Lying Evident In Scandals Inquiry

Conflicting Testimony To Be Referred To Justice Department; Chief Counsel Of Revenue Bureau Resigns, Declaring He Can't Take It Any More

WASHINGTON (UP)—Somebody has lied before the House Committee investigating scandals in the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and should be prosecuted, the head investigator declared today.

Conflicting testimony about a purported $500,000 tax shakedown attempt will be turned over to the Justice Department, said Rep. C. R. King (D-Cal.), as the committee planned to ask T. Lamar Caudle, former assistant attorney general, to describe his friendship with one of the men involved.

Differing stories were given by Abe Teitelbaum, Chicago attorney, and S. Shryl Menkin on the one side and Frank Nathan on the other. Nathan was described as a friend of Caudle.

"It is quite obvious that in the past 24 hours one or more persons have perjured themselves before this subcommittee," King said.

The case yesterday afternoon caused the sudden resignation of Charles Oliphant, who received $14,800 a year as chief counsel of the revenue bureau. He wrote to President Truman saying he could not take it any more.

Oliphant called the shakedown story "fantastic and irresponsible" and blasted the committee for even listening to it.

The White House said Mr. Truman would accept the resignation. Oliphant will go before the House group himself to tell his side.

Teitelbaum had said Nathan connected Oliphant with a "clique" which was out to shake down tax delinquents. Nathan said the Chicagoan's story was "a dirty, filthy lie."

A man identified as Henry Grunewald had told him about "an FHA deal" which involved the sale of some real estate. Oliphant listed a $1,300 debt to an "H. Grunewald" in a statement of his net worth which he gave reporters.

Grunewald is believed to be the same man who appeared as a "mystery witness" in last year's Senate investigations of alleged wire-tapping by a Washington policeman. A subcommittee spokesman said he "is known to Oliphant."

Teitelbaum said Nathan and Bert Naster had told him they had Caudle and Oliphant "in their vest pockets." Mr. Menkin, whom Nathan said he knew as "Mrs. Teitelbaum," supported Teitelbaum's story.

Tehran Rioting Kills 3, Injures Over 200 Others

COMMUNIST MOB Clashes With Police And Angry Nationalists In Big Brawl

TEHRAN, Iran (UP)—Three persons were reported killed and more than 200 injured today when police, troops and angry Nationalists clashed with a Communist mob in the heart of Tehran.

Police fired machineguns over the heads of the Communist demonstrators in a clash in Tehran's Parliament Square. Troops and police used rifle butts and fire hoses in an attempt to smash the riot. Twelve Communists were arrested.

An angry mob of anti-Communists massed in the square shouting "down with the servants of the Kremlin."

They obtained clubs in a nearby building and returned to the square to tangle with the Reds.

The Communists fell back to a "peace club" while the anti-Communists celebrated their "victory" in the square.

Members of the pro-government Toilers of the Iranian Nation party then charged the club where at least six persons on each side were injured in a violent fight. The "peace club" was smashed.

The Nationalists shattered the furniture. They ripped to shreds a feathered Peasco "dove of peace." Pictures of Stalin were dragged from the club and torn up in the streets.

Deputy Premier Hossein Fattemi ordered police to prosecute those who took part in the club raid.

"The government is against all disorder and terror reign," he said. Police are ordered to prevent any attempt by Communist peace partisans to rally tomorrow.

The clash flared when Communist student members of the United Party attempted to demonstrate against Premier Mohamed Mosaddegh and to demand "student's rights."

Teitelbaum said Nathan and Bert Naster had told him they had Caudle and Oliphant "in their vest pockets." Mr. Menkin, whom Nathan said he knew as "Mrs. Teitelbaum," supported Teitelbaum's story.

Oliphant said "the charge is fantastic, if not scheming contrived to divert prosecution" of Teitelbaum's tax case, which now is in the hands of the Justice Department.

Bethel Prohibits Home Canvassing

ALDERMEN ADOPT Ordinance In Meeting On Tuesday Night

BETHEL—The Board of Aldermen adopted an ordinance at its meeting Tuesday to prohibit house-to-house canvassing by salesmen.

Mayor R. L. Martin said there had been quite a number of magazine salesmen and the like canvassing homes and the board agreed unanimously to adopt the ordinance and put it on the books.

The board had previously raised the price of cemetery lots, but two people who had engaged lots before the price was raised appeared before the board and asked that they still have the lots at the old prices.

The board passed on a motion that no juke boxes could be played from 11 o'clock Saturday night to 8 o'clock Monday morning in a store on Smith Street near one of the churches.

The election developed into a hopeless East-West struggle between Soviet-backed Byelorussia and Western-supported Greece.

Western hopes of an easy victory for Greece were dashed by a revolt of Latin-American nations against their traditional American friends.

Byelorussia's highest total was 33 Greece started out in the lead with 30, but dropped as low as 24. Forty votes were required for election.

The other two vacancies on the Security Council were filled quickly by both on the first ballot. Pakistan was elected with 55 votes to succeed India and Chile with 57 votes to succeed Ecuador.

The Roman Catholic Primate of Yugoslavia revealed that conditions of his release by Premier Marshal Tito's government included a ban on his performing the duties of an Archbishop and confined him to this tiny Croatian village where he was born.

But in an interview, Msgr. Stepinac firmly declared today: "I am the legitimate Archbishop and I am not a former Archbishop. If the Pope wants it, I am ready to quit my archbishopric, but I will never give it up to government pressure."

BRINDISI, Italy (UP)—The United States handed over to the Italian Navy today eight radar-equipped warships built at a cost of close to $23,000,000.

Construction In City At All-Time High During 1951

Over $1.5 Millions Of New Building; High Losses By Fire Run To $425,000

By ROY HARDEE Reflector Staff Writer

New construction of commercial and home dwellings in Greenville since the first of the year now has passed the one and a half million mark, according to a report released this morning by Fire Chief George Gardner.

Gardner's monthly building report, as compiled by his office, shows that through November a total of $1,451,000 of new construction had been started in Greenville. Since that time, in the first few days of December, new permits have boomed the figure over the $1,500,000 mark.

A breakdown of the tabulated report shows that in the first eleven months permits for 14 new commercial buildings have been issued and a total of 13 apartment permits and 136 dwellings issued.

The figure is an all-time high for the city and is expected to near the two million mark before the end of the year.

In the month of November only one commercial permit was issued, but this totaled $35,000, the report shows. Valuation of 12 housing permits totaled $149,500, with a repair permit issued for $7,500.

Included in the monthly fire and building report, on one side was the record building progress made while on the other hand was the record property loss suffered in Greenville by fire this year.

Total fire losses for the city since January 1, 1951, now stands at the staggering figure of $425,556.72. This is one of the largest figures ever to be sustained by the city in any one year's time.

A series of large fires are the direct cause for the unusually heavy loss, fire department records show. The Carolina Sales fire and Perkins Lumber Company blaze had a valued loss of nearly $125,000 each, while the J. A. Watson Hardware Store fire and Sinclair Body Disintegrating plant blaze boosted the toll over another $100,000.

"With the exception of these large blazes, the department would have had an average year," the fire chief pointed out.

The monthly report on the activities of the local department shows also that four box alarms were answered, six telephone calls and three calls for out-of-town aid. Four lots were burned off in the month of November by the department.

One rescue truck call was answered. Total fire losses for the month of November were $25,255.

PARIS (UP)—The United Nations General Assembly failed in eight ballots today to elect a successor to Yugoslavia on the Security Council and finally gave up the attempt until later in the session.

The election developed into a hopeless East-West struggle between Soviet-backed Byelorussia and Western-supported Greece.

War Prisoners Said Used To 'Extort' Truce Terms

Fifth Air Force Boosts Bag Of MIGs, Hit Red Artillery

8TH ARMY HQ Korea (UP)—Allied planes today destroyed or damaged three Communist jet fighters in "Mig Alley" and knocked out at least 35 enemy artillery positions which have been blasting Allied troops.

American Sabrejets shot down one Soviet-built MIG-15 jet fighter, probably destroyed another and damaged a third in three dogfights on the 11th straight day of jet combat over northwest Korea.

The victory boosted the 5th Air Force's 11-day bag to 22 MIGs destroyed, two probably destroyed and 29 damaged.

All U.N. planes returned safely from the latest dogfights, but one Thunderjet and pilot were lost to enemy ground fire in another operation.

U.N. planes attacked Communist artillery positions all along the western front in what the 5th Air Force said was "one of the most successful operations of its kind" in the war.

"After today," said Air Force briefing officer Maj. C. F. Brown of Tampa, Fla., "there is every indication that our close support should substantially reduce enemy artillery and artillery fire being received by the U.N. ground forces in this sector."

Brown said the attacks caused an "untold number" of Communist casualties.

Communists altogether put more than 100 MIGs over Korea during the day, but most avoided combat. Five Red jets were shot down and five damaged in dogfights yesterday.

On the ground, a small force of Red troops drove the Allies from an advance hill position on the east-central front in a fierce 70-minute fight. The Allies recaptured the hill in a counter-attack, however.

Communists troops also drove U.N. forces from an outpost north of Sorangpo on the western front Wednesday. Three other small-scale Communist attacks were reported south of P'yongyang and southeast of Kumsong, both on the central front.

Only patrol skirmishes were reported from the rest of the 145-mile front. However, a briefing officer warned that the Communists were "capable of attack at short notice."

U.N. artillery on the western front began the fourth day of "Operation Zippo"—the systematic destruction of clusters of huts in no-man's-land where enemy troops have been hiding.

UN Command Charges Men Held As Hostages To Blackmail Allies For Concessions; Communists Reject Plea To Discuss Exchange Of Prisoners Under Agreement

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Communist truce negotiators are using Allied war prisoners as hostages in an attempt to extort concessions by "blackmail," the United Nations command charged tonight.

The Reds angrily rejected an Allied request to discuss the exchange of war prisoners under an armistice agreement, while the negotiators are still discussing means of enforcing a truce.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Song Cho said that the Reds "will not give any answers about prisoners of war" while the stalemate continues on the truce-enforcement issue.

"Negotiator blackmail," Allied spokesman Brig. Gen. William P. Nickols said.

"Those of us at the meeting felt something of the implication of blackmail," briefing officer Lt. Col. Howard Lewis said.

It was obvious that the Reds knew the anxiety of Americans over the fate of 19,856 Americans listed as missing in action. The Reds have reported to the international Red Cross the names of only 174 prisoners.

In Thursday's meeting here, the Allies refused categorically to abandon the American troop rotation program for the sake of an armistice.

The U.N. command also rejected a Communist demand that it withdraw from "coastal islands and waters" north of the cease-fire line.

U.S. Maj. Gen. Howard Turner, chief U.N. representative on a joint subcommittee, told the Reds flatly that the U.N. command "without qualification rejects" the Communist demand for a ban on rotating troops during a truce.

The Communists have sought to end the American system of sending troops home after a year in combat by insisting on a total arms and troops freeze which would bar any replacements, even for injured or wounded soldiers.

The U.N. on the other hand, has proposed merely that the armed forces of each side be kept at the present strength during an armistice. Fresh troops would be permitted to enter the country as replacements as long as they did not increase the over-all size of either side.

The Communists rejected a mobilized eight-point U.N. program for supervising an armistice. The program ignored a Communist proposal for "neutral observer teams" to enforce the truce and reiterated the original Allied demand for teams made up equally of officers from each side.

Mobilization Progress Lauded As Outstanding

Congressional Watchdog Group Discounts Earlier Criticism Of Production Effort; Approve 'Middle Road' Course

By WARREN DUFFER United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The congressional "watchdog" committee today declared as "unconfirmed" reports of "failure to maintain a minimum of national safety" because of lags in defense production.

The committee took an obvious slap at the Senate preparedness subcommittee in praising the mobilization effort as "an outstanding job."

Lauding Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson and Defense Production Administrator Manly Flinchbaugh for their work, the joint House-Senate group headed by Sen. Robert R. Maybank (D-SO) said: "We cannot reasonably conclude that the nation has failed to maintain its minimum military strength in an effort to place better before guns."

The statements were contained in a 74-page report on allocations of steel, copper and aluminum in the defense program.

Although it did not say so in so many words, the report was interpreted generally as a blunt answer to charges last week by the preparedness subcommittee, headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), that "the timeliness of preparedness has not been met" and that military production is "dangerously behind schedule."

"The committee does not take issue with the fact that many improvements could and should be made in our rate of production," the watchdog group reported. "When we reach the stage of complacency, we will be in danger indeed."

However, it lauded the mobilization chiefs for choosing the "middle road" between "converting the entire economy to an all-out (defense) production effort" and giving military needs.

MANILA (UP)—The evacuation of 30 more villages was ordered today as Mt. Hibok-Hibok oozed out tons of molten lava in the third major eruption of the volcano this week.

The verified death toll rose to 209. Estimates of the total dead remained at 600.

But no officials in this devastated region, where six villages were wiped out, knew how many bodies would be recovered eventually from the dismal ruins where dogs tore at the bodies of the dead and crazed, starving villagers roved helplessly in search of food.

Up To Courts

WILSON (AP)—A hearing will be held on whether a man may be forced to send his wife to a hospital.

Superior Court Judge W. S. Burgwyn of Woodland signed a habeas corpus petition last night.

The petition, by Cecil Holder of Portsmouth, Va., asked for an order to force W. T. C. Briggs of Greenville, N.C., to send his wife, Mrs. Minnie M. Briggs, to a hospital. Holder is Mrs. Briggs' brother.

The petition will be heard before Judge H. K. Nimocks in Snow Hill.

Holder alleged his sister has been sick and in great pain for more than a year, wants to go to a hospital, and has been advised to go to a hospital by her doctor. The brother also alleges the husband won't let Mrs. Briggs go to a hospital.

Collection To Be Among 'Greatest'

RALEIGH (UP)—Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, chairman of the State Art Commission, predicted today that North Carolina will have one of the ten greatest art collections in the country when paintings now under option are purchased.

Directors of the North Carolina Art Society were to be given the commission's recommendations today for paintings to be bought from a $1,000,000 state appropriation. The board was also to accept formally a gift collection from the Samuel H. Kress Foundation valued at $1,000,000.

The State Society for the Preservation of Antiques, another of the five cultural groups meeting here this week, will present its annual Cannon Cup awards tonight to Gertrude W. Johnson of Baltimore, Ben Dixon McNeill of Buxton, Alonzo T. Dill Jr. of Norfolk, Mrs. W. H. Bell of Charlotte, Mrs. Claudius Fowler Foy of New Bern, Chalmers G. Davidson and Aycock Brown of Manteo.

Dean Rusk Named Foundation Head

NEW YORK (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk has been named president of the Rockefeller Foundation. His resignation from his government post is expected to be announced shortly.

Rusk was named last night to succeed Chester I. Barnard who reaches the mandatory retirement age of 65 next June.

Blood Bank Chairman Appointed For Collections Here January 15

Hoover Taft, Chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross, has announced the appointment of B. C. Satterfield, as general chairman of the Blood Bank which will be here January 15.

Satterfield says he is a "rehabilitated" native of North Carolina since the first of July. He was associated as auditor of the Socony Vacuum Company in New York before retiring and coming back to North Carolina. Satterfield has traveled all over Eastern United States for Socony.

He said he was very interested in the work of the Red Cross and held the rank of major with the Red Cross when he was chief accountant with the Commission to Europe, following World War I.

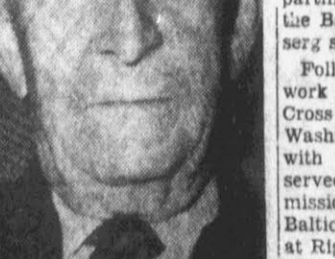

My personal experience and observation has convinced me of the value of all Red Cross work," Satterfield said, "and especially with the inherent need of civilian as well as military for blood plasma and whole blood."

where lives could have been saved if a blood bank had been available.

"As chairman of the Blood Bank committee, I want to stress building up an available blood bank for the residents of Pitt County and for military use."

During World War I, Satterfield prepared estimate requirements to Congress for the Ordnance Department of the Army. "I fought the Battle of Washington in a blue serge suit," he said.

Following the war, he began work as an accountant for the Red Cross National Headquarters in Washington and went to Paris with the commission. He also served as comptroller of the Commission to West Russia and the Baltic States at the headquarters at Riga, where the commission administered a fund of $10,000,000. The commission went to Mitau, Latvia, to furnish supplies to the hospital there.

(Special To The Reflector from Park Row News Service) NEW YORK—The lot of the average Pitt County farmer is found to be better than that of his counterpart in most other sections of the United States and to be improving steadily.

That is the conclusion drawn from official figures of the Bureau of the Census, based on the 1950 agricultural tabulation.

The local farmer, it is shown, received more for his labors in dollars per acre, than did the average farmer elsewhere. His gross production for 1949, the year covered by the census amounted to $156 per acre.

based on data tabulated for most, but not all, of the 3,000 counties. For the State of North Carolina as a whole the yield was $96 per acre.

The total yield of farms in Pitt County in the five-year period ending 1949 showed a marked dollar increase, going from $19,573,967 in 1944 to $22,220,171 in 1949.

Farm values locally rose proportionately. The years compared here are 1945 and 1950. The census figures show that the value of farm lands and buildings locally went from $88 per acre to $198 per acre in the five years.

The average value of the $969 farms in Pitt County in $950, exclusive of livestock and equipment, is given as $9,918 per farm. This is a marked rise over 1945, when the valuation was $4,114 per farm.

Most farmers locally conducted their operations in 1950 with more mechanical aids than they had previously. The tabulation shows that there were 1,243 motor trucks on Pitt County farms in 1950 as compared with 535 in 1945. The count on tractors in use showed a total of 1,658 as against 512 recorded five years earlier.

The census data indicates that American farms had an output of about $31 billion in the year, or about a third of their total worth, including land, buildings, equipment and livestock.

Major Benjamin May Chapter of D.A.R. Has Annual Reunion

FARMVILLE—Dr. D. Ray Lindley, president of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, was guest speaker at the chapter house of the Major Benjamin May chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution, Friday for the annual reunion of this organization. He based his thoughts on the Biblical example of Jacob's heritage and brought to mind the struggles and hardships endured by American forefathers, who founded this nation on the principles of religious freedom.

The invocation was offered and a memorial service was conducted by Rev. H. L. Davis, who used in the memorial service several verses from the Book of Matthew. He read the memorial names and concluded with prayer.

Miss Tabitha DeVisconti presented the genealogical report. She recognized members who were attending for the first time and read the names of recently married members, new babies and some of the boys in service. She urged members to assist her in completing the report of the boys in service.

During the business session the assembly voted to permit the president, Mrs. Melton Allen, to appoint the secretary for the year in which she serves. They also decided to ask the president to send cards to the oldest members, Dr. J. V. Joyner of LaGrange and Mrs. Josie McArthur of Greenville, Route 2, as they were unable to attend.

The following officers were elected for the coming year—president, Robert Dixon of Fayetteville; vice-president, Melton May of Winterville, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. C. Murray.

Special music was enjoyed at intervals in the program. The meeting was opened with the group singing "America" accompanied by Mrs. E. B. Turnage. Jackie Willford played a piano solo, "Rondo," from Sonata Opus 14 No. 1 by Beethoven. Miss Willa Rae Harper sang two selections, "Ode Mio Dolce Ardor" by Cyluck and "Why Do I Love You?" by Jerome Kern. Miss Carolyn Roebuck played a piano solo "Segriedilla" by Albering.

The dinner was served picnic style. The luncheon table in the banquet room was centered with an arrangement of pumpkins, fruits and leaves. Green candles were used in silver candelabra. Winter greenery and berries were used in attractive arrangements on the mantels and the balcony.

Clio Club Enjoys Unusual Program

Members of the Clio Book Club enjoyed a very unusual and interesting meeting on Tuesday afternoon, December 4, when they met with Mrs. R. B. Arthur at her home on Elizabeth Street. It is probably the only time in the history of the club that every member had a part on the program.

Upon arrival the guests were served a delicious sweet course by the hostess, assisted by her two sons, Bobby and Tom Don.

In the absence of the president the vice president, Mrs. W. J. Stell, presided over the business part of the meeting. She extended welcome to Mrs. Howard Hunter and Mrs. Garrett Stanfield, guests for the afternoon.

The club decided to donate money, used clothing and toys to The King's Daughters organization as a Christmas project, instead of caring for a needy family as is usually done by the club at Christmas. These gifts are to be carried to the next meeting.

Mrs. Arthur introduced Mrs. Howard Hunter, who displayed many attractive Christmas cards and favors which she had made. Then the members were invited to find places at the dining room table and at auxiliary tables in other rooms, where supplies were laid out for the making of similar things by them. Scissors, crayons, red paper, pipe cleaners, cotton, paste, staples, ribbon and ice cream spoons were placed for their convenience and they spent the afternoon fashioning Santa Claus place cards to take home.

Everyone expressed great pleasure in the project, and each was surprised and delighted with her works of art with which she departed.

Legion Auxiliary Honors Gold Star Mothers

The American Legion Auxiliary met on Monday, November 26, at the home of Mrs. Harvey Dall on Dickinson Avenue, with Mesdames Jack Moye, Martha Forrest and G. A. Taylor as assisting hostesses.

This meeting was held to honor the Gold Star Mothers of Pitt County, an annual event with the Auxiliary.

Following the salute to the flag, prayer was offered by the chaplain, Mrs. Wiley Brown, and the preamble to the Constitution was repeated in unison.

With Mrs. Roy Cox as pianist and Mrs. Moye Dall as leader, the group joined in singing "America," followed by a very concise and timely discussion of "Citizenship" by Father Berchmans McHugh. Father McHugh is currently associated with the Catholic mission of West Fifth Street.

He introduced his talk with the reading of a poem entitled "Poem to Mother," which paid tribute to all mothers present. He raised the question as to what citizenship meant and answered it with the following statement: "A sincere, loyal love one has for one's country, realized in sober times of peace, is one definition of the word," he said. "Another idea of the term is that it is based on the thought, words and deeds, and the love that one has for one's brother."

Another thought he left with his listeners was "that citizenship or loyalty to one's country meant to protect, foster and defend one's nation for the best welfare for its people, especially for its unfortunate."

Father McHugh stressed throughout his talk the fundamental teachings of Christianity and that "greater love hath no man than he lay down his life for his friend." His talk was concluded with a poem dedicated to the nine Gold Star mothers who were present for the meeting. The poem which he read was "The Unknown Soldier" by Nick Kenney.

Following this inspiring talk Mrs. Moye Dall played a recording of "Ave Maria," as rendered by a famous Boys' Choir.

The general business was dispensed with and guests were invited to the table in the dining room for refreshments.

Mrs. Moye Dall presided over a silver coffee service which was placed at one end of a beautifully appointed table. Guests served themselves to sandwiches, eggs and nuts during the social hour which followed.

Late Afternoon Tea Given To Honor Jane Massey And Melba Brown

When guests arrived for the tea at the home of Mrs. David Evans yesterday, where she and Mrs. M. P. Hoot received in honor of Miss Jane Massey and Miss Melba Brown, they were greeted at the entrance to the home by Ann Evans and Nancy Ann Hoot, young daughters of the hostesses.

The late afternoon tea was held between the hours of 4:00-5:30 p.m. and more than a hundred guests were received to compliment the bride-elect, in whose honor the tea was given.

The lovely home on East Fifth Street was beautifully appointed for the occasion. In the hall, drawing room and den, pyracantha berries and magnolia leaves were used in many places to grace tables and mantels. A spray of scarlet gladioli was featured on the piano in the drawing room.

Mrs. M. K. Blount welcomed the callers at the front door and introduced them to the hostesses, who headed the receiving line. Also standing in line to be presented were the honorees and their mothers, Mrs. M. B. Massey and Mrs. W. S. Brown, who were wearing corsages of pink-centered carnations tied with silver ribbon.

Mrs. Hoover Taft directed guests through the den to the back hall, where they were greeted by Mrs. Reynolds May. Mrs. Ed Batchlor directed them into the dining room for a cup of tea.

Here a bridal motif of pink and white was carried out in appointments. The buffet was centered with a floral arrangement of pink gladioli and carnations in a silver bowl, and on either end were triple candelabra with white tapers which were tied with silver ribbon and collared with tulle.

From a tea cart to one side of the room, an hors d'oeuvres platter was placed, which bore olives and cheese spread wafers.

The main table was covered with a pink cut work Madeira cloth. The attractive centerpiece was a bride's bouquet of pink centered white carnations with streamers of pink and white satin ribbon. This was encircled with fern and flanked by triple candelabra holding white tapers which were tied with tulle and ribbon.

Mrs. W. H. Taft poured tea from a silver service at one end, and assisting in passing hot mince meat pastries, cheese canapes, heart shaped sandwiches, pink and white mints, salted nuts and other delicacies were Misses Carolyn Clark, Frances Bendall and Nelson Blount.

Mrs. Joseph Taft was at the door to bid the guests goodbye.

At the conclusion of the afternoon, the hostesses presented Miss Massey and Miss Brown with gifts of silver. The bride's bouquet from the table was also given to Miss Massey.

DEATH STRIKES TWICE

CANAAN, N. H. —(UP)— Eugene F. Chase, 46, Boston & Maine railroad telegrapher, was tapping out a message of condolence to the family of a fellow worker who had died the previous night. His message broke off suddenly and the receiving operator started an investigation. Chase's body was found slumped over his key. He was the victim of a heart seizure.

Wesleyan Service Guild Has Christmas Dinner

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church held its annual Christmas dinner meeting Thursday evening in a lovely setting of Yuletide decorations at the American Legion Home.

Mrs. Margaret Farley, chairman of Circle No. 2, presided over the first part of the meeting. She welcomed members and the following guests: the Rev. and Mrs. Leon Russell and Mrs. Ed Batchelor, president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Mrs. Farley in a most interesting manner gave the origin of the custom of carol singing, following which the group sang "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

This was followed by the invocation given by Miss Frances Wahl. Mrs. Farley continued with thoughts concerning the true spirit of Christmas and asked that Christmas be observed as a Holy Day as well as a holiday.

Mr. Russell gave a most inspiring devotional, using as his theme "The True Christmas Spirit." For the Scripture he read "The Good News According to St. Matthew" from the magazine "The Man in the Street," which magazine he had purchased abroad.

He spoke briefly on these few who first knew of the birth of Jesus in Bethlehem, bringing out what the first Christmas meant to each of these. He closed with prayer for the true spirit of Christmas to be felt by all.

Miss Jane Hadley announced that a check for $283.29, representing profits from the sale of church plates, had been turned over to the building fund.

Mrs. V. P. Scoville, chairman of Circle No. 1, presided from this point on. She expressed appreciation to all who had made the meeting such a success, and then called upon Miss Wahl to read a letter from the Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh, which gave the Christmas list for the Guild's orphan, Billy Braswell.

Mrs. Scoville presented Mrs. R. P. Rogers, program chairman, who led the group in the singing of "Joy to the World." Mrs. Rogers then presented Miss Annie Laurie Askew who gave that ever beautiful story, "The First Christmas Candle."

Upon arrival members had placed under the Christmas tree beautifully wrapped gifts for needy children to be distributed by The King's Daughters. These were graciously accepted by Mrs. Cora Powell in behalf of The King's Daughters.

The singing of "Silent Night" by the entire group concluded the program and brought a peaceful benediction to each one present as the meeting was adjourned.

Farmville PTA Meets Tonight
FARMVILLE — The Farmville P. T. A. will hold its regular December meeting tonight at 7:30. Open house will be observed and parents and friends are urged to attend the meeting and to visit rooms of the school plant.

Highlighting the program will be presentation of "The Lasting Glory," a Christmas musical Pageant by the combined Glee Clubs, under the direction of Mrs. Jean Beckman Williams.

Gospel Of John Studied At The Lector Club

The Lector Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Hugh Winslow on Tuesday afternoon, December 4.

The house was attractively decorated with fall flowers.

Mrs. Louis Gaylord Jr., vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Ray MacKenzie.

After the business Mrs. Hugh Winslow presented the program, which was a continuation of the study of the New Testament.

Mrs. Winslow brought to members a discussion and brief analysis of the Gospel According to St. John. "It is said that this gospel belongs neither to history nor to biography," Mrs. Winslow began, "but to the library of devotion, because it is considered the most spiritual of the gospels."

She continued by stating that as the gospels surpass all the other books in the Bible as a revelation of God's purpose for man, the other gospels are in turn surpassed by John's, which has been called the most influential book in all literature.

The speaker told something of John the man. He was an evangelist and an apostle and held a position of preeminence among the apostles. He was one of the "inner three," the other two being Peter and James. John was also the youngest disciple and was the only one who remained at the cross and the only one who was not put to death. He was the disciple "whom Jesus loved" and which "leaned on His breast."

Mrs. Winslow concluded her talk by giving a brief resume of the Gospel proper. Its theme is declared in three words—believe, obey and salvation. Its purpose, according to Mrs. Winslow, is found in the quotation "that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing ye might have eternal life through His name."

A spirited discussion followed, which was indicative of the interest that members are showing in these very worthwhile programs.

During the social hour which followed, the guests were served a delicious dessert course by the hostess.

Bombers Return From N. Africa
FORT WORTH —(AP)— Six Strategic Air Command B-36 bombers—the kind that could carry an atomic bomb 10,000 miles and more—returned today from a historic training flight to Africa.

On the flight they landed at one of the brand-new American Air Force bases being built around the world for global defense. It was the first flight other than local ones to land at the Sidi Silmane, French Morocco, field.

Crewmen shrugged off the actual flying as routine. But today they still could not stop talking about the food—for instance the 54 filet mignon steaks for one 18-man crew alone—on the return flight.

Several crewmen stepped from the planes wearing bright red fezes, characteristic headdress of parts of North Africa.

The planes flew non-stop to Africa and non-stop on their return to their home field, Carswell Air Force Base here. Distance one-way is 4,984 miles.

Women Advised To Play It Solo
BOSTON —(UP)— A Boston University history professor says women are more powerful when they act individually rather than as a group.

Warren S. Tyron believes women who organize into clubs and political groups are defeating their own purpose.

"Female organizations of this type serve only to put men on their guard," he said.

Higher Ceilings On Autos Ready

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Higher prices for automobiles can be expected to result from a government order, ready for issuance tonight, authorizing car makers to compute new price ceilings.

The authorization will be another in a series by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) allowing business concerns to recalculate their prices under the Caphart provision of the economic controls law.

OPS cleared the way yesterday for possible price increases on a wide range of consumer items. These include clothing, meat, foods, milk and butter, gasoline, coal, tobacco, drugs, beer and cosmetics. The agency estimated about 100,000 manufacturers, processors, refiners and mining concerns were affected.

The Caphart provision requires that OPS ceilings permit manufacturers to take their pre-Korea prices and add or subtract all cost changes through last July 26 in computing new ceilings. The provision permits increases to a much later date than previously authorized by the price agency.

Illiteracy Drops In Indonesia
JAKARTA, Indonesia, —(AP)— Indonesia is going ahead full speed with her "Battle Against Illiteracy" and education officials are satisfied with the results shown so far.

Illiteracy has decreased by 10 percent to 85 percent since the Dutch period, the government says. Literacy campaigns are organized on a district-basis, often with material assistance of UNESCO.

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLAS
WHY TALK YOURSELF DOWN?
More than forty years ago the members of a college class voted a certain student the most confident man in the class. The chap who had received this vote was greatly pleased by it. He said to a roommate: "I consider that the best compliment my classmates could have paid me. Nobody ever amounts to anything who doesn't have a high opinion of himself."

Now, forty-odd years later, it must be confessed that this egotistical chap is the best authority in the world in a certain field. The writer of this column would hesitate to praise conceit or to commend it as a virtue. It usually causes men to grow long ears and to become jackasses in every sense of the term. But it must also be confessed that the world usually adopts the estimate we make of ourselves and of our abilities. If we think little of ourselves, the world thinks little of us. If we have no confidence in ourselves, there are very few people who will place any reliance on our judgment or on our capacities.

Conceit is an evil, but self-respect and a good measure of self-confidence are undoubtedly the ingredients of a wholesome personality. Humility is a virtue, but a sense of inferiority can neutralize the most outstanding capacities and make one ineffective. Think well of yourself—it pays.

Use Will Determine

Pitt Memorial's Benefits

The people of Pitt County own what is undisputedly one of the finest medical centers in Eastern North Carolina. And yet a good many people of the county apparently prefer to go to hospitals in neighboring counties rather than use Pitt Memorial hospital.

To a great extent the reason a good many people go to hospitals in neighboring counties is probably because of a habit which has been formed over a period of years. They sort of relegate Pitt Memorial hospital to a back seat when they have need of going to a medical institution for treatment.

It should be remembered that the people of Pitt County voted a bond issue to pay their portion of the cost of the $1,400,000 hospital. They likewise have been paying taxes to off-set the operating deficit which was anticipated for the hospital for the first year or so after it opened. The hospital has a capacity of 120 patients, but the average patient load for Pitt Memorial during the month of November was 78 patients. The figure represents an increase over the average patient loads of 64 during September and 65 in October.

The service Pitt Memorial hospital is performing for the people of Pitt County is evidenced by a comparison of the average patient load of 78 for November with the total capacity of 52 patients which Pitt County had a year ago at the old Pitt General hospital. Pitt Memorial hospital stands ready and waiting to serve its owners—the people of Pitt County—but it can not serve the people unless they are willing to be served by the superb care and modern facilities which the hospital offers.

The benefits which the hospital will be able to give the people of Pitt County will be dependent upon the cooperation the people give the hospital.

The Government's Cancer Can Be Fatal

The deeper investigators get into the Caudle case the more sordid the story becomes. Each new duty of testimony brings more disgust to the people who are paying the taxes. Each day brings more heated demands that the government be cleaned of the parasites which have been placed in positions of responsibility by political appointments.

Mink coats, plane rides, commissions on sales, and all the other sordid details taken into consideration, there is no one thing more disgusting in the whole mess than the fact that Caudle had a man transferred to another section of the Justice Department because he vigorously prosecuted a tax case in Alabama over the protest of Caudle and Representative Boykin. Caudle admitted before the investigators that he issued a non-work order for the man who prosecutted the case because he no longer fitted in with the other people working in the department.

The only conclusion The Reflector can draw from that statement by Caudle is that the prosecutor was honest and did a good job, and that sort of thing just did not fit in with the way Caudle was running the tax prosecutions. The man in question would not play ball with the higher-ups who were playing ball with the individuals who owed the government millions in taxes; so the higher-ups kicked him out of his job.

Have conditions in the Bureau of Internal Revenue degenerated to the point where dishonest or at least unethical practices are pre-requisite to holding a job? Is holding a job dependent upon how well the person does the job for which he is hired, or how well he covers up the favoritism desired by his superior officers?

A good house-cleaning in government is not only desirable but it has become a necessity. It is up to the elected representatives of the people to see that malignant corruption in government is stamped out. The cancerous condition already has reached the vital organs of the government of this nation, and it is not folly to suspect the disease will become fatal unless swift, sure action is taken to effect a cure.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Impeachment proceedings will probably be brought against Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark and Attorney General J. Howard McGrath by the Republicans next January as a result of their role in scandals involving allegations of tax manipulations, questionable acceptance of favors, condoning subordinates' unethical actions and failure to investigate vote-getting frauds in a crooked Kansas City election.

Day by day, as Congressional inquirers dig into the conduct of T. Lamar Caudle, Assistant Attorney General during the Clark and McGrath regimes at the Department of Justice, the evidence indicates that the Supreme Court Justice managed the government's legal office on the basis of political and personal friendship.

CONDUCT—That in itself is no ground for impeachment. Nor are the proved ineptness and laxity of Mr. Clark during his service as an Cabinet member. But Caudle's behavior, as well as Mr. Clark's admitted approval of many of his subordinates' actions, casts a grim light on the Texan's own conduct.

For instance, Clark refused to engage in certain off speculations because of the questionable character of the men behind the promotion. But he did not forbid Caudle, who suggested that Mr. Clark "take a flier," from participating in the venture.

SERIOUS—Knowing his assistant's salary, which was $15,000, and his scale of living—mink coats, automobiles, plane trips to expensive resorts, a large family to support—Mr. Clark must have realized that Caudle would have to borrow money to invest in the oil gamble. As it now develops, Caudle lost his shirt, and has not repaid the money he borrowed for the wild-cat operation.

But the most serious offense linked to the former Attorney General by Caudle's testimony is his successful attempt to block an FBI investigation of widespread ballot-box frauds in the Democratic Congressional primary in Kansas City in 1946.

This was the contest in which President Truman demanded the defeat of former Representative Roger Slaughter because the Missouri Democrat, as a member of House Rules Committee, had opposed the Fair Deal program.

EXEMPT—When the U.S. District Attorney and former Attorney General Clark failed to act on complaints of crooked voting, which included registration and voting of dead men and non-residents, Roy Roberts of the Kansas City Star rounded up such conclusive evidence that he forced a Grand Jury investigation. It resulted in a few indictments of "small fry."

Somebody blocked a thorough inquiry and prosecution, and the hysterical Caudle, who is now implicating all his old friends and superiors, points the finger at Justice Clark.

Eventually, the impounded fraudulent ballots, which of themselves were proof of election law violations, were stolen from the Kansas City courthouse on the same night that President Truman was sleeping only two blocks away at a local hotel.

The operation of the statute of limitations, resulting from Clark's failure to move in, made the crooked high-ups exempt from prosecution.

IGNORAMUS—It should also be noted that the defilement of the primary occurred in river wards under the control of the Pendergast hierarchy, which first gave President Truman his start in the White House.

Curious Congressmen also want to know why Mr. Clark named Caudle as head of the Tax Division of the D of J, in view of the latter's admission that he was an utter ignoramus on the question of taxes. He had never handled a tax case in private law, or never made out a return for anybody except himself, he admits.

In view of the complexities of these statutes, Caudle's assignment may be due to Clark's general incompetency at the D of J, or to other reasons, in the belief of several members of the King investigating committee.

WITNESSES—Several witnesses have been suggested because of the understanding that they could throw light on this whole subject. With respect to the investigation to prosecute the vote frauds, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover could give plenty of information. But he has never been questioned by Congressional investigators.

Members of the Tax Court of the United States, which hears tax disputes in civil rather than non-criminal cases, would be able to inform the King group of their irritation over the manner in which government claims against individual and corporate taxpayers have been presented carelessly or improperly.

PECULIAR—Attorney General McGrath, whose active and detailed management of the D of J has been marred by his belief that his present post was only a stepping-stone to an appointment to the next Supreme Court vacancy, has run the office much as Clark did. But his approval of certain Caudle improprieties strike King members as peculiar in the government's top legal officer.

He okayed a Caudle trip to Italy that involved a side job on behalf of two wine merchants involved in exchange difficulties with Italian banks. Caudle has never repaid the $2,000 that financed this extralegal mission. McGrath also approved Caudle's acceptance of a $5,000 commission on the sale of a plane to a private sleuth for two men under indictment for tax violations.

Committee members wonder why a "private eye" should go shopping for an airplane at the Department of Justice!

IMPEACHMENT—Belief of guilt is not implied by impeachment action. It simply means that Congress believes the conduct of the officials involved merits examination. A resolution of impeachment is first referred to the House Judiciary Committee, which holds hearings. If it reports favorably on the proposal it must be submitted to the full House for action. House approval then leads to a trial by the Senate. The decision on the Clark-McGrath impeachment will be made until Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts returns from his "round-the-world" trip. He is expected home about December 22, but he will not reach Washington until the first week in January.

Rushing The Season

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

C. P. Donnel Jr. gets credit for my today's column, which is written to put a new slant on Army life:

Dear Ma and Pa:
Am well. Hope you are. Tell Brother Walt and Brother Elmer the Army beats working for Old Man Minch a mile. Tell them to join up quick before maybe all the places are filled.

I was restless at first because you got to stay in bed till nearly six a.m., but am getting so I like to sleep late. Tell W. & E. all you do before breakfast is smooth your coat and shine some things—no hots to slop, feed to pitch, mish to mix, wood to split, fire to lay. Practically nothing. You got to shave, but it is not bad in warm water.

Breakfast is strong on trimming like fruit juice, cereal, eggs, bacon, etc., but kind of weak on chops, potatoes, beef, ham steak, fried eggplant, pie and regular food. But tell W. & E. you can always sit between two city boys that live on coffee. Their food plus yours holds you till noon, when you get fed.

It's no wonder these city boys can't walk much. We go on "route marches," which, the sgt. says, are long walks to harden us. If he thinks so, it is not my place to tell him different. A "route march" is about as far as to our mailbox at home. Then the city guys all get sore feet and we ride back in trucks. The country is nice, but awful flat.

The sgt. is like a schoolteacher. He nags some. The Capt. is like the school board. Cois and Gens just ride around and frown. They don't bother you none.

This next will kill W. & E. with laughing. I keep getting medals for shooting. I don't know why. The bull's-eye is near as big as a chipmunk and don't move. And it ain't shooting at you, like the Higest boys at home. All you got to do is lie there all comfortable and hit. You don't even load your own cartridges. They come in boxes.

Be sure to tell W. & E. to hurry and join before other fellows get onto this setup and come stampeding in.

Your loving son,
(Pfc) Zeb.

PS: Speaking of shooting, enclosed is $200 for barn roof and m.a.'s teeth. The city boys shoot craps, but not very good. And I thank you.

Ass. Afternoon Daily

GOVERNORS — North Carolina cannot have but one governor at a time, but every four years just before the campaign for nomination begins, the title of "governor" goes at the rate of about a dime a dozen. That was the case at Greensboro the other night when the Young Democrats presented all the avowed and potential candidates they could muster. Information picked up by your reporter on that occasion and through contacts with representative people from all over the state, before and since, leads to conclusion that perhaps the YDC roster at Greensboro was incomplete.

CANDIDATES — William B. Umstead of Durham was there, and was accorded almost an ovation when he was presented. He is to date the only formally announced candidate, and he has been running for several years. Also present at the YDC meeting and afforded opportunity to say a few words were Judge Hubert Olive of Lexington, Dr. Henry Jordan of Cedar Falls, and Major L. P. McLendon of Greensboro. Apologies were made for State Treasurer Brandon Hodges of Asheville, who was around earlier in the day but had to leave before the public meeting. Rightly or wrongly, opinion as expressed by numerous attendees at the YDC conference pretty well eliminated Hodges and Jordan from the prospect list, put a big question mark beside Olive's name and a smaller one beside the name of McLendon. Stated another way, the most likely candidate, other than Umstead, of that group is Major McLendon. He admitted to several folks that he was thinking seriously about entering the race, and was quoted by one close personal friend as having definitely committed himself on the proposition.

THREAT — Despite all the publicity attending possibility of any or all these several candidates getting to the race, and in face of the quoted commitment of Major McLendon, information picked up from over the state indicates that none of them offers as much real threat to Candidate Umstead as may George Coble, Lexington dairy products mogul and sixth division highway commissioner.

COBLE — George Coble is the sort of dynamic personality that can move into the current situation and take over by captivating the imagination of the voters. He has none of the burden of previous political affiliation that any of the others so far mentioned would have to carry. His first appearance in the North Carolina political arena was when he backed Kerr Scott for governor in 1948. There is an interesting story about that, including friction and personal animosity between Dairyman Coble and Agriculture Commissioner Scott over milk regulations during the war years, which difficulties were smoothed out at beginning of the 1948 gubernatorial campaign in such way that Coble supported Scott for governor and then Scott appointed Coble highway commissioner; almost appointed him chairman of the highway commission. Some of that story is of speculative character which cannot be proven by documentary evidence.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS — Some other things can be documented—such as how George Coble parlayed a small milk business into one of the biggest dairy product outfits in the south, and how as highway commissioner he obtained more miles of paved roads for less money and more by-pass routes for towns in his division than any other highway commissioner. He built his own dairy products business and he built roads for the public by the same tactics—refusal to admit that what he wanted to do could not be done. Coble has not said for publication that he wants to be governor, but several of his close friends have relayed the information that he is very much interested. One thing is certain. If he gets into the race, he will get in all the way. He doesn't do things on part way basis. Another thing to keep in mind about George Coble is that he expects value for outlay, but he doesn't expect something for nothing, and he doesn't ask his friends to spend money for something he isn't willing to "put up for" himself. If he gets into the race for governor he will be a formidable candidate for that reason, as well as for the usual political reasons of being a relative newcomer with anticipated full support of the current state administration headed by Governor Kerr Scott.

SUPPORT — That matter of who supports who is a much more important in newspaper stories than in actual voting. Fact is, North Carolinians vote as individuals, not as controlled cliques led by political bosses or officials in farm or business organizations or in labor unions. The self-styled bosses like to talk about how they can "deliver" votes. They can't do it in North Carolina. Governor Scott likes to tell about how the self-consciously entrenched politicians could not deliver the votes against him in 1948; but he doesn't like to talk about how the Scott-Daniels-Jraham combination could not "elive" in the 1950 senatorial race.

understanding of that word. The government controls everything, and directly owns practically everything, all the way from farm and factory to the store. Even the most modest luxuries are unknown. And many of the necessities are constantly in short supply, so that even meager legal rations cannot be filled.

Contrast this with those show windows of America; our retail stores, small and large, chain and independent. The difference is literally incredible. Only free enterprise can produce abundance and high living standards.

Business Today

You may be a guinea pig without knowing it. That is true whether you are a consumer or a merchant.

Few new products with long-term possibilities and few national advertising themes are introduced these days without tests that make the residents and business men of a few communities the guinea pigs.

Conceivably, a new product could be introduced nationally for very little money; a new advertising theme could break, full blown, from coast-to-coast. But to introduce a new product on a broad scale and to get it into most of the stores that might reasonably handle it can cost up into the hundreds of thousands. An advertising campaign with an offer that doesn't click can waste a million dollars. Therefore testing has become an important form of insurance.

The product is placed in stores and advertised and the results noted. Sometimes the product is withdrawn or reprinted, or the advertising is revised. But when sales hum, the manufacturer knows he can go ahead with national distribution and advertising. If the test has been properly run, he can tell how much he will sell and what profits will be, and how retailers respond to his deal.

Selection of a test market depends much on the product. Key West is regarded as a pretty poor spot to test snow shovels and New York is no good for testing cow vaccine. But in general, manufacturers like compact markets; they also like markets that give them a cross-section of their prospects.

An Australian cough syrup is being market-tested in Minneapolis and Yanktown, S. D. Yanktown and New York are being used to test a headache remedy. Another remedy is being tested in Rockford, Ill., and Madison, Wis. A new hair coloring preparation is being tested in Birmingham, N. Y., Peoria and Columbus. A macaroni is being tested in Waco, Tex., Greensboro, N. C., and Waterloo, Iowa.

Other new products may be under test right now in your own neighborhood. Advertising campaigns for old products are being tested the same way. Some large companies subscribe to advertising clipping services just to keep tabs on advertising themes competitors are trying on consumers. Almost no direct mail campaign is ever launched now without test mailings of a few thousand. Sometimes dozens of tests are made until the best combination of persuasion and price is arrived at.

Even national contests are tested. In planning a million-dollar give-away, a company will put on a very similar campaign in a few test areas. This shows how much the big contest will do, and also gives an idea of how much work is involved in handling entries, deciding ties and so on.

NEW FIRM OFFERS COMPLETE PARTIES
A new business, Function Booking Service, in New York has been established to arrange completely, parties, receptions, luncheons, dinners and other functions. The service includes all arrangements without any worries on the part of the party-giver. It guarantees there will be no extras over the price agreed upon and all details may be arranged by mail.

Thus it becomes possible to throw a party without the host even attending.

FEDERAL RESERVE REPORTS ON SALES PERCENTAGES was recently observed here that in many lines a great portion of the year's sales are made in December. Some Federal Reserve figures detail this. The FRB finds that 37.6 per cent of toys and games; 30.2 per cent of handkerchiefs; 25.9 per cent of negligees and robes, and 25.8 per cent of men's furnishings are sold this month. Other lines with high percentages include records, sheet music, fine jewelry, stationery, books, gloves, candy, sporting goods, cameras, radios, phonographs, TV sets and silk and muslin underwear.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK —(AP)— Once upon a time Charles Dickens wrote a famous Christmas carol about an old shilling-squeezer named Ebenezer Scrooge and how he caught the holiday spirit.

Did you ever wonder what happened after that? Well...

A well-dressed fat man, his arms full of gaily wrapped packages, stood by a bus sign.

Idly he watched a red-and-white street corner Santa Claus soliciting donations. A seedy old man in a worn brown coat came by.

"Any thing for the unfortunates?" cried the Santa, ringing his bell. "Anything for the poor unfortunates?"

The seedy old man paused, fumbled through his pockets, pulled out a worn quarter and put it in the hand of Santa Claus.

"Christmas!" he jeered. "Bah, Humbug!"

He wrapped his worn brown coat tighter around his throat, and walked on. Then he saw the fat, well-dressed man. He held out his hand and said whinnily:

"Can you stake a fellow to a bite, brother? I haven't eaten for two days?"

"But I just saw you give a quarter to that Santa Claus," said the fat man. "If I give you another quarter, will you give that one away, too?"

"I probably will—it's the old Christmas Spirit in me," agreed the seedy character dimly. "I can't help myself. The Christmas Spirit is a curse with me—it runs in my family."

The fat man said he didn't understand. The seedy man said he'd be glad to explain—in return for a meal.

"But you'll have to go to the restaurant with me," he added despondently. "Giving me money is no good—I'll just give it away myself, and go hungry."

The seedy man went into a cafeteria, and the seedy man ate greedily. Over a steaming cup of coffee he then relaxed and told the following tale:

"My great-great uncle was a prominent English merchant. He had scads of money, but he was such an old skinkfin that the family looked forward to inheriting it soon, figuring he would die of his own meanness."

"One Christmas Eve his nephew—my great uncle, that was—went in to wish him the compliments of the season, and the old scoundrel grumbled. 'Every idiot who goes about with Merry Christmas on his lips should be buried with a stake of holly through his heart.'"

"A real miser," murmured the fat man.

"Yes, indeed," said the seedy man. "But that night the old miser went balmy in the head or something. He began to have hallucinations—to repent."

"That was nice."

"You may think so. But he began to get the idea he was Santa Claus. He was infected with Christmas. He raised all his clerks' salaries. He began donating to orphan asylums and blind homes. When he died and they opened his will—he was flat broke."

that it was Christmas every day in the year with me. It still is—and I'm stone broke."

The fat man began to feel un-easy. He gave his seedy companion a dollar bill, and said he had to be getting home.

As they left the cafeteria a bum stepped up and held out his hand hopefully. The fat man merely looked the other way. The seedy man in the brown coat hesitated, then dolefully pulled out his dollar bill. He gave it to the bum.

"Thank you—and Merry Christmas," said the bum.

"Christmas!" snarled the seedy old man in brown, "Bah! Humbug!"

As he stamped off angrily, the fat man called after him: "Say, by the way, what is your name?"

And the answer came floating back to him through the night: "Scrooge. Ebenezer Scrooge, the Third. Bah! Humbug!"

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON — Sculpturing statues of pigs for the Department of Agriculture isn't exactly the kind of work Miss Katherine B. Hobbs, well-known Washington painter-sculptor, likes best, but it paid well.

"The pigs, all about 8 or 10 inches long, had to represent five grades of pigs from fat to thin," Miss Hobbs said. They were then made up into rubber molds in mass production to send out over the country for exhibition purposes.

She is best known for her sculpture of horses, her ceramics and her paintings of old Washington. A slender, attractive young woman with short, straight black hair and bangs, fond of large pieces of silver jewelry, she was born in Atlanta, Ga., and educated in private schools. She attended the Corcoran Art School here.

She began to take a serious interest in art about six years ago when she was working in a New York department store. An expert horsemanship, she began sculpturing horses, using for models all types from brewery horses to thoroughbred show types.

She is particularly interested in the famous white Lipizzaners an ancient and elegant breed used by the Spanish Riding Academy at Vienna, Austria, which she saw in an exhibition ballet in the Horse Show at Madison Square Garden a couple of years ago.

"I'm doing a series of them about 20 inches long and some smaller," she said. "The big ones will be with their riders in their full dress."

"An angel... modeled from a specimen in my brother's aquarium I sold to Mrs. Morris Cafritz, a socialite," she said.

"Mrs. Cafritz had it cast in bronze for a birthday present for her husband and returned the plaster mold. Then I made lamp bases from it for a new office building here."

Miss Hobbs has her studio in an old coach house. She moved for her brother's aquarium to the studio. She also keeps three parakeets in her shop. One day long, climbing up and down, chattering and ringing bells," she said. "But that's my ivory tower now. I used to have exhibitions there, but so many people dropped in I couldn't get any work done."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SHOPPING IN RUSSIA
(New Bern Sun-Journal)

It would be a good thing if every American, in this era in which the free enterprise system is under constant attack from within and without, could pay a visit to a retail store in Russia or one of the other Communist countries, says the Industrial News Review. That would provide an excellent practical test of the difference between a free competitive economy and a controlled, totalitarian economy.

In the Russian store the visitor would find that all goods were rigidly rationed. The average citizen is allowed to buy just enough to live at a subsistence level. Prices, of course, are fixed by the government at whatever level the leaders of the nation desire. Save for a few such staples as bread and potatoes, the prices are always extremely high in terms of the earning power of the masses. High prices are a deliberate Communist device by which earnings are immediately siphoned back into the coffers of the state.

Chance Of Korean Truce By Dec. 27 Apparently Slight

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What are the chances for truce in Korea by the Dec. 27 deadline? What happens if the talks break down and what are our chances for military victory? Frank H. Bartholomew, United Press vice-president for the Pacific area, returned recently from the Far East. He gives below a summary of expert opinion.)

By FRANK BARTHOLOMEW
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Every American general commanding a front-line division in Korea with whom this correspondent talked expressed doubt that a workable cease-fire can be attained with the Reds by negotiation.

There was similar uniformity of opinion upholding the hard-and-fast stand of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and the U.N. negotiating principles for which the United States entered the Korean conflict. A division of opinion exists as to whether the peace effort itself has been worthwhile. One substantial school of thought holds that the war will eventually have to be fought to a conclusion anyhow, and that the sooner we cease to mark time and to get about the inevitable job ahead, the sooner the troops can come home.

It becomes clear to an observer in Korea that the aggressive military opinion stems principally from the Americans and South Koreans, many of whom believe that no truce line will result in a permanent peace.

They feel that the garrison force required to defend a new dividing line across Korea will come painfully close to approximating the present number of troops in the line, and that, in addition, there will be the danger of fifth-column political eruptions in the rear.

This desire to fight the matter out to military conclusion is pointed out by some of the following:

Claims Officials Are Hiding Truth

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A former juror's charges that the Justice Department is trying to "keep the lid on the truth" today eclipsed a federal grand jury probe of the northern California federal Internal Revenue Bureau. The accusation was made by Mrs. Hilary Crawford, wife of a San Francisco attorney, in letters to Sen. Richard Nixon (R-Calif.) and Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif.).

Mrs. Crawford said government prosecutors subjected her to an "inquisition" that made her ill, resulting in her release from the grand jury in September.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Robert McMillan, director of the investigation, denied the charge and said he knew nothing of any inquisition. In Whittier, Calif., Hillings said he intends to ask a congressional investigation—leading to possible impeachment proceedings—of rulings by three federal judges during the seven-month grand jury probe. He did not name the judges.

edly not shared by other component units of the United Nations forces. They urge a more compromising attitude, a negotiated peace and an end to the fighting at the earliest possible moment.

Another thoughtful opinion heard in Japan and Korea holds the truce effort to be worthwhile, although not entirely for the reasons generally accepted in the United States. Principal benefit from continuing talks, these officers told me, is that time runs in our favor and against the Reds.

They feel that, while the North Koreans want to continue to fight, the Chinese who are carrying the brunt of the war for the Reds are sick of their deal and will eventually agree to a realistic truce.

Pressures bearing against the Chinese, they say, include the facts that the officer cadre of the Chinese Communist army has been depleted, that the army itself is going to pieces under the attrition of air and artillery attack in superior power; that the guerrilla movement in China proper is building up; and that if the Reds are able to extricate the Chinese army intact from Korea, it will soon be committed to more profitable wars of aggression in Southeast Asia with the rice, tin, rubber and natural resources of Burma and French Indo-China at stake.

The United Press war correspondents are swinging from complete skepticism to a faint ray of hope. Here are some opinions: cabled today:

"Communist agreement to inspection gives new hope for truce. Yet it is difficult to see just how it really could be worked out because there are so many obstacles remaining and so many chances for things to go wrong."—Earnest Hobericht, Tokyo.

"I believe eventually there will be an armistice, but it is my conviction that it will not come within the 30-day time limit or even within an additional 30-day extension."—Leroy Hansen, 8th Army Headquarters.

"I predict an armistice, but the delays have not worked out in favor of the Allies regarding terms. The Reds have built up a formidable defensive air force and established the fact that some of it is based in North Korea. If I guess in right they mean to knock out our rotation system and imprison the U.N. army in Korea."—Peter Kalischer, Tokyo. "Opinion here is that there is little chance of a truce by Christmas. Even if there is a cease fire, there is still little chance of many Americans starting home soon because the U.N. is not going to demobilize until the South Korean army is ready to take over."—Arnold Dibble, Munsan.

Wife Sentenced In Stabbing Case

RALEIGH (AP)—A Rocky Mount, Va., woman, who told police she stabbed her Army officer husband to keep him from going to Korea has been sentenced to two to five years in prison.

Superior Court Judge Henry Grady yesterday ordered that Mrs. Hilda Banks, 29, be assigned to the prison's psychiatric ward for treatment and observation. She pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Her husband, Captain Vaughn Banks, was scheduled to sail today for an overseas assignment.

Mrs. Banks testified yesterday she had been taking a drug, prescribed by a doctor for a nervous condition and she couldn't remember anything about the stabbing which took place in a local hotel last summer.

Banks testified his wife had threatened his life several times and had attempted suicide.

A CENTER HALL plan is perennially popular because of its efficiency in room layout. No room becomes a passageway. In this plan B-1966, Architect Alwin Cassens, Jr., of 145 So. Franklin Ave., Valley Stream, N. Y., has opened the back door into the dining room to allow for an outdoor dining terrace. The house has an expansion attic for additional bedrooms and extra bath. Plumbing is concentrated for economy with kitchen and bath back-to-back. The house has a complete basement, covers an area of only 828 square feet, without garage, and contains 20,420 cubic feet. A fireplace could be added by placing the chimney between living room and garage or by using an inside chimney at the corner of living room and dining room.

Star 150 Times As Big As Our Sun 'Measured'

VICTORIA, B. C. (AP)—Scientists, with an assist from a 63-day eclipse, have measured for the first time an enormous star 150 times as large as the earth's sun. The figures they came up with make this puny earth a dust speck in infinitude's road.

The star is 31 Cygni, a double star in the constellation known as the Swan. It's 650 light years away from the earth, a 16-digit figure in miles. (A light year is the distance light travels in one year at a speed of approximately 186,000 miles a second).

It has been known for some 50 years—a couple seconds, relatively speaking—that 31 Cygni was a double star. The two stars take 10 years and five months to circle each other, but it not until last year that D. B. McLaughlin of the University of Michigan pronounced the theory that the large one might eclipse the other. This summer, astronomers at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here, working in conjunction with the University of Michigan Observatory, noted on Aug. 11 that the light of the smaller star was cut off abruptly. It lasted until Oct. 13.

N. C. Republicans To Stage Dinner

GREENSBORO (AP)—North Carolina Republicans will hold a $100 per plate dinner here Jan. 19.

Plans for the dinner, first ever to be held in the state, were announced at a meeting here yesterday of the Piedmont Republican Club. Worth Little of Albemarle, vice president of the club, said that a nationally recognized speaker will attend the dinner.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY BLANK

Ben Templeton, sports editor of the Raleigh Times, is the first writer we know of who has put himself on a limb regarding the selection of a new football coach at N. C. State. Templeton thinks that Jim Gill, presently an assistant at Carolina, will get the job.

There's quite a bit of logical deduction used by Templeton in the naming of Gill to get the job. The fat man who puts out good lines was at State a couple of seasons as Beattie Feathers' assistant. The word making the rounds was that he would get Feathers' job as soon as he learned the system at State College.

Gill naturally missed out on the job at State when the Wolfpack managed to come through with one of its famed upset victories. Feathers kept the job, was taken off the fire, and given a three year contract. That was last year.

By its action this week, the Athletic Council at State College just passed over two years of the present contract to show Feathers to the door. They had a three man committee set up to consider a new coach but thus far the committee hasn't had a chance to really do too much work.

The announcement from the committee today is that only two men have applied for the job. Neither of the two applicants are well known in North Carolina although both have built enviable coaching records. Gill was not mentioned in the publicity release.

Whether or not Gill gets the job remains to be seen. But Ben Templeton doesn't have a bad idea in thinking that Gill will be selected. Gill has long been considered as head coach timber and it is something of a mild surprise that he hasn't landed a top job before now.

While State's football coaching troubles is the big item here in North Carolina, reports from all over the country point to other schools entertaining the same difficulty: finding a coach who will find enough good material to win some ball games.

At Tulane, the door is being opened for Henry Frka. Frka isn't definitely out as yet but reports from responsible writers in the Tulane area say that he's going.

Mentioned as the top prospect at Tulane in case Frka is fired is Maryland's Jim Tatum. Tatum has come a long way since he was at Oklahoma. He could very probably hold down the coaching job at any school in the country. But he would be very foolish to leave Maryland right now unless he got an offer that would be foolish to refuse.

At West Point, reports still persist that Red Blaik is going to be fired although everyone connected with the Academy denies such reports.

Perhaps the most widely publicized of the "West Point Stories" is the one that says Blaik is going to quit voluntarily. The writer in this particular case says that Blaik is mad because football took the complete rap for the cribbing scandal which broke the back of Army football this year. I rather doubt that report. Blaik and Army have done a lot for each other.

It would not be a good thing for either of the two to desert the other right now.

Carl Naevly, thanks to the power of the press and alumni (according to Chauncey Durden, the man who first publicized the plans for his ouster) is still in at Carolina.

The people who were in charge of the poll for selection of the All-Northeastern Conference team pulled a fast one on us. The story, with an Elizabeth City dateline, first came to this column's attention in this morning's edition of the News and Observer. Who had the story first and who released it to the News and Observer is something that simply isn't known around here.

As far as that goes, I'm wondering who did the selecting. The Reflector has not been contacted in any way regarding such a selection—a procedure which might be commonplace to the Northeastern Conference but one which is unusual to me.

Greenville was represented on the team by end Wallace Conway, perhaps the most outstanding lineman on Bill Kittrell's team this year. Other members of the squad were either passed over or forgotten—including Bobby Perry.

The first team backfield had three unanimous choices in Burton Harrison of Edenton, Bryant Aldridge of Kinston, and Washington's Dick Cherry. John Nelson of Washington, a clever runner, got the other backfield post. That's a good backfield in any body's league. I wouldn't mind having it.

Kinston and Washington each placed three men on the eleven man team. Elizabeth City got two and Roanoke Rapids failed to place a man. Greenville and New Bern each placed one man.

Wallace Conway Put On All-Northeastern

Pam Pack, Devils Lead Selections With Three Each

An all-star team for the Northeastern football conference was released today by officials of the league. Kinston and Washington led the selections with three men each on the first team.

Greenville's only representation was end Wallace Conway. Conway, who was an outstanding performer for Coach Bill Kittrell all season, is teamed with Lindsey Hewitt of Elizabeth City, Red Dixon and Frank Wall of Elizabeth City who were placed at the tackles, while Paul Popov of Kinston and Al Laughinghouse of New Bern handle the guard positions. Kinston's Joe Heath is the center.

The backfield is one that either of the loop coaches would pray for—Dick Cherry, Washington; Burton Harrison of Edenton; Bryant Aldridge of Kinston; and John Nelson, Washington.

Aldridge, Cherry, Dixon and Harrison were all selected unanimously. Aldridge and Dixon participated in the Shrine Bowl football game played between all-star teams from North Carolina and South Carolina last week.

Aldridge was also presented the Dubose Trophy. The trophy is awarded to the outstanding defensive player in the conference each year.

The first team selections were the only ones to be announced.

Phantoms Travel To Rocky Mount For Contest Friday

Coach Boley Farley's Green Phantoms will make their second invasion inside the ranks of the Eastern Class AAA Conference Friday night when they travel over to Rocky Mount for a game with Coach Bill Lundy's Blackbirds.

Greenville opened the season last week by dropping Wilson High to the tune of 55-45. Newcomers Smith Worthington and Leon Moore, playing their first season as varsity performers, were the scoring stars of that game. Worthington gained a starting berth only a few days before the contest, but his 15 points against Wilson, has assured him of another starting role tomorrow night.

Moore, up from last year's junior varsity, also was guaranteed of a starting role against Rocky Mount. The fancy forward poured 11 points through the nets last week.

The rest of the starting lineup is expected to be the same as with Wilson. That will have Wallace Conway at center, Sid Briley and Glenn Scott at guards. Scott is the floor leader of the Phantoms and is also a capable scorer for Coach Farley. Conway, who was named to an all-Northeastern football team yesterday, looked good at the pivot spot. The six-footer scored eight points while he played an excellent defensive game. Briley is a specialist on one-handed push shots and has a dead-eye accuracy with them. He also scored eight points in the Wilson contest.

Other boys who will probably see plenty of action against Rocky Mount are Joe Rowland, Doug Morgan, Tommy Evans, Fletcher Murray and Jimmy Cheatham.

Hunt, King Apply For Coaching Job At State College

RALEIGH (AP)—Two applicants have applied for the job of head football coach at North Carolina State College to succeed Beattie Feathers.

They are Joel Hunt, former head coach for one year at the University of Georgia, and Eddie King, head coach at Morris Harvey College in Charles, W. Va.

They applied in writing yesterday to Dean Malcolm E. Campbell of the college's school of textiles. Campbell heads a three-member committee named to survey the field and recommend a successor to the college's athletic council.

Feathers was ousted last Saturday after eight years as head coach. No reason for his firing was announced. His contract still has two years to run.

Reports have linked several men to the coaching job. These include Peahead Walker, former head coach at Wake Forest College and now an assistant at Yale; Jim Gill, assistant coach at North Carolina; Horace Hendrickson, State College's assistant coach; George Barclay, head coach at Washington and Lee, and Marvin Bass, head coach at William and Mary.

Campbell said his committee expects to have a recommendation for the athletic council "within the next few days."

Kentucky Picked For Repeat Chore

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—The University of Kentucky basketball team today was voted most likely to win the 1951-52 national championship by the 35 leading college coaches who make up the United Press rating board.

In their preseason estimate, 32 of the coaches chose Adolph Rupp's NCAA champions to wind up the coming season just where they finished in the final 1950-51 balloting — on top.

Kentucky received 345 out of a possible 350 points after collecting 32 first-place votes, two second-place and one fourth-place ballot. Under the ranking system, a first-place vote is worth 10 points, a second-place vote, nine, and so on down to one point for a 10th place ballot.

Illinois, which finished fourth in the final ratings last spring, was picked to take runner-up honors. The defending Big Ten champions received two first-place votes but scored heavily on second and third-place votes for a total of 167 points.

Coach Tippy Dye's University of Washington team was ranked third, receiving 165 points. Oklahoma A&M, the defending Missouri Valley Conference champion which wound up second in the final ratings last season, was placed fourth with 161 points.

Trade Winds Up; No Players Gone

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—The Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers came within a third string catcher today of completing the only deal in this loud talking but quietly-acting baseball convention.

The Dodgers were ready to give up outfielder Cal Abrams and infielder Bobby Morgan for pitcher Howie Bavaal of the Dodgers and Gabe Paul president of the Reds, were close to the hand-shaking stage. Then Paul demanded Steve Lembo, a stand-in backstop, to complete the deal. Bavaal said it was "no go" and the deal was off.

Phantoms Idle

The Greenville Phantoms, idle last night, will get back into action Friday night when they travel to Rocky Mount to meet Coach Bill Lundy's Blackbirds. Coach Boley Farley's Phantoms have won their only start of the year, last week against Wilson. Both Wilson and Rocky Mount are in the Eastern AAA Conference.

Quakers Go After First Win Tonight

By the Associated Press

Guilford's Quakers will try to win their first North State Conference basketball victory tonight at the expense of Atlantic Christian.

The Quakers invade the Bulldogs' home court in the only conference game of the night. Guilford dropped its loop opener to East Carolina last week, 65-47.

Two other North State teams will see non-conference action. Elon's touring Christians meet Presbyterian's Blue Hose at Clinton, S. C., and Western Carolina visits Enka.

Appalachian State showed terrific offensive punch last night in conquering Milligan College of Tennessee, 95 to 48, at Boone. Mountaineer centers John Pyscha and Perk Collins scored 38 points between them as Appalachian jumped into a quick lead and was never headed.

CHEVROLET

More people buy Chevrolets than any other car!

CHEVROLET

W'LL put it up to you! There must be plenty of good reasons why more people buy Chevrolets than any other car.

Here are some things to think about.

There's the way Chevrolet looks. Nice clean, curved lines—like cars in the high-price field! Chevrolet's Body by Fisher sets the pace among low-priced cars.

There's the way Chevrolet rides and handles. The smoothness and big-car comfort of Uni-tized Knee-Action. Bigger brakes—biggest in the field—for safer, surer stops. Finest no-shift and standard driving at lowest cost with Power-glide or Synchro-Mesh transmission.

There's the way Chevrolet solves. Chevrolet is the lowest-priced line in the field and the savings go on and on with low operating costs.

There are plenty more reasons why Chevrolet is America's favorite. Come in and let us show them to you.

Chevrolet's time-proved POWERGLIDE automatic transmission

Finest no-shift driving at lowest cost. Combination of Powerglide Automatic Transmission and 105-h.p. Engine optional on De Luxe models at extra cost.

Matthews Wins; Will Go For Belt

CLEVELAND (UP)—Light heavyweight contender Harry Matthews, fresh from victory over Larry Nardico in Cleveland's best-attended "Toyshop" boxing show, announced today he would campaign for the heavyweight crown.

Matthews of Seattle, 175 pounds, used smart boxing and terrific body blow, to win the unanimous 10-round decision over slugger Nardico of Tampa, Fla., 176, before 13,413 at the Cleveland Arena last night.

Despite this victory, Matthews and his manager, Jack Hurley decided they had given up hope of getting a title shot at light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim and they would go gunning for Jersey Joe Walcott's heavy crown.

At Santa Rosa, Calif., Maxim's manager, Jack Kearns, denied today that the champion was running away from Matthews.

Matthews, 29, achieved his 66th consecutive victory; but, as a 4-1 favorite, he had more difficulty than was expected. He made the mistake of trying to slug with explosive Danny in the early rounds. As a result, Matthews was rocked several times in the third session. Shrewd Hurley advised him to concentrate on boxing at long range after the third, and by the ninth round, Nardico was so well beaten that two right smashes to the body almost crumpled him.

The longest punt in Southeastern Conference history was kicked by Alabama's Dixie Howell in 1933. The kick carried 89 yards.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to salt or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passage.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 80 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the fatigued kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Orchestra And Big Chorus Here Dec. 8

Tunes from six great Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals, played and sung by a 30-piece orchestra, a chorus of fourteen voices, and four soloists, will make up an evening of music at East Carolina College Saturday of this week, December 8.

"Rodgers and Hammerstein Nights" will be presented by the College Entertainment Committee as the second number in the Entertainment Series for 1951-1952. The performance will begin at 8 o'clock and will take place in the Wright building.

Soloists on the program are Leigh Allen, soprano, from the New York cast of "South Pacific"; Carol Jones, mezzo-soprano, from the Robert Shaw Chorus; Earl William, tenor, from the New York cast of "Curtain Time"; and Andrew Gaine, from the New York cast of "Kiss Me Kate." The entire personnel of the entertainment was chosen by the famous composer and lyricist whose names appear in the program title.

The production, which has been described as "six great shows in one," has played to sold-out audiences and has received "rave" notices after each performance of its current tour. The music taken from such successes as "Oklahoma," "Carousel," "State Fair," "South Pacific," and "The King and I," all hits by Rodgers and Hammerstein, is familiar and popular.

Tickets are now on sale and may be obtained by mail from the College Entertainment Committee, Mrs. Ellen C. Fleming, chairman, or from the Austin Building Office open from 9 to 12:30 and from 2 to 6 through Friday of this week.

Famous Engine Number 999 Is Given Reprieve

TOLEDO, O. (UP)—Railroad men, nostalgic and sentimental as snailers, are busy preparing a "home" for old "999" here.

Old 999 is now parked in the New York Central's Airing Junction yard, guarded from the clutches of the scrap heap, which is the usual fate of outmoded locomotives.

Railroaders look with respect at the engine, which has been the pride of the railroad for nearly 60 years since she pulled the Empire Express from New York City to Albany at an average speed of 112 1/2 miles per hour.

The record, set May 10, 1893, stood for only 11 years but regard for the engine and memory of the men who worked on her, demands that she be preserved.

Stress Shortage Of British Fuel

HARROGATE, England, (AP)—British businessmen were urged here to "cast out from your works and office and canteens all electric radiators and water heaters and cookers and replace them with something more thermally efficient."

The plea was made to the Fall Conference of the British Institute of Management by B. E. A. Viger, a London fuel efficiency expert. Stressing the seriousness of Britain's fuel shortage, Viger said if too many people let fuel economy to the other fellow British industrialists will all go down together.

Micmac Tribe Is Again At Peace With Palefaces

WASHINGTON (UP)—The busy Micmac Indians have returned to their beloved Nova Scotia woods to guide the once-hated white man through the province's lake and forest wilderness.

Pierce and warlike toward the British for two centuries, the Micmacs today are a friendly, law-abiding and industrious tribe.

In the early fall, many of the Indians invade Aroostook County to help harvest the huge Maine potato crop. Later in the year, they spend much of their time guiding sportsmen through the trout-filled chains of lakes, or pointing out deer, bear, and moose half hidden by forest background.

Many of the tribe, according to the National Geographic Society, are expert bricklayers or carpenters trained in government Indian schools.

Says Communism Is Just A Racket

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—A Malayan leader says Communism in Malaya is "nothing more or less than a fabulously wealthy racket."

W. M. MacLeod, member of the Council of the Malayan Association, said he estimated conservatively that the Communists in the jungles were collecting something like $3-300,000 monthly from the sale of stolen rubber.

Memory Failed At Wrong Time

OMAHA, (AP)—An Omaha woman called the automobile license bureau well in advance of issuance of 1952 plates to ask for the same number she had last year.

"It's the only one I can remember," she said.

"Just what is your number, ma'am?" the clerk asked.

"Well, that's funny," she replied. "I can't remember."

WILDERNESS BATTLE—These two big buck deer, their horns locked in a grim battle to the death, were found in a wooded area south of Warrenton, Mo. The deer at right was dead, apparently from exhaustion and starvation. The victor was freed by sawing off most of its horns, and was reported recovering at a nearby farm. He weighed an estimated 300 pounds. (AP Wirephoto).

leave reservations and, traveling free on railroads, visit homes in towns and cities to sell their brightly colored baskets.

The Micmacs are the earliest known inhabitants of Nova Scotia, including Cape Breton Island, the northern part of New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island.

Their language is perpetuated in such place names as Whyocomaugh, Head-of-the-Water, Shubenacadie, Place-Where-Wild-Potatoes-Grow, and Tatmagouche, Meeting-of-the-Waters.

rages during the winter of 1606-07. The last man to remember the Micmacs as a warlike tribe was Jeremiah Campbell of Van Buren, Me., who died last year at the age of 105.

When he was seven years of age, Campbell was kidnapped by the Micmacs after they had burned his home and massacred his parents. Raised by the Indians, he learned all their ways and wiles in the woods and spent most of his life as a hunter and trapper in northern Maine.

Today, the Micmacs number about 3,400, approximately the same as their estimated population in the early 1600s. During the long Nova Scotia winters, they live by Champlain to cheer his dom-on 40 small reservations.

Sanitarians Hold Milk Discussion In Williamston

WILLIAMSTON — The Northeastern District Sanitarian Sub Section met in here Tuesday at the new health center and held a public discussion on the U. S. Public Health Service Milk Code Ordinance during the morning session.

The panel discussed the rules and regulations concerning milk and how the code applies to certain areas. Special reference was made to imported milk.

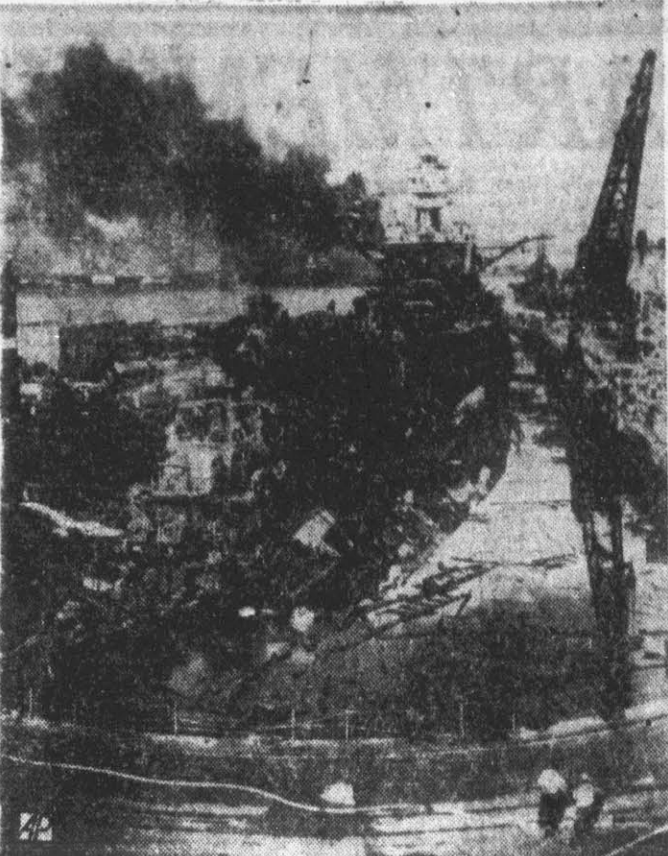

It was pointed out in the discussion that inferior imported milk can be distributed if a "milk emergency" is declared by the Department of Agriculture. In case of emergency, the next best grade of milk to Grade A can be used, even if it does not meet the requirements of sanitary inspections.

Eugene King of New Bern, president of the Northeastern District, said the code is based on the theory that it is better to have inferior milk than no milk at all.

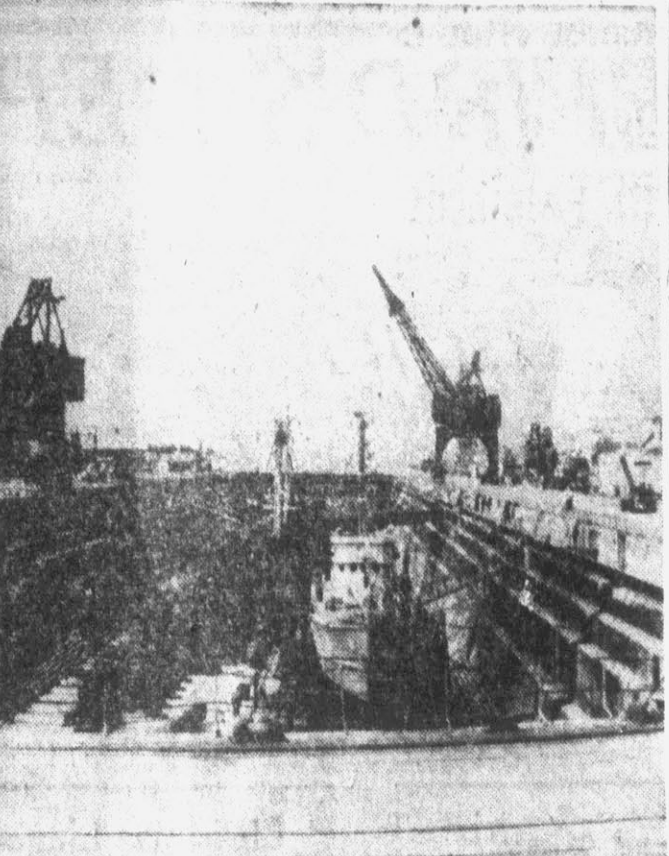

Principals in the discussion were A. M. Robert, dairy extension service, State College, B. L. Jessup, milk sanitarian, State Board of Health, and John Andrews, principal sanitarian, State Board of Health. Other than the district sanitarians present, a number of milk plant personnel from surrounding areas were at the meeting.

The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion with Walter Lackey, supervisor of sanitation in the northeastern district, on school plant and school hutchroom inspections. Lackey pointed out that a school which does not meet the required standards, cannot be declared an accredited school.

Vermont, Arizona and Georgia are the leading U. S. states in asbestos production.

Wrong-Way Bird

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A homing pigeon, released at Oodnadatta, Central Australia, for a 540-mile race to its loft at Adelaide, arrived in South Africa.

Instead of joining his 500 companions in a straight dash home, the bird went off in the wrong direction. Two days later it was 150 miles off the West Australian coast in the Great Australian Bight.

Then the bird sighted a speck on the horizon and flew towards the British freighter, Diomed, bound for South Africa. The pigeon from Adelaide plopped on the deck of the Diomed, exhausted after its 1000-mile flight. Diomed seamen took the pigeon on to South Africa.

'Guarantees' Ike Will Be Candidate In GOP Primary

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Tobey (R-NH) said today "I guarantee" that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will let his name go before the voters in New Hampshire's presidential primary next March.

Tobey's flat statement that the General won't disappoint his Republican backers by refusing to be represented in that contest came amid new attacks on the Truman Administration.

Senator Duff (R-Pa.), a leader of the organized Eisenhower-for-President Republican group, declared "the Democrats must be thrown out" of office in the 1952 elections, and he added that Eisenhower is the man who can assure it.

Duff set forth his views in a speech last night at an Eisenhower rally in Manchester, N.H.

Criticism of the Administration came also from a Southern Democrat, Senator Byrd of Virginia, who joined with a Republican, Senator Taft of Ohio, in accusing President Truman of trying to take the country down the road to socialism. Taft is an avowed candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Byrd and Taft both addressed the American Medical Association in Los Angeles last night.

Referring then to the national Republican nominating convention to be held in Chicago next July, Tobey said: "I am confident Eisenhower will be available, will be nominated, and then will be elected in November."

Turnpike Group To Meet Tuesday

RALEIGH (AP)—Members of the new state Turnpike Authority will be sworn in and hold their first meeting here Tuesday.

The authority, created by the 1951 General Assembly, will determine whether a toll turnpike in North Carolina is feasible.

The members include Nello L. Teer of Durham, Edwin L. Jones of Charlotte, Orton Boren of Greensboro, Ben Roney of Rocky Mount, and Highway Commission Chairman Henry W. Jordan, who is an ex-officio member.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

In Police Court yesterday, Judge Charles H. Wheelbee found Robert Heath guilty of careless and reckless driving and gave him 60 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25.

The court ordered that Heath not operate a motor vehicle for one week and he had to surrender his driver's license for that period. The court also ordered that he make restitution to the hospital and persons injured in the wreck.

Jerry Foster, Negro, driving without an operator's license and on the wrong side of the road, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $25 and costs. The court also ordered him not to drive without a license and to make restitution to Cary Lee Stevenson for property damage.

Jesse Redman, Negro, was found not guilty of hit-and-run driving.

Dewey D. Whitehurst, passing another vehicle at an intersection, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $5 fine and he was ordered to make restitution to Mrs. Annie S. Jackson for damage.

Charles E. Squires paid $10 for failure to stop at a red traffic light; Joseph E. Newcomb also paid $10.

Edward Lee Small, Negro, paid $10 for being drunk.
Frank Sam Read paid $25 for speeding.

Visitor Overdid Parking Tickets

WHEELING, W. Va. —(UP)—Wheeling police are willing to forgive a parking ticket or two if the offender is from out of the city but they believe Robert R. Hannabauer of Charleston, W. Va., abused the courtesy.

A policeman was getting ready to tag Hannabauer's car when he noticed that the license number corresponded with a traffic ticket that had been issued before. He also noticed a red tag inserted under the windshield wiper.

The officer called for a tow-truck to haul the vehicle to a garage and climbed into the driver's seat. In doing so, he tipped the windshield visor downward and was showered with 68 red tickets.

Will Join Staff Of Sen. Smith

RALEIGH —(AP)— Jesse Helms, news director for radio station W-R-A-L, will join Senator Willis Smith's staff in January.

The announcement was made today by Senator Smith from his Washington office. Helms' appointment as a special assistant to the Senator will be effective Jan. 3.

Anything Goes When Designers Decorate A Tree

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Six dress designers and a hat designer demonstrated today that you can put anything on a Christmas tree from 120 gilded thimbles to a white fox scarf and it'll look festive — if you're artistic.

Each of the seven designers was given a tree seven feet high to decorate. The results were unveiled today on the ground floor of a Fifth Avenue department store. You could almost hear Santa Claus murmuring, "that's a Christmas tree, son," to a bewildered boy gazing at the gilded thimbles, scissors and tiny irons hanging from the white tree decorated by Mollie Parnis.

Other designers who accepted the challenge were Claire McCardell, Argele Simpson, Brigrance, Omar Kiam, Cecil Chapman and the store's hat designer, Mr. Harold. "Six of them decorated their trees in the same workroom upstairs," explained a store staff member, "but the seventh insisted on a private room. He refused to work in front of the others."

This touch of temperament might be reflected in the howls from kiddies if they spotted a white fox fur topped by a yellow satin hat on ye olde family spruce Christmas morn. That was Mr. Harold's design. The beautiful hat took the place of the star ornament on top of the white fur and glittering costume jewelry carried out the illusion of a tree decorated to resemble a woman's costume.

"Christmas on a shoe string," was the title Miss McCardell gave her tree. Red shoe strings, red and white checked gingham and white gandy embroidered in red were in rows on it.

The only other decorations were tiny canes tied with some of the shoestrings.

Cecil Chapman put little dolls dressed in white and aqua blue on the branches of her pink tree. A tremendous pink spool at the top held a wire-like silver thread which spiraled down among the branches.

Stringing popcorn and cranberries is speedy compared to some of the tedious decorating the designers dreamed up. Brigrance decided to cover his tree with artificial flowers, so an assistant spent 16 hours tying everything from red poppies to tiny buttercups on the branches.

Omar Kiam strung 500 silver balls on a silver cord and spiraled them around a green tree, with a tremendous red tulle bow at the top and bottom.

Arrest Boys For Trying To Wreck Passenger Train

MEMPHIS (UP)—Two boys who "wanted to see what would happen" have been arrested on charges of trying to wreck the same fast passenger train that another boy tried to derail during the past week.

Federal authorities arrested one boy here Tuesday and one boy at Adams, Tenn., and accused them of trying to wreck the Illinois Central's "City of New Orleans" near here Nov. 14.

Last week, a 12-year-old boy was arrested and accused of trying to wreck the same train on Nov. 20. FBI agents said the boys arrested Tuesday, both teen-agers, were accused of putting a 35-pound piece of concrete on the IC's main line shortly before the "City of New Orleans" was due to pass.

The boys were quoted as saying they "just wanted to see what would happen."

The train was not wrecked however. A maintenance man on a motorcar found the concrete and removed it before the train came by.

Norway Shunning War But Watching Russia

OSLO, Norway. —(UP)— Russia agrees with their government that the situation requires the utmost caution and preparedness. Immediately after the war, Norway was grateful to the Russian who helped to liberate the country. Norway was ready to accept Russia as an equal member of the community of nations. Six years later Norway, together with Turkey, the only other Atlantic Pact country bordering on the Soviet Union, is still figuratively as far away from Russia as any other Atlantic power. Frontier Deserted Relations with Sweden and Finland are friendly. With the Soviet Union things are different. The new post-war frontier between Norway and the Soviet Union is probably the most deserted in the world. Although by far the shortest of Norway's land frontiers, being only 110 miles, it has been by far the most troublesome. On the Russian side, one can see of Petsamo. On the thinly-populated Norwegian side are two small towns, one an iron mining center. Apart from these two towns only a few farmers, fishermen, hunters and Lapps are living along the frontier rivers of Pasvik, Elva and Grenseljokke Elva. Intruders Seized Most Norwegians keep cautiously away from the frontier, but some fishermen and hunters have stepped across into what used to be Finland. They were seized by the Russians and released only after diplomatic intervention by the Norwegian embassy in Moscow. A series of such incidents resulted in 1949 in a Russo-Norwegian agreement for more rigorous border control. The Russians prohibited the taking of pictures of Russian territory and talking to Russian frontier guards. When Norway joined the Atlantic Pact, it was stressed by the government that Norway would put the weight of its defense measures in southern Norway, around the Oslo Fjord and in Northern Norway. Few Know Secret It is known that fortifications have been built or enlarged in northern Norway, but to what extent is a military secret known only by the government, Norwegian military chiefs, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Field Marshal Montgomery and Admiral Sir Patrick Brand, commander in chief of the NATO northern defense region. All of them inspected this northernmost outpost of the Atlantic defense system this summer. The northernmost Atlantic Pact air base for super bombers on this side of the Atlantic, Bardufoss, is some 240 miles from the Russian frontier. The places and strength of other fortifications in this area are not known to the public. It will to a degree depend on current NATO negotiations in Paris and Rome whether Norway will get economic help for building up defense there. It has been stressed repeatedly by the Norwegian government that no fortifications have been built on the Spitzbergen Islands and that the area has not been included in the Atlantic Pact defense system for "aggressive purposes," as charged by Soviet Russia in recent notes.

Wilson's Weekly Bulletin

from the RECTOR KITCHENS

Want an ideal and practical holiday gift for a friend or a family of friends? Santa will take great pride in a Wilson's Ham gift even to its gay holiday wrapper. Here are famous-for-flavor hams—America's Finest. They are a treat Santa loves to give for he can count on top popularity and a just right, sweet 'n' smoky flavor for spreading good old-fashioned Christmas cheer. And there's a size to suit every family. A Wilson's Ham is a gift of a million uses: Delectable sliced cold, for Wilson's Tender Made Hams are pre-cooked and fork tender, flavorful and ready-to-eat cold or merely heat according to directions; while Wilson's Certified Ham is ready-to-cook—follow easy directions on insert wrapped with it—it's tasty beyond compare. As a Christmas Special, Rector Kitchens recommends baking a colorful Cranberry Glaze. Then with a sprig of holly or a pimiento poinsettia it comes to the table ready for the most fastidious party. It not only looks TOPS but it is TOPS. A finer holiday gift could not be!

Christmas Ham (To serve at home)

Prepare: 1 Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham or 1 Wilson's Tender Made Ham according to directions on label except for Christmas you may want to use cranberry glaze (see recipe herewith) in place of pineapple; that is, if you want cranberry red. Christmas coloring. Garnish shank end with a pimiento poinsettia with cream cheese stems and green pepper leaves. This will not interfere with carving and will add holiday glamour.

A Christmas Cranberry Glaze

Heat over hot water to melt: 1 can Cranberry Sauce with 1 tablespoon cornstarch stirred into 1 cup water. Stir and heat until it melts and thickens slightly. Then stir in: 1 lemon rind, grated 2 tablespoons lemon juice Sieve or not, as you choose. Use as basting sauce over ham for last 20 minutes of baking. Baste often for the best glaze.

*Wilson's Tender Made Ham (ready-to-eat) comes in three styles: The Whole ham, weighing 10 to 16 lbs. and up. Pear-shaped, canned Tender Made Hams weigh 6 1/2 to 15 lbs. And the round tins, half-size, perfect for small families or charity baskets, weigh 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 lbs. Wilson's Certified Ham (ready-to-cook) weigh 10 to 16 lbs. and up.

Congress Fails To Look Into Faults Of Its Own Members

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—We could all learn more about the doings in government if members of congress, when they're investigating, would show a little more real about quizzing members of congress, too. A House subcommittee is now investigating the way taxes and tax frauds have been handled by the Internal Revenue Bureau and the Department of Justice. Disclosures about the bureau show it to have been in scandalous shape. And the disclosures seen in from these sources come from bureau employees who were interviewed.

President Truman himself fired T. Lamar Caudle from his job as Assistant Attorney General in charge of the justice department's tax division. Caudle formerly had said to who would the procedure for tax fraud.

During his testimony before the subcommittee, Caudle said that members of congress put "tremendous pressure" on him in behalf of their constituents involved in tax frauds.

Then Caudle hastily added that this "tremendous pressure" from members of congress was quite all right. No one asked him to do anything wrong, he said.

The committee apparently accepted Caudle's judgment on this point although it seems to think his judgment was questionable on other matters.

It never asked him for a list of the congressional pressurizers or for any explanation of what kind of pressure was applied or how. That seemed to end the matter right there.

Later another Justice Department attorney, John H. Mitchell, who worked under Caudle, told the committee Caudle and Frank W. Boykin, a Democratic congressman from Alabama, had shown "unusual" interest in an Alabama tax fraud case.

The committee said it would be glad to hear Boykin, but in a statement he said the tax fraud case is closed and he isn't going to come to Washington.

All the hearings where Caudle and Mitchell testified have been open to the public. But there were rumors the committee chairman, Rep. King, California Democrat, had intervened in three Southern California tax cases.

King demanded a hearing by his own committee. He disqualified himself from taking part. After two days of hearings the committee exonerated King. But its hearings were behind closed doors.

Congressional investigations are not only a right but a necessity. It is through congress, our representatives, that the rest of us can check on those other branches of the government to keep them honest and weed out the rascals and incompetents whose salaries we pay.

But we also pay the salaries of members of congress and since they are public servants they cannot be above public scrutiny. If for no other reason than providing us with more information about how they do their job, and how well.

But it's a rare day when any member of congress digs into the doings of another member of congress except politically, with the same zeal and inquisitorial interest he displays toward employees in other branches of government.

Tax Troubles Again Confront Troy Whitehead

CHARLOTTE (UP)—Troy Whitehead, whose federal income tax troubles made headlines last week from testimony before a congressional investigating committee, had another tax bill Wednesday.

A judgement of $82,560 was filed yesterday against the Charlotte machinery manufacturer with the Mecklenburg County Court by State Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw.

The bill includes income tax, penalties and interest allegedly owed by Whitehead for the years 1945-48. The federal government claims Whitehead owes some $700,000, and has taken a lien on his business property here.

Pitt Sheriff To Attend Meeting On Road Safety

Pitt County Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said this morning he would attend a state-wide meeting called by the governor to discuss rising traffic fatalities in North Carolina.

Governor W. Kerr Scott has called a special meeting of police chiefs, sheriffs, and judges and solicitors of all recorder's courts in the state—including city courts, county courts, and mayor's courts. The meeting is to be held at the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill Friday morning, December 14, at 10:30.

So far this year, 18,915 accidents have occurred on North Carolina highways, killing 930 people and crippling and injuring 11,327 more. Officials say most of the accidents involved violations of the laws in one form or another.

The governor stated in his letter to Sheriff Tyson, "I am calling you together to take counsel on all possible ways of tightening up law enforcement procedures and bringing about some effective means of safe-guarding the lives and property of people on the streets and highways of North Carolina."

Sheriff Tyson said that Pitt County was holding down its death toll pretty well. Only 10 fatalities as a result of traffic accidents have occurred in the county so far this year," he stated.

Consider Bar To Lurid Reporting

ROME (AP)—Italy is thinking of doing something about the lurid court reporting which makes foreigners gasp.

The Italian press skip nothing in stories of trials. Details of crimes, sex perversion, dope addiction and other subjects which American and British editors would blue-pencil are described in detail.

A bill prepared for submission to the Chamber of Deputies would change all this. At present the press can publish anything brought up in court and it is privileged. The new law would allow publication only of prosecution charges, defense pleas and established facts.

The farmer usually gets a little less than half the amount than the city consumer pays for farm products. The remainder goes to handlers, wholesalers and retailers.

Baby Sitting Is Now Reduced To Exact Science

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—Many a mother has had an evening out spoiled by remembering that she forgot to tell her baby sitter something vital.

Mrs. John Taggett of Madison had the same experience and decided to do something about it. She designed "Sitter Notes," a combination scratch-pad and baby sitter manual that contains vital telephone numbers, tips for emergencies, and eight "baby-by-laws" for any good baby sitter.

There also is a separate page for special instructions on each parents' evening out.

Mrs. Taggett's manual proved so popular with her sitters and friends that she has turned her peace of mind project into a business.

Detective Killed Him 'By Mistake'

CHICAGO (UP)—A detective Tuesday night shot and killed a 21-year-old youth he had stopped for questioning about a recent series of automobile thefts. The youth later proved to have no connection with the robberies.

Dominic DiLiberto was killed by a bullet fired from the service revolver of Detective Raymond Harming. Harming said he fired because the youth looked like he was going to grab Harming's gun.

The state of Illinois has produced more than three billion tons of coal since 1900.

Hotel Fittings Lead Hard Life

NEW YORK (UP)—The life expectancy of things in a hotel room varies.

They wear out faster than the furnishings and equipment of the average home but not as fast as one might think. Some, like the clay tile in the bath, are good for the lifetime of the hotel. Some, like the light bulbs or the tumblers on the dresser, have a span of only about six months, while others are good for years.

Here are hotel equipment and furnishings "mortality" rates, as furnished by the American Hotel Association:

Dresses, writing desks and tables have a life expectancy of 12 years in the average hotel guest room. Lamps and shades are good for eight but arm and straight chairs for only six. The bed in a hotel room is expected to last 12 years, its box spring and mattress nine. The bedspread is good for five years, the pillow for nine and pillow slips for only one. Linens go fast, because of daily washings and bleedings. The macthing the bathroom's tiled floor lasts longest, about three years. Bath towels, hand towels and sheets have to be replaced annually, on the average.

Consider Bar To Lurid Reporting

ROME (AP)—Italy is thinking of doing something about the lurid court reporting which makes foreigners gasp.

The Italian press skip nothing in stories of trials. Details of crimes, sex perversion, dope addiction and other subjects which American and British editors would blue-pencil are described in detail.

A bill prepared for submission to the Chamber of Deputies would change all this. At present the press can publish anything brought up in court and it is privileged. The new law would allow publication only of prosecution charges, defense pleas and established facts.

The farmer usually gets a little less than half the amount than the city consumer pays for farm products. The remainder goes to handlers, wholesalers and retailers.

HANGMAN'S COULEE

By AL CODY

Chapter 3
Gentleman Jim allowed the boys to stop at the crest of the hill. The canyon lay three days behind, along with its risks. Meader, Widdicombe and the outlaws had been left a day's journey back.

"There it is, Happy," he adjured the morose little man. "The goal of our endeavors. Behold Hangman's Coulee!"

The valley below was narrow, the hills pressing from either side. Beyond the town was the coulee from which it took its name, out of which wound a small stream. This water course twisted as if to avoid a giant cottonwood which stood with one great, outthrust limb. A limb worn smooth by the passage of many ropes.

"Seem a thing like that gives me the willies," Happy confessed. Gentleman Jim chuckled. Try and look 'uman, if you can't look leasant. And remember—not even one snort of liquor! You know your weakness!"

Gentleman Jim eyed the town approvingly, the square flanked on one side by the Cattlemen's Saloon, with the Silver Dollar opposite. Tall trees stood in the center, with a watering trough, and the horses dipped grateful muzzles.

A crowd began to collect, among them a broad-shouldered, thin-waisted man of about gentleman Jim's own age—slightly short of thirty. A welcoming smile was on his face.

"You're Professor Meader, of course," he declared. "Welcome to our town! I am John Gilson." Gilson was the banker, in charge of the money being raised for the railroad. Since they were arriving as scheduled, with the little organ and the big tent in the wagon, no one seemed to harbor any suspicion. Happy was beginning to warm when he suddenly froze again.

Another man was pushing through the crowd. And he wore a sheriff's star. If ever Happy had seen suspicion in a man's face it was in Sheriff's Paul Hoffman's. Gentleman Jim gave no indication of unease. His greeting was as hearty, his handclasp as warm, as for any of the others. The fact that his likeness, in somewhat altered guise, might be upon some of the dodgers in the sheriff's desk, did not trouble him.

Happy heard the banker inviting them to make his house their home while they remained in town. While they were eating supper, the sheriff would be thumping through his dodgers to refresh his memory. And then—

Then, as their hostess came forward to greet them, he had a despairing conviction that all was lost.

Even on Gentleman Jim, the sight of Matta Gilson was so profound that he temporarily lost his breath. Matta was good to look at, but her beauty went deeper than the surface. It was a spirit which shone like a lamp in a dark room, a sort of breathless singing quality that set her apart. Gentleman Jim was smitten.

The tent was raised at the edge of town, not far from the hanging tree. Gentleman Jim had to admit that this was probably the most fantastic of all the schemes which he had ever dreamed up. He could sing and talk fluently, but could give an entertaining address which was also scholarly and meaningful? How could he hope to fool such people as the banker? And, remembering Matta, the warm, friendly welcome that she had given him, he wondered for a moment if he wanted to.

Happy's music, community singing and a set of lantern slides would take care of the entertainment. Which left a lot for him. There was, he decided, just one way. When you had a job to do, the idea was to throw yourself into it, heart and soul—to believe the part you were playing. That made for sincerity. But what would he talk about?

Unexpectedly, Matta Gilson supplied the answer.

"I've heard that you are a powerful temperance lecturer, Professor, and a great foe of gambling. That's what we need here."

"Gentleman Jim did not bat an eye.

"That's what I hope to do, Miss Gilson."

Happy crossed to the organ. The big tent was nearly full, and Gentleman Jim stood to lead in singing. Silver Threads Among the Gold, Loch Lomond, Rock of Ages. One after another, for half an hour. As the last song ended, Gentleman Jim felt a moment of panic. It passed, and he leaned forward. "Friends," he said quietly. "We have all come here for one purpose—that we may be better, mentally and in all other ways, for this meeting of minds. We might spend all our time in light entertainment, or in singing. Or in deep discussion of those fundamentals which affect the lives of all of us. I think that a judicious mingling of all will be better. My hope is that we'll all get what we really want, out of these meetings."

That sounds good, Happy reflected dourly. Only it can't be done! Not with us wantin' that hundred thousand bucks, the sheriff wantin' us, and the crowd wantin' what we ain't got to give!

But Gentleman Jim could fairly take a bird off a tree, and he was doing it now. Exclaimingly, but straight from the shoulder. His theme, as announced, was crooks. And he'd ought to know a lot about them, Happy reflected.

In the middle of the discourse, a gun-shot sounded, followed by a wild shouting, and more guns serenaded the stars. Then a full score of men were milling outside the tent, discharging their guns wildly. They began circling the tent, and there was no chance to go on talking. Gentleman Jim relaxed, waiting. The boys wanted their fun.

All at once a horseman came surging in at the rear of the tent, where the canvas was tied back to make a doorway. Behind him came the others. Faces lost their color as the audience drew back. Women and children were close to panic.

The audience gasped as the professor stepped from behind the speaker's stand, directly into the path of the plunging cayuses. There was confused maelstrom, then the horses were sliding to a halt. Gentleman Jim had the bridle rein of the lead horse, close up to the bit. With his other hand he grabbed the rider's arm in what looked like an act, it worked so smoothly. He jerked the rider out of the saddle, on to his feet in front of him, swinging the cayuse sidewise blocking the others.

This man was bigger than himself, and there was no trace of humor in those agate eyes or leathery jaw. Quite the contrary.

"When you come seeking personal instruction," Gentleman Jim said, "remember to act like a gentleman. Since you forgot, turn around and apologize to the crowd—on your knees!"

foamite, which makes a heavy suds when mixed with water, was used to smother the fires in the other tanks.

P.S. Lenox, assistant plant manager, said there was no way of knowing how much fuel was destroyed. The tanks are used in the refining process and fuel levels are not kept constant.

About 350 men were working in the plant at the time. However, spacing of the tanks and the protective dikes kept the flames from spreading to the refining buildings. An automatic pump house was destroyed.

The refining plant is away from residential areas and is surrounded only by other refineries.

THE FARAWAY LOOK
WINNIPEG, Man. —(AP)— Justice Ralph Maybank of the court of King's bench believes Canadians can get a better picture of their country when they get away from it for a while. In an address here he said he had found this to be true while serving as a delegate to the United States.

Gas, Oil Tanks Blow Up, Burn

TRENTON, Mich. (UP)—Eleven huge gasoline and oil refining tanks blew up or burned Wednesday shooting spectacular sheets of fire hundreds of feet in the air and covering a 10-mile area with a heavy pall of black smoke.

No one was injured in the chain-reaction blasts and resulting fires at the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. refining plant about 20 miles south of Detroit.

Some of the tanks were ripped open like sardine cans. Others melted in the intense heat and squatted at angles inside the wall protecting other parts of the plant.

First to let go was a 10,000-barrel tank containing a mixture of gasoline and oil. The blast set off other tanks in succession, like mammoth fire crackers.

The heat and danger of other blasts delayed fire fighters in getting close enough to determine how many of 10 steel tanks behind one dike, each containing 40,000 to 80,000 barrels, were ruined.

More than four hours after the original blast at 4:50 a.m. one 70,000-gallon tank containing a gasoline-oil mixture still was belching smoke and flames. Fire in the others had either burned out or was smothered by fire crews.

Concerned Soldier-To-Be Asks Truman If Sacrifices 'In Vain'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—Paul K. McDonald of Newton, 19-year-old Harvard student, told President Truman today he isn't afraid of dying. But he doesn't want to die in vain.

Paul had a friend, Dwight Hewitt, who was killed in action in Korea 15 months ago. Now that Paul himself expects to be drafted in 1952, he wonders whether Dwight's death was meaningless.

So Paul wrote this letter to President Truman:

"If I am called to service, will my devotion, and perhaps life, be wasted too? I do not believe that patriotism is the unique prerogative of prominent men; I believe that even those who quietly die for their country must be considered patriots.

"Are these patriots dying for a nation that does not appreciate? I am anxious to serve my country in any way that will accomplish anything; but I am not anxious to die for the sake of dying.

"It appears to me that just as a man can betray his nation by failing to serve her in time of need, so can a nation betray a man by depriving his death of its purpose. I would hate to believe that we, who serve America, are being betrayed while we serve. Yet I cannot see any alternative.

"This is what I humbly ask Mr. Truman: That you show me the truth of the matter, that you explain why we do as we do, so that I, and others like me, can face the future with conviction and serve our country with the confidence that our sacrifice will not be in vain."

Paul said Dwight and other American casualties seem to have been deprived of vindication by their own leaders who forbade them to fight to the fullest of their capacity.

"Are the fears of our Allies being given more protection than the lives of our citizens?" he asked.

"Or are we afraid of the Communists? If so, why?"

"Is giving them more time to prepare actually going to increase our chance of winning?"

"Why have we been humiliating ourselves so long by seeking a truce with people who have repeatedly stated that a treaty is only binding as long as it serves their purposes?"

"Why were the Communists allowed to slaughter thousands of innocent prisoners with impunity?"

These questions, he told the President, have led him to "wonder if a great injustice is being done to American youths like myself."

"This," he told Mr. Truman, "is the question which I most respectfully beg you to resolve for me."

Describes Mines As Key Weapon

Use of mines by United States Naval forces in the last world war, was discussed before the Greenville Naval Reserveists Tuesday night at their regular weekly session, by B. Smith.

"Found for pound the mine was the most destructive single weapon employed by Naval forces in the last war," Smith commented.

"The reason for this statement is that there is practically no loss of energy at the time of explosion and all of the explosion directly affects the target.

The magnetic mine was brought out in 1939 by the Germans and was quite effective until control measures were developed to combat it, Smith said.

The mine is detonated by the magnetism in a steel ship. Thus a method of neutralizing the current generating from a ship was devised by use of coils through which current passed and constant control of the magnetic force caused by the earth by the same means.

However there are other types of mines which can not be combated in that manner, Smith said in closing.

Well-Prepared For Cold Winter

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea (AP)—The captured Chinese soldier was all set for a cold Korean winter.

Over several layers of underwear and a warm quilted uniform he wore a fine double-breasted overcoat. New combat boots and a new winter cap kept his feet and head warm and dry.

"What's your job?" asked an interpreter.

"Supply sergeant."

Plans Advancing For Police Ball

Plans for the annual Greenville Policeman Ball are moving along at a steady pace, according to information coming from that department today.

Blue Barron and his band, featuring the "music of yesterday and today," will be the main attraction for the warehouse dance which will be held in Cannon's Warehouse on Dickinson Avenue on the night of December 13th.

Dancing will start at nine o'clock and last until one.

Barron, who has just finished a tour of the more outstanding hotels and night spots around New York City, is currently on a swing down through the Southland.

When his band plays here Thursday night, it will be his second engagement in this region in less than two years. He was featured at a warehouse dance more than a year ago and brought a packed audience to dance by his music.

Reports on the sale of advanced tickets to the event were said to be very good. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Greenville Police Department or various business houses of the city.

Warm Weather

Unusually mild weather continues to prevail and the highest temperature recorded in the Greenville area yesterday was 71 degrees. Lowest last night, 53, and at 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 57. The weather was clear during the forenoon today.

The normal low temperature for this part of the country should be about 36 degrees, Mrs. Carl E. Malden, local observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, stated.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 51 degrees. Lowest that night, 30, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 34—two degrees above freezing.

Four Fined For Seining Practice

A Beaufort county man and his wife and two other men were each fined $25 and costs (about $8) in Magistrate W. T. Stowe's Court in Washington Tuesday for seining game fish in Tranter's Creek and Tar River.

District Game Protectors J. O. Teel of Greenville and C. B. Spain, Jr., of Washington, arrested them about daybreak Tuesday. They charged the defendants with seining game fish on the Beaufort and Pitt sides of the countyline.

The defendants are Charley Woolard and his wife and W. F. Fleming of the Blount's Creek community, and Henry Dougherty of Washington.

Testimony was that the defendants had out about 1,000 yards of drop net in L. water. Further testimony was that Mrs. Woolard was rowing the boat while her husband manipulated the nets.

It is not against the state game and fish law to seine for mullet between the Washington bridge over Pamlico River and Tar River at Grimesland, Teel testified. It is against the law to seine in nets any game fish. He further testified that the party had some perch—a game fish—in their catch.

Food Prices Hit Peak On Nov. 14

WASHINGTON (AP)—Retail food prices reached a new high on Nov. 15, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

The bureau's index hit 231.2 based on an eight-city survey. The index uses the 1935-1939 average as 100.

Between Oct. 29 and Nov. 15 prices for fresh fruits and vegetables rose 7.8 per cent, dairy products 2.2 per cent, and lamb 1.5 per cent.

The Nov. 15 index was about 14 per cent above pre-Korean prices.

PLAYWRIGHT AILING BOSTON (AP)—Playwright Eugene O'Neill, whose works won him the Nobel and three Pulitzer prizes, was reported in poor condition today at Faulkner Hospital.

Executives Club To Hear Woman Speak

Lucile LaChapelle, speaker, radio broadcaster, and voice specialist, will be the guest speaker at the Executives Club Tuesday night, December 11, at the East Carolina College Dining Room.

Ever since she entered the University of Wisconsin, Miss LaChapelle has had a great interest in the art of speaking both on the platform and in private conversation. She enrolled in the School of Speech at the university and was showered with more honors than any other woman who had taken speech.

While in college, Miss LaChapelle represented the University of Wisconsin in the Northern Oratorical League and was the second woman in the history of the school to do so.

After completing college, she taught speech and dramatics for a number of years to high school and adult groups and then branched out as a speaker for a public utility corporation and as a broadcaster on the radio.

After her marriage, she gave up her regular positions and did free-lancing. In line with this she found she had a lot of time to devote to the platform, take longer lists of speaking engagements and to visit sections of the country she has never seen before.

However, she has continued to fill a lot of spot radio engagements so that she would be able to "keep her hand in."

No 'Pressure' From HST

United Press White House Writer KEY WEST, Fla. (UP)—White House staff members reported today that President Truman brought no pressure on Charles Oliphant to resign as chief counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

While the White House was aware of Oliphant's quibbling before he made the fact public yesterday, the internal revenue official was not on the carpet at the President's office, nor had Mr. Truman ever heard anything about Oliphant that he felt warranted investigation.

Oliphant said in Washington yesterday he had to resign because he found it "beyond the limits of... endurance to protect my name and reputation and the prestige of the office I hold in the face of baseless and scurrilous charges."

White House officials pointed out that Oliphant's case was markedly different from that of T. Lamar Caudle who was asked to resign as assistant attorney general and the head of the Justice Department tax division. That amounted to outright dismissal because Caudle was given no choice.

Oliphant's name entered the investigation of Caudle while, testimony showed that the internal revenue counsel had joined Caudle on a free plane trip to Florida.

Mr. Truman was aware of this testimony when he said last week that he knew of nothing to warrant action in the case of Oliphant.

Meantime, the President's advisers took an arms length attitude toward printed suggestions that some form of special commission be established to ferret out wrongdoers within the government. The advisers said that with the internal revenue investigation at fever pitch in Congress, the White House had no intention of making any sort of subsidiary move at present.

Asked about the prospects for establishment of a special investigative commission, one White House official said it was "too early" to consider such a proposal in any detail.

Mr. Truman at the same time has not changed his basic idea that wrongdoers should be rooted out of the government as rapidly as possible. He said last week that any federal worker who knows of malfeasance and fails to report it is a partner to the crime.

DARING ROBBERY PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Two bandits held up an employe of a cigar store located across the street from city hall and police headquarters last night and fled with $350.

Knows Logistics And The Ladies

YOKOHAMA (AP)—There's one American infantry private in Korea who knows logistics—and the female heart.

He wrote the Christmas shopping service established here and ordered eight identical gifts for eight girls in the United States. With each he sent this message: "I will love you always."

After her marriage, she gave up her regular positions and did free-lancing. In line with this she found she had a lot of time to devote to the platform, take longer lists of speaking engagements and to visit sections of the country she has never seen before.

However, she has continued to fill a lot of spot radio engagements so that she would be able to "keep her hand in."

Teen-Age Bride Learns Money Is Not Happiness

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"Money doesn't make you happy," 16-year-old Martha Morris De Vigier sighed today.

Martha ran away from a veritable mountain of money yesterday after filing suit in San Francisco for separate maintenance against Roland De Vigier, 28, Swiss industrialist.

In her suit, however, she asked for $10,000 a month support.

The De Vigiers were married in Paris three weeks ago after a brief courtship. They met in suburban Torrance while De Vigier was investigating a site for a new industrial plant.

After a lavish honeymoon trip, the De Vigiers returned here and were staying in an expensive hotel when the bride walked out.

Reports Results Found In Leaf Variety Tests

County Tobacco Specialist Sam Weeks today released the results of a tobacco variety test he conducted this year.

The test, which was conducted in cooperation with J. B. Speight of Winterville, was designed to determine the production in yield and value per acre of various varieties, both susceptible and resistant.

In the resistant varieties test, Weeks compared Dixie Bright 101 with Dixie Bright 102, experimenting with two different spacing between the plants—18 inches and 22 inches. Dixie Bright 101 planted 18 inches apart produced 1,746 pounds per acre, with a total acre value of $1,037.67. The same variety planted 22 inches apart produced 1,605 pounds per acre, with a value of $966.56.

Dixie Bright 102 planted 18 inches apart produced 1,441 pounds per acre, with a value of $778.46. Planted 22 inches apart, Dixie Bright 102 produced 1,272 pounds per acre, valued at $748.37.

Both varieties are resistant to "black shank" and Granville wilt. Both "101" and "102" proved good resistance to Granville wilt, but

"101" proved only moderate resistance to "black shank." "In the test, Dixie Bright 101 proved to have about the same resistance to "black shank" as Oxford 1," Weeks said. "The test also proved that Dixie Bright 102 has a much higher resistance to "black shank" than either "101" or Oxford 1."

Oxford 1 planted 22 inches apart produced 1,320 pounds per acre, valued at $796.63. Other resistant varieties included in the test were Oxford 26 and Dixie Bright 27, which are resistant to Granville wilt only.

The susceptible varieties tested were all planted 22 inches apart. Bottom Special was the heaviest producer, yielding 1,881 pounds per acre, with a value of $1,178.11. Virginia Gold produced 1,830 pounds, valued at $1,169.63 per acre. Other susceptible varieties tested were Golden Harvest and Mammoth Gold.

"To get best results from Oxford 1 or Dixie Bright 101, they should be grown in two or three year rotations," the tobacco specialist emphasized.
