N. jet fighters sent two more MIG-15s crashing to earth and damaged three others to boost their two-day toll of enemy aircraft over northwest Korea to 26—13 destroyed and seven damaged.

On the ground, grenade-throwing Communist forces drove Allied troops from an advance position on the western front.

However, at least two commanding generals issued orders to western front troops to beef up their patrols, shoot anything that moves in no-man's-land and "carry the fight ruthlessly" to the enemy.

The air war flared again over the northwest corner of Korea less than 24 hours after American Sabre jets destroyed seven Red bombers and four fighters and damaged three other bombers and another MIG.

First blood Saturday went to Royal Australian Air Force Meteor jets in a dogfight with MIG-15s. At least two of the Russian-built jets were shot down.

Three more MIGs were damaged by 12 slower American Shooting Star jets in a fight north of Pyongyang, the Communist capital. Sixteen MIGs had attacked the Shooting Stars as they were pulling up from a bombing run on railway lines.

A flight of American Sabrejets escorting Shooting Star photo reconnaissance planes tangled with 20 MIGs soon afterward, but neither side scored any hits.

Three other flights of Sabrejets and one of Thunderjets also sighted Communist jet formations, but could not engage them.

None of the Allied planes was lost in combat. However, a Marine AD-3 was shot down by enemy ground fire. The pilot was killed.

The latest victories raised the 6th Air Force's bag of Communist planes to 123 destroyed, 26 probably destroyed and 270 damaged.

Grandmother Knows

Grandmother knows so many things! She can sew and knit and crochet and make lots of pretty things that people prize because they are hand-made. And you simply can't beat her as a good cook and housekeeper.

Yes, honey, Grandmother does know. She knows about all these practical things—and much more. She knows the deeper lessons of life. She knows that right is right and wrong is wrong—and that right is always best.

The girl who is best with a good mother and a good grandmother, and is smart enough to learn from them, can practically chart her own happiness and build a life that is a blessing to mankind and the world.

Grandmother knows that spiritual things are far more important than material things. She knows that God rules in the kingdom of men, that the Church is His messenger, and that faith is man's hope of salvation.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Aries Book Club Members Star in Movie Production

A motion picture was taken in Greenville on Thursday night of victims of poisoning and the effects of drowning, asphyxiation, and gas poisoning. The producers of this first rate picture were Dr. and Mrs. Leo Jenkins. The director for the production was Miss Nell Stallings of the East Carolina College faculty. Starting in the performance were members of the Aries Book Club. The setting for the picture was in the home of the Jenkins, where Mrs. Jenkins was hostess to club members for their regular meeting. Sound effects were produced by the groans and grunts of the ladies who lay prostrate on the floor, alleged victims who were suffering from stoppage of breathing. Other noises were produced by the hilarious screams of laughter from those who were witnesses of the performance. The occasion for all of this was a class in Red Cross First Aid which the club is studying for the first half of the year. Thursday night's lesson was on the practical administration of artificial respiration and learning the proper techniques for lifting a wounded person to a stretcher. Each member was dressed for her role in assorted costumes of slacks, blouses, sweaters, shorts, and even some dresses. Each person was required to be, at varying times, both victim and rescuer, ambulance attendant and stretcher carrier.

Heads Statewide School Contest

Mrs. Marguerite A. Perry, faculty member of the department of foreign languages at East Carolina College, will be in charge of the French Contest for High School Students in North Carolina to be given early in 1952. The annual competitive event is sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of French and is held in each of the forty-eight states. Mrs. Perry succeeds Max Lynn Mourane of High Point as chairman for North Carolina. The purpose of the contest is to encourage interest in the study of foreign languages and to recognize excellence in scholarship among students of French. Last year approximately forty North Carolina high schools participated in the contest, and examinations were given to 957 students of French. In 1949-1950 nineteen schools, represented by 582 student contestants, entered the competition. Mrs. Perry has announced that invitations to enter the contest will be mailed early in January and that examinations will be held soon afterwards, probably in February. Full details as to eligibility and entrance requirements and dates of the tests will soon be announced.

Mrs. Rose Reads Humorous Play At Club

The Athenaeum Book Club met on Tuesday at 1:00 p.m. with Mrs. T. I. Wagner as hostess. The hospitable home was very inviting and cheery for the occasion. A delicious course luncheon was served to members and invited guests upon their arrival. The guests were Mrs. R. M. Garrett Sr., Mrs. E. M. Garrett Jr., Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Mrs. Helen White Hayes, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Mrs. Hoyt Minges of New Bern and Mrs. Burt Bennett of Winston-Salem. A short business meeting was held by the president, Mrs. J. J. White, before the program was given. Mrs. J. H. Rose, as program speaker for the occasion, read a humorous play in a lively and entertaining manner, which was highly diverting and enjoyed by all. Mrs. W. W. Lee gave the current event for the afternoon. Her remarks concerned preparations for Christmas with reference to entertaining and decorating, as well as cultivating the true spirit of the season in the heart. After the distribution of books, the meeting adjourned.

Nobles-Duke Engagement Announced

Mrs. Roy Coburn of Greenville announces the engagement of her daughter, Margaret Lee Duke, to Mr. Thad Moore Nobles of Greenville. The wedding will take place on December 27.

One Act Play Read At Club

The Thalian Book Club met on Wednesday with Mrs. E. B. Sugg Jr. on Rock Spring Drive. The guests were served a two course luncheon before the meeting opened. The rooms of the attractive home were decorated with fall flowers and foliage. Following the luncheon Mrs. J. H. Rose was presented as the guest speaker for the afternoon. She read in her effective manner a delightfully entertaining one act play. A brief business session was conducted, the books were distributed and the meeting adjourned. Special guests for the occasion were Mrs. L. W. Gaylord Jr. and Mrs. Oliver Barnes and Miss Edna Knott, both from Kinston. New York has been the most populous state in the Union since 1820.

BETHEL—Police Patrolman Joe Thompson, who came here last summer from Belhaven to join the police force, is in Pitt County Memorial Hospital. He is suffering with diabetes and complications. Police Chief S. H. Martin, Patrolman and Sanitary Officer Walter Gray and Special Officer Johnny Mobley, formerly of the Greenville police force, are handling the law enforcement agency here. The Congress must meet annually on January 3 unless it has by law appointed a different day.

Mrs. Moore Fetes Jane Massey At Morning Hour

Miss Jane Massey was extended another phenomenal courtesy on Wednesday morning when Mrs. Luther Moore was hostess at a coffee hour given in her honor. For the morning social Mrs. Moore used attractive arrangements of pyracantha berries and fall foliage for mantel and table decoration in the living room, where the guests were greeted by her and Miss Massey. Miss Massey was wearing a shoulder corsage of white Garza chrysanthemums presented to her by the hostess. In the dining room the refreshment table was centered with a low silver bowl holding an artful arrangement of fuchsia Garza chrysanthemums and heather. Mrs. William Taft poured coffee from a silver service at one end of the table, and Mrs. James Smith and Mrs. Charles Braswell assisted the hostess in serving appetizing accompaniments. Miss Massey received as a gift a crystal and silver pitcher coaster from Mrs. Moore. Approximately 20 guests were present for this delightful social hour.

WARSAB, Nov. 30—At the Methodist Church in this place Miss Betty C. Wright and Mr. H. B. Smith were happily married, Rev. M. A. Smith, the pastor of the church, officiating. A choir of girls, dressed in white, sang, "O Perfect Love" as the people assembled. Promptly at 5 o'clock the bride, preceded by her sister, Miss Mary Wright, the maid of honor, entered on the arm of her brother, Dr. John B. Wright, of Lincolnton, N.C. who gave her away, and the groom entered from the pastor's study with his best man, Mr. Claud Smith, of Greensboro, to the measure of Lohegrin's wedding march, rendered by Mrs. J. K. Morley at the organ and Rev. T. M. Lee with the violin. During the ceremony the words of the minister sounded through the soft strains of the melody in F as he pronounced the happy couple man and wife, using the ring ceremony.

They left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, and after a luncheon immediately left for Roseboro where they took the train south. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. B. V. Wright, of Coharie, this county. The groom is superintendent of the public schools in Greenville, N.C. and a native of Guilford County.

Home Ec Students At College Will Stage Christmas Bazaar

Student members of the home economics club at East Carolina College will stage a bazaar next Tuesday afternoon, December 4, from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Flanagan building. Offered for sale will be a variety of items of interest to the Christmas shopper, including clothing and toys for children gifts for the home-maker, cook books, novelties, and cakes and candies. Proceeds will be used to finance activities and projects of the home economics club during the 1951-1952 school term. A previous bazaar on November 7 was attended by several hundred people from the campus and the city. An original cook book prepared by home economics students at East Carolina and featuring low-cost meals proved a popular purchase among shoppers.

Study Course Mrs. J. W. Hassell will lead a three hour study of the Book of James Monday, December 3, beginning at 10:30. This class will be held at the Presbyterian Church. Women of the Church of Holywood Boyd Memorial and Chiod have been invited to participate.

A Tribute To OUR P. T. A.

Laurels to the combined worthy efforts of the Parents and Teachers of our community! Their interest in the welfare of our children... striving ever toward greater understanding and unity... assures the proper development and right thinking of the men and women of tomorrow! In this very promise lies the future of our community, our state, our nation. More duties and responsibilities are added to their crowded and busy lives. Yet their reward and satisfaction is in the sure knowledge that their labors will bear a rich harvest. Plaudits to our Parents and Teachers! Their work today assures the peace and plenty of the world—tomorrow!

Strength for the Day

By KARL L. DOUGLAS
IN THE AREA OF CHOICES

Life is largely a matter of making choices and sticking by them. Growth of character usually depends upon the promptness of our decisions and our willingness to pursue worthwhile objectives with determination.

We may think we would be happier if life were all laid out for us and our decisions were made by a Power higher than our own. Confronted by hard decisions, the average human being often wishes he were an automaton.

But for better or worse, man has been given the capacity to make choices, and the Almighty intends that he shall make them. He often makes wrong choices but that is part of his education. There can be no growth in character unless we make choices, and we can be sure that human nature and intelligence being as they are, the better average we maintain will not be very high.

It is true that many decisions are made for us. We were not asked whether we wanted to be born, whether we wanted to be male or female, black, white, or yellow, rich or poor, blonde or brunette, tall or short. These things are in the hands of a Power higher than our own. The area in life in which we make choices is not large but it is vastly important. In that area, and in that area alone, character is created.

Disarmament-In The Open Or Behind Closed Doors?

The secret Big Four disarmament conference which began in Paris today brought new hopes that some agreement could be reached between the major forces of the West and the East for reducing their respective war machines. To be realistic, however, the hopes for an agreement can be based on nothing more than the fact that the Russians at least consented to talk the matter over with the United States, France and Britain.

If nothing more, the agreement on the secret conference proposed in the United Nations shows that the small nations of the world still hold a great deal of sway with the larger nations when they bind themselves together to make a point. The smaller nations have been seeking for weeks to get the Big Four nations to sit down together and talk over disarmament. They feel if the major adversaries in the cold war can come to terms on disarmament, World War III may be avoided.

While it is true that the Big Four conference on disarmament will be under the chairmanship of UN Assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico, The Reflector doubts the wisdom of reverting to the policy of secret diplomacy. Surely the people of this country have not so quickly forgotten the grave controversies which have arisen since World War II over the secret conferences held at Potsdam and Yalta. Most of the citizens are still trying to decide what actually took place at those secret diplomatic conferences, and exactly what commitments were made in the name of the United States.

The matter of disarmament is of utmost importance to every American. The decisions made at the Paris conference, if any, should be clearly understood by the American public as well as the handful of diplomats who have access to the correct information on what transpired behind the closed doors.

The United States' experience with secret diplomatic conferences in the past several years has indeed been costly. If the experience is not profited by, it could be even more costly in the future.

Grass And Weeds In The Same Plot

Doubtlessly the majority of the individuals receiving financial aid from federal, state and county funds across the nation are in need of the money to have the necessities of life. That supposition, nevertheless, does not obviate the probability that millions of dollars in government assistance funds are going to people who do not really need the money.

Just this week in Marion, Illinois, almost $12,000 was found in a carpenter's apron worn by an 85-year-old woman who had been drawing $39 a month in old age assistance from county officials.

If the Illinois case cited could be considered an isolated case in which a person who did not need government assistance money was drawing it, there would be no cause for concern. But the case can not be considered as an isolated incident. There are numbers of people in counties all over the country who are on relief rolls when their other income does not justify their being dependent upon their local, state and federal governments for subsistence.

After the regulation directing liens be taken on the property of individuals drawing government doles, there were more than 100 people in Pitt County alone who voluntarily dropped from welfare rolls rather than give the required lien on property they owned. The fact indicates that those people chose to get along without the government funds rather than obligate whatever funds may be derived from their property after their death. The situation would indicate a good many people on relief rolls could get along without the government funds if they chose to do so.

If the welfare rolls were opened to public scrutiny as they should be, it should not cause embarrassment to those individuals who really need local, state and federal assistance; but it would go a long way toward ridding the welfare lists of the names of people who do not really need the money, but who take it because it is available.

National Whirligig

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6306 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"What has happened to the Corrupt Practices Act?" inquires O. H. of Columbia, S.C. "In view of the fact that it was made law to prevent the excessive use of money in politics and to give poor men a chance to run for public office, how is it that so many millions of dollars can be spent in a single senatorial election?"

UNENFORCEABLE—Answer: The anti-money law is so full of holes that it is virtually unenforceable, like that other cure-all for dirty politics and official coercion of federal employees—the Hatch Act. Both were enacted in an effort to appease angry public sentiment over disclosures of election scandals. Both need a thorough revision.

Although the Corrupt Practices Act prescribes limitations on the amounts candidates for federal office and official committees may spend, it does not and cannot check heavy expenditures by voluntary and frequently uncontrolled groups working for a certain candidate—unions, veterans, farmers, business men, civil rights committees.

PURPOSE—No matter how scrupulous an office-seeker may be, he cannot restrain or supervise these organizations. In many instances he may not even know of their existence or activities. Money is sent in stealthily from the outside with word to "use it where and how it will do the most good."

Although presidentially aroused interest in the Taft-Ferguson contest in Ohio last year overshadows other considerations, the real purpose of the Gillette subcommittee's current investigation is to discover how the existing law can be tightened and strengthened.

Even Mr. Gillette, however, concedes that it will be almost impossible to frame a perfect remedy against the evil use of cash in political campaigns.

INFLATION—The Corrupt Practices Act, was enacted in 1925, and politics has suffered from inflation, like everything else, in the intervening period. With a Senate candidate restricted to $10,000 and a House candidate to $2,500, he must have financial assistance from well-wishing volunteer units, as well as from the state and national committees.

Everything he needs in rounding up votes has gone up in price. This includes postage stamps, gasoline, automobile hire, railroad fares, salaries for clerks and messengers, headquarters rent etc. Such factors as the radio and television have been introduced into politics since 1925, and they are expensive items.

In fact, politicians estimate that today's vote-getting dollar is worth only about one-quarter of what it was when the law was placed on the books.

CONFIDENCE—W.G.Y. of Los Angeles wants more information on the market letters favoring the nomination of General Eisenhower by the G.O.P. next year. I recently reported that numerous investment letters forecast that his selection would create confidence that would be reflected in the price of stocks and in the financial community generally.

"Los Angeles," he continues, "is quite a distance from New York, and a still greater distance from Europe, but comparatively close to Asia and its problems. We would be interested in learning to what degree these Wall Street financiers and lawyers weigh these problems or are they only interested in the immediate profits derived from industrial defense production?"

PROFIT—The letters I have seen do not stress General Eisenhower's supposed greater interest in Europe than in the Far East. But it is a fact that many New York banks and law firms figure that the European trade, industry and financial situation are of more importance to them than Oriental questions. They have always acted and spoken as a pro-Europe bloc.

However, the general theme of these memos is that there would be more confidence, based on domestic and foreign conditions, if a man like "Ike" supplanted President Truman in the White House. And it is a fact that many of these houses do profit, directly or indirectly, from the rearmament program.

Since Senator Taft has been critical of the extent of these expenditures, whereas Eisenhower's West European army is the beneficiary, the New Yorkers naturally lean toward the General rather than the Ohioan.

GRACIOUS—"Is Vice President Barkley's trip to Korea designed to rein him a nomination for second place," writes K.H. of Brooklyn, N.Y., "or even for the top spot, if Mr. Truman does not run again?"

Answer: I don't think so, although it never hurts a politician to keep in the limelight. Since President Truman could not make the trip, I think the "Veep" felt it would be a gracious act for him to show his personal interest in our fighting men over there. Mr. Barkley is a generous, kindly individual.

First Of The Month

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

One of the best known graduates of the University of North Carolina is Robert Ruark, the famous columnist who also does spot feature stories for the better magazines. While I was at Carolina Ruark visited one of the classes I was in, and he impressed me as being very much aware that he is the famous Robert Ruark. Even if he does know it, Ruark has plenty on the ball and what he writes is good.

Ruark is tied up with Hollywood's fantastic idea of what working reporters are like. Last week he got a chance to see Hollywood straight. A movie producer asked Bob how he could make a picture about newspaper work more accurate. Ruark was a working reporter for six years before he became a columnist, so he is qualified to answer that question. "Never in my born days," he says, "did I romp into a city room and scream: 'Stop the presses. We're going to bust this town wide open!' I never turned up a hat in front, nor wore a press card in the band of said hat.

"In 15 years I have never heard a newspaperman use the word 'scoop.' (On that count, Ruark has a short memory. In 1946 he wrote a letter to his syndicate, stating that he has achieved an amazing amount of scoops.)

"One might say 'beat' to describe a four-minute advantage on a hot story, but scoop is a bad word. A worse word is 'game' to refer to our business as in 'How do you like the newspaper game?' If this is a game it is a very strenuous sport, indeed, and I would not 'play' it for free.

"Newspapermen do not always meet such 'interesting people.' I have met more boring than the average bank president, civic worker or professional salesman of brushes. I have also met more crackpots. If some poor deluded soul has just seen a vision, I am the guy they choose to tell all about it.

"It is not true that all newspapermen dress shabbily and drink up all their pay. I have met a flock of teetotalers and some very fancy fashion plates who carry canes and occasionally wear spats. Our children catch colds and wear out shoes, just like yours. We do not generally catch criminals, preferring to allow the cops to earn their own pay.

"We are not always in the confidence of the mayor, the President, the Senate or the military. To the question, 'Do you want to be a reporter all your life?' As if it were a vice, I answer 'yes' and strike off another acquaintance. We are not freaks, any more than you are.

And I thank Bob.

NOT QUITTING—Robert L. Doughton, veteran representative of the ninth district, is expected to keep his seat in congress for at least one more term. A few weeks ago predictions were made he might retire at end of his forty-second consecutive year of service and in his ninetieth year of age. Lately these predictions have been discounted and the "Old Man of the Mountains," who can still out-walk, out-talk and out-think most men of half his age, is expected to stay on the job.

LEGENDARY—Bob Doughton is both a legendary and historic figure. Historically he has been in congress longer than any other North Carolinian and his service record for the nation is surpassed only by Adolf Sabath of Illinois. He has been chairman of the most powerful committee—ways and means—longer than any man in national history. Long years ago he gained recognition as a world figure and for a generation has been regarded as the representative of all North Carolina, although nominated and elected only by one district. His legendary appellations rival his factual historic record. He is affectionately known as "Farmer Bob," "Muley Bob," "Old Man Doughton," and "The Man."

REPUTATION—There was nothing new about rumors that he might retire at end of the current term. Similar rumors have prevailed for thirty years and a dozen hopefuls in the district have grown old waiting for "The Man" to quit so they could go to congress. More than a dozen men in the district now aspire to his seat, but not a single one is willing to take him on in political combat. And each one of the aspirants secretly hopes he will not step aside without casting the mantle of his support upon them (or him?). "The Old Man" is too smart for that. He knows his North Carolina, and he knows that the average voter isn't going to take orders or instructions from anybody.

HAPPY—Furthermore, "the man" is happy where he is and might not be anywhere else. He almost ran for governor in 1936 and toyed with the idea in 1944. Either time he would have been a very formidable—and probably successful—candidate. He yielded then to pressure from President Roosevelt; and others to stay on his job in congress. There has always been a sneaking belief that was what he really wanted to do anyhow. Similar belief now is that is what he wants, and what he will do.

TENURE—The Doughton tenure in congress spans administrations of seven presidents. He started when William Howard Taft was in the White House, and served under six other presidents—Woodrow Wilson, Warren Harding, Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman. The youngest man who voted for him in 1916 is now in

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

The great trend to saving by the American public may be painful to many merchants but in other ways it is beneficial to the economy.

Computation by the Department of Commerce showed that personal savings totaled $50,000,000 during the first months of this year, compared with $30,300,000 during the same 1950 period. Savings reached the amazing total of $22,200,000,000 in the three months ending October 1. Americans actually saved more in the first nine months of this year than they received in total income in all of 1933.

The savings figures are not exact. They are determined by estimating total income and deducting total expenditure. However, they clearly delineate trends. If all that money had not been saved, more would have been spent for goods. This accounts, in part, for the high rate of inventories and the disappointments of merchants and manufacturers in many lines.

But if these savings had been spent, while they would have cleared out many shelves and warehouses, this is what would have happened:

Prices would have been shoved up against ceilings.

Some would have burst through ceilings into black markets.

Manufacturers would have been clamoring louder than they are now for scarce materials.

High demand would have undoubtedly caused a tide of illegal leaks of scarce materials from defense industries.

Demands for rationing of scarce goods would rise.

Inflation would spiral higher, adding to the costs of the defense program, and eventually requiring higher taxes.

Those retailers and manufacturers who are taking losses because the consumers are not buying as much as expected—or could—may find a little comfort in the fact that continuation of the buying spree might have been equally distressing. They can also take comfort in the fact that the huge total of savings represents potential buying power for the future.

Total sales of retail stores in October are estimated at $13,100,000,000 or 6 per cent above a year ago, by the Department of Commerce. Department store sales were 5 per cent higher, according to Federal Reserve figures.

Them that buy, buys. It is an axiom of mail-order selling that those who have bought before are more likely to buy again. Years ago carpet sweeper manufacturers were distressed by rise of the vacuum cleaner; then they found out that families with cleaners were most likely to buy sweepers, too.

The old truism has been proved again. Now a survey by two radio networks shows that families with television sets are more likely to own radio sets than TV-less families. And W. Paul Jones, Serval president, told a sales meeting that the refrigerator industry must make the country two-refrigerator conscious to avoid saturation of the market. FROSTING, FIREPROOF, FOSSES WITH KIDNEES

It looked as if Santa Claus was walking into the office this morning, but closer examination showed that it was the Old Promoter in red suit and white whiskers. "What department store are you working for?" we asked. "None," laughed the O. P. "Salvation Army?"

"Nope," he said. "I'm working for a children's photographer. All I do is pose the brats. I am better than a photographer getting attention and mothers love a shot of Santa holding the kids. The photo's business is booming.

"By the way," the O. P. said, "these whiskers are fire-proof. If you give me a cigar, I'll prove it." So we did.

TOURISTS TO MEXICO WARNED BY GOVERNMENT

There's a bit of dishonesty south of the border, the government hints.

The Office of International Trade is warning tourists to Mexico to bring back purchases with them and not to have them sent separately. Seems that some tourists haven't been getting things they paid for or that added charges on delivered goods sometimes exceed their worth. Only when the tourist feels absolutely certain of the integrity of the advice and only when fully advised as to costs involved in having goods shipped, should a traveler have goods sent, the O. I. T. says.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The 20th Century has certainly been tough on a lot of things.

It has ready sent more fads, fashions, gadgets, ideas and ways of life down the drain than perhaps any other similar period in history.

The century is but slightly more than half over, yet its casualty toll has been terrific. No one can foresee what will be chopped down during the rest of the century. It is a real test of durability today merely to continue to survive. But here are a few items already gone or going since granddaddy rolled a hoop:

The bustle, handkerchief moustaches and the moustache cup—the two-lit haircut and the five-cent glass of beer—the free lunch, the nickel hotdog and most penny candy.

The rag for Cubes cigarettes sassafras tea and sulphur and molasses spring tonic—the belief that vitamins will take the place of real food or eight hours of sleep a night—the popularity of the Airedale dog.

Horses and all the things they used to pull... trolleys... iron-glass side curtains on open motor cars... automobile fenders... brass acetylene headlamps... linen dusters and goggles... the celluloid collar and sleeveholders.

The foot-powered player piano... the phonograph with the horn on it... minstrel shows and miniature golf courses... knickers and covered bridges... radio headphones and the five-cent telephone call (in some places)... rolled stockings and Empress Eugenie hats... the hatpin, once a maiden's best weapon 'gainst the old-fashioned masher...

The brief blind trust in "Every Day in Every Way I'm Getting Better and Better"... buggy wheels and straight-edged razors... the whale-bone corset and high-buttoned shoes... the hobble skirt... Dundreary whiskers and sideburns... the vest... little old ladies driving electric automobiles... cobblestone streets.

Red flannel underwear and the two-acre petticoat... spit curls... beauty spots... speakeasies... election eve torchlight parades... Mah Jong and the ouija board... the longnette and the "400"... champagne baths... human files and flagpole sitters... marathon dances and taffy pulls... milk dippers and the cracker barrel... Horatio Alger books... patent leather booties... the honest kitchen grater... gold toothpicks... sleeve graters and watchfobs... pogo sticks, homemade bread and cigar store Indians...

Quiet evenings at home... amateur sports... and big thick steaks

Washington Letter

By JANE KADS

WASHINGTON—A man recently offered the Folger Library here a clay pipe for a sum just he said would be used to educate his children. He said the pipe is supposed to have been dug up in the foundations of the Mermaid Tavern and he thought Shakespeare might have smoked it.

The pipe is only one of the many strange items which people want the library to buy and Dr. Lewis B. Wright, the director, says that while he's always eager to obtain significant books on 16th and 17th century life and Shakespeare, the institution can't become a catch-all for curiosities.

The wealth of Henry Clay Folger, a Standard Oil magnate and scholar, has made possible this most comprehensive assembly of Shakespeare material in the world. The library also houses the largest collection of English Renaissance literature outside of the British Museum. It has a miniature Elizabethan theater, and the largest collection of Shakespeare busts under one roof.

"But for years," Dr. Wright told me, "it has been an article of faith in some quarters that the Folger would buy anything, literally anything, if it could be connected with Shakespeare, even remotely.

"We do procure every significant book about Shakespeare, but a research institution cannot afford to indulge in sentimental whims, and we are not concerned with mere curiosities, especially those of no value, or dubious authenticity."

Sometimes, Dr. Wright said, the library would willingly part with a few things it already possesses. For example, he says the attic contains several portraits of actors and actresses which formerly hung in theater lobbies and are too big to hang anywhere on the library premises.

"They are just about right for a Texas oil millionaire's mansion, and we shall be receptive to a good offer," Dr. Wright said. Dr. Wright pointed out that during the past year alone, the library bought more than 4,500 titles printed before 1700.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE DANGER SIGNALS ARE UP (Laurinburg Exchange)

The danger signals are up. The United States is facing a great decision on the home front. Two news stories in Monday's papers emphasize the serious nature of the approaching crisis.

An Associated Press summary says that next year the national debt is expected to reach, and maybe pass, the legal limit of $75,000,000. That is the biggest and most colossal debt any nation ever owed.

Another news report of the same day which deserves to be read and heeded by every patriotic American, is one from Washington, a statement by U. S. Senator Burnett Maybank of South Carolina, who says that Bernard Baruch told him that this country's No. 1 enemy is inflation of its money, and if not stopped will destroy the American taxpayer. And with him, our economic structure, and our freedom.

In a Thanksgiving sermon held last week, the Reverend Archie M. McMillan, who has been about the world a good deal and has seen the desolation and the paralysis that follow in the wake of collapse of a country's money and its economic structure, said that in those countries where such disaster has come, money depreciated slowly and by degrees to about 40 per cent of its former value, and after that—the deluge and disaster.

How far is our dollar from the 40-cent value? How close are we to the straw that may break the camel's back? Our country has been on an economic jag for a long time. Does any serious-minded person believe that we can continue on that road, and that if we do, disaster does not lie at its end?

If our money becomes worthless and our economy topples, Joe Stalin will have defeated us without firing a shot. Yet there are men in the councils of state today who seem not to be alarmed, and who want more taxes, more spending, and more inflation? When will the American people come to their senses and call a halt?

There is a difference between profligacy and recklessness and a wise and sensible use of a country's money and its credit. The United States and its credit is coming to the time when its people must make that distinction if they are to live and preserve their institutions and their liberties.

Hobbyist Is True Artist In Wood

Local Craftsman Skilled In Difficult Wood-Inlays

By ROY HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

"I spend too much time in my shop; in fact sometimes my wife complains she's playing second fiddle to my hobby and she is right in thinking so, at times."

Those words serve as introduction to one of Greenville's most interesting citizens, J. G. Gibbs, who makes it a sideline business to create things with wood in his own home shop.

There he may be found at any spare moment which he might have after he has put in a regular day's work as a civil engineer with the State Highway and Public Works Commission.

"I prefer to call myself a craftsman," says Gibbs and that title he is certainly entitled to.

The story of Gibbs' hobby or craft, goes back about 12 years when his daughter decided she wanted a desk. Her father set about to see what he could do and built one himself. From that time on he has become a near slave to his shop; but a more willing slave will not be found anywhere, for he enjoys his work.

That first project was not just a regular desk, but had a large map of the United States on its top, made to scale with various types of wood representing the 48 states. Now his first project is carefully stored away for safe keeping.

To glance over his modern shop; you would never guess that when this craftsman started out, that he possessed only one tool, that being a 15-cent copeland saw.

While the wood-working field covers a large area this Greenville craftsman works mainly with wood inlays. This means making a picture by using various shapes and kinds of woods to form the pattern. Actually it could be said that Gibbs paints with his hands what an artist paints with his brush.

Wood inlay work is time-consuming and often requires upwards of 90 hours of sawing time alone to finish the inlay. This is only the beginning as the construction of the inlay requires time and a skillful hand.

His largest project to date is one 28 by 36 inlay, which took more than 30 hours of actual sawing time to cut out the selected woods for the pattern.

Prepared patterns are followed by Gibbs in making his inlays and other works with only one or two of his projects "originals."

Since coming here a little over a year and a half ago, Gibbs has constructed a well-built shop behind his home in Hillsdale, doing all of the work himself.

From the 15-cent copeland saw he has gone to 12 large pieces of equipment, with which he can turn out most anything that the imagination can want in wood work.

Woods for the work in the local man's shop come from the far corners of the earth, since there are now over 132 known types of woods which can be used. However, woods such as rose wood, which comes from the South Pacific has become scarce since the last war.

One of the more expensive woods is Amboyna, which comes from the Spice Islands, costing over 75 cents per square foot.

In tracing back his interest, Gibbs states that as a child he always was carving and making something of wood. In fact he once made a box for use on his mother's farm, out of an old stove.

And it worked, too.

Possibly the highlight of the craftsman's career came when he presented a desk, covered with a map of the United States to President Truman. This was in 1948, and the presentation was made at the White House in Washington. A total of 51 different kinds of wood were used in making the map, a different wood for each state. The map measured 28 by 41 inches. With the gift, went a booklet which Gibbs had compiled, with one page devoted to each type of wood, giving a complete information source on each type of wood.

For his friends, he is constantly making wood work, for which he only charges for the materials and not the labor.

To date, more than 100 inlay cases have been made by Gibbs, each one sturdy enough to support the weight of a man.

"In years gone by, has it not been for my wood working, I do not know how we would have been able to make ends meet," Gibbs said. He estimates that he has made more than $1,000 a year from his project, which anyone will agree would come in handy.

Valuation of woods which the craftsman has in his shop would run into the thousands of dollars, but actually cost him less than $200. This was achieved by a tie in with manufacturers who learned of his work and supply him with needed woods at a fraction of their actual cost. "If it was not for this I would find it nearly impossible to carry on this trade," Gibbs said.

Possibly one disappointing fact for the craftsman is that out of a family of six, not a one has shown any interest in following in their father's steps.

A large project now being undertaken by Gibbs, is the construction of a combination cedar chest and bureau drawer for a bride, present to his daughter. Made of solid materials, carefully put together, the furniture would cost over $200 if it could be obtained on the open market today.

Everywhere in the Gibbs household may be seen evidence of the hand work of wood-worker Gibbs, as numerous inlays dot the walls and furniture. Mrs. Gibbs' favorite of her husband's work is a large folding sewing basket made for her some years ago.

Nearly all colors of the rainbow can be placed into a wood inlay by the proper selection of wood and grain, Gibbs points out.

Each of the various types of woods in his shop he can name, describe, and tell its history at a moment's notice. He has prepared a catalog with the various woods listed and a brief description under each wood for display and is of interest to everyone who has ever seen it.

This local craftsman who puts on his shop apron at the close of a regular work day is indeed one of the town's interesting, but little known work men who continues to turn out work which anyone would be proud to claim.

J. G. Gibbs, civil engineer for the State Highway and Public Works Commission, has made a hobby over the past 12 years of making things from wood. Here Gibbs is shown with some of his finished inlays. All around the Gibbs household may be found inlays and pieces of furniture which have been turned out by the skilled craftsman. (Reflector Staff Photos by Roy Hardee).

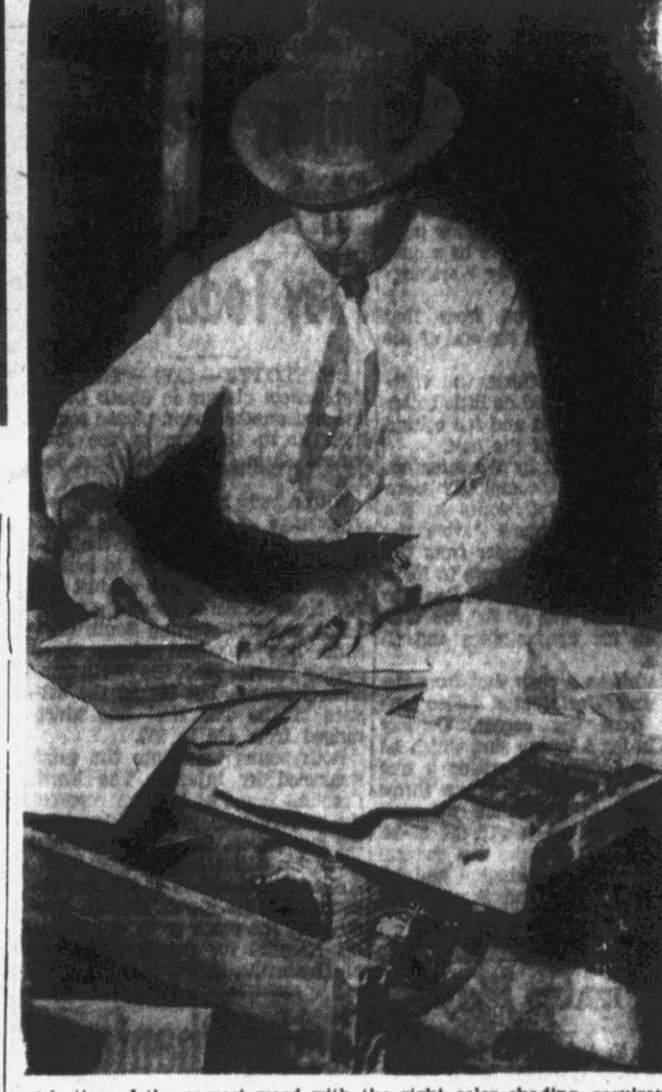

The finishing touches are applied to the combination cedar chest and walnut drawers which Craftsman Gibbs is making as a bridal present for one of his daughters. Oddly enough, the need of one of his daughters some twelve years ago, started the man on his present hobby and sideline business.

The women of the Auxiliary of St. Paul's Episcopal Church are busy preparing for their annual Christmas Bazaar to be held this year on Thursday, December 6. A group of women have been meeting at the church twice a week for some time, sewing, painting and preparing things which will be offered for sale. The group above is engaged in making and dressing dolls, one of the most popular articles sold each year. Everything which is offered for sale is original, attractive, useful, and appropriate for gift-giving at Christmas.

One of the more important parts of the wood working carried on by Gibbs is the correct sawing out of the minute pieces of various woods which must be hand placed in the inlays. Often times, inlays require more than 90 hours of actual sawing time before they can be assembled in a tiresome and tedious process.

Selection of the correct wood with the right color shading, requires a good deal of time and an experienced eye. Here, Gibbs selects wood to go into an inlay dealing with ships. All colors with the exception of certain shades of blue can be blended in the color pattern. A selection of more than 132 pieces of wood from all over the world is to be found in the hobbyist's shop.

Woman Deputy Sheriff Of Pitt Doesn't Wear A Gun

By JESS FONDENTER

The demure, pleasant little blonde who works in the county sheriff's office here is in a position to serve the local "Don Juans" with some staggering surprises if she should ever feel so inclined, for in her billfold rests the shiny silver badge of a deputy sheriff.

The young lady in question is Sarah Jones, a graduate of East Carolina College and a bona fide deputy sheriff of Pitt County since 1946. For one so young, Sarah outranks many officers on the county payroll in length of service, because she has been a sworn deputy for more than five years.

But it is not strange to find Sarah in law enforcement work. From 1938 to 1944 her sister, Thelma-Jones Dodds, occupied the same position Sarah now holds, and resigned only because of her approaching marriage. Their father, Lester Jones, was appointed one of the original members of the State Highway Patrol when it was first organized in 1929, and at the time of his death in 1950, was commander of Troop "A", with the rank of captain. "This sort of work just seems to run in the family," Sarah says.

Although she technically has the same authority as any other officer, Sarah's full-time work is confined to office assignments. "I am the official book-keeper, stenographer, and general 'question answerer,'" Sarah asserts. She admits, however, that she records warrants, occasionally takes confessions, and uses the two-way radio to communicate with the department's cars, which may be anywhere in the county.

There are three other deputies besides Sarah, all men, and four ABC officers, all of whom stay in radio contact with the sheriff's office when they are out. The office has four cars and the ABC force two, all of which are equipped with two-way radio units.

Sarah recalls that when she became a deputy more than five years ago, there was no radio communication system in effect at the sheriff's office. "When we wanted contact a touring deputy, we sent the message by telephone, word-of-mouth, or used any other means likely to accomplish the desired result," she disclosed, and she is only half in jest when she speaks thus. The radio was installed in 1948, so in the relatively short span of five years, Sarah has seen the antique, obsolete methods practiced in 1946, evolve into the present modernized system of crime prevention and control.

Even though she has never strapped on a gun or apprehended a criminal, the quiet, attractive young lady has full authority to do so. "I have never carried a gun, even on dates," Sarah says smilingly, "but on numerous occasions I have often wished that I had brought one along."

The most exciting case of her career, Sarah thinks, was the Daniels murder trial in 1949. "Feeling was running pretty high at the time," she recalls, "and through my so dim in and around the courthouse that I had to be escorted to and from the office."

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson says of Sarah, "She is very efficient and very dependable in her office work and we consider her an asset to the department." He adds that both Sarah and her sister have done excellent work here.

Sarah is only five feet, five inches in height, and weighs but 112 pounds, yet when the unassuming little deputy behind the desk lifts the radio phone and in a business-like voice says, "Come in car 58," she speaks with authority.

More Power For Trucks Is His Major Interest

Take a standard motor truck, add an extra axle and an extra drive shaft, and what have you?

Twice the moving power at an increased operating cost of only 10 per cent. So says Roy Richards, a Carrollton engineer-inventor-business executive.

One of Richards' numerous interests is a construction company which specializes in building electric power lines. Trucks equipped with tall towers are used extensively in this work. Richard decided he needed more motor power and more overall stability to cope with the special problems and rough terrain encountered in stringing power lines.

So he developed a "power divider" which permits the regular truck motor to power the two drive shafts.

All members of Elks' families and especially those of deceased members are cordially invited to attend the memorial service. J. B. Spilman, Jr., chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, stated.

Case Results In Perjury Charge

By CHESTER WALSH

Unusual complications arose after James Battle, 31-year-old Negro, 1409 Clarke Street, Greenville, swore out a warrant against Chesterfield Payton, Negro, on the charge of assaulting him with a deadly weapon a pistol.

After the warrant was issued at police headquarters and an officer started to serve it, it was learned that Chesterfield Payton had been in the county jail since he took an appeal in Police Court recently. He could not have been guilty of the offense, an officer stated.

Police took Battle to the county jail and Battle identified Payton as his assailant. He was shocked when told that Payton was in jail on the day he claimed he assaulted him with a deadly weapon. "I just picked out the wrong man who got after me," Battle told a reporter.

The record shows that Chesterfield Payton and a Negro named William H. Bullock, Route 2, Winterville, had an altercation about two weeks ago. Payton swore out a warrant against Bullock charging assault with a deadly weapon. Bullock charged Payton with assault.

In Police Court Payton was convicted. He took an appeal. When the case came up in Superior Court last week William H. Bullock, Negro, the prosecuting witness, failed to appear against Payton. In the meantime he is languishing in jail. "Being locked up did come out of some other trouble," Payton commented.

Now, James Battle is charged with perjury. When his case was called in Police Court yesterday, he requested that it be continued until next week.

In 1949 there were 296 homicides in New York City.

Pitt Little Affected By New N.C. Tobacco Quotas

Farm officials indicate that even though North Carolina's 1952 tobacco acreage allotment has been increased by some 3,600 acres over the 1951 figure, Pitt County farmers should not expect more than a very slight increase, if any, in their acreage allotments for next year.

Pitt County's 1951 allotment was 89,800.5 acres, and of that total, 89,032.6 acres were planted. County farmers were short of their full allotment by only 767.9 acres. Officials said by the time the relatively small 1952 increase is apportioned to all the tobacco producing counties in the state, only those farmers' having unusual large allotments will be affected.

North Carolina had an allotment of 740,747 acres in 1951. The 1952 figure is 744,348 acres, including 8,704 acres for adjustment (which provides for small acreage allotments for new farms). The total state increase is only 3,601 acres,

Elks Lodge Will Honor Deceased Members Sunday

Greenville Lodge, No. 1645, benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will hold a memorial service for deceased members Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Exalted Ruler E. Skime Duff will preside.

Deceased members to be honored are: Roy Barrett, N. O. Warren, Jack Laney, John Flanagan, I. W. Netherland, L. B. Garriss, Dall Laughinghouse, Jr., C. B. Rowlette, Jr., Charles F. Manning, Felix Sheller, Cecil C. Jones, C. L. Russ, Clem Garner and Bruce Baker.

All members of Elks' families and especially those of deceased members are cordially invited to attend the memorial service. J. B. Spilman, Jr., chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, stated.

Three Speakers For Farm Bureau

The Farm Bureau of Stokes Township held an important supper meeting Thursday night, when three well-known speakers addressed the members. The speakers were Hilton Carson, John I. Gray and Matthew Lewis.

Lewis gave a history of the Farm Bureau, how the organization had helped farmers to "cross the Red Sea" of their problems. He recalled the early 1930s when prices were low and purchasing power was lower. He pointed out that the Farm Bureau, through organization, had led the farmers into a new "land of promise" in farm policies and procedure.

Gray enumerated accomplishments of the Farm Bureau since it was organized. "It is a stepping stone to a sound and progressive

Friday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court yesterday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Joe Baker, 52, guilty of assault with a deadly weapon (a knife) on Leon Peaden and gave him 12 months on the road, suspended on payment of $100 to Leon Peaden for loss of time from work and for medical bills.

The court also ordered that Baker remain of good behavior for a year and not violate any law; and he is not to carry on his person at any time between home and his place of employment any weapon or knife.

Testimony was that Baker slashed Peaden seriously with a knife in the abdominal region.

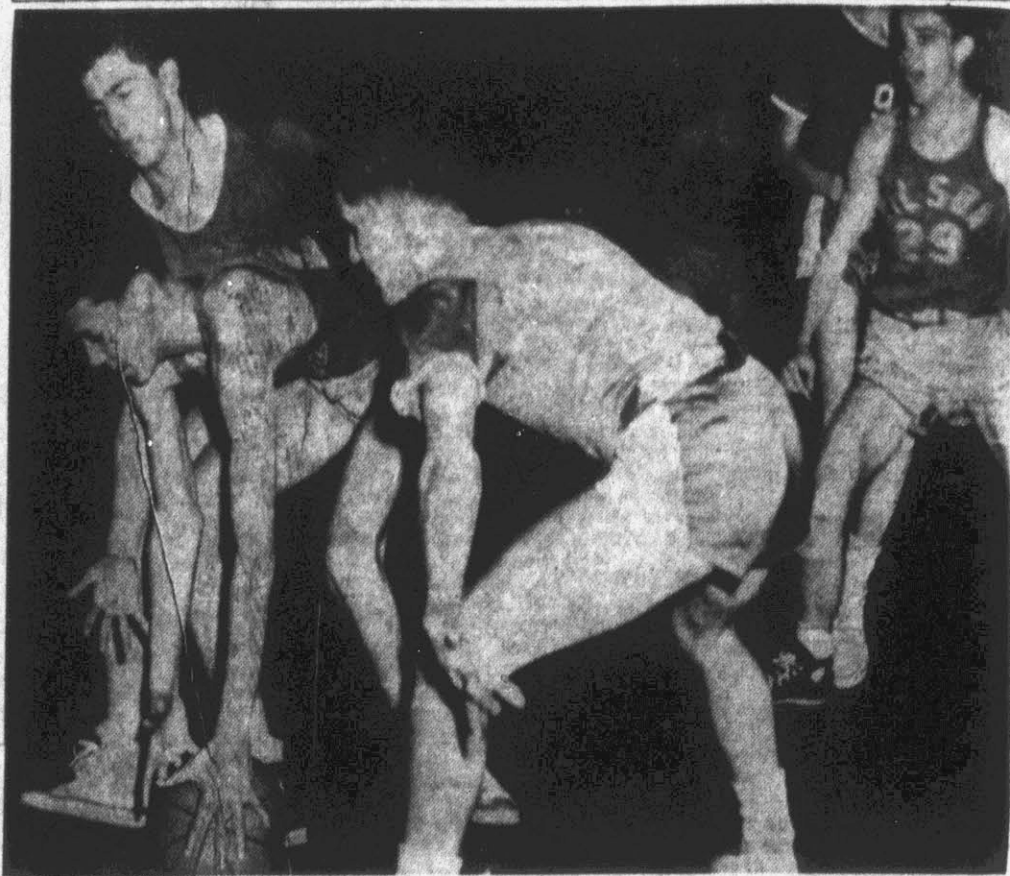

Benjamin Smith, Negro, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was found guilty of assault and battery and fined $15.

John Walters, Negro, was given 30 days in jail for disorderly conduct. Sentence was suspended on payment of $20.

The case against Sankie L. Roland, charging speeding, was not processed.

MONEY HIDEOUT
WATERLOO, Ill.—(AP)—A middy cache of money—$1,355—tumbled out of an old stove at an estate auction recently. The $5's, $10's and $20's were the large bills the treasury quit printing years ago. The money was in the estate of Andrew Stewart, Hecker, Ill., bachelor whose property was being auctioned.

Greenville Opens Year With 55-45 Win Over Wilson

Scoring Pace Set By Moore, Worthington

Phantoms Jump Into Early Lead On Field Goals By Moore; Worthington High For Locals; Ward Makes 20 Points

Coach Bo Farley's Greenville High School Phantoms opened their 1951-1952 season with a bang last night in the High School Gymnasium with a 55-45 victory over the Wilson Cyclones. The visiting Cyclones are members of the Eastern AAA Conference while the Phantoms occupy a berth in the Class AA Northeastern Conference.

A first half scoring spurge by Leon Moore and a like spree in the second half by Smith Worthington gave the Phantoms their victory. They were never headed in the ball game as Moore hit on four quick field goals in the first quarter to push Greenville ahead. When Moore cooled off in the second half, Worthington took up the slack to hit for nine second half points.

The contest was the first game of the year for both clubs.

Worthington had to give scoring honors for the contest to forward Dick Ward of the Cyclones who ripped the nets for nine field goals and two free throws for a total of 20 points. Ward was the only member of the Wilson team to get into the double figures, however.

Greenville jumped into a quick lead in the game when Moore hit on a push shot from the side. John Stallings of the Wilson club narrowed the margin by sinking one of two free throws given him when he fouled by Sonny Scott. Scott hit on a free throw and then Moore hit another of his push shots to extend the margin to 5-1 before Ed Woodard finally hit on a one-hander from the corner for the Cyclones.

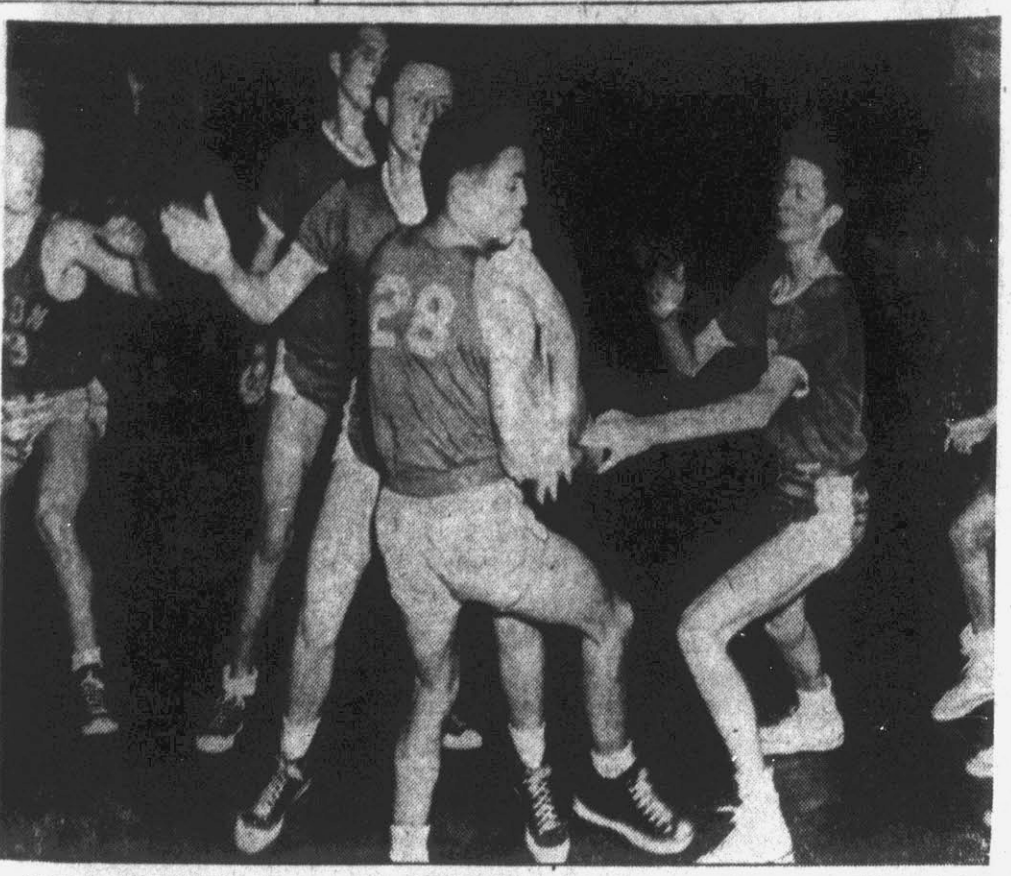

After Briley hit on a long set shot, Woodard countered with a nice pivot shot to make the score 7-5 but Moore put the Cyclones out of the contest with two quick push shots which were followed by a one-hander from close in by Worthington.

Greenville went on from that point to lead 14-9 at the end of the first quarter. Despite Ward's efforts, the visiting Wilson club could do little better in the second period and fell behind 27-20 at the end of the half. Greenville, paced by Worthington, Conway, and Scott, completely broke the backs of the Cyclones in the third period. Woodard started the period with a one-hander from the corner and Joe Rand drove in for a lay-up shot that closed the gap to 29-24 but that was all for the Wilson club for five minutes and 50 seconds.

Scott hit on a push shot from the circle and Worthington added another from the corner. Conway drove in for a lay-up shot which he made in addition to getting a free throw. He missed the free throw but tossed in the follow up shot. Greenville led at this point 35-24. Joe Rowland extended the margin to 38-24 after Worthington had hit on a free throw and Scott added another free toss to make it 39.

Scott hit on another one-hander from the corner to make the score 41-24. Worthington pushed in a free throw to make the score 42-24 before Ward broke ice with a push shot from the side. After that spurge by the Phantoms, however, the Cyclones could never again get close.

The contest was the first game of the year for both clubs.

JOHN STALLINGS (No. 28), a guard for the Wilson Cyclones, found the going rough on this particular play. Smith Worthington (on the right), Tommy Evans (behind Stallings), and Wallace Conway (behind Evans) are all prepared to stop the Wilson player. ## Maryland Sports Honest, Governor's Group Decides

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The University of Maryland Regents are satisfied the athletic system which produced this year's undefeated Sugar Bowl football team "is in no sense the result of any kind of deceit or dishonesty."

That was the gist of a 16-page report made a week ago last Tuesday by the 11 Regents sent to Governor McKeldin yesterday. He had asked the Regents appointed by him to determine "whether the system is based on deceit, whether it violates the rules of intercollegiate sport, and whether it could possibly bring dishonor on the university."

The Governor's request for a report was made a week ago last Tuesday, the day after Judge Saul Street of New York cited Maryland among examples of what he called "over-emphasis and commercialism." "There is nothing in University of Maryland athletics that is in any sense based on deceit," the Regents report stated. "Nothing that violates the rules of intercollegiate sports; and nothing that could possibly bring dishonor on the university."

Dr. H. C. Byrd, university president, was the only official to appear personally before the Regents during an all-day closed session. The written report was released after the meeting.

The Regents accepted the various statements that Maryland's system of recruiting and aid to athletes is in conformity with the conference regulations and also that athletes are not given preferential treatment either in the award of scholarships or in pursuit of their studies.

The Southern Conference requires that any aid given athletes must be "based on character, scholarship, loans and jobs." The rule also limits aid to "actual institutional expenses, and where laundry or dry cleaning are not handled by the institution, cash payments will not exceed $15 per month for laundry and dry cleaning."

Letters from Max Farrington, president of the conference, and Wallace Wade, conference commissioner, were included in the report.

Both said that to the best of their knowledge Maryland is complying with conference regulations on aid to athletes.

NCAA Defends TV Act; As Feasible, Legal

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association claimed today it has saved college football television for the public and defended its experimental TV program as technically possible, commercially feasible and legal.

At an NCAA sponsored press conference, the organization's executive committee lashed out at critics and asked for support in its "effort to live with television."

Bob Hall, Yale athletic director, Tom Hamilton, football coach and athletic director at Pittsburgh, and Ralph Furey, Columbia athletic director, spoke for the NCAA.

The committee expressed hope that "the American public will again see college football on television during the 1952 season."

Furey said, "Our experience this year demonstrates that football fans everywhere want to see the college games telecast. We trust this will be possible, in keeping with the best interests of all schools participating in collegiate competition."

"NCAA made college football available to the television audience of the United States this fall although the majority of member colleges were opposed to such a program."

"As a result of this experimental program, according to the National Broadcasting Company, 35,000,000 fans saw live telecasts of college football this fall," Furey said.

Capt. Hamilton asserted football TV challenges the rights of the colleges to protect their own interests.

"We are not required to give football away to the public. They don't put South Pacific (the Broadway musical hit) on every TV set. Why should the colleges have to show their games? It costs tickets at the gate. If TV can't contribute to college football then let it show Hopalong Cassidy."

Hall defended the legality of the NCAA program. He said the government's anti-trust division never gave the NCAA a ruling on its TV experiment.

"They didn't tell us it was illegal," he said. "They took no position at all. In fact, they upheld in October, 1949, greater restrictions on the broadcast and television of baseball games."

Tommy Henrich Is Dropped By Yanks

NEW YORK (AP)—Old reliable Tommy Henrich, a familiar figure around the Yankee Stadium since 1937, will be among the missing in 1952.

The Yanks dropped Henrich as a coach yesterday because of the former star-outfielder's unavailability to work outside the metropolitan area. Henrich and former Yankee George Stinweis are distributors for a beer company.

The Yanks will not replace Henrich, continuing with a three-man staff of Bill Dickey, Frank Crosetti and Jim Turner.

Pirates Play

The East Carolina Pirates will open their 1951-1952 North State Conference schedule tonight at 8 p.m. in Wright Gymnasium against the Guilford Quakers. There will be no preliminary game.

Coach Howard Porter of the Bucs has announced that the starting line-up for East Carolina will have Sonny Russell and Charlie Huffman at the forwards, Toddy Fennell at center, and Dick Blake and Lou Collie at the guards. All are lettermen.

This will be the first of 11 home games for the Pirates. They have already played one game, having lost to the Norfolk Naval Air Station November 17.

Injury-Wrecked Shrine Squads Play Today

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The top high school players in South Carolina met another hand-picked squad from North Carolina in the 15th annual Shrine Bowl game here today.

With a puny backfield, outweighed an average 30 pounds by the North Carolina starting backfield, the Palmetto squad was expected to launch a stronger aerial attack against the Tar Heels' bruising ground game.

The probable starting South Carolina line averaged about three pounds heavier than the North Carolina forwards, but lacked the balance of the Tar Heel line which ranged from 185 to 205.

Both teams went into the game weakened by injuries. The North Carolina squad of 33 men reported six players who probably wouldn't see any action. South Carolina had seven casualties listed.

A sellout crowd of 15,000 was expected for the 2 p.m. kickoff. Proceeds of the game go to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children at Greenville, S. C.

Wolpack Opens Against Furman

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina State College's defending Southern Conference basketball champions open their season tonight in a conference game against Furman.

A crowd of 9,000 is expected to watch the clash in Reynolds Coliseum.

Coach Everett Case's Wolpack will be a heavy favorite against Coach Lyles Alley's South Carolina five. A preliminary contest was scheduled between State's Jayvees and Lousburg Junior College.

Case indicated he plans to start Bobby Speight and Bill Kukoy at the forward slots, Bobby Goss at center, and captain Lee Terrill and Bernie Yurin at the guard positions.

This same starting combination was used in State's 67-62 victory over Villanova in the NCAA playoffs at the end of last season.

Ontario, Quebec are Canada's leading fur-producing provinces.

Brundage Claims Mis-Use Of Collegiate Athletics

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Educational leaders have allowed sports to be misused for commercial profit, says President Avery Brundage of the U.S. Olympic Committee, and as a result sports right now are in trouble.

Speaking yesterday before the 63rd convention of the National Amateur Athletic Union, Brundage declared that sports were under attack, and added:

"The AAU has a function in these days of scandals and disgrace in fields which should be spotlessly clean.

"Maybe the AAU should teach our educational leaders the true values of sports, which transcend making money and creating publicity. The real value of sports is character building and the building of strong bodies."

Brundage said it is more important than ever to send a large and strong team to the 1952 Olympic games at Helsinki, Finland, next July. "For the first time Russian athletes will be eligible to compete and they probably will," he said.

A committee of former AAU presidents was reported making a review of the Jim Thorpe case at the request of a group of New York businessmen.

The AAU took away the medal Thorpe won in the 1912 Olympics when it later discovered he played professional baseball before the Olympics.

Dartmouth Regrets Injuries To Kaz; School Apologizes

HANOVER, N.H.—(AP)—Dartmouth's official regrets about Dick Kazmaier's injuries were included in Athletic Director William H. McCarter's formal statement about last week's Dartmouth-Princeton football game.

Junior Phantoms Win, 40-25, Over Wilson Juniors

Little Pat Sawyer, a clever ball handler, and Forward Bob Howell scored ten points apiece last night to pace the Greenville High School Junior Varsity to a 40-25 victory over the Junior Cyclones of Wilson. The game was played as a preliminary to the Greenville-Wilson Varsity game.

Greenville led all the way in the ball game and never once did the taller visitors even threaten to take the lead from Coach Bill Kittrell's team. Center Freddie Deans and Guard Joe Jones of the Junior Cyclones led the scoring for their team with 10 and nine points, respectively.

The scoring: Wilson—forwards, Thompson, 3; Yennoullis; Creekmore; centers, Deans, 10; Lamm, guards, Jones, 9; Morris, 3; Wheeler. Greenville—forwards, Starkey, 3; Moore; Scott; Howell, 10; centers, White, 2; Conway, 2; Edwards, 2; guards, Hobgood, 6; Sawyer, 10; Saleed, 4; Perkins, 1.

South Edgecombe Cagers Open Year Against Saratoga

PINETOPS—South Edgecombe today released a 16-game schedule for its basketball teams. Two open dates are left on the schedule, as released by district principal Morris S. Clark.

Both boys and girls teams, members of the Class A Coastal Basketball Conference, will open with a home game with Saratoga High on December 4. The teams also play in the Edgecombe County Conference.

The complete schedule: December 4, Saratoga; 11, at Gardeners; 14, Saratoga; 17, Gardeners; January 8, at Vanceboro; 11, Open; 14, Robersonville; 18, at West Edgecombe; 22, at Farmville; 25, at Leggett; 29, at Robersonville; February 1, Ayden; 5, Open; 8, Vanceboro; 12, Leggett; 15, at Ayden; 19, West Edgecombe; 22, Farmville.

Pastor's Anniversary Sunday Goals Are Met

Rev. J. A. Neilson, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church here, reported today that the goals set for the pastor's fifth anniversary Sunday were met. The goals were 300 in Sunday School and a full house for church services.

The pastor disclosed that there were 320 present for Sunday School, and the largest crowd in five years filled the church for preaching services.

At the Morning Worship tomorrow, a mixed quartet made up of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilkerson, Lois Tucker, and Tommy Eilers, will sing "Be Still My Soul" by Sibelius. The church Missionary Society will observe the "Week of Prayer" for foreign missions December 3, through December 7.

The circles will meet Tuesday at 10 a. m., with Mrs. J. D. McGlothin, Mrs. A. H. Campbell in charge of program; Wednesday at 10 a. m., with Mrs. Harve Dall, Miss Venetia Cox, returned missionary from China as guest speaker; Thursday, 3:30 p. m., with Mrs. E. T. Stafford, Miss Beverly Neilson, summer missionary to Hawaii as guest speaker; Friday, 10 a. m., with Mrs. J. A. Neilson, "Day of Prayer Around the World" as planned by the Baptist World Alliance will be observed.

Each member is urged to attend the "Week of Prayer" for foreign missions December 3, through December 7. Each circle will present the first program at its regular circle meeting Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. They are: The Stella Austin Circle with Mrs. Banks Cozart; the Sara Edinger Circle with Mrs. Gilbert Peelle; and the Virginia Highfill Circle with Mrs. Clyde Hollowell. The Mary Hester Powell Circle will meet Tuesday night with Mrs. G. B. Jones.

Librarian Attended Association Meeting Raleigh Wednesday

Mrs. Bessie W. Scott, librarian at the Sheppard Memorial Library attended a meeting of the Policy Committee of Public Library Section of the North Carolina Library Association in Raleigh Wednesday, November 28.

Mrs. Scott said the committee met to make recommendations to public libraries for use in developing a ten-year plan for the growth of library service in each county of the state. The committee met in the office of the State Library Commission.

She is one of eight librarians who are members of the Policy Committee.

K. T. Futrell Is Kiwanis Speaker

K. T. Futrell, Pitt county superintendent of welfare, guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club last night, gave an outline of the responsibilities and activities of his department.

J. A. Co, who had charge of the program for Dr. Davis L. Moore, introduced the speaker. President H. Glenn Haney presided. At the conclusion of his talk, Futrell invited the Kiwanians to ask questions and he answered them promptly. Later, he distributed mimeographed sheets of the Welfare Department's activities.

Dr. John O. Reynolds, sponsor of the Circle K club at East Carolina College, named the members of the good work the members of Circle K are doing and that they are going to have a "snow-torium on the campus next Friday night from 8:30 until midnight. The dance will be formal and invitations have been extended to others to attend, Reynolds said.

Charles E. Blair reminded the Kiwanians to return their ballots nominating "the young man of the year" by Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Guests at the meeting were Charles Russell of Portsmouth, Va., Dr. J. L. Winstead and Kiwanian Earl W. Holmes of Farmville.

Kyzer Attends Raleigh Meetings
W. T. Kyzer, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, attended a meeting in Raleigh Thursday of the directors and officers of the State Association of Fairs.
Kyzer said the group, of which he is vice-chairman, met to plan the program and set up committees to work on the annual meeting of the State Association of Fairs which will be held in Raleigh January 17 and 18.

CANADIAN WOLVES
DRYDEN, Ont. —(AP)— Robert Bunney and John McArthur, paper company employees, came face to face with a pack of 12 wolves in the Kekekwa Lake area. The pack, however, scattered quickly when McArthur opened fire on the lead wolf.

Throngs Watch Parade Honoring Santa's Arrival

Streets of Greenville were lined for blocks this morning as a record crowd turned out for the annual Santa Claus parade. The 30 minute parade drew a crowd estimated by officials to run around 10,000 persons. Here is a sectional view of the crowd this morning. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

Clear And Cold

Clear and cold weather continued to prevail in the Greenville area today, and the temperature dropped to 25 degrees, seven below freezing during the night.
Highest temperature here yesterday was 62 degrees. Lowest last night, 25, and at 8 a. m. today the mercury stood at 29. Heavy frost last night.
Yesterday a year ago the highest temperature was 56 degrees. Lowest that night, 28, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 24.

Coleman Reviews Events Leading Up To Cold War

Dr. Hubert Coleman, of East Carolina College social studies department, guest speaker at the Exchange Club last night, enumerated some of the historic events leading up to the present world unrest.
Jack Wallace had charge of the program. President Robert S. (Sweeney) Moye presided.
The speaker paid tribute to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his successor, Harry S. Truman. He pointed out some of the acts of the State Department in handling the Chinese situation, and opined that President Roosevelt placed too much confidence in Russia's Stalin at the Yalta conference.

Participating In N. C. Convention

Dr. Bessie McNeil, Ruth Lamble, Mabel Lacy, and Alice Strawn, faculty members of the home economics department at East Carolina College, attended the 34th annual convention of the North Carolina Home Economics Association in Durham November 29-December 1.

Dr. McNeil, director of the East Carolina home economics department, is news editor for the "Journal of Home Economics" and chairman of the Time and Place Committee for the 1952 convention of the association. Miss Lacy, past president of the state association, is now counselor; and Miss Strawn is chairman of the Constitutional Committee.

Abandon Highway To Ocean Waves

RALEIGH (AP)— The Atlantic Ocean has washed away the southern section of US 421 at Fort Fisher. The State Highway Commission, throwing in the sponge, officially declared yesterday it is abandoning the road. Highway engineers were instructed to delete the section from highway maps.

Small Pension To Record-Breaker

ROME —(AP)— The man gave Italy her only speed record for the North Atlantic crossing by ship is now retired on an $11 a month pension.
This is the typical pension of some 20,000 Italian merchant seamen who sailed the seas for at least two decades before being retired.
Francesco Tarabotto, former captain of the "Rex" luxury liner, guided the "Rex" across the ocean in 1933 in four days 13 hours and 58 minutes breaking the record held at that time by the German transatlantic liner, Bremen.

TOP OF THE WORLD

CONCORD, N. H. —(UP)— The "Top of the World" is in New Hampshire, state officials announced. The planning and development commission said "Top of the World" is the official name of a rise of land 820 feet above sea level in the town of Sandwich.

License Plates . . .

The first 10,000 plates sold will have only numerals on them, but any tags sold thereafter will have numerals preceded by a letter designation. Other prices in addition to the $10 private car tags, are: regular trucks, $12 and up; farm trucks, $10; and class "C" and "Z" trailers, three dollars and up.
Through December 1, reports showed the local office had sold a total of 16,025 licenses of all classes ranging from motorcycles to heavy trucks. Of this total, cars accounted for 11,600 regular trucks for 3,400, farm trucks for 400, "Z" trailers for 1,300, "C" trailers for 200, and motorcycles for 125.
Officials said the total number of sales at the local office for 1952 would probably exceed 17,000 because of a slight increase in the number of cars in the area. They could give no positive information as to when the deadline for having the 1952 tags on cars would be, but opined that the policy would continue to be as it has been in the past, with a 30 day grace period after January 1, 1952.
Local license sales are being handled by Blackwood Associate Store, and purchasing hours are from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon on Saturday. It was announced that no checks would be accepted in the local office, and officials request that purchasers have the correct change if possible, in order to expedite sales.
