Sabrejets Down 13 MIGs In Big Day Of Air Fighting

American Fighters Outnumbered 5-2; One U.S. Plane Lost; UN Troops And Tanks Stage Two Major Raids Deep Into No-Man's Land, And Return

8TH ARMY HQ., Korea (UP)—Outnumbered American Sabrejet fighter planes destroyed 13 Russian MIG-15 jets today and damaged three more in a series of blazing aerial battles over north Korea.

The sole American loss was one Sabrejet which caught fire and crashed.

In Thursday's fighting, 64 Sabrejets battled 145 of the MIGs to win the biggest jet-to-jet victory of the war.

With the odds nearly five to two against them, the toll of the American airmen was 13 MIGs shot down, two so seriously damaged that they probably crashed and one damaged less seriously.

Never before in the history of combat solely between jet planes has one side lost so many aircraft in a single day. However, U.S. B-29 Superfortresses and escorting American jets together shot down 13 MIGs last April 12.

United Nations troops and tanks also took the offensive on the ground. They staged two major raids deep into no-man's-land on the western and west-central fronts and killed scores of enemy troops before returning to their own lines.

The twin raids were the largest-scale Allied attacks since the 8th Army issued its famed "no aggression" directive two weeks ago. Despite the raids, the 8th Army insisted there had been no change in the directive.

The first of the day's air battles saw 36 Sabrejets pitted against an estimated 100 sleek Communist MIG-15s in a 20-minute dogfight just south of Sinanju.

Four enemy jets were sent crashing to earth in that battle. One MIG was damaged in the dogfight.

On the ground, tank-supported infantrymen with fixed bayonets made their second big offensive raid into no-man's-land in 24 hours.

This time the armored task force stabbed 2,000 yards—more than a mile—in front of the U.N. line northwest of Kumhwa on the western front in an attempt to encircle and trap an enemy outpost on a peak.

The Reds fell back to their main line of resistance, however, before the raiders closed their ring about the peak. The Communists called in artillery and mortar fire on the U.N. force and it returned to the Allied line.

Another strong U.N. tank infantry force swept across the Sachon River farther west Wednesday and nearly surrounded an enemy-held hill south of Panmunjom, where a justice negotiators are meeting.

An 8th Army commando reported the Allies also repulsed three light Communist probing attacks on the east-central front and clashed briefly with an enemy unit of undetermined strength northwest of Korangpo on the western front.

An 8th Army spokesman said the Allies killed 2,225 Communist troops, wounded 1,186 and captured 77 prisoners last week.

Van Fleet Says Army 'Has Won'

Discount's Big Enemy Ground Force; Balance Lies Now In Air Power

WASHINGTON (UP)—Bert K. Naster, accused in an alleged tax shakedown of $500,000, asserted today "it's very evident now" that the whole shakedown story was "concocted."

The Florida businessman testified that he never any time discussed money or taxes with Abraham Teitelbaum, Chicago attorney who once "sprung" the late Al Capone from prison.

Teitelbaum has told a House subcommittee investigating government tax scandals that Naster and Frank Nathan offered to "fix" his $130,000 tax case for $500,000, and warned he would go to jail if he didn't pay.

Charles Oliphant, resigned chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, was a stiff ally for Naster today. He has denied involvement of himself as "baseless and scurrilous."

Naster denied Teitelbaum's story in full. "I never discussed money with him at any time under any circumstances," he testified. "I was not interested in Teitelbaum. I did not like the man and wanted no part of him."

"It's very evident now that Teitelbaum concocted his story," Naster also flatly contradicted earlier testimony by his alleged accomplice, Nathan, who has said Teitelbaum told him he advised Dillon and that this might cost him $125,000 or more.

He said Nathan called him collect from New York and told him he (Nathan) was being accused by Teitelbaum of trying to shake the attorney down for $500,000. Naster said Nathan asked what he knew about this.

"I told him I didn't know anything about it, and why was he calling me?" Naster testified. He said he couldn't recall what Nathan's answer was.

Nathan's story was that a friend told him, and he relayed to Naster.

Truman Says Clean-Up Of Government Slated 'Soon'

Says Shakedown Story Concocted

Accused Member Of Tax Plot Clique Denies Teitelbaum Story In Full; Contradicts Version Of Alleged Accomplice

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman declared today that any federal employee who accepts fees for outside service should get out, and that he intends to take executive action on the problem very soon.

Mr. Truman refused to say at a press conference just what he will do, but said it may be this week. And he does not expect any changes in his cabinet.

"Wrongdoers have no house with me," he said, permitting direct quotation "no matter who they are or how big they are."

He did not say what part in the cleanup would be played by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, with whom he conferred yesterday. Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath was also present at the secret conference.

He and McGrath had different views of the tax case operations of T. Lamar Caudle, ousted assistant attorney general.

McGrath testified earlier this week before a House subcommittee that he knew nothing of the outside activities of Caudle for which he was fired by the President.

Mr. Truman, however, said he had been on to Caudle for a long time and had been ready to fire him sometime in advance of the investigation by the subcommittee.

The President said his program would consist in general of two parts:

1. Legislation to meet the situation. This will be outlined in his state of the union message to Congress in January.

2. Direct action: "The Chief Executive, himself, this to come shortly."

President Declines To Reveal Considered Steps, But Action May Come This Week; No Changes In Cabinet Expected; Says He Long Knew Of Caudle Activities Before Actual Dismissal

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman declared today that any federal employee who accepts fees for outside service should get out, and that he intends to take executive action on the problem very soon.

When a reporter pointed out that McGrath saw nothing wrong with Caudle's activities, the President said with urgent swiftness that he does not think government employees should have outside interests and that he expected to do something about it shortly.

The President said he thought it is unethical for man in a government position of responsibility to accept fees for outside activities. He said if these people wanted to do this sort of thing, they should leave the government and open up a law office.

Caudle got a $5,000 commission in sale of an airplane. The President maintained that the current rate of firings in the Internal Revenue Bureau is running just about what it does in an average year, except that it is now reaching... to higher places than usual.

He has been disposing of wrongdoers as rapidly as they came to his attention, but Congress came along after the fact and made the headlines, he said.

Asked for examples of his continuing cleanup, he pointed out that he had dispensed with the services of several cabinet officers.

Mr. Truman said that Democrat Chairman Frank J. McKinney described him accurately when he said the Chief Executive was "angry at being sold down the river" by government workers disloyal to him.

Who wouldn't feel that way, the President said, when a man takes an oath and does not live up to it?

Asked whether that applied to Caudle, the President said it applied to all of the men who had been fired.

Asked whether McKinney would continue as chairman of the national committee, the President said quickly that McKinney suited him right down to the ground.

He added that it pleased him when the newspapers disliked something he had done because it convinced him he was right. He said he agreed with McKinney that corruption will not be an issue in 1952, because it will all be cleaned up long before.

"If there's nothing new about this, then why are you taking this drastic action?" he asked.

The President said he wanted to have the situation completely developed to show that most government employees are honest citizens and he does not want them to be smeared by a dishonest few.

The President declined to discuss McKinney's $68-for-41 stock deal involving the defunct Empire Traction Corp., saying McKinney had covered that situation clearly himself.

Mr. Truman indicated last night that he also may confer soon with Secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder. After greeting Snyder and Secretary of State Dean Acheson at National Airport, the President turned to Snyder and said seriously: "I want to see you."

"Yes, sir," Snyder replied. The tax-collecting Internal Revenue Bureau, which has been torn by widespread scandals, is part of the Treasury Department.

Mr. Truman was scheduled to meet with Acheson this afternoon to hear a first hand account of the secretary's high level Atlantic Pact meetings. The President told Acheson and Snyder last night that they had done "a great job."

Reds Back Out Of Geneva Accord

Disclaim Responsibility Imposed By 1950 Agreement For Humane Treatment Of Prisoners; Talks Still Deadlocked

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The Communists backed down today on a 1950 promise to comply with the Geneva Convention on humane treatment of war prisoners.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Song Cho told United Nations truce negotiators in a subcommittee meeting that the Reds had not pledged themselves to observe the "convention as a whole."

He rejected for the third time in as many days a demand that he list war prisoners in Communist hands, disclose the location of prison camps and permit international Red Cross representatives to visit them.

In another subcommittee, the Reds again refused to accept a seven-point U.N. program for policing the armistice. U.N. delegate Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges bluntly warned that the Allies never will yield to the Communist demand for the right to build new airfields during a truce.

Both subcommittees reported "no progress" during Thursday's sessions. They will meet again at 11 a.m. Friday (9 p.m. Thursday EST).

Schuman Plan Is Voted In France

Assembly Gives Plenary Biggest Majority Vote To Date

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly ratified today the Schuman Plan for pooling Western Europe's coal and steel resources.

France is the second nation to ratify the plan to lump together for 50 years the $4,000,000,000 heavy industries of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The Netherlands previously had ratified it.

The Assembly supported premier Rene Pleven's four-month-old right-of-center government in two separate votes.

First it gave Pleven a 377 to 235 vote of confidence in gagging a Communist filibuster on the plan. The 142 vote majority was the largest Pleven has received. Only the Communists, members of De Gaulle's Rally of the French People and a few rightwing independents voted against the gag.

Then the assembly gave Pleven another big majority in ratifying the pool program.

The Schuman Plan debate began a year ago. Only Tuesday night, the assembly gave Pleven a 376 to 240 vote of confidence in defeating a rightist proposal to postpone further debate for four months.

Pleven's government stood firmly behind the plan, which was devised by French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. The coal and steel pool along with the European around which European unity is being built.

They're Willing

PARIS (AP)—The Economic Committee of the U.N. Assembly, over strong U.S. objections, adopted today a small power resolution proposing establishment of a huge new world development fund.

A United States delegate had warned the committee U. S. support for the project could not be counted upon. The vote was 28 for, 20 against and 9 abstentions. The Western Big Three voted against it, the Russian bloc abstained.

Rep. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), U.S. delegate, said the plan wouldn't work because only the United States has any money at all for it and it already is deeper into the purse than any other country.

"That's diplomatic language," he said, "but the truth."

Murder Verdict Sought In Poison Whiskey Deaths

ATLANTA (AP)—The state of Georgia asked for a verdict of murder against John R. (Fats) Hardy, after two days of testimony in which he was blamed for the 38 poison liquor deaths here in October.

The defense of the 360-pound convict was wrapped up late yesterday.

Superior Court Judge E. E. Andrews said he would charge the jury and submit Hardy's fate to the 12 men sometime this morning.

Hardy, 44, is charged with murder in the death of John W. Blount, a Negro who died after drinking a concoction of wood alcohol, water, and moonshine whiskey.

In addition, Hardy is under indictment for murder in four other cases.

Mossadegh Foes Target Of Mass Demonstration

TEHRAN (AP)—Some 30,000 nationalist supporters of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh massed before parliament today and roared "death to the enemies of Mossadegh!" the crowd appeared menacing, but broke up later without violence.

Inside the parliament building, the Majlis (lower house) discreetly decided to postpone until Sunday a public meeting originally scheduled for today. Instead they met in secret session.

Watchful police and troops lined up huge majlis square during the rally, announced as a demonstration against "British intrigue."

However, most of the threats and vilifications were directed at Iranian opponents of the aged premier who led the successful fight to nationalize Iran's British-controlled oil industry.

Fire Forces 200 Hotel Guests To Flee Into Cold

FARGO, N. D. (UP)—Fire swept through the five-story Earle Hotel in downtown Fargo at breakfast time today, forcing some 200 guests to flee into 13-below zero weather.

Hotel manager Alfred Merritt feared an elderly crippled woman who lived on the third floor, might have been trapped. He said he was unable to locate her after the fire broke out.

Guests poured down stairways and across the street to the railroad depot in orderly fashion.

The fire sent great clouds of smoke billowing from the hotel. It spread quickly through upper stories and flames "not upward from the roof of the structure."

Famous Singer Of Blues Is Dead

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Mildred Bailey, the singer whose "Old Rockin' Chair" song made her famous two decades ago, died last night.

The blues singer with the slight, throaty voice—with a special delivery which deeply stirred her listeners—suffered a heart ailment some time ago. She became ill the day before Thanksgiving in Detroit, where she had a night club engagement.

She had been resting at her home in nearby Stormville when stricken again and taken to St. Francis Hospital here. She gave her age as 48.

'Only Helping Constituent' Says, Congressman In Fraud Probing

THOMASVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Rep. Frank W. Boykin (D-Ala.) says he was only helping a constituent when he introduced W. P. Stutts, now involved in an alleged $800,000 bank shakedown, to the RFC.

The congressman's name was mentioned when the 45-year-old South Alabama lumberman and two officials of Thomasville's only bank were arrested by the FBI yesterday.

Stutts Lumber Industries, Inc., of which Stutts is president and owner, holds a timber cutting contract on Boykin family property near McIntosh, Ala.

The Department of Justice was asked by RFC Administrator W. Stuart Swinington three months ago to investigate alleged irregularities in a $455,758 loan to the lumber firm.

Swinington told a Washington news conference last September that the RFC had reason to believe there were misstatements of fact and other irregularities in the loan.

He said more than $300,000 of the loan had been used to "ball out" the Thomasville Bank and Trust Company.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said an investigation showed Stutts received the benefit of $700,000 of

Urge 'Guardian' Of Arms Outlays

WASHINGTON (UP)—The National Planning Assn. urged again today that a special civilian "watchdog" be set up to prevent "careless or unplanned" military spending.

The association said there is danger of serious economic "distortion" resulting from the rearmament program. While some economic changes are unavoidable, it said, distortions caused by "careless or unplanned" military spending "cannot be tolerated."

Start Of Bloody Riot In Iran

Waving strips of metal and cudgels of wood, pro-Mossadegh Iranian nationalists (foreground), rush toward the Majlis (House of Parliament) in Tehran to tangle with so-called Red sympathizers. The clash ended in a bloody riot in which at least eight persons were killed and more than 200 hurt. The scene was repeated as frenzied Mossadegh supporters stormed the Majlis while inside the building pro and anti Mossadegh forces engaged in violent battle. (AP Wirephoto).

Young People Participate In The King's Daughters

On December 11 at 8:00 p.m. Miss Bert Quinley, Mrs. E. L. Baker, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. S. T. White, Miss Mamie Ruth Tunstall and Mrs. C. A. Bowen were hostesses to the Patient Circle of The King's Daughters at the home of Miss Quinley.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Clara Mays Shackell, in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. M. S. ...

The Circle repeated the prayer of the order and a devotion was given by Mrs. Sam White, who used the Christmas story according to Luke's gospel. This period of meditation was followed by the group singing of Christmas carols.

The minutes were read and approved and the roll was called. Reports from the various committees were given and appointments of new committees for the coming year were read.

Mrs. Sam White also had charge of the program. She delighted members with the reading of a paper on "Christmas In Many Lands." In her remarks, she brought out the fact that the birth of Jesus is almost universally celebrated and all over the world at the same time children are waiting for gifts from St. Nicholas or his equivalent.

A charming touch to her program was added when she introduced eight girls who were dressed to represent children from Mexico, China, Italy, France, Spain, Germany, the Netherlands and England. Each one carried a doll which was typical of the country she represented, and each told of the costumes and customs of the land.

Pictures were taken at the meeting of this attractive group of young people, who were Anna Louise White, Margarita, Mexican; Mary May, Meling, Chinese; Lee Lang Harrell, Maria, Italian; Elizabeth Lissett, French; Linda Morson, Rosita, Spanish; Sallie Ross Simpson, Heidi, German; Lou Ficklen, Queen Wilhelmina, Dutch; Mary French Hayes, Princess Elizabeth, English.

At the conclusion of the program the hostesses served an ice course with cake. The refreshment plates were decorated with miniature Santa Clauses.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

December 13, 1911

The paper balloons look pretty enough as they go up, but as they carry fire in them, there is danger of a conflagration if they should fall on a shingle roof.

The time to do your Christmas shopping is here. Are you going to wait till the 22nd or 23rd to do it? We sincerely trust that you will not. Remember that Christmas gladness comes to all. That the clerk at any store, the rural delivery man, the express man and everyone connected with Christmas sales is just as human as you are and will enjoy his Christmas at home with his family if you only have a little forethought and don't rush him to exhaustion Christmas Eve. "Don't wish for others what you would not yourself wish."

Kiwanis Members To Bring Toys To Friday Meeting
Members of the Greenville Kiwanis Club are expected to take toys to the meeting Friday night for The King's Daughters.

The Kiwanians donate toys and novelties to The King's Daughters each year. This organization, in turn, distributes them to worthy children at Christmas. "Red" Clifford is chairman of the Underprivileged Child Committee. This committee has charge of providing Christmas cheer for deserving children and destitute families. A representative of the organization will be at the meeting to accept the toys.

Hunter B. Keck will have charge of the program. President H. Glenn Haney will preside.

Below Freezing

The temperature in the Greenville area dropped below freezing last night and there was a heavy frost.

Highest temperature here yesterday, 51 degrees. Lowest last night, 28, four degrees below freezing, and at 8 a.m. the mercury stood at 25.

Yesterday a year ago the highest temperature here was 48. Lowest that night, 31, eleven degrees below freezing, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 25.

Miss Jane Massey Honored At Buffet Supper

At 6:30 on Monday night Miss Kay Van Norwick was hostess at a buffet supper to compliment Miss Jane Massey.

Invited guests were close friends of the honoree and members of her family.

A color note of red and white was observed by the hostess in her choice of flowers and table appointments. Scarlet gladioli, fall foliage and pyracantha berries with varied arrangements of white tapers were used throughout the rooms on the lower floor. A particularly lovely mantel arrangement was formed with banks of greenery and graduated candles.

Guests were welcomed at the door by Miss Massey and Mrs. Van Norwick, mother of the hostess. Assisting in receiving and serving were Mrs. Ollie Van Norwick Jr., Mrs. Clara Robertson and Miss Janice Robertson of Bethel.

In the dining room a massive bouquet of red carnations and white candles graced the center of the table from which the supper was served. Poinsettias and candles were used on the buffet. At one end was a silver platter holding thinly sliced ham, while at the other was an accompanying red congealed salad. The dessert course of cherry tarts topped with whipped cream further emphasized the red and white color motif, which was suggestive of the approaching holiday season.

After the supper was served, the guests stayed for a conversational hour.

Jaycees To Hear Yuletide Reports
Important business matters will highlight tonight's meeting of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

President Dan Saleed said the club will hear reports from committees working on the Christmas projects for the Jaycees. There will be an induction of two new members into the club and other routine business.

The Jaycees meet at Respass-James Barbecue house at 6:30.

Tuesday Social Honors Couple

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Grooms of Lumberton entertained at the home of Mrs. Grooms' parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Duncan, on Tuesday night to honor Miss Jane Massey and Witcher Dudley.

The host and hostess received informally between the hours of 8:00-9:30 p.m. in a setting suggestive of the approaching marriage of the honorees, who were at the door with dual cakes, olives, rolls, chicken salad puffs and minis were served. Miss Lella Higgs poured the punch, and assisting in the dining room were Misses Marty Hadley and Mary Ann Smoot.

Invited guests were members of the wedding party, families and close friends of the hosts and the honoree.

red candles and greenery lent atmosphere to the scene. On the mantel was a lovely bank of greens and red berries arranged around burning candles.

Refreshments were offered the guests in the dining room, which was decorated in bridal green and white. The centerpiece on the table was formed of white snapdragons, daisies, graceful fern and white tapers. Punch, chess straws, individual cakes, olive rolls, chicken salad puffs and minis were served. Miss Lella Higgs poured the punch, and assisting in the dining room were Misses Marty Hadley and Mary Ann Smoot.

Invited guests were members of the wedding party, families and close friends of the hosts and the honoree.

Greenville Mills Industry Discussed At Club

At the December general meeting of the Woman's Club last Friday, the members enjoyed the fourth in a series of programs on Greenville Industry.

Mr. A. O. Therkildsen, assistant general manager of Greenville Mills Inc., very ably and interestingly described and explained the work the plant carries on here in the making of wool yarn which is used exclusively by the Art Loom Carpet Co., located in Philadelphia.

He prefaced his discussion with a brief resume of the incidents which brought about the mill and its location here. Until this plant opened Art Loom had purchased its yarn from other mills already in operation. In early 1950 the carpet company decided to create a mill of its own to furnish only itself with yarn needed for its products. As a result, a new corporation was created; and after investigation and planning, it was located in Greenville.

Mr. Therkildsen, with his family, moved to Greenville in the fall of 1950 and the mill began actual operation in May, 1951. In October a second shift was added and at present there are 100 employees working a regular 5-day week with a yearly payroll of about $200,000.

It is possible that at some future time a third shift will be put on to provide all of the soft twist yarns used by Art Loom for its carpets of velvet pile.

At present two-thirds of this yarn is produced here, along with some of the hard twist yarns used for the border finished carpets.

The wool used in these carpets must come from rugged sheep found in rough mountains of other countries, said the speaker. Argentina supplies this mill with the bulk of the wool used, though some is supplied from various other countries among which are India, China and Egypt. The carpet yarn is a blend of six different types of wool.

Mr. Therkildsen described the operation of the mill, which receives its raw products only partially cleaned. Here it is first "scoured" to remove all foreign matter and grease. It then goes to the dye vats which hold 600-750 lbs. where it is "raw-stock-dyed" a foundation color. The various types of wools which take the dye in different shades then pass through several "blenders" to get an even color. The next step is to add oils and card the wool, from which operation it goes to the spinning frames which draw out the wool into yarn, giving it strength and twist.

The finished skeins of yarn are then bunched into 50 lb. bales and shipped by motor transfer to the Art Loom Co.

Mr. Russell Brings Message At Chatham Club Luncheon

The Chatham Book Club held its December meeting on Tuesday, December 11, at 1:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Carl Adams.

Assisting Mrs. Adams as hostesses were Mrs. N. S. Beard, Mrs. E. R. Conway and Mrs. C. E. Blair. Guests were welcomed at the door by the hostesses and invited into the festively decorated home which was festive with a Christmas tree and other seasonal ornaments. The decorations provided a charming setting for the Christmas meeting of the club.

After serving tomato juice cocktails and cheese straws in the living room, the guests were invited into the dining room, where from one end of a beautifully appointed table Mrs. Conway served barbecued chicken while at the other end Mrs. Beard served a congealed salad.

The guests were seated at auxiliary tables elsewhere in the home, which were centered with miniature Christmas trees. Places were marked with sprigs of holly. Hot rolls, coffee and dessert were served by Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Blair.

Rev. and Mrs. Leon Russell were special guests for the meeting. Following the luncheon, Mrs. A. C. Ruffin, program chairman, presented Mr. Russell, who gave a short discourse on the significance and meaning of the approaching holiday season.

Mr. Russell declared that he felt that Christmas with its deeper meaning and its spiritual message

Mr. Therkildsen stated that there are only five skilled workers here—a carding overseer, two foremen of the spinning operation and two dyers. The remainder of the employees are drawn from Greenville, many of whom already had some knowledge and experience in the cotton spinning here years ago.

In concluding his talk, he invited members to examine the products of the various processes on display and graciously offered to arrange guided tours for individuals or small groups if requested.

During the short business session, Mrs. Bill Sermons, vice-president, presided in the absence of Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, president. The Garden Club chairman, Mrs. W. J. Stell, announced that the annual Christmas tour of six Greenville homes would be held from 2:00-4:00 p.m. and 7:00-9:00 p.m. Friday, Dec. 14.

Suggested Route Of Christmas Tour Announced

People who are planning to take the Christmas Tour on Friday, which is sponsored by the Greenville Garden Club, are requested to register first at the Woman's Club.

The hours are from 2:00-4:00 p.m. and 7:00-9:00 p.m. From there they will go to Brook-green where the first home to be visited is that of Mrs. A. C. Ruffin. Here will be emphasized general Christmas decorations for the home, with doorway, mantel and table appointments especially stressed. The next home to be visited is that of Mrs. V. C. Fleming Jr., located in the same neighborhood. This home will display decorations appropriate for a children's Christmas. Mothers will find many attractive ideas for fixing their homes for their own small fry in preparation for the annual visit from St. Nick. The decorations in the home of Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, which is scheduled next, have been done by her young teen-age daughter, Hannah, as a home economics project. This should prove of particular interest to mothers of adolescents who might be inveigled into relieving the mothers of this phase of holiday preparation.

Terrorist Dies By His Own Gun

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—An Indian Communist terrorist was shot to death by his own rifle which he was swinging in a brutal beating of a fellow Communist in their jungle hideout. The story came to light in a letter found when security forces found the body of another Indian terrorist.

The tough guy was striking the other Communist with the rifle which he was holding by the barrel. He forgot the safety catch was not applied and the trigger mechanism was jerked loose.

Raccoon Hooked On Fishing Trip

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UP)—A fisherman casting in the south branch of the Potomac River got the surprise of his life, the State Conservation Commission said.

After a long cast for bass, he felt a heave on his line. The fisherman had visions of a giant bass. What he got, the commission said, was a bedraggled raccoon which had been feeding on the opposite bank, got caught by the hook and hauled through the river.

Mrs. Fleming Hostess To Club At Christmas Meeting

Mrs. J. L. Fleming entertained the End of the Century Club for its Christmas meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Her home beautifully decorated with Christmas scenes, candles, evergreens and berries was a festive background for the most interesting and inspiring program given by Mr. James Fleming.

In his topic, "Christmas in Other Lands," Mr. Fleming discussed customs and traditions from early times up to the present, citing some of the unique customs and practices in various countries. He dwelt at length on the observance of Christmas in France and showed a film strip which is used to teach French children the story of the birth of Christ.

Following his talk, Mrs. John Moss accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Hearn delighted her hearers with several beautiful Christmas songs. The hostess assisted by Mrs. J. L. Winstead and Mrs. Charlie White served delicious refreshments appropriate to the holiday season.

Special guests for the afternoon were five former members of the club, Mesdames Travis Hooker, G. A. Bowen, W. I. Skinner, C. W.

Reports 'Wonder Drug' Dangerous

BOSTON (UP)—Dr. Seymour J. Gray of Harvard Medical School says that repeated use of ACTH and cortisone, the "wonder drugs" can cause stomach ulcers.

Gray reported last night that he and three research associates discovered that the adrenal glands can communicate stress from the brain to the stomach. ACTH stimulates the adrenals.

"The repeated administration of ACTH over a period of time stimulates chronic stress since it elicits many of the same responses as those of sustained alarm," Dr. Gray said.

Airline Merger Plan Accepted

NEW YORK (UP)—Colonial airlines has announced acceptance of a proposal to merge with National Airlines, making that company one of the five largest airlines in the U.S.

The proposal is subject to the approval of stockholders in the companies and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Under the terms of the merger, National would purchase Colonial's stock for some $7,000,000 in National stock.

Sulphur is mined from deep "domes" by a process which uses three pipes, one inside the other. Water is pumped down the outside pipe and compressed air down the inside pipe and the melted sulphur is forced up the middle pipe.

Strength for the Day

COUNTERFEIT COINS AND CHARACTERS
Some time ago a counterfeit quarter came into my possession. A quick look at the coin would not have revealed the fact that it was counterfeit. But it did not ring true, it was light, it was not so shiny as it should have been, and it did not have upon it the right image.

It was struck by the fact that counterfeit quarters and counterfeit characters are very much alike. Neither rings true. Throw them down on something hard and the result is not a sharp ringing sound, but a sort of dull thud.

Then again counterfeit characters, like counterfeit quarters, are light. They may seem at first to be as heavy and worth while as the real article, but carefully weighed they are found very decidedly to be wanting.

My counterfeit quarter was dull. It lacked the bright shine of a new, well-minted coin. I was reminded of the dull and leaden stupidity of anything counterfeit.

But worst of all, this counterfeit quarter did not have upon it the right image. A close inspection of the image on the coin showed it had been made by a bungling hand.

Then I remembered that the hand of the great Creator, Himself, had made man after his own image, and that it was when men tried to fashion their lives after their own sinful desires that the image of God was supplanted by another image that indicated the bungling hand of a counterfeit.

Accidents Accompanying The Christmas Shoppers
Parking places in downtown Greenville have been at a premium since early this fall, but now with the Christmas rush in full swing parking places are as scarce as the proverbial hen teeth.

To add to the congestion in the business section of town there are a lot of shoppers who go round and round the blocks in hopes of finding some place to park their automobiles. The traffic is moving slow enough to make a fatal accident an improbability under normal circumstances. But with the heavy pedestrian traffic in downtown Greenville in addition to the heavy automobile traffic, it is surely a season for extra care by both the pedestrians and the drivers.

The congestion increases the probability of minor accidents.

During this Christmas rush particularly, The Reflector urges careful driving and careful walking in the city's business section.

The downtown traffic in Greenville last month was not nearly so heavy as it will be for the next two weeks, but in November alone property damage in the city resulting from automobile accidents amounted to over $6,960. During that month there were 27 automobile accidents in Greenville with personal injuries resulting from at least seven of the accidents.

Since the first of December the Police Department has reported a marked increase in the number of accidents on Fridays and Saturdays. The Police Department also has noted that the refusal of pedestrians to obey the traffic signals has seriously impeded the flow of vehicle traffic in the business section.

During this pre-Christmas season pedestrians and drivers alike should take special care to abide by the traffic regulations not only for their own safety, but for the safety of others as well.

Same Old Bird With Borrowed Feathers
The Russians have blasted the hopes of peace again. They have blasted them sky high by shattering the last remaining hope that the Big Four representatives at Paris could get together on some terms at their disarmament conference.

Vishinsky's speech which knocked out the promise of some agreement on disarmament brought out at least three significant points as well as the usual Communist lies which dominate all the Russian orations.

States. Vishinsky's assertion that the step-by-step disarmament proposal of the West is a "cunning mechanism" to postpone indefinitely the outlawing of the atomic bomb is added proof that the bomb is the one factor the Communists fear most in an all-out war with the West.

As for accusing the United States and Britain and France of being totally responsible for the "mad armaments race," Vishinsky points to the fallacy of that statement in another statement he made in the same speech. The Russian declared that the Western powers could not and would not accept even the disarmament proposals which they have made. Of course the allies could not afford to take disarmament measures unless they were sure similar measures were taken by Russia. They would only be letting down the bars and inviting slavery at the hands of the Communist aggressors. Since Russia will not come to terms on disarmament, the Communists, and not the United States, France and Britain, must assume the blame for the continued armament race.

It is just another incident in which Russia is trying to cover its hawk talons with dove feathers. It makes a very peculiar looking bird.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Senator Robert A. Taft's admittedly final try for the Republican Presidential nomination next year may depend on the behavior of Pennsylvania's seventy delegates at the July convention in Chicago. Its importance explains why it has become such a furious battleground between the Taft and Eisenhower forces.

Although the attitude and strategic switches of rival candidates and a few favorite sons will naturally affect the outcome, the keystone state's lineup on the first roll call could be decisive.

In every convention period made by anxious and uncertain politicians, they return to the fact that Pennsylvania, even more than such other numerically strong delegations as New York's and California's, may call the turn.

CHANCE—Pennsylvania's vote may be determinative as between Taft and Eisenhower, in these analyses, because of its alphabetical alignment in the convention balloting. It has frequently happened that the timing and nature of a key delegation's vote decided the identity of the winner.

If the politics from that state play their cards smartly, in contrast to the ineptitude and indecision they have displayed at several recent party powwows of this kind, they would rule the roost at Washington under a Republican regime, taking over from the current Missouri crowd.

In short, it is recognized as the chance of a lifetime for the descendants of Boise Penrose, the almost legendary student of classical literature and the boss during the earlier years of the century, when the GOP was riding high in the saddle at Washington.

DELEGATES—To understand Pennsylvania's peculiar role, it is first necessary to envisage the position which Taft, Eisenhower and other outside entries will probably occupy just before the convention chairman calls on Governor John S. Fine to report the tally of his delegation. This forecast of their relative strength before Pennsylvania votes is based on known and claimed delegates of the various candidates.

Just before the Fine report, Senator Taft will probably have about 275 delegates, with 650 necessary for nomination. They will hail from the Middle West, the Far West and the South, with scattering support from other sections.

Assuming that he becomes an active candidate "in person" by February, General Eisenhower should have about 175 delegates as against Taft's 275. New York, New England and several corn-belt states, with sentimental backing from other areas, will supply this number.

However, if the Taft people can kidnap delegates from "Ike" in New England and New York, as they try to do, the military hero may show on the first ballot with only 150.

TEST—Favorite sons, some seeking only honorary acclaim and some hoping to emerge as a compromise selection, will figure in the first test run.

Governor Earl Warren of California may turn up with almost 100 delegates, since his state alone has seventy. Harold E. Stassen may muster fifty, provided he can capture Minnesota's twenty-eight. General Douglas MacArthur, who favors Taft, may net about fifty.

Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, an excellent vice-presidential prospect, may turn up with another fifty, for New Jersey's thirty-eight delegates will undoubtedly offer him as something more than a "favorite son."

PSYCHOLOGICAL—It is now Pennsylvania's turn to cast its admittedly critical ballot.

If Senator James H. Duff, a principal Eisenhower promoter, can throw his state's seventy delegates to "Ike," it would give the latter about 245 delegates, only thirty less than Taft's at this particular stage. It would put SHAFPE's commander in the running in a big way.

A full Pennsylvania delegation for "Ike" would also have a great psychological effect on delegations still to be polled on the first call. After Pennsylvania, there will be 233 delegates to be counted, and they would be influenced by a Pennsylvania stampede to Eisenhower.

As of today, Mr. Taft has at least 100 of those delegates, and their backing on the first ballot would give him a total of almost 400 delegates, possibly more.

His best score in 1948 was 274, with Pennsylvania dividing forty-one for Dewey and twenty-eight for Taft on the first call. It gave one to Stassen, two to Vandenberg and one to Warren.

But if the Keystone State swings full to "Ike," it might shake Taft's hold on the 100-odd delegates still to make up their minds. Many are not the kind that keep pre-convention pledges by "staying put."

HARMONY—On the other hand, if Taft corral as many delegates from Pennsylvania as he did four years ago, it might be a serious blow to Eisenhower. Taft managers maintain that the support of thirty Pennsylvanians will give their man more than 400 delegates on the first ballot. They believe that he cannot be stopped if he reaches that figure.

The Taft faction will submit a strong recess plea for harmony after such a first-ballot showing. They will also warn that any further attempt to name Eisenhower over the Ohioan will cause such hard feelings and such an intra-party division that no Republican can win the election.

They are, in fact, using these arguments now in an effort to weaken Mr. Duff's campaign for "Ike" in the state. With National Committeeman G. Mason O'Leary regarded as favorable, they plan to work on Governor Fine, who is still noncommittal.

Selected Shorts

ANAHEIM, CALIF., BULLETIN: "The Senate preparedness subcommittee has recently put its finger on one of the big reasons for big military expenditures—waste. . . . Lack of cost consciousness on the part of officers in charge of expenditures, says the committee, is a principle cause of waste. This blindness or indifference to the burden being cast on the taxpayer has long been typical of the armed services officials. It's one of the reasons why, with the greatly increased cost for preparedness, a limit may have to be placed on the amount of taxes which can be levied on the people. In some degree, the effect of this would be to force the military and the civilian agencies of government to spend their funds on essentials, not extravagances."

He Will Stop Cheating—

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

After 15 months of parenthood, there is a question that I would like to throw open for a discussion of the experts: How can you raise a child properly, not spoil him, and still enjoy the child?

If Nancy were on the right schedule, I would see her only on weekends. She would be asleep when I leave for work, when I return, and enjoying her nap when I'm home for lunch.

They tell me that there are children in this world who are on schedule. The parents start them off the day they are born. The most important factor in getting a baby on schedule is the ability to listen to it cry. If it cries for food, discomfort, or entertainment, let it cry unless it's the proper time of the schedule for the particular service.

This way, mothers don't get grey, and the baby soon learns that this is a cruel world in which he can't have his way all of the time. See how simple it looks on paper? But back to the original question: Do parents enjoy their children when they have to practice discipline to keep them on schedule? And how does it affect the child?

Since Nancy is about as off schedule as a baby can be, I am prepared to defend the parents who are not strict disciplinarians. If Nancy had been on schedule, how could she have learned to tear up our alarm clock? In fact, I doubt very seriously if she would have learned to call me "Ma Ma" and Rachel "Da Da" if she had been asleep during the time she should have been.

Another factor: Which is more important, following a schedule, or development of personality? Granted, it's much easier to raise children when they learn immediately the meaning of "no," but so often something done the easy way is the hard way in the long run.

The experts on parenthood would answer my question with a text about 50 pages long. They would beat around the bush, contradict themselves, and in the end I would ask them, "Say, how many children do you have?"

Ten to one they'd say, "Oh, we aren't even married."

Just think of the thousands of books that have been written about how to raise a child. Anybody ever followed the book? It can't be done!

An expert might ask me, "Jack, in the strict sense of the word, would you say that you have spoiled your child?"

"A little," I would say.

"And if you should have another one, what do you intend to do about the mistake you have made?"

It might be blindness, but I would say, "I'm going to do it again."

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET

ables whose loss will be felt must be added Charlie Ross, whose record was longer, and fuller than any—as lawyer, administrator, strategist, statesman and roadbuilder.

INFLUENCE—The developing hot contest for the supreme court may have substantial bearings upon the race for governor and other state offices, including seats in congress. Lawyers are vitally concerned over composition of the court and many attorneys will give that race precedence in their thinking. Since lawyers generally are the most active political leaders in their respective communities, it may be difficult for other candidates to get desired local managers.

The danger of inadvertent and unintentional "line-ups" and "hickies" is enhanced by this situation.

ACTIVITY—Only one man has announced for governor, and in only one congressional district are there avowed candidates in the field. Five men have formally announced candidacy for the supreme court at a time occupied by Associate Justice Timous Valentine under executive appointment. He is running for the unexpired term to which he was appointed and also for the full eight year term beginning January 1, 1953. Other announced aspirants for the post are Superior Court Judges Hunt Parker, Don Phillips and Allen Gwyn, and former Forsyth County Judge Oscar Efrid. Additional entries are expected, including Superior Court Judges W. H. Bobbitt and Frank Armstrong. There is speculative probability that some of these candidates or others might switch goals and file for the chief justiceship now held by Hon. William A. Levin, or the seat occupied by Associate Justice Jeff D. Johnson, Jr. In any event, there is presently more certainty of real action in the supreme court races than has shown up yet in any of the other state contests.

UNIQUE—A club of Kiwanis International is being formed at Cherokee, under sponsorship of the Asheville club. So far as can be learned from data at hand, this will be the only Kiwanis Club in the world on an Indian reservation and with membership composed largely of Indians. Club meetings will be held in the dining room at Boundary Tree Motor Inn, which is operated under direction of the bureau of Indian Affairs by and for benefit of the Cherokees. Charlie Parker and his state advertising division have another "first" to claim for North Carolina, and another attraction to offer visiting Kiwanians from all parts of the United States and Canada, who may be expected to put forth extra effort to make up attendance at this unique club. The new Cherokee Club starts off with a Charter membership of about forty.

ENFORCEMENT—Most gatherings of this sort put emphasis upon the need for new law. This time emphasis will be upon adequate enforcement of laws now on the books. With possible exception of failure to require mechanical inspection for automotive equipment, very little criticism attaches to the legislature's dealing with the problem.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

FIREWORKS DESPITE LAW (Henderson Dispatch)
North Carolina has a law forbidding the sale and shooting of fireworks. But in limited degree it goes on just the same. From some source and in some manner, people who want the explosives badly enough manage to get them.

Here in our own community, at the very border of Virginia, it is not difficult to obtain fireworks from across the line. There is no ban there. Moreover, mail order concerns outside the State can ship in pyrotechnics since a State law cannot touch interstate transportation. Some of the supply probably seeps through in that fashion.

The tragedy near Middlesex a few days ago testifies to the danger of fireworks in the hands of small boys. Three of them lost their lives when fumes from a gasoline truck ignited from a toy cap pistol and set off an explosion. There were fireworks explosions, too, during the Christmas pageant parade here the other night, though fortunately no one was injured. But the pyrotechnics were here, having been obtained from some source and discharged in violation of the law.

Under the 1947 statute, the nuisance has largely been abated. It had been hoped that the law would stamp it out completely. But such has not been the case. Enforcement men cannot be everywhere at once, and are not primarily to blame for infractions of the law, except as the evidence comes into their possession, in which event they act accordingly.

Those who obtain and discharge fireworks are literally playing with fire. Every one knows the hazards of such practice. Yet some persist in it, with the confidence that they know quite well how to handle the problem and can escape injury. But instances all about us disprove that theory. All the fireworks in the land are not worth the life of a single one of those boys who lost their lives at Middlesex.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
The trailer coach industry expects a very good year in 1952. It can be crimped by cut-backs in materials, but the part the industry plays in defense makes it likely that it will get adequate priorities.

The industry is finishing up another big year, with sales estimated equal to, if not better than, in 1950, when they totaled $216,000,000. That's a big jump over the $10,000,000 in sales in 1939.

The switch to trailers for year-round living quarters has been partly responsible for the growth. The first trailer coaches, averaging less than 15 feet long, were made for vacationers. Now more than 70 per cent of all coaches are 30 feet or longer and only 1 per cent are sold to vacationers.

Defense workers today take 68 per cent of the output and service men and their families buy another 25 per cent, according to the Trailer Coach Manufacturers' Association. About 5 per cent are used for businesses, such as doctors' and dentists' offices, field construction offices, traveling displays and traveling businesses, such as bookmobiles, laundries, branch banks, etc. The Association says that the average income of a trailer owner is more than $4,000 a year, compared with a national average income of $3,313.

The industry is made up largely of small business; there are more than 200 firms making trailers. It has also helped start thousands of other small businesses. There are an estimated 7,500 trailer parks in the United States. While many are maintained by states and communities, the majority are small business enterprises and all of them help support, or entirely support, many more small businesses in their vicinity. The average trailer-dweller, and that includes teachers, students, office workers and retired couples as well as defense workers and service personnel, spends about $3,000 a year in the community in which it is parked, the manufacturers' association estimates. It adds that 200,000 trailers are being produced a year and that trailer parks are growing at the rate of 1,000 a year.

There is a trailer parked on one of the finest estates on Long Island. The owners of the estates live in it. It costs too much to heat the mansion.

the little fairy sighed, and turned to Churchill, and said: "And your request?"

"Oh, just give me a long cigar and a double brandy and soda," he said cheerfully.

"That'll be quite easy," said the little fairy, brightening. "I can do that right away."

"No hurry, no hurry," replied Churchill, waving his hand airily. "Serve the other two gentlemen first!"

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Are your dinner invitations falling off? Don't people ask you to their parties anymore? Maybe it's because you need to brush up on your raconteur-ing. Your twicetold tales have gone the rounds too often.

So today we offer to you—free—two of the best stories we've heard lately, and you're welcome to them. (If you've already heard them, don't write and tell us they're old. Everything is getting older these days.)

First concerns the Army Colonel's wife, stationed in the Philippines in the years before the last war. She had the kind of cook woman dream of—a Chinese named Mr. Ling, who could dish up a dream meal for an unexpected guest, or a dozen, on quick notice.

One evening, however, she was having a dinner party for 20 people, including a bishop.

"This has to be something really special," she told Mr. Ling that morning, and explained that the ecclesiastical guest was quite distinguished. The Chinese cook seemed deeply impressed.

That night he served up a splendid meal. As the guests leaned back, relaxing from the tremendous repast, in strode Mr. Ling, carrying a huge and glittering plate. Beaming, he placed it on the table before the hostess.

She and the bishop both leaned over to read some flowery lettering that Mr. Ling had inscribed with icing atop the cake. It said:

"Hooray For Jesus!"

The second story is raising laughter in United Nations circles here. It concerns a mythical future meeting of "The Big Three"—Truman, Stalin and Churchill.

The trio of world leaders were quarreling bitterly about the problems of East and West when suddenly a beautiful little fairy appeared in the conference room. She wore a trailing gown of white and had a twinkling star on her forehead.

Waving her small wand, she said gently:

"Gentlemen, gentlemen, please do not use any more harsh words. I can help you out of your difficulties. Each of you make a wish, and if I grant it perhaps that will solve your problems."

First, she asked Truman his wish.

"I want you to take the biggest H-bomb that can be built, set it down in the heart of Russia, and explode it," he said. "That will be a big help."

Turning to Stalin, the fairy said: "And your wish?"

"I'd like you to raise the greatest tidal wave in history," he said, and send it clear across the United States, and wash every American into the sea. You'll see how quickly peace will follow."

"Well, yeah," he replied, "I was in the Normandy invasion."

Public Is Given Inside Look At How Justice Department Is Run

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON (AP)—It isn't often the public gets a chance to see how a man, who is head of a big government department and a member of the president's cabinet, does his work.

But Attorney General J. Edgar Hoover has explained with his own lips how he runs the tremendously important Justice Department which has the task of prosecuting for federal crimes.

The department has more than 31,000 employees and cases flow through it like a river, criminal cases, espionage cases, tax fraud cases. All kinds. And McGrath is the engineer who runs the machine.

You're wrong if you have a mental picture of him as some kind of harried creature bent and white and tan from the job of making final decisions on that stream of cases.

At 48 McGrath's hair is black and still plentiful. And while he's not fat he's comfortable, upholstered. He hasn't been comfortable lately of course, because of events involving his department in the investigation which the House subcommittee is making in the tax scandal.

One of his right-hand men, T. Lamar Caudle, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the department's tax division until President Truman fired him, has been grilled by the committee publicly.

When the grilling was over the committee told Caudle he has been a failure in public office and had done his country great damage. Then it called McGrath to ask him about Caudle.

It was in talking to the committee that McGrath explained how he runs his department. As for that river of cases flowing through, he said he "probably does not know of the existence of more than a very minute percentage of the cases that are in the department. I do not concern myself with operational details.

"Nor do I concern myself with individual cases unless they happen to be of such unique importance or public interest that they would be specifically called to my attention."

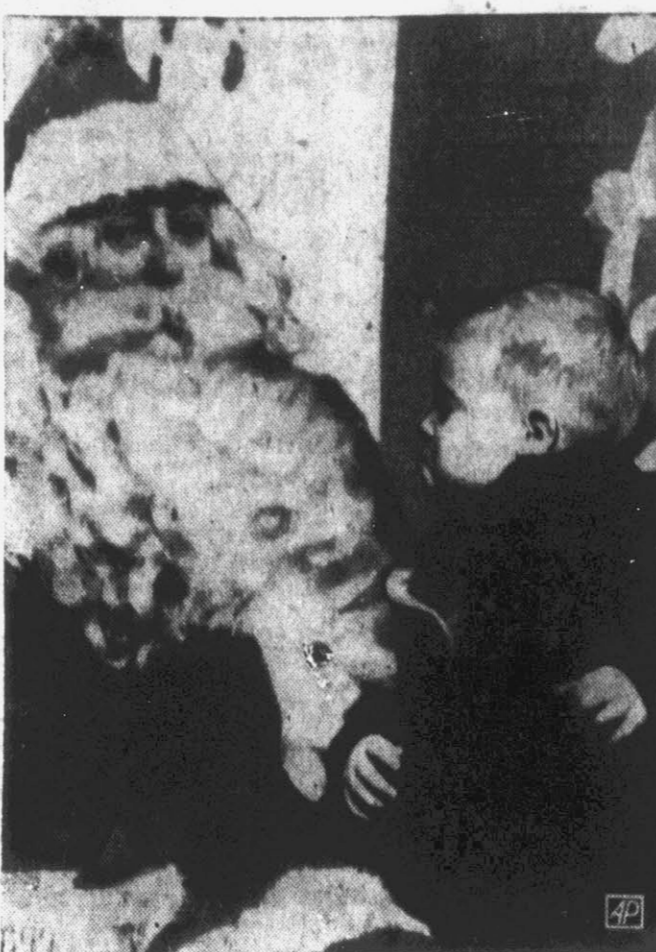

With what, then, does he concern himself? In the first place, he said, he has to delegate responsibility in large doses to his chief lieutenants. They're the ones who make the decisions on most of the cases, almost all.

He, himself, he said, is the administrative officer who has to "concern himself with the financial affairs of the department, with the over-all general assignments that are given to him by the President and to discuss" with citizens problems which "they feel were handled unsatisfactorily below."

McGrath seemed to depend so much on his top lieutenants that, except for believing they were doing a good job and liking them through conversation, he didn't seem to take the trouble to find out all he could about them.

Even if McGrath had learned something about Caudle so serious that he wanted him out, he himself couldn't fire him. He'd have to recommend that to the President.

And when the President finally fired Caudle he did it on his own. McGrath hadn't recommended it but, as McGrath explained, he didn't know about Caudle when the President had been told by the House committee.

"WHAT HAPPENED LAST YEAR?"—This little boy, who wouldn't give his name, gives Santa Claus in a Philadelphia department store a slightly rough time because Santa didn't produce all the things he ordered last year. Santa looks slightly flustered as the boy sticks out his chin in a "now look here" attitude. (AP Wirephoto).

And when McGrath's chief deputy told him long ago he had to take a case away from Caudle because the latter was talking too much to a congressman, McGrath said he just accepted the explanation. He didn't—at least his testimony doesn't show it—ask any further about Caudle or, apparently, think any the less of Caudle's judgment.

Welfare Dept. Notes

Last month welfare workers from all over North Carolina met in Raleigh for a two day institute to learn how to do a better welfare job, using the theme, "Responsibility for Helping Individuals Develop Their Own Resources."

The speakers at the institute were a minister, a physician, a psychiatrist, a psychologist, a physical therapist, a medical-social worker, professors of social work from two universities, a health educator, and the Executive Director of the National Rehabilitation Association from Washington, D. C.

"To those who still think that welfare work is simply giving financial assistance to the needy, the theme of our institute and the fact that social workers consult so many professions for help in doing their job must be surprise," explained K. T. Futrell, superintendent of the Pipp County Welfare Department.

"As a matter of fact, the impetus to all professional social work is to help people maintain or regain their pride and self-respect by helping them to help themselves," said Futrell. "In a nutshell, the social worker's job is to help his client make a better adjustment to society by using all the resources available to him to become a self-supporting, self-respecting, law-abiding citizen."

All of the professions represented at the institute are resources available to the individual in helping him to attain his goal. Other professions and institutions such as the schools, courts, employment agencies and others are also resources.

Soil Fumigation Demonstration Is Held Tuesday

A soil fumigation demonstration held near West Greenville School Tuesday drew approximately 50 spectators from Pitt and surrounding counties.

The attending group included county agents, tobacco growers, and general farmers from a wide area. They witnessed the demonstration of three types of fumigation equipment and a new method of fumigating plantbeds.

Before the actual demonstration, they heard an hour-long lecture regarding the feasibility of soil fumigation. The lecture was delivered at Hendrix-Barnhill Equipment Company by Dr. R. A. Biron, who has done a great deal of research on the subject.

Dr. Biron said, "soil fumigation has been through various stages of development. It has evolved from the application of gases, through the application of steam, into the present practice of systematic application of chemicals." He explained that with good supervision and correct application of fumigants, a farmer can obtain good results from the practice.

The expert stated, "Great progress has been made in the past six years, with equipment becoming more and more simple, and application more and more easy. Soil fumigation is destined to become a regular farm practice."

A seedbed demonstration featured the covering of the entire bed with a plastic cover, and then forcing noxious gases under the cover. This practice was viewed with interest by the group. Officials said it was just as important to have clean plants as it was to have a clean field.

Following the demonstration, the group attended a barbecue supper.

Both Innocent, Both Suspicious

FORT WORTH, Tex. — (UP) — It was a case of mistaken identity. Paul Schlacter had locked up his filling station and was getting into his car when he noticed a truck park across the street. Schlacter, suspicious of a break-in, watched the truck for 45 minutes before a police car cruised by and he hailed it.

Officers checked the man in the truck. "Watch that guy over at the filling station," said the driver. "He was trying doors after the lights were out."

The Little League banquet last night in the Armory did a great deal to emphasize the growth of Little League—or "Midget"—athletics in Eastern North Carolina.

There were around 75 players present last night for the barbecue supper. That number was hardly half the actual number of participants, but it was a great deal more than used to have even the opportunity to participate in community sponsored recreation.

It wasn't too long ago that officials in Eastern North Carolina cities first began to recognize the need for such community recreation. My first personal recollection of anything being done was back in 1944 when the word went out that midget football was being organized in three or four Eastern North Carolina towns and that a league was going to be formed.

The football league, which was won by Goldboro for about five straight years, was soon expanded so that it included baseball and basketball and the programs had their beginnings.

Since that time, the trend had not been for one representative team but a lot of city teams and leagues so that more boys could be reached. Had Greenville had only a representative team this year, there would have been only 35 or 40 boys who would have reaped any benefits from the program.

As it is now, there were well over 150 who got a chance to play football. Warren Carroll has done a good job this year with the program. There never seems to be enough money to go around in such projects, but Warren isn't worrying too much about that. He just went out and got the boys playing football. Now it's basketball and next spring it'll be baseball.

Some cities have tremendous budgets for their recreation programs. Kinston, for instance, is one of the leading cities in Eastern North Carolina in the field of community recreation. They have the money, facilities, and all that goes along to make a good community recreation program.

Rocky Mount is another city in that category. So is Goldboro, New Bern, and others. They all have what Greenville's got and, in some cases, more.

The growth of community recreation has grown tremendously in the past few years. There's still room for expansion, though, and that's what Warren is aiming for in the future.

After recent activities of the State College Athletic Council, it comes as no surprise at all that Horne Hendrickson has been named Head Coach of football. The only member of Beattie Feathers' staff who was retained, Hendrickson has what it takes to make a good coach. He had a rich background of experience.

After leaving Duke, where he had been a star player, Horne went to Elon. Elon was followed by jobs as backfield coach for Penn State and the pro Brooklyn Dodgers. He finally got back to Duke as a freshman coach in the fall of 1950 but he spent only a year there before moving over to State when Bill Murray succeeded Wallace Wade as Duke coach.

While at Duke in 1950, Hendrickson was the coach of a large number of the boys who did good jobs for the Duke Varsity this past season. He directed Ed Meadows, Jack Kistler, Red Smith, and all the sophomores on the Duke squad who played freshman ball in 1950 for the Blue Devils.

Horse has everything it takes to be a good coach if he can get a little material. If he can get the men—something Beattie Feathers was never able to do—he can win for N. C. State.

Hendrickson has a three year contract at State. That's what Feathers had, too.

Feathers will stay on at State College as the coach of freshman football. Hendrickson is going to shift to the T formation for next season and has given single-wing Feathers the job of preparing his yearlings.

Feathers had planned to shift to the T for the 1951 season but had to abandon the plans when his T coaches—Wade Walker and Darrell Royal—quit to take more lucrative offers.

Mickey Berman, coach of the champion White squad, presented individual medals plus the Little League emblems to the members of his squad.

Little League emblems were presented to all the boys who played this year.

Bo Thorpe, coach of the Blue squad, was presented a sweater by the members of his team. The sweater was presented by Captain Jim McGee.

A Little League official football was awarded to Fick Arthur for his work in collecting money at the Thanksgiving Day bowl game. Carroll said the ball had been promised to the boy who collected the most money during the game and Arthur's total was $36.15.

Carroll concluded his remarks with the statement that plans were already being made for 1952 Little League football. The program is going to be expanded as much as possible, Carroll told the group, in the hope that more boys might be attracted. Carroll then turned the meeting over to East Carolina College Head Football Coach Bill Dole who introduced Radman.

Dole cited Radman's own career as a follower of athletics, outlining briefly the Carolina coach's career as a student football player, a serviceman, and, finally, as a coach and scout for Oklahoma and Carolina.

Radman concluded his remarks to the group with movies of the Blake and Lou Collier at the guards. This is the combination which has sparked the Bucs to four consecutive victories and the top rung in the North State Conference.

Game time tomorrow will be at 8 p.m. in the Wright Gymnasium.

Dole presented a suit by players. Yesterday's report on the East Carolina College football banquet omitted the fact that Coach Bill Dole was presented a certificate for a suit at Hill's. The presentation to Dole was made by Don MacKenzie, a senior member of the squad.

The idea for giving the suit to Dole was originated by a member of the team and all squad members participated in the purchase.

Awards Presented To Little Leaguers At Barbecue Supper Held In Armory Last Night; Players, Coaches Honored

Over 100 players, coaches, and friends of Greenville Little League football were honored last night at a banquet held in the Armory. George Radman, of the coaching staff of the University of North Carolina, was the main speaker.

Radman spoke briefly to the assembled group, pointing his remarks toward the boys who had participated as players in the football league.

"If you will just remember that you get out of a thing what you put into it, you'll be o.k. Play hard but play fair all the time," was the main thought of Radman's short talk.

Jake Hadley, master of ceremonies for the banquet, cited the growth of interest by the Exchange Club in Greenville Little League operations. He recalled the first days of midget football in Greenville and how it has grown into what it now is.

"The Exchange Club believes in backing this program because we believe that as a twig is bent, so shall the tree grow. We think that if a boy can be given the right start in fair play and sportsmanship, he'll do fine in later life," Hadley told the group.

Warren Carroll, city recreation director, gave a brief resume of the year's activities as far as football was concerned. He paid tribute to the coaches who volunteered their time to help the young players and cited the players' own interests in football.

Following Carroll's remarks, coaches of the various teams were introduced and asked to present emblems to the individual members of their squads.

George MacMillan, coach of the Red squad, introduced his team and presented special awards to Joe Mays for being the most improved player and Fick Arthur for being the most valuable member of the team during the season.

Mickey Berman, coach of the champion White squad, presented individual medals plus the Little League emblems to the members of his squad.

Belvoir Splits Two Games With Winterville

BELVOIR—Franklin Garris' last minute field goal on an intercepted pass gave Belvoir High a 48-47 victory over a favored Winterville quintet here Tuesday night.

The field goal by Garris climaxed a long up-hill climb by the Belvoir cagers, who had trailed throughout the contest. Leading by one point, the Winterville team attempted to "freeze" the ball, but the alert Garris quickly broke through, grabbing the ball for the layup.

Garris shared the honors for the night with Ralph Tyson, who led the scoring for both teams with a total of 21 points. Bobby Cole paced the losers' scoring with 13 points. The victory was the third against one defeat for Belvoir, while Winterville now has won one and lost two.

The Winterville girls easily took their third successive win by dropping the locals, 62-43. Forward Ann Speir led the scoring with 30 points, bringing her three-game total to 78 points.

Claudia Pollard scored 18 points to lead the losers, who now have won three and lost one. Winterville led all the way in the game.

Girls Score by periods:
Winterville 15 19 14 14—62
Belvoir 9 11 7 14—43

High scorers: Winterville—Ann Speir, 30; Belvoir—Claudia Pollard, 18.

Defensive leaders: Winterville—Dean Wingate; Belvoir—Max Dupree.

Medwick Named Manager Of Club In Tampa, Fla.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Joe Medwick, former St. Louis Cardinals baseball star and former manager of a Miami Beach club, has been named manager of the Tampa Smokers of the Florida International League.

Medwick succeeds Ben Chapman who will go with the Cincinnati Reds as coach. He has been in baseball since 1930 when he played with Scottsdale of the Middle Atlantic League.

He broke into the majors in 1932 and played with the St. Louis Cardinals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, New York Giants, Boston Braves and the New York Yankees.

Last season, Medwick led the Class B Carolina League's Raleigh club to third place.

Ezzard Charles Wants Chance At Heavyweight Champ Walcott

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles was fit and ready today to make a liar out of the guy who said, "They never come back."

The mustachioed Cincinnati Negro gave notice last night that he was not to be stopped on the comeback trail when he belted out a clear-cut decision over light-heavy champion Joey Maxim in a bruising but dull 12-rounder at the San Francisco cow palace.

The victory, Charles' fifth against the willing but unable Maxim, was a long step back for the man who fell heir to Joe Louis' title only to lose it to aging Jersey Joe Walcott.

The fight meant more than money to Charles. It meant he may be the first man ever to come back and regain the heavyweight crown.

The bout was a bruiser, but it was no fun for the audience—and the crowd showed its displeasure with the same boo's, clapping and catcalls they might give a couple of second-rate waltzers.

Maxim, who looked every inch a champion when he recently boxed the ears off Irish Bob Murphy, showed little or none of his fancy work last night.

In the winner's dressing room, Charles relaxed on a rickety stool and said Maxim, "didn't give me any trouble."

Showing only a small bruise on his lower lip for the 12 rounds of milling, he said Maxim was easier to defeat this time than in any of their four previous bouts.

"He's a smart fighter," Charles reflected, "and he rools with a punch good. But he didn't give me any trouble."

Mints said Charles would meet Walcott for the championship in either February or March, the exact time and place to be decided by the International Boxing Club.

Rams' Hopes High As Season Opens

ROBERSONVILLE—Prospects for the best teams in the history of Robersonville High School for both the boys and girls clubs are running high this year.

Coach Bob Lee has seven returning lettermen back from last year's boys team. They include Mac Cherry, Sonny James, R. H. Weaver, Billy Warren, Andy Warren, Julius Budez and Darrell Gurganus.

The girls, under a new coach, C. C. White, formerly of Louisville, also have several returnees. Patsy Roberson, Sarah Lee Smith, Betty Jean Davenport, Mary Alice Warren, Jo Anne Warren, Joan Keel and Terry Roberson. New girls out for the first time are Janet Whitfield, Joyce Whitfield, Faye Stevens, Cynthia James, Ann James, Barbara Bullock and Joan Manning.

Robersonville opens the season Friday night with a contest with Farm Life High School here. The teams have been working out for about two weeks.

Davis Cuppers Lead Sweden

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—Ted Schroeder, 30-year-old business executive from La Crescenta, Calif., and Tony Trabert, 21-year-old naval officer from Cincinnati, O., stood ready today to crush Sweden's dreams of international tennis glory.

Sweden's chances to survive the Davis Cup interzone finals took a colossal powder in Kooyong Stadium today as Schroeder and Trabert whipped Lennart Bergelin, generally rated as Europe's best tennis player, and Sven Davidson in straight sets.

In the most disappointing tennis show staged here this season, Schroeder, at the peak of his game, routed Bergelin, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4. In a tighter match Trabert, national collegiate and clay court titleholder, defeated a nervous Davidson, 6-3, 6-4, 9-7.

Schroeder and Trabert team up tomorrow in a doubles match against Bergelin and Davidson favored to win. A United States victory Friday would send the Americans into the challenge round against Australia beginning Dec. 26 and would reduce Saturday's two singles matches against the Swedes to the status of exhibitions.

The only consolation for the Swedes, who made their reservations to go home a week before the challenge round, is that by losing they will probably be home for Christmas.

Schroeder was definitely the star of the first two interzone matches. The splendidly conditioned Californian was invincible at the net and his volleys were played with punch and seldom within Bergelin's reach. Overhead Schroeder was superb, and nearly every lob by Bergelin, even the deepest, was hit with tremendous power and put away for points.

If Sweden could sweep the remaining three matches it would be a miracle, the experts here feel. All hopes for the Europeans rest on the shoulders of Bergelin, who has been noted for his sudden surprise performance in chip-down competition.

The stylish baselines with one of the game's best forehand drives would be "right" tomorrow if the Swedes are to retain their slim chance of entering the challenge round.

Parliament is the legislative governing body for the United Kingdom. It has no power over the Dominions.

More Seats For Fort Lee Game With ECC Friday

Athletic officials at East Carolina College stated yesterday that Christmas holidays for the college students would make available more seats for the general public for Friday night's basketball game with Fort Lee, Virginia.

School's holidays for most of the students will begin after classes Friday and not too many are expected to remain in Greenville. This will place the seats open to the general public.

The games promise plenty of action for spectators. The two clubs have met this season and East Carolina outlasted Fort Lee 73-69 in one of the roughest games either of the two teams has been exposed to this season. The service team is loaded with former college stars and five former collegiate aces are expected to start for Coach Morgan Tiller's club.

Leading the Travellers is forward Charles Clickner, a former Tennessee basketball player who doubles as assistant coach of the team.

Clickner has been hampered with a bad ankle for the last couple of games played by the Travellers but is expected to be in top shape for Friday's contest.

The other forward spot will be filled by Bill Zirkel, a former West Virginia University basketballer. The center spot will be filled by former Cornell player Walter Ashbaugh while Pete Benoitova of Compton College and Henry Wojtyla of DePaul will be at the guards.

All are over six feet in height with Clickner the tallest at 6-5.

At East Carolina yesterday, the Pirates continued their work for the game with a full dress scrimmage in which every man on the squad saw action. Coach Howard Porter sent the 15 member squad through every phase of the defensive and offensive maneuvers of the Pirates before calling the session to a halt.

N.C. State Names Hendrickson As Football Coach

RALEIGH, N.C. (UP)—Backfield Coach Horace Hendrickson moved up to the head football coaching job at North Carolina State College today, succeeding Beattie Feathers, who stepped down to the post of freshman coach.

Feathers was ousted as head coach after his 1951 team won only three of 10 games. He had held the job eight years, a record for the institution.

Chairman H. A. Fisher of the college's athletic council announced that Feathers was retained in the lower capacity at the recommendation of Gordon Gray, president of the greater university.

The appointment of Hendrickson apparently was recommended by the athletic council at a secret meeting Tuesday night, but announcement was withheld until last night, when his selection received the approval of the executive committee of the greater university and of Gray.

Hendrickson, a Duke alumna who won varsity letters in baseball, basketball, and football, has been a coach for 17 years. He served at backfield coach under Coach George Munger at the University of Pennsylvania for six years, during which Penn won the Ivy League championship each season.

He later was backfield coach and chief scout for the professional Brooklyn Dodgers. When the Dodgers folded in 1949, he returned to Duke as head coach of all freshman teams. He came to N.C. State last August as backfield coach and chief scout.

Deacon Tackle On South Squad

MIAMI (AP)—Wake Forest tackle Bill George has been added to the South squad for the Shrine North-South football game Christmas night in the Orange bowl.

South coach Andy Gustafson yesterday acquired George and Ed Weber, William and Mary half-back, leaving only one vacancy on his 26-man squad.

Dole Presented Suit By Players

Yesterday's report on the East Carolina College football banquet omitted the fact that Coach Bill Dole was presented a certificate for a suit at Hill's. The presentation to Dole was made by Don MacKenzie, a senior member of the squad.

The idea for giving the suit to Dole was originated by a member of the team and all squad members participated in the purchase.

Scouts Asked To Help City Curb Vandals Over Holiday

Greenville Boy Scouts are being urged this year to assist city officials in their annual crusade against vandalism during the Christmas-New Year season. Superintendent of Utilities Martin Swartz has expressed the hope that scouts will use their influence to keep down wilful destruction of city property over the holidays.

"Each Christmas, the usual epidemic of gift air rifles contributes to wholesale assaults of city property, especially street lights," Swartz said this morning.

"Last year during the same period, the cost to the city of replacing shot-shattered light bulbs, amounted to well over $50.00," he estimated. The superintendent explained how that figure included both the cost of the bulbs, and the labor charges involved in their replacement.

Swartz revealed that from December 15, 1950, to January 27, 1951, more than 150 bulbs were replaced throughout the city. "The cost of the bulbs alone ran over $137, and labor upped the total to a substantially higher figure."

He asserted that only around 60 per cent of the total number of bulbs replaced were burned out under normal conditions. "The remainder were exploded by air rifles or rocks."

"We are hoping to avoid such a useless expenditure this year," Swartz emphasized, "and we hope the Boy Scouts in the city will aid us to realize this hope."

Tuesday's Cases In County Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Pitt County Recorder's Court Tuesday, Judge Dink James found Earl Smith guilty of having firecrackers in his possession and fined him $10 and court costs.

North Carolina law prohibits the use of fireworks in the state and it provides fines and imprisonment for persons exploding fireworks or having them in their possession.

The case against Frank Streeter Jr., James Robertson, S. T. Atkinson and Lyman Gorham with larceny was transferred to Superior Court for trial.

Luther Dickens and Clayton Joyner, Negroes, found guilty of public drunkenness, were each fined $25. Gloss Ebron, Negro, was found not guilty.

ON THE DOUBLE:—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, hurries in to the White House with his brief case for a conference with President Truman and top military and diplomatic advisers. The President passed along the public assurance that no crisis is involved after cutting short his Wey West vacation for the party. (AP Wirephoto).

Cases Heard In Police Court

In Police Court yesterday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Jim Jenkins, Negro, guilty of careless and reckless driving and gave him six months on the roads.

The court ordered him to surrender his operator's license and not drive a car for a year, or until he has made restitution for property damage.

Hebrew Tetterton, Negro, careless and reckless driving, 90 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $25 and costs. The court ordered him not to drive or violate any motor vehicle law until he has his brakes repaired.

William Hall, Negro, careless and reckless driving, 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25 and costs. He is not to violate any motor vehicle law for a year.

David W. Walker, Negro, following car ahead too closely, $5.

Ernest A. Rogers, failure to give proper hand signal, not guilty.

Evelyn Manning paid $10 for not stopping at a traffic light.

James Fleming, Negro, allowing non-licensed person to drive his car, $25 and costs.

Laura M. Tyree, no operator's license, $25 and costs.

Speeding: Louis H. Taylor and Robert Edward Lee, each fined $15.

Artis Purser, drunk, three days in jail and pay $5 fine.

George E. Gaskins, failure to stop at a "stop" sign, $5.

Blood Pressure Eased By Two Drugs In 'Team'

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A research team at Washington University here has developed a two-drug technique of treating hypertension which they think may control ordinary cases of high blood pressure.

Dr. Henry A. Schroeder, head of the team, reported to the Central Society for Clinical Research that the two drugs, neither of which was effective by itself, were combined with favorable clinical results.

Used together, the drugs bring blood pressure temporarily down to normal or near-normal levels. Schroeder emphasized, however, that the treatment only controls but does not cure the condition.

He said the drugs used were hexamethonium chloride and hydrazinophthalazine, either in tablet or injection form.

The effect of the drugs lasts several hours, Schroeder said, and the blood pressure again rises if the patient stops taking the medicine.

Truman Sending Ridgway Views On Truce Talks

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman is sending Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway his views on the Korean truce talks, it was learned today.

The secret report sums up some of the views Mr. Truman expressed in a strategy huddle Monday with top Defense and State Department officials.

It is being relayed to Tokyo by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Ridgway presumably will pass the ideas on to the U.N. negotiators at Panmunjom.

Although details have been kept secret, it was understood that a radically new course of action is being considered.

Mr. Truman is said to be determined to leave no stone unturned to reach a quick and honorable armistice. He has insisted on every possible precaution against possible Communist treachery but also has expressed impatience at seemingly unnecessary delays.

Montevideo, Uruguay was named after the cry of a lookout on the Magellan Expedition—"Monte video"—"I see a hill."

NOT THEIR DAY
LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cardwell had a bad day. First, Mrs. Cardwell's car collided with another at an intersection. Then her husband took the vehicle and 72 minutes later, police said, he was involved in a collision 11 blocks from the first one. The Cardwells paid $5 each for car repairs.

Blood Donors Need Good Protein Diet

LINCOLN, Neb. —(UP)— Dr. Ruth Leverton, director of human nutrition research at the University of Nebraska, said she is 100 per cent for blood donations to the Red Cross but warned donors not to expect their systems to replace the blood overnight.

How fast you get your blood back, she said, depends a great deal upon what you eat. A high protein diet, including more than the usual amounts of milk, meat, eggs, fish and cheese, speeds the replacement process, she said.

Dr. Leverton's findings came from a series of tests in which 146 co-ed blood donors co-operated. Although the study involved only young women, Dr. Leverton said the results apply in general to all blood donors.

Women donors, she pointed out, usually make a greater proportionate contribution when they give a pint of blood than men do. Blood makes up about seven per cent of the body's weight and therefore the 150-pound man makes a smaller proportionate gift than the 115-pound woman.

Diets Varied

Some of the girls ate carefully-controlled foods, containing the usual amount of protein, while others were given between-meal snacks to boost their protein intake to 75 grams. A third group received extra protein foods which increased their protein intake to as high as 90 grams.

The blood of all the donors, Dr. Leverton found, was rebuilt fastest when their diets included between 75 and 90 grams of protein daily. It was a 50 to 90 per cent boost in the protein content of the usual diet.

Even with the high protein diet, however, it required weeks for the donated blood to be replaced completely.

Some of the girls were given extra iron, copper or a B vitamin daily in capsule form. These additions helped but none approached the high protein diet in effectiveness on blood recovery.

Pills Not Enough

"It takes a good many building materials," Dr. Leverton explained, "to make blood. Meat and milk contain many of these building materials, while a pill usually has just one."

For the woman who wants to make her contribution at the blood bank, Dr. Leverton suggested this group of foods every day for a week before and about two months after the donation; two servings of meat, an egg, one quart of milk, and a serving of cheese, in addition to vegetables, fruit, butter or margarine, bread and desserts needed to round out the daily menus.

The diet, she said, need not be rigid. For example, a serving of fish can replace one serving of meat; a half-cup of custard can replace one glass of milk, as can cream soup or cocoa. Soy beans, navy beans or lima beans can be used in place of cheese.

Average Man Did Quite A Lot Of Drinking In Year

WASHINGTON (UP)—That statistical myth, the average American, in 1950 drank 17.3 gallons of beer, 1.2 gallons of distilled spirits and one gallon of wine.

The nation consumed 82,536,156 barrels of beer, 190,019,690 gallons of distilled spirits and 140,289,000 gallons of commercial wine (plus another 30,000,000 gallons of home-made wine).

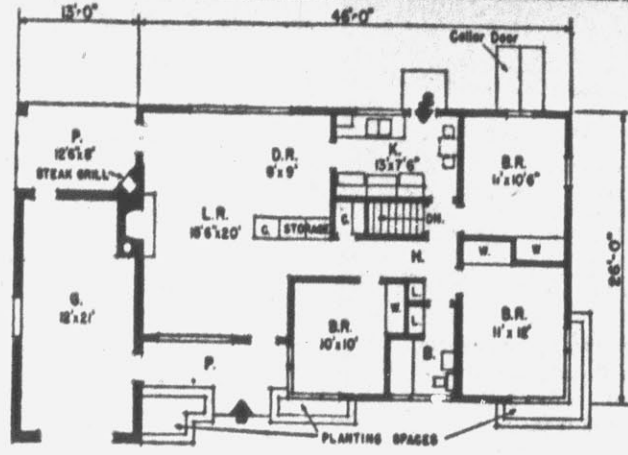

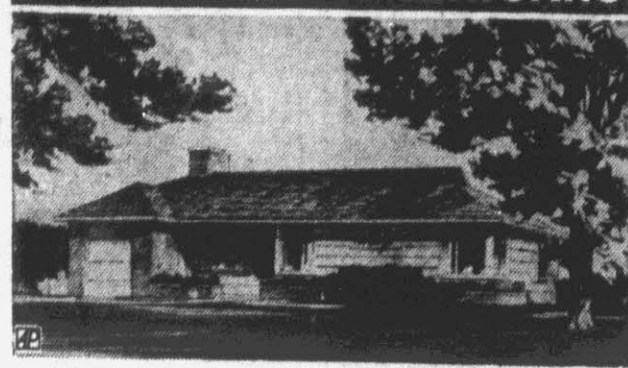

That was an increase over 1941 of 45 per cent for beer, 55 per cent for wine and 26 per cent for whisky. During the same 10 years the population went up only 10 per cent.

However, Americans today on a per capita basis drink only half as they did 100 years ago. They use three times as much wine and 11 times as much beer.

Georgia Senator Hold Key To New 'Revolt' In Dixie

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell, who is keeping his 1952 political plans to himself, jingles some of the keys to the direction the South will travel next year.

Anti-administration Southerners who are set to join a revolt if President Truman is renominated believe the chances are better than they were in 1948 that the Georgia Democrat will go along with any rebellion next year.

When the States Rights Party was formed in the South in 1948, Russell stuck with the national Democratic Party. Earlier, however, he had agreed to be the South's candidate for the presidential nomination in a token chal-

South.

At St. Paul, Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) told newsmen that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and his crowd are using Eisenhower as a stalking horse to try to help stop Taft, figuring force of habit will reassert itself and Dewey will be renominated."

Back Seat For Flying Pop As Sons Handle Airplane

MIAMI, Fla. —Alfred F. Dreyer, captain of the ship while flying trans-oceanic planes, is just a back seat rider in the family airplane. His 17-year-old son, John, is a licensed pilot, while his 12-year-old son, Tommy, too young for a license, serves expertly as co-pilot. Capt. Dreyer is so confident of his boys' ability that he permitted them to make an unaccompanied 2,000 mile cross-country tour. They flew the family's Cessna 140, a neat little single-engine aircraft that can nestle beneath the wing of the big, four-engined DC-4s flown by their father over Pan American Airways' Latin American routes. John used money intended for a summer at a boys camp to learn to fly. He soloed on his 17th birthday and now has 350 hours' flying time. His dad has 17,000 flight hours. Capt. Dreyer learned to fly with the Navy in World War I. He became a barnstormer after the war, worked in a garage, found other odd jobs then joined Pan American in 1931.

Find Weapons Of 3,500 Years Ago

KNOSSOS, Crete — (UP) — Bronze-Age battle spears, still as sharp as the day they were last used more than 3,500 years ago, have been unearthed near the ancient palace of Minos. The spears and other weapons were found in the tomb of Minoan warriors uncovered by bulldozers leveling a site for a sanatorium being built by Cretan-Americans. After cutting through a wall sealing the entrance to several tombs, the archeologists found several bronze spear heads, swords, daggers, pieces of a bronze helmet which had been broken when the tomb's roof caved in, and vases and pottery.

Pakistan Sees Big Cotton Crop

KARACHI, Pakistan — (AP) — Cotton crop forecasts for 1951-52 in Pakistan predict an increase of 6.6 per cent, including a 7.7 per cent increase for American varieties and a 2.2 per cent decrease for local types. Acreage of American varieties for the forecast period is 2,747,000, officials said. Local varieties are expected to have an acreage of 323,000. In the previous year American varieties totaled 2,561,000 acres. Favorable weather conditions and high market prices have been listed as responsible for the increase in acreage.

End In Sight For Harbor-Builders

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The Chinese Communists say they will complete one of the world's largest man-made harbors by the end of 1952. A Peiping broadcast monitored here said the harbor is being built at Taku, the old port for the great northern industrial city of Tientsin. By dredging and construction of breakwaters, the Communists claim Taku will be able to accommodate 10,000-ton ships and handle millions of tons of freight annually.

FARM BOYS STAY PUT MONTEPELIER, Vt. — (UP) — Apparently it's no problem these days keeping 'em down on the farm, or at least in the country. A census survey showed there was a bigger gain in Vermont's population during the past 10 years than during the entire first 40 years of the century.

Tallulah Impatiently Waits Turn In Court

NEW YORK (UP) — Actress Tallulah Bankhead fumed and fussed in the wings today waiting for her on-stage cue in the trial of the former maid who has accused her of spending heavily for sex, champagne, cocaine, and marijuana. She was to have been yesterday, when stand and deny the charges. But the star was kept off the stage by "what a ham."

That man was state Sen. Fred G. Moritt, attorney for the "forgotten woman" in the case—the de-Evyelen Cronin. She, not Miss Bankhead, is on trial—charged in a 32-count indictment with stealing $4,284.60 from the actress during 18 months a her personal maid and secretary by raising the totals or incidental-expense checks signed by Tallulah.

Moritt spent the entire court session yesterday cross-examining Benjamin Nadel, an account who for 10 years has prepared Miss Bankhead's income tax returns.

The protracted cross-examination not only held up Miss Bankhead's appearance on the stand, but his complaints of the previous day led to her being banished from the courtroom at the start of yesterday's session. General Sessions Judge Harold Stevens excluded all witnesses from the courtroom prior to their testifying. Miss Bankhead, a glamorous and stormy figure of the stage for more than 30 years (on Jan. 31 she will be 49, 50, or 51, depending on whether you believe "Who's Who," the World Almanac, or magazine articles), swept out of the room grandly.

Moritt had accused Tallulah of stepping on his lines—grimacing, sneezing, and turning her chronic racking cough with cruel timing into a guffaw. Tallulah denied it. But the judge decided witnesses had better go. The actress spent the day in an anteroom, gulping coffee, smoking numerous cigars, and talking at a Tallulah rate.

Moritt contends that the 59-year-old defendant's check kiting was done at the direction and order of Miss Bankhead.

Three quarters of U.S. imports of Cobalt come from the Belgian Congo.

McGEE PAGES McGEE FORT WORTH, Tex. — (UP) — "Go out and find Dave McGee and bring him in," said Judge Dave McGee to court bailiffs. The judge gave the order when the defendant (no relation) failed to appear to answer a check charge.

In Connecticut Good Friday is usually proclaimed by the governor as a day of fasting and prayer.

Japan Still Undecided As To Defense Program

TOKYO — (UP)—Many important Japanese individuals and groups are strongly opposed to their nation's rearmament and hope the presence of American troops in Japan will make it unnecessary.

Under Japan's new mutual defense treaty with the United States, U. S. troops will remain in Japan after the Occupation to protect the unarmed island empire.

Many of those opposing rearmament have a genuine fear that rearmament may lead to revival of militarism in Japan.

Many of those who oppose it are those who adopted Gen. Douglas MacArthur's early occupation philosophy that Japan should become the Switzerland of the Pacific.

Taft Gains, Ike Losing In Gov't Scandal Reports

By LYLE C. WILSON United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The way they set it up in the political winter books, Sen. Robert A. Taft stands to gain and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to lose from exposure of Truman administration tax scandals.

Gen. Ike stands to lose, that is, if he is going to go into politics.

Taft already is a formally announced candidate for next year's Republican presidential nomination. There is considerable Republican opposition to Taft, most of which is maneuvering to nominate Eisenhower for President on the Republican ticket.

The general's greatest advantage over Taft and every other Republican mentioned so far is a widely held belief that he would be a sure winner. Taft's greatest weakness is a widely held belief that he lacks political sex appeal.

Many persons who admire Taft and generally agree with his votes in the Senate hesitate to support the Ohioan for the republican nomination. They fear he would be licked. This disadvantage is an unusually severe one in circumstances now existing.

The Republicans have not won a presidential election in 23 years. They regained control of Congress right after the war but could not hold it. The GOP not only wants a winner in 1952, the party needs one to remain in business in its present form.

That makes Eisenhower look like a life preserver amid shipwreck to those numerous Republicans who are convinced he could not be beaten.

But now comes a surburst of scandal within the Truman administration. Investigation has not gone far enough yet to show how big these scandals may be nor how dangerous to Democratic prospects in 1952. There has been enough, however, to suggest that the Democratic candidate next year will have some explaining to do along with his campaigning.

If the scandals reach higher or extend more widely than as of this year-end, the damage to Democratic prospects will be proportionately increased.

That is all—the good for Taft. A lot of Republican men and women who are for Ike today might be for Taft by nominating time next July if they felt that the man the Democrats choose would be hobbled by scandal.

The Senator has large support already. Any major break from Ike's battalions to Taft would be enough to shoo him in.

Wife, At 103, Is Still His 'Bride'

DETROIT (UP)—Isadore Nagel, 105, and his wife, Mary, 103, are looking forward to their 81st wedding anniversary next year. They were married in Poland Sept. 15, 1871, and came to the United States 42 years ago. Nagel is nearly blind and his wife is almost deaf but he still speaks of her as "my bride." They are the oldest residents of the Jewish Hoe for the Aged here.

HANGMAN'S COULEE

By AL CODY

Chapter 9
He went on in to his room, where he found Happy anxious to talk. Happy was in a state of jitters, and he had to talk—either that or go out and get drunk. Recognizing his condition, Gentleman Jim resigned himself to the inevitable.

"Now it's two meetings a day," Happy complained. "Think you can keep talkin' so much?"

"Words come easy," Gentleman Jim sighed. "I guess that's my trouble. Happy—they always have come easy."

"So have a lot of other things," Happy said shrewdly. "But it looks to me like you're gettin' in over your depth, Jim. And making plenty of enemies. Keep on, and at one of these meetin's they'll be sayin' things over you, droppin' clods on you with a few flowers to finish it off. That old greaser sure seems to have it in for you—and he ain't the only one."

"You were wiser than I was, Happy," Gentleman Jim confessed soberly, sinking down on the edge of the bed. "You wanted to keep out of this, but I was so sure I could do it. And now—"

"Now the devil of it is that you are doing it," Happy growled. "I knew you could play any part out exciting suspicion, and some of these, presently, led the old man to Hathaway's saloon and so to his office.

"That was not difficult, since McGilroy walked like a man in a daze. He had been hurt when thrown out, and blood was on his face, but he seemed unaware of that, muttering to himself. Only when he looked up and recognized Hathaway did the light of reason come into his eyes again. Then he glanced around the office, nervously.

"How—how'd I get here?" he demanded. "Let me out of here!"

"Take it easy, old-timer," Hathaway said soothingly. "You're among friends. Here, have a drink."

McGilroy pushed the bottle back angrily.

"No," he refused. "I don't want none of it!"

"But you hate this Professor, don't you?" Hathaway said. "You've made that plain. Maybe we can work together. I don't like him any better than you do."

McGilroy eyed him cunningly for a moment, then resentment came back to his eyes.

"I kill my own snakes," he said. "Let me out of here."

"But be reasonable, man," Hathaway protested. "When we're both on the same side of the fence—"

"We ain't," McGilroy grunted. "And never could be."

He got up and walked to the door. The others looked at Hathaway, but after a moment he shrugged his shoulders.

"Reckon I've been mistaken too," he said. "Maybe this Professor is more of a guy than I figured him to be!"

Sam Staves had invited the professor and the organizer for dinner at his house today, and Gentleman Jim had accepted with some reluctance. Ordinarily he would have been pleased, for the dinner was sure to be sumptuous, their host gracious. The only trouble was that today he would have preferred to be alone, off by himself. Which, as the Professor, was almost out of the question.

Arriving, they found that there were several other guests as well, including the banker and other carefully selected members of the original finance committee, whom he had met before. There was also Minerva Stages, Sam's sister, who had cooked the dinner. And who, taking pity on Happy's dolorous expression, set out to try and make him feel at home.

Like Happy, Minerva was past her first bloom, but like him, she too was an artist, in her way. Where he could coax melody from the battered keys of an old organ, drawing out its soul as few players knew how to do, Minerva was at her best on the culinary side. Today she had outdone herself with fluffy potatoes, rich brown gravy, fried chicken, dumplings and all the rest.

Watching her Gentleman Jim thought that he understood some of her pleasure. Minerva Staves undoubtedly had a good home here with her stubborn, domineering brother. But she was completely under his subjection, and even company was probably a rare thing. Not all the color in her cheeks came from bending over a hot stove. A part of it was the flush of excitement.

"Seems like since you and the Professor came to town, it's been a new place," she confided to Happy. "Folks are getting a new outlook on life—a new spirit. My, you'd ought to be happy."

"I am," Happy grunted. "Only I don't feel that way."

At the other end of the table, Sam Staves was speaking, in his usual forthright way.

"Reckon you've noticed, Professor, that there's just a few of the best of us here today, eh?" he said, with an attempt at lightness.

"What I mean is, from the committee that's collected the money for the railroad. This dinner ain't all for pleasure—though eatin' a good meal always gives me a lot of enjoyment. But it's partly business. We wanted to ask your advice—and maybe get your help."

EGG COMES BIG
SYRACUSE, N. Y. —(UP)—Eliemer Benn, chicken farmer, says one of his Plymouth Rocks has laid the largest egg he has ever seen. Benn displayed an egg three and one-half inches in diameter. He said the egg had "at least" four yolks.

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS
$25,000
TOWN OF GRIFTON, N. C.
BONDS

Sealed bids will be received until 11 o'clock a.m., Eastern Standard Time, December 18, 1951, by the undersigned at its office in the City of Raleigh, North Carolina, for the following bonds of the Town of Grifton, North Carolina, dated December 1, 1951, and maturing annually on June 1 as follows, without option of prior payment:

$15,000 Water and Sewer Bonds (consolidation of $6,000 authorized water bonds and $12,000 authorized sanitary sewer bonds) maturing annually $1,000 1953 to 1962 and $2,000 1963 to 1966, all inclusive.

$10,000 Fire-Fighting Apparatus and Equipment Bonds maturing annually $1,000 1953 to 1962, inclusive.

Denomination $1,000; principal and semiannual interest (J and D) payable in New York City in legal tender; general obligations; unlimited tax; coupon bonds registerable as to principal alone; delivery on or about January 15, 1952, at place of purchaser's choice. There will be no auction.

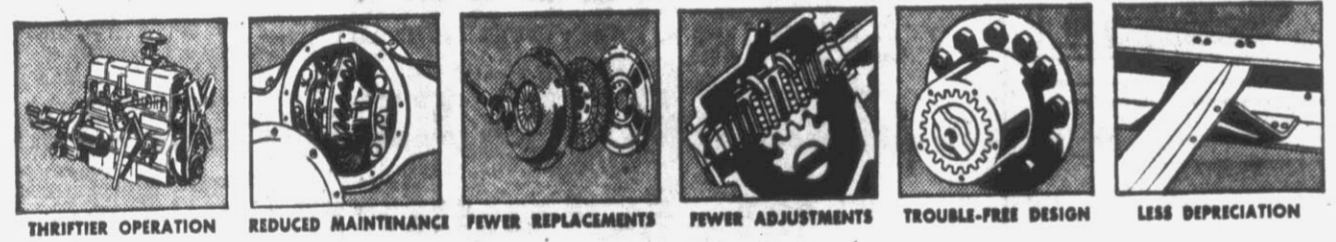

A separate bid for each issue (not less than par and accrued interest) is required. Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates, not exceeding 6% per annum in multiples of 1-4 of 1%. Each bid may name one rate for part of the bonds of either issue (having the earliest maturities) and another rate or rates for the balance, but no bid may name more than four rates for either issue, and each bidder must specify in his bid the amount of bonds of each rate. Each rate bid must be for bonds of consecutive maturities. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder offering to purchase the bonds at the lowest interest cost to the Town, such cost to be determined by deducting the total amount of the premium bid from the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds until their respective maturities. No bid for less than all of the bonds offered will be entertained.

Each bid must be on a form to be furnished with additional information by the undersigned, enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Proposal for Bonds," and must be accompanied by a certified check upon an incorporated bank or trust company, payable unconditionally to the order of the State Treasurer of North Carolina for $500. The right to reject all bids is reserved.

The approving opinion of Mitchell and Pershing, New York City, will be furnished without cost to the purchaser. There will also be furnished the usual closing papers, including a certificate stating that there is no litigation pending affecting the validity of the bonds.

Arctic Survival Course Begun By Alaska Airmen

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — (UP)—The Alaskan Air Command's 10th air rescue squadron has begun an intensive, winter-long survival training program to include a simulated crash landing on the vast Arctic ice pack.

Members of 10th Rescue know better than most airmen the hazards of survival in the north. That would be expected from an outfit whose routine chores range from hustling expectant mothers out of the wilderness to a hospital or to flying endless hours in search for missing aircraft.

However, 10th Rescue officers feel that crews that are called on to fly missions over the trackless Alaskan wastes never acquire too much of the life-or-death knowledge it takes to keep alive if a plane makes a forced landing.

Program In Three Phases
Members of 10th Rescue's flights at Anchorage, Fairbanks and Adak will be put through a rigorous, three-phased program: how to survive in the "wet cold" found in the snow-covered regions of lower Alaska; survival in the "dry cold" areas farther north, where temperatures fall to 50 below zero and winds hit 70 miles per hour, and, finally, survival on the treeless, snowing Arctic ice-pack.

Personnel will take the training in units of eight or 10 men crews. This, a group of men who have learned to work together to fly an airplane will co-operate in keeping alive until help arrives.

Capt. W. N. Wilson, 10th Rescue intelligence officer, said each crew will spend three days and two nights in the field during the exercise, except for the ice-pack landing, which will be an overnight mission.

"The dry cold exercise is probably the toughest," Wilson said. "A plane will land the crew at a strip up north of Fairbanks and they'll hike into where they will make camp."

Must Build Igloos
The crew will go to work building houses or igloos to protect them from the numbing cold and 70 mph winds. No wood will be available for building. The wind would just blow it over anyway, Wilson said.

"If you stand out in that wind for five minutes you'll have a two-inch layer of ice inside your clothes," he said. "The wind pulverizes the snow, making your clothes stiff as a board."

The ice-pack survival practice will involve landing a ski-equipped plane in the far north. The crew will sleep in the plane overnight, subsisting on emergency rations, and take off the next day.

The "wet cold" exercise will be held along Ship Creek in the Chugach Mountains 12 miles north of Anchorage. Equipped with snowshoes, sun glasses, 70 pound packs and water-repellent clothing, the airmen will set up tents and supplement their rations by snaring rabbits.

The three-phased survival training will be a continuing program during the winter and will end next spring, Wilson said.

Girls Model Clothing They Made

Members of the third-year home economics class of Greenville High School have recently finished a six-week course on clothing.

The clothing unit was under the direction of Gail Hines, student teacher from East Carolina College, and Betty Hansinger, home economics teacher at the high school.

After completing the unit, the girls presented a fashion show November 28 at the high school to which they invited parents and friends. Special guests at the show were Mrs. Howard Gradis, who taught the class a unit on home nursing, Betty Ann Shaw, former student teacher, Geraldine Harris and Elizabeth Hedgepeth, student teachers.

Three Jailed On Larceny Charges

A week's work by a Pitt County deputy sheriff was concluded Tuesday with the jailing of three young Negroes on charges of larceny.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson reported this morning that 23-year-old William Newbern of Ayden, and Jesse Newbern of Ayden and J. D. Lee of Grifton, both 21, were placed in jail charged with stealing corn.

The trio allegedly hauled off an estimated 25 bushels of corn from the farm of Frank Hart of Ayden. Officers said the theft took place on two different occasions—Wednesday and Thursday nights of last week.

The corn was loaded in the field, where it had been piled for hauling to officers, the younger Newbern to officers, the younger Newbern participated in only one of the thefts, while William Newbern and J. D. Lee took part in both night's activities.

The Newberns have been released—Jesse under $100 bond, and William under $100 bond on each of two charges of theft. It was not determined this morning whether Lee had been released as yet.

The investigation and arrest was conducted by Deputy Sheriff Lloyd

W.S.C.S. Christmas Party
On Monday night the members of the W.S.C.S. of the Methodist church met for their regular meeting and the annual Christmas party. As the group assembled in the main auditorium of the church Mrs. Milton Hart at the organ rendered appropriate music which put all in a worshipful mood. The devotional was led by Mrs. Sam McLawhorn. The Sr. who used for the opening hymn group sang "There's a Song in the 'T' Came Upon The Midnight Clear," "Ain't" and "The First Noel." Mrs. Her meditation was on "Meekness." Mrs. J. T. Oglesby presided at the brief business hour and heard reports from committees in regards to the Progressive Visitation. A Baby Life Membership was presented to Mrs. Courtney Patrick. The program of the evening was under the direction of Mrs. H. L. Westinghouse. She gave the call to worship, "We Bring Our Gifts." The group sang "There's a Song in the 'T' Came Upon The Midnight Clear," "Ain't" and "The First Noel." Mrs.

Milton Hart read in a very pleasing manner "A Christmas Vision." Prayer to music of "Silent Night," concluded the program.
At the refreshment hour which followed the program a number of new members were presented to the old members. After this they were invited into the recreation rooms of the church where Mrs. L. O. Cox, Mrs. George Sugg and Mrs. Cecil Cobb served as hostesses. The rooms were festive with holly, pine and candlelight. The table was covered with a Christmas cloth and held a center arrangement of snowmen, a Santa and tall red candles. Cheese stars, salted nuts, potato chips and honey-nut bars were served from either end of the table. Coca-Colas exchange of gifts from those present were passed by the hostesses. The caused much merriment.

Present Christmas Pageant
On Tuesday night at the December meeting of the P.T.A., pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades presented a pageant, "The Christmas Story." As the curtain went up a scene on the stage reminded one of the days of old. The angel, star and manger all seemed realistic, as well as the shepherds, wisemen, Mary and Joseph. Narrator was Phyllis Dudley. Under the direction of Mrs. Paul Braxton of the music department, the grades sang as the story unfolded to the audience. Old time favorites were "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Joy To The World," "Come All Ye Faithful" and "Silent Night."

Mary was portrayed by Barbara Taylor; Joseph, David Jackson, Angel, LouRaye Mewborn.

The president, F. L. Cox, welcomed the group and presided at the business session which followed the program. The invocation was said by the Rev. C. L. Patrick. Attendance cakes went to the fifth and eleventh grades.

Principal Albert Tyson made a few remarks in regards to lunch room and finance committee.

Mrs. Braxton invited the audience to attend the Music Night on December 19 in the school auditorium.

Meadowbrook Branch Bank To Be Open For Business Saturday

The Meadowbrook branch of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company will open Saturday morning, bank officials announced yesterday. The new branch, pictured above was begun June 10. W. H. Woolard, Jr., will be cashier of the new branch and Wyatt R. Highsmith will be assistant cashier. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hartdee).

The new Meadowbrook branch of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company will open for business in Greenville Saturday morning.

The opening of the new branch will bring to three the number of branch offices of the Guaranty Bank and Trust company in Greenville in addition to its home office of the company which is located here. It will make a total of 16 regular banking offices including two teller window branches which are operated by the Guaranty Bank and Trust company in Eastern North Carolina.

W. H. Woolard, president of the company, said in an announcement yesterday the new branch will be under the supervision of the main office of the bank with W. H. Woolard, Jr. as cashier and Wyatt R. Highsmith as assistant cashier.

"The branch is no quite completed," President Woolard said yesterday, "but we expect to be open for business Saturday morning."

Little Miss Sandra Murphy has returned from a visit in Clinton with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Butler. She was accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Cohen Pollock of Clinton who spent the weekend here with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murphy.

Miss Judith Hart celebrated her twelfth birthday on Monday when she had for an informal get-together at her home her schoolmates.

Sgt. and Mrs. Lew Curtis and children of Jacksonville spent Sunday here as guests of Mrs. Jake Worthington.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Chapman spent Monday in Raleigh and attended the "Ice Capades" at the Coliseum.

Joe Quinerly, who has been hospitalized at Memorial General Hospital in Kinston following an automobile accident, is now recuperating at the home of his uncle, H. P. Quinerly.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Taylor were in Ayden Sunday afternoon to attend a Musical Tea given by pupils of Miss Virginia Belle Cooper. They were guests of Miss Anne Long, who participated in the program.

The 1950 convention of the American Dental Association adopted a resolution endorsing the use of sodium fluoride in drinking water as a means of retarding dental decay.

ing, December 15. This branch is being opened for the convenience of the friends and patrons of the Guaranty Bank and Trust company. It is the third branch opened in the city for the convenience of people in the particular localities.

Construction on the Meadowbrook branch bank began last June 10. Negotiations for the establishment of the new branch, Woolard stated, began at the request of "numerous citizens on the north side of the river who felt it would be of special convenience for them. It will be a full fledged branch with authority to receive parties, make loans and have customers check on that office."

The Guaranty Bank and Trust company is successor to the Greenville Bank and Trust company which was organized here 50 years ago in 1901 with an original capital of $10,000. The bank now has, with a recent issue of stock, $600,000 capital, one million dollar surplus and resources over $40,000,000. In addition to the home office and the branches in Aurora, Bay, Belhaven, Bethel, Hamilton, Elizabeth City, Robertsonville, Snow Hill, Vanceboro, Washington, and Williamston.

Secretary Didn't Like Those Barbs

By LYNN NISBEY
 RALEIGH Some six weeks ago Colonel Jack Major delivered one of his regular lectures at the convention of the N. C. Beer Distributors' Association in Raleigh. Governor Scott was an invited guest, and your reporter wrote at the time that the governor, who himself has delighted hurl barbs at his hosts on numerous public occasions, had to listen to another speaker pan the farmers and explain their preferential treatment in tax laws the governor has said nothing for the record about his reactions, but his secretary, John Marshall, lets it be known he did not like the speech—not even a little bit. Mr. Marshall wrote A. B. Bridges of Paducah, Kentucky, manager for Colonel Major's speaking engagements, as follows:

"This is to acknowledge receipt of your letter of November 24th concerning Colonel Jack Major's talk recently in Raleigh.

"I well remember the talk and think it was in the poorest taste and the most insulting oration that I have ever had the experience of listening to.

"Please keep me advised as to Colonel Major's appearances in North Carolina in order that I may avoid the ordeal of having to listen to him again."

The letter was written on governor's office stationery and signed "John Marshall, Private Secretary."

Twenty Scouts Go Before Board

Twenty Boy Scouts—all from Troop Thirty—appeared before the Pitt District Board of Review Monday night at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church five of them passing to First Class rank and the remainder qualifying for merit badges. Eighty eight merit badges were qualified for by nineteen of those appearing.

The Scouts achieving First Class rank from Troop 30 were: Billy Willis, Edwin Wilkerson, Roy Martin, Jr., Jimmy Long and Billy Sermons. Those passing to Second Class were: Marvin Blount, Lewis Phelps, Dennis Harris, Jr., and Jim McGee.

The nine Scouts except one advancing in rank also qualified for merit badges. Others qualifying for merit badges were: Eddie Lee, Angus Duff, Orman Whichard, John Richard Newell, Jr., John Barrett, Jack Clifford, Charles Rumley, Willis Stencil, Mike Riddick, Hugh Duncan, Phillip Davis.

Erskine Duff and Billy Simmons assisted Wyatt Brown in carrying on the Board of Review.

War Buddies Are Buried Together

TOLEDO, O.—(AP)—Two Marine Corps buddies who had told their parents they would be "home before Christmas" will be buried side by side here this week-end.

PFC Chester A. Krolok, Jr., 21, was killed in Korea last June 16, and his pal, PFC Louis F. Kwader, 20, died of wounds the next day. They had played baseball together here, trained together in the Marines, and left for overseas together in April.

Farouk Is Buying Baby's Clothes

PARIS (UP)—Fashionable Grande MAISON DE Blanc department store was busy today filling "an order from King Farouk for baby clothes."

Marcel Bloch, director of the store, confirmed receipt of the order from the Egyptian monarch, who married Nariman Sadek last May 6.

Unconfirmed reports said the order totalled $27,000.

New GE Distributing Center Goes Up

The new General Electric Supply building under construction will serve General Electric dealers in this section of the state. Construction began about 60 days ago and the building is expected to be ready for occupancy by January 25. It is located on Hooker Road. (Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

The future home of the General Electric Supply Company is under construction on Hooker Road and will supply dealers in this part of the state.

The new office and warehouse building will serve General Electric dealers in Eastern Carolina. Greenville was chosen as the site for the building since it is centrally located in the district for Eastern North Carolina.

Construction on the building began about 10 days ago and it is expected to be ready for occupancy for January 15. The building will measure 80 by 200 feet.

In the building will be show-rooms, offices, a complete electric kitchen, and a supply warehouse. About 15 or 20 persons will work in the building.

The building is being constructed by W. G. Dunn Construction Company for Carlos Murray and Dunn, J. B. Cain, who recently moved here from Charlotte, will be manager; H. W. Baldwin of Raleigh will be supply salesman, Walter Glenn Garner will be appliance salesman.

Home Ec. Teachers Map Plans For County Rally

The Pitt County Home Economics teachers met Tuesday afternoon in the Experimental Foods Laboratory at East Carolina College and heard Mabel Daugherty, clothing instructor at the college and guest speaker.

Miss Daugherty spoke to the group on home nursing and showed equipment needed for a sick room which had been improvised by nursing class during the fall quarter at the college. References were given for ordering materials which could be used in teaching home nursing in the high schools.

Miss Daugherty attended the instructor's course in Red Cross home nursing last summer at Georgia State College for Women and taught the course at the college this fall.

Acheson Reports To Truman Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson, praised by President Truman for a "great job" in his six weeks of international conferences in Europe, reports in detail at the White House today on how he finds the state of the world.

Acheson flew in last night from the Paris meetings of the United Nations and the Rome session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) council. At Paris, the United States proposed a world disarmament plan that Russia rebuffed. Acheson said at New York last night that it "could well be a turning point in history" if Russia would decide to accept it.

"When the situation becomes stabilized the Russians will recognize it and will be able to talk," he hoped that by early February, when a NATO meeting will be held in Portugal, "we will have made real progress toward formation of a European Army so that real decisions can be made."

Chris Kares Leaves Hospital

It is estimated that one million Americans have undetected diabetes.

Ayden Colored News

The Stanley Club met at the home of Mrs. Nina Scott on Tuesday night, December 11.

Mrs. Lightfoot, who is in charge of the club, gave a very interesting demonstration of household supplies. Mrs. Hennie Session received first and second prize on STANO.

Russian tea and Christmas cookies were served to the following guests: Misses A. M. Wilson and Mabel Glen Smith, Mesdames Flossie Hardy, May Smith, Estelita Phillips, M. L. Reeves, Bessie Sealey, May King, Lucy C. Fleming, Lightfoot and Hennie Sessions.

Mrs. J. M. Reeves and Mrs. M. T. Burney attended a business meeting of the Eastern Star in Raleigh on Tuesday night, December 11.

The Ayden Home Demonstration Club will meet at the home of Miss A. M. Wilson on Thursday, December 13.

The P.T.A. met in the high school library on Sunday, December 9. Mrs. Maggie Strong, president, presided. A lively program was rendered by the teachers, students and parents.

The ancient Egyptians colored glass with material containing Cobalt.

Christmas Said Major Hazard Of Ex-Alcoholic

WASHINGTON (UP)—Christmas is "a terrific hazard" for the "recovered" alcoholic.

Anonymous reports that dozens of members who steer safely through the rest of the year trip over the holiday merrymaking—or loneliness.

Well-meaning friends often are to blame for inducing the reformed alcoholic to take "just one," one that may send him off on a bender that winds up two weeks later in a psychopathic ward.

"The public has got to learn there are some people who cannot drink—must not drink—should not be urged to drink," says Dr. Joseph Hirsh, "executive secretary of the National Research Council's committee on problems of alcohol.

If a man says "no," take his word for it.

Senator Claims Eisenhower Being 'Used' By GOP

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) contended today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is being "used" by victory-hungry Republicans backing him for president.

"I don't think the General should be used to save either the Republican Party or the Democratic Party," O'Mahoney told reporters.

"His job as commander of North Atlantic defense forces in Europe is to save the nation."

Atlantic defense forces in Europe is to save the nation."

Another Democratic senator, Humphrey (Minn.), who has just returned from western Europe, said the found people there "very disturbed" by talk that Eisenhower may run for president.

"Nearly everybody I talked to is hoping Eisenhower will stay in Europe," Humphrey said. "He symbolizes the commitment of the American people to western Europe."

Donald Duck Is Losing 'Favor' Of Communists

ROME, Italy (UP)—The Communist newspaper Unita reviewed American comics today and said that the Masked Marvel and Superman are Fascist, Donald Duck is a militaristic Marine and Mickey Mouse apparently is fighting Russians "behind the Iron Curtain."

Superman and the Masked Marvel were rated as "the oldest real symbol of Nazi ideology."

Donald Duck is all right as a cowboy, fireman, tourist or policeman, the Communist organ said, "but have you seen him in his latest metamorphosis? He has become a Marine... educating children for war, for massacres and preparation of disasters."

Typhoon's Death Toll Now At 569

MANILA (AP)—The death toll from a typhoon which swept across the central Philippines Monday rose to 569 as the same storm doubled back today to strike the islands again.

The weather bureau forecast the center of the storm would strike Friday on the west coast of Luzon Island about 100 miles north of Manila. Torrential rains drenched Manila today.

A second typhoon, coming in from the east, veered so much the weather bureau said it probably would just graze the east coast of Luzon.

This afternoon the center of the typhoon was 200 miles southwest of Manila. The second storm was 600 miles due east of the city.

Both are swinging well north of Leyte Island, which suffered the heaviest blow from the 130 mile winds Monday.

The Red Cross and mayors of Leyte towns reported 457 people were killed on the island by the storm and by landslides. Torrents of muddy earth cascaded over coastal villages at the height of the storm.

They struck with such a roar that earthquakes were reported.
